

City Needs New Dump, Woos Game Commission

The City of Ord has not yet solved its dumping problem. Ed Christensen reported to other councilmen Monday night that he is still negotiating to obtain a land fill site outside the city limits.

Christensen was given primary responsibility for coming up with a suitable site at the May meeting of the Ord City Council. The city at that time had received a letter from the State Dept. of Health condemning the present dump. The letter gave the city 60 days to find a new site. The 60 days will be up July 1.

The state recently inspected the present dump site and concluded that it was too close to town and too close to the North Loup River. As a result of the dump's proximity to the river, the state concluded that the stream was being polluted.

Mayor Bill French said Tuesday that the inspectors had found five dead calves lying alongside the river bank when they were here. The calves apparently were killed there and dumped, he said.

North Loup and Ericson were also hit at the same time Ord was, also because of nearness to waterways. Those communities also were directed to find new sites.

In other business at Monday night's meeting, the councilmen made an official declaration of intent to allow the State Game Commission to build on city property near the Ord Municipal Airport.

Dr. Glen Auble appeared before the council and asked that such action be taken. He said the final verdict on the Game Commission "may break" in 10 days, and it could be Ord.

A 10 percent "deposit" on the cost of a new Game Commission home would be required, Dr. Auble said, if the state agency were to transfer here. The deposit need not be in cash, however, and the land thus obligated by the council would more than cover the necessary 10 percent.

Senator Rudolf Kokes introduced a bill early this year in the State Legislature to consolidate the Game Commission's Lincoln offices and move them to Ord. The bill was amended some weeks ago, deleting Ord's name and putting Lincoln back in the driver's seat, but Dr. Auble and Senator Kokes have remained hopeful that the local community can still conclude its courtship successfully.

Eight members from the golden anniversary class of 1919 were on hand for the North Loup alumni banquet Thursday evening. Left to right on the front row are Miss Mattie Clark of Lincoln; Mrs. Viola Hawk; Priel of Vancouver, Wash.; Mrs. Eunice (Rood) Hartman of Beaver City; Mrs. Mary (Johnson) Mayo of Lincoln; and Mrs. Carrie (Leckey) Geddes, also of Lincoln. In the rear are Floyd Redlon of Long Beach, Calif., M. C. Mayo of Lincoln; and Earl White of Fort Collins, Colo.

Also renewing old acquaintances were Ed Stillman of Scotia and Lyle Abney of Inman. Mr. Stillman graduated with the class of 1925, but Mr. Abney called himself a "successful dropout."

Dr. Glen Auble has offered to sell his lake and surrounding land to the City of Ord as an addition to the Park. City councilmen agreed some time ago to purchase the lake and property under certain conditions. Dr. Auble told them Monday that one of those conditions has been met as he has purchased land across the north end of the lake where the dam is located, and now includes that in the package.

Shoemakers Lauded For Hospitality During Deer Season

An Ord family has received some warm praise in the current issue of NebraskaLand magazine.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Shoemaker were cited in a letter to the editor for their hospitality during the deer season last fall. The letter reads:

"I have enjoyed the hospitality and dinners of some of the finest restaurants in Nebraska, but I will never forget the warm and friendly atmosphere I found in Ord.

"My father and I did our deer hunting on the Alfred Shoemaker farm about six miles east of Ord. And not only did the family go out of its way to make us feel at home, but Mrs. Shoemaker also prepared a home-cooked meal that made my mouth water so much I thought I would drown. I know when we got through eating I was three seconds slower and four pounds heavier.

"The hunting was as good as the food and by sundown on opening day we all had our deer.

"I would like to thank the Shoemaker family and the many other fine folks that made it worth the time to hunt in Nebraska."

The letter was signed by Tom Morrison of Gretna.

Mrs. Shoemaker said her son David became friends with Morrison when both taught school at Sargent two years ago. It was through this association that the two Morrison men came to the Shoemaker farm to hunt.

Bigger Recreation Fare Planned During Summer

June 16 has been set as the kickoff date for an expanded community recreation program.

Co-sponsored by the city and the school district, the program will be under the supervision of Chuck Squier, men's physical education teacher. It will run through Aug. 16 with activities for all ages.

The program will be held five days and four nights a week. That's Monday through Friday except for Wednesday night.

Playground activities are scheduled for the youngsters from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. each day and from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. except on Wednesdays. Organized games — such as softball, badminton, tennis, box hockey, and tether ball — will be held during portions of these periods. There'll also be group activities less in the sports line, such as hide-and-go-seek.

Special activities will be scheduled on Friday night. For example, there may be a bicycle night when youngsters can receive assistance in decorating their bicycles or a hobo night when everyone dresses in tramp costumes.

A handicraft period will be set aside during the morning sessions, probably from 10 to 11. Squier said, with a story time to follow. The story time will include such activities as plays and puppet shows, he said. The emphasis here will be on older children organizing and presenting activities to entertain the younger tots, he explained.

There's no minimum or maximum age for youngsters wishing to participate.

"However, we don't want to become babysitters," Squier said. "If a child is allowed to play outside on his own, we'll consider him old enough to attend."

As for a maximum age, he said no restrictions will be enforced, but that the activities should normally appeal to children up to about the eighth grade.

A teenage dance will be scheduled once a month, and there's

Eleven Ord Students Receive Top Honor

Eleven highest honor students of Ord High School — eight seniors and three juniors — were named to the National Honor Society this past year. They were seniors Brad Garnick, Richard Janda, Pamela Lambert, Roger Cahill, Nancy Kravick, Pamela Hurbert, Ron Hiseck and Steven Wells and juniors Donna Krajnik, Monica Usasz and Dan Chichester.

The National Honor Society is the highest honor students may attain in secondary education. They are selected on qualities of leadership, service and character as well as on their scholastic record.

A possibility folk and square dances will be organized for adults. Golf lessons will also be held for youngsters in the under-15 age bracket. Greg Martin will be the instructor with Dave Wolf assisting. Both were members of this year's Ord High School golf team.

Ord's Pony and Pee Wee baseball teams which are participating in the Loup Valley Little League for the first time this summer will also be supervised through the program.

An organized jogging program for adults is being planned again too. Alan Cahill will assist in this area. The top two-miler on this year's high school track team, Cahill will have information on jogging as well as a stopwatch and charts to assist participants in keeping track of their progress. Weight training will be conducted during the evening sessions.

There'll be no charge to individuals for any of the activities. The city and school are each kicking in $500 to finance the program.

A number of high school students will assist Squier in running the program.

Rita Wojtasek Takes State Speaking Title

Rita Wojtasek, an active member of the Bonnie Belle's 4-H Club, won top honors this week in the State 4-H speaking contest held in Lincoln in conjunction with 4-H Club Week.

Rita's presentation of "4-H Wheel of Fortune" won first place over the eight girls and six boys competing for the title.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wojtasek of Ord, Rita will be a sophomore at Ord High School next fall.

Meeting in Greeley
There will be a meeting of the Mid-Neb. Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice Advisory Board Thursday June 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the Court House in Greeley, Neb.

Dale Family Reunion Ends With Tragedy

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dale, Ellen and John left for Columbia, Mo., last Saturday after learning that three members of their family were seriously injured in a two-car collision in Missouri.

Injured the most seriously of the three was the Dale's daughter, Mrs. Jan Melham who was scheduled to undergo brain surgery sometime on Wednesday.

Also injured in the crash was a younger Dale boy, Jim, who was accompanying his sister to her home for a summer vacation and Mrs. Melham's two-year-old daughter Tracy. Jim and the Melham child have been released from the hospital.

The head-on collision occurred about 3 a.m. Saturday approximately 60 miles from the Melham home which is believed to be in the Columbia, Mo., area. Another relative who had also been in Ord for the graduation events last week left with Mrs. Melham on the return trip Thursday afternoon but had already reached her destination before the accident occurred.

George Cetak made hurried arrangements for Dennis Cetak to drive the Dale family to Columbia, Saturday.

FFA Chapter Will Organize Driving Contest

A tractor driving contest sponsored by the Future Farmers of America will be conducted this summer during the Valley County Fair.

Members of the Ord FFA chapter voted at their May 19 meeting to sponsor such a contest. A point system will be devised to determine the winner.

Other activities the chapter will participate in this summer are a judging clinic and contest, scheduled June 2 at the Burwell Sale Barn, and the Chaffin Field Day, scheduled June 17. A chapter picnic that will include a baseball game will be held later in the year.

At the May meeting a cooperative was also formed, through which the local chapter will purchase and sell hardware to its members.

Appointed to head various committees were Loren Vanicura, chairman, and Charles Kravick, vice-chairman, Farm Safety; Don Chalupa, chairman, and Ron Lenstrom, vice-chairman, Cooperative; and Pat Hruby, chairman, and Glen Bredthauer, vice-chairman, Soil and Water Conservation.

The next meeting will be held June 20 at 8:30 p.m.

City Speed Limits Will Be Revised At State's Insistence

A general overhaul of speed limits will be accomplished in Ord as soon as a new city ordinance can be drawn up.

The State of Nebraska has directed the city to make certain revisions as a result of a study it conducted recently.

In the heart of town the limits will drop to 25 miles per hour. A maximum speed of 35 miles per hour will be established in the downtown area. That's up 5 miles an hour from the present limit.

As motorists approach the downtown area, the speed will be gradually decelerated. For example, on the north side of town the limit will drop to 55 near the Ord Cemetery, then to 50 near the golf course, on down to 35 near the Hillcrest Motel, and finally to 30 and then 25.

The City Council wasn't the only governmental unit taking action Monday night that will affect traffic conditions. The Ord Board of Education at its regular meeting announced plans to move two blinking red lights now located near the grade school to points on L Street near the high school. They will be located at the intersections of 18th and L and 20th and L, and will be in operation during the morning period when students go to school and in the afternoon when they go home.

All traffic will be required to come to a full stop when the lights are in operation.

Community Center Proposed for Ord

Preliminary plans for an all-purpose community center were disclosed at Monday night's meeting of the Ord City Council.

As proposed, the center would encompass the present Ord swimming pool and approximately 18,000 square feet of ground to the west and south of it. No city funds would be used for the work.

The plan was presented to the councilmen by Ed Bosworth and Dan Chichester. Bosworth is a member of the Rotary Club, which is sponsoring the project. Chichester is one of seven high school students who have done extensive preliminary planning.

The Rotary Club wanted to do something for the youth of the community and went to them for advice on what they would like, Bosworth said. Their prevailing answer was a community center that could be used year-round.

As a result, Bosworth and the seven youngsters set to work to see what could be done. They came up with plans for a building that would house the present swimming pool and contain about 18,000 square feet of additional floor space.

Bosworth said he feels the center can be built with donated labor and materials costing approximately $50,000 at wholesale prices.

He emphasized, however, that the building would be a community center and not a youth center.

"No one group would dominate the facility," Bosworth said. "There would be time set aside for nursery-age groups, retired persons, and everyone in between."

His purpose in appearing before the council was to solicit their permission to proceed with plans. The swimming pool and all land that would be affected are owned by the city.

The councilmen advised him to go ahead.

Bosworth and the youths envision a center that will not only be used by the community, but one that will be built by the community as well.

They have talked with at least one local contractor who is willing to donate four days of labor to the project, and they hope to get similar agreements from other contractors. High school students would pitch in and do all the manual work that can be done by unskilled laborers.

The $50,000 for materials would be raised through donations.

"We hope to get not only individuals interested in this, but groups and churches as well," Bosworth said. "And if they don't have a large sum to donate in cash, we'll try to interest them in signing a promissory note to be paid over a period of time."

Specifically, the proposed plan calls for the swimming pool to be enclosed as part of a building that would contain a dance area and a large all-purpose room. An open grassy patio area would be left to the north and west of the present wading pool and could be used for sun-bathing. A sun-bath, pool tables, storage facilities for craft or handicraft classes, and possibly a handball court would be installed in the multi-purpose room.

Facilities to heat the swimming pool would also be put in so it could be used year-round.

Jim Klimek of Sack Lumber Co. has agreed to draw up blueprints at no cost, Bosworth said. However, he repeatedly emphasized that it was primarily a youth project.

"We (the Rotary Club) will assist but the kids will do the work," he stated. "They've done most of the preliminary work so far."

Besides buying at cost, Bosworth hopes to save money in furnishing the building by using some facilities from government surplus stocks.

"A number of Air Force bases have been closed recently," he said, "and we should be able to get some things at a fraction of their value. The job Corps centers that are closing also should have a lot of good stuff."

The $50,000 would not include cost of furnishings, but would be simply the amount needed to construct the building.

Bosworth envisions a full-time director when the facility is completed.

"Lots of communities get a building and move into it and try to make a community center," he said, "but it never works. It may go for six months or even a year, but it never lasts. Here we want to build our own building and hire a full-time director to organize activities that the people are interested in."

"We've got to be fully organized though," he added. "Once we bring those contractors in we don't want any last time. High school kids will do everything that can possibly be done. For instance, they'll carry bricks to the place they're needed so that all the bricklayer has to do is put them in place and mortar them."

Youths working on the project in addition to Chichester are Alan Cahill, Kathy Dworak, Jim Kapustka, Jim Navey, Neil Paulsen, and Chuck Setlik.

Bosworth said he hopes to be able to start construction within a year.

The patter of little feet have been heard quite often recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Schroeder. But it's not children that the Schroeders are boarding — it's a pair of active squirrels, Rusty and Sandy. The squirrels were the gift of free doctor Dale Philbrick, who gave across a nest of four babies while cutting down a tree recently. He kept two and gave the others to the Schroeders, who kindly played mama and papa to the little animals. That's Rusty, the uninhibited one, acting like a live fur piece in the picture at left while Sandy munches her peanut. For several weeks the baby squirrels were fed with a bottle and nipple but when this picture was taken they had out-grown that. Mrs. Schroeder finally coaxed Sandy into taking just one little twig, though.

Top Officers Install Ord JC-Ette Leaders

New officers of the Ord JC-Ettes were officially installed, Monday evening, in ceremonies conducted by state officers. The installation meeting and tea took place in the Veterans Club lower level. Mrs. Delores Sitch was the chairman.

Marys Stacy of Kearney, state president of the Mrs. Jayce's acted as installing officer for the evening. Those installed to lead the local chapter for the new year were Iris Mulligan, president; Barbara Andersen, vice president; Linda Cetak, secretary; Dorita Petsko, treasurer and Mary Ray a board member.

Past President of the Ord chapter, Kathy Boleson, introduced special guests, Marys Stacy, Delores Sitch, state vice president, Mary Jo Morrow, state secretary and Karen Rash, state treasurer.

During the social portion of the evening Dee Meese sang a vocal selection. She was accompanied by pianist Kay Green. Guests from St. Paul, Albion, Kearney and Ord attended.

The Year of the Elm Seeds

I am certain, if we lived in China, the year 1969 would go down in history as "The Year of the Elm Seeds."

Wayne Whitney, extension horticulturist at the University of Nebraska, commented on the "Backyard Farmer" program recently that to his knowledge elm and maple seeds are more abundant than any year on record.

This heavy crop of seeds, according to Mr. Whitney, is believed to have been caused by weather conditions in 1968. The late frost last spring prevented trees from producing seeds. Consequently the trees stored an extra supply of energy which went to an abundance of seed production this year.

Many home owners in the area have expressed concern that trees heavily laden with seeds are not leaning out properly. This is a perfectly natural thing for a tree to do. Available nutrients are first used to produce a seed crop, and once the seeds are shed the leaves will come on as they should.

In the meantime, does anyone know of a good use these elm seeds can be put to?

Make Those Pastures Pay
Weeds use valuable moisture and plant food that could be utilized for producing more forage for extra pounds of beef and milk.

Experimental work shows that a given piece of land is capable of producing a given amount of dry matter. If the available moisture and plant nutrients are being used to produce weeds instead of forage, the cattleman is the loser.

Presently there are only a few herbicides cleared for use on pasture and rangeland. The most important are 2,4-D, 2,4,5-T, and Silvex. Neither picloram (Tordon) nor dicamba (Banvel) have Food and Drug Administration clearance for use on pastures and rangeland.

Experimental results show that 75 to 95 percent control of most troublesome broadleaf weeds can be obtained from late May or early June applications of 1 to 2 pounds of 2,4-D ester for several successive years.

Large scale spraying operations for ragweed control on rangeland in the Lexington area has increased range production by about 20 percent.

Weeds such as yucca or prickly pear can be controlled with 2 pounds of silvex per acre. Green sagewort can be controlled with 1 to 2 pounds per acre of 2,4-D applied in June.

Musk thistle can also be controlled with 1 1/2 to 2 pounds of 2,4-D ester applied in late May or early June. A fall spraying—in late September or early October—is also effective in controlling musk thistle.

Weeds such as leafy spurge are difficult to control with 2,4-D. Currently, however, we do not have anything better to recommend. Spraying with 2 pounds of 2,4-D per acre in the early late stage, gives about 60 percent control.

You can kill most annual weeds with one timely application of chemical at the recommended rate. Sometimes a second spraying is necessary to control late emerging plants.

Late September, October, or early spring treatment appears to be equally effective on most fall annuals, biennials, and dandelions.

Good soil moisture, high fertility, and high temperatures bring about rapid growth which is necessary for good kill with 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T.

Herbicides are effective in helping to control pasture weeds; but it must be remembered that good management in the long run, is probably the single most important weed control method. Chemicals are used as a help but should not be considered a substitute for good management.

'If You Break Faith With Us Who Die ...'

The soft tread of marching feet on new mown grass broke the silence of an early summer morning. Between the tombstones lingering patches of dew sparkled in the morning sunlight, and a soft wind whipped the several small flags set out for this special day.

"Dress right, dress!" came the call familiar to all military men. And in the small hilltop cemetery a handful of former servicemen responded.

They had come, as had many of their comrades across this great and troubled land, to honor those who had given something of themselves to keep their country free.

Then, across the grassy knolls, came the mournful sound of a lone bugler. As his haunting strains died away, a second bugler took up the sound of "Taps."

Next came a prayer, followed by the traditional 21-gun salute. And those whose earthly remains lay beneath the fertile Nebraska soil knew that all was well.

In ceremonies such as this — some more elaborate, a few less so — Americans paused last Friday to remember those honored dead who had fought to keep their country, and others, free . . . those who had fought at places like Antietam . . . San Juan Hill . . . the Argonne Forest . . . Iwo Jima . . . the Chosin Reservoir . . . the A Chau Valley . . . and a thousand other places just as strange and just as lonely . . . and who had now gone on to await their final reward.

This particular ceremony was conducted by American Legion Post #251 of Arcadia. The scene was the Lee Park Cemetery west of that community.

Honor guard holds Old Glory and American Legion banner high.

Dead veterans are saluted as honor guard, firing squad go to "Present Arms."

Firing Creates Leadership Vacuum For State Department of Education

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.
LINCOLN — The State Board of Education has dropped the other shoe.
After nearly two months of suspense since Education Commissioner Floyd Miller's "execution" was forecast in the famous Lunday Letter, the prediction has come true.
On a 53 vote last week, Miller was fired. By the same vote count, he was ordered to turn over the keys to his office by 5 o'clock that evening.
The action came at a dramatic special meeting in the crowded Supreme Court hearing room at the Capitol. The session was sparked by vigorous demands from Miller's three supporters that the charges which would justify his dismissal be made public.
These demands from Robert G. Simmons Jr. of Scottsbluff, Frank Landis of Lincoln, and Norman Otto of Millard were sidestepped by Miller's foes — Board President Allen Burkhardt of Norfolk, Mrs. Deborah Shepherd of Lexington, John Lunday of Omaha, John Wagoner of Grand Island, and Lloyd Wright of Reynolds.

But after the meeting was adjourned, Burkhardt distributed to newsmen a statement which included the reasons he said convinced him the best interests of Nebraska education would be served by Miller's dismissal.
Burkhardt, who said the four members that voted with him and against Miller endorsed the statement, said the commissioner had failed to cooperate with the board.
He said Miller hadn't allowed board members to participate in preparation of the education department budget and that he had taken a series of other steps without the board's knowledge or assent.

Landis called the Burkhardt statement "poppycock," and Miller said none of the reasons listed justified his dismissal.
Landis maintained the only reason Miller was fired was his promotion of "prompt school re-districting," which he said the board majority opposes because the present districts provide tax advantages.
Miller implied there had been a coalition of parochial school and rural interests which created the board majority that fired him.
The commissioner described the board's action as "a violation of decency, courtesy, fair play, and due process of law."
Although there had been plans earlier to fight a dismissal in court, Miller said after the meeting last week it was unlikely that legal action would follow.
"Nothing is to be gained for the cause of education in Nebraska by prolonged litigation," he said.

When news of the board's decision reached the legislature, Senator Don Elrod of Grand Island asked that a resolution he had introduced earlier be considered. The resolution, which censures the five members who voted against Miller, has been bottled in the education committee since early April.
Chairman Lester Harsh of McCook said his committee would consider the resolution after the Memorial Day recess.
Several members, notably Senator Henry F. Pedersen Jr. of Omaha, have said they would seek impeachment proceedings against some board members if Miller was fired.
The commissioner vacated his office on schedule, leaving the department — in Simmons' words — "a headless monster."
Wagoner had sought to have the board meet in executive session to consider appointment of an acting commissioner, but he withdrew the motion after objections were voiced that such action might be beyond the board's authority in a special meeting.
The next regular meeting is tomorrow (Friday), and an interim commissioner is expected to be named then to serve until a permanent successor to Miller is selected.

Most observers said the caretaker commissioner probably would be named from among key members of the Education Department staff.
The Nebraska Assn. of School Administrators has asked its members to boycott the board and refuse to consider an appointment as commissioner. Landis and others have commented that it would be difficult for the board to find an administrator willing to accept the job with the unsettled conditions which exist in Nebraska.
"Any qualified man would be foolish to take the job," Landis said.
Miller has been a target for many months of the Nebraska School Improvement Assn. and its secretary, S. H. ("Zeke") Brauer Jr. Several of the complaints listed in Burkhardt's statement about Miller covered points first raised in statements Brauer delivered to the board.
Miller has received support from more than 100 educational organizations, including many school boards, throughout the state. (The Ord Board of Education passed a resolution supporting Dr. Miller at its April meeting.) Landis described this as the "most spontaneous and overwhelming support" he has ever known a public official to receive.

Most of the talking at the special meeting was done by Miller's supporters.
Simmons, especially, insisted throughout the session that the charges against Miller be made public. He complained of a "conspiracy of silence" when he failed to get a response to his questions.
He and Otto implied that the anti-Miller board members had met privately to arrange procedures for the special meeting.
Last week's action was first predicted in a letter written by Lunday to the other four board members who joined him in voting against Miller. Lunday's letter fell into Miller's hands early in April and he released it to the press, causing a sensation.

Every Decision Is Major

Each time Nebraskans go to the polls in a state-wide election they face a number of supposedly "minor" decisions.

In last November's general election, for instance, voters had to decide whether to retain two State Supreme Court justices. They also had to name representatives to the State Board of Education and the University of Nebraska Board of Regents.

Because people generally did not understand what these positions were, to say nothing of the attitudes of the candidates, very few voters made an informed decision. They simply put an X beside whatever name sounded best.

The current furor over the State Board of Education and its firing of Dr. Floyd Miller as Commissioner underscore the lack of wisdom in such a practice. Even "minor" officials, it now becomes evident, can have a lot to say about some very important matters.

Voters in this district chose Mrs. Deborah Shepherd of Lexington over Dr. Harold Smith of Kearney as their representative on the Board of Education. Mrs. Shepherd has been active in seeking to fire Dr. Miller as state commissioner and was one of those voting with the majority to do so.

Most electors knew little about either Mrs. Shepherd or Dr. Smith when they voted, and far too many failed to go out of their way to learn anything.

Full blame for being so uninformed does not rest on the individual voter alone, however. The news media and the candidates themselves must share the responsibility.

Near the close of last fall's campaign this newspaper attempted to get information concerning both the views of Mrs. Shepherd and Dr. Smith.

It was impossible to get anything specific without some extraordinary effort, such as an interview with the two candidates — neither of whom campaigned personally in Valley County. It was known that Mrs. Shepherd was associated with the Nebraska School Improvement Assn., but other than that hard information was lacking.

The same was true of Dr. Smith. Campaign literature distributed here contained only a personal biography and nothing of his views.

As a result, the information published in this newspaper was inadequate.

Hopefully, future candidates will profit from this revelation and distribute material showing their views on the issues and not just a personal history sheet.

As for the news media, the Miller incident has shown that more steps must be taken to better inform the public concerning candidates — even if it means more work. Hopefully a better job will be done during the next campaign.

