

Max's SHORTS

Surprise!

Returning from the tournament at Ainsworth Friday our group stopped at a cafe in Bassett to eat and this writer would like to air a complaint about those places that have only one restroom — for both men and women.

It's rather surprising, to say the least, to step out of the restroom and find a line of girls waiting to get in. But I'll say this — they were just about as surprised as I was!

(Golly! I hope they didn't think I was in the wrong restroom: Or was I??)

Nice To See Them

The holiday vacation is over and students attending the various colleges across the country are now returning to their classes. It is nice to visit with these youngsters and find that all seem to be doing well in college.

At Friday's game I visited with Ron Drudik and Alan Lee. Ron is attending school at Kearney and Alan is at North Platte Junior College. Alan is playing basketball there this year and has been used in nine games so far this year. He said his scoring average was not very high as he has been used sparingly, but feels that he is gaining a lot of experience.

We wish all of the college students from Ord the best of luck during 1968.

Mighty Cold

The temperature nose-dived rather suddenly Saturday night and many Ord and Valley County youngsters were surprised at finding a reading of 22 below the next morning. I went hunting that afternoon at Frank Kovarik's place and Mrs. Kovarik said one of their thermometers, on the north side, registered a chilling minus 30 Sunday morning!

Something SLIPPED!

Every once in a while the gears slip someplace and we make some red shinning errors. This occurred sometime Wednesday when we listed the name of Mrs. W. E. Lincoln as winner of the color television given in the final holiday drawing. The real winner was Mrs. Frank Augustyn of Ord and we'd like to apologize to Mrs. Lincoln for perhaps giving her the idea that she was the winner and to Mrs. Augustyn for giving her the idea that she was not the winner.

The error was spotted before the press run was complete and the story was corrected — but the erroneous story appeared in some copies of the QUIZ. (Oh, those Monday holidays kill me!)

Slipping Around

Ord and Valley County youngsters are now enjoying ice skating as the recent cold weather has frozen the ice to a safe thickness on most ponds. In Ord youngsters have been enjoying the holiday break by using Auble Lake, north of the city park. The ice there is in good shape and no one need worry about breaking through, since the deepest place in the lake is not much more than two feet.

We'd suggest, however, that if you are planning on using farm ponds to make sure that the ice is safe, since many of these ponds are deep enough to drown in if the ice breaks.

New Correspondent

Mrs. J. B. Zulkoski is our new correspondent at Elyria. She replaces Mrs. Opal Kuklish, who has been writing news from that area. We want to thank Mrs. Kuklish for her past service to the QUIZ and to welcome Mrs. Zulkoski to the QUIZ staff. Mrs. Zulkoski's telephone number is 728-3833 — so you folks in that area give her a call with your news.

C. W. Club No More

After 42 years of service to the church and community the Cotesfield Woman's Club voted last week to discontinue. Six members were present for the final meeting and lack of membership was cited as one of the reasons for disbanding.

This club was organized in January, 1925 at the Henrietta Hansen home as a social club with nine young women as members. Grace Leth was elected president and Henrietta Hansen, secretary and treasurer. The club voted to meet every two weeks on Thursday, a tradition the club carried out ever since.

No one was ever denied a membership to the club and children were always welcome. Most of the time they outnumbered the members which made the club a howling success. As the members grew, the club voted to take over some of the expense of the E.U.B. Church. Each year they pledged money for the minister's salary, helped pay the janitor and purchased items for the church.

The club has done various things through the years to raise money, such as holding bazaars, serving lunch at farm sales, and serving at weddings and anniversaries.

"We feel that the club will be missed by both the church and the community, and feel sorry the club was forced to quit," a member commented.

The QUIZ would like to congratulate this organization for its

Those Mild Days? That Was A Year Ago!

Those mild temperatures which prevailed in Valley County up to and including Christmas have disappeared in a swirl of Arctic air which lowered thermometers to a bone chilling minus 14 early Wednesday morning.

But area residents were already for it since the lowest low in recent weeks was recorded Dec. 31 when the mercury nosedived to 21 degrees below zero in Ord.

Tuesday's low mark was nine below and the highest the mercury climbed during the day was 10 above. And just to remind us that it is winter Mother Nature dumped a few inches of snow on the area on Dec. 30.

The amount of precipitation in the snow, according to Ord weatherman Horace Travis, amounted to .12 in moisture or slightly more than one inch of snowfall.

All roads and highways in the area are clear of snow, except in a few isolated spots, but Ord streets remain slick and treacherous.

The Ord Police Department

cautions drivers to be exceedingly careful in and around intersections as in the areas the snow has been packed down to almost pure ice.

The Ord street department has scattered sand at the intersections, but fast driving in these areas is discouraged.

There is no snow in the current forecast, but the temperature is expected to remain low at night as the cell of cold weather holds steady over this part of the country.

Sears Takes Over C Of C Luncheon Thursday Noon At Parly Paradise

Don Sears will take over the presidency of the Ord Chamber of Commerce at the regular monthly luncheon meeting Thursday noon at Parly Paradise.

Sears, who served as vice-president the past year, replaces Cork Greenway, who assumed the presidency when Clark Yanda moved to Kearney in the middle of 1967.

Sears will announce the names of three new board members which were recently elected by mail balloting. He reports that 105 out of the 141 members voted for the board members.

Other items on the meeting agenda include a discussion on the annual membership dues drive, the Chamber of Commerce has adopted the slogan "Let's Be Great in '68" and urges all members to be sure to attend this first meeting and start the New Year out in the right direction.

That's Thursday noon — at Parly Paradise.

Schuyler Here Friday; Ord At Aurora Saturday

The Ord Chanticleer basketball team faces a busy weekend of hardwood action starting Friday night when the Schuyler Warriors visit and on Saturday night when the Chants travel to Aurora for a game with the Huskies.

The Ord - Schuyler tilt figures to be possibly one of the stiffest tests of the season for both teams. The Warriors will bring the same team to Ord that was beaten in the State Class B finals a year ago and a team that is currently undefeated. Game time is 8 o'clock Friday and there will be no preliminary game. The Chants are now 6-1.

On Saturday night the Chants will face Aurora on the Huskies' hardwood and this also figures to be a tough game as Aurora uses a tight man-for-man defense, plus good execution of the fast break. The Huskies are currently 5-2 for the season — most recently whipping St. Paul and Ravenna in the Aurora Holiday Tournament. There will be a reserve game preliminary at Aurora.

All Ord fans are urged to be on hand at game time for both of these games, which should furnish excellent basketball entertainment.

Icy Streets Are Cause Of 2 Car Mishaps In Ord

The Ord police department investigated accidents during the past few days which resulted in extensive damage to the vehicles but no one was injured. In both cases slick streets were given as the cause for the mishaps.

Tom Dworak, Lincoln, was in a one-car accident Sunday evening when he skidded on the ice at 14th and Q streets and hit a pole. The right front fender and the grill of the car was damaged an estimated $100.

On Saturday a car driven by Tom Galley, rural Ord, collided with one driven by Rick Dunbar at the intersection of 19th and J Streets. Dunbar was traveling south on 19th street when the car, driven by Galley, came out of J Street and skidded into the Dunbar car.

Damage to the Dunbar car was estimated at $250 and damage to the Galley car was estimated at $200. The right front of the Dunbar car was damaged and the front of the Galley car was smashed.

Effective January 7 Postal Rate Increases Explained By Stoddard

Fred Stoddard, Ord postmaster, today explained in detail the new postage rate increases which will go into effect Sunday, January 7, all across the nation.

Here are the main mail rate changes:

First class mail, six cents per ounce.

Airmail, 10 cents per ounce.

Postal cards, five cents each.

Air mail postal cards, eight cents each.

Third class mail, individual pieces, six cents minimum.

The new rate of six cents per ounce for first class mail applies up to 13 ounces. Stoddard said, and the new rate of 10 cents for air mail applies up to seven ounces.

All first class mail over 13 ounces will be merged into a single category and a flat rate of eight cents per piece will be charged in this category.

The heavier pieces of first class mail and air mail subject to the single rate schedule will be delivered by the fastest available means of transportation. For all mail weighing more than one pound, the present air parcel post rates will continue, except that the postage on matter weighing between one and five pounds will change at half-pound intervals rather than one pound intervals.

The new rate schedule will be available on third-class parcels weighing between eight and sixteen ounces (this has not been available since 1958).

There will be no change of rate for special delivery, special handling, registered, certified, C O D or insurance.

American Legion Post 38 Honors E. L. Vogeltanz

By unanimous vote of the members present, Fidelity Post 38 of the Ord American Legion, awarded E. L. Vogeltanz, a lifetime position on the Veterans Memorial Building Committee at a recent meeting.

This committee was formed in 1938 by interested members of both the VFW and American Legion in order to formulate the corporation governing club activities.

Other members serving limited terms with Mr. Vogeltanz are: Leon Klanczyk, Horace Travis, Clark Weckbach, Co-Treasurer; Jimmie Sich Jr., Lloyd D. Zikmund and Harold Christensen, Co-Treasurer and the commanders and adjutants of Fidelity Post 38, American Legion and Post 7029, VFW.

Mr. Vogeltanz is the first recipient of this honor.

Quiz Subscription Rate Remains Same

In spite of proposed postal increases and the rising costs of newspaper production QUIZ Publisher Kerry Leggett announced today that the QUIZ will hold the line and keep the same subscription rates in 1968 as it had in 1967.

Subscription rates for the QUIZ are $6.00 per year in Nebraska and $7.00 per year outside of the state.

Limits On Farm Work For Youth Effective Jan. 1

LINCOLN — It will be illegal for farmers to permit youth under 16 to operate tractors, work around self-unloading machinery, or perform other hazardous jobs after January 1, Nebraska farm operators were reminded this week.

Sixteen specific hazardous occupations or tasks in agriculture prohibited for children below 16 years of age were published in the Federal Register November 7. Others include the handling of many pesticides, working with many types of power-driven farm implements, including stationary balers, feed grinders, silo fillers and crop dryers; and working in a yard or pen occupied by a dairy bull, boar or stud horse.

However, the child labor order issued in November by the U. S. Department of Labor does not apply to children working on their parents' farms. Vocational agriculture students who have met specific requirements and youth in supervised training programs also may be excused.

School Board To Meet January 8

A new book — "Special Report on Religion" by the Gallup Opinion Index, is now available at the Ord Public Library. The book was presented to the library by the Valley County Ministerial Association and contains all kinds of information about religion from a local standpoint to the worldwide level.

Anyone interested in reading the report may do so by checking it out from the library.

Theater Doesn't Agree With Zero Weather Outside

Ed Christensen, owner of Ord Theater, apparently doesn't like to publicize the cold weather we have been having lately, at least not according to the sign on the marquee.

The title on the marquee: "IN THE HEAT OF NIGHT!"

Come on, Ed! Who are you kiddin'!

(Wednesday's low — 14 below zero.)

Guidelines For School Teachers Have Changed!

In the November 27th issue of the Dawson County Herald, Lexington, appeared the following: "Times do change, and for the better, too. These faculty guidelines were issued by New York City school system in 1872:

(1) Men teachers may take one evening each week for court-judging purposes, or two evenings a week if they go to church regularly.

(2) After ten hours in school, teachers should spend the remaining time reading the Bible or other good books.

(3) Women teachers who marry or engage in unseemly conduct will be dismissed.

(4) Every teacher should lay aside from each pay day a goodly sum of his earnings for his benefit during his declining years so he will not become a burden on society.

(5) Any teacher who smokes, uses liquor in any form, frequents pool or public halls, or gets shaved in a barber shop will give good reason to suspect his worth, his intentions, integrity, and honesty.

(6) Teachers each day will fill lamps, clean chimneys and trim wicks.

(7) Each teacher will bring a bucket of water and a scuttle of coal for the day's session.

(8) The teacher who performs his labors faithfully and without fault for five years will be given an increase of 25 cents per week in his pay, providing the Board of Education approves."

ASSESSMENT TIME—The Valley County Assessor and his three assistants were busy Tuesday as the first day of assessing got underway in the county. Shown above is John Lemmon assistant assessor, on the right as he fills out a schedule for Walter Connor, left, of rural Ord. Irgn Mottl, county assessor and his deputies, are working daily on business schedules in the offices on the top floor of the courthouse. Lemmon is located in an office on the ground floor of the courthouse.

Business Slow In County Court

In other business a marriage license was issued to Jerry Lee Hawley, 20, Arcadia and Bonita Lee, 19, Arcadia.

FUN IN THE COLD!—Tuesday was the last day of holiday vacation for the Ord school students and although the temperature hovered around zero most of the day several youngsters braved the cold weather to go skating on Auble pond in Ord. Shown above are three red-faced youngsters as they make their way around the ice. The pond was one of Ord's most popular places during vacation as the low temperatures brought solid ice for skating. The mercury Wednesday morning was 14 below in Ord after a minus 21 degree reading Dec. 31.

A talent for working with animals and with needle and thread helped two Nebraska girls win a trip to the recent National 4-H Club Congress.

Miss Ogden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren J. Ogden, has been sewing for eight of her nine years in 4-H Club work. She won county, district and state fair honors on more than a dozen occasions. As a junior leader she has helped younger 4-H seamstresses by judging and staging clothing demonstrations.

producer and distributor of natural gas, announced today that it has dropped plans for a merger into United Utilities, Inc. of Kansas City, Mo., and "will concentrate on expanding its own diversification and acquisition program."

In a letter to shareholders, Thomas Creigh, Jr., president, disclosed that Kansas - Nebraska has just purchased, for cash, the country's second largest processor of alfalfa feed products (the alfalfa dehydrating division of Archer - Daniels - Midland Corporation) and five more liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) distributing companies in Colorado and Nebraska.

The newest acquisitions bring to 11 the number of companies acquired by Kansas - Nebraska this year which, together, add approximately $17 million in sales to the company's volume, "and represent an excellent potential for profitable diversified growth," Mr. Creigh stated. Kansas - Nebraska's sales for the 12 months ended September 30, 1967 - exclusive of any acquisitions this year - were $41,898,739. The new acquisitions thus increase volume by about 41 percent. The company's principal business is production, processing and transportation of natural gas to retail and wholesale markets in Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming.

In announcing termination of the merger efforts, Paul H. Henson, board chairman and president of United Utilities, and S. D. Whiteman, chairman, and president Creigh of Kansas-Nebraska, stated that the decision was made because of complications caused by certain regulatory aspects, the present high-cost money market and litigation surrounding efforts of Kaneb Pipe Line Company to take over control of Kansas - Nebraska. "When the litigation is concluded, or ceases to be a factor, Kansas - Nebraska and United Utilities will decide if merger studies should be resumed," Mr. Creigh told shareholders.

Regarding the new acquisitions, Mr. Creigh reported: Purchase of the alfalfa dehydrating division of ADM marks Kansas - Nebraska's entry into its third new field of business this year, all closely allied to its natural gas operations. The acquisition will become effective on January 1, 1968. The alfalfa company will be operated as a wholly - owned Kansas - Nebraska subsidiary under the name of Western Alfalfa Corporation.

Last year the alfalfa dehydrating division reported sales representing more than 10 per cent of total nationwide alfalfa product sales. It operates 28 dehydration, storage and blending facilities in Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and Missouri producing alfalfa feed products in pelletized form from freshly cut alfalfa hay.

Mr. Carrol P. Syverson former manager of the division will become manager of Western Alfalfa Corporation and all former ADM employees will be retained by Kansas - Nebraska. General office for Western Alfalfa will be in Kansas City, Mo.

The five newly-acquired LP gas companies - four in the Denver, Colorado, area and the fifth in Scottsbluff, Nebraska - will be operated by Western Gas Corporation, a wholly-owned Kansas-Nebraska subsidiary established to handle the company's LP gas activities. Western gas now has a total of nine marketing operations, with annual sales in excess of 11 million gallons of propane.

In addition to its natural gas and LP gas operations, Kansas - Nebraska owns Excelsior Oil Corporation, which is an oil drilling, production and natural gas processing operation, and Williams Pressure Service, a firm specializing in hydrostatic pipeline testing, also acquired this year.

The Denver companies acquired are Howard's Propane, Central Propane Services, Carl's Propane and Tri-County Gas Company. They will be operated as the Denver division of Western Gas Corporation. Mr. Don Sewell, former owner of Tri-County Gas, has been named manager of the Denver division, which has annual sales of about 3 million gallons of propane. The division serves mainly retail domestic LP gas customers in the rural Denver area and mountain suburbs. "This domestic market, balanced

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

If the calendar did not provide a New Year's Day, we would have to devise one. We need an annual breaking point — a time to stop and take stock of ourselves — a time to renew our determination — a time to check our goals — and a time to make a fresh start. HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Almost all parents have heard the old saying, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." A University of Illinois safety specialist reminds us that this is more true now than ever before, especially when you combine children and school buses and put them on crowded highways and streets.

Last year, school bus accidents accounted for many students being killed, in addition to the thousands who were injured.

Give your child these guidelines:

1. Get to the bus stop on time. Leave home early. Don't rush.
2. Stay off roads. Whether you are walking or waiting for a bus, don't compete with cars for highway space. Cross only at corners.
3. Use bus handrails. This will prevent slipping, falling, or tripping.
4. Take a seat promptly. A jerky start may throw you into a seat or on the floor causing injury.
5. Keep aisles clear. Hold books, lunch boxes, and other belongings on your lap. Keep feet and legs under your seat so others won't trip.
6. Hold on if you must stand. Generally, there are handles on seats or straps suspended from ceiling.
7. Keep windows closed. Open them only when the bus driver gives permission. Never stick your head or arm out.

8. Keep quiet. It is important for the driver to hear, as well as see, especially at railroad crossings.
9. Save trash. Keep it for a waste can or basket. Never throw things in, at, or out of a bus.
10. Act your age. Don't horse around and distract the bus driver.
11. Stand clear of the bus after getting off. Buses have mirrors so the driver can see you but only if you stand clear of the bus. If you must cross in front, walk at least 10 feet away so the driver knows when to proceed.
12. Obey the driver. Your life is in his hands.

VOX POP

Jan. 2, 1967

Dear editor,
 Today at the beginning of 1967 I want to sing the praises of science and the moral maturity of mankind. Medical science has again this year made it possible for us to live longer. Now even my heart can be traded in for a new model. We all can look forward to extra years of enjoyment because of exploding knowledge.

But this year the scientists have furrowed brows of anxiety because of another explosion, the numerical explosion of which we hear so much. This is why I want to praise mankind and you for your moral excellence in dealing with this terrifying problem this last year and particularly during the holidays. Unselfishly most of the nation took the cure. I salute you, America, for the thousands of gallons of alcohol you consumed. Particularly I salute you who had courage enough to take the alcohol and then drive your car. You did well to kill so many people. I am sorry if you missed getting your limit but keep trying, you will, I am sorry for your dead upon the highways, but lift your head, America, alcohol mixed with automobile is the well-known answer to our population problem.

Gratefully,
 Don Wright

Tournament Action

I'LL TAKE IT!—The action was rough under the boards Friday night at Ainsworth as shown above. Ord's Gerald John wrestles the ball away from Burwell's Doug Roberts, who was charged with a foul on the play. The Chants moved to a 40-18 halftime lead in handing the Longhorn team its first defeat of the season.

TWO MORE POINTS—Ord's Jim Lukesh fires in two points on a turn around jump shot against Burwell Friday evening as the Chants moved from a 8-3 deficit in the first quarter to win going away for first place in the holiday tournament at Ainsworth.

HEAVY TRAFFIC!—Ord's Ron Bredthauer grimaces as he loses the ball to Burwell's Don Lindsey Friday evening in the championship game at Ainsworth. Looking on at left is Burwell's Doug Roberts and Ord's Gerald John at right. Bredthauer had 14 points and 14 rebounds against the Longhorns.

Chants Successfully Defend Holiday Title With Win Over Burwell, L. City

By Max Good Quiz Editor

The Ord Chants disposed of Loup City Thursday night and then took the measure of Burwell Friday to win the Holiday basketball tournament held at Ainsworth. Missing from the lineup was Ord's 6-8 Lyle Christensen, who was sick with the flu.

In the opening ball game Loup City was no match for the Chants as Coach Ken Trubey's troops swept to a 19-7 first quarter lead held a comfortable 44-28 halftime lead. Tall Ron Bredthauer was Ord's high scorer against Loup City as he canned 26 points on eight field goals and a perfect 10 for 10 at the charity line.

In the championship game Friday it was a bit different story at the start of the game as the Longhorns raced to a quick 8-3 lead, but after a defensive adjustment the Chants pulled away to an 18-12 first quarter lead then outscored Burwell 22-9 in the second quarter for a handy 40-18 halftime lead.

Sophomore Bill Klanecky was Ord's big gun against Burwell as he collected 23 points, but it was Jim Lukesh who led the first and second quarter uprising against the tough Longhorns.

Lukesh fired in 18 points in the first half getting four points in the first quarter and then five straight fielders and a pair of gift shots in the second quarter to account for 12 of Ord's 22 points in that period.

With the score 8-3 in favor of Burwell, Bredthauer hit a long shot to make it 8-5. Klanecky drove in and it was 8-7; Kunz hit from the side and it was 9-8 Ord in front and Lukesh made it 11-8 with a shot from the top of the key. Lukesh then hit again to make it 13-8 and after that it was Ord all the way. In the second quarter Lukesh fired six times with five falling in and he ended the half with a hot seven of nine from the floor. In the second half Burwell covered Lukesh and he did not score in the last two periods of play.

Klanecky's all-around play earned him "Star of the Week" honors by the World-Herald.

Against Loup City Bredthauer led a second half rally as he tossed in 16 points all in the second period after getting 10 in the first half. In that period Bredthauer hit six of ten from the floor and four of four from the gift line. For the entire game Bredthauer had eight of 19 from the floor.

Against Burwell Klanecky came up with 23 tallies, getting nine in the first half and adding 14 in the second half. He had six field goals and a near-perfect 11 of 12 from the gift line. He ended the game with six of 15 from the floor.

In the Loup City game Ord hit 39 percent from the floor and 79 percent from the gift line. Loup City, led by Slominski with 22 points, hit 28 percent from the floor and 77 percent from the charity line. Ord fired 79 times and hit 30 and Loup City shot 77 times and hit 21.

Ord committed 23 fouls and Loup City had 17. In turnovers Ord had 15 and Loup City 17. Ord once again showed power in rebounding as the Chants took off 54 rebounds compared to 36 for Loup City. Bredthauer was Ord's leading rebounder with 19 and Lukesh was close behind with 15.

In the Burwell game Ord hit 45 percent from the floor and Burwell had 26 percent. Ord hit on 26 of 37 shots and Burwell hit on 13 of 70. Ord hit 15 of 22 free throws for a 68 percent average and Burwell hit on 12 of 18 for a 67 percent average. Burwell committed 18 fouls and Ord 15, and Ord had 19 turnovers compared to 14 for the Longhorns. Bob Beat was Burwell's top scorer with 13 points.

Ord edged Burwell 38-34 in rebounds with Bredthauer picking off 13 to lead in that department. Lukesh was second high in rebounds with nine.

Coach Ken Trubey said he was pleased with the play of Ord in view of the fact that Lyle Christensen was unable to play either ball game as he was sidelined with the flu. The big center is expected to be ready to play Friday night when the Chants play host to undefeated Schuyler.

SPORTS with Max Good

There will be quite a lot riding on the outcome of the Ord-Schuyler basketball game here Friday evening. No doubt the winner of this game will go on and win the Central 10 Conference crown, plus the fact there is a lot of prestige riding on the outcome.

Last year this same Schuyler team went to finals of the Class B tournament at Lincoln and fell to Holdrege, the same team that sidelined Ord in the district. Earlier last year the Chants took on the Schuyler Warriors on the Warrior hunting grounds and the Chants whipped the Schuyler club by three points.

This year, the same as last, it will no doubt be a battle of the big men. Ord's Lyle Christensen will face Schuyler's Chuck Jura. Chris is 6-9 and Jura about 6-10. A year ago Christensen held the edge on Jura, but a year ago Chris was in good health.

This year Lyle will be going into action after a serious bout with the flu — one that sidelined him in the two games a week ago and he wasn't around yet Tuesday for basketball practice. Coach Ken Trubey said that he was listing Lyle as a starter, but that was a possibility that he might not see much action unless he recuperates rapidly and is in good health.

