

One Pleads Guilty To Liquor Charge In Burwell Incident

A fine of $500 and a 15-day jail sentence were assessed against Gaylen Dulitz, 22, of Ord, after he pled guilty yesterday morning in Garfield County Court to a charge of procuring alcoholic liquor for a minor.

An identical charge has been filed against Doug Markley, also of Ord. He reportedly is out of the state and has not been located yet, Garfield County Clerk Eddie Sime said yesterday.

The charges were made in connection with an incident allegedly occurring June 29 north of Burwell.

Trial dates were set Tuesday at arraignment proceedings for three other youths facing charges of assault with intent to commit rape in the incident.

For Delyle Burson, 18, of Ord, the trial date will be Sept. 9; for Thomas Vaughn, 18, of North Loup, it will be Sept. 16; and for David Konkoleski, 15, of Elyria, it will be Sept. 23.

Names of jurors have also been drawn, Sime said. He indicated that separate juries will hear each case.

Garfield County Judge Dermont Erlington presided at Dulitz' trial. District Judge Donald Weaver of Grand Island will preside at trials for the trio facing assault charges.

Food Stamp Session Slated for Retailers

A meeting will be held Monday to discuss implementation of the federal food stamp program in Valley County.

All food retailers in the county have been invited to attend, according to Mrs. Alma Nelson, county welfare director. The meeting will be held at her office in the courthouse.

Food stamp sales will begin Aug. 27 at two locations in the county. A food store must be authorized before it will be eligible to redeem the stamps, Mrs. Nelson said.

She also said that latest information indicates depreciation on equipment will not be allowed in determining a family's adjusted income. First reports indicated depreciation could be deducted in determining whether a family qualifies for food stamps.

Fair Extended Through Today Because of Rain

Much needed rains Monday night brought happiness to Loup Valley farmers and ranchers but played havoc with plans for the Valley County Fair.

The rains caused postponement of the scheduled first session of the Junior Radio. As a result, fair officials decided to extend the celebration one day through Thursday—and move the complete schedule of events back one day. Thus, activities originally scheduled for Wednesday will be held today (Thursday).

They include the annual 4-H auction when beef cattle will be sold and the talent show. The auction is scheduled at 3:30 p.m. and the talent show at 8 p.m.

Crowning of the fair queen will also take place tonight.

The rains totaled .94 of an inch and raised this year's moisture level to 13.27. For the first time this year, the total is above last year's figure at a comparable date. The 1967 total at this time was 12.97 inches.

Working feverishly to save a life, members of the Burwell and Ord volunteer rescue units labored Saturday over the body of Kenneth Lech. The efforts were unsuccessful as the youngster was declared dead at the scene by Dr. Roy Cram.

Lost Hat Cause of Death For Burwell Youth, 13

A lost hat apparently led to the death of a 13-year-old Burwell youth Saturday in a tractor accident.

Kenneth Leon Lech, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lech, was killed about 3:45 p.m. when the tractor he was driving overturned, pinning him beneath it. The accident occurred alongside Highway 11, four miles north of Elyria.

State Highway Patrolman Phil Quinn, who investigated the accident and assisted in rescue attempts, said Lech was driving south when a large truck passed him, blowing his hat off. He reportedly reached for the hat and the tractor made a U-turn, flipping over on the sloping roadside.

"It looked as though his right foot had hit the brake, spinning the left wheel around," Quinn said.

Tra Liermann of Ausley was following the large truck and witnessed the accident, Quinn said. The trucker apparently did not see it since he did not stop.

A wrecker from Burwell had to be summoned to remove the tractor from atop the youth. Rescue units from Burwell and Ord attempted for about a half hour to revive him at the scene.

However, Dr. Roy Cram of Burwell declared him dead as soon as he arrived and made an examination.

Funeral services were held Tuesday in St. Mary's Catholic Church at Elyria. Father Albert Godlewski officiated, and Mrs.

Irene Kapuska was the organist. Rosary was recited Monday evening at the Hastings-Pearson chapel in Ord.

Young Lech was a seventh-grader at Burwell the past year. He was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church at Elyria and had spent his entire life on his parents' farm near Burwell.

Survivors include the parents; one brother, Albin, at home; four sisters, Lucille, Lech of Boston, Mass., Margie Lech of Lincoln, Cecilia Lech of Jacksonville, Fla., and Carolyn Lech, at home; and his grandfather, John Lech of Chicago, Ill.

Pallbearers were Terry Chalupa, Tim Dubas, Paul Zukoski, Reggie Zukoski, Rich Weiniak, and Chuck Kusek. Interment was in the Ord Catholic Cemetery.

Burwell Student Receives Grant

A Burwell girl has been awarded a full-semester tuition grant for her senior year at the University of Nebraska.

The educational grant from the Nebraska Council of Home Extension Clubs was presented to Sandra Chalupsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Chalupsky. She is a 1965 graduate of Burwell High School.

The grant is awarded each year to a girl who is interested in a career in cooperative extension work.

Grandmother Knows Fairways Prove Lonely Place After Sundown

Police and criminal alike have been confounded by an unusual nocturnal inhabitant of Ord's municipal golf course.

The night creature has out-run a police spotlight and nearly been run down by a would-be burglar, but still she goes about her nightly routine. That consists of a mile-and-a-half loop over and around the golf course, concluding with a hundred-yard sprint.

The perpetrator of such amazing gambits is a 44-year-old grandmother, Hazel Dunbar. She's one of the relatively few Americans who don't like to be told they're "going to pot," and is willing to do something about it.

Beginning last March, Hazel has gone nightly to the Ord golf course and alternately jogged and walked among the greens and fairways until she's completed at least a mile.

"I ran a short mile the first six weeks," she said Monday, "but now I'm up to about a mile and a half."

According to the suggested schedule which originally prompted her to get on the exercise kick, she should be up to four miles a night now. But she says she's going to level off at about three.

The near-encounter with the police occurred a few nights ago. When Hazel reached the northeast extremity of the golf course, an alert lawman turned on his spotlight to see what all the huffing was about.

Not exactly sure what a policeman would think about her unusual activities—and not wanting to halt in the middle of her workout anyway—she "headed west fast." The policeman was either satisfied she was up to no harm, or else didn't want to engage in a foot race. At any rate, he let her go after some more probing with the spotlight.

The encounter with the suspected burglar came soon after she started her nightly strolls.

"I was just finishing up, crossing the bridge from the first green going up to the clubhouse, when someone nearly ran over me coming down the hill from the clubhouse," she recalled. "I think he was as startled as I

Use of County Tax Levy Okayed for Mental Care

Valley County will proceed with a levy taxing residents for the costs of patient care in state mental institutions, County Attorney John Sullivan said yesterday.

His comment followed a decision by three district judges in Grand Island to dismiss a suit filed by residents of Valley, Greeley, Sherman, and Boone counties. The suit contended that such levies were a violation of the Nebraska constitution which prohibits the state from levying a property tax for state purposes. The levy is actually a state tax even though collected by the county, the plaintiffs contended.

Clark Weckbach, plaintiff in the Valley County petition, said yesterday he had not had an opportunity to talk with his attorneys and did not know what course of action will be pursued now.

"I imagine we will want to appeal it, though," he stated. The case was heard July 22, and the findings released Tuesday. The decision of district judges S. S. Sidner, Donald Weaver, and C. T. White conflicted with a conclusion reached last month by Judge James Murphy in a Douglas County district court. In a suit similar to that filed here, Judge Murphy ruled in favor of the plaintiffs. That case has been appealed to the Nebraska Supreme Court.

"There is no dispute that the operation of mental hospitals by a state is for a state purpose," the three judges wrote in a five-page finding. "The question is whether the levy required by the legislature is a state tax."

"In effect, the legislature has cast the burden for support of state mental hospitals on the counties," they continued. "That it may constitutionally do so is settled (by previous court rulings)."

Furthermore, the state has made such impositions on the counties for other purposes, the judges decreed. Examples they cited were the salary of a county attorney even though he may be representing the state in a particular case, and the salaries of bailiffs in district courts and probation officers.

"The money raised by counties to pay indebtedness to the state is not a state tax," the judges wrote. "The money raised through taxes levied by the county and not by the state," the judges wrote. "Quoting a 1954 court ruling, they continued, 'By the act of 1873 . . . the legislature has imposed a burden on the several counties to support and maintain these admitted to the state hospital from the respective counties. This burden has been continued to the present date (1954) without substantial change.'"

The judges ruled that regardless of what the tax is called, it is and always has been a county tax. This was true even though the legislature, in directing the counties to collect it, referred to it as a "state" tax before adoption of the constitutional amendment outlawing a state property tax. Now the legislature refers to it as a "county" tax, even though collection and disbursement is accomplished in the same manner it was previously.

Looking to the substance and not merely the form, we hold that prior to the time the amendment was adopted, the levy was a county tax and remains so," the judges concluded.

Slightly over 20 percent of the taxes county residents will pay this year were affected by the decision. It cost approximately $75,000—or one-fifth the county budget—during the past year to care for county residents who are patients at the state institutions.

Ord Draws Blank On Current Request For Foreign Student

Ord will not host a foreign exchange student during the coming year, local officials of the American Field Service have been advised.

The New York office of the AFS recently informed local officials that a student will not be placed here due to the city's late submission of a host-family application, and the nearly completed placement of girl students.

Had the community wished a boy, it probably would not have been as difficult to secure a student. That word came from Mrs. Al Dunbar, secretary of the local AFS chapter.

"Every year communities are encouraged to stress the desire for a boy due to the greater demand for girl students," she stated.

Ord had no family application for a boy.

Mrs. Dunbar said the local AFS chapter "would like to extend a sincere thanks to all individuals and organizations who by their contributions expressed support of the foreign exchange program in Ord."

The chapter is now accepting applications from local high school students who are interested in spending the 1969-70 school year in a foreign country. The applications must be in New York by Nov. 15. Interested students should contact Eldon Buoy at the Ord High School.

Meanwhile, the local chapter is progressing with plans to secure a foreign student for the 1969-70 school year.

Any contributors who wish to have their money refunded because of the lack of a student this year may contact Mrs. Howard Paulsen.

Definite Plans Believed in Offing For Water Project in Loup Basin

Concrete proposals to solve the long-standing water problems of the Loup River basin will be available by December. That's the prediction of Henry Lange, president of the Twin Loups Reclamation District.

Lange attended a conference last week in Washington, D. C., where the water needs of Central Nebraska were discussed with the state's congressional delegation, the Bureau of Reclamation, and the Army Corps of Engineers. Four other representatives of Upper Loup interests also attended, as did eight members of Lower Loup water agencies.

In the past the Upper Loup and Lower Loup groups have been at odds over how to best utilize the Loup River and its tributaries. The upper group has wanted irrigation needs to be the first item of consideration, while the lower group has been more interested in flood control and a "wet river" downstream.

"We have decided now that we can get along and work together," Lange said. "We went to Washington in a show of unity to illustrate that we are ready to bury our differences and work together for a water system that will benefit both areas."

Lange said rough plans drawn up by the Bureau of Reclamation and submitted to the Corps of Engineers for their refinements. The reclamation people normally handle irrigation projects while the engineers work with flood control systems. Where both are involved, each agency must give its blessings to proposed plans before they can be put into action.

The proposed plans call for dams on two tributaries of the Loup. One would be located on the Calamus River seven miles northwest of Burwell while the other would be situated on Davis Creek south of North Loup.

The Calamus reservoir would hold 103,000 acre-feet of water and the Davis one 22,000 acre-feet, Lange said.

A minimum number of farm homesteads would be displaced by the two projects, Lange said. The Calamus reservoir would require relocation of possible six families, he explained, and the Davis Creek reservoir one or none.

One drawback to cooperation between the upper and lower groups in the past has been the lower group's fear that any upstream reservoir would leave them with an empty river bed in dry weather. They favored one large reservoir in the Fullerton area.

This was opposed by the upper group on the grounds that it would take too much land and not meet the needs of irrigators.

"With the plans submitted last week, we would be able to store a sufficient amount of water so that we could release some downstream in dry weather to meet the needs of the lower basin," Lange said.

While the Fullerton project is being reconsidered by the Corps of Engineers for its flood control benefits as a result of the 1968 floods, Lange said he feels both groups are aware that it is not the answer.

A study conducted some time ago showed that the reservoir would provide only about 50 cents worth of benefits for every dollar spent on it, Lange said. The Bureau of Reclamation and the Corps of Engineers are again studying it and he expressed belief that they will come to the same conclusion reached previously.

In addition to the cost-benefits comparison, Lange said the trend in flood control is toward flood plane control rather than large reservoirs, except where sizeable metropolitan areas would be affected.

This means more and smaller dams on tributaries, Lange said. This, in effect, would be cutting floods off at their source.

The unified representation in Washington followed a series of meetings between members of the Twin Loups District and the Lower Loup-Plate Assn., the last of which was held July 14.

Although plans can be ready by December, Lange said it may be quite some time before any construction can start.

"There's a war going on, and the total Bureau of Reclamation budget has been trimmed to $200 million," he stated. "That's barely enough to keep the department in operation, much less do any new construction."

"However, as soon as the war is over things could start to happen fast," he continued. "What we're trying to do now is get in a position where we'll be ready."

He said the reclamation district hopes to get the project authorized in the next congressional session. Funding might follow as soon as the war ends, "since the government will be looking for projects on which to employ persons now engaged in defense jobs."

Actual construction could start as quickly as 60 days following funding.

"The Twin Loups project was first introduced in 1962, and it's been reintroduced at each of the three congressional sessions since then," he said. "However, for years we were behind another project. It's finally been taken care of, so now we should have top priority."

Another Ord man, William Schudel, was scheduled to attend the session in Washington also. However, he became ill and was replaced by Richard Spilneck of Elyria.

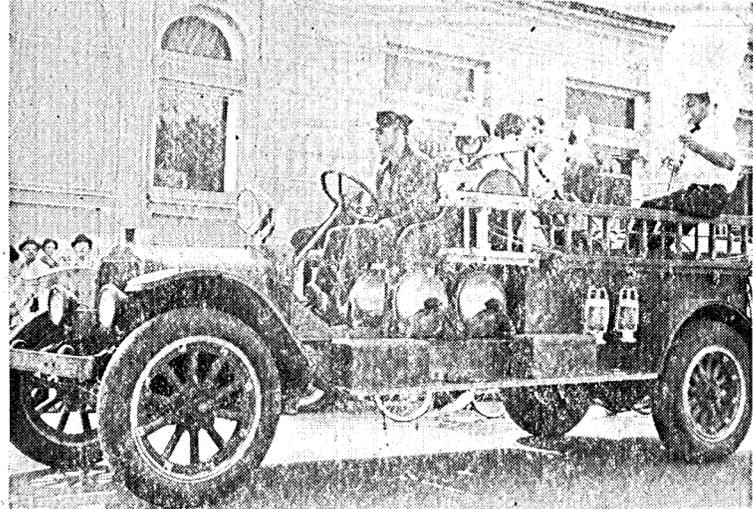

Ord Scores With Jaycees

Ord will host two state-wide Junior Chamber of Commerce events during 1969.

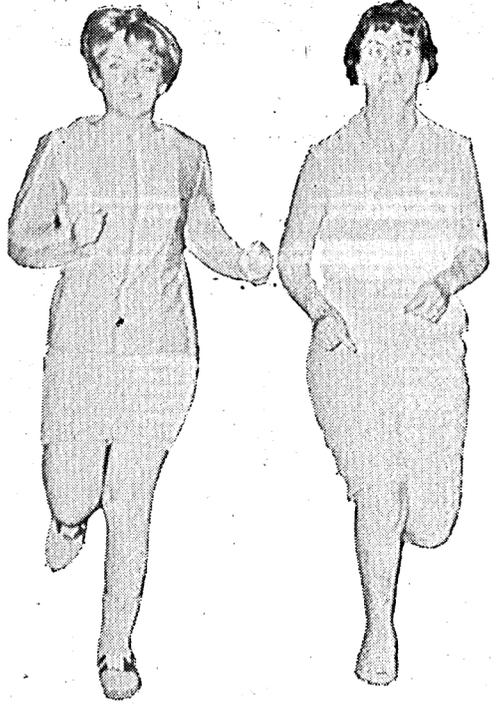

At the summer convention of Nebraska Jaycees held this weekend in McCook, Ord was awarded the state's Outstanding Young Farmer and Rancher Banquet and the state shooting education tournament. The banquet will be held in March, and the shooting tournament in April.

The city was represented at the McCook convention by Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Boileason, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Kerchal, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Melia, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Mulligan, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Schernikau, Jerry Baug, and Dale Zalina.

About 550 Jaycees attended the three-day session.

A ride in a retired fire engine beats walking any day, and these musicians who led the Junior Chamber of Commerce parade kicking off the fair week agreed. The engine is an ancient White.

Barnes Relatives Gather Following Funeral Rites

By Berenice Cornell
The relatives of Truman Barnes gathered Wednesday afternoon in our recreation room for lunch after the graveside services. Mr. Barnes was a brother of our Theodocia Shartzler, and his going left six brothers and sisters from a family of 12 grown children. Nephews Roland, Arnold and Leland Cronk accompanied the body here from Rawlins, Wyo. We here at Parkview extend sympathy to Theodocia.

Mr. Cronk and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson of Burwell, called on their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hackett, Mr. Cronk and Mr. Anderson are children of the late Lee Cronk.

Director Vacationing

Mrs. Norma Ackles, our executive director, is on vacation this week. We wish her a pleasant week.

Religious Services

Thursday religious services were conducted by Rev. Curtis Smith of the Bethany Lutheran Church. The 90th Psalm, a prayer of Moses which sets forth God's providence and tells of divine chastisement and the brevity of life, was brought out beautifully and understandingly by Reverend Smith. Ten were present. Gerolyn Cornell was a visitor.

Mae Dockhorn Writes

Edith Jones and Berenice Cornell received cards from Mae Dockhorn the past week. She is now at Omak, Wash., with a granddaughter helping with canning. She says they are having very hot days and cold nights. Berenice Cornell's niece, Mrs. Calvert Bresley, Rebecca and Tanya of North Loup visited her Monday morning. Another niece, Mrs. Edward Hansen, visited her aunt and Anna Rowbal Saturday.

Visitors From Oregon

Legion Junior Team Reaches Finals With Victories Over Shelton, Arnold

Getting a break in the pairings, Ord plowed through its first two junior games in the District 6 American Legion tournament at Broken Bow.

The 5-3 and 11-2 victories over Shelton and Ansley, respectively, placed Ord in the tournament finals against the Broken Bow-Sargent winner. That game will be played tonight at 8:30 p.m.

Pitching will be the big concern for Ord in the finals. Jim Lukesh hurled a three-hitter Saturday against Shelton and came back with a one-hitter against Ansley. However, he accepted an inning of relief from Collyer Cronk after Ord had broken a 2-2 tie in the top of the seventh. Cronk walked one and gave up one hit but was not scored on.

The thinnest squad in the tournament by far with only nine men suited up, Ord got a break in the draw when Broken Bow, Sargent and Ravenna—all with strong teams—wound up in the same bracket. Broken Bow eliminated Ravenna Monday and played Sargent Tuesday.

Kenny Watson's triple was the big blow as Ord exploded for nine runs in the last inning against Ansley. The rally was still going when Cronk purposely made the third out so Ord could get the inning over before rains came and caused the score to revert back to 2-2.

After getting off to a shaky start, Lukesh struck out 13 men. He walked the first two men he faced, and both scored.

In the final regular-season game last week, Ord lost to Sargent, 11-3, to finish with 6 wins and 9 losses.

Aviation Mysteries Answered in Film

Some of the mysteries of aviation will be answered in the Moody science film, "Signposts Aloft," which will be shown Sunday at the Bethel Baptist Church.

The film will begin at 9 p.m. and will be shown outdoors.

This is the third and concluding movie of a series. The questions it answers will range from the reason a World War II ghost bomber flew past her base and crashed in the desert to the reason man's balance mechanism won't function in the clouds.

Midgets Advance by Beating Shelton, 6-4; Wednesday Tiff Was Against Broken Bow

Triumphant in their first outing Sunday against Shelton, the Ord midgets were also advancing at press time in the American Legion tournament at Broken Bow.

They were scheduled to play a second round game Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. against Broken Bow.

It took an extra inning to defeat Shelton, 6-4, in the fiercely contested first-round game. Chuck Fryzek scored what proved to be the winning run when he was safe on an error advanced on a wild pitch, and came home on Hugh Wilson's two-out single. Darrell Fanger, who had walked, scored behind him.

The victory saved a triumph that Ord was in danger of losing after getting off to a 4-0 lead in the first two innings.

Bill Miller's two-run double was the key hit as Ord opened with three markers in the first frame. Two Shelton errors had set the stage.

In the second inning Ord scored on Dennis Bellinger's single and Spencer Doughty's double.

Bill Klancey went the distance to get the pitching victory. He showed much improved control by walking only four men. However, Shelton punched four of its seven hits into the fifth inning when it scored three times and tied the game. Klancey threw in a couple of wild pitches to help advance the runners.

Fryzek was the only Ord batter to get more than one hit.

He had a pair of singles his first two times up.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Hansen and family were Thursday guests in the Jess Worm home.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Hansen and family of West Union, S. C., are visiting relatives here. Recently, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hansen accompanied their son and family to Denver, Colo., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Jack Blaha and family.

On Sunday they were guests at the Francis Keefe home in Sargent. Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Worm, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Trompke and Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Nelson were guests in the Hansen home to visit with the Don Hansen family.

Tuesday, the Leonard and Don Hansens called at the Edward Hansen, Rollie Hansen and Cleo Hansen country homes. In the evening they were picnic guests of the Wilmer Nelsons at Burwell.

Mrs. Adeline Urbanski, Tom and Marlene were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCarville at Loup City. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. John Paul and family of Omaha. In the afternoon they joined relatives at the Ron Kuta home where the 1st birthday of Pamela Kuta was celebrated.

Marshall Nelson spent the weekend at home with his family. Mr. Nelson is doing construction work at Belleville, Kan. Also arriving Thursday to spend some time with her parents were Mrs. Delbert Lovelace and three children, Marty, Lori and Amy.

An 11-pound catfish for an 11-year-old boy makes a pretty good load, and that's what Jerry Weverka had last week. Jerry landed the big fish below the Ord dam on the North Loup River, in the same area Jack Holt caught a 12-pounder a few days before. Jerry was using a chub as bait on a set line. He had to carry the fish on his bicycle, since he was fishing by himself.

Ericson Sluggers Rip Ord Nine, 18-3, In Softball Contest

Ord softball players were talking to themselves last week after an 18-3 flattening by Ericson.

"Maybe we're just too old to play this game," player-coach Bernard Staab exclaimed. "Those young kids from Ericson were hitting everything. Frank Anderson was throwing, and they jumped on Chuck Squier pretty good too."

Anderson agreed. "I thought I was throwing harder than I've ever thrown in my life, but they were hitting 'em where we weren't."

Ericson scored eight runs in the first two innings against Anderson, then added 10 over the last five frames against Squier.

The loss dropped Ord's record for the year to 2-7. Ericson remained in contention for the league championship.

Ticket Sales Heavy For Viking-Bear Tiff

More than 1,400 Nebraskans have purchased tickets for the Nebraska Day football game in Minneapolis, Minn., between the Minnesota Vikings and Chicago Bears. It will be played Sept. 29, the day following the University of Nebraska opener with the University of Minnesota.

As a result of the heavy advance sale, Viking officials have

Wood River Gains Tie for Crown; Scotia Skids to Two More Losses

Basement boarding Ord sat out last week, but elsewhere action was plentiful—and quite predictable for Wood River—in the Sherman-Howard baseball league.

First-place Wood River slapped Ashton, 11-0, while challengers Scotia and Greeley were both losing—Scotia twice.

As a new week began with nothing but makeup games left on the schedule, Wood River had a tie for first place assured and two chances to take everything. Once powerful Scotia, which three weeks earlier had been undefeated, had lost five of its last seven games and was fighting for the survival spot in the playoffs.

Scotia was at Wood River last night (Wednesday) for a makeup game that could decide the outright champion. If Wood River lost that one, it could still win everything by beating Wolbach in another makeup. That game has not yet been scheduled.

Still, before last night's game five teams retained hopes of tying for the championship. Besides Wood River, which had an 11-3 record, they were Boelus with 11-5, Greeley 10-5, Scotia 9-5, and Central City 7-5.

Central City Faces Four

Only Boelus has finished the season. Greeley still has a makeup to be scheduled with Central City. Scotia had the game last night with Wood River and another with Central City. The latter has a total of four postponements to get in, with games against Ashton and Ord as well as Scotia and Greeley.

In last week's games Scotia fell into fourth place by losing a pair of one-run contests. Boelus defeated the Greeley County team, 4-3, and Gibbon turned the tide, 1-0.

Scotia had a 3-2 lead against

Boelus when Ron Moritz homered in the eighth inning to tie it. Then in the 10th Boelus pushed across the winning run.

Leonard Williams was the pitching victim in that game as well as the 10 decision four days later. Gibbon scored its run on four bunts in the fifth inning. Rod Karsten gave up seven hits for the winners while Williams allowed six for the losers.

Boelus Rebounds

Besides the win over Scotia, Boelus also dropped Greeley, 6-2. Paul Lammeris homered for the losers, but it was to no avail as Louis Stogor and Mary Caspersen combined on a six-hitter.

It was the first loss for Greeley after six straight wins. After being floored by Ord, Boelus came back to win its last three games of the season.

Retaining its slim hopes, Central City edged Wolbach, 7-6, on two ninth-inning runs. With four makeup games to get in, however, the schedule seems stacked against Central City in its late bid for a playoff spot.

There was never any sweat for Wood River against Ashton. The winners scored four times in the first inning, and Dennis Garrels coasted to a two-hitter. Those two hits represent Ashton's total for its last two games. It lost the week before, 2-0.

In addition to the host of regular makeup games coming up this week, the league all-stars will gather again Sunday at Scotia to try for the second time to get in their North-South contest. It was staged on July 3, with the North leading, 2-0, in the second inning.

Sailing Craft Spend More Time Aloft As Close Competition Rules at Sherman

With calmer winds to aid them, skippers showed considerably more ability at keeping their boats aloft in the second invitational sailing regatta held Sunday at Sherman Reservoir.

Only one boat, that captained by Dr. Murray Markley of Ord, capsized during the day's activities. But even he was able to right his craft and finish third in the first race for small boats.

Winners in ascending order, beginning with the small boats, were Charles Zangger of North Loup, Kim Dorsey of Loup City, Bill French of Ord, and Dr. Robert Munch of Grand Island.

French reported a heavier turnout than showed up for the first regatta held two weeks ago. Another competition is planned Aug. 11, to be kicked off with a meeting of skippers at the Trade Winds Marina.

The races got off to a bad start Sunday with the anchor rope on the committee boat being cut, setting the craft aloft. Subsequent confusion reigned right up to the starting gun with the committee having to reset all their watches, French reported.

After that, however, the races went off quite smoothly, he said, with close competition the rule.

Supercb sailing showed on the part of Dr. Munch when he was five minutes late in starting but still came home a winner in the second Group 4 race for bigger craft.

The French victory in Group 3 was closely contested as he trilled in the second race for a considerable distance. After falling behind at the windward buoy, he finally caught the boat captained by Murray Wilson of Hastings, 200 yards from the finish line.

Complete results:

Group 1 (Two Races)
1st — Charles Zangger, North Loup, Sea Hawk; 2nd — Tom Furtak, Ord, Sea Hawk; 3rd — Dr. Murray Markley, Ord, Sea Hawk; 4th — Dale Bals, Loup City, Sea Hawk.

Group 2 (Two Races)
1st — Kim Dorsey, Loup City, Sky-lark; both races; 2nd — Jack Campbell, Kearney, 11-foot Scow, both races.

Group 3 (Two Races)
1st — Bill French, Ord, "Avalou Queen"; both races; 2nd — Phil Van Nester, Milburn, "English Class"; one 2nd and one 3rd; 3rd — Murray Wilson, Hastings, "612"; one 6th and one 2nd; 4th — Clark Caley, Clark, "Ford 29"; one 3rd and one 4th; 5th — Harold Dorsey, Loup City, "611"; one 4th and one 5th; 6th — A. C. Moyer, Grand Island, "Cuttyhunk"; both races; 7th — Carl Schwartzlander, Burwell, "270"; both races.

Group 4 (Two Races)
1st — Dr. Robert Munch, Grand Island, "M 201"; both races; 2nd — Dr. Bradley Woodruff, Grand Island, both races.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT — Curtains nicely laundered, Cash and Carry. Times-Union, Fla.

We can't promise that our classified columns will be quite as interesting, but most folks read them and they'll make money for you. It's like our QUIZ ad man says, "Doing business without advertising is like winking at a girl in the dark. You know what you're doing, but nobody else does!"

The recipe this week comes from the kitchen of Mrs. Ralph Wiberg. It is called Heavenly Angel Dessert. 2 pkg. of your favorite Jello 2 pkg. Dream Whip 2 T. sugar 1/2 t. almond, vanilla or rum flavoring bar-shaped angel food cake Mix Jello minus 1/2 c. water, let set until almost solid. While Jello is setting, beat the Dream Whip, the 2 T. sugar and 1/2 t. flavoring. Chill until Jello is ready. Cut the bar angel food cake into three layers. Combine Jello and Dream Whip and beat until smooth. Let stand in refrigerator 5 or 10 minutes. Spread 1/2 to 3/4 inch thick between layers, on sides, and top. Refrigerate at least three hours, or overnight. Slice and serve plain, or add a couple of spoonfuls of your favorite topping on each slice. This is a nice club dessert.

Isn't it the truth... For a month a female may put off writing a letter, but once written, she will walk a mile to get it mailed.

A woman who had suffered a great affliction offered a beautifully practical plan for happiness: "I have had nothing I could give others but myself," she often said, "and I resolved that I would never sadden anyone with my troubles. I have laughed and told jokes when my heart ached with agony. I have smiled in the face of misfortune. I have tried to let everyone go away from my presence with a happy word and a bright memory to carry with them. I know now that happiness begets happiness, and I myself am much happier than I would have been had I sat down wringing my hands and bemoaning my fate."

Can anyone offer a better plan for living?

An easy way to become the most unpopular mother in town is simply to neglect taking your child's Mini-Golf pass from the jeans pocket before tossing it into the washing machine. And to be doubly unpopular just have that one pocket contain two passes! Friend Chris Ferguson was very understanding and made everything "right" again, putting Mom back in the good graces of daughters Number One and Number Three!

This might make you "cool." Ord merchants are already shopping (and some have already shopped) for Christmas.

Coffee Cup Philosophy: It is wiser to choose what you say than to say what you choose.

Maxine Schamp Says Vows With Thedford Man

Maxine Schamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Schamp of Elyria, and David Eaton of Thedford were married at 2 p.m. Saturday. Judge Rollin Dye performed the double ring ceremony at the courthouse in the presence of immediate family members.

For her wedding, the bride chose a white sheath dress with white lace overlay. The street-length gown featured long bell sleeves and a square neckline accented with back pleats and a large satin bow. Her corsage was of white carnations and pink baby roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bundy of Kearney were the couple's attendants. Mrs. Bundy wore a pink sheath dress complemented with a corsage identical to the bride's.

A mid-afternoon reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Tom Schamp of Grand Island cut and served the wedding cake, and Irene Conner of Ord served punch.

The couple will live in Odessa. The groom is employed at the Cornhusker Plant in Grand Island, and the bride is employed by West Co. in Kearney.

The newlyweds were honored at a dance Sunday night at the Elyria Hall.

Connie Jean Pesek Weds Lumir Hulinsky In Church Ceremony Saturday Evening

Connie Jean Pesek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Pesek of Ord, became the bride of Lumir Hulinsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hulinsky of Burwell, in an evening wedding Saturday.

Two nine-inch candelabra and baskets of yellow gladiolus and daisies decorated the altar for the 7 o'clock double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Clarence Campbell at the United Methodist Church in Ord before some 250 relatives and friends.

Mrs. Dale Karne, organist, played the wedding music. Mrs. Roger Clough sang "Always" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown fashioned with an A-line skirt in organza lined with taffeta and encircled with bands of lace at the hemline. The empire bodice in Chantilly lace featured full-length, bridal-point sleeves and a scalloped, Sabrina neckline detailed with tiny seed pearls and a scattering of iridescents. The back was caught at the yoke with a full, aisle-wide train in organza banded in lace, extending to a cotillion length. Her elbow-length veil of English illusion was held by a crown of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of yellow roses.

Mrs. Richard Bonne of Ord, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor, and Charlene Cernik of North Loup, cousin of the groom, was bridesmaid. Both wore identical floor-length, cage-style gowns fashioned in maize, cotton lace featuring a yoke banded in lace, extending to the sleeves and hemline. Their headpieces were maize, satin roses with maize English illusion. Each carried daisies in colonial bouquets.

Best man was Richard Bonne and groomsmen were Larry Bruha, both of Ord, Dwan Bartu of Ord, Vincent Hulinsky of Burwell and Mark Cooper of Sargent served Island and Leah Brickner were guests.

Hill-Hunt Wedding Performed at Arcadia; Couple to Make Their Home at Kearney

Candelabras entwined with poinsettias and greenery and arrangements of white gladiolus and blue carnations formed the chancel decor in the United Methodist Church at Arcadia Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Nellie Jean Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hill, and Eugene Allen Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Hunt. The Rev. Earl Higgins solemnized the double-ring ceremony at 2:30.

Mrs. Tom Nightengale had charge of the guest book, and candle lighters were Glen Hill and Earl Dean Drake.

Mystic blue satin and lace fashioned the floor-length empire-line frocks of the attendants. Mrs. Allen Egger of Lincoln, the matron of honor; Mrs. Jack Bowen, Waseca, Minn.; Miss Susan Hunt, Arcadia; and Mrs. Doan Daudel, Kearney. They carried a single white carnation wand with fern and a shower, and their hair pieces were of net and satin.

Serving Mr. Hunt as best man was Robert Lutz of Arcadia, and groomsmen were Tom Nightengale of Elm Creek, Darwin Hunt of Arcadia, and Richard Johnson, Arcadia. Seating the guests were Allan Egger, Lincoln; Dennis Leighton, North Platte; and Ronald Brechon, Oregon, Ill.

Flower girls Marilyn and Paula Bowen, nieces of the bride, wore floor-length gowns similar to the attendants. Wayne Bowen, nephew of the bride, was the ring-bearer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace over satin. The fitted bodice was styled with full-length sleeves tapering to bridal points at the wrists, and the neckline and bouffant skirt were edged with lace and iridescent sequins. Draped over a pillbox cap of satin was a matching lace mantilla, which formed a two-panel chapel-length train. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and Stephanotis.

At the reception which was held in the basement after the ceremony, Mrs. Max Cruikshank served as hostess. Mrs. Delmer Dalby of Waverly and Mrs. Merle Myers cut the five-tier wedding cake. Mrs. Donald Marsh, Comstock, served the punch, and Mrs. Roy Holmes, Overton, served coffee. Misses Marjo Lybarger, Denise Gould, Linda Drake, Linda Hunt and Diane Shafon of Kearney were at the gift table, and Misses Mary Ann Gould, Merilee Sell and Shirley Lutz served the bridal table.

The couple will reside in Kearney after a short honeymoon trip.

Flower Exhibition Planned in Arcadia

The Last of the Old Time Savers

Here they are, the Last of the Old Time Savers. 1. They hide it under the carpet; 2. Keep it in a cookie jar; 3. Put it in the piggy bank; 4. Collect it in a cigar box; 5. Stash it in a money belt; 6. Stuff it in an old shoe; 7. Put it between the pages of a book. They all save money.

There's another way to save money... in a bank. When you save at a bank you gain interest on your savings, something you don't get with "cookie jar savings".

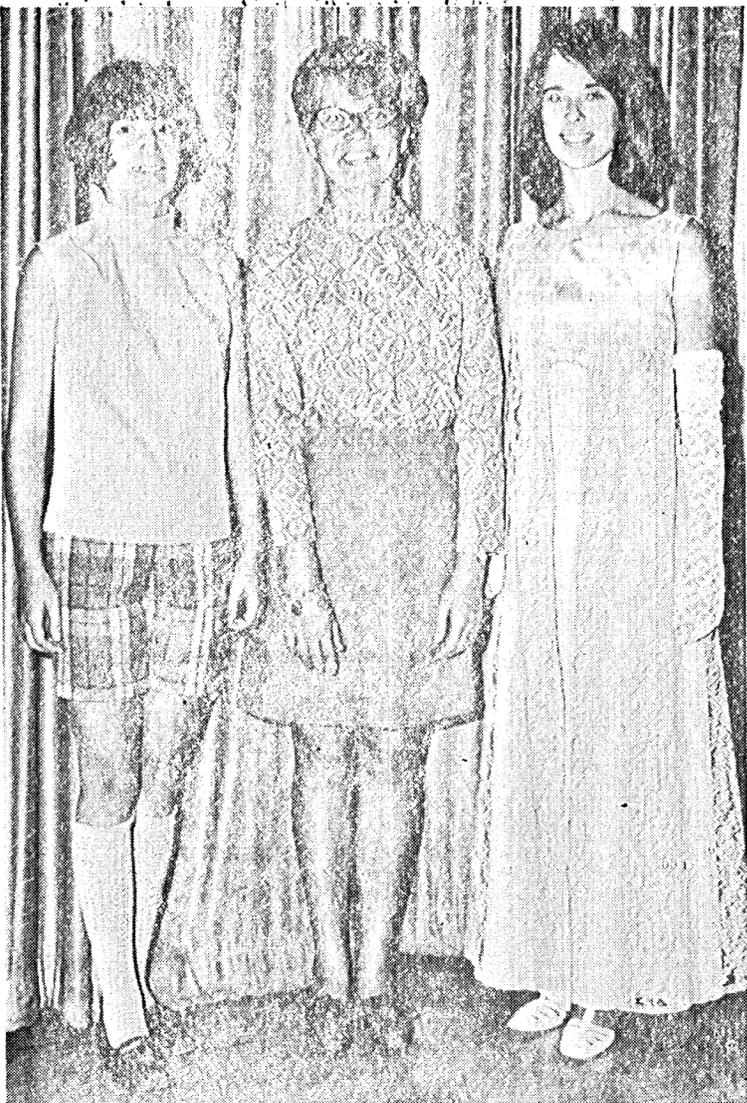

The Nebraska State Bank has a savings plan for you whether you have a pickle jar of pennies or a barrel full of dollar bills.

Why don't you get into the habit of saving a little bit each week at the Nebraska State Bank. At the Nebraska State Bank we make it easy.

TALENT SHOW
VALLEY COUNTY FAIR
Will be held Thursday Evening
instead of Wednesday
All Exhibits will be held until 8:00 P.M. Thursday

Valley County representatives at the state 4-H style show will be, left to right, Sue Bishop in the play clothes category, Rita Wojtasek in the school clothes section, and Nadene Babcock in the special occasion division. They each won purple ribbons at last week's county style show for their seamstress and modeling work. Sue wore a gold-colored sleeveless blouse with matching shorts. Rita's masterpiece was a figured blouse with autumn-colored skirt, designed especially for back-to-school wear. Nadene's formal was an empire fitted dress with low-scooped back neckline and bow-trimmed belt. It was made of lime green satin and had an overdress of matching green lace.

Christy Penas showed what stylish young ladies are wearing to sleep in these days with a blue and white checked gingham gown. It had white eyelet lace all around and bows which tied at the side for added attraction. Christy was a contestant in the lounging and sleeping category at the 4-H style show.

Jeanne Remington modeled a navy blue hip skirt with waist band, and a white, long-sleeved cotton blouse at the 4-H style show. The blouse also had a Nehru collar with buttons down the front and two buttons on the cuff. Jeanne competed in the skirt and blouse division for girls 11 and under.

School Report

Broader Agriculture Curriculum, Solid Industrial Subjects Called For

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of articles explaining in depth the findings of a 15-man delegation which examined the Ord School System Apr. 30-May 2. The men were from the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and the Nebraska State Department of Education. This week's special areas of concern are vocational agriculture and industrial education.)

Vocational Agriculture Today's farmer is a businessman and manager as much as a laborer, and his expanding role should be reflected in the curriculum of the vocational agriculture department. That's one of the principal conclusions drawn from a study of the report submitted on the ag section.

Offerings should be strengthened somewhat in the area of management and economics as they relate to agriculture and related occupations, the evaluators stated.

In a separate recommendation, they said that "the area of agribusiness should be considered as an addition to the vocational agriculture curriculum."

