Rainfall Light in Ord but Plentiful at Several Places

May Total Here Only 1.43, Lighter West; Lightning Burns Oren Carr Barn.

During the month of May rainfall recorded in Ord by Horace W. Travis, government weather observer, totaled only 1.43 inches, making it one of the driest Mays on record here, but elsewhere in the Loup valleys region plentiful rainfall is reported.

Northeast and east of Ord heavy rains fell on several of the last days of the month and on May 31 a nice rain fell at North Loup, in the Davis Creek and lower Mira Valley communities, along the south edge of Valley county and south into Sherman county. May rainfall total at North Loup was 2.21. West of Ord rainfall has been even lighter than here.

May rains measured by Travis included .44 of an inch on the 12th, .03 on the 23rd, .27 on the 29th, .12 on the 30th and .10 on the 31st.

Monday night, when 85 of an inch of rain was falling throughout the North Loup area, lightning struck the barn on the farm where Oren Carr lives north of Scotia, burning it to the ground. Mr. Carr had just finished milking and felt the shock of the bolt. He was able to get all his cows except one out of the burning barn but lost about 500 bushels of grain, a large amount of hay, most of his farm machinery and harness. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

This farm is owned by Henry and Sam Martin, of Grand Island. The barn was 40x72. Lightning also struck the Fuller residence in North Loup on Monday evening, tearing off some siding but otherwise doing no damage. No other storm damage has been reported in the Quiz territory.

Only two Mays in the past ten year period have been dryer than 1943. Mr. Travis said at noon Wednesday after checking his records. In May, 1934, only .40 of an inch fell here and May, 1940, was even dryer with only .22 of an inch of rain.

Other recent Mays saw the following rainfall totals: 1935, 6.14; 1936, 2.57; 1937, 3.44; 1938, 4.34; 1939, 4.26; 1941, 2.67; 1942, 3.32.

Clark for $2,200; all of Sec. 16-18-13 to Art Malotke, for $9,600; Dave Philbrick is tenant. NW 1/4 Sec. 29 and E 1/2 NE 1/4 Sec. 30-18-13, to W. W. Vogeler for $2,600; Orville Elshire is tenant. NE 1/4 Sec. 34-18-13 to Victor M. Cook; E. M. Smith is tenant. S 1/2 NE 1/4 and N 1/2 SE 1/4 Sec. 32-18-13 to James Vogeler, for $7,200; F. E. McDermott is tenant. Army Life Makes Hit with These Cousins

Only 20 years old and thoroughly pleased with army life are these two Valley county cousins, Pvt. Frank Cadek (left) and Pvt. Charlie Trojan who are seen enjoying a boxing bout. Even the twenty-mile march which preceded this bout didn't dampen their ardor. The cousins are stationed at Fort Sill, Okla.

Manpower Shortage

Hard on Mink Farm

Mink eat meat but shortage of food for their 300 mink and kits isn't the worst problem worrying Mott Rathbun and his son Floyd, former Ord people, who now operate a mink farm on the Lowman Road near Elmira, N. Y., according to a feature article in a recent issue of a New York newspaper. Horse meat is what they eat and there is plenty of horse meat available. It is the manpower shortage that has the Rathbuns worried.

Floyd is "frozen" in his job at the Eclipse war plant at duties which often keep him at the plant 16 hours or more daily. The only hired help on the Rathbun farm is a man who drives a milk route and thus can only work 2 to 4 hours daily. Mr. Rathbun himself has heart trouble which prevents strenuous activity. Sometimes he and Floyd work until midnight with the mink after Floyd returns from his war plant duties.

The Rathbuns use from 150 to 175 horses yearly and all this meat must be stripped from the bones, ground, packed and placed in cold storage. And there are plenty of other duties which take hard work and much time. At present the Rathbuns have 57 females who are nurturing an average of 5 kits each. Mink raising is a profitable occupation, especially at present when furs are in so great demand.

Poppy Contest Winners Chosen

At the regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary on Tuesday night, Mrs. Sylvester Furtak was elected president to succeed Mrs. Forrest Johnson. Dale, secretary; Mrs. Robert Hall, treasurer; Mrs. Verne Russell, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. F. Stoddard, chaplain; Mrs. Forrest Johnson, executive board.

The lucky number on the quilt displayed at the Farmers Store for which the American Legion Auxiliary have been selling chances, was 155, held by Mrs. Jos. Cernik.

Eldon Bodyfield Passes Suddenly

At his farm home near Ericson Saturday occurred the death of Eldon L. Bodyfield, 25, a son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bodyfield. He had come in from work and laid down for a rest before the evening meal. Since he had not been feeling well his mother hesitated to call him, but after completing the evening's work she went to rouse him and found that he had died in his sleep.

He was born at Burwell on Aug. 18, 1917. At the age of three he moved with his parents to Ericson and when he was 14 accompanied them to Omaha where they lived 4 1/2 years, Eldon graduating from Benson high school in 1935. Later the Bodyfield family returned to the farm near Ericson.

Poor health kept the young man out of his country's service and he deeply missed his friends most of whom are in some branch of the armed forces. He especially missed Cpl. Arthur Mentzer, Sgt. Rolland Lockhart and Pvt. Donald Patrick, of his own neighborhood and his cousin, Pfc. Glen Watts. Interested in aviation, he was prevented from learning to fly by poor eyesight which was a great disappointment to him. Honest, straightforward, generous and friendly, he was known by many and liked by all.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at the Methodist church, Rev. A. J. Hindman officiating.

New Orders Issued on Fuel Deliveries

The North Platte district office of the Office of Defense Transportation has announced that all petroleum tank truck operators in this District must comply with terms of General Order 37, effective June 1, 1943. This order has placed severe restrictions on tank truck operators. For illustration, every tank truck operated for the purpose of making less-than-truckload deliveries of motor fuel or fuel oil shall be dispatched with full load and routed in a manner that will best conserve mileage and time, and no call-backs are to be made. Without doubt, the tank truck operator must have the cooperation of his customers.

Among other things, the order sets the minimum amount that may be delivered to farm customers. It specifies that each delivery to farm customers shall be made in an amount equal to at least 60 per cent of his tanks to normal capacity, and in no case less than 25 gallons. The tank truck operator is not required to make delivery under 48 hours after receipt of order, and therefore, customers must anticipate their needs well in advance.

It is, however, provided that no farmer will have to accept more than 150 gallons in a single delivery and if the total delivery of various kinds of liquid petroleum products totals 50 gallons, there is no requirement as to the minimum amount of any one particular kind. From now on the farmer must:

- (1) Order and accept delivery of all the motor fuel or fuel oil he can take at each and every delivery.
(2) Place orders for motor fuel at least two days ahead.
(3) Accept delivery of an order the first time the truck calls.
(4) Increase storage capacity wherever possible.
(5) Give the truckman all coupons and tax exemption certificates covering the delivery at the time the delivery is made.

Romans Arrested on Driving Charge

Charlie Romans was taken into custody Monday by Sheriff Bob Hall on a charge of driving a truck without a license to do so. Romans' license was revoked in February and he had been warned several times that he would be arrested if he drove, says Sheriff Hall.

In the absence of a district judge, the matter came up for a brief hearing in Judge John L. Anderson's court Tuesday and Romans was released on bond of $100 furnished by Howard Huff and A. Thill. He waived preliminary hearing and the case will come up later in district court.

Decoration Day Program Monday Largely Attended

Weather Beautiful and Big Group Gathers to Pay Tribute to War Dead.

Monday was a beautiful day, as fine as could be wanted for an outdoor program, and Ord's Decoration day services at the cemetery were largely attended. The business houses closed all day and Bussell and Anderson Island parks were the scenes of several large family picnics at the noon and evening hours.

Legionnaires turned out in large numbers to take part in the Decoration day program, which was sponsored by this organization. There also were several World War II soldiers who were home on furlough and joined with their comrades of the last war in paying tribute to the dead.

Hot house flowers were scarce but iris, peonies and other home gathered blooms substituted nobly in decorating the cemetery graves. The late spring weather retarded many flowers that ordinarily are gone by the last of May and the cemetery seemed more beautiful than ever before. Edgar Farley made the principal address of the day, the Ord band took part in the program, there was singing by a high school quartet, the ladies of the G. A. R. organization decorated the graves of Civil war veterans in their traditional fashion and the program concluded with a salute by the Legion firing squad and the playing of taps.

Censorship Doesn't Stop "Hank" Larsen

A chatty letter that slipped through the censor without a single mark came to Ed Vogeltanz, Joe Osenowski and the boys at the Service Oil company this week from "Hank" Larsen, former Service Oil employee who is now "Somewhere in India (as if it makes any difference)". The letter was written on May 12 and it follows:

"I will try writing this so that it will comply with all regulations of the censorship and censors.

First of all allow me to put you at ease by stating in clear and undeniable truth that we reached here safely, as do all people who reach here. Before we left where we were before, we hadn't the slightest idea that our trip would ultimately find us arriving here, from there. However after we had left where we were, in what we left in or by, and after travelling a given number of days, that are not to be confused with the number of nights, we found ourselves arriving here and our transfer completed.

So much for the trip, now for the weather. The weather here is just as it is today, in fact, the weather is as it should be at this time of year in this country. Now that means that it is quite unlike the weather where we were just before we came here. Without being impudent and telling the exact location of our assignment. The land and air here are just as they should, or would in this part of the land, and not to be compared with the type found in that part of the hemisphere where we were formerly.

The mention of distance is taboo but may your anxiety be relieved in the knowledge that (Continued on Page 5)

Youthful Forger Picks Jail Lock, Escapes Friday

E. Smolik Used Fork from Lunch Basket to Open Cell, Is Still Being Sought.

Ord had a "jail break" Friday night, the first since the court house jail was built over twenty years ago.

Eldon Smolik, 18, was arrested about 6 o'clock Friday afternoon on a forgery complaint by Sheriff Bob Hall. An hour later Sheriff Hall took the boy's supper to him in a basket, leaving the basket in his cell. The next morning when Hall again went to the cell to feed his prisoner he found that the boy was gone. Missing from the lunch basket was a table fork, so it is thought young Smolik used this fork to pick the cell door lock and then locked the door behind him, carrying the fork away with him.

His supper had not been eaten, though he had drunk the cup of coffee provided for him. Nobody was in the court house that evening and nobody saw Smolik depart but Sheriff Hall believes he must have made his escape within a hour or two after 7 o'clock.

The boy has been in trouble before. Last winter he and a companion were arrested for stealing beer and money from the Ord Artificial Ice company. Since the offense was a minor one and it was the first time either boy had been in trouble Judge John L. Andersen paroled them. Later the boys were charged with having broken the terms of their parole and served 20 days in jail on the original charge.

This time Smolik apparently forged a check in the amount of $9.00, signing the name of John P. Misko, the county attorney. He made out the check to "Joe Hughes" and cashed it at the Cienny beer parlor in Elyria after endorsing it with the same name. The forgery was discovered when the check was presented for payment at the First National bank and after talking to Leon Cienny and learning who cashed the check Sheriff Hall took the Smolik boy into custody. He also is suspected of having forged a check with the name of John L. Andersen, county judge, in the amount of $18.00 and cashing it at the McMullen store in Burwell the same day.

The boy had not been staying at the farm home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smolik when he was released after serving his 20 day jail term late last winter he returned to high school, made up his work and graduated with his class. He had since been hanging around town. Since Smolik comes up for draft almost immediately the F. B. I. is expected to interest itself in the case and may seek out the boy. Peace officers all over the state have been notified of the escape and his arrest is only a matter of time.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

One of our future farmers raised 25 hens and then kept records on them for twelve months. This lad, Ray VanSlyke, gained a net profit of about two dollars yearly per hen. It was made after deducting the cost of feed, labor and other expenses.

His profits were perhaps quite similar to those of the average poultryman. A group of twenty Nebraska poultry raisers last year averaged around two dollars and fifty cents profit per bird. The year before that they made a dollar and a half per bird. And prior to that, these bookkeeping poultrymen gained only eighty cents from each layer during a twelve month period. Price made the difference.

The ordinary farm hen is enjoying an advantage over her commercialized cousin now that protein feeds are scarce and high.

The farm hen picks up lots of green feed, some skim milk and maybe a few insects on free range.

More than likely her owner never feeds a great deal of protein anyway, nor too much of anything else. Some times he just lets the chickens shift for themselves, and regards whatever eggs they produce as so much gain.

The common farm hen can lay fewer eggs than her commercialized cousin and still make money for her owner. Somehow the farm hen manages to lay whether she gets fed very well or not.

Featuring garden specials

It's time by the calendar to begin featuring garden specials on the menu and save those canned goods for future days. These garden specials can well be served as double-duty foods, for they can be both the main course and the vegetable course... time-savers and appetite satisfiers all at the same time.

SAVORY STUFFED TOMATOES
Wash tomatoes, slice off stem end and scoop out the center leaving a tomato cup. Chop pulp and mix with any of a number of foods such as chopped left-over meat, shredded cheese, mashed hard-cooked eggs, precooked vegetables, and/or bread crumbs. Season to taste and refill tomatoes. Place in a greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) for about 20 minutes or until tomato cups are tender.

SPINACH SCRAMBLE
Cook fresh spinach until just tender, cut finely, and add to scrambled egg mixture. Scramble eggs as usual. Serve hot as hot with tomato wedges for garnish. Tasty, attractive and certainly satisfying.

CARROT LOAF
Steam 2 cups coarsely shredded carrots in just enough water to cover bottom of pan. While still hot, combine with 1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs, 1/2 cup peanut butter or finely ground nut meats, grated onion or onion juice, and salt and pepper to taste. Stir in 2 well-beaten eggs to bind ingredients together. Pack into greased loaf pan and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for about 30 to 40 minutes or until firm. Unmold, slice and serve as you would meat loaf. May be topped with a peanut butter white sauce.

Much of the so-called "official news" emanating from Washington, is a sop intended to mislead the public.

Everyone reading the daily press must feel that most of the moves are being made with a view of preparing the way for the nomination of Roosevelt for a 4th term.

It isn't necessary, under our present method of handling subscriptions, for people who do not want the paper continued, to write us saying so. It will automatically be discontinued when out.

DUPONT DUCO "ONE-COAT MAGIC"

they have as little time for it as I have.

Irma has been in Alliance for a couple of weeks and Eugene has been eating with me. I have breakfast ready at 7:30 and we are both supposed to be at our desks at 8 o'clock. So I was pretty hurried about doing the morning dishes up.

And it didn't take me long to decide that I must have a system. There are so many things to be done. So I have worked out a regular schedule. Wash the top of the stove on Monday, wash the kitchen cabinet on Tuesday; was the oilcloth on the table on Wednesday. I wash the skillet on Thursday. There seems no sense in washing it every day when all one uses it for is to fry chops or steak, so I just set it back with a cover on, and it is handy for the next meal and saves time. But the floor is a problem which I have not solved as yet. Especially around the stove, there is more or less splatters of grease and if I get to slipping around too much, I guess a little fine sand sifted on the linoleum will save me from getting a broken leg. Women who are too fastidious might not approve of this method. But I will have to find some way of working it out, for I can't do a days work down stairs and observe all the niceties of doing house work. Of course I know all about how to do it if I had the time. I will be glad to tell any of you men who are interested in a lot of shortcuts of doing house work, all about it. Of course a woman who has nothing to do but the housework, unless she be too club minded, could do all there is to do in the average home in a couple of hours a day.