So we will wait and see what happens on Friday — we hope Lyle is ready to go — although the Chants have shown some good basketball without his services and with him in top shape they should once again take the measure of the Schuyler ball club.

Don't forget to renew those hunting and fishing licenses. Down in the corner of each issue it says: "Expires Dec. 31, 1967". That also goes for your upland game bird stamp — it is also issued yearly — so before you break the law — get 'em renewed!

The College All-Stars and the Ord Independents battled it out Friday evening at Ord High gym with the Independents coming out on the winning side of the ledger 60-58.

Verlin "Snitty" Smith was the hero of the ball game as he launched a beautiful shot right at the buzzer and it banked into the basket. (Some called it was "step shot") Whatever it was, it was enough to edge the college aggregation.

Top shooters for the college group were John Linke with 10 and Larry Kapuska, with the same amount. Lynn Nelson and Alan Cetak topped the Independents with 20 points apiece.

Chants Host Schuyler's Big Boys Friday Night

Ord-Schuyler Starting Lineups

Table with columns for Name, No., Ht., Pos., Name, No., Ht. for both Ord and Schuyler teams.

Battle lines were being drawn today for the Ord-Schuyler basketball game which shapes up to be one of the best games of the season — and no doubt the toughest game of the season for both teams involved.

Coach Jay Muma of Schuyler will bring an undefeated team to Ord for the ball game scheduled for 8 p.m. Coach Ken Trubey of Ord will counter with a ball team that is now 6-1 on the season.

The Warriors of Schuyler are the same team that Ord whipped a year ago, but now they are a year older and more mature and seasoned. Coach Muma's first six players consist of five seniors and a sophomore.

Coach Trubey's first players are made up of four seniors and one junior and a sophomore and gone are such players as Alan Lee, John Linke, Ron Drudik and Roger Sorenson who were on hand a year ago to help beat the Warriors.

On the doubtful list for Ord is Lyle Christensen, who sat out the two tourney games in which the Chants were victorious. Coach Trubey says he'll need Christensen against Schuyler's excessive height and he hopes the big center will be ready to go.

Through five ball games Christensen has scored 80 points or 16 points per game. He'll be matched against Chuck Jura, 6-0 Warrior center, who is averaging about 30 points per game.

Ord will also go with Ron Bredthauer, a junior, who has fired in 109 points in seven games for slightly better than a 15 point per game output.

Up front will also be Jim Lukesh, lanky center forward, who has 85 points in seven games, plus a bundle of rebounds.

In the back court it will be Sophomore sensation Bill Klanecky, who has 92 points in seven games for a 13 point average. In the other back court spot will be either Gary Sedlacek or Mike Kunz. Sedlacek has played in all seven games and has scored 37 points, Kunz has been used sparingly.

There will be no preliminary game Friday evening, but come early as a large crowd is expected to be on hand to support the Ord Chants in this all-important ball game.

Since 1962, the number of deer killed on Nebraska highways has been double the archery kill.

Brook trout spawn early in the fall in Nebraska, from September through November.

Wasps have a keen sense of smell and use it to locate food.

Mallard ducks prefer a diet of sedges, grasses, smartweeds, and other aquatic plants.

Another sports note — the Ord Junior High School basketball teams will play Barr Junior High School of Grand Island at the Ord gym Thursday afternoon with the first game at about 4 o'clock. Go, Chicks, go!

He and his wife, Pattie, have three children: Julie, 10, Jimmy, 9, and Jody, 12. Miller will continue to reside in Hastings, Nebraska. K.N.'s chief operating headquarters.

Wrestlers to Central City

WRESTLERS TO CENTRAL CITY—Ord's high school wrestlers will head for Central City Saturday to take part in a tournament that begins at 10 a.m. in the morning and will run through the evening. Coach Jim Ramsey and the squad have been working hard preparing for the meet. Here are some of the holds they have been working on recently. At right Terry Lee attempts to pin Jim Naive; center shows Bruce Hurlbert preparing to take down Tim Markley and at left two Ord wrestlers are in action as one attempts to bridge out of the hold the top wrestler has on him. The Ord team, in its first year of wrestling, has yet to win any meets, but is looking to the future for better results after gaining experience. Three sessions are slated at Central City for morning, afternoon and evening.

North Platte Man Heads New Group To Petition Against New State Tax

The Nebraska Taxpayers' Research and Information Council on State Income Taxes, a non-profit corporation, headquartered at North Platte, Nebraska, will provide the public with information concerning the effects of state spending and the effects of the new state income tax.

Loren Morris, of North Platte, is chairman of the group. Speaking in behalf of the organization, Morris says, "The people of this state have been hood-winked. For this reason we are going to draw up a petition and inform the public how this petition may be used to constitutionally remove the state income tax law from the books."

Mrs. Marco has done an excellent job of reporting the Arcadia news for the past two years, but finds that other duties force her to give up writing for the QUIZ. Mrs. Lyberger's telephone number is Arcadia 769-2511, so you folks in the Arcadia area give her a call with your news.

Synthetics Threaten Natural Foods Of Animal Agriculture

By Bernice Camp Information Director

Nebr. Farm Bureau Federation Synthetics threaten the natural foods of animal agriculture. Most threatened by imitations presently is the dairy industry, but there are chemically created substitutes for other foods and more are possible.

In the dairy industry, as with other agricultural commodities, the imitations are based upon substitution of cheaper vegetable oils and proteins for animal-created products. The substitutes in dairying use cheaper grades of milk as a base, but can be of all-vegetable origin as in the case of coffee creamers and whipped spreads. The substitutes are disguised behind a taste that makes them almost undetectable from the original.

The first major competitive imitator was oleomargarine made from a variety of vegetable oils. The cheaper spread virtually eliminated butter from the dinner table because of its economy; emphasis of the cholesterol scare; and advertising claims of equality or superiority to the "higher priced spread."

Synthetics have largely replaced the use of animal-derived lard in cooking and baking; and animal leather in clothing and shoes. One of the problems of the cotton industry stems from loss of markets to rayon, nylon, orlon and other synthetics.

On the other hand, cottonseed is a source of synthetic oils and fats which have displaced dairy and animal products.

The present push in food synthetics is "filled milk" — vegetable oils combined with cheaper grades of milk or all-vegetable substitutes. Its appeal, as in other synthetics or ersatz foods, is its cheaper price.

Some producers of ersatz foods encourage the idea imitations are "the food of the future" — that dairy cows and meat animals will some day become obsolete. They argue that laboratory-created substitutes are more efficient than animals in processing feed grains and grasses into human food. They even project a time when land will be so dear its use to process food through animals will be uneconomical.

Such a view discounts the determination of dairymen and livestock producers to prove the superiority of nature's production of animal-derived foods. The dairy industry through its American Dairy Association talks about laboratory analysis to find ways of making dairy foods more attractive to consumers.

Meantime, many consumers prefer the natural animal produced foods because "no matter how you rearrange a soybean or cottonseed in a test tube there is no substitute for the knowledge you are eating a real beef steak or pure real milk."

The dairy industry is determined to avoid the mistakes made in the butter-oleo battle when it resorted to legislative restriction of the synthetic competitor and lost the battle. Today the approach is one of seeking increased producer support for stepped-up advertising and promotion campaigns to point up the desirability of real milk.

Spare Pair Eliminates Floor Work

Hastings, Nebr. — The Nebraska Optometric Association today offered a tip to college and high school athletes wanting to prevent delays in basketball games this winter; have available a spare set of contact lenses.

"Nothing is more embarrassing or discouraging to a basketball player than to force a delay in the game while he, his teammates, the opposing team players and the referees and coaches get down on their knees to search for the contact lens that, were knocked on the floor," said an NOA spokesman.

He added: "What's more, putting the lens back in the eye after such an accident, is not healthy. They could be damaged and should be inspected before being re-applied to the eye."

The information was contained in a "tips to athletes" bulletin being distributed as a public service to all basketball coaches and players in the state by the Nebraska Optometric Association.

Among the other "tips" were suggestions on keeping, handling and placing the lens in a proper container both before and after the game.

Questions And Answers For Vets

Q. I attend school under the new GI Bill. I have a wife and two children. What must I do to get an increase in educational allowance now payable for dependents?

A. Prior to October 1, 1967, the VA was permitted to pay only for two dependents. However, the Veterans' Pension and Readjustment Assistance Act of 1967 which was signed by the President last August 31, not only increased the amount of the educational allowance but also provided an allowance for more than two dependents. Under the old allowance structure, you received $150 a month for full-time training. This was the maximum authorized for a veteran with two dependents. Now you are entitled to $175 a month for two dependents plus $10 a month for each dependent above two if you are taking full-time training. If you have not already done so, you should notify your nearest VA office of all of your dependents, and furnish a record of birth (Preferably a copy of birth certificate) for each additional child or children.

Main Cost Of Special Session Will Go For Traveling Expenses

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — The special session of the Legislature could cost as much as $21,000 or as little as $2,000. It will all depend on how long the lawmakers stay on the job.

The cost estimate is based on the high and low expenses of the 10 special sessions called since 1937, when Nebraska started the one-house or unicameral system.

The principal cost, according to clerk of the Legislature, Hugo F. Srb, will probably go for traveling expenses of the legislators.

He said state senators are allowed eight cents a mile by automobile for one round trip only.

When Nebraska's Legislature had two houses, he said, the senators were paid $10 per day for 10 days for special sessions. After that, they paid their own expenses.

The costliest special session was in 1963. Meeting 24 days, the Legislature ran up a bill of $21,023.

As with all special sessions, this included the cost of printing a permanent legislative journal and laws of Nebraska.

Srb said hiring of additional help, such as secretaries and pages, will contribute to the cost of the special session.

A 1946 special session that lasted seven days cost $2,140. A similar assembly in 1952 cost $3,456.

Srb pointed out that any special session must, by constitutional requirement, last at least seven days.

The constitution requires that a bill take at least five days for passage and other considerations push the requirement to a full week.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann is hopeful the current special session can wrap up its business in seven to 10 days. He also has said there may be a need for a second special session in 1968 on other matters.

Special sessions, their duration and the cost of each since 1937: 1940, 11 days, $3,676; 1944, 11 days, $3,324; 1946, seven days, $2,140; 1952, seven days, $3,456; 1954, 12 days, $6,388; 1956, seven days, $4,837; 1960, seven days, $4,291; 1963, 24 days, $21,023; 1966, seven days, $6,020.

Income Tax Upheld By Court

Governor Tiemann and legislative leaders are predicting that the State Supreme Court decision upholding the new sales-income tax act will be a deterrent to petition efforts to repeal the sweeping measure.

"I don't see how it can help but be," said Tiemann. "It makes it much more difficult for anti-income tax forces to mount their drive."

The chairman of the legislative council executive board, Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, said repealists "should be able to clearly see the merits of the tax law in the wake of the court decision."

He forecast the income tax would be "accepted by the people of Nebraska as a fair, equitable tax." He said the rate is "relatively low" and should not cause an undue hardship on taxpayers.

Chairman Jules W. Burbach of the Legislature's Tax Study Committee said the court decree "puts this state on a sound financial foundation that will endure for years to come, and will benefit all Nebraskans."

Had the court struck down the law, he added, "chaos and confusion would have prevailed. We would have been faced with the staggering task of revamping our tax system another time."

The Supreme Court ruled the tax law is completely constitutional, except for one minor penalty provision. The decision means Nebraskans the width and breadth of the state must pay an income tax to their government for the first time.

However, initiative petition efforts are underway to nullify the tax at the November 1968 general election.

Spearheading one drive is a south Omaha businessman, John Graff, who would prohibit the state from levying sales and income taxes and permit it to return to the property tax field.

Sales Tax May Not Be Boosted

Nebraska's 2 1/2 percent sales tax may not have to be raised to 3 percent in 1969 after all, Governor Tiemann reports.

"My firm hope at this point is that we can leave it at the present level," he said. "But this is not a firm promise."

Last October Tiemann had said he would ask the Legislature, possibly in a special session, to boost the sales tax to 3 percent in 1969 when it is scheduled to drop to 2 percent.

At that time he said the additional revenue would be needed to finance the state aid to school and governmental rebate programs over the 1969-71 biennium.

However, Tiemann said, receipts from the tax have been running higher than anticipated and if the trend continues, we could probably get along without the 3 percent.

Nebraskans Drinking More

Nebraskans downed nearly 30 million gallons of liquor and beer in 1967 to establish a new consumption record, the State Liquor Control Commission said in its annual report to the governor.

It said this two-fisted drinking brought in the bulk of the $307,388 in commission revenue for the 12-month period ended Dec. 1.

Last year the commission collected $5,520,591, or $288,777 less than the 1967 income.

The report showed the number of cities authorizing liquor-by-the-drink continued to climb. It said a scotch and soda or whiskey seven can now be obtained in 1,355 bars in 201 Nebraska towns.

This compares with 284 liquor-by-the-drink establishments in 67 cities in 1935 when prohibition ended in Nebraska and the nation.

McPherson County is the only "dry" county left in Nebraska. It allows no package or bar sales.

Vital Need For State Control

Director Samuel J. Cornelius of the Nebraska Technical Assistance Agency says there is a "vital need for greater state control over federal anti-poverty programs."

Cornelius, who returned recently from a three-day conference in Washington, said state agencies are more knowledgeable about a state's problems — and how best to solve them.

He said the federal government looks at the broad needs of the country without allowing for "indigenous circumstances" within a state.

"Our problems in Nebraska are often different from those in St. Louis, Kansas City or Chicago," Cornelius said.

His parents were Walter M. Saunders and Callie Pettit Saunders. He was married to Hazel Hoffman at Central City Dec. 20, 1911. Mr. Saunders lived in the Sargent and Comstock vicinities before moving to a farm near Arcadia in 1932. He farmed until 1957 when he moved into Arcadia which has been his home since. ## Residue On Surface Increases Moisture Content Of Ground

LINCOLN — Increasing the amount of residue on the surface of a fallow wheat field saves soil moisture, recent University of Nebraska research shows.

D. E. Smika, U. S. Department of Agriculture soil scientist at North Platte, reported that fallow efficiency there increased from 29 per cent with 3,000 pounds of mulch per acre to 34 per cent with 9,000 pounds per acre.

Fallow efficiency is measured by dividing the total gain in soil water by precipitation during the fallow period. The test fallow period was 14 months.

Other states report similar results. In Sidney, Montana, fallow efficiency was 16 per cent with no residue, it increased to 28 per cent with 6,000 pounds of residue per acre.

In Akron, Colorado, fallow efficiency was 26 per cent with 1,500 pounds of residue per acre, 30 per cent with 3,000 pounds per acre and 33 per cent with 6,000 pounds per acre.

Generally the research showed that the heavier the mulch, the less surface evaporation and the deeper moisture penetrates the soil profile.

The stubble mulch also slows topsoil erosion and the water which is stored boosts yields.

Dr. T. M. McCalla, professor of agronomy and USDA agronomist at the University of Nebraska, said differences in fallow efficiency are partially due to climatic differences in different areas.

He explained that a greater percentage of precipitation is saved when rainfall amounts are greater.

Bill VanZandt returned Tuesday from Mason City after staying a week with Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Klockner.

Living Like Pig Could Be Comfy

LINCOLN — Swine housing is now being constructed as well as human housing, according to E. A. Olson, Extension agricultural engineer at the University of Nebraska.

Olson said many of the new hog buildings are farrowing houses which feature to prevent drafts are important.

Heat on or near the floor close to baby pigs is particularly important, he said.

This can be provided with heat in the floor, hot water or electric heating pads, radiant electric or gas heaters and the electric heat lamps, he stated.

Olson said temperatures of 55 to 60 degrees are satisfactory for the sow if 90 to 95 degree temperatures are maintained for baby pigs.

He emphasized that baby pigs must be kept warm, dry and free of drafts.

Additional heat, such as a space heater, may be needed to maintain "proper" temperatures, he said.

In addition, cold outside air used for ventilation must be warmed or heated to increase its ability to pick up moisture and help keep floors dry, he said.

Olson explained that concrete foundations can cause problems because concrete is a poor insulator. During cold weather the wall will likely be wet from condensation or covered with frost.

The baby pigs near this will be cold due to the radiation heat losses from their bodies, he said. There may also be a draft that further chills the pigs.

The best solution to this problem is to insulate the foundation wall. Olson said concrete fill-up sandwich walls or concrete block cavity wall with insulation between the two courses of blocks may be used.

He urged farmers to contact their county Extension agents for further information.

Biegert's Beef Brings Answer From Ag Office

LINCOLN, Neb. — In response to questions raised by the public statement of Mrs. Maurine Biegert, with respect to meat inspection, Elmer C. Schlapoff, Nebraska Director of Agriculture, issued the following statement from his office:

"Nebraska is a large and important exporter of meat and meat products and, in this role, is not a dumping ground, in any sense of the word.

"Evidently, Mrs. Biegert has purposely attempted to confuse the meat inspection issue by injecting statements on inedibles, a subject on which she is obviously uninformed."

"If Mrs. Biegert knows of specific cases or has 'documented evidence' of instances in which meat has, or is, entering the state illegally, or has been or is being processed or sold counter to Federal or State statutes, she has the responsibility of reporting said evidence to this Department. Since she has not done so, we must conclude that her charges are malicious, rather than having any basis in fact."

Happy Circle Juniors met with Marilou Fauss, Friday night. Roll call indicated nine members present. After the meeting and discussion of projects, refreshments were served. Sewing boxes are to be completed and study of one tree finished before the next meeting on Feb. 2 when the hostess will be Nancy Hopkins. Diane Fauss, news reporter.

Behind A Red Nose

Queer, how differently you view the world from behind a sniffling nose!

One day you love everybody, you're full of pep and ready to work or play.

Next day, zong-go, you can't grab the kleenex fast enough to catch the drips and wipe your sympathetic flowing eyes. And you don't like nothin' ner nobody and they'd better not ask how you feel.

To the bathroom to find a slug of pills, what color and kind would help most? You start loading up on antihistamines, you start feeling dopier and dopier. Your head aches, you begin on the aspirin. Your throat hurts, you get out the spray. And the coughdrops. What a sickening flavor.

You continue to sniff and blow and droop your way around the house.

Coffee tastes simply terrible and tea not much better. Fruit juices are better but soon they make your stomach ache. One thing and another as you try to swallow "fluids" galore.

Milk toast tastes pretty good, or are you tasting it? Is it simply slippery?

I like the milk very hot, salty and buttery, plus the toast on the side. What used to be known as a graveyard stew by the railroaders in Alliance, Nebraska.

You decide to climb into bed and bundle up. "Lots of rest" they always say. You are too hot and toss off the covers, only to feel a prompt chilling and the sneezing attacks take over. Where are those kleenex? Had them here somewhere.

Nose is getting sore: need the mentholatum, or the vapor-rub. Lips are so dry, need the chap stick.

Meantime, water, water, tea, tea, coffee, coffee. Hot milk, lemonade, tomato juice, pineapple juice and grapefruit juice. Also bouillions and soups, and fresca and tang. Half tang and half tea, a quite tasty drink even if you can't taste!

Chills. Where's that thermometer? What, no temperature when you were sure you were dying?

Three days and the only change is now your throat is sorer than your head, or vice versa. Your head aches, you ache.

And so at last you do what you should have done in the beginning... you call the doctor and get the proper pills and shots and attention. "Yes, it's flu".

And, he says, take two aspirin every four hours, drink plenty of liquids, rest a lot. Exactly what you've been doing.

And sure enough, in a week or ten days you feel just like new. All that resting recharged your battery?

temper and attitudes of the electorate. The signs became abundant during 1967 that a turning point has been reached in the affairs of the world and of our country. As we enter 1968, everyone of us should resolve to be worthy of the heritage of self-government — a heritage for which 500,000 men in Viet Nam are laying their lives on the line.

Use Of Credit Cards Discussed By Nebraska Bar Association

Credit cards are a great convenience. Their use can expedite travel, purchases, telephone calls, car rentals, and many other services and purchases. To get gasoline, lodging or foods all one has to do is to present a credit card and sign the charge slip. Seldom are any questions asked or the identity of the card holder questioned.

The ready acceptance of these cards is dependent upon the terms and conditions which are imposed. The payment for the services or purchases is normally due on receipt of the statement. The holder assumes full responsibility for purchases made by use of the card unless the card has been lost or stolen and written notice given and received by the issuing company. Should the holder voluntarily give his card to another to use he remains responsible for charges made even though the card is used in an unauthorized manner.

Another reason these cards are readily accepted is that most states have passed laws providing criminal penalties for their misuse. Nebraska has such a law. It is a crime for a person to use the credit card of another without consent to obtain goods, property, services or credit. This law also prohibits the use of a revoked, canceled or expired credit card with knowledge that it is no longer valid. There is also a prohibition against using a falsified, mutilated, altered, or non-existent credit card. The use of a credit card improperly includes the use of a number or description thereof as well as the actual card.

As originally passed the penalty for violation of this law was fixed at a fine of not to exceed five hundred dollars and sentence to the county jail for not to exceed six months. As amended at the last legislature when the amount involved exceeds one hundred fifty dollars the person convicted must be sentenced to one to ten years in the Penal and Correctional Complex.

It is not a crime to fail to pay or to fail to pay promptly. This gives rise to a mere civil debt which can be collected as any other debt. The company issuing the card may cancel it or demand its return, but as long as it is used by the holder with the consent of the company there is no crime.

This article is prepared as a public service by the Nebraska State Bar Association, 2413 State House, Lincoln, Nebr. (This column is written to inform and not to advise. Facts may change the application of the law in an individual case.)

SMALL BUSINESS

The government bureau known as the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is quite an organization.

This group has taken the lead in the anti-cigarette drive. Now regardless of the merits of this matter, it perhaps is no news to anybody that cigarettes are not the most beneficial item for human health.

But now HEW is going into the matter of marijuana, not from the C.W. Hazard standpoint of establishing that the weed, or "pot" as it is called in hippie land, is harmful, but rather on the basis that it may be less harmful than commonly considered at present.

Marijuana is classified as a narcotic, and therefore its possession, use, etcetera, is presently a felony under Federal law.

But now HEW is studying the matter to see if the weed should be reclassified so that possession and usage would at the most be a misdemeanor.

There are no indications the Agriculture Department has gotten into this matter to try and provide a cash crop for the farmers of the land. In fact, the rationale for this study is quite vague.

There are arguments advanced that the use of "pot" produces a pleasant euphoria, but is not habit forming.

On the other hand, HEW is taking the position that cigarette smoking is habit forming, and thus must be discouraged.

On the other hand, it is highly unlikely that any one has gone with gun in hand to hijack a pack of cigarettes. Perhaps the most violent endeavor for cigarettes is the mythical man who walked a mile for a pack.

But, it should not be discounted that perhaps there is some method to HEW madness.

After all, a person affluent enough to smoke three or four packs of cigarettes per day undoubtedly has an income supporting a substantial personal income tax. Therefore, the theory may be, let us not kill off taxpayers, they are getting fewer and fewer.

On the other hand, if these taxpayers can be switched to "pot" perhaps instead of registering indignation over what happens to their tax money, they will develop a pleasant euphoria about the whole matter of increasing taxes.

Heap Of Difference In Schools Today Than Back In 1911

DEAR MISTER EDITOR: Things was a heap different today from what they was when I was coming along as a boy. The reason I mention it is on account of a item that come up at the country store Saturday night.

The school I went to was built out of pine boards that had plenty of knots in it. It was tore down in 1911 it still had not got a coat of paint. I recollect they was some talk about the Sewing Circle at one of the churches making some quilts and selling them to git it painted. I reckon they either didn't make the quilts or they wouldn't sell. All I know fer shore is that the school house never got painted.

We had two rooms and seven grades and two teachers and when you got through the seventh grade you had done graduated. We learned a heap of things, like how to cut wood fer the stove and stack it under the school house to dry, how to have respect fer our elders, go to preaching service ever Sunday, have a love fer our country and our flag, and mind our Ma and Pa when they give us advice about things in life.

And they was a heap of things we didn't learn in them seven years, like how to protest and demonstrate, hold love-ins, fairs, dress like heathens, and tell our elders how everything had ought to be run. And when World War I come along them that was old enough volunteered to defend their country and they wasn't no burning of draft cards.

