National Code Is Adopted

Ord's City Council Monday night approved the City Planning Commissions recommendation to supplement the city's 30-some-year-old building code with the 1956 National Building Code.

"This code," said Glen Beerline of the planning commission, tapping the old Ord book of regulations, "is extremely well put together, but in places it needs clarification."

Beerline referred specifically to the chapter on types of fire-resistant construction materials allowable under the old code. The book doesn't exactly say steel or metal buildings are outlawed in the fire zone, but it prescribes masonry "or equivalent" materials on all four sides of a building.

Latitude

The National Building Code sets up a lot-line requirements for the protection of adjoining property and specifically allows for construction spacing so that a material of slight heat resistance could be legal if placed far enough from the lot line.

After Beerline's explanation of the commission's recommendation, the Council discussed the thing briefly, then voted unanimously to have City Attorney Leonard Cronk draw up the necessary ordinance to incorporate the National Code.

Fire protection in the so called "fire zone" of the city will be at least as adequate under the supplemented code, according to the commission. There was question raised as to whether or not insurance rates would rise if the National Code were adopted, but the Council agreed that since the National Code was wholly approved by the underwriters, there could scarcely be a problem.

Councilman Joe Ruzicka expressed some hesitation about adopting the newer Code without consulting the state fire marshal or the Ord Volunteers.

After the action was taken, Mayor Dale Karre said this would be a good time to begin enforcing the former (and present) code's rules about building permits. All new building and remodeling work must be submitted in plan to the city for approval and application made for a permit, says the law. An inspector or inspectors will then keep tabs on the job as it progresses, seeing that code specifications are adhered to.

Also Residences

The code also specifies distance residences must be built from the lot line and so forth.

No definite action was taken on implementing the permit requirements.

Clair Hillyer

Sargent Schoolman Accepts Ord Post

Clair Hillyer, superintendent of schools at Sargent, has been employed by the Ord School Board as guidance counsellor for the school system in 1963-64.

Hillyer has served as Sargent superintendent of schools for the past 15 years. He holds a bachelor degree in science and a master's degree in education, has attended graduate school both at the University of Wyoming and at the University of Minnesota.

His home originally was Ulysses, south of David City.

Ord Superintendent of Schools Walter Parks said a contract was sent to Mr. Hillyer Tuesday morning. In a phone conversation with The Quiz, Hillyer indicated he would probably move to Ord about the middle of the summer.

His function in the Ord system will be, of course, to offer vocational and personality guidance to the students, to conduct tests and measurements and to evaluate aptitudes and attitudes from those measurements.

It Must Go Somewhere Who Can Say Where?

Friends, we got trouble.

An Ord property owner who for obvious reasons can't be named objected at the City Hall this month to paying the new Sewer Use Fee.

"I have a renter," he said, "and he doesn't use the sewer."

"But surely. . .," began City Clerk Wilma Kroeger.

"He goes outside," declared the landlord.

"But where does he get his water?" asked Wilma.

"He has a bucket."

"And when he takes a bath?"

"He doesn't take baths."

Here, against all probability, is a man who simply doesn't use the sewer. Let City Attorney Len Cronk with his wherefores and whereases contest that one.

Methodists Say Yea To Kellison Purchase

Members of the Ord Methodist Church at a church conference held Sunday voted 100 to 61 to purchase the Kellison property with the masonary building and two lots to add to the present church property. This will give the church a full one half block of space with three buildings: the sanctuary, the parsonage and a social-education unit.

The church will not be able to move into the building until November or December of this year. Plans will be formulated meanwhile by the architects, Helleberg and Helleberg, for the floor plan the remodeling of this building and the present church.

The building, 116 by 44, has about 5000 square feet of floor space. The Sunday school, now crowded, will then get much-needed extra space.

Orin Kellison, under the agreement, will keep the steel quonset and will move it from the property, thus providing extra room for off the street parking.

The vote was taken with a large group of the members present. Two hundred and fifty attended the worship service. Votes were counted at the church conference by Don Krick, chairman of the official board, and Al Bellinger, secretary of the official board.

National Director at NFO Banquet Tonight

The National Farmers Organization of Valley County is staging a get acquainted and informational banquet at St. Mary's Auditorium tonight (Thursday), and all farmers and other interested people in the community are urged to attend.

The dinner will get underway at 6:30 p.m. Main speaker of evening will be Vic Holst of Minnesota, a national NFO director, who will not only describe the organization's future plans but will answer all questions from the floor.

Bryce Bartu, state NFO president from Comstock, will also be on hand.

At a regular meeting Tuesday night, George Haynes of Comstock was announced as new area representative of the NFO.

Lutherans to Expand

St. John's Lutheran Church is planning an annex.

The church needs additional space for Sunday school classes so the board has contacted a Hastings architect for ideas. No definite plans have yet been formulated. The Sunday school now numbers some 80 children.

Trailer Is Damaged By Fire in Arcadia

The trailer home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lybarger was badly damaged by fire Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lybarger were not at home at the time. They were visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Bly. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hill were sitting watching tv, noticed fire coming from under the trailer house and turned in the alarm.

County Blushes for Want of Cash

The County of Valley is in the hole.

More precisely, Valley County's road department has close to $50,000 in registered warrants farmed out to the First National Bank, apparently the only agency at hand that would take the warrants at 4½ per cent.

This means, quite simply, that County Treasurer Lloyd Wilson has no road funds — and has not had for some time — with which to pay the bills. The bank pays the bills and, in effect, has a lien on the county.

Budget Shaving

How did this embarrassing situation arise? Clearly the County Board of Supervisors at some time in 1959, according to best evidence) shaved the budget much too close, allowing less than a working reserved fund for those dry periods when the treasurer sits around waiting for taxes to come in.

Right now, for example, second half taxes are payable but the deadline is months away. The only recourse Mr. Wilson has is to have the warrants registered at the bank — and go deeper into the hole.

County Clerk Ed Huffman said this week that 15 per cent of the road budget for 1962-63 remains to be spent and we have four months or a third of a year to go. This means that even if the cash were on hand — which it isn't — the road fund would still be in arrears by a healthy percentage if work were to continue, as per usual.

No Trifles

Does this mean Ed Hruby and his road crews are throwing money away on trifles and squandering if work were o continue as per The county's entire road requirements as listed by the county board last summer came to $124,440.67. That's slightly more than $10,000 per month, which may seem like plenty of bucks until one looks at the vast road system the county must maintain.

But lest any citizen think the County Board is completely ignorant of its problem, this is what the board faces:

Inadequate taxing power on top of inadequate "revenues from other sources." These revenues

Burwell Drops St. Paul

Chanticleers Alive, Face Indians 6:30

Abbie Cetak of the OHS Chanticleers poured on instant heat Monday night in the Class B District Tourney and led his teammates to a 54-46 win over Loup City.

The Chants thus moved into the semifinals, scheduled to play the Broken Bow Indians Thursday (tonight) at 6:30. The Indians were paced by their big ace Kovar who dropped in 32 points in the tourney opener against O'Neill for a 65-58 victory.

Burwell's Longhorns registered their expected win over St. Paul Tuesday night 68-53, led by the 36-point shooting of huge Mick Ashman. The Burwellites will face Ainsworth Thursday night at 8 o'clock in semifinal play. Ainsworth notched a 70-58 victory over Valentine in the 6:30 game Tuesday night. Gene Hamilton and Bill Rose scored 25 and 20 points respectively for the Ainsworth squad.

Ord never trailed against the Raiders Monday night. Young Cetak fairly blistered the cords with seven field goals and a free throw in the first period. Charlie Fox, who was fairly blanketed with defenders, managed to rack only two field goals throughout the contest, but he looped in five free throws for five attempts.

The Chants' polished ball handling paid off in spades as the second half grew old. Fox, Cetak, Melia, Mike Zulkoski, Rich Osentowski, spelled by Jim Wagner, neatly protected their four-to-six point edge, then spurted home with two or three bonus field goals when the Raiders weren't looking.

Defensively, the Ordites played one of their best games to date, holding the Raiders to 19 field goals and rebounding beautifully. With Cetak's red hot shooting, they led 17-11 at the quarter, 29-25 at halftime and 40-36 after three periods.

Zulkoski scored eight points on four field goals and Wagner connected for a field goal and three for four free throws. Don Geweke saw action in the second quarter and Harold Smolik played briefly in the closing minutes.

Overall, the Raiders were charged with 11 fouls and the Chants had only six fouls marked against them.

In their regular season game against Broken Bow last month, the Chants emerged victorious 56-49. They hope to better that edge tonight.

CPA OK's LVRPPD: KWH Sales Look Up

Loup Valleys Rural Public Power District customers last year increased their total energy consumption to 9,315,458 kilowatt hours, up 662,715 KWH from 1961.

At the same time, the district's energy loss on the lines was reduced from 14.53 per cent in 1961 to 12.18 per cent last year. By energizing the Ericson substation, the district hopes to cut the percentage even more this year.

Revenue Up

The district's gross revenue for 1962 was $342,584.89, compared to gross receipts of $323,275.39 the year before. Plant additions cost the district only $51,625 last year, compared to $72,332.91 in 1961, the year the new Ord-Burwell transmission line was put in. Wholesale power cost the district $87,399.49 last year, up about $5,000 from the year before.

Exactly 1,473 miles of line were energized as of Dec. 31, 1962, two miles more than at the same time the year before.

Last year the district paid $37,341.22 interest on its long-term REA debt. Mortgage payable to the REA was listed as of Dec. 31 at $2,992,000, less $1,174,364.60 in unadvanced funds repayments and advance payments.

Interesting to note is that accounts receivable total $22,986.93 of which $9,319.16 is owned by the Bureau of Reclamation and involves a deal of official channeling before payment can be made. Electric accounts receivable total $9,213.76.

Present district directors are Will Foth of Ord, Carl Oliver of North Loup, Clifford Goff of Burwell, Joh Kokes Jr. of Ord, Al Augustyn of Loup City, Fay Carpenter of Loup City, Leo Klein of Scotia, Downing Rounds of Arcadia and William Tuma of Burwell. Calvin is manager.

New Boot Saves Leg, But Gash Still Ugly

Gary Valasek, 28-year-old North Loup farmer, came within a leather boot of losing his foot Tuesday morning when he tangled with the power takeoff on a tractor.

As it was, the whirling machinery ripped the top half of Gary's boot into shreds and tore a wide gash in his right leg, down to and including part of the bone. The doctor said Wednesday that Gary might escape without a skin graft.

The accident occurred on the farm of Gary's father Bill west of North Loup about 10:30 Tuesday morning. The men were working on a loader hooked to the power takeoff. The boot that saved Gary's leg, incidentally, was brand new.

Valasek will have to stay off his leg for about two months.

SURE SIGN — March looked like a baa lamb at the Leroy Noll farm Tuesday afternoon. Dicky Noll is very much at home with the wolly creatures, and they'll practically stand on their heads for him. This one in particular looked like Mary's Little.

Jake Vetoes Education But Randy Perseveres

Kindergartener Randy Klinginsmith of North Loup finds it tough to get to school.

For several weeks Randy's six-month old collie pup Jake has been resisting the idea of losing Randy to the morning session at school. With first-class body-blocking, the pup tries to stop Randy's walk to the school bus.

Frequently, Jake resorts to firmly biting Randy's jacket sleeve and pulling homeward.

This Monday the busload of youngsters got a lively show out of the pup's resistance, which three times threw Randy for a loss of yardage. Randy's successful "touchdown run" across the wide yard to the bus door was properly opposed by disapproving barking from Jake as the school bus pulled away.

Randy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Klinginsmith.

The North Loup Valley picked up half an inch of moisture with the wet snow that fell over the weekend.

Weatherman Horace Travis said temperatures for the first week in March ranged from 54 degrees to 16 degrees, the low Tuesday morning.

Average temperatures for the week, highs of 38.6 degrees and lows of 21 degrees, still compare favorably with the week's averages a year ago at this time — 22.2 and minus 1.9.

North Loup caught two inches of snow Saturday night and Sunday, according to Weatherman Bert Williams.

Rainfall for the year to date in Ord totals 1.93 inches, compared to 1.91 inches at this time last year.

Juries Tap Bureau For $5,000 Extra

Landowners in the Farwell Irrigation Project area came out better than one-up on the Bureau of Reclamation this week. Federal court juries in Lincoln returned aggregate awards of nearly $5,000 above original Bureau estimates on ditch right of way land.

Quiz readers may remember that in four cases listed last week, two landowners came out with less than the original Bureau offer.

Here's the latest box score:

Tract No. 2, Forrest Nelson; Bureau offered $1,977, settled during trial for $2,800.

Tract No. 7, Leona Rounds et al; Bureau offered $1,380.60, jury awarded $1,800.

Tract No. 10, Downing and Alfreda Rounds, Bureau offered $1,823.80, jury awarded $2,560.

Tract No. 20, P. W. Rounds Trust; Bureau offered $12,876.30, jury awarded $14,975.

Tract No. 8, Walter White; Bureau offered $10,104.90, jury awarded $11,500.

E. L. Vogeltanz of Ord represented the landowners at the trials. He has two similar cases, for one on St. Paul land and one on Arcadia land, still pending.

Rotary Names Slate For Year 1963-64

Bob Noll, Emil Babka and Clark Weckbach comprised the nominating committee.

Upcoming in Rotary on the state level is the District 563 assembly scheduled for North Platte April 5, 6 and 7. District Governor Bill Ellyson said Allin W. Dakin of Iowa City, Ia., will represent International President Nitish C. LaHarry of Calcutta, India.

Motorists Here Shun Safety Belts

Seat belts are on the upswing, but in Ord at least the potential market is still vast.

The Quiz Friday made a lightning tour of the square and discovered some startling facts.

Of 134 cars parked at the curbs, only 16 or 11.9 per cent were equipped with safety belts. Some 69 cars checked were of 1957 vintage or newer and of these only 13 had belts. Of the 65 older model cars, only three were safety belted.

Jalopies Unbelted

The newer car percentage therefore figures at 22.8 per cent. The older cars were 4.6 per cent equipped. Clearly people aren't putting belts in their earlier model cars.

Only one of the cars checked, a salesman's car, had one but no more sets of the seat belts. None of the 16 equipped cars had rear seat belts.

Yet overall in the United States, the seat belt industry last year turned out 8 million sets of belts. This is a tremendous industry expansion from microscopic beginnings. In 1927, the Irving Air Chute people produced 250 sets of automotive safety belts.

Seat belts aren't new. Edward J. Claghorn in 1858 took out a patent on a compound safety belt allowing freedom of movement and a measure of protection "for tourists and others."

In 1910, Lt. Benjamin D. Foulis, USA, equipped Army Aeroplane No. 1 with a leather strap fashioned by a cavalry saddlemaker.

Several of the earliest horseless carriages came complete with seat belts, but the practice wasn't continued or picked up by all auto makers.

In Ord today, you can still see the mark left by the Jaycees who last year staged a pair of seat belt clinics and fitted out dozens of cars and trucks as well. In our quick tour of the square, we found not a single truck with seat belts.

Some motorists, here as elsewhere, are still leery of being strapped in, despite the quick-release buckle and the National Safety Council's repeated advice that "seat belts save lives." Converts who have got the seat belt habit usually wouldn't go down the highway without that reassuring pressure around the midriff.

The most convinced seat belter in Ord is probably John Andersen, whose 1960 Mercury has not less than six sets of belts.

Whether or not Nebraskans are forced to buy seat belt-equipped cars in the future, one thing is sure: the law can't make anyone wear them. Statistics on this are hard to come by, but it's doubtless safe to say that the large majority of motorists who have belts in their cards wear them, at least when they travel the highways.

Accident reports from across the state are more and more coming to include a note on the belts, whether or not they were being worn and how much injury prevention they were likely responsible for.

All Safety Patrol cars are belt-fitted and the troopers are urged to wear them.

For those who haven't yet ordered their belts, the American Seat Belt Council has approved 89 belt models, tested against Society of Automotive Engineer standards.

For those who plan any serious road or track racing, the complete aircraft harness with roll bar over the head is recommended.

Following the reception a family dinner was served at the Roy Crawford home. A story of their 50 years together was presented with projected pictures. Music and readings were presented by Judy and Janice Leininger.

A startling new design characterizes the 1963 Easter Seals. The seals this year are intended as miniature posters, telling the story of the struggle of crippled children to overcome their handicaps.

The seals will be distributed March 7 to Easter Sunday, April 14, as a means of arousing public understanding and support for services for crippled children and handicapped adults throughout Nebraska and the United States.

Don Mars, art director, The Leo Burnett Company of Chicago, created the twin Easter Seals for 1963. Explaining the design, Marrs said that he abandoned aging graphic concepts in favor of a more vigorous design to illustrate the difficulty and determination of crippled children in their struggle to lead normal lives. The Pen That Changed the Course of a Nation

The Country was at war . . . raising money to pay the cost was difficult and promised to become increasingly so . . . faith in our paper money was slipping — this was our Nation's plight in 1863!

Then, on February 25, 1863, President Abraham Lincoln signed the National Currency Act. This Act established the much-needed national currency and restored confidence. It also made possible the development of the dual banking system of national and state commercial banks.

Sparked by this competitive system, American banking has contributed immeasurably to the progress of the Nation, its people, and the world.

Did you ever stop to think that your banks provide our Nation with the dollars without which our vaunted standard of living could not have been achieved? A nation without banks would be more than a reasonable facsimile of the Dark Ages.

Did you ever stop to think that a sizable proportion of our homes, schools, hospitals . . . everything that is manufactured, distributed and sold . . . our roads and communications systems . . . are financed by bank credit?

Next time you write a check or deposit in your bank savings account or borrow to help finance your business, a car, a home, or something you want to buy — try to imagine what your life would be like without banks.

Congressman DAVE MARTIN Reports

1963 could be a year in which this country will have more major strikes than it has experienced in many years. We have already experienced a long, costly dock workers' strike which tied up all shipping on the East coast and Gulf ports. Both Cleveland and New York are experiencing newspaper strikes which have now gone on for almost 3 months. The labor contract in the steel industry will be reopened June 1, and the rubber industries labor contract expires in 1963 along with those of many other industries.

No one wins from a prolonged strike, as the employes lose their wages during the period of strike; thee company is forced to halt production and sales; and , in the case of an industry-wide strike, many other firms can be adversely affected. Let's take a look at the newspaper strikes now going on in both Cleveland and New York City.

In New York, the printers' union is the one out on strike — about 2,000 men out of approximately 20,000 employes. Ten different unions hold contracts with the newspapers, but the printers' union is the one which called the strike and the other unions agreed to go along.

The printers' union has assessed its members nationally an extra 3 per cent of their pay to build up a "war chest" to carry on the strike. From this, they are collecting about $334,000 a week or over $17 million a year.

The striking printers are being paid $65 a week from the union as strike benefits plus $50 a week from the State of New York, for 26 weeks, because they are unemployed. Thus, they are receiving a total of $115 per week for not working — no wonder they are in no hurry to settle the strike. The other 18,000 employees who belong to the 9 other unions are not as fortunate because their union treasury is running out of funds, so payments in many instances have stopped. Thus, the 2,000 in the printers' union are causing a severe hardship on 18,000 of their fellow employees.

Publishers Outgunned

The New York newspapers are up against the international union, with a large "war chest." This is a case of big labor dealing with small business. The nine New York newspapers face a big national union with a "war fund" of $17 million. The newspapers are overmatched. The strike has meant heavy financial loss for not only the 9 newspapers, but also for every single line of business in New York City. Many of these papers were operating at a loss before the strike. If forced to pay higher wages, several of the New York papers will fold up with a permanent loss of jobs for their employees.

Labor is "big business," with millions of dollars available to them. Some of the unions are ruthless in their conduct. When they completely control an entire industry, I maintain that they have a monopoly which is injurious to the entire economy of Nebraska, which is primarily an agricultural state. The cost of the farmers' and ranchers' supplies has increased to the point where there is little or no profit at the end of the year.

My bill, HR. 333, would amend the Sherman Anti-trust Act and bring the labor unions under its provisions. Under my bill, control of the union movement would be restored to the local unions and taken away from the international unions. Industry-wide strikes could not happen because industry-wide unions could not exist. Strikes could take place at individual companies, but not on an industry-wide basis. Union welfare and retirement funds would not be affected. Featherbedding would be stopped. This monoploy in the field of labor must be eliminated.

VISITORS FROM THE DISTRICT: R. G. Simmons and B. L. Goerke, Scottsbluff; Mrs. H. A. Dreher and Mrs. Frances Yoke, Grand Island; Lyman Stuckey, Lexinton; Mrs. Tracy Van Camp, Kearney.

Alphabet Agencies Talk OEDP of RAD

Representatives of the State technical action panel met with local ag agency heads here Monday night to review the Valley County OEDP. The OEDP is a required plan that must be submitted and approved at state and national levels before funds for loans or grants can be obtained through the ARA channel.

The local rural development group is not making any applications at present for specific projects. They have been considering items to include in the Valley County OEDP for about a year.

State technical action panels have recently been notified that they are expected to approve local programs. FHA, SCS, and ASCS are concerned that local programs as submitted be consistent with the aims and purposes of their respective agencies.

Present at the Monday meeting were Don Krick, Russell Dills, and Joe Haggerty of FHA, Wally Buck, Laird Wolfe, and Bob Foster of SCS, Arnold Tuning and Eldon Buoy of local RAD committee, Phil Sutton, Marvin Sather and Bob Perry of Extension.

Bankers' Century Note

President Kennedy has proclamed 1963 as the Centennial year of our dual banking system. The system of banks chartered and supervised by the Federal Government operating side by side with banks chartered and supervised by the states came into being in 1863 when Abraham Lincoln signed the National Currency Act.

This year the nation's commerical banks are observing the centennial of the signing of the National Currency Act. The Act, signed February 25, 1863, gave us a new national currency and a new national banking system.

Ideal Work Climate In North Loup Valley, Say Ord Delegates

Ordites who went to Lincoln Wednesday to attend the governor's conference on community betterment returned home with mixed emotions. On the whole they were pleased when they evaluated the North Loup Valley against the list of factors considered vital for bettering a community like Ord.

All who attended, Mrs. Hazel Dunbar the secretary, Mrs. Ernest Ahlschwede, Dr. and Mrs. Glen Auble, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Auble and Lynn Chichester, who is chairman, called the meeting a dandy.

Governor Frank Morrison and several able speakers offered their ideas.

Honest Labor

Nebraska labor market to climate could hardly be better, they were told. The attitude of Nebraska workmen should be protected. "They now believe in giving an honest day's work for an honest day's pay and let's keep it that way." They give as much as 25 per cent more work than many a worker back east, said one expert.

Other nuggets of advice were: the first impression of your community is the important one. Gas, oil and water must be abundant; housing, hospitals, electricity, transportation, a good airport . . . all are important. Financing too must be considered.

Promote what you have, but on the other hand do not forget you have a lot to offer. Do not offer to waive taxes. Do not promise advantages that undersell your city. "You have much to offer."

Don't pick the factory site, let the new industry do that and likely it will need at least 16 outlying acres. But each firm has special needs and will wish to consider them particularly before locating in any certain area of a town.

An over-all plan for community growth was a genuine need, declared the speakers at the Lincoln meetings. Recreation comes in for careful scrutiny when a firm plans to expand into a small community like Ord. Fire protection is a critical consideration.

One of the greatest advantages in Valley County would be the labor market, largely untapped. To train and hold this labor in this vicinity would be an important item to an expanding firm which was considering locating in the North Loup River Valley. There is a definite trend from the farms into towns, said the experts, and this is an advantage to weigh and to cherish.

Pheasants Are Happy But Mel Steen Isn't

Nebraska's pheasant hunters again harvested only about half as many birds as they could have the past season, surveys by the Game Commission reveal.

Game technicians, using information gleaned from the winter rural mail carrier survey, said that for every rooster dwned by the gun last season, another could have safely been taken without harm to the state's surplus.

Surplus birds as determined by the technicians are those which are not needed as brood stock.

Survey findings indicate that at present there are two to three hens for every cock in the field. Since pheasants are polygamous creatures, only one cock is needed for every 10 or more hens to insure proper fertilization of the eggs.

No Advantage

Game Commission Director M. O. Steen, himself an expert on pheasants, said that since habitat limits the number of birds which can be supported on the land, the surplus roosters will contribute nothing to next year's crop.

Results of the survey show that the long season did not endanger the pheasant population and Nebraska again stands as a leader among states providing the maximum in recreational opportunity for its sportsmen by having provided an 86-day season.

"Unfortunately pheasants, like other wildlife, cannot be stockpiled," Steen said. "When the carrying capacity of the land is reached, natural mortality eliminates the surplus birds. And it is those birds which just go down the drain as far as the hunter is concerned."

Steen issued a plea to sportsmen and landowners to take care that cover is available to wildlife.

"There are many things farmers and other landowners can do without expense to see that cover is left for pheasants, quail, and other game species," he said. "and even those who do not own land can be of help by co-operating with the landowners in being careful with fire and in other ways protecting crops, fences, and livestock."

IT'S UP TO YOU

By Howard E. Kershner, LL.D.

THE depths of our shame in the treatment we have meted out to Katanga and its great mining company, the Union Minière, is highlighted when it is remembered that the chief executive of that company, Sir Edgar Sengier, on his own initiative sent to the United States more than 1,000 tons of radium and uranium ores late in 1940.

Dr. Kershner

The splendid foresight of Sir Edgar and the complete cooperation of the Belgian government placed in our hands the uranium which was used to perfect the atom bomb.

To our shame, instead of showing gratitude we have financed two wars against Katanga, including the destruction of an extensive amount of property belonging to the Union Minière.

The members of the U.N. army who perpetrated these indignities against Katanga and the Union Minière receive more than twice as much pay as our soldiers, and of course the greater part of it comes out of the pockets of American taxpayers. In other words, we are paying well a hostile army to reek vengeance, destruction and horrible atrocities upon our friends in Katanga who have done so much for us.

Mr. U Thant of Burma, Secretary General of the United Nations, deserves to lose his highly lucrative, tax-exempt job for the use of disrespectful language toward the leaders of Katanga. He referred to them as a "bunch of clowns." Imagine what would happen if he used such language with reference to U.S.S.R., Indonesia, India or any leftward-slanted member of the United Nations.

Engineer on Saturn Project

Dallas Davis Moon-Struck

Dallas Davis

Dallas L. Davis, whose wife is the former Joan Biemond of Ord, will be well in among key personnel when NASA attempts to land men on the moon.

Davis is now an engineering supervisor with the Saturn project in Huntsville, Ala., and he recently completed a trip to the west coast to interview young engineers for the project.

A graduate of St. Paul High School, Davis has been with Boeing Aircraft for 14 years. He began on the B-47, was graduated to the Bomare missile and moved to the Saturn project in Huntsville about a year ago. He and Joan have three sons.

"I'm sold on Saturn," Davis told an interviewer recently. "It's getting us into space technology. We're in a good position to soak up valuable information . . . and we must prove our capabilities and competence in large booster work. We're on the threshold of bigger things."

Davis is an electrical engineer, a graduate of the University of Nebraska. The family's home, Huntsville, is also home of the Marshall Space Flight Center. Huntsville is situated 200 miles from Atlanta, 200 miles from Memphis, 40 miles from the Great Smoky Mountains and is near the TVA dam back-up waters.

The hunting and fishing are excellent, reports Dallas.

Sample of a Questionnaire That Was Sent Out to Ord Golfers This Week

For several years, Ord golfers have been discussing the pro's and con's of grass greens. Each year we hear of towns throughout Nebraska successfully making the transfer from sand greens to grass greens. Broken Bow is the latest to join the grass green circut.

We have been asked "Why do we want grass greens?", and as we believe the logical answer is not only the challenge, joy and cleanliness of playing golf on grass greens, but the added attraction grass greens would give Ord on Industry promotion.

The Ord City Council has been approached relative to installing grass greens on the municipal course. They wish to know the following before making their decision.

Do you favor grass greens? ..... yes ..... no (check one)

If the answer is "YES", what bracket do you favor for annual family membership dues?

$65.00 .....

Please return this survey to me, in the enclosed return addressed envelope as soon as possible with any additional comments you may have.

Ord Golf Club
Verlin Smith, President

Any member contemplating on voting on the above proposition should know the present set-up between the CITY and the GOLF CLUB.

At the present time the GOLF CLUB does not pay the CITY ONE CENT for the use of the course. Or one cent for keeping the grass and weeds cut on the course.

It costs the CITY from 600 to 800 dollars each year for the work that is put on the course. Less than 100 members belong to the GOLF CLUB. In other words the course is kept up by taxes and five (5) PERCENT of the people benefiting from it.

About ten years ago the GOLF CLUB payed three fourths of their dues to the City for maintaining the course. For the last 10 years the club has not payed ONE CENT toward the upkeep of the course, except some work on the sand greens. I think it is about time a change was made. Everyone should pay the cost of their own HOBBY.

It costs more each year to maintain the Park on account of higher wages, more equipment, and necessary improvements. Any organization through their own activity causes expense to the Park, should stand at least part of that expense. Lets all be GOOD SPORTS and pay what expense we cause the community.

