Record Vote Is Cast

Elyria Votes 'Wet'

Elyria became Valley County's first "wet" town in modern history Tuesday night.

A record turnout of 39 voters went to the polls on the liquor-by-drink issue and returned a decisive 23-14 year vote. Two ballots were declared invalid because they were improperly filled out.

Elyria, with an official population of 89, has never before tallied so many votes. The previous record count was 28 and on this issue some 49 men and women were eligible.

It was Elyria's first special election since they voted electricity into the town.

One Applicant

The deed is done, saving only the official canvass in the presence of Village Clerk Rene Dabas. Mrs. Mildred Rasschaert, who now operates the only beer tavern in Elyria and who already has a license to sell package liquors, is the only applicant in line for an over-the-bar liquor license.

Mrs. Rasschaert and Elyria will have to wait at least 30 days after her application is received in Lincoln before actually opening her liquor bar.

What will she serve, if and when the license is approved?

"Anything in the book," Mrs. Rasschaert said Tuesday night. Egg nog at Christmas time of course.

The Elyria Village Board will be asked to recommend granting the license, then the State Liquor Commission will have to approve the application. The present village board in Elyria is composed of: Phil Wentek, Syl Bogus, Andrew Kusek, Rene Dabas, and Mrs. E. P. Kapustka.

Those who served on the election board were Mrs. Syl Bogus, Frank Zulkoski, Charles Sobon, Mrs. Oul Kuklish, Mrs. Phil Wentek.

200 at Open House

Creamery to Make Finished Cheese

Ord's Cooperative Creamery hopes to put Valley County back on the map — cheese-wise.

The Creamery held open house Sunday, attracting more than 200 visitors to see the gleaming new cheese-making equipment in its spacious annex.

And this is the bright good news, relayed by Manager Emil Babka:

The Creamery will produce finished cheeses, not just the curd as previously intended.

Babka said this week he already has several applications in for the job of cheese-maker at the Creamery, and things are waiting now only on swelling the volume of milk coming into the plant and interviewing the cheese-makers.

Babka himself plans to travel up to Wisconsin for the interviews.

Emil Babka and sparkling cheesery.

100,000 Top

Working an eight-hour day, the volume would be just a third of that, of course, and the actual cheese yield will be about 10 percent of the milk volume.

Still to be installed at the Creamery are the cheese presses and hoops.

Ord's will be a whole-milk process, Babka said. The equipment for receiving and handling Grade B whole milk at the plant is already installed. That includes a 3,000 gallon holding tank, pasteurizing and cooling equipment (the very latest) and a glistening new tank truck for hauling in bulk milk from the farms.

Virtually everything is stainless steel. The walls of the cheese annex are coated with a hard-finish Poly-tile, simple to keep hospital clean.

"We think," Babka said, "any cheesemaker would be proud to work in the building and with the equipment we now have."

And so he would — and will.

Lawmen Urge Public To Cooperate in Tracing Vandals

Sheriff Wayne Turner and Deputy Sheriff Jim Sobon this week urged public cooperation in curbing many isolated acts of vandalism that have cropped up in recent weeks.

Sheriff Turner said he and Sobon succeeded last week in discovering the young culprits who shot up the sugar beet dump east of town with 22 rifles. The youngsters, or one of them at least, admitted the vandalism, which amounted to shooting out 12 window lights in the scale house, putting two shots through the scale house door, blowing off the hump and the lock on the dump itself and peppering the little shack atop the dump with shots through five window panes.

She Found It in Ord

Going to a masked Halloween party, a beauty, the Ord customer wanted gruesome fingernails, and was willing to settle for green, blue, purple or black.

"But I'll have to go to Grand Island to get any of them, I suppose," she said.

A friend suggested local stores might have such fingernail paint.

The friend was right. The first request produced two colors of green nail polish. Where? At a local drug store.

Court News

Police Judge Peterson

Mary Katherine Karre, 15-year-old Scotia minor, was charged with petty larceny and paid a $10 fine before Judge Forrest Peterson.

County Judge Ball

Carol Mortensen, Ord, $10 and costs, hit and run.

Maynard E. Ulland, Broken Bow, $10 and costs, intoxication.

Not Charged

No charges have been filed against the youngsters, Sheriff Turner said.

Other petty acts of vandalism reported over the weekend include a window broken at the Sack Lumber Company, damage to the Farmers Store and a broken pane of glass in the phone booth on the square.

In addition, shooters put two high-powered rifle shots through windows in the District 32 (Maiden Valley) School, and sjonethrowers broke at least one window in the City Light Plant.

Varsity Music Makers Will Perform Tuesday

The first of three music recitals by the Ord High School varsity chorus and band will be held here Tuesday, Nov. 7 at the school auditorium.

Clark Yanda, instructor, said the performance will feature soloists and small groups in both vocal and instrumental departments. Curtain time is 8 p.m. and there will be no admission.

Yanda said the school music calendar has reserved Tuesday, Nov. 14 as the date for the annual fall concert. The Quiz will carry rundown of the concert program next week.

Investiture: Grand Occasion for Brownies

The Brownie Scout investiture held Thursday evening at the 411 building was said to be the best ever with a large crowd of parents, relatives and friends attending.

Mrs. Mildred Farmer, troop leader and president of the Neighborhood Association, governing body for scouting here, said she personally thought the program presented by the six troops exceptionally good and had received many compliments about it.

Sixth grade Brownies opened the program with the flag ceremony and were joined by the audience in singing, America the Beautiful.

The four troop leaders invested were Beulah Stigar, Elva Finley, Carol Grove and LuAnn Quinn. They in turn invested the Brownies who sang the "Smile" song.

500 to Eat With Governor Here

Ord, Valley County and the Highway 70 Association are expected to assemble 500-strong to greet Governor Frank Morrison and his wife at the annual Highway Association Banquet here Monday night.

Jay Auble, vice-president of the ticket sales, said today that 475 plates have been sold and an additional 25 comp tickets have been tendered to the Senior High School Orchestra. The Methodist Church women will serve the turkey banquet in the large auditorium at the high school, beginning at 6:30 Monday.

Art Jefferies, Chamber of Commerce president, suggested that all downtown merchants have their welcome flags out that evening. Governor Morrison will fly into Ord about 6:15, and a motor delegation will greet him at the airport.

Places Available

Auble said a few banquet tickets are still available.

On hand with the Governor will be Ord's own Senator Jack Rommans, Senator Kraft from North Platte and possibly senators from Elgin and Custer County. Charles Chase, manager of the Nebraska Chamber of Commerce, also plans to attend as does Ralph Misko, former Ordite and now head of the State Banking Commission.

Governor Morrison is scheduled to speak at an open session in the auditorium after the banquet.

Ord and Valley County are particularly concerned with this meeting because of pending plans to hard-surface Highway 70 through Ord out of Ericson. The State Highway Commission has not committed itself to a route, but a delegation from Valley County recently met with State Engineer John Hossack to discuss possible routes.

Contracts on the hard-surfacing will not be let in any case until the next biennium but the route from Ord to Arcadia will be completed next year, according to the highway department's timetable.

The Ord City Council would normally meet Monday night, but that meeting has been postponed to Tuesday. The Ord Rotary Club will count the banquet as its regular meeting, and the Ord Jaycees are expected to be on hand at least 50-strong.