But, actual, Mister Editor, we didn't git a heap of book learning and that's why I was discussing the matter in my little piece this week. The storekeeper's wife, what is a school teacher, sent me word by some of the fellers that my spelling and grammar wasn't fitten fer a speckled parrot. I ain't never saw a speckled parrot and she ain't neither, so where she was short on parrots I was short on grammar and spelling and I ain't worrying none about it.

The fellers at the store Saturday night was siding with me in this arguement and what bring it up was me telling 'em I aimed to write a few lines in this feller Haler Salasse from Ethiopia in my next piece, only I had fer-got how to spell his name.

I was advised to go ahead and spell it any way I know how an if the storekeeper's wife didn't git it she could ask some of her younguns about it.

Anyhow, Mister Editor, this piece said our Governor had loaned him a pleasure yatch in 1961 that was air - conditioned, had gold wallpaper, had cost us taxpayers $4 million in repairs in 6 years and was now in dry dock fer another $50,000 worth of repairs. I'll let the storekeepers' wife take it from there.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

KERRY ON

—the criterion—
His outward image bespoke the anguish that festered within him. The cancerous growth of grief and despair inherited the shell where once a soul had, sustained hope and courage.

If roads have an end — he had reached it.
A ghost of flesh and bone, devoid of the sustenance of life, agonizingly traced the steps of routine perfunctory duties. "Life must go on." The words echoed through the chambers of his mind, seemingly the only reason (if you could call it that) he had for further "existence."

Alone in a world of hedonists, he sat in self-judgment, mirrored in vanity, he despised himself for succumbing to their arduous demands. The sensuous provocations of an animalistic society had debased all values he had ever placed on life. Withdrawal was imminent... painful... and necessary.

But where would he go from here?

Overwhelmed with an awareness "being," he would wander forever in the vastness of "doing." His encroachment on others would be an expedient enactment.

Feeling himself a recluse — subservient only toward his own end — he withdrew, not wanting to hurt others by his own pragmatic behavior.

He could live. He could exist. But loneliness and despair would symptomatically prevail, overshadowing the love suppressed within his heart — a love that was the criterion of his life — and his will to live.

Stress On Stress At Omaha Session Coming March 14

"Your Business in a World of Stress" will be the theme of the 1968 National Livestock Conference set for Thursday, March 14th at the Omaha Livestock Exchange Building.

The announcement was made today by Frank Sibert and Elmer Harder, co-chairmen of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce Livestock Committee.

This is the 20th year the National Livestock Conference has been held by the Omaha Chamber in cooperation with the Agricultural Extension Service, the University of Nebraska, and Iowa State University.

"Our Conference Committee is now making final plans," said Sibert. "And the program calls for the most outstanding slate of speakers to ever appear at any agricultural conference."

"The livestock business is undergoing a world of stress," continued Sibert. "We hope this conference will help find answers to many of the livestockman's problems."

Harder said that because the conference theme and speakers are so well-tailored to today's livestock business, an overflowing crowd is expected. "Therefore, we are requesting advance registration."

Man Bites Dog

When a United States Senator admits that he is unable to fulfill his duties and responsibilities, it is at least as newsworthy as the classic touchstone, "Man Bites Dog." Listen therefore, to the lament of the Honorable William Proxmire, Wisconsin Democrat.

It seems that Mr. Proxmire is Chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, ranking majority member of the Banking and Currency Committee, member of the Appropriations Committee, and a member of five subcommittees of the Appropriations Committee. The latter has seven other subcommittees and the Senator says he seldom has any occasion to analyze or appraise their budget programs. "This is inevitable in view of the tremendous demands on a Senator's time. He cannot do all he should in one working day."

Being inoculated with the bureaucratic virus, it does not occur to the worthy solon that some of the programs might be eliminated, nor that some of them might be returned to the locality where they originated and where they might be given careful and knowledgeable attention by the people who are to be served, if any. This was a system that worked exceedingly well for a century and a half in this country.

But bureaucracy's remedy for its ills is more bureaucracy. So, Senator Proxmire, under his bill, S.2032, would set up a government commission to evaluate programs. "It would review both old and new Federal programs for the purpose of determining their cost effectiveness."

Shades of Robert McNamara.

Does anyone dream that a government commission could ever eliminate anything without substituting something to take its place? Or maybe two things.

The fact that no Congressman or Senator is able to give adequate attention to all of the matters on which he must pass judgment is responsible for many of the nation's ills. Special interest legislation and otherwise just plain bad legislation result. Senator Proxmire is not to blame, nor is the Congress as a whole. It's the system which is at fault, and there is a simple solution.

Return to the States and the local communities the responsibilities they once administered effectively, and at less expense.

A Heritage For The Worthy

Above all else, 1967 appeared to be a year when the verities were questioned—in politics, in economics, in religion and in virtually every other element of the structure of present-day society. What does it all mean? No one really seems to know. Some claim the tearing down of old standards reflects what might be called a healthy renaissance of advanced thought. Others view with foreboding a trend they feel is leading to a moral breakdown and anarchy. The experts are the most confused lot of all. Sometimes their judgments of coming events are ludicrous. Typical of their inability to assess the future was the recent statement of one of this country's leading financial authorities that devaluation of the British pound was unlikely because the English program of austerity was so fundamentally reassuring as to make a crisis improbable. By the time this particular forecast was in print, the British pound had been devalued, and no one knows what the future holds for the monetary systems of the world.

Out of all the confusion of 1967, one fact has become clearly obvious—self-government itself is on trial. This is so because the very truths which are the mainstay of self-government are being altered or swept away one after another—truths that were once called "self-evident." These truths have to do with financial responsibility, the integrity of the family, the inviolate rights of persons and property under the law and concepts of individual self-reliance and initiative that are inseparable from freedom under representative government. A gradual decline in respect for these prerequisites of liberty was never more apparent in the observation of many people than during the crucial months of 1967.

Outwardly, the United States is invincible. But, the founding fathers warned nearly 200 years ago that the greatest danger to the American experiment in free government could well come from within. A debauched currency, a weakening pride in individual independence and the gradual ascendancy of state authority are undeniably changing the outlook for constitutional government as we have known it in the United States. Few now living have the capacity to view the present era as it will be recorded in the history books at some distant time in the future. Our present civilization, and more specifically our own country, measured by material progress and the potential for future progress, opens a vista that staggers the imagination. The precepts under which civilization has advanced to this point, and which have brought a greater measure of well-being to more people than has ever been known in the world before, must have a validity that the hippies, the malcontents and the anti-American demonstrators have failed to perceive.

No political party, no single group of citizens is solely to blame for the dismal drift that has put self-government on trial, and as the elections of 1968 approach, we should expect no miracles from our elected representatives. They but reflect the

Come to Church Teakettle Religion Ephesians 2:8-9 Romans 5:1 "For by grace are we saved through faith; and that not of ourselves, it is the gift of God. Not of works, lest any man should boast. Therefore, being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. A missionary in West Cameroon, Africa once referred to Mohammedanism as a "teakettle religion," because its adherents carry these containers filled with water wherever they go. A "good" Mohammedan will pray four or five times a day facing east and bowing toward Mecca, but not without first pouring out some water from his teakettle in a special ritual of cleansing. A certain Mohammedan was on a bus one day, and since it was time for him to pray, he asked the driver to stop so that he could attend to his devotions. (How unlike Christians who can pray at any time, any place. Prayer for us is talking with God, not a matter of going through some external, mechanical motions or assuming a certain prescribed posture.) At the Mohammedan's urging, the bus driver stopped right in front of the missionary compound where this missionary lived. The man who wanted to pray was in such a hurry to get out that he climbed right over some of the passengers, spilling all of the water out of his kettle. That didn't stop him, however. He sat down on the ground beside the bus and went through the outward motions — lifting up his empty little kettle as though he were pouring the water on his hands and feet. What a picture of his equally empty religion! Right here at home, however, we can also see a form of "teakettle religion." There are those who merely go through the motions. They attend church, sing hymns, and recite prayers, but their heart is not in it. We are to serve God "in spirit and in truth," for the Lord does not want mere perfunctory worship. No, "the sacrifices of God are a broken spirit... and a contrite heart" — these the Lord will not despise (Psalm 51:15-17). If you have not come to know Christ through the new birth, all the outward acts of your "teakettle religion" will do you no good! "Is not of works" poor sinner, Religion will not do; God's blessed grace is needed; Man must be born anew! Religion may REFORM, but only Christ can TRANSFORM a man! Ronald L. No Do-It-Yourselves?? Nebraska lawmakers last week voted 35-12 to appropriate $18,000 to hire a criminologist to investigate the Boys Training School at Kearney.

This, to me, seems an exorbitant amount of taxpayers money to expend on something that the state apparently already knows. The investigation will take an estimated 10 months with a tab of $1,800 per month.

The result of this survey, I feel sure, will be a lengthy, wordy, detailed, several-hundred page report which will offer many theoretical solutions, but possibly none practical enough to solve the problems at the boys school.

In the first place it isn't exactly earthshaking that there are some improper practices carried on at the school. After all, the boys that are held there are boys who have committed unlawful acts. If this wasn't so, there would be no necessity for such a school.

So another $18,000 is pushed down the drain to take care of a problem that this writer feels should have been handled by our own people here in the State of Nebraska.

My feelings on this issue are pretty much the same as Gov. Norbert Tiemann's feelings were on redistricting when he told the lawmakers it was their responsibility and not that of the federal courts.

Most states leave too much up to the Federal government or to outside help.

It seems to me that it would be pretty nice to say: "We did it ourselves".

Newland, Marshall, Staab Are New C of C Directors

Jack Newland, Ray Marshall and Bernie Staab are new members of the Ord Chamber of Commerce board of directors as a result of balloting which was held recently among the chamber members.

The three were introduced at the January noon meeting of the C of C last Thursday at Party Paradise. Don Sears, new chamber president, presided at the meeting and introduced Bob Anderson, vice-president and Lynn Chichester, who will head the retail committee of the chamber this year.

The annual Chamber of Commerce banquet, scheduled for Jan. 21, was discussed and it was suggested that it be combined with the Jaycees' Bosses' Night event, if the Jaycees would approve such a plan. The suggestion was made by Kerry Leggett, who explained that he had encountered difficulty in obtaining a speaker and that the two organizations might combine the event this year.

Pancake Day was set for Feb. 3 and Roger Clough was named chairman of the day. It will be held at the Bohemian Hall and free pancakes will be served courtesy of the Ord Chamber of Commerce. Clough said he had contacted many of the faculty members and they planned to work that day.

June 7 and 8 was announced as the dates for the annual Farm and Home Show and Don Walker, show chairman said that he was already making plans to sell booths for the show. Those who had booths a year ago and wish to do so again are asked to call Walker as soon as possible and he plans to make a number of other contacts. Last year's show ended up with a profit of $44, Walker said as he commented on the success of last year's venture.

It was also announced at the meeting that script money given out as prizes in the holiday drawings should be redeemed not later than January 31. Those having script may redeem it from Florence Janda at Janda's Liquor Store in Ord.

The retailers met Friday morning.

Council Opens New Year With Routine Session Monday

The Ord City Council met in brief session Monday and made some plans for the New Year, but took little on other than items of a routine nature.

Mayor Bill French noted that the fiscal year is being changed this year and the 1968 budget will have to be made to cover an extra four months to cover a 16 month period this year only.

The mayor and council discussed the need for new street signs in Ord agreeing that the short, cement markers now in use are difficult to see. Mayor French told the council that there is a company now manufacturing an illuminated street sign and that the city should consider changing the Ord street signs in the spring.

A request from Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Company for waiver of its annual bond for electricians, plumbers and pipe fitters was discussed, but no action was taken. The company made the request a year ago, but the council delayed action on the request until it has checked with other towns of similar size to see how it is handled elsewhere.

The council approved a motion to amend the ordinance regarding setting of the city attorney's salary. The ordinance will now call for setting of the salary each year.

A letter from the Ord Volunteer Fire Department was read in which the department stated that it would not deliver patients any place but to the hospital when using the emergency unit. The firemen explained that they were requested to take a patient from the hospital to one of the clinics, when persons are not seriously injured. These requests will be denied from now on and any person picked up by the unit will have to arrange for other means of transportation.

The volunteer firemen also suggested that the hospital install a two-way radio to maintain contact between the unit and the hospital when covering accidents.

Mrs. and Mrs. Darrell Smith, operators of Smith's Tavern, appeared before the council asking about obtaining a bottle club license in event the Smiths decided to expand their establishment for this type of operation.

The council told Mr. and Mrs. Smith that approval must come from the state first, but several councilmen indicated they would favor issuance of the license.

They were also told that in April the election will be held and that some of the present councilmen might not be around after the election and they had no way of knowing how newly elected councilmen might regard the request.

The Smiths said they would go ahead and make application with the state and then appear before the council at a later date.

In other action the council approved all warrants and the treasurer's report.

Two Are Injured In Accidents On Roads In County

Two persons were injured in two separate accidents during the past week, both investigated by Sheriff Clarence Fox.

The first accident occurred at 1:15 a.m. Sunday morning when a car driven by Ronald Augustyn, 19, Burwell went off the road three miles northwest of Elyria.

Augustyn, who was hospitalized at Burwell, told Sheriff Fox that he apparently went to sleep while driving. The car skidded 132 feet off the road, through a ditch and into a utility pole.

Augustyn suffered some broken ribs and numerous cuts and bruises. The car he was driving, a 1961 Corvair, sustained some $500 in damages, the sheriff said.

The other accident occurred at 9:45 a.m. Monday about 10 and one-half miles southeast of Ord at the Comstock "Y", when a car driven by Jennie Mae Lytle, 56, Burwell hit loose gravel and went off the road.

Mrs. Lytle suffered head, shoulder and back injuries, but was not hospitalized. The car she was driving, a 1961 Pontiac, sustained about $500 in damages after it had skidded about 300 feet in the loose gravel.

Missing Man Located At North Loup After Lengthy Search Monday Night

Thanks to Valley County lawmen, firemen, other volunteers and a fellow named Elvin Shoemaker, a man who walked away from LeBow's Nursing Home Monday afternoon is back at the home safe and warm after a long, cold walk that took him some 10 or 12 miles from Ord.

The man — Claude McCulley, 72-year-old resident of the home, apparently felt the urge to walk Monday afternoon and after he failed to return to the home Sheriff Clarence Fox was notified at about 6 p.m.

The notification that McCulley was missing touched off one of the largest searches in Valley County in a long time, and shortly after 6 o'clock some 50 lawmen, firemen and just plain volunteers were searching downtown and along all roads within an eight-mile radius of Ord using two-way radio to keep in contact with each other.

But the search was in vain as McCulley had completely disappeared after some reported seeing him strolling around downtown between 3 and 4 p.m. Monday afternoon.

Shortly before 8 o'clock KGIN-TV at Grand Island was notified and aired news of the search and asked for information from anyone who knew of McCulley's whereabouts. Several called in saying they had seen a man walking along Highway 70 south of Ord and the calls were relayed to the searchers by the Ord light plant.

This was where Elvin Shoemaker entered the picture. Shoemaker was traveling along Highway 22 which turns east off of Highway 70 when he spotted the elderly gentleman walking along the road. He asked the man if he'd like a ride not knowing that McCulley was the subject of search by 50 men over a period of several hours.

Shoemaker took McCulley to North Loup and it was there that he was notified of the search. A call to Ord and quick confirmation by Sheriff Fox ended the search and McCulley was returned to the nursing home where he is reported hail and hearty after a couple of days rest.

McCulley formerly lived at Henry, Neb., and has been a resident of the home only four days.

Rev. Flickinger Resigns Post At N.L. And Scotia

The Rev. Charles Flickinger, pastor of the North Loup and Scotia Methodist Churches, has resigned his post and plans to enter secular work, it has been announced by Rev. R. L. Townsend of Kearney, district superintendent.

Rev. Townsend conducted services at the churches Sunday and plans to do so again on January 21. Dr. D. R. Roker, superintendent of the western district Evangelical United Brethren Church plans to fill the pulpit Jan. 14.

Rev. Townsend has met with the boards of both churches and an effort is underway to acquire a minister for the churches at North Loup and Scotia.

The family will remain in the parsonage until the semester is completed at the North Loup - Scotia school. This ends Jan. 12. Definite plans have not been completed concerning the place and type of work that will be involved in the move by the Flickingers.

During their years at Scotia the Flickingers have been active in civic and social events and in work with the youth.

The Rev. Flickinger, a former baseball pitcher, took a particular interest in the baseball activities of the youngsters in the area.

The Flickingers came to Scotia from Greeley where the Rev. Flickinger served the Greeley and Wolbach Methodist churches for two years.

Chant Cagers To St. Paul Friday; No Game Saturday

The Ord Chanticleers will travel to St. Paul Friday evening as regular season cage battles continue. After two losses last weekend the Ord club will be seeking to get back on the victory track.

Coach Ken Trubey reports that Gary Sedlacek, guard, who played well against Aurora Saturday, may be sidelined with a sprained ankle. He said Gary sprained the ankle in practice the other night and he wouldn't know until Friday whether he would get the starting nod or not.

Probable starters of Ord are Lyle Christensen at center; Jim Lukesh and Ron Bredthauer at forwards and Bill Klancecky and Gary Sedlacek or Mike Kunz at the guard spots.

There will be two games Friday evening the reserve contest slated to start at 6:15 and the varsity game to follow at about 8 o'clock. There is no ball game Saturday.

The Chants have won six games and lost three this season.

Old Christmas Trees To Be Taken To Pond

Although there will be no burning of the Pines ceremony this year, Ord residents are asked to take discarded pine trees to the south shore of the ice pond. Those who have no means of transporting their trees to the pond may place them at the curb so City workers can gather them easily Friday morning, Jan. 12.

The pines will not be burned at any one time but will be used as fire wood by skaters. Those building these fires — or those who plan to benefit by the fire's heat — are cautioned to remember good Fire Safety rules and regulations.

Petition To Join No. 5 Fails District 68 Contract Will Not Be Renewed In '69

Ord Public School District No. 5 will continue this term to contract with District No. 68, but after the term ends the contract will not be renewed for another year, it was announced Monday evening at the regular session of the Dist. 5 board of education.

Supt. Roger Clough reported that shortly before the date set for final hearing on the petition to join Dist. No. 5, several petitioners removed their names from the petition resulting in failure of the required petition.

Supt. Clough recommended that the district continue to provide education for pupils of Dist. 68 for the remainder of this term, but after that it would be up to the district to join Dist. 5 or find means to educate its own students.

The Dist. 5 board had recently agreed to contract with Dist. 68, providing that Dist. 68 took steps to join Dist. 5 and in view of the petition failure the contract will not be renewed.

Rev. Clarence Campbell and Rev. John Nordgaard appeared before the board asking the school to consider the implementation of religious programs in the school schedule.

They suggested the following: (1) A released-time program under which students in certain age groups, upon request and approval of their parents, could be released to the churches of their choice for perhaps one 70 minute period each week for religious instruction.

(2) The development of an elective course to be included in the regular school curriculum covering ethics, morals and perhaps something in the way of a history of religion or the influence of religion on our national history.

(3) The inclusion in next year adult education program of a course in the area of history of religion or perhaps comparative religion.

The school board showed interest in the proposals, but no action was taken pending a further study of the request.

Members of the Educational Service Unit, Howard Paulsen of Ord and Dr. Barton Kluse of Kearney, appeared before the board to discuss the service unit duties. The men told the board that actual service to Dist. 5 would be curtailed this year because of lack of funds. They explained that most of the money allotted the unit had been used for financing of the Ord Opportunity School.

Elementary Principal Gerald Decker told the board that there has been an increase of four pupils in the elementary school since the beginning of school year.

High School Principal Al Belling reported that more than 40 students were out of high school at the present time with the flu. He also discussed the possibility of scheduling some new courses for the second semester.

The board discussed the procedures used in arranging for convocation speakers and they agreed that this should be left up to the school administration and to the members of the school board, rather than the appointment of a convocation advisory committee.

A request from Clair Hillyer, former school principal, be temporarily restored to the Ord payroll to qualify him for emeritus retirement pay, was denied by the board with two board members favoring the request and three voting against the request.

Ed Armstrong told the board that his term expires this spring and that he does not plan to succeed himself and that he is withdrawing his name for nomination at the February caucus. The term of Wilbert Calvin also expires this spring.

City Policemen Investigate Four Accidents In Ord

Four accidents, primarily involving property damage, were investigated by members of the Ord Police Department during the past week.

Causing the most damage was an accident Sunday when a car driven by Evelyn Graves, 17, Ord, went out of control at the intersection of Highway 11 and 70, west of Ord.

Damage to the car was estimated at $300, but damage to mail boxes, a street light pole and the Ord "welcome" sign added up to some $800, police reported.

Mrs. Graves told police she was being pulled by a pickup to get the car started and all at once the car started and the tow chain came unhooked, causing the car to go out of control. It hit a street light post, knocked down the Ord sign and demolished several mail boxes. The driver was not injured.

In another accident last Thursday night, a car driven by Darryl Jones went out of control at the intersection of Highways 11 and 70 and rammed into a highway sign causing some $100 in damage to the car. Jones was belted and cut and a passenger, Richard Rowbal, Jr., also was banged up some as a result of the impact. The police report said a car had crowded the Jones car off the road and the vehicle skidded on ice and into the sign.

Sunday at 11:30 p.m. Myra Lindsay, 17, Burwell rammed into a parked car owned by John Mason of Ord on N. 16th Street near L Street. The Lindsay car was damaged some $150 in the front end and damage to the Mason car was estimated at $100. No one was injured and police said the reason for the mishap was icy streets.

On Saturday, cars driven by Mildred Kolar, 39, of 1005 O Street and Marlene Shotkoski, 17, of 416 N. 18th Street collided when the Shotkoski car hit the Kolar vehicle as it was backing from a parking space in front of the Jack and Jill Store. Estimated damage to each vehicle was $100.

The four accidents were investigated by Asst. Police Chief John Boelcher and Patrolman Dan Ehresman.

Historical Society Pays For Fort Marker

The Valley County Historical Society received donations of $25 from the Maude Goodenow Memorial Fund and $5 from Mrs. Edith Flala. This enabled the group to finish payments on the Fort Hartsuff Historical Marker which was erected last fall near Elyria.

Such markers are erected by the State Historical Society, but a local sponsor must pay part of the cost. The Valley County Historical Society was assessed $200 for its share, according to Emanuel Kapustka, president.

January always seems to me like an in-between time. After all the hustle and bustle of the holiday season it is so slow and quiet and much too soon for outdoor activities. An excellent time — says I — to explore the world of the Homemaker's Horoscope. For instance, your stars say: MONDAY — Mercury challenges Jupiter. Shun frivolous pursuits and get down to business; which means: Do the wash. TUESDAY — A negative trend is developing. Deal in fantasy rather than fact; (Bogie's on the "Late Show.") WEDNESDAY — There are mixed planetary influences. Do something tangible to show loved ones you care; (Check late-fudge cake from scratch.) THURSDAY — Mars moves slowly across the zenith of your chart. Vibrations are the password. (Marital spat coming up.) FRIDAY — The sun returns in accord with your sign. You may be tested along social lines. Beware of higher-ups; (Let the boss win at bridge.) SATURDAY — The square of Mars to Jupiter may mean an unexpected expenditure. A misunderstanding about money could arise; (Boys' haircuts cost $2.50 on Saturday.) SUNDAY — Venus opposite Saturn. Be strong and alert in A.M. The burden of responsibility may fall on you; (It's HIS turn to sleep late.)

Thanks for the mouth organ you gave me for Christmas, the little boy said to his uncle the first time he saw him after the holidays. "It's the best Christmas present I ever got." "That's great," said the uncle. "Do you know how to play it?" "Oh, I don't play it," the little fellow said. "My mother gives me a dime a day not to play it during the day."

and my father gives me fifty cents a week not to play it at night." —O— They tell me . . . that if you add a teaspoon of salt to the warm water when sprinkling clothes they won't smell of mildew when the ironing is not done on time. —O— Again I ask that each organization, church group and bridge club report social events and new happenings to the QUIZ Remember, too, to call in other social items — birthday and anniversary parties, house guests, servicemen's news, etc. Let's make it a New Year's resolution. Okay?

