

In Recognition

Head Start School

New Phase of War on Poverty Begins Locally

The official war against poverty has been opened on a new front in Ord.

On June 18 classes began in the first summer Head Start program to be conducted in this community. They will be continued through July 31.

The local Head Start program is conducted under supervision of the Central Nebraska Community Action Program headquartered in Loup City. It is one of 10 such schools in the five counties served by the Central Nebraska CAP.

Money to finance the program comes from taxes paid to the federal government. In the past the money has been allocated to the parent Office of Economic Opportunity, which in turn passed it on to local Community Action programs. However, as of Tuesday (July 1) Head Start was transferred to the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare.

When the program was being organized, it was reported that at least 15 children would have to be enrolled for a school to be held here. Presently there are 14 children, with apparently one drop out. All 14 students are from the in-town area of Ord and range in age from 3 to 5 years. None have been to kindergarten yet.

Mrs. Robert Norton is the teacher for the school. She is presently assisted by Mrs. Gene Augustyn and Mrs. Walt Smith.

Both assume that role during the latter half of the seven-week school. Both teacher's aides are parents of children enrolled in the school.

Mrs. John Boettcher, another mother of a student participating in the school, is the cook.

Students were recruited by Mrs. Doris Savage and Mrs. Dolores Vore, both part-time employees of the Community Action Program.

The facility in which the school is being conducted is donated without charge by the United Methodist Church. It is the same building which the church rents to the North Central Assn. for Retarded Children during the regular school year.

Classes are conducted each weekday from 9 a.m. till lunch at approximately 12:30. Then the children are fed their noon meal before being released.

Other benefits the children receive are medical checkups, dental checkups with followup work as needed, necessary immunizations, sight and hearing checks, speech therapy, and psychological counseling. There is no charge to either the child or his parents.

The budget for the seven-week Old school is $3,193 according to John Michalek, assistant director of the Community Action Program at Loup City. However, total costs will exceed that figure since it does not include all the followup dental work.

Michalek and his supervisor, George Haynes, refused Thursday to discuss how the $3,193 would be divided. Haynes recently became executive director for the Central Nebraska CAP when Roy Lindsay retired.

The center supervisor is Rev. Clarence Campbell, minister of the United Methodist Church.

"He approves financial expenditures and oversees the school," explained Haynes. "In a sense it's his program. All the Office of Economic Opportunity is doing is financing it."

Campbell had a slightly different version concerning his role.

John Michalek came to the church board and requested that the church sponsor the program. The church board (approximately 40 persons) approved use of the property. Someone had to be responsible for both the church and the program, and I agreed to do it.

Campbell said Monday he has been out of town much of the time since the program started.

"Consequently, I missed my briefing on the budget and can't tell you anything about that now," he said. "But the vouchers are just starting to come in and the church secretary will be handling the first ones this week."

"An accounting will be made to the church board at the close of the school, and as far as I'm concerned those will be public records."

Government policy requires that 90 percent of the children enrolled in local Head Start programs be members of "poverty" families. Guidelines have been established for use in determining what constitutes a poverty family for Head Start purposes. These guidelines are based on family size and maximum income. They are:

Family Size	Maximum Income
2	1,500 2,100
3	1,800 2,600
4	2,300 3,300
5	2,800 3,900
6	3,100 4,400
7	3,400 4,900
8	3,800 5,400
9	4,100 5,900
10	4,500 6,400
11	4,800 6,900
13	5,500 7,900

To apply for the program, at least one parent in self-employed families is required to sign a statement listing total income reported on Line 8 of Tax Form 1040. Those who are not self-employed are required to list the family's average total monthly income during the preceding year. That is then multiplied by 12 to determine the gross annual income.

The application form also reads: "All information will be held in absolute confidence."

Some local citizens have complained of difficulty in getting information about the program. However, Haynes and Michalek said that anyone is welcome to visit the school at any time and observe the activities.

Mrs. Erna Daley, principal of the Broken Bow Grade School, is overall director of the Head Start program for the five-county area. She has visited here twice and, according to Michalek, calls the local school "one of the best in the area."

Dr. Donald Stumpff, head of the psychology department at Kearney State College, provides the psychological counseling. He will make one visit here during the seven weeks and "screen the children to see that they are developing properly," according to Michalek.

Also visiting just one time during the summer will be Mrs. Mary Jo Morrow, speech therapist from Kearney State.

Michalek said the school will possibly be converted to a full-year Head Start program, depending on citizen acceptance. However, he said the conversion definitely will not take place this fall.

Quiz Wins Twice in National Contest

The Ord Quiz has received two of the top three awards presented to Nebraska publications in this year's National Better Newspaper Contest.

Both Quiz awards were for third place among papers with less than 4,000 circulation. The winning stories were written by Quiz Editor Gerald Green. One was entered in the "Best Feature Story" division and the other in the "Best Sports Feature Column."

More than 2,800 entries were received from papers throughout the country in the 41 categories of this year's contest. Only other winner from Nebraska was the South Omaha Sun, which won second place in "General Excellence" for newspapers with circulation of 6,000 to 10,000.

Plaques denoting the Quiz's two awards were presented to publisher Kerry Leggett Saturday at the 84th convention of the National Newspaper Assn., in Atlantic City, N.J.

The prize-winning feature story dealt with a devastating tornado that claimed 11 lives 16 years ago near Arcadia. The story was published June 6, 1968, and was based primarily on an interview with Mr. and Mrs. Guy Lutz on the 15th anniversary of the tornado.

The Lutzes, their three children, and a hired hand hoisted in storm cellar as the tornado demolished their house and everything nearby. It also destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mads Madsen located across the road, killing 10 members of the Madsen family.

Grover Cleveland Alexander's legendary feats as a major league baseball pitcher provided a basis for the winning sports story. Published Oct. 3, just prior to the opening of the 1968 World Series, the story was pegged around the recollections of Ord resident Emil Fafeita who used to catch for Alexander.

The Publisher's Auxiliary, official publication of the National Newspaper Assn., had this to say about the winning feature story: "Gerald Green took a deadly weather event of 15 years ago to remind his Ord Quiz readers of the blackest day in Valley County history." The seven pictures told the story within themselves, and the feature spelled out details of the deadly tornado.

First-place winner in this category was the Waynesboro (Ga.) True Citizen, with the Ontario (Ore.) Argus-Observer placing second.

Of the Quiz's winning sports feature, the Publisher's Auxiliary had this to say:

"A timely reporting piece on Nebraska's greatest player, Grover Cleveland Alexander, takes third place for writer Gerald Green and the Ord Quiz. This full-page sports feature with good backup artwork is very readable for readers of all ages. Writer Green is commended for developing this sports feature at World Series time."

First and second-place winners in this category were the Lawren (Ia.) Sun and the Wilkeson (N.D.) Plains Reporter.

The awards were presented at the national convention by Jack Lough, publisher of the Albion News. He has served for the past several months as acting president of the national association.

At this year's convention he was elected as the official president.

Quiz publisher Kerry Leggett, right, accepted his newspaper's two awards at last weekend's National Newspaper Assn. convention in Atlantic City, N.J. He received the awards from a fellow publisher living only 60 miles from Ord — Jack Lough of the Albion News. Lough was acting president of the national association and was officially elected as new president for the coming year.

Latest Ord Moves

Among Ordites who changed locations recently are the Don Edghills, who have moved into the house vacated by Jasper Stagle. The Stagles recently moved to Broken Bow.

The Arden Koellings have moved into the Parkos house where Steve Deger and family lived, and the Monte Kearns family have moved into the Otto Miller house vacated several months ago by the Ed Bosworth family.

Mrs. Wayne Turner is getting settled in her home which had been occupied by the Danny Studnickas, and Robert Horsford has moved into unit 4 of the Peterson apartments.

Talent Contest

There will be a talent program sponsored by the Valley County Farm Bureau on the last evening of the Ord Fair July 30. Details will be in the next issue of the Quiz.

Dick Collins, a summer student at Kearney State College, and Nick Aquino, who is working this summer in Lincoln, were home with the Allen Dunbars over the weekend. Accompanying Nick were Dick Adamson, a graduate student from the University of Nebraska, and Maria Magdalena Triguiz of Concepcion, Paraguay. Miss Triguiz, an American Field Service exchange student in 1965-1966, will be a house guest of the Dunbars for a few days. She will fly to New York later this month to receive orientation as a sponsor for AFS' returnees to Paraguay.

Guests for a back yard barbecue Sunday evening were Mr. and Mrs. James Roberts and Dewey of Burwell, and John Kovaris of Burwell.

Mrs. Murray Nelson accompanied Mr. and Mrs. John Ammons of Bassett to Lincoln June 25. They attended the final performance of All-State Royce Ammons, who had been attending, returned with them on the 26th.

It's A Boy

Mr. and Mrs. George Barnes are the parents of a baby boy, Brian Wayne, born June 19th. Mrs. Barnes is the former Betty Petska, daughter of Mrs. Alice Petska. Mrs. Petska spent the past week with them. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Barnes, Sr., of Scotia.

Mrs. Kate Bisher — who has been spending some time with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Darges — was released from the Ord hospital Sunday. She accompanied another daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Dent, to their home in Grand Island, and will remain there while recuperating from her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Young of Ericson, and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mattern surprised Mr. and Mrs. Duane Pelsler at their home in Ericson on Mrs. Pelsler's birthday.

Mrs. Tom Brickner will arrive today (Thursday) to spend a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gregory. She will be driven to Ord by Leah Brickner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Brickner. Tom recently went to Costa Rica where he will spend two months installing radios in sharks for the Zoology Department of the University of Nebraska. Purpose of the procedure is to enable scientists to track shark migrations. Mrs. Brickner will join her husband during the month of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Badura of Palmer visited Mr. and Mrs. Bill Darges Sunday.

Mothers, Sisters of Area's War Dead Honored by American Legion Auxiliary

Gold Star mothers and Gold Star sisters of the Ord community were honored at an afternoon tea June 24 in the lower level of the Veterans Club.

The 2 p.m. social time was arranged by members of the Ord American Legion Auxiliary. This is an annual courtesy of the organization.

Attending as honored guests were Mrs. Agnes Dodge and her daughter, Mrs. Harold Garnick; Mrs. Will Freeman; Mrs. C. F. Pierson; Mrs. Eva Robertson; Mrs. Mary Sovers; Mrs. Amelia Philbrick of Montrose, Colo.; Mrs. Froncy Klanecky and her five daughters, Mrs. Leon (Willa) Foulk, Ericson, Mrs. Gerald (Norma) Krikac, Burwell, Mrs. Norris (Lillian) Benson, Cotesfield, and Mrs. Wayne (Barbara) Rakosky, Loup City, and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Leon (May) Klanecky. An out-of-town guest, Mrs. Jessie Wiegardt of Oakland, Calif., was also present.

Gold Star mothers and sisters are those ladies who had at least one son or brother killed in action while serving his country.

As special entertainment at the tea, Jeanie Belgram gave three clever poetic readings concerning dogs followed by two accordion solos — "Heiteres Spiel" and "Glow Worin" — presented by Mrs. Gerald Green.

Miss Krajnik was sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary and the B.P.W. Club.

Mrs. George Krajnik was a tea guest with her daughter, Donna, as was Mrs. Ethel Heuser of Lincoln, who accompanied her daughter, Mrs. Howard Paulsen.

Before the afternoon adjournment, members of the American Legion Auxiliary held a short business meeting to name officers for the new year. Elected to serve as president of the organization was Mrs. Corwin Cummins, president. Her assistants will be Mrs. Syl Furtak, vice president; Mrs. Frank Fafeita, second vice-president; Mrs. Ray Shotkoski, secretary; and Mrs. Karl MacKinnon, treasurer.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

A clever writing called "Boiled Wife" — cool husband takes the credit for its existence — was brought to my attention recently.

I'll wager that very few can read all the way through without thinking at least once, "Gee, that sounds like me."

Boiled Wife

"Take one . . . cool, fresh, good-natured wife."

"Add . . . three small children, a yelping dog, and a cranky neighbor. Stir well."

"Blend in . . . equal parts of heat, humidity, dust, and static air."

"Baste . . . with annoying phone calls, spilled milk, strained knees, doctor appointments that won't keep, a big ironing to do, and jelly smeared on the rug."

"Top . . . with a splitting headache."

"Let mixture simmer in a 99-degree house for 10 hours, or until boiling point is reached."

"Test . . . by arriving home cool from your air conditioned office with cheerful greeting, 'Have a nice day?'

"Stand back!"

Any time is salad time so why not surprise the family with this cool refresher.

Three Layer Salad

First layer: dissolve 1 pkg. lemon Jello in 2 c. boiling water. Add 1 c. miniature marshmallows; stir until dissolved. Add 1/2 c. crushed pineapple (drained) and 2 large bananas (sliced).

Place in 9 x 12 in. pan and let set until firm.

For the second layer, add enough water to the pineapple juice to make 1 c. Then add 1/2 c. sugar, 2 T. flour, 1 egg, and 2 T. butter. Cook until smooth. Cool to room temperature; fold in 1 c. whipped cream or topping. Pour over first layer.

Third layer: Top with grated American cheese.

Valley County 4-H'ers are becoming very project conscious these days as the County Fair date nears. Sewing machines are buzzing, paint brushes are busy, and mothers are getting all sorts of volunteer assistance from their young ones who are "cramming" to complete a cooking or baking project.

Before the fair — which is July 28-30 — there will be the dress review, song and skit contests, and many other activities that make this such a busy — but fun-time. Yes, Ju-Ju has just begun and already it is spent.

Nothing is more disgusting to me than to take the laundry from the clothesline and discover this was the day all the birds in the neighborhood chose our tree to roost in. It is especially at times like these that I'm glad cows can't fly.

Coffee Cup Philosophy:

Probably the only thing that makes a woman glad to put on an old dress is if she still can.

This is no accident

But you're our witness, anyway—to a piece-ful demonstration of how quickly and easily Maverick can be taken apart and put together. We designed Maverick that way for a good reason. When you're paying by the hour for service or repairs, speed is important. And at times like this, nothing can beat a simple machine.

Most new cars are more complicated. And more expensive to care for. Maverick's so simple to service, you can do it yourself—if you really mean it about being independent.

You won't feel like an orphan either. Our Owner's Manual shows you how to handle all the routine service. You can tune and time your engine, change plugs and points, adjust the idle, the headlamps, the handbrakes, do nearly 40 different service operations.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Meyer of Scotia visited the Roelle Staabs Thursday evening. Mrs. Max Staab, Linda and Penny of Arcadia were Friday supper guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Staab and children were guests at a family dinner at the Bernard Staabs in Ord honoring the birthday of their mother, Mrs. Reuben Staab of Berwyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Vlach attended the Czech Festival at Clarkson Sunday. They were accompanied by Mrs. Henry Krajnik.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Voth, Sr. drove to Central City Sunday and attended the Czech Music Festival at Clarkson with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Tordik.

Dorothy Campbell of Golden, Colo., arrived at the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lenz Saturday afternoon. That evening they and Mr. and Mrs. Lenz were supper guests of the Richard Knapps. Sunday

And if you break a fender or crack a grille, you can almost smile. Maverick's front fenders bolt on and grilles are replaceable in minutes. And where time means money, fast means savings.

Stop in once every 36,000 miles for a lube job. Oil changes are 6,000 miles apart. (The leading import suggests oil changes twice as often and lube jobs every 6,000 miles.)

While still being simple, Maverick is big enough to take the whole family—without streaming luggage from the roof. It's small enough to park easily, and go light on gas. A 105-hp Six gives you real passing power. (You get 52 more horsepower than the leading import offers.) And the wider stance gives you a smoother ride, better handling, and roadability.

It's no accident that Maverick is the hottest selling new car to come along in five years. We designed it that way. See it at your Ford Dealers.

Fourth of July Holiday Festivities to Start Early

By Wilma Nagorski

Comstock will celebrate the Fourth of July a day ahead of time — on July 3.

Everyone has been invited to take in the ball games. The first one is to start at 6 p.m. with the Comstock Ponies team playing. Later at 8 o'clock the Comstock Midgets will play Callaway. After that the biggest free fireworks display ever shown in Comstock will be shown. Then following the fireworks will be a dance at the Community Hall with music by the Arcadia Wranglers.

Run Roughshod

The Comstock Ponies defeated Ord, 13-0, Thursday evening at the Comstock ball park.

They all now have the authority to set their own rates.

Holquist said the power agencies operate within chartered areas as monopolies and there should be a state-wide agency with authority to supervise their rates to insure protection for the public.

The legislature last week refused to put back before the voters a constitutional amendment they rejected in 1968 which would have authorized creation of a public corporation to handle power matters.

Oakland left a "time bomb" behind when he departed Lincoln for the Fourth of July recess.

He announced that he intends to offer amendments to pending legislation which would give the Power Review Board authority to establish rates for all public power suppliers — wholesale and retail — in the state.

His amendments would affect the major districts, such as Consumers Public Power District, Nebraska Public Power System, and Omaha Public Power District, as well as rural cooperatives and municipal systems.

They all now have the authority to set their own rates.

Holquist said the power agencies operate within chartered areas as monopolies and there should be a state-wide agency with authority to supervise their rates to insure protection for the public.

The legislature last week refused to put back before the voters a constitutional amendment they rejected in 1968 which would have authorized creation of a public corporation to handle power matters.

The bill defines a series of crimes in connection with civil unrest and provides penalties ranging up to three years in the penal complex. It passed with an emergency clause, making it law upon Gov. Norbert Tie-mann's signature that afternoon.

Because it was passed against the background of trouble in Omaha, LB. 1381 was the most dramatic of the bills which received final approval during the hectic Friday. But it wasn't the only one with heavy impact.

That morning the senators also passed a $297 million budget bill, a measure permitting cities to levy a sales tax, a proposal liberalizing welfare payments, and a bill creating a division of juvenile delinquency within the Department of Institutions.

The operations budget is the largest ever passed, but it is $17 million lower than Tie-mann had recommended.

At the constant urging of Carpenter, the senate hurried the bill through the legislative processes — casting aside all efforts to increase the money total without prior approval by the budget committee — so it could be passed Friday.

There were two reasons to hurry, according to Carpenter. One was to have authorized appropriations at the start of the 1969-71 biennium, which began Tuesday. The other was to give the lawmakers something to test public opinion with when they meet their constituents during this week's recess.

The city sales tax bill also carried an emergency clause, and Omaha appeared to be poised to take advantage of the new law as quickly as possible. By this fall, the city may be levying a half-percent tax on sales in Omaha — and reaping a $4 million annual dividend.

Lincoln also is expected to tax the sales tax source.

But smaller communities were considered unlikely to exercise their new option to tax sales.

In a nutshell, the senators were saying to cities of all sizes which have been asking for additional state financial aid: Here's a way to raise your revenues, but take the political heat at home.

There were rumblings that county governments might be given the sales tax option as well.

Wood River Loses; Ord Resumes Rise

Standings in the Sherman-Howard Baseball League tightened up some this week, thanks primarily to Scotia.

The second-place team knocked off previously undefeated Wood River, 10-6, and moved to within half a game of the top.

Boelus pulled out a narrow 6-5 win over Loup City to move within one game of the summit, and idle Cairo is just 1½ out.

Farther down there was some juggling too. Ord resumed its rapid rise, handing Greeley with no difficulty, 11-3. The results of that one gave those teams identical records of 4 wins and 3 losses.

Ord has now won four of its last five outings, losing only during that span to Scotia.

In their upset over Wood River the Scotia players exhibited some lusty hitting, getting 16 safeties. Larry Lewis led the way with a four-for-five day.

Wood River put up a stiff fight against Scotia ace Leonard Williams, pounding out 13 hits itself.

Included were two home runs. Nevertheless, Williams went all the way, surviving three-run outbursts in both the fifth and seventh innings.

In defeating Greeley, Ord gave up three runs in the third before coming back to win easily.

The Mustangs were helped along by Rich OSENTowski, former Kearney State star who is still having contract difficulties with the professional Minnesota Twins.

After picking him in the recent free-agent draft, the Twins have yet to satisfy OSENTowski's contract desires.

OSENTowski made his first appearance of the year for the Ord team an illustrious one. His first time up he poked a long fly over the right-centerfield fence for the team's first run. In four later trips he doubled and walked.

Rich Psota also had a good hitting eye for the local team, swatting two doubles and a single in five times up. Psota was also the winning pitcher, going six innings before yielding to Jim Lukesh. Lukesh faced the minimum nine batters in his three innings of work.

Both Psota and Lukesh have been selected to work for the North squad in tonight's all-star game at Cairo. They'll be joined by teammates Ken Watson, Jim Hulinsky, and possibly OSENTowski. Watson plays shortstop, while Hulinsky works at both first base and the outfield.

Club News

Cloverettes 4-H

Peg Worm, president of the Cloverbettes' 4-H Club, conducted the group's meeting June 30 at Kathleen Lukesh's home. Members discussed a skit, and practiced songs for the coming talent contest. For this meeting members were asked to bring one half dozen cookies to be presented to Mrs. Rosalie Leggett for the demonstration she gave at the June 20 meeting at Jennie Belgram's home. The demonstration covered three main areas—breathing, bleeding and bandages—with the use of Resuscit-Ann, the life-like doll especially designed to demonstrate First-Aid practices.

The next meeting will be July 9 at 1:30 p.m. in the Ord hospital.

Scissors and Saucers

Members of the Scissors and Saucers 4-H club met at St. Mary's Auditorium June 19.

A demonstration was given by Jeanne Hyde and Marilyn Kokes. Their discussion was based on a chart, "What 4-H Is."

Nancy Kreilek gave a speech on demonstrations and presented details on how to prepare a demonstration for the fair.

The club members also brought their patterns, which were pinned to the material they are using to make skirts for the singing contest. Mrs. Sich, Mrs. Novosad, and Mrs. Barnes helped put the patterns on the material correctly.

The next meeting will be a picnic June 30 at Carolyn Novosad's home.

