Ak-Sar-Ben Governor Presents Good Neighbor Award

Ak-Sar-Ben Governor Lauds Veterans for Community Interest

Leggett Makes Bid for Legalized Slots, Same as Pari-Mutuel Betting.

Melvin Bekins, Omaha governor of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben lauded local veterans for their community service work in Ord and community, in presenting them officially with Ak-Sar-Ben's Good Neighbor community service award.

At a dinner held Wednesday night at the Veteran's Club, Bekins stated that this club, a joint project of local posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion, was to be particularly commended for the spirit of cooperation in local service projects.

"To the best of our knowledge, the Veterans Club of Ord is one of the few organizations of its kind in the country where both the VFW and the Legion have teamed up to work for the common good of their home community," he said.

"Americanism Does Work"

"There is no doubt in my mind but that this is one of the main factors in your ability to accomplish what you have. To my mind too, you have proven that Americanism does work when you get at it instead of depending upon Washington to do everything for you."

Bekins listed projects of the club over the past two years and spoke briefly of the club's dream for the future—a community building.

Wants Legalized Slots. E. C. Leggett, local Ak-Sar-Ben ambassador, and editor of the Quiz, made a strong bid for legalized slot machines and other devices under the same restrictive laws that apply to pari-mutuel betting on horse races.

Leggett, who served as toastmaster of the evening, told the audience that he as a private citizen of Ord, and a non-veteran, believed that he expressed the feelings of the entire community in stating the deep gratitude to the veterans' proudest for their service. "I doubt if the Ord children who attended football games as guests of the veterans, went to their Christmas parties, or played on their baseball teams enjoyed themselves any less because the money for their entertainment came from slot machines.

"Light Just as Bright"

"Those persons who enjoyed our swimming pool facilities this summer wouldn't have had a bit better time if their pool had been paid for entirely by taxation—and the lights in our baseball park shine just as brightly as those erected from levies other than slot machines.

"I think that all of us are agreed that something must be done to change the laws of our state so that benevolent, fraternal and other organizations such as our Veterans Club, will be allowed to own and operate slots under rules and regulations similar to those used to regulate pari-mutuel betting."

J. J. Isaacson, general manager of Ak-Sar-Ben, also addressed the group briefly, adding his praises to Bekins' of the spirit of cooperation and community enterprise demonstrated by the club. Isaacson also told of the ideals and workings of Ak-Sar-Ben, which he said was doing for the state what the Veterans are doing for Ord.

The award plaque given by Ak-Sar-Ben was received by Lloyd Zikmund, local American Legion Commander on behalf of the club. Also introduced to those present were Ross Allen, chairman of the club board, and E. R. Apking, VFW commander.

County Judge Has Hallowe'en Trick Played Mon. Eve

County Judge Charles Clonch has found it a part of his not too pleasant duty in the past to levy fines on some of his fellow townsmen of Elyria, and Tuesday morning he found that some pranksters had turned the tables on him. When he went out to get his car for the trip to the county metropolis he found all four of his tires flat. It took some time to find a pump and get enough air in the tires so he could drive to the service station. For some strange reason, that was the only Hallowe'en prank played in Elyria.

C. C. Agriculture Committee Makes Plans for 1950

Corn Show, Junior Corn Contest, Pest Control Planned.

The following members of the agriculture committee of the Ord chamber of commerce met Wednesday morning: Chairman Henry Janus, C. C. Dale, Ed Christensen, Fritz Kuehl, Jr., and Emil Babka. They made plans for the 4-H party of Nov. 9, which they are co-sponsoring.

It was decided to sponsor a pest control program for the first week in April, 1950, and the committee will work out all details well in advance of that time.

A Valley county corn show will be held in February and prizes will be awarded on the best bushels, best ten ears of corn, white or yellow, dry land or irrigated. The committee urges farmers to start selecting their corn for these contests. It was further decided to hold a junior corn yield contest for the year 1950.

Special Bargain Days Next Week

Ord merchants are offering hundreds of special bargains in a city wide three-day selling event, scheduled for November 8, 9 and 10, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Attention of Quiz readers is called to a full page group advertisement which appears in another portion of this paper. This ad lists thirty some of the best bargains offered during the three days, and includes items to interest everyone. Other advertisements in the paper list hundreds of other bargains.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Roe were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Mumcey.

Many Drivers Fail to Renew Licenses as Deadline Comes

Days of Grace Over; Applicants Must Go to Highway Patrolman.

Monday was the last day on which drivers could renew their licenses without examination, and County Treasurer Wilson reports that there were a total of 3,531 new licenses issued.

This is 213 less than were issued before, when the total was 3,744. This would indicate that at least 200 persons must now take a test before being given new drivers licenses.

It is probably true that a number of drivers have moved away, and perhaps some have decided not to get a new license, as they do not expect to drive, which would account for the decrease.

However, it must not be forgotten that a large number of young people have reached the age where it is necessary for them to have a drivers license. These were not old enough to get a license before, and there should be a hundred or two of them.

More Data Given on Section "D", Approved Oct. 26

Scattered Over Large Area, It Will Serve 287 New Customers.

The government voiced its approval of Section "D" of the Loup Valleys Rural Electric Membership association in a telegram received by Coordinator W. D. Hollands Wednesday of last week.

This section, which includes many extensions on sections already approved and built, comprises 230 miles of line, will serve 287 new customers and is figured to cost approximately $266,000.

Included are two lines, one to the east and another to the north of Burwell, one north and east of Ericson, one in Eureka township in Valley county, lines north and south of Arcadia, west of Loup City and south of North Loup.

The Ord office plans to make all preliminary preparations this fall, then call for bids early next spring and have the construction work done next summer when conditions are better for work of this kind.

Fire at Park

The Ord Fire Department was called to the city park today to extinguish a blaze in a large wood pile owned by the city.

Ellis Carson in Interesting Trip; Studies Airport Management 3 Days

Ellis Carson returned recently from a trip to Norman, Okla., where he took a three day course in airport operation and management at the University of Oklahoma. One of the many speakers was George Haddaway, editor of Southern Flight Magazine, published in Dallas, Texas.

Ellis had breakfast with Mr. Haddaway, and after his return got a letter from him, thanking him for the interest he had shown and invited him back again next year. Another man of interest was the editor of Aviation News. There was a manager of Idlewild Airport of New York City, the largest in the world.

Walter Belshour, airport manager from Cedar Rapids, Ia., was present. He is a member of the national airport advisory committee.

North Loup Lions Hold Ladies Night Thursday Evening

Chuck Wagon Dinner Enjoyed by More Than 60 Persons.

North Loup Lions entertained their ladies at a chuck wagon dinner Thursday evening at the community building. Sixty-two tickets were sold for the dinner which was served from a realistic chuck wagon, cafeteria style and consisted of baked ham, mashed potatoes and gravy, apple salad, pickles, relish, cranberry sauce, doughnuts, ice cream and coffee, with second helpings of everything for those who wished.

All arrangements were made by the Lions, with Mrs. W. H. Vodehnal cooking the ham, Miss Merle Davis was chief cook and Beverly Goodrich assisted her. Lion Mills Hill was official meat slicer. All guests came in hard time costume, and Lioness Amy Madsen was awarded first prize for the ladies with a burlap costume. Lion Harlon Brennick won first prize for the men.

President Charles Zangger gave the welcome address. Each committee had arranged a number for the program and Lion George Hastings presented a clever skit of Hitler and Mussolini, given by Kenney Clement and Richard Heuck. In introducing his players, Lion Hastings made so many references to "burial" Tail Twister Bill Vodehnal fined him $5.00 for advertising.

Lion John L. Ward was also fined by the tail twister and paid off by giving a reading on "Watermelon."

Lion Bates Copeland read a selection on Lionsism and what it means in the United States and Internationally.

Lion John Edwards put on a "Paper Bag" game, as his part of the program, Lions against Lionesses, with the Lionesses winning the prizes awarded.

Lion Fred Leonard gave two piano solos and also accompanied an impromptu octette which sang. Lions Cliff Goodrich and Rasmus Peterson had charge of a square dance and two step.

Grand and final event of the evening was the dressing of dressmaker models by Lion Ben Sinteck, Rasmus Peterson and Cecil Knapp. Sinteck won first prize because he had his model dressed first, although not all garments were in the right place. Peterson was second, having all garments in the right place. Knapp was last because he put the bustle around his model's neck.

President Charles Zangger was goat of the evening and was captured by Lion Lyle Carter, representing his German Shepherd police dog.

A committee in charge of the evening entertainment and dinner was Lions Bill Vodehnal and Dell Barber. Vodehnal acted as master of ceremonies in connection with the office of Tail Twister.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Halverson of Chicago were guests of Lion and Lioness Mills Hill at the party.

Loaded Shotgun in Auto Brings 10 Dollar Fine

Maurice Carver of Arcadia overlooked a bet Sunday and was picked up with a loaded shotgun in his auto. Monday in Judge Charles Clonch's court he entered a plea of guilty as charged, paid a fine of $10 and costs of $4, and was released.

The pheasant season closed Sunday at an hour before sundown, with only four law violators brought into court in Ord. In view of the many angles to the hunting law this season, this is an unusually good record.

TOWNSEND CLUB

The Ord Townsend club is meeting Friday this week at the home of Mrs. Daisy Paddock in east Ord.

Walter Douthit Says Excitement Caused by Decoys

Walt Douthit tells about ducks from a blind near Elyria last week, when Syl Papiernik and Art Jefferies, seeing his decoys and mistaking them for the real thing, rushed into Elyria and got the postmaster to issue them a pair of duck stamps. They were crawling up the river and were almost within shooting range when they saw Walt's coonskin cap showing in the blind and figured they were stalking dead ducks. The boys were not wholly to blame, as some other hunters made the same mistake shortly afterward.

Loup River Bridge to Be Opened Soon, It Is Announced

Capitol Bridge Says Completion Date Is Coming in Few Days.

The new, and what is expected to be the last, bridge across the North Loup river at Ord, will be open for public use in the near future. Since this is the first permanent bridge of its kind in the county, the Quiz believes that the opening of the bridge should be made with appropriate ceremonies.

The county board, responsible in a large measure for getting this bridge, should take the lead in plans to that end, and should have the leading part in the program. This is the first bridge of its type in the county and the first permanent bridge ever built here. Barring catastrophes it should last for all time to come.

This bridge was the first of its kind built in Nebraska partly by the county and on a state or federal highway. The state will take over the bridge and the half mile north on the Ericson highway as soon as completed. The chairman of the county board should turn over the bridge to the state highway department, and a representative of the department should be here to accept it.

Capitol Bridge representatives should have a hand in the affair. The Ord Chamber of Commerce stands ready to assist in any way in whatever may be done, and no doubt the Ord High school marching band would be glad to play for the program. Other organizations will be glad to help, and the Quiz will give the needed publicity.

Five New Trucks Arrive for Delta Construction Co.

Work Under Way Now in Several Places in Three Counties.

Five new trucks and drivers arrived for the work of the Delta Construction company, which has the contract for the construction of Section "C" of the local REA setup. Included is a jeep pickup for quick transportation over the area.

The men have started cutting the right of way and are putting down anchors. Most progress has been made on the Ericson branch, but all the poles have been hauled on the branch out of North Loup.

Pole hauling is also going on out of Burwell, but all needed have been hauled from Ord to the Ericson line. Poles have come in and are going to Arcadia and Ashton to be used on parts of Section "C."

Annual 4-H Club Achievement Meet K C Hall, Nov. 9

The annual 4-H Club Achievement Party will be held at the K. C. Hall in Ord, on Wednesday evening, November 9, starting at 8 P. M. The party which is sponsored jointly by the Ord Chamber of Commerce and the Valley County Extension Service, will mark the local observance of National 4-H Club Achievement Week.

It is to be a family party for 4-H members, leaders, and all other who are interested in 4-H club work. Each family is asked to bring enough sandwiches for their own group. Ice cream and drinks will be furnished by the Chamber of Commerce.

Entertainment for the evening will include movies, a puppet show, games and square dancing. There will be no speeches, promises. County Agent Dale. Last year's party was pronounced a huge success by more than 200 people who took part. This year it should be bigger and better.

Chanticleers Win Easy Game from Ravenna Friday

Score in 3 Quarters to Win With Ease by Score of 45 to 0.

Coach Peterson's boys unloosed their bag of tricks at Ravenna Friday evening to win going away by a score of 45 to 0. The Ord score by quarters was 14, 27, 37, 45. They were not without competition, as the Bluejays had some clever plays and made a number of fine gains, but could not get anywhere near the goal line. The downs were Ord 15, Ravenna 6.

Ravenna received, but failed to make first down and kicked. On Ord's first play Collins took the ball on the Ord 20 and went the full 70 yards for a touchdown around end. Falter kicked the extra point. O'Neill drove through for a first down and Ravenna was forced to punt.

Richard Heuck

Collins made gains of 12 and 7 yards, and Stoddard then made two gains of 12 yards each and went through the middle on his third try, 20 yards for a touchdown. Again Falter made good on the extra point, and the score at the end of the quarter was Ord 14, Ravenna 0.

In the second quarter Moore went around end for 35 yards, and a few plays later Stoddard went over from the 5 yard line for touchdown No. 3. The kick was good. Sowers went for 25 yards, but was called back on a clipping penalty, and Ord was forced to kick. Furtak took a pass for 10 yards, and Cole on a fake kick went for 12 more, but Ravenna had to kick.

Gerald Van Winkle

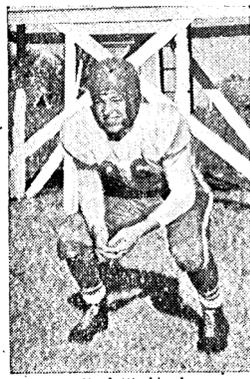

Ord then marched the ball down the field in five plays for another touchdown by Stoddard. The try for extra point failed and the half ended, Ord 27, Ravenna 0. In the third quarter Ord recovered a Ravenna fumble on their 40, but was forced to kick. Ravenna made a first down and then kicked. The next play Ord was given a first down on a 45 yard penalty, then lost the ball and O'Neill went 15 yards through the line as the quarter ended.

At the start of the fourth quarter Ord recovered a fumble. Stoddard went for ten yards, Moore for 9 and then for 25 yards and another marker. The kick failed. Sowers made 9 yards, and Van Winkle made three first downs in a row and then went over for a touchdown. The extra point was no good. A few plays later Sowers intercepted a pass.

VanWinkle went 41 yards around end to the ten yard line and Sowers drove over for the touchdown. Again the extra point failed. Ord was in possession of the ball and VanWinkle had just made 15 yards as the game ended with the final score, Ord 45, Ravenna 0.

Pheasant Hunting Good, But Limit Kept Visitors Out

Most Hunting Done by Local Talent; Birds Not Hard to Locate.

The pheasant hunting season closed Sunday, with most hunters getting a fair share of birds. The limit of two cocks was all right for local hunters, but discouraged the hunters from a distance, who could not see the sense of traveling so many miles to get two birds a day and take only two home.

As one hunter put it: "It's no fun hunting this way. You get out there, find your bird, 'Bang, Bang' and home you go." The birds were easier to locate this year than they were last, and most hunters got their limit in a short time. The fact that ducks were to be hunted at the same time encouraged hunters to get after whichever happened to be available first.

Duck season will continue all through November and until December 4, inclusive. The bag limit of 4 ducks is more encouraging, as is the possession limit of 8 ducks. The man who is lucky enough to get eight mallards will have enough to pay him for making quite a long trip. Then, too, the chance of shooting early in the morning appeals to the duck hunter.

So far the duck take has been confined almost entirely to the smaller kinds, but the first snow squall will probably bring down the mallards and possibly some geese. The sale of hunting licenses and duck stamps has not been as heavy as in former years, it is reported.

Beautiful Autumn Weather Follows First Hard Frost

Farmers Picking Corn, Hauling Feed, Getting Ready for Winter.

Monday morning, Oct. 31, brought the season's first real freeze, and the official thermometer kept by Observer Horace Travis showed a chilly 20 degrees above zero. Grand Island reported 21 degrees, and it was slightly colder in the Dakotas, where Fargo reported 14 above. Below freezing temperatures were reported from all over the state.

This freeze officially put an end to the blooming of flowers, which have been beautifying lawns and gardens all over the area all fall. In fact, this has been one of the most favorable autumns for the development of flowers in many years. There was no question about the freeze this time. Early Monday the leaves still on the trees began to shower down, and many of them were bare by noon.

The freeze had little effect on corn and other crops, as the earlier frosts had killed the foliage on the corn, and the stalks have been drying ever since. Much of the corn is dry enough to go right into the crib, and in some places the corn about which there might be a question is being piled on the ground or left in the field until it becomes drier.

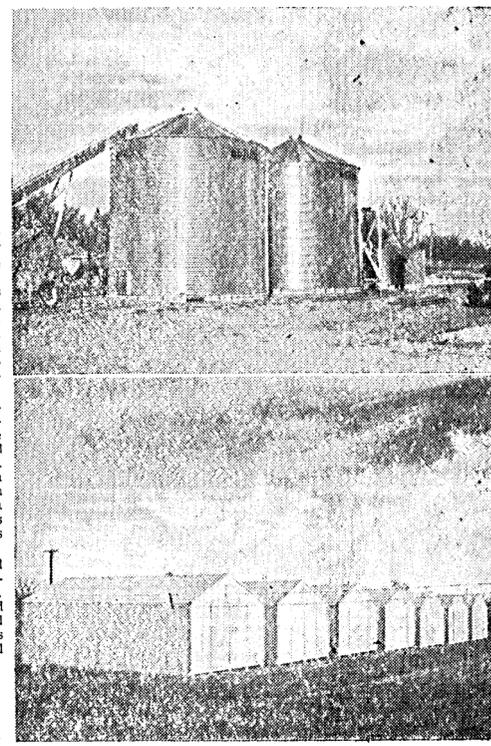

Upland corn is mostly dry enough to go into the crib, except some fields which were planted or replanted late and which have not had time enough to dry out thoroughly. Corn under irrigation is not drying out as fast, due to the wet condition of the soil, which is used to keep the corn damper than in upland fields. However, there has probably never been a year when the corn was in better condition to crib by November 1st.

While October has been truly Indian summer weather, weather reports call for more fair weather. The true Indian summer is supposed to follow the first killing freeze, and is usually seen in November. Also it is about 18 days until the next new moon, which should bring a spell of colder weather.

Farmers are finding plenty to do and are busy all the time, remembering the snowstorm of last November 18, and determined not to be caught short on corn or other feed this winter.

Storage Bins Going Up at Fairgrounds

Storage bins of both wood and metal are being erected on the Valley county fair grounds by the Production Marketing Association to hold corn sealed under the 1948 crop loan. In addition to the bins a large quonset hut will also be erected at the storage site.

HELPFUL HINTS

Budget and homemaking news by Bonnie McDonald

IF THE LADDER YOU'RE USING tends to wobble out from under you, try tacking pieces of old inner tube on the bottoms of the legs. A good safety measure that's well worth practicing.

SHADES OF SANTA... It's time to make use of the Christmas layaway plan at your Brown-McDonald store. Now is the time to buy beautiful 100% wool blankets, guaranteed against moth damage, for Christmas giving. Specially at these low prices. BEACON "Woolaine" blankets for $9.95. McDonald's famous solid color blankets are values at $9.95. And you can buy McDonald's plaid blankets the thrifty layaway way, for just $9.95.

NO SPLASH, NO SPOTS, NO STAINS... Tack clean plastic above the cupboards and between the cupboards. Can hardly be seen, and saves your walls. Same idea used back of coat trees or racks will be a big help when the weather is wet and messy.

A LAZY MAN'S TRICK... but a good one. To find the center of a board, cloth or paper, don't fuss with fractions. Instead, angle a ruler, with one end at the edge of material. Move other end of ruler until full-inch measurement lies at the opposite edge. Then divide by two. Always works.

HAND IT TO McDONALD'S... their gloves are really "fashion firsts". A selection of 4-button lengths, gauntlet types, medium and shirley styles. Sueded fabrics and even some nylon! Stunning colors for that "right" touch to your favorite suit or dress. Best news of all... prices are only $1.00 and $1.98.

RECIPE FOR SLEEPING WARMTH... Sew a comfy comforter for just $3.88. Take 10 yards of dark stripe cutting flannel, in choice of color at 29c a yard. Add fine quilted cotton batt at just 98c. Sew together, carefully. Add to someone's bed... and you'll have a warm, soft, extra long comforter. Shop for ingredients at McDonald's. Total, just $3.88.

Alder all of Taylor, as a farewell gesture to the Bohys who expect to leave in the near future to spend the winter in the lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas. They have spent the past seven or eight years there in the interest of Mrs. Bohy's health.

They find the climate along the Mexican border very mild and a delightful place to escape the severe winters of Nebraska. Semitropical fruit and flowers as well as all varieties of citrus fruits are abundant all winter. They say a large percentage of citrus and winter grown vegetables are grown and supply many northern and eastern markets.

Mrs. Bohy has not been in good health for several weeks and they hope to leave very soon before colder weather sets in. As they have recently bought the Lowell Jones property in the west part of town, they plan to return in the spring and make their permanent home here. They find Ord a most desirable little city to live in.

The Spice of Life!

The word "spice" is used in a lot of ways—all of them indicating the zest and flavor that make good things just a little bit better.

Perhaps it's that old world touch of spice in our home cured and smoked meats that makes people always insist on them. There are other things—we know—such as the careful selection of only the best cuts of meat, skillful aging and curing—know how.

And we don't think we're bragging if we say —"If you want the best in weiners, bologna, bacon and other cured and smoked meats, come in and get acquainted."

Attends School Flat in His Bed

It would be interesting to know how many boys would do as well in school if they had to attend and remain flat in bed on their stomachs all the time. That is what David Olson, 7, of Hartington, Nebr., has to do. He was injured last summer and has to wear a brace on both legs. C. A. Carkoski, superintendent of the Hartington schools, says that David is making good progress in his school work, and always keeps cheerful. Mr. Carkoski's Class of 1923, Ord High school, will be remembered by his many friends here.