Woman's Club Has Book Review Tues. By Mrs. R. Miller

"The Feminine Mystique" by Betty Friedan was reviewed by Mrs. Roger Miller, Tuesday afternoon when the Woman's Club of Ord met with Mrs. Leo Long. Mrs. Friedan wrote for many women's magazines through the 1950's and became engrossed with the "problem that has no name" referred to by some doctors as "Housewife's Syndrome." In her book, Mrs. Friedan relates cases of frustrated housewives and went to seek what role advertising media played in society's attitude toward women's role in today's world. The author reviewed the history of the fight for women's rights from the first meeting at Seneca Falls, N. Y. in 1848 by the Feminists to today's mental attitude in Suburbia.

Mrs. George Allen was welcomed as a new member. To conclude the afternoon, Mrs. Long served her guests coffee and cake in honor of the birthday of her daughter, Mrs. Adriaan Remington, Woman's Club president.

Mrs. Don Edwards will be the hostess Jan. 23 at which time Mrs. Wayne Zlomke will present the lesson on "Yesterday's Triumphs, Tomorrow's Problems."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sevenker . . . wed Saturday.

Mary Ellen Whiting, Bob Sevenker Exchange Vows At Methodist Church

The First Methodist Church of Ord was the setting for the Jan. 6 candlelight wedding of Mary Ellen Whiting and Robert D. Sevenker. The Rev. Clarence Campbell officiated at the 7 p.m. double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Whiting of North Loup and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Sevenker of Ord.

Mrs. Bill Vogeler was the vocalist and Mrs. W. H. Schudel the organist. Larry and Garry Whiting lighted the tall cathedral candelabra accenting the pews and the nine branch candelabra at the altar.

Mrs. Grace Coufal of Elba was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Diane Konkoleski and Carolyn Baran, both of Lincoln. They were attired in long gowns of pink and azalea, styled on empire lines, accented with azalea yokes and trains. Their short veils of pink tulle were held in place by pearl studded crowns. Each carried a large snowball of white carnations and pink sweetheart roses with an azalea shower.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, chose a gown of white bridal satin with a rounded neckline, styled on empire lines with full length sleeves ending in the traditional bridal points. The floor length A-line skirt had a chapel train falling from the bodice. Her shoulder length veil of silk illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls. The dress was designed and made by the mother of the bride. She carried "The line of Beauty" in white cattleya orchids and pink sensation roses.

The place of best man was vacant in the wedding party. This was in honor of the groom's brother, Tom, who is serving in the U. S. Naval Seabees in Vietnam. Allen Cetak and Don Zikmund were the groom's attendants. Ushers were James R. Wagner of Omaha, Floyd Whiting, Mike Sullivan and Dale Napstek.

A reception followed in the church parlors. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Toogood of Scotia were host and hostess and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Prien of Ord the co-host and hostess. Darlene Wilhelm of Lincoln presided at the guest book. The wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. James R. Wagner of Omaha and Ricky Prien of Lincoln. Mrs. Lowell Dulitz of Scotia poured coffee and Mrs. Chester Houtby of Wolbach served punch. Gifts were taken by Gayle Houtby of Wolbach, Mrs. Darlyle Furby of Belgrade and Connie Holoun of Lincoln.

A special guest at the wedding was the bride's great aunt, Mrs. Louise Daudt of Scotia.

The newlyweds will be at home in Olathe, Kan. after Jan. 12, where the groom will be stationed with the United States Navy.

On Friday evening, the groom's parents hosted a pre-nuptial dinner in the church dining room for 31 guests. Those of the bridal party and immediate family members attended.

Ord Chants Take 6-3 Record To St. Paul Friday After Taking Lumps Last Weekend

By Max Good
Quiz Editor

The Ord Chanticleers will travel to St. Paul Friday evening hoping to get back on the victory trail after suffering a couple of "lumps" on the hardwoods Friday and Saturday of last week.

Those lumps came in the form of losses — first to the Schuyler Warriors, 58-36 on Friday and then a setback by the Aurora Huskies Saturday night, 64-57.

Thus after nine games the Chants and Coach Ken Trubey are busy surviving a 6-3 record and seeking to put the pieces back together following lackluster performances against both Schuyler and Aurora.

Friday evening the Chants pulled off to a 10-7 first quarter lead against Schuyler and it appeared that the Ord team might handle the Warriors as they did a year ago — but someone put the lid on the Ord basket and they came out of the ball game with a miserable 21 per cent shooting average from the floor.

Schuyler on the other hand — much warmer than the weather outside — bombed the Chants 22-8 in the second period with everything they tossed into the air falling through the hoop. The Warriors came out of the ball game with a 41 per cent average from the floor, scoring 20 field goals out of 33 attempts. The Chants with two less shots than Schuyler — 61 — canned only 13 from the floor.

Down 11 points at halftime, the Chants could not find the basket in the final two periods as the Warriors outscored Ord 13-10 in the third period and 16-8 in the fourth.

Everything else was pretty even in the statistics as Schuyler hit 67 per cent of its free throws and Ord hit 58 per cent. Schuyler committed 11 fouls and Ord had seven. Ord had 19 turnovers and Schuyler, 16, and in rebounding Ord held a 36-31 lead.

Jim Lukesh was Ord's leading scorer and rebounder as he hit seven of 16 from the floor and two for two at the gift line for 16 points. Lukesh pulled down 10 rebounds. Jura, Schuyler's 6-10 center, was the games top rebounder as the big boy hauled off 19 of Schuyler's 31 caroms.

The Schuyler shooting parade was led by Dana Trofholz with 23 points, most of those coming from outside of the Ord defense. Jura was held to a slim 15 points, although he went into the game with a better than 30 point per game average.

The battle between Ord's Lyle Christensen and Jura was not all that it was billed to be as Christensen was playing under the handicap of having just whipped a bout with the flu and also ordered a pair of ball games. Schuyler's big center was able to stuff in only two field goals in the first half of play and Christensen also had four points the first half on four free throws. In the second half Jura counted four fielders and three of five gift shots and Christensen fired in four points on one fielder and another pair of gift shots.

As the game got underway Ord played Schuyler on even terms as Klancey, Lukesh, Bredthauer and Christensen all got into the scoring act for a 10-7 first quarter margin. Ord then held a 14-13 lead with 5:30 left in the period and then it was Schuyler's Krivohavek who put the Warriors ahead 15-14. The Chants regained the lead 16-15 on a shot by Bredthauer but Trofholz made it a 17-16 game for Schuyler and after that the Warriors were never headed as they tumbled to a 22-8 second quarter and a 36-18 half-time lead. It was 42-24 at the end of three periods and with Ord's cold shooting still in effect Schuyler was able to collect 58 points, well under its game average of the season.

The Chants best shooting quarter was the third when they hit one-fourth of 14 from the floor or 28 per cent. In the first and second periods they hit, in each period, three of 14 from the floor for a 20 per cent average and in the fourth they canned only three of 17 for a frigid 17 per cent.

Better Shooting

On Saturday evening the Chants displayed better shooting than on Friday, but continued to make numerous costly mistakes as the Aurora Huskies edged the Chants 64-57. The Huskies offensive rebounding also hurt the Ord team.

Aurora moved to an 18-11 first quarter lead, but Ord pulled up to a 31-29 halftime deficit after going ahead of the Huskies in the second period.

Using good outside shooting the Huskies were ahead again by nine points, 51-42 at the end of three quarters and the lead was wide when the Chants had come from a 11 point deficit to within three points at 60-57, but couldn't muster the rally to pull ahead of the pressing Huskies.

With 33 seconds remaining the Chants were within three points but the Huskies went into a stall and Ord fouled, with Aurora converting both gift shots for a five point margin and then Ord lost the ball on a turnover and Aurora picked up an easy layup as the clock ran out.

Besides showing improved shooting, the Chants moved the ball well against the tough Aurora press with Ord's Gary Sedlacek doing a fine job of bringing the ball down the floor.

Just as the night before, the Chants chances were hampered by mistakes. Against Aurora Ord had 17 turnovers and Aurora had only eight. Coach Ken Trubey said the team was disappointed in the officiating.

"The team that uses the press generally has more fouls. Saturday night each team had 18 and I am sure that the officials missed many, many fouls that Aurora committed in trying to steal the ball," Coach Trubey commented.

He said before the game that the team shooting better and that Lyle Christensen was getting back in top form after his bout with the flu. Christensen was Ord's top shooter with 19 points, followed by Bill Klancey with 16. Klancey, a sophomore, was guilty of six turnovers in the Aurora game and five the previous night against Schuyler. Christensen was Ord's leading rebounder with 12 and Jim Lukesh picked off an even dozen.

After the smoke had cleared the Chants were 44 per cent from the floor hitting on 19 of 43 shots. Aurora was an even 50 per cent connecting on 24 of 48. Ord hit 68 per cent of its free throws and Aurora, 66 per cent.

Ord out-rebounded Aurora 33-30 as the Chants took down 24 defensive rebounds, but was limited to only eight offensive rebounds. Aurora picked off 17 offensive rebounds enabling the Huskies to get that second shot without losing possession of the ball.

Ord's 7-8th Graders Sneak Past Barr JHS To Remain Undefeated

Ord's smallest basketball team — the Junior High School 7-8th grade team — was the only successful basketball team in Ord over the weekend as the young Chicks eked out a 31-30 victory over Barr JHS of Grand Island Thursday afternoon.

Ord's David John proved to be the hero of the ball game as he fired in a basket in the final seconds of the game to give Ord the victory by the narrowest of margins. The youngsters are now 2-0 and Ord's only undefeated team.

John's basket, one of four he made in the game, gave Ord its only lead of the game which goes to show that the game is never over until the final whistle blows.

John and Jim Martin shared scoring honors with eight apiece and Barr's Dave Crozier tallied 23 to lead all scorers.

As the game got underway Barr rolled to a 11-7 first quarter lead and led 19-14 at halftime, but at the end of three Ord pulled up and trailed 24-22. The Ord kids then outscored Barr 9-6 in the final quarter to gain the one-point margin of victory. Stephen Deger is coach of the 7-8th grade team.

Chicks Toppled

Coach Chuck Squier's Ord Chicks (9th grade) didn't fare quite as well as the Barr 8th graders took a 46-32 win in the second game Thursday afternoon.

The Chicks stayed right in the ball game through the first three periods, but Barr outscored the Ord team 20-12 in the final frame for an easy win. It was 9-4 Barr at the end of one; 19-14 at intermission and 26-20 at the end of three.

Dennis Bellinger was top scorer for Ord with nine points and George Kyros led the Barr club with 12.

Junior Varsity Loses Games To Schuyler, Aurora

The Ord Junior Varsity basketball team dropped a pair of contests over the weekend, falling 49-52 to Schuyler Friday and 73-39 to Aurora on Saturday evening.

Against Schuyler the Ord team held an 11 point lead at one time in the final period, but cooled off and the Schuyler team pumped in 26 points to 12 for Ord in the final period to win by seven.

Dennis Cetak led the Ord offense with 16 points on seven field goals and two for four at the charity stripe. Bill Miller added 14 and Steve Turk tossed in 12. Jarocki and Horejsi had 14 each for Schuyler.

Against Aurora Saturday the Husky reserves led 10-10 at the end of the first quarter and slowly pulled away to win easily. Cetak was again high point man with 10 points on four from the floor and two for two at the free throw line. Keller topped Aurora shooters with 15 tallies.

RESERVES FALL TO SCHUYLER—The Ord high school reserves dropped a decision to the Schuyler reserves Friday night. Here Ord's Duane Kovarik gets off a shot during a pair of Schuyler kids. The Ord team held a comfortable lead once during the game but cooled off and the Warriors reserves came out winner.

Wildlife is one resource which cannot be stockpiled. A severe winter can take a heavier toll than an army of hunters.

We thought the Chants showed great improvement in several departments against the Huskies. They moved against the press better than at any other time this season as Gary Sedlacek and Bill Klancey brought the ball down in good fashion — Sedlacek especially so.

Lyle Christensen also showed up better than in previous contests and we hope that he is hail and hearty the remainder of the season. We thought Lyle and Gary were both the victims of some poor officiating on several occasions Saturday evening, although we didn't feel the need of three officials. Just two with glasses or better eyesight would have been fine since Aurora committed many fouls that were not called.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

with Max Good

The Ord Chants had a real tiger by the tail Friday evening with Schuyler and on Saturday evening the Aurora Huskies proved tough, but not quite as tigher as Schuyler.

Those Schuyler kids did just exactly what they wanted to do to Ord, only I had a feeling they would have liked to have done even more, but the doggone clock ran out!

Fortunately for Schuyler they caught the Chants on a cold-shooting night, but even if the Chants had been shooting hot, this writer feels that Schuyler would have come out on top. Schuyler needed the win, they wanted the win and they got it. It no doubt was especially tasteful to the Schuyler kids and fans after two straight shellacking at the hands of Ord.

Schuyler Coach Jay Muma had a technical foul called on him for arguing with the refs after the refs had mistakenly given the ball to Schuyler after a timeout and Schuyler had tossed in a basket. The argument was somewhat ridiculous on the part of Coach Muma, but it more or less portrayed the feelings of the entire Schuyler aggregation, as they were leading by 11 or 12 points at the time. That's how bad they wanted to win!

In case you didn't see the game, Schuyler has an excellent ball team. They played most of the game without the services of Gene Harmon, 6-5 lad who hurt his foot when he stepped on another player early in the game. Big Chuck Jura, although Lyle Christensen held him to 15 points, showed that he is an excellent defensive player as he blocked 10 or 12 shots and on several occasions came all the way across the floor to do the job. Schuyler also has a pair of good outside shooters and both of them were smoldering hot most of the time Friday night.

That's enough on Schuyler and I hope the next time we meet it's in the state tourney at Lincoln.

Aurora played about the same style of ball that it played a year ago — slapping, shoving and pushing all over the floor — only this year the refs didn't call them for quite as many violations as they did a year ago when Ord used free throws to beat them at Ord.

New hunting and fishing permits or the economical combination licenses are available from permit vendors across the state. These permits are good through the end of the year, so get yours now and take advantage of the best hunting of the season.

The pheasants tend to flush wild on calm days when snow covers the ground, but a cold wind will have them sitting tight in protected areas. Shelterbelts, weedy fence lines, plum thickets, and brushy draws are prime spots in bad weather.

Also ready and waiting for the gunner during this new year is the favorite of all small game animals, the cottontail, with shooting continuing throughout the year. Squirrels also appear on the hunting agenda through February 29.

Longhorns Clip Gibbon 71-65 In Lou-Platte Game

The Burwell Longhorns remained undefeated in Lou-Platte Conference play Friday evening by tripping a tough Gibbon team 71-65 on the Burwell High hardwood.

The Longhorns built up a 28-21 halftime lead and then played on even terms with the Gibbon team throughout the remainder of the game. Gibbon outscored Burwell 23-21 in the final quarter, but couldn't overcome the Longhorns' early edge.

Roger Hurst was Burwell's leading point maker with 20 and he had good assistance from Don Lindsey with 17 and Bob Beat with 15. Top shooter for the Gibbon Buffaloes was Randy Schnase with 20, followed by Franssen with 18 and Hawke with 14.

Burwell is at Broken Bow Friday evening and will entertain Rock County High School Saturday evening.

Two young women won top 1967 awards in 4-H dairy and poultry competition.

Nancy Kapke, 19, of Fairbury, was the state and sectional award winner in the dairy project. She recently returned from a trip to Chicago to attend the 46th Annual 4-H Club Congress. Along with 1,650 other youths, she participated in discussions, and enjoyed banquets and concerts. She also visited museums and other attractions in Chicago. Her trip was sponsored by the Oliver Corporation.

Miss Kapke has had a champion Brown Swiss cow, junior champion, awards in showmanship and in milking. She also has had a very sick cow which she restored to health after a month's intensive care.

Miss Zierott Miss Kapke

Poultry winner was Barbara Zierott, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Zierott of Murdock. She received a wrist watch from Heisroff & Nelson Farms, Inc.

"The success of poultry comes from selecting a good breed," said Miss Zierott, who has been working on her project for five years. She raised nearly 700 chicks and hens this year.

Both winners were announced by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Loup City Hands North Loup-Scotia Initial Selback

A cold fourth quarter proved fatal to the North Loup-Scotia Wildcats Saturday evening as they dropped their first game of the season to Loup City by a score of 58-55 at Scotia.

The Wildcats, winners of seven straight, held a 48-47 lead at the end of three quarters, but the Raiders of Coach Larry Johnson rallied in the fourth period for a 11-5 edge and the victory.

The Wildcats trailed 37-31 at the intermission and then outscored Loup City 17-10 in the third period to gain a one-point lead which vanished with the five point fourth.

Top shooter for North Loup-Scotia was Jim Clement with 18 and the Raiders were led by Jerry Slominski with the same amount. Dennis Welty aided the Raider cause with 17 tallies.

On Tuesday evening Ashton visited Scotia for a game that was postponed because of icy roads Dec. 16 and the Wildcats added another win by a 60-54 score. In this game Jim Clement had 20 points; Jim Jeffers, 19; Al Williams, 11 and Greg Stine, 10 to lead the Wildcats. Top shooter for Ashton was Badura with 20 tallies.

The NLS Reserves won both the Ashton and Loup City games, taking the Raider reserve 48-44 and tripping Ashton 46-43 in an overtime. Gary Gillham led the scoring with 17 against Loup City and 14 against Ashton.

Chanting with the Chants

Better luck next time boys... Friday night the Ord Chants were defeated by the Schuyler Warriors, 58-36. Saturday night the Chants were defeated by the Aurora Huskies at Aurora, the final score was 64-57. Maybe there is something in what Mr. Trubey said about talking about the games beforehand. Maybe it does jinx the ball team.

This Friday night the Ord Chants will travel to St. Paul where they will meet the Wild Cats... Good Luck team. No talking... Mr. Trubey!!!

Veterans Administration Paid Out $31.5 Million To Nebraska Veterans

The Veterans Administration paid out in 1967 almost $31.5 million in compensation and pension benefits to 32,000 Nebraska veterans or their survivors, Charles St. J. Chubb, Manager of the VA Regional Office, Lincoln, Nebraska, announced today.

Included in this estimate are increased pension for Viet-Nam era wartime disability compensation payments provided by the Veterans Pension and Readjustment Assistance Act signed by the President last August, Mr. Chubb said.

Of the estimated $7 billion of all VA expenditures nationally in 1967, approximately $54.3 million expended in Nebraska. Compensation and pension benefits for 4.5 million American veterans or survivors account for nearly $4.4 billion of the $7 billion total VA expenditures this past year. The next highest VA expenditure in 1967 was for hospital and medical services. To care for ill and disabled veterans in its 166 hospitals and 202 outpatient clinics in 1967, VA spent more than $1.3 billion. VA payments for insurance and indemnities in 1967 totaled nearly $690 million, Mr. Chubb said.

Education and training expenditures were the next highest item in the VA's budget this past year. Under this program, which cost approximately $320 million, about 468,000 veterans went to high school, college or post-graduate school, or received on-the-job, farm, apprenticeship or flight training in 1967. Additionally, some 37,000 children of veterans who died from a service-connected disability or who are permanently and totally disabled as a result of military service received about $33 million in educational assistance this past year.

The GI loan programs, boosted by the participation of Post-Korean and Viet-Nam era veterans who accounted for more than four-fifths of the loans, were strong in 1967, the Manager said. VA guaranteed approximately 200,000 loans with a face value of nearly $3.4 billion in 1967. This past year VA also made slightly more than 12,000 direct loans valued at nearly $150 million.

As in past years, the cost for administering VA's $7 billion program of veterans' benefits and services was less than three percent of its total budget, Mr. Chubb said.

Totally-Inspected Meat Supply Becomes A Reality In Near Future

A totally-inspected meat supply will ultimately become reality under the Wholesome Meat Act signed by President Johnson on Dec. 15, according to Dr. Robert K. Somers, Deputy Administrator for Consumer Protection in the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Consumer and Marketing Service.

The Meat Inspection Act of 1906, administered by the Consumer and Marketing Service, has put in more than 60 years of vital service to protect the consumer.

The 1966 Act, though, didn't go quite as far as many consumers mistakenly assumed. Dr. Somers points out, it covered only meat and meat products produced in plants dealing in interstate or foreign commerce, leaving the inspection of meat sold within State lines up to local governments.

This total of non-Federally inspected meat was still nearly one-fourth of the Nation's meat supply in 1967.

The Wholesome Meat Act of 1967 will ultimately end the game of chance that has been played by some housewives when they shop for meat at today's modern supermarkets. It will assure her that virtually all the meat on sale in the United States inspection of meat sold within Government or an adequate State program.

The basic provisions of the 1967 Act:

- *Broaden Federal-State cooperative arrangements to strengthen State meat inspection programs. Under this main feature of the Act, the Federal government will provide financial, technical and scientific assistance to State agencies to improve their programs. The United States government will pay up to half the cost of the State program under this provision.
- *Authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to provide inspection at any meat plant immediately even if it sells only to customers within a State if the plant is a health hazard and the state fails to inspect it.
- *Give the State government two years to set up a State meat inspection program equal to the Federal program. If the States don't do the job, the Federal government is authorized to take over. After the two-year period, a State may be given additional time if it seems to be making substantial progress.
- *Immediately place meat processing in the District of Columbia and unorganized territories under Federal inspection.
- *Immediately place "boners and cutters" (persons who cut up carcasses into wholesale cuts or for further processing) under Federal inspection if they are engaged in interstate commerce.
- *Eliminate "retail" exemptions from Federal inspection. These exemptions were usually given to retail dealers that did less than a USDA specified volume of business in interstate commerce.
- *Give the Secretary of Agriculture new authority over industries which could divert unfit meat to the human food supply. These persons include transporters, brokers, renderers, cold storage warehouses, and animal food manufacturers.
- *Require that meat imports meet the same strict requirements as those placed on meats produced in the United States. This will include increased review of foreign systems and a thorough re-inspection at the port of entry.
- *Authorize regulation of meat

John W. Ambrose, 83, resident of Ord since 1908 died Tuesday evening, Jan. 9, at the Valley County Hospital after a long illness.

Mr. Ambrose — known better as "Kelly" — was engaged in the plumbing and heating business and as a fuel oil distributor for many years. He was born in Czechoslovakia Dec. 27, 1884 and came to Ravenna, as a boy, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ambrose. In 1903 he moved to Ord which had since been his home. He and Magdalene Post were united in marriage, May 9, 1910, at Ord.

Survivors are his wife, two sisters, Mrs. Barbara McGuire of Alliance and Mrs. Anna Howard of Seattle, Wash. and one brother, Joseph of Columbus. He was preceded in death by his parents, one brother and one sister.

A prayer service will be held at Hastings - Pearson Chapel, Friday at 2 p.m.

Graveside service will be at the Ord Cemetery with the Rev. Stanley Gorak officiating. The Hastings - Pearson Mortuary is in charge.

Highway Department Shuffle Continues

Three more key personnel changes within the reorganized Nebraska Roads Department have been announced by State Engineer John W. Hossack.

Walter W. Larkin, assistant right of way engineer, was named acting director of that division to replace W. H. Mengel of Lincoln, who retired after 36 years and 7 months of service.

Arthur H. Dederman of Lincoln was elevated from bridge engineer to field division engineer for the Omaha area, effective Feb. 1.

Dederman, 41, succeeds Marvin Nuernberger of Omaha, who has been named deputy engineer for design. E. W. Tupper, assistant division engineer at Omaha, will serve in the position on an acting basis until Dederman takes over.

Gerald Grauer, 29, of Lincoln was promoted from assistant to acting program and planning engineer, replacing Bruce Gillan of Lincoln, who was moved up to deputy engineer for planning last month.

Hossack said the appointments are part of the department's continuing personnel study aimed at improving staff efficiency.

NL Seventh Day Baptist Church In "Crusade Of The Americas"

The North Loup Seventh Day Baptist Church voted Sunday night to participate in the North and South American Baptist "Crusade of the Americas" for the next three years.

An interesting part of the Crusade is that it will work through local churches rather than on a large upper-level of denominational participation. Each local church in North America will be paired with a sister church in Central or South America, and the churches will be asked to correspond and pray with each other, getting to know the problems of Christian living and witness in the other's locale.

Rev. Leon R. Lawrence, director of evangelism, is the coordinator for Seventh Day Baptists in this Crusade, and will probably attend meetings in Brazil this Spring to help in the planning.