"We do offer some management and economics now, but apparently the evaluators felt those areas should be stressed even more," instructor Frank Andreesen said Sunday.

"In the area of agribusiness, they have suggested a program called 'off farm' in which each student spends one hour per day actually on a farm," he added.

The main drawback to further expansion at this time is the one-man teaching staff, Andreesen pointed out. The evaluators, too, acknowledged this problem by recommending a second instructor be hired. The new man would spend half his time in vocational agriculture and half in industrial education.

No expansion will be made for the coming school year, Andreesen said. However, consideration is being given toward hiring an additional man for the following year.

"With another teacher we could broaden our offerings, going into more electricity and metals as well as the off-farm program," Andreesen said.

The metals program he mentioned was also cited by the evaluators.

"The metals class perhaps should be divided and expanded," they said. "Perhaps it should include the basic skills in arc welding, gas welding metals, cut metal and sheet metal, electricity, small gas engines, etc."

"We are already teaching such things as arc welding, sheet metal, acetylene, and forge work," Andreesen said, "and I would like to go further into farm electricity and motors."

Deficiencies in power tools and equipment should also be eliminated, the evaluators said. Andreesen listed as his most urgent need in this area a large electric press drill.

One other deficiency mentioned was visual and specimen materials on agronomy and entomology.

"I've been out collecting some weed and grass specimens to be put on our agronomy section," Andreesen said, "but I can't do anything about the insect specimens for entomology. They're commercially produced."

"Some of the present specimens are so old and worn-out they should be thrown away," he added. "We sure need some new ones to demonstrate the insects which affect crops, as well as those which bother livestock."

The evaluators also recommended a close working relationship between the vocational agriculture and industrial education shops.

"There are some areas where team teaching would be helpful in expanding both programs," they wrote.

Facilities for vocational agriculture were considered quite good by the evaluators. They especially liked the good lighting and availability of sufficient classroom, office, and working space.

Industrial Education More emphasis on hard-core areas that will provide students with "salable skills" is recommended for the industrial education department.

"The program is placing too much emphasis on the so-called 'crafts,' the evaluators wrote. "The crafts program is designed primarily for leisure-time activities and will not make a significant contribution to any student who may be searching for a salable skill."

They suggested integration of crafts activities into the school art program, leaving the industrial education teacher more time to work on "solid" subjects.

The school was complimented on its "attempt to develop a comprehensive industrial education curriculum for grades 7 through 12." However, the evaluators stated that the program is still in need of refinement.

They suggested two courses of nine weeks duration in each of the seventh and eighth grades. Each of the courses would be concerned with one of the following subjects: drafting, woods, metals, electricity and electronics, power machines, crafts (providing it is not transferred to the art department), and graphic arts.

At the ninth-grade level the courses would be expanded from nine weeks to a full semester. The semester course length would also be followed in the 10th, 11th, and 12th grades; however, at those levels the students would be allowed to choose the particular subject areas they wished to take.

A suggested curriculum would have drafted taught in the 10th grade, "since it is basic to areas of specialization in the 11th and 12th grades," with advanced instruction in two or three areas at the two higher grades.

If "Metal or Power Mechanics" were to be one of the advanced offerings, the evaluators felt it would be possible to develop a cooperative program between the industrial education and vocational agriculture departments.

They also mentioned a possible "General Metals and Related Areas" course which would include the following subjects: sheet metal, bench metal, forging and foundry, heat treatment, welding, design, blue print reading, overhaul and repair of small gasoline engines, applied electricity, and machining.

Inferring that the present curriculum overloads the industrial education teacher, the evaluators stated, "The instructor must have time to plan his instruction, to counsel students, and to conduct routine functions such as project and paper grading."

Addition of a joint agriculture-industrial education teacher, as recommended by the vocational ag investigators, would provide this needed time.

The industrial education evaluators also agreed with the ag investigators in urging a close working relationship between the two departments.

"There are some areas where team teaching is both feasible and encouraged," they said.

Concerning physical facilities, the evaluators were pleased with availability of the following:

• An adjoining classroom for drafting and related technical study.

• "Adequate" equipment which is in good condition.

• Adequate storage and finishing space for projects. (However, better utilization of the area could be achieved if the agriculture and industrial departments shared the facilities, they said.)

One shortcoming the evaluators found in the facilities area was the absence of a "dust collection system." Such a system is necessary not only to provide a more enjoyable place to work, but to provide "healthful working conditions" as well, they said.

Glen Hawley of North Loup had an impromptu floor-cleaning session Monday night in one of the stock barns at the Valley County Fair. Rains which pelted down almost an inch of rain in less than an hour left the barn floor flooded. However, like all farmers and ranchers in the county, Hawley didn't mind a bit.

Jack Dimmitt Dies at Ord Hospital Monday

Jessie Howard (Jack) Dimmitt, 72, long time resident of the Arcadia community, died July 29 at the Valley County Hospital.

Mr. Dimmitt is survived by his wife, Ruth; seven sons and two daughters.

Funeral services are planned for 2 p.m., Friday, at the Calvary Baptist Church in Arcadia, with the Rev. Stonebocker officiating. Interment will be in the Arcadia Cemetery with the Rhodes Funeral Home of Sargent in charge.

On European Tour Mr. and Mrs. John Clemence and Bill left Saturday morning on a European trip. En route, they planned to visit Dr. and Mrs. John Clemence and son, Eric, at Gap, Pa. They will also visit Specialist Fourth Class Jim Clemence and wife Carol, now living in Oberkirchen, Germany.

Specialist Clemence is a member of the bombardier Army Hospital staff, serving as an X-ray technician in the Medical Corps. Various tours in different countries have been included in the itinerary of the Orlites.

Make 'Em Happy.. Keep 'Em Happy; That's Secret of Auction Success

"Twenty-nine-thirty... who'll give thirty?" barked the auctioneer. In the audience a slight nod of the head or the raising of a finger indicated there was a taker.

Another auction "the American way of doing business," according to auctioneer Leo Wolf was in full swing. This one was at Scotia, where antiques and furniture belonging to the estate of the late Richard Beck, were being sold to bidders from five states.

Once confined primarily to livestock, the auction craze is sweeping the country with everything from real estate to groceries being sold to the accompaniment of the auctioneer's chant.

"The told me at auction school I'd sell everything from soap to nuts," Wolf commented. "And I've done it. I actually helped sell out the inventory of one grocery store."

A Whopper
The sale at Scotia was one of the largest conducted to date in this part of the country. Cars were parked on both sides of the street for about six blocks. In addition to filling church parking lots and side streets.

Bidders came from all over Nebraska, as well as Iowa, Arizona, California, and Oregon.

One of the more distant purchasers was Margo Watkins of Scottsdale, Ariz. She offered proof that it pays to advertise.

Miss Watkins said she and her mother — Mrs. Mary Watkins — were visiting her grandfather — Rudolph Plate — in Wellington, Colo. They saw a copy of the Quiz advertising the sale and decided to come on to Ord and visit an uncle — Willis Plate — and attend the auction.

She was particularly interested in the old clocks that were offered, since her father — Tom Watkins — is a clock collector and restorer in Scottsdale. She wound up buying two of the 12 that were offered.

Local People Buy Too
On the other hand, some purchasers lived close enough to walk to the sale. One of the happiest was Bob Pearson of Scotia, also purchasing a clock.

He outbid the professional collectors and dealers to obtain a tick-tock that had been a family heirloom for many years before his grandmother — the late Mrs. Omgarsen of Elba — sold it to Mr. Reek about eight years ago.

"I didn't have a chance to buy it then, but I really wanted it back in the family," he said with a big grin.

The clocks sold from $13 to $70 apiece. Also popular were the 16 gasoline spit and pop engines — once common around farms as they were used to power washing machines, corn shellers, etc. The engines, some of them still in good running condition, sold from $25 to $129.

Organ Highest
An antique organ was the most expensive item sold. It went for $205.

Cast iron machinery seats are the latest hot item on the antique collector's hit parade. Wolf said he sold several Saturday in the $1 to $6 range.

Mr. Reek had of course spent years collecting the huge assortment of antiques.

"I don't think he realized what they were really worth," Wolf commented afterwards. "It's just a shame he couldn't have been here to have seen them sold."

Success Formula
Wolf could offer no reasons as to why auctions have become so popular. "I guess people are just satisfied with the price," he said.

However, he did have a lot to say about what makes people buy once they get to a sale.

"There's a lot of psychology in this auction business," he said. "You've got to get people in a good frame of mind—make 'em happy. If they're happy, they'll spend their money."

He proved his point Saturday by letting one purchaser return an item she had bought.

"You've just got to keep 'em happy," he explained. "If they think they're getting a good deal, they'll buy more."

Don't Let It Drag
One other secret to an auctioneer's success is tempo, he said. "You can't ever let things start to drag. People become uninterested."

"By now I can look at an audience and tell from the expressions on people's faces just about who is going to buy and who isn't," he added.

As a rule, people give a little more than they plan at auctions, Wolf stated. But if they're happy, they don't care.

There were lots of happy people Saturday.

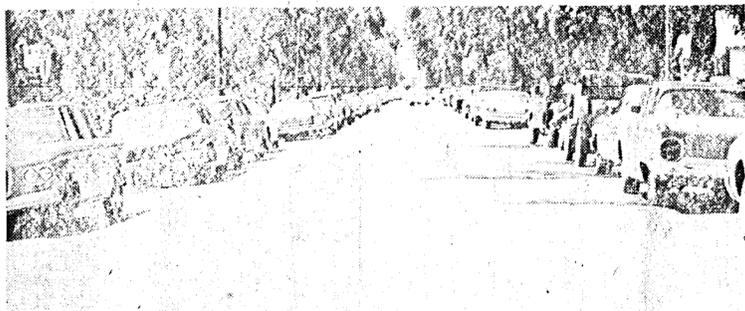

Ring man Stanley Nolte, right, clearly was earning his pay Saturday at the Richard Reck antique sale in Scotia. An assistant to auctioneer Leo Wolf, left, Nolte helped spot bidders and kept up a constant flow of light-hearted chatter which Wolf says is so essential in making an auction a success. Jim Clement, center, helped display the items. Items sold included old engines, wall telephones, clocks, kerosene lamps, flat irons, cast-iron implement seats, lanterns and buggy lamps, churns, fruit jars, wood duck decoys, a walnut organ, and various other paraphernalia. Buyers came from five states: Nebraska, Iowa, Arizona, California, and Oregon.

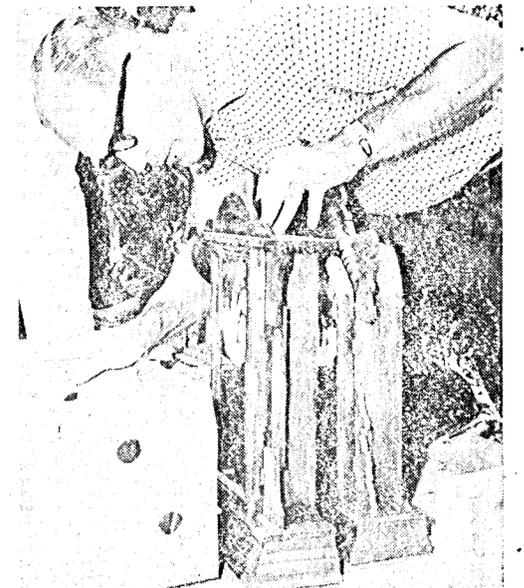

Herb Eltz of Juniata examines spit and pop engine.

Bob Pearson of Scotia cradles family heirloom.

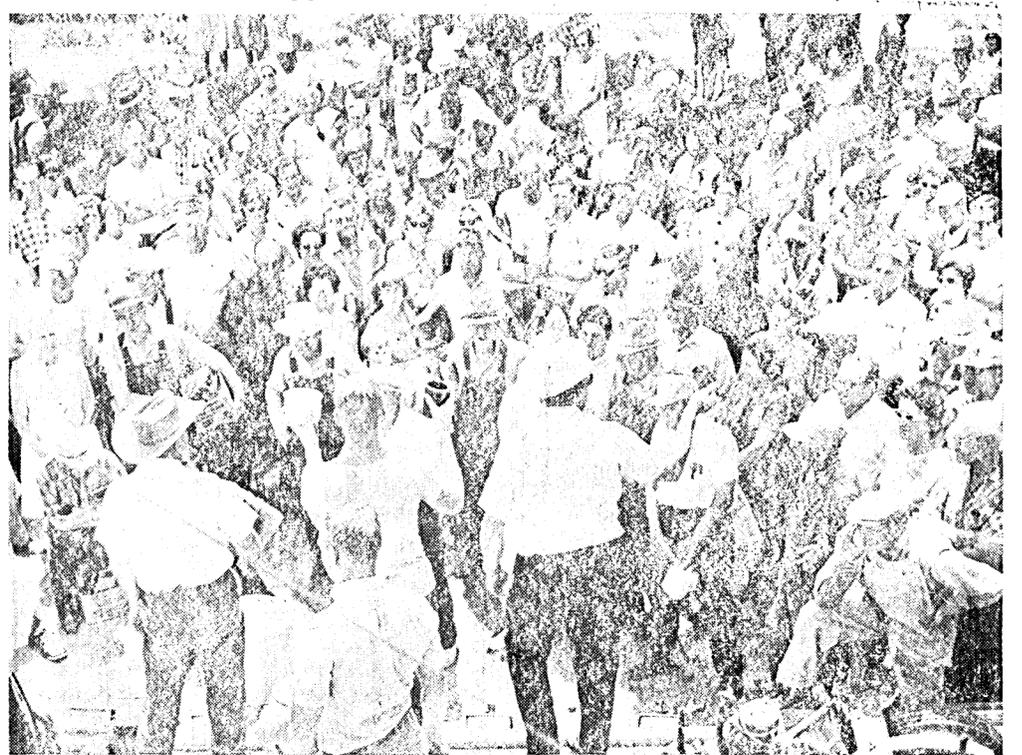

Autos lined street for six blocks. License plates showed five different states.

Don Files of Grand Island has eye on clock.

Mark O'Brien, center of Los Angeles, Calif., used flick-of-wrist bidding style; brother Jim O'Brien, left, of Loretto, offered advice.

THE Ord Quiz

History Replaces Mail

Don't worry about that little bit of extra tax money missing from your paycheck each week. President Johnson has lots of plans for it.

Like, for instance, financing his authorized version of "Great Society" history.

While Ord people as well as other citizens around the country wonder just which Saturday they'll quit getting mail service, the President instructs each federal government department and agency to assign two high-salaried individuals on a full-time basis to his history project.

Specifically, they are to prepare a written history of their agency's activities during the Johnson years in the White House. (Some agencies have reportedly hired outside help at rates of $50 a day and upward.) When complete, they'll all be combined into one overall report.

Apparently the President is not sure he'll like the versions prepared by outside historians, so this way he'll have his own little history to read when he's in a nostalgic mood.

Others Did It Too

In fairness it must be reported that other Presidents have had similar projects, but they were neither as formal or ambitious as the Johnson program. That's the word from Herbert Angel, deputy archivist at the National Archives.

The reports are to be sent to the White House for evaluation when they're complete. Some things you can bet won't be in them:

Foreign Policy—United States prestige is at an all-time low for the modern era. The North Koreans still hold 82 U.S. sailors, as well as their ship. The Vietnam war drags on and on, with Johnson not willing to either win it or quit it. In addition, NATO is a shambles, and SEATO is non-functioning.

Crime—Under Johnson, crime has become one of the nation's most pressing problems. It's up 88 percent since 1960 with riots in the cities a common happening. (Remember your reaction to the Watts riot? Compare it with your reaction to last week's riot in Cleveland.) Appointment of do-nothing Ramsey Clark as attorney general didn't help any.

Inflation—The dollar is under serious attack, declining in value at an annual rate of four percent. It's now worth 41 cents compared to the dollar of 1939. Only the emergency tax increase slowed talk of devaluation.

In Before Elections

The "historians" have been given a deadline of Nov. 1 to file their drafts. Then maybe they can go back to their regular jobs.

But now that we think about it, if they can be done without for four months . . . why not for good?

Or here's another suggestion. Take those salaries and the money being expended on the "history" and use it to pay those Saturday postal employees.

Wonder how long we could keep our mail services that way?

No Abject Apologies, Please

Two prominent Republicans have suggested that the United States make an "abject apology" to North Korea in an effort to obtain the release of the Pueblo's 82 crewmen.

House GOP Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan and Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona, chairman of the party's policy committee, made the suggestion while accusing the Johnson administration of "misinformation, miscalculation, and mishandling" in the incident.

They say an apology to North Korea would be in the same pattern as the Johnson-Humphrey administration's apology to the Soviet Union which gained release of an American commercial airliner from a Soviet base.

Not the Same

All loyal Americans share the desires of Mr. Ford and Mr. Rhodes to see the Pueblo crewmen released.

We do not, however, see the parallels of the two cases they cite.

The biggest difference, of course, is that in one instance we were guilty and in the other we were not—at least our governmental leaders have insisted publicly that we were not.

"Abject" is defined by Webster as "miserable" or "wretched" in one sense and as "lacking self-respect" or "degraded" in another.

Certainly an abject apology to a third-rate band of pirates would be miserable and wretched. It would also be lacking in self-respect and degrading.

If it is true that the Pueblo was in North Korean waters when she was captured, then the administration should apologize to the American people for continually telling them otherwise. Perhaps then an abject apology would be in order.

If the Pueblo was not in North Korean waters, then the administration must continue to seek other means of securing the crew's release—and Messrs. Ford and Rhodes must seek other points on which to attack their Democratic opposition.

Professionals Agree With Citizens: State Needs Improved Mental Care

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — Hired consultants have proposed a $37.5 million, 12-year building program to modernize Nebraska's mental health care facilities.

They recommended the 1969 legislature appropriate $9,063,120 of the sum for the two-year fiscal period beginning next July with subsequent allocations in 1971, 1973 and 1975.

The capital improvements plan was prepared for the State Institutions Department by Henningson, Durham and Richardson, of Omaha, and Davis and Wilson, of Lincoln.

The firms were employed by the state under terms of a 1967 legislative resolution providing $150,000 for a study of state-owned mental health facilities.

Highlighting the consultants' 92-page report were these major recommendations:

- Conversion of the Hastings, Norfolk and Lincoln state hospitals into regional mental health centers, with a patient load of 550 each.
- Establishment of regional mental retardation care units at Kearney, Wayne, Lincoln and Omaha, with 50 to 150 patients each.
- Continuation of the Beatrice State Home as a major care facility for the mentally retarded, but reduction of the patient population from 2,100 to 850.
- Closing of the Nebraska Orthopedic Hospital in Lincoln and transfer of the 1,000 patients to the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha, or another medical center offering comprehensive orthopedic care.
- Orderly phasing out of the Nebraska Tuberculosis Hospital at Kearney, with the 63 TB patients transferred to a medical training center and the 50 mentally retarded patients moved to the Beatrice Home or a regional mental retardation care unit.
- Expansion of the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute in Omaha by adding a third floor to the existing structure.

"The recommendations are not lavish, nor are they frugal," the consultants said. "They are, however, consistent with the necessary program requirements for proper treatment. We feel they are compatible with most Nebraskans' philosophy of caring for and assisting their less fortunate fellow citizens."

The building plan was unveiled a week after a citizens' study committee reported that Nebraska has an "archaic and fruitless" program for the mentally retarded and that sweeping changes are needed immediately.

Many of the consultants' recommendations — such as reducing the Beatrice Home population and setting up regional centers — complement the committee's findings.

The largest single item in the 1969-70 construction program is $11,450,000 for the regional mental retardation care units. The Omaha and Kearney units would be constructed first, followed by Wayne and Lincoln.

The Norfolk State Hospital would get $8,145,480 over the 12-year period, followed by Lincoln State at $7,144,710 and Hastings State at $4,800,100. The Beatrice Home would come in for $4,465,430 and the Psychiatric Institute, $1,310,400.

The consultants said only a few buildings at the state hospitals and Beatrice Home currently meet acceptable health care facility standards. They proposed the demolition of no less than 36 structures on the four campuses and remodeling of 29 others.

The entire orthopedic hospital in Lincoln is "obsolete," with the exception of a recent addition which consists of classrooms and therapy rooms," the report said.

The consultants said the tuberculosis hospital has "no real connection with the medical community" and should be used instead for a mental retardation center.

"It is not an efficient operation," they concluded. "Distances to service areas are extremely long. Program justification does not exist for operation as a separate institution."

The report contained these other recommendations:

- Centralized laundry system serving all state mental - medical institutions.
- Comprehensive food service management program. "Food preparation methods are generally obsolete and modern kitchen techniques are not followed," the consultants said.
- Central purchasing of food supplies for the institutions.
- Establishment of a "preventive maintenance" system for institutions property to prevent buildings and other facilities from wearing out for lack of care.

Something Different

What Weird Wild Women Wear

CULLEN LAKE, Minn. — Women certainly wear a variety of strange clothes at the different resorts; one could almost guess where she was by glancing out the window.

And that goes for Nisswa, Minn., too.

It isn't very houseclean.

There's a special kind of daytime dishevel that goes with a fishing area. If you are a serious fisherman spending all your money on new lures, extravagant reels and such, you're likely to wear old beat-up jeans and your husband's shirt. Or an ancient corduroy shirt as I often do on a cool day . . . I have a red one that I feel was once Kerry's, it's quite a comfort.

In fact, some of these fisher ladies manage to look pretty terrible. They don't care a bit, as long as the fish bite.

Many of the garbs are chosen with an eye to keeping out of the way of deer flies, horse flies and mosquitoes, because if there isn't a stiff breeze on the lake you are a sitting target for these vicious pests.

Then it is easy to see the professional vacationers, the gals who are for a suntan quickly, probably having only a short holiday. They run around in shorts or bathing suits, oiling themselves every hour on the hour, gaining a gorgeous tan or an atrocious dried-up brown hide . . . depending on your point of view.

I like a tan, I suppose because I can never get one . . . all I get is freckles, peeling red skin and more freckles.

Everywhere, the hats are fearful and wonderful.

oOo

Now if you live in California you already have a pleasant tan, acquired very painlessly and gradually. You also get little friendly wrinkles around the eyes if you live in a desert climate; this comes from enjoying the sun and air.

If you stop in Las Vegas, you'll be wearing heel-less high-heeled pumps, probably gold colored. And you'll be draped in mink if you're a fashionable soul. You'll also have on rather far-out resort type clothes, expensive and bright.

Now if you go down to Palm Springs, you don't see many mink; instead these lush sweaters are the style, heavy with beads and ornamentation. And if you see slacks they will be truly creations, like out of white embroidered silk.

And like in Vegas, the diamonds are the size of the rocks in our North Loup River. And about as plentiful.

One thing you're likely to see almost any place you travel these days, and that's false hair, mountainous or minute. Only we don't care to call it false hair now, we call them hair pieces, and falls, and wigslets.

And all the gals can look like movie stars.

KERRY ON

By Kerry Leggett

—ontoforonto—
"ontoforonto" . . . and away we go!

For those of you thinking the lino-type operator made a boo-boo on that first word, you're wrong!

That's the slogan I'm following this week as I make my first (and probably last) international speaking engagement. Early Friday morning United Airlines will whisk me into their friendly skies and hopefully deposit me in Toronto, Canada, by mid-afternoon.

Toronto is hosting the 11th annual International Conference of Young People in A.A. Starting Friday the Canadians will play host to young men and women from around the world that have "arrested" their drinking problem.

About six months ago several friends threatened to submit my name to the speaker's bureau for the international meeting. I told them I'd accept — if invited. Then I forgot all about it.

A couple of months ago a letter came from the speaker chairman for the conference. In essence he said I had been recommended and was being considered as the "fill-in" for the main speaker — Bill W. who is the only living co-founder of A.A.

This was about as much as I could take! Would I emcee the Sunday afternoon main program if Bill W. could make it, and if he couldn't, then would I be the main speaker? Believe me, I know this man and you just don't fill his shoes. The fellowship he founded now estimates its membership at 350,000 with 15,150 groups. About 1,700 of these groups are located in 34 non-English-speaking countries.

Knowing that "Bill" is not in the best of health and that he seldom accepts speaking engagements anymore, I braced myself for what looked like the most that's ever been expected of me from a podium. And sure enough . . . about a month ago I got word that Bill regretted he couldn't make it. So here I go! Sunday afternoon if you hear that the Royal York Hotel has tumbled to the ground — think nothing of it. Chances are my nerves and trembling (that I ALWAYS experience before speaking) were the cause of it.

All joking aside, though, I do feel very humble about the whole thing. Less than 10 years ago I was "existing" in a drunk-en stupor . . . not even knowing what day it was nor what city I was in without first buying a paper from a newsboy to check the date and the name of the paper to find out just where I was.

Our conference theme—and the subject upon which I'll be speaking — is "Acceptance." I can't think of a better word for young people today — WHETHER THEY HAVE A DRINKING PROBLEM OR NOT.

The Serenity Prayer which A.A. has adopted uses the word "acceptance" in the manner in which I—personally—think best expresses its true meaning: "God, grant me the serenity to ACCEPT the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things I can, and the wisdom to know the difference."

If more of the world's people would learn to ACCEPT the things they cannot change . . . just think of all the troubles that could be overcome!

Baudelaire put it quite forcefully when he said, "He who doesn't accept the conditions of life sells his soul."

Helping One Another Out Is a Fine Thing, But Working for Yourself Is Even Better

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Duane Carson told the fellows at the club Saturday night they have come out with a deodorant called Anonimus. It don't make you smell no better, Duane said, but after you put it on people can't figure who's perspiring and who isn't. And Duane said he had seen by the papers where they've started a Gamblers Anonymous Club for them addicts that's hooked on crossword puzzles and TV guessing games and such things. Gaylord Bolesen was of the opinion the reason the anonymous clubs is growing so fast was an account of folks joining 'em just so they can get to see their neighbors once a month. Gaylord said we were badly in need of a Meetings Anonymous where, if you feel you got to get to a meeting, you call a friend and he comes and locks you up in the house.

Lynn Kerchal said he reckoned the reasoning behind all the anonymous clubs was the idea there was strength in unity, but he was of the opinion a heap more is done by a feller when he's by himself rather than in a bunch. He recollected when Lindburg flew over the ocean by himself and the news was reported in Washington, one congressman didn't look surprised. "When a committee does it, let me know," he said. Gaylord disagreed with Duane on this point, said the idea of people with the same problem getting together and helping one another was a good one. For instance said Gaylord, he would like to get his old lady in a Nag Anonimus. That feller Edison didn't make the first talking machine, said Gaylord, the Lord did. Edison just made one you could cut off. Gaylord claimed us fellows getting together at the club ever Saturday was an anonymous

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

Feeding Wheat to Livestock

The past week we have had a number of inquiries as to the possibility of feeding wheat to either beef or dairy animals.

Since wheat provides more protein and energy to your ration than corn or milo by about 10 percent, we would make the following recommendations when using wheat as part of the grain ration for livestock.

Wheat may be substituted for either corn or milo up to, but not in excess of, 50 percent of the total grain ration.

Wheat must be processed or handled in such a manner as to keep the dust problem at a minimum. This would mean either cracking coarsely or dry-rolling and adding molasses. If you are feeding silage, it would be advisable to mix the grain portion of the ration with the silage to help keep down the dust.

Add wheat to your ration slowly. An abrupt change in the ration may cause your animals to go off feed.

It is advisable to add a balanced protein supplement which supplies calcium, phosphorus and other minerals.

Keep a close watch on your animals when making the switch from an all-corn or milo ration to one containing wheat.

Wheat is an economical source of energy and protein in your ration as long as the price differential between other grains and wheat is favorable. A favorable price differential would be when the cost of one bushel of wheat would not exceed 16 to 18 cents more than the cost of one bushel of corn.

Fun on Water

Summer means fun in the sun, and many families enjoy weekend swimming and boating in nearby lakes. Now that the boating season is in full swing, it is well to remember to put safety first in this fast-growing sport. One of the victims in boating accidents are non-swimmers or inexperienced boaters.

Know your craft and have it properly equipped. Avoid high speeds and risky turns. Don't try to rock the other fellow's boat because there may be non-swimmers aboard.

You should always observe the proper "rules of the road" when meeting or passing another boat. It is also important to know the warning and distress signals.

Don't forget that swimmers always have the right of way.

Hazardous Work Law

It is unlawful to employ a person below the age of 16 years to work in a yard, pen, or stall occupied by a dairy bull, boar, or stud horse.

Instructions about occupations in agriculture particularly hazardous for the employment of children below the age of 16 is outlined in WHDC Publication No. 1229. This publication is available in our office.

Preventing Tomato Diseases

Show me an avid gardener, and I will show you someone who takes pride in, and gives particular care to, his tomatoes. Tomatoes are not seriously affected by many diseases. But the old adage "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," certainly applies in reducing tomato disease losses.

Leaf spot and fruit rot diseases thrive in damp, shady places. So the first step is to plant tomatoes where they will get sunlight most of the day, and where wind movement will dry out foliage early in the morning.

Staking plants so the vines will not lie on the ground permits vines and fruit to dry out quickly and reduces the chance of fruit rot infection coming from the soil. Staking and tying of the plants is hard work, but more disease-free fruit can be raised on fewer plants this way. Other benefits of staking are better shading of fruits, meaning less sun scald, and easier picking, irrigation, and weed control.

Mulching around the plants with straw, grass clippings, or old silage on either staked or unstaked tomatoes will reduce fruit rots and foliage diseases as well as stretching soil moisture.

If leaf or fruit diseases do get started, fungicides may be necessary. Maneb or Zineb one week alternated with one of the fixed coppers the next week have proved effective in control of most leaf and fruit diseases. Several chemical companies manufacture tomato spray mixtures containing these fungicides along with an insecticide.

Picnic Fun

A family picnic was held in the Ord Park, Sunday, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Perry Deaton and sons of Palo Alto, Calif., and old friends Mr. and Mrs. Bill Heikas of Beatrice. Attending the picnic were Mrs. Joe Suchanek, the Joe Dvoraks of Burwell, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dvorak and family, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Lohrop, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Troyer, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Peterson and the honored guests.

County Agent Outlines Cutworm Threat to Corn

Loup Valley farmers are now in the middle of the peak period for trouble from the western bean cutworm, Valley County Agent John Schade reports.

The cutworms feed on developing corn tassels at first and then move to the developing ears. They can reduce yield of shelled corn by as much as 30 to 40 percent, Schade said.

Since July 9, when the first cutworm moths of the year were discovered, light traps in the Lexington and Grand Island areas have shown increasing catches. Schade estimated the insects to be at their peak during the July 25-Aug. 10 period when corn fields begin to tassel.

Largely since 1960, the cutworm has emerged from a field bean pest to a full-fledged threat to corn growers in Nebraska, Schade said.

Although some corn fields were hit by western bean cutworms in the late 1950s, an estimated 10,000 acres were severely attacked in 1960. Extensive losses to approximately 300,000 acres of central Nebraska corn were caused last year.

Unlike most cutworms, the western bean cutworm feeds entirely above the soil surface. Young larvae feed on developing tassels. As the tassels unfurl, the larvae move to the developing ears, feeding on silks and ear tips. As the larvae mature, they penetrate the ear husk and feed on the kernels. It is this feeding that causes losses to the grower.

It is not uncommon to see six or seven cutworms feeding simultaneously on one ear of corn, and this feeding may continue for a month or more, Schade said.

He described young cutworms as dark brown. They become lighter in color as they grow, and by maturity are gray to pinkish brown. Mature cutworms are about an inch and a half long and one-fourth inch in diameter. The eggs are slightly smaller than the head of a pin, and are laid on leaf surfaces in groups up to 200 per mass.

Insecticide control measures are needed when there is one egg mass or one infested tassel per six or seven plants, Schade advised. He suggested the use of Corn damaged by cutworm.

Sevin carbaryl insecticide at 1 1/2 pounds per acre, Dyltox at 1 pound, or Endrin at 2 pounds.

Sevin allows growers to feed, forage or harvest their crop with no time restrictions, Schade said. This means it can be applied up to the day of harvesting or grazing if label directions are followed.

Dyltox, on the other hand, should not be used within 40 days of corn gathering, he said. Endrin should not be used within 45 days of harvest. Schade also said corn treated with this chemical should not be made into silage.

Irrigated corn in central and southwestern Nebraska is ordinarily hit hardest by the western bean cutworm, and the insect appears to be more damaging to corn grown on sandy soil, Schade stated.

Mrs. Lueck Improved
Mrs. Ivan Hunkins of Comstock recently learned that her aunt, Mrs. Arlie Lueck, is improved since suffering a skull fracture and fractured wrist in a fall two months ago.

Mrs. Lueck is in a rest home at Cheyenne, Wyo., and recently spent an afternoon in the home of her daughter, Ina Breener, at Cheyenne. Another daughter, Grace Taylor, has also visited her mother.

Come to Church

Devotional based on Psalm 90

Pastor Curtis W. Smith
Bethany Lutheran, Ord
Dannevirke Lutheran, Cotesfield

This fine psalm is entitled, "A Prayer of Moses, the man of God." It can be seen as a kind of national song of faith and it would seem that the key idea of the psalm is struck in the first verse with the words: "For thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations." With this solid statement of trust, the psalmist embraces the whole tradition of the past. In his backward look upon the past generations he sees those who have continually lifted up their eyes to God, and in the course of the psalm prays that this same trust in God will continue.

Basically, the psalm can be broken down into three segments which might be labeled in this manner: vs. 2-6, The Situation (the contrast between the greatness of God as set over and against man's finiteness), vs. 7-12, The Sin (sin is the cause for the contrast dealt with in the opening portion of the psalm; we are sinful, the Almighty, sinless), and finally in vs. 13-17, The Supplication (here the idea is that man cannot transform his life by his own efforts, but needs God's help and grace). In the final analysis, the psalmist realizes that without God's blessing all of man's actions are bound to prove futile, for it is God's grace alone that gives purpose and meaning to life.

Realizing that it is God's Grace that has healed the broken relationship which exists between the Creator and his creation, the Christian thanks God for the gift of life made possible in the sending of His Son, Jesus Christ. Knowing this, we can with assurance exclaim with the psalmist: "O Lord, our God, thou art our refuge for ever and ever." (Martin Luther's translation of Ps. 90 v. 1).

Vocalists Dominate Valley County Fair Talent Competition

Vocalists turned up the big winners in the talent contest held last week in conjunction with the Valley County Fair. Singers won first place in all three divisions.

Susan Drake of Arcadia took first in the 13-and-under age group with her rendition of "My Favorite Things." Darlene King and Marilyn Hackel, who graduated this year from North Loup - Scotia, won the high school division with a duet, "More."

And in the adult division, Kathy Kokes and Lynn Newland sang a pair of folk songs and accompanied themselves on the guitar.

13 and Under

1st — Susan Drake, Arcadia, vocal solo, "My Favorite Things"; 2nd — Tie between Brenda Adel, North Loup, vocal solo, "The Sound of Music"; and Lyle and Lynn Sevenker, Ord, accordion duet, "You, You Live in My Heart"; 3rd — Scissors and Sauters 4-H group, Ord, medley of patriotic songs.

High School

Young Adults

1st — Kathy Kokes and Lynn Newland, Ord, duet of folk songs with guitar accompaniment; 2nd — Virginia Duvall, Ord, vocal solo, "Love Is Blue."

Two Local Youths On A-Average List

Two area youngsters are on the list of A average students for the spring semester released recently by the University of Nebraska.

They are Hal Cummins, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Cummins of Ord, and Darrell Petska, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Petska of North Loup. Both are 1966 graduates of Ord High School and will be juniors this fall.

Cummins is a history and political science major. He has also been elected to membership in Mu Epsilon Nu, men's professional honorary society for teachers.

Petska has a double major, agricultural economics and agricultural education. He is a counselor this week at the National Agricultural Youth Institute meeting in Lincoln.

Carson Rogers Named To Swine Seminar at NU

Carson Rogers was recently named to the Nebraska Swine Seminar at the University of Nebraska. The group consists of 20 members from Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska. His comments telling new methods of raising swine are featured in the August issue of the Farm Journal.

Comstock Girl Chosen As County Fair Queen

An 18-year-old brunette who plans to enter the University of Nebraska this fall is the 1963 Valley County Fair queen. She's Pat Novotny, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Novotny of Comstock.

The new queen was crowned at festivities Thursday night, climaxing the fair.

First runnerup was Joyce Kruml, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kruml of Ord; second runnerup was Sharon Bruha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bruha of Ord; third runnerup was Chris Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ferguson of Ord; and fourth runnerup was Darlyn Novosad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Novosad Jr. of Ord.

All the runnersup are brunettes except Miss Ferguson. She is a blonde. They all graduated from Ord High School this year except for Miss Novosad, who will be a senior in the fall. The queen is also a 1968 graduate of Ord.

Miss Novotny stands 5 feet 4 inches tall and is the only girl in a family of five children. She is also the oldest, and she has blue eyes.

Her interests include dancing, water skiing, swimming, sewing, and all sports. During her high school days she was twice a member of the cheerleaders.

Local Auto Dealers Win Five-Day Trip To Caribbean Island

Mrs. Roland Johnson and her son, Danny, are in San Juan, Puerto Rico, this week on an all-expenses-paid, five-day vacation.

The trip is sponsored by American Motors Rambler. Mrs. Johnson's husband and son are partners in Johnson Motors of Ord, a Rambler dealership. They won the trip by being one of the top Rambler agencies in sales during a 60-day period which ended July 1.

Dealers from throughout the country participated in the sales contest. The Johnsons were one of 12 winners in the Kansas City zone, which covers 13 states. They were the only winner from Central Nebraska.

Mrs. Johnson and Danny left Grand Island at 3 p.m. Saturday. Mr. Johnson accompanied them to the airport, as did his sister, Mrs. F. J. Osentowski, and Karen Meese.

They will return Thursday. Danny will have a scheduled layover of about two hours before departing for two weeks of National Guard training in Minnesota.

Dog Bite Victim Getting Better

Little Ladine Manchester, 3 years old has had the stitches removed from her head and chest where she was bitten July 28 by a dog.

A total of 30 stitches were required to close gashes underneath her chin, across her chest, and on the back of her head.

She was bitten by the dog while visiting on the Simon Walkowak farm. The dog has shown no symptoms of rabies, so that series of shots was not required.

Ladine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Manchester of Ord.

Mrs. Kingston Wins Flower Show Prize

With 13 first places and 16 seconds, Anna Kingston was again judged to have the greatest thumb in Valley County at last week's flower show held as a part of the fair.

Mrs. Kingston won the grand prize for the third year in a row, easily beating Lea Long who had six firsts and nine seconds. Other high finishers were Minnie Jensen, five firsts and seven seconds; Gladys Weckbach, four firsts and five seconds; and Lydia Fafeita, seven firsts and one second.

Forty-four persons displayed flowers at the show. The advisory council is composed of 17 individuals from the five counties served by the Central Nebraska Community Action Program. In addition to Dr. Auble, Valley County is represented by Carson Rogers and Clark Weckbach. Neither of them were present at the meeting.

Represent the Poor

Other members are Ernest Collins, and Michael Joyce of Wolbach, and James O'Connor of Greeley, representing Greeley County; Ed Paulsen of St. Paul, Clifford Stefanowicz, and Spillinek, representing Howard County; Norman Stephens, Muri Badura, and Floyd Galha, all of Loup County, representing Sherman County; and Floyd Sigel of Sargent, Owen Bryson of Millburn, and Jim Peister, Kenneth Kingston, and L. P. Ruff, all of Broken Bow, representing Custer County.

By law a portion of the council members must represent low income persons. These designated as representatives of the low-income group are Dr. Auble, Collins, Spillinek, Stephens, Badura, Sigel, and Peister.

The council's purpose is to monitor the industrial development project and offer major suggestions to the program coordinator, George Haynes of Comstock. Haynes' salary of $9,000 will take up the bulk of the $14,000 authorized for the program.

Community Action's Loup City office will handle the finances. Roye Lindsay, director of the Central Nebraska Community Action Program, said that the industrial council would not have to appoint a treasurer or concern itself with finances since his office will handle them. He said in other localities there has been some misuse of funds by individual project leaders, and OEO wants to make the parent Community Action Program responsible.

Some Progress Reported

Purpose of the project is to enter industry to locate in the five-county area, thus creating more jobs.

Haynes said he has already done some work along these lines, helping the Elfto Manufacturing Co. of Berwyn to expand. He said he has helped the company get some government contracts, increasing its work force from two to nine men.