Arcadia Woman Dies Suddenly At Age 75 Years

Mrs. Jessie Rickerson died very suddenly at her home in Arcadia June 27. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 p.m. in the Arcadia United Church of Christ Congregation all with Rev. Duane L. Davis officiating. Mrs. Alberta Lutz and Mrs. Roberta Blakeslee, as a duet, sang "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Going Down The Valley." Ina Wood, his organist, Interment was in the Litchfield cemetery with Parks Funeral Home in charge.

Pallbearers were Larry Rickerson, Melvin Maxson, John Sellen, Billy B. Day, Longan Krakowski and Lonny Maxson.

Jessie Ursula Rickerson, daughter of Charlie and Marina Dungan, was born Dec. 30, 1893 at Valparaiso. She spent most of her childhood days in the Litchfield area and was baptised in the Christian Church in Litchfield. She was united in marriage to Levi Brundige in 1910, to which one son Dwight was born.

On March 2, 1914 she was united in marriage to Lee Rickerson at Hastings. Four children were born to them. She leaves to mourn her passing Frank Rickerson of Arcadia, Mrs. Lucille Watts of Martin, S.D. and Robert Rickerson of Grand Island, Dwight Brundige of Rockville, 7 grandchildren and 18 great grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her parents, husband Lee Rickerson, daughter Neva and two grandsons.

Former Arcadian Dies in Texas

Raymond Erickson, age 57, died Friday of a heart attack at his home in Dallas, Tex.

A graduate of Arcadia High School in 1931 and Kearney State Teachers College in 1936, Mr. Erickson had lived in Dallas the past 28 years.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Evelyn Erickson of Dallas, Tex.; two daughters, Mrs. Peggy Evelyn Ratcliffe of Houston, Tex., and Connie Jeanne Davis, Commerce, Tex.; three brothers, John Erickson, Lincoln, and Kermit and Gene Erickson, Arcadia; and one sister, Mrs. Ruth Frost, Ansel, Several nieces and nephews also survive.

Funeral services were held Monday at the Highland Park United Methodist Church in Dallas. The services were conducted by Rev. Kenneth Dickson. Interment was in Restland Memorial Park in northeast Dallas.

Two of the dead man's brothers, John of Lincoln and Kermit of Arcadia, flew to Dallas for the services.

Fort Hartuff 4-H

President Carla Kusek called the Fort Hartuff 4-H Club to order at the Ted Wehnak residence June 19. Committee members for the booth which will be set up at the County Fair, were appointed, and plans for a citizenship award were discussed.

Demonstrations presented were "Laying a Pattern on the Grain," by Jane Kusek, and "How to Frost a Two-Layer Cake," by Jean Wehnak. Members of the cooking group met briefly with their leader, Mrs. Lorraine Dubas, and the sewing group judged seam binding, zippers, and thread with their leader, Mrs. Rolie Zulkoski.

Lunch was also served.

On June 26 the club again met at the Elks Hall for a lesson on mouth-to-mouth resuscitation given by Mrs. Henry Kusek. After the lesson members and guests were allowed to practice on "Resuscit-Ann." Purpose of the meeting was to promote safety for the citizenship project. Refreshments were served.

Children Get Early Start With Project Head Start

JoAnne and Jeff Augustyn, related only distantly, get some advice from volunteer helper Patty Augustyn, sister of Jo, as they each work on a project at the Head Start school. Volunteer helpers are solicited, and officials say that usually at least one mother is on hand to assist.

Jayne Boettcher and Marlene Hoevel are a study of concentration as they work with Play-Dough.

"Everything has a purpose—we're not just baby-sitters like a lot of people think."

That's the way Mrs. Robert Norton describes activities at the summer Head Start school in Ord. She's the teacher for the 14 youngsters enrolled in the school.

Elaborating further, Mrs. Norton explained:

"Everything is done in the form of a game, but it all has a purpose. Every day is planned out to demonstrate some learning skill."

"For example, we've been working on left and right and east and west. We sing a song, and when we come to the right part of the song everybody turns to the east. Then they turn to the west."

"Most of the time the children don't even know they're learning, but when they go to school everything will come easier."

The Students

All 14 members of the Ord school are from non-farm families.

They are Jerry Augustyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Augustyn; JoAnne Augustyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Augustyn; Jeff Banzhaf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Banzhaf; Jayne Boettcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Boettcher; Marlene Ellingson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ellingson Jr.; Marlene Hoevel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hoevel; Matthew Kriewald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kriewald; Brian Manchester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Manchester; Geraldyn and Scott Markvicka, children of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Markvicka; Mary and Scott Novosad, children of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Novosad; John Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walt Smith; and Gary Upah, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Upah.

A typical class day opens with 45 minutes of free activity when students can work with whatever they choose—modeling clay, puzzles, building blocks, and the like. Then follows a snack break when the youngsters are given a glass of juice or milk and something sweet. Next come 33 minutes of organized music and games, followed by a rest period and then some outside play. An organized work period when the students "make things and learn different skills such as cutting, pasting, etc." follows. Finally there's another free period followed by "a story or two" and then lunch.

'Get Them To Talk'

Occasionally field trips are substituted or added to the curriculum.

Last Friday, for instance, the students went on a "listening walk" in the Ord park.

"We'll walk and then stop and shut our eyes and see what we can hear," Mrs. Norton said as she explained the trip to the children at snack time. "What do you think you'll hear?"

"I'll probably hear a bird go quack-quack," replied Scotty Novosad.

Then to the visitor Mrs. Norton said, "We try to get them to talk and talk. Any way we can we try to get them into a conversation—to express themselves."

The curriculum was developed locally by Mrs. Norton. Her plan is to cover one unit a week. Thus, during the seven-week course the following pattern is being followed:

First Week — Mother Goose or Nursery Rhymes—"They're all familiar with that, and it's a good way to get started."

Second Week — Circus and Zoo Animals—"We learn about the different types of animals, what they eat and where they live."

Third Week — Farm Animals—"The animals are of a different type, but the unit ties in with the one for the second week. We'll also visit a farm."

Fourth Week — Fire Prevention—"We'll visit the fire station and have a volunteer fireman talk to the group, and we'll make Smokey Bear puppets."

Fifth Week — Family Helpers—"We'll talk about their families and their place in the family. We also hope they'll learn more about themselves, and we hope to have a get-together with the parents. Mrs. Ellingson has also taken movies during the school, and we hope to show them them."

Sixth Week — Community Helpers—"We'll visit some of the different stores, study about the policeman, the mail man, etc."

Seventh Week — Safety—"We'll try to teach them not to run across the street and things like that so they'll be ready when they go to school."

Tense Moments

Most of the work is fun for student and teacher alike, Mrs. Norton says, but she acknowledges that there are some tense moments.

"One of our science projects was to grow some hair for the paper-mache Humpty Dumpty we made," she said. "So one day we had a big ceremony and planted some grass seeds in the top of his head. Then we gave it lots of water and sunshine and waited. Freda (Augustyn, the teacher's aide) and I were praying it would come up. You know, we couldn't have asked for anything better. Pretty soon, in fact, we're going to have to cut Humpty-Dumpty's hair."

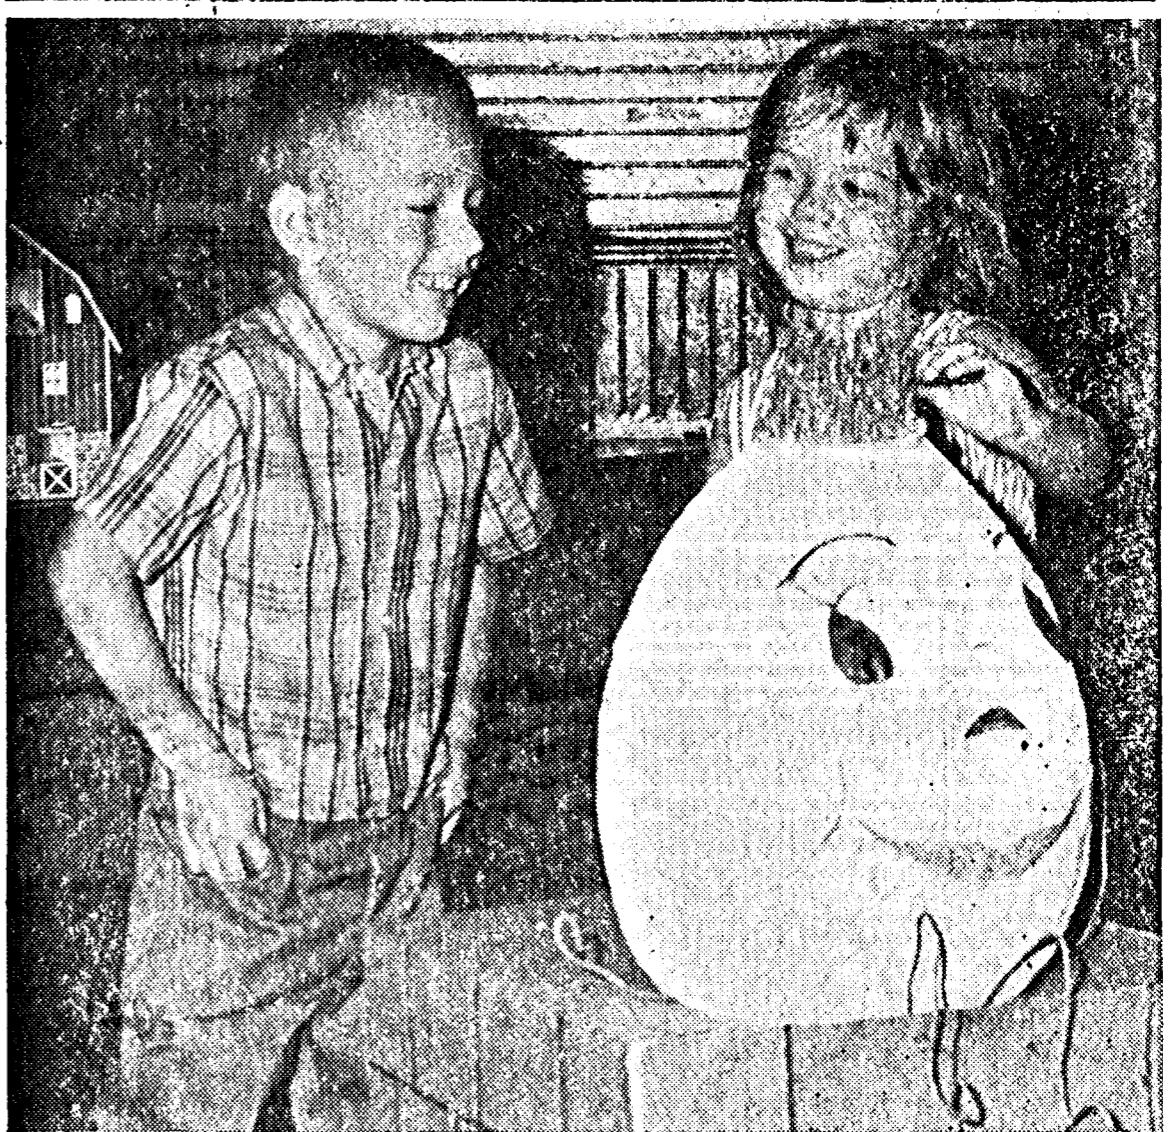

After only three weeks Mrs. Norton said she could not really evaluate the program's effectiveness. However, she and Mrs. Augustyn both claimed they saw encouraging signs.

"One student wouldn't talk when school first started but now jabbered all the time," Mrs. Norton said. "A couple of others would cry any time they were asked to do something, but they don't do that anymore."

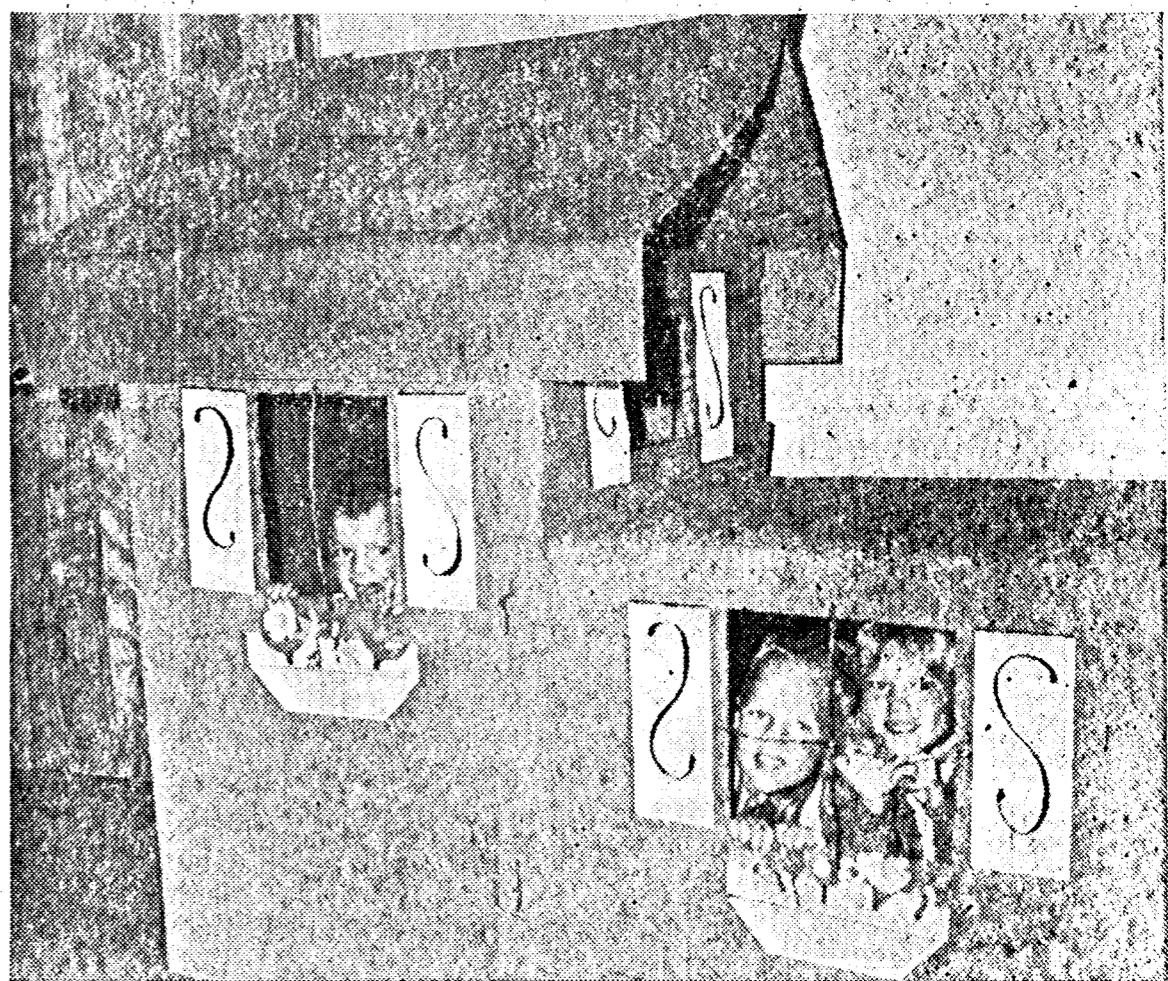

"We have a smaller group here than in kindergarten," she concluded, "and we can give more individual attention to the ones who really need it. They'll be able to enter in immediately when they go to school whereas otherwise there would have to be a period of adjustment."

THE Ord Quiz

Estab. April, 1882. Ord, Nebr., Thurs., July 3, 1969. Vol. 88, No. 17. In 2 Sects.

Combing hair grown on a paper-mache Humpty Dumpty is Marlene Ellingson, as Brian Manchester watches. Like many of the items in the Head Start school, Humpty Dumpty was made by the children themselves. His hair consists of grass grown as a science project.

Jerry Augustyn leads the children in a skipping game during the music period. This is a favorite time for the youngsters according to officials.

Geraldyn Markvicka and John Boettcher, opposite camera, join hands with each other and with other classmates to play "Old McDonald." That's Becky Augustyn in the middle of the circle. Older children such as Becky sometimes attend the sessions and take part in the activities. Her mother, Mrs. Gene Augustyn, is a teacher's aide.

Nebraska Press AssociationTHE Ord Quiz*Is It Needed?

An un informed public is either suspicious or apathetic. In the case of Ord's first summer Head Start program, it appears to be extremely suspicious.

Partially in response to reader queries, the Quiz has collected and is publishing in this issue as much information as possible on the controversial program. This information can be found in stories appearing on the front pages of both sections in today's paper.

After visiting the school Friday morning, it's impossible to classify it as useless and without benefit to the children enrolled. An outsider, for instance, could not help but be impressed by the manner in which the children had been taught to sit quietly and wait until everyone had been served before starting to eat during the snack period.

Further, there is little doubt that Mrs. Robert Norton—the Head Start teacher—is correct when she says the children will be able to enter in immediately when they go to kindergarten.

In short, the program is benefiting the children who are enrolled.

On the other hand, there is some doubt as to whether those children need the special training any more than other youngsters around town in their age group. A teacher said when the school first started two or three of the children would cry when they were asked to do anything. But is that a shortcoming which is reserved for the "economically and culturally deprived"? A visit to public school kindergarten classes during the first week of any semester will show that it is not.

Mrs. Norton taught previously in the Head Start program at Rapid City, S.D. She said that there many of the children—products of unwed Indian mothers and transient fathers stationed at nearby Ellsworth Air Force Base—were afraid to put their hands under running water because they had never been exposed to it. In such situation the need for a good Head Start program would be obvious.

However, no such situation or anything similar exists here. Under local circumstances, the expenditure of $3,193 in tax funds—plus additional money for followup dental care—appears highly questionable.

Make the Federal Government Account Too

Printed in fine print at the top of this page is the statement:

"Every government official or board handling public money should publish at regular intervals an accounting showing where and how each dollar is spent. The Ord Quiz holds this to be a fundamental principle of democratic government."

Citizens long ago established this requirement at the local level. Thus it is that once each month city councils, school boards, and county boards are required to publish a record of their expenditures.

Yet somehow the biggest money handler of all—and the biggest wastrel: has been overlooked. That of course is the federal government.

George Haynes, new director of the Central Nebraska Community Action Program in Loup City, said Tuesday he is not required to publish in any manner the expenditures of that agency. This, despite the fact roughly half a million dollars has flowed through it during the last two years.

The fact that a board of directors must approve the budget, and that expense files are open to any citizen who is willing to take the trouble to browse through them, has not prevented large-scale graft and corruption from appearing in Community Action Programs elsewhere.

Many citizens of Ord would like to know how the $3,193 allotted for the summer Head Start program here is being spent. They have a right to know—it is their money which is being spent—but apparently no one is required to account to them.

Isn't it time that this changed—that we started keeping track of our big money handled by the federal government as closely as we do the change handled by our local bodies?

The population explosion is causing problems around the world and in this country, says Dr. Robert Hatcher, of the Emory University School of Medicine. According to Dr. Hatcher, "falling death rates and high birth rates are leading to an imbalance which is creating the population explosion." He stated that each year in the United States some 4 million women become pregnant. About 45 percent of these pregnancies are unplanned or unwanted. One of every four of these pregnancies is terminated in abortion. Since 1940, the number of babies born out of wedlock has doubled. There are 300,000 illegitimate babies born annually.

The National Assn. of Manufacturers observed that negotiated wage increases for all industries soared to a new high of 19.8 cents an hour during the first quarter of 1969. That's 4.5 cents higher than the corresponding period in 1968 and 6.9 cents above first-quarter 1967.

The Portland, Ore., Traffic Safety Commission says that if more people would stop making excuses for not wearing safety belts, there would be a lot more people. What's your excuse?

The Scott Report*West Germany Could Fall to Communist Control In Next Three Months

By Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — With the swearing in of Gustav Heinemann as its new president, West Germany enters one of the most decisive periods in its post-World War II history.

American intelligence authorities privately are saying that what happens in West Germany and on its borders between now and the time when national elections are held on Sept. 28 could determine whether that nation remains free or falls under Communist control.

The immediate question is whether President Heinemann, an avowed pacifist, will trigger the crisis by asking Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger, leader of the Christian Democratic Union, to step down from his strategic government position.

The removal of Kiesinger, a staunch supporter of the United States, is being vigorously pushed by Minister of All German Affairs Herbert Wehner. Wehner is the real backstage leader of the Social Democrats who engineered Heinemann's unexpected six-vote election last February in West Berlin.

Once a member of the Communist Third International whose conversion to the West is still debated in the highest intelligence circles, Wehner wants a member of the Social Democrats — Kiesinger's coalition partners — to head up the West German government during the crucial July-September period.

Whether he will be able to obtain the backing of West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt, the top Social Democrat in the coalition government, should become known in a few days.

Brandt, who hopes to defeat Kiesinger in the September national election, is concerned that his role as chancellor will give him an advantage in the campaign.

Polls already show that Kiesinger's Christian Democratic Party will increase its margin in the German parliament this fall. Whether the increase will be large enough for the Christian Democrats to form their own non-coalition government is the debatable question.

Soviet Interference

The intriguing possibility of Soviet interference in the political campaign is being closely watched by American experts on West German and Russian affairs.

With more than 60 percent of all American air-sea-ground combat units now tied down in Vietnam and the Far East, these experts have warned the White House to expect certain moves by the Russian leaders during the campaign. The Soviets are expected to take advantage of the situation and try to topple the pro-U.S. government of Kiesinger.

Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev reportedly informed key delegates to the recent Moscow summit meeting of Communist parties that the time is ripe for bringing political and military pressure on West Germany to force Kiesinger out of office.

The Soviet plan, which appears to parallel that of Wehner, calls for an immediate campaign to force Kiesinger to step down so President Heinemann can appoint a successor.

If a member of the Social Democrats friendly to the Soviet Union is named as the new chancellor, the strategy of the Russian government will be to block Kiesinger's return to power — as well as that of any other Christian Democratic leaders — by any means necessary.