North Loup School News

By Colleen Keown
The North Loup - Scotia Schools will hold Parent-Teacher conferences on Wednesday, Jan. 17 at both schools. Letters have been sent to all patrons notifying them of the time for their visitation. The parents will also pick up their children's report cards at this time. Student Council members will be on hand throughout the day to assist the parents in finding the correct rooms.

Intramural contests have gotten underway in the gym during the noon hours with teams vying in basketball and volleyball. Lively competition has developed. While the games are underway, some of the students are also taking advantage of the shuffleboard, pingpong and trampoline. The activities are sponsored by the student council.

Started this year has been an adult recreation class. Last week 33 men and women took advantage of the Thursday night funfest. Of particular fun last week were a couple of lively games of "Nebraska Ball" under the supervision of Glen Hawley. A "sorely good" time was had by all. Class will meet again this Thursday evening and there is not an admission charge.

Last Wednesday afternoon the Jr. High basketball team journeyed to Ansley where both the 7th and 8th grade team and the 9th grade team won their games easily. This Tuesday afternoon the Burwell Longhorns came to NLS and their 7th and 8th grade team took a thriller by 23-25 score. However, the 9th graders came back to take out a 35-33 win in the second game. The 9th graders are a little handicapped

School Day At Ord Elementary May Be Lengthened

The Elementary School in Ord, is considering lengthening the school day in order to have more time to cover all of the material that is necessary," Gerald Decker, Principal of the Ord Elementary system said today.

"At the present time, we are just above the minimum requirements for the number of minutes for schooling that is required by the State Department of Education."

"We would be able to increase our time by possibly starting school in the afternoon at 12:35 P.M. and then dismissing at 3:30 P.M. In doing this we would pick up approximately 20 minutes a day or 100 minutes a week. Using this figure for the second semester, we would gain 1,800 minutes for the entire second semester."

"In changing our noon hour, there would not be any child that would have to go home and back to school with less than one hour for lunch. We are considering making the change at the start of the second semester, January 22," Decker told the QUIZ.

Recordings during the past week are as follows:

Dr. F. J. Osefowski Dental Week Chairman

An Ord dentist, Dr. F. J. Osefowski has been appointed chairman of the Children's Dental Health Week for Valley County by Dr. L. A. Ambrose of Omaha, state chairman for the 20th anniversary observance of this event, scheduled for the week of February 4 through 10. "Grow Up Smiling" is the theme which will be used to focus attention on the importance of good dental health. Activities related to the event will emphasize children because good dental health habits are started early in life, Dr. Ambrose said. "But our concern is to make dental health an integral part of total health for all." He pointed out that the majority of our dental problems could be vastly reduced with proper care. That is why "Grow Up Smiling" is a message of meaning and not just a slogan to attract popular attention.

Scholarships Are Available Through FHA, USDA Program

Under the terms of the Rural Rehabilitation Corporation Scholarship agreement between the Farmers Home Administration and the Department of Agriculture, interest from Nebraska's share will amount to about $100,000 per year which will be made available to needy farm and ranch youth who wish to pursue their education past high school.

A student interested in the program may apply for scholarship assistance at any stage of his education. Thus, a student may apply for help from the first year of college or trade school right through graduate school. However, each recipient is limited to a total of $2,400 during his educational career. A student is considered automatically for second semester assistance, but must re-apply each year. Those having received help in the past are considered first, but those who were denied assistance may reapply.

These funds may be used at any college or trade school operated by a political subdivision of the state (including junior colleges, trade schools, state colleges, and the University of Nebraska). The student may pursue any type of education they desire and need not be in an agricultural field.

Applications must be in the local Farmers Home Administration office not later than February 15, 1968 to be considered for the 1968-1969 school year. Selection of the recipients for the scholarships is made by the State Advisory Committee and the State Department of Agriculture.

Lawmakers Hopeful Unicameral Can Complete Business Quickly

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — The special session of the Nebraska Legislature has opened for business, with lawmakers seeking a congressional redistricting plan that will satisfy the federal courts.

The agenda also includes a proposal to liberalize the state unemployment compensation act to permit jobless benefits and severance pay at the same time.

Legislative leaders, who bear the responsibility for moving the session along, say they are hopeful the Unicameral can complete its business soon.

"The longer the session, the greater the cost," said Sen. Elvin Adamson of Valentine, speaker of the Legislature.

The assembly, which opened last Wednesday, must last at least a week, and early indications were it could go much longer. There is no maximum limitation.

Considerable wrangling has developed over which counties should be moved from one congressional district to another, and whether the labor law proposal should be enacted at all.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, who called the special session more than a month ago, appealed to the senators to reduce the population disparity between districts to three percent or less.

He also asked that shuffling of counties be kept to a "minimum" and that the new boundaries be fashioned so that counties remain contiguous.

"These objectives should not be too hard to accomplish," he said. "They set forth the guidelines that I would like to see followed."

The governor fears if the Legislature goes "much beyond three percent," the new law will not be accepted by the federal courts.

A special panel of three judges last Nov. 22 said that if present population imbalances are not corrected, congressional candidates in Nebraska must run on a statewide ticket in the May primary and November general elections.

The deadline for filing for Congress is March 14.

While state legislators are elected on a nonpartisan basis, some hard political maneuvering was highlighting the special session.

Republicans, who presently have a hamperlock on the state's congressional delegation, would like to keep it that way.

Democrats, on the other hand, want a plan that gives them a better chance of electing a congressman or two in the fall general election.

There is general agreement that to comply with the court decree, approximately 50,000 inhabitants must be removed from the first district, with 20,000 of these placed in the second district and 30,000 in the third district.

Rep. Robert V. Denney represents the first district which covers Lincoln and eastern Nebraska outside the Omaha area. Rep. Glenn Cunningham is from the second district composed of Douglas, Sarpy, Washington and Cass counties. Rep. Dave Martin is from the 59 county western Nebraska third district.

Federal Hearing Set On Trains

The Federal Government has granted a Nebraska petition for a hearing on the Union Pacific's application to discontinue two passenger trains between Omaha and Los Angeles.

The Interstate Commerce Commission order came down only six days before trains No. 3 and 6 were scheduled to go off the line.

Fred N. Peterson, chairman of the State Railway Commission, said service will continue as usual until a final ICC decision is delivered after the hearing.

"The hearing will be held in the near future before the ICC," he said. "The railroad must prove and justify its request to remove this passenger service."

The Railway Commission had filed a protest last Dec. 15, a week after the U. P. asked the ICC for permission to drop the trains.

Peterson said the trains are "vital to Ord" to Nebraska as they provide the only daytime passenger service in the state.

The trains service such major communities as Colu m b u s, Grand Island, North Platte and Sidney.

Peterson said several Nebraska mayors, state senators and chambers of commerce joined with the commission in protesting the U. P. application.

"These people should be commended for their wonderful support of this important segment of Nebraska's transportation system," he said. "I am sure the ICC was and will be influenced by the wide public response to the railroad's application."

The trains involved had been used principally for transcontinental mail and express service before the Postoffice Department removed all mail from them last Oct. 12.

In its application, the U. P. alleged that of $3,156,997 in total revenues from the two trains during the first nine months of last year, $7,450,000 came from mail and express.

U. P. officials have pointed out that first class passenger trains, such as the City of Portland, make regular stops in 13 out-state Nebraska towns, plus 23 others if they are signaled to stop for passengers or mail.

In December the ICC authorized the Burlington Railroad to discontinue two passenger trains between Omaha and Denver after the Burlington contended operating costs were running too high.

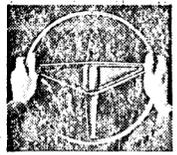

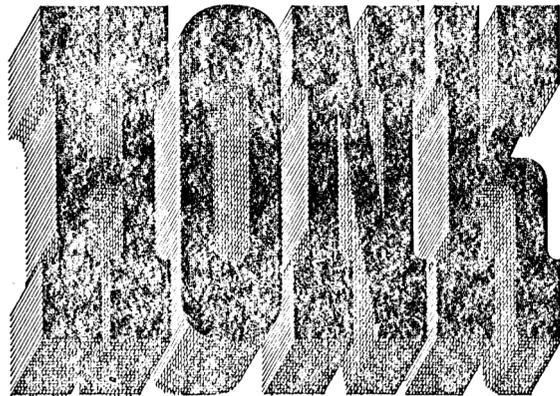

That ICC action came without a hearing. A Nebraska protest was overruled.

New Year's Day guests in the Joe Zeleski home were Mr. and Mrs. Zig Zeleski and family of Lexington, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Michalski and family of Constok and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Paprocki and baby of Elyria.

Happy New Year To "The Forgotten Man"

(An editorial from the Chicago Tribune.)

Who is the Forgotten Man? He is the clean, quiet, virtuous domestic citizen, who pays his debts and his taxes and is never heard of out of his little circle.

William Graham Sumner, 1883

We address our greetings to all the fine people of the United States. The newspapers may sometimes suggest that the country is people exclusively by gangsters, con men, demonstrators, draft card burners, drug addicts, race rioters, strikers, and politicians. Our warm wishes go to the large anonymous majority who do not make trouble or court notoriety.

These are the people whose taxes make it possible for governments to function and for politicians to pose as our saviors and benefactors. They are churchgoers who can't understand the oddballs who argue that it is unconstitutional for school children to sing Christmas carols. They are the dependable people who do their jobs quietly and keep the wheels turning in a productive society.

They are people with worries, who endure the hazards to which their sons are exposed in combat far away, who are concerned with the rising costs of putting children thru college, who pay their bills and sacrifice to meet the grinding demands of the tax collector. They are those who are willing to work to provide for themselves, instead of constituting a burden on the community.

They are the law abiding who respect the rights of their neighbors and expect their own rights to be honored. They do not impose themselves on others or make nuisances of themselves. They honor traditional values and do not view conformity as a social peril.

They are not members of the country club set, but compose the backbone of a country which puts human values first. Without them, this country would be without hope and without vision, and it would be far less than it is. The quality of any society grows out of the quality of the individuals composing it, and the decency, consideration, and compassion of our society grow out of the family at home, not out of the halls of government.

So we wish all of these upstanding and unsung Americans the happiest and most prosperous of New Years. For, as Sumner said again: "The Forgotten Man . . . delving away in patient industry, supporting his family, paying his taxes, casting his vote, supporting the church and the school . . . but he is the only one for whom there is no provision in the great scramble and the great divide. Such is the Forgotten Man. He works, he votes, generally he prays—but his chief business in life is to pay . . . Who and where is the Forgotten Man in this case, who will have to pay for it all?"

Guilty Person Is Free

"Minors in the possession of alcoholic beverages" . . . that is usually the wording of the complaint some youth or group of youths face as they appear in court . . . but it is a pretty safe bet to say that 90% of the time the "really guilty" person is not in court.

Ever since the repeal of prohibition (and the public admittance it was a failure) . . . the availability of beer and hard liquors has been a problem. The problem is becoming more acute as teenagers feel their new freedoms.

More and more tavern owners are becoming too smart to sell to minors. They have too big an investment at stake to risk gaining the profit on a six-pack of beer with the danger of losing a license or suffering a suspension.

Most alcoholic beverages are now reaching minors by legal purchase of someone over 21 who in turn sells or gives the beer or liquor to minor. These are the lawbreakers who do not appear in court . . . the minor who stands before the judge feels he must conceal the identity of this so-called "friend."

Persons who make these purchases and turn them over to minors know they are lawbreakers, but they continue on their way unmolested, while some youngster (or his parents) must pay a fine.

The laws prohibiting minors from obtaining alcoholic beverages are most important. There are laws that also prohibit giving or selling alcoholic beverages to minors, but the persons committing this act are seldom apprehended.

So remember . . . the next time you hear or read about minors in the possession of alcoholic beverages . . . you can put your tongue in the top of your mouth and say "tsk-tsk, those naughty youngsters" . . . but remember, the guilty party, the person who made this liquor available to these minors is not in court.

This is a regretful situation and a situation the public must learn to live with until adults wake up to the fact that being a "supplier" is a greater moral wrong than the youngster has committed who stands before the judge. (Pierce County Leader).

Something Different Life Grows More Instant

I don't like to wait. I don't wait worth a darn. I think it is getting to be an American characteristic . . . we are all "instant". We want everything to happen yesterday, and we jump up and down if it doesn't.

Probably this is why so many items seem to me to be time-wasters. Doing dishes for one; yes, I want them sparkling but I don't want to take time to do them. This also goes for dusting; what could be more stupid than sweeping and dusting out several quarts of dust every week . . . only to have it all get into the house again this week . . . and be ready to remove again next week?

Sounds like an occupation for a moron to me. I love the house shiny clean, understand. But it just seems dumb to do and re-do and re-do the work of getting it that way.

Filing fingernails seems like a big time-killer, for isn't it to do over in a few days?

Now I don't feel this way about cooking at all at all, I suppose because I love to cook. And anyway cooking is never the same twice, it is an ever-new challenge. And such great results! Once I read that Eleanor Roosevelt said she always kept in her purse some thin sheets and envelopes of airmail paper, and that she was able to take care of almost all her correspondence while she waited for appointments and while she flew from one place to another.

Women have done hundreds of miles of knitting while they waited. Waited for Father, waited for a meal, waited for the bread to rise, waited for the mail, waited for the children. Women have had to learn to be patient.

It is always amazing to me to see someone who has the time but isn't employing it reading. I see people who can sleep under a hair drier, a good idea, or perhaps they simply sit.

If I live a thousand years I'll never have had time to do all the reading I want to do. There are such infinite numbers of fascinating things that I know absolutely nothing about.

Meantime, I still don't like to wait. Nothing frustrates me so much.

Say, I bet there's a pill for that. We have pills for just about everything these days. So there must be a pill to make waiting easier. A time-condensing pill would you say?

First Of Series On Changes

Benefit Increases - For Persons Now Under Social Security Program

By Larry G. Chanzy, Social Security District Manager, Grand Island

The changes in the social security law signed by President Johnson on January 2 will mean a benefit increase of at least 13 percent in the social security checks of about 17,533 men, women, and children in the Grand Island area.

The Social Security Administration's high speed electronic computers are figuring the increases for all 23,700,000 social security beneficiaries around the country and will finish the task in time to include the increases in the checks delivered early in March.

Beneficiaries need not take any action to get the increase. It will be sent to them automatically.

Residents of the Grand Island area can expect the first increased check on Saturday, March 2nd, one day earlier than the usual 3rd of the month delivery of social security benefit checks. Under a recent arrangement with the Treasury Department and the Post Office, social security checks are delivered a day early instead of a day late when the 3rd of the month falls on a Sunday or holiday.

Some social security beneficiaries will receive more than a 13 percent increase. The minimum benefit for workers retiring at 65 is increased from $44 to $55. The average benefit payable to a retired worker, about $86, will be raised to $98, an increase of $12 a month. The average couple's benefit, now $145, will go up to $165; and the average aged widow's benefit will rise $11, from the current average of $75 to $86.

The last increase in social security benefits amounted to 7 percent, and was effective January 1965.

About 3 out of every 10 beneficiaries receiving an increased check early in March will be someone under 65, many of them the children of working fathers who have died.

The value of social security survivors insurance is often overlooked. Social security is more than just a retirement system. But it is also income protection for the family in case of the breadwinner's death or disability.

With the increased benefit payments provided under the new amendments to the law, the face value of social security survivors insurance has been increased to about $940 billion. This is just about equivalent to the value of all the private life insurance now in force.

Under the amended law, maximum payments to families now on the social security benefit rolls will go up from the currently payable maximum of $309.20 a month to $322.40. In the future, the maximum payable monthly to any one family can be as high as $434.40.

STRIKES AND "SMALL BUSINESS"
By C. WILSON HARDER

Much of the United Auto Workers' strategy in recent bargaining with industry has been dictated by the potential cost of strike benefits paid out of the union treasury.

Ford, rather than the bigger General Motors, faced a company-wide strike. Following the Ford settlement, a contract with Chrysler was negotiated without resorting to a strike, and then U A W confronted General Motors, hoping that no more than a selective, limited strike would be necessary. A total walkout at GM could cost the union up to $55 million a month.

At the peak of the Auto Workers' strikes against Ford, Caterpillar Tractor, Burroughs and other companies, the reported cost in union benefits was $12 million dollars a week. Walter Reuther, UAW president, pushed through a special assessment on all union members to help finance the walkouts.

The Lord Has A Way Of Making Things Equal!

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
Clarence Campbell come by the contrary store Saturday night to set for a spell with the fellers, and he brought along his usual good food for thought.

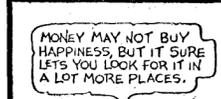

First off, he said he had took note that the older most folks got the more they kept quiet on account of they had more to keep quiet about, but the older he got the more he complained. That got the fellers off to a good mood because most of them was gitting older and older and complaining more and more.

The good Parson announced he aimed to preach a sermon pritty soon on college football. He said he had kept a record this past football season and they wasn't a riot on a single campus where they was winning big in football. He claimed if they couldn't git in the papers big in football they was trying to offset it with riots, lovin's, flower power and such stuff. He was of the opinion some of these colleges that was having big riots had ought to pay more attention to football and less attention to education.

You'll have to admit, Mister Editor, this was pritty sharp thinking.

January 3, 1968
Dodge Center, Minn.

Dear Quiz Friends:
I went over my many cards again yesterday, and was struck anew with the beauty and originality as well as the love expressed of each one. I received so many from Ord friends that I wish to say thank you for them. And since I cannot say it to each one of you I am using your home paper to do it for me. It is very nice to think that I am still remembered and I do appreciate the way you have not forgotten me. I can remember many nice times I have had at the holiday season when I was in Ord, and all with pleasure. It has been very cold here and yesterday we had a light snow. From the papers I have an idea that Nebraska has not been spared winter weather, either. I received two Nebraska calendars and one is where I can see it as I write and the other is in my bedroom. I also received "Bygone Nebraska", pictures of early events in our state, and I have enjoyed it immensely.

With my thank you, will you all please accept my best wishes for lots of good and happiness for all of you and yours?

Myra Thorngate Barber

He went on to say a heap of his sermons made some enemies for him and he expected his sermon on football wouldn't please the Deacons but preaching was in his blood. He claimed he could make more money in the brick mason profession but he wasn't going to desert the Lord in time of need.

And he told the fellers need was gitting greater and greater. But, he added, we was gitting a world of help from the taxpayers in our hour of need. Fer instans, he said he had saw a report where North Carolina had got out a book called "Guide To Services" and the table of contents took up five pages and it listed Government aid in everthing from "pre-natal service" to "lump-sum death benefits". He reported he hadn't checked on it but he figured ever since in the Union was now gitting Federal funds to spend everybody equal from womb to tomb.

One of the fellows butted in to say the Government was doing a heap of things to help the country. Fer instans, he said the city of Philadelphia had made a deal to dump 1,200 tons of garbage ever day into abandoned strip mines to turn the land back useful and our Government had took a cue from this and aimed to do the same thing to git rid of the rats.

Personal, Mister Editor, I think they were both a little right and a little wrong. The Lord has a way of making things equal. Fer instans, some people in this country was advocating the birth pill to keep down population and in Romania population has fell off to where they was putting a high tax on bachelors and spinsters.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

Shirley Purtle Exchanges Wedding Vows With Iowan

Mrs. Bruce Roberts

Shirley Lee Purtle, daughter of Mrs. George W. Purtle and the late Mr. Purtle, (formerly of Ord) and Bruce Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Roberts, of Missouri Valley, were united in marriage at an 11:00 a.m. ceremony on Saturday, December 30, at St. Patrick's Church in Missouri Valley. The Rev. James J. Wadsworth performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Donald A. Ruchlman, Modale, Iowa, chose a "Mori Lee" gown of cut velvet, fashioned in a skimmer-cage silhouette. Angel skin peau satin fashioned the roll collar. A band of the angel skin peau satin finished the hemline and was used to edge the waltz train that flowed from the shoulder to chapel length. A cluster of peau taffeta rosebuds centered with seed pearls held the bride's veil of imported silk illusion. The bride's bouquet was of white roses.

Mrs. Bruce Haines of Omaha, was Matron of Honor for her niece. Bridesmaids were Earline Purtle, sister of the bride, and Janet Roberts, sister of the groom. They all wore identical floor length gowns of moss green velvet and crepe. The empire dresses of moss green crepe were topped with moss green velvet jackets featuring scooped necklines and elbow length sleeves. They wore headpieces of matching velvet bows and veiling. Each carried a long stemmed white rose.

Julie Roberts, of St. Louis, Missouri, niece of the groom, was flower girl. Her short empire styled dress was fashioned of the same moss green velvet and crepe. She also carried a long stemmed white rose. Douglas Purtle, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

Lynn Roberts, St. Louis, Missouri, was best man for his brother. Groomsmen were David Campbell, Missouri Valley, and Bruce Haines, Omaha, Nebr., uncle of the bride.

Sharon Porter of Missouri Valley sang "One Hand One Heart" and "Ave Maria". She was accompanied at the organ by Rol Ann Gearhart, also of Missouri Valley.

The altar was adorned with flowers of white gladioli and pom poms.

A reception was held in the parish hall following the ceremony. Diane Lausen, Missouri Valley, and Mrs. Bob Brothers, Maryville, Mo., served the four tiered wedding cake. Mrs. Lloyd Tuffy, Rockford, Ill., served the punch and Mrs. Donald Ruchlman, Modale, Iowa, poured coffee. Mrs. Lynn Roberts, St. Louis, Mo., had charge of the guest book. Cynthia Burbank, Julie Petersen, Jeannette Fagan, all of Missouri Valley, and Terri Edwards, Ord helped at the gift table.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts will make their home in Nebraska City, Nebraska, and Mr. Roberts will resume his studies at Peru (Nebr.) State College, where he is a senior.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

Hungry for art? Bring out the paper plates. Children with crayons can do more things with paper plates than adults ever imagine. Take small white paper plates as a starter. Youngsters color the rims to become frames. Then in the center they may draw a friend's portrait, or a tree or a squirrel. The plates are a colorful gallery when hung up by loops of yarn. The "primitives" in your home may surprise you with the bold, free work they do. When weather permits — brisk, windy days are ideal — the plates can become flying saucers decorated with crayon. Youngsters will be excited to spin them through the air in mock battles and triumphant flights. There'll be no need to scotch the family out for exercise that day. One rule: all flying saucers must be picked up later and put in the wastebasket for security reasons. This will please the neighbors, too. You'll find, I'm sure, that youngsters like to do "plate work" because they are unlimited by lines and rules. Little girls may turn plain plates into fancy party plates. Little boys may draw the sun or a boat or a frowning face. One thing for sure, they will all sit back, highly pleased at their achievements, you'll notice. Paper plates can make a child feel festive any day. Let them try it. —

SEVEN "DO MORES": Do more than exist... live. Do more than look... observe. Do more than hear... listen. Do more than listen... understand. Do more than think... ponder. Do more than talk... say something.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hackett of Parkview Village who celebrated their 63rd wedding anniversary, Sunday. When asked, Mrs. Hackett gave this prescription for marriage: "When you start out, you start with the idea of making a go of it. It should be a 50-50 proposition all the way through."

COFFEE CUP PHILOSOPHY: Be not simply good. Be good for something.

OHS Wrestlers Lose, But Look Impressive Against Broken Bow

The Ord High School wrestling team, making its first home appearance, dropped a dual meet with the Broken Bow reserves 31-11 Tuesday evening at the Ord High School gymnasium.

Although the Chant grapplers lost, those attending felt that Coach Jim Ramsey's squad is rapidly improving as three of his wrestlers came through with impressive wins — two by decision and one on a pin.

Those winning matches were Roger Cahill, Tim Markley and Leonard Krason.

Markley chalked up the first win of the evening for Ord as he went against Rodney Larson of Broken Bow in the 127 pound division. Markley was ahead on mat points 17-2 by scoring points on takedowns, reversals and near pins. Twice he nearly had his opponents' shoulders on the mat just at the whistle.

Krason then came out against Bruce Grovier of Broken Bow to take a 4-2 decision as he scored points on a takedown and was then credited with two more points riding time to win the decision. This was in the 133 pound division.

Ord's other points came as Roger Cahill took on Ray Scott of Broken Bow in the 165 pound division. Cahill tallied two points in the first period on a takedown to lead 2-0 at the end of the first period. Then in the second period Cahill went ahead 5-0 as he tallied one point on an escape and another two points on a takedown.

He worked his opponent into a pinning position in the third period and got his pin with 1:32 remaining to account for the balance of the Ord scoring in the meet.

