Big Premiums For 4-H Stock At Ak-Sar-Ben

Oct. 6, 7, 8 Dates of Annual Omaha Show and Auction Sale of Fine Animals.

Omaha, Nebr., July 31.—Despite wartime restrictions and ceilings, 4-H club exhibitors at this year's Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Show will see their efforts encouraged by the same liberal premiums for their prize winning animals as in the past.

This was the cheering announcement to mid-western club members today by Harry B. Coffey, chairman of a committee including George Brandels and A. A. Lowman which will have charge of the sixteenth annual exposition. In recent years, the champion baby beef of the Ak-Sar-Ben Show has never failed to bring $1 a pound or more, and other prize winning animals have been sold at proportionately good prices.

To conserve time, only three days—October 6, 7 and 8—will be required for this year's streamlined competition, which will be conducted in the horse barn of the Union Stock Yards Company (Ak-Sar-Ben's own facilities are at present occupied by the Army). Exhibits will be limited to market cattle and swine.

The show will conclude with the annual auction sale, where bidding may necessarily be confined to representatives of hotels, restaurants, railroads and other who can produce sufficient ration points to cover their purchases. Nevertheless, through the activity of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and with funds provided by Omaha business men, every animal which survives the sifting elimination will receive added premium money, Coffey said.

Of particular interest to 4-H exhibitors is the decision to eliminate the 2 per cent shrink from the sale weights of baby beefs. Also the regrouping of swine into 180-220, 221-260 and 261-or-more pound classes, to conform more closely to market conditions. Ten cash awards are offered in a new swine class, for best pen of three barrows, owned by one individual, which have won blue ribbons at the show.

The minimum age of contestants has been lowered from 12 to 10 years. Another change provides for projects started by club boys who have since entered the armed forces. Their animals may be finished and shown by another club member, or by a member of the boy's family who is of club age.

Premium lists and rules governing the 1943 show are now available and may be obtained from county agents, or by writing Ak-Sar-Ben, or M. L. Shawcross, 925 Live Stock Exchange Building, Omaha.

Sgt. Bob Kasal Given Air Medal

Sgt. R. E. Kasal, radio operator of Omaha, was one of the six Nebraska men to be awarded the air medal of the commanding general of the Alaska Defense Command for "valiant and heroic service while flying missions in the Aleutians, a territory now known as having worse flying conditions as far as weather, fog and ice are concerned than any other military theatre in the world." He is also one of a group of enlisted men honored for having successfully completed more than one hundred hours of operational flight missions in cargo airplanes in the Aleutian area.

Bob is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kasal, of Omaha, and a grandson of Mrs. M. Kasal, of Ord, and has often visited here.

—Mrs. E. L. Johnson and Mrs. Hope Demund returned Monday from Colorado Springs where they spent a month visiting their granddaughter and daughter, Mrs. Wayne Keller and family.

Hail Catastrophic Says J. A. Kovanda

Last Monday night's hail storm was the worst catastrophe suffered by Valley county farmers in several years, believes J. A. Kovanda, Smith-Hughes agriculture instructor in Ord high school. Hail damage to corn will be far more severe than was thought at first, he says.

The corn, in tasseling stage, was severely pounded by hailstones in many localities and many fields will be a total loss, he says. Late corn was not so badly damaged as the early corn. Worst damage was north of Ord where the hail belt extended all the way to the Garfield county line and beyond. There was much damage south-west of Ord also.

Gus Schoenstein New Owner of Ord Grill

Gus Schoenstein has purchased the Ord Grill, corner restaurant on the west side of the square, it was announced Monday. Established some years ago by F. E. McQuillan, it later was operated by Ben Clark and was sold by him to a non-resident owner, J. H. Nickell, a Grand Island real estate man. Mr. Schoenstein plans to continue his radio business and the Grill will be managed by Miss Ella Johns who has been in charge for the past several months.

Wilson Blasts OWI, Claims 'Whitewash' of Army Beer Sale

3.2 Beer "Trick of Brewers to Deceive Public" Says Dry at No. Loup Rally.

North Loup—(Special)—Blasting at the Office of War Information for "whitewashing the sale of beer in army canteens" in a recent report, Harold D. "Three-Gun" Wilson, state director of Allied Dry Forces, made a fighting talk at a rally held here on Sunday evening.

"This 3.2 beer by weight is just a trick of the brewers to deceive the public," he charged. "Alcohol is only 4-5ths the weight of water, consequently 3.2 by weight is really 4% by volume. For many years prior to enactment of the 3.2 beer law, taxes were levied on alcoholic beverages on the recognition that any drink containing more than 1/2 of 1% was intoxicating. Congress tried to set aside by legislative mandate it asserted 3.2% beer by weight was non-intoxicating.

"Here in Nebraska there is no such thing as 3.2 beer," Wilson charged. He stated that he has bought samples in well known drinking emporiums for testing purposes and found all of them over 3.2. They tested 4 1/2% to nearly 5%, he charged.

He claimed that Nebraska Liquor Commission statistics show hard liquor sales up 45% last year; sales of wines up 70%; and of beer nearly three million gallons. Cost of these liquors to the consumer is $58,530,130. Out of this about 2 1/2 millions returned to the state in taxes and about a half million to the counties and cities as occupation taxes, the rest of the huge cost being wasted, he contends.

Wilson declares that intoxicating liquors are the chief fifth columnist in America because they slow down physical and mental reactions and thus retard efficiency.

Wilson advocates return of prohibition, saying that he contends the 18th amendment was lost because drys had advertised for years that the millennium would come with prohibition and that we expected altogether too much from it. "We must sell facts against the liquor traffic in a sane and reasonable manner, not as fanatics but as citizens interested in the welfare of the entire public," he said.

Another major task has been the water proofing of the entire north and west walls of the high school building. In addition to this, all furniture has been repaired and refinished where necessary, and the general cleaning of floors, walls, windows and the entire buildings has been practically completed at this time.

Miss Viola Puncocar who will return as secretary, recently completed the school census and since has been kept busy taking care of routine office affairs and preparing for the opening days of registration.

At the home of his daughter in Arapahoe, Colo., on July 28 occurred the death of Joel Godfrey Dahlin, pioneer farmer and long time resident of this county. For many years Mr. Koupal operated the Peoples Store here in partnership with Jos. P. Barta and after fire destroyed the building he ran a grocery store several years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Koupal; by one daughter, Ruth, in New York City; and by a sister, Mrs. Josephine Levinek, of Rockford, Ill. Frank Koupal, of Ord, is an uncle.

No More Sugar, So Zabloudil Quitting

Bottling Works to Close Until Sept. Sugar Allotment Becomes Available.

The Valley Bottling Works will be closed this week for the first time in 27 years and will remain closed until the next OPA sugar allotment becomes available in September, said William Zabloudil this morning.

People are drinking more pop than ever before, he says, probably because candy isn't available and pop satisfies their desire for sweets. At the same time he is limited to 70 per cent of the sugar he used in 1941.

To complicate matters still further, Grand Island bottlers, who formerly sent trucks to Ord with bottled soft drinks have withdrawn their trucks from the road and left the demand to be filled by the local bottling works.

To satisfy all demands for pop he would need 200 per cent of the sugar he used in 1941 instead of the 70 per cent he is permitted to use, Mr. Zabloudil estimated. OPA regulations are unfair when they permit Grand Island bottlers to use sugar that formerly satisfied trade demands throughout the Loup Valley region in serving Grand Island people alone, he believes. The sugar should have been allocated on a territory basis, Zabloudil thinks, and bottlers who served this community last year should have been required to continue serving the same customers, instead of diverting their entire allotments to another territory.

Mr. Zabloudil bought the bottling works from his brother on June 1, 1916 and has operated it continuously ever since. In future he will operate during each allotment period as long as his sugar supply lasts and then will close down until the next period. He will continue to allot pop to his customers on the basis of their 1942 purchases, whenever he has any pop to sell.

Service Oil Company Making Improvement

The Service Oil company, which is owned by E. L. Vogel-tanz and managed by Joe Osew-towski, has been making quite extensive changes at its service station lately. The frame building next door, formerly occupied by McGrew's Shoe Shop, was purchased some time ago, and converted into an office for the station, with a door cut in the north side. The stucco building formerly used as an office was torn down last week. Some concrete driveways will be laid soon and after the war equipment converting the property into a super-service station will be installed, according to Mr. Vogel-tanz.

Peterson Transfer Buys Hunter Bldg.

Monday the K. W. Peterson Transfer closed a deal with Kit Carson for the purchase of the property known as the Hunter building at the southeast corner of the square, consisting of the filling station last operated by Dugan Oil Co., and the garage building leased at present by Romans Transfer.

Mr. Peterson stated that as soon as he gets possession of the property he will establish his main office in Ord, instead of at Burwell, and will have a book-keeper in the office at all times. His trucks will be stored and serviced in the new garage building hereafter.

Sazama Checking Use Stamps on Ord Cars

F. J. Sazama, of St. Paul, a representative of the internal revenue department, was in Ord most of last week, making a check of automobiles to determine to what extent the federal use stamps are displayed on windshields. A similar survey is being made throughout the state he said. Mr. Sazama says he found very few cars here without the use stamps. These stamps cost $5.00. Penalty for failure to display one is $25.00 and arrests of drivers who have not purchased their stamps will be made soon.

Potato Harvest Will Start Next Week Around Ord

Malicky to Bring Grader and Washer Here; Expect to Ship Fifty Carloads.

Potato harvest will get into full swing in the Ord vicinity next week, with 300 or more acres of potatoes to be dug, washed and graded for shipment to Chicago or other primary markets. It is believed fifty carloads or more of potatoes will leave Ord this year.

Frank Malicky, of Burwell, is bringing his washer and grading machine to Ord and it will be located on the Union Pacific trackage near the Noll warehouse. Two or three carloads a day can be washed and graded with this equipment.

The washing machine will be connected with the city water supply and the potatoes, after being graded, pass through rubber rolls under water pressure which cleanses them of all dirt. They will then be sacked and shipped in refrigerator cars, which come to Ord pre-iced.

About a dozen people are required to operate the washing and grading equipment and Mr. Malicky expects to hire local help, for the most part. He has another outfit in operation at Burwell, where potato digging got started last week. The outfit here will have at least a five weeks' run, he believes.

Potatoes are reported to be bringing a good price, the government ceiling being $2.80 per hundred and the price paid being equivalent to the ceiling in most cases. It is believed that potato acreage here will produce 200 or more bushels per acre.

Potato raisers should make arrangements with Malicky to have their crop washed and graded before they start digging, so it will be possible to handle the potatoes in orderly manner and so that refrigerator cars may be brought here as they are needed. Mr. Malicky will build a temporary structure to house the equipment he is bringing to Ord.

When potato digging starts a great many boys and girls will find profitable employment picking up potatoes and it is thought 40 to 50 extra helpers will be required to keep up with the diggers.

This is the first season Ord farmers have gone into potato raising extensively and the first time Ord has had washing and grading machinery available, though the Burwell and Arcadia farmers have grown potatoes on a large scale and used this modern equipment ever since irrigation came in.

Allen H. Zikmund School Commander

Midshipman Allen H. Zikmund son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Zikmund, has been chosen as Regimental Commander of the U. S. N. R. Midshipman School, located at Columbia University in New York City, N. Y.

After passing through an indoctrination course of math, seamanship, ordnance, naval indoctrination, and practical work aboard the U. S. S. Prairie State, Allen was promoted to Midshipman. He then tried out for a Midshipman Officers' rating and after a series of tests and interviews, he was appointed Regimental Commander by Capt. J. K. Richards, commanding officer of the school. The position is the highest a midshipman can rank, and Allen has complete charge over 1,100 men.

He writes home that he likes it very much. Everything is very formal and military in nature. The only objection seems to be the lack of time in which to complete studies.

"As for New York—it is a hustling, bustling place, and you see people of every kind and type," he writes. "Prices for food are very high, and the quality isn't too good. The weather has been fine—very cool and rainy."

He writes that he was quite thrilled at seeing the great ships the Queen Mary and the Normandie.

Sazama Checking Use Stamps on Ord Cars

F. J. Sazama, of St. Paul, a representative of the internal revenue department, was in Ord most of last week, making a check of automobiles to determine to what extent the federal use stamps are displayed on windshields. A similar survey is being made throughout the state he said. Mr. Sazama says he found very few cars here without the use stamps. These stamps cost $5.00. Penalty for failure to display one is $25.00 and arrests of drivers who have not purchased their stamps will be made soon.

Leonard, Hulinsky Are Seeking Divorce

Two divorce cases in which the husbands appear as the plaintiffs were filed in district court here last week, one being Ross Leonard vs. Lenora Leonard and the other William Hulinsky vs. Rose Hulinsky.

In the Leonard case the plaintiff charges that his wife took the children and went to California, ostensibly for a visit, in October, 1942, and has never returned. She has written many letters stating that she does not intend to return, the petition alleges. The Leonards were married at Columbus in 1931 and have two daughters.

Mr. Hulinsky charges extreme cruelty in his suit for divorce from Rose Hulinsky, and asks custody of their two daughters. They were married in 1938. Several months ago a divorce suit filed by Mrs. Hulinsky was dismissed.

Funeral Rites for Mrs. J. C. Work

Funeral services for Mrs. J. C. Work, 76, who died July 30 in Loveland, Colo., were held Monday morning at the Pearson chapel with Rev. R. T. Cordry officiating. Pallbearers were C. J. Mortensen, Fred Coe, Marion Crosby, Leo Long, James Ollis and A. L. Hill. Two duets, "Lead Kindly Light" and "Abide with Me," were sung by Mrs. Mark Tolen and Mrs. C. M. Davis, with Mrs. James Ollis at the organ. In charge of flowers were Mrs. R. E. Teague and Miss Ruth Milford. Interment was in Ord cemetery.

Susana Shelly, youngest daughter of Henry and Sarah Shelly was born July 20, 1867 at Sterling, Ill. On Oct. 13, 1885 she was married at Odebolt, Ia., to John Calvin Work and came at once to Ord, which was the family home many years. Mr. Work was a blacksmith and served several terms as mayor of the city. He died 17 years ago.

To them were born seven children, John, Jr., preceding his mother in death. Survivors include Roy Work, Los Angeles; Grace Keating, Loveland, Colo.; Ruth Cushing, Lincoln, Nebr.; George Work, Long Beach, Calif.; Catherine Kardell, Los Angeles; and Martha Travis, Ord. There also are nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Since the death of her husband Mrs. Work had spent much of her time in California. On May 10 she went to Loveland to spend the summer with Mrs. Keating where falling health kept her from going among her many friends and from attending the church services she loved. Several of her children visited her there six weeks before her death.

She was a member of the Presbyterian church and of Mizpah chapter, No. 56, Order of Eastern Star. Not long ago she was presented with the 50-year pin by the Nebraska chapter.

Sargent Boy Fined for Resisting Officer

Weldon Stewart, 19, of Sargent was arrested Sunday night at National hall by Sheriff Bob Hall and the next day in county court plead guilty to a charge of resisting an officer and was fined $25 and costs of $10, which he paid.

Young Stewart, it is charged, created a disturbance on the dance floor of the hall and refused to leave the floor when ordered to do so by the floor manager, Lew Wolf. The latter called Sheriff Hall, who was policing the dance in the absence of Deputy Sheriff Harvey Hohn, whose wife is ill. The boy refused to leave the floor, threw himself down and had to be carried from the hall.

Sheriff Hall says young Stewart had possibly had a few drinks but was not intoxicated. The young man has joined the navy and is scheduled to report for duty Friday.

All former Ord residents are urged to be present and soldiers and sailors stationed in California are especially invited.

—Mrs. Bertha Mason has received word from the doctor at Ingleside hospital saying that her mother, Mrs. C. Mattley, seems to be improving and that she appears quite cheerful and is able to be about most of the time. He assured Mrs. Mason that her mother would have the best of care.

—Chesckamay Campfire girls met Thursday with Stella Christoffersen. Only five girls were present and they discussed various honors and making scrapbooks. This week, Thursday the girls are taking a hike.

Saunders Company to Open Mill Here, Starts Buying Hay

Will Need Thousands of Tons Noll Is Told; Walker to Arrive This Week.

Saunders Mills, Inc. of Toledo, O., definitely will establish an alfalfa mill in Ord and will do so at once, Robert Noll, of Noll Seed company, was told by the Saunders representative, Geo. Walker, in a telephone conversation Monday morning. Walker is now at Tekamah putting the finishing touches on a mill being built there.

The company wishes to buy alfalfa hay at once, Mr. Walker told Noll, and asked that farmers who have first cutting alfalfa to sell get in touch with Noll at once.

Mr. Noll was authorized to buy three thousand tons of alfalfa for the firm, making a down payment now and the balance to be paid as the hay is milled. Price will be $11.00 per ton delivered for first cutting green alfalfa hay, $12.00 for second cutting green alfalfa and $10.00 for brown hay.

Mr. Walker indicated that milling equipment is being shipped to Ord at once and that his company will begin grinding within a very short time. This season's operations will be on stack hay only, he indicated, but by next spring dehydrating equipment will be in place and green alfalfa will be processed. When green alfalfa is bought the company handles mowing and trucking.

Coming of the mill poses a new problem for the Ord municipal light plant. The mill will use about 500 horsepower for its various motors, once the plant is in full operation, which means that all city generating equipment will have to be kept in operation all the time and there will be no stand-by equipment for emergency use.

The matter was discussed by councilmen Monday night and it was the consensus of opinion that the city should buy additional diesel equipment as soon as the mill is in operation and its needs determined accurately. Addition of the mill load to the city's normal load will boost total electric production here to over 2 million kilowatts per year.

Mayor M. B. Cummins said this morning that he believes it will be possible to secure priorities for the purchase of a new diesel engine, if the city desires to buy one instead of buying rebuilt equipment.

Critical Stage for Corn, Rain Needed

Dry land corn is at a critical stage in Valley county and rain is badly needed at once, say farmers. The corn is tasseling and must have rain before very many days or suffer damage. Some fields already are beginning to show the effects of drought.

About a half inch of rain fell in the northeast part of the county Saturday night and light showers along the south edge of the county the next night but other sections have received no moisture.

Weekly Pay-roll for Detasslers is $1,800

Arcadia—(Special)—The work of detassling hybrid corn in this section of the Middle Loup valley is proceeding satisfactorily with a big crew of boys, girls, women and older men at work daily. The payroll for detasslers last week was $1,800.

