WE NEED YOUR HELP

Yes, we need your help. We need it bad. If we don't get it, we will just have to struggle along and get whatever news we happen to run across.

Some people have more news than others, but in a paper such as the Quiz, nobody's news is any more important than yours.

That is not the democratic way of life. We are all equal before the law. Likewise, we are all of equal value to a newspaper.

One of our chief sources of news is the bus line, but we don't get all the bus news. We miss a lot of news from people who travel by auto.

The Quiz has two phones, No. 30 for news, No. 17 for business. We want you to use them, and for those purposes.

Happy Days Are Here Again!

Meat Rationing Has Ended

What will the end of meat rationing mean to us and to you?

It will mean, first, an end to the annoyance of coupons and stamps and tokens; to trying to make your stamps cover all your family's needs for a given period;

Right now, at least, it will not mean more plentiful supplies of meats, but for a long time they have been adequate anyway, for the most part.

We thank you for your patience during the long period of rationing. It was exasperating but necessary—for us as well as for you.

Pecenka & Son Meat Market

versaries, social events, club meetings, fires, accidents, catastrophes, sickness, sports events, elections, all these are worthwhile news items.

So give us a hand. We will appreciate it, and you will enjoy it. And in closing, we ask you not to be too hard with us if we make an occasional mistake.

EDITORIAL ON KEYS

A news story published recently calls attention to the fact that one of every six keys carried is lost in the course of a year, totals up the cost of the keys, and laments the financial loss incurred at a replacement value of 25c each.

The number may be correct for the big cities. In San Francisco and at Pearl Harbor it was necessary to keep anything you valued under lock and key, and all too often even the use of locks proved to be little or no protection.

In industrial areas you might lock the door, but people had a habit of finding other ways to get in. In many cases where the door was locked, thieves came in through the window.

But in the smaller towns, especially in the middle west, a man may have a number of keys, but he seldom uses them, and when he does, it is as a protection against the outsider who may come in, and not as insurance against what his neighbor might do.

The glory of the small American community lies in the fact that they are honest; that they leave the property of others alone; that they organize a husking bee or lend a helping hand in time of trouble;

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

Well, I got back to the desk in my office last Monday morning after an absence of 6 weeks and found plenty of work waiting for me.

I had quite an experience and have been wondering what percent of the people ever have hospital experience. I got along till I was past 74 without it and when they bundled me off to the hospital it was with considerable misgivings that I finally consented to go.

They put me up on a high bed just a couple of inches wider than I am. When I looked over the sides it was like looking down a precipice and I hoped that I wouldn't fall off. It was on a Monday that I went to the hospital. I had no more than got settled, when a nurse came in and said, well we are going to give you a bath. No, I said, I had a bath Saturday night and we will have to wait. But while she looked young and giddy, she was like cast iron about that bath and I couldn't argue her out of it.

But just as I was getting drowsy another nurse came in, took my temperature, counted my pulse and asked me for a complete life history. There must have been a hundred questions and when she got done I was surprised at the many experiences I have had. Then she left saying I could rest.

But pretty soon another pretty nurse showed up and said, how would you like to have an enemy. I said that as far as I knew I didn't have an enemy in the world and that I didn't want one. Have you had one, she snapped? And I was about to answer no when I remembered and said, yes, I did have an enemy but it was quite a few years ago. It was the time, I said, that Ernest Coats wanted to run for president and I told him that he didn't have money enough to beat Charley Ross and those other candidates and right then he became my enemy.

By then it was supper time and the dishes were rattling and I heard patients up and down the hall bragging about their steaks and chops and puddings but my door was passed up, except that every couple of hours a nurse brought me a glass of gooney looking stuff which I was told to drink, but I didn't see that it in any way satisfied my growing hunger.

In the morning no breakfast but I did get the bath and was getting pretty hungry when about 9 o'clock a nurse brought a plate with eight nice looking cookies and two glasses of water and said, now isn't that a nice breakfast? I said yes but if I was all the same to her I would take a cup of coffee in place of the water.

They put me up on a high bed just a couple of inches wider than I am. When I looked over the sides it was like looking down a precipice and I hoped that I wouldn't fall off. It was on a Monday that I went to the hospital. I had no more than got settled, when a nurse came learned that what I got those first 3 days and the following four days, was known as a starvation diet, that they didn't care a whoop whether I ate it or not, really hoped I wouldn't. I lost over 20 pounds and finally got taken home where I have been faking better but it is still what I would call a strict diet and it is going to have to be just that for a number of months.

Something that does not happen every day. Some of this material is being rewritten for this week, and some must of necessity be omitted entirely. However, do not let this worry you. Let us do the worrying, and keep your news coming our way every week. The chances are that a week like last week will not happen again for at least a year.

When the restrictions on print paper are lifted, as they doubtless will be soon, we are planning to get back to where we were before the war cut us down, and it takes a lot of news to fill a big paper. No finer tribute could be paid to the memory of a great American than that paid by a couple who came all the way from Elba Wednesday evening to see the picture, "Wilson," then showing at the Ord Theater.

SOMEWHAT DIFFERENT.

by John L. Ward.

In last week's Lexington Clipper the editor and owner, Lloyd Kain, in commenting on the Ord-Lexington game, was loud in his praise of the losing team, as we knew he would be.

Tuesday of last week catastrophe overtook two prominent Nebraska cities. For a full hour the power was off in Omaha and nearly a quarter of a million people had to get along without light or power.

