July Bond, Stamp Drive Planned by Retailers of Ord

Bonds on Sale at the Penney Store, Other Merchants Will Sell War Stamps.

Retailers of the nation are conducting the July campaign to sell War Bonds and War Stamps and in Ord several Ord stores are cooperating in the drive.

Bonds will be on sale, starting July 1, at the J. C. Penney store while other Ord merchants who are members of state and national retail groups will offer stamps for sale.

In Nebraska the quota fixed by retail groups is ten million dollars worth of bonds and stamps.

The J. C. Penney organization of 1,610 stores is conducting the sale of bonds on a nation-wide scale with a voluntary quota of $10,000,000 to be sold during the month of July.

As a send-off to the campaign Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau sent a message of congratulation and good wishes to every Penney employee.

This is the second time the Penney group has held such a drive, having sold $3,422,553.85 in bonds and stamps last July.

"July's Best Buy" is the slogan used by Penney stores in advertising bonds. A window of the Ord store will carry a bond display throughout the month, says Manager Keith Lewis.

The motion picture industry also is putting on a war stamp selling campaign during July, says M. Biemond, of the Ord theatre. Announced goal is $130,000,000, to pay for the great new aircraft carrier Shangri-La. The slogan is "Bomb Tokyo with Your Extra Change."

Intention of the drive is to sell, through the theatres, $1.00 in war stamps to every man, woman and child in America, which if carried out will raise the amount of money desired.

Stamps will be on sale in the lobby of the Ord theatre, or in front of the theatre, throughout July, says Mr. Biemond.

Urge Women Join Auxiliary Corps

Mrs. C. J. Mortensen, chairman of the local recruitment committee of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, announces that other members of her committee will be Mrs. Eugene Leggett, Mrs. Henry Enger, Mrs. Fred Kuehl, Jr., Mrs. Forrest Johnson and Mrs. Sylvester Furtak.

Any woman interested in learning more about this important new chance for women to help in the war effort should contact one of the above named committee for information.

Every type of work is being done by these women soldier-helpers. Some of them do mechanical repair work, some of them find their places in offices, like Ord's first woman to join this group, Mrs. Tamar Round Carson who is now on duty in a California camp. Many of these women are going overseas on duty, helping patriotically while they work at interesting new jobs and see new lands.

Liquor Short, Ord Stores Close 2 Days

The shortage of liquor, which is sweeping the shelves of liquor stores clean of whiskey, gin and other strong drinks, causes Sylvester Papernik and Mrs. Walter Douthitt, Ord licensees, to publish an announcement this week that hereafter their stores will be closed on Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week, until further notice.

Most city liquor stores long ago adopted the expedient of reducing their hours of sale. In Grand Island one of the largest stores is open only two hours daily, it is claimed.

All liquor stores receive from wholesalers only a small percentage of their last year's purchases and since drinkers have more money to spend than formerly the stocks available each week do not last long. Liquor men believe that by limiting their hours of sale they may be able to continue in business longer.

Work Progressing on Sale Pavilion

Work of rebuilding the Ord Livestock Market's pavilion and yards got off to a good start last week and is progressing nicely. All material is on the ground and the work will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. The building's owner, E. C. Weller, of Atkinson, was in Ord Monday inspecting the work.

Miss Norma Long took the bus Wednesday morning for Lincoln, and will return home Thursday evening with her parents, the Leo Longs.

Cpl. Brandenburg Writes of Africa

H. M. Brandenburg, of Arcadia, has received a long letter from his brother, Cpl. Carl Brandenburg, which is very interesting but too long to print in its entirety in the Quiz, under present space and help limitations. Cpl. Brandenburg told of the tiresome convoy trip, his safe arrival in Africa, and gives his impressions of the land and its people.

Parts of the country reminded him of the mountains of Colorado. He visited both Oran and Constantine and says that while they appear beautiful cities at a distance they are disappointing upon closer inspection. Stores haven't much merchandise to sell and what they have is very high—women's purses, for instance, range from $10 up to $30. The Germans when they left took all the clothing and food available and the natives were left in desperate straits but American and British have done a good job of bringing in supplies and the stores are beginning to come to life.

They have ice cream stores but the ice cream they sell is only flavored chipped ice. In order to get a bath in some towns you have to use the public baths. The soldiers had their money exchanged for French francs and they have quite a time wrestling with the new currency. A 500 franc note, for example, is 3 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches in size and the smallest note, 5 francs, is 4 1/2 x 2 1/2 inches.

The French franc is worth only 2c in American money. "When we compare our equipment and food with those of the French, or even the English, we have a lot to be thankful for," he writes. Also the standard of pay. A French captain makes $60 a month, or only a little more than a private in the American army. The French private makes 44c a day.

Contrary to general belief north Africa is not a hot country, at least now, says Brandenburg. Only way to keep warm in the evening is to go to bed at 7:30 with your clothes on, pile on 3 blankets and trust to luck, or your bed partner, that you will keep warm. The laundry situation is bad. Either you get some French family to do your washing and then argue about the price in two languages, or get French soldiers to do it for you, or do it yourself. He has had some done for cigarettes. Natives won't take money, as they can't buy anything with it, but they will take cigarettes, candy, chewing gum or wafers. But soap is hard to get and the soldier must furnish his own soap if he hires his laundry done.

Recreation is limited to what can be done with improvised equipment, though a few movies are beginning to come in and are shown with good sound equipment. The first picture was "Ball of Fire" and the second was "Rhythm on the River," he writes.

Since he knows no French, Cpl. Brandenburg says his conversation with the inhabitants is limited to a wild waving of arms, accompanied by various pitched grunts and groans. Conversation with a French officer consists of repeated handshakes and salutes.

There are two classes of Arabs, well-dressed and the more numerous lower class unbelievably filthy and dirty. They will trade practically anything for something to wear, as all apparel was taken by the Germans. The children all know the American "O. K." and use it in the form of a greeting.

"Our evenings are very calm and peaceful, spent for the most part in writing letters home and either openly or slyly getting out the pictures of the folks back home, somewhat appeasing the feeling of homesickness," he writes.

"Uppermost in every mind is the thought of getting back home and if honest, sincere prayers have anything to do with it everyone will get home safely."

Draft Notices for July Issued

Among the men who make up Valley county's selective service quota for the month of July, says Miss Christine Petersen, clerk of the local draft board, are Jack Janssen, San Diego, Calif., Paul Donnelly, Portland, Ore., John Hernandez, San Antonio, Tex., John "Brick" Norman, Edward Finley, Bernard Behrends, Daniel Trompke, William Ry-savy and Eldon Smolik, all of Ord; Beryl Gregory, Boyd Gregory, Boyd Snodgrass and John Hill, Arcadia; and Howard Gilmore, North Loup.

Alfred Heseke, who registered in Valley county but has been working in California, has been inducted into the army there and credited to this county, the draft board learns.

Mrs. Frank Andersen's mother, Mrs. Frank Hardin, continues very ill at her Lincoln home.

Girls Organize a Home Nursing Class

A new home nursing class of 19 members was organized Tuesday afternoon when members of the Soangetaha and Aowakiya Campfire girls groups met at the home of Mrs. A. J. Cochrane, guardian of one group.

Mrs. Hilding Pearson, R. N., will instruct the group, and it was decided to meet twice weekly for two hour lessons, and finish the course in six weeks. Mrs. John Misko is chairman of the Home Nursing division of the Red Cross, and helped them start. Other home nursing classes will be started soon.

Officers for the girls class will be Marilyn Long, president, Marilyn Ollis, secretary, and on the calling committee are Mary Travis Dot Kokes, Darlene Puncocchar, and Darlene Whiting.

The first of the lessons will be given at 2:30 p. m. Thursday in the basement of the Methodist church.

All Surplus Foods Will Be Salvaged Under New System

AAA Office to Compile List of Families Who Have or Need Canning Vegetables.

A plan by which it is hoped waste of vegetables and other food crops may be avoided is being put into effect this week by Mrs. Inez Burrows, farmer-fieldwoman of the AAA in Valley county. It is hoped by means of the system to bring families who have surplus vegetables that are likely to go to waste into contact with women who do not have enough vegetables of their own and want to buy them for canning purposes.

Hundreds of victory gardens are being raised this year, points out Mrs. Burrows, and unless care is taken string beans, tomatoes, cucumbers and other vegetables are likely to go to waste because the person who raises them does not need or does not have facilities for canning the quantity raised.

Edgar Barnes Overseas

Mrs. Tillie Beran has received word that her son, Pfc. Edgar Barnes, has arrived safely overseas, though she does not know to what theater of action he was sent. Another son, Harold Barnes, is at home for a 4 to 6 week furlough while recovering from a broken foot.

Three years ago Edgar Barnes, along with Dale Hughes and Charles Cetak, received all-state football mention. Now all three are in the army, Hughes being an aerial gunner stationed in the Solomons and Cetak being at the desert training station in California.

It is proposed, therefore, to keep a card file in the AAA office showing what persons have surplus foods to sell, what foods are needed, who has surplus jars to sell and who needs extra jars.

In rural districts this information will be secured by mailing out postcards which farm women will be asked to fill out and return. A similar plan will be used at North Loup, through the local AAA office. To collect the information in Ord Mrs. Burrows has appointed Mrs. Keith Lewis and Mrs. C. J. Mortensen who will make use of existing Red Cross section and block organizations. The Red Cross organization at Arcadia will be used also.

The plan may be extended to other food crops later if it works satisfactorily on string beans and the other vegetables that will be ready for canning early. It is too late to use it on peas, though many women have unsuccessfully sought peas to can while others have had more than could be utilized.

Farmers to Vote on Soil District Saturday, July 3

10 Voting Places Set Up in Garfield, Loup Counties, Each Land Owner Votes.

Burwell — (Special) — Land owners in Garfield and Loup counties will go to the polls Saturday, July 3 to approve or reject establishment of a soil conservation district which will include all land in the two counties. The proposal to form this district had almost unanimous favor when farmers attended hearings recently. Assurance has been given that technicians, whose salaries and expenses will be paid by the federal government, will be assigned to the new district as soon as organization is completed. To qualify under state law there must be a 75% favorable vote by land owners.

If the district is approved farmers within its boundaries will be eligible to receive assistance in laying out soil and water erosion control practices such as have been demonstrated on farms in these counties.

Land surveys, useful in rearranging their fields on the contour, laying out pasture furrows, constructing terraces, diversion ditches, water spreading systems, seeding water-ways, irrigation, constructing earth dams and farm ponds and other practices to save soil or water will be provided to farmers. Five local farmers will act as supervisors of the program.

No farmer is obligated to participate unless he desires and every farmer must make application before he can be assisted in any way.

Voting will be done by secret ballot at any of the ten polling places provided. Any land owner or joint land owner gets one vote, heirs of an estate receive one vote each, one owner of several farms has only one vote, agents of land owners may vote if they have power of attorney or written permission from the land owners. Eligible voters who find it inconvenient to vote on the day of the referendum may vote by mail. They must request a ballot and have the special envelope notarized and postmarked not later than midnight of the day of the election.

Polling places designated include the Almeria store, the Bank of Taylor, county clerk's office in either Taylor or Burwell, county judge's office, Burwell, Ballagh store, L. B. Fenner's office, Guy Laverty's office or Bill Manasil's office. Mail ballots may be secured at any of these places.

The district judge also is expected to pronounce sentence on Eldon Smolik, who has been held in jail here since he pleaded guilty of forgery and Judge Spikes took the case under advisement early last week.

Heat Wave Broken by Shower Sunday, Much Cooler Since

106 Degrees Registered in Ord Sunday Unofficially; 47 Degree Drop Sunday.

The June heat wave which saw temperatures soar to an unofficial high of 106 degrees in downtown Ord came to an end Sunday afternoon with a fine 1/4 inch shower and the weather has been cooler ever since. Another drizzling rain started Wednesday morning and by noon had brought about a quarter of an inch of rain, with more still falling.

Hottest official temperature during the heat wave was Sunday afternoon just before the rain when the government thermometer at the Horace Travis home registered 100 degrees. At the same hour downtown thermometers registered 106. Immediately after the rain thermometer readings were 47 degrees lower.

Friday and Saturday were hot days also, the official readings being 96 and 99 for those days which ended a week of 90 degree or higher temperatures.

The ten days of hot weather hastened ripening of small grain crops which are now expected to be ready for harvesting by next week. Since Sunday's rain made growth and the slow rain which fell throughout Wednesday morning will make crop prospects still better. Field crops and gardens have now overcome the slow start they had in the cold, wet spring and are in wonderful condition, farmers say. A bumper harvest of practically all crops is likely if present weather conditions continue.

By all the signs Valley county people will observe the 4th of July quietly this year, despite the fact that the next day, Monday, July 5, will be a holiday also for town people. Ord stores will be closed all day July 5, they have announced.

No celebrations are advertised in this territory and the shortage of gasoline will prevent long vacation trips that week-end. For people who do drive there is interest in an announcement by the North Platte office of OPA to the effect that zone speed checks will be carried out at numerous points in the district next week end. In those cases where driving is clearly in excess of 35 miles per hour the violators will be notified and a hearing held with reference to revocation of their gasoline rations, the announcement says.

No fireworks are on sale here this year, so even this traditional feature of the Glorious Fourth will be missing. Picnics, swimming parties and home gatherings will be the only means of celebration for most Ordites.

Mr. and Mrs. John Prince left by bus Wednesday morning after visiting at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Prince and Mrs. Frank Zabloull. Mr. Prince is her youngest brother. The Prince home is in Los Angeles and they have been gone a month altogether.

Men Needed Now to Start Work in Harvest Fields

Some Grain Ready to Cut; Dale Has Applications for Twenty Men.

Some fields of grain are ready to cut in Valley county and already applications for about twenty men needed to shock grain and work on combines are on file in the office of C. C. Dale, county agricultural agent, he said Tuesday. Many more fields will ripen and be ready for harvest by the first of next week, he believes.

Response from men wanting harvest field work has been very meagre, says Dale, who is chairman of the Farm Labor committee for this county.

Some of the farmers who have requested help have jobs that will be steady through grain shocking and threshing season, he said. Others offer straight shocking jobs. The rate of pay is good.

An estimated 350 extra workers will be needed in this county during the harvest season.

Thursday evening a meeting of delegates from civic groups was held in the AAA office, to plan formation of part-time shocking crews composed of men and women who work at other jobs day-times but are willing to help farmers for a few hours each evening. The Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, Boy Scouts and Knights of Columbus were represented, as well as the Arcadia Community club which sent its president, Lloyd Bulger and also Claris Bellingier, U. S. employment office representative. North Loup was not represented at the meeting but is planning to cooperate in the county-wide program.

Ord organizations represented have agreed to form harvest crews and the Ord volunteer fire department also will have one or more evening crews working when harvest gets under way.

Gloomiest prospect is for the full-time laborers so badly needed on many farms. It had been hoped that fifty or sixty men would register at Dale's office in the postoffice building, at Voderhual's Pharmacy in North Loup, Wedde's Hardware at Arcadia or the U. S. employment office there and thus indicate their availability for work. Response to date has been very disappointing. Any men able to work are asked to delay no longer but to register at once for immediate assignments. Far more farmers will be requesting help by this time next week and already about twenty have asked for full-time help.

Under the direction of senior patrol leader Hugh Cahill, 11 Boy Scouts of Troop No. 194 went on a "commando camporee hike" Tuesday evening, most of them senior scouts of the troop of 26. Leader H. E. McClure helped plan the trip and make the trail, which lead to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frit Kuehl, jr.

The scouts left Ord in patrol of six or eight men at intervals of 30 minutes, beginning at 2:30 in the afternoon. Each of them carried a full pack and food for making supper and breakfast. Enroute they were to identify trees, birds, find messages, etc. Patrol leaders were Bud Larson, Lyle Manchester, Leonard Roessler and Gordon Sorenson.

At the Kuehl farm the boys prepared and ate supper, then made a campfire and held a meeting and songfest. The rain beginning about 2:30 a. m. moved the young sleepers into the Kuehl barn, and brought them to Ord in trucks Wednesday morning. They were to have made breakfast and hiked in 14-mile hike, altogether.

The entire trip was a project in "self-sufficiency," and the last half of it will be carried out soon, weather permitting, says Mr. McClure.

Morris Lee Williams, visiting in Ord, accompanied the boys.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The more I read about it, Judge, the more I realize the tactics and requirements of this war are as different from the one I fought in 25 years ago as night is from day."

"Yes, and I can give you an example of how true that is, Fred. In World War I the chief uses of alcohol produced for war purposes were found in smokeless powder, medical supplies and chemical warfare materials. In this war the need for this product is far more vital because it is also used as a fuel to propel torpedoes, to make shatterproof glass for airplane windshields and instrument covers, to make lacquers used in camouflaging equipment and as a base for synthetic rubber needed for tires, gas masks, paratroop equipment and dozens of other things.

"Every time I think of it, Fred, I realize how fortunate we were in having a beverage distilling industry in existence when war broke out... ready and willing to convert 100% to the production of this critically needed war product. I'm mighty sure bootleggers wouldn't have."

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Honolulu, T.H., June 12, 1943.

Special to the Quiz:

I manage to keep plenty busy, what with working ten hours per day for a measly little check of $95, etc., etc., but it seems that I still must keep writing to the Quiz. Every day or two I get a complaint from some friend because they say I am neglecting my duty. I would doubtless feel like writing more and oftener if the Boss wouldn't be so mean all the time. I wonder why he don't save all those digs for that big garden he keeps talking about. And what is the idea of his saying that my relatives are worrying about me when they all know where I am and what I am doing. Officially I quit writing for the Quiz more than a year ago, but I don't object to writing occasionally, if it is appreciated.

If you don't appreciate your friends when you are living right among them, you certainly do when you are 4,000 miles away with no chance of getting back for a long time to come. I read every letter I get a dozen times, and I share any items of general interest with my friends here. Speaking of friends, I have a lot of friends with me, and I am making plenty of use of them. Some are about worn out or used up and others are good for a long time yet. First among these I would class the plates I got from Dr. R. W. Wood of Burwell fifteen years ago, and which are still giving me excellent service every time I eat. I also think of Dr. C. R. Gard who repaired them.

Next comes the glasses I got from Dr. G. A. Parkins while working on the Quiz. They are still fitting me as well as ever, and I would not know what to do without them. Next comes the watch I bought from Auble Bros. about the same time, and which is keeping perfect time right along, even if it is five and one half hours behind the time at Ord. Then I have the pen and pencil set I bought from the Ringlein pharmacy shortly before I left Ord. The letters I write with them travel a long way, and give one pleasure, I hope.

I have the little suit case I got from my friend Bill Misko just before leaving, and I expect to use it on the return trip to the main land and to Ord. I could sell it for double what I paid for it, but it is not for sale. Tonight I am wearing a pair of suit overalls I bought from Willard Harkness at Brown McDonalds more than a year ago, and they still are wearing well. I use the belt the Legion boys gave me only on special occasions, but I am using the bill fold my son, Guy and wife gave me every day. Most of my clothes came here in son, John Wesley's trunk, and will return the same way. I still use the razor I got at Russell's drug store before I left.

Now, I suppose most of you will call this drivel, but the fact is that everything I have that I brought with me serves to remind me of my friends at home, and so, in a sense, I have a lot of my old friends with me every day. I am their custodian, and it is my job to see that they get back to Ord with me in the spring of 1944, when the Mrs. and I are coming back for a long visit.

It may interest Quiz readers to know that we have quite a number of members of the animal and vegetable world here that are to be found around Ord. I am not sure whether I mentioned them or not but we have English sparrows, field mice, cockroaches and at least one gray squirrel. Then among the plants are yellow and sweet corn, potatoes, beans, radishes, in fact, nearly everything that grows in the gardens there. Among the weeds we have cockle burs sand burs, and a species of marijuana. The nearest approach to the robin here is the minah bird, which is too noisy to be popular, but at times they sing a song very much like the robin.

Day before yesterday at high noon the sun was exactly straight overhead. It certainly gives one a peculiar feeling to look straight up and see it there. Believe it or not, the temperature has not been above 80 degrees here so far this spring, and may not get that hot all summer. The reason is because the sea is near us all around and there is always a breeze. The Southern Cross is a feature of the southern sky every evening now. We have very little rain now here in the valley, but up in the mountain it rains nearly every day, and we get to see some of the most wonderful rainbows you ever saw. Then we always have a lovely sunset and sunrise with colors that baffle description. Yes, it is plenty lonesome here, but the island has its compensations.

Six of us located in the two upstairs rooms here when we came nine months ago yesterday, and yesterday the fifth one of that group quit, leaving me the only one of the six still on the job and the old location. New men have come in to take their place, and a man named Paul Brannen has moved up from down stairs to be my room mate. The other man, Bill Cline, is going back to his family in Ohio and to work in a war plant somewhere there.

It is much the same in the shop, where Ching and Penn and I are all that are left of the group that started out there last September. By the way, I met an Everett Copenhaver who is a cousin of the Copenhaver who was on the Ord school faculty some years ago. I asked him about it, and he recalled that said cousin was teaching in Ord, Nebr., about that time. However, those incidents are so common that I am not surprised at them any more. Since we started working a ten hour per day I do not have much time for anything but work, but the extra time means about $25 more per week for me, so I should worry about it.

At the last Legion meeting here the boys voted to send the Pearl Harbor colors to the Legion National convention in Omaha in August, and to send two color bearers and a color guard with them. They also voted to raise about $2,000 to take care of the expenses. The persons to go are to be chosen by lot from the membership, so I have one chance in fifty of getting to Omaha, and to Ord of course, in August. By that time I will have about 25 vacation days due me, so I could plan on quite a visit. My luck has been so good so far on this trip that I might be lucky enough to be chosen. Here's hoping. That is all for now.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Old car fenders turned upside down make good troughs. A set of these ingenious containers is serving feed and slop to Ernest Rousek's project pigs in the west end of the county.

They are handy substitutes for metal troughs, which cannot be purchased. Ernest also prefers the fenders to wooden troughs, which become leaky and unsanitary. The auto fenders are fastened to a fence, so that the back part acts as a splasher and keeps feed from being thrown out. Best of all, the fenders didn't cost anything. Ernest gives his dad credit for the idea.

Ernest believes in keeping his pigs cool. In addition to frequent watering, he has their shade shelter roof covered with green weeds. And when the weeds dry up, he simply adds more green ones.

The Rousek porkers graze on April-seeded sudan pasture. Now sudan grass is a hot weather crop and is not supposed to be planted until in late May or June. But the Rouseks got it to grow six weeks ahead of time and have one of the few good spring-seeded hog pastures in this locality.

Last year the Rouseks bought an outstanding boar from the state university. This boar has sired about 180 pigs, the finest they ever produced. The Rousek Poland Chinas combine thickness with the length of body needed to get big litters, and belong to neither the "racer" nor "cob-roller" type of hog. They are one of the oldest and best purebred herds around.

Something Different

Roosevelt was being cussed for something different the other day, and on thinking it over, it seems to me the blame is truly his'n.

Several young mothers were talking about how tired their children were this summer. When another mother spoke up, agreeing, she explained, "Well, it's this goofy war time. The children think as long as it's light in the evening it isn't time to go to sleep yet, so they stay awake 'late' by the clock. Then in the morning the seven o'clock whistle rouses them as usual, or the household noises as the rest of the family get ready to go to work on 'war time' wake the children... same thing.

"So the children are beat out of an hour or two of sleep every day, and they keep getting more and more tired, and don't know why!"

The recent marriage of Joy Loft of Ord and Hamble Elstermer of Grand Island was unusual in a number of details, in addition to the beauty of the wedding.

For "something old," the bride tucked an old coin in her shoe. When it came to three handsome wedding cakes, each one of them three tiers tall, the groom took a hand. He had spent two or three years working in a bakery, so when he had iced and trimmed those cakes, each with its tiny bride and groom posted on top, they were indeed three of the most breathtaking cakes imaginable.

For balancing up things, Principal F. L. Stoddard has a very fine system. Winter times, in other words a good nine months of the year, he is an indoor, white-collar high school teacher and busy principal in the Ord schools. Pale-faced, mental labors.

But come summer, and he goes into disguise as a laboring man. Often he goes into the harvest fields to work. Thus he acquires a fine tan, firm muscles, good health, much oxygen, but not less, a new point of view and a good understanding of what work and duties some of the rest of the world performs.

This summer he is being a railroader. This summer-job is quite a habit with Ord teachers. Mr. Tolley and Mr. Cochane often take to highway maintenance work in the summers, but their positions are a bit different than Mr. Stoddard's, for they are athletic coaches during the school year.

Mr. Kovanda is another who manages to keep himself busily occupied. And into spare minutes he fits things like going fishing, mushroom gathering, and bee keeping.

War Effort - Mrs. Bessie... "All right, Bessie," said the boss of the little factory which was making jackets for soldiers. "Did you want to see me about something?" The thin middle-aged woman stood up from the chair in the outer office and looked earnestly at the boss with her huge, grave gray eyes. "It's about this ten percent pledge," she began. "Oh, that's all right, Bessie," the boss said. "I'd been meaning to speak to you about that. We don't expect you to pledge ten percent of your pay for War Bonds like the others are doing. We know you have a hard time making ends meet since Jake died. Eleven kids, isn't it? That's quite a lot of mouths to feed. Let's see, you make $25.50 a week including overtime, don't you?" "Yes, sir, but..." The boss smiled. "Don't give it another thought, Bessie. You've got your hands full now. Uncle Sam knows you haven't got a penny to spare. Don't let it worry you. We understand."

The boss turned to go back into his private office. "But what I wanted to say was..." Bessie raised her voice and the boss looked around. "I wanted to say, would a dollar a week be too little? You see, after we get the living expenses paid, there's just about a dollar a week left. Would they be willing to accept a dollar a week?" "They'd be more than willing," the boss said quietly. "They'd be proud."

Bessie looked relieved. "All we have to do is scripp a little," she said. "I'd feel just terrible if we couldn't give something." Back in the boss' office a representative of the Treasury Department was waiting. The boss shut the door and sat down. "I've just seen the greatest single sacrifice I know of," the boss said. "Listen, if you want to hear what American women are made of..." (Story from an actual report in the files of the Treasury Department.)

