County Red Cross Drive Now Started; Tuesday, First Day

Rural Residents Asked to Bring or Mail Their Contributions to Banks.

Don Auble, who is chairman of the Red Cross drive in Ord, announced that he has his workers all lined up and that the work of soliciting started promptly Tuesday morning. He figured the work in Ord would be well out of the way this week, although the closing date is not until March 15.

The ward chairmen are: Mrs. George R. Gaid for the first ward; Mrs. Alfred L. Hill for the second ward; Mrs. Stanley Absalon for the third ward; corporation collecting, Mrs. George A. Parkins. These chairmen have their assistants, but they have not given the names to Mr. Auble.

One thing Mr. Auble wants understood. There will be no soliciting the business places in Ord. Business men will be solicited in their homes. In the past the business section has been overworked, which resulted in double solicitation in many cases, and has led to considerable confusion.

Workers Organized. C. W. McClellan is chairman of the North Loup drive, and has his workers right on the job. In Arcadia Mrs. E. C. Baird is chairman and her group of workers started out early Tuesday. There should be no difficulty in getting to all the homes in the urban areas.

John R. Haskell, Valley county chairman, has the situation well in hand, but realizes that, regarding the rural roads will be in bad condition for travel. For this reason he is urging that farmers turn in their contributions while in town, or mail in a check.

These payments or checks should go to any member of the various committees, to any of the chairmen, or to any of the banks in the county. Mr. Haskell is asking contributors to be prompt. While there are 15 days to do the work, prompt action will finish the job in much less time.

R. C. Greenfield, Pioneer Resident, Called to Reward

Lived in Valley 70 Years; Came to Nebraska in A Covered Wagon in 1879.

The ranks of the early residents have again been thinned by the passing, Friday, of Reuben Caleb Greenfield, who came to the valley as a boy of about 70 years ago. He came to Nebraska in the approved covered wagon route, and spent his early years on his father's homestead, ten miles north of Scotia.

Reuben Caleb Greenfield was born August 16, 1870 in Pleasantfield, Wisconsin and departed this life February 25, 1949 after an illness of about one year.

In 1913 he moved to Ord, Nebr., where he has since made his home. On December 23, 1901 he was married to Mrs. L. V. Hassell. At an early age he united with the Methodist church, of which he was always a faithful worker and supporter.

He leaves to mourn his departure his faithful wife, one sister, Mrs. Anna Lucas of Ord, Nebr., California and other relatives and a host of friends. Mr. Greenfield was small of stature but upon all endeavors he carried his share of the load.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist church at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. Rev. L. V. Hassell officiated. The Hastings Pearson Mortuary had charge of arrangements. Mrs. Lucille Tolen sang three beautiful solos, accompanied by Mrs. Ava Noll at the organ.

AAA Committees Irrigation Board Meets, Plans for Coming Year, 1949

Today, Wednesday, at the Knights of Columbus hall the committee members of the AAA are meeting to receive instructions for the work in 1949. Delbert T. Scott of Atkinson, AAA fieldman, is here to explain new details in connection with the work.

The meeting opens at 9:30 a. m. and will continue all day. The budget this year for Valley county is $76,000 as compared with $42,000 for the year 1948. There are 45 committees at the meeting, three from each township.

Next week the record of storage loans will be available for publication. There are 150 corn loans, 38 wheat loans, 13 barley loans and one each on oats and rye. There are ten purchase agreements on corn and ten on wheat.

Snow Removal in Nebraska Takes 3 Million Dollars

Estimate Made Feb. 15; Does Not Include Work of Army, Guard Units.

According to an estimate just released by the state federal works agency, Nebraska spent more than three million dollars in snow removal activities up to date of Feb. 15. As the work was not nearly completed at that time, the total estimate will doubtless be much higher.

For example, the estimate made for Valley county is $6,360. Tracy Hamilton, county road supervisor, states that in this county a total of $8,000 to $10,000 by the time everything is figured up. A total of 62 counties were placed in the critical area, and varying amounts were spent in all of them.

The largest expenditure by any county was Wayne which spent $100,000 and had to quit with that amount because no more funds were available. Second on the list is Scotts Bluff county, with an expense of $59,997. One of these counties was in the eastern edge of the storm area and the other in the western edge, demonstrating how widespread the storm was.

Near Counties Spent Less. The estimates on counties surrounding Valley county are as follows: Adams, $4,000; Adams, $2,770; Wheeler, $2,760; Greeley, $6,882; Howard, $11,360; Sherman, $7,000; and Custer, $30,000.

The estimate also includes the figures, mostly estimates by city officials, of the cost of removing snow in different cities of the area. Among these are Ord, $1,500; Neligh, $1,750; Hartington, $1,500; Lexington, $1,037; O'Neill, $2,145; Cozad, $770; Gettysburg, $700; Loup City, $684; and Albion, $600.

Of course the city expenses are in addition to the costs incurred by the counties. Then there is the work of the army, which probably would add up to nearly as much as the other expenses. In addition there is the work donated by numerous organizations and hundreds of individuals, the value of which cannot be computed.

John Burson Case Heard in County Court at Burwell

The case of the State of Nebraska vs. John Burson was heard in the county court of Garfield county, Judge Moss presiding. W. E. Mansel represented the state and Rose and Clinch the defendant.

On hearing the evidence Judge Moss found Burson guilty of assault and battery as charged, and fined him $25 and costs. Through his attorneys Burson appealed the case to the district court.

Boy Scout Troop Planned for Ord

A meeting was held Tuesday evening with the view to getting the Boy Scout movement under way again in Ord. In attendance were the Boy Scout district field agent, the troop committee from the Rotary, and Dave Watson, who is to be scout master.

There was not a good attendance and not a great deal was accomplished. The charter was turned over to Watson with instructions to get it reinstated. The group looked over the list of former scouts and decided there are ten or twelve who will be interested in the troop.

Another meeting will be held March 30, at which time the Boy Scouts will be definitely organized. Meanwhile Scoutmaster Watson will hold scout meetings, the first of which will be in the Fireman's hall next Tuesday evening. Boys interested in joining should contact Mr. Watson.

Washington & Lee University Stamp

Another postage stamp to be issued in March will be a special commemorative issue honoring the Washington & Lee University centennial. The stamp, a three-cent, is pictured above. It will be on sale at the Ord postoffice the latter part of the month, or in early April.

By perusal of the very neat records kept by Weather Observer Horace Travis, the following facts of interest are found. Since our winter this year began in November, starting in earnest on Nov. 18, the records are checked from Nov. 1 through to March 1st. Of course it is possible more winter might come in March.

The temperature for November, 1948, shows a high average of 40 degrees, a low of 24 degrees and a mean temperature for the whole month of 32, exactly at the freezing point. There was precipitation on Nov. 4, 5, 11, 18, 19, and 21, totaling 2.4 inches of moisture. The last three days there was snow, amounting to 14.5 inches, quite a record for November.

For December the average high temperature was 30 degrees, the average low was 15 degrees and the mean temperature was 22 degrees. There was precipitation on Dec. 5, 8, 23, 24, and 25 totaling 1.72 inches of moisture, and 19.6 inches of snow. There were below zero readings of -7 Dec. 30, and -2 Dec. 31.

January had an average high reading of 16 degrees, an average low of 13 degrees, 9 degrees colder than December. Precipitation fell on Jan. 2, 3, 9, 10, 20, 23, 27, and 30, amounting to 1.09 inches of moisture and 1.9 inches of snow. Precipitation on Feb. 5, 8, 23, 24, and 25 totaling 1.72 inches of moisture, and 19.6 inches of snow. There were below zero readings of -7 Dec. 30, and -2 Dec. 31.

February had an average high of 23 degrees, an average low of 11 degrees and a mean average of 17 degrees. The wind moved the cold front south on Feb. 1, and very little new snow fell, only seven-tenths of an inch being recorded. There were 7 days below zero.

Summarizing the four months we find that the high average was 27 degrees, the low average was 15 degrees and the mean average was 21 degrees. We had 5.31 inches of moisture, which gave us 46.7 inches of snow. Leaving out November we find the four winter months had a high average of 23 degrees, a low of 11 degrees and a mean average of 17 degrees.

We have had colder winters. We have had winters with more snow in any given month except November. What made this winter record of them all was its duration, the longest amount in February, and the largest number of heavy windstorms, all of which moved the snow, whether any more came or not.

The winter cost more than any on record, not only in snow removal, but in efforts to stock the animals destroyed by the heavy snow. The work was begun before Christmas, and will continue as long as the snow lasts. The work is being supported by voluntary contributions from all persons interested in having the animals protected. The bounty money not being sufficient to pay expenses. When spotted by hunters from the air, the coyote doesn't have a chance.

Winter Hits All-Time Record For Total Snow In Middle West

Health Institute Held Here Tuesday at Masonic Hall

Social Hygiene, Cancer, Health Insurance Among The Subjects Discussed.

The Health Institute was held in Ord Tuesday, Feb. 22 in the Masonic Hall. Dr. Weekes talked to the group and discussed a film on the disease and Mrs. Florence Wahl, social hygiene educator of the State Health Department, talked to the group in the morning. In the afternoon they talked to the high school students. In the evening they attended the Business and Professional Women's Club and talked to the group.

Ross Allen opened the meeting in the afternoon. Floyd Edwards discussed Blue Cross and Blue Shield Plans for hospitalization and medical care. Mrs. T. A. Filipi, Director of Sanitation, Division of the State Health Department, spoke on Bangs disease and undulant fever. Dr. J. W. McGinnis followed with a discussion of local situations.

Wednesday the Institute was held in North Loup at the Community hall. A good attendance attended the meetings. Mrs. Florence Wahl spoke to the high school students. In addition to those that spoke in Ord there were Dr. E. H. Eggers, Director of Education, of American Cancer Society, who spoke in the evening and Dr. S. W. Alford, Animal Pathologist, College of Agriculture, who spoke on Bangs disease and undulant fever.

The Health Institute which was to have been held in Arcadia, Friday, Feb. 24, had to be postponed because of road conditions as the speakers were unable to get there. Arcadia plans to hold the Institute the last of April, when road conditions are improved.

Christmas Seal Report to Date Is Incomplete

Labmobile Expenses in County Were Paid by Christmas Seals.

The Christmas Seal drive is one more of the casualties of the bad winter, apparently. Miss McClatchey, chairman of the drive, mailed out 2,828 letters at the start of the drive, the understanding being that the recipients either send a remittance or mail the seals back.

To date this is what has happened. 136 of the letters were not delivered, because of change of address, removal from the county or other reasons. Two hundred and thirty were returned refused. Thirteen hundred were returned with contributions.

But what Miss McClatchey would like to know is, "What has become of the 1162 letters that have not been heard from. It is not essential to send in money unless you feel that you can. But those seals should be returned. It costs only a 3 cent stamp."

While many do not know about it, the fact is that money from Christmas Seals paid all local expenses in connection with the Labmobile unit and its visit to Valley county. This is certainly a worthwhile project and deserves your support.

No less than 1315 persons took the examination while the unit was in Ord and it cost them nothing. This week the unit is in Arcadia Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It will be in North Loup Friday, March 4, and Monday and Tuesday, March 7 and 8.

Ten cents each from the persons examined in the county during this period would bring the Christmas Seal fund up much more than it is now, but there is no charge. It is hoped that many who have not yet reported will mail in their contributions at once to the Christmas Seal fund.

Assessing Starts March 10th

County Assessor W. H. C. Noll says that the instruction sheets and work sheets will be sent out to all taxable persons in Valley county this week end or early next week. These should be made out and brought to Ord, North Loup or Arcadia as soon as conveniently possible.

Assessor Noll will have a meeting with his assistants Thursday, March 10, for the purpose of going over the work sheets and giving out instructions. There will not be as many assistants as last year. One at North Loup, one in Arcadia and three in Ord in addition to the county assessor and deputy assessor Conrad Woods. More complete details will be given in the Quiz next week.

TO MAYO CLINIC Frank Zulkoski, formerly of Elyria but now living south of Scotia, went to Omaha last week and from there went to Rochester, Minn., where he is a patient in the Mayo Clinic.

Side of Face Smashed by Flying Lug; Taken to Hospital in Omaha.

Ronald Rose, who is employed by Worn Bros. Transport service in Burwell was terribly injured about 7 p. m. Tuesday when a tire on one of the trucks blew up, the lug striking him in the face and crushing the bones, loosening all his upper teeth and bruising and lacerating skin and facial muscles.

He was taken to Omaha by his brother-in-law, Dr. F. J. Osewski and brother, Russell Rose, for examination and treatment, which will probably include plastic surgery, as his nose is badly broken. The doctors are somewhat worried about the bones around his left eye, damage to which might affect his vision.

Harold Scofield, Burwell Farmer, Hurt by Tractor

Pinned Under Machine Six Hours Before Found; Was Frozen to Ground.

Harold Scofield, 25, employed on the McFadden ranch, 35 miles northwest of Burwell, was caught under a tractor for 6 hours Saturday night, and his body was frozen to the ground when he was found. He is in the Burwell hospital and, in spite of his terrible experience, he is not in serious condition.

Saturday afternoon the Burwell Appliance company took an appliance out to the ranch, which is located about 3 miles off Highway 133 in Rock county. They got stuck going to the ranch, and Scofield pulled them over to the house with the tractor. When the work was done, he took them back as far as the highway.

Pinned "Neat" Tractor. On the way back the tractor upset, pinning Scofield beneath it. He was badly bruised and pinned too tightly to get out, but was able to breathe. Meanwhile Mr. McFadden was in Taylor getting his car repaired. When he was returning home about 1 a. m. Sunday he found the tractor and Scofield under it.

He had great difficulty in getting him out, since the ground had frozen while he was lying there and he was frozen to it and had to be cut loose before he could be moved. He got the man in his car and started for Burwell with him, but his car got stuck in the snow and he had to get help to get out.

Severe Injuries. He finally arrived at the hospital at 7 a. m. Sunday morning, and the injured man was given immediate attention. His face was bruised and his eyes blood shot and his left hand badly smashed. He was frostbitten a little, but not severely. Gasoline had spilled on him and had produced a bad burn. However, no bones were broken and he is making a good recovery.

Scofield is employed on the McFadden Ranch. He is a son of Earl Scofield of east of Burwell, is married and has two small children. He is a man of rugged constitution, and he needed to be so to go through such a terrifying experience.

Bill Steen Named Head of Ord CAP

Flyers Choose Officers for Coming Year; To Have New Training Plane from Vets.

Bill Steen, who has been serving as temporary commanding officer of the Ord civil air patrol organization, was elected commander of the Ord wing at a meeting held Wednesday evening at the American Legion hall.

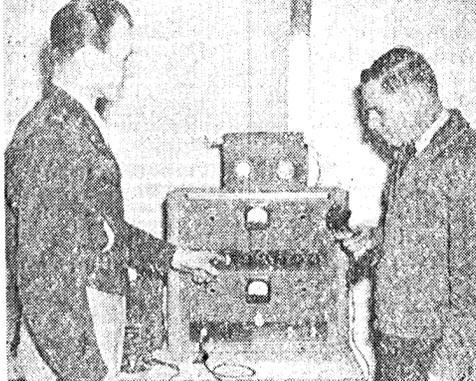

John Sullivan was named wing adjutant; Leslie Nash operations officer; Horace Travis, training officer; John Wozab, public information officer; Joe Fajmon, communications officer; and Vernon Nay, supply officer.

"Our big job now is to enroll cadet members," Steen told members of the CAP who attended the meeting Wednesday. "While a Civil Air Patrol unit is primarily for the protection of a community in emergency conditions, we have another duty in helping youngsters get started with flying and to make flying easier for them."

"If our unit had been formed a bit earlier and we already had a good class of cadets, we could have certified two of our youngsters for a nice summer vacation trip—as exchange cadets with Canada and England. We'll shoot for that next year."

An additional training plane, made available to CAP and cadet members, is now being overhauled and will soon be at the local field. The plane is the property of the Veteran's Club, Inc., and was purchased by them to aid Ord flying operations and flight training.

EVERETT McLAIN HERE. Everett McLain of Crescent Mills, Calif., was here the past week to visit his father, W. T. McLain, who is very ill at the Ord hospital. While here he visited his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McLain at St. Paul. He left for home Sunday.

Ord Has Radio Station; KVLV Now Set Up and Broadcasting Nightly

Local Chamber of Commerce Meets to Discuss Plans

Broadcasting Station, Hospital and Trade Days Considered by Session.

The Ord Chamber of Commerce met Thursday evening at the Knights of Columbus hall, with a very good attendance. It was the first night for some time that weather conditions permitted a thorough discussion of plans for the year.

Some committee reports, delayed for the same reason, were heard and considered. L. M. Johnson, district manager and Ambrose Bunting, both with the Continental Telephone Company, were present as guests and were introduced by President Ross Allen. Mr. Watson, manager of Ord's new shoe store, was also introduced.

"Snow Bound" President Allen talked of Snow Bound operations and thanked the Soil Conservation Service for furnishing office room during the emergency. Glen Auble told of the Red Cross and its part in the operations, and also about the Civil Air Patrol and the part it took in helping out those in distress.

One of the points that Mr. Auble brought out was the fact that the work of clearing the county roads had exhausted the county road fund and that there would be no funds available from that source to do work on the roads this summer. He said it might sound silly, but that the Red Cross was ready for any emergency in case of floods, either here or in nearby areas.

Station KVLV. It was stated that the Ord veterans organizations and the Chamber of Commerce had purchased a 150 watt transmitter, which is installed temporarily in the Fajmon Radio shop. This transmitter has been loaned indefinitely to the Ord CAP. It carries the same status as any commercial station. The call letters are KVLV and it operates on a frequency of 2374 kilocycles. It is to be used in emergencies, such as sleet storms or other catastrophes that might interrupt regular transmission of messages.

Leonard Woods, chairman of the road committee, reported on the status of plans for the proposed Ord-Greeley road. Henry Janus, chairman of the agriculture committee, reported on the recent corn show. He also called attention to the fact that the retailing committee reported on plans for some kind of a trade day proposition. It is certain that something of this sort will be done, but plans are not as yet complete.

Hospital Discussed. The question of a hospital for Ord was brought up and discussed at length, together with ways and means of financing such an institution. The suggestion was made (Continued on page 6)

County Levy Limit Bill Is Approved

L. B. 97, a bill removing the statutory limitation on the amount that counties may levy for general purposes, was passed last week by the legislature by a vote of 40 to 0.

The bill carries an emergency clause and becomes effective when the governor signs it. This will permit the counties to levy up to 5 mills, the constitutional limit. In recent years many counties have had to exceed the 3.5 mill limit.

Ciochon Advances; Selected Manager

By a change in the personnel of Wolbach's at Grand Island, Ted Ciochon becomes manager of the men's and boys' department there, supplanting Bayard Davis, who has been advanced to vice-president. Mr. Ciochon has been in Grand Island since 1930.

He became associated with Gorman's Men's Wear Co. in 1938 as a partner. He will be remembered in Ord as a son of John Ciochon.

Mr. Welniak has been operating the station for several years. Mr. Knecht had been handling Sinclair bulk operations in Ord. The bulk plant service has been discontinued here, and this community will be served from a Broken Bow bulk plant.

Kuklish, Welniak Plead Guilty to Charge; Third Case May Come Up Today.

Bailey Kuklish of Elyria was haled into Judge Charles Ciochon's court Tuesday and charged with delivering liquor to a minor, said minor being Donald Kusek. The liquor in question was 1/2 pint of whiskey. Kuklish entered a plea of guilty as charged and was fined $25, which he paid, together with costs of $7.50, and was released.

Electric Elevated
It was in 1900 that the Manhattan elevated railway was electrified. The first installation included 1,700 motors, and the current was changed to direct current by means of synchronous converters located in different substations throughout the city.

Real Manufacturer
The hen is capable of manufac-turing one or more pounds of eggs from every five pounds of feed con-sumed, and at the same time main-tain her body. Feedstuffs which have comparatively little value for human food are converted into one of nature's most perfect foods. Eggs contain all the nutrients required to transform a tiny germ into a baby chick.

An Open Letter

To The Citizens of Valley County:

Operation SNOWBOUND is over. Nearly as rapidly as our forces mobilized now have they withdrawn.

On the eve of our departure we wish to pause and thank the many able hands which so nobly assisted us in accomplishing our mission. We would prefer to grasp those hands in ours and tell them personally of our sincere apprecia-tion of their unselfish, diligent and untiring efforts; but time does not permit us to do so.

Therefore, we wish to state publicly to them our deep and heartfelt thanks for their assistance. We wish to mention your Disaster Relief Committee; your American Red Cross; your County Officials; your State Highway Depart-ment and Highway Patrol; your public spirited local business men; your telephone and tele-graph operators; and last, but most certainly not least, the people who night and day guided our bulldozers through to homes, livestock and haystacks, and those who so unselfishly cared for our personnel, giving them food, lodging and encouragement.

To all of you, we are truly grateful.

Chiropractic Saves Movie Company $120,000

By Julius Dintenfuss

The success of Chiropractors not only getting sick people well, but keeping well people well, was recently demonstrated when United California Productions employed a Chiropractor to take care of the entire company of the film, "Let's Live A Little."

Regular Chiropractic care of the entire company cut about $120,000 off the cost of making the film, according to actor-producer Robert Cummings. The story was reported in the New York Times on Oct. 17, 1948. The Times quotes producer Cummings:

"Eugene Frenke and I saved about $120,000 on 'Let's Live A Little,' and brought it in for about $1,000,000 by simply reading our policy. Companies always take out insurance against illnesses. Every day lost may run into about $20,000. I noticed, however, that if there is no sickness the insurance company gives a rebate to the policyholder. I had a cold one day and a friend told me of a Chiropractor who might help. He did, and I got him to take care of the whole company, cast, electricians, everyone. Well, we didn't lose a day through illness, and we got the rebate."

Friends of Chiropractic know that spinal adjustments help one to get well, and to keep well. See Dr. Leonard at 1806 M. Street, Ord. No charge for consultation and spinal analysis.—Advertisement.

What About "Radiant Panel" Heating

Every once in a while we get inquiries about new ideas in heating, and in trying to answer them we find out a lot of things ourselves, and then when we see people getting all "steamed up" about ideas that really aren't so good, we feel that we have to do something about it. That something is to tell as many people as we can as soon as we can, as many facts as we can gather. And this is the way we do it.

This time it's "radiant" or "panel" or "radiant panel" heating. It's been around for a long time in one form or another and is being sold and installed in both warm water and warm air forms. Its proponents claim lots of things for it such as:

1. Economy, due to personal comfort in 50 degree air.
2. No drafts.
3. No dust.
4. No unsightly register or radiator.

Of these, the last three are good sales points, but can be overcome by the points in favor of warm air ducts and registers. The first is pure bunk. While people can be comfortable in 50 degree air if all surfaces near them are warm to 70 degrees, more or less, thus decreasing radiation from the body, the surfaces have to be warm just the same, and as they warm so will the air around the person unless air conditioned down, and the heat losses outdoors through walls, windows, doors, and cracks, are just the same.

Arguments in favor of warm air ducts and registers include these:

1. Quick sensitive control of room temperature, which is slower with warm air ceiling or wall panels, and nearly impossible with a hot water radiant concrete floor.
2. No "hot spots" such as a warm water radiant concrete floor, which in order to heat a room usually must be so warm as to be at least uncomfortable and at most, ruinous to feet.
3. Air moving constantly but slowly, dissipates smoke and staleness in a room and contributes greatly to comfort. It does not have to be a "draft" to greatly increase comfort and ventilation in a room, and you will usually not have to open a window, with resulting heat loss and drafts.
4. In all well-designed warm air systems, extra care and equipment are provided to humidify the air in the house. This is a very important comfort and health feature, as well as an economy, as the temperature of properly humidified air can usually be lowered several degrees with more comfort than is produced with dry air. And the only way to humidify a panel heated house is with special equipment in each room.
5. With the replaceable filters provided in all forced air systems, most dust is eliminated from the air as it is circulated, and with the addition of electronic air cleaning, the dust, smoke, pollen, and some other impurities can be nearly 100% eliminated from the air in a house. Health can be improved and housecleaning greatly diminished this way.
6. Germicidal lamps can be placed in the air stream to greatly reduce bacteria in the air.
7. Lower operating cost, due to heating efficiency and very much lower first cost, due to elimination of false ceilings or walls, heavy insulation back of wall, ceiling or under floor, and to lower first cost of common warm air ducts as compared to radiant panel ducts, or tubing in the concrete floor.
8. Summer cooling can be very successfully added to a warm air duct system, but is costly and inefficient when attempted in a radiant panel system. And individual room coolers can be so expensive as to be impossible if applied to most rooms of a house. This makes ductwork and registers needed anyway, and makes the radiant panels appear to be so much wasted effort and money.
9. Registers now sold with and for forced air systems are a far cry from the old gravity registers of several years ago. They are smaller and neater looking, usually do not protrude into a room at all, can often be located so as to be hardly noticeable. In some ceiling styles they can even be used as mountings for light fixtures and often can even be a part of the decorative schemes of rooms.

We here at Ord Heating are willing to plan and install a radiant system if the customer insists. It does provide heat and is the "new look" in heating, but it is so impractical that we would not care for it in our own homes. And we don't believe in selling people things that are not in their interests. We feel much better about a well designed job well installed. And so do you, our customers.

About heating systems installation this year—We would suggest that if you plan on new heating or air conditioning equipment, or alteration or conversion of your present equipment, that now is the time to talk it over with us. In the spring we have more time to do a better job for less money than we have in the summer and fall. The BEST, combined with economy—that's what you want and what we sell.

Osborne Shoe Store Grand Opening Was Largely Attended

Old Grocery Building Completely Remodeled: One of Finest in Ord.

Saturday was the day for the grand opening of Ord's new shoe store, known as the Osborne Shoe Store. The store is owned by D. M. Osborne and associates, a small Nebraska chain of stores. Other stores are located in Holdrege, Oxford and O'Neill. Managing the store is W. W. Watson, formerly of O'Neill.

Visitors at the new store could hardly believe they were in the same building that has housed different lines of business in the past. Since a shoe store does not require so much space, the size of the building was cut down by a partition to the rear and the ceiling was lowered to conform.

The floors add to the beauty of the place, while a new lighting system sets off the ultra modern fixtures. Manager Watson and his assistants were kept busy all day long taking care of visitors and customers. They had no time to keep a record, but estimate the total number who called at 1,500. One of the most pleasant features of the occasion was the large number of bouquets, fifteen in all, sent in by Ord business firms, and also flowers sent by several wholesale firms. It was a busy day and a day long to be remembered, and Mr. Watson hopes his stay in Ord may be as pleasant as the opening day was.

Mr. Stoddard was born at Auburn, Neb., July 28, 1895, and entered the service of the Union Pacific as student helper at Gothenburg in April, 1916. He held a job at Loup City for a time many years ago.

Mr. Stoddard saw service in both world wars, remaining with the company the rest of the time. He was appointed general manager in January, 1947, and vice-president Sept. 1, 1948. During the war he was radio operator on transports. He held the rank of colonel in the transportation corps in World War 2.

Lehecka Family Moves to Omaha

Mr. and Mrs. George Lehecka and son Larry are planning to leave soon for Omaha, where Mr. Lehecka will enter into work with Bud Zabel. George's brother Bob has been there for some time working for Mr. Zabel, who has developed quite a large business in the smoking of whiting.

The business has grown to a point where they smoke as much as 1,500 pounds of the fish in one day. Mr. Lehecka sold his 320 acre farm near the Brick school recently to Pete Duda for $12,000, and they held a cleanup sale at the farm Feb. 17. Mr. Lehecka believes there is a great future in the fish smoking business.

Disabled Vets Making Poppies

Thousands of disabled veterans of both World Wars are now being given employment by the American Legion Auxiliary making memorial poppies to be worn in honor of War dead on Poppy Day next May. Mrs. C. C. Dale, poppy chairman of local Auxiliary unit, has announced.

The Veterans are at work on the poppies in hospitals and convalescent work shops in all parts of the country, finding in the work occupation for minds and hands during the long hours of illness and recovery, Mrs. Dale explained. The work is given to those most in need of the earnings and those who will benefit most by the activity. More than 10,000 are being employed during the winter and spring months, she estimated.

Made of crepe paper with stems of paper-wrapped wire, the poppies are replicas of the wild poppies which grow on the battlefields and war cemeteries in Europe.

Shaped carefully by hand, each poppy is different, each reflecting the skill of its maker. Poppies which the local unit of the Auxiliary will distribute here on Poppy Day are being made at the Veterans' Hospital in Lincoln under the direction of Nebraska Department of the Auxiliary.

Hogs, Lambs Up, But Cattle Lower

Hogs and fat lambs scored a 25-50c upturn Monday at Omaha, but fat cattle trade lagged. The Omaha run totaled 27,000, for top rank among the nation's major livestock markets. Slaughter steers, yearlings and heifers sold about 25c lower, with better steers off more. Near steady yearlings from $18.00 to $20.50, but bulk of slaughter steers bracketed at $21.00-$23.50, were 25-50c lower. Heifer top was $21.75, with steers quotable to around $27.00, highest early sale $24.50. Canner and cutter cows sold steady, mainly $14.50-$15.75; beef cows steady to weak, $18.00-$17.50. Bulls sold to $21.00, vealers reversed the trend of fat cattle trade to sell strong to 50c higher, $21.00-$24.25, light stock steers $26.75. North Bound Ducks on Cedar River

North bound mallards by the uncounted thousands are back on the Cedar river this week, reported Ed Kruml, when he visited Ord Tuesday. And along with them, following them north to see that they get through safely, came four state and federal game wardens, Kruml said.

The Cedar river and bayous are free of ice in many places, the Ericson rancher stated, and the ducks may hang around there several weeks before pushing on north.

Mr. Kruml spent much of the winter recovering from major surgery performed at Omaha and at Rochester, Minn., and reports that he is greatly improved in health.

TIME-LY TALES

HENLEIN'S EGG

The Nurnberg Egg was one of the first watches ever made. It marked the transition from weights and pendulums in clocks to the coiled spring. About the time Columbus discovered America, Peter Henlein conceived the spring as a driving force. His watch was oval-shaped, and since Henlein came from Nurnberg, Germany, it was called the "Nurnberg Egg." The principle gave birth to early European watch making, with the Swiss commanding a pre-eminent position as early as the 16th century.

establish, maintain and provide the other accounts as provided in this ordinance. (1) The City will not mortgage, pledge or otherwise encumber said system and the property constituting the same or any part thereof and it will not sell, lease or otherwise dispose of any of the plant system or property nor will it consent to a lien or charge of any kind on the revenues of said system having priority over the lien of the bonds hereby authorized; provided, however, the City may sell and convey any real or personal property which is not needed for the operation of said electrical system and for the service of the City and its inhabitants; but in every such case the proceeds of the sale of the property shall be paid into the "Bond Account" and used only to pay the principal of outstanding bonds which shall be called for redemption prior to their maturity. Provided, further that said property shall not be sold unless a competent engineer employed by the City certifies that the sale price to be received by the City is the fair market value of said property and that the earning capacity of the other property retained by the City will not be impaired by such sale. (m) The City will maintain insurance on said property for the benefit of the holders of the bonds of the kinds and in the amounts which would usually be carried by private companies engaged in a similar type of business, including loss and damage by fire, lightning, wind and other risks included in the all-coverage policy and also against public liability and workmen's compensation. All premiums or other charges in connection therewith shall be paid as a part of the cost of operation. The proceeds of any such insurance received by the City by reason of damage to or destruction of the property shall be used to replace and restore that part of the property so damaged or destroyed and to be used as a part of the "Bond Account". During the period of emergency caused by any such loss or damage the City shall have the right to make reasonable expenditures out of the "Light and Power Plant Fund" provided that the "Bond Account" is maintained as herein provided.

and power properties. On or before the 10th day of the second month after the city has issued the bonds described in this ordinance and on or before the 10th day of each month thereafter for twenty-four successive months and thereafter quarterly, the City will furnish to Kirkpatrick-Pettis Company, Omaha, Nebraska, a summary of the receipts and disbursements and cash balances of said property for the preceding calendar month or quarter year and within sixty (60) days after the end of the fiscal year 1950 and of each year thereafter will furnish to said Company a complete financial statement in reasonable detail prepared by a certified public accountant covering the operation of said property for such fiscal year. A copy of said yearly financial statement and audit shall be filed with the City Clerk and shall be a public document open to inspection. (r) The holder or holders of ten per centum or more of said bonds or of the coupons representing interest thereon may either at law or in equity by appropriate proceedings in any court of competent jurisdiction enforce any right created or granted by this ordinance or by the bonds issued hereunder, and if the court finds that the appointment of a receiver is necessary to protect the rights of the bond holders, the court may appoint such receiver to take over and operate the property and may fix the terms and conditions on which the same shall be operated until the default is made good. (s) The City reserves the power to refund any or all of said bonds which are due by their terms or payable under an option provided, however, no refunding shall be made of the unredeemed bonds hereinauthorized shall be refunded unless all of the following conditions exist and are complied with: (1) the principal amount of bonds outstanding shall not be increased as a result of such refunding; (2) the refunding bonds shall be sold at not less than par or by exchange for the outstanding bonds at the rate of not exceeding dollar for dollar; and (3) the net earnings of the system and property for twelve consecutive months out of the fifteen months next preceding the issuance of said additional bonds shall have been equal to either three times the maximum amount of interest for any succeeding twelve-month period on all of the bonds outstanding and on the bonds then to be issued or one and one-half times the highest amount of principal and interest which will become due in any succeeding twelve-month period on all bonds outstanding and on the bonds then to be issued, whichever amount is greater.

York Firemen Are Well Located
The York Fire Department is now located in their new fire hall at 4th and Grant Sts. This was once the street department building, and was remodeled to suit the fire department by the city council after they had sold the old fire hall. The department has two fire trucks and a hook and ladder vehicle. Also stored in the building is the new rural fire truck, and each vehicle is in a room of its own, with its own door, thus preventing confusion in case of fire. The building also has a hall, an office and sleeping rooms for the paid firemen.

Chanticleers Win Two Games from Arcadia Huskies

First Team Game Ends 46-27; Ord "B" Team Doubles Score, 28-14.
Playing a much improved brand of basketball, Ord's Chanticleers had all the better of the argument in two games played at Arcadia Saturday night. Both Ord teams did their best playing in the third quarter. The first team score was 46 to 27, and the "B" team score, 28 to 14.

Again Richardson led the scoring for Ord with 21 points. Nelson had 7, Stoddard 6, Munn and Faltner, four each, and Tolen and Maurice two each. Others participating were Adamek, Heick and Laursen. The Ord score by quarters was 7, 14, 38, 46, while that of Arcadia was 5, 11, 21, 27.
Ord ran wild all through the third quarter to rack up 22 points, almost half the total score. Collier was high point man for Arcadia with 10 points, followed by Mason with 5, Sell and Burt with 4 each and Beams and Rasplicka with 2 each. Wilson, Lybarger and Mettenbrink also saw service.
The Ord "B" team had an even easier time in winning by a score of 28 to 14. For Ord Adamek made 8 points, Sowers made 7, Malolepszy 6, Severson 4 and Ludington 1. Also playing were Clement, Penas, Stone and Loft. The Ord score by quarters: 8, 13, 24, 28. The Arcadia score 4, 10, 11, 14.

Ray was high man for Arcadia with 4 points. O. Lybarger had 3, M. Webb, H. Mettenbrink and G. Collier each had 2 points and F. Beams and McColely each had 1. Others playing were L. Sell, D. Woody and Wilson. Richardson, Ord's high point man, now has a total of 225 in 14 games, 16 points to the game on an average.

Ten Teams Battle in Tournament at Osceola This Week

North Loup Wins First Game from St. Francis; Seeded in Top Place.

Beginning Tuesday of this week a four day basketball tournament is being held at Osceola. North Loup is the only team from this immediate area participating, and is the seeded No. 1 team. According to the pairings Newman Grove, Genoa and Osceola are the other seeded teams.
North Loup helped start the ball rolling by taking the measure of St. Francis of Humphrey at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday, 48 to 31. Newman Grove and St. Edward tangled in the second game at 4 p. m. Genoa and Cedar Rapids played the first evening game at 7, followed by Osceola and Shelby at 8:30.

In the first round Belgrade and Leigh each drew a bye in the upper bracket, and St. Stromsburg and Clarkson in the lower bracket. The scores of the last three Tuesday games were not available Wednesday morning, when this item was written, but the complete story of the tournament will appear next week.

Custer Co. High in Farm Production

Custer county led all other counties in Nebraska in farm production for the year 1947, the latest year in which figures are available. The figures are given in a pamphlet released by the State-Federal Division of Agriculture statistics.
The figures on grain, hay and livestock show that Custer produced more than 31 million dollars worth of these products. Dollars on grain stood second with 26 million, Cherry third with 25 million and Cheyenne fourth with nearly 20 million.

Local Chamber of Commerce Meets to Discuss Plans

to form a cooperative association. Herb Smets, chairman of the hospital committee, told of what progress the committee had made. The work of this committee was cooperative plan. It was also suggested that a hospital might be acquired and maintained by a county levy, but this idea did not meet with much favor. After much discussion Jay Auble suggested the appointment of a "feeler" committee.
The committee was appointed by President Allen, with Leslie Nash as chairman and Glen Auble, Henry Enger, Edgar Roe and A. R. Brox as the other members. The work of this committee is to assemble as much information as possible on methods of acquiring and operating a hospital, and report back to the original committee.
Secretary Wallace Doe is in receipt of a letter from the city of Tilden, Neb., in which the city clerk tells of how the hospital was acquired there. He says the money was raised by donations and benefits. Every person donating $25 or more has a vote in the corporation, which is run by an elected five-man board. The letter should be of material benefit in deciding what to do in Ord.
The question of natural gas was brought up and the civic improvement committee was asked to look up the status of the franchise now in Ord. The letter was given in Ord some years ago, which has a long time yet to run. However, the company to which it was given has been reorganized since that time.

Kill of Honor
As a final suggestion, the matter of a roll of honor for Ord's service men was brought up, and the idea was to have the county board make some arrangement for a permanent record, as the present board would require constant renewal of the list. The list was brought up of using the present board as a bulletin board. President Allen and others will meet with the county board and work out some plan.

Broken Bow Team Upsets Loup City by 33-30 Count

Raiders Lose Only Game in League to Mar Record; Still Safe in First Place.
The Indians from Broken Bow put one over on the Warriors at Loup City Tuesday night of last week to win by a score of 33 to 30. It was the only league loss suffered by Loup City in the entire season, although they had lost their opening game in an inter-sectional tilt against Gibbon.
Not more than five points separated the two teams at any time during the game, but it was not until the last half that the Indians began to look like the team that had defeated Burwell and Gothenburg. Loup City was out in front 9 to 7 at the end of the first quarter.
At the end of the half the score still stood in favor of Loup City 18 to 15. In the second quarter Broken Bow was doing some very poor ball handling, and the Raiders were working smoothly, and it was only by virtue of three field goals by Ralph Meston that they managed to stay in long hours for the tide of battle turned westward in the third quarter, which ended with Broken Bow protecting a 27 to 25 lead. The lead changed hands again in the fourth quarter, with Bill Sweeney making two field goals to tie the Indians out in front and Meston clinching it with a final one from the floor.
The upset victory does not change the status of the teams in the league standings, as Loup City finished by Loup City in the entire season in any case. These teams do not meet in the district tournaments.