Here's your chance to buy all the things you'll want for gay holiday meals while supplies are plentiful. Safeway's low prices will save you money... so stock up now... while you have plenty of time to shop.

"Your America"

Map of "Your America" Showing Territory Served by the Union Pacific Railroad

For more than 75 years, Union Pacific has served eleven western states... been a partner in their development... transported their people and products. This vast territory produces a great variety of agricultural products which not only feed and clothe the nation but are converted into a myriad of industrial uses.

The same eleven states also are a source of other industrial materials such as ores, minerals, lumber and petroleum. Rivers have been harnessed—providing irrigation and power. There is dependable rail transportation.

This vast western area has materials and facilities required for postwar expansion. There is plenty of space for such expansion and for homeseekers who desire a healthful contented life among friendly people in scenic surroundings.

Union Pacific... the Strategic Middle Route, uniting the East with the mid-West and Pacific coast... will, upon request, gladly furnish information regarding available industrial and mercantile sites or farm lands in the territory the railroad serves. STRIKES AND WAR.

In the final analysis there is not so much difference between strikes and war. The refusal of men to work when there is work to be done and when there are wages to be earned constitutes a waste of time, and a huge economic loss on goods needed but not produced.

It means interference with the usual routes of trade, cuts down on the output and often increases the demand. A strike in one plant may withhold parts vital to the running of another plant and thus cause a shut-down of a plant where no strike was contemplated.

War does all these things. Now, at a time when we need to be producing as rapidly as possible to make up for the shortages produced by the war, we find those shortages are continued by strikes.

The OPA has managed to keep prices down pretty well, except in some isolated instances, but this continued shortage induced by strikes is straining the situation to the breaking point.

KEEP THE GOOD MEN The federal government is now dwindling in man power, which is inevitable. The needs of war time called for the services of far more men in the various departments and bureaus, and the coming of peace means that many of these will go into other walks of life.

THE ATOMIC BOMB Much of the atomic bomb is still a secret, but the principle of the idea is the atomic force let loose by the disintegration of the atoms of certain elements.

Apparently this is what happened at Hiro-Shima. One moment there was a city of 200,000 inhabitants. The next the city was gone, the people were gone, and in an area five miles in diameter there was nothing but white, fluffy ash.

SOMEWHAT DIFFERENT. by John L. Ward. When I started home Friday afternoon, Dec. 7, I was just in time to see the parade of youngsters sponsored by the Hill Victory Crusade, and it was a pretty sight.

as they are now. But their parents were kiddies just after the first World War, and many of those parents had to do their bit for Uncle Sam then.

$1,154,000,000,000—That figure represents the cost of the recent war to the world. But figures don't mean much spread out across the paper that way.

Use tongs to remove baked potatoes from the oven or to lift greens from the cooking water.

Bolsters Surface
Lignin, a waste product of the paper and pulp industry, when applied in powdered form to a clay road, makes a semi-permanent surface.

Artesian Wells
An artesian well is one made by boring perpendicularly into the earth. The oldest known well of this kind was sunk in Europe in 1126. Probably the most famous one is near Paris, which was bored in 1833, bringing water from a depth of 1,792 feet. From this well 516 gallons of water flow per minute. In Missouri there is one well 2,197 feet deep, and another nearly 4,000 feet deep. The invention of the artesian well is undoubtedly due to the Chinese.

In Appreciation
 AT THE BEGINNING OF A NEW YEAR

The year 1945 is ending and a new year is soon to begin.

At this time we want to express our thanks and appreciation to citizens of Ord for the splendid cooperation shown the members of the City Administration during the year. Your patience and tolerance while many important questions have been up for decision is splendid. As your servants we have tried to decide these matters wisely and in a way that will bring the greatest good to all, and if we have made mistakes as any group of men must occasionally do they have been mistakes of the head and not of the heart and we have appreciated your forbearance.

We also express our appreciation and thanks to the city employees for their loyalty and efficient work, which has enabled the various city departments to run smoothly.

To automobile drivers of the city and territory, on behalf of the Ord police department, we also express thanks for your cooperation in the prevention of traffic accidents, which gave Ord almost a perfect safety record in 1945. Parking difficulties have been especially grave and we have appreciated public cooperation in handling this matter.

So long as your undersigned representatives continue to serve you we will continue to work for your best interests. Many grave matters affecting Ord's future remain to be finally settled: the housing problem, acquiring of land for the airport, building of the swimming pool, purchase and installation of new electric equipment, extension of the city's sewer system, rising costs in relation to taxes, and many others. Continued public interest in these problems will enable us to solve them better and we ask your advice and continued cooperation.

At this time we call your attention to the fact that city caucuses, under the new law, must be held in January, and every citizen should attend his caucus and see that able men are nominated for the various elective offices. Watch for announcements of the date.

1945 has been a great year. It has seen Ord take the first steps to a substantial post-war program of betterment which will be carried further in 1946. We thank you, Ord people, and wish for you a happy, prosperous New Year.

he spent most of a Saturday going to town and back in a buggy. We can pretty nearly span the continent in that time now. The horse and buggy are gone; the rail fence is gone, but human nature is still much the same. In these days, as in those, friendships count in business.

We are proud of our long list of friends on this New Year of 1946—a list that has been growing steadily with the years—and want to express this word of thanks as we send you our New Year greetings.