He also reported plans are progressing to obtain a feed mill for Greeley County which will employ "12 to 14" persons. He is attempting to help the company get a $200,000 loan through the Economic Development Corp. he said.

Another project is being sought for Valley County, he added, but he declined to mention specifically what kind it will be. He said it would employ "about six persons" if it goes into operation.

Slow Process

Haynes also asked the council not to expect too much too soon. "Something like this is difficult to measure," he said. "Sometimes it takes years of basic ground breaking, and the board must realize this."

He listed two goals: first, stopping the out-migration trend in this area, and second, reversing it. He said this must be done by developing job opportunities. He will encourage companies already in the area to expand, and will encourage the relocation of others from outside into the area, he reported.

"If someone hears of a company wanting to relocate, I will go and talk with them," he said.

Just Two Bids

Since this is considered a long-term project, the council members were concerned that it was funded only through Mar. 31 of next year.

Only Broken Bow and Loup City put in bids for the home office. Dr. Auble said Ord was not putting in a strong bid "because we like to give as well as take. I have known for six weeks or more that Broken Bow was interested in getting the office," he said. "They're bigger than the rest of us, and I think that's where it should be."

In making the pitch for Broken Bow, Ruff said that his community can be more objective than Loup City or other towns since it has no unemployment problem. "We can be more unselfish about making a decision," he said. He inferred that since it Broken Bow was chosen as the site of home offices for the Industrial Opportunity Advisory Council at a recent meeting in Loup City. The council is a project of the Central Nebraska Community Action Program Inc. which in turn is an agency of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

All are funded from federal tax monies. Ralph Spillinek of Elba was elected chairman of the council after three other members declined consideration. Dr. Glen Auble of Ord, who was one of those refusing consideration for the top spot, was named vice-chairman. He said other duties, especially his work in attempting to get a nursing home for Ord, prevented him from accepting the head job.

The advisory council is composed of 17 individuals from the five counties served by the Central Nebraska Community Action Program. In addition to Dr. Auble, Valley County is represented by Carson Rogers and Clark Weckbach. Neither of them were present at the meeting.

Big Names Present For Burwell Rodeo

Burwell's biggest week of the year reached fever pitch Wednesday as spectators streamed in to watch the biggest names in professional rodeo perform.

Actual competition in Nebraska's Big Rodeo got underway at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday. Performances are also scheduled today, Friday, and Saturday at the same times.

A country music show with names just as big as those of the cowboys is scheduled each evening, beginning at 8. Wanda Jackson will headline tonight's show, with Kitty Wells taking over tomorrow night. Hank Williams Jr. will be in the spotlight Saturday night.

Wild horse races, quarterhorse races, and the Miss Rodeo Nebraska contest will also be a part of the nighttime entertainment.

The nation's top three cowboys in point standings this year all are entered. They are Larry Mahan of Salem, Ore.; Glen Franklin of House, N. M.; and Jim Houston of Omaha.

The trio are competing in their specialties. For Mahan that's saddle and bareback bronc riding. He's fifth for the year in both events.

Franklin's favorite event is calf roping, where he leads the entire professional troupe. Houston's best event is bareback riding, where he's third this year.

In addition to Franklin in the calf roping event, the top men in three other events are entered. They are Shawn Davis of Whitehall, Mont., saddle bronc riding; Clyde Vanvoras of Burkburnett, Tex., bareback riding; and George Paul of Del Rio, Tex., bull riding.

Some of the contenders in those events will also be on hand to see if they can't improve their standing for the year.

They include Bob Mayo of Grinnell, Ia., second in bareback riding; Paul Mayo, also of Grinnell, fourth in the same event; Bo Ashorn of Houston, Tex., second in bull riding; Ron Rossen of Broadus, Mont., fourth in that event; and Tony Haberer of Andrews, Tex., the fifth best bull rider for the year.

Roy Duvall of Boynton, Okla., will display top bulldogging talent. He's second in that event for the year.

Franklin will get stiff competition in his bid to stay atop the roping standings, for the contestants will include both the second and third best men — Barry Burk of Duncan, Okla., and Dean Oliver of Boise, Idaho.

Oliver in particular has been one of the big names of rodeo for several years.

Tickets will be bought at the gate for each performance.

Former Ord Man Top Hawaii Regent

A 1931 graduate of Ord High School has been named president of the University of Hawaii Board of Regents.

Robert Cushing was born here and graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1936. He received his master's degree in agronomy from Nebraska two years later.

In Hawaii, Cushing is Vice-president and director of an experiment station operated by the Hawaii Sugar Planters' Assn.

At Jaycee Rodeo

Finesse Scarce, Thrills Plentiful For Youngsters

Cowpokes from up north in the Burwell, Erickson area had the greatest success at last week's Junior Rodeo sponsored by the Ord Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Terry Held of Erickson won the large yearling riding contest and finished second in the Shetland riding and on foot roping contests to capture the trophy for best all-around cowboy.

Patricia Seidel of Burwell finished first in the pole bending contest and second in the girls barrel race to take the all-around cowgirl title.

Other top cowboys were Jerry Zulkoski of Ord, the calf riding winner; Clayton Crawford of Comstock, top yearling rider; Rod Barthel of Burwell, best Shetland tamer; and Rich Iwanski of Ord, tops in the saddle racing and boys barrel racing contests.

Leading cowgirls in addition to the overall winner were Renae

Gross of Ord, who tamed an unruly young calf given her to ride, and Doris Dee Dearthmont of Burwell, who was the top girl barrel racer.

Top money went in the boys calf riding contest where 12 contestants paid entry fees. Five places were paid with the winner getting $16. First places in the large yearling riding and Shetland contests were also worth $16 apiece.

Weather

Ord's weatherman Horace Travis reported the following hot humid temperatures for this past week:

	High	Low	Pr.
Aug. 1	79	53	.02
Aug. 2	83	55
Aug. 3	84	62
Aug. 4	86	60	.73
Aug. 5	95	73
Aug. 6	90	68
Aug. 7	65

Precipitation to date this year is 13.92 inches compared to last year's recording of 12.07 inches.

Tension was busting out all over as Jerry Collier of Ord gripped the cinch for his attempted eight-second ride at last week's Junior Rodeo sponsored by the Ord Junior Chamber of Commerce. Alas, Jerry's determined look went for naught as he finished out of the top five in the calf riding competition.

Not the most comfortable way to ride a Shetland, this demonstration by Randy Gross of Ord was nevertheless a sensational one as his pony headed for open ground at the Junior Rodeo. Randy's ride came to a quick end a second later in the dust of the fairgrounds arena. Too young to compete officially in the Shetland riding contest, Randy was riding just for fun.

In an evening ceremony conducted Saturday at the United Methodist Church of Arcadia, Sheryl Lee Rounds became the bride of Gene Allen Haddix. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Downing Rounds and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Haddix, all of Arcadia.

The Rev. Earl Higgins performed the double-ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. before an altar flanked with white gladioluses and pink roses. Two nine-branch candleabras and an arch of candles complemented the altar setting. Lighting the tapers were Janet Kerchal and Barb Collier. Mrs. Steven Davis sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Waik Hand in Hand."

Mary Cook of North Loup was maid of honor. She wore a pink floor-length gown of tulle and taffeta with three-quarter length cuffed sleeves and high rolled collar. The lace cape opened in front and back to reveal the taffeta skimmer. Bridesmaids were Lynn Sell and Cindy Marco of Arcadia. They were attired identical to the maid of honor. Each carried a white gladiolus and pink ribbon.

Trina Trotter and Jess Trotter were the flower girl and ring bearer.

Sharon Schultz Marries Lincoln Man In Ceremony at Calvary Baptist Church

Sharon Schultz and Ronald Grundmann of Lincoln were married Saturday at the Calvary Baptist Church in Arcadia. The Rev. Ray Stonehocker performed the double-ring ceremony at 2 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Schultz of Arcadia. The groom is the son of Mrs. Ross Grundmann of Cook.

June Masters sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Fern Babcock.

Mrs. Sandra Martin, sister of the bride, was matron of honor; and Mrs. William Whittaker, sister of the groom, was bridesmatron. They wore yellow satin and lace street-length dresses. Each carried a single long-stemmed yellow rose.

Karen Schultz, dressed in a yellow frock patterned similar to the other attendants, served as flower girl. Candlelighters were Dick and Don Schultz, brothers of the bride.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white organza dress fashioned with a controlled A-line skirt. Re-embroidered lace trimmed the empire bodice and long sleeves. A chapel train edged with lace fell from the waist. The bride carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Paul Grundmann, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsman was Lavern Wolf, and ushers were Norman and Allan Anderson. Russell Bristol was ring bearer.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church basement. Karen Lewandowski presided at the guest book. Linda Hauschild, Ricky Prien and Pat John cared for the gifts. Various serving duties were performed by Rae Jean Thompson, Peggy and Pam Bristol, Sheri Rector, Terri Fleming, Corliss

American Legion Junior Team Fails in Finals As Broken Bow Takes 5-2 Win, Tourney Title

The strong right arm of Jim Lukesh gave out two innings from the finish line in the junior division of last week's District 6 American Legion tournament. When it did, host Broken Bow broke through for the necessary runs to wrap up the title.

Working in his 17th inning during a five-day span, Lukesh opened the gates himself for Broken Bow to score the decisive runs. He began the fifth inning with a bad throw to first after fielding a ground ball. A single and two doubles followed, sending home three runs.

That gave Broken Bow a 5-0 lead; however, the next inning

Ord got two of the runs back as the final score wound up 5-2. Broken Bow thus carried the district colors into regional play at Aurora.

Had Ord won, it would indeed have been a Cinderella story since the team finished the regular season with a 6-9 record and had only 10 men available for play in the finals.

The local team gained the finals by beating Shelton, 6-3, and Arnold, 11-2. Lukesh pitched the complete game against Shelton and six innings against Arnold. In 18 innings of tournament play, he gave up 10 hits.

Collyer Cronk started the final contest but departed in favor of Lukesh after giving up two runs in the first inning. Lukesh shut the winners out until the final fifth.

Broken Bow's Doug Ferguson was completely rested, since he had not pitched previously in the tournament. He limited Ord to one base hit, that a double by Cronk which chased home the only runs for the losers. They were set up by a pair of errors.

Although fielding a deep and talented squad, Broken Bow's tournament title did not come easy. Before downing Ord, the hosts had beaten Ravenna, 4-1, and Sargent, 2-1.

Chuck Fryzek makes tag at second as Bill Miller backs play for Ord midgets.

Midget Nine Boots Year To Close by Losing, 7-3

Ord's midget baseball team reverted to its early-season form last week in the second round of the District 6 American Legion tournament in Broken Bow, losing to the host team, 7-3, despite an 8-3 advantage in hits.

Nine errors helped Broken Bow to five unearned runs. In earned runs, Ord led, 3-2. The loss ended an up-and-down season on a low note. The fourth and fifth innings were particularly disastrous. The two runs Broken Bow scored in the fourth were tallied without benefit of a base hit, thanks to three errors. In the fifth two more errors opened the gates to three runs.

When does a bunkhouse look like a smokehouse?

When it's not equipped with clean, modern gas heat.

If you don't have a modern gas heating system, your home can look like a smokehouse, too. Modern gas heat constantly filters and circulates clean, fresh air. Gets rid of smoke and odors right away. And gas heats better. Heats evenly and automatically.

Gas heat maintains the temperature you choose. Gives whole-house comfort. Now's the time to switch to gas heat. You'll save money two ways. Save money when you install it, thanks to Kansas-Nebraska's special low prices. Save money when you use it, thanks to low-cost, modern gas.

Ericson News

Recent Storm Caused Much

By Norma Fink
The storm of Monday a week ago dumped heavy rains and some hail, and caused considerable wind damage in the Ericson area. At Ericson, where some residents described the north-west wind as a small twister, many trees were uprooted with haystacks destroyed, hundreds of large tree limbs broken, and some buildings damaged. Corn fields were also badly hit. Severe lightning accompanied the storm.

About 2.40 inches of much-needed rain was recorded in the Ericson area. Electrical service was disrupted by broken lines west of town, and in the city some persons were without electrical service all night because of tree limbs which had fallen on wires.

Rites for Jack Dimmitt Held Friday At Calvary Baptist Church in Arcadia

Funeral services for Jesse Howard (Jack) Dimmitt were held Friday afternoon at the Calvary Baptist Church in Arcadia with the Rev. Ray Stonebocker officiating. Mrs. Ronald Ritz sang "What A Friend We Have In Jesus," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Whispering Hope" accompanied by Mrs. Chester Babcock, Jr. Pallbearers were Rolland Dimmitt, Jerry Dimmitt, Larry Fox, Bud Fox, Bill Dimmitt and Bob Dimmitt with burial in the Arcadia cemetery.

1921 he was united in marriage to Ruth Lora Fox at Hebron where he worked as a farmhand. In 1923 they moved to Loup County where they farmed until 1936 when they settled on a farm near Westerville until 1944. At the time of his death he farmed in Custer County near Arcadia which had been his home since 1945.

He is survived by his wife, Ruth; seven sons, Jay of North Platte, Stanley and Gordon of Grand Island, Loren of North Loup, Dennis of Ravenna, Garrell of Wood River and Darrell of Arcadia; two daughters, Mrs. Detoris Gregg of Eldorado Springs, Mo. and Mrs. Donna Rawlings of Grand Island; 26 grandchildren; four great-grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Ethyl Wells of Meriman. He was preceded in death by his parents, seven brothers, one sister and one half brother.

When a child he moved with his parents by covered wagon to a homestead near Almeria. Later the family lived at Hebron. In 1918 he was inducted in the Armed Forces, receiving his discharge a year later. On April 20,

Valley County 4-H Youths Line Up for Parade of Champions

Best Selling Steer Goes for $32.75 Per Hundredweight

Months — and in many cases years — of hard work and loving care were climaxed for Valley County 4-H members last week as they exhibited 249 head of livestock at the County Fair.

The affair was capped with an auction Thursday afternoon, at which 45 head of market cattle and 12 head of hogs were sold.

Only one grand champion beef animal was put on the block. It belonged to Jeff Waltman of North Loup. The animal was an 800-pound market heifer, a Hereford, and was purchased by Cetak Market of Ord at $29 per hundred pounds.

The reserve champion market steer was also sold. It was a 905-pound Shorthorn shown by 9-year-old Beverly Walahoski of Elvira, youngest exhibitor in the livestock division. It brought $23.75 a hundred from the First National Bank of Ord.

Surprisingly, both the Waltman and Walahoski animals sold below the average price of $29.42 a hundred.

The highest price paid was $32.75 for an 845-pound Hereford steer shown by Charlene Cernik of North Loup. It was bought by Bob Edwards, also of North Loup.

The 12 head of hogs sold at an average price of $21.00 a hundred. The grand champion market barrow shown by Ron Albrecht of North Loup was purchased by Thead Nelson of Ord.

Part-Time Farmers

Corporation farms, feared by some to herald the death knell of the family farm, by themselves may not be the threat originally envisioned. However, when associated with other phenomena, the corporation farm may indeed provide that extra push which tips the family farm over the brink.

New statistics compiled from 22 states, including Nebraska, show that corporations make up less than one percent of all commercial farms, they operate less than seven percent of the land, and they produce about four percent of the farm products.

Four percent of the market from seven percent of the land is certainly nothing to brag about; in fact, it can't even be called "holding your own."

Preliminary reports thus would indicate that family-type farms have nothing to fear from corporation farms in the immediate future.

Unrelated statistics obtained from a separate government report paint a different picture, however. For simply by providing an alternative means of food production, the corporation farm could hasten the rush of farmers to the cities.

According to a Bureau of Census report, farmers are making more money at extra jobs than they are on their farms.

The report showed an average off-farm income of $4,400 during 1965 for 3.2 million farm families. At the same time their net proceeds from farming operations was $2,900, well below the government's declared poverty level.

Meanwhile, as income continues to lag, prices don't. The amount of goods the farmer can buy with his $2,900 becomes less and less each year. While many of his big-city brethren strike for higher wages to offset (or perhaps bring on) price increases, the farmer has no recourse but to pay through the nose and hope for a miracle. Or he can "moonlight" at a second job, as many are doing.

For decades each new administration has faced a severe challenge to help cure the economic ills of the farmer. The one which takes office in January, whether it be Democratic or Republican, will be no different.

We hope that for a change it will be successful. This could be the last chance anyone will have.

Mr. Fortas and His Plea for Immunity

Apparently firing back at legislative critics who have questioned certain of his decisions as a member of the Supreme Court, chief justice nominee Abe Fortas said Saturday that judges must be totally free "to reach their decisions without fear of being called to account in any other place for their vote or opinions."

Theoretically, this might be desirable. However, we do not live in a theoretic world. Ours is a real world—with real people, real problems, and real criminals.

One of the basic principles our forefathers strove for when they established our government nearly 200 years ago was a system of checks and balances whereby each branch of government—the executive, legislative, and judicial—keeps reins on the other so that none can ever dictate.

While Mr. Fortas has been on the bench, the Supreme Court has wielded its checking and balancing authority with awesome power, declaring unconstitutional a great number of laws passed by the Congress and approved by the President. Often these laws have been approved not only by past congresses and Presidents, but by past Supreme Courts as well.

Now it is time for the checks and balances to work in the opposite direction.

Mr. Fortas has been nominated for the top judicial office in the land, and it is time to see if he measures up to the standards desired for that job. In assessing him, the Congress must consider more than the number and kinds of degrees Mr. Fortas has, and the number of years work experience.

It must also consider—to his consternation—his "performance" during the two years he has been on the court.

In doing so it has found that he has consistently voted to outlaw legislation restricting the criminal and the subversive. It has also found that our country has become a playground for those advocating violence and lawlessness, due in large measure to Supreme Court decisions restricting the police and abetting the criminal. In short, Mr. Fortas and his liberal associates have made the prime objective of justice seeing that the accused gets a fair trial rather than determining if he is guilty or not.

Now Mr. Fortas is in effect telling us that it is nobody's business how he voted on these controversial subjects.

Members of Congress, as much as they might like to say that it is nobody's business how they perform their duties, nevertheless must answer to the people once every two years in the case of representatives and once every six years in the case of senators. The President's performance is reviewed every four years.

Mr. Fortas can be happy that he has only to answer to Congress—and that once a lifetime. His fate undoubtedly would be a lot clearer if he had to answer to the people who are living with the criminals and subversives he has helped set free.

Upward Trend in Government Costs To Continue, State Legislators Told

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — Nebraska's legislators have been told they will face the old problem of rising government costs and how to meet them when the unicameral convenes in regular session next year.

The forewarning came from representatives of state agencies under Gov. Norbert Tiemann's control during a precedent-setting legislative executive branch assembly in the capitol. The session was called "meaningful" and "helpful" by some legislative leaders, but one senator viewed it in a different light.

"This was part of the governor's softening-up program to condition the legislature and the people for another big spending spree," said Senator Clifton Batchelder of Omaha.

Senator Elvin Adamson of Valentine, speaker of the 1967 unicameral, said the presentations by department heads helped to create an "open, free dialogue" with the legislature.

"This is a good thing because the senators need to understand more fully some of the problems that develop between regular sessions of the legislature," he said.

Senator Jules Burbach of Crofton, chairman of the law study committee, said the assembly was "meaningful from the standpoint of preparing us for what the administration has in mind in the future."

He said this has the advantage of giving the lawmakers time to discuss the governor's program with their constituents before the legislature goes into regular session.

Scottsbluff Senator Terry Carpenter commended the governor for arranging the briefing. But he said similar meetings in the future should provide for more "give and take" between the lawmakers and the administrators.

He also suggested the proceedings be carried on the state's educational television network.

New Welfare Approach Announced

A public assistance system based on the concept that needy persons are basically honest will be initiated this fall in Nebraska, state welfare director Harold Rogers has announced.

Rogers said the system will require welfare recipients to sign a sworn statement that they qualify for assistance.

Presently state and local officials conduct detailed investigations into the circumstances and family background of persons on welfare rolls to be sure they are eligible.

Rogers said this approach, in effect since 1955, results in too much paperwork, red tape, and staff time to justify its continuance.

"While this lengthy process appears to have built-in safeguards against fraud, it has the real effect of bogging down welfare officials and keeping people on the dole rather than getting them off," he said. "Case workers spend all their time verifying the eligibility of recipients rather than helping them become productive individuals."

Rogers said the new system, which will be tried on an experimental basis in a few counties at the start, will include a random check from time to time on statements submitted by welfare recipients. He said this should keep them alert to the fact that fraud will not be tolerated.

What this amounts to is an affidavit system to determine eligibility with spot checks similar to those used by the internal revenue service for income tax purposes," Rogers said.

"The system will replace the costly, demeaning and inefficient investigations now used by public welfare almost universally around the country. It should free scarce staff to try to keep people off the assistance rolls instead of making certain they stay on."

Rogers said Nebraska must begin to create a public welfare system that places emphasis on individual human dignity and rehabilitation.

"Use of the affidavit approach assumes that people are basically honest and should get help when they need it," he said.

Rogers said he does not expect the system to result in more welfare recipients. He also said he does not expect an increase in fraud. He said Iowa now has such a system and has found that it works well.

Streamlined Government Proposed

Nebraska's "Little Hoover" Commission has recommended the state departments of health and welfare establish regional offices to improve efficiency and cut operating costs.

The commission, comprised of 42 businessmen appointed by Governor Tiemann, also suggested a thorough internal reorganization of the agencies.

Philip Gass of Omaha, executive director, said the proposals would save the state $424,458 a year if carried out.

The commission has been conducting a comprehensive study of state government management practices since last April, with the objective to consolidate overlapping functions.

Gass said recommendations covering other agencies would be released later. They also will be designed to save taxpayer dollars.

The commission said that because Lincoln is located in eastern Nebraska, a "number of economies and better services would result" from setting up regional offices throughout the state.

"Travel time would be greatly reduced because regional personnel would live where offices are located," it said.

Regionalization of the health department should include creation of five outstate mental health clinics and two satellite clinics, the study unit said.

"If the welfare department is regionalized, child care centers should be established," it added. "Now such activity is limited to Douglas, Lancaster and Scott's Bluff counties."

VOX POP

Dear Editor:

I would like to ask what has happened to our summer recreational program. It used to be in regular past, for the little leaguers who were chosen, that shirts were given out and games played with great enthusiasm.

Then later there would be evening games so the little ball players could play for their parents. This summer there has been none of this — the excuse was given that shirts were not returned. That was the reason none were given out. I'm sure 75 percent of the shirts were returned because they were worn with pride by their team.

It's really a shame to see the summer program fall to pieces, because that is where they learn to play ball and good citizenship.

I hope something will be done differently next year, as has been done in years before — I am an interested mother.

Name withheld by request.

KERRY ON

—the party's over—

Never had compassion overwhelmed him. Never . . . until now.

Tears would have been vain. Words were useless. Relatively dissolved all absolutes that he had ever maintained.

Reaching high . . . stretching . . . he grasp the stick held tightly by a thrice-looped rubber band. Pulling upward he discovered the stick that he had selected held a pink balloon. But the color didn't really matter.

"How much?" he asked the vendor in the nearby booth.

"Twenty-five."

"There!" He flipped a quarter on the wooden plank serving as a counter and turned toward the group.

Those that had observed his swift transaction looked askance at the young man. A carnival spirit prevailed and his group had become part of it. The steel band, Cataloo rhythm, bright, colorful clothes. Gaiety everywhere—except in the hearts of his friends that awaited his return.

A packed ferry approached the island. "Caribana '68" he thought out loud. Where had he been for '67? Where would he be for '69?

The newcomers to the island of celebration looked eager. Anticipation filled the faces of the youngsters unloading. The new load of celebrants debarked to the right. Those leaving the island had to know from which direction the party was blowing.

Problems Would Be Different, at Least, With 18-Year-Olds Running the Country

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

While the candidates running for President were debating politics, the fellows at the country store Saturday night were debating the issues. For instance, Ray Marshall came out strong at the opening of the session in favor of giving the vote to 18-year-olds. He said the situation was getting desperate and we had to make a move to get the government out of the hands of the pollsters and television networks.

Frank Madsen agreed with Ray, said he had seen a survey where 64 per cent of the people were in favor of letting 18-year-olds vote. He was of the opinion that if the youngsters took over they would elect their own President and would have to march and demonstrate against themselves. Furthermore, allowed Frank, when they captured a university it would be like a farmer stealing his own chickens.

Harry Brasley reported he had taken note where President Johnson was in favor of letting the young'uns vote and he didn't like to be against a decision of the President, but it would be a little unsettling to him for the country to have a bunch of 25-year-old ex-presidents running around.

Ross Woods butted in to say being a little unsettled over matters didn't bother him no more, that he stayed a little unsettled about everything. For instance, right now he was unsettled about his old lady not having any vegetable garden. Ross reported she was claiming she could buy quick-frozen items at the store cheaper than she could raise 'em and that there wasn't nobody working a garden now but folks that was doing it for the exercise.

Frank said he had been married 50 years and he had long since quit getting unsettled about his old lady, but there was a heap of things that was keeping him a little off balance. For instance, he said he didn't recognize there was any such country as Red China but he had seen where the Red Chinese would have the nuclear bomb by 1972.

ly so they could make their way back onto the ferry and return to the mainland.

Strangers three short days before . . . young adults once searching for this gaiety and laughter within a bottle of booze . . . his group. Faces tried to smile. Airline schedules to meet. Check-out times to observe. The end was fast . . . approaching and each of them was well-aware of their impending separation. Within the next few hours highways and skyways would swallow them as they stepped out of their dream and returned to a work-a-day world. From the Atlantic to the Pacific . . . they would leave their womb of warmth and understanding.

Their "language of the heart" spoke through their eyes. Words were scarce.

Returning to the group—balloon swaying gently to and fro—he walked quickly up to the girl with the freckled nose . . . a nose bearing a patch of red that wouldn't tan because of scar tissue . . . twice broken by windshields on drunken escapades.

"Here," he said, thrusting the balloon into her hand.

"But why?" She looked questioningly up . . . her blue eyes begging searching.

"Because . . ." he said, " . . . the party's over."

A Precious Gift

By Mrs. Clark Weckbach

Blood is vital to life; a gift of blood is perhaps the most precious gift one person can bestow upon another.

Emergency blood needs are like automobile accidents or serious illness . . . they always seem to happen to someone else. But they can happen to any of us. Every day emergency blood needs for the ill and injured are filled through the American Red Cross blood program.

There is a simple, satisfying way to help these people in sudden need of blood (including yourself should the need arise). The donation of about an hour of your time to give a unit of your blood will help to assure a sufficient quantity of this precious commodity on hand when the need is critical.

It is startling to learn from the Red Cross that only four percent of the population provides all the blood the nation uses.

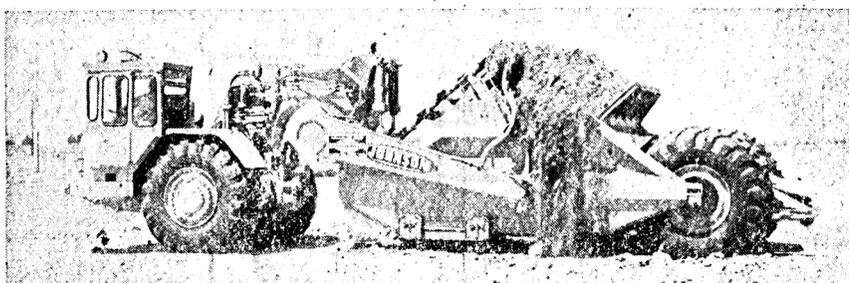

During the summer, however, the mighty four percent is not always sure protection for the other 96 percent. Some of the four are away from home. Normal routines are otherwise disrupted. The steady flow falters.

At the same time the need is greater. Summer highway accidents and vacation mishaps seem to strain the Red Cross supply.

More of the generous among us must help.

The next bloodmobile visit to Ord is Aug. 27th at the Methodist Church. In joining with other donors we can make sure the lifeline of blood will be strong enough for all our needs.

Grub Control

The best time to treat Nebraska cattle with systemic grubicide is mid-July to Oct. 1.

Because of the geographical differences in heel fly activity, Southern cattle must be treated earlier. They will have grubs in their back much earlier than native cattle.

Cattle from Texas, Oklahoma and other Southern states should be treated by the middle of August. Cattle from higher elevations in New Mexico and Arizona can be treated from late July to October.

Cattle moving into feedlots now from Southern states should be treated if they are to be marketed this fall. Nebraska cattle that will be marketed from mid-December through April should be treated August through September.

All systemic insecticides registered for grub control have been very effective if they contact the skin so that they are absorbed. Generally pour-on formulations have been a little more reliable than sprays - if sprays are not applied with high pressure at close range.

Co-Ral, Ruclene, and Negaron, either in the spray-on or pour-on formulations, are quite effective grub control products.

Green Bugs in Milo Several reports of heavy infestations of "green bugs" in milo have been reported both in the Arcadia and Springdale areas.

If heavy infestations of this pest are noted, it may be well to spray. The insecticide of choice would be Malathion, the five-pound concentration, at the rate of one and one-half pint per acre. Parathion is also effective in the control of green bugs. This should be applied at the rate of one pint of four-pound concentration per acre.

This is the fourth in a series of articles on drought information.

Many Nebraska ranges and pastures went into the summer of 1968 in a critical condition because of drought. The absence of early summer rains had resulted in close grazing with little or no opportunity for regrowth, even on properly stocked pastures and rangeland.

We have been receiving some rains these past weeks but not enough to stimulate much growth of our rangelands. The plants in all of our grasslands will no doubt be low in vigor.

Close grazing results in reduced root systems. Much loss of stand can be expected of shallow-rooted species such as blue grama and Kentucky bluegrass. Weeds and other undesirable species will be least affected.

The extent of damage and its influence on 1969 production will depend on the fall, winter and spring moisture and the management practices that are followed both the remainder of this grazing season and the 1969 grazing season.

One or more of the following suggestions may fit the situation on your ranch or farm.

Do not graze the forage plants closely; close grazing adds to the adverse effect of drought. Use "overplanted" acreages of wheat for late fall or early spring grazing to relieve pastures.

Plant sudan or sudan sorghums for emergency grazing later this year.

Practices which lead to uniform grazing of rangelands will improve production and reduce grazing damage. Salt away from water. Install adequate fence and water to insure good distribution of grazing animals.

Reduce cattle numbers as a last resort.

Sell steers early. Gains will be declining if there is not enough grass.

Wean calves before they start to lose weight.

Delay grazing next spring until growth is adequate to meet the needs of your livestock. Low vigor and drought may delay turnout dates by as much as two to three weeks. It may be well to consider harvesting enough hay or other roughage to meet your needs next spring.

Regardless of whether any of these ideas are useful, the challenge for future production lies in your judgment and management. Keep a close eye on both range and livestock. If either appear to deteriorate, you will need to make some major changes in your management practices.

Fair Judges Pick Mrs. Lange's Pie Tastiest in County

Mrs. Ernest Lange was named grand prize winner in the pie baking contest held last week in conjunction with other county fair activities. Her entry, a tasty apple pie with delicately browned crust, was named the overall winner by the pie-eating judges, Mrs. Merle VanZandt, Mrs. Henry Stara and Dean Hiser.

Winners in the school-age division with single-crust pies were Melissa Kubitschek, pecan pie, first place; Cindy Shaffer, pumpkin, second; and Terry Shaffer, coconut cream, third.

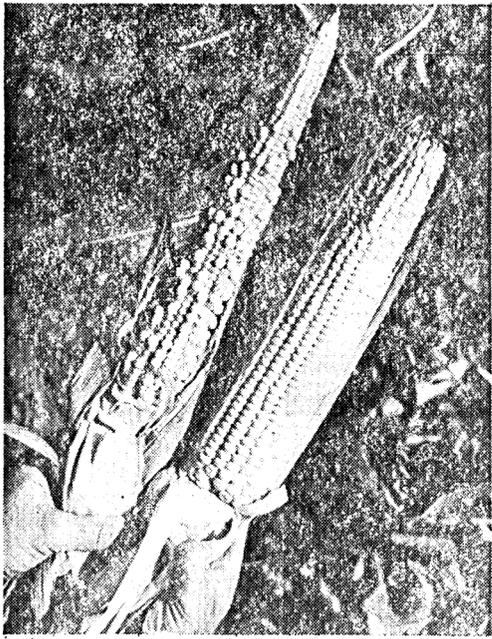

Adult division winners with single crusts were Mercedes Potrzeba, pineapple, first place; Mrs. Frank Naprstek, sour cream raisin, second; and Mrs. Earl Higgins, banana cream, third.

Competition was a bit greater in the adult division, double-crust department, where the judges found it necessary to name four winners instead of the usual three. They were Mrs. Earl Higgins, first, with a rhubarb pie; Mrs. Ed Huffman, who had two pies, apple and raisin, which tied for second; and Mrs. Ernest Lange, and Mrs. Dan Splink, whose cherry and apple pastries, respectively, tied for third.

As her grand prize, Mrs. Lange received a cook book. First-place winners received $3, second-place winners $2, and third-place winners $1 each.

Poster Wins Second In State Competition

Roxanne Sich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sich of Ord, has been notified that she won second place in the State Poppy Poster Contest held recently in connection with the department convention of the American Legion Auxiliary in North Platte. Her poster was entered in Class 1 — for grades 4, 5 and 6. She received a cash award.

Good and bad ears of corn illustrate rootworm threat.

Rootworm Beetles Seen In Valley County Fields

Some rootworm beetles have been reported in Valley County cornfields, County Agent John Schade said Tuesday.

The rootworm beetles joins another pest, the western bean cutworm, as major threats to corn productivity. Schade said he has not been able to check cornfields recently himself, but he has received reports of rootworm beetles from the Arcadia area.

Ordinarily, late July through August is the time rootworm beetles — the adult stage of the rootworm — are heaviest in this part of the country. They appear as corn begins to silk and swarm over the tips of ears, feeding on the silks and thereby reducing pollination.

A heavy infestation of rootworms can reduce a healthy corn crop to nothing more than a field full of cobs, Schade said.

Now spreading over most of Nebraska and Iowa, and into parts of South Dakota, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota, the persistent rootworm problem seems to be getting worse, Schade said. He indicated that many of the pests simply have developed resistance to some of the older soil insecticides.

Farmers usually fight rootworms first in the soil by applying insecticides at planting or cultivation. This is a good practice, the county agent stated, but each season large numbers of rootworms continue to slip through the soil-control measure to hatch out as adult beetles. Thus, it pays to stay on top of the problem throughout the summer and apply an effective adult beetle insecticide when this stage of the insect appears.

Schade said growers should check and double-check their cornfields by walking through them frequently. He advised them to count the number of visible beetles on individual ears of corn on a spot-check basis. He also suggested opening the silk on 25 to 50 ears per 40-acre field and counting the number of beetles on the inside.

When a few beetles are visible on the outside of the husk, farmers often can find that many more on the inside, chewing on silks, Schade said. If a big population builds up, he suggested spraying before the beetles seriously damage the crop.

Timing is critical, he added. When beetles are numbering six per ear or more, he advised spraying with a recommended pesticide.

Sevin carbaryl insecticide is the most widely used material for adult rootworm control, Schade said. He added that aerial spraying is the economical and practical way to apply the insecticide, but said it also can be put on with a high-boy ground-spray rig.

The residual action of carbaryl guards against beetles that fly into the fields, according to Schade, and the material does not present a drift or residue problem.

Mangled automobiles of Chuck Anderson and Mrs. Marvel Howell came to rest side by side after they collided Saturday night south of Burwell. Anderson car is at left. Anderson and his wife suffered serious injuries, and Mrs. Howell was killed.

Two Injured, One Killed In Saturday Auto Crash

A young Ord couple was described yesterday as in "very good" condition after suffering serious injuries in a Saturday night automobile crash that killed a Burwell woman. Chuck Anderson, 23, received a fractured vertebra in the neck while his wife Barbara is suffering from facial lacerations and a fractured leg. Dr. Ben Meckel, their attending physician at the Burwell Community Hospital, said both were in good condition and will be released sometime this week. He said Anderson suffered no paralysis as a result of the fractured vertebra. Killed in the accident, which occurred about 11:20 p.m., was Mrs. Marvel Howell, 60. She was on her way home from a nighttime job as a nurse's aid at the Burwell hospital. She was alone in her car, and there were no additional occupants in the Anderson car either. The accident occurred approximately two miles south of Burwell on Highway 11. Mrs. Howell was making a left turn off the highway onto the road leading to her home when the automobiles collided. She was travelling south while the Andersons were going north toward Burwell. A fire broke out in the Anderson vehicle, but was contained by State Highway Patrolmen Phil Quinn and E. L. Foulkers using extinguishers from their patrol cars. Quinn said the Burwell Fire Department was called for but never arrived. Mrs. Howell was dead at the scene. The accident created a severe traffic snarl along the two-lane highway, since the final night show of the Burwell Rodeo had just ended. Quinn said the fatality was the first in years connected with ro-

Loup City To Receive Assistance From Area Physicians in Crisis

Area doctors have agreed to help Loup City meet a medical crisis it encountered when two physicians announced plans recently to leave the community. Dr. Otis Miller said Friday that a meeting will be called of doctors from Ord, North Loup, Sargent and St. Paul to work out some sort of schedule concerning visits to the Loup City hospital. The assistance will be a stop-gap measure to fill the void expected to occur Sept. 1 when Loup City's one remaining physician leaves town. A three-man committee was appointed by the Loup City Chamber of Commerce to help solve the crisis. The committee is working not only on securing interim help, but it is also attempting to influence doctors from elsewhere to take up permanent practice there. Richard Badura and Jim Farnham, two members of the committee, met with Dr. Miller last Thursday to request his assistance. The third committee member, Don Wagner, was meeting the same night with doctors in St. Paul. "We're here to ask the cooperation of Ord and neighboring physicians to help keep our hospital open," Farnham said. "Do you close the hospital doors just because the doctors move out of town? That's what we're faced with."

School Registration Scheduled Tuesday

Students who missed out on previous school registrations for the coming year will have another chance to sign up Tuesday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. The registration will be for both elementary and junior and senior high school students. It will be held in the principal's office at each of the schools. At the elementary school the principal's office is located on the second floor, and at the high school it's on the first floor.

Two Area Students Receive Degrees; Mrs. Epley Honored

An Ord woman who teaches in the Arcadia School System is one of eight students who graduated "with distinction" from the University of Nebraska at the close of the first summer-school session. Mrs. Clara Joan Epley received a Bachelor of Science degree in education, with a major in elementary education. She teaches second and third grades at Arcadia. Also receiving a degree at the recent commencement exercises was Ronald Psoa of North Loup. He received a Bachelor of Architecture degree.

Government Nixes Home for Retarded

Construction of a new building to house the Ord Special Services School for mentally retarded children has been delayed at least a year. The federal government has announced that no funds will be allotted for the project this year. Officials had been hoping to receive $21,200 which would have matched a similar amount already raised locally.

Temperatures during the past week were as follows:

	High	Low	Pr.
Aug 8	92	71	20
Aug 9	78	61	20
Aug 10	70	54	86
Aug 11	75	53
Aug 12	85	59
Aug 13	88	60	10
Aug 14	51

Precipitation to date this year is 15.14 inches. The recording to date in 1967 was 12.81 inches.

Local Man Testifies To Work Done By Bloodmobile

Fred Worm is one Ord man who believes in the work of the Red Cross bloodmobile, which will visit the community Aug. 27. Worm entered Valley County Hospital with a bleeding ulcer July 29. During the next two days he received seven pints of B-negative blood. Three pints of the blood came from the Red Cross and four from walk-in donors. LaVerne Gross, Herbert Dulitz, Robert Dvorak and Dean Gross. On Aug. 6 Worm underwent major surgery, and Bud Novosad donated another pint which was to be used if needed. Now recovering satisfactorily from the surgery, Worm says he hopes his friends will each donate a pint of blood when the bloodmobile visits here. The blood-drawing team will set up shop in the basement of the Ord Methodist Church. It will be there from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Upcoming ASC Election Announced; Local Committee Nominees Listed

The list of nominees for membership on community committees of the Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Service were announced this week by Everett Lech, chairman of the ASC committee for Valley County. Ballots will be cast during the third week of September, Lech said. They may be mailed or taken in person to the ASCS office in Ord, and must arrive there before Sept. 17. They will be tabulated by the county committee Sept. 20. The community committees assist in administering national programs in Valley County. A new system combining the smaller communities under the direction of a single committee will be instituted this year. The alignments were set up on a geographic basis and took into account the total number of farms in each area. Lech said ballots will be mailed to all eligible voters. However, should a voter fail to receive a ballot, he may obtain one at the ASCS office. Farm owners, tenants, and sharecroppers may vote if they are eligible for at least one of the programs administered by the ASC committee, Lech said. He also said that additions to the list of nominees may be made by petition. A separate petition must be submitted for each nominee and must be signed by six or more eligible voters. Such a nominee may be any farmer who is eligible to vote and has indicated he is willing to serve. Petitions must be submitted to the ASCS office by Aug. 23. "The farmer - committee system is a unique means of administering national agricultural programs and policies," Lech stated. "The community committees assist the county ASC committee in administering price support, acreage diversion, agricultural conservation, and other farm-action programs in the county, and they are particularly responsible for keeping their neighbors informed about the programs."