In the meantime, a thorough investigation is needed of the allegations made against Dr. Miller by the State Board of Education. The board refused to reveal any of the reasons for considering his firing until it had actually taken place. Then a list of 11 allegations was released.

If these accusations are true, the firing was probably justified. If they are not true, the voters should be selecting new members of the State Board of Education the first time they have an opportunity.

KERRY ON

By Kerry Leggett

—newspapers—
Newspapers are many things to many people.

One of the most interesting comparisons I've read lately is that a woman is like a newspaper.

Why?
Because:
1. They both have forms;
2. Back numbers are not in demand;
3. They're well worth looking over;
4. They have a good deal of influence;
5. There's small demand for the bold-faced type;
6. They always have the last word; and
7. Every man should have one of his own and not go borrowing his neighbor's.

Seriously, though, newspapers are called upon to furnish many answers, and sometimes it's quite rewarding.

With the nearness of Father's Day, I'd like to relate one of my favorite newspaper stories to you.

It all started when Raymond Camp, who authored the column "Wood, Fish and Stream" for The New York Times, once received a letter from a boy.

It read, "Would you tell me where I could find a place to fish that is not more than five or six miles from my home in Queens? I am 14 years old and have saved up enough money to buy a rod, reel, and line, but do not know where to go fishing."

"My father goes almost every weekend, but he fishes with older men who do not want a boy along, so I have to find some place I can reach on my bicycle or the subway."

By resorting to the telephone directory the columnist was able to obtain the father's name and sent him his son's letter with a brief note. He received this reply from the father:

"You handed me quite a wallop in your letter, but I am sorry you didn't hit me harder and sooner. When I think of the opportunity I might have lost, it frightens me."

"I do not need to point out that I now have a new fishing companion, and we have already planned a busy spring and summer. I wonder how many other fathers are passing up similar opportunities?"

Something Different

Twelve Pairs of Gloves!

Lois Zlomke called me the other day, asking what advice I might have for her parents, who are going to Australia soon. I have never been to Australia, yet I have a heap of free advice to offer.

Firstly, do a lot of reading about every area you hope to see. Study maps.

Decide on your trip and sign up for it. This should be done early as the trips fill up and sell out rapidly. I remember one time a friend and I signed up for four trips before we secured one to Europe that we really wanted. I think we bought the trip in June, and flew from New York late in September.

Keep reading, and send for all the information you see offered.

Look critically at your clothes, especially shoes. Comfort is the first consideration. If you'll be sightseeing, feet must be happy. Take a couple of low-heeled pairs, a party pair, and a pair of sandals.

Use the clothes you have, if you have several knits. Take three or four knitted suits and dresses, a couple of sun dresses, a couple of party dresses with jackets. Take a sweater or two, a light all-purpose coat.

Try to match up your wardrobe; that is, see that it all goes together or interchanges happily, like mostly white and black. This way you may be able to get along with only one or two purses, scarves, gloves, etc.

You might take a packable hat. One should do, for church or special interviews. You'll buy another, probably a beach hat, for a small sum, but you may not care to pack it home. You can't bring everything, but you'll try!

Don't forget your bathing suit and something to fling over it.

Take your cosmetics in plastic containers . . . weight is a consideration. Even if you don't fly, once in a while you'll tote your own luggage and you'll curse every ounce you've packed as you yow, "Next time . . ." Include in your cosmetics your favorite soap.

Include a few simple comforts, like an antiseptic for bites, irritations, sunburn. Don't forget your array of pills; figure out how many you must haul and have them put up in plastic bottles. I suppose you ought to include a dramamine-type pill, a milk-of-magnesia type, and something for the diarrhea that some travellers are afflicted with.

Meantime, whether you need it or not, get some small, clear, black and white photos made and ask for a passport to put them on. You never know how far or fast you might decide to travel, and a passport is always good identification. The clerk of your county will help you.

There are so many items you might enjoy taking; for example, your congressman will write letters of introduction to ambassadors, consuls, etc., of the United States. Your banker will write you a letter of credit.

Don't take any more credit cards than you must. Never let your passport out of your sight: all these papers are a definite liability if you lose them.

Travellers checks are an aid, definitely. Take plenty. Also, I'd pay what bills I could before leaving Nebraska; then you won't have to carry so much cash. Which is never too wise.

Take at least a dozen pairs of stockings, not expensive ones. Pack underthings as you like, also many packets of soap. Here again, don't take things that will require ironing. See that your pajamas and robe aren't too fussy . . . you may feel out of place in anything but tailored garments in some strange sauna or train corridor.

Take a travelling clock with a working alarm. I never take a travelling iron — I detest the things — but you take one if you must.

For the man in the family, perma-press clothes are a gift from heaven. I've known men who travelled for months with two shirts, doing one up each evening and hanging it on a hanger. (Be sure the hanger doesn't rust though.)

Travel light, travel easy. Don't make your schedule too tight, nor your bags either as you'll want to bring a lot of assorted loot home to your dearest people.

Drop out of the procession once in a while and take a nap. Haul along reading materials always, no telling how long you may wait in some places. Keep a few nibblers in your bag too, whatever you like: a few mints, a few crackers, a few apples . . . nice at bedtime.

If you are a picture-taking bug, take at least a dozen rolls of film with you. Probably you'll find supply stores for this easily; but sometimes not. Sketching materials, whatever you are happy with, take them.

I know a gal who takes twelve pairs of white gloves when she travels. I don't recommend this.

Actually, the less you can manage with, the better. Have fun, take your time going, then hurry home.

Fortas Case Has Its Dark Side, But There's a Bright Aspect Too

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
Ed Waldmann told the fellers Saturday night he felt like the guy that didn't know anything, didn't believe anything, and spent his whole life arguing about it.

That man died, Ed allowed, about all they could say for him was that he sure could emphasize the negative.

Ed said he had thought it up one side and down the other and he don't see much hope for man in this old world. Ed said he agrees with Mark Twain that God made man 'cause he was disappointed with the monkey.

What has got him emphasizing the negative so strong, Ed allowed, was all this mess about Supreme Court Judge Fortas.

It's hard enough to get folks to respect the law under the best conditions, said Ed, but when you get doubt cast on a judge of the highest court in the land, it ain't no wonder so many peeps are thumbing their noses at the law.

When you get right down to it, man's law based on God's law is about the only hope we got," were Ed's words.

He said we got 25 million laws in this country trying to enforce the Ten Commandments, and folks still figure ways to legally break the commandments.

Ed said the longer he lives the more he's convinced the oldest profession ain't what people say. Ed was of the opinion the oldest profession is laweering, 'cause that chaos the Bible says was here in the beginning had to come from somewhere.

You can start with one good law and one smart lawyer, and by the time the lawyer slices the law up into a dozen "interpretations," all you got left is one smart lawyer, declared Ed.

And to put the stopper in the jug, it's the lawyers that make the laws in the first place.

Ed said the Lord's Prayer has got 56 words, the Ten Commandments 297, and the Declaration of Independence 300. Going into June, the U. S. Congress had filed 25,000 pages with words on laws, changes in laws, and "extensions of remarks" since the middle of January.

Actually, Ed said, the troubles we are having with laws, lawyers, and judges are just signs of deeper troubles. We got a Congress making and changing laws so fast nobody can keep up, and we got folks sitting up nights figuring ways to get over, under, around, and through laws that don't let 'em do what they want to do.

Mister Editor, the fellers generally agreed with Ed that folks have the idea they got a right to break laws they can't bend to suit themselves.

It was Wencel Bruha that said putting Judge Fortas on the spot at least shows plain folks in this country still have something to say about how their country is run.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

Dear Editor:
Memorial Day — A Commitment for All!

These words should be meaningful for all Americans. Where were they? Certainly not at the various observances held at most cemeteries.

I'm ashamed to say that very few attended observances at our local cemetery. Where were many of our local people that should honor those who fell fighting for our country?

On this day when, above all others, we should pause to remember with pride and pain the tragic, ultimate sacrifice all too many thousands have had to pay that we might do better in peace it is fitting that we also pause to ponder our commitment to our honored dead.

Its fulfillment requires more than flags, flowers, and memorials. It requires that we dedicate ourselves to perfecting in peace the society their sacrifice has preserved with an ardor at least equal to theirs in preserving it.

It was a shame to see so many absent, many others just across the road playing golf, etc. Would it be so hard to take a little time to attend these observances?

I hopefully pray, that next year, we may be given another chance to fulfill that commitment and that we will see the end of the most agonizing war in our history.

Dear Editor:
About the two puppies dropped by the city police at the Vodehnal farm (Irma's column of May 13) — Too bad they didn't keep them a few days while placing an ad in the Quiz. They could have found plenty of good homes for them that way.

We had that experience one year while living a mile south of Ord. A fine mother dog came to us and had a litter of nine. We had two dogs so couldn't keep them but did so till they were weaned and good-sized, then ran a Quiz ad. In a few days all 10 had good homes and we turned down over 25 other offers. Had to notify the Quiz to remove the ad.

The Scott Report

From The Washington News-Intelligence Syndicate
By Paul Scott

Washington — The Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee has drafted an explosive report charging that "the violent 1967 Houston and Nashville riots were instigated and carried out by a small number of militant agitators."

The bombshell is the first of a series of reports the subcommittee is preparing on its inquiry into the causes of riots and racial disturbances in major cities and campuses. It is now being circulated privately by Senator John McClellan (D-Ark.), chairman of the subcommittee.

The 66-page document, linking members of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee to both disturbances, clearly explodes the myth that violence in those two cities was spontaneous and not planned.

The report also blasts the Office of Economic Opportunity, the government's anti-poverty agency, for trying to "buy off" many of the militant agitators in both cities by putting them on the pay roll of federally financed community action groups.

In reporting these and other shocking findings, Senator McClellan's report found that from 1965 through 1969 a total of 189 persons, including 16 law enforcement officers, had been killed in 166 major riots and civil disturbances in the United States. One police officer was murdered and four others wounded in the Houston riot.

Statistics compiled by McClellan's probers revealed that 7,615 persons, of which 1,617 were police and municipal employees, were injured in the violent eruptions.

Property damage from the riots ran to "more than $158 million." Economic losses to city governments probably will never be determined accurately, but in most cities was equal to or exceeded property damage.

Known as "a tale of two American cities," the initial report on the subcommittee's year-and-a-half investigation concentrates on the Houston and Nashville riots and their underlying causes.

The report's blunt charges that these two riots were planned in advance already has touched off a sharp backstage dispute among subcommittee members. While the liberal Republican, who has many close friends among black militants, wants the subcommittee's report toned down since it is expected to have a strong influence on future Senate action to curb growing violence.

Highlights of the subcommittee's report on Houston riots are as follows:

Houston had two days of rioting and insurrection on May 16 and 17, 1967. The violence and lawlessness occurred mainly on or near the campus of Texas Southern University — which has a student body of about 4,500, most of whom are Negroes.

"The subcommittee finds that the numerous disturbances which took place on the campus of TSU, and elsewhere in Houston were instigated and carried out by a group of about 35 experienced and dedicated militants, most of whom were affiliated with the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

The group included members of other militant organizations such as Black Nationalists, Deacons for Defense, and the W.E.B. DuBois Club, which has been designated by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover as a Communist front.

Relative Killed

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Hansen and family went to St. Paul Wednesday evening to attend a rosary recitation for Mrs. Hansen's uncle, William Jerabek Sr. Mr. Jerabek was a tractor accident victim May 26 when he came too close to a sharp incline and the machine fell over the edge. It dropped a distance of about 25 feet and landed on the CB&Q Railroad tracks. Mrs. Hansen, Randy, Bruce, and Debbie attended the funeral services at St. Anthony's Church in Farwell Thursday. Interment was at Rosen Cemetery in Farwell.

Shower With Gifts

A surprise pink and blue shower for Mrs. Gary Nelson was held in the big dining room of the Valley County Hospital last May 29. The door prize was won by Mrs. Opal Peterson. Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Willis Plate, Mrs. Don Taylor, Mrs. Clarence Fox, and Mrs. Rosalie Leggett. Refreshments were served to 20 members of the nursing staff who attended the event.

Dave Alford of Beaumont, Tex., arrived in Ord Friday evening and accompanied Mrs. Frances McCall to Lincoln Saturday to attend commencement of the University of Nebraska. Mrs. McCall's son, Roderick McCall, was among the graduates. Following the ceremony, Rod, Dave, and Mrs. McCall returned to Ord where the young man spent several days with Mrs. McCall and other friends before leaving for Seattle, Wash., where they will be employed.

Church Government

Christ's church. Man has done it on his own and I say that if God would have wanted his church to be organized into denominations, the apostles would have established that way. Today, in America this is becoming an issue of great importance. Many people who are members of denominational churches are becoming tired and upset over statements and deeds of the denominational heads. Many are concerned because these denominational leaders are leading their denominations down the road to liberalism and on into socialism. And rightly so; THE RESPONSIBILITY OF EACH CHURCH IS TO BE LEFT IN THE HANDS OF THE ELDERSHIP. Now many church groups claim to be independent. They claim to be free. The responsibility is thought to be left in the hands of the Eldership. But many a church group which claims to be independent is also a part of some denomination. This is absolutely impossible. Either a church or group of churches are 100% independent or else they are a denominational church. There is no middle ground. Only a few churches are still functioning as the church in the beginning functioned. Yet, not once has the Lord ever commanded or given man permission to change the organization of the church. Many problems that now exist in most American churches will be eliminated when they discover that God has left a divine pattern showing how the church is to be governed by that divine pattern, which is the Bible, there will be complete unity in the believers of Christ. This should be a goal of every christian who is concerned about unity. And to be very honest, there is no point in working for unity unless that unity is based upon the scriptures and anchored to the Christ. And I ask those of you who are christian, "Is the unity that you are labouring for based upon Christ?" J. H. Schroeder, Minister Christian Church, Ord, Nebraska

GONE ARE THE DAYS WHEN A SUMMER EVENING OUTSIDE REALLY BUGGED YOU!

Everything was OK 'til somebody decided to turn on a light. Then it hit. An army of hungry bugs that just wouldn't quit, come bug spray or high water.

Plant a gas yard light out front, in back or wherever, and you can forget the bugs. It's glare that attracts them, and there is none with a gas light.

Former Resident Proves Prowess At Keg Sport by Rolling 285 Game

By Wilma Nagorski Mrs. Anna Luedtke, formerly of Comstock and now of North Platte, recently scored the highest game ever recorded by a woman bowler in North Platte.

She posted a 285 game after throwing 10 straight strikes in the Ladies City League. Her top effort came in the second game of a series of three after she had opened with a 150. She followed the record 285 with a 151 game to complete a 586 series.

After her 10 straight strikes Mrs. Luedtke left a 457 split in the 11th frame to squeel any hopes for a perfect game. She picked up the five-pin on the last ball.

The highest game by a woman in the 30-year bowling history of North Platte came just three months after Dean Warwick rolled a 300, the first perfect game in North Platte.

Mrs. Luedtke carries a 163 average in five leagues. Her previous high game was a 227, posted earlier this season. She has been bowling for 12 years and this year has won three trophies.

She is a sister of John, Westley and Frank Konec, all of Comstock.

Game Commission Washes Hands of North Loup Project, But Local Agency Steps In To Fill Gap

Relations between the Loup Valley area and the State Game Commission — once at fever pitch — may have reached a new low.

That conclusion can be drawn from the commission's recent decision to turn thumbs down on this area's favorite long-range development project — the North Loup Division.

Henry Lange, president of the Twin Loups Reclamation District which has fought a long and difficult battle for authorization of the project told the Ord Chamber of Commerce Thursday that the Game Commission has refused to accept responsibility for recreational aspects of the scheme.

As a result, the Twin Loups District itself has stepped in and accepted the responsibility, as well as the monetary obligations which go with it.

Although the Game Commission action came as something of a surprise, Lange said he did not feel it would hamper prospects for congressional authorization and funding.

The North Loup Division calls for construction of reservoirs on the Calamus River near Burwell and Davis Creek near North Loup.

If it is approved by Congress, the federal government will provide initial funds for construction of the basic project with the money to be paid back over a 50-year period by the principal users. In this case that would be the Missouri Basin Power District and local irrigators.

However, costs for installation, maintenance, and operation of recreational facilities connected with the two reservoirs would split approximately 50-50 between the federal government and some local governmental unit. Thus, before the project can be authorized, some state or local agency must issue a "declaration of intent" to supervise recreational aspects — including fish and wildlife — and share the costs thereof.

The Game Commission had accepted this responsibility in 1968. But because the proposed water levels of the two reservoirs was raised last February, it was necessary to restate the declaration. This time the Game Commission refused.

Lange said the Calamus reservoir would fall in the commission's Valentine district, and the directors felt there are already a sufficient number of lakes in that district. Their reasoning concerning the Davis Creek reservoir was that it would be too small to be of much value, he said. (Its proposed capacity is 32,000 acre-feet compared to 128,000 for the Calamus lake.)

"I rather suspect there were some politics involved in the Game Commission's decision," Lange said without elaborating.

Earlier this year the area had a budding romance with the Game Commission as the state agency sought a new home that would accommodate all its headquarters facilities. Ord was the first of several cities in the state to offer such a home.

That romance cooled considerably when the commission's Valentine district, and the directors felt there are already a sufficient number of lakes in that ties. The speed with which Commission Director Mel Steen recommended that the Lincoln offer be accepted stirred up some animosity in these parts, and the friction increased when Steen went ahead and advertised for bids on a new headquarters building in Lincoln while the proposed move outstate was still being discussed by the legislature.

Despite the Game Commission's recent action, Lange felt the North Loup project would not be harmed in any way.

"I feel we are perfectly able to run the recreation program without the Game Commission," he said Tuesday. "In fact, I talked to the Burwell Chamber of Commerce last night, and they're real enthusiastic about having local control."

Lange said recreational costs connected with the project would not be more than "1 or 2 percent" of the total. That's now estimated at something over $50 million.

He said most of the recreational costs could be paid out of fees charged those who use the facilities.

"But even if a small mill levy were required, the project would be well worth it in view of the extra business dollars the two reservoirs would bring into the area," he said.

In his talk to the Ord Chamber, Lange pleaded for outward signs of support in behalf of the project.

"If you can offer any expressions of support, either individually or collectively, this is the time to do it," he said. "We can't overdo it."

He urged immediate contact with congressmen representing the area.

The Twin Loups president said he still holds out hope for a Congressional hearing on the project this session of Congress.

"We have a new secretary of the interior and a new undersecretary, and the commissioner of reclamation has announced his intention to resign," Lange said. "As a result, things in the Interior Department are in pretty much of a mess right now, and they haven't been turning anything over to congressional committee."

"But I'm hopeful we can get a hearing this session — I'd estimate now about October. I don't expect it to be authorized this year — Congress usually saves authorizations for election years — but we're still going hard for a hearing this term. If you're for this thing, let your congressional delegation know."

Dr. Glen Auble said Tuesday night the plans are being made by the Loup Valley United Chamber of Commerce for a significant show of support in behalf of the project. He said Senator Roman Hruska has been invited to a "big booster banquet" to be held in Ord.

The invitation has already been extended to Hruska, Dr. Auble said, and the United Chamber has agreed to meet any night the senator is available.

Hruska's office has informed him that the senator is booked for all of June and most of July, Dr. Auble said. As a result, he thinks the banquet will be held the latter part of July or the first part of August.

Legislators Pass Buck To Commission Officials

Despite signs to the contrary, Dr. Glen Auble said Tuesday night he remained hopeful Ord will land the State Game Commission.

"Frankly, I don't know what to make of the legislators' action yesterday," Dr. Auble said. "I talked with Senator Rudolf Kokes, and he was puzzled also. But I'm still optimistic."

By a 28-0 vote, the legislature approved a resolution Monday calling on the Game Commission to decide where it wants its headquarters located. The legislators stipulated that the decision be made at the commission's June 20 meeting.

Senator Kokes introduced Legislative Bill 576 early in this session. The bill proposed that Game Commission offices be consolidated and moved to Ord, but it was amended several weeks ago to read that the offices be retained in Lincoln.

A number of other cities have also lobbied to have the bill amended in their favor, so that the commission headquarters would be moved to their communities.

Speaking at Thursday's meeting of the Chamber of Commerce,

Dr. Auble expressed his confidence that Ord was still in the running, and then advised local residents to be ready to show their financial hands.

"We'd better start thinking about money," he said. "This thing is reaching the point where we may have to show our hand."

Dr. Auble said the community will have to account for roughly $80,000 in the early going as proof of its intentions. At last week's City Council meeting that body officially declared its intent to allow the Game Commission to build on city property at the Ord Municipal Airport.

The land thus obligated is valued at $5,000 to $18,000 dollars. That leaves more than $60,000 to be pledged, according to Dr. Auble's calculations.

In last week's Quiz it was reported that the airport land would more than cover the cost of a 10 percent "deposit," but Dr. Auble said that was not the case.

While he is not yet soliciting either cash or promissory notes, Dr. Auble said that on the other hand he wasn't exactly turning a deaf ear to any volunteer offers. He said one individual had already promised $5,000.

State winners in the 4-H Timely Topics speaking contest were presented $150 scholarships last week following their victories. Passing out the scholarships at a recognition luncheon was Fred Lark, left, area director of Radio KFBM in Omaha. The recipients were Rita Wojtaszek of Ord and Dan French of Lincoln.

Choral Presentation Features Ord Girl

Jean Lemmon, a Nebraska alumna who has been teaching music at Goleta Valley (California) Junior High School for the past year, was among members of the Santa Barbara Choral Society featured in a June 4 concert at the San Marcos High School Auditorium.

Miss Lemmon joined other soloists in the choral society's presentation of Ralph Vaughan Williams' "Mass in G Minor" and Brahms' "German Requiem."

This was the final concert of the season and the last under retiring director William Hatcher. A former Nebraskan, Mr. Hatcher has accepted a teaching position at Pasadena City College.

Loup Valley Girls Dominate State Contest

Contestants from communities only 16 miles apart in the North Loup Valley finished one-two last week in the girls division of the state 4-H speaking contest.

Rita Wojtaszek of Ord was previously announced as winner over seven other finalists who had won trips to the Lincoln competition. And though no runner-up was named, it had to be Barbara Petersen of Burwell since she was the only other girl receiving a purple ribbon.

Winner in the boys division was Dan French of Lincoln. He was the only male receiving a purple ribbon.

Entrants in the contest were judged on their subject matter, organization, physical behavior, gestures, voice, effect, and time.

Miss Wojtaszek will be a sophomore this fall at Ord High School. A 14-year-old, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wojtaszek.

Although college is still several years away, Miss Wojtaszek already has a start on her finances. She was awarded a $150 scholarship by Radio Station KFBM of Omaha for her victory. The scholarship is for use in the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

Miss Wojtaszek also received a certificate at a recognition luncheon sponsored by the radio station.

Her talk was titled "4-H—A Wheel of Fortune." She has been in 4-H work for five years, completing projects in food, clothing, health, baby-sitting, and junior leadership. She has participated in the State Fair style review and clothing judging contest.

Brucellosis Tests in Valley County Prove Most Beves Here Healthy

Valley County's modified certified brucellosis status has been extended through Apr. 24, 1972.

The recertification was based on tests of 496 cattle herds in the county. Only two of the 496 showed positive reactions.

The two infected herds will be maintained under state quarantine until they are retested with negative results. The retests cannot be conducted until

Lawmen Attend Session On Omnibus Crime Bill

Several area men attended a meeting Friday in Lincoln on the Omnibus Crime Commission and Safe Streets Act of 1968. They represented the Mid-Nebraska Law Enforcement Assn.

A follow-up meeting was held in Burwell Monday evening at the court house to explain the program to local government bodies.

Attending the Lincoln meeting were Meritt Green, criminal investigator for the State Brands Department; Wayne Green, state supervisor of drivers license examiners; Lonnie Johnson, Burwell police chief; and Clarence Fox, Valley County sheriff. All are from Burwell except Fox.

Fred Dale's Daughter Still on Critical List

Mrs. Jan Melham, daughter of the Fred Dales, remains in very critical condition in a Columbia, Mo., hospital since a two-car accident nearly two weeks ago which also injured Mrs. Melham's daughter Tracy and Jim Dale.

Latest reports are that Mrs. Melham has not yet undergone surgery scheduled last week. Jim Dale is apparently doing satisfactorily since having eye surgery. He and Mrs. Melham's child have been released from the hospital.

Fred Dale and son John returned to Ord several days ago.

Sonja Swanek Ranks Among Top at Chadron

Mr. and Mrs. Chet Swanek and Corky traveled to Chadron last weekend to get Sonja Swanek who had attended the music clinic at Chadron State. During the week, Sonja placed first chair in baritone saxophone and was selected to play for the student recital. She was also named among the top ten students in the theory class.