Ord spotted the Indians 10 points on two forfeits as the Chants did not have contestants in the 122 pound division, nor in the heavyweight.

The other wrestlers from Ord were defeated in this manner: Terry Lee was decisioned 9-0 in the 112 pound division by Dave Owens;

Jim Naeve was pinned in the 138 pound division by Larry Nichols with 1:13 remaining in the third period;

Tom Beran was pinned in the 154 pound division by Roger Larson with 13 seconds remaining in the first period;

Allen Cahill dropped a 13-3 decision to Lorence Adams and Dale Baldwin, after making a good start, was pinned with 1:53 left in the second period by Jeff Owens in the 145 pound division.

Coach Ramsey said he was well pleased with the performance of his boys and said that with each meet they show much improvement. A smallish crowd was on hand for the boys' initial performance in Ord. The next action for the Ord team will be Saturday at 7 p.m. at Ainsworth.

The next home performance for Ord will be Jan. 29 at 6:30 p.m. against a team from Grand Island Northwest.

Christensen Grabs 21 Rebounds, Tallies 22 Points As Chants Trip St. Paul 72-58

Ord's rebounding strength and free-throw accuracy was too much for the St. Paul Wildcats Friday evening as the Chants moved to a 72-58 win on the St. Paul boards.

Big Lyle Christensen, fully recovered from the flu, snared 21 rebounds and scored 22 points in leading the Ord club to its seventh win of the season.

Christensen's rebound total was his high for the season and was one more than was taken off by the entire St. Paul team. The Chants grabbed 31 defensive rebounds and 16 on offense for a game total of 47 caroms.

The Chants edged the Wildcats 28-27 in field goals, but they bucketed 16 of 21 free throw chances while St. Paul was casting in on only four of 12 from the gift stripe.

Aiding the cause was Ron Bredthauer with 18 points and eight rebounds and Jim Lukesh with 12 points and nine rebounds. Bill Klanecky, Ord starter, suffered a knee injury in the first minute of play and was benched for the remainder of the game.

Dick Janda, who replaced Klanecky, tossed in 10 points on four field goals and two for two from the free throw stripe. Mike Kunz had three points; Gary Sedlacek, three and Steve Furek, two to account for the balance of Ord's scoring.

The St. Paul team showed well-balanced scoring with three boys getting into double figures. M. Snow and R. Brummond each counted 14 and M. Brehm tossed in 12. The statistics show that the Wildcats were accurate from the floor as they hit 27 of 69 for a 40 per cent shooting average and Ord tossed in 28 of 63 for a 44 per cent average.

St. Paul was 34 per cent from the charity stripe and Ord sizzled again with 76 per cent. Ord committed 11 fouls and St. Paul had 14 called against the players.

Ord again led in the turnover department as the Chants committed 19 miscues to only nine for St. Paul. Christensen had five turnovers; Bredthauer, four; Janda, three; John, two; Miller, two; Kunz, two and Sedlacek, one.

Christensen had 21 rebounds; Lukesh, nine; Bredthauer, eight; Janda, five; John, two; Kunz and Klanecky, one apiece and Sedlacek, none.

Individual shooting was led by Christensen as he canned 11 of 18 tries for about 65 per cent from the floor. Bredthauer hit on seven of 17 and Lukesh, cooler than usual, found the target only four of 13 tries from the floor.

Lukesh led Ord's first quarter spurge with eight points as he hit on three of seven shots from the floor and added a pair of gift shots. In the second period, Bredthauer took over with seven points and Christensen added six for a 23 point period. In the third period it was Christensen showing the way with eight points on four of five from the floor.

Ord's best shooting period was the second as the players hit on nine of 16 for a 57 per cent shooting.

Coach Ken Trubey said he was not sure about the condition of Klanecky's knee, but did know he had it in a split Monday morning and would know later in the week as to Klanecky's chances of playing in this weekend's double-header with Albion here Friday and at Loup City Saturday.

The pheasant season ends in Nebraska Sunday following a season where many reports of hunting success have been heard especially in the Ord area. Several coyote hunters in the field last Sunday without shotguns reported seeing many, many roosting pheasants, which will probably assure another good pheasant season if the weather cooperates.

Winter has come to Nebraska, turning the ground white, the air sharp, and the water to ice. While all the warm-blooded birds have long since departed for warmer climates, the angler need not follow suit and hang around his warm house waiting for spring.

One of the obvious advantages to ice fishing is that an angler can dunk a line in any part of the lake he wants merely by walking to the spot and chopping a hole. Many fish species bite well during the cold months, although they do not normally put up as much fight, according to the Game Commission.

The angler must take the precaution of dressing properly for the cold weather, including in-

Benefit Increases, Future Beneficiaries Are Discussed

By Larry G. Chaney, Grand Island Social Security District Manager

In my last article I discussed the increased social security payments that would be coming to persons now on the social security benefit rolls in early March as a result of the amendments signed into law by President Johnson on January 2, 1968.

The effect of the new legislation is also to increase the benefits of all future beneficiaries a minimum of 13 percent. A person whose earnings under social security had averaged $350 a month under the old law, get a benefit of $420 upon retirement at 65, or $186.30 for himself and his wife if she was also 65 upon her retirement.

Under the new law, based on the same average earnings of $350 a month, his retirement benefit will be $140.40 per month, or $210.60 for the couple — $24.30 more a month.

The maximum retirement benefit under the old law would have been $168 a month ($252 for a couple) payable to a worker 29 years old in 1968 and retiring in the year 2004, with average earnings of $550 a month, or $6,000 a year. Under the new law, this same worker can look forward to a monthly payment of $189.90 ($284.90 for himself and his wife). Thus for these workers who have been earning and who will continue to earn wages of $6,000 a year or less, the new amendments will mean sizable increases in their future benefit payments — and without comparable increases in the social security tax contributions they were scheduled to pay under the old law.

A worker earning $6,600 a year will pay exactly the same amount of social security taxes in 1968 as he paid in 1967. In 1969 and 1970, he will actually pay $8.90 less for the year than he would have paid under the old law. In years after that he will pay only slightly more, with his maximum contribution no more than $1.38 more a month than he would have paid under the law as it stood before the enactment of the benefit increases. These contribution rates also include the portion he pays toward his medicare protection for his old age.

Higher social security contributions are scheduled, however, for the one out of four wage earners who earns over $8,000. He will be paying social security contributions on up to $1,200 more of his annual earnings.

Beginning with 1968, earnings up to $7,800 a year will be subject to social security contributions and will also count toward social security benefits.

For a worker earning the maximum of $7,800 or more a year, this will mean additional social security contributions of $4.40 more per month in 1968, rising to a maximum additional contribution of $7.28 per month in 1969 and later, including the amount he pays for his and his wife's hospital insurance under medicare.

These higher paid workers who will be paying substantially more in social security contributions are, however, the ones who will also get substantially higher benefits, ranging up to 30 percent higher than under present law. For example, a young man now 27 or younger who pays social security contributions on $7,800 a year until his retirement at age 65, will collect 30 percent more in monthly benefits than he would under present law — $218 a month for himself and his wife. His family's benefit protection in case of his disability or death is also substantially improved.

Even the higher paid middle-aged worker who is much closer to retirement age will find his benefit prospects greatly improved. For example, a worker who is 50 in 1968 and will pay social security contributions on earnings of $7,800 a year for only 15 years will collect a retirement benefit of $188.90. This compares with $155 per month he would have collected under the old law, an increase of 21.8 percent. He and his wife together will be eligible for $283.20 a month, instead of $232.50.

Married 63 Years

Jan. 16—Memorable Day For Hacketts

By Max Good
Quiz Editor

There is a saying that "years make all of us old and very few of us wise" — but for Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hackett of Ord this saying applies only as far as age is concerned.

For Mr. and Mrs. Hackett on January 16 observed their 63rd year of happy married life and it goes without saying that over the years these two people have gained a wisdom that few possess.

And these many years of happiness, and some tragedy, all began right here in Ord on January 16, 1905 when Oscar Hackett and Edna Cronk exchanged wedding vows at the Ord Methodist parsonage, the Rev. M. A. Wimberly officiating.

What is their ingredients for a long and happy life together? Well it's really quite simple.

- (1.) Live a simple, quiet life.
- (2.) No smoking nor drinking.
- (3.) No excess or strenuous (so-called) pleasure.
- (4.) Take pleasure in family and home life and with friends and neighbors in a quiet pleasurable way.
- (5.) Put interest in your church work.

Mr. Hackett is 91 years old and Mrs. Hackett is 83 and as they passed the 63rd milestone in their married life they feel that those who follow the above suggestions are likely to have a successful married life.

Mr. Hackett was born May 4, 1877 in Pennsylvania on a farm where the City of Austin, Pa. is now located. He came to Central City, Nebr., which was the end of the railroad then, on May 4, 1883 on his sixth birthday and for 85 years he has been a Nebraskan.

In 1901 he took a homestead in the territory south of Ericson, where he built a house of sod and two years later the house was taken in a cyclone. He built another sod house and lived on the homestead four years prior to his marriage. Later, on this same site a postoffice was opened and it was called Homestead, Nebr.

Mrs. Hackett was born January 16, 1886 east of Ord in the Springdale Community to Jay H. Cronk and Lottie Timmerman Cronk. Mrs. Hackett grew up in Valley County and on her birthday in 1905 she and Oscar were married in Ord.

The Hacketts lived on the homestead until 1909 when they moved to Merritt County and farmed until 1917 and then went to Idaho for a couple of years. During those two years Oscar drove a truck for the government hauling fruit in connection with the food conservation program during World War I. In 1919 the Hacketts came back to Ord and he worked at a variety of jobs until 1928 when he started to work for Valley County as a road maintainer operator. Then in 1943 Mr. Hackett had a mishap in which he lost his right hand. The accident happened after a day's work on the road, while he was operating an ensilage cutter. Since that time he worked at jobs such as he could.

For the past three years Mr. and Mrs. Hackett have been residents of Parkview Village, where on Sunday they were honored by other residents of the village with an anniversary dinner, as well as observance of Mrs. Hackett's birthday.

The Hacketts had three children. They are Chester, Tacoma, Wash.; Jay of Kearney and one daughter — Mrs. John (Hazel) Laeger, who died in 1965. There are eight grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren.

And to make the occasion happier, Mr. and Mrs. Hackett received a plant Tuesday morning, from their son, Chester and wife, for the anniversary and Mrs. Hackett's birthday.

So for the Hacketts — the years have made them old, but they are wise indeed. Congratulations to both Mr. and Mrs. Hackett!

Nebraska Reapportion Mess

Nebraska's lawmakers paid little heed to Gov. Norbert Tiemann's statement to the effect that "redistricting was up to the legislators and not the federal courts".

The solons stopped through a bill that does justice to no one, least of all the lawmakers because of the manner in which this piece of legislation was handled.

The solons apparently acted on the theory that the new bill will now be taken into the federal court and asked to be okayed for the primary election.

In an editorial entitled "Black Mark On Legislature", the Lincoln Star, had this comment:

"Obviously, this shifts the responsibility for redistricting from the Legislature where it belongs to the federal court. And this in a state that seemingly prides itself on independence from the federal government! Also, the Legislature is banking on a host of legal thoughts that the federal panel of judges may well not buy.

"While no federal court has yet ordered at-large elections in a state, no federal court has yet used anything but official 1960 U.S. Bureau of Census figures as the population base for drawing districts. The base used by the Legislature is a questionable projection of 1966 figures supplied by the University of Nebraska. And Gov. Norbert Tiemann has gained no stature with his left-handed endorsement of what the senators did.

"Nebraska may very well still have a congressional district mess on its hands when it could have easily been assured of harmony and justice. State senators have played a game of musical chairs with the law and the federal courts and such is strictly to the discredit of those who had a part in it." (End Quote)

This again poses the question we mentioned in another column a week ago: Are there no do-it-your-selves in the State of Nebraska?

Time For Good Examples

During the 1964 presidential campaign there was an interesting demonstration of semantics concerning the word "extremist." Goldwater was portrayed as an extremist and by implication everyone who supported or voted for him was placed in that category.

This, of course, was nonsense. However, a recent action by President Johnson does rate the extremist label in the true and full meaning of the word. We refer to his call for legislation to curtail American travel abroad.

We have always believed that Americans should see America first, to get a better appreciation of our great country, but we don't think Washington should have the right to tell Americans that they cannot travel to friendly nations.

In trying to keep American dollars at home the President has a laudable aim, but we think he could achieve it without a law, complete with penalties. What this country needs are some good examples, and we'd like to nominate Hubert Humphrey as Good Example No. 1. The Vice President's recent nine-nation junket to Africa was no tourist-class trip, and in the course of it he gave away enough millions of US dollars to send an army of American tourists abroad, first class. Nor is Hubert Humphrey the only VIP who has been delegated to travel overseas to invest heavily in that thing called "world opinion." One of the most extravagant investors in this field was Bobby Kennedy who sank hundreds of millions into propping up Sukarno on one famous trip. This kind of foreign travel should be stopped forthwith.

Equally important, we think the President should try to get Senators, Congressmen and other Federal bigwigs to start serving as good examples. At present many of them definitely are not. They seem to think they are cheating their constituents, not to mention themselves and their families, if they don't get to see the big wide world close-up. And the Rev. Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., was not the only legislator who demanded the best in accommodations, plus personal service, from members of our diplomatic corps, the military and other government employees available as flunkies. All of which leaves a lot of dollars lying around in those foreign countries.

Our betters who indulge in this say it doesn't really cost anything because they're dipping into blocked funds, a residue of foreign aid past, available for the use of "authorized personnel." This is all well and good, but why restrict this bonanza to the bureaucrats? Why not make the blocked funds available to the people who provided them in the first place, the American taxpayers? It's something for the President to ponder.

The highway deaths get the lion's share of publicity but emphasis is developing on the rising costs of automobile insurance. The two items are interlocked in that death on the highways, in addition to the tragedy and economic loss, extends deeply

What, No Taxis!!

Well, I know I owe you a laugh now and then, so I'll tell you about taking the test for my driver's license. I was petrified. I'd heard so much about how many applicants flunked out and tried again and again.

I could just see myself sitting out here on a west Ord hilltop with no car, no taxi service in Ord, and me needing a loaf of bread. Think how I'd be phoning my relatives and friends for help!

So I got the booklet from the state of Nebraska and studied it, and it isn't too clear. Parts of it are quite definitely confusing. So I read and re-read. But the booklet from the American Automobile Association was much more help, easier to read and easier to understand.

Still, I was scared. Lots of smart drivers had flunked out I knew. So I read and I read and I worried and I worried.

Sunday night before my test I had a little trouble going to sleep but I made it: only to wake with a start and look at the clock . . . it was after eight o'clock and I'd threatened myself to be ready for that test at the courthouse by then. I leaped in the bathroom and kept scrubbing my face trying to wake up.

Then I got back in the bedroom and that darned clock said 25 minutes until two so I hopped joyfully back in bed. But not to sleep. I listened to Radio Fort Worth and a lot of oldtime records and Salt Lake City, and finally Denver and the news and suddenly KNLV popped on loudly so I did get up. Six o'clock. It was pretty dark but I ate a dish of cereal and drank some coffee.

oOo

It was still dark but I went to the courthouse, I wanted to be sure to get my test and I had no idea how long it would take.

I took something to read, and some writing paper so I could do some corresponding. I considered taking a couple of wieners in case I had to wait over the lunch hour, or be busy that long, but instead I settled for a package of sour lemon drops.

I was the first one there but the lower floor was lighted and warm, and even smelled good: they must have sprayed it with something sweet.

Others drifted in, sure enough two of them had flunked last week and were trying again. (One of them made it.)

That didn't calm me any.

Six or eight were waiting by the time the young patrolman arrived, shoved tables and chairs around and laid out his equipment.

oOo

He handed me a list of questions to answer yes or no. I had been assured none of them would be tricky but don't you believe it. I thought several of them were. I tried to outthink them.

"Don't answer too fast" cautioned the one man who had failed last week, and I took this to heart as I scratched at the Yesses and Noes.

For example one question asked if I lost my license, did I have to go to the sheriff's office and get a duplicate?

Well it so happens I lost my license once and I was sure I remembered getting a duplicate from County Treasurer Lloyd Wilson. So . . . do I say yes or no? I know you have to get a duplicate, but?? What to do?

At last I came to the vision part, madly chasing little black spots here and there through some sort of projector.

I had done my best so if I was on foot I was on foot.

But Glory Be, I passed. Hurray, Hurray, Whoopee. I called up two or three people to tell them.

"Say, maybe you should have a party," exclaimed one. I just may, That's the way I feel.

—Irma

into the pocketbook of every automobile owner via automobile insurance.

A news story reports that in 10 years American underwriters have lost more than $1½ billion on car insurance in spite of the skyrocketing rates. Every driver of an automobile is paying the price for the recklessness on the highway of the relatively few who cause most of the accidents.

With all the effort for better highways and streets for cities of all sizes which are necessary to handle the increasing traffic, it does seem as if far too little attention is given to the prevention of these accidents. Obviously so many of them should not have occurred. Particularly on the highways, a high percentage are one-car accidents which in almost every instance is the result of speed, reckless driving and inattentive driving.

Perhaps it is time for a good look at traffic law enforcement and penalties in proportion to the responsibility that appears in each case. That should be a restraint upon those who are potentially dangerous drivers. An automobile is a dangerous weapon in the wrong hands and therefore needs strict control.

Government Tells Us How To Bake Those Cherry Pies!

Most of the session at the country store Saturday night was took up with how to make a cherry pie. Ordinary, the fellows would leave such items up to their old lady, but the storekeeper had got a memorandum from the Food and Drug Administration through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare advising on the new requirements for Government approved cherry pie.

On account of most of your readers, Mister Editor, probably buys a cherry pie now and then, I borrowed this Government memorandum for my little piece this week. I don't know how much it cost the taxpayers to get out this information on cherry pie, but I would guess around the $20,000 mark. All skip the first half of the memorandum and just put down the second half so's the wimmen folks can be safe and sure in this matter.

"Subsection (B): The number of cherries per ounce of a pie, as required in paragraphs (A) (1) of this section is determined as follows: Remove the filling and cherries from the pie and distribute evenly over the surface of a 12-inch diameter U. S. No. 8 sieve (0.094 inch openings) stacked on a U. S. No. 20 sieve. Wash the cherries and cherry fragments free from adhering material with a gentle water spray. Drain the cherry contents on the No. 8 sieve for two minutes in an inclined position (15-30 degree slope). Do not discard the contents of No. 20 sieve. Transfer the whole cherries to a pan and determine the weight of all whole cherries. Count the whole cherries and calculate the average weight per whole cherry. Collect the cherry fragments from both the No. 8, No. 20 sieves. Weigh the cherry fragments and calculate the whole cherry equivalent based on the average weight per cherry. The number of whole cherries plus the no. of whole cherry equivalents is the total number of the cherries in the pie. Calculate the number of cherries per ounce of net weight of pie. If the total is less than 2.7 cherries per ounce it does not qualify as cherry pie under the Food and Drug Administration."

Glen Auble of the Great Society claimed this was proof our Government cared about us and was looking after our interests. Mose Van Zandt was disagreed with Glen, said it didn't prove nothing only we got a heap of folks with their nose in the tax bucket that couldn't find nothing else to do.

Personal, Mister Editor, I ain't crazy about cherry pie and I couldn't care less if they was requiring 2.7 cherries per ounce or 7.2 per ounce. But I was a little disturbed to see where our Government had give the University of Florida a grant of $159,000 to teach mothers how to play with their young'uns. I'm afraid this will ruin the young'uns.

Legislators Talk About Lower State Income Tax

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association LINCOLN — The prospect of a state income tax cut this year has been raised by the Legislature's Tax Study Committee.

Chairman Jules W. Burbach of Crofton said whether it comes or not will depend chiefly on how much taxable income in the state increases during 1968.

He said committee researchers will attempt to "determine this as soon as possible" and that a preliminary answer "could be ready within two weeks."

The income tax went into effect Jan. 1. Thousands of Nebraskans felt the impact when the levy was withheld from their paychecks.

The individual rate is 10 percent. The corporate levy is 2 percent. Burbach said both could be adjusted downward at a special session of the Unicameral if the taxable income is estimated to be way beyond what the state anticipated when the rates were set.

The Nebraska Equalization Board, chaired by Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, established the present rates to run through the 1968 tax year.

It figured the levy on a tax base of $865 million for individuals and $444 million for corporations. Burbach said Internal Revenue Service figures for 1967 indicate the board estimates may be too low.

"If this is true, then the result would be heavier collections from the income tax than actually was needed to run state government. We would have, in effect, an unnecessary surplus," Burbach said.

The practical thing to do would be to cut the income tax rate. This could be done easy enough at a special session."

Burbach said the IRS announced earlier this year that tax collections in Nebraska rose $90 million in 1967 compared with 1966. He said this is about nine percent higher than the state board had expected.

However, he cautioned, the $90 million includes social security payments, tax refund claims and other non-taxable items.

He said committee researchers will determine how much of the sum involves "definite income increase that would be subject to the state income tax."

The individual income tax is based on federal tax liability. The corporate rate applies against a company's federal taxable income after normal business tax credits.

"If our investigation of revenue sources should indicate a substantial increase in the income tax base which would make it feasible to adjust our state income tax levy, a special session should be called to do so," Burbach said.

"We cannot approach this matter in a haphazard fashion but Nebraska's economy should not have any more money taken out of circulation than is necessary."

Sen. George Fleming of Sidney, a committee member, said the Legislature has a "definite responsibility" to reduce the income tax if the committee finds the rate is too high.

"It's tough enough to pay taxes nowadays without placing an added burden on the people," he said.

Vice chairman Rick Budd of Nebraska City concurred. He

By Kerry Leggett

—smile—
When you smiled at me I looked into your eyes and knew that we could never again be strangers.

Any curtain of uncertainty had been drawn open as your mouth widened into that faint smile. Lips — taunt with tenseness — had silently yielded to desire as they slowly parted.

For a moment I thought you were going to speak. Then you looked down . . . down beyond even your tightly clasped fingers . . . into depths of depravity that lurked like sinister shadows in your mind.

How was I to overcome these waves of guilt that washed searchingly upon the warm and soothing beaches of understanding . . . then receded again to the sea of confusion . . . leaving only temporarily dampened sands that could plially be shaped — until the hot sun parched away the pliancy?

Molded on momentous thoughts, my castles crumbled under the penetrating heat of exposure. Sands melted, fading to conformity as the restless waves withdrew . . . leaving behind a quiet beach to be changed only by warm winds of conjecture.

Again I realized I had lost you. Again you had returned to the tempestuous sea. Again I would await the rising tide . . . and its constant ebb and flow.

But a mere pebble on the beach . . . one among millions . . . thirsting forever for your return. Who does not thirst? Who, among us, does not anticipate the changing tide? Who has not been awash midst waves of temptation?

The candle flickered . . . and I returned from my drifting thoughts.

You were still there . . . though you hadn't spoken. Nor had your downward gaze been broken.

"Smile," I said, breaking the penetrating silence. Slowly you looked up and I saw the glimmer of a tear forming.

"Okay . . . I'll try." Your faraway look faded as a faint smile crept slowly across your lips and imbedded itself in your tearful eyes. "But what's there to smile about?"

"Lots of things," I said . . . though I couldn't think of a single one.

Slowly we both emerged into conversation. The flickering candle shadows on the wall nodded their approval to the things we talked about. Life returned.

We talked on and on . . . of today . . . and today . . . and today.

But things had changed. For . . . when you smiled at me . . . I knew.

We would never again be strangers.

of an income tax cut had no political implications. He said it stemmed solely from the IRS figures showing a substantial increase in taxable income in the state.

Opponents of the income tax launched statewide petition drives to knock the levy out at the November, 1968, general election.

This is the first year Nebraskans have paid a state income tax.

Train Decision Withdrawn

The Union Pacific Railroad has withdrawn its application with the Federal Government to discontinue two passenger trains between Omaha and Los Angeles.

The action was announced by State Railway Commissioner Robert T. Marland. He said the U. P. gave no reason.