This leaves three days for some definite chore that must be done. I think one of them will be chosen as the day for making my bed but something more important may develop so I am going to save those three days for doing whatever extra job seems more important.

My peas are blooming and I am looking forward to the time when I will have to be canning and freezing peas. When I went down to my garden Sunday I found a half dozen of Charles Burdick's black pigs there and was just about to get me some pork when John Misko shows up. Now John is county attorney and I was not so sure I could get away with it if he was a witness. And if I got into jail I might not be able to break out as easily as do some.

Something Different

Soon Ord is to have a regular sewing room for Red Cross activities, says Mrs. Evan Hartman, who is production chairman, for the home economics room at the high school is going to be available for such a purpose. Then it is hoped that all cutting of garments can be taken care of there, together with some sewing and perhaps some knitting. Mrs. Horace Travis is sewing chairman, but for the past year has also done almost all the cutting for Valley county sewing, and that is no inconsiderable item.

Mrs. Edward Gnaster is knitting chairman, but although she has yarn available all the time, not many women apply for it, she says. Recently about 150 slips (petticoats to you) for girls, sizes two to 16, were finished and turned over to Mrs. Hartman. Mrs. Travis cut all these, and also the many service kits finished in this territory during the past year.

Now there is 300 yards of material for girls' blouses to be made up, and also two big bundles of material for more service kits. So when the sewing room gets to clicking, the work will roll out.

North Loup and Arcadia women will now do their own cutting, in place of having it all done here in Ord. Likely the workers from the neighboring towns will come to Ord to do it in the sewing room, Mrs. Clarice Switzer of North Loup thinks.

During World War I Valley county women turned out a powerful amount of Red Cross work. If stitches won the war they had a good share in the winning.

Working at the now American Legion hall, they turned out as many as 150 pairs of socks per week, using the two knitting machines. Older women did hand-knitting as it was needed, either finishing off the articles or making them entirely. The knitting machines, or one of them, when last searched for reposed peacefully in the loft of a barn at "Grandma" Noll's farm. (Are those machines useable now, I wonder?)

Every able-bodied woman worked at the war work then; and, so I've heard tell, every club in town was a Red Cross club.

Waste Not Home economists of the Massachusetts State college advocate this maxim for thrifty housewives: "Waste not—want not."

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Wozab Likes Navy Life. May 27, 1943

Friend Gene: Just a line from an "old salt" to let you know I am still alive and grinning, cussing and grumbling as much as the next man here.

Things haven't changed much in camp routine from the last war. The patients in the sick bay are treated out of the same bottle of pills, be it cat-fever or a broken leg; the mud is just as deep and sticky as it was in '17 and '18; there is the same amount, if not more, of scuttlebutt circulating about the camp; the lies and tall yarns are probably a little bigger and broader and there is the usual moaning and groaning when guard duty or K. P. catches up with one.

As you have probably noticed from the letterhead, I am in the Sea-Bee branch of the Navy. This is a comparatively new branch of the service, similar to the engineering corps of the Army; viz: Construction and maintenance of the advance bases from which the units of our Navy will operate. Our principal work will consist of the construction of air fields, docks, supply depots, etc., their maintenance and protection from the enemy. Since the Sea-Bees also land and fight with the Marines it is necessary that we have a thorough knowledge of the principles of military combat. We have certainly been getting it here and there's more to come.

Camp Peary could best be described briefly as a huge city of tar-paper covered buildings. Our barracks is situated only a few hundred yards from the bank of the picturesque York river, and the view from my window is fine. The river at this point is quite wide, probably a mile and a half, when the tide is in from the ocean. There is an abundance of clams, oysters and crabs (real ones, not Sea-Bees) in the river and the fishing is good. The only problem is the preparation of our catch.

The camp is only a few miles from the historic town of Williamsburg, the home of famous Williams' and Mary's College. If one is interested in visiting places reeking of historical lore, there is The Capitol, The Publick Gaol, The Raleigh Tavern, The George Wythe Houfe, and the Governor's Palace, all of which can be explored for the total sum of fifty-five cents. Of course, the most popular "Houfe" with the sailors is the Williamsburg Inn. The Inn is much like a country club, the main building being centered in a large plot of landscaped ground—shrubs, trees, flower gardens, etc. There are plenty of Lovers' lanes for the boys and numerous paths and walks to guide one about the premises, through the gardens and other point of interest. The Lodge itself is a large colonial type of building containing a dance hall, dining room (open at all times) bar, etc. The murals and furnishings throughout carry one back to the early days of the birth of the State of Virginia.

ance of family or feminine companionship has a stranger effect than can be imagined by those who have lived for weeks on end in the company of men only. The best tonic—write often.

May 28 I hope the work on the plat books of the county is progressing favorably. I would like to see the completed product of the many months of my part of the labor therein. Would you please send me one of the books when they are ready for distribution. Alyce sends me the Quiz each week so I do keep up with the home news.

Here are a few of the expressions used around camp. To drink beer, we "pour the suds down the hatch." To eat, we "stow away the garbage." Supper or dinner is called "chow." Loafing on the job is "goldbricking." Rumors are called "scuttlebutt." The toilet is the "head" and to urinate one "shakes the dew off the kidneys." To retire to sleep is to "hit the sack," and to get up in the morning is to "hit the deck." Many others but I haven't any asbestos paper to write them on.

Many bits of poem and verse are composed in camp. Hope you enjoy the following: "You can have your army khaki, But I'll take the Navy blue, For there's still another fighter, That I'll introduce to you. His uniform is different, The best you'll ever see, The Japs call him a Sea-Dog, But his real name is Sea-Bee. He was trained in the State of Virginia,

The land that GOD forgot, Where the mud is 14 inches deep, And the rain will never stop. He has set many a table, And many's the dish he's dried. He also learned to make a bed, And a mop he sure can guide. He has peeled a million onions, And twice as many spuds, He also spends his leisure time, A washing out his duds. Now, sister, take a little tip, That I'm handing out to you, Just grab yourself a good Sea-Bee.

For there's nothing he can't do. And when he gets to Heaven To St. Peter he will tell, 'Another Sea-Bee reporting Sir, I've served my time in Hell,' Well, Gene, I've rambled along for quite a spell, and while there's much to write about, I believe it's time to stop for this time. We are exceedingly busy and the only time for correspondence we have is to catch a moment here and there, as you have probably surmised from the manner in which this letter is written, and the dates appearing thereon.

Lots of luck. John J. Wozab, Y3c U. S. Navy, Technical Training School, Area B-1, Barracks 104, N. C. T. C., Camp Peary, Williamsburg, Virginia.

FINAL WARNING TO ORD DOG OWNERS

Dog licenses were due April 1 and the thirty day period of grace has expired, whereupon final warning is given to all Ord dog owners that they must immediately secure licenses for their pets if they expect to keep them. Stray dogs are going to be dealt with strenuously, as they are becoming a great nuisance, and all unlicensed dogs are classified as strays.

We continue to receive complaints of stray dogs killing chickens, damaging victory gardens, digging in lawns, etc., and therefore are giving this final notice prior to starting a vigorous campaign to clean up the stray dogs.

If you value your pet, get a license for him at once and then keep him on your own premises.

THE third day of the second week after they reached the cabin on Black Wolf Creek, Sid Condon, exploring a tributary alone, found gold. He spent half a day estimating the value of the find. It was a placer pocket and would probably net a total take of between $40,000 and $50,000.

Sid filled his pipe and sat down to meditate. He was an old hand at prospecting. He knew there was little likelihood of locating the original source of the deposit. The thing to do, of course, was to get Duke Brandon, his partner, clean out the placer, and hit for Big Rock settlement before the snow came.

Or was it? Sid sucked on his pipe, and his eyes grew crafty. Into his mind there came a picture of pockskinned, thin-lipped Duke Brandon. Why should he share this find with Duke? A man with $40,000 could retire and live for the rest of his days in comfort. A man with only half that amount would have to scrimp. What did Duke Brandon mean to him, anyhow? They had met for the first time in Black Wolf two months ago. Both were looking for a grubstake. They had agreed to pool their resources and set out together on a share-and-share alike basis.

Duke Brandon was in a surly mood that night. He had had no luck. The food supply was getting low. Snow would come soon. Why not quit now while their chances of getting out were good?

"Wait a week," Sid urged. "Might as well make sure we ain't missin' anything while we're here." So Duke was prevailed upon. The next morning they started out again in opposite directions. Sid went south, circled west and came out on his placer claim. Working feverishly he panned a handful of gold and carried it up stream a half mile, caching it beneath a large moss-covered rock.

The next day and the next and the next it was the same. Duke became more disgruntled. He decided to remain only one more day.

The next morning Duke headed north. Toward noon he swung west and south. At mid-afternoon he came to a moss-covered rock lying near the shore of what was to him an explored tributary. He sat down to smoke and rest, and as he sat there the slanting rays of the sun fell upon a dull, yellow piece of metal. Duke blinked, then leaned forward. He picked up the piece of metal and saw beyond it a small opening beneath the rock.

Duke Brandon's eyes grew wide. He looked about him like a man who is afraid that prying eyes have discovered him at some nefarious occupation. He knelt and reached into the hole and took out a handful of gold.

Sid Condon had stood in the bed of the stream when caching his placer gold, so there were no footprints nor other signs to indicate his having been there. Evil thoughts ran through Duke's mind. There must be $30,000 worth of metal in the cache. Half of that was his, according to the unwritten law. The other half—but what could a man do with a mere $15,000. Who was this Sid Condon, anyhow? A blackguard at heart, no doubt. One who cared not at all for him or anyone else. It would be simple, so simple, to remove this fortune to another cache.

Duke took a small sack from his pocket and filled it with the dull, yellow dust. His breathing was heavy as he knelt there. His eyes glowed feverishly. He knotted the sack together and rose from his knees—and stopped dead still.

Sid Condon was standing not fifteen feet away. Sid's left hand contained a sack similar to the one in Duke's. It was not full, but the bulge was evidence enough as to its contents.

The two men stared at each other. Significance of the meaning of the situation dawned slowly into their sluggish brains.

Sid Condon's lips flattened against his teeth. His eyes narrowed to slits.

"So!" he cried hoarsely. "So! This is how it is! Partners, eh?"

"Partners," Duke Brandon echoed. "Partners!" he repeated in ugly scorn. "You louse!"

Sid Condon laughed harshly, wickedly. He was bigger than the other man, and he felt confident. With the speed of a snake his hand flashed to his hip where hung the revolver in its holster. His hand closed over the butt and pulled it forth. His finger contracted on the trigger and flame belched from its muzzle.

Sid Condon saw his partner's body jerk convulsively, and he knew he had scored a hit; knew it only dimly though, for the sound of his own gun had come from a great distance, and there was a drumming and pounding in his ears. He sank to his knees, and through the haze of his vision he saw that Duke Brandon was also on his knees.

Then he knew that Duke had equalled him in speed at the draw. He fired again and a third time, and Duke returned shot for shot.

Thus they lay, so close they could almost touch, each dying, each holding firmly to a sack of gold.

Mom "Sausages for breakfast! Sausages for breakfast! I can smell 'em!" Small Joe came tumbling downstairs fastening the belt of his shorts as he came. He made a beeline for the kitchen. Pop was already sitting at the table, reading the paper, while Mom held the handle of the frying-pan over the stove. Small Joe came close and sniffed the delicious smoke, wriggling all over with early-morning joy. "Better be thankful for them while you can still get them." One glance at Mom's face told small Joe this was one of her tight-lipped days. "Not a drop of coffee in the house, and no sugar left to put in it if there was. Some war!" Small Joe kept still.

"Letter for you, son," Pop said in his quiet voice. Small Joe made a leap for his place at table. There it was a private personal letter for him alone, propped against his milk glass.

"Hey, Pop! It's from brother!" Small Joe was pulling the envelope apart and diving into the contents. "Hey, look what he sent me." He passed over an oblong of thick, crinkly paper while he leaned over the sheet of writing-paper.

"A twenty-five dollar War Bond," Pop said slowly. Mom turned and looked at it over Pop's shoulder, with the frying-pan in her hand.

"Listen what he says. 'How are you doing, kid? Hurry and grow up so you can help me slap the Japs. Aren't you most big enough to get into the Army? Here's something for you in your name. Let's the whole family gang up and help to win this war.'"

Pop and Mom were silent. But small Joe didn't notice that. He was full of his letter and his War Bond.

"Gee, Pop, in six years I could get into the Army, couldn't I, Pop? Gee, Pop, I want to be a soldier like brother and fight in this war. Gee, isn't that bond nifty? Look, it was issued in Honolulu. It's mine."

But Pop was looking at Mom and Mom was looking at Pop. There were tears in Mom's eyes. She shook her head sharply. Pop reached out and patted her hand gently.

"Well, can't let our soldier boy beat us to buying War Bonds, can we, old lady?" was all he said. She shook her head again. "I guess if he can give up his job and go off to war I can do some fighting back at home," she said in a queer voice. Small Joe looked up at her in surprise. She saw him looking at her and spoke sharply. "Well, Joe. We're about ready to eat. Say grace."

Small Joe folded his hands and bowed his head as he had been taught. "Oh Lord, we thank thee for this food and all thy bountiful gifts..." "Amen," Pop said. "Amen," Mom said. "Now eat your good sausages."

The folks behind the counters...

BACK THE MEN BEHIND THE GUNS!

TODAY, in the J. C. Penney stores in all 48 states, an army of over 50,000 is waiting to greet you. In this army are veterans versed in the Penney technique of service. And its ranks are filled with eager recruits... the able replacements for the 4,512 stars in the Penney service flag.

Fred Parsons in the shoe department is filling in for a hero in Tunisia. Lucy Hunt, selling yard goods, substitutes for a Navy Wave.

These new people—like the veterans—do a marvelous job! In a sense, they are soldiers—soldiers all! For, you can't do your best at a war job without the proper clothing. And Penney's and its people are making every effort to provide you with the new clothes you need. Clothing that's sturdy—smart—thrifty—clothing for all the family.

There are over 1600 Penney stores but each is a local institution. Each employs local people, pays local taxes, caters to local tastes.

The people who work at Penney's are folks you have grown up with; their daughters and sons!

That is why you'll feel at home at Penney's!

from there to here (one way) is exactly the same as it is from here to there (one way)—Isn't that coincidental? Anyway you figure is too darn far away. Concerning our clothing, we were obliged to bring along all that we wear here, as what is worn we never wear there, what is worn here takes the place of what is worn there. Yes, you are correct in concluding that you people there, and we people here are at present wearing clothing that is not similar. We also don't have the drape shape. The time here is the same kind of time we had there, only it differs somewhat, that is to say the time we left there was like the time it was here, but it was not the same time. I mean of course, at the same time. In other words, the time is like the time they normally have here, while the other time you would be having there at that time, and everybody has the correct time.

We might say that the inhabitants here understand the language they speak quite well. The make of dress is quite like you would see if you were to see them in snapshots taken here. But no photography is permitted, so no pictures. A few of the small or younger wear a string around the abdomen. Then as they grow older they put on a V string which covers the more vital parts. The women wear a robe when it is unraveled it reaches almost the length of 30 feet. Their homes are like the houses we left behind us, but to them they are palaces. They wouldn't even make good hog houses back where we came from before we came here, and here we are and here we will remain until we go elsewhere.

