Potato Caravan of 35 Autos Tours the Loup Valleys

Local Farmers Learn Potato Culture from Group of Ag College Experts.

BY REX WAGNER

A caravan of thirty-five cars from Loup, Valley, Custer and Garfield counties made the potato tour of inspection of four of the better fields in the irrigated North Loup valley near Burwell Thursday. A tour of the fields near Arcadia had been made in the morning.

Present at Burwell to assist R. H. Douglas, agricultural agent with the tour were Val Kuska, who is in charge of colonization work of the Burlington railroad; Ted Currier from Scottsbluff, president of the Potato Improvement association; Max Koehnke, of Alliance, manager of the Nebraska Certified Potato Growers association; William Morrow, also of Alliance, sales manager for the same organization; Dr. R. W. Gross, plant pathologist, Dr. H. O. Werner, and Prof. E. H. Hoppert, all three horticultural specialists from the college of agriculture of the university of Nebraska; Bill Pierce, a former Ord boy who is now a specialist in irrigation employed by the extension service; James Dutt, a horticulturist from the extension service; Vernon Linn of Kimball and T. H. Hankins of Scottsbluff, two large scale potato growers who have furnished seed and done much to encourage potato production in the North Loup valley.

The first field inspected was that farmed by Henry Bonsall and James Rowse on the Garrison farm. The irrigation of potatoes was discussed here. Mr. Hankins, who led the discussion, told farmers that no hard and fast rules could be laid down for irrigating potatoes. "Water them whenever they get dry," he said. He warned the farmers against putting on too much water, however, as that causes deformed potatoes, hard to wash, encourages the spread of diseases and does not increase the yields. He stated that the rows should be ditched fairly deep and that the ridges should be dry on top as the roots would go down for water.

Dr. Werner said that during the warm weather when the temperature goes to a hundred degrees or higher that a potato field requires half an inch of water daily. At the Draver farm a field of cobbles and triumphs was inspected. The cobbles were in full bloom while only an occasional blossom could be seen on the triumphs. Here the prevention of potato disease was discussed by Professor Hoppert. The farmers learned that there are endless numbers of bacterial enemies which might attack their crops, chief of which are haywire, spindle tuber, mosaic.

At the Butts farm Max Koehnke discussed the production of seed potatoes in the North Loup valley. He said that there is a possibility that seed produced in this region might be suitable for planting in Florida. According to him

Mrs. Flagg Completes City School Census

Mrs. Gould Flagg has been a very busy woman for the past three weeks taking the school census of District No. 5. The census is usually started about June 7, but this year she did not receive her appointment until June 10, which left less time for the work. Many items of interest were gathered by Mrs. Flagg in the course of her work. The list of children between the ages of 5 and 21 was found to be 690 this year, as compared with 693 last year. The boys increased from 300 to 311, while the girls, decreased from 393 to 279.

She found four sets of twins, two sets in school and the other two not yet old enough for school. They are: Maxine and Arlene Wolf, born August 21, now 11 years old; Jeannice and Jeannine Fox, born May 13, now 10 years old; Ruth and Ruby Renfro, born February 25, now 4 years old; and Katherine and Keith Gilroy, born January 9, now 2 years old.

Statistics show that two citizens out of every 86 are twins, which means that there should be about 13 sets of twins in Ord. The Severson sisters, Mrs. John Mason and Mrs. Noble Ralston, brings the number up to 5 sets, but we wonder where the others are.

The number of adults in District 5 who are citizens, but who cannot read and write English is eighteen. There are three adults who are not citizens and cannot read or write English. There are two adults who are not citizens but who can read and write English.

Red Cross Still Short of Quota, Report Shows

Valley county's Red Cross war relief drive received new impetus this week when contributions from North Loup and Arcadia were received, and though Harlan T. Frazier, drive chairman, and other Red Cross officials, are very pleased with the interest being shown they report that much more money is needed before the double quota is reached.

Previously acknowledged was the sum of $378.96. To this should be added $20.95 from the North Loup community, $25 from Arcadia, and a $1 contribution from Mrs. Joe Osentowski, for a present total of $420.91. Donations will be welcomed, says Mr. Frazier.

Gibbons, Bossen, Head Middle Loup Water Users Ass'n

Farmers There Will Meet on July 11 to Confirm the New Organization.

Arcadia—(Special)—Representative water users from various localities in the Middle Loup irrigation district met here June 27 to discuss organization of a water users' association and after listening to talks by Archie Geweke, president of a similar group in the North Loup valley, C. C. Dale, county agricultural agent, Val Kuska, colonization agent of the C. B. & Q. railway, Eugene T. Porter, fieldman for the R. F. C., and Rev. E. A. Smith, of Arcadia, decided to go ahead with plans for such a group.

Temporary officers and directors were chosen, subject to approval at a meeting of all interested irrigators at the Arcadia school house at 8:00 p. m., Thursday, July 11. The temporary directors include F. A. Lewin, W. M. Reckling, Fred V. Murray, Floyd E. Bossen, Lloyd Nordstedt, Ernest Thode and Walter Gibbons. Mr. Gibbons was chosen president, Mr. Lewin vice-president, Mr. Bossen secretary-treasurer.

Form of a constitution and a set of by-laws were discussed and are ready to submit to the membership for adoption. Purpose of the association is to promote and protect interests of all farmers who are potential users of irrigation water in the Middle Loup valley.

Immediate problems are the extended use of irrigation water, the securing of helpful information regarding crops and methods best adapted to this valley, sub-division of present farms too large to be irrigated by present owners, and the bringing in of experienced irrigators to operate farms owned by non-resident corporations or land owners who are not interested in developing their land.

Harv Sowers Dies; Was Father of 14

Following an illness of two weeks Harvey Sowers, 60 years old, died June 27 at the Ord hospital. He was born April 4, 1850 in Indiana, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sowers. The family came to Valley county in 1852.

December 20, 1912, he was married at Seward, to Miss Mary Plasse. He is survived by his wife and fourteen children: Mrs. Dorothy Manchester, San Francisco; William, Los Angeles; Levi, Maryhill, Wash.; Ed, Ft. Lewis, Wash.; and Henry, Mary, Charles, Stella, George, Letha, Walt, Betty, Grace and Elsie, all at home. There are also two grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Carey Scott of Omaha.

Funeral services were held from the Pearson and Anderson chapel Tuesday afternoon, Rev. G. C. Robertson of the Ord Methodist church in charge, and burial was made in the Ord cemetery. Mrs. E. O. Carlson and Mrs. Mark Tolen sang, with Mrs. Robert Noll at the organ. The pall bearers were T. O. Lambdin, Clarence Blessing, Thearon Bechle, Herman Rice, John Haskell and W. E. Kesler.

New Trailer House Burns. Burwell—(Special)—Fire of undetermined origin Sunday evening destroyed a new trailer house at the Frank Clark ranch. Ed Waterman, who works for Clark, owned the trailer. Neighbors prevented the flames from spreading to other buildings.

Old Settlers Met at Taylor Sunday for Annual Picnic

Huge Crowd Present Enjoyed Taylor Hospitality and a Splendid Program.

Sunday the old settlers of the Loup valleys were the guests of the town of Taylor at the old settlers picnic for the second successive year. The increased attendance and enthusiasm proved that they were well pleased with the courtesies extended them last year. The picnic and program were held in the block square in the center of the town, where the many trees furnished shade and the grass made picnicking conditions ideal. The citizens furnished coffee for all who desired it, and the groups brought their picnic dinners and ate them in the park.

The American flag was hung on a rope between two trees and the stage arranged beneath it, while out in front seats for several hundred people were built of planks. This space was used for tables, and later was well filled during the program.

A. J. Auble had set up the Auble public address system on the grounds and it worked very effectively throughout the afternoon. While dinner was in progress the Loup Valley band, directed by Dr. Glen D. Auble, played a number of selections.

The program proper started at 1:30 p. m. with community singing led by Harry Johnson of North Loup, assisted by W. T. and LaVerne Hutchins of North Loup and Arden Clark of Ord. Auble Bros. furnished a small organ for the occasion, and the accompaniment was played on this. This part of the program proved a great success, the visitors joining in and enjoying the singing very much.

City Levy Up 2.70 Mills But Raises Little More Money

Decrease in Valuation Makes Higher Levy Necessary; Will Pay Off $6,000.

The city of Ord's tax levy for 1940 will be 2.70 mills higher than in 1939, 16.35 mills in place of 13.65, the city council decided Monday evening, but strangely enough it will raise only about $100 more than the lower levy did last year. Reason is the 15 per cent reduction in valuation of real estate within the city, and the fact that personal property owned by Ord people is slightly less valuable than it was last year.

The 16.35 mill levy decided on Monday evening will raise $22,890, the council's finance committee figured, whereas last year's levy of 13.65 mills raised $22,795.50, or only $94.50 less than the higher levy this year.

Principal increase in the levy is in the bond funds, which were increased from 4.75 mills to 7 mills. A total of $6,000 in bonds will be paid off during the coming year, under the refunding plan adopted recently by the council. Saving in interest by refunding makes it possible to pay off $6,000 without increasing the levy to a still greater extent, says Mayor M. B. Cummins.

Road fund levy of 1 mill in effect last year was eliminated in the new levies, the general fund levy is cut from 4.50 mills to 4 mills, and slight increases were made in the cemetery, street lighting and park funds, which have been going "in the red" for several years, and a 2 mill levy established for the fire department fund, which had no tax money for its support in 1939.

Four Go to CCC Camp Yesterday Frank Kruml drove to Broken Bow, taking with him Johnnie Lunney, Earl Petersen and Arnold Brayton, who are entering the CCC camp. From Broken Bow they will be distributed to other points.

Judge Closes Month With Two Marriages

Clarence Pettinger, farmer from Holly, Colo., and Miss Dorothy M. Clabaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Clabaugh of Burwell, were issued a marriage license by Judge John L. Andersen Saturday.

Immediately afterward, with Miss Betty A. Bratka of Ord and Vern Clabaugh of Burwell as witnesses, the judge performed the ceremony that made them man and wife. Sunday Edwin Bouma of Ansley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Namen Bouma of Arcadia, and Miss Mary P. Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Miller of Ansley, were married by Judge Andersen at high noon in a ceremony performed at the judge's home. Mrs. Regina Beeghly of Winner, S. D., and Mrs. John L. Andersen were the witnesses. The couple will live on a farm near Ansley.

The judge also issued a marriage license Saturday to Willard N. Hill of Omaha, and Miss Doris M. Dalby of Arcadia. Miss Dalby was formerly employed in the office of the North Loup Irrigation district at Ord. It is understood that they were married at Arcadia Sunday.

Ord Defence Taxes Started Monday on Liquor, Cigarettes

Ord Dealers Outline Plans For Handling the Tax in This Territory.

The national defence tax measure passed recently by congress went into effect at the beginning of the new fiscal year, July 1, 1940. The chief items affected immediately here are liquor, beer, cigarettes and the picture show, although many other lines will feel the effect of the law as soon as arrangements can be made to put them in force.

July 1 any dealer handling any of the above lines of merchandise was required by law to take an inventory of all taxable stocks on hand, and to remit the amount of the tax to the federal tax commissioner. The amount of the tax on any future purposes will have been added to the cost to the retailer.

Tax must be paid on all cigarettes on hand at the rate of one half cent per pack, regardless of the amount on hand. However, the retail liquor dealer is allowed up to one hundred gallons without paying the new tax, and the beer dealer has his stock on hand exempted.

While the retailer of beer is exempt on his stock on hand, it must be paid by wholesalers and brewers on all their stocks. Wholesale liquor dealers are not granted one hundred gallons exemption. Levies on many other products may not affect the consumer until the present stocks are sold, but the tax on picture shows goes into effect immediately.

The increase on liquor is to be 75c per gallon, which added to the 50c per gallon state tax and the additional federal tax, brings the total tax up to $3 per gallon. Ord and neighboring liquor stores expect to raise the price 25c per quart, 15c per pint, and 10c per half pint. This increase will just about take care of the added cost to them.

The former tax on beer amounted to $4.50 per barrel of 32 gallons, or 14c per gallon. The new tax will raise the amount to $6 per barrel, or nearly 19c per gallon. Since this is a bulk tax, the only way the local dealer can keep in business is to reduce the size of the glasses in which he serves his beer, which is the way it will be handled here.

The new one half cent tax on cigarettes makes a total of 6 1/2c tax per package, 65c per carton. One dealer found that he had sold 186 cartons of cigarettes last month. At the rate given above his cigarette tax would be $120.90 per month, or $1,450 per year. Figuring that he sells one tenth of all the cigarettes sold in Ord in a year, the total tax from this source should amount to $14,500 per year.

Without the present half cent raise cigarettes were being sold at a very small margin of profit, and sometimes at an actual loss. The plan for the sale of cigarettes at present calls for selling the regular 10c brands at 11c, the two for 25c brands at 13c each, and the 15c brands at 16c. Some may sell the "two-for" kinds at 15c straight.

One Ord beer dealer estimates that the new beer tax will mean $400 more tax money from his place alone per year, or a total of $1,600 per year. This means that the federal beer tax from Ord should run around $6,000 per year.

There is another angle from which these dealers are hit by the new taxes which should be

Nation's Finest Holiday Comes Thursday

Dearest holiday to all patriotic Americans is Independence Day, or July 4th, for it commemorates the beginning of freedom for this great nation. Tomorrow is the big day and though Ord has no formal celebration scheduled there probably will be much unofficial shooting of rockets, sparklers, firecrackers, roman candles and pin-wheels—outside the city limits, of course, since fireworks are banned by city ordinance. These boys played safe Monday evening and set off their giant sparklers at a safe distance from the city boundary.

Ord people in search of a place to celebrate will have no difficulty. There are a variety of celebrations to choose from. Comstock, Taylor, Scotia, Greeley and St. Paul all have announced celebrations; a number of Ord people are planning to visit White Horse Ranch, near Naper, where programs will be given both July 3 and 4; some will go to the Ak-Sar-Ben races in Omaha; probably most will have family picnics in the Ord parks or at the river.

Anyway, the day will be celebrated by most people with gratitude in their hearts that they live in the free United States instead of in war-torn Europe, and that the explosions they hear are from harmless firecrackers instead of from incendiary bombs.

Bakery Gives Free Ice Cream to 1,000

The new Taylor ice cream maker purchased by Forrest Johnson, of the Ord City Bakery, arrived and was installed last week, and Saturday the bakery advertised that it would give free frosted malts to people who visited the store. As a result, this ice cream confection was given away to 950 customers. At the same time, the bakery sold 70 gallons of ice cream, but ran out about five o'clock. More people visited the bakery Saturday than on any previous day in its history, said Mr. Johnson.

Inhalator Used on Robert Albers

Ord's new inhalator, which was bought in June by the people of Ord through the efforts of the fire department, has been constantly used this week on Robert Albers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Albers.

Bob, who is suffering from a serious blood-stream infection, was taken ill in Thermopolis, Wyo., on June 14. Mr. Albers brought him back to Ord June 21, and since then firemen have used the inhalator on him five times. Monday evening Bob was taken to the Clinic hospital.

Firemen Cecil Clark, Harry Wolf, Mark Tolen and George Anderson were assisting in the use of the inhalator. The oxygen from the machines purifies the blood. "It is impossible to say just how much good the inhalator has done, yet," said Dr. Leo C. Nay, one of Bob's physicians.

Golf Club Committee Announces Picnics

The entertainment committee of the Ord golf club announces that beginning next week, weekly picnics will be held, either Thursday or Friday, the day to be announced definitely in next week's Quiz. The ladies will play foursomes and the men's foursomes will play ahead, starting promptly at 6 p. m. The play will be followed by a Dutch lunch in the park.

Cecil Clark Resigns As Ord Fire Chief

The resignation of Cecil Clark as chief of the Ord volunteer fire department was handed to the city council Monday evening and, upon motion of Dr. J. W. McGinnis, was accepted subject to election of his successor by the firemen at their July 12 meeting, and his confirmation by the council. Chief Clark has accepted a civil service position, a requirement of which is that he resign all other paid positions which he may hold. He will serve as fire chief until about Aug. 1, in all probability.

—Mr. and Mrs. Guy Burrows left this morning for North Fork, Ida., where they expect to remain until next fall. They summered there last year, and liked it so well that they decided to try it again. Of course the Quiz will be sent to them there.

Concrete Swimming Pool Is Only Type Approved—Filipi

Cost to City With WPA Aid Likely to Run $9,000.00, McClure Estimates.

That a modern concrete swimming pool with filtering apparatus in the only kind likely to receive approval of the state board of health, and that such a pool would cost the city of Ord $9,000, even with the aid of WPA labor, was the gist of information furnished the council Monday evening by T. E. Filipi, state sanitation engineer, and Hugh M. McClure, Kearney architect. The men had been invited to meet with the council by George Allen, upon instructions of Mayor Cummins and the council.

Mr. Filipi, first to speak, figuratively turned thumbs down on the proposal to convert the Patchen ice pond into a pool and also the idea of building a horseshoe shaped lake for swimming purposes at Bussell park. Neither would meet health requirements and neither could receive the health department's approval, Mr. Filipi intimated.

An artificial pool with proper filtering and chlorinating apparatus is the most satisfactory type for a city to build and the only type that may hope to receive the unqualified approval of his department, Filipi said.

In such a pool the water can be maintained in satisfactory sanitary condition continuously, he stated. Water should be sufficiently clear so that a submerged bather is plainly visible in ordinary daylight in all parts of the pool; it should be free from scum and material floating on the surface; it should be of normal color, and have no odor except a faint non-offensive chlorine odor.

A chlorine content of between .3 to .5 parts of chlorine per million parts of water should be present in all parts of the pool, and should have the proper degree of alkalinity. An artificial pool meeting these specifications will be hygienic at all times and there is no possibility that one bather could acquire a disease from another bather under such conditions.

Mr. Filipi's objection to the natural pools proposed by the council was in the fact that no control over sanitation could be exercised, since there would be no way of chlorinating the water or preventing the growth of algae in the water. A pool of this sort would soon become contaminated and would be unfit for swimming purposes, he said.

Wendell Wilkie G. O. P. Nominee

Delegates of the republican party, in session last week in Philadelphia, nominated Wendell Wilkie, of New York, for the presidency and Senator Charles McNary, of Oregon for the vice presidency. Two Ord men, Clarence M. Davis and John P. Misko, attended the convention, the former as delegate and the latter as an alternate.

Biggest vote on the first ballot for presidential nominee went to Thomas Dewey but he faded afterward and the race was between Wilkie and Taft, with the latter losing and Wilkie constantly gaining strength. Wilkie's nomination came with a landslide vote on the sixth ballot after Dewey and Vandenberg delegates were released from their pledges to vote for these men and threw their strength to Wilkie.

Brewster Woman Dies Here Saturday Morning

Osa May Doggett was born near Arberville, Nebr., July 27, 1901, and passed away at the Ord hospital Saturday morning at the age of 38 year, 11 months and 2 days. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Garretson of St. Edward.

In March, 1923, she was married to Harlow Doggett. Since then they lived in various communities: in Polk county, in York county, at Thedford and Burwell and at present at Brewster.

She is survived by her husband, three sons, Max, Gale and Ray, two daughters, Alice Rae and Joan, all at home; two sisters, Mrs. Zelma Sandberg of Stromsburg, Mrs. Elva Thomas of Colorado Springs, Colo.; two brothers, Ora of Genoa and Irwin of Silver Creek and her parents.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of Pearson and Anderson of Ord. Services were held from the Evangelical church of Taylor Monday at 10 a. m., with Rev. Bruce Wylie of the Burwell Methodist church in charge, and bur was made at York, Nebr.

Wolf and Clark Named Janitors for Post Office

Will Assume Duties About 1st of August When the New Building is Finished.

Appointment of Harry Wolf and Cecil Clark as janitors for the new Ord postoffice was announced this week by A. L. Hill, postmaster. He recommended them for appointment after both topped the list in a competitive examination taken by fifty Ord men. Mr. Hill stated. Both are ex-service men and thereby were given a five point advantage in accordance with federal law.

Wolf's position carries a salary of $1,260 a year while Clark's job pays $1,140. Wolf has been janitor at the Ord high school building and will resign at once, he says. Clark announced plans to turn his trucking business over to his son, Arden. Both men will assume their new duties about August 1 when the new Ord postoffice is ready for occupancy.

Postmaster Hill received Tuesday morning official notice of his re-appointment as postmaster for another 4-year term. The appointment was confirmed by the senate May 18 but the papers did not reach Ord until this morning.

Exact date when the new $75,000 postoffice building will be ready for occupancy is not known but Postmaster Hill is hopeful that service can be started in the new location by August 1. Some interior work remains to be done and the landscaping and seeding has not yet been started.

Comstock Farmer Dies Suddenly

Arcadia—(Special)—While surveying on the Ohme brother's farm near Comstock Friday afternoon Elmer Dowse suddenly suffered a heart attack. A small boy who was assisting him rushed to the Ohme farm house and told them that Mr. Dowse had "fallen down and he couldn't get him to answer." The Ohme boys rushed Mr. Dowse to Dr. J. Baird's office here and Dr. Antick was called from Loup City, since Dr. Baird was away on vacation, but Mr. Dowse had passed away.

Quiz Artists Honored In Recent News Story

The July issue of Tasope magazine, the official organ of the Aurora, Mo., School of Engraving, displays photos of LaVerne Duenney and Ilene Weller (Duenney) on the inside front cover page, and a story of their work as artists on the Ord Quiz staff.

It tells the story of the development of the Quiz photo-engraving business over a period of five years. Also mentioned in the story are Kent Ferris and Ed Dugosh, who spend much of their time mounting and mailing cuts for the constantly increasing business.

North Loup

Will Be 89 July 4

Chas. J. Rood will celebrate his 89th birthday Thursday, July 4 and begin on the 69th year of his residence in the North Loup valley. Born in Dakota, Wis., he came here with the colony of people who came from Wisconsin, arriving the first week in May, in 1872 and has been a continual resident. Mr. Rood, as well as his sister, Mrs. Mary Davis was present at that first historical religious service, held near the river, east of North Loup. Lowell Wellman who still lives here and is engaged in business in the store where his father did business for many years, was also a member of that original colony, although only a small boy. Mr. Rood's wife, the former Rosa Furrow, passed away some time ago and for some time the daughters maintained the home.

CHARLES J. ROOD

For the past two years he has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Henry Williams, in Mira Valley but since early spring he has been at the home of another daughter, Mrs. Roy Lewis in North Loup. Badly crippled as the result of a fall some thirty years ago, it is rather difficult for him to get about now but he always cut a great deal of wood and a familiar sight now is Mr. Rood with his ax going to cut wood.

He loves to tell of the hardships and the privileges experienced in the early days. Mr. Rood is the father of eight daughters and two sons, all of whom are living but one daughter. He has nine grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

The Home Makers club, 4-12 club of seventh and eighth grade girls, met Thursday afternoon with their leader, Mary Frances Manchester. Seven members were present. They will take up home making and will meet Friday with Fern Sims.

Mrs. Mary Davis and Mary and Mrs. Genia Crandall enjoyed a picnic supper in the Ord park Wednesday evening.

Goodrich Silvertown Stores

Dan Dugan Oil Co.

Mrs. Alma Hopkins of Burwell is staying in the home of her sister, Mrs. Ed Paddock and taking medical treatments of Dr. Hemp-hill.

The annual Mother-Daughter banquet of the Methodist ladies aid was held Thursday night with eighty-seven ladies present. The men of the church acted as waiters. The menu consisted of chicken, browned new potatoes, vegetable salad, rolls, ice tea or coffee and angel food cake. Nettie Clark acted as toast mistress and used as the theme of the program, "Mother." Donna Manchester and Ardy's Werner sang "Mother" to open the program. Mrs. J. A. Barber gave an Ode to mothers, Mrs. H. J. Hoepfner sang "That Wonderful Mother of Mine." Florence Hudson read "It Takes a Heap of Living for Home," Mrs. May Miller gave "Excerpts from Every Mother's Diary" and Mrs. Hemp-hill spoke on the "Rewards of Motherhood." As a closing number Harriett Manchester sang "In the Garden of Tomorrow."

Mrs. Earl Abbott and son Scott of Oconomowoc, Wis. were guests from Tuesday till Thursday in the W. O. Zangger home. Thursday they left for a summer camp near Fort Collins, Colo. Esther Zangger accompanied them and will spend two weeks in the Colorado mountains.

The Scotia boosters came to North Loup Saturday evening with their band and gave a short program on the street advertising their celebration to be held Thursday. M. R. Cornell's public address system and loud speaker were used and Mr. Cornell accompanied the group for the remainder of the evening's trip. The North Loup band is to play at Scotia Thursday afternoon and many North Loupers are planning to spend the day there.

The fire siren sounded Saturday afternoon and brought a crowd to the Otto Bartz home in record time. An oil stove in the back porch at the Bartz residence had run up and flited the porch and part of the house with soot and smoke. Mary Ann Bartz, who was the only one at home, smelled the smoke and was unable to turn the stove out. Mr. Bartz who arrived at once carried the stove outside and the damage done was minor except for the smoke and soot.

The I. K. Pattersons and Mrs. H. G. Westburg were much pleased Sunday afternoon to hear Kendall and Robert Patterson play a trumpet duet over the Kearney broadcasting station and dedicate it to their mother and grandmother. Both boys are members of the Broken Bow CCC camp and were with a group from that camp that put on a program in Kearney Sunday afternoon.

The Junior society of the Seventh Day Baptist church had a picnic on the creek bank near the J. A. Barber residence Sunday afternoon. Mary Babcock and Joan Barber accompanied them.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Goodrich were Saturday evening guests in the Clifford Goodrich home.

Irene Baker of Salinas, Calif., arrived Friday for a visit at the Fred Bartz home and with relatives at Erickson. Miss Baker teaches at Salinas and will return to her work some time in August.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Mayo and Marilyn came up from Lincoln late Sunday night. Mrs. Mayo and Marilyn will spend the week here but Mr. Mayo returned home Monday morning. Muriel Bartz who has been employed in the Mayo home accompanied them here and will spend the summer in her home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Jackman, Mr. and Mrs. George Mayo, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Willoughby and Duane, the Sterling Manchester family, Florence Hudson, Frances Goodrich, Charlotte Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Williams of Ord went to Kearney Sunday where they had a picnic in the Kearney park. The Charles, Dale and Roland Cross of Lexington, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Halverson and Everett Manchester of Kearney met the group there and all spent the day together.

The Highway View club had a picnic Sunday at the Edgar Stillman home near Scotia with a good crowd attending.

Mrs. Emma Davis of Denver was a Thursday supper guest of Mrs. B. B. Buten.

Mrs. Lester Watts of Grand Island is spending the week in the Martin Watts home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harding and Mrs. Alice Harding spent Saturday evening with Mrs. Alice Harding.

Mrs. Daisy Clancy and son, Rob and family of Newman Grove visited Sunday in the Paul White home and spent the afternoon with the Frank and Charlie Whites.

Norma Malmstrom of Greeley spent last week with Dorothy White. She accompanied her parents, the Reuben Malmstroms home after the Highway View picnic Sunday.

A family picnic was held Friday night on the lawn at the George Sample home honoring the Steve Finchs and Mrs. Emma Davis, Beside the George Sample family those attending were H. C. Sample, the Leland Stillmans and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Williams of Scotia and Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Williams of Lake Orion, Mich. Sunday the immediate family of Mr. and Mrs. Sample spent the day with them. Mrs. Sample who has been in very poor health for several weeks, is improving slowly. Mrs. Emma Davis left on the Sunday bus for Grand Island and took the train there for her home in Denver.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Clement went to Grand Island on the Monday morning bus to spend a few days with their daughter, Mrs. Otto Brown.

Mrs. Gus Eistle was made very happy Wednesday with a birthday gift of an electric washing machine sent by her daughter, Grace who is working in Washington.

Carol Leonard and the Wayne King children are victims of the chicken pox.

The Rueben Malmstrom family of Greeley spent Saturday in the Paul White home.

Margaret Gilmore returned on Thursday night from Chadron where she had been to attend the funeral of Dwaine Gilmore, son of Melvin Gilmore who was drowned Monday while swimming with some other boys. The boy, who was eleven years old, was suffering from a weak heart as an after effect of measles and his death was attributed more to that than drowning.

At the meeting of the Nellie Shaw Missionary society held on Wednesday an election of officers for the coming year resulted in the following: president, Leona Babcock; vice-president, Jessie S. Babcock; secretary, Alice Johnson; treasurer, Louise Brenneck; music committee, Nina Johnson. The society voted to sponsor some improvements in the kitchen at the church, among them a new stove.

Ed Greene is working for a road construction company near Hyannis. He is hauling water with his truck.

While driving home from Grand Island Friday afternoon the Roy Stine truck tipped over on the other side of St. Paul. Neither Mr. Stine, who was asleep, nor Buddy Hoepfner who was driving know what happened but the truck landed on the top, making several holes in it and damaging the cargo somewhat. The load was insured but Mr. Stine's insurance does not cover tipping over. Babcock's wrecker went down after the truck and brought it home.

Rev. J. A. Adams spoke at the Seventh Day Baptist church Saturday morning. Next week the new pastor for this church will be installed and Rev. Adams as well as other pastors of the village will have a part in this service. Rev. and Mrs. Erbet are expected to arrive here from Alfred, N. Y., late this week to take up their new pastorate. The church has been without a pastor since Nov. 1 when Rev. C. L. Hill went to Farina, Ill.

a potato tuber must be dug at least six weeks before it can be made to grow. Early grown North Loup valley seed which would be ready for digging before the first of August could be used for planting in October. He pointed out that the production of seed in this region is still in the experimental stage and that it is doubtful if the North Loup valley is as well adapted for this purpose as the western part of the state.

When asked if potatoes suitable for seed could be produced by irrigation Mr. Koehnke answered "yes" and that the prejudice against irrigated seed is not justified. He said that the only advantage of non-irrigated seed is that it is easier to control diseases in dryland fields than in irrigated ones.

At the Butts farm the caravan had the opportunity to see a field of tuber unit planted potatoes. The seed for this field as well as for several others planted in the valley was given by the Nebraska Certified Seed Growers association. This field had not been irrigated as yet. The potatoes which had been planted late stood three to four inches high and the farmers could readily see what is meant by tuber planting. The potato usually is cut into four pieces. The pieces are not entirely severed and when the farmer plants them by hand he can easily break the tuber apart. A space is left between the four pieces of each potato and if any disease shows up on a plant, all four plants which were produced by the same tuber are destroyed. The potatoes grown for seed are rogued when they are six inches high. This means that the field is carefully inspected and all undesirable plants are pulled up. Mr. Koehnke declared that a little extra care in roguing saves a lot of trouble later on and that its purpose is to produce a vigorous seed stock free of disease.

A dust storm drove the caravan into a potato cellar at the Brownell farm after they left the Butts field and here completely protected from the black blizzard Dr. Werner led a discussion of the potato varieties suitable for the North Loup valley. He recommended the cobbler over the triumphs as he said that they stand the hot weather better and mature earlier. Some of the local farmers who have developed a liking for the red triumphs took issue with him.

Spuds, both for Seed and Table Use, May Become Big Money Crop of Loup Area, Experts Predicted Thursday

A part of the crowd and an irrigation lateral and two sublaterals are shown in the picture at top, left. Fields on both sides of the ditch are irrigated. The water is carried into the field by the main lateral. It is let out into the sublaterals through cutout boxes, which are made of half inch lumber and are about four inches square. The flow of the water through the cutout boxes is regulated by a piece of tin which is stuck through a slit sawed into the end of the cutout box. From the sublaterals the water is let out into the rows through lath boxes, which are simply four laths nailed together at right angles. One lath-box usually waters several rows although some farmers use a lath-box for each row. The flow of the water through the lath-boxes is regulated by milk bottle caps nailed on to the end of them. By this means the water can be completely shut off by merely shoving the milk bottle cap down over the end of the lath box. This field is farmed by Henry Bonsall and James Rowse.

Frank Mallicky, shown at right, above, is Burwell's leading spud enthusiast. He was one of the first farmers to plant potatoes on the commercial scale, owns a sprayer, assists in the operating of the washing and grading plant, helps other farmers secure proper seed and generally does all he can to make the spud industry "go." He was "snapped" in the Draver field. The plant which he is holding has nineteen good-sized tubers on it as well as a number of smaller ones. The potato specialists stated that this field would be ready to dig in less than a month.

This little miss, in center, holding the big potato, is Beverly Jean Moorford. The cobbler which she is holding weighs half a pound and is a sample of the kind her grandfather, F. M. Butts, grows. Beverly Jean is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vilas Moorford, of Seward. She is a guest of her grandparents while her father is in Porto Rico teaching in the agricultural college.

O. Werner, horticulturist from the college of agriculture of the University of Nebraska, P. H. Hankins, a Scottsbluff potato grower, Prof. E. H. Hoppert, another potato specialist from the college of agriculture, R. H. Douglas, Burwell's agricultural agent, Henry Bonsall and James Rowse, two of Burwell's potato growers, Bill Pierce, formerly of Ord, who is an extension specialist in irrigation, John Ferguson, a Loup county farmer, and Henry McMullen, Burwell's jovial merchant, who raises, buys, sells, and eats Loup valley potatoes. It was taken on the Garrison farm.

At the bottom, right, two young farmers, Leo Butts and Kenneth Draver, are shown among the potato vines on the Draver farm. This field was inspected on the potato tour. The vines have grown and spread out until the rows are scarcely noticeable. This field was planted the forepart of April.

Concrete Swimming Pool Is Only Type Approved—Filipi

Many diseases can be transmitted by the water of a swimming pool that is not properly disinfected, Filipi said. Such diseases as enteritis are very communicable in water, but chlorination controls them positively. He also recommended bath houses with shower baths and foot baths and a requirement that bathers use them before entering the pool.

mentioned. The cost of dealers' licenses has been increased ten per cent, making the Retailer fermented malt dealer (beer dealer) pay $22 for his license instead of $20, the retail liquor dealer pay $27.50 instead of $25, and the wholesale malt liquor dealer pay $55 instead of $50. In addition beer and liquor dealers of course pay a high city occupation tax.

To add to the uncertainty of the cigarette situation a recent newspaper article stated that the Liggett-Meyers and Reynolds Tobacco companies were working out an agreement for raising the prices of their products. Any raise by them must be instantly reflected in the local price of their goods.

M. Biemond of the Ord Theatre has worked out a plan for prices on the shows during the month of July, as follows: Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, 27c plus 3c tax, or 30c; Wednesday and Thursday, no pay nights, admission 10c and 15c, no tax. Friday and Saturday, 10c and 20c. The show today and tomorrow will be 27c with 3c tax.

Other products on which increases of from 10% to 50% will be made include toilet preparations, automobiles, radios, mechanical refrigerators, matches, gasoline, lubricating oil, playing cards, club dues and initiation fees. The 50% increase is on gasoline, from 1c to 1 1/2c per gallon.

Pardners By WILL RYAN (McClure Syndicate—WNU Service)

SIERRA PETE stood as if turned to stone, his eyes fixed on a yellow line zigzagging along the side of the gulch. Shutting his eyes tight, Sierra Pete argued with himself. "Nopel!" he growled. "It ain't there. The sun's got me at last. It ain't gold. It's nothin' but a myrridge."

But when he opened his eyes the yellow streak was still there. Picking up a loose stone, he chipped off a fragment of the yellow outcropping.

"Gold!" he quavered. "Millions in that vein. Pecos Sam and me is rich. We can ride in our own limy mine and eat alligator pears every day of our lives. We can—oh, Gosh, what can't we do? And ten minutes ago we was just a pair of lean old desert rats with nothin' but a jackass and a grubstake between us."

He paused, overcome for the moment. Something wet trickled down his wrinkled cheeks. He brushed it away wrathfully.

"Bawlin'!" he ejaculated. "A great time to bawl now, with all that gold in sight. You'd order be kickin' up your heels like a yearlin' colt."

But his hobnailed boots performed no erratic capers, as he trudged back to camp, where Pecos Sam was frying flapjacks over a mesquite fire. At his elbow, Music, the burro, waited hopefully. When Pecos Sam passed him a spoonful of the dough, he lapped it up like a dog.

"Git out now!" admonished Pecos Sam. "Go and rustle your supper."

Where Sierra Pete was long and lank with vertical wrinkles, Pecos Sam was squat and bowlegged with wrinkles of the horizontal variety, and now, as he saw Pete returning to camp, the wrinkles crumpled in a welcoming grin.

"Jumplin' horn loads!" he exclaimed. "Where you been, Pete? You look like you'd seen a ghost."

"Go look in that gulch jest below the mesa, and you'll see the same ghost," said Sierra Pete. "I'll tend to the flapjacks."

When Pecos Sam returned, he was wiping the perspiration from his forehead with a grimy bandana, and his eyes held a strange dazed look.

"Looks like it was the end of the trail for us, Pete," he observed.

"Pears that way," replied Sierra Pete, with equal gravity.

"Reckon the street lights will be as bright as them stars and that moon?" Pecos Sam asked.

Sierra Pete scowled. "Ask me suthin' easy," he grumbled. "I ain't stayed overnight in a town for twenty years."

"I can beat that," Pecos Pete was frankly triumphant. "It's twenty-five years since I slept anywhere but under the stars."

"And fifteen of them years we've been together," remarked Sierra Pete. "Fifteen! They ain't been so bad have they, Pard?"

"Nope," returned Pecos Sam thoughtfully. "They've been purty to'able."

"That's some things gold can't buy," mused Sierra Pete.

"A few," agreed Pecos Sam. "Reckon I'd better draw a map of this here place," he added. "That gulch is a ter'ble hard place to find."

Rummaging out the stub of a lead pencil and a piece of paper that had somehow escaped destruction, Pecos Sam drew a map that satisfied himself. Folding it up, he placed it in the inside pocket of his coat.

"Reckon that'll do," he decided. The next morning the partners staked out their claim. They talked little on their way to town to record it. Pecos Sam was grimly silent and Sierra Pete was snappish. One on either side of Music, they plodded along.

On the third day a sandstorm held them up. There was nothing to do but camp, and when at last the partners awoke to find the sky gloriously blue and the sun shining, their grouchy mood had passed, and they joked and laughed like boys.

Pecos Sam was getting breakfast, when he gave a sudden yell. "Pete! Come here quick. The map's gone!" he roared. "I jest left my coat on the ground a minute and that derned Music nosed out the map. Pete, he's chewed up our gold mine, sure as blazes. It'll mebbe take years to find that gulch ag'in, now the storm has covered our tracks."

Sierra Pete glared at Music. He had his own private opinion as to how Music had found that map.

"The pie-eyed son of a mountain jackass!" he snorted. "You hadn't order left your coat on the ground that way. You might have knowed the critter couldn't tell a map of a gold mine from a pickle recipe. Now we got to start all over ag'in to look up our gold mine. But if we found it once, we can find it ag'in."

"Anyhow, we got all the rest of our lives to look for it," said Pecos Sam.

Sierra Pete scratched his bristling chin meditatively. "So we're jest a couple of desert rats ag'in," he commented. "And pardners!"

His hand went out and met Pecos Sam's in a close grip. Two pairs of old eyes looked deep into each other, and two old hearts beat in a complete rhythm of understanding.

"And pardners," repeated Pecos Sam.

Ord Softball All-Stars Beat Greeley Thursday

The Greeley town softball team came to Ord Thursday evening and lost a real battle to the All Stars by a final score of 6 to 5. The game went into an extra inning and Oakley Hather ruined the hopes of the Irish by losing the ball somewhere around the east end of the race track for a home run.