Announcement has been made by Mrs. Margaret Sell of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Florence Maxine Sell to Bernard Guggenmos, son of Mrs. Hazel Guggenmos of Ord. The couple has not set a date for their wedding. Florence has been employed in the AAA office in Ord since last summer.

Anderson's Island Is No More, But Anderson's Park Gains Prominence

In May, 1915, W. A. Anderson, who owned the piece of land known as Anderson's Island and some pasture land to the east, made an offer to the city council of Ord to deed over the island, on the condition that they would pay him $25 per year each year during the lifetime of himself and wife, and that they would have an accurate survey made of the island so that he might make out a correct deed for the property. The city council, meeting in regular session May 10, 1915, took the offer of Mr. Anderson under consideration and agreed unanimously to accept it. Members of the council at that time were Dvorak, Gruber, Wright, Gard, Hoffman, and Barkemeyer. Jake Hoffman was on the board at the time and he gives the full names of the men as Stanley Dvorak, Will Gruber, William Wright, Dr. George Gard, Hoffman and H. G. Barkemeyer. Mr. Wright was chosen president of the board. Claude A. Davis was city attorney and he drew up the title in metes and bounds, which would allow for any deviation that the river might make. J. C. Work was mayor at the time; J. C. Cronell was city clerk; J. C. Wisda, jr. was treasurer; H. Gudmundsen was police judge; and Raymond Gass was city engineer. Every bridge built across the North Loup river at Ord has used the upper end of this island in one way or another. It is not generally known that in the beginning there were three channels and two islands. The island on the west was rather small, but it was there. Not a great amount of water flowed in the channel west of the west island, but it was enough to require a bridge. The bridge in use when the new steel bridge was built shortly after the turn of the century was a wooden structure, and had three spans, the west one from the west bank to the first island, the second between the islands, and the third one from Anderson's island to the east bank. The steel bridge eliminated the west bridge and a dirt fill was put in. Now the new concrete bridge has eliminated the east bridge and a fill has been put in there. It is this fill that eliminates Anderson's island, as it is no longer an island, and should hereafter be known under the correct name of Anderson Park. The gradual elimination of bridges across the river brings to mind the fact that the early bridges were not designed to take the abuse that the modern bridge will. The first bridge was built on piling, with short spans, and could not stand much pressure from the water. Another reason for not filling in at that time was the lack of machinery to do the work. It was probably about as cheap to build a bridge as it would have been to make a fill. But by the turn of the century progress had been made. The spans were longer and higher and gave room for the ice and flood waters to pass through. For this reason it was decided that it would be safe to fill in the west channel, which was nearly dry anyway. With the coming of the new, permanent bridge, the east channel has been filled in, and only the center span remains. Whether it will carry the floods can only be learned by experience, but the engineer felt certain that it would. The flow of water is considerably less now than in the days when most of the land was prairie and much of the rain and water from melting snow ran off. Within a short time the new bridge and fill will be turned over

Quiz believes that the opening should be marked by proper ceremony. The board has given the chairman, Evet Smith, authority to do whatever he deems best, and county and civic organizations stand ready to help in any way they can.

Prairie Fires

Become Common

Because of the abundance of grass, now dry, the likelihood of prairie fires is increasing. In fact two have been reported already. A fire in the Elmer Gydesen pasture north of Scotia called the Scotia fire department. The firemen used their new equipment for the first time and put out the fire in short order.

Grass fires swept over the old fairgrounds at Greeley last Monday, destroyed about 5 acres of grass. It is believed to have been started by the freight train. Firemen and section men put out the fire. Wednesday a second fire burned over about 8 acres of the fair grounds, the fire department being called to extinguish the blaze.

James E. Watson, Former Resident, Dies in Lincoln

Lived in North Loup, Ord; Ran Barber Shop for Number of Years.

Many North Loup and Ord long-time residents will remember Ed Watson, who passed away at a Lincoln hospital October 30, at the age of 81 years.

James Edward Watson was born December 27, 1868 at Newton, Iowa, to George and Arrietta Watson. Four years later the family moved to a Hall county homestead near Cairo. About 1885 they came to Valley county. Mr. Watson operated the Arlington hotel and a livery stable for several years at North Loup. There Ed was converted and became an active, working member of the Methodist church.

In 1909 he came to Ord and took Otto Murschell's chair in Charles Barnes' barber shop, and later taking Ernest Hallock as a partner and opening a shop in the basement of the new Quiz building. He married Olga Poore in 1901. Two daughters were born at Ord, Mrs. Margaret Ellis, now of Denver, and Mrs. Frances Gardner of Los Angeles.

When the Rosebud reservation opened Ed won a choice homestead and became an outstanding South Dakota farmer and stock breeder. There two sons were born at Ord, James and George.

After ten years in South Dakota the Watsons sold out and returned to Nebraska, first to a farm owned by his cousin, George E. Johnson, near Big Springs, then to a farm purchased near Alda in Hall county. Ed was among the first to install a pump for irrigation and to pioneer with hybrid seed corn. He won corn prizes at many state and county fairs and was the first to bring the blue ribbon for seed corn west of the Mississippi river by winning first prize three successive years at the International Exposition in Chicago.

When Mrs. Watson died in 1941 Ed sold the Alda farm. Despite his failing health he was active in civilian war work. He visited with his children and old friends but counted Grand Island his home until moving to Lincoln when his son James went there three years ago for the Olson construction company.

Mr. Watson has two surviving sisters, Mrs. Emma Cunningham, Phoenix, Arizona and Mrs. Laura Grier, San Francisco. There are also six grand children. A funeral was held November 1 at Alda and interment was in the family plot where his wife was buried. At his request the text for the services was, "I know that my Redeemer liveth."

Many of the oldest friends are agreed in paying the highest possible tribute to the industry and integrity of Ed Watson. One old acquaintance says: "He was the most consistent, working Christian I ever knew."

Early Atlas Is Gift of Mrs. Belle Martin

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Martin of Arnold, Nebr., were in Ord last week visiting relatives and friends. In accordance with a promise made some months ago, Mrs. Martin brought with her an atlas of Valley county which once belonged to her father, Frank Potter. It was put out in 1900 and contains much valuable data of the county as it was in those days.

Mrs. Martin was Belle Potter in those days, and she and the other children got a lot of enjoyment out of the atlas, she says, but figured it would be valuable as a reference book in the Quiz office. There are two pages of pictures of prominent people of those days, which will be the subject of a Quiz story at some later date.

While here the Martins visited Mrs. Bessie Roby at North Loup. Among those visited in Ord were the Harvey Thomsons, the E. O. Hackels, the Edgar Roes and Mrs. H. C. Koll, all of whom have been friends of long standing. The Potters, it will be remembered, once lived in Springdale.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gilmore and son Tommy came from Lincoln and they and her mother, Mrs. W. A. Bartlett spent the week end visiting in the George Zimund home.

Two Are Seeking Divorce, Charge Made of Cruelty

Two divorce suits have been filed the past week in district court. In one Alice Irene Skoll is asking a divorce from Elvin Skoll, on grounds of cruelty. She is represented by Davis and Vogelzanz.

In the other case, Florence Hutchins is asking a divorce from Floyd Hutchins, grounds given being cruelty. Davis and Vogelzanz are lawyers for Mrs. Hutchins.

CROP Week Comes November 6 to 12; Plans Completed

Country Areas to Be Canvassed by School Districts, Is Idea.

The week of Nov. 6 to 12 has been designated as CROP week, and during that week solicitations will be made for gifts for sending overseas. The rural areas of the county will be divided into school districts as units, North Loup and Arcadia will be solicited as towns and Ord will be divided into the three wards.

The solicitors are authorized to accept anything the people want to give, but emphasis is being placed on corn, since two good crops in successive years has created a surplus, and almost any farmer could give a few bushels.

The county committee is planning for receiving stations which will be set up, and arrangements for collectors' donations is also being made. Trucks will make the rounds and pick up the gifts, if enough trucks can be secured. Farmers who wish to use their trucks may do so in place of other donation.

Church representatives in foreign fields state there is still a definite need, especially among displaced persons, orphans and the aged and sick.

Chanticleers Still Rank in Top Ten

Get Acid Test This Week in Meeting No. 2 Team, Gothenburg.

The Ord Chanticleers hung on to their eighth place rating among Class B high school football teams in the state. The Chants were in a three-way tie with Holdrege and Lexington for 7th, 8th and 9th places last week.

Holdrege, beaten by the Chants in their first game of the season, moved to 6th place by virtue of the 7-7 tie with Cozad, Class B state leader.

Ord will get the acid test Friday night of this week when they meet Gothenburg on the home sod. The Swedes, ranked No. 2 team of the state, are heavily favored.

Superior, slated for a post season game with Ord on November 18, ranks in 5th place in the state. Lexington, who beat Ord this year, holds the tenth place ranking.

Other Loup Valley teams continued to drop the nod in Gregg McBride's favored rankings this week. In Class C, Loup City is ranked 5th and Ansley 8th.

Taylor holds the second place position in Class D, with five other teams in the race. Sacred Heart of Greeley is 5th, Comstock 6th, Litchfield 7th, Merma 8th and Mason City 9th.

Bethel Baptists Hold Second Anniversary

Sunday, Oct. 30 was a big day in the life of Bethel Baptist church in Ord. It was then that the congregation observed their second anniversary, which occurred Oct. 26.

The pastor, Eugene Olson, brought a message on "The Challenge of the Past" based on Second James. Following the preaching service the members and friends enjoyed a fine fellowship dinner in the church.

The evening service was a rich blessing to all with its many musical numbers, both vocal and instrumental, and the messages by members of the church on the themes, "What My Church Home Has Meant to Me", and "The Place of the Local Church in the Community". The church was well filled and the evening was one of profit to all.

As a church the members expressed their sincere appreciation to the friends in the community for the fine reception shown and the kindnesses extended the pastor and the people.

Youthful Cowpoke Bound for Texas

A young would-be cowboy, Robert Stanton of Detroit, Mich., stopped for a few hours in Sargent last week on his way to Texas and a job on a ranch. In true cowpuncher style, he was riding a horse. He was also leading a spare.

One of his horses went lame on the way to Sargent, and he had to hold up for a blacksmith to fit a shoe. He came by way of Bassett and Taylor, but did not explain how he got this far west on his way to Texas.

Halloween

Halloween is the name of the popular, boisterous autumn celebration and means, ironically, "holy eve" the occasion being the eve of "All Hallows" or All Saints Day, November 1. These names represent a Christian appropriation of a pagan festival of autumn. The familiar customs of our Halloween — the games and pranks of children and grownups, together with ghostly tales by the firelight — are relics of ancient pagan days.

Long before Christian times the Romans celebrated at about the Halloween season, the festival of Pomona, goddess of gardens. The druidic autumn feast was observed at about the same time. Hence in western Europe and England Roman customs were added to the

What's Cookin' Ward's Column

A lot of water has passed under the bridge since Oliver Cromwell and Libbie Ollis were married Oct. 27, 1899. That was just after the Spanish-American war, and all the details had not been ironed out yet. It was only a short time after the most memorable campaign in American history, the campaign between the two Williams, William McKinley, who was elected, and William Jennings Bryan, the boy orator of the Platte, who was defeated. It was the year after Hawaii had been acquired by the United States. The Golden Era, 1896 to 1916, was just nicely started.

Automobiles had not as yet made their first appearance this far west. It was still some time before the first airplane flight at Kittyhawk. Telephones were in use, but were few and far between. In fact Ord had been lined up for long distance conversation only a month before. The radio was in the experimental stage, along with wireless telegraphy, and the enjoyment of the radio in the home was not due for a quarter of a century. Russia was under the czar, and they were leaving other people alone.

Yes, a great many things have happened in the past fifty years, but Mr. and Mrs. Cromwell have gone right along living the kind of life the Lord intended them to live, lending a hand to everybody in time of need. They started out that way, and they will continue to live a life of sacrifice for others until they are called to the better land. Come to think of it, in this world constant change seems to be the order, the only things worth having are unchangeable. The fresh air, the blue skies, the sunshine and the rain, the love of God and the esteem of your fellow men, food to eat, clothes to wear, a place called home to enjoy, and a job to provide the funds to keep going. Any man who demands more than this is hard to please.

I find I can't work as hard as I once did, but I joined the gang and went down to the husking bee, where perhaps sixty neighbors met to get Jim Vogeler's bumper crop of corn out of the field. That was a busy day. Ten or a dozen pickers were on the job, and they had the most of the corn out by noon. Sixty acres of it, and well over 4,000 bushels all went into the crib before nightfall. In addition to the pickers, there were a dozen tractors and trucks busy hauling the corn into town to the storage bins, and plenty of men for all the odd jobs around the elevators, both in town and in the field, and for gleaming the corn the machine missed.

Then there was that never to be forgotten meal served cafeteria style at the hospitable home of Mrs. Rose Fuss, just across the road. The ladies brought every conceivable kind of food, including pie and cake, and they saw to it that everybody had all he could eat. That wasn't just ordinary food, either. It tasted better than anything I had eaten for a long time, and that is taking into quite a lot of territory, for the Lion's chuckwagon feeding the preceding night had left nothing to be desired except more room to

Joseph Stupka, Burwell Resident, Taken by Death

Joseph Stupka, Burwell resident for many years, was found dead in his home Monday last week by a neighbor, Emory Szmarcsanyi, who made a habit of calling on him each morning. Dr. Smith was called and announced that Mr. Stupka had been dead ten to twelve hours when found.

Mr. Stupka was a bachelor and had lived in Burwell with his mother until her death several years ago. His health had not been good for several years. He is survived by one sister; Frances Nedebalek of Parma, Idaho.

Joe W. Leedom, former editor of the Gordon Journal and well known all over Nebraska, has gone back into the newspaper game. Word has been received that he has purchased the Lakewood News-Times, a Long Beach, Calif. paper.

York county is right in line in the school redistricting plan. A committee of ten members has been selected to study the problem and devise a new arrangement of districts which will be equitable and fair under the new law.

A termite inspector from Omaha has found termites busy in several Havenna residences, and in a few cases the damage is rather serious. Termites have been working along the Platte valley for several years, but this is the first report of them so far north.

In case you didn't notice it, tent control in Nebraska was thrown overboard Wednesday of this week. The defense areas in Omaha and Lincoln were the only spots in the state still under control, so the average citizen would not know much about it.

Friday of this week a number of the former Indian school buildings at Genoa will be sold at auction, to be moved or torn down by the purchasers. The buildings have been used very little of recent years, and it was decided to sell them.

The high school at Ashton was closed last week because of a deal in the heating plant. Actually only three days were lost, as the teacher's convention was held Thursday and Friday.

Ed Majerus, 25, of near Albion, was painfully injured when his clothing caught in the shaft of a corn elevator he was operating at his home. He was thrown around the shaft several times until his clothing tore off, and received numerous painful but not serious bruises.

Mary Wagner of Burwell has been selected as a state 4-H winner, which will give her the chance to compete for the national awards given 4-H workers on ironing technique.

Emma Burke, 78, was found dead Wednesday evening of last week by Sargent firemen, who had been called out to search for her. Her death was attributed to a heart attack.

++ Something Different ++

As much of their lives as they later spend in cooking, marketing, keeping house and all its phases, it seems to me women spend very little time securing training for their real jobs of a life-time.

I have about decided that the ideal training for a girl must be something between a good nurse in nursing and a good course in the economic. Then she would have the background of education with which to meet almost any situation that would arise later in her life, and she would have to a means of making her living should she ever need to do so.

And have you noticed how many women work at some period of their lives? Either they teach a few years when they are young, or they find it convenient to take a job behind a cash register for a lonesome time when "the children are all away at school", or perhaps Father becomes an invalid and the money Mother can't find is a genuine need of the family.

So it does seem foolish not to train girls to make a living, along with training them for their home-making career.

Gene and I were discussing... just how long would a trip take, if you stopped in every little town or city where you have a friend to visit? Friends once intimate perhaps, now removed a bit both by time and distance, but still dear?

When we get in the car to make a trip, as we did Friday when we went down to Lexington, Missouri to see Kerry, we climb aboard at the latest possible minute that will get us there on time. Till the last minute Gene plows through the work on his desk, bangs out letters, scribbles orders, O. K.'s jobs. Shaving is the speediest ever, packing is a pass at the open bag, "Wis; Nelle Aldrich of Los Angeles, a nephew and "ties checked". Before you know it we're in the car and gone, and "are the doors locked, Sonny?" To Ted as he settles into the back seat.

So we steam down the highway, intent on getting to our destination as speedily as possible.

"All at once I say to Gene "Auburn: why that's where Harold Taylor live now, isn't it? And did (don't you always? "Gee it's been a long time since we saw them."

Gene sets me right with "I thought it was Aurora where they live now. That's where they moved the last time I knew anything about it."

And so it is, town after town. You dash through with vague recollections "Well, someone we liked real well moved to Auburn, who was it then?"

So on this trip, we tore through a small Iowa town where some very dear friends live, and I say to Gene "I hope they never hear we went through here and didn't stop!"

Even on the way home. All at once I say to Gene "St. Mary's College! St. Mary's College... who do you know who goes there?"

"No", Gene answers patiently, used to my devious conversational approaches.

"Why, that's where Rosellen Vogeltanz goes to school, I'm just sure that's the place."

We turn around and gawk at the imposing buildings sitting atop rolling hills to our west, the C. J. is a banker now. But what of such people as A. M. Daniels, Haydn Strong, Samuel Fackler, D. L. Williams, Frank Mallory, L. D. Bailey and sons, Milford and Sons. The Bailey building remains, but the firm is gone, and the Milford building is soon to be a memory, in all probability.

How Heavy IS WATER?

The average bucketful weighs 29 pounds. Wash day takes between 12 and 20 buckets, scrubbing and cleaning about the same amount. Routine kitchen work demands about 200 pounds of water every day. Water can be very heavy... if you have to pump and carry every drop you use. But running water—delivered by a Dempster Water System—makes light work of all your chores.

The Power that made Buick Famous

If you want to know what's "the newest thing" in automobile engines, look at the Buick engine pictured here, and you'll see the words "valve-in-head."

But it happens that this isn't new with Buick. As a matter of fact, the valve-in-head engine was invented back in 1902—U. S. Patent No. 771095—and immediately, Buick adopted the principle, which became the first in a long string of "Buick firsts."

Not everyone went for the idea—then. In spite of the fact that this engine "breathes" more freely—gets fuel in and exhaust gases out more easily—others hung onto their pet ideas.

Then came the airplane, with its need for maximum power from every drop of fuel—and every maker of internal combustion airplane engines adopted the valve-in-head principle.

And more recently—with the hope that higher-octane fuels will become available—a lot of automotive engine designers are taking a new look at the valve-in-head idea.

But just for the record, we'd like to point out that Buick got there first.

And ever since, Buick has gone steadily ahead, building up a name as "valve-in-headquarters." Buick engineers reshaped pistons to put Fireball wallop in these engines. They stepped up compression ratios as fast as better fuels came along.

So perhaps you'll want to remember, when you hear the term "valve-in-head," that this is the type of power that made Buick famous.

If others want to climb on the bandwagon, we say "more power to them"—and no pun is intended.

But Buick has been doing more with valve-in-head right from the start.

And—we might add—it stands to reason that Buick is not through making this type of engine better and better.

Fifty Years of Football as Shown by the Old Files of the Ord Quiz

The second decade, 1910 to 1919, inclusive, showed Ord making wonderful improvement in that greatest of high school and college sports, football. The start was weak, however, with only one game mentioned in 1910. This came Nov. 3, when Loup city came to Ord and played the local team at the fair grounds. The final score was 26 to 0 in favor of Loup City, and the score by quarters was Loup City, 10-15-1-0, and Ord four ciphers. The Ord team had practiced very little and never had played a real game up to that time.

The Quiz makes no mention of any football games played in 1911, and it is probable there were none worth mentioning. The game got back into print early in 1912, and from the enthusiasm displayed by W. W. Haskell in writing about it there must have been some real playing done. The style of writing up games has changed greatly since that day, and for this reason the news story of the first game, played Oct. 14, is given verbatim:

"Last Monday the history of the Ord high school's football team was changed. Off and on we have had a team in the school but with very indifferent success until Monday. Now with the help of an enthusiastic coach and captain we have a team that has a showing at last. This was done at Sargent to the tune of 35 to 0. From the very beginning the game was Ord's. In fact, the first time the ball was passed Ord made a touchdown, 6 points, and before the quarter was over 19 points was added to the list. In the next quarter field goal was kicked and in the third quarter a touchdown and free kick were made. During the last quarter neither side scored leaving the score 35 to 0 in favor of Ord. The boys came home wearing Sargent a 'jolly good town

Friday, Nov. 1, 1912, Ord defeated Sargent at Ord by a score of 30 to 0. Wise made a place kick from the 40 yard line, quite an achievement on any football field Nov. 4, the Ord team went to Seward and won, 35 to 0, all points being made in the first half. No worthy features were two 1-gains by Blessing on forward passes, and a touchdown by Flynn on a forward pass. Thus it appears that the forward pass had become a part of football at that time.