In recent weeks the Kremlin has made several moves to support such a policy. Most important was the movement of Soviet troops in Czechoslovakia closer to Bavaria where Finance Minister Franz Josef Strauss' Christian Social Union — an offshoot of Kiesinger's Christian Democratic Union — is in power.

Because of his strong power bases both inside and outside government, Strauss is considered the most influential member of the Kiesinger regime and the one man that can block the chancellor's ouster.

Americans permitted to visit the disputed area report that the Israelis are laying out an elaborate tourist resort settlement

Opening the Attack

Significantly, Brandt in opening his party's campaign recently singled out Strauss for his main attack.

After mentioning Strauss' efforts to put together a coalition of all central and right party voters, Brandt warned:

"We Social Democrats will strike back if demagogic and appeals to dark emotions are to determine the policies of our coalition partners in Bonn."

American intelligence watchers of West German affairs believe that this statement by Brandt is an indication he will join in the move to force Kiesinger out of office before the September elections.

Chancellor Kiesinger's visit to Washington, which could help him politically, has been rescheduled for Aug. 4-5 after being postponed for a second time.

The postponement, which could help Kiesinger's opposition cause as a surprise to his supporters, The White House's reason for the impending Apollo 11 moon landing attempt — was even more surprising.

Holding the Heights

In addition to the Holy City of Jerusalem, Israel apparently has no intention of giving up the strategic Golan Heights — captured from Syria during the June 1967 war — an any peace settlement with the Arabs.

Americans permitted to visit the Golan Heights.

They plan ski runs, a dude ranch, a 60-room motel, restaurants, and a mountain-top cable car affording vistas stretching from Damascus to Tel Aviv.

The $12 million project, authorized by the Israeli government, is being centered around a place called Ramat Shalom on the slopes of 9,000-foot Mount Hermon, in charge of the crash building project is Dick Scott, a former real estate developer from New York and Florida.

He frankly says that Israeli officials have assured him the Golan Heights will never be returned to Syria.

Israeli diplomats here agree that the Golan Heights is about the last of the territories captured in 1967 which their government could hand back to the Arabs. As to whether the territory is negotiable, they are not willing to say.

Middle East Flashes

Israel is banking on increased shipments of Iranian oil for its new pipeline. Due for completion late this summer, the pipeline will run from Eilat on the Red Sea to Ashkelon on the Mediterranean. Israeli military censors bar foreign correspondents from describing progress on the pipeline. The reason: to prevent embarrassment of Iran in its relations with Arab states.

Tempers of Greek and Turkish Cypriots are getting shorter. Their militia forces exchanged gunfire in Nicosia for the first time in a year last week

. . . The Hei Men, a Chinese Communist cargo ship, has been carrying arms for the Palestinian Arab guerrillas from Beirut, Lebanon, to Latakia, Syria.

Special on Militants

The federal government has a powerful weapon to use against militant student and Negro groups and their leaders if it wants to use it.

Records of the Internal Revenue Service show that none of the militant groups and very few of their leaders have paid any taxes in recent years.

In most instances, neither the groups nor the individuals have even filed federal income tax returns.

That's the shocking information turned over to Senator John McClellan's Permanent Investigations Subcommittee, which is probing campus and big-city violence.

Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) has asked the Internal Revenue Service for a full report on why no action has been taken to prosecute the militant groups and their non-taxpaying leaders.

In the case of the Students for a Democratic Society, which has now broken up into two organizations, no taxes were paid although the group's average income totaled $100,000 a year.

The Black Panthers and most of its leaders paid no federal income taxes or even took the time to file an income tax return.

—truth and freedom—
As my friend Jack Lough of the Albion News replies when asked how to run a newspaper, "Ask our readers . . . don't ask us. Everyone else seems to spend all their time telling us how we should run our paper!"

That's about the way I felt after the barrage of comments flowing in following last week's issue. The Quiz spoke out sharply on some issues we thought needed airing. This week everyone else seems to have their own ideas on how to run a newspaper.

It's ironic that just when I'm picking up two national awards for Gerald Green's writing, he's being criticized for "inaccurate reporting" and irresponsible editing.

From 6,800 of the nation's newspapers the Quiz was cited for two outstanding pieces of writing—both by Editor Gerald Green. There were over 2,800 entries in this year's national newspaper contests. Only three awards went to Nebraska papers AND TWO OF THOSE WENT TO THE QUIZ!

A well-written and well-thought-out letter from a reader who wishes to remain anonymous states in this week's Quiz, "I don't believe you should have published the names of first-time offenders," in regard to last week's story of the Arcadia incident.

It may startle readers to know that J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has REQUESTED that newspapers do exactly this—publish the names of first-time offenders.

A careful and thorough study of the increasing crime rate in the United States indicated that withholding the names of first-time offenders made no difference in the nation's juvenile delinquency problem.

Though I'm not "everyone," I know personally that the harshest punishment ever dealt me by my father (then Quiz publisher) was to print my name on the for so many years. Rebuilding self-esteem is a long, discouraging process.

Funding for Friendship House has been through our local Community Action agency from the beginning of its operation. We will not be able to secure federal funds after November. The Board of Directors of the Platte Valley Community Action Agency plan to work with the Board of Directors of Friendship House, helping them to find money to keep operating.

Since rehabilitation of alcoholics is such a long, hard job and it is so difficult to measure successes, editorials such as yours will be a big help in convincing communities and organizations that local support of Friendship House is in the best interests of the whole area.

Mrs. Bill Wetterer Jr.
Wood River, Neb. 68883

(Editor's Note: The article to which Mrs. Wetterer refers was in the June 12 "Kerry On" column. It dealt with the rehabilitation of two local alcoholics and the help they received at Friendship House in Grand Island. The column was reprinted in the Grand Island Independent.)

Dear Editor:
I just got through reading your headline about the Arcadia incident. I haven't been in town very long, but I know that your story certainly has done injustice to several of those you listed. You gave many many facts, but you certainly needed to clarify them.

When I read the article I thought those listed were the villains, but then learned that they were the lesser offenders. As a matter of fact, one listed had only transported the material without knowing it to be stolen for several weeks. He was wrong in not reporting it immediately, but when I think back some 15 years I guess I'd front page of the Quiz when I ended up in jail at Lincoln on a charge of "drinking in a public place." I thought my life had ended then and there! Now—as I look back—I deserved every bit of what I received and probably more.

In Dr. Gogan's letter in this week's "Vox Pop" he states, "I would like to see credit and favorable comments given to our public officials . . . rather than so much criticism as these people give so much time with little or no remuneration in an effort to make Ord a fine community in which to live."

No one in this community receives as much criticism as the Quiz! Yet we feel it our duty to be more than a "good-will sheet." Too many in America today are afraid to stand up and be counted. Any public official worthy of being an American should not be afraid to take a stand on any issue!

It is with deep regret that we must "fight" to get the news for the people that pay the bills. It is with even deeper regret that we find people willing to serve the public "with little or no remuneration." BUT AFRAID TO ACCEPT THE RESPONSIBILITIES BESTOWED UPON THEM IN FREEDOM'S NAME.

"Lay off the public officials." I often heard when I edited the Quiz. "If you aren't careful, NO ONE will take a public job."

People afraid of criticism . . . those afraid to take a stand . . . those worried about what their neighbor might think if they voice an opinion . . . THOSE are the people that worry us. They are the ones that want to be veiled in shrouds of secrecy! But why?

Though I've died for it, we still adhere to the Master's words, "Ye shall know the Truth and the Truth shall make you Free."

have done the same thing. Perhaps I'd have gone further and done it.

Fellers Make Lots of Noise But Get Nothing Done

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
You might recollect some time back the fellers gave a whole Saturday night session to the government's rain policy. It was decided at the time that the scientists were trying to make rain and the politicians were trying to say where the rain was going to fall.

Well, sir, this matter got another chance on the agenda Saturday night.

Ed Mullisky got wound up over all the talk in Congress and across the country about air and water pollution. He said it had got so bad to where this city feller went to the country and had to cut his visit short 'cause he got scared breathing air he couldn't see.

Ed was of a mind that Congress hems and haws about everything takes up except raising its own wages, and this problem of air and water pollution is getting the same old run-around.

It is usually true, allowed Ed, that politicians spend a heap of time talking and precious little time getting things done, but he was of a mind that making clean air was going to be as tough as making rain.

There are some folks, said Ed, who love the smell of pool rooms, and some can't stand the smell of horses. There are others that like to smell cigars but get sick when they smell the stuff women use in them permanent waves.

There ain't no way, allowed Ed, that the government or anybody else can clean up the air to suit everybody.

Eldon Bruha said he could see them Congressmen trying to figure out what kind of air the folks back home want.

It'd be as bad as deciding the best day to make rain. If farmers and ranchers need rain the worst way, the golfers don't want it. If the vegetable gardens need a shower, the hay on the ground don't.

Edwin Volk took the floor and allowed Eldon and Ed weren't taking the right look at water and air pollution.

With the weather, Edwin said, the thing was to change nature's habits. But with bad air and water, it is to change habits of folks.

Edwin said the politicians got off the rain-making game fast 'cause they knew with the setup Mother Nature's got nobody can get blamed for whatever weather we get. If people run the weather, they'll mess it up sure, Edwin said, 'cause if it didn't rain on a feller's mowed hay it'd catch him Sunday at the church picnic.

Low Biles put the stopper in the pollution jug. Mister Ed, when he said noise was a headache, and between jet airplanes and racket that younguns call music, the whole country is going deaf.

Lew moved to adjourn the session on grounds the fellers weren't doing anything but adding to the noise pollution.

By Berenice Cornell

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Janulewicz have a new granddaughter in Omaha. The new arrival was born to Mr. and Mrs. James McKeever. This week Mrs. Janulewicz and little David and Sheri McKeever, who have been with their grandparents the past three weeks, will go to Omaha to be with the new baby and her mother for a few days. Mr. Janulewicz will go to Omaha and bring Mrs. Janulewicz home.

New York Impressions
Rev. Ronald Graff conducted religious services on June 28. He had recently returned from a conference of Evangelical Free Church held in New York City. Mr. Graff had the privilege of spending one evening at the Billy Graham Crusade being held in that city. He said he was impressed with the many people attending of all ranks, types and races, and he thought of how all were God's people and how God loves them all. He also mentioned the fastness and busy pace of people in the city, so busy doing everything that the most important part of life is missed — waiting on God to direct them.

Chapter 3, verses 1-11 of I Samuel was used to teach those present at the Parkview service the importance of spending some time each day waiting in silent prayer to learn God's will for us.

Change in Tenants

Because of illness, Bessie Timmerman has given up unit 152. The furniture was taken out the past week, and Harold Owens has moved into the unit.

Sister-in-Law Dies

Mae Dockhorn had a telephone call Sunday evening from a brother's son, Charles Woodworth of San Pedro, Calif., saying that his mother had passed away. Later Mae's son Anson of Omaha came to spend the night here. He had been at Comstock and attended the Westco Church during the day. Mae also had another surprise late Sunday night. A daughter, Mrs. Joan Neddalek of Salem, Ore., arrived here from Loveland, Colo., with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neddalek, and their baby boy. The Neddaleks stayed overnight with Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Niedbalk. Monday, they had dinner with Mae, and will be visiting here with relatives for several days. Mae's daughter, Mildred Anderson, her nieces and a nephew — Jackie, Linda and Bob Arter of Sterling, Colo., and Randy Adamek, went to Comstock Tuesday evening to attend the Neddalek's Ord ball game. Bob played with the Ord team. On Friday the father of the Arter young folks, Bill Arter, and a friend, Mrs. Laurie Castor, and twin daughters, Suzzie and Sally, all of Sterling, Colo., came from Stewart where they had visited relatives of Mrs. Castor. That afternoon they and the Arter children all left for Sterling. Jackie, Linda and Bob had visited nearly two weeks with their aunt Mildred and another aunt, Jean Vodehnal.

Lucy McCune spent from Tuesday until Friday with a daughter and family, the Paul Wrays of Scotia.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Holman of Westerville visited June 23 with Mae Dockhorn. From Tuesday until Saturday Mae was with her daughter, Mrs. Eldon Kokes, and family of Elyria.

Mae and Mary Jorgensen went to Papillion Sunday morning with Norma Knapp. They were to stay for several days to be with a grandson, Larry Jorgensen, and wife at the Axel Jorgensen home. The Larry Jorgensens are going to California to live. Mary also will visit her other children there — the Harland Jorgenses and Bill Goff Sargent spent Wednesday with his sister, Eva Robertson.

Spending some time Wednesday with Elizabeth Severson were her half brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Feliz Knebel of Grant; a half-sister, Mrs. Anton Welniak of Elyria; and a sister, Gertrude Knebel.

Mrs. Stella Kerr had supper with Berenice Cornell Tuesday.

A nephew of Oscar Hackett's, Arthur Holtz, and his wife and grandson visited Mr. and Mrs. Hackett Friday. The visitors live in Lincoln.

Mildred Anderson, her nieces and a nephew — Jackie, Linda and Bob Arter of Sterling, Colo., and Randy Adamek, went to Comstock Tuesday evening to attend the Neddalek's Ord ball game. ## This Week's Meditation

(Read Matthew 28:16-20)

"Remember, I am with you always, even to the end of the world." (Matthew 28:20, Phillips)

"A young airman came to see me one day when a layman and I were busy building our chapel at Cam Ranh Bay, South Vietnam. We were both dressed in dirty fatigues and did not look much like the normal pastor and parishioner. The young man spoke deliberately, seriously. 'Chaplain, I have been a Christian for several years, but have been terribly lax for some time. I am realizing again how much Christ means to me, and I want to do something for Him while I am here.'

After that we talked and prayed together about what he should do. The result of his desire is to do something for His Lord was to paint a large mural to be titled "Christ at Cam Ranh Bay." This he did, and it was hung behind the chapel

Iron Men From Wooden Ships Hold Reunion in Milwaukee

By Margaret Zentz

Ly Lutz returned home Wednesday from Milwaukee, Wis., where he had gone to attend a reunion of the crew from the U.S. Subchaser 178. Ten members of the crew managed to get there. They came from a widely scattered area, including Nova Scotia, Canada; Detroit, Mich.; Chicago, Ill.; and New York. Mr. Lutz was the only one present from the Midwest.

These chasers were wooden ships 100 feet long. They saw lots of active service around the coast of France, England, and Ireland. After 52 years out of the original crew of 22 enlisted men and two officers, 15 are still alive. Their average age is 75.

In a jocular vein they said it was a throw-back to the old Navy of wooden ships and iron men. Now it is iron ships and wooden men.

The next reunion will be in Nova Scotia two years from now.

Attending Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Lutz, Shirley and Tom are in Denver, Colo., this week, attending a reunion of the 885th. Mr. Lutz spent five years — from 1941 to 1946 — with the group.

Two Girls Injured As Auto Plunges Into Irrigation Ditch

Two teenage Grand Island girls had a close call with death early Saturday afternoon when their car ran off a bridge and plunged into an irrigation canal east of Ord.

Injured in the accident were Timotha Cronk and Patricia Findley, both 18. Miss Cronk is the daughter of Leonard Cronk who lives in Ord, and Clarence Cronk who resides in Grand Island. Miss Findley's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Errol Findley of Grand Island.

The Findley girl remains in the Valley County Hospital with severe facial and head cuts. The Cronk girl has been released but lost several teeth in the accident.

Miss Cronk was driving her father's car when the accident occurred. She had received her driver's license only a few days before.

The accident scene was on a gravel road which runs east from Highway 70. The site was just west of the Adam Zebert farm.

Dr. Otis Miller, who treated both girls, said they were knocked unconscious by the impact. The car had crashed through a bridge railing and nosed into canal. Had it settled back they possibly could have drowned, he said.

Sheriff Clarence Fox reported that the car, travelling west, topped a small hill at a speed of approximately 40 miles per hour. He said the driver apparently hit the brake when she saw the narrow bridge ahead, throwing the car out of control.

The Cronk girl lost all her teeth on the upper right side except for the two in front and one in back. She also lost two on the lower left side, Dr. Miller reported, and was cut on the right hand and the left leg.

Miss Findley was "almost scalped," Dr. Miller said. He reported that her head went partially through the windshield, causing severe lacerations of the forehead and scalp.

Giant Windstorm Batters Vicinity, Leaves Buildings, Crops Damaged

Wide-spread crop and property damage resulted from the devastating winds that raked portions of four Loup Valley counties early on July the Fourth.

Some of the crop damage, however, was offset by rains which accompanied the winds, and by other moisture which fell Sunday and Monday. Here in Ord the total rainfall for the three days was measured at 2.16 inches, bringing the year's accumulation to within less than an inch of that received at a comparable period last year.

Corn which had been sprayed with 24-D apparently took the worst beating from the storm, whose winds were estimated at 75 to 100 miles per hour. Lloyd Zikmund, manager of the Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Office for Valley County, estimated losses as high as 20 percent in sprayed fields because of stalks broken off by the winds.

He said 24-D had left many plants brittle, making them especially susceptible. The weather juries were not serious although both Mrs. Pishna and her son were hospitalized.

A number of building losses were reported, most of them on farms. Many television antennas were also bent out of shape, and a few chickens were reported destroyed.

Emergency crews worked through the night to restore power and telephone lines as quickly as possible.

Calvin said much of the restoration was on a temporary basis.

Actual repair of broken poles and lines will go on for a number of days yet.

The storm struck about midnight Thursday. Wilbert Calvin, manager of the REA office in Ord, said temporary power had been restored in almost all areas by 9 o'clock the next morning.

Two exceptions were the Davis Creek vicinity and a small area overlapping the southeast corner of Valley County and the northwest corner of Greeley County.

Calvin said 75 to 100 customers in those locales were off for longer periods, but few beyond 1 p.m. Friday.

In Arcadia power was off to some customers for about four hours, and here in Ord it was approximately three hours.

One of the most serious losses to farmers was in the form of hay stacks that were blown over.

With last summer's drought conditions and similar problems earlier this year, hay is at a premium.

The wheat is down quite a bit near here," W. J. Ramsey of Arcadia reported. "However, with these new machines we shouldn't have too much trouble picking most of it up."

Only injuries reported from the storm were those incurred by Mrs. James Pishna and her son, Jimmy Jr. They and Mr. Pishna were driving along Highway 11 south of Burwell when a tree fell across the highway. Pishna reported he was unable to stop before hitting it.

Free Church Ground-Breaking Conducted

Formal ground-breaking ceremonies were held Sunday for a new $60,000 building that will house the Evangelical Free Church of Ord.

The building will be located west of Highway 11 opposite the Elks Club.

Church officials said they hope construction can be started the latter part of this month. The contract has been issued to Charlie Kriewald of Ord.

The building will contain roughly 2,800 square feet and will be built in an early-American style of red brick with white columns and trim.

In addition, she was suffering initially from a concussion but has now recovered from that, according to the doctor.

Dr. Wayne Zlomke said the in-

Ort High School, that was once used as a funeral home.

The local congregation held its first service Sept. 18, 1966.

Jerome Wadas brought in a load from the Liberty Township area of Valley County which weighed 63 pounds per bushel and had a moisture content of 15 percent.

Eugene Novotny's moisture content was measured at 14.75 percent. His poundage was not available, but he reported initial yields of 40 bushels per acre.

M. R. Carver had harvested a 15-acre field four miles west of Constock and reported 15 bushels per acre. He estimated one-third of his crop had been blown down by last week's violent windstorm.

Farm Prospects Much Better Now

Things are suddenly looking up for area farmers and ranchers.

Shortly after word was received that 10 Central Nebraska counties had been declared eligible for federal drought disaster aid, more than two inches of rain fell over a widely scattered area.

As a result, conditions look "very good" in the southeast portion of the Loup Valley area and "improved" farther north and west.

The drought disaster request was approved for Valley County and nine other counties to the north and west. Among them are Custer, Garfield, Loup, and Webster.

An estimated 75 Valley County farmers have already signed up to graze or harvest land previously diverted under federal programs. Ed Janus of the local Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Office reported Wednesday morning. The county ASC committee is now appraising that land, setting fees based on the land's estimated productivity. These fees will be must be used or sold in the drought area. The minimum rate for harvesting is $2 per acre, and some hay run as high as $8. Janus reported.

The rate for grazing a cow and calf has been set at 9 cents a day for a single animal over one year old at 7 cents a day, and for anything less than a year at 4 cents. The rate for hogs and sheep is 1 cent a day.

Lloyd Zikmund, manager of the ASC office, gave a rundown Wednesday of prospects in various parts of the county. He reported:

In the southeast part of the county: "Everything is looking real good. As a result of recent rains the corn has picked up to where it normally would have been, and the second cutting of alfalfa is in progress. Pastures are excellent. In general conditions are very good."

West and north of Ord: "Some farmers took cattle out of pastures earlier because of the drought conditions, and the first cutting of hay was almost nonexistent. The second cutting, we hope, will be of fair quality and quantity."

Near Arcadia: "The corn looks real good and is being laid by irrigation is ready to start in some cases."

Judge Reduces Charges On Five Arcadia Youths

Five Arcadia youths pleaded guilty in district court Thursday to charges of petty larceny and were fined $50 each. They were also required to pay court costs and to make restitution in varying amounts for property stolen and not recovered in a series of break-ins at Arcadia.

The petty larceny charges were reduced from original counts of breaking and entering which had been filed against the five.

County Attorney John Sullivan, who acted as prosecutor, said that the charges be reduced. He said the value of goods stolen by each boy was less than $100, and the door had been left open at one of the businesses with which they were all charged with entering—Mason Motors.

District Judge William Manasli complied with Sullivan's request.

No action was taken in the case of a sixth youth, Jerry Bresley, pending the outcome of a trial at Loup City. Bresley has been charged there with motor vehicle homicide in the June 7 death of an Ashton man, Leo Baker. He had been charged here with the same breaking and entering offense that the other boys had.