Wrong Woman

By R. H. WILKINSON
Associated Newspapers.
WNU Features.

IT WAS Candida's idea to be married in England. Every member of her family except herself had been born in a little town called Laurelhurst, so it occurred to her that being married there would give her a distinction that the others didn't have.

Johnny was wholly in favor of the idea.

So they set sail on the Urbantania—Candida and her mother, and Johnny and his aunt, Mrs. Gill. Everything was serene when the Urbantania left the docks in New York. Everything remained serene until that evening. That evening the wedding party found that two other people were assigned to the same table in the dining salon. The two others were Mrs. Jasper Jummel and her daughter, Lita.

Lita was a blonde with lustrous blue eyes and a perfectly featured face. Johnny decided she was about the most beautiful woman he had ever seen.

After dinner, in the main salon there was dancing, and Johnny, out of sheer courtesy, naturally danced with Lita. She was personified rhythm in his arms, she was an electric current that warmed his blood and caused his nerves to tingle. He was glad when the dance was over.

The next day Johnny was taking a constitutional around the deck and he met Lita. The wind was in her hair and the wind was whipping her white silk dress close about her body. He stopped and talked with her, acutely conscious of her eyes and her smile and the warm flush of health on her cheeks.

That night at dinner Johnny tried not to notice that every time he looked at Lita she was watching him. He promised himself that after dinner he wouldn't dance with her. But he did. Twice. After the second dance he pleaded a headache and went to his cabin. He lay on his bed and thought. He asked himself what would be wrong with a harmless flirtation. Lita, of course, meant nothing to him. When they reached Liverpool he'd never see her again. Candida was the girl he loved.

He wondered if he could carry on a harmless flirtation without hurting Candida, without making his interest in Lita seem obvious. He decided that he could.

The next night he was halfway through a dance with Lita when suddenly he stopped. He took her by the arm and without explanation led her through a door onto the deck. There was a moon, but deep shadows lay beneath the superstructure near the bow. He led her toward the shadows.

"Lita!" he said huskily, and took her in his arms. She yielded. The kiss lasted an eternity. They broke away at sound of voices close by. One of the speakers was Candida's mother. Johnny grasped Lita by the hand and dragged her swiftly away. They had not, he was sure, been observed.

Two nights later Johnny again yielded to temptation. He made a secret rendezvous with Lita. With her in his arms it was easy to forget. He said things that he knew he didn't mean. He told her that he loved her. He told her she had given life a meaning. He told her that he didn't want to go on living without her.

Lita reciprocated nobly. She gave back answers of a like nature, only differently put. They kept it up for an hour or more, babbling nonsense to each other, assuring each other that no one else existed in the world.

Repetition began to rob the conversation of its savor. There were long pauses, while each tried hard to conjure a new angle. The conversation that had started off with delightful little intimacies, began to pall. Johnny became annoyed. It occurred to him that it was a pity they couldn't talk about something else. It flashed across his mind that the guy who married Lita would have a pretty dull time, if this were the extent of her intelligence. He began to think of some excuse to get away. A couple of words with Candida at the moment would be refreshing.

Descending the companionway stairs, Johnny cursed himself for being seven kinds of a fool. Now the possibility that he hadn't succeeded in keeping his flirtation from appearing obvious, struck him brutally. What if Candida had noticed? What if she . . . He dared not think of the possibilities.

Two minutes later he knocked on Candida's door. She opened it and came out into the corridor. "Darling, what's happened? You look queer." "I feel queer," Johnny laughed. He took her into his arms. You can cure me though—by assuring me that you still love me."

"Silly! Of course I still love you!" Hungrily he held her tight against him. He couldn't see her eyes, which were just as well, for there were tears in Candida's eyes. She was glad now—oh, so glad—that she had relied on her instinctive judgment of women, rather than carry on and make a scene and spoil both their lives.

Youngquist, Paul and G. F. Deans, Fred Murrys, A. H. Eastbrooks and Floyd Bossens. Present at the meeting were Dr. J. E. Livingston, extension plant pathologist and County Agent C. C. Dale of Ord, and growers from up and down the Middle Loup and also several from the North Loup valley who were unable to attend the meeting held in that valley on Wednesday. Plant diseases were discussed and nearly all fields yielded some plants affected with blackleg and rhizoctonia but as a whole the fields visited are expected to produce an abundant yield this fall. Much more interest in these meetings is expressed by the growers than a few years ago when the writer accompanied an inspection tour. At that time all of those attending could ride in three cars. Potatoes are gradually coming into their own in the valley as a major cash crop.

The Arcadia Community club held their regular meeting June 22 at the Arcadia hotel with 25 present. The main topic for discussion was the coming harvest and how to care for the labor shortage. After different aspects were discussed it was decided to send a delegation to the county meeting at Ord on Thursday and unless a better plan was adopted at that meeting to go ahead with the same method that proved so successful here last year. The plan is to send cards to farmers with the request that they fill them out and return them as soon as possible with the necessary information. These cards will be available at either the U. S. employment office or Weddels hardware so that anyone wishing to contract fields to shock or other harvest work may go there and pick out the size of the job he thinks he can do. The rate of pay will be decided between the farmer and the laborer. Last year the average rate was 50c per acre. We are short many more farm laborers than every able bodied person in the community should get out and do his or her best to help gather the harvest so that none will be wasted.

Arcadia Church Notes

Christian Science Services. "God" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, July 4.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord is our judge, the Lord is our lawgiver, the Lord is our king; he will save us" (Isaiah 33:22).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Let the people praise thee, O God; let all the people praise thee. O let the nations be glad and sing for joy; for thou shalt judge the people righteously, and govern the nations upon earth" (Psalms 67:3,4).

A large crowd attended the special services on last Sunday. This service was dedicated to our boys and girls in the armed forces. The interest manifested in this honor service was inspiring for which we greatly appreciate, and may we never forget one of them because of the great sacrifice and price they are paying for our security. May we continue to enforce the home front, so when they return they will not find us weighed in the balances of duty, and found wanting. The church has a great responsibility, let us not fall them.

Soil District Notes.

Many widespread conservation practices have been applied to the land in Valley county according to the figures given out by district office.

Approximately 6,000 acres have been laid out by the district technicians for contouring; 25 acres for diversions; 1,137 acres for irrigation systems; 45 acres for small drainage systems; 145 acres seeded to new pasture; and 183 acres terraced.

Recent observations show that the practices have been valuable in conserving soil and moisture on the land besides less corn washed out that had been planted on the contour.

On the irrigated land it has proven profitable to have the laterals located properly to save soil, time and increase production. Wherever irrigation is practiced a good drainage system should be planned.

Much of the badly eroded land and land unfit for farming should be planted back to grass. It is the proper land use and brings in bigger dividends in the long run. Either warm season or cool season grasses may be used.

Terraces are needed on many fields to supplement contour farming by carrying off the excess water that the contour can not hold. Terraces make for a permanent guide for contouring. If built with an ordinary two-bottom plow they cost very little and can be maintained quite easily. Clayton Noll has recently constructed some very good terraces by using a two-way plow. A terrace will "walk" the water off a hill rather than to have the water "run off."

"Nebraska's Friendly Station"

...AND PASS THE AMMUNITION

The ammunition in this war is not only guns and ships and planes turned out by the valiant men and women of our war plants... it is also food for our boys overseas, food for men and women in factories, food to keep this nation a dynamic fighting force.

Our hats are off to the farmer. Up with the dawn, to bed after dark, he does not ask for shorter hours. Though short of help he produces his crops in spite of every obstacle. When Victory comes, a great share of the credit will be his. He is a first class fighting man!

"NORCO THE PORKY" Says

OUR BOYS NEED YOUR PORK

It takes a lot of food to keep our fighting men in top condition and pork is one of the foods they really need. It's every hog raiser's job to produce pork fast and economically. That means eliminating wasteful feeding and supplying a balanced ration. One good way is to feed corn and Norco Hog-Maker Supplement. If you are feeding corn alone, you can save up to four months' feed bill by adding Norco Hog-Maker to the daily ration. That's a saving worth making and the pork you produce starts to the front months sooner.

$583,616 County's War Bond Quota for Twelve Months

Quota Must Be Met Besides Special Drive Quotas, Ord Men Are Told.

Valley county's war bond quota for the twelve months between July 1, 1943 and June 30, 1944 has been set at $583,616, officials here were told Tuesday afternoon by Steven Spitznagle, of Omaha, and John B. Smith, of Auburn, representing the state war bond committee.

This quota must be met in addition to quotas set for special drives such as will be held in September, they said, except that the county will be given credit in each special drive month for its "normal" sale of bonds, figured on the quota basis.

Quota assigned to Nebraska for the fiscal year is $101,000,000, they said, and this has been divided equally between industrial and agricultural counties, with Valley county classed in the latter group.

During the past fiscal year war bond sales averaged only about $30,000 per month in Valley county, which means that almost double that amount must be sold monthly during the twelve coming months. Quota for the coming September drive has not been set but it is pointed out that Valley county sold $172,000 in war bonds during the special drive last April.

According to Spitznagle, war expenditures by the United States this year will be over 100 billion dollars and there will be approximately 42 billion dollars in "idle" money in the country which must go into war bonds or taxes if run-away inflation with all its evils is to be avoided.

"Right now about 25 per cent of the people are buying more than their fair share of bonds, 50 per cent are perhaps buying their fair share though they are not making any particular sacrifices to do so, and the other 25 per cent of the people are buying few bonds, if any, and are even in some cases bragging about their failure to buy bonds," Spitznagle told the Ord group. "It is this latter 25 per cent that we especially must reach in coming months, for it is their money that is likely to bring about inflation."

"If the 42 billions of dollars which will be in the hands of the people next year, in excess of consumer goods to be bought, ever get away from us we're sunk and surely will face the terrors of inflation," he said. The war bond program is designed not only to help finance the war but also to relieve the threat of inflation, it was stated. If people do not voluntarily buy bonds Congress inevitably will pass "forced savings" legislation Spitznagle believes.

The state committee members advocated adoption of a program in each county which will assign a bond quota to each precinct, based on AAA production figures of such crops as corn, wheat, barley, soy beans, dry beans, sugar beets, cattle and hogs, and then within each precinct assign a definite quota to each individual farm. Farmers will then be asked to invest in war bonds a certain fixed percentage of the "war increase in value" of each of the above named crops.

Definite quotas also will be assigned in the towns of the county by the county committee, with the amount to be raised $583,616 exclusive of special drives.

C. J. Mortensen, war bond county chairman, and R. Clare Clement, AAA and USDA war board chairman, will have charge of planning the general bond selling program and town and precinct chairmen will be named later. It is planned to hold a pledge campaign in October, after the September bond drive is completed.

Red Cross Has Over $5,000 in War Fund

Mrs. George Parkins, war fund chairman for the Red Cross, reports $5,191.50 now on the books, given by Valley county residents in the past few months. This record shows 1,006 members now enrolled here.

Contributions continue to be given, and are welcomed, for the Red Cross has a big job to do in the coming months. The official closing date for the war fund drive has been listed as Nov. 1.

Niels C. Jensen, 72, Dies Sunday Morn after Long Illness

Ord Man Thought Improving Suffered Backset Which Resulted in Death.

Seriously ill for the past six weeks and in rather frail health for several years, Niels C. Jensen, 72, died Sunday morning in his home in Ord. He was thought to be improving but suffered a backset Saturday which resulted in his death the next day.

Mr. Jensen was born at Thisted, Denmark, on March 6, 1871, the son of Jens Christian Jensen and wife. In 1893 he came to Ord directly from Denmark and was a farmer in this community until seven years ago when he moved to Ord.

On Dec. 5, 1912 he was married to Miss Wilhelmina Margrette Behrend, of Ord, and to them two sons were born, and first dying in infancy. He is survived by his widow and second son, Cpl. Frederick Jensen, of Camp Monday, Ala., who arrived home Monday, to attend funeral services. A brother, Chris Jensen, lived at Sargent many years but died eight years ago. There are three sisters living in Thisted, Denmark.

Mr. Jensen was reared in the Lutheran church and since 1925 had been a member of Bethany Lutheran church of Ord, at which church the funeral rites were held at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, with Rev. Jessen officiating. Pallbearers were Hans Larsen, Jim Larsen, Chris Hansen, Jim Hansen, Elliot Clement and Pete Hollander. Interment was in Ord cemetery. The Pearson Mortuary had charge.

Sobon Promoted to Rank of Sergeant

Greenville, S. C. The promotion of Cpl. Leonard F. Sobon to the grade of sergeant was announced today by the commanding officer of the Greenville Service Group Training Center.

Sergeant Sobon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Sobon of Elyria, Nebr.

For a while, recently, the only member of the 463rd Air Force Band being activated at the training center Sergeant Sobon was famed as the "one man band" and subjected to considerable kidding from his comrades on that score. However, the new band is now rapidly reaching full strength, with several capable members reporting in to it, and should soon be giving a good account of itself.

The Greenville Service Group Training Center is a rapidly expanding unit which is instructing air service groups in unified supply and repair activities and training them in life under field conditions.

AAA Buying Corn for War Industries Thru Six Elevators

Paying Ceiling Price With a Promise to Pay More If Ceiling Price Raised.

With the air of speeding the movement of corn from farms to the nation's vital war industries, AAA has launched a purchase program in Valley county that will protect farmers in the event of corn price advances between now and October 31.

Six elevators are now making these price-protection purchases for the account of the Commodity Credit Corporation, AAA Chairman R. Clare Clement announced today. They are one at Arcadia, two at North Loup, and three at Ord.

Here's how the plan works: The farmer who delivers corn to a country elevator acting as agent for the Commodity Credit Corporation immediately receives the applicable ceiling price. Later, if corn prices are increased on or before October 31, he receives a supplementary payment equal to the difference between the price at the time he sold and the highest applicable price between the date of such sale and October 31.

This offer doesn't imply any impending change in corn price ceilings, Clement explained. The action was taken to offset the effect of widespread rumors that corn ceilings will be raised. These rumors have contributed to the current holding back of corn by farmers.

It is urged that all producers and landowners who have corn not needed to carry livestock put it on the market immediately. "Distribution of corn right now is just as important as any phase of our war food production job" he declared. "Despite the fact we have more than 800 million bushels of corn on American farms, we are faced with the prospect of decreased war production because the grain is not moving in sufficient volume through commercial channels. The country generally could sympathize with the farmer's desire to hold back surpluses in view of price uncertainties, but those uncertainties are wiped out by this new purchase offer. Farmers can't lose—and the total war job will be improved by the rapid marketing of every bushel of corn not needed now for livestock."

Products made from corn are essential in a wide variety of war industries and there are no substitutes for many of them. Among these uses are core binders for foundries; special moulds for castings of aluminum, steel, iron, magnesium, bronze and copper for plane engines, tanks and other implements of war; nitro starch for explosives; fibrous glass cloth used for bomber brake linings; adhesives for making containers for shipping ammunition and other war products; starch for the manufacture of textiles and also for all paper products used in shipping containers. About 11 million bushels of corn a month are needed for processing into these products. In addition, corn products are essential for a large number of civilian uses—including baby foods.

Eighty per cent of the corn purchased by elevators for the Commodity Credit Corporation account must be for rail shipment, with war industries getting top priority.

Lewis No Favorite of U. S. Soldiers

Writing June 28, Horace Johnson reports that he is now a technical sergeant, and that he expects to have seven days' leave in Auckland, New Zealand, before long, flying there and back. He has been stationed in the active lower Pacific theater of war for some 18 months past, and is hoping for a furlough to "the States" soon.

He also writes his aunt, Mrs. Olof Olsson, that his brother Frank was in the first outfit to enter Tunis, and "was plenty lucky, because he came through without a scratch." Frank wrote May 21 that shaving, sleeping in a bunk, wearing clean clothes, having hot meals and plenty of water was really a treat to enjoy again.

Sgt. Johnson writes there is considerable bitter feeling there: "that darn John L. Lewis and his coal strikes. I wish that he was over here. He wouldn't be calling any strikes. The boys would take care of him in a fitting and just way. It'd take about one shot. Of course it would be wasting a shell, but look at the return on the investment."

Volunteers Wanted for Red Cross Work

Volunteers are wanted to sew at the Red Cross sewing room at the Ord high school; any woman wishing to help with this work is asked to come to the home economics rooms at 1:30 p. m. on either Thursday or Friday afternoons.

If any clubs wish to spend the afternoon sewing for the Red Cross on other days than Thursday and Friday, this will be arranged to suit club members, says Mrs. Evan Hartman, production chairman. Clubs may even serve lunches if they wish, bringing their own food to the high school, says Mrs. Hartman.

Several groups have been sewing regularly. One group of Catholic women sewed together; two groups of Presbyterian women have spent the afternoon sewing at the Red Cross rooms.

Four bolts of material are cut out and now ready to be made into blouses for girls. Some of them are finished. They are in two colors, a red and blue plaid and a brown and yellow plaid. They are cut out and ready to sew, in two simple styles. A blouse can be made in an afternoon quite easily by anyone at all familiar with sewing. Machines, both electric and foot-powered and other sewing equipment is available for use at the sewing quarters.

To date 152 slips or petticoats for girls have been finished in Ord. It is expected that about 80 blouses will be made here, says Mrs. C. J. Mortensen, county chairman. Meantime, helpers are needed, so all women handy with a needle are asked to assist.

"A" Card Holders May Save Gasoline for Vacation Use

Their Gasoline to Use Any Way They Prefer, States Ord Rationing Office.

To clarify confusion existing in regard to permitted use of gasoline for vacation trips, Mrs. Grace Sprague, clerk of the Valley county rationing board, Thursday morning issued the following statement:

"With the vacation season under way there is a great temptation to use the automobile on the peacetime customary long jaunt. The use of gasoline on vacations is not of itself illegal. If a motorist saves his 'A' coupons for his vacation trip, and foregoes the use of his car in anticipation of the trip, the regulations do not preclude the use of gasoline for this purpose.

"A distinction is made between motorists who have 'A' cards and those who have been granted 'B' and 'C' cards or any supplemental rations and who accordingly are authorized to use considerably more gas than the 'A' card holders.

"In the case of an 'A' card holder it is possible for him, if he so desires, to save all of his coupons. Thus it is conceivable that he may save all of his rations to a maximum of 32 gallons. On the basis of 15 miles to a gallon he would therefore conceivably have sufficient gasoline for a round trip of 480 miles."

Mrs. Sprague also points out that a motorist with an 'A' card might save his ration coupons for one complete period, making his trip toward the end of that period and returning in the next two-month period and thus might, at 15 miles to the gallon, have sufficient gasoline for almost 1,000 round trip miles.

"In the case of 'B' and 'C' card holders," the statement continues, "in consideration for the supplemental rations given to them, regulations limit the amount of gasoline they may use for non-occupational driving to 90 miles per month. Such persons may save their ration coupons equivalent to 90 miles for two months, enabling them to make a round-trip vacation of 180 miles."

"While it may appear superficially that discrimination exists between the 'A' card holder and the 'B' and 'C' card holders in this respect, it should be remembered that such holders have been given special privileges by the allotment of a much larger quantity of gasoline and that it is in return for this special allotment that they forego greater use of the automobile for non-occupational driving."

Harvest Now On, Shockers Needed in Dozens of Fields

Barley, Wheat, Are Cut This Week, 30 Bushel Yield Seen, Farmers Must Have Help.

The small grain harvest is under way in Valley county this week with binders at work in dozens of fields and the yield of both wheat and barley apparently will be much better than was expected earlier. Men to shock the ripe grain as it is cut are needed by many farmers.

Women and children of farm families are going into the fields along with the men to take the places as best they can of boys who are in the army or working in war plants.

Two Ord organizations, the American Legion and the Knights of Columbus, sent shocking crews out for the first time Wednesday evening. The Legion crew worked at the John Nelson farm. The Nelsons have four sons in the army and navy. Other organizations are expected to send crews out to work evenings, but are slow in getting their plans made.

Any person willing to help in the harvest fields either full time or evenings is asked to notify Carl Dale, county agricultural agent, who will assign them to crews.

The ration board will provide extra gasoline to the drivers of cars or trucks hauling harvest workers, they notified Mr. Dale this week.

Although no combining has been done yet and probably will not start until next week, it is thought there will be plenty of fields that will yield 30 bushels or better of barley and one farmer, John S. Hoff, says his 49-acre field of wheat will yield 30 bushels or better. Mr. Hoff will start combining next Monday. He was the first farmer to sell new wheat in 1942 and plans to repeat again this season.

Farmers are keeping their fingers crossed as the dry weather continues and are hoping rain will hold off until the harvest season ends, thus permitting them to thresh directly from windrows as there is not sufficient help available to put all the grain in shocks. A dry harvest season requires much less labor than a wet season, for this reason. Others are hauling and stacking their grain as it is cut.

Two Divorces Were Granted Thursday

Judge W. F. Spikes held a brief term of court in Ord Thursday and after hearing evidence granted divorces to Mrs. Phyllis Meyers from her husband, Gilbert Meyers, and to Mrs. Mary Ann Janicek from Frank Janicek. In each instance custody of the children was given to the mother.

The judge paroled Eldon Smolik to Sheriff Bob Hall until such time as he is accepted or rejected by the army and Wednesday Sheriff Hall took the boy to Fort Crook for his physical examination.

The divorce case of Dr. F. L. Blessing vs. Margaret Blessing came up for hearing but upon motion was continued to a later date. Judge Spikes will hold another term of court here July 13.

Baking will be resumed as soon as Mr. Andreasen recovers or a substitute can be found.

In writing to renew their Quiz for a couple of years, Mrs. Walter Gizinski of Holyoke, Colo., says they have splendid crops and crop prospects. They have two sons in the army and like everyone else, they are long on work and short on help. Reorganization Plan for Farm Loan Group

A program of great interest to about 450 farmers and ranchers in Loup, Garfield, Valley and Greeley counties who carry their land loans with the National Farm Loan associations and the Federal Land Bank of Omaha has been brought to our attention by James B. Ollis, secretary-treasurer of the five associations headquartered at Ord, Nebr.

Ollis just recently returned from a two-day reorganization conference in Omaha, where the proposed plan was presented to secretary-treasurers from South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska and Wyoming, the four-state area which the Omaha land bank serves.

The reorganization plan, soon to be presented to directors of the local cooperative credit organization, involves restoring to par the value of capital stock of impaired National Farm Loan associations in the eighth Farm Credit district. The plan directly affects some 40,000 farmers and ranchers who are stockholders of these local cooperatives in the four-state district.

Approval of the program, Ollis stated, would result in 3,925 Nebraska stockmen and farmers who have paid off their land bank loans receiving full payment for their association stock. In the four-state area, 8,400 former association members would receive payment for their stock, representing a total cash outlay by the Omaha land bank of $1,500,000.

In addition to those receiving full payment for association stock on paid-off loans, Ollis said some 32,000 farmer-members of presently impaired associations—14,705 of them in Nebraska—will be directly benefited by the land bank's offer to restore their stock to par value. Estimated cost of this proposal would be $4,500,000.

Because it is in the strongest financial position in ten years," Ollis stated, "the Omaha land bank is able to make this proposal to the local associations. The land bank has built up enough reserve and earnings on its own to put all the associations in sound financial condition. That is the bank's purpose in making this proposal.

The land bank system, organized in 1917, pioneered in bringing long-term low-interest rate loans to farmers and stockmen through the National Farm Loan associations and establishing credit terms favorable to farmers. At the Omaha meeting it was made clear that it would continue to do so.

Until July 1, 1944, a 3 1/2 per cent interest rate is in effect on both Federal Land Bank and Commissioner loans.

Big Ohio Concern Considers Ord as Alfalfa Mill Site

May Buy or Build, Install All Equipment and Operate by End of This Summer.

Prospects appear bright for the location of an alfalfa mill in Ord as result of the visit here Tuesday and Wednesday of a Mr. Walker, representative of Saunders Mills, Inc., of Toledo, O., one of the largest feed mill operators in the country.

His company will establish one or two new alfalfa mills in Nebraska this summer, Mr. Walker told C. J. Mortensen, president of the Ord Chamber of Commerce, and Ord is being considered as a location.

He came to Ord with Mr. Turrentine, of the Union Pacific railroad, and indicated this city is being considered for two reasons, because it is the center of an irrigated district and because it has two railroads.

Three to four thousand acres of alfalfa are required to keep a mill busy, Walker told C. C. Dale, county agricultural agent, and Robert Noll, of the Noll Seed company, with whom he conferred while here. Ordinarily 6 or 8 miles is considered the greatest distance alfalfa should be hauled but present demands for feed are so great that hauling from the Middle Loup valley might be considered, at least until more alfalfa acreage can be brought into production close to Ord.

At present Valley county has 10,500 acres of alfalfa, much of which is on dry land. Both irrigated and dry land alfalfa would be used by the mill, said Mr. Walker.

He indicated that his company has the equipment or priorities to get the equipment necessary to start the alfalfa mill immediately. Whether his company would prefer to buy a building like the Dickinson elevator, or build a new one between the Burlington and Union Pacific tracks would be decided later, he said.

Both dehydrating and sun-cure equipment would be installed in the mill would thus operate on a year around basis, buying both green alfalfa and stack alfalfa, he said.

The Valley county farm bureau this week is sending letters to all North Loup valley alfalfa growers located in Valley county to determine the extent of interest in having an alfalfa mill in Ord. Much additional acreage would have to be brought into production by next year, close to the mill, to keep it busy, Mr. Walker said. The leafy type now being grown here is preferred by his company.

The mill would keep 20 to 25 men busy throughout the year. The dehydrating equipment would use petroleum as fuel and the company would prefer to buy electricity locally instead of installing its own plant. About 500 horsepower would be used by the various motors required.

Mr. Walker left Wednesday noon for Kearney but will return next Sunday or Monday to learn the result of the survey being conducted by the farm bureau, and if farmers appear interested in developing additional alfalfa acreage it is likely the mill will be installed here and get into production this fall.

BACK FORTY
By J. A. Kovanda

Nearly every farmyard has at least one dog. In this vicinity the shaggy Shepherd types predominate, although they are largely of unknown pedigree. Some of these dogs go by fancy names, while others get no name at all.