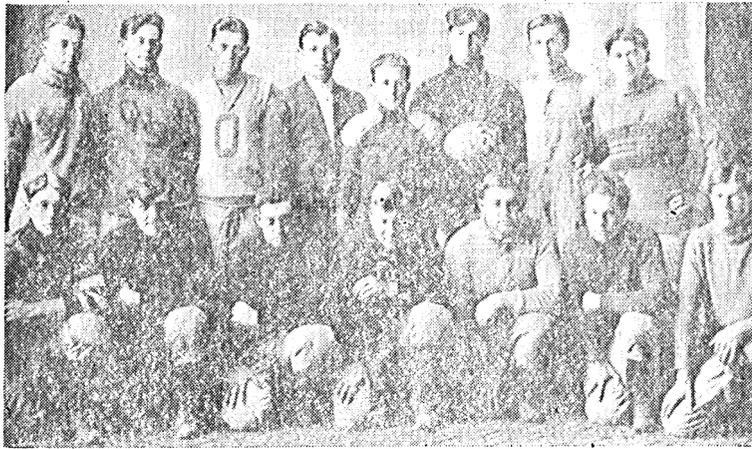

The Quiz records the lineup, the famous Ord high school football team of 1912, as follows: J. Haskell, center; George M. and Ralph Norman, guards; Edwin Clements and Harold Weddel, tackles; F. L. (Dr.) Blessing and Les Flynn, ends; Floyd Collins, qb; Joe Johns and Alfred (Turk) Sorensen, rb; Earl E. Wise, fb and captain. Friday, Nov. 8, the same team played at Greeley with the exception of Charley Hawkins, who took the place of Sorensen. Greeley was determined to win if possible, and insisted on using their own referee, who favored the home boys all the way. In spite of this they were unable to score. In the game Wise was carrying the ball around near the side lines when County Attorney Boier caught him by the hair. Ordites may recall that Stuffy wore his hair long, and it was curly. Boier jerked him

the fact. In "My Own Column" for Oct. 23, 1919, H. D. Leggett has an interesting comment on the football situation, herewith reprinted:

"I see where the community club in a neighboring town got behind the high school team, and through the influence the business houses closed for a couple of hours and the members of the Community club attended the game in a body. The team won the game, too. Of course they would with that kind of cooperation. And what do you suppose those high school boys will do when they become men? They will never forget the lesson and they will always be found boosting for the schools, for they know it takes that kind of boosting to win. Perhaps if the Ord high school eleven had received that kind of support this fall, and they should have had it, they would not have felt that they must disband before the end of the football season. No doubt that kind of support would have incited them to keep their school grades higher, in fact they would have been ashamed to do otherwise. Will we learn the lesson and will the businessmen get out next year and help put Ord on the map through the football team?"

Thus ends the second of 50 years of Ord football, 1910 to 1919 inclusive. There is much left unsaid during the decade, partly due to the fact that part of the files are missing, and partly due to the fact that about half of the years Ord had no football worth mentioning. The files are all available for the third decade, and plenty of material is there for a more interesting story. It was during the third decade that organized athletics began to pay their own way.

Will Start Vet Insurance Refund Payments in Jan.

Estimated $250,000 Coming to Veterans in Valley County.

An estimated quarter million dollars in refunds of insurance over payments will start coming to Valley county veterans shortly after the first of the year. The order of special insurance dividend to World War II veterans will be based generally on the last three digits of a veteran's serial number.

The Veterans Administration explained today for the first time the system under which checks will be mailed to veterans holding National Life insurance policies. Payments are to begin in January. Under the procedure, VA said, a veteran whose serial number ends in 000-35,496,000 for example, will be included in the first mailing of checks.

On the other hand, a veteran with a serial number such as 100-990 will be among the last to receive his check. The VA said this method of payment was decided upon after careful consideration, and described it as the most non-discriminatory that could be devised.

The full serial number has nothing to do with the order of payment—merely the last three digits. Likewise, the number on the card which VA sent to applicants will be broken down into groups as they are received. These groups will be separated into ten processing units by the last serial digits—0 to 9. There is a voucher printing machine for each of the ten groups, and it is hoped to handle a total of 200,000 accounts daily. This will be reached by drawing out 20,000 cards from each of the ten final-digit groups.

After all last digit serial numbers 0 to 9 have been processed, the procedure will be repeated based on the second digit. About 16,000,000 veterans are eligible to receive the payments.

Cornhusker Boys, Girls Government

Next week there will be a Cornhusker Boys' and Girls' Government in operation at Burwell. The idea is being sponsored by Clifford Clark Post 298 of the American Legion, the Ladies Auxiliary, in cooperation with Burwell high school. George Tunnell is the county chairman of the program and is working with Hugh Pursell of the Burwell schools.

Members of the junior class will file for the various county offices campaign vigorously and hold primary and general elections on the first three days of the week. Thursday the successful candidates will assemble at the court house and learn the duties of their offices. It is planned to have a member of the supreme court of Nebraska present, and also the department commander of the American Legion.

Melvin W. Davis Dies at Kearney Tuesday, Nov. 8

Resident of Ord Since 1923; Injured 1905 in Railway Accident.

Melvin Woodhull Davis, second son of Nathan Stewart Davis, deceased 1905, and Minnie Woodhull, deceased 1911, was born near Papillion, Neb., July 6th, 1891. He lived there until 1899 when he moved with his parents to Shenandoah, Ia., but lived across the line in Missouri. He lived there until 1883, when he went to Omaha and began work for the Union Pacific in 1883, working for the company until 1905, when he was terribly injured in a wreck near Clark, Neb., and was unable to return to work for the railroad until 1914, when he went to work in Omaha until 1923, when he retired because of age.

He moved to Georgetown, Colo., in 1923, living there 7 years, then moved back to Valley county, which has been his home since. He passed away at Kearney Nov. 8, 1949, having been there 11 months. Cozad Defeats Lexington, 13-6

In one of the top Class "B" games of the season at Lexington Friday evening, Cozad defeated the Minutemen by a score of 13 to 6. Cozad scored all their points in the second period, while Lexington got their lone marker in the third period. Lexington was on the way to another touchdown when time ran out in the final period.

High points of the game were a 74 yard run by Dale Malcolm for Cozad. Thinking he had crossed the goal line, Malcolm started back up the field, and was tackled on the ten yard line. However, Rubottom and Lyle Jensen carried the ball through for the score in two plays. The Lexington touchdown furnished the highest thrill of the entire game. Nutter of Lexington intercepted a pass on his own ten yard line and ran all the way for the score. The game probably gives Cozad undisputed possession of top spot in Class "B" ratings.

This week will highlight activities for the month, and according to State 4-H Club Leader E. W. Janke at the University of Nebraska, it will "serve as a kickoff for the biggest year in 4-H history — 1950." Many of the Nebraska clubs will hold their annual achievement meeting during the week. They'll report on their activities and accomplishments for the year and receive awards and a pat on the back for a job well done. Local club leaders and parents also will come in for their share of commendation. Each 4-H'er started a farming or homemaking enterprise this year. As an officer, committee member or other worker, he or she has helped with meetings, tours, at 4-H camp, with exhibits at the county and state fairs. The clubbers also compiled a report of the year's work to present for the observance of achievement week. The accomplishments of the boys and girls include nearly every phase of farm and home operation. Four-H club work is part of the national educational system of cooperative extension work in agriculture and homemaking in which the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the University of Nebraska and the counties of the state take part.

Nebraska Highway Needs as Shown in Recent Engineering Appraisal
Road and street widths are determined by the volume of traffic which they are designed to carry. Consideration must be given to operating safety and economically in this connection. In Nebraska, county roads having a very light traffic should have a surface 18 feet wide, while on heavier traveled county roads the gravel surface should be 22 feet wide. Not only is this wider road safer for the heavier volume of traffic, but drag maintenance is easier where the extreme width has been limited. There has been a gradual increase in the width of rural pavements, which was brought about by the rise in speed and traffic volumes, and by greater use of wider commercial vehicles. While the extreme width has been limited to eight feet, a greater proportion of vehicles carry that width now than in the past.
A great deal has been added to the cost of highways by the dual wheels of trucks and busses, therefore, to hold dimensions of the road to practical and economical minimums. Nebraska's standard width for pavement carrying up to 3,000 vehicles per day is 22 feet, which provides ample room for safe meeting and passing. The use of this pavement width adds to the safety of the highway and provides greater capacity for traffic volumes. It also prevents the rapid wear on adjacent shoulders by the dual wheels of trucks and busses, which results in traffic hazards and heavy maintenance expense.
Nebraska has need for only a limited amount of pavement which has more than two lanes. No provision has been made in the standards for three lane development, and it is an undesirable goal not being built in Nebraska. Four-lane divided pavement is desirable for the few miles in Nebraska having daily traffic count of more than 4,000 vehicles, and on roads with a count of 3,000 to 4,000. If special study shows that the pattern of peak travel requires it, to give efficient service, any highway, road or street, must be designed so that it can properly support most of the hourly traffic volumes which will occur on it.
To design a road so that it would have the capacity to support high traffic peaks which occur only a few times each year would be uneconomical. At the same time, if the design will not handle the volumes which occur fairly frequently, much will be lost in expediting traffic movement, and little will be saved in construction costs. Therefore Nebraska has adopted the 200 high hour principle as a basis for highway road and street design. This simply means that a road is so designed that, while there are many hours having a traffic volume of only slightly less than the 200 high hour, there will be 20 hours during the year when the road is inadequate.
Lane widths on four-lane divided roads are established at 12 feet. Medial strips should be wide enough to protect vehicles negotiating turns, and to provide space between opposing lanes for use in emergencies. A more complex problem is that of city streets. Capacity is the prime consideration, and is determined by intersection design, parking control, speed control, turning movements and pavement widths. Traffic travel types vary from the heavy flow of trunk lines passing through cities down to the very light movement in residential areas with corresponding variations in vehicle speeds and amount of congestion.
Nebraska standards call for streets up to 66 feet in width, 88 feet in a few exceptional instances, in urban areas where the traffic volume is more than 20,000 vehicles per day. The minimum standard for streets is 32 feet between curbs on slightly traveled streets and in residential areas in small cities and villages the minimum is a width of 24 feet on gravelled surface. Use of street parking space has a direct effect on proper street width. The Nebraska standards are based upon the use of streets for parking purposes, but restrict the use to parallel parking, which requires a minimum of 10 feet in urban areas where daily traffic volumes are in excess of 6,000 vehicles, provision is made for specifying narrower streets if parking is prohibited.
Less important streets are specifically only to width which will permit occasional parking at the same time allowing for the free movement of two lanes of traffic. On rural roads, shoulder widths have been determined with due regard to safety and economy. In general, state highways are to have shoulders up to 10 feet in width, depending on the traffic classification. If it is especially important that adequate shoulders be provided on heavily traveled roads provide maneuvering room to avoid a collision. Pedestrian safety is another consideration on certain roads. Narrow shoulders definitely decrease the effective width of pavement surfaces, by causing traffic to move away from the pavement edge.

Chanticleers Win from Gothenburg, Score of 12 to 7

Swedes Narrowly Miss Shutout; Score Comes in Last Two Minutes.

Chanticleer football stock reached a new high for the season Friday night when the Ord team tamed Gothenburg, 12 to 7, before a record-breaking crowd at Bussell field.

The Dawson county warriors were rated No. 2 in the state by Gregg McBride and had been given the nod by him over the Chants, but Coach Peterson's boys declined to be worried by the odds against them and outplayed Gothenburg from the start.

They were superior to the Swedes in every department and played well-nigh flawless football to win the plaudits of fans.

Ord outcharged the Swedes throughout the evening to chalk up 217 yards from rushing, while Gothenburg was gaining 132 yards, 35 of which came from the touch-down play. Ord accumulated 13 first downs to the opponents' six. The Swedes made only two first downs in the first half of the game.

Ord's first score came early in the second quarter after a long drive in the first period had been halted by a pass interception. The first score was set up when Heuck partly blocked a Gothenburg pass which deflected into the arms of McMinde on the Gothenburg 35.

Collins and Stoddard alternated in carrying the ball for the Chanticleers and moved down to the eight yard line. The first play following lost ground, but a fourth down pass from Stoddard to Richardson brought Ord's first score. The usually reliable Falter failed to kick the extra point, and the score at the half was Ord 6, Gothenburg 0.

The second Ord score came in the third period. Ord kicked off to Gothenburg and held the Swedes short of a first down. Adamek and Blaha got in quick enough to block the punt, which Richardson recovered on the Gothenburg 12. Stoddard went over on the next play, and Falter's kick was again wide.

The Swedes' vaunted passing attack was helpless before the fast-charging Ord line, who refused to allow Holmes to get his tosses away. Time after time Holmes was smothered by Richardson, Adamek and other Ord linemen.

A bad decision by the referee set up the pins for Gothenburg's only score. Late in the fourth period Holmes dropped back to pass but before he could get the ball away he was toppled by Adamek and Richardson. When tackled he dropped the ball, which was recovered by Ord, but instead of ruling it a fumble the officials called it an incomplete pass, though no attempt to pass had been made by Holmes. Without doubt the Chants would have driven to another touchdown had the play been called correctly but instead Gothenburg got a chance to start another play.

This play started with a double reverse, followed by a lateral and then a short pass to DeCamp, who went all the way for the score. Holmes ran right end for the extra point.

Stoddard and Collins were the running sparks for the Chanticleers, while the work of Dworak and Moore also stood out. Adamek, Blaha, and Richardson were outstanding on defense, although the entire Ord line played practically flawless ball.

Score by quarters:
Gothenburg 0 0 0 7—7
Ord 0 6 6 0—12

North Loup Wins Over Palmer by Score of 45-14

Barbara Hudson Is Crowned Football Queen for 1949.

The North Loup Challengers emerged winner over a fighting Palmer team at North Loup Thursday evening in a ragged but thrill-packed exhibition of six-man football. Fumbles gave North Loup the ball on two different occasions, both of which developed into touchdowns.

Palmer could not get under way in the first half, and did not rack up a single first down until next to the last play before the half ended. Penalties were numerous on North Loup, two of them for 15 yards each, while Palmer drew two for 5 yards each.

North Loup received, but failed to make first down and punted. Two plays later they recovered a Palmer fumble, and a pass, Hawkins to Goodrich, gave them 6 points. Shortly before the quarter ended Palmer recovered a North Loup fumble almost on the goal line, only to be forced back over the goal line for a safety and two points for North Loup.

In the second quarter Bob Hawkes was from the Palmer 30 yard line for a touchdown. The kick for points failed, as did every kick attempted during the game for North Loup. Twice the ball hit the crossbar, and both times bounced back.

Immediately after drawing a 15 yard penalty, Hawkes heaved a tremendous pass to Goodrich for another marker. In scrimmage following Palmer drew a 5 yard penalty, and then North Loup received the same. With time running out, Palmer went down the field to the North Loup 20 for a first down in the half following.

In the second half following North Loup's second 15-yard penalty, Palmer pushed across their first touchdown. They then kicked off, Kerr taking the ball and running it back from their own ten to the Palmer 12 yard line. The play gave North Loup a touchdown.

North Loup held Palmer for downs on their own 40, from which point Bob Hawkes uncorked the best pass of the game to Kerr on the Palmer 10, who ran it over for a touchdown. Getting possession of the ball a few plays later, North Loup pushed up and pushed downs as the third quarter ended, and one at the start of the fourth quarter, which was followed by a touchdown, and a point extra, made good on a pass.

Nothing daunted, Palmer took the kickoff on their 30, made two long first downs and then pushed over for their second touchdown, making the kick for point good. North Loup came back with two first downs and a touchdown by Kerr. Kerr was in on the final play of the game, intercepting a pass on the Palmer 30 as the game ended. Score, North Loup 45, Palmer 14.

At the half time intermission came the ceremony of crowning the North Loup 1949 Queen of football. A voting contest had been held by the high school for the past two years and the member of the senior class. As a result of this vote Barbara Hudson was chosen queen and Bernadine Edwards and Theresa Tolbert as her attendants.

The North Loup band, led by Director Williams, marched on the field, and the queen and her attendants, seated on the back seat of a convertible. They were introduced to the crowd by Announcer Clifford Goodrich, and Bob Hawkes, as captain for the evening, placed the crown on the queen's brow.

The three ladies were then escorted to a throne which had been erected at the side of the field, the band marched off the field, and play was resumed. Because the three ladies and most of the football players are members of the band, the ranks of the band were much depleted, but they made up enthusiastically what they lacked in numbers.

Loup City Raiders Beat Ravenna, 20-6

Scoring twice in the last quarter to clinch a victory already won, the Loup City Raiders defeated the visiting Ravenna Bluejays by a score of 20 to 6. The score was 7 to 6 going into the final quarter.

Steve Stotanski and Harlan Puncocar made the gains needed for the first score in the first period, Puncocar going over for the marker, and Stotanski running right end for the extra point. Ravenna came back in the second and drove from their own 20 to the Loup City 7 yard line, Norm Coles scoring for Ravenna from there. Loup City halted an attempted pass for the extra point.

Loup City made 321 yards from scrimmage and chalked up 17 first downs, while Ravenna got 129 yards and 4 first downs. Loup City got their second touchdown on straight football, and the third on a brilliant 60 yard run by Stotanski.

Laura Abernethy, Former Resident, Called by Death

Was Active in Church, PEO, Library and Civic Work While in Ord.

Laura Evalina Abernethy, 82, died at a Lincoln hospital Nov. 7, following a protracted illness. She was born at Nebraska City Nov. 6, 1867, the year Nebraska became a state, to George and Josephine Abernethy. In 1871 the family moved to a government homestead in Gage county.

Eight years later Mr. Abernethy bought a farm in Johnson county. Upon the death of his wife, he married again. In 1901 the family moved to what has since been known as the Abernethy farm in the north part of Noble township in Valley county. When Mr. Abernethy died in 1906, Mrs. Julia Abernethy, Harry and Laura moved to Ord.

Mrs. Abernethy died in 1922. Harry and Laura moved to California and remained until 1933, when Harry entered the Veterans hospital in Lincoln and died in 1931. Laura from that time until her fatal illness made her home with the Horace Davis family at 521 South 29th Street in Lincoln.

Laura Abernethy attended Nebraska State University. She was a member of the Methodist church at Elk Creek and at Ord. She was also active in PEO, in the Womans Club, in the library and in civic work.

She is survived by a brother, G. E. Abernethy of Elk Creek, nephews Raymond of Lincoln, George of Canada, and nieces in British Columbia, Washington and California. A sister-in-law, Mrs. Mabel Abernethy, lives in Ord. Brothers, Will, Harry and Jason preceded Laura in death.

After cremation, the ashes will be interred in the family lot in Ord. Short graveside services will be held at the Abernethy graves, weather permitting, Sunday afternoon at 2:30, with Rev. L. V. Hassell officiating.

Rural Radio Station Soon Near Lexington

The Nebraska Rural Radio association has selected Lexington as the best location for their proposed state-wide radio station. The location was chosen, according to Jay Person of Wauneta, president, because it would give the entire state the best possible service.

Vandalism Cause of Outage on REA Lines Recently

Shooting Insulators Causes Short; Sixty Users Out of Service.

This week the shooting of an insulator on the REA lines near the Anton Novotny place caused a short which left Mr. Novotny and fifty to sixty of his neighbors without energy for a period of approximately 2 1/2 hours.

Head Lineman Chet Austin went out to investigate and found the big insulator so completely shattered that he could find only a small piece to bring back with him. When the insulator was smashed the lines came together, causing the short.

It is possible that the trigger happy fellow who did the shooting did not realize the trouble he was causing, or the risk he was taking. Besides putting a lot of farmers out of service, it cost Austin a trip of 47 miles before he got things back in running order.

In addition to this, there was the chance that the bullet might sever the wire, which carries 7,200 volts, and is under 2,200 pounds tension. When a wire under tension breaks it flies, and is likely to hit anything. A person hit by the wire would be electrocuted at once.

It is apparent that the shot was fired from a high power rifle. This is the third insulator shot off in the approximate area in the past few months. Two caused the office trouble, and all three meant new insulators.

Such vandalism is a serious offense, and the company is offering a reward for information that will bring the culprit to justice. Manager W. P. Hollands is hoping that a warning will be sufficient.

Ord Reserves Win on Ravenna Field Tuesday Evening

Ord Linemen Trap Opponents Behind Line for Two Safeties.

Playing a superior brand of ball, the Ord Reserves brought home the big end of a 29 to 6 score from Ravenna Tuesday evening. They were accompanied by their coach, Roland Moore, and his assistant, Bill Gogan, and also by the Junior high boys, most of whom got into the latter part of the game.

The only Ravenna score was made against the junior-high players through the center of the line. The score at half time was 17 to six. The unusual 17 is explained by the fact that the Ord boys accounted for two safeties for 4 points.

Gerald VanWinkle made three touchdowns. Don Genski caught a 20 yard pass good for a touchdown. Maurice kicked the extra point. A blocked kick on the Ravenna 5 accounted for the first safety. Paul Penas making the tackle. For the other Ravenna was pushed back and Virgil Wither-wax made the tackle in the end zone.

Two more potential touchdowns came to naught. Maurice ran for a touchdown, but the play was called back for an offside penalty. Walter Sowers took a punt and was away for a touchdown, but Ord was penalized for roughing the kicker.

Ord City Council Holds Adjourned Meeting Monday

The Ord city council met Monday evening in an adjourned session, and followed the usual routine business of allowing claims. The report of the city treasurer was read and placed on file. Application of Walter A. Anderson for a master electrician's license was granted.

City Attorney Clarence M. Davis made a short summary of what he had learned by telephone of a traffic survey recently made in Ord. The regular report is not yet ready, but Mr. Johnston stated that he did not think the volume of traffic in Ord justified the installation of traffic lights.

He said it might be a good thing to have a man or school boy act as traffic cop at the intersection of 15th and L streets while the students were going to and coming from school. He also suggested a tentative try of holding speed limits to 20 miles per hour on N street north to L, and on L street west to 14th street.

There was some talk in regard to oiling the streets, and Mr. Davis was asked to write to Atkinson and Cozad and get all available data on their street oiling projects.

Ord Invited Join 8-Team Night Baseball League

Preliminary Meeting to Be Held Nov. 15 at Loup City.

Ord has been invited to join a new eight team baseball league playing night games two nights weekly in 1950. It was revealed this week by Walter Douthit, manager of the Ord club. He and E. C. Leggett, club president, will attend a meeting Nov. 15 in Loup City at which preliminary organization will take place.

Teams suggested as league members include, besides Ord, the towns of St. Paul, Ravenna, Shelton, Loup City, Boelus, Ansley and Broken Bow. All have lighted baseball fields.