As a climax to the week-long session an open air concert was held which the Swaneks and the dozen Ord students, three from North Loup-Scotia and one from Arcadia graduated this spring from the two institutions.

Names of other graduates from this area were not released by the university, but those finishing at Kearney totaled 10.

Ord students graduating from the university were Larry Christensen, Millard Hansen, Sally Lou Lucas, Harms, Duane Krajnick, Richard John Kunz, Michelle Jeanne Markley, Rod McCall, Mike Naeve, Arlene Marie Paider, and Duane Lee Sich.

ney were Judy Fox, Steve Grant, and Larry Vancura.

Definite recipients at the university from North Loup were Lyle James White, Pat Williams, and Ronald Udell Williams. Michael James Kusek of Arcadia also graduated from the Nebraska State College at Kearney.

Others from the Loup Valley receiving degrees at Kearney were Kenneth Ballagh of Burwell, Robert Rasmussen of Cotesfield, and Diana Charlton, Joan Hays, Leonard Kaslor, and a Kuehl, and Thomas Youngquist, all of Loup City.

Daniel Joseph Waldmann of Comstock was among the University of Nebraska graduates.

Rod McCall is employed this summer in Seattle, Wash. His plans for the fall and beyond are also indefinite. He is the son of Mrs. Frances McCall.

Mike Naeve is another newly commissioned second lieutenant in the Army. Also a new groom, he will report for active duty July 24 when his quartermaster class begins at Fort Lee, Va. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Naeve.

Arlene Marie Paider, daughter of Mrs. Jerry Rajewich, will teach her economics in the Omaha School System this fall.

Duane Lee Sich will accept a call to the ministry. He plans to enter the Presbyterian Seminary

Scotia Girl's Hand Severed in Accident

Debbie Orthman, about 13 days old, and Mrs. David Orthman of Scotia suffered the loss of her left hand in a tragic accident at the Scotia Homecoming celebration.

Debbie was enjoying a ride on the ferris wheel and was apparently turned in the seat as her left hand was severed by two cables on the right side of the seat. The ferris wheel was nearly down to the spot where she was to get off when the accident happened.

That romance cooled considerably when the commission's Valentine district, and the directors felt there are already a sufficient number of lakes in that

Federal Aid Sought To Fight Drought

Almost an inch of soaking rains Tuesday night and Wednesday morning may have put a damper on Valley County's request for drought relief, but that's okay with area farmers.

The county's drought disaster committee had met Friday night at the Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Service Office and determined to request federal help to combat the dry conditions.

"This one rain won't be anybody's salvation," Ed Janus of the ASCS Office said yesterday morning. "But if we get more of the disaster request may be laid on a shelf at Lincoln."

Farmers, agricultural officials, and bankers attended the Friday night meeting. They generally conceded that conditions were worse this year than in

Seven New Teachers Hired by Ord; One Opening Remains For New Year

Five new teachers were hired last week by the Ord Board of Education, bringing to seven the number of newcomers who will be on hand when school opens in the fall.

Six of the seven are replacements for teachers whose resignations become effective at the end of this contract year. The other one is being added to ease the teaching load in areas where officials feel present teachers have more classes than they can adequately handle.

Those hired last week are Mrs. Crystal Brockman, who will teach special reading; Miss Anita Kelley, who will teach first grade; Mrs. Sharon Bochar, second grade; Rodney Powell, science; and Richard Thompson, English. Previously hired were David Shoemaker, who will handle some vocational agriculture classes and some science, and Mrs. Charlene Lola, fifth-grade teacher.

A contract has also been offered to Miss Mary Schulte to teach home economics and social studies. However, she was reported yesterday she can devote full time to her specialty, home ec.

Shoemaker is filling a new position and Miss Schulte will also if she decides to come here. School administrators felt the additional teachers were needed because of an extra heavy enrollment of the subjects they will be teaching.

Most experienced of the newcomers is Mrs. Brockman, who lives at Burwell and has taught for more than 15 years in rural and private schools. Because the Ord system does not recognize that experience, though, she will receive a beginning salary of $6,100.

Mrs. Brockman is currently completing work on her bachelor's degree at Orange Coast College in Costa Mesa, Calif.

Miss Kelley comes to Ord after teaching one year at Litchfield. She was one of 18 education students graduating with honors this year from Kearney State College.

Mrs. Brockman is also a 1969 graduate of Kearney. A native of Broken Bow, she will be on her first full-time teaching job.

Miss Schulte is another Kearney graduate, but she is experienced with three years' experience. She taught two years at Brady and one at Ashland.

Mrs. Lola has taught the last four years at Arcadia.

Powell and Thompson are both 1969 graduates of the University of Nebraska, and neither has previous teaching experience. Both will handle coaching assignments in addition to their teaching duties.

Shoemaker is an Ord native and a 1963 graduate of Ord High School. He went on to graduate from the University of Nebraska in 1967 and since then has taught two years at Sargent High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Shoemaker.

Teachers who have resigned and will not be back next year are Mrs. Jill Ritz, special reading; Miss Inez Swain, first grade; Mrs. Sandra Naber, second grade; Mrs. Mary Ellen Klimek, fourth grade; Jim Ramsey, science; and Steve Dpger, English.

In other business at last week's board meeting it was revealed that all $80,000 worth of bonds for Ord's new grade school have been sold and $650,000 of the money reinvested at an interest rate of 7.1 percent. The investment was handled by the school's bonding firm, the First Mid-America Corp. of Omaha.

The bonds are to come due Mar. 2, 1970. Dr. William Gogan, superintendent, said money that is not needed then will be reinvested again. He quoted Chuck Vana of the Mid-America Corp. as estimating the school could make $25,000 in interest by reinvesting over a period of years.

On another building matter, though, the news was not so good. Dr. Gogan revealed that one of the large music rooms in the new addition to the high school was not air conditioned at all, and that air conditioning in the other room and administrative offices was inadequate.

He said the staff had been unable to get the temperature in the air conditioned music room below 80 degrees when a large class was using the room.

Neither music room has windows.

Dr. Gogan said he had rechecked the contract of the building and it called only for heating. However, he said he was sure officials of Simpson Structures Inc. of Norfolk, the contractor, had told him and the board that the building would be air conditioned.

The board members authorized him to contact the Norfolk firm and see what could be done. He confirmed the next day that he had been in touch with Simpson officials and they assured him they would look at the situation.

Preliminary budget figures for the coming fiscal year were also discussed at last week's meeting.

At the May meeting Dr. Gogan reported on the National School Boards Convention which he and his wife attended in Miami, Fla. Gerald Decker, principal of the grade school, reported on the National Elementary Principals Convention which he attended in Las Vegas, Nev.

Seven New Teachers Hired by Ord; One Opening Remains For New Year

the drought conditions apparently get worse the farther north and west one goes. However, as of Friday it was affecting all of Valley County, according to the committee members.

"The southern part of the county was in pretty good shape until about 10 days ago," reported Dale Stutz of North Loup.

"But now we're having trouble," he said.

Ord has had 4.54 inches of moisture as of June 5 compared to 3.57 at the same time last year. The Comstock area apparently was in worse shape.

Those present were convinced that it took almost six weeks to process last year's application for a State Senator Rudolf Kokes was on hand for the meeting and promised to personally do what he could to hurry up action on this year's request.

Approval of the disaster request would bring a number of benefits. For instance, it would make low-cost loans available from the FHA for certain farm purposes, and it would permit diverted acres to be harvested or grazed under certain conditions.

Bob Timmerman, chairman of the ASC county committee, presided at the meeting. Others present were Gerald Krikac and Everett Leck, also county committee; Harold Paulsen of the Soil Conservation Office; Alan Masters, president of the Arcadia bank; Clark Weckbach, president of the First National Bank of Ord; Jerry Rainforth, a farmer from North Loup; and Janus, Stine, and Kokes.

There were two things different about this trip and the 6,600-mile Mrs. Clara Ludington has made to the first National Bank. First, she was sporting a brand-new corsage which had just been presented to her by Clark Weckbach, bank president, and second, it was her last trip as cashier and assistant manager for the Lee Store. Mrs. Ludington retired this week after 26 1/2 years with the Lee Store. During that time she went to the bank every day she was on duty to pick up the store's change at the beginning of the business day.

Sand Flats News

Freak Wind Causes Pasture Fire

By Wilma Baldwin
Bill Novosad was planting silage Friday afternoon and burnt some empty seed and fertilizer sacks on plowed ground in the field. At the time the wind was quiet, but just as the sacks were almost burnt a whirlwind came along and scattered the ashes in every direction, causing some to fall onto a meadow which instantly caught fire. After attempting to put out the blaze, Mr. Novosad hurried to summon help and call the Ord Fire Department. The Novosads, however, were able to put out the fire before the fire trucks arrived because the wind had changed direction, blowing up the fire. Only a small area of the meadow was burnt. A short time after that the sand flats were hit with strong northwesterly winds causing quite a dirt storm for about 15 minutes, and some did receive traces of moisture.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

What are fathers made of? A father is a thing that is forced to endure childbirth without an anesthetic. A father is a thing that grows when it feels good and laughs very loud when it's scared half to death. A father is sometimes accused of giving too much time to his business when the little ones are growing up.

Fathers are much more easily frightened than mothers. A father never feels entirely worthy of the worship in a child's eyes. He never believes himself to be the hero his daughter thinks he is or the man his son brags that he is. So he works too hard to try to smooth the rough places in the road for those of his own who will follow him.

Fathers are what give daughters away to other men who aren't good enough, so they can have grandchildren that are smarter than anybody's.

Fathers fight dragons almost daily. They hurry away from the breakfast table . . . off to an arena which is sometimes called an office or a workshop. There with practiced hands they tackle that dragon with horns and heads (Wealthiness, Work and Monotony) and they never quite win the fight, but they never give up.

Fathers make bets with insurance companies who'll live the longest. And one day they . . .

I don't know where fathers go when they die. But I've got an idea that wherever it is he'll be busy there too, repairing the gates, improving the streets . . . smoothing the way.

Keeping in the spirit of "June is Dairy Month," here is a dessert thought guaranteed to tempt the typical eater. It's called Two-Toned Ice Cream Pie.

Prepare the crust by using 1 1/3 c. gingersnap crumbs (about 22 gingersnaps), 2 T. sugar, and 1/4 c. (1/2 stick) butter, melted. In a small bowl mix together crumbs and sugar, stirring in butter. Press mixture firmly and evenly against bottom and sides of pie plate, building up slightly around rim. Bake 5 minutes. Cool on wire rack. While crust is chilling in freezer prepare the filling by using: 1/2 c. whipping cream, 1/2 t. vanilla, 1/2 pint chocolate ice cream, and 1 qt. vanilla ice cream.

In a small saucepan melt chocolate pieces in whipping cream over low heat, stirring occasionally, stir in vanilla. Chill until thickened. Soften ice cream. Spoon chocolate ice cream into crust; spread 3/4 of the chocolate sauce over ice cream. Return to freezer to harden. Spoon vanilla ice cream over chocolate sauce; drizzle remaining chocolate sauce over top of pie. Freeze.

Harold Timmons and bride . . . Jera Sanders

Evening Nuptials at Methodist Church United Jera Sanders and Harold Timmons

Jera Lynne Sanders of Ord and Harold Lee Timmons of Scotia were united in marriage at 7:30 p.m. May 29. The ceremony took place at the United Methodist Church in Ord with Rev. Clarence Campbell officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Sanders of Ord, and the groom is the son of Danell Timmons of Scotia.

Candle lighters were Sharon Maly and Becky Gregory. Soloist for the wedding was Mrs. Karen Burmood of Loup City. She sang "Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Shirley Karre was the organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a floor-length gown of chantilly lace. The basque bodice featured a crescent waistline and rounded neckline. The bell sleeves of lace were elbow length. Clusters of iridescent sequins were applied on the bodice and skirt of the gown, and matching border lace edged the sleeves and the hemline. The elbow-length veil of imported illusion was held by a cap of cut laced flowers sprinkled with matching iridescent sequins. The bouquet was a cascade of red roses. Miss Sanders also carried a white linen hankie belonging to her great-grandmother.

Matron of honor was Mrs. DeAnn Weeks, a sister of the bride. Flower girl was Sherlynn Timmons, cousin of the groom. They appeared in identical floor-length princess-styled dresses of blue nylon crepe trimmed with white daisies around the rounded neckline. The matron of honor wore a soft blue headpiece and carried red sweetheart roses.

Russell Timmons served his brother as best man. Another brother, Danny Timmons, and a brother of the bride, Mark Sanders, served as ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maly of Ord were host and hostess. Assisting with the reception were Mrs. Sharon Timmons, Scotia; Mrs. Lois Graff, Greeley; Mrs. Jean Schultz, Colome, S.D.; Mrs. Rachel Weinman, Cheryl Hoppes, Nancy Kriclek, Connie Peterson, Linda Maresch, and Janice Koelling, all of Ord, plus Sharon Morrow of Scotia.

Honored guests were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Edna Geiseler of Creighton, and the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Timmons of Scotia and Mrs. Nancy Doly of O'Neill.

The newlyweds will reside on a farm north of Scotia.

Emily Nelson, Ron Rice Say Marriage Vows In Afternoon Ceremony at Curtis Church

The Berean Fundamental Church at Curtis was the scene for the June 1 wedding of Emily Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Nelson of Curtis, and Ron Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rice of Ord.

Rev. Clyde White performed the 3 p.m. double-ring ceremony in the presence of 125 guests. Thirteen-tier candelabra with white mums decorated the altar.

Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Beverly White, pianist, who accompanied Sharon Johnson and Sheryl Schnell in singing as duets, "Heaven's Grace Made Thee Mine" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared wearing a gown of white crepe with an empire waist, long sleeves, and full-length train. White lace and pearls accented the neckline, sleeves, and dress. Miss Nelson's bouffant veil was attached to a tiara of pearl-accented petals, and she carried a lavender orchid.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Charlene Nelson, and bridesmaid was Debbie Covey. Their linen street-length dresses of lavender were designed with a scalloped neckline trimmed in white. White scallop trimming also edged the hemline.

Best man was Don Edgill, and groomsmen were Mike Rice, Brad Spilnek was the ringbearer, and Dana Fries was the flower girl.

Don Nelson and Jim King were candlelighters. Ushers were DeLyle Burson and Jim Nelson. Special guests for the wedding were seven grandparents of the couple.

A reception followed the ceremony. Assisting at the serving table were Mrs. Margaret Schmid, Mrs. Doris Awtry, and Mrs. Verda Cramer, aunts of the bride. Eileen Rice presided at the guest book while Denise Cramer, Janet Appleyard, and Phyllis Harkness cared for the girls.

For going-away the bride chose a linen ensemble of mint green with white accessories.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Medicine Valley. The groom is a 1967 graduate of Ord and a 1969 graduate of the University of Nebraska School of Technical Agriculture at Curtis. Their home will be in Ord.

Patricia Jones, Lynn Brechbill Married In Evening Rites at Grand Island Church

In an impressive candlelight ceremony Friday evening at the Evangelical Free Church of Grand Island, Patricia Ann Jones became the bride of Lynn Brechbill.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones of Ord, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Brechbill of Ord and the groom's parents.

Rev. Ronald Graff, pastor of the Ord Evangelical Free Church performed the double-ring service at 8 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Gene Jones of Columbus presented nuptial music.

After repeating the marriage vows, the bride and groom lit the center candle together signifying two individuals uniting together in marriage and becoming one flesh — according to God's Word (Genesis 2:24).

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father as musical aires from "God of Our Fathers" filled the sanctuary. Her long white gown featured a fitted lace bodice with scalloped neckline, traditional long tapered sleeves, and a controlled skirt. Seed pearls and sequins accented the bodice front and the lace appliques on the skirt front. The detachable chapel-length train fell from the shoulders, and the bouffant veil of illusion was shoulder-length caught to a cone headpiece of pearls and crystals. Miss Jones carried a cascade of Golden Wave roses.

Maid of honor was Jean Jamison of Lincoln. Bridesmaids were Judy Jamison of Lincoln and Pamela Hurlbert of Ord. They wore long pastel blue gowns styled with semi-scooped necklines edged with self ruffles and accented at the empire waists with wide white lace and back bows. Each attendant carried a lighted yellow candle tied with yellow ribbon and greenery.

Candlelighters were Connie Peterson of Ord and Martha Sue Reisinger of Aurora. Their gowns of pale yellow were styled identically to the bride's attendants. Each carried a lighted blue candle tied with blue ribbon and accents of greenery.

Best man for his brother was Denny Brechbill of Ord. Groomsmen were brothers Don Brechbill of Kearney and Leon Brechbill of Ord. Bruce Costor of Sargent and Jim Martin and Jeff Calvin, both of Ord, seated the guests. The attendants and ushers wore pale blue dinner jackets and dark trousers.

At the reception which followed in the church parlors Mrs. Bill Costor of Sargent, an aunt of the groom, cut the wedding cake which the bride's grand-

Report $405 Annual Fuel Savings with LP-Gas
According to recent studies by Research Digest, a home which used LP-Gas for heating, cooking, water heating, and clothes drying can operate $405 less expensively than an "all electric" home each year.
Using the values 2.5¢/kwh for electricity and 20¢/gal. for LP-Gas, the Digest projected a $8,100 savings, with LP-Gas, over a 20-year span.
Also, the added merits of "instant heat", faster water heater recovery, and overall dependability are frequently attributed to gas homes.
Complete cost information is available from LP-Gas dealers and appliance outlets.
LP-Gas is piped directly to this area by a division of MAPCO - the Mid-America Pipeline System - the underground highway weather can't block.

Pastures, Crops Testify to Drought Conditions

By Wilma Nagorski
This community hasn't received any significant rainfall this year. The pastures are getting brown, and the crops are very poor. Some haven't even come up yet for lack of moisture. The first cutting of alfalfa was fair and will be the only cutting many local farmers will get if it doesn't rain.

Three Teams Lose Close Contests; Wood River Surges Into First Place

Ord's Sherman Howard League baseball team thought it had had luck Sunday until the results came in from other games. Then the Mustangs found they weren't alone in needing a good dose of snake bite.

In taking its fourth defeat, Ord saw a 4-3 lead vanish in the eighth inning. Cairo went on to defeat the local team, 6-4, by scoring two timely runs in the ninth inning.

But Boelus and Loup City were having luck just as bad as Ord's. The former lost to Gibbon in 10 innings, 4-1, even though out-hitting its victim, 7-4. And Loup City bowed to Wolbach, in 14 innings, 2-1, in a wild but well played contest.

The Boelus loss knocked that team out of a tie for first place as Wood River slugged Greeley, 10-3, in the fourth contest of the day. Wood River thus raised its record to 4-0 while Boelus dropped to 3-1. Greeley dropped to 1-3.

The Boelus loss knocked that team out of a tie for first place as Wood River slugged Greeley, 10-3, in the fourth contest of the day. Wood River thus raised its record to 4-0 while Boelus dropped to 3-1. Greeley dropped to 1-3.

Rich Psota pitched a fine contest after giving up three runs in the first inning.

At Loup City 29 base hits were socked between that team and Wolbach, but only two runs came across the plate. When it was over, both pitchers had gone 14 innings. The winner, Harold Rother, had given up 16 hits and the loser, Rich Guzinski, 13.

Rich Carstens made his first start for Gibbon and gave fair warning that he'll lend much improvement to that club if he's around all year. He shut out Boelus, which had been tied for the lead, until the eighth inning. Then the favorites scored once, but Carstens stopped them two more times.

Meanwhile, Marv Caspersen was losing a close one as his teammates committed five errors.

Midgets Back on Track; Legion Nine Want Same

Ord's Midget baseball team has found its way back on the winning path, and now the American Legion nine will try to follow suit.

After losing three in a row, the Midgets got back on the straight and narrow last week by beating Anselv, 7-6. That gave them a split for the week as they had lost earlier to Broken Bow 9-8, when the winners came up with five runs in the last inning.

The Legion nine, on the other hand, lost both its games last week after winning three straight to open the season.

Weather permitting, both teams will be in action here today (Thursday). The Midgets will play at 5:45 p.m. and the other fellows at 8. Shelton will provide opposition in both contests.

Both teams will play Sunday in Ravenna.

Five newly elected officers of Ord's Future Homemakers of America chapter accompanied their sponsor, Mrs. Harold Garwick, to Kearney last week to attend an officers' workshop.

Those participating in the two-day training session were Peg Kokes, Kathy Waldmann, Jan Garnick, Debbie Fryczek, and Judy Marsh.

The girls learned more about their duties as officers and took part in group discussions concerning national goals adopted for the coming year. Miss Waldmann served as discussion leader for the topic, "Decisions That Count".

Highlight of the workshop for the Ord girls was Miss Waldmann's nomination as a candidate for vice-president of the state association. The election will take place at the state convention in Omaha.

Miss Waldmann was also elected degree chairman of District 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Fafeita and children, Kami and Coleen, arrived in Ord Friday from their home in Los Angeles. They will visit with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fafeita in Ord and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garbowski of North Loup. On Sunday the guests and host families, together with Mrs. Charlotte Kasal of Wolbach, attended Polish Days at Loup City, and Tuesday evening was spent at the Scotia Homecoming Days. The California visitors plan to remain in Ord until after the alumni festivities.

Ed Bran was in Omaha over the weekend to see his wife who is in the Eppley Complex.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Schuele of Cedar Rapids visited Tom's aunt and uncle, the Joe Schuele's, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Maude Jensen of Scottsbluff and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bohy of Ord were Monday afternoon guests at the home of Mrs. Ruby Wright. The ladies are sisters.

Attending a Thursday dinner meeting of the North Central Police Officers in Burwell were Willis Garner, Ord's chief of police; John Boettcher, deputy; Mrs. Boettcher, police matron, and Emil Penas, extra police officer. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Wert of Ord. Following dinner the business meeting was conducted by John Boettcher, vice-president.

The surprise guests present for the anniversary party honoring Mr. and Mrs. William Sack last Saturday evening included Mr. and Mrs. Hilding Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Noll, Mr. and Mrs. William Schudel, Dr. and Mrs. Glen Auble, Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Blessing, Mr. and Mrs. Karl McKinnon, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Travis, Carl Weckbach, Irvin Kingdon, Mrs. Cliff Goodrich, Mrs. Jay Auble, and Mrs. J. W. Ambrose.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Weckbach staged the party held at the Veterans Club.

Osentowski, Twins Are Far Apart

The most prominent athlete to come out of Ord High School during this decade has been drafted by the Minnesota Twins.

Rich Osentowski, who recently completed his senior year at Kearney State College, was selected last week by the Twins in professional baseball's annual draft of high school, college, and semi-pro players.

The round he was selected on was not made public. "We are in the negotiating stage now," Dr. F. J. Osentowski said yesterday of his son's dealings with the Twins. "Right now there's too big a difference. Rich as a definite figure and will stay with it."

When and if he signs, young Osentowski will probably be sent to the Twin training camp for new signees at Melbourne, Fla. Following a brief period there he expects to be sent to the Twin farm club at St. Cloud, Minn.

Osentowski batted over 600 this year while playing primarily in the outfield for Kearney. He was also a star football quarterback during his college days and was recently named Nebraska's amateur athlete of the year by the Omaha World-Herald.

Budget Committee's Recommendation Points to Still Higher State Tax Rates

By Melvin Paul
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — The legislature's budget committee has submitted its reckoning concerning the amount of state tax money which ought to be spent during the coming two years to keep currently authorized programs going.

The budget bill, which was introduced early this week, calls for a total of nearly $300 million from state revenues. Although totals weren't immediately available, that much and more will be added to the final appropriation figures in cash funds and federal funds.

Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings said the committee's recommendations fall about $13 million short of the total Gov. Norbert Tiemann proposed in his executive budget.

The governor had said his proposal could be financed with the revenue from a 2½ percent sales tax and a 10 percent income tax. Marvel said the committee's recommendation would require about the 2½ percent sales tax plus the 10 percent income tax.

The committee's budget bill, however, doesn't yet reflect expenditures which will be required to finance programs being adopted during this legislative session.

If, for instance, the lawmakers adopt legislation increasing the amount of state aid for schools, that increase would have to be tacked onto the total included in the existing budget bill.

The same would be true for any programs now being considered by the senators.

Marvel said the budget bill is more tightly drawn this year than previously. For one thing, agencies which operate from cash funds — such as license fees — generally have limits set on their expenditures in this bill, where formerly they could spend what they took in.

As another example, salary appropriations are limited for each year of the biennium. Formerly agencies were given a flat amount to cover two years of salaries. They could divide the appropriation as they wished.