Farmers keep dogs mainly for chasing livestock. Harry Bresley has one of the smartest cattle dogs around here. It nips their heels, knows when to stop, and usually understands just what its master wants a herd of animals to do. This dog is a brown Shepherd with white ring and face.

Some farm dogs can also perform stunts. Greenwalt boys own one that enjoys bicycle riding with them. He scrambles on to their backs, puts his front legs over their shoulders, and away they go! Their dog is a black and white, resembling the English Shepherd.

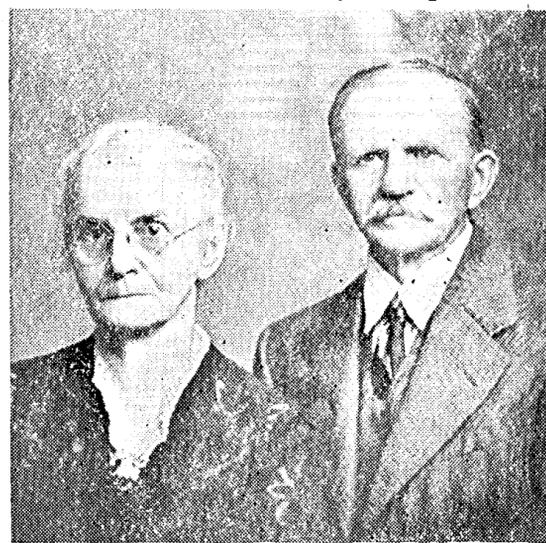

The Beran boys have taught their big German Shepherd to pull heavy stakes out of the ground. He will later retrieve these stakes, even when they are thrown into trees, or on top of buildings.

Feeding dogs is a problem, but Mrs. Van Daele solves it by baking a mixture of shorts, skim-milk and other ingredients.

The Kriewald youngsters of Sumner have a couple of pet pups that can live by eating grass. They are young prairie dogs, caught with snares tied to long poles. Fishing for prairie dogs is an old Indian sport requiring great patience and skill, as these creatures are most difficult to capture alive.

—Mr. and Mrs. James Petska, Jr., drove to Ashton Monday and visited in the Joe Beran home.

D. H. Bredthauers Observe Their 50th Anniversary with July 4th Open House

Bredthauer went many Valley county relatives including two daughters of the Bredthauers, Mrs. Rose Fuss, of North Loup, and Mrs. Esther Lange, Ord, and two of their sons, Arnold, of Ord, and Herbert, of North Loup. Their other son, Oscar, lives in Grand Island.

"Dave" Bredthauer and his wife, the former Mary Anne Hackel, were married here July 4, 1893 and lived on various farms in this county until 1930 when they retired from active farming. Two years later they moved to Grand Island which has since been their home.

Mr. Bredthauer has always been an extensive cattle feeder and even now, at the age of 73, maintains large feed yards 1 1/2 miles north of Grand Island where he has a herd of 500 cattle at the present time. During his years in Valley county he was highly respected as a successful farmer and feeder.

The couple observed their anniversary Sunday with an open house at their home, 710 West Second street, in Grand Island, which was attended by all their children, many of their grandchildren, brothers and sisters and a few close friends. Dinner was served at 1:00 p. m. and during the afternoon and evening many friends dropped in to extend congratulations and best wishes. Several bouquets and many gifts were sent by relatives and friends.

Sale of Wooden Bins.
The small grain harvest now under way in Valley county may greatly tax farm storage space, since lumber for building and repairing bins is not now readily available. To avoid any storage difficulties empty Commodify Credit wooden bins on hand in Valley county and other counties of the state have been placed on sale. Persons interested and needing extra bin room may inquire at the AAA office concerning the cost of bins.
If he so wishes a producer purchasing a bin already erected may leave it on the bin site and fill it with his grain for loan purposes. The loan will be made on the basis of farm stored grain. In such a case the producer must definitely understand that liability for the grain both as to quantity and quality rests entirely with him. The purchaser will also be governed by the terms and condition of the leasing agreement between the county AAA committee and the lessor of the bin site.

NOTICE

All Chamber of Commerce members and others who are willing to go out evenings and shock grain, or spend Sundays or other leisure days in this manner, and who do not have a place to go, are urged to get in touch with the Secretary or with C. C. Dale.

his wife has canned some 60 pints of green peas this year, year, and he has sold bushels, in addition.

Judge John Andersen raised celery for a money crop one year recently. His garden is always handsome.

Guy LeMaster has been renowned for his fine gardens, and is practically a professional, so expert is he.

Strawberries have put extra pennies in the pockets of several Ord citizens. Inez Eberhart, the young teacher, and her parents, have a good sized bed from which they sell berries each year. Rev. P. W. Rupp sometimes has spare strawberries to sell. Mrs. Anna Nelson has been known to grow fine berries, and sell them. Mrs. Jean Whiting is proud of her strawberry patch.

Rhubarb was in demand earlier. For years Will Moon has had a fine supply, but this year he directed callers to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Herman Worm, who lives just half a block away and has a nice long row of husky plants.

But one thing I doubt if anyone in Valley county will have to sell this year, and that's red cherries. For Jack Frost bought them all.

NOW Is a Most Excellent Time to STOCK UP on PRINTING

We do not want to intimate that it will be impossible to secure the printing you need later, for we do not believe that this will be the case.

It is a fact, though, that it is becoming extremely difficult to get delivery on many types of paper, and this condition is certain to grow worse.

An additional 5 per cent cut in use of news print has been ordered, supplementing previous cuts, and in the order in which this cut appeared there is a rather ominous sentence to the effect that future cuts "will be by no means limited to news print but will be extended to other types of paper as well."

At the present time it is especially hard to get all commercial sizes of envelopes in any quantity. We are fortunate, however, in having anticipated this condition and in having an exceptionally complete stock of most sizes of business envelopes. We also anticipated the current shortage of No. 1 sulphite bond papers on which most business letterheads are printed and have a large stock of this kind of paper in storage.

Help shortages are adding to the confusion prevalent in the paper and printing industries, both at the source, at wholesale houses, in transportation and in local plants where the printing is done.

We believe we are doing our duty in warning users of printed matter of all kinds that NOW is a most excellent time to stock up. Prices are bound to be higher later even if paper to print on and men to do the printing are available.

We'll be glad to figure with you on your printing requirements.

No Increase in Point Values of PORK

The point cost of nearly all beef cuts is increased in the new charts for July because of the shortage of beef for army use but there is plenty of pork and no increase in point cost has been made.

Our market is currently featuring all cuts of fresh, lean, home-butchered young pig pork. You'll find pork an economical meat, both in monetary and coupon cost, and you'll be helping your country when you serve it in preference to beef.

Put Your Payroll Savings on a Family Basis Make 10 per cent Just a Starting Point

Ev'rybody Ev'ry Pay Day

6,000,000 Women Enrolled in War Savings Payroll Plan.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Women At War Week, opening Nov. 22, during which women will seek to sell the greatest single week's volume of War Bonds and Stamps will serve to put the spotlight on the mighty contribution women generally are making toward financing the war.

Six million women are on War Savings payroll plans. Their monthly deductions total $70,000,000.

The customers of 300,000 newspaper boys who have sold more than $50,000,000 in War Bonds and Stamps are mostly women.

Volunteer saleswomen run nearly all the Bond booths in theatres from Maine to California. They also are sparking the War Bond sales in retail stores.

Ralph G. Engelsman, Associate Field Director of the payroll savings section of the War Savings Staff, readily admits that without the support of women the phenomenal record of payroll savings enrollments would not have been achieved.

Payroll savings plans are now in operation in 148,000 businesses and factories. Employees of twenty-five thousand of these firms are converting at least 10 percent of gross payrolls into War Bonds every payday.

Associate Field Director Engelsman says that women have contributed directly and indirectly toward this record. When a man devoted 10 or more percent of his pay envelope to War bonds, the woman at home has had a powerful voice in the decision. Her planning, her economies and her cheerfulness play their part in the success of payroll savings.

The Treasury Department is counting upon this woman influence in its current campaign to "top that 10 percent by New Year's." By the first of the year the Treasury hopes to enroll at least 3,000,000 women workers in a payroll savings plan and 5,000,000 more men with total deductions for War Bonds over the 10 percent mark.

'This Is My Fight Too'

Proud of her investment in the American way of life and equally proud of the grime of war production on her face and arms, the young lady in this "Women At War Week" poster symbolizes two of the chief activities of women at war.

Some of the Valley county ladies have been very good to donate their time and work helping at the office but there is lots of work that can't be done, only by the clerks so they are very busy at all times. Soil District News.

Now is the time to start thinking about seeding down some of those areas that you wish to seed back into pasture or hay.

Crested wheat and brome grass seem to do better seeded in the fall on land that has had oats or barley grown on the field the season before. Depending on the season, these grasses may be sowed late in August, however they may be seeded as late as November. If the ground isn't too weedy all the preparation necessary to seed the cool season grasses, crested wheat and brome, is to drill the seed into the oats or barley stubble. Some very good results have been obtained this way. Keep in mind to drill the seed as shallow as possible.

George Clement drilled brome grass last fall in some badly haled barley stubble along Mira creek. At the present time the brome grass is nearly as high as George's shoulders and is ready to cut for seed. A few pounds of alfalfa was sowed with the brome and is doing nicely. George seeded crested wheat on the steeper areas of the haled barley field and had very good results in obtaining a stand.

The crested wheat seed is ready to cut now. This seed will be used to thicken up the stand on other parts of the field. Crested wheat and brome grass may be used for pasture, seed or hay. These grasses are especially good to sow in waterways to cut down the washing in fields. Many badly eroded areas should be seeded rather than cultivated. Growing more livestock on the farm makes for more grasses. Grass fits well into a well balanced farm program. A very good example of what these grasses will do may be seen on the Bill Sack farm east of Ord. Bill also has a mixture of crested, brome and other grasses that he irrigates and uses for temporary pasture. Every irrigated farm should have a few acres of irrigated brome and alfalfa pasture mix for temporary pasture to balance up the livestock feeding program.

Winter Fuel Bill Tightly fitting storm windows may cut 6 per cent off the winter fuel bill.

The boy, Logan Emery, who weighed eight pounds, chose Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Maring for his parents.

Mrs. Genevieve Wenzel spent the Fourth of July with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Johnson, and her son, who has been here for some time. Mrs. Wenzel, a defense worker at Fremont for many months, later transferred to Lincoln and has recently been sent to Grand Island.

A Newspaper Story from World War I

This week Mrs. E. L. Hower brought to the Quiz office a newspaper clipping which she cut out of a weekly paper 25 years ago, during World War I, and has saved ever since. It contains a letter purportedly written by Crown Prince William, of Germany, to his father Kaiser Wilhelm, after the first big defeat the German army suffered from the Americans.

Since American ground forces may soon come to grip with the Germans again the letter is of interest today and appears below:

CROWN PRINCE WRITES LETTER TO PAPA ON RUN

Letter Published in French Newspaper Sent Home by American Doughboy.

On the run somewhere in France "Everywhere in France." "All the Time."

Dear Papa:—I am writing on der run as der brave and glorious soldiers under my command have not seen der Rhine for so long dat they have started back dat way, and of course I am going mit dem. Oh, papa, there has been some offel dings happened here in France. First, I started in my big offensive which was to crush der fool Americans, but they know so little about military tactics dat dey will not be crushed just like I vant 'em. I sent my men in der fight in big waves, and ven dey got to de Americans dey al said "Boo" as loud as they could holler. Vell according to vat you have always told me, de Americans should have turned and run like blazes. But vat you think? Dem fool Americans don't know anything about war, and instead of running de odder vay, dey came right toward us. Some of dem was singing about "Ve won't come back till it's over, over dere," or some odder foolish song, and some of dem were laughing like fools. Dey are so ignorant. But dey are offel reckless mit der guns, and ven dey come toward us it vat dat my men took a notion dey wanted to go back to de dear old Rhine. Ve don't like de dirty little Mame river, anyhow. And, oh, papa, der Americans use such offel language. Dey know nothing of culture and say such offel dings right before us. And dey talk blasphemy too. Vat you think dey said right in front of my face? One big husky from a place dey call Missouri, he said —oh, papa, I hate to tell you vat an offel ting he said—but I can't help it; he said, "To hell mit der Kaiser!" Did you ever hear anything so offel? I didn't tink anybody would say such an offel thing. It made me so mad. I wouldn't hear such an offel ting so I turned around and run mit de odder boys. Vas I right? Vat? And oh, papa, you know dem breast plates vot you sent us—can you send us some to put on our backs? You know ve are going de odder vay, and breast-plates are no good, for de cowardly Americans are shooting us right in der back. Some of our boys took off der breastplates and put 'em behind, but de fool Americans are playing "Der Star Spangled Banner" mit machine guns on dem plates. Can't you help us? You remember in your speech you said nothing could stand before the brave German soldiers? Oh, papa, I don't believe dese ignorant Americans ever read your speech, for dey run after us just like ve vas a lot of rabbits. Vot you tink of dot? Can't you send dem some of your speeches right away? Dey don't know how terrible ve are. Can't you move my army back to Belgium vere ve van all der glory? My men can vip all the vinmen and children vot dem Belgians can bring us. But dese Americans are so rough and ignorant. We can't make dem understand dat ve are the greatest soldiers on earth, and ven ve try to sing "Deutschland Ueber Alles" dey laugh like a lot of monkeys. But ve are getting de best of de Americans. Ve can out run dem. Papa, if ve are not de best fighters on earth, ve are sure the best runners. Nobody can keep up mit us when ve tink of dear old Rhine, and my army never did tink so much of dot old river. Let me know right away vot to do by return post-office. July 20 times.

Crown Prince Willie.

Modeled From British

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. — Fifty thousand pounds of factory dust has helped solve a serious shortage in nickel, which is essential to the defense program.

Enough nickel has been recovered from the dust to supply a fifth of the needs at the General Electric plant in West Lynn for the manufacture of tiny magnets in electrical meters in airplanes and other instruments.

These magnets are the smallest and most powerful in the world. When they are ground the grindings form a black, sooty dust, partly grinding material, partly nickel and other metals. It is swept out and poured into barrels.

It has been going to the scrap pile, in charge of Charles Stevens, a Scotchman. Believing the metal in this dust ought to bring a price from some scrap dealer, Mr. Stevens hoarded the soot until he had 50,000 pounds piled up, but no customers.

A few months ago Jack Stever, a General Electric metallurgist, six years out of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, did some investigating in the West Lynn foundry and decided he could recover the nickel in the dust.

His chief, James Goss, obtained an appropriation of $1,000 to complete the experiments. The tests were successful for an important part of the needed nickel.

First Wheat Yields Vary from 15 to 35 Bushels Per Acre

Lyle Hansen Sells 1st Wheat in Ord Monday, John Hoff Brings Second Load.

Variation from 15 to 35 bushels per acre in yield is indicated by first sales of wheat at the Farmers elevator in Ord, said Fred Clark Tuesday. That evening the elevator had purchased a full carload of wheat, which was shipped to Omaha the next day.

First to sell new wheat this year was Lyle Hansen, said Mr. Clark. He had an 11 acre field which yielded 273 bushels or slightly over 25 bushels to the acre.

Second wheat brought in came from the farm of John S. Hoff and it was of extra good quality, testing 62. The Hansen wheat tested 58. Mr. Hoff has a larger field and on the basis of his first day's combining he believes the yield will be 30 to 35 bushels per acre.

Wheat which went into the first carload also came from the Dick Thompson farm and the Merrill Flynn-Knudsen farm. The Thompson yield was running about 18 bushels to the acre and the Flynn yield 15 to 20 bushels. Ed Hackel brought some wheat in also, for the first car.

First new grain bought by the elevator was barley which came from the Alfred Burson-John Hoff farm last Wednesday. Some barley was combined by Mr. Burson early because he needed hog feed and Mr. Hoff had his share trucked in at once.

Some barley was coming in Tuesday from the H. Anderson-E. C. Weller operations on the old Hager ranch. Mr. Weller was having his share brought to town and sold as rapidly as it was combined. The barley field in which he started work was yielding 40 bushels, Anderson said.

Valley county's small grain harvest apparently will be up to standard, on the basis of these early sales.

Groups at Ord and Arcadia and individuals in these towns and in North Loup have been going out evenings to help with the small grain harvest.

The American Legion group, which has worked this week at John Nelson's and Henry Enger's included F. J. L. Benda, Glen Johnson, R. L. Lincoln, Frank Kasal, Jim Gilbert, F. L. Stoddard, C. C. Dale, Ign. Klimka, Cecil Clark, James Ollis, C. J. Mortensen, Bob Hall. A group working at John Nevrika's on Thursday and Friday was composed of Evan Hartman, L. E. Walford, John Van Berg, Geo. Satterfield, Dick Satterfield, Leslie Nash, C. C. Dale, Doug Dale. A group sponsored by the Knights of Columbus has worked at Carl Oliver's and other farms, and includes Albert Parkos, Mark Tolen, Joe Ramaekers, Stanley Absolon, Emanuel Petka, Joe Kominek, Richard Rich, Roscoe Tolly, Edward Finley, Ed Iwanski, Emil Sedlacek, Albert Parkos, sr.

Detasseling Work Starts Near Arcadia

Arcadia—(Special)—Burt Sell, local supervisor for the Rob-See-Go Company of Waterloo says that preliminary work of detasseling seed corn started Wednesday of this week. There will be two to three weeks work with a peak payroll of about 60 people and the average daily pay will be about $4.00. The company will make their headquarters in the U. S. employment office in Arcadia. This is a new industry in this part of the state and if it proves successful there will probably be many more acres devoted to the raising of hybrid seed corn for seed next year.

Pets Refuse to Leave Place Where Boy Hurt

Burwell—(Special)—A faithful little pony and a dog remained out in the pasture for three days until their small master, ten year old Kenneth Peyton was able to come after them. Other members of the family carried them food and water but they refused to budge. Kenneth, the son of Mrs. Neola Peyton, who lives 7 1/2 miles southeast of town was thrown from his pony Friday afternoon and was unconscious when his older brother found him a short time later. He was taken at once to the Coleman nursing home but did not regain consciousness until nine o'clock that evening. The boy does not know how the accident occurred but the pony must have stumbled and thrown the boy. The dog was chasing rabbits and the pony and boy were following at a rapid pace.

A Drivers Warned to Endorse All Coupons

A new ruling issued Saturday by the Office of Price Administration in regard to gasoline rationing is of special interest to all holders of A books. Immediately upon receipt of his new A book, each holder must endorse on each coupon immediately the license number of his car and the state of registration. In the past drivers were expected to endorse the coupons upon presentation to the service station, a ruling which was not generally observed. Now they are expected to endorse all coupons as soon as they get the A card in the mail.

Many Calls for Hopper Poison

Because of the many calls for grasshopper poison from farmers and town gardeners the bait mixing plant at the county fairgrounds will be open daily until further notice, says C. C. Dale, county agent. Within the past week a large number of people have reported that grasshoppers are appearing in large numbers and doing considerable damage.

Last Saturday, Charles Dworak, a rancher of the Atkinson vicinity, came to Ord and took home a truckload, almost 2 tons, of poison bait. Mr. Dworak has 500 acres of alfalfa which he is leaving for a seed crop, and will spread the poison over all his alfalfa fields. He stated that he has used one or two truckloads of bait per year for the past several years, and has been marking an average of $7,000 to $8,000 worth of seed per year, while neighbors who tried to raise alfalfa seed without poisoning the hoppers have had complete failures of their seed crops.

Fear Prospects for Alfalfa Mill Are Growing Dim

Alfalfa Raisers Saving Crop for Seed, Not Enough Hay in Sight for Mill.

The prospect that an alfalfa mill might be established in Ord this season by Saunders Mills, Inc., of Toledo, O., looked poor Tuesday, on the basis of a questionnaire mailed out to Loup Valley alfalfa raisers by C. C. Dale, county agricultural agent. Few farmers took time to fill out the questionnaire and return it, Dale said, and most alfalfa growers he has contacted are saving their crop for seed and at this time are not interested in selling their first cutting alfalfa for milling purposes.

Seed prices are exceptionally high right now and alfalfa men are hoping to cash in, they tell Dale. But unless adequate acreage can be secured immediately the Saunders concern is not interested in opening a mill here, their representative told Mr. Dale by telephone Tuesday.

Year in and year out, alfalfa raisers will make more money selling their alfalfa to the established market a locally-operated alfalfa mill would provide, Dale believes, and he expresses surprise at the rather short-sighted attitude many big alfalfa growers are taking. It is true that prospects for a seed crop are good and that the price is high, he says, but the same things were true at this time last year and few good seed crops were harvested.

Mr. Walker, the milling company's representative, has not definitely abandoned his earlier proposal to build a mill here, Dale said. There is a possibility that the company might wait until next spring and then build in Ord and Dale believes the necessary acreage can then be secured without difficulty.

In the meantime farmers who are interested in seeing an alfalfa mill established are asked to discuss the matter with Mr. Dale.

Specific aim of the bond campaign held in July by the Penney store is to raise sufficient money to buy an aircraft carrier, which is called "Shangri-La". The Ord store is well ahead of its quota, says Lewis.

Jack Messenger Cited for Bravery in Big Guadalcanal Campaign, Back in Burwell

BY FRANCES ZALUD.

Burwell—(Special)—Folks are rejoicing today over the safe return of John R. Messenger, who spent four months in the fighting lines in Guadalcanal. Everywhere you hear the queries, "Did you know that Jack Messenger is home?" "Have you seen Jack?" For Jack, who was born and raised in this community, is very well known and counts his friends by his acquaintances.

Jack is most reticent about the part he played in the great victory at Guadalcanal and disclaims any credit. But you may be sure from the steely look in his eyes when the Japs are mentioned that as a hard fighting, sharp shooting marine, he got his share of the treacherous little devils. The emblem on his sleeve tells that he fought at Guadalcanal and has a bright, blue background dotted with stars denoting service south of the equator.

John R. Messenger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Messenger, enlisted in the Marine corps Sept. 23, 1941 and after only 3 1/2 months of basic training at Camp Elliot, near San Diego, he was sent to the island of Samoa. Here the marines received intensive training which was to fit them for the difficult job ahead. The natives were friendly and glad for American protection. They were very religious and bitter against the Japs who had killed and tortured their priests and missionaries. Later Jack fought at Guadalcanal where the marines had a tough job. Here he spent four months in the front lines and lived for days in a fox hole. In actual fighting the marines lived for days on the rations, which they carried with them. These rations were the old type and did not contain the variety that the new condensed foods have, which are now carried by our fighting men. They could not even supplement bananas to their diet for the natives and the Japs cooked and ate them while they were very green.

At first the Japs held all the coconut groves, which made excellent hiding places, but they were gradually forced to retreat and at a great price.

In the great Coral sea naval battle Nov. 12, 13, 14, Jack and his comrades had a ring side seat. From a high hill not too far distant and snug in their fox holes they watched the Americans utterly rout the Japs in the harbor between Guadalcanal and Tulagi. The reporter who wrote the vivid account of the battle for the February issue of the Reader's Digest was attached to Jack's outfit.

80% Corn Shipment Rule Is Rescinded

The rule that country buyers must move by rail 80 per cent of all corn purchased under the Commodity Credit corporation ceiling price guarantee was rescinded Monday, R. Clare Clement, Valley county AAA Chairman, announced this morning.

Intended to assure that sufficient corn would reach industrial processors making war vital products, the 80 per cent rule was dropped by Washington apparently because of urgent demands for more corn from cattle feeders in surplus corn areas.

While these local needs must be met, AAA officials hope grain dealers insofar as possible still will give buyers preference in the original order. Industrial uses necessary for the war, deficit livestock feed areas, local livestock feed demands.

On all corn they sell before August 10, farmers are guaranteed any increases in the ceiling price of corn up to October 31. Local elevators are authorized to buy equal corn at the present ceiling price in the name of the CCC and sell it in usual trade channels.

The elevator buyer gives the farmer a "purchase statement" which, if the corn ceiling is increased, he can present to the AAA committee as a claim for the difference between the new price and the price he was paid.

Elevators are allowed to sell farmers and feeders only a 20-day supply of corn, the local AAA office says.

Burlington Crew Quits Track Work for Harvest Fields

57 Boys Released to Assist with Harvest; Publicity Given Crew Operations.

The C. B. & Q. railroad's special track-laying gang of 57 high school boys has been disbanded temporarily so the boys may help in harvest fields, said Agent J. C. Van House Tuesday. Many of the boys found work immediately with farmers near Ord while others went to their homes in Burwell, Ashton, Loup City, Ericson, Elba and other communities and expected to do harvest work there.

While this crew has been disbanded, work on the new track is progressing anyway, said Van House. Section gangs from Burwell, Greeley and Ord are carrying on the work, he said. They were working near the Ord railway bridge Tuesday.

The Burlington line's experiment in using high school boys as track-layers received a full page of publicity in the Omaha World-Herald's magazine section Sunday, with pictures taken by Donald Ashton, the railroad's publicity director. His article follows:

"Typifying dauntless Young America, half a hundred Nebraska high school boys, aged 16 and 17, are helping wage this summer's battle on the transportation front and at the same time are toughening themselves for gridiron battles and perhaps later the fighting fronts.

"Faced with a serious manpower shortage, the Burlington railroad determined to experiment with high school boys on its branch line from Palmer to Burwell. The youths were recruited through school superintendents, luncheon clubs and civic organizations, and were set up as a special high school unit.

"They are from Burwell, Ord, Ericson, Greeley, Sargent, Comstock, Loup City, Farwell and Elba. Most joined the gang with the double objective of earning money and conditioning themselves for athletics this fall. Nearly all expect to join the armed forces within the next year or two.

"P. J. Lombard of Ord, a section foreman of 36 years' experience and a splendid safety record, was selected to head the gang. F. L. Stoddard, principal of Ord high school, was employed as time-keeper, and as counsellor. Supervisory officer I Roadmaster A. W. Schroeder of Central City.

"The boys reported for work in May, and were assigned quarters in railroad bunk cars. Their meals are prepared by cooks in kitchen cars and served in 'dining cars.' There is also a shower car, providing hot water for bathing and washing clothing after a hot day's work.