Those pleading guilty to the petty larceny charges were Jerry Reed Schmidt, Russell Ritz, Dennis Lindell, Ronald Joseph Hurlburt, and Leslie Dean Combs. Their trial had been postponed from June 20 because all of them had not been accompanied to court by their parents. Only Hurlburt

The story of the big Fourth of July weekend is told in these photographs. Beginning in center at bottom:

Old Glory flies briskly on July the Fourth from a memorial dedicated that day in honor of the late Don Gweke. The memorial is located in front of the Ord Elks Club. Gweke was a 1964 graduate of Ord High School who was killed last November in an automobile wreck.

A savage July the Fourth storm early on the Fourth left much damage around the countryside. This house, which had recently been moved in and put on a foundation at the E. J. Lange place southwest of town, was moved off the foundation and one side dropped into the basement. Part of the foundation was demolished. More pictures are on Page 5.

Timotha Cronk and her friend, Patricia Findley, were both injured when this automobile plunged through a bridge railing and into an irrigation canal Saturday afternoon. The Cronk girl has been released from the Valley County Hospital, but the Findley girl is still there. See story elsewhere on this page.

It was another grand fireworks show the night of the Fourth at the Ord athletic field. This flag was a fitting climax to the big show. There'll be more pictures on this in next week's Quiz.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

With the ending of the holiday weekend, so ended the Ord High School alumni events for another year.

It was a happy time for all who felt the occasion worthwhile enough to be present. Those who travelled great distances to see old classmates and friends were disappointed to find that many of our Ordites were not present.

When a graduate of 1945 remarked, "I had a lot of pictures of my family that I could have brought with me; but why should I when the local ones don't make an effort," my temper flared momentarily... but wasn't it the truth?

Most certainly everyone is busy, and it is impossible to predict what the temperature in an un-airconditioned auditorium might be on a July evening.

But can excuses such as these outweigh the sentiment attached with high school days? What has happened to all that school spirit that once filled the hearts of each of us?

Being a member of the 1969 alumni committee was a great experience. However, I am disappointed that so many of the local grads did not feel the need to OHS strong enough to be present for at least part of the reunion events.

Think seriously for a moment of the words which make up the OHS school song. "We're loyal to you, OHS. We're backing you all, OHS."

We're backing you all, OHS."

They were there... Among the many out-of-towners who were on hand during the weekend to greet returning alumni were Master Sgt. Richard Maloof, Clinton, Okla., '49; Merna Crow Meier, Peetz, Colo., '29; Marvin Crow, Sterling, Colo., '24; Iva Jo Stowell McKinney, Washington, D. C., '54; and Marie Chaffield Easton, South Bend, Ind., '19. John Campbell of Eugene, Ore., was recognized as having traveled the farthest — 1,800 miles — to attend the alumni events.

According to gages, the First National Bank is the coolest place in Ord these days. Since the strong wind last week the thermometer on the bank building indicates a cool 40 degrees below zero.

Visits at Mott's

Dennis Mott, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mott, Jr., of Omaha, spent the weekend with his grandmother, Mrs. Ella Mott, and with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mott, and family. Guests for dinner Sunday at the home of Ella Mott were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mott, Earl Mott, Phillip Harkness, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mott and family, and Pearl Baldwin. Mrs. Baldwin was celebrating her birthday.

Dennis returned to Omaha Sunday.

In the afternoon on the Fourth Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cupl and William and Gilbert Eaker of Broken Bow visited at the Ella Mott home. They had come to Ord for the purpose of checking on Mr. Cupl's new house in the elder Mrs. Cupl is presently visiting in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Martha Decker, in St. Petersburg, Fla.

The Vernon Johnson's left Wednesday morning for their new home in Tooele, Utah, after a five day visit; in the Lester Kizer home.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in St. John's Fellowship Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Maurer of Wayne were hosts.

Mrs. George Grien of Lakefield, Minn., cut the wedding cake while Mrs. Gerald Hicks of Nora Springs, Ia., served. Both ladies are aunts of the bride.

Mrs. James Clement and Mrs. James Grien poured. Waitresses were Diane Beckman, Diane Tenopir, Susie Jensen, and Sue Fosler.

Christine Bernthal of Wayne was in charge of the guest book, and Gloria Magnuson of Wayne and Judy Hafemeister of Seward opened and displayed the gifts.

Mary Ream of Wayne and Craig Clement carried gifts to the gift line. Miss Grien carried a cascade of yellow roses mounted on a white Bible.

Johanna Tierney of Seward served as maid of honor, and bridesmaid was Natalie Coffman of Seward. Junior bridesmaid was Debra Grien, sister of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Lippencott of Blair were among those returning to Ord for the alumni activities last weekend. Mrs. Lippencott was a member of the Class of '29 and Sunday morning joined classmates for breakfast at the New Cafe. The Lippencotts were Saturday overnight guests of her brother and family, the Emanuel Vodchnals.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in an original gown by Bianchi of Boston, a white silk length dress with satin rosette trim which matched the trim of her headband. She carried nosegay of roses, daisies, mums and ivy. Maid of honor was Jane Besore.

For a wedding trip the newlyweds toured the southwest. Highlights were Salt Lake City, the Grand Canyon and Santa Fe. They are now at home at 2220 North 92nd Ave., Omaha.

Ferris served refreshments.

Miss Grien is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Coffee of Harrison, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Radil of Comstock.

In an outdoor setting beneath a white arch, Sara Ellen Coffee became the bride of Gary Wayne Radil. The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Lee Gorman on June 8, at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Guy Hanson, at Harrison. The guests — immediate family members and close friends — were seated on the patio decked with an array of spring flowers.

Ord Adult Team Faces Tough Row Against First, Second-Place Clubs

Ord's adult baseball team should find out this week if its bid for the Sherman Howard League playoffs is for real.

Bolstered by some outstanding individual performances in last week's all-star game at Scotia, the Mustangs returned to league warfare this week with three games in five days — two of them against the top two teams and both on the road.

After meeting Wolbach last night (Wednesday), the Ord team must travel to Wood River Friday for a battle with the league's top team and then meet go to Cairo Sunday for a meeting with the second-place club.

The Wood River game is a makeup of one originally scheduled last Sunday.

Ord pitchers Jim Lukesh and Rich Pota each pitched three innings of shutout baseball in last night's all-star game. They were throwing for the North against a South team dominated by Wood River and Cairo. Still the southeners won the contest, 21-20.

Both hurlers will need all the savvy and strength they can muster against heavy-hitting first and second-place clubs.

Going into last night's contest, Ord had won four of its last five off.

General Legal Notice — Thistle Violations

Thistle control under the present mandatory weed law is now in its fourth year. Success of diligent and appropriate efforts of farmers and ranchers provides evidence this weed can be controlled and infestations reduced to negligible numbers. In some instances, total eradication has been accomplished.

All thistle infestations not appropriately controlled as of July 1969 are, of course, in violation of the noxious weed law. The hard work and money spent by people sincerely trying to bring thistle weeds under control must be protected. Consequently, I urge local weed control authorities to incorporate the above message and the following recommended action in a general weed notice to be published in the immediate future along with endorsement by the local weed control authority:

- A. All present infestations inappropriately controlled be recorded and the people in charge be advised accordingly.
- B. Appropriate fall spraying be strongly urged.
- C. Any and all serious infestations be sprayed this fall, even if legal notices must be issued and the local weed control authority must take the necessary physical action.
- D. Consideration be given to using misdemeanor or fine provisions of the law where indifference or carelessness constitutes the major reason for weed law thistle violations.
- E. Cooperation of the general public be requested as a means of providing the county weed control superintendents with locations of existing infestations.
- F. Due to complaints received regarding chemical crop damage, we recommend avoiding use of high vol esters.

Road Tilts Prove Rough For Local Legion Nines

Broken Bow teams continued their supremacy over Ord's two American Legion baseball squads last week, winning the junior game by a 10-0 score and the midget contest by a 5-1 count.

In another brace of games, the local nines split with Burwell. The juniors won, 12-1, but the midgets lost, 7-1.

The results left the Ord juniors with a 9-4 record for the year. The midgets are 6-7.

In this week's action the two teams will be at Ansley for games today (Thursday) and at Sheldon for games Sunday. The Sheldon contests will wind up a series of four straight road contests for the local teams.

Doug Ferguson pitched a no-hitter again for the junior team in Broken Bow's easy win, which was shortened to six innings because of the 10-run rule. The midgets didn't fare much better, getting only one hit off winning pitcher Dan Hirsch.

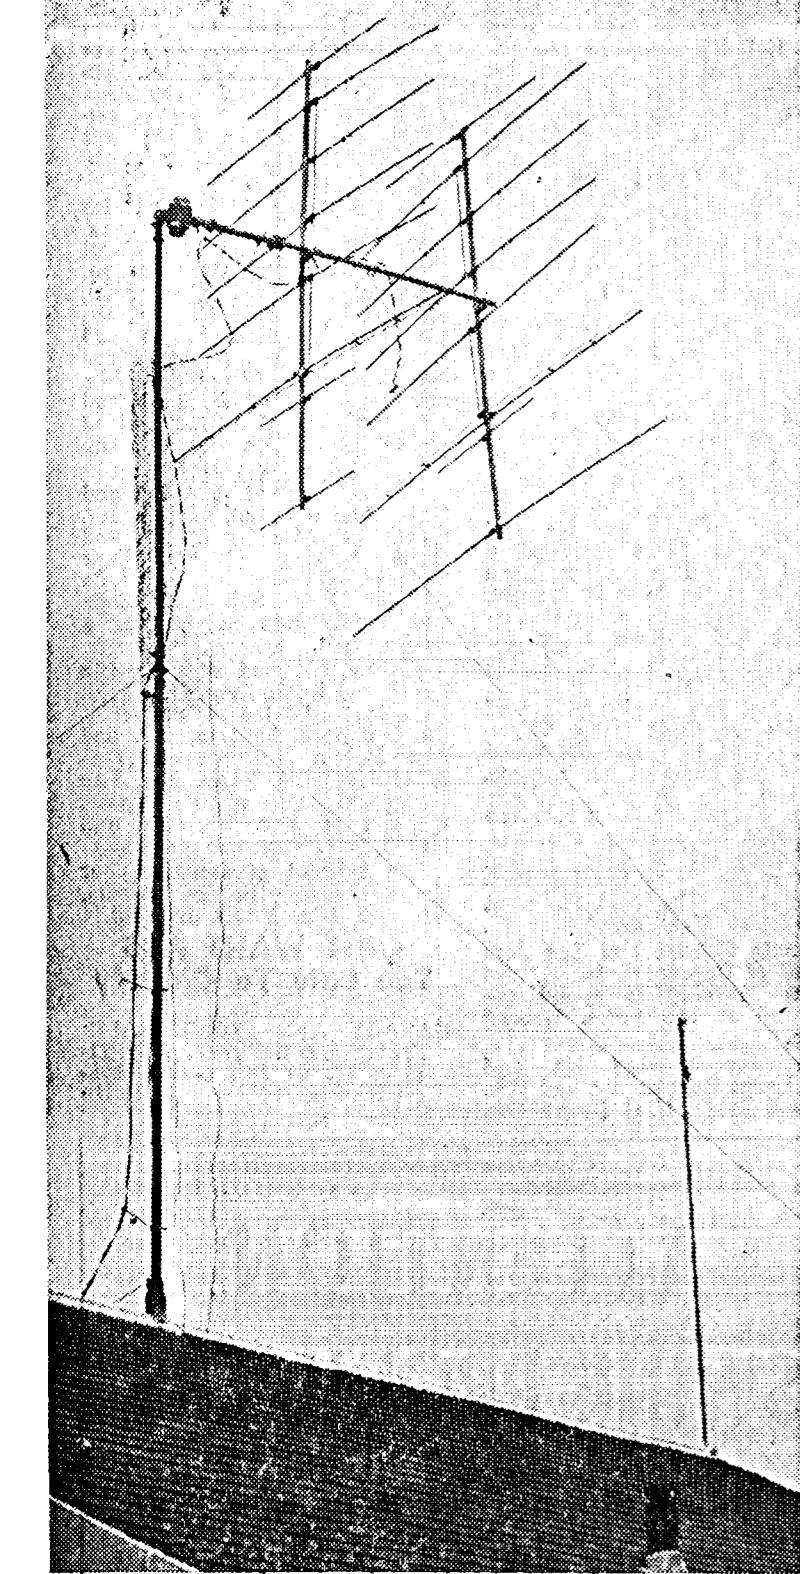

Still, the midgets looked for a

Damp Campout Was Enjoyed by All

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Spilneks, Brad and Dianne, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Roth, Todd and Part of Wayland, Iowa, spent Saturday through Monday camping at the Long Pine State Recreation Park.

Their tents proved to be water-proof as discovered when a half inch of rain fell on Saturday night and a three inch soaker again on Sunday night. Their spirits were not dampened, however, as the days were pleasant and they enjoyed swimming in the Long Pine River and long walks through the tall pines.

30th for Weckbach

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Weckbach observed their 30th wedding anniversary Tuesday with dinner at the Veterans Club. Their guests were Carl Weckbach, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Travis, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Zlomke, and Mr. and Mrs. John Nichols.

Their son, Eddie, was home for the weekend from Kearney where he is attending summer school.

Cookout King Contest On Ord Fair Agenda

Valley County residents—male over 16 years of age—who enjoy cooking outdoors will have an opportunity to try their skills in a County Cookout King Contest, July 29. This first time event will be held in conjunction with the Valley County Fair and the Farm and Home Show.

According to the committee chairman, Wayne Winterfeld, contestants can compete in one of six events—beef, pork, lamb, poultry, turkey, and a novelty class which includes a combination of the above listed or meat other than that included in the other class. Each contestant must furnish his own special equipment and supplies. Gas grills with rotisseries will be furnished.

Well Over 300 Enjoy Big Weekend Of Various Alumni Festivities in Ord

Well over half a century of graduating classes were represented at the annual Ord High School banquet held Saturday night at St. Mary's auditorium.

Mrs. Bert Needham (the former Dessie Noll) was the oldest graduate present. She represented the class of 1902 and still halls from Ord.

Besides the banquet, many graduates attended the social hour held Saturday afternoon at the Ord High gymnasium. Many also attended private meetings of their own classes while they were in town.

As usual, the alumni converged on Ord from all parts of the country. The most travelled visitor was John Campbell of Eugene, Ore., whose trip had measured more than 1,800 miles. He represented the Class of 1929.

One man who didn't travel quite so far created just as much talk because of his method of travel. Bill Pierce came chugging into town in a spruced up 1928 Packard. Brogham (the Brogham means it had two windows rather than four). This automobile was one of the nation's most elite cars when Pierce graduated from high school in 1929.

The Packard cost approximately $2,000 the preceding year when it was new, compared to $125 that same year for a Model A Ford.

Pierce drove his car from Kearney. He created more favorable talk at the evening banquet when he served as master of ceremonies.

All classes ending in "9" were honored at the banquet, with the golden anniversary class of 1919 special honorees. Five members of that class living in the Ord area — Curt Gudmundsen, Helen (Bartunek) Horn, Martha (Work) Travis, Bertha (Foth) Clement, and Eleanor (Koupal) Wegrzyn — were present at the banquet, along with three out-of-towners. Those coming from a distance were Margaret (Brown) Smith of Lincoln, Ella (Stowell) VanBoven of Loveland, Colo., and Marie (Chaffield) Easton of South Bend, Ind.

Best represented family at the function was that of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Mulligan. All five of the Haskell Creek couple's offspring were on hand to renew acquaintances with old classmates.

The five were Mrs. Kenneth (Marjorie) Osborn, Class of '43, from Baldwinville, N.Y.; Melvin Mulligan, Class of '46, who came from Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. Clarence (Verlee) Porter, Class of '49, who came from Mason City; Mrs. Carl (Charlene) Schauer, Class of '54, who still lives in Ord; and Eldon Mulligan, Class of '57, also from Ord.

The alumni committee headed by Rollin Dye is also crowing this week about its fiscal abilities. The committee reported a gain anything on the break-even side, anything on the break-even side, a job well done.

After toting up the books, the committee thought it was going into the red for about $5. But then money from the sale of two more banquet tickets was turned in, calling for the pens to be filled with black ink.

The committee reported a sell of 325 banquet tickets.

Wilma Drudik served as co-chairman of the alumni committee, with Lloyd Needham acting as treasurer. Other members were Luella Rose, Shirley Manchester, Carol Leggett, Clarence Fox, Dick Goodsell, Helen Fisher, Dean Bresley, Janet Papernik, Elva Finley, Thad Meese, Spud Kapustka, Milton Turek, Fern Goff, Martha Travis, and Bertha Clement.

Agnes Cernuk was named chairman of next year's committee with Hazel Dunbar to serve as co-chairman. Other members of the committee will be Nell Covert, Gladys Beran, Robert Noll, Stan Absalon, Naomi Sohrweid, Alice Lemmon, Sylvia Kerchal, Henry Benda, Viola Hackel, Verona Ruzicka, Mildred Boro, Frank Zadina, Genevieve Kuske, Ken Collins, Wayne Gregory, Gloria Staab, Gerald John, Dean Nelson, Connie Sears, and Rich Klimek.

Sand Flats Facts

Hay Supplies Depleted by Big Storm, But Long-Range Prospects Brighten

By Wilma Baldwin
The big news of the past week here was the rain and the big windstorm which raked much of the North Loup Valley. It hit the Sand Flats about midnight Thursday, and was followed by light to moderate rain. Some areas received almost an inch of rain, and others not quite half an inch.

Much damage was caused by the high winds, and in some places the damage looked like it was caused by a twister. Electricity was off for some time.

Farms receiving the most damage were those belonging to George Zabloudi, Bill Novosad Jr., Marvin Dydeben, Frankie Baldwin, Wayne Gregory, and Knute Peterson. Buildings were damaged, fences and windbreaks blown down, machinery moved and damaged, and a windmill damaged. Many hay stacks also were demolished or the top taken off, causing considerable loss of hay that is a precious thing in this part of the country.

Almost everyone reported tree limbs down, and many trees were uprooted. Rain also fell Saturday and Sunday night.

The highest total reported for the three rains was at the Clinton Daily place, where 3.40 inches fell. Lesser amounts were reported elsewhere, but no one reported less than two inches.

As a result, things are looking better for everyone.

Enjoy Camp-Out

The families of Ed Sevener and Mrs. Joe Bartos enjoyed a picnic and trout fishing at Victoria Falls near Ansclup on the Fourth. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dvorak of Burwell; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jablonski and Mr. and Mrs. Loup City; Mrs. Floyd Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dvorak and family; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. Dillo Troyer, Mrs. Joe Sedlacek, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Lothrop, and Mark and Greg Deaton of Palo Alto, Calif. they visited Mr. and Mrs. Tom Williams Jr. and family in Billings, Mont. While in Montana they went to Bear Tooth Pass, but because of a 10-inch snowfall and drifting on the roads they were unable to get over the pass. They also saw the Yellow Tail Dam on the Big Horn River, and on the way home they visited the hot springs at Thermopolis, Wyo. The Waskowiaks also took in some Nebraska sights, stopping in Ogallala long enough to watch the Front Street Village performance with Ord's Tom Furtak in it. They also saw an Indian dance, and the little boys en-

MOVING FORWARD...

In the olden days when life was simple, people didn't know about such things as personalized checks, savings accounts and insured loans.

They kept their money in cigar boxes, walls, mattresses, and even under floor boards.

People didn't know much about banks either. In fact, about the only thing a bank was good for, was to get robbed.

Things have changed. Today we have brick walls, and it's kind of hard to store money under wall-to-wall carpeting.

That's why you should depend on NEBRASKA STATE BANK for your banking needs. They have a solution to every banking problem and will keep your money safe until you need it.

Services Held June 27 at Funeral Home For George Kirby, Denmark Native

Funeral services were held June 27 for George Peterson Kirby, 93-year-old native of Knud, Denmark. The final rites were held at the Hastings-Pearson Chapel.

Mr. Kirby died June 24 at the Valley County Hospital following an illness of several years. He had come to the Ord area following his marriage to Christena Marie Nielsen at Minden on Nov. 27, 1901. He farmed near here from that time until 1950, when he moved to town.

Born May 1, 1877, Mr. Kirby was the son of Eskild Jensen

Kirby and Cecile Marie Schultz Kirby.

Survivors are four sons, Albert, Chester, and Ernest Kirby, all of Ord, and Walter Kirby of Norwalk, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Boyce of Ord and Mrs. Clara Walkemeyer of Downey, Calif.; one step-sister, Mrs. Mary Nielsen of Joplin, Mo.; 16 grandchildren; and 48 great-grandchildren.

Mr. Kirby was preceded in death by his wife, his parents, and two brothers.

Rev. Earl Higgins officiated at the funeral services. Mrs. Sharon

Fuss sang "Rock of Ages" and "Beyond the Sunset," Mrs. Zola Schudel accompanying at the organ.

Pallbearers were Harlan Boyce, Jerome Boyce, Kenneth Kirby, Dean Gross and Everett Burson. Interment was in the Ord City Cemetery.

Reunion at Loup City

Mr. and Mrs. George Knecht and Ted and Debra Woods, who spent the weekend with the Knechts, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Knecht of Loup City. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Knecht and family of Kansas City, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Knecht of Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brown and family of Hastings, and Mr.

Family Picnic

ASSOCIATION*THE Ord Quiz*Don't Ruin School Site

Five months ago the voters of Ord approved the spending of $940,000 to build a new grade school. The site specified at the time was a 23½-acre plot just south of the city limits.

Two months ago the State Dept. of Health condemned the present city dump, primarily because of its location adjacent to the North Loup River. State inspectors felt the dump was polluting the river, and they gave the city 60 days to find a new site.