So in conclusion I might say

Thank You!

If we could only have set back Memorial Day one week, the lovely peonies we could give you by next Monday! From our three peony gardens, just six blossoms came out in full bloom. We filled 112 orders for you, and only made one error, which just proves again that we are human and not at all like the fellow who never made one! To the 22 friends in distant places, whose decorating we did, we thank you for your confidence and are writing you personally.

To all of you, again we thank you! May we serve you at any time you need flowers, in bereavement or joy, anniversary remembrance or gifts to loved ones.

Egg cases, either new or used, are scarce right now and with billions of eggs needed at drying plants, supply depots, and markets everywhere, it is more important than ever to pack eggs carefully before they leave the farm, say poultry specialists.

Plan Post-War Housing Expenditure
The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in a preliminary survey of the intentions of American families after the war, reported that one out of every 30 families said they would buy or build a new home as soon as the war ends; three out of every ten owners said they would paint their homes, plan interior decorations, remodel one or more bathrooms, modernize their kitchens, install new heating plants, add rooms.

Aid From the Skies
Aid from the skies will literally come to torpedooed seamen when the new Red Cross-navy department project gets under way. Under the new system, buoyant, waterproof bags, containing emergency food and water rations and medical supplies will be dropped by patrol blimps to seamen drifting in life-boats and rafts before they are actually picked up by rescue vessels. A can opener, flashlight, and cigarettes will also be included in the kit.

Basil, the Man

By BARBARA BENEDICT
Associated Newspapers.
WNU Features.

BASIL WINTHROP'S father had always made his decisions; had conducted the boy's affairs, organized his life, superintended his doings. Basil was an only child. His mother was dead.

His father was wealthy and generous, so why not let the old man run the show? Basil thought.

He ceased to think thus when he met the girl with the red hair and blue eyes. She was selling kisses at a U.S.O. bazaar. Five dollars a kiss. Basil only had thirty dollars in his pocket, but he stretched out the six kisses that amount would buy.

After the bazaar, he drove the girl with the red hair to the hotel where she was staying. He didn't ask her name; she didn't volunteer it. But they made a date for the next night.

Drunk with emotion Basil went home.

As he entered the front hall his father called to him.

Winthrop, senior, seemed in a good mood. "I've just met an old friend of mine, son. Sarah Mortimer. She and her daughter, Elaine, are spending a few days in town. Son, I want you to meet them. Nothing would please me more than to see you and Sarah's daughter married."

Basil stared. This, he thought, was the payoff. His father had arranged everything else in his life, but by golly he wasn't going to pick his wife!

"Dad, you're taking too much for granted. I can't marry Elaine. I'm in love with someone else."

"Someone else? Who?"

"I—er—don't know her name."

"I see," Winthrop, senior, rose and patted his son on the arm. "I've arranged a dinner party for tomorrow. You'll meet Elaine then."

But Basil didn't meet Elaine then. For the first time in his life he felt the electrifying qualities of manhood warming his blood. Instead of attending the dinner party, he held a clandestine meeting with the red-head. They had a swell time together. By mutual and silent agreement they decided not to confide to each other their identity.

Winthrop, senior, was furious. He called Basil on the mat. But Basil stuck out his chin and orated in his own behalf. He felt like he'd had a shot in the arm, and because the feeling was new and thrilling, his defiance amazed the old man.

"Son, I can't understand you. Something's happened. You don't need to tell me what it is, but if you continue to ignore my wishes, I'll be forced to take such drastic steps as firing you from your job, cutting off your allowance, disowning you, striking your name from my will."

"Swell!" cried Basil. "Then I'll be my own man, free to do as I like, with no obligations."

Afterward, Basil had some regrets. His father was a powerful influence. He could make things decidedly uncomfortable. And the red-headed girl who, apparently, had been used to nice things, might not be so interested in him if she knew he were penniless.

On the other hand, Winthrop, senior, hadn't expected such a reaction from his son. The boy had looked serious. The old man regretted his haste. But he was stubborn and a stickler for principles. He couldn't retract his words, no matter how much he might want to.

Time passed. Basil continued to see the red-headed girl and each time he saw her he loved her more. But he lacked courage to explain the situation to his father. If she refused to marry him, he'd feel like ending it all!

Winthrop, senior, arranged another meeting with Sarah Mortimer and daughter. It was, he decided, to be the test. If Basil refused to follow his wishes this time—well, he'd have to get under way in taking his drastic steps.

When Basil heard about the arranged meeting he came to a decision. He would meet this Elaine and tell her in front of his father that he loved another. Then he would keep an appointment with the red-headed girl and propose marriage. That, he decided, was the only manly thing to do, and Basil had suddenly become a man.

So with his father Basil went to the hotel where the meeting had been arranged. Mrs. Mortimer and Elaine received them in their suite of rooms. Basil took one look at Elaine and almost collapsed. She had red hair and freckles and buck teeth. She was about the homeliest looking creature Basil had ever seen. Moreover, she giggled. Basil didn't wait for the dinner to get under way. He made his speech then and there, then headed for the door. His father accompanied him into the corridor.

"Son," said the old man, "forgive me. I didn't know what I was getting you into. Go marry your red-head. She couldn't be any worse than that."

"Thanks, dad," said Basil. And he went off and kept his date with the red-head, whose name, it proved, was Mary Smith. He proposed and she accepted and they lived happily ever after.

Mexicans in Texas

Texas has nearly 160,000 residents who crossed the border from Mexico, and California, 135,000. Immigrants from Mexico exceed 375,000, most of whom reside in the southern border states.

The 1940 census lists a little over 125,000 as Japanese, practically all on the West coast. California had more than 90,000. New York's Japanese population of some 2,500 was slightly exceeded by Colorado, and almost equaled by Utah.

Preserve Iron Work for the Duration

With everything made of iron assuming an unprecedented value due to the wartime shortage of metal, iron gates, fences and metal railings call for serious attention in the autumn months to save them from damage or loss by rust. They should be well cleaned of rust spots and dirt, and then thoroughly painted. This treatment, if properly given, will protect iron work for the wartime period ahead, in which replacements will be highly difficult if not impossible.

Wartime Hunters Share

With current rubber shortages, gas rationing, and concentration of gun manufacturers on America's war needs, hunters have an opportunity for service through pooling transportation and sharing guns. In this way they can save gas, oil and rubber while providing recreation for those who might otherwise be compelled to stay at home. Hunting builds health, essential for maximum wartime effort, and yields valuable meat for wartime consumption. Let's help by sharing!

Frank Meese Hit by Lightning Bolt, Is Still Living

Farmer's Condition Serious in Clinic Hospital, Has Chance to Recover.

Still in serious condition at clinic hospital is Frank Meese, young Valley county farmer who was struck by a bolt of lightning about 11 o'clock Saturday morning during a brief thunder shower. At first his life was despaired of but his heart action has remained strong and he is given a chance for recovery by Dr. C. W. Weekes.

He is still unconscious most of the time but recovered sufficiently Monday to ask for a pillow and to ask that his position be changed. Apparently he is paralyzed on one side but this will clear up as he recovers, Dr. Weekes believes.

Mr. Meese was horseback and was driving a small herd of cattle in his own pasture when the lightning struck him. The horse he was riding was killed instantly, as were three of the cows.

The lightning bolt struck Mr. Meese in the head and a hole in his leg shows where it emerged from his body. He has been unconscious since the accident.

Relatives brought him to the hospital immediately and all throughout Saturday afternoon and evening his death was expected momentarily but Sunday he took a turn for the better and Dr. Weekes expressed encouragement over his condition. Extent of his injuries cannot be determined exactly, pending his return to consciousness.

Mr. Meese's son, Robert, 15, was helping him drive the herd but left his side only a moment before the lightning struck and rode ahead to open the corral gate. Mrs. Meese saw the accident from an upstairs window in their home and hurried to the assistance of her husband, calling other members of the family to help in taking him to town.

Wednesday morning Dr. Weekes said that Meese's condition is "satisfactory" and that he has high hopes for his complete recovery.

Jan Sedlacek Passes Monday

At his home in west Ord about 10:30 Monday evening occurred the death of Jan Sedlacek, 87 years old and a resident of this community many years. He had been in poor health for some time. Funeral services will be held at the Bohemian hall at 2:00 Thursday afternoon with Rev. B. A. Filipi, of Clarkson, officiating. The Hastings funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Enrolled at Business College.

Miss Maxine Sorensen has enrolled at the Grand Island business college, and began her studies there on Monday. She was one of ten students in Nebraska earning a scholarship to this institution, which she did by ranking fourth in the Ord graduating class of 1943. Maxine is the only daughter of Mrs. Carl Sorensen and the late Mr. Sorensen. She will room with Doris Klima while living in Grand Island. Wednesday of last week Mrs. Sorensen and family, accompanied by Mrs. Ign. Klima, jr., and Doris, drove to Grand Island to attend to business matters.

Women Heeding Plea to Save Waste Fats

In the three months just past Ord women saved three times as much kitchen fat as in the previous three month period, said R. Clare Clement Monday after checking reports of meat markets who buy the kitchen fats, and he says he believes the government campaign to salvage waste fats is beginning to take effect.

Glycerine, vital in making explosives, is made from waste fats at the ratio of one pound of glycerine to every ten pounds of fats. Every retail meat dealer acts as a buyer for the government and women are urged to save every drop of fat no longer useful in cooking and when they have accumulated a pound or so take it to their meat dealer.

New Choir Director.

Music for the Methodist church this summer will be furnished by a girls' choir under the direction of Mrs. Leslie Nash. Mrs. Nash and her husband are newcomers in Ord, coming from Broken Bow. Legion Sponsoring Drive for Cigaretts

A campaign for funds to buy cigarettes, which will be sent overseas to American soldiers, is being sponsored by Fidelity post of the American Legion. Coin boxes have been placed in stores, with placards saying that tax-free cigarettes for soldiers cost only 5c per package and that contributions of 5c upwards will go entirely for the purpose of sending cigarettes to soldiers. Each pack sent will bear a sticker "Compliments Fidelity Post No. 38, Ord, Nebr." The public is invited to drop coins into any of these boxes for this worthy cause.

Davis Praises 1943 Unicameral

But Believes Larger Group or 2-House System Would Give Better Results.

Clarence M. Davis, who served as attorney for the committee on enrollment and review in the 1943 unicameral legislature, praised the earnestness and honesty of the unicameral group in a talk before the Ord Rotary club Monday evening, but said he believes a larger unicameral or a return to the 2-house legislature would result in better legislation.

Close friendships among the 43-man legislature occasionally hamper impartial decisions, he said, and lobbyists have a better chance to work on the small group than on a larger one, in his opinion. His talk was very interesting and informative.

Boyd Bartley Gets Try at Big League

Boyd Bartley, a University of Illinois graduate this spring and a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Palmatier, of Ord, is headed for fame in the big leagues, in the opinion of his university coach, Wallie Roettger. A picture of Bartley and an article about his baseball prowess appeared in the Chicago Tribune recently. He is a shortstop and both the Chicago Cubs and the Brooklyn Dodgers bid for his services. He signed a Dodger contract.

The young man is the son of Tom Bartley, well known here in an earlier day, and Clara Palmatier Bartley. The Bartleys had two sons, Boyd is the eldest and Harry, the youngest, is in the army overseas.

3 Divorce Cases Are Filed in Ord

Three divorce cases were filed in district court here during the month of May, which is something of a record for Valley county. In the first case, filed on May 10, Phyllis Meyers seeks divorce from Gilbert Meyers and custody of their one child. They were married Nov. 27, 1941. Mr. Meyers is now in the army. His wife charges cruelty and non-support.

Valeria Ludington is seeking a divorce from Darold K. Ludington, charging cruelty, addiction to intoxicants and failure to support her and the four children, oldest of whom is 12. The couple was married May 13, 1930.

Last of the three cases, filed May 29, is that of Dr. F. L. Blessing who seeks to divorce his wife, Margaret Blessing, on charges of mental cruelty. They were married June 5, 1918, and have one daughter who is married.

Preliminary hearings in all these cases are scheduled for June 11 when Judge Spikes will again hold a civil term in Ord. He was here on June 3 and held a preliminary hearing in the divorce suit of Mary Ann Janicek against Frank Janicek, ordering payment of temporary alimony and confirming present custody of the couple's four children.

Dragnet Still Out for Eldon Smolik

Lad Who Picked Cell Lock with Fork, Escaped, Sought by Nebraska Police.

Eldon Smolik, the young man who picked the lock of his cell in the Valley county jail with a table fork and thus made his escape ten days ago is still being sought by the police, said Sheriff Bob Hall this morning.

The state sheriff's office, the highway patrol, all county sheriffs in Nebraska, the FBI and peace officers of other states have been given a description of Smolik and a large dragnet thus is spread which is expected to haul him in soon.

"There's something 'screwy' about the boy's disappearance but we haven't been able to figure out what it is yet," said Sheriff Hall Wednesday morning. "He didn't fly away, we know, but we haven't been able to figure out any other way he could have left the country."

Relatives and close friends of Smolik have been interviewed several times but all have denied knowledge of the boy's whereabouts. A check of trucks and common carriers leaving Ord at the time of his escape revealed nothing and no motorist has reported picking up a hitch-hiker answering his description, the sheriff stated.

It is possible that he is "hiding out" somewhere in Valley county, but if this is the case somebody must be helping him and is thus guilty of compounding a felony, the officers say.

Smolik was arrested on a charge of forging the name of County Attorney John P. Misko to a check and also is believed to have forged a check on County Judge John L. Andersen, so these county officials have more than the usual amount of interest in bringing about his re-arrest. So has Sheriff Hall, who arrested the boy, lodged him in jail, took him his supper and then discovered his absence the next morning.

He is the first prisoner to escape from the Valley county jail since it was built, though the jail has many times held prisoners charged with crimes much more serious than that faced by the Smolik boy.

Miss Holmes Joins W.A.A.C.s.

Miss Margaret Holmes has been spending a short holiday in Ord before reporting for basic training as a new member of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps. She expects to be called to Salt Lake City about June 15, having enlisted while teaching at McGill, Nev. Her father came from Comstock and together they have been visiting in Arcadia and Comstock for a few days.

20 Ord Scouts Enjoy Camporee

Twenty Ord Boy Scouts attended a Boy Scout camp at Loup City last week. The boys went Wednesday and returned Sunday. There were over 70 boys at the camp, coming from Sargent, Broken Bow, Burwell, Loup City and Ord. The location of the camp was the state recreation grounds.

Mearl Coe, of Lincoln, field executive of the Boy Scouts, was the supervisor of the boys. H. E. McClure, assistant scoutmaster of the Ord troop, went with the Ord lads and was assisted by John Haskell and E. L. Vogelanz.

The object of the camp was to give the boys training in camping, and to offer opportunities for scout advancement. The boys experienced the trials of doing their own cooking. The following Ord boys received merit badges for their swimming abilities: Leonard Roesler, Lyle Manchester, Edwin Jirak, Hugh Cahill, and Arthur Larsen. Among the outstanding events at the camp were the troop contests and the five-mile hike on Saturday.

Party Dance for Boys.

Some of the Ord young people gave a party dance Tuesday evening honoring the local boys that left for Omaha Wednesday to take physical examinations for the army. The dance was held in the Masonic hall.