Officials of the Robinson Seed Co., of Waterloo, made an inspection trip here last week and expressed satisfaction with the hybrid acreage. If a larger acreage is planted next season a drying plant may be established here.

—Festus Williams had a letter this week from Rev. D. C. Williamson, of Washington, Kas., who has been in poor health ever since last summer and has retired from the active ministry. His trouble started when he had his teeth removed, an embolism developed and he became paralyzed on one side. Heart trouble and anemia entered into his condition. At present he is recovering and manages to get around the house in a wheel chair, but Mrs. Williamson, who tended him faithfully throughout his illness, has suffered a breakdown and is bedfast.

—Edward Zadina, of Colorado Springs, and his aunt, Anna Zadina, were callers in the home of the Lukes sisters Sunday. Mr. Zadina is a member of the Colorado College faculty. He graduated from this college with honors and later took special work at Yale and Princeton before returning to join the teaching staff.

North Loup Loyalist

MRS. ETHEL HAMER, News and Business Representative.

Obituary of I. J. Thelin.

Irwin John Thelin, youngest son of Lewis and Elizabeth Thelin, was born on May 11, 1885 near Arnold, Nebr., and passed away from this life at St. Francis hospital in Grand Island, on July 26, 1943 at the age of 58 years, 2 months and 17 days. Death was due to a rare type of intestinal ailment, which is very difficult to diagnose and treat. Expert medical attention and hospitalization were of little avail, and swift and fatal was the attack. His passing came as a severe shock to his many friends and acquaintances as few realized the seriousness of his illness.

When I. J., as he was affectionally called by many of his friends, was a lad of 8 years, the family moved to a farm near El Paso, Tex. They resided there for a period of 2 years, and then returned to a farm near Gothenburg, Nebr., in 1895. Shortly thereafter the father died, leaving the mother with I. J. and his older brother. The farm work proved too heavy for the mother and her two small boys so they moved to Gothenburg where the mother continued to live till she passed away in 1938.

I. J. attended the country school till the family moved to Gothenburg where he attended the public school. Early in boyhood he became very much interested in telegraphy. This interest led him to apply himself diligently to the task of making a telegraph operator of himself. On one occasion his mother found it necessary to be away from home for a few days and gave I. J. $5.00 with which to buy food while she was away. Upon her return she found a mass of telegraph equipment and wires strung throughout the home. The lad had become so interested in his telegraphy that he had spent the $5.00 for wire and equipment and had been so absorbed in his activity that food became a secondary matter. When the mother inquired what he had done for food, the boy could hardly remember but guessed that he had eaten some eggs and some other food that happened to have been in the house.

Application to the task before him was one of I. J.'s characteristics. Thoroughness and understanding always urged him on to further study and application. He had an early desire to be a doctor but finances with which to pursue this study to completion were not available so he chose telegraphy and railroad work as his life work. However his interest in medicine was so intense that he devoted much time to reading and study with the result that he was very well informed in his field and could speak intelligently and accurately with men in the medical profession.

In 1903 I. J. went to a school for telegraphers in Omaha to perfect himself as a telegrapher. While there he became ill and found it necessary to return to Gothenburg. He obtained a position as helper in the telegraph office and pursued his study. On April 15, 1903, he obtained a position with the Union Pacific railroad at Ord. While there he met Miss Mary Rockhold, whom he married in 1905. To this union was born one daughter, Marjorie, now Mrs. Reuben Rydberg of Kearney, Nebr.

On Oct. 10, 1908, the Thelins moved to North Loup, where I. J. took the position as agent for the Union Pacific and served in that position till the time of his death. This gives him an employment period of more than forty years with the Union Pacific, nearly 35 of which has been spent in North Loup. During his residence here he has occupied many positions of trust in community affairs.

He served as a member of the village board and was instrumental in the promoting and construction of the village light and water plant. He was one of the originators of the North Loup volunteer fire department and was its first chief. At the time of his passing he was serving as the treasurer of the local chapter of the Red Cross, giving unstintingly of his time and effort in his behalf.

Honorableness, courtesy, uprightness and consideration were outstanding in his character and his kindly association and advice will be sorrowfully missed by his many friends and acquaintances. In addition to a host of friends, he leaves to mourn his departure his wife, Mary, of North Loup, his daughter, Marjorie, son-in-law, Reuben, and a grandson, Charles Irwin Rydberg of Kearney, his sister-in-law, Mrs. Signa Thelin, and nephews, Farrell Thelin of Gothenburg, Roland Thelin somewhere in Africa, and Burton Thelin, with the United States forces in the Solomon Islands, and his niece, Eleanor Thelin of Denver, Colo.

Funeral services were held on Friday afternoon from the Methodist church, conducted by Rev. L. R. Hansberry, assisted by Rev. W. H. Stevens of Overton, formerly a pastor of the North Loup Methodist church and a friend of Mr. Thelin. Mrs. H. J. Hoepfner, Mrs. Fred Bartz, R. W. Hudson and Deryl White sang while Mrs. Harlan Brembeck was at the piano. Pall bearers were H. L. Gillespie, W. O. Zangger, F. J. Schudel, A. I. Willoughby, C. W. McClellan and H. J. Hoepfner.

The many floral tributes were looked after by Mrs. R. W. Hudson and Mrs. H. L. Gillespie, Mrs. W. O. Zangger and Mrs. E. J. Schudel. Members of the Fortnightly club, of which Mrs. Thelin is a member, attended in a body. H. T. Frazier was the undertaker in charge and burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Relatives attending from out of town included Mrs. Signa Thelin and son Farrell of Gothenburg, John Rockhold of Comstock, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rockhold and son Jimmie of Lead, S. D., and Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Rydberg and son Charles Irwin of Kearney.

V. W. Robbins and R. H. Knapp shipped cattle to Chicago Friday. Mr. Robbins accompanied the shipment.

Mrs. Jim Butts and Orabelle Zalud of Burwell were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Schultz. Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Schultz were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bartz and Mrs. Anna Crandall.

Memorial Services Held.

Memorial services were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Thrasher, Green River, Wyo., on July 23, 7:30 p. m., for Mrs. Thrasher's youngest brother, Lee W. Thrasher, who died in the Queens hospital, in Honolulu, Hawaii on July 2. Cremation and burial took place in the Islands.

Relatives and friends filled the house, and the Rev. C. L. Galahan of the Episcopal church delivered a most impressive address. Musical arrangements were in charge of Mrs. C. J. Jensen, vocal numbers being given by Gilbert Lee who sang "My Buddha," and "Abide with Me," was sung by Mrs. Alma Miller. The rooms were filled with beautiful flowers.

Lee W. Thrasher was born at North Loup, Nebr., on June 3, 1905, the son of Chas. L. and Myra L. Thrasher. He was the youngest of seven children born to this couple and is survived by his mother and six brothers and sisters. His father preceded him in death ten years ago.

Since the beginning of the war Lee had been engaged in army transport service and had made several trips to foreign ports, helping to get troops and supplies to outposts. He was engaged upon such a mission when stricken with the illness which made hospitalization necessary in Honolulu and there he later passed away.

Relatives who attended the services from Green River were Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Thrasher, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Thrasher, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thrasher and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Weed and two daughters. Those from out of town were Mrs. Myra Thrasher and Mrs. C. R. Henderson of Twin Falls, Ida. Mrs. Myra Thrasher will remain for a visit in Green River.

Mrs. Thrasher now has five grandsons in the service, two of whom are overseas, and a sixth to be inducted in August of this year.

Fish Industry Lags in Rich So. American Waters

Up to now, many of the Americas, with myriads of fish in their waters, have consumed chiefly imported canned or salted fish.

Chile is an example. Its 2,650 miles of coast stretches from the tropics to the Antarctic. Together with the adjoining coast of Peru, it constitutes one of the most productive fishing areas in the world. Albacore (a white meat tuna), swordfish, bonito, sea bass, mackerel, herring and many other varieties of commercial fish abound. And yet Chileans customarily have eaten much imported fish.

But Chile illustrates what rapid progress can be made in fish development once a program is pushed. In 1942 Chilean production of canned fish amounted to 8,040,765 tins, nearly double the 4,545,403 tins packed in 1940. Chilean canning companies believed that in 1943 they could triple 1942's figure, provided the export market would absorb the increase and ships were available.

Venezuela could become a large fish producing country. This country has a wide variety of species. There are no evident signs of depletion. Spanish mackerel constitute the largest poundage. Good quantities of red snappers, mullet, blue fish, herring and sharks also are brought in. Venezuela annually produces about 25,000,000 pounds of salt fish, 4,500,000 of canned, 30,000,000 of fresh. Lack of up-to-date facilities for handling and processing and marketing the fish has slowed down the industry in Venezuela.

Marines Use Imagination To Make Jungle Home

Marines in the South Pacific, thousands of miles from home, take a part of the United States with them wherever they go. They cannot resist the temptation to tag everything they touch with familiar labels.

One marine was home on furlough recently. When he returned to this South Sea island he brought with him a metal highway marker which proudly proclaimed "This is Weehawken."

He erected it on a pole in front of his tent on the banks of a river near here.

Nearby, six marines occupy a tent palace they have named "Skeeter Bar." They have worked night and day on their property, giving it all of their liberty time for the past three months.

Its marine tenants have used vines for a fence and have planted flowers along the walk. Burlingame recently built a barbecue pit in the yard and the boys frequently invite their friends in for a feed.

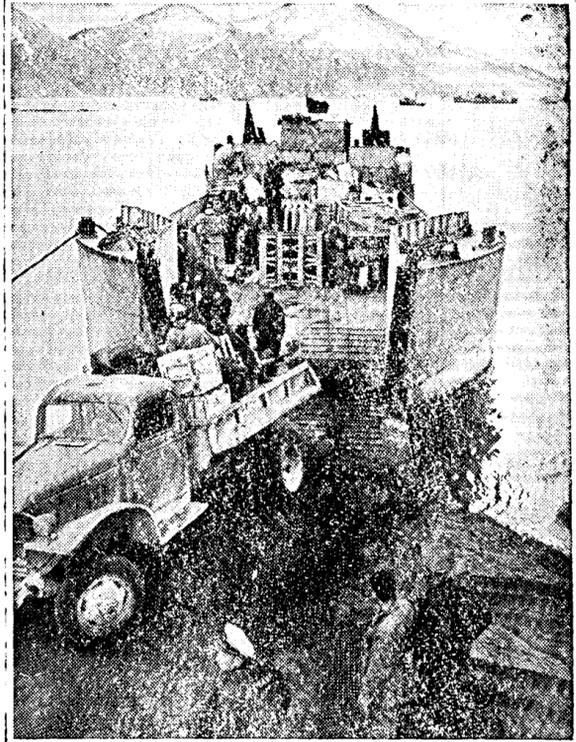

They've built furniture from discarded boxes and native wood and have cut the bottom out of old bottles to make lamp shades for their candles.

Microphotography Developed

Although newly developed in its present superior form, the idea of microphotography was originated in 1870 during the siege of Paris, in the Franco-Prussian war. The French managed to get news out of the city by means of free balloons released with cargoes of letters; homing pigeons in the balloons brought in messages but necessarily of extremely limited size.

Then a French photographer, Dargron, who had experimented with microphotography before the siege, conceived the idea of printing the messages to be carried by pigeons on large sheets, then reducing them in size photographically. More than 100,000 dispatches were sent in this manner. A strip of the original film is now in the archives of the Library of Congress together with nearly 10,000,000 microfilm reproductions of valuable and irreplaceable books and documents.

Seabees Move In as Battle Rages

Even as American and Japanese forces on the Aleutian Island of Attu blasted away at each other, Seabees of the navy set up bases, supply centers, and generally started military housekeeping. Here a truck carries supplies from a landing boat somewhere along the shoreline.

Frozen Milk Unsatisfactory

Up until now frozen milk has not been practicable because it did not reconstitute satisfactorily. When changed back to liquid milk, the fat globules in the cream separated into an oily film, making the milk unpalatable both to taste and sight.

Grade-Crossing Fatalities

Fatalities resulting from highway-railroad grade crossing accidents in 1942 totaled 1,982, an increase of 51 fatalities compared with 1941.

Peru Grows Quinine

Peru is developing a plantation industry for the growing of quinine and already has about 750,000 cinchona trees set out in this program. A factory in Peru now is producing quinine sulphate.

Early Business Courses

Forty years are being marked by the University of Illinois college of commerce and business administration. While present professional-level courses date back to 1902-03, several courses in business were in the original offerings of the university when it opened in 1868.

Overheating Firepot

The fire bowl of your furnace was designed to stand temperatures ordinarily found in furnaces when properly operated. Allowing the house to cool off and then building a roaring fire to warm it quickly, causes the fire bowl to be overheated.

Carbon From Anthracite

Studies on production of active carbon from anthracite have progressed to the point where pilot plant operations are justified. Active carbon possesses the property of selectively taking up other materials, especially liquids and gases, and is used in deodorizing, filtering and other purifying processes.

'Chemically Discontented'

Explosives mark man's closest approach to sheer "black magic," furnishing in the form of innocent-looking black or brown powders, grains or jellies, the most powerful forces that he can deliberately apply. Explosives act as they do because they are "chemically discontented." The ingredients of which the so-called high explosives are made are normally gases. They are virtually rammed into solid and liquid forms like Jacks-in-boxes. They are ready, on the least excuse, to jump out into their gaseous forms again. The excuse, furnished by fuses or detonators, is a sudden, powerful jolt. The hot gases into which each solid particle changes in a tiny fraction of a second occupy a vastly greater space than the particle did—more than 8,000 times as great in the case of nitroglycerine.

Axis Must Feed Prisoners

Under the Geneva convention, warring nations must feed prisoners of war the same ration given their own soldiers. Germany is a signatory to that pact and while Japan has never formally ratified it, it is believed that the Nipponese government is making some effort to comply.

The basic diet of the American soldier in German prison camps is largely potatoes, cabbage, fish, an indefinite amount of meat but no fats of any kind. While this ration complies with the convention agreement, it provides only for bare existence and the supplemental food package attempts to supply to some extent lacking elements.

Abound Amid Low Rainfalls

Nutritious herbage and dense animal populations dominate in regions of lower rainfalls and moderate temperatures, it is said.

Disease Rate Drops

The army's venereal disease rate in 1942 was 37.8 cases per 1,000 men, compared with a 1941 rate of 40.5 per 1,000, and in January of this year the rate was 25.2 per 1,000 men on an annual basis, compared with a January, 1942, rate of 45, the war department announced.

My Own Column

There are, every month, some of the 250 soldiers on our list, expiring. Mostly they are paid by the parents and we do not send notices to the soldiers, depending upon the parents to attend to renewing.

One learns by experience, even at my age. The other day at the lake I offered to make the fish soup for dinner. I was smoking and when I wanted to taste the soup to see if the flavoring was just right, forgot to remove my pipe and those tricky store teeth let the pipe drop.

I put in my time over the week end canning a crate each of apricots and gold plums and they look very nice. I used a silver table knife to run down around the inside of the cans to get all air bubbles up, before sealing the cans, just as my mother used to do, and which I have remembered more than fifty years.

But I will bet that I canned one thing that none of you other housewives have canned—cabbage. Last spring I set out a hundred frost proof cabbage. They all grew beautifully and we started using new cabbage in June, sold heads and there were lots of them. I was away two weeks and came home to find many had burst and spoiled. So as an experiment I canned a few cans and am going to know whether it is a good idea, just as a means of saving cabbage for winter that would otherwise be lost. Cabbage may be higher than a cat's back come Christmas.

Mrs. Victor Cook has long been a good friend of the Quiz and its publisher and when I met her the other day she asked if I could fry chicken. Being assured that I was a past master of the art, she said she would bring me one and sure enough Saturday night, here she came bringing it. I can't think of anything more appropriate as a Sunday dinner dish, than a nice fat spring chicken and this one was all of that and I really had pretty good luck with the biscuits, too, only I don't claim to know all there is to know about baking powder biscuits and I didn't think Eugene went for them in too big a way. He bragged on the chicken and mashed potatoes and gravy but somehow forgot to mention the biscuits.

I don't want to mention it but do suggest that you who have not yet renewed your July 15th Quiz expiration, you will be sorry that is, unless you intended to quit anyhow. And August 15 is almost here and if your's expires then it will show on the paper after your name.

In order to get soldiers, that is, enough of them to conduct a war, they have to be drafted. Thousands of young men who were teachers and preachers and farmers and business men of all kinds, have had to give up their work or careers and be trained as soldiers and then go to the front and become targets for the enemy bullets, all at a very nominal wage. Many others have been deferred to be allowed to stay at home and do necessary war work, not at nominal wages, but at ridiculously high wages, but even then they strike for more and thus slow up the production of material needed for the other young men at the front. It is ridiculous and a disgrace to this country that they are allowed to do so and I believe, if it is necessary, that they should be drafted for the work and when they refuse to work, they should be treated just as a soldier would be treated who deserts his post.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

July 30, 1943 Bremerton, Wash.

Mr. Leggett, Dear Sir: Please find enclosed two dollars for the Quiz, as we like to read it very much. Its seven months since I left Ord for Washington and I must say that I like Washington very much. Bremerton is a nice city. But Seattle is beautiful, especially at night when all the lights are on. The climate is very nice. Warm in the day time, nice and cool at night. You can go to bed and sleep with the covers on. And we haven't any wind. The people are all working. Lots of women working in defense work. The streets are full of sailors, airmen, army and women soldiers. Its a colorful sight. I love it. If this letter finds itself in print, I want to say hello to Mrs. Needham and Billy, Mrs. Tom Williams, Bill McLain, Mrs. Frank Golka, Mrs. Foot, and all my friends, and also the whole Quiz family, as I feel an interest in part of it for a long time, and I think they learned a lot there that helps them now in the navy. And they are doing fine. Ed got another raise in rank and pay. His pay is $15 a month now. Leonard is in school in California for advanced training. Well, my letter is getting long so I will close with good wishes for all.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

A flock of sheep is the project of Junior Scott, who lives in Haskell Creek and went to Ord high school during the past term. Junior's sheep browse on weeds and do not bother the nearby cornfields. They also graze on sudan, and have not been poisoned by it thus far. The ewes receive grain only before lambing and hay is the chief feed in winter. They are a bit particular about water, preferring not to drink with other livestock.