Stanley Roy, secretary of the Loup City league which functioned in 1949, called the meeting and stated that applications for membership for towns other than those mentioned might be considered at the meeting.

Initial plan is to have each team play one home game and one game away from home each week during the season, probably on Wednesday and Sunday nights.

More information will be available after the Loup City meeting but Manager Douthit said that Ord players are definitely interested in the proposed new league.

No-Fund Check Brings County Court Action

On complaint of County Attorney Ralph W. Norman, Everett Williams of Arcadia was brought into County Judge Clochon's court Oct. 2, to answer to a charge of issuing an insufficient fund check. The check was made on the Arcadia State bank in the sum of $25 to White's Garage.

Mr. Williams entered a plea of guilty as charged and was assessed a fine of $20 which he paid, together with costs of $9.50. He also made good the amount of the check.

Grain.

The Grain Market has been firm of late with corn on the weak side. There has been very little grain going to market as the farmers have been busy picking corn. We can use a few cars of both white and yellow corn if it is dry. There is a heavy discount on corn that carries too much moisture. If you want to move some corn bring in a sample of it and let us run a moisture test on it and make you an offer.

Protein and Molasses Feeds.

Protein feeds have shown quite a little advance and some of the manufacturers tell us that we can look for higher protein prices. Most of the mills have their Nov. and Dec. output sold well in advance and Jan. protein are cheaper than those for immediate delivery. On molasses feed we can quote you a very low price on Beefnaker and you will find this one of the very best molasses feeds that you can feed. It carries 12% protein and 45% molasses. This feed is in pellet form and always pours from the sack; it is not sticky nor will it freeze in chunks. If you are putting your cattle in the yard now let us quote you a price on a four or five ton load delivered to your farm.

Tankage and Hog Supplement is a little cheaper than it has been for the past couple of months. We can supply you with 40% Hog Supplement in either meal or pellet form. Our delivered prices on feeds are very low; let us quote you.

Alfalfa and Sweet Clover Seed.

We are still buying alfalfa and sweet clover seed and will buy either in small or large lots. We will buy the seed either in the dirt on a clean basis or will reclean it and pay for the clean seed.

Bulbs.

Our Glad Blubs are now in condition to deliver. We have sixteen different varieties and you can buy them in separate varieties or mixed. Ask for a list of the different varieties with description of the colors.

We have a good stock of Paper White Narcissus either started or ready for you to plant in gravel. Plant them now for holiday blooms.

Brain Versus Brawn.

This is the age in which brain has superseded brawn as the great force in our nation, in the world. That is what we have been led to believe. But has it? In the Stone Age men fought it out with clubs or stone axes, and the better man, physically, survived. If brain entered into the equation, it had little or no effect.

As time went on, the physical was gradually supplanted by the mental. The man with the power to think could win out over the man who depended too much on brawn. That process has been going on for centuries, and today America proudly claims the highest percentage of intelligence and the greatest ability to use it of any nation on earth.

But, strange as it may seem, it is not to mental attainments that our highest plaudits go. Did you ever see thousands of people go wild with enthusiasm and tear up the rostrum from which the orator of their choice had just delivered a winning oration? The winner may receive a round of mild applause, but the crowd never goes wild over it.

How different when the arena is the gridiron and the home team wins, partly by brains, it is true, but more largely by sheer brawn. When the victory is won the crowd swarms all over the field, tears up the goal posts and takes the pieces home as souvenirs. They talk for weeks about the glory the team brought to Dear Old Buellie High.

The facts are that modern man is no different from his ancient ancestor who was long of hair and short of clothes. He still wants to show his preference for physical prowess, and he does so whenever the occasion affords. It takes more brains to win a chess game, but the football stadium draws the crowds, and the rooters for the chess players are few and far between.

People go to football games to see two things, however. They go to admire the physical ability of the team, and also the mental agility of the quarterback and the teamwork with which the home team outwits the opposition, or vice versa. It is true that it takes brains to play football, but if it were a contest of brains alone, nobody would come to watch the game.

People like to hear the band play and march at football games. Here again comes the question of whether they come to hear the music or to watch the marching, which is largely a physical accomplishment. People used to gather by thousands to hear Billy Sunday preach, but there is some question whether they were attracted more by his words or by the gymnastic exhibition he always put on.

Summing up, people enjoy anything that appeals to the senses of sight and hearing far more than they do something that requires the mental exertion of thinking. In athletic contests you see and hear, with a minimum of mental exertion. People go to the picture show or stage for the same reason. The average American might well say: "Give me something to look at or listen to, but please do not ask me to think."

Is Law Justice?

According to common sense, of which our lawmakers are supposed to have a great deal, law and justice should be synonymous terms. As a matter of fact they are not. All too often a sharp lawyer takes advantage of the quirks of the law to defeat justice. Witnesses are sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, and then the lawyers will not permit them to tell the truth.

However, there are sections of the laws themselves that are unjust. One of these is that part of the game laws which gives the courts the right to confiscate a hunter's gun for certain infractions of the law. If it is right to take a man's gun when he breaks the game law, it would be just as fair to take a man's automobile when he breaks the highway laws.

In each case the law would be taking away a man's personal property. In each case he had to obtain a license for the privilege of using it. In each case he is responsible for any damage it may inflict. The idea of confiscation apparently is to put teeth into the law. If so, perhaps a man who stood to lose his auto would think twice before he broke the laws of the road.

The law leaves it to the discretion of the judge as to whether the gun should be confiscated or not. Judges frequently listen to the demands of the game wardens, who know how much trouble they had in apprehending and arresting the offender. To date guns haven't been confiscated in cases heard in Valley county court.

Confiscation of personal property is going beyond the intention of the Bill of Rights. The man who goes out to hunt is not a criminal. He carries a gun for purposes of sport and not for the purpose of robbery, as the holdup man does. Confiscation of his gun is putting him in the same category with the criminal, which is manifestly unfair.

What's Cookin' Ward's Column

Maurice W. Curran has this to say in his "Caught on the Bound" column in the Greeley Citizen. It is so good that I am passing it on. "Prime Minister Atlee of England is slashing government expenses. Inasmuch as King George receives an annual salary of $1,145,000 and other members of the royal family salaries far in excess of those paid our highest paid officials, here, it would seem, would be a good place to start slashing."

I would like to do a little commenting along the same line. By doing a little long division I find that the king's daily salary is $3,145, or nearly $100 an hour for an eight hour day. Bricklayers are about the highest paid artisans in the country today. Now, there is a mark for almost any labor union to shoot at.

But bricklayers and other working men are experts in their respective lines. They know their jobs, and they try to earn the money they are being paid. Most of them, if necessity required, could turn to some other job and make a good living at it. Not so with the king. He is the king and nothing else. There isn't a job on earth he could make a decent living at. If the fellows who are always at his beck and call should fail to show up, he'd probably have to stay in bed all day, because he cannot even dress himself.

Yet this man actually gets more per month than the president of the United States gets in a year. Further, the president could step right out of his present job and make a good living at a number of other lines of business. Not only that, he is not a figure-head, as is the king. The president has a wife, and he works at it. He can dress himself, shave himself, take his own bath, tie his own shoes. He is a man among men.

But the biggest laugh, to me, is the fact that King-Worshipping England has a socialistic government, which by its very nature is opposed to kings and kingdoms. In England they have, or are trying to have, cradle-to-grave security. They have socialized medicine. The government pays for every person's glasses and teeth, when and if they need them. They are trying their damndest to give the common man a square deal, yet they pay a man good for nothing on earth over a million dollars a year.

The Greeley Citizen is not the only paper with a good editorial column. The remarks by the editor, whether in the shape of standard editorials, always written in third person, or in columns such as this, the Boss's Own Column or Irma's Something Different — it is these columns that make the paper different, for there is a sameness in news, regardless of who writes it.

Among the exchanges that come to the desk every week there are some visitors especially welcome, because of their fine editorial columns. One of these is just across the county line, the Comstock News. Edw. S. Krikac always has something worth reading in his "Rough Judges." For example, last week he told about a trick or treat deal in reverse which happened in Comstock, when eight young lads knocked on the door of Mrs. Flora Stone's home. Instead of asking for treats, they brought her apples, candy and doughnuts. But they had the happiest Halloween of any Comstock kids.

A man who writes in a rather more serious vein is Wilbur Harold Plourd of the Nance County Journal, Fullerton, that is. He goes more into state and national affairs and makes some interesting and enlightening remarks every week. He may not know all about the trend of politics, but he certainly knows his share.

Then there is the weekly column, "Splinters," written by Warren C. Wood in his Gering Courier. He has a gift of selecting the items that his readers will enjoy, and he knows just how to write them. Reed O'Hanlon Jr., of the Blair Pilot-Tribune has a weekly column he calls "Hooligans" that is really hard to beat.

Last but not least among the men comes Jim Cromwell of the Stanton Register. Jim didn't locate in Ord, but he did the next best thing, he married an Ord girl, Bette Vogelanz. He has a special column of spicy items each week, and he puts it right on the front page, where people will not have to hunt for it.

Coming back closer home and deferring to the gentler sex, there is the Burwell Tribune's Aunt Sally who always says just what she thinks, and doesn't seriously care whether you agree with her or not. She is one of many women in the newspaper field, and one who always writes something worth the reading.

It isn't news to most people that the state highway department ran a white line along the middle of Highway 11, all the way from here to there. It also isn't news that they put the yellow line at strategic spots to prevent people from passing in the more hazardous places. But it might be of interest to some people to know how the general public is reacting to this measure for the safety of travelers on the highway.

I do some walking along the highway nearly every morning, and I have also been observing what occurs when I catch a ride. For example, there is one man who passed me nearly every morning for two weeks. Normally he drives at about 60 miles per hour, but I observed that he made it a point to speed up to about 70 per cent as he was passing me, and then slow down to sixty after he got by. He didn't want me thumbing a ride, I suppose, but he was worrying needlessly. I never "Thumb a Ride."

One morning during the combined hunting season a lot of autos were coming along from other counties, and all traveling fast. First came a Howard county car, and he kept to his own side of that white stripe. Next came a Hall county car. He had the white stripe right down the middle of his car, and he kept it that way as far as I could see him. Later cars from Nance and Merrick counties came along, and they were keeping to their own side. I have no pick on Hall county. I only state what I observed.

Finally, a word to the wise. Do not thumb a ride. The chances are you will get turned down, and the man who is going to pick you up will do so, whether he sees your thumb or not. Many drivers view a man with suspicion if he has his thumb up, but are disposed to be less critical of a man who is going along attending to his own business. People are more willing to help a man who will help himself.

Armistice Day

Our first impulse on Armistice Day is quite properly, to bow our heads in sorrow for the loss of these valiant men who made the supreme sacrifices during two world wars. We remember Chateau Thierry and the Marne. We recall Guadalcanal, Anzio and Normandy. We sigh and recall that Victory was achieved in both wars and yet there is still no true victory of peace.

Thus it is that no memorial to these valiant men can ever express the honor that is due them, unless it is a living memorial expressed in terms of achieving the principles for which they gave their lives.

So, when we pause on this day to try to do them honor by parades that pass in the moment and speeches that vanish from memory on their own winged words, let us resolve anew to oppose intolerance and demagoguery with every one of the cherished democratic instruments at command.

Union Services Will Be Held On Thanksgiving Day

Many Ord Churches to Give Program. Other Services Also Listed

If Ord people do not attend church on Thanksgiving day this year, it will not be for want of services to attend. On Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock there will be union services in the Bethel Baptist church, with the Assembly of God, Presbyterian, Methodist, Evangelical United Brethren and Baptist churches cooperating.

The four pastors as well as others will be taking part in the service. Special musical numbers will be furnished by the cooperating churches. This service should be one of blessing and inspiration to all and should merit a large attendance.

Due to the absence of Fr. Thomas Stodowski, there will be no special service at the Ord Catholic church on Thanksgiving, but there will be 40 hour devotions on the following Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 27, 28 and 29.

Pastor Christen Jeppesen of Bethany Lutheran church announces special services there beginning at 10 a. m. Thanksgiving Day. Special singing, a special offering and a sermon suited to the day will be included in the program. The public is cordially invited to any and all these special services.

Chanticleers Skid to Ninth Place in McBride Ratings

If Ord Wins This Week Will Probably Drop Clear Out of Best Ten.

Judging by past performances, a Super this Friday by the Chanticleers will drop Ord out of the favored top ten teams in Class B football, as compiled by Gregg McBride, World-Herald sports writer.

Following their 21-7 gallop past Curtis, a Super this Friday by the Chanticleers skidded to 9th place in the McBride ratings. Lexington, only victor over Ord this season, rests in 10th place.

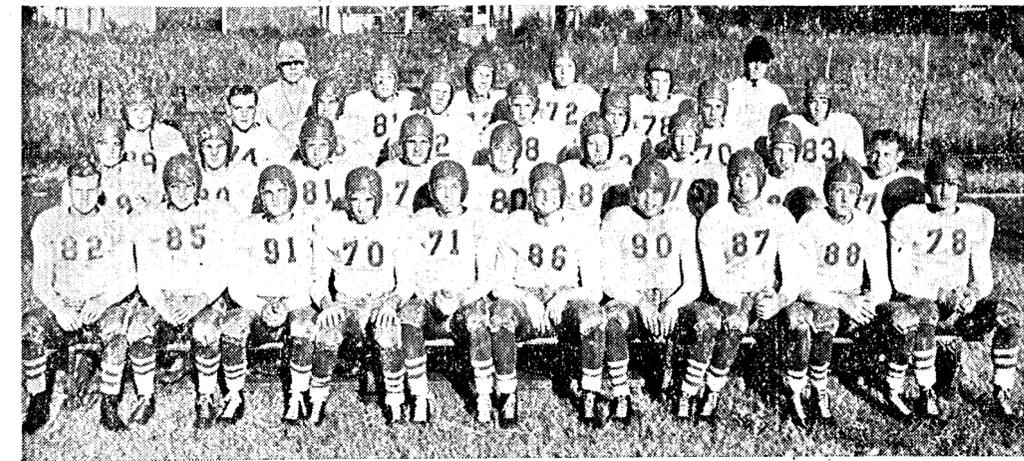

Ord started the season in the upper bracket of the mythical rating system, and has slipped steadily following victorious games, Holdrege and Gothenburg, both victims of the Chanticleers this year, are ranked in 7th and 6th place.

Cruel Test Friday The Chant's crucial test will come this Friday when they tangle with the undefeated Superior eleven at Superior. Ranked in 3rd place in the top ten teams of Class B, Superior is given a slight edge over the Chants in what should be a nip and tuck affair.

Other class B ratings put Nebraska City 1st, Minatare 2nd, Minden 4th, Cozad 5th and David City 8th.

In Class C competition, Ansley hangs onto 6th place, Loup City in 7th. In Class D, Taylor is 2nd, Gretey Sacred Heart 5th, Comstock 6th, Hatchfield 7th, Merna 8th and Mason City 9th.

Chanticleers Face Crucial Test Friday at Superior

Winners of the northern division of the Trans-Nebraska conference, and defeated only by Lexington this season, the Ord Chanticleers face Superior high school Friday to determine the conference championship. Superior, undefeated, and scored on only by Geneva, beat Crete, Nelson, Red Cloud, Wymore, Sutton, Minden, Hebron and Geneva to win southern division honors of the conference. The Chants have scored 158 points to their opponents' 32, while Superior has scored 297 points to their opponents' 6. Over 200 Chanticleer fans are expected to make the trek to Superior Friday to cheer the home team.

Assessor Noll, Supervisor Joe Kamerad, Resign

Board Will Act to Fill Vacancies in January Session.

The Valley county board has two resignations to consider. County Assessor W. C. Noll has asked to be relieved of his duties, effective January 1, and County Supervisor Joe Kamerad has asked to be released from his duties in District 2, comprising Geranium, Liberty and Vinton townships.

Mr. Noll's name was placed on the ticket by the Republican central committee after the sudden death of J. L. Abernethy, and was elected to the office in the general election of 1916. He has made a very satisfactory record in the office, and much regret is being expressed at his resignation. Mr. Kamerad was elected in 1918 as successor to J. V. Suchanek, who preferred to retire from membership on the board. While the board has not so stated, it is expected that the vacancies will be filled by appointment in January.

Cosmopolitans Make Plans For 3 Special Days

Trap Shoot, Football Banquet and Ladies' Night All Coming Up

The Ord Cosmopolitans have a number of interesting events planned in the near future. First will come a trap shoot at the Valley County fair grounds next Sunday, Nov. 20, at which turkeys, geese, ducks and chickens will be offered to the most skillful shooters.

Further away, but none the less important, is the football banquet, which will be held Dec. 6 with the Ord football squad as special guests. As this is not due for three weeks, complete details are not as yet available, but will be announced later.

Last but not least will be Ladies' night, the date of which is set for Thursday evening, Dec. 8. Committees on all of these events are busy and complete details should be available next week together with the results of the trap shoot.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Horner and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Lemmon and Jean and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Absalon and family were Thursday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Baker for oyster stew.

Band to Accompany Football Team to Superior Friday

Quiz Offers Pay Half of Travel Expense, Makes Trip Possible.

Until Tuesday afternoon Ord school authorities had not planned to send Ord's great high school band to Superior with the Chanticleers Friday when they play for the Trans-Nebraska league championship. Then Superintendent C. C. Thompson and Gene Leggett, general manager of the Ord Quiz, got their heads together and the next morning Supt. Thompson announced the joyful tidings that the band would make the trip.

The Ord Quiz had offered, announced Thompson, to pay half the travel expense involved in sending the band to Superior by chartered bus, providing the other half could be financed by the school or by the Chamber of Commerce, or possibly by the Superior Chamber of Commerce which previously had invited the Ord band to be present. Through these sources the money needed was quickly raised. Total cost of the trip will be about $220.

Superior, undefeated this season, represents the south division of the Trans-Nebraska league, while Ord, unbeaten in league play, represents the north division. Winner of this game will be recognized as champion of one of Nebraska's strongest leagues.

Football experts rate Superior above Ord but the Chanticleers have upset such predictions before and expect to do it again this week. Presence of their band and cheer leaders will give them a better chance to win, is the hope of the Quiz owners and staff, and they are glad to help in sending the band to the game.

Ord people to the total of three or four hundred will attend the game if good weather holds.

Corn Picking Soon to End, According to Crop Reports

Fields Have Empty Look as Nov. 18 Near; 1948 Is Not Forgotten

According to the weekly weather and crop report put out from Lincoln, corn picking is soon to end, especially in the east half of the state. Dry conditions have interfered and are still interfering with mechanical pickers, which will not pull the dry husks off as they should.

In some cases in Valley county and doubtless all over the state, farmers are using their pickers only in the early morning, when the machines get the ears fairly clean. When the frost dries and the corn becomes too ragged, they quit until the next day.

It is a notable fact that farmers in general are hurrying their husking to meet an imaginary deadline before the anniversary of the first blizzard of last winter, Nov. 18. There is no reason to believe that winter will start on that date this year, but it is a good idea to play safe.

Present information supports the Nov. 1 official estimate of 33 bushels per acre for the entire state, which is 2 bushels below the Oct. 1 estimate and 3 bushels below the yield last year. It is believed that the general average for Valley county will exceed the 33 bushels state average, largely due to the irrigated acreage.

Travel Started Over New Bridge

Chamber Sponsors Bargain Days and Donates Gasoline

Travel started over the new North Loup river bridge at Ord last week. The Capitol Bridge Co., contractors, got the job completed within the time required in the contract, and is now busy tearing down the remaining span of the old bridge.

It is not known at this time when and if there will be a formal opening of the bridge held, but most people are of the opinion that some such observance should be held. This is the first permanent bridge ever to be built in Valley county, and it is only fitting that such an event should be observed.

Writ of Mandamus In Sumter Bridge Case Is Denied

Judge Kroger Rules Against Roy Hudson In Court Wednesday

At a hearing in district court Wednesday last week Judge E. G. Kroger denied the application of Roy Hudson, asking that the county supervisors be required to repair the bridge at Sumter, a part of which was washed away in the flood waters last spring.

The judge based his opinion upon a recent case involving a similar situation about a bridge in Sherman county. The Sherman county case denied a writ of mandamus and the supreme court affirmed the district court finding.

The supreme court said that repairs are a matter at the discretion of the supervisors, and that the court will not abuse the discretion of the commission unless there is a clear case of abuse of such discretion.

In summing up the situation after denying the writ, Judge Kroger recognized the possible need of a bridge to replace the old Sumter bridge and suggested that the county set aside a certain amount each year as a sinking fund to be used in the construction of a bridge there.

The utilization of the bridge by the farmers and stock feeders and by the rural mail carriers was cited. Both sides in the controversy produced a number of witnesses, and the proposition at issue was plainly brought out by the attorneys, John R. Sullivan for Mr. Hudson, and Ralph W. Norman for Mr. Jablonski and the rest of the county board.

Wires Going Up on Section "C"

The Delta Construction company, contractors who have the contract for building Section "C" of the local REA lines, began stringing wires Tuesday noon.

A wire stringing crew came in from Comanche, Okla., Sunday night, and so the work on the wires got away to a quicker start than expected. Manager Hamilton is well satisfied with progress made.

In County Court

Henry Larsen paid a fine of one dollar and costs of four dollars in County Judge Clochob's court Nov. 10 for driving a car without having a driver's license. He was picked up by Patrolman Smith. According to the law he will now have to take the driving test and cannot drive until a new license has been issued.

Many Stockmen's Hogs Are Dying; Vaccine Blamed

Archie Geweke States Nearly One Hundred Now Dead, More Sick

Many hogs are dying in this section, apparently as the result of having been vaccinated. Archie Geweke had his hogs vaccinated some time ago, as a precautionary measure, there being no sickness in the herd at the time. Since then about one half of the 190 head have died, and more are sick.