Delegations from Arcadia and North Loup also plan to attend the banquet and the meeting afterwards.

Wild Turkeys Will Run In Valley County Hills

If you see any gobblers roaming the hills of Oak Canyon around Thanksgiving time, don't shoot — they're protected.

The State Game Commission this week, through the Elyria Lions Club, confirmed plans to stock the North Loop Valley with a pilot flock of some 15 pairs of wild turkeys. And Oak Canyon is the chosen area for turning the feathered creatures loose.

Spud Kapustka of the Elyria Lions said he would contact property owners around Oak Canyon to sign simple agreements with the Game Commission.

If the birds thrive in this country, and if poachers don't knock them out, Valley County should have an open season within three years or so, Kapustka said.

The Ord Housing Authority, established to handle details of the low-cost housing project for the elderly here, this week agreed tentatively to engage George Clayton of Thomas, Benjamin and Clayton, Grand Island, to draw up preliminary plans and specifications.

Jay Auble, chairman of the Authority, said today the group will meet Tuesday night and probably sign a contract advancing the project into the plans stage. Meanwhile the Federal government has authorized a $4,000 loan for preliminary planning, which loan will be issued in six installments according to the Housing Authority's need.

A site has been selected for the 30-unit housing project out west of the Ord Drive-In. Auble said the thinking now is to build the units on an open-square plan. The lots now available are sufficient for the size project immediately planned.

Meyer-Conner Nuptials Recited

Baskets of yellow, gold and brown mums, provided an altar setting for the Sunday wedding of Deanna Meyer and Delmer Conner in Zion Lutheran Church, Scotia. Parents of the bridal couple are Mr. and Mrs. Orville Conner of Burwell and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Meyer of Scotia.

Rev. Walter Bellman performed the bridal ceremony at 2 p.m. Teddi Meyer and Mrs. Millard Vlach served their sister as maid of honor and bridesmatron. Miss Meyer wore gold velveteen and carried a crescent shaped bouquet of brown and gold mums. Mrs. Vlach was dressed in brown velveteen and carried a bouquet of the same arrangement of mums. Their small headbands and circular veils matched their gowns.

Hicky and Pamela Vlach lighted candles. Guests were seated by Robert Meyer and Dennis Conner. Celby Conner was best man and Darrell Conner was groomsmen. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white velveteen street length dress with three-quarter sleeves. Embroidered appliques accented the neck and front skirt. Her fingertip veil was touched with sequins and pearls. She carried a bronze orchid knotted with yellow rosebuds on a white ribbon.

Gowns for the bride and her attendants were designed and made by their mother. The bride's mother chose a light tan sheath gown for her daughter's wedding with brown accessories and gold mums corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a light blue gown and gold mums corsage.

Reception tables held gold and brown mums and candles. The three tiered wedding cake was also in gold and brown. It was cut and served by Mrs. Jerry Bebernes who also presented the guest book.

Members of the Lutheran Ladies Aid were reception hostesses and servers. The newlyweds left on a short wedding trip. The bride wore a green suit and black accessories for traveling. They will make their home in Burwell where Mr. Conner is engaged in farming.

Mr. and Mrs. George Zablouil were hosts at home Sunday for a birthday dinner honoring her mother, Mrs. Minnie Skala. Guests for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Bruha and family of Burwell, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Dingle of Ashton and Miss Romana Dingle of Omaha. Refreshments were served late afternoon.

Thursday Mrs. Joe Dvorak of Burwell accompanied the Lester Kizers to Schuyler and Omaha. Saturday the Kizers drove on to Clarinda, Ia. to visit friends until Monday when they returned to Omaha, met Mrs. Dvorak and all returned home that evening.

Mrs. Eldon Buoy arranged a surprise party for her husband Tuesday night in honor of their wedding anniversary. Guests for the evening which concluded with a late supper were the Marie Van Zandt, Jack Newlands and Leonard Cronk.

Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Hamps and daughter, Bobbi, were weekend house guests in Lincoln at the Dean Eneyart home. Bobbie attended a dance at her brother Jim's fraternal home and also visited Ord girl friends who attend the University of Nebraska.

Guests for pitch at Mrs. Ed Zikmund's home Thursday were Mrs. Loren Good and Mrs. George Zikmund. High score was won by Mrs. Will Zikmund, second high by Mrs. Good and traveling went to Mrs. Alfred Albers. Women will be guests of Mrs. Guy Le Masters at the next card session.

Ord Music Teacher Weds Colorado Man

Lyndell Grandstaff Schutte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Grandstaff of Bladen, was married Wednesday to Richard B. Morlang, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Morlang of Montrose, Colo., at the Bladen Methodist Church.

Miss Joan Neben served as maid of honor and Clark Yanda, Ord, was best man.

The bride chose a beige brocade ensemble for her wedding with blue and beige accessories. She wore pink roses and a jeweled bracelet, a gift from the bridegroom. The bracelet is the only copy of an original designed for a Duchess in Germany. The original is now in a museum.

After the couple had repeated their marriage vows, the bridegroom placed a small ring on the finger of Cathy Schutte, five year old daughter of the bride, who wore blue velvet and pink roses. Mr. Morlang attends Nebraska State Teachers College at Kearney. He plans to practice teach here next semester.

Halloween Is Orderly

North Loup Kids: $41.56 for UNICEF

Ghosts, goblins, black cats, space men, little devils, clowns, and almost anything one could imagine were in the parade held Tuesday evening at 8:30, preceding the UNICEF trick or treat drive by North Loup children.

The children were divided into small groups, with an older person in charge of each group, and each child wore their UNICEF band.

Later all returned to the community building where the Lion's club had provided treats of popcorn balls, apples and candy for everyone. Churches of North Loup also participated in the party and helped with the canvass.

The North Loup tricks 'n' treats gathered $41.56 for UNICEF Tuesday night.

Winners in the Halloween parade were: Johnny Meyers and Johnny Goodrich, preschool; Tony Monk and Darrell Jorgensen, 5 to 6; Sharon Bousall and Walter Florio, 7 to 8; and Barbara Wright and Peggy Sintek, 9 and over.

No vandalism of note occurred in North Loup, but the streets of Scotia were said to be blocked with debris Wednesday morning so the bread man had to clear the debris to get through.

A group of young people known as God's Invasion Army is in charge of special services at the Calvary Baptist Church this week. In the group are Joan Pollema of Milaca, Minn., and Mary Tam of Redfield, Minn., who are house guests of Mrs. Berniece Cornell, Marion Leonard of Wilmar, Minn., Dave Olson of Duluth, Minn., Earl Twist of Manning, N. Dak., and Peter Butler of Oakland, Calif. are house guests of Mrs. Grace Jensen.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Rasmussen announce the arrival of a new granddaughter, Charlene Marie, born Sunday, October 29, to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kanevisher of Borden, N. Dak. Mrs. Kanevisher is the former Charlotte Rasmussen.

Quiz Sends Crowd To Press Meeting

The Quiz was well represented at the fall meeting of the Nebraska Press Women's group in Grand Island Saturday. Editor Al Darr, Wilma Pader, Cheryl Wagner, Ethel Hamer, Evelyn Doncheski, Clarice Cronk and Irma Leggett attended both the business session and lunch at the Yancey and the afternoon talks.