City Councilman Ed Christensen was placed in charge of a committee to find a suitable site. The first concrete proposal to be put forward by that committee has now been forwarded to the Valley County Board of Supervisors. The possible site lies outside the city limits and is therefore under county jurisdiction — hence, the requirement for action by the county board rather than the city council.

Specifically, the proposed site is located on the Lowell Jones property in the same general area south of town where the new grade school will be built. Even more specifically, it is located — as the crow flies — just 2,100 feet from the probable location of the new grade school. That's less than half a mile.

The distance from the nearest point of the school property to the possible dump site is considerably less. As measured on an aerial map at Monday night's Board of Education meeting, it is approximately 800 feet.

When the grade school bond issue was being considered, it was pointed out that the community might wish to build an adjacent junior high school at some point in the future. That was one of the main reasons for the acquisition of 23½ acres.

Should that become reality, the aerial map shows the proposed dump site would lie roughly 1,300 feet from the probable junior high location.

The grade school — to refresh everyone's memory — will be situated on the former Albin Dobrovsky place, located on the left-hand side as one drives southwest from town on the old Arcaida highway. The suggested dump site is located on the right-hand side of the road in a southwesterly direction from the school property.

Christensen's committee faces a tough task. No part of the community will welcome a city dump.

Nevertheless, it is imperative that a site more suitable than that suggested be found. To spend nearly one million dollars to build a new school building and then pollute the area with a city dump is unthinkable, even if the dump is a land-fill type where only limited burning will be permitted.

The County Board will hold a public hearing at some date yet to be determined. Purpose of the hearing is to give citizens an opportunity to express their views — both pro and con — on the proposed site.

The citizens of this community made a commendable investment in their children's future when they voted to approve the bond issue. We trust they will be equally ready to protect that investment by appearing at the hearing and expressing their opposition to the suggested site.

It Could Have Been a Lot Worse

This July the Fourth is one that will be remembered locally because of the Big Wind.

The Fourth was ushered in throughout much of the North Loup Valley, to the accompaniment of roaring wind, flashing lightning, and cascading rain. These in turn brought power outages throughout the area.

But even though many poles and lines were snapped by the high winds and falling limbs, residents for the most part were not without electricity for more than 10 hours. Here in Ord it was more on the order of three hours.

Credit for holding the disruption to a minimum must be given to the various electrical workers who were up all night Thursday and most of Friday repairing the lines.

Even the female clerical help at the local REA office was out in full force, manning the radios to direct the workmen to areas of greatest need. Male members of the office staff joined the line crews in getting power back to stricken areas as quickly as possible.

Wilbert Calvin, manager of the local REA office, said all 16 members of his work force went on duty around 12:30 Friday morning and worked straight through until 5:30 the next afternoon.

City light workers, though smaller in number, were working just as devotedly. Bill Beard, manager of the local light plant, said his four-man crew also went on duty about 30 minutes past midnight and worked straight through till 12:30 p.m. the next day.

Thus, even though many inconveniences did result, it could have been a lot worse without dedicated public servants willing to toil long hours in an effort to put things right. They did their jobs well!

Something Different*By the Beautiful Sea

What is Philadelphia like?

It is BIG, the fourth largest U.S. city. It is dirty. The streets are narrow and often not straight. But it has a world of history, beginning when it was only a cow path and a port.

Philadelphia is doing a great good thing in attempting to preserve its early history. Whole areas of ancient places on old streets may not be modernized without official approval, which is only given when the restoration is authentic and in keeping with the neighborhood. Mostly in these localities there are narrow streets and narrow, tall houses, wall to wall, no grassy yards to speak of.

They look attractive, — the restorations are being very well carried out.

Even the insides of these old homes are restored authentically.

One of the people's really worthwhile ideas was dumping junk in a long yard near the river, which is have a landfill treatment, and then will be topped by an interstate highway which will run from Maine to Florida without a single stoplight! A fantastic idea.

And mighty nice it will be to have a scenic Delaware River alongside this marvelous highway. Along the river all unsightly wharves and buildings are to be replaced with a fine modern marina arrangement for boats and yachts.

Or maybe I should talk about Atlantic City. I had never been there before and it is a different place, perhaps the world's biggest convention city. Scores of hotels and motels line the waterfront, beside the classic broadwalk.

That splintered broadwalk is more than a hundred years old; so are some of the hotels, including the fancy old dump where we stayed. Of course it was well refurbished, shiny in most places with paint, glass, and chrome.

But the bathroom in the Hotel Dennis was something else. It had a tiny ice-water fountain. It had a little dental lavatory. No, it did not have a bidet. But it did have some strange arrangements, including a high, arched window. Below was a tiny putting green, then the broadwalk, then the broad hot sands, then the bluish Atlantic shimmering in the sun.

The broadwalk was covered with people — many weirdos — and lined with shops.

It was much fun to hire a cart, rather like a golf cart, and have a guide pilot us up and down the eight-mile stretch of ocean-side. A quick, painless way to see the world's largest convention hall, now being extensively added on to, the big carnival of rides for children, the numerous antique shops trying to snag your money, the fancy eateries and drinkeries.

There were a lot of beaches too, where one could soak up the sun while watching the world go by. A big percentage of the world descended to the beach, pulling off sandals at the edge of the sand.

The driver of our little buggy, which ran on five batteries, was a name dropper. The news that day was of Judy Garland's death, so he as a retired but not old actor told us all about her. Also about Martha Raye, Ethel Barrymore, Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton, and more.

He was quite good-looking; maybe he had been an actor.

Virginia Henningsen of Omaha and I soaked it up but did not necessarily believe all he said. But it was interesting.

The temperature in Atlantic City? Hot. Like 96, or 94, but worse yet, very humid.

I lost no opportunity to tell my eastern and southern friends how much I minded this muggy heat, even though everything was air conditioned. I declared, "In Nebraska we have perfect clear air, no smog, cooling nights, not too many boiling hot days nor blizzard days. I'm just not used to this unpleasant climate."

Give me Ord — crazy winds, lowering thunder, burning summer corn-growing days and all. —Irma

The Scott Report*Man Who Demands Money From Churches Has Close Ties With Moscow

By Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Attorney General John Mitchell is being urged privately to make available to appropriate congressional committees the alarming information the FBI has collected on James Forman, promoter of the Black Manifesto demanding $500 million in "reparations" from the nation's churches.

Members of the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee, probing black militant groups, want Mitchell to air Forman's close ties with Moscow so American church leaders will have a clear idea of what is behind his multi-million dollar shakedown campaign.

Instead of following the Kennedy-Johnson policy of suppressing FBI information, as was done on the Communist ties of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, the Senate probbers headed by Senator John McClellan (D-Ark.) believe the Justice Department should "tell it as it is" about Forman and his associates.

While the McClellan subcommittee has obtained information on Forman from the Detroit and New York police departments, none so far has been made available by the Justice Department.

Specifically, the McClellan subcommittee is seeking information on Forman gathered on Forman's 1967 trip to Russia and Tanzania, Africa, as an international representative of the misnamed Student Non-Violent Coordinat-

Geranium Joe*'Add To Instead of Taking From,' Fellers Tell Younger Generation

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers got to wondering Saturday night what kind of Fourth of July birthday this country had.

George Zurck said he had got to thinking Friday about all the trouble this country has seen, and he didn't know a time when more things were going bad for us.

The fellers generally agreed our 1969 birthday wasn't a happy one. John Petska said he saw in the papers the other day where this high government official asked a helper if there was ever any good news. The helper said the closest he could come to good news was bad news that this country ain't blamed for, like a dam which is leaking in Egypt.

George was of the opinion this country feels guilty about all the world's problems, and that's part of the reason so many younguns are acting crazy. George said it don't make sense for students to take over colleges and kick out their presidents, but it makes less sense for the rest of us to let 'em.

"Then students don't show any respect for themselves or other people, but the older heads aren't setting a good example in respect either," were George's words.

John said he had seen some figures that show less than 10 percent of college students take part in riots, but the other 90 percent don't do anything to stop 'em. Trouble is, said John, them that want to tear up everything are organized, but them that abide by the law ain't got no leaders.

Even Richard Lukesh, who don't have much to say unless the subject is women or eating, spoke up to side with John and George. He said he saw where this college professor said it ain't the leaders but the rank and file — the people in shirt-sleeves — that make a civilization.

Richard said that was hogwash. If the leaders don't lead, what's the common folk to do, he wanted to know.

Richard said he was sick of people in high places holding conferences, flying back and forth across the country, getting them in the papers, and then when things go from bad to worse — squirming out by saying the common man is to blame for the mess. Richard said he shore never heard the common man get credit for anything that turned out halfway right.

"It's a mighty sad time," concluded George.

He said he had seen where schools are having to add guards to their staffs. George allowed too many in this country are putting their trust in guns instead of gumption.

Law and order must be maintained not only on college campuses, but in every community in the country. According to Incidentally, Mister Editor, I read this report which says fewer young folks bother to vote than older people. It seems to me they don't know what they want, but the sooner they decide to build on what we got instead of tear everything down this country can have some happy birthdays.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

Federal Employment

The Joint Committee on Reduction of Federal Expenditures, in its monthly report which was just released, shows that the United States government had a total of 2,963,691 civilian employees in the month of May.

In July 1968, total federal employees numbered 3,062,004.

With the increase in pay, however, which went into effect July 1, 1969, total labor costs of operating the federal government have increased.

Law and Order

Now that the nation's colleges have adjourned for the summer, campus demonstrations have subsided.

The Constitution guarantees free speech and the right of assembly to all. Students therefore may peacefully assemble and talk. This is constitutional.

But taking over buildings, burning files, and destroying property is lawlessness and should not be tolerated for one minute.

Plenty of laws are on the books, but more backbone is needed by those who administer the country's institutions of higher learning. Administrators are needed, for example, who will call in law enforcement agencies when lawlessness exists.

The recent national convention of the Students for a Democratic Society brought out the great chasm which exists between various groups in that organization.

Some are simply out to improve the educational courses offered but some believe in outright anarchy and overthrow of our government. Those who are of this mind should be dealt with quickly and prosecuted vigorously.

Law and order must be maintained not only on college campuses, but in every community in the country. According to —inconsistent—

Recently I pondered some thoughts on contradictions and inconsistencies.

Provoking the thought—I guess —was someone at our house that remarked, "These clothes are getting too small for me."

Now anyone knows that except for shrinkage, clothes DO NOT change in size. People change in size.

This habit of placing the blame elsewhere seems to be steadily increasing. I'd call it "a world of contradictions."

Men and women decide to run for public office "and get some changes made." The next thing you know these same people are engulfed in the ocean of conformity, floating along with the tide of least resistance.

Is it wonder people don't know "where this world is headed?" No one seems to know where THEY are going!

No one seems to want to shoulder the blame. No one wants to "take the responsibility."

None want to lead! Every one wants to follow.

Writers are puzzled by who's WHO and what's WHAT. Who is right? Who will stand up and say, "This I believe!"

Associated Press Special Correspondent Saul Pett throws out the following questions on the inconsistency of living:

"Is it the veteran of the depression who raised his children in the hope they would never have to worry about money and now is angered that they don't?"

"Is it the middle-aged man who audibly yearns to escape the rat race of modern living and is appalled when his son seeks to avoid it in the first place?"

"Is it the enlightened mother who hoped her children would not be inhibited by sex and now is horrified that they aren't?"

"Is it the judge who remembers that it was the Americans who insisted that the Nuremberg war crimes trials that Germans should be held accountable for not disobeying their Nazi leaders, the same judge who now deals sternly with draft card burners?"

"Is it the revolutionary who grows impatient when asked

Fireworks, Rodeo, Parade Draw Large Crowds

By Luella Foster

Ericson's annual Fourth of July celebration went off with a bang. The weather was ideal, and visitors to the community were most courteous. Over 2,000 people viewed the fireworks at the lake during the evening, and the rodeo was enjoyed by a large crowd too.

The Sandhill Saddle Club added color to the parade with its colors of purple and white. This was the club's first public appearance since organizing. It is made up of entire families — both parents and children.

Returns from Trip

Mrs. Eliza Wolfe left June 26 for a visit with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller, at Ewing. After arriving there she accompanied them to the home of another daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson, at Mound Valley, Kan. From there she went on to Oscelot, Okla., where she attended the wedding of her grandson, Duane Johnson, and Nancy Loeff. Next Mrs. Wolfe accompanied her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hindman of Exira, Ia., to Edgardo Springs, Mo., for a visit with a cousin, Mrs. Gladys Overton. She then returned home with the Hindmans to Exira for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Alice Hindman, in a nursing home at Elk Horn, Ia. She then returned to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Miller, for a three day stay. Mrs. Miller brought her day home Saturday. During her journey Mrs. Wolfe attended a family reunion June 29 at the Johnson home in Mound Valley, Kan.

Kernels & Husks

By

Law Requires Good Mowing Practices

Good mowing practices is one of the most time-consuming, yet most important, factors contributing to a well-groomed lawn. In addition to appearance, correct mowing influences density, health, and vigor.

Too many home owners like the appearance of a closely cropped lawn; thus, they mow too short. Short clipping can ruin a good lawn.

During the summer months, bluegrass and K-31 Fescue should be maintained at 2½ to 3 inches.

Some varieties can be maintained shorter, but mowing frequency should be increased. All lawn grasses should be mowed often enough so that no more than one-third the leaf surface will be removed at any one time.

Now, when the grass is dry when possible, dry grass cuts easier and results in less clogging in the mower. Keeping the mower blades sharp cannot be over-emphasized either.

Poplar Leaf Galls

A number of home owners have brought in specimens of poplar and cottonwood leaves infested with galls. These large galls on the leaf stems are caused by aphids that develop in colonies within the galls.

There is no control for them, but residents need not worry. Although the insects may prove to be rather unsightly, they rarely do damage to the trees.

Electric Car Day

Farmers and ranchers will have an opportunity to see not only an electric powered tractor, but also an electric powered car at the Tractor Power and Safety Day July 24 in Mead.

The car, owned by the Loup Public Power District, will be on display. Designed for short city driving, the Markette — as it is called — reaches speeds of 25 miles per hour and has a range of 59 miles.

Its batteries, which are recharged by plugging into any convenient electrical outlet, are designed for at least 600 charges and should be good for approximately 30,000 miles.

Nebraska Power and Safety Day is an annual event hosted by the University of Nebraska Department of Agricultural Engineering, and will be held at the university's field laboratory in Mead.

Corn Rootworms

Corn rootworm eggs should be hatching about now, and the larvae will be migrating toward the host plant.

Much of our corn is too small to tolerate a heavy population of rootworms. Even a light population could be quite devastating to the small plants.

Farmers are urged to check their fields as soon as possible.

This is the critical time for deciding if a cultivation or lay-by treatment is advisable.

Corn less than a foot tall should be treated as soon as evidence of activity is observed.

Taller corn should be treated if there are five or more rootworms per plant, or if 50 percent of the roots show evidence of feeding.

JC-Ettes Meet Monday

At the regular meeting of the Ord JC-Ettes held Monday evening in the lower level of the Veterans Club, plans were discussed for the rodeo to be held July 28 and 29. Other business concerned the lake party which is planned for July 13, and the summer quarterly convention to be held in Scottsbluff July 25-27.

The next meeting is planned for Aug. 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Marks will leave Friday for a vacation trip which will take them to Winnipeg, Canada. On their return trip they will tour Minnesota and Wisconsin. They plan to be gone two weeks.

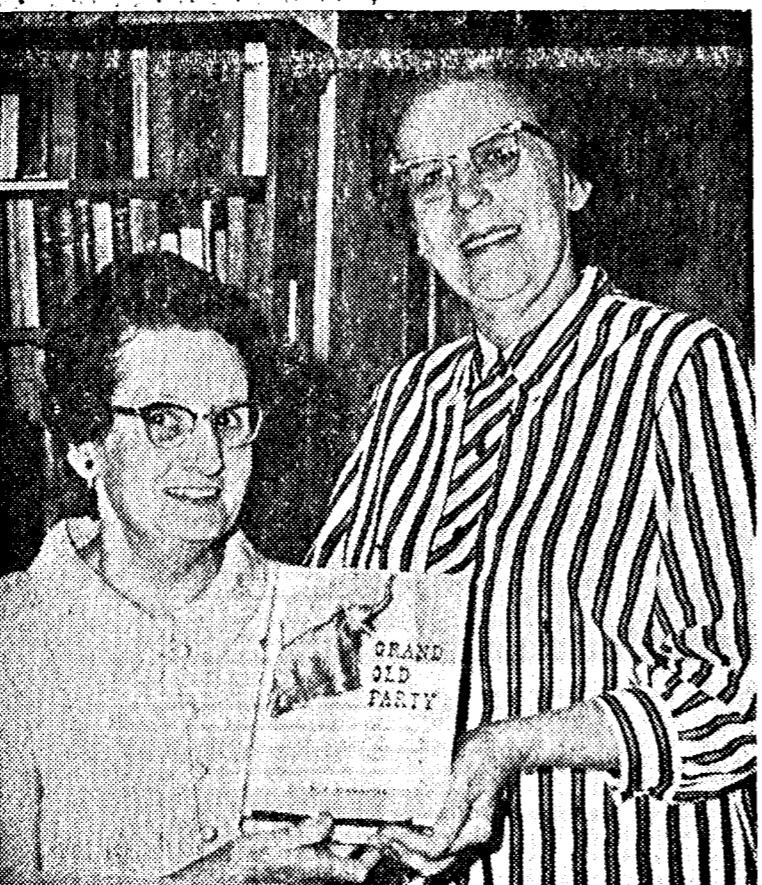

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Barnes and family of Wayne spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rajewich. On Saturday they attended the alumni festivities, this being the 10th anniversary of Mrs. Barnes' graduation. She is the former Joan Rajewich. They returned to their home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bennett went to Cotesfield Saturday for a visit with her brother, Stephen Szwaneck and Mrs. Szwaneck.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Absalon, Mrs. Frank Stank of Burwell, and Vernon Williams of North Loup spent Sunday in Lexington visiting Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Absalon and family.

Mrs. Ida Casleton, left, accepts a complimentary copy of "The Grand Old Party" from Mrs. Gwen Cochran, chairman of the Valley County Republican Women. Copies of the book, which is a pictorial history of the Republican Party, were presented to each of the county's three public libraries — in Arcadia, North Loup, and Ord. Mrs. Casleton is head librarian at the Ord facility.

Parkview Village Plums

By Berenice Cornell

Parkview has a nice Kimball Concerto piano put in the recreation room Wednesday. We appreciate it very much — thanks to the Housing Board. A new Hotpoint washer was also installed the past week, as the other just gave out after 30 people washing with it for five years.

Double 1's for Candi

Tuesday evening visitors of Edith Jones were Dolsie Waterman and Millie Eschliman. That evening grandson, Bosco Jewett, and Mrs. Florence Jewett of Lincoln telephoned Edith.

Lillian Daudt

Lillian Daudt attended the Ruth Circle Tuesday of the St. John's Lutheran ladies. Wednesday evening she was at the women's quarterly meeting. Thursday afternoon Lillian attended a cousin's funeral, that of Madeline Brethauer, held at the chapel.

Wednesday

Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Frank Janulewicz and little David and Sherri McKeever went to Comstock to the Wendell Hotel to see the Janulewicz grandson, John Hovis, who is home for three weeks, then he will return to California and go to Vietnam. Friday Jim McKeever was at the alumni celebration. Mildred also had a telephone call from Sterling, Colo., telling her of the birth of Tracy Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Arter Jr., making Mildred a great-great-aunt.

Great-Granddaughter Born

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Swanson and Lana of Grand Island visited his mother, Tena Swanson, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nelson were also with them at her mother's. Tena has a new great-granddaughter at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, the granddaughter of son Lowell of Cedar Rapids. The little miss answers to the name of Christenda for her great-grandmother.

Like Her Own

Ona Nelson's nephew, Clay Nelson of Denver, Colo., came Friday morning. Friday evening Ona and Clay and the Lonnie Nelson family of Burwell, and the Jay Nelson family, were with the Thed Nelsons. Saturday the same group were with the Jay Nelsons. With the group Friday was the Roger Sohrweid family of Kearney. Mrs. Sohrweid is a daughter of the Thed Nelsons. Another daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Lyons of Gillette, have a new baby girl, born June 26. This makes two great-nieces and three great-great nephews for Ona. To her they are next to great-great-grandchildren as Ona had helped in raising her four nephews after death took their mother when they were small children.

Stay Home, See It All

Knew People Would Be Reading Till End of Time, Retiring Printer Says After 46-Year Career

After working on more Nebraska newspapers than most people have read, Ernie Ahlschaege turned in his press pole last week.

Ernie officially retired after spending 45 years in the printing business — the last 15 of them as an employee of the Ord Quiz. Prior to that he was with the Crete News for 21 years.

Those last two jobs might lead the uninformed to conclude that Ernie was the type who liked to pick a spot and settle down. But that wasn't necessarily the case, as nine jobs in his first 10 years as a printer prove.

"I feel sorry for these guys that work in one job all their lives," the "doyen" of local printers remarked on the day following his retirement. "They just don't learn the ins and outs. Every job has something new to offer."

"Of course maybe I worked on more than my share."

He's Done It All

Although he worked strictly on the mechanical side during his 15 years with the Quiz, Ernie has actually done just about everything there is to do on a newspaper. He's edited it, he's sold ads, and he's set the type. Once — in Loon's — he handled all three jobs at the same time. "I prefer the mechanical end of it though — I always have," he stated in a post-retirement interview. "I just didn't have the training for the other work."

Here in Ord Ernie served as a machinist. His duties included operation of a tape-fed Linotype machine (which sets type from a perforated tape fed into it) and a Ludlow machine (used in casting larger type, such as big headlines). He was also responsible for the maintenance of his own newspaper.

During his first 10 years as a printer, he was there "a couple of years."

Ernie got into the printing profession one year out of high school because he knew "people were going to be reading till the end of time, and somebody had to print the stuff to read."