A PAY YOUR OWN WAY GOLFER.

Locutionists Hone Tongues for Battle: First Go March 19

By Sharon Rysavy

Speech and drama students look forward to keen interscholastic competition this year.

Preliminary judging was held Feb. 28 with Mrs. Mark Tolen, Mrs. Eldon Buoy, Mrs. Dale Black and Garth Wilson as judges in various fields. The winners will go to Kearney March 19 to the District 4 Contest and to Seward April 6 to the Central 10 Contest.

Winners in their respective fields are: Carol Hulinsky, informative public speaking; Roger Petska, interpretive public address; Peggy Prien, original public address; Sue Misko, oral interpretation of prose; Sharon Rysavy, oral interpretation of poetry.

Dale Black is the chief cook and bottle washer for the department. The group has been working under him in plays as well as just a part of the Thespians. Lois Haggart is his assistant, and between the two we get a lively workout.

Drama Too

The Bore, by Checkhov, is an oral reading of drama which the department plans to take to both contests. The cast includes three: Judy Stewart, Keith Burson and Bob Kapustka. A narrator will be added later.

Judgment Morning, is a one-act play which will go with us to the Central 10 Contest. The cast for this has not been finally decided upon.

Students taking part in the preliminaries last Thursday were excused from afternoon classes. Whether or not a student ranked, we all gained valuable experience.

All Wear Black

Yesterday was a day of mourning for everyone at OHS. All students and faculty were asked to wear black in deepest sympathy for Broken Bow since we plan to clobber them on the basketball court Thursday. May they rest in peace. Amen.

Clark Yanda's Varsity Chorus as been asked to donate 15 minutes of recorded music to the Borken Bow radio station in the interest of the public welfare. We're recording, and we'll donate, but there's no saying it will be in the public welfare!

Just one little word from a boxing friend . . . Boxes are going to Ewing March 10. Bouts start at 1 p.m. All boxing fans will be welcome with open arms to help carry home the trophies.

Girls Will Kick Off Their Week Mar. 10

March 10 is Girl Scout Sunday, and all Scouts in the region are urged to attend the church of their choice that day, in uniform if possible.

Girl Scout Week runs from March 10 through March 16. The first baby girl born on or for six weeks after March 10 will be the Girl Scout baby of the year. She'll receive an honorary certificate and friendship pin.

Cookie sale will begin March 8 when the girls will be around taking advance orders and will continue through the following week and a half.

Good News for Doug

Roberta Wilson called the Quiz Friday morning regarding Doug Markley's injury. She said Dr. Koefoot of Hastings was ringside and advised a specialist after finding no nerve or blood vessel damage that would bring on the blindness experienced in the left eye.

Doug was taken to Dr. Proffitt in Grand Island Friday. After examination he concluded a nervous condition had brought on the blindness as it resulted from nerves contracting and not relaxing. He examined Doug again Thursday Feb. 28 and the good news is: eyesight okay.

4-H'ers to Survey Job Opportunities

National 4-H Club week is being observed this week by 4-H members across the nation. Valley County club members will participate by joining a state-wide career exploration program. 4-H members will each have an opportunity to interview two adults in occupations of interest to the member.

Since survey materials will not all be in the 4-H members hands this week, actual interviewing will probably extend through March.

The state 4-H office feels that the experience of planning and conducting interviews will provide valuable learning experiences. The members will gain some knowledge of careers and the summarization will be useful in planning future programs.

The local Extension office prepared a listing of 85 different occupations which can be found locally. The list does not break some classifications like teachers and farmers into specialist groups or the list would be much longer.

Questions on the interview card deal with amount of education for the job, kinds of activities most likely to assist the club member and whether or not more people are needed in a particular line of work.

Some 365 4-H'ers in Valley County will have an opportunity to participate in this activity.

Joe Urbanski and Bill, Mrs. John Mottl and Norma and Albin Urbanski, all of Omaha, came to the Ig. Urbanski home last Saturday night and remaned until Sunday evening.

Dr. Charles Shepard —

Pits Mice vs. Leprosy

Another Ord-born young man, Dr. Charles C. Shepard, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Shepard is making a notable mark in the world of science.

According to an Associated Press story, Dr. Shepard may have found a way to combat leprosy, ancient scourge of civilization. There are some 15 million cases in the world, with 80 per cent of them in Africa and Asia and some 2,000 cases in the United States.

The Public Health Service at Washington, D. C. describes the hopeful research as "an effective method for growing leprosy bacteria in the footpads of white mice". The microbes grow well in mice feet because the temperature of a mouse's foot is almost exactly the 68 degrees best for the experimental growth of leprosy bacilli.

Facilitates Tests

The new technique makes it easier to test anti-leprosy drugs and vaccines. And "it seems to offer a gateway to the prevention and cure of a dreaded enemy of mankind", declare the authorities. The tests do not prove whether or not the vaccines would protect humans against natural infection. Field trials are necessary to help determine this.

Dr. Shepard first tried the mouse foot technique with leprosy germs in 1957 following work done by an Australian scientist Dr. Frank Fenner, who was using this environment for other types of microbes. It worked the first time and by 1960 Dr. Shepard had fully confirmed his findings. Since then he has been carrying out drug and vaccine studies.

Leprosy germs are injected into the right rear footpads of selected white mice making the rodents experiment-lepers. Mixing medicine in the usual diet of the mouse provides a check, to ascertain whether the number of germs can be reduced.

The research is mainly credited to Dr. Shepard, who is now 48. He graduated from the Ord High school in 1932 and later attended the University of Nebraska and Stanford University. He is a dedicated scientist in the research that has been done toward conquering Rocky Mountain spotted fever, scrub typhus, typhus fever and the mysterious Q fever. Q fever is somewhat like pneumonia.

He spent a year in Sweden doing research.

At present he is working at the Health Service's Communicable Disease Center at Atlanta, Ga., where the new work against leprosy is being carried on.

Charles' mother was buried in Ord last summer at which time he was here.

County Blushes . . .

should comprise the great bulk of the road fund. In counties where gas tax revenues are huge (and that includes all counties along the main east-west highways; the dads levy zero property taces for road support. Valley County's "revenues from other sources" this year were estimated at $92,000, not enough by a long chalk.

So the board levied a legal 1.7-mill road tax, a 2-mill special road tax — and when it snowed so hard last March costing us $16,000, they levied a 1.09 emergency road tax to make up the deficit.

But the county treasurer's main problem right now is cash money, just to meet the bills Valley County anticipated. The county is empowered by law to provide for a reserve fund up to 50 per cent of the operating budge simply to meet bills between tax gatherings. The reserve fund was whittled to all but nought in 1959 or so and now Mr. Wilson is lucky to find a buyer for warrants at 4½ per cent, the maximum figure set by the board.

Nothing will bring back that 4½ per cent on $50,000, but everyone in the courthouse and at the county shed hopes and trusts something can be done to boost back the reserve fund come budget time in July.

Ord contractor, bid for a franchise on the city's garbage disposal system.

Scheideler told the dads he had given the matter much thought and study and was convinced he could handle both the pickup and the landfill ends of the garbage problem if given a 3-to-5-year franchise for protection of his investment.

The city plans to go ahead with setting up the new landfill dump north of Skinny Wilson's place as soon as weather permits.

The Council was sympathetic to Scheideler's propsal but urged him to count the costs and weigh the percentages carefully. In essence, Scheideler proposed to purchase a packer truck and make residential pickups once a week, business pickups more often, depending on a store's volume.

He proposed to maintain the landfill area as long as the city set up rigid rules for use of the dump site. Councilman Ruzicka asked that a special open meeting on the dump be called so that all interested citizens would air their views and hear the propsoals.

Mayor Karre emphasized that to be successful, to do all the things a landfill dump is supposed to do for a town, rules must be carefully thought out and strictly enforced.

The dump discussion branched out onto such things as what to do with old refrigerators and car bodies, tree limbs, what hours to set for dumping by private parties, what fees to charge and so forth.

Appearing at the meeting also were Jay Auble and Henry Enger of the park board with a brochure on a type of picnic shelter that can be purchased. The Council tabled the matter until later in the year.

Les Nelson appeared asking that the road that runs by his property, north from Don Sears' new home, be realigned, moved over east according to the original plat.

The street and alley committee will look into the matter.

The state, said Mayor Karre, is still coming to look at our highway problems through town. Councilman Johnson asked the mayor to ask the state when it comes to paint a double line down Highway 11 from the 70 intersection north and perhaps ask for speed reduction by Rowbal's.

The mayor will also ask about a "Yield" sign at 11-70 on the curve.

Lynn Chichester reported a request from a retail merchant to have the 15-minute space outside his store extended to 24 hours.

And Ted Lenker mentioned the need to get going on buying a new loader for the street crew. "Either that or fix the one we have," said Lenker.

"THE CHRYSLER SIX was America's first medium-priced, high-styled automobile. It had the high compression engine Chrysler wanted as well as four-wheel hydraulic brakes, aluminum pistons, full-pressure lubrication, air cleaner, oil filter, shock absorbers, tubular front axles, and many other features that never before had been combined in a volume-produced car.

Old Nebraska

State Celebrates 96th Birthday and Points Toward 100th

Nebraska has been a state for 96 years as of March 1. Now the state is preparing for its Centennial year in 1967.

Our sister state, West Virginia, is currently celebrating her centennial. In descriptions of the coming event the West Virginians have made much of the fact that the state is a creature of the Civil War and came about only as a result of that war. The Civil War had been over for two years when Nebraska did become a state, but we are in many ways very much a creature of that war as well. The politics of the nation both in their operations in the national Capitol and in their effect on political alignments and issues in the state, were deeply concerned with Nebraska statehood.

Early Maturity

Statehood has been bestowed upon areas in the United States as they became able to operate as states, and so we have tended to look upon statehood as marking the beginning of the period of maturity of a state. However, maturity was rushed upon the frontier, and the beginning of statehood was oftentimes closer to a birthday, in fact, than to any sort of maturity. So for Nebraska in 1867.

Nebraska was a state in 1867, but the violent Indian troubles of the area were still ahead of it. The campaign against the Cheyenne in 1869 under General Carr, the establishment in 1874 of Fort Robinson, the agitation at that post and the gathering there of white and Indian forces alike, culminating in the Indian wars of 1876 and 1877, are part of our history as a state. The death of Custer as part of that campaign and the killing of Crazy Horse at Fort Robinson occurred after Nebraska had been a state for nearly a decade.

The railroad was completed across the state in the year that statehood was gained. At that time only about a fifth of the present counties in the state were organized. Most of these were near the Missouri River, although there was a string of counties out aong the Platte to include present day Lincoln County.

Cattle drives from Texas to the northern plains were just starting, and towns in Nebraska such as Schuyler, Lincoln and Kearney were and continued to be cow towns in the eyes of cattlemen and railroad men for several years. Ogallala was to become a cow town later, and the state was well over 10 years old when the great cattle raising areas of the west were put into any effective use.

Nebraska in 1867 did in reality have a birthday. As a state it acquired sufficient powers of self government and sufficient control of its destinies to devlop much more rapidly than it had as a territory.

Mrs. Lloyd Zikmund was hostess for JUG Club Monday. Faye Good won high Alma Melia second prize. Gladys Allen will have the next meeting Mon., March 25.

Alfalfa Mill All OK

No, the alfalfa mill isn't closing down.

Some misunderstanding resulted when two state papers carried stories about anti-trust actions brought against the parent company. Among seven mills the company was obliged to divest itself of were mills in Ordway, Colo., and in Valley, Nebr.

Actually, National Alfalfa is now investing thousands of dollars in expanding the Ord mill. There will be no shutdown or sale of our plant.

Dorothy to Council

Miss Dorothy M. Campbell, counselor at Golden Junior High School, Golden, Colo. has been appointed for a 3-year term on the state Advisory Council on guidance and testing. The council's next meeting will be Feb. 28 at the State House.

On Feb. 23 Miss Campbell will attend a regional meeting of the National Defense Education association at the Park Lane when she will present a talk on newer methods of counseling.

During this school year Miss Campbell has presented a new means of counseling at Golden Junior High through her original Hepsie and Abner skits and through other methods. The short plays present examples of good behavior in the halls, good manners and other ideas usually presented in counseling. The skits are presented in home rooms by students who act out situations and arrive at proper conclusions. This type of counseling is in addition to the counseling of individual students. Dorothy is a Valley county girl, a sister of Mrs. Edmund Lenz.

One Small Universe

By Al Darr

High adventure on the road, I've decided, isn't for me.

Outbound for Rock County by way of Atkinson the other night, my engine developed an oil leak and by the time I hit Atkinson the idiot light was flickering fiercely.

Once more I proved the good will and generosity of Nebraska service station men. After half an hour with wrenches, the man in the 66 station pulled out what we thought was the offending part, plugged it with solder and screwed it back in. Charge: 50 cents.

It was actually a gasket leak, as I discovered in a mile run back down the highway. So we loaded six quarts (of oil) in the back seat and I made a dash for home — using only two of the six quarts in 80 miles.

So I've added Atkinson to my list of good places to have motor trouble. The others are Cairo, Aurora, Central City, Grand Island, Stapleton and York. Ord, of course, would top any list.

Anonymous News

Half a dozen funny stories go with the Bureau of Reclamation suits in Lincoln last week and the week before. Most of the litigants aren't laughing, as who could blame them, but the thing that amused me most was the story we received through the mails.

It was postmarked St. Paul and held information on the first four cases tried. No letterhead, no signature, just the facts. At least I hoped they were facts. The case numbers and other technical data were included. I was virtually positive the Bureau office had sent the story.

And I'm still positive.

Anyone could see right away this was not only news but potent Bureau propaganda. If in two out four cases the plaintiff landowners were actually awarded less than the original Bureau offer, how much smarter to take the original offering?

The Reclamation guys were quick to see the value of this kind of publicity, especially in an area slated for future development — an area like Valley County.

What the Bureau (or whoever sent our story) failed to say, however, was that seven of the 17 Sherman project cases were settled out of court for more than the original Bureau offer.

The net gain for the 17 landowners over the original offers came to something between $15,000 and $20,000 even considering the two or three cases in which the jury awarded less than the original.

The bridge issue is fascinating. This feeder ditch, for those who haven't seen it, is really big. You don't leap nimbly across it, nor do your cows. Yet now, my south country informants tell me, they can't legally build a bridge across the ditch. The Bureau won't let them, they say.

Even if the Bureau did let them, a bridge to meet government specifications would cost $7,500, more in some cases than the Federal court jury awarded for the right-of-way land.

Downing Rounds, said Ed Vogeltanz, at least had the small satisfaction of hearing the Federal lawyer, Mr. Edgerton, apologize to the jury for a rash assertion. I think Mr. Rounds wounds would have preferred the staisfaction of swords at sunup, but we're civilized now.

Whether or not we have an example here of Federal brutality (federal men can be brutal), certainly the Arcadians in question feel abused.

My private thinking is that, as with all big outfits, the Bureau's right hand often doesn't know what the left hand is doing. So one envoy from the Bureau might say, "Sure we'll give you a bridge," and the next man might ask, "What bridge?"

As listed, the awards seem scarcely large enough to include a $7,500 bridge, but I'm no land appraiser.

In fact, I'm not bucking for the arbiter's post in this eternal feud. I just thought we should have in black and white what the agrieved parties are thinking.

Festus Williams Services at Arcadia

A former Ord implement dealer and city councilman was buried Saturday following 1:30 p.m. graveside ceremonies. Rev. Jacob Merrill officiated. Interment was made in the Arcadia cemetery. He was a member of the Methodist Church in Ord.

Festus C. Williams was born at Brock, Nebr., March 3, 1873, and died Feb. 26 in a Grand Island rest home. He had been sick for six months. He married Lily E. Nygren of Arcadia on Thanksgiving Day of 1895.

First the young couple moved to Sherman county, then to Valley County. He left Ord in 1949 to make his home in Grand Island.

Surviving are Mrs. Williams, a son Wilford of Grand Island and daughter Iola Mae Grunkemeyer of Sun Valley, Calif. There are also five grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

Killers Found for Immune Worms

By Robert E. Perry

"What is Happening To Our Farm Families" is the title of a television show to be on Sunday, March 10, 3:30 on ABC network. It is recommended as a must for farm families.

The team of Bohlen and Beal from Iowa State University present the program. It is a review of trends that are shaping the future for farm families and those in the related fields of agriculture business.

Rootworm

Two chemicals by test look good for controlling corn rootworms that have built up resistance to aldrin and heptachlor.

They are Thimet (phorate) or diazinon. Both are prepared in a granular form. Both are 10 per cent materials. Both are recommended at the same rate — 10 pounds per acre.

The method of application for either material is at planting time in a band about 4 to 7 inches wide over the seed row. Do not place the material in the seed furrow. The chemical should be covered lightly with press wheels, covering discs or chains.

Most granular applicators can be used. They should be carefully calibrated to deliver the right amount. Delivery tubes should be straight as curves will hinder the flow and uneven distribution is likely to occur.

Thimet has a high toxicity and care should be used in handling it. Rubber gloves, goggles and a long sleeved shirt should be worn. Don't get the chemical on bare skin. If handled over a long period of time or on windy days when granules blow around, a face respirator should be worn. Be sure the respirator is equipped with the proper cartridge.

Other safety rules: Change and wash clothing once daily. Wash skin immediately with soap and water if chemical is spilled. Store chemical in a locked place. Bury unused chemicals. Burn empty containers and don't breathe the smoke.

Tree Orders Taken Until Arbor Day

Orders for Clarke-McNary trees for planting in 1963 have passed the million mark, Karl Loerch, University of Nebraska Extension Forester reported this week.

"This is well ahead of the normal number of trees ordered by the first of March," the forester said.

"A good supply of top quality planting stock coupled with apparent increased interest in tree planting indicate that 1963 might well be another record year for planting trees in Nebraska.

"A large percentage of the orders are usually received during March and April with the actual distribution beginning in early April and continuing throughout the month," Loerch said. "Orders are normally accepted until Arbor Day in Nebraska which is April 22, depending upon the availability of trees."

Evergreen species still in good supply include red cedar and ponderosa pine, the two most often used for windbreak plantings in the State. Austrian, Scotch, and white pine, Douglas-Fir and Colorado Blue Spruce are available in limited quantities primarily for use in Christmas tree plantings.

Shrub species still available include American plum, honeysuckle, lilac, and cotoneaster which are well suited for use in windbreaks. Others which are ideal for planting for wildlife protection and food include multi-flora rose, Hansen's hybrid rose, Sweetbrier, threeleaved sumac, choke cherry, Nanking cherry, and sand cherry.

Broadleaf species that provide early height growth for windbreaks include such trees as Chinese elm, cottonwood, honeylocust, hackberry, and green ash.

Prices for Clarke-McNary trees are as follows: broadleaf species, $3 per hundred; shrubs, $4.50 per hundred; evergreens for windbreak purposes, $5 per hundred; and Christmas tree species, $8 per hundred. Also available are stratified black walnut seeds at $2 per hundred.

Persons interested in ordering trees may obtain a copy of E. C. 1726, "Application Blank and Information on Clarke - McNary Trees," at University County Extension Offices throughout Nebraska.

NL Farm Meeting Is Open to Public

The North Loup Lions Club and the Valley County Extension Service are jointly sponsoring a fertilizer and irrigation meeting Thursday evening (tonight). The open meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the North Loup Community Building.

Paul Fischbach and Clinton Hoover, scheduled since last October from the University's Ag College, will share the speaking assignments. The two specialists have been working together for several seasons studying the relationships of water and fertilizer, especially nitrogen. Some interesting facts have been confirmed by this study.

Any farmer who either irrigates or uses fertilizer or both is invited to attend.

Club Paint Show

The North Loup Progressive Club will host a paint show at the Community building March 12 at 2 p.m. Home decorating ideas will be featured and there will be registration for door prizes with coffee and cookies after. It's in connection with the fund-raising project to improve the community building so everybody come — it's free.

Smith Speaks

The Sherman Lake forming north of Ashton or about 15 miles southwest of Scotia will have a shoreline of 65 miles with a water surface of 2,850 acres, Bureau of Reclamation officials and J. Greg Smith, managing editor of "Outdoor Nebraska," told representatives from 16 towns attending the Loup Valley United Chamber of Commerce dinner and meeting in Scotia Thursday evening.

Sherman Lake will be about the size of Johnson Lake southwest of Lexington and larger than Strunk Lake on Medicine Creek in Frontier County north of Cambridge, Smith told the more than 70 men who were present for the delightful chicken dinner served by the Scotia Catholic ladies at the recreation center and the others who joined the visitors for the open meeting at the community building on main street. . .

The cabin area will be on the north side of the lake at about the center from east of west and will be on a peninsula having water on three sides. The lots have not yet been laid out. Roadways will be built and the entire perimeter developed. The bureau is constructing a fishing bridge.

The reservoir is primarily for irrigation and flood control.

In recreation, Smith said, an acre of water is worth about 1,000 acres of land.

But it's usually in bad weather or darkness that the most dramatic instances of truck drivers helping the lost, the disabled, the frightened (or the very pretty) take place • Under such circumstances we couldn't have got such a nice picture of the pretty girl • And we did want to do our best to highlight the well-known fact that most truck drivers are kind, courteous men, trained to drive with respect for the rights and feelings of others on the highways and to help them whenever they can • They meet the most interesting people that way!

THE Ord Quiz

The Flame of Fools, He Says

Clay County must be on its last fiscal legs.

We have now the downright embarrassing spectacle of The Clay County News urging everyone to get behind the USDA's latest giant boondoggle and welcome in a 10,556-acre livestock experimental station on land that should, by every right, have reverted back to the tax rolls when the Naval Ordnance Department released it.

"I believe," writes the Clay County editor, "that great good will come from the four million dollar project and its magnificently large annual payroll, and the benefits generally to be received from the spending incident to the installations."

This credo, with all its implications, is frightening.

"Better to live," the editor concludes, "with a reality of permanent payrolls and a government financed project offering so much for so little local help than to hold onto a hope or dream that may prove, like the ignis fatuus, only a shifting gleam in the dark of tomorrow."

That "shifting gleam" he speaks of is American free enterprise, God help us.

Just what kind of boom does Clay County expect from the University's latest big deal? Fifty or 100 new homes, government-financed. Greater bank deposits, government-financed. Increased spending in Clay County, government spending.

Meanwhile, the experimenters will be dumping from 500 to 1,000 head of prime Nebraska beef on the market every spring, competing — and unfairly competing because the government doesn't have to sweat about margins — with the very farmers and cattlemen who are supporting the boondoggle with their tax money.

The University's self-styled "experts" may well predict a break in the beef market. They appear to be doing all in their power to build the climate for it.

We can understand their viewpoint, however. Their business is quite simply to exaggerate their usefulness and to strengthen their grip on the public dollar.

But for the county they invade to welcome them as saviours is just plain ridiculous. Especially is this so in an expanding America where agricultural land will, within the next quarter century, be worth its weight in uranium.

The most awful irony of this thing is that places like Valley County could actually use small experimental crop projects, aiming toward diversification. But no funds are available. Beef, on the other hand, we already know how to make, and beef could still be a profitable enterprise if the government would leave its damned sticky fingers off of it.

Zoning: A Path Full of Pitfalls

Ord is no pioneer in the field of civic planning, and this is a good thing.

We have the example and the hard-won experience of dozens of other Nebraska towns by which to profit. Zoning is just one phase of this experience — but an important phase.

When a community zones itself it sets strict limits not only to the quality of building allowed but also to the character or type of business allowed within specified zones. In so-called Residence A zones, for example, commercial enterprise of every description might be forbidden. Residence B zones might admit businesses like service stations and beauty parlors. However an area is designated, some will be locked out and some will be imposed upon — or think they're imposed upon.

So the Ord City Council will move slowly on zoning and avoid myriad complications.

Meanwhile the city has on the books perfectly adequate mechanism for protecting residential property values. Everyone who builds in Ord is required by ordinance to apply for a building permit. The work in progress then must be inspected and approved. This integral part of our building code has probably never been enforced, but it can be enforced, and that without undue strain on any landowner, contractor or city official.

This protection is essentially what those who promoted the City Planning Commission last year were seeking.

Youth Must Have Its Inning

Ray Simmons of Fremont did a heap of digging for his 32-page report on The Daily Nebraskan, the University's controversial newspaper.

The end result is not so much a violent blast as an extended exposition of many little sins against conservatism which taken all together spell one thing: youth in the saddle.

For example (and the examples are far too numerous to relate) the student newspaper favored both Medicare and Federal Aid to Education.

Simmon's main complaint is that in a largely Republican and solidly conservative state like Nebraska, the kids might print a few lines now and then showing their old man's side of the question. The kids might, in other words, acknowledge once in awhile the source of the dough that's putting them through college.

They might, too, if gratitidue and filial loyalty were ranking virtues of youth. But young men in college are forever rebels, forever anti-authoritarian. It was even so in medieval Europe, as witness Francois Villon and his frolicsome cronies who roamed the University of Paris campus sticking pins in old custom.

Mr. Simons probably expects too much of The Daily Nebraskan. He expects the students to behave and talk as though their stake in America's capitalistic system were real and immediate. And this at a time when most of the literate students are getting their frist taste of Tolstoy and Thomas Mann a time of wing-testing and intellectual trumoil.

The liberal line is disturbing and we don't like to see our young guys and dolls made chumps of by a flock of silly old (or young) goats in professorial gowns. But the whole Daily Nebraskan deal looks more like a phase of youth than a meance to our society. If all the newspaper staff members go to work for the National Broadcasting Company, then watch out.

Customs Not a Tasty Experience

Probably the ugliest part of our trip to Europe was going through customs when at last we reached New York City.

The first bad thing . . . ugh . . . we were called on 5:30 a.m. A little touch like this can ruin any day.

We were fed early and lined up in one queue after another, usually alphabetically. After being tagged and re-tagged, listed and checked repeatedly we went down the gangplank and the checking and re-checking began all over again.

oOo

It was bitterly cold. A strong minded breeze blew off the Atlantic and we were herded into a tremendous, open air, barnlike structure. It was several blocks long.

We waited. Generally "in the wrong line" we were informed. Go locate your own bags, we were told. We did. "You are in the wrong line, but wait." We waited. This waiting went on for some two or three hours. We stamped our feet to warm our chilly toes. We visited. We stood all this time. And we waited.

oOo

At last we were checked off another list, we hustled with our personal customs inspector back to our bags and opened them while he asked questions.

"My those cameos are expensive, my my. What is this? No it doesn't make any difference if you've worn the dress, you must declare it just the same.

"Yes, watches are fairly high. Not so much tax on leather goods like these gloves." None at all on antiques . . . but I didn't buy antiques, not knowing one worm hole from another. No use for me to attempt to buy a Napoleonic relic, it would only turn out to have been made in the Truman era.

We are paged, via loudspeaker so we know someone waits for us. It is Georgia's elder son who is New York on business, plus his wife.

We keep stamping our feet, trying to stamp out our temper as well.

At last the cashier sees us, we pay our duties and are free to walk on out a couple of blocks, meet the young Scheers, and go uptown. New York City isn't nearly so awesome as it was a few months earlier.

oOo

In all fairness to the Holland-America Steamship line I must relate that that company is building a fine new pier, the fanciest in the business. It is almost ready for use. It was promised for "early fall" but November evidently isn't early fall, for it wasn't ready yet.

At the new pier, taxis will drive up close to the ship, none of these hustling mile hikes down splintery docks. Baggage will slide automatically here and there. Waiting will be a vanished trouble too, for automation will regulate passengers and their luggage.

oOo

Each mode of travel has its disadvantages. And its advantages.

On a train you buy each meal. This counts up. You pay to use a pillow. You pay plenty if you want a compartment or something bigger yet. You pay to be brushed. You pay to have your bags hauled on the train and off the train. There are long hikes through smoky stations.

But you don't have to hop off the train and reconfirm your reservations. You don't have to walk miles of corridors, and I do mean miles.

Traveling by air your bags are checked once and once only . . . generally speaking. No charge for hanging up your coat, nor for meals nor for coffee, nor for magazines. You arrive clean, quick and quiet. You look and feel fresh.

On a ship every modern comfort is yours. There's a good deal of walking but you are happy for the exercise. Meals are wonderful, service superlative. If you wish for as much as an aspirin they practically offer to swallow it for you!

In fact I bet they would.

Our Candidate for Governor

Nebraska Republicans looked over a handsome field of gubernatorial material in Lincoln last weekend.

There were admiring words for Robert Denney, state Republican chairman: he has staunch friends. Many mentioned Senator Richard Marvel as good material for governor, and cited his work as chairman of the legislative budget committee.

Dwight Burney holds the respect and friendship of a large segment of Nebraskans but they are forced to admit his 74 years are not in his favor. This is too bad when so many of those years have been spent in advancing the public interest.

But Ord has a native son who is respected and quoted widely, who is well known over the state. Ralph Misko made a multitude of friends as president of the State Chamber of Commerce. He is making history in Nebraska banking circles with his fair but thorough conduct of the state department of banking. And it has not been an easy job, with large scandals popping forth in several Nebraska towns. Bartlett and Gresham are two.

Both Ord and Nebraska could be mighty proud of Ralph Misko as governor.

Questions About the Hospital Auxiliary

1) Who belongs to the Hospital Auxiliary? Any woman who is sympathetic with the aims of the organization.

2) What are the aims of the organization? To provide volunteer service for the hospital either inside or outside its walls.

3) If I join, do I have to work in the hospital? No, you can be of assistance on committees and in other ways.

4) What are the dues? At present there are no dues. An enrollment fee of $1 is collected.

5) May I be an inactive member? Since we have no dues, an inactive member would serve no useful purpose. However, activity can be expressed in many ways and almost every woman would be able to help somehow.

6) Is fund-raising a part of the Auxiliary's work? A few hospital auxiliaries are organized with service in the hospital as the only objective but in our community, with a new hospital in view, there will be great need for furnishings and equipment.

7) When is Hospital Benefit Week? From March 18 to 23 inclusive.

8) What will be done with the proceeds of Hospital Benefit Week? This will be determined by Auxiliary members. A piece of needed equipment such as a hospital misroscope which costs in the neighborhood of $600 may be purchased or the money may be used for furnishing a room and for equipment the Auxiliary will use in the new hospital.

9) How can I support Hospital Benefit Week? By patronizing the activities which have been scheduled. They are:

March 13, 1:30 to 4 p.m., a card party in the Vets Club — tickets available.

March 18, 2 p.m., card party in the Masonic Basement—sold out.

March 19, 1:30 p.m., paint demonstration in Masonic Basement — no charge.

March 19, 8 p.m. style show in the High School Auditorium.

March 22 and 23, bake sale and white elephant sale in the Masonic Basement. Anyone can donate to these.

Missouri River Tiff Draws Officialdom To Parley March 16

Nebraska and South Dakota officials will meet at Gavins Point Dam March 16 in an effort to settle a boundary dispute between the two states over fishing privileges on the Missouri River and particularly in the Gavins Point area.

Both governors will attend the meeting, a followup to one held by Nebraska and South Dakota officials in Lincoln last week.

Attending the initial meeting were Governor Morrison, Attorney General Clarence Meyer and Nebraska Game Commission Directer Attorney General Frank Farra and Game and Fish Department Director Walter J. Fillmore.

Steen told Fillmore the main area of dispute was the one directly below Gavins Point Dam which is "clearly and indisputably in Nebraska and you know it." The Nebraska commission announced late last year that starting this year all South Dakotans fishing in Nebraska waters would have to have a Nebraska permit. Steen later moved the deadline to April 1.

He said the action is in retaliation to South Dakota's law which forbids out-of-state residents from hunting migratory waterfowl.

Farrar said South Dakota residents in the Yankton area "are disturbed by this ultimatum" and have asked that the case be taken to the courts for settlement. This comment didn't seem to bother Steen who said he is sure the courst would rule in Nebraska's favor.

At this point Morrison said the matter is of "extreme importance to both states and it would be costly to carry out a court action, which probably would not be decided for several years." He said the states must work in "mutual accord and arrive at a sensible solution."

When Farrar said Nebraska was taking out its "spite" on South Dakota, Steen said, "we are only exercising our rights. During the past few years we have bent over backwards to cooperate with your state, but have not received the same treatment." He said permitting South Dakotans to fish in Nebraska waters without Nebraska permits is costing "our state some $200,000 in revenue annually."

Kill Safety Bill

The Legislature has killed on a 23-12 vote a bill calling for use of reflectorized material in motor vehicle license plates.

When the lawmakers gave the proposal the ax, it came as something of a surprise since the bill had not run into serious difficulty previously. Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff has indicated he will seek to revive the measure at a later date.

Sen. Dale Payne of Papillion, who made the motion to kill, said use of the reflectorized material would cost the state from $1.5 to $2 million during the next 10 years. This contention was disputed by Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth who said the switch to the new type plates would have cost very little. He noted the legislators had earlier agreed to issuance of plates only once every four years starting after the celebration of the Nebraska Centennial.

Some of the senators said construction of more hard-surfaced roads would do much more to cut down traffic accidents and deaths than use of reflectorized plates.

The bill had the strong backing of safety officials.

The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) has given Frontier Airlines permission to continue flights to six Nebraska cities that had been threatened with loss of service.

The CAB said Frontier should continue service temporarily to Alliance, Chadron, Hastings, Kearneyl McCook, and Sidney, pending a board decision on continuation or termination after July 1.

The decision overrode a previous ruling by CAB examiner Barron Fredricks, who said the six communities had failed to meet the CAB's "use it or ose it" policy requiring a minimum traffic standard of five emplaned passengers daily.

The CAB, however, upheld the decision revising many Frontier routes, including termination of service to Sterling, Colo., and Beatrice, Neb., and the dropping of Imperial, Sidney and Sterling from Frontier's Omaha-Denver route.

James Sandstedt, director of the Nebraska Aeronautics Department, said the decision "will give us a chance to re-emphasize our efforts to promote a positive traffic stimulation program in these communities."

He noted also that the CAB has given Columbus an opportunity to have its bid for local air service reviewed again. Until Aug. 15 was given for filing of briefs on the Columbus request.

Sandstedt warned that only through an aggressive city, state and airline effort "will Nebraska be able to retain its airline service."

Large Crowds at Hearings

The largest crowd of the current legislative session turned up for a bill which would repeal a Nebraska statute forbidding marriages between white persons and those possessed of one-eighth or more Negro, Japanese or Chinese blood.

Similar bills have been killed with regularity in committee in recent sessions. This time, however, the measure was advanced to the floor of the Unicameral where it is expected to stand a good chance at passage.

The bill was moved out of the Judiciary Committee on a 4-3 vote after an effort to get it killed failed when it mustered only three votes.

Another large crowd was on hand when the Labor and Public Welfare Committee took testimony on a bill to prevent abuse of farmers and ranchers attempting to market commodities.

That bill also got committee approval. It seeks to include "the right to pursue farming and ranching enterprises in the lawful right to work statute and grant them protection during purchase of supplies or marketing of commodities."

During the public hearing, frequent reference was made to the actions of the National Framers Organization (NFO) during last year's livestock holding action.

Earl Luff, speaking for the Nebraska Chambers of Commerce and Associated Industries, said "when the original law was written, agriculture was overlooked. No one dreamed the problems which have faced the agricultural industry in recent months would ever come about."

He said, "Conditions are created that breed gangster-like violence endangering lives and property. The force of a clear and positive law is needed to discourage those who would indulge in such activity."

Sen. T. C. Reeves of Central City, introducer of the bill, said it "will not eliminate holding practices as NFO carried out but will control them. Anyone who harvests a crop or raises livestock should have access to the market."

Among those speaking against the bill was Sen. Carpenter. He said that "farmers are just like everyone else, only more so. They're dissatisfied and no fence such as this legislation will hold them in."

The hearing on the bill packed the East Senate Chamber and partially filled the balconies.

THE WORLD'S largest drag bucket, a recently completed 94-ton monster the size of a two-car garage, was quickly joined together with the unique Dual Shield arc welding process, reports NCG, using more than 3,000 pounds of electrode wire (about 30 miles of it). Slung from a 275-foot boom, the bucket will rip away dirt and rocks at 125 tons a bite, uncovering veins of coal in a Kentucky strip mine.

KERRY ON

Prophesy

"I see very little hope for prohibition from the coming generation if they are all like my new grandson, Kerry. His tendencies are unmistakable." — H. D. Leggett in Ord Quiz, January, 1934.

Thanks to the keen eye of Editor Al Darr, I found this note copied out of one of the old issues of The Quiz and laid on my desk a few weeks ago.

Grandpa sure had an uncanny sense of prophesying future happenings, if he made that statement in any seriousness. For little did he know that his grandson went on to drink the world dry, only to find out that the distillers were working on 24-hour shifts.

I missed it last week, when it was National Pencil, but I was going to suggest that you all get the lead out. I don't know why the graphite people haven't cooked up a slogan to that effect.

This week it's National Smile Week. So, SMILE. And keep it that way right through March 9, because that's how long it lasts.

Then you can start saving up for March 17. For those that don't get enough on St. Patrick's Day, that's also the beginning of National Wildlife Week. I assume they start that week on St. Pat's for a very good reason.

Sitting at Carol's dining room table last week, I picked up an object and began rolling it back and forth between my fingers. — a nervous habit of mine and Captain Quigg's.

Sheri, her 5-year old, looked up at me and said, "That's what kangaroos eat."

"What . . . what do kangaroos eat?" I questioned, both startled by her statement and curious as to why she would make it out of the clear blue sky.

"These things you have in your hand," she replied.

Looking between my fingers, I noticed I had picked up a small spring!

So if you see me going down the street singing, "Yogi Bear is smarter than the average bear," it's because I've been watching tv to learn all those things I missed out on so long ago.

Dear Mrs. Leggett:

I remember Ord's first electricity was always off all day Sunday, and it quit at 11 o'clock at night during the week.

John Work Jr., made a trip to Chicago and bought three used cars, S. S. Brown bought one, George Parkins one and I can't remember who got the third. Dr. Shepard had about the first car. One rainy Sunday afternoon we took the telephone book, country and town, and could count about 65 cars, thought that was wonderful.

Carl, my husband, said as a kid if George Eret wasn't busy you could slip in the barber shop and hear the most wonderful music. Antonia Mason married Willy Wisda, Eret's wife was a Mason and she looked fine at the piano when he played the violin.

Well, we take Phoenix, Mesa, Scottsbluff dailies, Kimball weekly now the Quiz today. But I even look at the ads, Misko's and so many names still sound good.

Wrigley is here, they say the Cubs have a coach for every two players. This is the winter home of the Cubs. Scottsdale, Casa Grande, Chandler all have teams practicing here. Also Apache Junction, I believe the Houston Colts are there.

I'm for Jack Nicklaus in golf, only 23. Of course Carl is for Palmer: that makes home pleasant.

Bill, our son, left Ord when he was not quite four and a half. He never sees anything in state papers but what he sends us. I spied a 47 license, it was Gregory's and parents before they were married. Pierce's. We knew Gregory's parents before they were married.

I think Carl and Frank Johnson both were in high school under Horace Davis, believe Hussey was the principal. He married John Carson's daughter (Hugh's grandfather).

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hallock were here last week. Three other nieces married Ord men, Sam Perkins, Keith Lewis, Lloyd Parks, oh yes and Sybil married George Allen. So Ord can't be forgotten.

I would just as soon stay here the year around, every thing is air conditioned, cars, homes, schools, stores, churches.

Fannie Sutton Johnson.
Mesa, Airz.

Arcadia

Boy Scouts Hike Historic Trail

By Hope Crist

Five boys of the Arcadia patrol of the Comstock Boy Scout Troop 64 went with Rev. Leonard Hartwig to Central City to hike an approved trail Saturday. The Lone Tree Trail is 17 miles long and is the second one hiked by the Arcadia patrol. Each received the coveted patch and medal for hiking it. They have also hiked the Prairie Schooner trail, which is 14.5 miles long and has a ptach and medal award.

The boys were: David Tuning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Tuning; Dale Hartwig, son of Rev. and Mrs. Leonard Hartwig; Richard Luedtke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Luedtke; Douglas Masters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Masters, and Con Shultz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Schultz.

These trails are located in the heart of Pawnee Indian Territory, and follow along the routes of the Oregon and California Trails. As early as 1833 Lone Tree was known to trappers and mountain men. In 1840 a Council of Plains Indians was held there. By 1850 this solitary cottonwood, which was visible for 20 miles, had become a famous landmark on the overland trails west. Some of the original ruts left by the Prairie Schooners of the Forty Niners are still visible. By 1858 the Western Stage Coach Company established a station at Lone Tree on its westward route.

Attention: Mr. Virgil Bennett

It has come to our attention that some of the local newspapers around your area published an article recently relative to the decision handed down by the Courts with reference to the Anti-trust suit.

In the newspaper article, unfortunately the Ordway, Colorado plant, which is one of the plants we must divest ourselves of, was published as a hyphenated word "Ord-way."

This undoubtedly impressed the Ord, Nebraska, people that the Ord, Nebraska, plant was among those we must divest ourselves of.

You are well aware we are spending thousands of dollars to increase the capacity and production facilities at the Ord, Nebraska plant, and we have no intentions of discontinuing or divesting ourselves of this plant.

Sincerely,
C. F. KUNCL, JR.

Bred for Leader School

Dedicated Dogs at Home in Valley

The puppies don't yet look like leaders — or even like good followers.

They don't know the meaning of responsibility and the world is their playground. But their future is well mapped —

E. P. "Spud" Kapustka of the Elyria Lions Club brought five young German shepherd dogs to Valley County Sunday, dogs with a future. They're all potential Leader Dogs for the Blind, destined to spend a year in the North Loup Valley, then to be screened for the most responsible post a dog can hold.

Unnamed as yet but destined, these German shepherds have a friend in John David Kapustka, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Kapustka of Elyria.

Year to Grow Up

Two of the puppies, pictured here, will grow to doghood at the Kapustka home. The other three will spend their first year at the Bonnie Keown home in North Loup, at the Orel Koelling farm in Mira Valley and at the Alfred Burson farm south of Ord.

The shepherds are literally bred for Leader work. Don Peterson of Sargent owns their parent dogs, both dedicated to this important Lions Club activity. All dogs that go to Rochester, Mich., to the Leader Dogs for the Blind School operated by the Lions, are freely contributed. None are purchased.

What are the Valley County puppies' chances of success in their appointed career? Less than 50 per cent of all dogs offered to the Michigan school have all the inherent qualities necessary to "graduate."

And there's only one way for them to graduate if they do — with honors.

All Leader Dogs must be fairly good looking animals (the puppies qualify there). They must be positively friendly to people, even to strangers. They must be between one and two years old, healthy, willing and able.

Bureau Report Clears Air —

Fullerton Reservoir 'Unfeasible'

The Bureau of Reclamation today released a report showing results of a reconnaissance investigation of the feasibility of creating reservoir storage on the Loup River between Fullerton and St. Paul.

These investigations made by the Bureau of Reclamation and other Federal agencies show infeasibility where estimated project costs would exceed expected benefits by a two-to-one margin. Cost of the project was estimated to be $67,400,000.

Low Benefit-Cost

The economic analysis based on a 100-year period shows that expected annual costs for the project would be $2,235,800. Benefits would be $1,170,700 annually, including benefits which would accrue due to the effect of the construction activity on underemployment conditions now existing in the area. The benefit-cost ratio was computed as 0.53 to 1.00.

Henry Lange, president of the Twin Loups Reclamation District, expressed firm hope today that the Bureau report would clear the air once and for all and preclude attempts to link a Fullerton reservoir project with the veteran Twin Loups project here.

Lange and probably Cy Shaughnessy of St. Paul will travel to Washington soon to see about speeding a Congressional hearing on Twin Loups, already approved by the Bureau of Reclamation and by the Budget Bureau.

Lange said fears of downriver groundwater depletion are not shared either by Gene Reed, state water expert, or by the major cities affected east of Columbus. The cities, including Grand Island, have together approved a bill soon to be introduced to permit municipal wells in outlying farm areas and thus to legalize their position. LB 440, which would give groundwater half a mile from a stream the status of surface water, will likely be withdrawn.

As for the Twin Loups project's feasibility status, Lange said it's now figured at something like 3 3 to 1. Cost of the project is estimated at about $44 million.

The Fullerton dam project was originally proposed by officials of the Loup River Public Power District and the Lower Loup-Platte Water Association. They, together with a number of other individuals and public organizations, sought funds from the Congress and these were made available to the Bureau of Reclamation late in 1961 to investigate the proposal. The Corps of Engineers, Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, and the National Park Service studied the requirements and evaluated benefits for flood control, fish, wildlife and recreation.

Plans outlined in the report called for a large dam and reservoir southwest of Fullerton, a power canal and two associated new powerplants, one at the dam and one at the end of the power canal just above the Loup River Public Power District's Genoa Diversion Dam. The dam would be a rolled earthfill structure, 105 feet high and 3½ miles long. Three dikes along the south rim would have a combined length of ¾ mile. The reservoir would be 4.5 miles wide and 18 miles long, varying from nearly 34,000 acres in area at maximum water surface, down to about 11,000 acres at minimum water surface. It would provide a large area of water for fishing and other recreational purposes, but relatively few good recreational development sites due to extensive shoreline fluctuations in the shallow portions of the reservoir.

Large quantities of sediment now transported by the river would be caught and stored in the reservoir. Flood flows could be held for release under controlled con-

Six Red Smiths

There are six Reds at the Walt Smith home, where Mrs. Smith, Karen, 6, Peggy, 5, Kathy, 3, Jimmy, 2 and Ann Marie, who is one, all have scarlet fever.

Temperatures are going down a little, but Walt Smith still has his job as cook. "I'm a pretty good cook, too," he admits with a grin as he pats his expansive middle.

The family is not quarantined. Shots take care of it without risking infection for others, and the days of sealed houses are no more.

Salt, Pepper, Coffee Have to Be Imported

The Chamber of Commerce annual banquet Sunday evening will feature an all-Valley County grown dinner. A fine menu has been planned by the Catholic ladies of Circles 1 and 2.

The bill of fare will feature that good Nebraska product, beef, which will be served Swiss steak style with those old favorites, mashed potatoes and gravy. Corn and beets are the vegetables chosen, and the perfection salad includes chopped cabbage and carrots in its gelatine heart. Rolls and butter are locally produced. The relish plate will include deviled eggs, Valley County produced.

At dessert time there will be a choice of apple pie or cherry pie, said Mrs. Don Edwards, president of all the Catholic circles this year.

"Only the salt, pepper and the coffee have to be added from out of our area," said Lynn Chichester. "All else is grown right here at home."

Chichester and Clark Yanda are co-chairmen for the event.

Mel Steen of the State Game Commission will be the speaker and is expected to draw a large crowd.

There will be a chance to see the fine new film "This in Nebraska-land" for which Ak-Sar-Ben paid the $10,000 tab.

The time is 6:30 p.m. and the place St. Mary's Auditorium.

Tana Svoboda of Burwell's yell squad is jubilant, Coach Bill Dickey of Ord is pensive and Dr. Ben Meckel of Burwell has his work cut out for him scavengering the win side net (the Burwellites paid for the net in advance).

Broken Bow Test Season's Best

Cagers Stopped at Gateway to State

Ord's young Chanticleers came within one nervous night last week of qualifying for state tournament competition.

The Chants turned in their best game of the season Thursday against Broken Bow. Four team members scored in two figures and the final score was a resounding 72-54 over the Indians. Sophomores Rich Osentowski and Mike Zulkoski fired from the rim with devastating accuracy, notching 19 and 14 points respectively. Closely guarded Charlie Fox and Abbie Cetak came through with five field goals and three charity tosses apiece, and the 13 odd points left were credited to six other squad members.

Never Behind

Ord led in that semifinal contest 17-11 at the quarter, 33-23 at halftime and 72-54 at the third period mark. Big George Kovar was ejected from the game in the last period for sassing the referee.

Burwell's semifinal go against Ainsworth was no pushover. Some observers judged that if the Bulldog guards had taken more shots they could have closed the narrow gap in the second half and pulled off an upset. As it was, Burwell's veteran sharpshooters managed a 65-59 victory, Joe Hoppes connecting for 31 points overall. Mick Ashman, who seemed off his game, scored 15 but was not rebounding the way he can — and the way he did against Ord Friday.

The Chants were plagued by fumbles, bad passes and missed rebound opportunities in the first half Friday, yet still managed to hold the Longhorns to 11 field goals and a 29-21 halftime lead. Osentowski scored three of his four field goals in the first quarter and Ord dragged by only 11-13 going into the second chapter.

Charlie Fox turned in four of his seven field goals in the third period but the Chants were faced with an increasingly accurate Joe Hoppes, senior Longhorn guard, plus

Wildcats Bumped in Fantastic Cage Duel

North Loup-Scotia's Wildcats were edged at Albion last Wednesday night in their bid for a Class C State Tourney berth.

The Cats dropped their 28-30 heartbreaker to Stanton after leading 14-10 at the quarter mark 23-16 at halftime and 25-21 after three quarters of play. Coach Jim Bower's crew scored only five points in the second half while Stanton crept by with the winning field goal.

The Wildcats ended the season at the regional playoff with an 18-4 record.

Coach Bill Surface's NL-S 9th grade squad nearly upset Sargent last week in the Junior High Tourney but lost in the closing minutes 26-23.

Ord Chamber Says Yes To Some Type Zoning

Chamber of Commerce directors heard a stimulating discussion of Ord problems Tuesday evening at their dinner meeting. Probably the most important decision of the session was the vote to favor "some form of zoning for Ord." The step was taken after talking over many pros and cons. Dr. F. J. Osentowski made the motion, seconded by George Knecht.

No existing business can be zoned away or changed, Dr. Paul Lambert pointed out. He also stated that highways cannot be subject to zoning. Zoning can be effective as much as one half mile from the city limits, however. It is difficult and delicate to handle zoning so that it does not hurt some business or residential property, but it is a modern business must, Chamber members were told by Jay Auble.

Final details of the annual banquet were planned. Tickets are selling fast. Mel Steen is to talk and Senator and Mrs. Leroy Bahensky will attend. Catholic ladies have planned an All Valley County dinner which will begin at 6:30 p.m. on the dot for the benefit of those who wish to go on to the Jaycee dance later Sunday.

Starling Lee and the retail committee worked over the business calendar for the year, trying to please everyone. Stores will be closed the same days, and Veteran's Day has been added to the list. Turkey day will not be held so this money will be available to add to the barbecue, which will likely be held in the third week of September.

The Easter egg roll will be limited to smaller children and they will be given a head start. No adults may take part. Dollar days and Crazy days came in for favorable comment.

Nearly all those present went on record as favoring Sunday store closings. Small retail business in smaller cities seldom profits by staying open: "it is only a matter of planning. The customer doesn't plan to buy sox or suits on a Sunday."

Broken Bow Chamber wrote asking for support in obtaining a trade school there. It was voted to support the request of the neighbor city.

The need for getting all Ord signs in place at once was brought up. Syl Furtak has 18 more ready to erect as soon as the ground softens, which might be any day now. The Business and Professional Club have four large ones ready to post, also a number of smaller signs directing travelers to park, pool and so on.

Karre Calls Open Dump Forum

Ord Mayor Dale Karre today announced a special public meeting Monday night at the City Hall to discuss the new city dump, its operation and management.

Mayor Karre termed it highly important that everyone with a constructive suggestion regarding the dump be on hand for the 7:30 meeting Monday.

Among things to be discussed will be the proposed franchise for a hauler, whereby only one firm will be permitted to haul garbage for hire; dumping regulations to prevent the sort of mess pictured above; and the actual mechanics of carrying out the landfill system.

The entire City Council is expected to be on hand.

Work Needed

Concerning preparations needed to put the new dump into operation, Mayor Karre said the road north past Skinny Wilson's will have to be improved and graveled and the bridge across the creek strengthened.

Farwell project authorities began diverting water from the Middle Loup River Monday, beginning with a flow of 50 cubic feet per second. The flow will be increased to 400 second feet and by the early part of May the reservoir will be high.

The precise time it will take to fill the lake is difficult to determine, according to Kenneth Powers, project engineer, because the shore line will soak up an indeterminate quantity. Project engineers anticipate no difficulties, however, and expect a respectable body of water for the June 9 dedication.

The reservoir soaked up about nine feet of water over the winter, Powers said.

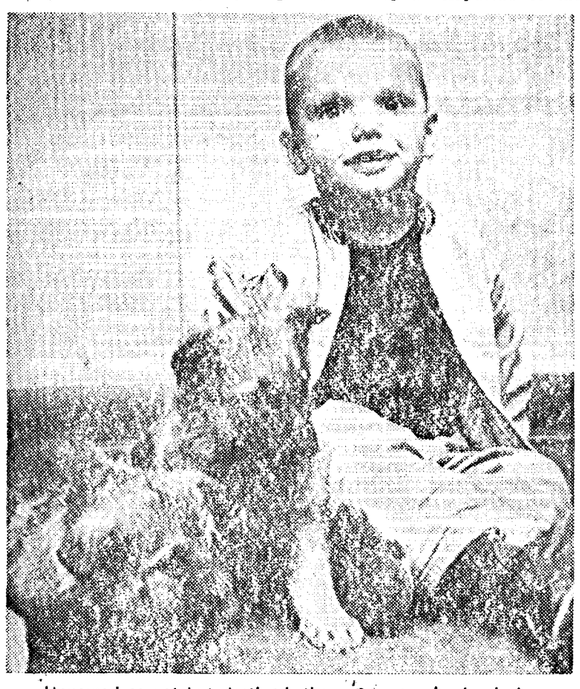
Bred for Leader School

Dedicated Dogs at Home in Valley

The puppies don't yet look like leaders — or even like good followers.

They don't know the meaning of responsibility and the world is their playground. But their future is well mapped —

E. P. "Spud" Kapustka of the Elyria Lions Club brought five young German shepherd dogs to Valley County Sunday, dogs with a future. They're all potential Leader Dogs for the Blind, destined to spend a year in the North Loup Valley, then to be screened for the most responsible post a dog can hold.



Unnamed as yet but destined, these German shepherds have a friend in John David Kapustka, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Kapustka of Elyria.

Year to Grow Up

Two of the puppies, pictured here, will grow to doghood at the Kapustka home. The other three will spend their first year at the Bonnie Keown home in North Loup, at the Orel Koelling farm in Mira Valley and at the Alfred Burson farm south of Ord.

The shepherds are literally bred for Leader work. Don Peterson of Sargent owns their parent dogs, both dedicated to this important Lions Club activity. All dogs that go to Rochester, Mich., to the Leader Dogs for the Blind School operated by the Lions, are freely contributed. None are purchased.

What are the Valley County puppies' chances of success in their appointed career? Less than 50 per cent of all dogs offered to the Michigan school have all the inherent qualities necessary to "graduate."

And there's only one way for them to graduate if they do — with honors.

All Leader Dogs must be fairly good looking animals (the puppies qualify there). They must be positively friendly to people, even to strangers. They must be between one and two years old, healthy, willing and able.

Saturday Is D-Day

Spellers Off and Runing

More than 40 boys and girls are boning madly this week, preparing for the countywide spelling contest to be held Saturday, March 16, at the high school cafeteria.

Words will be tossed at the young spellers promptly at 10 a.m. County Superintendent Margaret Tolbert has been busily preparing lists of words this week. Mrs. Jewel Buoy will pronounce the words, Mrs. Tolbert and Mrs. Leonard Cronk will act as judges.

The Chamber of Commerce is buying lunch for the contestants at noon, as it usually does.

The Ord Quiz is offering a $25 bond to the winner who must go on to Omaha to compete in the Midwest contest there which is set for April 20. The winner of the Midwest meet is eligible to compete at Washington, D. C. in the national spelling contest this spring.

Wildcats Bumped in Fantastic Cage Duel

North Loup-Scotia's Wildcats were edged at Albion last Wednesday night in their bid for a Class C State Tourney berth.

The Cats dropped their 28-30 heartbreaker to Stanton after leading 14-10 at the quarter mark 23-16 at halftime and 25-21 after three quarters of play. Coach Jim Bower's crew scored only five points in the second half while Stanton crept by with the winning field goal.

The Wildcats ended the season at the regional playoff with an 18-4 record.

To Help Hospital

A color clinic co-sponsored by Koupal and Barstow and St. John's Lutheran Ladies Aid Society will be held at the Masonic basement on Tuesday, March 19, at 1:30. There will be door prizes and refreshments. For each adult registered the hospital fund will be .25c richer and best of all its free.

Young Couples Set For Red Cross Drive

Getting busy on the Red Cross drive Friday evening will be Mrs. Ken Clement and Mrs. Sam Grimminger and the young couples who have agreed to help them.

The two Ord young women agreed to take charge of the canvass of residential Ord. They will start their door to door visits at 6:30 and hope to finish by 9 p.m. Friday.

Dr. Glen Auble will be in charge of soliciting Red Cross funds in the business district, announces Mrs. Orin Kellison, publicity chairman. Merrill Mason is drive chairman for 1963.

Syl's Motor, Cap's Auto Plan May Moves

Syl's Motor and Gun Shop will be moving to different quarters May 1.

Syl Shotkoski, owner and operator of the shop west of the Ord Bowl said he had negotiated for the purchase of Cap Nelson's Nelson Auto Company site on the Anderson corner. Shotkoski listed convenience as the prime reason for the move. . . . . .

Nelson will move his used car and shop facilities out west on Highway 11 where Bob White formerly operated a body shop.

Karre Calls Open Dump Forum

Ord Mayor Dale Karre today announced a special public meeting Monday night at the City Hall to discuss the new city dump, its operation and management.

Mayor Karre termed it highly important that everyone with a constructive suggestion regarding the dump be on hand for the 7:30 meeting Monday.

Among things to be discussed will be the proposed franchise for a hauler, whereby only one firm will be permitted to haul garbage for hire; dumping regulations to prevent the sort of mess pictured above; and the actual mechanics of carrying out the landfill system.

The entire City Council is expected to be on hand.

Work Needed

Concerning preparations needed to put the new dump into operation, Mayor Karre said the road north past Skinny Wilson's will have to be improved and graveled and the bridge across the creek strengthened.

The dump site will undoubtedly

Fullerton Reservoir 'Unfeasible'

The Bureau of Reclamation today released a report showing results of a reconnaissance investigation of the feasibility of creating reservoir storage on the Loup River between Fullerton and St. Paul.

These investigations made by the Bureau of Reclamation and other Federal agencies show infeasibility where estimated project costs would exceed expected benefits by a two-to-one margin. Cost of the project was estimated to be $67,400,000.

Low Benefit-Cost

The economic analysis based on a 100-year period shows that expected annual costs for the project would be $2,235,800. Benefits would be $1,170,700 annually, including benefits which would accrue due to the effect of the construction activity on underemployment conditions now existing in the area. The benefit-cost ratio was computed as 0.53 to 1.00.

Henry Lange, president of the Twin Loups Reclamation District, expressed firm hope today that the Bureau report would clear the air once and for all and preclude attempts to link a Fullerton reservoir project with the veteran Twin Loups project here.

Lange and probably Cy Shaughnessy of St. Paul will travel to Washington soon to see about speeding a Congressional hearing on Twin Loups, already approved by the Bureau of Reclamation and by the Budget Bureau.

Lange said fears of downriver groundwater depletion are not shared either by Gene Reed, state water expert, or by the major cities affected east of Columbus. The cities, including Grand Island, have together approved a bill soon to be introduced to permit municipal wells in outlying farm areas and thus to legalize their position. LB 440, which would give groundwater half a mile from a stream the status of surface water, will likely be withdrawn.

As for the Twin Loups project's feasibility status, Lange said it's now figured at something like 3 3 to 1. Cost of the project is estimated at about $44 million.

The Fullerton dam project was originally proposed by officials of the Loup River Public Power District and the Lower Loup-Platte Water Association. They, together with a number of other individuals and public organizations, sought funds from the Congress and these were made available to the Bureau of Reclamation late in 1961 to investigate the proposal. The Corps of Engineers, Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, and the National Park Service studied the requirements and evaluated benefits for flood control, fish, wildlife and recreation.

Plans outlined in the report called for a large dam and reservoir southwest of Fullerton, a power canal and two associated new powerplants, one at the dam and one at the end of the power canal just above the Loup River Public Power District's Genoa Diversion Dam. The dam would be a rolled earthfill structure, 105 feet high and 3½ miles long. Three dikes along the south rim would have a combined length of ¾ mile. The reservoir would be 4-5 miles wide and 18 miles long, varying from nearly 34,000 acres in area at maximum water surface, down to about 11,000 acres at minimum water surface. It would provide a large area of water for fishing and other recreational purposes, but relatively few good recreational development sites due to extensive shoreline fluctuations in the shallow portions of the reservoir.

Large quantities of sediment now transported by the river would be caught and stored in the reservoir. Flood flows could be held for release under controlled con-

Six Red Smiths

There are six Reds at the Walt Smith home, where Mrs. Smith, Karen, 6, Peggy, 5, Kathy, 3, Jimmy, 2 and Ann Marie, who is one, all have scarlet fever.

Temperatures are going down a little, but Walt Smith still has his job as cook. "I'm a pretty good cook, too," he admits with a grin as he pats his expansive middle.

The family is not quarantined. Shots take care of it without risking infection for others, and the days of sealed houses are no more.

Salt, Pepper, Coffee Have to Be Imported

The Chamber of Commerce annual banquet Sunday evening will feature an all-Valley County grown dinner. A fine menu has been planned by the Catholic ladies of Circles 1 and 2.

The bill of fare will feature that good Nebraska product, beef, which will be served Swiss steak style with those old favorites, mashed potatoes and gravy. Corn and beets are the vegetables chosen, and the perfection salad includes chopped cabbage and carrots in its gelatine heart. Rolls and butter are locally produced. The relish plate will include deviled eggs, Valley County produced.

At dessert time there will be a choice of apple pie or cherry pie, said Mrs. Don Edwards, president of all the Catholic circles this year.

"Only the salt, pepper and the coffee have to be added from out of our area," said Lynn Chichester. "All else is grown right here at home."

Chichester and Clark Yanda are co-chairmen for the event.

Mel Steen of the State Game Commission will be the speaker and is expected to draw a large crowd.

There will be a chance to see the fine new film "This in Nebraska-land" for which Ak-Sar-Ben paid the $10,000 tab.

The time is 6:30 p.m. and the place St. Mary's Auditorium.

Broken Bow Test Season's Best

Cagers Stopped at Gateway to State

Ord's young Chanticleers came within one nervous night last week of qualifying for state tournament competition.

The Chants turned in their best game of the season Thursday against Broken Bow. Four team members scored in two figures and the final score was a resounding 72-54 over the Indians. Sophomores Rich Osentowski and Mike Zulkoski fired from the rim with devastating accuracy, notching 19 and 14 points respectively. Closely guarded Charlie Fox and Abbie Cetak came through with five field goals and three charity tosses apiece, and the 13 odd points left were credited to six other squad members.

Never Behind

Ord led in that semifinal contest 17-11 at the quarter, 33-23 at halftime and 72-54 at the third period mark. Big George Kovar was ejected from the game in the last period for sassing the referee.

Burwell's semifinal go against Ainsworth was no pushover. Some observers judged that if the Bulldog guards had taken more shots they could have closed the narrow gap in the second half and pulled off an upset. As it was, Burwell's veteran sharpshooters managed a 65-59 victory, Joe Hoppes connecting for 31 points overall. Mick Ashman, who seemed off his game, scored 15 but was not rebounding the way he can — and the way he did against Ord Friday.

The Chants were plagued by fumbles, bad passes and missed rebound opportunities in the first half Friday, yet still managed to hold the Longhorns to 11 field goals and a 29-21 halftime lead. Osentowski scored three of his four field goals in the first quarter and Ord dragged by only 11-13 going into the second chapter.

Charlie Fox turned in four of his seven field goals in the third period but the Chants were faced with an increasingly accurate Joe Hoppes, senior Longhorn guard, plus

Feeder Canal Is On; Boat Water by May

Sherman Lake is filling up again.

Farwell project authorities began diverting water from the Middle Loup River Monday, beginning with a flow of 50 cubic feet per second. The flow will be increased to 400 second feet and by the early part of May the reservoir will be high.

The precise time it will take to fill the lake is difficult to determine, according to Kenneth Powers, project engineer, because the shore line will soak up an indeterminate quantity. The reservoir soaked up about nine feet of water over the winter, Powers said.

Ord Chamber Says Yes To Some Type Zoning

Chamber of Commerce directors heard a stimulating discussion of Ord problems Tuesday evening at their dinner meeting. Probably the most important decision of the session was the vote to favor "some form of zoning for Ord." The step was taken after talking over many pros and cons. Dr. F. J. Osentowski made the motion, seconded by George Knecht.

No existing business can be zoned away or changed, Dr. Paul Lambert pointed out. He also stated that highways cannot be subject to zoning. Zoning can be effective as much as one half mile from the city limits, however. It is difficult and delicate to handle zoning so that it does not hurt some business or residential property, but it is a modern business must, Chamber members were told by Jay Auble.

Final details of the annual banquet were planned. Tickets are selling fast. Mel Steen is to talk and Senator and Mrs. Leroy Bahensky will attend. Catholic ladies have planned an All Valley County dinner which will begin at 6:30 p.m. on the dot for the benefit of those who wish to go on to the Jaycee dance later Sunday.

Starling Lee and the retail committee worked over the business calendar for the year, trying to please everyone. Stores will be closed the same days, and Veteran's Day has been added to the list. Turkey day will not be held so this money will be available to add to the barbecue, which will likely be held in the third week of September.

The Easter egg roll will be limited to smaller children and they will be given a head start. No adults may take part. Dollar days and Crazy days came in for favorable comment.

Nearly all those present went on record as favoring Sunday store closings. Small retail business in smaller cities seldom profits by staying open: "it is only a matter of planning. The customer doesn't plan to buy sox or suits on a Sunday."

Broken Bow Chamber wrote asking for support in obtaining a trade school there. It was voted to support the request of the neighbor city.

The need for getting all Ord signs in place at once was brought up. Syl Furtak has 18 more ready to erect as soon as the ground softens, which might be any day now. The Business and Professional Club have four large ones ready to post, also a number of smaller signs directing travelers to park, pool and so on.

Carol Leininger

Carol Leininger To Girls State

Miss Carol Leininger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Leininger, has been chosen by the American Legion Auxiliary to represent Arcadia at the 22nd Annual Cornhusker Girl's State this summer in Lincoln June 15-21.

She is among 225 girls from Nebraska who will observe the problems of state government first hand. They are all high school juniors and must be in the upper half of their class. Luana Maxson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Maxson, is her alternate.

Pretty Timotha Cronk is mystified by egg trick as Prestidigitator Zlomke appears to bone up on how the trick is done. The girls were all elated, even though Timmy failed to get a hairful of egg.

Bright Minds Linked By Common Ord Bonds

If intelligence is contagious, Ord seems to be having a small epidemic, wrote the NU News Service this week.

Three students from Ord ranked in the upper six per cent of the honors grade list — all grade averages above 8 — at the University of Nebraska for the first semester.

The Ord students are Chery Wagner, Steve Kellison and Jim McCall.

Not only do they share the same hometown and scholastic honors, the three are further linked together by coincidence.

Neighbors

Steve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orin A. Kellison, 2511 J, lives across the street from Jim, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McCall reside at 2316 J.

And Chery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Wagner, 1905 O, is engaged to Steve. They plan to be married in June.

The three were graduated from Ord High School in three consecutive years, 1960, 1961 and 1962. All received Regents scholarships.

Besides these scholarships, the Ord students have been recognized for outstanding scholastic ability in other ways.

Chery, a freshman majoring in English in the College of Arts and Sciences, was valedictorian of her high school class, and received a National Honor Society Scholarship. She is taking honors courses in English and history this year.

Steve, also class valedictorian, was a National Merit scholar. He will graduate from the University in June, taking only three years to do so. Majoring in economics, he plans to join an insurance company as an actuary upon graduation.

Steve is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men's honorary, and Pi Mu Epsilon, mathematics honorary society.

Jim is majoring in mathematics at the University, and has been a participant in NU's honors math program. A junior, he will graduate in mid-term 1965, after which he plans to attend graduate school. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma and German Club.

"Really, we don't know why," was their comment to why Ord has such a good percentage of top scholars. They agreed that their educational background was sound, especially that "the social studies department at Ord was excellent."

Mark Makes His Mark In California School

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Auble were happy to receive news their grandson, Mark Auble has qualified for membership in the California Scholarship federation by maintaining an average of B plus grades or better. He is a sophomore at Lincoln High, where 750 are enrolled. This will smooth the way when Mark is ready to enter college.

Mark also pleased his grandfather when he came out eighth in the golf competition in a large field of players. Mark is the son of Don Auble and the former Arvella Suchanek.

Celebrate 46th

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Houser were surprised last Thursday evening on their 46th anniversary by Mr. and Mrs. Walt Dobson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. Murrey Nelson and Mrs. Phil Mrsny.

Lunch was brought by the guests and Mr. and Mrs. Don Wiberg of Omaha sent a beautiful cake baked by Clara Wiberg of Burwell. Another daughter, Mrs. Jack Halvey of Kansas City, and sons Franklin and Burdette of California called to wish their parents a happy anniversary.

Sharon's Side

Nervous Days Ahead For Sober Seniors

By Sharon Rysavy

"March coming in like a lion doesn't bother us; it's that hanging around like a polar bear that's depressing."

This short quote from the Reader's Digest was the first thing that shot into my mind this dreary morn. This old resident of sunny California especially dreads a day like today. Although the rain in my old state is often called "liquid sunshine," I will have to admit sometimes it looks and feels as miserable as Nebraska's.

One of the first things my Uncle Bill told me when I came back last year was to wait a few minutes and the weather will change. That's turning out to be true. The only problem is that it can also change for the worse!

Seriously, Nebraska weather is ideal if you think about it. Where else can you have a white Christmas and a red-hot Fourth of July with spurts of relief in between?

Equinox

Somebody once said, "When winter comes, spring can't be too far behind." It's slowly sneaking up on us, and before you know it flowers will be blooming and birds will fill the air with music.

It makes me happier just thinking about it.

The end of the third quarter is here. Seniors notice it more than anyone else, because it means that in two months they will face the outside world. Some will go to college, others will work, and still others face the challenge of marriage. It's scary!

The seniors have chosen their motto, and I personally think it is deeper in meaning than some give it credit for being. "Every person is the architect of his own future."

I never realized the truth until last night. Thinking over the past years at school, I finally came to understand how each thing I did made a lasting impression on my future. The good and the bad influence one's future, and the only chance one has is the hope that the good outweighs the bad.

Karol Burson was the proud recipient of a get-well card from her beau, Bob Kapustka. She wasn't sick till after she read it. May I quote: "Pain, pain, go away . . . Soon?"

Harold Smolik has chalked up another mark for the Sick Joke Club. Listening to the tape of Monday's recital, we noticed the faulty pronunciation of the word "wisdom." A girls' group pronounced it "weesdum" throughout the song. We all tried to figure out what it was supposed to signify, and always on the ball Smolik had the answer.

"Well, there's this bunch of girls and they're saying, 'We's dumb.'"

All I can say is how sick can you get?!

New Operator Insures No Waiting at Wilma's

"With our new operator there'll be no more waiting at either my shop or the House of Beauty," said Wilma Johnson, owner of both salons, as she announced the addition of a new operator this week.

Kathy Barnes, formerly of Elba and a niece of Mrs. Eva Parker of Ord, has replaced Donna Clevinger who moved to Colorado last week. Kathy will be employed in Wilma's home salon.

At the same time, Irene Connor, now working at Wilma's, will be transferred downtown to the House of Beauty. "This will give us two operators on duty at all times in both shops," Wilma said.

Wilma said she almost always is able to get ladies in immediately, but this should doubly insure patrons of "no waiting."

"We're tenatively planning on adding yet another beautician within the next three weeks," said Wilma. "But that will have to wait for future announcement."

So, if you're looking for "instant beauty" in Ord, call either 728-3809 for the House of Beauty or 728-3886 for Wilma's. They'll make a new woman out of you!

Congressman DAVE MARTIN Reports

Civilian employment reported by the executive agencies of the Federal Government as of January 1963 totalled 2,477,937. This payroll for the last six months of 1962 amounted to $7.6 billion, or a little over $1.3 billion per month. This is exclusive of the military — a pretty good sized payroll to meet each month.

Corn Call-In

We are having a considerable volume of mail from farmers regarding corn stored on their farms, who are concerned about the rumor that the Government is going to call in the 1958-1959-1960 and 1961 corn. There are 25.5 million bushels of 1959 corn stored on Nebraska farms — 74 million bushels in the United States.

In Nebraska there are 55 million bushels of the 1960 crop sealed in storage on Nebraska farms, and the total for the United States is 154 million bushels. There are 36 million bushels of corn stored on Nebraska farms of the 1961 crop, out of a total of 136 million bushels in the United States. All of the above figures concern only storage on the farm. They do not cover corn in commercial storage. I have written to Secretary of Agriculture Freeman in regard to this problem.

Beef Duty

I mentioned last week that I had introduced legislation to increase the duty on meat imported into the United States to a 25 per cent ad valorem rate. Importers of beef pay only 3 cents a pound duty. The figures of 1962 imports of dressed meat into this country have just been released — 1,700,000,000 pounds.

I am told that to feed the anials necessary to produce this amount of meat would have taken 500,000 bushels of corn. Thus, we not only lost the profit on the production and the feeding of these animals, but also a substantial amount of corn. Our cattle industry does not want government controls, and I agree with them on this stand. In addition, I feel that they are entitled to some protection from production from foreign countries.

A pamphlet just published by the Agriculture Department entitled, "Vertical Coordination in Agriculture" (Agricultural Economic Report No. 19) suggests that the cattle industry is ripe for more centralized control. The study suggests "startling changes" ahead with more professional management of volume, price and quality. The report indicates more farmers and Co-ops will "integrate" into processing and marketing, along with more non-farm businesses having livestock raised under contract.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK: The New Frontier fiscal program is based on the old theory that what you make on the ferris wheel, you lose on the merry-go-round, and it's time to get rid of that darn ferris wheel.

VISITORS FROM THE DISTRICT: Dr. Frank O. Raasch, Kearney; Larry Doyle, Heartwell.

Nebraska has over 40,000 people of foreign birth. The dominant foreign stocks are German, Czech, Swedish, and Russian. The Negro population is 29,262.

IN MEMORIAM

Frank Fryzek

In loving memory of our dear husband, father, grandfather, and great-grandfather who passed away two years ago.

We often think of those days when we were together,
Your loving smile and cheerful ways live in our hearts forever.
To your grave we often wander,
Flowers we place with tender care,
We feel your presence near us,
As we sadly linger there.
Your smiling ways and pleasant face are a pleasure to recall,
You had kind words for each and died beloved by all,
Someday we know not when,
to clasp your hand in better land,
Never to part again.

Your loving wife, Bessie,

Irrigation Meeting In North Loup Turns Up Salient Hints

Farmers who attended the meeting on Irrigation and Fertilizers sponsored by the North Loup Lions and Extension Service picked up some interesting bits of information last Thursday evening.

Paul Fischbach, irrigationist, reported on the status of the nitrate content in the groundwater. According to a statewide survey of wells in 1961, the areas of high nitrate content are confined for the most part to places where the groundwater table is fairly close to the surface.

Leaching

Fischbach also pointed out that nitrogen applied as a fertilizer can be leached out of the reach of plants by excess water. He suggested that irrigation practices be regulated to fit the condition on each field. For instance, where off-season irrigation is used to fill the profile with water, fertilizer application should be made after the irrigation so as not to flush the nitrogen to a depth below the root zone. The practice of fertilizing and irrigating alternate rows might also help save nitrogen on light soils of shallow depth.

" Clinton Hoover, agronomist, discussed the use of trace elements. Hoover said farmers should not get excited over the use of trace elements until they are pretty sure they need them. He then related instances of farmers in the state who had used such trace element fertilizers as boron indiscriminately and had damaging results. Boron is an excellent example because in a concentrated form it is used as a weed killer. No actual cases of Boron deficiency have been noted in Nebraska Hoover noted.

Zinc deficiencies, on the other hand, have been seen quite widely. They are most apt to show on corn on leveled fields, badly eroded sites or soils low in organic matter. They are also more likely to show up under favorable moisture conditions. A soil test is now available. Sulfur deficiencies have been found under certain conditions. They are most likely to occur on sandy soils, low in organic matter. A test plot in Loup County last year showed remarkable response to the application of sulfur. Not only was the yield of alfalfa higher but the protein content of the hay was much improved. Although a soil test can be run for sulfur, it is a very expensive process and not feasible at this time.

Iron deficiencies can also occur. East of us, soybean producers have encountered this difficulty. Here very little has been noted in field crops but it is not uncommon in lawns and certain shrub species.

Engineering Burse To Bob Kapustka

Bob Kapustka, announced last month as winner of an OHS state Regents scholarship, learned this week he is one of four future engineering students in the state to be awarded the new Hawksworth Memorial Scholarship.

The Hawksworth Memorial is worth $500 the first year, $750 the second year and $1,000 each of the last two years at the University of Nebraska. This will bring young Kapustka's total scholarship award to about $4,000 for the four years.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Kapustka of Elyria.

Mrs. Frank Kokes Sr. was a Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kokes. In the afternoon they drove to Sargent to visit Mrs. John Kokes.

Presbyterians Going Farm Route for Funds

Presbyterians have decided to sponsor a farm project of 160 acres, church trustees and Rev. Lyle Graff announced. The farm mission project will be operated by farmer members of the church with town people providing the money for seeds, fertilizer and other expenses.

After rent money for the land has been paid the funds left will be added to the mission money. This will be in addition to the benevolence pledge for 1963, which has already been met. Hence the project represents an added effort the part of those participating.

The committee in charge of the project is Eldon Sich, chairman; Emmanuel Vodehnal, secretary-treasurer; Harold Garnick Horace Travis and Rev. Lyle Graff.

Gary Stinton and family are living on the farm east of Ord, having moved there March 1.

Alumni Fiesta July 7

Dr. F. L. Blessing reports that plans are progressing nicely for the Alumni Banquet on July 7. The alumni meeting will be an open house at the Ord High School auditorium and the banquet will be in the evening at St. Mary's auditorium.

They are making preparations for a good attendance and the committee met Tuesday night to send invitations.

Bank Plans Remodeling for 75th

By Hope Crist

The Board of Directors and stockholders of the Arcadia State Bank announce that extensive remodeling will be done at the bank in the near future. Later this year the 75th anniversary of the Arcadia State Bank will be observed with appropriate ceremonies.

Teachers Re-Elected

All teachers were re-elected by the Arcadia Board of Education at a special meeting in February. Nominal and conditional raises were awarded to all, following the universal trend of higher pay for teachers. Not all have as yet notified the board of their intentions but it is hoped and expected that they will soon.

Increased enrollment expected by additional rural areas interest in attending Arcadia school for the next year may necessitate the addition of another elementary teacher. Plans are still in the planning stage at this writing. School District 37, often called Hayes Creek, has voted to join the Arcadia school on a contract basis for the next year. This decision was reached at a special meeting of the school patrons last month. To the best of their knowledge, they will have 16 students in attendance. One other district is seriously considering the same move and if so the grade school attendance will be about 175.

Volleyball

The Arcadia High School girls will go to Ansley to the Girls' Volleyball Tourney this year. The games will be spread over a three-day period with the first games to be played March 23, again on the 26th and the final games on the 28th.

Math Contest

Each year the Mathematical Association of America and the Society of Actuaries sponsor a National Mathematics Contest for qualified high school students. Students from Arcadia High School who will participate in the contest this year are Penny Swanson, Larry Miller, Dick Wooden, Joe Waddel, Karney Williams, Carol Leininger, and Susan Hill.

RKD Livestock

The RKD 4-H Livestock Club met last week at the Arcadia Public School. There were 11 members present. Officers were elected as follows: leader, Clarence Porter, and assistant leader, Keith Dorsey; president, Earl Mottl; vice president, Barbara Force; secretary and treasurer, Beverly Gartside; and news reporter, Sheryl Rounds.

Up-To-Date

The Up-To-Date Club met last week at the home of Mrs. Helen Easterbrook. Mrs. Leona Rounds, president, called the meeting to order. Twelve members answered roll call with some item of interest. A discussion was held about helping with the Ord Hospital fund. It was voted each member donate $1 to this fund or contribute food or some article of similar value to the bazaar and bake sale which is to be held at Ord Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23.

The lesson was given by Mrs. Leonard Hartwig on "Missionary Work in Africa." Rev. and Mrs. Hartwig served there in this capacity for 3 years. Mrs. Hartwig showed slides of their trip to Africa, of their work with schools, and of their clinic of dispensary, and teaching of the gospel. Also shown were vegetation, churches, roads and homes of Monrovia in Liberia, Africa. Mrs. Hartwig remarked, "Yes, they had running water—you had to run and get it."

Next meeting will be Monday, March 18, instead of the 19th at the home of Mrs. Dorthea Mettenbrink. The club is invited to a benefit for the Ord Hospital Fund March 19th. It is sponsored by Koupal and Barstow and St. John's Luthern Aid of Ord.

Junior Garden Club

Junior Garden Club met at the home of Jimmy and Debbie Sahlie Monday evening, March 4. Jane Crist joined the club as a new member. Jimmy Sahlie gave a report on "Banding Birds." Hot chocolate and cookies were served for lunch. Next meeting will be March 18 at the home of Becky VerStraten.

President is Bernadine Shotkoski; vice president and treasurer, Cindy Marco; secretary, Georgia Brown; and new reporter, Janis Hartwig. Most of the mothers of the girls attended the first meeting with their daughters. Next meeting will be Saturday, March 16, at 2 p.m. at the schoolhouse.

10 Jaycee Chapters Invited for Conclave; Belt Clinic in April

A district and area meeting of the Jaycees will be held at the Ord Hotel Sunday night beginning at 5 o'clock, according to Don Wagner, Ord Jaycee president. Invited to the confab are Jaycees from about 10 chapters in District 8, including Aurora, Central City, Grand Island, Ravenna, Fullerton, Loup City and Hastings. Broken Bow, not in this district, also is expected to send a delegation.

Wagner said the day of the conclave is unfortunate, coinciding as it does with the Ord Chamber of Commerce Banquet, but the Ord chapter has been trying for two years to have the gathering here, and March 17 was the only night that could be arranged for all concerned.

To Crete

Three Jaycees and their wives — the Don Wagners, the Emanuel Siches and the Ted Welniaks — accompanied Bryan Peterson and his wife to Crete Sunday for the annual Outstanding Young Farmer Awards banquet, co-sponsored by the Jaycees and the Behlen Manufacturing Company of Columbus.

Peterson, Mira Valley farmer who received the Ord chapter Outstanding Young Farmer award, was among 34 entries in the state contest. State winners were Charles Raymond of Neligh, Mick Christensen of Berwyn and Jim Kirschbaum of Grand Island.

The Ord Jaycees are planning another seat belt clinic. This will be held April 7 and 8 at the former service station across south from Todsen Chevrolet. Alvin Markvicka is chairman of the clinic.

This year the Jaycees are exploring the idea of pushing first aid kits and litter bags along with the seat belts. Last year they installed 270 sets of belts.

Upcoming in May will be the Ord chapter annual election of officers. The board of directors comprises the nominating committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Bresley and family enjoyed Sunday dinner with her parents, the Clarence Christensens at St. Paul.

Official Figures On Bureau Purchases For Farwell Project

Official wrap-up figures on Farwell Project right-of-way purchases to date were relayed to The Quiz this week by Kenneth Powers, construction engineer of St. Paul.

The Bureau has so far purchased an estimated $2.5 million worth of land on the project, 691 parcels. Of these parcels, 628 contracts were signed without any litigation, 34 signed by stipulation before court action and nine were settled by the courts. Twenty purchases already initiated remain to be settled. Eleven parcels were condemned because of title complications. On the entire project, 51 purchases remain to be initiated.

$7,700 Average

Of the nine cases settled by the Court in Lincoln, said Powers, the average court settlement was $7,721.63, which compares to $7,300.30 originally offered (amount deposited by Bureau) and an average high offer during negotiations of $8,398.50.

The total of $61,773 awarded by the court compares to $58,402.41 deposited by the Bureau and to total high offers during negotiations of $67,188.

In other words, the final awards were $3,371 over the amount originally deposited but $5,415 below the Bureau's high offer during negotiations. Downing Rounds, Portius Sell and Forrest O. Nelson came out with awards higher than the Bureau's high offer, but the other awards were lower.

Asked about the bridge question, Powers said contracts were definitely offered that would have included farm bridges over the feeder canal. All the landowners chose rather to take cash for their severance payments.

As an example, one farm tract of 14 acres was appraised at $1,000. The farm operator was offered $9,000, to include $8,000 severance money. Had he chosen the bridge (to cost $6,100) he would still have had $1,800 so-called "pocket money" above the appraised value of the land.

On this same farm, however, the Bureau installed twin drainage underpasses, by specification too small to allow passage of livestock, and the farm operator alleges to this day that drainage from these conduits pours out over irrigated land. Before the ditch went in, he had farm dams preventing this erosive action. If and when he puts in a dam or dams above the ditch, the conduits will, he believes, become unnecessary.

The landowners along the canal may still make application for permission to build bridges, said Powers, as long as the bridges meet specifications.

Eight feeder canal tracts were purchased by stipulation before the cases came to court, fetching a total of $29,615, compared to original total offers of $24,153.20 and Bureau high offers during negotiations totaling $28,093.

Vogeler Lambs and Swanson Steers East

By Hart Jorgensen

Butcher hogs sold generally steady, some heavies firm, in opening trade this week at Omaha, but fat cattle and lambs were lower.

Fat cattle Monday sold weak to mostly 25c lower — or as much as 50-75c short of the previous Wednesday. High-choice to prime steers weighing 1225 sold at $22.75, high-choice heifers to $22.25; other steers and yearlings $21-$22.50, with some as heavy as 1400 at $22; other heifers $21-$22.15; plainer cattle $20.50 down.

Cows sold fully steady, bulk $12.50-$16.50, odd head to $17.

Stockers and feeders were steady to weak. Two loads steers weighing 1038-1078 — choice quality cattle already showing considerable finish — went back to the country at $23. Choice stock steers weighing 615 sold to $27, others to $26 and $26.50; choice 425-pound steer calves to $30, their heifer mates $26.50.

Butcher hogs weighing 190-370 Monday were bracketed at $13.25-$14.75, the top, freely paid, equalling the 37-month low of the week before. Sows, meanwhile, sold fully steady, 270-600's $12.25-$13.50, not many under $12.50.

Fat lambs were mostly 50c lower, wooled $18-$19.25, shorn $17.50-$18.50. Slaughter ewes held at $5.50-$7. Native feeder lambs at $18-$19.25 were rated fully steady.

Among recent sales at Omaha for shippers from this area:

Jaycee-Hydesmen Tilt Promises Rare Fan Fun

The Jaycees are shooting for the Hot Shots.

A post-season basketball game will be played March 22 at 8 p.m. in the OHS gym between Johnny Hyde and his (almost) unbeatable Ord Informals and a quintet of former cage greats from among the Jaycees.

Eldon Mulligan heads the Jaycee cage committee. Also scheduled to play are Merrill Mason, Jerry Ulrich, the two Paul Penases, Don Sears, Bob Anderson, Bob Todsen and Dean Sich.

Betting on the encounter is illegal, and Johnny Hyde said that for anyone to bet on his team would also be immoral because his Hot Shots would have to be blindfolded and hog-tied to lose.

Mulligan said he'd dribble a basketball down the Main Street of Ord at high noon the following Saturday if the Jaycees don't emerge victorious. He said he'd then eat the basketball.

middling field work by the other four Burwell entries. The three-quarter score was 48-39.

Of some significance is the fact that Burwell scored all but two of its 16 fourth quarter points from the free throw line. Joe Roberts, 6-1 junior forward, scored four for four at the charity lane in that period.

Dick Franssen, Burwell's second speed merchant and like Hoppes a senior, scored but three field goals overall yet poured in another six points for free. Roberts was six for six on free throws.

High scorer for the Chants was Fox with 18. Cetak managed 10 and Osentowski 8. Dale Melia scored all 5 of his points in the first half. Melia, incidentally, was playing largely on fortitude, bugged as he was by a blood infection throughout the tourney.

Burwell, with a 17 and 5 season record, will face Ogallala Thursday afternoon at Pershing Auditorium in Lincoln. The game gets under way at 1:45.

This is the third straight district win for Burwell. The Longhorns made it to the finals in 1961, then bowed to Chadron. Last year they lost to Seward in the opener at Lincoln.

Ord finished the season with a 7-9 record in regular play and a 2-1 tourney record.

Quackers and Geese Point Way to Spring

Ducks by the thousands are now moving into Nebraska to rest before continuing their northward jaunt into the breeding grounds, Game Commission waterfowl technicians said.

Most of the ducks now in the state are mallards and pintails which are found in several concentrations across the state south of the Platte River.

Later this month shovelers, green wings, gadwalls, and baldpates will visit the state. Early in April the blue-winged teal will come in flights of thousands.

Geese are also beginning to make their appearance. About 10,000 snows, blues, Canadas, and white-fronts will attract numerous sightseers to the Missouri River.

A number of geese have passed over Ord already.

The central Platte Valley will boast a spectacular sight in about two weeks. Over 100,000 sandhill cranes will dot the area along with thousands of white-fronted geese and other varieties of both ducks and geese.

Last summer and fall waterfowl technicians marked more than 1,000 white-fronts on the belly or top of the tail with red, yellow, and blue-green dyes. Canada geese were also marked with colorful neck tags.

Persons sighting the marked birds are asked to co-operate with the Commission by reporting the number sighted.

The sandhill cranes and most of the geese will remain in the state at least three weeks to rest and feed before moving northward.

The VFW Auxiliary met Monday evening with Mrs. Carol Simpson as a new member. Plans were made for the district meeting with tentative date of May 26. Hostesses for the evening were Jean Smith and Virginia Sich. Door prize winner, Vivian Haynes.

Trios Tangle in Ord And West of Ericson

A pair of three-vehicle mishaps left some crumpled bodywork but no personal injuries this past weekend, in Ord and west of Ericson.

About 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Cash Rathbun was backing a 1955 Olds from a parking place outside the City Hall when the right rear of her car caught the left rear of Emanuel Sedlacek's 1961 Mercury, pushing it into the side of Adolph Hellwege's 1962 Chevrolet.

The tail light of the Rathbun car, the chrome and fenders of the Sedlacek car and the left door of the Hellwege car were all damaged. Officer George Svoboda investigated.

About 6:45 Sunday evening, cars driven by Paul Patrick of Ericson and Jim Usasz of Scotia and a pickup driven by Charley Stryker of Ericson collided 5.4 miles west on Highway 92. Patrick and Usasz were westbound and Stryker was eastbound when the 1961 Usasz Ford and the 1950 Stryker Ford pickup sideswiped one another and Patrick was unable to avoid colliding from the rear.

Trooper Jerry Schmidt estimated damage to the Patrick car at $10, to the Usasz car at $600 and to the Stryker pickup at $50.

Mrs. Frank Fafeita entertained Delta Deck last Tuesday with Mrs. Hazel Gudmundsen, Mrs. Hazel Hall and Mrs. Faye Good as guests. Amelia Vogeltanz got first and Faye Good second high.

Lincoln Will Host Water Safety Meet

Lincoln will host the 13th annual National Water Safety Congress May 26-28, according to Game Commission Director M. O. Steen, president of the congress.

The three-day convention will be held at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education. Gov. Frank Morrison will welcome the delegates from the various states.

Steen extended an invitation to all Nebraska boaters to attend the meeting.

Some topics slated for discussion include the function of the National Water Safety Congress, boating legislation now before the Congress, controls on pollution of lakes used by the public for recreation, and a session on drownings.

Cook: Feed Grain Deadline March 22

"Don't think it over too long," is the word passed along to feed grain producers by Victor Cook, chairman of the Valley County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. He reminds growers who are interested in taking part in the 1963 feed grain program that filing an "intention-to-participate" form at the ASC County Office is a necessary first step, and the signup period extends only through March 22. This gives farmers only a few days longer in which to make up their minds about 1963 production plans.

Interest High

The chairman reports that farmer interest is high in Valley County. Indications are that 1963 participation will equal that under last year's feed grain program.

Minimum diversion under the 1963 program is 20 percent of the individual farm's total feed grain base. For diverting more than the minimum acreage from feed grain production into a conserving use, the diversion payment will be figured at a higher rate.

Besides the diversion payments available through participation in the feed grain program, participating farmers also qualify for a special price-support payment on the normal production of the acreage planted to feed grains in 1963, and they are also eligible to put their crop under the regular price-support loans or purchase agreements. If the farmer wishes, a part of the diversion payment may be made in advance.

Cook points out that participation in feed grain program not only saves the farmer the costs of planting and harvesting acreages of undeeded feed grains while guaranteeing a substantial income from his diverted acres, but it also increases the conservation of the Nation's cropland, continues the reduction of government feed grain stocks, and saves dollars for taxpayers by reducing the costs of storage, shipping and handling the government-owned grains.

NFO Banquet Here Draws 250 People

The National Farmers Organization banquet at St. Mary's auditorium Thursday was attended by some 250 enthusiastic farmers and others. Catholic women served the meal cafeteria style and six tables running nearly the length of the auditorium were filled with people enjoying the home cooking.

Bernard Shotkoski of Arcadia acted as master of ceremonies, introducing George Haynes of Comstock who told of the recent meeting in Omaha between NFO and labor officials for better understanding of each others problems.

Nebraska NFO president Bryce Bartu of Comstock spoke briefly criticizing the inaccuracy of farm information as presented in a recent Reader's Digest article.

The speaker for the evening was the NFO national secretary Harvey Sickels of Fontanelle, Ia. He explained contracts and emphasized it as friendship on paper, designed to help farmers help themselves. A question and answer session was conducted at the end of the meeting.

People were present from Sherman and Greeley as well as Valley County.

NFO will be in the area in the next few weeks contacting farmers who wish to join.

Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Blessing were in Hastings Sunday visiting at the home of the Al Blessings.

ditions which would reduce but not wholly overcome flood dangers for the lower Loup-Platte valley. Regulated river flows and sediment storage would benefit new power facilities and existing downstream powerplants of the Loup District in terms of reduced sediment and stabilized flow. Minor benefits are indicated for occasional ground-water recharge in a zone of influence adjacent to the Loup and Platte Rivers.

Various combinations of project functions, several damsites, and various reservoir sizes were considered in the study. The site southwest of Fullerton showed the best potential. Even at this site, with 1,209,000 acre-feet of initial storage and sediment requirements would make up 81 per cent of the total capacity with 50 years of sediment accumulation, leaving but 19 per cent for conservation storage.

The report holds no hope that any other similar reservoir in the St. Paul-Fullerton reach of the river could be found feasible. It does point out that some of the proposed purposes might be served in other ways

German shepherds, labradors, golden Chesapeake retrievers are the favored breeds. The Leader school has no preference as to sex but some authorities say bitches make better dogs for the blind. Animals selected should be at least 24 inches tall at the shoulder.

Tough Requisites

The Elyria-Sargent puppies also face an almost frightening list of character qualifications. Dogs are often rejected because they're: aggressive, bitey, easily distracted, fighters, high strung, inconsistent, nervous, panicky, physically weak, protective, shy, shy-sharp, soft, suspicious, tense, timid, too large (over 26 inches), too small (under 22 inches), unable to adjust, unfriendly or hard to control.

The blind master (or mistress) who "wins" a Leader Dog (which means simply winning the dog from the trainer) finally places absolute confidence in the dog's leadership and responses. It's a delightful harmony, this union of dog and blind master, that opens up a fresh world for the sightless unfortunate and almost always restores his spirit completely.

Ironically, a dog's eyesight isn't good, not as good as most human eyesight. But Leader Dogs have keen odor and sound perception and they use these to amazing advantage in all sorts of confusing situations. They observe curbs, pedestrians, parking meters, low awnings, approaching traffic, and when they don't budge, their master doesn't budge. When they step out briskly, their master steps out.

Blind students at Rochester, Mich., live in dormitories for four weeks, learning their dogs, which have already undergone intensive training.

Since its inception by a group of Michigan Lions in 1939, Leader Dogs has turned out 1,756 graduate teams of leader and master. Cost to the blind: nothing. But the school must lay out about $1,500 for each team produced.

If, in a year, any of Valley County's puppies should fail to pass the entrance exam or fail to complete the Leader course, the dog will be returned, according to contract, or otherwise given a home. The school sends photos of graduate teams to donors.

The puppies brought here were procured through the good offices of Peterson and of Dr. Bill Steen of Sargent, vice chairman of the Nebraska Lions Sight Conservation Foundation.

be fenced and gated, open only at certain hours. Mayor Karre said no prospective hauler yet has an inside track on the job and applications are still being taken, pending final approval of the franchise method of hauling.

The ideal situation, said Mayor Karre, will be to have a minimum amount of burning at the new dump site. Saturday's high winds illustrated what happens to loose papers and trash at the present dump site. The city installed a fence along the south side of the road leading into the dump, but the adjoining field still becomes littered and unsuitable for pasture in the summertime. City street crews periodically go down and rake out the field.

The City Council plans no final action until all interested parties are heard from, and the best opportunity for this airing of views will be Monday night, said Karre.

Petty vandalism and thievery appear on the upswing in Ord again.

The trend isn't yet alarming but it is significant. Thieves stole a rear view mirror from Ellis Carson's station wagon as it was parked under a street light Monday night.

Several instances of air being let out of tires have been noticed and signs in Ord and vicinity bear more than usual marks of vandalism. The Ord Police are alert to the situation and have an extra vigilant eye out for malefactors.

Agents Dead Against Mandatory Insurance

A requirement that every driver carry automobile liability insurance would worsen, rather than help, the safety picture, says Don F. Newville of Lincoln, president of the Nebraska Association of Insurance Agents.

L. B. 404, introduced in the Nebraska Legislature by Senators Leroy Bahensky of St. Paul and William Moulton of Omaha, would require evidence of financial responsibility before the issuance of an automobile registration.

"Such a requirement could be established, in virtually all cases, only through purchase of an insurance policy," said Newville.

"Compulsory automobile insurance is one of the biggest paradoxes of the present day," declared Newville. "The idea sounds meritorious and at first thought would be in the interest of all drivers. However, strange as it may seem, the exact opposite is true, because there are so many ways in which the proposal would be injurious to the public."

Newville went on to list five major reasons that the bill would be harmful:

1) The proposal has been a failure in the three states which have passed such laws in the past (Massachusetts, New York, and North Carolina). In these states, he noted, the traffic safety has not improved, has in some cases worsened since the law went into effect.

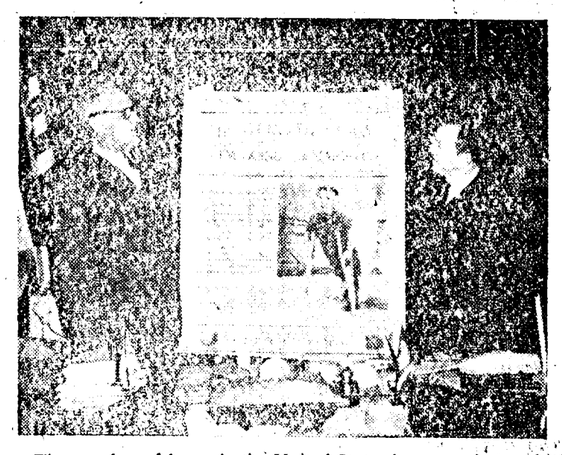
2) Compulsory automobile insurance would triple Nebraska liability insurance rates, according to Dr. Curtis M. Elliott, Professor of Insurance at the University of Nebraska. A recent study made in comparing Nebraska rates with the three states having compulsory auto insurance revealed that Nebraska enjoys from one-half to one-third the rates in these three states.

3) Nebraska has almost as high a percentage of insured drivers as do the three "compulsory" states, with between 90% and 95% of our drivers now insured. We could not get an appreciably higher percentage insured, even if we required insurance by law.

4) Nebraska drivers already have "uninsured motorist" protection available on their auto policies.

5) Compulsory insurance is socialistic, because it puts the state in business in competition to private industry.

"The 1963 Legislature is doing some meritorious work in the field of traffic safety," said Newville, and the bills on driver re-examination, driver education, safety belts and reflectorized license plates are good bills which should be passed. L. B. 404, on the other hand, should never have been introduced."



The number of farms in the United States has gone from a high of 6,812,000 in 1935 to 5,382,000 in 1949 and then on down to 3,704,000 in 1959. Continuation of this 1949-59 rate of loss would bring us down to just one superfarm in 1981.

'LOVE ALLOWANCES' have been established to promote production efficiency and general harmony at the Kyomeisha musical instrument firm in Ina, Japan. A male and female worker who want to go steady inform President Muniyuki Kitahara who proclaims them in love and gives them the "love allowance," 500 yen ($1.38) a month, enough for about two movies and a snack after each.

Sunday afternoon guests of Mrs. Froney Klanecky and Bonnie were the Gerald Krikac and Wayne Rakosky families.

Blues Singer

Dahli Rejda played the clarinet in her high school band, but would rather have played football. Dahli (Darlene) is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rejda and atended Comstock High School.

She sings show tunes, blues and folk songs and plays the piano.

Three nights a week and all day Saturday she sells imported men's clothes at the Continental Boutique at Bloomingdale's in New York.

So which is the real Dahli Rejda? Well, actually none. She's really an actress who has just completed three stints on television.

Dahli — that's a shortened version of Drahomela — appeared in Hallmark's Hall of Fame's production of Cyrano De Bergerac, a segment of "The Nurses" and on the Ed Sullivan Show.

She also appeared in two off-Broadway shows, which she laughingly admits, "Together they didn't run over a week."

Fowler Injured

Ervon Fowler, farmer living some 11 miles northwest of Loup City, received very painful injuries Saturday morning when he was run over by a driverless pickup.

Mr. Fowler and his son Bruce were helping load cattle in a lot east of their farmstead. The pickup was parked on a hill some distance away. The truck was having difficulty getting up a small incline so Bruce had gone home for the tractor. Mr. Fowler was standing beside the truck with his back toward the pickup. It began moving and after rolling some 35 feet struck Fowler, rolling him underneath.

The pickup came to a complete stop as it had Mr. Fowler tightly wedged and rolled up under the body.

Stated Fowler, "My chin was almost touching my chest and my knees were drawn tight to the front of me. I could not breathe. If help had not been right at hand I would have suffocated there."

The Steele ambulance was called and he was brought to the Sacred Heart Hospital. Examination showed that the hip bone was also cracked and the right shoulder dislocated. He sustained numerous other body bruises. X-rays are still being taken and the full extent of his injuries have not been determined.

New Course

Articles of incorporation have been prepared for organization of a golf club here and a meeting will be called in the near future to thrash over the rules.

The tentative name is the Sargent-Comstock Golf Club, since the course is expected to draw support from both towns and is located between them.

Daytona is no "private" test arranged by a manufacturer to favor his car's strong points. It is open competition—anyone can enter—and the one thing that is proved by its searing 500 miles is just exactly how well a car hangs together. At Daytona, Florida, on February 24, five brand-new 1963½ Fords showed the world what durability means by sweeping the first five places. And that has never been equaled in Daytona history!

The box score at the left tells the true story...car endurance that takes brutal punishment and comes back for more.

No proving ground can equal this kind of torture. Daytona was a challenge we welcomed, a chance to prove in open competition the essential durability that makes possible the silence, the solid road-grip, the ease of control, the balanced braking . . . and all the other things that go into Ford's concept of total performance.

These were the same '63½ Super Torque Fords that made styling history at their preview at Monaco, and which were recently announced at your Ford Dealer's. They're yours now; get behind the wheel and find out for yourself what total performance means!

Gadgets or God

Scientific achievements of the world in recent years could very easily detract our minds from our Creator. Wonders of the laboratory have captured the adoration of all peoples. Lest we forget, and lest we start placing our dependance for livelihood in the marvels of science, let us take a second look. "For by him were all things created that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thorns, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by Him, and for Him: and He is before all things, and by Him all things consist." Col. 1:16, 17. Then let us stay with our true creator — let us serve Him. Let us attend and support His church.

Scholars Score High At University

A news release from the University of Nebraska states there were no students among 8,000 undergraduates earning a perfect scholastic mark of 9.000 for 12 hours or more. Last spring, 12 students achieved this distinction.

Listed among the top ten scholars last semester, all earning grades between 8.800 and 8.899 were Ord's Chery Wagner and Stephen Kellison. James D. McCall, Jr. son of the Jim McCalls had an average between 8.799 and 8.700. Gary W. Radil of Comstock was in the 8.499-8.400 bracket.

These averages are difficult to attain and it is an honor for students, parents and community.

Answers Your Insurance Questions
QUESTION: Why should a person who is very careful and watchful of the upkeep and repair of his property pay out good money for this comprehensive personal liability insurance? There is a pretty slim chance of a chargeable accident on well kept up property.
ANSWER: Accidents on the insured person's property are only a small part of the coverage of the liability insurance you mention. This is a low cost insurance which covers the actions of the insured person and his entire household at home and away from home and many many other things. Everybody should have it.
This public service is our way of advertising. Your insurance questions will be answered without charge or obligation if you'll send or bring them to Stitzel, a German Shepherd dog whose kennel used to be at the John Aubert home, now serves as the companion and eyes of a blind person, Marion Miner.

The home address of Miss Miner is not known since "Leader Dogs for the Blind," the matchmaker for the blind girl and the dog, does not divulge this information.

Romans Appeals for Vast Water Survey

Jack Romans of Ord told the Quiz today that he favors the stand taken by the Nebraska Water User's Association for an exploration by the state of all underground water in Nebraska, all the way to granite.

Romans said this can be done with no additional expense to the taxpayers by eliminating frills from the proposed budget.

"We already have a capable drill crew working for the Geological Survey Division of the University of Nebraska and the main expense would be for the purchase of a rig capable of going to greater depths than the one now being used."

The former Senator further stated that such exploration of our greatest natural resource would be of great benefit to farmer and city dwellers alike. It would do more than anything else to bring water-short industry to Nebraska where we have the best underground water supply in the nation, if not the entire world.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Osentowski returned Thursday from a six weeks trip to the west. Ten days were spent with the Floyd Peterson's at Mesa, Ariz., who took them to visit with the Albert Petersons, the Frank Hrons and the Joe Jablonskis. All are from Ord.

Then on to California where the Ord couple visited Joe's sister Mrs. Helen Sheehan and daughter Barbara and son James at Santa Monica and also with Mary Bandura.

At El Cajon they saw the L. C. Earnests; at Torance the B. Corders and at Orange the George Petskas. At Los Angeles the Osentowskis went to see the Jim Fafeitas, D. D. Holloways, Everett Meatherys, Len Ciochons, Jerry Bartu, E. Grubers, K. C. Jonses.

Also with Bess Krahulik and her sister Mildred and husband at Oakland. A nice surprise was running into Mr. and Mrs. Harbert (Irma Parkos) in downtown Oakland.

In California they viewed Santa Barbara and the mission, Marineland, Knott's Bery Farm, Disneyland, Forest Lawn, Chinatown, Olvera Street and other sights.

On the way home they stopped at Las Vegas, Nev., came through the Painted Desert and in Colorado found six inches of snow which was packed. So they had to slow up coming through Wolf Creek pass at 10,850 feet, going 20 miles an hour for several hours. McCook had quite a storm the night before but all was melted the next day.

"We kept up on the news in Ord as wherever we went they had the Quiz or had got it from a friend" averred Mrs. Osentowski.

Rotary Secretary Fred Stoddard and president-elect Al Darr will journey to North Platte April 6 for the District 563 conference and assembly of Rotarians.

Stoddard is listed on the program for instructing secretaries-elect. The two men, and possibly other Ord Rotarians, plan to attend the Saturday night banquet and return to Ord Sunday.

At the regular Rotary meeting Monday, guest speaker Charl Schutte was well received. He said his father is a strong Rotarian and past district president in his region of the Republic of South Africa. Syl Furtak, Ord Rotary president, gave young Schutte a miniature pair of American and Rotary flags to take home to South Africa.

Kenneth Sawyer of Aurora spent Sunday afternoon with his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Sawyer.

Week-end guests in the Harold Haines home in Lincoln were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark Jr. of Omaha and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark Sr. of Ord. Joining the group for supper Saturday were former Ord ites Mrs. Ella Goff, her daughter Mrs. Ed Carlson and son Bruce.

The Frank Clarks returned to Ord Monday bringing their grandson, Mike Haines with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Romans were in Lincoln Monday on business. They returned home that evening.

Water Safety Group Gets Hand From Ann

"Resusci-Ann" was the main feature at the March meeting of the Sherman-Howard County water Safety Council meeting held at Farwell last week. George W. Sorensen, Boelus, representing Consumers Public Power, gave a very thorough demonstration on mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, using the nannequin as a model. He also showed how to administer closed heart message. Those attending were allowed to try their skill on the mannequin at the close of the demonstration.

During the business meeting, the council decided, in cooperation with the Red Cross, to set up and operate a first aid station at the dedication ceremonies at Sherman Dam in June.

Representatives from the Howard County towns will take a survey of the children to determine how many are interested in taking Red Cross swimming lessons in St. Paul this summer. The age limit is set at 7½ and the children will be entered in either Beginning, Advanced, or Life Saving courses. Adult courses would be given also if there is sufficient interest. Sherman County has their courses already set up, so there is no need for this survey there.

Dudley Osborne of the State Fish and Game Commission, who is giving a course in water and boating safety in all the Howard County high schools, gave a resume on what he has accomplished to date.

The next meeting will be in the Boelus High School April 9 at 8 o'clock. The purpose of these meetings is to further water safety. The public is urged to attend.

Axtell Youth Slated For New Army Medal

A bright new shooting star is blazing a path across the sports world.

Gary L. Anderson, 24-year old divinity student of Axtell, Nebraska, made his mark last summer in the 38th World Shooting Championships at Cairo, Egypt, by capturing four world championships in individual competition and breaking three world records.

Although the Soviet Union team captured the most gold medals in team competition, the best Russian riflemen fell victims of Anderson's sharp eye and steady hand in individual rifle events.

Of the seven world records chalked up at Cairo, four were in individual events and Anderson accounted for three. A Russian broke the world individual skeet shooting record, but the United States skeet team broke the world's team record in capturing the gold medal in that competition.

The records Anderson broke had been held by shooters of the Soviet Union or shared by them with shooters of other nations.

Anderson will be honored this month at the 92nd Annual Meeting of the National Rifle Association in Washington when Secretary of Army Cyrus Vance awards him the Army's new International Distinguished Marksmanship Medal.

Ancient Ball League Regroups for Season

A Sherman-Howard Baseball League meeting will be held at Scotia Thursday, March 28, at 8 p. m. to form plans for the 51st season of Nebraska's oldest amateur baseball league.

Notices have been sent to last year's league members, Farwell, Ashton, Loup City, St. Libory, Wolbach, Ord, Greeley, Scotia and Spalding to re-enter; Any other teams desiring to enter this league must attend this meeting or notify league president Claude Johnson of Scotia or league secretary Gilbert Dilla of Farwell.

The league membership, election of officers, drawing of rules and regulations will be some of the items taken up at this meet.

New Game Warden Assigned to Area!

Among the happier rumors filtering through to Ord from the north country is that Jack Morgan, young game commission man, will be assigned to Ord to take the place vacated by Bill Ahern of North Loup.

Ahern has reportedly been reassigned to Valley. Morgan is now working in the Valentine area and Valley County is being served by a game warden out of Broken Bow.

Boaters to Register By April 1 Deadline

Nebraska boat owners have only until April 1 to register their craft for 1963, reminds M. O. Steen, game commission director. Applications for registration are coming in slowly, and time is growing short, he said.

Registration procedures are the same as in 1962. Application and information leaflets are available at county clerk and treasurer offices, from all fishing and hunting permit vendors and at Game Commission offices.

The new boat decals are black and international orange. They are to be applied in the same place as the 1962 decals—in the same horizontal plane and to the left of the state identification numbers.

Certification of assessments and payment of taxes appear on the boat application form. These certificates must be completed and signed by the county treasurer to make sure the individual is not delinquent in any personal taxes.

The county assessor will then verify that the boat has been assessed for 1963. All certificates must be completed by the county assessor and treasurer in the county where the boat is subject to taxation.

New boat owners may operate without numbers or decals only seven days from the date of purchase, Steen said, but during that time they must have a dated bill of sale in their possession.

Wednesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Silver and family were the Carl Augustyn family of Portland, Ore., Eugene Augustyn family, the Frank Augustyns, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mroczek of Loup City and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Zulkoski of Comstock.

Card of Thanks

Answers Your Insurance Questions

QUESTION: A neighbor kept a horse in his yard over night and it got out and into our yard where it did a lot of damage. The neighbor says his insurance will take care of every thing. What kind of insurance is this?

ANSWER: There are several forms of insurance which would handle that situation but he probably refers to comprehensive personal liability which covers him for acts of any animals in his care and control.

Mrs. Allen Dunbar of Ord lost control of her car on Highway 11 by Ray Knapp's place Monday noon.

"it pays to know"

STOPPING A CAR'S ENGINE BEFORE IT WARMS UP IS A MAJOR CAUSE OF ENGINE REPAIR. It's those 2-minute drives to the store that cause the trouble, because your car engine can't really get warmed up. Unburned gasoline, trapped in the cylinder chambers, runs into the crankcase oil, increasing sludge deposits and hastening the need for engine overhaul. It also pays to know how you can benefit by insuring your car with State Farm Mutual. Call me today!

Ord Housing Project For Early May Letting

Jay Auble, chairman of the Ord Housing Authority, said today that final plans have been completed for the 30-unit low-cost housing project and contracts will be let toward the last of April or the first of May.

The project will rise over west and north of the Ord Drive-In.

George Clayton, architect from Grand Island who drew the plans, was up over the weekend to consult with Bill Schudel on plans for a new home on the site of the Munn house.

Arcadia Banker Dies After Heart Attack

Francis Robert O'Meara, 50, Arcadia banker, died of a heart attack Wednesday. He came to Arcadia in May of 1962 from Eddyville, having been with the Eddyville Cooperative Bank.

He married Genevieve Kinnish of Broken Bow in June, 1962.

The funeral was held in Broken Bow at St. Joseph's Cathedral with burial at Eddyville. Survivors in addition to his wife are a brother Paul of Scott Air Force Base, Ill. and mother, Mrs. Nina O'Meara.

Mr. O'Meara served as secretary for the Community Club of Arcadia and similarly for the Middle Loup Irrigation District.

Teachers Will Meet

The Valley County Education Association will hold its fourth annual meeting at the Ord High School cafeteria on April 1. Ord's foreign exchange student will be the guest speaker.

Items of business will include election of new officers, planning a trip to Lincoln to a legislative hearing and choosing representatives for the TEPS conference of the NSEA April 6.

Mel Steen . . .

Kearny? But you can't take a tourist out and show him 48 acres of grass and weeds."

The state has owned Fort Kearny, famous in the pioneer west, since 1939 and has done nothing with it.

Steen's words on wildlife management served to highlight the fact that sportsmen foot the entire bill for management with their fees. On attracting hunters to the state, Steen said all but a handful of those who come in are true sportsmen.

"Once in awhile we get a wrong one," he said, "then we try to convince him the hunting's much better up in South Dakota."

Steen said "the gun has never had anything to do with the rise and fall of the ringneck pheasant. No one at any time has ever shot enough cocks to result in reduction of fertility of the egg."

He called the pheasant "big, colorful, good to eat — and he can take care of himself. By the time you kill 45 per cent of the surplus cocks you're ready to go home and call it a season."

In some regions, he added, they've killed up to 90 per cent of the surplus cocks with no measurable reduction in the species.

"I wouldn't say this in Ord," Steen declared, "but the truth is the American people are soft, and any device that will get 'em off the automobile seat and onto their legs is a godsend." He referred to the fact that pheasant hunting becomes more difficult as the season advances.

He appealed to farmers to give the birds a chance — don't burn that draw, mow that roadside ditch until after July 1. The birds need nesting cover in early summer.

"They can't live on top of a billiard table, my friends," he said, "they have to have cover. Leave 'em a few hen houses."

Steen called game hunting "the gimmick that brings 'em in — people with money, who might bring back an industry."

In his short talk, Senator Bahensky asked his constituents to write in their opinions on the state income tax. He said that between 1953 and 1962, the state property levy only rose from 7.86 mills to 8.43 mills. He said he was on the fence about the income tax, which will come up for debate early in April.

Dale Alberts, Chamber president, reviewed the Chamber's accomplishments in 1962. Others at the speaker's table were Rev. Stanley Gorak, who asked the blessing, Dr. F. J. Osentowski, last year's president, Lynn Chichester, cochairman of the entertainment committee, Clark Yanda, emcee for the evening and cochairman, all with their wives.

Benn Bears Witness

Henry Benn was in the office to renew his Quiz subscription this week and not for the first time.

He said he first received the Quiz as a wedding present 50 years ago and has taken it from choice ever since.

"And," said he, "I read it in my parents' home for years before I was married. So I have read the Quiz considerably more than 50 years!"

Farm Bureau . . .

Concerning the upcoming wheat referendum, Marshall said the choice can hardly be between $1 and $2 wheat, since the proposed program supports 80 per cent of certificate wheat at $2 and 20 per cent at $1.30. There is no provision for future referendums. While a 10 per cent cut in allotments is proposed in '64, indications are for larger cuts in later years. In the last referendum, 17 states, representing 699 million bushels of wheat, voted "no." Some 22 states representing 363 million bushels voted "yes." This would indicate that traditional wheat areas such as western Nebraska are not enthusiastic over past programs.

In closing, the Farm Bureau leader pointed out how the various programs have moved traditional mid-western crops to the South. About 2 million acres taken out of cotton this year will go into feed grains and soybeans. Large livestock feeding operations exist on land once used for cotton and tobacco. Such activities will undoubtedly cause trouble for mid-western grain and livestock producers.

Sport Plans Completed

The Loup Valley Conference Schools met for dinner at the Veteran's Club Monday night to organize the spring track meet and complete plans for the volleyball tournament at Ansley. Arcadia was declared conference basketball champion.

There are eight schools in the conference.

Saucy Styles . . .

ter who arrived Tuesday.

A white dress and white sailor were attractive on little Jane Crist of Arcadia who stepped solemnly and turned precisely as big models do.

Mitch Mason modelled a little white dinner jacket, accompanying Leslie Stephenson in a partified little frock. J. M. McDonald provided the tiny tot clothes shown.

Lee Store in Ord showed pretty sport and casual clothes. Their models were Mary Jo Osentowski, Pat Claussen, Lana John, Sharon Philbrick, Charlene Arnold, Luella Harkness, Stella Linke, Marsha Lenker.

Some of the new fabrics were featured for younger wearers.

Needham's models were Mrs. Bill Wiess, Mrs. Richard Potrzeba, Mrs. Laverne Rasmussen, Mrs. Bernard Bredthauer, Mrs. Ed Zikmund, Eva Wadas and Janice Rathbun. Their pretty frocks were often accompanied by matching short jackets very suitable for Ord summer wear. Many were of cotton.

Vera's Style Shoppe of North Loup brought some lovely clothes to be modelled by Mrs. Merlyn VanHorn, Mrs. Edward Hudson, Mrs. Charles Goodrich, Mrs. Dwayne Wirt, Mrs. Dale Stine, Mrs. Iradell Babcock, Mary Wagner, Pam Reeves and Michelle Markley. A checked all weather coat brought a murmur of praise from the audience. Some attractive skinny pants interested younger women.

Western Motif

Misko's Sport Shop was ably introduced by Dean and his son Bill, both in western rig even to lariats and a fringed jacket on Bill. Bill wore little Levis, Dean wore chaps of leather. Jeannie Geweke made a fine rodeo queen, suitably garbed. Several letter sweaters in Ord's own red and white were mighty popular.

Allen Noll, Harold Smolik, Charles Schutte were other Misko models, handsome in sports clothes.

For Benda's, Chuck Kokes, Allen Joe Cetak, Danny Nicholson, Harold Smolik, Chuck Benda wore young man clothes. The skinniest pants were accompanied by slimmed-down shirts with flair. Henry Benda and Don Stewart wore dark man about town clothes, complete with Stevens hats. They looked ready for church or any occasion.

Helen's Dress Shop was represented by charming clothes, some from the Orient, most of them sheath and finger-tip jacket ensembles. Mrs. Frank Fafeita, Mrs. Kenneth Clement, Mrs. Ray Marshall, Mrs. Dean Misko, Cathy Calvin and Mrs. Ted Welniak modelled. Mrs. Marshall, graduate of a California modelling school, helped train whose who appeared, so that they presented the correct poses and fashionable attitudes. Helen also presented some elegant streamlined coats for spring.

Good Music

Musical interludes were furnished between times. A junior sextet included Susan Misko, Beverly Anderson, Sheila Cetak, Lois Lachmann, Donna Thomas, Janet Anderson, singing This is Our Country.

Harold Smolik sang Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride.

Nancy Novosad sang Wind's in the South. Sheila Cetak's solo was Nocturne. Three trumpets played Three Blue Jackets, done by Robert Kapustka, Mike Naeve and Harold Smolik. Mrs. Mildred Auble provided organ music.

The Florette furnished the handsome patio floral setting.

General chairman for the affair was Mrs. John Wojtasek.

Stage setting chairman was Mrs. Ign. Pokraka, aided by Mrs. Irwin Kingston, Mrs. L. E. Walford, Mrs. R. Hamsa and Mrs. Frank Fafeita. Don Edwards was in charge of lighting, Mrs. Clark Weckbach was ticket chairman.

Sells 98 Tickets

Mrs. Frank Madsen covered herself with glory by selling 98 tickets, considerably more than anyone else managed.

Door prizes went to Mrs. Dolly Markvicka, Mrs. Agnes Manchester, Darlene Kokes, Cecilia Hruby, Mrs. Bob Edghill and also to her daughter Leanne, Mrs. Jerry Puncochar and Gloria Guggenmos.

Mrs. Leonard Cronk was commentator, introducing clothes and models pleasantly, graciously.

Honor Theron's 88th

Theron Beehrle celebrated his 88th birthday on March 13 with a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wozab. A cake baked and decorated by Mrs. Wozab was the centerpiece and the candles were blown out by Mr. Beehrle. Other guests included Bess Francl and Mart Beran.

Quiz Leads NY Dailies

The Ord Quiz this week is maintaining its front-running position over five metropolitan dailies in New York City.

The Quiz has a circulation of 13 in New York City proper, considerably more in Greater New York. This exceeds by 13 the combined circulation of the New York Times, the Herald-Tribune, the Daily News, World-Telegram and Sun and Daily Mirror.

But along with every other newspaper in the nation, The Quiz fervently hopes the Gotham dailies soon regain their position of dominance.

New Blood Named to Ord Planning Group

The Ord Planning Commission welcomed two new members Tuesday night, Bob Moody who takes the place of Jack Duvall, and Otto Zapp, who takes the place of Frank Kapustka.

Duvall has bought a farm place southeast of Ord and Kapustka recently was appointed to the City Council. Glen Beerline, who is sole candidate for first ward councilman, is still serving on the commission but a replacement will be named before the election.

Wilbert Calvin was re-elected chairman of the commission Tuesday night. Norm Schmidt was re-elected vice chairman and Bob Perry was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Paul Lambert reported on zoning committee progress and Beerline reported on building code committee progress. The commission will continue investigations along these lines.

Dump Turnout . . .

be necessary.

Clark said he was an unwilling heir to the hauling business in Ord. His dad started with a team of horses and Frank took over when his dad retired. He said he wanted to quit in World War II but they wouldn't let him. The big truck he had was too unhandy for the alleys so he procured a pickup. He named several alleys still too narrow to be successfully entered with a big truck.

Clark now serves about 140 residences plus many downtown business places. Scheideler said the packer truck manufacturers say the truck should pick up 500 residences a day.

After the dump session the council sat around and informally discussed issuing building permits and zoning. Councilman Rollie Johnson said enforcement of the building code, issuing permits to builders and remodelers will solve most of the problems facing the planners.

No definite action was taken to implement the permit scheme but the council needn't take any formal action to put the system in gear.

One Small Universe

By Al Dorr

Dale Stine of North Loup showed me the other day how the North Loup Valley Bank almost fell in upon its foundation.

Fiscally sound as yesterday's dollar, the bank nevertheless could have come to literal ruin. One more chaw by a certain termite.

Termites are like roaches. No one likes to admit he has them. Yet in County Agent Bob Perry's office Monday I saw a piece of two by four almost entirely eaten out from within — and this piece of wood came from a Valley County farm house.

The North Loup bank's mischief was inside a supporting beam in the basement. John Hamer or one of the boys drove a staple into the wood and whamme, nothing inside but air and termite tracks.

Termites are insidious, say all the books. You have to rout them out thoroughly or save your sweat. Most important, when you build you have to keep wood as far away from the soil as possible. Don't give termites a place to happen.

Perry has termite manuals in his office as well as a list of approved exterminators. Extermination is a highly specialized biz, and no one should jump at the first outfit that wheels down the pike. Termite hustlers have been known to salt beams with imported bugs, then charge whopping fees for knocking them off.

In North Loup now, the bank building is firmly secured from underneath once more and everyone hopes the pesky termites have had their fill.

Sweet Reason

Chuck Schutte, Ord's AFS student from South Africa, gave Rotary Club a concise rundown on his native land Monday night, then stood around for three quarters of an hour answering questions. Mine were mostly personal.

Chuck aims to be a psychologist and it looks like he'll be a good one. With six months of college already under his belt, he has six years to go and will probably serve at one of many mental institutions in South Africa.

If he had the time and the cash, Chuck would like to be psychiatrist but that would take him 12 years, counting residency plus understudying an older practitioner.

I don't know much about psychologists but I've logged a visit or two at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in D. C. as well as several sessions with Dr. Christian (we called him) down at Hastings State Hospital. Mental illness is terrifying.

Neuroses, which fall short of insanity but are nevertheless unreasonable, can be frightening too, and I think every community should have a good psychologist at hand to straighten out kinks before they grow worse.

Everyone knows neurotic personalities right here in Ord and Valley County. Even a neurotic can recognize a neurotic.

There's a big problem with community psychologists, however. How would they earn a living? The schools could hire them. Then the adults would be missed. The state could hire them. Then the job would tend to attract bureaucratic types. If the psychologist himself is fighting a neurosis, we haven't gained much.

The best solution seems to be, after all, to train the priests and ministers in psychology, to make them top students of human behaviour.

This reminds me that in Grand Island we had the toughest time getting lawyers to join the Toastmasters Club. A few did, but most seemed to have the idea they were already well qualified speakers. Ho!

Susan and Donna Attend Institute

Susan Misko, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Misko of Ord and Donna Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Thomas of North Loup, represented Ord High School at a two-day Human Sciences Conference in Lincoln and Omaha Thursday and Friday. Dale Black attended as an advisor.

More than 120 students and 25 advisors representing 60 schools across the state attended.

A banquet at the Center for Continuing Education in Lincoln kicked off the program. Keynote speaker was Dr. Thaddeus P. Krush, Clinical Director, Nebraska Psychiatric Institute, Omaha.

Two panels on science and communication arts followed the banquet. Dr. Cecil Wittson, director of the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute, chaired the science panel. Other science speakers were: Dr. James Eisen, cytogeneticist; Dr. Michael J. Carver, biochemist; and Dr. Richard J. Schain, child neurologist. All are from the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute.

R. H. Collins Funeral Held in Third City

An accident in Grand Island Friday, March 15, was fatal for Ralph H. Collins, 82, formerly of this community. He was a passenger in his daughter's car and died minutes after the car collided with a southbound vehicle at West North Front and Broadwell Avenue. It was Grand Island's first traffic death of the year.

Mr. Collins was born here May 8, 1881, to Mr. and Mrs. Warren G. Collins, and grew to manhood in this community. He married Ellen Pearle Curry at North Loup and they made their home on a farm west of North Loup, farming many years in Valley County. They moved to Los Angeles and he was employed there until retirement. In 1961 they returned to Grand Island to make their home.

Mr. Collins was a member of the Methodist Church and the Modern Woodman, a membership he held for 60 years.

He is survived by his wife; three children, Stanley E. Collins, Elm Creek, Dale E. Collins, Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. Rita Fletcher of Grand Island; two brothers, Earl Collins, Mitchell, Neb., and Rex Collins, Arlington, Wash.; one sister, Helen Collins of Ord; eight grandchildren; and six great grandchildren. He was preceeded in death by infant twin sons, his parents, three brothers, Oscar, Lynn and Floyd Collins, and one sister, Mrs. Carrie Seeley.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at a Grand Island funeral home with Dr. James Chubb officiating. Burial was in Westlawn Memorial Park Cemetery. Attending from this area were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Wheeler (Vida Collins), Mr. and Mrs. Vernard Collins, Mrs. Lynn Collins, Mrs. Marlon Hansen, his sister, Miss Helen Collins, all of Ord, and the Alva Barnharts of Sargent.

Bill Blaha Named To Land Bank Post

New Crop Varieties Are Listed

By Robert E. Perry

Some new crop varieties have been added to the list of those recommended for Nebraska. We now have a printed list available of all crop varieties recommended for 1963.

Below is a brief description of the new varieties recommended for this area of the State.

Lancer winter wheat. Turkey-Cheyenne and Hope-Cheyenne. Developed at Nebraska Experiment Station. Highly productive, medium height, good straw. Looks like Cheyenne in field but matures early as Warrior. Has shown resistance to stem rust but susceptible to leaf rust, smut and bunt. Good baking characteristics.

NB 504 grain sorghum. Similar to RS 501 in maturity but plants are 6 to 12 inches shorter and less subject to lodging. Good head emergence and easy to thresh. May yield slightly less than RS 501 but better standability could offset the difference.

NB 505 grain sorghum. The same as NB 504 for all practical purposes except heads of NB 505 dry faster making earlier harvest possible.

Nebraska 202 corn. An early maturing hybrid with an excellent yield record in western, northern and central Nebraska where a short season hybrid is required. Plants are short and uniform with heavy, dark foilage and low set ears. The stalks are strong and ear retention is good. It is as an early hybrid on dryland in this area.

Nebraska 705 corn. A mid-season hybrid with resistance to northern leaf blight. Plants are of medium height with good stalk quality and excellent ear retention. It is recommended under irrigation.

Cody alfalfa. This variety is recommended in our cropping district but only in the southern half. It is moderately hardy, previously released in Kansas. It is similar to Buffalo in growth and wilt resistance. Cody has a high resistance to the alfalfa aphid.

Janice Chosen to Represent Comstock

Janice Radil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Radil, will be Comstock's representative at Girls' State June 15-21. She is active in dramatics, girls' glee, mixed chorus and plays in the school band, also participating in pep club as a cheerleader.

Chosen on the basis of leadership, scholarship, citizenship and health, she is a junior in the Comstock High School and ranks in the upper half of her class scholastically.

Judy Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Peterson, has been chosen as alternate.

Joseph Marks Rites Held in Mira Valley

Joseph Marks, 84, died Saturday at the Ord Hospital. He was born Sept. 5, 1878, in Madison, Wis., son of Henry Marks and Fredricka Koelling. He came to Valley County with his parents at an early age.

He married Nellie Purcell Sept. 27, 1905, and they spent 57 years farming in Mira Valley.

He served as a District 9 School Board member for several years, was a member of Mira Valley EUB Church and the Ord Lodge No. 103 AF and AM, receiving the Jordan Medal seven years ago as a 50-year-member.

Survivors are his wife and six sons: Leonard of Ord; Rolland of New Virginia, Ia.; Lloyd of Des Moines, Ia.; Don of Ord; Dean and Norvall of Carlisle, Ia.; 11 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents, three brothers and two sisters.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at the Mira Valley EUB Church with Rev. Charles Wantz of York, a friend of the family, officiating. Rev. Robert Miller assisted. Pallbearers are Alfred Burson, Edgar Roe, Dan Cook, Will Foth, Walter Huebner and Emil Dlugosh.

Burial was in Ord City Cemetery with Masonic rites by Ord Lodge No. 103 AF and AM. Hastings Pearson in charge of arrangements.

Who Was V. R. Johnson?

An ancient typewritten note turned up in an old book this week for Mrs. Wayne Pierce, written at Beatrice Sept. 15, 1906. It was addressed to J. A. McCulloch of Lincoln by V. R. Johnson, and both of them were possibly employes of the Adams Express Company.

Says the letter: "The bearer of this note Mr. W. L. Lee, my way bill clerk, is in route to Omaha for over Sunday, and if you can assist him in the matter of transportation from Lincoln on it will be greatly appreciated by him as well as my self. Thanking you in advance for your efforts I remain Yours truly."

The book in which the letter was found was given to Mrs. Pierce when the library at Taylor was reclassifing old books. Mrs. Pierce would like to know more about the history of the old letter, evidently used as a bookmark.

THE Ord Quiz

Wolves With Cheap Roofing

"Scandalous" is the first word that comes to mind.

Half a dozen or more Ord homeowners have been hooked this season by the silver-tongued salesmanship of transient roofers and siders. These homeowners have been paying up to twice as much as the same work would cost if done by perfectly competent local men.

"They'd scream if we charged them anything like those prices," said one Ord contractor.

Would it seem mean and petty for the local artisans to keep lists of those homeowners who never so much as asked them for a bid on the work but simply hired the out-of-towners (and out-of-staters) on the spot? Would that seem vindictive?

We sincerely think not. At least one of those homeowners who by-passed the local craftsmen is on the public payroll. His salary is paid by the men he ignored when it came time to fix his house. On top of that, he reportedly paid an exorbitant price for substandard work.

Ord and Valley County contractors have a clear right to be infuriated by this sort of thing. Even if a man has no community conscience, he should have the wit or common sense to feel out the local market before plunging into a big repair deal.

Ordites aren't easily shook on this sort of thing because who among us is without sin when it comes to buying this or that occasional item out of town? But when householders here crassly hire work involving hundreds and even thousands of dollars from perfect strangers, with reputable, able men — their neighbors — ready at hand to do the work at far less cost, it's time to shout and scream.

It's time, also, to begin enforcing our Green River Ordinance, no matter how provincial some of our sophisticated citizens think it makes us look.

Progress (?) in Sherman County

County boards don't make laws. They just administer them. And sometimes they administer them oddly. Five Sherman County men applied for beer liecenses in the dam vicinity. One man, Dan Michalek, wanted simply an off-sale license, to sell beer to be consumed off the premises.

Michalek, apparently because his request was less demanding, got the nod.

It's difficult to see from here how off-sale beer sales near the Sherman Dam area can lead to anything but complications. People can't legally drink beer around the lake. They can't drink beer on he public roads. Unless they find a privately owned spot well away rom the lake, they can't drink beer, period, not within the law.

What Sherman Lake wanted — and still wants — is a good ling place, equipped with an on-sale beer license because the hot makes people thirsty. We hope the Sherman County dads will ly help provide such a place for the public. There's no excuse, 63, for doing things like this shabbily.

etween 1950 and 1960 the state's population increased by er cent or from 1,325,510 to 1,411,330. This, said the w, is below the national average increase of 17 per cent but in not particularly alarming.

The alarming fact is that since 1950 the state has had a net in every 10-year age group between the ages of 20 and 60. so-called dependent age groups (school age and retirement increased in population at both ends by about 20 per cent What's the net effect of this decline in the productive popula- with its concomitant increase in the non-productive? Something Different

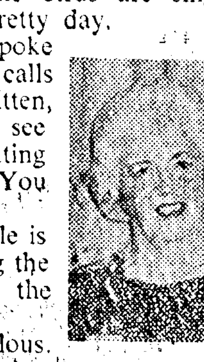
You Color the World Yourself



The day is like any other.

You get up, it looks nice out so you perk up a little.

You dress and breakfast and note the birds are singing. Where is that whistling cardinal? It is a pretty day.

Bit by bit the chores of the day begin to poke through your early morning calm. Phone calls that must be made, letters that must be written, news you must jot down, people you must see errands that must be run. Ho hum, it is getting oppressive. What's so good about this day? You can hardly remember.

Your shoulders fall a little and your smile is harder to summon. So you plod along, doing the urgent things first and trying to annihilate the list of Musts.

Life doesn't seem particularly marvelous.

oOo

But the picture changes shockingly.

Something happens to jar you.

Someone in the family is hurt. The baby falls down the stairs or father breaks his collarbone. Someone wrecks the car, say.

Now the tiny cares that bugged you a minute ago seem as nothing: what was I worrying about before this happened you think as you walk the floor and wait for the doctor's verdict.

How gay and bright was the world a few minutes ago and why wasn't I appreciating it? Look at that wonderful sunshine. I should have loved the world I had before this big black trouble descended on me and all those I love.

If the baby can only live, nothing will be dark again. I'll appreciate every precious instant of life you tell yourself. You wring your hands and sip at bitter coffee or try to shove down bites of the world's driest food but it simply can't be swallowed. You are so frightened. You suddenly have nothing at all. You see others smiling and proceeding with their usual concerns: how can they when you are so full of misery?

oOo

The doctor comes out of the operating room for a second and you clutch him as the tears fall. "It is too soon, we can't tell about the results yet. But don't cry, it won't accomplish a bit of good so stop" he declares sternly.

Which only makes it worse and you cry harder, furious at the doctor now and shaking like a leaf. "But it's a good thing doctors can stay cold and detached or they couldn't operate efficiently" the head nurse explains as she pats you gently, reassuringly.

You walk around the block. Yet it is pleasant out, it is a delightful day . . . for everyone else. You realize that through your wall of indifference to all such matters.

So you go inside and hang around the operating room sector as close as they will let you. Hospitals are full of rules these days, rules made for the good of the patient, not for concern over the ones who wait so tensely.

Other waiting ones try to question and comfort you. You answer briefly from your state of numbness. To your amazement they have problems almost as bad as your own. Well, possibly even worse it sounds like.

oOo

The doctors and nurses boil in and out of the operating area. What do all these errands means? Is it good? Is it bad?

At last the doctor emerges, not smiling, but he does look satisfied. You accost him eagerly and he answers. The operation wasn't as bad as he'd expected. No, it wasn't malignant after all. Yes, he did get the bone set satisfactorily, the X-rays showed a perfect union. The baby will be okay; no concussion.

Suddenly the world gleams. It is bright with promise.

The day is wonderful. Your sighs of relief leave you weak.

Why didn't I appreciate this fine world, this lovely day?

It is a true Thanksgiving, you think. I shall never feel again that the world is dingy. It is my world and I love it.

Dreamy Cheese

Everyone who tries the Ord Cooperative Creamery's new cheeses is enthusiastic about them. Manager Emil Babka is to be commended, and not only for his fine cheeses.

Emil is to be congratulated on his promotion of his new product. Not only is his prize cheesemaker making fine cheese, but the manager of the creamery is seeing that it is sampled and distributed far and near. He is making certain that everyone gets a taste of the delicious new dairy products now made in Ord.

At a recent Chamber of Commerce dinner generous samples of good Ord-made cheese were placed on the long tables. Members were delighted, and will not forget to buy some, never fear.

Nor is this the only sampling offered by Mr. Babka.

And every sampling means satisfied prospects who will buy cheese that will make the Ord Creamery increase its yield.

Good work, Emil!

And good cheese!

Congress Compared To Moonshiner Aging Booze in Slow Wagon

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I'm real much obliged to that subscriber fer sending in the letter to you about Ed Doolittle and he fellers at the country store rying to trim our Senators and House members to half what we now got. He makes a good point here when he says the Constitution calls fer 2 Senators. He has also got a good point when he says hey ain't nobody allowed to mess with the United States Constitution but Jack, Bobby and Earl Warren. And he has got a extra good point when he warns that if we mess with the matter we're liable to have the FBI gitting us out of bed at 3 in the morning fer questioning. But all the fellers was agreed they was willing to take a chanct on all three items if we could git the Senators cut down from 2 to 1.

And this subscriber's idea to reduce the 50 states down to about 12 is the most forward thinking I have saw since Harry built that front porch onto the White House. Gitting rid of the graft in 38 states and just confining the under the table and in the public trough boys to 12 states would save the taxpayers several billion dollars a year.

Ed was even willing to split the 38 states we git rid of half Republican and half Democrat. And fer a Republican like Ed who claims it was a Democrat that tricked Adam into eating the apple, this is a major compermise.

Incidental, some of the fellers was of the opinion this subscriber that sent in this letter was a real thinker and maybe we better find out more about him and maybe run him fer the Congress next time around. Clem Webster allowed as how we could run him on a 12 States & 1 Senator platform, add a couple planks about cutting taxes and increasing benefits and make him a winner. Clem says the theory the old Indian had of making the blanket longer by cutting off one end and sewing it to the other end was now good, solid Harvard thinking in Washington and our candidate would be running in the latest style.

Bug Hookum was lamenting that the great trouble in Washington today is because they don't let things simmer and soak fer a spell afore they take action. Bug claims some bright feller will wake up in the morning at the White House with a new remedy fer what ails us and afore dark it is on the agenda in the Congress. About the only aging it gits, allows Clem, is while it's traveling from the White House to the Capitol.

Zeke Grubb said it reminded him of the moonshiner that was taking a load of liquor to town. Him and his old lady was setting up in the truck seat and they was driving mighty slow. His old lady ask him if he was driving so slow on account of being afraid of the law. "Naw," he replied, "I just want to age it some."

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

Income Tax Bill Up For Debate on Floor Of State Unicameral

The Legislature's revenue committee has voted to send LB 612, proposing a state income tax, to the floor of the Unicameral for full debate.

The committee acted immediately after one of the longest and best attended public hearings of the present session.

Sen. Kenneth L. Bowen of Red Cloud is chief sponsor of the measure which stemmed from the Interim Taxation Study Committee recommendations.

Bowen said he is confident the proposal will pick up enough support for passage, but there are other lawmakers who disagree. On one thing they do agree — the vote on final approval is going to be close.

The bill suggests that the rate of the income tax be set every year after a determination has been made of how much money will be needed to meet the state's obligations for the year.

According to Bowen, if the measure is enacted into law it will help make every Nebraska taxpayer more conscious of the amount that he contributes to state and local government support. As the bill was prepared, the taxpayer would have to pay his state income tax in one lump sum. Since the state tax bite on the individual is low in comparison with local governmental and school district needs, payment of the income tax will help point up to the individual how much his local governmental units are spending, Bowen said. He added this might lead to residents requiring a closer accounting from local government officials on how they are spending the tax money allocated to them.

Dove Bill

For the first time in about 10 years, a bill to add the mourning dove to the list of game birds has been given approval by the Legislature's Agriculture Committee.

As usual, the hearing on the proposal attracted a huge crowd. Most of the witnesses were veterans and many of the arguments presented had been heard before.

Some 30 states permit the shooting of doves.

Support for the bill came from representatives of the Nebraska Council of Sportsmen, the Nebraska Game Commission, Isaac Walton League, Goodyear Sportsmen Clubs, Falcon Gun Club of Lincoln, and the Omaha Fish and Wildlife Association.

Opponents included the Nebraska Farm Bureau, National Farmers Organization and Federated Garden Clubs.

Veto Upheld

The Legislature was asked twice within two days to over-ride Governor Morrison's veto of one of the so-called "states rights" resolutions approved earlier by the Unicameral.

The resolution sought to petition Congress to call a convention for the purpose of amending Article 5 of the U. S. Constitution. The aim of the resolution was to make it easier to amend the Federal document by more direct action.

The day after Morrison vetoed the proposal, a motion to over-ride the veto lost when it received 23 votes. It needed 26. The next day another attempt was made and his time the effort fell just one vote short.

The governor has also vetoed a second "states rights" resolution. Sen. Hal Bridenbaugh of Dakota City said he will try to get that veto overriden.

Centennial Plans

The State Centennial Commission has unanimously approved a resolution calling for appointment of a statewide committee of county and state fair managers to work in close coordinaion with the commission in developing a program.

The resolution action came after Ed Schultz, secretary of the Nebraska Fair Board, urged a unified effort among the commission and state and county fairs in promoting the state's 100th anniversary in 1967.

Schultz suggested the celebration revolve around the theme of Nebraska's pioneer days. He said the celebration "should call the attention of the people to what the early pioneers did for the state. They are the ones who started Nebraska on the road to success and shouldn't be forgotten."

The commission received a variety of suggestions from 15 state senators on how the state might commemorate its 100th birthday.

Several lawmakers proposed erection of a new state office structure which would be known as The Nebraska Centennial Building. Some legislators have made it known, however, they are far from convinced that this would be an appropriate manner of observing the anniversary.

Interstate Progress

State Engineer John Hossack said recently the entire 40-mile segment of the Interstate from Grand Island to Kearney should be completed by late summer.

He said only shoulder work remains on the stretch from Wood River to Grand Island with completion slated early this spring. Half of the paving is finished from Wood River to Shelton, and 60 per cent is poured from Shelton to Newark. Paving is scheduled to begin early this spring from Newark to Kearney.

Work will also begin, Hossack said, this spring along the Kearney to Elm Creek segment where the grading is now two-thirds complete. Work has been contracted for from Lexington to Elm Creek with construction beginning this month.

Bids will be taken on the 14.3 mile section from Lexington to Cozad on March 28.

Meat Probe

The subject of meat prices occupied a prominent place in the legislative chamber in recent days.

It all began when State Agriculture Director Pearle Finigan called the attention of the legislators to the high retail cost of beef and pork, even though a sharp break has been registered in cattle and hog prices at the various livestock markets.

The Unicameral's Agriculture Committee was given the task of deciding whether to recommend a legislative investigation of the problem.

Sen. Frank Nelson of O'Neill, chairman of the committee said it was the unanimous conviction of the group that neither the Legislature nor the committee could spare the four months needed for the probe.

The attorney general had also advised that an investigation cannot be begun unless the study would result in some type of proposed legislation.

The committee agreed to ask Nebraska's congressional delegation to consider what federal legislation might be necessary to regulate more closely importation of meat products.

KERRY ON

By Kerry Leggett

We're not a nation of flag wavers, and it's really a shame.

Charles Brower, president of BBD&O advertising agency, dares us to be squares and start letting the tears roll to America the Beautiful, or other similar circumstances.

In his address before the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, reprinted in part in the April Reader's Digest, Brower retraces the development of the slang expression "square."

Years ago, a person could be proud of being square. You looked a man square in the eye and gave him a square deal. You stood foursquare for the right, and then you sat down at the dinner table to a square meal.

The world was full of squares, and you could be proud, indeed, of being square with the world. But somewhere along the line a generation cut the right angles out of the square, and now a square doesn't fit in modern society.

According to Brower, present day society sees a square as the man who never learned to get away with it. He's a Joe who volunteers when he doesn't have to. It's the guy who gets his kicks from trying to do something better than anyone else can. He's the boob who get's lost in his work and forgets to go home on time. Or the slob that gets all choked up when he hears our National Anthem. That guy's strictly from Squaresville.

To make my point, haven't you asked yourself what was wrong with those guys that volunteered to fly missions over Cuba? Can you imagine Paul Revere saying: What do you mean — me ride through every Middlesex village and town? And in the middle of the night yet! Why pick on me? Am I the only man in Boston with a horse?

This same attidude of so many of us — rounding the corners on a square — is reflected in too much everyday activity. In the newspaper business we run up against it constantly. The old familiar reply is, "don't quote me on that," or "you can use that, but don't say I said it."

Opinions reach my ears about my getting too personal in this column. What will people think of you, if they read that?" I'm asked. Quite personally, I think we need more humanism. Let's not back down just because of what someone else will think. Are we afraid to be human?

So I'll go right on preaching the same old sermon — BE YOURSELF. And I say I'm not a square . . . I may be a kook, but I'm not a square!

Skeptics sneered at Henry Ford when he entered his Model T in America's first coast-to-coast auto race in 1909. After 22 days of driving 4,100 miles over mud-covered roads, through snow storms, across streams and in heavy rain, the Model T was the first entry to cross the finish line.

FFA Boys Score High With Banquet

The OHS Future Farmers of America successfully staged their first annual banquet, with all the trimmings, Monday for a combined crowd of 122 fathers, mothers and FFA members.

The Future Farmers this year numbered 49 boys, and here's a partial list of their productive on-the-farm effort: 126 head beef totaling 47,042 pounds; 37 dairy cows producing 40,118 pounds of milk; 511 swine giving 83,000 pounds of pork; 334 acres of corn yielding 23,610 bushels; 46 acres grain sorghum yielding 2,916 bushels, in addition to various small grains; total labor income, $29,714.36; total investment, $78,387.17.

Awards

FFA Advisor Eldon Buoy presented awards to the following boys: Foundation Awards, Bill Lueck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Armin Lueck, for his purebred hogs; Ed Bruha, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wencel Bruha, for farm mechanics; Duane Krajnik, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Krajnik, star farmer; Roger Psota, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Psota, public speaking; Darrel Petska, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Petska, creed speaking; Ron Psota, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Psota, James Wray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wray, and James Lueck, leadership awards.

Rudy Psota, out of school and farming on his own, will be state farmer candidate for the chapter at the convention in Lincoln April 10-12. Dave Shoemaker and Ron Psota also are candidates, Ron for state office. Several other members will go to Lincoln on judging teams, said Buoy.

Named honorary chapter members Monday night were Mrs. Lucille Tolen, Bob Perry and Dale Black. Last year's honorees were Al Darr, Dr. F. J. Osentowski, Edward Psota and Walter Parks, and all except Parks, who was sick, attended.

Toastmaster for the evening was Ron Psota, 1962-63 chapter president. Principal speaker for the banquet was Daniel Peterson of Holdrege, state FFA reporter, who described his activities at state and national camps and conventions. Young Peterson is himself an effective advertisement for the Future Farmers and he spoke warmly of the group's man-building activities.

Present chapter officers are Psota; Rick Hosek, vice president; Bill Lueck, secretary; Vernon Lueck, treasurer; Don Zebert, news reporter; Jim Wray, sentinel; and Mr. Buoy, advisor. They welcomed next year's panel, which will be led by Jim Wray as president and includes Ed Bruha, Roger Psota, Bill Lueck, Larry Kokes and Duane Krajnik.

Darrell Petska gave his winning creed speech after the banquet. Roger Psota and Duane Krajnik also gave their talks.

The meal was prepared by Mrs. Bill Wozniak and her cafeteria staff. The Future Homemakers of America Chapter served the banquet. Centerpieces each symbolized one of the supervised farming enterprises undertaken by the FFA.

To Columbus Friday

Cinder Squad Gears Up

Coach Bill Dickeys cinder burners were out for their first full afternoon on the track this week, warming up for the Central 10 Relays in Columbus Friday.

Lettermen returning are Doug Zikmund, Ken Krahulik, Ab Cetak, Charlie Fox, Dale Naprstek, Don Brechbill and Jim Wagner.

About 30 boys all told turned out in sweat suits and spikes. The teams brightest hope appears to be Cetak, whom Dickey calls "one of the best Class B sprinters in the state." Cetak ran third in the 100-yard dash at state last year.

Mostly Distance

Promising upcomers on the Chanticleer squad are Tom Banks, miler; Mike Naeve, distance; Mike Zulkoski, sprints; Chuck Benda, weights; Alan Peterson, sprints; Gene Markowski, distance; and Rich Kunze, distance; and Alan Lachmann, distance.

Chuck Schutte, AFS exchange student from South Africa, is out to compete as a sprinter.

The squad as a whole lacks speed in the upper grades, said Dickey.

The schedule, besides the Columbus meet Friday, includes the Burwell Wrangler Relays April 3, the Ord Invitational (at Burwell because of work in progress at Ord's track) April 10, the Ravenna Invitational April 18, the Kearney Invitational April 25, the Central 10 Conference Meet at David City May 4 and the District Meet May 10 and the state meet May 17-18.

Smith Boy Bitten Outside of Church

Brad Smith, 4½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Smith, was severely bitten on the left cheek by a dog Sunday outside the Methodist Church.

Young Brad was taken across the street to the Ord Hospital and 30 stitches were taken in his cheek. The bite also tore some of the muscles in his face.

Bradley apparently stopped to pet the dog, owned by the Mervin Stofields, about the time of church services. The dog is being kept at the Veterinary Clinic for the required 10 days to determine whether or not it's rabid.

552 Acres for Planting

Sugar Hits 40-Year High

Del Gould, fieldman for the American Crystal Sugar Company, said this week the Valley now has 552 sugar beet acres contracted.

This compares with 300 acres contracted the first year of modern beet growing in this area. That was in 1961.

Henry Lange is the only new grower this year. He'll plant the southeast 40 acres on his home place in Mira Valley. Lloyd Griffith will plant this year on the George and Ed Zikmund farms north of Ord, and Louie Wajda will plant some 50 acres on the Miller farm north of Ord.

George Adds Acres

George Clement of Mira Valley has increased his beet acreage by about 35 acres, plans to plant some down near the North Loup substation.

Gould and the beet growers are enthusiastic over the current price of sugar, the highest in 40 years, said Gould.

"And the trend for '64 is strong," he added.

Cuba is of course the big reason. Cuba used to produce 5 million tons of sugar for the world market, now produces only a million tons for the open market and the balance for Soviet satellite countries. The United States used to import 3.5 million tons of sugar from Cuba.

American consumption is roughly 10 million tons of sugar annually or about 100 pounds per capita, compared to the average world consumption of about 88 pounds.

Ord Electorate Could Reach New Low Tuesday

Ord city authorities look for one of the smallest electoral turnouts in modern history Tuesday — although the voters could upset the odds.

Reason for the low prediction: only two real races are in the offering.

Carl Weckbach opposes Ted Lenker in the second ward race for City Council and only three names are on the ballot for two school board posts. School candidates are Rich Rowbal, Ord contractor, Don Edwards, Ord electrician, and Emmanuel Vodehnal, who farms northeast of Ord.

Unanimous

Both Upstairs and Downstairs parties nominated Glen Beerline for the first ward council post and Lloyd Geweke for re-election to the third ward spot.

Last year in April some 591 voters turned out for the city elections. The year before, when fluoridation was an issue, more than 800 voters went to the polls.

The polling places for Ord remain the same as last year: City Hall for first ward, Ord High School for second ward and Bohemian Hall for third ward.

The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Here is the list of election officials:

First Ward: Amelia Stoddard, Mildred Auble, Bess Johnson, Horace Travis (newly appointed) and Warren Lincoln;

Second Ward: Leonard Woods, Jessie Haught, Louise Zikmund, Lydia Fafeita and Josephine Petska;

Third Ward: Elliot Clement, Alice Lemasters, Delores Christensen, Ann Alberts and Leonard Ludington.

Young Fleider Home Fast Via Red Cross

John Wozab, service office for the Valley County chapter of the Red Cross, had a chance to demonstrate the warmth and efficiency of that organization last week when Charles Fleider had a severe stroke.

When Mr. Fleider was hospitalized his son Harold was at sea. But Red Cross channels located the USS Towers, a destroyer, and the minute it docked at San Diego Harold was on his way to Ord.

Less than 24 hours after he was first sent for Harold was at the bedside of his father in Ord. Mr. Fleider was improving this week and had regained his voice.

This is Red Cross month and all donations will be gratefully received announced Chairman Merrill Mason.

Annual Golf Tourney Last Sunday in May

Marvin Witherwax and Lynn Chichester were elected Friday to serve on the Ord Golf Association's board of directors for the coming year.

Verlin Smith, association president, presided at the annual meeting and gave a summary of the steps taken toward testing the feasibility of grass greens in Ord. He said the questionnaire sent to all members was intended as a feeler and was requested by the mayor and City Council. Of the forms returned, 41 favored grass greens and 28 said no.

Treasurer Henry Enger reported $3,700 now in the association treasury.

About a dozen association members met in the Odd Fellows basement.

Although no vote was taken at the meeting, Smith said he would present his findings, together with cost estimates on grass greens, to the City Council. Grass greens, he said, would cost about $10,000, depending on how much work is done by the members.

The annual Ord Invitational Tourney will be held Sunday, May 26.

Mira Church Hosts Bishop and Assembly

The Mira Valley EUB Church was host church of an all day workshop meeting Saturday. About 70 people from EUB Churches of Taylor, Rose, Ord, Cotesfield, Elba and Scotia as well as the host church were in attendance.

Bishop Paul W. Milhouse of Kansas City, Mo., Dr. John F. Michlet of Lincoln and Rev. Don Roker of Kearney and denominational leader Dr. Harley E. Hiller of Dayton, Ohio, presented topics in the interests of the church and denomination.

Bishop Milhouse gave the opening and closing messages and told about plans for union with the Methodist Church.

Dr. Michlet spoke about the Christian Service Fund; Rev. Roker's topic was a Study of Nebraska churches; and Dr. Hiller's topic was renewing the church. Dinner was served at the church for all present.

Speech Honors for Ord High Nine

Nine Ord High students distinguished themselves at the Kearney District 4 speech contest March 19, winning two superiors and four excellents. It was the first time in eight years that Ord has participated in this contest, entering six events.

Roger Petska got a superior rating for his interpretative public address and the second superior was for oral Russian drama, "The Boor", by Chekov. This was a group effort with Bob Kapustka, Judy Stewart, Keith Burson and Kathy Calvin sharing honors.

Four excellents went to Peggy Prien for original public address, Carol Hulinsky for informative public speaking, Sharon Rysavy oral interpretation of poetry and Susan Misko oral interpretation of prose.

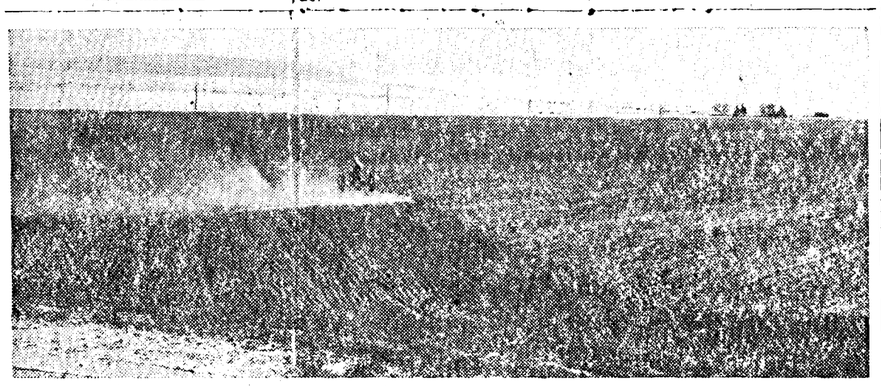
Ord will take these same events and prepare a one act play in addition for the Central Ten Conference meet at Seward April 6.

Times and Places Noted

The Community Betterment meeting scheduled for Wednesday night will begin at 8 p.m., according to Dr. Glen Auble. The time was omitted from the letter sent to all committeemen.

Meanwhile plans have been finalized for the RAD Banquet to be held Friday night at St. Mary's Auditorium.

Also on the list of upcoming events is the Sunday night dinner meeting of the Hi-Flyers Club, to be held this Sunday at the Ord Veterans Club at 7 p.m. The event is dutch treat.



HENRY IS HARROWING — The latest Valley County farm operator to take to sugar beets, Henry Lange was out in the wind last week smoothing off his 40 acres to billiard table perfection.

26 Groups Go All Out

Benefit Days Net Tidy Sum: $1,391

Women of this area proved they are no slouches at money raising for a good cause.

Devoting themselves intensively to raising funds for equipping the new hospital during the past few days has brought in $1,391.51 to date. This is after expenses are paid. And a few groups have not yet reported, said Mrs. Syl Furtak, chairman of the Auxiliary for 1963.

Mrs. John Wojtasek, general chairman for Benefit Week, said the ways of securing money varied from bake sales, card parties, coffees, serving noon lunch, traveling food baskets to cash donations.

Probably the most unique was the apron given by the ladies of the Christian church. They sewed their individual contributions under patches on an apron and then presented the whole apron to the Hospital Auxiliary.

Mrs. Ed Sevenker of Ord won the bedspread and John Miller of Oshkosh won the quilt given away by Auxiliary women.

Many clubs and workers gave hours of work toward helping the hospital. Among them, the HOA Club members furnished the clerks for the White Elephant sale Friday; Catholic women took over his task on Saturday. The Masonic Lodge donated the use of their basement for the week.

Style Show	$330.30
White Elephant Sale	$115.00
Quilt and Bedspread donations	$ 59.00
BPW Club	$ 24.50
Entre Nous Kensington	$ 20.00
Garden Club	$ 38.30
PEO	$ 38.50
Woman's Club	$ 25.00

Glowing Embers Extension	$ 20.00
Mutual Benefit Extension	$ 43.67
Neighborly Sisters Extension	$ 51.33
Catholic Altar Society	$ 40.15
Christian Church Ladies Aid	$ 18.00
St. John Lutheran Ladies Aid	$ 40.00
Mira Valley WSWS	$ 40.50
WSCS Methodist Church	$193.63
Mmes. Alberts, Allen, Calvin, Cronk, Hastings, Schoenstein	$ 52.25
Mr. & Mrs. James Ollis	$ 15.00
Elyria Community	$ 55.00
Ku-Mingle Club, North Loup	$ 25.00
Up-To-Date Club, Arcadia	$ 11.00

Auxiliary members will discuss the purchase of a piece of equipment for the new hospital at their next meeting, calendared for April 20 at the Presbyterian church at 2 p.m. Robert Noll, hospital administrator, has suggested the need for a hospital type microscope.

Unique Contribution

Money makes money, even when you forget it.

Harry Bresley and Bob Noll, sole survivors of the Loup Valley Poultry Association, this week drew from the bank a small nest egg leftover when the association discontinued its annual Poultry Show some 30 years ago.

The original amount was $287, thinks Noll. The two men contributed the principal and interest — $484.09 total — to the new hospital fund.

Why was the annual poultry show discontinued? People lost interest in the '30s. The county gained that interest back in the '60s.

ASC Signs 699 Farms

Feed Grain Contracts Up

As of March 22, farmers in Valley County had signed up 699 farms to participate in the 1963 feed grain program, Victor Cook, chairman of the ASC Committee reports.

The "intentions to participate" forms show 20,479 acres to be diverted from the production of corn, grain sorghum, and barley. The diversion is from base acreages (1958-60 average plantings) of 4,746 acres.

For farms signed up, estimated total payments for diverting acreage amount to $808,076.15, not including price-support payments to be made this fall.

40 More

The number of farms signed is 40 more farms in 1963 over 1962. Only 77 per cent as many acres will be diverted in 1963.

National program totals through March 7 show 642,835 farms signed up to divert 13,126,000 acres, from base acreages of 34,796,400 acres. Estimated total payments for diverting acreage on farms signed up amount to $253,813,300 not including price support payments to be made to cooperators.

In general, provisions for the 1963 program follow those for 1961 and 1962 crops by giving feed grain producers an opportunity to participate in the program by reducing acreages and devoting the land to conserving uses. By participating, they will receive diversion payments and price-support payments (new to the 1963 program), and be eligible to take part in the price-support loan program.

Price support for 1963 to farmers participating in the program will be made available on corn, grain sorghum, and barley partly through loans and purchase agreements and partly through and in-kind payment based on the normal production of the acreage planted this year to one or more of the three feed grains. The 1961 and 1962 feed grain programs have brought about a reversal of a 10-year buildup in feed grain surpluses.

By Oct. 1 of this year, estimated total feed grain stocks of 61 million tons will be down about 28 per cent from the record 84.7 million tons on Oct. 1, 1961. Continued participation around levels of the past 2 years should bring feed grain stocks near desirable reserve levels by Oct. 1, 1964.

Joann Waldmann

Joann Waldmann To Teach at OHS

Joann Waldmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Waldmann of Comstock, will teach English at Ord High School next year.

Miss Waldmann is a 1961 graduate of Kearney State Teachers College. She taught two years in Cheyenne County Community High School, St. Francis, Kan., and before that she taught five years in rural schools of Custer and Valley Counties.

Her brother Daniel is now a student at OHS.

Superintendent Walter Parks said two teachers remain to be hired, one to teach science in the high school and the other a grade school teacher.

Peggy Prien Wins Home Ec Scholarship

Peggy Prien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Prien of Ord, has been awarded a $500 Ak-Sar-Ben Scholarship to the School of Home Economics at Nebraska University.

Peggy recently received the Regents one-year award of $204. The home ec scholarship is conditional upon her attending the School of Home Ec with a sincere intention of completing the four-year course. If her college grades are at least 3.5 on the average the award will be repeated each of the four years.

Yearly Music Festival

The Valley County Rural Schools music festival will be Friday April 5 at 2:15 in the Ord High auditorium. Mrs. Kermit Erickson of Arcadia will again direct and the public is welcome.

This is an annual festival for rural students.

Mild, Fleecy Days Right on Schedule

Spring days are sweet,
Spring days are mild,
How loverly to be
An April child.
—Happy Hassie.

Spring blossomed like a rose in the North Loup Valley.

In a single week roadsides began to green up and tractors took to the fields for their annual harrowing and discing operations. It looks like an early planting.

Temperatures soared high in the 70s over the weekend. Weatherman Horace Travis recorded a high of 77 Sunday. The low for the week was 19 degrees March 21. Only a trace of precipitation was recorded Monday.

The rainfall to date for the year in Ord is 2.80 inches, compared to 3.48 inches this time last year.

Fire Hits Krahulik

Ord Volunters were called Friday afternoon about 2 o'clock to extinguish a feed bunker fire on the Harvey Krahulik farm southwest of Ord.

Damage was confined to the bunker, according to Fire Chief Melvin Clement. The origin of the blaze was undetermined but Krahulik was operating a tractor nearby when the fire started.

Far Out Features At Fair April 9

Cloud chambers, jet engines and working model ship gyroscopes will highlight the semi-annual Science Fair to be held at the Ord High School April 9 from 7 to 9 p.m.

More than 100 projects and some 200 students are involved in the event. Most of the projects, said Ron Walters of the high school science faculty, will be concerned with biology, but chemistry and physics will be well represented as well.

Included among the exhibits will be Civil Defense preparedness equipment such as Geiger counters and the like.

Third Time

This is the third such Science Fair to be held at the high school. School authorities decided at the outset to hold the fairs every two years so students might have ample time between innings to work their projects up. All grades 7 through 12 will be represented, although the 7th and 8th grades will be judged apart from the higher grades.

Some junior and senior students have already gone to great lengths procuring parts and specialized equipment for their projects. Walters said all his students are required to enter the Fair.

Among the biology exhibits to be shown are egg embryos, a sheep skeleton and white rats. Some students are working also on graphic illustrations of the fission and fusion processes in nuclear physics.

All are welcome to attend the air.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE TO EVERY NEBRASKA CORN GROWER

Before you buy a rootworm insecticide... be safe, be sure and consider all the facts

You will hear many conflicting claims for rootworm insecticides this year. In the interest of presenting all the facts that you need to make your decision, we feel obligated to bring you this message. Read the information on these pages carefully, study it, evaluate it, discuss it...Then make your decision.

Here are the reasons why you should use Diazinon® to control resistant corn rootworm

DIAZINON...Proved in commercial use. The only insecticide recommended for resistant corn rootworm control that has been successfully field-proved on hundreds of thousands of acres of commercially grown corn.

DIAZINON...Safe to use—easy to apply—no protective clothing required. The only insecticide recommended for resistant corn rootworm control that is not classified as highly toxic by the United States Public Health Service. In fact, Diazinon is listed as being less toxic through skin absorption than previously recommended soil insecticides for rootworm control.

DIAZINON...Safe to your corn seed. The only insecticide recommended for resistant corn rootworm control that is safe to corn, even when in direct contact with the seed.

DIAZINON...Not taken up by the corn plant. The only insecticide recommended for resistant corn rootworm control that is not taken up by the plant.

DIAZINON...Available in fertilizer mixtures. The only insecticide recommended for resistant corn rootworm control that has been made available in fertilizer mixtures.

DIAZINON 10G FOR CORN ROOTWORM CONTROL

Widespread field experience on hundreds of thousands of acres by farmers in 1962 has proved that Diazinon 10G will give you positive control of resistant and non-resistant corn rootworm. This free-flowing quality granular material is easy to apply. After application, the granules begin a slow release of Diazinon insecticide in the soil to give you sure, long-lasting control of the troublesome, destructive corn rootworms. Millions of dollars were lost to corn rootworm damage by farmers who gambled with ineffective control methods in 1962. Don't take a chance with your corn crop in 1963. Control resistant corn rootworm—get top yields. Use the field-proved safe soil insecticide...DIAZINON.

Diazinon is safe to use:

It is the only insecticide recommended for control of resistant corn rootworms that is not included in the "highly toxic" list published in U.S. Public Health Service Publication No. 772, Part II, page II-5. This same publication also shows Diazinon as less toxic through skin absorption than some of the soil insecticides most commonly used for corn rootworm control before resistance developed. In addition to this important safety aspect, there is the advantage of convenience when you use Diazinon, because no special protective devices and clothing are required.

Diazinon is safe to corn seed:

It is the only insecticide recommended for control of resistant corn rootworm that is safe when in direct contact with the s... This unique and outstanding safet... relieves you of the worry of ... of stand due to chemica...

Diazinon presents no crop residue problems:

Applied as a soil treatment, it is not taken up into the plant; grain and silage can be safely fed to livestock.

Diazinon is available in mixed fertilizer:

If you prefer to apply fertilizer and insecticide together, you can now do so with Diazinon—the only soil insecticide recommended for resistant rootworm control that offers you this convenience. This convenient method of applying fertilizer and insecticide together has been used by many farmers for years. These farmers are well aware of the simplicity and economy of applying insecticide and fertilizer in a single mix through one piece of equipment. These mixes may be made up to 60 days before application in the field—see your fertilizer supplier now and place your orders early.

GET ALL THE FACTS

To present the whole story on corn yields, it is important to look at all of the field test results. To help you evaluate the facts, we have reprinted (with permission) the complete data from Insect Letter No. 17, December 19, 1962, from the University of Nebraska Agricultural Notebook.

As you study these yield figures from the different Nebraska counties, you will see that these data show variability from plot to plot and from county to county as you would expect in any type of test plot work. You know from your experience with test plots that you have carried out on your own farm, that you must rely on average yields, not just on one selected small plot.

The average yield of all plots treated with Diazinon at the recommended 1 lb. rate was 124.6 bushels per acre. This was the highest average yield for all materials tested where yield data were available from more than one plot location. Consult the tables reproduced at right.

Diazinon insecticide U. S. Patent No. 2,754,243

The following tables give you all the data from all of the test plots as published in the University of Nebraska Insect Letter No. 17. READ THIS—STUDY THIS—calculate your own averages . . . draw your own conclusions.

It will pay you to shop around and select from the wealth of modern materials available, and to get bids on any contracting to be done. The time you spend on this phase of your program will pay you in satisfaction.

THIRD, Apply For A Loan:

At this point you are ready to obtain a loan to cover the costs of your complete project. Simply bring your plans, your price data, and any other helpful information to our office and we'll work out a loan with you. A home improvement loan for the sum you need can be arranged promptly, without red tape or delay. per capita.

"The trend is bullish," said Gould, "consumption worldwide is rising about two million tons per year."

Right now the price of refined sugar on the American market is $9.20 per hundredweight, and as of April 1 it will rise to $9.35 per hundredweight. A year ago the world price of raw sugar was $2.36. It's now $4.80.

Gould said there's a new trend in sugar handling. They're shipping it in liquid form, in tank cars and trucks. The new method is for handier for bulk users of suger, but so far American Crystal in Grand Island hasn't gone to liquifying.

Beet planting in the North Loup Valley should get underway by the second week in April.

One Small Universe

By Al Darr

Gene Jeffries of Broken Bow, whose Game Commission charge includes northern Custer County, Valley and Garfield Counties, stopped by and showed me his 12-gauge muzzle-loader the other day, a sure-fire scattergun, death on blue rocks and upland game alike.

Jeffries is a game warden of the old school. He likes people, loves his job and shows an intense interest in hunting and wildlife.

He's also a camera enthusiast, owns a twin-lens reflex plus a 35-mm., both of which he's looking to trade for a more flexible outfit, something that will take interchangeable lenses.

The warden's home was originally Trenton down on the Republican River.

"I've seen more wildlife up here in the past few months than I saw my whole life before in the Trenton area," said Jeffries, who like most of us has fallen in love with this area.

Among the wildlife he's seen: the blue heronry up on Gracie Creek, Walt Douthit's favorite hunting grounds. Walt wants to photograph the birds in color with a long lens. And so does Gene.

There's talk of a mountain lion or cougar over in northern Custer County, said Jeffries. He has a cat call that brings in bobcats and alley cats alike, and brings them in fast. Cougars aren't unheard of over west and I wouldn't like to be one within range of Jeffries' .244 custom rifle.

We haven't, incidentally, heard from our Turtle Creek cougar yet this year. There is a coyote lying on the highway south of Elyria that even the crows won't eat. No one appears to have scalped the thing for the bounty.

The Broken Bow warden is equally enthusiastic about fishing. He said they're taking rainbow trout out of Gracie Creek now and the bass farther west are already running to size.

A quartet of Elyrians and Ordites went to the north country Sunday and brought back a basketful of Lenten fare. Jack Holt's seven-pound catfish, snagged from the river, was a contender for heavyweight honors until George Svoboda came in with his 10-pound beauty that took the bait at Milburn Dam near Taylor.

Baseball Bats

Coach Bill Dickey, who stepped down as basketball mentor at OHS after the district tourney, isn't dancing jigs about his track team's prospects either. The cagers did turn in some pretty fancy work toward season's end, and Ken Truby will have a good crew of boys going in next fall. Truby's acceptance of the varsity cage chores means he'll be around to coach the football Chicks to another victorious year. He says he isn't a roundball coach but after watching him against the Jaycees Friday night we know he can play the game. He can probably teach the young varsity hopefuls a thing or two.

So now we have track and baseball. If we don't sweep aside all cinder opposition, we're sure to score high on the diamond. The Legion is talking about fielding only one team this year and we hope this doesn't come to pass. If the stands at last year's games were sparsely peopled, the baseball on both Midget and Junior Legion levels was good — and tremendous fun for the boys themselves.

The town team faces its usual problems. Too few players early in the season — too little batting practice — too small a following. Wishing for a winner won't get us one. Maybe someone will take hold this year with a strong hand.

Open House at Koupal and Barstow

Fresh Spirit at Veteran Lumber Yard

One of Ord's oldest business names shone with a new luster last weekend when the Koupal and Barstow Lumber Company held open house.

For the occasion the place was completely remodelled and redecorated, inside and out. New floors, new ceiling, new wall finishes, new lights and some added space changed the inside; outside new paint and modernizing touches gave a face lift.

The Koupal name vanished from active management of the firm last year with the death of Rudolph Koupal, whose father helped build early Ord through the medium of his lumberyard.

But the Barstow name, first appearing on the Ord scene in 1885 with the arrival of W. T. Barstow, continues on as his daughter, Miss Marjory Barstow of Lincoln directs new plans for the old company.

A native of New Hampshire, Mr. Barstow clerked in an Ord general store for a year, then bought grain for C. M. Jacques, and later formed a partnership with Mr. Jacques. They operated from Ord, Elyria and Burwell, also Greeley, Brayton, Arcadia, Woods Park, Sargent and Lumpkin. (Where is Lumpkin?)

Early Booklet

Mr. Barstow was also "largely interested in the lumber company of Yeager, Koupal & Company which handled about 1,500,000 board feet annually": so says an early day publication "The Headlight." The Headlight was published about 1905, a booster booklet for this region and its citizens.

But the Barstows, so long living in Lincoln and remaining quietly in the background, of necessity took a new look at the Ord lumberyard a few months ago. Marjory, whose home is in Lincoln says she has made 24 trips here during the past year to help with plans for revamping the Ord firm.

Coming to Ord one year ago from Hastings to be manager was Glen Holtz, who has had the able assistance of Vencil Huss, manager of the Sargent yard.

Friday and Saturday the results of all this hard work were shown to friends of the firm. There was a lot to see, not all of it new.

Digging through storage rooms Miss Barstow turned up several interesting early-day photographs. For instance there is a large and stunning picture of famous horses, including Dan Patch. Said John Haskell to Mark Tolen, "I remember that. I've admired it since I was a kid."

They had stopped to sample the coffee and inspect the place.

The many pictures of pioneers reflect the wide interests of the late Frank Koupal, Ord banker and father of Rudolph.

With the passage of the years a number of the K. & B. yards have been sold or closed. The old lumberyard building at Elyria is to be cleared away next and the ground turned into a park for use by residents of that vaillage.

"We think we'll put picnic tables out," relates Miss Barstow. The Village Board and the Lions Club are pleased at this prospect.

Favors at the open house included flowered pencils and carpenter's pencils for adults, and gum tidbits and balloons presented by six-year-old Mary Sue Holtz.

Over Estimate

Bids on the New Rock County High school came in considerably over the estimate last Thursday afternoon, as all bids were opened at the courthouse.

Low bidder with a base bid of $240,941 was Chris Lien Construction company of Holdrege. A bond issue, approved last November by the voters of Rock county, was for $240,000.

Lien's base bid, without alternates which would add $6,120, does not allow for architect fees or equipment.

Just what will be done to change the situation is not known at this time.

Wolbach Blaze

Wolbach's Post Office was destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning in a blaze that for several minutes threatened to spread to other north side business buildings.

The fire that was turned in shortly after 4:30 a.m. had spread through the major portion of the brick structure when the Volunteer Fire Department arrived.

Despite efforts to control the blaze with water from the 500-gallon tank on the fire truck the roof fire spread rapidly, blazing high and sending sparks over main street.

THE Ord Quiz

Too Many Loose Ends

Valley County voters (also non-voters) have now an A-1 opportunity to influence an important piece of legislation that will directly affect their pocketbooks.

On April 22, the state Unicameral is slated to vote on the income tax issue. This tax, as we've said before, would be enacted to replace the state property tax only, not city, county or school property taxes.

Its backers hope to raise about $50 million annually from a flat-rate tax on personal income amounting to about 2 per cent after a $600 exemption per dependent (except children). Corporations, which now pay a healthy share of the cost of state government, would be exempt.

The flat-rate income tax hits the moderate-income family hardest. What's more, this present tax proposal, once enacted into law, will be terribly hard to dislodge.

We've looked long in Nebraska for some relief for the property owner, and an income tax law, of whatever description, seems to promise relief. But will it, in fact, be genuine relief? Several of Ord's own best financial brains say no, in practice the new tax will often hit the property owner harder than he's being hit right now. And this includes the farm property owner.

If corporations are exempted, that slack must be taken up somewhere. The man who earns money, whether on the farm or in the city, will be the one to take up the slack.

The most disturbing thing about the proposed tax method, however, is its open-endedness. The step from 2 per cent to 3 per cent is a slight one, one that a highly pressured legislature could easily take any year after this one. Then the escalator starts its ride. And every across-the-board increase after that hits the middle-income family so much harder.

The Lincoln papers now hold out small hope for income tax adherents and they're probably right. But a letter to Senator Leroy Bahensky would still not be amiss.

. . . Or Let the Dogs Run Ord

This year as every year, only more so this year, the mothers of River City are in a quandary.

They dearly love their doggies but they love their children infinitely more. Through the spring, summer, fall and winter, they mother their children and their pets and at the same time suffer everyone else's children and pets to run unrestricted where they will.

This great love extends even to stray pets, and Ord abounds in stray pets, cats and dogs and turtles and chickens and occasionally little pigs. But stray cats and dogs usually aren't beneficial to the community. They get in the way and mess up people's yards and bark at the moon and cry for their mates — any mates.

The Police Department of Ord is aware that stray pets are a nuisance. Last summer the officers made many attempts to abate the nuisance. They lacked wholehearted public support. They arrested a licensed dog here and there for being off his leash. Their efforts were not blessed. They considered putting a few strays to sleep but felt it more politic not to make a big announcement to this effect.

This summer the officers should be backed by a specific resolution from the City Council. They should have full authority to eliminate stray cats and dogs from the streets. No officer should have to distinguish, without benefit of tag or collar, the stray pet from the house pet.

Ord is daily threatened by the four-footed beasties. Ord should not be overrun by them.

ALD

Eventually, Why Not Now!

Bassett, a town half the size of Ord, will soon install a 2,800-foot paved airport runway between 40 and 50 feet wide.

The cost overall: about $3,000. The cost to Bassett; $9,000.

Several years ago the Rock County town set up an airport authority, empowered to levy a 1-mill tax. The Federal government kicks in 50 per cent of the runway cost; the state provides 25 per cent. And to the people of Bassett, the project is practically painless.

Ord's council has talked about runways. One councilman suggested a low-cost blacktop strip, still a good idea if we want to avoid any more Federal deals.

But if the city can get by for less than $10,000 as Bassett is doing, how much better to have a standard-size runway, paved.

If the city got moving on the project and budgeted the money for the 1963-64 fiscal year, Ord could have a modern facility by the summer of '64.

Kenny Wells and The Forum

Kenny Wells likely isn't the best loved man in Nebraska's State Penitentiary.

Kenny edits The Forum, prison newspaper, and his line is conciliatory, which is to say, he counsels reform. Inmate reform, not prison reform.

"Rope Proves Achilles Heel to Escapees" read the headline over The Forum's prison break story two weeks ago. The story itself held moral overtones, unmistakable to a chronic Wells fan.

Yet underneath the Wellsian exterior with its weekly bid for patience and self correction, we sense another note. Maybe Ken is kidding us all.

We wouldn't, after all, expect the prisoner-editor openly to publish detailed escape plans each week. We wouldn't look for guard schedules, phases of the moon, tide tables (if they had tides in Lincoln) and the like. Old Ken couldn't very well tell his readers where and how to obtain the best files and hacksaw blades. Not openly he couldn't.

Here's a sentence from his lead editorial the same week he ran the escape attempt story: "Excessive penal servitude has a tendency to relinquish its effectiveness, serving no further purpose, either as a deterrent or as a punishment value."

Three years is really too long in durance vile, says Wells. The walls get to a man.

This might be a round-about way of saying, "Let's cut out of here lads."

But no. Kenny wouldn't be so obvious. If he's rendering a service to his colleagues, it must be a secret service. Maybe he has issued under separate cover, a labyrinthine code system, a Golden Book of Ciphers. He who holds this key can read between The Forum's lines and discover such things as the tensile strength of various rope fibers, the location of downspouts and even the combination to the warden's wall safe.

If Mr. Wells had such a thing going, we couldn't approve his skulduggery but we could commend his ingenuity. And although such a service to readers would be above and beyond the ordinary newspaper's sphere, The Forum is not an ordinary newspaper.

We'll continue to read the sheet with interest.

What Is the Mystery Game!

Having been thoroughly indoctrinated with the idea that printing done in Europe was of beautiful quality, I was curious to inspect examples of printing and engraving.

Sure enough I did enjoy looking at specimens of work so skillfully done that I felt sure it was hand colored. It actually looked like water coloring.

I particularly wanted to bring home from Europe some handsome playing cards but had trouble finding them.

In desperation one day I snatched up an attractive pack, paid for it and hastily went on my way.

oOo

A few days ago I took the deck out to play with . . . and to my complete amazement the deck of lovely cards was strange to me in every way!

I THINK it is a German game. I THINK the directions are in German. At the top of the cover card it reads Stadte-Quartett.

Now I'm not sure I'm repeating directions, or an ad, or what? But the next card bears a message . . .

"Wem dieses Spiel gefallen hat, wird sicher gerne wissen wollen, welche anderen Kartenspiele es noch gibt. In der vorliegenden Ausfuhrung sind bisher erschienen:" and then I think it describes four types of the game, whatever it is!

oOo

On another card it says Quartett-Spielregel.

And next . . . I hope these aren't dirty words or something . . . some good German or Austrian will have to interpret before I'll know . . .

Am Spiel konnen sich beliebig viele Spieler beteiligen, mindestens aber drei. Am Beginn werden die Karten gut gemischt und an die Spieler gleighmazig verteilt. Jeder Spieler pruft nun seine Karten nach vollstandigen Quartetten, d. h. Gruppen von 4 zusammengehorigen Karten; diese kann er ablegen. Aufgabe der Spieler ist es, durch Fragen moglichst viele Quartette zu bekommen und abzulegen. Der Spieler rechts vom Geber beginnt und fragt einen anderen nach einer Karte, die er zur Bildung eines Quartettes braucht. Hat der Bettreffende diese Karte, so Muzer sie den Fragenden ubergeben und dieser darf seine Mispieler weiter mach Karten, die ihm fehlen, fragen, bis ein Spieler die verlengte Karte micht hat. Diser darf nun selbst umfragen, solange er die gewunschten Karten erhalt. Wer aufmerksam zuhort, kann bald herausfinden, bei wem er die ihm fehlenden Karten zu efragen hat, wenn das Fragerecht an ihn kommt. Gewier ist, wer am Ese die meisten Quartette abgelegt hat.

oOo

Do you like that better than my usual remarks? More food for thought?

oOo

The deck is skimpy. Only about 24 cards I would guess. The picture backs are charming. Five or six of them are headed Frankreich. Five or so are headed Italien, and some are topped with Deutschland. Some say Schweiz . . . Switzerland to you. And some say Ostereich, or Austria. And a few, uninterestingly are titled England. Every card has a different scene portrayed on it.

Now, what is the game? How is it played? Didn't I get into a fascinating riddle? I'm so curious.

Someone tell me more.

Please?

Steen Adamant on Tailwaters Issue; Test Case Anyway

The governors of Nebraska and South Dakota have agreed that a friendly court case should be instituted so that the U. S. Supreme Court would determine the boundary between the states through the tailwaters area of Gavins Point Dam.

Even though the governors agreed and the South Dakota Game Commission also gave its approval, there was one holdout. That was M. O. Steen, director of the Nebraska Game Commission.

Steen maintains that the tailwaters, a hot fishing spot, are in Nebraska and that the matter is not negotiable. He also noted that the agreement to submit the boundary issue to a court test must be approved by the Nebraska Game Commission.

The Attorney General in each state will be directed to make the arrangements for the case.

The dispute stems from Steen's action last December when he announced he would cancel a reciprocal fishing rights agreement with South Dakota in the tailwaters area. He bluntly stated that his reason was prompted by the fact that South Dakota refuses to permit out-of-staters to hunt waterfowl in their state.

Even if the court case is made, Steen said, it won't change anything because he is sure the court would support his view.

Compromise Reached

It has been announced that the University Board of Regents, the university's volunteer medical staff, and full time staff have arrived at a compromise agreement on the school's medical college needs.

According to Dr. B. N. Greenberg of York, president of the regents, agreement has been reached on the need for a 200-bed hospital. He said it should be located on the campus and should utilize present facilities.

Greenberg said members of the volunteer staff have said they will attend a budget committee hearing this week in support of the university's request for funds to expand medical college facilities.

The volunteer staff and the full-time staff have not seen eye-to-eye on the expansion program.

Greenberg said the differences "have been thrashed out completely and now all are thinking in mutual accord."

Lottery Law

The freshly enacted lottery law is going to get a hard look from the Legislature.

The bill sped through the legislative processes with a minimum of difficulty — undoubtedly because the voters gave it such a thumping endorsement at the last general election.

Now some of the lawmakers are having some second thoughts. They fear that larger firms, specifically chain stores, can effectively use the lottery law for their own promotions but that the small merchant cannot afford to compete with the chains in these promotions.

A bill calling for repeal of the law has been introduced. But most of the legislators have made it clear they are only interested in writing a "tighter" law than the one they enacted about six weeks ago. Some of the senators believe, however, the bill they passed was about as restrictive as possible.

Sen. William Mouton of Omaha said the lawmakers are unduly alarmed. After all, he said, most of the other states have lottery laws similar to Nebraska's and they do not seem to have too much of a problem.

Reject Probe

The University of Nebraska Board of Regents has rejected a proposal by former Gov. Val Peterson that a committee of three editors investigate the Daily Nebraskan, student newspaper at the university.

In recent weeks, former state Sen. Ray Simmons of Fremont has charged that the student publication has slanted the news on the side of liberalism.

Peterson, a regent, said the Daily Nebraskan is "not a free newspaper in the sense that other newspapers are." He said it is an "adjunct of the university and its editors must keep in mind that what they say reflects on them, but more important on the university too."

He added that he is certain some of the comments carried in the publication have had an adverse affect on the university's budget.

The other regents present obviously felt that the university's policy on student publications and on their supervision have stood the test of time over a long period and remain adequate.

Power Bill Advanced

After many hours of extra work, the Public Works Committee has advanced LB 220 to the Legislature for debate.

The measure, known as the service area power bill, has been described as a key step in solving retail public power problems.

At the last minute, an amendment was approved under which the review board, set up in the bill, would have its membership number five, instead of three as originally proposed.

Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth, who patiently steered the bill through committee, has received the Legislature's approval for debate on it on April 8.

The five-member review board would consist of two laymen, an attorney, an engineer and an accountant.

The measure has two main aims — to establish the review board which would have broad authority, and to require retail power agencies to establish service area agreements which would have legal recognition.

The board would also have the power to intervene as an advisor into wholesale rate disputes and to make recommendations for working out such disagreements.

The bill stemmed from a Legislative Council Interim Study Committee which also was responsible for another bill calling for a stronger merger of generation and transmission.

Scout Controversy

Dear Sir:

Why won't Girl Scouts advance in Ord? In February a General Meeting place for all County Brownie Scouts and Girl Scouts was obtained, thanks to the County Brownie Scouts and Girl Scouts was obtained, thanks to the County Board of Supervisors. This is what the District Council advocates!

Also in February a coffee maker was bought through generous donations. An article in The Ord Quiz stated that it was to be used for Girl Scout investitures and father-daughter banquets as well as neighborhood meetings.

Did any one ever hear of the scout investiture or father-daughter banquet being held in the court house? No, certainly not! Yet our neighborhood chairman said that one troop leader said the coffee maker could not be taken out of the court house. This was not said! I ask, does this show intelligence?

One troop leader said their troop could not use the Scout Room because she had to meet at home to be near the telephone on account of their business. Now this troop is meeting in Christian Church basement! Again I ask, does this make sense? Are we in Scouts for the glory we can get? Does the neighborhood chairman and 3 or 4 of her favorites run the entire neighborhood? Why the bickering? Is it because our neighborhood chairman, secretary-treasurer and news reporter are afraid of being shown up?

I am in this Girl Scout organization to work for the Girl Scouts, and as long as I remain a troop leader I shall continue to work for the good of the Girl Scouts!

I was also informed by Mrs. Jay Nelson I had no right whatsoever to put any news in Ord Quiz concerning the Neighborhood Girl Scouts unless it was first censored by Neighborhood news reporter. This is a Girl Scout Rule which I was unable to find in the by-laws of the Council which I obtained at headquarters in Grand Island.

United Fund

Dear Irma:

Please repeat your article about united drives next January when each drive is starting to be organized. In order to unite them it would have to be started before the first drive. (Heart Drive I believe is in February).

It will take some planning by responsible people who favor such a drive but I feel it can be done and it needs to be done especially in rural areas.

The higher ups in these drives do not sanction it because they are afraid they won't get as much money from a small community as in separate drives but after all we are the ones who do the soliciting and we should be able to get as much money if everyone would cooperate and give as much to each drive as they usually do but give it all at once, designating to the solicitor how much of their contribution should go to each charity.

We made the first step in our school district, adding cystic fibrosis to our list because one family in our community is so afflicted.

Zeke's Preacher Bids For Funeral Previews

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Zeke Grubb's preacher come by the country store Saturday night, announced he had been away a couple days on business fer the Lord. He was called back, he reported, to one of his old churches to preach the funeral fer a member of the congregation that was knowed in them parts as about half sinner and half saved. The good Parson said he doubted a feller could be half-and-half in this matter but he wasn't there long enough to argue agin public opinion.

Anyhow, he told the fellers, they had a mighty good crowd at the Church. Folks in that section, he reported, come to funerals like they do weddings and homecomings. It gives 'em a chanct to gossip about their neighbors and talk about the crops.

He allowed as how his departed friend would've been mighty pleased to see all the fuss they made over him. They buried him in a cemetery 8 mile from the Church and while they was going from the Church to the grave, said the Parson, all cars stopped along the road. Farthermore, he told the fellers, they let the departed ride through red lights and put his name in the local paper.

It was a great pity, allowed the Parson, that folks waits till a man is dead afore he can git a kind word or deed. They'll catch him walking down the road while he's living and try to run over him, then pull off the road and stop when he's coming along dead. It would be mighty nice, he claimed, if a pore feller could git a preview of his funeral while he was still here to appreciate it.

On the home front, he announced, a few members of his congregation was having their troubles. Fer instant, he said Rufe Zinder come to him fer advice, said his old lady was gitting so crabby he was looking fer her to bite his head off.

He said he told Rufe that was the reason they wrote "fer worse" in the wedding rites, cause they knowed things would git worse from time to time. He told the fellers confidential that he didn't take no sides with Rufe in the matter, that the last time he got mixed up in a family fight he got the "worse" part.

And Hezekiah Adams come to him fer advise about his daughter, reported she was 17 and wanted to git married. The good Parson said he dodged that one, too. In fact, he told the fellers, the only real safe advise he ever heard a preacher give on personal matters come from a new pastor to his flock the first Sunday:

"Brethren and sisters, they is certain people you need to git acquainted with in carrying on the Lord's work. You ought to git acquainted with the High Sheriff and a few grocery stores that operates on the time-payment plan, and fer goodness sake, git acquainted with the Bank."

Yours truly,

KERRY ON

— whitewashed —

It never fails!

Last week the Seidlitz paint people held a color clinic here in Ord for their local dealer, Koupal and Barstow Lumber Company. As an added gimmick to enlarge the attendance, it was advertised that the Hospital Benefit would receive 25 cents for each adult present at the clinic.

Community conscious Lois Stevens, wife of Ray Stevens and sister of Floyd Boilesen — the Benjamin-Moore paint dealers in Ord — attended the clinic to help boost the hospital kitty.

Who won the door prize of $45 worth of Seidlitz house paint?

You guessed it — Mrs. Ray Stevens! Think she didn't have a hard time explaining that to her husband and brother?

— red faced —

Yours truly pulled the boner of the week.

I got pretty fired up over a bill in the Nebraska Legislature, and checked to see how our local legislator voted. I happened to be AGAINST the bill in question and I immediately checked the Lincoln papers to see how Senator Bahensky had voted.

Not finding his name listed among the six senators voting AGAINST, I sat down, compiled some facts and figures, then wrote Senator Bahensky a very, very nasty letter. From the solid stand I built up against the bill, I couldn't possibly see how the Senator could wiggle out of this one!

Saturday morning I got an immediate reply from Senator Bahensky. I didn't have to read much more than the first three lines, and here they are:

"Dear Mr. Leggett:

I received your letter in regard to the new bill, LB 765. I certainly appreciate your interest and concern and also want to make a correction. You have been badly misinformed on my vote."

I didn't have to read any further. The roll call lists Bahensky "Not-Voting."

So that's not a sunburn I'm going around with this week! Next time I'll engage my brain before I put my mouth in gear.

— a good sport —

I guess I'm a lot like the sportsman that enjoyed his vices but found time to attend church occasionally. One Sunday a visiting minister was preaching in the hometown of this sportsman — a town renowned for its horse races — and vigorously denounced gambling. The two met at the door.

"I'm afraid I touched one of your weaknesses," said the pastor.

"Oh, don't mind that," said the sportsman genially, "it's a mighty poor sermon that doesn't hit me somewhere."

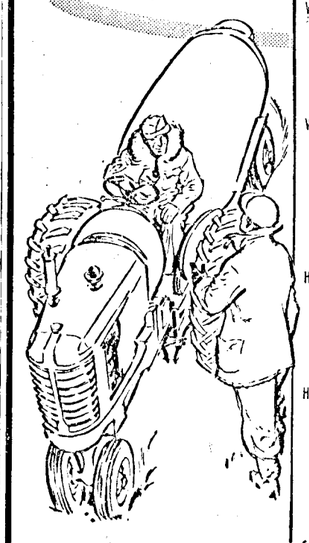
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT PHILGAS TRACTOR FUEL



WHAT IS PHILGAS? Philgas is the Phillips Petroleum Company trademark for its high-quality propane and butane (LP-Gas or bottled gas), the same fuel that has become so popular for home heating, cooking and other uses.

WHY ARE SO MANY TRACTOR OWNERS CONVERTING TO PHILGAS? Philgas is a very high octane fuel that delivers smooth power even under heavy loads, and with greatly reduced operating costs. At today's low prices Philgas offers big savings over other types of fuel.

HOW DOES PHILGAS SAVE ON MAINTENANCE? Philgas burns clean. There's less oil contamination and less engine deposits on rings and valves, which means lower engine maintenance costs and long engine life.

HOW IS PHILGAS STORED AND HANDLED? A central tank, refilled occasionally from your Philgas distributor's tank truck, can supply all your needs around the farm. With Philgas you use a closed fuel system which eliminates losses from evaporation, spillage or overfills.

CAN ANY TRACTOR USE PHILGAS? Yes. Your tractor can be converted to Philgas at no great cost. If you plan to buy a new one investigate models factory-made for Philgas. Talk it over with your Philgas distributor.

36 days that proved Ford's total performance!

RIVERSIDE, CAL. January 20

In a total performance test of brakes, suspension and steering on the twisting Riverside sports car course, Dan Gurney drove a Ford hardtop to victory over 43 other stock cars. The 500-mile grind demonstrated Ford's superior stamina and road holding.

MONTE CARLO January 23

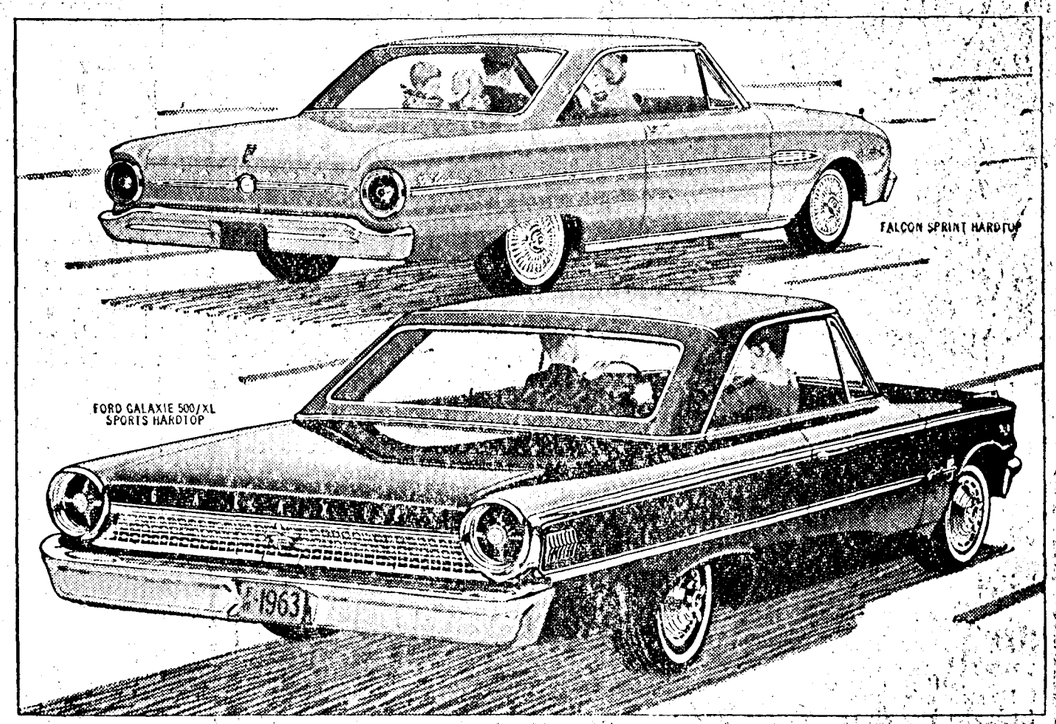
The '63½ Falcon V-8 Sprints made their debut with a fantastic showing in the 2,500-mile Monte Carlo Rallye. Through Europe's worst winter weather they placed 1st and 2nd in class. Besides this . . . one Sprint defeated every entrant in the Rallye's six special stages.

PURE OIL TRIALS January 27

In a competition designed to test all-around performance, Fords were overall winners in Class I and Class II in the Pure Oil Performance Trials at Daytona. Their total performance design added up to most total points in gas economy, acceleration and braking events.

DAYTONA, FLA. February 24

Daytona "500" history was made when '63½ Fords blazed into the first five places! Since Daytona is the toughest track in the world, this was eyewitness proof that Ford's total performance design can endure the maximum in automotive punishment.



... and here are the 63½'s that gave total proof of Ford's durability and handling!

You may never see a competitive auto event. But at 30 mph on rain-slick blacktop, in the close-packed rush of 5 o'clock traffic, on a twisting mountain road, the results are important to you. ☐ On every slippery surface you need the kind of roadability that placed five Fords out front in the Daytona "500." On every busy cross street—you want the brakes that won on Riverside's sports car circuit. Your engine will hold up better through years of turnpike use because it's as beautifully balanced as Falcon's Monte Carlo V-8's. ☐ The winning competition car is bound to be a great road car—and Ford is the big winner!

If it's Ford-built, it's built for performance . . . total performance!

THE THREE CROSSES

Three crosses on a hill. Each cross means something. They were all intended to mean the same... public recognition of guilt... just punishment for wrong-doing. But look closely! Each has a very different meaning. On one side, the Cross of hopelessness... hard, bitter, — "If Thou art the Christ, save Thyself and us." On the other side, the Cross of Penitence... "Lord, remember me when Thou comest into Thy Kingdom." In the center, the Cross of Atonement... "Today, Thou shalt be with me in Paradise." Before which cross are you bowing? Have you given up in utter despair? Have you thought of your own personal need of repentence... an about-face in life? Then go to church Sunday and kneel once more before the Cross of Calvary ...the Cross of Forgiveness... the Cross of Atonement with the God of all the universe... the center Cross.
