Book Gene Aury, Annie Oakley, for Rodeo

The biggest names of the Western entertainment field, Gene Aury and Annie Oakley, will add luster to Ak-Sar-Ben's World Championship Rodeo and Live Stock Show this year.

The event, which also attracts the finest cowboy competitors in the world, will open a 10-day, 11-performance stand at the Ak-Sar-Ben Coliseum September 21. There will be nine evening performances at 8 and two Sunday matinees at 2:15 through September 30.

Aury, foremost of all cowboy singing stars, will be accompanied by his famed horses, Champion and Little Champion, as well as Miss Oakley and the Cass County Boys.

Miss Oakley, a vivacious blonde whose real name is Gail Davis and who has developed into one of the country's TV favorites, will stage her dazzling sharpshooting act. The Cass County Boys will sing many of their recordings that have proved best sellers.

Another highlight of the program will be the appearance of the "Sweet Lassie" 14-pony hitch, only one of its kind in the Midwest.

Still another new feature this year will be the staging of the Regional Contest for "Miss Rodeo America."

Meanwhile, thrills aplenty will be offered by the cowboys who are seeking the $15,500 in prize money. They will match talents for world's championship points in the Bareback Bronc Riding, Saddle Bronc Riding, Steer Wrestling, Calf Roping Contests.

Annual highlights of the show that will again be staged are the Nebraska State Hereford Show, the Quarter-Horse Show, the Cutting Horse Contest, the colorful Midwest Marching Band Championships and Ak-Sar-Ben's outstanding competition for 4-H and FFA dairy cattle and 4-H beef cattle, swine and sheep.

Prices for the rodeo fans this year are $1.50, $1.80 and $2.50 for reserved seats; $3.50 for box seats; and $1.20 for standing room. For the convenience of out-of-town fans, mail orders for tickets, with remittance and self-addressed stamped envelope enclosed, will be filled promptly at the Ak-Sar-Ben Office, 201 Patterson Bldg., Omaha, Neb.

Corn Picking Losses Can Be Eliminated with Dryer Storage

LINCOLN—Will corn left in the field during harvest pay for a corn dryer on Nebraska's farms? If past records hold true, 10 per cent of the corn crop will be left in each field this year. This loss, if marketed, would finance an adequate grain dryer in one year, states Milo Mungaard, of the University of Nebraska.

average only about 2 per cent at this time. This seems to be the best time providing the crop is out of the field and in the crib within 10 days later when the moisture content will be down to 20 per cent. Best Picking At 26% For best results, farmers are advised to begin picking corn when the moisture content is 26 per cent and finish when it is down to 20 per cent.

In recent years over one-half of the complaints have been on rayon garments. There are three steps in the making of rayon garments: (1) the spinning and weaving, (2) the finishing, (3) the styling or converting and merchandising.

Sometimes complaints arise because the fabric was not designed for the purpose the converter has in mind.

Mr. Lovell of the National Association of Shirt, Pajama and Sportswear Manufacturers gave this information on the washability labeling: (1) completely washable (can be washed by hand or machine in hot water that is not over 160 degrees and can be bleached); (2) fully washable do not bleach (means just what it says); (3) wash in warm water, do not bleach; (4) wash by hand; (5) dry clean.

Mrs. Mary Golka Celebrates 98th

Mrs. Mary Golka, of Elyria, celebrated her 98th birthday last week in her home. It is probable that she is the oldest person in Valley county with the exception of Mrs. Mary Purcell of Ord, who was 98 last November.

Mrs. Golka was born in Wogrowitz, Poland, and lived there until she was 19 years of age. After she came to America, she worked in Milwaukee, and in a town in Illinois, the name of which she has forgotten.

After she and her husband, Frank Golka were married, they moved to a farm in Germanium township, where they lived for almost fifty years.

Their home was a sod shanty, and all of her eleven children were born in the sod house.

She well remembers various hardships of early pioneer years. One of her most vivid experiences is the blizzard of 1880. When her husband had to go to the barn to look after the animals, he held a piece of twine. Mrs. Golka held the other end. Thus he was guided back to the house.

The grasshoppers and drouths are old stories to her, since she has lived through many of them. She appears to be quite well. She says she expects to live a long time yet as her grandmother lived to be 112 years old.

Acid Isn't the Only Form of Coercion!

The Romans Motor Freight, a local firm employing the heads of 15 families here, is in desperate need of friends.

We need friends with more than ordinary gumption who will specify "Ship via Romans Motor Freight" on incoming merchandise and then back up that specification with a refusal to pay freight if the goods arrive by a non-specified carrier.