In conversation with Dr. J. W. McGinnis Tuesday it was learned that the trouble is a variant virus, so near the virus regularly used in hog vaccination that it is difficult to distinguish. This virus, because of the similarity, gets past the government inspector and is given his OK. Veterinarians receive this virus, with the government approval and use it.

If it happens to be the variant, the hogs will sicken and many of them will die. This virus comes direct from the laboratory sealed in bottles, each bottle bearing a number, and it is thus possible to trace back and find out just which batch of the virus was unsafe to use. The difficulty is that there is no way of knowing the good from the bad except from its effect, and then it is too late.

There is no danger to the hogs when the regular virus is used, but officials say that steps have been taken to insure that no such variant virus is being used in vaccinations. Last summer's three state epidemic in which a large number of hogs died, has been traced to this variant virus. The states affected were Iowa, Minnesota and Nebraska.

The calamity is three-fold, since the farmer who hogs the virus manufacturer loses his reputation for putting out good virus, and the veterinarian loses in the amount of business he has. The making of vaccine and virus is a highly technical work, and mistakes can and do creep in. It is to be hoped some fool-proof method of manufacture can be worked out.

Donation, Cancer Talk Highlight V.F.W. Meeting

The first in a series of a cancer education talks was given Monday evening before the VFW auxiliary. Mrs. Keith Lewis, county cancer chairman, who attended the American Cancer Society's two day school at Omaha, spoke to the group.

A donation of $100 worth of equipment was voted to the Ord Cooperative Hospital. All the allotted Eaton Rapids Children's Home Christmas seals were sold. It was also learned that the local auxiliary will win first honors in the district membership drive.

Mrs. E. Hallock Called by Death Early Wednesday

Daughter of Pioneers, She Was Born at Yale Post Office Near Ord

Dora Pearl Smith, daughter of D. B. and Martha Jane Smith, was born near Ord, Nebr., Sept. 10, 1891 and passed away at her home north of Ord on Nov. 9, 1949, at the age of 58 years, one month and 29 days. At the age of 12 she moved with her parents to the home near Ord. She entered the Ord High School, graduating with the Class of 1910. She taught in the rural schools of Valley County for five years.

April 30, 1919 she was united in marriage to Elmer Hallock of the Rosevale community. To this union two children were born. At an early age she was baptized in the Methodist Church and was always interested in all kinds of church work, especially the Sunday school. At the time of her death she led the adults of the Rosevale Sunday school.

This very loving and devoted wife and mother leaves to mourn her passing her husband, her daughter, Mrs. June Foster of Ericson, and her son Eldwin Dean who is in partnership with his father, and two grandchildren, Dale Hallock and Linda Foster. She also leaves six sisters and one brother, Mrs. Ethel Hoyt of Huntington Park, Calif., Mrs. Myrtle Thompson of Arcadia, Nebr., Mrs. Lottie Friend of Levittown, N. Senator Butler Visitor of REA Here Wednesday

Finds Local Setup Satisfactory and Progress Rapid.

Senator Hugh Butler arrived in Ord at 11:30 a. m. Wednesday to visit the local REA office and see for himself how the REA is developing in this district. This is one of 35 REA organizations in Nebraska that the senator plans to visit during the congressional rest period.

As the time is limited it was necessary that he devote his attention to this one objective, and for this reason it was impossible for him to visit his many friends in each of the 35 towns and cities where the REA offices are located.

"I certainly hope that these friends will not think I slighted them, for I will come back some time either for a personal visit or a public meeting, and will plan to see as many as possible then," the senator commented.

"I am very pleased with the manner in which REA is advancing in this area. Having come from a pioneer family that homesteaded in western Nebraska, and having lived in a sod house lighted with coal oil, I personally know how farmers appreciate electric current and all modern conveniences in farm homes."

The senator stayed over night Tuesday in Aurora, visited Grand Island Wednesday morning before coming to Ord, and expected to get back to Fremont that same evening. He will go to West Point Thursday morning and will be in Elgin Friday at the ceremony of throwing the switch on a new REA extension.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bresley and Marlene and Irwin Iwanski were Sunday evening lunch guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Bresley and family.

Hospital to Hold Open House Nov. 27; Date Delayed Week

Jeffries Resigns, New Sup't. Is Chosen; Donations Continuing.

The Board of Directors of the Ord Cooperative Hospital Association regretfully announce the postponement of the hospital open house from November 20 to November 27. This delay is made necessary because the recent steel strike has held up delivery of much of the new equipment needed in the hospital.

According to Archie Geweke, president of the board of directors, open house will definitely be scheduled for Sunday, November 27, with or without the new equipment.

Mrs. Genevieve Jeffries, who had been selected as superintendent of the hospital, has sent word that she will be unable to accept the position. She writes that it has been impossible to make suitable arrangements for her apartment in Rochester for the six months she planned to be in Ord.

Mrs. Grace Buchfink has been chosen as the business superintendent of the hospital, and has already assumed her new duties. Mrs. C. F. Brannen is to act temporarily as graduate nurse in charge of the professional side of the hospital management. She will continue in this capacity until such time as a registered nurse can be chosen on a permanent basis.

The Frank and Henry Benda family and the Z.C.B.J. lodge have been added this week to the list of groups contributing $200 for the furnishing of a private room. Other groups have indicated their intention to make donations of various sizes. In order that all equipment may suit exactly the purpose for which it is needed, the list of directors requests that donations be made in the form of cash, though the donor may specify the equipment for which it is to be used.

Mrs. Buchfink has compiled a list to serve as a suggestion guide for individuals or groups interested in making donations. Included on this list are such items as the following:

Microscope, hemacytometer, urinalysis outfit, laboratory scale, manometer, stethoscope, obstetric stethoscope, examining table mattress, examining room instrument table or cabinet, examining light, hospital scale, infant scale, nursing bottle sterilizer, baby identification system, obstetrical table mattress, air mattress, wheel chair, stretcher cart, oxygen unit, head-arm-leg-bath combination, shampoo pan, anesthetic table, arm rest for operating table, surgical shaver, intravenous stand, vacuum canner, tray carriage, suction and other unit, restraint device, hospital cribs for pediatrics, panel screens for wards, thermometer basket, syringe and needle sterilizer, hospital jars for sutures, medicines, etc., kitchen step-ladder, stools, foot stools for patients' rooms, flower vases, cooking utensils, dishes, tray markers, ash trays, snap-in-night lights, bed pans, combinet, wash basins, electric pads, hand mirrors for make up and shaving, pillows, pillow protectors, solution pitchers, pva basins, plastic stool, wax paper, electric mixer for kitchen.

Mid-Nebraska Night Baseball League Is Organized

6 Teams Represented at Meeting Tuesday; 2 More Will Be Needed.

Six towns were represented at the preliminary organization meeting of a new night baseball league held Tuesday evening at Loup City. Name chosen for the new league is Mid-Nebraska Night Baseball League and Stanley Roy was elected temporary chairman, pending election of officers at the next meeting Nov. 28.

Towns represented were Ord, Loup City, Boelus, Ansley and Broken Bow, with Ravenna baseball manager Leonard Furlak telephoning during the session to say "count Ravenna in."

St. Paul and Shelton, the other two teams counted on to fill the 8-team league were not represented but both had previously expressed interest and are expected to join.

Preliminary plans call for a 28-game schedule starting with Sunday day games May 7 and going to Sunday and Wednesday night games May 28 and afterward. At conclusion of the season a double elimination play-off would be held during the first two weeks of September.

Some discussion took place relative to length of player roster, eligibility of players, etc., but decision on these points were left for the next meeting when by-laws will be adopted and a schedule-making committee named. The schedule will be so arranged that each team will play at home once weekly.

Ord was represented at the meeting by Walter Douthitt and Gene Leggett.

Chamber Election

This Thursday evening, Nov. 17, will witness election of officers for the year 1950 for the Ord Chamber of Commerce. Members are urged to be at the K. C. hall that evening at 8 p. m. There will also be reports of committees and other items of business to be considered.

I WANT A MODERN RANGE!

said Mrs. Smith to Us.

OKAY, BUT LET'S BE SENSIBLE!

said We to Mrs. Smith.

WE: Do you have a furnace?

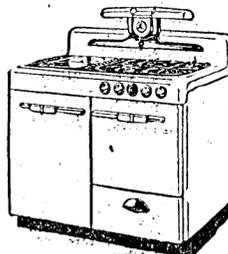

SHE: No, but what does that have to do with me owning a modern range?

WE: Well, we were wondering how you're going to heat your kitchen after you buy that modern range.

SHE: Say—I hadn't thought of that. I'd only thought how nice and cool my kitchen could be in the summer.

WE: What you need is the Magic Chef Kitchen Heater Range. It gives you the conveniences you want all year long, plus a kitchen heater that works on oil, or coal and wood. Then you'll be modern AND COMFORTABLE, summer and winter.

When You and I Were Young

Ten Years Ago—Ord was defeated at Albion to break a winning streak of 41 games, one of the longest ever recorded. The Taylor-Ord ditch broke at a point above Elyria on the last day of talking water. Mrs. LeRoy Frazier was selected as chairman of the annual Red Cross drive. The Valley County fair was better off by $400 than it was a year before, according to final report. Education Week was on and the seniors were working in the stores. A Chamber of Commerce talk by Dr. Filley was appreciated by the large crowd that came to listen.

Twenty Years Ago—All officers were re-elected on the Valley County Fair board, as follows:

Gray for treasurer, Otto Murschel defeated Roy Hagemer for clerk, Alonzo Sutton defeated Will Moses for sheriff, Hjalmar Gudmundsen defeated Cummings for judge. Jake Hoffman and Ora Mutter returned from a month's travel in the west, during which they visited the exposition at Seattle. Andrew George Norman and Miss R. Fifty Years Ago—C. E. Cox received word from his son Clyde, in Chicago, that he had undergone appendectomy and was recovering. G. W. Milford and Sons was installing a gas plant to give light for the store. Horace M. Davis was elected clerk of the district court, but there was no such office. Others elected were: W. B. Keown, treasurer; J. A. Patton, clerk; H. B. Heuck, sheriff; R. L. Staple, judge, and L. Blessing, superintendent. J. A. Patton, campaigning for office, was badly hurt when his team ran away and threw him out of the buggy. Tom Lambdin returned from near Cushing, where he had been husking corn. The initial number of the Protector, official organ of the American Order of Protection, was printed in Ord. Charles Goodhand was very ill with typhoid fever. The passenger coach of the Burlington at Burwell caught fire and was burned.

Sixty Years Ago—J. A. Patton was elected clerk, Abe Trout treasurer, Fairbank judge, Beagle sheriff and Parks superintendent. Plans were being made to form a Masonic lodge at Arcadia. J. E. Wilmoth of Vinton was unable to work, so 25 of his neighbors came in and husked his corn for him. Dr. and Mrs. Cramer came to Ord. He was of the homeopathic school and was destined to become one of Ord's best known doctors. The new Baptist church was about completed and ready for dedication. After some delay, Mallory and Herring opened their store on the west side of the square.

The couple was attended by Gloria Lang of Beatrice and Raymond Pandorf, brother of the groom.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony at the home of the bride's father.

After a two weeks wedding trip to the south the couple will make their home in Callaway.

At Legislative Hearings

Clinic Notes

Medical patients were Miss Frances Swartz, Lloyd Zikmund, Mrs. Mary Finn and Mrs. Mary Catherine McQuillan. Patients dismissed were Claude Thomas of North Loup who had a fractured rib and collar bone and Charles Reick who underwent a tonsillectomy.

Corn borers can't be eliminated with the operation of a stalk crusher machine. This is demonstrated in top photo by Cliff Wahlstrom (left) and Jack W. Lomax, University of Nebraska entomologists. Wahlstrom holds stalks satisfactorily crushed to eliminate the borer, while Lomax shows three missed by the machine. Lower photo shows the distribution of corn borers in Nebraska. Up to 100 per cent of the corn stalks are infested in some areas. Lower right is a corn borer magnified one and a half times. (University of Nebraska Photo)

Ord Ends Season With 21 to 7 Win Over Curtis Friday

Play Post-Season Tilt at Superior for Trans-Nebraska Title Nov. 18

Playing under difficulties due to the strong northwest wind, Ord's Chanticleers came from behind Friday afternoon on the Ord field to defeat the Curtis Aggies by a score of 21 to 7. The score was tied 7-7 at the half.

A bad pass from center by Ord on their 45 was recovered early in the first period by Curtis on the Ord 24. After racking up a couple of first downs, the Aggies finally pushed across a touchdown on fourth down, Lowell Gilliland going over for the counter. Gilliland then passed to left end for the extra point.

This happened early in the first quarter. Trailing by seven points the Chanticleers went down the field in a 66 yard march that ended in the second period when Bob Moore ran left end for 4 yards and a touchdown. With Maurice holding, Falter then kicked the extra point.

Falter started a 95 yard drive in the third period which ended in the fourth quarter when Kenny Collins ran around left end for the remaining 15 yards. Again Falter made the point good, and Ord was leading 14 to 7.

The Chant's added their final touchdown after Curtis, following a 15 yard penalty, was forced to kick from their own 10 yard line. This gave Ord the ball on the Aggies 45. After working down to the 22, Paul Stoddard went the rest of the way through a hole in the line.

Ord was far out in front in statistics, making 22 first downs to the Aggies 2. Ord plays a post-season game at Superior Friday evening to determine the winner of Trans-Nebraska. This should be one of the most thrilling games of the entire season, and many Ord fans are planning to make the trip and root for the home team.

Lester Farris, Broken Bow is president, Marlene M. Pederson, Berwyn, vice-president, T. T. Varney jr., Broken Bow, treasurer, and M. L. Gould, county agent, secretary.

Bank Loses Sign in Gust of Wind Early Wednesday

The high wind Wednesday morning caught the glass sign on the northwest corner of the First National Bank building, tore it from its moorings and strewed the pieces of glass nearly across 16th street to the southwest. Luckily no one happened to be in the path of the flying glass or serious injury might have resulted.

The frame of this sign has been in place for at least twenty years, but the glass part was changed in 1945 by Syl Burtak, who put the new glass in the old frame. It seemed to be in good condition at that time, but the past four years had taken their toll.

Achievement Party Wednesday Evening

Some three hundred 4-H club members and parents filled the K. C. hall for the annual 4-H club achievement party last Wednesday evening.

Sponsored by the Agricultural committee of the Ord Chamber of Commerce and the Valley County Extension Service, the party was greatly enjoyed by all and the fine attendance was very pleasing to the sponsors.

Special thanks of the sponsors are due to Jay and Glen Auble, and Mr. and Mrs. John Warford who supplied the music for square dancing and to Bill Campbell who did the calling.

Other numbers, which contributed to the success of the program were a discussion of trees, plants and shrubs, illustrated with colored slides, by Wayne Whitney, Extension Horticulturist of the Nebraska College of Agriculture, a series of movies shown by Henry Janus, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce agricultural committee, and the lunch of ice cream, sandwiches and pop.

With a much larger 4-H club enrollment in prospect for 1950, the sponsors are wondering where they can find a place large enough for next year's party.

PMA Office Notes

1949 personal taxes must be paid before the PMA office can consider the corn loan. Ballots are being mailed out this week to the farmers and should be returned by Wednesday evening November 23 at which time the polls close.

Delegates that have been elected will be called on December 1 to vote on county committee. PMA just delivered 6,000 bushel size bins, 20'x18' in North Loup and Ord.

Contract Let For Farwell Survey

The contract has been let for the Farwell topographical survey, which is to be made of the area for the Bureau of Reclamation. The job goes to the Ryall Engineering company of Little Rock, Ark., on their low bid of $163,061 for the job, according to an announcement made by Paul Harley, area engineer. Officials of the company state that they will move field forces into the area immediately. The contract calls for completion of the work within 300 days. Detailed maps of what is roughly the southwest one third of Howard county will be made. This is a part of and in conjunction with the survey to be made of the Davis Creek area.

North Loup Wins From Doniphan, Score 58 to 18

Averages Only Defeat Suffered Last Year By Loup Challengers

North Loup's Challengers closed a very satisfactory football season Friday afternoon when they scored almost at will over Doniphan on the Doniphan field to bring home the long end of a 58 to 18 score. It was sweet revenge for the 8 to 6 loss handed North Loup last year, the only defeat of an otherwise perfect season.

North Loup opened the game by kicking off. Doniphan failed to make it and punted to North Loup. On the first play Joe Babcock took the ball and scampered all the way for the first North Loup counter. Babcock, incidentally, got another one later on, an intercepted pass.

Kerr was the big gun in the scoring column, as he racked up four touchdowns in all, as follows: He made one from an intercepted pass, ran back a punt 65 yards for another, and made the others, one on a line smash over center, the other on an end run.

Richard Hawkes, who had not had much of a chance to score this year because he plays center, got into the scoring column when he took a short pass ten or twelve yards out and carried it over.

Bob Hawkes scored two touchdowns, one on an end run. The other on a cross-pass play from near the goal. However, Bob had made about 70 yards on an end run on the play just preceding.

The extra points were scored by carrying the ball, since the high wind interfered too much with either passing or place-kicking. Russell Kerr scored four extra points and Bob Hawkes one. North Loup tried four passes and completed two.

Ronnie Goodrich, plagued all season with injuries, scored once on a long run, but the play was called back by an offside penalty. He had his hand stepped on, but was able to get into the game for the final two minutes.

Burwell Legion Men Put On Wrestling Show

Farm Housing Program Is Launched Locally

The farm housing program, authorized by recent act of Congress, has been launched in Valley county. Applications for loans to build or repair farm houses and other farm buildings are being received at the Farmers Home Administration county office in the basement of the Post Office Building, according to Donald E. Krick, FHA County Supervisor.

Loans may run for a maximum of 33 years, at 4 percent interest, and can be made to farm owners who cannot obtain farm housing loans from their banks or other sources, Mr. Krick said. Owners who qualify can also get loans for improving housing for their tenants. All loans are subject to approval by the local member, FHA County Committee.

The Housing Act provides for a four-year period of loan making. The appropriation for the current year is $27,000,000 for the entire country which will mean about five dollars per acre in farm housing at an estimated average of $2,200 per acre. The authorized Congressional appropriation for the four years is $275,000,000. Veterans will receive preference.

Mr. Krick predicted that most loans will go to farmers with farm earnings and other income enough to repay loan plus interest without further help from the Government. He expects most loans will be for repairs and remodeling rather than for new construction.

A loan may also be made to a farmer whose income is not now considered adequate to repay the loan on schedule, if his income can be made sufficient by enlarging or developing his farm and by improving his farm enterprises. If the owner follows a previously agreed upon plan for making at least revisions, the Government will help him on his payments if necessary during the first five years.

Corn Borer Remedies Given by County Agent

Speaking of the corn borer pest, County Agent Dale has this to say: "Nature provides the best control and provides a check for this insect if allowed to operate in the normal manner. If the borer is exposed to the elements during an open winter it will not survive. Therefore shredding of the stalks is advised to expose the borer."

However, plowing under of stalks will do no good, and merely protects the borer from the weather. The corn borer is doing enough damage without using it as an excuse to cause even more damage by fall plowing or burning the stalks.

Recommendation of the service for control of the corn borer includes: Shredding the stalks in the fall; Selecting a mid-season planting date for planting corn; evening a farmer to familiarize himself with the borer and the eggs; Inspect your fields regularly the last part of June and early July, also late August and early September. If you have an egg infestation of over 50 egg masses per 100 stalks, spray with DDT.

Dr. Herbert L. Cushing, president of Kearney State Teachers college, was guest speaker Tuesday evening at a meeting of the Ravenna P.T.A. He took for his subject "American Education" a matter upon which he is thoroughly conversant.

The Parent-Teachers association is urging more active support of the schools by parents, and is asking them to visit the school, become acquainted with the teachers and learn more about what is being done.

White sidewall tires available at extra cost.

WITH THE EXCLUSIVE NEW 100 H.P. FORD

V8

ITS QUIET WHISPER

It's the quiet of new super-fitted pistons, new "hushed" timing gear, new fan designed for better cooling of slower, quieter speeds. And what power! There's a full 100 horsepower wrapped up in this V-8 design that makes you master of any road. It delivers more power than any other car anywhere near Ford's low price and sells for less than most conventional "sixes." And Ford offers a Six, too—an advanced Six with 92 horsepower.

NEW SOUND CONDITIONING

New "sound conditioning" in floor, doors and body panels insulates Ford's "quietest" body against road noises. More extensive body insulation and sealing in 41 areas give additional interior quietness and protection.

NEW "HUSHED" RIDE

Ford's famous "Mid Ship" ride is now so quiet you can talk in whispers while traveling at highway speeds. So smooth (with its great lean of "Hydra Coil" and "Paraflex" Springs) that it virtually craves every bump.

NEW QUALITY FEATURES

New quality is easy to find in this 50-way new Ford. You find it in the new push button door handles, in the new rotary door latch that needs only a feather touch to open, yet closes so securely, you find it in new sparkling upholstery colors.

NEW DRIVING COMFORT

Not only does the 1950 Ford offer you more hip and shoulder room than any other car in its field - it offers you the long-lived driving comfort of a new foam rubber front seat cushion over new non-sag seat springs. Arrive relaxed after hours of riding.

But see it for yourself. Drive it so you can feel and hear the difference. And price it and see how much less it costs than any other really fine car.

Technical World.
The world we are living in is technical, and is becoming more and more so with the passing of the years. Technicians are developing new kinds of crops, new methods of protecting those crops from the ravages of vegetable and animal pests that would destroy them. They are learning new methods of combating disease, and in so doing are discovering new diseases of which no one ever heard before.

Many years ago, forty, to be exact, the first vaccine against hog cholera was used in Valley county. It was a new thing then, but it did the job. Farmers at first were inclined to be skeptical of the new preventative. They could understand a cure for a disease, but were not so friendly toward anything that would prevent disease.

When they found the new idea worked, they gradually were converted to the idea.