The arrival of the budget bill from committee normally signals the beginning of the end for the legislative session. But this year with a record-breaking number of bills — already more than 1,400 — the end still isn't in sight.

Speed on the Floor Not on the Highways

If the senators are looking for speed in their legislative duties, they got a warning last week that they had better watch their speed on the roads.

Reacting to an incident involving two Omaha legislators, Governor Tiemann announced that senatorial immunity from receiving tickets if they are spotted violating traffic laws.

The tickets would require court appearances 15 days after the close of the legislative session. Under the constitution, the senators are immune from arrest on most charges during the session and 15 days at either end.

The incident which sparked Tiemann's policy change involved Senators William R. Skarda Jr. and Eugene T. Mahoney, who were stopped by a State Patrol trooper May 23 as they drove from their Omaha home to Lincoln.

Trooper Tom Roth reported the senators had been clocked on his VASCAR equipment at 85.7 miles per hour. When he stopped them, the trooper reported, they cursed him and threatened to oppose legislation supported by the patrol.

Skarda, who was driving, and Mahoney vigorously denied swearing at the trooper or threatening him in any way.

Attorney General Clarence Meyer said the immunity clause in the constitution is not designed to protect senators from punishment, only arrest during a session. That way they aren't prevented from representing their constituents during a session, but can face the charges later.

Tiemann said he wouldn't stand for letting senators use the immunity clause as a shield to protect them from law violations.

The Veto That Didn't Stick

Tiemann and the legislature had other duels last week — including the first passage of a bill over the governor's veto during this administration.

The governor had vetoed Legislative Bill 923, which sanctioned citizens to defend themselves "by any means necessary" when attacked. Tiemann said citizens already had coverage under the universally accepted self-defense principle in law and that the bill would actually work to legalize some criminal acts.

The legislature, however, decided the bill should be passed. When the first vote was taken on the override motion, it failed by one ballot of reaching the necessary 30-vote level. But a senator who had been absent returned to the floor and provided the margin needed.

Tiemann had vetoed two bills last session and one other this session.

To Say Good-Bye

Mrs. Thad Kison was honored June 3 at a farewell courtesy given by Mrs. Rudolf Kokes and Mrs. Henry Janus at the Kokes home. Pitch was played at four tables, and a group gift was presented to the honoree.

Stanley Succeeds Miller

The State Board of Education, which was split badly during its months of discussion about Education Commissioner Floyd Miller and finally fired him on a 3-3 vote, unanimously named a successor last week.

At a special meeting, the board promoted Cecil Stanley to the commissioner's post from assistant commissioner for vocational education.

Stanley was given a term extending to Feb. 1, 1971. If the board decides before that to fire him, it will have to hold a hearing.

Miller had no specific term and, according to legal advice the board received, he therefore served at the board's pleasure.

Miller last week issued a 10-page statement in which he answered each of the complaints the five-member board majority had listed against him. He said any of the complaints could have been settled in a few minutes time if the board had been willing to discuss it with him.

Proper Watering Of Lawns

To keep that bluegrass lawn in excellent condition through these hot dry days will take plenty of water. Bluegrass grows best when temperatures are around 70 degrees. We have no control over temperature, but we can supplement rainfall with irrigation.

Proper use of water is one of the most important management practices required to maintain an attractive grass area. For established turf, the rules of good irrigation are simple.

(1) Know when the grass needs water.

(2) Irrigate long enough so that the water will penetrate to a depth of six to nine inches.

(3) Avoid light sprinklings.

The quality of the grass in your lawn will be improved by following these three rules. Good water management reduces disease problems, weeds, and also conserves soil nutrients.

The amount and depth of water penetration after watering can be estimated by using a blunt 3/8-inch steel rod. The rod can be pushed into the soil quite easily to the depth that water has penetrated, or into moist soil.

If the rod can be pushed into the soil only three or four inches, it is time to start watering. Most of the soil moisture used by bluegrass is removed from a depth of zero to 12 inches, with about 75 per cent of the moisture coming from the first six inches of the soil.

Keep the sprinkler in one area long enough to assure that water will penetrate six to nine inches. The length of time required to do this will depend on how dry the soil was to start with and the soil texture. Sandy soils will absorb water approximately three times faster than clay. The length of sprinkling time on sand will be shorter than on clay, but it will require more frequent watering.

Check with the rod to be positive of depth of penetration.

Adequate water will help reduce lawn diseases. Too much water, on the other hand, may crowd out soil oxygen which is essential for good plant growth.

Time of day for watering makes little difference. Certain fungus diseases may be aggravated by keeping the grass blades wet for long periods of time in midsummer. Therefore, at this time of the year, it is advisable to water early and let the sun dry the grass quickly.

They're Back Remember the little greenbug that gave us such a scare last August when they began attacking our milo and sudan grass crops? They're back.

A University of Nebraska insect survey team spotted these pesky little rascals June 2 on sorghum seedlings in Jefferson County. Some fields of milo were 75 percent infested with as many as 10-15 greenbugs per plant.

It would be advisable for farmers to keep an eagle eye on their sorghum fields as seedling plants emerge. Greenbugs can infest new plants within two or three days after emergence from the soil.

If there are 15 to 25 greenbugs per plant, the plants are less than six inches tall, and there is visible evidence of damage, such as yellowing and turning brown, control may be advisable.

Infestations develop from a flying form of greenbugs, usually moved by wind. Early infestations generally occur following strong southerly winds. Thousands of winged aphids can be blown long distances from the states south of Nebraska — Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas — which already have reported infestations in sorghum.

If controls are needed, several insecticides can be used. The choice would depend upon how they are applied. If applied by ground equipment, sprays of malathion, diazinon, or D1-system granules are suggested.

Malathion 57 percent at 1½ pints per acre in 15 to 20 gallons of water is effective if temperature is 60 degrees or above. Malathion is not effective at low temperatures.

Diazinon AG 500 can be used by farmers at the rate of one pint in 15 to 20 gallons of water per acre. For most effective control direct the spray over the seeded rows.

D1-system granules can be applied at the rate of 5 to 10 pounds of 10 percent or 3½ to 6½ pounds of 15 percent granules per acre. Use a coin root-worm granule applicator to apply D1-system directly over the rows.

Aircraft applicators can apply eight ounces of ethyl perethion or four ounces of systox or three ounces of phosdrin per acre. These highly toxic materials are not recommended for use by farmers.

Parathion-sprayed fields should not be entered for three days following spraying.

More information on greenbugs in milo can be obtained from the County Extension Office.

Who Speaks for You?

When aroused to action, the "great silent majority" in this country still wields a lot of power—at the local as well as the national level.

The latest proof came in the recent Los Angeles mayor's contest, when a disturbed populace turned out en masse to give Sam Yorty a smashing victory over liberal Tom Bradley.

Now the help of the great silent majority is needed again—but this time in Washington rather than Los Angeles. And this time a slightly different effort is required.

Instead of going into a voting booth and putting an X beside a name, citizens are now being asked to sit down in the privacy of their homes and compile a short letter—it need not be more than a sentence or two—and send copies to each of their Congressmen.

Immediate Action Needed

The subject which has elicited such a drastic call for help is the proposed anti-ballistic missile system.

Because of organized efforts sponsored by more than 40 different organizations, Congressional mail has been running as high as 15 to 1 against deployment of an ABM system. Yet a recent poll by the Opinion Research Corp. indicates that 84 percent of the people in this country believe such a system is needed. If this is true, Congressmen certainly are receiving an erroneous impression.

Correcting such misunderstanding should be accomplished without delay, since Congress will vote on the vital ABM matter in a few short days.

Recent statistics produced by a 31-man subcommittee of the American Security Council offer dramatic proof of why an ABM system is needed.

U.S.S.R. Has Lead in Total Missiles

The subcommittee's research showed that—contrary to previously published reports—the Soviet Union already has an estimated 2,750 ballistic missiles compared to a known 1,710 for the United States.

Those figures include missiles of all range capabilities as well as land and sea-launched weapons. In the past when it has been pointed out that the U.S.S.R. was nearing parity with the U.S. in land-based missiles, our government indicated that submarine-based Polaris missiles still gave us the edge. Apparently that is no longer the case.

Russia has a clear lead in orbital weapons too, such as the fractional orbital bombardment system which can be placed in orbit around the earth and then de-orbited at a time and place of Soviet choosing. The United States has no such weapons.

Also of interest in the subcommittee report was a revelation that the Soviet Union, whose gross national product is slightly more than half that of the United States, is investing two to three times as much money as we are in strategic (bomb-type) military forces annually.

Furthermore, the Soviets have already installed more than 90 ABM launchers, have 30 more planned, and are testing an improved model.

Will It Work?

ABM opponents in this country suggest that our deployment of defensive weapons could trigger a new arms race. How can this be? Clearly the Soviet Union has shown no intention to alter its plans in any way because of what we decide on the ABM issue.

Other opponents say that our ABM system will not work. But they ignore the results of extensive tests made at the Kwajalein test range in the West Central Pacific. As long ago as last December, anti-ballistic missiles there were hitting their targets on nine out of 10 firings. And they were able to sort out real warheads from dummy ones.

But even if the ABM were not quite so reliable and were replaced in a few years, it would provide a vehicle to build on. Many persons have an erroneous impression that money spent on the Atlas and Titan missiles was wasted, since they were dismantled within five years following their deployment.

What these people fail to realize, though, is that those missiles gave us a deterrent threat during the time that they were in operation—and that they provided a technological skeleton to build on. Without them the present Minuteman could not have been developed and deployed, just as today's B-52 bomber could not have been built had not Orville and Wilbur Wright—or someone else—first designed a smaller, less refined airplane.

Thus, an ABM system is clearly needed—not only to help counter a growing Soviet threat for the immediate future, but to provide a technological base for long-range systems development.

A few short days remain before Congress makes its decision. Every citizen who does not want those 40 organizations—most with left-wing leanings—to speak for him has an obligation to make his views known.

It has been noted that Uncle Sam pays Aid to Dependent Children recipients $800 per year, spends about $2,300 annually to maintain a federal prison inmate, and provides $11,000 to train a Job Corps youngster—but allows only a $600 income tax deduction for a taxpayer's dependent.

Just Think of All That Good Worry Going to Waste

DEAR MISTER EDITOR: After Ed Waldmann's report last week on the sad state of law, it was a relief Saturday night to let Charlie Radil have the floor during the session at Washington, gave the fellers a lecture on worrying.

Charlie reported he had seen this report that says 92 percent of all worrying don't help a thing. He said this university report had broken down worrying after talking to a bunch of people.

Worries about the future took up 40 percent of their time, and worries about the past took up 30 percent. Charlie said it was fer sure we couldn't change the past, and there ain't much we can do with the future till it gets here.

Worries about little problems that don't amount to nothing were 22 percent of the total. Charlie allowed leaving eight percent fer worrying on serious matters.

Charlie said he was of the opinion the best way to get rid of that other 92 percent was to emphasize the positive, instead of the negative like Ed done last week.

Charlie said he liked the attitude of the old lady that said, "I ain't got but two teeth, but, thank God, they hit."

A feller can find the positive in just about everything, allowed Charlie. For instance, you might be thinking about how hard it is to keep up with your high living neighbors, but you ought to remember the neighbors probably are worried sick about getting overtook.

But to more, Charlie allowed, a heap of our worrying is about something we don't know anything about.

For instance, Charlie recalled Bob Bruha's preacher was going to talk to the men a while back on "How to Work With the Women in the Church," but he changed his topic at the last minute to "What to Do About the Devil."

Bob figured the preacher was taking on the easier problems first.

And Charlie said we waste a lot of worry because we don't get our facts straight. For instance, we've always been told that we cheated the Indians out of Manhattan Island fer $24 worth of beads. For all we know, Charlie said, the Indians that got the beads might of been some renegades from Brooklyn that didn't own Manhattan Island at all.

We would be a whole lot better off Charlie said, worrying about giving Indians a fair shake in the present than about something in the past.

Mister Editor, the fellers seemed relieved by Charlie's report. Incidentally, I saw in your paper the other week where this woman in a senior citizens club was in charge of sending "birth-day sympathy cards" to the members.

What I can't figure, is that emphasizing the positive or the negative?

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

I never tire of telling new acquaintances that I live in the very best part of the United States. I live right in the center of the country.

One local lawyer states, "I never tell strangers where I live. I just say it's the best place in the United States, and I don't want to tell them about it, for then they'd want to move here too."

We have a heap more whiz. We try harder. I am proud of us.

As the current academic year draws to a close, it should be readily apparent that the students in the New Left revolutionary movement are not on college campuses to seek education. Rather, this conglomerate of malcontents is engineering a drive to destroy our educational system.

More and more, the New Left is being controlled by the followers of Karl Marx through the Old Left organizations of the Communist Party, USA (pro-Moscow); the Progressive Labor Party (pro-Peking); and the Socialist Workers Party (Trotskyites). Not since the New Left came into being has the influence of Marxism-Leninism been so strong.

The Students for a Democratic Society, largest of the New Left groups, is rapidly gaining a definite Marxist-Leninist coloration. At the SDS National Council meeting in Austin, Tex., in March, one of the organization's top leaders was quoted as stating, "Our primary task is to build a Marxist-Leninist revolutionary movement."

While the New Left movement may or may not make the dean's list this year, it rates an A-plus in revolutionary exploits. The SDS

The Quiz welcomes communications from readers. The briefer they are, the better is their prospect of publication. All are subject to condensation. We assume no responsibility for statements in letters.

To Whom It May Concern:

Well, I don't know if the heat got to them or if some of these fly-by-night people we have running this community can't sleep at night; or maybe the astronauts brought someone back from out of space, although I haven't noticed any stranger around town. But whatever it is, I think someone has his sights set pretty high as far as this new community center is concerned. When they have these weird dreams, instead of forgetting about them in the morning, like they should, they try to do something with them.

I do believe we need a place for the kids to kill some time, but why go so hog wild? My wife and I are the ones that start the present teen center, which we are going to have to close because we cannot afford to operate it. I am sure it could work if we had some interest and cooperation from the Chamber of Commerce, City Council, and other organizations which there seem to be plenty of. There were very few adults who showed any interest. I know we didn't have a big fancy place with three-inch carpeting and a large ballroom with psychedelic lights which the kids take over, but still I don't know why we don't get one going first and then expand.

We have three large places in town for the adults, which are you might say, elaborate. We are trying to pay for them, and we think they are a struggle even though we have some good supporters. It was mentioned in the newspaper article about places like that which can't make a go of it, so why invest so much money?

If they want something just to interest most kids, all they need is a barrel of booze out in the woods and they'll gather around like bees after honey. I believe the main reason is that they feel they are getting away with something and they are not under the watchful eyes of their parents, which is only the nature of kids—which we all were once.

I guess I have spoken my piece. I hope everything goes well in your undertaking, but you forget one thing: You will need the National Guard or some other firepower organization to help the local fuzz when people start to mob in with their donations and promissory notes, and again when the kids flock in to carry the bricks and any other help they expect to get from them.

One who wanted to do something for the kids in our area.

KERRY ON

By Kerry Leggett

—Two lives—
Two miracles live today—each of them once familiar to most Ord residents!

Any stranger circling Ord's square a year ago probably would have noticed two "drunken lumps" sleeping it off on the courthouse lawn.

One, slight of stature, showed signs of more "active" days from the scar through one of his eyebrows. His movements—even under the influence of wine—were quick, though sporadic.

His partner walked with a shuffle—pigeon-toed—sway back and forth as he made his way to the nearest liquor store for another pint of wine.

Strangers—noting the actions of the pair—would undoubtedly have labeled them winos. Most business people around the square "overlooked" the two, knowing they were harmless. If they got "too bad," the law usually "threw them in for the night. So there was really nothing to worry about.

Then one night—a year ago—they got "too bad." The pair ended up in jail for the night.

The next day the sheriff took them to Hastings where they were to become patients on the alcoholic ward of the state hospital.

After the usual treatment for alcoholism, the two were released to a new "rehabilitation house" in Grand Island.

Following a long court battle with residents of the surrounding homes that "fought" the establishment of a "rehabilitation center" for drunks in their neighborhood, these two people should hold up their head with pride. Because they "accepted" something these men had much more trouble "accepting" because of them and a Higher Power... two men live today.

Many Ordites have forgotten these two men... given them up for dead!

It was a year ago—June 10—that the two stumbled down the steps of the Valley County Courthouse and into the sheriff's car. If these same two men walked down those steps today, most Ordites would not recognize them... thanks to God and a lot of understanding human beings that NEVER give up "hope."

Concerning the New Left--America Should Take Note Before It Is Too Late

By J. Edgar Hoover
Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation

As the current academic year draws to a close, it should be readily apparent that the students in the New Left revolutionary movement are not on college campuses to seek education. Rather, this conglomerate of malcontents is engineering a drive to destroy our educational system.

More and more, the New Left is being controlled by the followers of Karl Marx through the Old Left organizations of the Communist Party, USA (pro-Moscow); the Progressive Labor Party (pro-Peking); and the Socialist Workers Party (Trotskyites). Not since the New Left came into being has the influence of Marxism-Leninism been so strong.

The Students for a Democratic Society, largest of the New Left groups, is rapidly gaining a definite Marxist-Leninist coloration. At the SDS National Council meeting in Austin, Tex., in March, one of the organization's top leaders was quoted as stating, "Our primary task is to build a Marxist-Leninist revolutionary movement."

While the New Left movement may or may not make the dean's list this year, it rates an A-plus in revolutionary exploits. The SDS and its adherents have rocked campuses from coast to coast with violence, riots, and sabotage.

At the SDS National Convention last summer a workshop on violence and explosives was held. Literature explaining how explosive devices can be manufactured and used against Selective Service installations, ROTC buildings, and university facilities has been distributed.

The results are a disgrace to a society which owes its very existence to democratic processes under the rule of law.

Many of the New Left's criminal acts were, and are, committed as "expressions of rights under the first amendment." "Corruption of the first amendment" would be a better term for such antics.

Certainly free speech and dissent are not synonymous with despotic obstruction and force. The wild and insatiable demands of the New Left for unlawful power and a blind determination to silence and destroy all who stand in its way are tyrannical acts of the first order.

Under the first amendment, a person may hire a hall and speak on any subject to as many people as he can persuade to listen. However, he has no right to disrupt classes and assemblies and prevent other persons from hearing a speaker of their choice.

Neither the New Left nor any other group should be allowed to plunder, riot, and terrorize our educational institutions and impose its will upon a majority of students who do not share its views. Crime under the ivy-covered arches of a college campus is no more excusable than crime in our city streets.

SDS leaders know that if a revolution is to be brought about, they must inject more discipline and organization into the movement; the anti-discipline, free-wheeling, individualistic, anarchistic mood of the New Left must be controlled and molded into a strong, centralized, Marxist-Leninist revolutionary force. The Old Left groups, of course, are working hard to capture at least a part of the movement.

The pro-Peking Progressive Labor Party already has a strong beachhead inside the national SDS. On some key issues P.L.P. comes close to having enough strength to swing votes in national meetings.

While considerable factionalism now exists within SDS ranks on "how to bring about a revolution," the pro-Peking and pro-Moscow adherents, as well as the Trotskyites, all agree on one major point—students alone cannot bring about a revolution.

One well-known communist youth leader wrote, "We must view the worker-student alliance as a mutual necessity and do everything in our power to insure its growth and endurance." The P.L.P. and the Trotskyites also supported similar linkage of the students and "workers."

Not all SDS members accept the Old Left organizations. Many feel that SDS can promote a viable revolutionary youth program without stringent controls and free of parental tutelage from a foreign or internal Marxist party. Whether this is possible or not remains to be seen, and the answer may be decided at the SDS National Convention this summer, when this issue will be bitterly and hotly contested.

Meanwhile, a basic fact looms. Never before in this country has there been such a strong revolutionary Marxist movement of young people which is so eager to destroy established authority.

Furthermore, the New Left movement has made it emphatically clear that mere change and revision are not its objectives. Armed with a long list of "non-negotiable" demands, its immediate goal is the complete overthrow and control of our educational system. We all know what its ultimate goal is.

Concessions and appeasements will not satisfy these bent on anarchy and nihilism. America should take note before it is too late.

The Scott Report

From The Washington News-Intelligence Syndicate
By Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Pope Paul VI's whirlwind, one-day trip here this week will toss him directly into the eye of a cony that threatens to split the World Council of Churches, the spiritual leader of the world's 600,768,000 Catholics, will become the first pope ever to visit WCC headquarters, persistently spoken out against the use of violence to obtain political, or social change.

WCC opponents of the "violence" recommendation are hoping that Pope Paul will use his Geneva trip to again speak out against the use of violence because of the influence that his views have on world opinion and many WCC members.

Such a pronouncement by Pope Paul, they point out, could either be made during his visit to WCC headquarters or in a major address that he will deliver at the 50th anniversary meeting of the International Labor Organization in Geneva.

The ILO appearance also will be an historic first, as a pope has never appeared at a gathering of the 120-nation labor organization. The ILO originally was an agency of the old League of Nations, is now a part of the United Nations.

ILO officials expect Pope Paul's presence to underscore the need for an intensified effort for gradual reform and vigorous opposition of the use of violence to bring about the changes.

L.O. officials expect Pope Paul's presence to underscore the need for an intensified effort for gradual reform and vigorous opposition of the use of violence to bring about the changes.

Opponents of the resolution warn that if the main WCC body adopts this path, it will help trigger a racial war in southern Africa.

Mrs. Sears Sees Grandson Wed in Omaha Rites

By Mrs. J. B. Zulkoski
Mrs. Earl Sears accompanied Mr. and Mrs. John Sears and family to Omaha Saturday for the afternoon wedding of her grandson, Ron Sears, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sears of Burwell. He was married to Molly Katherine Lebsack of Omaha. His grandmother accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Don Sears and family back to Ord that evening.

Grandmother's Helper
Carla Kusk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Kusek, helped her grandmother, Mrs. Andrew Kusek, weed and water the flowers and shrubs Saturday. Her mother visited and helped Monday afternoon.

Conflict

WCC committee's previous recommendation was approved by a number of WCC members last year at a Sweden, that the WCC took the position of providing only non-violent means for change.

Such non-violence support within the WCC as Dr. Huddleston, bishop of Great Britain, are called the main issue before the radical thinking Huddleston, that the churches reached a point where they were using their credibility in making political pronouncements and not really being effective.

Opponents of the resolution warn that if the main WCC body adopts this path, it will help trigger a racial war in southern Africa.

The Other Issue

Catholic bishops in Europe are encouraging Pope Paul's Geneva address as a sign of offering new hope to Christians and Jews of East-European, especially those in Slovakia, that their brotherly free world will never them.

Efficiently, the pope's flight here will come while the more than 80 Communist parties throughout the world are meeting in Moscow to discuss the world's food supply.

Washington Pipeline

United States is increasing military assistance to the face of mounting Communist military pressure that has locked King-Lunder plans approved by President Nixon before his mid-way South Vietnam trip. The President has issued modern M-16s. The President also has green light to beef up Air Force with "spook" massive firepower aircraft have been used with effect on Communist concentrations in Viet-Nam. Also known as "Puff, the Dragon," these C-47 aircraft are fitted with banks of 16 guns which pour concentrated fire onto a given target. C-47s will be flown by Air Force pilots now trained in the U.S. Though technically "neutralized," entry is in fact the base for more than 40,000 North Vietnamese troops — of which about 10,000 are in Laos. In recent months, Communist attacks on Lao government forces have increased ease to their highest rate in years. The added firepower is expected to help reduce the number of casualties among government forces. The latest Communist military push in Laos is

Emerges

Huddleston, is helping the churches move in the right direction.

Roy Sawh, chairman of the British Black Power Party, and Edward Brown, director of the Mississippi Action for Community Education, were two of the most outspoken of the invited "constants." They pushed for even stronger recommendations.

Britain was asked by the WCC Committee to withdraw earlier assurance that force will not be used in resolving the Rhodesian conflict. The resolution asked the United Nations to ensure that captured Rhodesian guerrillas are treated as prisoners of war.

Opponents of the resolution warn that if the main WCC body adopts this path, it will help trigger a racial war in southern Africa.

Believe

what Pope Paul says in Geneva could have as much impact on the future of Europe as the decisions that come out of the conferences in the Kremlin.

Note: Pope Paul is considering a new warning to the rich nations of the world not to use the United Nations as an instrument to force unnatural population controls on underdeveloped countries. Instead, he wants these nations to help increase the world's food supply.

seen by experts

here as part of a combined military and political offensive by the Pathet Lao and their North Vietnamese mentors. By threatening to take over all of Laos, the Communists hope to put new pressure on Nixon to make concessions in the Paris peace talks. If you want to know who's who and what's what in Latin America, there's a new book out to help you: "A Bibliography of Latin American Bibliographies." It was prepared by a team of librarians attached to the Columbus Memorial Library of the Organization of American States.

Come to Church

This Week's Meditation There is a lesson for us all in the history of the discovery of the solar system. As long as men followed the Ptolemaic theory that the universe is geocentric, that is, centering in the earth with the rest of the worlds revolving around it, there were all kinds of problems that just would not come out right and that could not be explained. But when men discovered Copernicus - that the earth is not the center of things but we are a part of a Solar System, and the sun is its center, it began to clear up the problems. For our system is "heliocentric" - we revolve around the sun, and all the planets are orbiting in a regular pattern not shooting off in all directions. Then everything began to add up and come out right. Many people today are trying to find the answers to life but they have self the center of life, and things don't come out right. As long as you try to keep ego on the throne of life, all the problems and the interests of life, family, work, pleasures, all are in conflict with each other. Anytime you try to explain life with yourself at the center, or live as if the sun, moon and stars are revolving around you, you find that everything is off-center, things won't add up. And life becomes miserable and defeated. Jesus' teachings indicate that the first law of life is "You must lose your life to find it." If you find it by centering on yourself, even in a religious way, you will lose it... it will disintegrate through conflict. You are an off-centered, "eccentric" person. The universe just doesn't back up that way of life. But when you decide to surrender to Jesus Christ and make Him the center, then you are not "up against it," but are "with it." Life adds up and works with you and not against you. When you discover that Jesus Christ actually is the Center of everything including you, you find that there really is harmony and peace in life. And like the planets in their orbits the rest of life has a pattern and a purpose. When we surrender to Jesus Christ, we find that we are not weaker, but He makes us strong. We surrender individual sovereignty to God - seeking first the Kingdom of God, and believe it or not, we discover that all these things are added to us again, including Jesus Himself. If you are centered in yourself, you are a problem, if you are centered in God, you are a person. May your life, find its center in God today! Rev. Duane L. ## Martin Will Speak At Friday Luncheon

Rep. Dave Martin will speak in Ord tomorrow (Friday) at a noon luncheon to be held at the Elks Club.

Ord will be one of several stops on a brief junket Congressman Martin is making to this area of the state. Arrangements for his visit here are being coordinated by the Valley County Republican Committee.

The luncheon will begin at 11:45 a.m. Nebraska's 3rd District representative is expected to be present until approximately 2 p.m.

Persons wishing to attend will be required to pay only for the cost of their lunch — $1.50. No advance tickets are required.

Remember The Date

Plans are nearing completion for the Ord High School alumni banquet to be held Saturday evening, July 5. The banquet will begin at 6:30 p.m. at St. Mary's Auditorium.

Mileage Markers

State Publicists Explain Mystery of Road Signs

There is a reason for those slender green and white signs with numbers on them which suddenly started appearing on area highways a few months ago.

The Nebraska Department of Roads explained in a recent news release what the signs meant.

If the highway crosses a state line, the figures on the marker indicate the number of miles the traveler is from that line. For example, a 100 on Highway 281 indicates the motorist is 100 miles from the Kansas line.

On roads that do not cross a state line there's a different explanation. The figures in that case indicate the number of miles the traveler is from the highway's origin.

Thus, the number 65 on a sign posted alongside Highway 11 means the motorist is 65 miles from where the highway began. Similar signs have been posted recently on roads throughout the state. Altogether they comprise what the Department of Roads calls its "log mile reference system." Primary purpose of the system, according to the state publicists, is to provide easy identification of rural accident locations.

Funds for the program were awarded by the U.S. Department of Transportation under a highway safety project grant. Total cost for the state will be around $69,000.

Installation of the markers was completed in May by Department of Roads maintenance crews.

The logging system was first used by the federal government on the interstate highway system. By 1966 about 20 states were using some form of "mile-posting" on rural highways also. Other states have adopted the signing process since that time with the support of the National Highway Safety Bureau.

The mileage signs are installed on rural state highways at one-mile intervals from west to east and from south to north. The signs are placed on the east side of south-to-north highways and on the south side of west-to-east highways.

Four-inch reflective silver numerals appear on both sides of the aluminum markers.

In addition to marking mileage and providing a method for the State Patrol and other law enforcement agencies to pinpoint accident locations, the logging system has secondary benefits for the general public and the Department of Roads.

The signs can be used by motorists in reporting the location of cars needing gasoline or service. The Roads Department can also use the signs to report areas where maintenance is needed, in planning construction, for mapping projects, and in determining efficiency ratings for specific areas of highway. In this way the logging system will help

The second tractor in a week to be destroyed by fire burned Monday afternoon just southwest of town. Ord firemen doused the blaze, but the tractor owned and operated by Bill Kirby was still declared a total loss by Fire Chief Ivan Sorensen. Several days earlier a machine owned and operated by Bob Knapp caught fire nine miles southwest of town. Even the tires burned on that tractor. Sorensen said the exhaust overheated, setting fire to hay and dust. Cause of the Kirby fire was unknown. Ord firemen were also busy Tuesday night as they, the rural board member, and their wives attended a social fete at the Veterans Club. Following dinner films pertaining to fires were shown. In further recognition of fire safety, as well as the state's volunteer firemen, Friday has been proclaimed Smokeless Bear Day in Nebraska by Gov. Norbert Tiemann.

The mileage signs are installed on rural state highways at one-mile intervals from west to east and from south to north. The signs are placed on the east side of south-to-north highways and on the south side of west-to-east highways.

Four-inch reflective silver numerals appear on both sides of the aluminum markers.

In addition to marking mileage and providing a method for the State Patrol and other law enforcement agencies to pinpoint accident locations, the logging system has secondary benefits for the general public and the Department of Roads.

The signs can be used by motorists in reporting the location of cars needing gasoline or service. The Roads Department can also use the signs to report areas where maintenance is needed, in planning construction, for mapping projects, and in determining efficiency ratings for specific areas of highway. In this way the logging system will help

Drought Request Speeded Along

Drought disaster requests from five Loup Valley counties have been forwarded by Gov. Norbert Tiemann to the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C.

The governor recommended approval of requests from Valley, Garfield, Custer, Loup, and Wheeler counties.

Good rains throughout much of the five-county area last week helped alleviate some of the concern farmers had felt earlier when the requests were originally submitted. However, local agriculturists emphasized that crops need a good rain about every 10 days during this part of the growing season.

Douthit Accepts Post At University of Omaha

Dr. John Douthit will terminate his two year practice in Hastings as an associate of Dr. John Yost on July 1, when he will accept the appointment as vice chairman of the Department of Orthopedic Surgery in the Department of Medicine at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine. He will assume his new position on July 14.

His appointment at the age of 31 makes him one of the youngest men ever to be asked by the University to serve in this capacity. He will hold the rank of associate professor of orthopedics.

Douthit is a native of Ord and graduated from Lincoln North-east High School in Lincoln. He received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Nebraska and in 1962 graduated from the University College of Medicine. His residency in orthopedic surgery was served at Denver General Hospital, and he accepted a fellowship in hand surgery at Nashville, Tenn., just prior to moving to Hastings in 1967.

Deadline Near for Fair Parade Entries; Jaycees Promise Several Improvements

Only one day remains for confirmation of band and float entries in this year's expanded parade that will kick off the annual Valley County Fair.

Duane Wolfe, project chairman for the sponsoring Ord Jaycees, has promised a bigger and better parade than in past years. As of June 11, a total of 21 organizations had already registered floats, Wolfe said.

He also disclosed that 101 bands had been invited, as well as a number of riding clubs. The Jaycees are hoping for "four or five" of the latter entries, Wolfe said.

The Summer Round-Up of Marching Bands is expected to feature musical groups representing all sizes of high schools, since bands have been invited from schools with Class A, B, C and D enrollments.

The deadline for confirming entries is tomorrow (Friday). Song titles will provide the theme for this year's float entries, with prizes to be awarded

EN2 Larry Jorgensen Receives Purple Heart

North Loup Man Cited for Action In Vietnam War

EN2 Larry Jorgensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Jorgensen of North Loup, has received a Purple Heart in ceremonies at Cat Lo, Vietnam.

Larry has been serving on a patrol boat with Coastal Division 13 since February. His unit has been engaged primarily in the Mekong Delta area of South Vietnam.

Along with the patrol boat's five other crew members, young Jorgensen was cited for his part in saving his ship after it had been seriously damaged by a mine. Two crew members who were blown overboard in the explosion were also rescued.

in three divisions. First, second, and third places in the commercial and club divisions will warrant cash awards of $25, $15, and $10 respectively. In the children's division the awards will be $15, $10, and $5.

A number of changes have been made in the format of the Fair program.

This time, instead of the parade being held in the afternoon, it will begin at 6 p.m. Also, the crowning of the Fair queen will take place on opening day so that she can lead the parade. In former years the crowning has been the final event of the entire program. And this year the ceremony will be held on the Valley County courthouse steps instead of in the fairgrounds arena.

A new Ord Chamber of Commerce contribution to the program will be a barbecue contest for men only. Each business organization in the county will be eligible to sponsor an entrant in this competition.

Hospitalized for Burns

Madelyn's Big Comeback Slowed Temporarily

For the second time in less than three years Madelyn Hruby has been seriously injured. But those who know the courageous Ord youngster feel sure she'll snap back again.

Madelyn was injured first in August of 1966 when her family was involved in a head-on automobile accident near Huron, S. D. After laying in a coma for 11 months and spending time in seven hospitals, she was making "excellent progress" when she was seriously burned two weeks ago.

Now she's in the Valley County Hospital awaiting a skin graft on her right foot.

Ironically, the courage and fortitude which had helped Madelyn along the road to recovery from the first accident were partially responsible for the second one. Because she had been progressing so well, she was able to bathe herself. On June 4 she was taking a bath when the threads on a water faucet came loose, pouring hot water into the tub. Because of her handicapped condition, Madelyn was unable to move fast enough to avoid a severe scalding of both feet.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hruby, were outdoors at the time and did not hear her calling. Madelyn was "an above average student," her teacher explained, "but not before suffering severe burns."

Just a few days earlier Madelyn had celebrated completion of her first year of school since the original accident by going on a picnic to Fort Hartsuff with her mother and her teacher, Mrs. Richard Prien.

Mrs. Prien came each school day during the preceding nine months and took Madelyn to her home, then helping her to re-learn again the things she learned when she was in the fifth grade three years before.

Even though she suffers from a severe speech difficulty in addition to her physical injuries, Madelyn's teacher explained, "Because of her speech difficulty she couldn't keep up with the other children at the public school, but my kitchen served just fine as a classroom."

Madelyn had completed the fifth grade before the car accident. Because of the long lay-off, Mrs. Prien and public school

Sharp Rise Seen In School Levies

School taxes for residents of District 5 are expected to be up roughly one-third during the coming tax year.

Dr. William Gogan, superintendent of Ord schools, indicated Tuesday night he will submit a budget for the new year requiring a total levy of approximately 53 mills. That's up almost 14 mills from the current levy of 39.64 mills per dollar of assessed valuation.

However, Dr. Gogan stressed that the increase will be accounted for almost totally by the community's new grade school and some deficit spending during the current year. This deficit spending resulted from a weird law passed a few weeks ago by the state legislature.

Residents of rural school districts which send their children to Ord for high school instruction will also feel a bigger pinch during the coming year.

Levy Off on Tuition Costs

The legislature recently removed the ceiling on per-pupil charges that can be assessed against these kindergarten-through-sixth-grade districts, and the Ord board indicated Tuesday it will quickly take advantage of the freedom thus afforded.

Previously high school districts such as Ord's could charge the K-6 districts a maximum of $3.50 per student for each school day. Last year Ord levied $639 per student per year, and that brought in $66,000 in revenue.

This year there's no limit, and figures ranging from $850 per student to $1,000 were discussed. A levy of $850 would bring in a total of $87,500, based on the current estimate of 103 students expected to fall into this category.

The board wound up advising Dr. Gogan to contact neighboring schools, specifically Burwell and Seward, and see what they are planning to charge. The members indicated they wished to avoid any competition for students that might result if there were wide variations between the amounts charged here and those charged by neighboring schools.

Since state law permits a pupil to attend any high school he desires, the board members were afraid students in fringe areas would be drained off by other schools. The amount charged by those schools were substantially lower than that charged here. The reverse could be true if the amount charged here were significantly lower than that charged elsewhere.

14-Month Year

The other new legislation affecting budget plans was not so favorable. It was contained in Legislative Bill 910, and changes the beginning and ending dates of the budget year for Class 3 school districts by two months. Previously the budget year ran from July 1 through June 30; now it will run from Sept. 1 through

Aug. 31.

The new law was passed with an emergency clause, meaning it went into effect immediately. As a result, expenses for the months of July and August which had not been planned for in this year's budget must now be paid from current resources.

Since the school district has no such funds available, it probably will have to borrow the money — estimated to total $80,000 — and pay it back through an increased levy next year.

No Loss in State Aid

While the bill threw a monkey wrench into current fiscal plans, it did appear to have one beneficial side effect. Dr. Gogan said that since the $30,000 in expenses for July and August will be added onto the current year's costs, the district probably will not lose any state aid funds next year.

Current law requires that some state aid funds be forfeited if a school district's budget from one year to the next increases more than 8 percent. Ord's had been expected to exceed that figure until the additional outlays increased the current year's spending.

Dr. Gogan revealed his budget plans at an "unofficial" meeting of the District 5 Board of Education Tuesday night. They will be presented in more detail and acted upon at next month's regular meeting on July 7.

While the board has the prerogative to make cuts or additions as it feels advisable, it is expected to have generally to the figures Dr. Gogan submits. Board members indicated their assent when the superintendent asked if he should plan the budget based on the figures submitted Tuesday.

Pay Hikes Not Cause

The current levy of 39.64 mills is comprised of 32.35 mills for operating expenses, 5.10 mills for redemption of bonds issued to finance construction of the gymnasium — cafeteria addition to the high school, and 2.19 mills for redemption of bonds issued to finance construction of the music-administration addition to the high school.

Mrs. Jan Melham Dies Of Multiple Injuries

Ord friends learned this week that Mrs. Jan Melham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dale of Ord died early Sunday morning, June 15. Mrs. Melham had been in critical condition since being injured in a serious auto crash on May 31.

Funeral services for Mrs. Melham were held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Camden, Mo.

Next year's operating levy is expected to go up approximately 6 mills to cover the additional two months of salaries (roughly $35,000 per month) and other expenses (estimated at $5,000 per month). The billing levy on the new grade school, which voters approved Feb. 11, is now expected to be in the neighborhood of 8 mills.

Thus, even though pay raises averaging 6.1 percent for teachers and 13.3 percent for administrators were approved earlier, the mill levy for the operating budget is expected to remain roughly the same as this year for a complete 12-month period of time. This was possible, according to Dr. Gogan, because of cuts in other areas and an increased property valuation in the district from $9.7 million to approximately $11 million.

In other business at Tuesday night's meeting, which lasted for almost two hours, the board heard and discussed financial news in a couple of other areas.

Workshop Cost Increases

The Ampex Video Institute recently notified Dr. Gogan that tuition fees for its six-week workshop had been raised from $200 to $300. In February the district had sent a check for $300 to the institute and made a reservation for Ed Bosworth to attend one of the summer sessions. He is in charge of the school system's educational television facilities.

After deliberating the board advised Dr. Gogan to send the other $100 but to also send a letter expressing the school's unhappiness at the increase.

The workshop is designed to teach local personnel how to make minor repairs on ETV equipment. The board felt that in the long run Bosworth could more than pay for his tuition costs through savings on repair bills.

In the other financial area, Dr. Gogan revealed that Valley County treasurer Lloyd Wilson had told him the school board probably would have to borrow money next May to pay interest on the first batch of bonds sold to finance the new grade school building.

That's when the first interest payment comes due. Dr. Gogan quoted Wilson as saying he does not expect the county will have collected a sufficient percentage of next year's taxes to pay the interest in May.

Consequently, the school district may have to borrow money to meet its commitment.

Dr. Gogan Quoted Horace Travis, Retiring School District Treasurer, as Saying that the First Mid-America Corp. of Omaha Should Have Taken Note of This Situation when it Sold the Bonds.

If the bonds had been set up with the interest to come due in October, Travis was quoted as saying, there would have been no problem since a sufficient amount of tax funds would have been collected by that time.

officials felt it would be best for her to repeat the fifth grade this year, then start the sixth next year.

By February she had completed her year's work in spelling, Mrs. Prien said. School lasted two hours each morning, and three of Madelyn's afternoons each week were spent with Mrs. Ed Bosworth, a speech therapist.

"She had made remarkable improvement in her speech during the year," Mrs. Prien said. "When I first started teaching her I could not understand her, but by the time the year was over I was having no difficulty at all."

Although the burns on her lower body are naturally quite painful, Madelyn's biggest worry right now is that she won't be able to go swimming at the Ord pool this summer. She had gone there often last year as part of her physical therapy and was looking forward to it again this year.

Mrs. Prien said she feels Madelyn will eventually be able to return to public school.

Mrs. Prien and her husband have just returned from a 10-day vacation through the northwestern states as well as British Columbia. In Canada, where she sent Madelyn a card from one of the scenic or historic spots they visited. She also took pictures and will use them as part of the social studies material when Madelyn resumes her schoolwork in the fall.

Madelyn is the second handicapped student Mrs. Prien has taught, and she calls it "very rewarding."

"I have learned to have more patience than with any child in my life," she said. "After 14 years teaching in rural schools and as a substitute in the Ord system."

Her other handicapped student was Roger Stethem, who will be a senior at Ord High this fall. She taught him for half a term while he was in the eighth grade. He had broken a hip and was in a cast from the waist down. He stayed up with his classmates and was able to join right in when he returned to school.

Teaching comes naturally for the mother of two daughters. Two of her three sisters joined her in following their grandmother into the teaching profession. A cousin is also teaching at Wesleyan University.

One of Mrs. Prien's daughters is a home economics graduate this summer to train as a redology technician.

Of Madelyn, Mrs. Prien says: "Any letter she's ever gotten has pleased her so. I hope her friends will remember to write her while she's hospitalized."

Ord Legion Squads Humble Shelton, Then Fall to Sharp Ravenna Pitching

Ord teams found out Sunday that the Connie Mack of Central Nebraska junior baseball circles is for real.

After scoring double victories Thursday over Shelton, Ord's two American Legion teams were both beaten Sunday by Ravenna. The winners are coached by 83-year-old Roy Greenslit.

In both games Ravenna had outstanding pitching performances. In the junior contest, which ended with a 3-0 score, Tom Neibur had a sharp one-hitter. And in the midget game, which wound up with a 6-1 count, the Ravenna hurler had a four-hitter.

Mike Beran got the lone Ord safety in the junior game. It was a sharp single midway through the contest.

Denis Kamarad was the principal pitching victim of Neibur's classy performance. The Ord right-hander gave up just one earned run in 4 1/3 innings of play but wound up losing his second game against a single win.

He was relieved in the fifth by Bill Klanecky who struck out all five men he faced. But by that time Ravenna had the only run it needed plus a couple of insurance ones.

In the midget game the winners struck for two runs in each of the first three innings. Their six hits were matched by an equal number of Ord errors as Scott Patrick lost his fourth game against three wins. That's also the team record at this point in the season.

The Ord juniors, on the other hand, have won four while losing three.

In their victorious outings against Shelton the two Ord clubs

John Linke is home with first Ord run, beating throw to Boelus catcher Mike Clausen.

Local Girls Race to Relay Victory At Junior Olympics Test in Omaha

Ord lads in the 12-year-old age group had better find a good place to hide on Sadie Hawkins Day. If they don't, they can count on being caught for sure.

Three young lasses from this city got a pick-me-up from a Bassett friend and sped to first place in the midget girls' 220-yard relay at Saturday's Midwestern AAU Junior Olympics in Omaha.

The Ord trio was composed of Shelley Collins, Janet Pierce, and Sheri Grove. The fourth local member of the quartet which had won first at a qualifying meet in Bassett was Susan Severson. Illness kept her out of the Omaha competition, however, and she was replaced by Carol Kopp of Bassett.

The quartet ran the 220 yards in 29.5 seconds. A foursome from Blair ran second.

Only other Ord youngster to place at the Omaha meet was Doug Fuss. He was third in the junior boys triple jump with a total distance of 37 feet, 9 inches.

There's no further competition for any of the Ord group, since only senior division contestants advance.

Ord, Lukesh Beat Boelus

Jim Lukesh and his Ord Mustang teammates took no chances this week as they both won their first Sherman-Howard League baseball game of the season.

Lukesh and Company defeated Boelus 2-0. The losers had been in second place with a 3-1 record going into the game.

In an earlier game against Wolbach Lukesh had come with in two outs of pitching the Mustangs to victory. Then three straight hits erased a 1-0 lead and sent Ord down to a 2-1 defeat.

This time the local team took no chances. When Boelus got two men on in the ninth inning with one away, Lukesh took matters into his own hands. He struck out Bryan Stubbs, then got Eugene Nitsch on an easy pop fly.

Meanwhile, his mates had given him a two-run lead rather than the one run he tried to make good against Wolbach.

John Linke scored the first Ord run off Boelus ace Marv Caspersen in the second inning. Linke walked with two out, went to third on Lukesh's single which squirted through the right side of the infield, and came home when a throw to third bounced off Nitsch's leg.

In the fourth Kenny Watson provided Lukesh his insurance run by slammung his second home run in as many games. It also came off Caspersen.

Jo Anne Hrebec Marries Ron Kasselder In Double-Ring Ceremony at Ord on June 8

The United Methodist Church of Ord was the scene for the June 8 wedding of Jo Anne Hrebec, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oldrich Hrebec of Ord, and Ron Kasselder, son of Mrs. Roscoe Kasselder of Ericson. Rev. Clarence Campbell performed the 3 p.m. double-ring ceremony.
Soloist for the wedding was George Baker singing "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer." He was accompanied by Mrs. Dale Karre, organist.
The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. Her long white gown of satin-backed shantung featured an empire waist and elbow-length sleeves. Vencie Galloon lace appeared down the front of the gown, and portions of the lace accented the neckline and sleeve edges. A chapel-length train fell from below the empire waist. Vertical designs formed from the Vencie Galloon lace appeared down the length of the train and across the bottom edge. The veil of silk organza was attached to a small pillbox covered with the satin-backed shantung. Split lace formed designs on the crown.
The gown and veil were designed and fashioned by the bride and her mother.
A pearl-and-diamond pendant, a gift from the groom, was worn by the bride. She carried an arrangement of yellow pom poms and white gladioli.
Maid of honor was Vicki Kasek. Mrs. Shirley McCain, sister of the bride, was bridesmatron. They wore long lime green gowns styled with semi-scooped necklines. Back bows accented the trains which fell from below the empire waists. Each of the attendants carried a yellow and white mum decorated with white ribbon and accents of greenery.
Best man was Gary Gonzales of Omaha. Groomsman was Marvin Young, brother-in-law of the groom.
Dennis Kennedy of Grand Island, Chuck Hrebec, brother of the bride and Kenneth Kasselder of Ericson and Keith Kasselder of Ogallala, both cousins of the groom, seated the guests. The attendants and ushers wore white tuxedos and black toulers.
Kenneth and Keith Kasselder also served as candlelighters.
Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Veterans Club lower level with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fields of Bartlett as the host couple.
At the bridal table were Mrs. Marilyn Young, sister of the groom; Mrs. Annie Kasselder, cousin to the groom; Mrs. Dolores Conner and Mrs. Linda Babka, cousins of the bride; and Mrs. Linda Hansen.
Mrs. Marilyn Conner, sister of the bride, presided at the guest book and also assisted Carlene Krajnik, Matilda Klancecky, and Theresa Osentowski in caring for the gifts.
Honored guests were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hrebec of Ord, and the groom's grandparents, Mr.

Catholic Church at Burwell Is Scene Of Chalupsky-Vandewalle Rite on June 7

Sandra Chalupsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Chalupsky of Burwell, and John Vandewalle, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Vandewalle of Albion, were united in matrimony June 7 at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Burwell.
Rev. Hubert Spanel officiated at the 11 a.m. nuptial mass. A double-ring ceremony was used in the marriage rites.
Dr. Carroll Krause of Springfield, S. D., sang "Prayer of St. Francis of Assisi" and "Ave Maria," and was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Harry DeLashmuth. Tom and Ed Brugman served as acolytes.
The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a gown of white mousseline de soie. The empress bodice featured a portrait neckline and three-quarter length sleeves, with accents of Venice lace. The aisle-wide cathedral train was held in place with a large bow, and the bouffant veil draped from a crown of seed pearls and crystal beads.
Miss Chalupsky carried a colonial bouquet of gardenia and white mums.
Mary Chalupsky served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmatron was Mrs. Melvin Schmadener of St. Paul, a cousin of the bride, and Linda Davies of Burwell was the bridesmaid. They were attired in identical floor-length gowns of spring green featuring sleeveless bodices covered in candy-striped organza with rounded necklines. Matching bouffant headpieces complemented their ensembles, and they carried colonial bouquets of white mums.
Mary Kay Millburn of Albion, cousin of the groom, was flower girl. She was dressed similar to the other attendants.
Michael Vandewalle, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsman were James Vandewalle Jr., also a brother of the groom, and Leon Orender of Lincoln. Ushers were Steve Wells of Comstock, David Brugman of Albion, and Randy Koszeal, Bart Brawn of Lincoln, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.
A reception was held at the Burwell Legion Club following the wedding. The serving table was beautifully decorated with a three-tiered cake, baked by Mrs. Earl Hurst. Host and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wells of Comstock.
Various reception duties were performed by Mrs. Bob Jablonski of Loup City, Mrs. Leroy Iwanski of Comstock, Mrs. Arthur Chalupsky of Chama, N.M., Mrs. Joseph Chalupsky of Bismarck, N.D., Peggy Brownell, and Debra Cronin.
The bride attended Duchesne College of the Sacred Heart at Omaha and recently graduated from the University of Nebraska School of Home Economics. The groom is a 1969 graduate of the University of Nebraska School of Pharmacy.
After a honeymoon to Estes Park, Colo., they will be at home in Mason City, Ia., where the groom is employed.
Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Iwanski of Ord, grandparents of the bride, and Bernard Brugman of Albion, grandfather of the groom.

Family Coffee Time
Maggie and Clara King were hostesses Tuesday for a family coffee at their home. Guests were Mrs. Irving King, Mrs. Willard Harkness and Phyllis, Mrs. Marvin Rice and Joyce, Mrs. Ron Rice, Mrs. Harold King, Connie and Sharon, Mrs. Kent Hornickel and children, and Mrs. Dan Spilneck and children.

Eudell Kotrouis and bride . . . Marilyn Ellingsen.

Marilyn Ellingsen Weds Eudell Kotrouis in Catholic Rites at Creighton Church

Marilyn Ellingsen and Eudell Kotrouis exchanged marriage vows in a 2 p.m. ceremony May 31 at St. Ludger's Catholic Church in Creighton.
Father Fitzgerald officiated in the presence of 75 relatives and friends. Sister Diane of Creighton presented the nuptial music, and accompanied the Manion Sisters of Creighton in two special selections.
The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ellingsen Jr. of Ord, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kotrupus of Verdigré are the groom's parents.
Charles Wyatt of Columbus gave the bride in marriage.
For her wedding Miss Ellingsen chose a white street-length dress of acetate and nylon lace styled with short sleeves and scalloped hemline. Sequin cascades accented the wedding band collar. A cone-shaped crown of Venice lace lavishly trimmed with tiny seed pearls and aurore borealis stones held the three-tiered ballerina-length veil of imported silk illusion.
The bride carried a bouquet of yellow roses tied in white ribbon.
Karen McElhose of Creighton was the maid of honor. She wore a yellow and white street-length dress of Chelsea lace bonded to acetate tulle. The short-sleeved A-line frock featured a pleated front highlighted by a bow. Miss McElhose wore a matching headpiece and carried an arrangement of yellow and white carnations tied with white ribbons.

Michael Smith of Verdigré served the groom as best man. Ushers were John Shaffer of Bloomfield and Alfred Cernousek of Kearney, brothers-in-law of the groom.
A 3:30 p.m. reception followed at the Creighton City Hall.
For traveling the bride wore a brown ensemble trimmed with white ruffled organza.
The couple will reside at 3009 21st St. in Columbus where both are employed by Douglas and Lomason Co.
Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Melvin Ellingsen Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Terry Ellingsen of Ord, Mrs. Lyle Inness of Burwell, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Inness of Grand Island.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

What do young people most want their parents to do for them... or not to do? A world-wide survey of nearly 100,000 boys and girls in Europe, North and South America, Australia, and India came up with 10 do's and don'ts.

Several Ord homes are in the process of having their faces lifted. The Jim Sch house, which has been a deep brown tone for many years, now looks very much alive with a fresh look of snowy white paint.

For a cool refreshing salad I suggest this easy recipe sent in by Mrs. Guy R. Jensen of Sunnyvale, Calif.

Two little girls (of approximate kindergarten age) were overheard making plans for their future. Said one to the other, "When I get big I'm going to comb my hair way up and get married!"

What has happened to our seasons? Just when we of the feminine side think it is time for shorts and sandals the weather changes and we are back to long-sleeved woollens.

George Bremer is proud to have received personal letters from President Richard Nixon and from Janita Roberts, secretary to former President Johnson. The letters express the two men's sincere thanks for a copy of the devotional booklet "Portals of Prayer" which Mr. Bremer sent them earlier this year.

Show me a home with young children and I'll show you a home where every pack of cards counts out at between 37 and 51.

The Dick Crane house will soon be an off-white color trimmed in gray. A pleasant change from that all pink look.

Use juice adding water to make 2 cups. Heat and dissolve jello. When this begins to congeal add: 2/3 c. pimento cheese, fruit cocktail, juice of one lemon, 1 c. miniature marshmallows, and 1/2 c. cream whipped (or 2 T. mayonnaise).

Coffee Cup Philosophy: A person should be like tea - his real strength appearing when he gets in hot water.

Judith Wilkinson, Elliot Johnson Say Vows In Outdoor Setting at Trinity College

In an outdoor setting beneath an arbor decorated with white daisies and ribbon, Judith Wilkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkinson of Chicago, Ill., and Elliot Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Johnson of Ord, were united in marriage on June 7.

The noon ceremony took place at the Trinity College campus in Deerfield, Ill., with Rev. Norman Geisler officiating. He was assisted by Rev. Henry Nyberg. Mary Kay Holen provided organ music for the ceremony and accompanied the Trinity College Glee Club, directed by Mrs. Jacqueline Bell, in "The Lord's Prayer" and "Eternal Life."

The bride was attired in a long gown of silk organza and lace with traditional sleeves and scooped neckline. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias entwined with green ivy.

Attending the bride were Joyce Wilkinson, her sister, as maid-of-honor, and Carol Guard of Carney, Mich., Jan Wray of Ironwood, Mich., and Phyllis Nelson of Meriden, Ia., as bridesmaids. They wore full-length gowns of pale green linen and venetian lace. Bouquets of white daisies completed their ensembles.

Karen Van Vossen was flower girl and James Wilkinson, the bride's brother, was ring bearer. Serving as best man was Steve Gustafson of Phillips. Paul Swan of Gothenburg, Ollie Lenore of Chicago, Ill., and Ken Johnson of Oak Lawn, Ill., were groomsmen. Ushers were Pete Flatebo of Madison, Wis., Dave Jones of Englewood, Fla., and Chuck Farquhar of Des Moines, Ia.

Deborah, a senior at Central Catholic High School, has been accepted to attend the Washington Workshop Congressional Seminar in Washington, D. C. from July 23 to Aug. 3. She will be staying at Mount Vernon Junior College. Deborah also has been invited to join the All-Student chorus U.S.A., which will tour Europe this summer.

Ross Jenkins Dies

Mrs. Vernon Thomas reports the death of her uncle, Ross Jenkins, of Noel, Missouri. He was 63 years old.

Mr. Jenkins grew to manhood in the Riverdale community. He married Virginia Ingraham, and they spent their early married life in the Scotia vicinity.

In the early '30s they moved to the west coast and they lived in Washington and Alaska until six years ago, when he moved to Missouri where he made his home until his death. He is survived by his wife, one son, one daughter, and six grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Thomas of the Riverdale community attended the funeral. They drove to St. Francis, Kansas, and Mrs. Paul Maddox accompanied them to Missouri. Mrs. Maddox is a sister of Mr. Jenkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Prien and daughter, Ricky, returned Sunday from a vacation trip which took them through the Teton, Yellowstone, Montana, Idaho, Utah, and the Rocky Mountains. While they were guests of the John R. Wagner's in Sand Point, Idaho. The two families drove into Washington and British Columbia, Canada.

They visited the Earl Leonard's in Paul, Idaho, and Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bell and their daughter, Thelma, whose home is in Maryland, in Ogden, Utah. The Bells and Leonard's are aunts and uncles of Richard.

They also visited Mrs. Prien's brother, Lee Houtby, and wife in Sidney.

A sister, Hattie Houtby from Morse Bluff and the Lee Houtby's daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Haller and family of Denver and Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Duffy and Kathy of Omaha, were also visiting there. Mrs. Prien reports that her brother is improved since being quite seriously ill about a month ago, but Mrs. Houtby has recently been hospitalized for ten days.

Lyle White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Derwin White, left Sunday for Newport, R. I., where he will attend the Navy's Officer Candidate School for three months before being assigned to a ship.

The busiest corner in Ord, at 16th and L Streets, was brightened up recently as the old Dworak building was renovated as a new home for the Coast to Coast store. Joe Ruzicka, who operated the Coast to Coast store in its old location on M Street for 23 years, said that the move primarily has enabled him to display his merchandise better. However, his housewares line, paint, and automotive departments have also been expanded.

Approximately 50 Brownies and Junior Scouts plus the lone Cadet of the Ord troops experienced camp life in both sunshine and rain last week as they attended Girl Scout Day Camp at the Veterans grounds.

Mrs. Robert Stib, camp director, was assisted by her daughter Roxann who played the part of camp director's aid — a requirement in Cadet training. A number of mothers assisted at the camp site each day, and Mrs. Harry Kramer assumed the task of commodity buyer for the week.

During the stay at camp the girls had an opportunity to assist with cooking over an open campfire, fire building, and wood gathering. During their leisure moments there was time for hiking, crafts, and singing. Roy Snyder, executive camp director from Grand Island was a visitor on Thursday.

At the close of the week-long activities Friday, each girl received a camp patch. Friday night the older girls in the group shivered through the below-normal June temperatures to sleep overnight in a tent. Mrs. Laverne Rasmussen, Mrs. Don Scovs, and Mrs. Sich were the brave overnight chaperones.

The Day Camp sessions are a semi-climax to Girl Scout Activities until the fall meeting.

Budget Dispute Has Jaws Flapping In Statehouse Corridors at Lincoln

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — The price of running state government was the overriding issue in the legislature last week — and probably will be until the session ends.

The hard decisions about how many taxpayer dollars should be allocated for each of the many functions the state carries on must now be made.

No matter whose opinion of the budget problems you listen to, a lot of dollars are involved. Hundreds of millions of dollars.

But just how many dollars should be spent? That is the question that is being pondered.

Late last year, the state agencies began submitting their estimates of what they would need to do what they think ought to be done during the fiscal years of 1969 and 1970 — or during the 1969-71 biennium.

Their requests totaled nearly a half-billion dollars.

The governor thought that was too much, and the executive budget he submitted to the legislature called for a total of about $314 million.

The budget committee in turn thought that was too much, and it introduced a budget bill with a state tax price tag of $297 million.

And at least one member of the budget committee thought that was too much. Senator Clifton Batchelder of Omaha said the total ought to be closer to $280 million — at least it ought to be a total which wouldn't require an increase in sales or income taxes.

Meanwhile, agency reaction to the committee's recommendations began. One after another, complaints were heard that this program or that service would be crippled if an agency were forced to live within financial limits proposed by the committee.

Many of the agencies found Gov. Norbert Tiemann had a sympathetic ear. Reminding the taxpayers, the senators and the agencies that the budget he had recommended carried — in his opinion — "no fat" and was so severely written there was no way to cut it without destroying the state's progress, Tiemann began a campaign to have restored some of the funds lopped by the committee.

He began sending letters to the legislature listing areas he thought needed financial reinforcement and explaining why.

Mental retardation, he said, should be attacked on a regional basis with a system of day-care centers. The committee had rejected this approach.

The Nebraska Psychiatric Institute in Omaha, Tiemann said, would be crippled if the committee's appropriations were adopted.

The state fire marshal's office, he said, has been ignored in budgets for 44 years and a giant stride must be taken to bring it up to the strength he considers adequate. Tiemann wanted 20 new employees in the coming biennium; the committee recommended two.

The governor said salary limitations for the state patrol and college faculties were unwise, that the committee may have underestimated the amount needed to finance the Medicaid program, that the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission's efforts would be handicapped by the committee-recommended appropriation.

He indicated he would ask that almost everything the committee had shaved from his proposed budget be put back — including the request for an additional assistant in his office and strengthening of the executive budget staff.

In many of these areas Tiemann might find the going tough as he seeks restoration of the recommendations and the committee's suggestions.

The senators are in the middle of a tug-of-war, with public demand for tax relief on one side and public demand for more services on the other.

There is one area in which a major philosophical battle probably will be waged, it is in the general field of mental health. This includes training of mentally retarded, operation of the psychiatric institute, and decentralization of the treatment program.

Pressure on the state treasury is also building from local subdivisions of government — the cities, the counties, and the school districts.

Each is asking the state to provide a larger amount of centrally collected taxes to ease the local load on property taxes.

Time after time, as the senators go through the budget proposals, they will have to decide whether the taxpayers can afford new parks and recreation areas, continued state cooperation with community betterment programs, expansion of higher learning institutions to handle predicted enrollment increases, new vocational-technical schools, and countless other expensive issues.

Scottsbluff Senator Terry Carpenter suggested that the problem be handed over — politically — to Tiemann. He said the legislature ought to substitute the governor's budget proposals for the committee recommendations and go home.

He said he didn't think even the governor's budget was large enough to operate state government in the coming biennium. If it turns out it isn't, Carpenter said, the legislature could return in a special session and make up the difference.

His plan for delegating senatorial responsibility to the governor, however, wasn't popular with his colleagues.

Tiemann, on the other hand, said he has faith in his recommendations and said he could keep the state going with the amounts he proposed.

However, he said his budget needs a 2½ percent sales tax for the full biennium. This means the half-percent point which has been missing since January would have to be restored and the lost revenue made up (apparently through a 3 percent tax the last half of the year). In addition, no new spending bills could be passed.

Exchange Student Talks to Auxiliary

The Ord VFW Auxiliary met June 9 with 24 members present. Highlight of the evening was an interesting talk given by Ord's exchange student, Joke Hausmann of the Netherlands. She was presented an Auxiliary key chain and a photograph of her Ord family, the Duane Wolfes.

Delegates chosen for the convention to be held this weekend in Kearney were Martina Zukoski, Ruth Lech, Ginger Sisch, Beth Adamek, Mary Marshall, and Norma Fox.

In other news it was announced that Fern Bredthauer, Ruth Lech, Mary Marshall, and Norma Fox, Auxiliary president, had participated in Memorial Day services at the local cemetery.

Also, Auxiliary members living in the Elyria community have planted flowers inside painted tractor tires at the park area around the Fort Hartsuff historical marker. Flowers were also planted for border shrubbery to beautify the area.

Twenty-five dollars was given to Madeline Hruby, now a patient at the Valley County Hospital and the daughter of a V.F.W. member.

Tickets will be sold as chances on a portable TV to be given away at the Auxiliary dance July 5.

The ladies also decided to give away door prizes at each meeting starting in September. Fifteen Freeman and Olive Stoen were initiated as new members of the Auxiliary.

A clean-up, fix-up and paint-up of the Vets Grounds was chosen as the Auxiliary project in the community betterment program for the year.

Lunch was served by hostesses Fern Bredthauer and Mildred Boro.

Plain Valley Club

Mrs. Venard Collins was hostess to the Plain Valley Extension Club June 12. Mrs. Arvin Dye was co-hostess. A picnic is planned for the Ord park July 13, and the club will sponsor Jean Kokes as a candidate for queen of the Valley County Fair.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Arvin Dye who also gave the lesson on sandwiches. Secret sister birthday gifts were received by Mrs. Bill Novusad Jr. and Mrs. Lyle Sevenker.

P.E.O.

Members of the P.E.O. met at the home of Mrs. Dave Van Norder, with Mrs. Evelyn Janicek, Mrs. J. B. Ferguson co-hostess. The program consisted of a report on the state P.E.O. convention which was held recently in Lincoln. The report was given by the local president, Mrs. Harold Christensen.

Farmer's Share of Food Dollar Up

In a recent report published by the United States Department of Agriculture, it was noted that farmers received an extra two cents from each dollar consumers spent on food during the first quarter of 1969.

The average farm share for the three months was 40 cents. This is two cents higher than the October-December index and one cent higher than the estimate for all of 1969.

Only during two of the last 11 years — 1964 and 1958 — have farmers averaged as much as 40 cents of the nation's food dollar over a 12-month period.

Stilbesterol Implants Increase Pasture Gains

Yearling steers implanted with stilbesterol at the beginning of the grazing season usually gain 25-35 pounds more during the summer grazing season than those not implanted.

The cost of implanting is low — about 20 cents per head. The labor and inconvenience of handling the cattle will be greater than the cost of the implant.

Two pellets (either 12 or 15 milligrams) implanted near the base of the ear are recommended. Heavier levels may cause side-effects which detract from appearance at sale time.

Research has proven that steers implanted with stilbesterol during the pasture season gain about the same in the feedlot as their brothers that are not implanted.

Although some increase in gain can be expected from implanting heifers, the response is so variable that the practice is not routinely recommended.

'Food Factories' in Nebraska More Than 200,000

Nebraska has some 210,000 living, breathing "food factories" — in the form of dairy cows. These "factories" produce high quality food from crude raw materials.

The dairy cow excels over all other animals in producing protein, which is the nutrient lacking in many human diets.

The yearly production of edible solids manufactured by the average Nebraska dairy cow amounts to about 1,160 pounds. This is roughly equivalent to the edible solids produced by six steers.

An important feature of the dairy cow as a "food factory" is that she can produce excellent protein, energy, vitamins, and minerals from raw materials (feeds) that are not used in human diets. She can digest grass and other forages which have little food value for humans.

Since protein, calcium, and vitamins are the nutrients most often deficient in human diets, the role of the dairy cow as a "food factory" will become more crucial to human nutrition in the years ahead.

Gerald Manchester Dies Unexpectedly At Age 66 Years

Gerald Manchester, a native of Valley County, died Sunday at his home in Ord after a brief illness. He was 66 years old.

The son of Edwin and Dora (Naeve) Manchester, the deceased was married to Ora Walkup at Ord on Feb. 18, 1924. He farmed in Valley County most of his life and in 1958 moved to town, where he was employed for several years by the Ord Cooperative Elevator.

Survivors are his wife, of Ord; his mother, of North Loup; four sons, Kenneth, Keith, Lyle and Alvin Manchester, all of Ord; six daughters, Esther Manchester, Betty Pegg, Evelyn Janicek, and Bethene Manchester, all of Ord; Ruth Wheeler of Burwell, and Phyllis Chileski of Constock; two brothers, Leonard of Ord and Lloyd Manchester of Ventura, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Heatha Bridge of North Loup and Mrs. Lois Dowell of Torrance, Calif.; 24 grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Mr. Manchester was preceded in death by his father and one sister.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the United Methodist Church of Ord, with Rev. C. R. Campbell officiating. Mrs. Sharon Fuss sang "Beyond the Sunset" and "The Old Rugged Cross." Mrs. Shirley Kaire was the organist.

Interment was in the Ord City Cemetery with the Hastings-Pearson Mortuary in charge of arrangements. Pallbearers were Alvin Moudry, Floyd Arnold, Walter Douthitt, Ralph Spurling, Lyle Kapuska and James Vasicek.

Church Rites Held For Scotia Woman, Mrs. Amelia Seefus

Funeral services were held Friday at Zion Lutheran Church in Scotia for Mrs. Amelia Seefus, who died June 10 after a six-month illness.

Rev. Stanley Rosenau officiated at the 2 p.m. service which followed a special family prayer time. The Waltham League choir sang "Just As I Am" and "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," accompanied at the organ by Cynthia Bredthauer.

Pallbearers were Arvin Bredthauer, Eugene Bredthauer, Leland Bredthauer, Oscar Bredthauer, Frank Fuss, and Daryl Holl.

Interment was in Mount Hope Cemetery at Scotia with Hastings-Pearson Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Seefus was born Nov. 8, 1893, at Elyria, the daughter of William and Dortha (Vogler) Bredthauer.

At an early age she moved with her parents to Greeley County near Scotia and made her home there until 1912, when they moved to Scotia itself. Mr. Seefus preceded her in death Dec. 3, 1964.

A member of the Zion Lutheran Church of Scotia, Mrs. Seefus leaves to mourn her passing one son, Philip Seefus of Scotia. Besides her husband, she was preceded in death by her parents, six brothers, and one sister.

Californians Honored

A family picnic at the Veterans grounds Sunday was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Lashmett of San Gabriel, Calif., and Mrs. Leo Kesler of Anaheim, Calif. Present with the honored guests were Mrs. Froncy Klancecky, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sevenker, Mrs. Erna Klancecky, Mrs. Emma Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adams, Mr. and Mrs. John Kokes, Mrs. Alice Urbaniski, Lyle Sevenker and family, Mrs. Rita Barnes and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Weverka and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Klancecky and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kasson, all of Ord; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Allen and family and Kathy Kokes of Lincoln; Mr. and Mrs. Ron Wells and family of Cotesfield, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hruza and family of Erie, son, Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards of North Loup; Matilda Klancecky of Grand Island; and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nightingale, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ashman and Roxanne, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Krikac, all of Burwell.

New in Ord

Jerry Watson of Council Bluffs, La. is the newest employee of Quiz Graphic Arts, Inc. having begun work June 10. Prior to moving to Ord, Mr. Watson was employed in a commercial printing plant at Omaha.

He, his wife Gerry, and sons Steven, 10, Thomas, 7, and Mark, 5, are home on Lloyd Geweke's north ranch.

The first wagon train traveled the Oregon-Trail in 1830.

Duane Kovarik Wins With Brown Swiss

An Ord youth came home with a trophy, a handful of ribbons, and two grand championships in the state's District 4 Brown Swiss Show held last week in Broken Bow.

Duane Kovarik, who's used to winning awards with his dairy cattle, took grand championships in the senior division for showmanship and in the junior bull competition. He promptly sold his bull but will enter the three-year-old cow with which he won the showmanship title in this summer's Valley County Fair competition.

Kovarik also took first place in class with a senior heifer calf and had the third best uddered cow in the show. He received blue ribbons for both.

Red ribbons were received for a two-year-old heifer and the three-year-old cow that won the showmanship competition.

There were 32 entries in the show. Jim Kuhlman, Buffalo County agent, served as judge.

Are You Standing?

A great many citizens became quite alarmed last summer over the excessive use of firearms to commit crimes. There were demands that guns be registered, and even that they be prohibited completely from public possession.

Yet there is something which constitutes a far greater threat to United States internal security today. It is the cloak of anonymity, under which so many shirk their public and private responsibilities.

Everyone has heard of the big-city crowds who stood by as a woman was raped or murdered, not wanting to get involved. "For shame," we say, and think what heartless people those New Yorkers must be.

Yet the same malady of non-involvement which afflicted those people threatens the residents of Ord and other small-town cities in mid-America.

Mayor Bill French tells the story of a highly respected individual in this community who called him once to say that two Volkswagens were racing around the cinder track at the Ord High School athletic field.

"Don't tell me about it—tell the police," French answered. "But I don't want to get involved," came the reply. The man was afraid word would get out concerning his action and his business would be hurt.

Supposedly that same individual is now being considered for a vacancy on the Ord City Council. We trust that the councilmen will think long and hard before accepting such a one to sit in their ranks.

Non-involvement is perhaps most obvious to us in the newspaper profession. What we write is printed in black and white for all to see, to hash over, and to tear apart.

And a newspaper which is conscientiously fulfilling its responsibility welcomes this public spotlight—this opportunity to take stands on controversial issues, to lead, and to encourage others. Thus, it is that the Ord Quiz has endeavored to stand up and be counted when it mattered—regardless of who might be offended. As a result we have not always been popular, but we hope we have been respected.

Yet we welcome—even long for—some company. In our "Vox Pop" column we offer readers the opportunity to express their views, to show where they stand. All too often those who use this forum request that they remain anonymous, and quite often this anonymity spoils the entire effect of an otherwise good letter.

Such was the case when one writer recently deplored the fact that too few turned out for Memorial Day services to honor the nation's dead servicemen. The point was quite appropriate—yet for some reason the writer who chided others for not standing up to be counted refused to do so himself by permitting his name to be published.