Darr was one of the speakers, preceded by ex-Governor Val Peterson of Hastings. Mr. Peterson explained the inner workings of being an ambassador as he learned them during the years he represented the United States in Denmark.

Mr. Peterson's talk held interest for the group for a variety of angles, since he spent several years as a country editor, and several more as superintendent of schools and college professor.

The Ord editor spoke to correspondents and members about making their news more colorful and stressing the most important facts in the story. Later he conducted a workshop, using several Nebraska papers as textbooks.

Investiture . . .

Third grade girls, led by Gwen Cummins and Norma Remington, told of a nature hike taken earlier this year and various scouting phases. Some were dressed in costumes pertaining to nature, others to nutrition.

A mock wedding was presented by 4th grade Brownies. Leaders of this group are Doris Marshall and Jean Moudry.

Fifth grade girls joined Mrs. Harold Bennett, in an "over the bridge" flying up ceremony which moves them to intermediate scout rank. Each repeated a girl scout law and received her Girl Scout pin, wings and a GS world pin.

An original number featured sixth grade girls who acted out the song, "Open Up Your Heart and Let the Sunshine In." They arranged their own part of the program and made their own props. Their leaders and Phyllis Dale and Louise Rasette.

Seventh grade girls, who make up the new troop, put on a skit entitled, "And the Light Went Out. Matilda Klancey repeated a girl for the comedy pantomime. Mildred Farmer and Margaret Nelson are leaders of this group.

Girl Scouting took a big boost in Ord this year with the addition of one new troop and more than 70 members.

After the program committee mothers served coffee and cookies, furnished by the Brownies.

Kids Collect $50

Boys and girls from the Methodist, Presbyterian and Mira Valley EUB churches collected a little over $50 Tuesday night for UNICEF in the annual Halloween coin drive.

After the kids turned in their collection boxes they were served lunch and played games at the Methodist Church.

Zulkoski Rites Set For Elyria Saturday

Another pioneer resident of this area, Mrs. Katherine Zulkoski, died Oct. 31 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joe Osenowski in Ord. Mrs. Zulkoski, 88, had been an invalid for some years.

Mrs. Zulkoski was born Nov. 15, 1872, in Poland and came to this country in 1873 with her parents, Mary and Stanley Papiernik. After five years the family moved from Pennsylvania to Valley County. On May 13, 1894 Katherine Papiernik married Thomas Zulkoski at Boleszyn Church north-west of Ord. The couple farmed west of Elyria most of their lives. To them were born these daughters: Mrs. Nora Jurzenski of Greeley, Mrs. Wanda Matya of Cedar Rapids, Mrs. Anna Spotsanski of Loup City, Mrs. Helen Osenowski of Ord, Mrs. Stella Shotkoski of Ord, Mrs. Angie Janus of Ord, also three daughters who with their father are already dead.

Surviving too are three sons, Joe of Loup City, Edwin of Kearney and Louis of St. Paul. There are 29 grandchildren and 48 great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are being made for 9:30 a.m. services at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Elyria Saturday.

Arcadia

Mrs. Kermit Erickson New President

The Inter-County Woman's Club convention held last week in Arcadia received an inspiration and thrill when Mrs. Frank Morrison, wife of Nebraska's Governor, addressed the group. Governor and Mrs. Morrison were in Loup City that day for a bridge opening and since the afternoon convention speaker at Arcadia could not be here, Mrs. Morrison took her place, speaking on "This is a Woman's World." Mrs. Morrison had to be back in Loup City by 3:30 to fly back to Lincoln.

Mettenbrink of Arcadia, vice president, Mrs. Len Hartwig gave the morning meditation; Mrs. K. R. Erickson, local club president, the welcome; and Mrs. Libby Lewis of Loup City, the response. The morning speaker was Mrs. Harvey Wilson, president of the 8th District Woman's Clubs. Her topic was "Changing Times." Music was furnished by Mrs. H. J. Hoepner and Mrs. Clyde Keown of North Loup and the Arcadia high school band.

Extension Club women served coffee and rolls in the morning and the tea in the afternoon for the Up To Date Club. The Challenger Circle of the Methodist women served the noon luncheon.

Following the address by the Governor's wife, Marilyn Masters gave a talk, "A Peck at State Government." Election of officers and a tea closed the meeting. Mrs. Kermit Erickson was elected Inter-County president, Mrs. W. H. Schudel of North Loup, vice president, and Mrs. C. H. Ryan of Loup City, treasurer. The secretary to be from Arcadia, will be appointed later.

The next meeting will be the last Tuesday in October of 1961 at Rockville, and Mrs. Morrison told the group she would be at the convention in Rockville next year.

Saturday, Dr. Bob Wells of Denver, Colo., a converted communist, was the main speaker. The theme was that of a "Western Roundup" with treasure hunt and check wagon feed in the hills around Gothenburg Saturday.

The children of the Methodist Sunday school had a mass parade party at the church Saturday afternoon. Prizes for the best costumes were won by Rickard Luedtke and Beverly Gartside in the fifth and sixth grade group, by Debbie Porter and Janice Hartwig in the second, third and fourth grade group and by Peggy Paben and Gregg Porter in the little folks group. After the party the children collected pennies for UNICEF. Sponsors were Mrs. Arnon Paben, Mrs. Roy Buck, Mrs. Clarence Porter, Mrs. Orin Kingston, Mrs. Harold Elliott, Mrs. Robert Hruby, Mrs. Calvin Gould, Mrs. Minnie Johnson and Mrs. F. H. Christ.

The Baptist Mission Circle met Wednesday with Mrs. Alva Hill and Mrs. Hazel Lindell as hostesses. A film on the work of the Cebu Church in the Philippines was shown. A special offering was taken for the work of the local GMG, girl's society.

Busy Homemakers' Club Ten members of the Busy Homemakers Extension Club met with Mrs. Ed Chelowski Oct. 26. The group voted to serve the noon meal for the Bloodmobile in Ord whenever the need arises and voted a $5 gift for the Custer Home for Retarded Children at Broken Bow. The lesson on "Eating a Better Breakfast" was given by the hostess who demonstrated a breakfast egg and tomato dish.

Clarice's Comments

If ever there were to be a fall-out shelter at our house it would have to be a twin job marked his and theirs. We are a friendly family and I like all of us, but I'm afraid the kids and I would never survive their father's snoring if we were all huddled together in one shelter.

Funny thing about most people who snore, they never seem to know they do. We have a champion on our hands though who could win any contest hands down.

While he keeps me awake nights listening to his snoring I always think of the picture of the horrible looking green dragon in my third grade reader. Now the man I live with is much better looking than a dragon but the sounds he makes when he's asleep are just as frightening and ominous.

I know it isn't planned on his part but his snoring always starts about ten minutes after I go to bed. He usually precedes me because there are always last minute things to do around the house, things like a basket of ironing and two or three floors to wax. Because he usually leaves the overhead light on, I go in later to turn it off. Then and during my trips to the bedroom he is sleeping so peacefully and looks so unlike a dragon that I can't resist giving him an affectionate peck on the cheek.

As though timed, it starts right after I have raised the west window and pummeled my pillow into sleeping position. At first there is a soft little rumble and then a tumultuous roar that I swear makes his bed vibrate.