In fact, the game was over officially before Hather got around the bases, as a man on base came in with the winning score ahead of him. Most of the way it was a pitcher's battle between Vernon Nay and Farris of Greeley. Greeley got four of her runs in the first inning, one being a home run. Severson made a home run on a hit that got away from the fielder.

An unusual material and incidentally, an unusual occupation, may be found in Garfield county. The material is moulding clay, and it was found by Libburn F. Howard, who, being an artist, is putting the material to use and thus developing a new art in this section of the country.

Garfield county is developing a reputation for doing unusual things. Burwell was at one time one of the leading cattle shipping points in the west. Of more recent years it has attained an international reputation for Nebraska's Big Rodeo. Figures released last week show that it is one of the few towns in Nebraska to show a real gain in population.

Now comes the news of the locating of a large deposit of modelling clay within a few miles of Burwell. The fact is, of course, that the clay has been there since the dawn of history but it had to await the arrival of some man who would recognize it for what it is. Mr. Howard was the man, although he did not discover the clay until he bought the property.

A few years ago the Howard family lived at Colorado Springs, Colo., where they ran an antique shop, one of the best in the west. Mr. Howard had a general knowledge of antiques, and in his day has handled many items of great value. However, his health began to fail, and he sold out the shop and came to Burwell, where he bought the farm south of town belonging to Everett Hallock, whom he had known in Colorado.

He was looking for a quiet spot, and when he saw the Hallock place it fulfilled his every need. The place lies about four miles north of Burwell, a short distance beyond the place known as Windy Hill. It lies to the east of the road, and comprises a quarter section of table land, deeply cut by canyons, whose sides are nearly perpendicular.

Mr. Hallock first improved the place, building a fine frame house in one of the canyons, with other buildings to match. He installed his own water system by erecting a windmill and putting down a well at the top of the bluff, putting in a reservoir and piping the water to the house and yard, where he has a plentiful supply of water under heavy pressure.

Because he is unable to do heavy work, Mr. Howard does not look after the farm land, which is partly on the table land and partly in the bottom of the canyons. He and Mrs. Howard and their four children, three daughters and a son, raise garden on a plot near the house which they irrigate and raise chickens which serve for food and for preparation against the plague of grasshoppers.

The hill of moulding clay is just behind the house, and there is enough to last for commercial use for years to come. Mr. Howard discovered it, and then devised means of working it. Some of the figures he has made are carved from solid blocks of the material, and others are moulded, the material being reduced to a thick paste by the addition of water.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of all is the turning of the paste into pottery on a potter's wheel which he constructed himself. This consists of a box, inside of which is a turntable similar to that of a phonograph, with a means of rotating it with a foot treadle. The material is placed on the table in the form of a ball, and is shaped with the hands while the table is turned.

The hands are kept wet all the time and the thumbs are pressed down to form the inside of the dish, while the fingers shape the outside. When it is shaped as he wants it, the dish is cut off from the table with a fine wire, turned over and finished on the outside, and some of the design is cut with the dish revolving in this position, and the rest of it done by hand. This part of the work is best done while the clay is still slightly damp.

When a dish is finished, it is ready for baking. Mr. Howard made his kiln at the foot of the hill on the opposite side of the canyon from the clay deposit. It is made from an old oil barrel with the ends cut out and a wall of clay four inches thick built around it to conserve the heat. The pieces to be fired are put into a tin can, the lid put on and the can lowered into the kiln.

The top is then put on and dirt piled over it. When all is ready a fire is lit in the bottom of the barrel, which has an opening at the side and a chimney through which the smoke escapes. It is necessary to keep the pottery from direct contact with the fire in order to insure even coloring and even heating. If the heat is uneven the dishes will warp and crack.

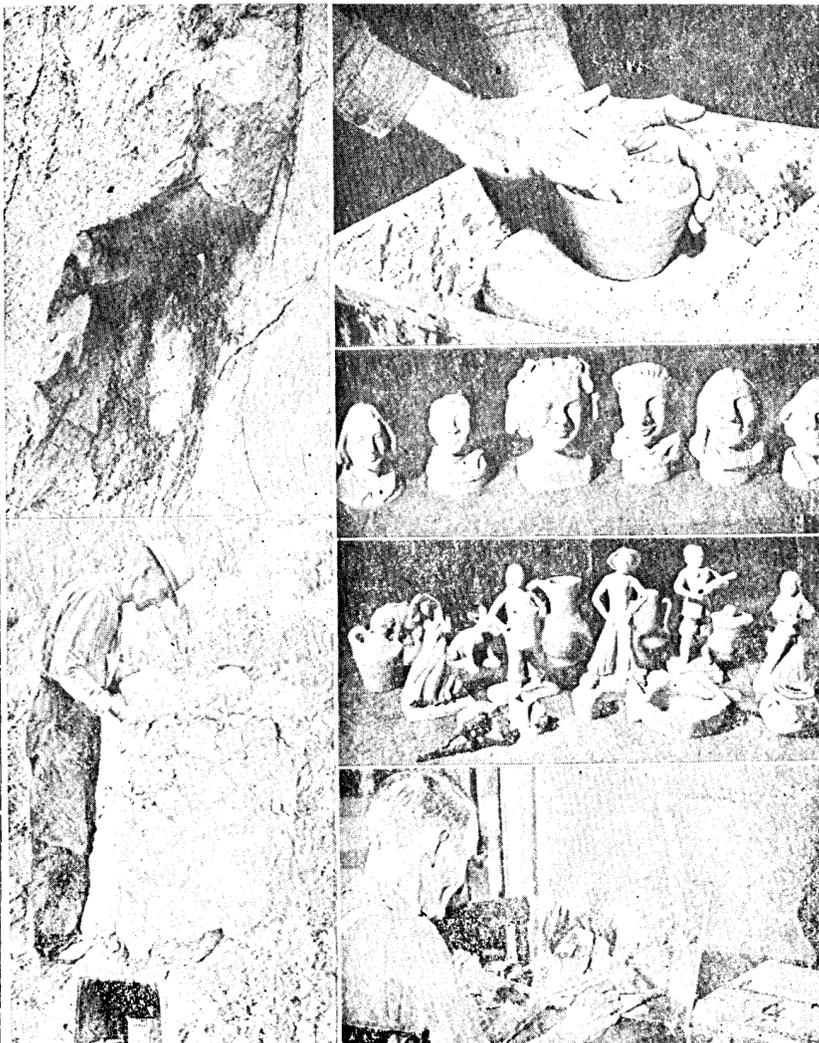

The fire is kept as steady as possible, without getting the heat too great, for this would ruin everything. The process may be continued for a day or two, or until the dishes are a cherry red throughout. They must then be cooled slowly to normal temperature after which they will stand considerable use without breaking.

The process of glazing is one more step in the making of pottery, and Mr. Howard has not yet worked out a method of doing this in his improvised factory. However, he has glazed a few small articles by putting the glazing material, which he has to buy, on the articles and melting it with a blow torch. The work thus done is exceptionally lovely.

The coloring of articles is done by several methods, the simplest of which is the use of water colors. Colors may also be produced by painting with chemicals which develop color when subjected to heat. The most important requisite to success however, is artistic ability, and this Mr. Howard possesses to a marked degree.

The sale of clay to artists is a field in which the expense of transportation and the smallness of the individual sales would make the profits hardly worth the expense incurred. Mr. Howard believes, but he thinks there is a field for its sale in quantity to schools where clay modeling is taught.

Howard Finds Moulding Clay in Garfield County

The above photos show some of the fine art work done by Garfield county's sculptor and painter, Libburn F. Howard. Upper left, shows the face of the bank and how the clay is found in vertical layers. The one shown is six inches thick. Lower left, Mr. Howard is shown placing some of the pots in the kiln, preparatory to burning. The fireplace appears below. Upper right is a pot on the potter's wheel in the process of being shaped from the soft clay. Middle right are busts he moulded to represent different acquaintances, the one second from the left being an accurate bust of his son. The lower middle right is a group of small objects of all kinds, some turned, some moulded and some carved from a solid block of clay. At the lower right Mr. Howard is shown with some of his oil paintings.

Many schools are going in for this branch of art, and this clay is ideal for their use.

Many of the figures moulded and carved by Mr. Howard are very lovely indeed. One he has finished represents his son, and the resemblance is most striking. His best work is comparable with that of artists of national renown, and yet he says that he has never taken a lesson in art in his life.

Another line of art which claims his attention much of the time is the painting of pictures, which are remarkably accurate in proportion and coloring. Years ago he painted pictures, making several a day and selling for a price of three dollars each, but the depression has changed all that, and he very seldom sells them now.

The last winter he became so ill that he could not work at the pottery, so he put in his time writing poems, of which he has one hundred or more completed, all of exceptional originality and appeal. He says that he never cared for poetry but after he went to work on it he developed a liking for putting his thoughts into rhyme. His rhymes are of the simple things, as note this poem, the first of his ever published:

What ghoulish crime did I commit? What justice leaves me thus unfit? Even a dungeon, dark and cold, Would for me less terror hold. Whereat instead you place me high In easy view of passers-by. Should inquisitive souls inspect My shabby raiment's worn defect, To note my gun is but a stick, My whole accoutrement a trick To frighten crows each summer morn

From daily feast of sprouting corn. No sooner has the day begun Than wily crows come, one by one, And none fly off against their will But stay and stay to eat their fill. —Written by L. E. Howard.

OIL DRILLINGS IN NEBRASKA

This is the eleventh of the series of articles concerning oil drillings in Nebraska. All information was compiled by research workers of the Nebraska Writers' Project, WPA, from old newspapers and from data supplied by the University of Nebraska.

In 1919, the Weekly Wymorean published several editorials regarding the possibility of drilling an oil well near Wymore. Oil promoters had been quite active in the vicinity and every "loyal" citizen of Wymore was hopeful that a drilling site would be selected near his town.

having been delayed by a series of breakdowns. The well shut down a short time later and nothing more was done at the site until Nov. 7, when W. W. Dymond, who was drilling two wells in Kansas, was hired to drill the well deeper. Soil conservation and survey records show that the well was drilled to a depth of 320 feet. The last report from the Wymorean, on October 12, 1922, stated that a movement was underway to take the rigging from the Hamilton well and drill elsewhere.

During this study of the history of oil drillings in Nebraska, research workers of the Nebraska Writers' Project, WPA, have compiled thousands of words of material from innumerable sources. Editors of many Nebraska newspapers have aided the Project by examining their files and making additional data available.

From editor E. L. Templin, of the Shelton Clipper, comes a story concerning a drilling that took place near Shelton. In 1910, the Shelton Oil and Gas company was formed, a drilling rig secured, and a well started on the west bank of the Wood River, a short distance northwest of town.

In 1911, drilling stopped after considerable trouble had been experienced with the equipment, and also due to lack of funds. In 1912 the company reorganized and an expert driller was called in to continue the drilling. At 1300 feet a report was spread that oil had been struck and excitement ran

In The Good Old Days

The honor of being the first to tell the Quiz who the two men in last week's old time picture were went to W. H. Wisda of Lexington, who guessed correctly that both of them were James Mifford. Later guessers were R. J. Clark, Dr. G. W. Taylor and Kit Carson. One of the pictures was taken just after he came back from a western trip, and the other after he had visited the barber and had changed into his good clothes.

The picture was taken by H. G. Westberg, who was quite an artist in this type of photography, which enjoyed a vogue in those days. Sometimes the artist would reproduce the same person a number of times in the same group and do so with such cleverness that the method could not be figured out.

Do you know who this young fellow is?

high for a few days. Later, when the well was 1370 feet in depth, water that was pumped from the well and allowed to run over the prairie was said to have been covered with an oily appearing substance. One night the tools became lost in the hole and because the crew never succeeded in reclaiming them, the project was abandoned. Some time passed before the well was again made a topic of conversation in Shelton.

A year or more after drilling ceased, the derrick and other equipment was sold to an Oklahoma oil concern and the Shelton company disbanded. Practically all the stock in the company was held by Shelton people.

In this same period a number of rumors were in circulation about various towns of the State contemplating drilling for oil. Some of these rumors later became fact but mostly they were discussed for a while and then forgotten. It was said that company was being organized at Tabor, in eastern Butler county, to find the main source of an oil seepage which was making water wells unfit for use. It was also said that gas, which would ignite, issued from cracks in the ground at several locations. Much similar, was the reported finding of oil in a ditch north of Scottsbluff in 1920. The "strike" caused much excitement and over $25,000 was donated to develop it. However, the "ditch" well was soon forgotten.

The town of Henry, near the Nebraska-Wyoming line, was the scene of an oil fraud in 1920. In that year an agent, who claimed he represented a Salt Lake City and San Francisco oil concern, leased land near Henry and promised the landowners that drilling would commence within 6 months. According to the Gering Courier, the man appeared to be very familiar with the topographical characteristics of that region and especially informed as to a drilling that had taken place near Henry many years previous. This well had been sunk by the Goshen Hole Oil company of Wyoming and drilled to a depth of 1500 before being abandoned as a dry hole. In 1922, the landowners, not seeing or hearing anything further from the agent, filed suit to enjoin the Register of Deeds from placing the oil leases on record.

In that same locality, in 1921, another lawsuit was filed. This time against two men who had reportedly capped a well which was said to contain oil. The well had been drilled fifteen years earlier in Kiowa precinct on the Mikaus place, two miles northeast of Lyman. It had been the belief for years that oil had been struck at the site and the well then capped. It was said that a group of promoters were ready to recommence development of the well if the court allowed. As nothing further was found concerning either the result of the lawsuit, or further drilling, it is believed that the lawsuit may have been instigated to stir up interest in an oil promotional scheme.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD Evet Smith is quite a student of horticulture, arboriculture, agriculture, silviculture, etc., etc., etc., and he propounded an interesting question the other day. He was looking at the vine on the north side of the Masonic building, and he wondered how the vine knew enough to quit growing on up when it got to the top of the wall. Can anybody tell him?

It was suggested in the Quiz last week that if Burwell and Ord keep up the relative rate of increase in population, some day Burwell will catch up with Ord. Local mathematicians have been figuring on the problem, and have estimated that this will take place at about 3 p. m., the second day of Nebraska's Big Rodeo, 1975. Anyway, our hats are off to Burwell.

We don't know whether Archie Rowland ever catches any fish or not, but he certainly knows how to make a fishpole. He got one of those long cane poles, which isn't cane but is something else, and has it wrapped from stem to stern and mounted with high grade guides and other thimble-bobs until it is one of the best looking outfits to be seen in Ord.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vaclavak of Grand Island were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McCarthy.

Munn & Norman, Attorneys. NOTICE OF HEARING TO DETERMINE HEIRSHIP.

In the matter of the estate of Martha J. Looftbourrow, Deceased. TO ALL PERSONS INTERESTED IN SAID ESTATE, BOTH CREDITORS AND HEIRS, take notice that William C. Looftbourrow has filed his Petition in said Court alleging that Martha J. Looftbourrow died intestate on or about September 25, 1934, being a resident and inhabitant of the City of Ord, Valley County, Nebraska, and the owner in fee of the North Half of Lots Five and Six, in Block Eighteen, in the Original Townsite of the City of Ord, Valley County, Nebraska.

Said Petition further alleges that Martha J. Looftbourrow left as her sole and only heirs at law William W. Looftbourrow, her husband; Esther G. Holman, a daughter; Bertha J. Dee, a daughter; Jessie L. Chatfield, a daughter; Cortney B. Looftbourrow, a son; and William C. Looftbourrow, a son, all of lawful age; that the Petitioner is a son and heir at law of the Deceased; that there is no Estate or inheritance tax assessable or due upon said Estate or inheritances.

Said Petition prays among other things that the allegations thereof be found true and further prays for a determination of the time of the death of said Decedent, a determination of the heirs of said Decedent, and the degree of kinship and the right of descent of the real property belonging to said Decedent; for a Decree barring all claims and demands against said Estate; that Decedent died intestate more than two years prior to the filing of said Petition; that no application has been made in the State of Nebraska for the appointment of an Administrator and said Estate has not been administered and no Administrator has been appointed in the State of Nebraska; that the heirs at law of said Decedent as named in said Petition shall be Decreed to have succeeded to the ownership in fee simple of the above described real estate and for such other and further relief as may be just and equitable.

Said matter has been set for hearing before this Court in the County Court Room in Ord, Nebraska, on the 23rd day of July, 1940, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Witness my hand and official seal this 1st day of July, 1940.

Two Mothers, Two Daughters, Taught This School

Joint Dist. No. 61, part in Valley county and part in Garfield county, has the unique distinction of having had two mothers and two daughters teach school there. They are: Mrs. J. L. Abernethy and her daughter Evelyn, now Mrs. George Howard, of Oakland, Calif., and Mrs. Elmer Hallock and her daughter, Miss Bonnadell Hallock. All these teachers were graduates of Ord high school.

Miss Mabel Anderson, now Mrs. Abernethy, taught this group three years, from 1902 to 1905. The names of the children are: Earl, Frank, Ellsworth, Forest, Bernace and Donald Ball, Glen and Hazel Holman, Lizzie and Charlie Moorman, George, Mildred and Dorothy Abernethy, May Ikenburg, Carl and Tony Asimus and Archie Ehtler. Ellsworth Ball is a member of the Valley county board, and Tony Asimus is mayor of Tonytown at O'Neill and a candidate for the unicameral from his district. The teacher is also in the group.

Miss Dora Smith, now Mrs. Hallock, taught these children two years, 1914 to 1916, and also the year 1917-18. In the group are: Florence, Kenneth, Gladys and Russell Jensen, Edward, Rudolph, Lydia and George Zablouill, Elva and Irma Preston, Raymond and Wilma Abernethy, Roy, Mary and Frank Mess, Harry and Harold Marshall, Edison and Oscar Staley, and Gerald and Arvin Dye.

Miss Evelyn Abernethy, now Mrs. Howard, taught these children two years, from 1933 to 1935. They are: Gerald Larsen, Annabelle McMinnis, Katherine Clement, Billy Miller, Will Zablouill and Eugene Holden.

Miss Bonnadell Hallock taught this group last year, and has been elected to teach again next year. They are: Mary Pierce, Patricia, Rita Marie and Cleo Ann Blankenfeld, Bobby Dye, Robert Meese, Eldon Larsen, Charles and Henry Kasson, and Miss Hallock.

'Thank You, My Friend'

By MARTHA K. DAVIS (McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

"I'M TERRIBLY sorry, Tom, but we are having the rector and his wife for dinner."

I doubtless looked my disappointment.

Stranded for a few hours in a western city, I had happily bumped into an old college chum, Jerry Bosworth, whom I hadn't seen in years.

Of course nothing would do but I must go to his home for dinner. "Judy will be mighty glad to see you," he said heartily, and remembering pretty Judith Bosworth, I experienced a pleasurable anticipation at the thought of meeting her again.

"It will have to be 'eat and run,'" I said. "My train leaves at eight forty and I simply have to make it."

I found Judith charming as ever and the thought of a few hours' visit with these old friends was decidedly gratifying.

Now—here was my hostess announcing the impending arrival of a boresome rector and his probably equally boresome wife.

"It's a perfect shame it happens this way," deplored Judith, "but you will enjoy meeting Nancy Rathburn, Tom. She isn't the ordinary 'rector's wife' at all. She is the most fascinating, interesting, delightful woman! Everyone adores her. How she ever happened to marry George Rathburn—I really, I do not believe she could stand him if it weren't for her little periods of escape. Every spring she spends a couple of months abroad. She comes back more beautiful than ever, fairly aglow with enthusiasm, and plunges heart and soul into parish work. The things that woman accomplishes! Why—last winter—"

Judith's dissertation was interrupted by the arrival of her guests.

The Reverend George Rathburn was all that my hostess had implied. Pompous—conceited—arrogant! But for all his bluster, he quickly faded into insignificance.

Beautiful, quiet, poised Nancy Rathburn! The way she moved—her voice—no, the secret lay in that expression in her eyes. What were those fathomless, dreamy eyes seeing? Surely not her pragmatical little husband, or anyone or anything in Judith's cozy apartment.

I was glad to be placed beside her at the table, but the smallness of the party forbade any intimate conversation.

It was during the salad course that I noticed the ring on the third finger of her right hand. A flower cluster of diamonds embedded in black onyx, surrounded by a wreath of dull gold.

"I was a fool for speaking. 'Your ring, Mrs. Rathburn—may I look at it? It reminds me of a ring a comrade of mine in the war—'"

Nancy Rathburn's white hand clenched.

"Ah—show him your ring, my dear," broke in the rector. "Perhaps he can tell you something about it. You see, Mr. Neeland, my wife picked up that ring at some pawnshop over in London. It has some kind of insignia woven in the wreath. Guess some of the nobility got hard up, but they'd have a difficult time trying to buy it back." He guffawed loudly. "Mrs. Rathburn thinks more of that ring than all the rest of her jewelry put together. Sort of talisman, you know. Show it to him, Nancy."

I took in mine the hand she slowly extended. The fingers were like ice.

And as I looked down, I saw again a trench—a khaki-clad man, whimsical, gay, untroubled by fear—heedless, cynical. "What does it matter, old man? Nothing can happen to me. It's all happened. You know—one of those arranged affairs. She doesn't give a damn whether or not I'm bit by a bloomin' shell. But there is a girl, Tommy lad! Oh, well—she's tied as tight as I."

There was a small piece chipped from the onyx.

I remembered about that. "By Jove—if I hadn't put up my hand, Tommy! Trust the 'House of Garland' to jolly well protect its sons of war!"

And then—convalescing in a hospital, Young Lord Garland—Dicky Garland calling frantically for—"Nan! Nan! Nan!"

Later—a firm hand-clasp. This ring cutting into my flesh. "Good-by, Tommy, old man! Jolly luck! Take good care of yourself."

I looked up. Nancy Rathburn's eyes were enormous and her under lip was caught tight between her teeth. She was holding her breath.

I said, "No, the ring this reminded me of was—quite different. In fact, on close inspection, this is not like it at all."

I had to leave directly after dinner. Nancy Rathburn stood beside her husband. As I shook hands with her conventionally, I caught a faint little whisper—"Thank you, my friend."

NORTH LOUP

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Barrett have sold their cafe and beer parlor to Gilbert Meyers and will take it over as soon as the necessary license can be secured. Mr. Barrett's health is not of the best and it seemed necessary for him to spend more time in the open air. They plan to go east to Illinois and Ohio and may locate if they find something to their liking.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill VanHorn and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. White returned Wednesday afternoon from Marshalltown, Ia. They spent Tuesday night in Hartley, Ia., with the George White family and stopped in Oakdale, Neb., on the way home to see Mrs. Daisy Clancy. The effects of the recent floods in the northeast part of the state is still evident, they say.

The Lightning Bugs, accompanied by their sponsor, Mrs. E. T. Babcock, enjoyed a picnic along the creek back of J. A. Barber's residence Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Daisy Clancy and granddaughter, Lavonne Hurselton, of Oakdale and Mr. and Mrs. Rob Clancy, daughter Marjorie and son Bobby, of Newman Grove and Mr. and Mrs. Frank White and Mrs. Alice VanHorn were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles White.

Mrs. Jennie Davis and Dena Lewis came over from North Platte Saturday. Mrs. Lewis returned Sunday but Mrs. Davis will spend the week here.

The A. L. Sims family went to Kearney the last of the week after Mrs. Sims' uncle, Will Fiss of DePere, Wis., Monday evening the Englebrecht family of Elba were guests at the Sim home and Mr. Fiss and Grace Sims accompanied them home.

The George Lint family of Ord spent Sunday evening at the A. L. Sims home.

At the meeting of the village board held Monday evening in the power-house the usual monthly bills were paid and the beer license applied for by Gilbert Meyers was granted.

The Townsend club held a picnic on the river east of town Monday night that was attended by a good crowd. Plenty of good things to eat and a social time made a pleasant evening.

A picnic supper held at the Ben Nelson home Friday night celebrated the wedding anniversary of the Nelsons, Frank and Will Schudels, the Schudels being guests.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hutchins were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Nelson.

The Kings Herald held the last meeting of the year in the basement of the Methodist church on Saturday afternoon. Fern Sims was chosen as the Life Membership member for outstanding work during the year. The lesson was a review of the interesting travels of the year. Promotion certificates were given to Fern Sims, Charlotte Jones, Wilma Portis and Dorothy White, all of whom become members of the Standard Bearers. The birthday table held a bouquet of small silk flags as a centerpiece and one of blue flowers on each end. Happy Birthday in alternate red and white letters on the white cloth completed the red, white and blue color scheme. Favors were life saver fire crackers.

The Young Ladies club and a number of guests held a picnic supper and wicker roast near the creek east of town Monday night. The library board held their meeting Monday night at the library. Members of the board have been tending the library for the past month and expect to for July. Frances Meyers is employed by the NYA part of the year but this month and last NYA funds are not available.

Dale Hawkes and Dean Redlon left on the Wednesday morning bus for Denver to spend the remainder of the summer with Dean's mother, Mrs. Reva Redlon.

AT THE SALE RING IN ORD SATURDAY, JULY 6 SALE STARTS AT 1:00 O'CLOCK

The consignments last Saturday were heavy. We had between 300 and 400 head of all classes of hogs. The market on all stock and the cattle especially was very good, but on the pig market it was slow due to feed conditions in this territory.

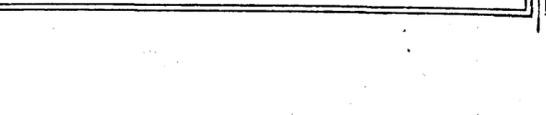

In next Saturday's sale it looks like 125 head of cattle of all classes.

150 head of all classes of hogs.

One encouraging thing about our market is that the buyers are still coming from a large radius for this stock as they know that it is fresh from the country.

Consign your stock here, not only help us but help yourself.

City in Blackout as Storm Hits Ord Monday Evening

High Wind Breaks Lines, All City Linemen Busy During Night Making Repairs.

One of the worst wind storms in recent years hit Ord shortly after 9 p. m. Monday, breaking light wires all over the city and keeping many of the citizens in darkness for varying periods of time.

The first intimation local men had of what was coming was when city manager George Allen was informed that a heavy storm was coming and that the city would be on its own for the night.

The city light plant started up at 8:05 p. m., and was still running at 9 a. m. Tuesday, at which time the power company had not yet been able to pick up the load because of the unusually heavy voltage, which indicated leaks along the transmission line.

Local trouble started to develop shortly after 9 p. m. and the first major break occurred at 10:10 p. m., at which time a large part of the city was plunged into darkness. After about 40 minutes search the break was located and repaired, but another break occurred almost immediately afterward.

George Allen stated Tuesday morning that three primary wires were burned off during the night and one house service line, that of Judge Clements. The Clements family was without service until about 8 a. m. Tuesday. In all cases the breaks were caused by tree limbs blowing against the wires.

Reports from St. Paul and farther east indicate that Ord escaped with much less damage than the cities in that territory, where the wind was high and rain fell in torrents. The rainfall in Ord, as reported by Horace Travis, was .32 of an inch.

Becker Bros. of Burwell report high wind there and .33 of an inch of rain. The light plant there was running all night also, and the lights were interrupted for a short time, but not as long as at Ord.

At North Loup the light service was also interrupted during the night, the wind being fully as severe as at Ord. The rain there was heavier, .60 of an inch being reported. Taylor reports .40 of an inch of rain.

Monday night's storm was preceded by one of the hottest days of the summer, in which the mercury stood officially at 99 degrees, according to Horace Travis, although the thermometer on the Milford building showed 101, probably due to the paving.

The wind apparently blew much harder in Mira Valley, where a number of windmills were out of commission and repair men were busy all day yesterday and will probably have work for several days to come. The rain appeared to have been lighter there, but no actual measurement was reported.

Bob Albers Dies of Mountain Fever

Following an illness of three weeks from an illness which he had contracted at Thermopolis, Wyo., Robert Dean Albers, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Albers, passed away Sunday morning. He was born in Ord, May 16, 1921, and was 19 years, 1 month and 21 days of age at the time of his death.

Robert attended the Ord public schools and was a member of the graduating class of 1939. He took an active part in athletics and was a member of the football team. He united with the Ord Presbyterian church several years ago.

After completing his school work he was in a CCC camp, later going to Thermopolis, Wyo., from which place he returned home ill. He is survived by his father and mother and one sister, Dorothy, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Albers and Mrs. A. Novak and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services, with Pearson and Anderson in charge of arrangements, were held Tuesday afternoon from the Ord Methodist church, with Rev. G. C. Roberson in charge. Mrs. Mark Telen, Mrs. E. O. Carlson, Robert Noll and J. R. Stoltz sang, with Mrs. Noll at the piano. The pallbearers were Donald Dahlin, Donald Severson, Harold Christensen, Kendall Wegardt, Charles Keown and Gerald Hatfield. Burial was in the Ord cemetery.

Leases Sinclair Station
A. C. Larsen has leased the Sinclair station at the northeast corner of the square, operated for the past two years by Forrest Watson, and took charge last week. Mr. Watson will continue to operate his truck line.

Arcadia, No. Loup, Both Smaller Now

Census figures released last week show that two Valley county villages, North Loup and Arcadia, lost in population in the 10-year period from 1930 to 1940. Population of Arcadia now is 663, a loss of 43 from the 1930 total of 711, while North Loup lost 60, having 397 now as compared with 457 ten years ago. Census figures for Valley county have not yet been released, though a considerable loss is expected.

Supervisors Ask City to Help on Lawn, Rest Rooms

No Funds Available to Keep Them Up, Council Told By County Board.

At a joint meeting of the Ord city council and the Valley county board of supervisors held Tuesday, the city of Ord was asked to furnish water free for the court house lawn and also to help financially in keeping rest rooms in the court house open evenings and Sundays. The county does not have sufficient funds to carry the load alone, councilmen were told.

Water for the lawn would cost $112 for the season, supervisors said, but this is subject to Ord's discount of 33 1-3 per cent, now in effect, which would bring cost down to $85. Mayor M. B. Cummings, speaking as an individual, said he does not favor giving the county free water but if an application is made in official manner will not object to giving the county a 50 per cent discount in water rates.

It costs approximately $1,600 a year for upkeep of the rest rooms supervisors told councilmen, and they feel that to save expense these rest rooms should be closed at 5 o'clock when court house offices are closed. When kept open after that hour, they benefit citizens of Ord and patrons of the Ord stores rather than court house employees, the supervisors pointed out, and they feel a part of the cost should be paid by the city.

No action was taken at the meeting but Mayor Cummings stated today that he does not personally favor the city standing a share of county rest room expense. The matter probably will be discussed at the next council meeting.

Loup County Rapist Sentenced Wednesday

Wednesday Sheriff George Brock and County Attorney Bert Alder of Loup county brought Jim Harvey to Ord, where he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of statutory rape before Judge E. P. Clements. The judge imposed a sentence of five years in the state penitentiary.

Harvey has served sentence twice before, once when he stole a car belonging to Raymond Christensen of Ord, and other time on a charge of bigamy. Sheriff Brock and Mr. Alder took him at once to Lancaster to begin serving his sentence.

Free Movies Sponsored by Elyria Merchants

Elyria—(Special)—Merchants of this village sponsored a free out-of-doors moving picture show on the streets here Friday evening, with a huge crowd present. So popular was the offering that merchants plan to make it a regular weekly affair during the summer months.

Ehret Installed As New Pastor of No. Loup Church

Comes from Alfred, N. Y., to Fill Pulpit Vacant Since C. L. Hill Resigned.

North Loup—(Special)—Rev. A. Clyde Ehret, formerly of Alfred, N. Y., was installed as pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church at a fitting service held at the regular hour Sabbath morning. Arthur Stillman acted as master of ceremonies and special music had been arranged for the occasion. Rev. J. A. Adams spoke in behalf of the other churches of the village and the community. Cecil Severson gave the welcome from the Sabbath school, Mrs. A. H. Babcock for the choir, Menzo Fuller for the choir, Menzo Shaw Missionary society and the Women's Missionary society were represented by Mrs. R. O. Babcock and Mrs. Mary R. Davis.

R. O. Babcock welcomed Rev. and Mrs. Ehret to the church and extended the right hand of fellowship to them. Letters commending them for membership had been previously read from the Alfred and New York, N. Y., branches. Rev. Ehret then spoke briefly of his hopes for the work here. He visited North Loup in 1910 and again in 1923 and has always had a desire to return. He has served the Alfred church for twenty years. Mr. and Mrs. Ehret were married in the Judson memorial church at New York City June 25, and left soon after for Nebraska. She was formerly Miss Esther Mildred Ward. They arrived in North Loup Wednesday afternoon and are staying in the parsonage which had been made ready for them. Their goods are coming through by van and have not arrived as yet.

Rev. Ehret's daughter, Miss Ogareta Ehret, was also voted a member of the North Loup church at the service and she expects to be here later the summer. She graduated from Alfred University in June. The Ehrets take the place of Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Hill, who went to Farina, Ill., last November. The church has been without a pastor since that time and has carried on alone.

Golf Picnics Thursdays
It has been decided definitely to hold the weekly golf picnics on Thursdays throughout the summer. Play will start at 6 p. m., the ladies playing in foursomes with the men playing ahead.

Perfect weather and a large crowd greeted the band on the eve of the Fourth of July, which is a tribute to the efforts Mr. Deines is putting forth to make the concerts pleasing in every respect.

Dobrovsky Brothers Begin Work With New Thresher

Above is shown the first threshing done in Valle county in 1940. The work is being done with the new machine Dobrovsky Brothers bought recently through Aulsebrook. The grain is barley on the Joe Penas farm one mile south of Ord. The quality was good, but the yield was only 6 bushels per acre on a 30 acre field. Mr. Penas also has about 20 acres of oats which should make 10 bushels per acre.

Willkie Will Be Strong Candidate for Presidency, Is Impression of Two Ord Attorneys Who Attended the Republican National Convention

Clarence M. Davis, delegate, and John P. Misko, alternate delegate to the republican national convention, returned to Ord the past week after a most interesting experience in Philadelphia. This was Mr. Misko's first experience of the kind, but Mr. Davis was present as an alternate in 1934, when Coolidge and Dawes were the nominees, and was a delegate in 1932, when Hoover and Curtis were nominated.

Mr. Davis took his wife and daughters, Virginia and Beverly, with him and the family left Ord Sunday, June 16. They stopped in Lincoln and visited the Hitchman family and Mrs. J. P. Barta, while the girls attended Sunday school. The next stop of interest was at the Gettysburg cemetery, where they saw the place where President Lincoln delivered his immortal address.

From there they went to Washington, D. C., where they saw Mount Vernon, Arlington cemetery, the Lincoln and Washington monuments, the Congressional library and the Capitol. They saw the United States senate in action. They were arguing the question of the sale of our war equipment to England. They saw Senator Taft there and were at the offices of Senators Burke and Vandenberg. They also had a visit with the Alex Long family.

They went to Philadelphia Saturday, June 22, just two days ahead of the opening of the convention. Among the dignitaries they met were: Wendell Willkie, and son, Senator Robert Taft and wife, Senator Arthur Vandenberg, his son, his daughters and their husbands, Senator Styles Bridges, Governor James of Pennsylvania, Hanford McNider of Iowa, Thomas Dewey, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Alfred Landon, Frank Gannett, Bruce Barton, Boake Carter, Lowell Thomas and former vice-president Charles Dawes. Also the following noted Nebraskans: Hugh Butler, Dwight Griswold, Ted Metcalfe, Jimmy Lawrence and dozens of others. The delegates heard the liberty bell struck with a teatime hammer for their special benefit, and the sound carried by radio all over the country.

Both Mr. Davis and Mr. Misko agree that a national convention is the "greatest show on earth," far surpassing anything that Barnum ever dreamed of. The convention hall, when full, will hold about as many people as live in

Mrs. Dudschus Funeral To Be Held Thursday

Mrs. Amelia Dudschus, former resident of Ord and Burwell, died Sunday at her home in Coffeyville, Kan. The body is being shipped to Ord, and will arrive over the Union Pacific this afternoon at 5:15. The body will be taken to the Pearson and Anderson chapel, where the funeral will be held tomorrow at 2:00 p. m. Burial will be made in the Ord cemetery. A more complete story of her life will appear in next week's Quiz.

A. Urbanovsky Plays Accordion at Concert

One of the most pleasing specialties presented at the weekly band concerts was the accordion playing of Adolph Urbanovsky last Wednesday evening. He played three selections, but his hearers were not satisfied until he had played the "Deer Barrel Polka" as an encore.

Perfect weather and a large crowd greeted the band on the eve of the Fourth of July, which is a tribute to the efforts Mr. Deines is putting forth to make the concerts pleasing in every respect.

Some of the souvenirs distributed to delegates to the republican national convention at Philadelphia, brought back to Ord by Clarence M. Davis, are pictured above.

Custer County Shows Population Decrease

In spite of the fact that Broken Bow made an outstanding increase in population over the past decade, Custer county shows the biggest decrease in population of any county in Nebraska yet reported, with only nine counties, including Valley, yet to report.

The Custer county report showed a total of 22,397, which is a loss of 3,792 over the 1930 figure of 26,189. The county thus lost more than the total population of Broken Bow. The total loss in Nebraska, 84 counties reported, is 55,645.

Irrigate Now Is Advice of Farm Office

Many questions regarding the irrigation of corn are asked of the county agent, and since corn is at present our biggest crop under irrigation, it is important that it be given proper attention, if the returns are to justify the extra labor and expense.

Some people have the idea that corn cannot be irrigated before it "shoots." There is no basis for this belief and farmers who wait may find their crop is "shot" before it reaches that stage.

Corn fields which were not irrigated last fall or this spring should receive water just as soon as possible now in order to permit the plants to develop a full root system. It is now that the root system is trying to develop and grow but it cannot do it in a dry subsoil. Spring or fall irrigated fields which have a reserve of moisture down to a depth of four or five feet are not in immediate need of water but the fields which have no moisture in reserve except that from rains of a month ago need water now. Good crops can be produced only from strong vigorous plants and the plant is no better than its root system. A good thorough soaking should be given to dry fields, but in fields with a reserve supply of subsoil moisture, lighter and more frequent applications of water will result in bigger crop yields.

Demonstration Day.
July 23 is Demonstration Day for Valley county 4-H clubs. This day will give club members a chance to present their demonstrations before 4-H club specialists from the Agricultural extension service and receive the benefit of suggestions for improving the demonstrations before they are presented at fairs this fall.

The Demonstration Day is not a contest, but merely an opportunity for club demonstration teams to practice and improve their work with the assistance of competent judges. Each club which enters a team will be assigned a definite time for presenting their demonstration. This affair will be held at Ord at a place to be announced later.

Sunday evening guests at the Jerry Petska home were Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kokes and Jeanette, and Mr. and Mrs. Darrel McOstrich and Carol Ann.

Will Sevensker Is Suicide; Body Was Discovered Monday

Used Shotgun to Take His Life, Probably Upon National Holiday.

Unusual quiet prevailing at the Will Sevensker place, as well as a noticeable odor emanating from the house, caused Jay Hackett to report his suspicions Monday morning that all was not well there. Sheriff George Round went to the house to east Ord and, failing to receive any answer to his calls or pounding on the door, returned for Marshal Len Covert.

The two men decided to take out a window to gain entrance to the house and when they did so, the stench from within was overpowering. Covert went inside and discovered Sevensker's body in a terrible state of decomposition. Acting Coroner John Misko and County Physician John Round were next sent for, and it was decided that the man had met death by his own hand, a 12 gauge shot gun being used to fire a charge into his chest, probably late July 4 or the following morning.