Occasionally a vaccinated hog might die, but that did not destroy their faith in the general idea. They argued that more might have died if the herd had not been treated.
But the world is constantly changing, and something new has come into the production of hog virus. It now appears that a new variant has been developed that, instead of preventing hog cholera, seems to develop the disease. It is something that has taken the technicians by surprise, and it may take time to discover just what it is and what to do about it.

However, this is no good reason for condemning the entire system of vaccination, which has prevented a huge economic loss in America during the past forty years. It is unfortunate that such a condition has developed, but the Nebraska farmer is not going to scrap the result of years of study and experimentation because something has gone haywire.

As a nation we cannot go back to the methods of yesterday. They are outmoded and belong with the pioneer past. We cannot go back to the use of open pollinated seed corn when time has proven that hybrid seed produces far more corn per acre. We cannot, we dare not, try to go back to the days when hogs got sick with cholera and died, and there was nothing to be done about it.

In this misfortune that has visited the middle west the technicians have learned and will learn a lesson that will lead them into the way of making virus that will be safe to use; that will teach them how to distinguish the unsafe virus from the safe. In days to come we may hope that the measure of risk in vaccination will be reduced to a minimum.

Something Different

An interesting letter from Mrs. Wallace Doe, the former Irene Anderson, tells about Ordway, Colorado. The Doe's followed the M. S. Dodd family to that locality not so long ago.

"We like Ordway. It's a nice little town — but it doesn't begin to have the beauty as far as trees, etc., that Ord has. We are about an hour's drive from the mountains, and we can see them all the time. We can see the Spanish peaks and Pike's Peak from our kitchen window.

"Sometime ago Wally had to go up to Twin Lakes so Kevin and I went along. What a time we had! Twin Lakes is about 17 miles from Leadville (What a town!) and if we go over Independence Pass we are about 27 miles from Aspen. Wally had to go over to west portal so I got to go over the pass (altitude 12,000 ft.). The altitude didn't bother me, but the road while it is in good condition was a little icy and slippery from the snow. We made it anyway.

"After we got over the pass we had to take the old sawmill road up to our destination — it was bumpy, slippery and what other words a person could use to describe it, but I didn't pay too much attention to the road because I was too busy looking at the scenery — no words adequate enough to describe it.
"A person can't help but practically stand in awe — looking up either at the magnificent trees or when you're on the pass — looking down on the trees — some standing 90 to 120 feet tall or even taller.
"Coming back over the pass I didn't mind the trip one bit, for I was interested more in watching for the old stage coach trail. Anyone taking that way of going over the pass certainly had to have a lot of nerve. An old timer told me that in going up grade they had to use two teams of horses ahead then in coming down they had to hitch two huge logs behind the coach plus putting a post between the spokes on the two front wheels for brakes."

Another unusual letter to reach Ord this week came from Germany, where the Ed Jenisons and their three boys are living for the next two years. They mention many phases of life there. Some of them:

"Steaks are like shoe leather here and everything else we get is either canned or frozen. And when I think of those steaks at the club I am tempted to go back on a ship. As you know I made a vow never to put my foot on one of those things again, even if I had to remain here. What hunger won't do!"

Mrs. Jenison goes on to say "Ed organized a hunt for Saturday, six people including Merritt and Gross are going. I hope Ed hasn't forgotten how to shoot, as I know he can't run very fast, this bread and butter that he is devouring three times a day is doing something to his waistline and I hear these wild boar are vicious."
Later, after the hunt, she writes "Ed went on his big hunt and shot two deer, they didn't see any wild boar but heard them. They are really hard to get. Anyway we have fresh meat for our change. Gross and Merritt weren't lucky this time but they plan another hunt next weekend. Ed killed six partridges on this hunt and they were super-wonderful eating."

She tells how much she enjoys the Quiz, even when it is a month old and how she promised to keep it for the former Lavada Rogers, whom she met the first day as she took Kippy to school. The former Lavada Rogers is now married and her husband is stationed there.

Mr. Jenison writes "The trees are gradually turning colors and leaves are falling but it is about as low as it has been. It is hard to believe we are as far north as Winnipeg, Canada. June days were extremely long, daylight at three and light until eleven. The climate is really fine and we enjoy it."
"If one has the time and money this country would be hard to beat for a vacation. The fishing is wonderful, bass, trout and northern pike abound. A little farther south the Alps begin and there are many forests, lakes and rivers that are a sportsman and sight-seer's dream. There are snow-capped mountains and valleys that are beautiful beyond words. Roads are good, food and lodging not too expensive and really quite adequate except that very few places can one find a room with bath. Nearly all places have a bathroom used by a number of people.

"One can travel easily and get around a lot even though there is some language difficulty. These people are fond of their old churches, castles and buildings and they have a right to be too because they are beautiful."

Merritt is going to the famous university at Heidelberg. I envy him, don't you? He is also teaching some dependent children in his odd hours.

Ord people do get far away and see strange things.
But it seems they never forget the Quiz or Ord.

Mrs. Doe told how she walked after it each week, so she wouldn't have to wait for her husband to bring it home!

What's Cookin' Ward's Column

Last week I thought I had mentioned all the editors who take the trouble to put out a special column, but it seems that I forgot one of the most interesting at times, of all. C. E. Thompson of the Wolbach Messenger has "Tommy's Corner," right on his front page, which is a good place for it, as that way you get the best first. Last week under the heading, "Cornpicker," he had an item worth repeating en toto, so here it is:

"Ed Peril has quite a reputation for picking corn around here, and no wonder. He told me the other day of his experience last year while picking corn for the Foster boys. He said that he threw his ear over the bangboard, so he went around the wagon to pick it up and while doing this 4 ears hit him in the head. Ed said he didn't know he had that many ears of corn in the air.

"Ed is having some trouble this year as his eyeight is not as good as it used to be. The other day while he was picking for John Wagner he thought he missed an ear, so he turned the wagon around to go back and get it. He ran over the ear of corn and upset the wagon. He set the wagon back on its wheels, but didn't bother with the corn, because he had another load picked in 20 minutes."

Looking over the files of the Quiz, I note that for a number of years corn husking contests were all the rage. They were held in Valley county as well as most of the corn counties of the state, and those boys sure could make the corn fly. Those husking contests attracted more fans than a football game, with everybody rooting for their favorite contestant. It was the high point of interest in farm work, as nothing like it had ever happened before. That was not long ago, but where are the corn picking champions today? The coming of the mechanical picker seems to have ruined what was once an exciting contest.

The other morning I left North Loup well ahead of schedule, and a corn picker of the old school passed me along the road, throwing corn as soon as it was light enough to see, and I'll bet he stayed on the job until nearly dark. That is the way it was in the old days. It used to be a friendly contest around the neighborhood to see which farmer would throw the bangboard first in the morning.

With the coming of modern methods long hours are not so necessary as they were. A man can get out a lot of corn in an eight hour day, and why shouldn't the farmer enjoy fewer hours on the job? Everybody else is working on shorter hours. Also, the farmer's hours in the field are only a part of his day's work. On the average farm it takes a couple of hours both morning and evening to do the chores, even with modern equipment. Eight hours in the field and four hours for chores makes 12 hours, which should be enough for anybody.

Ravenna People Are Victimized

Franksters in or near Ravenna are causing plenty of trouble for other people and also laying up trouble for themselves by sending in coupons to advertising houses with names of Ravenna people and having goods advertised sent out COD.

Quite a number of people have received such packages. Some have paid for them and received goods they did not order and for which they had no use. Others have refused to take the goods. In any case, the persons sending in the coupons are in for plenty of trouble, if located.

Prairie Fire Does Serious Damage

A prairie fire Monday of last week raged out of control fifteen miles west of Belgrade, for more than six hours. Fire departments from Belgrade, Wolbach, Cedar Rapids and Greeley and a large number of other men turned out to fight the blaze, which was finally brought under control.
The fire burned over an area five miles long and two miles wide, destroyed a house on one vacant farm and a set of farm buildings on another. The fire started at 2 p. m. at the Joe Briganzel farm in Greeley county during corn picking, and may have resulted from a cigarette butt or a match.

Mrs. Buchfinck Attends Annual Hospital Meet

Finds Local Hospital Excellent as Compared With Others.

Mrs. Grace Buchfinck, business manager of the Ord Cooperative Hospital, was the representative of this hospital at the 13th annual convention of the Nebraska Hospital Assembly in Omaha Thursday and Friday, November 17 and 18.

Among speakers scheduled for general sessions of the convention were Maurice J. Norby, assistant director of the American Hospital Association, Chicago; Hilda M. Forop, executive secretary of the National Association for Practical Nurse Education, New York City; Verne A. Pangborn, director of hospitals, Nebraska State Health Department, Lincoln, and Charles G. Newell, president, Midwest Hospital Association, administrator, Kansas University Hospital, Kansas City, Kansas.

Topics discussed at the two-day meet included the state licensure law, fire regulations, government construction program, Red Cross blood bank, Blue-Cross, Blue-Shield, and the training of practical nurses.

Proud of Ord Hospital. Officials from all of the state's major hospitals were in attendance, and Mrs. Buchfinck reports that she found contact with other hospital administrators, and her opportunity to compare notes and discuss problems with them of nearly as much value as the notes she accumulated on the various speeches.

"My pride in our own hospital grew and grew," she said, "as I compared it with others of the same size in Nebraska. Many small hospitals, I found, are furnished with a hodge-podge of cast-offs from various sources that are neither efficient nor well-suited to their purposes. We can be very thankful not to have that problem to cope with in Ord."

She had been national president of the American Legion Auxiliary and was decorated with Legion of Honor in France.

While in Germany Mrs. Hahn was one of the chief policy making heads of the department of education. To do this she made many field trips in Germany proper to discover the problems of the German people. She told about the problems of our government in Germany, some of which are the de-nazification of the people, re-organized the German government, re-educating the people along the democratic line and the migration of the displaced persons. Mrs. Hahn also stated that the best way of sending packages to Europe are through church organizations and CARE. She also said the German people realize that these packages are keeping them alive.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. V. A. Andersen, Mrs. Olin Kellison, Mrs. Roland Norman, Miss Clara McClatchey, Mrs. C. J. Mortenson, chairman of the program, has been a very close friend of the guest speaker for 23 years. A trio consisting of Mrs. Leslie Nash, Irma King and Irene Auble, sang two numbers accompanied by Mrs. Syl Furuk.

Guests of the evening included delegates from the Burwell B.P.W., the Ord V.P.W. and Legion Auxiliaries.

Ord Breeders Fly to Lincoln Meet

A group of officials from Ord flew to Lincoln Tuesday to attend a dairy breeders' meeting held to centralize a bull stud for the state. Plans call for this being located at the University of Nebraska.

Those who went were Glenn Watts, J. J. Campbell and Evet Smith of Ord, and Sidney Allison of Scotia. There was some discussion of finances and other matters. It was Smith's first airplane ride, and he enjoyed it very much.

Mrs. Norris Has Strawberries in Garden Nov. 19

Dr. H. N. Norris is authority for the statement that Mrs. Norris went out into their garden Saturday, Nov. 19, and picked a handful of nice ripe strawberries, which is one of the most sincere compliments we have heard of for Weatherman Horace Travis. A number of ladies have reported picking flowers up and including Monday of this week.

Ord Loses Final Game of Year to Superior Friday

"Too Much Weight" Is Chanticleer Comment Concerning 26-0 Loss.

Out weighed and out played, but not out-gamed, the Ord Chanticleers went down to defeat on the Superior field Friday afternoon by a score of 26 to 0. The Ord squad has no excuses to offer. They were up against the better team, and played their hearts out to no avail. Superior was good as its name, and played superior football all the way. This was the school's first perfect football season, with Geneva the only team to cross the Red and White goal. That name is misleading, since the Chanticleer colors are a/c, red and white.

Game Broadcast. The game was broadcast, which gives some idea of the interest shown all over the Trans-Nebraska conference, and even all over Nebraska. Ord managed to muster 6 first downs to eleven for Superior, but made all their gains in their own territory or near the midfield. Three were made in a row just as the first half ended.

A long pass, Tangall to Hallam, set up the first Superior touchdown in the first quarter, Tangall going over from the three yard line. Tangall picked up the extra point. The second score came in the second quarter after a 15 yard roughing penalty had put the ball on the Ord one yard line. Floyd Wilcox took the ball over. The try for point failed.

Runs 72 Yards. In the third quarter Ewald Warkneck, Superior's speedy back, took an Ord punt on his own 28 and ran right down the middle for a touchdown. Tangall made the extra point. Again in the fourth quarter Superior made a long march down the field which ended with Tangall crossing from the two. The point failed and the score stood 26 to 0 as the game ended. Superior closed the season with 923 points to 6 for all opponents.

Ord Season Record. Ord closed their season with 8 wins and two losses, and a total of 158 points to 63 for their opponents. The scores follow: Ord 19, Holdrege 7; Ord 0, Lexington 12; Ord 33, Imperial 0; Ord 7, Alliance 0; Ord 7, Broken Bow 6; Ord 14, Loup City 0; Ord 45, Ravenna 0; Ord 12, Gothenburg 7; Ord 21, Curtis 7; and Ord 0, Superior 26.

Ord will lose 13 fine players by graduation this year. They are: Dale Richardson, Harold Laursen and Don Geneski, ends; Doane Luddington and Jerry McMinder, tackles; Kenneth Clement, Richard Blaha and Galen Allen, guards; Gerald Severson, center; Paul Stoddard, Ken Collins, Bob Dworak and Gerald VanWinkle, backfield.

At a meeting of the football players held Monday evening, Gerald Severson and Paul Stoddard were elected honorary captains for 1949. Severson played a fine game at center all season, and was most powerful. Paul Stoddard was the Ord powerhouse, gaining consistently on drives through the line, and also did exceptional work in punting and passing.

Basketball Next. This week football equipment is being checked in and basketball uniforms checked out. Basketball practice starts Monday, Nov. 28. Since most of the basketball players also played football, the boys need rest more than practice. The Odettes entertained the football squad at a Pep Club dinner Monday evening, a fitting finale to the football season.

Leg Fractured by Kick from Horse

Gary Psota, 2 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Psota, of Ravenna, is in a Loup City hospital suffering from a fractured right leg as the result of being kicked or stepped on by a horse.

The boy had wandered into the pasture, and when found, was cuddled up to his dog, his leg fractured. Gary is doubtless a great-grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Psota, who once lived in Mira Valley.

Men Charged in the Issuing of No-Fund Checks

One Case Is Settled, Other Bound Over to District Court.

Two men got into serious difficulty through the issuance of no-fund checks and were haled into county court. W. E. Hickman of Arcadia was charged with issuing a no-fund check in the amount of $13.98 under date of Nov. 16. The check was on the Arcadia State bank and was issued to Ord Auto Parts. Mr. Hickman agreed to pay the amount of this and another check, a fine of $20 and costs of $12 by Monday, but Tuesday morning he had not yet appeared with amount, $51.35.

Some time ago Ronald Peterson gave the Nelson Auto company a check on the First National bank of Loup City in the amount of $900 for the extra payment in an auto deal. The check was refused by the bank and at a hearing in county court Peterson was bound over to district court in bond to the amount of $1,000. He failed to obtain the bond, and is in the custody of the sheriff.

Nebraska Bureau of Vital Statistics Releases Report

Six Thousand Died in First 6 Months of Year 1949.

According to the report for the first six months of 1949, just released by the Nebraska department of health, deaths for that period of time number 6,392, which is 95 more than for the same period of 1948. During the same period there were 15,014 births.

Of interest is the fact that during the period 295 pairs of twins were born, nearly twice as many as for the first six months of 1948, when 150 sets were born. The total number of births was well ahead 1948 but more than 800 behind 1947, the banner year.

Heart disease and cancer continue to be the two chief causes of death, with heart disease slightly in the lead. During the six months, 1,184 died of heart disease, 952 of cancer, and 91 of T. B. of all forms.

In Valley county there were 80 births and 26 deaths, five of heart disease and 6 of cancer. Garfield county shows 33 births and 10 deaths, four of which were from heart disease and none from cancer.

WILL VISIT RURAL SCHOOLS

On November 30 the seven normal training girls from Ord high school will make their first visitation of rural schools in action. Miss Clara McClatchey, county superintendent, will accompany them to four schools.

The last meeting of the English off campus course class will be on Saturday, Dec. 3.

Ord Young Man Finds Banded Mallard Drake

Sunday while Micky Simpson of Burwell and Bob Adamek of Ord were duck hunting near Burwell on the Calamus Bob shot a mallard drake with a band on its leg, probably put on by the game commission in 1944.

These bands are usually put on in Canada and are to be sent to Washington, D. C. when taken off the duck. The men report very good hunting that day and came home with their limit of northern mallards.

Initial Steps Are Taken for January "March of Dimes"

County Organization Being Perfected and Plans Worked Out. A meeting of members from different counties in this area was held Monday evening at a dinner at the Veterans club as the initial move toward the March of Dimes, which will take place the latter part of January.

Present from the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Westcott of Ericson, representing Wheeler county, and Mrs. Ign. Pokraka and John Ward of North Loup and Stanley Absalon and Mrs. E. L. Kokes of Ord, representing Valley county.

Willis Thurber of Garfield county and a representative from Loup county were expected, but failed to arrive. The plans are being formulated earlier than last year, due to the lesson learned from the early blizzard.

Present from Grand Island were James T. Edington, special representative and Ernest T. Lindgren, chairman of the Hall County March of Dimes drive. After the meal Mr. Edington explained the general plan for the coming January campaign, which opens Jan. 16 and continues through the rest of the month.

He also told some facts about the disease that have been learned in the past year. He said that the germ has been isolated and much has been learned about it. Tests have shown that it is immune to the drugs that kill other disease germs, and the only sure way to kill it is water heated to at least 140 degrees Fahrenheit.

It has also been learned that, when a number of people are exposed to the disease, part of them will develop the usual symptoms in greater or lesser degree, and will be sent to hospitals for treatment. Others will become carriers of the disease, and may transmit it to others, although the disease does not develop any symptoms in the carrier.

Scientists are working continually to learn more of polio, and have high hopes of being able to give the world a cure of some kind in the not too distant future. The trouble is that it takes years of research before it can be determined that any apparent cure can be used with safety.

Meanwhile the March of Dimes must go on. When the fight against polio first started and was not organized as it is today, victims often had to wait their turn for a hospital bed. Today beds are always ready for polio patients and doctors are available almost immediately to treat them.

Keener Note in Weather During Past Seven Days

Cooler Temperatures, But No Precipitation in Central Nebraska.

The past week has seen a keener note creeping into the weather picture in Nebraska, although there should be little complaint, as the skies have been fair for the most part, and there has been no moisture, which would certainly have meant snow.

The wind over the week-end was reminiscent of Nov. 18, 1918. In fact, weather conditions were identical with that day except that the snow was absent, a fact for which ranchers can truly be thankful.

Corn Mostly Cribbed. With flowers still blooming in many yards and gardens, it is difficult to realize that only one more week of November remains, and that New Year's is only five weeks away.

Weather Report table with columns for Horace, Travis, Observer, High, Low, Precip. and rows for Thurs., Fri., Sat., Sun., Mon., Tues., Wed., Total to Date 1949, Total to Date 1948.

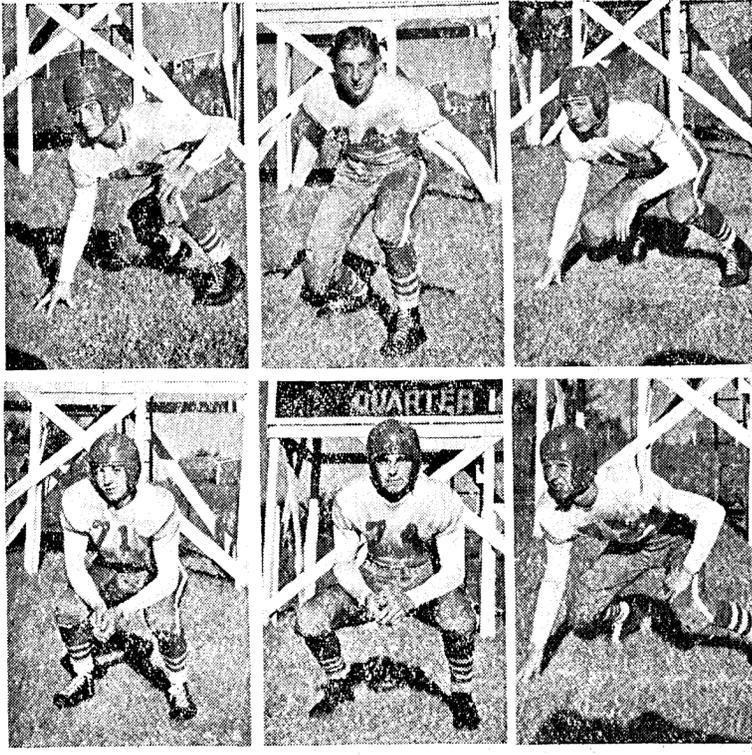

Farmers are continuing to take advantage of the open weather and are getting their corn in as rapidly as possible. Only a very small per cent of the 1949 crop will still be in the field by Dec. 1. State estimates 82% of corn is now cribbed.

Ministerial Association Holds Meeting

The Loup Valley Ministerial Association met last Monday in the Arcadia Methodist church, Rev. Clarence Buehler pastor. Rev. Gunselor, pastor of the Arcadia Congregational church was in charge of the devotional period. Rev. Buehler presented a discussion on the theme of Evangelism.

During the business session, Rev. L. V. Hassel, presiding, it was voted to unite efforts in every way and as individual ministers to oppose gambling in all forms. A letter of commendation was written to the Attorney General, James H. Anderson, for his stand. Rev. Hassel and Rev. Olson attended from Ord and Rev. Studer from Mira Valley.

Ord Clings to Ninth Place in Class "B" List

McBride Has Superior on Top With Minden in Runner-Up Place.