—Raymond Vogelanz, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Vogelanz, will leave Ord Saturday for Denver where he is going to attend the summer session at St. Regis college. Raymond was graduated from Ord high school this spring.

Leighton McGinley Back Safe from Attu

Mrs. Ruby E. McGinley, now a resident of Torrance, Calif., writes that her son, Leighton McGinley, seaman 1st class, U. S. navy, arrived safely at San Diego June 3 from Attu, in the Aleutians, where he says "a most unenjoyable time was had by all, especially the Japs." He acquired his fourth campaign bar and also a piece of Jap shrapnel which hit him but his heavy sheepskin coat prevented all but minor injury. He also says that the Quiz has been getting through to him regularly.

Kentucky Missionary Here.

An Ord girl who has seen and done unusual things is Miss Laverne Austin, missionary at Carver, Ky., for the past two and a half years. Miss Austin returned to Ord about a week ago and will spend a quiet summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Austin.

She has planned to take nurse's training, and after the war ends wants to be sent to Africa to continue her good work.

$100 Fine Levied Against Romans

On a charge of driving a truck on a suspended driver's license, Charlie Romans was arraigned in district court Thursday with Judge Spikes presiding and upon his plea of guilty was fined $100 and costs, which he paid.

Romans' license was suspended in accordance with the statutes because there is on record against him a judgment in the amount of $10,750 in favor of the estate of Elsie Wiberg Axthelm, who with her husband and baby was killed in a collision with a truck owned by his brother Clarence Romans, some years ago. Clarence Romans was named jointly in the judgment. He is now serving in the U. S. navy.

In pleading guilty to the driving charge Romans explained to the court that he was in Omaha when the accident occurred, was in California when the civil suit was filed in which a judgment was rendered, and that he was not even the owner of the truck which figured in the accident because he had sold it the previous Saturday to his brother, Jack Romans, although the transfer had not been recorded. Judge Spikes ruled that these facts made no difference as regards the charge at issue and that Romans cannot legally drive a truck until his license is reinstated by retirement of the judgment.

3 'Rainy' Days, Only 1/4th Inch Moisture

Drizzling rain, mist and showers have fallen every day since Sunday and the sky was overcast continually until noon Wednesday when it cleared, but Ord's moisture total for all four days was only .27 of an inch, said Horace Travis at noon Wednesday. In the past ten days of cloudy weather only 3/4ths of an inch of moisture has fallen.

The weather has been cold as well as cloudy and many families found it necessary to re-ignite fires in their furnaces which certainly is unusual for June.

Rainfall total at North Loup has been .50 of an inch since Sunday, it was stated this morning.

Laverty Resigns, Duties Divided

Guy Laverty, who has been serving the North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation district both as attorney and as secretary ever since the district was formed, last week tendered his resignation of both offices. Directors at their meeting Wednesday night appointed Munn & Norman attorneys for the district and chose Archie Geweke as secretary, thereby dividing the duties Mr. Laverty has been performing.

Kull Drug Store Again Ravaged by Flames Thursday

Fire Started in Store Room Again, Frigidaire Thought to Be the Cause.

Burwell — (Special) — Less than two months after the disastrous fire which occurred at the K. K. Kull pharmacy in the Hub building here another fire ravaged the store. The alarm was turned in at 4 a. m. Thursday morning by R. E. Leach, who lives in the building and the fire again originated in the stock room of the drug store.

The insurance adjuster, who was in town Monday, said the fire apparently started from an electric refrigerator in the stock room in which serums were stored. Mr. Kull's loss was not as great this time, as his stock was not as large, but he says that his prescription stock was entirely destroyed including the new prescription scales. The fire was confined to the stock room and smoke damage in the front part of the drug store was not as extensive. A fire sale will be held later and a sale of smoke-damaged goods is being held this week by the Leach variety store next door in the same building.

R. L. Walker, owner of the building, reports an extensive loss. After the first fire he had the building completely painted and renovated. The floor in the stock room was ruined, two stairways were destroyed, storage cases were scorched and blistered and damage was heavy generally.

180 Farmers Seek Soil District Aid

At the regular monthly meeting, Tuesday evening, June 1st, of the Valley County soils district supervisors, all five supervisors were in attendance which included Clayton Noll, chairman, Ed Schudel, secretary and members Henry Enger, Anton Welniak and Ray Lutz.

A report on the progress of the district showed that there are now 180 active applications on file in the district office. All of the applicants have had some conservation practices laid out or applied to their farms. Most of the applications have asked for assistance in contour farming. Considerable interest is being shown by many irrigation farmers in relocation of laterals and leveling their land. Two big jobs of leveling of land are in progress in the county at the present time, one on Port. Sell's farm and the other on Dick Peterson's at Arcadia. Considerable interest in the planting of trees for farmstead windbreaks and replacements in the existing shelterbelts has been shown by many farmers in the county. The district delivered over 13,000 trees to cooperating farmers in the county this spring.

The district now has available four grape hoes that can be rented by anyone who has shelterbelt or farmstead plantings. The rental charges on these machines are 25 cents per day. The machines may be pulled by horses or tractor. With one of these machines the weeds may be eradicated in the row without having to use the hand hoe. The machines are now located at Ernest Lange's, Ray Lutz's Clayton Noll's and Joe Suckhaneck's.

Will Vote on Soils District

Burwell—(Special)—A referendum will be held within the next three weeks to decide the desirability of organizing a soil conservation district in Garfield and Loup counties. It is announced by Willie R. Thurber, county agricultural agent. A letter approving the referendum has been received from Dr. G. E. Condra, who held hearings in both counties last week to determine public interest in a district.

Miss Kidder Resigns.

Resignation Tuesday of Miss Nora Kidder, language instructor in Ord high school, gave school officials another vacancy to fill. We like California, think it is a swell place to live. We are getting plenty to eat. There are lots of vegetables and fruit, it is all pretty high right now.

It keeps cool enough at night for our blankets and has been pretty cloudy lately.

While we were down on the beach on Sunday, we happened to see Orville Leach, stationed at L. A., were surprised and glad to see him. Otherwise we haven't seen anyone from Valley county.

Roy likes his work and doesn't have any desire to go back on the farm. Doris is a messenger girl at Shell's and likes it. Esther like school fine.

FLAG DAY

The flag of the United States is symbolic of the unity of the forty-eight states and the common principles and ideals of government for which they stand. June 14th marks the anniversary of the adoption of the flag of the United States of America.

This year the Stars and Stripes is a battle emblem flying with our men in deserts, in jungles, in the Arctic wastes and on the high seas. This year our flag is there, with flags of our allied nations marching together, borne by the bravery of peaceful men who have been compelled to fight for the very existence of their countries, and our country, and for the principles which we as allies represent. Their victories will be our victories.

This year, however, all the United Nations will celebrate June 14th, our traditional flag day, as symbolic of that unity which is creating this international teamwork in winning security and freedom from Axis domination.

In keeping with this spirit and tradition, the Governor of the State of Nebraska, has proclaimed the week of June 8th to 14th as a week of patriotic observance designated by The United States Flag Association as Flag Week and designated by The American Legion as "Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag" Week.

Let us then, during this week, pay homage to our Flag by displaying it at our homes, places of business, and on all public buildings.

Let us renew our pledge of allegiance to the Flag and give practical expression of patriotic loyalty and devotion to the Nation's war effort, by conducting patriotic exercises appropriate to the times. By buying and causing others to buy more War Bonds as a tribute to our boys, and girls too, who are in the armed forces sacrificing themselves, that we at home can remain free,—to preserve for us the God-given rights to freedom symbolized by our Flag.

Tues., June 15th

Starts at 9:30 sharp

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"I can't think of anything else you'll need for your Victory garden, Judge... you've got pretty nearly everything."

"I think so, too, John. Ever get your asparagus patch going?"

"I gave that up last year, Judge. Tried it six years in a row with no luck. Just haven't got the right soil, I guess?"

"Well, I think you're wise, John... no use keeping on trying things you know won't work. Just like prohibition. State-wide prohibition has been tried in this country seventy-two times in the last ninety years. It has been adopted forty-seven times in the past thirty-three years and discarded everywhere except in three states. Same thing was tried in eight provinces in Canada and in Norway, Sweden, Finland and Russia but it was an admitted failure and universally abandoned. "The reason is prohibition does not prohibit. All you get is bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor, plus no end of crime and corruption."

WHICH COMES FIRST? Your Second Helping? Or Our Second Front? You want to see this war won—and won quickly. You want to see it carried to the enemy with a vengeance. Okay, so do all of us. But just remember... a second front takes food... food to feed our allies as well as our own men. Which do you want, more meat for you or enough meat for them? Just remember that the meat you don't get—and the coffee and sugar you don't get—are up in the front lines, fighting for you. If we sometimes don't have exactly the cut of meat you want we'll have some other cut just as nourishing, just as tasty. We'll gladly make suggestions for stretching your ration points farther. And thus we'll all work together, doing our share to end the war more quickly. Pecenka & Son MEAT MARKET

What do you suppose the soldiers on the fighting fronts will do to a congress and an administration that allows one man, John L. Lewis, to run the country, when they get home. There are enough millions of them to control the elections after the war.

I did the first canning out of my 1943 victory garden the fore part of this week. Perhaps it will be just as well not to say on just which day I did it. What did I can? Spinach. And it helped to kill a lot of time for it does take time to pick and wash enough spinach to fill six pint cans. Anyone who never tried it or who never prepared a mess of greens, would be surprised. But it looks nice and next winter, some day, when Mrs. Burke is casting about for something to get for dinner, she will find it on the store room shelves. But the next spinach I prepare, I am going to try the freezing method. The process is the same up to the point of putting it into the glass cans, and instead of that it is put into paper containers and hurried to the quick freeze room. It saves an hour of watching the pressure cooker to see that the lid don't get blown off.

I think I broke some kind of a record by using a dishwasher for ten days, thinking I would save washing. I hadn't noticed anything wrong, until a neighbor woman saw it and said "What a wonderful lot of designs you have on that dishwasher. Are they mosaic?" Then she pointed out one but I told her that as I remembered, that one was just skilled. Another that she appeared to admire was pancake griddle. She asked, "Do you wipe the floor, too, with your dishwiper?" and then I detected a note of sarcasm, and thinking it over afterwards, I decided that she was trying to poke fun at my methods and from now on I shall not try to use a dishwiper more than a week.

It has been a time honored custom in our family to throw away or feed to the cats and dogs, any cold pancakes that are left from breakfast. But I have neither a dog, a cat or a pet canary, so I had to find a way of saving the cold pancakes. I tried warming them up and found they were just as good. I first fry a slice of ham or some strips of bacon, then cook a couple of eggs, then, with the grease piping hot lay about three cold pancakes in for a minute, turn them over another minute, and they are ready and delicious and I only have to stir up pancake batter about every three or four days. Saves time and material for I just can't make small enough a batch for one breakfast for myself without having a lot left.

I just can't get Harry Wolf to tell me any fish stories any more. When I ask him what luck he replies, "Oh, just a few small ones."

And now a word about subscriptions. I have to take quite a mess of names off the list this week because they forgot to renew and their paper was out May 15. Soon I will be taking off a bunch of June 15 expirations. Many people who want the paper and intend to renew, simply neglect it. I send a postage free envelope and a nice, stout manila envelope on which they should write their name and in which they can enclose money or check, then drop the postage free envelope into the mail. If cash is sent I will mail receipt. If check is sent that will be your receipt. But won't you attend to the matter now?

I wish someone would tell me where I can get some white grub worms pretty soon. Bluegills like 'em and I am going to do some bluegill fishing.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Colorado potato bugs are at work in almost every patch. They will have to be destroyed, or folks won't have many potatoes to eat.

Lead arsenate is the favorite bug poison. Some spray it on, using 2 or 3 tablespoons to a gallon of water. The spray sticks well to foliage and does not burn the leaves.

Others prefer dusting potatoes. They mix 1 pound of lead arsenate with 10 pounds of lime. They put this dust into a gunny sack and shake it over each plant. The job is generally done in the morning when dew is on the leaves.

A few still use the old fashioned method of picking off bugs by hand, a practice which is wasteful of labor, and misses the later hatch of these pests. The tiny slugs or larvae eat much more than the big bugs in striped shells.

Potato beetles feed on plants of the nightshade family. They like tomatoes, eggplant, peppers, tobacco, and especially the buffalo burr weed. The increased number of buffalo burr weed patches has done much to spread potato bugs throughout this locality. Potato bugs or beetles seem to have originated in eastern Colorado, and are named after that state.

Potatoes have more insect and disease enemies than perhaps any other farm crops. They are worth a lot of care now that new potatoes cost 6 cents a pound if you can find some, and old potatoes are mostly unfit to eat.

Something Different

The war is so far away, we think. Yet it comes closer, occasionally. For instance when Mrs. C. C. Shepherd visited in Ord last week she told of the F. B. I. apprehending a Nazi spy who had been living in the same Lincoln lodging house where she stays. The spy, who had been working at the Mead ordnance plant, always wore gloves, of one kind or another. And he was foolish enough to leave the house driving one car and often returned in a strange one, another comment-exciting habit.

Also, the spy invariably had several women callers carrying brief cases, who came to see him on his "day off" from the plant. Someone noticed these suspicious circumstances and turned in his name. When the government agents searched his room, they found a shortwave radio, together with many papers indicating he was the head of a spy-ring. Careless, hey? No superman here!

Nothing half so difficult or dangerous as the most ordinary 25c paper-bound thriller tale would reveal.

Which makes the enemy seem far less formidable, doesn't it?

Recently I visited the hospital wards of the air base at Alliance, and really I came out determined to do something to help some of those lonesome, sick soldiers.

In ward after ward stood rows of cots, each with a hospitalized man, all of them so very young. Each was being cared for because of a different trouble, and the convalescing time dragged for them in an endless way.

One fellow was re-reading a cheap paper copy of "Gone with the Wind." Another was enjoying "The Pioneers," by James Fenimore Cooper. The others had nothing at all or trashy magazines. Some were writing letters and two fellows were swapping pictures of their wives and telling how swell they were and where they were and what they were doing.

One peppy chap was "the life of the ward," said the boys, laughing at his horseplay, his exaggerations of the beauty of Chicago skyscrapers, "the most beautiful scenery in the world." He stirred up a first-class ruckus on the topic of the best place to go back to... a native Californian entering strongly with cracks like "whatever you want, they've got it in California" and "Have you ever been in L. A.?"

A boy from Ohio only wanted to go back there; a fellow from Minnesota didn't say much, but his eyes sparkled when he said it. A young man with a drawl told about the Texas sandstorms where he came from: "Shucks, these sandstorms out here can't hold a candle to 'em!"

At the end of the line of cots a sad, sober-faced boy had nary a smile when he answered "Ah'm from Vahginya, ma'am."

But no matter where they were from, how they LONGED to go back there!

QUIZ FORUM

Says Pheasants Damaging.

Elyria, Nebr. June 4, 1943 I am going to take the time and the opportunity to write what I have been going to for the last three or four years. And that is on this pheasant law. I think if there was an open season on these pheasants the year round that the farmers wouldn't have quite so much trouble getting a stand of corn. All the corn that I have had to replant is because of pheasants. And not only that but in the fall two-thirds of the corn cobs you find in your corn field is caused by pheasants.

Some folks that do not live along the river where they harbor, may think it is all hokey.