Because of the condition of the body no regular funeral could be held, and the remains were placed in a pine box and taken to the cemetery, where a brief commitment service was read by Rev. C. C. Roberson. Mr. Sevensker had lived alone for many years, and for a long time had imagined that the boys were entering his house, disturbing his goats and damaging his garden. This is believed to have caused his rash act.

William Sevensker was born at Monticello, Ia., Dec. 15, 1871, and was in his 68th year at the time of his death. He was the youngest of four brothers and there were also three sisters in the family. He never married. The family came to Saline county, Nebr., in 1877, and three years later moved to Red Willow county at a time when there was neither railroad nor town in that section of the state.

Later they moved into Hayes county, and in 1902 moved to Valley county. First Mr. Sevensker lived in Ord, then farmed in the sand flats for a few years, moving back to Ord and taking care of his mother until her death in 1918. He then went to Denver and made his home with his two sisters there until they died. Since then he made his home in Ord.

He leaves to mourn his passing his brother John W. Sevensker, the only member of the original family still living. Mrs. Sevensker and their three children, Adolph, Emanuel and Mrs. Stella Schelk, of Wilber; Mrs. Frank Sevensker, and her children, Frank, Jr., Edward and Mrs. George Hlavinka; also a large number of sincere friends.

Comstock Man Died from Car Accident On July 4

Al Moore, resident of Comstock, died at the Lou Chapman home in Sargent Saturday at 2 p. m. of injuries suffered in an auto wreck on the afternoon of July 4. He was driving north on highway 83 and drove into a huge cement post 3 miles south of Taylor.

His throat was badly lacerated and he suffered a brain concussion, the direct cause of his death. Donald Comstock of Comstock, who was with him, was only slightly bruised. They were taken to Sargent by Highway Patrolman Zink.

Mr. Moore was a ditch rider on Canal No. 1 out of Comstock. He is survived by his wife and five children, who were visiting relatives in the Black Hills region at the time of the accident.

3 Ord Teachers Resign, Will Teach Elsewhere

All of Ord's last year teachers with the exception of Coach H. F. Brockman were re-elected for the coming year, but since the first of July three have handed in their resignations.

Miss Mary Kay Risser, who taught English and foreign languages here last year, will go to North Platte. Miss Risser's home is at Salina, Kan. Frank Lee, assistant coach in Ord for the past four years, has accepted a position as head coach of the Plainview high school. E. R. Bridgeford, who was junior high coach at Ord last year and who also taught science, has resigned to become principal of the Valparaiso high school.

Ralph W. Norman, secretary of the Ord school board, says that the board will meet to elect successors to these teachers as soon as a list of available teachers is lined up. Strangely enough the resignation of Lee and Bridgeford will mean an entirely new coaching staff for Ord next year.

Greathouse Appointed.
Leonard Greathouse, who was a star in athletics while attending Peru Normal from which he was graduated in June, has been elected head coach in the Newman Grove schools for the coming term. He is an Ord high school graduate.

MAN OF THE PEOPLE

In 1912, just 28 years ago, a man whose initials were W. W. ran for the office of president of the United States. He was conceded to be a capable man, but even his friends questioned at first his ability to attract enough votes to win. But Woodrow Wilson went on to win, largely through the help given him by his chief opponent, Theodore Roosevelt.

Roosevelt the first was a man of ability in many fields, and had served the people of the United States as its president for 7 1/2 years. Because he had not been elected president twice, he thought the people would elect him again, so he ran on the Bull Moose ticket and ran second to the man he wished to defeat, Woodrow Wilson.

This year history is repeating itself. Once more a man whose initials are W. W. is a candidate for the office of president. He will be opposed either by Roosevelt the second or by a man whom he selects to carry the banner of the New Deal party in the coming campaign. It is highly probable that Roosevelt will decide to run for a third term.

If he does his effort to violate a tradition of the people of the United States will meet with defeat. Like Roosevelt the first, he is still popular with a certain class of people, but their numbers are not sufficient to win him the election. Like Teddy, he is opposed by a man who has caught the fancy of the people.

Wendell Willkie is a man of the people in every sense of the word. First, more than 90% of the people are Common People, and Willkie is one of the common people. He was born in a little Indiana town, of poor parents, and lived the life of the average American through the formative period of his existence.

The thing that appeals to Americans, both old and young, is the fact that a man may develop this life from such a beginning until in middle age he can hold the big position as head of one of the utility companies of the United States. Such a raise in life appeals to the imagination and requires remarkable ability.

In keeping with the character of the man is the fact that in less than sixty days he came from nowhere in the race for the republican presidential nomination and won over men who had been prominently mentioned for months before the convention convened. Nobody heard of Wendell Willkie as a candidate for president May 1, and yet very few heard of him June 1.

And yet before the first of July he was the unanimous choice of the delegates and every faction of the party is united behind him for the campaign. The steady growth of the Willkie vote during the balloting at the convention was a just tribute to his growing popularity. All through the convention the galleries were shouting for Willkie.

How Willkie stands with the laboring man is attested by the fact that both groups of labor unions are favorable to him. Polls in farming districts are showing that Willkie is preferred by the majority over any candidate that the democrats might name, and this even before the convention has met. Man on the street broadcasts are showing a strong trend toward Willkie.

The average voter wants to vote for a man who has risen from the ranks and by honesty, perseverance and outstanding ability has reached the heights. In other words, the average man wants to elect a man who has done the thing that he himself has always longed to do. He wants to vote for a man who can give this nation something that it has not had in the past eight years, a capable business administration by a capable man.

For months this office and every other newspaper office in the United States was flooded with literature of all kinds boasting Taft, Dewey, Vandenberg, Gannett, and others who were candidates for the republican nomination for president, but in all that stack of material there was not a single pamphlet boosting Willkie.

Even today the only material we have giving the qualifications of this remarkable man is that to be found in the columns of newspapers. Mats of the leading contenders were sent to the Quiz months ago, but today we could not print a picture of Willkie because we have none. Nothing like this ever occurred before in the history of journalism.

Luckily his picture in the Quiz is not essential to his success. Those who want to know what he looks like may find plenty of his pictures in all the leading magazines and daily newspapers. The story of his life is being printed all over the country. And in their minds and hearts the great American public is cherishing the picture and the story of the small town boy who made good.

My Own Column
By H. D. Leggett

Dear Quiz Readers:
I had several good reasons for not writing to you last week. One was that news was scarce here in the colony, though it has pepped up a lot since. Another was that I knew Eugene was planning to get out early and I thought he might be crowded for space and that would be more of a nuisance than of interest.

But as I say, things have pepped up since last week. The Feuners arrived, bringing with them Miss Betty Horner who is assisting Mrs. Feuner with the arduous housework, and still finds time to swim, fish, sleep and have a good time. Then the C. A. Anderson family drove in, Mrs. Anderson, Cora Lee and Tommie, with Loreta May Achen to assist in caring for the children. Mr. Anderson, up to his eyes with car and harvester machinery sales, was unable to leave so he got Dean Barta to drive his family up. Dean stayed over a day, fished a little and slept some and took a good rest, then returned to Ord. This place was not new to him, as he was with his people when they visited here last season, and he was glad of an opportunity to return if for only a day or two. Shirley Beth Anderson came with us when we came in May, but the addition of the two other Anderson kids sure did pep things up. Then early Wednesday morning, at 6 o'clock to be exact, Eugene drove in with his family and with the addition of Kerry and Ted things broke loose in real earnest and so far they have stayed broke. I don't look for any great quieting down till along toward the first of September. The Leggetts brought Miss Christine Peterson to assist in keeping Kerry and Ted and of course the two girls assist Minnie with the housework. That makes a total of fifteen in our family.

Eugene stayed only till Sunday morning when he returned to Ord to direct the destinies of the Quiz office for the next couple of weeks. Then he will return to take his vacation and I will come home to sort of look after things while he is away and tell a few fish stories to Theron and Charley Brickner.

We have a long table in the large living room. Or, rather, two tables. They are covered with bright red oilcloth and when we get fifteen places set, with the Anderson kids at one end of the table and the Leggett hopefuls at the other end, all yelling for fish or bacon or eggs or pancakes, or baked beans, as the menu that day may require, believe me it is a sight for sore eyes and Grandma and Grandpa are hoping the scene may be repeated for a long time. Sometimes we even have visions of seeing the time when there will be fifteen or twenty great grandchildren also clamoring for food, but if and when that time will have to be provided and this 22-foot by 12-foot room will have to be widened out some and the Lord only knows where they will all sleep. We may be able to hang them on pegs around the wall to sleep. And grandma and yours truly are both going to celebrate our 69th birthdays this summer, we may even not be here when that happy day with the great grandchildren comes.

You might wonder how and where we all sleep but really none of us have to lay on the floor. The Missus and I have a bed on the front porch and Kerry also sleeps there on the porch swing. Flora and Tom and the five girls all sleep up stairs. Eugene and Mrs. Burke have the two down stairs bedrooms. At present we have a Chicago family in the former Clements cottage, but they will leave the end of this week and then Flora and Irma and their families are going to move over there and have that house to themselves for the balance of their stay.

What do we do and what do we eat? Well, we go fishing and plan on having fish for dinner about every other day. I dressed 35 bluegills for dinner today but Minnie who is the official fish fryer, rebelled when she had cooked 30 of them and said she thought she had enough. Really it was a magnificent platter of fish and as I was looking for a chance to bawl her out for not cooking all the fish I had cleaned, I kept track and was much disappointed when there were two fish left. I still claim we are skating on thin ice, to come that close to the number with 15 people eating fish.

We have a generous supply of bacon and ham sent up by Otto Pecunia by Eugene; the finest scarlet gum strawberries can be had in abundance for from 3 boxes for a quarter to 15 cents a box, depending on where we buy them and on the supply in sight on the day they are bought. We get 5 quarts of milk a day from Mrs. Wallin and I heard them say tonight, when one of the kids called for more milk, that the supply was gone so I guess it means another bottle each evening. We also get fine fresh eggs from Mrs. Wallin; the Missus is an expert at making pancakes and Minnie can't be beat baking them. Shirley ate 5 of them one morning but when we started kidding her about getting a double chin she quit eating so many.

There are some Des Moines people in the Mackowsky cottage at the south end of camp. Ed and Myrtle Mickalek were here for a few days but had to rent another cottage as theirs was already rented to some people from Chicago. The Humphreys are here from Clarinda, Ia., in their cottage, the former John Keown cottage. Dr. and Mrs. Gelow arrived the 3rd from Grand Island and have been entertaining relatives from Indiana the past couple of days. The Simpsons are to arrive tomorrow according to a letter received by Mrs. Luther.

No fishing is not what I call good. The Missus, Eugene and I went out on this lake this forenoon and caught 35 nice bluegills and were only gone a little over an hour and went a mile down the lake. This morning Eugene and I got up at 4 o'clock and went after bass but the wind came up strong and made it hard to fish the rushes as we had planned and we only got three bass. Eugene caught a 6 pound northern and we had a nice catch of bluegills and rock bass and were in for breakfast at 8 o'clock. This is being written Saturday evening and Eugene and Irma have gone out for "dinner" they called it but we had supper at home. It has been quite warm today and we have been in swimming several times, at least the kids have. I was only in once.

MEDICAL FACTS

Sponsored by 4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

This is the time of year when we are most likely to have some form of food poisoning, though troubles of this kind may happen at any season. The term, "food poisoning" covers a great deal of ground, as one may say. It is a general term for a number of kinds of poisoning resulting from things people eat.

One type of food poisoning is due to a substance normally present in the substance eaten; for example, poisonous mushrooms. Of course one does not eat these except by mistake. This mistake is made by a few people every year. They gather mushrooms believing they know the edible ones from those which are harmful, and find out, too late, that they have made a mistake. Another example of this kind of food poison is found in certain fish. These particular fish have the poison in them as a part of their normal body chemistry but when a person eats the fish it will kill him within an hour.

Another interesting kind of food poisoning is that passed on to man by insects or animals which have eaten some harmful substance. Bees, for example, may feed on plants which make their honey poisonous. In some regions, game birds, especially the grouse or partridge, eat poisonous berries at certain seasons. At these times their meat is poisonous to man.

In parts of the country where white snake root grows, cattle will eat it. This causes a disease called "trembles." If the milk from the cows, ill with the trembles, is taken by man, it makes him sick. In from two to ten days after drinking the milk he develops a disease known as "milk sickness" in which he has lassitude, sleepiness, dull pain in the legs, distress in the abdomen, nausea and, in the more severe cases, convulsions, delirium, deep sleep from which he cannot be aroused, and death. About 10% of those sick enough to call a physician die of this.

Even plants may acquire poisonous properties at times. An example is a parasite growing on grains commonly used in making bread, especially rye. This is a kind of mold known as "ergot." Eating bread containing much of this parasitic plant growth may cause gangrene of the fingers and toes. Meal made of grains mixed with certain weeds, commonly called chick-peas, will, when eaten by man, produce a stiff paralysis chiefly of the legs. Animals may be similarly affected by eating these peas. Even our old friend, the potato, contains a very small amount of poison known as solanine. Usually this is present in such a small amount that it causes no effect when eaten, but under certain circumstances, two kinds of germs will increase the amount of solanine to the point of becoming poisonous to those who eat the infected potato. This seems to happen when the potato grows partially uncovered by dirt and when sprouting has occurred during storage.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD.
Skippy, the little dog at the C. A. Anderson home, is broken-hearted now since Cora Lee has gone to Cullen Lake with the folks to fish. He spends practically all his time moping on the porch and watching in hope his little playmate will appear. Who says dogs aren't human?

Saturday evening before the 4th Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Hardenbrook drove to Ericson to catch some frogs. They saw a couple of fellows there, one of whom claimed to be a game warden. The other man told them that it was out of season for catching frogs, so they came back home. Funny part of it is that there is no closed season on frogs.

Friday Harry James McBeth down to the Patchen pond. Some of the boys were swimming there with their suits on. Harry didn't have a suit, but he decided to take a chance in September morn style. After swimming a while he got out on the bank and buried himself in the sand, and then twenty ladies came along and Harry had to stay there for two hours until they went away.

Saw Frank Clark and Mrs. Archie Shafer of way north of Burwell riding around the square together. Threatened to put it in the Quiz, and Frank dared us to, so here it is.

Mrs. Forrest Johnson and Miss Norene Hardenbrook drove to Lincoln Sunday evening, returning home Monday evening.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

The Prelude
Whether We Like It Or Not

The Prelude
At a gathering of men the other day, a wild discussion arose over the merits of the republican nominee Wendell Willkie. Although all ways having been a republican, I also, for many years have been a believer in some of the principles of socialism. On some points I expressed the opinion that I would like to know a few more of the candidate's views. The fact that he was backed by Wall street and the head of a public utility (a dealer in a take-it-or-go-without product) would make one wonder if he was really for the common herd, or working for the chosen few who have.

Finally it was agreed that I dare not write my views for this column and it was also agreed by the others, if I did and the Quiz printed them, it would cause more arguments than anything I had ever written.

If the following is not printed, you'll know I was too wild.
Whether We Like It Or Not
Whether we like it or not, the trend the world over is in the direction of socialism or toward socialistic theories. That is the hue and cry behind the present war in Europe; that is what put Hitler in office; and Stalin too; and is the pushing motive behind the fighters. Hitler cries that the Germans want a place under the sun; the poor masses want something to eat, something to do to earn their way. Hitler says he is fighting the plutocrats, the capitalist system built up throughout the ages, and the worst (or some might say the best) part of it all is, he has been winning every place he goes. It is a war between the haves and have nots.

Whether we like it or not, we have these same trends and theories working out in United States, only as yet, without much bloodshed. The last administration has taken a big step in that direction, and whether we like it or not, many think it was inevitable and better that way than by war or dictatorship as in Germany.

Our Soil Conservation is only a scheme to help a class of our people who were woefully going without. The W. P. A. was a scheme to help the have nots. The same may be said of the old age pension, the grants and the relief measures of all forms. It is all a trend toward taking from those that have and helping those that have not. The "Rehab" program and Government seed loans simply help men who cannot get funds at private places and the same may be said of the H. O. L. C. Social Security, aid for college students, N. Y. A. are movements toward helping those who are not able to help themselves, and are highly socialistic in theory. Income and inheritance taxes are fundamentally socialistic.

But at that here in America (where we have the best land on earth beyond question) we are far from perfect. We have a race of people (Americans too), the negroes, who are dreadfully downtrodden. They are the first fired and the last hired in a country where there are ten million unemployed. We have a few men owning and controlling millions of dollars of property, landlords owning tracts of land larger than some states, and whether these things are legally right or not, they are the very things that causes dictators, wars, strikes, revolutions, "fifth columns" and all manner of trouble.

We have a situation right here in our own section that is acute. I knew a man recently who has been trying to keep his family on a dollar a day and he was sick besides. When he failed to pay his rent for one month he was ordered to move and then no one would rent him a house. As yet the sheriff has not set him in the street as the law provides to property owners, and perhaps this too, is a trend toward helping the poor.

This is only one case of the dozens that can be told. A visit with Mr. Kruml will show that the poor in this county are appealing and the county has helped until the funds are gone and the taxpayers yelling. The Mary Lane column in the World Herald almost every day has a tale of the poor; people by the hundreds who walk the streets for days looking for work but cannot find it; looking for a place under the sun as Hitler so aptly puts it.

The question of hiring and firing too, is tragic in this country, and is too big for this paragraph, but the control of one man over employees, of his whim over whether families shall eat or not is another thing that causes strikes and bloodshed and dictators. Someday I may write a whole piece telling how the labor unions of the railroads have handled this situation and if you recall, there has been no strikes on the R. R.'s for a long time. Recently I was told of a W. P. A. man being fired, or laid off, and was requested to write it up. He was from a relief organization fired to starve or go on direct relief, which is exhausted.

We live in a land where we pride ourselves in settling our difficulties around the conference tables in place of force and revolution and here is a problem that must be settled or another Hitler or Stalin may come along and take charge. We class ourselves among those that have, must concede to the theory of live and let live, to the theory of one for all, all for one, of the theory that is so falsely spoken that "all men are created equal," that all of us, rich or poor, well or sick, smart or dumb, have a place under our American sun and a right to eat, to have a home, to be warm, to have medicine for our sick and education of our children.

This is not idle fantasy. Only this morning as I sit here the radio reports Tunney as making a speech saying there would be a revolution in America in less than five years. It is not dictators who make revolutions and wars; it is the situations and minds of the people who make it possible for dictators to get their hold and make war.

And the hell of it all is, although just grievances are usually the means by which dictators get their holds, frequently after bloodshed, revolution, war and redistribution of wealth, in the end, these same people may be worse than before.

One man (60 years old) not long ago told me that all his life until the last ten years he had been a Socialist. Since he had gotten hold of some property of his own he had changed his beliefs, or at least, he said, he had changed his talk. Another man, a little younger also said to me lately, "All my life I have been a hater of Socialism or any trend in that direction. Late years, since I have lost my property (some of it inherited) I have changed my views. I am now seeing things differently."

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Springfield, Oregon
The Ord Quiz:
Ord, Nebr.
As my subscription to the Quiz expires I wish to take advantage of your special offer.
I came out to Oregon this spring to live and I sure feel thankful that I took the opportunity.

Springfield Ore. is increasing in population since the starting of several new mills.
They have a new plywood plant that will open the middle of July. This building covers four acres of ground. The Roseboro Lumber mill opened up the first of June. The opening of these mills has brought a number of men from Washington and Arkansas, besides other states for employment. The Booth-Kelly Saw Mill is the oldest mill in Springfield which employs 150 men. It is very interesting to see how they saw up the big logs and get such nice lumber. The four trees are large and very beautiful on the sides of the mountains. This wood makes nice clean fuel to burn. They do not raise very much corn here.

There will be a big peach crop this year. In the home where I work they have several kinds of fruit trees including cherry, apple, peach, plum, prune and English walnuts. Strawberries have been five cents a box and youngberries and logan berries have been $1.00 at a crate. It is sure nice to have all the fresh fruit a person wants to eat.

We are having nice weather. There are many beautiful places to see. The highway along the ocean is a beautiful drive and it is so nice and cool. The summit on the McKenzie pass and the Lava Beds are also a pretty scene to see.
Springfield is only four miles from Eugene. The only thing I don't like in Oregon is the parking meters. There are several different types of meters. One to put in a nickel to park an hour. Another to put in a penny to park fifteen minutes and they have parking lots ten cents to park all day. If a person fails to get back to his car when the time is up it costs them a dollar.
Springfield recently had an Industrial celebration in honor of the new industries of Springfield. They had a Queen and she and her three attendants rode the big elephant belonging to the Coe Bros. circus. The parade was several miles long.
My aunt from Aurora, Nebr., who has been visiting her daughter in San Francisco, Calif., came to Eugene to visit her son and his wife. They came to visit with me. There are a lot of Nebraska people living in Oregon.

Yours truly,
Miss Wanda Tucker
Springfield, Ore.

TURN-TEX SILK HOSE

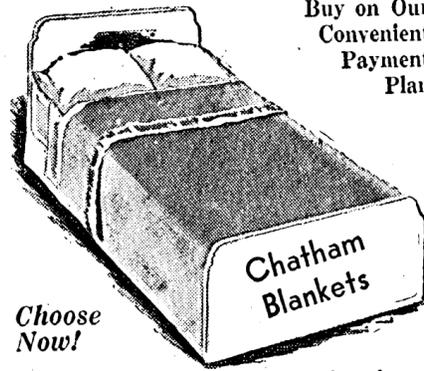

Actually knit inside-out! The soft, smooth but of one stocking is on the outside—where it belongs. Glamorously dull, bringing out the nature-tones of your skin, seams smooth and finished. "Sheer as mist" look, yet a sturdier, hand-somer, run-resisting stocking that makes legs look slimmer. Ringless, pure silk, in subtle new shades.

Willkie Will Be Strong Candidate

the city of Grand Island. From the very start the sentiment in the galleries was all for Willkie. Television pictures of the convention were taken and shown in an adjoining hall.

The following phrases describe Mr. Davis' impressions of Mr. Willkie: "Tall man, short neck, stooped a little, heavy set, eyes slightly squinty, a big head of more or less uncombed wavy hair, a business man who made a success, who came from the ordinary run of immigrant families; he was more surprised at his own nomination than was anybody else."

"He is no Beau Brummell, but makes people like him; talks forcefully and to the point; a small town man, 48 years of age; gives the impression of being somewhat older; his wife and son take the background, overwhelmed by publicity; very popular with his office associates."

"He promised the Nebraska delegation that he would spend an extra amount of time in Nebraska; while he is a power company man, he believes in and talks for strict regulation of power companies; the total expense of his personal campaign was less than $5,000; he has caught the popular fancy and will sweep the country like a prairie fire; the people believe that they are going to get business in government."

It was a source of wonder to the other delegations that a town the size of Ord should have two delegates, while all the other Nebraska delegates came from the larger cities. Davis explained it to them by saying that the states of Maine and Vermont and the county of Valley in Nebraska had all gone republican in 1936.

Mr. Davis voted for Dewey, as pledged, the first two ballots and then switched to Taft for the next three. The ballot before the vote was made unanimous for Willkie stood, Taft 6 and Willkie 8. Mr. Misko did the voting for vice-president, McNary being nominated over Short of Missouri on the first ballot. He had the honor of collecting the ballots of the Nebraska delegation and announcing the result.

McNary symbolizes the man who has worked hardest to solve the farm problem. He is co-author of the several McNary-Haugen bills, and for this reason should appeal especially to the farm vote.

It would be impossible to describe the enthusiasm of the huge crowd, yelling at the top of their voices on every possible occasion say Davis and Misko. Each candidate for the nomination had his own delegation and they were busy handing out souvenirs of all kinds boosting their candidate. The Ord men brought a number of these home, a collection of which is shown in the photograph accompanying this story.

The Davis family went to the New York fair following the convention. It would take 30 days to really look the fair over, as it covers ten quarter sections of land. Compared with it the Chicago fair would be just another county fair. They were there and got away again before the bomb explosion. They saw the play "Tobacco Road" which has been running continuously for seven years, an all-time record.

They drove to Niagara Falls, crossed into Canada and spent the night in Niagara Falls, Ont. Passport regulations had been put into effect the day before they crossed the border. In Ontario they saw farmers raising tobacco, starting the plants in large greenhouses. They also saw large numbers of soldiers. They visited Detroit and had their car damaged in an accident in Dearborn, but not seriously.

Mr. Misko left later than the Davis family, going by train and arriving at convention hall at 8 p. m. June 23. The Nebraska men were quartered in Hotel Normandie, about four blocks from convention hall. The thing that impressed him most was the crying need of leadership, which Willkie seemed to supply. Misko summed up his opinion of Willkie in three significant words: "He talked sense."

The most interesting event, perhaps, was the strike of employees at Hotel Normandie, which was on when he arrived. The strikers were picketing the front door and cats would unload their passengers on the opposite side of the street. The hotel was soon short of milk and ice, and conditions were getting bad when the strike was finally settled on Wednesday. It was a most unusual experience for men from Nebraska.

Misko was lucky in his first attendance at a convention, as Hugh R. Brown, chairman of the delegation, took a fancy to him, and through his influence he got to see many things which he would not have seen otherwise. At the close of the convention he also went to the New York fair for a short visit.

Something Different

Certain kinds of stories always fascinate me; for instance, I am rarely bored by stories of food. Then I like to read about children and animals, and colorful bits about famous people, or any kind of human interest anecdote.

A Burwell lady tells how apple butter was so popular with her little brothers, years ago. So much so, indeed, that they were strictly forbidden to spread it on their bread thickly. The layer must not be more than so-o-deep. One evening the lamp went out at meal time, and one small boy hollered out about his brother, while his mother was groping in the darkness: "Ma, better hurry with the light; somebody's digging deep into the apple butter."

Then there is the story of the early-day family which didn't make much kraut. "Only about four barrels, in case of sickness."

In our family, there was the time I started for the dinner table with a dish of Dutch (sour, creamed) cabbage. The dish was oval, with sloping sides. It was heaped with a mound of creamy, tangy good cabbage. It was also hot. I had a chary hold on one end of it.

Just as I entered the dining room the dish slipped neatly from my grasping fingers. It landed in several large pieces, all over the floor. The family accused me of throwing it.

Flora also covered herself with glory one time, when serving fried chicken to assorted Leggetts and Andersons. She carefully separated "good pieces" and "bony pieces," intending the latter for stew, noodle soup or something similar.

Somehow, in the hubbub of preparing dinner, she or her young helpmaiden fried the wrong platter of chicken and it went to the table. After the family had feasted on a lot of good chicken someone remarked they'd never seen so many backs and wings and inquired just how many chickens was that?

Then the good pieces were found in the ice box, carefully set away, and at least fifty times since that day Mrs. A. has had to take considerable kidding.

Of course there was the time a certain young matron of Ord, fresh from the south, cooked the Thanksgiving turkey. She thought the butcher had cleaned it, and the butcher thought she would clean it and . . . well . . .

And if I don't tell it, Dad will. . . yes, I usually fix at least one dish, salad or such, and leave it in the icebox. Yes, leave it, before, during and then find it after. . . after the guests have gone!

BURWELL

Will Rice, Mrs. Ida Steffan and Marcelle Dean returned Monday from a 4,600 mile trip to the Pacific coast. They were gone three weeks and visited points of interest in California, Washington, Oregon and Idaho. While they were in Portland they attended the Nebraska Day picnic held in Jensen park where two thousand former Nebraska residents were present. Here they met Mrs. Will Johns and James Grabowski who is working on a dairy farm and earning $35 per week. At Vancouver they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Romine and their daughter, Mrs. Opal Price who formerly lived at Ord and Burwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Graber who went out west with them stayed at Corvallis, Ore., where he got a job in the hay fields. Mrs. Joe Rowbal who also accompanied them remained at Oakland where she is visiting a son. At Chico, Calif., they visited Mr. Rice's brother-in-law, and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dinneil. Mr. Dinneil who is now retired was formerly the caretaker of the cemetery where Mrs. Tom Gaukel is buried. At Nampa, Ida, they visited Mr. and Mrs. Ted Abers and family and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Price, who now have a newly-arrived second son. They were Fourth of July guests in the Price home. At Payette, Ida they visited Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Medlar. The only unpleasantness of the trip was a puncture.

Mrs. Orville Conner submitted to a major operation in Dr. Cram's hospital Tuesday morning. Mr. and Mrs. William Bishop and son of Lexington were Fourth of July guests in the C. D. Bishop home.

Mrs. Frank Kennedy and sons returned Thursday from a two week vacation in the Black Hills. They were taken to South Dakota by Dr. and Mrs. G. L. Mills. When they returned they were met in Bassett by Miss Goodenow and Mrs. M. B. Goodenow.

A thief who had long raided the chicken coops in the north part of town was executed in Burwell Wednesday. The thief was spied when he darted into the back door of Bredthauer's Garage. Three men armed with brooms and a scoop shovel attacked the little fellow who attempted to hide under the new Pontiacs. The men showed him no mercy but hunted him out and beat him over the head with the brooms and scoop shovel until the culprit departed for life. The body was badly bruised and mangled but a number of persons unquestionably identified the thief as a weasel.

Clarence Abbott of Los Angeles arrived in Burwell Thursday where he is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Abbott and his sisters, Mrs. Jack Tetschner and Mrs. Anstien Hald. Since he left Burwell about two months ago he has visited New Orleans, Washington D. C., Niagara Falls, and the World's Fair in New York City. He plans to return to California by the northern route and visit points of interest in Canada. Mr. Abbott was badly injured in a train accident last winter and as he is unable to work he has been spending his time in traveling.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Tetschner are enjoying a visit with her brother, Mr. Moon and his family who live in California. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mauch spent the Fourth of July in Bassett where they were guests of his parents.

Mrs. Minnie McQuire of Ericson and Alvah McQuire and son Tommie spent the week end in Burwell where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Webb. Mrs. McQuire is Mrs. Webb's mother and Mr. McQuire is a brother. Mr. McQuire has a merry-go-round which he had at the celebration at the White Horse ranch. He set his outfit up in Burwell Saturday evening and many Burwell youngsters enjoyed rides.

George Rowse of Chambers submitted to a gastrectomy in Dr. Cram's hospital Friday. Rev. Shelby J. Light, who has been pastor of the Congregational church in Burwell for more than two years resigned his charge Sunday and accepted the pastorate of the Congregational church at Edgemont, S. D. Rev. and Mrs. Light and their family expect to move to Edgemont the first week in September. Reverend Light was ordained into the Christian ministry during his stay in Burwell.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. White arrived in Burwell Monday. They are repairing their residence property in Burwell preparatory to selling it. Carl Wilson who has bought the Maurice McGrew residence plans to move into it by the first of the month. He is remodeling the interior of the house.

The ladies class of the Congregational church enjoyed a picnic at the home of Mrs. Etta Campbell Tuesday. Rev. and Mrs. Light were Independence day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Zalud.

Mrs. Clarence Jurgensen and Miss Lulu Wiberg were Grand Island visitors Monday. Miss Lulu Wiberg was a guest of Miss Wilma Wewerka in Ord over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Philipps and family returned Monday from a trip to Colorado where they visited his brother Louis and wife who live in Los Animas. They also visited relatives at Denver and Breckinridge. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Philipps sr., and Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Simpson are planning to leave Thursday for a similar trip to Colorado.

Rev. C. C. Packer who is pastor of the Congregational church at Long Pine was a guest of Rev. and Mrs. Light Monday.

A truck load of fifty-six batteries weighing three tons arrived in Burwell Tuesday. They were ordered by C. J. Malmsteen who is installing a new electric system at his ranch in the Cedar Valley northwest of Burwell. Mr. Malmsteen has recently bought $2,100 worth of electrical equipment.

A small band from Burwell under the direction of Mr. Struve went to Callaway Wednesday to assist in a booster trip promoting the Pioneer picnic which will be held in that town July 17 and 18. They will also go to Callaway Friday to assist with another booster trip. The entire Burwell band composed of forty-five pieces will go to Madison to play for the horse races which are being held in that town. The Madison band will return the engagement at rodeo time when they will come to Burwell and furnish the music for one day. Other bands which will play at the rodeo are the Broken Bow and O'Neill bands.

Leland Pierce who has spent four years in the Pacific ocean with the United States navy arrived in Burwell Tuesday where he is spending a three weeks furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Pierce. When he reports for duty Leland will go to Norfolk, Va. He has visited the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippine Islands, Alaska and the entire coast of China and French Indo China while he has been in the service and he says that no place was as hot as the old home town is at the present time.

Miss Joan Verley has been accepted as a student nurse at the Lincoln General hospital in Lincoln. She will report for duty the forepart of September. Miss Sarah Grunemeyer also plans to take nurses training in this institution.

Two carloads of cattle from the Nebraska sandhills found their way to Lime City, O., last week following the sale in the Burwell Livestock Market Friday. The Ohio cattle buyer heard the radio advertisement of the Burwell Livestock Market and drove night and day in order to get to Burwell in time for the sale. Owing to the dry weather many cattle in this section of the country will have to be marketed. Some ranchers report that there is even less feed than in 1934 but fortunately the ranchers this year have a good market for the stock for which they have no feed. Several of the buyers from Iowa stated that crops looked excellent and that many farmers would be in the market for cattle from Nebraska's sandhills. The 33 of an inch of rain which fell in Burwell and vicinity Monday night relieved the drought situation somewhat but the ranchers believe that the hay crop will be very short at best.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATIONS. The last examination for teachers' certificates will be held at the Ord high school July 13. The following is the schedule of subjects: 8:00 Arithmetic, Bookkeeping and M. A. 9:00 History and Civics 10:00 Grammar and English Composition 11:00 Physiology and Hygiene, Music 1:00 Theory and Art and Courses of Study 2:00 Reading and Orthography 3:00 General Geography—Agriculture 4:00 Penmanship and Drawing Clara M. BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Flies are so bad now that milk cows won't stand still, and many farmers delay their milking until after dark. Attacks from these pests will probably grow worse until freezing weather comes. The big dairies paint their window panes blue, as flies dislike and avoid a blue colored light. Farmers generally use fly sprays. There is good evidence that most sprays do little more harm than the flies, but they give temporary relief. Many kinds of good commercial repellents are sold on the market. There are also some home-made "fly dope" recipes that may do the job for less money. These are listed below by number:

1. Mix a pint of stock dip with one gallon of old crankcase oil.
2. To one gallon of fish oil, add half a gallon of tar oil, and an ounce of carbolic acid.
3. Take a gallon of fish oil and put in one-half pint kerosene, two ounces of pine tar oil, and two ounces of oil of pennyroyal.

There are several other mixtures whose formulas are too long to list here. Oil sprays should be applied lightly, otherwise they will make cows feverish in hot weather. The sprays seem to interfere with animals heat regulating mechanisms if used heavily. Burning of the skin also occurs in some cases.

Legion Juniors Play at Greeley, St. Paul

Tuesday of last week the Ord Legion Junior team went to Greeley and won a close decision from the Irish in a 9th inning rally by a score of 10 to 9. Bill Novosad went all the way for Ord, with Rathbun behind the bat. Ord made 10 runs on 9 hits, and the boys made 5 errors.

For Greeley, Foley struck out 8 and allowed 5 bases on balls. Weirick went in in the 9th and allowed three bases on balls, and also Piskorski's triple which brought in 2 scores to tie the game. Then Piskorski came home on a passed ball to put Ord in the lead, and Novosad set the Greeley men down in order to end the game. Novosad struck out 5 and kept the hits well scattered.

Friday the boys went to St. Paul, outhit the Apostles 9 to 8, and yet lost the game 7 to 17. Novosad started for Ord, gave two hits and two walks and retired in favor of Billy Johnson, who did fairly well for a time but allowed 4 runs in each of the 7th and 8th innings. E. Misko finished the game. Rathbun caught for Ord, with H. Olsen and Kyrne as battery for St. Paul.

Greeley and St. Paul played Tuesday of this week, but the result of that game is not reported. Before that game the team standing was: St. Paul won 4, lost 1; Greeley won 2, lost 3; Ord won 2, lost 4.

Softball Teams Start Second Half of Season

The second half of the softball season opened at the fairgrounds Tuesday evening with Douthits having a field day at the expense of the Romans Dr. Pepper team. The Peppers held a two to nothing lead for the first two innings, but the Douthits drove in 14 runs in the next three innings while the Peppers were getting only one and that ended the game.

In the second game the Cold Storage team won from the Chanticleers by a score of 7 to 3, with Barney Larsen hitting a home run for the winning team, as did Charley Cetak for the Douthits in the first game. The first half of the season ended with Cold Storage in the lead, the Douthits and Chanticleers tied for second place and the Peppers bringing up the rear.

Tell of Four Weeks Trip to California

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. James returned Monday evening from their trip to California. Bob, and Mrs. Ralph Fell, who went with them on the trip, were left at Lincoln, where they visited before coming to Ord. Bob will go to Herman, Nebr., and stay with the Bob Skinner family for a few weeks.

They went first to San Francisco, Calif., and from there to Quincy, Calif., where Ralph James is located. From there they drove to Anaheim, Calif. to visit Mrs. James' sister and cousins at San Diego. At Los Angeles Mr. James ran across five buddies of the Spanish-American war whom he had not seen for 41 years, and they had a real reunion.

They then went to Fillmore, Calif., to visit Mr. James' brother, Howard. They saw the former Miss Frances Lindsay of Ord, at San Diego, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morrison at Los Angeles.

They came back by way of Grand Canyon and Boulder Dam and stopped at McCook to visit their daughter Helen's husband's people. Crops along the route seemed to be little if any better than around Ord, except in the irrigated sections, but are a little better around Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Johnson and family and Mrs. T. B. Lindsay were visitors in the Vern Mattern home Sunday.

E. V. Holloway who has bought a new combine and has been very busy harvesting grain reports that the crop is turning out much better than farmers had expected. At the Roy Nightingale farm he harvested barley which made 30 bushels to the acre and at the D. W. Sartain farm the barley went to 40 bushels per acre. Both of these fields were irrigated. Lawrence Franssen reports that he has a twelve acre field of rye which required three pounds of twine per acre to bind. Usually a pound of twine binds an acre of rye. He refuses to say what he expects the grain to make but he is going to thresh it next week and all uncertainty as to the yield will be ended. This rye was grown on summer fallowed land.

Burwell was nearly a deserted village Fourth of July when most of its inhabitants went to Taylor to celebrate. The Burwell band furnished music for the occasion and K. M. Parsons, B. A. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McCarthy, Ben Bartusek, Dale Bredthauer, Lewis Moore, Linn Downing and Dwight Johnson rode in the parade which included many attractive and elaborately prepared floats.

A number of Burwellites took in the celebration at Comstock. Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Coffin, Mrs. Frances DeLashmuth and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Walker drove to Inman where they joined the big celebration in that town. Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Clark, Myrtle and Vivian, Wayne Chaffin, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Balleg and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. Newman and son, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lewis and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Whiteside and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Nelson spent the day at the White Horse ranch near Stuart. Lake Ericson which is always a popular place with Burwell people was the destination of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Haines and family. The members of the Full Gospel Tabernacle congregation did their celebrating at a picnic at the park. Others to whom a picnic at the river seemed more attractive than noisier and more exciting distant places were Mr. and Mrs. Henry McMullen and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Grunke Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wilson and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Lakin and Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Lakin formed another group which picnicked at the river.

Mory Sharpe and his father of Lincoln will go to Lake Ericson Saturday to fish over the week end. They will occupy G. E. Michener's cabin.