Junior likes the Hampshires or "black-faces" best, and uses Hamp bucks on mixed ewes. He would rather get single lambs than twins because the ewes can raise singles better. The spring lambs will be marketed soon, and should bring ten or twelve dollars apiece, thinks Junior. Wool from the ewes sold for over 30 cents per pound, and probably paid for their keep. Junior believes that sheep fit well on a hilly farm such as theirs where weeds are the surest crop. The flock generally rests on the knolls, and fertilizes the soil where most needed. Lambs will top the market with little grain feed, and can be produced on forage alone. The smallness of lambs makes them a handy size for summer butchering.

More folks should learn to enjoy the flavor of lamb and mutton. A liking for the taste of this meat has to be developed, as does a liking for olives.

Spain Is Olive Center

Spain is the largest producer of olives and olive oil. The shore and mountains behind the Italian and French Riviera are regarded as ideal for slowly maturing the finest fruit. Restoring fertility to barren sands in North Africa, the French have in recent years increased olive culture in areas now viewed by American troops.

Something Different

You're right, it was a strange affair. In the first place, it seemed I decided to have a dinner party, but the people I asked couldn't come, and I appeared to be surprised at those who did. For in the door came Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Miller, Mrs. John Round and a young widow and don't ask me how I knew she was a widow!

And strange to relate, the dinner party wasn't at my house, it was at the E. L. Vogelantz home. Now everyone knows that Amelia is particular about her housekeeping, but for some reason the house wasn't in order this evening. In fact there were heaps and stacks of clothes on everything in the house.

The clothes seemed to be clean clothes, not yet put away after the washing. Yet the dining table was covered with clean socks belonging to the Leggett tribe, and the table was far from ready for a dinner party. The whole house was like that. It seemed to be that a pile of overcoats was across one chair, piles of other clothes here and there. I certainly wasn't ready for that dinner party.

I would go to the door and welcome some guests, talk to them a minute, then see another pile of clothing, so I'd excuse myself and hang them away. In a minute more guests would come and I'd have them come in, make a remark or two and then I'd notice there were more piles of clothes to hurry away, before the "dinner party" noticed. Again I would excuse myself and go through the same rigamarole.

Doctor Miller wanted me to play the piano, but I went riding with Roger, who wanted to show me something. For some reason we drove into a city slum district, and there a gang of toughs thought it funny to push our car into the slaughter line of a big stockyard. We were rushed closer and closer to the butchering machinery, then we were saved and went home to the dinner party again, yes, it was at the Vogelantz home again, though it didn't look exactly like the interior of the Vogelantz home—so don't ask me how I knew I was in their house, then.

The dinner party went on as before. The guests sat around and sat around, there was a litter everywhere, which I kept trying to put away and straighten up between snatches of conversation with the guests. No food appeared.

It never seemed to worry me what the menu might be, or whether the cooking was being done. No smells of good food or memories of any certain dish linger with me today. In fact it seems food was one thing there wasn't, though time went on—I had a hunch the first guests arrived about six-thirty, and they kept coming until seven o'clock. I don't know how many of them. I put away dozens of clothes. No one set the table. It got to be eight o'clock, and no food or dinner yet. This went on . . . and on. It was one of the dandiest nightmares I have ever had.

—Irma.

Quiet and Shy By MEREDITH SCHOLL Associated Newspapers. WNU Features.

WHEN there are two men and a girl involved there is bound to be trouble. Especially when the girl is as good looking as Simone Mill.

She had reddish hair and greenish eyes, and she liked sports. We invited her to spend a couple of weeks with us at camp, not knowing, of course, that Val Marcus was going to surprise us with a visit. We hadn't planned on Val. In fact, we had hoped that Simone and Neil Spangler, who painted pictures for a living and owned the camp across the cove where he lived with motherly Mrs. Nesbit, his housekeeper, would find a good deal of interest in each other.

Simone, who had been used to the big strong athletic type, liked him. They got along fine. Then Val arrived, and we decided she had been only marking time with Neil until somebody more like herself came along.

I'd met Val out west the summer before and asked him to drop in and see us if he ever came east. He was too handsome for his own good. More, he had that natural, instinctive co-ordination between brain and muscles that makes good athletes.

The first few days Val was with us Simone didn't see Neil. That made me feel bad. I know Neil and I know Val. The latter is too loud, too sure of himself, too boastful. In the final analysis he wouldn't be able to give a girl as much as Neil.

"You dope," I told him the day I walked over and found him sitting on his front porch brooding, "if you love the girl, why don't you do something about it? You do love her, don't you?"

He smiled without rancor. "Yes," he said. "She's the first girl I've ever really loved."

"That's dandy!" I told him sarcastically. "So you love the lass and you're willing to sit here like a bump on a log and watch a windbag like Val Marcus walk off with her."

"There isn't anything I can do," he told me patiently. "She's had a week to find out what I'm like. It's only fair that she has a week to find out what Val's like. Then she'll have to make her own decision."

"Well, I'll be —!" I stalked back through the woods. Simone and Val had gone swimming. Mary, my wife, was alone on the porch. "That duffer!" I told her. "Sitting there as calm as you please and letting this guy with the movie actor profile sell his girl the idea what a wonder he is." I told her what Neil had said.

Mary smiled. Curiously, there is a similarity about Mary and Neil. They are both quiet and shy, yet they both seem to get what they want.

"I wouldn't worry about Neil," she said. "Neil's smart."

That may be all right. I could agree with her that Neil was smart. But so was Val Marcus. Besides being smart Val was good looking and smooth.

In the week that followed Mary had Neil over to dinner almost every night, and seeing him again had its effect on Simone. After all, there was definitely something about Neil that had an appeal. You could see that half the time she was undecided and worried and unhappy. Val could see it, too, and he apparently worked on the premise that the less Simone was exposed to Neil the better his chances would be. So after dinner he always suggested a swim, or canoeing in the moonlight or climbing a mountain or something; things at which he was good. Neil, the dope, never made any objections. Half the time, though Simone urged him; he didn't accompany them. It made me disgusted.

In fact, I was about ready to admit that Neil didn't, after all, have the stuff I thought he had. Then one night just before dinner he came by in his outdoor and asked Val to go fishing. He knew, he said, where there was a big one they could knockle onto before time to eat.

Val couldn't very well refuse. Simone and Mary and I sat on the porch and watched them put across the lake. Neil headed directly for the opposite shore and when they were about half a mile out he cut his motor. It was a still, clear evening, so still that you could hear very small sounds out on the lake. You could hear the rattle of things in the boat. You could hear the sound of voices.

Dusk had come. We three sat very still. We could hear Val's boastful tone. "Say, women are all alike. Why, in college I had a dozen of 'em chasing after me." We could hear Neil's voice. It was low and indistinguishable. Then Val again: "The thing to do is be smart. Forget the marriage stuff. Make 'em love you. That's where the percentage is. Now you take Simone." Just then Mary rattled a newspaper. I coughed. Simone got up and went quickly into the house.

I saw Neil alone two days later. Val had gone home, angry and puzzled. "Congratulations, Neil. Simone told us the good news. Bet you'll be happy together." I paused. "Don't mind saying I thought you'd lost your grip there for awhile."

He grinned, that slow, shy grin. "Confidentially, I don't mind telling you I thought we never would get a clear, quiet evening."

Adjustments Made to Fit Women to War Industry

The necessity of fitting women to wartime jobs, and fitting the jobs to women, has brought to the factory progress both in production methods and working conditions that may prove a boon in peacetime as well as now.

A study reveals that most of the changes manufacturers have had to make are good for men as well as women and that changes necessary to fit women to plants were less drastic than feared. Moreover, the psychological adjustments that have been necessary on the part of the employer, employee and public often have outweighed in importance the mechanical changes and job simplifications that were required.

The distinction between "man's work" and "woman's work" has faded in many industries. Before the bombing of Pearl Harbor, many jobs that did not necessarily require male strength were traditionally barred to women. Now some of these are completely manned by womanpower.

Many of the changes that wartime needs have highlighted were changes that intelligent employers were making anyway. A drill and tool concern in Chicago, making twist drills, built its plant and designed its machinery with the express purpose of hiring women. Work benches were built lower to serve women's shorter stature or platforms were provided to accommodate the worker to towering machinery.

Chickens' Feathers Can Change Their Color

Maybe a leopard can't change the pattern of his spots, but a chicken can change the color of her feathers—merely through a new diet. This phenomenon was made known recently at the Pennsylvania State college, where laboratory chickens—and turkeys—were fed certain rations that caused dark-feathered birds to develop white plumage, according to Dr. R. V. Boucher, associate professor of agricultural and biological chemistry.

The strange deficiency does not seem to be caused by any of the recognized vitamins, Dr. Boucher reports, although its exact cause is still unknown. The condition may be prevented and cured by feeding dried brewer's yeast under certain conditions. The yeast should be fed at the rate of 5 per cent of the mash, should contain at least 45 per cent protein, and should not be irradiated.

It takes about two to three weeks for the white growth to develop after the birds are put on the "white feather" ration. This condition may be brought about any time during feather growth. So far the lack of pigment has been observed only in poultry confined in houses and has not been found in birds that have access to good pasture.

Johnstown Flood

In May in 1889 a heavy rain fell for days along the Atlantic seaboard. The downpour in the Conemaugh valley in western Pennsylvania caused the water held in check by the dam across South Fork, a branch of the Conemaugh river, to rise inch by inch toward the breastworks of the dam.

On May 31 the dam gave way, unleashing 20 million tons of water. Carrying trees and bridges, houses, railroad ties and industrial machinery before it, the flood raced down the narrow valley. Less than an hour later the city of Johnstown, 12 miles below, lay in ruins.

A warning that the dam burst rang through the valley too late for more than 2,000 of its inhabitants, mostly women and children, who perished. By the time the flood-water was stilled it was 30 feet deep in the valley and the property damage, was estimated as high as 10 million dollars.

Apple Tree Needs Care

Prune the apple tree. All dead and dying limbs should be cut off first. Water sprouts or succulent growth and weak limbs in the center of the tree should be removed to let the light among the branches. Cuts should be made smoothly with sharp tools.

Cultivate the sod beneath the tree and fertilize. The ground should be broken and stirred before the tree blossoms, but may be done a few weeks later if necessary. Clean cultivation is not recommended and complete destruction of the sod is not desirable. Spray when the time comes. It is usually much more satisfactory to hire the services of a commercial spray rig than to try to do it yourself. Although unsprayed fruit usually does not keep so well as the sprayed fruit, it often proves satisfactory for home consumption.

Sought Spice Islands

Like other parts of South America, La Plata river in Uruguay was discovered by explorers trying to find the illusive spice islands. In 1516 Juan Diaz De Solis happened upon its wide mouth. Later Magellan saw it. Sebastian Cabot, son of the English discoverer, was its first real explorer. He traveled up its wide, muddy bay, and saw Indians wearing silver ornaments. Surely this was a sign that the country was rich in silver. In this belief, he promptly named the waterway Rio La Plata—which means the Silver River.

Ferris announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Loraine Ferris, to Sgt. Dale Axthelm, son of L. A. Axthelm, of North Loup. Miss Ferris, a graduate of Ord high school, is employed at the Douglas aircraft plant at Long Beach, Calif. and recently was at home on vacation at the same time Sgt. Axthelm was enjoying a furlough. He is in the army air corps and stationed at Pyote, Tex. Altar Society Meets. The Altar society of the Lady of Perpetual Help church met in the basement of the church Wednesday. The fall bazaar was the object discussed at the meeting. A report of the fourth Circle and their activities for June was read. Pinochle was played, with Mrs. Guy LeMasters winning the door prize. Rev. Father Siudowski made a few remarks of appreciation for the work of the Altar society, who have made their new Altar their objective, and hope to have it installed by next Sunday. Mrs. J. C. Van House, who is leaving the parish to make her home in Kenesaw, was presented with a beautiful console set, as a gift from the Altar society and St. Ann's Study club and a bouquet of roses from Mrs. Guy LeMasters. Luncheon was served by Al. Parkos, Jr., and Mrs. Tony Wegrzyn, chairman of Circle 5. Store Better Vegetables. Certain varieties of fruits and vegetables come out of frozen storage in better condition than others. Only good quality garden products should be stored, since freezing, drying, or canning rarely improves either flavor or texture. An exception to this rule is snap beans which are tenderized by freezing. Spruce Trees Aid War Effort. Spruce trees in Great Britain have aided in the war effort in a remarkable way. Before the war Britain imported all its seed for common spruce from central Europe, but the supply was cut off with serious loss to the forestry department. But now the spruce are astonishingly rich in cones, even the small trees bearing them. This is true all over the country, it is reported in London, and the cone harvest is enough to plant many thousands of acres.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Hitler found out that his high powered mechanized and motorized army bogged down in the snow and mud of the Russian Winter. Although our Army is largely mechanized the cavalry horse is still a highly essential factor in this mounted division and in the Field Artillery. The Army also maintains remount farms where many cavalry horses are bred and raised.

These select horses cost from $100 to $165 and our crack cavalrymen are expert riders and carry on the traditions which have followed the cavalry from the earliest days of the Army. Purchase of War Savings Bonds will insure good mounts for the Cavalry. You and your neighbors buying War Bonds and Stamps regularly every pay day can help buy those horses for the U. S. Cavalry. Invest at least 10 percent of your income in War Bonds. U. S. Treasury Department Drink Mate. Nearly 12,000,000 people in South America are drinking mate, made from leaves of the yerba mate tree growing there in place of coffee or tea.

English Pigeons Destructive. Pigeons are causing so much damage in Kent district of England that the Farmers' Union is appealing to farmers to organize pigeon hunts.

Stretch Canned Food. Perhaps the easiest way to stretch canned foods is to use them to supplement raw fruits and vegetables. Plan menus to combine processed with raw foods.

Watch Poultry Rations. Nutritional deficiencies in poultry rations may cause "curled toe" paralysis, dermatitis, imperfect egg shells, rickets, or convulsions. Growers should watch closely all feeding rations.

Apple Harvest. Early McIntosh apples take on the average 90 days from bloom to harvest. Wealthies take 109 days, Gravensteins 114, McIntosh 127, Baldwins 135, and Northern Spies 143.

Tighten Harrow Teeth. A few minutes work with a long-handled socket wrench will make the teeth of the spring-tooth harrow dig evenly into the soil to do the best job of preparing land for planting of crops.

Register Medicine. The Dominican Republic has banned the sale of all medicines and pharmaceutical specialties until they have been analyzed by the national laboratory and registered with the secretary for sanitation and public welfare.

'Shock Troops' Harvest. Volunteer "shock troops" of business men, women, and boys and girls in Walworth county, South Dakota, brought in more than 6,000 acres of grain last year when the county harvest was threatened by a labor shortage.

Jap Wrestlers Fat. Japanese wrestlers usually are fat men. They consume heavy rations of meat, beer and wine. Their "show" includes preliminary chest thumping, thigh slapping and water spouting as a means of impressing their physical grandeur on spectators.

Common Board. Refectory table was a heavy old table formerly used in monasteries. It was long, narrow, usually with four or six staunch turned legs, an apron below the thick top and a stretcher around the base. It went "out" of popular use when the gate-leg table came "in" during Cromwell's time.

Stockholders Numerous. The total number of General Motors common and preferred stockholders for the first quarter of 1943 was 414,184 compared with 413,349 for the fourth quarter of 1942 and with 413,276 for the first quarter of 1942.

We are giving our help to sell War Saving Stamps and Bonds on August 7. There will be a Molly Pitcher booth on the streets and you will receive a Molly Pitcher tag when you buy stamps and bonds. This day honors a plucky heroine of the Revolutionary war. While the sun blazed down on the battlefield of Monmouth, Molly Pitcher went back and forth, carrying pitchers of well water to the men. When her husband fell at his cannon, she took his place and fired his gun until the battle was won. The men called her "Molly Pitcher"—hence, Molly Ludwig became Molly Pitcher.

The Arcadia firemen responded to a call about nine o'clock Wednesday evening to the Ray Lutz house on east main street. The house is vacant at this time but a short circuit developed and the fire was out when the firemen arrived. The firemen were complaining after the fire that too many curious people drove their cars to fires, which greatly hinder the work of the department. Not all firemen ride the fire truck to fires and the streets should be kept open for the use of those firemen who drive their own cars to the scene of the fire. There is a penalty for those whose cars obstruct the streets at time of a fire, but the department is seeking the co-operation of the people rather than making any arrests. Lets stay at home or walk to the next fire.

Mrs. Dale Park (Marguerite Rettenmayer) who with her husband is in Fairbanks, Alaska, wrote her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Rettenmayer of a rather unique experience that she had the other day. It seems that the Park's, who are both employed in work connected with the Alcan highway construction, are living at a hotel and as Mrs. Park was turning in her key at the desk a voice exclaimed, "Is that you Marguerite?", turning, Mrs. Park discovered the owner of the voice was none other than Sgt. Brandenburg were schoolmates in the Arcadia high school. Mrs. Park says that for the next three days she and her husband saw much of Sgt. Brandenburg. It was about a year ago that Sgt. Brandenburg was strolling down a street in an Alaskan town, when he ran into Geo. Olson and Gene Hastings also of Arcadia, which shows that the war has indeed made the world much smaller.

Japs Ban Baseball

Crops Absorb Arsenic
Scientists in the field of soils and vegetable growing at a University report that some vegetable crops may take up arsenic from the soil in sufficient quantities to make the crops dangerous to persons with a high degree of susceptibility to this poison. Although persons who have a high degree of tolerance for arsenic would probably suffer no ill effects, some risk is involved and the plantings of arsenate-treated soil had best be avoided.

Conserve Shoes
During the year 1942, the shoe conservation program of the army included a total of 5,584,028 pairs repaired for further soldier use by quartermaster corps shoe repair installations alone, and an additional 1,031,000 pairs completely rebuilt for the army in two large shoe rebuilding plants.

Archery Precision Sport
Appreciating the fact that it is a competitive sport whereby airplane pilots, gunners and mechanics alike may develop judgment, timing and accuracy, all of which are essential virtues in today's war of the clouds, army air forces authorities at the advanced flying school at Kirkland Field, near Albuquerque, N. M., recently instituted the practice of archery as a part of the physical training program of that station.

Soil District News

Many irrigation farmers in the Loup Valleys have made this statement, "As soon as I get the grain off that field I want to do some leveling on it." The longer they irrigate, the more farmers realize that a field that has been leveled for irrigation really pays. A proper prepared field to run water saves times, saves soil and makes for higher yields.

The surface of the land should be leveled and graded according to the dictates of common sense, which will teach the farmer that the surface soil should not be removed from portions of the land to such an extent that "slick" tracts will develop in his lands or infertile subsoil be spread over the top of the more fertile surface soil.