Charles Rice shows off part of the bumper crop of apples he and Mrs. Rice are getting this year, from one of two trees in their Ord yard. The apples are a Wealthy species, and Rice said he hoped to gather 35 bushels this year. A previous high for the tree was 32 bushels. He has no explanation for the unexpectedly good crop but said he'll sell them to anybody who's interested.

- The three-man county committee supervises the county ASCS office and is responsible for local administration of the various programs.
- Three regular members and two alternates will be elected for each community committee. The three regulars will also serve as delegates to the county convention, to be held Sept. 27, and the alternates will serve as backups to the convention.
- Delegates will elect a farmer to fill this year's vacancy on the county ASC committee.
- The state of nominees for the community committees is as follows (figures in parentheses indicate number of farms in those communities):
 - Arcadia-Yale (127) Kenneth Brown, M. R. Carter, Delbert Drake, Otis Gartside, James Holmes, Guy Lutz, Vance Ohme.
 - Davis Creek Enterprise (105) Wilfred Cook, Leonard Edwards, Lyle Foltz, Mervin Hornickel, Leonard Jacobs, Kenneth Koelling, Richard Peterson.
 - Elyria-Eureka (122) Nelson Dearson, Vincent Hallinsky, Floyd Iwanski, Eugene Michalski, Richard Potrzeba, Roland Zukoski.
 - Germanium-Michigan (119) Richard Lukens, Edwin Mick, Vernon Potrzeba, Calvin Trepfow, Thomas Waldmann, Simon Walkowiak.
 - Independent-North Loup (132) Stanley Barr, Dale Molligan, Bennie Suttick, Lyle Suttick, Floyd Thompson, Paul Waltman.
 - Liberty-Vinton (113) Joseph Boone, Emil Dlugosh, Gene Hawley, Leonard Hrably, Edwin Johnson, Dale Zatina.
 - Noble-Springdale (110) Wayne Gregory, Oldrich Hrebec, Frank Maly, Thad Mecca, Gary Nelson, Theod Nelson.
 - Ord (121) Harold Garlick, Oris Hartbert, Art John, Kenneth Kibus, Dale Melia, Herbert Nelson, Ernest Vodehnal, Edmund Zukoski.

For Bicyclist Education Limited, But Legs Are Strong

Leroy Patterson can't read or write, but he undoubtedly has the strongest set of legs on any 53-year-old man in Central Nebraska. Anyone who travels Highway 11 to and from Grand Island frequently — especially if they go on a Sunday — has seen Leroy. He's that lonesome bicycle rider who's usually some place between St. Paul and Grand Island. Leroy makes the 45-mile round trip from Grand Island to St. Paul and back each Sunday. He says his purpose is to collect bottles from alongside the highway, but the pickings were slim last week. He had only four, and he was practically back to Grand Island. "Sometimes I get more and sometimes I get less," he said, unconcerned that his toils had produced so little. He was also unconcerned about the heavy traffic that kept whizzing by him. "This ain't nothing compared to Highway 30," he said. "I used to go to Chapman and Central City. But the Highway Patrol ordered me to stay off the high-

Colorado Cowboy Wins Top Honors In Nebraska's Big Rodeo at Burwell

Top competition, outstanding entertainment, and record setting crowds that left Burwell "almost out of grub" marked the 45th running of Nebraska's Big Rodeo last week. Little known Don Brannon of Denver, Colo., chalked up points in calf roping and steer wrestling to take the all-around cowboy title. He collected $1,098.54 for his four days of work. Some of the big names didn't disappoint the thousands of spectators, though, as Larry Mahan of Brooks, Ore., won the saddle bronc riding. Jim Houston of Omaha won the bareback riding, and Freckles Brown of Soper, Okla., tied for the bull riding title. Mahan was professional rodeo's first $50,000 winner last year, and is leading again this year for the all-around cowboy title. Houston is third this year in all-around standings and was a favorite with the home-state crowd. Brown is a long-time veteran of professional rodeoing and has ranked at the top in several events. Hank Williams Jr. had to work overtime at Saturday's concluding night show. Only one performance was scheduled, but that was hastily changed to two when customers had to be turned away at the regular 8 p.m. show. It was the first time that had happened in the 29 years he had been connected with the rodeo. President Russell Mitchell stated, Mitchell wouldn't hazard a guess as to the size of the rodeo crowds, but he said Saturday's turnout was an especially fine one. Auditing of ticket sales is continuing and the final figures probably won't be known for several days, he said. However, one local resident said the Burwell Veterans Club had sold 600 suppers Saturday night and local restaurants and grocery stores were ready for the supply wagons to rattle through and restock their shelves. Hank Williams Jr. wasn't the only entertainer to make a big hit. Kitty Wells and her group of Western musicians also drew accolades when they braved a Friday night rainstorm to complete their show. Performing in the open air, the Wells group was caught in a steady rain when black clouds opened after about 45 minutes of their show. After a five-minute recess they continued in the rain, with such former best-sellers as Bobby Wright's "Memphis."

Much Ado Planned This Weekend at Wheeler County Fair And Rodeo

By Norma Fink
Wheeler County's Fair and Rodeo will be held tomorrow, Saturday, and Sunday. It will feature the community's best entertainment of the year, a large exhibition of 4-H livestock and 4-H club exhibits, a big rodeo produced by the Pofahl Bros., a tractor pulling contest, fireman's water fight with four or five towns competing, a kids' calf scramble, a dance Saturday evening, free barbecue on Sunday, and a talent show that evening in front of the grandstand.

Finger Severed
Kevin Kasselner, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kasselner, lost the index finger on his left hand in the gears of a feed grinder Tuesday afternoon at the Kasselner home east of Erison. Kevin was taken to Ord where he received medical treatment.

Lisa Is 5 Now
Mrs. Gene Stalker hosted a birthday party in her home Aug. 5, honoring her daughter, Lisa, on her 5th birthday. Guests helping Lisa celebrate the occasion were Jeanie Kerechal, Chris and Ann Conner, Nancy and Jeanie Iruza, Ruth Ann and Janice Carstensen, and Darla Fink. After Lisa opened her gifts, the children enjoyed favors, refreshments, and an assortment of games.

Sister Celebrates 40th
Mrs. Ed Lilienthal spent the weekend in Grand Island visiting in the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Murphy. On Saturday night they all attended the 25th wedding anniversary open house for Mr. and Mrs. Donald Reher, and on Sunday Mrs. Lilienthal was present for an open house as Mr. and Mrs. Murphy observed their 40th wedding anniversary.

Living In Burwell
Mrs. Charles Cox was dismissed from the Valley County Hospital in Ord Monday. She will now make her new home at Parkview Plaza in Burwell. She said she will miss all her friends in and around Erison and would like them to come and visit her in her new home.

Visitors From Colorado

Mrs. Dottie Pierce and son, Holt, of Loveland, Colo., arrived in Erison Wednesday and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Booth. On Sunday Mrs. Booth accompanied them back to Colorado, where she will spend a two-week vacation in their home. Mrs. Pierce and Mrs. Booth are sisters-in-law. While they were here the Pierces joined the Booths for supper Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hoefener. A daughter and son-in-law of the Booths, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Kegley of Kearney, spent Saturday night with them and Mrs. Pierce.

Attend Graduation

Attending Friday's graduation exercises at Kearney State College were Martha Jackson, Mrs. Harry Foster, Stanley and Joyce, and Elaine Patrick. Among the graduates was Howard Jackson, receiving his Master's Degree. Mr. Jackson is the son of Mrs. Martha Jackson, a brother of Mrs. Foster, and an uncle to Stanley, Joyce and Elaine. They were all dinner guests in his home. Co-hosts were his wife and girls.

Bee Keeper Retires

Joe Weaver of Fayetteville, Ark., has retired after 65 years of bee keeping. Mr. Weaver started in Iowa with his bees in 1904, and extended his operation into Kentucky, Ohio, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Texas, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska, finally finishing up in the state where he started. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver and their daughter, Martha, came to Erison in the summer of 1962 and have kept bees here each summer since. In August Mr. Weaver sold his bees to a man in southern Nebraska. He and his family returned to their home in Fayetteville Thursday.

Riders Take Respite

Four couples riding horseback from Howells in Eastern Nebraska to Burwell — a distance of 117 miles — stayed overnight Monday at Lake Erison. They were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Vering, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Vering, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ves-ely, and Mr. and Mrs. Byron Renter, all of Howells. They were en route with their packs to attend the Burwell Rodeo. They spent the night in a cabin at Lake Erison, pasturing and resting their horses at the Gilbert Studnicka home. The couples started from Howells Saturday night, stopping to spend what remained of the night at Humphery. The second night they spent in a farm home near Primrose, and arrived in Erison for the third night. At Erison two boys from Randolph joined them in riding to Burwell. They arrived there Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. After taking in two days of the rodeo, they returned to Erison Friday where they were all luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Studnicka and spent another day or two at the lake enjoying their vacation.

Personals

Getting off on the right foot in the morning is one of the best known ways of making the day successful.

We all need to tune up our bodies with a few physical and mental daily chores while getting the bad dreams of last night out of our systems and thinking of the great possibilities that we can accomplish before next payday.

Many people steal those precious last 10 minutes of sleep and then break the limit with their toast and coffee, and start the day with a handicap of mental ills.

Try rising 10 minutes earlier every morning and reading inspiring words from Emerson. Wash your face with your coffee. You'll be amazed at the attitude of poise and serenity with which you'll meet those dragons who stand in your path during the day. Just think of what glorious victories we might win if we are prepared to play the game as we take our turn at bat.

Here is an easy dessert for a busy day that is sure to bring favorable comments from the family. It's called Yummy Dessert.

North Loup Residents United in Marriage At Candlelight Ceremony Held Saturday

Peggy Williams, daughter of Vernon Williams and the late Doris Williams, became the bride of Philip Van Horn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merlyn Van Horn, in an evening wedding Saturday.

Two nine-inch candelabra and baskets of yellow gladiolus flanked the altar for the 8 p.m. double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Duane Davis at the North Loup Seventh Day Baptist Church. Some 325 relatives and guests were in attendance. Mrs. Louise Brennick, organist, played the wedding music; and Jeanene Abel sang, "O Perfect Love," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of tulle lace with full-length, bridal-point sleeves and a scalloped neck line adorned with clusters of sequins. The back was complemented by a flowing chapel train of lace bordered in sequins. The elbow-length veil was held by a petal crown of sequins on net. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and lilies of the valley on a white bride's Bible, a gift from the groom.

Patricia Williams, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Joy Van Horn of Grand Island, sister of the groom, and Kerry Fuller, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids.

The maid of honor wore a moss-green, bonded crepe empire-style dress. It was sleeveless with a square neck and a back panel train trimmed with a yellow band and bow.

Dresses of the bridesmaids were similar in styling. They were made in yellow with moss-green trim. All attendants wore long gloves and white accessories. Their flowers were daisies and lilies of the valley, contained in white baskets.

Best man was Robert Babcock of Mankato, Minn. Other attendants were Jerry Van Horn, brother of the groom, and Cliff Jorgensen, cousin of the groom. Dean Williams, brother of the bride, and Jim Goodrich, cousin of the groom, served as ushers.

Candle lighters were Jan Williams, cousin of the bride, and Gail Goodrich, cousin of the groom.

Hostesses at the reception immediately following the wedding were Luella Williams, aunt of the bride, and Verna Absalon and Jeannette Granger, sisters of the bride.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Joan Goodrich, Mrs. Erel Jorgensen, and Mrs. Marge Goodrich, aunts of the groom.

The bride's traveling attire consisted of a two-piece yellow suit with white accessories. The bride graduated from the North Loup - Scotia High School in 1965 and attended Grand Island Business School in 1966. She is employed by the Seventh Day Baptist General Conference.

The groom graduated from North Loup - Scotia High School in 1964 and from the University

Newlyweds Visiting Groom's Parents At North Loup

Katie Traver and Harold King of Little Genesee, N. Y., were married Aug. 3 at the First Seventh Day Baptist Church in Little Genesee.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Traver of Little Genesee. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor King of North Loup.

The Rev. Harmon Dickinson performed the double-ring ceremony Saturday evening. A reception followed at the church.

The bride is a graduate of Bolivar High School in New York. The groom is a graduate of North Loup-Scotia High School and Norfolk Junior College. He is now a student pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist Churches in Little Genesee and Hebron, Pa.

The bride and groom are presently visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor King. They were honored Thursday evening with a supper at the Scotia Cafe. Other guests attending were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elery King, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stillman and Merlyn, all of North Loup, and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Stillman and Mrs. Edna King of Scotia. Following the supper the bride and groom were given a reception at the Edgar Stillman home. Harold showed slides of his work in the churches where he is student pastor. The newlyweds will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vic King the remainder of the week.

Large Family Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Remington and daughters went to Danbury Sunday to help Mr. Remington's grandmother celebrate her 100th birthday. The honoree, Mrs. Jud Remington, greeted the nearly 200 guests attending the reunion. She is planning a visit to Ord soon. Among those present were the elder Mrs. Remington's four children, 12 grandchildren and 52 great-grandchildren.

Avoid Heavy Weights

We discussed this topic several weeks ago in this column. However, because of the urgency of the problem it bears repeating at this time. In a recent analysis of the United States Department of Agriculture, it was estimated that a 10-pound rise in the average liveweight of steers at seven markets would drop prices about 50 cents per 100 pounds. Feeding cattle to excessive weights has a double barrel effect on decreasing profits. Cost of gains go up as the feeding period increases and the extra supply of beef depresses live cattle prices.

Cost of gain increases sharply when cattle are fed to weights in excess of 1,100 pounds on most feeding programs. This is because rate of gain goes down and the feed to put on a pound of gain goes up.

Remember, it seldom pays to carry cattle to high choice or prime grade at present-day prices. Also, keep in mind that an over-supply of heavyweights at the market will positively lower the price of the fed steer.

Greenbugs in Milo
Greenbugs in milo are causing concern from Nebraska to Texas. The population seem to be increasing in Valley County.

Only a limited number of reports of greenbug infestation was received last week. However, the past few days I have personally inspected a number of heavily infested fields.

Some fields show severe injury to lower leaves, and if greenbugs continue to develop reduction of yields may occur.

This is the first year this pest has attacked sorghum; therefore, it is difficult to accurately assess the situation. It does appear that yield reduction is likely with present populations and milo in the heading stage, especially where the lower leaves are brown.

I have observed several fields where predators and parasites seem to be on the increase. However, as I see the situation at this time it does not appear advisable to let nature run its course. Therefore, I feel spraying of those heavily infested fields is necessary.

Aerial application of Parathion at 8 ounces of active ingredient per acre is recommended. Sytox or Phosdrin are also effective. All of these are very deadly poisons, and extreme caution is required in use. It is also advised that there be a 35-day waiting period on Sytox and a 12-day waiting period on Parathion and Phosdrin.

For ground application, the insecticide of choice would be Malathion at the rate of 1 pound active or 1/2 pound of Diazinon per acre. Since the greenbug infestation seems to be on the bottom leaves, it will be necessary to direct your insecticide toward the lower leaves. This can be accomplished with nozzles on drops. There is a seven-day waiting period for Diazinon.

New Wheat Varieties
Wheat harvest is over, and seeding of the 1969 crop is not far away.

There are four new varieties that producers may want to consider as they make their choices for this fall's seeding. The new varieties are Guide, Scout 66, Trader, and Trapper. Both Guide and Trader are registered seed of these varieties will be available.

For this area the two newest varieties available are Trader and Trapper. Both varieties have adequate winter hardiness, although Trapper is slightly more so and would be more desirable for this area.

Both varieties combine productivity with stem rust resistance and good quality. While they yield much like Warrior, they produce grain of higher test weight.

Grain Drying Clinic
Because of the interest in artificial grain drying last season, a grain drying clinic is planned next Wednesday.

The meeting is scheduled to start at 8 p.m. and will be held in the 411 Building at the Valley County Fair Grounds.

Extension Engineer E. A. Olson will be on hand to answer questions and lead a discussion on grain drying methods and equipment.

Wood River, Scotia Nines Get Jump On Sherman-Howard Playoff Rivals

Wood River and Scotia were opening winners Sunday in the Sherman-Howard League baseball playoffs.

Regular season champ Wood River edged Greeley, 2-1, while Scotia blasted Boelus, 17-3. Greeley, Scotia and Boelus all tied for second in the regular-season campaign, a game back of Wood River. They flipped to determine who would play whom in the first round of the playoffs.

The opening round consists of two best-of-three series. Wood River and Greeley were to meet again last night (Wednesday) at Greeley, while Scotia and Boelus were to play at Scotia.

Darwin Heinricks pitched a four-hitter, and Jerry Henke slugged a two-run homer in the third inning to give Wood River its narrow win over Greeley. Greeley had opened the game with a first-inning run.

Lewis, Benson Led Scotia
Flawless defensive play and the five-hit pitching of Ray Scott helped the visitors stay close. However, they could not push across another run.

Larry Lewis and John Benson sparked the 13-hit attack that propelled Scotia to its easy triumph over Boelus. Lewis and Benson each had homers as Scotia jumped off to a 13-1 lead after two innings.

Backed by such ferocious hitting, Leonard Williams had little trouble in taming Boelus on four hits.

The decision reversed a late-season 4-3 defeat Boelus had given Scotia.

Wood River won the regular-season title in its last outing, dumping Wobach, 21-2, in a makeup contest. Scotia had kept alive its hopes for a tie, as well as those of Boelus and Greeley, by dumping Wood River in a previous makeup game, 13-3. Central City, which had ended the regular season with a 7-5 record and a shot at the playoffs if it could win four makeup games, defaulted on all of them. It therefore dropped back to a tie for fifth with Wobach. The defaults were to Greeley, Scotia, Ashton, and Ord.

In the league all-star game played Aug. 4 at Scotia, the North squad whipped the South in a loosely played affair, 9-6. Benson thrilled a home-town crowd with a ninth-inning homer that drove in three runs and gave the North its victory.

North Loup Man Makes Good Catch

For local fishermen experiencing the late-summer blues, Jerold Fisher of North Loup provides a bit of encouragement.

He hooked an 8-pound catfish, slipping a grasshopper for bait, shortly after arriving at the Horward Lakes near Ericson Sunday afternoon.

The cat was one of the largest fish caught in the Horward Lakes for quite some time.

Several other area fishermen have landed good catches recently.

Bill Wuklieman of Loup City caught a Northern pike which weighed in at 11 pounds, 4 ounces. It came from Sherman Reservoir.

Schedule Physicals Tuesday at Ord High

Physical examinations will be administered at Ord High School Tuesday for all boys planning to participate in athletic activities this school year.

The examinations will be held at 1:30 p.m.

Junior high contestants as well as high school participants should be present, according to Dave VanNorden, athletic director. He emphasized that the examinations will be for boys planning to compete in any sport during the school year, and not just football or fall sports.

VanNorden also said football practice will begin Aug. 26 with twice a day workouts. The morning sessions will run from 8 to 10:30 and the afternoon practices from 3:30 to 5:30.

Keep It Beautiful

If America hired people for the job, it would take the largest army of people to keep our country free of litter. But there's no need to hire anyone. It's a job we can do for ourselves. All of us. Every family that spreads a picnic lunch. Every boatman who cruises the lakes and waterways. Every motorist who uses our roads and highways.

It is the pleasure of the U. S. Brewers Association each year to give its fullest support to the Keep America Beautiful Campaign. Remember: Every Litter Bit Hurts. This is our land. Let's treat it right.

Mrs. Wibbels Scores Heaviest At Arcadia Show

Mrs. Elmer Wibbels was the big winner in last week's Arcadia Garden Club show, taking the sweepstakes prize for artistic arrangements as well as three lesser awards.

Contestants submitted a total of 310 entries in the horticultural and artistic design sections.

In addition to the artistic arrangements title, Mrs. Wibbels also received a special award for creativity, the award of distinction, and temporary possession of a silver vase for the best zinnia arrangement. The zinnia is Arcadia's town flower, and the trophy rotates each year.

The theme of the show was "The Garden Path" and was carried out in decorations for the exhibition, held at the high school auditorium.

The award of merit in flowers went to Mrs. Carroll Lutz. She also received the tri-color award. Bob Hill won the award of merit in vegetables for his eggplant entry.

Special award ribbons were presented to each person scoring 15 or more points. Those receiving ribbons in the horticultural division were Mrs. Wibbels, Mr. Hill, Charlie Weddel, Marie Weddel, Marjorie Elliott, Pearl Johnson, Sally Kaminski, Florence Erickson, Alberta Lutz, and Hazel Fagus. Ribbon recipients in the artistic division were the Madames Wibbels, Erickson, Lutz, Weddel, and Margaret Zentz.

Club awards were received by the Be Sharp and Clever Cornes groups for their displays in the "Garden Reception" division. Seventy persons attended the one-day showing.

Harry Foths Observe 40th Anniversary With Open House at Mira Valley Church

The 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foth was celebrated Sunday at the Mira Valley United Methodist Church with 200 people signing the guest book.

Hosting the "open house" were their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Foth, and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Urwiler. Their grandchildren, Cindy and Kelvin Foth, were in charge of the guest book. Mrs. Edwin Lenz and Mrs. Anna Visek were in charge of cards and gifts, while Reuben Cook and Don Otto took pictures.

Serving cake were Mrs. Reuben Cook, Mrs. Will Foth, and Mrs. Walter Foth. Pouring coffee were Mrs. Alfred Burson, Mrs. George Clement and Mrs. Oscar Bredthauer Sr., Jean Foth and Mrs. Otto served punch. Also serving coffee and punch to the dining guests were Mrs. Lyle Foth, Mrs. Kenneth Clement, Mrs. Bryan Peterson, Mrs. Irwin Kingston, Mrs. Don Clement, and Mrs. Archie Mason. Picking up dishes were Patty Peterson, Eileen Foth, and Carolyn Staab.

Kitchen helpers were Mrs. Glen Warner, Mrs. Orville Lueck, Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Gerhardt Isaac Luoma, and Mrs. Walter Huebner. Mrs. Loree Hornickel baked the anniversary cake.

Miss Golda Cook and Harry Foth were married Aug. 16, 1928, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cook with Mrs. Alfred Burson and Harold Schmidt as attendants. The Rev. Fred Cook officiated.

Since then their home has been their Mira Valley farm. They have two children, Eldon and Velma (Mrs. Wayne Urwiler) and six grandchildren — Cindy, Jean, Kelvin and Steve Foth, and Larry and Lori Urwiler.

Mrs. Ed Cook, the mother of Mrs. Foth, was a special guest.

Attending from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stuber and Chuck of Raleigh, N. C.; the Rev. and Mrs. Mel Luetich and family and Mrs. Nellie Leonard, all of Lincoln; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Heine, Karl and Kevin, and Miss Ida Zienke, all of Waco; Mr. and Mrs. Don Clement and family and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Schultze and children, all of Kearney; Mr. and Mrs. Don Otto of Hastings; Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Trosper and Darla of Fullerton; Miss Erna Malotke of San Bernardino, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stuber and the Wayne Urwiler family, all of Ravenna; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bredthauer of Wood River; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bredthauer Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bredthauer Jr., Mrs. Maurine Koelling and the Rev. and Mrs. Melvin Koelling, all of Grand Island; Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Beilke and Marlene and Irvin Schoemaker, all of Scotia; the Reuben Cooks of Loup City; the Max Staabs, Orville Luecks and Howard Cooks, all of Arcadia; Mr. and Mrs. John Kriewald, Mr. and Mrs. Ike Babcock and family, Mrs. James Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Morgan and Melvin, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Schulz, and Mrs. Walter Huebner all of North Loup; and John Thor of Stanton.

'Impressed' Future Doctor Spends Five-Week Period Working in Ord With Local Physicians

John Brazer of Omaha has returned to his work at the University of Nebraska School of Medicine after spending five weeks in Ord working with local doctors.

A senior at the university, Brazer served a five-week preceptorship in the offices of Dr. Otis Miller and Dr. Paul Martin. He assisted them in surgery, as well as office work.

Purpose of the preceptorships is to acquaint budding doctors with the duties of a general practitioner. With the emphasis on specialized medicine, this is practically the only association he will have with the work of a general practitioner, Brazer said.

"I'm quite impressed with the quality of medicine I've seen here," he stated before departing Ord. "It's been very enlightening and refreshing — quite a difference from the academic atmosphere of a university or even a large-city hospital."

The son of an Omaha doctor, Brazer said he has not made up his mind yet about the area in which he will specialize — or even if he will.

"I'm impressed with the need for general physicians in the rural communities of Nebraska," he stated. "In fact, that's the greatest need in Central and Western Nebraska, and I may just become a general practitioner."

Brazer hopes to intern on the West Coast after his graduation next year. However, he plans to come back to his native Nebraska to practice.

"It's too bad I couldn't stay in Ord longer," he said. "I was just getting familiar with things where I could do a lot more and help the doctors."

Brazer selected Ord as the location for his preceptorship himself.

Rodeo's Glamour Moment

Brahmas Provide Biggest Thrills

Every sport has its glamour moment. In football it's the long pass or run, in baseball it's a home run, in basketball a score from 30 feet away.

In professional rodeoing the glamour moment comes when the Brahma bulls are let loose. As in no other event, this is where the contestant puts his life on the line.

The crowd senses it too. Perhaps in response to the animalistic lust for violence which exists to some extent in all men, spectator anticipation reaches a climax as the bull riding nears.

A visit "backstage" to the chute area at this moment provides a study in contrasts. Some of the contestants sit quietly waiting for the event to begin, occasionally making small talk with a fellow competitor, or perhaps just sitting and contemplating. Others busy themselves with adjustments to their gear, pacing back and forth somewhat like an expectant father, or doing calisthenics "to loosen up."

They're Young

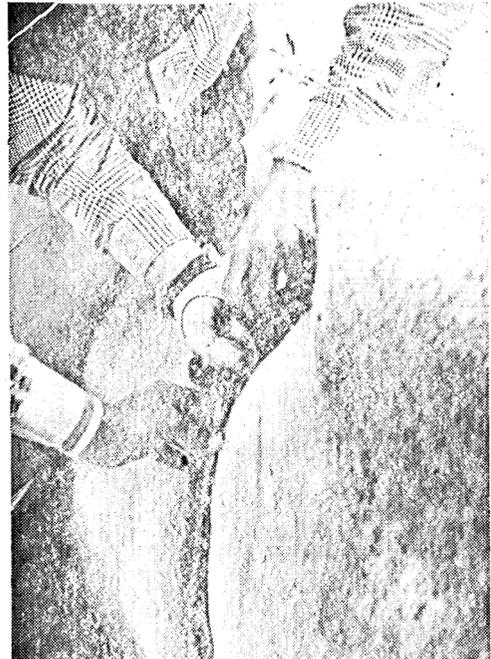

The first thing that strikes an intruder to this private "waiting room" is the youthful look of the contestants. Almost like a bucket of cold water in the face on a sleepy morning, the impact hits that these baby-faced young men are really the ones who'll tackle those two-ton monsters—and they're not just boys hired to move the cattle from chute to chute.

Of course there are exceptions, like grizzled old Freckles Brown of Soper, Okla., who was riding bulls before some of his fellow contestants were thought of. But for the most part, bull riding is a young man's event.

Young men like Sandy Kirby of Woodstown, N. J., for instance. With an air of confidence belying his 18 years and Dickie Cox of Rockwell, Tex., stayed with his Brahma as it made high dive.

Danny Whiteley relaxed until gale opened. Then tension hit.

Burwell Rodeo Money Winners

- First figure listed is contestant's standing in event, second figure is his point total or elapsed time, and third figure is his money winnings for that placing. Where contestants placed in first or second or thirds as well as average, they received money as indicated for both placings.

Services Conducted for Peter Kapuska; He Had Lived Here 77 of His 80 Years

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning for Peter Kapuska, 80, at Our Lady Of Perpetual Help Catholic Church. Rosary was recited Tuesday evening at the Hastings-Pearson Chapel.

Pallbearers for the long-time Ord resident, who died here Monday following a long illness, were Frank Kapuska, E. P. Kapuska, Syl Doro, Al Doro, Mike Setlik and Bohish Kapuska.

The Rev. Stanley Gorak officiated. Mrs. Elsie Furtak was the organist. Interment was in the Ord Catholic Cemetery with the Hastings-Pearson Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

Peter Paul Kapuska was born in Atkinson on May 8, 1883, to Mr. and Mrs. John Kapuska. At the age of 3 he came to the Ord vicinity with his parents and lived here until the time of his death.

On June 10, 1910, he married Mary Snawardt at Ewing. She died in 1923, and in 1941 he married Elizabeth Watahoski at Burwell.

Mr. Kapuska was a member of the Ord Catholic Church. He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth, of Ord; two sons, Edmund and Richard Kapuska, both of Broken Bow; one brother, Thomas Kapuska of Ord; six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his first wife, his parents, two sons, two brothers and three sisters.

Mrs. Emma Adamek and Mrs. Alice Urbanski visited the Wayne Rakosky family in Grand Island Sunday afternoon.

Jerrilyn Worm of Wood River was a houseguest of JoAnne Dunbar in the Allen Dunbar home from Wednesday until Monday morning. On Sunday she accompanied the Dunbars to Taylor for a family reunion.

Angela Bogus Dies Following Lengthy Illness

An Elyria resident, Angela Bogus, 53, died Friday at the Valley County Hospital following a lingering illness.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at St. Mary's Catholic Church with the Rev. Stanley Gorak officiating. Pallbearers were Richard L. La, Keith Kuklish, Emmanuel Kapuska, Bernard Lech, Dan Kinnick and Joe Paprocki.

Interment was at the St. Mary's Cemetery in Elyria. Rosary was recited Friday evening in the Hastings-Pearson Chapel.

Angela Bogus, daughter of Tom and Mary Koperski Michalek, was born Aug. 2, 1915, at Elba. She spent the earlier part of her life there and attended grade school in that community.

On Nov. 10, 1940, she married Sylvester Bogus at Elyria, and spent the remainder of her life there.

Mrs. Bogus was a member of the St. Mary's Catholic Church at Elyria.

She was preceded in death by her husband, her parents, three sisters and a half brother.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Henrietta Warner of Phoenix, Ariz.; Mrs. Stephanie Hurlbert of Ord; Mrs. Bernice Desmud of Seattle, Wash.; and Joyce Bogus, at home; seven grandchildren; a step-father, John Broj of St. Paul; a step-brother, Joe Broj of Farwell; and a step-sister, Mrs. Clara Suida of Ashton.

Agnew on the Stand

This year of shocking political happenings felt yet another significant tremor last week when Richard Nixon named little known Spiro Agnew as his Republican running mate.

Repercussions were felt immediately, as any one watching television Thursday night knows. A defector from the camp of Nelson Rockefeller, Agnew was assailed almost instantaneously by the liberal wing of the party.

But that was just a small sample of things to come. During the developing campaign Agnew will be turned inside out and every pore of his political body examined acutely under the glare of national publicity.

The Way It Should Be

Already the dogs are yapping at his heels, as well they should since he could be on the threshold of the Presidency in less than three months. It is only right that his back ground and his positions be scrutinized in painstaking detail.

To date his detractors have come up with two major criticisms.

One was built in, and when Nixon selected him he knew this would be a weak point. That is his inexperience.

Agnew has been governor of Maryland only 19 months. Before that his highest political job was in a county administration—a large county to be sure, but still just a county. That's a far cry from a whole country.

Not Afraid To Act

His conduct as governor, however, appears to have been good on a superficial examination. He acted swiftly and with far greater courage than many better known candidates when riots and lawlessness threatened Baltimore and its suburbs.

Furthermore, those who cite his inexperience might compare him with Ronald Reagan. A genuine candidate for the Presidency itself before the convention, Reagan had taken office as governor of California at the same time Agnew came in as head of Maryland. And Reagan had held no political office whatsoever before taking the reins in California.

Negro radicals are leading the early assault on Agnew. His firmness in dealing with racial disorders, which won him many friends among law-abiding citizens, has not set well with them. They are intent upon branding him a "racist" and making others believe it, and that is the second major criticism leveled at him.

James Farmer, head of the Congress of Racial Equality, says Agnew placed property values above the value of a human life when he told policemen to shoot looters who failed to stop when ordered to do so.

No Need To Apologize

In answering these critics, Agnew has used—and will continue to do so—great diplomacy. He will be very selective and cautious with his words.

This is understandable. He was selected for the Vice-Presidential spot because of the unifying effect he would bring to the ticket.

However, he needn't be ashamed to admit that he stood for law and order. He might be surprised to find how many citizens are ready to back a man who has convictions and is willing to stand up for them.

And it just might be that inexperienced Spiro Agnew can provide some of those "new politics" the liberals have been clamoring for.

Burwell: A Fine Example

Our neighboring community of Burwell can beat its chest proudly this week, following another smashing blow scored for the small town.

Showing what a community can do when it works together to tackle a worthwhile project, Burwell pulled off its 45th edition of Nebraska's Big Rodeo with nary a hitch—at least none big enough to be visible to the outside observer.

From the condition of the restrooms to the scheduling of the rodeo events, the extravaganza showed evidence of detailed planning and long hours of preparation. Of course Burwell folk are old hands at this by now, but they still deserve a pat on the back for their efforts.

The amazing turnout for the Saturday night show starring Hank Williams Jr. proved what can happen when no horses are spared to get the best entertainment available. With the professional rodeo at Wahoo developing into stronger competition for Burwell, our neighbors will do well not to rest on their laurels.

With more shows like this year's though, they don't have to worry. The customers will definitely keep coming back.

One final note:

The Burwell Rodeo should have proved once again to Valley Counties that we don't have to be satisfied with the rag-tail county fair staged here each year. Of course we can't have overnight what Burwell has—that took 45 years to develop. But we can do better than we've done in the past.

A good time to start is now.

Big Changes in Game Commission Recommended by Study Committee

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association LINCOLN—A special study committee has recommended the governor be given a voice on the State Game Commission, and that the agency's director be appointed for four instead of six years.

It also proposed the legislature set a new ceiling on hunting and fishing permit fees at double the present level, with the commission given flexibility to adjust the rates according to revenue needs.

The Nebraska Management Analysis Study Committee, better known as the "Little Hoover" commission, outlined the suggestions in a 50-page report on ways to streamline state government.

Philip Gass, executive director, said the Game Commission study showed there is a need for improved communication between the governor's office and the commission.

Presently the commission is a completely autonomous body, even though members are appointed by the governor with consent of the legislature.

The committee said the governor should have a personal representative on the commission, with this designee authorized to act as chairman and vote in case of a deadlock of regular members.

"Objectives and current thought of the governor's office would be injected without creating radical change of directions that might occur if the commission were directly responsive to wishes of the governor," the committee said.

"Activities of the commission should be buffered from political change, but at the same time they should not be completely analogous to executive direction."

The committee said appointment of a commission director for six years is "unwieldy" and that a four-year term would be an improvement.

A problem developed earlier this year regarding the six-year appointment of director Mel Steen. The commission had thought his term was up July 1, but it later discovered the appointment ran through April, 1970.

The study committee made no mention of the mixup, but its suggestion on hunting and fishing permit fees is certain to trigger a controversy of another kind.

By doubling the ceiling on fee rates and authorizing the commission to determine actual charges, there would be no need for continual requests to the legislature for permit increases, the committee said.

"The legislature would still have control in the ceiling established," the report said.

The 1967 legislature, after considerable wrangling, boosted hunting and fishing license fees by an average of 75 cents. The current rates are: resident hunting, $4; resident fishing, $3.50; resident hunting-fishing combination, $7; nonresident hunting, $25; nonresident fishing (five day), $2.50; and nonresident fishing (one year), $6.

The committee also released its findings on the State Agriculture Department, with these major changes proposed:

- Consolidation and simplification of licensing and permit activities.
- Discontinuance of the state-federal egg market news service, which is financed on a cost sharing basis.
- Contract with cities which perform their own sanitation inspections of public accommodations to conduct a simultaneous state check and thus avoid duplication of effort.
- Combine the bureau of dairies, foods and drugs with the bureau of animal industry.
- Eliminate state tax fund grants to the Nebraska Dairymen's, Crop Improvement, Western Organized Agriculture, Livestock Breeders and Feeders, and Home Economics Association's, and the State Horticultural Society.

Congressman DAVE MARTIN Reports

Food Stamps

In a speech on the floor about six weeks ago, I disclosed that food stamps were being issued to college students.

In Kearney the welfare office confirmed that approximately one-third of the food stamp cases in May were college students. In Lincoln the welfare director wrote me that of 98 non-public assistance cases in May, 45 were college students. Omaha reported 15 cases of college students receiving food stamps in May.

This was a violation of the intent of the Congress, as the food stamp program is a welfare program for the poor. Food stamps have also been issued in large numbers to strikers, which subsidizes them at the expense of taxpayers.

I testified before the House Agriculture Committee bringing forth these facts and requested an amendment banning sales of food stamps to strikers and college students. The committee agreed with me and reported out such a bill. The House passed the bill July 30, with the provisions intact, although vigorous attempts were made to remove the restrictions.

American Prestige Overseas

A House foreign affairs subcommittee heard testimony recently that anti-Americanism overseas is growing.

Testimony indicated that our image is at a very low point. Evidently, the $130 billion we have poured into foreign aid has not helped much.

Deficit

The federal deficit for fiscal year 1968, which ended June 30, has now been officially set at $25.4 billion. This is the largest deficit in the history of our country, outside of three years during World War II.

This deficit will add over $1 billion in interest costs in the current fiscal year. Federal deficits since 1960 now total almost $100 billion.

This is a mighty poor record of fiscal responsibility.

KERRY ON

By Kerry Leggett

—look for a star—
Somewhere today, there's a child with a star...
Amidst an environment of pessimism, cynicism and criticism, there's still someone free from that adult-life search for security through material wealth and material gain.
A star... too high to reach, yet close enough to seek... something to strive for, rather than to bury thoughts of frustration and confusion in temporary mountains of man-made happiness only to emerge twice magnified when the excitement's gone.
Will not faith in a star envelop clouds of optimism and determination to smother discouragement, when material methods leave hang-overs of disillusionment, sadness and self-pity?
Perhaps Robert Frost knew what he was reaching for in his poem, "Choose Something Like A Star."
"Oh Star, Athé fairest one in sight,
We grant your loftiness the right
To some obscurity of cloud—
It will not do to say of night,
Since dark is what brings out your light.
Some mystery becomes the proud.
But to be wholly taciturn
In your reserve is not allowed.
Say something to us we can learn
By heart and learn alone repeat.
Say something! And it says, 'I burn.'
But say with what degree of heat.
Talk Fahrenheit, talk Centigrade.
Use language we can comprehend.
Tell us what elements you blend.
It gives us strength little aid,
But does tell something in the end.
And steadfast as Keats' Eremité,
Not even stooping from its sphere,
It asks of us a certain height,
So when at times the mob is swayed
To carry praise or blame too far,
We may choose something like a star.
To stay our mind on and be staid."
Can only children find stars?

Winter Has Some Problems Too, With Styles What They Are Today

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

This is the time of summer when everybody out our way is trying to find a cool spot. The fellers were sitting around trying not to work up a sweat at the country store Saturday night and hence, Dubas reported he was ready for winter because he always had more energy when it was cold.

Fred Dubas said he had never seen Renee use any energy so he couldn't figure what he wanted with it. Anyhow, Fred said, he recalled Renee wasn't ever too keen on whatever kind of weather we were having at the time.

Blooming Flowers, Ripe Tomatoes Provide Proof of Green Thumbs

By Berenice Cornell
Parkview yards are looking very nice and green in spite of some hot days. The flowers are getting quite showy outside most of the homes. Mary Cetak has an especially nice display of flowers. Tomatoes too grow at Parkview. Tena Swanson has a pair with a tomato vine on her porch. She has picked 10 tomatoes from it to date. Edith Jones has a vine in her petunias that has yielded several nice slicers.