Ord Hoopsters Best Superior at Ord Friday

Too Much Richardson, Who Scored 25 Points, Is Margin of Victory.

Ord's Chanticleers came through with a very fine game of basketball Friday evening at Ord in a top play visiting Superior by a score of 40 to 20. Ord's Dale Richardson accounted for 25 of these points, almost enough to win the game alone. However, he was aided by splendid playing by every member of the Ord squad.
The Chants took an early lead and were ahead 8 to 1 at the quarter and 17 to 8 at the half. Superior came back strong in the third stanza and were ahead for a brief period. However, the quarter ended with Ord again leading, 27 to 24.
The Ord scoring took quite a drop following Richardson's high showing, while that of the visitors was spread out, Latham making 10 points for the losers, Tangdall 9 and Warrneking 7. Richardson made his record on 8 field goals and 9 free throws. This is the second time in the season he has scored 25 points.

Yellow Corn

At present we have the best quality of corn on hand that we have had this winter. This is a very dry lot of corn and it runs 56 - 57 lbs. per bu. This corn is good enough for shipment to a mill but we would prefer to sell it locally, so if you need real good corn let us price this corn to you. At present we have about two carloads of this corn.

Superphosphate

We still have several tons of Superphosphate on hand and it is priced very reasonable. If you can use Superphosphate you should get your order in now. We hope to be able to have a Fertilizer meeting some time this Spring and have a man here that knows fertilizers and give you the information that you should have about fertilizers. Watch the paper for a date for this meeting.

Alfalfa and Sweet Clover Seed

Farmers are buying their alfalfa and sweet clover seed now for spring planting and we believe that Alfalfa will really be very short this Spring. The seed crops of alfalfa, sweet clover, bromine and crested wheat were very small last fall and the carry over of seed is very low, so we just can't see where the seed will come from to fill the demand. Of course canes, sudan and millets are very large crops and will be the cheapest that they have been in several years, but we do not believe that these crops will take the place of legumes and grasses. This week we shipped 1,000 lbs. of alfalfa seed to a couple of farmers in the eastern part of Nebraska. You can see from that the demand will be great. Use plenty of legumes and grasses and build up your land.

Hy-Line Chicks

We expect to have a Hy-Line meeting on March 16th in the basement of the Masonic Hall at 2:00 p. m. Plan to attend this meeting and see films of the production of Hy-Line Chicks and hear the story of the record of production of Hy-Lines. This will be a very interesting meeting and we believe that you will get a lot of chick information. We are going to give several very nice door prizes at this meeting. Watch next week's paper for the announcement.
We have a full line of poultry remedies if you are in need of anything in that line. Also everything in the way of poultry supplies, Peat Moss, Scratch Feed, Starting Mash, Starting Cracklets and Oyster Shells.

Hog Feed

We carry a line of 21% Pig and Sows Meal, 40% Hog Supplement in both meal and pellets, Meat Scrap and Tankage. It pays to feed a good protein feed even if corn is low priced.

Roy Wooden Says He's Still Alive

Roy Wooden of the Manderson neighborhood up not far from Gordon, asked the help of the Gordon Journal to stop the ghost story about him. A lot of people believe he is dead, and can hardly believe their eyes when they see him alive and in good health.
It all started when Roy and his family were marooned on a wide spot in the road by a blizzard. They were stranded for a while, but got through all right. Roy is still getting letters from relatives and friends, asking if he is alive. He is.—Gordon Journal.

Snow Removal in Nebraska Takes 3 Million Dollars

county, and probably in all the other counties as well where it is organized, is the Soil Conservation Service. This group not only turned over their offices for use of the disaster agencies, but the members put in long hours for which they did not receive, nor expect, any extra pay.
As Leslie Nash, head of the service put it: "Public servants are by duty bound to do whatever they can to help out in time of disaster." Praise also is due every member of the disaster committee, to all the members of the Civil Air Patrol, to county and state highway departments. In fact, it would take a long time to name all the people to whom the highest praise is due.
H. H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service, put out a report which showed the hours put in by the four members of the local office force, John Vanberg, Wallace Doe, Louis E. Walford and Leslie C. Nash. The report shows that these men put in 529 day hours and 100 night hours during the emergency, none of which was in the line of their regular work.
Vanberg was used to run errands for the staff. Wallace answered the phone and made case histories of farmers' requests. Doe routed the National Guard rescue units. As operations officer Nash coordinated flight activities of the local pilots and the Red Cross chapter. Henry Enger, chairman of the district, went as guide for cat operators, helped locate hay and guided National Guard rescue teams.
Livestock Losses Low.
An accurate estimate of the percentage of livestock lost over the area is difficult to obtain. Estimates made by different sources vary from 5% downward. Most farmers in Valley county were able to bring their stock through without loss, due to the fact that sheds and shelters were available for their stock.
The biggest loss came in the range country, where some herds were caught with very little feed available. It is certain that prompt action by all agencies cut down materially the number of livestock that might have been lost. Every man who had a hand in the disaster operations, and their name is legion, is entitled to praise for a job well done.

Nearly Four Feet of Snow Is Recorded During Four Months

The last winter we had that could really be called tough was that of 1935-36. That winter we had plenty of cold weather, but it came all at one time and was over with. In the first place, the really cold weather did not start until about Jan. 17, and it was over by Feb. 22.
That year there was no snow at all in November, 3 inches in December, 12 1/2 inches in January and 13 inches in February for a total of 28 1/2 inches for the three winter months, only a little more than half of what we have had so far this winter.
Checking through the records of Horace Travis we find that the average high for November, 1935, was 44, the low 24 and the mean average was 34 degrees. This mild temperature, combined with the fact that there was no moisture, must have made November a very pleasant month.
The temperature record for December is likewise mild and pleasant, the only exception being a below zero reading of 6 on Christmas day. The high average is 35, the low is 21 and the mean average is 28 degrees and all this with only 3 inches of snow in the month.
The weather became tougher in January, 1936 although there were two mild periods, one at the start of the month and one near the middle. The high average for the month was 25, the low 6, and the mean, 16. January had below zero readings on 11 days, and one of these the high reading was below zero also.
February came in cold and had below zero readings for a continuous 21 days in eight of which the high reading was also below zero. The average high for the month was 14 above, the average low was four below, and the mean average was 4 above zero for the month.
Adding up the averages for the four months we find a high average of 29, a low of 11 and an average of 20. This includes November, which was unusually mild. Taking November out, we have a high average of 23 degrees, a low average of 8 and a mean average of 13, which is certainly not warm for the three winter months.
Turning from this chilling picture we will take the winter of 1938-39, which was one of the mildest winters in recent years. Here we find that the high average for November was 46 degrees, the low was 23, and the mean temperature was 35, well above the freezing point. We had 7 inches of snow in November.
December had a high average of 41 degrees, a low of 21 and an average of 31, just one degree under freezing. There was only .03 of an inch of moisture in December. January had a high of 40 degrees, a low average of 23 degrees, a mean average of 32 degrees. January had five and three-fourths inches of snow.
February had all the cold weather of winter, which was not too much. The high average in that month was 31, the low was 9, and the average was 20. This gives a general average for the four months of 40 degrees high, 19 degrees low and 30 degrees mean average. The average temperature for 1935-36 was ten degrees lower than this.

Winning the Snow Battle Was a Huge Undertaking
This winter will long be remembered for its Big Snow. Thousands of towns, farms and ranches were isolated. Drifts were so deep and firm that normal snow-removal methods were futile. The battle was won when methods, used successfully in one location, were applied to other communities. Similarly, the U. S. Brewers Foundation aids tavern owners by informing them of methods used successfully elsewhere.

A continuing educational program keeps all tavern owners informed of these better procedures and practices.

The alternative is obvious. Since the daytime games cannot pay out because of the small attendance, it is necessary to stage the games in the evening so that more people can attend. This is the contention of the group of men now planning baseball for Ord during the coming summer, and they are right.

One has only to look back a few years to the time when all football games were played in the afternoon to realize what it means to change in favor of night playing. Installation of lights brought out from two to four times as many fans as the afternoon games did. The evening games put high school athletics on a paying basis. Plans are now going forward to install lights at the Ord Athletic field so that night baseball can be played. The young men interested in playing the game could make more money at almost any other line of work. They are willing to make a sacrifice to play. The public should see that they have a chance to play under the lights.

The County Fair.
The oldest institution that we have today belonging to the people is the county fair. In Nebraska the festival, or fair, is older than the state itself. Fair were carried on in the early days of the territory. The object at that time was to prove to visitors from the east that the land could produce abundant crops.

That object has been foremost in the minds of all fair minded people since those early fairs. Nothing could do more to publicize an agricultural state than an exhibit of what the land can grow. The realization of this fact led to founding of the Nebraska State Agricultural society, when the state was only four years old. This organization came into being in 1871, and has had a profound influence on the growth and development of the state ever since. Newspapers took up the idea and gladly published stories of crops raised in their sections of the state. Special attention was given to any unusual crop with details of success in growing it.

The county fair was the one big event of the year to the pioneers, and it continued to exert a powerful influence until after the turn of the century. In fact, the county fair was a popular institution so long as the interests of agriculture and livestock were given first place.

After a time the public began to think that the entire object of the fair was to entertain, and the fair boards began to stress entertainment more and pay less attention, or cash for the agricultural display. That tendency has gone so far that some fairs have practically none of the agricultural department left.

People became educated to expect exciting and expensive entertainment. Today their special attractions are played up to the detriment of the agricultural interests. What Nebraska needs in its fairs is a new realization of values. We must put the interests of agriculture ahead of everything else in our agricultural fairs.

GUEST EDITORIAL

From the O'Neill Frontier

Let Us Learn Humility.

The long, weary, terrible, devastating winter of 1948-49 is slowly drawing to a close. February is the shortest month of the year. But it seems interminably long to the storm-stricken people of O'Neill, Holt county and Nebraska.

One storm after another, one blizzard after another, snow, sleet, howling winds and paralyzing cold. History has been written this month which will be read with astonishment and horror by generations yet unborn.

And February has been one of a succession of terrible months of a terrible winter. The entire winter has been a black era in the history of Nebraska and will be talked and written about for many years to come. It started way back in November with a blizzard and has continued with unabating and increasing fury up to the present.

Nebraska has never known anything like it before. There may have been individual storms which were worse than any of the storms this year, although even 'torms is doubtful; but the winter on the whole is unquestionably the worst in the history of the state.

Roads, streets and highways have been blocked, towns, farms and ranches have been buried under drifts of snow, all transportation and communication systems have been paralyzed, huge machines, powerfully built to combat the snow, have been stalled and even overturned and a vast area has been devastated by the forces of nature.

And this is not all. The tragic part of the situation is that livestock has perished by the thousands and human beings have not only suffered from cold and hunger, but have actually died.

It is a sad, tragic story and, obviously, it has not all been told yet. Alert reporters and photographers have fought courageously to "cover" the winter of 1948-49 and have done a magnificent job, but only the future can reveal all the facts.

The overall, ghastly picture will not be completed for some time yet and some of the awful details will probably never be brought to light. The federal government moved into the stricken area of Nebraska and adjacent states and, of course, no money was spared to cope with the situation and bring relief to the suffering ranchers, farmers and other people.

This relief has been timely and came none too soon. There is a lot of money wasted by the government, but every dollar spent in the work of rescue and rehabilitation will be good investment.

That in brief is the story of the present awful winter from the blizzard in November until the latter part of February. One blizzard after another, one howling wind after another, and one snow after another until the period has piled up a record probably never equalled in this stricken region. Future historians will include the winter of 1948-49 in mentioning the outstanding events of the Midwest in the story of the century.

What are the lessons, if any, to be drawn from this historic winter? Several, it seems to The Frontier.

In the first place, we suggest that one important lesson is that nobody—not even the most astute observer—knows very much about the weather. There are well meaning people who have been saying for a number of years that the winters in this region were growing milder. And it has been true to a certain extent. The winters in recent years have been milder than they used to be and there have been fewer blizzards. But there was comparatively little snow, wind or low temperatures.

As a result of this moderation in the winters of the Midwest, we have grown careless and overconfident to a certain extent. We have not made the preparations for a long, cold, rigorous season which we should have made and, when the storms and blizzards and devastating winds struck in all their fury, as they did this year, we were not prepared to withstand the onslaught.

The pioneers were wiser than that. They didn't have much and lived in primitive fashion, but they were never fooled by the weather. They were prepared for the worst and "dug in" in the fall, expecting a long, tough struggle for several months.

Our second thought is akin to that of the people and particularly the farmers and ranchers of the western states should be more adequately protected against the attacks of such a winter as the present one. We appreciate the fact that that suggestion poses a hard problem as to how people in this storm-infested area can get such protection; but it can be probably worked out as other hard problems have been. People living in flood-infested areas have had to face the same problem and have solved it to some extent.

And, finally, The Frontier would suggest that the whole terrible experience of the present winter should teach us all the lesson of humility. Man has made such wonderful progress in conquering and utilizing the forces of Nature that he has become somewhat vain and egotistical. He has come to imagine that he can do anything and, when at that very moment, a destructive blizzard or wind or flood comes along and upsets all his calculations.

Man is smart and ingenious, but, as a matter of fact, he never yet has been able to invent a machine which can cope with the forces of Nature when they go on a rampage.

As a matter of fact, in this vast universe, man is insignificant and impotent and his knowledge of Nature is only "small potatoes and few in a hill."

There are about 300 March 15th Quiz expirations and I have just mailed notices to all of them. Following is a copy of the notice that I mailed:

EXPIRATION NOTICE
Your Ord Quiz will expire March 15. All daily papers stop promptly when the time paid for expires. More than a year ago we announced that we would follow the same rule. But we have been lenient allowing the paper to run for one, two or three months before stopping. That has not proved satisfactory. So, beginning with the March expirations we are going to stop them all promptly when the time is out. That means that the March 17 issue is the last one you will get unless your subscription has been renewed. If you don't send your renewal promptly when you get this notice you may forget it. Many tell us that is the reason they don't renew. They forget it. You can buy the Quiz for 10¢ at this office or the news stands but that costs you $5.20 a year. It is much handier and much cheaper to subscribe and have your paper delivered to your door. As you know the price is $3.00 in Nebraska or $3.50 outside the state. And PLEASE RETURN THIS CARD WITH YOUR REMITTANCE.

The Ord Quiz.

When, for any reason a paper has to be stopped I make a notation of the date on the subscribers card and it is filed for future use. If the subscriber comes back which usually happens, the card is taken out of the file and used again and put into the live file. Many cards show that the paper has been stopped several times. As I have, in the past, continued to send the paper 2 or 3 months, the loss is considerable. Before sending out this March expiration lot of notices I made a careful count and analysis of the 300 names and found that a year ago there was 21% that had to be stopped but who renewed later. How many that were stopped and who did not renew later I do not know and did not take time to check the dead file to find out. All through the past year I have sent from 2 to 4 notices to delinquent subscribers and I figure it costs about 10¢ each time when postage and work of addressing and mailing is taken into consideration. Hundreds have told me that they just neglected to renew and I believe it will be no hardship for the great majority to renew before the time expires. I always include a postage free envelope to send the renewal in at no cost to the subscriber and most of the time the mails are going so there seems to me to be little excuse for delay.

There are still about 30 February 15 expirations that have not been renewed and those will all be stopped before the 15th of March unless renewed at once.

I have been handling a lot of World-Herald and State Journal renewals and some new ones. I make a small commission on these renewals and am glad to have that business. I will always attend to it promptly.

Something Different

++ Something Different ++

Well, what is different today? I baked a dozen cup cakes to sell at the Business and Professional Women's more-or-less-formal ball tonight; now when did you last have cup cakes at a ball?

That's what I thought. Well, anyway, you're going to get cup cakes tonight. AND you are going to get hot dogs. And coffee, or pop, or cokes. That is, we are going to sell them.

Having the ball slightly formal serves several nice purposes, really it does.

Think how delighted are all the pretty young girls who get to show off their lovely long gowns. The girls who have been bridesmaids at fancy weddings, the girls who have been juniors or seniors recently . . . they're so pleased to have a partyified dance where they may wear their beautiful dresses.

—00—
I might mention that some of the young wives about town are pleased for a chance to really "dress up" too.

—00—
Even some of the "older wives" . . .

—00—
The Business and Professional Women's club offers senior girls another opportunity to appear in these long dresses each springtime, when they are hostesses at a May tea for girl graduates. Blossoms in blossom time, you might say.

—00—
The ball serves as a welcome winter time social interlude. Couples come to dance and mingle there, that are never seen at the usual public dances. They really enjoy the visiting and gala color of the affair.

—00—
The dance this week is also welcome because it has been a lo-o-o-g, cold winter, with most of us pretty much snowbound, and needing a nice partyified occasion.

A good many people buy tickets who never intend to go, feeling that the charitable instincts of the Ord women's group are soundly exercised. They want to help with such worthy programs as the T B mobile unit, the free milk fund, etc. So they buy tickets as their contribution.

Next week is 4-H club week. If there is a finer program for developing raw boys and girls into men and women chock-full of character, what is it?

Mumps seem to be a good old-fashioned scourge that stays with us. Doctors don't seem to do much about them, any more than they did a hundred years ago. "Stay warm, keep quiet, stay in bed, and etc., etc."

—00—
Any more than there is help for a common cold, which is probably one of the biggest miseries to which the human race is subject. That reminds me of the cartoon I saw this week, in which the doctor was advising the patient that if he could manage to have pneumonia in place of a common cold it would be a good idea "because we know what to do for pneumonia!"

Polio Fund Is Slightly Larger

The amount in the Valley county polio fund to date is $1,743.66 with some more expected to come in. This is still far short of the goal of $2,000. Further contributions to this fund will be appreciated. Miss McCrathey states that the need is still great, perhaps greater than at any time in years.

What's Cookin' Ward's Column

Some rather amusing incidents occurred during the operation "Snow Bound" and a lot more which were not so funny. Two that the boys have told are of interest. First the place they saw a circle in the snow with a cross inside it, a sign that the people needed help. So they set the plane down and waded through the snow over to the house to find out what was the matter. No, they didn't need a doctor, they didn't need medicine, they had enough to eat, and they had enough feed for their stock. But the head of the house said: "We'd sure like to get a couple of sacks of corn ground for our geese." The fliers suggested they might try eating the geese.

And this is one Ellis Carson tells on himself. He got word that a woman near Swan Lake needed to be flown out, so he flew there. First he landed in the wrong place, but was told that he was wanted over at the school house, about half a mile away. He landed there and found the school teacher. She seemed to be perfectly healthy, but told him she was getting homesick and wanted to be flown to her home, some six miles away. Of course Carson was glad to oblige, but has been taking a ribbing from the gang ever since. He does not say whether he flew back up there to take her back to her school again.

Then there is the one about the couple living away over toward Hyannis who put a distress mark in the snow and a couple of fellows came along and saw it. They had a good place to land, then waded a quarter of a mile to the house, where they found a man and his wife, who had been able to look after their stock, had plenty of feed and plenty of provisions in the house. Nobody was sick. Asked why they were flagged down, the woman said: "We thought our neighbors were going to get through today, so I killed a couple of chickens and got a big dinner ready. They didn't come, so we put out the sign because we didn't want all that chicken to go to waste." They helped eat the chicken, and then took along a painful of eggs, which their hosts insisted on giving them.

The past (?) winter was a continuation, and we hope, the culmination of a series of storms we have been getting in this area for the greater part of two years, all of which were champions in their class. It is generally agreed among the old timers, who are the fellows who ought to know, that this winter was the daddy of them all, just a little bit worse than the country ever saw before. There are men still living who can remember the large purporting worst blizzards of the early days, 1873, 1880 and 1888, and everybody I have heard say anything about it concedes the crown to the winter of 1948-49.

As to the others, the storms that were just a little worse than any that had gone before. First let us remind you of that cold May we had in 1947, which went from bad to worse and finally culminated in a six inch all day snow storm May 28. In out of season snows that one must be conceded first place until a worse one comes along. Coming when all the trees were out in full leaf, it killed nearly all the leaves and the trees spent the first half of June growing a new suit of clothes. We didn't have all the long until the next big storm showed up. The big windstorm, considered the worst that ever hit Nebraska, largely because of the large area covered by it, came June 9. Tornadoes usually hit small areas, but that storm had all the earmarks of a tornado all the way from North Platte to Norfolk and from Burwell to Grand Island. Thirteen days later, June 22, the people woke in the morning to find a flood. The flood covered almost the same area that the wind storm had covered. Half of North Loup was under water, but flood damage was much worse to the south-west. Thus in less than a month three "Biggest" storms had hit the Valley, and the people were beginning to wonder what would happen next.

They had to wait nearly a year for the next major catastrophe, but the farmers of the North Loup Valley will live a long, long time before they forget the hail storm of last June 16. More destruction was wrought by that one storm than any hail storm on record in Central Nebraska. Like the other storms, it was the extent of the storm that made it the worst of its kind. Severe hail storms had hit smaller areas before, but this one cleaned out the heart of the North Loup irrigated area from Springdale to North Loup. It started in the hills to the north of Ord and to the east of Burwell. It swept through the Scotia area and came to a climax at Elba, where nothing was left in its path. It swept on to St. Paul, devastating an area four miles wide and fifty miles long. No single hail storm on record had ever covered so large a territory.

There we have them, five storms each champion in its class all hitting within a period of two years. Men who make a study of the weather over the years find no records anywhere to match this, and they have no explanation for it. Some say that somebody or something has been monkeying with the weather and got everything out of balance. Out there in the great beyond somebody may be holding down the safety valve of the universe. Whatever the cause, I think Congress should pass a law. They are trying to control by law some conditions that are no more easily controlled than the weather, the law of supply and demand, for example.

The worst of it is, nobody knows whether this last storm is the end of a long series, or just the beginning. We may be in for more and worse storms in the future than any we have had to date.

HUGH CARSON, 29th District

Feb. 26, 1949
Much time was spent on the Bill to repeal the pre-primary law, but very little has been accomplished. Some of the Legislators are trying to work out some amendments that will satisfy those who demand its repeal and both factions are quite determined.
Friday the Legislature voted to raise the unemployment compensation ceiling from $18.00 to $20.00 a week and extend to 20 the number of weeks in which payments can be made. An attempt to advance

L. B. 94 which would make it mandatory for the highway department to post soft roads, limiting the weight of trucks in wet weather met opposition and action was deferred until a later date.
Two bills proposing to divide the State Engineers' office and claiming to insure greater efficiency were held in committee but more will be heard from these bills later.
The Tax Bills have not been heard in committee yet but when they are the so-called "Fireworks" bill will seem to have been a tame affair. Let me have your opinions on the sales, state income, and gasoline tax proposals.
The repeated attempts to attack the Schroeder Road bill have been unable to gain any momentum.

When We Service Your Car

WE ARE THINKING OF
"Day After Tomorrow"

We may be wrong, but we still believe there will be a time when we will be asking you to please drop in and see some of the nice automobiles we have in stock for immediate delivery at new low prices.

And if our hunch is right, the time will come when we will be very glad that a lot of motorists have learned to depend on us for motor car service.

Our business here is selling and supplying automotive transportation to this community in the form of new cars, used cars, parts, materials and skilled labor. We expect to continue in this business when the market again becomes truly competitive.

That is why we are investing in more facilities, building up our plant and sparing no effort nor expense to learn more about our business and to become more proficient in all that we do.

The only real profit to be gained in this era of high prices and easy sales as we see it, is the good will of people who will make this establishment their permanent motor car home. On that basis, we solicit the patronage of local motorists.

Your DOLLARS must buy HAPPINESS

... True, we must spend the larger portion of our weekly earnings for the every day necessities. And these, in their turn are to be most readily achieved through regular savings. We urge you to come in and start a savings account. Whatever you deposit grows as the seed planted in soil, for savings deposits earn generous interest.

Four spans and the north approach to the old Sumter bridge across the Loup river south of Ord were washed out Saturday by an ice gorged river. This air view by Swopes shows how the main channel of the river is gradually shifting to the north. The bridge may be repaired, according to Tracy Hamilton, county engineer.

Another shot by Swopes shows ice jammed around the Hardenbrook dam and spillway. Judicious use of explosives kept damage to a minimum. Special crews from both the irrigation district and the railroad were on the job for any flood emergency.

High Water Takes Out 4 Spans Of North Loup Bridge at Sumter

Damage Figured at Several Thousand Dollars for Repairs

Constructed Forty Years Ago, Damaged by Ice and Floods Many Times Before.

Weakened by several days of spring weather, ice in the North Loup river let loose Saturday afternoon and night, forming ice gorges in several places, but doing little damage except to the bridge at Sumter, where four spans at the north end were swept away.

The bridge has been condemned for several years, and the public has been crossing at their own risk.

Tracy Hamilton, county highway supervisor, stated Tuesday that a deep hole was washed out under the bridge, so deep that the piling had insufficient support and gave way under the pounding of ice and water.

1917 Flood Started Trouble. The present trouble actually began during the flood of June, 1917, when high water cut a deep hole at the north end of the bridge. This hole has not filled in the years since, and the present flood probably deepened it even more.

The Burlington anticipated trouble with its bridge across the river just east of Ord, and had a work crew ready to take action as soon as necessary. Sunday the ice was blasted from around the piers of the bridge and the entire channel cleared.

For the past two or three weeks Archie Bradt has been on the job at Hardenbrook dam watching for any break in the ice, and Charlie Anderson has been acting in a like capacity at Burwell. Glen Beeline, manager of the Irrigation District, has had a small group of men available when needed.

Loup Dams Are Safe. Tuesday Beeline was able to report that partly by judicious use of dynamite at the right time and place, and with a certain amount of luck, ice has been cleared from the structures with a minimum amount of damage. The snow melted so evenly that there is no damage to any of the ditches over the entire system.

Have You Paid Your Income Tax? If Not, You Have Five Days

If You Made $500 in 1948, Uncle Sam Would Like to Have a Letter from You.

Next Tuesday, March 15, is the deadline for filing income tax returns. If you are not under the wave by that time it may cost you a penalty. The farmers had to get theirs in by Jan. 15, but the average man is given a little more time, as he needs it.

Perhaps you think you are not required to make a return, especially if you did not make enough to pay income tax. However, the chances are that you made $500 or more, and in that case a return must be filed.

The man on a straight salary from which deductions have been taken should have little trouble in making out his return on the short form commonly used. Your employer gives you a slip showing how much you have paid in, and the table shows you how much you owe.

The man working as his own employer will find his job more difficult, especially if he has failed to keep an accurate account of all receipts during the year. Some of these may be missed, and could show up against him in a checkup later.

If the income tax has done nothing else, it has taught people to keep a record of receipts and expenditures, which is an item of value in itself. It has also taught millions of Americans to make a return every year, which is also important.

Formation of a cadet group will be the main matter of business according to commander Bill Steen.

Mysterious Beast Kills 150 Lb. Hog at Gregory Farm

Same Type of Animal Reported in Boone and Platte Co., also at Arcadia.

The strange animal, or animals that have been reported from time to time in different locations over the state, seem to be getting closer to Ord. This week Joe Gregory reports that some animal killed a 150 pound hog on his Turtle Creek ranch.

The beast evidently disturbed the hogs at night and Joe went out to the feed lot to find out what was the matter, but could see nothing unusual. The next morning he found the remains of one hog outside the fence, with the head neatly severed, almost as with a knife.

In order to get the hog where it was found, the animal had to get it over a woven wire fence surmounted with three barb wires, a task that would indicate a large and powerful animal. After cutting off the head, the animal had eaten out the brains and the tongue.

Mr. Gregory brought the head to town with him Monday as proof of his story. In one place a small piece had been bitten out of the lower jaw as neatly as if it had been done with a chisel, indicating jaws with terrific power.

After finding the hog, Joe left the body lie where it was. Sunday night the animal returned to its kill, and all the meat and even the bones were chewed up until there was only a small section of the hide left. The amount eaten indicates that the animal was a large one.

As might be expected, he made a search for the animal, and found plenty of tracks, up and down both sides of the creek. He says the tracks are like those of a dog three inches or more across, and that where it walked the tracks were two feet or more apart.

It seems hardly likely that all the depredations reported in the state could have been caused by the same animal. First reports came from Platte county, then from Boone, which borders Platte on the west. Next came a phone call from Burt Sell of Arcadia of damage done there.

In most cases the damage done, the tracks left, and in a few cases, the animal seen, all follow a similar pattern. It seems to prefer to kill hogs. The tracks are similar in size and type. At least twice the animal has been seen at a distance.

Ralph Burson who lives southwest of Ord reported that three of his hounds were badly cut up last week in a fight with some animal. He saw the animal at a distance, says it was yellowish in color and resembled a wild cat. Those who have seen it describe it as looking like a lion, reddish brown in color. In one case only a man claimed to have seen a black beast that looked like a huge cat. Lighting conditions might have caused it to look dark in his case.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Philbrick and family were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Vanslyke.

L. C. Chamber Fears Overflow

The Loup City Chamber of Commerce last week warned Senator W. J. Williams of Ravenna of the danger of overflow and flood damage and continued washing by the Middle Loup river west of town. A concrete headgate, built by the state a few years ago, was left high and dry when the flood of June, 1947, washed away the dirt on each side.

Now the river threatens to overflow its banks on either side. If it should overflow on the south side it would cause little harm. If it should overflow to the other side it would flood the J. P. Leininger farm and continue on past the Sherman county fair grounds, and do considerable damage before returning to the river.

Secretary of Ord Chamber Issues First 1949 Report

Tells Story Plans for Year and What Several Committees Are Doing.

Secretary Wallace Doe has issued his first mimeographed report for 1949 of the activities of the Ord Chamber of Commerce. He opens his report by stating that he had intended to get out a report each month, but that a few "snow flurries" in December and January brought on Operation Snowbound and diverted the entire SCS office and force to more pressing work.

He states that there was on hand at the beginning of the year $1,129.06 in the general fund; $71 in the Pig Scramble fund; and $148.25 in the Civic Housing project fund. The budget for 1949 was set the same as last year, $1,200. This amount is about in line with budget estimates set by a number of other Nebraska Chambers of Commerce.

In work accomplished or under way he lists the proposed occupational tax, which has been presented to the city council for action. Listed as the outstanding projects for Ord in 1949 were the proposition of a hospital for Ord, installation of natural gas, better housing and better civic relations.

The secretary was granted permission to buy a set of files for Chamber use, and this has been done. The Committee of National Affairs and the chairman of the other committees met in January, and heard an inspiring talk by Mr. Waage of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

He then spoke briefly of the storms and snowbound operations, which diverted his time to more essential work. He gave a review of the finish-up of the Corn Yield contests Feb. 16. He told of the general meeting of Feb. 24, details of which appeared in last week's Quiz.

Kenneth Babka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Babka, celebrated his eleventh birthday by entertaining eighteen of his friends at a theatre party Saturday afternoon. A lunch was had after the movie at the Babka home.

Good Government, Citizens Groups Meet, Form Slate

No Contests Coming Except for Council; Quiet Election Due.

The two party caucuses were held Wednesday evening at the Legion hall, with a fair attendance at both. Mayor Blessing was elected last year to serve two years, and the off-year elections seldom bring out much interest or attendance.

The Good Government caucus met down stairs and chose Rex Jewett as chairman and Ed Armstrong as secretary. Ed Jenison was nominated for councilman in the first ward, George Hastings in the second ward, and Ross Allen in the third ward.

Jewett was nominated for city clerk, John R. Sullivan for police judge, Mrs. E. C. Leggett for member of the park board, and Floyd Beranek and Curt Gudmundsen for members of the school board. All the above except the councilmen are now serving.

Meanwhile the Citizens caucus met upstairs and chose A. J. Shirley as chairman and John P. Misko as secretary. For councilmen they nominated Lyle Milliken in the first ward, Howard Huff in the second ward, and Gus Schoenstien in the third ward.

These three men are at present holding the jobs to which they were nominated. The rest of the Citizens ticket is identical with that of Good Government, so all the candidates, except for council, are assured of election.

Ord Is Selected for Basketball Class D Playoff

Merna, Farwell, Ashton and Primrose to Battle Thursday and Friday.

The Ord high school gym has been selected as the site for a regional playoff of four Class D teams, each of which won the crown in its own conference. These teams will battle it out to find a winner to send to the state tournament in Lincoln.

Merna will play Farwell in the first game at 7 p. m. Thursday. This will be followed by Ashton vs Primrose at 8:15. The winners of these two contests will meet in the championship game at 8 p. m. Friday. The teams will do double duty, but there should be room for all who wish to attend.

To qualify for these playoffs, Merna defeated Gandy, Stapleton and Taylor; Farwell defeated Alva and Boelus; Ashton defeated Amherst, Overton and Litchfield; and Primrose defeated Bartlett and Wolbach.

The Pitch club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Smets.

City Utilities Now In Hands Public Works Board

Quiz News Writer Gets Facts Wrong

In getting out the news last week the Quiz news writer made a serious mistake in an item from the county court. The item referred to was one in which Eldon Vavra was stated to have been guilty of assault and battery.

The name should have been Leonard Vavra. Eldon Vavra was not involved in the incident in any way, and is entitled to an apology, which is given herewith. We are sorry.

No Issues at Stake in Local Elections in Immediate Area

Satisfaction Indicated in Present Conditions With Few at Caucuses.

Apparently the people of this area are well satisfied with conditions as they are and are not interested in any changes in administration, if the caucuses held March 2 are any indication. There are no special issues up for consideration.

At North Loup two caucuses were held, one following the other in the Community building, with mostly the same people taking part in both. More people are eligible to vote in the school election because of the fact that the school district extends beyond the village limits.

General satisfaction was expressed with the record of the three members of the village board whose terms expire, as they were all nominated for another term. They are Rev. A. C. Ehret, Paul Madsen and Roy Cox. Also nominated were George Maxson, sr., Paul Goodrich and Ben Sintel.

For members of the school board, Dist. No. 1, Cliff Hawkes and E. C. Babcock, whose terms expire, were re-nominated, and also named were G. L. Carter and Stanley Brown. There was a fair attendance, with a good representation of women present.

At Scotia only five persons turned out for the school caucus, at which Ward Pascher acted as chairman and John Bryan as clerk. Nominated for one position on the board were Kenneth Krebs, incumbent, and Edgar Stillman. For the other, Leo Klein, incumbent, and Fred R. Gydesen.

The Scotia village caucus was not held Wednesday evening, and information is not available as to when it was held or what was done. As this is written no information is available from Arcadia, which might indicate that the caucus was delayed there.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Larsen and Lorene Rose were in Ord Saturday. They visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dahlin.

Mayor to Appoint Three Man Board Following Election

City Dads Get 6 Beer License Applications—Have 5 Spots; Hearing Set for April 4.

Management of the public utility portion of Ord city—utilizing the electric light and water departments—will be in the hands of a new group of public officials shortly after election in April.

At their regular meeting Monday night, Ord city dads passed a new ordinance providing for the establishment of a board of public works of three men, who will have delegated powers of the council to handle all affairs in the utility department.

Mayor F. L. Blessing told the Quiz Monday that he would announce appointments to the board at the council's first meeting after April elections. Since appointments will have to be confirmed by the council, any new members of the council would have a chance to vote on Blessing's recommendations.

Appointees to the board will serve a period of three years, with staggered terms. Passage of the public works ordinance had been desired by some members of the city administration for several years. Under the city's new financial set-up, bonding houses who are loaning the city $280,000 for the expansion of the electric system, insisted on the establishment of the board.

Dr. J. W. McGinnis cast the only dissenting vote on the ordinance. Dr. McGinnis had previously passed his vote on passage of another ordinance providing for light plant expansion.

May Expand Cemetery. If members of the Bohemian burial group who own a five acre tract adjoining the Ord city cemetery are willing, the city will pay legal expenses for the transfer of the tract to the city, councilmen also decided Tuesday.

A district court action will be necessary to transfer the property, acting city attorney Ed Vogelitz told city dads, with expenses estimated at $20,000. The tract to the city by the city has been requested by members of the Bohemian group, who, with limited funds and a small membership, had found it a hardship to give the tract proper care. If the property is annexed, graves in the tract area will be eligible for perpetual care by city employees.

Dicker With Burlington. The city attorney was also ordered to continue negotiations with the Burlington railroad for either outright purchase or an extended 50-year lease of the right-of-way now used by the city for its electric light and water plant.

Councilmen also decided to investigate perpetual care reserves of the cemetery field, with a view to their reinstatement and expansion. Since 1935, all lots sold have been granted perpetual care, although no portion of the money received has been put into the perpetual care fund.

Beer License Fuss. When six applications for beer licenses were presented, with the council bound by previous resolution to issue only five, city dads found themselves in the uncomfortable position of having to pick and choose when applications come up for hearing April 4.

The situation developed when Frank Coufal, lessee of the Kokes building on the east side of the square, decided not to renew the sub-lease of Emory Thomson, tavern operator, who has occupied the property for several years. Coufal submitted an application for a license on the premises, while Thomson did the same thing, although he could not furnish proof of a year's lease of property.

Thomson informed the council that he was attempted to rent or buy another building, and if this was not possible, would purchase a lot and build, and expected to be able to show either title or lease to a location before the April 4 hearing. Other license applications were received from Frank Kasal, Johnson Bros., Frank Fafata, and Clayton Arnold. Off sale liquor applications were received from Coufal, Walter Doublin, Kokes & Pelska and Will Nelson.

Review of a new bookkeeping system for the city light and water plant, with a new set-up of fund balances, as provided in Ordinance No. 110, published in last week's Quiz, took up a good share of council time. C. J. Mortensen also appeared to request that funds received from the new $280,000 bond issue be deposited in Ord banks on a proposal to give one percent interest on funds deposited six months or over. Payment of claims wound up the meeting.

Calls Smaller Dealers Lucky

If you are a dealer in a town where a home newspaper is published, you are in a most fortunate advertising position, the Jarman Shoe Company of Nashville told its dealers in a recent issue of its house magazine, the Journal.

Statistical and reader-interest agencies report almost 100 per cent readership," the magazine points out. "You would think that the influx of the large circulation city dailies in rural areas would have buried the home paper long ago. However, such has not been the case."

What of it, if the farmers and small town residents receive their metropolitan papers as soon as their city cousins? People in the big towns and little towns still hanker for the news about their neighbors, their local organizations, the events that transpire about them.

The big city newspapers can't furnish this news, but the home papers can and do. That is why they are read "from cover to cover" ads and all by every member of the family.

Genoa Defeats Ansley, 47-44

In a basketball game played at Loup City Tuesday evening between regional Class C winners Genoa and Ansley, the Indians finally emerged winner by a score of 47 to 44. It was a battle of giants, both teams having large men in the lineup.

Ansley led nearly all the way, but lost out in the last minute or two. Nearing the finish Ansley had a fairly safe lead, and probably would have won if they had chosen to stall. However, neither team believes in delaying tactics and Genoa dropped in two field goals in the final seconds.