Here is our plight:

This year we've been the target of a freight "freezeout." We haven't had any trouble with organizations; in fact, we haven't even been approached.

We maintain our employees may join any organization, if they so choose. Frankly and honestly, we don't think we could survive wholesale organization. We are just too small. But regardless of our precarious position we haven't told our employees they couldn't join.

We believe our attitude hasn't been accepted with glee back east by any of the umpteen vice-presidents who would love to add the names of 15 more Ordites to the rank of dues paying members.

None the less, for the past year, we've been aware of coercion that has consistently directed freight away from our lines to be handled by other carriers. We feel this coercion would vanish immediately if we went to our employees and said: "Join!"

So far we haven't done that. But when we contemplate the loss of revenue (better than $30,000 so far this year) we sometimes wonder whether it wouldn't be better economics to yield to coercion, and let ideals go down the drain.

But we are still hopeful. We believe with a little help from Mr. Businessman we can ride out this difficulty and avoid what seems now to be an obvious step—a much smaller and tighter operation than we now maintain.

Because it is quite obvious fewer Romans Motor Freight employees means fewer payrolls and less business.

Remember you can help. Specify "Romans Motor Freight" on your in-line (trucking-company-to-trucking-company) shipments. Then back up that specification by refusing to pay freight charges if merchandise arrives by some other carrier.

Your refusal to pay is perfectly legal. A law says,—and a good old American law it is—a shipper may refuse charges when shipping directions are ignored.

That's the way we want to go on doing business—the good old American way!

The duty to support is a legal duty imposed on the husband and continues until the marriage is dissolved by order of court.

On the Party Line

Squirrels—When ad man Lee recently cleaned the Quiz yard as he is wont to do regularly, he picked up several green walnuts and placed in a box on the outside part of the air conditioner. We in the upstairs office have had an interesting time watching the squirrels come to get the nuts. They started with wariness and quickly taking a nut in their mouth would dart away. Later they lost the sense of fear and took their time selecting their food, I stood and watched one one day, in fact we returned stare for stare. After awhile the animal left and went to bury his food for the winter. Some say that the squirrels remember where they have cached their food. Others say they have to hunt for it and often time leave the nuts or corn buried. I do know that I have seen many tiny walnut trees or shoots of corn growing where they had been planted by squirrels. I hope they will have happy feasts this winter.

Alleys—I for one am glad to see the alleys of the city being hard surfaced. One that I have to cross was a mud hole after a rain or snow had melted. In fact this same alley was marked at one time with a sign saying, "Very Little Fishing."

Watermelons—Watermelons have been on the market for some time, and seem to be of the same luscious goodness as in other years. When I was much younger, I used to wonder if the striped ones showed just where to cut. Somehow I preferred the solid green ones. Now a little difference. However some the other day that had splashes, why I know not, they were a new variety. Maybe they just grew that way in the shade or something. The old files at this time of year tell of many a raiding party and even told of the time when melons were so plentiful that it was no longer fun to steal them. And then comes the watermelon pickles. For these are a must, and they are tangy with vinegar and with spice. Some use the rinds in their Christmas

Children at Play—Four little folks, not yet of school age were glimpsed the other day, while they were playing. One was the mother evidently, and doled out cookies from a bag suspended on a convenient shrub. The children that were left, were covered up in the play and probably they were supposed to be ill. At any rate, they were enjoying the cookies and the attention they were getting. However, their dog wanted a more active game, and barked furiously at the pretend sleep of the children.

Smart Sayings—And speaking of children, Mrs. E. L. Vogeltanz tells several of her small granddaughters, Cathy Cornwell. In saying her night time prayer she roused up to say, "How come Jesus wants my soul? I am not sure that I want Him to take my soul, anyway." Another time she was hiding, and when asked why she told her mother, "We don't want the Baby Jesus to punish us for being naughty, so we are hiding from Him."

Poems For Sale—It is possible that the small poet of the Rysavy name who lives in California has the right track. She simply advertised here, and as was to be expected, sold some of her poems. If the same idea were taken up by grown ups, it is just possible there would be fewer poets starving in garrets, or such. But maybe that would take the fun out of writing.

Badges—Everyone, it seemed had a bright yellow badge on at North Loup. The badge idea was thought out by the Pop Corn Day founders as the way to finance the enterprise. It must work, since that is the greatest revenue of the committee. People seemed to consider it an honor to wear one, and it was.