LIQUIDATION OF THE JOINT STOCK LAND BANKS Make Possible, and in a Measure Justifies This Closing Out Sale Of Our Three Wheeler County Farms, 320, 320 and 720 Acres To Be Offered To The Highest Responsible Bidder at AUCTION! Sale To Be Held in Court Room, Court House BARTLETT, NEBR. MONDAY, JULY 15th SALE STARTS PROMPTLY AT ONE-THIRTY Our banks loaned considerable sums on farms and ranches in Central Nebraska. They reluctantly acquired a number of properties. Many have been refinanced or repurchased by former owners, others have gone to new purchasers. We now wish to dispose of all our properties in this particular field—hence, this auction sale. For some time we have been taking our farms and ranches county by county and selling them at auction. They have frequently sold too low. Surely the sale of properties described in this bill is a matter of enough importance that farmers, ranchmen, businessmen, investors may profitably spend a few hours at this auction as our guests. We shall appreciate your presence. Consult our men about properties and sale terms. Legion and Auxiliary Groups Met Tuesday

Because of the approaching holiday the Quiz forms were locked Tuesday evening and the report of the Legion and Auxiliary meeting appears a week later than usual.

It was voted unanimously to continue A. A. Wiegardt as officer in charge of renting the hall. The report of the past two games of the Legion Juniors, both of which the boys won, was given.

It was moved to appoint a committee to assist with the county picnic which will be held at Bussell park Aug. 4.

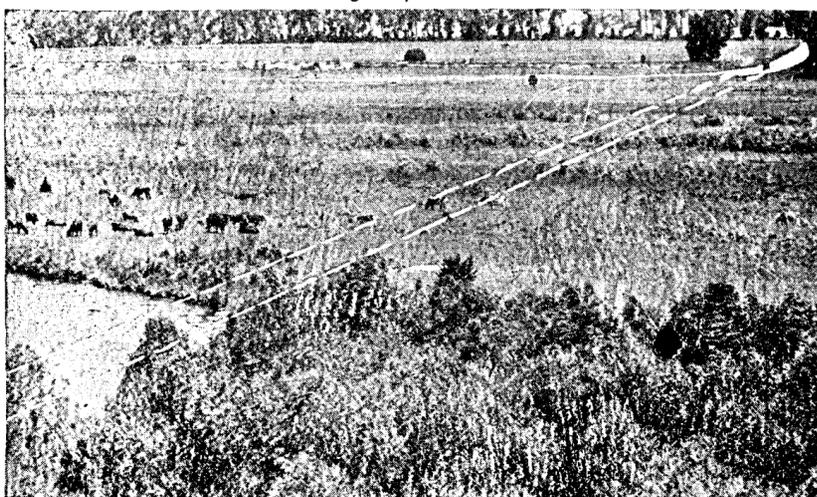

Mrs. C. J. Mortensen was introduced by Commander Roy Severson and she introduced Miss Phyllis Munn, who told about her experiences at the Girls' State camp at Seward.

A. A. Wiegardt then gave a talk of his trip to the coast. He told how they visited the Ross Lakin family at Pocatello, Ida., where Ross has a shop of his own.

At the ladies' session the following were named delegates to the district meeting at Norfolk: Mrs. Joe Gregory, Mrs. Tom Springer, Mrs. A. A. Wiegardt, Mrs. C. W. Clark and Mrs. C. D. Wardrop.

New Route of Highway No. 11 East of Burwell

The upper view, above, taken toward the northwest from a point on the south side of the North Loup river and just east of where new highway No. 11 will cross the river east of Burwell, shows at the upper right corner the point where No. 11 turns west toward the present bridge north of Burwell.

The new highway will follow the route of the dotted lines, crossing the river on a new bridge and continuing directly south past the fair grounds until it connects with the present route of No. 11 along the Burlington track.

Shown below is the splendid blackberry and raspberry patch owned by O. W. Taylor in east Burwell, at least half of which will be destroyed by the new highway, which cuts a strip four rods wide along the east end of the place.

tion of a well drilled four miles north of town which was known as the Korsebrock well. However, the two drillings were little publicized and facts concerning them are not available.

In March, 1920, it was reported that oil was oozing through the soil on the Adams county farm of James Martin, two miles northwest of Prosser.

Interest in the proposed drilling soon ceased, however.

OIL DRILLINGS IN NEBRASKA

This is the twelfth of the series of articles concerning oil drillings in Nebraska. All information was compiled by research workers of the Nebraska Writers' Project, WPA, from old newspapers and data supplied by the University of Nebraska.

Oil news continued to be a favorite subject of conversation at Gering in 1923. There was a tendency among the people of that town to be somewhat jealous of nearby towns where drillings were in progress.

On June 22, 1923, the Gering Courier published an account of oil land leasing taking place near Brockhoff. Then later in the year the Union Pacific railroad sent a geologist to investigate the oil conditions in the county.

On February 6, 1931, the Courier announced completion of plans for sinking a new well two miles east of Gering. Drilling was started but it is doubtful if it was carried to any great depth.

Over a period of time, there have undoubtedly been many wells drilled around Gering but definite information is lacking. It is known however, that in 1931 a test well was sunk at the Currie ranch near Owl Creek to a depth of 1212 feet (Nebr. Geol. Survey records). In 1933 also, a well was drilled northeast of Harrisburg.

According to research workers of the Nebraska Writers' Project, WPA, many drillings were planned to take place in Franklin county. Records have been found which show that a few of these plans were carried out.

In November, 1923, a well was started on F. A. Kolb's land, a few miles north of Riverton. This proved a "dry hole" after drilling to a depth of 1110 feet.

Farther north in the state, in Holt county, it was found that the people at Atkinson were elated over oil prospects at a site south of town. At this drilling, C. H. Cook, the famous Doc Cook of earlier Nebraska drillings, was much in prominence.

with his machine, it was finally announced that oil drilling equipment would be set up on the Frank Ulrich place eight miles north and four miles west of Atkinson. The Ghost Lights Oil company, of which Cook was manager, stated that a second well would be started shortly after the first drilling was in full operation.

In 1925 a drilling was made at Randolph which ended at a depth of 652 feet. A showing of oil was reported.

The Mooberry farm southwest of Dorchester in Saline county was the site of a well drilled in 1925 and 1926. There is also informa-

Federal Land Bank Gives Better Loan Rate

Farmers and stockmen in Valley county will save better than $30,166 in the next two years as a result of the continuation of special interest rates on Federal Land bank and bank commissioner loans, according to James H. Ollis, secretary-treasurer of the National Farm Loan Association at Ord, Nebr.

Mr. Ollis announced that a new law just passed by Congress, retaining the special rates of 3 1/2 per cent on land bank loans and reducing the rate on commissioner loans to 3 1/4 per cent, will directly benefit Valley county farmers and livestock operators.

On the average this means a saving of about $234 in the interest bill of an individual borrower over the next two years.

He pointed out that the farm loan associations and the land bank have been making first mortgage loans at 4 per cent the last four years, but before that many farmers borrowed at higher rates because the land bank had to pay 4 and 4 1/2 per cent for the funds it borrowed to loan out.

In 1935 Congress leveled all land bank loans off at 3 1/2 per cent, thus putting all member-borrowers on an equal basis. Two years later the regular rate of 5 per cent on land bank commissioner (first or second mortgage) loans was dropped to 4, the difference between the regular rates and the special rates being paid to the land bank by the Federal Farm Mortgage corporation by the federal treasury.

The special rates would have expired July 1 this year had Congress not extended them.

Mr. Ollis said the new law probably will serve as a "brake" against any general rise in farm loan interest rates for at least another two years.

Section 2. For the purpose of taking up and paying off the outstanding bonds, there shall be and there are hereby ordered, issued, negotiable bonds of the City of Ord to be known as "Refunding Bonds" of the principal amount of Fifty Five Thousand Dollars ($55,000.00) consisting of fifty five bonds, numbered from 1 to 55 inclusive, in the denomination of $1,000 each, bearing interest at the rate of three per centum (3%) per annum and three and one-quarter per centum (3 1/4%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of May and November of each year, as set out below; said bonds being dated November 1, 1940. Bonds No. 52 to 55 Inc., $4,000. Due November 1, 1954, Bearing 3% interest until November 1, 1950 and 3 1/4% thereafter, to maturity.

Section 3. Said bonds shall be executed on behalf of the City by being signed by the Mayor and the City Clerk and by affixing the City Seal thereto. The interest coupons shall be executed on behalf of the City by being signed by the Mayor and the Clerk, either by their own proper signatures on each coupon or by causing their facsimile signatures to be affixed to each coupon.

Section 4. Said bonds shall be in substantially the following form: UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, COUNTY OF VALLEY, STATE OF NEBRASKA, REFUNDING BOND OF THE CITY OF ORD.

No. _____ $1,000.00 KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS: That the City of Ord, in the County of Valley, State of Nebraska, hereby acknowledges itself to owe and for value received promises to pay to bearer the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) in lawful money of the United States of America, on the first day of November 19, with interest thereon from the date hereof until paid at the rate of three per centum (3%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of May and November of each year, upon presentation and surrender of the interest coupons hereto attached as they severally become due. Both principal and interest of this bond are payable at the office of the County Treasurer of Valley County, in the City of Ord, Nebraska. For the prompt payment of this bond, both principal and interest at maturity, the full faith, credit and resources of this City are hereby irrevocably pledged.

This bond is one of a series of fifty five bonds, numbered from one to fifty five inclusive, in the denomination of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) each, of a total principal amount of Fifty Five Thousand Dollars ($55,000.00) of like date and tenor herewith, except as to maturity date and interest rate, issued by said City for the purpose of taking up and paying off its valid outstanding City Hall Bonds, of the principal amount of Fifty Five Thousand Dollars ($55,000.00) dated November 1, 1920, and in full compliance with the provisions of Sections 11-601 to 11-604 inclusive, of the Compiled Statutes of Nebraska for 1929, and pursuant to proceedings duly had and ordinances duly passed by the Mayor and City Council of said City.

It is hereby certified and recited that all conditions, acts and things required by law to exist or to be done, precedent to and in the issuance of this bond, and of the bonds refunded thereby, did exist, did happen and were done and performed in regular and due form and time as required by law, and that the indebtedness of said City, including this bond and the indebtedness hereby refunded, does not now and did not at the time of the incurring of the original indebtedness, exceed any limitation imposed by law, and that provision has been made for the levy and collection of taxes annually in sufficient amount to pay principal and interest of this bond when due.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, the City of Ord, by its Mayor and City Clerk, has caused this bond to be executed in its behalf by being signed by its Mayor and attested by its City Clerk, and its corporate seal to be hereunto affixed, and has caused the interest coupons hereto attached to be signed by its Mayor and City Clerk by their respective facsimile signatures, and said officers do as for the execution hereof adopt as and for their own proper signatures, their respective facsimile signatures appearing on said coupons.

Dated this 1st day of November, 1940.

NORTH LOUP

WRITTEN BY MRS. ETHEL HAMER

Members of the BPW club went for a hay rack ride Monday night to the Scotia park that proved to be a wet party. A picnic supper and a good time in the park kept the young ladies so occupied that they failed to heed the gathering clouds and start for home. Anyway, it has been weeks since a cloud produced rain but this one did and an open hayrack gives little protection. One young lady's dress shrank till it looked like it belonged to her younger sister and everyone needed a finger wave. Rev. Stevens, who was driving the team, had to get out and lead the horses because they refused to go against the wind and his perfectly good straw hat was ruined. Had LaVerno Duemey been in town when they arrived home he could have secured a rare picture. However everyone thinks it the best party they ever had. Mrs. Lottie Barrett was presented with a nail keg full of gifts in appreciation of her work in the club.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Paddock moved Saturday from the Negley house to the house Carl Walkup recently vacated. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Coleman are getting ready to move into the Negley house.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Blauhern and son Orville of Archer spent the week end in the Orin Manchester home.

Mrs. Louise Snyder returned to her home at Council bluffs Sunday after spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pipal and family of Burwell spent Sunday in the Earl Howell home.

ORD LIVESTOCK MARKET

North Loup Wins Hectic Baseball Game Sunday

In a baseball game featured by free hitting and many errors the North Loup team of the Loup Valley league took the measure of the Ord rival Sunday on the Ord field, the score at the end of 13 innings being 11 to 9. Misko and Dahlin were the battery for Ord and Sheldon and Noyes acted in a like capacity for North Loup.

While losing the game Misko had a little the better of the pitchers' argument. He allowed 13 hits, 11 runs, struck out 14 batters and walked none. Sheldon allowed 13 hits, 9 runs, struck out 9 and issued 4 walks. The errors were fairly evenly divided, Ord making 9 and North Loup 3, but 2 of Ord's errors let in two runs each.

North Loup scored first in the third when 3 hits, combined with 4 Ord errors gave them 4 runs. Ord got one in the fourth, 5 in the fifth, 2 in the sixth and one in the ninth. North Loup got one in the sixth, 2 in the seventh and 2 in the ninth. Both teams then went scoreless until the first of the thirteenth, when North Loup got two.

In her half Ord came back strong when singles by S. Furtak and D. Dahlin combined with an error put men on second and third with none out. A bunt by Hubert failed and Syll was caught off third, the next man striking out to end the game. Fulk was the hero and the goat of the game, stealing home for Ord in the fifth to put his team ahead, and dropping an infield fly in the eighth to let in two scores and throw the game into extra innings. Two baggers by Jorgensen for Ord and Sheldon for North Loup were features, as was the loss of the ball by Sheldon when he tried to deliver it to the batter.

The outstanding feature of the game and of the season was the homerun by A. Zikmund in the ninth to tie up the game. Sheldon handed Zeke just the ball he was looking for and he made the trip around the bases before the ball got back to the diamond. The ball traveled well over 400 feet.

In the only other game of the league Ericson defeated Manderson by one score, although the exact score is not available. Next Sunday Ericson plays at North Loup and Pleasant Hill at Manderson. Ord will have another game on the home grounds, but the opposing team has not yet been announced. A fairly large crowd attended the game Sunday.

THAT NOBLE ANIMAL, MAN

People are the funniest things that God ever made. There are two classes of them, male and female, and the female is the most dangerous of the species. The whole race is grouped under the word "Mankind" which is singular on form but plural in meaning, and often this is shortened to the word "Man." This word in the singular may be made to mean any individual of the entire race.

Man starts out in life as a mere child. He simply don't know anything and he is a little wisp of humanity who doesn't look like anything, not even like something the cat dragged in. Some of the neighbor ladies say he looks like his father, others think he looks like his mother, when, as a matter of fact, the only thing in the world he looks like is another newly born baby.

Man, destined to be the dominating force in the whole world, is the weakest thing on earth at birth. Even a newly hatched chicken can scratch the ground with his claws and pick at it with his bill, and who ever heard of a newly born baby doing that. All he can do is lie on his back and give a lusty imitation of the fire siren, meanwhile turning on the water whether there is a fire or not.

From the cradle to the grave may be a day's journey, but the average man takes the long way around and lives to a ripe old age unless unkind fate shakes him off the limb while he is still green. He may be well preserved in old age if he don't spend too much time in his youth getting pickled. He is roasted by his friends and his wife keeps him in hot water and yet he is likely to call it all a real deal.

Man is a fourfold creature, being physical, mental, moral and spiritual. To start out with he is purely physical and he requires the other characteristics as he goes along, in the order named above. If he develops only his physical nature he is on a par with the beasts of the field, the fowls of the air and the fishes of the sea.

It is his mental capacity that raises him above the level of the animal kingdom and makes him ruler of all the other brutes, but unless he develops his moral and spiritual nature he is just another brute with the ability to think. His mentality enables him to protect himself from the other beasts by concealing himself and by creating weapons to destroy the other creatures that God has made.

In the initial analysis man is not immoral. He is immoral in that he has never learned the rules of morality. Immorality is the result of knowingly breaking the moral law. All animals are immoral. They follow the dictates of the moral law without knowing that there is such a law. Man alone is given the knowledge of the moral law, and consequently only man is punished for breaking the law.

Man is the only spiritual member of the animal kingdom. To him alone is given the hope of a life beyond. The nature of that life is not fully revealed but to the spiritual man the knowledge that there is a life beyond is sufficient. He does not tempt providence by seeking to learn what lies beyond the veil. He does not worry too much about the future. "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

But the pitiful thing about man is that all too often he fails to develop the moral and spiritual in his nature, or, having developed them, he forgets them for a time and lets the physical and mental dominate. The purely physical and mental type of man may be powerful but he uses that power only for his own aggrandizement to dominate and control those who oppose him.

It is this type of man who is the cause of all wars, and who will cause all wars so long as the earth shall stand. We hear much of the physical Alexander the Great and marvel at the mentality that enabled him to develop the armies of Macedonia and lead them on to conquer the whole world. But lack of morality is shown when he killed himself by over eating, and history makes no mention of the spiritual side of his nature.

Today Europe is dominated by three men, not one of whom can boast of a spiritual nature. Stalin has ruled religion out of Russia entirely. Mussolini went to war against the pleading and warning of the spiritual head of his nation. The record of Hitler's persecution of the Jews and prosecution of Catholic and Protestant preachers is written in blood.

Like the Spanish conquerors of the New World, he is destroying civilizations greater than his own. Europe today is a striking example of what has always happened when men whom God made forget the God who made them. The time will come when the dynasties now being founded in Europe will disappear as completely from the earth as did the empire of the mighty Alexander, who conquered the world and was conquered by his own appetite.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

Dear Quiz:

Some funny things happen here. The other day Carl Felgner of Chicago, who with his family, is spending ten days in one of our cottages, put on his bathing suit and went down to the end of the dock and sat down to take a sun bath before going into the water. It was a warm day, he had gotten up at daylight that morning to go fishing, and apparently soon got drowsy. Mr. Fenner happened to look that way and saw that Mr. Felgner was nodding. Pretty soon he went off to sleep and toppled over into the water with a great splash. Mr. Fenner said he never saw a more surprised man. He scrambled out of the water, which was only 3 feet deep, brushed the water from his eyes, took a look all around to assure himself that no one saw him, then took his swim.

Flora and Irma were going to town and Mrs. Burke invited the children to be her guests at a picture show. They were dressed up and ready to go before the older folks were ready, so went down on our dock to wait and young Tom went along. He got careless and tumbled off into 2 feet of water. The kids all yelled but Cora Lee, quite practical, and regardless of her nice clothes, jumped in and pulled him out. Tom was scared and they were both about like the proverbial drowned rat and both required a complete change of wardrobe, but were none the worse for the experience.

Mr. Fenner was somewhat mystified at a moving black something in the water near the shore. Upon closer examination he found it was a solid mass of baby fish and that it was being herded and guarded by a couple of large bullheads. Many about camp saw it. When the young fish, about 1-3 inch long, were scattered, the old fish at once rounded them up into a solid mass again, and the best description I can think of, is that it looked like someone had poured 12 quarts of black ink into the lake and that the ink stayed together, rolling slowly along in the shallow water. One had to get quite close to discover just what it was.

Sunday, July 7, I got up early, as Eugene was leaving for Ord as soon as breakfast was over. After he left the Missus and I went out and caught bluegills for dinner, then after they were dressed, we went to get the mail. After dinner most of us had a swim and after supper the Missus, Mrs. Burke and I took a nice ride. Twice on the trip, we had to slow up to let a mother wild duck and her flock of babies cross the road. One was a mallard and her babies, nine in number, were about half grown. The other was a teal and her seven babies were very tiny. Then just before we got home a mother partidge and her family fluttered across the road in front of the car. It was dusk and I didn't get a count of them.

Monday I got up at 5:30 to start the oil stove and get wash water hot, and by 7:30 when breakfast was ready I had a good appetite for the bacon and eggs and coffee and strawberries. Though a large one, we had our washing on the line by 9 a. m., and Irma and her helper, Christie, got started on their washing. We were fortunate that it, for so soon after noon it started raining and we had a good soaker, and the girls had to hurry to get the last of the clothes off the lines. In the evening the Missus and I drove up to Alvin Wallin's to get some strawberries and drove on to the Peter Wallin home for a little visit.

This is 8:15 Tuesday evening. I just returned from the Gelow cottage where we were entertained at dinner, the adults of our family. When I came in "Etta Mae" was giving Tom his evening bath, with his tub on the back porch work table and Ted was standing up on the table watching Tom splash. The Gelow's had a wonderful dinner and we all did full justice to it.

While we were in town today, Mrs. Simpson and her party drove in from Omaha and have been busy all afternoon getting their place ready to live in.

Ray Luther drove to Minneapolis today to bring up another truck load of butter tubs to be used by fishermen to ship their fish home in. Getting ready for the Gelow dinner this afternoon, I first took a swim in the lake. Then I dug up the 10c star razor and shaved, put on a clean shirt and tie, and oiled and combed my hair. About that time young Ted came into the kitchen, looked me over, and ran crying to the girls on the front porch. He had not seen me shaved and with my hair combed since he came.

When Loretta May went to give young Tom his bath this evening she took off her wrist watch, laid it on the ice box, put a couple of clean dities on top of it and proceeded with the bathing. Pretty soon the milk man came, and I had to make room for the five bottles of milk that we buy every night. I pushed the panties to the end of the box top. The watch, under them, slid along and dropped, unheard and unseen, into a box of chicken feed which is saved for the Wallin chickens each day. The milk man picked up the box, took it home and dumped the contents out on the ground near the barn. Pretty soon there was a great hue and cry and everyone joined in the search for the lost watch. Finally Loretta dashed upstairs, grabbed young Tom out of his bed and much to his surprise, snatched off his pants, and proceeded usually deferred till there is a prospect of more than a watch in them. But no watch was found and a sleepless night for Loretta followed.

This is Wednesday morning and during the night Minnie figured the whole thing out. She said the watch was gone and there was only one place it could have gone without our finding it, and that was the chicken feed. So I got in the car, Loretta and Shirley and Kerry accompanying and up to the Wallin's we drove. We stated our case to the Wallin's who were eating breakfast and Mr. Wallin led the way to the barnyard where he said he saw Carl dump the box of scraps. There was no sign that any chicken feed had been there, so well had they cleaned it up, but in a moment I found the watch in the sand where no doubt the hundred or so old hens had scratched it around as they admitted it, but were too dumb to figure out a way to use it. Loretta cried again, but this time for joy and we hurried home to our bacon and eggs.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT

New York—North Loup

Gifford Hutchins told me that when Reverend and Mrs. Ehret (new pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church of N. L.) arrived in town they stopped at the post office and asked Frank Johnson where the S. D. B. parsonage was located. And here is the funny part of it. Frank did not know, so G. L. said, and Frank had to go out and inquire, perhaps of the Chief of police, Jim Coleman.

G. L. said he knew where the Methodist parsonage is, but still, G. L. said, Frank has only lived in the village about fifty years. Gifford has been here longer, he thinks. The truth of all this I cannot vouch; I'm just telling it as G. L. told me, and it's a good story anyway. We were wondering if, perhaps, Frank were not trying to impress the newcomers with the big city complex, so to speak, not knowing everyone, naturally, in so large a town. It might have worked too, if that were it, Mrs. Ehret's home, previous to North Loup being only that little old town of New York on the Hudson.

There has been a good deal of speculation as to the impressions made upon these fine people, coming from back there, that village of Little Old New York, to this land of drouth, winds, poverty and discouragement. Many claim this will be unable to take it long. On the other hand, they were amply warned by the church secretary of what they were coming to and the conditions here, and she believes they'll not be disappointed.

Yes, it is a change no doubt, coming from back there where the lights are bright, where the ladies begin wearing their winter hats in August and summer hats in April; to a land where few women wear any hats, (they have to save the hat money for shoes); to a land where a man wears his wedding suit the rest of his life and where he runs his car until the doors drop off.

Everyone speaks of the fortitude of people coming to a land like this where most of us are planning moving away; coming here to make their home among despair of the dust bowl.

Good For Ford

Dr. Bryan Evely, of Chicago, and brother of Ford, has recently purchased a 140 acre farm fifty miles from Chicago and Ford expects to move back there in the spring or fall to be the operator of it.

Ford says there are extensive improvements on the place, one barn having room for fifty milk cows. The man now living there milks sixty cows and sells the milk whole to be distributed by the bottle in Chicago.

Ford is pleased over the prospect of a chicken feed. So I got in the car, Loretta and Shirley and Kerry accompanying and up to the Wallin's we drove. We stated our case to the Wallin's who were eating breakfast and Mr. Wallin led the way to the barnyard where he said he saw Carl dump the box of scraps. There was no sign that any chicken feed had been there, so well had they cleaned it up, but in a moment I found the watch in the sand where no doubt the hundred or so old hens had scratched it around as they admitted it, but were too dumb to figure out a way to use it. Loretta cried again, but this time for joy and we hurried home to our bacon and eggs.

I had ordered beet greens for dinner from Charley Call, so after breakfast I drove over after them and while there ordered currants for jelly. When I got back the Missus and I went fishing and Flora, Irma and the 3 older kids drove to Brainerd to spend the day. It proved to be a good day for bass. The two of us caught 16 and the Missus caught 13 of them. But I caught the largest one, 5 pounds. We kept 12, the day's limit and the smallest in the lot was 1 1/2 pounds. We had several 2 1/2 to 3 pounds and 2 that weighed 4 pounds. I gave the largest ones to the Felgners, who are leaving for their home in Chicago Friday A. M. We had fish for supper and I dressed a big mess and sent them to Mrs. Peter Wallin. When we take Cullen Lake fish to Ord people, they tell us they are good, but they don't compare with fish caught and dressed within an hour of when they are eaten. Well it is past my bed time, 9 o'clock, the kids are all in bed, so I will ring off.

This is Thursday afternoon and I must finish this story and mail it. It is a sort of diary of our doings the past few days, and is a pretty good picture of our days and weeks here. This morning the girls did a big washing. Five kids do make a lot of dirty clothes. Irma was chief cook today and had what is called "dinner in a dish," meaning potatoes, corn, onions, chives, sausage and what have you. They all said it was very good, but whether they just said that to be polite or meant it, I can only judge by the fact that the big trough of it was disappeared. The Missus is making jelly. Flora and Shirley washed the car and we are all going to see if we can find any blueberries, or all of the 14 guys that can get into the car are going. And now I must quit and if there is a great popular demand for it, I will write in this way again.

George Hutchins, who is now a traveling salesman for the Aero-motor Windmill company, until recently has had the territory in Indiana. A short time ago he sold some pumps and mills to the manager of Wendell Wilkie's farms. George said that the tenants of Wilkie's farms think the candidate is about the nicest man that ever lived and that is something coming as it does from a farm tenant.

Dr. Grace Crandall left last week for Shanghai, China and from appearances, she was as tickled over her return as a little girl with a new doll. She has been in United States for nearly a year now.

A lady told me of how she bought some little U. S. flags not long ago for decoration at a party and upon unwrapping them at home she discovered they had been "Made in Japan."

Mrs. Wetzel shells her peas with an old hand wringer. She gave us a little demonstration and she can shell the peas by the handful. They shell a little better if the pods are run through the long way but it don't make a lot of difference. She told of some lady who used her electric wringer on her washing machine to do the work.

Albert Combs found a whole sack full (small paper sack) of arrowheads and other Indian weapons on his place and on Halsey Shultz' and liked them so well and was so afraid someone would snatch them that he put them in his safety deposit box at the bank. Albert is the fellow who plowed up a dead Indian a couple of years ago on one of the knolls in his field. I do not know whether he put the Indian in the vault or not; the time I saw it it was in a tub.

QUIZ FORUM

Lincoln, Nebraska July 12, 1940

Dear Quiz:

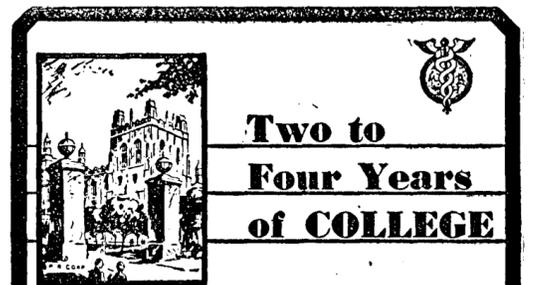

Your article on the G. O. P. convention was most interesting. I noted your reference to the fact that in staging the big show, they had succeeded in an effort to "out barnum Barnum." And they must also have believed in his statement that "The American people like to be humbugged," when they selected their candidate, who is a combination of Jew, Wall St. and Utilities. Of course a Jew is as much God's child as anyone but such a combination would make the same type of High Priest of Finance, as Jesus lashed out of the temple.

If Mr. Gowen thought that his article was so wild that the Quiz would not print it, he should have been at a peace conference held in Lincoln last April. There were outstanding religious leaders of the state there, as well as other community leaders and educators. These folks seemed to be in agreement that a democracy was not and never could be an established government. It is an ideal which such a nation as ours must be constantly working toward.

One of the speakers was a whole-somely attractive young lady who was an American delegate last summer to an inter-national, inter-denominational youth conference. She said that within the belligerent nations there was no feeling of hatred toward the individuals that they were going to be forced to kill. The young people of England and France spent week ends visiting the young folks in Germany and the other way around. She also said that the members of the American delegation that she was with all expressed themselves as liking the people of Germany better than any other nation.

The wildest speaker at the Lincoln peace conference was Dr. Cuthshall, a former chancellor at the Nebraska Wesleyan university, who is now a Rotarian lecturer over the country. His talk was made up of terse statements such as, "Never let a majority persecute a minority and never let a minority exploit a majority." And to emphasize the last statement about ten times to the first statement. He claims that an English bank financed Hitler's first army. That Morgan owned the telephone system of Finland. Canada's nickel and Finland's nickel are the same. An English nobleman is the ruler of Finland. The Emperor of Japan owns the largest amount of that country's wealth, and the Japanese are taught to idolize him.

Dr. Cuthshall claims that we should distinguish our common people; that "Sucker mentality is just a bad in a democracy as in any other form of government." But he did not tell us how to be disillusioned. Who and what shall we believe? Real facts are withheld or misrepresented by our press, and we are being fed propaganda to influence our thinking in favor of special interests. Even Mr. Gowen who mildly stated facts concerning territory reached by the

When a young man or woman aspires to the Medical profession, it is necessary that a solid groundwork of education be laid, on which to build scientific knowledge. After high school, two to four years of college preparation is required for entrance to Medical Schools. Entrance requirements are becoming more rigid each year.

During these pre-medical school years, the embryonic doctor majors in studies bearing directly on his medical training, such as Latin, chemistry, biology, physiology and physics.

In Col. Lindberg we have an international character and an independent thinker. He has traveled extensively and has had an opportunity as well as ability to gain a true cross examination of the world and its affairs. He is now bravely attempting to tell us what we should know. Instead of recognizing him as a man who knows enough to keep still unless he can speak authoritatively with the knowledge of his own conviction, we listen to the voices of ridicule from the selfish interests who use this method in an effort to silence him and turn group mind against him. However, a man, who has established a practice of using an hour each day for silent communion with the Creator would not maliciously go wrong in giving out advice and opinions to any nation. Some day the world may seek his counsel.

Why do we not pay more attention to this young man and encourage him instead of listening to the group who had his father's writings called in and destroyed? I was interested to hear that he is considering reprinting Senator Lindberg's books. Will he be permitted to do so in this land of free speech and free press?

Burwell has an independent thinker who bases his opinions on what his travels, experience and extensive reading has revealed to him. The Quiz has faith in Mr. Fenner's predictions concerning the proceedings of the war. I wish that they would invite him to give us his views on the economic significance of the war.

Quiz readers who are longing for a feeling of peace and security may be interested in knowing that there are thousands of people in all parts of the world who are using Unity prayers. Using the wording that Unity uses I have a combination of prayer that seems to fit my own needs and you may like it.

"Let Liberty, justice, righteousness and peace be established within individuals, between individuals; within nations, between nations; throughout the world. Let this reality come about through Jesus Christ the Prince of Peace who said in his last message, 'Peace I leave with you; my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.'"

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

We put a litter of spotted Polands on the scales at Clifford Goff's recently, that weighed 383 pounds at eight weeks of age. These eleven pigs are heavy enough to qualify their dam for the Register of Merit in any breed association.

They were from a very short legged boar of the chubby sort. Such boars don't rate in the show ring, but they sire pigs which are ready to sell earlier than those from the stretchy kind. Clifford says that a breeder needs two styles of boars nowadays one type to exhibit at the fairs, and another type to sire early porkers for market.

A new herd boar was purchased by Clifford recently that combines exhibition with breeding qualities, and is remarkably smooth and refined. It is a son of last year's grand champion male hog at the Iowa state fair. Clifford regards it as the best boar he has ever owned.

Clifford Goff began raising swine at the age of 15, as one of Carl Dale's club boys, and has always stayed with it. He likes hogs and wins his share of prizes in both county and interstate competition. His Spotted Polands are the medium, thick meated kind. None of them show that coarseness for which the Spots used to be criticized.

A mention should also be made of the excellent herd of purebred Hereford cattle that Clifford is building up. As a matter of fact, he thinks they are the best bet for a farm such as he has up on Haskell Creek.

Threshing Season IS HERE!

Threshing time in Valley county means that many farm wives have to prepare meals for big crews of threshers. Work in the harvest field is hard work and threshers always have big appetites, which means that they'll be satisfied with nothing less than a "meat meal."

We are prepared to take care of your meat needs during the harvest season. Tell us about how many you have to feed, about what you want to serve them, and we'll do the rest.

Many years of serving the needs of Valley county farmers during harvest time qualifies us to serve you this year also.

Something Different

It is always very tragic to me when a young man, with one foot on the threshold of manhood and prepared to enter the adult world, is suddenly stricken down.

Since Dad is rendering you a blow by blow account of our days up here, I do not intend to tell you anything about Cullen Lake life.

One project I think will bear profitable fruit for all of us is the measurement deal. They (the government) are running down so many hundreds of one size or age and many of another, and charting the results.

Why we didn't think of this years ago is a mystery. How many hundred times have you heard someone say "So-and-so is only 6 but I'm buying size 12's for him already," or some similar remark indicating that age-buying is highly unsatisfactory?

Reading of the horrors in Europe should make us appreciate our time and country.

In place of black-outs we can go out and get black-peacefully digging in the garden. Or perhaps our children are blacked-out beneath blissful layers of dirt while they play and dig.

In place of great excavations made by bombs we have the excavations of industry as it continues to build. And in place of the din of war we have the hammers of construction gangs, not destruction gangs.

In place of incendiary bombs that burn our cities we can hit ourselves into the sun and secure a terrific burn from the sun.

Our parachute shock troops consist of, thank goodness, the customary hordes of summer pests . . . only the flies and mosquitoes.

It is difficult to realize there are homeless and hungry when we can glance at the same pictures on the walls, worry about "what to get for dinner," and go down town and give the grocer thunder because he doesn't have raspberries yet!

Perhaps Mr. Roosevelt needs to declare more Thanksgivings. —Irma.

What Is A Bank?

Not Strong Doors, Marble Floors and Glum Faces

Nobody invented the bank. It just grew. Like the home, the school and other institutions, the bank came along to supply a community need.

This bank provides a safe place to invest surplus funds and protect valuables. It is a Gibraltar of financial strength for the community.

Those in need of ready cash come to this institution for assistance. Banking is a vital community service and we enjoy conducting this service for Ord and surrounding territory.

Ord Legion Juniors Win With Short End of Score

The Ord Legion Juniors accomplished the impossible Friday afternoon on the new athletic field by winning a game in which the final score stood 19 to 5 against them. Their opponents, the Greeley Legion team, forfeited the game at the start because they were compelled to play an ineligible man in order to have a full team.

14 hits. His team mates added to the confusion by contributing 9 errors all in the first 4 innings. High points of the Ord play were a home run by D. Misko in the seventh, a 3-bagger by R. Furtak in the second and a 2-bagger by Cochran in the same inning. E. Piskorski got on in the second and third innings and in both cases stole both second and third base for some kind of a record. The game was called at the end of the seventh inning to give the Greeley base runners a chance to rest their legs.

—Miss Ann Parkos arrived in Ord Thursday evening from Omaha for a visit with relatives and friends.

OIL DRILLINGS IN NEBRASKA

This is the thirteenth of the series of articles concerning oil drillings in Nebraska. All information was compiled by research workers of the Nebraska Writers' Project, WPA, from old newspapers and from data supplied by the University of Nebraska.

There have been at least six drillings for oil in the region north of Chadron. First accounts of drilling activities appeared in the Chadron Journal in 1903. In January of that year the paper informed its readers that several groups of local men were organizing for the purpose of conducting "placer oil mining." The following month a derrick was erected on the Conn farm in Beaver Creek valley, about 12 miles northeast of Chadron. Drilling started soon after. Complete records of this undertaking are not available, but it is known that in the latter part of February, 1903, oil was supposedly found in the well. Apparently news of the "strike" spread quickly, for on March 6 the editor of the Journal stated that "everywhere we went in our trip through southern Nebraska last week, the people were terribly wrought up over the alleged discovery of oil at Chadron." Hundreds of persons planned to move to Chadron, he continued, and the business men of the town were prepared for a "boom." The report of the oil strike proved to be false, however. This well was 1010 feet deep.

According to records in the state Geological Survey's office, a test well was sunk near Chadron by the Midwest Oil company in 1917, but was abandoned at a depth of 1671 feet. Then in 1919, the Clear Oil company drilled the first of two wells that were known as the Jones wells. Jones No. 1 well was plugged at about 1300 feet. Jones No. 2 well was drilled on the property of Roma Kostke a short time after the first drilling shut down. This venture was also unsuccessful. Records state that drilling ceased August 31, 1923, at 1860 feet.

The deepest hole near Chadron is known as the Duthie well; the drilling operations of which were carried on from July, 1925 to January 8, 1926. After drilling to a depth of 500 feet, where a trace of gas was reportedly found, the drillers appeared to regard this well as a potential producer and continued drilling to below the Lakota Sands, the first time any well in the Chadron fields had gone so deep. State Geological Survey records show that drilling ceased at a depth of 2947 feet. The well was drilled by the Nebraska Oil Corporation, an Omaha concern.

In 1923, the citizens of Neligh sponsored an oil well drilling on the James Nash farm, one mile west of Neligh. On July 20, 1923, all operations were suspended due to the drill striking an obstruction in the hole. At a civic meeting in Neligh plans were made to continue the drilling with a larger rig, but records cannot be found to show that this idea was carried out. It is believed, however, that drilling did not go beyond a depth of 652 feet.

The Lincoln State Journal for April 26, 1922, published a story of "gasoline wells" at Auburn. It was claimed that a farmer living near Auburn skinned enough gasoline off the top of his water well each day to operate his car. At first the well was regarded as a phenomenon by many people of the vicinity and there was some talk of sinking more wells, but in time the theory that a seepage from a gasoline storage tank was taking place gradually overshadowed the initial optimistic hopes of an oil strike.

On October 18, 1920, the Nebraska Enterprise sadly stated that oil drilling in the vicinity had been definitely abandoned. The company in charge of drilling a hole near the town had stopped work at 1860 feet when "granite" was encountered. Judging from newspaper reports that drilling had started two years previous but had been delayed several times. It was said that Nebraska citizens had nothing in the unsuccessful venture as it had been financed entirely by outside capital.

Then, in 1924, the Amerasia Petroleum company of Tulsa, Okla., which had been active in leasing land near Nehawka, announced that it was ready to begin drilling on the Z. W. Shrader farm, five and one-half miles south of Murray. Actual drilling commenced on March 1, 1924, and after drilling had gone but a few feet the drill struck a large boulder. Dynamite removed this obstacle and work went on. Later a cavern of soil and rock caused another delay. Despite these annoying mishaps, by May 3, the well was over 800 feet in depth. It was said that drilling operations attracted such a large number of curious sightseers, that it was necessary to build a new and larger road to the site.