This past week an Ord policeman was fired, and a group of concerned citizens requested a meeting with Mayor French to determine why. The mayor obliged and presented his side of the story.

While the facts at this time do not permit a clear black-and-white understanding of who was right and who was wrong, the mayor did make one point which seemed very appropriate: Law enforcement is as much a citizen's responsibility as it is a policeman's.

Thus, the individual who knows how a minor is obtaining liquor has a responsibility to report it. The same can be said for the individual who sees an obviously reckless driver, or some other known law-breaker.

A healthy community must have citizens who are willing to accept such responsibility if it is to remain healthy.

Double Standards

From Washington Exclusive

The State Department, despite a change of administration, continues to operate under a double standard.

Some who are friendly to our government are refused entry on travel visa. Others who contest everything this nation stands for get red-carpet treatment.

When Indonesia's Sukarno toured the U.S. as the head of that nation, he was supplied with a bevy of women to accompany him. This was exposed by one of the large metropolitan newspapers, to the embarrassment of the State Department. Not long afterward the Indonesians ousted Sukarno for attempting to sell out his country to Red China.

But when pro-American Moise Tshombe was invited to our shores to receive an award from the Young Americans for Freedom in 1962 for his resistance to Communism, the State Department refused the application. This was after "state" visits by Khrushchev and Castro.

The awards were not a right-wing reactionary plot. Others who received U.S. awards were the late President Hoover, former New Jersey Governor Edison, seymour prominent senators, congressmen, and other public figures.

Tshombe is currently being held prisoner by the pro-Soviet Algerian government. He was skyjacked while aboard a chartered plane. He has been imprisoned, without trial, for two years.

Another undesirable admitted to the nation, in March 1969, was the young radical Karl Dietrich Wolff. A leader in West Germany's equivalent of the Students for a Democratic Society, he spoke on 14 college campuses, called the leaders of the U.S. racists and imperialists, he termed the Los Angeles police "pigs," used obscene language at a Senate subcommittee meeting, called the senators butchers, advocated draft dodging, and preached nothing but hate for the U.S.

It seems to us high time the State Department took a look at its policy and rid itself of this irrational double standard.

A release published by the Marathon Oil Co. notes that motor vehicle registrations in the United States are closing in on the 100 million mark, or one vehicle for every two persons in the nation. More than 80 percent are passenger cars.

Geranium Joe Fellers Find Shoe on Other Foot As Democrats Flail Republicans

DEAR MISTER EDITOR: After the session Saturday night, I am of a mind Charlie Radt has got a rough row to hoe for the next three years. It was open season for Republican Charlie during the Johnson and Kennedy years, and actually he has been taking potshots at Democratic administrations ever since the Roosevelt New Deal.

Well, sir, Saturday night Charlie sat and took it. Paul Waldmann got the session started by allowing it looks like Nixon is trying to out-Johnson Johnson, and Paul said he went with Johnson as far as he could. Billy Beran got in some hard licks too at the new administration.

Paul told the fellers he was well aware Mr. Nixon aired some big problems when he got elected, but he said he can't think of a single situation that has been improved. Nixon, felled Paul is trying to keep everybody happy by saying one thing and doing another.

For instance, Paul said when Nixon first went into office he said he was getting rid of the Job Corps and was going to trim some fat off the post office. The Job Corps now has a bunch of new centers and is going full steam, Paul said, and the fat in the post office is just being shifted around from one make-work job to another.

When the North Koreans captured our boat, Paul said Nixon called for new leadership. When the North Koreans shot down our airplane, he changed his tune.

As for doctoring up the welfare system, Paul said, it looks like Nixon is trying to set up a whole new class of people by taking 2 million poor folks off the tax rolls.

Paul said even Charlie agreed food stamps were a good way to help the poor help themselves, but now Nixon wants to give cash instead of stamps cause some folks are ashamed to use stamps. "If a man is hungry hell swallow his pride," was Paul's words.

Bill Beran said he can't help but think of what old Harry Truman said when Ike got elected. Harry said, "he will enter the White House, and give orders, and nothing will happen."

Mr. Nixon may be giving a lot of orders, allowed Billy, but a Vietnam War is going full blast, and money is getting cheaper faster than ever.

Paul said he saw where students were planning "work ins" this summer to get to know the working class. He said it was a good idea for students to get to know what work is, but he had seen where industries in this country invest an average of $25,000 per every new job created.

The way Nixon is going, Paul said, he'll want to save industry by paying the students not to work.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

Local Boy Makes Good

It was a pleasant surprise to see Tom Furtak included in a news picture last week as one of the cast for the Front Street show in good old western Ogallala.

Ever since I toured this lively replica of the Old West I have been a booster for what Ogallala has done to produce a worthwhile entertainment, and one that the travelling public finds a pure delight.

It has been going on for several years. I don't know who began it, but one of the people who pep it up is Beans Benz — one of the best ragtime piano players you'd ever want to hear. He makes every evening a gala one for visitors, after the show on stage.

For the show, young misses home from college are happy to try out. A cast of six or eight is chosen to learn the dances and provide the imitation of an old-time pony chorus. It is complete with high kicking and beautiful costumes.

There is also a sort of morality play presented, with fun for all. There's a villain to hiss, a tender heroine to worry about, all the usual poses and lines to make the audience boo or clap. The costumes add a definite lift.

Tom will be in this summer's play, and doing quite a bit of singing. He is a student at the University of Nebraska, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Furtak of Ord.

Mr. and Mrs. Furtak drove to Ogallala Saturday and stayed overnight to see just what — all their son's enthusiasm was about. They came home feeling they'd had a real holiday, astonished at the extent of the Front Street development with its many old store fronts, its duplication of early-day shops.

That Ogallala is a real going place. Personally I feel it is more worth a visit than North Platte with its Nebraskaland Days.

This is big Lake McConaughy for fishing and boating. There is that famous tiny church near the lake, where worshippers of one denomination face one altar, those of other sects the opposite way.

There are the big, wonderful ranches. And the big wonderful industries that have developed there and really made the town.

The interstate glides by to the south, and where the big interchange has made a sweeping four-way corner, a huge new Holiday Inn is thriving. And catty-corner a big Ramada Inn is under construction. And an excellent filling station takes up another large space. So the touring public is steered effortlessly in toward this booming western Nebraska town.

I might add that Ogallala also has a going newspaper. And you know "they say" no town will amount to anything unless it has a live, concerned newspaper.

Ogallala has a good one, published for years by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Buechler, who lately sold out to Jack Pollack who also comes from a dependable Nebraska publishing family.

So, I say, hurrah for Tom. Let's all go and see him this summer.

Dear Sir: I would like to take this opportunity on behalf of our track team and school to thank you for the excellent coverage your paper gave to the Loup Quiz track squad this spring.

Your articles and photos go a long way in revealing the many long hours of practice which the athletes must spend if they are to have any measure of success. Your interest in area athletics is not typical of the majority of local papers in the general area. It is my hope that your fine coverage will continue in the future.

Thanks again for your efforts.

Dear Sir: The following is a copy of an interview with Glen Auble, which my teacher, O. Greene — assigned me to do for English during 1928. Hope Mr. Auble will not mind and I did enjoy the privilege of doing it, having the chance to decide on my own choice of person to interview.

The Charms of Music "Music is a sound or a combination of sounds pleasing to the ear," is the definition I got from Mr. Glen Auble, a noted musician of Ord.

Mr. Auble is an inhabitant of Ord, was born and raised on a farm for 15 years. He attended and was graduated from Ord High School in 1913. His interest is shown in Ord in that he organized the first Ord High School Orchestra when he was in the ninth grade in 1902. A year later he organized the first Ord High School Band, which he kept going until graduation time and only a few following years.

"Music in my life is a clear case of heredity," says Mr. Auble, "as my mother and father were both musically inclined and used to take us children along when they were out of school, and which was my beginning interest."

"Music travels in cycles and rotates about every 25 years; that is, we find similarities between music of today and that of 25 years ago. To illustrate this, the song called 'Blue Ridge Mountain Home' that is popular today is a type song of 25 years ago. Also, the song 'Golden Slippers' that is heard today is 30 years old."

"According to Mr. Auble's knowledge of good music, it may be divided into three groups — namely:

1. Head music, soul music, and feet music.

"Head music is more of the classical type requiring study to understand and appreciate. Mr. Beethoven is the best author of such."

"Soul music is of the sacred type such as 'Old Rugged Cross,' 'Sweet By and By,' 'Nearer My God To Thee,' in fact, any sacred song. Sentimental are such as 'O Perfect Day,' 'Old Black Joe,' and 'Silver Threads Among the Gold.' Stephen Foster is the well known author of soul music."

"Feet music needs very little explanation, as there is so much of it and it can be good or bad. Among the better type can be classified good marches that are played on the street and down the aisle or street and keeping time to it, 'Turkey in the Straw' has a tendency to move your feet, also such a piece as 'Doll Dance,' Irving Berlin is the most noted author."

"On inquiring of Mr. Auble what were the most popular songs of today, he remarked 'My Blue Heaven,' 'Among My Souvenirs,' 'Highways Are Happy Ways,' 'Rag Doll Dance,' 'Baby You're Mother,' and 'Sweetheart of Sigma Chi.' He says, also there are plenty of popular or dance pieces that serve their purpose and others they refuse to sell."

"Popular music is drifting more to the sentimental which Mr. Auble knows will be more uplifting. He says at present they sell more popular music on account of demand, but would like to sell more of the better type for the good of the buyer. He is thankful, however, that the present popular type of music is better than that of two or three years ago. He thinks people never have nor never can be happy without some form of music, even the natives of Africa."

In summary, music is an art of better type which has an appeal to our better nature."

Written in 1928 by Ellen Stanton Breenick.

The Scott Report

From The Washington News-Intelligence Syndicate
By Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Public airing of the FBI's recordings of private conversations Dr. Martin Luther King conducted with his protest advisers could go a long way toward changing the image of the slain civil rights leader.

Summaries of the recordings, as revealed to members of a House appropriations subcommittee headed by Rep. John J. Rooney (D-N.Y.), clearly indicate that King was in direct contact with one of the most influential communists in the United States.

With leads obtained from its electronic eavesdropping, the FBI was able to confirm that this Kremlin agent — whose influence extended into the highest ranks of the Communist Party, USA — was one of King's ghost writers and a chief adviser on protest strategy.

In addition to evidence gained from the King recordings, the FBI succeeded in taking several photographs of the civil rights leader meeting with this covert Communist operator at a major U.S. airport.

King, whose assassination at Memphis, Tenn., in April, 1968, is still carried as an "open investigation" by the FBI, was first put under government surveillance in 1961 when the late Robert Kennedy was attorney general.

For the Record

These and other still secret details of King's activities were revealed by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to members of the Rooney subcommittee shortly before the civil rights leader was slain. Deeply concerned about King's plans to disrupt Washington, the legislators had requested the briefing so they would be prepared to blunt his assault on Congress should that become necessary.

So alarming was the FBI data on King that the lawmakers took the extraordinary step of briefing House Speaker John McCormack. This information along with other material furnished by the FBI caused McCormack to make extensive preparations, including the alerting of military units, to defend the Capitol against King's plans to cause massive disruption.

The House Democratic leaders, all strong supporters of the late President Kennedy, were reportedly shocked at the gutter-type language King used in private conversations about the late President.

More To Come

Whether most of these FBI recordings — since many of them deal with national security cases still under investigation — will ever be revealed by the Nixon Administration is conjectural.

Should supporters of King, however, pump new life into the stalled drive in Congress to create a national holiday honoring him, demands could become forthcoming from anti-King legislators that Hoover be called to testify. If that occurs, the "Martin Luther King tapes" could become big news.

For now, the only public confirmation of the King recordings comes from Houston Federal Judge Joe Ingraham's hearing involving the case of former heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay.

Unwelcome Visitor

Senate Democratic Whip Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) painfully learned a lesson in White House protocol last week.

With Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) away from Washington, Kennedy was invited as acting Senate leader to a White House meeting called by President Nixon to brief congressional leaders on his Midway conference with South Vietnam's President Thieu.

When Kennedy showed up at the White House with Senator Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), an outspoken critic of Nixon's Vietnam and defense policies, a White House aide inquired about the latter's presence.

Testimony by FBI Agents

Testimony by FBI agents in the Houston hearing revealed that conversations of King and Clay were recorded. In one instance Judge Ingraham pronounced it a matter of national security and refused to let it be made public.

Clay, convicted of draft dodging in June, 1967, and sentenced to five years in prison, is appealing his conviction. The U.S. Supreme Court ordered Ingraham to hold a hearing to see whether illegal wiretap testimony was used to convict Clay.

Both the movement to mark King's birthday as a national holiday and the Houston court hearing clearly indicate that the final chapter in the Martin Luther King story is yet to be written.

Club News

Club Goals Set

Two meetings of the Cloverettes 4-H Club were held recently. Songs to be sung at the 4-H contest have been decided upon, and members are concentrating on sewing and first aid projects.

Three club goals also have been chosen. They are 100 percent completion of all projects, one project for a better community, and every member in the group giving at least one donation.

Officers for the current club year are Peg Work, president; Sharon Patska, vice-president; Kathleen Lukesh, secretary; Melissa Kubitschek, treasurer; and Renee Gross, news reporter.

Float Ideas Ready

Rita Wojtaszek was hostess to the regular meeting of the Bonnie Belles 4-H Club Monday at her home. Roll call was answered with suggestions for the Valley County Fair parade float.

Merry Miras

The June 6 meeting of the Merry Miras 4-H Club was held at the Eugene Bredthauer home. Roll call was answered by telling what misery is. Members also reported on 4-H projects and showed their patterns and material.

Dianna Peterson demonstrated how to make a Father's Day card, while Vicky Bredthauer showed different methods of marking darts.

Club Goals Set

Next Tuesday members will meet at the drive-in for lunch before going to work at the hospital. Later they will have a meeting at the Carson Rogers home with Roxann Rogers and Pat Peterson giving demonstrations.

Favoring Sport

Nine members of the Practical Princesses 4-H Club answered roll call by naming their favorite sport when they met at Norma Kreilek's house June 6. Miss Kreilek gave a demonstration on how to measure food, and Carol Peterson assisted her in planning games. Strawberry shortcake and Kool-Aid were served for lunch.

Demonstration by Ann

The Clever Cuties 4-H Club met June 3 for an evening meeting with Ann Zlomke. Seven members and two visitors — Janet Guggenmos of Holyoke, Colo., and Mrs. Wayne Zlomke — were present.

After singing a 4-H song, the members were shown how to arrange a dresser top — a demonstration from the "Groom Your Room" project — given by the hostess. Recreation leader Shannon Grove led the group in an outdoor game after refreshments were served by Ann and her mother.

Another meeting is planned tonight (Thursday) with Shannon Grove as hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Duane Carson and family visited Mrs. Carson's mother, Mrs. Elsie Sautter, in Grand Island recently.

Come to Church

Church Going A Pleasure

As we travel across this great land of ours, we see many varied and beautiful churches. It is a faithful reminder of the importance of religion in our American way of life. We present day Americans need to be reminded that, when our Pilgrim forefathers arrived in New England the very first house they built was the house of God! After that, they built their own homes! Because they gave the church such importance in their lives we have a strong nation today!

WHAT WE MAKE THEM, and church-going in any situation can be a pleasure! At any church God is there, if you want Him to be, and God's people are there, including yourself. Together, you can make any atmosphere delightful. Some people go to church because of a sense of duty. I feel sorry for them. Church going should be a pleasure — a thrilling adventure that lifts the tides of one's life! Here are some simple suggestions offered by Dr. Ragsdale I'd like to share with you readers — suggestions which, when followed, will turn church going from a boring duty into a matchless adventure: 1) NEVER MISS; 2) KNOW WHAT THE SERMON PATTERN IS; 3) BE RECEPTIVE — NOT CRITICAL; 4) DO NOT EXPECT THE SERMON TO PLEASE YOU EVERY TIME; 5) GIVE AS WELL AS RECEIVE; 6) TELL OTHERS!

Former Resident of Arcadia Dies

June 12 At Odessa, Texas

Olive Melvina Leininger, 93, formerly of Arcadia, died June 12 at Odessa, Tex.

Mrs. Leininger was born Nov. 17, 1875, at Portland, Ia., to Alpheus and Frances Clift Walkup. She moved to Nebraska with her parents in 1891.

On Oct. 12, 1898, she was married to William Henry Johnson, and to this union three sons were born. They are Merrill Johnson of Pacific Grove, Calif.; George Washington Johnson of Stuttgart, Ark.; and Everett Alpheus Johnson of Odessa, Tex. All survive her. Mr. Johnson passed away in 1916.

After the death of her first husband in 1916, the then Mrs. Leininger was married to William Johnson at Ord on Oct. 3, 1928. He died in 1937.

For several years prior to 1948 Mrs. Leininger had lived in Arcadia. She had made her home in Texas for the past five years, living at Grand Island Home the last three of them. There she had made many friends and had enjoyed the various activities at the home. She also looked forward each week to receiving the Ord Quiz, as well as letters from friends and relatives. She has kept in contact with over the years.

She leaves one brother, George Walkup, a retired forest ranger who resides with his wife at Whitcross, Utah; her three sons; seven grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; and one nephew. She was preceded in death by her husbands, four brothers, and one sister.

Off The Square

Double Reason
A joint birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson and children Wednesday evening to celebrate the birthdays of Marci Marshall, who was 3 years old, and Mr. Thompson. Other guests were Marci's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Marshall, and sister Mitzi.

Scofield Injures Eye
Merwin Scofield, a farm employee of the Dean Brosleys, was taken to Omaha last Thursday for the removal of a steel particle from his eye. Surgery was performed at Clarkson Hospital.

Mr. Scofield returned home Tuesday evening and is recovering nicely. It is believed that his eyesight will not be impaired.

Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Kokes were Mrs. Emma Adamek, Mrs. Froyne Klancek, Mrs. Erna Klancek, Mrs. Leo Kessler of California, Mrs. Everett Lashmuth of California, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Seveker, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adamek, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom McMachon of Central City.

Personals

Burwell Woman Greet School Friends of 40 Years Ago

By Wilma Baldwin Mrs. Chad Miller took her mother, Mrs. Alfred Kilpatrick, and May of Burwell on a trip to Wyoming Saturday. Sunday morning Mrs. Kilpatrick and daughters attended the alumni celebration of Wheatland High School. Mrs. Kilpatrick's graduating class was being honored on its 40th anniversary.

Sunday afternoon the ladies drove to Douglas, Wyo., and attended the 50th wedding anniversary of some friends. Mrs. Ferris Bruner. That evening they drove to Laramie Peak and were overnight guests of Mrs. Kilpatrick's mother, Mrs. Allan Prager. The ladies returned home Monday.

Early Sunday morning the Sand Flats received more rain, as 62 of an inch fell on the east side. Going west the amount was less, with about a quarter of an inch falling on the extreme west side.

On Leave From Navy Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Baldwin, of Burwell, attended a family picnic Thursday in the home of Mr. Baldwin's mother, Mrs. Pearl Baldwin, at Ord. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Adams and Peggy of Pullman, Wash., Mr. and Mrs. John Nielsen and Karen of Omaha, and the Nielsen's son, Seaman First Class, who is on leave from the Navy. Also present was Seaman Nielsen's fiancée, Linda Brickman of Elk-horn. She and her future husband were Thursday overnight guests of the Frankie Baldwins. Jack will be remembered here as he spent several summers with the Baldwins and his grandmother, Mrs. Pearl Baldwin. He is being transferred from the U.S.S. Essex at Boston, Mass., to Norfolk, Va., where he will serve on the U.S.S. America.

Burwell Man's Father Stricken Mrs. Celby Connor, Mark and Karen of Burwell are spending this week with Mrs. Connor's parents, the Oldrich Hebecks. Jack will be remembered here as he was called there to be with his father, Orville Connor, who suffered a heart attack and was in serious condition.

Personals Mr. and Mrs. Ted Kokes, May and John of Buhle, Idaho, arrived Monday for a visit with his brothers and sisters. They stayed first with Mr. and Mrs. John Kokes until Wednesday. They also visited with Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Ennis and Mike of Camden, S.C., who have been visiting the Joe Kokes since last week. Mrs. Ennis and Ted Kokes are brother and sister. Tuesday evening the John Kokeses hosted a picnic in honor of the two visiting families. Guests besides the honorees were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kokes and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Blaha, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Kokes of North Loup, and Janet Lange. Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Collins helped her aunt, Mrs. Vivian Turner, move Sunday.

Deborah Barnett Marries Tom Mroczek In Afternoon Rites at Loup City Church

St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Loup City was the scene of the June 21 wedding when Deborah Barnett became the bride of Tom Mroczek. Rev. Daniel Fishburn performed the 1 p.m. ceremony and Patricia Lorenz provided nuptial music with Carl Baillie as soloist.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Obermiller of Loup City are the bride's parents. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mroczek of Ord. Patricia Obermiller served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Margalee Thomas and Janice Mroczek. They wore floor-length mint green dresses with front and back panels of white nylon organza. Short veils of mint green net caught up in a white lace crown completed their attire. Each attendant carried one large yellow mum.

The flower girl, Jane Mroczek, was dressed in a white gown styled to match the gowns of the bridesmaids. She carried a basket of yellow rose petals. Russell Obermiller was the ringbearer.

The bride's gown was fashioned as an A-shaped cage of acetate satin. Detained styling included a satin bow at the bodice and at the top of the scooped back, and long sleeves ending in traditional bridal points. A train of acetate and nylon lace flowed from the shoulders, and seapoyed lace accented the hemline and train.

Miss Barnett's shoulder-length veil of white illusion was topped with a cluster of satin pillows, and she carried a French cascade of yellow roses and white pom poms.

Best man was Ron Mroczek, brother of the groom. The groomsmen were Dave Barnett and Ken Kowalski. Gary Phifer, Frank Eurek, John Obermiller, and Don Mroczek seated the guests.

A reception for the couple was held at the V.F.W. Hall with

Ed Kaspers Celebrate 42nd Year of Marriage

The 42nd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kasper was observed Sunday at a family gathering in the Kasper home. Present for this special occasion were the couple's son, Don Kasper, and family of Denver, Colo. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Frazer of North Loup, Mr. and Mrs. Willie McCain and daughter of Ericson, Mrs. Celby Conner and children of Burwell, Mr. and Mrs. Oldrich Hrebec, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Conner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Marek and family, and George Kasper. Additional afternoon and supper guests were Mr. and Mrs. Vlad Babka, Mrs. Alice Urbanski, and Mrs. Emma Adamek.

Anniversary Noted

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bresley, Robin and Christopher arrived in Ord last week for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bresley, and other relatives in the area. Enroute to Ord from their home in King of Prussia—near Philadelphia—Pa., the Bresleys visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Simmons in Omaha.

On Sunday a family dinner was held at the Dean Bresley home with the Lloyd Bresleys and Harry Bresleys as guests. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fast and family of Hastings and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Naeve. The occasion also honored Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bresley on their 51st wedding anniversary.

The Lloyd Bresleys are presently on a vacation in the Black Hills. They will return to Ord for a longer stay before returning to their home in the east.

Carol's Corner

Have you ever thought how much our language has changed — or how much we have changed the language? For instance, remember when... "Tough" described meat, too coarse to chew? "Dig" meant to shovel and spade in the dirt? "Make a Scene" was a rude thing to do? "The Pill" was what you took for a cold? "Neat" meant well organized, tidy and clean? "Fix" was a verb that meant mend or repair? "Hooked" was what Grandmother's rug might have been? A "Trip" involved travel and "hippie" meant big in the hips?

Remember too... when "Put on" was what you did with your shirt and when lights and not people were "Switched On and Off."

Mrs. Floyd (Dorothy) Deal submitted the recipe for this week. To prepare this Three Bean Salad, drain:
1 can green beans
1 can yellow wax beans
1 can kidney beans
Blend: 1/2 c. salad oil
1/2 t. pepper
2/3 c. vinegar (wine vinegar preferred)
1 t. salt
3/4 c. sugar
1 small onion (chopped fine)
1/2 green pepper (finely diced)
1 clove garlic (optional)
Marinate at least four hours — it's better if it stands overnight. (To add color to this salad, Mrs. Deal suggests using Schilling prepared dried salad onions according to directions on the boxtop)

Engaged Couple Feted at Shower in Hunt Home

By Margaret Zentz

A wedding shower was given by Mrs. Kenneth Hunt and Mrs. Chester Babcock at the Kenneth Hunt home Sunday in honor of Sandy Leininger and Con Shultz, who will be married July 3.