Sometimes I get up and turn the light on to watch him. He never moves a muscle and snores sometimes with his mouth open and then again with it closed.

Any suggestions to rectify the situation will be welcome. I can't fuss about it too much because I snore, too.

That's one reason I hate to ride on trains. The minute we're in motion I fall asleep. During the hour when I did considerable traveling I offered amusement to a lot of fellow passengers.

Time and time again I'd awaken with a start and find my head hanging in the aisle, mouth wide open and the echo of my own snoring still in my ears. Even if I couldn't have heard my dream-land sonata I'd have known from the smiling faces around me.

Finally I hit upon the idea of securing the help of a porter. Each time I boarded a train I told the one on duty to keep an eye on me and when I started snoring to tap me on the shoulder. It was well worth the tip and kept me from having a stiff neck on many trips.

Social Items

Guests in the Chet Swanek home last week were Mr. and Mrs. Burdette Fredericksen of San Fernando, Calif. They had been in Texas and Colorado on business and were returning home via Nebraska where they visited briefly with relatives.

Mrs. Fredericksen, the former Betty Timmerman, is daughter of the Kenneth Timmermans who left Ord several months ago to live in San Fernando. Kenneth is employed by the same company Burdette works for. Ray Timmerman and his family of Kearney were also guests of the Swaneks.

Other guests of the Swaneks were Ed Gorney of Livermore, Calif., schoolmate and neighbor of Chet, and his mother, Mrs. Bernard Rush of Aberdeen, Wash. Mrs. Rush is a former resident and owned property here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sack had their granddaughter, Norma Kay Ham, with them from Wednesday until Sunday while her mother, Virginia, attended state teachers convention. She teaches English and Dramatics at David City High School. The Hams came for Norma Kay Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wozniak and Pat, accompanied by Patricia Jones, visited Thursday and Friday in Sioux City. The Wozniaks were guests of the Ray Freemans and Miss Jones of the Bernard Guggenmos family. On the way home all stopped at Brainerd and saw the Floyd Wozniaks, Jr.

Chadron relatives were house guests of the Chris Kirbys last week. Thursday arrivals were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burk and Colcen. The Earl Burks came Friday en route home from Kansas City. They stayed over this week and will spend time with the Kirbys and the Ernie Wignets.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Newland and Lyn were Omaha guests of the John Hendrickson family in Omaha. Laurie, daughter of the host couple, returned to Ord and is staying with the Newlands this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jirak plan to leave later this month for Mesa, Ariz., where they will spend the winter. They will visit their son, Gerald, his wife and daughter, at Garland, Tex. before going to Mesa.

The John Lemmons were Lincoln guests of Olivia Satterfield. Sunday they drove on to Pender where they visited John's relatives.

Ord visitors have been Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bouma of Waynoka, Okla. He is brother of Mrs. John Anderson. Besides the Andersons the couple have spent time with the Elwin and Clayton Dunlaps and visited Porter Dunlap, a patient at St. Francis Hospital.

They also visited with the Riemer Boumas and Glen Holmans of Ansley and the Charles Mabbetts and Dean Dietz at Arcadia.

While here, Mrs. Bouma's mother, Mrs. Jerome Barnes, who makes her home with couple, stayed with another daughter, Ela. Mrs. Barnes is confined to a wheel chair.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Ball were pleasantly surprised Saturday when her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Peterson and Carol, arrived from Kimball. They were accompanied by Mrs. Peterson's mother, Mrs. Gus Einspahr of Hastings.

Wencil Vasicek will be a house guest of his daughter, Mrs. Ed Kasper for two weeks. Mr. Vasicek makes his home with another daughter, Mrs. Ed Adamek, who is visiting a son in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Rickard and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mason drove to Omaha Sunday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Ed Anderson. The Andersons are living at the Little Omaha Motel, Unit 7, 113th and West Dodge Streets, while Mr. Anderson continues treatment at Methodist Hospital.

Mrs. Anderson told the Ordites they would be happy to have anyone from home stop to see them. They expect to be there four weeks.

Courtesies are being extended for Mrs. J. L. Abernethy who leaves soon to make her home on the west coast with a daughter. She was a supper guest of Mrs. Clara Pocock on Friday.

Sunday a dinner was arranged for Mrs. Abernethy at the home of Mrs. Grace Woodford in Scotia. Among other friends present was Miss Inez Eberhart, also of Ord.

Mrs. Don Peterson spent several days in Kearney last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmus Henderson. Her husband, a Safetyway employee, brought her home Sunday.

"This Way"

... my boy," a proud father shouts. And a delighted lad takes his first steps to open arms of love and support. How marvelous if this relationship can last through all the years. Why not? They are and they will remain father and son. And a good father, like God, never fails his children even when he cannot understand them. These two make a team and likely will need each other for a long time. Then, frame the picture and give it a prominent place so each could think, "That's the way we began together." Trust and confidence and church-going leadership mark the older man. But eager effort and glad cooperation for the high and the good will glorify the son. Father and mother, when they start stepping, it is time for you to start helping. "In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths." Prov. 3:6.

Lukes Family Story To Be Told in Quiz

This week The Quiz is privileged to begin printing the story of one of the most prominent families to flourish in this region. It is the story of Albert Lukes, Sr., and his wife, Mary Elizabeth Kovarik, which begins in the United States before the Civil War.

The 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. Lukes, and their descendants have done much to develop and improve this county and city of Ord, and continue to do so.

The story also gives considerable insight into the thinking of a substantial Czech-Slovak family, and their interesting activities in those days before radio and television nullified personal effort so greatly.

The chronology includes six generations on the maternal side and five on the paternal side of the relationship. It has been prepared by the three daughters of the family, the Misses Minnie,

Elizabeth and Barbara Lukes who are still in the family home in Ord. The Quiz printed the book, just off the press.

Oddly, the foreman of the Quiz composing room as the work was done, was Elmer Lukesh, who has a place in the story.

Foreword

In appreciation of the help in gathering the data, especially for the Chronology — Table of Dates we need to mention cousin, Dr. Alois F. Kovarik, physicist at the Yale University, in New Haven, Conn.; John J. Kovarik, mother's cousin and former teacher of both vocal and instrumental music; Mrs. Edith Schmitt and Beatrice Chle of Protrivin, Ia.; Rev. Father Chihak, Spillville, Ia.; Mrs. Elizabeth Kokes, various parish records; and records kept by grandparents in prayer books and Bibles.

Written in Swabian (German-Austrian script) not always were these legible, because of their being faded with age. Many times, the parish records were missing, also. For that reason, a vital source was the help of brothers Albert and Frank who gave, and the memory of our parents which was quite accurate as far back as our great-great-grandparents' generation.

The following sketches are to bring to us at least an inkling of the past heritage handed down to us who can boast of being the progeny of a great nation — of a people with a far-reaching history. To write more exhaustively would take volumes, to give our Czech ancestry due credit, honor and appreciation their democratic efforts all through the annals, therefore, must have only the "surface scratched," so to speak.