The game was similar in many respects to that in which Genoa defeated North Loup, 40 to 36 in the final game of the tournament, by virtue of winning, Genoa will go to the state tournament at Lincoln.

Seven Steps to Indoor Comfort

Last week when we "took a poke" at Radiant Panel Heating, we were asked if we were prejudiced a little against radiant heating and against warm water or steam heating. We certainly are, and for two big reasons:

One is much lower cost of warm air ducts and heating equipment, and greater economy in operation.

The second is the adaptability of warm air heating to the "Seven Steps to Indoor Comfort." These all have to do with the condition of the indoor air in which we all spend the best part of our lives. They are:

1. Air at satisfactory temperature, whether heated or cooled.
2. Air containing proper amount of water vapor. This is more vital than many people realize.
3. Air moving constantly but imperceptibly.
4. Air free of smoke, dust, dirt and pollens.
5. Air free of staleness.
6. Air free of bacteria.
7. Air of adequate density.

Of these, Nos. 3 and 5 seem to be the same, but are not quite, as air can be circulated within a room and still be stale, if smoke, excess humidity, and odors are not carried out.

About No. 7, air of adequate density, little has been done, or is about to be, on a practical scale, due to difficulty and expense of constructing buildings that are tight enough and strong enough to withstand pressurizing.

Warm air heating equipment is well adapted to accomplish the rest, as the most perfect control of temperature is possible with automatic warm air heat and summer cooling. Humidity is supplied through all well designed warm air furnaces by automatic humidifiers. The modern idea of continuous air-circulation takes care of Nos. 3 and 5, through forced air blowers. A large part of No. 4 is accomplished by the filters attached to the same blowers, and can be accomplished 100% by electronic air cleaning, which is now becoming practical and popular; and germicidal lamps set into the warm air stream will partly accomplish No. 6.

And the whole installation—heating system, summer cooler, electronic air cleaning, germicidal lamps, can be integrated into one warm air duct system that will take up little more overall space, than a steam or hot water system, and cost but little more.

Or most of these advantages can be had through the winter air conditioner alone, with much lower cost.

When you realize that only No. 1, air at satisfactory temperatures, can be had with warm water heating equipment and that steam heat does not even do a good job of providing that, except when it is as cold outside as the system is designed to care for. Do you blame us for being convinced?

We not only stick to warm air heating in our business, but we stick to the best for its price—Lennox.

Come in or call us and let us tell you more about Indoor Comfort.

Triple-A Meeting Hears Reports on Years Activities

Much Constructive Work Done. Year's Business Totals $216,244.61.

A planning meeting of all county Triple-A committees was held Wednesday at the Knights of Columbus hall, with 34 of the 49 precinct committeemen in attendance. There were none present from either Geranium or Eureka, probably because of road conditions.

A report was made of all the activities of the past year. There were a total of three different kinds of mechanical practices during the year, standard terraces, diversion terraces and dams.

The record shows that a total of 191 dams were built in 1948. The number of cubic yards put into the dams was 209,149, and the average size of the dams was 1095 cubic yards. The payments for these dams totaled $16,731.93. Sixty-four diversion terraces were built during the year and the amount of dirt moved amounted to 50,022 cubic yards. The payments for this work amounted to $1,837.33.

There were 17 standard terraces built with a total of 67,703 lineal feet, and the payment for this was $677.03. Total payments for all mechanical practices amounted to $22,246.29.

Corn Loans

A total of 151 corn loans were applied for on 186 acres. Of these 128 have been completed, totaling 134,806 bushels of corn for a total cash payment of $184,224.16. Support price purchase agreements were ten, for 11,085 bushels of corn, at $1.36.

There were 34 loans on wheat for 16,560 bushels, the amount loaned being $23,320.33. There were ten purchase agreements in amount of $7,420, at the rate of $2.01 per bushel. On wheat there is also a storage payment of 7c per bushel, delivered on or after April 30.

There were nine barley loans on 6,525 bushels, which at $1.16 amounted to $7,485.90, and purchase agreements were two, for 500 bushels. There was one loan on oats, 460 bushels, $303.60 at 66c per bushel. On rye, one for 477 bushels, $610.56 at $1.28 per bushel. All told $216,244.61 was loaned on 177,833 bushels of grain.

April 15 Deadline

April 15 has been set as the deadline for signing up for 1949 compliance. One practice permitted with a limited acreage on each farm in 1949 is the seeding of alfalfa or red clover at $3 per acre. Purchase agreements on mechanical practices are available again as they were in 1947.

Superphosphate can be paid for by purchase orders. The budget for last year was $12,000 but that has been increased to $76,000 for 1949. Delbert Scott, Atkinson, farmer fieldman, was present and had charge of the meeting.

A final checkup of the fire in January shows that an adding machine and a desk in the middle office, also a set of aerial photos, were the items lost. The photo loss is not serious, as there was a second set. The adding machine was an old one, but still serviceable. The office now has an electric machine.

Approved Practices

Gradient and level terraces, $1.50 per hundred feet. Diversion terraces, 8c per cubic foot. Establishing sod waterways, 75c per 1,000 square feet. Building outlets for waterways, 35c to $1.50 per lineal foot. Dams for erosion control, 10c per cubic yard.

Clearing land, $10 per acre. Wells for livestock water, $1 to $2 per lineal foot. Dams for livestock water, 10c per cubic yard. Deep subsoling, 12 to 24 inches, $1 to $2 per acre. Spreader ditches or dikes, 8c per cubic yard. Constructing permanent riprap, 50c per square yard. Leveling land for irrigation, 8c per cubic yard, not in excess of $10 per acre.

Open farm drainage ditches, 8c per cubic yard. Contour farming row crops, $1 per acre. Contour seeding, 50c per acre. Field strip-cropping, 50c per acre. Wind erosion, 30c per acre. Establishing permanent cover on steep land, $1.50 to $3.25 per acre.

Green manure, $1.50 per acre. Seeding rotating pasture, $1 to $2 per acre. Bindweed control, 2-1-D, $2 per pound. Planting trees and shrubs, $2 per 100 trees. Maintaining a stand of trees in a windbreak, $3 per acre.

Due to lack of administrative funds it will be impossible to visit each farmer. There will be sign-up meetings at North Loup and Arcadia, possibly other places, later on. These meetings will be announced. However, any farmer who desires to do so may sign up at the office.

Auto Crash Kills Mrs. E. Stancliff of Los Angeles

Mr. Stancliff Also Injured; Both Have Relatives in Ord.

Mrs. E. L. Stancliff, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Johnson of Crete and a cousin of Mrs. C. J. Mortensen of Ord, died in a Los Angeles hospital Thursday night, Feb. 24, from the effect of injuries received in an automobile accident.

Mr. Stancliff, known locally as Everett, is a cousin of James B. Ollis. The family lived for a number of years in North Loup in the early days and will be remembered by early day Quiz subscribers.

After leaving this area Mr. Stancliff was connected with the Crete Mills and was a charter member of the Crete Rotary club and its first president. He met his wife while living at Crete.

Mrs. Stancliff graduated from Wesleyan University in 1916, and later attended Goucher college in Baltimore and Columbia University in New York City. They made frequent trips to Nebraska and Mrs. Stancliff had visited Mrs. Mortensen last fall.

Mr. Stancliff, while painfully injured, was able to leave the hospital after a few days, but had to remain in Los Angeles for a hearing on a criminal complaint against the woman driver involved in the accident. For this reason it has been necessary to postpone the funeral services, which will be held at Crete at a later date.

C. J. Mortensen drove to Omaha Thursday afternoon and took a plane from there to Los Angeles to be present for a service that was held there Friday afternoon. Mrs. Mortensen did not feel able to make the trip. Crawford expected to be back Sunday.

Steinwarts Visit at Hoffman Home

Tech. Sgt. Manfred Steinwart, wife and little girl arrived in Ord Thursday noon by auto from Tacoma, Wash. for a short visit with Jacob P. Hoffman. After a short visit here they drove on to Omaha for a visit there.

Sgt. Steinwart is on a 30-day leave from his service with the air force. He has spent a total of ten years in the army and recently signed up for another three-year hitch. He believes that at present rate of pay he can make more in the service than in any other line of work. He says that many of the men are returning to army life.

Andy Snyder Sells His Liquor Store

Andy Snyder, who has conducted a liquor store in Barwell for many years, has sold his business on the north side of the square to Orville Miller.

Miller will not take possession until May 1, when Snyder's license expires. This will give him time to go through the formality of getting a license in his own name.

National 4-H Club Week, March 7-12

This being National 4-H Club Week, any boy or girl in the county who wants to join a 4-H Club should make it known to the County Agent's office.

Bad road and weather conditions have made it impossible for Agents C. C. Dale and Katherine Helzer to do the organization work which is usually done during the winter months.

In order to make it easy for any boy or girl to join a club, the form which is printed below can be cut out and mailed to the county agent's office, by anyone who is interested in joining.

It is too late now to start feeding a baby beef, but agricultural clubs which are timely include pig, dairy, calf, poultry, garden, corn, rural electrification and soil conservation. It is also the time of the year for girls to join cooking, sewing or homemaking clubs.

If you are between 10 and 20 years of age and interested in 4-H work, clip this form and mail it to the county agent's office at Ord.

Martha C. Goff, Once of Valley County, Is Dead

At the age of six, her parents moved from Ohio to northwestern Missouri. On July 24, 1875 she was married to Abner Goff. Ten children were born to this union—three of whom survive: Oscar Stanton of Lincoln, Elva Harold of Loup City and Herbert Leslie of Ord, Nebr.

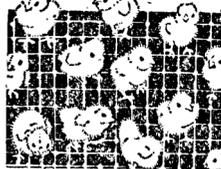

After the death of her husband in 1916, she moved with her sons to Valley county, Nebraska and resided there until 1931 when she moved to Sherman county. She made her home with her son, Elva and it was there she passed away.

Other survivors are several grandchildren and great-grandchildren, a sister, Mrs. Myrtle Thompson of Denver, Colo., and many other relatives and friends. Grandma, as she was known by her many friends, was a semi-invalid for many years. She enjoyed working with her needle and spent many useful hours at her favorite work until a very few days before her departure.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday, March 2, 1949 at 2 p. m. at the Loup City funeral home chapel by Rev. L. G. Marx of Harvard, Nebr. Burial was in the Loup City Evergreen cemetery. The INSIDE STORY

Omaha Values Up and Supply Light

On lighter receipts, fat cattle, hogs and lambs added to recent price upturns Monday at Omaha. Bad roads were a factor in holding supply down by a fourth from the previous Monday. Slaughterer steers, yearlings and heifers, up 50c-$1.00 last week, Monday sold steady to 25c higher, some yearlings up 50c, the range $20.00-$26.00, bulk $23.00-$25.00, heifers to $25.25. Cows advanced 50c on more canners and cutters, $15.00, mostly $15.50 to $16.75, beef cows $17.00-$19.00.

Some of the recent sales at Omaha for shippers from this area: Theo King, 15 steers, wt. 1150, $24; Eldon Lange, 27 hogs, wt. 192, $22; Orel Koelling, 33 steers, wt. 1075, $23.25; John Kokes, 4 steers, wt. 1245, $23.25; 15 heifers, wt. 945, $22.00; Ed Cook, 14 steers, wt. 977, $22, 3, wt. 810, $21; Emma Long, 7 steers, wt. 714, $21, 15 heifers, wt. $15, $21; Joseph Donne, 13 steers, wt. 1098, $24.50; 4 heifers, wt. 758, $21.50, 10 hogs, wt. 311, $20; C. Basketball Squad from North Loup Compiles Good Record for 1949

Team Has Eighteen Wins and Only Three Losses for Season

Bob Hawkes Scores 240
Markers: Team Sets a New Record, 72 Points.

The North Loup basketball team last week completed one of the finest records in the school's history. The Challengers are Loup Valley territory champs, Loup Valley conference champs, and runners up in the 12-team district tournament at Osceola. Eighteen victories against three losses were recorded during the season. Three trophies have been added to the list during the season's play.

With the exception of three games, each opponent represented a different school. Many of the schools on the North Loup schedule have nearly three times the boy enrollment.

Rev. Harbour gave the team one of its nicest compliments of the season. Speaking at a pep rally the new North Loup minister told the Challengers they would compare favorably with the better Indiana high schools. Indiana is one of the hot prep basketball spots of the nation.

New Record.

The new North Loup scoring record was made during the Belgrade game in which 72 points were rung up. Available data shows 62 points to be the previous high for a single game.

The Challengers regard St. Edward as one of the best teams played during the season. This game could have gone either way.

North Loup led the Big Genoa club most of the way and outplayed them throughout. Sheer size and free throws largely represented Genoa's 4 point victory margin. Genoa had previously beaten such teams as Columbus, David City and Fullerton.

Will Graduate.

Jerold Manchester, Les Leonard, Carroll Mulligan, Jerold Holmes, and Gordon Stillman will be lost by graduation. Leonard a rugged center, played outstanding tournament ball and became a marked player by opposing teams. Manchester, a speedy guard, was one of the outstanding defensive players. His loss will be keenly felt another year.

Carroll Mulligan, forward, was another player who used speed to overcome size. Playing in all 22 games he committed only 13 fouls doing an effective job of guarding and scoring.

Holmes and Stillman were valuable substitutes who will be missed on the squad.

Next Year's Squad.

A fine group of players will be available another year, however. Goodrich, Hawkes, Kerr, Lytle, Babcock, Sintek, Hutchins, Walkup, Rich Hawkes, Mrkwicka, Willoughby and a number of other players are underclassmen. Hawkes led this year's scoring with a total of 240 points. Kerr was second with 179. Goodrich and Hutchins were forced to miss much of the season's play with injuries.

Scoring: North Loup 955; opponents, 584; average score per game, 11; opponents, 25.

Ord Drops Two Games While Visiting in Albion Wednesday

First Team Game 40-24;
Second Team Loses by Only Two Points, 21-19.

Nobody seems to know just what happened at Albion Wednesday evening when Ord dropped two games, the first team by 40 to 24, and the second team by 21 to 19. Perhaps the Chanticleers had developed the knack of doing everything wrong.

The worst blow perhaps, was the fact that Ord's usually dependable Richardson had the worst scoring evening of the season, with only 4 points, one field goal in the second quarter and another in the fourth.

Meanwhile Stoddard was Ord high man with 8 points. Munn had 6, Falter 3, Maurice 2, and Tolen 1. Adamek, Heuck, Nelson and Laursen saw a lot of playing but did not figure in the scoring column.

For the winners Myers chalked up 11 points, J. Johnson 10, Peterson 7, Robbins 5, Dunsagan 4 and D. Johnson 3. Mullin, Black, Karges and Wallick failed to hit the hoop successfully.

Stone was high man on the Ord "B" team, with 7 points, followed by Blaha and Sowers with 4 points each, and Adamek and Dvorak with 2 points each. Falter, Crosley, Maurice, Luddington, Penas, Heuck, Loft, Larsen, Severson and Misko all failed to score.

Planagan was just about the whole show for Albion "B", with 8 field goals and a free throw, accounting for 13 points. Stillinger had 4 points, T. Mullin 2 points and D. Mullin and Brown each had 1 point. Warner, Wallick and Black failed to score.

Williams Is Fined for Stealing Hay

In county court in Greeley county Feb. 24, Charley M. Williams was charged with stealing 3 1/2 tons of hay from the Charlie Peterson place in Homestead precinct. County Judge Scott found him guilty and fined him $10 and costs amounting to $31.28.

Williams, who lives in Valley county, was also ordered to pay Peterson twice the value of the hay, or $52.50, but the judge cut the value to $22.50.

Day and Day refereed the game.

The second team game found Aurora scoring almost at will, while the Ord "B" boys were hard put to it to score at all. Only 11 points were scored by Ord, although fifteen men were given a chance to show what they could do. The final score was 34 to 11.

Dvorak was high point man with a field goal and a gift shot for 3 points; Blaha, Sowers, Penas and Adamek each managed to get a field goal for 2 points. Among those also present were Falter, Luddington, Maurice, Heuck, Severson, Clement, Misko, Laursen, Stone and Crosley.

Crawford and Roberts each scored 9 points for the Aurora "B". Ross racked up 6, followed by Phillips with 4, Manzie with 3, Wanek with 2 and Ernst with 1. Adams was the only member of the team who failed to score at all.

Chants Meeting Aurora Tonight in Tournament

Loup City, Fullerton, Aurora, Albion Given Nod for Semi-finals.

Ord's Chanticleers will meet Aurora in the opening round of the Class B elimination tournament at Central City tonight. The first game of the opening round will pit Fullerton against St. Bonaventure of Columbus, with the odds favoring Fullerton. This game is called at 5:30.

The Ord-Aurora game is billed for 7 p. m. Aurora has won 10 and lost 6, while Ord has won 4 and lost 11. It must be remembered, however, that Ord has the advantage of a victory, 45 to 44, over the Huskies last Friday night, and might repeat.

Loup City and Central City mix in the third game of the evening, to be called at 8:30. Loup City defeated the Bison team 52 to 29 earlier in the season, but it is claimed that Central City has shown much improvement since then. Loup City stepped out of Class C to get into Class B competition.

Albion drew a bye and will meet the winners of the Ord-Aurora game in the second of the semi-final games Thursday evening. The winners in each of the two other Wednesday night games will meet in the first semi-final contest Thursday night. The finals will be played Friday evening.

Record Is Set by County Judge for First Week in March

Judge Ciochon Hears Five Cases in Three Days; Only One in January.

Some kind of a record was set last week by County Judge Charles Ciochon, who heard five cases in the first three days of March, two on March 1, which were mentioned in last week's Quiz, two March 2, and one on March 3.

One of the March 2 cases was that in which Ray Murphy was charged with delivering liquor to a minor, Donald Kusek. The liquor in question was a quart of wine. Murphy was found guilty and was fined $25 and costs of $6.

The other case that afternoon was that in which Donald Kusek was charged with petit larceny in the theft of 5 batteries valued at $15, the property of Frank Kapuska. He entered a plea of guilty and was released after producing the money for a fine of $25 and costs of $8.

The case March 3, was that in which complaint was filed by County Attorney Ralph W. Norman against Galen R. Dunbar of Taylor for driving a motor vehicle without plates. He was fined $10 and costs of $3 which he paid and was released. Dunbar said he had the new plates in the glove compartment.

Ord Wins from Aurora Friday by 45-44 Score

Best Game Seen in Ord During Entire Season; Richardson, Has 32 Points.

Playing a terrific game all the way, Ord's Chanticleers overcame the bid of a favored Aurora quintet Friday evening at Ord to take the slightly longer end of a 45-44 score. It was a wide open game all the way with Ord ahead 16 to ten at the quarter, a tie at 21 all at the half and Aurora ahead 35 to 32 at the third quarter.

Ord was conceded only an outside chance, as they lost to Albion by a score of 40 to 24 only two nights before, and Aurora had conquered the boys from Boone county. Richardson, Ord's tall center, made it the best night of his career by counting 32 points. Two nights before the best he could do was a pair of field goals for four points.

Each team played ten men, and most of them got into the scoring. For Ord Falter made 4 points, Munn three points, and Tolen, Stoddard and Nelson each made two points. Maurice, Heuck and Laursen played but failed to get an opportunity to score.

Richardson's record is worth a special paragraph. He scored heavily in all but the second quarter, in which he made only one point. In the opening stanza he made 12 points, in the third he racked up 10 points and in the final quarter 9 points. He made more in each of these quarters than most players make in an entire game.

Wilson was high man for Aurora with 14 points; Quinn was in second place with 12 points; Picard made 8, Nuss made 4, and Oberg, Hemingsen and Ernst each made 2. Crawford and Miller, substitute forwards, failed to

Grain

This week grain prices have been stronger and a good demand. We have a good quantity of very good quality yellow corn on hand, as this is written, it would appear that it would be a little scarce till the roads get in shape so that the farmers can shell and deliver corn. Mr. Feeder keep a few loads of the yellow corn. We are interested in buying your wheat, oats and barley. Let us make you offers.

Proteins

We have several tons of Range Lincoy and Soy Meal Pellets in stock. Your breeding herd needs proteins at this time. Your calf, crop depends much now on the feed that you put in. We are interested in buying your wheat, oats and barley. Let us make you offers.

Legumes and Grass Seed

Alfalfa and Sweet Clover seed are both scarce this year and with the very good payments that are available under AAA regulations there will be a great demand for all of these seeds. With the very good seed you should be placing your orders now while stocks are available. The seed is all local grown and of extra good quality and purity and germinations are satisfactory. We find that when local stocks are exhausted it is necessary to ship in seed that the quality is often not as good as the quality of the local seed.

Bulk Garden Seed

This past week we received our new high quality garden seed. We believe that the quality of our garden seed is the equal of any that you can buy and that our prices are much lower than mail order garden seeds. Come in and get your supply of garden seed, large stocks are available.

Chemical Meeting March 24th

On March 24th we expect to have a chemical meeting put on by a representative of the Dupont People. The uses of chemicals in killing weeds and insects will be fully explained and I believe that we will be able to get some very valuable information on farm uses of chemicals.

What To Do About Roads.
The past winter has played hob with all available funds for road work for 1949. The money had to be used in the emergency and it is gone. Nobody regrets that it was used. The job is done, and well done. There is no question that the lives of hundreds of cattle were saved by prompt action when it was needed. It may well be that some people are living today because of the prompt help they received. But that is over now and there is no sense or reason in looking over the past. Because of the past, we have a new emergency ahead of us. The county road fund is depleted, and at a time when taxes seem to be about as high as the people can pay. Any additional funds appropriated would simply increase the burden of taxes. That idea does not look too good at this time.

In pioneer times, when an emergency developed, the people met that emergency in the only way they knew. Funds were not available. The only public money to be had was from the tax on personal property, and from taxes levied on land belonging to the Burlington railroad, which, for various reasons were not paid until several years later.

In those days the people got along with trails across the prairie, but streams and canyons had to be crossed. When the need for a bridge arose, a group of men would build a structure that would answer the purpose until something better could be built. They were fearfully and wonderfully made, but they served the purpose.

Now we are faced by an emergency, an emergency that could be met by the people of the county. If each person would do some work on that part of the county road system nearest his home, the roads could be put in good enough condition to last a year or two and another raise in taxes might be avoided for the present.

This idea may seem crazy. A crazy man is a fellow who does not think just as you do. But if every reader will give this idea a little thought, perhaps it will not seem so crazy, after all. With the assistance of the road overseers and county highway supervisor, it could be done. The chances are they are willing. Are you?

After The Storm.
This state has now passed through one of the worst winters in history, and is now well on the way back to normal spring conditions. Floods are still a menace in many places, but they will soon subside and nature will pursue the even tenor of her way. Now that we look back, we have reason to be thankful that we came out of it as well as we did.

The storm did one thing, and this thing is still with us. It brought more dirt than any storm of recent years. For the reason that little could be done about it, the dirt was permitted to accumulate until every town in the storm area is disfigured with mud and dust. Half the windows in town are still so dirty it is hard to see through them, and those that have been cleaned need the job done again.

Yes, what Ord and a hundred other towns need is a clean-up. It is perhaps a little early for the regular spring clean-up campaign, but it must not be forgotten that the people never faced such a clean-up job before. It is a big job, and it will take a lot more work than any clean-up of recent years.

It is time to get busy doing the thousand and one things that can be done to have everything in readiness when the big job starts. One of these days Mayor Blessing will publish a clean-up proclamation, calling upon all citizens to join in making this once more a city of which all the citizens can be proud. If everybody is ready, the job will not take long and the results will be gratifying.

Get those windows cleaned so you can look out and see the conglomeration of junk that has accumulated all over the back yard while the snow was there to hide it. Then get those tin cans, old bottles, axes and other junk piled up where it will be easy for the clean-up squad to get it in a hurry. You will agree that your yard never did look so tough, but it should look as neat and trim as ever when the cleaning time is over.

Something Different

The parsnip season is back. Goody, goody. How much better the genuine article tastes than the new-fangled, waxed, shipped-in number with which our grocers try to please us.

When I was little I thought that dirt was permitted to accumulate until every town in the storm area is disfigured with mud and dust. Half the windows in town are still so dirty it is hard to see through them, and those that have been cleaned need the job done again.

There are too darned many drives and campaigns for money. They come too thick and fast. They don't last just a week, they last and last. The causes are deserving, we want to give, to them all and help all the deserving and worthy, especially since we do not have personal contact with these troubles.

Now take the heart campaign. You'd better take cognizance of that; that's likely what you'll die of, when your time comes. It is the big, number one killer, particularly of hard-working, efficient business men; it cuts them down in their prime, just as they've hit their stride in a business way, in a family-building way, in a community way.

Well, then there's the Salvation Army. There couldn't be a more worthy charity. It couldn't do a better job. The Salvation Army deserves your help, truly it does. Any soldier boy come home will tell you so. Any down-and-outer will tell you so.

Now March is Red Cross month as well as Salvation Army month. The Red Cross has rendered a great deal of valuable assistance to Nebraska this year.

Incidentally, last week was Smile Week, did you know that? If you did not, it would be permissible for you to throw a few extra grins this week, I'm sure.

Mrs. Rhoda Bouma Strickland writes from Artesia, California: "Evidently the past two months were an exception to the old timers. We don't have winters like we had in the early days here?"

"Whether it was that winter or one of the two following I'm not sure, but we had drifts up to the eaves of buildings and we children had fun climbing to the roof and then sliding down to the ground.

"Our stock tank was under six feet of snow and til spring we had to use a tub and wooden barrel to supply the stock with water. All drifts were solid and sleds were used, fences taken down anywhere necessary as roads were made between and around drifts through pastures and over fields.

March 7, 1949

The Legislature is flooded with salary increase bills. Everybody from the higher bracket state officers to the lowest paid county officials wants more money. Perhaps some of them need and should have more pay. All of these bills are being held in Committee and will probably be acted on at the same time. Two different bills have been introduced to raise the pay of members of the Legislature. While it is true that a member of the Legislature does not get enough to anywhere near pay his expenses, I am opposed to any increase in salary for them.

I do not look for much of an increase for any office holder even though some, particularly county officials, are hardly getting a decent living salary. It is hard to say just what the decision of the Legislature as a whole will be on matters of pay boosts.

Electric Elevated
It was in 1900 that the Manhattan elevated railway was electrified. The first installation included 1,700 motors, and the current was changed to direct current by means of synchronous converters located in different substations throughout the city.

TIME-LY TALES

The modern watch is an amazing mechanism of fine precision workmanship. It takes 2,500 distinct operations to make a Swiss watch. It contains between 150 and 180 separate parts with tolerances to one thousandth of a millimeter—one fiftieth the thickness of a human hair!

Some of the screws which go into a watch look like a speck of dust to the naked eye. Yet each one has been finely threaded and polished under a microscope to one ten-thousandth of an inch in diameter. More than 50,000 of them will fit into an ordinary thimble.

"We were living south of Arcadia at the time and the river bridge went out. Until a temporary bridge was built the teams were hitched in John Wall's pasture and we were ferried across the river by row boat, an enjoyable novelty for us youngsters.

"At low spots in the road the water came to the hubs of the buggy with the spring thaw. "Incidentally, the day my niece, Joan Blomond, was married to Dal Davis, my husband and I phoned our congratulations and the operator who handled the call from here told me she was particularly interested because she too was from Ord.

"By the way — if there's a better weekly newspaper than the Quiz, I've never seen it. Have you?"

To which I would say, there may be better weekly newspapers, but this is my favorite! — Irma

North Loup Well Up in Tournament

All roads led to Osceola last week, where North Loup basketball team was playing in the Class C tournament and where on Friday evening they lost to Genoa, 40-36, after winning on Thursday evening from St. Edward 46-56. A complete story of the basketball season appears in the Quiz this week, but the interest of fans who were willing to take loads of high school students, the hundred miles to Osceola, some of them four days, to see the games, is another story.

Looking through the Loyalist files in the North Loup library, we found that in March 1929, Coach Bailey and his team won the Class C trophy and went to Lincoln, by train, to the state tournament, and Mills Hill, who was captain of the team was picked as forward on the All State team.

Other members of the 1929 team were Byron Fuller, center; Wm. Paddock, forward; Darrell Noyes and Richard Jefferies, guards; and Ralph Sayre and Arthur Jefferies, subs. Byron Fuller was given honorable mention as center on the All State team.

This year, the boys will not go to Lincoln, but they have played a good season of basketball, under the able direction of Coach Bill Cook.

This same Loyalist contained a clipping from the Ord Quiz, written by John Ward, commenting on the fact that the Ord team didn't get a "look-in" at the state tournament, although they had both won most of their seasons games, while North Loup and Loup City went to the Lincoln and North Loup had won only one scheduled game.

Cream Eggs Poultry

March 1st always brings new producers to our territory.
Our organization which is owned by farmer producers of this community has paid good returns to its members since 1926.
We invite all newcomers and all those now selling elsewhere to give this market a trial and become a member of this Co-op. family.

It's good business to market your produce through your own Co-op.
A larger volume means smaller operating costs per unit and a greater return to producers.

Nebraska Highway Needs Shown in Recent Engineering Appraisal

In Nebraska we find that there are approximately ten times as many miles of county and township roads as there are of state and federal roads. The actual figures are 91,528 against 9,220. If we add to this the city streets, which figure 4,680, we find that the proportion is much more than ten to one. This poses a problem in maintenance that is difficult to figure. For example, if half the total funds available were spent on the highways and half on the roads, each mile of road would get one ninth as much as each mile of highway. As a matter of fact, the proportion is much less than this.

About all that is ever done on most roads is raise a grade, usually made extra high in the low places, about the level of the roadsides on the level, and cut deep into the hills where needed to reduce the grades. This method of road building has long been a step in being comparatively to prove to the people that it is not the best way of building roads, after all. However, simply moving dirt to the center of the roadway and packing it there is the usual method of township road construction and repair.

The per mile cost of this operation is low, compared with the work of making permanent or semi-permanent roads the cost is negligible. In 1947 the funds allotted to state highways in Nebraska amounted to more than nine million dollars, while that allotted to county and township roads was less than eight million dollars. Converting this, we find that for every $100 spent on a mile of state highway in the state, less than ten dollars is spent on a mile of township road. Where a better township road or village street is desired, the second step is used. Gravel is hauled in and spread over the top of the grade already raised. This has the advantage of being comparatively cheap to build, but in most places it does not last long enough to justify the saving in dollars and cents.

The records show that the total receipts from all sources during the years 1914 through 1947 was $250 million dollars, and about half of this amount came from the gasoline tax. In 1947 the gasoline tax amounted to more than 8 million dollars, almost two thirds of all funds collected for state highway uses. Motor vehicle registration fees from 1919 to 1947 totaled 30 million dollars. The amount for 1947 from this source was slightly more than a million dollars. As a result of a policy adopted in 1916, federal aid in road building has been extended to the state with the understanding that these funds must be matched by state funds.

In Nebraska nearly all federal funds have been matched by the state itself except for some contributions by cities and, more recently by counties, for federal aid secondary routes, which, after construction are now transferred to the state highway system. Federal apportionments to Nebraska as authorized by congress in 1941, for each of the three consecutive years ending June 30, 1948 amounted to $5,418,157 per year. Since many highway departments were unable to use up the amount of the apportionment during and immediately after the war, due to the scarcity of materials and help, the time these funds were available was extended one year.

Nebraska first participated in federal aid in 1918 when a total of $14,765 was received. These amounts increased through the years to reach a pre-depression high of $2,533,750 in 1928. Because of federal relief in the '30s this amount was exceeded, but the grand total is not available. By 1944 the amount had fallen to a little more than a million dollars. Receipts for 1947 totaled $3,327,683 when the state was reimbursed for its prior payment to contractors of the federal share of the cost.

Nebraska Picnic
Attended by 5,000
Through the courtesy of Miss Mamie Siler, the Quiz learns that there were five thousand present for the Nebraska picnic held recently at Bixby Park in Long Beach, Miss Siler's home town. She is the only Valley county member of the society that sponsors the picnic. There were 14 present from Valley county.

She says most of the Valley county people prefer to go to just one picnic a year. This year that picnic will be held May 1. She tells of the recent death of Mrs. Homer Dagggett. She sends a newspaper clipping telling all about the Nebraska picnic. Mayor Chace of Long Beach delivered the address of welcome and the principal speech was made by Joe Leedom of Gordon, Nebr.

The business that rests on its oars has a long pull ahead. Advertise in the QUIZ and keep the public informed.

Nebraska Press Assn. Celebrates 75th Birthday

75 years ago this month (Grant was then president of the U. S.) the Nebraska Press Association held its first meeting.

Today, this group is recognized as being one of the finest of its kind in the nation.

An important function of this group is the interchange of ideas of successful newspaper-operation methods. This has resulted in benefits to both the publishers and the public.

Likewise, the Nebraska Division, U. S. Brewers Foundation, affords an interchange of ideas for improving tavern operation. The methods of those maintaining unusually clean, respectable, law-abiding places are passed along to other taverns. All operators learn how to conduct their taverns in a manner which wins the approval of their community.

All County Real Estate To Be Reappraised

Cleveland Tax Firm Hired to Conduct Scientific Survey

Will Cost County $16,850.00 and Be Completed Dec. 1; Party of 30 Coming Here.

E. T. Wilkins & Associates, Cleveland, signed a contract with the Valley county board of supervisors this week for the reappraisal and valuation of all taxable real estate in the county.

According to Leonard Woods, county clerk, the firm will start work here in about 30 days. A field party of about 30 workers will come here, to make a house to house and farm to farm inspection of every corner of the county.

The Cleveland firm, according to Woods, makes a business of scientific evaluations for tax purposes, and has conducted a number of similar surveys in Nebraska and the midwest.

Will Set Up Assessing Board When the firm completes its work here, which, according to contract, must be done by Dec. 1, 1949, it will leave the county with a detailed record of every farm, town lot, and building in the county.

Valuation of real estate will be based on a scientific study of both the land or lot and the improvements. Buildings, for example, will be evaluated on a formula based on local construction costs and prices of materials in various quantities.

Land records will give a breakdown on types of land, number of tillable acres, pasture acres, etc. According to the contract on file with the Valley county clerk, the appraisers will ask owners what prices they paid for land.

Upon completion of the reappraisal, a county board of review will conduct hearings to review and adjust complaints. Representatives of the tax firm will sit with the tax review board to defend values established.

Valley County's Beast Continues Prowls; Unseen But Not Unsung

No accurate information has been turned in with regard to the animal that has been reported in two places in Valley county, but hunting parties have been beating the brush along Turtle creek in the area where the last trace of the animal was seen, on the Joe Gregory farm.

Sunday quite a crowd of hunters were looking over the area. A young man from Colorado, where the mountain lion is quite a common animal, said that one of the cat's tracks would travel as far as fifty miles at night, and then hide by day, and that they were difficult to locate.

Cold Weather Back Again
After a week or more of fine spring weather in which most of the snow accumulated during the winter disappeared, conditions took a turn for the worse, with snowfall on alternate days, Thursday, Saturday and Monday, amounting in all to half an inch of moisture and a little more than six inches of snow.

This moved the total snowfall of the winter up to 53.8 inches, as compared with 35.2 for the same time last winter. The moisture since the first of the year, however, shows a slight balance in favor of last year, 1.73 inches as against 1.99.

One of the freakish features of the weather for the week was the sudden drop Monday evening which took the mercury down to below zero readings all over the area. Burwell reported six below as of Tuesday morning. Ord had 4 below, a 7 below was reported from Grand Island and 6 below (unofficial) from North Loup.

Thursday of this week will complete a full four months of winter, which began with a vengeance on Nov. 18. One has only to note that this is a full one third of a year of winter to realize that the winter of 1948-49 broke all records, not only in severity, but in duration as well.

Loup National Farm Loan Group in Annual Meet

John G. Bremer, John Schere Re-elected As Members of Board.

The members and guests of the Loup National Farm Loan association met for their annual meeting Tuesday. The meeting opened with a free hot dinner in the basement of the Ord Methodist church, with more than one hundred present.

The business session called for various reports and the election of directors for Garfield and Valley counties. John G. Bremer was elected to succeed himself in Valley county for 3 years, while John Schere was re-elected for a 3 year period in Garfield county.

This was followed by an address and the showing of pictures by Ralph Raikes of Ashland, Neb., who was one of the farmers that made the WOW tour of Europe. He showed pictures taken in England, Denmark, Germany, Holland, Luxembourg, Italy and France.

Mr. Raikes talked for an hour and a quarter and showed pictures for an hour more, and all present expressed themselves as being sorry that the program did not last longer. The pictures were taken in the farming areas and showed how the work is done in those countries.

New Plymouth on Display

Plymouth's new special deluxe is featured above. Brilliant new styling is combined with outstanding riding comfort, increased roominess, and sweeping mechanical improvements in the new line of Plymouth automobiles.

Completely redesigned, the new Plymouth has a longer wheelbase for a better ride and more road stability, but less front and rear overhang for easier parking and garaging. While the silhouette has been lowered, and the width decreased, there is more head and leg room and seats are wider. Typical of Plymouth's many refinements is the ignition-starter combination, with which a turn of the key starts the engine.

The new Plymouths are sleek in appearance. New, low-eared styling provides a graceful balance with the horizontal grille lines which emphasize the broadness of the front. Fenders which blend perfectly into body lines are nevertheless separate and detachable, thus avoiding sheet metal panels so costly to repair or replace.

The new Plymouth line includes nine distinct automobiles. Special deluxe and deluxe types are on a 118-inch wheelbase, one inch longer than last year's. Special deluxe models are: four-door sedan, club coupe, convertible club coupe and station wagon. In the deluxe group are the four-door sedan and the club coupe. In addition, Plymouth will build three deluxe models on a brand new 111-inch wheelbase, a two-door sedan, a three-passenger coupe, and a new body type, the Suburban.

The 97-horsepower engine has improved performance and efficiency with a new design cylinder head which increases compression ratio to 7 to 1. A new chrome plated compression piston ring reduces cylinder wear and provides greater protection during the break-in period. There are improved oil rings for greater oil economy, while a newly-designed intake manifold induces quicker, smoother engine warm-up and produces faster throttle response.

Body styling which produces greater passenger room without excessive bulk also increases visibility. V-type windshields have 37 percent more area and provide excellent vision without distortion. Windshield wipers clear 61.5 percent greater area and the rear window is 35.4 percent larger.

North Loup

Thursday, March 15, was the fifty-third anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. U. F. Davis. They spent the day quietly with some friends calling. Last year relatives brought a basket dinner and surprised them, but this year roads were too bad to make that possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis had one son, who died when a young man, but they have a host of nieces and nephews, who brighten their lives.

Mrs. Emil Beushausen of Loup City spent last Tuesday and Wednesday with her sister, Mrs. Charles Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Collins and family of Grand Island were Sunday guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins.

Mrs. L. R. Sheldon spent Friday afternoon with her sister, Mrs. Chas. Collins.

Miss Nettie Clark left Tuesday morning for the western part of the state. Miss Clark had been a victim of the flu over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Babcock and family of Ansley were Sunday guests of the Gilbert Babcock family.