"Schroeder and Lombard wisely started the boys off slowly, let their muscles harden and teach them the 'tricks of the trade.' The first few days the laid down less than half as much as a regular gang. Each day result was better than the preceding day's. Within a week the boys were equaling the performance of experienced steel gang and they continued to match it better this record until the supply of rail was exhausted.

"The gang then was changed to track raising operations, working cinder ballast and ties. Again they started slowly, but within a few days were matching the pace of regular extra gangs.

"Burlington officials are well pleased with the results of the first month's work and other high school groups are being employed elsewhere on the system. The boys work best, they find, when organized in separate gangs so 'team spirit' can be developed."

13th Fateful Date for Mrs. Ludington

Whether the 13th is a lucky or unlucky date for Mrs. Valeria Ludington court attaches can't decide but they agree that it is at least a fateful date in her life. On Tuesday, July 13, Judge Wm. F. Spikes granted a divorce to Mrs. Ludington, giving her custody of the children, and in filling out the divorce decree it was noticed that her marriage to Daryl K. Ludington occurred on the 13th of the month also and that her marriage lasted exactly thirteen years.

Clyde Baker, clerk of the district court, is considering calling the matter to the attention of Robert L. Ripley for his "Believe It or Not" column.

Tractor Will Work Best With Good Fuel Situation

Only the fuel for which the tractor was designed should be used in it. Burning gasoline in a machine built to use a heavier fuel is wasteful. The tractor tank should be filled after the day's work when possible because this reduces condensation of water in the tank. The sediment bowl should be cleaned frequently, and new gaskets should be kept to replace ones which become worn.

Air cleaners should be serviced every day under average conditions and every half day when dust is bad. The filter element needs a kerosene bath once a week. A tractor pulls about 180,000 gallons of air through the filter while burning 20 gallons of fuel. If the filter does not remove the dust from the air, it becomes an abrasive which grinds down metal.

When carburetor adjustments are made, the needle valve never should be turned down hard or the valve seat may be damaged so accurate adjustment is impossible. Lean fuel mixtures cause hot motors. When tractors are to stand idle for long periods, the fuel should be shut off at the tank and the carburetor drained to avoid formation of gum which is difficult to remove.

Properly adjusted valves will give almost unlimited service but those with too little clearance will burn. Valves should be ground where proper tools are available to get a better job than can be done by hand. Valves are cooled only through contact with the valve seats.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

July 11, 1943
Crete, Nebr.

To the Editor of the Quiz:

I thought I'd try to get you to give the navy a little publicity, because after two weeks I've found that it's swell. We really have a great setup, two years at college free and uniforms, clothing, food and room all provided. The training we receive here is swell too—19 hours of college work a week, which is plenty tough, consisting of math, physics, history and English. The food is super, all home cooked by ladies from Crete, and mainly the best meat, vegetables, milk and pies that the U. S. can produce.

There are 325 boys here, all high school grads and college boys in the high school and college training programs, V-1, V-7, V-5 and V-12. They're from all over the country. We have a boy from New York and one from California in our room.

We get about an hour's drill every day, plus marching to show an aphysical education.

Our days are all pretty well filled up—we get up at 5:45, have calisthenics, make our beds and police rooms until 12. Then we eat, go to class at 1300 till 1700, then study till 1800 and eat. We are required to go to bed at 2200 (10 p. m.) so we get 8 hours sleep. As you can see we have to use the navy 24-hour clock.

We have an entirely different language here. We live on a "ship" on the third "deck" in a "cabin" or "billet" 301. The bathroom and shower is the "head," we hang pictures on the "bulk heads" and go "a shore" to town.

Well that sums up the land navy!

Farming Chief Occupation Of Finland's Population

More of Finland's 3,860,000 people take to farming than to any other livelihood. With water and woods their birthright, Finnish farmers turn naturally to fishing and forestry. Good boatmen abound far inland. Canoes, a yard wide and 40 to 45 feet long, are favorite craft.

Stands of pine, spruce and birch are abundant. The forests supply about four-fifths of the value of Finland's exports. Chief wood products are wood pulp, cellulose, paper, plywood, matches, spools, skis, plane propellers. Finns know the value of their timber, have assured conservation by limiting cutting to the quantity that can be replaced by one year's growth.

Cultivated land totals less than a tenth of the national domain. Rye, barley, oats, hay and potatoes are the main field crops. Cattle raising is a major industry. Distribution of dairy products for export was "big business." Much of the butter on Britain's bread originated in Finland's meadows.

Factory payrolls, before the war, carried 207,500 workers employed in more than 4,000 plants. Notable in the nation's economic growth is the rise of the co-operative system. In 1939 more than 7,000 co-operatives were active. Membership topped 900,000. Co-operatives did about 25 per cent of the retail trade, about 40 per cent of the wholesale business.

Rationing Spares Textiles

Shortages of food are relieving shortages of textiles. This unexpected benefit from food rationing was revealed after a study of fabric-damaging stains on restaurant tablecloths and napkins since food rationing began. Some of the rationed foods cause high percentages of weakening to fabric, such as tomato juice, 24.1 per cent; pineapple juice, 21.6; orange juice, 27.2; cranberry sauce, 22.4; and chili sauce, 16.6.

Rationing has caused a decrease of "from 20 to 30 per cent" in the frequency of stains from fruits and juices, according to the report. Less frequent serving of these foods is given as the reason.

"This is a fortunate effect on food rationing," it continues, "since it helps preserve a seriously dwindling supply of textiles."

Mechanical Planetarium

Sometime around 1680, Olaus Roemer, a Dane, created a mechanical planetarium which served as a challenge to the great Dutch astronomer, Christian Huygens. Huygens constructed a like device in an effort to outdo Roemer, and when it was completed, took delight in pointing out the superiority of his masterpiece. It included all those planets known in his day, and displayed them revolving about the sun. The machine is preserved at the observatory of Leyden, Holland, and it is interesting to note that in order to determine the proper number of teeth for the gears of his planetarium, Huygens invented the mathematical method known as "continued fractions."

Best Sellers

The over-a-million best-sellers in the 20th century have been almost all fiction and it has usually taken several years and a low-priced reprint edition to equal that figure. Books published since 1900 which reached the million mark, include "Gone With the Wind" by Margaret Mitchell (whose three million sale broke "Ben Hur's" previous record), "The Call of the Wild," by Jack London, several books by Gene Stratton Porter, H. G. Wells' "Outline of History," and "The Winning of Barbara Worth" by Harold Bell Wright.

Reds Close One Industrial Center, but Build Another

Far from the fighting front in western Russia, the Soviet's Siberian symphony of armaments production mounts to a mighty roar. While see-saw fighting enters its third year in the once great industrial Donbas south of Kharkov, new foundries and factories centered in the Kuzbas supply tanks and munitions for Stalin's Red armies. The Kuzbas (accepted abbreviation for Kuznetsk Coal Basin) is 2,300 miles east of the embattled Donbas (Don Basin) and 1,200 miles east of the Soviet's well-protected arsenal at Magnitogorsk in the Urals, says the National Geographic Society. The mineral stores of the Kuzbas are reported so abundant that its industries could keep on producing for the Soviet war machine even if European Russia to the Urals were in Nazi hands and eastern Siberia were invaded by Japan. Some Kuzbas war plants of today were Donbas mills two years ago. Nazi invasion had barely begun when industries of the eastern Ukraine were dismantled and shipped east of the Urals. Because of mills and mines of the Kuzbas and the Urals, Soviet production now is greater than the pre-invasion level. Surrounded by vast grain farms, Kuzbas industries grow on a firm foundation of coal and iron. Broad seams of coal at the surface in the north Altai mountains are part of reserves estimated at 400 billion tons and over—enough to supply the whole world for 300 years. A hundred miles south at Temir Tau iron deposits are estimated at 500 million tons.

Blackleg in Cattle Caused By Bacteria in Ground

The blackleg disease, which affects cattle, sheep and goats, is becoming more prevalent. The trouble is widespread in livestock areas, especially in the "range country" and in the Mississippi valley. The disease is caused by a spore-forming germ or bacteria, experts say. The spore lives in the soil and, once a pasture area is infected, the disease is liable to reappear yearly in susceptible animals, unless they are vaccinated. The losses are largely in cattle. The disease attacks cattle from four months to two years of age, and the first noticeable symptom is lameness. This is generally followed by a swelling, with a high temperature and marked depression, usually resulting in death within a few days. Although treatment for this disease is not highly successful, veterinarians have saved some animals by using large amounts of black-leg serum. Where the disease is known to exist, the animals should be vaccinated in late winter or the early spring months. Experience shows that an occasional death follows vaccination.

Treat Gladiol Corms

To prevent streaked and discolored blooms and shriveled buds in the favorite garden gladiol, treat the "bulbs" or gladiol corms with mercury. If infested corms are planted without first being treated to kill thrips, the chances for getting good blooms are slim. The thrips stay over the winter on the stored corms, so treatment of these with mercury kills the thrips before they can multiply. Unless the corms have been treated with naphthalene flakes for three weeks or more during the storage period, they should be soaked in a solution of bichloride of mercury before planting. Bichloride of mercury, or corrosive sublimate, is sold by drug stores and seed stores. One ounce will make eight gallons of solution. The drugist will weigh out any smaller amount a person needs to treat his gladiol corms.

Mightiest Force

Nitroglycerin has been called "the mightiest disruptive force, pound for pound" known to man. It is in great demand for road building, mining, quarrying and clearing land. Dynamite—nitroglycerin in its working clothes—is one of man's most helpful servants. The Emperor Claudius aqueduct, built in Roman times required a tunnel 3 1/2 miles long. Thirty thousand workers completed it in 11 years. The recently finished Hetch Hetchy aqueduct in California has tunnels totaling 29 miles. Thanks to nitroglycerin they were bored by 100 men in 11 1/2 months. The peacetime use of dynamite took only 15 million pounds of our normal yearly glycerin output.

Phosphate Enriches Stands

Generally applied ahead of clover or alfalfa, phosphate will give better stands and increased growth of these legume crops, thus providing more feed for livestock and fertility for the soil. It can be applied at any time in rotation. The common rate is 1,000 pounds to the acre, but smaller applications can be made more frequently and larger ones made when money is available for building up larger reserves of phosphorus in the soil. It may be applied on land to be planted to corn or soybeans where small grains and clovers are to follow the next year, on clover sod to be plowed under or to new seedings or old stands of clover or alfalfa.

Warn weather thirst quenchers

When that old, red mercury starts climbing toward the top of the thermometer, be ready with thirst quenchers that will buoy up your spirits! Simple to plan, simpler to make. Casual coolers... special occasion beverages... nourishing milk drinks that serve as part of a meal—any one of them will prove to be a welcome pickup when energy seems to be at low ebb. Don't let Mr. Mercury catch you unprepared!

SUGAR SYRUPS—One of the first requisites of cool beverages is the sweetening that can be added instantly. It stretches the sugar supply, too, because it blends with the drink completely. Have some on hand. Combine 1 cup sugar with 2 cups water, stir until dissolved, then boil rapidly for 10 minutes. Cool and store covered in the refrigerator until needed. FRUIT ADES—Oranges, lemons and grapefruit are tops among thirst quenchers ingredients. But don't forget other fresh fruit, too. Press the juice from ripe plums, peaches, apricots, nectarines or berries by forcing the fruits through a food press or coarse sieve. Mix the juice with water... or for that added sparkle, mix it with plain carbonated water. Add sugar syrup to taste, and serve frosty cold. MILK SHAKES—HOME STYLE—When a light snack is in order, serve it in the form of a nourishing milk drink. Mix chilled milk with sugar syrup and flavoring, or with molasses, honey or corn syrup. A dash of plain carbonated water will give it that "ice cream soda fizz," and a bit of nutmeg dashed on top will add just enough spice.

East's Popular Row House May Feature Future Building

The possibility that an important part of the estimated 900,000 to 1,200,000 new dwelling units, for which it is predicted there will be a market after the war, may be of a type of construction which until now has found favor only in a limited number of Eastern cities. It is the "row" house which has long been popular in some older Eastern cities. Until now relatively few have been constructed elsewhere.

Row houses are merely a group of homes built in a connecting series so that single inner walls are utilized. The older row houses are not likely to be used as models for future row houses except in their basic construction plan since this type of building has been greatly improved in architectural design, probably as much as any other residential unit in recent years.

The row house may be one of the first new developments in the post war housing field, because thousands of families now renting will want to buy their own homes right after the war and the row house may seem to them a good compromise between apartment life and life in a single-family dwelling.

Advantages claimed for row houses are that they can be built on smaller sites, a fact which possibly may prove more important than we expect if the nation undertakes vast urban rehabilitation projects in close-in districts near central business areas. Operating expenses are somewhat lower than for individual homes and this seems to be particularly true as to heating costs. Taxes are some lower, available experience indicates.

Dwarf Trees Yield Good Apples After Short Start

Gardeners who like to produce fruit at home are advised to try some of the available varieties of dwarf apple trees which bear fruit within a year or two after planting and from which the crop can be harvested without ladders.

The dwarf varieties available include many of the favorite sorts grown on standard-sized trees. The fruit on the dwarf trees is large and is highly colored. The dwarfs are obtained by grafting stocks of common apples on dwarfing rootstocks.

The best time to plant dwarf apples is early spring, and the trees should be set in holes which are large enough to admit the roots without crowding. Standard-shaped dwarf trees can be planted from 10 to 15 feet apart. The trees also can be purchased already trained to grow on trellises or against walls. Hedges can be made by setting trees six feet apart.

Experts recommend placing a mulch of leaves, straw, peat moss, or other similar material from the tree trunks outward beyond the tips of the branches. The mulch should be renewed each year and it keeps down weeds, conserves moisture, and adds plant food to the soil. Trees should be well watered the first year but need no fertilizer then. Five ounces of sulphate of ammonia or of a complete fertilizer should be applied under each tree the second year.

Paint Increases Illumination

The wartime urge for conservation of both human health and energy as well as of material things has greatly stimulated recognition of the use of color in conjunction with modern lighting equipment for better illumination. One prescription by lighting experts, cited by the Federal Housing administration, suggests the refinishing of a dark or dingy ceiling with a white or light ivory paint. Sidewalls may be refinished with a slightly darker paint, such as light green, with 65 per cent reflection, while all horizontal surfaces—benches, chairs, tables and floors—can be finished with a paint of at least 40 per cent reflection factor, according to the steps outlined at a recent convention of lighting experts.

Peanut Now Major Crop

Twenty years ago the peanut was a tidbit. Today peanut products are to be found in every grocery store, every restaurant, every department store, every army camp in America, on battleships and submarines. The American war economy possibly will find more uses for the peanut than for any other product grown. As a food it could appear on every course of the menu. It is used in the manufacture of drugs, cosmetics, shaving cream, soap, paints and explosives. It fattens Southern hogs and cattle and feeds the dairy herds and poultry. Even the peanut shells are used for fuel, bedding and plastics.

Women in Arms Plants

More women are employed in a greater variety of jobs in cannon and small arms manufacture than in any of the other war industries the department of labor has surveyed, according to an analysis of employment of 11,000 women in eight plants.

In three arms factories, where women were 15 per cent of the total 75,000 employees, the equal pay principle has been adopted. According to the analysis, the number of women employed in the industry could be raised to 75 per cent "because of the comparative lightness of the work."

Rain Water Is Cooling
Clean rain water, which is soft, makes the best cooling fluid for the auto or tractor radiator in summer, since it does not form scale in the radiator tubes as hard water does. The cooling system should be flushed thoroughly in the spring.

Plasma to Heal Burns
Blood plasma is hailed as a real foe of burns. Sulfadiazine in a new form also speeds healing.

++ Something Different ++

Depending on your patriotism and on how well you like jingles, the following nonsensical verse will appeal to you. It is a wartime alphabet, recommended for American small fry in the age of rationing:

A is for Auto, no longer new.
 B is for Banana—it's gone, too.
 C is for Coffee—just one cup.
 D is for Dog Food—poor old pup.
 E is for Electrical—things bye-bye.
 F is for Canned Fish—scarce and high.
 G is for Gasoline—if you can get it.
 H is for Hosiery—better pet it.
 I is for Ice Cream—to hoard it is wrong.
 J is for Jackets—they musn't be long.
 K is for Knives—restricted in type.
 L is for Lawnmowers and Lead Pipe.
 M is for Metal, Matches & Meat.
 N is for Nylon, gone from our feet.
 O is for Oil, but not enough heat.
 P is for Perambulators, Plastics and Paint.
 R is for Rubber—it just ain't.
 S is for Sugar, Silk and Shellac.
 T is for Tin, which civilians lack.
 U is for Umbrellas, increasingly rare.
 V is for Victory which makes it all fair.
 W is for Wool, from black sheep or white.
 X is for Xylophones—they've joined the fight.
 Y is for Yachts, all manned by the navy.
 Z is for Zoot Suits, too long and too zany.
 Along with the Zippers which held in Aunt Janey.

 War time restrictions, $500

limits to improvements, shortages and high prices, scarce labor . . . in spite of all these a few improvements are being made in Ord.

Almond Brox is remodeling the small cottage beside his store, joining them up to look more attractive. In turn, he is moving out of the little house around the corner which he modernized only a few years ago.

Dr. Lee Nay has the building bug, and is making an attached office room of goodly proportions hitching it to the west side of his residence on M Street. It is going to look O. K., and be much more efficient.

The big house where Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Burdick live has almost a whole new shingle-top.

The H. E. McClures intend to put a new roof overhead at the large old house they bought last week, the former Pierce residence in south Ord.

The small house, first west of the R. C. Bailey home has been made over almost from the ground up in the course of the past year. A part of the Bailey estate, of the vintage of stained glass in the fancy front door, it was bought by William Zickmund of Ord. He has taken his time to the job, and in return, is nearly through creating a charming new-style home.

Tearing down the old mill should be classed as a major improvement.

oOo
 Fine, isn't it?
 Ord needs a good deal more remodeling and building done. A blind spot or two on the square needs attention, and several items in the residential district could be improved.

Cast a jaundiced and critical eye about, next time you ride, or walk, and see if you can't notice some architectural shames crying loudly?

—Irma.

Revere Was Silversmith
 The patriot Paul Revere would have been among the immortal Americans even if he had never engaged in politics or made his famous ride. For he was a celebrated silversmith and his works in silver are museum pieces today. Due to his interest in the patriots' cause, he made many commemorative pieces.

The plan adopted here for relieving the harvest labor shortage seems to be working out according to plan. For the last week, crews have been going out in the morning and evening to various grain fields and according to the farmers have been doing a fairly good job of shocking. Businessmen, women, boys and girls have all responded to the call and so far not much grain has laid long on the ground. Two high school girls contracted a 40-acre field and the farmer was so pleased that he paid them considerable more than the contract price. The price being paid varies from 50c to 75c per acre with most of it being 60c to 65c per acre. There is still another good week's work in the harvest fields and then help will be needed in the detasseling of hybrid corn. After that the potato crop will absorb all the available help in the community and with the increased acreage there may be a shortage of help to harvest this commodity.

Christian Science Services.
"Life" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, July 18.

The Golden Text is: "Understanding is a wellspring of life unto him that hath it." (Proverbs 16:22).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, I am the Lord your God... Ye shall therefore keep my statutes, and my judgments; which if a man do, he shall live in them; I am the Lord." (Leviticus 18:1, 2, 5).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Life is divine Principle, Mind, Soul, Spirit. Life is without beginning and without end. Eternity, not time, expresses the thought of Life, and time is no part of eternity. One ceases in proportion as the other is recognized. Time is finite; eternity is forever infinite... We all must learn that Life is God." (pp. 468, 490).

Catch Smelt by Bonfire
The smelt run in the Green Bay, Wis., area is a phenomena that remains largely unexplained, but each spring they reappear with astonishing regularity. They run only at night, which adds excitement and color to the scene. Flares and bonfires light the river banks as hundreds of "fishermen" dip them from the water. The number of fish any individual obtains is limited only by the containers he has to fill.

THE RAILROADER

THEY'RE Keeping em Rolling

THE RAILROADS ARE THE BACKBONE OF OFFENSE

Keep Reindeer in Herds
Alaska reindeer herds average about 7,000 head. Like cattle on western ranges, reindeer are herded to guard against wolves, thieves, and starvation. Herding is done mainly by Eskimos and Lapps, on foot, and aided by dogs.

To conserve vegetation, feeding grounds are changed with the seasons. In summer, the animals forage on mountain slopes, and on the hummocky, pond-dotted tundra along the coast. Groundsel, mushrooms, berries, and mosses are their main food. In winter they range the sheltered valleys. Their acute sense of smell locates food. With hoofs and antlers they paw and poke for plants buried under three to four feet of snow.

Cool Season Crops
Spinach, mustard, green onions from sets and leaf lettuce are distinctly cool-season crops and are unable to endure the heat of summer. They should be planted as soon as the soil can be prepared in the spring. They grow very quickly and reach the edible stage before the full heat of summer has come. Their period of use in the fresh stage is relatively short.

With the exception of the green onions from sets, these crops may all be planted again in the fall garden in late July, August, or early September and will reach maturity in late September and October. They are not injured by light frosts.

Leonora

Leonora straightened the objects on her desk with great care. She had put her desk at the end of her room facing the door so that when her mother came in she would have to cross the whole room under Leonora's stern executive eye to get to her. From movies and pictures in the newspapers Leonora had gotten a good idea of how the desk of a busy woman of affairs should look.

With an important scowl, Leonora picked up a sheet of paper. Now she was two people—herself, the busy woman, and her own stenographer. "Miss Simpkins, take a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury, will you?" she murmured under her breath. "Yes, immediately," she murmured back at herself. Leonora cleared her throat and looked at the ceiling for inspiration. Miss Simpkins bent over the sheet of paper hanging on the words about to fall.

"Dear Mr. Morgenthau," — "Got that?" — "Yes, madam."

"I am—ahem—thirteen years old and anxious to be of all possible service to the country at this time, ahem!

"I earn a weekly income of from $1.37 to $2.12 by helping with the housework and by shovelling snow. I am at present in possession of one War Savings Bond and am buying stamps weekly. I want to become a member of the 10 percent Club. I feel it to be—ahem—not only my duty, but my privilege." ("How do you spell privilege?" asked Miss Simpkins. "Don't bother me with these details," said Leonora—my privilege as an American to invest at least ten percent of my income in War Bonds.

Yours truly,"

"Get that off at once, Miss Simpkins," said Leonora. "Yes, Ma'am! You certainly are an important woman, ma'am," said Miss Simpkins.

Rails Haul More Freight
A comparison of the overall traffic of the railways in 1942 with that of 1917 shows that, although operating with less equipment over fewer miles of track, the ton-miles of revenue freight increased 58 per cent, and the passenger miles increased almost 25 per cent. This has been accomplished by running longer trains, by moving them faster, by loading cars more heavily, and by reducing the time which cars are permitted to spend on sidings under load or empty.

Scene of Strife
Because of its strategic position, Martinique was long a focal point in the struggle between France and Britain for supremacy in the Caribbean region. Acquired by France in 1635, the island changed hands several times in the 17th and 18th centuries.

One of the most important sea fights, the "Battle of the Saints," was fought in 1782. The French fleet, based on Martinique, met the British ships near Saints islands, from which the battle got its name. Splitting the French forces and cutting them off from their base, the British Admiral Rodney permanently blocked France's ambition to take Jamaica and make herself mistress of the West Indies.

After the sea battle, the British captured and held Martinique off-and-on for more than a decade before finally restoring the island to France in 1815.

In Right Way
Farmers who get the best results with their crops save seed, energy, time, and labor by doing their work in the right way.

Capacity of Hospitals
The capacity of registered hospitals is 1,383,827 beds and 71,448 bassinets. There are 59,449 more beds and 5,285 more bassinets than one year ago. This growth in hospital facilities for the past year was the equivalent of a 163 bed hospital for every day in the year.

Tars Drink Milk
The British royal navy is turning from rum to milk! The navy reported in London recently that only 50 per cent of its sailors now take their rum ration, as compared with 65 per cent in 1924, 68 per cent in 1913, and 91 per cent in 1850.

Blitz Absenteeism
A one-man blitz against absenteeism has won praise from Chairman Donald Nelson of the War Production board. Chairman Nelson wired his congratulations to Lloyd Converse, 42-year-old worker at the Massena, N. Y., plant of the Aluminum Company of America, for his feat of walking all night—20 miles in sub-zero weather through a blizzard that left 12-foot drifts—to be at his furnace on time. Mr. Converse worked his shift, then stayed on the job for an additional eight-hour stretch in place of a worker absent because of the storm.

Relations With Community To Decide Postwar Planning

Old concepts of city planning must be discarded after the war, declares a report of the Committee on Post-War Reconstruction of the American Institute of Architects. "Americans will not be able to afford to have their ways of living and working hampered by city patterns that have outlived their usefulness," says the committee, of which Dean Walter R. MacCormack of Massachusetts Institute of Technology is chairman. "The nation is beginning to realize that large-scale design and large-scale rebuilding must be employed to bring the depreciated and decaying central areas of our cities up to a modern state of efficiency. "Large-scale replanning in America does not mean planning by a dictator who knows how to give the people what is good for them. Planning in America means fundamentally the establishing of harmonious relationships between the individual and the community of which he is a part. Democratic planning means individual initiative attuned to the responsiveness of the group. "It seems apparent that any comprehensive scheme for replanning and redevelopment must recognize the necessity for changing the point of view in planning from the basis of the individual property to the basis of the locality and to planning for groups of properties and groups of buildings, instead of for the individual building and the individual plot."

Martinique Has History Of Wars and Hurricanes Martinique has a long and turbulent history accented with wars and convulsions of nature. About midway between Puerto Rico and British Trinidad, Martinique stands at the threshold of two continents. It is a little more than 1,300 miles from the Panama canal. St. Lucia, a United States defense base leased from Great Britain, is next door. Antigua, 150 miles northwest, another United States base, is on the far side of the French sister island of Guadeloupe. Northern and western coasts are bold; southern and eastern shores are lower, gentler in slope. Coral reefs and islets dot the waters to the east. Beaches break the rugged coast line. Volcanoes created the island, gave it a mountain core and skyline, scoured it with fire and lava. Eruption of 4,400-foot Mt. Pelee, 1902, wiped out the city of St. Pierre, took 40,000 lives. Nature has run to temper as well as temperature. A record for the last 300 years would show 33 hurricanes, 7 earthquakes, 11 storms accompanied by tidal waves, 2 famines, 1 drought. Caribbean breezes seem to by-pass Martinique, leave it to swelter in high humidity. From June to October rain is a daily expectation.