Ord's 26 to 0 loss to Superior Friday evidently had little effect on the rating of the Chanticleers by McBride, who placed them in ninth place in the final week, the same spot they held last week. However, the spectacular win put Superior on top of the heap, with Minden in the runner-up spot.

Nebraska City is third, Cozad fourth, David City fifth, Minatare sixth, Holdrege seventh, Gothenburg eighth and Lexington tenth. With the exception of Nebraska City in the east, Minatare in the west, Superior in the south and David City in the middle east, the top teams lie within a radius of less than fifty miles of each other.

Three of them, Cozad, Gothenburg and Lexington, are all in Dawson county, Superior, playing a heavy schedule, was defeated in ten games. Minden was beaten only by Superior. Nebraska City lost two to Class "A" teams. Cozad won 6, lost 1 and tied 2. David City won ten and lost none, but her schedule was weak.

Minatare, also a weak schedule, won 9 and lost 2, while Holdrege played a heavy schedule, won 4, lost 4 and tied 1. Gothenburg won 4 and lost 5 in a heavy schedule. Ord won 8 and lost 2, while Lexington won 2 and lost 7.

Ord is left in the unique position of being rated ahead of Lexington after losing to the Minutemen, and behind both Holdrege and Gothenburg, who lost to the Chanticleers. McBride did a good job of rating during one of the worst seasons for upsets on record.

Mountain Lion Is Reported Near Ord; Seen Here Twice

Duck Hunters Obtain Close View of Much Talked Of Beast.

Reports of seeing mountain lions are coming in frequently of late, leading to the belief that there must be more than one in this section of the state. Vernon Wells and Donnie Hansen went duck shooting early Friday morning. About a mile north of town they were crawling up on some ducks when they spied a lion.

The animal was lying down in tall grass, and they thought it was a big dog. Some ducks got up and they shot at them, whereupon the lion took off at a bounding lope down the river toward Dane creek and disappeared in the undergrowth along the river. Horses in the pasture were badly frightened. Both boys are certain it was a lion.

Jake Schmidt saw a lion Saturday night at about 11:15 p. m. while driving along the highway between the Alfalfa Mill and the Valley County fair grounds. The animal stuck his head up above the hill to the south, and was clearly discernible against the skyline.

One report has it that a lion was seen near Burwell, and a number of men were out hunting for it, but without success. Another report states that a lioness and four cubs were sighted, which could easily be possible if the animals are as plentiful as reports indicate.

Mrs. Madeline Ashley, while visiting a school with her cousin, Supt. Marcia C. Smith, in the northeast part of Loup county, saw a bobcat from his cover in a nearby weed patch. When she moved, he disappeared. The bobcat, it may be pointed out, is a much smaller animal than a mountain lion, and a few have lived in central Nebraska ever since pioneer days.

A bobcat will weigh up to 25 pounds, possibly more, when fully grown, and looks quite a bit like a domestic cat, excepting for his distinctive bobtail, from which he gets his name. For his size he is a more savage animal than the mountain lion, and more likely to turn and fight, instead of depending upon flight.

Friends Pick Corn for Leonard Kriha

The friends and neighbors of Leonard Kriha gathered at his home Tuesday of last week for a husking bee, and picked about 50 acres of corn. The Kriha home was recently damaged by fire. Forty five helped with the husking, and twelve women helped serve the meal.

Hospital Ready for Visitors on Sunday, Nov. 27

Work Completed, Most of Personnel Chosen; Open in Near Future.

The Board of Directors of the Ord Cooperative Hospital Association will hold open house at the hospital for the stock holders of the association and the general public on Sunday, November 27, from 2:00 to 5:00 p. m.

Extensive redecoration has been done on the first and second floors of the hospital, and in the basement. The first floor has been designated to care for maternity patients; and provision has been made for a delivery room, a nursery and a formula kitchen, one private room and three wards.

One New Ward. Surgical and medical patients will be cared for on the second floor, which houses five private rooms, three wards, and the operating suite. One of the wards has been created from the glassed-in sun porch at the south end of the second floor. This room has been closed in, insulated, and provided with heating and electrical facilities, and will contain beds for four patients. A shower room also has been provided for surgeons, and for patients not confined to their beds.

Much New Equipment. In the basement are the newly equipped kitchen, nurses' dining room, cook's quarters, and furnace room. The laundry unit has been enlarged to include an ironing room and a large storage closet for linens. Two patients' wards with three beds each are being added at the west end of the basement, though these will not be equipped for immediate use.

The nursing and domestic staff organization will not be entirely completed by the opening day, but those employees who have been selected to operate the hospital at the beginning will be present to act as hostesses for open house. Most of the stock certificates are ready, and will be available to stockholders when they come to inspect the hospital.

Thanksgiving Day Will Be Observed by Ord Churches

In view of the lovely weather that has prevailed up to the present time, Thanksgiving Day in 1949 will be observed by far more people than enjoyed the occasion one year ago. In 1948 the roads were impassable for a large per cent of the public, and dinners at home were the rule.

This year the churches of Ord are planning Thanksgiving services which will doubtless be attended by far more people than attended last year. The Protestant churches have arranged a union service at Bethel Baptist church at 10 a. m. and all the congregations will attend there.

Bethany Lutheran church has plans complete for a fitting Thanksgiving service at 10 a. m. and all who wish are cordially invited. There will be no Thanksgiving day service at the Ord Catholic church, due to the absence of the pastor, Fr. Thomas Sludowski, but 10 hour devotions will begin Sunday, Nov. 27.

Thanksgiving Day Editorial

"We gather together to ask the Lord's blessing. He chastens and hastens His will to make known; The wicked oppressing, cease them from distressing; Sing praises to his name, forget not His own."

Through the years, the familiar words of "The Thanksgiving Prayer" have sounded clear and true on Thanksgiving Day. For Thanksgiving Day—a holiday that it perhaps more exclusively American than any other we observe—is an important link between the humble beginners of our nation and its present awe-inspiring magnitude and also its future, whatever that is to be.

On a memorable first Thanksgiving Day long ago, when brave Pilgrims met together for feast and prayer, grateful to the Supreme Being for having led them to a land of abundant harvest and one with a limitless future. They meant the thanks they gave then to encompass the opportunity presented by their new found freedoms, as well as the happiness that they had achieved.

And we, living today, are indeed fortunate to be able to partake of the tradition they established.

For us, Thanksgiving Day is more than a commemoration of the occasion on which the Pilgrims gathered before an abundant board to celebrate the establishment of their firm footing in America. For us, Thanksgiving Day has become an occasion for pausing to count the blessings that have come to the peoples of America year by year, until today this national holiday arrives annually as a milestone in the journey of progress launched by our forefathers.

Today, with pride and humble gratitude for the persistence and courage and strength that made it so—we give prayers of thanks for the constant fullness of our harvests . . . for the consistently busy activity of our industries . . . for the magnificent strides forward in literature, music and the other arts . . . that in wonderful combination give us the rich moment-to-moment living so typical of our country.

Above all—we celebrate Thanksgiving today with thanks for the good fortune of being citizens of a mighty democracy that allows us the freedom to forge ahead with deed as well as word. And we offer a heartfelt prayer that this most important wealth of all will continue to be here through the years for ourselves and our children and their children to live and enjoy

John Nelson, Elba, Picks Much Corn

John Nelson of Elba has made some kind of a record picking corn in the past 19 years. He started in picking corn in 1930, and every fall he has picked corn so long as corn was available to pick. At the present time he is picking in the vicinity of Curtis, Nebr.

John is on a par with the great tuckers of the old days. So far this fall he has picked an average of 102 bushels of corn per day, and he figures that in the 19 years he has picked well over 200,000 bushels of corn.

Pheasants Most Plentiful Here

According to a bulletin issued this week by the state game and fish commission, the Ord area was one of the most fruitful pheasant hunting grounds during the recent hunting season. Others mentioned were the Holdrege and Minden areas.

It is stated that for the past seven or eight years hunters around Pierce, Ogallala, Ord and Scottsbluff have been sending in detailed data with respect to number of birds bagged, number wounded and not found, number seen while on the trip and actual hours spent hunting.

One encouraging angle with respect to reports sent in is that the proportionate number of young birds as compared with adults has increased. The ratio this year is about 5 to 6 to 1, which speaks well for future hunting.

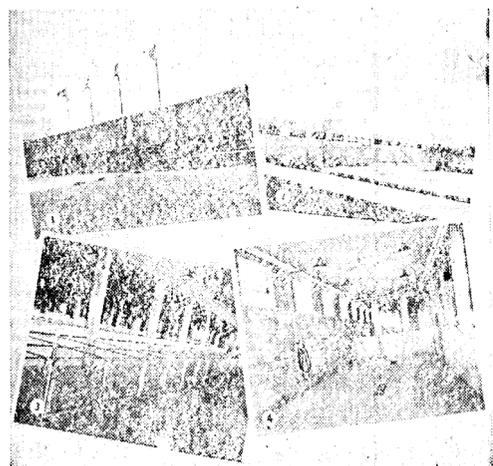

Duck shooting in the Ord area is almost an unknown quantity, as very few ducks are coming down. An early flight, probably of home hatched ducks has gone on south, and for some reason the heavier flight has not yet begun. Stormy weather will be needed to bring them down, local hunters believe.

Howard County Planning to Own Fair Buildings

The Howard County Agricultural Society has taken action toward acquiring the 40 acres on which the fair has been held for so many years. The land is now the property of Mrs. Pauline Arterburn, a daughter of the late N. J. Paul. The society voted to pay up to $5,000 if necessary for the 40 acre tract.

Officers for the year 1950 were elected as follows: President, Fred Frost; Vice-President, Ralph Ferris; Treasurer, George Pyne; St. Paul, Secretary, Charles Dobry; St. Paul; General Superintendent, Raymond Panowicz; Elba; and Assistant Superintendent, Mrs. A. E. Dwehus, Danneberg.

The Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha will dedicate their new million-dollar livestock building on Tuesday, Oct. 4, as a feature of the twenty-second annual Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Show and World Championship Rodeo. The rodeo opens Friday, Sept. 30, and continues through Sunday, Oct. 9. Picture No. 1 shows the main entrance to the new building. No. 2 shows the holding pens and unloading docks on the west end of the building. No. 3 shows a section of the hog and sheep pens. No. 4 pictures one of the expansive wash racks with individual tie rings where 4-11 youngsters from over the Midwest will wash their sleek stock. Note the type of ventilator in No. 4, which changes air in the building every five minutes.

All-State Music Clinic Was Held at Norfolk, Nebr.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week an all-state music clinic was held at Norfolk in conjunction with the Nebraska Music Instructors convention. Will Nelson, music director of Ord high school, was in attendance with 8 of his students.

These performed with large groups assembled from all parts of Nebraska, 500 in the chorus, 140 in the orchestra and 150 in the band. Eugene Rogers with her bassoon played with the orchestra, while Charlene Severns, drummer, and Geraldine Koelling, tenor saxophone, played with the band.

Ord had five representatives in the chorus: Margaret Heuck, Marlene Norman, Paul Stoddard, Bob Moore and Gale Allen. Top performers in their departments are selected for these assignments and the groups are directed by famous directors.

Jay Auble Obtains Interesting Data

Jay Auble spent from Tuesday to Friday of last week on business in Kansas City, Mo. While there he visited Butler Bros., the firm that is making the circular grain bins for the government, such as have been put up at the Valley county fair grounds.

They gave him the interesting information that the company is making up these bins and shipping them out at the rate of 90 carloads per day. One day they made a record of 95 carloads. As they have no storage space and have to ship in the materials, manufacture and ship out immediately, this makes quite a record.

The value of the finished product shipped out amounts to almost a million dollars per day. This gives some idea of the vastness of the government corn-sealing project, and of the huge amount of corn now on hand in the United States, to say nothing of the 1949 crop, now pretty well harvested.

Let us pause to give thanks on this historic Day for the plentifulness and continuing spirit of freedom afforded us through the years by this great country of ours.

St. Paul College Being Torn Down

The old St. Paul Business College building, a well known institution of the state, will soon be only a memory. The present owner of the property, Mons Thompson, is having the brick building torn down, and will build apartments on the site. The building was built 35 years ago by Andy Gruber, who made the brick of which it is made.

St. Paul college was started 50 years ago by S. D. Smith, and was known as St. Paul Business and Normal college. H. Lew Mather was the next owner. J. S. Zocholl became affiliated with him, and later bought him out, and ran it as a business college. When Mr. Zocholl died the VFW bought the building and later sold it to Mr. Thompson.

Ordites Attend Lincoln Full Week Program

Last week Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Dale and Miss Katherine Helzer spent in Lincoln, Mr. Dale and Miss Helzer on work connected with the local extension office, and Mrs. Dale to visit. They drove down Monday and returned Saturday after taking in the Nebraska-Colorado football game.

Monday and Tuesday was taken up with the annual extension conference, closing with a banquet Tuesday evening, at which six distinguished service awards were granted. One of these was won by Willis Thurber, county extension agent for Garfield, Wheeler and Loup counties. C. C. Dale acted as toastmaster at the banquet.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday was Farm and Home week, which is the new name for what was originally known as organization week. Dale stated that he got the most enjoyment out of a discussion of the agricultural situation Wednesday morning by O. V. Wells, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, and the two panel discussion which followed on Thursday and Friday.

There was some difference of opinion as to what type of agricultural program was required, but it was agreed that some government farm program is necessary, because of the fact that the farmers are competing with organized labor and organized industry, and without a program the farmers are in no bargaining position.

Of special interest was a talk by Dean W. V. Lambert on "Crops and Soils in Africa." He returned recently from some time spent there studying the agriculture question. He also had some very fine pictures which were taken on African farms. The trio finished an interesting week by attending the Nebraska-Colorado football game, which they state was a most interesting game to watch.

Custer County Pays for Coyotes

Aside from the damage caused by their raids, coyotes have cost Custer county taxpayers $1,470 so far this year.

That is the bounty of $2.50 each paid by County Clerk Lynn Paine for 1,783 coyote scalps turned in up to October 31.

The bounty is paid out of county tax funds under state law. Paine said the aging coyote scalps also cause an odor that doesn't help the courthouse atmosphere a bit.

KEEP MILK PRODUCTION UP WHILE PRICES ARE HIGH

Right now you have an opportunity to cash in on high milk prices. Many farmers are "cashing in" by adding Wayne Dairy Feeds to their rations and roushage. They know that milk producing cows need extra minerals and vitamins, and that Wayne Dairy Feeds are made to supply just the right combination of these nutrients. No matter what combination of grains and roushage are available, we can outline a profitable feeding plan for you.

Union of Churches.

Union of churches is a good thing. This week we are noting a union of effort by several churches of the town in the form of a Thanksgiving service. If there is any one thing we should be more thankful for than any other it is the fact that these congregations pooled their efforts and resources to put on a fine Thanksgiving program. Still in the process of completion is the union of the two old and honored church organizations, in America, the Evangelical and United Brethren churches. Next year it is understood that the union will be completed under the present name of Evangelical United Brethren. These two organizations were nearly identical in doctrine from the beginning.

All that stood in the way of union then was the question of language. The Evangelical church was originally known as the German Evangelical church, and because the older members had difficulty to understand the church services they were held in the German language. More than twenty years ago English services were introduced, and the name German was dropped.

Many years ago a number of churches adopted the name, Christian Endeavor, with variations, for their young people societies, which was a long move in the right direction. As time goes on we find the differences which separate the many branches of the protestant churches becoming less noticeable, and churches work together on many worth while enterprises, such as the recent CROP campaign.

The value of unity is being recognized more and more, especially in these times when the churches are being persecuted in all communist dominated countries. If the world is ever to be united it will not be by the Methodists, Presbyterians or Baptists, nor yet by the Catholics or Lutherans. It will be by all religious forces working together for the common good and pooling their strength for the conquest of the world.

Independence.

Americans are prone to prate on the independence they enjoy. As a matter of fact, there is no such thing as true independence. The first people on earth came as near achieving independence as is humanly possible. Wild animals know what independence is. They must furnish themselves with food and shelter or they will perish.

The first man depended almost entirely on his own efforts for the things they had to have in order to live. They lived in caves, caught and killed animals for food, used their skins for clothing. Each man did these things for himself, and so was independent. But even then a certain dependence was creeping in. The man of the family caught the game, which made the woman dependent on him for food.

The woman dressed the game and prepared it, and also got the skins ready for use as clothing, so the man was dependent on the woman. The growing children were dependent on both their parents. So we see that even in the beginning there was no true independence. This condition is fitly expressed in the Bible: "For no man liveth unto himself, and no man dieth unto himself."

As man advanced in the scale of civilization he found himself more and more dependent on other men until today, in every day life, a man has literally thousands of other men working for him. Indirectly it would not be absurd to state that each man has every other man in the world working for him. Today a Robinson Crusoe existence is possible, but highly impractical.

Independence, as we think of it, consists in having the right to live pretty much as we please, so long as we live within the law and do not infringe on the rights of others. It entails the right to work with or for the community, which, incidentally, is also a principle of communism.

Today interdependence has advanced to such an extent that our boasted independence is in danger. When any group of men can quit work on the order of one man and thus bring inconvenience and, in some cases, actual suffering to a large number of people, our independence is in danger. When a foreign nation can burn their surplus of coffee in the face of a possible crop failure and thus raise the cost of coffee 50% or more, our personal rights are threatened.

When a nation can, and does, pile debt upon debt, some day the taxpayers will be paying out one third of all they earn in taxes. When that time comes our personal liberties will end, according to record. By that time we will all be working for the government and the government will be paying us for our work. If that is what America wants, all we have to do is to continue as we are going, and we will be there soon.

Today we are in debt beyond all reasonable limits, and are going deeper in debt, because the politicians seem to want it that way. Now is the time to slow down on expenditures and let the national income catch up. Now is the time to start reducing that national debt. Today the dollar is cheap, production is high, and it would be easy to top off a few billions each year. If we value the liberties we still enjoy, it is time to start paying the national debt.

What's Cookin' Ward's Column

As I walked past Hattie Clement's home in North Loup Friday morning that estimable lady, once my school teacher, asked me if I expected to go to the wedding. Not having received a special invitation, I told her "no." I am too busy anyway, and if I had time to waste, I would rather go fishing. If I had the assignment to cover the wedding for the Ord Quiz, I would certainly go, and I would far rather attend the wedding of the vice-president of the United States than to see a king married. After all, the Vesp works for a living and amounts to something, even if he receives less than one twentieth the salary the king of England receives. He started at the bottom and worked his way up, which is something a king cannot do. He married the woman of his choice. Windsor tried that and he had to give up his job. Up to the present time, at least, the vice-president is elected by the people. The king comes into his job through a mysterious something called "divine right."

I received another copy of the "Spoke" last week, the paper Claude A. Davis edits for the Estes Park Rotary club. Again Mr. Davis has done me the honor to quote from this column, and I can't do much about it. In fact, I wouldn't if I could. If anything, I happen to write is worth quoting. I am only glad to have others pass it on. After all, Davis and I have quite a little in common. Each is growing older every day, and wiser, I hope. He is secretary of a Rotary club and I am secretary of a Lions club, when I am not busy fishing. He is editor of the Spoke and I am news editor of the Quiz. We have our differences also. I was never a lawyer, and he was never a sign writer. He was a judge for a number of years, but I was only a justice of the peace. That is the beauty of America. We do not always see alike or act alike, but we can still be friends. Our seeing, acting and thinking is not under government control, at least, not yet.

Also on Friday morning as I started out on foot for Ord, I recalled the same day one year ago, which was slightly different. The first blizzard of the year had started and winter was at hand, not to leave until mid-April, five months later. I came up to Ord that morning with Mr. Bennett, who drove up to his job with the highway department. The windshield was covered with snow that would not come off and most of the driving had to be done by looking out of the side window and guessing at the location. Luckily there was no one on the road, or there might have been a collision. It was a fine autumn morning Friday and the weather report was fair and warmer. I hope it keeps that way for a long time.

Another member of the Class of 1904, Ord High school, Irl D. Telen, has gone the way of all flesh. In the 45 years that have intervened since that memorable day (memorable to us, that is) five of the nine young men have gone over the water and the six girls, all are still living. Richard Cantfield was the first to go, before 1910, I believe, but I do not know the exact year. Next came Edwin C. Armstrong, in 1923. Grover C. Long followed in 1935, and Dave Harris died two years ago. Remaining are Allan Clements, Ontario, Calif.; Cecil Charlton, also in the west somewhere, John R. Heddle in Madison, Wis. Last comes the writer, of North Loup, or Ord or the highway between. The girls of the class are Sadie Ollis, Anstruthing of Seattle at present visiting in Ord; Sada Calhoun Post of Aberdeen, S. D.; Mary Beran Eder, of Hardin, Mont.; Carrie (M. Carlota) Smith Davis, of Estes Park, Colo.; and Gertrude Noll Trout and Kate Koupel Telen of Ord.

A lot can happen in 45 years. For example, John Heddle and I collaborated while in school in building the first wireless ever to be used in Ord. Wireless has gone a long way since then. Basketball was first introduced in Ord high in 1901, and I had the honor of playing the game during those first three years. The chief trouble the first year was to find opponents, since the game was new to central Nebraska. Now it is played everywhere. The first autos came into Ord while I was still in high school. If I recall it right, Dr. C. C. Shepard and Malcolm Boylston owned the first ones. No need to remark on the progress of the auto. You know all about it. Perhaps you have heard of the first airplane flight at Kittyhawk in 1903. No airplanes had appeared in Ord by 1901, but several were seen within ten years. More planes are privately owned in Ord today than there were altogether in 1904.

The Class of 1904 graduated under Roosevelt as president. Forty years later Roosevelt was still president, only it was a different Roosevelt. Back in September, 1901, Ord high school held a memorial service for the martyred president, William McKinley. Incidentally, young man, if you are thinking of becoming president of the United States, better look the political situation over carefully. Our martyred presidents, Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley, were all Republicans. But returning to the Class of 1904, they were just a skating rink for the boys and girls last winter, in the natural draw behind his dwelling. You know, west across the street from Dr. Norris and north through that block. By throwing up an earth dam at one end, quite a fine ice skating place could be created, though it would take a good deal of water to soak it and freeze it gradually into a good smooth skating place.