An interesting program was enjoyed by the families present. Dennis and Paul Deitz sang three songs: "The Love Bug Itch," "Sugar Time," and "Slowly I'm Falling in Love." Mr. Babcock sang "You Are All the World to Me," and the Babcock families sang "Savior Like a Shepherd Lead Us."

Chester Babcock Sr. led in devotions. A beautiful double-ring cake was decorated by Mrs. Edgar Slingby and presented to the honored couple. Mrs. Raymond Franz led in some interesting games.

The guests brought freezers of homemade ice cream and a variety of cakes which were enjoyed by all. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Slingby of Ansley, Kathy Pota and Patty Sickels of Loup City, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boettcher of Portland, Ore.

Pasture Irrigation Tour Planned
Area farmers are invited to attend the irrigated pasture tour and field day which is scheduled July 14.

Stops will be made in both the Ord and Burwell areas to observe equipment and methods now being used by farmers and ranchers.

Extension irrigation specialist Paul Fishback and forage specialist Wally Moline will be on hand to discuss pasture irrigation methods and equipment, as well as irrigated pasture management.

More details on this event will be forthcoming.

Irrigating Corn For Top Yields
The harder a corn plant works to pull water out of the soil profile, the slower it will grow and the less it will yield.

Corn must have adequate and easily available moisture for its use just before and during pollination if maximum yields are expected. Moderate drought in the early stages of growth has little effect on yield provided adequate moisture is available the remainder of the growing season up to the hard-dough stage. Water applied after the hard-dough stage will have no effect on the yield.

Know the soil moisture condition and how deep irrigation water is penetrating. Use a soil probe or other soil moisture measuring devices to make this determination.

The first irrigation need not penetrate more than two feet, provided that the subsoil moisture was adequate at planting time. Corn roots will penetrate to a depth of approximately two feet six weeks after the plant has emerged.

For the first irrigation, apply only two to three inches of water. This amount allows for a 30 percent water loss in distribution.

Irrigations in late July and August should penetrate to a depth of five to six feet.

Start the first subsoil on time. Two-thirds of the total water used by corn occurs by the early-milk stage.

Nebraska research indicates that the peak water use by corn will occur during the last 10 days of July. Once the water needs of the plant have been satisfied, added water will produce little increase in yield.

Total water required for corn is approximately 25 to 30 inches, depending upon the climate and length of growing season. Irrigation water will make up about one-half of this amount, and the remainder will come from effective rainfall and stored soil moisture. Corn can use up to three inches of water in a 10-day period during tasseling.

Knowing how much water is being applied is important. The following is a good method:

(1) A flow of one cubic foot per second or 450 gallons per minute will cover one acre with one inch of water in one hour.

(2) Ten rows 40 inches wide and 1/4-mile in length comprise about one acre. If there are 30-inch rows equal an acre.

(3) The flow rate times hours divided by acres gives acre-inches applied.

(4) If too much water is being applied per set, reduce the number of rows running and get the water through the field.

Annual Forage Crops
Farmers needing additional summer forage should consider planting sorghum - Sudan grass now. The annual forage crop produces its greatest yield in July and August when alfalfa, clover and other legume crops are often at a low production stage because of limited moisture and summer heat.

Sorghum X Sudan grass usually outyields regular Sudan grass in most Nebraska areas. When planted in late May or early June with 20 pounds of seed per acre and fertilized with nitrogen and phosphorus, this crop provides green chop or pasture for livestock from about July 10 until frost.

Tests have shown that several good varieties are suitable. With good management practices, Sorghum X Sudan grass hybrids can be very useful in supplying excellent forage during the usual dry months of July and August.

Legislators Will Likely Pass Buck On Public Aid to Parochial Schools

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.
LINCOLN — Unless they change their minds later, the state senators plan to pass along to the voters a hot potato. The legislature last week gave initial approval to a bill calling for a constitutional amendment permitting state school aid to non-public schools.

The bill almost surely will continue to receive broad support among the lawmakers because they prefer to have that controversial decision made in the 1970 general election — and not on the floor of the unicameral.

Should L.B. 1083 and the resultant constitutional amendment be approved, non-public schools—including parochial institutions—could receive state grants of up to one-third the amount given public schools for comparable non-religious course work.

While this bill was still in the Education Committee, it sparked one of the largest mail campaigns of the 1969 session — if not the largest.

Sentiments expressed in the vast majority of the letters indicated that the voters of the state ought to have an opportunity to decide the issue. Since many of these letters were from constituents, senators who privately say they oppose aid to non-public schools have endorsed the idea of putting the issue on the ballot.

This school issue probably will be joined on the ballot by another. That is a proposal to allow the legislature to decide whether the State Board of Education members should be appointed or elected.

The proposal to give the legislature flexibility stemmed from the controversy earlier this year over the board's decision to dismiss Education Commissioner Floyd Miller.

This same controversy might be responsible for a third constitutional proposal dealing with schools. Supporters of mandatory school redistricting have announced they will launch a petition campaign to put on the ballot an amendment setting a deadline for kindergarten through 12th grade districts throughout the state.

Out a Year?
The legislators took a step last week toward putting the unicameral on an annual basis.

First reading approval was given to a proposed constitutional amendment which would require once-a-year meetings. The lawmakers now meet every other year — with special sessions when necessary.

Under the bill now pending, the annual sessions would be limited in length to 90 legislative days. That means, figuring five work days to the week, a session would last no longer than 4 1/2 months — or into mid-May.

If the senators wanted to go longer than that, at least 30 of them would have to agree.

This change, if it survives through all three readings, also would be handed to the voters on the 1970 ballot.

Another amendment proposal dealing with the legislature calls for sessions starting the first Tuesday in December. The unicameral now launches its sessions the first Tuesday in January.

The idea behind the change is to give the senators an opportunity to begin the session and have bills introduced—then recess for a while to study the proposals.

The 90 legislative days in the annual session proposal would not include time spent in recess.

Budget Blues
After this week the senators are going to take a week off to celebrate the Fourth of July at home—and to feel the public pulse about their budget decisions.

The basic budget — the operations budget prepared by Senator Richard Marvel's committee — is scheduled for passage this week. It moved past the first two rungs of legislative consideration last week. Little changed from the way it was introduced.

That doesn't mean there won't be attempts to provide more money for certain agencies later. But all assaults on the committee's recommendations were beaten off during consideration on general file and select file.

Adjustments in individual agency appropriations — if any are made — now will have to come in the supplemental budget bill. That bill traditionally is designed to provide financing for spending programs approved during the current session.

Scottsbluff Senator Terry Carpenter has been contending that pending bills with a fiscal impact — such as proposals to increase the state school aid program — should be considered in the light of the message the senators receive when they are home for the Fourth of July recess.

Ideally, Carpenter has said, the lawmakers should recess for four or five months to let the public see for itself how it likes the budget committee's proposal which he calls "unreasonably frugal."

Carpenter sought to have Gov. Norbert Tiemann's executive budget swapped for the committee bill, but this was rejected by his colleagues. The Scottsbluff senator said the governor ought to be the best judge of what spending is necessary and the legislature should give him a chance to prove he's right.

Tiemann's budget was about $17 million higher than the committee recommendation.

She's Michelle Ann
Michelle Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Augustyn of Burwell, was born June 20 at the Ord hospital. The young lady weighed 5 pounds, 4 1/2 ounces and measured 17 1/2 inches long. The proud grandparents in Ord are Mr. and Mrs. Bob Coats.

Money, Time Both Go Fast When They're Being Enjoyed

Dear Mister Editor: Jim Duda reports to the fellows that he has seen a reminder in the paper about who has saved so over money in this country. Naturally, it's the women folks.

Jim said the piece he read claimed women spend 85 cents out of every dollar spent by families.

Dave Stevens said he wasn't doubting Jim's figure, but what he wanted to know was what his old lady had been doing with his 15 cents change all these years.

Dave said he heard some fellow say this in the only country in the world where men get their pictures on the money and women their hands on it.

This piece Jim read allowed that women are sharper shoppers and harder to suit than men.

Jim said his old lady spent half the day in town shopping last week. When she got home, Jim asked her why she didn't buy a solitary thing. Jim said she just spoiled and said for the same reason you men go fishing and don't catch nothing.

Manufacturers say women will swear at a product before they will wear it. Women have to be showed beyond a shadow of a doubt that the product is what it's supposed to be.

Jim said Dave said, a product gets too good.

He heard where this fellow was complaining that the detergent his old lady used was so good he couldn't go to church. This fellow swore the detergent got his shirt so white he couldn't wear 'em to church 'cause the glare hit his eyes.

Each if that was a true story, Bernard Augustyn said, it probably was more of an excuse to stay home from preaching than anything else.

Bernie was of the opinion the average fellow wants just enough religion that it don't require him to go to church if he can come up with a halfway decent excuse.

Speaking of women and the way they handle money, Bernie recalled the time his old lady was in charge of the money for her church choir.

Bernie said she lost the money and worried herself sick. She said she figured the Lord believed she lost it and forgave her, but she said the women in her circle would never believe or forgive.

Bernie said if there was anything women are particular about it's getting their money's worth, and in the day and time that takes some doing.

Generally, said Bernie, men look on money like they do time. It's something to use.

He said he knew for instance, that his folks was the worst of time discussing matters at the store. But he said he, for one, don't consider time or money wasted when he enjoyed wasting it.

I reckon, Mister Editor, when you enjoy wasting time and money it comes under recreation.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

Something Different

Bring a Rock to Irma

Dear People: I once had an editor friend who conducted a one-man campaign for his own benefit. I think he had a lot of fun with his "O'Hanlon for Millionaire" drive. I'm quite sure he didn't get too many dollars. In fact, he frequently complained about it in his writings.

Well, I want to conduct a different sort of drive. I'll call mine "Bring a Rock to Irma."

I want some more big rocks around my home, which sits on the only yard full of rocks in Ord . . . so far as I know. It doesn't really look rocky enough to suit me yet, nor Oriental enough, nor Tucson enough either.

I want some more rocks.

So if you see a nice big rock this summer while you're vacationing, won't you please log it home to me? And any size or color will be welcome. I don't care where it comes from: you may bring it from the Rockies or the Chalk Hills, or from your pasture.

All rocks will be gratefully accepted.

Just plunk them off anywhere in my yard at 418 South 24th St. in Ord. I'm sure your contribution will make my place look better.

And I do thank you.

Just remember my campaign slogan: "Bring a Rock to Irma."

Plastic flowers have changed the face of the world a good deal, haven't they? I recall when they first appeared, we all sneered. And everyone declared, "I like the real ones better."

Well, I still like the real ones better. But the plastic ones have really brightened our view. I see them often, tucked into a window box, popping up in a pot by the doorstep, welcoming passersby, even flying colorfully in the cemetery on Memorial Day.

And of course they furnish handsome centerpieces in a number of homes, denting the gloom of winter.

Last week I went by the Grand Island cemetery, and it was adorned by many bright flowers and looked so attractive.

It really made me realize how pretty a small cemetery can look, how beloved it can look.

I'm not much for this modern trend where they lay all the marking stones flat. Even when a plot of the place is provided for you it is next to impossible to find a certain grave.

To return to the subject of flowers, more and more Ord citizens are getting far, far away to flowery lands. The latest group to see Hawaii and all its fantastic tropical flowers and trees is the Dean Misko family who have been there on holiday.

They liked it so much, visiting their daughter Susan and husband while sight-seeing, that Dean came home all alone.

Katie and Bill and Jennifer stayed on for more pleasures of that balmy land. No doubt they'll all return home full of sun vitamins and hula lessons.

Once I came home from Hawaii — yes, I'd had some hula lessons — and started teaching a class of little girls to do the classic wiggles. But it all halted abruptly when I broke an ankle. Or something. What did I break?

Plastic flowers have changed the face of the world a good deal, haven't they? I recall when they first appeared, we all sneered. And everyone declared, "I like the real ones better."

Well, I still like the real ones better. But the plastic ones have really brightened our view. I see them often, tucked into a window box, popping up in a pot by the doorstep, welcoming passersby, even flying colorfully in the cemetery on Memorial Day.

And of course they furnish handsome centerpieces in a number of homes, denting the gloom of winter.

Last week I went by the Grand Island cemetery, and it was adorned by many bright flowers and looked so attractive.

It really made me realize how pretty a small cemetery can look, how beloved it can look.

I'm not much for this modern trend where they lay all the marking stones flat. Even when a plot of the place is provided for you it is next to impossible to find a certain grave.

To return to the subject of flowers, more and more Ord citizens are getting far, far away to flowery lands. The latest group to see Hawaii and all its fantastic tropical flowers and trees is the Dean Misko family who have been there on holiday.

They liked it so much, visiting their daughter Susan and husband while sight-seeing, that Dean came home all alone.

Katie and Bill and Jennifer stayed on for more pleasures of that balmy land. No doubt they'll all return home full of sun vitamins and hula lessons.

Once I came home from Hawaii — yes, I'd had some hula lessons — and started teaching a class of little girls to do the classic wiggles. But it all halted abruptly when I broke an ankle. Or something. What did I break?

Congressman DAVE MARTIN Reports

Presidential Election Reform

Last week we began hearings in the Rules Committee on a resolution to provide for popular election of the President and Vice-President.

The present system provides that each state appoint the same number of electors as it has representatives in Congress. In other words, Nebraska has three representatives and two senators and thus has five electoral votes.

Elimination of the electoral college.

Substitution of a direct popular election.

A runoff election between the two highest candidates if no individual receives at least 40 percent of the vote in the first election.

This constitutional amendment would have to be approved by the state legislatures in three-fourths (38) of the states. It further provides that Congress by legislation shall set the date for the Presidential election and also for the runoff election.

The constitution presently gives the states sole jurisdiction over voter requirements. The proposed amendment would take this power away from the states and give control to Congress. It would allow all qualified voters in each state to cast a ballot for President and Vice-President.

In Georgia people may vote at age 18, in a few other states at age 19, and in most states at age 21. This seems to me to be a contradiction of Article 4, Section 2 of the constitution which states, "The citizens of each state shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states."

Another point which was completely overlooked by the Judiciary Committee in considering this bill is the very strong possibility that a constitutional convention will be called in the near future. Thirty-three states have thus far passed resolutions asking for a national constitutional convention, and only one more state need do so to make one mandatory. If a constitutional convention is called, the voting problem could be dealt with at that time.

Congressman Richard Poff of Virginia intends to offer a substitute for the committee bill. His proposal will provide for an automatic apportionment of electoral votes in proportion to the popular vote in each state.

In other words, if one candidate for President received 60 percent of the votes in Nebraska, and another candidate 40 percent, the state's electoral vote would be cast 60 percent for the winner and 40 percent for the loser.

Also under Mr. Poff's bill, a majority of the electoral vote would be the first basis for election. But if no candidate received a majority, then 40 percent of the popular vote would be necessary for election. If no candidate received 40 percent of the popular vote, then both the House and Senate would meet in joint session to choose the President and Vice-President from the two top slates with each legislator having one vote.

It is interesting to note that under the committee's proposed amendment 15 states would increase their influence in a national election, and these 15 states represent 65 percent of the total votes. Thirty-four states and the District of Columbia would lose influence in the Presidential election, and in one state — Oregon — there would be no change.

Based on the 1963 vote, Nebraska had 93 percent of the total vote in the electoral college, but with direct election of the President this state's influence would drop to 73 percent. That's a decrease of over 20 percent.

Similar situations would exist for all smaller states, and as a result there are grave doubts whether this amendment would ever be approved by 38 states.

KERRY ON

—law on order—

Following a meeting with Ord's mayor last week, I came away with the personal opinion that it's not whether you break the law—but to what extent and who you might happen to be that really counts insofar as the City Police are concerned.

This is not the way I personally feel about law enforcement.

A violation of the law is a violation. If I'm the violator, I fully expect to be held responsible for my improper actions.

Mayor Bill French seemed to harbor the opinion that local businessmen don't want the law too rigidly enforced for fear of driving trade from Ord. Who these local business people were that he had reference to — I do not know. Sitting in front of him at the time were six businessmen—ALL overly concerned about law enforcement in Ord.

When French was confronted with the rumor that Ord's police were under orders from him to stay away from the Elks Club, his reply was that this was misconstrued. He stated he had requested the City Police to stay out of the stag room on stag nights. The card players were a little uneasy with a uniformed policeman standing at their side.

It's a sad day—in my estimation—when the mayor of a city knowingly asks that the gamblers' comforts be respected.

Any law enforcement official who casually remarks "We don't make the laws—we just enforce them." In this case the mayor may not be making the laws—but he's certainly advising his enforcing officers what to watch for and WHAT NOT to watch for.

Much more was disclosed at the unofficial meeting of concerned businessmen that would lead the average person to believe the local police are adhering more to the mayor's orders than they are to the letter of the law. Yet they swore to uphold the laws of this land when they pinned on a badge and took the oath.

A recent check of City Court cases and the arresting officer in each case since last November discloses the following box score: Buettcher, 28; Ehresman, 2; Garner, 6; Wert, 21; citizen's arrest, 1. One other citizen's arrest had been scratched from the record or the citizens would have tied with the city's relief police officer!

Our job is to run a newspaper—not a police department. But we think these facts should be brought before the people.

Mayor French's primary reason for dismissal of an Ord policeman was "lack of communication." Could the "lack of communication" be the lack in the mayor and the citizens? Does Ord WANT adequate law enforcement?

I waited a week after attending the meeting to write this column, thinking I might see things in a different light after mulling it over in my own mind. That is not changed my mind one bit.

The law is the law. Or do you feel differently?

Zulkoskis Celebrate 58 Years of Matrimony

By Mrs. J. B. Zulkoski
Raymond Zulkoski and Donnie of Columbus and their daughter, Mrs. Lee Moeller of Denver, Colo., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Zulkoski. Guests Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Novotny and family Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sonnenfeld of North Loup, and Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Zulkoski and family. They all helped the hosts celebrate their 58th wedding anniversary, which occurred Saturday.

Double Birthday Fete
A surprise card party was held Saturday at Mr. and Mrs. Lew Bilka's home in celebration of Mr. Bilka's 67th birthday and Katha's 21st. The following were present, Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Michalski and Darwin of Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. Wencil Bruha Sr. and Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Michalski and family, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Michalski and family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wotaszewski and Katha of Loup City, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Gregor, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Pesek, F. G. Pesek, and Mr. and Mrs. Lumir Hulinsky of Lincoln. Winners were Mike Pesek Men's high, Stanley Michalski men's low, Mrs. Richard Wotaszewski ladies high, and St. C. Wotaszewski ladies low. Mrs. Stanley Michalski won the traveling prize. Lunch was served, and everyone wished the honorees many more happy birthdays.

Fun Ends With Misfortune
David Iwanski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Iwanski, fell Thursday and broke both bones of his left hand while playing "horsey" on the lawn.

Homemakers Pick Nancy
The Jolly Homemakers Extension Club met with Mrs. Al Radke Thursday. Nine members and one guest, Debbie Purvis of Grand Island, were present. Debbie is a house guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Bill Tuma. Roll call was answered by telling what kind of dessert each member likes best. Mrs. Radke gave the lesson on frozen desserts and it was decided to have a picnic July 20 at the Ord park. The club adjourned until September when it will meet with Mrs. Jake Wataszewski.

Nancy Kusek was chosen by the club ladies as their representative at the tea for Valley County Fair queen candidates.

Old-Time Resident Calls
Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dubos of Jacksonville, Fla., and Leo Dubas of Burwell visited Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kusek Sr. Wednesday. They also called on many of their old friends and relatives. Ben Dubos was born and grew up in this vicinity. He also got the Ord Quiz and likes to read about friends he knew.

Hospitalized at Omaha
Mrs. Fred Dubos took her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patsy Teahon of Sargent, to Omaha Friday afternoon. Mr. Teahon entered the New Methodist Hospital there.

Play on Full Stomachs
Mr. and Mrs. Anton Novotny had a turkey, new potatoes, and peas for supper Sunday evening at the home of Mrs. Frank Visek. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Nevrlka and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Novak. The evening was spent playing cards, and there was more eating later.

Schamp Farewell
The Alvin Schamp family hosted a farewell party Sunday for their son, Dwayne Schamp, and Harold McClintic of Burwell. Guests were the Lavern Kowalski family of Lexington, Roger Owens of Texas, the Junior Kinney family of Burwell, the Fred Schamps of Grand Island, Joe Schamp of North Loup, Irene Conner and son Jimmy of North Loup, Betty Chips of Ord, Sheri Wolf of Grand Island, the Joe Miska family of Ord, Pearl and Gary Miska, Mr. and Mrs. David Eagan of Kearney, and Mrs. Marshall of Ord (who also will be stationed in Vietnam), and David Star John of Burwell.

Little Helpers
Jim, Charles, Tom and Joan Kusek helped their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kusek, mow the lawn and water shrubs Friday. Joan also helped Mrs. Kusek with housework.

Every Bit Helps
Elyria received a nice rain Sunday morning. Much more is needed.

Skunked Again
Mr. and Mrs. John B. Zulkoski spent a pleasant evening June 17 at least it was pleasant for the ladies playing cards at Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bergland's home. The men never won a game.

Personals
Tammy and Sherri, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Jorgenson of Papillion spent Sunday afternoon with their cousins, Janet and Jean, at the Rolland Zulkoski home. The girls spent much of their time riding horseback. Tuesday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Michalski were Mrs. Bob Ruzicka and family of Lenox, S.D. A picnic at the Burwell park was held in honor of the Ruzicka family. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kruml and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frye, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Michalski, Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Michalski and Darwin of Lincoln, James Ruzicka, and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Ruzicka. Each family brought a covered dish for lunch. A total of 39 persons were present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Zulkoski attended the 7:30 evening mass at the Ord Catholic Church Wednesday. Monsignor Thomas Siodowski from North Platte celebrated the mass, and blessed the guests of the Last Supper which was donated to the church by the Vogeltanz family. It was given in memory of the late Edward Vogeltanz and his son Raymond.

Mr. and Mrs. Spud Kapustka and Jim, and Katha Rysavy went to Omaha Thursday when they visited Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gibney and Ken. They learned that Mike Gibney, a son of the Francis Gibneys who is in the Navy, had a three-week leave in May and came home for his high school graduation. Mike Gibney is Mr. Alvin Schamp's sister. The Kapustkas also visited Mrs. Eva Kapustka in Lincoln on the way to Omaha and learned that she, Larry and Carol were flying to San Diego, Calif., Friday to spend two weeks with her son Ernest and his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Bilka and son Richard were Monday evening guests at Johnny Valasek's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Michalski, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Bilka and Richard, and Grandma Wotaszewski, and Dean were Wednesday evening guests at Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wotaszewski's 21st birthday.

Saturday evening supper guests at Lew Bilka's were Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Michalski and Darwin of Lincoln and Katha Wotaszewski of Loup City.

Mrs. Leon Cienny accompanied Dolcie Waterman of Ord to Grand Island June 17. Mrs. Cienny met her sister, Mrs. Ivan Yastof of Dornpian, then drove with her to David City for a visit with another sister, Mrs. Dean Hewit. The next day they drove back to Dornpian, and Mrs. Cienny came on home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zulkoski and their house guest, Tressa Casario, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Zulkoski and family. It was Ralph Zulkoski's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Riecken drove to Kennard Sunday morning to help a cousin of Mrs. Riecken.

Ann Ebinger of St. Paul, Minn., and Mrs. Litterak came Sunday, and the girls returned home with them.
Mrs. Arley Stubbs and son of Scott of Ravenna visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kusek, Thursday. They also called on her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kusek Sr., as well as Nancy and Vicky Kusek.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hora and Donna drove to Ringgold recently and were all day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hora.
Mrs. Herman Kapustka, Loren and Eric of Algonquin, Ill., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kapustka and will be house guests for another week.

Mrs. Mildred Anderson of Ord and her nephew, Bob Arctur of Sterling, Colo., visited June 13 with Mrs. Opal Kuklish and Keith. That evening Mrs. Opal Kuklish and Keith accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hora to Bartlett where the men attended to business.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Bartley of Ravenna and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Worm of Taylor visited Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dubas. The ladies are sisters.

Mrs. Frank Kuklish of Scottsbluff and her father, Mr. Snyder from Bayard, visited Monday morning with Mrs. Opal Kuklish and son Keith. They had been visiting relatives in the eastern part of the state and stopped at Elyria on their way home. Mr. and Mrs. George Janicek and Brenda were also there.

The Lions Club met at the Elyria Hall Tuesday evening.
Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Konkolecki and Linda visited Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Konkolecki's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Zulkoski. It was a belated Father's Day call.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kusek Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Zulkoski were card guests Sunday evening at Mr. and Mrs. James Iwanski's. Lunch was enjoyed later.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Barta were Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Barta of Burwell.