When a person starts to irrigate a farm he should immediately do some careful planning by having his irrigation system laid out wisely. On nearly all farms some leveling is needed. Before the leveling job is started a careful topographic map of the area to be leveled should be prepared. This map will show all the "highs" and "lows" of each field. The leveling job may be accomplished by using a number of different tools such as the Fresno, tumblerbug or any one of a number of leveling machines. The fields leveled should always be finished by use of some kind of a "float."

Caution should be exercised in planning the private irrigation system of a farm. If the slope of the land is great, as is often the case on the steeper hillsides to be cropped, the distance between distribution ditches should be perhaps not more than 50 feet, this length increasing as the land becomes more level.

For reasons that appear in connection with the distribution of water, water should very rarely be run over 800 feet.

Leveling greatly assists in keeping some parts of a field from becoming over-irrigated or over-saturated. Soil should never become over-irrigated or over-saturated, since air in the soil is as essential to plant growth as water. Many farmers in the Loup Valleys are making the mistake of immediately re-irrigating their corn after just getting over it with one irrigation. The result will be over-saturation, and in many places, leaching of the soil will take place.

The Irrigation District and the Soil District are both very much interested in seeing as much land in the Loup Valleys leveled as possible this fall. More production can be obtained from irrigation farms if they are handled wisely and leveling of land is very important when it comes to the distribution of irrigation water.

Assistance in planning the leveling of irrigation lands may be obtained by applying to the Soil District Supervisors. The Soil District Supervisors believe that land leveling for irrigation is a very good land use practice.

Grain Wanted

We are in the market for your Wheat, Rye, Oats, Barley and Corn. If you have grain to sell let us make a bid on it. If necessary we can do part or all of the trucking on the grain that we buy.

Mr. Feeder, we have a supply of feeding grains and protein feeds for sale at this time. The recent ruling freezing the processors' stocks of Soy Bean Meal will probably make Mixed Feeds and Concentrates very hard to get and it is possible that it will cause many feed mixers to change their formulas again. We suggest that you do not let your stock of mixed feeds get too low or you might find it very hard to get sufficient feed for your needs.

We carry a very large stock of mixed feeds and concentrates and they are all priced reasonable. Try them.

Alfalfa Hay Wanted

Saunders Mills Inc., Toledo, Ohio, are laying plans to have an Alfalfa Mill in operation in Ord, in a very short time. A telephone call from Mr. Walker Tuesday told us that their plans were shaping fast and that they were ready to start buying Alfalfa Hay now. It will be a couple of weeks before their men arrive and they have asked us to write contracts for this hay and make substantial payments on it for them, until their men and equipment get here. If you have alfalfa for sale we will be glad to give you the information, write the contract and make the payment for the purchase of the Alfalfa Hay.

Plant Alfalfa

A very good time to sow alfalfa is from Aug. 15th to Sept. 15th. Weeds and grasshoppers do not bother so much in the fall as in the spring. Why not plan to sow a field this fall? With the very good prospects of the alfalfa mill coming in soon it is a good plan to sow more alfalfa.

Detasslers 13 to 60 Find Sunburn, Good Pay in Work

This is the picture of some of the detasslers who have been working in the corn fields the past two weeks and this week will finish up most of the fields. The workers are between the ages of 13 and 60 years old. They report to the office at 6:45 every morning and are in the fields at 7 o'clock and work from eight to ten hours each day. A lot of good sunburns and tans but they all seem to enjoy it and do they ever like that pay check. The pay roll for last week was $1900. It is very interesting to know about this hybrid corn as it is something new in our valley. Hybrid corn is crossed from the male and female species, and the detassling of the female corn allows pollination to occur. The hybrid corn when matured is used for seedling purposes. The farmers that raise this corn are paid 30c more per bushel than market price. If more of this corn is planted next year, it is possible that we may have a drying plant located in Arcadia, which would increase the pay roll considerably.

She says she used to ride a bicycle and thought she still could but it is a question whether, when she recovers from this accident, if she will persist in trying to be a bicycle athlete.

Valley Co. Bond Goal Is High for August

Valley county is being asked to buy war bonds during August to the amount of $44,940.00. That seems like a pretty high mark for the people of this county to shoot at but a series of good rains might make people feel so good that they would go over the top again as they so often have in the past.

Sgt. Robert Kasal Killed in Alaska

Last week, on this page, we presented a very nice likeness of Sgt. Robert Kasal. Friday after the Quiz was printed the relatives received a message from the war department stating that Sgt. Kasal had met death in action and this was followed by a letter from the Adjutant General saying that his death was the result of an airplane accident and that the facts surrounding the case were not known, as the entire crew was lost. It may be that the real facts may never be known. A memorial service will be held later.

Bob, it will be remembered, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kasal of Omaha. His grandmother, Mrs. M. Kasal, and his aunt, Mrs. R. L. Lincoln, reside in Ord, and an aunt, Miss Lottie Kasal, is employed at Wobach in the bank. Miss Kasal came up Friday and has been spending a few days with her people.

It's a Small World.

Recently, when Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Duemey were coming north from Florida, they drove into the town of Decatur, Ala., and parked at the curb. As they climbed out of the car they noticed a man walking past who seemed much interested in their car and when he turned and came back toward them they were puzzled to place him, yet he looked familiar. He asked if they were from Ord, and introduced himself at Bill Wright and of course a delightful visit resulted. Mr. Wright is employed by a large milling concern in Omaha and had been sent by his firm to Decatur to get a new mill into operation there.

—Dr. and Mrs. George Parkins returned Sunday from Omaha.

Idaho Man Amazed at Valley Prospects

Marvin Jagels of Buhl, Idaho, national president of the Future Farmers of America, stopped off at Ord last Thursday on his way home from a meeting at Washington, D. C.

Young Mr. Jagels specializes in raising spotted Poland China hogs and his visit to Ord was prompted by the fact that this is the home of Clifford Goff one of the outstanding spotted Poland breeders of the country. Accompanied by County Agent C. C. Dale, Jagels visited the Goff farm and while there purchased a spring boar, which Clifford will soon ship to Idaho, where the pig will head the excellent herd which young Jagels has built up through his vocational agriculture and 4-H club work.

Mr. Goff was rather reluctant to sell the tippy young boar which Jagels selected, preferring to keep the animal for his fall sale, but after considering the distance which his visitor had traveled and the fact that he would be unable to attend the Goff sale in October, Clifford named a price and the deal was quickly closed.

Mr. Jagels expressed amazement at the extensive system of farming in the irrigated North Loup valley. In the area around his home which is in an old established irrigation project, farming is intensive, and a 160-acre irrigated farm is a year round job for two men and requires a lot of extra help during the harvest season, he stated.

Dale says the young man was a likeable alert and intelligent, young farmer and it is not at all difficult to see why he has been selected to head the great national organization of young farmers which he serves as president.

Serves as Woman Reservist.

Delores Redfern, Yeoman, 3rd class, daughter of George Redfern, Ravenna, Nebr., is now on duty as a Woman Reservist of the Navy in the nation's capital. Yeoman Redfern is assigned to the Bureau of Naval Personnel.

As an enlisted woman in the U. S. Naval Reserve, she is one of several thousands of women who have been assigned to Washington to serve as direct replacements for Navy men, releasing them to fight at sea with the fleet. Groups of women in trim blue Navy uniforms are now an established part of the Washington scene and both the city and the Navy have made the newcomers feel at home.

Women Reservists in the capital have proved their value not only as replacements for men, but as trained Naval personnel doing jobs in their own right; they are fulfilling responsible assignments in every type of naval work under the jurisdiction of the Potomac River Naval Command.

All enlisted women on duty there are quartered by the Navy in special barracks where living is friendly, comfortable and typically Navy. In their liberty hours, they are free to visit the many places of interest around the capital and to enjoy the social opportunities open to men and women in the armed services.

Yeoman Redfern is a graduate of Chadron State Teachers college and worked as a Home Supervisor for the Farm Security Administration, Ord, Nebr., before enlisting in the Navy on January 20, 1943. She received her recruit and specialist training at the WAVES Training School, Cedar Falls, Ia.

Lack of Interest May Cost Valley Co. Alfalfa Mill

Saunders Mills Inc., Will Not Invest Their Money Unless More Alfalfa is Assured.

The word received by the Quiz is that valley farmers seem loathe to contract their alfalfa. Unless the promoters of the mill can get alfalfa it is not reasonable to suppose that they will invest their money. It seems to the Quiz that such a business, locating in Ord, would be of great benefit to this valley down through the years. Perhaps if we lose it now we can't get it later.

What is the cause of the lack of interest? Stockmen will perhaps pay as much as will the mill. There might be times when they would pay a little more. On the other hand, when there is moisture and the hay crop in the hills is good, the market will not be as good as the grinders would pay. The men who have alfalfa to sell at this time hesitate to sell, no doubt believing that they can get as much from local buyers.

But there is another thing to take into consideration. The corn being raised this year under irrigation looks wonderful. But corn cannot be raised year after year on the same ground. It must be rotated with something else and alfalfa it seems is the best crop for that purpose, as it is good for the land, putting back into it what the corn has taken out and at the same time being a good quick money crop, if there is a market for it. There should be many more acres of alfalfa in the valley than there is, and if those acres are again put into alfalfa the local market will not consume the crop that will be produced under irrigation. It seems to us that it will be a mistake not to get the mill here.

Obituary.
After a brief illness, Mrs. Maggie Frances Hopkins closed her book of life at 7:30 a. m., Aug. 4th, 1943 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Earl Howell of North Loup, Neb.

She was born at Des Moines, Ia., January 16, 1863 and reached the age of 75 years, 6 months and 19 days at the time of her death.

At the age of 19 years she was united in marriage to John D. Hopkins on February 23, 1889 at Plattsmouth, Neb.

About a year after their marriage they came to Garfield Co., Neb., and settled on the homestead, which was their home until about seven years ago, when they took a trip to Oregon, spending a few years there, with their three children.

About three years ago they made a short trip to Nebraska, but as they liked the climate in the west they returned to Oregon. And one year ago this month they returned to Nebraska with their son, Ralph and family and remained here.

To her union with Mr. Hopkins were born nine children. One son passing on at the age of nine years. Those surviving are: Charles, Frank and Ralph, all of Burwell, Neb.; Mrs. Fern Howells of North Loup, Neb.; Mrs. Joe Long of North Bend, Wash.; Mrs. Ella Dunsten of Cheyenne, Wyo.; Floyd Hopkins and Mrs. Katie Conard of Grant's Pass, Ore., who were all at her bedside when the end came. Mrs. Hopkins also has one sister of Council Bluffs, Ia., two brothers in Colorado and two in Oregon. Several neices and nephews, nineteen grandchildren, and seven great grandchildren.

After many years of hard labor for the family and loved ones, her health began to fail and since the death of her husband last January 11, she has gradually grown weaker. Everything that loving hands could do was done for her trying to make her comfortable as possible.

She will be greatly missed in our homes, but since it has been her desire to go to her Heavenly home, we hope she will be very happy with her loved one, who have gone on before. As she often said, "I wish I was with Father and I'm going home, I'm sure the dear Lord knows what is best for us."

I cannot say, and will not say that she is dead. She is just away.

With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand.

She has wandered into an unknown land.

And left us dreaming how very fair

It need's must be, since she lingers there.

And you—O you with the wild-west yearn

For the old time step and the glad return—

Think of her faring on, as dear

In the love of there as the love of here.

Think of her as the same I say

She is not dead—She is just away.

The funeral was held at the Fraziers Funeral Parlors at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The pall bearers were Fred Martinson, Joe Falmon, Stanley Petaska, Frank Bartos, James Bradtka and Julius Awanski.

Music by Mrs. Harold Hoepner and Mrs. Winnie Bartz with Miss Nettie Clark at the piano. Flower ladies were Mrs. Kerr and Mrs. Switzer. Rev. Hansberry preached the service.

SAFeway Homemakers' Guide

Ideas for that main course

It can be a fascinating game these days—trying to figure out what to have for that main course. Despite shortages in some foods, those main dishes must be hearty, appetizing, attractive and budget-fitting. Here are some suggestions that may help.

MACARONI MEAT LOAF—Cook 2 cups macaroni in boiling, salted water until tender. Combine with 1/2 to 1 pound ground meat, beef, lamb, veal or pork or combinations of these meats. Add 2 cups chopped tomatoes, chopped onions and green peppers to taste, and season with salt and pepper. Add 1 or 2 beaten eggs and turn into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 1 hour or until meat is done. It is your meat and starch courses all in one, and it makes meat go twice as far.

STEW A LA MODE—Cook stew as usual, adding vegetables (but not potatoes) in season. When done, thicken the liquid and pour gravy, meat and vegetables into a casserole. Top with hot, mashed potatoes and place in a hot oven (450° F.) for about 10 minutes or until potatoes have turned a toasty brown. Serve at once. This stew may well be a company dish for all its goodness and eye appeal.

CHEESE DUTY—Sauté 2 or 3 tbsps. chopped onion until limp, then add 2 or 3 chopped tomatoes, salt, pepper and a dash of sugar and simmer for about 10 minutes. Add 1/2 to 1/2 pound of grated cheese and cook until melted and thoroughly blended. Finally, add 1 beaten egg gradually and stir constantly to blend in the egg smoothly. Cook just a minute longer until velvety in consistency. Serve immediately on thin, hot toast.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

It was not long after I claimed to be the only cabbage canner that I got called. Mrs. Harry Bresley came in to tell me that she had a surplus of cabbage...

Western fruits seem awfully high to buy for canning but after you do it and figure up just what they have cost you a quart, counting everything but your work, you find that you couldn't buy them at the price they have cost.

I am the big boss around the Quiz plant for a couple of weeks and while I don't know just how much of a paper we are going to have I am enjoying it.

Many a time Ray has "located" the fishing hole for us. And if he hasn't located it, he has offered some most entertaining alibis. Stuff like "the fish have some mouths, this is the season when they lose their teeth, you know."

About February first Ray left Minnesota for the wilds and colds of the far north, going to help Uncle Sam get barracks and things like that ready for soldier boys.

ganization and knows who to call but it is no good to me and in two weeks of course there is not time to get very well organized.

And the same goes for those good and faithful news writers in the surrounding towns. I hope they will have an especially good lot of news for next week, for I am sure to get deposited at the end of next week.

I was terribly insulted this week when Old Lou Frazier of the Fairmont Chronicle, in sending up some pictures from which to have cuts made, enclosed a note saying, "If Old Hank Leggett is still living, tell him hello for me."

And now, as the news commentator says, a word from the subscription boss, don't forget to renew your Quiz if you are one who will expire August 15.

Something Different

Ray Luther, the guide and caretaker at Cullen Lake for the ten or eleven cottages comprising this summer colony is known to Quiz readers at least by proxy, for his name has graced Quiz columns many a time.

Uncle Sam really took good care of them though. "We had the finest woolens, the warmest clothing, better than anything you can find in the stores in Seattle or Minneapolis."

"We had wonderful food, too, and all we could eat. Steaks, fowl, pork and beef, so much turkey we took to calling it 'sea gull' and were tired of it.

having a son in the navy, and hearing about the fat pay checks induced him to make the move. He came home to Cullen Lake this week, and as those who knew him expected, he is equipped with an entirely new line of conversation, all interesting.

It is a long, hard journey from Minnesota to the west coast and up that coast to Alaska, requiring days and days, even weeks. But the workmen are badly needed, and excellently paid.

His work was nearer the coast not on the famous Canada-Alaska highway nor near it. The climate was one thing Ray thought should be improved.

"No, only one. It began when I got there and I got rid of it three or four days after I left," Ray laughed. "All the fellows had colds, chills, pneumonia, other troubles like that; it was just too damp and cold there."

Uncle Sam really took good care of them though. "We had the finest woolens, the warmest clothing, better than anything you can find in the stores in Seattle or Minneapolis."

"We had wonderful food, too, and all we could eat. Steaks, fowl, pork and beef, so much turkey we took to calling it 'sea gull' and were tired of it.

"But Uncle Sam surely looked after us. We could have all the coffee, all the sugar, milk, anything we wanted. And crates and baskets of the finest fruit always sat where we could have all we wanted.

Another Step toward producing 100% of our needs!

Purchase of Globe Oil & Refining Company's 17,500-barrel refinery at McPherson, Kas., by National Co-operative Refinery Association brings to eight the number of cooperatively-owned refined fuel "factories" in the United States. Total capacity of the eight is nearly 40,000 barrels of crude oil a day. Closer and closer cooperatives move toward 100% production for our own needs—toward the day when every gallon of gasoline, every pound of grease, every stick of lumber used by a co-op member will be produced in factories, distributed through wholesaling organizations, and sold in a local co-op owned by him.

Your local co-op is glad to have a hand in this newest acquisition. It is a shareholder in and a patron of Consumers Cooperative Association, North Kansas City, Mo., one of the five regional wholesalers which incorporated National Cooperative Refinery Association. Christian Science Services. "Soul" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, August 15.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; he leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul." (Psalms 23: 1-3).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." (Matthew 5:48).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Science of being reveals man as perfect, even as the Father is perfect, because the Soul, or Mind, of the spiritual man is God, the divine Principle of all being, and because this real man is governed by Soul instead of sense, by the law of Spirit, not by the so-called laws of matter." (p. 302).

BACK FORTY

A few potato patches will make astonishing yields when harvested here this season. Probably none can exceed the world's record, which is more than one thousand bushels per acre. But some may come close to it.

We saw a 16 pound sample of Cobblers taken from four average plants near Loup City. This field has about 14,520 plants to the acre. Rows are three feet apart and plants grow one foot apart in the rows.

From estimates on paper, this 20 acre field looks good for over 950 bushels per acre, provided the stand is perfect. Of course, they will not all grade as number one tubers, although their quality rates surprisingly high.

The soil of this Loup City field raised sweet clover for three years past, and had thorough irrigation. The crop is owned by A. E. Chase and George Allen, Jr.

In an eight acre patch of Cobblers belonging to W. O. Zangger of North Loup, we dug eight

Have you any Alfalfa Hay to sell?

Would you sell it to an Alfalfa Mill if it would locate in Ord?

Would you sow additional acreage to insure plenty of Alfalfa Hay for a Mill in future years?

The Saunders Mills Inc., would like to locate a mill in Ord.

The Saunders Mills Inc., have equipment to send to Ord at once and be in operation in a very short time.

The Saunders Mills Inc., would like to contract at least 1,000 tons of hay right away and they would have their equipment sent here at once. If you have Alfalfa Hay to sell, won't you see us at once and we will see that you have a chance to contract this hay.