Hotcaps Speed Growth Many vegetables, particularly vine crops, tomatoes, and peppers, thrive only in warm weather. Good growth is usually not made by these vegetables until the last week in May or early in June. In years such as this, even cool-season crops do not make much progress because of the backward weather. Use of hotcaps on both warm- and cool-season crops under present conditions may bring harvest of the crops a week or two earlier. Hot-caps are actually miniature greenhouses placed over separate plants or hills of vegetables. Plant protectors of this sort cost two cents or more, depending on size, and are made of translucent, water-resistant paper that lets the sunlight through to warm the plants. On sunny days the temperature inside a hot-cap may be 10 degrees or even 20 degrees above the temperature outside.

Wash Machine Capacity Naturally the amount of clothes a washing machine can handle depends on its size. But if it is average in size, six to eight pounds of dry clothes, or two large sheets, four shirts, and two bath towels, is a safe load. A good way to estimate the amount which the machine will take is to make sure the clothes circulate freely. If you have an electric washer, start the motor before you put in the clothes, not afterwards. Sometimes starting the machine with a heavy load of clothes in it throws such a load on the motor all at once that a fuse may be blown. However, there is one exception. If the electric machine is the kind that has a separate cylinder for clothes, one that revolves in the soap and water, there will be no difficulty on this score.

'Pickle' Steel Steel left standing between operations without a protective coating soon rusts and scales. To remove that rust or scale, processors dip the metal in a "pickling" bath of sulphuric or hydrochloric acid—so-called heavy chemicals. A danger is that these acids will do more than remove the rust and scale, that they will attack the metal itself. Chemists, accordingly, have developed inhibitors to prevent the acid from damaging the steel. A few ounces of an inhibitor per thousand gallons of acid bath will adequately protect the metal.

Chemical Allows Storage Of Gas All Over World

Less than one-half an ounce of a chemical per hundred gallons of gasoline—a few thousandths of 1 per cent—makes it possible to ship and store this fuel all over the world without its quickly forming gum which would clog up the motors and fuel lines of airplanes, tanks and trucks. Gasoline contains certain materials, invaluable for anti-knock purposes, which tend to form a sticky gum. Costly processes were previously used to remove these harmful ingredients but they also reduced the anti-knock value of the fuel. Now very small quantities of a chemical gum inhibitor stabilize gasoline for long periods without adversely affecting its quality. This is but one of many chemicals vital to the processing of petroleum from the time it is discovered in the earth until it is delivered as lubricants, fuels or other war necessities. Chemicals are even used in locating oil deposits. In the process known as seismic prospecting, an explosive is buried in the earth in the locality where the presence of oil is suspected. Its detonation sets up vibrations, some of which go downward until they strike a geological formation which reflects them back to the surface, just as light is reflected by a mirror. Delicate instruments pick up and record the explosive waves, and from the recordings trained scientists can readily locate geological formations favorable to the presence of petroleum.

Keep Eggs Rolling This Winter With Hay Feed Poultry flocks have long depended on summer range for part of their feeds; with the growing shortage of feedstuffs that supply vitamins and proteins for laying flocks, curing a special hay crop for the poultry flocks is sure to help the birds keep laying next winter. According to Prof. George Serviss of the New York State college of agriculture, silage made from early-cut legumes and grass is a good source of vitamins and protein for poultry, and the birds like it. However, few farmers have the containers in which to make and store silage, and the process requires more labor than making of hay. Young tender hay makes a satisfactory substitute. If the hay is to be ground, to mix with mash in place of alfalfa leaf meal, a farmer should plan to store about five pounds for every bird. If the hay is to be fed separately, more will be wasted, and seven or eight pounds will be needed for each bird in the flock. Hay made from ladino clover or alfalfa is probably best, but clippings from permanent pasture or lawn, or even from red clover, alsike and timothy mixtures, may be satisfactory. Ladino clover should be mowed when it is four to six inches tall. Alfalfa should be cut before it starts to bloom and before it is a foot tall. Other hay should be cut when six to eight inches tall. Pasture or lawn clippings should be cut when the growth is four to five inches in height.

Balls Bounce Less Baseballs used by the big leagues in the 1943 season will not bounce as high as in other years, according to experiments. The new "balata" baseball, made of wartime materials admitted by manufacturers to be inferior, bounced an average of 25.9 per cent lower than the 1942 balls. Five each of the 1942 and 1943 balls were dropped from a height of 28.65 feet to a solid steel cylinder, and the rebound was measured to the nearest hundredth of a foot by a surveyor's rod. Following the rebound tests, both types of baseball were run through a mechanical saw. Cross-sections of the balls showed little difference, despite the additional dead weight of the new domestic horsehide cover, scrap cork center and balata binder.

Poisons Don't Belong in Kitchen! With more of the poisonous insecticides being used this year, gardeners should remember always that these are poisons and are so labeled. Don't keep them around the house in any place where they could be mistaken for something else. Handle the packages so that they cannot spill around foodstuffs or kitchenware. Keep them away from children and pets. Poisonous insecticides are safely used on a mass scale year after year by large commercial growers. But the beginner, particularly, should never forget to treat them with respect.

Still Need Ships For every cargo ship which a fleet of air freighters might replace, an additional tanker will have to be built to supply gasoline at the end of the air route. In other words, transoceanic air freighters will in no way eliminate surface vessels. The exigencies of war, of course, make air cargo a necessity, because time and not economy is the main factor in shipping vitally needed materials to the war fronts. It has been also pointed out that the present type of cargo planes operating on long over water routes consume from one to four tons of fuel for every ton of cargo carried.

Jack participated in three major battles and received a citation for bravery from his commanding officer. Eight times he was a victim of malaria and finally was sent to Wellington, New Zealand to recuperate. He mentions that many of our fighting men were victims of a disease called elephantiasis, which is common among the natives of the island. It is caused or carried by the mosquito and is the abnormal swelling of different parts of the body. He has seen natives with arms or legs swollen to five times their normal size when it seems impossible that the skin could stretch as much. Doctors are doing all they can to combat this dread disease.

Jack mentions that he was in the same group with Barney Ross, the well known prize fighter, who wrote many interesting accounts of the Guadalcanal fight for the World-Herald and other publications.

New Zealand's climate was very similar to that in Nebraska and it is a desirable place to live. The majority of the people are English and enjoy all modern conveniences. Jack says the Red Cross and Salvation Army are doing fine work in every respect and that the boys are truly grateful.

Before leaving for the United States he was privileged to visit Australia and the boys were given one day shore leave at Sydney, the city Jack had been anxious to visit ever since he landed in the island out in the Pacific. He was not disappointed and found that Sydney lived up to all his expectations.

After landing in California it was some time before he was allowed to come on to Nebraska. When he reached home he was surprised and delighted to find his two sisters, Gayle and Phyllis here from Washington, D. C. The girls are government employees and while Miss Phyllis was entitled to a vacation, Miss Gayle had been here just three weeks ago. But at that time she did not know her brother was coming home so was granted a short emergency leave. Other members of the family, Miss Roberta, Miss Marjorie and Master Jerry, who are at Denver now, will arrive Thursday and all will enjoy a happy reunion indeed. Jack has a thirty day leave before he reports back for duty.

the present with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Cronk.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Winger from Columbia, Mo., arrived on Sunday and are visiting at the home of Mrs. Winger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gavin.

A daughter, Leniece Ann was born Friday at the Miller hospital in Ord to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Graves. The little girl weighs 6 1/2 pounds and mother and baby are fine. This is the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson.

Tuesday afternoon the Congregational church ladies held their annual birthday party, invited the members of the association. The tables were beautifully decorated and hostesses were Mrs. Bess Langstrom, Mrs. Flueckiger, Mrs. A. I. Cram and Mrs. Westcott. Mrs. Langstrom, also had charge of the program.

Benjamin Lowery from Fort Bliss, Tex., arrived Monday to visit his wife and infant son and other relatives. Benjamin is a motor sergeant.

A land deal was transacted recently whereby Osce Johnson became the owner of the Melvin McGrew town property and the McGrew farm southwest of town.

Miss Naomi Wagner returned on Thursday from California where she spent more than a month at San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco visiting friends including Miss Nina Nickells.

Mrs. Spencer Horner returned Saturday from Lincoln where she visited her daughter and her husband Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Robert Henderson.

Bob Johnson arrived home by bus from Lincoln Monday, where he spent a week visiting relatives. He reports that his uncle, William Johnson, who has been in Hawaii for many months, is expected to arrive in Lincoln soon.

Gene Robert Sems returned to his home in Grand Island on Tuesday to visit his parents. He will return to Burwell after a short visit and stay for a longer time with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Keefe. Friends will be happy to learn that his mother, who was critically burned in a stove explosion several weeks ago is gradually improving and doctors now say that there will be no permanent scar left on her face.

Mrs. Wilford Haines is ill at her home in Burwell. Last week she was taken to Ord for a series of treatments.

BACK FORTY
Speltz is an old crop that promises to stage a comeback in this locality. V. J. Dobrovsky and sons have grown it for two years and praise it highly. Their calves prefer speltz to oats and it yields more than oats or barley.

Speltz on upland produced 48 bushels per acre last summer for the Dobrovskys. This year their patch again shows prospects of yielding heavily. So far the field has been free of smut and rust.

Speltz is drilled into double-disked ground in early spring, the same as other small grain. The Dobrovskys started out with pure seed, which they had shipped in from Iowa.

Speltz runs about 20 per cent in hull, as compared with 30 per cent for oats. It is an especially good crop for poor or dry soils because of its drought-resisting qualities. In semi-arid sections under dry-land methods, speltz makes a crop when other cereals fail. It is also resistant to rust or other effects of wet weather, and withstands extremes of climate better than most small grains.

Speltz grain for beef steers has proved equal, in some experiments to corn. For dairy cows and fattening pigs, it's value is somewhat less, but dairy cows like it. In general speltz is comparable to oats or barley as feed. It's hull is a fair substitute for hay.

In this country, the crop called speltz or spelt is usually emmer. Both speltz and emmer belong to the wheat family. They are simply kernels of wheat enclosed in hulls or husks.

Maximum permitted is 25 pounds per person, of which 10 pounds may be secured simply by presenting No. 15 and 16 coupons from the No. 1 book to the merchant. To secure the additional 15 pounds permitted it is necessary to fill out an application.

Still Possibility Alfalfa Mill Will Be Located Here

Saunders Mills Inc., Decide to Build 3 in Nebraska, Ord Being Considered.

There is still a strong possibility that an alfalfa mill may be established here this season, says C. C. Dale, county agricultural agent, after again talking with Mr. Walker, the representative of Saunders Mills, Inc., who recently visited this city.

Even though alfalfa growers are holding off cutting in hope of realizing big cash profits on a seed crop, the Saunders people would buy the alfalfa after it is threshed and convert it into stem meal, for which there is big demand at present, Walker told Agent Dale.

He has been instructed by the president of his company to contact the Dickinson interests and try to buy their elevator property here, Walker told Dale. He is doing so at once.

Klingman Gets Lost Enroute to Ainsworth

Burwell — (Special) — Early Friday morning an old gentleman well up in his 70s by the name of Klingman left his home ten miles southwest of Ericson and started for Ainsworth to help a relative put up hay. He drove a team and wagon, taking along his mowing machine and plenty of corn to feed his team on the way.

Some time Saturday he became confused in his directions and that evening was seen about a mile south of Burwell. Sunday morning he was still urging the team forward, confident he would soon reach his destination, but it was apparent that he had lost all sense of direction for he was driving around and around in a grain field on the Charles Anderson farm.

Authorities here were notified and when Mr. Klingman told them where he lived they took the tired old gentleman to his home. The next day relatives came after the team.

Will Collect Old Records This Week

A second campaign for the collection of old phonograph records begins this week under American Legion and Auxiliary sponsorship. These records are sold for scrap and the proceeds used to buy new records for the men in service. As a result of the drive last year, over 300,000 new records were sent to the army, navy, marine corps and coast guard. Now with the expansion of the U. S. armed services the need is greater than before. Put yourself in the place of a son or other relative stationed near a battle area or on a battleship where the use of radio is not allowed and where blackouts do not permit reading after dark. Only with the phonograph can the boys get any entertainment. Unless material is obtained from old, worn-out records, however, new ones cannot be provided. Surely, everyone who has a record player can spare a few old records so that the men might have this form of recreation. Your old or broken records will be collected if you call any of the following: Mrs. Keith Lewis, Mrs. Vern Russell, Mrs. Syl Furtak, Robert Hull or Cecil Clark. People in rural sections may leave their records at the Ord Bakery.

Soil District News

The Soil District technicians, Hartman, Walford and Vanberg have been busy for the past two months assisting the irrigation farmers in the two Loup valleys with their irrigation problems.

All of the places worked on have some special problem such as, relocating a lateral, surveying for a fill or cut, finding the "high spot" for a pump, figuring out the number of drops needed, leveling, or just some plain topographic surveying to see if additional land may be irrigated.

The irrigators recognize the need for surveying assistance because they know that a lateral in the wrong place causes them to lose time and money. If a ditch is made in the proper place and all structures, such as flumes, drops or turnouts are installed in the right places according to grade, no trouble in irrigation should arise. Just like the contour line which can not properly be laid out "by eye," neither can the irrigation lateral be so surveyed.

The Soil District has recognized the need for production this year and it is a known fact that wherever irrigation water can be properly distributed greater production can be attained.

The Irrigation District and the Soil District are working hand in hand to see that all the irrigation water is properly placed on the land. The Irrigation District is doing its best to get the water to the land, and the Soil District, by surveying and layout work, will do its best to see that the water is put to the best use on the land.

Many farmers in the county do not seem to realize they have a Soil District that they may make use of to help them solve some irrigation or water disposal problem. The assistance of the District technicians may be obtained by simply contacting one of the District Supervisors, the County Agent, the Irrigation Office or the District Office. The nice part of the set up is that there are no charges for the assistance given each individual farmer by the District technicians.

Many farmers lately have been putting in fills and making their ditches by hiring the county road patrol machine. A very good job has been done at each place. Some of the farmers having had a fill made just recently are Henry Benn, Leo Long and Bill Peterson.

Drivers Warned to Buy Use Stamps Soon

Automobile drivers who haven't yet purchased their federal use stamps are warned to do so before August 1 or they will have to send to the internal revenue department at Omaha for them instead of the simpler procedure of buying them through the local postoffice.

Only about 1,250 stamps have been purchased here as compared with the usual 2,000, said Postmaster A. L. Hill this morning. All drivers whose cars are in use must purchase the stamps at a cost of $5.00. They were due July 1 and cars without them are being operated illegally. A penalty of $25 will be charged any driver caught without a stamp on the windshield of his car.

Threshing Started Monday, Wheat, Rye Good As in '42

Most County's Small Grain Now in Shocks; Combines Are Still Operating.

With most of Valley county's small grain now in the shock threshing started Monday and by the end of this week most of the 96 threshing outfits in this area will be in the field. First to start was the rig of the Dobrovsky family, which began threshing at the Ernest Vodehnal place south of Ord, and the Augustyn rig which is working now at the Frank Augustyn place near Elyria.

Prices quoted for threshing are 5c per bushel for oats, 6c for barley and 8c for wheat and rye. High wages are being paid for threshing help, $4.00 to $4.50 per day for pitchers and $5.00 to $7.50 for men running the machines.

Wheat and rye threshed to date are equalling 1942 grain in yield and in quality, it is believed. Barley, which was too dry in early spring, is 75 to 80 percent as good. No reports have come in on oats yet.

In spite of the shortage of harvest help the big job of shocking has been handled in fine shape and very little grain was left in windrows. Combines are just getting a good start on their job but most of the binder work is done except in the north part of the county.

Over in the Middle Loup the emphasis shifted this week to detasseling of hybrid corn. About sixty detasslers are said to be working in fields near Arcadia.

He was loading hogs for V. W. Robbins when he was attacked. The bull belonged to Henry Geweke.

Temperature Up to 102 on Tuesday, Hot Wind Hurts

Down Town Thermometers 5 Degrees Higher; Electrical Storm Tuesday Eve.

Temperatures soared above the 100 mark Tuesday afternoon for the first time this season, reaching an official high of 102 while unofficial readings ranged generally 5 degrees higher. The 102 mark Tuesday followed two days of temperatures in the 90s, the official high Sunday being 92 and Monday 94.

Hot winds blew Tuesday for the first time this summer also and apparently were doing some damage to dry land crops.

A slight break in the heat wave came early Tuesday evening when heavy storm clouds came up in the west and an electric storm raged all night but scarcely enough moisture fell to lay the dust.

The last several nights have been bad for sleeping and Ord people have been noted sleeping in porch chairs, in automobiles and even on blankets spread on the lawn, though the presence of so many mosquitos this summer makes outdoor sleeping most unpleasant.

No relief from the heat was in sight Wednesday, said weather forecasters.

Vern Stark is enjoying a few days of vacation this week from his duties at the ordnance plant in Grand Island.

Publisher Writes of Pleasant Trip, Says Fishing Good

Many Cars Passed Them on Road, He Writes; Buys Raspberries $3 Crate.

Cullen Lake near Nisswa, Minn., July 19, 1943

Dear Quiz: It is 8 a. m., and if this letter is to reach the editor's desk in time for this week's paper I must get it sent to town this morning. A lot of folks have told me that they liked to read my Cullen lake stories, else I wouldn't bother to write.

But first of our trip up. We left Ord at 7 a. m. the 11th, and our driving time was 18 hours for the 570 miles; or a trifle over 30 miles per hour. We drove under 40 miles all the way, often under 35 miles, under 25 miles through many towns. And I must say that the traffic generally passed us on the road. We saw a few cars going 60 and better and had they been seen by road police they would have been fined. But with 8 of us in the car and a heavily loaded trailer to pull, we felt much safer driving legally. Crops all the way seem to be immense. There is a great acreage of corn and there seems to be little difference in its forwardness anywhere. It is fine here and starting to tassle generally. Oats here are still green but rye and wheat are ripe.

The weather here, when we arrived, was hot and remained so for a couple of days. They had had ten days of it when we came, but a couple of days after we got here we had an inch of rain with the wind switching to the west where it has remained mostly since and it is cool and nice, with a little fire in the heater very acceptable each morning.

As we drove in at noon Monday Capt. Nay walked out and as we unloaded Esther Luther rushed up and began preparing as fine a fish dinner as one could ask for. She had even baked blueberry pie for dessert. We had spent the night at Willmar, Minn., the night before, arriving there at 10:30 the night before, got up early and drove to St. Cloud where we had breakfast, and with dinner a little late we did full justice to the fifty or so bluegills, mashed potatoes, salad and other good things.

Capt. Nay painted the home cottage on the outside and the big living room in the former Clements cottage inside and the log siding on the outside which trim the base of the house up three feet, and with the lawns nicely mowed, the places are very pretty, for there has been an abundance of rain all spring, in fact the water has been the highest this spring that it has been in years. The roof was found to be leaking around one chimney and that had to be repaired and there were numerous other small repairs that must be made and we have been kept busy since we came, what with doing a little fishing.

Fishing is good and we make it a rule to have a fish dinner every other day and often have a few cold fish left which we lunch on. The bluegills and crappies are biting good and it only takes a little while to get our limits. Then we sometimes have an order for a mess for one of the neighbors which gives us an excuse to do a little more fishing. F. M. Gross wanted to send a box home so last evening we went to the upper lake, Flora, Irma, Capt. Nay and I, after supper, caught fifty big bluegills and were home before dark and delivered the 30 fish Mr. Gross needed to him and we have a mess dressed for dinner today. When I have told you the result of a fishing trip I have described all of them, for so far we have not failed to get our limits. We use worms, and fish for pan fish. Occasionally get a small bass, which we put back. They tell me the big bass are striking plugs but I have not tried it as we prefer bluegills and I have but a few days more to stay.

Berries? Yes, the red raspberries are plentiful and cheap, $3.00 for a 12-quart crate and so far I have canned a couple of dozen quarts, but I am so short of sugar that I am unable to make more than a taste of jam. H. D. LEGGETT.

Something Different

Something Different
Not long ago Mrs. Alfred Bartunek and Byron, age five, were visiting at the home of a neighbor.
While the women chattered children disappeared to play. They were gone a while, and their mothers began to search for them. After quite a time they were horrified to find that three small children, who could not swim, had gone swimming in a big irrigation ditch, a ditch big enough to be well "over their heads".
The children, miraculously, had not drowned, and were as good as new, but the mothers in the case were wrathful and threatened dire punishments. Mrs. Bartunek declared warmly "Daddy will spank you for this, Byron".

The day was hot, and the evening too.
When Mrs. Bartunek and Byron got home, and she told her husband about the narrow escape the children had had and how it had frightened her, she paused to hear his reaction. She got it.
After a minute or two of thought, Mr. Bartunek called Byron and inquired: "Where is this irrigation ditch, son? You know I think that sounds like a good place for me to take a swim, and cool off."

The hotter the day, the more interest in extra swims and baths.

The river has been the source of much fun and many good, clean swims this summer, as it usually is. It was a bit safer for small fry when they could play in the east branch of the river which had been reduced to a well-regulated little brook.

And children continue to enjoy the irrigation ditch at Bussey park, even though it is not recommended for safe swimming.

No, Mothers, it isn't recommended. I personally asked Dr. John Round to write to the state department of health about it last year, and I saw the reply to his letter. The answer stated that in this case it would not be "safe" swimming water, since water running over dirt does not purify itself (but only water running over sand).

The ditch at the park pleases the children, tho, and so far no bad effects have been traceable to splashing there. And do you blame the children for wanting to play there: I can't.

Food rationing means little to her, says Mrs. Evan Hartman. An ex-farm woman, she has long been in the habit of canning all that they eat, and each fall finds rows of handsome well-filled jars of everything you can think of ornamenting the Hartman storage cupboards. No matter what it is, she is likely to know how to fix it.

At the C. J. Mortensen home, they proudly dug up a sizeable piece of grass parking and put it into a Victory garden, close to the street.

At the John Misko home they have planted a strawberry patch for a parking close to the pavement.

Gradually but surely, war measures are being taken in every household, and yard. And the summer canning fevers rages in every kitchen.
-Irma.

BACK FORTY

A few years ago, some fearless farm family decided to serve their threshing gang an afternoon lunch and send them home without supper. That family deserves to be commended.

Perhaps their workers objected to missing out on the old time twilight feast. But they started a plan which won quick approval from all busy farm women, and soon became the custom around here. It lessens kitchen work, and gets men folks home in time to do chores properly.

The lunch idea is in favor because it saves time and labor, rather than food costs. Food is not expensive by comparison with labor. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics says, "The average U. S. consumer today is able to purchase a 'food basket' of specified foods for a smaller share of his income than at any period on record." This statement was made in June, 1943.

Another labor problem which comes up at threshing time involves the trading of help. One farmer declared recently that he loses money each harvest season by trading help.

He threshes out a fairly small acreage, but has to send a man and team to every other farm just the same. He spends about twelve days' work and gets eight days back.

In one community west of Ord, the farmers have solved this problem by paying each other a fixed daily wage.

In other localities the farmers keep accounts, and if exchange help doesn't cancel out at the season's end, they settle in cash at custom rates. Thus no one gets the short end of it.

Dressings give sparkle to salads

If you want those summertime salads to be devoured right down to the last shred of lettuce, then use a dressing that will change the ordinary salad into one of those delicious creations which every member of the family attacks with gusto! Doesn't matter whether it's the old-fashioned kind or a favorite from your grocery. By the way, the cooked mayonnaise given below is a cross between mayonnaise and the salad dressing that's so popular nowadays.

- COOKED MAYONNAISE
2 egg yolks 1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
2 tps. mustard 1/4 cup vinegar
1 tsp. salt 1 cup salad oil
1/8 tsp. cayenne 1 tsp. shortening
1/8 tsp. garlic salt 1/2 cup enriched flour
1/4 tsp. celery salt 1 cup water
1/4 tsp. paprika

- a. Combine egg yolks, seasonings and vinegar in deep mixing bowl.
b. Add oil without stirring.
c. Make sauce: Melt shortening in top of 1-qt. double boiler. Add flour and gradually add water, stirring until smooth. Cook over rapidly boiling water until mixture is thick and smooth, about 10 minutes, stirring occasionally.
d. Pour hot, cooked sauce into bowl with oil and vinegar mixture and beat with rotary beater until smooth and fluffy, about 3 minutes.
e. Store in covered jar in cool place. Makes 1 pt.

HOMAYONNAISE - Beat together 1 egg yolk, 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. dry mustard and 1/2 tsp. vinegar. When frothy, add 1 tsp. vinegar or lemon juice and beat again. Beat in salad or olive oil very gradually, adding just a few drops at a time to prevent curdling, until 3/4 cup oil has been added. When mixture thickens, add another 1/2 cup vinegar or lemon juice and beat again.

Christian Science Services. "Truth" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, July 25.

The Golden Text is: "It is the Spirit that beareth witness because the Spirit is truth" (I John 5:6).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself. And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity" (Luke 13:11, 12).

Wedding of Denver Girl.

An engagement and announcement of the forthcoming wedding of Miss Rosemary Elizabeth Davis, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Davis, to Staff Sergt. Roy Lee Logsdon of Bakersfield, Calif., will come as a surprise to her friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis, their daughter and Charles Allan, left for Gulf Port, Miss., where the wedding will take place on their arrival.

The bride-elect was graduated from South high school and Cottey Junior college at Nevada, Mo., and received a degree from Iowa Wesleyan college at Mount Pleasant, Ia., where she was a member of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority. She taught school at Deertrail, Colo., last winter.

Sergeant Logsdon, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Logsdon of Bakersfield, attended the Bakersfield Junior college and Southern California university. He joined the air forces in 1941.

The above clipping from the Denver Post will be of interest to many Ord Quiz readers.