Most people think they are such great insect destroyers, the grasshoppers and insects seem to be getting thicker every year. About the only thing I could see they were good for was for the people to rush out and shoot themselves when the hunting season opened. Two-thirds of the accidents the year round is caused by hunting, besides what other faults and accidents they cause such as flying into windshields and frightening horses.

And then to think the government would put a law on those kind of birds. I am sure proud of our county board to allow such laws to be enforced.

They're singing a new tune now!

On every train the wheels are clicking a new tune as they ply the rails these days. NOW — they sing a battle hymn — and the words repeat "There's a war to be won, there's a war to be won"

Passenger and freight trains alike are clicking this same refrain — for both have their vital jobs to do. One, to move the military forces. The other, to move the materials of war.

All along the Burlington's 11,000 mile front, "There's a war to be won" has become the song of the hour. 35,000 Burlington workers are going all-out to meet the challenge.

Uncle Sam's transportation assignments must be handled speedily and efficiently. A tremendous amount of civilian travel and shipping is also vital to the war effort. Two big jobs to be done — and they are being done because —

Threat of Drouth Brought to End by County-Wide Rain

But Hail, Winds Damaged in Several Localities; Small Grain Hurt.

Heavy rains which started Friday and continued at intervals throughout Saturday, Sunday and Monday brought to an end the threat of drouth under which Valley county has been laboring all spring, but the storms were not a complete blessing as they brought hail also to some neighborhoods as well as high winds which did some serious damage.

Rainfall ranged from 2 inches to as much as 5 inches in different parts of the county.

Ord had the least with a recorded total of 1.77 inches between Friday afternoon and Monday evening.

Worst hail damage reported was in the extreme southeast corner of the county, in the Pleasant Hill and Fussysville communities and extending down into Greeley county where in a strip 2 miles wide and several miles in length the small grain is said to be a total loss.

West of Elyria severe hail damage resulted also, though it was not as severe as the hail storm which ruined crops in almost the same territory last year. The Sunday night hail storm there struck a bit farther east than the terrible hail storm of June, 1942.

In the Kingston neighborhood near Arcadia, in Mira Valley centering around the Gust Foth and Irving King farms, and elsewhere in the county hail damage is reported also.

According to R. Clare Clement Triple A chairman, the small grain damage in these localities will range from 50 to 100 per cent.

But Valley county's crop picture as a whole is much brighter than it was two weeks ago when it looked as though 1943 might be another drouth year.

In some localities the dry weather before this rainy spell damaged small grain greatly but corn is looking fine everywhere and, delayed by the cold spring, was not far enough advanced to be hurt by the hail Saturday and Sunday, even in regions where it hailed hardest.

From North Loup comes word that between Friday and Monday a total of 3.45 inches of rain fell and that the community's moisture total since June 1 is 4.70 inches to which may be added .85 of an inch which fell on the last day of May. Crops there look as good as anywhere in the county.

Haskell Creek is another region where moisture has been plentiful, though totals are not available.

Arcadia reports an inch of rain Saturday, with a high wind and some hail, and another 1/4 inch of rain Sunday. Burwell reports a total of 1.17 inches.

Fort Crook Convoy Tries Mud Travel

Captain Lee Huff, jr., and 75 officers and men from Fort Crook arrived in a motor convoy Sunday, remaining here until Wednesday morning on field maneuvers. They were quartered at the high school building. Continuous rain Sunday night and Monday left roads in perfect condition for maneuvers which simulated battle conditions, the officers said. A dim-out march Monday evening was a feature of their training, as well as the usual sand hill maneuvers north of Burwell. A dance in honor of the visitors was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday evening.

Another convoy is scheduled to arrive in Ord next Sunday. These officers take two months of motor training at Fort Crook, their training culminating in the field trip to Ord, after which they are returned to their home bases. Most of the group here this week will return to Virginia as soon as they reach Fort Crook, while others will go to Fort Warren, Wyoming.

Several field officers accompanied the convoy as inspectors, including majors, colonels and lieutenant-colonels.

One minor accident took place Tuesday morning, a lieutenant and a colonel suffering injuries when the jeep in which they were riding tipped over. Their injuries were not serious. After first aid treatment and x-ray examination at the Ord hospital they were taken to Fort Crook in the ambulance which accompanied the convoy.

Vacation Bible School Closes

The 54 children and young people enrolled in the United Vacation Bible school which closed Friday presented a fine program at the Full Gospel church on Saturday evening. Rev. P. W. Rupp, who has acted as superintendent of the summer school, was in charge of the meeting.

Theme song of the evening program was "Every Day with Jesus"; and the text was from Psalms 119, Verse 105. Rev. L. E. Wilkins led the prayer. Four groups of choruses were sung, interspersed with the work of the several classes. Miss Elizabeth Wiberg was in charge of the beginners' class; Mrs. George Allen in charge of the primary class; Miss Laverne Austin was the instructor of the next group and Mrs. Ralph Hatfield was the director of the intermediate group. Each group answered many questions, gave memory verses, etc. Rev. R. T. Cordry pronounced the benediction.

The ministers concerned have taken turns opening the Bible school each morning with a brief sermon, especially planned for the children, with Evangelist Mohlar adding the speakers occasionally.

Friday noon students and teachers enjoyed a picnic meal together in the Presbyterian church basement. June showers prevented them from meeting at the city park as they arranged to do. Brief talks by the teachers and ministers and the presentation of report cards were also part of the meeting.

Vacation Bible School.

The Christian church will conduct a daily vacation Bible school beginning Monday, June 21, and continuing two weeks. The hours will be from 9 o'clock till 11:30 each morning on the school days. A cordial invitation is extended to other children of the community to attend. The ages are from 4 years on up through the junior years. Mr. Milliken and a group of teachers will be in charge.

2 Binders, Combines All County's Quota

Two binders and two combines are all the new harvesting machinery assigned to Valley county this summer, said R. Clare Clement, of the farm machinery rationing committee. No additional binders or combines will be available for allotment to this county, he is advised by the state committee.

Farmers are advised to get their old binders repaired before harvest time, preferably as soon as possible, unless they have other means of getting their grain harvested. Repairs for nearly all makes of binders are available at the present time but will become scarce as harvest time draws closer.

Postoffice Adopts New Mail System for Larger Cities

Zone Number Becomes Part of Every Address, Speeds Up Delivery of Mail.

A new method of speeding up mail deliveries, through addition of a zone or branch post-office number to the address on mail for delivery in large cities, has been adopted and is working out satisfactorily everywhere, says A. L. Hill, the Ord postmaster.

The new system speeds up the separation of mail for distribution to branch offices and permits much more rapid handling of mail by inexperienced postal clerks, thousands of whom have been employed to replace personnel who have gone into the armed forces and into war industries.

An example of the new type of address is:

John C. Smith
222 Mattapan Avenue
Boston 8
Massachusetts

The number after the name of the city indicates the branch office through which delivery is made. Each resident of the larger cities is asked by his postmaster to add the postal unit number to his return address and to notify all to whom he writes that his address is not complete without the number.

Residents of small cities, towns and rural regions should inquire of their correspondents in larger cities concerning the zone number assigned to them, so that the mail may be expedited, the degree to which mail will be expedited depends upon the extent to which the numbers are used by mailers. While mail which does not bear the number probably will be delivered about as rapidly as at present it will not receive the benefit of the speedier distribution and may not avoid possible delays caused by inability of the depleted force of experienced employees to handle all the mail.

Practically all the larger cities of the country now have the zone number system in effect.

No Shutdown for Q-O Ordnance Plant

Col. T. C. Gerber of St. Louis, field director of ammunition plants, Office of the Chief of Ordnance, has discredited rumors in communities surrounding the Cornhusker and Nebraska Ordnance plants that the plants would shut down soon.

The director of ammunition plants made the statement during a brief inspection at the Cornhusker Ordnance plant Wednesday afternoon. During his visit, Col. Gerber consulted with Myer Avedoeb general manager of the Q. O. Ordnance Corporation, operators of the plant, and Major Leslie S. Solar, commanding officer. The colonel came to COP from Mead where he had inspected the Nebraska Ordnance plant.

In the face of much local discussion about the status of ammunition plants because of a recent layoff of workers due to a curtailment in production and the need of the armed forces for other items, Col. Gerber said the plants would continue to operate and expressed satisfaction that the supply of bombs and shells is adequate to take care of present needs.

"There will be no shortage of ammunition for the American troops if we maintain our present rate of production," the field director said, adding that it is "better to have too much too soon than too little too late."

Col. Gerber, supervisor of all army-owned ammunition plants except small arm facilities, said they have been and will be "successfully and efficiently operated."

—Mrs. Aubrey Love, from Jolley, Ia., is here visiting her mother, Mrs. Margaret Wentworth. Mr. and Mrs. Love were called to Blair, Neb., by the illness and death of Mr. Love's mother, Mrs. Joe Love, who had been in poor health for some time. After the funeral Mr. Love returned at once to Iowa to attend to school duties but Mrs. Love came on to Ord and will visit for some time here and in Grand Island where two of her sisters live.

Lightning Victim Dies Tuesday Eve, Funeral Is Friday

Frank Meese Took Turn for Worse Monday, Expired 24 Hours Later.

Frank Meese, young farmer who was struck by lightning June 5 and had since been under care at Clinic hospital where hopes were held for his recovery, passed away about 8:00 Tuesday evening.

He was making a satisfactory recovery until Monday afternoon when his condition took a turn for the worse with paralysis developing in the side of his body which had not been affected previously. Monday evening he suffered a brain hemorrhage and doctors gave up hope for his ultimate recovery. The end came about 24 hours later.

Mr. Meese was driving a herd of cattle when he was struck by a lightning bolt in full view of his wife, who was looking from an upstairs window of their home. The horse on which he was riding was killed, as well as three cows in the herd he was driving.

The lightning bolt apparently struck him in the head, ranging through his body and the electric charge emerging through his leg. He was unconscious when brought to the hospital and it was feared at first that his death was only a matter of hours but when his heart action remained strong and he became semi-conscious it was hoped that he would recover.

The body is now at Pearson Mortuary and funeral services will be held Friday morning at Our Lady of Perpetual Help church with Rev. T. C. Siudowksi officiating. Interment will be in the St. Mary's cemetery.

Frank Joseph Meese was born Feb. 18, 1898 in Geranium township, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Meese, both of whom survive him. He was married to Hazel Stewart on April 22, 1921 and they have two children, a daughter, Loreen Meese, of Omaha, and a son, Robert at home. One son died in infancy. Railroads protested granting of a permanent license to the Worm Bros. firm. An opinion will be handed down by the railway commission within a few weeks, Mr. Dahlman said.

Council Votes to Serve Huff if He Buys Power Line

Special Meeting Monday Eve Considers Electricity, City Bond Matters.

The Ord city council at a special meeting Monday evening voted to accept a proposal made by Howard Huff a few weeks ago and enter into an agreement with him, by the terms of which Mr. Huff will buy from Consumers Public Power district the electric transmission line from Ord to his farm and turn it over to the city for maintenance. The city will then sell him energy at the same rates extended consumers on the city line leading north.

Several matters were discussed at this meeting, among them being a proposal to purchase $28,000 in Ord city serial bonds owned by the First National Bank. This bank had an offer of 111 for these bonds in the commercial market and offered the city a chance to take them up at the same figure. Some months ago the city purchased similar bonds held by Nebraska State bank, also at a premium.

After considerable debate councilmen decided the city does not at the present time have sufficient funds to take up the entire $28,000 issue but voted to buy $10,000 worth of the bonds.

Some discussion was had relative to electric matters also. A delegation from the council, including Mayor M. B. Cummins and Light Commissioner George Allen, had that day conferred with officials of the Consumers Public Power district at Columbus and gave a report on this conference. Consideration was given to purchasing energy from Consumers, due to the poor physical condition of the Ord plant but no rate agreement could be reached and it now seems necessary that the diesel engines in the Ord plant be given a thorough overhauling at cost of 3 or 4 thousand dollars to put them in good condition.

Six New Teachers Accept Contracts, R. Tolly Resigns

Faculty Complete Except for Last 2 Vacancies; Tolly's Plans Uncertain.

Six new teachers have been elected by the Ord board of education to replace teachers who are transferring to other positions next year and the faculty roster is now complete except in the high school language department, from which Miss Lillian Kidder resigned recently, and the industrial arts-athletic department where Roscoe Tolly resigned last week.

A successor to Miss Kidder is in prospect but since Mr. Tolly's plans are still uncertain and he may yet decide to remain in Ord the board hasn't tried seriously as yet to find a successor to him.

Mr. Tolly handed in his resignation before June 10, the date after which his contract would have bound him to remain in Ord, in order that he might be free to negotiate with two larger schools. Under the new Nebraska statute teachers who break contracts with any Nebraska school may not be employed by any other Nebraska school during the current school year. If Mr. Tolly fails to come to terms soon with one of the other schools he has indicated that he may accept an Ord contract again.

It will be difficult to fill this vacancy if Tolly does not return, school board members feel. Because of army inductions there is a big shortage of coaches and industrial arts teachers. It might be necessary to turn a curtailed athletic program over to some other made member of the Ord faculty and close the industrial arts department for the duration, if a new teacher cannot be secured.

The six new teachers elected recently and who have accepted contracts are:

G. Howard Lockwood, present instructor at Wymore, will replace Henry Deines in the music department. Mr. Lockwood is a graduate of the Riverview Military Academy, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and has had 30 years of professional playing, teaching and directing experience. He has had charge of musical organizations in Utica, N. Y., Ft. Myers, Fla., Hastings, Neb., Bartlesville, Okla., and public school experience at Harvard, Blue Hill and Wymore, Neb. He is married and expects to move to Ord with his wife the latter part of August.

Rosalind Northway, of Lincoln will teach in the social science department taking the place of Edgar Farley. Miss Northway is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and taught 12 years in the grades and high schools of Long Pine, Bloomfield, and the rural schools of Dodge county. For the past 10 years she has been teaching in the high school at Sterling.

Helen Marie Kopecky is also a graduate of the University of Nebraska and will teach typewriting, bookkeeping and shorthand in place of Mrs. Helen Kokes. Miss Kopecky's home is at North Platte, and she has had experience in the high schools at Oconto and Pleasanton.

Mrs. Jean K. Roe, as has been previously announced, will teach high school mathematics replacing Mrs. C. C. Thompson. Mrs. Roe is a graduate of Fairfield high school and the University of Nebraska, and has been teaching the last two years at Liberty. Her husband is in the armed forces and at the present time located in New Guinea.

Taking the place of Mrs. Rhoda Paap as kindergarten instructor will be Miss Irma King who received her college education at Nebraska Wesleyan, and following that taught kindergarten and first grade at Clay Center and the last two years a like position at Silver Creek.

Replacing Mrs. Mark Tolen in the first grade will be Miss Myrtle Tracy of Cairo. Miss Tracy received her training at Nebraska Central college and has had four years experience teaching in the rural schools of Hall county.

The suit will come up for hearing in July.

North Loup Loyalist

MRS. ETHEL HAMER, News and Business Representative.

Celebrates 40th Anniversary.

In celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the No-Lo club a party was held at the home of Mrs. Cora Hemphill June 10. The three charter members now living here, Mrs. Cora Hemphill, Mrs. Jessie Babcock and Miss Fannie McClellan had been appointed a committee on arrangements. All former members were invited and about thirty ladies were present for a very enjoyable afternoon. Mrs. Jessie Babcock presided and announced that all the present members would "try to sing." "As Time Goes On." The words were Mrs. Babcock's own and very cleverly mentioned each member. Cora Hemphill then gave some interesting reminiscences and data concerning the names of the 97 women who have been members. Twenty of this number have passed on—the others are somewhere in the world.

Fannie McClellan told of the varied programs and subjects studied during the forty-year period. Mrs. Babcock had prepared a Quiz which brought to mind many happy events of earlier days. Letters were read from four charter members, Mrs. Ruth Hutchins, Montrose, Colo., Mrs. Myra Gowen, Long Beach, Calif., Mrs. Winnie Clement, Riverside, Calif., and Mrs. Ora Damm Port Angeles Wash. The ladies then tried their skill in deciding what book each lady represented. A vocal solo by Marion Maxson was much appreciated.

Dainty refreshments of sandwiches, cookies and delicious supreme tea were served. Mrs. Myra Hutchins and Mrs. Eva Johnson pouring. Mrs. Sara Gogin of Redlands, Calif., who has often been a welcome guest of the club surprised the group with ice cream for all.

Peonies, iris, roses, and many other spring flowers make a walk around North Loup pleasant indeed. The cool wet weather made peonies later than usual, none to speak of being out for memorial day but their lateness has made them more gorgeous than ever. J. A. Barber has some beautiful dark ones on the front side of his garden while back of these are pale pink and white ones and still further back are roses and iris. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Cruzan have in their yard, all three colors, large and straight, and also some beautiful oriental peonies. Mrs. Fanny Weed had a side yard full of peonies and her back yard row on row of different colored iris. J. M. Fisher's yard has peonies, iris columbines, daisies, mock orange and many others, while across the corner from Mr. Fisher, Jim Ingerson's have a beautiful rose garden. At the Sterling Manchester home, a smooth green lawn provides a setting for peonies. Mr. and Mrs. Mills Hill have a large variety of iris, peonies and roses surrounded by a well kept hedge and across the street from them, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Thelin have a well kept lawn, a beautiful hedge about town, is evidence of good gardens as well as flowers.

Land is Selling

Recently the TRAVELERS reported in the Quiz, some thirteen sales in Valley and Sherman counties. In checking our records, were somewhat surprised to find we have had eighteen sales through our office in the first five months of 1943, which is three times the number over the same period of time in 1942. To my knowledge there has been over seventy-five sales in Valley county the past year. These farms are not being SOLD, but the public is BUYING, just the same as the grocer sells prunes, and the clothier sells clothes. The purchaser comes in and selects the farm he wants, and he BUYS it, and he usually knows which farm he wants before he comes in. The so-called bargains are being picked up, and the ones to select from are becoming more limited, and the seller has more to say about the price. It is becoming a seller's market. There has probably been a good 10% advance in the selling price the past six months. We have a number of good buys yet. If you own a farm which you wish to sell, we desire to list it. The time to sell is when you have a buyer. The time to buy is when you find the farm you want. We have the listing of practically all loan company farms which are for sale. But most of our sales have been privately owned. We thank our customers for the confidence shown in us.

Homemakers' Guide

Around the table with a pound of meat

It's quite a trick to make a pound of meat go all around the table and satisfy all the appetites. The secret is to use the meat in tiny pieces, so that the flavor is distributed. Nutritionally, it's sound practice and one we can well afford to adopt these days.

CHOP SUEY—Cut meat into tiny pieces, brown in hot fat, add sliced celery, onions, shredded cabbage (in lieu of bean sprouts), and seasonings to taste. Add a little water, cover pan and simmer for 15 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Thicken the broth slightly with flour or cornstarch. Serve over steaming, fluffy rice.

RUSSIAN MEAT BALLS—Mix together a pound of ground meat, 4 or 5 boiled, chopped potatoes, 1 grated onion, and salt and pepper. Form into small balls and brown in hot fat. Add a little milk or water, cover pan and simmer gently for 15 minutes. Thicken pan liquor with flour and serve over meat balls.

NOODLE DELIGHT—Sauté small pieces of meat and mix with cooked noodles, cooked green beans or okra, and wedges of fresh tomato. Pour in greased casserole and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 15 minutes or until heated through and flavors are blended.

MEAT PIE—Dice a pound of meat and prepare as for stew, using several vegetables cut in uniform pieces. Thicken gravy slightly and pour stew into greased casserole. Cover top with pastry or with mashed potato or corn-meal crust. Bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) for 20 minutes or until well browned.

Buy One More Vegetable Fresh Every Day And Help Make Your Canned Goods Ration Go Farther

Here's one wartime request everybody can cheer over because this means it's patriotic to buy vegetables fresh... with crispness, sweet flavor and tenderness all in them. More. The vegetable which is fresh not only tastes better, but is tops in vitamin values, too. That's why Safeway rushes produce straight in from the farm... cutting out needless delays and in-between costs, thus giving you the fresh produce at the lowest price because their system of pricing produce by the pound saves you money in wasted, wilted leftovers. Remember at Safeway you pay only for what you can use today... while it's at its best.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

We are rapidly learning what the peoples of the Hitler controlled countries have to stand. They are regimented and if they refuse to be regimented they are shot or worse. Here we are mostly regimented but so far the bureaucrats have not resorted to shooting. I predict that when the war is over one of the first things the American people will be told where they may go and when, what they may eat, what part of their earnings they may keep and what they may spend the balance for.

I believe I am safe in saying that people as a rule are not observing the speed rate prescribed for driving, namely under 35 miles. An Ord man driving to Omaha recently, says while going in Dodge street, and it was shortly after the closing of the ordinance plant or of one shift for the day, practically all the cars passed him in a mad race for the city. The Ord man was observing the rule and the other traffic appeared to think he was making a nuisance of himself. Most of these fast drivers, mind you, are government employees, who of all people should obey the rules.

And a friend writes me from Minnesota saying that 60 motorists with B and C cards were picked up in one day near where he is located, many of them having their gas cards cancelled. It is possible that people don't yet realize that we are in a serious war, or don't they care?

A Santa Ana father received a letter from his son stationed overseas this week. He asked the name not to be used. The letter stated: "I am in Jerusalem, where Christ was born. I wish to Christ I was where I was born." In handwriting at the bottom the censor had written: "This is too good. I'm going to let it pass."

"Junior," said an Ord mother, "would you like to see your little baby sister that the stork brought?" "No," replied Junior, "But I would like to see the stork."

Some people are careless. I send strong manila envelopes for subscribers to put their money in, yet some will tuck a bill loose into an envelope and mail it, when it would be much safer to use the good envelope I send, put their name on it, and mail it in our green postage free envelope.

I am getting my housekeeping down to a science. Had a good breakfast this morning and had only a plate and fork to wash. Don't take long to do up the dishes. I had bacon, two eggs, a biscuit and a bottle of milk. No meat to cut so no knife, no sauce or cereal so no spoon, drank the milk from the bottle so no cup or glass. And since enameling the top of the electric stove black, I only have to wash it once in two weeks, which gives another day for some other chore that must be done.

And now it is time to close this splurge and remind you to look at the date on your paper and see if by any chance you have neglected to send in that

June 15 renewal that is past due and you may have forgotten, for I would hate to stop your paper. It might just happen that I wouldn't be able to take you on later, should you want to get back onto the list. Just that is going to happen before this year is out I fear.

++ Something Different ++

Not so many people know that Mrs. Horace Travis has done a great deal of hard work for the Red Cross during the past 18 months or so, and it is about time she was given a big hand for her performance.

Firstly Mrs. Travis was cutting chairman. All that simple title means is that she took her scissors in hand and cut out dozens of garments to be sewed up. It means she spread out hundreds of yards of material, muslin and such, littering her house with many pounds of scraps and threads and those mean little ravelings. She has been cutting out the garments to be sewed in Arcadia and North Loup, as well as those for Ord women. She has had a little help from others, but not a lot.

Then the able sewing chairman, Mrs. Cochrane, moved out of Ord with her daughter, Mrs. Mark Gyger and Mr. Gyger. So Mrs. Travis added to her Red Cross burdens the sewing chairmanship too, and it too is real work. An excellent seamstress, Mrs. Travis made many garments and helped others start and finish their work as well. Hundreds of finished garments have passed through her hands, and emerged perfectly done.

Now Ord will have a sewing room for Red Cross workers, and Arcadia and North Loup women are to do their own cutting, so the work is lifting from Mrs. Travis' shoulders.

Perhaps it is selfishly Nebraskan, but here is hoping Governor Griswold stays right here in Nebraska, and isn't drafted into a vice presidential seat in the oncoming fracas.

He has made a good governor, with a middle-westerness to his viewpoint, a honesty and broad-minded, yet firm and friendly attitude that is rare indeed. He wanted to be governor, and he tried for the job. Now he is in the saddle, and doing a bangup job of riding herd on Nebraska.

And phooey to the politicians. Said politicians have a fine piece of candidate-material for president in Mr. Willkie. But he likely won't get the chance to run, although he is popular with the common man.

But Mr. Willkie won't take orders, and he doesn't care for "obligations" and "favors" and other political mediums of exchange. So the Big Shots have it in for him, and are trying to soft-pedal him. He will be blacked-out of the coming political picture if it can possibly be arranged.

More phooey to the politicians, from me.

But say—Willkie and Griswold—wouldn't that be a real team?

BACK FORTY

The Ord Cooperative Creamery has been one of the early originators of a new idea for this state—the idea of importing bucket calves. As early as 1927, Manager Fred Coe was getting purebred dairy heifers trucked in.

Last week's shipment of 65 head from Wisconsin to Valley county raises the number brought in to several hundred. They were secured by the Ord Cooperative Creamery, assisted by Carl Dale and Joe Raemakers of the FSA office. The latter agency has also shipped in a big herd of good mature Holstein cows for sale, and plans to get some large calves in the near future.

These are not cull calves that have been sold locally. They come from high producing northern herds, whose owners are unable to expand, and do not wish to sell off some milk cows each time a good heifer calf comes along. Also, they are getting such fancy prices for whole milk now that they cannot afford to feed it to calves.

As usual, there were not enough calves to supply the demand, and some disappointed farmers drove back home with empty trailers. It is hoped that more of these quality heifers can be delivered later for local sale.

There are two main ideas behind the importing of dairy calves: To build up dairy herds by gradually replacing poorer cows with better ones, and to give country boys an added point of interest on the farm.

The government is placing great stress upon dairying now, despite the shortage of farm labor. This is because milk cows produce more human food in return for the feed eaten than hogs, steers, or poultry. Dairy animals cost about 25 per cent more than a year ago, and are hard to get.

In Homes and on Farms
Stanley H. Kershaw, director of the Home and Farm Safety division of the National Safety Council, recently stated that accidents destroy 31,500 lives in American homes, take the lives of 11,000 members of farm families and permanently disable an additional 38,000 Americans in the homes and on the farms of the United States.

Rosebud
Rosebud is eight, and the most beautiful shade of caramel fudge. To her loving Mamma and Pappy she is known, on approximately alternate days, as "Angel" and "You devil child". It was on her devil-child days that Rosebud tied the knots in the shirts that Mamma had taken in for washing, and poured the whole of the vanilla bottle into the lamb stew, just, she said later through bitter tears, to "flavor it up some".

On her angel days Rosebud is equally imaginative even if a more restless occupant of the little shack down on Vinegar Hill. Once when Mamma was out doing day work, Rosebud got a wave of cleaning fever and scoured every pot and pan in the kitchen so that they literally glistened. Another day, left alone, she tidied up Mamma's and Pappy's room to such a point of apple-pie order that it was a week before Pappy could find an undershirt.

Rosebud is a great reader of the newspapers. Mamma and Pappy don't take one, but there are plenty of perfectly good newspapers blowing round Vinegar Hill. It was out of one of them that Rosebud got her idea for spending the ten cents the Bunny had put under her pillow the night her tooth came out. After breakfast Rosebud disappeared down the Hill and reappeared soon after with a beautiful ten-cent War Stamp pasted firmly into a brand-new book with neat little squares for more stamps. She displayed her investment to Mamma. "I declare you're an angel child," Mamma said. Rosebud went on sitting on the kitchen floor staring with large brown eyes at the empty squares in her book. From time to time she took hold of one or another of her teeth and wiggled it, gently.

Mamma was engrossed in a particularly big washing. Rosebud was as quiet as a mouse and Mamma forgot about her until, coming in from the yard with her arms full of dry sheets, she encountered her child with a large hammer in her hand. Scouting the devil in her angel child, Mamma shouted at her, "Rosebud! Come yere with that hammer! What you yerring on doing?"

But what was done was done. In Rosebud's other hand was another tooth. Her mouth was stretched in a broad if slightly bloody smile. "I ain't doing nothing, Mamma," she said. "I'm just filling up my stamp book."

LIFE began for Lionel Ainsley when he met Cynthia Trumble. She was the fulfillment of dreams that were dreamed while he sat alone by his camp fire in the wilderness, while he listened to the hoots of owls and the screeches of bobcats and wondered if the time would ever come when somebody sat with him by the fire and listened to the night sounds that had been his only companions since graduation from the state school of forestry two years ago.

He met Cynthia when he came out of the bush one June for a short vacation. From the first there was an understanding between them. They were married the day he was due to start back into the woods.

Lionel didn't know how it happened. He remembered telling her about the forests and the strange night noises and the sound of water lapping against the side of a canoe, and the sunsets and sunrises—and she had been thrilled.

The first week was deliciously sweet. Cynthia had been a country girl and because Lionel was her first real love, she eagerly looked forward to spending weeks alone with him in the wilderness.

That was before they reached Woodsville, where Lionel had his base. There was a big packing company at Woodsville, run by a man named Benton, who had a son named Austin. Fresh from college, young Austin had come to Woodsville to learn the packing business. Quite naturally the place was dull and boring to one so sophisticated.

Then Lionel and his new wife arrived, and Austin looked on Cynthia and vowed to know her better. Austin had that polish about him that attracts women. He was an experienced young man, and when he smiled at Cynthia she felt instantly that irresistible desire to play with fire. It was a desire she couldn't quite explain. She knew only that after a week in the wilderness with Lionel she wanted to see people, to laugh and play and be gay. But most of all she wanted to charm young Austin Benton with her beauty.

So when Lionel finally headed his canoe toward Woodsville to replenish their supplies, Cynthia's pulse quickened a little, and she kept her eyes fastened on the bend in the river that would first reveal the great buildings of the packing house.

What followed made Cynthia a little ashamed. She hated to hurt Lionel, he was so fine and generous and kind. And so devoted. She thought he'd object to a divorce, and it was a little disappointing when he agreed readily.

She saw the hurt look in his eyes and almost hated herself. Then she thought of young Austin, and she knew that the shame and hurt and pity would all vanish once she was again in his arms.

And so Lionel went back into the wilderness shortly after the divorce was granted, and Cynthia, free and exultant, waited for Austin to come to her.

He came at last and stood near where she lay in the hammock. It was night and she could not see his face.

"Cynthia, darling, why did you do it? I feel like a cad, breaking up you and Lionel like that. He's a good sort and—well, I meant nothing by my attentions. It was all—well, sort of fun."

"But, darling, you do love me? You do want to marry me?" Misgivings chilled her heart.