Mrs. Swanson Celebrates
It was missed last week that Tena Swanson's daughter, Ella Scheel of Paxton, and her great-granddaughter, Diane Bierma of Omaha, were with her from Saturday to Tuesday. They celebrated Mrs. Swanson's birthday on the 5th by having dinner together and spending part of the day with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nelson. Mrs. Nelson is also a daughter of Mrs. Swanson.

Sister Dies
Mildred Anderson received word Saturday of the sudden death of a sister, Mrs. Vera Matthews of Sterling, Colo. Mrs. Matthews was the former Vera Gass and grew up in Ord. She has two sisters here — Mrs. Edward Vodchnal and Mrs. Anderson.

Mrs. Matthews' funeral was held Tuesday at the Presbyterian Church in Sterling. Mrs. Anderson went to Sterling Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Vodchnal. She may stay there several days with the Bill Artzer family. Our sympathy here at Parkview goes out to Misses Anderson and Vodchnal and the other relatives.

Lesson on 'Faith'
Thirteen persons enjoyed religious services Thursday with Rev. and Mrs. Don Wright at the recreation center. Linda Rasmussen was with the Wrights to care for little Chad. Mr. Wright led in singing hymns chosen by the group. He was accompanied by Mrs. Wright on the accordion. Scriptures were read from Genesis 15 and Hebrews 11:8-12. Mrs. Wright gave a nice talk from Eugene Price's book, "Women of the Bible," choosing Sarah. The story was based on the "faith" chapter, Hebrews 11.

To Tennessee
Eva Robertson was heard from during the past week. On Aug. 5 she and her daughter and grandchildren were to go from Rising Sun, Md., to Mountain City, Tenn. to be with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnson. They were parents of Mrs.

Robertson's son-in-law, the late Robert Johnson, who was aboard the submarine Scorpion which disappeared some time ago. Mrs. Robertson, her daughter and grandchildren will be in Tennessee two weeks.

Mrs. Rowbal Better
Inez Swain came Tuesday and took Anna Rowbal to her home for the afternoon and evening. We are glad Anna is improving some.

Back From Pennsylvania
Mildred Anderson went Tuesday to Grand Island with Mrs. Janet Melia, Tad and Dawn to meet Mrs. Bill Andersen, who was returning by plane from Pennsylvania. She had spent two weeks there with relatives.

Watermelons Galore
Mildred Anderson entertained some of her younger friends Wednesday with a watermelon feast. Those present were Deanne and Sherry Zabloudil of Beatrice, Patty Forsberg of Fremont, Anne, Mike and Kathy Zlonke, and Colleen Bennett. They all went to Fort Hartuff during the afternoon, and called on Mrs. Opal Kuklish of Ord on their way home.

At Mink Convention
Mary Cetak was with Georgene and Brian Cetak Sunday while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cetak, attended a mink convention in Kearney.

Released From Hospital
Lillian Daudt and Berenice Cornell visited Tuesday evening at the hospital with Juanita Christian and Lillian's sister, Mrs. Minnie Fenton. They also called at other times during the week to see both.

Personals
Saturday coffee guests of Mary Blaha were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Masin and boys, Lillian Masin and Joan.

Mrs. Ruth Shepard, a sister of Juanita Christian, called Mrs. Cornell from California Friday evening to inquire about her sister's condition. Juanita seems now to be improving. She was released from the hospital Monday after having been there since July 12. Mary Blaha accompanied her home.

Elizabeth Severson's grandson, Richard Severson and two friends, all of Grand Island, spent Saturday with her. Edith Jones enjoyed having her grandson, Bosco Jewett, and Mrs. Florence Jewett of Lincoln with her Saturday for dinner. In the afternoon Dolis Waterman joined them. They took Mrs. Jones for a ride around Ord, which she enjoyed very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pierson of Arcadia came Saturday for her mother, Elsie Rathbun, and took her home with them for a few days. Mrs. Rathbun and her daughter spent Tuesday in Grand Island.

Berenice Cornell's nephews, Lyle and Mike Manchester, of Madison, came Sunday and took her to the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne King. The Kings' daughter, Mrs. Lyle Manchester, was also visiting in her parents' home. The Manchesters returned to Madison Sunday afternoon, and the Kings brought Mrs. Cornell home Monday morning.

Mrs. Gladys Swaneatt and Mrs. Nora Collison came Saturday from Burwell to visit Mena Jorgensen. They had just returned from a trip to Colorado. Their husbands, R. E. Collison and Orrie Swaneatt, stayed at the rodeo in Burwell. Dora Jorgensen came to Mena's to be with the ladies Saturday, and Mr. and Mrs. Steven Beran spent Sunday evening with them. The Collisons and Swaneatts left for their homes at Burwell Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fenton and Mrs. Anna Otto of North Loup were at Lillian Daudt's Saturday. The sisters went to the hospital to see another sister, Mrs. Minnie Fenton.

Richard Blaha telephoned his mother, Mary Blaha, Sunday from Ogallala where the family is vacationing. He wanted to see how his mother was and to say they were having a nice time.

Ord High Graduate Completes Training, Assigned to England

Dr. Donald Beerline, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Beerline of Ord, has completed his medical internship at the Air Force's Wilford Hall Hospital, Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. He and his family will leave in September for permanent assignment to Lakenheath Station, England. The base is operated by the Royal Air Force, but the United States has a unit based there.

A 1959 graduate of Ord High School, Dr. Beerline received his Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Nebraska in 1963. He was awarded a Doctor of Medicine degree in 1967, and is a member of Theta Nu and Phi Kappa Phi medical fraternities.

During a year-long internship at Lackland, Dr. Beerline received classroom and clinical instruction in surgery, internal medicine, obstetrics and gynecology, pediatrics, and otolaryngology.

Wilford Hall Hospital, with 1,000 beds, is the largest Air Force medical facility in the world. Nationally accredited as a teaching hospital, it is a referral center for Air Force patients from throughout the world.

In addition to medical and dental internships, the hospital offers 17 resident specialty and 10 fellowship programs. The teaching staff consists of more than 175 professional military officers and 121 civilian consultants.

Dr. Beerline holds a captain's rank. He and his wife, Joan, have two children. A son, Brentley, is 2 years old; and a daughter, Amy, was born last month.

Geneva is New Location For Dr. Raymond Cronk

Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Cronk are recent newcomers to Geneva where he opened a dentist's office in mid-July.

Dr. Cronk graduated from the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry in 1966 with a DDS in the Navy, being stationed at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif., on the U.S.S. Hentico, and at the Marine Corps Air Station at El Toro, Calif.

Dr. Cronk is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Cronk of Ord. His wife, Jane, is the daughter of the Lynn Chichesters of Ord. The couple have one daughter, Cassandra.

North Loup Church Hosts Leaders of Seventh Day Baptist Organization

National leaders of the Seventh Day Baptist Church attended a number of pre-conference sessions last week in North Loup for delegates participating in this week's general conference of the denomination in Kearney.

The church's six-man committee spent the entire week in North Loup working out plans for the general conference. They were joined Wednesday by the denomination's national planning committee.

Other activities included an evaluation session for "Dedicated Workers," held Monday at Camp Riverview on the North Loup River, and a retreat for young adults which began Wednesday and continued through Saturday. It also was held at Camp Riverview.

Rev. David Clarke of Alfred, N. Y., is president of the general conference which convened Monday on the campus of Kearney State College. It will continue through Saturday.

Mr. Clarke is a former pastor of the North Loup church, having served there from 1961 through 1963. He attended the commission meetings, and he and his family were guests of the Menzo Fuller family during their stay in North Loup.

The commission is composed of six men elected to study, plan, and recommend program and budget requirements to the general conference. Three of the members are ministers, and three are laymen. Each serves a three-year term; however, the terms are staggered so that one minister and one layman are elected each year.

Chairman of this year's commission is Lewis H. V. May of Temple City, Calif. He stayed in North Loup with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sevance, as did two other commission members, Rev. Kenneth Davis of Westley, R. I., and Rev. Paul Osborn of Nortonville, Kan. Mr. Davis was accompanied by his family.

Other members of the commission are Rev. Alton Wheeler of Plainfield, N. J., who is general secretary for the Seventh Day Baptist General Conference and corresponding secretary for the denomination's World Federation; Leland Bond of Clarksburg, W. Va., who is scheduled to preside as president of the general conference next year; and Don Gray of Milton, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler were guests in the Vernon Williams home while in North Loup. They had just returned to the United States after spending six weeks at Seventh Day Baptist conferences in Europe and attending a meeting of the World Council of Churches at Upsalla, Sweden.

They were accompanied to North Loup by Peggy Williams, who was returning home after spending a year as a non-salaried worker for the general conference.

Mr. Bond was a guest of Rev. and Mrs. Duane Davis, and Mr. Gray was quartered with his niece, Mrs. Ronald Goodrich, and family.

The planning committee which convened Wednesday is composed of ministers and laymen who serve as executives of boards and agencies which do the work of the denomination throughout the year.

Members of the committee include Rev. Leon Lawton of Brookfield, N. Y., who is director of evangelism for the Seventh Day Baptists. He had just returned from a trip to Brazil, Guiana, and Mexico.

While in Brazil he attended the Baptist Crusade of the Americas. In North Loup he and his family stayed with Mrs. Lawton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Riley Branon.

Other members of the planning committee are Rev. Rex Zwiebel of Alfred Station, N. Y., who is executive secretary of the Board of Christian Education; Charles North of Plainfield, N. J., president of the American Sabbath Tract Society; and Mrs. Arthur Drake, president of the National Women's Society.

Mr. Zwiebel stayed in North Loup with the Sheldon Van Horns, Mr. North with the Clare Clements, and Mrs. Drake with the George Maxsons.

Approximately 20 youths attended the evaluation session for "Dedicated Workers" which was held Monday and Tuesday. The young people met with directors of the Summer Christian Service Corps to report and evaluate their experiences as summer workers in evangelistic efforts, visitation, vacation Bible schools, camps, etc.

Loup Valley youths who participated in the service corps this year were Bernard Keown of North Loup and Christina Williams of Scotia.

The evaluation session was led by Mrs. Loyal Todd of Fort Atkinson, Wis., and the Messrs. Lawton and Zwiebel.

A former North Loup pastor, Rev. Francis Saunders, directed the pre-conference retreat for young adults. Now of Lost Creek, W. Va., Mr. Saunders was assisted by five other individuals, including Mrs. Genevieve Abel of North Loup. She was in charge of music.

Participants in the various activities joined the North Loup congregation at church services Saturday. A fellowship dinner followed.

The North Loup congregation was also one of six churches acting as hosts for the general conference. The others were from Arkansas, Missouri, and Kansas.

Approximately 500 delegates from 20 states are attending.

This is the 156th annual Seventh Day Baptist General Conference. Kearney churches and public facilities, such as jails and hospitals, are being visited by conference delegates.

Work Starts On Rte. 70

Grading and culvert laying have started on a 3 1/2-mile section of Highway 70 between Ord and Ericson to prepare it for eventual paving.

The grading began Friday at a point approximately 400 feet south of the intersection of Highways 70 and 91, which runs from Burwell to Ericson. The 3 1/2 miles lie in a sandy section of the presently unpaved road; after grading is completed on it, 6 1/2 additional miles will be graded south to the point where the present pavement begins.

The road is closed to all through traffic.

Missouri Valley Construction Co. of Grand Island has the contract for the work. It was let last month for approximately $394,000 with half the money coming from state funds and the other half from federal sources.

Actual paving of the 10 miles of roadway will not take place until next spring or summer. Bob McLean of St. Paul, project engineer for the State Highway Department, said the exact date would depend on the type of winter and spring weather in the area.

He said an expected cutback in state highway spending, due to unexpectedly high costs, will not affect the project since it has already been funded.

Work will continue this fall for about three months, McLean said.

"We'll shoot some oil into the sand section to make it passable for motorists this winter," he said. "That will also give us a chance to work it so it will have some stability."

A bituminous sand surface will be laid on the sand section of the highway. It will provide a surface identical to that on Highway 91 going east out of Burwell, McLean said.

A soil aggregate base with a double-armor coat will be installed on the rest of the road. When completed, it will be similar to that portion of Highway 70 north-east of Ord which is already paved, McLean explained.

In addition to the actual road work, utility companies have been busy stringing and burying new electrical wires and telephone cables.

Both REA and the Consumers Public Power District 647 of Loup City have electrical lines paralleling the right-of-way. Both are in the process of moving their lines back from previous locations.

Gene Van Winkle of the Ord office of REA said a heavy-duty aluminum wire is being installed in place of the old copper one. He said there should be little if any change in service to power customers in the area, and that they would not experience any appreciable loss of power when the company switches from the old lines to the new ones.

General Telephone and Rodeo Telephone of Burwell have underground phone cables paralleling the right-of-way. They are being relaid farther back, since the existing cable will probably be cut by the grading.

Mack Construction Co. of Columbus is doing the cable work with assistance from local telephone employees.

The new cable is larger than the old and could provide greater service to customers, said Marv Mack of the installing company.

"With this new wire some people in the area could have private phones," he stated.

Another characteristic of the new cable makes service possible even though the primary line might be out of order. Since the new cable contains six separate lines inside a copper sheath, the load would switch automatically to one of the five alternates if the primary went bad.

Residents will not be without phone service for more than three or four minutes at the most when the switch from old to new cables takes place, he said. However, even so, the switch will occur after midnight so it will disrupt customers as little as possible, he stated.

The new cable is being buried at an average depth of 44 inches, Mack explained.

Syl Boro of Ord helps survey route for new REA line.

Fresh Efforts Underway To Acquire New Building for Mentally Retarded

A new effort to secure a school for the mentally retarded in Ord was launched last week.

Forty-one persons representing 11 communities in the area served by Educational Unit 12 met Wednesday in Kearney to map out a course of action. The idea is to develop an overall plan for meeting the needs of the trainable mentally retarded in the Central Nebraska area. Those persons attending the meeting voted to recommend to the state legislature that a school be built not only in Ord, but in Cozad as well. In addition, an attempt will be made to convert the state tuberculosis hospital at Kearney into a training institution for mentally retarded.

As envisioned, the schools at

Ord and Cozad would provide training for younger, aged mentally retarded, possibly up to 18 years of age. This way the children could be trained while remaining at home.

When they reach 16 years of age, the students would be transferred to the Kearney institution where they would be taught a vocational skill. If they showed the necessary aptitude, they could then be helped in achieving a job with industry. If they appeared to be unsuited for such work, they would continue to be cared for in the Kearney institution and provided with suitable work there.

The meeting was initiated by the Lexington Chamber of Commerce. The Kearney chamber's education committee also joined in sponsoring it.

County commissioners from Dawson and Buffalo counties, plus representatives of the Cozad Town Council, Kearney State College, and school officials from 10 of the 11 towns were present. Ord was not represented at the meeting. However, Howard Paulsen, who has been associated with local efforts to secure a new building, said he was aware of the plan.

The group recommended that the Ord, Cozad, and Kearney institutions all be under one administration so that greater unity could be attained.

A committee will be appointed to meet with Don Duncan, director of state institutions, to go over the state plan which is now being formulated.

Dr. Barton Kline, director of Educational Service Units 12 and 13, said Duncan and possibly Governor Norbert Tiemann will be invited to meet with representatives of towns in Service Units 11, 12, and 13.

Both Ord and Cozad have offered building sites, and have pledged financial support.

Ord was turned down last week in an attempt to go on its own in acquiring a building. The federal government refused to allow $21,200 which Ord officials had requested.

Inquest Ordered Into Aug. 14 Death Of Former Resident

A coroner's inquest into the death of Mrs. Phyllis Davis of Grand Island was directed Tuesday morning in the Hall County district courtroom.

Mrs. Davis, 29, was found dead alone in a car early Aug. 14 at a T-type intersection east of Grand Island. Preliminary reports by the state patrol said that a meat cutting machine in the back of the auto apparently struck Mrs. Davis in the back of the head and killed her when the auto struck a tree at the dead end. Reports of an autopsy performed Monday afternoon have not been disclosed. Evidence of the case will be presented to a jury of six persons, to determine the cause of Mrs. Davis' death and whether or not a crime has been committed.

Mrs. Davis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lee, was born Dec. 2, 1938, at St. Paul. As a child she moved with her parents to Ord where she graduated from high school. She later attended Kearney State College and worked in Lincoln. On May 30, 1968, she married Thomas F. Davis at St. Paul. Their home was in Lincoln until moving to Grand Island seven years ago.

Survivors are her husband; seven children, Talje, Becky, Tommy, Joseph, Robbie, Annie and Timothy; her parents of St. Paul; a sister, Mrs. Gene Ewers of Grand Island and two brothers Francis of Freehole, N. J., and Jack stationed at Ft. Brucker, Ala.

Services for Mrs. Davis were held Friday morning at St. Mary's Cathedral in Grand Island.

Quintet of Loup Valley Students Receive Degrees From Kearney

Five area students, headed by Jerry Ulrich of Ord, received degrees Aug. 9 at summer graduation exercises for Kearney State College.

Ulrich received a Master of Science in Education degree. The other four received bachelor's degrees. They were Mrs. Kathleen Ehresman of Ord, Roland Joe Hoppes of Burwell, and Linda Schneider of Loup City, all receiving Bachelor of Arts in Education degrees; and Cyril The- one of Burwell, a Bachelor of Science graduate.

A 1957 graduate of Ord High School, Ulrich is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ulrich. He received a BA in Education last year from Kearney. Both his graduate and undergraduate majors were English.

Ulrich and his family moved recently to North Platte where he will teach English in the junior college this fall. His wife, Sonja, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hanks of Burwell, and they have one daughter, Heather, 2 1/2.

Mrs. Ehresman's degree capped 16 years of work. She was able to attend school only during the summer sessions. However, she did an extensive amount of correspondence and off-campus work.

She received her degree one year after her youngest daughter, Mrs. Marilyn Anglin, received hers. Her daughter's husband is in the Air Force and is just reporting for a new assignment to Westover Air Force Base, Mass. He will serve temporary duty on Guam for six months.

The Travel Brochures Never Mentioned Anything Like This, But Ord Residents Took It in Stride

Mrs. Wilma Johnson started the planned portion of an all-expenses-paid vacation by cleaning up her own $95-a-day room, and ended it by almost getting stoned. But as far as she's concerned, those events "just added frosting to the cake."

Friends had kidded the Ord resident for a month about her plane winding up in Cuba. Thus it was with a big sigh of relief that she felt the jetliner set down at its planned destination—San Juan International Airport, Puerto Rico.

Little did Mrs. Johnson know that she was walking into a hornet's nest more exciting than anything she would have found in Havana.

With her son Danny, Wilma was on a five-day vacation, courtesy of American Motors Rambler. Her son and husband, who are partners in Johnson Motors of Ord, had won the trip because of their outstanding sales record during a 60-day period ending July 1. Her husband, Rollie, had stayed behind to take care of the business while his wife and son frolicked in the Caribbean sun. The excursion began innocently enough as the Johnsons and approximately 250 other Rambler guests arrived at the El Conquistador Hotel, one of Puerto Rico's most lavish and most beautiful. However, that was one of the few things that would be routine during the next 48 hours.

When the group arrived at life hotel, they were informed that their employees had gone on strike that day and 700 of them had not shown up for work. Thus the guests would have to clean up their own rooms and make their own beds.

"Things were a mess," Wilma explained. "The beds weren't made, and there were wet towels strewn all about the place. But I just started gathering them up and putting them away. It didn't bother me a bit."

"Some of those people threw a ring-tailed fit, though," she remembered.

After things had been straightened up a bit, a brief survey of the hotel revealed that it was built in three sections—one right next to the sea, another halfway up a short mountain, and a third at the top of the mountain. The Johnsons were quartered in the middle section.

While the tri-level arrangement made for beautiful scenery, it was to pose some frightening moments for the Johnsons as well as other tourists. For the sea-level chalet was the only one that could be reached by vehicle; to get to and from the others guests had to either ride a cable car or go by helicopter.

And that, they were to find, would be a very dangerous venture indeed.

The Rambler group arrived at the hotel on a Sunday, and other than the inconvenience of making their own beds, eating cafeteria-style off paper plates, etc., the first day was fairly calm. It was spent participating in the usual tourist activities which consisted mostly of swimming. The hotel had four regular swimming pools and one salt water one, which was lined with rocks to keep out the sharks.

The atmosphere grew tenser, however, on the second day. By that time word had seeped down to the Americans revealing what the strike was all about.

It seemed that large groups such as Rambler gave one big tip which was divided among the workers. The laborers felt that too much was being taken out for the executive help—maitre d's, chief chefs, etc. Thus, the revolt.

"We should have guessed things were more serious than they appeared when General Motors pulled its group out and headed for the Bahamas," Wilma remarked. (GM had a group similar to Rambler's there, but altered its planned schedule on Monday when the strike had not been settled.) "The paying guests started leaving that day too," she recalled.

Wilma also noticed that the hotel guards were wearing guns on Monday, and they had altered the day before. They appeared to be guarding the hotel water system and the swimming pools in particular, she said.

They had also set up some huge spotlights.

But the real seriousness of the situation was not brought home until she tried to call her husband in Ord. The previous night she had not been able to get through, and again on Monday she could make no headway.

Suddenly she realized the reason—the lines had been cut.

"That's when I really started to get worried," Wilma recalled. "I thought that if they cut the lines on the cable car we might never get off that mountain. And if they cut them while we were in it, we'd wind up in a heap at the bottom of the mountain. The car was just a plastic bubble. By that time too, the inexperienced help which the hotel was using to operate the cable car had torn both doors off it."

Meanwhile, the helicopter had ceased to operate. It had been used to bring food in for a while, but then the strikers began taking potshots at it.

"I think they must have been taking someone in or out that the strikers didn't like," Wilma explained.

Word also reached the tourists that a sea captain had been stabbed by strikers as he attempted to smuggle a hotel official out from the bottom chalet by boat.

"I never heard if he was killed or not," Mrs. Johnson stated. Finally, on Tuesday the Rambler executives decided it was time to make a break. By noon they had managed to get their group all down to the bottom hotel, although six of them had been forced to climb part-way down the mountain when the strikers did indeed cut the cable on the cable car. Fortunately, however, a safety catch kept the car from falling and they were able to scramble out without injury—except for the strain on their nerves.

As the busses passed through the front entrance to the hotel grounds, the tourists were forced to lay down on the floors to avoid being struck by rocks. The strikers did break some bus windows.

Other signs of destruction were also visible. The elaborate front gates to the hotel grounds had been burned, a beautiful house on the golf course was set afire, and 200 chaise lounges were dumped into the sea.

"It makes me sick when I think of what they may have done to that beautiful hotel," Mrs. Johnson said.

Finally, on Tuesday the Rambler executives decided it was overly excited about what was happening.

"We were confident it was just a local problem and not a general overthrow of the country or anything like that," she said. "In fact, they kept telling us it was just local—but they kept saying it in Spanish so we weren't really too sure."

After leaving the place, she pretty much forgot about it and enjoyed the rest of her vacation.

"I did hear that the National Guard went in after we left," she said, "but I don't know how much damage was done to the hotel or if any of the 60 employees who didn't strike or their families was injured."

"While we were up there, though, those Rambler executives sure had some worried looks on their faces," she said. "We could tell they were really straining to have a good time."

Wilma described the rest of the vacation as enjoyable although pretty tame stuff after the first three days. She said the second hotel, the San Juan Darlington, was just as beautiful as the first although older. "It had several rooms covered with pure copper and one with all-leather walls," she said. All the buildings there are made of cement because of the lizards, cock roaches, and termites, she added.

"There's no middle class," she said in describing the economic condition of the people. "They're all very, very poor, or else they're well-to-do."

One of the most vivid impressions was left by the bus drivers. "They certainly haven't had any driver's ed," she stated. "Danny just covered his eyes any time we had to ride the bus. If they couldn't get by on the street, they'd just drive up on the sidewalk."

"Whoever had the loudest horn had the right-of-way," she said.

A scarcity of schools also stood out. "We saw many big beautiful hotels and casinos," she said, "but no schools."

"The whole trip really made me appreciate my nice peaceful town of Ord," she concluded. "There were quite a few times when I wished I were right here in my own backyard."

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

As soon as a child is named, it seems to acquire a nickname. Friends and relatives seem to resent addressing anyone with a name of more than two syllables. One syllable is preferred — Bill for William, Tom for Thomas and Reg for Reginald.

Of all names, Elizabeth may be the most derivatives. I am thinking of Liz, Lizzie, Betty, Bess, Beth and even Ellie.

Clarence is a tough name to shorten, although I do know of one with that name who is addressed as Al while another is called Pete.

How many are called "Butch"? There's Melvin, Harold and Bob to be sure. "Dee" is a rather common short name for Deanne and Delores, and Addie seems a lot simpler to say than Adeline.

Possibly you readers can help me expand this subject.

As a variation of plain chicken, the barbecued variety will interest you to a meal. For this oven barbecued chicken simply combine 3 T. catsup, 2 T. Worcestershire sauce, 3 T. brown sugar, 4 T. water, juice of one lemon, 1 t. mustard, 1 t. paprika, 1 t. chili powder, dash of red pepper and garlic salt. Simmer until blended. Season one cut-up frying chicken with salt and pepper. Dip in sauce and place in aluminum foil-lined pan. Pour remaining sauce over chicken and cover completely with foil. Bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes, then cook at 325 for one hour or until chicken is tender.

Mrs. Guy Mulligan tells that John Wainwright was in the high school graduating class at Baldwinville, N.Y. with her granddaughter, Christina Halligan. John is the grandson of Mrs. Evert Smith, formerly of Ord, who now makes her home with a daughter, Mildred Campbell, in Missouri. John's graduation gift from his grandmother was a family heirloom — the watch belonging to the late Evert Smith.

It was nice to hear that not one piece of the elegant china and crystal treasured so by Jan Gunnels was broken when the moving van that carried their personal belongings from Ord last May toppled over in a ditch. The Gunnels are now getting settled at their new location, Fort Benning, Ga., where Capt. David Gunnels is stationed. Jan writes relatives that their sofa and living room tables were damaged in the upset but have been repaired to look like new; however, the washer and dryer are somewhat chipped. Best of all, though, the treasures from Germany that couldn't easily be replaced won't have to be!

Luther Burban in his book "Recreation" states: "Every child should have mudpies, grasshoppers, waterbugs, tadpoles, frogs, mud turtles, elderberries, wild strawberries, acorns, trees to climb, brooks to wade in, water lilies, woodchucks, bats, bees, butterflies, various animals to pet, hay fields, pine cones, rocks to roll, sand, snakes, huckleberries and hornets; and any child who has been deprived of this has been deprived of the best part of his education."

Calling all cooks... why not take five minutes today to jot down a favorite recipe and mail it to me or drop it by my desk the next time you're downtown. Let's keep those recipes coming!

Frank Madsens Married for 50 Years; Golden Wedding Noted With Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Madsen observed their golden wedding anniversary with an open house celebration Sunday afternoon. About 140 relatives and friends helped them mark this special event by greeting them at the Veterans Club between the hours of 2 and 3 p.m. Greeting guests with the honorees were their daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. O. W. Miller, and grandchildren Bill, Bob, Judy, Sue and Jon Miller. The serving table was attractively decorated with a gold covering and white net overlay accented by felt and pearls. An open book anniversary cake, frosted white with gold trim, centered the table. Various reception duties were performed by the couple's grandchildren. Judy Miller poured coffee, Sue Miller served punch, and Jon Miller served cake and ice cream. Bob Miller presided at the guest book. The Madsens hosted a dinner at the club following the reception for members of the immediate family and friends.

Karen Goble-Richard Osenowski Wed In Double Ring Ceremonies, Saturday

In a candlelight ceremony, Saturday, at 7 p.m., Karen Elaine Goble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon F. Goble of Beatrice, became the bride of Richard Alan Osenowski, son of Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Osenowski of Ord. Father John Scott of Kearney solemnized the double ring ceremony before the altar in the Christian Center Chapel at Kearney.

Bride Karen Elaine

Candlelighters were Mary Olson of Minden and Penny French of Norfolk. The nuptial music included two vocal solos, "Some-where" and "The Lord's Prayer." Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride appeared wearing a white gown of Irish Linen featuring a jewel neckline with stand-up band of Guisane lace studded with applique. The trim was repeated around the armholes and across the front in triangular motif. The floor length skirt widened from the empire bodice forming a court train. Shades of pink and coral Anthrums arranged among white feathered mums made up her bridal bouquet.

More Races Are Scheduled at Sherman Sunday.

Son Shows Father Up as Markley Boat Stays Afloat in Sherman Sailing Regatta

Dr. Murray Markley turned things over to the younger generation in the most recent sailboat regatta held at Sherman Reservoir, and it proved a change for the better. Dr. Markley had upset his Sea-Snark two weeks previously in a Class IV race. His son, Tim, took the helm at the latest races and not only kept the craft upright—he sailed it to a first-place finish in its class. Robert Henderson of Lincoln also pulled a major surprise with his undersized Snipe in the second race for Class I boats. Class I is reserved for the larger craft, while Henderson's boat ordinarily competes in Class III. Seven boats were entered in the race, and Henderson finished third after leading a part of the distance. Fifteen boats participated in the regatta, which was the third of the summer. Winds were gusty, ranging up to 12 knots; however, there were no upsets.

Two races were conducted in each division except Class IV. The next regatta will be held Sunday. Complete results: Class I (Two Races) 1st — Phil Van Nester, Brewster, "Sunlight," both races; 2nd — Hiel Jim Mayer, Grand Island, "Celebrity 570," 2nd and 3rd; Bill French, Ord, "Celebrity 571," 3rd and 2nd; 4th — Gary Wilson, Hastings, "Celebrity 612," both races; 5th — Harold Dorse, Loup City, "Celebrity 611," both races; 6th — Clark Caley, Ord, "Ford 20," one race only. Class II (Two Races) 1st — Dr. Robert Munch, Grand Island, "M-20," both races; 2nd — Dr. Bradley Woodruff, "A Sea Lion," both races. Class III (Two Races) 1st — Bob Henderson, Lincoln, "Snipe," both races; 2nd — Kim Dorsey, Loup City, both races. Class IV (Two Races) 1st — Tim Markley, Ord, "Sea-Snark," 2nd — Tim Zikmund, Grand Island, "Sea-Snark," 3rd — Charles Zangger, North Loup, "Sea-Snark," 4th — Sarah Mayer, Grand Island, "Sea-Snark," 5th — Vern Webb, Grand Island, "Sea-flute."

Scotia Resting Up; Wood River-Greeley Series Drawn Out

Regaining its early season form, Scotia raced past Boelus in two straight games and was awaiting the winner of last night's contest between Greeley and Wood River to settle the Sherman-Howard League playoff championship. Scotia dumped Boelus, 10-8, last week to end their two-game series quickly. The victors had won the first game, 17-3. In the other playoff series regular-season champ Wood River had its hands full with Greeley. After winning the first game, 2-1, Wood River was beaten Sunday, 4-2. The two teams were to meet Wednesday night at Cairo in the deciding contest. Dan Callahan pitched his way through several rough spots to get credit for the Greeley victory. He had eighth-inning help from Ray Scott. Wood River won 1-0 Monday. Mrs. Murray won 1-0. Dr. Murray won 1-0. Greeley won 1-0. Wood River won 1-0. Darwin Heinricks, Tom Stuckey (7) and Galen Lambrecht; Dan Callahan, Ray Scott (8) and Mike Mackin. WP—Callahan. LP—Heinricks. HR—None.

Local Pair Tops Two-Ball Play

Local golfers J. B. Ferguson and Eunice Markley teamed to win Sunday's two-ball foursome at the Ord Municipal Course. They carded a low score of 39. Hosts were Dr. and Mrs. Murray Markley and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ferguson. Other prizes were awarded to the following: Wayne Johnson of California and Laura McBride of Broken Bow, high score; Eric Ericson and Charlene Clement, Ord, fewest putts; Larry Johnson, Loup City, and Mary Osentowski, Oakland, most putts; Russell Stevens and Wilma Ericson, Ord, high score on one hole; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Johnson, Stockton, Calif., golfers farthest from home.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones of North Loup drove to Sutton Sunday to attend the golden wedding open house honoring Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Nolte, held in the Federated Church parlors. En route, the Jones couple called on Mr. and Mrs. Don Nelson in Inland and later dined in Clay Center at The Crossroads Steak House.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Mach and Russell and Sam Drawbridge attended the Drawbridge reunion at the home of Mary York in Omaha Sunday. In addition to Sam, his brothers Joe, Pete and Elmer and sisters Mary and Fern and their families were present. The family also telephoned a sister, Mrs. Bud Beck in Missouri, during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Altheson and three grandsons of Wakeeney, Kan., were guests over the weekend of Mrs. R. L. Long and Mr. and Mrs. Don Long. They and the Don Longs attended the rodeo Sunday at Bartlett.

Cut-Back on Highway Improvements Anticipated Soon by State Engineer

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.
LINCOLN — State Engineer John Hossack reports the Nebraska highway development program will have to be cut 15 to 20 percent between now and next June 30.

The reduction will result from higher than anticipated construction costs and new federal safety standards. Projects affected by the cut-back will be included in the 1969-71 roadbuilding program, Hossack said. "They will be deferred, not forgotten," he stated. Hossack said construction costs on primary and secondary roads are running $4.3 million above expected levels so far this biennium.

"To date we have let 48 percent of the work scheduled, but have obligated 50 percent of the funds available," he said. "This compares with about 50 percent of the scheduled time elapsed." Hossack said the highway development program calls for the improvement of 264 miles of highway between now and next June 30. But, he added, the $27.9 million budgeted for the work will fall short of meeting actual construction costs.

"It is probably safe to assume that to complete all of the work scheduled we will need at least $9 million more than presently available, even if all federal fund cutbacks are released," Hossack said. "This means that the letting of at least that much scheduled work will have to be deferred until the next biennium."

Additionally, the state engineer said, about $4 million in interstate work must be delayed. Improvement of 72 miles costing an estimated $55 million had been planned for the 1967-69 period. Hossack said the financial dilemma is a case of construction costs going up while available funds remain the same.

"Safety standards required by federal legislation have increased the cost of construction greatly," he said. "These standards provide that heavily traveled routes must be constructed with a 20-foot 'clear' zone next to the paving. This means no obstructions such as trees, bridge abutments, lighting standards, or sign posts within 30 feet of the pavement edge unless adequately protected with guard rail."

"Moreover," Hossack said, "there is every indication that construction prices will continue to increase. This means that it will continue to require more funds year by year to provide the same amount of improvement."

Hossack said the future outlook regarding the availability of federal funds for highway work is not bright. He said part of the $6 billion budget cutback ordered by Congress is sure to filter down to the states. "There is no information yet as to how much of this cutback will affect Nebraska but we are not optimistic," he said. "It is this type of uncertainty in highway financing that makes it most difficult to schedule improvements with any degree of continuity."

Hossack said he will keep both the governor and the legislature closely advised of any federal highway fund reductions so they can plan accordingly.

Consolidation Recommended
Consolidation of the Motor Vehicles Department, Highway Patrol, and Accident Records Bureau into a new state department of public safety has been recommended by Nebraska's "Little Hoover" Commission.

The commission, a businessmen's group appointed by Gov. Norbert Tiemann, said the reorganization would eliminate duplication within the agencies and save taxpayer dollars.

The new department would be headed by a director appointed by the governor with consent of the legislature. There would be separate divisions for law enforcement and record-keeping. Presently the Highway Patrol and Accident Records Bureau are under the State Roads Department. The commission said this arrangement does not lend itself to efficient governmental operation as neither agency has much to do with highway construction.

"For greater efficiency, all functions relating to motor vehicle registration, control and safety should be combined into one department," the commission said.

Requirements for the public safety director should be set by law to assure "competent professional leadership" in the new department, the study unit added.

Tiemann announced last January that he would sponsor legislation in the 1963 session of the Unicameral to merge the three agencies, so the commission's proposal came as no real surprise.

Likewise there was nothing revealing in the recommendation that an electronic data processing system be established for all drivers licenses, registrations, motor vehicle titles, and financial responsibility records.

But there were some suggested changes not heretofore mentioned: issuance of motor vehicle license plates on a three instead of two-year basis, and elimination of the Motor Vehicles Department's accountant and financial responsibility field man. The commission estimated these actions would save $34,200 a year in tax funds.

The commission also released its study findings on the Roads and Aeronautics Departments. The Roads Department survey generally embraced management changes proposed earlier by outside consultants that conducted a two-year study of the highway agency. This included es-establishment of controls to monitor the expenditure of state money on roads built by the counties and cities.

"Legislation should be sought immediately which would provide a method of safe-guarding funds allocated to cities and counties for maintaining and constructing roads," the commission said. "A lack of control at the present time prevents follow-up of funds allocated to the county and city governments."

The major Aeronautics Department recommendation called for creation of a state aircraft pool, with the aeronautics agency in charge of all state-owned planes. Presently the department controls only two planes. Various state agencies have their own craft and pilots. The commission said this is unwieldy and costly.

Report $405 Annual Fuel Savings with LP-Gas

According to recent studies by Research Digest, a home which used LP-Gas for heating, cooking, water heating, and clothes drying can operate $405 less expensively than an "all-electric" home each year.

Using the values 2.5¢/kwh for electricity and 20¢/gal. for LP-Gas, the Digest projected a $8,100 savings, with LP-Gas, over a 20-year span.

Also, the added merits of "instant heat," faster water heater recovery and overall dependability are frequently attributed to gas homes.

Complete cost information is available from LP-Gas dealers and appliance outlets.

LP-Gas is piped directly to this area by a division of MAPCO — the Mid-America Pipeline System — the underground highway weather can't block.

Discover Nebraska: This Week, The State's Northwest

By Gene Kemper, Publisher
The Alliance Times - Herald

The Nebraska Petroleum Council is suggesting that Nebraskans see Nebraska first — and after living in both ends and the middle of the state, I'm suggesting that Nebraskans haven't seen the scenic best of their state until they've visited the Northwest.

To really see the Northwest, a family could spend an entire two-week vacation out this way. But to fall into line with a two-week schedule that might include all of the state, here's a suggested five-day route that would enter the area at Ogallala off Interstate 80.

Ogallala — See Front Street and Lake McConaughy and then drive up U.S. 26 to U.S. 385 and into Alliance for the night.

Alliance — See the Knight Museum, second largest municipal museum in Nebraska, and play golf, swim and picnic at City Park. Drive east from Alliance on Highway 2 to Lakeside, turn north on Ruth Hooper Road through one of the most beautiful valleys in the sand hills to Smith Lake, and then east to Highway 27 and north to Gordon through Sandoz Country. Visit the new Marie Sandoz Museum south of Gordon.

Gordon — Visit the park and modern swimming pool, and then go west on Highway 20.

Rushville — Visit Sheridan County Museum and the fine park and swimming pool. Continue west to Hay Springs where there also is a swimming pool and park on the highway.

Chadron — Visit Museum of the Fur Trade east of the city and spend the night. Visit beautiful Chadron State Park, six miles south, and growing Chadron State College at the southern extremity of the city. Continue west on Highway 20.

Fort Robinson — Plan to spend at least two days in this Crawford area. Don't fail to take a horseback ride along the buttes, a stagecoach ride around the fort, and a hayrack ride to the steak fry up Soldier Creek Valley. And don't fail to visit Toddstock Park, Rimrock, the U.S. Fish Hatchery at Crawford, the park and swimming pool, Fort Robinson's museums, and the Crazy Horse Monument. If you're a fisherman, ask about a place to wet your line on Soldier Creek or the White River. Continue west on Highway 20.

Harrison — A visit to the state high school rodeo grounds north of town and a drive through historic Soubelly Canyon nearby are worth two hours of any traveler's time. Turn south at Harrison on Highway 29.

Agate — Visit the state's only remaining Class A post office, operated by Postmistress Margaret Cook, widow of the late Dr. Harold Cook, famous paleontologist. The big white ranch house is the original home of Dr. Cook's father, famous Indian scout James Cook, confidant of many chiefs, including Red Cloud and Bull Knife. Two miles to the east, down a beautiful Niobrara River Valley, are two hills, University and Carnegie, which contain some of the most precious mammal fossils ever found on the American continent. This will be the scene of the $3 million project to be known as the Agate Fossil Beds National Monument. Five trailers are at the site now as the U.S. National Park Service is engaged in building roads, picnic grounds and other permanent facilities, including a museum for the pioneer treasures of Captain and Doctor Cook. Continue south on Highway 29 to Mitchell, and then east on Highway 26 to Scottsbluff.