Activities were again forced to halt on June 12, 1924, when a reamer became stuck in the hole. It was not until August 4 that the tool was finally removed. The Weeping Water Republican stated that it had cost the promoters $10,000 to release the reamer. Two weeks a report of an "unmistakable" trace of oil, led many observers to predict an oil strike before long. However, by September 22, the drillers had passed the 1890 foot mark without finding oil in an appreciable amount. On October 20, 1924, the well was abandoned at a depth of 1823 feet, when "granite formations" were encountered. Another Nehawka oil well drilling was started on the farm of Ernest M. Pollard, one mile south of town, on October 15, 1927. R. C. Drousdow, at that time State Representative from Douglas county, and several eastern capitalists who went under the name of "Underwriters Syndicate," undertook the promotion of this well. On the "spudding-in" day a barbecue "food" was served the hundreds of visitors who turned out to celebrate the event, and the 17th Infantry band from Fort Crook furnished music. In two days the days the drill had penetrated 25 feet.

No further reports of the Nehawka drilling during 1927 were found by research workers of the Nebraska Writers' Project, WPA. On May 17, 1928, an article appeared in the Plattsmouth Journal pertaining indirectly to the drilling. The account stated that a former driller of the well had beat his wife to death with a baseball bat, soaked her clothes and his own in gasoline, then jumped with her body in his arms into a burning haystack. "This foolishness took place near Campbell, Nebr.," said the Journal, and added, apparently as an afterthought, "they both died."

Drilling, which had been halted for some time due to a shipment of casing being lost in transit, recommenced on August 9, 1928, and probably reached a depth of 458 feet. However, later reports indicate that some trouble was found in financing further drilling. It was said, on October 29, 1928, that the promoters of the well had abandoned it because of lack of money, so the Omaha Chamber of Commerce agreed to underwrite the venture. Drilling continued until January 31, 1929, when it was decided to halt work on the well completely.

"Do I really and truly wanna know? ... Nope! And I betcha you don't, either. "Betcha all this talk about new gasolines and octanes makes you yawn, too. Whadda us consumers care how many octanes there's in a gasoline? "What we wanna know is: How many miles to the gallon? ... Yes sir! And how much zip and power? ... And how about knocks on hills and heavy pulls?" Little man, you're right from start to finish. Be as skeptical as you like about the anti-knock claims for new gasolines. But remember, at every Orange and Black 66 Shield, you get a regular price a gasoline which gives you practically the same anti-knock performance for which you previously had to pay two cents extra per gallon. So judge by results, and we believe you will certainly feel that difference with your first tankful of NEW Phillips 66 Poly Gas. Driver after driver says that it's the greatest self-demonstrating gasoline he has ever used.

Floyd Bollen, Lincoln, Took Own Life Thursday

Floyd Bollen, former head of the Nebraska State Railway commission and an unsuccessful candidate for nomination this year, committed suicide Thursday by shooting himself with a .32 caliber revolver in the basement of the home the family formerly occupied in Lincoln.

Mrs. Bollen, the former Miss Jay Jennings, daughter of J. H. Jennings and well known in Ord, said that Mr. Bollen had been in ill health for some time. He had gone to Lincoln from their present home in Kearney with the intention of trying to rent their former Lincoln home and also to consult a physician.

Mr. Bollen served in the legislature from Knox and Cedar counties in 1913. He was elected to the railway commission in 1932, and was defeated for re-election in 1933. He tried a comeback this year, but was defeated in the primary. Besides his wife he is survived by two sons, R. E. Bollen of Lincoln and Floyd L. Jr., of Kearney and a daughter, Mrs. D. W. Thompson of Burbank, Calif.

NOTICE OF HEARING TO DETERMINE HEIRSHIP.
In the County Court of Valley County, Nebraska.
In the matter of the estate of Martha J. Looftbourrow, Deceased.
TO ALL PERSONS INTERESTED IN SAID ESTATE, BOTH CREDITORS AND HEIRS, take notice that William C. Looftbourrow has filed his Petition in said Court alleging that Martha J. Looftbourrow died intestate on or about September 25, 1934, being a resident and inhabitant of the City of Ord, Valley County, Nebraska, and the owner in fee of the North Half of Lots Five and Six, in Block Eighteen, in the Original Townsite of the City of Ord, Valley County, Nebraska.

Said Petition further alleges that Martha J. Looftbourrow left as her sole and only heirs at law William W. Looftbourrow, her husband; Esther G. Holman, a daughter; Bertha J. Bee, a daughter; Jessie L. Chatfield, a daughter; Corinne L. Looftbourrow, a son; and William C. Looftbourrow, a son; all of full age; that the Petitioner is a son and heir at law of the Deceased; that there is no Estate or inheritance tax assessable or due upon said Estate or Inheritance.
Said Petition prays among other things that the allegations thereof be found true and further prays for a determination of the time of the death of said Decedent, a determination of the heirs of said Decedent, and the degree of kinship and the right of descent of the real property belonging to said Decedent; for a Decree barring all claims and demands against said Estate; that Decedent died intestate more than two years prior to the filing of said Petition; that no application has been made in the State of Nebraska for the appointment of an Administrator and said Estate has not been administered and no Administrator has been appointed in the State of Nebraska; that the heirs at law of said Decedent as named in said Petition shall be Decreed to have succeeded to the ownership in fee simple of the above described real estate and for such other and further relief as may be just and equitable.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hutchins, Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Hemphill and Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Ehret spent Tuesday and Wednesday last week fishing at Gables. Beside catching some fish they also brought home some fine frogs.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Goodrich and Frances spent Thursday afternoon in Grand Island.

On Tuesday evenings this summer the high school girls have been practicing softball and have worked up a fairly good team. John Wojtaszek acts as their coach. Wednesday evening before the band concert they played a game with the Horace team which was made up of both girls and boys. Horace won the game 13 to 8.

Ruth Widenfeld of Omaha is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Volney Weaver, having accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alec Widenfeld and Mrs. Cora Alberty to North Loup last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Middaugh and son Barrie of Omaha came up Wednesday and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Lewis till Friday morning. Their daughter Jean who has been here for several weeks accompanied them home.

Rain which measured .21 of an inch fell Sunday night. The shower was accompanied by much electricity.

Harry Kammerlohr of Lincoln was a week end guest of Louise Hamer.

Further word from Russell Barber about his accident says that he fell when putting up the hay-mow door that was left down after he and Mr. Prentice had been putting in hay. His right leg and left elbow were broken and he was taken to Mercy hospital, where a weight was put on the leg to get it in shape for a cast. Doctors said it would be three months before he could walk.

Saturday the water was turned into the ditches in the north part of the village and although there is still some work to be done all who had signed for water have been able to get it this week. Some gardens were too far gone to be saved but others will come on. Leonard picked roasting ears from his patch Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Coleman moved Sunday to the Negley house that Ed Paddock vacated last week.

The necessary license having been secured, Gilbert Meyers took over his new business, Barrett's Cafe and beer parlor, Wednesday evening. Mrs. Opal Beebe is running the cafe and is assisted by Dorothy Meyers. Mrs. Beebe is not new in the business as she had assisted Stines, both when W. B. Stine was the owner and since Roy Stine has bought him out.

Burwell News

Written by Rex Wagner

Miss Nina Nickells submitted to an appendectomy in Dr. Cram's hospital Monday morning.

Miss Sarah Livermore is employed at the switchboard of the Continental Telephone company while the head operator, Miss Fay Kester-son is enjoying her vacation.

The members of the Junior Matrons club took Mrs. Mark Johansen by surprise Monday afternoon when they all arrived at her home for a farewell party. Owing to the failure of the village of Burwell to sponsor a WPA project, WPA employment for men in Garfield county has been discontinued and Mr. Johansen, who has been foreman in Burwell, has been transferred to St. Paul where he has been given a much better job. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Huckfeldt expect to move into the house vacated by the Johansens next week. They have bought this property.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Williams of Ansley were guests in the Dean Moser and John Ashman homes Friday.

Mr. Buck, a geologist from Norman, Okla., was a guest in the Ilgenritz home Sunday. Mr. Ilgenritz accompanied him on a 350 mile trip through northeast Nebraska where Mr. Buck examined the outcroppings of shale, rock and soil along the banks of the Niobrara river. The company that employs Mr. Buck is interested in securing oil leases in this locality. He was a guest at the Wranglers club on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Newman and Nell made a trip into South Dakota Sunday. They were dinner guests of Mr. Newman's sister and her husband at Winner.

A 4-H club demonstration day will be held in Burwell Wednesday, July 24 for all 4-H club members and their leaders of Wheeler, Loup and Garfield counties. Miss Verna Glandt, a home demonstration agent from O'Neill and Prof. J. R. Redditt of the department of poultry husbandry of the college of agriculture of the University of Nebraska will be in Burwell to assist with the meetings.

Marx Koehnke, of Alliance, manager of the Certified Seed Potato Growers' association, was in Burwell Wednesday to make the second inspection of the certified seed plots in this section of the Loup valley.

A new school house is being erected in District No. 8, the Chas. Meyer school. The contract for the construction job has been let to Bert Hemmett and A. I. Cram and company. The present brick building is in a very poor condition and will be torn down.

Mrs. Emil Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hallock and Bob, Mrs. L. R. Williams and Miss Constance. A. M. Parsons left Sunday morning for Rochester where the former will receive treatment at the Mayo clinic. The elder Mrs. Parsons has never fully recovered from the injuries she received in an auto accident three months ago. A recent x-ray showed that her shoulder bone healed incorrectly and it will now be necessary to have the bone reset. Mrs. E. J. Speth of Elgin is in charge of the K. M. Parsons home and Bill.

Attorney Glen Runyan came home from Ellis, Kas., Wednesday and left again Monday for the same place.

Sunday was a popular day for picnics in the vicinity of Burwell when seven different organizations held out-of-door gatherings. Mrs. Etta Campbell was hostess to the members of the Country Women's Club No. 1 at her farm home. The Richland Women's club picnicked on the Butts farm where Mr. and Mrs. Leo Nelson live. The Valley View Women's club enjoyed an outing and a big dinner in Riverside park. The New Century club held their outing at the Willow Springs bridge. Three groups, The Highways Women's club and the Roscoe hill and Kinkaid Sunday schools held a joint picnic in Albert Nelson's grove, south and east of the Kinkaid school house. Sunday school was held in the morning under the direction of Mrs. Lloyd Key. After the dinner the men engaged in a ball game which was quickly broken up when they saw the smoke from the prairie fire come rolling over the hills and all hands were off to fight the unseasonable blaze.

HE WHO GETS KICKED

Mrs. B. A. Rose was hostess to one of the prettiest parties of Burwell's summer season Tuesday evening when the birthday club met in her home in honor of Mrs. Glow Fackler. The table had as its centerpiece an orchid basket filled with ivy and midget phlox ranging in color from blue to deep orchid. On the basket handles were blue, pink and orchid ribbon streamers. At each end of the basket were little blue deer carrying flowers. Pink glass plates held individual white iced cakes in alternating pink and blue frilled holders topped with blue candle holders and pink candles. Crystal glasses held a cool pink drink with blue cellophane straws. White ice cream was decked with miniature blue and pink doves. Little china flower pots filled with garden phlox were the favors. Cards made the evening's entertainment and the high score won a piece of genuine Dresden china. The club gave Mrs. Fackler a pastel water set for a birthday gift. Navy Seeking More Reserve Officers

The United States Navy desires to enlist 5,000 young men, having at least two years college education, for instruction leading to a commission as Ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve. These men will receive one month's training afloat corresponding to the present Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps summer cruise. Candidates will be required to request one month's active training duty without pay, but the Government will pay the railway fare and subsistence of successful candidates to and from their homes. While the students will receive no pay they will be given food, lodging, uniforms, and books and equipment, so that no direct expense will be involved for those accepted.

Married at Bartlett.
About four weeks ago Curtis Gudmundsen and Miss Hazel Barr drove to Bartlett and were married there. They kept their marriage secret, the first intimation of it coming out when the lady applied for a drivers' license under the name of Mrs. Curt Gudmundsen.

Thursday evening their friends, having decided definitely that such action was justifiable, charivari'd them. Yesterday they left for an unannounced destination on their wedding trip.

Mrs. Gudmundsen has been employed in the Johnson Cafe for a long time and is well known and popular here. She resigned her position there last week. Mr. Gudmundsen has been an employee of the First National Bank for many years, and will continue to be employed there.

Ord and Riverdale Met in Wild Contest Sunday

The Ord baseball team of the Loup Valley league staged a contest with the newly organized Riverdale team Sunday, which, after the first inning, turned into a track meet for the Ord team. George (Dutch) Clement and Charley (Tex) Lopez started for Riverdale, and Williams and Clement finished the last two innings.

Potentially the Riverdale team had a wealth of material, but the fact that they had never played together spelled disaster. After the first inning it went from bad to worse. Clement allowed one hit in the first inning, but four errors brought in two runs for Ord. Ord hit in every inning, making four in each of the second, third and eighth innings, and a grand total of 21.

The Ord team scored in every inning except the fifth, making five in each of the second and sixth innings and four in the third off Clement, and 9 in the eighth inning off Williams, for a total of 28 runs in eight innings. In the second inning Clement struck out three, but two of them got to first on passed balls.

D. Severson got a home run in the third, with two on. In the sixth H. Misko, P. Hubert, A. Zikmund all got circuit clouts as did Fox and Falk in the eighth inning. Clement allowed 15 hits in the six innings he pitched and Williams allowed 6 hits in 2 innings. Clement struck out 8 and Williams struck out one. The Riverdale boys piled up a total of 13 errors.

Misko and Dahlin started for Ord, and L. Furtak caught the last two innings. Hank going all the way on the mound. He was in fine form, allowing only 6 hits in nine innings, for two runs, neither of which was earned. He had at least one strike-out in each inning, for a total of 14. The team gave him fine support, contributing only 4 errors and 3 pass balls which accounted for the 2 runs.

Barney Larsen went into center field in the 6th inning and caught four towering flies in the time he played. Allen Zikmund handled a double play unassisted when he raced back of first base to catch a difficult fly in the sixth and then caught the runner off first to retire the side. Ord is scheduled to play Ericson there next Sunday.

Ord Postoffice to Be Dedicated Thurs., Aug. 15th

Chamber Making Plans for An All-Day Celebration; Hill Is Chairman.

Dedication of Ord's new $75,000 postoffice will be held Thursday, August 15, and in connection with it an all-day celebration will be held, it has been decided by the Chamber of Commerce.

Monday evening a committee appointed by C. J. Mortensen, president of the Chamber, met at the office of John P. Misko to discuss plans for the celebration.

A. L. Hill, the Ord postmaster, was appointed chairman of the general committee and other members are Fred Cahill, Alfred Wiegardt, Ben Clark, Jr., E. C. Leggett, Ed F. Beranek and John P. Misko.

What form the celebration shall take was not decided but sub-committees were named to study a band contest, free show, ball games, free dance and free watermelon feed as possible features. The committee will meet again Friday evening to decide which of these attractions shall be adopted. In any event, the dedication day will offer free entertainment of some kind to all Ord visitors.

Program will start at 10.30 a. m. and continue throughout the afternoon and evening, with official dedication of the new building coming probably at about 2:00. Some representative of the post-office department, possibly the 3rd assistant postmaster-general, will give the dedication speech. Word has been received from Harry B. Coffee, 5th district congressman, that he will fly to Ord to attend the dedication and invitations are being sent to Governor R. L. Cochran, Senators Edward R. Burke and George W. Norris, and other notables as well.

More complete plans can be announced after the committee meeting Friday evening out in the meantime people of the Ord territory are invited to start making plans for the dedication and free day.

Mrs. E. Schudel Dies Suddenly

Mrs. Edwin O. Schudel, who underwent a major operation in the Clinic hospital last Thursday, died suddenly Saturday and Tuesday of this week funeral services were held at Evangelical church, Mira Valley, with Rev. J. A. Adams officiating. Interment was in the North Loup cemetery.

She was born Sept. 6, 1896, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hanke, at the family home in Mira Valley, and her marriage to Mr. Schudel occurred Sept. 6, 1916, and four children, Harold, Dorothy, Mavis and Maynard, were born to them. Other relatives surviving include four sisters, Mrs. Emma Scherbarth, Burwell, Hulda Hanke, Mrs. Esther Graul and Mrs. Helen Peterson, all of Ord, and two brothers, Alvin and Howard, of Ord.

Mrs. Schudel was a member of the Evangelical church since early girlhood and her whole life was spent in and about Mira Valley where she was universally loved and respected.

Two Snappy Softball Games Played Tuesday

Last night at the fair grounds a fair crowd saw two interesting softball games. In the first the Chanticleers easily defeated the Romans Dr. Peppers by a score of 12 to 2 in 5 innings. Features were home runs in the first by Allen Zikmund and Barney Larsen and a three base smash by Henry Misko for the Chanticleers, who also pulled a fine double play in that inning.

In the second game the Cold Storage, with Nay and Dahlin as battery, defeated the Douthits, who had Jensen and Rathbun, by a score of 3 to 4. The Douthits were out 11 to 5. Nay struck out 7 and Jensen 2. Dahlin got a home run for the Cold Storage, and the Douthits pulled a double play in the second and another in the fourth inning.

Loup Valley Firemen At St. Paul Tomorrow

Tomorrow, July 25, the firemen of the Central Nebraska district will meet at St. Paul for a Loup Valley Fire Day. Charles Wenke of St. Paul, who is in charge of the program, promises a big day for everybody.

The Ord volunteer firemen are planning to attend in numbers, according to Fire Chief George Anderson, although an exact list of those who will go cannot be given at this time. Fire Marshal Horace M. Davis will be present as will a group of firemen from Grand Island. Ten or more cities will be represented at the meet.

Rev. Clifford Snyder

This is Rev. Clifford Snyder, who with Mrs. Snyder arrived in Ord last Wednesday and who will serve the Christian churches of Ord and Burwell as pastor. They are making their home in an apartment in the Walter A. Brand residence until the present lease on the parsonage here expires.

Rev. Snyder served the congregation at Carthage, S. D., for 1 1/2 years, this being his first charge following his graduation from Minnesota Bible University. He is a native of Garrett, Ind. In addition to being a minister, he is talented singer.

Elmer Dowhower's Elyria Farm to Be Property of State

Fine Turtle Creek Farm Is Given to State of Nebraska In Last Will.

The will of the late Elmer Dowhower, bachelor resident and owner of land a mile southeast of Elyria, was admitted to probate the past week, and it was then learned that he had bequeathed his real estate, 229.24 acres, to the state of Nebraska.

The paragraph referring to the land reads as follows: "Fourth: I hereby give, devise, and bequeath all my Real Estate (being my farm) to the State of Nebraska, with the condition that it revert to the state as school land."

Because of drouth conditions it is difficult to set an accurate valuation on the property, but the assessed valuation for 1939 was $11,440. As most of the farm is under the irrigation project and lies well for irrigation purposes, it will in time become a very valuable property.

The legal description of the land is: "The north half of the southwest quarter, and all the northwest quarter lying to the south and west of the railroad, irrigation property excepted, of section 36, township 20 north and range 15 west."

What action the state will take is not known, but without doubt the gift will be accepted. Mr. Dowhower has no descendants since he was a bachelor, but is survived by 2 brothers, 3 sisters, a nephew and 5 nieces, all of whom share in his personal estate, valued at $5,000.

Past Week Was Busy One In Valley County Court

Several cases were brought up in the court of John L. Andersen, county judge, in the past week. Thursday, complaint of assault and battery was made against Chester Travis and Edward Gross, the complaining witness being Regina Dobrovsky.

The evidence showed that the three got into a fight at Anderson's park following an auto ride and after the band concert Wednesday evening, in which Travis gave her a black eye and some scratches on her elbow.

Gross did not take a very active part in the quarrel, according to the evidence presented. Travis was fined $50 and costs of $6.16 which he paid. Gross was fined $15 and costs, which he paid.

Elmer Christoffersen was arrested Friday by Highway Patrolman Zink for having insufficient brakes on a truck he owns and which is leased to the WPA. He was fined $10 and costs of $2.75, which he paid.

George Burrows was arrested by Patrolman Zink Friday for operating a car with an elapsed driver's license, and was fined one dollar and costs of $2.75, which he paid.

Meeting of AAA Saturday. Saturday at 2 p. m., a meeting for the ladies of Geranium, Eureka, Liberty and Michigan townships and their guests will be held in the basement of the Ord Christian church, according to Mrs. Inez Burrows, fieldwoman for Valley county. A program will be offered by the children of these communities. There will be movies and an illustrated talk by Mrs. Leota Runyan, AAA fieldwoman from Custer county. Refreshments will also be served. Ladies of the above townships are urged to attend.

New Acts, Shows Features Burwell Rodeo Aug. 7-8-9

20th Annual Show Will Be the Best Yet, Is Belief As Plans Progress.

Burwell—(Special)—Many and varied unusual features have been contracted for the 20th annual show of Nebraska's Big Rodeo by the directors who are determined to make the program this year bigger and better than ever before. For more than a week a string of bucking horses, the pick of the ones used at the Belle Fourche rodeo, have been pastured near Burwell where they are resting up and getting the vim, vigor and vitality necessary to make an interesting contest for the cowboys.

A group of acts and entertainers never before exhibited in Burwell have been engaged for the 1940 show including Chief Dewey and his trained buffalo, Diamond D. Dewey and his mule Little Joe and a number of unusually fine trick and fancy ropers and rides consisting of Lee and Christy LeRoy, Alice and Tommy Privett, Beaver and Juanita Grey and Chet and Juanita Howell.

Carroll Miller and his western show family will again perform at Burwell this year. Mr. Miller, his two sons and two daughters are local people who have developed a rodeo act just as good as any put on by the imported artists. They have been acclaimed at rodeos in Montana, the Dakotas and other states. The Millers have a horse which jumps over an automobile and in the evening they do a double fire jump which is one of the most spectacular acts Burwell has ever shown.

A full program of horse races, a band of colorful Indians and the Crowley's United Shows, one of the largest carnival shows in America are other attractions at Nebraska's Big Rodeo, August 7, 8 and 9.

County Swelters in Week of High and Dry Weather

Thermometer Registered 108 Degrees Tuesday and Today Seems Fully As Hot.

Valley county and the entire plains states area is in the midst of one of the worst heat waves in the recorded history of weather in Nebraska. The wave began just a week ago today, July 17, when the high of 103 was recorded, according to the records of Horace Travis, weather reporter.

The official record for the week follows: Wednesday, high 103, low 67; Thursday, high 102, low 72; Friday, high 104, low 78; Saturday, high 97, low 74; Sunday, high 102, low 76; Monday, high 102, low 69; Tuesday, high 108, low 74. Today will be as hot as yesterday, from appearances at noon, when the temperature was 102.

Weather of the past week is in marked contrast to that of the same period in 1939 when 93 degrees on July 19 was the hottest in the mid-July period involved. High marks reached on other days in the period were 92, 90, 83 and 84.

July of 1934, the severest drouth year, parallels that of the past week quite closely, temperatures then ranging from 104 to 113 for the period. Part of July, 1936, also was quite hot, with a high of 111 recorded on July 17 and 109 on July 24. Some days when the mercury stopped in the 90s and low 90s broke the heat however.

Crop conditions are extremely bad now, not only in Valley but in all surrounding counties. Corn is said to be firing badly and even in irrigated areas it is curling from the heat and hot winds. Sorghums are being affected to some extent by the heat and drouth.

Most corn is late this year and some will be raised if rainfall comes soon but there seems no doubt that the crop is curtailed to a tremendous extent and continued hot, dry weather will bring about a complete loss of the corn crop, even as in 1934.

Pastures in most parts of the county are completely dried up and many farmers are sending cattle to pastures in the sandhills.

Allan Jones Will Sell First clean-up sale since early spring will be held Tuesday, July 30 when Allan Jones disposes of his big lot of livestock, personal property and household goods preparatory to leaving the state. Twenty-eight fine milk cows are included in the offering which is listed elsewhere in this issue.

—Bob Gruber and Harry McBeth are spending this week at a Boy Scout outing at Central City.

Walleyed Pike Dying in River

Due probably to the extremely hot weather and the depleted condition of the North Loup river due to withdrawal of water for irrigation, walleyed pike are reported to be dying in large numbers this week.

One man caught 42 pounds of pike with his hands Sunday, it is reported, while Theron Beehrle says that while fishing down river from the Ord dam that day he counted 75 of the fish in shallow water, some dead and others too feeble to swim and apparently dying.

The North Loup river is at the lowest stage in its history at the present time and what water is in the river is said to be very hot. Rainfall soon would restore the level of the river and probably save many pike.

County Officials Complimented by Nebraska Auditor

Supervisors Knew How Say "No" on Relief Matters; Books in Fine Shape.

"The people of Valley county," said State Auditor Ray C. Johnson, Monday, "are lucky to have such competent and dependable county officials."

This was the first time in the history of Valley county that the state auditor had made a thorough and complete audit of all the offices in the county. The report was presented to the county board of supervisors Monday afternoon. The audit is made in compliance with L. B. No. 310 passed by the 52nd session of the legislature.

The report covered a period from January 1, 1939 to Dec. 31, 1939 with the exception of the county treasurer, which is from June 1, 1937 to Dec. 31, 1939. The report gave the complete examination of the records, books and monies of George J. Satterfield, county treasurer; Igu. Klima, Jr., county clerk; Alfred A. Wiegardt, clerk of district court; John L. Andersen, county judge; George S. Round, county sheriff; Clara M. McClatchey, county superintendent; Alvin B. Lee and John P. Misko, county attorneys; Almond R. Brox, county assessor; Emanuel Petska, county surveyor; J. V. Suchanek, Joe J. Jablonski, Henry A. Zikmund, J. A. Barber, S. V. Hansen, John G. Bremer, Ellsworth Ball, Jr., county supervisors. Mr. Johnson reported that all the books and records of all the officials of Valley county are exceptionally well-kept. All monies were accounted for and all had been promptly remitted.

"Valley county people," said Mr. Johnson, "had paid 76.9 per cent of the 1938 tax levy up to January 1, 1940. At present, 86 per cent has been paid. This brings the county above average compared with other counties that have been hit by the drouth and depression as badly as Valley county."

"Although most of the counties have reached their maximum mill levy," continued Mr. Johnson, "Valley county still has leeway to go. We must reduce the cost of government to remedy this situation. I think that the best idea would be to start all over again and then let the legislature supply the extra money that would be needed."

"You've got a tough problem here in this relief situation, but you supervisors have used your heads and said 'No' once in a while."

In closing, Mr. Johnson and his deputy, George Kolzow, both expressed their congratulations to the officials for the splendid and very efficient manner in which they are maintaining their respective offices.

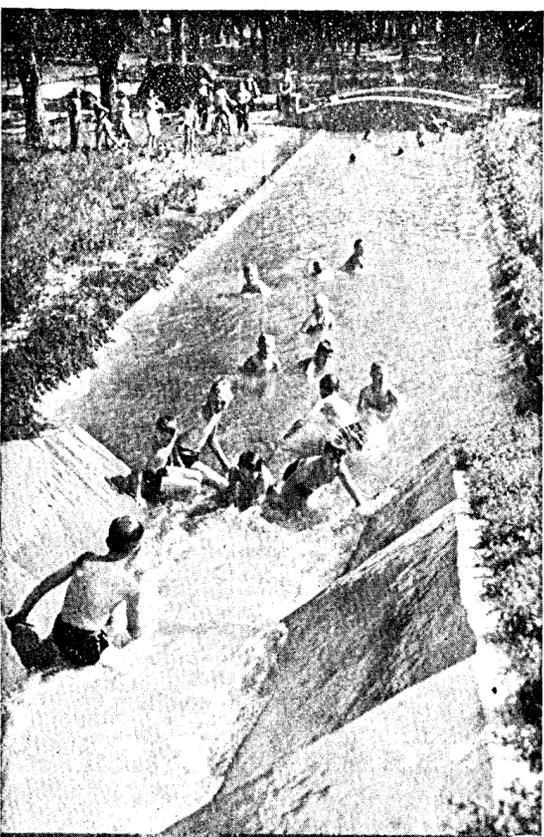

34th Division Reunion At Sioux Falls Aug. 10

The members of the 34th division of World War days will meet at Sioux Falls, S. D. August 10-11 for their annual reunion. This group has met each year at some city in this part of the country for many years, and a splendid time is always had by those who attend.

The Quiz would like to get the names of any members of this organization in this territory, especially any who expect to attend. Several other similar organizations will hold reunions next month, and information in regard to these will be appreciated.

—Mr. and Mrs. Anton Velniak, of Elyria, are the parents of a boy born this morning with Dr. J. G. Kruml in attendance.

Ord Children Find Way to Beat the Heat, Use Waste-way in Bussell Park as a Pool

When the Ord city fathers decided to run irrigation water through Bussell park and into Dane Creek by means of a concrete wasteway they didn't contemplate that the wasteway would develop into a swimming pool for Ord children, but that is what has happened.

To beat the heat, Ord children flock to the wasteway every hot day and scenes like those above can be observed all afternoon. The top photo shows the impromptu pool from the north, with a dozen or more kiddies splashing happily about in the water. How boys enjoy the waterfall created by a series of drops can be seen in the lower photo, while at bottom a little Ord girl emerges from a dip into the pool.

Water is about 3 feet deep at the deepest point. While warm from its long trip through the Taylor-Ord canal, the water feels refreshing when temperature soars above the 100 mark as it has done every day for the past week.

2nd Prairie Fire Rages in Sandhills

Burwell—(Special)—Under a boiling hot sun hundreds of men gathered from a radius of thirty miles and battled a prairie fire with brooms, shovels and wet sacks in the northern part of Garfield county Tuesday afternoon. The fire is believed to have been caused by a backfiring tractor. It started on the Ellis Whiteside ranch about twenty miles north of Burwell and burned over George Birch and the C. E. Hizer ranches. Three stacks of sorley needed hay were destroyed on the Hizer ranch. The fire burned over a strip of land 1 1/2 miles long and 1/2 of a mile wide. It was put out when it ran into the Atkinson highway. The sandhills are thoroughly aroused of the danger of the fire and the awful smoke which could be seen for twenty miles, brought many to the scene of the fire. Two plows pulled behind a pickup and a truck added in subduing the blaze. The fire started about 4:30 and was put out by 7 o'clock.

—The Henry Deines family moved Monday into the Dworak house where the L. E. Walford family formerly lived.

Clay Center Couple is Married Here Thursday

Elwin Franklin Nall of Clay Center, Neb., highway construction tractor operator, and Miss Lucile Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Campbell of Clay Center, were married July 18 by Rev. G. C. Robberson of the Ord Methodist church. Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Baker of Norfolk were witnesses.

Mr. Nall is in the employ of the Thiesen Bros. company, which is working on the contract for grading 12 miles of No. 11 highway between Ord and North Loup. Mr. and Mrs. Nall will make their home in Ord as long as the work continues here.

Shower for Gust Foths.

Due to their household goods being totally destroyed by fire, a miscellaneous shower will be held for the Gust Foth family at the home of Mrs. Will Prjen Friday evening, July 26. Everyone is invited to come and give what they can. Bring sandwiches, says the committee.

Plano Recital.

The piano pupils of Mrs. J. W. Severns will give a recital in the basement of the Methodist church Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Supervisors Say Food Stamp Plan Too Costly Now

Food for 49 Relief Families Would Cost $7,968 Instead of $2,414 Last Year.

In studying the estimates of cost under the new stamp plan of commodity distributions, the Valley county board of supervisors found that the present tendency of the stamp plan would be to raise the standard of living of the person that had an income and eligible to buy stamps and deprive to a greater degree, the person that had no income, eligible, but unable to buy stamps, although receiving commodities under the present system.

Out of 49 relief cases, representing 166 persons, the 1939 annual report of Valley county showed that the food for 52 weeks at a dollar a week minimum cost $2414.62. Other relief expenditures were $6170.72, bringing total expenditures to $8585.34. The estimated one mill tax levy was $8555.00. This excluded the 59 unassigned WPA cases, representing 199 persons, for which no funds were given.

Under the stamp plan, the food for the 49 relief cases would cost $7968.00 with other relief expenditures costing $6170.72. Food for the 59 unassigned WPA cases would come to $9552.00 making a total of $23,690.72, still using the mill levy sum of $8555.00.

It can be seen that if the $1.00 per week under the stamp plan were mandatory that almost the entire levy would be exhausted for food stamps alone, for direct relief cases, leaving nothing for fuel, shelter, clothing, medical, hospitalization, burial and other care and leaving no provision for unassigned WPA cases.

A letter requesting more information about the food stamp plan was sent to Paul H. Jordan regional director of the surplus marketing administration. In answer to the letter, Mr. Jordan replied, "It appears that under the present conditions distribution of surplus commodities through the Surplus Commodity Depot is better adapted to the Valley county area than distribution through the food stamp plan. Should your financial picture change so that it would be possible for you to meet the standards established in this region as to minimum purchase requirements for food stamps, you might wish to consider the plan further."

Oil Development Hinted at Burwell

Burwell—(Special)—The oil and gas rights of ten thousand acres of northern Garfield county land have been leased by L. I. Buck of Norman, Okla., a geologist who represents the Thompson and Ohaver company of Wichita and Tulsa. Mr. Buck has spent a week in Burwell obtaining these leases.

"The company which he represents has been successful in developing oil fields in Oklahoma and Kansas. It has never before attempted to develop a field in Nebraska. Mr. Buck stated that his company selected Garfield county as the territory for development because the edge of the central Nebraska basin lies in Garfield county. He said that oil is often found on the edge of a subterranean basin. When his company has secured about five thousand more acres he believes that they will put down a test well. Mr. Buck believes that conditions for the discovery of oil in Garfield county are favorable.

The land owners who sign the leases receive a dollar for each tract of land and a royalty amounting to one eighth of all the gas or oil discovered on their land. The land owner also has the right to use all of the natural gas he cares to, if any is discovered on his land.

Two Farm Homes Burn During the Past Week

Thursday night the house on the Louie Penas place in Vinton township about ten miles southwest of Ord was completely destroyed by fire, together with all its contents. The place is rented by John Kosmata, a bachelor, who was away from home when the fire occurred. The origin of the fire is unknown.

At about 11 p. m. Saturday LeRoy Foth discovered their large 2-story farm home about two miles south of Vinton was on fire. He and his mother, Mrs. G. Foth, sr., were home at the time and they summoned help from the neighbors, and also notified the Ord fire department, which went to the scene at once when notification was received at about 1 a. m. Sunday.

The fire, which apparently started from spontaneous combustion in the attic, destroyed all the building except the west wing, and all the furniture except a piano, davenport and bookcase, which were taken from the parlor. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

THEN, NOW AND HEREAFTER

The democratic national convention of 1896, which nominated William Jennings Bryan for president included in their platform the following plank: "We declare it to be the unwritten law of this republic especially by custom and usage of one hundred years and sanctioned by the examples of the greatest and wisest of those who founded and have maintained our government, that no man should be eligible for a third term of the presidential office."

That was in the days when the democratic party was "democratic" and not "New Deal." It was apparently designed to prevent Grover Cleveland, then completing his second term as president, from seeking a third term. But it is good democratic logic, and is as applicable today as it was then. The whole theory of democracy is founded on the supposition that no one man is so great that another cannot take his place.

Why, then, was Roosevelt nominated for a third term, when other men, possibly even more capable than he, are available for the job? There is but one answer. The party feared that no other man had a chance to be elected, so they chose to take a chance and throw overboard the third party precedent and in so doing imply that no other democrat was capable of handling the job.

One fact stood out throughout the recent democratic national convention and that was that the work the delegates went to Chicago to do had all been planned before they arrived, and that all they had to do was to follow the course that the "New Deal" bosses had mapped out. It is true that the minority tried to kick over the traces, but they gave up the struggle when they found themselves outnumbered.

President Roosevelt had an opportunity to place his name among the immortals by coming out flatly against a third term. Instead he sent the convention the following message: "The president has never had and has not today a desire or purpose to continue as president, or be a candidate for that office, or to be nominated by the convention for that office. He wishes in all earnestness and sincerity to make it clear that all the delegates to this convention are free to vote for any candidate."

It may seem harsh to accuse the president of insincerity, but if he really had been sincere, one word of two letters would have answered the purpose as well as the fifty-eight he used. Why didn't he say "NO!" Another generation remembers a Roosevelt who never left anyone in doubt as to the meaning of his words, but the message of Franklin D. Roosevelt was not a refusal. He simply dared the delegates to nominate him.

Early in his tactics the president got the third term endorsement he so patently craved, but he could not get the platform committee to stand for the proposal he sent them for "pledging all possible aid to Europe's democracies." This created such an outburst in the subcommittee that Gov. Lehman of New York telephoned the president advising him that the committee was opposed to such a proposal.

The "keeping out of war" spirit is a fine thing, but it might be well to remember that the democratic platform in 1916 had a plank designed to keep the United States out of war. Just 24 days after Woodrow Wilson was inaugurated president for his second term, the United States declared war on Germany. No one man can keep the nation out of war. No party can unless it dedicates itself to do so.

Roosevelt was nominated for a third term on the plea that he is the only man who can guide the nation through the four perilous years that are ahead. Let us be honest with ourselves and say he should be required to get us out of the mess he got us into. But if four years, why not eight, or twelve, or twenty? If we, as a nation, are so dependent upon one man, we are but a step away from dictatorship.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Those who think that apples won't do well around here should take their foot off the gas pedal when they drive past Frank Koupal's orchard, across from Bussell Park. There, a glance to the west reveals rows after rows of live apple trees, and within their dense foliage hang generous clusters of fruit. The traveler may see bigger orchards elsewhere, but none that look healthier than this grove on the banks of Dane Creek.

"Yes, apples will thrive here," says Mr. Koupal. "If one plants the right kinds." He recommends that the home producer grow just three varieties locally: The Yellow Transparent for early fruit, the Wealthy for autumn use, and the Haralson for winter apples.

He especially likes the Haralson, and replants entirely with this new Minnesota selection. The Haralson is a hardy, early bearing tree with big red apples that keep all winter.

Mr. Koupal also approves of the Duchess as an early apple, but it comes later than the Yellow Transparent. For ornamental purposes he is fond of the Hopa Crab with its red rosette blossoms, scarlet leaves and reddish fruit.

Many kinds of apples have been tried out on this acreage, as well as other fruits, ornamental trees, shrubs and flowers. Common apple varieties such as the Greening, Jonathan, Delicious and the Grimes Golden have been tested and all dropped. Most of them are not adapted to our climate. The spruce trees on this farm make it the most attractive bit of woodland in the North Loop valley.

The orchard gets some irrigating and cultivation. A few trees are bothered by fireblight and insect pests, as little spraying is done. But most troublesome of all pests are the marauding gangs of small boys that sneak in to steal apples.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

Dear Quiz Readers: This is Wednesday, 9:30 a. m. It was 69 years ago today that I first saw the light in a small farm home in the township of Watson, Michigan. I have been trying to see the light for all these years and some times I feel that we shall never be able to do so.

There are a lot of democrats and republicans striving now, to see the light. Both are honest but they are as far apart as ever and can't agree. No doubt a few of the leaders on both sides are actuated by selfish ambitions, but they are few compared with the vast number of laymen in both camps. I can't bring myself to agree with a lot of things that have been done but I can't say very much about it because I am unable to propose a better program. I am glad that while I class myself as a republican, I am not one of those designated as "died in the wool" members of the party who can see no good in a democrat and no bad in a republican. I fully realize that both parties are made up of the same kind of men and women with the same aims and ambitions, all seeking the best they can do to the right thing. I am convinced that at least 80 per cent of the republicans would switch if they were convinced that the best interest of the country demanded it and I think the same is true of 80 per cent of the democrats.