Land of Patriots
We must, however, make an effort to bring Bohemia — now Czechoslovakia, into a well-deserved "place in the sun." We must show the world that it had the Robert Emmets (Irish patriots) and Patrick Henrys in the persons of Karel Havlicek and Jan Ziska; the Shelleys and Brownings (poets) are well represented by Svatopluk Cech, Jan Neruda and Machar; our Washington and Lincoln by T. G. Masaryk and Eduard Benes; all presidents of Republics; B. Smetana and Antonin Dvorak stand well in comparison as music composers, with Chopin and Beethoven; Jan Amos Komensky the father of public education, and Jan Hus, the renowned theologian, rate high in their fields. We could go on and on as to the Czech-Slovakian field is very extensive in music, science, literature, education, art and sculpture.

The Anglo-Saxon who may have visited the Hapsburg dominion, rate high in their fields. We could go on and on as to the Czech-Slovakian field is very extensive in music, science, literature, education, art and sculpture.

The French, on the other hand, were wide awake to the truth about the struggling Czechs. We need only to name Andre Chera-dame and his "The Pangerman Plot Unmasked," and Ernest Denis "La Nation Tchèque" and "La Boheme depuis Montagne Blanche (Bohemia since the Battle of White Mountain, where Bohemia lost its cherished independence in 1620).

Thomas Capek comments by saying, "Ernest Denis, Professor at Sorbonne, stands closest to the Bohemian heart." He also states, "Unhampered by the censor, Denis was able to bring out facts of Bohemia's past which were a revelation to the Bohemians themselves. To this we add Henry W. Longfellow's appraisal of Bohemia when he says,

"Hold your tongue! both Swabian and Saxon,
A bold Bohemian cries;
"If there is Heaven upon this earth,
In Bohemia it lies!"

Historical Sketch of Homeland—Bohemia—Now Czechoslovakia

From the dim past, we learn that Cech, one of three brothers, a capable, intelligent leader, and his unwarlike, civilized clansmen, set forth on their westward trek. They hoped to find a land where they could live unmolested by savage tribes of other races. This land they found in central Europe; bounded by mountains and deep forests, which served as natural barriers for their protection.

Here they found wandering tribes, the gypsies, who, it is presumed, were of East Indian origin. This would be above speculation, because of their wandering nature; therefore, the statement is regarded as quite authentic. These tribes that the Czechs found there, were the Bojjs (j pronounced as 'h'), hence Bohemia, the erroneous name by which the Cech land was known for many centuries.

Historians also tell us that it is possible that the nomadic tribes, like the Bojjs, might have inhabited the Cech lands several centuries before Christ. So did the Gauls in what is now France.

There are also traces of the Romans under Julius Caesar during his conquest of his campaign against Gaul. An old Roman road passes across that part of Western Europe, as far north as the Danube countries. The Czechs were regarded as a lawless, vagrant race. The outside world insisted on this contention with a definite purpose; that of suppressing competition in social, industrial and economic rise. "The contemptuous silence in Western Europe with which Bohemia is often treated is largely founded on ignorance." Quoted from the preface to Count Lutzw's 'Bohemia, and Historical Sketch' — date of publication, October 1909. By the way, Lutzw was an ambassador to England.

To 500 B. C.
This takes us to Count Lutzw's documentation when he refers to Dr. Pic, and his research; dipping into science, and treating historical evidence which rendered it possible that Bohemia had a people bearing pure racial traits of the Slavs before the beginning of the Christian era. Dr. Niederle adds, that Slavs can be traced as far back as the fifth century before Christ.

We shall now add excerpts from these findings that will throw more light on the Bojjs, the earliest inhabitants of Bohemia. They were a branch of the Celtic race. The latter includes the Irish, Welsh, Franks, Britons, and other western Europeans. The Bojjs were a powerful, warlike nation, defeated only by the armies of Julius Caesar in his campaign north and westward.

Another reference to Cechoslovakia from another viewpoint: A more recent writer has this to say: "Incredible, yet literally true, is that every Slavic nation was before World War I, and probably still is, better known to the English speaking people than Cechoslovakia or Bohemia. Why a highly literate people remained undiscovered may be attributed to three main causes: They are not a free nation, they are a land-locked nation, and they are rated a small nation.

We note that the opportunities which a seacoast offers a people, such as Holland, Ireland, Belgium, Norway, Sweden and Denmark (all of which are numerically smaller), are not available to the Slavs of world commerce and politics, the sea is their powerful sponsor. To a landlocked people, this great boon is denied.

An inland nation may reach the outside world through an inter-locked nation. And if that latter happens to be a powerful, mean or exacting state, the policy of which is to keep its little neighbor in the background, the consequences are obvious. We can clearly see that that was the situation confronting Bohemia, Cechoslovakia. The outside world, we in America, especially, were made to believe that there lived in Central Europe, Teutons and none others but Teutons. This was demonstrated daily by a convincing proof of this handicap. Almost every box of merchandise shipped here from that part of the world bore the tell-tale mark, "Made in Germany," rarely, "Made in Austria," and rarer still "Made in Bohemia."

Yes, any of these articles of merchandise thus marked were really made in Bohemia, for parts of Bohemia teamed with all kinds of wonderful industries. Let us give an unmistakable proof of the above: Our cousin, Mary (Kovarik) Harney related her maternal grandfather's experience. He was asked, yes, urged by his friends, to exhibit his fine Bohemian glassware, (by the way, he was an expert glassblower and producer of the finest in that line), at the World's Fair in Chicago, in 1893.

To make sure that he might stand any chance against the Italian Venetian glassware, he went to Venice to see for himself. To his dismay, his own glassware was labeled as Venetian. This he proved by his secret mark on each piece. Then there is the glass prepared for the "telescope" at the California Observatory. It was claimed to have been made in Germany. Stafank, the Cechoslovakian Air Ace, came here to prove that it was made in Cechoslovakia. Such seems to have been the fate of this little land-locked nation for centuries.

Extension Notes

Shopping Blind Is Risky Business

By Carol Van Nordheim
Everybody loves a bargain! How true! Last spring I sent a coupon in for a catalogue advertising prices below retail prices. I ordered several items. Then I waited and waited. It took a month for the one item to come. I received a letter stating that they didn't have my size in the other item and they would refund my money if I didn't order any of the other merchandise advertised. I wrote back that I wanted my money refunded and they haven't sent it to me yet. My last letter was sent back to me unclaimed.

Clara Leopold, home management specialist, says that nearly two-thirds of all retail store advertisements are comparative-price ads, the kind in which merchants tell how much of a bargain they are offering by comparing their sale price with what you might otherwise have to pay for the same article, either from their competitors. There is nothing wrong with these ads — so long as their comparisons are honest and factual.

Better Business Bureaus all over the country can cite instances after instance of deliberately dishonest claims. The consumer must protect himself from being victimized and still take advantage of advertising that offers real bargains.

One thing the consumer should be aware of is the store that compares its prices with "list prices" instead of local retail prices. For instance, a refrigerator-freezer offer for $429 — list price $599 may sound like a terrific bargain, but it is no bargain if the other store is using dishonest bargain claims, withdraw your patronage, but let the manager know why you are no longer a customer.

Another thing you could do is get a report on the store's record from the Better Business Bureau. It will pay to deal with reputable merchants and to learn the gimmicks of comparative price advertisers.

Full arrangements for the buffet or centerpieces for the table can be very pretty this time of year by using dried flowers, pods, leaves and gourds.