Scottsbluff — The area around Scottsbluff has many interesting places to visit including: the Scottsbluff National Monument at the southwest edge of the city from which the North Platte Valley is visible for many miles; Chimney Rock, near Bayard, a famous landmark on the old Oregon Trail, whose travelers left tracks in the area which are still discernible in the hilly terrain; Lake Minatare, a fishing and boating resort within easy access; and the Wildcat Hills, south of Gering on Highway 71.

Valley County Enlistees Prefer Navy this Month

The U. S. Navy outnumbered the other military services this month with four enlistments from Valley County.

Three of the enlistees entered the Naval Reserve. They were Phillip VanHorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlyn VanHorn; Thomas Urbanski, son of Mrs. Adeline Urbanski; and Richard Krahulik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Krahulik. Roger Grotzinger, son of Mrs. Olive Grotzinger, enlisted for Navy recruit training at San Diego, Calif.

Other selective service business included a discharge from the Army Reserve for Paul Martin, son of Rev. and Mrs. Allen Martin, release from active duty with the Navy for Gerald Konkoleski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Konkoleski; and an enlistment in the Marine Corps Reserve for Roman Urbanski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Urbanski.

In addition, three youths were inducted into the Army this month. They were Alan Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Smith; David Augustyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Augustyn; and Daryl Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Jones. All entered basic training at Fort Lewis, Wash.

The local board's physical call is for two men in September. No induction quota has been received.

Horn said Captain Harman and his wife plan to attend graduate school in Madison, Wis. He is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

His wife taught in Wheatland while he was overseas. Mrs. Van Horn said her daughter, son-in-law, the Robert Harman, live on a ranch "in a lovely home." Her daughter teaches second grade in the Wheatland schools, and her son-in-law teaches in the high school.

"We went recently to their cabin about 40 miles from here," she wrote. "The view of Laramie Peak was so pretty, and Bob caught a nice mess of trout." Mrs. Van Horn has lived for a number of years with her son, Mills Hill, in North Loup. She originally planned to stay in Wyoming about six months.

Mrs. Ralph Wiberg was back at her work at the QUIZ, Wednesday morning, after a short vacation. Sunday, Mrs. Wiberg, accompanied by Mrs. John Piskorski and family, drove to Fremont where she was an overnight guest in the Piskorski home. Mrs. Piskorski and youngsters had spent the past week in Ord with her parents and other relatives. Monday, Mr. Wiberg went to Omaha to visit a son, Don Wiberg and family. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Distefano and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jordan were also evening dinner guests. She returned home Tuesday.

Services Held Thursday For Pete Hollander

Peter Jensen Hollander, former resident of Ord, died at his home in Omaha, Aug. 12.

Mr. Hollander was born in Visby, Denmark, Mar. 6, 1893 and came to America when he was 18 years old. His home was in Ord until 1956 when he and his family moved to 2324 N. 66th St., Omaha. He was united in marriage to Eva Plejdrip, Mar. 6, 1921. To this union five children were born.

Survivors are his wife; a daughter Eileen at home; two sons, Glendell of Brooks and Cylvan of Clovis, N. M.; a brother Julius of Long Beach, Calif., and five grandsons. He was preceded in death by two infant daughters.

Funeral services were held Thursday in Omaha. Interment was in the West Lawn Cemetery in Omaha with military rites.

Congressman DAVE MARTIN Reports

Foreign Aid

The annual foreign aid authorization bill passed the House on July 18. The total amount in the bill, after all amendments were offered, was $1,993,925,000. The press has stated that this was a reduction of $1 billion. It was a reduction in that amount only from what President Johnson requested in his budget. The actual reduction from the amount appropriated for foreign aid last year was slightly over $300 million.

The appropriation bill is still to come to the floor of the House for consideration, and it is expected to be 400 to 500 million dollars less than the authorization bill.

Slightly over $5 billion of unspent funds from previous appropriations is available to carry on this program. As a consequence, an amendment was offered for a one-year authorization on new money for foreign aid. I supported the amendment, but it was defeated on the floor. I voted against the entire bill.

At a time when this country faces financial peril, when federal taxes have just been increased by $12 billion a year, and when the President and Congress have promised a $6 billion cut in spending, it seems to me that a continuation of foreign aid at this time is a betrayal of the American people.

"Insurrection" City

When "Insurrection" City was operating down on the mall, it had its own police force known as the "Tent City Rangers," and these non-descripts were a law unto themselves. Robberies and rapes were common. The police seldom were allowed to set foot inside the enclosure, even though it was on federal property. Now it is revealed that John Peterson, Negro chief of the "Tent City Rangers," is being held on bond in Washington for the gun-point robberies of two restaurants.

Food Stamps

The House Agriculture Committee has reported out an extension of the food stamp program. The committee included in the bill a prohibition against issuing food stamps to college students and strikers.

I spoke on the floor of the House in regard to food stamps being issued to college students by welfare offices, and I also testified before the committee at their hearings. We have at most 100 federal programs in the field of education. The food stamp program is supposed to be for the poor — not another aid to education.

Adjournment

It was hoped that Congress would be able to adjourn by tomorrow, Aug. 2. The House will complete action on most major legislation by that date, but it appears that the Senate will not complete its work. Consequently, Congress will be in recess during the month of August, and will return Sept. 4 to complete the session.

Cleo Stiger exposes still smouldering ruins after a fire destroyed a chicken house about 2:00 Wednesday A.M. on the Frank Novak farm west of Ord. Over 100 chickens were also destroyed by the blaze and the roof of a nearby tractor shed was damaged. The Ord Fire Department was also one of seven companies answering a call early Sunday morning at the Barnhart Implement Co. in Sargent. The building and contents were completely destroyed. Ord Fire Chief Ivan Sorenson said faulty wiring was blamed as the cause of both blazes.

Popcorn Days 2 1/2 Weeks Away

Plans are nearing the completion stage for Popcorn Days at North Loup, to be held Sept. 9, 10, and 11.

Free popcorn and stage shows will again be an integral part of the festivities. There will also be parades all three days, as well as concerts by the North Loup-Scottia, Ord, and Sargent bands. Advance ticket sales for the carnival which appears as a part of the celebration are now on sale at all North Loup business houses. The price for children 12 and under is seven rides for $1.

Transfer Ruled Out For Catholic Pupils

Seventh and eighth graders from St. Mary's Catholic School will continue to attend the church school this year.

Consideration was given at a meeting of parents Monday night to transfer the students to the Ord public schools because of the large number of pupils now enrolled in the Catholic school. However, one of those attending, Don Blaha, said no changes will be made this year.

A decision was delayed on a suggestion to organize a lay school board. Blaha said another meeting will be held, probably next week, to consider the matter further.

Son of Local Couple Now Resident Surgeon

Dr. Jim Hamsa, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Hamsa of Ord, completed his internship at Charity Hospital in New Orleans, La., earlier this summer. He is now a resident in orthopedic surgery there.

The younger Dr. Hamsa is a 1967 graduate of the University of Nebraska School of Medicine.

It's a Girl!
Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Klein of Callaway are the parents of a daughter born July 26. The 7-pound 4-ounce miss has been named Annette Renee.

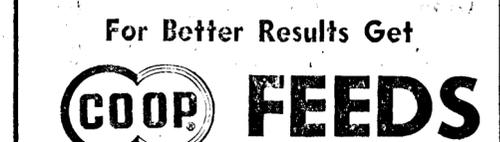

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edd Klein of Merna and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ptacnik of North Platte. The Ptacniks are former Valley County residents.

Like cattle and sheep, the white-tailed deer has four stomachs for digesting food.

School Report

Wider Range of Development for Math Students, Better Prepared Science Instructors Suggested

(Editor's Note: This is the sixth of a series of articles explaining in depth the findings of a 15-man delegation which examined the Ord School System Apr. 30 - May 2. The men were from the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and the Nebraska State Department of Education. This week's special areas of concern are mathematics and science.)

Mathematics
The evaluators liked the way Ord's math department is keeping up with changing times through modern course content and topic development, but they prefer more versatility in the program.

They suggested a three-level course of development, one accelerated level that will produce students who will be a year ahead of their contemporaries by the time they reach the 12th grade, one which will require work on a fairly even keel at about the pace now required of all students and one which will benefit the slow learners and bring them to a learning level one year below the regular group by the time they reach the 12th grade.

To be effective, such a program would have to be set up so that students enter it at the seventh or ninth grade.

The evaluators feel it is desirable not only because of differences in learning abilities of individual students, but also because of the variant quality of elementary schooling children receive at the different rural institutions.

If a three-level program cannot be worked out, they suggested a two-level one be tried.

Such an elaborate set-up would not be feasible with Ord's present staffing, Darrell Kremke said last week. He is a teacher in the Ord High math department.

"I feel our present Math 4 course for seniors is pretty well advanced," he said. "I don't think more than two or three students per senior class could handle anything higher than it."

Students are now tested as they enter the ninth grade, Kremke said, and advised to take either algebra or general math.

"This produces some devaluation," he said, "and allows the slower student to take a route somewhat different from that of his more capable or advanced classmate.

"Besides," he added, "we just don't have the staff to do much more than we're already doing. We added one new course last year on business problems, and I think that gives us a pretty fair curriculum."

The course on business problems covers such things as stocks and bonds, insurance, etc. It had an enrollment of 27 students last year.

Speaking of the Ord program's modernistic aspects, which they liked, the evaluators said, "Modern trends in course content and topic development are in evidence in nearly all texts used and in the instruction."

Kremke said the school system's switch to "modern math" about six years ago has been quite successful and gets more successful each year.

"We had some problems at first with students in the upper grades who had learned math the old way," he said. "But as each year passes we get children who got into it one year earlier than their predecessors. Now we have very few problems, and the advantages of the new system are more apparent."

As in several of the other departments examined by the evaluators, they felt the math section should have a more organized pattern to its overall program.

"There is need for more articulation in the mathematics program," they wrote in their report. "A department chairman could be appointed and with the proper leadership get all the staff to study and prepare a kindergarten through 12th grade mathematics curriculum."

Kremke said there is some continuity from grade to grade now, since all classes use the same series of textbooks.

Regular meetings of the different math teachers was suggested so they could discuss the program.

In the past teachers have gotten together on an informal basis, Kremke said, to jointly decide such questions as what new textbook to select. However, there have been no formal, periodic meetings, he said.

Meetings with teachers from other school systems was also suggested.

Teachers need to take an active part in the professional state and national mathematics organizations," the examiners wrote as one suggested improvement. For another, they said, "A visitation program for the staff members to other schools (needs to be established)."

Framework exists now for visitations to examine programs of larger schools, Kremke said, but few teachers take advantage of it. He said school policy allows them to be absent from their teaching duties a specified number of times each year for such visits.

Also criticized by the evaluators was the present broad range of class size. They suggested more even distribution of students between sections of the same course.

"By using a better method of scheduling this class size could be worked out," they wrote.

Kremke agreed that it would be desirable to have more even distribution pointing out as an example the 30 students he had last year in one section of freshman algebra compared to less than 20 in another section of the same course.

However, he said he did not know how to achieve a better balance. He said students presently indicate in the spring the courses they plan to take in the fall, and schedules are worked out from his information.

Science
Better prepared teachers and an expanded curriculum for juniors and seniors are primary recommendations for the science department.

In citing a need for additional training of physics and chemistry instructors, the evaluators pointed out that presently those individuals are not teaching in their primary fields. They recommended application be made to the National Science Foundation Institute for scholarships to be used in summer study.

The scholarships are valued at $900 each and would enable the participant to earn nine hours of college credit toward his master's degree, according to Dave VanNordheim, the lone science teacher in town this summer.

VanNordheim said he was the last Ord instructor to participate in the program, receiving a scholarship in 1964. He taught biology and physiology the past year.

Curriculum-wise, a two-track program — one side of it more advanced than the other — was recommended for the 11th and 12th grades.

The less advanced curriculum would offer a general chemistry course in the 11th grade and a general physics course in the 12th grade. It would be designed primarily for students who either intend to go to a technical school or do not intend to seek further schooling.

More advanced courses in chemistry and physics are recommended for students planning to attend college.

Presently the school offers a one-track program in the two subjects with all students lumped together.

Despite the limited offerings at the junior-senior level, the evaluators were pleased that science courses were offered in all grades from the seventh through the 12th. They especially complimented the school system on its junior high program of "Life," "Earth," and "Physical Science."

"Life" is offered in the seventh grade and was described by VanNordheim as an introduction to biology, while "Earth" is the eighth grade offering and was described as an introduction to geology. "Physical Science," the ninth-grade offering, consists of five different blocks: chemistry, physics, electricity, power, and an introduction to scientific research.

The evaluators were also pleased that at least two years of science are required of all students from the ninth through 12th grades.

A lack of adequate laboratory opportunities was among the deficiencies listed. VanNordheim said he felt the evaluators were referring primarily to his biology area. He described lab facilities and materials as "quite good" but said a lack of time prevented him from devoting more efforts to lab work.

In addition to teaching four classes of biology and one of physiology, he also served as head football coach and athletic director.

The evaluators supported his position in this regard, recommending that he be given more time to perform his "extra duties."

Apparently he will get it, since the school system has hired an additional biology teacher for the coming year. VanNordheim will turn over all biology duties to him but will keep his physiology class. He will also continue as football coach and athletic director, and will assume new duties as assistant principal. Despite this assumption of additional work, he feels that overall he will be benefited from the change and more able to perform his various assignments.

In the area of facilities, the evaluators recommended installation of an exhaust system in the chemical room and a hooded exhaust table for certain experiments.

Time, Blood Precious Commodities

By Karl MacKinnon
Administrator, Valley County Hospital

The churning wheels of the state patrol car kicked gravel as the patrolman raced up the hill to the ambulance entrance of the Valley County Hospital. It was the end of a relay trip of patrol cars from the Omaha Red Cross Blood Bank.

The patrolman swerved his car smoothly into the entrance and scooped up his precious cargo of rare negative-type blood. Laboratory technicians met him at the door and with a brief smile disappeared with the two plastic containers into the lab. There they would start a painstaking process of checking and cross-matching the blood with that of the patient who would receive it.

A friendly nurse-aide invited the patrolman to have a welcome cup of coffee in the hospital cafeteria. His part in saving a life was complete.

In the laboratory, technicians Jean Newland and Linda Studnicka toiled at preparing the tests, checking and cross-checking.

The hour grew late, and at last a quick nod from Mrs. Newland and Mrs. Studnicka carried the blood down the hall to the recovery room. The bright red cross on the donor bottle identified the blood as coming from the Omaha Red Cross Blood Center. This blood, tested at the center and kept in careful storage, could very well be blood that had come originally from Valley County. At this point it didn't matter. Blood from willing donors, processed and stored in a central Red Cross blood bank, quite often returns to our community to save a life.

The charge nurse set up the stand for the transfusion. In a matter of moments the nurse, sure that the blood was right for the patient, started the life-sustaining transfusion. The laboratory stood by to prepare more blood if needed.

Slow signs appearing on the monitor told the nurse the good news of the desired results. The patient moved slightly, and tension left the nurse's face.

The patrolman came out of the cafeteria and paused to look down the hall toward the recovery room. He knew the vital blood was flowing into the vein of a friend from Valley County. He set his hat on his head and walked out into the night to his patrol car. The radio in patrol headquarters barked out his report, "Car 24 mission completed — back to point 4."

Technicians at the Valley County Hospital are busy cross-matching and typing blood donations. Jean Newland works in foreground, Linda Studnicka in rear.

that occurs daily in the lives of those who work and serve in the Red Cross program. Part of the story could include you. Plan now to visit the bloodmobile when it makes its next call in Ord. The place will be the Methodist Church . . . the time Aug. 27 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. It may take just a few minutes of your time to give someone else the rest of his life.

Valley County Native, Wilbur Rogers, Dies in Grand Island; Rites Saturday

Wilbur Rogers, 74, an extensive farmer and cattle feeder in Valley County, died Aug. 15 at the Veterans Hospital in Grand Island after a lengthy illness.

Funeral services were held at the United Methodist Church in Ord Saturday at 2 p.m. with the Rev. C. R. Campbell officiating. Orel Koelling sang "Beyond the Sunset" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Mrs. Viola Haackel was the organist.

Pallbearers were Carl Kroeger, Rollin Struckman, Hal Mason, Russell Rogers, Adrian Remington and Darrell McNeil. Members of Ord Lodge #103, AF&AM, served as honorary pallbearers. Burial was in the Ord City Cemetery with Hastings-Pearson Mortuary in charge. Military rites were conducted by the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He attended Ord High School and graduated from the Nebraska School of Agriculture in 1913. While there he was captain of Company E in the Nebraska School of Army Cadets. He farmed with his father in Valley County until entering the Army in September, 1917. After training at Camp Funsten, Kan., Mr. Rogers served in France where he was wounded Nov. 8, 1918. After many months in an Army hospital he returned to the United States in April, 1918, and received his discharge at Fort Dodge, Ia.

The son of Hiram and Addie (Wilbur) Rogers was born May 16, 1894, at Ord. On Jan. 7, 1920, he was united in marriage to Velma Carson, at Lincoln. To this union two children were born.

Mr. Rogers was a member of the United Methodist Church of Ord and had served on its official board for many years. He was also a member of Ord Lodge #103, AF&AM; Doric Chapter and Ionia Council of Ord, Mirpah Chapter #36, Order of the Eastern Star, and American Legion Post #38.

Survivors are his wife, Velma, and son, Carson, of Ord; a daughter, Mrs. Rogene Smith of Sedalia, Mo.; nine grandchildren; and one sister, Mrs. Mae Struckman of Fort Collins, Colo. He was predeceased by his parents, two sisters, and an infant sister.

Fannie Layher Dies Suddenly At Scotia Home

Funeral services for Fannie Gladys Layher were held Tuesday at the United Methodist Church in Scotia. Mrs. Layher, 72, died at her home in Scotia Friday. She had been ill about three months.

The Rev. Leonard Clark officiated at the 2 p.m. service. Nichole Keller sang "How Great Thou Art" and "What a Friend." Mrs. M. G. Williams was the organist. Pallbearers were Charles Murphy, Don Wampole, A. L. Layher, Ralph Layher, Melvin Prickett and Delbert Prickett. Burial was in the Mount Hope Cemetery at Scotia with Hastings-Pearson Mortuary in charge.

Mrs. Layher was born Jan. 21, 1896, near Ord, the daughter of Jacob and Eva (Fosdy) Brown. She was married to Julius Layher Dec. 2, 1914, at St. Paul, and lived most of her life in the Scotia vicinity. She was a member of the Scotia Methodist Church.

Survivors are five sons, Howard of Stapleton, Elmer and Julius, both of Sioux Falls, S. D., Robert of Albuquerque, N. M., and John of Alamogordo, N. M.; one daughter, Mrs. Rosina Luoma of Ord; one brother, Cecil Brown of North Platte; four sisters, Mrs. Eva McNelis and Mrs. Lillie Booth of Greeley, Mrs. Ruby Prickett of Spalding, and Mrs. Pearl Lane of North Loup; 18 grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren. Mrs. Layher was preceded in death by her husband in 1953, her parents, one brother and three sisters.

North Loup Soldier Serving in Germany

The son of a North Loup man is now stationed with the Army in Germany.

Pvt. Larry Haste, son of Simon Haste, left June 15 for assignment as a cook. He had completed a cooking course in May at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

During the eight-week course, Private Haste was trained in meat cutting, as well as cake and pastry baking. He also learned how to prepare and serve food in Army mess halls and in the field.

Soviet Actions Louder Than Words

The Soviets have spoken louder and clearer than a hundred thousand right-wing extremists could ever hope to do.

During recent years it has become unpopular in many circles of our society to criticize Communists, especially the Soviet brand. Any politician who used as a part of his platform direct resistance to Communism could assure himself of ridicule and defeat at the polls. He could be sure of being branded a right-wing "extremist" and a "reactionary."

"We're not living in the 1950s," the liberals say. "Times have changed. Communism is no longer the threat it was then."

"Let's end the arms race," cry the McNamaras, the McCarthys, and the Fullbrights. "We don't need an anti-missile defense. If we stop building greater weapons of war, the Soviets will stop."

Now they have their answer. Written with the blood of Czechoslovakians, just as it was written with the blood of Hungarians a dozen years ago.

Soviet Communism today is still the same old brand. Its goal is still the same—world domination. Make no mistake about it. While it is sad indeed to see a brave people beaten down in their bid for freedom, this outburst by the Soviets and their hard-line allies could be the greatest thing that has happened to the United States in years.

Maybe—just maybe—it will provide the spark that reawakens in us a recognition of the need for eternal vigilance.

Something Different

My Balliest Story

CULLEN LAKE, Minn. — I swear, when ewazier things happen, they'll happen to me.

I've been having a bat. I thought it was bats in my belfry; instead he turned up in the queerest place.

Reading, when I went to bed, as I always do, I heard a faint fluttering the other night, a sort of flicking noise; then I thought I saw a large black moth, but it travelled so fast I wasn't sure.

Finally I decided I had to trap it before I'd get any peace, so I rose up and began looking for the intruder. It was swooping wildly from one end of the cottage to the other, but it was big and more and more I thought of a bat.

I couldn't catch it, though, nor think how to. Finally I grabbed the insect spray — maybe I could stun it. But no.

At last it settled on the wall above a drapery. It was a bat, though I couldn't get close to it. Nor did I really want to. I wasn't exactly afraid of it, but it did upset me.

I tiptoed into the bedroom and hastily shut the door, stuffing every thin crack with towels from the dirty clothes hamper. (I didn't know where that bat might be able to creep.)

And unasily, I slept. Next morning I looked, but it was gone. Now where was it? There were dozens of little hidey-holes in this old house, and the upstairs even had a high peaked roof, a typical loft. How would I ever get that bat?

I recalled one time years ago, oh many years ago, when a pair of honeymooning friends accompanied us to our Minnesota cabin to spend their first married days: we'd had a bat in the house then. And the two men of the family had chased it wildly through the house, back and forth, hoping to hit it with a broom. Meantime, a burning white Coleman lamp and their delicate mantles were in great danger. And all of us were in danger of burning the house down. But somehow they must have got the bat.

How had they done it?

I rose up and went to Nisswa for my breakfast. I had plenty of materials in the house to make breakfast, but I didn't care to eat with a bat.

In town I asked local experts how to catch a bat.

The best answer I got was, "That's a good question."

Back home I rushed into the Anderson house next door, hollering, "Help, help," and told my tale of a night visitor. We decided: Their dog could smell out the bat? Their cat could kill it if it was low down? Finally Rich and Cory decided a landing net might snare it? Where was it?

"Did you look in the bathroom?" asked a wag.

I came home; it was silly for a big strong girl like me to be scared of a lousy little bat. I decided to sort out two or three things in the sink.

When under my fingers the little bat crawled out, frightening me to pieces. I let out a real shriek.

My niece Cory and her husband Rich came running, got the landing net, cast for the bat and got it. Hurray!

They hung the net in a nearby tree and after a stunned minute or two the small black bat got loose and flew off into the forest.

Ouch! A big mosquito just bit me: maybe I should have kept that bat in here a few days.

Dear Sir:

I just listened to a far-left national news commentator denouncing the House of Representatives for not passing the gun registration law.

What he did not tell is that gun registration is part of the overall Communist plan for the takeover of our country. He intimated that the Communists would have to register their guns; but let's not forget that a few years ago the Communists were supposed to register as agents of a foreign country. Not only registered and our Supreme Court upheld them in defying that law.

Percentage-wise we have almost twice as many Communists in the United States as there are in the U.S.S.R. What is preventing a takeover here? Mainly it is guns in the hands of those who do not want Communism. Once they are registered they won't remain in the hands of the non-Communist for long as they will be classed as unsafe for one reason or another.

The newscaster was very concerned (or so he pretended) about the 7,000 that are murdered and the 4,000 suicides a year, but he also failed to point out that in over half of these cases liquor was involved.

If he is really interested in saving lives why isn't he complaining against liquor which kills many more thousands every year than guns do, besides being a contributing factor in many of our various crimes. Why isn't he complaining against smoking which is causing untold pain and death from cancer of the lip, throat and lungs? To me it is obvious. Guns are the object of the Communist party at the present time. With the Communist any one life is expendable for the cause, whether it be a President, Senator, leader of some national organization, or their killers.

When one joins the Communist Party one swears that he will give his life for the cause of the party at any time that he may be asked to do so. This could be for shooting down a bunch of people on a college campus, for shooting from the gallery of the Senate Chamber, for shooting a leader of a national organization, for shooting a President or his assassin, or for shooting a senator. The aim or objective is the same: to get guns registered so that the real red-blooded American people can be disarmed and the head Communist can take over without danger of getting hurt.

Let's register Communists, not firearms. Guns don't kill people. People kill people.

KERRY ON

By Kerry Leggett

—a summer night—
How do I keep from thinking of you?
Every place I go . . . each crowd I look into . . . you're ever present. There is no escape . . . nor even a desire . . . to shut you out of my mind.

Quiet summer nights beneath tree-lined lanes. A full moon that illuminates the rolling hills from the distant horizon—much in the same way it brings you gracefully into my heart.

You're everywhere . . . every place I go . . . in everything I see. The rustling leaves of the giant cottonwoods whisper your beckoning message to me . . . even though I sit alone.

Somewhere in the night you must be lonely too. Somewhere—even now—I feel that your thoughts are with me as much as I'm with you. Surely we'll meet sometime . . . somewhere.

Two stars—out of the million—magnetically pull my eyes in to focus on a dream that I know will never come true.

Not the brightest stars in the sky, perhaps, but stars among the many . . . much like ourselves lost in a host of others . . . yet so reassuringly visible as we look upward and outward. The little star? A bit higher than its brighter counterpart, but never-

I picture myself as the lesser star . . . always and forever distant. Close enough to watch hopefully, should my day ever come.

This is the night . . . the summer night . . . the time I can be ever-present with you . . . without the fear of intruders. A time when we can be alone . . . together . . . unrestrained by the banterings of those around us.

Summer passes all too quickly . . . those summer nights I spend with you quiet countenances . . . alone, but ever so full of the love that goes for want.

Someday . . . maybe you'll sit with me. But that day my dream will vanish and I will have no words to replace the yearning that's in my heart on a summer night.

Nothing Comes Easy

Last week's announcement that the local area would receive no funds with which to construct a new schoolbuilding for the mentally retarded was seasoned with a dash of bitter irony.

Two special study committees, one composed of citizens and the other of hired professional consultants, had released findings within the past month describing the state's mental care plan as "fruitless and archaic." They recommended de-centralization, with reduction of patient loads at the Beatrice, State Home and other state institutions. To compensate for this, regional centers and greater local care were urged.

In the face of such recommendations — endorsed by the governor and Nebraska's mental health director — the state turned around and "shot the shaft" to a local community attempting to care for its own.

Officially, two reasons were given for the federal government refusing to give $21,200 in matching funds for construction of a new schoolhouse here for the mentally retarded.

First, a petition has been circulated and will be voted on in the November general election to eliminate the state's educational service units. Service Unit 13 of Kearney had agreed to operate the Ord school and had promised $8,000 of the $21,200 raised locally. Thus, the federal decision-makers did not feel it advisable to sink money into a project that might be floundering without adequate supervision or leadership, not to mention operating funds, in just a few short months.

This is understandable. All too often the federal government does pour tax money down holes where it disappears and in effect is never heard from again. It is refreshing to see some thought given to the long-range status of a project before federal tax moneys are allotted.

The second reason given is not so palatable. Because the Ord school has a present enrollment of only nine students, it does not meet federal requirements that a school be helped have at least 40 pupils.

Provisions exist for this requirement to be altered. The state simply must submit a plan changing it.

Slip-Up at State Level

Such a plan should have been tacked on to the local request before it left the state. For some unknown reason it was not. Thus, the federal officials, had no recourse but to turn down the application.

This means that $100,000 allotted to Nebraska will wind up in a neighboring state—reportedly Iowa—since no other community had made a proper request either. This is the fourth consecutive year money ticketed for Nebraska will go elsewhere.

Dr. Barton Kline, director of Educational Unit 13, said the slip-up occurred somewhere in the switch-over from jurisdiction by the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute to the State Department of Health. NPI formerly headed the state's mental program; now the health department does.

While regrettable, that action is now in the past. The present task must be to see what can be done to salvage the situation.

Our neighboring counties of Buffalo and Dawson, as well as school officials from the Kearney area, have already begun to work anew for a school in Ord. Dr. Kline said officials of the two counties, plus school personnel, met Aug. 14 and determined to go to the state legislature with requests for schools in Ord, Cozad, and Kearney.

The schools in Ord and Cozad would be designed for younger children, possibly up to 16. After reaching 16 mentally retarded youngsters would be sent to Kearney where they would receive vocational training.

Such a plan coincides with the state plan endorsed by the governor, Dr. Kline said.

"If Ord is truly desirous of obtaining a new school for the mentally retarded, a smooth functioning local organization should start to work immediately with state and area officials.

The failure to achieve what we hoped for on our first try was of course a disappointment, but it need not be a fatal one.

The old expression about "anything worth getting is worth fighting for" seems more appropriate than ever in this instance.

Appeasement Still Doesn't Pay

Our mistakes have a way of coming back to haunt us. So said some wise sage countless eons ago.

The United States is learning once again the truth of that trite statement, as its timid policy of appeasement produces yet another poison fruit.

This time it is "neutral" Cambodia which is demanding ransom from the bumbling giant of the Western Hemisphere.

On July 17 a U.S. landing craft and its 12-man crew were captured by Cambodia, which borders Vietnam. Our State Department says the craft "inadvertently strayed into Cambodian territorial waters," and the government of Prince Norodom Sihanouk admits the ship did not fire any of its weapons.

Nevertheless, the Cambodians are demanding a bulldozer in exchange for the men and their craft—a la Cuba and Fidel Castro in 1962 following the Bay of Pigs fiasco.

At that time $53 million worth of machinery and other materials was given to secure the release of 1,113 Cubans who were captured during an unsuccessful invasion attempt.

Even though the ransom came from private sources, it established a precedent which continues to plague us. Our failure to act with strength when North Korea pirated the Pueblo and kidnapped her crew of 83 hasn't helped any.

Certainly one bulldozer is not much ransom to ask of a country with the immense wealth of the United States. But that's not the point.

To quote another overworked expression, "It ain't the money, it's the principle of the thing."

Let us hope that our nation will refuse to honor this latest ridiculous request, and that it will move quickly and forcefully to secure release of the landing craft and her crew.

To do otherwise is to invite still more "Pueblos" and Cubans.

Deaf Man Perfects Tiny Hearing Aid

A remarkably tiny all-in-the-ear hearing aid has been perfected by a man who has been hard of hearing for nearly ten years. This small device has no dangling cords. No separate transmitting units. Just slip it in your ear and hear again as nature intended. Due to the use of transistors, the user cost is extremely low. The instrument weighs only 1/2 oz. Hardly noticeable, yet very powerful.

Free Demonstration

Ask for your area representative, Don Nelson, at the Ord Hotel in Ord on Wed., Aug 28th and Wed., Sept. 25th. He will be there from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30. If you can't come in just call for information, or write to:

Walt Disney stamp was first reproduced in full color.

Quiz Graphic Arts Inc. Produces 'First' In Reproduction of Walt Disney Stamp

The first full-color reproduction of a United States postage stamp has been printed by Quiz Graphic Arts Inc.

A 6-cent stamp honoring the late Walt Disney was reproduced for the August cover of the S.P.A. Journal, which the Quiz prints regularly. The S.P.A. Journal is a publication of the Society of Philatelic Americans.

The S.P.A. Journal recently won a diploma of silver in the literature class of the international philatelic exhibition at Prague, Czechoslovakia. It is edited by Belmont Faures, who is also an editor for the Washington Evening Star. He was instrumental in getting the new law passed.

The printing was made possible when a new law was signed into effect June 20 by President Lyndon Johnson. Until that time it had been illegal to reproduce in full color an uncancelled stamp.

Under the new law, which was sponsored by Rep. Thaddeus Dulski of New York, it is now possible to reproduce uncancelled stamps in sizes less than three-fourths or more than one and a half times their actual dimensions. The law also permits canceled stamps to be reproduced in any size, including exact dimensions of the original. Reproduction of foreign stamps is permitted.

The Disney stamp will be issued Sept. 11 at Marcelline, Mo. It pictures a paper-doll parade of children from many nations winding hand-in-hand about a smiling portrait of the famed cartoonist. The children are dressed in native costume and emerge from a tiny castle on a globe in the rear.

Off The Square

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Merrill during a recent weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wilcoxson of Geneva and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Merrill of York. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Merrill are teachers in the York schools where Art serves as principal. The Ordités and their houseguests dined at the Burwell Legion Club one evening before attending the night rodeo show. The next afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Absalon joined the group at the Merrill home for a picnic supper.

Cork Biemond of San Jose, Calif., was in Ord recently visiting with his mother, Mrs. Jennie Biemond, and the Hazy Zulkoski family. He arrived on a Friday afternoon with Ray Biemond who met him at Grand Island. The latter returned to his York home the next day. Mrs. Zulkoski and Mrs. Biemond drove to Grand Island Sunday where he left by plane for Detroit, Mich., and Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Benben and family and Mrs. Victor Benben returned early Tuesday of last week from a 12-day vacation in Utah. In Salt Lake City they were guests of Mrs. Don Benben's brother, Jim McCall, and family, and in Twin Falls they visited Mrs. Victor Benben's brother, Everett Lukesh, and wife. On their way home they viewed the Craters of the Moon, Yellowstone National Park, and the Black Hills.

Mrs. Donald Bartu, Donna and Scott of Wichita, Kan., visited Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bartu and Duane Thursday and Friday. They also spent some time in Sargent with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fees.

Mr. Bartu was unable to make the trip with his family. A technical sergeant in the Air Force, he serves as a technician in the Titan II weapon system at McConnell AFB. His crew was recently recognized as "crew of the month."

Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Adeline Urbanski and family were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCauley and Becky Kosnicki of Loup City. Afternoon and supper guests were Mrs. Rose Urbanski and Jerome, Mrs. Don Urbanski and Karen Eastwood, all of Grand Island. They also visited Mrs. Rose Urbanski's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Dubas, at the Burwell test home.

Mother Nature Helps

Old Mother Nature has an uncanny way of making fun of us. Last week, while writing this column, it appeared, based on personal observation and on the information we had at hand, that the only way we could keep ahead of the greenbug population in our milo and sudan grass was to spray.

From field inspections this week it appears that Mother Nature has stepped in to give us a helping hand.

There is evidence of the greenbug population being controlled by both parasites and predators.

The parasite that came to our rescue is a small wasp which lays its eggs in the greenbug. When the larvae hatch, the greenbug dies. The most common predator of plant lice, such as the greenbug, is our old friend the ladybug. The larvae feed upon the greenbug, helping to keep the population under control.

From observation it would now appear that chemical controls are probably not necessary. However, if you have any questions or doubts, contact the County Extension Office and we will be glad to inspect your field.

Dripping Elms

The "drip" from elms and other shade trees is due to aphids or scale infestations. Both insects excrete a sticky substance called honeydew.

Honeydew will not harm automobile paint. Sometimes a black mold will grow on this material and the mold is not injurious to paints either; however, it is often unsightly. So aside from the pesky dirty windshields, the dripping elms will not damage the finish on an automobile.

The only way to retard the drip is to spray infested trees with a contact insecticide such as malathion or diazinon. Spraying would need to be done with power equipment.

Corn Rootworm Beetles

Adult corn rootworm beetles are beginning egg production. They are moving about, seeking sources of food. Population will be heavy in late-developing corn. If there are five or more beetles per plant, enough eggs may be deposited to be of economic importance. Farmers wishing to control beetles to reduce egg numbers should observe late-silking fields now.

Insecticides of choice for control of adult rootworm beetles are Sevin, 1 pound active ingredient per acre, Malathion, 1 pound active, or Diazinon, at the rate of 1/2 pound active ingredient per acre.

Hog Cholera Program

By mid-year 38 states and Puerto Rico had reached the final "stamping out" phase of the state-federal hog cholera eradication program.

Of the 38 states in the final phase of the fight being waged by U.S.D.A.'s Agricultural Research Service and the states, 22 plus Puerto Rico are in phase III and 16 are in phase IV. Seven states have been officially declared "hog cholera free."

Phase III and IV standards call for prompt and complete disposal of all infected herds, with state-federal indemnity payments to reimburse farmers whose hogs must be destroyed to keep the disease from spreading. Nebraska is now in this phase. Phase II calls for the quarantine of infected herds.

Home Again

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Dobrovsky returned Saturday from Hal-eyville, Ala., after vacationing two weeks with their daughter and her family, the Daniel Setlifs. Their sight-seeing trips included the Ave Maria Grotto at Cullman, Ala.; the Dismal Gardens at Hackelburg, Ala., and the National Bridge and Vulcan Iron Man Park at Birmingham, Ala. While with the Setlifs, the 2nd birthday of Roxanne Setlik was celebrated.

The Dobrovskys were thrilled with their first plane ride and were very impressed with the scenery in the South.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tefft of Kansas City, Mo., visited her parents, the Vic Kerchals, from Wednesday until Sunday. Other Wednesday supper guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Kerchal and daughters. The 10th birthday of Carrie Kerchal was celebrated.

The Teffts entertained her parents Saturday evening for dinner at the Veterans Club. The Kerchals' 35th wedding anniversary was observed.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Norman were evening callers in the Walter Anderson home near Arcadia Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cook and Kim of Lincoln and Linda Dunbar of Tilden were over the weekend guests in the Allen Dunbar home. Another daughter of the Dunbars, Mrs. Clayton Kookler of Cheyenne, arrived Monday for a short stay with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Woods and Leonard Woods enjoyed a weekend of sightseeing and visiting friends in and near Colorado Springs, Canon City, Salida and Las Animas, Colo.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Hunt of Arcadia were recent evening guests of Mrs. Dorothy Holmes.

Max Good and daughter Sandi of Seymour, Mo., visited friends in Ord recently.

Well-Wishers Call on Petersons To Greet New Girl, Susan Marie

By Charlene Paider
Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Stefka and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Andy Peterson and family were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Peterson and family. They went to see the little baby girl which was born Tuesday and named Susan Marie.

Frances Stefka received a telephone call from Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 15, telling of the death of her brother-in-law, Anton Hulinsky. He passed away at his home the previous day. Funeral services were held Saturday in Salt Lake City. Mrs. Hulinsky is a sister of Mrs. Stefka.

Charles Paider, Emil Trojan, Charles Allbright, Adolph Klamecky and William Moudry helped Louis Nagorski with the catle Friday. They also were dinner guests in the Nagorski home as were Mrs. Charles Paider and Charlene, and Debbie Bruha. The Nagorskis had called on the Paiders the previous afternoon, and Debbie had accompanied her aunt and uncle home for an overnight stay. Mira Valley News

Bells Return From Eight-Day Mountain Vacation

By Bertha Clement
Mr. and Mrs. George Bell returned home Saturday after an eight-day vacation. They visited her sister, Mrs. Elva Hayden, at Jamestown, Colo., where she has a cabin in the mountains; his cousin and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Labbury, and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Oldfield, all at Denver; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Burrows at Boulder; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mason at Loveland; and other relatives. They rode the ski lift at the Grand Tetons and spent a rainy day at Yellowstone. The Bells arrived in Kearney Saturday noon where the Seventh Day Baptist general conference was in session, and Mrs. Bell briefly visited cousins from New Jersey, West Virginia and Wisconsin who were attending.

Youth Group Plans
The Senior Youth Fellowship of the Mira Valley United Methodist church had a planning retreat in the Dick Peterson pasture Sunday, making plans for the coming year. The youths brought sack lunches for noon. In the evening they had roasted wieners and watermelon.

On Camp Staff
The Rev. Earl Higgins is on the staff of the senior, high camp at Milford this week.

At Hordeville Retreat
Mrs. Henry Lange spent Monday and Tuesday at the L. W. M. L. Retreat in Hordeville. Mrs. Leonora Veskerna accompanied her to the retreat.

Mutual Benefit Picnic
Members of the Mutual Benefit Club and their families had their annual summer picnic at the Ord park Wednesday evening. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Roe; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lange and grandchildren Dianne and Donna Loscke of Columbus; Mary Huffman and Linda Lange; Mrs. Sophie Fuss and grandchildren Tom and Jim Gohl of Richardson, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foth and grandsons Johnny and Jeff Beidock of McCook; Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Luoma, Sanny and Kris; Mrs. Joe Pokorny, Dennis and Steve; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foth; and Mrs. George Clement. Thirteen wasn't an unlucky number for the adults as evidenced by the congeniality of the group. The spirits of the young fry weren't dampened even though one boy was thoroughly soaked in the park stream.

