The first day of school can be an awfully lonesome experience for a little girl. Kim Porter, 5, knows, because that's exactly the way she felt when her first day of classes started Tuesday.

Administrators Report Ord Schools Off to Good Start After First Day

Both high school and elementary principals reported things going "very smoothly" in the Ord School System yesterday after one day of classes.

"I think the three-day workshop we had last week for the teachers and staff got us off to a good start," high school principal Bob Norton reported. "It gave us some guidelines and got us all coordinated."

Norton said the staff was still working on some conflicts in schedules, but otherwise things were going well. "We always have a few conflicts with schedules," he said.

Ord's other shops did a booming business Tuesday as school officials sent some of the boys in for a trimming before allowing them to start classes.

Final figures weren't available on enrollment, but Norton said pre-enrollment figures of a week ago listed 519 students, up 45 from last year's total.

"I think we had three or four more enroll who had not pre-registered," he said.

Grade school principal Gerald Decker also reported things going well after one day.

"We had problems with a couple of the kindergarten students," he said, "but I think they're all settled now."

He said he spent 30 minutes talking to one young lad who was finding his first experience with school just too trying.

"I talked with him and then took him on a tour of the whole building," Decker explained. "We looked at everything — where the teachers get their supplies, the whole works."

"He finally settled down, and I think he's going to be okay."

"I talked with his father on the phone last night," Decker continued, "and he thanked me very much for the efforts we took."

"Then I asked to speak with the boy, and that really pleased him. I don't think he'll give us any more trouble from here on out."

Decker said such experiences are not unusual.

"For most of the children it's their first time away from home, and one or two of these things are expected," he said.

Elementary enrollment is down by three students from the total on the closing day of school last year. The figure this year is 383 for both the Comstock and Ord schools, which are both part of the Ord School System. Last year's closing total was 386.

Beer License Request Okayed for Ord Bowl

The Ord Bowl's request for a beer license was unanimously approved Tuesday night at a meeting of the Ord City Council.

The request will now be forwarded to the State Liquor Commission for final action. Ordinarily the state agency follows the recommendations of local officials.

If approved, the license will permit sale of beer for on-premises consumption only.

Two persons appeared at the meeting to testify in favor of the license approval, and five were present to voice opposition.

Advocating approval were Don Goodsell, owner of the bowling alley, and Kerry Leggett, owner of Quiz Graphic Arts Inc. Opposing it were Bob Moyer, manager of the J. M. McDonald Co. store in Ord; John Gommerman, who describes himself as simply "a citizen"; Allen Collier, who said he represented the youth of the town; J. H. Schroeder, minister of the Ord Christian Church; and Don Wright, minister of the Bethel Baptist Church. Wright also read a list of 159 people who had signed petitions opposing issuance of the license.

Goodsell said he needed the license to help business and to give him firmer control over drinking of liquor in his establishment. In the past customers have brought their own hard liquor and kept it in their lockers, he said. With the beer license hard liquor will be prohibited.

He also pointed out that most bowling alleys have beer licenses.

"I want it for the convenience of bowlers, not drinkers," he said. "Business is slow as it is, and if I don't get the license many of those bowlers who are coming will quit."

Leggett read to the council excerpts from a book entitled "Alcohol Problems: A Report to the Nation." It contained findings of a seven-year government study.

He pointed out that the study recommended liquor commissions help establish controlled drinking patterns rather than having drinking unregulated as it is now in many cases.

"The problem is not litigation as much as it is education," he said. "When you hide it you create problems."

"Denying a license will not help control the problem of alcoholism," he added.

Opposition centered around the fact that issuance of the license would expose young people to a drinking environment, although Moyer opposed it on grounds that it would hurt the city in efforts to obtain more industry.

He said he had dealt with large corporations previously, and one of the things they consider when contemplating a move is the ratio of liquor licenses in a community to the population.

"We've got 11 licenses already, or about one per 500 people," he said. "The ratio in most towns is about one per 2,000. Practically all of them at least have a rule of thumb. We have none, and I think we should."

He said he was not advocating denial on moral grounds, but simply on the business effects it will have on the city.

Schroeder said the community would be hypocritical if it lets young people into an establishment where liquor is served, prohibits them from drinking, and then arrests them when they do.

He cited figures showing that nationally for each dollar the government collects in liquor revenue it turns around and spends $7.36 for rehabilitation of alcoholics.

"Let's stop fighting the effects and start fighting the disease," he said.

"If this license is granted, even the grocery stores will eventually be requesting licenses on the grounds that they need it to help their business," he added.

Wright said the 159 people who had signed petitions opposing the license seemed to be saying to the councilmen that they should deny the request.

"Not one of those people is a bowler, though," Goodsell countered. In addition, councilman Ed Christensen said the majority were older people who have no control over the teenagers with whom the opponents seemed to be most concerned.

"Being a bowler isn't a qualification for signing this petition or appearing before the council," Schroeder responded. "Being a citizen is, and all these people are citizens."

The motion to approve was made by Merle VanZandt and seconded by Ray Marshall.

Meningitis Patient Responds to Care

A case of chloro meningitis was discovered in Ord over the weekend. However, Dr. Otis Miller said Wednesday that prompt treatment has averted any danger of fatal consequences, or an epidemic.

Dr. Miller said Randy McCall, 18, was to be released Wednesday.

"He was pretty sick when they brought him in Saturday," the doctor said. "However, it has cleared up to the point where he can go home today."

Persons who had been in close contact with the youth were given preventative medications, also.

Local Tax Levies Set for Residents

Mill levies for the 1968-69 tax year were approved Aug. 23 by the Valley County Board of Supervisors, but residents will have difficulty trying to determine whether or not they'll pay more taxes.

Generally, city and school levies are up while the county assessment is down.

However, valuations have changed completely since last year in many instances due to the county's first complete appraisal in 20 years. In addition, the city levies will cover a 15-month period instead of 12 as last year. This is due to a change in the fiscal year.

The county levy is down to 14 mills per dollar of assessed valuation. Last year it was 15.28. County Clerk Thelma Dulitz reported that the reduction was due principally to an increase in valuations of more than $3 million.

Thus, the county will be collecting taxes on $23,782,636 worth of property instead of the $20,500,209 it collected on last year.

Ord, North Loup, and Arcadia city levies are all up while Elyria's remains the same.

The Ord figure jumped from 16.42 to 17.30; North Loup from 31.83 to 36.91, and Arcadia from 25.65 to 28.32. Elyria's stays at 6.

Mrs. Dulitz said the sizeable increase in the North Loup levy was due to extensive street and road work planned there during the coming year.

Both Ord and North Loup have increased valuations, Ord's going up by more than $400,000 and North Loup's by $23,000. Arcadia was down almost $53,000, and Elyria dropped nearly $9,000.

The levy for the Ord School District is up from 37.96 mills to 39.64. The major portion of that was due to a special two-mill levy to cover costs of the new music building now under construction.

Overall, Ord residents will pay $71.69 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. That includes county, city, school, and miscellaneous taxes. The figure represents an increase of 93 cents over last year.

North Loup residents will pay $90.91, up $2.20, and Arcadia will pay $89.05, an increase of $1.73.

Elyria residents will get the only break among villagers; the town's total drops to $33.70. That represents an even $3 decrease.

A complete listing of levies, along with county and city budgets, is contained on Page 6 in the second section of today's Quiz.

County Supervisors Postpone Action On Hastings Technical School Issue

A petition requesting that county voters be allowed to decide whether or not they wish to support the Central Nebraska Technical School at Hastings was tabled Tuesday by the Valley County Board of Supervisors.

The county's Technical Action Panel had requested that the item be placed on the November ballot.

In tabling the request, the supervisors said expenses appeared to be excessive for the amount of good the county would receive if it joined in supporting the school. Counties now backing the school pay a two-mill levy.

"If we knew we'd have 30 kids over there, it would be fine," said Carson Rogers, chairman of the supervisors. "But for two or three, which we've had in the past, it would be too expensive."

Kenneth Dorsey said it would be cheaper to appropriate money directly for tuition, if it came down to it, than to pay the mill levy.

There has been some concern that the state legislature might assign each county to a technical school district, thus making support mandatory. Rogers said if it came down to a choice between the school at Hastings and one at Norfolk, the county would prefer to back the Hastings school.

"It already has facilities, while the one at Norfolk is starting from scratch," he said.

On another subject, the supervisors took no action on a request by the Arcadia Rural Fire District to start foreclosure procedures against a lot the district is buying.

Located just east of the bank building in Arcadia, the lot has approximately $400 in outstanding taxes against it. Foreclosure action would eliminate a requirement for the fire district to pay the taxes.

Darrell McKinney appeared before the council to plead the fire district's case.

The supervisors said they sympathized with the request, but could take no action until they received legal advice from County Attorney John Sullivan. He was not present at the meeting.

The supervisors also declined to take action to prevent Mrs. Jewell Buoy, county school superintendent, from drawing her full salary while she teaches a class at Ord High School.

Mrs. Buoy has agreed to teach journalism at the high school four days a week. Class periods are 70 minutes in length, so she will be gone from her office at least that much time from Tuesday through Friday. She will receive compensation from the Ord Board of Education for her teaching work.

Alfred Barson said he felt it should be left up to the public to raise the issue.

Bill Tuma said he had talked to 14 persons, and every one of them was against Mrs. Buoy drawing her full salary while she takes a part-time job.

Bill Zablouil was even more emphatic.

"I don't think the board should stand for it," he said. "I want to go on record as opposing it. After hours she can do anything she wants, but during the work day her responsibility is to the county."

"She claims she needs more office help," Zablouil continued, "but she has time to teach school. It's no more fair for her to take off during duty hours than it is for any other county employee."

Mrs. Buoy had discussed her outside employment with some of the supervisors at an unofficial meeting Aug. 28.

The best of 37 major floats entered in Arcadia's Fall Festival parade was this entry sponsored by Bumm-Honey. It was picked a Switzerland ski scene and was entitled, "Neighbors Around the World." Officials estimated between 4,000 and 5,000 visitors were present for the Labor Day celebration. There'll be lots more pictures and information on the parade and event winners in next week's Quiz.

Colorado Physician Responds to Call From Loup City

Announcement was made last week that Dr. Gary Ritchie will be the new doctor at Loup City. Dr. Ritchie will have his office in the clinic building and will see patients beginning Sept. 16.

Dr. Ritchie, whose home address is Pueblo, Colo., is a graduate of Southern Colorado State College at Pueblo and the Creighton School of Medicine in Omaha. He has had one year of surgery in addition to his internship.

Housing has been secured for the new doctor, his wife Mary Beth and four children.

Loup Citizens also learned last week that the Sacred Heart Hospital has been accredited for a period of three years by the Board of Commissioners of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. This is the result of an evaluation of a hospital survey conducted in mid-July by Dr. Adrian Robinson, field representative.

Sister Edwardine, administrator, indicated the accreditation was achieved through cooperative efforts of the medical and hospital staffs.

Events Planned Sept. 9, 10, 11 At North Loup

Many events are scheduled for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday when North Loup presents its annual Popcorn Days.

The big three-day event will begin Monday at 1 o'clock with a parade of horses and horse show with individuals and clubs invited to participate.

Tuesday's activities will begin much earlier in the day when a new attraction — the Horse Shoe Pitching contest — is set to get underway at 9 a.m. One of the highlights of the festivities — the crowning of the Popcorn Queen — will take place at 7:30 p.m. that evening.

On Wednesday, special events include the band concert and Parade of Floats led by the Popcorn Queen.

During the entire three days there will be school exhibits, agricultural exhibits, 4-H exhibits and ladies exhibits plus the Northern States Show carnival.

New Yorkers Busy

Certain members of the New York delegation were named by Lange as some of the more notorious instigators of trouble inside the convention hall.

"The Nebraska delegation was located not more than the width of an Ord street from the New York group," he stated, "and we could see a lot of what they were up to."

"Of course there were some members who were earnestly dedicated to peace, but there were others who were there specifically to make trouble," he said.

He added that he saw one man being hauled off by police, but didn't know who it was in the School has begun. Whether Monday was the day your first youngster waved goodbye as you watched with tear-filled eyes or your youngest called back, "See ya later, Mom," as you stood alone on the back steps... or whether the gang left matter-of-factly with the "Ah shucks, school again" attitude, let me share with you "World, Take My Son By The Hand." I believe all mothers will enjoy it. I wish I knew the author.

"My son starts to school tomorrow. It's going to be strange and new to him for a while and I wish you would sort of treat him gently. You see, up to now, he's been king of the roost.

"He's been boss of the backyard. I have always been around to repair his wounds and I've always been handy to soothe his feelings. But now... things are going to be different.

"This morning he's going to walk down the front steps, wave his hand, and start on his great adventure that probably will include wars and tragedy and sorrow.

"To live his life in the world, he has to live in, will require faith and love and courage. So world, I wish you would sort of take him by his young hand and teach him the things he will have to know. Teach him... but gently, if you can. He will have to learn, I know, that all men are not just, that all men are not true. Teach him that for every scoundrel, there is a hero, that for every crooked politician there is a dedicated leader. Teach him that for every enemy there is a friend. Let him learn early that bullies are the easiest people to lick.

"Teach him the wonders of books. Give him quiet time to ponder the eternal mystery of birds in the sky, trees in the sun, and flowers on a green hill. Teach him that it is far more honorable to fail than to cheat. Teach him to have faith in his own ideas, even if everyone tells him they're wrong.

"Try to give my son the strength not to follow the crowd when everyone else is getting on the bandwagon. Teach him to listen to all men — but to filter all he hears on a screen of truth and to take only the good that comes through. Teach him to sell his brain and brains to the highest bidder, but never to put a price tag on his heart and soul.

"Teach him to close his ears on a howling mob — and to fight if he thinks he's right. Teach him gentle world, but don't coddle him because only the test of fire makes fine steel.

"This is a big order, world, but see what you can do. He's such a nice little fellow, my son."

Looking for a new way to serve cucumbers? Mrs. Willard Harkness suggests a delicious dish called Cucumber Scallops. Her recipe calls for: 4 large cucumbers peeled, cored, seeded and cut into one-inch pieces.

Cook in boiling salted water, with 1/4 c. sliced celery, 15 minutes. Drain well. Place in 6 cup-baking dish. Melt 3 T. butter with 3 T. flour, 1 t. salt, 1/2 t. pepper. Add 1/2 c. milk and 1/4 c. mayonnaise or salad dressing. Cool till slightly thickened. Pour over cucumbers and celery. Top with buttered crumbs. Bake in 350-degree oven for 30 minutes.

Duane Kovarik, who won a blue ribbon on his emergency meal canned food exhibit at the Nebraska State Fair, has proved that girls don't have all the inside information on preparing food. Duane's project, "Emergency Meal," has had eight years of 4-H food preservation projects.

The 16-year-old's emergency meal menu featured steak, mashed potatoes, gravy, tomatoes, pickles, buttered green beans, and butter, and peach cobbler. Duane chose steak as his main meal dish because he feels it is one of the easiest meats to cook. The other articles were available from his 4-H garden project.

Duane is a member of the Happy Circle Club. He was the only boy in Valley County taking the advanced food preservation project. A member of the Valley County 4-H poultry and livestock judging teams this year, Duane's projects ranged from woodworking and poultry to dairy and beef animals.

Ronald Nevriy Weds Omaha Girl In Church Setting

Yellow and white gladioli adorned the altar of the Holy Name Church in Omaha where Karen Ann Flanagan and Ronald J. Nevriy exchanged marriage vows Aug. 3. The Rev. Robert Beck officiated at the noon ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Flanagan of Omaha. The groom is the grandson of the late Mrs. Julian Nevriy of Ord. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jensen of Cairo are his parents.

For her wedding the bride selected a gown of hand-clipped Chantilly lace fashioned on empire lines with portrait neckline and long tapered sleeves. The A-line skirt was worn with an aisle-wide detachable Watteau lace train. Her imported illusion veil was caught by a petal caplet of lace, bordered with seed pearls and tipped with sequins. She carried a bouquet of white pomspons and yellow sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Edward Bartling, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Other attendants were Donna Koraleski, Mrs. James Zikmund of Ord, Nancy Flanagan, sister of the bride, and Julie Jensen, sister of the groom. They wore cage gowns of floral chiffon over aqua, dark blue, pink, yellow and Kelly green respectively, and carried nosegays of multi-colored daisies.

Debra Lynn Bartling, gowned in a street-length A-line dress of white daisy lace over pink acetate, was flower girl. James Otto was ringbearer.

Richard Jensen served as best man for his brother. Groomsman were James Zikmund, Joseph Nevriy Jr., and Ronald Radil, all of Ord, and Edward Bartling. Ushers were Michael Flanagan, brother of the bride, and Howard Jensen, brother of the groom.

A reception followed at the Phoenician Club. After a wedding trip to Denver, Colo., the newlyweds are at home at 4038 Kansas Ave., Omaha.

The groom is a 1966 graduate of Ord High School.

North Loup Students Head for University

Several North Loup students will leave for Lincoln this week to begin classes Sept. 9 at the University of Nebraska.

Darrell Patska, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Patska, is returning as a senior in the College of Agriculture. He is majoring in agriculture economics. Darrell is a member of the Agriculture Executive Board and Agricultural Economics Club, a staff writer for the Daily Nebraskan, and a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society.

Ellen Sintek left for Lincoln Wednesday to reside in Sandoz Hall. She is a junior majoring in journalism and is active in Angel Flight, AWS Court Board, and Young Republicans. She will also serve as Abel Sandoz, resident treasurer. Ellen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Sintek.

Charles Sintek will be a freshman at the university, with plans to major in engineering. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Sintek.

Supper Honors Four

Valley County Hospital employees gathered in the recreation hall at Parkview Village Thursday evening for a covered dish supper. Karl McKinnon, resident administrator, provided organ music during the supper hour. The gathering also honored four staff members who are leaving the hospital. They are Doris Pester, Mary Ray, Winona Marshall and Elizabeth Volf. Each was given a gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Ringlein attended the alumni reunion Sunday at Spalding. Mr. Ringlein's class of 1938 was among those honored.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Klima of Berkeley, Calif., visited his sister, Mrs. Joe Bartu, and family, as well as other friends and relatives in the area last week. Other callers in the Bartu home last week were Mr. and Mrs. John Pecinovsky of Lawlor, Ia., and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Drobny of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Anderson and family of Lincoln were guests in the Walter Anderson and Gerald Dean homes the past week. On Friday, the two Anderson families were supper guests in the Calvin Gould home.

The Norman Schmidt family of Ravenna visited friends in Ord during the holiday weekend.

Sue Grove accompanied the Orle Hurlbert family to Arcadia Monday for the Fall Festival activities.

Sally Lucas and Allan Harms Exchange Marriage Vows in Double-Ring Ceremony

In a 4 o'clock ceremony Saturday afternoon at the Ord United Methodist Church, Sally Lou Lucas became the bride of Allan Lee Harms. The Rev. Clarence Campbell solemnized the double-ring ceremony in the presence of 125 relatives and friends.

Appropriate organ music was played by Mrs. Dale Karre with a brass quartet made up of Larry McLean, Larry Rathbun, Paul Ramp and Lynn Molles presenting special wedding music. Candelights were Jeanne and Albert Lucas of Tacoma, Wash.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lucas of Tacoma, Wash., and the grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Almqvist of Ord. The groom is the son of Mrs. Walter Harms of Auburn.

Janice Rathbun of Ord was maid of honor. Sheryl Bresley of Ord and Barbara Ruch of Ord, Ia., were bridesmaids. Their full-length dresses of olive green were patterned with empire waists and wide back panels, short sleeves and rounded necklines. Their headpieces were of matching net topped with a generous bow. Each carried a single white mum.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her grandfather. Her white linen dress featured an empire waist and short sleeves trimmed with elegant Mantoux lace. A mantilla train edged with Mantoux lace accented the straight lines of her full-length skirt. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses encircling a white orchid.

Best man was Roger Harms of Auburn. Other attendants were Michael Moody of Claremont, Calif., and Larry McLean of Everly, Ia. Hal Cummins of Ord, Gary Rogge of Auburn, and James Adams of Lincoln were ushers.

A reception followed in the church basement. Mrs. Roger Arnold registered the guests.

Various reception duties were carried out by Ida Rogge and Mrs. Adolph Rogge of Auburn, Mrs. Dick Bousack of Norfolk, Mabel Almqvist of Hemet, Calif., Mrs. H. W. Travis of Ord, and Mrs. William Hill of Ogalala.

For their wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the new bride wore a gray suit with white accessories. After Sept. 10 their home will be in Cedar Rapids, Ia., where the groom is employed by Collins Radio Co.

A reception served by Mrs. W. Fer Harms and Mrs. H. W. Travis followed the rehearsal Friday evening at the Travis home. Members of the wedding party and family members attended.

Christened Amy Jo

Amy Jo, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Potrzeba, was baptized Thursday evening by Father Stanley Gorak at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Oak of Columbus are the child's godparents. The Oaks were evening guests in the Potrzeba country home.

She's Melanie Jo

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Calvin returned recently from Marshfield, Wis., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. David Anderson and family and became acquainted with little Melanie Jo, born July 20. The baby weighed 4 pounds, 9 ounces at birth. She joins a brother, Scott, age 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Setlik were Sunday evening guests in the Joe Bartu home.

Mrs. Walter Anderson of Arcadia and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Anderson and Bruce of Lincoln were brief callers in the Dale Norman home Friday.

Church of the Risen Christ Is Scene Of Pattison-Douthit Wedding Aug. 24

Kathy Ann Pattison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pattison of Lincoln, and Bruce Douthit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Douthit of Ord, were united in marriage Aug. 24 at the Church of the Risen Christ in Lincoln. Msgr. Clarence Crowley solemnized the double-ring ceremony and offered the Nuptial Mass with the groom's brother, Spencer Douthit, as server and John Douthit as lector. Kenneth Ford provided wedding music, and Mrs. Stanley Johnson was the vocal soloist.

Kathy... a recent bride

Sharon Letheby of Lincoln was maid of honor. Bridesmatron was Mrs. Gary Graham, sister of the groom, and Mary Pattison, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore full-length gowns of a light pink shade featuring a cowl neckline and short sleeves. Large matching hair bows completed their attire.

For her wedding the bride chose a full-length gown of white pique styled with a high neckline and three-quarter length bell sleeves edged in lace. Her mantilla of illusion fell into a sweeping train and carried a cascade bouquet of roses.

Gary Graham served as best man. Groomsman were James Douthit of Bellevue and Donald Breckbill of Lincoln. Tom Strouf of Crete and Mark Cunningham of Lincoln seated the guests.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the church. Mrs. John Douthit presided at the guest book. The bride and groom at home at 1341 E Street in Lincoln following a short wedding trip.

The bride will attend the University of Nebraska this fall. The bridegroom is a graduate of Regis College in Denver and is now a graduate student and teacher at the University of Nebraska.

Joan Absalon-Thomas Geardino Nuptials Performed Aug. 24 in Woodridge, N. J.

The marriage of Joan Absalon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Absalon of Ord, to Thomas Philip Geardino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Geardino of Woodbridge, N. J., took place Aug. 24 in St. James Catholic Church of Woodbridge. The Rev. O'Keefe officiated at the double-ring ceremony and offered the Nuptial Mass at 1 p.m.

Serving her sister as maid of honor was Jean Absalon of Ord. Her gown was yellow floor-length with a mop train. She carried a bouquet of green lined carnations. Bridesmaids were Mary Jo Osentowski of Kearney, and Patricia Geardino and Marilyn Marek of Woodbridge, N. J. Their mint green gowns were styled identically to that of the maid of honor, as were the yellow gowns of junior bridesmaids Theresa and Cathy Smith.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She appeared in a floor-length gown of white slipper satin with matching train. A band of elegant beads accented the high stand-up collar and long sleeves. Her bridal bouquet was of white gladioli centered with a white orchid.

Glenn Geardino, nephew of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsman were Steven Willis, Val Kohls and Gil Davis. Ushers were Theodore and Dino Geardino.

The bride is a graduate of Ord High School and attended Kearney State College. She will be a senior this fall at Montclair State College in Montclair, N. J.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Middlesex County Vocational and Technical High School, Woodbridge, N. J., and served in the armed forces. He is employed by the Tartarus Construction Co. of New York City.

After a wedding reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to New York. Their home will be in Woodbridge.

The offense worked to perfection on this play in an Ord High School scrimmage Friday. Blockers cleared a path for Jimmy Novolny through the left side of the line. Assistant Coach Chuck Squier said last week's rains which kept the team indoors for several days really hurt. The squad had gotten off to an "excellent start," Squier said. The first game is scheduled Sept. 13 at Gothenburg.

Three linemen go through a roll-and-tumble exercise designed to sharpen their agility and quickness.

First Unit Looks Good For North Loup-Scotia

"If we stay healthy" is the way new coach Keith Staehr begins all conversations about this fall's North Loup-Scotia football team.

"If we stay healthy," says Staehr, "we shouldn't do too badly. Our first team is looking pretty good, but there's not much behind them."

Staehr inherits 10 lettermen to build his initial team around. And he says there's a good chance all of them will be on the field when the Wildcats line up for their opening kickoff Sept. 13 against Greeley Sacred Heart.

The interior line should be especially strong with the only question mark at center. To fill that void, Staehr is considering moving Larry Tolén — one of two lettermen fullbacks on hand. He's a senior.

Otherwise, the line from tackle to tackle is in able and experienced hands. At the tackle positions will be Dick Benson and Gordy Khyne, and the starting guards will probably be Bob Balach and John Reeves. All are lettermen, and Reeves is the only non-senior. He's a sophomore.

Dale Coufal, also a lettered senior, will handle one end spot; but the other is up for grabs with no one standing out from the pack in the early scrimmaging.

The backfield too shows signs of strength with lettermen available at all four positions. Tim Clement, a senior, will most likely draw the call at quarterback; at the two halfback posts will be Al Williams, a senior, and Davey Edwards, a junior; and the fullback position may go to Terry Keown, a sophomore. However, Staehr still hasn't ruled out the use of Tolén there.

"A lot of these boys have played since they were freshmen, so as long as they're in there we shouldn't be hurting," he says. "A four-year letterman at halfback for Kearney State College, Staehr will begin his first year of coaching with a wing-T offense and a variety of defensive formations."

"We'll match our defense against whatever the opposing offense offers," he says. "We may use a 5-4, a 6-3, a 5-3, or a variation of the monster with a wide-tackle six."

He favors the wing-T because it's basically a good power offense, and the Wildcats aren't blessed with unusual speed this year.

The team began two-a-day workouts Aug. 29 and dropped to one when school started.

North Loup-Scotia will face a schedule that includes several opponents described as "tougher than nails" by its young coach. In particular, he fears Centura, Ansley, Sargeant, and O'Neill St. Mary's. They're all sandwiched into the last half of the schedule.

The complete schedule:

Sept. 13 — Greeley Sacred Heart
Sept. 21 — at Anslemo-Memph
Sept. 26 — Spalding Academy
Oct. 4 — at Berland
Oct. 10 — Centura
Oct. 19 — at Ansley
Oct. 23 — at Wolcott
Nov. 7 — at O'Neill St. Mary's

Sand Flats Nine Finishes at 7-3

The Sand Flats junior baseball team concluded its season recently by losing to Burwell, 2-0.

The loss left the squad with a 7-3 record for the year. It was composed of boys in the 12-to-14 age bracket and played teams from Burwell, Comstock, Greeley, Ord, and Scotia.

Members were Bob Danna, Bruce Eppenbaugh, Albert Daniel, Dennis, and Wayne Hruza; Bryan and Eric Mentzer; Doug Peterson; Lyle, Lynn, and Tim Venker; Brad and Craig Struckman; Lynn Taylor; and Bob and Mike Usasz. Joe Hruza was the manager.

Boys from the Sand Flats area in the 8-to-11 age bracket also fielded a team. They posted a 4-1 record for the year.

Bernard Gleason To College Staff

Word has been received of Bernard Gleason's promotion to the staff of Long Beach City College, Long Beach, Calif.

Mr. Gleason and his wife, the former Barbara Nay, daughter of Zeta Nay Frederiksen, moved to California in 1956 where he began teaching at the junior high level. Sewing Class Offered

An Adult Sewing Class — to include beginning and advanced sewing — is being planned at Ord High School again this year. An organizational meeting to decide meeting time and dates has been set for Thursday, Sept. 5, at 8 p.m. at the high school. The classes will be conducted by Marilyn Clay and Janice Brammer, student teachers from Kearney State College under the direction of Mrs. Phyllis Gardner, Home Economics instructor. There will be no charge for these instructions. Anyone interested is asked to attend the Thursday evening meeting or call the high school, 729-3241.

Ann Parkos entertained several friends last week when Mrs. J. R. Pecinovsky of Lawler, Ia., was in Ord to visit relatives and friends.

Mira Valley News

Local Woman's Brother Succumbs in Wyoming

By Bertha Clement

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Peterson arrived home Thursday after a three-week vacation in Alaska and California. They flew via Frontier, Northwest and Alaska airlines to Anchorage where they visited their daughter LaVerna, her husband Klaus Heesch, and Walter Schurr, a half brother of Mr. Heesch.

Among places of interest visited were Mount Aleyeska, world famous ski resort, where the Petersons enjoyed a 40-minute ride on the chair lift; Parkage, where they viewed one of Alaska's most spectacular glaciers; the experiment station in Matanuska Valley, where huge cabbages and potatoes were grown and roadside stands displayed many kinds of vegetables for sale; the city museum, which with films gave the Petersons an idea of wildlife, and Earthquake Park and Seward, which gave them a clear picture of the ravages of the "quake of '64."

Highlights of the trip were a two-hour plane trip over Anchorage and surrounding territory (flying at low altitude in order to see the structure of glaciers, and lakes completely surrounded by sea planes), and a two-day adventuresome "Shadow of Lipica" tour. The Nebaskans were surprised at the many beautiful flowers in southern Alaska.

The Petersons spent the last week in southern California with their son Merlyn and family and daughter Lorene and family, the William Hudsons. They toured Orange County's new airport where Merlyn Peterson is chief agent for Airwest. Sunday morning they went to a "drive-in church" in Garden Grove. At Thousand Oaks they visited Jungland, the world's largest training center of wild animals for movies and television.

The Petersons came home to the same kind of cool weather they had enjoyed in Alaska.

Merry Miras

The Merry Miras 411 Club toured Mode-O-Day and Metz Baking Co. at Hastings last Wednesday. The seven girls who went were accompanied by Mrs. Loren Hornickel and Mrs. Stan Johnson. Part of the day was spent shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lange attended the Democratic Convention in Chicago last week. He is a delegate. Their grandson, Curtis Uden, who had spent the summer with Nebraska relatives, and Mrs. Leonora Veskerna accompanied them. They joined others in Lincoln, and all went to Chicago in a chartered bus. Mr. Lange spent all his time in Chicago, while Mrs. Lange and Mrs. Veskerna took Curtis to his home in Milwaukee where they visited the Dave Udens. They also saw the Langes' newest grandson, Michael David Uden, who will soon be being in the hospital as he now weighs over 4 pounds. Thursday night they all attended the convention. They said we no doubt saw more of the demonstrations here on TV than they saw in Chicago, as all was quiet at their hotel.

School started at Valleyside Tuesday with 20 children enrolled. Beginners are Kim Foth and Alan King. The nine seventh and eighth grade pupils are attending school in Ord this year. Ruby and Vicky Bredthauer, Linda Duval, Charles Kreilek, Dale Peterson, David Wampole and Dennis Pokony are ninth graders in Ord, making a total of 26 in high school attending there from Valleyside.

Mrs. Lois Peterson and Mrs. Joy Wert are the teachers. Mrs. Ervin Sohweid is in charge of hot lunches.

Mutual Benefit Extension club will hold its first fall meeting with Mrs. Walter Foth Sept. 13. It was postponed on account of Popcorn Days at North Loup. Mira Valley Lutherans attended a church supper and food shower for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Naber at St. John's Lutheran Church in Ord Sunday evening.

Mr. Naber is the new vicar and will assist the Rev. Stanley Rosenau during the coming year. Mrs. Naber will teach second grade in the Ord school. The couple comes from Melford, Canada.

The Youth Fellowship of Mira Valley Methodist Church had a swim and gym party at the Grand Island Y.M.C.A. Friday. Mrs. Bryan Peterson and Rev. Earl Higgins drove cars, taking the group. Youths attending were Alan and Larry Koelling, Jean Foth, Dale and Patty Peterson, and Gerald Lueck. Mrs. Higgins and children also accompanied them and visited the Rolland Higgins family in Grand Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lange returned home Saturday after spending a week vacationing at Leech Lake, Minn. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Radke of Aurelia, Ia. This was the vacation trip Mrs. Lange went to the Ord Home Show in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foth returned home Saturday after a five-day vacation in Colorado. They left home Monday morning, going directly to Colorado Springs. They toured the U. S. Air Force Academy, saw the Garden of the Gods, and visited the zoo. Other places of interest they saw were the Royal Gorge and the world's highest suspension bridge, Mesa Verde National Park in southwestern Colorado, and Black Canyon of the Gunnison National Monument. Friday noon they were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Burrows in Boulder.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Luoma, Ramons, Sandy and Kiti returned home Friday after a week's vacation in Wyoming and South Dakota. On their first day in Wyoming they attended the wedding of Catherine Trujillo and Robert Luoma, a nephew of Isaac, at Hudson. They visited Isaac's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Braig and cousins the Ron, Bray and Edwin Johnson families. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rhoades and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Osborn all at Casper. They visited the Jack Luomas at Pavillion, Wyo. They visited another sister, Mr. and Mrs. Al Cote and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Waino Luoma and the Gary Krei family all at Worland, Wyo. Mrs. M. Crow at Ten Sleep and at her home a nephew Charles Mentala of California whom they hadn't seen for over 22 years. The Luomas returned home through the Black Hills and spent the last night with cousins, the Percy Black family at Martin, S. D.

Attending Circle 4 of St. John's Lutheran Church at the home of Mrs. Ralph Franzen at Arcadia Thursday were Mrs. Gene Bredthauer, Mrs. Rose Franzen, who had been a dinner guest of the Bredthauers, Ms. Sophie Fuss and Mrs. Charles Knight. The topic was Christianity and Rural Life.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Sohweid entertained at dinner Sunday in honor of the 4th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sohweid of Kearney. Other guests were Brian and Tonia, the honored couples children, Mrs. Laura Fuss and Mr. and Mrs. Theod Nelson, John and Tom.

North Platte Station Tour

A date of interest to farmers and ranchers of the area is Tuesday, Sept. 17. That is the date of the annual Fall Crop and Livestock Field Day at the University of Nebraska North Platte Station.

Those in attendance will have an opportunity to view experiments according to their individual interests. Four phases of experimental work will be available: livestock, corn, irrigation and vegetable crops, and dryland farming.

Identical tours will be held in the morning and the afternoon. So those attending will have an opportunity to view at least two of the phases of experimental work.

The event will get under way at 9 a.m. Central Daylight Time. For additional information on this event call or write the County Extension Office.

Aerial Applicators

That Army pilot back in 1921 really started something when he saved six acres of valuable catalpa trees from insect destruction by applying powdered arsenate of lead from a World War I "Jenny."

That pioneer mission has grown to an extremely complex business in this country. Today more than 100 million acres of crops are treated annually with pesticides and fertilizers from special aircraft.

It is estimated that more than 63 percent of all pesticides applied in this country are flown on by aircraft.

Farmers are using aerial application of pesticides and herbicides to reach higher levels of pest and weed control in close planted crops. This method also eliminates damage to the crop by ground equipment as well as compaction of the soil.

Also, the aerial applicator can cover an area in a relatively short time thus applying the pesticide and other materials when and where they are needed to lessen the damage caused by insects.

Insect Invasion Greater Threat
With the acceleration in international travel as well as the more rapid transportation of animals and freight, the possibility of invasion by unfamiliar pests and diseases from abroad is greater today than ever before.

This threat is cited in a report to Congress submitted by the Subcommittee on Agricultural Department Appropriations.

The report also said that increasing concentration of livestock and crops intensifies the danger that invaders will spread quickly — almost explosively — if not properly controlled.

According to experts of the Department of Agriculture, the United States presently faces some 10,000 destructive species of insects. What's more, there are approximately 50,000 diseases of economic importance to man and food supply.

Remove Diseased Trees Now
Elms infested with Dutch Elm disease causing fungus should be removed and destroyed by burning between now and next April 1. These trees must be removed eventually or they become a hazard to life and limb.

The better, to reduce the number of elm bark beetles that will live through the winter and be ready to infest other healthy trees next spring.

We will be getting out more information on Dutch Elm disease and the elm bark beetles in a future column.

Air Force Cites 1942 Ord High Graduate For Performance in Transportation Field

A former Ord resident whose mother-in-law still lives here has received an Air Force Commendation Medal.

The award was presented to Lt. Col. Jerry J. Peska, son-in-law of Mrs. Laura Fuss, in ceremonies held recently at Bangkok, Thailand. Colonel Petska's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Peska, also lived in Ord previously.

His work as a transportation officer at Langley Air Force Base, Va., earned the award for Colonel Peska. He was cited for his "outstanding professional skill, knowledge, and devotion to duty."

Now assigned to Bangkok, the 1942 graduate of Ord High School served in the European Theater of Operations during World War II and received an officer's commission in 1943 by direct appointment. He is also a veteran of the Korean War.

Colonel Petska has attended Kearney State College and the University of Tennessee. His wife, Elva, and a son, Mark, are with him in Bangkok. Two daughters, Lee and Lyne, will attend the University of Hawaii this fall.

The Commendation Medal was presented by Army Maj. Gen. Hal D. McCown, commander of the United States Military Assistance Command to Thailand and chief of the Joint U. S. Military Advisory Group to Thailand.

New Officers Named
Eileen Foth was elected president of the Practical Princesses 411 Club Aug. 26, when members met at the Valley Side School for an achievement meeting.

Other new officers are Irene Hontickel, vice president; Nancy Peterson, secretary; Carol Peterson, treasurer; and Mary Huffman, news reporter.

As special entertainment for the meeting, members took part in a talent contest. Carolyn Peterson and Alma Breadthauer were the narrators. Refreshments of homemade ice cream, cupcakes and punch concluded the evening.

Mrs. Dennis Albers — the former Joan Beeline — will begin her teaching duties at North East High School in Lincoln this week.

Acoustics in the amphitheater were quite poor, he said, and delegates and alternates had much difficulty in hearing the speakers and determining what was happening.

Nebraskans Split Too
Although the New York delegation was one of those which was severely split, it was hardly more so than the Nebraska contingent. The Cornhusker delegates seemed agreed to disagree from the start, and a couple of them almost came to blows at one point. That was when an alternate backing Humphrey—Larry Doyle of Lincoln—jerked the Nebraska standard away from peace delegate David Cullen of Omaha. Cullen was using it to demonstrate against the convention's rejection of the more dovish Vietnam platform.

The deep emotions among the Nebraska delegates were due in part, Lange feels, to a greater interest in politics by young people. In addition, most of the Nebraskans were originally supporters of Robert Kennedy whose views of course did not jibe with those of the older, more staid Humphrey backers.

If it seemed that Nebraska was doing a lot of passing on the roll-call votes, that was because it was, Lange stated. He said the convention chairman, Hans Jensen of Aurora who's in his 70s, didn't have things organized too well and the delegation was never ready when its turn came to vote. "Nebraska passes" got to be something of a joke," Lange said.

The Cornhusker delegates were quartered at the Knickerbocker Hotel on Lakeshore Drive, approximately six blocks from the Conrad Hilton where most of the police and National Guard confrontations with demonstrators took place.

Had First-Hand Report

There was no trouble whatsoever at their hotel, Lange said, and none on the way to or from the amphitheater. However, he pointed out that the Nebraska delegation's chattered bus was always accompanied by police. While he saw no noteworthy demonstrations or examples of police brutality himself, Lange said he received a first-hand report from a fellow delegate.

"Someone was throwing newspapers out of an upstairs window at the Sheraton-Hotel," he said. "This acquaintance of mine—whose name I don't remember—said he was picking the newspapers up to get them off the street when a hippie jostled him and took the papers away. The hippie claimed the man was interfering with his rights to have his newspapers lay there on the sidewalk. But to me it was simply littering," Lange stated.

"Mayor Daley had enough men to do the job that had to be done," he added, restating his impression that the police did not over-react to the situation. The first indication that it was to be a rough convention came during the key-note address Monday night, Lange said, when backer "bood" Hawaii Senator Daniel Inouye during his convention opening address.

Card System Good
The celebrated card security system seemed to work better than the television commentators gave it credit for, Lange stated.

Each delegate wore a card about his neck. When he went through the entrance to the amphitheater, he had to insert the card into a small machine.

If the credentials were not proper, a red light supposedly would come on and that individual would not be allowed to enter the hall. According to some delegates interviewed on television, as well as a few of the commentators themselves, the system was full of loop-holes. The chairman of the New Hampshire delegation, in fact, was hauled off by police after trying to use a false card to fool the machine and prove that it was a hoax. "Maybe some of us country boys were a little slow in learning which way the started side," Lange said, explaining that the card had stas on one side and that side had to be up in order for the delegates to gain admission. "But when the cards were used properly the system could take people in about as fast as they could walk.

"And I know it did make a difference if you turned the card upside down."

No 'Packed' Galleries
Lange was also skeptical of charges by McCarthy and McGovern backers that the galleries were packed by Mayor Daley with Humphrey supporters.

"I question it," he stated. "In fact, I wondered for a while if there were anybody up there for Humphrey."

He said it was probably incidental if there were an excessive number of Humphrey backers in the galleries. He explained that the "L" card events are normally passed out in large numbers to those people who make the larger monetary contributions to the party. Therefore, he said, if there were more Humphrey people in the galleries, it was probably because they were the bigger contributors to the party and not because there was a deliberate attempt to exclude McCarthy or McGovern supporters.

Lange said the issuance of such passes was the responsibility of party chairman John Bailey and not Mayor Daley.

Doves Blockad
The internal discussions of the Nebraska delegation surfaced a number of times, and once was when the more dovish element led by Richard Swenson of Omaha tried to get the group to officially condemn the actions of Chicago police.

"L. B. Putnam of O'Neill suggested that instead each of us write down how we individually were treated by police," Lange stated. Although that didn't get passed either, the condemnation action was dropped pretty quickly, he explained.

Lange did not get to vote on any of the issues, since he was far down the list of alternates in total number of votes received in the May primary, and the higher ranking alternates were called when a substitute was needed.

While he was pleased with the convention's Presidential choice, Lange felt that Sargent Shriver would have been just as good a selection as Edmund Muskie for second spot on the ticket.

"I just wanted to see what made the wheels go round," the long-time Valley County resident explained as his reason for seeking election to the alternate post.

"It was my first convention and probably my last one, but it was definitely a good one," he stated. "I would recommend the experience to anyone who has an opportunity to attend either a Democratic or Republican convention."

State Fair Activities Keep 4-H Club Busy

Members of the Bonnie Bell's 4-H Club attended the State Fair during the weekend and participated in various events.

Saturday the group were contestants in the Song Contest and the "Relay Sing Out" after which several attended the 4-H "Golds Banquet" demonstration also part of the Saturday activities. Sunday began by attending church at the open-air pavilion and later in the day they attended the 4-H Friendship play held in the College Activities Building.

While in Lincoln they stayed at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education. Parents acting as sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Ringlin, Mr. and Mrs. James Finley and Mr. and Mrs. John Wojtaszek. Also attending were Nancy Ringlin, Steve and Jim Finley, Paul and Dale Wojtaszek and Mrs. Syl Furtak who was accompanist for the singing group.

Rita Wojtaszek and Sue Bishop returned to Lincoln, Tuesday, to participate in the dress revue held Wednesday. Rita Wojtaszek, news reporter.

Watching are Mrs. Bernard Staab, licensed practical nurse who worked in the volunteer effort, and Mrs. Clark Weckbach, local blood drive chairman.

County Blood Quota Exceeded by 12 Pints During Visit of Red Cross Mobile Unit

"Successful" was the way Mrs. Baker, Mervin Hornickel, Paul Lambert, and Paul Martin of Ord — and one licensed practical nurse, Mrs. Bernard Staab, also of Ord.

Donors were solicited by the county extension clubs and one of them — the Jolly Neighbors — furnished and served dinner to the workers. Members who helped in this project were Mmes. Joe Bonne, Abbie Brickner, Floyd and Marvin Rice, Dan Spilneck, and Wayne Turner.

Food consumed by donors was furnished by the Ord Cheese Co., and the American Legion Auxiliaries from Arcadia, North Loup and Ord. Auxiliary members also worked in the Center, serving the food and assisting donors.

Local volunteers helping to load and unload equipment were Clet Austin, Robert Hruby, Larry Konkolewski, Anton Pokorny, Jack Ptacek, and Jerome Turek.

Other workers were Mmes. George Jenen and Grace Thoragate of North Loup, Delvian Kingston and Roy Summers of Arcadia, and Joe Bartle, Wayne Clump, Kenneth Dingle, R. A. Hamsa, Hans Larson, Dale Media, Robert Noll, Edgar Roe, Fred Stoddard, Horace Travis, Louis Zabloudil, and Lloyd Zikmund, all of Ord.

The bloodmobile will return to the city Dec. 11.

Thresher silhouetted against Nebraska sky was common sight 30 years ago.

Sons of Joe Wadas turned back the clock this summer to show their children and grandchildren how a real old-fashioned threshing machine worked.

For the first time in seven years, the Wadas family broke out its 1935 Case thresher to process through an oat harvest.

Amidst numerous break-downs, all repaired on the spot, the job was finally accomplished. When it was over, the estimated yield was 400 bushels.

"The oats weren't very good this year," Emanuel Wadas explained. "The first growth turned brown, and we got nothing. After the mid-summer rains the second growth came up, but dry weather and weeds hurt it too. We'll use what we've threshed as feed."

"We just wanted to show our grandchildren how a threshing machine worked," he added.

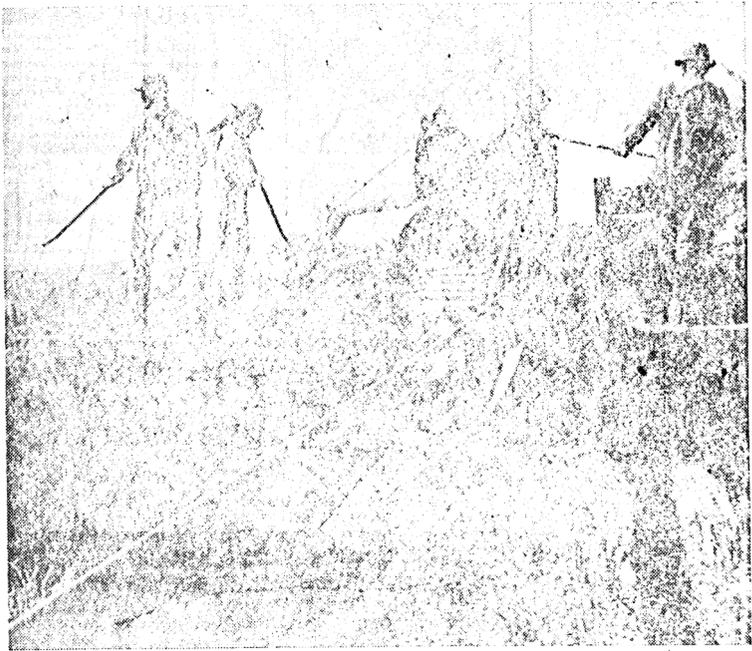

Pop On Hand Too
Emanuel, as well as his brothers Syl and Ben, participated in the threshing. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wadas.

Also helping was Paul Wadas, 19, a son of Syl's who had seen the thresher work when he was a small boy but had never taken part in its operation.

The patriarch of the family, Joe Wadas, 82, also put in an appearance to observe the thresher's operation. Mr. Wadas came to the Ord area 36 years ago from his native Poland. His wife, who was originally from the Silver Creek area near Columbus.

The threshing took place on the Bill Wadas place northeast of Ord. Syl rents it and farms it.

As the old thresher struggled to separate the grain from the chaff, a modern combine could be seen in a neighboring field whisking briskly through a similar task. It emphasized the great advantage modern-day farmers have over their predecessors who were still taming the Great Plains almost by hand 30 and 40 years ago.

Mamie Smith Resigns As City Librarian

After 28½ years of full-time service, Mamie Smith, long time Ord resident, is retiring as Ord city librarian.

Mamie will leave her post as soon as a replacement is found and trained to take over library duties. She then plans to move to Holdrege to care for her sister, Mrs. T. W. Shepard.

Mamie says she has noticed several changes in looking back over the years. She said it seems that children are more interested in reading, especially during the summer, and adults have less interest in books.

She also said it is much harder to buy good books now than it was when she first took over as librarian.

A college math and English major, Mamie ended her teaching career at the Barker country school near North Loup when she assumed duties at the Ord City Library. Other schools she once taught in are Fullerton, Superior, Pawnee City and Burwell.

Mamie is a member of the Nebraska Library Association.

KERRY ON

By Kerry Leggett

—only one word—
These people — the beautiful people — that I had the pleasure of associating with when in Canada about a month ago... they have it!

What do they "have?"
These young people that have been down the road of alcoholism — have glimpsed the gates of death — are imbued with not only a sense of humor, a love for their fellow man, but also a sincerity to a God they understand. Continually God creeps into their conversation. Sometimes they use their belief in a higher Power light heartedly. Then — at other times — they can strike a lightning blow with their subtle poignancy. They keep you ever-aware that they are mindful of a Power that guides their lives. One such instance is worth relating.

Six of us — all from different parts of the continent — piled into a car bearing Maryland license plates. We'd decided to take in Toronto's colorful Carabana — a week-long festival on one of the islands across the bay. A young man from Denver was behind the wheel of the car as we found ourselves in heavy traffic approaching a parking lot adjacent to the pier from which we'd take the ferry to the island. Unaccustomed to Canadian traffic, Don (the driver) was fighting bumper-to-bumper to keep in line. Finally one of the Canadian drivers edged us out. By this time we were half-way into the parking lot and could not return to the street. Also, we had been "forced" to form a third lane of traffic.

To prevent just such a "third lane" the parking lot attendant had placed his canvas chair directly in the path of where any "third lane" might form. The third lane — clear at the time — was intended for drivers leaving the lot and not an entering lane of cars.

The driver had no choice. It was either run over the chair or get out and move it out of the path of our vehicle. So, Don got out and moved the chair. A suddenly ranting and raving emitted from an aproned man holding a fistful of money in one hand and a roll of tickets in the other. "What the hell do you think you're doing!" he screamed as he double-timed it toward our car.

"Just wanted to move your chair so I wouldn't run over it," Don replied as he crawled back behind the wheel of the car. The other five of us in the car sat with tensed lips — not uttering a word.

"That stool was there for a reason," the gruff voice barked at Don. "why'd ya have to move it?"

"So I wouldn't run over it," Don kept his cool. From starting a third lane of traffic! The tirade began again. "How do you expect anyone to get out of this lot if there's three lanes coming in?"

Don remained calm as the attendant snook his fist in the window of the car and continued screaming. "It was either move your chair or run over it," Don reiterated.

"Ya... ya... ya!" came the voice from outside the window. "Suppose a third lane does start. Then... THEN what are you going to do for me?" Our eyes were all glued on the back of Don's head... our hearts in our throats.

"Then what will I do?" Don replied. "I'll tell you what I'll do for you, mister — I'll... pray!"

You could hear a pin drop.

The attendant's face whitened. Speechless, he motioned us in... then walked slowly by us as he resumed his post of collecting for the cars. When it was our turn, Don stuck his hand out the window with the dollar we'd owe for parking.

I couldn't see the old man's face from my place in the back seat. But I could sure hear his voice. "Thank you," he told Don. "thanks a million... and... have a good day."

No Surprises in Chicago

Eight years ago — even four years ago — the scenes being piped into homes across the land would have seemed incredible. In August 1968 they still weren't very palatable, but neither were they so very astonishing.

The massed agitators spewing their Nazi filth and profanity, the club-wielding police, the hot-headed National Guardsmen — they were all one more extremely visible sign of the distance the present Democratic administration has taken us down the road toward national chaos and anarchy.

Lost in controversy surrounding the actions of demonstrators and the reactions of police was a central point: that such a confrontation could happen at all. Four years ago it couldn't have — no group of agitators had the gall to think they could get away with it — but this year... well, you saw it.

While it was encouraging to see Mayor Daley move with swiftness and authority to cool the demonstrators who had come to Chicago openly committed to disrupting the convention, his actions reminded us of a lenient parent who has let his child have its own way for 16 years. Finally, when the parent can no longer stomach the child's disregard for authority, he decides to achieve in one fell swoop what he should have spent years creating. Of course it doesn't work with children, and neither does it work with law-breakers.

Demonstrators Turned Out 'Martyrs'

Barring the selection of Senator McCarthy or Senator McGovern, the truth is the demonstrators couldn't have had things work out better than they did at Chicago. With the police apparently lashing out at anyone in sight, the agitators came out as martyrs — even though their ranks included known Communists dedicated to the overthrow of the United States government and immoral hippies who wanted to poison the city's entire water system along with other acts of "love."

Not only here in the U. S., but in foreign countries as well the events in Chicago created sympathy for the protesters. Wrote Australian reporter E. W. Tipping: "I felt like joining in the shouts of 'seig heil' from delegates and demonstrators that were echoing all around Chicago tonight. I was simply horrified."

All this needn't have come about. A firm stand by government officials throughout the past eight years could have averted it.

However, these officials not only refused for the most part to prosecute law violators, they actually encouraged them with their own subtle comments. A prime example: Hubert Humphrey's celebrated statement, "I've got enough spark left in me to lead a mighty good revolt."

What is all boils down to is a Biblical statement made long ago by the prophet Hosea when he spoke of another rebellious people: "They have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind."

The Democrats were reaping a pretty good whirlwind in Chicago.

Toward a More Paternalistic Society

A frightening bit of logic is being used by supporters of Hubert Humphrey to defend the convention system of selecting Presidential nominees.

In a bi-weekly publicity sheet published Aug. 19 by the United Democrats for Humphrey, the Vice-President's backers say, "Convention delegates are much better prepared than ordinary voters to assess the attributes of candidates. They are more interested, aware, and concerned about political outcomes. Ideologically they are far more sophisticated and mature than the average voter."

The writers go on to imply that the average citizen doesn't want a voice in selecting the candidates. Quoting political scientists Paul David, Ralph Goldman, and Richard Bain, they say:

"The constituent wants a representative who can take care of his interests better than he himself could hope to do."

With the pell-mell rush of the Johnson-Humphrey administration toward a totally socialistic society — where every individual is clothed, fed, and cared for by the government — such a conclusion should come as no surprise. But somehow it becomes more stark, more real, more frightening, when it's written down in black and white.

The Next Step

There's an obvious extension to this philosophy. If average citizens are too uninterested, too unaware, too unconcerned, too unsophisticated, and too immature to select the Presidential nominees, what qualifies them to select the President? Why not have delegates selected by the state convention — or the Lester Maddoxes — make the final selection of the President too?

The Humphrey article was intended as a rebuttal to supporters of Senator Eugene McCarthy, who claim their man was the choice of the people in the primaries and the Vice-President was the choice of the political bosses. It does an unconvincing job, even in this year when McCarthy's backers can't make a really strong stand themselves due to President Johnson's late withdrawal and the tragic death of Senator Kennedy.

If there was really a choice of the people, it would have to be Kennedy who won a majority of the primaries. But Humphrey can also legitimately claim that the President's withdrawal left him little time to consider his own course of action before the primary deadlines passed — and it is true that a decision to seek the Presidency is not one which should be made lightly.

However, contrary to what Humphrey backers are now saying, such events merely underscore the need for a national primary.

Opponents say such a primary would destroy the parties. But could it do more damage than the butchering the Democrats administered to themselves in Chicago?

School Reorganization, With Care, Urged by Educator Following Study

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — A two-year study of school district organization in Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota and Missouri shows an increasing public concern over rising educational costs in the four states.

That was the report of the researcher who conducted the survey, Dr. Ralph Purdy, chairman of the Department of Educational Administration at Miami (Ohio) University.

Dr. Purdy, who carried out the study with a $40,000 federal grant, said legislators in the states are demanding a greater return from the educational dollar.

One way to attain this, he added, is to organize school systems into more efficient administrative units, both in rural and urban areas.

Nebraska has more public school districts than any other state. South Dakota has the second largest number. Iowa and Missouri are near the national average.

Dr. Purdy said there are dangers involved in realigning school systems into large units, the same as there are problems connected with small districts.

"School districts must be reorganized on the basis of educational needs and not just for the sake of consolidation," he said.

"The aim should be to get the greatest possible return on the educational dollar. The answer lies not in the formation of small districts or large districts as both have equal danger of becoming overburdened by government."

Dr. Purdy made no recommendation on the need for compulsory school district reorganization in Nebraska. He said this would be dealt with in a later report.

The State School District Reorganization Committee and state education commissioner, Floyd Miller, have proposed the 1969 legislature require the formation of kindergarten through grade 12 school systems in Nebraska.

A recent study conducted by the State Education Department showed there are still 1,033 one-room, one-teacher schools in Nebraska under the voluntary reorganization program.

Dr. Purdy did say that when state and local school district organization is limited or weak, it opens the door for increased control from high levels.

He said the role and function of the State Education Department must be strengthened as district organization for education is improved.

Dr. Purdy said federal aid to education can be expected to increase rapidly in the years ahead. He said those states with strong educational programs will receive the greatest benefit.

"The flow of federal dollars began in sizeable amounts with the Sputnik era and we can expect it to keep on increasing," he said.

Here are some of the broad guidelines for school district organization presented by Dr. Purdy.

- All educational programs at local and area levels should be under the State Board of Education.
- There should be as much vocational education in each high school as can be provided at a quality level.
- Vocational education opportunities should be expanded at the post-high school level.
- Increased attention needs to be given to minimum educational standards for sparsely settled areas.
- Flexibility must be allowed for in each local and area school district.

Water Dispute Settled
The State Water Pollution Control Council and the federal government have reached a compromise in their dispute over Nebraska's standards for water quality.

The agreement came after a U. S. Interior Department spokesman relented on a requirement that Nebraska construct secondary as well as primary waste treatment plants along the Missouri River and other interstate waterways.

The council contended the requirement would create a hardship on taxpayers and industry alike by forcing the construction of additional water treatment facilities.

The compromise provides that Nebraska shall have two years to survey the Missouri River and determine the need for secondary treatment to purify the water.

John Rademacher of Kansas City, Mo., represented the Interior Department in the agreement. He said the government's purpose in setting out strict regulations is to upgrade interstate waterways and protect streams now reasonably pure.

School Aid Problem Develops
The legislator who sponsored the State School Aid Act says higher — than — normal teacher salary increases should not qualify a school district for a hardship waiver under the measure.

Senator Jerome Warner of Waverly said he repeatedly counseled teacher groups last fall to restrain salary demands for the 1969 school year.

"Apparently my words fell on deaf ears," said Warner. Some school districts have asked the State Board of Education to exempt them from an eight percent spending increase limitation under the school aid law on the ground that higher faculty salaries have caused a hardship.

Schools that increase per pupil spending costs by more than eight percent from one school year to the next are penalized in the amount of aid they receive, unless a hardship waiver is granted by the board.

The board is in the process of setting up guidelines as to what budgetary conditions constitute a hardship for the school districts.

Dear Editor:
I recently drove home via Lincoln after a trip to the Wisconsin Dells. In Lincoln I visited with Miss Mary Ellen Brown and saw her sister, Mrs. Louis C. Brown (Bashie). The following morning Mary Ellen's brother-in-law called her at home to state that Bashie had passed away. Services were held in Lincoln with graveside services at Fremont.

At 7 o'clock that evening word reached us, from the hospital, of Mary-Ellen's passing. In July Mr. Brown had lost another sister, Edith Brown, who had been living with Mary-Ellen as a nurse and companion — sister in Portland, Ore.

The Brown family were pioneers at Fremont, and Bashie Tully Brown came to Valley County the year after the Burlington Railroad was put through to Burwell. She and her husband own farm land between Elyria and Burwell.

Bashie graduated from Ord High School in 1905. At the University of Nebraska she and Jennie Kates Capron launched the daisy chain idea for Ivy Day. She was always active in communities where she lived.

There is a Mary-Ellen Brown scholarship fund at the University of Nebraska to which friends might contribute.

Something Different

Welcome Home!

I was so happy to be entering Nebraska. I was en route home after two months at my Minnesota cottage. The day was coolish and grayish but I was getting closer to Ord, so let it drizzle.

Maybe Ord needed rain, thought I. Little did I know of the big Monday night downpour.

Though the sun wasn't out, the roadsides were a solid yellow, with what we used to admire as negro heads. Should they now be called colored heads? How about naming them yellow heads?

The blooms carpeted the highway ditches for miles, and I felt they were there especially to welcome me.

It began to rain harder. My windshield wiper stayed busy. I was still happy, for I was headed west and south out of Yankton, to Ord!

At a big curve in the road, some excitement. A sizeable white truck lay like a bug, on its back by the roadside. A state trooper had three young men in tow, so it must have only just happened. His car was nearby.

I slowed up a little — one does, doesn't one? On viewing a crash scene. Only the one car seemed to be involved.

And so I eventually arrived at Bartlett. And Erickson. And what a mistake I made!

The sign said that Highway 70 was closed, so I proceeded on toward Burwell as recommended. I was so glad Highway 70 was being worked on. We had waited so long for it. I had long been embarrassed at the idea that strangers must get of Nebraska, travelling those ratty dusty miles as they tried to go from North Platte to Soo City via our area.

I was an old Sandhiller, and I was sure the sandy road to Burwell would be okay. Well, it wasn't. I should have gone on to Scotia.

I think that stretch of road took 10 years off my life. And frankly I can't spare ten years!

The road had a lot of clay in it and was loaded with chuckholes, mud slicks, puddles that were nearly bottomless in that gumbo.

Very slowly I jolted and skidded toward Burwell. A big farm truck waited to enter the highway until I had passed by. I was to be glad over and over, knowing those two men in that truck were behind me. I felt much safer, for I could get a big push if I needed it.

And every minute I was sure my last skid had come as I slid toward one ditch or the other.

Welcome to Nebraska HAH I thought. Some welcome. After I'd given up, at least a dozen times — the beautiful, inviting North Loup valley suddenly appeared. Such a contrast having that smooth black paving under my wheels once again. Oh joy!

I was happy again.
I was in Nebraska.
I was almost home.

Recognition of Problems Is First Step In Solving Them, Local Residents Agree

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Some of the fellers at the country store Saturday night were of the opinion one of the troubles with this nation today is that we won't recognize our problems and face up to the situation.

Ed Waldmann, for instance, said our pretending that them folks on Formosa was the legal granddaddy of hopeless causes.

Ed, Mister Editor, knows as much about foreign policy as a Jersey bull knows about the New Testament but that ain't no drawback to Ed. He'll discuss anything. At least once.

Lumir Ptasnik said he didn't know nothing about them Chinese problems, but he agreed that folks as well as government has to face up to and recognize their bad situations. For a long time, he said, them television networks wouldn't admit the others was there. Finally, they started calling one another "the other network," and then some NBC announcer slipped up one night and said "CBS" right on the air.

After the shock was over, the flood gates were open and now even the butter people will admit in public there's such a thing as margarine. It used to be, said Lumir, that car manufacturers would compare their car's riding on air, or maybe sitting in an easy chair; then they got to talking about other cars "in the same price range;" then they referred to them as "Car A" and "Car B" and now they come right out and call their competition by name.

Rudy Vodehnal said he reckoned ed the idea was not to do your competition any favors by telling folks about them, but he agreed with Lumir that it was better to recognize a problem and try to deal with it. Some people don't recognize poison ivy, Rudy allowed, but they break out in a rash just the same. Then that don't recognize the difference between bad stools and mushrooms better let somebody else do the picking, was Rudy's words.

The fellers generally agreed with Lumir and Rudy, and they all listed the things they were going to recognize. Ed Radil said he was going home and recognize a back board in his porch that had thrown him a dozen times in the past two years, and Johnny Valasek confessed he had better recognize them thin tires on his pickup truck.

Ed closed the session by saying it was a puzzle to him why the U. S. wouldn't recognize an outfit as big and mean as Red China but recognizes the Communist Party and let's them run a candidate for President alongside the Democrat and Republican parties.

That's the first time, Mister Editor, Ed ever recognized the Democrat Party.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

On 'Fellowship'

Rev. Kenneth Bunnell of the Presbyterian Church was with us Thursday for religious services. 'Fellowship' was the theme of the sermon based on Philip-pians 2:1-18. The second chapter of II Chronicles and Psalms 119: 63 were used as references.

Mr. Bunnell said, 'By fellow-ship we commune, bind and unite with each other. In Christian fellowship we have a sharing and giving of a common belief, and we have similar tasks and benefits and a glory together.'

The speaker also brought out the opportunities we have here in our little village within a community.

Services are held each Thurs-day at 1:30 p.m.

Letting Go Of The Wire
Job 28:28 - 'To depart from evil is understanding'

Whenever a man by accident seizes a wire charged with electricity, his hands become clutched to it, and he cannot let it go. The first thing his rescuers must do is to separate him from the wire, taking care not to come in contact with the deadly current. They must be very careful not to touch the wire or the victim, less they too unwillingly become fastened to the wire.

That sin. He is not to wait to plan his recovery from the effects of his sin. His only understanding must be to depart from his evil way.
'Repentance' as some one once said, 'is being sorry enough to quit.' The scriptures tell us that there is pleasure in sin and Satan never lets mankind forget it. But there is a portion of the verse Satan forgets to tell. 'There is pleasure in sin only for a season.' You may enjoy clinging to the sins in your life, but you will enjoy it for only a season. You will need other wisdom later, but the wisdom you need just now is put in a very few words: 'don't do it again'. The warning is to everyone who has grasped the current of sin, 'REPENT OR PERISH'.

having or claiming any interest in and to Lots 3 and 4 and 2, Block 10, Haskett's Addition to Ord, Valley County, Nebraska, according to the recorded plat thereof, real names unknown.
 You and each of you will take notice that the County of Valley, The State of Nebraska, has filed its petition in the District Court of Valley County, Nebraska, against you and each of you, impleaded with others, the object and prayer of which is to obtain a Decree of said Court foreclosing certain tax liens as evidenced by Certificates of Tax Sale and liens for subsequent general taxes and special assessments, if any, of which the plaintiff is now the owner and holder, the same being liens against the tracts of real estate above described and which were issued by the County Treasurer of said County on April 19, 1968, together with interest on said Certificates and subsequent general taxes and assessments, if any, all as alleged in said petition.
 And praying further that the proportionate share of the costs in each Cause of Action and separate attorney fees of ten per cent of the amount of the Decree in each Cause of Action be assessed against each of said premises described above, each of said parcels being a defendant as a part of said tax liens, and finding that the several parcels of real estate were subject to taxation for Valley County, School District, Municipal and other public purposes for the several years enumerated in said petition and the exhibits thereto attached, and by reference made a part thereof, and for a finding that said tax liens are first liens on said premises, and further praying that unless the same are paid by you or some of you, a Decree be entered in said Court foreclosing and forever barring you and each of you of any and all claims, upon interest or estate in, right or title to or lien upon or equity of redemption in and to the real estate herein described and in default of the payment of said tax liens, interest, costs and attorney fees, said premises or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy plaintiff's liens, shall be sold in accordance with law to satisfy the amount due and owing, and praying for such other and further relief as equity requires and as to the Court may seem just and equitable.

 You and each of you are hereby notified that you are required to answer said petition on or before the 7th day of October.

Services in Lincoln
For Mrs. Louis Brown
 Mrs. Louis C. (Bashie) Brown, 81, a Valley County pioneer, died Aug. 18 at her home in Lincoln. Services in Lincoln were arranged by the Hodgman-Splain-Roberts Funeral Home.
 Mrs. Brown was well known in this area having graduated from Ord High School in 1905 and lived many years of her life in the county. At the time of her death, she and her husband were land owners in the Elyria and Burwell areas.
 The former Bashie Beth Tully was born in Geneseo, Ill., and was a 1910 graduate of the University of Nebraska.
 Survivors include her husband; a son, Howard, Denver, Colo.; daughters, Mrs. Arthur (Bonnie) Wiechert, Lincoln, Mrs. Walter (Betty) Rooder, San Jose, Cal., Mrs. John T. (Beverly) McConnell, Pullman, Wash.; 15 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Guy Drake, 72, Dies In Wyoming Hospital
 Guy E. Drake, 72, died last week at Johnson County Memorial Hospital in Buffalo, Wyo. The father of Mrs. Vivian Wajda of Ord, his home had been at the Soldiers and Sailors Home near Buffalo the past two years.
 Mr. Drake was born Dec. 27, 1895 in Adair, Mo., and was raised in the Burwell area. He served in the Army during World War I and later worked in the Laramie, Saratoga and Cody areas as a government trapper. He was foreman of the Pitchford Ranch near Meadville for several years and was a member of the Big Horn Mountain Barracks.
 Survivors with Mrs. Wajda are three sisters, Mrs. Nora Mehrhof, Wichita, Kan., Mrs. Minnie Van Houton, Sargent and Mrs. Hazel Brede, Ainsworth; two brothers, Oscar Drake, Casper, Wyo., and Cecil Drake, Boise, Ida. His parents, sister, wife and daughter preceded him in death.

Off The Square
 Mrs. Fajmon Is 91
 The Burwell Park was the scene of a family reunion, Sunday, when Mrs. Mary Fajmon was honored on her 91st birthday. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Ellersick, Mrs. Anna Smolik, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smolik and family, Clarence and Ruth Spurr and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bauman and family, Mrs. Joe Lebruska and sons, Mr. and Mrs. R. Burwell Lad Shows Way For Area 4-H'ers at Fair

Ronny Morgan of Burwell was the big winner among Loop Valley youths participating in last week's 4-H competition at the Nebraska State Fair.

Morgan showed both the champion Hereford breeding heifer and the champion Angus steer in the livestock competition. In addition, his performance with the Angus earned him top honors in beef showmanship.

Winning is nothing new to the 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Morgan, who ranch north-west of Burwell, for he also had the top Hereford steer at the 1965 State Fair.

A total of 27 purple ribbons were won by youngsters from this area. Leland Chaffin Jr., also of Burwell, collected five — two in market beef and three in horse competition. Morgan had three, all in market beef, and Duane Kovarik of Ord had two, both for poultry exhibitions.

Young Morgan sold his championship Angus, named Chris, at the State Fair beef sale for 70 cents a pound. It was purchased by Cooper Foods of Humboldt and weighed in at 1,113 pounds, bringing a total of $779.10.

Pop Corn Days are fun for young and old alike. Little Cheryl Blanchard of Grand Island, whose father Tom is a Scotia High School alumnus, was enjoying her bag of pop corn Monday night just as much as William Kloma, who lives in the Springdale area. The three-day celebration at North Loup wound up Wednesday night. Darlene King was crowned queen as a highlight of Tuesday night's activities. There'll be additional information with lots more pictures in next week's Quiz.

'No Contest' Plea Made

A plea of nolo contendere was entered Monday at Burwell for DeJesse Burson, 18, of Ord, who was to be tried on a charge of assault with intent to commit rape.

The plea means that Burson's attorney, Paul Kubitschek of Ord, will not contest the case. However, it is not an admission of guilt.

Judge Donald Weaver of Grand Island, who was to preside at the trial, has now taken the case under advisement. The nolo contendere plea negates the requirement for a jury trial.

Burson was one of three youths charged in connection with an incident occurring June 29 north of Burwell. Mary Patricia Giblin, 16, of Omaha, was the alleged victim.

Pleas for the two other youths will be entered Sept. 23. Thomas Vaughn, 18, of North Loup, was scheduled for trial next Monday. However, his case was delayed until the 23rd, when that of David Korkofski, 15, of Elyria, will also be heard.

Should nolo contendere pleas be entered for these youths also, no jury trial will be held. Garfield County Clerk Eddie Sime said Tuesday.

Jogging Class To Start Monday

Because of popular demand, a jogging class for adults will begin Monday at 7 a.m. here in Ord.

Mayor Bill French said Tuesday that the class will be a 10-week walking and running affair. It will be held five times a week as part of the city's adult recreation program.

If demand is great enough, afternoon sessions will also be held, the mayor said.

Persons wishing to participate may call the high school office. It will be held five times Monday morning at the football field for the first session.

Mayor French advised anyone over 50 and anyone who has a heart problem to have a complete physical examination before participating.

The aerobics course will be patterned after one described last March in the Reader's Digest.

"According to that article, the only two muscles in the body which really count are the heart and lungs," French said. "This course is designed to strengthen both."

Californians Staging Valley Co. Picnic

Valley County may be out of sight, but it's certainly not out of the minds of former residents now living in southern California.

Former Central Nebraskans now living in that area will hold a Valley County picnic Sunday starting at 11 a.m. It will take place at the South Gate Park in South Gate, Calif.

Anyone who has ever lived in Valley County has a special invitation to attend, according to Zeta Fredericksen of Los Alamitos, Calif., who's on the organizing committee.

The picnic will be the eighth such affair.

Mental Health Group Will Meet Tuesday

New officers will be elected Tuesday at a reorganizational meeting of the North Central Association for Retarded Children.

The session will begin at 8 p.m. and will be held in the Special Services School building, which formerly housed the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Special guests will be Verlin Boldy, executive secretary of the Nebraska State Assn. for Retarded Children, and Dr. and Mrs. Richard Meile, who also hold offices in the state organization.

The meeting will be open to the public.

ASC Election Deadline Approaching; Counting Will Take Place Sept. 20

Farmers are getting a last-minute reminder today about upcoming elections of ASC farmer-committeemen who will serve for the next year as local administrators of national farm programs.

Valley County voters are casting their ballots for community committeemen by mail. The ballots must be postmarked or returned to the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office by next Tuesday. They will be counted in public at the ASCS office on Sept. 20 at 10 a.m. The vote counting may be witnessed by any interested person.

Following is a list of the communities and eligible nominees:

$49,000 Given in Charity

One more step toward the end of an era was taken Saturday as personal items, furniture, and an automobile owned by the late Carol Mortensen were sold at public auction.

Mrs. Mortensen and her husband Crawford, who died several years ago, were one of Ord's most prominent families during their lifetimes.

The total value of the goods sold Saturday had not been tallied at mid-noon. However, the largest single item — a 1963 Lincoln Continental — was purchased by John Bowling Jr. of Broken Bow for $1,800.

An antique organ was also highly valued, going for $600.

The sale took most of the day, beginning at 10 a.m. and ending about 8 p.m. with only short breaks for lunch and supper.

Lloyd Zikmund, executor of Mrs. Mortensen's will, said the items sold Saturday were left af-

Mrs. Mortensen left approximately $49,000 to benevolent organizations.

The largest single benefactor was the Ord Veterans Club. Approximately $20,000 in promissory notes on the club's new building were written off the books.

The Ord Presbyterian Church also profited handsomely from the will, receiving a cash grant of $10,000.

Other benevolent organizations and the amount of money they received were:

- Nebraska Wesleyan University at Lincoln, from which Mrs. Mortensen graduated, $5,000.
- Valley County Heart Fund, $5,000.

ETV Programming Costs Set at $1,718; Tuition Hiked for Out-of-District Pupils

Programming for Ord's new educational television system will cost the local school district slightly over $1,700 during the coming year.

Members of the Board of Education voted at their monthly meeting Monday night to approve a $2-per-pupil assessment which the state's ETV Council had levied on the district. Since an average of 850 students attended school last year, the total cost was $1,718.

A national consulting team recently completed a three-month study of educational television in Nebraska and recommended that the assessment plan be dropped in lieu of state aid or direct appropriation. It said the assessment plan keeps too many small or school districts from participating in the program.

The ETV Council is one of two agencies which handle televised instruction in the state. The other is the Metropolitan Omaha Educational Broadcasting Assn. The researchers recommended that the two agencies be dissolved and programming placed in the hands of the state's ETV Commission, which presently has little authority over televised instruction.

600-Pound Addition Earns Weight Title For Krcilek Steer

Richard Krcilek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Krcilek, won top honors in the recent Valley County 4-H Rate-O-Gain Contest.

Richard's steer, a Hereford-Charolais cross, gained a total of 600 pounds over a 215-day feeding period. The average gain per day was 2.79 pounds. The husky crossbred weighed in at 525 pounds Dec. 23. He weighed 1,125 at the weigh-in July 29.

Richard is a member of the Mira Valley Livestock Club.

Second-place honors went to Allen Gross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Gross. His Hereford steer gained 565 pounds with an average of 2.63 pounds per day.

Allen is a member of the Ord Livestock 4-H Club.

The third-place award went to a Hereford steer shown by Bob Dana, which gained 635 pounds. It too averaged 2.63 pounds per day.

A Shorthorn steer shown by Cindy Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Green, took fourth-place honors in the contest. Cindy's steer gained 500 pounds with an average of 2.60 pounds per day.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

In his recent book "Ooops! Or Life's Awful Moments," Art Linkletter tells of the lady who stopped off at a restaurant and noticed that a gentleman at a nearby table had left a huge lamb chop behind on his plate. Thinking it would be a tasty treat for her two hungry dogs waiting in the car, she grabbed it. She was just rolling her juicy prize up in a napkin to stuff it in her purse when a waitress tapped her on the shoulder and said, "The gentleman who was eating at that table just stepped away for a telephone call. An Ordite tells how she sat with a group at the club one evening and commented in length about the man at the next table clad in bermuda shorts — he was such an old man and his knees were so knobby looking. She claims to have been halfway into the washroom (if that's the way men's rooms are) before realizing she was in the WRONG place!"

Another remembers (becoming red-faced all over again) the time she asked directions to the women's lounge in a plush Omaha theater, only to realize TOO LATE that the walk took her to the men's room instead. She claims to have been halfway into the washroom (if that's the way men's rooms are) before realizing she was in the WRONG place!"

Mrs. Myra Barber writes, "With all your dessert recipes, I have a feeling that the naked ape still likes homemade rolls... so I am sending you my recipe for Parker House Rolls."

Parker House Rolls
 1/2 c. boiling water
 1/2 T. salt
 1 T. shortening
 1/4 c. and 1/2 T. sugar
 1 pkg. yeast
 1/4 c. warm water
 1 egg, beaten
 3 1/2 flour
 butter
 Combine the boiling water, salt, shortening and 1/4 c. sugar. Cool. Dissolve yeast and 1/2 T. sugar in warm water. Stir into cooled mixture. Add egg and 2 c. flour, beat well. Stir in remaining flour; let rise until doubled. Punch down, let rise. Knead on floured board. Roll out to 1/2-inch thickness. Cut into rounds. Crease each round across center with knife, brush with butter, fold one half over other and press edges together. Place on cookie sheet. Let rise until doubled. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Yield two dozen.

I like the new signs that have been erected on each street corner in Ord. We had a great time last week teaching the two youngest in the family how to get places by using a street address. Up until then they had known only the "go two blocks that way and turn left... it's the house across the street from the one with the purple shutters" type directions. We became confused on South 18th and 19th streets, I'm sorry to report. Something is all mixed up in that part of town... and this time I don't think it is me!

If you were one to receive a letter from the Cedars Home for Children, you are aware of the home's goal in recognizing a former resident of Ord for the fine work she has done. Mrs. Alberta Kuklish, superintendent of Cedars, is known as "Mom" to the children there and is about to complete 20 years at the home.

As a tribute to Mrs. Kuklish officials are beginning a fund drive (to raise $100,000) and plan to name the new wing the Aiku apartments.

With its present family of 45, Cedars has cared for more than 2500 boys and girls in its 29 years. A little of the Mom Kuklish love goes to each child, and a little of Mom goes with each child who leaves.

Mrs. Kuklish — her former name was Crosley — is remembered at the Quiz as a past employee. She left Ord in 1948 to take the job at Cedars. Could you spare a minute today to send her a note of appreciation for the great job she is doing? I hope so.

Sharon Bruha, Myron Osenlowski Repeal Marriage Vows in Double-Ring Ceremony

In a Saturday morning ceremony at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church in Ord, Sharon Kay Bruha became the bride of Myron Osenlowski of Cairo. Father Stanley Gorak performed the double-ring ceremony with a nuptial mass in the presence of 200 relatives and friends.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bruha of Ord and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Osenlowski of Elyria. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She appeared wearing a floor-length gown of white nylon lace. The basque bodice featured fitted full-length sleeves and a Sabrina neckline. Wide flounces of lace fashioned the bouffant skirt. A detachable lace train extended from the shoulders. Miss Bruha carried a cascade of roses in a hot pink shade.

Maid of honor was Sandra Bruha, sister of the bride, of Ord. Bridesmaids were Arlene Wittalewicz and Sandi Grabowski, both of Grand Island, and Kathy Urbanovsky of Burwell. They wore identically styled dresses in soft hot pink shading. The floor-length lace sheath gowns were lined with matching taffeta, topped by a rounded neckline and short sleeves. A pink satin band encircled the bodice, giving an empire look. A panel of pink chiffon fastened at the shoulder by a pink satin bow added further back interest. The attendants carried large white mums accented with hot pink.

Bestman was Duane Lewandowski, cousin of the bride, of Ashton. Dennis Micek of Elyria, Darwin Osenlowski of Grand Island, and Larry Bruha of Comstock were groomsmen. Lloyd Michalski and Stanley Michalski seated the guests.

Mrs. Sylvester Furtak presented organ music. Mrs. Laureen Lueck presided at the guest book during the 2 p.m. reception at the Ord Veterans Club. Mrs. Norma Kriakae poured coffee. Mrs. Irene Bern served cake, and Mrs. Wilma Micek served ice cream. The gifts were cared for by JoAnn Pappiernik and Theresa Cass.

For going away the bride wore a gold coat-dress ensemble with white accessories. After a short wedding trip the newlyweds will be at home in Cairo where the groom is employed by the Cairo Food Mart. Both the bride and groom are graduates of Ord High School.

Honor Newlyweds At North Loup Fete

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Knapp hosted a reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. James Knapp at the United Methodist Church in North Loup Friday evening.

The table was covered with a silver and white cloth and was centered with a large round base having three tiers, representing a wedding cake. It was covered with maderia vine and interspersed with white and pale pink asters. Long aqua candles surrounded the tall bouquet of white gladioli and pink and white asters.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knapp were honor hosts. Mrs. Lillian Pokraka served cake, Neva Fisher poured coffee, and Mrs. Alma Baker of Ord served punch.

Mrs. Kenneth Williams was in charge of the guest book, and Mrs. Stanley Johnson and Donna had charge of the gifts. Wendy Barz, Christie Benben and Ann Cummins played the piano during the reception.

Among the many guests present were Mr. and Mrs. George Vanpool of Miami, Okla., parents of the bride; Mrs. James Knapp; Miss Wood of Newman Grove; Mrs. Richard Yost of Edgar; Mrs. William Leuck and son of Arcadia; Miss Sue Jones of Grand Island; Rev. and Mrs. Leonard Clark of Scotia; and many from Ord and North Loup.

Coffee guests in the Lester Kizer home Monday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Garry Simmons of Omaha and Mrs. Harry Bresley. Mrs. Zana Long was an evening caller.

Virginia Vanpool, James Knapp Married In Church Ceremony at Miami, Okla.

Bride Virginia

Virginia Vanpool and James Knapp exchanged marriage vows in the sanctuary of the First Christian Church at Miami, Okla. on Sept. 1 at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. George Vanpool of rural Miami. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Knapp of Ord.

The church was decorated with large baskets of white gladioluses and spiral candelabra bearing long white tapers. White satin bows decorated the pews.

Larry Moore of Miami sang "Whether Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride chose a formal wedding gown of pearl de sole fashioned with a sculptured bodice and short sleeves. The bodice and Sabrina neckline were applied with re-embroidered alencon lace and encrusted with sequena and seed pearls. The controlled skirt was veiled with a panel of organza appliqued with alencon lace. The bride's headpiece was a jeweled crown with simulated roses of silk organza to which a gathered elbow-length veil was attached. Her bouquet was of white orchids with white roses and stems of natural wheat.

Mrs. Wallace Souder of Ames, Ia., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length formal of blue nylon sheer over taffeta fashioned with an empire waistline and short accordion-pleated sleeves. A matching bow with halo veil completed her attire. She carried a colonial bouquet of white and feathered carnations to match her gown.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Darrell Vanpool of Miami, Okla., and Mrs. John Vanpool, Ardmore, Okla., sisters-in-law of the bride; Kathie McKee, Oklahoma City, Okla., cousin of the bride; and Martha Goodman, Apache, Okla., sorority sister.

Candlelighters were Sharon Kasper, Miami, and Vicky Pendergraft, Broken Arrow. Dresses of the bridesmaids and candlelighters were identical to that of the matron of honor. Brenda Walkup of Overland Park, Kan., the groom's niece, was flower girl. Her dress was identical to the bridesmaid's.

David Vanpool of Ardmore, Okla., carried a satin pillow bearing the rings.

Robert Knapp of Ord served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Robert Tuttle of Tulsa, Okla., and Wayne Johnson, Afton, Okla.; Jack Studeville, Kingfisher, Okla.; and Tom Lutes, Buffalo, Okla., fraternity brothers of the groom. Ushers were John Vanpool and Darrell Vanpool, brothers of the bride, and Steve Morris of Aledo, Ill.

Christie Smith Plans Wedding in December

The poor, misunderstood extension telephone.

What it is, what it isn't.

It is a second telephone in your home. It isn't paying for a separate line into your house. Or paying for a separate number.

And it isn't paying a double telephone bill.

What it is merely an extension from your present phone. And if you have to dash through the house or scramble downstairs to say out-of-breath hellos, it's something you need.

And it isn't a big expense. The cost—if you choose the basic style and color—is something like 4 cents a day. (Which is a bargain; you pay about four times that for your regular phone.)

It's not even a sensational new fad—by now four out of ten homes in America already have an extension phone. And the average family takes over 400 incoming calls a year on it, and uses it for at least that many outgoing calls.

Last of all, it wouldn't cost much to fry one for a couple of months and this would tell you everything.

Whether it is, or isn't, for you.

Call our business office or ask the man on the telephone truck.

Karen Lewandowski, Gary Greenland Wed In Double-Ring Rites at Arcadia Church

The Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Arcadia was the scene of the 10 a.m. wedding of Karen Lewandowski and Gary Greenland on Aug. 24. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. James Dunning before an altar complimented with pink and white gladioli.

Special organ music was provided by Shirley Lutz with Lynn Sell singing "The Wedding Prayer" and "Ave Maria."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lewandowski of Arcadia. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Greenland, also of Arcadia.

For her wedding the bride chose a floor-length dress of white brocade satin, featuring an empire waistline and train extending from the shoulders. Her bridal veil was held in place by a white satin cabbage rose. She carried a bouquet of blue-tipped mums, cascaded by matching feathered mums.

Barbara Lewandowski served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Beverly Garside and Linda Lewandowski. They wore street-length dresses of light blue chrochospun and carried feather flowers of a deep pink shade.

Cheryl Lewandowski was the flower girl. She wore a dress patterned identically to those of the maid of honor and bridesmaids. David Lewandowski served as ring bearer.

Serving the bridegroom were Kenny Dorsey, Lonnie Maxon and Robert Urban.

Following a trip to Scottsbluff, the couple are at home on a farm near Arcadia where the groom is employed. Both are graduates of Arcadia High School.

Groomsmen were John Deyloff, Monty Koelling and Bob Copeland. Keith Nelson, John Scott, Chuck Lucas and Gene Dormo seated the guests.

A reception followed in the church parlors. Assisting with the various reception duties were Mrs. Glen Backus, Mrs. Herb Nelson, Mrs. Bob Nelson, Mrs. Roy Nelson, Mrs. Bob Donahue, Mrs. Dave Jelinek, Mrs. Jack Stienier, Mrs. Lee Lollins, Mrs. Don Dahlin, Mrs. Roger Dahlin and Mrs. Lon Downing.

The bride is a graduate of the Hastings High School and is employed at Lincoln State Hospital. The groom is a junior at the University of Nebraska and is also employed at the Lincoln State Hospital. They will reside at 1829 M Street in Lincoln.

Parkview Village News

September Flowers Brighten Scene

By Berenice Cornell
Now its dahlias and apple blossoms in September. Tena Swanson has a yellow dahlia bloom nine inches across, and Berenice Cornell found a twig on the flowering crab apple tree by her porch filled with perfect full-bloom blossoms. It made a nice bouquet. There are also a number of pretty displays of asters and pansies around Parkview homes. Several of us have mentioned that our grass is nicer than it ever has been — so green and thick.

Do It Early
Rev. Don Wright substituted for Rev. Ronald Graff at the Thursday religious service because of sickness in the Graff family. Mrs. Wright used the 63rd Psalm, written by David in the Wilderness of Judah as his text. He emphasized the need for doing things "early" — such as learning early the steadfast love and kindness of Jesus for us, and each having a similar love for Him. That whosoever that God loves in John 3:16 is each of us, Mr. Wright said. If we get discouraged we should remember the "whosoever" in that verse. Mrs. Dessie Needham was a guest. Services are held each Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in the recreation center. Mildred Anderson took Mrs. Needham to the hospital after the services to see Mrs. Lyda Porter.

Mrs. Porter Breaks Hip
Parkview was very sorry last Wednesday when Lyda Porter broke a hip. The bone was pinned on Friday, and we are glad she is getting along as well as can be expected. We hope she has a quick recovery.

Pray For Film Success
Wednesday morning guests of Berenice Cornell for a prayer service concerning the coming Billy Graham film were Mrs. Leo Wolf and Mrs. William Ryschon and Michael. Mrs. Wolf came Friday to take Mrs. Cornell to a similar service in the Wolf home. Others present were Mrs. Floyd Boileens, Mrs. Wayne Miller, Tami and Jimmy, and Mrs. Francis Ryschon.

Mary Blaha Home
Mary Blaha returned home from Yankton, S. D., Saturday with Lyle Witherwas family. The Witherwases went to Broken Bow for an overnight stay with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Haumont, and on Sunday they had dinner with Mrs. Blaha. Mrs. Haumont and son were also there. The visitors all returned home in the afternoon, and Mrs. Blaha spent Sunday evening with Lillian Masin.

Walker Kin Hospitalized
Gladys Walker went to Grand Island Friday with Mrs. Elton Walker and saw her brother, Jerry Edwards, who is back in the hospital and quite ill.

Will Worm Celebrating
Mena Jorgensen went Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Beran and Will Worm to Wolbach where they visited in the Percy Phayer home and enjoyed a birthday dinner for Mr. Worm. Other relatives and friends were also present.

Mrs. Cetak Feted
Mary Cetak was a guest of her granddaughter, Sheila Cetak, for Sunday dinner at the Veterans' club on her birthday. In the afternoon Mary spent a nice time with Mrs. Anna Rohla. Mrs. Frank Benda brought Mrs. Cetak a birthday cake.

Personals
Elsie Rathburn returned home Tuesday after being in Arcadia with her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Pierson and family.

Tillie Massey attended the Mission Circle of the Christian Church Wednesday. Thursday morning she was with the prayer group which met in the home of Mrs. Ellsworth Ball.

A number here watched the Billy Graham Crusade on television the past week, either in groups or by themselves. Bertha

Kay Nelson, Ron Miller Wed Aug. 24

The marriage of Kay Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Nelson, formerly of Ord, now of Inland to Ron Miller son of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Miller of Bladen was solemnized Aug. 24 at the Grace United Methodist Church in Hastings. The Rev. Robert Miller performed the 4:30 p.m., double ring ceremony using an altar setting of white mums and spiral candleholders flanked with greenery and white tapers. Steven Steeby provided the organ accompaniment for Jean Stinctle who sang "The Wedding Prayer," "The Lord's Prayer," and "The Wedding Benediction."

Mrs. John Scott of Sidney, Ia., served her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmatron was Mrs. Keith Nelson of Holdrege and bridesmaids were Sherilyn Miller and Joy Miller both of Bladen. They wore street-length dresses in mint green styled A-line with princess seaming and a high round neckline. The headpieces were tulle crowns fashioned as overlapping tulle petals. Each carried a large white feather mumm with dark green streamers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a traditional gown of lace designed with a scoop neckline with lace scallop trim, bride style sleeves and bouffant skirt. The back was paneled in lace and alternating tulle ruffles. Her shoulder-length veil featured a large tulle crown in the shape of a flower and each petal was encrusted with pearls. She carried a yellow rose bouquet with center corsage.

The bride's niece, Kristine Scott of Sidney, Ia., was flower girl. John Donahue of Inland carried the rings. Candlelighters were Pat Hurlbut of Lincoln and Steven Nass of Inland.

Lynn Varn was best man.

Chants to Open Season Friday at Gothenburg

Local Team Performs Well in Pre-Season Practice Sessions, But Starting Safety Lost for Five Weeks With Broken Hand

Big, strong and experienced, Ord's Chanticleers will pop the cork on their 1968 football season tomorrow night in Gothenburg.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. Coach Dave VanNordheim reported Monday that the Chants had performed well in their pre-season practices and he was quite pleased with their progress. He said their performance in an intrasquad scrimmage Saturday morning "proved the first two units could move the ball."

Only one dark spot marred the Saturday morning session. That occurred early in the scrimmage when Bill Klanecky, scheduled to start at one of the inside safety positions on defense, broke a hand. He'll be lost for at least five weeks, VanNordheim reported.

The defensive backfield was probably the spot where the Chants could least afford to lose a man. VanNordheim had listed improvement there as his top priority when the fall practice began.

Dan Holtz, 145-pounder who lettered last year at end, will move into the starting lineup at the vacant safety position. VanNordheim said he'll team with Mike Winterfield, who'll get the call at the other safety post, and halfbacks Tim Markley and Steve Turek to provide the Chants with an all-lettermen defensive backfield.

While VanNordheim was optimistic in his appraisal of the Chants, his counterpart in Gothenburg was singing the blues. Coach Virgil Meyer said he will begin his first season as leader of the Swedes with a team that's "inexperienced, not too big, and slow."

Only nine lettermen return from a team that won three and lost six last year. However, Ord players and coaches will have difficulty forgetting that one of those three wins was a 24-14 decision taken from the Chants.

In addition, Coach Meyer in two years as a head coach has built a reputation for himself as a molder of winning teams.

Class C senior Franklin had a 9-1 record last year, and the team before that had a 7-2 mark. Spectators interested in top personal battles should keep their eyes on the line — especially the tackle positions — where Meyer lists two of his candidates for regional and state all-star honors. They're Dan Priel and Dan Duffy. Opposite them will be two of Ord's best performers, Melvin Linke and Steve Wells.

Top individuals to watch for when the Swedes have the ball are Vernon Banks, an end, and Bingham Dean, an end and half-back.

Meyer lists the backfield as his biggest problem area, citing in particular a lack of speed. Quarterbacking is only average, he said.

He also said he was quite disappointed with a Friday night intrasquad session. Blocking and timing were especially bad, he reported.

"The first two units both looked extremely poor," he said. "I thought the third team performed well, but of course they're all underclassmen with no previous experience."

The only significant practice injury has been a torn ligament which will keep second team halfback Tom Deaver on the sidelines.

The Swedes will use a split-T formation on offense, while the Chants will operate from a wing-T. On defense, Gothenburg will use a variety of formations, Meyer said, going anywhere from a four-man line on up. Ord plans to use a five or six-man line, with the defensive backs lined up in a "V."

Only two non-lettermen have cracked the Chant starting lineup. Bill Miller will get the call at tight end on offense and line-backer on defense, while Jim Novotny is scheduled to be the starting fullback.

Dennis Cetak is a letterman at fullback. However, he missed much of the pre-season work because of an appearance at the Nebraska State Fair.

"He might come around by Friday night, but as of today Novotny's our starter," VanNordheim said Monday. At 135 pounds Novotny will provide Swede defenders with quite a contrast from the 205 pounds Cetak will throw at them when he carries the ball.

VanNordheim was especially pleased with the Saturday scrimmage in view of the fact that the Chants had lost some practice time due to the recent rains.

"We were just starting to get our momentum up — then bingo, we had to stay indoors for a couple of days," he stated. "However, I thought we looked real well in the Saturday scrimmage."

The school's new portable video tape camera was also used by the athletic staff for the first time to tape the Saturday scrimmage. However, the cameramen were shooting at ground level, and VanNordheim said a review of the tape wasn't of much value.

"They needed to be up higher," he said.

to be shifted to that position, Kieborz said.

This will be the fourth year for Kieborz to head up the Huskies.

On offense his team will use the straight-T which it has employed in the past, and on defense it will use "anything we can get to work."

Despite dire foreboding for the coming season, which he prophesied would be "a long one," Kieborz acknowledged that the Huskies "have developed some" in fall drills.

He listed a probable starting lineup that reads like this: LE — Pat Murray, sophomore, 155 pounds; LT — Richard Luedtke, senior, 175; LG — Ron Lewandowski, senior, 160; C — Bill Crist, senior, 185; RG — Dave Scott, senior, 190; RT — Ron Setlik, junior, 175; RE — Paul Dietz, junior, 165; QB — Denury Ohme, junior, 143; LH — Arnie Urban, sophomore, 145; RH — Dan Hurlbert, junior, 140; FB — Tim Hurlbert, junior, 180.

He'll make some changes on defense, he said, but as of yesterday he still hadn't decided what they would be.

Plowing Accident Results in Broken Leg for Lores Hornickel

By Bertha Clement
 Everett Hornickel is in Valley County Hospital with a compound fracture of a leg. This happened Monday afternoon while he was plowing. The plow became unhooked from the tractor; then the hose came off and hit his leg. When he got off the tractor and stepped down, he found that his leg was broken. He laid in the field for several hours before Mrs. Lores Hornickel, who sent her sons Randy and Roger to look for him. After finding him, neighbors Arvin Bredthauer and Bill Brenner were called to help. The Ord emergency unit was called, and Mr. Hornickel was taken to the hospital.

tending Kearney. He is a senior. Monty Koelling who is enrolled at the University of Nebraska as a pre-pharmacy student. This is his third year in college. Linda Pokorny who is attending a beauty school in Grand Island. Elliot and Donna Johnson who attend Trinity College at Decatur, Ill. Elliott is a sophomore and Donna a freshman. Virginia Duvall who is a junior at the University of Nebraska, and her brother Richard Duvall who is a freshman at Norfolk Junior College. Ron Mroczek who returned to Omaha School of Commerce for his second year. Alan Peterson is also making college plans for the year.

Card of Thanks

A special thank you to Dr. Zlomek and the Valley County Hospital staff for their excellent care and kindness. Also to Rev. J. H. Schroeder, Rev. Shopland, my grandparents, relatives, and friends for remembering me with cards, gifts, and visits in the hospital and at home. Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered.

Terry Ray O'Neel

Card of Thanks

I have received more than 100 cards and letters from relatives, friends, children and grandchildren of departed friends since my accident Aug. 7.

A broken leg is nothing to enjoy, but your notes of cheer have all helped so very much. My daughter Kate Harman visits me every day and many of her friends stop by often. I look forward to their visits. Thank you all for being so kind.

Card of Thanks

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our many relatives, friends and neighbors for the kindness shown our mother during her illness and time of death.

A special thanks to Dr. Martin and the Ord hospital staff for the excellent care and the patience shown our mother, for the cards, floral offerings, memorial gifts and food contributions. Our deepest thanks of appreciation to Rev. Schroeder, Rev. Clark, Hastings-Pearson for the beautiful services and comforting words, the pianist, singer, pallbearers, the Needle and Tumble Club who served lunch. The memory of all the wonderful kindness will always be cherished.

Former Sheriff of Valley County Dies in Local Hospital Following Surgery

Wayne Turner, long-time resident of Valley County, died Sept. 9 at the local hospital. Mr. Turner, 73, had been in failing health for some time and underwent surgery three days before his death.

The son of Joshua and Mary (Osborn) Turner, he was born Sept. 28, 1894, in Ord. At an early age he moved with his family to the Sand Flats of Garfield County where he lived until manhood. The next few years were spent in Missouri until he returned to Valley County where he married Vivian Collins Dec. 27, 1916, at Ord. From 1917 until 1959 the couple farmed in the county. In January of 1959 they moved to Ord where Mr. Turner assumed responsibilities as county sheriff for four years. At the time of his death he was the World-Herald representative for this area. Survivors are his wife; two sons, Gerald and Eldon, both of Hastings; one daughter, Mrs. Audrey Draver of Burwell; eight grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; and one niece. He was predeceased by his parents, four sisters and one brother.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the United Methodist Church of Ord, with the Rev. Clarence Campbell officiating. Mrs. Shirley Karve was the organist.

The Hastings-Pearson Mortuary had charge of burial at the Ord City Cemetery with Robert Hall, Cash Rathbun, Raymond Christensen, John Warford, Elmer Alquist and Joe Bonne as pallbearers.

Ray Richardson Dies at Ord Hospital; Rites Wednesday

Final services for Raymond Richardson were held Wednesday at the Hastings-Pearson Chapel in Ord. Mr. Richardson died at the Valley County Hospital Saturday night after suddenly becoming ill a few hours earlier. He was 55 years old.

Pastor J. H. Schroeder officiated at the 10 o'clock morning service. Mrs. Sharon Foss sang "Going Down the Valley" and "When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder." Mrs. Shirley Karve was the organist. Burial with military rites was in the Beaver Crossing Cemetery at 2:30 p.m.

Raymond Ivan Richardson, son of Claude and Hattie (Gerber) Richardson, was born Mar. 27, 1913, at Beaver Crossing. A farmer most of his life, his home had been on a farm north of Ord since 1935. He was never married.

He was a veteran of World War II, having entered the Army in February of 1942 at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and been discharged at O'Connell General Hospital in Springfield, Mo., in September of 1945. A member of the Ord Veterans of Foreign Wars, he was also active in the Burwell American Legion.

Surviving are his mother of Ord; two brothers, Clinton of Ord and Lloyd of Natchitoches, La.; six sisters, Mrs. Edith Goff of Loup City, Mrs. Fern Goff of Ord, Mrs. Ruth Rice of North Loup, Mrs. Thelma Lockhart of Vaughn, Ark., and Mrs. Wilma Whitaker, and Mrs. Elma Bell, both of Chambers. Mr. Richardson was preceded in death by his father and one brother.

First-grade students at St. Mary's School may not have the best form, but their attitude is tops as they salute the flag during a morning pledge of allegiance. Mrs. Ann Barto is the only new member of the St. Mary's faculty this year. She teaches the fifth grade.

Final Services Held for Arcadia Man Following Sudden Death in Ord Sept. 4

Funeral services for Ernest Easterbrook were held Saturday in Arcadia. The 76-year-old native of that community died suddenly and unexpectedly at Ord Sept. 4.

The Rev. Duane Davis officiated at the 2 p.m. service in the Congregational Church. Mrs. Ina Woody, organist, accompanied Mrs. Elvira Bell in "Beyond the Sunset" and "How Great Thou Art." Pallbearers were W. K. Nagel, C. C. Weddel, Anton Nelson, Albin Pierson, Darrel McKinney and Otto Fagus. Interment was in the Arcadia Cemetery with Hastings-Pearson Mortuary in charge.

Ernest Allison Easterbrook was born Dec. 30, 1891, near Arcadia. His parents were Edgar and Clara (Foster) Easterbrook. He farmed most of his life north of Arcadia, until moving to town several years ago. He retired in 1963.

Mr. Easterbrook was married to Helen Parker on Jan. 1, 1914, at Farragut, Ia. A member of the Arcadia Congregational Church, he was also active in the Arcadia Community Club.

Survivors are his wife and one brother, Arthur Easterbrook, both of Arcadia, and numerous nieces and nephews. His parents, one son, one daughter and three sisters preceded him in death.

Ord Woman Injured When Hit by Auto

Mrs. Emma Hansen, 77, is recovering satisfactorily from a fractured left tibia in the area of the knee joint," Dr. Otis Miller said yesterday.

Mrs. Hansen received the broken bone when she was struck Aug. 28 by an automobile. Dr. Miller was the driver.

The accident occurred at the intersection of 16th and O Streets during a reinstorm. Dr. Miller took Mrs. Hansen to the Ord Clinic where he administered treatment.

Mrs. Hansen is recovering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ferguson.

Jaycees to Discuss Shooting Education

A meeting will be held Sept. 14 for parents of children who are participating in this year's shooting education program, sponsored by the Ord Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting will be held in the Ord High School cafeteria, beginning at 8 p.m.

Children who have taken the course may do so again, according to officials, provided they are still within the age limit of 7-14 years. Registration cards will be available at the meeting and at Misko Sport Shop and Duane's Barber Shop.

Further information may be obtained from Emanuel Sich, chairman of the program, at 728-3944.

Rites for Kinfolk Held in Third City

Mrs. Frank Piskorski accompanied Mrs. Leo Butts and son of Burwell to Grand Island, Monday morning, for the funeral services of Private First Class Gary Smith, held at St. Mary's Cathedral.

Private Smith, a grand nephew of Mrs. Piskorski, was shot to death by a gang of Negro youths in what police called an "apparent ambush" early Sept. 3 in the Negro district on the west side of Oakland, Cal. A companion, Steve Miller of Sunnyvale, Cal., was severely beaten.

Smith, the son of Walter E. Smith, Jr., of Grand Island and Mrs. Betty Bialy Smith of San Ramon, Cal., was on leave from the Army and visiting his mother when the attack occurred.

Wiener Roast Held

The Mira Valley Livestock Club met recently at the Frank Cernik farm for a business meeting and wiener roast. Record books were brought by members to be signed by the club leader, Frank Cernik. New officers elected for next year were President Glen Bredthauer; vice-president Nancy Kreilek; Charlene Cernik, Secretary; Jean Spota, Treasurer; and Ricky Bredthauer, and money-making ideas were also discussed.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 29.

Kris Luoma, News Reporter

Recent houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Travis were Mr. and Mrs. John W. Kurtz of Omaha. Mr. Kurtz will be remembered by Ord friends as the former Ruth Milford.

Autumn Style Show Scheduled Monday

Newest fall fashions will be introduced Monday at the benefit style show sponsored by the Ord JC-Ettes. The evening event will be held at 8 o'clock in the Ord High School gym. Proceeds will go to the Special Services School of Ord.

Styles will be featured by Neelham's, Helen's Dress Shop, Lee's, McDonald's, Montgomery Ward, Newland's Men's Wear, and Lynn's Shoe Store of Ord, plus Vera's Style Shop of North Loup. Rose Pokorny of the Blue Haven Beauty Salon will do the hair styling for many of the models, and the latest touch in wigs and hairpieces will be the compliments of Wilma's Beauty Shop. Door prizes will be given.

Tickets are available from the JC-Ettes or Jewel Buoy in Ord, Vera's Style Shop in North Loup, or Kull's Drug in Burwell.

The Quiz inadvertently indicated in last week's issue that this would be a card party.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Beran spent last weekend in Hot Springs, S. D., with Mr. and Mrs. Jack McDill and family. The McDills moved to Hot Springs about two weeks ago. Their home had been in Canistota, S. D. The Berans were accompanied by Adolph Kokes who visited his daughter and family, the Jim Evertons, in Rapid City.

Weekend guests in the Will Penas home were Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Skala and family of Cozad and Mr. and Mrs. Wencil Bruha and family of Grand Island. They were joined for dinner Sunday afternoon by the Frank Bruha family of Scott. Additional afternoon guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lavern Osentowski and family.

Variety Keys Fall Festival

Thirty-seven major floats depicted scenes from the Arctic to the tropics in last week's Fall Festival parade at Arcadia.

The giant parade helped lure more than 4,000 persons to the community of 450, making this the most successful festival ever in the opinion of officials. Warm, sunny weather added to its attractiveness, as spectators lined both sides of the town's main street for four solid blocks.

Deane Gould was crowned queen of the festival after receiving the largest number of votes from those attending the various events.

The parade highlighted the activities of Labor Day morning, while children's races and a mad pig scramble featured the afternoon's events. The crowning of the queen was the top attraction of the night doings. A float entered by Dunigamer's Honey won the grand prize award in the parade. It depicted a Switzerland ski scene.

"Neighbors Around the World" was the theme of this year's parade.

Other winners were:

Church Division
1st — Calvary Baptist Church of Arcadia with a scene from the Philippines; 2nd — Arcadia United Methodist Church with a float entitled, "In Christ There Is No East or West"; 3rd — Mira Valley United Methodist Church with a float entitled, "The Sower," which depicted a scene from the Holy Land.

Organizations
1st — Arcadia American Legion and Auxiliary with a float which had an Irish theme; 2nd — Arcadia Actors Assn. "Neighbors Around the World"; 3rd — Sunshine Sallies and Sassy Sams 4-H Club with a float showing foreign 4-H'ers from various countries.

Schools

Businesses
1st — Middle Loup Irrigation District, "Savages of Africa"; 2nd — Scott's Farming and Livestock, "Deepest Darkest Africa"; 3rd — Trotter's Skelly, "Old Mexico."

Nine pigs were given away at the afternoon pig scramble, and some of the winners were moving so fast they didn't stop to give the officials their names. Those who did were Dean Martin and Wayne Slingsby (who were named co-winners), Steven Foth, Dennis Kremer, Mary Beth Scott and Janet Bose (co-winners), Steve Holcomb, and Debby Sedlacek.

Other winners in the afternoon were:
Children's Piggy-Back Race — 1st, Mike Voight and Bill Edwards; 2nd, Tom Obermiller and David Krolewski; 3rd, Gene Dowdy and Billy Staab.

Adult Piggy-Back Races — 1st, Con Schultz and Jim Hawley; 2nd, Leo Evans and Pat Markeson; 3rd, Jim Lutz and Joe Widowson.

Boys Sack Races (8-12) — 1st, Calvin Foth; 2nd, Steve Haysinson; 3rd, Gary Johnson.

Three-Legged Race (12 and under) — 1st, Melody and Veronica Reinhard; 2nd — Henry Bridgman and Allen Grash; 3rd, Gary Marsh and Calvin Foth.

Three Legged Race (Free for All) — 1st, Lowell Bro and Elwood West; 2nd, Mike Voight and Bill Edwards; 3rd, Ron Hurlbert and Delbert John.

Shoe Race — 1st, Gary Johnson; 2nd, Dean Einspahr; 3rd, Rich Hawley.

Boys Foot Race (8 and Under) — 1st, Gary Johnson; 2nd, Dale Holbrook; 3rd, Edwin Apperson.

Girls Foot Race (8 and Under) — 1st, Ronny Staab; 2nd, Jackie Simonson; 3rd, Diane Reinhard.

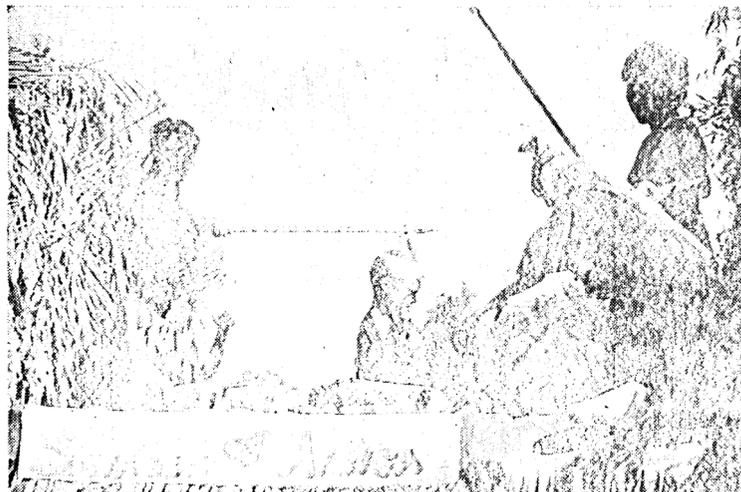

Girls Foot Race (12 and Under) — 1st, Debbie Chelewski; 2nd, Melody Reinhard; 3rd, Janet Bose.

Sack Race (Second Heat) — 1st, Penny Staab; 2nd, Greg Sintek; 3rd, Jimmy Staab.

After getting a reprieve when their star tugs failed to show up on time, the Davis Creek Giants out-pulled the Arcadia Colts in a tug-of-war contest.

In the pony-pulling competition — Leroy King of Walthill was the big winner, taking both first and second places. Third went to Emmett John, also of Walthill.

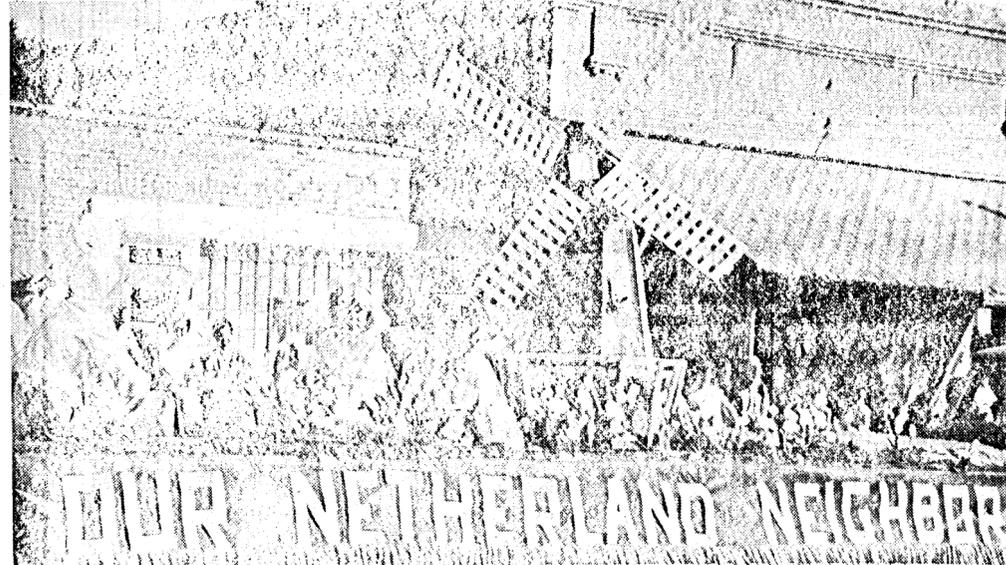

The "Savages of Africa" float sponsored by the Middle Loup Irrigation District was a first-place winner in last week's Fall Festival parade at Arcadia. It won in the business division.

Jess Trotter, left and Pam Gogan were the Dutch boy and girl atop the Trotter's Grain, Feed and Fertilizer float.

The jungle countries were popular subjects. This entry, entitled "Deepest, Darkest Africa," won second place in the business division. It was sponsored by Scott's Feed and Livestock.

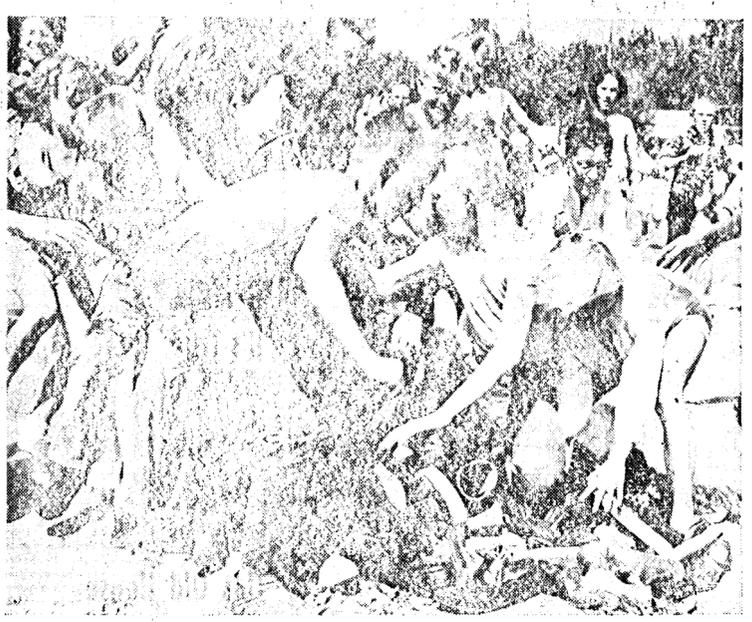

With its scenic windmills and colorful costumes, Holland was also a popular subject. School District 21 put together this float, entitled "Our Netherland Neighbor," and won third place in the school division.

The mad scramble was on at this point as a hundred kids each looked for his own pair of shoes in the shoe race. With a pair of Eels, Gary Johnson was the first to spot his own footwear and cross the finish line fully shod.

They weren't pennies from heaven, but they were just as good as that to these youngsters in the 1-to-3 age group who participated in the penny shower.

Dennis Kremer's half-nelson approach worked as he tamed this greatest pig.

KERRY ON

By Kerry Leggett

—It's portable—
Reaching across her, he flicked his ashes in the ashtray on the bedside table. It was then he noticed the small black book. "Where'd you get that?" he asked.
"My sponsor gave it to me," she replied. "Mac. The guy that I first called when I wanted to sober up. Don't you have one?"
"Yes... I've got one. Pretty good little book," he added, factually.
Understanding filled her eyes. "Do you read your's every day?" she queried.
"Not like I used to... when I first came on the program. There are days when it seems like I need to read it — then I do." His reference to "The program" was to Alcoholics Anonymous. They were both members.
"Tell me about yourself," he said. "What's a girl like you doing in a program like this? You're too young... too pretty to have ever been an alcoholic."
"Oh?" she replied. "What makes you think I'm TOO young?"
"You just are! And you're too pretty... I mean — you know what I mean — you just don't look the part."
"Must 'look the part'?" she said rather sarcastically. "See this nose! It's been broken three times!" She pointed out other well-disguised marks on her face — carefully covered with extreme care and long hours before a mirror.
"I started out as an airline stewardess," she said.
"Oh! One of those!" he said, grinning.
"They're not like that!" she swiftly rebuked. "All those stories you hear about pilots and stewardesses — they're not true. It's like those stories you hear about doctors and nurses. I suppose you believe all those, too!"
"No... no," he said, realizing he'd provoked her animosity. "I believe you."
She sat upright with her back against the headboard of the bed and grasped her knees between entwined hands. Lighting up a cigarette she blew out the match with a more-than-casual air. Reaching for the ashtray, she deposited the match and picked up the little black book.
The title gold-stamped on the cover read, "Twenty-Four Hours a Day." It contained 365 thoughts — one for each day of the year. He could see the pride in her eyes as she opened the cover. Inside were penned the words, "Take this with you... it's portable. — Mac."
They turned to the thought for THAT day — Aug. 3. She read it aloud to him. Then they came to the "Meditation for the Day."
Both read on... silently to themselves. "Each moment of your day which you devote to this new way of life is a gift to God. The gift of the moments. Even when your desire to serve

The Restless Ones

New problems sometime demand new answers, but occasionally a response which has been tried and proven works better. Just such an answer is provided for the problems which beset the principal characters in the film, "The Restless Ones," which will be shown at the Ord Theater Sept. 19, 20 and 21.

The film exposes some of the problems teenagers encounter in the growing-up process, as well as some of the troubles which plague their parents.

Produced three years ago, it nevertheless is in step with today's generation. Only the skirt lengths give it an aura of antiquity.

Local parents who are having trouble bridging the generation gap can take courage from the film, for its principals have that problem too. However, it shows that the trouble may not always lie with the child.

Uncommon Family With Common Problems
The leading characters — a man and wife television writing team, and their teenage son — can hardly be described as an ordinary family. However, they are beset with ordinary problems.

For example, they seem at the outset to be preoccupied with their jobs and attempt to substitute money for their own companionship. Certainly in today's affluent society that's no problem which is confined to the screen.

In another scene, today's all too frequent "do as I say, not as I do" philosophy is demonstrated. As the father berates his son for getting involved in a drinking incident, he himself turns to the bottle for a shot to soothe his jangled nerves.

"What's the difference?" his son asks. Somehow the father's answer "Twenty years," has a hollow ring.

'Evil Companions Corrupt Good Morals'
Eventually the boy winds up in a mess of trouble, primarily through continual association with the wrong companions.

His response — "I didn't mean for anything like this to happen" — is again typical.

Since evangelist Billy Graham is a star of the production, you may have guessed that the family is eventually led to God as the answer to their troubles.

The film strikes a blow at the familiar myth — perhaps perpetuated by self-conscious church-goers themselves — that anyone who becomes a Christian "is an odd-ball and can't have any more fun."

Production-wise, the dramatic episode does a fairly good job of holding the viewer's attention and keeping him in suspense, although it does lapse in a couple of spots of extended dialogue.

Nevertheless, an evening spent watching it will be an evening well spent — for parents as much, if not more so, than the youngsters.

The film's showing in Ord is sponsored by a group of 18 citizens who are not members of any single organization. That in itself is a most encouraging sign, for it shows that there are persons concerned enough about today's problems to do something about them.

A Trickle Turns Into a Torrent

There's bad news for non-union families — and that includes most Central Nebraskans — who've been having a hard time making ends meet.

Drowned out in all the political uproar of the past few weeks were some of the most astonishing wage agreements ever foisted upon the American public. They all mean more inflation, thus higher prices and less left over after the bills are paid — if there was anything to begin with.

The most flabbergasting settlement was in Dayton, Ohio, where bricklayers received a 72 percent pay hike over the next two years. Their salaries will jump $4.10 an hour, from $5.65 to $9.75. A 40-hour work week thus will earn a salary of $390 in 1970. Overtime will be worth twice the hourly rate, or $19.50.

In Toledo, Ohio, iron workers settled for a more modest $2.10-an-hour raise, to be spread over two years. That will bring their hourly rate to $7.63, which represents a boost of 19 percent.

Worst Is Yet To Come
Such increases will be only chicken feed, however, if sheet metal workers get what they want. They're holding out for a raise of $5.14 an hour, exactly double their present pay scale. To be spread over three years, it would bring their pay to $10.28 an hour by 1971.

New homes in the strike area already are being priced 10 to 12 percent higher. And you can bet we'll feel the effects even out here in Nebraska as 250 other major contracts come up for renewal during the next few months.

Although it may not make headlines, news of such settlements travel fast among the union chiefs. And there's not one of them who wants to settle for less on a percentage basis than fellow union leaders gouged out.

It's True: There's Simply No Accounting for People's Tastes

DEAR MISTER EDITOR: Ed Hulinsky opened the session of the country store Saturday night by announcing America was being took over by the humbugs. What brought it to mind, said Ed, was this piece he had seen in the papers where 31 brands of liquor were tested for taste, and when they got through the testers said there wasn't much difference in any of the brands except the price. Ed went on to say he knew a feller that bought a bottle of high price liquor once, and ever since he just buys the cheapest brand and keeps the high-priced bottle poured full.

Lew Bilka agreed with Ed, said a heap of what we call progress in this country today wasn't anything but folks trying to keep up with the Joneses. For instance, he said, if they were to list hot dogs in a foreign language in some of them fancy eating places, folks would pay $4 apiece for em.

Charles Radil, who refused to cross the New Frontier and was agin the Great Society, claimed it all got started with the New Deal. Charles said it was along about that time when they quit putting watch pockets and suspenders buttons on pants, and we had gone downhill ever since.

Ray Osenowski allowed as how we got to look at these matters with a little charity in our heart, that different people have different tastes. That's the reason, said Ray, they make chocolate and vanilla. There are separate tastes for eating and clothes and cars and everything else, was the way Ray put it.

Yeh, said Charles sarcastically, he especially liked the taste of them judges that gave first prize in a sculpture show in New York and found out later some college students had welded pieces of a wrecked car together and made it for a joke.

Joe Urbanovsky, who usually don't say much at the meetings, butted in to say we weren't getting nothing done at the session and he was in favor of changing the subject. Joe said he could recollect an Englishman said once that America was an insane asylum run by the inmates, and he reckoned we were just some of the inmates.

Personal, Mister Editor, I ain't interested in nothing but the tast you eat with, and the other tastes folks can work out fer themselves. I don't care if some folks pay $4 fer a hot dog with a new name but that don't mean I got to like mayonnaise on them store bought bread slices you can hold up to the light and read the newspaper through. I reckon the worst taste I've heard lately was that woman driver passing out from the heat on account of keeping her car window rolled up tight during the August hot spell so her neighbors would think she had air conditioning.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

Dear Editor: I want to thank you for the article a week ago concerning the World Council of Churches and its Anti-Christ emphasis. People need to be aware of this condition so their time, money, and energy is not spent on such organizations. We trust they will heed this warning.

Now, I do deplore the stand taken by those who would allow the beer issue to pass for the bowling alley. Surely, black is black and white is white. I don't bow and don't want my children to. Could the environment be the reason?

Ousted State Park Superintendent Booted Upstairs, Given Pay Raise

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — John Kurtz, Nebraska's most publicized state park superintendent, has been given a job in the front office.

Throughout the spring and summer, Kurtz was the target of northwest Nebraska ranchers and farmers who demanded that he be transferred from his post as superintendent of Fort Robinson State Park.

The Game Commission decided early in August it would be better for everyone concerned — Kurtz, the ranchers and the park patrons — if he were reassigned. The commissioners set a Sept. 10 deadline.

Although it was originally planned that he would switch places with Dallas Johnson, superintendent of Ponca State Park, Commission Director M. O. Steen decided instead on an assignment at the headquarters in Lincoln.

Kurtz will serve as a liaison officer between Jack Strain, chief of the commission's Parks Division, and certain areas of park operations.

Steen defended Kurtz throughout the months of controversy. He maintained the superintendent had special talents in park development. The transfer to the Lincoln office was seen as an effort to put these talents to use throughout the state's park system.

Eventually, Steen said, he would like to put Kurtz in charge of Indian Cave State Park which is to be developed in Nebraska's Southeast corner along the Missouri River.

The move to Lincoln was described as a promotion. It was accompanied by a raise in salary.

Czechoslovakia Trip Off
T. A. Filipi, chief of environmental health services for the State Department of Health, had his heart set on a conference he had scheduled to attend this fall in the land of his ancestors, Czechoslovakia.

The conference, however, fell victim to the Czech freedom movement and the resulting Russian military intervention.

This was particularly ironic for Filipi because he had been scheduled to appear on a panel discussing a paper on stream pollution prepared by two Russians.

The meeting was the fourth annual International Conference on Water Pollution Research. Efforts were underway to reschedule it, but Filipi was not sure whether he could make the trip later.

He and his wife, who is also of Czech descent, had planned a month-long tour of Europe in conjunction with the Prague conference.

As part of his presentation, Filipi had planned to show his international colleagues the progress Nebraska is making in preventing stream pollution from livestock feedlots.

"Manure," he said, "used to be a valuable by-product of the feedlots. Now the big lots have so much of this waste it is no longer profitable to try to collect it for fertilizer."

Many of the major feedlots have their lots on hillsides so the rain will wash the waste away — into the streams. Nebraska has done a good deal of research on how to avoid this pollution, he said, and he had been eager to share the findings with his colleagues from around the globe.

His remarks were to be illustrated by a series of aerial photographs.

Law Urged Authenticity
The State Game Commission has been accused of judging a little with history.

The so-called Little Hoover Commission — the Nebraska Management Analysis Study Committee — says buildings at some state parks "are not truly authentic."

The Hoover consultants recommended a law requiring the Game Commission "to obtain technical facts and approval from the Nebraska State Historical Society prior to embarking on historical restorations to insure that historical integrity is maintained."

The Hoover Commission report did not give specific examples, but it said the Game Commission had failed to make "adequate utilization" of the Historical Society's professional staff.

"Constructing a non-authentic site for the purpose of commercial tourism," the Hoover report said, "should not be allowed."

The Hoover Commission was established by Gov. Norbert Tiemann, who asked its business members to take a hard look at all phases of state government to see where methods of private industry could help streamline operations.

The commission's recommendations have been released in clusters for more than a month. Among the other more recent proposals:

Cut the workload for the State Liquor Commission by issuing licenses on a staggered basis and investigating the feasibility of turning licensing chores over to a computer in the Department of Administrative Services.

Consolidate the Departments of Health, Welfare and Public Institutions into an agency known as the Department of Social Services.

Consolidate all state government printing in the print shop at the Penal Complex and establish a centrally operated laundry to serve all state-owned institutions.

Establish by statute a small-claims court within the Department of Insurance to handle complaints of less than $500.

How To Finance Roads?
A report is expected shortly from the Legislative Council's Roads Study Committee which will recommend how the 1969 Unicameral should find the money to improve and expand the state's highway system.

The committee criss-crossed the state earlier this year to test citizen sentiment on proposals to use revenue bonds to provide cash for highway development. The committee also took the pulse of officials from lower subdivisions of government on how the funds should be split between cities and counties.

The State Highway Commission, advisory arm of the Roads Department, has been reluctant to endorse the bond financing methods — which will be placed before the voters this November in the form of a proposed constitutional amendment.

One commission member, however, has suggested the state gasoline tax be established as a percentage of the retail price. It is now a flat 7½ cents per gallon. Commission Vice Chairman Thane Davis of Hyannis said the percentage system would "provide a built-in inflation factor."

His idea was endorsed by Commissioners Dan Ramsey of Scottsbluff and Ralph Hanks of Lincoln and by State Engineer John Hossack. But officials of the petroleum industry, Executive Director Charles Chace of the Nebraska Petroleum Council and George Walters of the Nebraska Petroleum Marketers — said Davis' plan "almost surely would mean a cut in the present tax rate" and would amount to "a losing proposition for the state highway system."

The Quiz welcomes communications from readers. The briefer they are, the better is their prospect of publication. All are subject to condensation. We assume no responsibility for statements in letters.

Dear Sir:
Having just returned from a City Council meeting where the majority said NO and the minority said YES, and the City Council voting with the minority, I feel compelled to write, asking some questions.

It has always been my understanding that in a democracy the majority won and the minority lost. At least it was that way back in the days of the founding fathers. But how is it that only two people can appear before the City Council (ONLY TWO) and have the issue pass, while for every other issue, not only that, but 150 other people registered their opposition through a petition. What good does it do to oppose something when you have 164 people against and two for and the two get their way? I wonder, "Has the city council been taking a course in this new math?"

It's a black day when elected officials disregard the will of the citizens on the grounds that they are too old to have a legal say about the affairs of their community. Since when did attaining a certain age in life give our City Council the authority to disregard their wishes? I know that in Russia the minority rule over the majority but I always had faith that our officials were to serve the people, not rule them.

Ruling in favor of two people over and above 164 certainly isn't listening to the majority's desire but telling them the minority rules. I am well aware of the fact that the argument will be made that there were many who were in favor of granting the liquor license but just didn't make an appearance. Doesn't our American way of life hold the idea that only those who vote or appear either for or against an issue have any legal weight for a decision to be weighed on? Only those who voiced their opinion, either for or against should have been considered.

Something else that really has me wondering is this: Tuesday evening the argument was presented to the city council that the license was needed to help business, but then the very next morning a bowling league of women arrived, ready to start bowling, but were informed the league had been canceled. I am still wondering: was this a legitimate argument?

Also, I would like to know when it was that our laws require a person to be a participant in some activity before their objection or support is considered? Since the argument was pretty well established the other night, that you must be a bowler before your testimony carries any weight, I wonder if the same principle would be in force if someone applied for say, a license to run a house of prostitution. Must I also be a patron before my views would carry any weight? For the sake of God and country, I hope not.

I have heard many politicians promising a new America. But let me assure you, I like the old America where the majority rules and the minority has enough character to let them.

Some of the councilmen have spoken to me privately about the stench in Washington and their total disregard for the will of the people. I think that it might do well for all to take a good smell around City Hall. Last Tuesday evening would have been a good time to start. Let's stop complaining about the minority ruling in Washington until the majority start ruling here. Indeed, I think it's very strange when the majority of the council will sit with closed mouths when the vote is taken and let a minority of the councilmen pass a motion.

When elected officials disregard the voters' opposition on the grounds of their being too old, or not being a bowler, it's time for an election. And I assure you, if we don't have a better caliber to choose from than what we've got, those of you who are old might as well stay home. Your vote, apparently, doesn't count anyway. By the way, I wish the City Council would tell the community what that magic age line is.

Now before someone starts crying "sour grapes," let me assure you that I have appeared before the City Council on different issues, and this is not the first time I've been on the losing end. Always before I left City Hall telling myself, "The majority always wins in a democracy," and as long as I am in the minority

I am willing to abide with the majority. Not once have I complained when I was in the minority. But believe me, when the majority loses to two people, I feel compelled to voice my opposition to such hanky panky.

Many others would have liked to have given their opinions but feared to do so with grounds of losing business and friends. Its time that Americans stood up for what they believe in. It's also time for Americans to let the opposition speak those beliefs without fear of losing friends or business. FEEL LOW CITIZENS STAND UP AND SPEAK OUT FOR AMERICA WHILE THERE IS STILL AN AMERICA TO STAND UP AND SPEAK OUT FOR.

With malice toward none, I am,
Sincerely yours,
J. H. Schroeder

Mrs. Hamilton Buried in Ord On Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Hamilton were held Saturday afternoon at the Presbyterian Church in Ord. Mrs. Hamilton, age 96, died Sept. 4 at Cheyenne, Wyo.

The Rev. Kenneth Bunnell officiated at the service. Mrs. Sharon Fuss sang "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go" and "Abide With Me." She was accompanied by Mrs. Shirley Karre at the organ. Pallbearers were E. O. Armstrong, Willard Armstrong, R. Clare Clement, D. E. Armstrong, James Ollis, and George Bell, with interment in the Ord City Cemetery by the Hastings-Pearson Mortuary.

Born May 25, 1872, in Allegheny County, Pa., Mrs. Hamilton was the daughter of William and Maggie (Gray) Armstrong. Her early life was lived in Pennsylvania. Before marriage to the Rev. Charles Hamilton on Aug. 30, 1910, at Washington, Pa., she had taught at the Mission School in Korea. In recent years her home was in Newburgh, Ind., until two months ago when she moved to Kimball.

She was preceded in death by her parents, her husband, two sisters and four brothers. Survivors include 11 nieces and nephews.

Merry Miras Take Trip

Tours of a dress factory and a bakery highlighted a recent field trip to Hastings for the Merry Miras 4-H Club.

The group visited the Mod-O-Day dress factory where the saw many styles of dresses and sportswear, being made, and then they toured the Krist Bakery where they saw the complete baking and packaging process for bread.

Shopping in Grand Island completed the day.

Those attending were Shirley, Dianne, and Cheryl Peterson, Yelma and Rogene Hornickel, Nancy Kreilek, Bev Bremer, Jan Kocling, and Esther Johnson. Transportation was provided by Shirley Peterson and Mrs. Hornickel. Jan Kocling, News Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Dobrovsky called on Mr. and Mrs. Anton Psota Sunday. Eugene Psota was also an afternoon guest of his parents.

Drought Program Participation Ends; 141 Take Part

A total of 141 Valley County farmers took part in the 1968 drought disaster program. The county's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Office announced this week.

The 141 farmers participated in the program to the following extent:

- 2421.3 acres of land diverted for the 1968 feed grain program were purchased for a total of $6,254.00, and were subsequently harvested by either mechanical means or by grazing of livestock.
- From the conservation reserve program, 1,803.8 diverted acres were purchased for $3,719.20.
- From the cropland conversion program 159.9 acres were purchased for $419.92.
- From the cropland adjustment program 690.2 acres were purchased for $2,525.71.

The deadline for use of diverted acres under the program was Sept. 1. From that date the acres diverted for the 1968 feed grain program were made available to all participants for grazing only through normal program procedures.

Mira Valley Couple Visits 'Shadow of Siberia' on Arctic Trip

(Editor's Note: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Peterson recently returned from a vacation in the Arctic. In this article and one which will be printed next week Mrs. Peterson tells of some of their experiences.)

By Mrs. Albert Peterson

Early on the morning of Aug. 17, we with a group of about 50 boarded Alaska Airlines' Golden Nugget jet for an exciting arctic adventure.

As we left Anchorage and flew over the Alaska Range, we got a view of Mt. McKinley, highest peak in North America. After an hour over the bush country, we crossed the mighty Yukon River and after another hour our pilot alerted us to one of the thrills of the trip, crossing the Arctic Circle. He dipped the plane slightly to make us aware that we were in the arctic zone, 30 minutes distant from the North Pole. We later received an attractive certificate, personalized with our name, making us official members of the Arctic Circle Club.

We soon arrived in Kotzebue on the west coast of Alaska.

There we found an authentic unspoiled Eskimo village of about 1,500 inhabitants, 80 percent of whom are Eskimos who spend their lives much as they did centuries ago.

Our guide loaded us into two busses and dropped us off at an odd - smelling meeting - house. The rude benches and tables led some of us to believe it was an Eskimo schoolhouse. Men, women and children had gathered there to welcome us to their village.

Outdoors they demonstrated the number one Eskimo sport, the blanket toss. Children as well as men were tossed high in the air on a huge walrus hide.

The women showed us how they cradled their babies on their backs under their parkas, and demonstrated some of their skills. It was interesting to watch them separate dry reindeer sinews to use for thread in sewing skins together. Most of their clothing was homemade although some of the children were wearing jeans and sweatshirts.

The children were friendly and eager to show us their homes, most of which were small and shabby shacks. Many had broken windows and were so poorly kept we wondered how they kept any heat in them in the wintertime. One little fellow told us his family of 11 lived in two rooms.

When we offered the children pennies they were quick to inform us they like dimes.

Most of them peddled chips of jade for which they asked 25 cents to a dollar. In the middle of the village lay a huge piece of jade, 12 or 15 feet long, one end of which showed signs of the source of their wares.

As we walked along the beach we saw the drying racks loaded with salmon, tomcod, and Shee fish. Huskies seemed to be guarding them.

In Eskimo land one must hunt and fish in order to eat. So the men constantly bring in whale, seal, walrus and other game. This time of the year there is less fishing and the hunters concentrate on caribou, preparing skins and meat for the long winter ahead.

The temperature in Kotzebue that day was 54 degrees with a brisk wind. Our bus driver told us the lowest temperature he had experienced was minus 54, although it had been known to get as low as minus 76 degrees.

The place where we had lunch served only packaged food (for which we were thankful).

After lunch we all boarded the jet again for a flight to Nome. As we rounded the Seward Peninsula and went through the Bering Strait, we were in "the shadow of Siberia" and had reached the Bering Sea time zone. This is the end of all time zones of the world, and marks the location of the international date line. At this point one looks from today into tomorrow, where East meets West.

Had weather permitted, we could have viewed the Siberian coast. Below were the Diomed Islands — Big Diomed belonging to Russia, Little Diomed to the United States — separated by less than three miles.

Nine Appointed To City Board

The City of Ord has activated its planning commission.

Members will make studies of the city and recommend areas for future expansion and improvement.

The commission held its first meeting Tuesday night. Those named to the group were Dr. Paul Lambert, Don Sears, Kerry Leggett, Hal Pierce, Horace Travis, John Wozab, Lynn Chichester, Clark Weckbach, and Dr. Glen Aulse. They were appointed by Mayor Bill French.

Freedom Fighter-Writer To Talk on Vietnam War

A well-traveled author and correspondent will present some of his views on Vietnam at a meeting Tuesday night in St. Mary's Auditorium.

Hilaire du Berrier, a native-born citizen of the United States despite his foreign sounding name, will speak on "Declam: Will the Communists Win?"

His talk is sponsored here by the Loup Valley TRAIN Committee. (TRAIN stands for To Restore American Independence Now.) It will begin at 8 p.m. Du Berrier is making a month-long tour of this area. He knows personally most of the past and present rulers in Southeast Asia, and for more than 30 years has been reporting on affairs in the Orient. His wide and varied background, and his on - the - spot interviews in Vietnam, have led him to conclude "The Viet Cong could never defeat us on the battlefield. But they might conquer a nation — at the conference table."

Du Berrier has served as Newsweek's correspondent in Shanghai and was a Far East specialist for the American Office of Strategic Services. But his extensive knowledge is not based merely

Unicameral Candidates Exchange Points of View

Some solid verbal punches were landed Tuesday night by Central Nebraska's two candidates for state senator from the 41st Legislative District.

A crowd of approximately 70 persons was on hand to hear Rudolf Kokes of Ord, the incumbent, and Fred Frost of Wolbach, the challenger, exchange views at a meeting of the Valley County Farm Bureau. It was held in the Ord High School cafeteria and was open to the public.

Such controversial issues as the county mill levy for support of patients in state institutions, the support of technical schools, Daylight Savings Time, and the complicated state - aid - to - education measure were discussed.

Each of the candidates was permitted to give a prepared speech, then each was allotted time for rebuttal, and finally questions were fielded from the floor.

Claims Experience

Kokes spoke first and based his plea for reelection on the fact that he now has the experience, know-how, and confidence of fellow legislators. An accomplished legislator, a first-termer would not be able to do.

Frost said he was not running against anyone, but for an office. However, the nature of his presentation was inclined toward pinning Kokes with fiscal irresponsibility and a selfish, big-city interest in key issues.

The challenger first questioned Kokes' position on the state institutions levy, claiming that the legislature had made inadequate provisions to finance the care of patients when it passed the combination sales and income tax three years ago. He said the counties were required to take money from their road funds to satisfy levies made by the state for mental care.

Amount of the levy varies from county to county, since it is based on the number of residents each county has in the state institutions during the financing period. However, Frost said it would run about 3 1/2 mills in most instances. (The Valley County levy for 1968-69 is 3.22 mills.) Since constitutional limitations restrict the counties to a 5 mill levy for roads, the levy on only about 1 1/2 mills for use on road projects.

'Cost Half a Million'

"People out in the country on rural mail and bus routes are really suffering," Frost said. "Just think what the counties could do for roads with that revenue which is now going for care of mental patients. Yet my opponent says the only way we can get our roads oiled is by his reelection."

This method of financing has cost the 41st Legislative District approximately half a million dollars in road funds, Frost maintained.

He indicated that the legislature should have provided some means for collection outside the total of 14.28 mills to which the counties are restricted by the state constitution. Then a special levy could be made, he inferred, and other existing funds would not suffer.

Kokes said in his rebuttal that by keeping it in the road fund within the 14.28 - mill limitation, citizens are actually paying less taxes. Before the new tax structure was set up, the state was collecting the mill levy. This levy was thus coming over and above the 14.28 mills the county was collecting.

Besides, said Kokes, when the state takes over financing of the institutions the counties — especially the more populous ones of Douglas and Lancaster — will shove everything onto the state.

He defended his record on roads, stating that 27-30 miles of newly oiled road had been approved for his four-county district in the last session of the Unicameral. In addition, eight miles of newly graded roadway had been approved, making the cumulative mileage approximately one-eighth of the entire state total of 240 miles.

"I don't suppose I could repeat that accomplishment, even if I'm reelected," Kokes added.

Agree, But Disagree

The two candidates got into quite a hassle over support of technical schools, even though both were strongly in favor of them.

Frost quoted his opponent as saying in a talk before the Loup Valley United Chamber of Commerce that the legislature had doctored the schools $50,000 in support money for teaching academic subjects in competition with state colleges and universities.

Kokes denied having made the statement and said he would have to check Unicameral records to see if legislative action had cost the schools any appropriation money.

In urging greater support of schools, Frost quoted figures showing that 83 percent of the jobs being accepted by Nebraska youths are going to graduates of vocational technical schools while only 12 percent are going to graduates of academic institutions. Conversely, he pointed out, only $50 million is being spent annually on the tech schools compared to $130 million on academic units.

Kokes countered by asking who would be most benefited by this saving. Then he answered his own question with "Omaha, where most parochial students are — and where many parents don't want to send their children to public schools."

Favor 'Pay as You Go'

In response to a question from the audience, both candidates declared themselves opposed to bonded indebtedness as a means of financing highways or any other state project.

"We're one of only two states that doesn't have bonded indebtedness," Kokes explained. "Overall we're in better financial condition than any state in the union. Percentage-wise the cost of state government in Nebraska has not gone up nearly so fast as local government."

also levelled by Frost. He said Kokes had received 3,200 pieces of mail when the Daylight Savings Time issue was being debated, and it ran 13 to 1 against approval. Yet the 41st District senator voted for the measure, he said.

Acknowledging this, Kokes explained that the bill had actually been voted on twice. The first time he voted against, he said, but since the measure obtained the 25 votes necessary to make it effective one year following, it was voted on again. This time he voted for, and it did receive the 33 votes necessary to make it effective immediately.

"There was talk of putting it on the ballot," Kokes said, "and this kept that option alive. In addition, I just didn't want to sit around for a whole year waiting for it to become effective and explaining to people why we passed it."

Education Bill Assaulted

The substitution of one word in the aid - to - education law was attacked by Frost. He indicated that changing "resident" to "attendance" had reduced revenue by $30 per student.

In 25 years as a school board member, he said census figures were always submitted on a basis of residency rather than attendance. By substituting attendance, the number of students for which local school districts are paid is reduced. The overall effect, he said, is an average loss of $30 per student.

By reinstating residency as a basis for payment, school levies could be reduced, Frost said, giving relief to taxpayers. This would especially help citizens who are supporting both public and parochial schools, he added.

Kokes countered by asking who would be most benefited by this saving. Then he answered his own question with "Omaha, where most parochial students are — and where many parents don't want to send their children to public schools."

Industry Lost

Kokes tooted out the value of the schools, reciting an actual incident of which he had knowledge. He said an industrial firm relocating from an eastern state chose Minnesota over Nebraska because of the greater availability of technical schools for training employees.

A charge of voting against the expressed will of the people was also levelled by Frost. He said Kokes had received 3,200 pieces of mail when the Daylight Savings Time issue was being debated, and it ran 13 to 1 against approval. Yet the 41st District senator voted for the measure, he said.

"I don't favor bonding the state for roads or anything else," he continued. "We may be going slow on roads, but we are making progress."

"We can take a look at Iowa," he said, "and see that we're better off. They owe $12 million in interest costs alone, and that can buy a lot of highway."

At Full Capacity

"Besides, the highway department can absorb only about $50 million annually without further expansion. And bids are 10 to 12 percent cheaper on highways this year than last," the senator added. "Because of the federal government's slowdown in allocation of funds, contractors are getting hungry and bidding lower."

Frost said simply that highway users should bear the brunt of road costs.

With first crack at the speaker's stand, Kokes took up the bulk of the hour - and - a - half session. He spoke for almost an hour while Frost was up for just a few minutes, of his own accord.

Kokes defended the Unicameral as an "outstanding form of government," but proposed abolition of the budget committee. He also revealed that he expects to be named to the Committee of Committees, whose members appoint all the other committees, if he's reelected.

How He'll Make It

The state is divided into four districts in order to name the Committee of Committees. Senators from each of the districts elect three of their number to meet with those from the other areas on the powerful legislative committee.

"I polled all the senators from my district near the close of the last session," Kokes explained, "and they indicated I was in the way."

Frost challenged this statement, asking how his foe could even know that the fellow senators would be reelected. Kokes said a sufficient number of them were not up for reelection this year to make the survey invalid. Kokes said originally he had gone to Lincoln bent upon lowering the budget. However, he said he soon found that there's no backing the system.

The only alternative, he said, is to change the system.

Everybody's Business

He advocates having each department of government present its budget before the entire Senate, instead of just to the budget committee as it has in the past. Ten days before the budget is to

Sports-Minded Miss First Grid Winner

If early success is any indication, Cathy Hyde won't grow up to be one of those nagging wives who ask stupid football questions of their husbands at crucial moments.

A fifth - grader, 10-year-old Cathy showed up all the male experts last week in the Quiz's first weekly football contest of the 1968 season. She picked 18 of 25 games correctly to win the $5 prize given each week to the top selector.

Her father, school teacher Johnny Hyde, said she's a football fan but admitted diplomatically, "She helps me and I help her."

Three tie games lowered the percentages of the selectors this week. They were Hastings versus Lincoln High, Holdrege versus McCook, and Omaha Benson versus Omaha Creighton Prep. No one picked any of them correctly.

Other than the ties, Burwell versus Sargent was the most common stumbling block. None of the top four selectors picked that one right as Sargent surprised the Longhorns, 39-13.

Besides that game and the ties, Cathy also missed on Seward versus Central City, as the latter took a 17-0 decision; and Lexington versus Minden, won by the latter, 32-12. She prophesied Ord to be a 13-7 winner over Gothenburg in the tie-breaker, which was not necessary.

Loren Vancura was the runner-up, picking 17 games correctly. Tim Hoppes and Dean Vancura each had 16 good selections.

This week's schedule and entry blank are located on Page 6 of Section 2.

For Army Wife

New Citizenship Papers Climax Long Period of Preparation

Five years and two government books after her arrival in this country, Michiko Bilka is a United States citizen.

Michiko is the wife of Army Sgt. Marvin Bilka, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bilka, Ord. She and her children have lived in Ord for the past year while her husband served a tour in Vietnam.

"This is wonderful country," Mrs. Bilka said Sunday. "I like citizenship very much."

A native of Okinawa, she met her husband during a four-year assignment he spent there. They have four children — Deanna, 10; Betty, 6; Dwayne, 4; and Martin, 3.

Michiko took her citizenship test Apr. 18, and the formal naturalization ceremony took place Aug. 22 in Broken Bow. Processing of paperwork took up the four intervening months.

"I didn't miss anything," Michiko said proudly of her citizenship test. "I was afraid I would fail, so I study very hard."

"In fact, I study so much he got mad," she said laughingly, referring to her husband.

One of the books she studied was written in Japanese, with which she is most familiar. It covered various aspects of American government and history, as did the other one, which was written in English.

When she and her husband lived on military installations, she also studied with friends who had taken — or planned to take — the citizenship test.

"We speak English very much," she explained.

Michiko also speaks Okinawan, although Japanese is more common in her native land. "My brothers and sisters, they no speak Okinawan," she said, explaining that Japanese became the common language when Japan took control of the country in 1874. The island was taken by United States forces in 1945 and is currently one of the chief U.S. military posts in Asia. The U.S. retains control by treaty, pending the lessening of tensions in the Far East.

Having been away from her homeland more than five years now, Michiko says she thinks maybe some day she will get to visit it again.

"Most Army people go to Okinawa or Japan," she explained. "But Marvin not so lucky — he always go someplace else."

Marvin did get to visit Okinawa during the past year while he was on furlough from Vietnam. He said he attempted to visit his in-laws, "but couldn't find the house."

"The town had changed so much," he said. "It's so much more Americanized now."

Michiko said she has adjusted to life in the United States quite well, but one thing she hasn't done yet is learn to drive. She said, however, that she hoped to change that one day. Her husband was not so enthusiastic, however.

"I know what happens when a woman learns to drive," he said. "Then the husband starts walking, because she has to have the car all the time."

Driving in the United States is quite a contrast to Okinawa, where the maximum speed limit is 30 miles per hour, Michiko explained. Most of the automobiles there are those belonging to U.S. military personnel or brought over by them and sold to the Okinawans when their tour of duty is complete.

The Bilkas will leave next week for Fort Benning, Ga. When they arrive there, Michiko will have lived in all four corners of the United States, as well as the middle.

After leaving Okinawa, her husband was assigned to Fort Devens, Mass. Then he was transferred to Fort Lewis, Wash. An overseas assignment in Laos followed, during which Michiko and the children resided in Sargent where she still has many friends.

When her spouse returned to the U.S., they moved to Fort Huachuca, Ariz., for a year's stay before he was sent back overseas to Vietnam.

Of the many places she has lived in this country, so far Michiko likes the Pacific Northwest best.

"Oregon is beautiful place," she said. "It has lots of trees. But I like any place weather is good," she continued, explaining that Nebraska also rates high.

Only Arizona drew unfavorable remarks. "Tucson is so hot, and it's too dry," she explained. Although she has enjoyed her stay in Ord, Michiko is looking forward to living on an Army post again.

"The people there are younger, more our age," she said, "and they have many children. I like children."

Almost as much as she likes her new country,

Michiko and three other persons receiving citizenship papers at the same time she did each received United States flags given by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

In the rat race of modern times, it's not unusual to wish that we had lived during the "good old days." For those who want to go back to the "good old days," we present this list of rules for white-collar workers posted in the 1872 by a carriage manufacturing company in New York:

1. Office employees each day will fill lamps, clean chimneys and trim wicks.
2. Each clerk will bring a bucket of water and a scuttle of coal for the day's business.
3. Make your pens carefully. You may whittle nibs to your individual taste.
4. Men employees will be given an evening off each week for courting purposes, or two evenings if they go to church regularly.
5. After 13 hours of labor in the office, the employees should spend the remaining time reading the Bible or other good books.
6. Every employe should lay from each pay a goodly sum of his earnings for his declining years so that he will not become a burden on society.
7. The employe who has performed his labors faithfully and without fault for five years will be given an increase of 5 cents per day in his pay, providing profits from the business permit.

Someone left a note on my desk telling that non-smoking adults were usually self-controlled as adolescents, lacked aggressions and had modest views of themselves.

After reprinting, in my column, an item that appeared in the Women's Circle magazine, Mrs. Jim (Anna) Visek called to tell me that the children mentioned in the article were her brothers and sister and herself. Joe Dworak lives in Ord, Frank Dworak resides at Ravena, and Mary is deceased.

Mrs. Visek, whose home is on a farm near Ord, tells that George Dworak has been corresponding with Mr. Zelenka in Salt Lake City, Utah. No further word concerning Joseph Zelenka — last heard from in 1932 — has been received, however.

Officers Named
New officers were elected at a recent meeting of the Modest Homemakers' 4-H Club held at Karen Neemann's home. They are Judy Waller, president; Cassandra Peyton, vice president; Tammy Neemann, secretary; Karen Fisher, recreation; and Laurie Edwards, news reporter.

After the business meeting members weeded the club flower bed at the Community Building. Laurie Edwards, News Reporter

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Banks and boys of Omaha arrive in Ord last Tuesday and stayed until Friday. They were guests of the Robert Thompson family and other relatives and friends. On Thursday evening they were supper guests in the Rolland Hansen country home.

Fashions galore—in vibrant fall shades and up-to-date styling—were shown Monday evening at the JC-Ettes Style Show. When Needham's store appeared on the program, Dorrita Petska was seen in a comfy looking carcoat of loden green with knit blouse and slacks in a chocolate brown tone. Another attractive model was Ruth Wert wearing a slimming princess line dress in brown-like color called Veldt. Notice Ruth's full flip style wig.

Fashion Parade Given By JC-Ettes

Three hundred or more fashion-minded men, women and children gathered at the Ord High School auditorium, Monday evening, to view the style show sponsored by the Ord JC-Ettes. The near two hour program was held as a benefit project for the Special Service School of Ord.

A variety of striking fall ensembles described by Mrs. Carol Leggett, commentator, were shown by Lee's, Misko's, McDonald's, Needham's, Montgomery Ward, Lynn's Shoe Store and Helen's of Ord and Vera's Style Shop of North Loup. Mrs. Ruth Wert also featured several fashion ensembles and Wilma's Beauty Salon and the Blue Haven Salon were credited with the stunning hair styles and hairpieces worn by many of the Ord JC-Ettes models. Other capable models included the JC-Ettes families and nine women from North Loup.

Mrs. Jewel Buoy expressed her thanks to the JC-Ettes and told of the needs of the Special Service School. Beautiful musical interludes were presented by Karl McKinnon on the organ provided by Yanda's Music of Ord. Mrs. Delores Conner drew the names of several lucky door prize winners. Chairman of the obviously successful event was Mrs. Barbara Anderson.

Ord Students Study At Various Colleges

A further list has been compiled of young men and women from the Ord area who are now attending the University of Nebraska and neighboring colleges.

Doug Ackles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ackles of Ord, is a freshman at the university this fall.

Jim Lukesh, a freshman, will major in history and English. His extra-curricular activities include baseball and R.O.T.C. Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lukesh of Ord. He will reside at Abel Hall.

Pat Novotny, daughter of the Eugene Novotny of Comstock, is a freshman majoring in physical education in the Teachers College. She will reside at Sellick Quadrangle.

Mary Gay Cook is a freshman on city campus and will reside at Sellick Quadrangle. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cook of North Loup.

Among the 1968 Ord High School grads attending Kearney State College this fall are Lonna Antheim, daughter of the Don Antheim of Ord. Lonna will reside in East Centennial Towers.

Betty Shotkoski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Shotkoski of Ord, is majoring in business administration. She is at home in Conrad Hall.

Marlene Shotkoski is also a resident of Conrad Hall. She is the daughter of Mrs. Stella Shotkoski of Ord.

Larry Rathbun, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Cash Rathbun, left Sept. 6 for Kearney. He is a freshman majoring in music.

Janet Lenstrom left Aug. 21 for Omaha. She is a freshman majoring in elementary education at Grace Bible Institute. Janet's parents are the Gayle Lenstroms of Comstock.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doane of Wood River were guests in the Leonard Ludington home Sunday. Additional dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Flock.

Mrs. Elliott to Head Arcadia Gardeners

Mrs. Harold Elliott was elected president of the Arcadia Garden Club at a recent meeting in the home of Mrs. John Kaminski.

Named vice-president was Mrs. Carol Lutz, and the new secretary is Mrs. Elmer Wibbels. Club members also heard a report that a new overhead light has been installed in the Garden Club park, and that new water hose has been obtained to replace a 50-foot length taken previously. The hose is used to water shrubs and flowers.

"The club ladies have worked very hard to equip and maintain the park for the pleasure and convenience of the public," said Mrs. Charlie Weddel, a member. "They feel badly that anyone would take the hose from the park, and will be happy if it is returned with no questions asked."

The club will meet again this month at the home of Mrs. Claude Zeitz.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson, Nancy and Jane were Sunday guests of the Charlie Thompsons at the Sargent Cafe. The dinner was in honor of Mrs. Charlie Thompson's birthday.

A family reunion at the Ord Park Sunday honored Mrs. Mary Bland of Columbus, Ohio. Guests from Ord, Boelus, Greeley, Scotia, Arcadia, North Loup and Grand Island were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Larsen and family visited Mrs. Freida Ash at Broken Bow Sunday.

Ptaciniks Note Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. William Ptacinik observed their 50th wedding anniversary with a series of events recently.

As a special celebration to the memorable Sept. 18 event, Mr. and Mrs. Ptacinik were supper hosts at the Veterans Club in Ord, Saturday. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Anton Novotny and Mr. and Mrs. George Vavra.

Sunday, the honorees were dinner and supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Ptacinik of Grand Island at the Holiday Inn and Monday they were dinner and supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Lipinski of Kearney at the Kearney Country Club.

Flower Lovers Meet

Adolph and Helen Sevensen and two of their employees — Dorothy Weverka and Betty Jo Axthelm — drove to Omaha early Sunday morning to attend the second day of the annual meeting of the Nebraska Florist's Society of which The Florette of Ord is a member. The meeting was held at the Holiday Inn where more than 20 wholesalers displayed their products.

The Florette group enjoyed the panel discussion "Your Business in Today's Times" given Sunday morning and the noon luncheon sponsored by the Society of American Florists; also the Design School led by five outstanding designers from various sections of the United States with Joe Leterman as commentator sponsored by the FTD of which The Florette is also a member.

Card of Thanks
My dear friends at Ord — I wish it were possible for me to personally thank each of you for remembering me, but since that is impossible at this time, it is necessary for me to use this means. Your thoughts of me, I am sure, have had their place in my steady recovery.
Laura Woziak, Comstock
St. Francis Hospital
Grand Island

Card of Thanks
We wish to say Thank You to all who were so kind to Jimmy and family during his seven weeks stay in Valley Co. Hospital. A special thank you to the nurses and doctors for the wonderful care.
For the visits, cards, flowers, prayers and gifts. And to the ministers who were so faithful with their visits.
We are deeply grateful to you all.
Jimmy Huffman and family

Card of Thanks
We wish to extend our thanks to everyone who was so kind and helpful at the time of the illness and death of our husband and father.
We are truly grateful to those who extended expressions of sympathy with cards and letters. Our most sincere thanks to Rev. Campbell for his visits, prayers and words of comfort during this sad time.
Your kindness will never be forgotten.
Mrs. Wayne Turner and family

Card of Thanks
At a time such as this, all words fail us, but we wish to extend our sincere thanks to the many friends and relatives for the many kind acts and deeds shown at the time of the loss of our "Tate."
A special thanks to each and everyone who aided at the time he was stricken, to all who helped to get him to the hospital and to those at the hospital who did what they could to ease his suffering. Thanks to all who tried to contact his family at the time.
We appreciated all the calls, cards, flowers and food and we are grateful for all the offers of assistance and the assistance at the home and to the Happy Circle Club and Rebekah Lodge for the lunch before we left for Beaver Crossing.

A special thanks to Pastor Schuettler for his message to the organist and soloist for the songs and to his beloved organizations. The Ord V.F.W., the Burwell V.F.W., the Burwell Legion and the Beaver Crossing Legion for all they did.
Last but far from least, to Ross Abernathy for taking our Mother by ambulance, for without it, we could not have had her with us for our brother's last service.
Although his years were cut short, we are thankful that he was privileged to spend them amid such wonderful people as all of you are.
The family of Raymond Richardson

Card of Thanks
Due to Dr. Otis Miller, Rev. Campbell, the excellent care of the Valley County Hospital nursing staff, the prayers, thoughts and best wishes of our relatives and friends and some necessary surgery we feel that Barry has made a fast recovery and is becoming more well every day. Thank you. All of this is appreciated more than we can express.
Mr. and Mrs. Don Geweke
Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Geweke
Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Sintek

Card of Thanks
A special thanks to Dr. Markley and the Valley Co. Hospital staff for their excellent care and kindness, also to Rev. Campbell and all my relatives and friends for remembering me with cards, flowers, gifts and visits in the hospital and at home.
Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered.
Ed Kasper

Card of Thanks
A special thanks to Dr. Markley and the Valley County Hospital staff for their excellent care. Also to Reverend Clark for calling, thanks to all my friends and relatives who called on me in the hospital, the cards, flowers and gifts received. Your kindness will always be remembered.

Leaders of this fall's student body at St. Mary's School posed recently for a photograph after their election to office. Left to right are Jenny Belgrave, treasurer; Melissa Koblischek, secretary; Sharon Koblischek, activities co-chairman; Cheryl Chalupa, president; Tom Kusek, vice president; and Nancy Thompson, activities co-chairman. The Civics Club officers, who also double as the school's Student Council, are all members of the seventh or eighth grades.

Town and Country

President Re-elected

Mrs. Wayne Winterfeld entertained members of the Cotier Extension Club at her home, Tuesday evening. Officers for the new year were elected with Mrs. Ray Shokoski named president for a second term. Other officers are Mrs. Charles Ackles, vice president; Mrs. Frank Motil, secretary; treasurer and Mrs. Rolland Norman, news reporter. Mrs. Syl Boro who told all about potatoes in a lesson titled "Using Nebraska Potatoes" was the lucky door prize winner. Lessons for the coming year were a topic of discussion. Mrs. Norman will be the Oct. 15 hostess.

Welcome Reception

The congregation of the Ord United Methodist Church greeted Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Campbell and family and former members of the E. U. B. Church at a reception following the Sunday worship service two weeks ago. Those former members of the E. U. B. Church uniting with the United Methodist Church included Mrs. Viras Timmerman, Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Harkness, Mrs. Charles Inness, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dahlin, Inez Swain and Mr. and Mrs. Irving King. Mrs. Homer Winterbottom of Cheyenne, Wyo., was not present. Her change came by letter of transfer.

Married at Emerson

The marriage of Mary Kratyk and John Rutar, both of Thurston, took place Saturday at the Catholic Church in Emerson. The groom is a grandson of the late John Rutar of Ord.

Leaves for Navy

Jim Ringlein left from Lincoln Monday to report for Navy duty at San Diego, Calif., Naval Training Base. Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Ringlein of Ord and had enlisted in the Navy following his graduation from the Milford Vocational School last June where he received a degree in Electronics.

Join Army Friends

Mr. and Mrs. John Wolf accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Frank Faletta to Beatrice a weekend ago for the annual reunion of the 355 Infantry of the 89th Division. The Wolfs attended activities of A Company while the Falettas were with those of K Company. On Sunday a memorial service honoring 57 regiment members who died during the past year preceded the noon banquet attended by 351 members and guests of the 89th Division.

New Officers Named

Mrs. George Hruza was elected president of the Plain Valley Extension Club Sept. 12. The afternoon meeting was held at the home of Mrs. John Kokes Jr. with Mrs. Floyd Konkoleski as co-hostess. Other new officers are Mrs. Kenneth Collins, vice-president; Mrs. Floyd Konkoleski, secretary; Mrs. Lyle Sevensker, treasurer; Mrs. Frank Napstiek, news reporter; and Mrs. Bill Novosad Jr., song leader. "We Have Grown By Helping Others Grow"

Ord to Aim for Second Win Against Holdrege Outfit

Big Plays Halt Gothenburg, 26-14 Defense Saves Ord Win in Opener

It was one down and nine to go this week for the Ord Chants after a bizarre 26-14 victory over Gothenburg last week.

Unable to mount a single sustained drive all night, the Chants nevertheless struck for four touchdowns to snatch victory away from a fighting Swede eleven.

The home team came out throwing against the Chants and completed 21 of 34 attempts. But when the lights were finally turned out, it was rd which had the two big completions of the night.

Dick Janda threw only five times for the Chants, but his two completions were made in spectacular fashion. Giant end Ron Bredthauer, racing with deceptive speed, got behind the Swede defenders twice in the first half to score on 79 and 62-yard plays.

Steve Turek jarred over from the two-yard line for Ord's third touchdown, and Janda got the last one on a one-yard sneak as the final gun went off.

Even though Ord never trailed, the victory was not an easy one. In fact, Gothenburg still had bright prospects for a win as late as two minutes to go.

At that point the Swedes had finally tallied, after threatening the entire second half, to make the score 20-14. They were moving again and had made it to the Ord 20-yard line when disaster struck.

Tom Kenton, who had lofted the 21 Swede completions, threw again in the direction of lanky Vernon Banks. But Turek went up high with Banks and knocked the ball down, directly into the arms of Ord's Mike Winterfeld at the 15.

Two plays later Turek burst through the right side of the line and streamed 70 yards before being hauled down at the Gothenburg 10. The Chants then proceeded to use up the remaining time with line smashes, enabling Janda to sneak over on the last play.

Except for the big plays, Ord never could get its offense to working. The Chants wound up with 132 yards on the ground and 141 in the air. They made only eight first downs, and that total included an automatic one given them for each of their touchdowns.

Gothenburg was more consistent on offense, but couldn't handle the tough Ord defense when the going was rough. The Swedes tallied 14 first downs, with 100 yards on the ground and 192 via the airways.

Ord opened up on the second play of the game as Bredthauer slipped behind the Swede defenders. Janda's pass was on target, and there was no catching the 210 pound flyer as his long stride easily kept him in front of the Gothenburg chasers. That was the 79-yarder.

The home team came back quickly to tie it up, driving 63 yards with Kenton, alternating throws to Banks and Bingham Dean with runs by Mike Larson.

After scoreless scrimmaging through the rest of the first quarter, Ord repeated its shocker on the second play of the second quarter. It was almost identical to the first as Janda threw on second down after a running play lost ground on first down.

Again Bredthauer showed his heels to the Gothenburg secondary, this time on a 62-yard play.

The game had the makings of a possible rout when Turek intercepted Kenton's pass on the next series at the Gothenburg 25 and returned it to the two, then punched over for another touchdown.

But the home team dug in and slowed down Ord's momentum, then in the second half completely controlled the ball.

The Chants got the ball only twice in the third quarter, once at their own 7-yard line and once at the 3. Their defense was just as tough as it had to be, though, and kept the Swedes at bay.

Finally, midway through the last quarter, Kenton hit Dean with a nine-yard throw near the Ord goal line, and the big end dragged a Chant defender across with him.

Statistics bore out the Gothenburg dominance of second half play as the Swedes ran 82 plays from scrimmage to Ord's 44.

Turek was easily the outstanding Ord runner as he accumulated 163 yards on 13 carries. Dennis Cetak was far behind with 17 yards on six totes.

With Gothenburg's frequent reliance on the pass, Ord backs dominated tackling statistics. Dan Holtz, who started at one safety spot, only after Bill Klanczyk was lost a week earlier with a broken hand, led with 15 stops. Bill Miller, a linebacker, was just one behind.

Bredthauer, Mark Peterson, and Steve Wells led the linemen with eight tackles apiece.

Dusters Have Good Weight, Experience; Chants Will Try to Make Speed Pay Off

Ragged but successful last week in what Coach Dave VanNordheim called "the craziest game I ever saw," Ord's Chantifiers will go after victory number two tomorrow night in Holdrege. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

In Holdrege the Chants will be meeting one of the few teams to which they'll have to give away weight this fall. The Dusters will average 194 pounds across their offensive line, which will be headed by a pair of college-size tackles. John Anderson weighs in at 220, while Larry Linden rings the bell at 215.

A big school team itself, Ord will nevertheless be daunted by the mammoth Holdrege eleven. The Chants will weigh 168 across the front line.

Ord opened last week with a 26-14 victory over Gothenburg, getting the big play just often enough to come home a winner. Holdrege tied McCook, 7-7.

In addition to being big, the Dusters are also experienced. They start to seem on offense and in on defense.

"I think we'll have a speed advantage on them, though," Coach VanNordheim said Monday, "and that may be our saving grace."

Only one Ord player will miss the game because of injuries. Starting center guard Floyd March, a 190-pound letterman, received a knee injury at Gothenburg and will be out for two weeks.

His place in the lineup will be taken by Bruce Worm, 167-pound junior.

"Worm looked real good last week," VanNordheim said. "I don't think he'll hurt us."

Outstanding end Bingham Dean does some romping and stomping after catching one of the many passes he snared Friday night against Ord. Dan Holtz tries to avoid stepping on a teammate as he gives chase.

St. Paul Harriers Beat Ord, Loup City

St. Paul runners took four of the first eight places to defeat Ord and Loup City in the season's first cross-country meet here Monday.

Scores were St. Paul 21, Ord 26, and Loup City 33.

Despite the defeat, Ord had the top individual as Roger Cahill covered the two miles in 10 minutes, 41 seconds. He is one of two Ord lettermen. His time approached his 1967 season best of 10:39.

Allan Cahill is the other Ord letterman and finished fifth with a time of 12 minutes even. Other local contestants were Melvin Sich, ninth, 12:18; Duane Kovarik, 11th, 12:24; Don Sedlacek, 12th, 12:28; Greg Martin, 13th, 12:31; Dan Chichester, 16th, 12:53; Chuck Hansen, 21st, 14:30; and Randy Frycek, 22nd, 14:31.

Complete placings for score (only first four men count):
 (1) R. Cahill, Ord; (2) B. Merchant, St. Paul; (3) S. Burns, Loup City; (4) P. Mosdorf, St. Paul; (5) A. Cahill, Ord; (6) J. Edwards, Loup City; (7) P. Morrison, St. Paul; (8) S. Unscored-On Teams Will Vie Tomorrow At Arcadia Gridiron

Fans who like their football on the rock 'em-sock 'em side can make plans to be in Arcadia Friday night. The Huskies will do battle at 7:30 p.m. with the Clarks Bombers, and if first-game form holds up neither side will get bombed.

Arcadia won its opener last week, 21-0, over Taylor, while Clarks was capturing its first start, 22-0, over Silver Creek.

Arcadia Coach Eldon Kieborz said he was "pretty well satisfied" with his team's effort against Taylor. But he is holding out hope that the missing man in that contest, quarterback Denny Ohme, will be ready for duty against Clarks. Ohme twisted an ankle in a practice scrimmage two weeks ago and didn't suit up for the Taylor game.

His spot was ably filled by halfback Danny Hariburt and scored a touchdown and completed almost three-fourths of his passes. However, the return of Ohme would permit Hariburt to go back to his halfback position, and thus provide the opposition with double trouble.

Fullback Tim Hariburt and halfback Johnny Ericson scored the other Arcadia touchdowns against Taylor.

Like any good defensive team, Arcadia took advantage of Taylor miscues to score two of its touchdowns. The first came in the opening quarter after Pat Murray recovered a fumble deep in enemy territory. The second came after a short punt set Arcadia up in good field position, well on the Taylor side of the mid-field mark.

The third score climaxed a drive of about 40 yards.

Clarks showed good balance in its easy victory over Silver Creek, as four men got in on the scoring.

Taylor — 0 9 0 0 — 0

Sargent Contestant Takes Top Prize In Horseshoe Meel

Joe Rysavy of Sargent outlasted V. W. Collins of Ord to win the horseshoe pitching contest held in conjunction with Popcorn Days at North Loup. Rysavy won the last match in a best of three series from Collins, 50-44. He had lost the middle game, 50-33, after winning the opener, 50-43. First place was worth $25 and second $12. Roland Jensen of Mason City, the top qualifier and well known throughout the state in horseshoe circles, was upset by Collins in the semifinals, 50-49. Jensen had 49 ringers in 100 throws as the top qualifier. Rysavy was second with 46. The field was divided into "A" and "B" classes on the basis of qualifying results. Ken Collins of Ord won the "B" division, defeating George Hielt of Scotia in the finals. Finishing behind Rysavy, Collins and Jensen in Class "A" were Harlan Jensen, fourth; Melvin Williams, fifth; Harry Foth, sixth; Frank Farmer, seventh; and Charles Zanger, eighth. In Class "B" the top men in addition to Collins and Hielt were Jerry Rainforth, third; Ralph Hoenber, fourth; Nels Jorgensen, fifth; Bonnie Sintek, sixth; Eldon Foth, seventh; and Leonard Tolén, eighth.

20,000 Sacks of Free Popcorn Help Make North Loup Fete Success

For the 67th year, Popcorn Days at North Loup have been acclaimed a rousing success. Visitors streamed into the small village by the hundreds for the three-day celebration which ended last Wednesday. When it did, 20,000 bags of free popcorn had been consumed and North Loup residents were ready to relax again for another year.

Darlene King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor King, was crowned queen of the celebration in one of the highlights. A 1968 graduate of North Loup-Scottia High School, Miss King will attend business college in Grand Island this fall.

The tall, graceful blonde was crowned queen on a stage decorated with a huge bag of popped corn. Other candidates were Martha Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mills Hill, and a student at the University of Nebraska; Phyllis Tolan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Tolan who is employed in Grand Island; Peggy Cadek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laine Cadek, employed in North Loup; Geri Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burdette Thompson, a student at Norfolk Junior College; and Vickie Vogeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Vogeler, also a student at Norfolk.

Cindy Rasmussen and Patrick Edwards were the new queen's attendants. Popcorn stand officials reported 1,250 pounds of corn were popped. Thirty pounds of butter and 36 gallons of coconut oil were used in the preparation. The North Loup American Legion Auxiliary captured top honors in the Parade of Floats with its entry entitled "Help Us Keep America Free." The city's Lions Club had the runnerup float with "Summer Fun."

Other winners were:
Clubs
1st—Ku Klux, "Maybasket"; 2nd—The between Progressive Club, "April Showers Bring May Flowers"; and Neighboring Helpers, "Tulip Time."
Schools
1st—North Loup-Scottia Grade School, "Jack Frost"; 2nd—Olan, "Autumn Frost."
Churches
1st—Seventh Day Baptist, "Harvest Season"; 2nd—Mir Valley United Methodist, "The Sower."
4-H, FFA, FHA
1st—North Loup - Scottia FFA, "Winter on the Farm, 1968"; 2nd—Modest Homemakers 4-H Club, "Winter Fun."
Businesses
1st—Trotter's Grain, Feed & Fertilizer of Arcadia, "Spring in Holland"; 2nd—Bumgarner's Honey of Arcadia, "Winter Wonderland."

The parade was led by the North Loup - Scottia band, and the Sargent and Ord bands also participated. An elaborate "Election Day" float won the children's parade. Taking part were Beth and Nora Dutcher, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Dutcher; Shawn and Malinda Severance, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Severance; and Twila, Gale and Loretta Cargill, children of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Cargill.

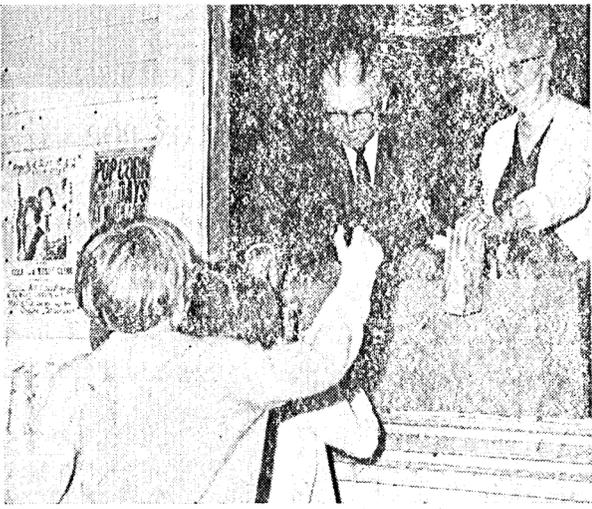

In the stroller division first place went to Darla Vogeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Vogeler, and second place to Leslie Hudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bus Hudson. Both children represented "Happy Birthday" with their heads emerging from large birthday cakes.

First place in the buggy and small wagon division went to Jill Hamer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hamer, and Mitch Van Slyke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Van Slyke. Their entry was "Wedding Day." Second was "Cannibal's Feast," with Gary and Carmen Schamp, children of Mr. and Mrs. Benny Schamp. In third place were Kathy and Steve Mallory, children of Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Mallory, with "Easter Parade."

In the pets division, Karen Foxworthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Foxworthy, won first with "Winter Time." Second place went to Angelina Maring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Maring.
Miscellaneous division winners were Kevin, Carrie and Barbara Sheldon, children of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sheldon, with "Merry Christmas" first; Darryl Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Cox, with "Fourth of July" second; and Danny Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson, third.

Hulvey; (3rd team) Virginia Barr; (1) Jim Timmons; (2) Albert Christensen; (3) Larry Cox.

First prize winner in the children's parade was this "Election Day" float. Following behind the float, encouraging voters to go either Democratic or Republican, were Nora Dutcher and Gail Cargill. Mrs. Ron Cargill accompanied them. On the float itself were Beth Dutcher, left, and Loretta Cargill, standing, and seated were Malinda Severance, Shawn Severance, and Twila Cargill. Shawn and Twila were each 8 months old, while the other children ranged from 1 1/2 to almost 4.

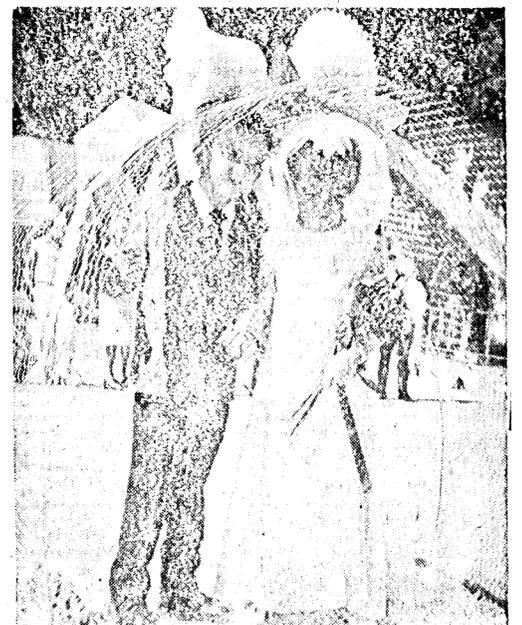

Scenes like this were almost constant throughout the Popcorn Days celebration. Vernon Thomas and Mrs. Sheldon Van Horn were the volunteer workers helping to satisfy the salty appetites of these two happy popcorn munchers.

Tops in the stroller division was Darla Vogeler, peeking her head out of a huge birthday cake pushed by her mommy, Mrs. Billy Vogeler.

Coach Virgil Ferguson outlines halftime adjustments to one of the teams competing in the girls football contest. Ferguson's lecture was to no avail as the squad lost a 6-0 contest when Susan Thompson scored for the Whites late in the fourth quarter.

Mitch Van Slyke and Jill Hamer made a handsome, if somewhat young, wedding couple on the first-place float in the buggy and small wagon division.

Gary Schamp was an unwilling cannibal's victim for his sister Carmen, but it paid off with a second-place prize in the buggy and small wagon division.

THE Ord Quiz

How Much Longer?

"Sleep Well. The 2nd Infantry Division Is Awake." So reads a sign posted along a narrow, winding road leading north from Seoul toward Munsan-ni, one of the United States' frontier outposts in South Korea.

For years this sign and others like it, posted around the world wherever U.S. forces have been stationed, have lent comfort and security to Americans who may have been traveling in the area and to foreign nationals for whom life in the shadow of Communist guns is a daily routine.

However, one now wonders just how long this may continue to be the case, in view of statistics released last week by the Institute for Strategic Studies. The institute is a private British research group which has earned a prestigious reputation in the past for accuracy.

The study reveals that the 3-to-1 lead in long-range missiles held by the United States over the Soviet Union a year ago will have been cut to 1 1/2-to-1 by the end of this year. Furthermore, at the present rate of planned development, the two countries will be completely even a few months into 1969.

From around 450 land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles, the Soviets have increased to approximately 800 during the past year. If presently planned deployments are carried through, the figure will be up to 1,000 by the end of this year. That compares with a ceiling of 1,064 which the United States has maintained for quite some time now. (Of those, 1,000 are Minuteman missiles. In two of three test launchings from operational silos, the Minutemen never got out of their holes.)

In submarine missiles the U.S. lead is larger, but it is also dwindling there.

The Soviet Union is well ahead in the production and stockpiling of nuclear weapons—those they have available but not deployed at operational launching sites.

One of the most dangerous side effects of the Vietnamese War has been the distraction it has created not only for the U.S. public, but for our defense planners as well.

While the U.S. has concentrated its talents and energies in a conventional war which at best is little more than a stalemate, the Soviet Union has been able to focus her principal resources and energies into a continually advancing nuclear program. Her defense budget is comparable to that of this country, if Vietnamese War expenditures are excluded.

This is one of the reasons our President was quite naive in expecting the Soviet Union to help achieve peace in Vietnam. Every moment the U.S. is engaged there, Russia moves closer to us in overall strength. In short, the Soviets have everything to gain and nothing to lose by keeping the U.S. tied up there.

The study also evaluates conventional forces, and it shows that there too the Russians have made great progress in recent months. They have developed a highly effective mobile striking force, which was one reason they were able to move so swiftly and effectively into Czechoslovakia, and they have accumulated sizeable stockpiles of biological and chemical warfare materials.

One of the unfortunately difficult problems associated with weapons development is that it takes a great deal of lead time. Today in 1968 we should be working on the weapons that we will be using in 1978.

Our new President will face a major task in getting our defense program moving again. Let's hope the Soviets give him time.

Both Male and Female?

The day when half the fun of riding an airplane was watching the stewardesses is fast disappearing.

Already required by law not to discriminate against older women who were once considered past their stewardessing prime, the airlines now must live with another majestic decree of government: sex cannot be used as a basis for hiring.

In a strict new enunciation of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission has declared that after Nov. 30 newspapers may not even use separate job listings for men and women. They may continue to use the headings until that time "as a convenience for readers," provided no discrimination is practiced.

Thus, ads for stewardesses must be dumped into the same conglomerate pot that contains requests for ditch diggers, lingerie sales persons, cosmetic demonstrators, and truck drivers. In the eyes of government they're all the same. And applicants to fill those positions must be considered without any regard whatsoever to sex.

The intent of the law when it was passed by Congress was of course to eliminate discrimination in hiring, primarily on the basis of race. By inserting the word "sex," however, the legislators gave the bureaucrats open season on irrational and extreme interpretations.

As the U.S. Press Assn. says in its current publication, the joke has now been carried too far.

There may be no difference between men and women in Washington," says the publication, "but there sure is out here in our part of the country. And we don't want anybody declaring the difference illegal, either."

Since interpreters of the law insist on living in a vacuum, Congress must go back and rewrite it. And the sooner the better.

Something Different

They Can Be Proud!

If there is a little city in the whole United States that stages a more pleasant, homey celebration than North Loup I'd like to know about it. This friendly three-day get-together is just the nicest occasion imaginable, with streets closed to traffic and almost all the fun homegrown. The only exception I can recall is the imported carnival that usually builds a merry-go-round and a couple of other wilder rides for the youngsters.

For many, many years Popcorn Days have been a time of reunion. From all over the United States the former residents of this pretty valley town plan their vacations so as to get "home" during this holiday and visit with one another. There are visitors in almost every home in the region.

So it was enjoyable to watch young and old greet one another on the street, so hearty, so happy at meeting again. Five old fellows, large size, confabbed gaily. The biggest one I'd call Curly, for the toes of his boots curled up, his 10-gallon Stetson curled several places, and even his big stomach curled up.

Here were five little girls tugging a small brother along, chattering happily, skipping as they went. Five little girls of a bit bigger size lined up for a picture, pretty in their white blouses and dark skirts, holding their batons proudly, self-consciously.

Two rascally boys on bikes, almost tipping over older folk, threw that good popcorn wastefully at one another. Popcorn was everywhere, everyone had a bag that he munched on eagerly. It looked yellow and puffy and crisp, fresh, hot from the overburdened cooks who popped it but hardly fast enough to keep up with the demands of the hungry munchers. Very few people wasted any.

The seven small grandchildren of Cecil Severance made an attractive and unusual float of wee voters, some at a booth labelled Democrat, others at the companion booth labelled Republican.

The black and white uniformed band stepped sharply, nothing carefree about their neat stride nor their music, which they played beautifully with a good strong cadence. The twirlers had reason to snap proudly ahead of this band. Everyone was happy.

I saw only one crying child, and his mother was jerking him along. I didn't blame him for crying.

Various products were shown in street booths. Salesmen stood by, ready to declaim the virtues, if the passerby would pause even ten seconds.

So many nicely dressed people, both old and young; even children all wore fresh, clean outfits.

Good, homemade food was available at the Seventh Day Baptist big pavilion. What will you have, chili, hot dogs, what kind of soup or pie? So many faithful workers, one of whom slept there at night to protect the food, for the booth had no walls to shut down.

At the other end of Main street the Methodist church ladies had prepared a full quota of goodies and were well patronized. And then there was the big Fussville alumni picnic. This is the first year the picnic has been held during Popcorn Days, but it seemed to work out very well and likely the reunion of this lively bunch will be scheduled at this time hereafter.

The parades, the entertainments, the floats, the food, the popcorn plus all the happy visiting; no wonder the North Loup celebration is such a great success.

State Engineer's Nov. 1 Resignation Prompted by Absence of Challenge

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — The man who has steered Nebraska's highway program the past nine years will leave state government Nov. 1.

John Hossack, 57, who has been a State Roads Department employee since he took a job as a construction gang roddman 35 years ago, offered his resignation as state engineer to Gov. Norbert Tiemann because much of the old challenge is gone.

During his tenure as chief of the highway program, Hossack faced a series of challenges.

All but 24 miles of the interstate highway, which now nearly spans the state, was built under his direction. When he took over in 1959 there were 2,992 miles of gravel in the state highway system. That total has been reduced to about 970 miles.

Hossack also oversaw construction of the $2 billion Highway Department headquarters building south of Lincoln near the state penitentiary.

The state engineer was not the only member of the governor's official family involved in a series of recent personnel changes.

Tiemann promoted Larry Johns, 38, from director of the Motor Vehicles Department to administrative assistant in the governor's office. This filled a vacancy left at the first of the month by the resignation of Dr. Clayton Yeutter.

Replacing Johns in the Motor Vehicles post was Emmett Dennis, 35, who was moved from his slot as director of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Dennis is believed to be the first Negro ever to serve as a department head in Nebraska and the first in the nation to head a state motor vehicles agency.

The Dennis and Johns selections were made by the governor. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission chose Reid Devoe of Lincoln to succeed Dennis.

Douglas Bereuter, director of the Division of State and Urban Affairs in the Economic Development Department, was also given a new assignment.

He was moved to the governor's office to lay the groundwork for a proposed Office of State Planning.

In announcing that change, Tiemann said several agencies—especially the Highway Department, Health Department and Soil and Water Conservation Commission—have been developing state plans.

"This type of constructive planning within departments," he said, "must and will continue. But that planning needs to be coordinated in order to eliminate possible duplication and to develop an overall comprehensive state planning program by which priorities for allocation of resources can be established."

Bereuter defined comprehensive state planning as a policy development process. He said the objective is "to enunciate the unstated goals of state government and assist the governor, the legislature, and administrative personnel to focus on those areas where goals and systems of priorities are completely lacking or in conflict."

State Aid for Schools
All but 68 of the eligible school districts in Nebraska submitted applications to the State Education Department for their share of the initial apportionment of state aid.

The department said there were 1,743 districts eligible to apply and 1,677 filed their forms. Education Commissioner Floyd Miller said applications were received from each of the districts in Classes II, III and VI. Lincoln (Class IV) and Omaha (Class V) have until Nov. 1 to apply.

In Class I, 95.5 percent—or 1,339 of the 1,399 operating districts—applied for the state grants.

Miller said of the 1,677 applications, about 330 districts would exceed the 8 percent limitation clause of the statute and will have a reduction ranging from a few dollars to "a sizable amount."

Miller said the State Board of Education would decide at its October meeting whether any waivers should be granted under the so-called hardship clause.

Huge Savings Predicted
The Little Hoover Commission has predicted annual savings of $8.6 million if the state adopts its recommendations for operation of the Department of Administrative Services.

The commission, which was asked by Gov. Norbert Tiemann to find ways to streamline state government, said DAS has already made "significant contributions."

But, the report said, "with proper organization and direction, the department should become the governor's most valuable assistant, the information arm of the legislature, and an indispensable servant of all state departments."

Here's how the $8.6 million could be saved:

• A reduction of only one percent by more efficient operations and adequate controls would yield a $2 million annual savings in the budgets of respective agencies, based on an estimated $200 million in state expenditures subject to financial controls.

• Improvements in routine work flow and performances resulting from a clerical work improvement program could bring savings of $2 million annually without impairing the quality of work performed.

• Institution of a program for improving purchasing and buying techniques could save up to $2.5 million a year.

• Another $2.1 million could be saved with establishment of a state-wide computer network, simplification of procedures for paying state bills, centralization of licensing activities and adoption of electronic data processing for issuance and renewal of all permits and fees, consolidation of duplicating administrative functions, reorganization of state purchasing procedures and modernization of laws governing them, and study of institutional food services and costs.

VOX POP

Dear Editor:

It is time that something constructive is said in your newspaper about the World Council of Churches. In a letter in the Quiz published on Sept. 11 the WCC was labeled by one writer as an organization with "anti-Christ" emphasis.

How can an organization which helps channel 24,564 pounds of baby food into one area of India as well as $63,091 pounds of food in a regular feeding program to that same country be said to have an anti-Christ emphasis? (Figures are taken from Service News, April-May issue, 1968.)

In December of 1967 the WCC channeled over $12,000 to help with reconstruction in India after an earthquake damaged 19 villages. Is this, too, anti-Christ emphasis?

How is this, this same organization is trying to help the starving masses in Biafra. Regardless of our political ideas, the suffering can be helped through the WCC. Was it not Christ himself who said, "Truly, I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brethren, you did it to me?"

If we were to look closely at every organization (churches included), even at the local level, we could and would find faults. But why must we dwell on the negative aspects when our efforts should be not to tear down but to build?

Linda Bunnell
Ord, Neb. 68862

Dear Editor:

The local city administration has once again come under attack concerning local issues. There seems to be a misunderstanding as to the role of persons, groups, organizations, giving testimony before the council on issues.

The so-called majority has felt in several issues this year that they have been abused, because the council did not vote in their favor. First, the majority did win because the only ones that have a vote are the council members, and in the bowling alley-beer license issue the vote was six for and none against.

When a body of people appear before any governmental body, whether it be the City Council, state legislature, or the Congress of the United States, they are in the role of LOBBYISTS either for or against an issue. They present their case and the committee or council acts on the facts presented, as best they see fit. The councilmen may make a mistake but it is their decision, not the Lobbyists'.

Large numbers of witnesses sometimes have their effect but I believe that we would indeed be in trouble, as a country, if all issues were decided by how many lobbyists were paraded by, or if juries decided cases in favor of the parties with the most witnesses.

The City Council and I like to have people come forward to our meeting and express their views, and I don't believe anyone can say he or she has not been fairly treated or not allowed to speak.

Instead of signing a petition, come yourself if you can. If not, inform yourself of the facts before you sign.

Yours for a better city,
Bill French, Mayor
City of Ord

KERRY ON

—for keeps—

This week I received one of the most interesting mailing pieces I've seen in quite some time.

Glancing over it I began wondering how many of today's youth would think I was writing about "social problems" if I were to use words like "histing" or "potiesies" or "black snake."

I could probably get any young man's attention today by beginning:

"We were in the middle of a game of chases when he took out his shooter, knuckled down outside the ring line and then tugged on me."

It is true that any young man today would know I was referring to one of America's oldest sports. He'd think I lost my marbles! Instead—I found them!

How many of you remember the "crockies"? (Today that's something you get from drinking too much.)

Or how many of you were ever the proud owner of a "blood ruby"? Chances are you were more like myself and had very few "blood rubies" but a lot of "moonaggies." Then there were always those guys slipping in the "solid pee-wees" on us. Or some wise guy would try to pawn off some "clearys" on us.

Yes... I'm talking about that great American sport of marbles. Concrete and cemented playgrounds have nearly done away with the once-popular pastime. And it's a pity!

It seems like 10 B.C. (Before Christ) when the lot across the street from the high school was crowded with all the kids in the neighborhood each night. In one part of the lot there would be a game of "ringer" going while another corner was filled with a group of boys playing "Shole." And in between were a few busy playing "chases" . . . the marble version "follow the leader" which could be played by only two players. Chases could easily fill a whole Saturday morning before either player was many marbles ahead.

Now that I've lost about half my readers, let me offer you the following glossary that should bring a bit of nostalgia:

SHOOTER: The agate or glassie shot from the hand.

TAW: Another name for shooter. Not in common usage.

SNOOGER: Close-miss.

KNUCKLING DOWN: The act of resting one or more knuckles on the ground while shooting.

LOFTING: The act of shooting on an arch through the air to hit a marble in the ring. Sometimes called "popping."

BOWLING: Rolling the shot on the ground to hit a marble.

LAGGING: The act of tossing or shooting from the pitch line to the lag line to see which player shows first!

LUNCHING / FUDGING: Putting hand over ring-line. Forbidden in tournament play.

HINTING: The act of raising the hand from the ground before the shooter leaves the hand. Also forbidden.

LAG LINE: A straight line drawing tangent to the ring and touching it at one point.

PITCH LINE: A straight line at the opposite side of the ring and parallel to the "lag line."

DUBS: Hitting two or more marbles out of the ring on one shot, one of the prettiest plays of the game.

SLIP: Misplay called when marble falls from hand and stops rolling less than 10 inches from the ring line. Player replays the marble.

STICK: Shooter stops inside of ring after hitting a marble out.

SOLID PEE-WEES: Marbles forming cross bars in ring. Also called "mibs."

FOR KEEPS: Playing without returning opponents' marbles which are out of the ring.

FOR FAIR: Playing to return the former owner all marbles won in a game.

And who won? As one kid put it, "If three guys are good the goodest one will win."

Geranium Joe There's Simply Not Enough Happiness In The Great Society to Satisfy Everyone

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where the number of people living on "social services" in New York City hit the one million mark last week. One official that was making comment on this fine new record said the city was sending $1 to Washington for ever nickel it got back. He was of the opinion this new "assistance" they were getting was what you might call living upside down.

It made me recollect, Mister Editor, what Joe Urbanovsky said last week about that Englishman claiming America was an insane asylum run by the inmates. A heap of the inmates, like them one million in New York, was having it pretty good. I reckon the rest of us are just living upside down.

I was reporting on this matter at the country store Saturday night and Junior Meese said they got this "assistance" tagged wrong that it ought to be called "assignment." He said all the government was doing was taking money from one bunch of citizens and assigning it to another bunch. Furthermore, said Junior, this guaranteed annual wage they're discussing in the Congress ain't nothing but taking money from them that work and assigning it to the bums, and it's guaranteed only as long as somebody keeps working.

Ray Duda said the government was trying to help them that can't help themselves, and he was fer that, but the trouble is we're like a goat with its head stuck in the fence. We can't figger if we can help ourselves and work loose or just wait and hope somebody will come and get us out of the fix.

But Junior disagreed with Ray, said we were more like the boy that started leading a calf, but the calf grew up and now the boy is leading the bull wherever the bull wants to go. Government has took over from the people, was the way Junior put it.

Frank Naprstek spoke up to say that baby doctors finally were catching up to the mood of this country. He had seen where doctors now say it's good for a young'un to suck a pacifier. The doctors figger, he allowed, that it's more important to have a feeling of getting fed than to get upset when you realize you ain't getting nothing from the pacifier.

Junior said that was exactly what he was talking about, that we now have this Great Society pacifier and we keep sucking on it. When he was a boy, said Junior, a woman that would give one of them "foolers" to her young'un was as bad as one that smoked in public. Nowadays the idea is to keep baby happy, even if it takes $1 to get a nickel's worth of happiness. I was sorry, Mister Editor, I bring the subject up because I didn't get a nickel's worth of happiness out of it.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

Dutch Elm Disease

Dutch elm disease was first positively identified in Valley County in 1967. At which time an intensive educational program was undertaken to inform the public about the disease, its cause, its symptoms and methods of prevention.

During the past months we have submitted a number of samples to the University of Nebraska Plant Pathology Department for culturing of Dutch elm disease. In all cases but one this culturing has revealed a positive diagnosis of the disease. These samples have been obtained from various parts of the county: Arcadia, Ord, Elyria, Mira Valley and the Sumdale area.

From this we can assume that the disease is affecting American elm trees throughout the county.

Dutch elm disease is caused by a fungus that grows in the water-conducting vessels of the tree, causing leaves to wilt and the tree to die. Wilted leaves about June or July is usually the first symptom. The wilting symptom becomes more pronounced in July and August. The leaves turn dull green or yellow, dry out and fall, or they turn brown, curl, become brittle and remain attached to twigs for some time.

From mid-summer onward symptoms consist mainly of the development of yellowish leaves in one part of the crown or on occasional twigs. This condition has been termed "flagging". Following these symptoms, the affected branches die and the condition extends to other branches until the entire tree dies. Infected trees may die in a season, a year or two, or may persist for several years.

When an elm tree shows a combination of symptoms, Dutch elm disease should be suspected. A laboratory diagnosis must be made for positive identification.

If you observe any of these symptoms and suspect Dutch elm disease, contact the county extension office and we will be glad to submit a sample for culturing.

All American species of elm trees are susceptible to Dutch elm disease. This includes, in Nebraska, the American elm, slippery elm, and rock elm. In Nebraska the principal carrier of the disease is the European elm bark beetle.

The adult elm bark beetle is about one-eighth inch long, dark reddish brown, shiny, and has a short spine under the rear end of its body. These beetles lay their eggs under the bark of elm trees. When the eggs hatch, the larvae tunnel under the bark at right angles from the point of hatching.

Adult beetles tunnel through the bark to the surface. Beetles that have developed in trees killed by Dutch elm disease carry fungus spores on their bodies when they emerge. Thus the fungus is transmitted to healthy trees.

The first step in preventing Dutch elm disease from spreading is to destroy the breeding place of the beetles. Remove all old and dying branches from otherwise healthy trees. Then burn or bury them. In addition, remove all low-vigor trees or elms that have been killed in one way or the other. It is imperative that all trees affected with the disease be removed immediately.

Observations the past two years in certain Nebraska communities indicate that control efforts are ineffective if strict sanitation is not a part of the total program. These observations show the need for a vigorous and immediate sanitation procedure. The second step in control of Dutch elm disease is spraying. Use of mist blowers or hydraulic sprayers during the dormant season are the only chemical application methods recommended.

Spraying with DDT is suggested from Feb. 1 to the time the first leaf emerges. Substituting methoxychlor for DDT will reduce the risk to birds and other wildlife.

The use of a helicopter to deposit spray materials is not recommended for Nebraska. Present research data indicates there is less chemical deposit by helicopters, as currently used, than by ground equipment.

Home owners and farmers in Valley County should plan now to replace elm trees over a 10-15 year period with shade trees of mixed species. Initiating an early replanting program will prevent the certain desolation that follows loss of American elms.

It looks like we have to live with this tree killer, but if we follow the total program of Dutch elm disease prevention we may be able to enjoy these beautiful American elms for another 10-20 years.

For more information on the prevention of Dutch elm disease contact the county extension office.

Birthday Fun

JoAnn Waldmann Earns MA Degree

JoAnn Waldmann, former Ord High School teacher, was among more than 400 graduates announced at the close of the University of Nebraska's second 5 1/2 week summer term that ended Aug. 23. She received a Master of Arts degree from the Graduate College.

Miss Waldmann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Waldmann of Comstock. She has accepted a teaching position at Bellflower, Cal.

Education Continuing for 16 Graduates Of Arcadia High School, Class of 1968

Sixteen of the 22 1968 graduates of Arcadia High School have left or are leaving soon for advanced education.

Babs Sell, at the Grand Island Beauty School, and Dale Pader, at Denver, Colo., Technical Mechanical School, started classes this summer.

Mary Anne Gould, Shirley Lutz, Sheryl Rounds Haddix, Jim Hawley, Ron Hurlburt and Darwin Hunt are attending Kearney State College.

Other students and the institutions they will be attending are Diane Sullivan, Kearney Beauty School; Mary Cook and David Tuning, University of Nebraska; Beverly Gartside, Central Business College, Denver, Colo.; Larry Nagorski, technical school, Laramie, Wyo.; Don Brown, University of Nebraska School of Technical Agriculture at Curtis; Cindy Marco, Medical Institute at Minneapolis, Minn.; and Doug Masters, Central Oregon Community College in Bend, Ore.

Advanced students attending Kearney State College are sophomores Merilee Sell, Sandy Leininger, Delmar Deitz, Mike Crist, Les Manning and Larry Hurlburt; juniors Linda Sullivan, Sherry Giles and Gene Hunt; and seniors Gene Haddix, Dennis Hurlburt, and Jerry Hawley.

Virginia Trotter, Donna Fells and Olive Schultz are attending classes at Kearney on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Krahulik were recent houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Murray. The former Arcadians were on route from Lincoln to Seattle, Wash., where Kent teaches and his wife, Trudy, is a graduate student at the University of Washington.

Mr. Murray is working on his doctorate at the University of Nebraska during the summer sessions. They live at Index, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. Krahulik were en route to North Platte from Lincoln where they have lived the past four years. Mr. Krahulik is being transferred to the N.B.C. Bank's Computer Center at North Platte. He and his wife are at home at 1005 Shaw Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith of Oakland, Ore., visited recently in the Arcadia home of Nina Smith and Lola Spencer. They were en route home after visiting in North Carolina, Florida, and in New Orleans, La.

Mrs. Maude McCleary of Ord, Mrs. Evelyn Murray and Mrs. Jan Krahulik motored to Black River Falls, Wis., recently to be houseguests of Maynard McCleary and family. Joining them from Peoria, Ill. were Michael McCleary and fiancée, and Mrs. Lindsay, his grandmother.

Mrs. Alice Hoon experienced her first jet ride recently, when she returned to Ord after an extended visit with her son and family. Mrs. Hoon had accompanied the Allen Dobsons to Olympia, Wash., in mid-June. After spending two weeks with them she went to Stanwood, Wash., to be with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hoon and daughter.

Wayne has a septic tank business and during June set an all-time record for that area — only to beat his own sales record in August. In addition to this work, he sells vaults and grave supplies.

Mrs. William Novosad, Sr. was in Valentine recently caring for Greg and Michelle, youngsters of Mr. and Mrs. John Vanderbeck. Mrs. Vanderbeck, the former Pat Novosad, teaches music at the Grade School and High School in Valentine.

Personals

John Gonnerman is nicely settled in the Rolling Dye apartment, having moved to the new location about four weeks ago. His home had previously been in the home of the late Stanley Petska.

Three new members have been added to the Jolliffe bridge group. They are Mrs. Bill Schudel, Mrs. George Hastings and Mrs. Gus Schoenlein. To begin the fall session, the group met Saturday afternoon with Mrs. C. A. Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Simpkins of Gibbon were recent dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Kinast. The two families also attended the Popcorn Days festivities in North Loup.

Recent weekend houseguests of Mrs. Gertrude Lech were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lech, Jenny and Jerri of Omaha. Other recent guests were Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Walachowski and family of Kansas City, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Alfonza Walachowski. Mrs. Lech returned last month from a three-week visit with her daughter, Mrs. Darrell Roberts and family, in Cincinnati, Ohio. The Quiz reported in a recent issue that her daughter's name was Mrs. Darrell Drake.

Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Meier and Penny arrived in Ord two weeks ago from Oshkosh where they had visited Dr. Meier's mother. On Sept. 8, the Meiers and Blessings were guests of the Al Blessings at dinner at the Lockland Country Club in Hastings and spent the afternoon at the Blessing home.

The next day, Dr. and Mrs. Blessing and their guests drove to Lincoln where they enjoyed the Elk Club with the Earl Blessings and Glen Hahms. The Meiers left by plane for their home in Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 10.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Groberg of Brooks, Minn., spent the Labor Day weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Baker. On Sunday a covered dish dinner was held at the Odd Fellows Hall honoring Mrs. M. D. Earnest, Jeri and Jani Earnest of La Mesa, Calif.; Mrs. D. L. Abney of San Juan, Tex.; and the Grobergs, relatives from Loup City, Omaha, Lincoln, North Loup and Ord attended.

Mrs. Earnest and girls left for their home last Wednesday. They were accompanied to Denver, Colo., by Mrs. Abney who is spending some time with an aunt, Mrs. Roy Coleman of Littleton. The Grobergs returned to their home Monday of last week.

Duane Kovarik recently attended the registered Holstein dairy sale of the Norfolk State Hospital herd at Norfolk and the registered Brown Swiss dairy sale of the Earl Stinger estate at Hubbard.

Recent guests at the Charley Visek home with Mr. and Mrs. Francis Simons and son of Fort Collins, Colo., were Mrs. Anna Vodehnal, Norman Kriss and Douglas, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Visek and family of Omaha.

Private First Class Gerald Munn, 18, grandson of Mrs. Sarah Brooks, remains in a naval hospital in Guam after being wounded twice in Vietnam. Doctors are uncertain as to whether the young man's hand can be saved.

Harold Weddel of Lexington attended graveside services for Clint Roever in Ord and funeral services for Lester Bly in Arcadia Thursday. He also visited briefly in the home of his brother, Charlie Weddel, in Arcadia.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rich left for their home in LeRoy, Minn., recently after being called here by the death of his mother, Mrs. Dora Rich. While in Ord they stayed with Mrs. Rich's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hall.

Mrs. Don Fisher of Ceresco visited her brother, Clyde Baker, and Mrs. Baker from Saturday until Tuesday. Mrs. Fisher was in the area especially to attend the Class of 1934 reunion at North Loup.

Orin Kellison accompanied Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner and Julie to Lincoln for a weekend stay with Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kellison. They were joined in Lincoln by Mr. and Mrs. James Wagner of Omaha. On Saturday several of the group attended the Nebraska - Wyoming football game.

Mrs. Helen Horn is home again after an extended visit with her son and his family in Darrington, Wash. Mrs. Horn had been staying with the Leonard Horns since May when she accompanied the Marvin Mach family on a vacation trip west.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil John drove to Gothenburg Friday evening where they attended the football game and were guests of the Stanley Haines family. On Saturday the Johns traveled to Lincoln where they were joined by their sons Rich, of Wayne State College, and Gerald, of the University of Nebraska. After the Nebraska - Wyoming football game they continued on to Omaha where they were overnight guests in the Leonard John home. They returned to Ord Sunday.

Saturday dinner and afternoon guests at the Dale Hoppes home were Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hoppes and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hoppes of Grand Island, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Hoppes and Michelle Jacobs of Kearney, and Mrs. Dora Jorgensen and Alma of Ord. The birthdays of Bob Hoppes and Mrs. Dale Hoppes were celebrated.

Duke Richardson and his wife Judy of Shreveport, La., attended the funeral of Raymond Richardson last Wednesday. Also attending the last services and burial at Beaver Crossing was an Army buddy and close friend, Charles Fridley, of Artesian, S.D.

Jesus Is Lord
"For we preach not ourselves but Christ Jesus, the Lord."
Most everyone reading these words would answer the question, "Do you believe in the Lordship of Christ?" in an affirmative manner. But I wonder, are we consistent in our answer. Let us examine briefly.
Is Jesus Lord of all you are, of all you have, of all your thoughts, words and doings? Now, I'm certain that no one can honestly answer "No" to these questions affirmative in all areas. Therefore, let us do a little soul searching.
Anyone can sing, "Bring forth the royal diadem and crown Him Lord of all," millions of Christians like to sing, "I my cross have taken. Where He leads I will follow." It's sad but true, many crown Jesus Christ as Lord with their lips but refuse to make Him Lord of their lives. How? When it comes to making Him Lord of their lives, it suddenly becomes too difficult to attend a teachers training class, a men's fellowship, or go calling.
As a Christian, you cannot sing, "there is no other way but the way of the Cross," if you are not willing to sing, "then I bid farewell to the way of the world." You cannot take your stand beneath the cross of Jesus if you are not content to let the world go by. You cannot properly and honestly, "surround the wondrous cross" and not sacrifice "the vain and sinful things that charm you most" to the blood of the Christ. You cannot sing, "my Jesus, I love thee" and mean it until all the intentions of self you resign. You cannot sing from your heart, "whiter than snow," if you are unwilling for the Lord Jesus Christ to break down every idol, to turn your life completely over to the Lordship of the Christ.
Too often God-fearing people refer to Christ in the same manner they do their boss, their husbands, wives and so forth. Jesus Christ is not just another individual. He is the Lord of Lords, King of Kings, and Master of Masters.
Jesus is more than a boss who gives a bonus at Christmas time. It was his life he laid down at Calvary. Jesus did more for mankind than bake some fresh homemade bread or bring him some flowers for the wife. It was Jesus who cried out with a dry and thirsty throat from the cross, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do."
Jesus has the right to be the Lord of your life. It was He who broke the shackles of sin. It was Jesus who closed the door of death and opened the windows of eternal life. As a result he has the right to expect and demand of His children, and disciples the conviction and obedience to sing, "Lord, we are able."
Jesus demands of those who are following after Him that they commit their all, their entire being to Him. One day, multitudes turned away from Christ because He would not have them unless they accepted Him completely as their Lord.
Jesus turned to the followers and said, "Will ye also go away?" How is it in your life, "Will you also go away when you learn that Jesus is to be not only your saviour but Lord?"

32 Help Trio Celebrate Birthdays

By Berenice Cornell

The Parkview birthday party was held on Thursday this month instead of Wednesday, since a number of residents were going to North Loup for the last day of that community's Popcorn Days celebration. Thirty-two persons were present to enjoy the birthdays of Mary Cetak, Mary Blaha and Mae Dockhorn. Mae is still on the West Coast, but she remembered us with a letter and help with refreshments. Several assisted with the serving and kitchen work. Visitors were the Mesdames Esther Madsen, Lillian Masin, Mary Parkos, Anna Rohla, Cecilia Benda, Tillie Jablonski, Opal Kuklish, Gertrude Osentowski, Rose Albers, Marie Cetak, and Brian and Alma Cetak. Mrs. Mary Parkos was an all-day visitor of Mary Blaha.

of darkness but of light, as we have the scriptures, and we should accept the promise given in Luke 12: 30-32 of Christ claiming His own. The important thing for us is not to wonder when Christ is coming, but to be ready at all times. Mrs. Frank Madsen was a visitor at the service.

Here From Utah

Mr. and Mrs. George Fenton of North Loup and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Smith of Toole, Utah, visited Lillian Dault Thursday. Mrs. Douglas Peterson of Scotia visited Lillian on Friday. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Peterson are nieces of Lillian's.

Colorado Caller

Mrs. Elna Myers and her mother, Mrs. Kristine Martenson of Longmont, Colo., called on Mrs. Will Benson and Bessie Timmerman in the Benson home Thursday.

Baby Dies

Anna Rowbal's nephew, Dennis Keefe of Lafayette, Colo., lost a two-month-old son Saturday.

Broken Arm

Mrs. Ron Ritz and son Sterling of Comstock spent Wednesday with her grandmother, Elsie Rathbun. That day another son of the Ritzes, Brice, broke his arm while in school at Comstock and was brought to a doctor's office in Ord.

Prettiest Flower

Marguerite West has the prettiest flower now—a five-inch hybrid red rose. Mary Blaha and Ona Nelson have beautiful mixed flowers on the north side of each of their units. Tillie Massey's red dahlias and cannas make a pretty border against the southeast of Parkview's lawn.

Personals

Berenice Cornell was sorry to miss the call Wednesday evening of two friends, Mrs. Hazel Holman Porter of LaMesa, Calif., and Mrs. Esther Bee Loofboro of New Auburn, Wis. However, she was glad to have a telephone visit with both of them later. The two are cousins and long-time North Loup chums of Mrs. Cornell.

Hope Dumond received a telephone call recently from Colorado Springs, Colo., informing her that a grandson of hers and Sophie Keller's had undergone major surgery. The boy is Kerry Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Keller.

Mrs. Richard Rowbal visited Anna Rowbal Tuesday and Inez Swain visited her Friday evening.

While Mildred Anderson was in North Loup with Mrs. Ray Melia Tuesday, they were glad to receive a nice visit from Mrs. Robert Hughes of Westminster, Calif. Others attending Popcorn Days from Parkview included:

Will Benson, who went both Monday and Wednesday; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hackett, who accompanied Tillie Massey, Mary Jorgensen, and Mary Blaha on Wednesday; and Lillian Dault, who went Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dobrovsky.

Mr. and Mrs. Hackett visited in the home of Mrs. Cora Hauner and her mother, Mrs. Ida Marrow, Mrs. Marrow and Mr. Hackett are ages 90 and 91 respectively, and have been friends since they were young folks.

Mildred Anderson stayed part-time from Wednesday through the rest of the week with Randy Newland while Mrs. Newland took daughter Lynn to Dallas, Tex., to enter school.

Juanita Christian had a telephone call Wednesday from a longtime friend in Santa Monica, Calif. Mrs. Mary Curtis.

Mr. and Mrs. Ign Pokraka of North Loup and Mrs. Agnes Karty were supper and evening guests of Tillie Massey Thursday.

Anna Larson of Grand Island called on Anna Rowbal Friday. Ona Nelson joined the Jay and Thead Nelson families Sept. 8 at the Lonnie Nelson home near Burwell. They enjoyed a birthday luncheon in honor of Mrs. Lonnie Nelson.

Berenice Cornell was with a group for a fellowship luncheon and prayer service Wednesday evening at the Bethel Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Benson, Bessie Timmerman, Tillie Massey, and Berenice Cornell were in North Loup Friday. They had supper together at the cafe.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Romans were here Saturday overnight and stayed in Lydia Porter's unit. They called on Mildred Anderson Sunday. Mrs. Porter is getting along as good as can be expected but says she gets rather lonesome in the hospital, for home.

Tena Swanson's son Merrill and wife spent Sunday with his mother. They returned to Mead that evening. Another son, Elwin, and family of Grand Island visited Sunday night. On Monday they were with Mrs. Swanson's

Mrs. Hazel Leach and Mrs. Ward called on Berenice Cornell Sunday. Bertha Knudson was also an afternoon visitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Janulewicz were in Comstock Tuesday and Wednesday with their daughter, Mrs. Wendell Hovie, and family.

Mrs. Mary Neilsen of California, sister of Anna Rowbal, is to be in Iowa this week with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mogensen. Next week Mrs. Neilsen and the Mogensens will be here for a visit with relatives.

Bingo returns to Parkview Village Wednesday when residents will get together at 2 p.m. They'll play the fourth Wednesday of each month throughout the winter.

priests presided at the Bible Vigil of the Thirteen Hour services: Milan Kopushar, Joseph Szybal, John Barth Marcellus, Anthony Radziewicz, Michael Szesny, Don Lamore, and Albert Godlewski.

Beginning next Sunday Father Godlewski will take care of Sacred Heart Church in Burwell during the absence of Father Hubert Spanel. He will be making a tour of Europe and the Holy Land for the next two months. He will be accompanied by Father Vincent Pelster of St. Paul.

Starting on Wednesday this week and all first Fridays, masses will be at 7:30 p.m. in the St. Mary's Church building.

Mrs. Louie Greenwalt, Mrs. Joe Paprocki and Mrs. Frank Zulkoski prepared and served dinner to the visiting priests Sunday evening at the St. Mary's Hall in Elyria. Ladies of the parish cleaned the building Wednesday forenoon.

Knights Honored
Mr. and Mrs. Roy Riecken entertained Mr. and Mrs. Charles Knight Thursday on their wedding anniversary. Present to honor them were Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Veskerka, Mrs. Ben McCubbin and daughters from Greshna, Mr. Henry Drew of Elkhorn,

Placniks Celebrate 50th

Mr. and Mrs. George Vavra from Grand Island and Mr. and Mrs. Anton Novotny were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Placnik Sr. of Ord for a steak supper. The Placniks were celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary which occurred Monday.

Birthday Guests

Roy Riecken celebrated his birthday recently. Party guests on that occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Veskerka and children, Mrs. Charles Knight and children, Mrs. Vernon Veskerka and children, Mrs. Charlie Knight and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Novak, Mr. and Mrs. John Neverkla, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Novotny, and Junior Riecken. After an evening playing cards, lunch was served to the guests.

See Relative Married

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Zulkoski accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Roland Zulkoski and family in Omaha Friday to attend the wedding of their granddaughter and niece, Janice Piefer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Piefer, and Thomas Wiebel at the St. Philip Neri Catholic Church. They were married Saturday at noon by Rev. Charles Swanson. Branch was served at the Birchwood Club after the ceremony, and a reception and dance was held in the evening for invited guests. The Zulkoskis returned home late Sunday evening.

The two Zulkoski families were overnight guests Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Goff of Papillion. The Rolland Zulkoskis also visited other relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Jorgensen and family and Mr. and Mrs. Axel Jorgensen, at Papillion until Sunday evening.

Kusek Kin Dies

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kusek Sr. received word Sunday that Mrs. Kusek's brother-in-law, Leo Sokal, age 69, of Duncan, had passed away Saturday at St. Mary's Hospital in Columbus. Mr. Sokal had been sick and in a wheel chair for some time. His funeral was held Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the St. Stanislaw Catholic Church at Duncan.

Personals

Second Coming
J. H. Schroeder of the Christian Church visited with 18 of us who enjoyed his message at 1:30 p.m. Thursday. After a song service, Mr. Schroeder talked about the return of Christ as based on prophecy given in Mark, Chapter 13, and Matthew, Chapter 24. Some prophecy concerning Israel was fulfilled long ago as can be seen in Luke 21: 24, and other has been fulfilled more recently. Mr. Schroeder said today we are not children

HILAIRE DU BERRIER

"Vietnam: Will the Communists Win?"

"The Vietcong could never defeat us on the battlefield. But they might conquer a nation at the conference table!"

Many Americans have learned to distrust the "experts" on U. S. foreign policy, because they have seen the so-called experts proven wrong, again and again, from Cuba to Berlin to Vietnam. In this era of "managed news," Hilaire du Berrier is unique: he knows the truth and presents it honestly.

Hilaire du Berrier is an American who has spent thirty years reporting on affairs from the Orient. Prior to World War II, he served as Newsweek's correspondent in Shanghai. During the war, he piloted a courier plane between Hankow and Nanking and operated Free China's underground radio stations. His courage and ingenuity were recognized by a special citation from the Nationalist Chinese government. Du Berrier has traveled repeatedly throughout all of Southeast Asia, and knows most of the past and present rulers personally. In 1955 he accompanied the Vietnamese mission to the Big Four conference in Geneva. And these are but highlights of his amazing career!

In the last three decades, du Berrier has been imprisoned and tortured by the enemies of freedom, but he has not been silenced. In his magazine articles, his intelligence report, and his controversial book, Background to Betrayal: The Tragedy of Vietnam, as well as in his speeches, he "lays it out straight."

To learn the truth about what the fighting and the negotiations, really mean, you must not miss Hilaire du Berrier. Bring your friends and neighbors to—

Eskimos Perform Too

Visit to Reindeer Ranch, Gold Panning Cap Arctic Adventure

By Mrs. Albert Peterson

(Editor's Note: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Peterson recently returned from a vacation to the Arctic. This is the second of two articles. Mrs. Peterson has written describing some of their experiences.)

Reaching Nome, all those on our tour were outfitted with colorful parkas to keep us comfortable during our stay there.

Then we boarded a tour bus and were driven to the Golden Nugget Hotel where we were assigned near modern rooms with both of our rooms looking out onto the Bering Sea. Two large ships, well lit, provided a colorful sight that night. We were given half an hour to freshen up before getting acquainted with this primitive "Gold Rush" town.

We were now to embark on a tour of historic points of interest in and around Nome.

Our driver introduced himself as Brownie, and we were indeed lucky to draw him as our guide. He had a way of relating history interspersed with colorful tales of old-timers that kept us entertained as well as informed.

Nome with its board-walks and main street of dirt is lined with craft shops, eating places, old houses and bars. There are a total of seven bars and seven churches. The story goes that every time a new church was built, a new bar was set up, and vice versa.

Our first stop was at the shore of Nome Harbor where we were given a ride in an Eskimo skin boat, called an oomiak, a drift-wood frame covered with walrus hide.

Next on the agenda was a visit to Pelet's Crafts and Furs Shop. Here tourists select their favorite furs, and Eskimos design and custom-make them in to coats, hats, mukluks, boots, etc. At the hotel ready-made fur coats of every description were for sale.

After a hearty buffet meal (the fish would have tasted better had I not seen the drying racks earlier in the day) we boarded the bus again to visit a reindeer ranch owned by an Eskimo. The Eskimos kept us company while the rancher told us about his herd of 650 reindeer on open range. He had a dozen or so corralled. Some of his neighbors owned thousands of them.

Each rancher cat-tags his animals and is responsible for keeping them separated from his neighbor's, and that's quite a task since there are no fences in Alaska. The reindeer eat lichen, a white sort of fungus that grows on the tundra.

The animals are valuable for both their hide and meat. We were informed that soon we will be able to buy reindeer meat in tin cans. Steaks are available in Alaskan cafes now.

Back in town, we stopped at the village community house where we were entertained for a couple of hours by the famed King Island Dancers. Men, women and children in turn danced to the beat of the skin drum, a walrus gut stretched over a round frame. It is the only musical instrument the Eskimos use.

The dances have been handed down from generation to generation. All tell a story in song and muscular pantomime. When they tell of a raven, walrus or wolf, or of a witch doctor, hand-drawn masks are worn. Amu-tles and colorful headgear of eagle feathers are also worn, and all dancers wear gloves because their ancestors did.

Several of our group were asked to dance with them, and they did surprisingly well.

The men put on a carving demonstration, using tusks of the Arctic walrus. They sometimes use fossilized bones unearthed from the permafrost.

Their tools are very primitive. When a drill was used, it was operated by holding between the teeth.

The Eskimos also showed us how they spear a walrus and land it in the kayak.

The women demonstrated the art of skin-sewing. They too make good use of their teeth to make the skin more pliable and secure the stitches.

The only custom we could see they had in common with us visitors was cigarette smoking. More women than men smoke, it seemed.

Although the sun was now just setting, it was late by the clock and we decided to forego a tour of the lively night spots.

Brownie warned us we would be called promptly at 6 a.m. to start our second day of adventure at 7. There was no knock at our door by 6:15, and when we got down to the lobby the hotel clerk told us we weren't the only ones who had failed to set our watches back an hour.

The mistake gave us time to eat breakfast. Naturally sour-dough hot cakes were first on the menu.

Milk was 45 cents a glass. At the store it was 81 cents a quart.

As we began our morning tour we passed the largest electric-powered gold dredge in America, as well as some smaller ones. None were operating for the reason that the price of gold at 35 dollars an ounce makes it unprofitable.

Don Augustyn remains in Valley County Hospital after being injured Sunday night in an automobile accident at the west edge of North Loup. He was turning south on a gravel road toward Ashton when his car went out of control and turned over. Dr. Murray Markley said yesterday that Augustyn is suffering from contusions and severe muscle spasms in his lower back and legs. However, there were no fractures, he reported.

Two More Plead Nolo Contendere To Assault Charges

Two additional pleas of nolo contendere have been entered on behalf of youths facing charges of assault with intent to commit rape in connection with an incident allegedly occurring June 29 near Burwell.

The pleas were made by attorneys representing Thomas Vaughn, 18, of North Loup and David Konkoleski, 15, of Elyria. Both boys were scheduled for trial Monday.

Nolo contendere pleas have now been made on behalf of all three youths charged in the incident. Delyste Burson, 18, of Ord, had made a similar plea two weeks ago.

This means that the cases will not be heard by a jury. The presiding judge, Donald Weaver of Grand Island, has taken them under advisement and will announce his decision Monday at 9:30 a.m. Sentencing will also take place at that time if the youths are found guilty.

The alleged victim, Mary Patricia Giblin, 16, of Omaha, testified briefly at Monday's hearing.

Nolo contendere means that defense attorneys do not wish to contest the cases. However, it is not an admission of guilt.

Voters Asked to Prevent U.S. Sell-Out in Vietnam

The only person who can prevent a sell-out in Vietnam is the American voter, a prominent Vietnamese expert said Monday.

Appearing as a guest lecturer sponsored by the Loup Valley Committee to Restore American Independence Now, Hilaire du Barrier asked local citizens to flood their congressmen with petitions calling for victory and a restriction of trade with the enemy. He suggested that the congressmen be asked to sign the petitions themselves.

"Tell them you need a big name to start your petition drive," Barrier stated. "Make a thousand photo copies of your letter and the petition, and inform the congressmen you plan to send copies to all voting-age servicemen from your area."

"President Johnson and our congressmen feel more Americans are ready to accept a sell-out in Vietnam than wish to win," he said. "We must convince them otherwise, and this is one way to do it."

Barrier said the war could be won in two months if United States leaders would decide to do so. He said the present policy of openly admitting we do not seek a military victory is giving hope and encouragement to the enemy, stiffening their will to resist. A change in attitude on our part would bring about a change in theirs, he said.

"To win we must first destroy the enemy's hope of victory," he said.

Tactically, a blockade of Haiphong Harbor would be the best means for achieving a quick end to the war, Barrier stated.

The North Dakota native said he fears a sell-out before President Johnson leaves office. In his opinion, a sell-out would start with accepting a coalition government for South Vietnam involving Communists.

This sell-out is already underway in a subtle manner, he said, because the U.S. is forcing out Vietnamese leaders who are staunchly anti-Communist and replacing them with others less so.

He cited as an example Nguyen Cao Ky, now number two man in the Saigon government and formerly number one.

"You should have been in Vietnam and seen the pressure put on Ky to step down in favor of Nguyen Van Thieu before the last elections," he said. "Thieu will go along with Washington, but Ky wanted to win."

Membership Announced For New ASC Groups

New members of Valley County's eight community committees of the Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Service were announced this week.

The 40 committeemen were elected by mail ballot earlier this month. Votes were counted Friday by the three-member county committee.

Those elected are:

Arcadia - Yale: Merle Myers, Otis Gartside, Keith Dorsey, Delbert Drake, James Holmes.

Davis Creek - Enterprise: Kenneth Koelling, Richard Peterson, Lyle Foth, Wilfred Cook, Mervin Hornickel.

Elyria - Eureka: Roland Zukoski, Floyd Iwanski, Eugene Michalski, Richard Potrzeba, Nelson Deamont.

Geranium - Michigan: Richard Lukesh, Thomas Waldman, Ed "in Mikek, Vernon Potrzeba, Calvin Treptow.

Independent - North Loup: Stanley Barr, Lyle Sintek, Paul Wainman, Floyd Thompson, Dale Mulligan.

Liberty - Vinton: Elwin Johnson, Joseph Boone, Dillard Hunt, Emil Dlugosh, Dale Zadina.

Noble - Springdale: Herbert Goff, Kenneth Collins, Thead Nelson, Wayne Gregory, Frank Maly.

Ord: Art John, Harold Garnick, Orie Hurlbert, Ernest Vodenal, Kenneth Kirby.

The chairmen, vice-chairmen, and third regular member of each of the committees will meet Friday to fill a vacancy on the county committee. The three-year term of Bob Timmerman, now the committee vice-chairman, is expiring.

That meeting will be held at 1 p.m. in the county ASCS office at Ord.

Delegates to this county convention will also decide which of the three county committeemen will serve as chairman and vice-chairman during the coming year.

In addition to Timmerman, who can be considered for reelection, the current county committee is composed of Everett Lech, chairman, and Gerald Krickac. Their terms are staggered so that only one expires each year.

The community committees assist the county committee in local administration of national farm programs.

Local Area to Join In Recognition Of 4-H Participants

Local plans are being made for the observance of National 4-H Week, Oct. 6-12.

In Valley County, as in every county throughout the nation, the spotlight will be on 4-H members, leaders, and friends.

County Agent John Schade said last week that 4-H youths are engaged in projects and activities which cover just about every home situation, personal goal, and activity.

A major advance in 4-H project work, Schade said, has been more emphasis on science and experimentation. Efficient farm and home management (including safe operation of cars and farm machinery), human relations, and leadership also have accelerated, he added.

Youths 9 through 19 years of age are eligible to participate in 4-H activities, as a regular member, a 4-H member, or a special interest member.

The slogan for National 4-H Week is "Learning to Serve — Join 4-H."

North Loup Man Wins Grid Quiz With 20 of 24

Bill Earnest of North Loup is the second weekly winner in the Quiz football selection contest.

Earnest selected 20 of 24 games correctly to win last week's $5 prize. His choice of Lincoln East over Hastings was the difference as he won over Edell Williams, also of North Loup.

Williams had exactly the same selections as Earnest except for that game. He went with Hastings, which lost.

The other games they called incorrectly were Beatrice - Columbus, Fairbury - Syracuse, Kearney - North Platte, and Omaha Benson - Omaha North.

For this week's contest selections see Page 6 of Section 2.

TV Series on Citizen's Economics Underway on Educational Channel

A series of 12 half-hour programs on "Economics for the Concerned Citizen" began last night (Wednesday) on the Nebraska Educational Television Network.

Main objective of the program, according to County Agent John Schade, is to develop the "economic literacy" of the adult population as a basis for identifying, analyzing, and solving community problems.

The program is recommended especially for citizens in small towns and farm communities who are interested in rural resource development and area planning, Schade said.

With the exception of the first program which defined economic concepts, all other lessons deal with practical economic matters of interest and concern to citizens.

The first lesson was entitled, "What Economics Is All About."

Other topics to be presented during the series are:

Second week — "The American Economy and the People In It: An Overview."

Third week — "Markets and Prices: How We Decide What to Produce and Who Will Get It."

Fourth — "The Realities of a Mixed Economy."

Fifth — "How We Raise Our Living Standards: The Goal of Economic Growth."

Sixth — "Some Problems of a Growing Economy."

Seventh — "Economic Stability: The Goal of Full Employment Without Inflation."

Eighth — "Money, Banking, and Monetary Policy."

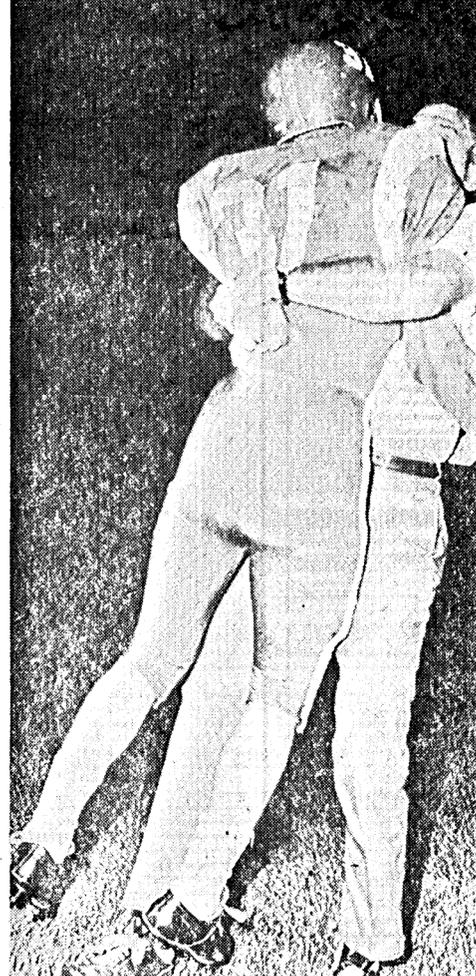

Ninth — "Fiscal Policy: Taxing, Government Spending, and the National Debt."

Tenth — "The U. S. in the World Economy: Trade and Investment."

Eleventh — "International Monetary Problems: Gold and the Balance of Payments."

Twelfth — "Other Economic Systems" and conclusions.

The programs will be presented each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 8.

One of the few bright spots in an otherwise bleak night for Ord football fans was Gary Augustyn's 95-yard kickoff return. Coach Dave VanNordheim had a royal welcome for Augustyn as he returned to the Chant bench. Ord lost the game, 18-7. For more on it, turn to Page 5.

These hastily compiled 10 are not recommended for ambitious men and women.

- (1) That's the way we've always done it.
- (2) I didn't know you were in a hurry for.
- (3) That's not in my department.
- (4) No one told me to go ahead.
- (5) I'm waiting for an O.K.
- (6) How did I know this was different?
- (7) That's his job, not mine.
- (8) Wait till the boss comes back and ask him.
- (9) I forgot.
- (10) I don't think it was important.

What's your excuse?

"Of course," she said. "Well, which of your children do you love the most?" he asked, hoping to catch her in a contradiction. "The one who is sick until he gets well," she answered, "and the one who is away until he gets home."

When he asked his sixth-grade class what kind of poems were mentioned in the weekly reader they had just read, Johnny Hyde expected to get "concrete poems" as the answer. Who would have guessed that one little blonde miss would write down "concrete poems" instead. "No, I'm afraid we will have to count that answer wrong — but it shows that you were thinking!"

Quiz employees joined Lucille Ulrich in admiring a lovely assortment of fresh flowers sent to her from Iowa last Thursday. Postmaster Rol Norman delivered the huge box containing elegant stems of Red Ginger, Bird of Paradise and Anthodium. Also included was a diagram telling how to arrange them into an attractive arrangement.

Elect New Leaders
Mrs. Gilbert Veskerka entertained members of the Neighborhood Sister Club at her home Sept. 17, when Mrs. Eugene Novak presented the lesson using Nebraska potatoes.

New officers were elected as follows: Mrs. Gerald Krieger, president; Mrs. Eldon Kokes, vice-president; Mrs. Roy Reichert, secretary; Mrs. Gilbert Veskerka, treasurer; Mrs. Larry Kokes, news reporter; and Mrs. Louisa song leader.

Secret sister gifts were received by Mrs. Anton Novak and Mrs. Novak. Mrs. Louis Zalina will be hostess for the Oct. 17 meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lukesh were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vancouver Sr. Tuesday evening.

All About Flowers
Mrs. Irwin Kingston was hostess to members of the Garden Club and two guests — Mrs. Alta Goodrich and Mrs. Grace Royer — at her home Thursday. The 17 members present answered roll call by telling their most successful flower this summer. Mrs. Abbie Brickner gave the lesson which concerned the planning of a rock garden and suitable flowers for it.

Mrs. Horace Travis will be the Oct. 17 hostess. The fall time schedule has been changed from 8 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Staats and small son and Mrs. James Staats Sr., arrived in Ord, Tuesday evening, from Greenbrae, Calif., to spend a week with Mrs. E. L. Vogeltanz.

The Peseks... will reside near Comstock.

Shirley Gregorski Weds Mike Pesek In Saturday Rites at Methodist Church

In a double-ring ceremony conducted Saturday at the United Methodist Church in Ord, Shirley Gregorski became the bride of Mike Pesek of Comstock.

Rev. Clarence Campbell solemnized the 2 o'clock afternoon ceremony with Mrs. Dale Karre providing nuptial music. Mrs. Sharon Fuss was the soloist. Candelights were Peggy Pesek and Dale Pesek.

The new Mrs. Pesek is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Gregorski of Elyria. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Pesek of Comstock.

Serving as maid of honor was Ione Pesek, sister of the groom. Pat Bruha was the bridesmaid. They wore floor-length dresses of white lace over blue taffeta with white accessories.

Henry Gregorski, brother of the bride, was best man. Richard Pesek, the groom's brother, was an attendant. Bob Bruha and Bob Pesek seated the guests.

At a reception held in the Elyria Hall, Mrs. Jody Konkoleski presided at the guest book. Mrs. JoAnn Duda cut the cake. Mrs. Dorothy Wadas served punch. Mrs. Lucille Bruha served ice cream; and Mrs. Evelyn Paprocki poured coffee. Other reception duties were carried out by Mrs. Evelyn Cook, Mrs. Rose Ella Sevenker, Charlene Paider, Elaine Pesek, Shirley Bruha, Marie Michalski, Linda Sevenker, and Debbie Cook.

Following a wedding dance held at the National Hall, the newlyweds left on a short wedding trip. After their return they will live near Comstock.

Birthdays in Bunches
Two birthdays were celebrated at the home of Mrs. Rita Barnes this past week.

Roxann Barnes noted her 11th birthday Friday by having Cindy Anderson and Sharon Stephens as her supper guests. Georgia Osborn and Marcia Campbell were supper guests Monday of Debra Barnes in honor of her 12th birthday.

It's a Girl
Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Setlik of Haleyville, Ala., are the proud parents of a 9 pound 6 ounce baby girl born Sept. 20. She joins two sisters, Sandra and Roxane. Mrs. Setlik is the former Carmen Dobrovsky.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Dobrovsky and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Setlik, all of Ord.

A Happy Reunion
Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Micek and Jeanette drove to Columbus Saturday where they attended the wedding of Don Sliva and Judy Bartos.

At this wedding, Mrs. Micek had the pleasant surprise of being able to see all her brothers and sisters together — the first time in 44 years. Three brothers, Carl, Don and Al live in Chicago; another brother Leo and her sisters Mrs. Mary Sliva and Mrs. Emil Miller live in Columbus.

Kathryn Lofthouse, Charlie R. Krijewald Wed in Evening Ceremony at Holdrege

At a candlelight ceremony on Sept. 14, Kathryn June Lofthouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raphael Sodergren of Woodbridge, Va., became the bride of Charlie Rodney Krijewald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Krijewald of Ord.

The double-ring ceremony was solemnized by Dr. Clarence Hall at the Bethel Lutheran Church in Holdrege. Daniel Vaughan, cousin of the bride, presented the organ recital of classical music including "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring," "Communion" and "Prelude and Fugue in E Minor." During the ceremony Mr. Vaughan played an organ arrangement of "The Lord's Prayer."

Two altar vases with large white mums, white gladioluses, and greens adorned the altar. Two seven-branch candelabra entwined the greenery and an organ candelabra with blue daisies and white sweetheart roses completed the altar setting.

A white aisle carpet marked the path for the bride to follow. The aisle was closed with ribbons and white ribbon bows marked each pew.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride chose a Camelot gown of silk-faced peau with a jewel neckline. The trumpet sleeves were trimmed with bands of pearl beading. A court train was attached by bows and pearls at the shoulders, and the floor-length veil of bridal illusion fell from a cluster of imported lace spattered with seed pearls. The new Mrs. Krijewald carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and stephanotis, accented with ivy.

Serving as matron of honor was Jacqueline Remington, cousin of the bride. She wore a floor-length gown of powder blue "Crystal" style in Camelot lines with a jewel neckline and trumpet sleeves. The empire waist was accented with a belt of blue velvet ribbon matching the headpiece. Mrs. Remington carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies and blue baby's breath.

The bridesmaids, all attired identically to the matron of honor, were Kristin Benson and Karin Benson, both of Holdrege, and Carolyn Hensley of Loup City, all cousins of the bride, plus Rebecca Harman of Beatrice and Patricia Krijewald of Ord, sister of the bridegroom.

Richard Calver of Lincoln served as the groom's best man. Ushers were Samuel Johnston, Garry Whiting and Thomas Thomas, all of Hastings, David Vaughan and Dennis Remington of Holdrege.

Christine Remington and Beth Benson, flower girls, wore powder blue dresses under white eye-lit pinafores. They each carried white baskets filled with blue daisies. Mark Benson was the ringbearer. He wore a white tuxedo with navy turtle neck and navy knee socks.

Carolee Benson and Beth Hensley, attired identically to the bridesmaids and carrying white tapers with ribbon streamers, were the candlelighters. Lori Benson was the junior bridesmaid and wore a white Camelot-style dress similar to the bride's and carried a smaller version of the bride's bouquet.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given in the church social hall. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Benson. The thre-tiered white wedding cake was decorated in white and silver with a silver wedding cross on top.

The service table was accented by a flower and candelabra arrangement. Mrs. John Vaughan presided at the guest book.

The bride's going away outfit was a burgundy and pink dress with matching burgundy coat of silk worsted material and brown accessories.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of Francis C. Hammond High School in Alexandria, Va. She attended Hastings College, where she was a member of Alpha Phi Sigma sorority, and the Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond, Va.

The groom is a 1964 graduate of Ord High School. He has attended Kearney State College and the Central Nebraska Technical School in Hastings, from which he graduated this summer. After a wedding trip to Minnesota, the couple will reside in

Showered With Gifts
A pink and blue shower was given for Mrs. Doug Hanks of Burwell Sunday at the Cleon Honsa farm home. Mrs. James Zikmund was hostess for the afternoon party, and Mrs. Hansen her co-hostess. Appropriate games were played, gifts were opened, and refreshments served.

Those attending with the honoree were Mrs. Frank Strohschick of Grand Island; Mrs. Jerry Ulrich and Heather; North Platte; Mrs. Jake Foster and Mrs. Dean Peterson, Ericson; Mrs. John Hanks, Burwell; and Mrs. Marlin Hansen, Mrs. Grace Rice, Mrs. Velma Meese, Mrs. Alvin Wells, Mrs. Lydia Zikmund, Mrs. Valerie Hiser, Mrs. George Piskorski and Tara, Mrs. Mito Florian and Doris Bower.

Well Attended
Eleven members attended the Junior Matron Club meeting last Friday afternoon when Mrs. Frank Pafaita was hostess. The next meeting will be Oct. 4 with Mrs. F. L. Blessing.

Baptized Roger Jay
Roger Jay, three week old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carson Rogers was baptized Sunday by Rev. Stanley Gorak. Roxann and Russell Rogers were the sponsors for their baby brother.

SPANISH RICE
6 slices bacon
1 c. rice
1 c. chopped onion
2 t. paprika
3 c. canned tomatoes
1 t. salt

Cut the bacon into pieces and cook until brown. Remove the bacon and brown the rice slightly in the bacon fat, stirring as it browns. Stir in the onions and cook until they are clear. Add the bacon, tomato, salt and paprika. Cover and bring to a boil. Turn heat to low, or put rice in double boiler and cook for 45 minutes or until rice is done. Stir occasionally — add more water or tomato if needed. Makes six servings.

Canadian Fishing Trip Earns Big Pike for Pair

By Norma Fink
Richard Foss of Petersburg and Leon Foulk returned Thursday night from a two-week fishing trip to Minnesota and Canada, where they camped at Trout River Lodge near Ontario. The men were proud of their catches — Leon snagged a 20-pound northern pike, and Richard hooked a 24-pound pike.

Dry Cedar Club Meets
The Dry Cedar Extension Club met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Gene Swanson, with nine members and two visitors present. The visitors were Mrs. Orval Epenbach and Mrs. Gerald Steele.

Mrs. Norris Carstens gave a very interesting lesson on "Business Facts for the Homemakers." Club members welcomed Mrs. Steele as a new member, and at the close of the meeting the hostess served a delicious lunch.

Visiting From Oregon
Mr. and Mrs. George White of Eugene, Ore., are visiting in the homes of their sons, Elvis and Jim White and families, as well as friends and old neighbors in the Ericson area.

Newcomers Welcomed
The Dry Cedar community held a supper and welcome party at the schoolhouse to honor Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Steele and family, who moved into the community during the month of August. A large crowd attended the supper and social.

Rancherettes Gather
The Rancherettes Extension Club met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Peter Dahlsten, with 11 members present. Mrs. Floyd Olson gave the lesson on "Using Homegrown Tomatoes." Lunch was served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

Helping Sick in Alabama
Bea Andrews has left for Birmingham, Ala., to be with her two sisters-in-law who are quite ill and in the hospital there. Bea had stayed since April in the home of her sister, Mrs. Archie Watson, and family, and had visited other sisters and their families in Ericson. After an indefinite stay with her sisters-in-law she plans to return to Ericson.

Visiting From California
Mrs. Ruth Bragg of Gardena, Calif., recently visited in the home of her mother, Mrs. Ella Emry, and with other relatives and friends at Ericson. After visiting a few days she left for Pittsburgh to spend some time with her niece, and expected to visit in Philadelphia and New York City. She also planned to spend a short time with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Signer in Chicago, before returning to Ericson for a short visit en route home.

Released
Mrs. Ronald Watson was dismissed from the Burwell Community Hospital Saturday after being a patient there for the past week. She does not plan to open her beauty shop until she is much improved.

Workers Assemble
The Willing Workers Club met at the home of Dale Baker on Tuesday with 11 members present. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Hilda Foulk Oct. 15.

Attend Wedding
Mr. and Mrs. Stan Skalka and family went to Hastings Saturday morning and attended the wedding of her nephew, Dave Johnson, and Pat Cash. The ceremony was performed at St. Cecilia's Catholic Church in Hastings.

Personals
Mr. and Mrs. Everett Woepfel went to North Loup Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Cecil Hallner attended the locker for them. She also assisted there Friday when the Woepfels went to Hastings so Mrs. Woepfel could consult a specialist.

Ladies attending the D.C.C.W. at Ashton Thursday were Mrs. William Schmeis, Mrs. Stan Kovarik, Mrs. Jim Vech, Mrs. Stanley Skalka, Mrs. Gilbert Studnicka, Mrs. Victor Bodyfield and Mrs. Charles Davlin and Mary. This was an all-day meeting and was the organization's 29th annual convention.

North Loup News

Street Improvements Include Dustproofing, Culvert Markers

By Hannah Sheldon
North Loup residents appreciate the new roads that have been dustproofed around the business district. Approximately 10 blocks have been completed with the first coat of dustproofing. It is recommended that the roads have two more coats of asphalt before they are really considered finished. This is a start in improving our town, and officials have indicated that if this is what the residents want there will possibly be more dustproofing next year.

Other improvements are the posts and reflectors marking ends of the culverts at intersections, which will help keep drivers from running off the ends of them.

Study of Genesis
Ruth Circle met Wednesday evening at the Methodist Church with Mrs. Chuck Lundstedt and Mrs. Don Benben as hostesses. They also presented a slide lesson which covered the first two chapters of Genesis. Eight members and one guest were present. The next meeting will be a covered dish supper Oct. 3 at the church building for all who have children in Sunday School. Persons attending should bring a covered dish; however, meat will be furnished.

They Agree
Harmony Club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Lyle Rasmussen. The following new officers were elected: Mrs. Charles Lundstedt, president; Mrs. Eloyd Smith, vice-president; and Mrs. Dean Rasmussen, secretary-treasurer. Nine members were present, and Mrs. Rasmussen and Mrs. Stanley Barr conducted the lesson on "Meal Planning."

Neighbors Help Make Plans
Neighborhood Helpers Club met with Mrs. Leonard Edwards Wednesday with five members present. They planned their lessons for the coming year and took care of old business. The next meeting will be held Oct. 16 at the home of Mrs. Vic Benben.

Officers Installed
Fortnightly Club met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Joe Gregory, with Irma Keown as co-hostess. Twenty-four members and one visitor, Mrs. Charles Devine, were present. Installation of officers was conducted by Zola Schudel. Those inaugurated were Helen Fisher, president; Marguerite Scott, vice-president; Katherine Davis, secretary; and Irma Keown, treasurer.

The lesson on "Stocks and Bonds" was given by Margaret Schudel. The next meeting will be held Oct. 2 with Lal Pokraka and Neva Fisher as hostesses.

Neighbors Sing
Neighborhood Club met Thursday with Anna Otto. Ten members and one visitor, Stella O'Day, from California, answered roll call by telling what they had done during the summer.

After a business meeting the ladies enjoyed some group singing and a few word scramble games. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

W.S.C.S. Meeting
W.S.C.S. met Wednesday at the North Loup Methodist Church parlor with 13 members present. Mrs. Clark gave devotions and had charge of the lesson, and a business meeting was conducted.

Pinocle Players Play
The pinocle club met Friday afternoon with Mrs. Rusty Peterson. Mrs. Vesta Ingerham was a guest, and 11 members were present. Charlotte Jensen won low and Marge Scott high. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Genevieve Hoepner Oct. 4.

BPW Elects
The North Loup Business and Professional Women's Club met last Tuesday at the North Loup Cafe party room for supper. Mrs. Vera Anderson and Alice Schudel were hostesses. Election of officers was held, and the following were selected: Mrs. Opal Beebe, president; Beulah Stine, vice-president; Agnes Manhester, secretary; and Mrs. Vera Anderson, courtesy committee chairman. The card tables were decorated with a fall design, and the napkins were dotted with fall leaves. Pinocle was played to finish the evening.

Mrs. Winnie Williams and Mrs. Retha Bridge are two new members. Hostesses for the next meeting will be Mrs. Vernece Fortis and Mrs. Mary Sims.

Rollerskating Scheduled
The North Loup Lions Club is sponsoring rollerskating, starting Sept. 28 at 7:30 p.m. Plans are to have skating for all every other Saturday evening till next May. Other plans include a Teen Night, with skating to be scheduled one Saturday evening each month. Also on schedule are private skating parties. Anyone interested in a private party may contact John Hamer or Emil Hrebec.

Chevrolet introduces 1969.

Caprice. Match this, you other 69's!
There is no joy in the land of our competitors today. But let us ask you this. Should we have made Caprice shorter instead of the longest Chevrolet ever built? Or adorned it with flashy nicknacks to make it look less expensive? Just because competition doesn't, should we not have offered you washers to clean your headlights, new variable-ratio power steering, liquid tire chain you can apply to your rear wheels at the touch of a button? Should we have given you less power, instead of the largest standard V8 in its field? Some people think so. Our competitors.

'69 Camaro SS Sport Coupe, plus RS equipment
Standard V8 is 210 hp. SS engines available up to 325 hp. For added SS appeal: sport striping; power disc brakes; wide oval, road-hugging tires. Your Chevrolet dealer offers this advice: Go on, you other sportsters. Gnash your gears and look tough. Maybe it will help. Putting you first, keeps us first.

Realigned Chants To Host Albion in Home Opener

...ching for one of six passes he caught Friday night against Ord, Holdrege receiver Gary Harlan is used by defender Dan Holtz. Harlan got 156 yards and one touchdown out of his six receptions. Holtz is one of Ord's best defenders in its first two games, Holtz was sidelined Monday with a broken foot.

Tough Holdrege Drops Chants, 18-7; Oilers Get Only Three First Downs

Fumbles Lost	0 2
Time of Possession	7:39 5:41

The miracle workers could not get up with only one Friday night, and that wasn't nearly enough to keep Ord from losing its first football game of the season, 18-7 to Holdrege.

Ord's Augustyn hauled the second half kickoff back 95 yards to the Chanticleer hopes a boost to restore prospects for a repeat of the previous week's win against Gothenburg. In that contest Ord spent most of the night on the defensive, but came up with five big plays to a 26-14.

Such was not the case this Friday, however, as Holdrege dominated play following Augustyn's punt of triumph.

As in the first game, lack of control hurt the Chants. This time the statistics showed Holdrege running 66 plays to only 17 for Ord. The week before the team almost doubled Ord this department.

In first downs it was even worse. There the totals were 17 for Ord and 17 for Holdrege.

Nevertheless, the Chants stayed in a challenging position until way through the third quarter.

Holdrege opened the game with a touchdown on its first drive. Driving from its own 20-yard line, the home team used 10 plays to go the distance. Ined in those nine plays was a full fourth and three situation on Ord 43 when fullback Jeff Peterson, who cracked the Chant line consistently for big gains, one yard more than he needed.

On the next play quarterback Rex Logemann threw to Gary Harlan who was caught at the Ord two-yard line. Then Anderson was called on again, and he delivered. When the kick was missed, Holdrege led by 6-0 with slightly over three minutes of playing time gone.

The teams battled that way until just before halftime when John Linke recovered a fumbled pitch-back for Ord at the Holdrege 15.

With high hopes of going into the dressing room tied or ahead by one point, the Chants saw just the opposite of what they hoped for happen. First it was no go through the Holdrege line as two running tries netted a loss of four yards. Then Dick Janda took to the air, and his third-down pass was picked off by Ernie Riley and returned to the Holdrege 47. From that point Logemann again hit Harlan, and this time there was no stepping the 165-pound flyer as he scooted into the Ord end zone well ahead of his closest pursuer.

Again the extra point try failed, and with 54 seconds to go in the half Holdrege was ahead, 12-0.

Augustyn's kickoff return was the one bright spot in an otherwise dismal night for Ord. He took the ball on his own 5, veered toward the right sideline, and sailed 95 yards virtually untouched as his blockers cleared a gaping path. Dennis Cetak's good kick made the score 12-7, and Ord was back in the game.

It was not to last, however.

On the second series Holdrege took possession at the Ord 43 and marched in for the clinching touchdown. The Ord defense, which had previously contained the Duster running game fairly well, suddenly came apart. The Holdrege line punched huge holes in the left side of the Ord defensive front, permitting the Dusters to march the 43 yards without throwing a pass. Anderson was the big gun, getting 34 yards including the last three. Again the point try was no good, ending the scoring at 18-7.

From that point on Holdrege dominated play although it failed to score. Ord didn't get another first down, and never got out of its end of the field.

Holdrege threatened once more, getting to the Ord 18 before Spencer Douthit recovered a fumble for the Chants.

The incept Ord offense had only three decent shots at the Holdrege goal line all night. In addition to their futile bid late in the second half, the Chants got to the Duster 29 once and to the 22 once.

The winners missed on one excellent first half chance when time ran out as they lined up at the Ord 5. Dan Holtz had just made a saving tackle at that point.

Never able to mount a sustained drive, Ord was plagued by poor blocking as well as a bad passing game. Janda completed only two of 17 throws and had four intercepted. However, several times his receivers dropped well thrown balls. Ron Bredthauer, who received statewide recognition from the Omaha World-Herald for his play against Gothenburg the previous week, muffed three.

Mike Winterfeld led the Ord defensive statistics with 12 tackles. Bill Miller and Douthit each had 10.

Ord 0 0 7 0-7
Holdrege 6 6 6 0-18
H-Anderson 2 run (kick failed).
H-Harlan 93 pass from Logemann (kick failed).
O-Augustyn 95 kickoff return (Cetak kick).
H-Anderson 3 run (kick failed).

New faces and new positions will sprinkle Ord's starting lineup when the Chanticleers make their 1968 home debut tomorrow night against Albion. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

In an effort to get more blocking, Coach Dave Van Nordheim has made a couple of position changes and added at least three new names to his probable offensive lineup.

Going to the bench will be quarterback Dick Janda and split end Ron Bredthauer, stars of Ord's opening 26-14 win over Gothenburg, as well as tight end Bill Miller.

Senior letterman Tim Markley will move over from slot-back to assume the quarterbacking duties, while Bredthauer will be replaced by junior Paul Markowski. Miller's replacement will be Mark Peterson, who's been the starting center in Ord's two previous contests.

Taking Markley's place at slot-back will be senior letterman Mike Winterfeld, until now a defensive specialist only. Bill Vanzandt, letterman senior and part-time starter last year, will get the call at center.

"We weren't getting any blocking, and we've got to have it for our offense to go," Van Nordheim said in announcing the changes.