The young bride was born in Ord, as was also her mother and spent her early childhood here. She is the daughter of Mildred Daniels Davis and the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Daniels, who were pioneer residents of this city.

The wedding ceremony, which was marked by simplicity and charm took place Monday, July 12th, at 2 p. m. at the First Presbyterian church in Gulfport, Miss., with the Rev. J. N. Brown officiating.

The bride wore a smart afternoon suit of petal pink crepe, with white accessories. As something borrowed, she wore the famous diamond and pearl bow-knot pin of her friend Mrs. Eugene S. Cosad of Denver, being the 24th bride to wear the bridal pin. For something old, she carried a point lace handkerchief, which her grandmother had carried on her wedding day, 60 years before and which later had been carried by the brides mother on her wedding day.

Staff Sergeant Logsdon entered the army air force early in 1941 and is stationed at Gulfport Field, Miss., where the young couple will make their temporary home.

Mrs. Charles Davis and son, Charles Allan, accompanied Miss Davis to Gulfport and attended the ceremony. They will visit in Biloxi and New Orleans before returning to Denver.

Career Woman

By R. H. WILKINSON
Associated Newspapers.
WNU Features.

PORTIA had repeatedly told him he would be smart, and happier, to forget her and marry someone else. Ivan had at first laughed at her, then pleaded with her.

"I could never be happy with anyone but you. I love you. You know that."

"You may love me now. Later, you'll stop. No man can be happy with a career woman. I want to paint pictures more than anything."

"You can!" he cried. "I'll never stand in your way. You can have your career and me too."

She laughed, shaking her sleek, blonde head. "Forget me," she said. "I'm not the only girl in the world. You could be happy with someone else."

"I couldn't. I could never be happy with anyone else. I'll never forget you."

They continued to see each other. Portia thought it would be less cruel than not to permit him to call. Besides, at times when he wasn't making love to her, he was fun. He was fun and it also flattered her vanity. That was natural. Every girl, career or not, likes to be told she is beautiful, likes to know that she is loved. Ivan never let her down.

If she thought he would get used to her, cease loving her, she was wrong. He became more ardent. Frequently he went on business trips, remaining away two, three and sometimes seven and eight days. He always called her the moment he got back.

"I thought of you every minute I was gone. It was torture being away. Will you marry me?"

"Oh, Ivan, you mustn't! You mustn't continue to think of me this way. You must meet someone else."

"Why do you keep saying that? There's no girl in this world as beautiful as you, as lovely as you, no one I could care about. You know that."

"It sounds wonderful! It sounds romantic and glamorous, but it isn't so. I'm practical enough to know that. There will be another girl. Sometime. I'm sure of it."

"There won't. Ever."

It became a habit. She expected his ardor; accepted it. Automatically she would make the same replies and he the same answers. Then they'd have fun. It was pleasant. Portia didn't mind. She enjoyed it. She could still devote the greater part of her time to painting, to her work, her career.

Another month passed. Then something happened. Portia woke up to the fact that she wasn't cut out to be an artist. It had been a growing feeling in the back of her head for months. The reality came as something of a shock. The thought that all her effort, all her future planning was for nothing rather dismayed her.

Yet she faced it bravely. Better to admit defeat now than to go on and on, groping, sliding back, experiencing defeat. Better to forestall all that now by being sensible.

She thought of Ivan. With a little shock she thought of him. She remembered all the times they had had together, all the things he had said, his vows, his ardor. And suddenly it flashed across her mind that it had been this career that had stood between them, that had caused her to overlook the true significance of Ivan's regard to her.

Now that the barrier had been lifted she saw vividly what lay beyond. She loved him. She had loved him all the time. The barrier—her career—had been false.

Her heart quickened its beat as she looked into the future—a bright, sparkling future with Ivan, having fun, being told she was beautiful and perfect.

She became eager. Tomorrow he was returning from Chicago. He would call her. She would meet him as usual. He would present his old argument, expecting her customary reply. Then she would tell him the truth, withholding nothing, admitting the falseness of the barrier that had stood between them.

She smiled, thinking of the expression that would come into his eyes. The telephone rang at five minutes after five.

"Meet me at Tony's for dinner. I can hardly wait."

"Of course. I'm glad you're back. It will be fun seeing you again." She was proud that she had been able to keep her voice the same.

She arrived early, sat down in the lobby, lighted a cigarette, picked up a magazine. She mustn't let him know at once. He mustn't read it in her eyes. She must wait until he became ardent, when they were seated at their cozy, customary table.

She heard his voice before she saw him. She looked up from the magazine's fashion page. He was standing directly in front of her. He was grinning. Beside him was a dark-eyed girl.

"You were right. I felt you were right all the time, but couldn't bring myself to admit it." He turned to the girl. "Here she is. The other girl. The one I can be happy with. We've been married a week. I've told her all about you. She's dying to meet me—career woman."

Portia rose. She was very proud of herself. She extended her hand. "Congratulations. Best wishes. I'm glad—so glad."

But her heart was breaking.

Busses Serve Army
The army is now giving the bus lines about 500,000 passengers per month, and about 400,000 tons of army freight are being moved monthly by commercial trucks.

USO Attendance High
USO clubs and centers have more than doubled in the last year, and the monthly attendance is now over 15,000,000.

Use Crates for Shipping
More than six billion feet of lumber will be used this year for boxes and crates to ship munitions, food and other war needs.

Make Repairs Efficiently
Repairs of tank cars in the eastern fuel-carrying service cut into oil deliveries in 1942 by less than one-tenth of 1 per cent.

Fungi Cause Bread Mold
Bread mold is caused by tiny spores of fungi in the air. The best sanitary precautions, air-conditioning and ultraviolet lamp treatment in modern bakeries cannot wholly eliminate mold, for it develops in bread after baking.

Industrial Injuries
A total of 49,877 industrial injuries compensable under either the Illinois Workmen's Compensation act or the Workmen's Occupational Diseases act was reported during 1942. Of this number, 49,377 are known to have occurred in Illinois, compared with 47,022 in 1941. In terms of population, this was a slight increase from 6.0 injuries per 1,000 population in 1941 to 6.3 per 1,000 in 1942, with a high in 1942 of 14.9 for the coal-producing industry.

Build Liberty Ships
Seventeen yards now work almost exclusively on the construction of Liberty ships. Each of these yards was especially designed and laid out for the express purpose of making Liberty ships. The production records of our American shipyards has been due, in a considerable measure, to this factor.

Prepare Concrete for Paint
In order to render the alkali in concrete harmless to paint, it is advisable to permit newly laid concrete to age for several months before painting. If it is inconvenient to wait for the weathering period, it is often helpful to wash the concrete with two pounds of zinc sulfate in a gallon of water. After allowing this to dry thoroughly, the paint may be applied with less likelihood of alkali damaging the film.

French Regency Period
French Regency was the period that technically lasted from 1715 to 1723, during the minority of Louis XV, when Philippe d'Orleans was regent for the young heir. However, the transition from the heavy grandeur of Louis XIV fashions at their height and the more feminine graceful delicacy of Louis XV modes actually had begun before the death of Louis XIV. The period of Philippe's regency was marked by excess, extravagance, exquisite curves.

Gas Loosens Electrons
For 40 years scientists have wondered why electrons—tiny particles of matter—will leap out of metal filaments that are coated with an oxide much more readily than they will leave plain metal. Dr. Harvey C. Rentschler engaged in an experiment which has provided science with a probable answer to the mystery. "Atoms of gas," he explained, "actually dissolve in the crystalline structure of some metals just as salt dissolves in water. These gas particles then 'loosen' the electrons in this structure, causing them to be emitted from the metal more readily when heat or light is applied."

Camp Fire Notes. Soangetaha's Red team, having been losers in the Birthday Honor "Serve by Saving" contest entertained the Blues last Friday morning at a swim in the canal at Bussell park and a breakfast outdoors. Among other things, they learned what not to do about building fires for cooking after a good rain the night before. They met again last Tuesday afternoon to work on their Victory Bazaar the end of this month, proceeds from which are to be invested in war stamps. Dot Kokes was hostess and the girls also made report of their stamp booth results. Aowakiya girls had an interesting hike last week, Tuesday. Four members expertly laid a trail of nature clues to follow and the others with their guardian, Mrs. Cochran, found themselves finally at the home of Clarence Benn, the hostess, for a nice picnic supper. Work on plans for camping in August was uppermost in the business discussion that followed. The group then hiked back to town in the evening. Eluta girls met with Betty Lu Lin last Wednesday afternoon. Mary Travis and Dot Kokes are leaders of the group during the absence of their guardian, Mrs. C. A. Anderson. They are helping the girls plan their summer meetings and supervising the work of these young members as Minute Maids at the war stamp booth during their week. The two older girls are also completing one of the Torch Bearer requirements they hope to finish this fall. The group meets this Wednesday afternoon with their young leaders at the home of Mary Travis. Cheskamay girls, ten strong, with their guardian, Miss Sylvia Iwanski, and Mrs. W. L. Blessing as assistant, took their annual camping trip on the left bank of the river by Elvria. They spent from Thursday through Saturday under a big tent, doing their cooking, working on Camp Fire outdoor honors, and just having fun. The trip came as a reward for a lot of hard work well done the past year and the girls enjoyed it immensely. Examinations for Temporary Teaching Certificates. All regularly certified teachers who have not contracted and who wish a teaching position this fall are asked to get in touch with the county superintendent immediately. Under the law the county superintendent must certify to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction that there are no regularly certified teachers available before the Boards of Education can make application for temporary teachers holding temporary certificates. Any teacher who held a temporary certificate last year may qualify for a renewal by taking a special examination which will be held in a number of cities in the state. Cities in this territory where the examinations will be conducted are Albion on August 5, O'Neill on August 6, Broken Bow on August 7 and Grand Island on August 14. Anyone planning to take this examination should register and pay the fee of $15.00 in the county superintendent's office not later than July 26. Further information on this examination will be given at the office of any county superintendent. Clara M. McClatchey, County Superintendent of Valley County. Ord Minute Maids on the Job. "Take some absent service man to the show"—when coming in to the local theatre and buying your ticket at the box office, turn around and spend its equivalent in war stamps at the theatre stamp booth. That way you can pretend to take Johnny Doakes, now at Camp Haan, Fort Knox, Randolph Field, or perhaps "somewhere in Africa, Australia or Sicily" to the show when you go. The local Camp Fire girls have been taking their turn serving Manpower on the Home Front Thousands of men arriving for work in a Bethlehem shipyard. Down this yard's busy shipways slide many of the nation's cruisers, destroyers and aircraft carriers. Bethlehem repeatedly has made records for delivering vessels well ahead of schedule. This is the story of manpower in Bethlehem steel mills and shipyards, of men and women who have come by the thousands from all walks of life to do a job in backing up our fighting forces with a continuous flood of materials. These men and women are vital to the battle of production. Manpower at Bethlehem Steel has been multiplied three times in three and a half years. Here are the figures: NUMBER OF BETHLEHEM EMPLOYEES Poland invaded, September 1939 106,000 Fall of France, summer 1940 120,000 Pearl Harbor, December 1941 190,000 Tunisia, May 1943 290,000 Facts About Bethlehem Workers Manpower is the heart of Bethlehem's current production of a ship a day. Manpower makes possible the meeting of its large commitments for ordnance and other war-stead products. All other problems such as materials and supplies are secondary — the essential dependence is on manpower. Thousands of men from non-essential trades are joining Bethlehem war-work armies. More than 13,000 women are employed at Bethlehem plants and shipyards, and the number is constantly increasing. Veteran employees are zealously teaching the newcomers, so that they can quickly handle their appointed tasks. New employees earn while they learn, in special training classes and in on-the-job training. Sympathetic study of each person's abilities puts "square pegs in square holes." Wages are the highest in the history of shipbuilding and steel, and in the top group of all industries. Promotion is rapid, as opportunity to advance comes far more swiftly than under normal conditions. Bethlehem employees are friendly, high-grade people. The great majority have education in the high school grades, and thousands are graduates of colleges, crafts and professions. More than 50,000 Bethlehem employees are now serving in the armed forces, a fact which gives added seriousness of purpose to those working to produce the supplies. To work in Bethlehem shipyards and plants is to be in the front line of industry, doing a real job to help win the war. SOME NEW BETHLEHEM EMPLOYEES FROM VARIOUS OCCUPATIONS From leather worker, to machine operator. From driller on jewelry, to burner. From autosalesman, to materials inspector. From plumber, to meter repairman. From office clerk, to ship draftsman. From delivery man, to furnace loader.

Bethlehem repeatedly has made records for delivering vessels well ahead of schedule. Employment in Bethlehem's shipbuilding and ship repair yards alone has grown from 15,000 in 1939, to nearly 180,000. The enlistment in our manpower army continues from week to week and from month to month. The total of Bethlehem employees will exceed 300,000 by the end of the year. To reach this total force, and provide for replacements of those going into the armed services and others, many thousands more men and women will be hired. March of Time

Yoncalla, Ore., July 12.
To the Editor of the Quiz:
I see by my paper that my time is almost up, so am inclosing money to renew my subscription for another year.
All the people from Ord and Broken Bow, who live here, are well. All have bought homes and seem to like the country.
Myself and wife are living in town. Our son, Robert bought a place, with a house partly finished and we are finishing it as fast as possible. Lavern, our oldest son, is living in Sacramento, Calif. Leroy is living in Longview, Wash., and has bought a home there. Myself and wife are enjoying the best of health and am working most of the time.
The weather is fine here, not too hot or too cold. No wind to speak of and very little thunder or lightning.

The fruit crop is not as good as usual, as the late frost got most of the strawberries. Other berries are good. Gardens are fine here, as good as I ever saw.
The season is about as far advanced as in Valley county.
Wages are good also and everybody who wants to work can get a job.
Lots of farms changing hands.
Buyers from the middle west,
California and Washington also.
When the Alaska highway is finished, this locality will be right on the main trail.
Give my old friends my best regards.

Yours truly,
Tom Lambdin.

There have been no adverse re-

Needed Rain Falls Monday But Hail Did Heavy Damage

Territory Southwest of Ord, Also on Haskell Creek, in Worst Hail Districts.

A heavy rain, badly needed by the corn, fell Monday and was general throughout the county but in many sections was accompanied by a damaging hail storm.

Moisture total in Ord was unofficially measured at 1 1/4 inches and a consensus of reports shows that it measured from 1 to 2 inches throughout the territory. North Loup had only .48 of an inch.

Brunt of the hail storm was taken by the community southwest of Ord, extending out 7 or 8 miles. Directly west of town considerable hail fell also, and north of Ord throughout the Haskell Creek area.

Some farmers say the leaves of their corn were stripped but that the crop will make a come-back but others insist damage to their corn will be almost total.

Compared to the corn acreage of the entire county the hauled acreage is negligible, though the hail caused a serious loss to individual farmers.

The rain was accompanied by an extremely high wind and a severe electrical storm. It began shortly after 8 o'clock in Ord and lasted until about 9:30. Other sections got rain earlier and another rain about midnight.

Corn was badly in need of moisture everywhere so except in the hail districts the storm was greeted with pleasure by farmers and land owners.

The hot weather of the past week, and the dry weather which has lasted throughout July, was beginning to take its toll on the crop, which is now in the tasseling stage. Sunday many fields showed rolled leaves and a few leaves turning brown from the strong sun and hot winds but no drought damage had been done and the general rain Monday night removes the threat of drought for the present.

Grasshoppers are causing much damage in certain sections but the general crop picture is very good throughout Valley county.

Richard M. Laverty Passes in Omaha

Mrs. G. W. Taylor, of Ord and Guy Laverty, of Burwell, left Sunday afternoon for Omaha to attend the funeral of their brother, Richard M. Laverty, at Grace M. E. church. He was 69 years old.

He was born in Cass county, the son of A. A. and Mary Laverty, and moved to Valley county with his parents in 1884. He was graduated from Ord high school June 6, 1890, in the first class ever to graduate from this school.

In the commission business since 1898, Mr. Laverty had been owner and manager of the firm of Laverty Bros. since 1916. He has been president of the Omaha Livestock Exchange and for many years was active on the board of directors. He served on the South Omaha board of education many years.

He is survived by his wife, one son, Richard H., three daughters, Mrs. Ruth Darst, Mrs. Mary Alice Welton and Mrs. Cora Boehler and by two brothers, Guy and Jay, and two sisters, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Cora Sellick.

Soldiers in Alaska Find Time to Laugh

From Sergeant Corwin D. Cummins, who is in the U. S. army somewhere in Alaska, comes a story that is making the rounds of the camps in Alaska and the Aleutians, proving that soldiers still find time to joke while they go about the grim business of fighting the Japanese. As told by Sgt. Cummins the story goes:

"After things had cooled off a bit in the battle of Attu one soldier complained to his first sergeant that he hadn't had a chance to kill a Jap."

"Just go up the hill and yell to h--- with Tojo, and you'll get your chance," his sergeant advised.

"Pretty soon the soldier came back and the sergeant asked him if he had killed his Jap and the soldier answered:

"No, I didn't. I went up the hill and shouted to h--- with Tojo, the way you told me to, and a Jap jumped up from behind a rock and yelled to h--- with Roosevelt, and you wouldn't expect me to shoot a Republican, would you?"

John and Leonard Savage had their tonsils removed at the Clinic hospital Tuesday by Dr. Barta.

Leggett Appointed Ak Ambassador

The appointment of E. C. Leggett as its ambassador of good will for Ord and surrounding territory, has just been announced by Ak-Sar-Ben.

Although the war has made it necessary for the Omaha organization to curtail such peace-time activities as its annual spring race meet, den show and ice events at Ak-Sar-Ben field and coliseum, Ak-Sar-Ben enters its 49th year of unselfish service to the middle west with a renewed pledge of aid to the war effort, points out President J. E. Davidson.

Two important activities on Ak-Sar-Ben's wartime calendar are the series of "Smiles for Soldiers" outdoor shows being staged in Creighton University's football stadium, for the entertainment of all service men and women on duty in this area, and the 1943 Ak-Sar-Ben 4-H Baby Beef show, which will be held in Omaha October 6th, 7th and 8th.

The baby beef show, largest in the world, will be conducted primarily to encourage improved and expanded livestock production by midwestern farm youths, Davidson said. Including classes for market swine, a number of them new, the show ties in closely with the "Food for Freedom" program that Ak-Sar-Ben is conducting again this year in cooperation with state 4-H organizations.

Dry Rally Sunday Eve at No. Loup

Harold D. Wilson, who won the colorful title of "Three Gun" while federal prohibition administrator, U. S. Department of Justice has challenged the clergy of the state with this statement:

"The traffickers in liquor are more panicky over the present liquor situation than the aggressiveness of the dries would seem to warrant. It is time the churches awake to their great responsibility in these crucial days. Intoxicating beverages jeopardize health and our economic security, but they are above all a menace to morality. Alcohol is paralyzing the conscience of America. Beer, wine and whisky are our chief saboteurs since they slow down mental and physical reaction, thus retarding production."

"Three-Gun" Wilson.

The ministers of North Loup have unanimously endorsed Mr. Wilson's statement and invited him to speak at a union evening mass meeting in the Methodist church, North Loup, 8:30 o'clock, Sunday, August 1. This is a community meeting and is scheduled in conjunction with similar meetings throughout the state.

Mr. Wilson is the state executive director of allied dry forces of Nebraska. Quoting Mr. Wilson: "It is not the purpose of the allied dry organization to inject the national prohibition issue into these crucial war days but we are unalterably opposed to the constantly increasing sales promotion activities of the liquor barons. We charge the traffickers with unconscionable profit-motivated efforts to capitalize the increased spending licentiousness of war."

"Intoxicating beverages are at best nonessential luxuries. They do not belong in the category of food or essentials and certainly should be subject to all the rationing restrictions applied to other nonessentials."

"We are particularly concerned with the efficiency demands of our all-out war effort. Government records show millions of labor hours lost through dissipation. Drinking under such conditions is sabotage. We are also intensely interested in the safety of our service men defenders. Liquor and safety are as impossible as the gestapo and liberty. Some very definite fireworks are promised with respect to the U. S. OWI (Office of War Information) report whitewashing beer as an alleged non-intoxicating beverage."

Miss Frances Houtby is spending this week in the A. J. Sevenker home.

Government Buys 215 Million Acres of Land for War

50 Billion in War Property Must Be Liquidated Fairly After War—Miller.

The United States government has bought 215 million acres of land for army camps, defense factories, bombing ranges and other war purposes, said A. I. Miller, 4th District congressman, in a talk before the Ord Chamber of Commerce last Friday evening. After the war this must be liquidated in orderly manner and Congress has set up machinery for the purpose, he said.

The physical property acquired for conduct of the war will be worth at least 50 billion dollars when the war ends, he estimated. There are tens of thousands of trucks, jeeps and automobiles scattered throughout the world, as an example.

"After the last war," Miller said, "this property got into the hands of speculators who bought it for a small amount and then re-sold it to the public at a huge profit." This must not happen again.

"He believes that land acquired by the government should first be offered to the original owners, or perhaps sold for homesteads to returning soldiers. He pleaded for economic chaos that would result if machinery isn't set up now for the orderly liquidation of property to this immense value when the need for it in war is past."

Congressman Miller's talk was made in the Masonic hall basement where the crowd of businessmen and farmers was driven by the heat which made the Knights of Columbus hall untenable.

Miller expressed disapproval of current OPA threats to cut the value of A coupons in the Midwest and said he has protested any such cuts to Petroleum Administrator Ickes.

Drive for Records Still Continuing

The campaign for records for our fighting men sponsored by the American Legion and Auxiliary closes July 31. The response has been fairly good, but there still must be hundreds of records in this community which are not being used and which would provide scrap necessary for the manufacture of new ones. The money realized from the sale of this scrap is to be used to buy new records for the army, navy, marine corps and coast guard. Everyone with a record player is urged to look through his collection of records again and donate a few to this worthy cause. Leave them at the bakery or Russell's drug store, or call any of the following: Mrs. Keith Lewis, Mrs. Syl Furtak, Mrs. Verne Russell, Cecil Clark, Bob Hall.

Oct. 15 Deadline for Xmas Gifts Going Overseas

Mailing Will Start Sept. 15, End Oct. 15, to Assure Delivery by Christmas.

All Christmas packages for overseas delivery must be mailed by Oct. 15, and Christmas cards to naval personnel anywhere must be mailed not later than Nov. 1, said Postmaster A. L. Hill yesterday, upon receipt of new instructions from the postoffice department. Christmas packages for overseas delivery will be accepted without a request form signed by the addressee between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15 only, he stated.

The term "armed forces overseas" means anybody who receives his mail through an A. P. O. or fleet postoffice in care of the postmaster at New York, San Francisco, New Orleans, Miami, Presque Isle, Me., or Seattle, or through a naval installation or station in care of the postmaster at Seattle.

In view of the urgent need for shipping space Christmas parcels must not exceed the present limits of 5 pounds in weight and 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined, Postmaster Hill says. Because of the long distances packages must travel they should be carefully packed in wooden, metal or strong fibreboard boxes, wrapped in strong paper and tied with strong twine. It is urged that no food or clothing be sent, as soldiers are amply supplied with these. Perishables are, of course, prohibited from Christmas packages.

First Train Came in 57 Years Ago

Sunday, August 31 will be the fifty-seventh anniversary of the arrival of the first regularly scheduled train in Ord, says Mrs. C. E. McGrew, who remembers the exact date so well because that day was her 14th birthday and also because she had arrived in Ord only a few days before on the last trip the old stage coach ever made to this city, from North Loup, which had been the previous railroad of the Union Pacific branch line.

About midnight Saturday a car near the Service Oil company burst into flames and the fire alarm was sounded but before the department had time to answer the fire burned through the radiator coupling and water streamed from the car radiator to extinguish the engine blaze.

Heat Suffocation Causes Death of Mrs. Nay Sunday

79-Year-Old Ord Woman Had Been in Frail Health; Funeral Held Wednesday.

In frail health several years Mrs. Robert Nay, 79, died about 10 o'clock Sunday morning at her home in Ord. Although she had been bedfast most of the time for three weeks and her condition was regarded as serious, the immediate cause of her death was heat suffocation, it is believed.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 Wednesday afternoon at the Frazier chapel with Rev. M. Marvin Long officiating and interment was made in Ord cemetery beside her husband, who died several years ago.

Margaret Fraser was born in Canada on July 28, 1864 and her marriage to Robert Nay occurred Dec. 21, 1882 in Bracebridge, the young couple leaving immediately for a new home in Valley county, Nebr.

Five children were born to them, one daughter, Mrs. Emma Mensing, dying Nov. 14, 1914. Left to mourn is one daughter, Mrs. Minnie Timmerman, Maywood, Calif., and three sons, Dr. Wilbert Nay, Albion, Nebr., George Nay and Dr. Lee C. Nay, of Ord. There also are a number of grandchildren, Everett and Lloyd Timmerman, Mrs. Helen Irlig, Mrs. Alice Collins, Randall Mensing, Vernon Nay, Mildred Nay, Dana Nay Lloyd Nay and Barbara Nay.

From 1880 until the spring of 1915 the Nay home was on a homestead east of Ord where they were highly respected and loved by their neighbors. In 1915 they moved to Ord and this remained Mrs. Nay's home until her death. In the closing years of her life she lived in a small house at the rear of the home occupied by her son, Dr. Nay and family, and she greatly enjoyed caring for her own needs and keeping house for herself, which she did until only a few days before her death.

Values Jap Skull as Battle Souvenir

As a grisly reminder of the 117 days he spent in the front lines on Guadalcanal Island, Jack Messenger brought home the skull of a Jap soldier, he told members of the Ord Rotary club. The skull was sent to his sister in California and is now enroute to Messenger at Burwell, he said.

The Burwell boy, a member of the U. S. marine corps, stumbled on the Jap while he was on scouting duty. The Jap was armed with a machine gun, Messenger with a rifle, but he beat the Jap to the draw and killed him. Passing the spot on patrol a few weeks later he found the skeleton of the Japanese soldier and removed the head which he later cleaned and covered with shellac to preserve it as a souvenir.