The other 20 per cent of each party, I believe, is made up of those who are democrats and republicans for personal gain and they would stand pat regardless.

When I went to bed last night it was real cool and as far as I could see there was no sign of rain. It was so cold that we needed a brisk fire in the heater to be comfortable. When I awoke toward morning it had warmed up and I heard it raining gently. It has rained almost steadily since, sometimes a drizzle and sometimes hard with almost a steady roll of thunder in the distance some of the time. Mr. Fenner was in a while ago for a moment and said he would give a thousand dollars out of his own pocket if he could thus insure a rain like this for Nebraska. Perhaps it has rained there by this time. The Minneapolis weather report this morning was as cloudy and rainy in the Dakotas and Iowa but skipped Nebraska in their report.

Yesterday afternoon I went peddling butter tubs with Ray Luther, up in the "Woman Chain of Lakes" country. Ray bought several thousand butter tubs down in Minneapolis and sells them to the resorts to be used to ship fish home in. The resort keepers buy them for the accommodation of their patrons. We are in what is known as the Brainerd chain of lakes country. The Woman's Lake chain is some 40 miles north and there are few lakes between. The least number of tubs sold to any one resort was 4 and the most on this trip was 12. Still we got rid of 15 tubs and not about 3 p. m. Ray has sold as high as 100 tubs to one resort and frequently 25 and 50 in a lot. There are many hundreds of resorts and he has sold better than 90 per cent of those he called on so far this season and expects to sell between 3 and 4 thousand tubs before the season is over.

We are living high these days. We buy red raspberries, now at 25 cents, strawberries, now at 15 cents a quart, fresh peas, 3 lbs. for a quarter, fresh beets, larger than hen eggs, a large bunch for 5 cents, new carrots, cheap, and other vegetables in proportion, all from the farmers. The nicest string beans, 5 cents a pound. We buy very little fresh meat but the girls got a nice beef roast for dinner today in honor of my birthday and the women are baking a birthday cake, though I will have to give an account of myself to Dr. Round if I eat a piece of it. We buy currants and gooseberries at 10 cents a quart and quantities of jell and jam are being made, some for the girls to take home and lots of it to be packed upstairs for next year. Missus says we are making an awful big hole in the large quantity we made last fall to keep the Leggett and Anderson kiddies in jell on their bread and butter this year. These five kids have a special habit of asking for a large slice of bread, first spread thick with butter, then a liberal coating of peanut butter and topped with some kind of fruit jell. Sometimes a kid will get away with three such slices at a meal and always two, and this with a glass or two of nice milk seems to fill them up. When we have fish they go strong for those too, and I think there is a little jell saved. But they are all adding a few pounds of weight and adding a few roses to their cheeks. I think the best of the daily lay in the sand on the beach and the almost constant swimming in the lake helps. Last evening they had a "party" using the Fenner outdoor furnace to roast weinies and marshmallows and I judge from the squeals and laughing that they were having a good time.

I had planned to do some fishing today but unless it quits raining I will forgo that pleasure. Anyhow I will have to go to town in the rain to get the mail and a consignment of gooseberries picked yesterday by Charlie Call. We can make jell and preserves even if it does rain.

Something Different

An Ord young man who is seeing a great deal of country, considerable of the insides of politics, and making new farm and radio friends every day is our friend, George Round, Jr.

As a lad in Ord George had the faculty of summoning a ready grin for durable service on all occasions, meantime turning off the regulation amount of work and a little more. He has not lost that good nature, nor has he lost the ability to work hard.

His Saturday noon Farm and Home hour chats over the radio have made his name and voice known to many. During the week his travels continue this work, and farmers over the state are beginning to swear by him (not at him).

If all the Ord men who have gone places politically were laid end to end, there'd be quite a few men laid out.

And quite a few more former Ord residents have become famous. This must be a good town to be from.

"Town to be from" reminds me: we did right well in the census to show a gain of six inhabitants when so many towns lost population and the trend of the state as a whole was to lose.

What is that "advertise Nebraska" campaign they were going to put on, anyway? I heard about the funds, and the board selected to conduct the campaign. Then the board began to disagree and exactly what happened to that "advertise Nebraska" campaign anyway?

Nebraska is as good a state as any, year in and year out. Of course the wind blows, but other states have plenty of disadvantages too, we simply are not familiar with them. In Colorado the snow piles up and the rocks are already piled up, beautiful but not arable by any stretch of the imagination. In some states they have hurricanes, and floods and dangerous rivers that worry them each spring.

Yes, we have faults, but what land or person does not? I felt badly to see so many of our good farmers moving away. Someone suggested the really tough farmers who could take it would be the ones we had left, that it was a weeding-out process.

Then I began to consider. In every generation, in the history of this country, we have moved. And usually moved westward. Moved from the original colonies to Illinois and Indiana and Ohio. Moved west from there to Iowa and Nebraska.

Perhaps we Americans have an itch that compels us to forever seek new pastures, but I for one will not believe they are greener.

Did you hear about me chasing the census-taker lady away? Was I embarrassed? Gosh!

She pounded on my back door, taking it for the front as many do because of the pergola. I was upstairs or someplace, arriving in the living room in time to glance to the east and see someone coming around the house.

Quite impatient at the thought of being sold something, (and very much out-of-line), I stuck my head out the front door and called: "I don't want to buy anything, thank you" and almost had the door slammed again before I heard a gentle voice say, "Oh Mrs. Leggett, may I take your census?"

There will be those who will say "Oh, is that what happened to them?" —Irma.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT

The Deficit

The biggest criticism the republicans can find with Roosevelt is the tremendous deficit that has piled up during the last eight years. Without question we will hear a great deal of this in the next 2 1/2 months.

However it is feared that this deficit talk will fall, for the most part, on deaf ears. What percent of the people are there who care a whoop for Federal Government deficits; that is, providing the person asked knows the definition of that ugly word.

I cannot give any actual figures on what per cent of the people are broke, but it is a big per cent, and through this neck of the U. S. the per cent will run higher than some others. There are an awful lot of people who do not pay any taxes to speak of at all and a lot more of them who do not pay any federal taxes whatever.

The federal government levies no direct taxes on the people. It derives its income from tariffs, duties, income taxes and a few luxury taxes and nuisance taxes such as stamps on deeds, etc. Consequently there are millions of people who pay nothing directly into the Federal treasury at all.

A Few Remarks on Presidential Candidates

Ed Post says that on his farm (the one sold to Charles Clark) he had Gene Hutchins drill the well for him in 1913 and it was used continually for twenty-five years without ever having been pulled out of the ground for repairs. Earlo Cox pulled it in 1938 to put on new leathers and said the well looked like it had gone that long since it was out of the ground. Earlo says that it is the champion well as far as he knows.

The story is told that Billie Worrel is offering his farms on lower Davis Creek for $15.00 an acre, and these are pretty fair farms too; much better than the average dry farms. It is told too that he is going to move back to Illinois, where most of his folks have moved, whether he is able to sell or not.

Stopping in to Gus Wetzel's the other day I noticed on the porch several bushels of peas. Mrs. Wetzel said they were unable to sell them this year green so she picked them after they ripened for seed.

She says it is no trick. She pulls up vines and all, laying them on an old carpet, flaying them there. On a dry day they thrash easily, and there has been a few dry days lately.

The prettiest animals I see are the Brown Swiss heifers belonging to Jim McCall. Everytime I go to town, (two or four times a day) I see those cows, wishing they were mine in place of his of course, and every time I go forth or back I wonder too, who is going to do the milking act when they all freshen before long.

Jim has a black baby mule running out there too that has a mealy nose and a light belly, and I wish it was mine too in place of his. Well, that's enough for Jim this time.

Sid Wilson, who runs the second hand joint in N. L. claims he is an expert at repairing broken furniture. And in that connection he told me of a trick in repairing that seemed like worth passing along. He says when a screw is pulled out and the hole has been broken until the screw will not take hold again; in place of putting a wooden plug in pack the hole full of steel wool. Sid says that holds much better than a wooden plug.

The other evening when a cloud shaded the sky I heard a lady wish it would not rain. She explained, "If it rains, John (her husband) might be tempted to try to farm again. If we dry out again this year he'll have no choice and have to quit. I hope it does not rain."

Presidential Candidates

Roosevelt is the cleverest politician I ever knew of. It is just that kind of politics that lead to dictatorships and I am fearful.

Talk about prosperity! I'd like to go back to Hoover's time and have some of that in place of what we are having now.—Frank Miller, of Scotia.

I think it is the duty of every citizen to talk and discuss and argue the different candidates and what they stand for.—Art Babcock.

Medical School FOUR YEARS

The four years required Medical School study is divided approximately as follows:

1st Year—The future Doctor of Medicine must master the fundamental science of the human body: such as Embryology (development of human being); Physiology (study of all organs in health); Anatomy (study of body structure in health); Histology (microscopic study).

2nd Year—Intensified form of above studies. Beginnings of study of Pathology (effect of diseases on various organs); Diagnosis (comparison of diseased organ to healthy).

3rd Year—Under trained instructors and practicing physicians, the embryonic Doctor begins to meet patients, watching actual clinical practice, diagnosis and treatment, working from nine to twelve hours a day, six days a week for thirty-six weeks.

4th Year—Continuation of third year, constant training in rational treatment based on careful examination and diagnosis. The student is required to be responsible for twenty or more prenatal cases, and attend delivery under supervision of a specialist.

After completion of these four years, he goes through stringent examinations before being allowed to graduate. Medical Schools, Medical Associations and the laws of your State all are constantly working together to prepare your Doctor to be more competent and thorough.

MEDICAL FACTS

Sponsored by 4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

Rabies, or hydrophobia, is a fatal disease usually transmitted to man by the bite of a mad dog. The disease exists also in the wolf, fox, skunk, cat, horse and cow. It may be transmitted by any of these. The cause of the disease is a so-called filterable virus. This means a germ-like body so small that it cannot be seen by the means of the ordinary microscope and it will pass through a filter which takes out all ordinary bacteria.

In the animal, this virus exists largely in the central nervous system but also in some of the glands; notably, the salivary glands. It is said to be carried to the salivary glands by way of the nerves, rather than through the blood stream.

When the infected animal bites a human being, the saliva thus injected beneath the skin carries in the virus. From the point of the bite it travels to the brain by way of the nerve fibers. This takes considerable time so the period between the bite and the onset of the disease is relatively long, usually over two weeks and commonly from six to eight weeks. This is probably the reason bites about the face cause the disease more quickly than those on the extremities. The distance the virus has to travel to get to the brain is much shorter.

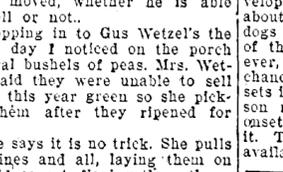

In case one is bitten by a dog or other domestic animal, it is always best to leave the animal alive and have it watched by a veterinarian. If the animal has rabies, it will die of the disease within a period so short that it is safe to wait and see whether the animal has the disease. Its death usually occurs in about seven days. Often the mistake is made of immediately killing such an animal. The delay in getting its head to a laboratory for examination often permits so much decomposition that the examination is unsatisfactory.

In case the offending animal has rabies there is no certainty the person who received the bite will develop the disease. In fact, only about 15% of those bitten by mad dogs will get the disease and 40% of those bitten by wolves. However, it is never safe to take a chance because, once the disease sets in, it will be fatal. If the person receives treatment before the onset of the disease, he will not get it. The materials for treatment are available to your physician at stations scattered over the country so that rapid delivery may be made upon order. They are somewhat expensive but worth all they cost because they will positively prevent this fatal disease.

To Stop Bindweed

If farmers will get some pulverized rock salt and apply it to the ground plentifully with a wheat drill or broadcast seed sower, just ahead of a rain, and cultivate it with a disc, it will destroy the weed, according to information furnished by the Padukah Farmer. The salt and rain-water forms a brine which destroys the germination of the seed as well as the weed. The treatment usually takes the land out of production for a year, or until the salt is washed out of the ground by rains, but the government wants a percentage of land out of production.

Pecenka & Son MEAT MARKET

NORTH LOUP

WRITTEN BY MRS. ETHEL HAMER

Rev. and Mrs. Nathan Thomas and daughter, Iona, were in town Wednesday night greeting friends. They were guests from Monday till Thursday in the Merrill Koelling home, coming over to help celebrate the first birthday of their little grandson, who celebrated by having the measles. The Thomas' are located at Wilslow and Miss Iona will teach music in the Alexandria schools next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Honeycutt and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Little and Juanita went to Iowa and Illinois Thursday morning. The Littles were to be present Sunday at a family reunion of his mother's family at her home in Illinois. This gathering was to be a surprise. George Carroll, who is cared for at the Peter Honeycutt home is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Bates Copeland while the Honeycuts are away.

Mrs. Jennie Bee and Esther returned to Ord on the Thursday evening bus after spending a few days looking after their property here. Esther will teach at Randolph next year and Mrs. Bee plans to accompany her there.

Albert, Emma and Selma Swanson of Greeley were callers at the home of Mrs. Stella Kerr Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Edwin Miller was in Ord between buses Saturday.

Rev. Charles Stevens spoke at the Methodist church Sunday morning in the absence of Rev. Olsen. In the evening a union service was held at the Friends church, Rev. Stevens in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Babcock of Beatrice spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mrs. Martha Babcock and family. The Jim Scotts, Gilbert Babcocks and Vernon Thomases spent Sunday at Mrs. Babcock and late in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Chester Babcock and son and Donald Babcock came over from Ansley.

The C. J. Goodrich family went to Lexington Sunday where they had dinner at Camp Lexington where Charles has been camping. Sixty seven boys were members of the camp which is a WPA recreational project. The parents of the boys were invited for dinner Sunday and about forty were present. Charles accompanied his parents home.

Mrs. B. B. Buten and Mrs. Otto Bartz entertained at rook Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Buten honoring Mrs. H. L. Foster and Mrs. A. M. Shattuck. Guests were Mrs. A. L. Crandall, Mrs. A. G. Springer and Mrs. N. C. Madson.

Grain threshing has been on the past week and several irrigated fields have turned out good. A field of wheat at the Leon Spurling farm which was irrigated last fall yielded 43 bushels to the acre and one at the Cliff Klinger farm 33 bushels. Much of the grain was short and had to be mowed. Several threshing machines are working in the surrounding territory. John Tucker threshed a field of irrigated wheat that was excellent quality and a good yield.

The H. J. Hoepfner family and Muriel Bartz returned from Denver Wednesday.

Delpha Williams has been selected as the new librarian, taking the place of Frances Meyers. She began her duties Wednesday. A librarian for the North Loup library is furnished most of the year as an NYA project and Frances Meyers has been acting for some time but her approaching marriage made it necessary to choose a new one. For the past two months members of the library board have been taking care of the library till more funds were available to hire a librarian.

Myra Barber was hostess to the Young Ladies club Thursday evening when Frances Meyers was given a pantry shelf shower.

The Sidney Wilson family who are living in the old bakery where they conduct a second hand store are making an excellent quality of potato chips which they are selling. The Wilsons are not new at the potato chip business, having made them while living in Scottsbluff.

Guests at a picnic supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Babcock Thursday night included Mrs. John Stewart and Mrs. Johnston of Omaha, Marcia and Elsie Hood, Vesta Thorngate, Alice Johnson, Mary Davis, Fern Maxson, Bertha Barber and H. H. Thorngate.

Dr. Hemphill was ill with intestinal flu Friday and spent the rest of the day at his home. A combination of flu and heat were too much for him.

Mr. and Mrs. Vere Leonard were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Post.

Mr. and Mrs. George Tappan and son of Kearney were Saturday night and Sunday guests of Mrs. Anna Tappan. All spent Sunday afternoon at the Ed Post home.

Mrs. Anna Tappan went to the Les Leonard home Sunday afternoon to spend a few days.

Don Larkin of Grand Island came up Sunday bringing Roy Larkin and his children who have been in the Tubercular hospital at Kearney. Roy Larkin was taken to Kearney two years ago in a very bad condition with T. B. and later five of the children were found to be suffering with the disease and were taken over. All seem to have recovered although they have to go back in a week for some final tests. Then it is expected they will be able to come home to stay.

George Eberhart returned Saturday morning from Alma where he had gone earlier in the week for a load of cantaloupes. The melons are of excellent quality and he has been busy since Saturday selling them. Monday he went to Loup City with part of the load.

Byron Fuller accompanied Mr. George Eberhart to Arkansas last week.

Nettie Clark and Bessie Eberhart returned Sunday evening from Denver where they had been vacationing a week.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ign. Pokraka are his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Casimere Pokraka and their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Pokraka and Junior, and Richard Pokraka all of Chicago. They arrived Monday and will spend about two weeks here. Charles Clark was home from his work at Lincoln over the week end.

Mrs. Maggie Annys and Virgil were Sunday dinner guests in the Clark Roby home. The Roby family and Mrs. Annys and Virgil were supper guests of Mrs. Fanny Weed.

Erlene Hawkes returned on the Wednesday evening bus from Eldora and Des Moines, Ia. where she had spent five weeks with the Harold McCullough family and with Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Hawkes. Mr. and Mrs. M. E. McClellan were Sunday guests of C. W. and Fanny McClellan. Mrs. M. E. McClellan is feeling some better than she has for some time.

Gerald Turner came for Mrs. Turner and baby Tuesday evening and they left Wednesday for Buffalo, N. Y., where he will be employed with his company, the De-Long Paint company, who specialize in painting bridges and elevators. They have been in Mississippi for several months and will have work in New York till cold weather. Mrs. Turner and baby have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stude for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Vergil Cuckler were the hosts at a picnic supper at Bussell park Sunday evening. Those attending the picnic were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cuckler, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cuckler of Hastings, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Spencer of Broken Bow.

Entertains at Luncheon.

Mrs. L. D. Milliken entertained members of the So and Sew club at a one o'clock luncheon at her home Friday afternoon. The luncheon was in honor of her sister, Mrs. R. A. Hiatt of Paso Roblo, Calif., and Mrs. A. W. Tunkeliff of Kewanee, Ill. Mrs. G. W. Taylor was also present.

Dworak-Cetak.

Alma Dworak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dworak, became the bride of Joe Cetak, son of Mrs. Mary Cetak, Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Attending the couple were Irene Dworak, sister of the bride, and Jim Cetak, brother of the groom. The single ring ceremony was performed by Judge John L. Andersen.

The bride wore a white crepe dress with a navy blue jacket and white accessories. Her attendant wore a sheer navy blue dress with white accessories.

Entertains Happy Hour Club.

Mrs. E. L. Kokes entertained the members of the Happy Hour club and a few other guests at a pinochle party Saturday afternoon in honor of the 70th birthday of Mrs. Vincent Kokes. At the end of the afternoon's play, Mrs. Kokes and Mrs. Joe Pecenka received the prizes for scores, and Mrs. Frank Krikac received the travelling prize. The Lukesh orchestra at KMMJ that afternoon dedicated a selection they played for Mrs. Kokes.

Three Birthdays.

A very pleasant party was held at the home of Mrs. Esther Manchester Wednesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Emma Hunder Mrs. R. C. Austin and Mrs. Manchester. Present were Mrs. Ed Hurlbert and two grandchildren Mrs. Bertha Mason, Mrs. Lloyd Wilson and daughter, Mrs. Charles Peckham, Regene Austin, Norma, Lyle and Dale Richard Manchester. A delicious lunch was served at 4 p. m. The ladies received handkerchiefs in remembrance of their birthdays.

Auble Party Back from Trip to the West Coast

"When it comes to national preparedness," said Irwin Underberg, "Uncle Sam hasn't been sleeping. There's a lot more going on than we ever hear about."

Mr. and Mrs. Underberg and daughter Counts and Mrs. A. J. Auble and Joy and Donald returned Sunday evening from a trip to the west coast, seeing the Grand Canyon, Boulder Dam, the Mormon Temple, Yosemite National Park, and Salt Lake City, U. They also visited San Diego, Santa Ana, Long Beach, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Oakland, Calif., and Tiahuanca, Mexico.

Two of the most interesting spots of their trip were the tuna fish canneries along the coast, and the large plane factory in San Diego. In the tuna fish industry, all Japanese labor is employed. Most of the dock workers are Japanese.

The airplane factory in San Diego is a town by itself. No visitors are allowed in the factory and not even the factory workers can see anything outside of their own department. The sky above the factory is always full of planes. Some of them are just going out on test flights and others are returning. Recently the plant has doubled its size, and a steady stream of employees are going to work. The employees work day and night. Jobs in the factory are plentiful, and anyone wishing work in the factory has to have a two weeks tryout. All these planes are sold to the government if their tests prove successful.

Camp Fire Groups Meet.

The three groups of younger Camp Fire Girls met with Mrs. Ralph Misko at the home of Mrs. E. L. Kokes Tuesday afternoon for tryouts and casting of their parts in a circus play to be presented August 1. Twenty-five girls are taking part and the money raised will be used for further Camp Fire study and for worthy charity and service projects during the winter. A carnival will be combined with the circus.

In The Good Old Days

The two old timers in the picture last week proved easy for Ordites. Mrs. Clifford Flynn called at 8:05 a. m. Thursday and said they were Iga Klima, sr., and his brother, Mat Klima, which was correct. Frank Adamek called at 10:20 a. m., and gave the same identification. K. W. Harkness was third, calling in his identification at 2 p. m. This week we have a famous group, and we would like to have the readers identify all of them, back row, middle row and front row, from left to right. Phone in your guesses, or deliver them, as you prefer.

Nebraska Dist. Bible Camp and Luther League Convention at Nysted, Nebr., July 29-Aug. 4. This is an unusual opportunity for this section of Nebraska, so we hope many can spend some time in the camp. It is for everybody. We are fortunate in having secured the services of two talented young men to be our Bible instructors. This camp will provide spiritual blessings, Christian fellowship, and wholesome recreation. The cost is $6 for the week including everything. Where could you spend a week cheaper or to better advantage when you consider all that is offered during the week. There will be no service at Ord Sunday, Aug. 4, as your pastor, who is president of the Nebr. Dist. Luther League, is to conduct the morning worship at Nysted. We will look for a large delegation down there from here for Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 2 p. m. Dinner will be served at 3:50. Plan on Nysted July 29-Aug. 4. Clarence Jensen, pastor.

—Donnie, Marian and Norma Geneski spent Saturday and Sunday at the Elwin Dunlap home, while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Geneski drove to Ericson where they spent the day fishing. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Beran accompanied them.

Ord Woman Honored.

Mrs. C. J. Mortensen, president of the American Legion Auxiliary for this department, the state of Nebraska, is always glad when she can give special honors to her home unit. This time a special honor goes to Mrs. Tom Springer, who will be Mrs. Mortensen's personal page when the state convention meets at Norfolk in August.

Soangetaba Camp Fire.

This group has had a number of interesting meetings. July 5 they went on a hike to the park, studied Nebraska weeds and went swimming. July 12 they met with Carolyn Anderson, named wild flowers and the families to which they belong, and bought their pressed leaves and weeds. Two guests were present: Dorothy Anderson of Burwell and Doris Abbott of Ohio. July 19 the meeting was held at the home of the guardian with Joan Blomond as hostess. Nature booklets were completed, and started plans for a circus which will be given with two other groups, August 1. Norma Long, new member, was present. —Joan Blomond, scribe.

Burwell Farmers Trying Out New Tomato Varieties to See Which Kind Best for Loup Valley Propagation

A part of the program for developing varieties of tomatoes better adapted for producing fruit under unfavorable conditions is being carried on in Loup, Garfield and Wheeler counties under the direction of R. H. Douglas, agricultural agent. This spring Mr. Douglas was sent samples of seven different varieties of seed which were planted in Edgar Phelps' hoedbed. About the middle of May, the plants were distributed to eleven farmers in the three counties, who set them out. Each farmer received ten plants of each variety.

Some of the farmers report that tomatoes have already set on the vines. These seven varieties were found to be the best suited for meeting the unfavorable growing conditions which have been general over Nebraska the last several years. More than a hundred kinds of tomatoes were tested out in a period of four years or more at Lincoln, North Platte, Scottsbluff and Alliance, before these seven kinds were selected as the best. The seven varieties which the horticulture department of the Nebraska experiment stations recommends set a good crop of fruit in spite of periods of very hot weather.

The characteristic common to all these varieties is their so-called "determinate" vine growth. The vines develop to a definite size characteristic to the variety and then stop growing.

The varieties Bison, All Red and Ruby were developed by Dr. A. F. Yeager of the North Platte agricultural experiment station, the Victor was developed by him also, partly in South Dakota and partly in the Michigan station. Firesteel was developed by Clare Barber of Watertown, S. D., from a cross between Bison and Pritchard.

The Bison is the earliest large fruited tomato. It sets fruit well in hot years. The vines are small, seldom spreading more than three feet. When properly grown fruit is large, red and of good quality though some of the fruit will be rough. Under unfavorable conditions the leaves tend to die leaving the fruit exposed so that some sun scald occurs. This variety is useful in home gardens but of less interest to commercial growers because of the variability in the shape and size of the fruit.

All Red produces fruit almost as early as Bison. The fruit ripens to a uniform red color over the entire tomato. This has been the most consistently high yielding variety at all places in the four years

It has been tested. Vines are small, but somewhat larger than those of the Bison. The fruit turns a light green or white before they ripen and sun scald very seldom occurs in this variety. Some years and at some places the fruit has been very rough.

Ruby produces tomatoes which are very large and have a pink skin. The vines are larger than those of Bison or All Red. Like All Red the fruit ripens evenly and does not sun scald easily. This variety is thought to have possibilities for market gardeners.

Victor yields relatively uniform medium sized tomatoes at about the same time as Ruby. Fruit turns white green before they ripen hence sun scald seldom occurs. The leaves are dark green and stay in a good condition for a long time. This variety set fruit under very adverse conditions in 1939.

Firesteel is a cross between Bison and Pritchard. In the 1939 tests it was an outstanding variety because of its large yield of relatively smooth uniform and meaty red fruit, its ability to set fruit in hot weather and because its vines remain in a good condition for a long time. It is somewhat later than the four other varieties.

Penn State Earliana and John Baer, two old well known varieties are included in the test plots so that the farmers will have a standard with which to compare the newer varieties.

The Nebraska agricultural experiment stations which sent out the seeds of these varieties recommends that the tomato plants be cultivated only enough to destroy the weeds and to eliminate the cracks in the soil. It advises mulching the plants with straw or other litter when they are well established in order to keep down weed growth, help conserve moisture, keep fruit clean and to increase the yield.

It warns the farmers not to overwater the plants as this may cause the shedding of the blossoms. The people who received the plants are asked to keep a record of when they set out the plants, nature of the soil, amount and kind of fertilizer applied, if and how the plants were mulched or irrigated, how they were treated for insects and of any unusual weather conditions. They are asked to record when they first picked ripe fruit from each variety and the comparative yield of each kind. They are also asked to report what variety they believe to be best and to tell why.

Proceedings of the County Board

July 9, 1940, at 10:00 a. m.

Regular meeting of Board called to order by Chairman with all supervisors present upon roll call.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved, as read.

Bank balances as of June 30th, 1940, read as follows: First National Bank in Ord, $50,671.93; Nebr. State Bank, $38,205.17; Arcadia State Bank, $25,137.24; First National Bank, Arcadia, $24,137.72.

At the request of the County Board, the Ord City Mayor and a number of the Ord City Councilmen, appeared before the meeting, and were asked that Ord City make certain concessions to the county in water rates on account of water used for or on the courthouse lawn, inasmuch as the cost of maintenance of the courthouse public rest-rooms now kept open for the convenience of Ord City and vicinity, mostly, was being borne by the tax payers of the County as a whole, thru the County General Fund.

The Chairman then appointed the Building and Ground Committee members and the County Clerk, to appear before the next Council meeting for purpose stated.

The following township official bonds bearing the endorsement of the Board's committee were formally approved, on motion duly carried, to-wit:

Anton Radil, Liberty Township Clerk $250.00 Philip Mersy, Davis Creek Township Treasurer 2000.00 Being noon, meeting recessed until 1:00 p. m., when again called to order by Chairman, with all supervisors present.

Claim of Roy Atwell for refund of tax paid under protest, on account of assessed value alleged to be higher than that of similar lands in same territory. The matter being a matter of equalization, and there being no provision by law for refund of taxes, the claim was rejected upon motion duly carried.

The matter of production of road gravel for the Ord-Springdale road came on for consideration, and upon motion duly carried contact was awarded to Vencl Ulrich, for production of 1600 cu. yds. of Class "A" gravel in pile, at 27c per cu. yd., he being the lowest bidder therefor, said gravel to be produced on or before September 1, 1940.

Petition of E. Stewart, et al, asking for the establishment of 40 foot wide road commencing at northeast corner of northwest quarter of northeast quarter of said section 28, came on for consideration, and there being no claims for damages or objections thereto, on file, said petition was granted and said road established as prayed, upon motion duly carried.

Board then resolved itself into committees and took up checking of official fee lists for the first half of 1940, for remainder of day and at 5:00 p. m., recessed until July 10, 1940, at 10:00 a. m., when again called to order by Chairman with all supervisors present upon roll call.

Board resumed work of checking of fee reports, and auditing of claims on file, until noon, when again recessed until 1:00 p. m., and at that time again called to order with all supervisors except Bremer being present.

The matter of reopening the WPA Community Sanitation Project in Valley and adjacent counties came on for consideration, and inasmuch as Valley County men could not be worked on such project if area headquarters were established in another county, and for the further reason that it is a prerequisite to the WPA approval of such a project in Valley County that Valley County shall employ a paid supervisor and solicitor for such project, it was moved and seconded that John R. Haskell, be so employed at a salary on a percentage basis of eleven per cent of the total payroll of Valley county workers employed on such project and paid by WPA. Motion duly carried unanimously.

Checking of official fee reports being completed, Committee submitted the following report, to-wit:

We your committee on settlements with the county officers report that we have carefully checked their respective reports of official fees earned by the various county officers, during the first and second quarters of the year 1940, and find them correct as follows:

1st quarter 2nd quarter earned & accrued for earned & accrued for Ign. Klima, Jr., Co. Clerk $381.60 $548.55 G. S. Round, Co. Sheriff 31.15 39.25 A. A. Wiegardt, Co. Clerk 192.27 343.80 J. L. Andersen, Co. Judge 235.90 335.90

Semi-annual report of Institute Funds, by Clara McClatchey, Supt. of Schools, showing balance on hand at beginning of period of January 1, 1940, $197.37, Collections and Disbursements, and balance of $185.69, as of July 8th 1940.

Summary of collections and disbursements by G. A. Satterfield,

County Treasurer, showing a balance of $145,514.44 at end of period of June 30th, 1940.

Respectfully submitted, Ellsworth Ball, Jr., J. A. Barber, Joe J. Jablonski, Committee on settlements.

Upon motion duly carried, foregoing report was formally accepted and ordered placed on file.

Ord Defeats Scotia in

Two Softball Contests

Two softball games were played at the fair grounds Sunday evening. Ord teams contesting with teams from Scotia in both games. A fine crowd was in attendance and the fans certainly enjoyed themselves. If noise is any criterion, Scotia lost both games, but took the defeats like real sports.

The first game was featured by free hitting and plenty of errors by both sides, but, strangely enough, neither pitcher issued a single base on balls. Jensen for Ord struck out one, allowed ten hits and nine runs; the Scotia pitcher struck out three, allowed 7 hits and 12 runs. There were 4 errors by Ord and 12 by Scotia.

In the second game the Douthits played the Scotia town team. Nay for the Douthits struck out 9, issued one walk, allowed 3 hits and no runs. Murphy for Scotia struck out 10, walked 2, allowed 2 hits and 4 runs, only 1 of which was earned.

It was a pitcher's battle throughout and bid fair to end in a scoreless tie until the last of the 4th when a walk, 2 errors and a hit brought in three runs. The other run came in the 6th with a walk, an error and a hit.

Two freak plays were features. Jorgensen made a gallant try for a pop fly just beyond first base, juggled it twice and then dropped it. Oakley Hather had come over from second to back him up, made a dive for the ball and caught it just before it reached the ground, giving himself an out and Axel an assist.

The other came when Hubert bunted a slow roller down the first base line. Murphy came in for it, tripping Hubert who fell flat. Murphy then overthrew first base and Hubert, who had started back toward home plate, made first safely.

Legion Juniors Win

Easy Contest Sunday

Playing perfect ball behind the terrific pitching of young Bill Novosad, the Ord Legion Juniors won the most impressive game of their career Sunday at the new athletic field against Rosevale, winning at will in 7 innings by a score of 37 to 1.

Before the game the two teams appeared evenly matched, but Novosad panicked the visitors from the start by striking out the first seven batters to face him, and by striking out 12 in the 4th inning he pitched. Novosad was pitching against his old neighbors, and was determined to show them what he had learned about the game.

The facilities for washing and grading the potato crop in the vicinity of Burwell are proving entirely inadequate to handle the bountiful yield. The plant which Glow Fackler is constructing did not get completed in time to aid in preparing the early crop for market. The potato grader and washer which Vernon Linn is bringing to Burwell failed to arrive until the first of the week and cannot be gotten into operation until Thursday. It will set up in the Phillipps feed store. In the meantime the potato growers are forced to use the small plant operated by Henry McMullen in his mother's barn which is entirely inadequate and too small to handle the enormous crops. Leslie Westover has brought three cobbler to town on Tuesday which averaged a pound a piece on the scales. Several farmers who saw the potatoes said that they had found even larger ones. Those red-headed Sawdey twins, who fifteen years ago were a familiar and attractive sight on the streets of Burwell, are back in Burwell visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Sawdey. Ellen, who is not married, lives in San Francisco. Helen, her husband, Gale Mayfield of Omaha and her son David Lee, all came from Omaha Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Pierce, Leland, Malcolm, Mickey and Billie drove to Lincoln Saturday where they spent the week end visiting Mrs. Pierce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. W. Brown and her brothers, William and Ross Brown. The primary purpose of the trip was to enable Leland to visit his grandparents and uncles whom he has not seen for four years, owing to his enlistment in the navy.

A car driven by Arthur Burhans of Bartlett was badly damaged Monday night about 10 o'clock when it drove into a herd of 125 cattle near the E. V. Holloway farm on the Ericson highway five miles east of Burwell. Mr. Holloway was moving his cattle from one pasture into another one across the highway owing to a shortage of water where they were. Mr. Burhans failed to see the cattle in time to stop his car which killed one calf and injured several more. The car was towed into Johnson Brothers' garage. The radiator of the car was badly smashed and shoved back, the hood was completely demolished and the windshield was broken out.

Maurice McGrew and Harold Mackley left Monday for a two weeks vacation trip to California. Mr. McGrew will visit his brother Earl and family at Tulare where his two sons Dean and Newell have already spent several weeks. His sons will return to Burwell with him.

Mrs. Nora Clark of Portland, Ore., who has spent five months in Burwell caring for her aged and ailing parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Thasston, left Saturday for Lincoln. Next Monday she will resume her journey to Portland.

One of the largest dances ever to be held in Burwell occurred Monday evening when Cliff Kyes and Sammy Haven and their orchestras conducted a battle of music in the Laretto ballroom. More than 300 couples were present. People from Ord, Greeley, Scotia, Loup City, Amelia, Ericson, Bartlett, Broken Bow, Sargent, Comstock, Arcadia, Taylor and Atkinson were present. Two couples from California also attended the dance.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hulinsky Monday with Dr. Cram in attendance.

Rev. Shelby J. Light spoke at the meeting of the Sioux Creek Sunday school Sunday afternoon. A basket dinner was held in the school house at noon. The services were largely attended.

PERSONALS

—Miss Dorothy Greenwalt went to Omaha by bus Tuesday morning to visit her sister Magdalen and also an aunt who lives there.

—Mrs. Tom Williams is expecting a visit from her sister, May Keele, of Cedar Grove, Tenn.

—Miss Myrl Hedges spent the week end visiting at her home in Grand Island.

—Ed Sowers, who has been visiting in Ord for several weeks, will return to his army post at Fort Lewis, Wash., Thursday.

—Miss Bessie Mach, daughter of John Mach of Burwell, was a bus passenger Monday afternoon enroute to Tacoma, Wash., where she expects to visit for a time, and remain permanently if she can find employment.

—Friday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Williams were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith and son Charles of Lincoln. From Ord Mr. and Mrs. Smith drove to Burwell, where they visited Mrs. Rose, an old school chum of Mrs. Smiths.

—Beth Gyger left Saturday for Lincoln where she will be employed in the government agriculture office.

—Mrs. Frank Ambrose returned to Elba Monday afternoon after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Joe Ulrich since Thursday and helping her cook for threshers. Mrs. Jimmie Vastek went out from Ord and assisted her also. Mrs. Ulrich says that they had 30 acres of barley under irrigation which made 1239 bushels, but that the dry land grain did not make much.

—Maxine Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Fox, of Ord, is working in the Waigreen drug store at Grand Island.

—Mrs. L. D. Milliken and son David and Mrs. R. A. Riatt and son Robert of Paso Robbo, Calif., drove to Blair Monday morning. They planned to visit relatives.

—One rack of better dresses, sizes 12 to 50, reduced to 79c at Chase's Toggery.

—The company's office is located in the former sewing room on 15th street just north of the Ord Opera house, and is in charge of Bud Grable, timekeeper and office man for the outfit. He and Mrs. Grable are living in the Bill Sack home.

The superintendent, Fred Morgan, his wife and son and daughter are occupying the Hawkins house at 1718 O. street. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Edwards, George Reed, Joe Anderson and Gerald Sidwell are located in the Douthitt rooming house at the corner of 17 and N street.

Of the above the Grables are from Omaha, the Morgans from Tuscumbia, Mo., Reed is from Litchfield, Sidwell from Benedict and Anderson from Kansas City. Others who are living in Ord but whose location cannot be given are: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Vincent and Adolph Grella of Ashton, Roy Falk of Red Oak, Ia., Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Allen and son of Litchfield, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walters and son of Neligh, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lewis of Neligh, Mr. and Mrs. Myles (Smiley) Kriz of Surprise, Ed Neuharj and Tom Sanley of Surprise, Claude Beard, nephew of the Morgans, Tuscumbia, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Jolley Keller and daughter, Gilead, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Edwards and son of Fairbury, Roy Schneider of Polk, Ralph Bowker of York, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Moore of Logan, Ia., Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Lachemaier of Miltondale, Kan., Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Child and children of Miltondale, Kan., Mr. and Mrs. David Burns of Fullerton, Raymond Gabriel and Charley Beck of Shelby, Nebr., and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lawhead and baby of Polk.

This makes a total of 53 extra people now living in Ord and, incidentally, spending a percentage of a several hundred dollar weekly payroll with local merchants. Because of its location Ord has always been fortunate in having construction companies in the territory make their headquarters here, which is one of the many fine points about Ord.

OIL DRILLINGS IN NEBRASKA

This is the fourteenth of the series of articles concerning oil drillings in Nebraska. All information was compiled by research workers of the Nebraska Writers' Project, WPA, from old newspapers and from data supplied by the University of Nebraska.

It is doubtful if any section of the state can equal the number of oil drillings that took place in the Republican Valley near Beaver City. Drillings in that region have been recorded as far back as 1902, but the greatest activity occurred in the 1920's.

Interest in oil had always been strong among the people of the valley because of the proximity of the producing fields of neighboring Kansas, but it was not until Aug. 31, 1922 that the people actually became "oil-conscious."

The possibility of having a producing well in their midst so fascinated the people of Stamford that efforts were made to raise money to drill other holes in the vicinity. Those attempts failed. Drilling activities did not start until May, 1923, when C. M. Patterson of Billings, Mont., a promoter, arrived in town.