He also contemplates one more switch on offense. Junior Bruce Worm, who did a creditable job in a starting defensive role last week, may get the call over senior Hugh Wilson at left guard.

Markowski will also move into the starting defensive line, replacing either Bredthauer or Peterson. Bob Peterson, a junior, is being considered as a replacement for Miller at linebacker, and junior Dennis Kamarad will take over one of the inside safety positions from Dan Holtz.

That last change, however, is not by choice. Holtz broke a foot in practice Monday and will be lost for some time.

"I had been playing real well," harried VanNordheim reported yesterday. Holtz was the second man he had lost at that position. Bill Klanecky, scheduled to be the starter there, broke a hand a week before the season opened.

Now 1-1 after an 18-7 loss to Holdrege, Ord won't find the competition getting any easier. Albion bombed O'Neill, 52-0, last week after opening with a 33-21 win over Newman Grove.

"O'Neill is down this year, but Albion still looked very good," Junior High Coach Don Nekuda reported after scouting the Cardinals in last week's game.

"They're quick, and they're aggressive. But we can beat them if we play up to our potential," he added. "We're bigger than they are, and we should be able to punish them physically."

VanNordheim echoed Nekuda's comments.

"If we play like we're capable of, I know we can win it," he said. "But if we continue to slough off, it's going to be a long night."

"We looked a lot better in practice Tuesday," he added.

This will be Markley's first crack at the quarterback position under game conditions. However, he has been working in practice there all along.

Ord Junior High Rocks Albion, 25-7; Barr of Grand Island Scheduled Today

...tolling up a 19-0 halftime advantage. Ord's junior high football team frolicked to a 25-7 victory over Albion in last week's season opener.

The Chicks will play their first home game this afternoon (Thursday) when they host Barrior High of Grand Island. Kickoff time is 3:30 p.m.

A balanced rushing attack and tight defense helped Ord's first half build up the three-touchdown lead against Albion; then comes took over with four minutes to go in the first half and kept the home team to a standstill the rest of the way. All 34 members of the traveling squad went into the game.

Ord scored on its second series as fullback Larry Wells broke off tackle for the final 16 yards in a lengthy drive. Wells scored twice more in the second quarter and ran across one rapoint try.

The final Chick touchdown came in the fourth quarter when 1 Ziegler, a defensive end, opened up an Albion fumble and scrambled 36 yards to the 1 zone.

Albion also scored in the third quarter.

Coach Don Nekuda credited the entire Ord team with an outstanding defensive game, but said right tackle Jim Martin is especially tough.

Wells led the rushers with 195 yards and a 7-yard average. Leon Schill was second with 89 yards and an average of 6.8, but only had the best average with four carries for 45 yards.

Cross-Country Unit Finishes Third in Broken Bow Meel

Not content with the football beating it gave Ord last Friday, Holdrege added insult to injury by defeating the local cross-country team Saturday in a three-way race at Broken Bow.

Holdrege took four of the first five places to win easily with only 21 points. Broken Bow was second with 46 and Ord third with 72.

Roger Cahill of Ord prevented Holdrege from sweeping the first four places as he ran second in 10 minutes, 50 seconds. That was six seconds behind winner Bob Cummings of Holdrege, and also six seconds behind Cahill's own time of the previous week.

Alan Cahill was the second best Ord finisher, in 16th place. All seven runners from both Holdrege and Broken Bow bettered that, although only the first five counted in the team standings. That moved Cahill up to 12th in the final tally.

Results:
(1) Bob Cummings, Holdrege, 10:44; (2) Roger Cahill, Ord, 10:50; (3) Charlie Mintzmeier, Holdrege, 11:38; (4) Doug Anderson, Holdrege, 11:42; (5) Dan Jones, Broken Bow, 11:51; (6) Dave Owens, Broken Bow, 11:56; (7) Cortland Anderson, Broken Bow, 11:57; (8) Brian Borden, Holdrege, 11:57; (9) Alan Verdier, Broken Bow, 11:58; (10) Matt Lane, Broken Bow, 11:59; (11) Tom Christensen, Broken Bow, 11:43; (12) Alan Cahill, Ord, 12:07; (13) Don Sedick, Ord, 12:14; (14) Duane Kovarik, Ord, 12:15; (15) Greg Martin, Ord, 12:23.
Other Ord finishers: Dan Chickster, 12:25; Randy Hamco, 12:56.

NOXIOUS WEEDS

I will say this much about the farmers and ranchers and the women of Valley County. They all worked hard to kill Musk Thistle this spring and summer and it is time to do it again this fall. The Musk Thistle rosettes are showing up now and a lot of them are in places where the seed laid over from last year. Now is a good time to spray the rosettes. If we all work together and kill Musk Thistle, we will put Valley County on top of the list in a year or two.

If you have noxious weed problems or your neighbor has some noxious weeds that are not taken care of, call your weed superintendent or one of the noxious weed board members. They will try and help you and your neighbor, if it is advice you need about noxious weeds.

If you have a good neighbor, keep him that way and try and be a good neighbor yourself. Kill Musk Thistle!

Final Services Conducted Friday At Catholic Church for LaVerne Pesta

Funeral services for LaVerne Pesta, 33, were conducted Friday morning at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church, with Rev. Stanley Gorak officiating. The former Ord man died of cancer Sept. 15 in Casper, Wyo.

Pallbearers were Bill Wetzel, Derrel Barnes, Glen Watts, Don Walker, Darrel Smith and Stanley Absalon. Interment with full military rites was in the Ord Catholic Cemetery. Rosary was recited Thursday evening at the Hastings-Pearson Chapel.

Mr. Pesta was born at Ord Mar. 1, 1935, the son of Josef and Lillian (Trub) Pesta. He attended Ord High School and completed his education while serving with the Army from July 31, 1953, to July 19, 1960. After receiving his service discharge at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., he was employed by the Platte Valley Construction Co. of Grand Island for several years.

At the time of his death he was superintendent of construction for Morrison-Knudson Contractors of Boise, Idaho, on a project in Southeast Asia being performed by RMK-BR, a combination of six construction firms doing work for the United States government. This was his second tour there.

His illness began while at Cam Ranh Bay, South Vietnam, and on July 22 he returned to the United States to enter the Veterans Hospital at Denver, Colo. He also received treatment from doctors at the Eleanor Roosevelt Cancer Research Center, located adjacent to the Veterans Hospital.

Five days before his death he was dismissed from the hospital, at his request, and went to Casper, Wyo., to be with friends. He became seriously ill at Casper and was taken to the Natrona County Memorial Hospital where he passed away.

Mr. Pesta was a member of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church.

Survivors are one sister, Mrs. Josephine Taylor of Omaha; one brother, Master Chief Joseph Eugene Pesta of San Diego, Calif.; and four nephews. He was preceded in death by his parents, two brothers, and one sister.

Mrs. Frank Motil, Mrs. Kenneth Bunnell and Mrs. Eldon Sich accompanied Mrs. Emanuel Vodehnal to Broken Bow Tuesday for the fall Presbyterial meeting.

Area Couple's Kin Serving With Navy On Hospital Craft

The grandson of a North Loup couple recently completed his fourth month of sea duty with the United States Navy.

Boatswain Mate Steven P. Schudel, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones, is serving aboard the hospital ship U.S.S. Sanctuary, currently off the coast of Da Nang, South Vietnam.

Wounded servicemen are flown by helicopter directly from the battlefield to the ship for treatment. It recently returned to Vietnamese waters after taking on a new store of medical and other supplies at a Philippine port.

Schudel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Schudel of Corvallis, Ore. They are former residents of a North Loup.

A 1968 graduate of Corvallis High School, the young sailor served a year and a half with the National Guard before transferring to the Navy. He was assigned to his ship after completing six weeks of training at San Diego, Calif.

Schudel's address is B-844059, U. S. Sanctuary, AH-17, Division I Deck, FPO San Francisco, Calif. 96601.

Former Ordite Rose Suchanek Dies in Tacoma

Mrs. Rose Suchanek, 53, died Sept. 11 in a Tacoma, Wash., hospital after a long illness.

The former Ord business woman — she was half owner of the Rose 'n' Bo's Tavern with her brother — was born Dec. 24, 1914, in Ord. She was married to Ed Suchanek, and in 1956 they left Ord to make their home in Tacoma where they owned and operated the Corregidor Tavern.

In addition to her husband, survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Marie Shadt of Tacoma, Wash.; a sister, Mrs. Mary Conner of Ord; two brothers, Bud and Edward Holcek, both of Ord; and two grandchildren.

Services for Mrs. Suchanek were held in the Valley Chapel Mountain View Funeral Home Sept. 16 with the Rev. Eugene Sabin officiating. Mrs. Maurice Owens, organist, accompanied Harry Aldrich who sang "Rock of Ages" and "God Be With You, Till We Meet Again." Interment was in the Mountain View Memorial Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Bo Holcek attended the services for his sister.

Geweke Helps 'Husker Judges To Fifth Place

Don Geweke of Ord placed 18th in individual standings, helping the University of Nebraska take fifth place at a recent livestock judging contest held in conjunction with the National Barrow Show.

Big Eight schools dominated the intercollegiate competition as Missouri took first, Iowa State second, and Kansas State fourth in addition to Nebraska's fifth. Purdue of the Big Ten was third.

Keneth Sawyer of Paxton was the highest individual finisher for Nebraska, taking 14th place. Other members of the Cornhusker team were Tom Deamont of Rose, Larry Nelson of Alliance, and Gary White of Lexington.

The contest was held Sept. 9 in Austin, Minn. Announcement of the final results was delayed because of an error in placings revealed after the show.

Thirteen schools participated in the contest.

Tiny Gospel Singer To Perform in Ord

Lowell Mason, who's billed as the world's smallest gospel singer, will present a "Revival Fires" concert Tuesday at the Ord Christian Church.

Standing only 3 feet 10 inches tall, Mason sang for seven years with the American Broadcasting Co. He is currently recording for Diadem Records and is director of music for the "Revival Fires" team. This group has been operating throughout the country in evangelistic work.

During the concert Mason will sing a 60 minute selection of gospel songs and will conclude with a presentation on the "Revival Fires" radio and television work.

Arctic Visit

Nome. Now the population stands at 3,200.

Before we got back to Nome we encountered a dog sled team of 11 huskies and their driver. He told us how he trains his dogs.

Sometimes it's very difficult to find dogs that will work together, he said. Like humans they fight mostly about food and women.

He raced his dogs alongside the bus to give us an idea of their speed. Sometimes when the snow is too deep for any other means of conveyance, he uses his team to haul supplies from town for himself and neighbors.

Boarding our aircraft for the return trip to Anchorage, we were sure we would long remember this part of our visit to Alaska.

By the way, the old ditch walker had his five gallons of blueberries picked for Brownie.

Friends
 Friendship Circle of the United Methodist Women's Society met Friday afternoon at the church. Bertha Milburn was assisted by Pearl Christ and Marie Weddel in giving devotions.

The new circle chairman, Phyllis Gould, presided at the business meeting. A covered dish lunch was served.

Picnic Peaceful

Fussy Villains Doing Lot Less Feudin', Much More Talkin' in These Latter Days

Time has mellowed the folks of Fussysville, but they can still spin some pretty tall tales. All was calm and serene at the Fussysville alumni group's annual picnic, held in North Loup during Popcorn Days, but there were still plenty of good stories floating around.

Jack Romans of Broken Bow, chairman of this year's picnic committee, had a good formula for determining which of the various stories were true.

"If it sound absurd then it's probably true," he said.

One fussy villain said the first time he knew a neighbor could be nice occurred after he was completely grown. Requesting anonymity for obvious reasons, this individual said he was on his way home from a very social function when he ran into a neighbor with whom discussions were usually settled by fistfuffs.

After a night of celebrating, the speaker was in no condition to settle anything through physical violence, so he braced himself for the beating of his life. To his astonishment, the condescending neighbor helped him home.

"That was the first time I knew anyone around there could be nice," he related.

Another said things weren't that bad, especially among the women folk.

"We kids were always told to stay away from the neighbor's place," he said, "but quite often we'd sneak over anyway. If the neighbor woman saw us, she'd give us cookies and things like that. But of course if the old man saw us that was another story. He'd run us off the place."

Various rumors have cropped up down through the years as to how Fussysville got its name, but Willis Plate says he has the gospel truth.

"Everybody was fussing about what to name the new school-house way back when," Plate said, "so when they couldn't settle on a name they just called it Fussysville."

Even after picnic adjourned, old Fussysvillers kept the chatter going.

All told, more than 50 former residents of Fussysville and neighboring communities showed up for this year's picnic. Out-of-town guests included:

Mrs. Ora (Leach) McDonald, Mrs. Ione Leach, and Mrs. Ada (Springer) Thompson of Portland, Ore.; Mrs. Floyd Harris, Omaha; Ralph Huebner and Horace Davis, Lincoln; Mr. and Mrs. Morris Anderson, St. Paul; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Houtby, Wolbach; Myrtle (Fenton) Smith, Toole, Utah; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Romans, North Platte; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Romans, Broken Bow; Mrs. George Gans, Dannebrog; Ethel Kasson, Bremerton, Wash.; Mrs. Rose Cahill, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Mulligan, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Woods, Ord; Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Nolte, Seward; and Mrs. Lois Brown and Mrs. Ray Van Slyke, Scotia.

Those present decided to hold another picnic next Popcorn Days.

Home Again

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hisek and family brought Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sevenker home Saturday. The Sevenkers had been in Lincoln the last five weeks where Mr. Sevenker was receiving treatment following surgery. The Hiseks spent the weekend with relatives, returning to their home in Fremont on Sunday.

Oscar Austin Dies

Chester Austin learned Friday evening of the death of his brother, Oscar Austin, who died Thursday in a Fruitland, Idaho, hospital. Details are lacking, however, it is known that he had been in failing health for several months.

Three Bilka Men Now Serving In Armed Forces

All three sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Bilka are now serving in the armed forces.

Their youngest son, Benjamin, left earlier this month for Fort Lewis, Wash., where he is undergoing six weeks of basic training with the Army. He hasn't received his permanent assignment yet, but he has requested duty in the field of aircraft electronics.

The middle son, Marvin, is a staff sergeant, also with the Army. He and his family left earlier this week for Fort Benning, Ga., where they will be stationed. The family had lived in Ord for the past year while Sergeant Bilka served a tour in Vietnam. He has been in the Army 10

Inger Glarborg Dies At Aberdeen, Idaho

Inger Marie Glarborg, 79, died Sept. 12 in the Power County Hospital at Lava Hot Springs, Idaho, after a brief illness.

Mrs. Glarborg was born Dec. 22, 1888, in Denmark to Chris and Anne Jensen Christensen and came to the United States in 1914, settling in Nebraska. She married George Glarborg on Mar. 11, 1916, at Elba, and they years. Lumbert is the oldest of the three Bilka sons, and he is a 16-year Air Force veteran. He is now assigned to Patrick AFB near Cape Kennedy, Fla., where he holds the rank of staff sergeant.

The three sons were together for the first time in nine years last summer.

farmed in Nebraska until 1935. Then they moved to Idaho and farmed in the Aberdeen and Spring areas until he retired in 1954.

After retirement they lived at Lava Hot Springs. Mrs. Glarborg was a member of the Lutheran Church.

Survivors include her husband; three sons, Earl of Aberdeen, Idaho, Arnold of Blackfoot, Idaho, and George Jr. of Paul, Idaho; three daughters, Mrs. Willam (Anna) Adamek, Blackfoot, Idaho, Mrs. Alvin (Eileen) Krantzler, American Falls, Idaho, and Mrs. Stanley (Bernice) Jensen, Bersford, S. D.; 21 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren; two sisters living in the United States; and one sister and six brothers in Denmark.

Funeral services were held Sept. 16 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Aberdeen, Idaho. Burial was in the Aberdeen, Cemetery.

Johnson Motors, the new American Motors dealership in Ord will have their official opening Thursday & Friday, September 26-27

Yes, we're opening our doors. On our new showroom, our new service facility, and especially our cars.

Because we believe that a customer can't make a judgment about a car without getting in there and looking, and trying, and squeezing upholstery.

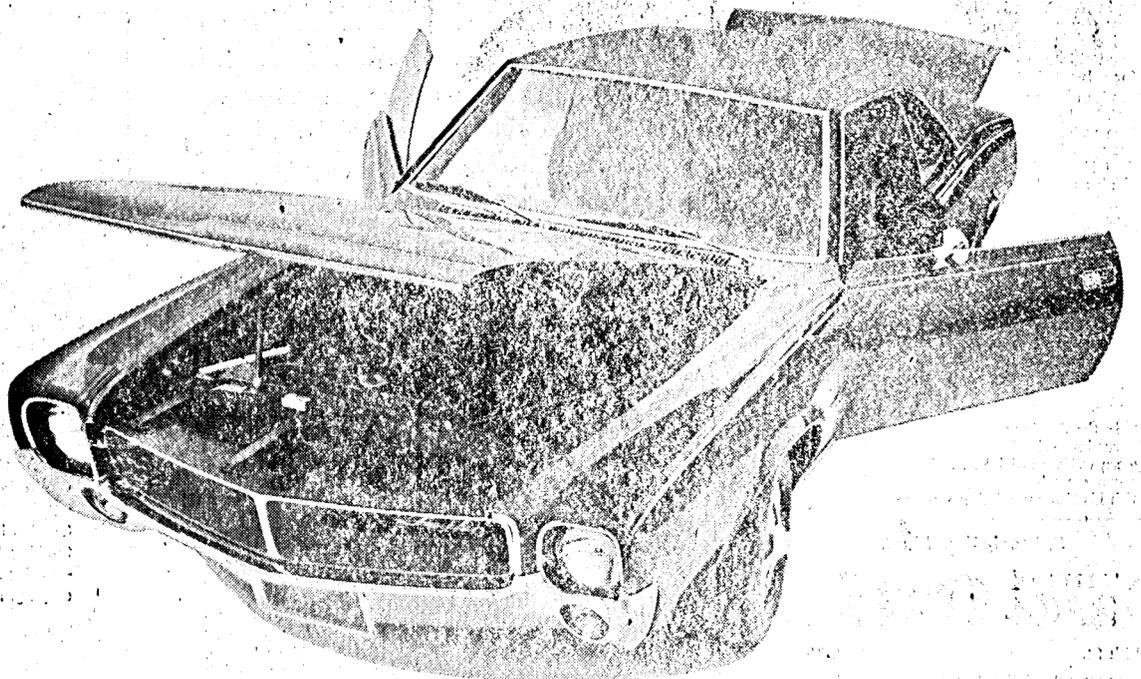

So when you come in, please don't feel bashful about asking a salesman to open the hood. Or even the trunk.

Whether you're shopping for a car, or just browsing. After all, you wouldn't browse in a bookstore without opening a book, would you?

There's another reason for you to dig. American Motors puts a lot more into its line than you can find by just looking from a respectable three feet away. Ask one of our salesmen. He'll be glad to point things out to you.

He never can tell, you know. You might be a customer.

KERRY ON By Kerry Leggett

—thoughts—
When hate and jealousy and envy crowd the mind, love dies. Faith and hope succumb dying slowly on a sick bed of a poisoned mind.
In the sinister shadow of selfishness you withered and died. The teardrops you shed were like petals from the dying rose.
Scarred and seathed, your soul lays in the coffin to be mourned and forgotten.
Self-destruction was yours from the start. The cancerous destruction was evident from the start... merely a question of time until total destruction was eminent.
That which destroys itself dies a tormentous death. Unlike other diseases, the mind destroys the body.
For the survivors? A loss will be lasting where faith and love are mourned. But sadness cannot and hope exist.
There will be another tomorrow.

row — as there always are tomorrow. Other lives... other faces... other times... other places... these will fill the void.
Regretful? Yes.
But the heart that knows love — that can love and be loved — that is the heart that will live in exuberant existence. That is the heart that will live on! To stare mightily into the face of adversity and the smile, the reconciling smile of forgiveness. That's life. That's living.
Too late to know that goodness and mercy will follow you all the days of your life... as it is written. Too late to know the meaning of these words.
And it was written, "No man is an island." Now... now you have been washed away... forever a part of the sea of malcontent.

Vietnam and the U.N.

In his quest for world peace, the secretary general of the United Nations this week suggested a resolution demanding that the United States stop all bombing of North Vietnam.

U Thant's contention is that such a halt would lead promptly to "meaningful" negotiations.

At the same press conference where Thant made that suggestion, he also said he did not approve of Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia. But it was clear he thought the Russian crime was not nearly so great as that of the United States in Vietnam.

"If the Russians were to bomb and napalm the people of Czechoslovakia, please wait to hear what I would have to say," Thant said as he refused to endorse sanctions against the Soviets.

His apparently earnest desire for world peace is commendable. His warped impression of how to bring it about is not.

The Burmese diplomat was among the early hailers of President Johnson's decision last March to restrict the bombing over 90 percent of North Vietnam. He said at that time he felt meaningful negotiations would ensue quickly.

First Statement Completely in Error

Four months after the peace talks started we are no closer to meaningful negotiations than we were when the first Paris session was held May 13. If anything, we are further away because of the wavering position taken by many of our leaders. The Communists are thus even more confident that they can wheedle greater and greater concessions from us if they hold out long enough.

Should we restrict the bombing completely, they have already set the stage for other demands by calling for a complete cessation "of all acts of war." This could be interpreted to mean complete withdrawal from South Vietnam.

Now that U Thant has been proved so absolutely wrong in his earlier statement about the March bombing pause, the wise sage of international diplomacy comes out with another indirect suggestion.

Like the first, it appears to be so much wishful thinking with no basis in fact. However, it is typical of the stands Thant has taken during his years as head of the U.N. mission.

Consistently he has sided with the Communists, and in a struggle such as that in Vietnam he aims his suggestions solely at the United States rather than requesting both sides scale down the fighting.

Assuming his neutrality is sincere, that can mean only one thing: he addresses his suggestions to the United States because he knows we are the only side willing to listen to him.

A Tale of Two Cities

(From Washington-Exclusive)

By all odds the two most publicized cities in our country are Washington, D.C., and New York City. Washington is forever making news, and unless you read the trade journals you may have missed one newsworthy story. It has mounted a nationwide promotion campaign to attract tourists to the city for the fall season. Massive TV and radio spot announcements, press releases and newspaper advertising are being undertaken. It seems that Washington lost $40 million in tourist business during the riots last April and May.

New York City is making news, too. It has a problem which is making headlines, and a shambles of some of its offices. First you should understand that the present Federal and state minimum wage in New York is $1.60 per hour. An employed worker drawing that pay would earn $3,328 a year — before Social Security and income taxes, federal and state. The fact is that thousands of good citizens work for that figure, and hope for a raise, or look for a better job on their day off.

But under a new welfare payments plan — approved by the State and Federal governments — a family of four receives more than that on welfare. If the oldest child in the family of four is between the age of 6 and 7, the welfare payments come to $3,472 a year. And if the children are older, the gross payments can range as high as $4,144.

But that's only the first part of the problem. Any fool can see that an unskilled worker is a candidate to have his head examined if he chooses to work. And there are a lot of people in New York City who can recognize the difference between $3,328 earned and $3,472 handed over on a platter. However, welfare recipients aren't happy. They want more. The New York Times front-paged a picture story of a welfare office in shambles this way: "A group of about 75 welfare recipients rampaged through three Brooklyn welfare centers yesterday, overturning furniture and barring about 600 caseworkers from the centers. The protesters, mostly women, ripped telephones from walls, scattered papers and three desks into piles in the middle of the intake rooms, which are in the same building in downtown Brooklyn. There were no arrests in the day-long protest. Policemen who watched some of the destruction, said they were helpless without a formal complaint from a welfare official."

You can see why President Johnson chose Mayor Lindsay to help with his riot commission study, can't you?

Something Different

So What Ails You?

One of the nicest things that can happen is to find a letter in your mailbox from Myra Thorngate Barber, for this gal is 100 percent cheer spreader and happy feeler. She's strictly buoyant and optimistic, and a visit with her is a good tonic for whatever ails you.

So, last week I was this lucky, and Myra made my day.

This perky little North Loup product who used to trot about Ord gathering Quiz news enjoyed every minute of it. Whether she stopped at every picnic table in the park and took down the name of each one present, whether she attended a different church every week so as to be impartial about it all, or if you saw her happily chatting on the street with a slowed-down old timer... you could see how greatly she loved doing it.

She was a fine example of an old-time news reporter at work in a small town.

Now Myra has retired to Dodge Center, Minn., where she is close to several other members of her family. Her husband died years ago after a long period of ill health.

She took a little apartment upstairs in a private home. Here she reads a lot, writes some poetry, visits and cooks. She likes to cook and to entertain, and for several years she enjoyed babysitting, for every child is her darling. But her hearing has steadily grown worse, and she's had to give up minding children, she writes. "I could not hear them cry. I still can hug them, however, and do."

Myra also watched the progress of Minnesota's Twins but comments, "I am disgusted with the Twins. However, I am looking forward to the Series."

And she watches TV: "Just between you and me I am getting tired of the pictures of one candidate for president. His picture is in all three papers I take and always on TV. But I suppose a favorite son should have some rights."

(Surprisingly, the native Minnesota presidential candidate doesn't seem to be particularly popular in his home state. Rather like the way Texans feel about President Johnson.)

Mrs. Barber writes, "It is beginning to get pretty here for fall, one tree is really a tree of gold. The others have bits of color here and there and soon all will be red, gold or bronze. There are lots of bushes and golden rod; that makes me think of Nebraska where the wild asters mix in the yellow, a lovely color scheme."

She closes, "My love to you, and all the Quiz gang."

—Irma

P.S. Her address is Dodge Center, Minn., 55927, and she'd appreciate your letter.

Better Coordination Recommended To Chop State Transportation Costs

By Melvin Paul, Statehouse Correspondent, The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — The Little Hoover Commission thinks a state transportation Services Bureau with broad authority for vehicle operations, maintenance and replacement could save the state a lot of money.

The bureau would operate under the Department of Administrative Services as part of a reorganization plan the business-consultants have drafted for Gov. Norbert Tiemann.

The commission said the proposed bureau would "provide guidance to all state agencies in the utilization and operation of state-owned vehicles and would be responsible for monitoring all transportation requirements."

The bureau would also "maintain complete records on each state vehicle and would maintain the best possible utilization of vehicles."

The Hoover report said that by increasing the average utilization of cars to the national average of 28,000 miles per year, an annual savings of at least $180,000 would result.

There would be further savings, the commission said, because pooling of the transportation resources of the state would result in the elimination of substantial numbers of vehicles.

The report recommended establishment of a central motor pool in Lincoln "to increase utilization of the large number of automobiles stationed there and to make cars available to individuals whose travel requirements are less than full time."

Because no pool cars are available now, the report said, the state is paying a high bill in expenses for privately owned cars used for state business.

"Based on the most recent figures available," the commission reported, "the state reimburses employees for the use of their own cars at a rate of approximately $750,000 a year. Through the use of rigid controls and the establishment of motor pool operations, it is estimated that approximately half of this travel could be accomplished in state-owned vehicles."

And the report said the state is losing money by buying gasoline from retail pumps. The commission said the state contract price for gas is 19 cents per gallon and retail prices are more than 30 cents. Whenever possible, fuel should be purchased through a state facility, the report said.

The commission said all state aircraft should be consolidated into the Department of Aeronautics and their use should be scheduled by the Transportation Services Bureau. Agencies such as the Game Commission, the Highway Department, and the National Guard now have their own planes.

The consolidation, the report said, "would make aircraft available to all staff members for use in state travel if this were the most economical means of travel. In addition, there would be flexibility to use various sizes of aircraft, depending on the needs."

A study of the desirability of a commercial transportation office was also recommended.

The Hoover Commission also:

- Suggested the state hire consultants to study the feasibility of a coordinated communications network before expanding the system beyond its original phase.

- Proposed the transfer of responsibility for management of all state records from the secretary of state's office to the Department of Administrative Services.

Call If Public Welfare or Social Service, It Still Comes Out of Taxpayer's Pocket

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The first item on the agenda for the session at the county store Saturday night was a report by the storekeeper. He said he sure wishes the fellers had been there Friday morning when this family drove up in a big air conditioned car pulling one of them houses on wheels. He allowed as how they were really traveling through the Great Society, and he knew Dick Peterson who calls it the Great Plague would liked to have seen the show.

They came in the store, he said, and the tribe of young'uns cleaned out his cold drink box. By that time, the mama had rounded up all the groceries her old man could carry and they were fixing to load it all in that house on wheels when the old man got out a bunch of food stamps.

The storekeeper said he had never seen them stamps until now, and he wasn't about to take 'em in trade. Finally, the map cashed a government check and paid for the stuff, but he was mighty unhappy about having to part with what he called real money.

The fellers weren't sure if the storekeeper made up that tale, but they agreed there was a lot to be learned from it. Fer instance, Eldon Poth said it looks like the only difference in the poor and the well off in this county now is that one uses credit cards on private companies and the other uses 'em on the government. He said he had seen where the Department of Transportation was asking for free car repairs for the poor folks, and he was surprised this family didn't ask the storekeeper to fix the brakes or something.

Dick reported he had looked note where a heap of states were changing the name from the Department of Public Welfare to the Department of Social Services. They claimed the new name was helping their image and one state, Maryland, Dick said, claimed it was getting about twice as many calls now for social services as it used to get for welfare.

Eldon reported he had seen where a Congressman William Roth of Delaware had asked the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for a report on their programs, and they told him it would take 1,600 man-hours to figger 'em up and they were too busy keeping up the good work to stop and count 'em.

Dick was of the opinion "social services" were breeding like germs and it was generally agreed by the fellers that we're badly in need of a strong disinfectant for them kind of germs.

But I reckon, Mister Editor, it's like one Congressman said, it ain't charity, just "assistance" paid for from federal, state, and local taxes. I'll let you figger that one out.

Yours truly,

MARK OF EXCELLENCE

Feeding Period Makes Big Difference

Increasing or decreasing the average feeding period of all steers and heifers by only five to seven days can increase or decrease total beef production by about 1 percent.

This is the cautionary note to cattlemen concerned with maintaining the current rather stable and improving price situation.

The cattle market could continue strong through the balance of this year, and it is even possible that improvement may come slowly PROVIDED that slaughter weights are held down.

The situation calls for restraint and orderly marketing which includes avoidance of cheap feed for excessive weights that would put too much tonnage pressure on an otherwise up-trend and stable market.

To help hold the market stable, cow-calf producers are cautioned about being over-optimistic and holding back too many replacement heifers resulting in undue expansion of the beef cow herd.

Spotted Alfalfa Aphids

Farmers are urged to watch newly seeded alfalfa for spotted alfalfa aphid infestations now. These aphids (they are not greenbugs) are infesting small alfalfa plants at the present time. Only a few aphids per leaf can kill small seedlings. The aphids may continue to develop into October, so it is wise to observe all alfalfa the next two months, especially 1968 seeded fields.

The insect will be found on the underside of leaves and on stems. It is a yellow aphid with small dark spots. When molested it is quite active, and will "jump" off plants. It feeds on the sap of plants, and causes yellowing, wilting, and death of leaves. Great amounts of honeydew, a sticky excretion, are produced.

Insecticides of choice for control of spotted alfalfa aphids are: Parathion at 4-8 ounces per acre; Malathion, 1 pound per acre; Diazinon at 8 ounces per acre; Systox, 4 ounces per acre; and Phosdrin, 2 ounces per acre. We urge you to read the label very carefully and follow directions given there.

Potted Plants

Potted plants which are kept on patios, porches or terraces sometimes disappoint their owner by not looking their best. The two main reasons for this are improper watering and nutrient deficiency. Tips for keeping potted plants in top condition include:

Thorough watering of potted or container-grown plants. Add water until it drains through holes in the bottom of the pot. After several minutes discard water that has passed through the pot. Remember, plants use less water when grown in plastic or other non-porous containers.

Frequent application of small quantities of fertilizer. Many gardeners prefer to use water soluble type fertilizers.

Eat Beef and Keep Slender

There are 10 cuts of beef under 300 calories. Weight watchers can enjoy the same nutritious beef that is served to the rest of the family. Livestock growers and feeders, like producers of other consumer goods, are constantly striving to produce the kind of beef consumers want and need.

By conscientiously putting into practice new knowledge, the cattlemen succeed year in and year out in producing a nutritious product of quality and flavor and streamlined to preferences of modern day consumers.

Nebraska Agribusiness Facts

Total investment in Nebraska farms and ranches is $9.5 billion. Nebraska farm and ranch land and buildings are valued at $6.2 billion.

The holding of crops and livestock by Nebraska farmers and ranchers on Jan. 1, 1968, were worth $1.9 billion.

Gross farm income in 1967 averaged nearly $25,000 per farm for the 78,000 farms and ranches in the state — tenth highest gross return per farm in the country. Expenditures for production amounted to $1.4 billion.

The poor, misunderstood extension telephone.

What it is, what it isn't.

It is a second telephone in your home. It isn't paying for a separate line into your house. Or paying for a separate number. And it isn't paying a double telephone bill. What it is is merely an extension from your present phone. And if you have to dash through the house or scurry downstairs to say out-of-breath hellos, it's something you need. And it isn't a big expense. The cost — if you choose the basic style and color — is something like 4 cents a day. (Which is a bargain; you pay about four times that for your regular phone.) It's not even a sensational new fad — by now four out of ten homes in America already have an extension phone. And the average family takes over 400 incoming calls a year on it, and uses it for at least that many outgoing calls. Last of all, it wouldn't cost much to try one for a couple of months and this would tell you everything. Whether it is, or isn't, for you,

"One Body, One Spirit"

"There is one body and one Spirit, just as you were called to the one hope, that belongs to your call, one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father, of us all, who is above all and through all and in all." Ephesians 4:1-6

O GOD, We thank you for calling us. Because our lives have received meaning from your call, and because you have given us a place to serve, in your plan for the world. We confess that we have not seen or understood what you are doing in the world, that we have not been eager to work with you, that we are all too ready to do today only what we did yesterday. Show us the real issues of our lives, the true priorities, the right way of achieving the right goals. Show us behind our organizational problems the one thing that counts: your purpose of healing & peace for all men. We pray for all churches within the Ecumenical movement and also for all who in sincerity feel they must hold aloof from this Movement as it now is. Strengthen the forces of renewal everywhere, help us all to learn from one another, give to all of us your guidance.

We pray for all your People faced by the opportunities, temptations & dangers of a secularized age. We ask you specially to help those who feel that faith in you is impossible or irrelevant. As once you made yourself known to Moses & his people in the desert, Let your voice be heard with new power, O God, in the deserts of men's hearts. Make us one in your truth, Build us up, through Your Son, in our knowledge of you. Increase our love, not only for our Christian brothers, but for all our neighbors, through the Good News about Jesus Christ, in whose name we pray this prayer. AMEN.

NOTICE TO DEFENDANTS
IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF VALLEY COUNTY, NEBRASKA
The County of Valley, The State of Nebraska, Plaintiff, vs. Lloyd H. Balser, et al., Defendants.

To: James Doe and Mary Doe, real names unknown, all persons having or claiming any interest in Lot 9, Block 9, Original Town of Arcadia, Nebraska, real names unknown.
You and each of you will take notice that the County of Valley, Nebraska, has filed its petition in the District Court of Valley County, Nebraska, against you and each of you, impleaded with others, the object and prayer of which is to obtain a Decree of said Court for closing a certain tax lien as evidenced by Certificate of Tax Sale and lien for subsequent general taxes and special assessments, if any, of which the plaintiff is now the owner and holder, the same being a lien against real estate described as Lot 9, Block 9, Original Town of Arcadia, Nebraska, and which was issued by the County Treasurer of said County on April 11, 1968, together with interest on said Certificate and subsequent general taxes and assessments, if any, all as alleged in said petition.

And praying further that the proportionate share of the costs and proportionate attorney fee of ten per cent of the amount of the Decree be assessed against the premises above described, said real estate being a defendant as a part of said tax lien and finding that the real estate was subject to taxation for State, County, School District, Municipal and other purposes for the several years enumerated in said petition and the exhibit thereto attached, and by reference made a part thereof, and for a finding that said lien is a first lien on said premises, and further praying that unless same is paid by or some of you, a Decree be entered in said Court foreclosing and forever barring you and each of you or any and all claims, upon, interest or estate in, right or title to or lien upon or equity of redemption in and to the real estate herein described and in default of the payment of said tax lien, interest and costs and attorney fee, said premises or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the plaintiff's lien, shall be sold in accordance with law to satisfy the amount so found due and further praying for such other and further relief, equity requires and as to the Court may seem just and equitable.

You and each of you are hereby notified that you are required to answer said petition on or before the 12th day of November, 1968. The County of Valley, The State of Nebraska, Plaintiff.
By John R. Sullivan, County Attorney