This skull wasn't the only souvenir of the fierce fighting that the Burwell marine brought home. At Rotary club Monday evening he passed around a Jap sniper's rifle with bayonet, Jap cartridge case, sailor's cap, various pieces of ammunition and armament, as well as native tapestries and wearing apparel.

Messenger told of the landing of his division of marines at Guadalcanal in the face of fierce Japanese artillery fire, and the subsequent fighting which resulted in the capture of Henderson air field and the rest of the island.

Modestly he told of one scouting expedition manned by 20 volunteers of whom he "happened to be one" which penetrated a Japanese camp manned by about 900 men and laid nearly all day within a few feet of a bath along which Jap soldiers moved about their duties. Eventually the Japanese discovered the scouting party but in a running battle the 20 marines escaped without loss of a man, killing several times their own number of the enemy.

He paid credit to the Japanese as a fierce fighter and a dangerous adversary. Quite a number of female snipers are seen in the Japanese army and some of the Jap bombers have women radio operators, he said. From a ridge on the Island Messenger witnessed the battle of the Coral Sea in which the U. S. navy defeated a strong Jap fleet, and told about it in detail.

Mrs. Blomond's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Bouma, have received a letter from relatives in Holland, cleared through the International Red Cross, stating that two elderly relatives have died but that other members of the family are well. They wrote to their Dutch relatives through the Red Cross last July and it took an entire year to get an answer.

Floyd Beranek to Head Co. War Fund

Thomas C. Woods, state chairman, and Walter F. Roberts, state director of the Nebraska War Fund, announced in Lincoln this week that Floyd Beranek of Ord has been chosen to head the Fund in Valley county. The selection was made upon the recommendation of Harold A. Prince, Grand Island, district chairman.

"We are fortunate," said Mr. Woods, "to have a man of Mr. Beranek's calibre as a member of our organization. I feel he is doing a real public service by accepting."

"As chairman of Valley county, Mr. Beranek has undertaken the responsibility of raising the county war fund quota. We will endeavor to raise these funds during October and November. The state-wide United War Fund committee has pledged itself to raise approximately $950,000 in Nebraska at the same time."

"The money raised by the United War Fund goes to sixteen war relief agencies including the U. S. O.; War Prisoners Aid; United China Relief; United Seamen's Service; British War Relief; Greek, Polish and Russian Relief."

"Formerly," continued Mr. Woods, "each of the sixteen relief agencies now participating in the United War Fund conducted its own campaign. The United War Fund has combined them into one to better serve the relief needs on the military, the home and the allied fronts. We have a tremendous and vitally important job to do in providing a few essentials that will bolster the morale and effectiveness of the allied peoples now engaged in a war that must be won to preserve America. I am sure that the citizens of Valley county will be generous in their response."

Mr. Beranek is expected to appoint the other members of the local United War Fund committee in the near future. Their names will be announced as soon as the appointments have been made.

Mrs. C. J. Mortensen of Ord is serving, by appointment of Thomas C. Woods, state chairman as a member of the State War Fund Board of Trustees.

Interest Grows in Alfalfa Mill

There is every indication, said Robert Noll, of Noll Seed Co., this morning, that the Saunders Mills, Inc., of Toledo, O., are definitely considering installation of an alfalfa mill here this summer and he expects representatives of the concern to be here before the end of the week to make a final decision.

He believes the Saunders people are more likely to build their own mill than to buy the Dickinson seed house which would require extensive remodeling. The building probably would be located between the Burlington and Union Pacific tracks.

Alfalfa growers are showing more interest in the alfalfa mill proposition, said County Agent C. C. Dale this week. Land owners are especially interested, he said, for an alfalfa mill would furnish a cash market for their share of the hay crop, something that has been lacking at many times in the past.

Saunders Mills, Inc., began construction of an alfalfa mill Monday morning at Tekamah and will build two others in Nebraska, probably at Kearney and Ord.

I. J. Thelin Dies Wedn. Morning

North Loup—(Special)—Irvin J. Thelin, agent here at the Union Pacific depot for over 35 years, died early Wednesday morning in St. Francis hospital at Grand Island. He had been there for treatments, was brought home last week and then when his condition grew worse he was taken back to the hospital Friday night. No further particulars were given in the message received by friends from Mrs. Thelin and funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Catfish Biting Good

"Hash" McGrew was flourishing a string of catfish Sunday evening that any of Ord's veteran fishermen would have been proud to display. He had nine fish, the largest weighing 6 pounds, another 5 and another 3 pounds, and the nine had a total weight of 18 pounds. Another fisherman who had good luck Sunday evening was John L. Andersen, who caught three fish, the largest weighing 7 pounds. Others are likewise reporting good catches so apparently the catfish are coming up the North Loup river again.

Billy Udell, 18, Drowns Friday in Irrigation Ditch

Was Expert Swimmer, Tried to Dive Through Underpass in Water 45 Minutes.

Burwell—(Special)—Billy Udell, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Udell, was drowned Friday afternoon in the canal of the irrigation ditch near the C. J. Bleach farm south of town. An expert swimmer, boy tried to dive through an underpass into the deeper water below the drop and his body came lodged in the underpass. Firemen called by his swimming companion, Sterling Horn, dived for his body and used resuscitator in vain.

The boy had been irrigating that hot afternoon and in company with his friend Horn who had been thrashing, went to the canal shortly before 6 for a swim. They had been below the drop and his body came lodged in the underpass. Firemen called by his swimming companion, Sterling Horn, dived for his body and used resuscitator in vain.

Evidently he did not realize how swift the undercurrent was or possibly thought under-current and dive into deep water at the edge of a box. His companion, who was just learning to swim, really the danger and shouted to Udell not to jump there but he already dived and did not reappear.

Billy Udell.

Young Horner tried to stop the force of the water by putting the drop boards and the drove the car to the near farm, that of Leslie Westover to call help. Neighbors arrived promptly and several members of the Burwell fire department came with the resuscitator. For men, Floyd and Peanuts Anderson, Hans Rohde and Jack Messenger, worked fanatically to locate him and the lodged body finally was brought to the surface by Rhode. It had been the water about 45 minutes.

The resuscitator was used but there was little water in the boy's lungs and bruises on his head showed that he had probably been knocked unconscious in diving.

The Udell family live in town and farm a portion of the Brownell farm, moving to the community from Kansas about 1935, though they had lived here before the first World War, which Mr. Udell served France, as a result of which his health was impaired. Billy, the greater share of the farm work but was anxious to get to the army and planned to do so this fall.

He was graduated from Burwell high school in 1942 and was popular with his classmates serving as president of the senior class. He was a member of the band, football team and sang in the glee club, as well as being active in dramatics.

He was born in Kanorado Kans., Oct. 22, 1924, began school there and continued the schools of Kanorado until the family moved to this community. Besides his parents he leaves two brothers, Keith and Jackie, and one sister, Mrs. Maletta Donner, as well as his grandfather, W. W. Udell, who lives with the family. He was member of the Congregation church.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the church with Rev. Harold Milliken, the Christian church officiating. Pallbearers were Carol Donner, Roy Wilson, Don Wilson, Sterling Horner, Rodney Key and Jack Messenger. Interment was in Burwell cemetery.

Will Sell Sept. 29th. E. J. Daly, of Burwell, is planning to hold a purebred Herford sale on Sept. 29, he said while in Ord Saturday.

Disease Declines Stock
If one-half of the livestock in the nation that dies of preventable disease each year were saved, it would supply the additional meats and animal foods that we need under war conditions.

Quinine Source Slow
Present efforts to reforest cinchona trees in South America have not as yet produced a new quinine supply since seven to ten years are required for the bark to become suitable for stripping. The stripping process kills the tree, so that continuous replanting is essential.

Coals Melt Before Burning
All coals melt and then form into coke before they burn. Some, however, do this to a greater extent than others and they are called "coking" coals, and the others are called "free-burning" coals, although the process in both cases is actually the same and there is no distinct dividing line between the two types of coal.

Hospitals Busy
During the year 1942 one person entered a hospital in the United States as a patient every 2.5 seconds.

Prune Vines
Grape vines should be pruned severely each year, to get good clusters of grapes, and to maintain the vigor of the vines.

Malaria Frequency High
A study made by the League of Nations Health organization in 1932 revealed that 17,750,700 malarial cases received medical treatment in 65 countries during that year, with an additional unknown number of cases untreated and unreported. In 1935, 25 per cent of all deaths reported in the British colonies resulted from malaria.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Honolulu, T. H. July 17, 1943

To the Quiz:
If I don't write often, it is not for lack of something to write about. Plenty is going on here all the time, but nine-tenths of it is forbidden, and I don't think even Asa Anderson can set a letter cut full of holes. So I will continue to write what I am certain will get through, and you will just have to read the rest between the lines.

I want to explain a few facts, and will try to do so in such a way that they will get through to Ord. First, while it is true that our work is easy here, there is a good reason. Nobody could stand it to work as men do in the states, the climate makes it impossible. As one man aptly put it, a fellow earns his money just staying here, even if he didn't work at all. The men who have lived here all their lives can stand the weather, but it is quite different with the men who came from the states, especially from high altitudes.

Secondly, as to wages. A man who has a family in the states really makes less here than he does there, as he has to support them and also pay well for his board and room here. Many men are finding this out, and they are going home every time a boat leaves. Then, the wages are fine for the man who is a specialist in his line, but many of the common laborers get less than fifty dollars per week, and it would surprise you how many of them there are here. Out of this he must keep fifteen or twenty to pay his keep here, and the rest don't look very big in the states with prices as high as they are.

It seems that we are partly rid of some of the details which made it tough for us. After ten months the military governor has ordered a relaxation of the blackout regulations, and you don't have to close everything up at dark now, but the windows can remain open until ten p. m. You can't realize what this meant to us as you have never been in a blackout more than a few minutes at a time. We have had one steady for ten months, and of course it was in force ever since the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

One of the things we certainly didn't like was to lug a gas mask with us to work. The service men had to carry their helmets all the time, also, whether on furlough or on duty. They were always in everybody's way. Every day the crowd in Honolulu is worse than on the busiest streets in the big cities, and by the time a man bucked up against those masks and helmets for a few hours he was ready for the hospital or the insane asylum. It was not so bad for the service men themselves, for they were used to it, but it was tough on the rest of us.

The service men have been freed of carrying their masks and helmets while on vacation for some time now, and more recently the workers were told they would not need to carry their masks when they went to work. It means more comfort and the men are in a much better frame of mind.

While on the subject of unpleasant things, I might mention the lines we have to stand in, three times per day at the mess hall, at the picture show, in the store, at the soda fountain, at the administration office where we get our checks cashed and pay our rent, at the coffee shops, and even when you go to church. Those who want it must stand in a long line to get their beer here or in an equally long line for liquor in Honolulu. The workers in Pearl Harbor must stand in line to get a ride on the buses.

The worst nuisances here are the belyachers. Almost without exception they are getting better pay here than they got at home, but they belyache and wish they could go home. Most of them can't as they rushed out here to keep out of the armed forces. They form about five per cent of the total that comes from the states, but they make more noise than all the rest. After a while most of them get wise to themselves and learn to shut up or somebody shuts them up.

They make all the disturbance in the beer garden, the picture show, the mess halls, and at the ball games. One fellow was always offering to fight anybody who didn't agree with him, and he got called beautifully by a little fellow, who said: "If you wanted to fight so damned bad, why didn't you stay at home and do your fighting in the army?" He hasn't offered to fight since then.

The Nebraska club, of which I am secretary, is having a flag made, it being impossible to obtain one already made. In fact Hillig and I are designing it. The official flag is the state seal on a field of flag blue. In due time it will be presented in a fitting ceremony to be hung in the recreation hall, now known as the "Hall of Flags." Today I received a very fine letter from Governor Dwight Griswold, commending us upon our energy in getting a flag for this purpose. This letter will be read at the flag raising ceremony.

I am enclosing a clipping telling of the raising of $16,000 in the territory by the sale of poppies. It might be of interest to Quiz readers to know that Area 3 went over big, as usual, and the average amount received per poppy was 40c. Recently I was announced that a man who had recently underwent an operation at a Honolulu hospital was in bad financial circumstances. A free will offering was taken for him at a ball game and $165 was raised in less than five minutes. That is one of the pleasant features of living here. Everybody is free hearted in time of need.

Speaking of entertainment the one thing we really enjoy here is the ball games. The usually start at 5 p. m., and most of the boys can get there at that time. There are plenty of seats and they are all free. Also it is everybody's privilege to help tip umpire out on every possible occasion. I saw two games which were different from any I ever saw anywhere before. About a month ago I had the pleasure of seeing a local team held without a hit for nine innings by a army outfit. I took a picture of the score board to prove it. Night before last the umpire got mixed up and said there were two out in the first half of the ninth inning when there were actually three out. The team that went on to score seven runs after there were three out, an win the game. It nearly caused a riot. Well, that's all, now.

Its Patriotic to "Share the Meat"

Since the ration program went into effect a rush to use surplus red coupons has created temporary shortages which mean that some people have been unable to buy the meat they needed.

We urge our customers to let your red coupons expire if you don't actually need the meat, and spend the money you save on war stamps.

Its patriotic to share the meat, and its patriotic to buy war bonds and stamps. Lets do both of them.

If one-half of the livestock in the nation that dies of preventable disease each year were saved, it would supply the additional meats and animal foods that we need under war conditions.

Quinine Source Slow
Present efforts to reforest cinchona trees in South America have not as yet produced a new quinine supply since seven to ten years are required for the bark to become suitable for stripping. The stripping process kills the tree, so that continuous replanting is essential.

All coals melt and then form into coke before they burn. months the military governor has ordered a relaxation of the blackout regulations, and you don't have to close everything up at dark now, but the windows can remain open until ten p. m. You can't realize what this meant to us as you have never been in a blackout more than a few minutes at a time. We have had one steady for ten months, and of course it was in force ever since the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

One of the things we certainly didn't like was to lug a gas mask with us to work. The service men had to carry their helmets all the time, also, whether on furlough or on duty. They were always in everybody's way. Every day the crowd in Honolulu is worse than on the busiest streets in the big cities, and by the time a man bucked up against those masks and helmets for a few hours he was ready for the hospital or the insane asylum. It was not so bad for the service men themselves, for they were used to it, but it was tough on the rest of us.

The service men have been freed of carrying their masks and helmets while on vacation for some time now, and more recently the workers were told they would not need to carry their masks when they went to work. It means more comfort and the men are in a much better frame of mind.

While on the subject of unpleasant things, I might mention the lines we have to stand in, three times per day at the mess hall, at the picture show, in the store, at the soda fountain, at the administration office where we get our checks cashed and pay our rent, at the coffee shops, and even when you go to church. Those who want it must stand in a long line to get their beer here or in an equally long line for liquor in Honolulu. The workers in Pearl Harbor must stand in line to get a ride on the buses.

The worst nuisances here are the bellyachers. Almost without exception they are getting better pay here than they got at home, but they bellyache and wish they could go home. Most of them can't as they rushed out here to keep out of the armed forces. They form about five per cent of the total that comes from the states, but they make more noise than all the rest. After a while most of them get wise to themselves and learn to shut up or somebody shuts them up.

They make all the disturbance in the beer garden, the picture show, the mess halls, and at the ball games. One fellow was always offering to fight anybody who didn't agree with him, and he got called beautifully by a little fellow, who said: "If you wanted to fight so damned bad why didn't you stay at home and do your fighting in the army?" He hasn't offered to fight since then.

Its Patriotic to "Share the Meat"

Since the ration program went into effect a rush to use surplus red coupons has created temporary shortages which mean that some people have been unable to buy the meat they needed.

We urge our customers to let your red coupons expire if you don't actually need the meat, and spend the money you save on war stamps.

Its patriotic to share the meat, and its patriotic to buy war bonds and stamps. Lets do both of them.

Also everybody's privilege to help umpire out on every possible case. I saw two games were different from any I saw anywhere before. About month ago I had the pleasure of a local team held a hit for nine innings by army outfit. I took a picture of the score board to prove Night before last the umpire mixed up and said there were two out in the first half of ninth inning when there actually three out. The ball went on to score seven after there were three out win the game. It nearly caused a riot. Well, that's all, no

Disease Decimates Stock
If one-half of the livestock in the nation that dies of preventable disease each year were saved, it would supply the additional meats and animal foods that we need under war conditions.

Quinine Source Slow

All coals melt and then form into coke before they burn. LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Honolulu, T. H., July 17, 1943
To the Quiz:
If I don't write often, it is not for lack of something to write about. Plenty is going on here all the time, but nine-tenths of it is forbidden, and I don't think even Asa Anderson can set a letter cut full of holes. So I will continue to write what I am certain will get through, and you will just have to read the rest between the lines.

I want to explain a few facts, and will try to do so in such a way that they will get through to Ord. First, while it is true that our work is easy here, there is a good reason. Nobody could stand it to work as men do in the states, the climate makes it impossible. As one man aptly put it, a fellow earns his money just staying here, even if he didn't work at all. The men who have lived here all their lives can stand the weather, but it is quite different with the men who came from the states, especially from high altitudes.

Secondly, as to wages. A man who has a family in the states really makes less here than he does there, as he has to support them and also pay well for his board and room here. Many men are finding this out, and they are going home every time a boat leaves. Then, the wages are fine for the man who is a specialist in his line, but many of the common laborers get less than fifty dollars per week, and it would surprise you how many of them there are here. Out of this he must keep fifteen or twenty to pay his keep here, and the rest don't look very big in the states with prices as high as they are.

It seems that we are partly rid of some of the details which made it tough for us. After ten months the military governor has ordered a relaxation of the blackout regulations, and you don't have to close everything up at dark now, but the windows can remain open until ten p. m. You can't realize what this meant to us as you have never been in a blackout more than a few minutes at a time. We have had one steady for ten months, and of course it was in force ever since the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

One of the things we certainly didn't like was to lug a gas mask with us to work. The service men had to carry their helmets all the time, also, whether on furlough or on duty. They were always in everybody's way. Every day the crowd in Honolulu is worse than on the busiest streets in the big cities, and by the time a man bucked up against those masks and helmets for a few hours he was ready for the hospital or the insane asylum. It was not so bad for the service men themselves, for they were used to it, but it was tough on the rest of us.

The service men have been freed of carrying their masks and helmets while on vacation for some time now, and more recently the workers were told they would not need to carry their masks when they went to work. It means more comfort and the men are in a much better frame of mind.

While on the subject of unpleasant things, I might mention the lines we have to stand in, three times per day at the mess hall, at the picture show, in the store, at the soda fountain, at the administration office where we get our checks cashed and pay our rent, at the coffee shops, and even when you go to church. Those who want it must stand in a long line to get their beer here or in an equally long line for liquor in Honolulu. The workers in Pearl Harbor must stand in line to get a ride on the buses.

The worst nuisances here are the bellyachers. Almost without exception they are getting better pay here than they got at home, but they bellyache and wish they could go home. Most of them can't as they rushed out here to keep out of the armed forces. They form about five per cent of the total that comes from the states, but they make more noise than all the rest. After a while most of them get wise to themselves and learn to shut up or somebody shuts them up.

They make all the disturbance in the beer garden, the picture show, the mess halls, and at the ball games. One fellow was always offering to fight anybody who didn't agree with him, and he got called beautifully by a little fellow, who said: "If you wanted to fight so damned bad, why didn't you stay at home and do your fighting in the army?" He hasn't offered to fight since then.

Shop 096, our new shop, is growing rapidly, and we are getting to be quite an important shop here, in fact, the only shop in Area 3. The rest are down at

Speaking of entertainment, the one thing we really enjoy here is the ball games. They usually start at 5 p. m., and most of the boys can get there at that time. There are plenty of seats, and they are all free. Also it is everybody's privilege to help the umpire out on every possible occasion. I saw two games which were different from any I ever saw anywhere before. About a month ago I had the pleasure of seeing a local team held without a hit for nine innings by an army outfit. I took a picture of the score board to prove it. Night before last the umpire got mixed up and said there were two out in the first half of the ninth inning when there were actually three out. The team at bat went on to score seven runs after there were three out, and win the game. It nearly caused a riot. Well, that's all, now.

Pearl Harbor. Several improvements have been made lately, and the workmen will start soon on an addition most of the way along one side of the present building. The work will be done by our own carpenters, painters, plumbers and electricians, to say nothing of a fine bunch of laborers. Technically, I am the only sign writer in the shop. We have Ching, loaned us by Shop 71, and Hillig, who is snapper for the painter crew and does not find much time to work on signs. By the time I get home I should be as good a sign man as any in the business. Whatever I do, I know I will work on my own, as I did at Burwell.

The Nebraska club, of which I am secretary, is having a flag made, it being impossible to obtain one already made. In fact, Hillig and I are designing it. The official flag is the state seal on a field of flag blue. In due time it will be presented in a fitting ceremony to be hung in the recreation hall, now known as the "Hall of Flags." Today I received a very fine letter from Governor Dwight Griswold, commending us upon our energy in getting a flag for this purpose. This letter will be read at the flag raising ceremony.

I am enclosing a clipping telling of the raising of $16,000 in the territory by the sale of poppies. It might be of interest to Quiz readers to know that Area 3 went over big, as usual, and the average amount received per poppy was 40c. Recently it was announced that a man who had recently underwent an operation at a Honolulu hospital was in bad financial circumstances. A free will offering was taken for him at a ball game, and $165 was raised in less than five minutes. That is one of the pleasant features of living here. Everybody is free hearted in time of need.

Its Patriotic to "Share the Meat"

Since the ration program went into effect a rush to use surplus red coupons has created temporary shortages which mean that some people have been unable to buy the meat they needed.

We urge our customers to let your red coupons expire if you don't actually need the meat, and spend the money you save on war stamps.

Its patriotic to share the meat, and its patriotic to buy war bonds and stamps. Lets do both of them.

Soil District News

Irrigation is in full swing in the Loup Valleys now. Applications are pouring into the Soil District office for assistance in surveying ditches and laterals. Everyone seems to be getting plenty of water and doing a good job of spreading the water. There are a few places where water has broken away into the road ditches and draws where it is wasted.

Irrigation water should be considered as capital in the bank to be invested in the soil and, as money, should be used in investment with a view to safety and permanency of investment, as well as for the insurance of immediate returns, so should water be applied to soils, and the lessons of each year should be employed in the practice of ensuing years.

An efficient and proper rotation of crops should be planned for each farm. All rotations should include a legume, such as, alfalfa or sweetclover.

The farm needs to be planned and operated in balance, the products of the soil to be utilized as far as possible on the soil and the parts of the crop generally wasted to be returned to the soil for the maintenance of fertility. Such a system may well be effective in increasing rather than in destroying the fertility of the soil, as has been the practice in many parts of the country.

Good husbandry and the exercise of common sense are indispensable elements in irrigation, as in any other kind of farming. Irrigation is intended to be only one element in the profitable production of crops and can never take the place of proper preparation of the land, careful seed selection, rotation, cultivation, fertilization, or any of the other essential elements of good husbandry. Indeed, without the employment of the other important elements, it would be better to omit irrigation and have the lands in their virgin condition.

The Soil District is endeavoring to render all assistance possible to all farmers asking for any assistance with the management of the soil on the farm. The soil, whether it is irrigated or not, presents problems on every farm as to whether it is being put to the proper land use.

It has been said, "The degree of intelligence a nation displays in the use of the land is an index to its civilization."

Make summertime meals hearty!

One thing is certain: We can't "keep going" at our best speed unless we keep our summertime meals hearty and really nutritious. Easiest way to do this is to include at least one hot dish with all three meals of the day. And they don't have to be the kind that require hours and hours in preparation. Here are some suggestions for "quickie" hot dishes that will satisfy robust appetites.

TOAD-IN-A-HOLE—Form leftover, mashed potatoes into balls about 2 inches in diameter and press hole in the center. Partially fill hole with cooked, chopped meat, and add leftover gravy to fill hole to top. Place under broiler, and broil until potatoes are golden brown and gravy starts bubbling. Serve piping hot. Leftovers in grand disguise.

THIMBLE MEAT BALLS—Combine equal portions ground meat and dry bread crumbs. Add salt, pepper, grated onion, a bit of mustard, and a chopped tomato. Add a beaten egg and beat the meat as you would cake batter until all ingredients are completely blended. Form into meat balls the size of a walnut and brown quickly in hot shortening. Then add just enough water to cover bottom of the pan, cover pan and steam for 15 minutes. Thicken drippings in the pan and serve with meat balls over steamed rice or toast.

STUFFED STEAK—Have steak cut very thin. Spread steak with a thick layer of seasoned, breadcrumb stuffing. Roll up steak, jelly-roll style and tie or skewer. Brown steak roll in hot shortening, then add just enough water to create a steam and cover and steam for about 25 minutes, or until steak is tender. Make gravy from drippings. It makes a little steak really go around.

You Aren't REQUIRED to Use All Your Red Coupons

Some people have a surplus of red coupons most months and it has been called to our attention that some people have the idea that it is compulsory for them to use these coupons before they expire. This is not the case. If you don't need the meat it would be foolish to spend money for it and is contrary to the "share the meat" idea which the rationing program entails.

The rush to use red coupons the last of each month often causes temporary shortages which are unnecessary if the coupons are used wisely and properly as needed.

If you don't need the meat that all your red coupons entitle you to, destroy the coupons when they expire.

Dear Quiz:
My two week's vacation is rapidly drawing to a close. Today is Thursday and when Monday comes I will be on my way to Ord and expect to be home Tuesday evening, at least that is the way my schedule says. Capt. Nay will drive to St. Paul Monday and I will ride that far with him, that evening take a C. & N. W. train for Omaha, then the good old Union Pacific to Grand Island and the bus to Ord.

I have had a very nice vacation, did a lot of fishing, also a lot of canning, did considerable sitting on the porch and smoking and thinking of past pleasant years spent here, for while most of you may not realize it, we have been spending our summer vacations here the past 23 years. In the earlier years of that period we could only stay a few weeks but late years we spent most of the summer here. I spent my 72nd birthday here last Saturday and as my health is still about the same as it has been for some years, I may see several more birthdays on Cullen.