Mrs. Marvin Collins brought me some ornamental gourds which are a variety of colors and shapes. They are quite solid, heavy and moist. She was wondering how they could be dried. Magdalene Pfister, Extension Specialist in Home Furnishings suggests that gourds be mature when taken from the vine. Then they should be pricked on the ends in order to let them dry out. They are likely to mold if they are not dry. White shellac may be used for a glaze.

To Omaha Market
Lloyd and Goldie Needham, owners of Needham's Store and dry cleaning here, attended a merchandise market in Omaha the first of the week.

Merrill Mother III
I. Merrill, Ord barber, received a call Saturday that his mother, Mrs. W. J. Merrill was seriously ill at Geneva. He left immediately to be with her during surgery the next afternoon. Mrs. Merrill was reported doing well after the operation.

She had planned to come to Ord the day of her surgery for an extended visit. She is scheduled for another operation soon but still plans to make the trip to Ord. She is 78 years old.

THE Ord Quiz

Estab. April 1882 Ord, Nebr., Thursday, Nov. 2, 1961 Vol. 79 No. 33

One Small Universe

By Al Darr

Kerry shot a big pumpkin last week a dead pumpkin now that Halloween is by, but as long as he's going the big vegetable route, I might as well throw in Ed Roe's tremendous squash.

Ed said the thing weighs out at 45 pounds or so, but that couldn't be true because it can't lift 45 pounds. Anyway, Ed grew it, right there in Utra, Valley.

It was a bumper year all around, and if the "Great Pumpkin" didn't rise in Valley County this year, it wasn't because our pumpkin patches lacked sincerity.

Ed Krikac of Comstock devoted precisely 20 column inches of his newspaper last week to editorializing on why small town editors haven't time to write editorials.

Ed's right of course, time is a precious commodity to the man who has to set his own type and hand-feed his own press.

Which was why I was rather surprised one Thursday afternoon to find the Comstock News building locked and bolted.

"Oh, Ed," said the boys across the street, "he's gone fishin'."

Along the way in his editorial about no time to write editorials, Ed took a few pot shots at me and my place of origin, implying in one sentence that I was a rich kid from the big city.

He said I was from Wall Street. The fact is, I'm from a three-room apartment on Brompfo's Road out in the sticks of Long Island. And my family is far from mounted.

For about 19 paragraphs of his 20 paragraph diatribe, I was setting myself out on a mighty long limb with his talk about a one-man newspaper. He suddenly remembered who does the work around the News, however, and just saved himself with:

"And I'll have to admit the Missus writes a lot of copy, edits correspondence, reads proof, folds, mails papers, etc., etc. . . . In fact, when you come right down to it, Ed likely has time left over to do a bit of moon lighting for The Quiz.

What Kind of Rifle? Now that it's all but too late to do anything about it, here's a brief rundown on game rifle characteristics and legal requirements. Might come in handy next year.

The minimum energy requirement for deer: 900 foot-pounds at 100 yards.

The little 220 Swift delivers 1,300 foot-pounds at 100 yards; the 30-30 with 150-grain bullet, 1,360 foot-pounds.

The 20-06 Springfield: between 1,550 and 2,510 foot-pounds depending on bullet weight.

The 548 magnum will knock down an elephant—4,050 foot-pounds of energy at 100 yards.

So you don't need a cannon for deer, but anything less than a Swift is illegal.

The rifle itself may hold any number of rounds and fire them up to semi-automatically. In other words, anything you may legally own, you may legally hunt with.

That leaves submachine guns and machine guns out.

Funny thing, even some expert hunters still have a distrust of small bore rifles. They don't trust the little 243, for example, even though that weapon packs a tremendous punch. Its 80-grain bullet travels at 3,500 ft. per sec. and quite literally explodes inside an animal.

The 283 magnum with 140-grain bullet is just plain dynamite.

5-Year-Old Injured in Tractor Accident

Leo Kazek, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwan Kazek, suffered serious injuries last Wednesday in a farm accident 12 miles south of Ord.

The boy was riding in a wagon behind a tractor driven by his uncle, Bob Severance. The boy's father said Leo fell from the wagon.

The child was taken to University Hospital in Omaha that night and underwent surgery for an injured leg the next night. When his parents returned home Friday they were told the boy was out of danger but did have other injuries.

The Kanzecks are making their home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Severance, on whose farm the accident occurred.

Maxine Osentowski Beauty School Grad

Maxine Osentowski, daughter-in-law of Mrs. Helen Osentowski of Ord, is a recent graduate of the Eden School of Hairdressing in Lincoln. She received her certificate of cosmetology in October and plans to set up a shop of her own.

Maxine is the wife of Don Osentowski, former Ordite, and daughter of the Frank Kutus of Loup City.

The family, including two sons and a daughter, moved from Lincoln to York about six weeks ago. Don is a lab technician at a hospital clinic there.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sems were guests over the weekend at the home of her parents, the Ray Christensens at Wolbach.

Douglas Kizer, 10-year-old son of the Wilber Kizers, grew some mighty fine pumpkins at his country home this year. This one weighs 31 pounds, half of Doug's own weight. He has four others, 8 1/2 times smaller, that he grew from seeds he planted and cared for himself. This was Doug's first venture as a pumpkin grower.

Bassett Bond Fails An election last Friday (Oct. 20) called to vote on a bond issue for Rock County High School failed by only 19 votes.

The figures showed that 536 persons favored the proposition and 462 were opposed to it. Percentage-wise the issue had 53.7 per cent in favor, but not enough to carry by the required 55 per cent.

The bond issue proposal called for $885,000 to construct and equip a new high school building. The

Broken Bow to Host E. Merrill Root at Special NSIA Meet

The Nebraska School Improvement Association is holding a special statewide meeting Thursday, Nov. 9, in the Armory Building, Broken Bow.

The meeting convenes at 11 a.m. At 2 p.m. the featured speaker will be E. Merrill Root of Thompson, Conn. He will speak on school textbook evaluation. Root claims our greatest danger is not outward military attack, but inward intellectual and spiritual subversion.

E. Merrill Root was, for many years, professor of English at Marham College in Richmond, Ind., and is the author of many books of poetry and prose. Two of his latest books are: "Collectivism on the Campus" and "Shout to the Sky." In 1950 he was employed by the Mississippi General Legislative Investigating Committee to investigate school textbooks used in Mississippi.

The NSIA had asked the Nebraska Legislature to set up an investigation of textbooks used in Nebraska. Since this has developed into a controversial subject, the NSIA feels it is important for the people of Nebraska to hear Root speak.

The public is invited to attend this meeting.

Merna Youth Killed A 15-year-old Merna high school freshman was Custer County's latest traffic fatality.

Jerry Daily, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Daily Jr., Anselmo, was apparently killed instantly early this morning (Thursday) while en route home from Anselmo.

State Trooper Marshall Grant said that Jerry was a passenger in a car driven by his brother Dan.

Grant reported that the two Daily brothers were driving east on Victoria Springs spur from Anselmo about 1 a.m. and Dan apparently lost control of the car on the hill in front of the Walter Karnes farm home. The car went off the north side of the road, rolling over in a deep ditch. He was thrown from the car as it rolled over, crushing him. Dan, who remained inside the car, was not injured.

Dr. Cushing Accepts New Post at Kearney

Dr. Herbert L. Cushing has accepted the position of executive secretary of the Kearney State Endowment Association, Harold Oldfather, president, announced today.