Patterson dug many shallow wells in Stamford, several in the middle of the street southwest of the Klein home.

Some time later the Stamford Oil company affiliated with the Southwestern Oil company and the latter began drilling test wells in an effort to determine the source of the oil seepage. The first well was sunk on town lots west of the Klein well in Jan. 1925. It was said that at 225 feet, but the site was abandoned at a depth of 600 feet and the equipment was moved to the Ballard ranch southwest of Oxford for another test.

By Aug. 31, 1926, the Southwestern Company had put down 29 test wells, some of them in Kansas, but with little success. About the time that the Southwestern Oil company was nearing the completion of its test wells, the Glibreath Petroleum company was starting a well on the farm of Mrs. J. H. Edwards, four miles east of Beaver City.

Drilling operations continued despite the many interruptions and by April 14, 1927, the well was 2,250 feet deep. Then at 2,500 feet, oil bearing sands were encountered which, it was claimed, would yield six or seven barrels of oil per day.

At intervals the Times-Tribune complained editorially of the difficulties encountered in securing information of the well's progress. The paper cited one instance when a sign was posted on the derrick which stated: "Ask no questions, and we'll tell you no lies."

On Aug. 30, 1928, it was reported that coal had been struck. However, on Nov. 28 at 9:30 p. m. the well reached a depth of 3,251 feet which fulfilled the drilling contract and operations ceased.

Brief Bits of News

Woodman: Hall—Threshing was all completed in this locality in one week's time. The best yield reported was a field of wheat of Elmer Parkos, on the Mrs. Krahulik place, which yielded 13 bushels per acre on summer fallowed ground. Some fields did not return the seed.

—Frank Kriz was out on his farm Monday, during threshing. Miss Shirley Florida returned home Saturday after spending a week with her sister, Mrs. Raymond Waldmann. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Krikac spent last Friday on the farm helping with threshing. John Boro lost a cow by boat one day last week. Mrs. Paul Waldmann helped Mrs. Will Waldmann cook for threshers last Wednesday. Mrs. Fred Nickerson visited at Charles Krikac's, Joe and Thomas Waldmann's last Friday. She also visited friends at Comstock while on her way home to Kearney. Mrs. Nickerson was Lillian Krikac before her marriage. Misses Mildred Waldmann and Lily Moravec returned home by bus last Saturday after spending a month in Sioux City, Ia.—Dr. McCandless of Sargent, was called to John Boro's last Friday where Laurine, the little daughter of the household, was seriously ill. She is somewhat improved at this writing. Frank Smolik had some cattle trucked to the sandhills one day last week. Forrest Morris doing the trucking—Misfortune never comes singly, the saying goes. Vencil Bruha lost his car, a Model A Ford, just overhauled, by fire. Mrs. Bruha was trying to drive the car, which was left at the straw pile after threshing, when a spark from the exhaust ignited the straw in which the car was stranded and before she could summon help the fire was beyond control and the car and straw pile were consumed by the flames. About a week ago, Emma, the eleven year old daughter, while climbing on the threshing machine, fell, fracturing her arm. She was taken to Dr. Gram at Burwell, who placed her arm in a cast. All the members of the family in the Thomases Waldmann household were ill last week with summer flu.—Mrs. Harold Florida and Mrs. George Donahue called at Raymond Waldmann's Wednesday.

"It's my Bread and Butter"

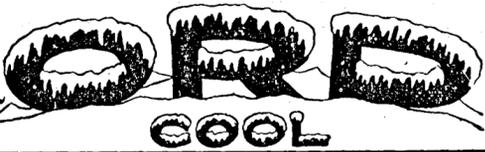

"Don't ask me to violate Nebraska laws. I'm a licensed beer retailer, and when customers ask me to 'wink at the law' as a favor to them, they really are asking me to risk my job and the jobs of those who work for me. My license is my bread and butter, and I can't afford to lose it." Patrons sometimes ask retailers to sell beer after closing hours, or sell to persons visibly intoxicated, or to extend credit—all law violations. Most beer licensees respect and obey the law and operate clean, orderly places. They deserve your patronage. Help us in our law enforcement program . . . don't ask retailers to violate the law.

PERSONALS

—E. L. Kokes and Dr. George R. Gard returned late Monday evening from the district assembly of Rotary presidents and secretaries with the district governor, Dr. Howard Yost of Grand Island. The most interesting part of the program was the report of the delegates to the international assembly at Havana, Cuba, last June.

—Mrs. Frank Pilirowski went to North Loup Friday night where she joined her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Griffith from Los Angeles, Calif., and sister, Mrs. Glow Fackler from Burwell, and all went to Fremont, where they visited their sister, Mrs. Howard Hain and family.

—Through J. A. Clemans, well known auctioneer in Lincoln, Neb., until 1938 and now a resident of Seattle, Wash., the Quiz learns that a big Nebraska picnic will be held at Lincoln park in that city in the near future. This park has a wonderful beach and splendid facilities for a picnic. About 2,500 former Nebraskans are expected to attend.

—Orlo P. Chubbuck of Quincy, Ill., accompanied by his niece, Mrs. Edith Cook of Omaha, arrived in Ord yesterday noon and will remain until tomorrow morning visiting friends of the early days. He is a second cousin of Mrs. C. W. Clark and Mrs. H. H. Hohn, and an early day acquaintance of Mrs. Marilla Flynn and Mrs. Nancy Corvett. The story he told of the early days will appear next week.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Shafer of Polk, and Harry Shafer of Emporia, Kan., were visitors Monday at the H. T. Frazier home. Mrs. Shafer is Mrs. Frazier's sister.

—E. C. Leggett is leaving today for Nisswa, Minn., where he will join his family for a couple of weeks vacation. C. A. Anderson plans on going to Nisswa the latter part of this week.

—The Bill Heuck family left by auto early Sunday morning for Boise, Ida., where they will spend several days visiting Bill's brothers Fred and Roy Heuck and their families.

—L. V. Kokes, who has been a patient in the St. Francis hospital in Grand Island for three weeks, returned to Ord Sunday. He is getting along fairly well. His daughter, Irma, who has been taking care of him while he was there, also returned to Ord.

—Mrs. C. J. McGrath and daughter Ruth, of Columbus, O., left for home yesterday morning after visiting three days in the H. B. Van Decar home. They came to Ord two weeks before, spending a week as guests of the Van Decars, and then returning for this final visit before leaving for home.

—Mrs. H. P. Elliott, daughter Lela Jo and son Art Elliott and daughter of Lincoln visited in the M. F. Crosby home Saturday evening until Sunday evening. The daughter remained and will spend two weeks visiting in Ord. They brought Miss Leota Crosby, who had been attending school in Lincoln, to Ord with them.

BURWELL

Miss Kelva Mignery and Leland Pierce will be married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Mignery near Bartlett at 8 o'clock this evening. The groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Pierce of Burwell. He is the grandson of L. D. Pierce of Ord and Mr. and Mrs. S. J. W. Brown of Lincoln who formerly lived in Ord. The bride couple will be hosts to a dance to be held in the pavilion at Bartlett Friday evening to which all of their friends are invited. Johnny Reidmiller's orchestra of Elgin will furnish the music. A shower of gifts (although she would no doubt prefer one of rain) will be given in honor of the bride in the Methodist church in Bartlett prior to the dance. The newly-weds will go to Albion following the wedding for a short visit with the bride's brother. The last of the month they will leave via auto for Norfolk, Va., where Leland will enlist in the navy.

A total of 1,750 people took advantage of the introductory offer of Claussen's bakery and received free milled milk Saturday. There was enough on hand to serve all comers and a number of small boys were repeat customers.

The Knights of the Bridal Path suffered their first casualty Wednesday evening when the saddle on Blitzerling, Lewis Moore's steed, became loose and it and Lewis were pitched off the horse, landing on his head. He sustained a shiner, numerous scratches, lacerations and a banged-up hip. For several days Mr. Moore hobbled about on a cane but he has now recovered almost fully.

Garfield county was one of the sixteen counties of the state to show an increase in population during the last ten years. The population of Garfield county increased 3,444, a gain of 237 according to the census report released last week. The population of Burwell increased 256. This reveals that the population of the county outside of Burwell decreased nineteen from 1930 to 1940. Most people expected Garfield county to show a loss and attributed Burwell's gain in population to farmers quitting the county and moving to town to go on WPA. The census returns fail to bear out this conclusion. The population of Garfield county increased seven per cent. Only three other counties show a higher percentage of growth, Keith which increased 24 per cent, Scottsbluff and Rock which both grew 18 per cent. The state as a whole lost 5 per cent of its population. People of Burwell have been looking around to determine what made their town grow and what the town has now which it did not have ten years ago. A check up reveals that four filling stations were built in Burwell during the last ten years. Dr. Cram's hospital was built and the Rodeo theater. Two new chain stores came to Burwell the Council Oak and the Gamble store. The Burwell Livestock market was built where at least twelve people are employed every week. The Burwell butter factory has added a poultry feeding and dressing plant and locker system. At least two more men are employed there regularly the year around and about thirty people work there for several months during the turkey dressing season. Ten men in Burwell own or drive trucks, none of whom were engaged in this business ten years ago. The Bredthauer Motor company which commenced doing business in Burwell less than ten years ago now employs twelve people regularly. Today Burwell has three feed stores. Ten years ago it had but two. On the debit side Burwell had two banks ten years ago but only one today. It had two elevators but today only one. Three large general merchandise stores which did a thriving business ten years ago are no more. On the whole it is quite evident that there is more employment available in Burwell now than there was ten years ago.

Miss Huldah Bennett spent the week end in Fullerton where she was a guest of relatives. Miss Isla Britton of Taylor commenced working in the agricultural conservation program office Monday.

NORTH LOUP

The Friends paragon was the scene of a pretty wedding Monday afternoon when Frances Meyers became the bride of Erman Barnhart, Rev. Charles Stevens officiating. They were attended by Erma Goodrich and Arthur Black. The bride was dressed in a black and white redingote dress and wore black and white accessories while the groom was dressed in dark green. Mrs. Barnhart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meyers of North Loup and graduated from the North Loup high school in 1937. Since her graduation she has been employed here the past year acting as a very efficient librarian in the North Loup public library. Mr. Barnhart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Barnhart and graduated from North Loup in 1920. He is employed with the R. C. Franke construction company and has been working on the Ord-North Loup road. For the present Mr. and Mrs. Barnhart are staying at the A. E. Barnhart home but they plan to leave soon with the construction company. Both have a host of friends who wish for them the best of everything in life.

—Dr. Hemphill reports the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Alva Hain, Sunday, July 25. Mrs. Edna Coleman is caring for Mrs. Hain and baby.

A wedding of interest to North Loup people was solemnized Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Williams of Scotia when Elizabeth Williams became the bride of Everett Sommers. The wedding party took their places in the living room of the Williams home against a bank of ferns and flowers most of them grown in the Williams garden and the gardens of Dick Bredthauer of Scotia and Mrs. J. M. Fisher of North Loup. The bride wore a dress of white lace beading and wore a corsage of carnations and poppies asters. Her bridesmaid, Betty June Jensen, wore a dress of pink Kol Lin and carried shasta daisies and delphiniums. Mr. Sommers and his attendant, Bill Sommers were dark suits. Rev. Walter Grantham officiated. After the ceremony 23 guests were served with a wedding dinner. Shortly after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Sommers were made happy by a telephone call of congratulation from the brides sisters, Mrs. Josephine Skinner and Miss Elva Williams of Lake Orion Mich.

Miss Sommers graduated from the high school at Scotia in 1935, her earlier education being obtained in the Davis Creek school. She taught in the Riverdale school and last year was a student in the State University. Mr. Sommers is a contractor, living in Waterloo, Ia., and their home will be there. AT THE SALE RING IN ORD SATURDAY, JULY 27 SALE STARTS AT 1:00 O'CLOCK

There was a heavy run of stock in last Saturday's sale and I thought that most of the market was a little weaker. Climatic conditions are having some effect all over the whole corn belt.

In next Saturday's sale it looks like 150 head of good cattle, including feeder steers, lightweight cattle and a lot of good bucket calves.

The pig market was slow. The most decline being upon the ones that are not so desirable. The fat hog market was strong. This Saturday we look for all classes to be steady.

Consign your stock to this market. We have the buyers here from a distance. We also have orders for certain classes of stock.

Heat Wave Broken, 1.10 Inches of Rain Came Last Evening

Temperature Lower Now But Humidity is Higher; More Rain Predicted.

Following 24 hours of extreme humidity rain began falling about 1 a. m. this morning and continued for about two hours, bringing a total of 1.10 inches of moisture.

Burwell reported a .54 of an inch of rain during the night, and the bus driver, Arthur Van Slyke, stated that there had been a good rain all along the Burwell-Ord highway.

The day was terrific, but to most people the night that followed was even worse. With the thermometer remaining above 90 most of the night and dropping to 85 toward morning when the wind turned to the north.

At Burwell the record shows a shower of .37 of an inch Thursday night, .31 of an inch Sunday morning and .33 of an inch late Sunday night. The rain Sunday morning was heavier north and east of Burwell and lighter to the west.

A light shower fell at Elyria and in the territory northeast Sunday morning, but none of it reached as far south as Ord. Sunday night another shower fell at Elyria, while rain up to 1 1/2 inches was reported at the Albert Krumpl place in the Eureka township.

Ord received .56 of an inch Sunday night and a light shower Monday night, and North Loup received .10 of an inch Monday night. The electrical storm Monday night promised much, but very little rain materialized.

When a snake swallows a frog, that's a dinner. When a frog swallows a snake, that's news. Jake Hoffman says that Anton Capek found his pet bullfrog, a fellow who makes his home in the Capek garden down by the river, with a couple of inches of a garter snake's tail sticking out of his mouth.

People who have seen Guy Keep driving his car around town wonder what that metal cylinder on the right side above the door is for. It is the latest thing in air conditioners, and when it is going good it really keeps the car cool on the hottest day.

Because of the fact that many view the game from the street on the south, no regular admission fee has been charged, but a collection is taken up at each game. Last Sunday the collection amounted to less than two dollars, about one cent each for all present.

A game like that of Sunday would be cheap at 25c, and if all adults would pay a dime and the young folks a nickel there would be plenty of money to finance the games.

The other games Sunday will be Pleasant Hill at Elyria and North Loup at Riverdale. The present standing of the teams follows: North Loup 6, lost 0; Riverdale won 3, lost 1; Ord won 4, lost 2; Elyria won 3, lost 2; Pleasant Hill won 1, lost 6; Manderson won 0, lost 6.

Mrs. Eme Peterson and son Darold spent Sunday and Monday in Wolbach and St. Paul visiting relatives.

Three Deaths Reported From Arcadia This Week

Arcadia—(Special)—Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Essie Tennant, June 9 in Spencer, Ia. Mrs. Tennant was 90 years old and a former resident of Arcadia.

Lorella Holcomb, fifteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Holcomb, passed away at her home Wednesday evening. Lorella had been an invalid all her life. Funeral services were held at the Holcomb home Saturday and burial was made in the Loup City cemetery.

The community was saddened last week by the death of Mrs. Bert Hatfield, which occurred at the home of her daughter near Sargent. Funeral services were held Saturday at the Methodist church in Ansley. The body was taken to Iowa for burial.

Only Minor Damage When Cars Collide

Only slight damage resulted yesterday morning when cars driven by Frank Parkos of near Comstock and a man from O'Neill collided at the intersection northwest of Bussell Park.

Parkos was coming from the east and watching a car coming from the north along No. 11. He stopped his car, but started up again when the car passed going south, without seeing the O'Neill car coming from the south. Luckily there was very little damage done, and neither man was hurt.

Ord Wins Easily From Pleasant Hill Sunday

Playing almost errorless ball behind the splendid pitching of Ernie Piskorski the Ord team of the Loup Valley League easily defeated their visitors, Pleasant Hill, Sunday afternoon by a score of 14 to 2. The hits were 14 to 5, but 8 errors by the Hill boys aided materially in the scoring. Ord's single error did no damage.

It was Piskorski's best showing of the year, his fast-breaking curve setting down 15 men by the strike-out route, three in a row in the first and third innings. He also donated both scores to the Pleasant Hill team, a walk setting up the pins for the scores, which came in the fifth and seventh innings. He also hit twice, once for a home run with two on.

The entire Ord team played fine ball, cutting off four men as they advanced on the bases and thus preventing possible scores. Cummins for Pleasant Hill was doing his share of fooling the batters, striking out 11, but he allowed enough hits to lose almost any ball game. The day was pleasant and the game was well attended.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD

Some time ago the boys caught a family of eight baby skunks over at Arcadia, took them to the veterinarian and had them de-frosted and are keeping them as pets. One of these named Tuffy can be seen any day at the Nelson Auto Wrecking shop. He is a very friendly little fellow, and spends most of his time catching grasshoppers. He has quite a time with a cat named Spotty. Sometimes they play together, but more often they fight. It is worth a trip there just to see them perform.

When a snake swallows a frog, that's a dinner. When a frog swallows a snake, that's news. Jake Hoffman says that Anton Capek found his pet bullfrog, a fellow who makes his home in the Capek garden down by the river, with a couple of inches of a garter snake's tail sticking out of his mouth. When Anton tried to catch the frog to see how long the snake was, he jumped into the river.

People who have seen Guy Keep driving his car around town wonder what that metal cylinder on the right side above the door is for. It is the latest thing in air conditioners, and when it is going good it really keeps the car cool on the hottest day. It holds a bucket of water, and a fan circulates the air around it and forces it into the car.

If something should happen to Director Henry Deines almost any band concert night, Ord has a young man who could step right in and take his place. He is Master Byron Bartunek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bartunek, and he stands behind Mr. Deines and goes through all the motions he does. He may not know the music, as he is only about 3 years old, but he certainly knows all about the rhythm.

Saw Bob Gruber heading for the hill southwest of Ord the other evening carrying his cot. Asked what he had in mind, he said he was going to the hill to try to get some sleep. He was just following the Bible injunction: "Arise take up thy bed, and walk."

Mrs. John Lunney and son Bud drove to Spalding Sunday and spent the day visiting at the Ray Atkinson home, returning that evening Mrs. Eva Holman stayed with Mrs. Marilla Flynn while Mrs. Lunney was away.

Plans Developing For Dedication of New Ord Postoffice

Date Changed to August 14 to Avoid Conflict With Sherman Co. Fair.

The Ord Chamber of Commerce has been busy the past week and committees to have charge of various parts of the program for Dedication Day for Ord's new federal postoffice building have been selected and their special work outlined.

Since last week the date for the dedication has been advanced one day and will be held Aug. 14. The change was made to prevent a conflict with the Sherman county fair which is being held at Loup City that week. Postmaster Alfred L. Hill is general chairman, and the following committees will work with him:

Speaker's stand, public address system, seats, etc., C. J. Mortensen, C. W. Clark, E. L. Kokes; program, invitations, publicity, etc., John P. Msko, Tom Springer, E. C. Leggett, Mr. Hill; free melons (purchase, distribution, etc.), F. V. Cahill, Ed Beranek, Olof Olsson, Frank Piskorski; band contest, Ben Clark, A. A. Wiegardt, Henry Deines; pavement dance, A. J. Auble, Hilding Pearson, E. S. Murray, V. W. Russell.

C. J. Mortensen, chairman of the first committee, says that their part of the work will not be needed until a short time before the day arrives, but that everything will be in readiness then. John P. Misko, chairman of the program committee, says that invitations have been extended to a number of high officials of the postoffice department as well as other well known men in public.

Postmaster Hill mailed a number of invitations yesterday, and without doubt a number of prominent men will be present to speak in the program. The first man to announce that he would be present was Congressman Harry B. Coffey of the fifth Nebraska district, thru whose efforts the appropriation for the Ord postoffice was set aside.

The committees on the free melon feed and the pavement dance are busy and will have a report ready for next week's Quiz. Ben Clark, chairman of the band contest, says that a number of fine bands in this section have been invited to participate, and that they should be heard from by next week.

Ord Girl's Airplane Destroyed by Fire At Grand Island

A fire of unknown origin destroyed Airport Inn at the old Grand Island airport northeast of the city early Sunday morning. Later the body of the owner, Ernest Hemmerling, was found in the ruins. Because of the circumstances a coroner's jury was summoned by County Attorney Holmes to determine the manner of his death. Two professional skaters, entertainers at Hemmerling's night club are being held for questioning by Grand Island police.

The item is of special interest to Ord people since John Sharp once ran this cafe, and the airplane belonging to Miss Evelyn Sharp was stored in a hangar connected with the Inn and was also burned. Miss Sharp is now flying instructor at Spearfish, S. D.

People Are Urged to "See Nebraska First"

Opening advertisement in the campaign to advertise Nebraska was released today. It is directed to the people of Nebraska, urging them to "see Nebraska first," and will appear in every weekly newspaper in the state. Radio announcements stressing the same idea will be broadcast from all Nebraska radio stations.

This following the policy of the state advertising commission announced at its first meeting in Lincoln, July 8, that part of the advertising appropriations will be devoted to educating Nebraskans on the points of interest and recreation in their own state.

Members of the commission point out that Nebraska has twenty-six recreation grounds and seven state parks, and urges Nebraskans to become better acquainted with the Cornhusker state.

Guests of Triple A. The ladies of Elyria, Noble, Ord and Springdale townships will be guests at a Triple A meeting held Saturday, Aug. 3, at 2 p. m., in the Christian church basement. The hostess will be Mrs. Inez Burrows, AAA fieldwoman for Valley county, and the guest speaker, Mrs. Gladys Erasm, AAA fieldwoman for Sherman county. There will be special music, a program, a short movie and refreshments.

Picnic at Park For Ex-Service Men and Families

The American Legion and Legion Auxiliary Posts of Valley and Garfield counties are having a picnic at Bussell Park at Ord on Sunday, August 4th, to which all ex-service men and their families are invited. The program is as follows: 10:00 a. m. "Old Soldiers" Golf Tournament (no green fees). Prizes. Also Kiltball game. 12:30 p. m. Picnic dinner. Everyone bring sandwiches, chicken and covered dish.

1:30 p. m. Speaking mostly on National Defense with addresses by Eugene Nutzman, commander, department of Nebraska American Legion; Henry Kriz, Legion department service officer; Arnold Webber, Sixth District commander. For the Legion Auxiliary: Mrs. C. J. Mortensen, state president; Mrs. W. F. Haycock, Sixth District president.

There will be a loud speaker and seats. The general public is invited to attend this speaking program. 3:30 p. m. After this program all are invited to go to Burwell and attend "Band Day" concerts of various Loup Valley bands, speaking, and free lemonade, under the auspices of the Burwell fire department and city council.

Mrs. Allen Sims Injured Sunday

North Loup, July 31—(Special)—Mrs. Allen Sims was injured Sunday evening when the car in which the family were riding failed to turn a corner after coming down a long hill east of Cotesfield and ran into a bank. They were returning from visiting in her brother's home east of Cotesfield, and faulty brakes are blamed for the accident.

The front of the car and the front fenders were badly smashed. Help was summoned and Mrs. Sims was taken to the doctor at Scotia, where it was found that she had a broken wrist and a number of bad bumps and bruises. All were given emergency treatment and she was then taken home.

Orville Noyes drove to the scene of the accident and brought the wreck home. A peculiar feature was the fact that while Max Sims who was driving, broke a spoke out of the steering wheel with his nose or chin, his rimless glasses were not broken.

Two Accidents Occur In Arcadia Territory

Margaret Baker and Paul Owens were in a car accident Friday morning. Owens was driving north past the Gayety Theatre and Miss Baker was driving east on Main street. The cars collided, damaging the Owens car. However, neither Owens or Miss Baker were injured.

While cleaning a car radiator Thursday Gilbert Gregory was badly scalded on his right shoulder and back. Thinking that the radiator was drained, he took the cap off and steam shot against him. John Weddel, who happened to be there at the time, tore off his shirt and rushed him to the doctor. He is improved at this time.

Ord Campfire Group Will Present Circus

The circus is coming to town! It won't be a real circus but just the same the show will carry an elephant, a lion, a six piece band, four clowns, two tumblers, two tight-rope walkers, a strong man, a magician, and a number of other honest-to-goodness circus performers.

Mrs. Ralph Misko is directing the circus play which will be held at the Ord Opera House, Thursday afternoon, Aug. 1, at 2:30. Members of the three young Camp Fire girl groups will participate in the play, and a ringside seat can be obtained for five cents. The girls are aiming to raise their treasury for projects during the winter months. One of the projects which will probably be undertaken during the winter months is that of European war relief aid. So all you circus enthusiasts remember, "There's a circus coming Thursday afternoon and after the circus there's a carnival."

Edsel Wibbels Injured

Edsel Wibbels the well known athlete from Wolbach, suffered possible impairment of his vision at Lincoln Sunday when a tear gas bomb he was examining exploded close to his eyes. It will be several days before the doctors can determine the extent of the injury.

Play at Burwell Sunday. The Ord Municipal band will play at Burwell Sunday to present a band concert at the Burwell park. The concert will begin at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The Burwell band will come to Ord in a few weeks, to present an exchange concert. The Ord band is under the direction of Henry Deines.

Emil Darges and Elwin Dunlap drove to Osceola Tuesday on business.

Ord Rotarians Hear Randolph Talk on New Road

Highway Engineer Tells of Construction Work on Highway No. 11.

At the close of the Rotarian dinner at Thorne's Cafe Monday evening Dr. G. A. Parkins, member of the entertainment committee, introduced the guest speaker, R. F. Randolph, of the state highway department. In opening his address Mr. Randolph stressed that he would deal with facts of proposed no theories and make no predictions as to what would be done in the future.

He said that it is the work of the department to develop new designs of construction with the view of obtaining the most miles of durable highway for the amount of money expended. The construction of roads in the state has changed greatly in the past ten years. Then concrete was used largely for permanent construction, but now cheaper bituminous mat is being developed.

Ten years ago a type of oil mat road was being tried out in various parts of the state. This differed materially from the present type in that the oil was applied to the top of the road on highways already built without the benefit of a special stabilized base. Because of the variation in the soil and the lack of perfect compaction, this type of construction has not proved entirely satisfactory.

The highway between Ord and North Loup is of the stabilized base type developed by the state highway department. In this work the road bed is first graded and packed. This part of the Ord-North Loup work was done by Theisen Bros. Upon this foundation the stabilized base is laid. This base is composed of a certain proportion of materials found in pits near the highway.

The material is dumped along the highway at one edge of the top of the grade, but before being spread over the grade it must be tested to find if it is the proper consistency. This testing is done in a laboratory set up in the pump station at North Loup. The approved material is spread across the roadbed with grader, harrow or disc, and the right amount of water is added.

This is thoroughly mixed and then compacted by rolling until the maximum amount of density is attained. Mr. Randolph had with him samples of material taken from the roadbed which were almost as heavy as concrete and almost as hard, the weight per cubic foot being about 130 pounds as compared with 150 pounds for concrete. He also had with him a block of ordinary soil for comparison.

When this base is completed it is ready for the prime coat of asphalt emulsion put on with a machine called a distributor at the rate of three tenths of a gallon to the square yard. This coat is allowed to dry and soak in. Later a somewhat different emulsion is spread for a second coat, the same thickness as the first coat, and this is covered with a sand gravel coat which is rolled into the emulsion, and the road is complete.

Where materials are available near the work this type of road construction costs around $3,000 per mile, exclusive of the preliminary grading, as compared with $20,000 per mile for concrete. The method has not been in use long enough to determine the lasting qualities of such a road, but it is expected to prove very durable. Mr. Randolph's talk was highly appreciated by all present.

Pierce Office Moved Monday A. W. Pierce moved from the basement room beneath Ben's Grill to the offices in the rear of the building until recently occupied by E. L. Kokes.

Ord Men Severely Beaten At Dance In Garfield County

Warrant Issued for Arrest of Out-state Man who Settled Argument With Bottle.

Burwell—(Special)—There was excitement a plenty at the little country dance held at the Barney Keefe home Saturday night. Along about midnight a group of Ord boys Lester Peterson, Raymond Hurlbert and Joe Dugosh and a young man from Washington, Robert Culvert, were arguing a rather unimportant matter. The young man from Washington did not apparently believe that the topic warranted so much discussion. "This is the way we settle things in Washington," he declared, and grabbing a bottle commenced an attack on the three Ord boys who sustained bruises, cuts and lacerations. They were brought into Dr. Cram's hospital for medical attention. Dr. Cram said that one boy sustained a cut tendon in one hand which might prove to be serious injury if it fails to heal properly. County Attorney Manassil issued a warrant Monday afternoon for Mr. Culvert's arrest. Sheriff Johnson went to North Loup and called at the home where Mr. Culvert had been visiting only to learn that his victim had previously made his departure. A charge of assault faces him in Garfield county court when and if he shows up.

When Sheriff Johnson was leaving the dance he noticed a number of cars stopped on the highway nearby the Keefe home. An investigation revealed that the occupants were enjoying an altercation with Lumir Sich and Eddie Dumond both of Ord being the participants. He immediately stopped the amusement by arresting both combatants who will appear before Judge Rose in county court tomorrow to face the charge of assault.

LOCAL NEWS —Vernon Williams of North Loup was rushed to the Clinic hospital Tuesday night for an emergency appendicitis operation. —Mr. and Mrs. Adam Augustyn and sons Ray and Daniel and daughter, Rachel and John Filip made a business and pleasure trip to Yankton, S. D., Monday making the trip in one day. —Elsie Socho, who has been visiting at the Andrew Kusek home, returned to her home in Duncan Sunday. She was taken to Duncan by Henry Kusek and Svl Shobkusi, who spent the day visiting relatives in Duncan.

LeRoy Fraziers Moving to Idaho

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Frazier, for the past ten years residents of Ord, will leave within the next week for their new home at Jerome, Ida., where LeRoy will have complete charge of the only undertaking establishment in the town, as well as a number of rooms.

The man by whom he will be employed owns five funeral homes and needed a capable man for the Jerome location. Jerome is just across Snake River from Twin Falls, at the north end of the highest bridge in the world. It is a town nearly the size of Ord and is located in the heart of the largest irrigation project in the world.

The Fraziers came to Ord in 1930 and they and the children have become a part of the community life here. They would prefer to remain, but Mr. Frazier feels he this is an opportunity which should not be neglected. Through a deal closed the past week he has sold his property, located at 2218 M street, to Ralph Misko.

High School, Peppers Win Games Last Night

Playing fine ball behind the nice pitching performance of Royal Fredericksen, the Chanticleers won at will over the Cold Storage last night at the fair grounds by a score of 13 to 2. Nay did not arrive until the second inning, and A. Jorgensen allowed four runs in the first. When he did arrive he was far off his usual effective game and allowed eight hits and five walks.

Charles Cetak essayed to pitch against the Dr. Peppers in the second game, and hurled a fine game except in the fifth when three hits, an error and five stolen bases let in four of the Peppers' eight runs. The Douthits collected five runs off Bob and Paul Adamek, two being home runs by Dahlin and Stoddard. The Adameks fanned none but kept the opposition hitting ineffectively.

"Allan Jones' Sale Fine" Reports M. B. Cummins

The sale held at the Allan Jones farm southwest of Ord yesterday was the best in a year, according to M. B. Cummins, auctioneer. The day was warm but not uncomfortable, and people, most of whom were buyers came from a long distance. Mr. Jones was surprised at the size of the crowd, and was well pleased with prices paid. There was an exceptionally fine offering at the sale, and everything brought good prices with the exception of the milk cows, which brought slightly less than expected. The canned fruit, and household goods, light cattle and grain all sold well. Mr. Cummins is looking forward to a favorable season for farm sales this fall.

WHAT IS FIFTH COLUMN?

The so-called fifth column is not a new idea in conquering a nation. It was used in the early history of America by the original inhabitants, the Indians.

When the attack came they would open gates, loosen livestock, set fires or do anything they could to help the invading tribe.

Fifth column is nothing more than an elaborate spy system worked out by apparently friendly people who actually are in the pay of a foreign power.

It was through the activities of this fifth column that Austria was taken over without a fight. The same influence was responsible for the fall of Czechoslovakia.

When Germany turned her attention to Denmark and Norway, the former realized that with the entire country over run with spies resistance would be useless.

Then came the blitzkrieg against Holland and Belgium. Following the World War, many families in these countries had adopted orphan German children and had raised them to maturity.

Instances almost without number of fifth column activities have made the news since the start of that invasion, and the fifth column more than any other force is credited with the amazing success of the German drive through France.

In fact, in a remarkably frank admission, a German spokesman recently gave credit for the victory to three forces, the fifth column activities, the tanks and the airplanes.

Why Hitler did not continue his attack by crossing to England as soon as France surrendered is the wonder of the world. Every day he delays England grows in strength, and his own forces become weaker.

Today, in the opinion of military strategists, any attempt Germany makes to invade England will fail, and it is evident that Hitler knows it.

He is seizing on every possible excuse for delay. He makes England what he called a final offer of peace. Of course the terms were unacceptable, but he made the offer.

In the face of world opinion and especially the opinion of his own people, Hitler must go on. He cannot stop where he is without acknowledging the superiority of England, and this admission would in the end prove fatal to a totalitarian state, in which only continued success will be tolerated.

The reasons why England has escaped so far are apparent. Hitler depends upon three forces for success, and one of these, the all-important fifth column, is of little force in Britain.

This leaves only the third force, the airplanes, to carry on the conquest. At the start of the war the German air force was vastly superior in numbers, but thousands have been lost, and with them, what is more important, several thousand trained aviators, without whom the finest air fleet in the world is useless.

Today the British and German air forces are nearer on a parity, and when quality of planes and aviators is considered, the British are actually superior. The answer is apparent. Hitler has not moved lately because he does not know just what to do.

deal to our democratic mode of life. It is up to us to weed out the tares of treachery from the wheat of citizenship.

It appears that there are in the United States today more than three million aliens, all of whom are to be registered and finger printed. The government should go even farther and send home all those who are gainfully employed here and who refuse to become citizens.

In helping to weed out objectionable foreigners we must use common sense, an element which was notably absent during the World War. If care is not exercised another reign of terror like that of a generation ago will result and thousands of patriotic citizens will suffer because of race when their only thought is to live as peaceful citizens.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT

We Don't Vote for People

If the election were to be held today there would be very few people vote for Willkie or Hugh Butler, and still many think both would be elected. The fact of the matter is, usually in our great democracy, we do not vote for a man; we vote against some certain man.

It may be that reason that Willkie and Butler will be elected (if they are). In the case of Roosevelt, he has made some enemies and there is quite a sentiment already against the third term. If Willkie does not get into too many jams; that is if he does not talk too much, he may get elected more as a protest against the present set-up in place of upon his own merits, which are good enough, no doubt. That was the case of Harding and Cox. Harding was elected, not so much because of his own qualifications, but as a protest against the party in power.

The same may result in the senatorial contest. Few people know Hugh Butler more than he has been a western man and a pioneer and now is a grain man in Omaha, but they do know Cochran. There are things about Cochran that many do not like, and some will vote for anyone in preference to him. It is doubtful if he has made himself popular enough as governor, to override his unpopularity.

The Grapes of Wrath

I was anxious to see the picture "The Grapes of Wrath" which was shown at Scotia last week. In the first place it may forewarn many of us what is in store for us, if we keep drying out.

There has been a good deal of condemnation of the book and picture, some saying it not a true situation. However, in another book I recently read, the author a citizen of California, said the reason so many found fault with it was because it was the truth.

Upon seeing it I could not help but be reminded of Allan Tappan, a couple of years ago, loading his panel truck with people and five dollars and striking out for Washington, there was a two week old baby too among them and they arrived safely as far as anything I ever heard.

The discouragement over this section of the country this summer, is the worst of any yet. Many proclaim this the worst year, but it don't seem much different to me than many others and especially 1934. But everyone has become a little poorer as we come along and many of those that are left here haven't money to get away or to live on either.

It takes a good deal of nerve to strike out with nothing to go to. Rev. Ebrret, Herman Dazel, Calvin Bresley, and others who have traveled say that one might be much worse off than right here among your friends and neighbors.

Short Shavings

In driving in from Mira Valley I noticed where one man's corn planter had become plugged and he had missed two rows clear across the field. It was too bad he did this but I am sure it will make no difference in the yield this fall.

Roy Cox said, on one score, he'd make a good preacher. That was because he liked chicken. We decided that when we invited the preacher to feed at our place, we should run out of food and not have too elaborate a spread either. That way he would think us poor and consequently would not expect so much in the collection plate when it is passed.

And still on the subject of preachers, at a picnic recently, Rev. Ebrret complimented the great quantity of food and said "Do you folks always have this much?" Rev. Ebrret came from a college town in New York state and one of the group here decided he must be in the habit of eating at banquets.

The general opinion is that if one wants to be satisfactorily fed, before going to a banquet, he should eat his supper. Rev. Ebrret said too that land prices had not fallen any more here than back in New York state. He said that land back there that once sold for one hundred dollars an acre or more went begging now for twenty. On top of that it has been raining there, in fact raining too much. The week before he left in June it rained every day and his daughter wrote him after he arrived here saying it had not missed a day since he left.

Mrs. Ebrret said she knew of a farm in Pennsylvania, and not a bad farm either, that the owner could not sell or get a bid on. She said it belonged to a friend of hers and that they had offered to sell it for no more than the improvements were worth but still no sale.

The situation is similar here, in that so many farms are for sale and the loan companies own so many (all for sale too) that they are a drag on the market. I mean farms are a drag on the market. They think too that another reason farms do not sell is that most men want to get away from the hard work and find city jobs with shorter hours, or WPA jobs with less worry and work involved.

A short letter from Mrs. Orville Burdick of Denver in answer to Frank Bievens of Ansley was in town on business Sunday. Bob Roberts purchased a cafe in Columbus, located south of the viaduct on highway No. 30 and 31. Mrs. Roberts and Phyllis have gone to Columbus and Bob is operating their cafe here. The cafe in Columbus is known as the Columbus Cafe.

Donald Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Beryl Miller, is trying to get the right kind of a start in the dairy business. He has for his foundation stock a Holstein heifer and one calf, which already make him a dairyman in a small way. Donald is interested in developing a commercial herd of high producing milk cows, such as the one that his Dad has on their farm fifteen miles south of Ord. He hopes to do this by growing his heifers out and breeding them to one of the Ord Cooperative Creamery's purebred Holstein bulls.

Already Donald has compiled a six months' record of production and butterfat tests on each of their cows. This record will be finished at the end of the year, then put away for future comparison with records of the cows' daughters. It should give an indication as to the bull's breeding value.

Several other agricultural students are attempting the same thing that Donald is doing with various kinds of animals. Most of the boys are using good grades to get their start and are succeeding quite well.

This of course is nothing new for the North Loup valley, as livestock has long been considered one of the basic enterprises here. The boys are simply interested in getting a fair start for themselves with good quality livestock. It is hoped that in a few years their herds will carry on the reputation that has been common here in the past.

ARCADIA

Kernit Erickson was a business visitor in Archer Tuesday. Mrs. Ray Horton and children of Scottsbluff and Mrs. Floyd Altig of Lyman arrived Tuesday for a short visit at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Horton.

We had a terrific dust storm early Thursday morning. The wind was very hot and blow down a few trees about town. Rev. and Mrs. Smith are back from their vacation at their daughter's home in Plainview. Arcadia lost their ball game last Sunday to Rockville, the game being played there, by the score of Rockville 2, Arcadia 1.

Loretta French of St. Paul is visiting this week with Marjorie Lowe Ramsey. Mrs. Jessica Rettenmayer and Irene Downing left at five o'clock Monday morning for Long Pine, where they will spend the week fishing and visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Helleberg and son attended a picnic held near the river here on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Cash Pokracka and two sons of Chicago who are in this vicinity visiting relatives and friends spent Friday afternoon in the Joe Clemmy home.