Mrs. Laura Anderson and daughter, Phyllis came down Monday from Buhl, this state where the Andersons live now, George being employed by the Peter Kiewit Construction Co. She returned home today, taking Shirley with her for a weeks visit and leaving Phyllis here. Irma and Flora and the kids drove with her to Brainerd, where she was to take bus for home and where they were to spend the day, eating their picnic dinner in the beautiful park there. It is their first trip out since we came more than a week ago, for we cannot drive this year as we formerly did.

I have had about as much enjoyment while here, picking raspberries as in any other way. I went this morning and with Esther to help, picked a crate of raspberries which Flora is going to can tomorrow. Help is scarce and it was the only way to get them. I have finished my canning here for this season and you may be surprised to know that I put up 84 quarts of raspberries, strawberries and blueberries. I made a few dishes of strawberry and raspberry jam, but had to put up most of the berries without sugar. Formerly I made lots of jam and sell but this year I have not made any jelly, neither have I made anything to leave here for the coming year, as has always been our custom. And for two reasons, didn't have the sugar and won't have tires to come with next year even if we can get the gas, unless the war is far enough along so new tires may be had.

Flora and Irma bought me a pup for a birthday present and we have been having a good deal of argument about what to name him. Some want him called Waggle for he does waggle his little stump of a tail real cute. Oscar calls him Useless, one calls him Cap (for Captain), I call him Oscar, several say Pluto when addressing his pupship, but we all agree that Puddles is a very appropriate name. His favorite pastime is carrying the kids shoes, socks, etc. around and such things can never be found when wanted.

The Jacksons came into camp Tuesday. They bought the former Bert Hoffmaster (later the Page Cottage) and have been making lots of improvements. They are accompanied by her father and mother. The Jacksons live at Winona, Minn., where he is an instructor in the state college.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Gross invited Capt. Nay and myself up for dinner. Esther Luther was also a guest. Mrs. Gross is famous for good cooking and Mr. Gross proved that he was expert at making ice cream and by the time we had taken care of the wonderful dinner of roast pork loin, mashed potatoes with brown gravy, fresh garden peas, salad and other things, with pie and ice cream for desert, we realized that a real banquet had been enjoyed. The Gross' expect to remain here for at least another 6 weeks.

Ray Luther, who greeted us 23 years ago when we first started coming here and who has always been a standby in the camp since, is on a big contract in Alaska and we won't see him this summer. But Esther, always resourceful and efficient, is renting their boats and looking after the cottages as usual and being helpful to everyone as always. Here is hoping that when I come back next summer Ray, also will be here.

++ Something Different ++

An interesting visitor at the H. D. Leggett establishment in Minnesota the past few days was Mrs. George Anderson. Mrs. Anderson is the former Laura Johnson of Burwell, and the Anderson family home was in Ord for a number of years. For the past year, however, they have lived a Buhl, Minn., a town about the size of Ord located "up on the range" as they say.

This means that Buhl is in the iron-mining country. George Anderson, working for the Peter Kiewit Construction firm out of Omaha, has a good job, one that is quite different from Ord and Valley county jobs. In the winter, frozen as the ground is, the big caterpillars "strip"; that is, dig out hunks of dirt in strips around and around the open pit mines. Much of the dirt is blasted out, when it is frozen. All equipment works day and night, with the heavy war pressure for more and more iron.

So George has been working seven days a week since he went to Buhl 15 or 18 months ago. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Anderson of this county.

One of the nicest things about Buhl for the Anderson family is the wonderful schools their three children enjoy. Carolyn is now 15, Phyllis is 12 and Billy is something between.

The school, one of those fine modern ones, so richly endowed because of the big taxes paid by iron mining firms, keeps a doctor, a nurse and a dentist in the building. All three of them give their services without charge to all children, checking the students over carefully, giving various inoculations, etc.

OOO

A fine big swimming pool is used the school year through, and Billy has become a good swimmer with his three-times-a-week practice all winter. Many other unusual subjects are also taught, interior decorating for example.

A cafeteria offers better lunches than can be found anywhere else in Buhl, served hot and at moderate cost to all youngsters.

OOO
A teachers' paradise, after teaching in the Buhl schools for two years, teachers have a lifetime right to their jobs. And each time the teacher returns to college for extra hours of study, her salary is automatically increased when she comes back to teach, thus furnishing a real incentive for teachers to keep up-to-date. Yes, there is a waiting list of teachers who would like to teach there.

OOO
School grounds are large and handsomely kept, landscaped like a florist's dream.

OOO
Another unusual touch is steam heat for all the houses and buildings, city-furnished from a central plant. Thus even at 40 and 50 degrees below, your house is as toasty-warm as you wish, merely by a simple twist of the wrist. The pipes, underground, melt off a path of snow on the street above.

Snow shovelling is also done by the city, using small tractors that travel down the walks. The city pays for the shovelling, you don't.

The population is more than mixed, with samples from many a land. Nearly everyone works the mines, schoolboys spending their summer that way after they are about 14. At least they spend them that way until the company gets wise to their ages.

When one company fires the youngsters, they go to another mine and try it again. As there are several mines, it is quite a racket.

OOO
The first frost arrives about August 15, on the average. So Ord has some advantages, doesn't it?
—Irma.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

The blister beetle has become very plentiful around here in late years. Many folks would like to know how to control it.

This insect is regarded as a pest although it also does some good by destroying grasshoppers. And we are having more grasshoppers than was predicted for this locality.

Right now the beetle is injuring alfalfa, potatoes, pumpkins and other garden crops. But later on the female will deposit eggs in clusters of grasshopper eggs, and blister beetle larvae will eat the hopper eggs up.

Blister beetles are hard to kill. Pyrocyde dust seems to be the newest and best remedy. It is dusted directly onto the beetles. Another repellent is made by mixing equal parts by volume of sodium fluosilicate with flour, and dusting it over the beetles in a similar manner.

An old time method of control was to drive the beetles away by beating with switches. Ordinary insect poisons have proven of little value.

Blister beetles are usually gray in color, but black, brown, striped or spotted ones may also appear. They are apt to show up suddenly in large numbers and do most damage to potatoes. They also attack trees and shrubbery, along with other plants.

Occasionally a beetle crawls down somebody's neck. If pressed, it puts its stinger into action. The result is a painful blister which blister beetles cause by injecting the drug known as "Spanish fly."

Ord Library News.

We have just received the 1943 revision edition of the book "Ocean Outposts." This is a fascinating book written in answer to questions from a group of young people. "Tell us about the Pacific. Give us facts but make them seem like a story." The author, who has visited many of the Pacific Islands, has written about them in a way that should interest both younger and older readers. There are charming and lively descriptions of the islands that have suddenly leaped into the news, their people and their life, interesting facts about them as well as striking photographs of people, places and industries. Did you know:

That Guam is really two islands and that they were discovered by Magellan,

That Wake is three coral islands, now all renamed by the Japanese?

That Midway until 1941 was inhabited by thousands of strange birds called "goonies" and the original inhabitants of Wake were large vicious rats?

That Captain Cook won the hearts of the Hawaiians with iron nails?

That a king of the Hawaiian Islands was called "the Napoleon of the Pacific"?

That Christmas Island has the largest lagoon in the Pacific? The book also gives something of the history of the islands and tells how they came to belong to the nations who own, or owned them.

Another book which should be of interest to all of us is "Here Is Alaska." Why has Alaska suddenly assumed such tremendous importance in the war? Before 1940 Alaska was the "forgotten land." Little was known about her and much of that incorrect. There were many who laughed when General Billy Mitchell called Alaska "the most central place in the world for aircraft and the most important place in the world." Now most of us know that Alaska matters. Why she matters, what is going on there, and what her people are like, is told in this authoritative book which will interest both young people and adults.

There is a chapter on the little known Aleutian Islands, as well as other strategic islands off the coast, any one of which may at any moment appear in newspaper headlines.

Each week we put out several new books which should appeal to every reader. We have made an especial effort to build up the department for the grade readers. The books are very interesting as well as educational. Stop in and look over the list of new books.

A Lot to Learn

By JAMES FREEMAN
Associated Newspapers.
WNU Features.

OLD Inspector Casper Strong watched carefully as young Detective Colin East glanced around the room. The old man didn't want to appear critical or impatient. He remembered when he was a rookie. There wasn't much you could tell him then. He had been quick to take offense when someone pointed out an error, easily hurt when someone proved he was wrong.

The girl lay on the floor, a still, cold, crumpled heap. A small bottle was clutched in her right hand. The word "poison" was written on the bottle, surmounted by a skull and crossbones.

A note lay on a table near by; a chair was half twisted away from the table as though the girl had turned it when she struggled and fell to the floor.

Beside the note was a pencil. The note read: "I have no one to blame for this but myself. I was a fool to ever come to New York."

Across the room near a window a young man sat in a chair, his head in his hands, a picture of despair and misery.

Young East read the note without touching it. He looked down at the girl, glanced over at the young man, then looked at the inspector.

"She wasn't the usual run," he said. "That note is well written. Too bad she had to die."

Young East glanced toward the man near the window. "Weaver!" he said sharply.

The man looked up. There were streaks on his face, made by tears. "You discovered the body?" East said.

"Yes. We were going out. I called for her an hour ago. There was no answer. I opened the door. She was—was—" He broke off. East walked over to the inspector.

Young East glanced at the bowed head of the man near the window.

"I'd like to question the landlady," he said.

The inspector nodded and spoke to someone outside the door. A moment later a small and tired looking woman entered. She showed little emotion.

"I'd like to ask you one question," East said. "Was Miss Vail left-handed?"

The landlady hesitated. Then her face lighted. "Yes. Yes, she was. I remember seeing her at the telephone writing down notes. She always moved the pad over and wrote with her left hand."

"Ah!" declared East almost exultantly. "You may go, madame." The landlady went out. East looked at his superior triumphantly. "It wasn't suicide. It was murder! Murder! I tell you."

"What makes you think so?" asked the inspector.

East pointed to the form of the girl. "See! The bottle is held in her right hand. A left-handed person would hold the bottle in his or her left hand. Inspector, I suspected this from the start. It looked too cut-and-dried, too obvious. That's one thing I've learned: When things look obvious, start asking yourself questions. This girl was cold-bloodedly murdered!"

"Weaver," began Colin East, and then stopped. The inspector had laid a restraining hand on his arm. The inspector was smiling in a kindly fashion, yet gently reproving the impetuous young detective.

Resentment flashed into the eyes of Detective East. He followed Casper Strong reluctantly to where the girl lay. The old inspector reached down and removed the bottle from between the girl's stiffening fingers. Then he picked up her other hand, her left hand. It held a stopper. He removed the stopper and fitted it to the bottle. It was a snug fit. He pressed hard.

"Now, look," he said. "Being right-handed I hold the bottle in my right hand and attempt to remove the stopper with my left. It doesn't budge. So I shift hands, holding now the bottle in my left hand and pulling the stopper with my right. I do this because I am right-handed, hence there is more strength in my right hand."

"I guessed at it after looking around. See the note on the table and the pencil beside it. The pencil is on the left side. That indicates that the girl was left-handed. Now I discover that the stopper for the bottle is in the girl's left hand. It is a glass stopper. Glass stoppers are difficult to remove if pressed down tightly, as one would be in a bottle of poisoning. Besides, that note is written in a feminine hand. It is unlikely that a man could imitate it." The inspector smiled.

Good Horses

By VIC YARDMAN

JIG HAYDEN rubbed his hands and smiled in grubby satisfaction when Joe Ware, owner and manager of the Welcome U dude ranch, explained about the lack of cars.

"We've found that most people," Joe was explaining to the Severances, "like the idea of getting away from the new fangled gadgets of civilization when they come out here. The Welcome U allus has got along without automobiles."

"It's O. K.," Andrew Severance mumbled, "as long as things run along smoothly."

"We got horses," the ranch owner said laconically. "An' they're danged good horses, too. Then, once every other day the beach wagon comes up from Thunderbolt."

But when the beach wagon returned to the Welcome U two days later Andrew Severance wasn't even on hand to witness its arrival and departure. He was off in the hills riding, accompanied by a cowboy named Slim North. The broker had, as Joe Ware knew he would, forgotten about his being isolated and the fact that his Wall Street office might need his attention.

Everything would have turned out fine and Joe would have chucked up another pair of satisfied customers to the long list of guests who had vacationed at the Welcome U—if it hadn't been for Jig Hayden.

Jig Hayden had come to the Welcome U because the Severances had come. But no one knew that. Everyone thought he was a school teacher on vacation. No one would have guessed that Jig Hayden had schemed and thought and dreamed for two years about the pearl necklace that Mrs. Severance carried in her box of jewelry, and which at dinner sometimes she wore even here at the ranch because her husband admired it so.

He did not make the mistake of being too eager. He waited a week. Then, on the eighth day following his advent, while the Severances were off riding in the hills, Jig casually entered their room, removed the necklace from its box and, ten minutes later, was seated beside the driver of the beach wagon as it headed back to town.

He laughed to himself as the car bumped over the rutted road. Joe Ware had seemed surprised at his sudden departure, but he couldn't do anything about it. And now they were safely away. There were no cars at the ranch, therefore no chance of being overtaken. No telephone either to warn the sheriff at Thunderbolt.

A half hour after the beach wagon had departed the Severances returned from their ride. Five minutes later Mrs. Severance discovered the loss of her pearls, and announced it in hysterical tones.

A half hour after the beach wagon had departed the Severances returned from their ride. Five minutes later Mrs. Severance discovered the loss of her pearls, and announced it to her husband and the rest of the ranch in wild and hysterical tones. Andrew Severance cursed and swore and remembered how helpless they were out here, but Joe Ware only looked grim and called Slim North and issued curt orders.

The beach wagon mounted the last slope before descending into the town. Far to the right Jig Hayden perceived a thread of smoke. The train! His heart leaped.

He felt suddenly like whistling; had, in fact, puckered his lips to do so. Two horsemen suddenly emerged from the brush beside the road. Each held a gun. Jig Hayden's face whitened. He blinked. The horsemen were Joe Ware and Slim North. Jig hesitated only for a fraction of a second, then snarled his rage and reached inside his coat. His fingers closed about the automatic in its shoulder holster—and unclosed. A gasp escaped his lips. Slowly he slumped forward, and would have pitched to the ground but for the supporting arm of the driver.

Joe Ware, smoking gun still in hand, rode up close, smiling thinly, contemptuously.

"You see," Joe Ware explained to Andrew Severance later, "we have good horses at the Welcome U. And horses out here are much more important than new fangled gadgets like automobiles. They ain't bothered by such things as sage and cactus and mesquite and outcroppings. It's only ten miles to the station by horse, thirty if you follow around the road where the automobiles hafta go."

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

At Midway, in the Coral Sea and from General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia, the Navy patrol bombers are searching out enemy bases, ships and transports and "completing their mission." The Navy Patrol Bomber costs about $750,000.

Our factories are turning out hundreds of these bombing ships. Yet it is only through your investment in War Bonds and Stamps you can do your share to help provide patrol bombers for our rapidly increasing air force. Invest at least ten percent of your income every payday in these Government securities and do your bit to win and shorten the war. Our airmen are depending on your help.

Boost Paint Output
A recently published report by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics says that Canadian manufacture of paints, pigments and varnishes reported production in 1941 valued at $40,183,625—an increase of 33 per cent, compared with $30,109,130 in 1940. Plants in Ontario accounted for approximately 47 per cent of the total volume, and factories in Quebec for about 41 per cent.

Governors Versed in Law
More governors have served in legal capacities than any other. Six, for example, were attorneys general for their states, 11 were county attorneys and six were city attorneys. Six were either U. S. district attorneys or assistant district attorneys. Two governors, Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Dwight Green of Illinois, won nationwide fame in prosecuting racketeers in New York and Chicago.

Source of Milk Solids
It is estimated that not less than four billion pounds of dry milk solids could be made from the surplus separated milk available from the farms in the United States. The dry milk solids, thus made available for human consumption, would carry all of the original milk-sugar, all of the milk protein, all of the milk-minerals and, perhaps most important of all, the water soluble vitamins found in the original whole milk. The principal water soluble vitamin is vitamin G or B1 which is apt to be lacking in average American diets.

Come to Our Aid
In Central America, United States procurement agencies have contracted for the growing of 40,000 acres of abaca, the source of manila hemp, to help supply a large part of the needs formerly covered by imports from the Far East. Likewise United States procurement agencies are collaborating with the other Americas to increase production of quinine and other drug plants. Vegetable oils, insecticides, new food crops, hardwoods formerly imported from outside the hemisphere also offer promise of substantial additions to inter-American trade.

Marian Cushing Married.

Forty guests attended the marriage service of Miss Marian Grace Cushing, daughter of Mrs. Marion Jay Cushing, and Ensign Robert Pifaum Alkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis L. Alkin of Colfax, Ia., which was solemnized at 4 o'clock, the afternoon of Monday, July 26, at the Alpha Chi Omega sorority house in Lincoln.

The lines were read by the Rev. Dr. Arthur L. Miller before the living room fireplace which was screened with palms and ferns. A long, low arrangement of pink and white gladiol ornaments the mantel.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Kay King sang, "Because," accompanied by Miss Lois Brainerd who also played the bridal music from Lohengrin as a procession.

Mrs. Robert L. Cushing was the matron of honor and only attendant. Mrs. Cushing was frocked in yellow embroidered organdy, fashioned with the fitted bodice and a full, floor length skirt. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses.

Robert L. Cushing served Ensign Alkin as best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Horace W. Travis of Ord, chose white embroidered batiste for her wedding gown. The fitted bodice had a heart-shaped neck, and bracelet sleeves, and the full skirt of white batiste was trimmed with inserts of the embroidered batiste. The veil, of bridal illusion, was shoulder-length, and the bridal bouquet was of white carnations, gardenias and stephanotis.

A reception at the sorority house immediately followed the ceremony. Assisting in the dining room, where the refreshment table was centered with a white and silver wedding bell cake, and appointed with white flowers, were Miss Mary Thornley, Miss Ruth Lund, Miss Martha Lee Whitehead, Miss Lillian Wind, and Mrs. C. W. Donot, all sorority sisters of the bride. Miss Kathryn Work had charge of the guest book.

Ensign and Mrs. Alkin left in the evening for Corpus Christi, Tex., where the bridegroom is stationed. The bride is traveling in a two-piece suit of sheer gold wool with which she is wearing navy blue accessories.

Mrs. Alkin attended Doane college for two years and received a bachelor of science degree from the University of Nebraska, where she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. She took her work for her master's degree at Iowa State college at Ames.

Ensign Alkin is a graduate of Simpson college, Indianola, Ia., and is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

Out of town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Curtis L. Alkin, and J. O. Pifaum, Colfax, Ia.; Miss Ellen Harnett, Newton, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Travis and Miss Mary Catherine Travis, Mrs. C. J. Miller, Ord, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Cushing of Kearney.

Miss Lydia Blaha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Blaha, became the bride of Robert J. Pharis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Pharis of Minneapolis, Minn., on July 24 in the Blessed Sacrament church of Omaha.

The bride wore a white cable-knit dressmaker suit with white accessories and a bouquet of white roses and sweetpeas. Norma Blaha, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid and wore a pink cable-knit dressmaker suit with white accessories and a bouquet of pink roses and sweetpeas.

Henry Schoenjahn, friend of the groom, served as bestman. Both groom and bestman wore dark suits.

Sister M. Agnese played the wedding march and Rev. John Palubicki conducted the requiem high mass.

The bride was a graduate of the Ord high school in 1939 and worked in Ord for a short time and later moved to Omaha, where she has been employed. She has many friends in Ord, and they all wish the newlyweds much happiness.

After spending a week with the groom's parents in Minneapolis and at the Lakes, the couple will make their home in Omaha, where they both are employed.

Christian Science Services.

"Love" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, August 1.

The Golden Text is: "O God, thou art my God; early will I seek thee: . . . Because thy loving kindness is better than life, my lips shall praise thee," (Psalms 63:1, 3).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Beloved, let us love one another; for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love," (I John 4:7, 8).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The starting-point of divine Science is that God, Spirit, is All-in-all, and that there is no other might nor Mind,—that God is Love, and therefore He is divine Principle. To grasp the reality and order of being in its Science, you must begin by reckoning God as the divine Principle of all that really is. Spirit, Life, Truth, Love, combine as one—and are the Scriptural names for God. All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause and effect belong to God. These are His attributes the eternal manifestations of the infinite divine Principle, Love," (P. 275).

Governors Saw Service—Two-thirds of the states' chief executives are drawing from experiences as members of the armed forces in past wars in directing their states' participation in the war effort. Most of these governors served in the army, four in the navy, and two—John C. Vivian of Colorado and Colgate W. Warden Jr. of Virginia—in the marines.

Rhode Island Furniture—Some of the finest of 18th century American mahogany furniture was made in Rhode Island. Leading cabinet makers working here included John Goddard and John Townsend. The block front chest and secretary are characteristic—with ornaments including roccoco, shells, broken scrollpediments, ogee bracket feet.

Popular Bedspread—One of the most popular types of bedspreads made today is a descendant of a handcraft of Revolutionary housewives who used wagon wheels for their embroidery hoops. These are the needle-tuft spreads still made down in Georgia—the wagon wheel still serves as the best hoop—much of the work is still done by hand, though the punch work needle is electric driven.

Cadet Learns Quickly—On his early "dry runs" the cadet gets accustomed to the air, overcomes his fears of airickness and goes through all the procedure of bombing without actually dropping any bombs. The cadet's early periods in the air acquaint him with his "office" or "greenhouse" in the nose of the aircraft. He learns to operate the interphone communication set and his theoretical study of the instruments help him to understand the working capacity of the various instruments before him.

Visiting Vivian

By STANLEY CORDELL

Associated Newspapers. WNU Features.

THERE was no rejoicing in the Barber family when the letter came from Aunt Vivian Randall, announcing that she was arriving that evening for a short visit. "Short, my foot!" Asa Barber stormed. "That woman doesn't know the meaning of the word. She'll stay a month and make a confounded, jackass out of herself with her alleged jokes. Ethel," he raged at his wife, "I won't have it! Either write and tell her not to come or I'll—I'll make her wait to leave!" "I can't write," Ethel told him. "She's already on her way." Mrs. Barber's face wore a distracted look. Tomorrow Aaron Colt of the Wearbetter Tire Co. was arriving to talk about the possibility of establishing an agency in New England. "Jack Turner's got the measles," Bruce Barber, fourteen-year-old, announced brightly, "and nobody can come to see them." Asa banged the table. "Measles! That's it! One of us will contract the measles! Fun-loving Vivian will throw a fit, won't even stop to unpack her bags. To make doubly sure, we'll get that half-witted young friend of Helen over here to give a concert on his saxophone."

The idea might have worked except that Aaron Colt arrived a day earlier than he expected and fifteen minutes before Aunt Vivian. Bruce, thinking the ringing doorbell was an announcement of Aunt Viv's advent, appeared with a face so thickly bespeckled with paint daubs that the whiteness of his skin was barely visible. Aaron Colt stared at him and blinked.

"Good lord, boy, what's that on your face?" "Measles!" said Bruce innocently and proudly.

"Measles! Wow! And I've never had 'em! At my age they'll kill me!" He started for the door, just as Asa appeared.

"Mr. Colt! How are you? You're earlier than we expected. Come in! Come in and be comfortable."

"Barber," said Aaron Colt sternly, "what's the idea of inviting me to your home when your boy has the measles?"

Just then Asa caught sight of Bruce and almost swooned. "Good gosh!" he ejaculated, then tried to pass it off as a joke, and instructed the bewildered Bruce to wash his face. Aaron Colt was skeptical, but agreed to remain.

Things were progressing smoothly when Vivian blew in. "Blew" is the correct word. Vivian always appeared places as though a gust of wind had propelled her there. Now she took one look at Aaron Colt and he at her, and they flew into each other's arms. It developed, much to the chagrin of the Barber family, that the two were old friends and that Aaron thought Vivian was a howl.

Directly after dinner Asa managed to get Mr. Colt into his study and practically convinced him that the tire agency could be placed in no better hands. In fact, Aaron was about to sign on the dotted line when from outside the window came a blaring and shrieking that would put a squawking hen to shame. Mr. Colt flew into a rage. There was, it developed, nothing that annoyed him more than saxophone playing. He was on the point of leaving when Vivian appeared carrying a saxophone.

"You know," she said brightly, "I've been taking lessons for ten years and I can't play the saxophone yet."

"Why not?" asked Aaron. "I took piano lessons," said Vivian and Aaron practically collapsed with laughter.

Vivian finally announced that she and Aaron were leaving and were going to be married. The Barber family was too stunned to speak.

"Aaron," Vivian explained, "proposed to me ten years ago and has been proposing on and off ever since. I refused him because I was getting a lot of fun out of life. I thought my friends and relatives"—she looked at the Barbers significantly—"liked to have me around because I brought a little cheer into their lives. I see now that I was wrong. Now I know that Aaron is the only person in the world who appreciates my jokes. So I'm going to marry him. We're leaving at once. You have your agreement, Asa, and the rest of you have had your fun with measles and so forth, so I'm sure you won't mind."

Obituary—Vencil Visek.
Vencil John Visek was born May 29, 1878 in (Lithompl) Czechoslovakia, the son of Katharine and John Visek. He departed from this life July 16, 1943 at the age of 65 years, 1 month and 24 days.

He was left an orphan at the age of three, his mother and father passing away within one week. Following his parents death he made his home with a sister and attended school until he was fourteen years of age. He then made his home at the place of his employment.

He came to the United States in May, 1906 and later settled on a farm north of Comstock, Neb. On October 18, 1910 he was united in marriage to Sophia Valasek in Geranium, Neb., to this union were born eight children.

In the year 1919 they purchased a farm home seven miles west of Sargent, Neb., where they lived until 1938 at which time they moved back to Valley county, where they were farming at the time of his death.

Death came to him at four o'clock Friday, July 16, 1943 as the result of a heart attack while taking care of his hogs. This was a great shock to his family, relatives and friends as he was not known to be suffering in this way.

He was very proud of his American citizenship and so it was, he died a hero, while battling on the home front, so as to release his two sons for military service.

He leaves to mourn his departure his loving wife, two sons, S/Sgt. Vencil A. Visek of Fort Custer, Mich., and Cpl. Edward L.