In announcing the appointment of Dr. Cushing, Oldfather said, "We feel most fortunate in securing the talents of a man of Mr. Cushing's caliber. He is a man most respected in his area, and we feel sure that he will do as well for us as he did as president of Kearney State."

The Endowment Association is presently conducting its annual fall drive for funds to match national defense loan funds. Dr. Cushing will be in charge of this part of the Association's work as well as other portions.

Dr. Cushing retired on July 1 as president of the college after serving in that post for 25 years. A native Ordite, he is well acquainted in this area, having been a high school superintendent and teacher and a deputy state superintendent before becoming president of Kearney State.

New Paris Man S. D. Lee, owner of Lee Motors, announced an addition to his staff. Charley Walling of Oxford will move his wife and four children here Saturday and Sunday. Walling begins work Monday as parts manager. The family will live in the Ed Kasper property.

Tamara Meyer of Scotia was a weekend guest of her grandparents, the Charles Kassons.

Through the Halls at O.H.S.

By Cheryl Wagner

Last Wednesday afternoon when the bell rang for dismissal, streams of teenagers, noisy and exuberant, filled the halls, tossed books into their lockers, and rushed out into the spiky autumn air.

Two days of freedom ahead! Teachers' convention was a welcome break in the school routine. For everyone except the members of the senior play cast, that is.

Rehearsals started at 8:30 Thursday morning. Besides this, all weekend seniors could be seen scurrying about gathering props and working on the scenery. You could have heard comments like: "Pass a paint brush, please."

"Maybe we should go over the second act again."

"You two girls remember to bring your buckets and mops next time."

"Where in the world are we going to get a big can of rattlesnake?"

"Bobbi, get your lines learned!"

"Don't be so shy. Put your arm around her."

Don't forget to come to the play at 8 p.m. Thursday night, Nov. 2. Incidentally, Michele is going to sing "Green Fields" (in French) between acts. Those of us who have heard her sing are impressed with her beautiful soprano voice. And that French charm—

Election Time

County Government Day is coming up in the first part of November. This is the day the members of the junior class who have been elected to county office by the senior high students will go to the courthouse to learn the duties of our county officials and about now our county government functions.

Campaign posters have been plastered all over the halls. They showed amazing imagination and cleverness. For example: Vote for candidate. He plays golf." And, "I'm opposed to all violence. Vote for me or I'll beat you up."

The class was divided into two parties, Nationalists and Federalists. Before the primary election Oct. 25, the members of both parties campaigned to get students to vote on their respective tickets; this week they are working to get themselves elected.

A special all-school convocation allows them to give campaign speeches and to read their party platforms before the "finals." It's fun for everyone, and very educational, too.

THE Ord Quiz

Why Knock an American Tradition?

The Quiz and the Nebraska State School Boards Association have both recited their opposition to Federal Aid to Education. The school boards, however, took the occasion last month to say, "We particularly oppose Federal Aid to parochial schools."

In other words, we don't want Federal Aid at all, but if we have to receive Federal Aid we certainly don't want non-public schools to receive it.

The first resolution is based on the principal of local autonomy or states rights; the second is based on church-state separation. Both are valid principals.

But then some official within the state association went a step further. In listing the reasons for rejecting state support of private schools, he said this in the resolution leaflet: "Using tax money for private and parochial schools not only subjects taxpayers to supporting religiously oriented activities in which they may not believe, but also encourages the growth of non-public education."

For some reason, public educators as a group resent non-public education, and this seems a pity because this freedom to educate children in private or parochial schools ought to be cherished and guarded jealously by every American. Those who would bring social or economic pressure to bear to undermine private education are as poorly schooled in the foundations of American life as those who would control all education from Washington.

Quite clearly, the United States needs private education, not only from an economic standpoint (New York City, for example, would require a capital outlay of $1 billion to absorb its 450,000 private school kids into the public system) but also from the standpoint of freedom itself.

The Nebraska School Boards Association would have done itself far more credit by advancing a resolution praising the private and parochial schools for upholding a tradition essential to American liberty.

Federal Aid to public schools alone could force many private schools out of business. The tax burden could become insupportable for those with children in private and parochial schools. Then wouldn't the public schools have a mountainous task? And then wouldn't the educationalists rub their hands with glee, having every school in the nation under their thumb? "It's coming," say the schoolmen, and maybe it is. We can only hope our children and our children's children are not here to see it.

We Sell Space, Not Our Souls

Maybe National Education Week (Nov. 5-11) is as good a season as any to throw off a few convictions on the responsibility we of the communications media have toward the educable nation at large.

Newspapers, radio and tv broadcasters have essentially the same obligation: to keep faith with their readers, their listeners, their viewers.

But to do this, the media must keep control of their editorial columns and of their program content. They sell advertising space to make a living, but if they sell out to their advertisers, the media tend to become wholly oriented to commerce. The advertiser and the agency then not only support the medium, they own it, and thus they own the mind of America. And they own it primarily to sell goods.

When this happens, when the news and entertainment media are in business first and foremost to draw as big a crowd as possible to sell as many goods as possible, the quality of the media falls off. The merely attractive, the merely entertaining (and entertaining to the most potential customers) features and programs quickly usurp all the available space.

Some newspapers sell out to commerce; they become shopping guides. Some radio stations sell out to commerce; their time becomes a series of spot ads interrupted by music and five minutes of news once an hour.

And the tv networks often sell out in hour-long chunks, giving us hour after hour of high-rated westerns and, worse, sensational giveaway extravaganzas, themselves loaded with commercial angles.

Responsible newspaper and radio men have long recognized their debt to the public. The newer medium fell into big money too easily. It's time they got their advertisers out of show business.

The Last of Mr. Peterson!

Nebraska Press Women, like many fortunate Nebraska groups, were glad to have an opportunity to hear former Governor Val Peterson speak. He is an interesting man who says interesting things. At the meeting Saturday he told unusual facets of his life in Denmark, some of the privileges and duties that were his in that happy land.

Said to have fitted into Danish life better than any ambassador ever to serve in that country, it seemed too bad to bring home a career man of such value to the United States. But Mr. Peterson had served four and one-half years there and seemed happy to return to the midwest and take up new duties with the J. M. McDonald Company.

One small phrase of his at the Grand Island talk will

Meditations on Disaster

There are so many facets to consider about this Civil Defense business. Mostly I have been inclined to laugh at it, for I thought the silliest proposal I'd ever heard was for citizens to load the family in the car and start . . . WHERE? Evacuate!

Where would the family go? How would they know what place would be safer than home? Where would the car refuel . . . for the filling station man would put his family in the car and take off? Where would the family eat . . . for the hamburger man and his family would drive away . . . where? When the baby cried and the children wanted to eat . . . who would feed them?

What better way to foul up a nation than to get everyone to leave home and get in such a mix-up?

It still seems to be considerable mess. Food and water placed in a fallout shelter should be replaced at least every six months, say our authorities. That alone would pose considerable of a problem.

Or, supposing you built an expensive bomb-proof shelter adequate to the needs of your family. And supposing nobody else within a radius of two blocks built such a shelter. When that alarm rings, every relative, every friend, every neighbor will feel HE can call on your relationship, your friendship, your fond neighborly feelings to add him to your shelterful of safe citizens.