Matching Collar Bones
Daren, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan, broke his left collar bone Aug. 5 when his mother put on the car brakes. A year ago on Aug. 5 he broke his right collar bone.

Foths Not Related
Mr. and Mrs. Allan Foth and three sons of Livermore, Ia., visited the Walter, Bill and Harry Foths Saturday afternoon. As far as they could determine, they are not related to the Mira Valley Foths. They had heard of the names through the Omaha Livestock Market and stopped here on their way to the Black Hills.

Petersons Home
Mr. and Mrs. Ray Peterson returned home Saturday after a week's vacation. They visited her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bartz at Scottsbluff, then went to the Grand Tetons and Yellowstone Park in Wyoming. On the way home they stopped at Cody, Wyo., to visit the Lyle Whitings. Mrs. Whiting is the former Maxine Bossen who lived in Mira Valley.

Valleyside School Bells
Valleyside will begin school Tuesday, Sept. 3. Teachers will be Mrs. Lois Peterson and Mrs. Joy Wert.

At Wedding
Attending the wedding of Arlene Bockstader and David Glinzman at Wood River Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Lores Hornickel and family, Mrs. Everett Hornickel, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lange, and Mrs. Mrs. Gene Bredthauer, Vicky and Andy.

Oklahomans Visit
Mr. and Mrs. John Keller of Stillwater, Okla. arrived Friday to visit cousins here. They called on Mrs. Dessie Vogeler and Bill Vogeler, both of North Loup; the Robert Vogelers of Scotia; Ethel Vogeler of Valley County Hospital; and Mrs. Elsie Bremer and George. Friday night the Kellers were guests of Mrs. Bremer and George as were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bremer of St. Libory, Mrs. Dessie Vogeler, Bill Vogeler and Donald Vogeler. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bremer, Mark and Paul of Staplehurst came for a Saturday and Sunday visit at the Bremer home.

Home To Oregon
Mrs. Emmett Harding returned

ed to her home in Portland, Ore., recently after being here since Memorial Day. She spent most of her time here with her sister, Mrs. Elsie Bremer, and brother Bill Vogeler in North Loup. She also visited another sister, Ethel Vogeler, in the Valley County Hospital, and other relatives.

Bockstader Funeral
Mrs. Lores Hornickel, Randy, Rogene and Roger attended funeral services for her aunt, Mrs. Lilia Bockstader of Lakewood, Calif., at Christ's Lutheran Church in Juniata Thursday.

Death Takes Close Relative of Trio

By Berenice Cornell
Mary Blaha received word Wednesday night of the sudden death of a brother, Anton Hulinsky, at Salt Lake City, Utah. Mrs. Blaha's sister, Lillian Masin, took her to Burwell Thursday to join a brother, Frank Hulinsky, and a brother-in-law, Otto Elisk, for the trip to Salt Lake City to attend the funeral. A sister-in-law joined them at Scottsbluff. The funeral was held Saturday, and the group returned the first of the week. Mrs. Anton Pokorny was also a sister of the deceased.

McCune was a guest of Tillie Massey. Today at 1:30 p.m. Rev. Duane Davis of the North Loup Seventh Day Baptist Church will be with us. Visitors are welcome.

Cetak Kin III

Mary Cetak received word recently from a granddaughter, Mrs. Lee Schrock of Seattle, Wash., saying she was not well and has to take a three-month rest cure. Mrs. Schrock is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cetak and has one little girl, Amy Lee.

Minnesota Report

Mary Jorgensen says she and her sister, Mrs. Elmer Vergin, had a very nice time during the week spent in Minnesota with Mr. and Mrs. Nels Jensen at St. Paul. They also visited Mrs. Carrie Abrahamson and Mrs. Ida Olsson at Askov and took a sight-seeing trip into Wisconsin. On their way home they stopped at Jackson, Minn., to see a sister of Mrs. Nels Jensen's. It was there they received word of the death of a brother-in-law, so they went to Papillion and Omaha.

Reminiscing

Mary Lou Jorgensen and two roommates of Lincoln were houseguests of her grandmother, Marie Jorgensen, Aug. 10 and 11. The girls took Mrs. Jorgensen for a ride up Haskell Creek way where she once lived. This Sunday she went with Miss Emma Hansen, Marie Johnson and Mrs. Bina Laursen for a ride to St. Paul and places near there.

Colorful Landscape

Flowers, again. Nasturtiums grow in tree vines, and Mary Blaha has a nasturtium with a sturdy stem and big four-inch leaves that has reached the top of the porch pole. Another large vine winds on the rail along the walk. On Nelson has a bunch of blasmors, or old-fashioned lady slippers, along the north side. Stephanie Zebert has a sweet alyssum and Mary Jorgensen a pretty display which can be seen as you come into Parkview from the east.

Visiting From Michigan

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bohls of Lincoln and their daughter and son-in-law, and Mrs. Robert Kelly of Detroit, Mich., arrived Sunday morning at Mildred Anderson's. They all spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vodehnal. Mrs. Bohls, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Vodehnal are sisters. The group drove to Fort Hartsuff, and Mr. Kelly was very interested in the history of the fort.

Missouri Residents Call
Juanita Christian's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Victor LeVine, and two children, Teddy and Nikki, arrived Sunday to spend a few days. The LeVines came here from California where they have been vacationing. Their home is at St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. Christian had a telephone call Monday from her other daughter, Mrs. Michael Stabolepsky of Stony Creek Mills, Pa.

Personals

Mary Jorgensen returned Thursday night from Omaha after attending the funeral of a brother-in-law, Peter Hollander. Mary and her sister, Mrs. Elmer Vergin, were called from a trip to St. Paul, Minn., to Omaha.

Mildred Anderson returned home Tuesday night from Sterling, Colo., with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vodehnal after attending the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Vera Mathews. It seems Parkview has had its share of deaths of near relatives with three in one week. Such grief touches us all.

Becky and Tanya Bresley of North Loup called on Bernice Cornell Tuesday morning.

Mary Blaha and Mabel Polinoski attended the funeral of Mrs. Everett Howell on Tuesday.

Visitors Thursday afternoon and evening were Mrs. Marian Long, calling on Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hackett and Berenice Cornell; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hansen, visiting Anna Rowbal and Mrs. Cornell; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Thomsen, with Mrs. Cornell and Juanita Christian; Mrs. John and Ella Malotke of Scotia, calling on Lillian Daudt; and Mrs. Emma Adamek and Mrs. Dorothy Palsler, visiting Mrs. Rowbal. In addition, Inez Swain spent Friday evening with Mrs. Rowbal.

Elizabeth Severson's son, Don, and wife came from Grand Island Tuesday evening to be with her. Accompanying them was the younger Mrs. Severson's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carlson of Washington, D. C. The Robert Seversons from Grand Island came Saturday and took Elizabeth home with them for this week. She will also visit her doctor for a check-up.

Gladys Walker had supper Tuesday with her son, Elton, and wife.

Lillian Daudt visited her sister, Minnie Fenton, at the Valley County Hospital Monday and Friday evenings the past week.

Mrs. Fred Veskerna came Sunday morning to take Mrs. Daudt to church at St. John's Lutheran. Afterwards Lillian was a coffee guest of Mrs. Veskerna.

Rex Jewett, Claribel Chambers and Mrs. Daisy Kail of Lincoln spent Saturday with Edith Jones, bringing a nice dinner with them.

Three grandchildren of Tena Swanson visited her the past week. Mrs. Robert Appleman and girls of Johnston and Mrs. Dale North and friend, Mrs. Carol Snow of Long Pine, were dinner guests Tuesday and spent the afternoon. A grandson and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Verl Nelson, and boys of Trenton called on Mrs. Swanson Wednesday. The three are children of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nelson.

Mrs. Kristine Mortensen of Longmont, Colo., was an afternoon and supper guest at Mr. and Mrs. Will Benson and a supper guest of Bessie Timmerman during the week.

Mr. Benson's daughter, Mrs. Walter Holmes of North Loup, was with Mr. and Mrs. Benson Wednesday. A son, Harold Benson of Hot Springs, S. D., telephoned Mr. Benson Sunday.

Eric Erikson took his mother-in-law, Marguerite West, to Comstock recently so she could attend a picnic in the community hall with friends of their South-side Birthday Club. The picnic is a yearly event.

Mena Jorgensen served a 6 p.m. luncheon Sunday for four friends. They were Mamie Smith, Winnie Hallen, Inez Swain and Mabel Cornell.

Marie Jorgensen spent Tuesday with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Will Freeman, helping Mrs. Freeman celebrate her birthday. Mr. Freeman is not

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Gregorski of Elyria announce the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Ann, to Mike Pesek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Pesek Jr. of Comstock.
A Sept. 21 wedding is planned.

Lillian Daudt attended the Circle Study meeting Tuesday at St. John's Lutheran Church.

Gladys Walker went with the Elton Walkers to Grand Island Sunday to see her brother, Jerry Edwards, who is very ill. Mrs. Walker's mother and a sister also were there. The brother has been in the hospital but is presently at home.

Mrs. Mary Blaha, Otto Elisk and F. J. Hulinsky went to Salt Lake City, Utah, Thursday, to attend funeral services for a brother, Anton Hulinsky, held Saturday morning. They were accompanied by Mrs. Lewis Tucker of Mitchell and Mrs. Joe Hulinsky of Gering.

Off the Square

Mr. and Mrs. Don Axthelm, Lonna and Stan, drove to Lincoln recently to see the North American RSROA Championships. Roger Axthelm of Santa Rosa, Calif., participated in the men's intermediate singles and was named one of the seven finalists. Roger is a nephew of Don Axthelm and a grandson of Mrs. Lorraine Ferris of Ord and Mr. and Mrs. Louie Axthelm of North Loup.

His older sister, Paula, is also a roller skating champion, having placed in several championship contests in recent years. QUIZ readers may recall an article in 1962 featuring Paula and her friend Karen Wells when they were vacationing in Ord.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bouma of Waynoka, Oklahoma, have been guests in the John Andersen home. While here the Boumas were guests of the Gerald Warfords at Elba, and they visited former schoolmates in the Ord area. Also, the Boumas accompanied the Andersens to Arcadia where they called on the Dean Dietz family and met Dean Bouma of Kimball who was visiting there. Other guests were Namon Bouma of Arcadia. They also called at the Porter Dunlap and Clayton Dunlap homes. In addition the Boumas called on Mrs. Jennie Biemond.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ackles and family were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Geneski and family at Osmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Erickson of Rochester, Minn., were Tuesday dinner and afternoon guests of the Lakes sisters. While in Ord the Ericksons called on Mrs. Mary Koupal, Kate Tolen, Eleanor Wegryn and Antonia John. The family was en route to Colorado Springs to meet a son from Columbus, Ohio, and a daughter from Las Vegas, Nev.

Mrs. Frank Kovarik and Duane visited at the Barney McGahan home in Grand Island recently after attending the district dairy show.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Guggenmos and children of Holyoke, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Guggenmos and family of Sioux City, Ia., visited Mrs. Hazel Guggenmos and other relatives during the month. The Charles Jones family joined them for dinner one day at the Hazel Guggenmos home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hardisty, Cynthia and Marcia of Gridley, Ill., have been houseguests of Mrs. Hardisty's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Glen Auble.

Dinner for Jim
Mr. and Mrs. Con Swanson hosted a dinner at their home recently, honoring their son, Jim, who is home on leave from Fort Leavenworth, Wash. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Swanson of Burwell, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wozniak, Mrs. Jennie Greenwalt, Mr. and Mrs. August Barto, Jo Wozniak, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Norman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Cash Wozniak, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Shotkoski, all of Ord; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wozniak of Rushville; Mrs. Arnold Thies; Mrs. Vonda Boulay of Gering; Mr. and Mrs. Don Wozniak of Kearney; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Horwarter of Hastings; Mr. and Mrs. Myron Comstock, Dick Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Swanson and daughters, of Grand Island; Mrs. Martha O'Mally of Omaha; and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Greenwalt of Scotia.
Jim will report to Oakland, Calif., Saturday.

Ord Mothers Can Relax Again—They'll Turn Children Over to Teachers Tuesday Morning

Tuesday may not officially be designated Mother's Day, but moms of school-age children will probably appreciate it just as much as the real thing.

That's the day pupils in the Ord School System return to classes and get out of mother's hair.

Opening bells will ring for Ord grade and high school students, as well as Constock elementary pupils, at 9 a.m. Tuesday. However, students who have pre-registered may pick up their schedules starting at 8:30.

Six new teachers — plus a new top-level administration — will be among the faculty members on hand to welcome the students. Dr. Bill Gogan will be starting his first school year as superintendent of the Ord system, and Bob Norton will be doing the same, as high school principal.

Dr. Gogan has returned to Ord after an absence of eight years. He served as a coach and teacher here from 1950 through 1960. During the past year he was principal of Drake Junior High School near Denver, Colo.

Norton was assistant principal at Douglas High School in Rapid City, S. D., before coming to Ord.

The new teachers are Mrs. Sandra Naber, Mrs. Doris Naber, and Mrs. Ruth Fower, all scheduled for duty at the Ord Grade School; Bob Curtright, science teacher at the high school; Jim Ochsner, music teacher; and Mildred Schwengle, French and English.

Norton said Monday that pre-registration indicates this year's enrollment at the high school will be up at least 40 students over last year's figure. The total now expected is 514.

Students will find a number of new course offerings in the curriculum. They include Production Typing and Shorthand III, both advanced courses over what was offered last year; health, which will be a part of the physical education curriculum for seventh- and eighth graders; French II; and possibly journalism, "if a teacher can be found."

It was part of the curriculum previously, but was dropped last year.

Additional sections of chemistry and art are also planned due to the heavy student enrollment in those areas.

A senior science course was offered too, but it had to be dropped when only four students signed up, Norton said. Such a course had been recommended by an evaluation committee which visited the school last spring.

Norton and his staff headed by burning the midnight oil this week in an attempt to get all the students scheduled in time for Tuesday's opening. They indicated they would be successful.

A new scheduling system, which Norton described as an interrelated step between mechanized data processing and the old hand method, is being used this year. Materials for the system did not arrive until this month, he stated.

"Every one of our teachers will have a full load of at least five classes," he said. "And we will even have to pay some of them extra to teach a sixth class. I don't like giving them a sixth — I don't believe they can do their best job so heavily loaded — but it's better than nothing."

He indicated the enrollment was especially heavy in world studies, art, and home economics. Students reporting Tuesday will also find a number of physical changes in the high school building. The biggest one will be a bright new array of wall lockers, in various hues of blue, yellow, red, etc.

However, Norton said he thought the biggest improvement was a new coat of paint for the outside window frames.

"I'm a firm believer in keeping buildings clean and polished well," he said. "I think it affects the attitude of the students and their willingness to help keep classrooms and hallways neat."

Another desire of the new principal that will meet with the approval of students is a limitation on homework.

"I don't believe in a lot of homework," he said. "Any time a student has to spend more than two hours on homework it's too much. Many of them spend extra time after school in various activities, and by the time they get home it's 6 o'clock. Then, by the time they eat and get ready to study, it's 7:30. And since they should all get to bed fairly early, I think we should try to hold the homework down."

Norton said he will encourage teachers to allot the last 20 or 25 minutes of each class period for study. Since periods will again be 70 minutes in length, he thinks ample time will be available for the teachers to get their instruction done and still allow students study time.

Because of the 70-minute periods, there's no room in the schedule for study halls. Norton feels that using the last portion of each class for study will actually work out better than formal study halls.

"If the student needs special assistance in a particular subject, the appropriate teacher will be right there to assist him," he said. Teachers may also give students passes in certain legitimate circumstances to go to the library during these periods, he said.

"I hope this system will allow the students to get most of their homework done at school," he added.

A realignment in duties will also free Norton to work more with the teachers in an attempt to upgrade the instructional program, he feels.

The realignment calls for Dave Van Nordheim — who has served in the past as biology teacher, athletic director, and football coach — to take on additional responsibilities as assistant principal. He will be particularly in charge of discipline and activities.

"All activities will be scheduled through him," Norton said. "Even those involving only the grade school."

Van Nordheim will be freed from most of his teaching work to take care of these duties.

Noiton is especially enthusiastic about the educational television system which will go into operation for the first time this fall.

"It can really be a great aid for self-evaluation," he stated. "By having a class video-taped, a teacher can play the tape back later and find out what he's doing wrong and how to improve. It can be an eye opener, because it will point out little mannerisms and idiosyncrasies that may be particularly distracting to the students."

He added that the teachers should not be reluctant to use the ETV facilities for fear that rapid classes will be used by the administration to evaluate them when it comes time for contract renewals.

"That's not the purpose whatsoever," he stated.

Partially to allay any fears teachers may have of working with the new system, a three-day workshop is being held this week.

Ed Bosworth, "the expert on the ETV system," has scheduled the teachers in pairs for hour-long blocks of instruction on the system. They're also being allowed to work it themselves.

"By Friday afternoon every teacher will have had an opportunity to get some real good experience with the educational television system," Norton commented.

"I think ETV and audio-visuals are things the teachers are going to have to work on if they plan to stay in the profession," he stated. "Both are here to stay, and the teachers must find new ways of presenting their material."

The workshop is also being used "to get everyone united," Norton said, "so that we can all carry out the same policies. It will help us all start at the same point and eliminate little difficulties like whether one teacher is going to permit gum-chewing and another isn't."

East Side Will Receive Added Sewer Facilities

Work may begin this fall on installation of a sewer system for much of East Ord, Mayor Bill French said Friday. He indicated that the date won't be known definitely until bids are opened.

The City Council voted at its August meeting to finance a main sewer line along the Union Pacific Railroad right-of-way. The engineer's estimate for this is $8,300.

Individual residents will pay a footage fee on subsidiary lines, French said. The engineer's estimate is $3.94 per front foot. French emphasized that this was not the contractor's estimate, which he believes will run considerably lower.

Future owners who wish to tie on will be charged a service fee of possibly $100, he added.

Harold Hoskins & Associates Inc., an engineering firm based in Lincoln, recently made a study of the area and came up with the estimates and certain recommendations.

By having the work done without forming a sewer district, residents are saving themselves about 20 percent, the mayor said. The new system will be gravity lift, he added, so no pump station will be necessary.

When the project is completed, only two small sections of the city will be without sewer service. One is located on the east side near the city dump, and the other is on the northwest portion of town beyond Dane Creek. French said lift stations would probably be necessary if those areas were to get service.

Eight-inch pipe will be used in the new project, he stated. There was some discussion as to

County Youths to Take Big Part In State Fair Which Opens Today

The Nebraska State Fair opens a week-long run today in Lincoln with Valley County youths in abundance among the exhibitors.

Carole Kriewald shows her horse in the 4H light-horse halter competition as part of today's competition.

Dairy animals will be shown tomorrow by Betty, John and Don Nelson, and by Sherry Hill and Gordon Kriewald. Duane Kovarik will be participating in the poultry judging contest in the morning.

On Saturday, the Valley County 4H livestock judging team — composed of Duane Kovarik, Betty Nelson, Carole Kriewald, and Nancy Hopkins — will be judging. Nancy will also show her three Hampshire market sheep, and Carole her Suffolk breeding sheep on Sunday.

Dale Baldwin will compete in the 4H tractor driving contest to be held Saturday at the College of Agriculture tractor testing laboratory.

Leading off on Monday morning at 8 a.m., Ted Albrecht, Ronald Albrecht, Carole Kriewald, Tom Osentowski and Darlene Osentowski will compete for honors in breeding beef. Following that show, Allen Cahill, Dennis Cetak and Ronald Albrecht will show their Hereford market steers in the market beef division.

Also on Monday, Nancy Hopkins and Rita Wojtasek will compete in the clothes judging contest, and Kathy Waldmann and Becky Gregory will be entered

Ord Man to Speak At Band Competition Friday in Lincoln

Kerry Leggett of Ord will be a guest speaker at the Battle of the Bands, to be held Friday night in the grandstand of the Nebraska State Fair.

A total of seven speakers will deliver short statements in between performances of the six bands. Their objective will be to inspire the assembled youths toward upright living.

Besides Leggett, those presenting statements will be State Senator Calista Cooper Hughes of Humboldt, Nebraska's only female senator; Kenneth White of Lincoln; Joe Orduna of Omaha, a halfback on the University of Nebraska football team; Alan Dunlap of Milford; Tom Osborn, assistant coach of the Nebraska football team who spoke at this spring's Ord High athletic banquet; and Bill Post of Genda Springs, Kan.

They will each be limited to five minutes.

The Sunny Funny Co. will represent this locale in the band competition. The group hails from Kearney.

Other bands participating will be The Commodores, from Omaha; The Prior Associates, Lincoln; The Chain Reaction, Scottsbluff; The Notorious Bandits, Norfolk; and The 3rd Dimension, North Platte.

The competition is sponsored by the State Fair Board, the Nebraska Broadcasters Assn., and the United Methodist Church.

Francis Osentowski Master's Degree

Francis Osentowski, new holder of a master's degree from North Texas State University, will teach instrumental music this fall in the school system at Oakland.

A 1961 graduate of Ord High School, Osentowski also holds a Bachelor of Music degree from Kearney State College. He received his Master of Music award at commencement exercises held Friday on the NTSU campus in Denton, Tex.

Osentowski and his wife Mary have one daughter, Tagni Lea, 8 months old. His parents are Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Osentowski of Ord.

FAA Holds Up Funding Of Ord Airport Project

An indefinite delay has been received on Ord's request for approximately $40,000 in federal funds to help finance improvements at the city airport.

However, Mayor Bill French said the delay possibly will not hinder work on the project. He said the city may decide to go ahead and foot the federal government's portion of the bill as well as its own, since sufficient funds are available in city coffers. When the federal money is received, it would simply be used to replace that taken from city accounts.

The $40,000 represents 50 percent of the costs. The city is chipping in 25 percent, or about $20,000, and the state is doing the same.

French said he assumed the state money will still be available.

Notice of the delay was received Thursday in a letter from W. J. Kreuscher, state airport engineer.

He said the Federal Aviation Agency had advised him money would be available at the present time for only three of six Nebraska projects approved by the agency. One is already under construction, and two are ready for work to begin.

Engineering studies, as well as procurement of land, remains to be completed before actual construction can start on the local project.

"Ord will have the improvement project, with federal aid, but when is the unknown quantity," Kreuscher wrote. The FAA had cited the recent mandatory $6 billion cut in federal spending as a reason for the delay.

French said appraisals are presently underway on the additional land which will have to be procured.

The first phase of the project, which is the only part approved by the Ord City Council, calls for paving the existing north-south runway and extending it from 3,100 feet to 3,900 feet. A second phase calling for installation of a new north-south runway which would be 3,200 feet in length has also been proposed.

A cool 59 degrees was reported at the low temperature reading, Wednesday, and by mid-morning .07 inch of moisture fell added to the 1.04 inch received Monday evening, bringing the rainfall for 1968 up to 16.67 inches. Last year's recording at this time was 13.41 inches.

Temperatures during the week were as follows:

Dr. Osentowski Reports Good Progress Toward Community Improvement Goals

Directors of the Ord Community Improvement Assn. heard a report last week that work is proceeding satisfactorily on the group's established goals.

Dr. F. J. Osentowski, president, said some projects have already been completed while others are either in the planning stage or work is going on.

A representative of the state office overseeing the Community Improvement Project — the Department of Economic Development — was in Ord recently reviewing and evaluating the city's progress. Dr. Glen Auble, a member of one of the directors, reported that the state man was quite pleased with what he saw.

Other directors are Don Sears, Don Walker, Mrs. Florence Janda, Rollin Dye, Mr. Frank Mick, Clark Weckbach, and Henry Jans.

Dr. Osentowski also reported that a subsidiary list of projects was submitted to state officials July 26. In the public sector the following projects were listed:

- Installation of 15 blocks of curb and gutter.
- Establishment of a sizeable camping area at Auble Lake.
- Purchase of a new church site.
- Maintenance of a flower garden in the business section.
- Construction of a concrete parking area at the Ord Catholic Church.
- Work on a sewer project for East Ord.
- Construction of lockers and showers under the stadium at the Ord High School football field.
- Construction of a new music building at the high school.
- In the private sector three projects were listed:
- Opening of a new auto sales and service building.
- Construction of nine new homes.
- Establishment of a miniature golf course.

Older projects which had been submitted previously were the following: completion of the Veterans Club, conduct of a Businessman and Farmer Banquet, participation in the Ord development Corp., establishment of a cheese factory, enlargement of the building fund for a school for the mentally retarded, completion of house numbering, provision of a recreation program for the elderly, construction of a modern nursing home, hard-surfacing the Ord municipal airport, improvement of parking facilities, provision of a tourist camping area, construction of a new Elks building, and installation of a closed circuit television system and video recorder in the Ord schools.

Among Ord Students Kinfolk Thick on University of Nebraska Campus This Fall

By Ellen Sintek

With school beginning at the University of Nebraska on Sept. 9, several brother-sister teams, each composed of a freshman and a senior, will begin classes from the Quiz area.

Larry and Lyle Christensen, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Christensen, are among former Ord High students attending the university this fall.

Larry is returning as a senior in the College of Agriculture. He is majoring in agriculture economics with a business option. His Lincoln address is 3302 Washington St.

Lyle will be a freshman and is majoring in civil engineering. He will leave for Lincoln Thursday and will reside in Room 1312 at Abel Hall.

Michelle and Rebecca Mark-

ley, children of Dr. and Mrs. Murray Markley of Ord, are among other local students attending school in Lincoln this fall.

Michelle leaves today for Lincoln, where she will participate in rush activities of her sorority, Alpha Omicron Pi. She attended Kearney State College this summer. Michelle will be a senior in Teachers College with an English major and a social science minor. She is a member of UNSEA, takes ballet lessons and works with the Red Cross at the state hospital.

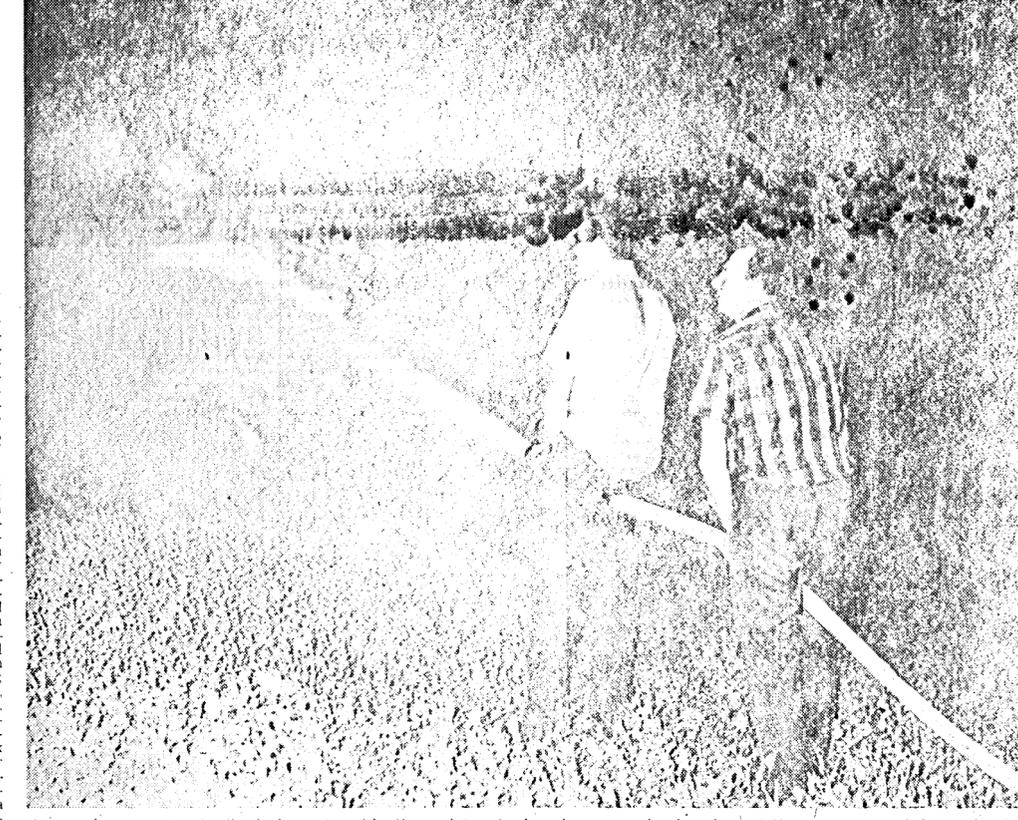

Rebecca will leave for Lincoln Thursday, and will reside in Sandoz Hall at 820 N. 17th St. She is a freshman majoring in physical education in the Teachers College.

Mary and Tom Wagner, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Wagner of Scotia, will also leave next week for classes at the university.

Mary will begin her senior year in the Teachers College with a major in speech and drama. She previously attended Creighton University in Omaha.

Tom will be a freshman in the College of Arts and Sciences. He will leave Wednesday for Lincoln, where he will reside in Abel Hall on the university campus.

Peggy Misko of Ord will also be a freshman at the University of Nebraska. Peggy plans to major in art and will be a member of the Aquettes. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Misko.

The casual way to put out a fire is demonstrated by Ken and Don Petzka, who were on hand as the Ord Fire Department tried to extinguish a blaze late Monday night. The fire started when lightning struck a haystack on a farm worked by Don Petzka west of Ord. Firemen also answered a call Tuesday afternoon to the Bud Krapp farm. It too was caused by lightning, which struck a pile of corn cobs Monday night. The fire apparently smoldered all night and most of the afternoon before flaring up.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

Almost all parents have heard the old saying, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" . . . and evidently many parents believe just this. By popular request we are using again the guidelines concerning school bus safety compiled by a University of Illinois safety specialist. Give your child these guides to go by:

1. Get to the bus stop on time. Leave home early. Don't rush.
2. Stay off roads. Whether you are walking or waiting for a bus, don't compete with cars for highway space. Cross only at corners.
3. Use bus handrails. This will prevent slipping, falling or tripping.
4. Take a seat promptly. A jerky start may throw you into a seat or on the floor, causing injury.
5. Keep aisles clear. Hold books, lunch boxes, and other belongings on your lap. Keep feet and legs under your seat so others won't trip.
6. Hold on if you must stand. Generally, there are handles on seats and straps suspended from ceiling.
7. Keep windows closed. Open them only when the bus driver gives permission. Never stick your head or arm outside a window.
8. Keep quiet. It is important for the driver to hear, as well as see, especially at railroad crossings.
9. Save trash. Keep it for a waste can or basket. Never throw things in, at, or out of a bus.
10. Act your age. Don't horse around and distract the bus driver.
11. Stand clear of the bus after getting off. Buses have mirrors so the driver can see you, but only if you stand clear of the bus. If you must clear in front, walk at least 10 feet away so the driver knows when to proceed.
12. Obey the driver. Your life is in his hands.

Mrs. H. M. Simmons of Omaha, sister of Mrs. Harry Bresley, sent this recipe for quick-to-bake cookies and with it, safe in foil wrap, was a sample of the peanut brittle flavored cookies. The young cooks at your house are sure to want to help in fixing these. To make four dozen cookies all you need is:

1 c. white sugar

1 c. white Karo syrup
Mix and bring to rolling boil. Remove from fire and mix in 1 1/2 c. creamy peanut butter and 5 c. crushed Rice Krispies. Drop by teaspoonful onto waxed paper and spread.

This interesting plea appeared in the July issue of Women's Circle.

The item reads:
"I would like to locate my mother's sister's children. I think there were five children: Joe, Frank, Anna, Mary, but I can't remember the other name. There mother's name was Anna Tinej Dvorak or Dvorshak. She came to the United States from Yugoslavia around 1908. They at one time lived in Ord, Neb.

"I would also like to know the whereabouts of my brother, whom I haven't heard from since 1932. Joseph Zelenka, alias George Marich. When last heard from, he was living in Kansas City, Mo. He would be about 79 years old. James P. Zelenka, 120 Heather St., Salt Lake City, Utah, 84102."

With the summer vacation near its end and fall meetings ready to commence, your help will be needed in establishing a social calendar for the year. We had a good one going last year . . . let's try to make this one better yet. Call in your meeting dates, and we will do the rest!

Those with gardens are trying frantically to give the beans, corn, tomatoes and cucumbers the attention they want. Why is it, I wonder, that on the hottest day of the summer a crock of pickles or a basket of tomatoes are starving for attention.

Ord has a number of good-looking gardens. A vine in the Krankl Kral garden came up with a tomato that measured 15 1/2 inches around the fattest part, and it weighed 1 1/2 lbs. That's a lot of tomato!

Three Families Added
Three families were welcomed to Ord during the month of August.

Dale Hubel and his new bride are originally from Wood River. Dale is employed by the Ord Manufacturing Co. They reside at 418 1/2 S. 17th Street.

County Agent John Schade and his family first lived in the country when they were transferred to Ord from Osgallala. Recently the Schades moved to 2120 L Street. There are four children in the family — Janette, Joan and twins Jan and Jane.

Getting settled in their new home on G Street are Mrs. and Mrs. Harry Michalski and children, Gaylen, Kathy and Kimberly. The Michalskis are from Comstock. He is employed by the Alfa Mill.

Mrs. Esther McIntosh returned by plane to her home in San Francisco, Calif., following a five week stay with her mother, Mrs. Mary Dlugosh and other relatives. Other family members were guests of Mrs. Dlugosh during this time. They were Mrs. Marjorie Bradshaw of Dannebrog, Joe Dlugosh, Jr. of Sterling, Colo., and Mrs. Clara Nekuda and Chuck of Oral, S. D.

Mrs. McIntosh accompanied her sister and nephew to Ord where she was a guest in the home of G Street. On her return she visited her sisters, Mrs. Mary Ann O'Brian and family at Murdock and Mrs. Eleanor Swartz and family at Omaha. Traveling by train to Grand Junction, Colo. she was met by a sister, Mrs. Irene Kuklish and family of Montrose, Colo. After spending several days in the Kuklish home, she departed for San Francisco where she has made her home the past 20 years.

Deanne Kearns spent several days in Ord with her grandparents, the Floyd Berancks. Deanne is counting the days until school begins. She will be a kindergarten this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hawk and their daughter and son-in-law of Chadron visited friends in North Loup, Saturday evening.

New Bride Jodie

Jodie Calvin, Garth Ramsay Jr. Exchange Marriage Vows in Double-Ring Ceremony

An array of candles and summer greenery decked the sanctuary of the Ord United Methodist Church where Jodie Calvin and Garth Ramsay Jr. exchanged marriage vows Sunday at 4:30 in the afternoon. The Rev. Clarence Campbell officiated at the double-ring ceremony after a musical of bridal airs given by Janice Rathbun, organist, with Beverly Wilson of Ord singing "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Calvin of Ord, and her husband the son of Mr. and Mrs. Garth Ramsay Sr. of Omaha.

After repeating vows in the candlelight ceremony, the bride and groom lit the single candle at the altar table, signifying unity after marriage. The bride gave her candle to the groom's mother, and the groom presented the bride's mother with his candle.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. Her dress was of Chantilly lace traditional. The crescent waistline of the fitted bodice featured a high neckline outlined with a narrow ruffle and ruffled front yoke. The long puffed sleeves were edged at the wrists with a narrow border cuff. A controlled skirt of lace extended into an aisle-wide chapel train. Her shoulder-length veil was of a boufant style and crowned with tiny white flowers. She carried a bridal bouquet of daisies and pink roses which streamed in a shower from a lace-covered bridal Bible.

Matron of honor for her sister's wedding was Mrs. Denny Breckbill of Ord. Bridesmaids were Cheryl Calvin and Vickie Calvin of Ord, also sisters of the bride, and Kris Cox of Grand Island, a roommate of the bride at the University of Nebraska.

The four attendants wore hot pink, straight floor-length dresses with cowl collars. Accessories including pale pink elbow-length gloves and matching large pink hats with floor-length ribbons extending down the back. Each attendant carried a single pink rose wand.

Best man for his brother was David Ramsay of Omaha. Other attendants were Ron Tyrdik of Comstock and David Rutledge, friends of the groom, and Denny Breckbill of Ord, brother-in-law of the bride.

Mr. Breckbill was head usher, assisted by Jeffrey Calvin, brother of the bride, Duane Sich and Kent Koppelman, both friends of the bride and groom. The attendants and ushers wore white dinner jackets, appropriate attire for the late afternoon wedding.

Candlelighters were Ann Zlonke and Debbie Hadenfeldt of Ord. Flower girl was Renae Lee Breckbill, niece of the bride. Shawna Breckbill, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer.

Cutting cake at the reception which followed in the church basement were Lois Zlonke and Ruth Hadenfeldt.

For their wedding trip to Colorado, the bride wore a gray shift with matching gray and white jacket. Her corsage was of pink roses. After their return, the couple will make their home in Lincoln where both are students at the University of Nebraska.

A dinner preceded the wedding rehearsal Saturday evening at the Ord Veterans Club. Members of the wedding party attended.

200 Help Fete Peseks On Silver Anniversary

Approximately 200 relatives and friends attended a supper at the Comstock Community Hall Saturday honoring Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Pesek on their 25th wedding anniversary.

Various duties were performed by relatives and friends. Ione Pesek was in charge of the guest book, and Karen Pesek of Grand Island, Mrs. Dorothy Wadas and Arlene Klancey were in charge of the gifts. Those helping serve were Charlene Paider, Helen Bruha, and Pat and Shirley Bruha.

The serving table was attractively decorated with a white covering and white net overlap. A four-layer anniversary cake frosted white with blue trim centered the table.

Those who performed at the serving table were the same attendants the Peseks had 25 years ago. Mrs. Adolph Urbanovsky and Mrs. Ernest Chalupa cut and served the cake, while the flower girls of a quarter century ago — Mrs. Lumir Bruha of Elyria and Mrs. Franklin Novotny of Elba — poured the coffee and punch.

Later in the evening a dance was held at the Comstock Community Hall in honor of the couple with a large crowd attending. The Trojan Orchestra provided music for the dance.

The Peseks live on a farm near Comstock.

One of their sons, Private First Class Robert L. Pesek, was unable to attend since he is in the four-year anniversary camp at Fort Carson, Colo.

June Masters, Vernon Babcock Married In Eyening Ceremony at Arcadia Church

The Rev. Ray Stonehocker performed the Saturday evening wedding that united in marriage June Masters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Apperson of Arcadia, and Vernon Babcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Babcock, of Arcadia.

The double-ring ceremony took place in the Arcadia Calvary Baptist Church decorated with two large baskets of orchids and white mums, and nine branch candelabra. The bride and groom performed the Christian ceremony signifying unity as they lit the center candle.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of white organza over taffeta. The long tapered sleeves, sculptured empire bodice and straight sheath were re-embroidered with lace applique, and accented with pearls and iridescents. Her chapel train of silk organza was attached at the waist forming panels, which revealed a sheath in the front and fell to a train in the back. Long sashes streamed from a bow in the back. Both sashes and the train were finished with lace applique, pearls and iridescents. She carried a white orchid bouquet cascaded with stephanotis and carnations.

Mrs. Steve Davis of Kearney was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Dean Masters of Broken Bow and Terri Pierson of Arcadia. They wore floor-length orchid de-lustered satin dresses with a-line skirts and empire waistlines. The waists were accented with purple velvet ribbon and ended with a bow extending down the back. The dresses featured bell sleeves and scoop necklines. Maid of honor and bridesmaids carried bouquets of white carnations.

Best man was Duane Christenson of Ansley. Groomsman were Gary Babcock of Chicago, Ill., and Chester Babcock Jr. of Arcadia. The bride's brother, Dean Masters, escorted her to the altar.

Ushers were Steve Masters and Tracy Masters, brothers of the bride, both of Lincoln. Diana Moody and Russel Ritz, both of Arcadia, were the candle lighters.

Organist for her niece's wedding was Mrs. Dean Hansen of Lincoln. The bride's brothers, Dean Masters of Broken Bow and Max Masters of St. Petersburg, Fla., sang a duet, and the latter sang the wedding solos.

A reception for the couple followed in the church basement. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pierson of Arcadia. Fox Hinz of Lincoln cut the cake and Pat Strandburg and Sue Geroulous of Lincoln poured punch. Others assisting at the bridal table were Drew Pierson, Lee Sybrant, Susan Apperson and Sharon Apperson.