We expect Mr. Walker of Saunders Mills Inc., to be in Ord very soon and if you are interested in selling them Alfalfa Hay, or if you want to talk to Mr. Walker in regard to the mill, let us know and we will pass the word to Mr. Walker.

ordinary hills, weighed them, and got better than three pounds per hill.

Again making estimates on paper, we figure that Zangger's potatoes should yield 700 bushels to the acre or better. This patch is on old alfalfa ground. The rows run three and one-half feet apart, with a foot between the plants.

In both of these fields the vines are still green and growing in yield by perhaps ten bushels each day. And they produce the finest eating potatoes that we have tasted in many a season.

(By C. C. Dale) Prospects for an alfalfa mill in Ord look considerably brighter following the Monday night Chamber of Commerce meeting...

Mr. Walker brought out the fact that his company asks nothing of this community except a supply of alfalfa hay for the mill. They are now planning to build a mill rather than to buy the Dickson property...

Practically all of the farmers present indicated great interest in the plans and promised full support with heavily increased alfalfa seeding this fall and in 1944...

However an additional 400 tons must be contracted before the Saunders Company will proceed with their plans.

Farmers who have hay are requested to call Mr. Noll or Mr. George Walker at the Ord hotel and get the company's proposition. The future benefits of having a mill here will make the effort worthwhile.

Important to Save All Forage Possible

In many sections of the county there are fields of corn which will not make much in the way of grain due to drought or hail injury or both.

Cattle numbers have made a rapid comeback in the county and the hay crop is short, and if we have a severe winter forage will be at a premium before grass comes on next year.

The forward farmer will anticipate his next winters roughage needs now, and make a valuable feed out of a crop which may otherwise be almost worthless.

National Farm Loan Associations Are Reorganizing

Plan Already Approved by 90 Per Cent of Associations Served by Omaha Bank.

At a meeting held in Ord, twenty-one directors of the following National Farm Loan Associations approved the reorganization plan recently offered by the Federal Land Bank of Omaha.

Under the reorganization plan the capital stock of insolvent National Farm Loan associations will be restored to par value, and former member-borrowers of insolvent associations would receive full payment for their stock investment.

Announcement of the boards' approval was made by James B. Ollis, secretary-treasurer of the associations, headquartered at Ord.

The consolidations are subject to approval by the members before the plan actually goes into effect.

This plan, involving an outlay of around 6 million dollars by the Federal Land bank, will directly benefit 343 farmers and stockmen in Loup, Garfield, Valley, Greeley and Wheeler counties.

The secretary-treasurer pointed out that the reorganization plan involves an agreement under which losses are to be absorbed by the system rather than, as in the past, concentrated in a local area.

Present directors for these associations are: North Loup Valley NFLA—W. J. Hather of Ord, president; Evet Smith of Ord, vice president; M. B. Cummins of Ord; Joseph Wadas of Ord; and John G. Bremer of Ord.

When we get every housewife to save one table spoonful a day, we will fill our quota and supply our share of dynamite, nitro glycerin, smokeless powder, (used in heavy artillery ammunition), synthetic resin (an ingredient of paint for camouflage coating of tanks and planes), glycerin (to fire anti aircraft shells), glycerin (as a solvent in medicinal solution solutions), glycerin (as a powerful antiseptic used in many types of surgical dressings). All to help bring victory nearer and our boys back home.

Ord Farmer Honored. Wilbur A. Rogers, Ord, Nebr., has been nominated for the Typical Midwest Farmer crown.

It has been suggested that it is no longer patriotic to save grease to make soap, because in doing so the glycerin content is lost as far as the war effort is concerned.

Coffee salvaged from the tin cans is greatly needed. It is planned that such a salvage drive will be started in the near future.

Mrs. Irene Gibbs, Miss DeLores and Junior from Kansas City spent the week at the W. H. Barnard and Len Govert homes in Ord and at the Verne Barnard home at Burwell.

The total amount of Valley county reported to the State Salvage Committee office for the first six months of 1943 was 415 pounds.

When we get every housewife to save one table spoonful a day, we will fill our quota and supply our share of dynamite, nitro glycerin, smokeless powder, (used in heavy artillery ammunition), synthetic resin (an ingredient of paint for camouflage coating of tanks and planes), glycerin (to fire anti aircraft shells), glycerin (as a solvent in medicinal solution solutions), glycerin (as a powerful antiseptic used in many types of surgical dressings). All to help bring victory nearer and our boys back home.

Mrs. R. E. Burrows has been appointed fats and oils chairman of the county. All waste fats should be carefully strained into a clean can or disk. The receptacle is full, it should be taken to the nearest meat dealer, who has been authorized to give four cents a pound for all fats brought in.

Dale Mickelwait Fights Off Japs

The following, taken from a Santa Ana, Calif., daily paper and sent to the Quiz by a friend, will be of interest to many friends of the Mickelwait family. Dale was born in Ord, but his people left here when he was a small boy.

How Lt. (jg) Dale Mickelwait of Costa Mesa, former co-captain and all-conference guard of Santa Ana Junior college football team helped fight off two flights of Japanese Zeros in the South Pacific was related today in an International News Service dispatch, filed from Guadalcanal.

According to Pat Robinson, INS war correspondent, Lt. Mickelwait and three other navy pilots, flying Wildcats, protected a slow-moving Catalina which was attacked by two flights each numbering 15 to 20 Zeros. The air battle took place deep in Jap held territory.

Robinson wrote: "The Catalina dropped almost to the water and Lt. Mickelwait and three other Wildcat fliers scissored back and forth above it while others immediately turned to attack the Japs. They bagged eight Zeros in five minutes and the rest fled. Then the second flight of Zeros tried to attack the Catalina but suddenly 12 Kittyhawks, piloted by Army boys, and eight Corsairs piloted by Marines appeared on the scene and attacked. They brought down three more Zeros and the rest fled."

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Mickelwait of Costa Mesa, Lt. Mickelwait was commissioned an ensign at the Corpus Christi Naval Air station just a year ago. He is a graduate of Laguna Beach high school and Santa Ana Jaycee with the class of 1939. He also played football at Fresno State college, being co-captain there his senior year.

Deer Are Frequently Seen In Loup Valley

Sunday while fishing in the Evet Smith creek a couple of miles north of Ord, Theron Beahle, Miss Dolcie Waterman and two children of Russell Waterman saw two large deer. Theron had waded up the river a short distance from the mouth of the creek to fish around the small island that has been formed in the river and when he reached the upper end of the island he scared a couple of deer. They ran down through the timber on the sandbar at the foot of the island and played there some time before they discovered Miss Waterman and the children. Then they jumped into the river and crossed over to Clayton Noll who was irrigating, but he didn't see them and laughed at Theron who told him about it, until he went out and was shown their tracks.

They were large deer. There are also some deer that make their home at the Agaard place a few miles up Haskell creek and Jim Aagard says they see them nearly every day. There are many deer in the hills north of Ord.

Report Good Potato Yields Near Burwell

Potato digging in this community is well under way, and the yields have been very good. Leslie Westover had a fine field of Cobblers raised on corn ground, which averaged 169 bags of first per acre. Bill Udell had fourteen acres, which averaged 184 sacks of firsts, raised on sweet clover ground. Leo Butts, who has just started digging has an exceptionally fine crop of Cobblers, which were raised on alfalfa ground. Digging has been retarded by the shortage of refrigerator cars. The work has been facilitated by the new sacking machines purchased by several farmers. They are not proving entirely satisfactory, however, as the one in the Sartain field stands idle, while a large crew are picking potatoes. Cecil Butts took the pattern and made one of the sacking machines at a minimum cost which seems to be working fine.

Peterson Transfer Buy Romans Line

A business deal of some magnitude has been closed the past few days and Monday morning of this week the Romans Omaha, Grand Island to Ord transfer line became the property of Ken Peterson. The Romans line belonged to Jack Romans, who also owned a transfer line from Omaha via Grand Island to Loup City and the Quiz has been informed that Mr. Romans will move to Loup City to manage that line.

With the present scarcity of help he found it difficult to manage both lines as efficiently as they should be handled.

Mr. Peterson says he will continue to operate his own transfer business as formerly and will also operate the line purchased from Mr. Romans about the same as it has been handled in the past.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Woltemath returned Friday from Alexandria, Neb., where they had spent a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Woltemath. August 9 Mr. Woltemath was inducted into the army and went to Omaha for his physical but was rejected.

Mrs. Dale Mulligan and small son, Larry Dale, came home from Grand Island Saturday and are spending this week at the Sterling Manchester home. Gladys Wilson is helping Mrs. Manchester this week.

The Fred Lundsted family left for their home in Salina, Kans., Saturday after spending a week with Mrs. Ora Bohrer and the Victor Cook family in Mira Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Halverson came up from Lincoln Saturday and stayed till Sunday, when they returned, Mr. and Mrs. Mills Hill accompanying them to drive the car back. Mr. Halverson left Tuesday for service in the navy and Mrs. Halverson left Monday for Cleveland, Ohio., in company with Mrs. Keith Davis and children. The Davis family are moving to Cleveland from Milwaukee and have been visiting the H. M. Davis family in Lincoln till their living quarters were ready. Mrs. Halverson accompanied Mrs.

Davis on the trip to help with the children and may stay for a few weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Hill returned home Monday.

Mrs. C. A. Burris left Friday for her home in Garrison, Ia., after spending several weeks in the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. O. Zangger.

Leslie Stine and Mrs. George Eberhart went to Ulysses Friday after Mrs. Leslie Stine and Donna Lea who had spent two weeks in Ulysses with relatives. They returned Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Drawbridge have five children and a son-in-law working in the Martin bomber plant in Omaha, Elmer, Sam, Joe and Pete Drawbridge and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Crockett. Joe was recently given honorable mention in the plant paper because he had no absences. Second shift foreman, finishing and plating, he came to the plant in February 1942 and has had no absences or been late. The only flaw on his record came on his first night at the plant. For some reason or other, he can't recall, probably his excitement in becoming a Matrineer, he punched out early. However in the many months he has been on the job, he has been able to live down that one "terrible indiscretion".

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett
I was meandering about town Monday morning looking for news and advertising, and happening past the Norris shoe repair shop, I got such a delicious sniff of something that I went in to see just what was cooking. I soon found that Mrs. Norris was baking apple pie and did that pie look nice. I said I wasn't very busy and could come to dinner as well as not, and a derisive laugh from Mrs. Norris and walked on. Later a phone call came from the same Mrs. Norris and he said it was important that I hurry down the street to meet him and get some news. I grabbed a pencil and note book and ran, as best I could, and here he came carefully carrying a paper sack and gave to me. The delicious smell told me what the sack contained and I just want to say, Mrs. Norris, that you can bake as good apple pie as any I ever ate. It was truly delicious.

A letter from Eugene says I will be relieved of my present duties of editing the Quiz, at the end of this week, when he returns from his vacation. He says he is coming home wonderfully refreshed and full of vim. I am glad, but I am just beginning to enjoy the work again, which I did for so many years, and believe, with a few months practice I could do it again.

I suppose, like myself, most of us housewives are busy canning and pickling, though I will admit that since Eugene and Irma have been on their vacation my canning and pickling time has been much curtailed. I am putting in what time I can get pickling onions. I had to send away last spring to get the seed of pickling onions; I planted a couple of long rows and planted them thick and every seed grew and I have a nice lot of the genuine little pickling onions. I use a Swedish recipe given to me by Mrs. Olof Olsson but I believe it is the Mrs. Fritz Kuehl family recipe. Anyhow it is a splendid one and our folks all like the pickles. I make from it and I am going to be able to make plenty. Last year I didn't make so many for the onions were 22c a pound and I thought the price of 12 1/2 the previous year was awfully high.

You get, eventually, four dollars back for every three dollars you invest in war bonds.

An Ord man says that offering a pipe smoker a cigarette is like offering a hore an oat.

Don't you believe it when they tell you that you will be happier when you get all your own teeth out and get store teeth.

I had the pleasure, on a recent evening, of looking over the herd of Spotted Polands owned by Cliff Goff and his sons, and it was indeed a pleasure, and no small part of the pleasure of the trip about the yards, was in noting the interest and enthusiasm that Floyd Goff takes in the herd. I was especially interested in seeing the spring boar that the Goffs recently sold to an Idaho breeder and though the price received for him would have been staggering a few short years ago, he was far from being one of the best specimens

Don't Neglect Slipping FALSE TEETH
Do false teeth drop, slip or wobble when you talk, eat, laugh or sneeze? Don't be annoyed and embarrassed by such handicaps. FASTEETH, an alkaline (non-acid) powder to sprinkle on your plates, keeps false teeth more firmly set. Gives confident feeling of security and added comfort. No gummy, goopy, pasty taste or feeling. Get FASTEETH today at any drug store.

in the herd, as there are several that would sell readily for more than double the amount received for this one. The Goffs have something like a hundred and fifty registered Spotted Polands on the place, the majority of them being spring boars and gilts but some very nice fall hogs. The male hog that heads the herd is one of the best in the whole country.

There are a score of good friends to whom I owe thanks for bringing, sending or phoning news items this past two weeks. Their assistance made it possible for me to get out a presentable paper while pinch hitting for Irma and Eugene. I trust they will all continue doing the same after this week. Irma's phone number is 245 and if it is more convenient to do so, the office phone is 17.

Something Different

A good way to precipitate a lively discussion is to inquire in any group "What do you think is the best way to relax and get to sleep?" The variety of answers is guaranteed to keep anyone present from going to sleep for the nonce.

Says the professional sleeper "I don't have any trouble. I simply shut my eyes and I'm asleep."

Which brings from all the insomniacs present a long-drawn gasp of envy, to the tune of "I never sleep"; "It takes me a couple of hours to get relaxed enough to sleep"; etc.

"Work hard enough and don't worry about anything and you'll sleep," sagely advises a busy young housewife.

"I have a good method of relaxing, it's foolproof: 'I shut my eyes and take ten deep breaths, holding each breath as long as I can, letting it in as slowly and out as slowly as possible,'" chimes in another Ord housekeeper who is very efficient.

"No matter how late it is, I always read an hour or two," declares one young woman positively.

Another family is heard from: "We always eat a bedtime lunch at our house, usually breakfast food. We eat a lot, we eat so much that I sometimes wonder why I get three meals a day!" "I don't believe in eating at bedtime; it keeps me awake."

"Oh, no, I think anyone sleeps better with something on his stomach. You know, haha, like babies, how they go right to sleep, as soon as they're fed? Well, adults do too; you try it."

"My goodness, I don't like to drink water at bedtime, even. It makes me feel tank-y and I can't sleep. As if someone put a big rubber pillow under my stomach!"

And so on, far into the night. At last reports the bed-time-lunchers were in the majority.

There are many strange customs. One Ord child would ONLY GO TO SLEEP when riding in the car... pre-gasoline-rationing days of course. So night after night his fond parents, even in the dead of a cold winter evening, climbed into the car and rode around block after block until "the baby was asleep."

Another baby would only go to sleep when wheeled over a broomstick, in her buggy, back and forth very roughly—and preferably with the radio going full blast.

Yep, she's alive yet. She goes into high school this fall in prime running condition. I can vouch for that.

Burwell News

Written by Mrs. Anton Zalud.

Obituary—Dewey Lee Davis. Dewey Lee Davis, son of George W. and Mary D. Davis, was born in Richardson county, October 11, 1899, and departed this life August 14, 1943 at the age of 43 years, 10 months and three days.

When five years old, he moved with his parents to Garfield county, where he lived ever since with the exception of two years, when he lived in South Dakota. He was married October 7, 1925 to Emma A. Mohr and to this union two children were born, Robert Lee and Ione Carolyn.

He leaves to mourn his death, his wife and two children and ten brothers and sisters, namely: George W., Alvin O., Henry H., Mary Freeman, all of Burwell; William F. of Riverton, Wyo.; Francis Edmond of Wall-hill; Guy A. of Fayette, Idaho; Maude Scofield of Mitchell; Carrie Howell, Tutull, S. D.; Della Peckman, Wood Lake, Calif. A sister Sarah Cook and brother James preceded him in death, besides his father and mother.

Dewey was one of the most patient of sufferers. He was stricken with blindness some eight years ago, yet he accepted his affliction with calmness and cheerfulness. He was a patient in the hospitals many times, nine times to be exact, with the most recent one last May for a general check-up. He will be sadly missed by all those that knew him and his friendly ways.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2:30 at the Congregational church, with Rev. L. H. Brown, officiating. There will be no blind ones there when we reach the golden stairs. My weary feet will not falter.

For there will be no blind ones there.

Paraguay Once a Remote Gateway to South America

A Portuguese explorer, Alejo Garcia, is supposed to have explored part of present-day Paraguay as early as 1524, but Sebastian Cabot is generally credited with being the first European to set eyes on the virgin forests and plains of the South American paradise.

He never reached the present site of Asuncion, the capital, but in 1537 Juan de Ayolas and Domingo Irala reached a point where the eastern shore of the Paraguay river opened into a broad bay. There they established the little colony which was to become the capital.

Asuncion, like a remote gateway to still more remote and beckoning regions, was a crossroads for explorers and adventurers. And its history is written in so much adventure, cruelty, suffering and swashbuckling gaiety, that historians call it the most romantic of American cities.

Paraguay declared its independence from Spain in 1811 and was one of the first American countries to break with the mother country. The Spanish governor, Velasco, was in sympathy with the revolutionary movement, and became one of the first leaders of the budding republic. A constitution and flag were adopted in 1812, and leadership entrusted to two consuls. Two years later the consuls gave way to the first elected president, Carlos A. Lopez. Lopez served for ten years, and was succeeded by his son.

Liberty Ship Designed To Deliver the Goods

She is American designed, originally built for the British on Lend Lease account. Altered slightly to meet our specific requirements, the first contract for construction was let in March of 1941 and the first Liberty Ship was delivered exactly three weeks after Pearl Harbor.

She is no beauty. She is built for utility. She lacks the rakish or streamlined appearance of the Maritime Commission's C-ships. But she is a very practical craft, sound and seaworthy. She's a sea-going truck of 10,500 deadweight tons.

The fame of the Liberty Ship is based on sound quality. She was designed to meet a pressing and urgent transportation need. They have been built in greater numbers than any ship of a similar tonnage. Their performance has been uniformly excellent—the service hard and exacting.

Standardized to the last small gasket, to the final door hinge, a contract can be shifted from one shipyard to another, should the necessity arise, and no time would be lost. Repairs can be made readily at almost any place, and replacement of parts offers no serious problem, occasions no delay.

Market Determines Waste Price

The little porkers that grow fat and sleek on waste from army kitchens hereafter will pay for their food on a sliding scale of prices based on their value at the nearest stockyard as of the 15th day of each month. A new form of contract for the sale of kitchen waste which links the price the army will receive with the market value of hogs has been prepared by the legal department of the quartermaster corps as an optional feature in future contracts for the sale of waste for hog feeding, the war department reports.

Under the terms of the new contract, bidders will be allowed to submit bids for kitchen waste on the usual "per man per month" basis, the price for each month or portion of a month during the contract period to be determined by the selling price of hogs on the hoof at a designated stock yard market. If the price of hogs goes up, the buyer of the kitchen waste will pay more; if it goes down, he will pay less, the amounts of variation to be stated in the contract.

Memorial Day

Memorial day, or Decoration day, originated in the South when in 1865 James Redpath led a parade of Union soldiers, citizens and children to nearby Union soldiers' graves and there planted flowers.

The following year the custom was taken up by Southern women for their dead, and in 1868 Gen. John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, designated May 30 for the observance of the celebration, the day now generally marked by Northern states. Some Southern states have set aside April 26, the date on which Gen. Joseph E. Johnson surrendered, and others, June 3, Jefferson Davis' birthday.

War Levels Paraguay

Independent Paraguay, blessed with immense natural riches and a mild climate, prospered until 1865, when a disastrous war with Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay depleted the country's wealth and population. The war was so bitter that only 50 per cent of the population survived it. Of the 225,000 survivors, only 22,000 were males.

The little republic was just recovering from the effects of a war fought 50 years before when a frontier dispute with Bolivia plunged it into another tragic conflict in 1932. The Chaco war was ended by an armistice in 1935, followed by a peace treaty which fixed the battle lines between the two nations as their frontier.

athletics and from 5:15 till 6 for swimming. Then from 6:15 till 7 is time for eating and from 7:30 till 9:30 we have the pleasure of studying. You see we really have a busy day.

There are 11 companies on the campus with 250 men in each company. Each company has two captains as its commanding officers, and then the rest of the army set-up, such as marching is left to the soldiers in the company, who select their own cadet captain, who has the responsibilities of the marching the company to classes, swimming, etc. He also has an office of his own where he keeps a record of the entire company's roster. I was lucky enough to get appointed to this office, as well as being captain of our baseball team.

Our baseball team is coming along fine. When I left we were in 1st place with 7 wins and 0 defeats. I play 2nd base, but third in the line-up and lead the league in batting and in home runs.

However, with our football team it is a different story. We are in 3rd place with 7 wins and 3 defeats. I play halfback and have scored 48 points, for 3rd place in scoring honors. I also punt and do the place kicking. But we're not doing bad as we are only 2 games out of 1st place.

I guess that is about all for this time. I receive the Quiz every week from my folks and really enjoy it. So until next time, I remain

Camp Fire Notes.
(Crowded out last week)

Eluta Camp Fire girls took an over-night hike along the river last Wednesday, returning to town the next noon. Misses Mary Travis and Dot Kokes accompanied them as leaders and supervised their outdoor cooking. They pitched camp near the John Andersen farm home and enjoyed the swimming and exploring. Following carefully laid nature clues they enjoyed a treasure hunt in which all present shared the treasure. Eight were present.

The Soangetaha girls had a very successful Victory Bazaar on completion of the annual birthday honor. Last week they secured their war stamps for the proceeds, and of the group the following are ready to be awarded a "Serve by Saving" program followed out since last January: Joyce Achen, Joan Biemond, Dot Kokes, Norma Long, Marilyn Ollis and Mary Travis. The other members need to complete a record of saving 10% of their income and allowance for full investment in war stamps.

Soil District News

Heavy rain falling on a clean, finely prepared seedbed soon compacts the surface soil. A thin almost water-tight surface film is formed as a result of water beating on bare soil. As this film forms at the surface during a rain, more and more of the water runs off. During heavy rains two to four times as much water may be lost from a soil having a bare surface as one covered with crop residues. If soil is to retain its maximum capacity for absorbing rainfall the surface must be kept open. It is possible to prevent the formation of a compact layer on cultivated soil by protecting the surface with crop residues such as combined grain stubble and straw. "Crop residues" is a term used to include materials such as stubble, straw or stalks from various crops, or even old weed growth. To till the soil thoroughly without destroying the residues it is necessary to have equipment designed for this special purpose. Several implement companies manufacture machines well adapted for this work. All these tillage implements provide for some type of sweep or blade running beneath the surface. The blade loosens the soil but does not turn it over or bury the residue. Some companies have large 45 inch sweeps that bolt to the beams of a two row lister after the listers have been removed. Regardless of the type of equipment used for subsurface tillage, it is important that the soil be thoroughly worked and all the residue evenly distributed on the surface. Now is the time to start subsurface tillage in the grain fields in Valley county. When the soil can be plowed it can be subsurface tilled. In preparing land for the next crop, the first subsurface tillage should be about as deep as ordinary plowing. At later operations, when the main objective is to kill weeds, the depth of tillage should be about three inches. There are getting to be more and more of the subsurface tillage machines in the county. Many farmers report good results in the saving of the soil and moisture and obtaining higher yields of grain. The Valley County District supervisors believe that subsurface tillage is a very good land use practice and would like to see more farmers in the district make use of this practice.

GOING TO SCHOOL ISN'T ALL

Reading, Writing and Arithmetic!

SCHOOL is more than learning lessons—it's learning a way of life.

You can help your children in school! Help by feeding them sensibly, getting them to bed early, listening to their problems.

And, before you even send them off to school, you can help by dressing them wisely and well.

See that they get shoes that support their feet, clothes that fit, outdoor things that are warm.

When you outfit your boy at Penney's, he looks like the real boy he is.

Penney's knows the children in this town—knows "what they are wearing."

We know these things because we at Penney's know this town—we're part of it.

Penney's is as native to this town as the name on the railroad station.

Unearth Religious 'Mecca' Of La Venta in Mexico

The ever-searching picks and shovels of archeologists digging in southern Mexico during the last few months have traced in missing lines to disclose the picture of a tropical American "Mecca" or "Canterbury," thronged 11 centuries ago with thousands of bronze-skinned religious pilgrims.

Outstanding among the latest materials unearthed were jewelry made of jade of the highest quality ever found in the New world, skillfully carved and sculptured works of art, ceremonial objects, and large decorated stone altars.

As reconstructed, La Venta's religious center consisted of a plain dominated by a great man-made mound more than a hundred feet high. Stretching from it were lines of a dozen or more smaller mounds.

A short distance off the religious reservation, probably, were the workshops of the artists and artisans whose skilled fingers have given La Venta its fame today.

Army Flies Own Hangars To Fighting Front Areas

Army airplanes can now fly their own hangars into airports in the front areas where quick cover is needed.

As a result of co-operative efforts of the corps of engineers and the army air forces, a demountable hangar has been developed which not only can be transported by air but erected in a matter of hours.

Completely fabricated sections of fire-resistant canvas form the walls and ends of the building. These are erected and laced to the frame through a system of ropes hung from pulleys—a technique not unlike that employed with large circus tents.

Experience with the new building indicates it can be set up complete in a period of 12 to 18 hours.

Crate Like Home

How to "make yourself at home" in a shipping crate is one of the combat tricks now being practiced by students at the army air forces technical training command's glider mechanics school at Sheppard Field, Texas.

Troop carrying gliders will be shipped to advance invasion bases in huge, olive drab wooden crates. The motorless aircraft are shipped in five sections. The largest is the fuselage. It is packed in a crate 25 feet long, 8 feet high and 7 feet wide.

Source of Jade Mystery

Top interest in the eighth century objects most recently unearthed at La Venta, Mexico, goes to the jewelry fashioned from beautiful translucent emerald-green jade, a precious stone as valuable as emerald itself.

Progress Follows Civil War

The Civil war was followed by unprecedented progress both in industry and agriculture. Between 1870 and 1880, we built over 40,000 miles of railroads, or three-fourths of the total built in the preceding 50 years.

This Is An Invitation to Visit Our Store

Of course we don't claim to have everything you want like we used to be able to do, but we do have some goods and we do like to have you come in and see us.

Paints are in season and we have fair stocks and are able to get more and hope we can serve you. Some fall goods coming all the time, but of course the supply will be limited and the early buyer will be the lucky buyer this fall.

But come in anyhow. The chances are more than ever that we will have some of the items you want. And buy all the war bonds that you can afford.

Handling Meats is a Business in Itself

Why not go to a meat market for meat, instead of buying it at a grocery store that handles meat as a sideline? Because meat handling is a business—or perhaps it could be called an art—in itself.

To reach your table fresh and tasty meat must be properly butchered, handled, processed, refrigerated and cut up. Our market has been in existence for over a half century at the same old stand and we have learned the business of handling meat properly.

We know our meats—fresh, salted and smoked—will please you and that our meat specialties are as good as can be bought anywhere. Our prices are fair, too. We welcome your business. Get better quality for your red stamps here.

States' Revenue Policies

Linked to National Trends

"War prosperity" and "war shortages" have exercised strong, but conflicting, influences on state revenues and revenue trends during the last three years. "War prosperity" on the one hand has brought states their greatest revenue surpluses in history; "war shortages" are shifting the emphasis from sales taxes to income taxes—or from indirect to direct taxation.

State revenues have been rising steadily since 1939 with the upward trend continuing in 1942 and 1943, though at a more moderate rate than during 1940 and 1941. This slowing down reflects the growing influence of shortages, rationing and leveling off of production.

States have come to depend for more than three-fifths of their total revenues upon such taxes as income and excise levies. The swing to dependence upon these taxes, which reflect any change in national income, coupled with the fact that many states have begun to put funds aside for postwar purposes, indicates how strongly financial and political development of individual states has been integrated into national trends.

From the point of view of state revenues, increase in the national income expresses itself in rising revenues from income and sales taxes. Shortages of various goods and services produce declining revenues from excise taxes.

Insurance Developed to Protect Shipping Cargoes

When the ancient businessman or trader sent his goods to another country by means of a ship, two perils might prevent his goods from reaching their destination. The first was the simple matter of pirates. It was the duty of the captain of the ship to see that his ship was heavily armed or to travel in the company of other heavily armed ships. This gave some measure of protection against the cutthroats of the sea. Storms, hurricanes, and treacherous shoals were entirely a different matter.

When a ship began to sink because of heavy waves or gun fire a simple plan was used in an effort to save the ship. Part of the cargo was thrown overboard to lighten the ship and thus keep her afloat. It made no difference whose goods went overboard! The loss was made up by contributions from the owners of the rest of the goods saved by the sacrifice. This was really an insurance device—primarily a device for the limited distribution of loss.

At the same time another clever idea grew up. Money was loaned to shippers on the condition that they repay at a high interest rate if the cargo were delivered. In the event of loss, however, they did not have to redeem the loan.

Medicine From Weeds

Creeping Jenny (European bindweed) is of practical value. In the root of this plant is a substance that stops bleeding, and in wartime a medicine like that is vital.

This stop-bleeding substance was discovered by plant physiologist Arthur I. Bakke and hospital superintendent Norman D. Render, while they were studying the roots of this weed at a laboratory in Chariton, Iowa.

In chopping up the weed roots with sharp butcher knives, the men happened to nick their fingers, and suddenly noticed that although the cuts were deep, bleeding stopped instantly when the roots touched the wounds.

After processing the roots to obtain the vital substance, Dr. Render applied the dosage to volunteer patients at the Cherokee State hospital, and found that the clotting of human blood was accelerated. Several pharmaceutical concerns are investigating production of the medicine in quantity.

What's In a Name

Louisiana is exceptionally rich in unusual titles for villages and other communities. For example, in Jackson's parish, La., are towns named Duty, Liberty, Uncle Sam, and Aimwell, with the town of Dally not far away! Gaytime, Bohemia and Bliss are in Rapides parish. There are towns named Hard Times, Solitude and Blondes.

Mythology has contributed its heritage to other community names in Louisiana. Ulysses, Odin, Ajax, Nestor, Phoenix, Eros, Leander, Adonis, Minerva, and Echo all are commemorated in the state.

The weather is a common inspiration of town names, in Louisiana as elsewhere. Flood, Tide, and Frost are three, and Sunbeam, Sunrise, Starlight, Luna, and Half Moon pay homage to the planets.

Locomotive Drafted

A railroad locomotive was drafted recently by Pontiac, Mich., to supply steam for operation of a pump at one of the city's water pumping stations while new equipment was being installed at the plant. The locomotive kept going one pump maintaining a 5,000,000-gallon flow per day into the mains, and upon experimentation, was found to produce sufficient steam to operate an 8,000,000-gallon pump also. Connections used in the experiment were purchased by the city and will be left in place, making it possible to reconnect a locomotive in less than half an hour should an emergency arise.

Ord Livestock Market

announces its offering for the regular weekly sale

Saturday, Aug. 21

1:30 p. m.

We have our hog pens all finished and we will have our cattle pens ready for use by Saturday.

There was a large consignment in last Saturday's sale and I thought all of the stock sold steady and there was a large group of buyers here. The top on our pigs that were not vaccinated, weighing from 60 to 100 lbs., was $13.85 a hundred, and the vaccinated pigs of the same weight for a little over $14.00 per hundred. This showed a very active market. In the cattle division the fat cows sold up as high as $11.90 and the bulls sold up as high as $12.40. There is a good demand for all weights of calves, feeder heifers and steers and I believe that if you have cattle to sell that you will receive a good price for them at this market.

In next Saturday's sale it looks like:

135 HEAD OF CATTLE, All Classes.

Including bucket calves, suckling calves, mixed yearling and several good milk cows that are going to freshen at once. One outstanding two year old whitefaced bull. And several stock cows. 20 head of extra good whitefaced yearling steers, weight about 650 lbs.

175 head of feeder shoats, weanling pigs and wet sows, several breeding boars.

4 HEAD OF HORSES.

MISCELLANEOUS

One ensilage cutter and several pieces of machinery.

Be sure to attend this sale if you want stock.

Biggest War Bond Drive Scheduled to Open Sept. 9th

Valley Co. Given Quota of $392,400, Triple Quota of Last Drive in April.

On Thursday, Sept. 9 the "Third War Loan Drive," biggest since the start of World War II, will get under way in Valley county and throughout the nation.

Quota assigned to this county is the sum of $392,400 in war bonds which must be sold to the public during the month of September. Though the drive does not start officially until Sept. 9 all war bonds bought by Valley county people throughout September will be credited toward the quota.

How to meet this vast assignment is puzzling the men who have charge of war bond sales in this county. C. J. Mortensen, John P. Misko and R. Clare Clement. Certainly it will be the most intensive effort ever made here, and the county will be divided into districts with committees calling on every man, woman and child to urge immediate and large purchases of bonds.

The $392,400 quota is three times as large as the $138,000 quota given Valley county in the 2nd War Loan Drive last April, which the county had some difficulty in meeting though the drive finally went over the $150,000 mark.

Slogan for the drive in this county will be: "Invest $1,000 for every Valley county boy in the service." The county has over four hundred men and women in the armed services and if citizens will heed the slogan the $392,400 drive will go over the top in good shape.

This county quota, says Chairman C. J. Mortensen, was based on the increase in local bank deposits since Jan. 1, 1942. The increase since that date is $1,103,000, he states, and citizens are asked to invest approximately 35% of this increase in bonds during the September drive.

Plans will be made for reaching the desired goal at a meeting being held at 8:30 Thursday evening of this week in John Misko's office. Precinct committees appointed by Mr. Clement will be present, as well as representatives of the urban communities.

"If we are to have any chance of meeting our quota—as we certainly must do—the people who have the money must invest it in war bonds," says Misko, who will head up the general selling committee. "We can't meet it by buying $25, $50 and $100 bonds. In the April drive many people amply able to invest thousands in war bonds bought only the bonds of smaller denomination. This time they must 'buy till it hurts' or we can't hope to go over the top."

There are several series of bonds available and the banks and postoffices have all information about them. It is hoped there will be a big voluntary purchase of bonds between Sept. 1 and 9 when the actual drive starts.

14 Girls Complete Nursing Course

A group of Ord young girls, who have really accomplished something this summer, are the 14 graduated from the Red Cross home nursing class a week or two ago under the supervision of Mrs. Hiding Pearson. There were 18 who began the course and 14 who met twice each of the entire six weeks.

Nearly every girl actually bathed a baby, after taking a lesson the day previous from the baby's mother. Every girl learned to make a bed, tucking it in all smooth and tight. Two girls actually fixed sick room trays for a child, and two other student nurses learned all about Ord's city health laws, as well as many other good health rules.

Joyce Achen, Joan Biemond, Dot Kokes, Norma Long, Shirley Marlin, Verda Munn, Marilyn Ollis, Patty Achen, Reva Lincoln, Charlene Munn, Darlene Puncihar, Darlene Whiting, Marilyn Long and Roberta Stoddard are those who finished the course. They presented Mrs. Pearson with a lovely gift as a sign they really appreciated her efforts. And in turn Mrs. Pearson declares they were excellent students.

—Mrs. L. D. Milliken had a pleasant summer visit with her sister, Mrs. John A. Raipp, who returned to her home at Pasa Robles, Calif., leaving Ord Wednesday last week. Mrs. Raipp was extensively entertained the last few days of her visit to Ord, her health permitting.

School Bell Rings Again After Forty Years for 20 Pupils of Old District 29

School took up Sunday at Bussell Park just as it did 40 years ago for some 20 former pupils of Valley county school District 29. Teacher Mrs. Frances C. Dworak of Comstock brought with her to the anniversary picnic the school bell she used in 1903, with which she called her pupils to order.

Sunday the bell rang again. Then Mrs. Dworak called the names from the original printed roll of 1903, 20 answering present of the 53 who attended long ago. As was the custom 40 years ago, school opened with The Lord's Prayer and a patriotic song or two. Mrs. Dworak told of her pleasure at being present at the anniversary, and then the group paused for a moment of silent prayer in memory of those of the pupils who had answered the roll call from beyond.

Joe J. Waldman, who was a member of the school board in District 29 in 1903 gave an interesting review of his experiences as a board member 40 years ago, telling about school finances, the families represented and the number of children enrolled, the social life and means of transportation of the community long ago.

A bounteous picnic dinner including fried chicken and everything that goes with it was then served and enjoyed by former school mates and the members of their families. Many childish pranks and school day incidents were recalled and related and enjoyed by all. A gift was presented by the pupils to their teacher, Mrs. Dworak, as a token of their esteem and their appreciation of her presence at the jubilee.

In memory of those pupils of 1903 who have died and many of whom have boys serving in the armed forces of our country today, a collection of $28 was taken up. This money will be turned over to the United War Fund when their drive for funds opens in Nebraska about October first.

The jubilee proved to be such a happy affair that it was suggested the big picnic and get-together be held each year by the class of 1903.

At four o'clock the teacher dismissed school, with the group singing the "Four O'clock Song", the same as they did 40 years ago. Pupils and their families departed for home after a most enjoyable reunion with other members of their class of 1903.

The twenty who were present were Fanny Nevrlka, James Skollil, Mary Smolik, Minnie Lukes, Jennie Kosmata, Emma Kosmata Ignatius Klima, Elizabeth Lukes, Emma Cernik, Joseph Cernik, Frank Smolik, John Kokes, Louis Smolik, Adolph Kokes, Joseph Skollil, Josie Kriz, Barbara Lukes, Camilla Cernik, John Nevrlka and Annie Kosmata.

Those who were not present included Josephine Kokes, Joseph Holoun, Clara Smolik, Anna Smolik, Nellie Heffernan, Emil Skollil, Mary Kamarad, Mary Kokes, Charlie Lola, James Kokes, Mary J. Kosmata, Mary F. Kosmata, Minnie Cernik, Also Eddie Skollil, Mary Skollil, Bertha Meese, John Meese, John Lola, Emma Kokes, Joseph Kamarad, Frank Skollil, Maggie Heffernan, William Heffernan.

Also Annie Voracek, James Bouda, Frank Meese, Joseph Kokes, James Barta, Joseph Klima, Minnie Klima, Josie Brecka, Mary Boyce, Melly Boyce, Henry Kriz, Burnice Davenport, Anton Nevrlka, Sophia Nevrlka and Rosa Kokes.

Treasurer of the school then was Frank Kosmata and Joseph Smolik was director. Mr. Smolik was also present Sunday.

Ord Woman Heads Nebraska 8 et 40

An Ord woman became state head of the 8 et 40 organization in Norfolk Sunday when Mrs. C. J. Mortensen was elected the new departmental chapeau. She appointed Mrs. Mabel Colver her secretary, and Mrs. Clarence Switzer of North Loup, demichapeau. These three women and Mrs. Irene Barrett of Greeley were delegates from the local salon, the smallest in the state.

Though their group was the smallest two awards were won, reports Mrs. Switzer, one for exceeding their membership quota and a second award for the fine campaign waged against tuberculosis.

Mrs. Colver also served as chairman of the auditing committee and Mrs. Switzer as chairman of the committee on history awards, at the Norfolk meeting of the 8 et 40.

The convention was Monday and Tuesday, most serious in tone, the local delegates aver, with Legion and Auxiliary speeches and discussion centering about the war effort and its importance.

Mrs. Mortensen also served as chairman of the delegates' banquet for the Auxiliary and on the nominating committee.

Ord Arid as Beer, Pop Supplies Fail

Past Ten Days Hard on Beer Joints; Larger Supplies Hoped after Sept. 1.

Ord has been dry in more ways than one in recent days. Adding to the discomfort that the hot, dry weather brought, many were discomfited by a shortage of beer and pop in all the Ord establishments which usually purvey these wet goods.

Until the past ten days the Ord beer parlors have been able to sell beer at all times but supplies have been completely exhausted several times during the recent period. The Douthitt beer parlor sold out of beer Saturday and remained closed since. It may not reopen, as Mrs. Douthitt advertised a sale of the beer parlor fixtures for today. The Kasal pool hall sold out of beer Saturday night and was closed all day Sunday but has since been open for the benefit of pool players only. No beer has been available. Other Ord establishments face similar difficulties and Monday there was not a drop of beer for sale in Ord.

Supplies of pop and other bottled soft drinks are similarly short. When new quotas go in to effect Sept 1 dealers hope for larger supplies of both beer and soft drinks.

—Two carloads of Catholic women will go to Sargent Thursday to attend the district meeting of their study clubs.

Hold State-Wide Air Raid Warning Test Sat'day Noon

Siren Signals to Be Blown, Familiarize People with Day-Light Methods.

Ord will hold an air-raid warning test Saturday noon in accordance with instructions received from the State Defense Council, the test will be part of a nine-state exercise, comprising the 7th Service Command.

The whistle or siren exercise will start at 12:00 noon with the steady blast of the municipal plant siren for two minutes. This is known as the "blue warning" and means that enemy planes are headed in this direction and that an air raid is probable. If this warning whistle should be heard at night it would mean that all lights should be blacked out, unless specifically exempted; that the autos continue, with lights on low beam; that pedestrians may walk, workers remain at jobs; and that Civilian Defense mobilizes.

In the test Saturday, the intermittent blast of the siren will be heard at 12:05, or three minutes after the "blue warning." This is known as the "red danger" siren and means that air raiders are overhead and people should take shelter from falling bombs. If heard at night it would call for all lights to be blacked out, except authorized emergency lights, and that all traffic would stop.

After another three minute interval Saturday noon there will be another steady blast of the siren, which means that the raiders have gone but may return. And at 12:20 an up-and-down blast of the whistle will signalize "all clear," meaning that the raiders have gone and that normal operations may be resumed.

In Saturday's exercise the civilian defense organization will not be actually mobilized, since the test is simply to acquaint the general public with the different types of signals.

Safeway Employees Hold Group Picnic

Safeway employees to the number of almost 600 from Nebraska and northern Kansas held a picnic Sunday at Harmon field in Kearney. From Ord went the families of Manager Roy Price and Howard Burt, and also Miss Mildred Moudry. Business matters were discussed and a general get-together enjoyed.

—Mrs. Herman Behrends was happily surprised Saturday night by a telephone call from Los Angeles and talked to her sons, Maynard and Bernard, who are in the army.

Walker Buys Site for Alfalfa Mill at the Huff Farm

Arrangements Made to Get Power from Consumers; Work Starts at Once.

All doubts about the coming of an alfalfa mill to Ord were laid at rest Monday when George Walker, representative of Saunders Mills Inc. of Toledo, O., announced that he had purchased ground for the mill at the Howard Huff farm 1 1/2 miles east of Ord, and that work on the buildings will start as soon as material can be secured. Machinery has already been purchased and will be shipped here at once.

The city council held a special meeting Monday night with two representatives of Consumers Public Power district of Columbus, to consider buying electric energy from the district for resale to Saunders Mills.

In the course of the discussion it developed that Consumers could sell power directly to Saunders Mills cheaper than to the city of Ord, due to the difference between their "municipal" and "manufacturing" rates. If the city bought power from Consumers it would have to undergo expense of $15,000 to $20,000 for transformers and a transmission line and thereafter would have to sell the power to the mill at a loss. Under the circumstances it was deemed best to ask Consumers to contract directly with Saunders Mills for sale of power, leaving the Ord municipal plant out of the picture entirely, and this was done.

Mr. Walker, on behalf of his company, quickly concluded negotiations with the Consumers district assuring the alfalfa mill a plentiful supply of electric energy at a fair price.

The mill, it is reported, will cost approximately $30,000, exclusive of land and electrical equipment, and it is hoped to have it in operation by October 1.

A supply of dry alfalfa for operations this fall and winter is now assured and farmers are showing much interest in putting in additional alfalfa acreage this fall, now that there is a cash market for all the alfalfa that can be raised within a considerable radius of Ord.

Saunders Mills are installing two other hay mills in Nebraska, one at Tekamah and the other near Odessa.

Valley Co. Corn Prospects Fade as Drouth Continues

Only .07 Inch Moisture Thru August, Temperature Hits High of 103 Monday.

Valley county's corn prospects, so good thirty days ago, have faded away in the continuing drouth and hot weather and except in irrigated districts it now appears that very little corn will be raised. Even some irrigated fields are showing the effects of the hot weather and hot winds of the past few days.

Throughout August only .07 of an inch of moisture has fallen in Ord, according to the official measuring instruments of Horace Travis. Some sections of the county, notably the southwest corner and the Davis Creek neighborhood, got a good rain on August 12 but it was accompanied by hail which did almost as much damage as the rain did good, in some sections.

Farmers are being urged to make ensilage of their corn in dry land areas, where fields will not make a grain crop. There are many fields which would still produce a lot of grain if rain should come soon but many others are completely ruined no matter how much rain falls in future.

Monday was the hottest day in August and one of the hottest of the summer. Mr. Travis reports. Official temperature high here was 103 degrees Monday afternoon. At the same hour Burwell reported an official high of 107 degrees. Saturday, Sunday, Tuesday and Wednesday also have been extremely hot days.

Russell Appointed Revenue Collector

Last week in Omaha Verne W. Russell, of Ord, was sworn in as a deputy collector for the internal revenue department and was assigned to the Grand Island zone, where he reported for duty Monday morning. After a period of schooling Mr. Russell will be assigned to field duty, probably in connection with income tax matters.

For the present Mrs. Russell will operate the drug store here but later the store may be closed. Mr. Russell hopes to be able to get home week ends.

He has been one of Ord's finest citizens since he moved here from Belgrade some years ago. Prominent in Legion work, he managed the Legion junior baseball team several seasons. When the Valley county ration board was appointed Mr. Russell served as its first chairman. He has taken an active part in other civic affairs.

Licenses Required Under 2 New Bills

The Nebraska Legislature, in their 1943 session, passed two bills—L. B. 424 and L. B. 335—providing for the establishment of safeguards for children and aged persons who are receiving care outside of their own home.

L. B. 424 provides for the licensing of homes caring for three or more children under sixteen years of age from different families, and the purpose of the act was to provide certain safeguards which will insure proper care and treatment of children who are unable to be cared for in their own homes.

The following types of care given children while they are living away from their own home to attend school, foster homes, convalescent homes, day-care programs and nursery centers.

L. B. 335 provides for the licensing of homes in which three or more persons, not related by blood or marriage to the operator, who are recipients of either blind assistance or old age assistance are receiving food, shelter and care.

The standards for both are concerned with such matters as sanitation, fire protection, safety, care and treatment of the individual child or old person, isolation in case of illness. The standards also provide for a physical examination for both the operator and the child or aged person in the home to insure their freedom from communicable disease and to afford protection to other members of the household.

In both instances the license fee is $1.00 per year, and the license is valid for the calendar year beginning January 1.

Application blanks for the securing of a license may be obtained from the county assistance agency in your county, or through the State Department of Assistance and Child Welfare, State Capitol Building, Lincoln, Nebr.

Seven married men are included in Valley county's draft quota for September, reports Miss Christina Petersen, clerk of the Valley county selective service board. In the group are two volunteers, James Hegood, now working at Kearney, who has been accepted for service in the Sea-Bees and who is married, and Emory Treptow, of Comstock, unmarried.

Others in the September group are Victor Welniak, Omaha, married; Clarence Golus, Grand Island, married; George Knecht, Ord, married; Albert Wilson, Ord, married; Eldon Lukesh, Wichita, Kas., married; Paul Jeppesen, Atlantic, Ia., unmarried; Roscoe Livermore, a transfer from Craig, Colo., married.

According to present instructions, pre-Pearl Harbor fathers may have to be called to fill quotas beginning in October. Miss Petersen says, though the local board is deferring calls as long as possible because regulations may again be changed.

The OPA is now in the process of "flat pricing" the nine counties which comprise the North Platte district, and the meeting was held to explain the simplified procedure to local merchants.

Potato Digging Is in Progress, Many 300 Bushel Yields

Farmers Getting Top of $2.00 per Cwt., after Grading; Several Carloads Go.

Yields of 300 to 400 bushels of potatoes to the acre are common in the Ord vicinity this week as the harvest of irrigated potatoes gets under way, and several carloads have already been shipped via Union Pacific to Kansas City and other terminal markets.

All potatoes are being cleaned and graded with the new equipment installed by Farmers Grain & Supply company in the warehouse building formerly connected with the Ord Milling company. There 12 to 15 men, boys and girls are working at grading and sacking the spuds and wheeling them into railway refrigerator cars for shipment. About 3 carloads per day can be graded by this machine and crew.

Among growers whose potatoes have already gone to market are Leo Long, who had 5 acres; George Hastings, who raised 12 acres on the Ed Zikmund place; Lt. Raymond Pocock and Ed Pocock, 10 acres; Archie Geweke 10 acres; Cloyd Ingerson and Dell Barber, 10 acres.

Most of the potatoes dug to date have been Irish Cobbler but a few Triumphs from the Geweke field were coming on the market yesterday.

Yields have been running 300 to 350 bushels per acre on most places and quality is generally good, though the Leo Long field suffered from an infestation of the flea beetle which reduced both his yield and the price he was offered for his spuds.

The Herbert Campbell Co., of Gibbon and Scottsbluff, has a buyer here who is buying all the potatoes at government floor prices. No. 1 potatoes bring $2.00, 85% No. 1's bring $1.90 and 80% No. 1's bring $1.80. A government inspector is grading all potatoes delivered at the Farmers Store grading plant.

Three diggers are operating in the Ord vicinity this week. Most up-to-date one is the new digger with sacking attachment bought this summer by Archie Geweke. From 3 to 4 acres daily can be dug with this machine, which requires a crew of about fifteen people to operate.

Ed Zikmund and Ign. Krason also own diggers, and near North Loup an outfit owned by Benny Nelson is being used. Probably a hundred or more people are working at potato harvesting in the Ord vicinity alone.

The Farmers grading plant presents a scene of activity, with trucks discharging loads of sacked potatoes into the east doors of the warehouse, men pouring them into the grading machine, boys and girls picking out mis-shaped and dirty potatoes at the other end, men sacking the graded spuds, weighing them, tying the sacks and wheeling them on hand trucks into railway cars at the west entrance. Three hundred sacks to a car is the rule, though a few cars went out containing 300 sacks earlier this week, due to a shortage of cars.

At least fifty carloads will be shipped from Ord alone this month. Several large-scale growers haven't started their harvests yet, among them being W. O. Zanger, Jake Severns, George Nay, Bud Knapp, Wilbur Rogers and Ign. Krason. Two men from the Scotia Cotsfield vicinity who raised spuds by pump irrigation will truck them to Ord for grading, Harry Lindsay and Henry Hermsmeider.

There also will be a number of North Loup growers who will truck their potatoes here including the crop of Triumphs raised by Bennie Nelson.

Potatoes appear to be a profitable crop in the Loup valleys this season and if the government guarantees the price again next year it is likely that acreage will double or triple. Burwell has a big potato harvest under way too, and Arcadia has been operating for ten days or more. Both of these communities have raised potatoes on a commercial scale for several seasons but this is the first year for the Ord community.

They know that it is hard for children, who have been outdoors all summer, to sit down and do mental work. They realize that it is difficult for new students to adjust themselves to strange teachers and classmates.

Folks are apt to disregard the value of an education in times like these, especially since transportation is such a problem. Less than half of rural boys and girls in this country attend high school and only one fourth finish the four years.

It has been proved that a 12th grade graduate earns twice as much as one who ventures forth armed with but an 8th grade diploma. A high school education will be an even greater necessity after the war than now.

By staying out of school now on patriotic grounds, students may actually be doing a disservice to their country. And those who skip a year seldom ever return.

Rex Jewett, City Clerk.

BACK FORTY

Ord high school starts next Monday and most of our young people will be there. We are fortunate in having a full staff of teachers, a fine building, and plenty of equipment with which to work. School begins earlier than usual this term, and should dismiss about the middle of next May. Rural pupils will thus be enabled to help with spring farm work at home. Ord high allows pupils to choose the courses they want, and trains them to use their hands as well as their minds. The instructors are considerate.

THE ORD QUIZ

Published at Ord, Nebraska

Subscription $2.50 per Year 6 months $1.50 3 months 75c

Entered at the Postoffice in Ord, Valley County, Nebraska, as Second Class Matter under Act of March 3, 1879.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

In taking care of subscriptions I notice that many people send the amount they paid the last time instead of the price of a year, which of course would save them money. If they paid 75 cents the last time that is what they send, if a dollar, then they send that amount. Many pay $1.50 for six months and in six months repeat it, paying $3. a year for the paper when they could as well save fifty cents by paying a year at a time.

In looking over the current copy of Outdoor Nebraska, sent out by the State Fish and Game Commission, I can't help but feel that Valley county has not been treated fairly in the matter of state owned playgrounds. This county should be entitled to a lake and fishing resort. Such an enterprise would be of great benefit to this vicinity and the whole county and following the war, it might be a worthwhile enterprise to foster, if some group would propose the site and push the matter a little.

Mrs. T. J. Hauer at North Loup, sends in many renewals and new subscriptions. She makes a commission on the business she sends; she is doing a swell job of reporting the news from that corner of the county and she is entitled to the support and confidence of the people in her territory. Our representatives at Arcadia and Burwell get the same commission and I see no reason why their people don't give them the business. They are all prepared to give receipts for subscriptions and they all report promptly every week and all subscriptions received up to and including Tuesday are always credited on your copy of the paper the same week.

As I have frequently explained, we do not send expiration notices to soldiers for the reason that their mail is often delayed and would not reach them, sometimes, until after the expiration date on their paper. But we depend upon their people, who usually send the paper, to keep track of the date of expiration. We discontinue the paper when it is out.

There are now many cities where the new zoning rule is in force and it is important, when subscribers are renewing, to always give us this number so it may be included with the address. Don't send it at other times unless absolutely necessary because it makes us cut an extra stencil.

That was a nice letter that I received from Alice James Rother when she renewed her subscription the other day. Of course she had to kid me a little about my methods of house-keeping and reading between the lines I just imagined that she didn't think too much of some of those said methods. But, anyhow, I am glad that she likes the Quiz and that she retains an interest in the old home town.

I am having a lot of fun getting acquainted with my birthday present. Sounds funny but the girls got me a fine, registered Cocker Spaniel for a birthday gift this summer, then cared for him at the lake till they came home. Now the responsibility is all mine and is he having fun, with me. He has taught me several things. One is that when I get ready for bed I must park my clothes and shoes and socks on top of the refrigerator. He wouldn't eat fried eggs like I do but he does like bones and so I borrowed chicken bones for him. I supposed he was eating the bones and tried to get more. I spread a newspaper on the kitchen floor and put the bones on it, but Mr. Pup carried them all in the other rooms and after parking them on the various rugs to his satisfaction, started eating them. But later I found that after chewing them a while, he took them under the bed, couch etc. and parked them. I suppose, so they would be on hand the next time he got bone hungry. But he is a fine pup and I like him.