Stories have been printed about scared citizens who publicly announce they'll have ammunition and weapons in their shelter, not to fight off the enemy if any, but to keep out those closest and dearest.

Incredible. Such a man wouldn't have anyone close to him, a man that cold.

Yet the shelter would defeat its own purpose if it were overcrowded, that is known fact. Only so much air, water and food are available.

What to do is the question. Traditionally, this nation does not hide. We have gone boldly forth to fight when we had to on several occasions. And we have succeeded in assembling the needed strength and power to overwhelm our enemies, partly because we never knew when we were whipped.

But these days all the talk is of negotiating, of concessions, the exchange of ideas, disarmament, neutral zones, conciliating and such phrases. We talk a lot, threaten a lot, but do little. The idea of war is worse than repugnant, it is horrible. But some of the alternatives seem worse yet.

Such as shooting friends and relatives. Or even being willing to do so.

If this is flag-waving, okay. It's time to wave the flag. We don't wave our flag enough. We don't talk about it enough. It doesn't mean to us what it should. Let's put patriotism back in style.

—Irma

doubtless be pondered in high places. For he said "Speaking as a politician, or rather as an ex-politician . . . for I have just assured Al Darr of The Quiz that I do not care to be a candidate for the governorship . . ."

Let us hope that citizens of our country have not seen the last of Mr. Peterson in highly placed governmental position. Men of his caliber are too rare.

Nebraskans Just Don't Like Lamb

Nebraskans might have a marginal excuse for buying margarine (it is cheaper than the 80-cent spread) but they have no excuse on God's green earth for not eating lamb.

And — let's face it — Nebraskans don't eat lamb.

As of Jan. 1 this year, Valley County had a sheep and lamb population of 7,350 fleecy beasts. You can't store lambs in bins; you have to sell them to the eating public.

Yet one Ord meat merchant reports his monthly lamb sales average only about 50 pounds! compared to monthly beef sales of 3,000 to 3,500 pounds.

Why this boycott of a perfectly delectable product? Why give the miss to mutton?

One theorist argues that we see too many lambies on the hoof with their innocent frightened eyes. But the same, only more so, could be said of the little white-faced calves dotting the countryside. And who balks at sitting down to venison except those who just plain don't like deer meat?

The public will eat what it will eat, naturally, but it seems unfair not to give the sheepsman a chance, at least a look-in.

At this sitting prime roast of lamb in Ord is 69 cents or thereabouts, and you can buy lamb chops here for less than 85 cents the pound! Good grief, the metropolitan meat markets would have to bar the doors and windows with prices like that.

Nebraska's resistance to lamb meat must be deep-seated indeed, but the root of the resistance will doubtless continue a mystery until the Sheep Growers Association sends around a market analyst.

Thrilling Game

"The chickens here in Callaway County have a thrilling new game. They line up along the state highway and wait for a car to come tearing along. They then dart across the road practically under the wheels of the car. Any chicken that loses his nerve at the last minute is called 'High School Student!' by the others."

Capitol News

Critics of Buyers Asked to Have Facts Before Sounding Off

The state purchasing department is back in the news again. Gov. Frank Morrison says he wants any Nebraskan who has any evidence that can be documented of alleged irregularities in that department or any other, to report to him.

Morrison said if such information were found to be true the problem would be corrected and those responsible discharged.

The governor said it is the responsibility of any citizen having information to give the governor a chance to investigate and correct the problem.

If the governor fails to do so, then there is room for justified criticism, he said.

Morrison criticized those who have hit at his purchasing department. He stated that not one person had visited the department in an attempt to find out what's going on.

The governor said his administration has attempted two major goals in the purchasing department — enlarging the competitive bidding area and broadening bidding specifications so as not to limit the number of bidders.

Statements and controversies involving the department have flared periodically since August.

Morrison, in another area involving government efficiency, has asked all departments to analyze their programs and see if they can't more fully utilize the central accounting system.

The central accounting is an agency of government which has automatic business machines which cut down time and manpower needed to process information.

We are looking towards a stabilization of accounting practices and the utilization of modern data processing equipment to the end that we have the most efficient possible housekeeping in all agencies of state government," Morrison said.

An accounting preliminary survey made several months ago by two firms which recommended a detailed look at the problem, estimated to cost between $30,000 and $50,000.

Liquor Commission

The state liquor commission has a new attorney. It's Robert Camp of Lincoln, who replaces Edward F. Carter, Jr.

Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer announced the change. Carter had handled legal matters for the commission for 4 1/2 years. The commission's attorney-in-chief, title of assistant attorney general.

Merit Plan

Nebraska lawyers are being urged to push a proposal on the ballot in 1962 calling for a new system of selecting judges of the supreme and district courts.

If the proposed Constitutional amendment is approved, the governor would appoint judges from a list submitted by a judicial nominating committee.

The judges would serve specific terms, then run for election on the basis of the record, with the question being whether judges should be returned to office.

If the vote were negative the governor would appoint a replacement.

Technically, the proposal is called the merit plan.

Now, filings for a judgeship are made like for any political office, except judicial candidates run on non-political tickets.

Federal Money

Federal money is available to counties in matching funds for construction of emergency operations headquarters in case of atomic attack.

Nebraska is the first state in the midwest to get an operational shelter underway for state and civil defense officials.

Major Gen. Lyle Welch, state adjutant general and civil defense director, said it is important that each county have a place for its officials to work in case of an emergency.

Because of the enthusiasm for the state shelter, Nebraska's county governments are getting an early opportunity to follow suit, officials said.

Minor Highways

In even a few years, relatively minor Nebraska Highways could become overcrowded, according to State Engineer John Hossack.

At present, the engineer commented, only major roads in Nebraska, such as Highway 30 across the state and Highway 2 between Grand Island and Omaha, are subject to heavy pressure from motorists.

Increased population and vehicle traffic will provide the volume of travel on even minor roads, Hossack said. He noted that most of Nebraska's roads were built to accommodate vehicle traffic loads of 20 years ago.

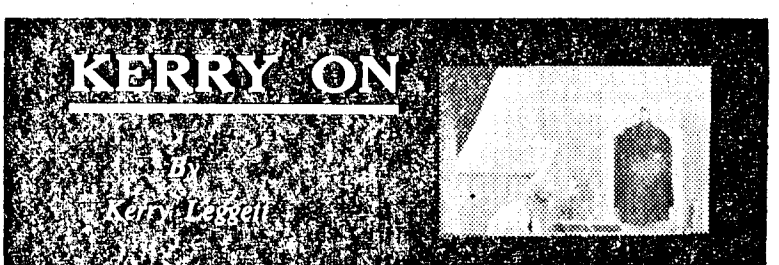

Unicameral

Hugo Srb, clerk of Nebraska's Unicameral Legislature, feels the day is coming soon when at least world's in, he wouldn't be surprised to read where a grasshopper has eat a student.

Well, I see by the papers where Senator Fullbright says the American people, if they had a chance, would vote agin foreign aid. It ain't fer a ignorant feller like me to say, but I think the taxpayers would demand some controls. Per instant, I see reading where 72 per cent of the people in Guatemala couldn't read and write in 1954, then we give 'em $3 million to build schools, and in 1961 a report showed 72 per cent still can't read and write. What happened to that $3 million is a matter of concern fer all Americans.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe