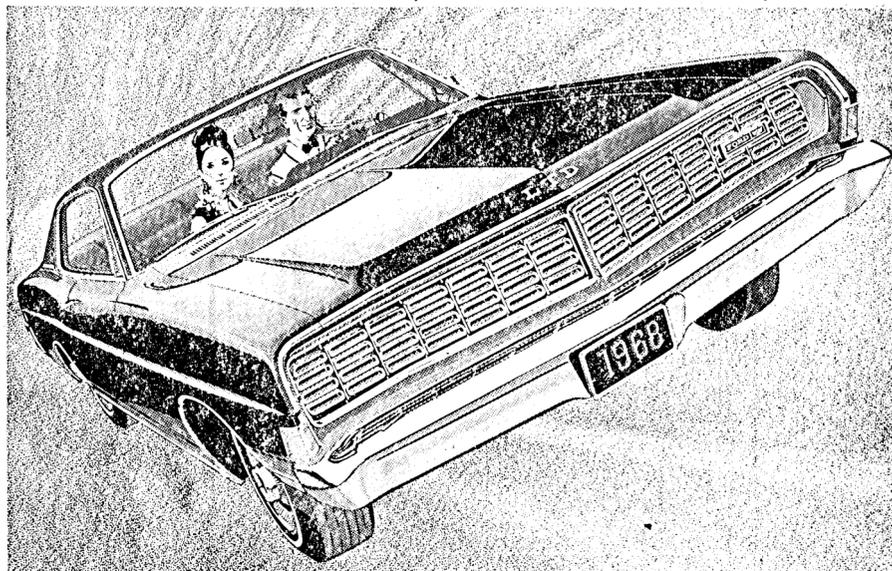

Earlier the Interstate Commerce Commission granted a Nebraska request for a public hearing on the proposal to drop trains No. 5 and 6. The Cornhusker State opposed the move.

Marland said the trains are "vitaly important" to numerous Nebraska communities as they provide the only daytime passenger service in the state.

The trains service such major cities as Columbus, Grand Island, North Platte and Sidney.

Back To France, Please!

From an auto ad in the Philadelphia Inquirer:

"If you own a French automobile, don't bring it to us to trade! We don't want it!"

"France lost their country to the Germans in 1940 after fighting only 45 days. It took U. S., British and Canadian forces over three years of fighting, a horrifying number of lives and billions of dollars to win it back for them. Additional billions of dollars were spent reconstructing their economy.

"In gratitude, de Gaulle has repaid us by trying to hurt Britain's economy anyway he could . . . has kept them out of the common market . . . played a major role in the collapse of the pound . . . has been preaching dissatisfaction and unrest into parts of Canada . . . has been one of the biggest critics of our position on Vietnam (after they fought there for seven years for their own selfish interests and lost) AND now has pulled out of the stabilizing gold pool, is attempting to undermine the U.S. dollar and trying to hurt out economy.

"So, if you've got a French car, why don't you send it back to France and try to get some unwanted American Dollars back. We'll take them in trade."

Signed: Kardon Motors, Mt. Holly, New Jersey.

Nol So Anymore

They used to call them unmentionables. Modesty was the rage. Now we glance at a magazine. And see them on every page.

Write Him A Letter

A resident of Arcadia sent us a note asking that we print the name and address of a serviceman who was wounded in Vietnam last Dec. 15 and who will be hospitalized at Oakland, Calif. for several months.

He is John Gogan, who lost his left leg and left arm while on duty in Vietnam. He is the son of Mrs. Earl Gogan and she and another son just returned from visiting John and it is expected that he will be in the hospital for about four months.

The letter from the Arcadia resident states that "Just a few years ago John was on the Arcadia football team and he loved sports in general. Maybe a few cards or letters might help him pass the time away."

Let's all set down and write this young man a letter. This is certainly asking little of us in comparison to the sacrifice that this man made in defense of our country.

His address: C. N. John E. Gogan, USN, West 76 B Naval Hospital, Oakland, California. Zip Code: 94627.

Too Cautious

What caused the poor fellow to drop? (And they say he's doing poorly.) He took his hands from the wheel.

To fasten his seat belt securely.

Watch It, Men!

The American Medical Association reports new evidence that men lose their tempers more often than women — six times a week to three. Women get mad mostly at other people, they say, because of real or fancied slights; men, because of misbehaving inanimate objects — a flat tire, a missed train, or a dull razor.

Heaven For Sale

One Sunday the daughter of a publisher came home from Sunday school with an illustrated text card in her hand.

"What's that you have there?" asked her Dad.

"Oh, just an ad about Heaven," she replied.

Straight and Narrow!

Overheard while a woman was taking her exam for a driver's license:

"What is the white line for in the middle of the road?" asked the state trooper.

"That," she replied positively, "is for bicycles."

Ord Reserves Host Arcadia Thursday Eve

The Ord High School reserve basketball team, under the coaching of Fred Williams, will get a real test at Ord Thursday evening when the Arcadia High School varsity plays a visit.

The Ord team won its last two starts against Albion and Loup City, but prior to that time had dropped several games after playing three quarters of good basketball.

The Arcadia, coached by Bill Cook, is not quite as strong as a year ago, but is expected to make a good showing against the Ord club.

Coach Fred Williams said he would probably start Bill Miller, Duane Kovarik, Dick Janda, Steve Turck and Greg Martin.

There will be a preliminary game at 6:15 between the Ord Chicks and the Arcadia reserves. The game is a makeup game that was originally scheduled for Dec. 16, but was snowed out.

Sneak Preview At Vet's Club Sunday 1 To 5 P.M.

There has been so much interest by the public to see the new Veterans Club building and fixtures, that the Vets Board has decided to open the club to the public for a sneak preview from 1 to 5 on Sunday afternoon, January 28. Coffee and cookies will be served by the Auxiliaries, and Vet personnel will be on hand to explain the workings of the new club.

The club decor is black, red, and gold and with the new carpeting and lounge furniture, this club will be the pride of Ord and vicinity. There have been many hours of volunteer help furnished by the Veterans and the Auxiliaries, and the chrome, black, and red carpeting is a tribute to those who planned and carried out the idea of a club for the Loup Valley. All the furnishings for the kitchen have not been received, and the present opening date has not yet been determined. However, all the major appliances are in place, the new furniture has arrived, and the general contract is completed. The million and one details now required to open are being carried out as fast as possible, and next week's Quiz will announce the opening date. Club Manager Pete Rapp has already booked parties to be held in the basement during February and he also plans ten parties in the basement to be held under proper supervision. The veterans look forward to the opening of this addition to the community.

Ord, Burwell In Cage Meeting At Ord Saturday Eve

The Ord Chants have only a single game on the schedule for this weekend and that sends them against the Burwell Longhorns at Ord Saturday evening, with the reserves slated to go at 6:15 p.m. and the varsity game at 8 o'clock.

Coach Ken Trubey says he'll probably start Lyle Christensen at center; Ron Bredthauer and Jim Lukesh at forwards and Bill Klanecky and Gary Sedlacek at the guard spots.

In twelve games this season the Chants have won nine and dropped three. Losses have been to Cozad, Schuyler and Aurora. Last weekend the Chants whipped Albion and Loup City and are now in a three way tie for first place in the west division of the Central Ten conference, with Albion and Aurora.

The Burwell Longhorns, under Coach Les Piper, are 10-1 for the season and currently leading the Lou-Platte Conference with a 4-0 record. The Burwell team is led by such shooters as Don Lindsey, Bob Beat, Roger Hurst, and Doug Roys.

The Burwell - Ord ball games always draw large crowds and fans are urged to come early Saturday to get a good seat.

Farm and Home Show To Be In Ord June 6, 7

The dates of June 6 and 7 were definitely confirmed as the dates for the 1968 Farm and Home Show to be held in Ord at the High School small gymnasium.

Many of the booths have already been spoken for and those interested should contact either Walker at Walker Drug Store, or Florence Janda, Chamber of Commerce secretary, at Janda's Liquor Store.

Cystic Fibrosis Fund Drive Begins

Persons wishing to contribute to the cystic fibrosis fund drive should contact Mrs. Ed Huffman of Ord, who is in charge of the drive in Valley County.

Cystic fibrosis is a disease which affects infants, children and young adults. The disease affects the bronchial and digestive tracts and is considered extremely serious because of lung damage that it causes.

Two NLS Boys Are Named Outstanding Teenagers Of 1967

Bernard Keown

Mike Schudel

The Outstanding Americans Foundation announced today that two students from NLS have been selected as Outstanding Teenagers of America for 1967. Chosen for this honor have been Bernard Keown, son of Mrs. Bonnie Keown, and Michael Schudel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merlyn Schudel. These students will compete for state and national awards in the Outstanding Teenagers of America program.

The Outstanding Americans Foundation, a non-profit foundation dedicated to honoring, inspiring and encouraging young people to take full advantage of the opportunities in America, sponsors this awards program annually. The recipients of this honor were selected on the basis of ability and achievement.

They will compete with other winners in their state for the Governors Trophy awarded annually to the most outstanding teenager in each state. They will also be eligible for one of the top ten national awards and college scholarships made available by the Outstanding Americans Foundation. John Putman, president of the foundation has said it is the goal of this awards program "to recognize and encourage the ability and achievements of today's young people. They are America's leaders of tomorrow."

Yes, Those Were Golfers Playing Sunday Afternoon!

In a complete reversal of form, the weather brought balmy breezes into Valley County over the weekend with a high for the year of 59 degrees above zero on Sunday, January 21.

Sunday's high was 67 degrees higher than that registered just a week before when the mercury dipped to minus 7 on Saturday, January 13. The mercury also was instrumental in removing most of Valley County's snow cover as the temperature was 43 on Thursday, 52 on Friday, 55 on Saturday, 59 on Sunday and then dropped to a high of 37 on both Monday and Tuesday of this week.

The lowest low during that period was 21 above last Monday morning and highest low recorded was 23 above on Tuesday morning.

And while the warm weather ruined sking and sledging, it did bring out several golfers Sunday afternoon, who dressed and skipped their way around the wet spots and snow drifts to get in a few holes of golf!

The county is in need of precipitation as .15 of an inch is all that has been recorded in the first 24 days of the new year. The weatherman predicts a little precipitation soon, but above normal temperatures are expected to prevail for several days.

The Ord Chamber of Commerce, according to Press, Don Sears, will recognize several of its members for service during the past year and there will be an award to the outstanding Chamber of Commerce member.

Don Blaha, ticket chairman, reports that ticket sales are going good and that a crowd of possibly 200 men and women are expected for the banquet which begins at 6:30 at the auditorium. If you haven't purchased tickets you may do so from Blaha or from any Jaycee member.

The meeting is open to the public and both Sears and Kerchal urges everyone to attend this annual event. This is the first year that the Chamber of Commerce and Jaycees have combined for the banquet.

Burwell Wins 2 Games Last Weekend; Now 10-1

The Burwell Longhorns, under the guidance of Coach Les Piper, completed a highly successful weekend of basketball notching a pair of Lou-Platte Conference wins and moving to a season mark of 10-1.

The Longhorns whipped a tough Centura team 69-55 on the Burwell boards Friday evening and then invaded Fullerton Saturday night for a 59-57 win on a last second shot by Craig Anderson.

The Longhorns are now atop the Lou-Platte Conference with a record of 4-0 and in 11 outings their only loss was to Ord in the Ainsworth Holiday Tournament.

Saturday's contest was as close as anyone ever wants them to be as the hot shooting Fullerton club outgunned Burwell from the floor 27-23, but the Burwell shooters made good use of free throws bucketing 13 of 25 while Fullerton tallied three of six from the gift line.

Burwell took an 18-14 first quarter lead and then held on for slim 33-32 halftime lead as Fullerton outscored the Longhorns 18-15 in the second period. In the third period Coach Piper's club gained a 37-30 advantage and they needed it as Fullerton warmed up and outscored Burwell 17-12 in the fourth, but fell by the wayside on Anderson's bucket as time ran out.

Against Centura Friday evening, Burwell started slow and held a 15-12 first quarter lead, but at halftime pulled away to a 30-23 lead and then the Longhorns outshot Centura 16-11 in the third and 23-21 in the fourth to take the win by a 14-point margin.

Don Lindsey was Burwell's top scorer both evenings as he posted 21 against both Centura and Fullerton. He had good assistance from Roger Hurst as he hit 19 in the Fullerton game and 15 against Centura. Doug Roberts was in double figures against Centura with 15 tallies.

The Longhorns will host Loup City Friday evening and then will visit Ord Saturday evening.

Ord 7-8th Grade Remains Undefeated; Chicks Notch Third Win At St. Paul

The Ord Junior High School basketball teams won a pair of games Monday evening at St. Paul — the Chicks winning 48-43 and the 7th-8th grade by a score of 30-18.

For Coach Chuck Squire's Chicks it was their third win of the season against two setbacks and Coach Stephen Deger's 7-8th graders it was five wins in a row and not a loss.

Dennis Bellinger fired in 17 points and Darrell Farmer had 11 to lead the Chicks attack. Behind 7-5 at the end of the first quarter the Chicks came up with a 19-point second period to gain a 24-15 halftime lead. The Chicks stretched that lead to 37-27 at the end of three, but saw it fade to five points as St. Paul outscored Ord 16-11 in the final stanza.

Four St. Paul players fouled out during the game and the Chicks failed to capitalize on many free throw chances as they hit only 12 of 33 for a cool 36 per cent. For the season the Chicks have shown a decided weakness at the gift line hitting 41 out of 120 tries for a 34 per cent average.

For the season the Chicks have shown a decided weakness at the gift line hitting 41 out of 120 tries for a 34 per cent average. Fortunately the Chicks outshot St. Paul 18-17 from the floor.

The 7-8th grade team used a good defense to whip the St. Paul youngsters. After three periods the score was 20-13 in favor of Ord and in the fourth period Coach Deger's team blanked the host team and poured in 10 points while doing so.

David John was top shooter for Ord with 10 tallies and Jim Martin was second high with seven. The 7-8th grade hit six of 18 from the gift line for a 33 per cent average. For the season the 7-8th team is hitting 40 per cent with 24 out of 63.

There was no riding time in the Hackel - Loeb match which ended in a 4-4 draw.

with Max Good

This week I received a pretty white "crying towel" and a beautiful sympathy card from Dr. Ben Meckel of Burwell with a short note taking me to task for comments I made recently in my column about poor officiating.

The doctor apparently had in mind my comments about the Aurora game in which the officiating was anything but the best. I seldom comment on officiating, and feel that I would be remiss in my duties as newspaperman if I did not say the officiating was bad, when that is the case.

Anyway, thanks for the towel, Doc, but next time send a coloring one as I am having trouble getting my "whites whiter" and my "cleans cleaner". Okay?

Be sure to come early Saturday night to the Ord-Burwell basketball game as this one should draw a large crowd. Burwell has an excellent record of 10 wins and one loss and Ord will go into the game with a 9-3 record.

"Burwell always plays us a good game, especially here at Ord and they do have a good ball team," Ord Coach Ken Trubey commented. He added that Burwell played on even terms with Ord for three periods in the Ainsworth tournament game.

"We expect Burwell to come up with one of its best efforts Saturday night," Trubey said.

Game time is 6:15 for the reserves and 8 p.m. for the varsity.

Two dead white-tailed deer, a buck and a doe, were found by side along U. S. Highway 20 east of Liscomb recently by Game Commission personnel.

Road-killed deer are not rare, with over 1,100 recorded in Nebraska during 1966.

Former Ord Boy Among Top 100 Cage Players

Brian Doe, a former resident of Ord and currently a resident of Ordway, Colorado has been named by Basketball Yearbook as one of the top 100 players in the United States for this season.

Doe, a 6-6, 215 pound senior, was one of 100 boys picked from the State of Colorado.

Brian is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Doe. Mr. Doe formerly worked for the irrigation district here in Ord and Mrs. Doe formerly taught in the Ord Elementary School.

News of Brian's honor was brought to the office by Irma King, who received a letter from the Docs, along with a clipping of a picture of Brian in his basketball togs.

Canadian Holiday Mrs. Helen Horn is home again after a three and a half month stay in Darrington, Wash. She was called to Darrington by her son Leonard when his wife Peggy underwent surgery. After her recovery, the family took a three day tour into Canada during Leonard's Christmas vacation. Temperatures there were a mild 47 degrees and they enjoyed the sights of the Canadian mountains.

Both shotguns and rifles have their devotees, and both weapons offer certain advantages. The small bore rifle permits longer range shooting and the advantage of having only one bullet hole. Scatterguns are ideal for hunting in heavy brush, for fast moving shots, and for young shooters.

Regardless of which weapon is used, the fun is the same. Kicking out a patch of rabbit cover on a brisk morning is an exhilarating experience. Sending a few shots at a zigzagging furry "critter" is a hunting thrill for the beginning shooter as well as the old timer.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

It's a brand new year — with January almost gone, would you believe? Better start thinking about what you want to do with it, if you haven't already. Have you considered ways to make necessary household projects more appealing for the family? Add a little fun to the job and you may be surprised at your children's willing response.

With ideas like this, maybe we can make household chores seem more like fun than work.

DID YOU HEAR ABOUT the woman who walked out of the Ogden, Utah department store and was stopped by the store detective. "Would you like to pay for that item?" the detective asked. "I did," she answered. "I mean the doll under your arm," the detective replied. "The doll" was her 5-month-old daughter.

Quick tasty desserts are always a help to the busy mother. This one is called Marshmallow Fluff. It consists of three small packages marshmallows in 1 cup milk; cool. Whip 1 cup cream. Add, if desired, 1 cup crushed pineapple (drained), maraschino cherries and nuts. Combine all ingredients; chill until set in refrigerator. Graham cracker crumbs may be used as bottom layer and top.

Chanting with the Chants

by Sandi Good

Ord Chants have three victories in a row!! Congratulations boys.

Friday night the Ord Chants clipped the wings of the Albion Cardinals with a score of Ord 78 and Albion 52. Saturday night the Chants traveled to Loup City and left the Loup City Raiders horseless with a score of Ord 72 and the Raiders 40. The Chants are now 9-3.

The reserves won both of their games, also.

There is no game this Friday night but there is a make-up game Thursday evening for the Reserves. They will play Arcadia Huskies... Good-luck boys!!

This Saturday night the Ord Chants hope to make hamburger out of the Burwell Longhorns... we hope. We have a pretty good chance we beat them during the Holiday tournament so that is one down and one to go. Good-luck Chants!!

ATTENTION SENIORS !!! I thought I would keep you posted on the prom. Invitations have been purchased.

All Seniors may pick up their name cards and booklets in the office from Mrs. Grove and they must be paid for when picked up.

Seniors may also pick up their plastic picture boxes at Ray's Studio. Please pick them up as soon as possible.

Here's a riddle for you: What or who is in a mass of utter confusion and exhaustion??? Answer: The counselor, principal, secretary and anyone connected with the office... guess I'd better not leave out the teachers.

WHY!!! Because this is the beginning of the new semester, rather January 22 was the beginning.

But all of the people that I mentioned above have had to put up with us, the students, of Ord High School, our gripes and complaints and "why can't I be in this class" or "my friends are in this class and I want to be too!" The students deserve a lot of credit for the fine job they do and the way that they try to please everyone and usually do, in one way or another.

We will all have to get adjusted again, but I feel, and so do a lot of students, that the semester courses are really great. So students let's take it easy on the teachers and faculty at the school... after all we're young and they aren't getting any younger so let's try and cooperate... O.K. We'll get farther if we do!!!

Kerry Leggett Speaks At Youth Corps Workshop At Broken Bow

Kerry Leggett, publisher of the Ord QUIZ, was one of the speakers Saturday at a Neighborhood Youth Corps Workshop held at Broken Bow with more than 50 young people in attendance.

Leggett held the audience spellbound at times while telling the story of his personal battle with alcohol.

Pastor Royal F. Peterson started the day with an invocation and Dr. Duane Rice, President, Broken Bow Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the people attending. Mr. Dick Wilkerson, manager, Custer Public Power District, gave a very interesting presentation on Job Seeking Techniques and Developing Proper Work Habits. Mr. Wilkerson advised the young people how to find a job and then how to apply for it, including what should be included in the application and how it should be presented.

He followed this with suggestions on the actual job interview. He pointed out after the person gets the job, he should develop pride in his work and always be seeking ways to improve the business as well as to continue to learn and improve himself.

Mr. Hyman Jarrett and Mr. Elmo Turner, NYC Field Representative and BWP Co-ordinator of Omaha, respectively, talked on the Neighborhood Youth Corps and the many opportunities in today's world for those who are prepared.

After lunch the boys heard Mr. Warren Ellis talk on "Creating Good Impressions Through Good Grooming." Mrs. Lorraine Still advised the girls not to stress one particular part of their dress, but to blend things and left the girls with the thought, "Beauty enters when parts cease to exist."

Mr. Cal McClurg, Nebraska State Bank of Broken Bow, gave good advice to the group on "Personal Money Management." He talked on making a budget.

AWARD WINNER—This farm is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Oris Hurlbert, who have operated it for the past 15 years. This farm was selected as the 1967 Centennial Award farm. At that time, the unit was owned by Mrs. Fritz Kuehl, who is the mother of Mrs. Hurlbert and the farm has been in the Kuehl family since 1886. Mr. Fritz Kuehl was born and lived all his life on the farm. The Kuehls were always interested in conservation of the soil and constructed some of the first terraces ever constructed in Valley County. Mr. Kuehl served on the Board of Supervisors of Valley County SWCD from 1943 to 1954. An irrigation well was dug in 1955 and land leveled for irrigation, and it is now one of the more highly productive units in the area. The Hurlberts plan additional improvements this year.

New Dawson Alfalfa Variety Promises Added Farm Income

$170,033,500 is quite a sum of money. That's the value of the alfalfa hay crop loss from potential production each year to pea aphids, spotted alfalfa aphids, and potato leafhoppers in the U. S.

The USDA "Agricultural Handbook No. 291" reports (1951-1960) that 15 per cent of all the alfalfa hay produced in the U. S. is lost to insect damage. Of this, the spotted alfalfa aphid accounts for 33 per cent; potato leafhopper 21 per cent; alfalfa weevil 17 per cent; and other insects 13 per cent.

Can you do anything about some of these losses? Agronomists at the University of Nebraska suggest using Dawson alfalfa.

Dawson is resistant to pea aphids and spotted alfalfa aphids. It is intermediate in resistance to potato leafhoppers.

Dawson is a new variety released this year, and certified seed is available. It appears to be adapted to the regions similar to Ranger, and is well suited for high production of hay, pasture, and haylage in Nebraska and surrounding regions.

SCHOOL NEWS

Kindergarten News

One week has gone in the second semester of kindergarten room still has some with perfect attendance. Those are Charles Abel, Wade Bennett, Charles Bruha, Karen Clement, Debra Holt, Lori Jeffers, Terry Meyer and Kalvin Inman.

The parent-teacher conference day was very successful in the kindergarten room. Mrs. Kepp was so happy to see and visit with parents from almost every family about their child's progress.

A grocery store has made its appearance in the room. The children are very successful in experiences in handling "money" and buying and selling.

Steven Lane and Douglas Andersen have left our class. Steven attends school at Loup City and Douglas moved to Hastings with his family.

Mrs. Jerone Florian visited the room on Jan. 3rd. Leroy Negley celebrated his 6th birthday on Jan. 1st and treated his class. It is quite an accomplishment to be 6 years old. Happy birthday Leroy!

1st Grade News

The attendance in First Grade has been very good. Eleven boys and girls have had perfect attendance the entire first semester. These pupils are Wayne Bennett, Marianne Bischoff, Craig Gaden, Diane Landstedt, Allen Meyer, Tamara Meyer, Roy Miller, John Neeman, Echo Sperling and Kimberli Stine.

Echo Sperling however has spoiled her perfect attendance by being absent two days this new period. Reba Ackles also missed one day since the Christmas vacation.

Mrs. Hill was much pleased that all parents of the First Grade children called for the report cards, and to visit briefly about each child's work.

Recent visitors to our room were Mrs. Charles Lundstedt and Karen and Mrs. Donald Wegner and Kristi.

Birthday greetings were extended to Allen Meyer who treated his class on his seventh birthday.

Winter time is fun time as all have agreed since the recent "real snow" has made it possible to study the snowflake, make snowmen, and ice skate, first hand. Bulletin boards, a diorama and a wall mural all show these signs of winter fun in the school room.

The Science class has been studying about weather — How we learn about weather, the instruments used and about the concepts of air — hot and cold. Many experiments can be made in this study.

Formal spelling is now being introduced with a given list of words to be mastered each week.

2nd Grade News

Those having perfect attendance for the first semester are Keith Freeman, Daniel Kluna, Jerry Neeman and Ronda Shoemaker.

The Second Grade were sorry to have Dennis Andersen move to Hastings and Susan Lane to the Loup City school. Everyone wishes them well.

Friday Jim Manning will entertain with folk tales and ballads. These programs are a pleasant break and are enjoyed very much.

In Arithmetic most everyone knows their combinations and playing Qizmo Bingo gives them a good incentive to learn them. The new library books are enjoyed by all.

The health films on the care of teeth and eating the proper foods makes them wish to have beautiful teeth.

Reports were given on the dairy and a film showing the dairy was very educational.

Birthday Coffee

Mrs. Bud Ballou was hostess for a morning coffee at her home, Monday, honoring the birthday of Mrs. Don Sears. Nine guests attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Kingstoll called at the Frank Blaha home, Sunday afternoon.

Many Farmers May Attend Exposition February 1 And 2

More than 5,000 farmers from northeast and central Nebraska are expected to attend a farm exposition at Columbus on Thursday, Feb. 1 and Friday, Feb. 2.

The exposition, sponsored by radio station K-TTT, is being presented in cooperation with the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture and Home Economics Extension Service. It will be held at the Platte County Agriculture Park, just east of Columbus. Doors will be open daily from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. The program will be held each day at 2:00 p.m.

'Hot' Tips Help Start Engines

Tractors, trucks, and cars will start easier these cold mornings if you apply a few "tricks."

A battery at zero degrees F. has only 40 per cent the power it has at 60 degrees F., yet it must do four times as much work. Diesel engines bring added problems over gasoline models because of faster cranking speeds and higher compression.

The first step in making a farm vehicle "start-worthy" in winter is a well-tuned engine. This means that the engine has good compression, properly gapped spark plugs, properly spaced breaker points, good condenser and coil, a strong battery, and a good grade winter oil.

Here are some other cold-weather tips:

— Because a warm battery has twice the power of a cold one, bring it indoors on cold nights and heat it with an electric heating pad or low rate battery charger.

— Another way to ease starting is to heat the engine with a dipstick or freeze-plus insert heater. You also may use heat lamps, head-bolt heaters, or a cooling system circulation heater to keep the engine warm.

— Except for low-wattage dipstick heaters, most devices must have some type of control system.

She's Kelly Marie

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Williams of Omaha have chosen the name Kelly Marie for their six pound 14 ounce baby girl born Jan. 20. She joins a brother, Jeff.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Wadas and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams all of Ord.

Wednesday evening dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Foth were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Geweke, Mr. and Mrs. Don Geweke, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stowell and Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Kingstoll.

Feb. 27 — Extension and Irrigation

The cost of the workshop series is $2.50, which will cover the cost of the notebook furnished with the course.

Any one interested in attending should send their $2.50 registration fee to the Greeley County Extension office at Greeley.

Let's Give It A Chance

Readers of the Ord QUIZ who may be considering signing a petition to put Nebraska's state income system before the voters, should be sure to take a look at both sides of issue before doing so.

No one likes to pay taxes and because we don't the majority of us naturally vote against a tax when we are given the chance to do so.

So before you jot your name on this petition—or any petition for that matter—we hope you are fully aware of all of the circumstances.

One thing to keep in mind is that once you have petitioned out the state income tax system, there must be a system to replace it.

Many believe that their portion of the new state income tax will be quite hefty although published charts indicate the contrary.

When November rolls around and if the state income tax is ousted by the voters, Nebraska lawmakers will be faced with increasing the sales tax or finding some other source to fill the state coffers.

Keep in mind that there will be taxes and when the property tax load was eliminated in Nebraska everyone knew that another source of taxation would be necessary to replace it.

The 1967 sales and income tax is that other source and we believe that it needs to be given a chance—before anyone puts their name on a petition, especially if they sign the petition just behind such a tax.

Let's give it a chance to work—and if it doesn't—then pass the petitions.

We Don't Want It In The Paper

(From the Wayne (Nebraska) Herald)

What can an editor do when the only source of information on a news story refuses to give the facts? The editor could go ahead and put in what he overheard from reliable sources, but then he takes a chance on being wrong.

Here is an example: A farmer in this county lost two dozen cattle. It could have happened to anyone. Circumstances were unusual. This may happen again to others. He refused to give the facts. We imagine the story made the rounds, changing in details as it went.

Another example: A new business comes to town. We're denied information. By the time the story is ready for release it has made the rounds, sometimes wrong, sometimes partly right. We could have gotten facts correctly, dispelled rumors and started things off on the right foot.

There are other examples. You probably know of some. You no doubt have sat around telling your version of a story, listening to a second version of the same story and finally hearing two or three more versions. Chances are none of them are entirely right and possibly all of them are entirely wrong.

Trust your paper to get the news right. It's our job. We go to the sources. We try to get exact information so there will be no doubt. We aim to be accurate. Being human, we will make mistakes but we'll be right more often than the gossip-mongers will.

Learn to trust your newspaper to give you the news. Learn to trust your paper to handle your news. Learn to depend on the one local source that deals in accuracy. You'll be helping us; you'll be helping your friends; and more important, you'll be helping yourself.

Info Available On Dutch Elm Disease

LINCOLN — The agent which causes Dutch Elm disease may have originated in eastern Asia, according to Dr. David S. Wysong, Extension plant pathologist at the University of Nebraska.

This and other facts about the cause and prevention of Dutch Elm disease in Nebraska are discussed in a new NU Extension pamphlet, EC 67-1845.

According to EC 67-1845, Dutch Elm disease is caused by a fungus that grows in the water-conducting vessels of the tree causing leaves to wilt and the tree to die.

All American species of elm are susceptible to the disease. In Nebraska these include the American elm, the slippery elm and the rock elm.

The bulletin also describes methods of preventing the spread of the disease including sanitation, spraying and preventing root graft transmission.

It also gives suggestions for replacing trees destroyed by Dutch Elm disease.

EC 67-1845 is available at local county Extension offices or at the University of Nebraska.

A Forgotten Pleasure

I had forgotten what it was like to have a small baby in the house. I find it changes about everything.

It is delightful to have my granddaughter, Shawna here, and her mother Betty, while Ted is in the hospital getting up from appendicitis.

Shawna is a sturdy 16 pounds with big blue eyes and straight dark hair that her mother is already winding around a small curler to make into a cockscomb! I remember when I went through the same thing with Kerry, trying to train his very straight hair, but the top curl always vanished before I could wheel him downtown to show him off.

She smiles easily, hardly ever cries, fights going to sleep just as I do and Ted does. She sits up but tips over easily: I have decided she has a round bottom.

Shawna has already taught herself a peek-a-boo game and tugs her bib or her blanket over her face one time after another, all smiles when you pop it off.

But I'd forgotten about those nighttime bottles, and the constant wail a young mother sleeps with one ear alert for the first tiny cry.

And it sounds like a scratchy-voiced little kitten.

Shawna has a silly little trick. She doesn't put her hands out to get you to take her: she throws her stomach at you. How she does this I don't know but she's plenty active about it. And it's quite intriguing! But you can't do it!

Who knows, maybe she'll be a belly dancer. If they have such things when she's grown, the world is changing mighty fast. Of course she grabs for everything, and often connects. And promptly shoves it in her mouth, her "try box" my husband's mother always called it.

Her hearing must be wonderful, for the least ruffle of paper or trifling sound flips her little head around. I find it very interesting.

The modern baby foods are blah to me. Can you think of anything worse than tuna and noodles . . . blended until they look like a pudding? Neither can I.

Tiny babies of course are a great comfort. District Judge Edwin P. Clements, long gone but happily remembered, and who had many grandchildren, used to say "I love them until they're big enough to be naughty."

So he did, dandling them on his knee for hours. But when they had to be regulated he was glad to turn the disciplining over to their parents. And I agree that's a pleasant idea: latch on to the guy hours but turn over all problems to someone else. A bit chicken? I suppose.

Of course grandmothers are fine for passing out gum, Valentines, Halloween treats. I think maybe grandfathers are even bigger pushovers, more tender hearted, more vulnerable. You think you won't be? Ha.

Third Of A Series On SS

Here Are Simplified Methods For Claiming Medicare Benefits

By Larry G. Chaney, Grand Island Social Security District Manager

When Medicare first started on July 1, 1966, there were two ways for older people to get their doctor bills paid under the program. The first called for the doctor's agreeing to claim the 80 percent payment direct from Medicare, by filling out a very simple one-page application form. The other required that the beneficiary first pay the bill and then apply for the Medicare payment, with or without the help of the doctor.

During the first year and a half of Medicare, about half of the claims for doctor bills were put in directly by the doctors, while the beneficiaries had to apply, after paying the bill, in about half the cases. The system worked well enough — almost $1.3 billion was paid in benefits under it — but not without hardship to those older people who could raise the money to pay the bill only by borrowing or by depriving themselves of necessities while waiting for the Medicare payment to come in.

Now Congress has changed all this to eliminate the necessity for the beneficiary's paying the bill first, in cases where the doctor decides not to make the claim himself. Beginning January 1, 1968, all the beneficiary needs is an itemized bill — not an itemized, receipted bill as in the past.

Of course, the assignment-to-the-doctor method is still the simplest method for all concerned.

It requires the use of only a single sheet of paper (the "Request for Payments" form), with no attachments or enclosures that might become separated from the claims form and delay a payment. Also it has blanks for all of the kinds of information needed to pay a claim, thus preventing "write-backs" for missing data without which a claim cannot be paid. Under this method, the doctor agrees to accept the "reasonable charge" determined by the carrier, as his full charge, and the basis of the 80 percent payment made to him. The patient is responsible for the other 20 percent, plus any part of the $50 annual deductible that might be remaining.

But even if the doctor declines to accept an assignment, it can be to his advantage to use the "Request for Payments" form in lieu of his standard receipted bill in the case of Medicare beneficiaries. Experience has shown that payments can be processed much faster when the form is used. This advantage will result in the beneficiary's receiving his Medicare check sooner, with its proceeds passed along that much sooner to the attending doctor. All the doctor's office needs to do is complete Part II of the standard form, that will serve as the itemized bill which the patient can send in, to claim his payment. As before, Medicare pays $4 out of every $5, after the first $50 medical bills in a year.

When You And I Were Young

(Items from files of The Ord Quiz of Years Ago)

Ten Years Ago It was announced that Valley County would be used as a training area for extension agents in Nebraska. The students were assigned to work with and assist County Agent Bob Perry.

Dr. Harold W. Benn, assistant dean of the University of Wyoming's Laramie, college of agriculture, was named executive assistant to the president and head of the division of information and special services.

A former Ord resident, Maynard Behrends, truck driver for Arrow Freight lines of Broken Bow was credited with the tip that alerted Wyoming officers for the ultimate capture of kill-crazed Charles Starkweather of Lincoln.

Twenty Years Ago Esli Maxson, 58, was found dead at his home in North Loup. Harry Zulkoski was elected president of the Ord Fire Department replacing Bruce Covey. George Anderson was re-elected chief and Richard Rowbal was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

About 400 gallons of tractor fuel was spilled and minor damage was done to the tractor when a Service Oil Co. truck skilled on icy No. 11 highway at the east approach to Ord. Farm Land Valuation Change Eyed By McNeil

By Melvin Papp Staffhouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — State Tax Commissioner Murrell B. McNeil reports he is considering a valuation formula change which could reduce the taxable value of some farm land.

McNeil, he said, giving prime consideration to a property's productivity as well as its market value.

McNeil said farmers and ranchers have "strenuously objected" to real estate value adjustments made by the state in the past that were based chiefly on sales price.

"I can appreciate their concern," McNeil said. "The selling price of property does not necessarily reflect actual value."

More often than not, the tax commissioner added, the sales price of agricultural land is higher than the property is worth.

"By taking into account the land's productivity or income, we would hope to get a more accurate picture of the true value for tax purposes," McNeil said.

However, this is no easy thing. We must determine how much weight to give to productivity and how much to other factors such as location, depreciation and market value."

McNeil said there is also the problem of making certain that farm land does not get a tax break over urban property.

"The law states that all property, urban and rural — shall be taxed at actual value. We cannot, therefore, devise a formula that gives the farmer an advantage over the city dweller," he said.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann said he's hopeful McNeil can "work out a reliable productivity factor" the State Board of Equalization to use in fixing land values this year.

The Governor said there may be cases where the factor could be applied to arrive at the actual value of city as well as farm property.

"Rural real estate, and perhaps even urban real estate in some instances, cannot be properly valued through sales-assessment ratios alone," Tiemann said.

"Other factors must be used and income or productivity must certainly be one of these."

Tiemann said it is "vitally important" that Nebraska improve its method of equalizing property values because money from the state's new school aid program will be allocated, in part, on the basis of land valuations.

"We hope to use an income factor in state aid to education as soon as sufficient data becomes available," said the Governor.

"This factor could either replace or complement the valuation factor which is now being used."

Elimination of personal property taxes in Nebraska would wipe out $46.2 million in local revenue, a check of state tax records showed.

That's the amount public school districts, cities, counties, fire districts, road districts and other governmental subdivisions collected from these taxes last year.

Personal property includes items such as farm machinery, livestock, feed, business inventories and utility equipment.

Governor Tiemann has said he will sponsor legislation to gradually abolish these taxes if Nebraskans permit this by adopting a constitutional amendment.

The amendment that would

Mesa, Ariz. I must write and tell how many Ord people get the good out of our Quiz. We have had a regular Ord get-together. The Allen Edwards were just here this p.m. They came in by way of Truth and Consequences, N. Mex., and have stayed with a brother here in Mesa. Mrs. Edwards has two sisters in Phoenix. They took our last Quiz along to read. The Art Larsens are close by in a motel and read the Quiz earlier. We see each other often and will go and see Carefree tomorrow.

There is a huge sun dial there that is quite a conversation piece — it's one of a kind — patterned from an oriental sun dial. They will put up a $2,000,000 movie set there soon.

The Les Leonards have been with us a lot this past month. They are in a motel here also — the Jiraks and Hrons are fine and it was hard to believe Frank Hron celebrated his 76th birthday a couple weeks ago. He looks so young.

clear the way will appear on the November general election ballot. It would authorize the legislature to exempt all or part of personal property items from taxation.

Tiemann said the taxes would not be eliminated overnight but rather through a "phasing out" process. He also said the money would have to be replaced from some other revenue source.

The Governor said Colorado is eliminating personal property taxes by reducing business inventory valuations each year. He said a similar approach might work in Nebraska.

The 1967 Legislature repealed the household goods, intangible property and head taxes. They raised approximately $10 million for local governments. This money will be replaced from the new sales-income tax system.

Tax Commissioner McNeil said several states are abolishing personal property taxes without too much difficulty.

"Where the replacement money would come from in our state would be a legislative decision," he said.

School districts would be hit hardest by eliminating personal property taxes. They receive approximately 43 percent of the revenue from these taxes. Cities get about 15 percent and counties 12 percent.

Here is a breakdown on personal property tax collections last year: Farm machinery, $8,161,273; livestock and feed, $13,156,785; business inventories, $18,500,822; county special school (utility properties), $3,018,054; state special schedules, $6,244,390; and miscellaneous personal property, $900,353.

Anti-Puffing Campaign Underway

An action program to combat cigarette puffing, especially among young people, has been started by the Nebraska Inter-Agency Health Planning Council.

But council officials acknowledged they may be fighting a losing cause because of what they called Madison Avenue propaganda.

"We don't have the dollars to match the advertising campaign of the tobacco industry," said Dr. Samuel I. Fuenning, council chairman.

Dr. Fuenning said the council will concentrate on teenagers and young adults "since they are the heavy smokers of tomorrow."

He said Nebraska schools have already pledged their support to the campaign.

Grasslands Council Formed A statewide council to promote better use and conservation of Nebraska's forage and grassland resources has been formed.

If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music which he hears, however measured or far away.

Henry David Thoreau Which he hears . . . these are the important words. It is the great paradox of the world — man is born as an individual but society shackles him to its chains. But I give you this analogy and with it a question to ponder it, muse over it, and then come back to me.

Society is a calm sea of conformity that remains serene to all that follow its course. If one should leave this chosen waterway, they enter uncharted seas to be tossed and churned about. Only until one has returned to the chosen route will the sea once more become calm. How, then, can unknown seas be discovered?

How many of us have heard a different drummer or have tried to leave that charted waterway? The answer remains unknown for we all know what the inevitable end result is — he is thrown back, pushed back with violent force to this unrelenting conformity. Pose another question: Why are we so harsh, so disdainful of someone who does leave our presupposed dictates to follow his own desires or his own measured music? To thine own self be true, remember? Is there anything wrong with man being HIMSELF, or has our society already found all the right answers and there is no room left for something new — something different from the accustomed thoughts or actions? It would seem that people are not willing to accept the uniqueness that can be found in man. How sad for the individual who does attempt to live his own life . . . the pressures can be devastating. And this is ironic for it is only by being himself that man can hope to find happiness. This quest is not self-centered or selfish. Great men of all ages have pursued it and dreamed of this as the perfect, desirous end for mankind . . . it can be found in More's Utopia. For haven't you discovered that when you are happy you make others happy; and that when you are unhappy you in turn make others unhappy? To not be one's self — and to not let a person be himself — is selfish.

Admire that courageous man who steps forth to try something that he knows society will scorn . . . be it clothing, life, or love. Here is where you will find the man who is striving to be an individual as God intended, who is following the dictates of his own conscience, who is trying to find personal happiness with which only universal happiness can follow. The next time that we see a man leave the charted waterways and head for the unknown seas try and be benevolent, usher up the understanding that each of us has stored within us, and let him try and attain that goal. For it is through his venturing and courage that new waterways will be opened to us, and only in this manner will society be able to move forth to greater attainments and happiness.

Born free and life is worth living and only worth living if born free . . . stay free and music surrounds you . . .

Dayle E. Williamson, assistant executive secretary of the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission, was elected chairman.

He said the group grew out of the Centennial Commission's native grasses committee and will operate on a self-assessment basis.

"How can we stretch another few hours out of a day?" That is the prominent question around the North Loup-Scotia music department these days. The extra hours are needed for practice sessions. The practice sessions are needed for the approaching vocal concert.

The problem will resolve itself.

Card of Thanks

My sincere thanks to all who sent flowers, cards and well wishes during my stay at the Hospital. Also to Father Gorak, Dr. Martin and the nurses. It was very much appreciated and comforting. May God reward you for your thoughtfulness. My everlasting gratitude.

Mrs. Frank W. Blaha

Card of Thanks

I wish to take this means in thanking Dr. Zlomke for his excellent care he gave me while I was in the hospital and to all the nurses for their care and to my relatives and friends for all their visits, cards, and flowers, and to Rev. Campbell for his visits and prayers. May God bless you all.

as always, by a process of "give and take". Somehow, the boys in the Octet will find a practice time that doesn't interfere with basketball practice or the many other activities. Somehow, the girls will find an evening when they can meet for octet practice. And the accompanist will decide that she can put off washing her hair for another day. Somehow, the Octet will gain life.

So will the sextet, the double sextet, the several duets, trios, solos and other special numbers that go into a concert of this type.

The wheels are beginning to turn now, and goals are being neared. The deadline is February 15th. That is the night of the concert. And between now and then there is work!

The Select Choir still needs a few personnel changes... will the tympani accompaniment give the proper effect here? How in the WORLD will eighty high school students EVER master THESE two measures? Perhaps a little rewriting would help... Can the overhead spotlights be adjusted to provide a softer effect? How will this particular number work out in this part of the program? Maybe it should be moved up to the first session.

Two-thirds of the high school students are involved in this program. Some of them are only in the choir. Some are in two or three other groups. All of them will be working hard the next few weeks.

February 15th will soon be here. And the concert will be ready... for somehow there were extra hours in those days. And somehow that night the faces that were worried masks before curtain time will come alive, and voices husky with tension will burst forth in clear harmony. The program will pass rapidly. Before you know it, all those hours of work will be forgotten. The results of those hours of work will linger for a few moments in the air, then they too will fade away.

But for a few brief minutes, a song was given life. It was given warmth and personality, character and beauty. These things were loaned to the song by the students. And that is what music is all about!

Monday night most of the NLS faculty went to Greeley for Greeley County teachers meeting. The program was presented by Richard Halama, NSCA Consultant on Professional Development and Welfare. Adult recreation is gaining in popularity each week. A wide variety of recreation is available and rare indeed is the individual who manages to make it home in as good shape as he left. On the aching muscles.

The FHA girls entertained their families at a supper Monday evening in place of their regular meeting. The Sargent 7th and 8th grade volleyball teams journeyed to NLS Friday and split the days games with Sargent winning the 7th and 8th grade game and NLS taking the freshman. This Wednesday night the Jr. Hi Basketball team goes to Litchfield for second round play in the LVAJ Jr. Hi tourney, having drawn a bye on the first round. Finals will be Saturday night while the varsity are playing at Spalding Academy.

Parent-teacher conferences last Wednesday with the student council members on hand to hand out report cards and direct traffic. What a day. Our parents now know the worst about us and the teachers have had a glimpse of what our parents are like. For most of the seniors this marked the last semester tests in high school.

This week the annual school physicals get underway with Mrs. Fuller and Mrs. Roy on the job trying to find out just what is wrong with us. Two new faces greeted us at dinner this week as Mrs. Jim Carruth and Mrs. Fred Beck took over the duties in the kitchen. Mrs. Swanson is in the hospital in Grand Island and Mrs. Daudt is at home due to a death in the family. Mr. Hofmann's classes are being taught by Mrs. Leo Klein as Mr. Hofmann recovers from recent surgery.

The biology class is currently studying the anatomy and physiology of man. The bones and muscles of the body have been studied and now we are working on the different body systems such as nutrition and digestion. Circulation is the next step starting the second semester.

Come to Church This Week's Meditation... "Top Priority" How do you decide what comes first in your life? When you have several opportunities for spending your money of your time, which is the one you choose? One characteristic of today is that we have so many demands upon our lives, and many different calls for attention and loyalty. Often these are built upon conflicting philosophies; sometimes they are all good and we must choose which is best. It is not difficult to find ourselves on the proverb, "Mounted on the horse and riding off in all directions." Or we sometimes feel we have become a "Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde" combination without the aid of a chemical formula. "Go to this... attend that meeting." "Buy this brand... get this one today!" "Give to this cause... we need your help!" Here's the place for your interest... This is for you Church... school... recreation... any time left for job and family life? We sometimes feel we are candidates for a "split-personality" (if not in a psychiatric definition, at least in layman's terms). We must decide where our loyalties will lie, and what is worthy of our first attention. I believe that as you decide which is most important to you, and how you will live, you find a basis to spend your time, your abilities and your money that will help all through life. Perhaps this is what Jesus had in mind as He spoke of the "eye to be single" so "the whole body may be of one light." Ever since the Ten Commandments were first given, we have been called upon to "have no other gods" before God Almighty. We may abandon the Pantheon of heathen idols, but still have "a series of gods" that are made up of things demanding our loyalties and claiming our allegiance. It is our responsibility, as Jesus put it, to "Give first place to His Kingdom and what it requires, and He will provide you with all these other things." (Matt. 6:33 TEV). During World War II, folks got accustomed to seeing "Top Priority" stamped on war materials, etc. that had to come first in the war effort. It is essential that you and I get our "Top Priority" sorted out in today's life. We must pray God will help us sort out what comes first in our lives; our relationship to the Living God as revealed in Jesus Christ. Then—with the fellowship of His daily presence—we begin to sort out our ways and means for making life count. We learn to measure by Christ's standards our daily work, our recreation, our social activities, our church life, our ways of spending time and money. If the core and center of our lives becomes to do and be like Jesus, we find decisions of what to do and how to do them are not so difficult, after all. When in doubt, the Christian chooses to do the Christ-like thing and does not go wrong. This kind of living is the answer to our busy world... with so many claims for our first loyalty. Seek God's Kingdom first and all the rest will be added, like the jigsaw puzzle pieces fit better after the outside edges are fitted together. This must be what Paul had in mind when he told Christians (in Romans 12:1), after finding the meaning of Jesus Christ's life within, to "Offer yourselves as a living sacrifice to God, dedicated to His service and pleasing to Him." — Duane L.