But wherever the skating pond is to be, it should be decided upon now, before the ground is frozen while the earth could be moved easily.

Something Different

If there is anything that is more fun than reading signs and slogans, tell me what it is.

For instance, going to Lexington, Mo. to see our son Kerry a few weeks ago we were winding around hill after hill, approaching the Missouri River from the west. I think it might have been near Rulo, or some place in that far corner of Nebraska.

When Bang! Here was a big sign "Hell of a bad curve at the foot of this hill!"

Needless to say, we slowed down plenty, and at once!

Out in California we got a kick out of some big handsome trucks painted in yellow and white with the legend: "Don't hit me! I'm full of Golden Yellow Popcorn!"

Needless to say, we drove carefully around each truck discussing the sign meantime. Good advertising on their part, wasn't it?

It is surprising too, what the different towns decide to brag about, on their signs.

"The friendly city." "The fastest growing little city." "For instance, what would you put on a sign at the edge of Ord? I have heard it called "The city of white houses." I have heard it called the Nebraska town with the most adopted children, per capita. Once we called it the popcorn capital of the world, but no more.

The Veterans club and their fine food have really been a big asset to Ord. Believe it or not, the superior steaks served there, the excellent French fried potatoes, cannot be beat in Omaha nor any other city. Time after time, visitors come into the club bragging on the food, insisting it is really famous "from coast to coast."

The club is fighting to exist. It is almost more than the Vets and their friends can manage. Can you think of any way we can help them?

Lawyer John Suitman calls it to my attention that we should have a skating pond this winter. He says there is considerable conversation about it.

I first thought of that lot north of the high school, level an easy to flood. A small rim of earth raised about it, and not so much water would be needed.

Dr. Blessing, our mayor, says that Mike Axthelm wanted to fix a skating rink for the boys and girls last winter, in the natural draw behind his dwelling. You know, west across the street from Dr. Norris and north through that block. By throwing up an earth dam at one end, quite a fine ice skating place could be created, though it would take a good deal of water to soak it and freeze it gradually into a good smooth skating place.

But wherever the skating pond is to be, it should be decided upon now, before the ground is frozen while the earth could be moved easily.

The boys and girls would probably love having it near downtown.

Having it at the high school would probably take about one-tenth as much water, and a warming-up place would be close beside them (the high school).

Our firemen, those ever-helping friends, would probably like to be in charge of the flooding and water-work necessary. It is quite an undertaking for them, really, for every thaw calls for a fresh topping of water to be added. Still, the project seems worthwhile.

Shall we get at it? —Irma.

Rich Man-Poor Man

Who gets the better buy?

Just how do you compare one car with another? We've been comparing "our" car with others, so just to make it good, we obtained comparison charts on the highest priced popular car on the road—the Cadillac. We were surprised, too, to learn that the Plymouth buyer gets as much, or even more, than the Cadillac buyer does. Now, we ask you—who gets the most for their money?

PLYMOUTH ACTUALLY LEADS CADILLAC

in Comfort and Convenience Features

Dimension	Plymouth	Cadillac
Legroom—front	39 7/16—43 1/8	37 1/2—41 13/16
	rear	42 1/2
Seat Height—front	15 1/2	12 3/8
	rear	15 1/2
Seat Cushion width—rear	57	53 11/16
Headroom—rear	37	35 15/16

More Leg Room—means more comfort in any car. That's why it's important to note that, even though the Cadillac is almost 3 feet longer, there is more legroom in the Plymouth.

The higher seats in the Plymouth assure passengers of a more comfortable sitting position. On long trips, especially, proper seat height can make the difference between an enjoyable ride and a continually "cramped" feeling.

It's a fact that Plymouth actually has more room on its rear seat than does Cadillac—that's important when three people are riding in the rear seat. More headroom means the passenger can lean back in the Plymouth without brushing his hat or having it pushed down on his head.

Plymouth's doors are two inches higher than Cadillac's—that means less stooping, fewer bumped heads. Plymouth's doors open wider, it is possible to step into the car rather than slide into it. Women, especially, are able to leave or enter the Plymouth more gracefully.

Plymouth's resistor-type spark plugs last longer and maintain their efficiency longer than the ordinary plugs used in other cars. This means less money spent for adjustments and replacements.

Ignition-Key-Starting—Plymouth provides convenient one-hand operation for both ignition switch and starter. Come On In—We'd Like to Tell You More

Corn Picking Bee

The weather was fit for neither man nor beast but the chill of the atmosphere only warmed the hearts of friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Collier as some sixty strong swarmed into the corn fields and gathered some hundred and twenty-five acres last Wednesday.

The ladies not to be outdone busied themselves all morning in the preparation of a meal that anyone could enjoy but one to which only a corn picker could do justice: chicken, mashed potatoes, scalloped corn, baked beans, coffee, cake, pie and all the trimmings. The meal was served at the Arcadia Legion building with the food being mainly furnished by the Colliers and their many friends. All in all some sixty men and seventeen women were served the noon meal at the Legion Hall.

The occasion was prompted by the "picker" accident of Allan, Alfred's son, who lost a hand some two weeks ago. Allan is doing nicely now, and joins Mr. and Mrs. Collier in hearty thanks to each and every one who contributed to the picking bee, especially to the following organizations: Arcadia Legion Auxiliary, Myrtle Aid and the Legion Post No. 251. Christian Science Services
"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alms, Mesmerism and Hypnotism Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, Nov. 27, 1942.

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, "The Science of being unveils the errors of sense, and spiritual perception, added by Science, reaches Truth. Then error disappears. Sin and sickness will abate and seem less real as we approach the scientific period, in which mortal sense is subdued and all that is unlike the true likeness disappears." (p. 406).

In Duck Hunting...

Experience Counts

Duck hunting looks easy, but any old timer can tell you it took him a long time to learn.

He will tell you he learned more in one season from experienced duck hunters than in years of hunting alone.

Likewise, the knowledge of experienced tavern men is being passed along to the younger operators throughout the state. A trained man, employed by the Nebraska Division, U. S. Brewer's Foundation, travels the state, relaying the experience of older owners to the new comers in the industry.

Thus, Nebraska beer retailers are learning how to do a better job for themselves, and for their community—all in the public interest.

In the Good Ol' Winter Time—

Thanksgiving is here folks, and we've already had some cold weather, and now winter is with us.

How Is That Furnace Doing? Is it ready to do a good efficient job of heating this winter?

We have the gauges and analyzers to tell you, and to help us make adjustments that can save you 10% to 25% on your fuel bills this winter. We know this, because last year we increased efficiency readings on several furnaces by that much. The cost is small and the opportunity for savings great. Let us check yours in the next few days. If we are so busy checking them that you can't find us, just call 510 and tell the Mrs.

Now About Humidifiers—

We repeat our conviction that enough humidity in your heated air in the winter time is one of the best investments you can make. The humidity in our own house has been getting as low as 10% in the last few days and it was very uncomfortable, and we were all getting sore throats and colds, so we have installed an automatic humidifier and have watched the relative humidity climb daily. The air is much less stuffy and we feel lots better. And think what that 10% relative humidity was doing to our furniture. That's a lot drier than desert air. And since we are comfortable at a lower temperature, we expect to save about 10% of our fuel bill this winter by its use alone. We have the humidifiers on hand and will be glad to install them for you. Ours are the best on the market, made by Lennox, and can be installed in a short time and most any day.

Oct. 30, the last game of the year available, found Albion visiting Ord and winning by a score of 50 to 0. Ord was outplayed and outgeneraled all through the game. A young man named Loken did most of the damage. It was sweet revenge for a loss of 54 to 0 to Ord three years before.

In 1926 Supt. Charles Bowers named Dr. G. W. Taylor, Dr. J. W. McGinnis, Ralph Norman, Bill Heuck and E. C. Leggett as a 5-man athletic board to assist Coach Rex Reed.

The record for 1925 was published at that time: Ord 47, St. Paul 0; Ord 13, Scotia 0; Ord 7, Broken Bow 0; Ord 0, Albion 50; Ord 6, Aurora 19; Ord 10; Osceola 0; Ord 7, Ravenna 0; Ord 7, Ravenna 19; and Ord 6, Loup City 0.

Oct. 1, Andersen and Lashmetz laced good in a game with St. Paul. Ord rolled up 19 yards. Named especially were Wayne and Dale Norman, Mizar, Gregg, Perliniski, Dlugosh, J. Bell, S. Furtak, Al Furtak, G. Bell, Augustyn and Mason. Oct. 8 Scotia came from behind to defeat Ord 15 to 13. Capt. Archie Mason starred for Ord at fullback. Later he was a great fullback at Kearney Normal.

Ord beat Broken Bow 14 to 7 on Oct. 15. John Round is mentioned for Ord in this game. Oct. 22 Ord defeated Ravenna 19 to 0. Mason made two touchdowns and Lashmetz one. Oct. 29 Mason placed kick defeated Aurora by a score of 16 to 14. The kick was made from Ord's 45 yard line. Aurora was ahead 14 to 13 at the time.

Nov. 12, Ord defeated Burwell 53 to 0. Ord rolled up 481 yards from scrimmage while Burwell showed a net loss of 14 yards. It was Burwell's first year after reorganizing. Nov. 19 Ord took the initial kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown in defeating Ansley 22 to 6 and the yardage, 95 to 103. Turkey Day, Nov. 25, Ord played Loup City a 6 to 6 tie. The downs were 7 to 4 favoring Ord, and the yardage 148 to 75.

In 1927, Ord lost a practice game at Ord to Ansley, 6 to 0, but it didn't count in the schedule. Oct. 7, Ord played Scotia a 13 to 13 tie. The lineup: Al Perliniski RE; James Bremer, RT; Floyd Dye, RG; LeRoy Adams, C; S. Carleski, LG; Ward Mizar, LT; Chet Weekes, RE; John Round, QB; S. Furtak, LH; J. Bell, RH; E. Blessing, FB. Substitutes were Larry Botts, William Zabloudil, and Mizar, Blessing and Bell were the only lettermen.

Ord started out by losing to St. Paul 6 to 0. Oct. 21, Ord played Broken Bow to a scoreless tie, although out downing and out yarding them. Syd Carleski saved a Broken Bow score by running down the receiver after a completed pass. Oct. 28 Ord lost to Albion, score Ord 13, Albion 14. The score at the end of the first quarter was 14 to 0. Nov. 13, Ord defeated Burwell 21 to 0 at Bassett Park. A planned Armistice Day program was left out because of the cold.

Sept. 20, 1928, Coach Rex Reed had 45 men out for football. The lineup: Lashmetz and Peterson, ends; Barnard and Botts, tackles;

McGinnis and Garnick, guards; Adams, center; Williams QB; Zabloudil and Hughes, HBs; Carleski, FB. Subs were Pratt, Papernik, Augustyn, Norman, Norton, Barta and Blessing.

Oct. 5, Ord defeated Scotia, 7 to 0. Williams made the touchdown and kicked the extra point, Hughes holding. Oct. 12, Ord lost to St. Paul, 39 to 0. St. Paul played the air full of passes. The play of Buck Parkins, McGinnis and Adams was outstanding. Oct. 19 Ord lost to Broken Bow, 59 to 0. Lashmetz ran 92 yards in a kickoff return but Ord couldn't push it over.

Oct. 26, Ord lost to Ansley 6 to 0 in a sea of mud at Bassett park. Nov. 9, Ord beat Burwell, there, 19 to 0. Paul Gregg, Christensen and Bentley are mentioned. Williams scored twice and kicked the extra point. Lashmetz ran the kickoff back 70 yards to the Burwell 10. Arcadia and Ord played a tie game at Bassett park, Nov. 23, score 0 to 0.

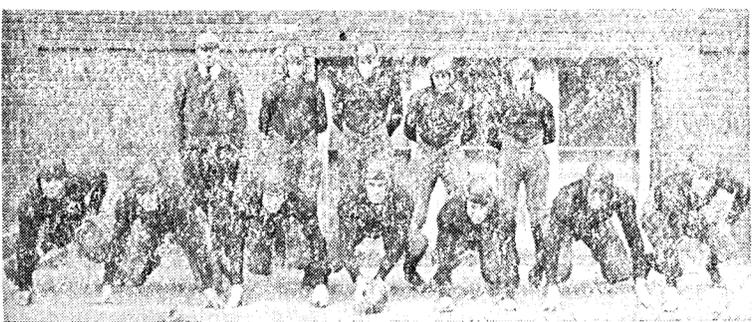

The Ord town team lost at Loup City Nov. 25, 7 to 0. Everett McLain was the captain, but other names are not mentioned. Ord high was supposed to play one more game that year, but there is no record in the Quiz of it being played.

Joe Krefel was Ord's new coach in 1929, and great things were expected of him, as he had a wealth of fine material. Yet Ord went through the season without a single win. There were six defeats and two ties. The ties were with Broken Bow, 6 to 6, and Ravenna 14 to 14. The losses: Ord 0, Scotia, 39; Ord 0, St. Paul 7; Ord 0, Ansley 32; Ord 0, Burwell, 14; and Ord 7, Loup City 26.

The Ord players that year were: Capt. Dale Chatfield, Bill Garnick, Allen Norman, Ervic Lashmetz, Shirley Norton, Larry Botts, Walter Blessing, Bill Zabloudil, Earl Barnard, Marshall Williamson, Adrian Zikmund, Harold Finch, Ray Peterson, Kenneth McGinnis, Marcus Steinwart, Sylvester Papernik, Paul Gregg, Oakley Hather, Dale Strong, Don Lashmetz, Willard Ball, Dean Worden, Walter Brown, Ralph Maslehka, Alvin Christensen, and Charles Barnhart. Thus ends the third decade, with two more articles of the series to follow.

Nebraska Highway Needs as Shown in Recent Engineering Appraisal

A number of pavement types have been tried and are still being tried in Nebraska. The selection of a pavement type is primarily an economic consideration. Most pavement surfaces will deliver generally satisfactory service to a traffic so long as they remain in a good state of repair. There is, however, a tremendous difference in the lasting qualities of various types of pavement construction when subjected to different kinds of traffic. This principle is recognized in establishing standards for new construction in Nebraska.

High-type concrete or bituminous pavements are specified for all roads carrying heavy traffic loads and for principal city and village streets. There have been examples in Nebraska where, for one reason or another, pavements have been built which were not adequate for the demands placed upon them. The resulting excessive maintenance costs and short life combined with the inconvenience to the public has emphasized the need for adequate design. The necessary slowing down of traffic caused by crews making repairs on such roads amounts to a very considerable economic loss in the course of time.

The standards for reconstruction or new construction in Nebraska presume that sub-grade treatment, pavement thickness and bridge design, as well as other features of the highway, will be based on the number and weight of loads within the legal limits. Pavements which carry lower volumes of traffic and fewer heavy loads are built with less expensive intermediate types of paving, such as bituminous construction. These pavements can be built to various thickness depending on the type and frequency of traffic and on the type of soil in the subgrade.

In proper gradation of sizes. This deficiency, together with the usual lack of moisture during the summer months results in much of the gravel getting off the surface entirely and being lost and also prevents the stabilization of heavier courses of gravel. Another difficulty not commonly considered is that too much gravel on the highway often causes accidents.

A recommendation for the use of gravel in certain situations is no indication that it is equally suitable for other situations. It is recommended to provide adequate traffic facility at a minimum cost, especially in wet weather. It is not intended to preclude the use of dust preventatives where there is public demand for such type of treatment. In fact, one of the most disagreeable features of gravelled roads is the prevalence of dust during the dry season.

Curvature and grade design comprise a third important element in the selection of standards for Nebraska highways and streets. As highway traffic has risen in volume and speed, standards for alignment have had to be altered. It is a far cry from the wide corners of thirty years ago to the gradual curves sloping to the inside that are the regular type of construction today. It would be interesting to be able to return present day traffic to the conditions of those days and see what the result would be. It is probable, however, that designs which will provide adequately for present-day traffic will not reach obsolescence nearly as rapidly as have roads in the past.

Curvature and grade design fix the standards for the most permanent portion of rural road construction. Cuts, embankments and even drainage structures should continue to give service long after the pavement itself has been replaced, providing the facility has been properly located and designed. The entire concept of proper grades and correct alignment cannot be specified in any list of standards. The Nebraska standards are developed with the assumption that the basic planning is adequate and is adjusted to the economic balance between costs and required service.

The detailed specifications, therefore, are given as a guide to minimum standards for various traffic requirements and are not intended to preclude the application of higher standards of design where their use can be economically justified. Steepness of grades is especially important to the operation of trucks in hilly areas but it is also a factor which may influence the safety characteristics of highways. Rolling grades may be safe - even safer than long stretches of flat grades - providing they are not steep and the sight distances are long.

Bituminous mats are frequently constructed in Nebraska as surface courses on worn-out pavements or existing roads. They are dustless and offer a satisfactory surface for safe operating conditions when properly built on an adequate base. Gravel surfaces are specified in the standards for many city and village streets which serve residential areas as well as farm service country roads having a traffic count of more than 15 vehicles per day and on state routes having traffic volumes. One difficulty is that sometimes the amount and weight of traffic increases sharply over such roads after they have been built.

Gravel surfaces are specified to be only one and one half to two inches deep. This relatively thin application is due to the fact that Nebraska native gravel is lacking

When You and I Were Young

Ten Years Ago—Three WPA projects were nearing completion, roads, athletic field and the park project. The Ord Rotarians made a trip to Davis Creek, where they ate a chicken dinner, which was a part of the bazaar being held there. Ed Kasper died following a long illness. Mrs. Mary Kubick, oldest county resident, died at the home of Mrs. Frank Sevensker in Ord at the age of more than 101 years. John Jurzenski, who fell from a roof, was reported recovering. The American Legion held a very successful shooting match in Bob Hall's pasture. The Ord Chautauque tied Ravenna, 7 to 7. The Burwell butter factory shipped 7,325 turkeys for the Thanksgiving market.

Twenty years ago—R. C. Rols, division engineer, promised that the Ord-Grand Island highway would be graded and gravelled in 1930, but there was no promise in regard to the Ord-Arcadia highway. A series of 15 "Chronicles of America" films were to be shown under the auspices of the American Legion. Mrs. A. J. Smith, resident of the county since 1878, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Claude A. Davis in Lincoln, at the age of 83 years. Leroy Lashmet started when Ord played Mason City to a scoreless tie in a high school football game. Autos driven by John B. Zukoski and Adam Bartusiak were badly damaged in a collision 4 miles west of Elyria, but neither man was injured. Mr. and Mrs. John W. Vodenhal were honored by a party at the Bohemian Hall on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Thirty Years Ago. — W. D. Draine had resigned as manager of the Ord J. C. Penney store and the new manager, Horace E. Nay was expected to take his place. The people of Mira Valley were running a winter lecture course, and George E. Adolott was to be the next attraction. Because of cold weather and a shortage of coal, the fuel situation was looking bad in Ord. Merritt H. Fuson was handling a wrestling match in Ord which was to bring together Paul Kinney of Spaulding and Ben Zerklen of Gresham. The city of Ord let contracts for $100,000 in improvements which included sewer and water. Ella Marie Bossen and Asa F. Miller were married at Grand Island. Paul Carkoski had his face cut up somewhat when his gun exploded from having snow in the barrel.

Fifty Years Ago. — A. E. Charlton, cashier of the Ord State bank, was going to St. Joseph, where he was to take charge of one of Fred Harriss's commission houses. C. E. Kemp, who was cook in Frank Lloyd's restaurant, has accepted a position in the Keystone restaurant in Grand Island. Abe Rowan was out hustling business for the American Order of Protection. Horace M. Davis left for Chicago, where he expected to stay until the first of the year. John Bernstein of the Mallory and Perry store had his face badly burned while trying to enlighten a fire with kerosene. August Beck took a header off his bike at the culvert near the Provins residence and was badly hurt. The new Quiz Cranston press had arrived and was to be used in getting out the paper in the future.

Sixty Years Ago. — E. J. Clements returned from his trip to Michigan and brought with him a new Caligraph typewriter, an improvement badly needed in the office. Out Of Old Nebraska

Recent discussion of gambling in Nebraska calls to mind the fact that the pioneers had their troubles, too, with this particular problem of public and private morality. Indeed, modern practitioners of the art of extracting money from the unsuspecting have little if anything on their pioneer counterparts when it comes to ingenuity. If he hadn't encountered it before, the early Nebraska pioneer came in close contact with western gambling on the steamboat which brought him up the Missouri river. Almost every boat carried one or more sharp-eyed, sharp-witted gentlemen whose mission was to make sure the settler landed in Nebraska with as little money as possible. Card and dice games were in progress around the clock as the steamer made its way up the muddy Missouri. Women played frequently, and for high stakes. A favorite diversion involved dice and an oil cloth blocked off into numbered squares. The dice were 50 cents a throw and there was a number on the cloth for each combination, with a price for each number. The only rub was that most of the prizes were the cheapest sort of junk. It was usually impossible to win the valuable one. Once in Nebraska, the early settler frequently found gambling continuing unabated. Land sales provided a particularly good opportunity for the professional gambler to ply his trade. The sales attracted large crowds of people, all of them in a speculative mood, and many of them with money in their pockets. A good many, succumbing to the lure of easy money on the spot, often found themselves without the means to purchase the land being offered at low prices. Occasionally, communities ran lotteries to provide funds for some public enterprise. The Citizens of Brownville, for example, organized a lottery in 1857 in order to build a hotel. Tickets sold at $5.00 each and prizes ranged from 147 acres of land adjoining town to 25 cents in cash. Even prairie camp meetings were not wholly free of the problem, and the elders had to be vigilant lest professional gamblers set up booths at the edge of the meeting area to lure away money that might otherwise have gone into the offering. When their own efforts failed they appealed to law enforcement officials for assistance.