Austin ran a finger under his collar. "Well, you see, Cynthia—you see, I can't, that is—I'm already married!"

Cynthia nearly swooned. When she again opened her eyes Austin was gone. She was alone. Alone! No one to go to, no one to help her, no one to love her. Panic gripped her, then fear. Later she thought of Lionel. She had not known how to appreciate him. She'd wait. He'd be out of the bush again in three weeks. He'd understand. He was so big and fine and generous.

It was almost unbearable, that waiting. The people of Woodsville looked at her curiously and whispered among themselves. Three weeks passed and Lionel didn't return. Another week dragged by and still no sign of him. Her funds were nearly exhausted.

Then, at last, Lionel came back. Cynthia, watching from the veranda of her rooming house, saw his canoe sweep into sight, and her heart leaped. Lionel at last! Lionel, whom she'd loved and would love again. Lionel who had loved her so tenderly. Love like his didn't die. She had treated him miserably, but she'd admit all that, ask his forgiveness.

And then the canoe neared the shore and Cynthia went down to meet it. Lionel saw her, and waved a greeting. Cynthia's heart stopped beating. There was someone else in the canoe. A girl.

The canoe touched the shore. Lionel grinned at her happily. "Cynthia, it's good to see you again. Hope you and Austin are happy." He gestured toward the girl, who had turned to stare. "Cynthia, meet the new Mrs. Ainsley."

WHICH COMES FIRST?

Your Second Helping?

Or Our Second Front?

You want to see this war won—and won quickly.

You want to see it carried to the enemy with a vengeance. Okay, so do all of us. But just remember... a second front takes food... food to feed our allies as well as our own men.

Which do you want, more meat for you or enough meat for them? Just remember that the meat you don't get—and the coffee and sugar you don't get—are up in the front lines, fighting for you.

If we sometimes don't have exactly the cut of meat you want we'll have some other cut just as nourishing, just as tasty. We'll gladly make suggestions for stretching your ration points farther. And thus we'll all work together, doing our share to end the war more quickly.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"How about joinin' us in a game, Judge?... I'll drop out for a while."
"Sorry, Phil, but I can't today...I'm on my way up to the hospital to see how Frank's wife is coming along. I just dropped by to give you the answer to that question you asked me about synthetic rubber yesterday in the barber shop. I looked it up and found out that the beverage distilling industry's facilities for producing grain alcohol make it possible to include 200,000 tons of rubber from grain in the government's 870,000 ton synthetic rubber program.

"I also verified the fact that no distiller is making whiskey today. They all stopped making whiskey last year and are working night and day, 7 days a week, producing war alcohol for the government...for smokeless powder, chemical warfare materials, medical supplies, as well as for synthetic rubber. It's a mighty good thing these distilleries were in existence ready to do this important job."

Burwell News

Written by Mrs. Anton Zalud.

Six weeks after the death of his wife, death claimed A. E. McKinney, 81, pioneer Garfield county resident. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Full Gospel Tabernacle, with Rev. E. C. Niles in charge and interment was made in the Burwell cemetery. Arthur Ellsworth McKinney was born August 5, 1861 in Du Page county, Ill., and died at five a. m., on Wednesday, June 9, 1943. When seven years of age he moved with his parents to Grundy, Ia., where he grew to manhood. On Jan. 9, 1882 he was united in marriage to Mary Catherine Schuyler. To this union four children were born, Jesse of Colome, S. D., Brayton of Spalding, Mrs. Frances Clements and Mrs. Nellie Bales, both of Burwell, and a foster daughter, Mrs. Charles Woods. In the spring of 1884 they moved to Garfield county, where they endured the hardships and privations of the early pioneer days, spending 58 years in Nebraska and 3 years in California. In 1942 they celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary. This happy union was broken by the death of Mrs. McKinney on Easter Sunday, April 25, 1943. Survivors are the four children, fifteen grandchildren, seventeen great grandchildren and three sisters, Mrs. Jennie Schuyler of Fullerton, Mrs. Jessie Miller of Salt Lake City, U., and Mrs. Mary Bartley of Santa Cruz, Calif. Mr. McKinney will be missed by a large circle of friends and relatives. Valley Co. Short 350 Harvest Workers

Problem Local One, Town People Will Be Asked to Help

Harvest Only Few Days Away and Need for Help Acute; Meeting Thursday Eve.

With starting of the small grain harvest only a few days away Valley county is faced with a shortage of at least 350 harvest field workers, said County Agent C. C. Dale Monday. Since there is no possibility of importing harvest workers the problem is entirely a local one and must be solved by the cooperation of local people, he said.

Plans for recruiting part-time harvest help from men and women of Ord, North Loup and Arcadia have been drafted by the county farm labor committee composed of Dale, R. Clare Clement and E. C. Leggett, and Thursday evening at the AAA office in the court house this committee will meet with representatives of civic groups in an effort to bring about a partial solution of the problem.

Invitation to send representatives to the meeting have been sent to American Legion posts, volunteer firemen's organizations, Boy Scout groups, Knights of Columbus, the Chamber of Commerce and Community clubs. Other civic groups are invited to have delegates present also. The meeting starts at 8:30.

Each civic group will be asked to form a "harvest crew" to work evenings and holidays on farms where help is needed in shocking grain. Farmers employing the volunteer crews will be expected to pay for the labor at a scale recommended by the Valley county farm wage committee. The crews may do as they like with the money so earned—either divide it among workers for their own use or devote it to organization purpose or any cause they deem worthy.

Farmers who are going to need harvest help are asked to immediately list their needs with County Agent C. C. Dale's office, stating number of workers they will need and approximate time when their grain will be ready to harvest. Harvest crews organized by the civic groups will be assigned to these fields in orderly fashion and it is hoped the needs of all farmers can thus be taken care of.

Saturday the farm wage committee composed of Joe Suchanek, Chris Beiers, Ed Schudel, John F. Lech and R. Clare Clement met to decide on a recommended rate of pay for members of such volunteer crews. They decided upon 12 1/2¢ per acre per pound of twine used as the fairest method of pay. Thus, if 2 lbs. of twine per acre are used the pay will be 25¢ per acre. In heavy grain where 4 lbs. of twine are used the pay will be 50¢ per acre. This rate is specifically recommended only in paying part-time crews from the towns of Valley county, though farmers are free to use the same scale in hiring individual employees, if they desire.

To supplement the assistance volunteer town workers are able to give in the harvest field the farm labor committee is asking all town men who want steady harvest field work to register for such work either at County Agent Dale's office in Ord, at Vodelnal's Pharmacy in North Loup or at the Weddell Hardware Store in Arcadia. Recipients of old age assistance are permitted to do harvest or other work without penalty under new legislation, it is now stated, and there are believed to be a number of over-age men who are able and willing to work in the harvest. All such men and any other not regularly employed workers are urged to register at once. They will be put in touch with prospective employers and may make their own arrangements as to working hours and terms of pay.

Recent hot weather is advancing the date when grain will be ready to harvest, Dale says. Until a few days ago it was thought July 8 or 9 would be the earliest date but it is now thought there may be some fields ready by July 1.

Part-time workers, not a member of any civic group, also may register for harvest work at the places mentioned above. Groups representing organizations will work as a unit and need not register except through the organization.

Agricultural surveys show that in March, 1940 Valley county had 1,563 full time farm workers and that by March, 1943 this had dropped to 1,221. In the same period the number of full-time hired men had dropped from 106 to 55. Thus it is shown that the full time labor force in Valley county has dropped about 23 per cent.

At the same time there has been an increase in the acreage planted to grain crops because of changes in the AAA program which permit the cropping of what were formerly non-depleting acres.

It is pointed out also that in 1942 nearly half of the small grain was not shocked but was threshed from the windrows after binding. The harvest season was dry, permitting such a method of handling. Should this year's season be wet such a method would result in heavy losses of grain and under such a condition the need for harvest labor would be far greater than in 1942, and the demand in 1942 was not fully met.

Right now the emergency comes in harvesting grain but within a month there will be a new emergency because of the vast increase in potato acreage. Grading crews, which may be composed largely of women, boys and girls, will be needed at two or three shipping points in the county, and 100 or more people will be needed to pick up potatoes in the fields. After that will come the corn harvest with its own emergency.

About 60,000 acres of small grain must be harvested between July 5 and July 20, which will bring the peak labor demand of the year in Valley county, and it is hoped every person of age and strength sufficient to work in the harvest fields will be ready and willing to help during such hours as he has available, either individually or through some organization.

Smolik Boy Found in Sioux City, Is Back in Jail Here

Escapee Was Working in Big Packing Plant; Card to Draft Board Tip-off.

Back in the Valley county jail after three weeks of liberty is Eldon Smolik, who was arrested in Sioux City Thursday by Sheriff Robert Hall and Deputy Sheriff Vern L. Andersen, who returned him to Ord the same day.

Monday Sheriff Hall and County Attorney John P. Misko took Smolik to St. Paul where he was arraigned in district court before Judge Wm. F. Spikes and pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery.

In his story to the judge the boy said that he escaped from Valley county jail through the window of his cell, on which he had loosened a bar when he was in jail before. He thus got to the roof, went down through a trap door and walked out the east door of the court house, which is unlocked in the evening.

He has told several other stories about his method of escape, at times claiming that he picked the lock with a table fork, at other times claiming he used a pocketknife, and officers are not sure which method of escape he used.

After accepting Smolik's plea of guilty Judge Spikes announced that he would take the case under advisement before pronouncing sentence, and ordered the boy remanded to the Valley county jail temporarily.

Normally the boy would come up for physical examination on July 6 and would be inducted in the army two weeks later, but whether the army will accept him now that he has been found guilty of a felony is a question. If he is not accepted by the army he faces a term in state reformatory for men at Lincoln.

When arrested the lad was working in the Swift packing plant at Sioux City.

A postcard mailed by him to the draft board here led to his arrest, officers say. Smolik mailed the postcard at Dakota City, Neb., just across the river from Sioux City, and gave that village as his address. The card was received here early last week and draft officials notified county officers immediately.

A telephone call was made to Dakota City officers but Smolik could not be found in that vicinity so Sheriff Hall and his deputy drove there to make a personal check-up. Failing to find Smolik they drove across the river to the Iowa metropolis and, suspecting that he would seek work began making the rounds of the packing plants. They found him working in the first packing plant they visited.

The Smolik boy waived extradition and willingly accompanied Hall and Andersen to Ord.

He told conflicting stories about his escape from the Valley county jail but was willing to talk about his methods of travel after leaving the jail. He walked up the Ericson road to the junction with the Ericson-Burwell highway, caught a ride on a truck to Bartlett, rode with a traveling salesman to O'Neill and with a soldier to Yankton, S. D., where he first tried to find work. Unsuccessful there he hitch-hiked to Sioux City where he found work in the packing plant almost at once.

Knowing that he was subject to call by the draft board and being anxious to avoid trouble with the FBI he went to Dakota City and mailed a card to his draft board. He had not returned there to see if there was any mail for him but planned to go there after his mail Saturday.

First question the Smolik boy asked officers after his arrest was: "What did the Quiz say about me?"

Soil District News

Contoured land showed less washing in recent heavy rains. A number of farms that have been contoured this spring were inspected. It was found that the land that had been contoured showed less washing than land alongside which had been farmed up and down the hill. It was obvious that the greater the slope the less the contouring held the soil and water.

The best results from contouring were on slopes of approximately three per cent. Over three per cent slopes the contour luster ridges broke through in old drainage ways.

Where the contouring was supplemented with terracing very little soil was washed away. The recent rains make it evident that on nearly all slopes of over three per cent some terracing is necessary to carry off the excess water that the contouring cannot hold.

Many farmers pointed out that at the base of the slopes where the slope had not been contoured four inches to a foot of silt could be seen while on the contoured fields very little washing took place.

All farmers contacted agreed that they saved soil, moisture and seed by contouring. They also agree that it pays to contour on the level rather than by the eye.

The French that have lived here awhile are as worthless as the Arabs but the refugees are all right. The French soldiers were sure glad to see us come."

Cpl. Fajmon says they get news from home about men striking and adds: "Looks to me as if they aren't satisfied with what they get. If they changed places with soldiers they would gladly work for less than they are working for now and appreciate it."

Cpl. Fajmon is the younger of the Fajmon boys. His brother, Joe, who entered the army as a radio technician is now at Yale university.

OPA Orders Board to Refuse Gasoline for Special Trips

Illness, Death, No Reasons for Extra Gas, Is Edict of OPA Field Man.

Not even the serious illness or death of close relatives will be considered valid reasons for issuing special gasoline permits in Valley county in future, if the edict of Louis M. Wells, OPA fieldman from North Platte, is followed by the local rationing board.

In Ord Friday Wells intimated that Nebraska boards have been too lenient in granting extra gasoline for special trips and directed that the practice be suspended.

A general curtailment of non-essential use of gasoline is in progress throughout the mid-west, which heretofore has felt the pinch of gas rationing comparatively lightly. Wells told local officials. He is issuing similar orders to all county boards in his district, he said.

Car owners, whether they hold A, B or C ration books, must get along with their rationed gasoline in future and when such gasoline is not sufficient for necessary travel they must use trains or buses, said Wells. Only essential business travel is permitted on B and C coupons, he said, which does not include vacation trips, or journeys to visit relatives even in cases of illness or death.

Hiding Pearson, chairman of the Valley county ration board, Mrs. Grace Sprague, clerk, and two members of the gas panel, William Zabloudil and Emil Kokes, joined Tuesday in asking that car owners desist from requesting special permits for extra gas. The third member, Dr. F. L. Blessing, is absent from the city. "We simply cannot allow extra gasoline in future if we follow the clearly expressed orders of the OPA," Pearson stated.

A crack-down on people who drive over 35 miles an hour also is planned by the OPA. The Nebraska highway patrol will cooperate in future by stopping and warning drivers seen operating their cars at greater speeds, though under the state law patrolmen have no authority to make arrests unless speed is greater than 60 miles an hour by day or 50 at night OPA enforcement officers are being stationed on strategic highways and will jot down the license numbers of cars driven in excess of 35. A warning letter will be mailed on first offense and second offenders may lose their ration books.

B and C card holders who stray too far from home may be stopped and asked to prove they are on legitimate business, and A card holders who are farther from their home county than A rations would normally take them may also be stopped. Every person is required to display the sticker showing his gas status on the windshield of his car hereafter, under penalty of revocation of his gas ration.

From R. Clare Clement, chairman of the USDA war board, the Quiz learns that a general tightening in use of gasoline is in progress with the ultimate aim of cutting present midwestern consumption by 40 per cent. The desire now is to save gasoline for military needs and not solely to save rubber, which was the announced intention of the ration program when it was first introduced.

Allotments to commercial trucks have been cut sharply for the third and fourth quarters of 1943 in several cases, Clement says, but upon the trucker making a showing that original rations were not excessive the curtailment has been abandoned. Even gas for non-highway uses is being tightened, he states.

State papers have recently carried stories intimating that by fall the value of A coupons may be cut from 4 gallons each to 3 gallons each or less, as was done long ago in the east. Gasoline stocks are rapidly approaching the danger point everywhere except on the west coast, it is claimed.

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

Happened to me yesterday. I'm monkeying with my cart to get it started, when a soldier stops alongside. "Need some help?" he asks. And darned if that soldier wasn't young Charlie Jenkins from Elm Street. You wouldn't know him after six months in the Army. Fifteen pounds heavier—straight and tan and real sure of himself. The Army's done a lot for Charlie—like it has for lots of other fellows.