Kellison Predicts—Orin Kellison says there will be no heavy frost for a time yet, or until the moon changes. So the slight time of frost many confessed to seeing last week did not count, since it was not a killing change. People did hasten, however, to get their tomatoes picked and other vegetables in. And then as often happens, the days turned hotter than ever.

Humming Bird—Maybe it was not really a humming bird, maybe it was just a big moth, but a pretty being, in flower colors, was very busy the other night dipping into the petunias near the Assembly of God church.

A Note of Sadness—We are going to miss "Uncle Billy" on the streets of late near the stairs leading to the Swopes studio. He was accustomed to sit there and read his Bible or some religious paper. In many ways he was a fixture, and we looked for him. Somehow I wish I had been kinder to him as I passed him daily.

Early Visit—The tiny son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Hanson went to visit his great grandmother, Mrs. O. E. Collins, when he was four days old. In fact he had hardly been home from the hospital, when his great aunt, Miss Vida Collins, took him on the journey.

Button Holes—The home Economics girls were put through new paces, to them last week. They were learning to make buttonholes the hard way, even as did our grandmothers. They did a good job, too.

Busy Lad—Mary Vasicek was busy last week, in fact he carried on three jobs. He worked in the mounting room of the Quiz, in the Safeway store, and lastly assisted in the Texaco filling station, leased by his father.

Early—Already Hallowe'en candy is on sale in the stores, in fanciful black and yellow Trick or Treat mixes. And I received a Christmas gift catalogue the first of the week.

Windows—The sign painting put on the windows of business places about the square, advertising the Holdrege-Ord football game were for the most part, works of art, and showed talent of the high school boosters. Later all the lettering and pictures had to be removed by the same young people.

Pop Corn Thursday—A hot sun, but a cool breeze. Crowds of people, with many old friends. Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Beecher

VanHorn of Loma Linda, Calif., home for the occasion. The pop corn really delicious with plenty of butter and salt. And the crowd about the pop corn building three deep. But after all, 30,000 sacks is a mighty lot. Busy officials everywhere at once and doing a good job, everywhere. Electricians hard at work getting the wires high enough for the float to pass under. Queen Wilma, second of the Vodehval girls to be so honored, sweet in a rosy gown, wearing proudly her crown. She was surrounded by her attendants, also wearing dainty pastels. The smart marching bands, in their uniforms of blue, black and red. (What is it about a high school band that always makes me cry). The way the Scotia American Legion got back into the "tention stance" even if they had been out some time. Floats and more floats. Westerners looking very familiar but also very friendly. People and people including several little folks, al enjoying themselves. And one lady resting in her car, calmly reading the Quiz. Floyd Wetzel, who has never missed a celebration and Dr. Gard, taking it all in. Myra —Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sack returned home Tuesday from an extended visit with their children in Aurora, Crete and Iola, Kans. They also looked after business. —Mrs. Anna Vondracek of Sargent arrived Thursday morning for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Al Parkos Jr., and family.

—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zentz visited at the Emil Dlugosh home Sunday evening.

On Open Letter to Irrigators of the Middle Loup Public Power and Irrigation District

The Loup River Public Power District filed a suit in the Platte County District Court last week asking for the enforcement of the water rights established by law in the Middle Loup Valley.

This advertisement is our way of explaining to you why this action was taken.

In 1942, the Supreme Court of Nebraska held that the Middle Loup Public Power & Irrigation District was entitled to divert from the river one acre foot of water for each acre under irrigation as of October 1, 1944. As of October 1, 1944, approximately 11,000 acres of land were under irrigation. Hence, under this Supreme Court decision, only 11,000 acre feet of water could be diverted annually. If more than 11,000 acre feet were wanted, you were directed to compensate Loup River Public Power District for the damage it sustained because of this excess diversion.

This year alone, up to only September 3, the irrigators in the Middle Loup had diverted 37,820 acre feet of water . . . an excess of more than 26,000 acre feet over the amount they were entitled to under the decision of the Supreme Court. Yet, not one cent was paid for this bountiful supply of water, averaging nearly 36 inches of water per acre during the growing season in addition to the normal rainfall.

According to records, an acre foot of water will generate over a $1.00 worth of electric power. Loup River Public Power District holds that they should be compensated at not less than $1.00 for each acre foot in excess of 11,000 acre feet allowed you in your water rights. (Total cost to you, approximately $2.00 per acre for the 24" in excess of your water right allowance.)