After graduating from high school, he taught one year in a rural school near Beaver Crossing. He realized that was not his calling, however, and switched to something he could print directly from them.

Not Worth Any More

The first job was on the Milford Review, and the starting salary was $15 a month.

"That doesn't sound like much, but now that I think about it, a kid just starting out isn't worth any more than that," Ernie remarked.

"You spend 10 times as much effort training them as you get back in production during that first month."

Besides setting type, Ernie also learned on that first job how to "feed a press." To do this he had to hand-feed individual sheets of paper across the press one at a time to be printed.

"I used to be able to put an envelope in and pull it out at the rate of one a second," he stated. "When you do that, your fingers really fly."

"Despite all the newspaper jobs I've held, only two of my former bosses are still living," Ernie pointed out. "Clyde Taylor is one, and Jerry Leggett (publisher of the Quiz) is the other."

It didn't take Taylor long to realize what a valuable man he had, and he soon slipped Ernie to nearby Walford. When she cut him mand of his own newspaper. This was where his knack for being able to handle a variety of tasks came to the fore. With only an office girl, part time, as his staff, he was editor, publisher, ad salesman, and printer.

"If I ever got into anything very serious, Clyde would come from Overton and help me out," Ernie explained.

"And we had a number of short cuts that we took, to minimize the work required to get a paper out. For example, the Overton paper was printed the day before mine was, and I'd use the same type they used on all the national ads. We'd just swap signatures (names of cooperating local dealers or distributors). That made it duck soup."

Never Doubted

After a year at Loon's, it was time to move on again. As he often did, Ernie tendered his resignation with no idea of where his next job might be — but with little worry that one would crop up somewhere.

"They always seemed to show up," he explained.

This time there was a brief stop at Beatrice, where he filled in as an extra hand on that city's Star. Then it was on to the Ennis News for a relatively lengthy three-year assignment.

By that time the once fledgling printer had worked his way up the salary ladder to a respectable starting pay of $25 a week. But as the Great Depression of the late 1920s and the early 30s bore down, the salary gradually began slipping in the opposite direction.

Out During Depression

This time the boss was a woman — the late Frances Walford. When she cut him salary to $8 a week, following a reduction to $10 just 21 days before, Ernie knew it was time to look elsewhere. So he tendered his resignation, again with no concern about where his next job might be even though the country was in the throes of the Great Depression.

"Even in depression days it cost a man a dollar a day to live, and he had to watch corners even to do that," he explained. "The salary had been gradually dipping back as things got tougher, and I told her when she cut me to $8 that I'd leave if she cut it again. But she didn't think I would."

Ernie had "not a thing" in mind when he quit, but he wasn't worried.

"I knew I could always go home to Milford and shock corn for Dad. He was still on the farm, and I could make $8 a week shocking corn."

The Day the Banks Folded

But that wasn't necessary, as another printing job turned up. This time it was in Parker, S.D. — the only out-of-state job Ernie had during his 45 years. The salary there was $9 a week plus room and board.

Unfortunately, that job was short-lived too because of the depression. The town had two banks, and four months after Ernie's arrival they both folded on the same morning.

"There was only one guy in town making any money that week — a Jew grocer. The only money the merchants had to do business with was what they had in the till when the banks closed, and for the most that wasn't much."

But for this one particular merchant it was plenty.

"We had a 4x10 (four columns wide by 10 inches deep) merchandising ad all set to run for him that week. After the banks closed, he came over on Tuesday morning and doubled it. He told us to run it as it was and to make another ad the same size. In the ad he told the people to bring in their produce — their eggs, butter, and so forth — and he'd pay cash for it. He also advertised he would cash checks for anyone needing that service. I don't know where he was getting the money, but he obviously had some stash away somewhere."

Heck of a Christmas'

As for his own position, Ernie could see the handwriting on the wall. He stayed out the week, then drew his final paycheck and notice of dismissal that he knew was coming.

Fortunately, the newspaper owner had a second account in an out-of-town bank, so Ernie's final paycheck was good. That happened in December, 1932, a week before Christmas.

"It was a heck of a Christmas for that town," Ernie remembers.

Once more out of work, the young printer headed again for his father's farm near Milford. But again he never made it.

Rejoined First Boss

"As soon as I got into Nebraska I started inquiring for work," he stated. "I stopped in at Wakefield, since the editor there (the late Clarke Wilson) was the same man I had started out under at Milford. It so happened he had been pheasant hunting and had gotten a thorn or something in his finger, and it had become infected. So he hired me to

Farmers Advised To Treat Livestock Carefully

With the high temperatures and humidity of the last few days, farmers and agricultural officials have expressed concern about possible losses of livestock.

County Agent John Schade has listed the following rules that should be followed in extremely hot weather to minimize losses:

For Cattle

(1) Be sure cattle have ample water supplies. "Boss" cattle — naturally aggressive individuals which dominate others in a given lot — may be keeping other animals from reaching ordinarily available water supplies.

(2) Sell off cattle that are fat enough to grade choice and are heavy enough to meet current market demands.

(3) Consider installing a temporary sprinkler system. This could be either a mist system which goes across a portion of the feedlot or a boom sprinkler that covers most of the lot. Turn on the sprinkler early in the morning — before the cattle become overheated — and leave it on through the heat of the day.

(4) Build temporary shades that would reduce the heat load on the cattle in the lot.

For Hogs

(1) Cool hogs with a mist spray of one or two gallons water per hour in sheds or in the shade. Fogger hoses work well for this purpose, especially in sheds with slotted floors.

(2) Outside, provide sanitary hog wallows — large tubs of water that can easily be emptied and refilled for cleanliness.

(3) Erect shades, consisting of six to eight inches of straw piled on wire about five feet above the ground.

(4) Paint the outsides of sheds white to reflect heat and the undersides black to absorb heat. This may make a difference of 15 degrees in temperature inside.

(5) If hogs must be moved, move them at night or in cooler weather. For moving them in the heat of the day, use moist sand (not straw) for bedding and water the hogs down and check them at least every hour. Keep them calm and avoid unnecessary delays during the trip.

(6) In farrowing units circulate air; and as a long term project, install air conditioning.

There are good reasons why hogs overheat:

When temperatures reach 100 degrees, hogs must breathe 20 times faster to get the same cooling effect as they get when temperatures are 80 degrees. This is because a hog loses 75 to 80 percent of its excess body heat through the lungs, by cooling of the body surface, and movement of air. When air temperatures rise the lungs must work harder because the cooling effect of air movement and body radiation is reduced.

If internal heat builds faster in the hog than it can be thrown off, the hog becomes overheated and dies unless it's cooled down immediately.

'Double-Cross' Charged On Game Commission Bill

Ord has definitely lost the battle for relocation of the State Game Commission headquarters, but not before coming within four votes of victory in a wild last round of skirmishing.

Cries of a "double-cross" by this city's big next door neighbor — Grand Island — were raised following the final vote.

As originally introduced, Legislative Bill 576 would have consolidated Game Commission headquarters and moved them to Ord. However, the bill was previously amended to leave the headquarters in Lincoln.

A final round of attempted changes ended last week with the bill's Lincoln amendment still intact.

A proposal to amend the bill again and put Ord's name back on it was defeated by four votes, 21-15. An earlier motion to move the headquarters to Grand Island was beaten back, 18-14. At least 25 votes were needed for victory on each occasion.

The bill thus advanced to the final reading stage with all chances of amending it gone. The headquarters consequently will stay in Lincoln.

Senator Rudolf Kokes, who introduced the original bill as well as last week's amendment to move the headquarters here, laid the blame for its failure squarely on Grand Island. He said Senator Don Elrod of that city double-crossed him in the final maneuvering.

"We had agreed that the Ord amendment would be placed before the legislature first," Kokes said, "but when the clerk of the legislature got up he called on Elrod first."

Elrod's amendment surprised everybody, including Jerry Carpenter, Kokes stated. Carpenter thought he had double-crossed him and said to hell with us.

"If the Ord amendment had been introduced first, as we had agreed on, it actually could have passed," Carpenter's group said.

"Terry had told us earlier to get together and decide who should go for it, and he would support anything we decided on," Kokes explained. "Elrod and I got together with Senator Lester Stull of Alliance, and the three of us agreed that Ord should have first crack at it."

According to rules of the legislature, Stull was to be called on first for an amendment. He naturally was supporting Alliance's bid. Elrod, supporting Grand Island, had second call; and Kokes and Ord were third.

However, at their informal session Stull and Elrod both agreed to let Kokes move ahead of them, the Ord senator explained. But when the show-down came on the floor of the legislature, Elrod did not yield.

"Elrod's amendment surprised everybody, including Jerry Carpenter," Kokes stated. "Carpenter thought he had double-crossed him and said to hell with us."

"Good contended that Ord had been eliminated when the first amendment passed, putting Lincoln's name on the bill. That released Grand Island from its commitment to support Ord, he claimed.

The actual order of events on the bill last week went like this:

Move to Grand Island, defeated, 18-14; kill the bill, defeated, 16-17; move to Ord, defeated, 21-15; give the commission the option to choose its headquarters location, defeated, 21-16; kill the bill, defeated, 6-31.

The bill was finally advanced by a voice vote.

City Appeals to District Court On Airport Property Appraisal

The City of Ord has reached agreement with three landowners whose property is being purchased to make room for improvements at the municipal airport. But the biggest deal remains unsettled.

A total of 15.2 acres of deeded land belonging to Duane Brechbill have been condemned, as well as another 10.64 acres that will be used for easements. But no price suitable to both parties has been agreed on.

When the city went to court to seek the condemnation action, County Judge Rollin Dye appointed a three-man board of appraisers to evaluate the land. They came up with a figure of $19,171.

Brechbill, who had earlier turned down an offer of slightly more than $10,000 for the same property, agreed to the new figure. But now the city has appealed to district court, stating that it feels the latest appraisal is excessive.

The three men making the appraisal were Hal Pierce, Downing Rounds, and Dale Stine.

Deeded land will actually be transferred to the city for airport construction. Easement land will remain the property of the landowners, but certain restrictions are placed on its use. For instance, no buildings may be constructed on it, nor may such things as haystacks be placed on it.

These restrictions are required to meet federal aviation safety standards.

The city's original offer to Brechbill was based on an appraisal made by a Kearney man.

Library Will Be Closed Friday, Saturday Nights

The Ord public library will be closed Friday and Saturday nights from now until Sept. 1.

That means regular hours will be from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Already purchased are 15.1 acres from Quentin and Darlene Lausman, for $13,815; 6.8 acres from George Bent, for $4,420; and 3.4 acres from Paul and Lillian Ulrich Wagner, for $2,310.

Richard Nixon appeared on the certificate, along with signatures of Norbert Tiemann, governor of Nebraska; Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of the Selective Service System; and Guy Henning, state director of the Selective Service.

Henry Enger was cited for his service as a member and as chairman of Local Board No. 91. He stepped down in April after reaching the mandatory retirement age of 75.

The signature of President Richard Nixon appeared on the certificate, along with signatures of Norbert Tiemann, governor of Nebraska; Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of the Selective Service System; and Guy Henning, state director of the Selective Service.

Keep It Beautiful

If America hired people for the job, it would take the largest sort of army to keep our country free of litter. But there's no need to hire anyone. It's a job we can do for ourselves. All of us. Every family that spreads a picnic lunch, every boatman who cruises the lakes and waterways. Every motorist who uses our roads and highways.

It is the pleasure of the U. S. Brewers Association each year to give its fullest support to the Keep America Beautiful Campaign. Remember: Every Little Bit Hurts. This is our land. Let's treat it right.

*Carol's Cornerby Carol Leggett

As the sun shone down on the Loup Valley area last weekend, residents found it near impossible to keep cool. One Ordite who places fishing above all other pleasures admitted that he didn't even go fishing — it was just too hot!

One thing sure, the Ord Swimming Pool was a most popular spot. Isn't it? Unofficial reports are that swimmers numbered "around 250" on both Saturday and Sunday. Sounds to me like a case of "standing room only."

Obviously, the outdoor cooking days are in full swing. These patio party tips may help you become a "Baron of the Backyard Barbecue."

When you're making hamburgers, squeeze and shape them gently, so they don't get tough.

Salt your meats after they're done on each side. You'll find they'll be a lot juicier.

When you're cooking any meats that are edged with fat, slash the fat through to the meat to prevent curling.

Sear steaks quickly on both sides prior to cooking to seal in the juices.

Be the queen of Moms the next time your young "uns" want a "little lunch" to serve in the backyard to neighboring friends. Puffed wheat, puffed rice, and peanuts warmed in a savory onion and garlic butter will keep the little hands reaching for the snack bowl. So maybe you'd better make a double recipe.

Refreshing lemonade makes a who doesn't give a darn.

Party Mix

$\frac{1}{2}$  c butter or margarine
 $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. garlic powder
 $\frac{1}{4}$  t. onion salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$  t. seasoned salt
1 c. Worcestershire sauce
3 c. puffed wheat
3 c. puffed rice
1 can (6 $\frac{1}{2}$  oz.) salted peanuts
 $\frac{1}{2}$  c. grated Parmesan cheese

Put butter in 13x8 inch baking pan. Place in pre-heated very slow oven (250 degrees) about 10 minutes or until butter is melted. Stir in garlic powder, onion salt, seasoned salt and Worcestershire sauce. Add puffed wheat, puffed rice and peanuts, tossing lightly to combine. Bake 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in Parmesan cheese; bake an additional 15 minutes. Makes about 8 cups of mix.

A recently released sociological report noted that a selected meeting of a local women's club, in which the women filled out a questionnaire, revealed that: 25% wore rouge, 35% tinted their hair, 80% had been in the beauty parlor that week, 90% wore nail polish, 85% wore eye shadow, 75% plucked their eyebrows, and 10% wore false eyelashes or other cosmetic camouflage.

The subject under discussion at the meeting: "Deceptive packaging."

Rod Hammond and bride Barbara Osenlowski — Ray's Studio

The Bakes . . . on South Dakota wedding trip — Ray's Studio

Barbara Osenlowski, Ron Hammond Wed In July 3 Rites at Ord Methodist Church

In a 3 p.m. ceremony June 29, Barbara Osenlowski and Rod Hammond were united in marriage.

Miss Osenlowski is the daughter of Mrs. Libby Osenlowski from Grand Island and the late Alooy Osenlowski. Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Hammond of Denver, Colo.

The double-ring ceremony took place at the United Methodist Church in Ord with Rev. Clarence Campbell officiating. Mrs. Dale Karre provided nuptial music at the organ and accompanied Mrs. Frank Fuss, the vocal soloist.

Mrs. Theresa Osenlowski of Grand Island, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a lavender street-length gown of satin-faced rayon styled with lace sleeves, and carried a small bouquet of miniature carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Frank Pesek Jr. of Grand Island. She chose a street-length gown styled of polyester crepe with long French lace sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil of French illusion was held by a beaded, petaled headpiece, and she carried a double-orchid corsage with silver arrangement and strawberries.

Darwin Osenlowski, brother of the bride from Grand Island, was best man. Ushears were Robert White and LaVern Osenlowski, cousin of the bride.

A reception followed at the Veterans Club. Assisting with various duties were Mrs. Max Osenlowski, Mrs. Howard Miller, Mrs. Joseph Miller, Mrs. Frank Pesek, Mrs. JoAnn Papernik, Mrs. Diane Kelly, Monica Cass, and Mrs. Gerald Kelly. Teresa Pesek presided at the guest book.

For a wedding trip the bride wore a blue dress and complimented with a single orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Sargent High School and the Grand Island Beauty School.

The groom, also a graduate of Sargent High School, is employed at Poland's Chevrolet in Sargent. Their home will be in that community.

Wed in Iowa

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Duda and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Duda and boys returned Monday from Iowa Falls, Ia., where they had been guests of the Leland Ingelbison family. They especially went to attend the wedding of Tim Ingelbison to Sharon Brandt which took place July 12. Mr. and Mrs. Don Fiala, relatives from Ainsworth, also attended the wedding.

The groom recently returned from a tour of duty in Vietnam and will now be stationed in the states.

Tamara Piskorski is presently staying with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wiberg and visiting other relatives in Ord. Tammy is the daughter of the John Piskorski of Fremont.

Planning to make their home in Lincoln are newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bake Jr.

The couple exchanged marriage vows July 12 at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church in Ord. Rev. Stanley Gorak solemnized the 1:30 p.m. double-ring ceremony and officiated at the nuptial mass. Seventy-five relatives and friends were present.

The bride is the former Bonnie Petska of Lincoln, daughter of Mrs. Alice Petska of Ord. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bake Sr. of Ord.

Escorted to the altar by her brother-in-law, Roger Motl of Arcadia, the bride appeared wearing a satin semi-fitted A-line gown with scalloped lace yoke in front and back. The three quarter-length, bell-shaped sleeves were fashioned of matching lace. Falling in soft peaks from the back yoke was a chapel-length train of scalloped lace. The gown was designed by Mrs. Wilmoth Bake of Lincoln, grandmother of the bride.

Each carried colonial bouquets of yellow and white pom poms with ribbon streamers.

Tony Baker of Hastings served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Pat O'Donnell of Lincoln and Gary Petska of Ord, brother of the bride. George Barnes of Lincoln, brother-in-law of the bride, and Ricky Badura of Loup City, cousins of the groom, were ushers.

Sonja Swank was the organist and accompanied soloist Kathy Kokes who sang "One, Hand, One Heart," "On This Day," and "Now Joined by God." The bride's brothers, Alan and Danny Petska, were altar boys.

After the ceremony the couple greeted guests at a reception held in the Elks Club. Mrs. Agnes Ptak, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Betty Barnes, sister of the bride, cut and served the wedding cake; Helen Gzehovak, aunt of the groom, served punch; and Mrs. Minnie Clemens, aunt of the bride, poured coffee.

Mary Bake of Lincoln, sister of the groom, presided at the guest book. Servers at the bridal table were Zola Harkness and Mrs. Donna Ennen.

Special guests of the day were Mrs. T. A. Gzehovak of Loup City and Mrs. Wilmoth Bake of Lincoln, grandmothers of the groom.

For a wedding trip to South Dakota, the bride wore a white linen dress with yellow accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

The bride is a graduate of Ord High School and attended the University of Nebraska. She is employed by John Van Bloom and Associates in Lincoln.

African Minister Tells of Customs in Homeland

By Berenice Cornell

Religious services were conducted at Parkview Thursday by Pastor Douglas Makhatimi, summer minister of the Bethany Lutheran Church. Chapter 10, verses 14 and 15 of St. John were used as the text. Mr. Makhatimi said Jesus is the good Shepherd knows His sheep, and they in turn know Him. All races of God's people are the same to Him if each person repents, asks for forgiveness, and turns to the right.

Lillian Dautt was the pianist for the song service.

On Monday, the Guy Mulligans, Eldon Mulligans, Janelle Mairs, Mr. and Mrs. Osborne and the Halligan children plus Mrs. Carl Schauer and children gathered at Sherman Lake for the day.

Herbicide Damage To Gardens

We have had a rash of calls the past few weeks from gardeners requesting a recommended treatment of tomato blight.

I have observed a number of gardens in the area, and I was able to find only one plant showing symptoms of a pathogenic organism.

Most of the tomato plants are sick, I will agree. However, this condition is not caused by a pathogenic organism.

All the affected plants show symptoms of herbicide damage, probably 2,4-D, Banvel D, or Silvex is the cause of this damage.

Plants which seem to show affinity for herbicide damage are tomatoes, beans, beans, zinnias, and some of the other annual flowers.

Typical herbicide damage shows up as twisted or curled leaf. One home owner described the condition very picturesquely. He stated, "My plants look like they have a severe case of arthritis."

Not only do you find curled leaves, but you may also find twisted and curled stems as well.

A relatively easy method of distinguishing between herbicide damage and a pathogenic infection is to observe the veins in the leaves of the plant.

Hold the leaf up toward the light, or some other light. If the veins are yellow or light in color and the areas between them are dark, the symptom can be diagnosed as herbicide damage.

If on the other hand, the leaf veins are dark and the area between them is light, you will probably find a pathogenic infection.

If you find you have a pathogenic infection, certain fungicides may be recommended. Sulphur, Zinad, Manab, and perhaps Bordeaux mixture may be used in some cases it may be advisable to destroy the infected plants.

If, on the other hand, you have herbicide damage, about all we can recommend is to feed the plants and make sure they have sufficient water. With good care the damaged plants will most likely recover. Yields may or may not be reduced.

Now this question may arise: where does the herbicide which causes the damage come from?

Possible sources of contamination are the following herbicides: 2,4-D, Banvel D, and Silvex, all used to control weeds in the lawns. Some gardeners also use herbicides incorporated in fertilizers. These too can be a source of contamination but probably not as much so as those applied by spraying.

For example, 2,4-D fumes will drift for some distance. This is probably the major cause of herbicide contamination.

Some gardeners also follow the practice of using grass clippings to mulch tomatoes and other plants. This may be an ideal method of conserving moisture; however, it can also be a method of herbicide contamination.

The lawn may have been sprayed with 2,4-D or some other herbicide. The herbicides may still be on the clippings or other material that is picked up and used for mulch. Watering and rain washes the herbicide into the soil thus contaminating the plant through the roots.

From the amount of herbicide damage observed on trees, shrubs, vines and other plants throughout the area, I would guess that probably most of the damage to flowers and garden plants is caused by herbicide drift and fumes.

Mira Valley Memo*Koelling Youngster Injured in Tractor Mishap

By Bertha Clement

Alan Koelling had a tractor accident Thursday while spraying musk thistles. He was taken to Grand Island where Dr. Easley performed nose surgery which took one hour and 45 minutes. He also had a twisted leg. After spending Thursday night at Valley County Hospital he was released Friday.