Now I read how some folks worry about the soldiers havin' a glass of beer occasionally. After seein' Charlie, I don't think there's cause to fret.

Just like Charlie says—"if you can trust us with guns and ships and tanks, I guess you can trust us with a glass of beer once in a while."

And I know the beer industry is cooperating with the Army to see that beer is sold in good, clean, decent places.

Don't Be Fooled By Cheap, Inferior Twine

You can't save money by using cheap quality twine. You'll always lose time, temper and grain during harvest.

For 55 years farmers have speeded up harvesting and stopped crop losses with Plymouth Binder twine. Grain farmers agree that Plymouth's higher quality actually saves them money in the field. You, too, can make this saving.

The Paper Cased Ball

The practical advantages of the Plymouth Paper Cased Ball are that it is the last word in tangle-prevention; insures convenience in handling and easy removal of the ball shell from the twine can, besides keeping the twine clean and in factory condition—whether you buy Plymouth "Red" Top (guaranteed fully 600 feet to the pound) or Plymouth "Green" Top (500 feet to the pound).

Pecenka & Son MEAT MARKET

SAFEWAY Homemakers' Guide

Let peanut butter be the home front standby

It's time we realized the importance of peanut butter as a nutritious food, and not as a delicious snack food. Its flavor is only one of the things in favor of peanut butter. It is a protein food and that means that it can take the place of meat on the menu. It is a food high in energy value, the kind of food that gives that power needed for heavy work. As for minerals and vitamins, peanut butter scores high. It is particularly high in some of those all-important B vitamins.

PEANUT BUTTER CUTLETS—Combine 1 cup hot medium thick white sauce and 1/2 cup peanut butter. Add 1 well-beaten egg and mix well. Add 2 cups soft bread crumbs and seasonings and mix well. Form into cutlets or patties, dip in beaten egg, then cracker crumbs and fry until well browned. Serve with cheese sauce.

PEANUT BUTTER IN SOUPS—Add 2 or 3 tbsps. peanut butter to cream soups for additional nourishment and tempting new flavor.

PEANUT BUTTER SAUCE—Blend in 1 to 2 tbsps. peanut butter into white sauce, tomato sauce and gravies. It adds extra richness and intriguing nutty goodness.

PEANUT BUTTER SALAD DRESSINGS—Mix peanut butter and salad dressings or mayonnaise in proportions to suit your taste. Serve on vegetable and fruit salads. It's simply luscious.

PEANUT BUTTER PUDDING—Mix 1/2 cup of cornstarch with a dash of salt and 1 tbsps. sugar, and 1/2 cup cold water. Combine 3 tbsps. honey or corn syrup with 4 tbsps. peanut butter. Mix with cornstarch mixture, and cook in double boiler for 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Then cover and cook 15 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Cool, pour into sherbet dishes and chill.

Land is Selling

Recently the TRAVELERS reported in the Quiz, some thirteen sales in Valley and Sherman counties. In checking our records, we were somewhat surprised to find we have had eighteen sales through our office in the first five months of 1943, which is three times the number over the same period of time in 1942. To my knowledge there has been over seventy-five sales in Valley county the past year. These farms are not being SOLD, but the public is BUYING, just the same as the grocer sells prunes, and the clothier sells clothes. The purchaser comes in and selects the farm he wants, and he BUYS it, and he usually knows which farm he wants before he comes in. The so-called bargains are being picked up, and the ones to select from are becoming more limited, and the seller has more to say about the price. It is becoming a seller's market. There has probably been a good 10% advance in the selling price the past six months. We have a number of good buys yet. If you own a farm which you wish to sell, we desire to list it. The time to sell is when you have a buyer. The time to buy is when you find the farm you want. We have the listing of practically all loan company farms which are for sale. But most of our sales have been privately owned. We thank our customers for the confidence shown in us.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

The other day when Walt Desch came back from a "business" trip to Bartlett, he handed me the following little poem:

"A lady has told me And in her own house That she cared not for me Three skips of a louse. Now don't blame the dear lady For what she has said. For women will talk Of what runs in their head."

This administration is rolling the price of butter back 5 cents a pound. We are supposed to be limited to 12 pounds of butter a year. That is a saving for you and for me of 60 cents a year. But we are short of man power and it will take an army of men to administer the law and will, without doubt, cost more than the amount saved.

I got a letter from a Garfield county lady friend the other day and being quite human I sure did enjoy getting it. We all like to be commended upon our efforts. I have been writing items in this, my only department in the Quiz, trying to show the ladies the error of their ways and help them to save time, short cuts of doing their work and having more time for the improvement of their minds, such as attending the aid society and the afternoon teas in the neighborhood. And this letter just goes to show that I am getting results. But here is the letter:

"Dear Mr. Leggett: I have been intending to tell you how much I enjoy your column. Yes sir, I read it first each week, then Irma's, next before I even glance at the front page. Your idea about washing the skillet on Thursday only could be a time saver indeed and I must adopt several of your methods, and as much as I dislike to scour the pancake griddle, why didn't I think to save the leftover ones and warm them again in a piping hot skillet. Must try that time saver on... And to think I didn't used to read your column. Well my knowledge of editors was limited of course."

Now that kind of a letter makes me feel good all over. Some people might be narrow minded enough to think that this good lady was just poking fun at me. I want her to know that she don't need to scrub the pancake griddle. Just cool it so any grease left on it won't drip on the floor, and hang it away till needed again. If, in the meantime, a little dust has gathered on the grease on the griddle, and there is someone in the family who is pickenish about eating clean dirt, just wipe it off a little with the dish-cloth and there you are. Washing the griddle is liable to get it to rusting. In time the griddle, under my method, gets what I call caked, just like a man's pipe does and the more it is caked the better it tastes. Just the same with the pancake griddle. Get several years of different kind of grease and cakes well caked on and it makes a sort of absorbent cushion upon which you can bake your cakes and they don't even burn, and it does give the cakes a delicious tang, different than you would get if you kept the griddle bright and shiny.

But this letter is not the only comment I have on my time-savers. Several have told me they thought my time saver ideas were wonderful and one lady went so far as to say it might revolutionize housekeeping for women if all my ideas were adopted. She didn't say who was likely to start the revolution however. But, anyhow, here is another that I have discovered. I always disliked making the bed but until now I have had to submit and sleep in a made up bed. I find it much more convenient to get into bed just as it was left when I got out in the morning. Saves the time of turning the bed covers back, which is not so easy in the dark.

And now, a word about your subscription. Better look at the date on your paper after your name and if it is time to pay up, do so before you miss an issue.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Two extra fine litters of pigs are making money for Lyle Fogt of Mira Valley. Lyle has saved eighteen pigs from the two sows that he chose for his ag project. They appear husky, plump and full of mischief, as healthy pigs usually do. The litters are even in size and free from runts, but display all sorts of colors. One may see red, white, black, belted, and speckled ones, for these young porkers are the result of criss-cross breeding. They frolic about in a lot which has raised no swine for over five years, thus avoiding diseases. The ground is covered by weeds and grass, which provide green forage and saves a third on grain. The pigs also eat plenty of concentrate. Lyle feeds a mixture containing equal parts of ground barley, ground wheat, and a commercial protein supplement. Criss-cross pigs such as these, are the hybrid result of mixing three different breeds. On the Fogt farm, Hampshires were mated with Duroc Jerseys. Then the gilts from this cross were bred to a purebred Berkshire boar. It is important that purebred boars always be used on Criss-cross gilts, and that a different breed of boar be used each year. Minnesota hog raisers have practiced three-breed crossing for some time. It is claimed that such animals reach market three weeks sooner than purebreds, and save a half-bushel of corn apiece in doing it. Criss-crossing is also thought to produce bigger pigs and larger litters. But somebody must supply the purebreds to start with.

Something Different

So there isn't anything new under the sun? No, probably not, at least I learned it again last week.

Mrs. Joe Rysavy was telling me how rhubarb could be canned so easily and nicely. Simply sterilize the jars; then scrub and cut up the rhubarb and pack them; then pour cold water to the top and seal! No heat, said she.

After asking several questions, that seemed to be all there was to canning it by that method, and I decided to try it. Surely even I could do that!

That evening I began to relate it to the Expert Family Canner No. One, but I hadn't made more than a sentence before he started to grin, and when I had finished he said "Why, Irma, my mother always canned rhubarb that way, hundreds of quarts of it. And I put up some of it that way three years ago, and wanted to see how long it would keep. I opened a jar the other day and it is just like fresh rhubarb!"

There are some large and beautifully tended gardens in Ord, and I viewed some of them, while pursuing rhubarb!

Jim Wachtrie has two or three gardens, all big, and all perfectly kept. He was out working, getting his corn in better shape. His garden also represented many hours of work in the hot sun done by Mrs. Wachtrie. "By the time I finish one end of it, it's time to begin at the other end," she explained.

Right adjoining to the north were the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Worm, also well tended and attractive.

Across the street east were more gardens. And in the same block, near where the gravel pump used to stand, stretched some other huge gardens nearly a block long. Standing at the top of the hill and overlooking them was like viewing a garden panorama picture put out by some seedhouse for inspiration.

Several people have commented on the column I wrote a couple of weeks ago about the hospitalized soldier boys.

From Burwell a woman called to say she understood two of the recent convoy of soldiers had been hurt and brought to an Ord hospital, so she thought I'd have a chance to do something for them! But the army took them speedily into Omaha in an ambulance, after a brief examination and treatment in Ord.

Another caller asked what I intended to do for the soldiers? I told her I had designs on making scrapbooks for them this summer, enlisting some youngsters to help me. She inquired more about it, so I related how pleased the soldiers I had visited with a Red Cross contingent had been with their scrapbooks. And what was in the scrapbooks, she wanted to know.

They were perhaps 50 pages, well filled with clipped pictures, cartoons but especially little jokes and stories. All attractively pasted in. The ones I saw had been made by young women of a neighboring town, each of whom had neatly put a stamp picture of herself and her name and address on the first leaf of the book.

When the books were handed out, the service men took them eagerly, and began to enjoy this joke and that picture, and almost at once I heard one young fellow say "I'm going to write that girl a note and tell her what a good job she did."

It seemed to me this would be a splendid summer occupation for a Sunday school class, or a group of Cub scouts, or Camp-fire Girls or Scouts, here in Ord. —Irma.

Use Cold Storage to Help Win the WAR

This is the season when the Victory gardens are yielding a supply of vegetables, not only for present use but for the cold days next winter if the surplus is taken care of now while at the peak of its goodness. There is no better, easier or cheaper way to save this surplus than processing it for the cold storage locker. Below are only a few of the many items now seasonable:

Whole Strawberries With Sugar.

Stir the washed, hulled, chilled berries with one third of their weight of sugar until most of the sugar has dissolved in the juice. This produces a better flavored but more mushy mixture. Place fruit in the boxes and cover with the syrup made from the sugar and hurry to the quick freeze. If you prefer the berries whole place in boxes and cover with a 40 per cent syrup.

Frozen Peas Superior To Canned Peas.

Many people say they prefer frozen to canned peas and it is much easier to care for them in that way. Just shell the peas, discarding any that are too old and hard, put about a pound at a time in a slazy cloth sack and hang into a kettle of hard boiling water for 1 1/2 minutes, then pour into cold water and cool, pack in boxes and hurry to the quick freeze room.

Rhubarb Good Frozen Too.

Rhubarb is good frozen too and it should be cut up in short lengths after washing, packed into boxes and covered with a 45 per cent syrup and frozen as soon as possible.

Frozen Spinach Like Fresh.

Spinach is almost as nice as when picked fresh if handled fast when preparing to freeze. Wash as for cooking, boil in kettle for 2 1/2 minutes (some use pressure cooker for the wilting), cool and drain well, pack in boxes and hurry to the freezer.

Later we will talk to you about corn and other things.

Joy Lost Marries.
Sunday afternoon at three o'clock Rev. Jepperson of Bethany Lutheran church, read the nuptial contract making Joy Loft the bride of Herman E. The ring bearer was little Sonny Sorgenfrel, nephew of the groom, and a little cousin of the bride, Joyce Ann Whitefoot, was the flower maid, dressed in a floor length frock of pale green.

Attending the bride were her sisters, Mrs. Henry Wit of Grand Island, and Mrs. Edna Herse of Branson, Mo., the first dressed in pink and the second in peach, both wearing bonnets of blue, also Marie Mareah, gowned in blue with a hat of white. The bride, entering on the arm of her father, L. M. With STORZ
Quality Comes First

The popular demand for Storz Beer has grown rapidly in the past year. Now a wartime order limits malt supplies to a percentage of amounts used a year ago. To keep volume up to demand, quality would have to be reduced . . . but that is not the Storz way . . .

Storz has never cut quality and does not intend to start now. The outstanding popularity of Storz Beer is due to the superb flavor it gets from skillful brewing, quality ingredients and slow aging. Storz would rather brew a little less beer than to alter its quality. Your dealer's supply may run low now and then, but you can be sure the Storz Beer you do buy will have that famous, oldtime flavor that has made Storz Beer your favorite.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

There Is No Place Like Nebraska!

We all know that song.

The writer, using poetic license, makes a strong statement—but not for the people who live in Nebraska.

For to us, Nebraska is home—home in the very center of the America we all love.

We know we share with all America the right to say what we think, the right to worship God as we choose, the right to choose our own friends and our own representatives to govern us. But we think, here on the prairies—close to nature—we cherish these rights more ardently, and more collectively.

Our rocks are buried deep beneath our bountiful soil—our rills are the streams and sluggish rivers where our boys love to swim in the deeper pools.

Our woods are truly ours, for we planted and nurtured them ourselves, and to us the rustle of the elm and the cottonwood in summer is sweet song.

Our templed hills are the bluffs along the Missouri and the Platte, with the flaming colors of autumn; the sharp rocky banks of the Niobrara, the grandeur of Scott's bluff, the Bad Lands with their riot of color—the rolling prairies with their lovely vistas on summer evenings.

The cottage in town, the farm buildings on a knoll looking out over the productive land, the comfortable little home on the city lot with its flowering shrubs and trees—each of these is home to some Nebraskan.

We in Nebraska are one people. A natural, friendly people, a people that realizes that all we have, or ever will have, comes from the soil of our native state. We all share the joys of abundant rain and the sorrow of searing heat. The bounties of nature make our common prosperity—the failure of crops means adversity for us all.

We share one ambition—the genuine American way of life. And we think that in Nebraska that ambition comes closest to being realized.

So we think, we believe, we sing—all of us, that

"There Is No Place Like Nebraska."

The market of last Saturday's sale was not as strong as it has been on some classes of stock especially weanling pigs. Our top by the pound was 16.30 in last Saturday's sale. However, we had some especially good milk cows and they sold well.

Our offering for next Saturday's sale looks like about:

About 165 head of weanling pigs, feeder shoats, wet sows.

5 head of work horses.

Some machinery.

Some furniture and miscellaneous articles including rocker, electric floor lamp, electric table lamp, Coleman gas lamp, lawn mower, five feet garden hose and sprinkler, hedge clippers, fruit jars, mop wringer with pall attachments, window washer, medicine chest and many other small items.

Also a Dempster 8 ft. steel windmill in running condition. Also a V-8 car, rubber is good.