THIS IS A SMALL PRICE TO PAY FOR THE ASSURANCE OF BUMPER CORN CROPS, AND LUSH ALFALFA FIELDS WHILE OTHER FARMS IN THE STATE ARE SERIOUSLY AFFECTED BY DROUGHT

But there is another side to this suit which we feel should be explained to you. Continued diversion of this water in such excess quantities jeopardizes the costly electrical generating equipment which serves you, your neighbors and the eastern two-thirds of Nebraska. For example, it forces Loup River Public Power District to purchase more expensive power from other sources. All electrical users then pay the penalty for your excess water usage.

It could also affect interchange contracts with other generating agencies, which in turn, could seriously damage Loup's ability to call on other agencies in case of power breakdown.

In other words, Mr. Irrigator, we feel that the water of the Middle Loup should be used for BOTH IRRIGATION AND POWER. We also feel that you, the irrigators, should be fair and reasonable in your interpretation of a fair share, not so much as it affects Loup River Public Power District but as it affects the people in your community, your county and the entire state.

Lovely to Look At with CONTACT Lenses

Can Contact Lenses Be Worn While Swimming?
Yes. Many people wear them while swimming but the chances of losing them are greater.

Will I Have Much Trouble Getting Used To Them?
No. The average person learns to handle them quickly. Learning how to insert them takes only a little practice.

Is It Hard To Keep Contact Lenses Clean?
No. The natural functions of the eye keep them clean. They will not collect sweat, steam, dust, sea spray, dirt or grease.

Do Contact Lenses Have To Be Changed As Often As Regular Glasses?
No. Once contact lenses are properly fitted it is seldom, if ever, that they need be replaced. Glasses, as you know, need to be changed every year or so, but Contact Lenses will not require such changing. Your first pair should last indefinitely.

Sixth Better Breakfast Month Stresses Importance of Breakfast

Educators are alarmed about the lack of good nutrition habits among teen-age girls. Many studies have indicated that teen-agers do not receive enough food, as far as the necessary nutrients and the amount of food they eat. The Children's Bureau, in its recently revised pamphlet "The Adolescent in Your Family," recommends that breakfast should provide about one-third of the adolescent's daily requirements of protein. To take care of one third of an adolescent's needed protein for the day calls for a substantial breakfast—for example, a serving of fruit, a bowl of cereal, an egg, a glass of milk to drink in addition to what is on the cereal and 2 or more slices of buttered toast.
Research at the State University of Iowa demonstrated that teen-age boys who ate a good breakfast felt and performed better, especially in the late morning hours. It was the consensus of the school authorities that the omission of breakfast exerted a significant detrimental effect both on the attitude and scholastic attainment of the teen-agers who followed this practice during the time they were in school. This study further demonstrated that the good breakfast habit is a sound nutritional principle that applies to teen-age boys and girls and the young and old alike.
MOTHERS—Are you doing your part to improve the breakfast habits of your teen-agers? If not, start now! Take special care to serve an attractive, adequate breakfast each day. A basic breakfast pattern, recommended by doctors and dietitians, of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter, with eggs and breakfast meats for variety, will ensure that your teen-agers are being served a breakfast nutritionally adequate for them.

FIVE EXCELLENT ARGUMENTS AGAINST THE USE OF ALL ADVERTISING

Preachers: Preachers should preach only one sermon a year. People are against sin anyway, so why harp on it. Traffic Lights: Everybody knows the corner is a dangerous spot so why not turn off the traffic lights and forget it. Teachers: No need to review lessons since we've been over those subjects before. Let's tell the kids once and then, the heck with it! Out-of-Towners Who Advertise: Everybody knows that out-of-towners who advertise in the Quiz are wasting their money. Highway Patrol: No need to ride herd on Car Owners. They all know the law and will obey. Maybe you won't believe all these arguments. Maybe you're the kind of merchant like the church that rings the bell EVERY Sunday—that believes in telling folks, and telling them often, about what you have to sell.

Nice barn, chicken house with garage attached, hog shed, tile silo, large cattle shed with cement floor, and a nice utility building located close to the well and windmill, and good feed lots. Farm also has extensive water system with a force pump which puts water into supply tank in barn, then water is gravity fed to house, hog house and tanks in the lot.

Tract is fenced and cross fenced. Buildings are up in good condition. Here is a tract that fully developed, will be one of the high producers in this area. The water right will be assigned to the purchaser. The 1956, and all previous taxes, will be paid. Interest on the loan will be paid up until date of final settlement. The loan consists of $5,000 at 4% interest, runs 27 years. It can be assumed by purchaser if desired.