Babbles from Bertha

Our grandsons are raising a tiny rabbit which Edwin brought in from the cornfield. They are feeding it milk with an eye dropper and it has doubled its size. Victor has built a hutch for it but mostly it is in its covered peach basket home. Reminds me of the days when our kids were small. They had turtles, coons and even baby skunks. A pet pigeon "Whitey" perched on the back of the cat or a dog, all in the same box, overnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cook of Seattle, Wash., were honored at a picnic in the Ord park Sunday noon. About 70 relatives and friends were present. Among them were the Rev. and Mrs. Melvin Koelling and sons of Grand Island, and the Dean Rasmussen of Cotesfield, and others of nearby towns as well as those in this vicinity. The Rev. and Mrs. Walter Lenz of Elmwood arrived after dinner as he had preaching services that morning. Many had left the picnic grounds so we visited the Floyd Cooks (his nephew and wife) at the Dan Cook home.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cook were house guests of the Victor Cooks at North Loup while here but were also overnight guests of the Harry Fooths and the Will Fooths. They also visited aunts, Mrs. Lucy Koelling and Mrs. Ed Cook, Dan Cooks (uncle), the Alfred Barsons, Elmer Hornickel and others while here. It was 29 years since Mr. and Mrs. Cook visited here. They left Monday and planned to visit relatives in Sterling, Colo., and Denver before returning home to Seaford. Elmer Hornickel was released from Valley County Hospital Friday. He had been hospitalized since early last fall following a tractor accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Geweke made a business trip to Amarillo, Tex., last week. They returned home Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cook attended a family picnic at Alton Sunday. Her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hagensiek and Lauri of Red Oak, were also present and Monday they came to the King home for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Orel Koelling and family were picnic supper guests at the Maynard Schudel's Sunday evening. Gretchen Schudel and Gary Schaffer of Grand Island were also present.

Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Cook of Warrensburg, Mo., visited Mr. and Mrs. Dan Cook Thursday. They had brought their mother, Mrs. Jim Cook of North Loup, home after a six weeks visit.

W.S.W.S. of the Mira Valley United Methodist Church met Thursday afternoon. "Adventures in Giving" was the lesson led by Mrs. Russell Hackett and Mrs. Dan Spillane. Hostesses were Mrs. Marlene Koelling, Mrs. Gust Foth, Jr., and Mrs. Orel Koelling. The tables were decorated with summer flowers.

The Rev. Melvin Koelling of Grand Island was guest speaker at Mira Valley United Methodist Church Sunday morning.

Mary Circle of St. John's Lutheran Church met at the church Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Mason spent the weekend with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Best and Jill, at Weeping Water. They returned home early Sunday morning.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lange were Mr. and Mrs. Morris Elliott and boys of Grand Island, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Lange and family and Jan Bredthauer, Carmen and Becca Elliott, who had spent two weeks with their grandparents, returned home with their folks.

Irene, Cheryl, Joy and Bonnie Hornickel were Thursday afternoon guests at the Harold King home to help Connie celebrate her 12th birthday. Connie continued her birthday celebration when she, her sister Sharon and cousin Joyce Rice were Friday supper and overnight guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Irving King.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving King attended a family picnic at Alton Sunday. Her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hagensiek and Lauri of Red Oak, were also present and Monday Lenz of Elmwood called on his sister, Mrs. Lucy Koelling, Sunday afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. Melvin Koelling of Grand Island called on Mrs. Ed Cook Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Clement and Theresa of Kearney came to get Rev. Clement Sunday evening. He had spent the week as a camper at Camp Riverview.

Edwin and Victor Clement are spending much of this week in Kearney. Their combo group of five boys (three Clement boys and two neighbor boys) is playing for the college faculty wives' style show Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Orel Koelling and family spent Sunday afternoon with their folks, Mr. and Mrs. L.E. Walford at their trailer at Ericson.

Rodney Kittle was a guest of Craig and Paul Bredthauer Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. Sophie Fuss and grandsons, Jim and Tom Gohl, visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foth Sunday afternoon. They also accompanied the Foths to Sherman Lake.

Airman Gary Proskocil

Presently stationed at Tinker AFB in Oklahoma is Gary L. Proskocil, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Proskocil of Ord.

Airman Proskocil had his first training at Lackland AFB, Tex. He has been stationed at the Oklahoma base since returning June 30 from a 10 day leave.

His address is Airman Gary L. Proskocil, 508-63-2476; CMR Box T-697; Tinker AFB, Okla. 73143.

Porter Funeral Rites Thursday at Ord Chapel

Funeral services for Harold Porter, 59, who died July 15 at the Valley County Hospital will be held Thursday (today) at the Hastings-Pearson Chapel.

The Rev. Clarence Campbell will officiate at the 2 p.m. service. Organist Mrs. Shirley Karre will present "How Great Thou Art" as a special selection. Burial will be in the Ord City Cemetery with members of the V.F.W. as pallbearers.

Born Dec. 1, 1909 at Ord, Mr. Porter was the son of Charles W. and Lydia (Summers) Porter. He was employed for several years by the Valley County Road Department and Cass Construction Co. of Burwell. A veteran of World War II, he was a member of the Ord V.F.W. Post #7029.

Survivors are his mother of Ord; three sisters, Beulah Porter of Denver, Colo., Mrs. Glea Roman of Broken Bow, and Mrs. Lydia Naylor of Ord; one brother, Vern Porter of Littleton, Colo.; and several nieces and nephews.

Pallbearers were V.F.W. members Clarence J. Fox, Joe Cetek, James Sieg, Jr., Paul Adamek, Joe Ruzicka and Harry Zulcoski.

Retiring Printer

help out until he could get back on his feet. I was there about three months."

Next came a stint on the Garden County News at Oshkosh. Ernie remembers the publisher as "an old fellow named Tomppert, who would rather go fishing than work."

Ernie was hired as the editor, and Tomppert was to handle the backshop work. But with his boss's love for the fishing hole, the new editor soon found himself doing double duty again.

"I was supposed to be the editor, but I spent more time on a machine than I did out front," he explained.

Wed on $15 a Week

That continued for six weeks, when Ernie decided again that his father's farm offered a more favorable future. This time he did finally make it all the way home, but his stay there was a short one too.

In May of 1933 he hired out to the Crete News at $15 a week, and his roaminings were almost over. Later that year he took another step toward settling down when he and Grace Mary Whitson were married.

"Imagine taking on a wife at 15 bucks a week," he exclaimed. "But you know, I think we have just as much trouble making our money stretch now as we did then. In those days you could go in a store and buy $5 worth of groceries, and you wouldn't be able to carry them out. Now you can carry them in one hand, and they won't be very heavy."

All five of the Ahlschwede children were born in Crete, and three of them graduated from high school there. The others graduated from Ord. The oldest, Doris Ann, is now Mrs. J.C. Bannister of Lincoln. Hazel is now Mrs. David Peterson of Omaha, and her twin sister Helen is now Mrs. Allen Blunkit of Lincoln. Robert, the only boy, also lives in Lincoln; while Alice, the youngest, is pursuing the teaching profession her father rejected. She's presently living in Saginaw, Mich.

Helped Build Credit News

When he began work at Crete, Ernie was one of two employees who together were putting out a 7-column, 8-page weekly paper. Twenty-one years later when he left the firm was printing anywhere from 14 to 24 pages of 8-column width.

"In the fall of '33 things started to pick up, and we had to hire another man. From then on things started to gradually climb," he explained.

Ernie's first boss at Crete was Charles Blauvelt, but he sold out in 1935 to a corporation. Arthur C. Gardner was appointed to manage the news for the corporation.

"He was a prince," Ernie stated, "but the last three years of his life he was dying of cancer. So in effect I was the Crete News. Anytime someone wanted the news you knew who they called."

"It didn't matter if I was on the golf course, in Sunday school, or wherever. They'd come and get me."

Gene's Offer

Gardner had made it a habit to attend all the press conventions, and he always took time off. As a result, he became acquainted with other newsmen throughout the state, one of whom was E.C. (Gene) Leggett of Ord.

"When Gardner died in October 1953, I was the greeter at his funeral," Ernie remembers. "Mr. and Mrs. Leggett were there, and the last thing Gene said to me was 'Remember, Ernie, the latest string is always out at Ord.'

The following April I received a letter from him in which he said he had heard I was unhappy at Crete. That letter came on Tuesday, and the following Saturday I was in Ord. Before I left town Gene had hired me. He said, 'I am an offer I couldn't resist.'

Last 10 Years Best

As the astronauts prepared this week to step on the moon, it was pointed out repeatedly that their efforts could not have been possible without the work of scientists over the centuries. Nevertheless, the most significant advances in space travel have been made in the last 10 years.

In the same manner Ernie has seen a lot of changes in the printing profession during his long career, but the most significant have taken place in the last 10 years.

"The teletype (the machine used to perforate tapes, enabling type to be set automatically on a Linotype machine) was unheard of 10 years ago except on dailies. Now it's quite common."

"Also, the use of offset printing (a photographic process rather than the traditional method which utilized metal type) has been a great boon to printing. It too is of fairly recent origin."

Retirement doesn't necessarily mean a quiet life for Ernie. He'll use some of his newly acquired leisure time to "give better service to his shop which he has operated during his spare hours. He repairs all sorts of portable electrical appliances."

"What I'd really like to do is get a half-time job somewhere," he added. And he appeared confident that one would pop up, just as they did regularly some 40 years ago.

Band Practice Planned Tonight

Facing a full schedule of performances the last half of the summer, the Ord High School band will begin preparations this evening (Thursday) with a practice session at the school band room. It will begin at 8 p.m.

The Chanticleer music makers will appear in the Summer Round-Up of Bands, to be held July 29 in conjunction with the Valley County Fair, and at the Shrine Bowl all-star football game scheduled Aug. 23 in Lincoln.

At least one outdoor concert will be held locally before the end of the summer too. One purpose of the latter event is to raise funds that will be used to pay for additional uniforms purchased recently.

Mrs. Chatfield Dies

Mrs. Jessie Chatfield, 93, died Wednesday morning, July 16, at the Valley County Hospital.

Five of Six Classes Show Increases On Honor Roll Lists

"Three" was the magic number for all four classes at Ord High School during the second half of the 1968-69 school year. Each of the four classes in the high school increased its second semester honor roll representation by three students over the first semester. That still left the 11th grade as the "brainiest" class, followed closely by the 9th grade and then the 10th. The juniors placed 18 students on the second semester honor roll, the freshmen 17, and the sophomores 16.

The seniors boosted their representation to 11.

Of the six upper classes for which an honor roll is named, only the 7th grade saw a decline from the first semester. That class dropped from nine to four students.

The 8th grade was up from one to three students.

Of the 69 scholars honored from all six classes, 22 received nothing but A's for the second half of the school year.

All A recipients in the 12th grade were Pam Lambert, class valedictorian; Roger Cahill, salutatorian; and Paula Waldmann.

Juniors among the select all-A group were Dan Chichester, Chris Erikson, Duane Koyarik, Donna Krajnik, Sonia Swanek, and Monica Usasz. Sophomores were Allen Cahill, Ann Cummins, Cindy Foth, Betty Nelson, and Pam Riddle; and freshmen were Marla Norman, Jackie Quinn, Jan Remington, Barbara Ringlein, Rita Waldmann, and Rita Wojtasek.

No all-A students were named from the 8th grade, but Cindy Clement and Jeanne Remington made the list from the 7th grade.

Also announced at the same time as the semester honor roll was that for the fourth quarter. Although names of individuals varied some from the semester roll, the total number making the quarter list was almost identical. It showed 63 names compared to 62 for the semester.

Pictures of those students making the semester honor roll are printed on this page.

Bread Making

The Homesteaders 4-H Club met for their seventh session of the year July 9 at the Wayne Gregory home. The fast approaching Valley County Fair dates were discussed, and plans for the club picnic to be held in August were topic of interest. A bread demonstration also was given, by Becky Gregory and Willa Baldwin.

Another meeting will be held Friday at the Marvin Gydesen home.

Two Meetings

Happy Valley 4-Hers met July 2 in the United Methodist Church basement with nine members present. They answered roll call by telling the number of recipes prepared from their books. Mrs. Sell demonstrated how to make a waste basket, and the whole group prepared a vegetable plate. It was served for lunch, along with sandwiches.

The club met again July 9, at the church basement. That time six members answered roll call by naming utensils used in making cookies. Mrs. Sell demonstrated how to make a bulletin board, and Michelle Holcomb made lemonade. The lemonade and cookies were served for lunch.

The club members also attended 4-H practice judging day Tuesday in Ord.

They've Gotta Be Signed

In a recent editorial the Quiz decried the fact that too few people nowadays are willing to stand up publicly and be counted — to make their views known. Instead, they attempt to hide behind a cloak of anonymity.

The ipk was hardly dry on that editorial when the point it was making was amply illustrated. In came a letter to the editor, informing that the Quiz was shirking its duty by not publishing more details on the Head Start school. The letter, however, was unsigned.

Such letters are received from time to time, and ordinarily they're fodder for the wastebasket. Because of the timing, this one stood out.

One sentence in the letter read:

"I've bought a Quiz for the last three weeks to read that story (about Head Start)."

The backhanded compliment is appreciated. We are proud that the public looks to the Quiz for information on all government programs, regardless of how controversial they may be.

What makes this writer reason, however, that sole responsibility for digging out and divulging information on Head Start rests with the Quiz? As he points out, "The public has a right to know all about this, since as taxpayers we are footing the money for such a program."

The public indeed does have a right to know, but it also has a responsibility. Every bit of information the Quiz was able to obtain about the program should have been available to any private citizen who was willing to contact the officials involved and ask the right questions.

Why didn't the writer of this letter — who apparently feels so strongly about Head Start — get the story himself? If after reviewing the facts he felt they should be divulged to the public, the Quiz would have been happy to serve as a medium.

The Quiz claims no divine right to infallibility. Furthermore, when it speaks out on a public issue, there is usually room for valid opposition.

However, we demand to know who the opposition and who the critics are before taking them seriously.

So keep those cards and letters coming, folks—but please, sign 'em!

On Equalizing Food Spending

The high-sounding National Council on Hunger and Malnutrition in the United States has concluded that more than two-thirds of the people in Nebraska are "poor," whether they'll admit it or not.

This conclusion was reached because a study showed that these Nebraskans spend more than 17 percent of their after-tax income on food. The average spent nationally is 17 percent, according to those conducting the survey.

Common sense says to disregard such a ridiculous conclusion, but this cannot be done because of the mass propaganda being circulated nationwide in behalf of hunger. Undoubtedly the chairman of the survey group will be called before Senator George McGovern's Committee on Hunger to testify of the mass deprivation in Nebraska, and this plus the results of other surveys elsewhere will be used as a lever for voting vast new federal handouts.

Theoretically, in a communist society everyone shares equally in the fruits of their common labor. Thus everyone — again theoretically — receives the same amount of food, clothing, money, etc., etc.

Ours is a capitalistic society, one in which each man — theoretically — is rewarded according to his output. Those who work harder receive more in return.

What is the goal of the National Council on Hunger and Malnutrition in the United States? If it is to take from those who make more and give to those who make less, so that everyone will spend 17 percent of his income on food, is it not to achieve a communistic society?

Wait Until It Cools!

From The Insurance Information Institute

You wouldn't think of pouring gasoline or kerosene onto a lighted match or fuse, for simple chemistry tells you that exposure to such a heat source might cause the volatile liquid to explode.

For the same reason, take care when filling the tank of your lawnmower, tractor, or other fuel-burning, motorized appliance.

Fill the tank before you start a job. Then, if the tank needs a refill, wait until the motor is sufficiently cooled down before adding the fuel.

An explosion could cause severe burns, not to mention the ruining of a good appliance.

There's a Silver Lining in Every Cloud, And Ed Has Unearthed One for the Army

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

After discussing the country's unhappy birthday and some of the problems with young folks, the fellers came back Saturday night and spent most of the session bringing up reasons why we old folks ain't so happy either. Ed Waldmann served as chairman of this grownup grievance group.

Students kick up a ruckus during the regular school term, said Ed, and they slack off a little in the heat of summer. So this is a good time for the old folks to sit in the shade and get some gripes off their chests.

The sad fact is, Ed declared, it is the average feller that ain't saying nothing who is getting soaked the cleanest in this country.

Poor folks don't pay any taxes at all, and there is talk about turning the income tax around and paying them. The rich hire sharp lawyers to figure out ways around taxes. So it is the middle man — the feller with a steady job and no lawyer — that is paying the freight for everybody.

Ed said it's true, as the fellers agreed last week, there are advantages to living in the United States, but paying the way for the rich and the poor both ain't amongst them.

"We've got to level up the load people in this country are carrying for themselves and the rest of the world," were Ed's words.

And Ed, who looks for reasons to go along with the new administration, said he was pleased that President Nixon had long curling locks too.

So our youngsters have good precedents for their shaggy look, though they overdo it badly when they wear it dusty and uncombed — simply a sort of dirt trap. In Mexico I saw many boys with it tied back . . . from the rear you couldn't tell which was the boy friend and which the girl friend.

And certainly this hair-in-the-eyes business must interfere with vision, such as is needed for efficient driving. And I notice the long-hangs crowd are constantly head-tossing to clear their eyes.

This long swinging hair is something else too. These kids are continually throwing a wad of hair aside. Sometimes it's pretty, if it's shiny and brushed. Sometimes it is not.

And these added hair pieces are fooling everybody, or are they?

In Marshall Field's a week ago I watched young women blend hair to match a special customer's top knot. It was fun, as her fingers flew back and forth over the top of what looked like a bed of nails for a man from India.

I wouldn't be able to spy a yellow hair in a switch of gray, but she'd attack a swatch of golden yellow and keep pulling it to and fro over the nail points sticking up. Then the operator would hack off a swatch of dark brown, one of dark gray, one of light gray, and mingle them with the earlier handful of hair she was drawing so speedily. Her hands worked like lightning, and I never saw anything more fascinating.

It was like watching patterns in the firelight. Or the roll of waves at the shore, that hypnotizing sight that I could watch forever.

When I saw how much work went into creating this short fall or whatever it was going to be, I ceased to wonder at the prices fancy hair brings. It grew lovely under her fingers, and the waiting customer — whose hair I would have described as a not-too-interesting gray — found it was a perfect match!

The most dreadful hairy sight these days is that head covered with rollers. Girls, please! How could anyone love you in that top-heavy ugly version. Forget how you look.

Even if you are a vision (not a sight) tonight! Think about it, do.

—Irma

Nixon Has Support of Staff; U.S. Will Continue With 'Vietnam Bug-Out'

By Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's highest civilian officials support his policy of withdrawing American troops progressively from South Vietnam —

At all levels above the military, the President does not face the division among his advisers that marks pressing domestic issues.

At all levels above the military, the President does not face the division among his advisers that marks pressing foreign affairs.

The unilateral pull-out, these military advisers contend, will seriously weaken the American bargaining position for obtaining the release of hundreds of American fighting men now prisoners of the North Vietnamese.

These officials are Henry Kissinger, Presidential assistant on national security affairs, Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, and Secretary of State William Rogers.

Since taking office, Laird points out, Nixon has placed the same three major political restrictions on military operations in Vietnam as did former President Johnson.

The President forbade the invasion of North Vietnam; barred the mining of Haiphong harbor, the principal port through which Hanoi receives military supplies; and ruled out pursuit of enemy forces into Laos and Cambodia.

Effect On Congress

Secretary Laird's support of the Presidential withdrawal plan is the main reason there has been no strong popular opposition to the "Vietnam Bug-Out" by conservative legislators.

With no civilian leaders to press the battle for a longer Vietnam policy within the administration, none of these senators and congressmen are willing to challenge the President on the grounds there is no apparent chance of changing the policy.

The President also has helped to silence conservative members of his party on the war by temporarily moving to the right on key domestic issues.

In justifying his support of Nixon's plan, Laird privately says it is the only alternative left since the President has flatly ruled out further escalation of the war.

Since taking office, Laird points out, Nixon has placed the same three major political restrictions on military operations in Vietnam as did former President Johnson.

Under prodding from members of Congress, Mitchell has set up a special task force of Justice Department attorneys to employ Section 101 of Title 1 of the 1968 Civil Rights Act to crack down on instigators of campus disorders.

Most of the information gathered so far by the Justice Department on instigators of campus disorders has come from local police departments rather than federal investigative agencies.

This was revealed recently by the Senate Appropriation Committee by Assistant Attorney General Jerry Leonard, head of the Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department.

Preparing the Way

In outlining Mitchell's decision to use the new civil rights law to prosecute campus disrupters, Leonard reported:

"We have two specific situations right now where we are preparing to use Section 101 of the Civil Rights Law of 1968 to prosecute instigators of campus disorders.

Significantly, Mitchell has ruled didn't know bras came in so many colors! But . . . back to my story.

As my camera dangled around my neck, I came to an abrupt halt. Approaching me was a one-in-a-million shot! Straight out of the pages of Playboy came a beautiful young thing, strolling leisurely along with her hands tucked in her back pockets of her hip-huggers. Her see-through blouse was a heavy mesh such as a fisherman's net. Under it she wore . . . couldn't believe my eyes! They just don't let you partake around like that, I thought, hating myself for such Puritanical thinking. But this is 1969! This is the NOW generation!

By the time I'd come to my senses—and realized I had a camera around my neck—she was gone. Rather taken "off guard" by my chance encounter, I felt I'd better sit down.

Over to the pipe railing separating the beach from the boardwalk, I perched like a sparrow . . . still not quite able to believe my eyes.

Hooking my toes under the second rail, I sat stunned! "And to think—you idiot—that you didn't even get a picture!"

Suddenly I heard a shrill whistle. Looking around I saw one of Atlantic City's finest.

"Off the rail, buster," said the man in blue.

Still stunned, I didn't realize he was pointing at me.

"You . . . ya . . . I mean YOU! Down off the rail!"

Still a bit unsteady on my feet, I slid off and onto the boards below.

Walking toward the hotel, I walked slowly, pondering how it's up to us to sit on the rail at the boardwalk—but YOU CAN WALK ALONG IT IN NEAR NUDITY AND NOT OFFEND A SOUL!