One good friend writes, telling us that she wishes we would get her Quiz to her at the end of the week instead of the first of the following week, as sometimes happens. We are sorry, but we can't change the mail service. The Quiz always leaves Ord on Thursday, has not failed in months, but sometimes no doubt a great rush of mail makes it impossible for the employees to handle it all and of course letters have to be put through first. The Quiz is a first class paper but under the rules it has to travel third class and get there later sometimes, than other first class mail such as letters.

Something Different

Among novel forms of advertising, and amusing types of entertainment list the cute little roadside signs of dear old Burma Shave shaving cream. Many a sleepy traveller have they kept awake. Many a good laugh have they caused.

In case you aren't familiar with them, they are clever little verses, posted one line to a board. They are painted in white on red background, and one sign is put on each fence post until the verse is done.

Also in case you aren't familiar with them, I copied a few. Here they are:

"If hugging on highways Is your sport Trade in your car For a davenport" "Pa likes the cream Ma likes the jar Price 50c And there you are." "At ease, she said Maneuvers begin When you get those whiskers Off your chin" "Ice-man's grandson, Now full grown Has a cooling system All his own." "He drove with arm Out too far His elbow went home In another car." "Mid rising taxes Soaring rents, Still half a jar For fifty cents." "Let's make Hitler And Hirohito Look as sick As old Benito; Buy war bonds." To get the right effect when reading these end each verse with the chorus: "Burma Shave, 50c per jar." No, they didn't subsidize me. Not yet, anyway.

On any trip, the signs are one of the high points of interest. Not long ago I saw a sign, the name of a little vacation home "Marks the Spot".

Grant county, Nebraska, (think that's the one) has for several years had a big sign-board in colors with a picture of a milk cow. And the legend "The finest cattle country in the world." And down in the corner, "And that's no bull!" -Irma.

Spaniards Built Fleet to Get the American Riches

In the days when Spain was a great nation, very rich, her maritime strength survived one of the greatest of tests—bringing the gold and silver looted from the New world through waters largely uncharted.

How many of the treasure ships were sunk is unknown, but much of the gold and silver reached Spain. Between 1587 and 1600, for example, gold and silver to the value of $145,000,000 came into one Spanish port.

Usually the treasure ships traveled in convoys, but surrounding them, watching for a straggler, hoping for good fortune, was a swarm of enemy craft: French, English and Dutch. A favorite hunting place was the sea around the Azores.

The Spanish observed every precaution in the selection of their pilots and officers of their treasure armada. They had a pilot-major and a staff whose duty it was to train and examine these men not only as to their navigational ability—but they were also examined as to their financial status and as to their morals. Standard charts were issued—standard orders were issued covering every possible contingency. In particular, every effort was made to eliminate from the list those who indulged in the sin of blasphemy.

Accidents Take Big Toll

In Home by Carelessness

It is saddening to read the annual accident record for 1941 and find the appalling number of 31,500 deaths due to home accidents. Accidents are real enemies of the home and most of them are caused by thoughtlessness and carelessness. Make your home a safe home by taking care of the danger spots which cause most accidents:

Have you a step ladder in good repair? Are there handrails for all stairways with open sides? Do you have a regular place for tools and toys when not in use? When using a sharp knife, do you always cut away from you? Are poisons and medicines clearly labeled and stored out of reach of children?

Do members of your family carefully read labels on medicine bottles before using? Are all home-canned vegetables and meats boiled for 15 minutes before using? Do you empty large receptacles of water immediately after using them? Do you immediately wipe up water and grease spilled on the kitchen floor?

Are the porch steps in good repair? Are you learning the habit of turning handles of cooking utensils toward the back of the stove? Is some member of your family qualified to give first aid?

Import Mexican Labor

Mexican workers are being brought into the country through an arrangement between the governments of the two nations. Overall national arrangements are made by the War Food administration. The Farm Security administration provides and arranges for transportation and is responsible for workers' care while they are in this country. The extension service arranges for the placing of the men on farms.

Each farmer using Mexican labor must maintain certain housing and living standards, which are inspected by the farm security administration. Standards required are those afforded other farm workers and in keeping with customary practices. The importees are paid the prevailing farm wage in the community in which they work, according to the international agreement. Each contract is for 90 days, at the end of which the laborer is eligible to enter into another contract or to return to Mexico, whichever he wishes.

Hens Should Be Comfortable

Laying hens must be kept cool and comfortable during hot weather and supplied with plenty of clean fresh water to maintain egg production. Windows and ventilators on the back of the poultry house should be opened, and also the ventilators at the ends of the house. Drinking water should be supplied to the flock at least two or three times daily.

When the consumption of mash drops sharply, the feeding of wet mash at noon each day is advised. The dry mash can be moistened, with cool skim milk, buttermilk, or cool water at the rate of three pounds of dry mash for each 100 birds. To keep egg production and profits up, the flock should be culled closely, sending all marketable birds to the market just as soon as they quit laying. This is not only good economy but it also helps to save feed, which is now critically scarce.

Firm Raspberries for Canning

Only fresh, firm raspberries should be considered for canning. After they have been carefully washed, pack them into glass jars, alternating berries and boiling red syrup until the jars are filled. Process either pints or quarts in a hot water bath for 20 minutes.

To prepare the red syrup, use over-ripe or soft berries, adding one-half cup of water to one cup of berries. Heat slowly to the boiling point and strain through a fine sieve or cheesecloth. To each cup of juice, add one-half cup of sugar and bring back to the boiling point. Mixing this syrup with the fruit will aid in keeping the fruit from rising in the jars.

Blankets From Paper Felt

More than 56,000 blankets made of discarded paper machine felt have been fabricated and shipped to Britain.

Game Food

Hunters and anglers harvested more than 250,000,000 pounds of game meat and 300,000,000 pounds of fish in 1942.

Cut Absences

Work absences in a Cleveland, Ohio, plant were reduced by a labor-management drive from 22,000 hours to 8,500 hours in a four-month period, in spite of increased employment.

Pig Isn't Fussy

A feeder-pig needs only a clean dry bed, a tight roof overhead, and two or three walls for protection from winds, when bought in the late spring or early summer and slaughtered in the fall or early winter.

Portable Air Fields

Metal landing tracks for military planes are made in "mats" or sections, transported by truck and laid down in a hurry on desert or plain to establish a landing field in a few hours. The mats are painted to save them from rust and to render them less conspicuous to enemy observers.

Anthracite

It was found that anthracite compares favorably with coke as a fuel for melting iron in foundry cupolas and a survey showed that 2,000 plants "in the anthracite marketing territory alone" could use hard coal in place of coke at a lower cost. This market, if available to the anthracite industry, would use about 500,000 tons of egg and broken size a year.

English Exchange Shoes

Shoe exchanges have been resorted to in England to meet the shortage in children's footwear. The plan has been extended to several sections following a successful test in London. Outgrown shoes were collected with the co-operation of mothers, school teachers and nurses. Contributors were then given exchange rights.

Birds Filmed in Nests

Dr. Eliot Porter has taken a remarkable series of color flashlights of birds. By remote control he has been able to catch the movement and activity of birds in and around their nests, particularly the parent bird, just arrived with a luscious lizard or bug in its beak and about to pop it into the cavernous mouths of its young.

Protect Grenades From Rust

Failure of an American hand grenade to explode during a critical encounter may cost the life of a soldier. To make certain that every grenade will explode when thrown, the container of the explosive is made of sheet metal specially galvanized to retain a coating of paint, and is painted both inside and outside to protect it from moisture and rust.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Dear Mom: Mrs. Cecile Fox, Ord, Nebr. Just a few lines to let you know I was in the invasion of Sicily and am well and coming along fine and expect to stay that way. There isn't much difference here from Africa its all still fighting. You can find on the map where we landed, it is Sicily, Sicily. The weather is pretty hot and I sure will be glad when the war is over and I am back in the good old U.S.A. I have seen a lot of things and places that I can't tell you about now, but will give you a good story when I get home. I wrote Danny and told her I was well and not to worry. I hope she got my letter and telegram. Did I tell you that I received your package all right. I'm in an assembly area at this time. I am writing this and will go back into combat in a few hours and we are all anxious to get going again. Moral in this outfit is always very high and we really enjoy going in and knocking the Jerries around. Tell the Quiz I really enjoy the paper and am always looking forward to it. How are the kids, I hope fine and tell them all hello for me and don't worry about me, as I always come out in good shape. Tell everybody hello and hope to see them all soon. Tell the home parade soldiers around there hello. Love, Marvin.

Blimps Versatile A modern blimp can fly low, fly blind, see deep under the water and travel fast enough to cover more area in a day's reconnaissance than the fleetest surface vessels. It can stand still in the air, fly backward, or even put down a sea anchor and ride as securely as a boat.

Oil Barge of Concrete The first concrete ship launched in the present shipbuilding program is an oil barge with an overall length of 375 feet and a cargo capacity of 8,000 tons—the first of 100 concrete vessels ordered by the Maritime commission.

Entertain Yanks Making the boys feel at home is the theme under which British housewives are entertaining American soldiers stationed in England. The British ministry of food advises the Englishwoman that the best method for this is to give him a taste of American cooking. To this advice, however, must be added a list, not of the familiar recipes of American dishes but of recipes making use of all sorts of wartime substitutes for scarce and war-rationed ingredients.

Native Advice

By STANLEY CORDELL Associated Newspapers. WNU Features.

JEREMY was grubbing out a witch hobble bush from his side lawn when he felt a stinging pain in his back. He straightened up, half expecting to see a man with a knife, or worse, standing behind him. But there was nothing; nothing, that is, except a dark, swirling mass of angry bees. Jeremy dropped his grubhoe and sprinted for the house. He reached it with one of the insects clinging to the back of his neck. Jeremy had never been bitten by a bee before, and the pain was excruciating. Ellen, his wife, came running from the bedroom at his cry of alarm. "Vinegar!" he yelled. "Get me some vinegar. I've been stung!" he added, because of the startled look that came into Ellen's face. He had read somewhere that vinegar was a sure remedy for bee stings. Maybe it was, for some folks, but it seemed to encourage the pain in Jeremy's neck and back. After awhile, however, the pains subsided. Jeremy ceased his yelling and Ellen said: "Well, for heaven's sake!" "Yeah, for heaven's sake!" Jeremy repeated. "How was I to know there was a beehive under that bush?" He stared dolefully through the glass in the kitchen door. The bees were still whirling and sizzling about the bush. "How am I gonna get rid of 'em?" he asked. "Well, why get rid of them?" Ellen wanted to know. "Because I want to clean out that scrub stuff and have a lawn there next spring. If I wait until spring the bees will still be there, only more of 'em." Since buying this place out in the country Jeremy had read many books on how to get the most out of your rural home, but exterminating bees hadn't been included and the natives had eyed strangers coldly.

"What do you know about bees?" Jeremy asked Asa.

A small truck stopped in front of the house, then backed into the driveway. It was Asa Winslow, a local farmer, bringing the fireplace wood that Jeremy had ordered. Jeremy's face brightened. Certainly Asa Winslow, a native and a farmer, would know about bees.

Jeremy cleared his throat. "What do you know about bees?" he asked Asa.

"Bees?" Asa hesitated with a log of wood in his arms. He regarded Jeremy speculatively a moment. Then, as though he saw no profit in the situation, said: "Nothin'. Waste of time."

"I'm not going to raise them," Jeremy pointed out. "I want to get rid of some."

"Oh. Where be they?" Jeremy led the way to a point a safe distance from the witch hobble bush and pointed. Asa approached the bush, regarded it scornfully, grubbed around the earth with his hands, and finally returned to Jeremy.

"Ain't many," he said. "You drop by my place and get some creosote. Pour it all around the bush an' you won't have no more trouble."

Jeremy was grateful to Asa. Any other native would have seen an opportunity to make some money by going through a long and unnecessary business of exterminating the bees. Asa had disposed of the matter by a single sentence and a magnanimous gesture.

That afternoon Jeremy motored over to Asa's farm. The place was deserted but there was a can on the back porch marked "Creosote," and his name was scrawled beneath it. Jeremy had never seen creosote before, didn't know of what use it was. He took the can, which was rather large, returned to his own place and poured the entire contents on and around the witch hobble bush. The results were amazing. Every bee in sight lay down and died.

Jeremy called Ellen. "Ellen, I'm beginning to think the trouble with the natives around here is us, not them. Now, take Asa. He's really not a bad chap, and he's got our interests at heart. Anyone else would have soaked us plenty for getting rid of those bees. Tomorrow, when I go over town for the mail, I'm going to drop by and get better acquainted with Asa; let him know I appreciate what he did."

"We live and learn," said Ellen, and then, because she agreed with him about Asa, decided not to tell him that while he was away she had emptied a can of kerosene on the bees, killing them all.

Samuel Holmes, 86, Last Homesteader?

Arcadia—(Special)—Samuel Holmes, who may be the only farmer in Valley county still living on the farm he homesteaded, passed his 86th birthday Sunday and in honor of the anniversary six of the seven surviving Holmes children, and their families, spent the day at the old home place and enjoyed dinner together.

Mr. Holmes came to Nebraska in 1879 and worked on the railroad in the Elkhorn river country. That same fall he worked on the Union Pacific railroad between Grand Island and Hastings. Later he made an 800-mile trip down the Missouri river in a small boat, starting at Burbank, Nebr., and traveling to St. Joseph. The next few years he worked at various jobs in Iowa but in 1886 he came to Nebraska and lived near Ord several years.

Much water is wasted by excessive run-off at the lower end of the irrigated field while more water is lost by excessive penetration into the soil caused by attempting to run the water long distances. The water wasted by run-off can be easily observed; it is far more difficult to detect water that is lost by deep percolation into the soil.

Deep percolation can be prevented by using a large head of water with ditches placed closer together and by changing the water as soon as the dry soil occupied by the roots has become moistened. The use of too large a head of water will cause erosion; consequently, the size of the head must be determined by the rate of erosion that occurs during the irrigation.

While water is being applied the irrigator can determine how long to let the water run by frequent examinations of the soil to determine when all the dry soil is moistened. A soil probe, a soil auger or post hole digger are more convenient than the shovel for examining the soil. For most crops and soils, a 2-foot penetration means that there is enough free water in the upper 2 feet of soil to bring the entire amount of soil occupied by the roots up to its moisture holding capacity, or all the water that it will retain without leaching.

More emphasis should be put on irrigating the soil. If the soil is properly watered the growing crop will do its part. Too many times the crop is partially drowned. Experience and experimental investigations have shown that up to a certain point crop yields will increase as the amount of water applied is increased. The increase in yield is rapid at first, then it becomes smaller until finally additional water actually causes the yield to decrease.

work, when they should be irrigating, is certain to result in slipshod irrigation practices on many farms. Clogged and weedy ditches may go uncleaned. The application of water is a 24-hour a day task. Enough water and a slope to run it down is not all there is to irrigation; the water must be applied so as to give maximum benefit without waste of water, damage to crops or destruction of soil.

Improper use of water may result from either the application of too much water or from the application of too little water. Both under-irrigation and over-irrigation may occur on the same field caused by an unequal distribution of the water. Rough, uneven land surfaces result in the low spots receiving too much water while the high places do not receive enough. Long furrows or runs cause the land near the ditch to become a muddy mass from too much water, while insufficient water is applied to the lower half of the field to moisten all the dry soil.

Much water is wasted by excessive run-off at the lower end of the irrigated field while more water is lost by excessive penetration into the soil caused by attempting to run the water long distances. The water wasted by run-off can be easily observed; it is far more difficult to detect water that is lost by deep percolation into the soil.

Notes From the VALLEY COUNTY FARM BUREAU

By C. C. Dale

Put Up Silage Now. The past few days have definitely put the finishing touches on a lot of dryland corn in this county.

The question which many farmers face now is how to obtain the greatest amount of livestock feed from this corn which will produce little or no grain. To this there is only one answer. It should be put into the silo as soon as possible. Making silage requires quite a lot of labor and there is little extra help available. Fortunately silo-filling can be a neighborhood proposition, and the job can be done. There are quite a number of field ensilage cutters over the county, and these should be put into service.

The alfalfa mill which it appears will be located at Ord is going to take a lot of the alfalfa raised in the valley which would otherwise be available to dryland stockmen. So the mill which will be a boon to the irrigator, will make the dryland farmers roughage problems more difficult.

Every man with a bunch of cattle should now be figuring out just how much forage he is going to need this winter allowing at least two tons of hay per head for mature cattle and one ton for young cattle, plus some fall and winter pasture, on rye and corn stalks. If he does not have this amount of forage in sight the deficit should be made up in the form of silage. A hard winter will increase the feed needs of livestock, grain is high in price and protein feeds are both high and scarce. The only answer is to provide a good supply of the best quality forage if it is possible to get and plenty of silage is the solution.

Feed Loans Available. J. O. Walker, field supervisor for the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office, announced today that feed loans are available.

Mr. Walker states, "The production of feed is vital; livestock should be finished before marketing to produce the required

Clock Still Ran
When the ill-fated submarine Squalus was raised off Portsmouth, N. H., after resting on the bottom of the Atlantic for 112 days, the only mechanical device still in running order was a navy clock.

Breeding Troubles Complex
The numerous reasons for breeding failures explain why the problem of producing a normal calf every 12 months is not simple. Sterility is not a disease in itself, but is a symptom of many possible troubles. For this reason no single remedy will solve all conditions causing breeding troubles.

Birds Symbolic for Navajos
Ethnologists consider the bluebird and thunder bird of some importance in the life of the Navajo Indians in New Mexico. The bluebird ranks as the symbol of the dawn and the thunder bird represents summer rain clouds.

Jap Games Unpopular
Japanese games have gained few "fans" in America. Jujitsu, judo and other Japanese combat tactics are clinically examined from the military standpoint. Nearest to a "steal," although purely collateral development, are the grunt-and-groan grandstand maneuvers of professional wrestlers.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Nelson, who live on the G. A. Ordinarily the thieves would have bagged a greater number of chickens as Mrs. Nelson has for many years raised a large flock of beautiful white leghorns. But this year, owing to cramped quarters in the laying house, it was necessary to decrease the size of the flock. A year ago in February the Nelsons lost their finest milk cow from the corral along the highway. An obliging truck backed up to the corral gate one night and loaded the cow and no trace was ever found of her. The next morning the tracks of tires and men were plainly visible. Later a fine