Mercury hit nine below Monday night. We had four inches of snow with .22 moisture content.

Local declamatory contest is being held this Wednesday night at the community building. There are five contestants.

The cast of the senior play, Demons in the Dark, has been chosen and practice will be started soon. Date for the play has not been set but it will be sometime in April.

A special meeting of the school board held Monday night, all members of the faculty were re-elected for another year at the same salary.

A guest of Mrs. Viola Baker from Wednesday till Friday was an old school mate, Mrs. Nettie Sisson, of Port Angeles, Wash. The ladies had not met since they were seventeen years of age. Mrs. Sisson is a sister of Mrs. Elsie Draper and has spent some time with Mrs. Draper at Elmore. Mrs. Draper and Mrs. Sisson came down Wednesday and Mrs. Draper went to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elsie Draper. Mrs. Sisson went to the Finley home Friday evening.

Roy Stine went to Omaha Monday afternoon for a physical checkup.

John Pedersen, Scotia, Is Dead

John Pedersen, recently of Scotia, but a lifelong resident of the Dannevirke community, died Sunday, March 13, at a Hastings hospital following an operation. One year ago his wife passed away.

The funeral is being held this Wednesday, at the Dannevirke church, and burial is being made in the Dannevirke cemetery. Rev. Christian Jeppesen of Ord has the services in charge.

Where would you look to see if someone had found your lost livestock? In the QUIZ want ads of course.

What's Cookin' Ward's Column

My friend, James Aagaard, who always had his name first in the telephone directory until the AAA came into being, has been keeping a sharp eye on pheasants on the farm north of Ord. He has been feeding them and protecting them in any way he can. He says that there were 120 there last fall, according to his best estimate, but that there seems to be about half that many left since the sterns. He does not think the sterns got them, however. He believes that they became a prey to the magpies, horned owls and crows when the snow got deep and they had no chance to hide themselves. He has found dead birds that seem to have been killed by these pests. He does not blame the crows. He thinks they may have eaten some of the dead birds, but they did not kill any. It would be fine if more people would take a friendly interest in game birds in winter when the going gets tough.

One day some of the boys were talking it up in front of the REA office. Bill Schudel was there, and George Bell and Ed Hacks and "Butch" Fuss and some more. Bell said that they couldn't hear over the phone unless all the neighbors were listening. This seemed to cut down on the noise. "Butch" said if a fellow didn't get his party he would have to ask the neighbors to hang up so he could ring again. Anyway, the men are so well pleased at getting electricity that they don't worry too much about a little static in the phone line.

The average man in the United States is about 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighs about 160 pounds. That is the man average, and that of school boys should be somewhat less. In such sports as boxing and wrestling the contestants are divided into groups according to weight, since it is obvious that a good, big man can always beat a good, little man. There seems to be an idea that in group competition there should be no limit to either weight or height. It has gotten so in college competition that an average man very seldom has any chance at all. Who ever heard of a 160 pound All-American tackle?

Perhaps it doesn't make quite so much difference in 11-man football, where greater speed and good teamwork can frequently win for the lighter team. Where it does matter is in basketball, the sport that is now coming to a climax in Nebraska. In this game, more than any other, size and height mean the difference between victory and defeat. A tall man can take his place in the lineup, and, in spite of all the shorter opposition can handle the ball better than almost at will. Many changes in the rules have been made to try to cut down the big man's advantage, but it is still so manifestly unfair that many who once were ardent fans have quit following the game entirely.

The big fellow can handle the ball with impunity, for the short guard, in trying to guard him, is certain to foul, and five fouls puts him out. This is bad enough for the big school, which has plenty of material, but what about the little school, where the loss of a single man from the lineup is serious and where the loss of two is almost a catastrophe? I have in mind one small school game when the score was tied in the fourth quarter, when both first string guards fouled out on one of the teams, nearly all the fouls committed against a fellow who was 6 feet 4 inches and weighed 220 pounds. The result was that the big fellow's team won by four points. Without the foul rule the other team would probably have won.

The foul rule was originally intended to protect the weak player against the aggression of the strong player. It no longer works out that way. In fact, it is now making a joke of an otherwise perfectly legitimate game. It is a farcical representation of legitimate sports. Nobody would care to play good money to see a contest between a heavyweight boxer and a lightweight, yet the people are supposed to support a game in which one big fellow practically runs the show. There must be some remedy for this situation, and here is one.

Why not place a limit of say 150 pounds on the weight of any basketball player, and a height of 6 feet? If the big fellows want to play a game that was intended to place a premium on speed, skill and agility rather than size, let them go into competition with other big fellows and give the average fellow a chance. In the larger schools it should be no trouble to get a team of players too big for the above measurements. Just what even terms, insofar as size is concerned, some regulations are essential. For the sake of the game itself some means should be used to make it more attractive to the public. Star players are vital to the game, but big fellows are not nearly so vital. In football the most big fellows can't run fast; they are slow on the getaway; and most important of all, the foul rule does not penalize the little fellow every time he bumps into the big man; in fact, the fouls are more likely to be called against the big man.

Personally, I have not seen a basketball game in the past eight years, largely because the big men, whether on the home team or not, continually take the play away from the rest, and it degenerates into a sort of endurance contest of how many points the big boy can run up, and how many smaller boys fouled out trying to keep him from doing it. I played on the first basketball team ever to play in this area, and I still like the game. But it was played a lot different nearly fifty years ago than it is today. At the time they hadn't developed the idea of using the big men.

A Central Station and Power Plant Planned by NAPPRC

To Furnish Current Now Needed and Provide for Requirements of Future.

The 34 rural cooperative power systems of Nebraska are united in an organization known as the Nebraska Association of Public Power and Rural Cooperatives. This group is making application to the REA administration for a loan to build a central station, or power plant.

This station will probably be located somewhere in the vicinity of Grand Island and will have sufficient capacity to furnish extra power wherever it may be needed in the area. At the present time there is a shortage of power in Nebraska, and unless something is done, this shortage will become more acute as time goes on.

The objects of the plan are, first, to develop an adequate power supply. For example, during periods of storm many towns in the area which happen to be some distance from the generating point find themselves out of energy until the peak of the storm is past.

This would not happen if the supply of energy was sufficient, and if the transmission was adequate. The second point to be attained is adequate transmission, without which no electric service can be satisfactory.

The plan calls for this central station with a grid system to carry sufficient current to any point where it may be needed. A system of this kind would insure steady current at all times, except, of course, when sleet or wind storms might cause a break in the line.

The local rural organization is fortunate in having an immediate source of power from the Ord Municipal light plant, and current sufficient to meet all present needs. Some plants elsewhere are not so lucky and the plan is being developed for their benefit now, and to provide for expansion in the future.

The plan calls for each cooperative to have complete control of its own affairs, the object of the state organization being to do what none of the group could do individually. The rural will have sufficient voice in the determination of major policies in Nebraska that they can be assured that the basic requirements be attained.

Frank Hlavinka, Jr. spent last week visiting Mr. and Mrs. Erma Grief and family at Paducah, Ky. He left Paducah Saturday for Cairo, Ill., and will then go to West Plains, Mo. where he will visit with Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Foth and family. He plans to complete his vacation this week by making a short stop in Omaha to visit friends.

HOMEMAKING NEWS

Kitchen Clean-up.
(by Luella Christoffersen)
The first year Homemaking class finished their unit on cooking by leaving the kitchen spotless. We are now beginning a unit on sewing. We are sewing spring dresses. Some of the materials we are using are detted swiss, dainty, chambray, and cotton print. The patterns we are making are simple but very cute.

Figure Flattery.
(by Irene Franzen)
Lady! you don't have to look as fat as you really are. There are fashions at moderate prices, such that will enhance the stout figure. Your problem is to know what you are looking for, to know what's best for you, and to hold a firm grip on yourself and your pocket-book when a sales person tempts you with a too-too dressy, overly-frilled and flounced garment.

Fashion has no price tag this year. New costumes stress femininity and ease with the spotlight on becomingness. Fabrics for the spring are important for they dress the theme of the year. There is texture everywhere, in embosses, ribbed, bubbly, airy, or tweed surfaces.

Jackets go to all lengths, proving that there is a flattering style for every figure. Skirts follow the same pattern.

The full length coat still predominates the fashion picture. Its general lines have been greatly changed to a more balanced body line for the average person.

The most wanted fabrics still remain in the gabardine family, which includes gabardine, mill, teens, charmond, charmonet, etc. The next of importance are the tweeds, mensular worsteds.

Colors for spring coats are the blue family from the dark to the palest of blues. Next is the brown family and the third important is the grey family from the light silver grey to the darker shades. In many instances two tone effects are used in coats as well as suits.

Dresses have an airy and lacy look for gracious wearing. As to lengths, use your eye instead of a yardstick. Many top designers recommend 13 to 14 inches from the floor for daytime and 8 to 10 inches for after five. It comes to a matter of what is your most becoming length and what the occasion is.

The spring fashion story in shoes is told in three important words — lightness, color, and modification. Women will welcome the comfort of spring footwear, because manufacturers have done away with the extremely thick platforms and the tower heels of the winter season, in favor of light sandalized footwear. It will be open season in shoes, open toes, open heels. Heels are lower, in new smart heights for easy walking. As to color — the designers have dipped boldly into the color pots. Rich reds, cool greens, navy will color dressy shoes, and greys and cocoas will be high in fashion. Of course, black patent and suedes are important for spring and year around wear. Buttons and laces too, but only as trims.

Somebody New to Wear.
(by Lorene Petiska)
The second year Homemaking girls are having quite a big time with their blouses. These blouses are nearly completed and most of them look very nice.

The girls have learned very much during this sewing unit and I am sure that they will make good use of their knowledge.

The blouses are to be completed and ready for grading by March 7.

Spring Cottons.
(by Marian Severns.)
The first year Homemaking girls have started their new spring dresses. Boy! they sure picked some nice patterns and pretty materials. They started these pretty dresses last Wednesday and are really getting along swell.

Since there are so many different kinds of dresses being made we are taking about seven weeks in which to complete this unit.

These are the first dresses the girls have made at school. We made aprons at the first of the year and since then several of the girls have made aprons, blouses, and skirts. The student teacher helping us is Miss Moline from the University. She is doing a very good job in teaching us.

Family Relations.
(by Delphine Dymek)
As we third year Homemaking girls began a new unit, family relations, co-operations and finances. We have discovered that the greatest problems of not having a happy home is that of not understanding each other within the family and not getting along with our older and younger sisters and brothers.

During the class we have planned two families and had a family council meeting or discussion on whether or not the older sister should go away to college. One family was the co-operative and agreeable while the other was the opposite and thought she should not go away to college.

We also have planned a schedule for the duties of each member of the family.

Communism. The statement is made frequently that we do not need to fear communism in America, because the number of communists is small. Once there was a man who had a basket of apples, most of which were good. He said to himself: "This is Saturday. I am too busy. I will sort them out Monday, when I have more time."

broken places in the skins of a few apples, and they immediately went to work. Originally most people in America are good people. They grow up with the idea of being good citizens. But they run into some condition in our government that seems to them unfair. It gets "under their skins."

Whirling Dervishes Still Whirl. The whirling dervishes of Turkey were a hardy lot. They banged their heads against oak trees, thrived on a diet of broken glass, walked through beds of hot coals and came up smiling—and spinning like a top. It was the Turkish rejuvenator, Mustafa Kemal Pasha, who drove the dervishes into their final talpsin. Sometime around 1920 he abolished the crumbling caliphate, ordered women to drop their veils, and decreed the use of the Roman alphabet and western dress. The dervishes were ordered to go, but were determined to hang on, and many of them lost their necks in the process. But the dervish has not been entirely eradicated. Their habitat is the entire Moslem world, from North Africa through Asia Minor and Asia as far as India and China. Turkey and Persia have been their principal balliwicks.

Cattle Loss from Heel Flies. Damage done to cattle by heel flies and grubs is more extensive than many people realize, researchers say. Annoyed by the flies, cattle run off much flesh in fly season. Later, when the grubs are burrowing inside the animals, the resulting irritation, soreness and general run down condition is the cause of unthriftiness of cattle. Punctured by the grubs when they move to the backs of the animals, hides are often reduced in value by 50 per cent. Because of the damage grubs cause, much emphasis has been placed on their control in recent years.

New Grass Strain Spreads Through Northern States

Men who work for the improvement of grass have reason for satisfaction in the record of alta fescue, a new strain now well proved. It is especially useful as pasture alta fescue was picked out from a field of tall fescue 25 years ago. Sectioned by H. A. Schott of the U. S. department of agriculture, working at the Oregon agricultural experiment station, and developed by him and the station agronomists into a popular forage in the north west, it is working its way into favor in many parts of the northern states and may go farther. Last year the production of seed, practically all of it grown in Oregon, Washington, and Idaho, totaled close to 2,500,000 pounds, enough for seeding about 160,000 acres. Of this, Oregon produced about 1,750,000 pounds. In addition to 10,000 acres devoted to alta fescue seed production, 49,000 acres was grown for forage in the three states last year.

Stands of this new fescue have surprising persistence. The first seed-increase planting was in 1936 and that plot of one-tenth of an acre is still thriving. The plant sends its roots down five feet or more where conditions are most favorable, a characteristic that enables it to keep green in dry weather and to keep growing continuously over a long season. It is adapted to heavy soils and does well even where drainage is poor. Preliminary tests in Missouri indicate it may prove a good forage for growing on overflow land and on gray silt loam with tight hardpan layers.

London Bridge Makes Trip To Serve Central Africa

When enemy bombs and rockets rained havoc on Britain during the blitz, Londoners watched squads of workmen hastily erect two large temporary bridges over the Thames. Had any of the main bridges been blown to bits, London's heavy traffic was to be diverted across these stop-gap roadways. At war's end, no traffic had ever crossed them. These bridges are to be re-erected as a link on the main highway running between Salisbury and Lusaka, the capitals of Southern and Northern Rhodesia, two land-locked territories in the heart of Africa. This vital route is now broken at the Kafue, some 35 miles south of Lusaka, where the river has to be crossed by ferry.

Poisonous Snake Strikes Swiftly. When the poisonous snake strikes, his mouth opens wide, so the upper and lower fangs are in a vertical line. The fangs point outward like two slightly curved lancets. Several drops of venom are forced into the wound. All this is accomplished within a fraction of a second. Two or three drops of poison at one time will be released by a large snake. The size of the injection varies with the object struck and the state of the reptile's excitement. More poison is used in biting a man than a rabbit. Part of it is rapidly absorbed into the blood stream by capillary blood-vessels. The balance of the venom remains at the fang punctures until absorbed. Great swelling and discoloration quickly appear in the region of the bite. If the snake's fangs puncture a vein or an artery the victim is almost certain to die, because the poison quickly reaches the brain, heart and other vital organs.

Rebuilding Kingston-on-Hull. During the war, when German airmen were spreading destruction over England, there were vague references in news bulletins to the bombing of a "North East town." Few people were then aware that this "North East town" was the city of Kingston-upon-Hull, the third port of the country, which, it is claimed, suffered more material damage than any other center outside of London. Commonly known as Hull, from the river on which it stands the city is an important link in the vast system of communications upon which the prosperity of an extensive industrial region depends. The task of rebuilding Hull is one of considerable magnitude, and many of its present citizens realize they will not live long enough to see its realization.

Lowly Onion a Hardy Plant. There are many kinds and types of onions. There is, for instance, the Egyptian or tree onion, which is hardy in winter time. They are the ones that bear little bulbs on their seed stalks instead of seeds. Egyptian or tree onions are very delicious for two or three weeks in the spring until the seed stalks start forming, when they get tough. Another onion used a great deal for scallions is the multiplier onion. The multiplier onion divides the bulb and forms anywhere from three to 20 other onions. Another type of scallion onions are those which are grown from sets. Sets are also a method of growing mature onions for winter use.

New Chrysanthemum Introduced. A new outdoor chrysanthemum, Bountiful, has been introduced by the University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station this year. Bountiful is the 24th garden chrysanthemum developed and introduced by L. E. Longley, assistant professor of horticulture at the University of Minnesota, who is in charge of the chrysanthemum breeding project. The Bountiful is an upright, spreading type, medium in height, bearing large trusses of nearly double flowers on long stems. Blossoms are carmine to oxblood in color.

Famous Musical Autographs Added to Congress Library

A remarkable collection of musical manuscripts has been acquired by the library of congress through the generosity of Mrs. Gertrude Clarke Whittall, whose previous gifts to the library included a quartet of Stradivarius instruments and an endorsement for concerts of chamber music. The new gift consists of original manuscripts of the following composers: Johann Sebastian Bach, Joseph Haydn, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, Ludwig von Beethoven, Johannes Brahms and Max Reger. Every manuscript represents a work of major importance, and the group greatly enriches the autograph holdings of the library's music division. Unexcelled among these new additions is the autograph of Beethoven's piano sonata in E major, Op. 101, one of this composer's famous "last five" in which he attained his greatest maturity in writing for this instrument. Finished about 1820, it is also the first complete Beethoven sonata in original manuscript form to come to the library. There are two Mozart autographs, one a violin concerto and the other a piano concerto. Both are full orchestra scores.

Aztecs Paid Off Soldiers in Succulent Cocoa Beans. Long before Columbus discovered the new world, cocoa was of prime importance in the economy of Middle America. Cocoa beans were the standard medium of exchange for the imperial treasury in the succulent beans, thus insuring himself an adequate supply of his favorite drink. Up to 1600, cocoa beans were still common currency in isolated hamlets of Middle America. Aztec treasuries were crammed with outside chocolate bars. Slaves in those times went for a hundred cocoa beans the head, and soldiers were paid off in the same "coin." At once it became obvious that the American slang word, "bean," meaning dollar, is of very ancient origin indeed. Cocoa bean money had a profound ethical difference from other moneys: it could not be hoarded, for it spoiled after a few months. It could only be spent or eaten or guzzled in the form of chocolate.

Ord Coop. Oil Co. Has Annual Meeting

Votes to Increase Capital to $25,000; 6% Paid on Stock. The annual meeting of the Ord Co-operative Oil company was held in the Masonic basement in Ord Friday afternoon with the best attendance ever reported. The group voted to amend the articles of incorporation to increase the capital stock to $25,000 from the present $10,000. There was some discussion of the saving that would be made with more promptness in meeting accounts. The financial report showed total savings of $28,700, of which $18,900 was a deferred refund in stock from the Consumers Co-operative Association of Kansas City, of which the Ord group is a member.

Due to the fact that a new building was erected during the past year, all the savings were deferred at this time, but 6% was paid on all outstanding stock. Howard Hill, CCA fieldman from McCook, was present and gave a talk. Ten door prizes were given. Henry Benn and W. C. H. Noll were re-elected to the board of directors. Coffee and doughnuts were served at the close of the meeting.

Fullerton Man Hired at Scotia

All the members of the Scotia faculty were re-elected at the March meeting of the board of education. However, Edward Tobias, speech instructor, and Clarence Kuhlman, science, do not plan to return. The board has given the nod to Leo Galloway of Fullerton to take the science job. Mr. Galloway graduated at Fullerton in 1939, served with the armed forces until 1945, and has been in Kearney State Teachers college since then.

Ord School Board Rehires Teachers

At their regular monthly meeting the Ord school board rehired the entire corps of teachers with the exception of Mrs. Severson, who does not plan to teach next year. A nominal increase in salary was voted in some cases. No action was taken at the meeting as to filling the vacancy left by Mrs. Severson's resignation, but it is understood that some action will be taken at the meeting in April.

Nebraska Highway Needs Shown in Recent Engineering Appraisal

Traffic is a funny thing. It varies in every possible way. It varies at different hours of the day, it varies over different days of the week and of the month, and it varies over different months of the year. Then there are the seasonal variations, such as the Christmas holidays, Decoration day, July 4th and Labor day. Then there are the seasonal attractions in certain areas, such as Nebraska's large Rodeo at Burwell, the Valley County Fair, North Loup Pop Corn days. Insofar as wear and tear on the highways is concerned, it doesn't make too much difference whether the traffic comes in bunches or whether it is spread out more evenly. But, when the element of safety is concerned, the difference is very pronounced.

For example, most truckers like to do their traveling at night, as they meet less traffic on the highways than they would during the middle of the day. The day of the railroad in the matter of local transportation is pretty much in the past. Exclusive of taxis and trucks 55% of all trips made in Omaha in 1944 were made by auto, either as owner or passenger. That same year 75% of such trips in Lincoln were made by auto. This number is constantly increasing. As rail lines have been abandoned, their place has been taken by auto, bus and truck. Today we find six counties in Nebraska are without rail service. Arthur, Banner, Kayapaha, Leas, Phelps and Wheeler. The last named once had a railroad, but lost it. This number will doubtless increase as time goes on and more highways are developed and improved.

Highway traffic patterns are not only irregular. For this reason it is essential to develop roads to handle the maximum traffic that will go over that road, not just the average for any given time. A road designed to handle one thousand vehicles on an average in Lincoln is a perfect fit for the many on a peak day or only one third on a stormy day in winter. The actual design of highways and roads must be based on the peak volume of traffic over the road instead of the 24 hour annual average volume. Over a period of one year Nebraska traffic has been checked in many ways and with interesting results.

For example it has been ascertained that the maximum week day traffic flow occurs in the hour between four and five p. m. From 3 to 4 a. m. occurs the highest traffic of the entire day, when only one half of one percent of the day's traffic moves between 8 a. m. and 8 p. m. In Omaha there are two daily peaks, one around 8 in the morning, the other from 4 to 6 in the evening. This, of course is largely due to people driving to and from work.

Looking at the traffic problem from the viewpoint of the week, we find that Saturday and Sunday are the two days when the greatest amount of travel occurs. These are the two days when the most people are idle and have time to travel. The rest of the days of the week show about the same amount, with Monday and Friday slightly more than the others. In Nebraska the east and west travel is much heavier than the north and south. The main artery in inter-city travel is the highway between Omaha and Lincoln, but travel is nearly as heavy over the Lincoln highway. Travel on the Lincoln highway is heavy all the way out to North Platte. There is also a very congested artery in the immediate vicinity of Scottsbluff. Travel on Sunday will amount to as much as 15% of the week's traffic, while Thursday will run as low as 13%.

Another factor to be reckoned with in considering traffic over Nebraska highways is the shipment of livestock to market, nearly all of which is now done by truck. Because the trucks move at night, and most frequently on Sunday or Monday, they have effected quite a change in the traffic pattern in the past few years. Besides, one loaded truck may have more effect on the condition of the road than a dozen passenger cars would have. Besides, the number of trucks and the number of trips per truck is increasing. Any traffic chart made today would lack a great deal of being accurate a year from today. Any road plan which did not take into consideration this constant growing of traffic would certainly be inadequate.

Vehicles owned in purely rural areas of Nebraska account for about 29% of all traffic in the state. Vehicles from outside the state account for 9%, which leaves 62% per cent by vehicles owned by residents of the cities and villages.

These city and village owners did 54% of their driving on rural roads and the remainder on city and village streets during 1947. Rural residents did 45% of their driving on highways, 45% on rural roads and 10% city and village streets.

While no record is kept of this, there are no doubt a sizeable number of vehicles which do not travel a mile on county roads in the course of a year. Naturally the improvement of farm and county roads does not have the same appeal to them as it does to the people living on the farms.

As the size of the city increases the percentage of travel in the city by city dwellers increases also. In Omaha the residents do 84% of their driving on city streets, 15% on highways and only one per cent on county roads. On the other hand, residents of villages under 1,000 population do 60 per cent of their driving on highways, 25 per cent on county roads and 15 per cent on city or village streets.

As may well be expected, highways carry more out-state traffic than any highway in Nebraska. It is one of the major trans-continental routes, and in the central part of it. In the summer time, when travel is most popular, cars from every state in the union can be checked on this highway almost every day.

The fact that so many cars pass through Nebraska every year is one of the factors that complicate the road problem of the state. This is offset, to some extent by the fact that these visiting cars buy gasoline on their way across Nebraska and thus help swell the gasoline tax fund. Most of this travel, of course, takes place on federal highways, except in case where detours are necessary to make repairs.

Arnold Leonard Success As Coach

Ceryl Walker, publisher of the Arapahoe Mirror, waxed eloquent over the work done by a former North Loup man, Arnold Leonard, who has been coach at Arapahoe, Neb., for the past three years. In the season just closed the basketball team played 23 games, losing only one, and that one to Hildreth.

The Indians made 1337 points to 725 for the opposition. Hoppy McCue, a sophomore, made 484 of those points for what looks like a state record. In his three years there Leonard's teams have won 14 games and lost 14. Nine of those defeats came in the first year. Leonard is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Vera Leonard of North Loup and a brother of North Loup's stellar athlete, Les (Moose) Leonard.

Ellen Engleman Turns 100 Years

Mrs. Ellen Engleman, Litchfield's oldest resident, reached her 100th birthday Feb. 25, 1949. Relatives entertained that day in her honor and 150 persons signed the guest book. She received a dozen bouquets, three orchids, one from Hollywood, and had six birthday cakes.

Mr. Engleman, who was a veteran of the Civil war, died about ten years ago. He and Mrs. Engleman settled in Litchfield in 1878. Although 100, Mrs. Engleman is not Sherman county's oldest citizen. That honor belongs to T. B. Chudzinski of Ashton, who is about a month older.

Married in California

Honeymooning at Carmel by the Sea and San Francisco are Mr. and Mrs. John B. Cook, who were married Sunday, March 6, at 8:30 p. m. at the Little Church of the Flowers, Forest Lawn Memorial park in Glendale, Calif. Rev. Wendell Miller performed the ceremony and the bride was given in marriage by her father. The bride is the former Beatrice Trapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Trapp of Huntington Park. The Trapps formerly lived at Arcadia, but have been residents of California the past eight years.

Forgotten Inventor

Tom Davenport, a blacksmith, traded his brother's horse for some cash to buy an electromagnet. He invented the first battery-operated electric motor. A tire in the U. S. patent office, in December, 1836, destroyed the model. Unbeaten by disaster, Davenport built a second model and was awarded a patent in 1837. His invention inspired world-wide efforts along these lines. Today electric motors help power the world.

World's Oldest Law Code Comes to Light in Iraq

Oldest code of laws in the world has been discovered by a Yale scholar at Baghdad, Iraq. It is the code of Hammurabi, king of Eshnunna, a kingdom on the east bank of the Tigris river which flourished 200 years before Hammurabi, the great law-giver of the Babylonians, held sway at Babylon on the west side of this same river.

Like Hammurabi's famous code, it has penalties resembling the "eye for an eye, tooth for a tooth." It even contains a section on price control.

Prof. Albrecht Goetz made the discovery while examining tablets excavated at the small town of Tell Hammal, near Baghdad. A town which covers the ruins of a small rural village that existed 2,000 years before the Christian era.

The new code, as now recovered, consists of about 200 narrowly-written lines in two columns each on both sides of the tablet.

One section states: "If a man bites another man's nose and severs it, he pays him one mina of silver. (For) an eye the eye (pays) one mina of silver, (for) a tooth a half mina of silver, (for) a slip in the face 10 sheqels of silver."

Tree-planting Simplified By Remarkable Machine. Machines will take much of the strain out of tree planting in the future, declares Prof. Fred E. Winch, Jr., assistant extension forester at Cornell. Several commercial tree planters are already on the market. Some plow furrows in which the tree is planted, while others open up a slit in which the tree is set and as the machine passes the rear wheels tamp the tree in place.

Cost of such a machine is too great for the person who plants less than 100 trees. Some of the soil conservation districts, however, own machines that are available to co-operators.

It is pointed out that many farmers could use a home-made planter—a pair of old log-cart wheels fitted with iron or steel blades about six inches long and attached to the wheel at the circumference. As the wheel turns, the blades are driven into the ground, and as it proceeds the blades throw dirt out of the hole.

If the wheel is four feet in diameter, two blades at opposite ends will dig holes slightly under six feet apart. Two rows of holes can be dug with two heavily weighted wheels pulled by a tractor.

Texas City Stages "Comeback". Devastated by the explosions of two freighters loading ammonium nitrate fertilizer in its harbor, Texas City, Tex., suffered one of America's worst peacetime catastrophes on April 16-17, 1947. The explosions were perhaps the most destructive ever known on the North American continent, apart from the atom bomb test. Only the Black Tom and Halifax explosions of World War I are comparable.

But Texas City has staged a "comeback" except for the dock area, hardly a scar of the terrific explosion remains. The business district gleams with shiny new store fronts and plate glass. The stricken residential districts are freshly painted, neater and tidier looking than ever before. Fire insurance and the undimmed will of the people have been behind this amazing reconstruction.

Precaution for Housewives. After lighting but before leaving a burner, the flame should be observed to make sure that perfect ignition has occurred. This applies to burners under the solid or partly enclosed cooking top of a range and to a radiant space heater as much as to an oven, water heater or furnace. It sometimes happens that gas does not light at every part of a burner, and unburned gas escapes from those at which there is no flame. Oven burners are especially subject to this trouble. When the gas is lighted it is well to make sure that there is a flame at every part. If there is not, something may be wrong. Usually the burner needs cleaning, but if cleaning does not remedy the trouble the burner should be repaired or replaced by an experienced appliance adjuster.

Kiskadee National Forest. In central Louisiana lies the beautiful, rugged Kiskadee country. This has always been game country, and of late years it has been taken over by the government. Many square miles of new constitute the Kiskadee national forest. This area has a wealth of upland game including deer, turkeys, wildcats and other species. There are some wild turkeys ranging the wilds within 20 or 25 miles of New Orleans. The wild turkey is a wary bird, and hunting for him calls for more patience, knowledge and skill than any other game bird.

Iowa Tallying Game. One thousand of Iowa's 1,400 rural mail carriers will assist the state conservation commission in determining game populations during the next year. Four surveys will be made during 1948. Under the plan the carriers who have signified their willingness to cooperate will record their observations of all pheasants, quail and cotton-tails seen while driving their routes every day for six days at the end of the six-day period the tallies will be mailed to the biology section of the state conservation commission for compilation. The mail carrier tally is being carried out successfully in several states at the present time; however, Iowa's road system and much of the territory of this state are "made to order" for wildlife counts by this method. The average route length is 45 miles, which means that if the anticipated 1,000 carriers cooperate voluntarily, records for 45,000 miles of road will be tabulated each day, with a total of 270,000 miles kept during the week.

C. O. Twombly, or rather Mrs. Twombly, writes from Cambridge Springs, Pa. to send a renewal to the Quiz. She said they were having their first winter with 8 to 9 inches of snow. She says their 11th grandchild arrived Feb. 25.

Home Freezer Saves Time In Packing School Lunch

Getting the children off to school on time with a good packed lunch is a double duty many homemakers face five mornings a week. But if you have a home freezer this amazing device can take one of those tasks off your hands during busy morning hours.

Many good lunch-box foods, such as sandwiches, can be prepared in less busy hours, frozen and used when needed.

Most sandwiches, when properly packaged, freeze well, says Flora L. Carl, Missouri university extension nutritionist. And you can make a two weeks' supply of sandwiches at once in much less time than you can make one day's supply each morning.

Also, most last-minute preparations for buffet meals, picnics and teas is saved if you prepare and freeze sandwiches in advance. For frozen sandwiches, use any variety and thickness of bread. Day-old bread is best. Open-face or closed sandwiches freeze equally well.

Here are some sandwich fillings suitable for freezing: cheddar cheese, cream cheese, sliced or ground meat, sliced or ground poultry, fish, cooked egg yolk (whites do not use fillings containing raw vegetables, those having hard cooked eggs, whites, or those containing fruit jellies. Such fillings do not freeze satisfactorily. Fresh greens add zest to most sandwiches. Wrap fresh greens in cellophane or waxed paper and pack with the lunch to be put on the sandwich just before it is eaten.

Spread butter on the bread; then the filling. Do not use mayonnaise for a sandwich spread for it separates upon freezing and soaks into the bread. Fillings for sandwiches can be frozen separately.

Electronic Range Now Used In Restaurants and Hotels

Quick-as-a-flash electronic cooking has become a reality in nearly 100 hotels and restaurants and in many factory cafeterias, where speed and perhaps novelty are important features, says the Industrial Bulletin of Arthur D. Little, Inc. In other fields, including defrosting of cooked foods for restaurant use, large-scale defrosting of uncooked foods, quantity cooking, and home cooking, much further development is apparently needed.

The problems and possibilities of electronic cooking are tied up with the characteristics of the electromagnetic waves through which it operates. Light, heat from a boiler, radar and radio waves are all electromagnetic waves differing in frequency and in their effect on foods and other materials.

Light, whose waves are very short, is not suitable for cooking. Heat waves, slightly longer, will cook a steak from the outside in, giving the characteristic crust and flavor. Radar waves cook it all the way through at once, producing a different flavor and appearance. Radio waves, longest of all generally have little effect on food, but those between the radar and radio frequencies are sometimes useful.

The electronic range now used in restaurants, called the Radarange, operates in the radar frequency range and is used in preparing, among other things, meat, fish, eggs, and even live lobsters. It will cook a ten-ounce steak in about 45 seconds and a six-pound rib roast in two minutes. Because meat cooked by the new process is gray, rather than brown, and lacks the usual crust, a unit is provided to flash-steam before cooking to obtain the desired surface appearance.

Some people find the flavor developed by electronic cooking superior to the ordinary flavor, others find it comparable, while a few feel that flavor components are not fully matured and they complain of a "steamy" taste.

Equipment cost is high, but operating cost is comparable to that of an electric stove. The 6.5-kilowatt electronic range, the restaurant size, is not sold, but leased for $150 a month, including maintenance. Many restaurants consider its advertising value important, and feature it on menus.

Darrell Johnson Is Signed Up by St. Louis Browns

Former Ord Young Man Makes Good on Boyhood Desires and Aspirations.

Through the courtesy of Graydon M. Dunlap of Richmond, Calif., the Quiz learns Darrell Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Johnson, once of Ord but now in Richmond, has affixed his signature to a one-year bonus contract with the St. Louis Browns and will report for spring training with them at Riverside, Calif., on March 28.

Johnson started last season with the El Cortez team, winners of the California semi-pro championship. He is a catcher and batted .340 for the season, batting either right or left handed with equal success. He was voted the most valuable player at a giant tournament where the best semi-pro players in California performed before dozens of big league scouts.

While in Ord Darrell was active in football, basketball and baseball, and was runner-up in a tough Nebraska State high school golf tournament in 1943 as captain of his team. Supt. C. C. Thompson remembers Johnson as a "kid who was small all through high school, but possessed of great natural athletic ability. He was also a member of the mixed chorus and glee club while here, and graduated with the Class of 1941.

Mrs. F. J. Osentowski, of Ord, is his sister.

Weight Limited on Highways in Nebraska Areas

No Roads in Immediate Area Affected by Rule Restricting Gross Weight.

Effective March 15, the gross weight of vehicles permitted on certain highways and parts of highways in Nebraska will be restricted. State Engineer F. H. Klitchev issued this order under authority granted by a ruling put out in 1947, in order to prevent, as far as possible, further deterioration of highways.

At the start the following routes will be posted:

US 26, from Ogallala to the junction with 11 east of Bridgeport.

US 26, from Broadwater to Northport.

US 2, from Broken Bow to the South Dakota state line.

Nebraska No. 29, Gering to Kimball.

Nebraska No. 19, Alliance to the South Dakota state line.

US 20, from the west junction with US 81, near Osmond, west to the Wyoming state line.

US 276 from the end of the concrete pavement west of Norfolk to the junction of US 20 near Inman.

Nebraska 15, from the Yankton bridge to the junction with US 20 near Laurel.

US 81 from the Yankton bridge to the junction with US 20.

US 281 from O'Neill north to the South Dakota state line.

All other highways not specially mentioned west of 281 from US 20 to the South Dakota state line.

On all these highways load limits will be restricted to a maximum of 10,000 pounds per axle, or not to exceed 300 pounds per lineal inch of tire width. Tire width means the cross section as usually measured and jated by manufacturers.

Notice of these restrictions will be posted at the limits of the control sections and at all intersections with main traveled roads. Notice will also be posted along the highway at municipal limits where the highway enters and leaves the municipality.

It will be noted that the posted area coincides with that part of the state where the snow was deepest and where the greater amount of moisture will have a deteriorating effect on the highway.

Attend PFL Meet in Omaha Thurs.

C. C. Dale went to Omaha Thursday to attend the National Pasture, Forage and Livestock meeting being held there. About one thousand persons from all over the United States were present at the meeting, which was held in the Livestock Exchange building.

Highlighting the noon luncheon was an address by Allen Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. In the evening a banquet was held in the Chamber of Commerce room in the WOW building, where an address was given by Jim Sanders, director of agriculture at Reading university, of Ames, Ia.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale went to Omaha with Willis Thurber, Frank Malicky and Robert Penas of Burwell. E. S. Murray was in Omaha at the time and also attended the meeting. They returned Friday.

Rowse Bull Sets Holt Co. Record

Battle Stanway, grand champion bull in the Holt County Hereford breeders association show and sale at O'Neill, set an all-time record high price for this group when he sold to Frank Graves of Burwell and George Rowse of Chambers for $1,200.

The champion is an eight months old calf exhibited by Nyal Rowse of Chambers. The reserve champion bull J.R.S. Caldo, a short yearling shown by Floyd Whitaker of Chambers was sold to Harold Melcher of Page for $605.

Sold at the sale were 37 bulls at an average price of $428 each, and 7 heifers at an average of $218. The sale grossed $17,555.

Chanticleers in Tough Defeat at District Tourney

Drop Contest in Final Quarter After Leading First Three Stanzas.

Lacking the necessary spurt at the finish line, the Ord Chanticleers lost a tough game to Aurora in the first round of the district tourney at Central City Wednesday evening, March 9, by a score of 45 to 43.

Played to a tie in the first quarter at 6 all, the Ord lads came back strong to finish the half out in front 21 to 18. They still held the same margin at the end of the third quarter, 30 to 27. They managed to put across the ball in front of bounds and an Aurora player managed to deflect it, and it flew into the air and dropped through the Aurora basket. If the ball had gone to the Ord man it was intended for, it could have meant a distal goal of four points.

Quinn of Aurora was high point man of the game with 21 points. Crawford had 4 points, Hemmingsen 4, Miller 1, Nuss 2, Palmberg 1, Picard 6 and Wilson 7. Ernst and Oberg failed to score, although Oberg had two chances from the four line.

For Ord Richardson made 14 points, closely followed by Munn with 12. Nelson had 9 points, Stoddard 4, and Tolen and Maurice each had 2.

Falter Expelled.

Falter was doing a fine job guarding but finally went out on fouls, the only one to be expelled on either team. He, Laursen and Adamek saw plenty of action, but failed to land in the scoring column. This game officially ended the basketball season for the Chanticleers.

This game was a reversal of the game with Aurora played five days before at Ord, which the Chants won by a score of 45 to 41. In that game Ord was behind 3 points at the end of the third quarter, but managed to pull the game out of the fire in the closing seconds. In fact, the two teams were as evenly matched as two teams well could be.

While a summary of the points made in the games by each member of the squad is manifestly unfair, it is given herewith. It must be kept in mind that some players played in most of all the games, while others were sent in for a short time to give the others a breathing spell. The leading eight got into most of the games. The record is as follows:

Richardson Leads.

Richardson, 291 points; Tolen, 74 points; Stoddard, 47 points; Munn, 47 points; Nelson, 41 points; Falter, 39 points; Maurice, 30 points; Wells, 12 points; Heuck, 2 points; Laursen 1 point. Severson, Blaha, Moore, Adamek and Malolejszy each played a small part of the time in one or more games, but failed to score.

Intersectional Winners Settle Dispute Friday

Merna, Primrose Lose; Farwell Bests Ashton; Wins Trip to Lincoln.

Farwell came from behind Friday night at Ord to win the right over Ashton to go to the Class D tournament at Lincoln March 18. The final score, 45 to 44, shows what a spectacular battle these teams put on. Both team played a very tight man-to-man defense.

Ashton led the first three quarters, the scores being 16 to 12 at the first quarter, 25 to 24 at the half, and 41 to 34 at the end of the third quarter. The last quarter Farwell came up to tie the score at 44 all. Then Donald Wolinski dropped through a free throw to put Farwell ahead.

Clarence Ritz missed two free throws for Ashton in the last 20 seconds of the game, which gave the Farwell quint the ball and a chance to stall, which they did. Arnold Jacobowski and Jerome Bydalek accounted for all of Ashton's scores. Arnold getting 29 points and Jerome 15.

Thursday night Farwell eliminated Merna by a score of 63 to 28, and Ashton defeated Primrose 65 to 51 to gain their chance to compete in the game Friday night.

Annual Baseball Meeting Held at Ansley, March 9

Eight Teams in League; Schedule Not Complete; Umpires to Be Neutral.

Walter Douthit and Harold Christensen drove to Ansley March 9 to attend a meeting held that evening, the annual meeting of the Loup Valley baseball league. The meeting was held in the Ansley town hall and there were thirty in attendance.

At the annual election Harold Knapp of Ansley was elected president, Glen Burns of Mason City was chosen vice-president, and Stanley Roy of Loup City was chosen secretary-treasurer.

There are eight teams in the league this year, Derwyn and Litchfield of the Farmers membership dropping out. This leaves Ord, Broken Bow, Arcadia, Loup City, Mason City, Miller, Comstock and Ansley.

Starting date of the schedule was set at May 8, but the schedule is not yet made out. All umpires will be neutral this year, that is, they will be from some town not represented by either contending team. Last year there were two, one from each of the towns represented.

Mr. Douthit, recently elected manager of the Ord team, has decided that he will not have time to take care of the duties of the office as they should be, and has handed in his resignation. At this time no successor has been selected.

H. C. Mignery Dies Suddenly

Mr. Mignery took active part in the affairs of his county. Clinton Oats

Last year it was about impossible to get Nebraska Certified Seed Oats of the Clinton variety; but this year we are able to get Nebraska Certified Clinton Oats and they are very good quality. In tests made last year Clintons made much heavier yields than other varieties grown in the same field. The price on Clinton Oats have been much reduced this year. On short notice we can get Nemaha, Cherokee, Benton, Mingo, and Bonda Seed Oats. Tell us how many bushels you want and we will have them on hand for you.

Seed Barley

Good quality Spartan Barley will not be so plentiful this year. We have several truck loads of very good Spartan Barley and will sell it over your machine run or over the cleaner. Or if desired we can treat it with Certal M as a protection against smut. This Spartan Barley should be spoken for soon as the quantity is very limited.

Alfalfa and Sweet Clover

Orders for Alfalfa and Sweet Clover seed are coming in very good. As we have said several times we do not believe that there is enough Alfalfa Seed to supply the demand this year. AAA payments make the sowing of Alfalfa, and Grasses attractive this year even if the seed cost is pretty high. You can book your seed now with a small down payment and take it opt later.

Proteins

The long winter has kept the price of proteins pretty high all winter and it looks as if they will stay high through the spring season. We can furnish you with 40% Hog Supplement in meal at $100.00 per ton and pellets at a little higher price. This feed is guaranteed to suit you. We have Beefmaker at a very low price if you need a molasses feed for your feedlot feeding. This contains 12% protein and 45% molasses.

In cattle proteins we have Lineoy and Soy Bean Pellets for range feeding, and have Soy Bean Meal and Linseed Meal for barn or lot feeding. Ask us for prices on truckloads delivered your farm.

Corn

We have in stock a limited amount of extra good yellow corn. This is the driest corn that we have had this winter. Let us quote a price on truckloads delivered to your farm.

Chicks

Just had word from Bill Hatchery that many of the coming hatches are pretty well sold out. In fact we have had some dates taken and had to take the chicks at a later date than wanted. May we have your order early. Hope many of you will be in to our Hy-Line meeting Wednesday of this week.

New Plymouth on Display

Plymouth's new special deluxe four-door sedan (above). Throughout the new Plymouth line beautifully streamlined bodies are lower and narrower, seats are wider and headroom greater. At the same time overall exterior dimensions are reduced, but wheelbase has been lengthened to 118 inches and glass area is increased. Horsepower is raised to 97. Although fenders flow gracefully into the body they are detachable for ease in repair.

New Plymouth Features Beauty, Performance, Safety and Comfort

Brilliant new styling is combined with outstanding riding comfort, increased roominess, and sweeping mechanical improvements in the new line of Plymouth automobiles. Completely redesigned, the new Plymouth has a longer wheelbase for a better ride and more road stability, but less front and rear overhang for easier parking and garaging. While the silhouette has been lowered and the width decreased, there is more head and leg room and seats are wider. Typical of Plymouth's many refinements is the ignition-starter combination, with which a turn of the key starts the engine. The new Plymouths are sleek in appearance. New rear-end styling provides a graceful balance with the horizontal grille lines which emphasize the broadness of the front.

Fenders which blend perfectly into body lines are nevertheless separate and detachable, thus avoiding sheet metal panels so costly to repair or replace. The new Plymouth line includes nine distinct automobiles. Special deluxe and deluxe types are on a 118-inch wheelbase, one inch longer than last year's. Special deluxe models are: four-door sedan, club coupe, convertible club coupe and station wagon. In the deluxe group are the four-door sedan and the club coupe. In addition, Plymouth will build three deluxe models on a brand new 111-inch wheelbase, a two-door sedan, a three-passenger coupe, and a new body type, the Suburban. The 97-horsepower engine has improved performance and efficiency with a new design cylinder head which increases compression ratio to 7 to 1. A new chrome plated compression piston ring reduces cylinder wear and provides greater protection during the break-in period. There are improved oil rings for greater oil economy, while a newly-designed intake manifold induces quicker, smoother engine warm-up and produces faster throttle response. Body styling which produces greater passenger room without excessive bulk also increases visibility. V-type windshields have 37 percent more area and provide excellent vision without distortion. Windshield wipers clear 61.5 percent greater area and the rear window is 35.4 percent larger.

War Against the Press

In these columns we ordinarily prefer not to discuss the special problems of the publishing business, because we feel that newspapers and magazines ought to be able to handle such matters on their own time. But in the last few weeks there has arisen an issue so serious that the whole industry is flabbergasted, and we think the general public ought to know about it. The thing we are talking about is a bill, HR 2485, which the Postoffice Department has asked Congress to pass. It would increase second-class mail rates (these are the rates paid by newspapers and magazines) by about 250 per cent the first year, and another 50 per cent the year following. Even in these times 250 per cent is a whole of an increase. What is the P. O. trying to do? It says it is trying to reduce the postal deficit. But doesn't sound reasonable enough, until one reads the report of the Hoover Commission on P. O. Department finances. It says that the Department is not in position to recommend rate changes for its various services, because it doesn't know what those services cost. Until the Department finds out, continues the Commission, its "rate recommendations to the Congress cannot carry proper weight."

If the P. O. Department's interest in second-class rates were strictly financial, it would be understandable and laudable. Even the demand for a 250 per cent raise might be viewed sympathetically (especially by those who don't have to pay it). But such manifestly, is not the case. The nature of the pending bill reveals that the Department is more concerned with sociological and ideological matters than with revenue.

Under present law, publications which enjoy second-class privileges pay one rate of postage for the reading matter they publish, and another, higher rate for their advertising. Under the proposed law, the entire weight of the publication would be paid for at the same rate—but the rate would go up tremendously in proportion to the advertising contained. Publications which carry more than 75 per cent advertising more than half of the time would be denied second-class mailing privileges entirely. This is an exceedingly complex business, but the purpose of the new plan is plain. The Post Office Department is trying to set itself up as judge and jury to decide how much advertising matter should be carried by American publications. Obviously this is another move by the Bright Young Men of Washington who have been fighting advertising ever since the early days of the first New Deal. If they are allowed to fix the limit of advertising at 75 per cent today, what is to keep them from fixing it at 50 per cent tomorrow? And 25 per cent on the day after?

The power to penalize and limit advertising carries with it the power to destroy the press.

We do not wish to give the impression that metropolitan newspapers are completely at the mercy of the U. S. mails. They are turning increasingly to other means of distribution. In 1921 The World-Herald served 99 per cent of its out-of-town readers by mail. Today it serves only 45 per cent by mail, the other 55 per cent getting their papers by direct delivery, via railroad, bus and truck.

The proposed new rates certainly would hasten the change-over to direct delivery. The P. O. would be pricing itself out of business.

To some extent it might also price itself out of the magazine field. The large national weeklies, for example, no doubt would try to take care of their circulation as possible to newsstand sales, and would hold their mail circulation to a minimum.

But some publications would have no defense. The Christian Science Monitor, for example, has a scattered national circulation. It is almost totally dependent on the mails. Small-city dailies and weeklies also would be hurt, because under this bill they would lose so-called "free-mailing privileges" in their home counties. Labor, religious and educational publications also would lose their special rates.

As usual, the "little fellow," that conversational favorite of the bureaucrats, would take it on the chin.

We are not contending that there should be no increase in second-class rates. Frankly, we don't know if there should be, and we don't think the Postoffice knows. But if the Department is resolved to wipe out its deficit—in which case every taxpayer in the land should shout Hallelujah!—its first step should be in one word, recommendation of the Hoover Commission. By means of up-to-date cost accounting methods it should find out which types of service are being provided at a loss. Then it should try to stop the losses by making its operation more efficient. Finally, if necessary, it should raise rates.

In this bill the Postoffice is ignoring entirely the possibility that a large share of the postal deficit may be due to inefficiency and politicking within the Department. Arbitrarily it is trying to set a major part of the deficit against the press.

Newspapers, magazines and their readers should fight HR 2485 to the last ditch.

Capital Punishment.
Two months ago Senator Hugh Carson sponsored a bill doing away with capital punishment in Nebraska. Last week the bill was killed in committee by the close vote of 5 to 4. Tuesday Carson asked that it be brought up for consideration from the floor of the senate, and his request was granted by a substantial majority. Thus the bill again becomes a live issue.

In support of his bill Senator Carson wrote to a number of persons, governors, wardens and others, in states which forbid the death penalty. Their letters in the main support his contention that capital punishment does little, if anything, to lessen or deter crime. In fact, figures and statements furnished go a long way toward proving that capital punishment serves no definite end.

Among the facts brought out at Carson's hearing:
1. Capital punishment is not a deterrent for murder. States that have this penalty have a higher percentage of murders, in most cases, than states without the penalty. The state of Wisconsin, for example, had not had the death penalty for 99 years. In that time 551 persons have committed murder in some degree, an average of less than six per year. That average has remained practically constant in spite of the fact that the population has increased enormously in that time.

2. It is harder to get a conviction in states with capital punishment. A large proportion of jurors are unwilling to vote for conviction with the knowledge that the death penalty will follow. There is a feeling with many that taking life officially is little better than taking it unofficially. In principle many persons are conscientious objectors; they believe that the taking of life is murder, regardless of the means by which it may be done.

3. Imprisonment as the final penalty offers protection to the public in case of miscarriage of justice, a condition that is more common than most people realize. The last two persons convicted of murder in the state of Maine were executed by hanging. Both of them were later found to be not guilty, because the guilty persons, when it was too late, made death bed confessions.

J. N. Frisbie, warden of the state prison at Jackson, Mich., presents two points of view on the death penalty: (1) the inhibitory effect (if any) of capital punishment, and (2) the value of abolishing capital punishment in law enforcement.

"On point one, all the statistical evidence we have ever seen demonstrates that the death penalty is no deterrent to murder. . . . Further, it is our opinion that most murders are not calculated and most murderers are not habitual criminals."

"On point two, there is a valuable answer that is little known. Our own law enforcement officers and county prosecutors say they find it relatively easier to get convictions for first degree murder because the jurors know that the possibility of an innocent man being executed does not exist."

William C. Kindelan, warden at Howard, Rhode Island, has this to say: "Going back to the commencement of the eighteenth century in England, capital punishment was invoked for many, many offences other than murder and it appears that at no time during the period did it act as a deterrent to the commission of many of those offences and, it is my humble opinion that capital punishment does not act as a deterrent for murder."

One of the reasons most commonly heard in favor of capital punishment is the regrettable fact that persons sentenced to life imprisonment all too frequently are pardoned after a few years and then commit the same acts again. While this is true, it is equally true whether the state has capital punishment or not. The death penalty will not solve the problem if it serves no definite purpose, it should be abolished. The Quiz believes Senator Carson's bill should be passed by the legislature, signed by the governor and thus enacted into law.

Many people who wanted to buy a Quiz were disappointed because we ran out. Had they been subscribers they would have received their paper and at a price much cheaper than they can buy it by the week. Why not get on the list.

It seems to me this nation has gone hog wild on spending money. There is no limit. They talk about billions like they used to talk about thousands. Our present congress is called a spending congress. And the idea of spending seems to have spread to all of the subdivisions of government. What is borrowed has to be repaid or the borrower has to go broke and repudiate his debt. There is sure to come a time when the ability to pay is gone.

As we go to press I am sorry to note that there are quite a lot of March expirations which have not been renewed. These are still some February expirations still unpaid and both will have to be taken off the list after this week's paper is mailed. If you February and March expirations want the paper next week please send in your renewal in time so I can get your name back on the list. It always takes a day or two to get that done.

Winter is lingering in the lap of spring so long that it is causing much talk.

And now they are saying that when spring really does come and it is too late for snow, we will continue to get the moisture in the form of rain. Well, there are few summers when we get too much moisture.

There are a good many newcomers in Valley county this spring and this is an invitation for them to come in and join the large Quiz family.

TIME-LY TALES

Switzerland has been famous for its watches since the 16th century. But nobody is quite sure how the industry started. The most generally accepted story concerns Charles Cusin, a watch and clock maker, who came to Geneva in 1574 with a horse as his only possession. Some say he fled France because he had stolen the horse. Others claim it was due to religious persecution. Nevertheless, it was Cusin who formed the nucleus of a craft that is world-renowned for its products.

It will be fine if "the Cosmos" can dream up a wading pool for our very youngest citizens. I hear they plan a circular pool, something like the one in St. Paul. Any kind of a wading pool is a boon to a warm little tot on a sticky summer day. (How queer that phrase looks. "Sticky summer day" . . . gwan, there ain't any such!)

Now that it's a bit more springy, don't you think bicycles should be given that luminous tape treatment? You remember the firemen generously offered to stick it in place, so that bike riders would be protected when wheeling out after dark?

You remember that the firemen spent several December evenings at this task, after the tape was bought by the B. & P. W. club, but were halted by bad weather?

So now the firemen volunteered to continue taping bicycles, and if you have not had yours made safe for after night riding, you remember to get down to the City Hall next Tuesday evening about seven o'clock with a clean bicycle.

The styles seem to be in a cycle: we have gone back to capes, draped skirts, a sort of a general 1880 look. Including flowers, feathers and veils on our hats, parasols in our paws, a delicate, feminine look.

Imagine, after all these years of striving for self-sufficiency, now we're to look helpless again! I do like the hats though, don't you? Pretty, pretty hats.

Certain styles call for certain gaiters, it seems to me. And nothing makes me smile behind my hand more than to see on the street some of these young misses (who customarily appear in jeans) striding speedily down the street in a too-long skirt of hobbling narrowness. And usually wearing bobby socks and flaties, or boots. Gosh, but they can make their graceful young selves look awkward!

Tales of unseen monsters at large always cause most of us to put our tongues in our cheeks, and keep them there.

I know I didn't take it very seriously when I read about the depredations of some wild prowler that was loose down near St. Edward, and etc.

But when the animal comes into your own neighborhood and someone we know has real experience with it, then we get more serious ideas. When it's OUR pig, or OUR calf, then we wait to start a big hunt for it at once. The local hunters are all agog. And it is going to be mighty in-tempting to hear just what sort of animal the night raider actually is. After the wild, wild tales we have heard the past few days. —Irma to Congratulate Them.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Williams held open house Sunday afternoon at the Marcia Rood home, in honor of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

More than one hundred friends signed the guest book which was presided over by Mrs. L. L. Lewis, sister of the bride. Miss Marcia Rood, also sister of the bride, was hostess, and Mrs. Bert Williams and Mrs. Arthur Stillman, sister and sister-in-law of the groom, poured at the table, topped with an archway covered with gold leaves, with a gold bell hanging from the center. Graduated candles, with yellow jonquils and tulips flanked each side of the table. Nappkins were white, with Henry and Bertha, 1899-1949, in gold letters. Each guest was presented with a small gold bell, tied with a gold bow and an inscription like the napkins, on each one. Mr. and Mrs. Williams' son, LeRoss, of Kearney, had made the bells, and his wife made the lettering. Assisting with the serving were Mrs. LeRoss Williams, Mrs. Melvin Williams, Mrs. Cecil Severance, Mrs. Chas. Harmon, Bird Whitford, Nadia Williams and Katharine Severance.

Mrs. Williams wore a dark print silk dress and a corsage of yellow carnations. Mr. Williams had a matching boutonniere.

Bertha Rood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rood, and Henry Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leander Williams, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, March 11, 1899, by Rev. James Hurley, in the presence of a few relatives, because the younger children in the bride's family were having the measles. The bride and groom went at once to their home that was ready in the Barker neighborhood and the next day, the bride broke out with the measles.

In 1901, Mr. and Mrs. Williams went to Gentry, Ark., where they lived till 1910, when they returned to North Loup and farmed on the old Bohrer place, south of town, for three years, then they moved to Mira Valley living in that community for thirty years. The past six years they and their son, Melvin, have been farming the Nelson place in the Pleasant Hill neighborhood, and this spring are moving to the place just east of North Loup which they have bought. This winter Mrs. Williams has been in the Marcia Rood home in town and Mr. Williams has spent much of his time there when he was not busy at the farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams two sons, Melvin, farming with his father, LeRoss, of Kearney, and one daughter, Mrs. Beth Severance, of North Loup. They also have 10 grandchildren, all of whom with their parents were present Sunday. Coming from away for the anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. LeRoss Williams, Nadia, Sharon, and Richard, of Kearney; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harmon of Oxford, and Miss Marcia Rood of Clarks.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams received many cards, flowers and gifts, among the gifts: a set of willow-ware china, a mahogany complete with a matching bedside table.

A surprise birthday supper Monday evening at the Cloyd Ingerson home celebrated Sylvia's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Thomas arrived home Sunday from the west coast. Since February 1st they have been at Nysa, Ore., and they made a number of stops on their return trip. In Eugene, Ore., they saw Dr. W. J. Hemphill, Dr. Paul Hemphill, and Paul's son, Dr. W. J. the second. They also saw the Harold Schudel family at Corvallis.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Babcock and family and Mr. and Mrs. Derwin White and family spent Sunday at Fullerton with the ladies parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Stevens. A brother, Glenn, who is in the navy and stationed at Key West, Fla., is home on furlough. The Ralph Stevens family of Ord were also there.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Johnson were Saturday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Maxson.

The March church social held Sunday evening in the basement of the Seventh Day Baptist church was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Barber and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Swenson. A. I. Friesen showed a number of films during the program hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis were married in Pawnee County, Nebr., near Humbolt, in 1886. They lived for some time near Forum, Nebr., and came to North Loup in 1917. They lived on their small farm west of town, where Vernon Williams now lives, till ten years ago when their failing health made it necessary for them to leave the farm and they moved to their present home in town. Mr. Davis' health is very poor, but with the help of relatives, they manage to get along.

Well, not exactly a party. But everyone who attends is pretty sure to have a good time, learn some mighty interesting things, and perhaps win a prize or two.

Chemical Meeting
Thursday, March 24
ORD MASONIC BASEMENT — 2:00 P. M.

When a person really wants to find out something, he usually goes to the best informed person he can find. So, to learn about chemicals, we made arrangements with the DuPont Co., one of the largest manufacturers in the world, to send some of their top men here. In addition to showing movies, etc., and an interesting display of exhibits, they are going to talk and explain farm chemicals — what's best for the purpose, the advantages and faults, and all about new uses for farm chemicals. And, they especially want to answer your questions, so if you have a problem or a question on weed control, pest control, seed treating, etc., come to this meeting prepared to get an answer.

Everything is free, of course, and we want to invite all of you to be our guests.

Frank Masin, sr. Services Friday at Bohemian Hall

Eureka Resident for More Than 60 Years;
Active in Community.

In the passing last Tuesday of Frank Masin, for more than sixty years a resident of the Eureka community, the people of that section lost one of their most capable citizens; a man who was willing and able to take any part or place where his services were needed; a man who considered the call of humanity a personal matter.

Frank Masin, sr. not only lived long, but he lived intensely. He made every hour of his life count for something worth while. Coming to the community at a time when there was a demand for such service as he could render, he spent sixty years in doing what he could in time of need. He will be missed by those who knew him best, his neighbors.

Frank Masin was born Nov. 11, 1856, in Hostovleic Okres Caslav in Czechoslovakia, and departed this life March 9, 1949, at the home of his son, Frank Masin, at the age of 92 years, 3 months and 28 days. He came to this country in the year 1881, landing in New York, where he lived four years.

Febr. 2, 1885 he was married to Anna Hlavacek. In the year 1888 they came to Ord. That same year they moved to a farm northwest of Ord in Eureka township, where they made their home until 1927. Then they moved to the home of their son, Joe, where they have lived ever since.

To Mr. and Mrs. Masin were born eight children, two of whom died in infancy. Those living are Mrs. Anna Vodehnal of Burwell, Frank Masin, jr. of Ord, Mrs. Mary Gross, Burwell, Mrs. Rosie Sich of Burwell and Joe and Charley Masin of Burwell. They were privileged to enjoy a happy married life for more than 64 years.

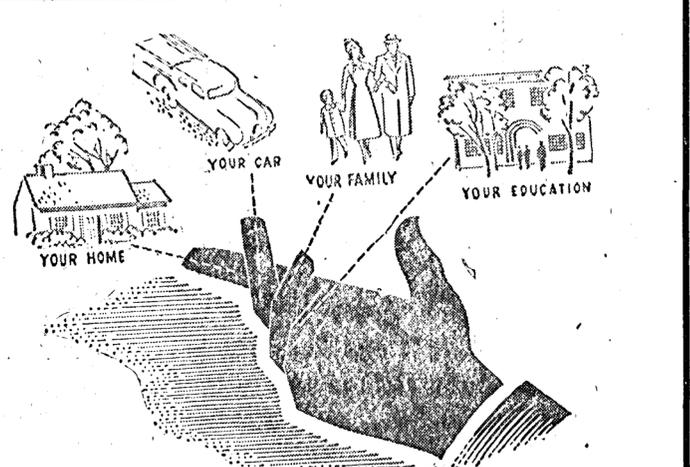

In his youth Mr. Masin attended grade and high school in Czechoslovakia and afterward learned German. After he came to America he taught himself the English language. He was one of the founders of ZCJBY Lodge Jungmann in his own neighborhood, and was an active member there until his death.

In the absence of a minister, it became his duty on many occasions to deliver a funeral sermon for departed neighbors, a service he was always able and willing to perform. For years he was a member of the township board and of the school board. He often helped the teacher in his district in putting on special programs.

Funeral services were held for Frank Masin, sr. Friday at the Bohemian Hall in Ord, with the Hastings-Pearson Mortuary in charge of arrangements. Rev. B. A. Filipi of Clarkson came to Ord to deliver the funeral sermon, speaking both in the Bohemian and English languages. Pall bearers were six grandsons: Lumir and Leonard Sich, Richard and Roland Gross, Richard Masin and Rudolph Vodehnal. Burial was in the Ord Bohemian cemetery.

Besides his children Mr. Masin leaves 25 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS.
The Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds under the sponsorship of Mrs. Richard Peterson, Mrs. Marion Strong, Miss Jacqueline Hunt, and Mrs. Irma King attended the Methodist church Sunday morning as organizations and sat together as guests of the church, Sunday being the "Go to Church Sunday" for the organization.

LEGISLATIVE NEWS LETTER

HUGH CARSON, 29th District

March 14, 1949
It looks as though an economy bill was fast developing in the Legislature. The fight is on to reduce the 1949-51 budget which is at an all time high. There is a feeling that property cannot stand added taxes and that the State tax base must be broadened in Nebraska is to try and keep up with neighboring states in services offered.

Some of the Legislators are starting to lose interest in the salary increase bills that are pending, and it is almost a certainty that the amount of any salary raise granted will be greatly reduced from the amount asked. Some of the bills will be killed. Last week the Legislature refused to raise from five to six cents the mileage allowance for employees who drive their personal cars in connection with state business. Some members consider this a reflection of what will happen when other appropriation bills come up.

The Sales Tax proposal seems to be losing support at the present time but no one will be greatly surprised if in the search for additional revenue, a sales tax bill should be adopted.

From the way things are going it doesn't look as though this Legislature could adjourn before the first of June. Committee hearings will be completed by the end of March then the long grind of getting your State Government in shape to go along for another two years will begin.

square and four inches long. He broke it in two across his knee and gave the Indian the smaller piece. He looked at the piece in his hand, and at the piece Charley kept, and acted like he wanted the big one, but he didn't get it.

Married in New York.
While living in New York State Charley had taken a fancy to a girl somewhat younger than himself and in 1884 he went back and persuaded Etie Conkita to come out west and make a home for him on his quarter of land, which he had proved up on that year. They lived on the homestead and raised a large family of children.

Of the three sons, Marshall, of Wilmington, Calif., Ed of Boise, Idaho, and Ellery, of Chicago, are living. There are also four daughters, Stella Grindey, Loretta Frazier and Grace Rowe of Chicago and Alice Reed of California.

Palmatier also carried mail for Bill W. H. Williams from St. Paul to Ord and on to St. Helena. He never had a chance to go to school, but nobody would believe it after visiting with him. His mind is still keen and alert, and he is never at loss for any questions anyone may ask him.

Became Postmaster.
But to return to the early days. In the early '80s Solon Pierson, a brother of Peary and uncle of Clarence, started the original Geranium post office. Later John Wolfe took it over, and then it went to Herbert Losey, Mr. and Mrs. Palmatier got it from Losey, and kept it until some time after the turn of the century, when it was discontinued with the coming of the Rural Free Delivery.

There was no salary connected with the office, and he got only about $20 for his year's work, which of course was not worth the trouble. But somebody had to keep it. After a while the post office at Mandersen, a few miles to the northwest, was discontinued, and Geranium got the extra business. H. P. Rhodes was proprietor of the Mandersen office.

Worked on Railroad.
Palmatier did any kind of work he could get in those days. He worked on the railroad between St. Paul and North Loup before the line was extended to Ord. He has very little rheumatism. He has a crooked little finger on his right hand which he hurt while working for Otto Fuss in the well business.

He has had the gripe several times, and once rather severely. He says his heart is going fine. He smokes and chews and has a drink of beer occasionally. He says his long life to working hard, taking care of himself and eating rough food. He is still particular about what he eats, and hopes to be around a long time yet.

Bud's First Vote.
He has had some interesting experiences. He says the first time A. J. (Bud) Shirley ever voted he voted in the Palmatier house in Geranium. When Bob Miller and Clara Coon (they now live in Burwell) were married at the Dies Boarding house in Ord, Charley was at the wedding. He says nobody can build a good sod house any more, because the sod is no good.

Yet Charley in his day made, or helped make a lot of sod houses. He is one of the few men still living who can tell how the job is done. If any ambitious young man wants to learn the trade, the Quiz is his man.

1400 Persons See Pesek in Wrestle

Probably because of the home town man, John Pesek, Havenna has been a good town for sport through the years. Came an interruption during the depression and the war, when wrestling or boxing exhibitions were crowded out of the picture.

But Durable John is as big an attraction as he was 20 years ago, and he proved it when he appeared to head a big wrestle card in Ravenna last Wednesday evening. Fourteen hundred people were jammed into a hall designed to hold only 800.

Pesek appeared in the main event and had little trouble disposing of one of the big time wrestlers, George Temple, of Santa Monica, Calif. The huge Singh Singh Talun, 6 feet 3 and weighing 310 pounds, found it tough going with Joe Dusek of Omaha, losing two out of three falls.

Many Ord people attended the matches.

Limits Eased for Weight of Trucks on Some Highways

12,000 Pounds Per Axle Will Keep Large Trucks Off Roads, It Is Said.

Recently F. H. Kiletsch, state engineer, announced weight restrictions would be imposed on a number of highways in the north and west part of Nebraska, beginning March 15. The original order stated that a limit of 10,000 pounds per axle would be imposed.

This brought a storm of protest from truckers in the area affected, because of the fact that such a limit would make it impossible for a semi to operate at a profit. Since then the axle limit has been raised to 12,000 pounds.

The two cities of Alliance and Chadron, together with many smaller towns in the area, are most seriously affected by the order, since both are a long way from either source of supply or potential markets.

Only 3,000 Lbs. Pay Load.
Before the additional 2,000 pounds per axle was permitted, a semi weighing in the neighborhood of 17,000 pounds, could carry a load of only 3,000 pounds, which would neither pay the owner nor deliver enough merchandise to be worth while.

Straight jobs can hardly operate at a profit over the long hauls, and for this reason, they are not used to any extent. Some of the later trucks, with the advantage of having double axle under the rear and are thus entitled to haul a total gross of 36,000 pounds under the latest ruling.

Most local truckers are not directly affected by the ruling. Harry Zulkoski of Romans line stated Monday that most of their hauling went over Highway 11 and Highway 92 east from St. Paul, and that there is no restriction on either highway.

May Hit Stock Hauling.
Joe Gontowski of Service Oil said that at the present time that line is not restricted in any way, but that he would not be at all surprised if trouble developed. Also, the Service stock trucks are permitted to go anywhere, and they might be called into some restricted area at any time.

Their oil trucks and those of the Worm transfer of Burwell travel over roads which are not now restricted, and which may hold up. However, Forrest Worm is meeting with a difficult situation in furnishing the gas for his contract with the state at Ainsworth. Highway 20 is restricted west of O'Neill, and so far Worm has not been able to figure how he can get to Ainsworth with his heavy trucks. He can use a small straight job, but does not find it profitable.

Harry Zulkoski says that the biggest load Romans has ever hauled out of Chicago was 22,000 net, or a gross weight of nearly 40,000. Since this was hauled on a semi with double axle in the rear, the gross weight was well within the present limit. However, this would be above the limit on restricted roads.

Highway 11 Weak.
With rain and snow continuing over the area, it is feared that many roads at present deemed restricted classification. Highway 11 is developing weak spots in places. Gravel highways in the area are more or less of an unknown quantity, since it is difficult to figure just how they have been affected by the snow and freezing of the past winter.

One of the serious situations at Alliance is the fact that the railroads cannot be depended on to take over the work of the trucks. The railroad is behind schedule with its hauling, and would not be able to take up the burden of the trucks on a temporary basis. It is estimated that bad road conditions might continue for a period of 20 to 30 days.

Saline County Is Faced With Real Building Problem

Three Bridges Out and Many Roads Now Need Extensive Repairs.

A preliminary check-up by a county commissioner of Saline county shows a serious condition of affairs there. Due to the severe winter and floods that have followed, three bridges will have to be repaired or replaced, and many miles of road will require extensive repairs.

The roads in Valley county were left in bad condition by the storms and melting snow, and 100 feet of one bridge is gone. What makes it worse here is the heavy cost of snow removal, which depleted road fund before the road building season for 1942 had opened. Compared with some other counties, however, we are still in good shape.

Two of the lost bridges were on Turkey creek, and the other on the upper reaches of the West Blue river. Many of the other bridges in the county are intact, but the dirt at the approaches is washed away, and the roads leading to them are closed. The county has sufficient funds on hand to take care of the expense until a new levy becomes available.

Marvin Pearson
Given Acquittal

Marvin Pearson, 25, Burwell trucker, was found innocent on an insufficient check charge by a jury in district court in Grand Island Tuesday. The check in question was given to Harry Live, stock commission company last Dec. 20, in the amount of $3,533.40. The jury took two hours and 35 minutes to reach a verdict.

Pearson is being held on a similar charge for a complaint at Wilber, and other charges are pending at Smith Center, Kas., St. Paul and Fremont. Bank officials, including Everett Johnson of the Burwell bank, testified in regard to the check. Character witnesses for Pearson were Rev. Dale Williamson, now of Oakdale, Judge E. W. Moss, Sheriff Donald R. Matern and other friends of Burwell.

Bad Check Charge Against R. Murphy

Sheriff John Smith of Greeley came to Ord Friday for Ray R. Murphy, who is charged with writing a bad check. Sheriff Robert G. Hall had Murphy ready for Sheriff Smith when he arrived.

In county court at Greeley Murphy entered a plea of not guilty and was bound over to the district court. He is being held in jail, as he was unable to furnish bond. The check in question amounted to some $56.

Local Businessmen Protest Road Rule:

Leonard Woods, Henry Bend Ed Jensen, Forrest Worm and Jack Romans made up an Ord Chamber of Commerce delegation in attendance at a state-wide meeting in Lincoln Tuesday to protest the state highway department's road limitation ruling. Around 350 were present from 4 communities.

Following a meeting at Lincoln Hotel Cornhusker, the group convened at the state house with the governor and state engineer present. Governor Val Peterson told the group that he would order the engineer to make a personal inspection of roads in the northern and western part of the state, with view of lifting the present 12,000 pound load limit as soon as possible.

Seed Treatment

We have recently installed a new Seed Treater and can reclean your seed for you on very short notice. We use only the very best seed treatment. It will soon be planting time so arrange to have your seed treated as soon as possible. As near as we know this is the first Seed Treater in this section of the state.

Seed Barley
We have several truck loads of Spartan Barley that is recleaned and treated and ready to go. This seed has been tested and is of good germination. The amount of this particular lot of seed barley is limited.

Seed Oats
Just received another 300 bushel load of Certified Clinton Seed Oats, Nebraska grown. This seed is much lower priced than last year. We had excellent reports on the crops grown from the seed that we sold last year. This is very good combine oats and yield and quality are both good. We recommend Clinton Oats for planting in our section.

Grass Seed
Grass seed is going to be hard to get before the season is over. We bought all the Crested Wheat that we could find last week and have been able to get another ten bags this week. After this is gone, we just don't know where to look for seed. Brome is a little more plentiful but it could very easily be hard to get before May 1st. We urge you to get your grass seed soon.

Alfalfa and Sweet Clover
As we have told you several times Alfalfa seed is extremely short and the way the seed is being bought we do not see how it is possible for us to supply the demand this year. We are having a very heavy call for alfalfa from the Eastern part of the state. Sweet clover seed is not so short but may be long before seeding is completed.

Hybrid Corn
The high producing Cornhusker 148, 75 and 63 are very popular and we have good stocks of all these numbers. Let us supply you with several bushels of these Hybrids that took 17 first in county Corn Yield Contests in Nebraska last year. A seed that is very hard to duplicate.

Chicks
Many orders for Baby Chicks are coming in now and hatches during April and first part of May are pretty well sold out. Place your orders several weeks in advance of the time that you want your chicks.

Glad Bulbs
A lot of the finest Glad bulbs that you ever saw at 50c per dozen. This is the same stock that we plant for our cut flower trade.

Quiz Finishes 66th Year With Issue of This Week

C. A. (Charley) Palmatier Makes Friendship Call

Only Living Charter Member of Big Quiz Family; Here 71 Years.

Birthdays are getting to be a rather common thing for the Ord Quiz, which started out into the world 67 years ago next issue, and has been keeping the public informed on current events ever since. W. W. Haskell was a young man in those days, and one of the men he visited while getting up his subscription list before he started the paper was Charley Palmatier.

Charley was also a young man in those days. Born in New York State, at Youngsville in Sullivan county, March 9, 1856, he had first come to Nebraska in 1878. With him came a friend, John S. Wheeler, who once lived north of Elyria. They walked from Grand Island to St. Paul, and the next day got a job off-bearing brick in a brickyard at St. Paul, owned by a man named DeVry.

Worked in St. Paul. This yard was located on the river near St. Paul. Charley's next job was working for Zach Letwick in a mill on Spring creek, working in the mill and feeding logs. He also teamed in flour for B. S. Haskell, who ran a store in the old Transit House, now the location of the Hotel Ord, but which was then located about where the Union Pacific engine house used to be.

It was a rather risky trip in those days. It took two days each way and usually camp was made along the river near Scott's Junction. Charley recalls that he stayed overnight there on several occasions with from $40 to $60 in his pocket, and that was a lot of money in those days. He ran a chance of losing it, but happened to be lucky.

Field on Homestead. It was not far from that time that he came to Valley county and filed on a homestead where he later located the postoffice of Arganum. As the law required residence on the land only a small part of the time, Palmatier got out and worked wherever he could to get money to live on. He was helping put up hay on the Calamus between the Shull and the Bloddy when he got his first mail box.

Another man had the contract, but he got Charley to do the carrying for him. He started carrying mail on horseback and carried it until the 15th and 16th of October, when the famous blizzard of 1860 hit. His route was between Fort Hartsuff and Fort Niobrara, a distance of 120 miles right through the hills. He recalls losing two horses in the blizzard, and he never went back.

Saw Many Indians. On his trail trip he would sometimes see as many as a hundred Indians on a trip. Mostly they were peaceable, but a mail carrier can take no chances, so he had little to do with them. One day he saw an Indian traveling to head him off on the trail and tried to get past him, but got headed off. He asked the man what he wanted and he said, "Tobak?"

Council Nominees Reconsider Their Previous Withdrawals; Both Slates Complete.

Howard Huff and Gus Schoenstein, incumbent members of the Ord city council and both nominated for reelection by the Citizens party, have reconsidered their previous decision to withdraw from the race and both names will appear on the ballot for reelection, it is learned today from Rex Jewett, city clerk.

Mr. Huff, in the 2nd ward, is opposed by George Hastings and Mr. Schoenstein, in the 3rd ward, is opposed by Ross Allan, these being nominees of the Good Government party. Lyle Milliken, incumbent member and Citizens nominee in the 1st ward, has Ed Johnson as opponent named by the Good Government party.

The city election will be held Tuesday, April 5 and a big vote is expected.

Kansas - Nebraska Natural Gas Co. Looks Over Area

Plans Being Made for Extension of Mains to Upper Loup Valleys.

S. W. Peel, a representative of the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas company of Hastings, made a trip up the North Loup valley Thursday, returning down the Middle Loup Friday to get information on the attitude of the towns of the area in regard to natural gas. He had two objects in view at the time: First, to have any interested groups write in letters which will be used as the basis for making application to the Federal Power commission for permission to extend their mains into the area; second, to arrange to meet with the city councils and village boards and ask for a franchise.

Will Ask Franchise. Back in 1937 a company obtained a franchise for Ord, and this company has since been taken over by the Kansas-Nebraska. However, the franchise has expired, so a representative will appear before the Ord city council at their next meeting and ask that a franchise be granted.

It is believed that this same company had other franchises in this territory, but if so, they have all expired. At Ord Mr. Peel conferred with Mayor Blessing and City Manager George Allen, and was given the assurance that Ord would like to have natural gas. He was in Ord about two hours, and went on to Burwell.

Visits Many Towns. Before coming to Ord he had visited in both Scott and North Loup and had received assurances there that natural gas would be welcomed with enthusiasm. He met the same reception in Burwell, and also in Sargent, Comstock and Arcadia, according to plans to visit Elyria and to Burwell.

The company already has permission from the Federal Power commission to pipe as far as Loup City, which is being done. The extension they hope to make, starting in 1950, will run north from Loup City, according to plans to a point about three miles west of Ord.

There it will divide, one branch running east to Ord, one west to Sargent with a side branch to Comstock, and a third north through Elyria and to Burwell. Further south one branch will run east to North Loup and Scott, and from the same point another west to Arcadia.

According to Plan. This is a development of plans described to a group of visitors to the office in Hastings Feb. 6, 1948. At that time a group of 13 representatives from Burwell, Ord, North Loup and Scott met with President M. G. Whitman of the gas company and the vice-president, a Mr. Nelson, to urge that the need of this area be considered.

The present development is along much the same lines as laid out at that time. Among the large potential users of gas are the Burwell and Ord light plants, the two alfalfa mills, seed drying plants and popcorn processing equipment.

Friday Wallace Doe, secretary of the Ord Chamber of Commerce, phoned the gas office in Hastings and advised them that the Chamber is behind the idea of getting gas in this area one hundred per cent. The North Loup Lions club has taken similar action by letter.

Next Thursday at the regular meeting of the Ord C. of C. the proposition of boosting for gas will come up for consideration. There is no doubt but that the action will be favorable. Other civic groups in the area are doing their part to see that gas comes into the valley.

D. L. Wolf Breaks Hip in Fall Sunday

D. L. Wolf, 88, suffered a hip fracture in a fall down some steps at the Ord veterinarian hospital Sunday afternoon. He was taken to the Clinic hospital, where Dr. Weekes did what he could to relieve the old gentleman's suffering.

Because of his advanced age, not much can be done about the broken limb. It will be remembered that Mr. Wolf had quite a severe attack during the winter as the result of high blood pressure, which still bothers him.

The Middle Loup District Belongs to Stockholders

With Cancellation of Old Bonds, the Total Debt Figures $100,000.

With the receipt from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation of the cancelled bonds, the purchase of the Middle Loup Irrigation district becomes a reality, and the landowners have acquired an irrigation system in working order for the sum of $100,000, payable over a period of 11 years.

The public, not only in the affected area, but all over Central Nebraska, will rejoice to hear of this final consummation of a difficult situation. The reduction of the total debt from $728,000 to $100,000 makes it possible for the district to take care of remaining expenses and meet the payments as they accrue.

Reduced from $728,000. Originally the district owed the RFC $728,000 and accrued interest, which the district was unable to pay. In order to get the district on a sound financial basis, the district borrowed from the irrigators and others interested the sum of $100,000, which was offered in full payment of the debt.

The offer was accepted some time ago, and more recently the district received the bonds, cancelled, together with the accrued interest. So now the district owes locally the sum of $100,000. This will be repaid by a levy of $1 per acre on all irrigable land per year. The money to itself, the success of the district should now be assured. Local ownership will assure 100 per cent cooperation, which is one of the prerequisites to success in any line of work.

North Loup Lions Go on Record for New Sumter Bridge

Vote to Take Concerted Action; Interested in Farmers in Sumter Area.

The North Loup Lions club, at the regular meeting Thursday evening, went on record as being 100 per cent in favor of doing something, anything possible, to restore the Sumter bridge to use as a crossing.

To obtain first hand information on the present financial condition of the county, with respect to bridges, C. W. McClellan, member of the county board, was present as a guest of President C. J. Gorman.

Mr. McClellan gave what information he had available, which showed that there was actually available for all bridge needs that might arise, the sum of a little more than $5,000. It would probably take this and some more to fix up the bridge, which would permit even limited traffic.

Bond Issue Needed. He stated that, in his opinion the only way in which anything could be done at present would be to have a bond issue. This would have to be voted on by the people of the county and might not carry, a comparatively small percentage of the people actually use the bridge.

One good reason for repairing the bridge is the fact that rural routes from both Ord and North Loup pass over the bridge. They have been laid out as they are to accommodate the most people with the least possible expense. It is felt that these routes should be continued as they are.

After much discussion a motion was made by Lion John Haskell that the farmers in the Sumter area be invited to a dinner in North Loup, and that some plan of action be formulated at that time. This was done and the arrangements were left to the civic improvement and community betterment committees.

Date Changed for C. of C. Meeting

Due to conflict, it has been decided to advance the general meeting of the Ord Chamber of Commerce to Wednesday evening of this week at the Knights of Columbus hall. The original announcement called for the meeting to be held Thursday evening.

It is highly important that as many as possible be present at this meeting. The findings of the Hospital Feeler Committee will be heard at that time, and the committee will recommend to the Chamber the course it deems advisable to follow.

Since it will be necessary to acquire the Miller hospital before July 1st, it is important that some action be taken at this meeting. Another matter that will be discussed at the meeting is the possibility of Ord being supplied with natural gas in 1949 or 1950. Make it a point to attend.

Groups Hold Joint Session Friday

The Valley County Extension service and the Soil Conservation service are holding a joint annual session Thursday, beginning at 11 a. m. The meeting is to be at the Knights of Columbus hall and a covered dish luncheon will be served at noon.

It is asked that those who attend bring a covered dish, their own sandwiches and cutlery. Coffee and ice cream will be furnished. The program will consist of reports of the past year's activities and election of members of the county extension board.

Three soil conservation films, "Water," "Soil and Water Conservation," and "Wise Land Use Plans," will be shown; also "Canebrake Thrills in Wild West Africa," and "Grain That Built a Hemisphere." All farmers and their wives are invited to attend.

County Judge Has Jam Session, With 3 Important Cases

Brand Inspection, Bad Check and Taking Auto on Agenda for Week.

Three cases of interest required the attention of Judge Charles Clochon the past week. First on the list, heard Saturday, was that in which Lester Lawrence was charged with issuing an insufficient fund check.

The check was given to E. J. Lange in payment for batteries. It was for $25 and on the Fort Kearney National Bank, date of Feb. 23. He was fined $25 and paid, together with costs of $18.50 and was released.

Monday Jack Romans was brought into court on complaint of P. A. Cloyd, brand inspector, and charged with two counts of transporting cattle without brand inspection. The dates were Feb. 4, and Feb. 10. Mr. Romans entered a plea of guilty as charged and paid a fine of $100 and costs of $4, and was released.

The case grew out of the transporting of cattle out of Loup county during the emergency, to get them to places where feed would be available.

Charged Monday with taking an automobile for wrongful use, Robert D. Marshall was fined $100, cost of $7, and given 90 days at hard labor in jail.

Late Sunday night Marshall took the auto of William Heubner of North Loup, drove it to Ord and was driving around town when apprehended by Sheriff Robert G. Hall at about 2 a. m. Monday. To date the fine has not been paid.

VFW Gives $25 to Salvation Army

Members of the Ord Veterans of Foreign War decided to give the Salvation Army of Nebraska $25, to carry out charity work during the year. The action was taken at the regular meeting of the post Tuesday evening.

Members also discussed baseball lights, sponsoring of a midget baseball team, organization of a kiltball team, and staging of a midget tournament this year. Preliminary plans for a VFW district convention to be held here in May were also made.

County Board Faces Threat of Injunction in Property Reappraisal

Valley County Red Cross Makes Ninth Place in Nebraska

Haskell Notified by Telegram Thursday of Splendid Record Made.

Last week, just after the Quiz had gone to press, John R. Haskell, Red Cross county chairman, received a telegram stating that the Valley county chapter was ninth in reaching its goal in the state.

However, soliciting was not nearly finished when that report went in, and it has continued since that time. A complete report from Arcadia is in, showing the sum donated there as $278.38. Only a partial report is in from North Loup, and much of the rural area is still to hear from.

Total Over $1,200. However, recent reports from Ord, Don W. Auble, chairman, give the amount here at $529.51, which in itself is more than the original goal set for the county. It is safe to estimate that complete returns will make the county total well above $1,200.

The following work by first ward solicitors is to be added to the report of last week: Mrs. Joe Jirak, $18.00; Mrs. Ed Jensen, $28.50; Mrs. Loren Good, $21.00; From the third ward are: Mrs. Ray Falter, $6.95; Mrs. Bob Hughes, $1; and Mrs. Tom Williams, $10.50.

In the second ward: Mrs. Hildred Pearson, $19; Mrs. Emory Thomson, $7.25; Mrs. Frances Norman, $5.10; Mrs. Jay Brown, $23.30; Mrs. Robert Hall, $9; Andrew Nielsen, $2; the report given the Quiz last week was incorrect in one respect. It was Mrs. Ernest Bennett who collected $11.75 instead of Mrs. Orin Keillon.

Baseball Meeting Thursday Night

Ord baseball stock took a slump last week with the resignation of Walt Douthit, who had been elected manager. Mr. Douthit felt that he would not have time to give the job the attention it deserved. Those interested have been studying the situation and are in hopes of finding another good man for the job.

For this purpose a meeting is called to be held at the Veterans club at 8:30 p. m. Thursday. At that time the manager proposition will be disposed of and there will also be some discussion of lights for the baseball field. If these can be put in a successful season will be assured.

KRASON IN SERVICE. Ign. J. Krason has received notification that his son, Floyd, is now in the service, and should receive his mail at Service Battery, 315 Field Artillery, in 401 Airborne Division, Camp Breckinridge, Ky.

Dissatisfaction Expressed Over Expense Involved

E. L. Vogeltanz Will Represent Citizens' Opposition Group.

When the Valley county board entered into a contract last week with a Cleveland, O. firm for a scientific survey of the county, at a cost of $16,850, the members did so in good faith, believing that it was a necessary procedure and the only fair way of arriving at new valuations.

Supervisors had given the matter serious consideration and had taken under advisement the fact that several other counties of Nebraska have already had this done, because of serious inequalities existing in property values.

The vote by the county board on reappraisal was not unanimous, two members, Joe Jablonski and Ellsworth Ball, Jr., voting "no." There is much to be said on both sides of the question, and this week it seems that at least one side is saying it.

Protest Developing. E. L. Vogeltanz informed that he has been retained by a group of citizens to represent them in opposing the reappraisal proposition. To state at this time just what is planned, Mr. Vogeltanz believes, is premature.

As the matter now stands, a majority of citizens seem to be against the proposal. In cafes, offices, wherever men gather it has become the chief topic of conversation. Many are emphatic in their opinions, but few are willing to be quoted.

The chief objection seems to be because of the hiring of an outside group to do the work. It is felt that some other method of revaluation could be found that would cost less and keep the money at home.

One man stated that he does not see why the $16,850 is not used to repair the Sumter bridge. Another said he does not see why the job should not go to the county assessor, who is a full time employee under present laws. A third said he thinks it would be a good idea to select one man for each township, and have them work out any reappraisal that might be necessary.

Of more than twenty-five men contacted, all but one were against the proposed reappraisal as contracted for by the board.

Will Start on Action. Ralph W. Norman, Valley county attorney, who told the Quiz that he was not consulted by supervisors in regard to the contract prior to its signing, states that the Cleveland firm has been advised not to undertake any printing or other expense for the Valley county job until legality of the contract is determined.

Whether Mr. Vogeltanz, acting for the citizens' group, will seek an injunction restraining supervisors from carrying on provisions of the contract, or if other legal procedure will be invoked, is not known at the present time. No doubt some action will be started, either in county or district court, within the coming week.

Believing the public is entitled to know what was done in other counties and how it is working out, the Quiz has taken steps to obtain the necessary information, which will be available for publication next week.

AAA Meetings to Be Announced

Sign-up meetings for AAA will be announced soon for Arcadia and North Loup. Cards will be sent out to farmers in those areas. Those in the Ord area will come to the office in Ord to sign up.

The office has transmitted about one third of the payment applications to the state office, and payment will be made from there. More applications are being sent in every other day.

The 1940 potato acreage goal has been set at 110 acres for Valley county. It should be easy to attain, as there are five new grovers this year.

Ord High School Spring Concert Coming March 29

Fifty-four Students Playing 14 Types of Musical Instruments.

The music department of the Ord high school, under the direction of William Nelson, will give the spring band concert in the high school auditorium the evening of March 29 at 8 p. m. Because of the winter weather, the band has been somewhat under an eclipse since the football nights of last fall.

However, Mr. Nelson and the 51 members of the band have been busy preparing for the coming of spring, and have arranged a very fine program for lovers of good music. The concert opens with the popular March Polo, which is a distinct hit with high school bands, and continues with Finlandia.

The second section of the entertainment includes the modernistic Pavanne, the Bartlesville Boogie, which is just what its name implies, and a touch of Spanish in Amparito Roca. In the third section are included ten numbers from Victor Herbert's favorites, Midnight in Paris, and Hosts of Freedom, one of King's best marches. In the latter Charles Munn is student conductor.

The final section includes eight scenes from the Sierras, by David Bennett, The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise, and closes with the familiar March Salvation. This is a well balanced program, giving all the different groups of instruments a chance for expression.

Program by Vocal Department, High School, Pleases

Girls' Octet Cancelled Because of a Case of Mumps; Trios in Place.

A very satisfactory attendance greeted the vocal department of Ord high school in a program given under the direction of Bill Nelson, music instructor, at the high school auditorium Tuesday evening.

Originally there were four parts to the entertainment, the girls' glee club, the boys' glee club, a part put out by the madrigal group, the girls' octet, the boys' octet and the boys' quartet, and finally a part by the mixed chorus.

The program was carried out as planned with the exception of the girls' octet, which did not perform because one member had the mumps. Instead Mr. Nelson substituted two girls' trios. The performance of the young people was outstanding, and they received much merited applause.

Spring Term of District Court

District Judge W. F. Spikes of St. Paul was in Ord last week for the regular term of district court. There was very little here that required his attention.

From here he went to Burwell, held court there and then went on to Taylor, completing all matters that demanded his attention in a single day.

Aviation's Forgotten Man Attends to His Trapping

Forgotten man of aviation is Johnny Moore, of Collington, N. C. He is the lone surviving witness of the first powered airplane flight, the last living man who actually lent a hand to the Wright brothers on December 17, 1903, when they put their flimsy craft into the wind and flew the astonishing space of 120 feet.
Johnny Moore is 62 years old now, weathered and carefree. He was 17 years old when he chanced by Kill Devil hill on that memorable date and helped put the Wright plane in position for its run down the wooden rails upon which it was launched and so became truly airborne.
Having thus lent a couple of brazen arms to this historic event, watching the three other flights made the same day, and then seeing the plane crash ignobly among the humpbacks, Johnny casually went back to his cot and muskrat traps and to oblivion.
For many years on Kill Devil there have been assembled both visiting dignitaries and local citizens, with commemorative wreaths and often as not a squadron of modern military planes to fly over. Johnny Moore, who lives within a stone's throw of the great monument to the first flight, never attended these events. He doesn't like crowds.

Puerto Rico Home-Building Speeded Up in Big Project

A 50-million-dollar postwar housing boom is helping to ease the extreme housing shortage that has plagued Puerto Rico in recent years.
First of the immediate projects is the huge Puerto Nuevo development in the suburbs of San Juan, where some 5,000 homes are being rushed to completion. Built by private construction interests through the personal stimulation of Gov. Jesus T. Piñero, it is the largest such development ever inspired and insured by the PHA.
Eventually a second 5,000 homes will be built in the San Juan area, while the ultimate goal of the insular government is to see an additional 10,000 low cost homes built throughout Puerto Rico. Each community will have its own schools, shops, churches and theaters, while local bus systems will provide direct transportation services to minimize travel problems.
Priced around $4,000, these new mass-produced homes can be bought by ex-service men on monthly installments. Most are two-bedroom homes, with bath, kitchen and living room.

Frozen Fruits and Vegetables

Frozen fruits and vegetables have several definite advantages over the fresh product. They are easier to buy, require little or no preparation for cooking, keep indefinitely in the freezer compartment of the refrigerator, are quite free of waste, and have uniform quality throughout the year and from store to store. Many products are available in frozen form when the fresh is out of season. Many people consider the taste of most frozen fruits and vegetables superior to that of the so-called fresh product, that has been hauled and hauled through the usual marketing channels. The vitamin content is high. Most people, however, apparently prefer the flavor and texture of first-quality fresh fruits and vegetables. Many frozen products are superior to canned fruits and vegetables in almost every way except ease in preparation and relative cost or price. There is reason to believe that the cost advantage that processors of canned foods have today will gradually diminish as the volume of frozen foods picks up and chain stores feature the products more.

Short History of Statehood

Hawaii has been a territory of the United States for almost half a century. Annexed in 1898, Hawaii has persistently petitioned for statehood and has waited longer for the honor than any other state, except New Mexico. Thirteen states founded the nation. Five were carved from existing states—Vermont, Kentucky, Maine, West Virginia and Tennessee. The first four were admitted to statehood directly. Tennessee was a territory for a brief period before being made a state. Two were foreign areas when acquired and were made states without being territories first—Texas and California. Twenty-eight others were first territories, then states. Two of the 28 comprised one territory before admission—the two Dakotas.

Shoe Industry Started in 1816

Most people have worn shoes of one kind or another for centuries. The oldest type of footwear known is the sandal, created some 4,000 years ago, by the Egyptians. The shoe-making industry in the United States started in 1829 when the Mayflower, on its third voyage to America, dropped anchor in the harbor of Salem, Mass. Thomas Beard and Isaac Richardson, shoe makers, landed with bundles of hides and the rough implements used in the making of early footwear. Shoemaker's tools in those days consisted of an awl, hammer, needles, thread, pegs, beeswax, knives, and a variety of rubbing sticks. In 1816 Elias Howe, Jr., revolutionized the shoe making industry by putting the eye of the needle in the point and gave the world a machine which was to do away with hours of home dexterity.

Striving For Class

By AL ARSENAULT

3 - Minute Fiction

JIM BISHOP flipped the coin at the newsboy and got the same reply he always got.
"Thanks a lot, Mister. You're sure looking good tonight. Must have had a good day at the office."
A good day at the office! Jim reflected that it had been a long time since it had been a good day at his office. He knew he was on the ropes, that the boss was only looking for a good excuse to fire him. Then he realized that this newsboy always had given him that same cheerful thank you every time he bought a paper at this spot.
"Hey, son. What are you always so cheerful about?"
"Why not be cheerful, Mister?" the boy asked seriously. "Seems like things are going all right most of the time, and even when they aren't I know they'll be getting better in a day or so. Ever since I got this corner, I've mostly had good days. I figure I ought to be nice to the people that make them that way."
"Why is this a good corner, son?"
"Cause all you people coming out of these buildings mostly buy papers, and when you buy papers, I make money. But even if you didn't buy papers, I still like to look at all of you because you look like class. I want to be class some day and come out of a building like that. That's cause enough to be cheerful, isn't it, just wanting to be class?"
"I guess you're right, kid," said Jim, and walked on to the parking lot where he kept his car.
On the way home he thought again of his own situation. Things hadn't been too good since the new supervisor took over. Jim had thought he was in line for that job. When he hadn't been promoted, it had hurt, had made him bitter about his job.
"I guess he thought of the newsboy on the corner. Wonder if he was ever bitter. He couldn't be, though. Not the way he always acted cheerful towards everybody. What did he have to be cheerful about? Just a youngster and selling papers on a corner. From the looks of his clothes, he wasn't from even a middle class family. What was that he said, all the people that bought his papers look like class. He wants to be class himself someday. Just wanting to be class is enough to make you cheerful."
When he got home, his wife met him at the door.
"Jim, it's good to see you. How did things go at the office today?"
"Just so-so."
"Again? Well, they'll improve. How did you get along with the supervisor?"
"Same as usual."
The next night Jim stopped at the same corner to pick up his paper. A new boy was there. Jim flipped the coin and the boy snapped out with, "Watch it, Mister. I got an awful lot of papers here."

The newsboy: "Why not be cheerful, Mister?"

"Where's the other boy?" Jim asked.
"Aw, I don't know. He's got himself another job, says he's getting class somewhere. He was a jerk, anyway."

"A jerk?" thought Jim, "a boy that wanted class. He even thought I had class. He figured you could be cheerful because you were trying to get ahead. Now he's gone up another rung."

As he opened the door when he got home, he noticed for the first time that his wife had a worried look when she came to greet him. He looked at her anxious face.

"Things went fine today, honey, just fine," he said firmly. "You know, I think that new supervisor is all right. Maybe he and I are going to get along. There's a new position coming up in the metropolitan department, and a recommendation from him would help me a lot towards getting it."

"Jim, that's good news. I'm so happy dear. I knew you'd keep trying to get ahead."

"It isn't getting ahead, darling, it's trying to be class. That's the thing that makes you cheerful, just wanting to be class," and he grinned down at the startled eyes of his wife.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

March 20, 1949
Chicago, Ill.
Dear Folks:
I am sorry I haven't gotten around to writing before this, but I never was one for writing. I guess I'm just a little bit lazy.
I've been in Austria and Germany for the last 5 years except for about one month in 1945. I sure wish I could get out there to see you. But the army keeps me tied-up to where I haven't any time. But I'll try my best.
I sure was sorry to hear Grandmother wasn't feeling so good. I sure hope she gets out of the hospital soon.
Elbery is keeping me at his place during my furlough for the last few days and he has sure shown me a good time and he is looking swell.

My furlough ends the 25th of this month and then I have to return to Germany. I am in the air corp and I am a Sgt. on the Air-lift between Frankfurt and Berlin in Germany. I've been in the service 10 years now, so I've only 10 years to go before I retire. I'll have my 20 years in the army finished when I am 37 years old. So there's no sense in leaving the army now.
Well I guess I had better close for now. But I will write again soon and will send you some pictures.
Your Grandson,
Harry Bartley
P.S.—Tell aunt Stella I said hello.
Note: Mr. Bartley is a son of Tom Bartley and a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palmatier.

Your Electric Light Plant

There are some Citizens of Ord that are wondering why the light rates have been raised and what is the cause of this raise. In this message facts about the plant expansion program are set out to explain the reason why the Mayor and City Council raised the rates.
The three past years covered a period of abnormal load growth on our electric plant. The number of electric water heaters increased from 182 in July 1946 to 403 in January 1949 and other load building appliances were added in proportion. With this increase in numbers of appliances there was a very great increase in the load requirement for each of the various appliances; irons increased from 500-750 watts to 1,000 watts; space heaters increased from 669-800 watts to 1,390 watts and the connected load of ranges increased from 7.5 - 9kw to over 14 kw for some of the late models.
This load growth required expansion of distribution facilities at a time when all materials used in the expansion were increased in price from 125% to 250%.

Line Material Comparative Costs

	Present Cost	Pre-War Cost
Line Wire36c Lb.	18.4c Lb.
Line Wire38c Lb.	22.5c Lb.
Line Wire33c Lb.	17.75c Lb.
Guy Strand	3.6c Ft.	1.65c Ft.
8" 2 Way Anchors	$ 2.24	$ 1.50
3 Spool Secondary Racks	1.85	1.27
Square Washers05	.0175
Brown Porcelain Insulators27	.15
4 Pin Crossarms	2.54	1.45
Primary Cutouts	8.85	5.65
Lightening Arresters	7.84	5.10
Meter Boxes	3.10	2.13
Meters	11.43	8.95

The cost of fuel oil had gone from 5.2c per gallon to 11.19c per gallon so with the increase in output the cost of production and distribution was rapidly increasing.

The excess generating capacity at our plant was being rapidly used up by this load increase and Consulting Engineers were employed to study our problem. Their report recommended immediate plant expansion which included building enlargement, a generating unit, cooling tower and a switchboard to handle present and future loads. This report took into consideration our increasing load and a study of the contract with R.E.A. signed in 1946 with a recommended rate change in this contract of approximately 30% due to the raise in fuel cost. This rate raise was incorporated in a new contract signed with the R. E. A. District for a period of five years from September, 1948. However plant expansion was necessary even without the R. E. A. load.

The plant expansion required financing and the loan was made by an issue of Revenue Bonds which were secured solely by the earning of the Electric Plant and not by taxation. To obtain this loan it was necessary to raise the electric rate 25% or sufficient to obtain a revenue high enough to retire the bonds in not to exceed 20 years, but it is possible to pay out in 10 to 12 years, and to carry on normal plant operation to take care of such additional load as might be added. Any reduction in fuel cost or other supplies will permit rate reduction.

The total cost of R.E.A. lines is paid by them from a loan to the District by the Rural Electric Administration and is not paid for by the City. Our plant expansion was necessary due to the rapid increase in our City load and to have reserve capacity for any additional industrial load which might wish to locate in Ord. The revenue from current furnished the R.E.A. District will for at least five years be a help in payment for the plant improvement.

There is no high road to immediate development of the Nebraska highway system. What is done must be done gradually, for two reasons: The cost of developing all the highways quickly would be prohibitive and would require much more men and machinery than could be made available at one time; second, if such large scale operations were possible, it would not be practicable. So much work going on in so many places at the same time would slow down traffic to a point where there would be little or no traffic at all.

Since the job cannot all be done in a hurry, it is important that state, county and city governments make the most of existing facilities and plan carefully for future construction, using modern design and modern standards. In order that a maximum amount of use can be made of existing highways and those yet to be built, it is important that four angles be considered.

First facilities must be maintained in a way that will furnish safe and efficient travel and at the same time protect the investment in them. An example of this is the order that is now limiting the amount of weight that can be put on certain highways in the once snowbound area. Without some safety restriction of this kind one might conceivably see the time when these same highways would be in such bad condition that no travel could be permitted on them at all.

Second, utility must be increased by applied traffic engineering including the redesigning of intersections, proper use of signs and signals, and specific traffic regulations to meet specific conditions. In short, cut out the bottlenecks. In the past, and even today, some intersections are so designed that the safe driver must take extra time to guarantee that safety. Such places exist and are not known by strangers and often ignored by local drivers. One of these existed on the road leading east and west north of Sweetwater, Nebr.

When a driver was going west on this road, he would come sud-snow removing, surface cleaning, sign replacement, repair of pavement marking and other operations which must be done to keep the roads in safe and usable condition at all times. Special maintenance includes extensive patching and any other work that is not included as routine. It might also include the re-routing of a part of the highway for repairs, for street carnivals or some similar reason.

Lack of maintenance creates serious traffic hazards. This is especially true of shoulder maintenance. If the correct level is not maintained, the shoulder may wash or erode away until there is a drop at the edge of the paving and a wheel going over the shoulder is an invitation to disaster. Such a condition can cause two types of wrecks; the car may be brought back into the highway so abruptly that it cuts across into the opposite lane and collides with oncoming traffic. Accidents of this type are all too numerous and can only be guarded against by constant maintenance. Level shoulders cause three types of accidents; head-on collision, side swipe, and car out of control.

Alaskan Highway
The Alaskan highway is also known as Alcan, the Alaska-Canada international highway and "the road." It was constructed in seven months of 1942 to supply airfields on the war-urgent flying route from the states to Alaska. Some 10,000 U. S. army engineers and 6,000 U. S. and Canadian civilian workers laid it at the average rate of eight miles a day.

Scout Troop Complete in Ord

Reorganization of a Boy Scout troop in Ord is now complete under the new scoutmaster, Dave Watson, and two patrols have been formed. Leaders elected for these patrols are Bobby Moore and Kerry Leggett. Meetings are held Tuesday evenings and boys wanting to join the Scouts are invited to see Scoutmaster Watson or any member of the Rotary club's Scout committee.

Leggett, will be moved to a location in the country yet to be determined but within short hiking distance of Ord, and will be offered to Cubs and possibly the Scouts also for their use this summer.

Rats and Garbage
Health authorities state that rats carry at least 20 diseases which can be transmitted to man. As one means of controlling these diseases, it is recommended that rats be deprived of their chief source of nourishment—garbage left lying in the open. This may be done by placing all refuse in covered galvanized steel garbage cans.

Jaboticaba—Grape of Brazil
The jaboticaba tree of Brazil is strikingly beautiful in appearance. Branching into a symmetrical dome-like shape, with dense light green foliage, it reaches a height of from 12 to 30 feet. Its grape-like fruit grows on the trunk, from exposed roots to major branches and on even to the ends of the twigs. When heavily fruited it is a curious sight. A visitor is apt to think that giant beetles are attached to the bark.

Murrel Edwards called at Melvin Williams Tuesday. Edwards expect to move where Williams live. Carl Wolfe received word Sunday that his father had a fall and was taken to the Clinic hospital. Mrs. Wolfe and the boys went to Ord and went again Monday. It was found he suffered a broken hip. He is a man 68 years old and it is hoped he gets along nicely. Della Manchester and Howard spent Wednesday evening at Harry Waller's.

Products of Formosa
The Island of Formosa normally produces large quantities of sugar, tea, rice and pineapples. It mines copper, gold and silver, and contains still undetermined deposits of today's even more precious mineral, petroleum. Its extensive camphor forest supplies the bulk of the world's natural camphor for use in medicines.

Calendar Jugglers

Two emperors of Rome can be blamed for the fact that February has only 28 days. According to the World Book encyclopedia, February had 30 days until the time of Julius Caesar, who took one day off to add to the month of July, which was named after him. The emperor Augustus took another day off to add to August, the month named after him.

Demand for Tests of Soil Increasing

The wide interest in soil testing has outgrown the facilities which have been available at the Nebraska college of agriculture. In order to meet the situation the agronomy department and extension service are expanding the testing laboratory equipment and personnel and will offer more complete tests than have been available in the past. The new setup involves considerable expense, a part of which must be paid by the farmers who submit soil samples for testing. Hereafter a fee of $1 per sample will be made. In all cases two samples, one of topsoil and one of subsoil should be submitted, making a charge of $2 for a soil test. Cartons and cellophane bags for sending in samples are available free of charge at the county agent's office. Standard Roadmarkers for U. S. Many crankups now are attributed to confusion of drivers suddenly confronted with a hodgepodge of unfamiliar-type signs. Granulated Honey Granulated honey can be liquefied by heating it in a water-jacketed container. Honey darkens and loses some of its aroma when held at a high temperature. Generally a temperature of 145 to 160 degrees F. for one hour will cause little change in its color or flavor, and this heat is suitable for all purposes of straining or liquefying for retail containers. Honey heated in this manner, bottled or canned while hot and then quickly cooled, will remain liquid longer than unheated honey.

Universal Postal Station Just Keeps Rolling Along

The Universal Postal station, composed of virtually all the countries and colonial areas of the world, was established in Paris about 70 years ago. The United States took the first step toward world postal simplification in 1862 when President Lincoln's postmaster general, Montgomery Blair, proposed a convention which was held in Paris in 1863. Although the convention adopted a useful code, further action was delayed by the American Civil war, and the Franco-Prussian war, notes the National Geographic society. In 1874 the United States, Egypt, and 20 countries of Europe met in what stands as the first postal congress at Bern, Switzerland. From the second postal congress in Paris in mid-1878, however, the Universal Postal union took its name and its global range. Sixty postal administrations then or promptly afterward adhered to the Paris postal treaty. The union's purpose is clearly stated in that treaty. It is to "alleviate the uncertainties, confusion, and excessive cost of international postal communications by uniting countries in a single postal territory for the reciprocal exchange of mail." Now included as one of 11 specialized agencies of the United Nations, the union carries on its work through its international bureau at Bern, opened in 1874. Attic Relics Often Offer Attractive Possibilities Attics can be wonderful places, especially when they belong to the family or friends of young couples just starting to furnish a new home. Many once discarded pieces of furniture can take up a useful life again in new guise. An old-fashioned dresser can be made into a smart, modern piece of living room or dining room furniture if the mirror is removed, the sides squared and the legs cut off. Given several coats of lacquer, it becomes a striking buffet or storage piece. Old tables are real treasures, for they offer many remodeling possibilities as well as being so useful and durable. Sometimes it is only necessary to refinish the surface of an otherwise satisfactory table, if the proportions are right, legs can be cut to the right height for end tables or coffee tables. The table itself, if too large, can even be cut in half and placed against the wall in foyer or living room. Smart home furnishers never discard any object after just a casual glance. A second look often suggests a possible use, and the ugly duckling may become the prize possession of the new home. Crinoids, Layman's Fossils Of the many visitors who bring fossils to the Chicago Natural History museum for identification, most bring pieces of crinoids that have been found, says Eugene Richardson, Jr., curator of invertebrate fossils. Attractive in themselves, looking like anything but a part of a drifting animal of the ocean currents, these pieces naturally compel one to wonder, on finding one in a beach pebble or a quarried rock, what they may be. Because the commonest crinoid fossils are the pieces of the broken and scattered skeleton, many of whose pieces are star-shaped, people have often taken them for "irradiations" of heavenly bodies. In reality the crinoid is a spiny-skinned animal. The entire animal is encased in a heavy armor of crystalline calcite, several hundred times as heavy as the animal inside. The star-fish is an excellent example of the crinoid. Copper GI On the peak of Mount Washington, N. H., 6,288 feet above sea level, stands the grotesque figure of a man. This pedestal-mounted, terraced figure is a copper soldier. He is clad in the latest scientifically designed Arctic clothing and is filled with an intricate system of electric wiring and electronically-controlled heating elements. The copper GI is answering questions that no human being has been able to answer with any degree of accuracy, namely, "How cold does it feel up there?" The copper soldier will be able to tell quartermaster corps research technicians for example, which is the more chilling zero weather with a 20-mile an hour wind, or 30 degrees below zero without any wind. And he will indicate with exact precision how fast a body loses heat at different temperatures and under varying conditions of humidity and wind with each type of clothing assembly under test. Progressive Changes in Oranges When oranges and grapefruit are still immature, the rind and flesh have a greenish color; the juice vesicles appear like grains of rice and are not distended with juice as in the mature fruit. The walls of these juice cells are thick and conspicuous. The juice itself is greenish-yellow to yellow, lacks aroma, is acid to very tart, and has a raw, immature taste. As development progresses and the fruit matures, the greenish color in the rinds disappears and, in oranges, the fruit takes on its characteristic aroma and orange color, or, in the case of grapefruit, a tawny-yellow color. Progressive changes also occur within the fruit, the vesicle cell walls becoming thinner and the vesicles distended with juice.

SHORT STORY

Call Of the Road

By I. DE LA TORRE

His sneakers raising puffs of dust, Billy raced down the path to the lake. Now he stopped, snatched an overhanging branch and clung to it, gasping for breath. After a backward glance satisfied him that the little white school-bus no longer showed through the trees, he jerked up his black trousers and shuffled on. "School!" he mumbled to himself. "I'm sick of it! And if Ma puts on any more crying acts when I talk about quitting, it just ain't going to do her any good. I could take my age and join the Navy to see the— Nah! too much orders to take. Maybe I'll just drift around, free like a kite." A thin column of smoke rising from the clearing caught his eye. "Funny time for anybody to have a fire on the beach," he told himself and dashed across. The two men crouching over the fire turned around as Billy approached. Both wore shabby clothes, and their faces looked as if untouched by water or razor for weeks. "You — you tramps?" Billy blurted. The two men looked at each other and the one sitting on an overturned lard can answered, "Yeah, we're bums. What you doin' here? Ain't yuh supposed to be in school?" "Sure. Just taking a vacation today," and Billy grinned, pleased with his wit. THE big man who had just spoken picked up a twig, snapped it and threw it on the fire. "Hey, Joe," he granted to his companion, "what yuh say duh kid joins up wid us?" He put his hand on the boy's shoulder. "You mean go around tramping with you?" Billy broke in. "Yuh know how tuh ride rails, kid?" Joe inquired. "Sure—sure I do." Billy wasn't as certain as he sounded, but from what he had seen of "riding the rods" in the movies it looked easy enough. The first tramp picked up a rusty can and with the aid of a stick propped it in the center of the crackling twigs. He was still poking it into position as he drawled out, "Hey, Joe. Member Horsey Sandler? Just heard other day he lost his leg ridin' onah Santa Fe. Trackman followed up his blood fer ten miles." "Mike, wouldjah ast dah kid tuh gimme his shoes? Mine's ain't got nutt' else on 'em tuh grind up fer chewin' tobacco." "Mine?" Billy cried. He held one foot forward for them to see. "These are my only school shoes and I—" "Yeah — yours," Mike snarled. "Yuh ain't goin' tuh school no more, is yuh?" He started to stand up but Joe motioned him down. "Aw, let'em have 'em. He'll be wearin' noocpapers 'round his feet soon 'nuf. We got 'nother forty below

Foot and Mouth Vaccine

Efforts of the Argentine republic to control foot and mouth disease with a newly developed vaccine have attracted attention of U. S. authorities attempting to stop the spread of this infection in Mexico. Argentine veterinary officials have used a newly developed intradermal vaccine to immunize cattle and sheep against the disease. Among a million cattle and sheep thus immunized 93 per cent were completely protected against infection for six months or longer, but the vaccine was not effective in hogs. Utilizing Pear Wastes Conversion of the sugars in pear waste into feed yeast is a new process now being explored in the state of Washington. Normal accumulation of pear waste of factories in this state amounts to about 96,000 tons annually. Laboratory workers have developed a process for continuous fermentation of pear waste into feed yeast to produce feed yeast of high nutritional value. 60 pounds of dry yeast being obtained from each ton of the wet pear waste. The present handicap to commercial operation is lack of a suitable continuous press for efficient separation of pear juice from the pomace.

Poison Ivy

Poison ivy is a plant which is either a low shrub or a creeping vine. The plant leaves, which may be notched or smooth, are arranged in groups of three on short stalks of unequal length. The leaves are shiny, dark green in summer and brilliant orange or scarlet in the fall. The plant may be found in the woods or in the open in dry or moist locations along fence rows, paths, roadsides, and in yards on trees and posts.

Equality Before the Law

82 years ago this month Nebraska attained statehood. Through all these years, her Great Seal has proudly displayed the motto, "Equality Before the Law." Nebraska founders wisely proclaimed that every citizen is privileged to enjoy the benefits of personal liberty. That tolerance, not prejudice, should prevail. That there shall be mutual respect for the other fellow and his individual rights.

Today, more than ever, folks in Nebraska realize that all this is a precious part of what we call Democracy—the right of every individual to choose for himself; to vote as he wishes; to drink a moderate beverage like beer.

Plymouth's new special deluxe is featured above. Brilliant new styling is combined with outstanding riding comfort, increased roominess, and sweeping mechanical improvements in the new line of Plymouth automobiles.

Completely redesigned, the new Plymouth has a longer wheelbase for a better ride and more road stability, but less front and rear overhang for easier parking and garaging. While the silhouette has been lowered and the width decreased, there is more head and leg room and seats are wider. Typical of Plymouth's many refinements is the ignition-starter combination, with which a turn of the key starts the engine.

The new Plymouths are sleek in appearance. New rear-end styling provides a graceful balance with the horizontal grille lines which emphasize the broadness of the front. Fenders which blend perfectly into body lines are nevertheless separate and detachable, thus avoiding sheet metal panels so costly to repair or replace.

The new Plymouth line includes nine distinct automobiles. Special deluxe and deluxe types are on a 118-inch wheelbase, one inch longer than last year's. Special deluxe models are: four-door sedan, club coupe, convertible club coupe and station wagon. In the deluxe group are the four-door sedan and the club coupe. In addition, Plymouth will build three deluxe models on a brand new 111-inch wheelbase, a two-door sedan, a three-passenger coupe, and a new body type, the Suburban.

The 97-horsepower engine has improved performance and efficiency with a new design cylinder head which increases compression ratio to 7 to 1. A new chrome plated compression piston ring reduces cylinder wear and provides greater protection during the break-in period. There are improved oil rings for greater oil economy, while a newly-designed intake manifold induces quicker, smoother engine warm-up and produces faster throttle response.

Body styling which produces greater passenger room without excessive bulk also increases visibility. V-type windshields have 37 percent more area and provide excellent vision without distortion. Windshield wipers clear 61.5 percent greater area and the rear window is 35.4 percent larger.

ALL IN THE FAMILY. THE EQUITABLE FAMILY

During 1948 thousands of families who wanted the security provided by life insurance joined The Equitable Society.

From every state in the Union—from big cities, from country towns, and from farms—The Equitable welcomed a host of new members last year, widening its family circle to a total of 4,150,000 men and women.

It is the thrifty action and self-reliance of this huge family banded together for mutual protection that makes possible the record of accomplishment which The Equitable brings to you in this annual report.

Of the $307,600,000 disbursed last year to policyholders and beneficiaries, $70,086,000 was paid out as dividends; and $108,500,000 was paid in death benefits. Payments to living policyholders were approximately 65 per cent of all disbursements to The Equitable Family during the year—indicating a continuing trend of utilizing life insurance as a means of providing living as well as death benefits.

Boost For Gas.

The time has come when it looks as though natural gas might come to the upper Loup valleys. The desire for this service and also the need of this service must be established before the Federal Power Commission will grant the company permission to extend their lines into this area.

It is a patent fact that the publicity wants natural gas. Those who have been so situated in the past that they could use it, are taking the lead in boosting for it. Users of bottle gas are equally enthusiastic. They know that for many uses natural gas is the perfect fuel.

There is no penalty to anyone in having gas piped into our towns. Non-users will not be affected in any way, but users will be benefited greatly. For this reason nobody should be against it, and the great majority should be boosting for it. But we can't get it by patting ourselves on the back.

Now is the time for action. Now is the time the company must show that gas is wanted, and that there will be enough gas used to warrant the expense of a pipeline. Now is the time when all organizations should write in to the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Company at Hastings and urge that action be taken.

For the past year or two REA has been the one most important issue before the people of this area. Today REA is established and is extending its branches as fast as possible. Considerable help was given this utility and much help was needed. Now another important development needs a boost. Let us all be boosters!

Aluminum for REA.

Senator Hugh Butler of Nebraska has released to the press what he regards as proof that excessive shipments of aluminum to Europe under the ERP have the net effect of reducing supplies of aluminum available for extension of rural electrification.

In this release the senator declared that he had been contacted by a representative of a European aluminum firm desiring to sell aluminum conductors to rural cooperatives and public power districts in the United States at an advance in price.

An offer like this seems to be very much out of place when western Europe is supposedly short of aluminum and our government is buying quantities of the material to give to several European countries without cost. If one European country has a surplus, that surplus should go to some other European country short of aluminum.

The people of Nebraska are not necessarily interested in what the ERP is giving to Europe, so long as the materials given are necessary to European recovery. But when Europe wants to sell this same material back to us at a sharp increase over the cost of the same commodity at home, then we should be vitally interested.

The Rural Electrification program is going ahead in Nebraska and in other states just as fast as the materials can be made available. Every pound of material shipped out of this country unnecessarily will slow down the work here at home just that much. A single shipment across the Atlantic can conceivably amount to as much as all the material used in a rural electrification project the size of ours.

It is not the premise of a local paper to comment on national or international affairs, but when such affairs affect conditions right here at home, then the problem becomes ours. Locally we are interested in seeing this rural electrification proposition a complete success, in the shortest possible time. It is our right to comment and criticize a national policy that tends to cripple affairs here at home.

What's Cookin' Ward's Column

Thursday was my day off so Mrs. Ward decided it would be a good time to put on some wall paper. I used to think I was good at that job, so we got busy and by night had a couple of rooms done. They looked good, I must admit, and I was looking forward to getting at the rest of it as soon as possible. So all day Friday I went around with my head in the clouds, thinking that nobody on earth could paper as good as I could. Pride must have a fall. I went home that night, walked into the house and looked around to discover that the Mrs. and daughter had taken charge, and had the bathroom papered. They had done just as good a job as I could, and the paper they used is supposed to be hard to put on. Let that be a lesson to you folks. Whenever you feel cheery, just keep in mind that there is no indispensable man.

Our old friend Joseph Prince got back last week from spending the winter in the west. He may not know it, but that was one of the smartest things he ever did. Of course he did not know it at the time, but destiny often has a hand in the affairs of men. He says he decided after the November blizzard that he would go to Denver and spend the winter. He thought he would get a break in his health, and the doctor advised him to go out west and "take it easy" for a while. I imagine how Claude would take it easy. He always was a hard worker, and one of the kind who can't quit except of necessity. He seems to still make himself useful in his new community. He is also editor of a pamphlet issued by the club and named the Longs Peak Spoke. As a Lion, I send greetings to Rotarian Davis.

Incidentally Mr. Davis did me the honor of quoting from one of my columns of a few weeks ago, my description of a bachelor. It is indeed an honor to have anything I may have written quoted, and especially in a splendid brochure like the Longs Peak Spoke. The quotation was written in jest, but one man really took it seriously and ordered his paper stopped. So it seems that you cannot always be appreciated, or appreciated by all people, but a man who can bat 400 can get into the big leagues.

This office suffered a loss and a gain last week. The loss was Miss Alyce Finley, who has gone to other work in Lincoln and the gain is Marlene Bresley, daughter of the Harry Bresleys, who is taking her place. Miss Finley had learned the secret of doing a good job, to make yourself necessary. Some people work a lifetime without learning that one essential trait. While she was necessary, we find that, like thousands of others, she was not indispensable. Miss Bresley is taking up where Alyce left off, and is doing a mighty fine job. It is the ambition of the Quiz to keep the local, social and general news departments constantly on the increase. Miss Bresley has charge of the social and local items, while I look after the general news. However, do not hesitate to report any items of any kind to either of us. We want the news.

This is not a political column and this item is not political, although it is concerning Congress, in which the game of politics is being played out at present to the detriment of the people who voted senators and congressmen into office. We did so, with the understanding that they were supposed to block Washington and accomplish a number of things that needed to be done. Most of these important acts of legislation still need to be considered, and all because the president wanted to put across his controversial civil rights program and the southern democrats were determined to block it.

I am not condemning President Truman for his program, and I am not saying that the gentlemen from the South were wrong in trying to block the program. However, it is that three weeks' time were wasted completely because of an interparty scrap that should have been compromised in the first place. As it is, the matter is no nearer solution today than it was when I went around with my head in the clouds, thinking that nobody on earth could paper as good as I could. Pride must have a fall. I went home that night, walked into the house and looked around to discover that the Mrs. and daughter had taken charge, and had the bathroom papered. They had done just as good a job as I could, and the paper they used is supposed to be hard to put on. Let that be a lesson to you folks. Whenever you feel cheery, just keep in mind that there is no indispensable man.

As it now is, much ill will has been engendered and it will be some time before the president to gain support for some of his promises made before election, for example, the repeal of the Taft-Hartley act. Meanwhile John L. Lewis has made repeal more difficult by his two-weeks' layoff of his miners. It was not at all tactful of the Big John L. to call attention to the need of the Taft-Hartley act at a time when labor is demanding its repeal. I am not so sure that the only real objection to the act is the fact that it bears the names of two outstanding republicans, and we have a democratic congress. If our county board met for three straight months and did nothing but fight among themselves, the chances are we would can all of them when they next came up for election. Maybe that is what should be done with congress.

I was agreeably surprised last week to receive a letter from Claude A. Davis, once of Ord and a brother of Clarence M. Davis. He is now living in Estes Park, Colo., where he is secretary and treasurer of an up and coming Rotary club. Only a few years back Mr. Davis was one of the best known corporation lawyers in Nebraska, and was living in Grand Island. Then he suffered a break in his health, and the doctor advised him to go out west and "take it easy" for a while. I imagine how Claude would take it easy. He always was a hard worker, and one of the kind who can't quit except of necessity. He seems to still make himself useful in his new community. He is also editor of a pamphlet issued by the club and named the Longs Peak Spoke. As a Lion, I send greetings to Rotarian Davis.

How the Other Half is Living

The first definite sign of spring showed up last week when The Nance County Journal had a story on the front page saying that Fullerton is making plans to celebrate the Fourth of July. They had a most successful one last year, and plan a repeat performance.

W. A. Brown, editor of the Friend Sentinel, said that news paper recently to H. C. King of Sutton. Mr. Brown's father, A. E. Brown, was at one time publisher of the Sherman County Times.

Levis Walker, 32, of Watertown, S. Dak. has been named secretary of the Broken Bow Chamber of Commerce. He succeeds Don Porter, who resigned to accept a similar position at Beatrice. For some years Mr. Walker has been active in Junior Chamber of Commerce activities.

A meeting of those interested in the Sherman-Howard baseball league was to be held at Ashton last night, Wednesday, March 23, for the purpose of organization. Representatives attended from Scotia. The Greeley county town will be a member of the league this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. James Duselt, sr., of Ravenna, observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary Sunday at the Catholic hall from 2 to 5 in the afternoon. They lived in the Sweetwater community until they moved to Ravenna eleven years ago.

Albert Bader of Palmer recently purchased the Federal Dam Boat livery on Leech Lake, Minn., and plans to take it over to run next year. The former owner, Andy Wandel, will handle it this summer.

Frank Atwater, owner of the Independent Oil company of Greeley, will erect a new service station on the lots south of the Smith Lumber company. Work is expected to start in a few weeks.

The Howard-Greeley power district is planning a building to house offices, warehouse and garage in St. Paul. It is expected that the building will cost from $40,000 to $50,000, and will be located north of the city light and power building.

Something Different

Ain't it just wonderful to be able to have oysters any time of the year? Since they are shipped in near-frozen in cans, our oysters are almost as good as the marvelous fresh ones available on the coasts.

This is a most wonderful era in which to live. Up until you come to the atom bomb and must enumerate that on the list of discoveries.

A list of current wants for Ord is certain to include, if any housewives are included in your group, some mention of getting away from the mud on our streets.

We all know why it is so bad, for we remember the ditching machines last year, and the grading and graveling, and too, we remember this past winter and all the tons of moisture it poured into our soil. It soaked us to China.

Younger mothers of the town long for a recreation program on the school grounds, directed throughout many long, hot summer hours by some capable person. Many of them think this program would do more for Ord than recreational facilities for older youngsters.

We talk about what they're doing in the legislature and "what they ought to do" . . . we're all very free with our conversation. Frequently we conclude our remarks with "something ought to be done about it."

Well, now we've got a senator from Ord; we are well represented. Now is your chance to get something done about things. If you have a pet cause, get behind it and push. Write and tell him your ideas.

You might be surprised; he might think they are good! I, for one, have been going around moaning because those six young women left for Lincoln last week. I am sorry to lose our fine young people to the cities. Perfectly well I realize the allure of some place beyond the reach of mother's apron strings, that urge to see far away places and hear far away music.

It didn't seem so bad when we lost them in ones, or even in pairs. But to lose six promising young citizens at once. That's terrible.

Emergency Service . . .

When emergencies arise, rely on our prompt assistance. Licensed plumber always on call.

There must be some program upon which Ord could embark that would be sufficiently enticing to coax some of these young men and women home to Ord as they prepare to settle down.

Since we do have a beautifully laid out golf course here, why don't we stress golf more? Right at our doorstep is this fine little course. It is a part of our park, and not so far that you couldn't walk out there to play occasionally, is it?

Yet how few of us bother. Because we have a good golf course is no sign we need to ignore it and go madly searching for other entertainments.

If there is anything lovelier than to stroll languidly about our curvaceous green course, under the bluest of skies, with the nearby beauty of trees to be seen in every direction . . . if there is a pleasanter occupation for a balmy June day, what is it?

Or for a warmish July day. Or the early morning of a scorching August day. Or the pleasant crispness of September.

Let's put some steam in local golfing. Let's teach the young people, and prod the older ones into joining the golf club and using this local delight. Let's put on a really high-powered campaign for members this year.

Then let's put on a campaign to get the members out to use the course. Of course it is not the current American custom to like what is now paid for; yet we might try it just once.

Our golf course is paid for. Let's make an effort to enjoy it. — Irma.

HUGH CARSON, 29th District
March 21, 1949

Two Legislative Bills concerning Nebraska banks were heard in Committee last week. One LB 458 allowing banks to keep a five day week brought to light a split in the Nebraska Bankers' Association. Testimony disclosed that a majority were in favor of closing an extra day each week but that there were about one hundred banks in the state that were opposed. One prominent banker charged that banks public relations would be damaged by the change and said that banks are not making as many friends as they should. He further declared that bank hours were pretty short now and that they should be open as many hours as possible. The hearing also brought out rumblings from some Legislators about excessive service charges that some banks, in their opinion, had instituted in the past few years.

Another proposal LB 426 would have permitted banks to establish branch offices for cashing checks and taking deposits in towns, within the same county, which had no bank. The opposition claimed it might lead to "chain store" banking and apparently convinced the committee. Both bills were killed.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Editor's Note — Mr. Prince changed the usual order of things in that he wrote his letter after he had returned to Ord, but readers will find it very interesting.

To the Quiz: I wish to give information of my trip to Denver, Colo. After our blizzard of Nov. 18, I decided to spend the winter with my daughter's family, the Wood Murrays. Of course John and I went with me as far as north Loup to see me off to a good start.

When I got to St. Paul the city was nicely ornamented with Christmas lights, then at Grand Island it was even more ornamented. Got my train at 11 p. m. and arrived in Denver at 10 a. m. Daughter Emma was waiting for me and they took me around to places that were new to me, and the large markets that Emma took me to later.

We went to see Mary Franz Shurtz who is managing one of the fine bakeries. We also visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis. Mrs. Davis is the former Mildred Daniels. They had just moved into their new modern home. We visited Mr. and Mrs. Billy Bartley in their fine new home.

Then one Sunday we drove through Red Rock to Evergreen, where skaters were skating on Evergreen lake to beautiful music. From there we drove up to Berthoud pass, elevation 11,000 feet, where I watched my grandchildren and many others skiing.

One Saturday morning I attended a radio program called "Breakfast at Baur's." During the program they called for Joe, the bald-headed man, and when I got on the platform the announcer presented me with a funny wig.

I also spent part of the time visiting my sister, Mrs. Anna Alfrey and her family. One of the nephews was married and they had a nice reception while I was there.

I was surprised at how much Denver university has grown. There are now 12,000 students attending, many of them married and living in temporary buildings. There are three parts to the university, the original university, a part near the civic center, and a third 1 1/2 miles northwest. It is a large city in itself. Many are attending under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

In closing I might mention that in these times of high prices a dime still takes you a long way in Denver. It is possible to get on in one place, take a train later and eventually travel 15 miles for only ten cents.

Yours truly,
Jos. Prince.

Cooperative Hospital Association Voted

Feeler Committee Suggests a Stock Company Be Formed

Report Is Accepted by Unanimous Vote; Much Enthusiasm Manifested.

Action taken by the Ord Chamber of Commerce at their meeting Thursday evening, practically assures Ord of having a hospital. The means of obtaining a municipal hospital is available, and it is now up to the public to respond by purchasing shares in the organization. At the meeting the old hospital committee, through its chairman, Archie Geweke, made a report on their findings. They learned it would cost perhaps $150,000 to obtain a hospital and give it to some religious organization.

Report Presented. Present Allen of the Chamber complimented the committee on its work. Then the report of the "feeler" committee was presented. This report is given below. Dr. C. J. Miller stated that his price on the hospital was $25,000. He said he would be glad to give it away, but it had been shown that gifts of that kind had little value to the community.

A vote on the report of the "feeler" committee was then called for and it carried unanimously. About 75 persons were present for the meeting and much enthusiasm was shown. The two hospital committees met Monday night, and out of this meeting a committee to carry on the work connected with obtaining the hospital was chosen.

New Board Chosen. The old and new hospital boards met Monday evening at the SCS office in the court house, and with due formality proceeded to elect a nine man board, by ballot, to serve as hospital board until the next general election.

Those chosen were Archie Geweke, Leslie Nash, Glen Auble, Mrs. Harold Weddel, A. R. Brox, Clara McClatchey, Rev. A. Clyde Ehret, Duane Williams and John R. Sullivan.

Thursday this board will meet with Ross Allen, president of the Ord Chamber of Commerce, and listen to the articles of incorporation being prepared by E. L. Vogt.

Weatherman Doesn't Like Pancakes "Meet Me In Ord" Day Is Postponed

Ord Chamber of Commerce officials, according to Ross Allen, president, are convinced that the weatherman doesn't like pancakes. For that reason, the chamber is postponing "Pancake Day" which was to be the first of a series of special "Meet Me In Ord" days to a later date. "We'll try to hold it next Saturday, April 9," Allen said. "But before we do make an announcement, we're going to try and bribe the weather bureau." Following Tuesday night and Wednesday morning's storm, Chamber of Commerce officials held a hurried meeting which resulted in postponement of the event. "Under present weather and road conditions, only a small number of our customers will be able to be with us Saturday," Allen continued. "And, we want every-

WE QUIT TOO SOON.
Last week the Quiz and weatherman Travis agreed that there would be no more snow this spring, so the usual snow total for the winter was omitted. Two snows have fallen since, which proves even the weatherman can be mistaken. The snow record is returned to the weather report this week and will remain until further notice.

F. Polak Breaks Parole, Is Taken to Kearney School

Frank Polak, one of the nine boys who broke into National Hall last May 12, broke his parole the evening of March 23, and was taken to the state industrial school in Kearney Saturday by Sheriff Robert G. Hall.

Frank was paroled at the time of the hearing to Opal Burrows, county welfare director, for a period of one year.

Groups Hold Joint Annual Meeting in Ord Thursday A. M.

A joint annual meeting was held Thursday, beginning at 11 a. m. at the Knights of Columbus hall. The groups presented were the Valley County Extension service and the Valley County Soil Conservation service. Because of unfavorable weather, only about 35 were in attendance but all enjoyed a fine covered dish dinner at noon.

In the business session the Extension service re-elected Floyd Bosten of Arcadia and Mrs. Leo Nelson of Burwell as directors for another two year term. Leslie Nash gave the annual report of the Soil Conservation service.

Miss Katherine Helzer gave the annual report of the agricultural extension service. C. C. Dale gave a talk on the farm outlook for 1949. A number of interesting movie pictures were shown. The session was much enjoyed by all present. It is interesting to know that the Valley County Soil Conservation service has sponsored four very important services in valley country. They are: the Soil Conservation service, the Weed Eradication service, the Weed Eradication district, the Loup Valley Dairy Breeders' association and R.E.A.

These extra services which the extension service has been instrumental in setting up have brought additional families and payrolls into the community, and have been of great service to the rural population.

Ed Jenisons May Live in Germany Next Two Years

Has Accepted Position With Civil Service at Stuttgart; Family Goes.

Ed Jenison has been offered a tour of duty in Germany of a minimum of 24 months duration, and he has sent in his acceptance. The offer came from the overseas division of Civil Service, which offered him a position as administrative officer.

At present the proposition is still more less indefinite, and while he will go in all probability, no date has been set for departure and all plans are uncertain. He is certain of one thing. He will take his family if he goes.

Hope to Leave in Late May. They are hoping that it will not be necessary to leave before school is out. Two of the boys are in school here. Gross is in the 8th grade, and Kippsey, aged 8, is in the 3rd grade. The oldest son, Merritt, is through high school and at present attending Nebraska university.

Mr. Jenison's experience in the army was right down the line of the work he will follow in Germany. During the war he spent a year as chief of civilian supply in this section of the International division in the Pentagon building.

Served in Pacific. His work there dealt with all the supplies for civilians in the occupied areas. He was later assigned to the joint army and navy staff under Admiral Nimitz as director of supply and accounts for the military government for several operations in the Pacific. After securing his release from the army, Mr. Jenison took over the Frank Iron clothing store, which is now owned and operated by Earl Klingensmith. At present he is farm veteran instructor under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

He went to Omaha Wednesday to get further information in regard to the trip. The boys and Mrs. Jenison are looking forward to the sojourn in Germany, which will be a wonderful experience for them. They plan to take their automobile with them.

Many Farmers in Ord for Tractor Maintenance Meet

L. F. Larson of Lincoln Proves Entertaining and Instructive in Talks. Bad roads and weather failed to keep all those interested away from Ord Friday, when a tractor maintenance school was held at the Ag. shop at the high school, with about 40 farmers present, besides vocational agriculture boys and G. I. trainees.

No less than half a dozen came to town by tractor, the roads being unsurfaced for auto travel. The trainees were from the Ord and Scotia schools and Bill Cook of North Loup had some of his Ag. boys present.

Preventive maintenance was the subject stressed by Mr. Larson in his talks. He was assisted by a Mr. Wayne, who is in charge of the tractor test laboratory of the J. I. Case company. Mr. Larson was interested in the things that would cut down trouble and repair bills.

Mr. Larson illustrated his talk in the morning by the use of models, showing the right way and wrong way to do many things with a tractor. In the afternoon interesting slides were shown and explained. "One thing brought out," said C. C. Dale, "was the fact that proper carburetor adjustment would save five million gallons of tractor fuel in Nebraska in a year. It was also brought out that nobody can set the carburetor of a tractor except the man who is operating it."

Grand Island Man Fatally Injured in Auto Accident

Car Hits Railing at McDowell Canyon Near Olean; D. Oyster Dies.

Duane Oyster, 23, of Grand Island died Sunday in a Grand Island hospital from injuries received early that morning when the car he was driving went out of control at the McDowell canyon three miles north of North Loup on Highway 11.

Mr. Oyster lost control of the car when it hit a very rough spot in the highway just south of the canyon as he was driving north. The car was thrown into the guard rail, the left door flew open and Mr. Oyster and Homer Lute were thrown out over the rail and down into the canyon.

To G. I. Hospital. Gerald Douglas, another passenger, remained in the car and was not seriously injured. The Hastings-Pearson ambulance was called from Ord and Sheriff Robert G. Hall was notified later. The injured men were taken to Grand Island as quickly as possible.

While Lute is still in the hospital, his condition is reported as good, his injuries consisting of superficial cuts and bruises. Mr. Oyster received chest and other internal injuries, which were the direct cause of his death.

Military Funeral. Duane Oyster, son of Claude and Hope Oyster, was born Oct. 28, 1925, at Clarinda, Ia. He attended school here and enlisted in the merchant marine in 1945. In 1949 he enlisted in the navy and was discharged a month later. He was a member of the Legion post at Grand Island.

Surviving are his wife; two sons, Nicke and Mike; his parents, one sister, Jerry Oyster, of Grand Island. His grandmother, Mrs. Keener and an uncle, Walter Keener, both of Clarinda. Services were held from the Church of Christ, Scientist, in Grand Island Tuesday evening, and the body taken to Clarinda to be buried with full military honors.

Keep Experience on City Council, Urges Cummins

City Facing Financial and Policy Crisis, Believes 4-Term Ex-Mayor. Voters of Ord, when they go to the polls at the city election next Tuesday, should reflect present conditions in the city, said M. B. Cummins, who served 4 terms as mayor of Ord prior to election of the present city administration.

"Our city faces a financial crisis as well as a crisis in our policy with respect to our rural trade," Cummins said. "With diminishing incomes and increasing expenses, we as taxpayers should elect the most experienced and capable business men we can get to accept city offices."

The three councilmen who are up for reelection, L. D. Milliken, Howard Huff and Gus Schoenstein, qualify 100% through successful operation of their own businesses and through familiarity with city affairs, and I believe they should be reelected," Cummins continued.

Big Vote Forecast. He believes voters are becoming more expense-conscious and should demand that the men who represent them make only the most necessary expenditures. Instead of thinking they have a mandate to spend more and more money, anyone elected to city office should study ways and means to hold down expenditures to the utmost, he thinks.

The $250,000 electric expansion program and the R.E.A. contract now in effect are cited by Mr. Cummins as complex propositions which can best be carried to completion by men already familiar with them. "In saying this I do not reflect upon the ability of other candidates for city council who no doubt are equally capable but who cannot have the knowledge and experience of city affairs needed in this emergency."

Economy Neded. A large vote in Ord next Tuesday is anticipated, though the only contests on the ballot involve the offices of city councilmen. In the first ward L. D. Milliken is opposed by Ed Jenison, in the second ward Howard Huff is opposed by George Hastings and in the third ward Gus Schoenstein has Ross Allen for opposition. Nominations board, police judge, school board and all other boards are running without opposition.

North Loup Group Hopes for Sumter Bridge Solution

Meeting Tuesday Night Selected Mon to Meet With Board Tuesday.

Thirty interested men braved the storm Tuesday night to attend a meeting of interested people called by the Lions club of North Loup to seek some solution of the Sumter bridge problem. A number of farmers from the big bend and Olean neighborhoods were present, but none from Sumter were able to attend because of road conditions.

W. O. Zanger, chairman of the committee, called the meeting to order, and first called upon C. W. McClellan, county board member, who has been in charge of the McClellan had asked Troy Hamilton to submit a list of materials required to build a 410 foot bridge together with estimated labor costs.

Copies of this estimate were handed out the water added called for an outlay of nearly $30,000. This, of course, is out of the question at the present time, with funds in the bridge department at a low ebb. He suggested that he did not believe it advisable to try to repair the old bridge.

Repair Suggested. To this most of those present agreed, but, since a new bridge could not be built at this time, it was believed that repair of the old bridge was the only solution for the time being. Bud Knapp, Olean farmer, pointed out that riprap could not be used and the vacant space be filled in with sand and covered with clay for a temporary solution.

McClellan said the bridge could not be shortened too much, as this would give the water added power in time of flood. John Edwards stated that a few years ago there was 20 feet of gravel at the place where the bridge is now washed out. This, it developed, is undrained, and it is believed that the new part of the present Ord bridge could be used when the new bridge is put in at Ord. This was discussed at length, but was abandoned because this would not be available for a long time to come, and immediate action is necessary.

Figures Too High. Bud Knapp said he thought Hamilton's figures could be scaled down. Bill Wedel said that material called for in the estimate was much heavier than was used in the old bridge, which stood for 40 years. He believed that using the

Cotesfield Girl Freezes Hands

Proof that the winter hung on a long time comes from Cotesfield, from Ord to Bassett, Tuesday morning. On the way back they decided to return by way of O'Neill. At O'Neill they were told: "Don't go south," so they went all the way to Norfolk and Columbus, making the total distance home 200 miles.

Bredthauer Hoping 3rd Time a Charm

Elmer Bredthauer, who for two straight weeks advertised a big sale of new and used farm machinery using full page space in the Quiz, only to see both dates cancelled out by bottomless roads, is hoping the third time will be a charm.

The Bredthauer sale now is scheduled for next Tuesday, April 5 and in the meantime the owner, auctioneers, clerk and other involved plan to keep their fingers crossed.

Reappraisal Considered Success In York County

Officials State Public Is Happy, Valuations Fair. Object Not to Raise Taxes, But to Equalize Unfair Ratings. Believing the public is entitled to all the information possible on the subject of reappraisal, and knowing that York county had this year done in the spring of 1945, the Quiz wrote last week to officials there, who sent much valuable information on the subject.

It is not surprising that a storm of criticism arose over the action of the Valley county board. The same thing occurred in York county four years ago. This criticism is due to two causes, both of which come from lack of information on the part of the average citizen as to the object of the reappraisal.

The real object is to leave the total valuation about where it is and correct the valuations that are unfair. The second thing that has aroused criticism is the hiring of people from the outside to do the work. This is done because strangers can work without fear or favor, and are unbiased in their findings.

Among those to whom the Quiz wrote for information is Joseph G. Alden, editor of the York Republican and has served with the following information. "It is my observation that the so-called scientific assessment of real estate by outside valuers works well in York county. The goal, of course, is not higher values, but equalized valuations."

Mr. Alden then gives specific cases in which values were equalized, and why they were changed, until all properties pay taxes in proportion to the actual market value. He states in conclusion: "I have yet to hear an informed person complain about the system here in vogue. There was a complaint at first, because many persons believed it was a scheme to raise taxes. When they discovered that the plan merely equalized valuations, the complainers subsided. I do not believe the old method could be reinstated in York county."

This is the opinion of an average citizen from an average town in a standard size county of Nebraska. York county and Valley are each 24 miles square, but York has twice the population in the town, and nearly 15,000 against 8,000 in the county, as compared to Valley.

L. C. Moul, formerly clerk of York county, and now assistant assessor, writes in detail as to what was done in York county and how the plan is working out. His letter is published in full herewith, The Ord Quiz.

This is to acknowledge receipt of your letter wherein you ask for information relative to the reappraisal of property in York. In the spring of 1945 the County Board authorized me as County Clerk to make arrangements for the classification of all real estate in the county and to secure competent appraisers for City of York.

Spring Concert

A spring concert under the direction of William Nelson was given at the Ord high school Mar. 29. It was an exceptionally fine one, probably one of the best high school concerts presented in Ord. The concert was very well attended considering the condition of the weather.

5th Birthday Happily Celebrated Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Parkos gave a birthday party Sunday afternoon in honor of Judy's 5th birthday. Judy is their granddaughter and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Parkos. The afternoon was spent playing games in the yard, then a lunch of ice cream and cake was served. The mothers of all of the children were there. The children are, left to right: Larry Parkos, Patty Bartusiak, Sharon Cetak, Shirley Cetak, Judy Parkos, Joyce Parkos, Sharon Hovarka and Allen Cetak.

Technicolor Film and Lecture Will Be Presented Here

"What About Little Denmark" Will Be Given by Traveler. A technicolor talking film and lecture, in English, will be given in Ord April 11, under the auspices of Ord high school. The film is entitled, "What About Little Denmark," and it will be presented in the high school auditorium.

Dan Christian Andersen, Danish newspaper man and world traveler, brings the film to Ord and delivers the lecture, which has been given all over the United States in the past few years. There will be no charge, but a good will contribution will be asked.

The film Mr. Andersen used in taking his pictures was either smuggled in from Sweden or shipped from America or England. Then, after the pictures were taken, the film had to be shipped to New York for processing.

It is also up to the members of the board to decide which will serve for each of the periods mentioned.

Miller Offered Renewed. The report of the "feeler" committee is given herewith:

March 23, 1949
Pres. of Chamber of Commerce, Members of the 1948 Hospital Committee,

Members of Chamber of the Commerce:
We, your duly appointed members of the "feeler committee" wish to submit the following report of our findings relative to the present hospital situation in the City of Ord.

1. We find that the Miller Hospital can still be purchased for the sum of $25,000. The only stipulation being that it be maintained as a hospital to serve the needs of this community. We believe this offer to be good until at least July 1st of this year.

2. We find that there are still a number of young doctors interested in finding a new location and we believe that no difficulty will be encountered in getting ample new talent into this community once the management of this hospital is taken out of private hands.

Would Raise $60,000. In view of the above stipulations and after making due investigation into the financial, legal, and other technicalities incident to the management and operation of a hospital, we believe that the best solution to our problem in this community would be the organization of a Cooperative Hospital Association with the end in view that they purchase the Miller Hospital and thereafter own, manage, and operate it as a cooperative enterprise.

We believe that to properly set up such a Cooperative Association as outlined above a stock sale of approximately $60,000 should be made which sum would be used to purchase the said Miller Hospital as is, then make such interior changes as may be necessary to bring it up to at least the minimum state specifications which may be required and to underwrite the cost of operation and maintenance for a minimum period of one year.

We believe that this stock should be offered to the public in shares of $1000.00 each bearing a minimum interest rate of 3% per annum. No restriction should be made as to the amount any individual may purchase other than that ordered by law which provides no one person shall have more than 5% of the total shares in any Cooperative organization.

Chamber to Take Lead. We believe that the Ord Chamber of Commerce should sponsor this project to the extent that a committee be appointed to supervise the circulation of such subscription list or lists as may be necessary to facilitate the sale of shares of stock in this proposed association in an expeditious manner and we believe that the Chamber of Commerce should also underwrite the expense of the circulation of these lists; however, this should be with the understanding that any and all monies so advanced would be a legal debt against the proposed hospital association and should be recovered immediately after its organization.

Respectfully submitted,
The "Feeler Committee"
Leslie C. Nash
A. R. Brox
Glen Auble
Henry Enger.

The proposition of natural gas was then taken up. Sentiment was unanimously in favor of the piping of gas into the area. It was moved that President Allen appoint a committee to contact the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas company and find out what, if anything, they would like to have done.

Welcome Signs. Welcome signs 3 1/2 by 8 feet in size of the reflector type were talked of, with special small signs of different Ord organizations along the top. The erecting price of these is $90 for the main sign, and $15 each for the organization signs. They are put out by a firm from Loup City.

C. Biemond is contacting the various organizations in regard to having their emblems on the Ord signs. In case he should overlook any group that would like to have these signs put on, some member of the organization should contact him.

Pancake Day. Earl Klingensmith of the merchants' committee reported on plans for "Pancake Day" April 2. It seems that everything is arranged for. Arrangements have been made for the Bohemian hall in case the day is disagreeable. Secretary Doe and Art Kroger drove to Fullerton and found out low they put on their Pancake Day there. An effort will be made to have a radio station send in a group for the day.

Triple-A Meetings Scheduled Soon

The Valley county AAA office has scheduled sign-up meetings for North Loup, Arcadia and Elyria, as follows:

At North Loup, Monday, April 4, John Skala, committeeman, at the Community Hall.

At Arcadia, Doe's Hall, Tuesday, April 5, Paul Owens, committeeman.

At Elyria, Bogus Tavern, Thursday, April 7, Emil Sedlacek, committeeman.

Cosmos Entertain Club Leaders

The Ord Cosmopolitan club was host at its regular meeting Thursday night to officials of both the state and national organizations of the service club. Representing Cosmopolitan International were Kenneth Dryden, past president and Dwight Merriam, executive secretary, both of Kearney. From Holdrege were Chris Ljen, governor of the Nebraska Federation of Cosmopolitan clubs and Clarence Cuchler, president of the Holdrege Cosmopolitan club.

R. Stevens Fined, Trucking Cattle Without Permit

Upon information furnished by P. A. Cloyd, state brand inspector, Ralph H. Stevens, Ord trucker, was hauled into county court on a charge of transporting cattle without a permit.

Guilty as charged, Mr. Stevens paid a fine of $25 and costs of $4, in Judge Charles Ciochon's court March 23, and was released.

Boelus Will Lose Bridge on River

The Howard county commissioners and Hall county supervisors met in joint session last week and decided to postpone indefinitely the building of a bridge across the middle Loup near the county line.

They thus rescinded a former action at which they had agreed to build the bridge at a joint cost not to exceed $38,000. The former bridge was washed by the June flood in 1947. Later it was moved to locate the bridge at a different point, which chances to be wholly within Howard county, but both counties were to share the expense equally.

The agreement to postpone action was taken after it had been shown that people in the area had access to bridges four to six miles in either direction. The boards were influenced by the scarcity of materials as well as the limited need for a bridge.

Mid-State League to Have 8 Teams

The directors of the Mid-State baseball league have had their first meeting of the season and have elected officers. "Doc" Donovan of Bluff Center is president, Andy Jensen of Boelus is vice-president and Connie Brady of St. Paul is secretary-treasurer.

Teams certain to be in the league include St. Paul, Ravenna, Shelton, Boelus, Cairo, Wood River, Bluff Center and Rockville. Places have been left open for teams from Loup City and Gibbon.

lighter timbers could cut the cost of a new bridge by as much as 40%.

It developed that the new bridge called for 36 foot spans, while the spans in the old bridge were 24 feet.

Robbins believed that the 6 by 18 inch timbers called for in the new estimate could be replaced with 3 by 12 inch timbers, such as were used in the old bridge.

It further developed that it would probably cost $35 per foot to replace that part of the bridge now washed away. In addition quite a bill would have to be made. It was also agreed that the current, which now hugs the north bank of the river at this point, would have to be deflected back into the middle of the river.

Rev. A. C. Ehret said he had no idea the bridge would have to be rebuilt. Walter Thorngate mentioned a time when 70 head of Zangger's cattle were on the bridge at one time, and it stood the strain without showing visible weakness.

property. Later on, in the fall of that year, we contacted the J. M. Clemmshaw Company, Appraisal Engineers of Cleveland, O., and contracted with them to appraise York property. A representative of the company met with the board and general in looking over the work at a cost of $5,300.00. At that time the cost was about $1.00 per capita population; since that time, I understand, the cost has increased due to increased labor costs.

It is not surprising that the action of your board has caused a storm of protest inasmuch as the average citizen lacks the proper information on the subject of assessments and taxation. We, too, were subject to a considerable amount of criticism. However, our business men and newspapers gave the subject wide explanation and placated much of the protests. I know you will be asked why it was necessary to get an outside firm, why not get local men to do it, and that the board is taking this means to raise additional revenue.

I am sure that your property in Ord was in the same condition as that in York before the appraisal; many discrepancies existed; poor houses were assessed higher than those of the better homes. We had local men do it in previous years and these inequalities continued on the tax lists. You know that a local man is criticized if he makes a justifiable reduction of a friend's property, or increases that of one of his enemies. This firm came into York without friends or enemies. As to the matter of additional revenue, it is common knowledge among taxing officials that increased valuations is not the way to increase revenue. The appraisal has one, and only one purpose, that is to equalize. I am sure that if you have a competent company doing the work you will agree with that statement of equality after the work is done.

The appraisal was put into effect in 1916 and at the Board of Equalization in that year we had 50 complaints out of some 2100 pieces of property; in 1947 we had one complaint, and in 1948, 5 complaints. Adjustments were made only where the appraisers were not able to get the proper information because the owner was away at the time. None of the complainants carried the matter to court.

In 1947 we hired this same company to appraise all of the villages in the county, and each year since that time we have hired them to appraise new structures. This latter proposition is not necessary as the appraisal can be done locally, but the owners of these new buildings request that their property be appraised by the same ones who did the original work. It is so much better than it has ever been, more than there is no comparison. Many of our most practical minded men have made similar comments. We have 20 men on our board and 4 of them voted against hiring this outside firm, but since that time all of them have stated that it was worth the money, and when it came to hiring them for the village work the board voted unanimously for it and these same 4 men were still members.

After working with this system for the past three years I am thoroughly convinced that it is the only way to get an equitable assessment of property. There is very little complaint about the matter now. Obviously, there are a few who still ridicule it but I know of no way of handling the tax proposition without some complaint. I would hesitate to take a job of assessing property where there had been no systematic method of appraisal. Don't let the "howlers" dissuade you from a decision so worthy of merit and support.

If you and your board with your assessor would like to look over the work we shall be very glad to show it to you. Officials from many counties have been here to examine the system. At the present time this same company have contracts for two towns in Nebraska and many others pending.

to go around by way of Ord. He also has pasture directly north of Sumter, and would have the same difficulty as confronts Mr. Zangger in making stock.

Change of Address. W. O. Zangger holds pure bred cattle sales annually, and has advertised his address as North Loup ever since he came to the valley. He says he will never willingly change his address to Ord. This would give the impression to people from a distance that he had changed his location, instead of his address alone.

An important angle not brought out directly at the meeting is that of the North Loup Cheese Company. S. C. Hawkes, manager, says: "The Sumter bridge is important to the Cheese company, because many patrons live in the Sumter and Springdale areas, and this source of supply is difficult to reach without the bridge."

Antiques
We are interested in buying anything in very good old dishes and glassware. We don't care to buy dishes that are chipped or cracked, but if it is old and good quality we are anxious to take a look at it.

This past week we have had the opportunity of buying several nice lots of real good antiques and believe that those that sold them to us were satisfied with the prices, as we paid more for them than such articles bring at auctions or from the average antique buyer. If you have something of this sort to sell drop us a card or come in and see us and tell us what you have that you want to dispose of.

We would like to buy anything in Milk Glass, Caramel Slag, Purple Slag or Custard Glass Colored Goblets, Calender Plates or Plates with pictures of horses on them.

If you like antiques come in and see what we have on hand. Perhaps we have something that you want. If there is a certain design that you are collecting, let us help you find what you need in your collection.

Mr. Schultz was born in Ogle county, Ill., Jan. 10, 1856. He came to Valley county in 1887, with his brother, Clint, working for the Burlington railroad, helping out in the railroad to Burwell.

He has lived in Valley county 62 years. He says in all those sixty-two years he never saw as much cloudy stormy weather as we have had the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. Schultz celebrated their 53th wedding anniversary on Monday of birthday. They have two daughters, Mrs. Ruby McGinley and Mrs. Olive Millican of Torrance, Calif., and two sons, Duane of Torrance, Calif., and Halsey of Omaha.

Highway 56, West of North Loup, in Serious Condition

Highway 56, west of North Loup past the cemetery has been in an impassible condition most of the winter since the November 15 blizzard, and the past week mud has been so deep that a late model car could not possibly get through.

Tuesday state men did some work on the worst spot but rain drove them out. This road condition has worked a hardship on farmers who live west and south of North Loup and usually come to North Loup to trade and North Loup business men have tried unavailingly to get something done.

One farmer came in and got stuck in the mud hole, hired a wrecker to pull him out, which cost $200. When he went home, he got stuck again, and this time it cost $300 to have a farmer pull him out. Some farmers who like to trade in North Loup, drive the extra miles to Ord and down the highway, buy their groceries here and go back the same way.

Probably there are other road conditions as bad but this particular road has been chief subject of discussion for many weeks in North Loup.

Doughnuts, Here and There
In Pennsylvania the round cake with the hole is known as a cruller and the twisted piece of dough is known as a donut. Then, down South, in certain sections, what is known as a doughnut is referred to as a "cake donut" or "fried cake."

Smithsonian Institution
The Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C., was established by statute (1846) under terms of the will of James Smithson, an Englishman, who bequeathed his fortune (1826) to the United States to found an institution for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men."

Weed District Has Bought Machine to Clean Seed Grains

"Will Pay for Itself in Results," Reports Chairman Henry Janus.

Farmers of Valley county are going after seed cleaning and treatment in a big way. For this purpose they have purchased a portable seed cleaner and treader at a cost of about $1,700, which is being paid for with an assessment of 2¢ of a mill per acre.

The new machine arrived Saturday and Henry Janus, chairman, C. C. Dale county agent, and Jim Sobon, who will operate the machine, plan to get it going full speed this week. There is a big demand for use of the machine in cleaning seed and it should be kept going full time.

Clean Seed at Cost. Charges for work are designed to cover the actual cost of operation. Charges this year will be ten cents per bushel for cleaning small grain, with an added two cents per bushel for fumigation treatment; one cent a pound for clover and alfalfa and $3 an hour for bromine grass seed. Minimum charge of $5 is made per job.

Cleaning of seed eliminates weed seed that causes trouble later on. Chemical treatment controls stinking smut of wheat, covered smut of barley, all oats smuts, kernel smut of sorghums and stem smut of rye. These diseases are carried on the seed and are killed by fumigation.

Towed by Jeep. Plant Pathologist Aiden F. Sherf of the University of Nebraska, says treatment also reduces losses from seedling blight, and in cold, wet springs treatment is especially beneficial. The Valley county machine is of the trailer type and will be pulled behind the district's weed sprayer jeep.

Ownership of seed cleaning and treating equipment will be of special benefit to Valley county farmers, who will not find it necessary to invest in equipment of their own, or haul their seed to some place where such equipment is available.

The business that rests on its oars has a long pull ahead. Advertise in the QUIZ and keep the public informed.

Ord Farmers Store Holds Meeting on Soil Fertility

The Ord Farmers store held a very interesting and instructive meeting on soil fertility at the Knights of Columbus hall Friday evening. The attendance was quite satisfactory, considering the fact that bad roads kept many farmers from attending.

Present were D. D. Wainwright, representative of the Agrifirst Chemical company of Lincoln, and Joe Tunning, of the Spencer Chemical company of Parsons, Kan. A couple of colored moving pictures were shown and the man gave talks on soil fertility and fertilizer.

Humans Affected. They told how much mineral was taken out of the soil by the large yields now being grown, resulting in a deficiency of some vital elements which must be replaced if the large yields are to continue.

Also of interest is the fact that was brought out that both animals and human beings are affected indirectly by this soil deficiency, since the vegetable foods they eat can be lacking in minerals important to animal life. Coffee and doughnuts were served at the close of the meeting.

These men, selling a so-called Live Yeast Mineralized Supplement, are working in pairs and one claims to be a representative of the United States Department of Agriculture. Their story is that the Department of Agriculture is subsidizing their product to the extent of 50% of the cost, thus enabling them to sell it at half price of $100 per ton.

They claim that their product is subsidized because the government is trying to help the farmer and rancher get his winter weakened cows back into good condition for calving. On the strength of these claims they have sold many tons of their product in the Brewster area.

Any bonafide representative of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, carries his credentials in the form of a card which shows that he is an employee of the department. Any farmer who is approached by any stranger claiming to represent the department should ask to see his identification card. He will willingly show his card if he is employed by the department.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture is not subsidizing any type of livestock supplement for sale to farmers. If a farmer believes that his stock needs minerals, or other supplements he can buy them through established local dealers, who are engaged in a legitimate business.

If any salesman claiming to represent the U. S. or State Department of Agriculture or the Agriculture college shows up in Valley county, we would appreciate having it reported to the county agent's office at once. Please get the number of his car and report it also.

County Agent Is Issuing Warning About Salesmen

"Demand Credentials", Says Dale; Bonafide Agents Carry Cards.

The county agent's office is issuing a warning to cattle growers of Valley county regarding the sales tactics of certain salesmen of mineralized supplement who are reported working in the area around Brewster.

What's Cookin' Ward's Column

Here at the Quiz office we have the news and stories that are worth a copy boy to run the news stories down to the linotypes, the material descends to the regions where the devil reigns (printer's devil, that is) by means of what was once a clothes chute. So we write it up and chute it down stairs to the linotype operators. Considering the kind of material we sometimes put out, it would not be at all out of place to call it "Chuting the Bull."

Hank Starra, who is willing away the happy hours these days wrestling with tax schedules, had a few idle moments one day last week and regaled his pals, Emil Vodehnal and Chris Beiers, to say nothing of a visiting columnist, with a rather tall tale about catching many riggers in the rigger trap the preceding Sunday. He said he caught fifteen, but Chris assured the writer that he originally started telling about thirty. If he figures his schedules the way he was figuring his fish, I am afraid some of them will have an awful tax bill to pay.

Ran across Arthur Renfrow last week and had a nice visit with him. I made some remark about getting old and he said "You're not getting old John. The years pile up on you never get any older." I seemed to me that was a rather clever way of putting it. The last time I visited with Arthur he was a rigger at Hunters Point. If you don't know what a rigger is, he is the fellow who puts up the rigging on the ship, and the fellow which the other men do their work. It is a tough job, and a highly responsible job. One mistake by a rigger might kill half a dozen men. They are the first men to work on a ship when it goes into dry dock, and the last to clear the ship before it leaves. In an emergency they may work sixteen hours at a hitch. You must have what it takes to be a rigger.

And speaking of riggers, I never heard much about them until I worked for the navy. The first one I ever heard mentioned, and the last one I or anybody else meets up with is "Rigger Mortis." The riggers put up those ropes and planks in the night when the rest are asleep, and when the painters show up the next morning everything is ready to start work. From the bottom of the drydock you have to climb up about 40 feet to get on the staging, and you paint a strip about six feet high all the way along the side, after which the staging is lowered for another strip. Most of the painting is done with a gun and the painter uses a respirator. The first coat, usually put on in patches where it is needed most, is zinc chromate, and is put on cold. The big job comes with the final coat, which is heated to about 375 degrees, I believe. It is plastic and is put on under considerable pressure, with special equipment. It is a highly technical job and dangerous. The painter has to know his job, and the fellow who looks after the pressure equipment down below must know what he is doing and do it right. If anything goes wrong somebody stands a good chance of being scalded with hot paint. They must have known their job pretty well at Pearl Harbor. I did not hear of a single case where a man had that happen to him.

One thing leads to another. Speaking of accidents makes me think of one that happened to a couple of colored crane operators. They were working with the crane, which had a sixty foot boom. Somebody who should have been watching slipped up on his job, and those two men ran the crane along the drydock and hit an overhead wire charged with 22,000 volts. There was a double funeral the next day, and some of the colored boys from our shop got time off to attend. The colored man is the epitome of superstition. They simply couldn't get another colored man to take over that crane, so they finally got a white man instead. The last I heard, he was still running the crane and Old Man Luck was smiling on him.

These days everybody seems to be suffering from an attack of the "Gimmies." If you don't know what I mean, by "Gimme" it means "Gimme this, and Gimme that." For the past sixteen years and more the people have been getting used to having the federal government put out money for this project and that, for this excuse and that, and sometimes for no excuse at all. The younger generation never actually knew what it was not to have Washington putting out funds for some local project. Having been trained that way, perhaps it is no wonder that the people today figure that Uncle Sam should shell out funds, especially in cases where the demand has outgrown the local budget. Today we have advocates of the idea of socialized, federal subsidized medicine. We find many people favoring federal aid of the schools. These are just two of a large number of propositions which we, the people seem to think the government should help pay for. Most people are blind to what this would lead us into, and it is possible that a lot of people do not care. It is inevitable that, should the government furnish funds for any of these projects, the government will demand the right to say how and when the money will be spent. We are getting farther and farther away from the idea of governing ourselves and running our own business. If the present trend continues, in a few more years Washington will be telling us what we can do, and we will be doing it. If that is what the people want, well and good. I know, and you know, what the pioneers would have told the politicians if they had tried to run their business the way they are doing today. What this country needs is to wake up, stand on our own feet again, do a lot of "getting along without" if necessary, and give the spirit of independence a chance.

When You and I Were Young

Ten Years Ago — The government had appropriated $75,000 for the building of Ord's new post office. The site had been bought from Sack Lumber Co., which had bought out the Weller Lumber Co. yard. Misko was declared elected county attorney. The irrigation district was carrying its side of the water. Ord and Burwell had decided to submit the question to the voters April 4. James F. Barnes, 83, resident at that time of Greeley and Valley counties, died. Alvin Jensen was called to Lincoln in regard to obtaining a job on the late highway patrol. A picture of Chief Musquakot of the Kinnemakit Indian tribe appeared in the Quiz.

Twenty Years Ago — Maude Jackson bought the Curly Beauty shop. Ord's new water filtration plant was nearing completion, after which the citizens could drink river water. — Sophie McDeth bought the Haldeman property in which she had her beauty parlor. — L. D. Lincoln had bought the Ord Laundry and had taken possession. — L. V. Kokes and Joe Karty had bought a hardware in Loup City and Karty was in charge. — Herbert Hoover became President March 4. — Paul Pierce had won a free trip to Lincoln for outstanding 4-H work. — Mrs. M. L. Fries of Arcadia, 81, died. — Leonard Furtak was opening a barber shop of his own.

Thirty Years Ago — Ord people were being asked to donate old clothing to the Belgian relief. — It was decided that Ord needed a better band, and Kisty McGrew was hired as instructor. — Mrs. G. W. Taylor entertained the Woman's club. Mrs. Larsen of St. Paul and Mrs. Van Decar of York were guests. Harry Abernethy gave a talk. — At a meeting it was decided by a vote of 62 to 3 to sell the fair grounds and buildings. — C. S. Jones handed in his resignation as superintendent of schools in Ord. — The Gem Theater offered as an attraction the picture The Life of Theodore Roosevelt. — Marion Sanders was carrying the mail from Ord to Burwell by auto, which was quite an undertaking then.

Forty Years Ago — The Aaron Peterson family, who lived south of Ord started for their new home at Wayland, Mich. — Charles Goodhand had been awarded the contract for building the new Ord high school building, now the grade school. — A. J. Wise returned from a hospital in Omaha, where he had an operation on his foot. — With the ice going out, the North Loup river was very high. — Claude Davis, lawyer, was recovering from a siege of tonsillitis. — Willow Dell Stock Farm (G. G. Clemens and Sons) was holding their annual Hereford sale. — Wes Rawles was opening a jewelry store in Weibach. — Frank Ball of Losca sale had left to locate somewhere on the west coast.

Fifty Five Years Ago — Captain John Leo McDonough had received his appointment as postmaster of Ord. — W. W. Hasfelle had submitted to an operation in a Chicago hospital. — Kate Tetsy entered a number of friends at the home of Mrs. J. J. Tully, with a magic lantern show. — A fellow by the name of Ben Bridgford from Schuyler, had opened up a drug store in the place vacated by Vincent Kokes. — Dr. R. H. McCosson of Seward had bought out Dr. P. L. Gilman's dental business and was here to pull teeth for a while. — Charles Thrasher, with a force of assistants, had resumed work on the Ord-North Loup irrigation canal near McDowell Canyon.

Sixty Five Years Ago — A large number of land notices were printed in the Quiz by people who were proving up on their claims. The names of many are forgotten, but here are a few: Adam Smith, Edgar L. Stephens, Michael Dower, Peter M. Gilchrist, Stanley Pappernik, Charles E. Cox and Frank Vopat. The last named was a pre-emption calling for the quarter of land in Mora Valley now owned by George Bell. William A. Anderson was proving up on his quarter near the Plain Valley school. Of interest is the notice of Bennett Seymour on his land at Olean, which still belongs to one of his sons. Then there is John S. Wheeler who had his land notice in the Quiz. He named four men to prove his residence on the land, and among them was Charles Palmatier of Geranium, who can still be seen on the streets of Ord almost any day.

H. R. Ward Loses Ten Dozen Hens

H. R. (Harry) Ward of St. Paul had his chicken house raided recently and 125 of his best hens taken. It is believed the hens were put in crates and carried out to the highway, which runs past the farm buildings.

Hugh Linn Elected in Ravenna School

Mrs. Ward has been in a hospital in Grand Island, and her husband was staying in Grand Island to be near her. The Wards at one time farmed in Valley county. — You can now phone your classified ads to No. 17. Just ask for "Want Ad Taker."

Hugh A. Linn, who has been superintendent of the school at Laurel, Neb., for the past ten years, has been elected to the same position with the schools of Ravenna. He will replace Leslie Chamberlain, whose contract expires.

Mr. Linn is 42 years of age, married, has two children and served as superintendent at Dixon and Waterbury before going to Laurel. He is a graduate of Wayne teachers' college, and holds a masters degree from the University of Colorado at Boulder.

Ord Track Squad Begins Practice for Full Season

Eight Lettermen Are Returning; Five Meets Due in April and May.

Prospects are good at Ord high for track this spring with eight lettermen returning and a number of good candidates coming up from the lower classes. Coach Dick Peterson is not promising too much, but feels that the men will give good account of themselves in the coming months.

Eight lettermen from 1948 are returning this year, and they represent a fair cross section of the different events. Bob Moore and Ken Collins make a specialty of the 100 and 220 yard dashes, and were part of last year's relay team.

Jim Misko won his letter in the pole vault, and should raise his mark several inches this season. Dick Tolon, also a vaulter, runs in the low hurdles. It is possible that he may work into the relay team also.

Dale Faister won his letter in the high jump and should do well with an added year's growth. Harold Laursen and Kenneth Clement lettered in the 80 and were out early to develop their breathing. Paul Stoddard completes the octet with a letter in the 440.

Coach Peterson has promised to give some information on the new men and what they plan to do for next week's Quiz. Monday of this week came the first practice, and it will be a few days before definite information on a number of prospects is available.

Experience Needed. Events for which no experienced men are available include the broad jump, the high hurdles, the shot, the discus and the javelin. The last three especially require considerable time to develop winning form.

Track meets in which Mr. Peterson plans to enter his squad include a triangular at Ord, with Ravenna and Loup City as visiting teams. This comes Tuesday, April 12, now less than two weeks away. April 20 will be the Ord invitational meet.

April 27 or 30 is the tentative date set for the district track meet. May 7 will come the Trans-Nebraska meet, which will probably be held at Hastings. All records set there will be new records, as this is the first year for the new conference.

The Nebraska State track meet will come May 13 and 14. Ord will certainly be there if enough men qualify for the big event. The larger the squad, the better chance the school will have to make a good showing.

Noll Seed Company Chemical Meeting Approved Success

Bad Weather Kept Many from Attending; Foote Gives Fine Address.

A farm chemical meeting was held Thursday at the Masonic basement under the auspices of the Noll Seed Company. The attendance was cut down by adverse weather conditions, but about 40 were present.

R. W. Foote from the Dupont Chemical Co. was present and gave a most interesting talk on new chemicals that have been developed in the past few years, which do all that some of the older compounds did and more, but which are safer to use.

A new cattle spray, for example, has been developed, which is as effective as the older sprays, but which will not affect the odor or flavor of milk in any way.

His talk in general was about weed and insect control, subjects of special interest to farmers here. Present also was Newt Griswold of the Griswold Seed company. Door prizes were given and coffee and doughnuts were served at the close of the meeting.

This coming Thursday evening, March 31, the Nolls will give a farm fertilizer program in the Masonic basement, to which all are invited. William Burgess will be the speaker, and a film, 'The Life of the Soil', will be shown.

Mr. Burgess is a New Englander by birth, and came from an area where fertilizers must be used. Farmers and others are invited. Door prizes will be given and coffee and doughnuts will be served.

Mrs. M. S. Goldenberg and Freda of Omaha spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hansen, Tuesday. Mrs. Goldenberg, Freda and Mrs. Lillie Coleman went to Grand Island, that evening Mrs. Goldenberg left for her home.

Ice, Sleet, Worry Ord Electric and Telephone Men

Wednesday's queer mixture of ice, snow, sleet and rain had Ord telephone and electric men worried as the Quiz went to press. A drop of a few degrees in temperature would start ice to forming on wires with disastrous results.

Both George Allen, light plant manager, and L. P. Peterson, manager for the Nebraska Continental telephone company, reported that at noon Wednesday no lines were down in the immediate vicinity.

"We have quite a few lines down in Burwell," Peterson reported, "but our toll leads are still up. Several of the country lines around Burwell are reported out, too."

Ben Hackel Is Charter Member of Quiz Family

Ben Hackel is almost, if not entirely, a charter member of the Quiz family. When the Quiz claimed last week that Charley Palmater was the only living charter member, it thought that reports might come in from others.

Ben came from Lincoln on business and thought it might be a good time to press his claims to charter membership. Ben was 9 years old when the Quiz started up in business in 1882, and his parents took the paper right from the first issue.

When Ben grew up and went to farming for himself, he subscribed for the Quiz and has had the paper constantly all these years. So Ben has been in a Quiz home for 67 years, and he hopes to keep on taking and enjoying the Quiz for many years to come. That wish is mutual.

Frank Phillips Plans to Retire

Frank Phillips, head of the Phillips Petroleum company of Bartlesville, Okla., has announced his retirement from the active management of the firm he established in 1917.

Mr. Phillips was the first white child born in Greeley county. He was born near Scotia in 1873. His parents are buried in a little country cemetery about four miles to the east and south of Burwell, on the east side of the North Loup river.

Baseball Outlook Improves; Douthit Will Be Manager

Stock Company Planned for Money to Install Lights on Ball Field.

A small but interested group of baseball enthusiasts met Thursday evening at the Veteran's club. Jim Gilbert was elected president, and Walter Douthit was re-elected as manager, he having indicated that he would accept the job. Harold Christensen was chosen secretary.

The organization and development of the team will be left largely to Manager Douthit, who was given authority to appoint an assistant manager, either one for the full year, or one for each game, whichever method he thought best.

Hope to Finance Lights. Lights for the field were talked of, and it was decided to form a stock company and sell stock in the plan, interest to be paid on the money, and the stock to be retired as soon as funds are available. The group will put in lights and bleachers, and plan to do the work themselves.

There is no question but that the night games will eventually pay for the investment made in lights. Plenty of material is on hand to form a good ball team, it is believed, but it is too early at this time to speculate on who will play. Practice will start as soon as weather is fit for playing.

J. A. Brown Has Heart Attack

On Saturday, March 12, Jack Brown went to North Loup on business. While there he suffered a heart attack, which he did not know at the time, and started home. When he reached Olean he was so sick he could hardly see and had to stop the car. Then at Clement's oil station he again became very sick.

Finally he reached home but was unable to walk to the house. Mrs. Brown with the help of Mrs. Lytle and Mrs. Myrtle Cochran tried to get him into the house but on the top step he fainted. Dr. Norris was called and helped them put him in bed.

Mr. Brown is getting along fine now and will be able to get out of bed if a wheel chair can be located. He cannot walk as that would be hard on his heart but he can sit up in bed. Pat Brown, their daughter, is doing a fine job of helping with the business that must go on.

Fertilizer Meeting

With this storm we realize that very few will be able to get in to our fertilizer meeting Thursday night at 8 in the Masonic building basement; but we will attempt to have the meeting as our speaker and film will be here. If you are interested in fertilizers and can get in to the meeting we urge you to be present. There is a lot of information about using fertilizers that we need and we believe that Mr. Burgess and his film will bring us some of this information. Fertilizers available on short notice are 0-18-0 and 4-16-0. We will attempt to have the fertilizer you want if you will just tell us what you want and the time that you want to use it.

Field Seeds

Sweet Clover, Alfalfa, Brome Grass, Crested Wheat, Western Wheat, Blue Gramma, Red Top, Timothy, Buffalo Grass and about anything in grasses that you want to plant. See your AAA office for information on payments. Seed stocks on legumes and grasses are very short this year and we urge you to get what ever you will need soon as many items will not be available if normal amounts are planted this year. Right now Crested Wheat is very hard to get. Red Top is extremely high and many of the other grasses are quite high priced. You can depend on the quality and the price on our seed. We have Certified Clinton Oats and a very good supply of the finest Spartan Barley that you have seen. Our Spartan Barley is ready to be sown in this area with Ceresan for smut. We are prepared to reclean and treat your seed for you on quite short notice. We have had our seed treater installed for some time and it is the first one in this section of the state. Make an appointment for the cleaning and treating of your seed and bring it in and enough burlap bags to sack the seed after treating. It is much easier handled bagged than in the bulk.

Burlap Bags Wanted

We want to buy 2000 or more real good burlap feed bags. Please don't bring bags that have holes in them as we can't use them. But we will pay 10c each for good burlap bags if brought in soon. Bring them either to the store or seed house.

Seed Corn

Very good stock of Corn-husker No. 148, 75 and 83. These are the numbers that won so many 1st prizes in the county 10 acre test plots. We are going to give $25.00 as prizes on 10 acre fields that are entered in Valley county 10 acre tests if the first prizes are won from seed bought from us. Ask us about these prizes when you get your corn.

Baby Chicks

We have had orders for several thousand chicks returned to us the past week because the chicks were not available when wanted. Let us have your order at least four weeks before they are wanted, except Hy-Lines. We are able to furnish you with Hy-Lines on shorter notice and are able to get a few started Hy-Lines.

Garden Seed

A very large stock of Garden Seed received the past month. Our Onion sets and Canna bulbs are here also. Have a few thousand Gladia bulbs of our best Gladia to offer you. We can spare about 3000 of these bulbs. 75c per doz for named varieties and 50c per doz. for mixed Gladia.

Red Cross Report.
The Red Cross drive has been completed in North Loup and a total of $105.65 collected by the ladies who solicited the town. They were Mrs. Myra Barber, Mrs. Lee Mulligan, Mrs. Charles Clark, Mrs. Albert Friesen, and Mrs. George Maxson. HOMEMAKING NEWS

A Patient in Homemaking Class
(By Dorothy Kluna)

The second year homemaking girls are studying a unit on home nursing.

We have a new roll away bed, with five new sheets, a bed pad, a rubber sheet, two new pillow cases and a light blue spread.

We are learning how to give a patient a bed bath. Irene Franzen is our patient and Miss Heston gave her a bed bath for a demonstration. After a patient has her bath she must eat. We are now planning and cooking sick menus. Irene Franzen will have the privilege of eating one of them.

We took each others temperature and learned the three different ways to take body temperature. We found the normal temperature to be 98.6. We also took each others pulse.

Spring Dresses
(By Ina Fae Jorgensen)

The sewing machines are really buzzing in the homemaking room, and we girls are making beautiful dresses. I will tell you what some of them are like.

Glady's Rice looks very becoming in her dress made of yellow cotton pique. Her scalloped sleeves and front facing add interest. This dress buttons down the side front. She looks very nice in it with its full skirt.

Carol Struckman looks lovely in her dress too. She has selected pale yellow cotton chambray. The scallops at the neckline and sleeves tend to make Carol look even sweeter than she is.

Dorothy Blaha looks charming in her dress of green dotted swiss. Its lovely neckline is gathered with a white ribbon run through a casing. The top is joined to a full skirt.

I am making my dress out of powder puff muslin. It has cap sleeves and a casual neck opening in the front of the blouse. The skirt is long and flared.

Our New Dresses
(By Lillian Lech)

In our homemaking room there is a lot of excitement. Each of us have a good start on our dresses. Let's stop and describe a few of the girls' dresses.

Lorraine Stich is making a yellow dotted swiss dress with set in cap sleeves, a removable petatum and a gathered skirt adds to the attraction of the dress.

Karen Burrows is making a lovely chambray of soft pastel colors. Her cap sleeves and a partly gathered skirt add charm to her waist.

Ellen Jean Foth is working on a blue dotted swiss dress with a drop waistline. Cap sleeves add to the loveliness of her dress. By the way, Ellen Jean was the first one to get her zipper placket completed!

W. T. McLain, Early Resident, Taken by Death

Made Home in County Sixty Years; Former Business Man of Ord.

In the passing Monday of W. T. McLain, death removed from the scene one of the better known figures of the formative years of the city of Ord. Mr. McLain spent most of his life in or near Ord.

He lived quietly, he worked quietly, he passed quietly from the scene of his earthly activities. But in those many years his influence was felt for good and will continue to be felt for many years to come. He was a man with a conscience, and let his conscience be his guide.

William Thomas McLain was born March 6, 1868, in Bracebridge, Ontario Province, Canada, and passed from this life at Ord, Nebr., March 28, 1949, being 81 years and 22 days of age at the time of his death. He came to the United States at the age of 19 years.

He was united in marriage to Miss Stella Matley in 1891. To this union were born six children, one daughter and five sons. The daughter died in infancy, Eustice died in 1918, Mrs. McLain in 1924, and Luther in 1912.

June 2, 1927, he was united in marriage to Ora Mutter of Ord. Mr. McLain spent most of his life in or near Ord. For many years he was in the mercantile business, and later for many years was in undertaking business here.

He leaves to mourn his departure his widow, four sons, Stanley of Lynden, Wash., Everett of Crescent Mills, Calif., and Floyd of St. Paul; two brothers, George and Albert of York, Nebr. His parents, four sisters and one brother preceded him in death. He was a member of the Methodist church.

Funeral services were held at the Hastings-Pearson, chapel at 2 p. m. Wednesday, Rev. L. V. Hassell officiating. Music was furnished by Mrs. Mark Tolen and Mrs. C. M. Davis, with Mrs. Orin Kellison at the organ. Pallbearers were Dr. F. L. Blessing, J. T. Krazacek, Mark Tolen, Curt Gudmundsen, Alfred Hill and Mart Beran. Burial was in the family plot in the Ord city cemetery.

Folks said it would ruin us to make this offer... but

We did it... and we're glad!

When we first announced our meat guarantee a few years back, folks asked how we could do it. How could we guarantee to refund the purchase price on any unsatisfactory cut, just on the customer's say-so, and still stay in business?

But we did make the guarantee, and we're still making it. Here's why: behind our guarantee is a complete program which results in meats so tender, so juicy, so downright good, that dissatisfied customers are rare indeed.

Here's the program that backs up our money-back guarantee. We start with quality meats — top government grades of beef, top grades of lamb, pork, and veal. Then these fine meats get the best of care so they reach you in finest eating condition. Final step in the plan is proper trimming before weighing. You pay only for the meat which rightly belongs on each cut. No excess bone or fat.

When you buy meats, enjoy the extra protection our guarantee provides. And more important, enjoy the perfect-eating meats that make this guarantee possible.

Abbie R. Daggett, Once of Ord, Dies in South Pasadena

She Leaves Three Sons and One Daughter; Vern
Stark of Ord a Nephew.

Mrs. Abbie D. Daggett, once of Ord but for the past 24 years a resident of South Pasadena, Calif., passed away there Feb. 26, 1949, at the age of nearly 80 years. A daughter of C. H. Cromwell, the family moved to Mira Valley in the 1880s, locating on the farm now owned by J. Z. Marks.

It was here, Oct. 28, 1880, that she was married to Homer P. Daggett. Mr. Daggett passed away in 1922. Six children were born to them, four of whom are living. They are: C. O. Daggett of Long Beach, Calif.; Harry C. Daggett of Pasadena; Lillian Steinhaus of Pasadena and Gilman C. Daggett of Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Jennie Hartmann passed on in 1912 and Mrs. Elythe Branch in 1917. Mrs. Daggett was a charter member of the Ord Rebekah lodge, and lived here until 1919, when she moved to Colorado. From there she moved to California in 1924, where she spent her remaining years.

She leaves one sister, Mrs. E. L. Collins of Nampa, Ida., 15 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren.

Older residents will remember the Cromwells and the five daughters, who married well known men here. They were Caesar Corlett, Joe Keating, Emmett Collins, Walter Stark and Mr. Daggett. Vern Stark of Ord is a nephew. There was one brother, Everett Cromwell, who married Nora Homold, now deceased. He died in Oklahoma in 1948.

TIME-LY TALES

The story of time—and how men learned to keep track of it—s back to antiquity. It was not until 1882 that the first mechanical clock was built. Hailed as a masterpiece, this clock still operates near original location in Paris. Its builder, Henri de Vick, is a forefather of the skilled French who helped establish the world-famous watch and clock industry in nearby Switzerland. Commissioned by Napoleon III of France to build the clock, de Vick spent eight years of his life on it. The original had only one hand.

Death Strikes Quickly.

During the night Saturday an auto struck a guard rail at the McDowell canyon between Olean and North Loup, careened across to the other side of the road, hit the guard rail there. The left hand door flew open and two of the occupants were thrown out.

One man was so seriously injured that it was considered unsafe to move him, but he had to be moved. Some time Sunday he died. This is not written in criticism, but rather to bring home the fact that death strikes quickly, and that it is important, essential, to have a good hospital within easy reach.

Perhaps this man's life could not have been saved in any event. That we do not know, but we do know that there are times when a man's life is saved because it was possible to get him into a hospital in a hurry. The saving of one man's life is worth all that it costs to build and maintain a hospital.

Traffic accidents and traffic deaths are only one phase of our modern, complicated system of living. Death and accident may strike in a hundred ways, and in all cases, the vital thing is to get the victims to a hospital with the least possible delay.

Today plans are going forward to obtain a public hospital for this community. Dr. Miller has offered his finely equipped building at a fraction of its actual value. It is the opportunity of a lifetime to obtain one of the best hospitals of its size in the state.

A committee has been selected to proceed with plans for obtaining the Miller hospital and they are beginning their work. This is a cooperative movement and it will require the cooperation of all citizens to put the proposition over.

In case it comes within your province to aid in this work, it is expected that you will do your part in whatever capacity your help is required. Remember the wrecks will never be equalized through the usual system of equalization. It is not fair for some to bear more than their fair share of the tax burden of the county, while others are paying less than they should. The man with more property requires more from the county. Therefore he should pay a greater share of the tax. The man who has little, has little with which to pay the tax.

It has been demonstrated that the only way to obtain an unbiased appraisal is to have it done by persons beyond the local sphere of influence. If it were not for this fact, the Quiz would prefer to have the work done at home and the money for the job paid to local people.

The amount paid, $16,850, may seem large, but it is not large when compared with the valuation of the property of Valley county, or when spread over a period of years. Expenses have proved that reappraisal will almost eliminate the work of the board of equalization.

A newspaper is just the opposite of a person. We as individuals grow old, but the last edition of the paper is always new. Likewise the swaddling clothes edition of the Quiz, which according to the laws of life should be the youngest, is really the oldest.

It takes a few more people to put out a paper these days than it did 67 years ago. From the time the first news item is written for the week until the papers are in the mails, fit to be read by the youngest, is really the oldest.

While it would be difficult to prove, it is probable that W. W. Haskell did every bit of the work of putting out some of those last editions of the Quiz himself. Mrs. Haskell (they were married when the Quiz was started) had a lot to do with the paper, however.

Of course a lot more news is printed now. There is a lot more news to print. But the Quiz has a right to be proud of the fact that under its two publishers, W. W. Haskell and H. D. Leggett, it has always held a leading place in the community. That the Quiz may continue to grow in size and in service to the community is the desire of everybody connected with it.

When the Valley county board decided upon reappraisal of property in Valley county recently, the Quiz found itself in much the same position of the rest of the citizens of Valley county. Due to the lack of information we were not in position to take a stand, either for or against the issue.

To obtain first hand data on what was done and what results were attained, the Quiz wrote to several people at York, Nebr. From their replies we obtained valuable information, not only on what was done in the first place, but what the results were. This information is being passed on to the people of Valley county in this issue of the Quiz.

In view of these findings, the Quiz now comes out in favor of reappraisal. It is a known fact that a great number of inequities in taxation exist. Many of these have existed over a period of years and it is apparent that they will never be equalized through the usual system of equalization. It is not fair for some to bear more than their fair share of the tax burden of the county, while others are paying less than they should. The man with more property requires more from the county. Therefore he should pay a greater share of the tax. The man who has little, has little with which to pay the tax.

It has been demonstrated that the only way to obtain an unbiased appraisal is to have it done by persons beyond the local sphere of influence. If it were not for this fact, the Quiz would prefer to have the work done at home and the money for the job paid to local people.

It takes a few more people to put out a paper these days than it did 67 years ago. From the time the first news item is written for the week until the papers are in the mails, fit to be read by the youngest, is really the oldest.

While it would be difficult to prove, it is probable that W. W. Haskell did every bit of the work of putting out some of those last editions of the Quiz himself. Mrs. Haskell (they were married when the Quiz was started) had a lot to do with the paper, however.

Of course a lot more news is printed now. There is a lot more news to print. But the Quiz has a right to be proud of the fact that under its two publishers, W. W. Haskell and H. D. Leggett, it has always held a leading place in the community. That the Quiz may continue to grow in size and in service to the community is the desire of everybody connected with it.

When the Valley county board decided upon reappraisal of property in Valley county recently, the Quiz found itself in much the same position of the rest of the citizens of Valley county. Due to the lack of information we were not in position to take a stand, either for or against the issue.

To obtain first hand data on what was done and what results were attained, the Quiz wrote to several people at York, Nebr. From their replies we obtained valuable information, not only on what was done in the first place, but what the results were. This information is being passed on to the people of Valley county in this issue of the Quiz.

In view of these findings, the Quiz now comes out in favor of reappraisal. It is a known fact that a great number of inequities in taxation exist. Many of these have existed over a period of years and it is apparent that they

Henry Pesha, who lives at Lafayette, Indiana sends back a full page ad for a little about the newest, Piggly-Wiggly store that he and his company are opening.

It is to be one of those super-super markets of the self-service type. Not only do you serve yourself to breakfast foods and vegetables and canned goods, but even to meats, cheese, and every type of grocery.

For instance, each cut of meat is cellophane wrapped so that the buyer may pick it up, feel the bones, turn it over and inspect it thoroughly, and yet the meat is protected in a completely sanitary, wholesome covering.

It is really an efficient way to market.

Henry, an Ord alumnus, writes that he is finishing his term as executor of the estate of his father. He has a bit more leisure here after. He enjoyed the position, but it did prove demanding.

But to some is given a pleasure in meeting many demands, and Mr. Pesha belongs to this group. He isn't happy unless he is busy. Tasks he undertakes are done quickly and well.

A few years ago he became a bowling bug, and the next thing you know he and a partner were building alleys of their own.

The venture proved fascinating as much as successful, and so many leagues calendered their games that it is about impossible for a mere solitary bowler to find a place to play.

This condition is typical in most parts of the United States, I understand.

stand. Bowling is becoming an extra-popular American pastime. And like the chicken and the egg — it is difficult to tell which comes first — the bowling teams or the alleys.

Beginning April first we celebrate a dandy week — one I heartily approve. It is one I wish I had thought up myself.

It is "Leave Us Alone Week". Now isn't that a crackin' good idea?

Down in Georgia, where the man originated the week, he was astounded to find his fellow citizens were overwhelmingly in favor of it. They were so strongly approving that some merchants put signs in their windows: "Customers Only!"

It does seem, sometimes, as if we give to a different (and doubtless worthy) cause, each week. So there is a genuine need for "Leave Us Alone Week."

Easter enchantment

Enchanting is your Easter-tide in this finely-sewn Swiss piquelette molded into a "New Look" tricorne. An intriguing off-side flair... a smart gros-grain fan bowed skyward... and a gentle wisp of veil, make this braided typical of the smart choices Gage offers...