Mr. and Mrs. Cash Welnjak spent Sunday afternoon at Gables. The Thos., Osentowski family were Sunday afternoon visitors in the Phillip Osentowski farm home. Mr. and Mrs. Emil Anderson and sons Gordon and Charles of Omaha arrived Sunday for a week's visit here in the home of Mrs. Anderson's mother, Mrs. C. E. Wozniak.

Mr. and Mrs. Abe Duryea, jr., are in charge of the cooking department of the Chadron state teachers college geography tour this summer. They are touring northern and eastern United States. Mr. and Mrs. Olin Bellinger visited at the Alfie Sanders' home in Kearney Sunday.

We saw Sam Hawthorne in town Monday. Mrs. Martin Benson entertained the H. O. A. club Wednesday with seven ladies present. It was decided that Mrs. Henry Creemen would entertain the Kensington instead of the H. O. A. next meeting.

Mrs. Merle Moody has been helping at her parents home the past week due to Mr. Hyatt's illness. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Creemen left Monday for Silver Creek for a short visit with relatives. Mrs. Rosequist will stay with Mrs. Creemen's mother while they are away.

Donald Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Beryl Miller, is trying to get the right kind of a start in the dairy business. He has for his foundation stock a Holstein heifer and one calf, which already make him a dairyman in a small way. Donald is interested in developing a commercial herd of high producing milk cows, such as the one that his Dad has on their farm fifteen miles south of Ord. He hopes to do this by growing his heifers out and breeding them to one of the Ord Cooperative Creamery's purebred Holstein bulls.

Already Donald has compiled a six months' record of production and butterfat tests on each of their cows. This record will be finished at the end of the year, then put away for future comparison with records of the cows' daughters. It should give an indication as to the bull's breeding value.

Several other agricultural students are attempting the same thing that Donald is doing with various kinds of animals. Most of the boys are using good grades to get their start and are succeeding quite well.

This of course is nothing new for the North Loup valley, as livestock has long been considered one of the basic enterprises here. The boys are simply interested in getting a fair start for themselves with good quality livestock. It is hoped that in a few years their herds will carry on the reputation that has been common here in the past.

Text: Hospital patients sometimes fail to realize that an Intern is actually a Doctor, who has passed his Medical School tests and been through from 6 to 8 years of preparation. From 2 to 4 years is the average Internship. During Internship the Doctor visits patients between calls of attending Physician, acts in emergencies, keeps patients comfortable and assists in operations or wherever a second Physician is needed, but does nothing on his own initiative. This very valuable training under older and more experienced Doctors is highly concentrated practice. Each two years of Internship is about equivalent in experience to five years of private practice. Something Different

It is queer the bug we mortals have; we seem to need to be busy to be happy, have you noticed? When we aren't working we promptly find something else to do and label it play.

Some women have to dig and scrub and scour all the time to be happy, they can't let their houses alone. Other women are bothered that way about their children, they can't let them be but must be digging out ears, tweaking noses and fengling them constantly. And some women like to cook and must be constantly at it, it is a sort of fever with them. Sometimes I get it myself.

Sometimes they get started at knitting or something, and they knit till every member of the family has hand-done socks, sweaters, dresses, skirts, suits and then rip them out and knit them up over again.

Men are equally bad at completely relaxing. How few men can take a vacation and sit down and relax. Mostly, they pace the floor, want to tinker on the car, want to go take a trip someplace or see a show, or visit with someone. They aren't happy alone and idling, any more than their women.

Now take Mr. Fenner. He is forever finding something more to build at his Cullen Lake cottage. He has built stone walls, a stone archway, stepping stones, a stone fireplace of huge proportions, seats and such. And now, largely because he is full of nervous energy and ambition, he is beginning a stone garage. Yes, you heard me right!

"If I can't find something I want to do up here I'll get in the car and go home," threatened Mr. Fenner.

And I remember when the doctor told Mrs. Tom Williams of west Ord that she was through working and had to take it easy. Mrs. Williams had worked long hours every day of her life and thoroughly enjoyed it. On hearing the doctor's dictate she wept many bitter tears; the idea of never again being able to work! I don't believe the doctors ever issue such ultimatum to lazy people... they don't develop that type of illnesses.

Isn't 'third termite' an appropriate expression? Termites bore from within, you know, and the damage they do isn't evident at once.

I hereby announce that I intend to vote for Wendell Willkie. That probably won't make him president but if enough other people feel the same way it might.

For one thing, I admire his honest statements, such as: "I frankly admit I sought the office of president."

Perhaps when Willkie is in office I won't like him any better than I do Roosevelt. But I can't help feeling that other crises were successfully passed without drafting a two-term for a third term, and this one can be also. They look fearsome, these next four years do. But how about Washington, leaving a helpless new government without his strong touch? And he had no precedent to deter him. Yet he firmly and repeatedly declined the office that truly sought the man.

If there is only one of us smart enough to save the rest of us, there isn't much use to try to save any of us. Is there? —Irma.

NOTICE TO RE-OPEN, BAR CLAIMS AND CONFIRM DISTRIBUTION.
In the County Court of Valley County, Nebraska.
In the matter of the estate of Oscar Babcock, Deceased, who may appear and contest the same. Whereas, there has been filed in this Court a Petition and Motion of Hugh D. Madsen and Margaret Madsen, owners of the following described real estate:
Part of Lot Two (2), in Block Two (2), of Babcock's Second Addition to North Loup, in Valley County, Nebraska, described as, beginning at a point 20 feet west of the southeast corner of said Lot Two (2), and running thence north 100 feet, thence west 25.55 feet, thence south 46 feet, thence west 1.15 feet, thence south 54 feet, thence east 27 feet to the point of beginning; alleging that Oscar Babcock died intestate on or about October 9th, 1914, being the owner of said real estate and resident and inhabitant of Valley County, Nebraska, and praying and moving among other things that the allegations of said Petition and Motion be found true; that said Estate be re-opened; that all claims against said Estate be found and declared barred by operation of law; that the Final Account be found true and correct and that the approval thereof be confirmed and that it be re-approved; that the Petition for Distribution be granted and the Decree of Distribution be confirmed and re-entered in accordance with law and for such other and further relief as may be just and equitable.

August, 1940, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the County Court Room in Ord, Nebraska, as the time and place for hearing said Petition and Motion, at which time and place all persons interested in said Estate may appear and contest the same. MEDICAL FACTS

Sponsored by 4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

In the past few years many people have tried to speak for the doctors of the United States in an effort to convince the public that the doctors favored federalized or "state" medicine rather than the private practice of medicine that we have had since our country has existed. Some, if not all of this one sided argument, has been for the purpose of convincing the voters that the present system of medicine is inadequate and that some such system as that in Germany, Russia or England would be better. Even a few small groups of doctors have publicly announced their views favoring State Medicine and have made it sound as though they spoke for a large group of the physicians of our land.

Recently, "Modern Medicine" took a poll of the physicians. The questions were asked of doctors in all parts of the country, in large cities, small cities and towns. Specialists of all kinds, general practitioners, members of the American Medical Association and those who do not belong to this association, were asked to answer the questions, and did so. Those with large as well as small incomes, the young and the old, were included. In all, 20,215 ballots were cast in the poll, which is said to be far more than required for a "Gallup" poll. Four questions were asked, as follows: (1). Do you approve the platform of the American Medical Association? (2). Specifically, do you favor local responsibility...for the expenditure of public funds allotted to provide medical care for people who need it and can't afford it? (3). Would you cooperate with a federally administered and controlled legislative program tending toward drastic curtailment of the private practice of medicine? (4). Do you think such a program would result in a deterioration of the quality of medical service available to most people in the United States?

Tabulation of the answers shows a startling uniformity of opinion from doctors of all classes and in all parts of the country, whether they are members of the American Medical Association or not. Eighty-five percent approved the platform of the American Medical Association. Eighty-eight percent favor local responsibility for medical care and believe that federal control would result in poorer service. Eighty-five percent would refuse to cooperate with a federal program which threatened the continued existence of private practice.

We see, therefore, that when the doctors speak for themselves, there can be no doubt of their feelings toward state medicine as compared with the system under which they now practice. They undoubtedly feel that the health of the people and the advancement of the science of medicine would suffer under a federal system of practice.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

July 31, 1930

Emil Kokes was hurt when his car was totally wrecked in a collision with another car between Loup City and St. Paul. The Hather and Blessing Oil station was being repaired with the red, white and blue colors of the Independent Oil company. A jury absolved Charles E. Inness of Garfield county from all blame in connection with an auto wreck in Merrick county in which two were killed. Winners in a merchants business builder contest were Harold Chotena, Bill Tunnicliff, Jacqueline Meyer, Charlotte Blessing and Arden Clark. The corn crop was reported as slightly burned, but immediate rain would still save it. Charles A. Bowers, head of the Ord schools for four years, was to go to Holdrege for the coming year. He was to be succeeded by Millard C. Bell, who was at Edgar four years. Chester Nay, son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Nay of Los Angeles was killed in an auto accident near that city.

July 29, 1930

Edward Clement of near Horace was instantly killed by a bolt of lightning while mowing alfalfa on his farm. The horses were not hurt. Joe Pekar was taking over the interest in the Ord Journal hitherto held by Mrs. Rogers. The Ord hospital was completed and was opened for public inspection. Twenty years later it is difficult to understand how the community got by so long without it. Scofia came to Ord and took the long end of a 5 to 2 score, it being a good game all the way. The Hugo Players showed in Ord for a three night run, starting July 26, but there is no record that they brought any rain. Weller Bros. were having some new coal sheds built along the north side of their yards, where the coal could be unloaded direct from the new side track. The walls of the Tolen building opposite the postoffice were about half up and the terra blanca framing of the doors and windows was being put in place.

July 28, 1930

William Nielsen had an exciting time with his Brush one-lunger when a rod punctured his gas tank and the gas under the car became ignited. He saved the car, but singed his hair. Owen Conway and Miss Glayds Browning were married by Judge Mullen of Grand Island, July 22. Miss Victoria Wisda, formerly with the Merna Postal Card, was to have a job with the Ord Journal. The assessed value of merchandise for Valley county was given out as $71,171, although at the time there were several Ord merchants, who according to their advertising, had that much or more. Mayor John Carson went to Omaha to view the Aeroplane Exposition, which was quite a novelty in those days. Springdale was to have a new school building at a cost of $1,500. The corner stone of the new Baptist church at Horace was laid. Mrs. John Klinker arrived in Ord for a visit, and Mrs. Peter Mortensen gave a reception in her honor. Rollin W. Bond's band went to York to furnish music for a firemen's tournament being held there. Among those who went were Toot Waters, Charles Masin, Joe and Frank Barta, Ed Newman, Elmer Gard and George Eret.

Bud Shirley had been honored by being elected one of the judges at the firemen's tournament at York. Abner Goodrich of North Loup was married to a young lady at Norfolk where they were both employed in the asylum. There was much talk about having a sporting tournament in town, including baseball, tennis, ping-pong and other exciting past-times. August 1, 1930 The Peoples Independent party had their county convention at the court house, with all precincts represented except North Loup, which had no Independents. E. W. Truett of Manderson was chosen as chairman and R. B. Miller of Calamus, now of Burwell, as secretary. A reader ad stated that "The Ord postoffice is authorized to issue and pay foreign money orders." J. G. Sharpe, water works engineer, issued a notice setting the hours during which water could be used on lawns in Ord, stating that this order would be strictly enforced. The date of the "Aesthetic Concert," whatever that was, had been changed from August 1 to August 8. The following postoffice advice is interesting: "Rub the gummed side of your stamps on your hair if you desire to carry them this hot weather. It will prevent them from adhering to the sides of your pocketbook, but will not prevent their sticking readily when moistened."

July 28, 1883 Saturday, July 22, the courthouse square was surveyed by County Surveyor, Charles J. Nelson. Many of the business men were not pleased with the idea of selling the lots and the lawyers claimed it could not be done. It evidently was not done, as the ground still belongs to the county. G. W. Milford and wife returned to Pennsylvania to dispose of a stock of goods he owned there, and then to return to Ord to stay. The people of Ord met July 22 to discuss railroad matters. Mr. Grimes was elected chairman and J. H. Capron secretary. A committee comprising B. C. White, W. W. Haskell, Fred Harris and A. Babcock was appointed to wait on the Union Pacific officials and offer them pre-empt bonds in the sum of $10,000 and 40 acres of land owned by S. S. Haskell to build into Ord.

There was no question about whether the group in last week's Quiz, again shown above, would be identified. The only question was who would be the first to recognize them all. Mrs. Margaret Wentworth made the first guess at 10:40 a. m., Thursday, and missed only W. H. Wisda. Mrs. Harvey Parks got them all OK at noon Thursday, as follows: Back row, Bert Milford, Mrs. James Milford, and James Milford; middle row, G. W. Milford, Mrs. George Eret, Kit Carson; front row, Angle Ramsay Bond and W. H. Wisda. They were the sales force of G. W. Milford and Sons about 1888. Guesses were also received from Mrs. C. E. McGrew, Gertrude Hawkins and Sarah McLain, Mary I. Smith, Mrs. Amollia Partridge and W. H. Wisda, Lexington, Nebr. "This is a good time to give a sketch of the Milfords and their activities in connection with the business life of Ord. It is not known just when G. W. Milford first came to Ord, but it was early in the year 1882. He was preceded by his brother, R. F. (Pinn) Milford, who ran the mill across the river from Ord in the early eighties. G. W. Milford's first business venture in Ord was when he assisted his brother Finn financially in the old Ord mill. This mill started advertising in the earliest issues of the Ord Quiz as "Ord City Mills, R. F. Milford and Co., Proprietors. Keep constantly for sale Flour (three grades), Graham, Corn Meal, Bran, etc. Custom Grinding Promptly Done."

Proceedings of the City Council

July 5, 1940 The Mayor and Council of the City of Ord, Valley County, Nebraska met in adjourned special session at the City Hall at 8:00 p. m. Mayor Cummins presided. City Clerk Rex Jewett recorded the proceedings of the meeting. The Mayor directed the clerk to call the roll. The clerk called the roll and the following Councilmen were present: Blomond, Krikac, Rohla, McGinnis, Johnson. Absent: Burrows. Mrs. Anna A. Petska appeared before the council and asked that her water bill be either cancelled or materially reduced. No action was taken, the bill remaining as before. The following resolution was introduced by Councilman McGinnis who moved its passage and adoption. Be It Resolved by the Mayor and Council of the City of Ord, Valley County, Nebraska: 1. That they hereby find and determine that pursuant to the resolution heretofore entered in the minutes of their proceedings, public notice that the City proposes to issue Refunding bonds in the principle amount of Fifty Five Thousand Dollars ($55,000.00) to take up and pay off the bonds described in said resolution, has been given by publication in the Ord Quiz, a legal newspaper printed and of general circulation in said City, for two weeks prior to the date fixed for taxpayers to file objections to said proposed proceedings, which notice was published in the issues of the Ord Quiz on June 19th, 26th and July 3rd, 1940 and was pasted up on the door of the building in which the Mayor and Council hold their meetings, on the 19th day of June, 1940, and remained posted until the date set for filing such objections. 2. They further find that no objection has been filed as to the amount of said bonds as stated in said notice, or against the validity of said bonds, and the time for filing said objections has expired. The foregoing resolution having been read, Councilman Rohla seconded the motion for its passage and adoption and the roll being called on the passage of said resolution. The following Councilmen voted "Yea": McGinnis, Rohla, Krikac, Johnson, Blomond. The lumber used in the Milford building was all hauled from North Loup, as the railroad did not build into Ord until later. The hall upstairs was used as a gathering place for the community for a time, and many social evenings were spent there by early day Ordites. Later it was used for a display room for rugs and curtains and for the making of ladies' hats. About 1900 the stock of groceries was closed out and at that time Mr. Milford's sons, William James (Jim) and George Herbert (Bert) were taken into partnership under the name of G. W. Milford and Sons. Bert died in 1901, and Jim bought out his interest, the new firm being known as G. W. Milford and Son. G. W. Milford died Feb. 13, 1914, having been in business constantly since June, 1883, almost 31 years. The business continued for the time under the name of Milford and Son, the Milford referring to Mrs. G. W. Milford. The stock was taken over by the son in 1920 under the name of James Milford. Mrs. G. W. Milford died in 1924. Due to ill health James Milford closed out the business, turning the goods on hand to another party in 1922. Shortly after that time fire broke out in the store, damaging both building and contents. This blow doubtless had much to do with the death of James Milford, who passed on in 1934. When he relinquished the store in 1932 it had been under Milford management for a period of nearly fifty years. Since the fire the Milford building has stood empty, a ghost of the grand old days that used to be, when the Milford corner was the chief meeting place for people in Ord. Two slogans were made famous by the Milfords, "Meet Me at Milfords" and "Wear Milford Shoes."

It appearing that the Councilmen present having voted "Yea," and none voted "Nay," the Mayor declared the resolution duly passed and approved. ORDINANCE 116 Whereupon the Mayor announced that the introduction of Ordinance No. 116, was now in order. Whereupon it was moved and seconded that the minutes of proceedings of the Mayor and Council of the City of Ord, Valley County, Nebraska, in the matter of passing and approving Ordinance No. 116, be preserved and kept in a separate and distinct volume, known as the "Ordinance Record," City of Ord, Nebraska, and that said minutes in said separate and distinct volume be incorporated in and made a part of these minutes as though it were spread at large herein. The Mayor directed the Clerk to call the roll. The Clerk called the roll and the following was the vote on this motion: Yeas: Johnson, Rohla, Blomond, McGinnis, Krikac. Nays: None. Absent: Burrows. Motion: Carried. The application of Herschel McGrew for a building permit was then presented and read. Moved and seconded that the request be granted, and the permit issued. Motion carried. There being no further business to come before the Mayor and the Council it was moved and seconded that the meeting adjourn. Carried. Attest: M. B. Cummins, Mayor. Rex Jewett, City Clerk.

Also mentions "Three Big Days Three Big Nights" and "AUGUST 6 ENTRY DAY".

While there is nothing in the Quiz to prove it, the Milford building was erected by a well known builder of early days, Matt Coffin. The quality of the work he did can be attested by the present condition of the building after a period of 57 years. The building was completed and opened to the public early in June, 1883. The first ad of G. W. Milford appeared in the Quiz for Aug. 31, 1883 reading as follows: "We are agents for the Ord City Mills, and will exchange flour and meal for wheat and corn at as favorable rates as can be had in the state and will pay the highest Spot Cash price for all kinds of grain.—G. W. Milford and Company." This ad is of interest since it proves that the company was handling groceries at the time as well as dry goods. Most stores of the time handled both lines, since the farmers preferred to do all their trading at the same place and any store which wanted its share of the business carried both lines. The above ad was a "reader" and the first large space ad, nearly half a page, appeared in the issue of Nov. 28, 1884: "The Last Grand Rally! The Greatest Tumble! The Heaviest Smash ever known to the Clothing and Dry Goods trade! The administration is going to change and we are going to get there first. We offer $50,000 worth of Dry Goods, Carpets, Clothing, Boots, Shoes and Gloves without referring to the cost.—G. W. Milford and company."

MEDICAL FACTS
Sponsored by 4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

In the past few years many people have tried to speak for the doctors of the United States in an effort to convince the public that the doctors favored federalized or "state" medicine rather than the private practice of medicine that we have had since our country has existed.

Recently, "Modern Medicine" took a poll of the physicians. The questions were asked of doctors in all parts of the country, in large cities, small cities and towns. Specialists of all kinds, general practitioners, members of the American Medical Association and those who do not belong to this association, were asked to answer the questions, and did so.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barz and Muriel spent Sunday in Palmer with the Cliff Rusnuss family. Helen Weese of Fullerton came over on the Sunday bus and is spending the week in the Orin Carr home.

Mr. and Mrs. Delmer VanHorn arrived home from Salem, W. Va., Monday. Mr. Van Horn has been taking some special music courses in summer school at Cincinnati and Mrs. VanHorn visited her people. Alta VanHorn drove to North Loup in company with them and will spend the time with her father, Robert Van Horn, till her school work as instructor in Salem college begins in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Stodgill of Grand Island were Tuesday visitors in the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Adams. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Willoughby returned Thursday from Worland, Wyo., where they had spent a week with Mr. and Mrs. Logan Garrison. The week end had been spent in company with the Garisons at Yellowstone park.

Thursday evening guests in the A. L. McMindes home honoring Annabelle's birthday included Bernice Wilson and Dorothy Meyers and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Krenulacek both of Farwell. Dr. Paul K. Hemphill has been called for a year of service with the medical division of the United States army, his services to begin in August. When he wrote his parents he had not been assigned a place but his family will remain in Pawhuska, Okla. Dr. Karga of Scotia has also been called for a year and will go Sept. 1.

Buddie Hoepfner celebrated his birthday Monday evening by having several of his friends spend the evening with him. Included in the guests were Alfred Olsen, Virgil Annyas, Dale Stine and George Cox.

As stated last week, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Loomis and family of Newton, Kan., are also visiting here. Mrs. Loomis, Mrs. Koll and Mrs. Miska are all daughters of the Brechbills.

Orlo Chubbuck, Early Resident, Here Tuesday Orlo P. Chubbuck, who lived in Valley county during the trying years of 1873 to 1879, and who has lived elsewhere since that time was in Ord for a two day visit. He lives at Quincy, Ill., and arrived from Omaha last Tuesday with his niece, Mrs. Edith Cook, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Duncan, who, as Mrs. Sarah Burse, lived in Springdale in the '70s. Mr. Chubbuck is a second cousin of Mrs. C. W. Clark, her father, Bruce Chubbuck, being a cousin of his. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. Russell L. Chubbuck and lived on what is now the Hawkins place on Elm Creek. The Frederick family lived half a mile north and he was well acquainted with Mrs. Marilla (Frederick) Flynn, whom he visited while here. The Chubbuck family arrived in the valley early in April, he thinks April 17, 1873. They spent the first night at the Doc. Harter place in Springdale. That night the blizzard of 1873 hit and they had to stay with the Harters for three days. The children of the settlement went to school in a sod house not far from the location of the present school house in Springdale. Snowbound with the Chubbucks were another family named Freeman. He recalls some of the pupils were S. T. Bancroft, May Bancroft, Nancy Wigent, now Covert, Lavina Geering, Frank and Lydia Chubbuck, cousins. The school, which Mr. Chubbuck claims was first in Valley county was taught by his half-sister Sarah Burse, spoken of above. Lydia Chubbuck later married Noto Sinkler. Russell Chubbuck broke sod in 1873 and in 1894 raised a good crop. In 1875 and 1877 the grasshoppers struck. In 1876 they were so bad that they even ate the onions out of the ground. He made his living in those years by cutting posts in the cedar canyons and hauling them to Grand Island. He got $3.00 for his work and the use of his team for a week. He would bring back a sack of flour from Grand Island and the kids would have bread, hog grease and sorghum molasses for their lunch at school. Mr. Chubbuck was only a lad at the time, but he remembers once when his mother took him with her to the Frederick place, only to find them away from home. He heard a sound in the timber near the house, and when he asked his mother what it was she said it was some kind of a bird. She kept him close to her all the way home. His father was away and he slept with his mother that night. When he woke up in the morning he saw the door was barred, the furniture stacked in front of the door and windows, and the standing by the bed. It was not until some time afterward that he realized that the sound he had heard in the trees was made by Indians. The farmers had an organized militia, with Frank Chubbuck as captain. Certain farmers were designated on different days to patrol the hills and watch for the Indians. One day the patrol announced Indians had been sighted. Sam Burse got on a horse and started out to notify the neighbors. Russell Chubbuck took his needle gun. Just as he was ready to start a wagon drove up. Chubbuck stopped him, and as it was dark, required him to leave the wagon and walk toward him, as he feared it might be an Indian trick. It proved to be a settler who had talked with a man who had been with the Indians two nights before. He said that it was only a party of Pawnees on a hunting trip. The elder Chubbuck started out to let the neighbors know and by midnight everybody was asleep. The son recalls that when they attended the old sod schoolhouse the children played a game at noon. They chose up sides and started out to see which side could kill the most rattlesnakes. Each side usually got three or four, as the school was located right in a prairie dog town. Just across the road from the school house a sod fort was constructed, perhaps 40 feet square, with walls 5 feet high and three feet thick. The idea was to give protection to the children in case of an Indian raid, although luckily it was never needed for this use. Mr. Chubbuck herded cattle for the Balley brothers, Harry, Frank and George. The first years Russell and Frank Chubbuck cut all their grain with cradles, Sam Burse and his brother-in-law, Art Lapham, bound the grain and Orlo Chubbuck, then too small to work much, carried water for the men. Later on they got a Marsh harvester, and he rode the spike horse. Mr. Chubbuck told an interesting story of early day finance. From his earliest years he saved every penny he got, and at length had a total of $8. His father sold him a heifer calf for the money, and furnished feed for her and they were to divide the increase. Later he sold the cow for $18, bought her back for $16, and sold her again for $18. He invested the $20 in two steer calves, which brought $100 later as a yoke of oxen. Russell Chubbuck died in 1879, and he and his mother moved to Omaha, where he invested his $100 in an acre of land. In time the city grew out in that direction and they divided the acre into lots and sold them at a price of from $400 to $900. They then invested this money in more real estate, and in time the original $8 pennies grew into a value of from $11,000 to $12,000. About that time the building boom blew up in Omaha, and before it was over they had lost the entire amount. ARCADIA Mrs. Clifford Sawyer and children are visiting this week at the R. W. Coakley home. The Clifford Sawyer family plan to move near O'Neill very soon. Donald Milburn has joined the O.C.C.'s and reported for duty Tuesday at Broken Bow. Norma Camp returned home this week after visiting six weeks at the Leo Welte home in Kearney. The girls' softball team played softball Friday night with Kearney winning the game. NEBRASKA IN THE MAKING

By Joseph G. Alden

Famous Steam Wagon That Didn't Run.

Shortly before the rails of the Union Pacific were laid and rail transportation became a reality, a Major Brown, who had experimented in Minnesota with a steam wagon of his own invention, proposed to a Nebraska City firm that had a contract for supplying Fort Kearney and Fort Laramie with military stores, that the use of a steam wagon to draw trains of wagons across the prairie was completely feasible. It would speed up slow transportation and cut a large amount of time consumed in hauling supplies from the Missouri river to the forts and places beyond. A model of the machine was shipped out to Nebraska City in 1862. It had its maiden trip and broke down nine miles west of Nebraska City. A casting broke, necessitating the making of another at the factory. The county of Otoe had voted a fund of $12,000 for construction of better bridges and road improvements for the machine. There was intense interest in the venture and great deflection when the wood burning contraption fell by the wayside. The inventor promised a speedy repair of the machine. In the meantime the monster gathered rust by the roadside where it remained for several years. Before the casting arrived the transportation picture changed. The railroad arrived and all other means of transportation lapsed into the realm of things outmoded. The steam wagon never arrived in the land of reality. For the steam wagon had promised only a speed of seven miles an hour and the maximum load it could draw was seven wagons. Nebraska City, too, began to wane in commercial and transportation importance. It had been the principal port of entry for freight and passengers on the Nebraska coast. Now the stream of travel was arriving by way of Council Bluffs and Omaha or behind engines that managed several times more than seven miles an hour and hauled hundreds of people and hundreds of tons of freight. A new day of development had arrived in Nebraska.

Glow Fackler delivered an eight-ton highway grader to Taylor on Tuesday for the state department of roads and irrigation. He loaded the grader at Omaha. Mr. Fackler has a contract to deliver six more new graders in different parts of the state.

The Ord Quiz was in error last week when it stated that Gust Rose and Judge and Mrs. B. A. Rose left Saturday for a trip to the west coast. Mr. Rose was in Burwell Saturday visiting his son and Mrs. Rose but none of them went on any trip or contemplate doing so.

Mrs. Charles Millsap and two daughters returned to their home in Grand Island Friday after spending four days visiting in the home of Mrs. Millsap's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Brechbill.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Johnson of Lincoln drove to Burwell Friday where they were week end guests in the F. A. Johnson home where their children have visited for several weeks. Mr. Johnson returned to Lincoln Sunday but Mrs. Johnson remained in Burwell for a longer visit with her parents.

Miss Treva LaVonne Ballard the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ballard and Vernon Neumeyer, son of Mrs. Mary Neumeyer were married June 13 at Bartlett. They were attended by Miss Harriet Ballard, sister of the bride and Virgil Fitzgibbon. They left Tuesday for Riverton, Wyo., where they will make their home. The bride's father accompanied them for a short visit with friends at Riverton.

Mrs. G. A. Butts went to Chicago Sunday where she will purchase fall merchandise for the style shop.

The Calamus bridge was finished Tuesday. It collapsed three weeks ago when a load too heavy for it came on to the bridge. The people who live northwest of Burwell have been forced to come around by the way of Pebble Creek to get to town. The Pebble Creek bridge unaccountably to so much traffic is about to fall under the strain and it will have to be repaired in the near future.

Norman Schuyler is enjoying a week's vacation from his job at the post office. Tuesday he and his wife and family and his brother Adrian drove to Wolbach where they will spend the rest of the week visiting in the John Schuyler home.

Mrs. Adam Dubas and her sister, Miss Martha Munnick drove to Columbus Sunday where they visited in their parental home. They also saw two of their aunts from Chicago who were guests of their parents.

Mrs. T. B. Lindsey, Jim Lindsey and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Johnson and family were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lindsey.

Unusual Luncheon

The above hundred degree temperatures which Burwell has been experiencing furnished the motif for an unusual luncheon given by group number one of the New Century club in the home of Mrs. Raymond Johnson Wednesday afternoon. The ladies decided that it was too warm for the usual kind of an afternoon affair so they decided to have a pickaninny party. The staid and dignified matrons appeared at the appointed hour with their faces blackened with burnt cork or covered with masks. Their costumes were similar to the ones which Negro children wear. Mrs. Clarence Jurgenson won the prize for being acclaimed the cutest pickaninny present.

Funny papers replaced the curtains and drapes on the windows of the Johnson home. Gunny sacks were used for rugs and for coverings on the over-stuffed furniture. The chandeliers were decorated with red and yellow crepe paper streamers which would have delighted the eye of any old Negro mammy. The pickaninnyes were seated at the dining room table which was decorated with genuine watermelon vines. Little pickaninnyes eagerly devouring watermelon in a forbidden patch added to the decorative theme. Grinning pickaninnyes served as place cards and favors.

Fried chicken, bread and butter sandwiches, tomato and cucumber salad were the menu and after the luncheon was finished the ladies adjourned to the backyard where they were served huge wedges of watermelon which they were compelled to eat pickaninny fashion minus plates and silverware. The afternoon was spent in singing old southern melodies, telling Negro stories and jokes and playing games. Mrs.

IN SORROW

There is but One on Whom to lean In this my hour of sorrow. Give me, O God, the strength I need, To meet each new tomorrow. Teach me a prayer of love and faith, And dry my eyes of tears, Help me in all sincerity to say, "Thy will, not mine, be done." In memory of Duane Donner, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Donner, who passed away Aug. 3, 1939.

Lloyd Carricker, who is chairman of the group which gave the party planned the entertainment.

Mrs. John Fitzgerald, one of Burwell's most recent brides, was honored at a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Don Cain Saturday evening. The highlight of the affair was a tour of inspection of the bride's newly built home next door. She received many gifts.

W. H. Butcher completed the construction of a new house on the Will Dunne ranch on the Calamus in Loup county this week. He also built a scale platform for Mr. Dunne.

Sixty-five 4-11 club members from Wheeler Loup and Garfield counties attended the demonstration meeting in Burwell Wednesday. Prof. J. R. Redditt of the department of poultry husbandry of the college of agriculture of the University of Nebraska and Miss Varna Glandt of O'Neill and extension agent were on hand to assist with the demonstrations. A. E. Shoemaker went to Grand Island Friday with Mrs. Archie Bangert where he spent the week end visiting relatives near Grand Island and Chapman. Sunday he attended a family picnic held in the municipal park at Kearney.

Mrs. R. B. Grunkemeyer and Marlin went to Wolbach Friday where they visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Miller. Monday her father brought her and Marlin home. Adrian Schuyler accompanied them, spending the day in the home of his brother Norman.

Roy Morth, a baker from Broken Bow, commenced work in Clausen's bakery Monday where he will be employed until after the rodeo.

County Attorney William F. Manassil received a letter from the war department Monday urging him to use his influence in getting men in this locality to enlist in the army. The letter stated that there are five hundred vacancies at Fort Crook near Omaha with special opportunities for men who can do typing and office work, cooking and automobile repairing. The letter also says that the soldiers at Fort Crook will be transferred to camp Ord in California this winter.

The Misses Marie Matherauer, Bethene Wheeler and Vivian Sawdew and Homer Livermore, Daniel Green and Mr. Fulton enjoyed an outing in the Hidden Paradise park in Long Pine Sunday. They also drove to Valentine.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O'Connor Saturday in the Mike O'Connor home with Dr. Cram in attendance. Mrs. Ted Sundermeyer of Grand Island came to see that her nephew gets off to the right kind of start in life.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Ciemnozowski and son of Elba were Sunday guests of their son Frank and Mrs. Ciemnozowski. Joe is spending the week in the home of his brother in Burwell. Leann and Janice, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ciemnozowski went to Elba with their grand parents for a visit.

An X-ray taken last week revealed that Louis Moore was injured more seriously than it was first thought when the saddle came off of the horse which he was riding July 17. The X-ray disclosed that he fractured his breast bone in the fracas and Dr. Cram says that he will be unable to ride very much for several months. Dr. Cram was called to the H. Schrupp home Monday by a serious heart attack by Mr. Schrupp.

Julius Johnson who operates one of the largest threshing machines in this locality reports that the small grain crop is turning out much better than the farmers had anticipated. Barley on his son's farm west of Burwell made thirty eight and a half bushels. This barley was irrigated but very badly damaged by grasshoppers. Dryland oats on the Henry Meyer farm north of Burwell made twenty eight bushels per acre. Mr. Johnson threshed rye this year that made twenty seven bushels.

Mrs. Nellie Olcott and Miss Evelyn Olcott returned Sunday from a six thousand mile automobile trip throughout western United States. They visited 11 western states and Mexico.

A daughter was born last week to Mr. and Mrs. Warren Embody of Amelia.

The atmospheric condition which caused so much static on the radios Monday was very displeasing to the people in Burwell who hoped to hear a group of local musicians broadcast over the Kearney station. The entertainers were Mr. and Mrs. Struve, Mrs. Ralph Douglas, who was the accompanist, Miss Colleen Heltz who played the guitar and sang and Miss Eileen Philipps who whistled.

Gilbert Davenport, who has spent his summer vacation in a government aviation school at Atchinson, Kan., was a week end guest in the B. A. Ross home. Mr. Davenport is now a licensed pilot. Mrs. Harry Conrad and sons returned Saturday from the J. Blaha ranch near Ericson where they had been guests for three days.

Pearl will give the address of the evening.

Mignery-Pierce.

Culminating a childhood romance, Miss Kelva Mignery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Mignery, prominent Wheeler county rancher of Bartlett, married Leland D. Pierce son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Pierce of Burwell, in a pretty wedding ceremony held in the home of the bride's parents, Wednesday evening, July 24.

To the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March played by Mrs. Melvin Mignery, Miss Mignery descended the stair where she was met by her father, who gave the bride away. Reverend Luther Godbey of Gresham performed the single ring ceremony.

The bride wore a white floor-length fitted slipper satin gown with a V neckline embroidered in seed pearls. Her seed-pearled coronet fell to a knee-length veil of silk net bordered in exquisite lace. Her bouquet was of tallisam roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Ruth Anderson of Burwell, was dressed in a floor-length white tulle gown with hooped skirt effect and carried a bouquet of white daisies.

Little Marta Jean Mignery, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Mignery of Bartlett, and Kay Mignery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mignery of Albion were the flower girls. The little girls were dressed in pale blue and carried old fashioned nosegays.

The groom was clad in naval dress whites and his attendant, Lynn Runyan of Burwell, wore a dark suit.

Mr. Pierce has for the past four years been serving on the U. S. S. J. D. Ford. The young couple will leave for Norfolk, Va., July 30, where Mr. Pierce will be stationed for three months before embarking on a two year cruise on the U. S. S. Henderson.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Mignery.

MILLET and SUDAN.

If you received a good rain this week you can sow Millets and Sudan and have time to grow a fairly good crop of hay. Plant it at once and it will come fast. We have good stocks of seed on hand.

44% PROTEIN SOY BEAN MEAL.

In a test at the Nebraska Agricultural College this year, cattle fed 44% Protein Soy Bean Meal compared with those fed 41% Protein Soy Bean Meal showed those fed on 44% had a shipping shrinkage of 23 lbs. per head while those fed 41% had a shrinkage of 29 lbs. per head. The profit on the lot fed 44% was $7.96 per head while those fed 41% was $6.70 or a larger profit of $1.26 per head.

After killing, all those fed 44% graded choice carcasses while those fed 41%, 83% graded choice while the other 17% only graded good.

This test feeding is just another proof of the superiority of Archer's 44% Soy Bean Meal.

Soy Bean Meal prices are advancing and it will pay you to place your order now. We unloaded two more carloads this week and will have another on track next week.

OUR HOME...

We are not here for just a day, or a year, this is OUR HOME. We make our living by selling SERVICE to YOU, and we realize our SERVICE must be the BEST.

ORD IS YOUR HOME. ORD IS OUR HOME.

We make our money here, lets all spend our money at HOME.

ORD FIRST! ORD LAST! ORD ALL THE TIME!

FOR SALE:-

IRRIGATED FARMS:

Much to our regret, the past eight years, we have had it forceably demonstrated to us, it is cheaper to irrigate and raise a fair to good crop, than to pay the expense of dry farming and raise nothing. We have potatoes making over 200 bushels, beets give promise of a good yield, corn and alfalfa very fine. We must figure the value of our lands by what they produce. Our irrigated land is selling at very reasonable prices in comparison with other irrigated districts. Buy now and profit by the advance in price which must follow the development of this beautiful valley.

We have a few irrigated farms for sale and will be pleased to show them to you.

SANDHILL RANCHES:

Who has enjoyed prosperity the past ten years? The CATTLEMEN! If you are to produce beef economically, you must be in a country with plenty of grass and hay, at a price you can afford to pay. Where! In the Sandhills of Nebraska, the greatest grass country in the world. Many men, financially embarrassed, and a family to raise, have gone to the sandhills, with a dozen cows and a few chickens, a large family and no money, but with the determination to support their family. In a few years, have not only made a living for their family, and had a pleasant life, but have built up a nice herd of cattle and jingle some cash in their pocket and say "its mine."

We have ranches for sale from 640 acres to 40,000 acres, at low prices and on reasonable terms.

RESIDENCE PROPERTY:

There are several good homes in Ord which can be bought for much less than their value, on very good terms. This is due to someone's misfortune and the unfavorable conditions of the past. Now is the time to get a home—buy during depression times and pay during inflation which must come and soon.

AT THE SALE RING IN ORD SATURDAY, AUGUST 3 SALE STARTS AT 1:00 O'CLOCK

We had a large offering of stock in last Saturday's sale and the largest group of buyers that we have had in a long time. The demand for all of the stock was not quite as strong but the market was active. The canner cows were off the most of anything, but that is due to many of them going to the big markets. There was a strong demand for feeder heifers, heavy steers and light calves.

In next Saturday's sale we look for 150 head of cattle of all classes.