Those attending at the gift table were Susan Apperson of Blair, Judy Heston of Omaha and Jan Krahulik of Lincoln.

The bride left for their wedding trip to Texas attired in an orchid suit dress with white accessories. She wore an orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will make their home at 2631 Q St. in Lincoln, where both are employed. The new Mrs. Babcock attended the A1-NBV Business School in Omaha, and her husband is a graduate of the Nebraska Vocational Technical School in Milford. He also served with the armed forces in Vietnam.

"PLEASE DON'T HURT MY LITTLE BOY"

Stop - Look - Listen

DEAR DRIVER:

Today my son, who is five years old, starts to school. He wore brown trousers and a little tan shirt. He had on brown and white saddle shoes and wore a little green jacket. His cocker spaniel whose name is "Tyto", sat on the door step and whined his canine belief in the folly in education as he waved "goodbye" and started off to the halls of learning.

Last night we talked about school. He told me about the girl who sits in front of him . . . the boy with the blond curly hair . . . and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. He told me about his teacher . . . and about the trees in the school yard . . . and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things; tremendously vital, unimportant things; then we colored, drew letters and then off to bed.

He's in his bed now . . . sound asleep, with his little toy panda cuddled in his right arm. You guys wouldn't hurt him, would you. You see, I'm his Daddy. When his wagon breaks or his finger is cut, or his head gets bumped, I can fix it . . . but when he starts to school, then he's in your hands.

He's a fine little guy and I'm so proud of him. He can run like a deer and darts about like a chipmunk. He likes to play cowboy and go fishing with me. But I can't be with him all the time. I have to work to pay for his clothes and education. So please drive carefully, please drive slowly past the schools and intersections . . . and please remember that children do run from behind parked cars.

Wood River Lutheran Church is Scene Of Bockstadler-Glinnsmann Wedding

Nearly 175 people witnessed the 4 p.m. wedding Aug. 18 in the Wood River Grace Lutheran Church, when Arlene Bockstadler of Jacksonville, Fla., and David Glinnsmann of Ashton were united in marriage. The bride is the daughter of William Bockstadler of Hastings, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. A. Glinnsmann of Ashton.

The groom's brother, the Rev. Alvin Glinnsmann of Shawnee, Kan., officiated at the late afternoon ceremony. Mrs. Joyce Gidson, cousin of the bride, provided wedding music at the organ, with the guests singing "O Perfect Love" and "Abide, O Dear-est Jesus."

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and was attired in a floor-length gown of white bonded tulle. The bodice featured an empire waist and was fashioned of daisy lace with bell sleeves. The aisle-wide train was edged with lace daisies and fell to the floor from the waistline. The fingertip veil framed the bride's face, falling from a pillbox crown of matching crepe. She carried a bouquet of daisies adorned a white Bible.

The dress was designed and sewn by the bride's sister, Mrs. Loree Hornickel of Mira Valley, with whom she had resided for a time.
Maid of honor was Lavonne Peterson, Rogene Hornickel, the bride's niece, was the bridesmaid. Both attendants wore twin-pleat crepe gowns of sea foam blue fashioned like the bride's. Their shoulder-length veils were attached to matching pill-box crowns, and they carried arm bouquets of yellow daisies.

The groom's brother, Don Glinnsmann, served as best man.

Ushers were Wendall Glinnsmann, Gene Niederklein, Steven Glinnsmann and David Licken.

Judy Bockstadler, the bride's niece, and Roger Hornickel, her nephew, were candle lighters. Another niece of the bride, Renae Bockstadler, was the flower girl.

The bride and groom were guests of honor at a reception in the church basement following the ceremony. Mrs. Leona Lambrecht and Mrs. Clarence Hartman cut the cake. Mrs. Eugene Monson served coffee, and Joann Bockstadler poured punch. The four-tiered wedding cake, centered on the serving table, was accented with yellow daisies and topped with a silver Christogram. It was baked by Mrs. Loree Hornickel.

Joslyn Bockstadler was seated at the guest book. Opening the gifts were Joelen Bockstadler, Arlyce Bockstadler, Randy Hornickel, Ronda Hornickel, Sandra Bockstadler and Ronald Bockstadler. Mrs. Dale Rasmussen and Mrs. Merle Glinnsmann were in charge of the flowers.

Waitresses were Joslyn Bockstadler, Pam Bockstadler, Donna Glinnsmann and Kimberly Katzberg. Kitchen helpers were Mrs. Kenneth Foss, Mrs. Christina Plautz, Mrs. Herb Schmae, Mrs. Irma Bosselman and Mrs. Robert McClurkin.

The bride wore an aqua linen street dress for her traveling attire. She was formerly employed by the Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Jacksonville, Fla. The groom is employed by the Cornhusker Ordnance Plant in Grand Island.

Ord Couple Wed in Candlelight Ceremony At St. John's Lutheran Church, Aug. 17

In a 7:30 p.m. candlelight ceremony, Aug. 17, at St. John's Lutheran Church in Ord, Mrs. Reatha Moody and Virgil Beneke were united in marriage. The Rev. Stanley Rosenau solemnized the double-ring ceremony in the presence of 60 relatives and friends.

Appropriate organ music was played by Janice Rathbun who accompanied soloist Sharon Fuss in "Song of Ruth" and "The Wedding Benediction."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Ackles of Ord. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Beneke of Lincolnville, Kan.

Mrs. Maxine Mattern of Ord served her sister as matron of honor and Lisa Moody, daughter of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Their modified tent style dresses were of candlelight yellow brocade. They carried nosegays of red roses and daisies.

The bride selected a street-length dress of re-embroidered white lace fashioned in a modified tent style with long sleeves and mandarin collar edged with lace. Roses and daisies formed her small cascade bouquet.

W. L. Beneke, brother of the groom, of Parsons, Kan., was best man. Martin Moody, son of the bride, was ring bearer. The guests were seated by Clinton Bentz of Lincolnville, Kan., and Alfred Beneke of Lost Springs, Kan.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kroeger were hosts at a reception at the new home of the bride and groom following the ceremony. Assisting with reception duties were Mrs. James Snelling, Mrs. Rollin Struckman, Mrs. G. T. Buckbee, Mrs. Dwight Ackles, Mrs. Eldon Beneke, Cheryl Dimmitt, Doranne Snelling, Douglas Beneke, Kay Snelling and Galen Ackles.
After a wedding trip to Colorado the couple are at home at 314 So. 24th Street.

The bride is a graduate of Kearney State College. The groom is a graduate of Brown-Maell Business School. He is manager of Farmer's Co-Op Elevator in Ord.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Beneke, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Beneke and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Bentz and family, Lincolnville, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. St. Louis Girls Get Eyeful During Visit to Farm

By Berenice Cornell

Mr. and Mrs. Victor LeVine, Teddy and Nikki of St. Louis, Mo., joined Mrs. LeVine's mother, Juanita Christian, and Berenice Cornell for a drive Tuesday evening to the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Thomsen for a short visit. The highlight of the evening for Teddy, 6, and Nikki, 5, was seeing a cow milked by hand. The children went to the pasture with Mr. Thomsen to drive the cow to the barn. Mrs. Thomsen showed them how cream raises on the milk, skimming a pan so they could see. She used an old-fashioned hand skimmer, perhaps 100 years old. Needless to say, they all enjoyed the children's interest and the evening. The LeVines left Thursday for their home in St. Louis.

Gardeners Gone

Mike and Pat Haines, grandsons of Frank Clark, returned Monday to Omaha for the beginning of school. Mike has been here all summer and Pat since July. Parkview will miss the boys, aged 10 and 7, not being here to help their grandfather with the yard work.

Christ Omnipresent

Rev. Earl Higgins was with us for the Thursday religious service. He serves the Mira Valley, Ord and Arcadia United Methodist Churches. Reverend Higgins' message was from Luke 24:13-35. "Christ lives in the world in our presence at all times and places — not just in a church on Sunday," Mr. Higgins said. To realize His presence we must love one another and give of ourselves. There were 15 present. Mrs. Harvey Thomsen was a guest of Berenice Cornell. After the service Mrs. Thomsen visited with Juanita Christian. Services are held each Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in our recreation room. Visitors are welcome.

Going to Germany

Mrs. Carol Rothe and Julie, daughter and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Polinoski, left Thursday for Omaha and will fly to Germany to be with her husband, James Rothe, who is in the service there.

Song Book Gift

The United Brethren Church gave 24 song books to be used in our religious services here at Parkview. They have the old hymns which so many here know and like, we are grateful for these books and thank Mrs. Desie Needham for the inspiration.

she has created by putting them in our recreation center.

Summer Roving Over

Lyda Porter came home Saturday after being away since May. Her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Romans, brought her from Broken Bow where she had stayed overnight. Mrs. Porter returned from California to Denver Aug. 25 after a visit with brothers on the West Coast. The other time she spent in Denver with her daughter Beulah. Her other daughter, Mrs. Lila Naeve, visited her mother Sunday. Mrs. Desie Needham called on Mrs. Porter Saturday evening. We are glad to have her with us again and looking so well.

County Represented by Seven Delegates

Seven Valley County residents attended last week's district leadership conference of the Nebraska Farm Bureau in Kearney. They were George Krajcik, county president, and his wife; Riley Brannon, state affairs chairman, and wife; George Clement, membership chairman, and wife; and Heloise Bresley, state board member. The Kearney meeting was one of five held in the state during the week. A discussion of agricultural issues facing the nation during the 1969 legislative and congressional sessions highlighted the conference. It was led by Roland Nelson, president of the Nebraska Farm Bureau, and Robert Thompson, secretary-treasurer. Others participating were Stan Tryon, Richard Gooding, Alan Warren, and Theron Summers. Chuck Underwood of the Iowa Farm Bureau Insurance Co. was an after-dinner speaker. Separate meetings of county presidents, vice-presidents, and membership chairmen were also held so they could talk over their respective activities and responsibilities.

Boost Hog Profits

Litter size is the most important factor affecting hog profits. The following is a partial list of managerial practices that can help you attain larger litters at farrowing time:

1. Select gilts from lines with large litter-size records.
2. Practice a sound cross breeding program.
3. Grow gilts out so they are in medium flesh and vigorous condition.
4. Flush gilts two weeks before breeding.
5. Breed gilts at third heat period.
6. Use double-mating breeding system.
7. Decrease intake of high-energy feed after breeding.
8. Increase feed level during the last third of the gestation period.
9. Keep breeding animals cool and comfortable during breeding and gestation.
10. Be present at farrowing time.

Fairy Rings in Lawns

Favorable soil moisture conditions encourage the growth of various fungi. Some of these fungi produce a condition in lawns called "fairy ring."

These rings are circles of grass that are darker green and faster growing than the adjacent plants. The bands vary from 4 to 12 inches wide and may be in circles from 3 to 200 feet in diameter. The center of the ring may contain weakened or dead grass. Fruiting bodies of the fungi may be seen in the area during periods of high moisture. These appear as mushrooms or toadstools.

Fairy rings are difficult to control. One way is to dig out the soil one foot deep and 18 inches on either side of the area involved. This soil should be discarded and new clean soil placed in the trench. Another method of control is by using a fungicide. Bore holes 4 to 8 inches deep and 6 to 12 inches apart in the area extending 18 inches from both the outer and inner edge of the ring. Prepare a water solution of phenylmercury acetate of cadmium-containing fungicide at a concentration two times the recommended rate for foliage application. Add a wetting agent and apply two ounces of the concentration in each hole. Do not spill the material on the grass. Fill the holes with soil and drench the area with at least one inch of water.

Lady Beetle Larvae

We have received a number of inquiries these past weeks about the black insect with orange stripes or spots "sucking" the sap out of corn and milo. These are lady beetle pupae or larvae. They have developed in the past several weeks where greenbugs or corn leaf aphids were numerous.

Lady beetles (ladybugs) are predators and do not feed on plants. The presence of numbers indicate that natural control is underway. Let them work for you.

New in Agriculture

There is no doubt that new varieties and production techniques will improve and that methods and crops available for double-cropping will increase. At least two good companies are producing 68-70 day corn on trial last year that yielded in excess of 100 bushels per acre.

New no-plow planting equipment is going a long way toward solving the problem of following wheat or spring grains with a row crop.

An Efficient Industry

One hour of farm labor produces more than six times more food and other crops than it did in 1919-21. Crop production is 80 percent higher per acre. Output per breeding animal is 100 percent greater.

Productivity of the American farmworker in the 1960s has increased by 6 percent a year. Output per man-hour in nonagricultural industry increased by 3 percent a year. One farmworker produces food, fiber and other farm commodities for himself and 38 others.

After despairing of ever being able to ride his donkey to first base in last week's softball contest between the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Frank Augustyn of the VFW decided it might be easier if both just walked. It worked out fine for him, but shorter-legged fellows who tried it had a few problems.

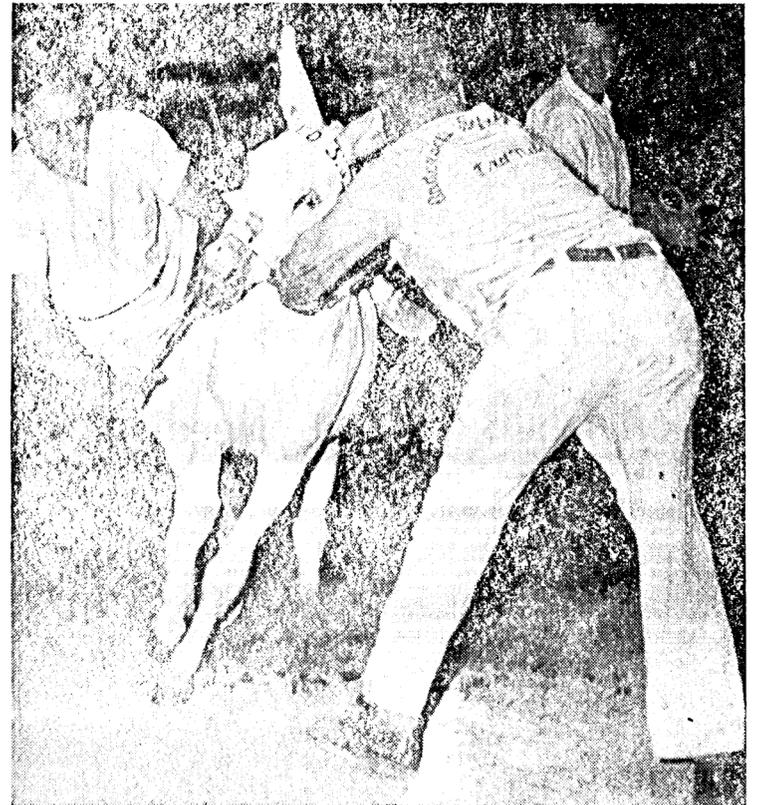

"Land ho!" is the cry as Jaycee Jerry Cower leads for the turf.

Just to prove that there was some softball played, Jaycee shortstop Don Papiernik gets set to whip a hot one to first base.

Ron Graff was a hard-riding parson as he took back seat and exhibited fine rodeo style for Jaycees.

Hank Benda is heading for a nasty spill despite efforts of VFW teammate Bill Andersen to calm a skittish donkey.

Joseph Sedlacek Dies Suddenly Friday Morning

Funeral services for Joseph Sedlacek were held Monday morning at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church in Ord. Mr. Sedlacek died unexpectedly early Friday at his farm home north of Ord. He was 77 years old.

The Rev. Stephen Gombk officiated the 9:30 a.m. Mass. Mrs. Elsie Furtak was the organist.

Flowerbearers were Robert Jablonski, Dillo Truver, J. J. Wawark, Jason Lothrop, Julius Weverka and William Chalupsky. Rosary was recited at the Hastings-Pearson Chapel at 8 p.m. Sunday and burial was in the Ord Catholic Cemetery.

Joseph John Sedlacek was born May 21, 1891, near Ord, the son of Jan and Mary Kratky Sedlacek. He attended Ord Public School and was a member of the Ord Catholic Church. On Oct. 28, 1920, he was married to Anna Polak. He farmed west and north of Ord all his adult life.

Survivors are his wife of Ord; one daughter, Mrs. Joan Decker of Palo Alto, Calif.; one sister, Mrs. Anna Wandas of Denver, Colo.; and two grandchildren, Gregg and Mark Deaton, both of Palo Alto, Calif. He was preceded in death by his parents, two brothers and two sisters.

Bukowski Rites Held Saturday In Loup City

Benedict Bukowski, 62, brother of Mrs. J. J. Jensen of Ord, died Aug. 20 at his home in Omaha.

Services were held Saturday at Holy Name Church in Omaha with interment in St. Joseph's Cemetery at Loup City.

Mr. Bukowski is survived by two daughters, Joan Henkens of Kirkland, Wash., and Mrs. Delores Cramer, Weeping Water; one son, Ben Jr., Stockton, Calif.; four brothers, Robert, Omaha; four sisters, Mrs. Connie Jensen, Ord, Mrs. Dorothy Koziol, Alexander, Va., Mrs. Harriet Koziol, Omaha, and Mrs. Alice Jennings, Kimberling City, Mo.; and 10 grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his wife, parents and one brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Jensen attended the Saturday services.

Mr. and Mrs. William Domeier of Atlanta, Ga., were weekend houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. John Lemmon.

Life-Long Resident Of Ord Community Succumbs at Age 76

Estelle Stewart, 76, died Friday at the Valley County Hospital. She had been in poor health for several years.

Funeral services were held Monday at the United Methodist Church in Ord, with the Rev. Clarence Campbell officiating. Mrs. Sharon Fuss sang "The Old Rugged Cross" and "When The Roll is Called Up Yonder," accompanied by Mrs. Shirley Karre at the organ.

Pallbearers were Martin Rasmussen, Steve Bran, Carl Weckbach, Harold Ganick, Dean Brexley and Hans Larsen. Interment was in the Ord City Cemetery with the Hastings-Pearson Mortuary in charge.

Miss Stewart was born Aug. 10, 1892, at Ord. Her parents were William J. and Margarette Hull Stewart. She lived on a farm near Ord all her life where she assisted her brothers in making a home and helped with the bookkeeping when the family was in the dairy business.

She was a member of the United Methodist Church of Ord. Survivors are four brothers, Enos of Riverside, Calif., Ray, Faye, and Donald, all of Ord; and four sisters, Alta of Ord, Mrs. Hazel Meese, Mrs. Ruth Milton, and Mrs. Aloa Gergen, all of Denver, Colo. Miss Stewart was predeceased by her parents and two sisters.

Fussyville Picnic Scheduled Sept. 10 At Schudel Building

The glory days of Fussyville School will be relived in the minds and conversation of old grads and rivals at the annual Fussyville Picnic, to be held Sept. 10 in North Loup. That's the Tuesday of Popcorn Days.

The picnic will be held at 12 noon, preceding the juvenile parade at 1:30 p.m. It will be held in the Schudel Building which houses the Seefus Tractor Co. Persons planning to attend should bring a basket lunch according to Jean Romans of North Platte, president of the picnic committee. Ice cream and drinks will be furnished.

Mrs. George Penton of North Loup is vice-president of the committee, and Mrs. Jim Scott is the secretary-treasurer. Both are from North Loup.

A turnout of 150 to 200 persons is hoped for by Romans.

He emphasized that the picnic is for alumni of schools which were rivals of Fussyville, as well as the host institution. He named archival Barker, as well as Davis Creek, Haskell Creek, Mira Valley, Springdale, and Valley-side.

Former students of schools which he may have forgotten, as well as old time friends of Fussyville, are invited also, Romans said.

State Educational Television System Needs an Overhaul, Reviewers Say

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — A national consulting team has recommended granting the Nebraska Educational Television Commission final responsibility for developing ETV programs for grade and high schools.

It said the present procedure of a separate ETV Council and the Metropolitan Omaha Educational Broadcasting Assn. (MOEBA) handling televised instruction needs improvement.

Elements necessary for a strong ETV system are present in Nebraska, the team said, "but in far too unorganized, haphazard, or competitive fashion to do the most good."

The conclusions of a three-month study of ETV in Nebraska by the National Project for the Improvement of Televised Instruction were contained in a 16-page report.

The survey was conducted at the request of the state ETV network, the state education department and the Nebraska Council for ETV.

The ETV Commission presently has little authority over televised instruction to elementary and secondary schools. The consultants said this should be changed in a hurry.

"The Nebraska ETV Council and MOEBA should be dissolved . . . and the Nebraska ETV Commission given responsibility for instructional television development and utilization," the report said.

The consultants also proposed pumping more state tax dollars into television programming to improve the quality of education in Nebraska and permit maximum participation by school districts.

One of the basic problems with the Nebraska ETV system, they said, is a lack of adequate programming throughout the state.

Elementary and secondary schools in Nebraska now pay their own program costs through a per-pupil assessment levied by the ETV Council.

The consultants said this approach has resulted in several smaller school districts declining to participate because of local costs.

"The assessment plan has reached a saturation point financially, and some formula for state aid or direct appropriation for instructional television must soon be developed," the report said.

Other major recommendations:

- Development of a telecommunications center at the University of Nebraska to centralize facilities of the ETV network. This project is now under way.
- Establishment of production facilities at Chadron State College to meet the needs of western Nebraska.
- Appropriation of more local funds to acquire television sets for classrooms, and expansion of local distribution systems.
- Operation of all production centers under the state ETV Commission.

The consultants said they heard "again and again that the problems and needs in the urban east and the ranching west were so different as to be almost unrecognizable" for ETV purposes.

However, they added, the study showed that "needs are more common than different" and that this should not be a roadblock to ETV development.

"Many of the future citizens of Omaha are now school children in central and western Nebraska, and many Omaha children will grow up and go away to make a living in rural America," the report said.

Members of the consulting team that made the study included George Bair, education director for the South Carolina ETV network; Dr. William O'Neil, professor of education at Stanford University; Mrs. Margorie McKinney, in charge of instructional television at station WCET in Cincinnati, Ohio; and George Hall, associate director of the National Project for the Improvement of Televised Instruction.

An Example of Modern Religion

A number of local churches hold membership in the World Council of Churches. Members of those denominations will be interested in reading the following song taken from "Washington-Exclusive," printed by the United States Press Assn. Inc.

The song was originally discovered by the Yuma, Colo., "Pioneer" in "New Hymns for a New Day," published by the youth departments of the World Council of Churches and the World Council of Christian Education.

It goes like this:

*"It was on a Friday morning that they took me from the cell, and I saw they had a carpenter to crucify as well.
You can blame it on to Pilate, you can blame it on to the Jews,
You can blame it on the devil, it's God I accuse.
You can blame it on to Adam, you can blame it on to Eve,
You can blame it on the apple, but that I can't believe.
It was God that made the devil, and the woman and the man,
And there wouldn't be an apple if it wasn't in the plan.
Now Barabbas was a killer, and they let Barabbas go,
But you are being crucified for nothing here below.
But God is up in heaven and he doesn't do a thing,
With a million angels watching, and they never move a wing.
To hell with Jehovah, to the carpenter I said;
I wish that a carpenter had made this world instead.
Goodbye and good luck to you, our way will soon divide.
Remember me in heaven, the man you hung beside.*

CHORUS:
*It's God they ought to crucify, instead of you and me,
I said to the carpenter, a hanging on the tree."*

We presume you know the addresses of your local church leaders. The address for the World Council of Churches is 475 Riverside Dr., New York City, N. Y.

Something Different

Showing and Telling

CULLEN LAKE, Minn. — One of the privileges of being a grandmother is to get to show and tell. The world is full of wonders that young eyes delight to see. Just as you once did.

So on a recent Friday we had a happy trip north 125 miles or more, where we went to see the headwaters of the Mississippi River begin in a little brooklet, move into a placid lake, and flow off down intricate watercourses through a maze of ever larger streams. Slowly the great river broadens and deepens into another maze of waterways as it glides out into the Gulf of Mexico.

But it always entrances children when I tell them they can step over the Mississippi where it starts. Hopping from broad smooth stone to broad smooth stone, it is customary to take a sudden seat in the water, but since it's such a famous seat no one fusses. Especially because of all the cameras undoubtedly aimed at you, as other children and honeymooners await their turn to be photographed skipping this water.

Part of a large, beautifully organized state park, the big Douglas fir trees are another feature worth going to Itasca for. Once these lofty pines covered Minnesota; now there are few, so it is a pleasure to come to a place where the winding walks and drives among them are charming.

Sixty years ago pioneer explorations of this wilderness area were begun by the University of Minnesota, egged on by Dr. Thomas Roberts of the museum of natural history. Now many visitors have reason to be grateful to him for his work.

One trail marked "two miles" reveals hundreds of items to inspect. Many of the plants and trees are no longer to be seen, or rarely. So the information sheets and the signs are invaluable as the trail ambles by lake side, over fallen trees, through bogs.

There are 65 notations to mark. Here is number 51: "The trail approaches another rise: watch for a deer path crossing the trail. About 200 feet ahead a short branch-off trail to the left leads downhill to an old forest-pond beaver colony, inactive since 1964."

We enjoyed a quiet lunch in the big old lodge, built of mammoth peeled logs 50 to 60 years ago, and visited the museum, also run by the state. Like our Fort Robinson near Crawford, you may get a room or a cottage here, sit on the terraces, and walk miles along the roads and paths.

It was a nice day, with of course a stop in Hackensack to see the two black bear cubs they always display which really please youngsters. (Next door is a souvenir shop!)

Put People Who Aren't Producing Out to Pasture, Hansen Suggests

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

It's like they say, I reckon, great minds run on the same track. Ken Collins came up with a problem at the country store last Saturday night, and Cleon Hansen came up with the answer.

Ken reported to the fellers he had been doing some reading on this rural - urban life and he was of the opinion folks have got to choose between living and making a living. We've just run out of room where we need it, allowed Ken, and there ain't no way to do both.

For instance, said Ken, we got cities with more cars than parking places, more sick people than hospital beds, more folks at conventions than hotel rooms, more folks to feed than food, and more crooks than cops. We ran out of sideways space a long time ago and now we're running out of straight-up room. Trouble is, Ken allowed, we got millions of acres with nothing on 'em, then we got millions of people on a few acres.

Then Cleon broke in to say he had done some study on this problem and he had come up with the Cleon Hansen Group Plan. All it is, said Cleon, was what them science fellers call "mass movement." What had got him on this plan, reported Cleon, was an article which said that by 1985 we will have an average work week of 22 hours and workers will be retiring at 38 years of age.

The Quiz welcomes communications from readers. The briefer they are, the better is their prospect of publication. All are subject to condensation. We assume no responsibility for statements in letters.

Dear Editor:

I hope you will print this letter because it expresses the feelings of several of us who have been working so hard for the past 3 1/2 years to aid the mentally retarded in this area.

In your editorial, "Nothing Comes Easy," in which you discussed the failure of Ord to receive the federal matching funds to build a school here for the mentally retarded, you said, "The failure to achieve what we hoped for on our first try was, of course, a disappointment." I would like to let you know that many tries have been made for the past 3 1/2 years. You were not in Ord all this time so couldn't know. I, personally, have knocked on many doors, both private and governmental, trying to get aid for these children which I claim have equal rights with other children.

The cheerful, almost lilted quality of your editorial was an affront to all of those whose blood, sweat and tears have been spilled over the last years on this project. At the same time, as you pointed out, "The present task must be to see what can be done to salvage the situation," so moping won't do any good.

Perhaps your "reporter's nose" isn't as keen as it could be if you interviewed very many of us and couldn't smell heartbreak. We need new hearts and hands for this job now—new workers who are willing to shed their blood, sweat and tears and then be kicked in the teeth by a smart-aleck young reporter for their pains.

Mrs. Jewell Buoy
County Supt. of Schools

DEAR SIR:

May I tell you how I feel about my hometown?

My hometown is nestled in a bucolic setting that was first platted in the 1860s as Brownville, then later changed to Arcadia. One meaning is "peaceful valley."

Located on Highway 70 and the Middle Loup River in mid-Nebraska, Arcadia boasts exactly what its euphonious name implies.

It's a proud and fruitful asset to America with its distinction as Bee Capital.

The lush clover and alfalfa fields are not unlike gold mines with their invitation to these mysterious little honey-makers that bring bee men from afar.

Saturday night in the summer is as in days of old. The farmer brings his eggs to town to trade for groceries, and visits the neighbors or goes to the movie.

The quiet beauty beckons all Highway 70 travelers to stop and relax in our pastoral little roadside park just off the west entrance after crossing the river bridge.

Every fall finds the hometown folks planning a festival that draws several thousand visitors from far and near. The Fall Festival is on Labor Day weekend and a most pleasurable way to say good-bye to summer.

Proud is our little village with its big heart, tradition and heritage are still evident upon arrival, as there are still a few false-fronted buildings that depict an era of yesteryear.

This is my hometown.

LP-Gas Dealers Expand Services

Modern LP-Gas retailers have vastly increased their services in recent years, according to a recent study by a private LP-Gas company.

The report indicates that, where LP-Gas companies originally were concerned only with the sale and delivery of LP-Gas, they now offer many other services. These services include kept-filled refill service, safety-engineered installations, periodic appliance inspections, and meter-proven delivery. In addition, 24-hour emergency appliance service is available from some companies. Many LP-Gas retailers also carry a complete stock of LP-Gas appliances.

For more information, contact the LP-Gas outlets in your area. LP-Gas is piped directly to this area by a division of MAPCO — the Mid-America Pipeline System — the underground highway weather can't block.

Residents Vacation in California With Vietnam-Bound Sons

By Bertha Clement
Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Sohrweid returned home Monday of last week after a 13-day vacation to the West Coast in which they drove over 4,000 miles, part of it in rain and snow through the desert. They went especially to see their son Harold before he left for Vietnam. Mrs. Joe Hruby of Comstock accompanied them and visited her son Alan who went into the service at the same time as the Sohrweid youth. The boys came from Camp Pendleton, Calif., and met their parents at Oceanside, Calif., where they all stayed in a motel. They had cooking facilities there and the boys enjoyed home cooked meals the weekend they were together.

At San Diego they toured the Marine Corps Recruiting Depot. They met John Ryschon, another Mira Valley boy, at the Naval hospital. He joined them for a tour of the San Diego Zoo and a picnic lunch. On Sunday they attended church services at Camp Pendleton. After going to IIR (Infantry Training Recruits) the Sohrweids took Mrs. Hruby to the airport where she boarded a plane for Grand Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Sohrweid continued their vacation with a visit to the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Priess and family at Conoga Park, and the Priesses accompanied them to Disneyland. They also had a picnic with the family of Mr. Sohrweid's aunt, Mrs. Josephine Rech at Modesto. At San Rafael they visited the A. C. Bangert family. Mrs. Bangert is a sister of Mrs. Sohrweid. At Oakland they visited a niece, Mrs. Paul LaBranz, and family, and on the way home they stopped in Denver, Colo., to visit another niece, Mrs. Jerry Wolsborn, and her husband.

As they neared home, the vacationers stopped at the Roger Sohrweid home in Kearney hoping for a phone call from their son. He called but missed his folks as he left for Vietnam Aug. 19. Alan Hruby had departed 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Sohrweid visited the Francis Ryschons last Tuesday, telling them about their visit with the Ryschons' son John.

Foths Celebrate
The 70th birthday of Walter Foth was noted with a family picnic at the Ord park Sunday. The June 10 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Foth was also noted, as were the August birthdays of Will Foth (which occurred on the same day as his brother Walter's, Aug. 23), Mrs. Harry Foth, Gerhard Beilke and Patty Peterson. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foth, their children Lyle and Joyce, now Mrs. Dick Beideck of McCook, grandchildren Kay, Christy, Gretchen, Eileen and Kim Foth, and Jennifer, Johnny and Jeff Beideck, Mrs. Lyle Foth, Mr.

Attend Wedding
Rev. and Mrs. Earl Higgins and family attended the wedding of her cousin, Sandra Schroeder, and Francis Polson in Omaha Friday evening. They spent Friday night with Mrs. Higgins' folks Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ochlerking at Murdock.

Surprise Birthday
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan and son attended the surprise birthday dinner for his father, Oliver Morgan of North Loup. Thirty-two were present including all the children and families except Donna.

Hackels Congregate
Mrs. Minnie Hackel of North Loup was a weekend guest of the Russell Hackels. Tuesday callers were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hackel and Elvin of Denver, Colo., and Mrs. Eva Hutchinson of Elgin, the mother of Mrs. Melvin Hackel. She is going to Denver with her daughter and family.

Black Hills Vacation
Mr. and Mrs. Arden Davis, Donna and Karl, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Williams and Gerold of North Loup went to the Black Hills for a vacation last week from Monday to Friday. The babies of the families stayed with grandparents. The vacationers also saw Chimney Rock and Scotts Bluff and spent a night with a sister of Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Jim Sharp, and family at Big Springs.

Coloradoans Visit
Mr. and Mrs. David Davies of Boulder, Colo., are houseguests of her sister, Mrs. Elsie Bremer. They arrived Monday last week to visit her and other relatives. Bill and Don Vogeler visited the Bremers and their guests Saturday evening.

Bremers Travel
Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bremer, Beverly and Darrell recently spent an eight-day vacation visiting Mr. Bremer's sisters and their families. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Herman Michael and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Michael and families at White, S. D., and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Friedrich and family at Alta, Ia. The Bremers returned home Saturday.

Cooks Host Daughter
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stuber and Chuck visited her folks, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Cook, Thursday. They were en route to their home in Raleigh, N. C., after visiting Mr. Stuber's sister in Portland, Ore.

Practical Princesses
Elven members of Practical Princesses 4-H Club and their leaders met with Debbie Cook Aug. 21. Debbie conducted the meeting, and Ronda Hornickel read the minutes.

Roll call was answered by telling what each member was going to do on Achievement Day. The menu planned for that day was cup cakes, homemade ice cream, punch, nuts and mints. Achievement Day was held Monday at the Valley Side School house.

Teacher Visits
Mrs. Elva Hayden was an overnight guest of the George Bells Wednesday, stopping en route from Jamestown, Colo., to Fairbury where she teaches in a junior college. She also visited the Clare Clements and George Clements.

Iowans Call
Mr. and Mrs. Dick Bell and Stevie of Des Moines, Ia., and Mrs. Gary Keep of North Loup were Saturday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Bell.

Personals
Mrs. Ed Huffman and Marion went to Omaha Tuesday of last week. Marion went for a check-up at his doctor's, and the report was "very good."

Mrs. Will Foth and Mrs. Irwin Kingston, accompanied by Irvin Schoemaker of Scotia, visited Mrs. Hattie Hein and daughter Violet of Fort Collins, Colo., recently at the home of Mrs. Martha Fillingier and daughter, Mrs. Mabel Doyle, in Seward. Mrs. Hein and Mrs. Fillingier are sisters of Mr. Schoemaker and aunts of Mrs. Foth and Mrs. Kingston. The visitors were Saturday afternoon and supper guests of Mrs. Fillingier and Mrs. Doyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bredthauer Sr. of Grand Island visited the Walter Foths late Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Dick Beideck of McCook was a Friday to Sunday guest of her folks, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foth. She had been in post session at Kearney State College. Her children, Jennifer, Johnny and Jeff, returned home with her Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Vlach spent the weekend in Omaha. They visited his mother, Mrs. Mary Vlach, and a pair of sisters and brothers-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Paseka and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farka. One of their homes was only four blocks from the recent tornado.

Mrs. Loree Hornickel, Rogene and Roger spent Wednesday of last week at the David Glinzman home near Rockville.

Mrs. Glinzman came up Tuesday afternoon to help celebrate the birthday of her sister, Mrs. Hornickel. Ronda and Roger went home with her for a few days visit.

The Hornickels and the Gene Bredthauers were among those attending the A. A. L. (Aid Association for Lutherans) picnic at the Ord park Sunday.

Saturday evening lunch guests of Mr. and Mrs. Irving King were

Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Moulton of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Dell Barber and Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Van Horn, all of North Loup; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Harkness, Gary and Paul; Mr. and Mrs. Harold King, James, Connie, Sharon and Alan; and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rice, Eileen and Joyce.

The Irving Kings were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Obrist of Stromsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Thomas of Scotia, and Mr. and Mrs. Veruon Thomas of North Loup at the Veterans Club in Ord. In the afternoon they all went to Fort Hart-suff, and then to the King home for lunch. The Irving Kings had been supper guests of the Harold Kings last Wednesday.

Vickie, Marcie and Debra, children of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Mason, spent part of last week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Mason.

Mr. and Mrs. John Masen and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Horace McKay of Lakewood, Calif., spent last Tuesday evening at the Archie Mason home. The visitors were dinner guests Wednesday of their hosts at the Veterans Club in Ord.

Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Campbell and family were Sunday lunch guests of the Irving Kings. Mr. and Mrs. King attended the Boone County Fair at Albion Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Geweke drove to Omaha Monday to meet their daughter, Mrs. Bob Stowell, and Dahm of Columbus, Ga. Captain Stowell plans to arrive Thursday. Mrs. Lyle Sintek spent the day with her daughter, Mrs. Don Geweke, and new baby, Barry Donald, who came home from the hospital Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Will Foth called at the Geweke home Sunday to see the new baby.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Geweke of Geneva stopped at the Lloyd Geweke home Sunday, wondering if there might be a relationship.

It was tie-shedding time as things warmed up for the Ord High School band this week. Jim Ochsner, new director, pleads for just the right touch at a recent practice session. The band will make its first appearance of the season Monday at the Fall Festival in Arcadia.

Mrs. Minnie Hackel of North Loup was a Sunday dinner guest of Mrs. Ed Cook.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Everett of Minden brought Donna and Tracy Johnson home Friday. They had spent the week in Minden. The Andersons and Everetts were dinner and supper guests of the Johnsons, and Mr. and Mrs. George Jensen of North Loup were afternoon visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Ringline attended the Howard County fair Saturday night.

Former North Loup Resident Appointed To Commission by Seventh Day Baptists

A North Loup native is one of two men named as new members of the Seventh Day Baptist Church's commission at its recent general conference in Kearney.

Warren Brannon, now of Freeville, N. Y., will serve a three-year term on the commission, which acts as an advisory body to the general conference.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska, Brannon also possesses Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy degrees from Cornell University, where he is presently an associate professor in the Department of Animal Science. He is also superintendent of sheep, swine, goat, and meat exhibits at the New York State Fair.

Also named to the commission was Rev. Edgar Wheeler of Ashaway, R. I. A native of Nortonville, Kan., he is presently pastor of the First Hopkinton Seventh Day Baptist Church in Ashaway.

Leland Bond of Clarksburg, W. Va., is the general conference's new president. A native of Lost Creek, W. Va., Bond is a professional sales representative for Lederle Laboratories, a division of the American Cyanamid Co. He is a former teacher at Weston, W. Va., High School.

"Sensitive in His Service" will be the theme of the 1969 conference, which will be held at Nyack, N. Y.

Delegates to this year's conference decided to ask each church member to contribute at least the cost of one dinner to the Church World Service for Biafran relief. The commission also suggested that the general conference urge the U. S. ambassador to the United Nations to press for quick action in breaking the blockade of relief supplies to Biafra. The Value of the Church in the Community

by Rev. Leonard S. Clark
"This is a good town in which to live!" reads a sign near the railroad in an Eastern city. "It has five strong banks, three lines of railroad, fifteen high grade schools, miles of paved streets, pure water, beautiful parks, and TWENTY-FIVE FINE CHURCHES!"
Why were the churches mentioned in this list of community assets? Why because of their recognized VALUE to that community? Most people do not wish to rear their children in a town without a church, and I am sure that you are one of these.
Morality, goodwill, benevolence, patriotism, honesty, and character—these are a few of the qualities the church builds into the lives and beliefs of young men and women, as well as keeping them alive in older persons! We are far more deeply indebted to the church of Jesus Christ than many of us realize. People stop to realize. We are indebted to the church for the very foundation of our great democracy!
We say that the church is human, yet divine, made up of men and women, boys and girls of our community who have caught something of its value to them and their fellow men. Yes, it is truly "human, yet divine!" If it were merely human, it would be like any other human institution or organization, fraternal or social in nature, but it was begun and endowed with a spirit and a power beyond which human hands could create otherwise, it would have been extinct centuries ago! Its great Founder, Jesus Christ proclaimed, "Upon this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it!" The great Christian churches of all faiths stand today, a living testimony of this truth! The marvelous thing about the church is that it is for every man under all circumstances! It is for young and old, rich and poor, the sorrowful and the depressed, the happy and the carefree, but we are here to say the church can have much to do with whether or not a man is going to be depressed or happy! His fundamental attitudes toward life will be changed if he takes seriously the teaching of his church!