Elyria Excerpts*Newest Zulkoski Addition Another Boy - of Course

By Mrs. J. B. Zulkoski

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Zulkoski recently word Monday that they are once more great-grandparents. A son was born Monday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Zulkoski at St. Mary's Hospital in Columbus. The boy was the 11th great-grandchild for the Zulkoskis. All are boys.

Heading for Hawaii
Mary Kay Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kapustka, left Saturday for Hawaii where she will spend a week with her husband, Capt. Dale E. Hicks. He is on rest and recuperation leave from Vietnam. Before returning to Nebraska, Mrs. Hicks also will spend a few days with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Malopezy, in Pleasant Hill, Calif. She has spent several weeks with her parents.

Plenty of Sunshine
The thermometer registered 100 degrees Friday, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday. His mother expressed concern at the danger involved; however, she was told that the engine which will bring the rocket back from moon to earth has been started 1,500 times without failure. At any rate, the Kapustka family watched television with great interest Wednesday morning.

Personals

William Freeman,
Dies Unexpectedly
At His Ord Home

Funeral services for William Freeman, a resident of Ord since 1948 and formerly of the Burwell community, were held Tuesday at the Bethany Lutheran Church.

Mr. Freeman died July 13 at his home. He was 79 years old. Rev. Douglas Makhathini officiated at the 2 p.m. service. Mrs. Sharon Fuss was soloist and Mrs. Shirley Karre the organist.

Hastings Pearson Mortuary had charge of arrangements with burial in Cottonwood Cemetery at Burwell. Pallbearers were Evert Burson, Herman Burson, Harry Hopkins, Carroll Hopkins, Eddie Bartos and Frank Bratka.

Born Aug. 20, 1889, in Tennessee, Mr. Freeman was the son of Samuel and America (Pitzer) Freeman. While he was still a young boy, his family left Tennessee by covered wagon and settled in Iowa. After a number of years there they moved on to Burwell in 1905.

Mr. Freeman was united in marriage to Mary Davis, Aug. 6, 1913, at Burwell. They made their home on a farm near there until Mrs. Freeman's death in 1946.

Mr. Freeman's second marriage took place Nov. 3, 1948, when he was wed to Vilhelmina Jensen; and since that time his home had been in Ord.

The deceased held memberships in the Degree of Honor and the Bethany Lutheran Church.

Survivors are three sons, Edward of Wilber, Bill of North Loup, and Frank Jr. of Elvira; one stepdaughter Mrs. Lillian Sedlacek of Ord; four grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren; one brother Stanley Seda of Arnold; two sisters Mrs. Rosalie Vopatensky of Timken, Kan., and Mrs. Karolina Hosck of Portland, Ore.

Meet this interesting character in John Chapter 3. He was one of the Pharisees, the highly respected religious order of the Jews. He had heard Jesus speaking and seen him performing miracles. Many disturbing questions had occupied him. He wanted them answered by Jesus Himself. He was convinced that Jesus was an extraordinary man who was with God. Nicodemus must have likened Jesus to great prophets who had performed great miracles; Moses and Elijah. Fear, however, stood in his way. Jesus he must see. But how could he do it without losing face to his fellow Pharisees? He decided to go to Jesus in the quiet of the night and unseen by anyone. I suspect he took to the alleys, and here and there stumbled over trash cans and other litter. Coming to Jesus he gave his conclusion: "know . . .". Jesus who knows seeking hearts, did not wait for further words from Nicodemus, but immediately began expounding the deep secrets of human existence in relation to the Kingdom of God. Nicodemus' ignorance was revealed and he posed a couple more questions and allowed Jesus to teach him. Nicodemus was the SEARCHER after truth. He found it and he must have gone away a happy man. How many men today are serious searchers after truth, and who will lose sleep in order to meet Jesus. How many men will risk their prestige for the sake of truth? If you have fear you can in the depth of your heart talk to Jesus in prayer. He knows our every weakness. We are not told when and how Nicodemus the SEARCHER for TRUTH left Jesus. We are however sure he had not met Him in vain.

In John 7:45-52, Nicodemus appears again. This time as DEFENDER OF THE TRUTH. Pharisees had sent men to arrest Jesus. He must be put down. He steals their Thunders and destroys their respect by the masses, by condemning them. Nicodemus was among them. Men who returned from the mission were harassed by the Pharisees because they had admired Jesus and not arrested Him. Pharisees began hurling words of condemnation about and at Jesus. Nicodemus, "he was one of them" could not contain himself anymore. He very tactfully throws a question to his fellow-Pharisees "Does our law judge a man without first giving him a hearing and learning what he does?" This set them all confused and mad. So mad they were that they shouted at him and ordered him to search scriptures to see how wrong he was. Not only that, but the meeting suddenly came to an end each man going to his own house. What a blow Nicodemus had struck! He had continued to be with his company but no more agreed with their opinions about Christ. You also might have friends who are wonderful people in many ways but now and again gossip about other people, or condemn the church and her institutions or speak against good causes in the community. You do not want to part company with them, and yet you should not. It is your duty to speak to them in such a way that their consciences condemn them. Nicodemus had been with Jesus and had become a new creation. For if a man is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old is past, behold all is made new. You can never accept Christ and remain as you were. Rivers of living water began flowing from Nicodemus. Your friends should remain your friends but by tactical approach you can change the spirit and attitudes of your group. Jesus Christ has said it Himself that in such situations we should not worry about what to say, for the Holy Spirit, will show us what to say and when to say it. You are called upon to change your community for the better, but this you can achieve only after you have sat at the feet of Jesus. Ours is not to condemn other people or other religious groups but to defend Christ in such a way that those who are not in harmony with his word may have their consciences condemned them. It is of no profit to keep telling others that they are in a miserable situation. Rather tell them that there is something better, or ask them such a true and humble question so that they find the truth. You will gain nothing by cursing the darkness. Your duty is bringing light. In this way you, like Nicodemus, will truly and honestly be a DEFENDER OF THE TRUTH.

Once more we find Nicodemus bearing witness to the Truth. In John 19:38-40, He comes with Joseph of Arimathea to lay down the body of Christ from the cross. Christ had been crucified and deserted by many of his followers. He was hanging from the cross, suspended between heaven and earth as if rejected by both. Unafraid Nicodemus pays his honest respects to Him who had opened his spiritual eyes, and in the face of possible scorn and abuse by his companions he publicly takes his stand for Jesus. We read a beautiful statement by John about Nicodemus 19:39 "Nicodemus also who had at first come to him by night . . ." Now there was no fear and no difference between day and night for no one could persuade him to do any other thing against his convictions. He had truly become a WITNESS TO THE TRUTH. Here he does not speak any word but only acts. His action was indeed greater than a thousand words that he could say. Deeds speak louder than words! An active involvement in the things of God tells the world more about you than your many beautiful statements. By their works we shall know them. Nicodemus having met Christ grew in faith and love for true love casts away FEAR. I find a menu for anyone who would be a follower of Christ:

1. Seek for the truth and be prepared to accept all what it says about you in the light of God's Word and take action thereof immediately.

2. Defend the truth not aggressively but humbly and honestly — this will keep you in contact with your fellow men and you by the grace of God may win them for Him.

3. Bear witness to the Truth by DOING that which is good and honest and people seeing your good works will praise and glorify your Father who is in heaven.

Monday Opening Set For Bigger County Fair

By Carol Leggett

Four-H members, leaders and parents are nearing the "home stretch" preparing for the Valley County Fair next week. Whether it is completing a project in cooking, sewing or animal exhibiting or presenting ideas in the shape of a float or booth, this is the week of major decisions and conclusions.

With the Home Economics Judging Day, and Music and Skit Contest already behind us, the Style Show Judging on Thursday (today) follows next on the agenda of pre-Fair events. The Style Show Judging will be held at the Ord High School Gym, starting time is 8:30 a.m. for the "Let's Sew" division. Others are 9:45 a.m. Skirt and Blouse; 11:15 a.m. Lounging and Sleeping; 1 p.m. Play Clothes; 2:15 p.m. School Clothes; 3:30 p.m. Clothes for Special Occasion; 4:45 p.m. Suits and Coats and Plan Your Own.

At 8 o'clock the same evening the modeling will resume at a Style Show for the public held at the High School Gym.

The 1969 Valley County Fair will actually get underway Monday, July 28, as the day when entries are brought to the fairgrounds. Entries will be accepted as early as 8:30 a.m., Monday. All entries must be in by 12 o'clock noon that day. A breakdown of entry times is as follows: 8:30 - 9:30 a.m. Clothing Exhibits (the judge will begin judging at 9:30 a.m.); 11 a.m. Judging of Rate-O-Gain Animals in the Livestock barns; 12:30 p.m. Food, Home Living and other exhibits judged except livestock; in the 4-H Building; 2:30 p.m. Judging of Dairy Animals in the Show Ring.

Food items which are exhibited and judged will be offered at a bake sale in the 4-H Building from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Proceeds will go as in previous years for the improvement of the 4-H Building.

The Monday evening activities will get off to an early start with a parade at 6 p.m. Sponsored by the Ord Jaycees, with Duane Wolfe as chairman, the 11 block long parade will take on a song title theme. With the Ord Grade School as the starting point, the floats will continue on a route through downtown Ord ending at the fairgrounds. Wolfe reported Wednesday that there were 32 floats entered with two bands and three riding academies of over 80 horses and a covered wagon with oxen. Float winners will be decided at the fairgrounds.

Also on Monday's schedule will be the crowning of the 1969 Valley County Fair Queen, in front of the grandstand, prior to the first session of the Jaycees Junior Roundup which will begin at 8 p.m. A second session will be held at the same time Tuesday.

A new attraction at this year's fair will be the King Cookout Contest planned for Tuesday afternoon. An area east of the Farm and Home Show queenest

Arcadia Native Named to Post

Dean Waddel, who hails from Arcadia, has been appointed director of libraries at Kearney State College.

Waddel was named to the post following the resignation of Bert Thompson, who accepted a librarian's position at St. Procopius College near Chicago, Ill.

A 1961 graduate of Kearney State, Waddel also holds a master's degree in library science from the University of Wisconsin. He has been on the staff at Kearney for the past three years as technical services librarian.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jess Waddel.

Sargent Location Selected by NFO

A central collection point for hogs going to market was recently established in Sargent by the National Farmers Organization.

The Sargent location is one of 11 collection points in the state. Its purpose, according to Lawrence Weiniak, is to provide a more convenient method for local NFO swine producers to market their hogs the collective bargaining way. Weiniak is president of the Valley County NFO chapter.

By utilizing a central collection point, farmers will be able to get larger numbers of swine to a single processor at higher prices, Weiniak said. Selling costs will also be reduced, he stated, and excess weight shrinkage should be eliminated.

Queen Candidates Display Varied Talents at Extension Tea

By Carol Leggett
Fifteen Valley County maidies competed with talent and beauty for the title of Valley County Fair Queen before Judges Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hammie Elstermeier of St. Paul and Mrs. Paul Banks of Burwell, Friday afternoon, at the Queen's Tea. The Queen's identity is kept secret, however, until the first night of the Valley County Fair — Monday, July 28, when she is revealed at the coronation to be held in front of the grandstand.

Present for the afternoon tea at the Elk's Club was the 1968 reigning queen Pat Novotny who is spending the summer months at home from her studies at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln. Also present were mothers of the candidates and reigning queen and presidents of the Valley County extension clubs.

Mrs. William Janda, chairman of the Valley County Extension Club presided over the afternoon's activities and introduced the girls who in turn pre-

Farm and Home Show Offers Prizes Galore

Plans are in the making for a bigger and better Farm and Home Show in Ord than ever before. The annual event—previously held during the early part of June—will be an added feature next week in conjunction with the Valley County Fair on July 28-30.

Don Walker, the show chairman, announced today that all space has been sold in the quonset building across the street north of the 4-H Building at the fairgrounds and 28 booths will be set up during the weekend to be ready for viewing on Monday, July 28 at 11 a.m. When the show opens, the street between the 4-H Building and the quonset to be used for the Farm and Home Show will be closed to traffic during the fair for safety precautions of those attending.

Exhibitors will have registrations for drawings at the individual booths for gifts valued at between $25 and $50.

Prizes will be drawn after the Talent Show, Wednesday night, in front of the grandstand.

Hours for the Farm and Home Show will be from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. each day—Monday through Wednesday.

The following firms will have booths at the show: Old Grain Co., Sevi-Soft Greenway, Inc., Modular Bldg. Systems, K.K. Apartments, Elvia Farm Fertilizer Service, Chamber of Commerce, "NebraskaLand," and KNLV Radio, Walt Smith Ins. Agency, Kounal and Barstow Lumber Yard, Swank Maytag, Scheidecker Construction, Ord Cheese Co., Jack and Jill Foods, S & M Impl., Anway Products, Quiz Industries, Boilesen Impl., Necchi-Elna Sewing Center, Sick Lumber Co., Furtak TV and Appliance, Concession Stand, Leggett & Mouth Art, Misko Sport Shop, Seventh Day Baptist Church, Soil Conservation Dist., Yanda Music (2) and Kansas-Nebraska Gas Co.

Walker also announced that the live broadcast hookup for KNLV Radio at the fairgrounds will be a free service of the General Telephone Co. The Old Grain Co. has provided the quonset building for the Farm and Home Show.

Others contributing time and service to the Farm and Home Show project include the Handy Housekeepers and the Cloverettes. The Scissors and Saucers received a red ribbon rating.

In the skit contest, the Clever Cutes received a purple ribbon for their "Fashion Parade" skit. Blue ribbons were awarded to the Beetles for their skit titled "A Tiny Spark" and to the Cloverettes for their work in "The 4-H Quadruplets."

For Democrats

All Valley County democrats are invited to attend a meeting scheduled for 8:15 p.m., July 29 in the lower level of the Veterans Club in Ord.

Hess Dyas, executive director of State Democratic party will discuss future party organization plans.

Area Youths Fined For Petty Larceny, Mailbox Damages

Two area youths were charged July 16 with petty larceny and a third with malicious destruction of property in hearings before County Judge Rollin Dye.

Anthony J. Hovet, 21, whose address is Route 2, Arcadia, and James C. Hiett, 19, of Scotia, were charged with petty larceny in the theft of a transmittor from a vehicle in Arcadia during the early hours of July 12. The auto was being repaired at Waddell Motors when the theft occurred.

Hovet and Hiett were fined $100 each plus court costs, and were ordered to pay for restoration of damages.

Also appearing in County Court the same day was Rick L. Orent, 17, originally of Council Bluffs, Ia., who is employed in North Loup during the summer months. Orent was charged with malicious destruction of property in south Ord — the tearing down of mailboxes belonging to Glen Stethem, W. E. Lincoln, and Frank John. He was fined $100 and costs and was required to replace the property in servicable condition.

The pens are being constructed within 33 feet to the south of Svoboda's property, and he maintains that if construction continues he will be entirely blocked off on all four sides.

In his petition for injunction, from receiving fresh air.

Svoboda alleged "special and peculiar injury" from the Ord Livestock Market, and he also contended that the defendants had already "accomplished well over 50 percent of the building of said hog pens in flagrant violation to previous action of the Ord City Council."

Action followed Ord City Council approval of Cummings' written request to construct the pens. Permission was granted at the council's July 7 meeting. A previous City Council had denied the request several years ago.

Svoboda contends—in his petition for injunction—that he is bordered by the Ord Livestock Market and "receives noxious odors and disagreeable noises and sounds whenever prevailing winds are from the north or northwest." This, he alleges, interferes with his comfort and existence.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

With 4-H activities and the approaching Fair events foremost in the minds of four out of five in our household I would like to apologize to those around me for having shirked in my duties as a good housekeeper.

First, to my friends I must admit it was not my family who bought that loving cup which holds the lead spot on our cluttered coffee table. I bought it for myself because I liked the inscription "To The World's Best Mom." These loving cups are very inexpensive and it is amazing how people's attitudes about your house soften with this staring them in the face.

Secondly, to my family I must confess that all that dust on the dinette window sill didn't come through the open window during last night's windstorm; it's been accumulating there since that busy Fourth of July weekend when I didn't get much done at home. Remember?

Next is an explanation to my neighbors about that ladder in my yard . . . the one with the rag draped over it which sets in front of the big picture window. Honestly, it is just there for appearance sake — someday I'll get those windows washed.

You've probably noticed too that when I shake the dust

Diane VanSlyke Marries Marvin Brown In Lutheran Rites at Loup City Church

In a 7:30 p.m. wedding held July 5, Diane Lynn VanSlyke and Marvin Brown were united in marriage. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon VanSlyke from Ashton, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Brown from Wichita, Kan.

The double ring ceremony took place in Immanuel Lutheran Church at Loup City with Rev. Ted Zimmerman officiating. Special nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Eldon Hubert, organist.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a gown of her own creation, made of embossed satin styled with a high neckline, long tapered sleeves, and complete with a long train. Her bridal veil was tiered and held in place by a pillbox hat. She carried a cascade of blue and white carnations with streamer accents.

Mary Brown, sister of the groom, presided at the guest book; and Mike VanSlyke, brother of the bride was junior host.

Presiding at the serving table were the bride's aunts, Yvonne Cain, Mrs. Earl Bartholomew, and Mrs. Alton Philbrick. Kathy Jorgenson and JoAnne Miska were at the gift table.

After a short wedding trip the couple are residing in Denver, Colo.

Out-of-town Guests

Those attending from out-of-town included Mr. and Mrs. Archie Brown, Mary Brown, Mr. and Mrs. George Finley, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Schambrom, Terese and Phyllis, all of Wichita, Kan. Also signing the guest book were friends and relatives from Burwell, Ord, Taylor, North Loup, Ashton, Mason City, and Denver.

Victor McCart of Wichita, Kan., served as best man. Jack and Gene VanSlyke, brothers of the

State Meat Inspections Look Definite Following Legislature's About-Face

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Assn.
LINCOLN — The legislature reversed course last week on its meat inspection bill.

After sending the measure to its death the week before, the senators decided by a 33-7 vote to revive it and send it on its way toward what appears to be certain passage.

That puts Nebraska back among her sister states, all of which had previously agreed to establish state meat checks in cooperation with the federal government. All, that is, except Maine, where the legislature hasn't yet decided what to do.

There was some indecision in Nebraska as well. When Elgin

Senator William Wylie's motion to restore life to the measure was debated last week, Senators Ter-

Carpenter of Scottsbluff and George Syas of Omaha raised a point that perhaps the bill ought to be killed, and Duis made such a motion. When Waldron learned the rural districts no longer were pushing the measure he supported the kill attempt, after a floor bust at power lobbyists in general, and the bill was sent to its death.

Carpenter Goes Home — For a While

Decisions on the meat inspection bill and the sales tax exemption on electricity were made on the same day last week. In the first instance the legislators rejected the stand taken by Senator

Carpenter, and in the second case they refused his proposed amend-

Earlier in the week the legislature refused to accept Carpenter's suggestion that the senators return until Sept. 23 so they could take the pulse of the public on legislative spending habits. This was a plan Carpenter had advocated throughout the session.

When it came to a vote last week, his colleagues decided they had better stay on the job.

Carpenter had announced the day before that he would make the motion, and Gov. Norbert

Tiemann described it as "unthinkable." Carpenter, an Omaha Senator Eugene Mahoney had been critical of the governor.

So it was a frustrating week for "Terrible Terry," and he finally decided to go home for a a few days.

"I've got to get off somewhere and decide whether I'm crazy or they are," he said as he left.

BEST GOVERNS

Tiemann spent the first few days of last week at Camp Ripley, Minn., where the Nebraska

National Guard is on summer training. Then he went to Cape

Kennedy, Fla., to watch the Apollo 11 launch.

He got back from Florida

Thursday and proclaimed Monday a holiday for state employees so they could watch the man-on-the-moon activities, and then hit the road again to attend a celebration at Gering.

No Pesticide Build Up
While we are on the subject of pesticide use this bit of information on pesticide build up may be of interest.

Thousands of soil samples analyzed during the last four years by USDA specialist Paul Sand failed to show any progressive build up of pesticide residues in the soil.

The national survey did show that the rate of breakdown and disappearance of agricultural chemicals in soil varies. Soils in orchards, for example, contain more pesticide residues than soils used to grow vegetables, cotton, corn, or timber. However, the residues were not absorbed by fruit trees.

Five Legionaires Attend Department Convention

More than 500 American Legion and Auxiliary members attended the Department Convention held in Omaha July 11-13. The Ord chapters were well represented with Clark Weekbach and Carl Weekbach attending the Legion meetings on Saturday and Sunday and Mrs. Clark Weekbach, Mrs. Gertrude Lech and Mrs. Frank Madsen attending the auxiliary sessions which began Friday.

A joint opening session and Memorial Services of the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary was held in Peony Park Ballroom Friday evening. Senator Roman Iruska was the guest speaker Saturday morning. The Legion Parade and Tea honoring Gold Star Mothers was an afternoon event. A Delegates Banquet concluded the Saturday activities. During the installation meeting of the auxiliary on Sunday morning, Mrs. Cecil Lee of Ainsworth was installed the new Department President.

Club Picnic

Burwell Man Named To FHA Committee

Duane Shermer of Burwell has been appointed to a three-man area committee of the Farmers Home Administration. The committee serves Garfield, Valley, and Sherman counties.

Named to replace Clarence Larsen of Ericson, Shermer will serve for a three-year period. Larsen's three-year term expired July 1.

Other members of the committee are Leonard Kamarad of Comstock and Eugene Petska of North Loup. Insofar as possible, members are selected so that different geographic areas are represented.

The committee determines the eligibility of individual applicants for loans administered by the FHA. It also reviews the progress of borrowers and assists the area supervisor, Sam Gailey, in adapting FHA policies to local conditions.

John Prien Sr. Dies at Age 79; Rites at Chapel

Funeral services for John D. Prien Sr., 79, were held at 10 a.m. Saturday. Mr. Prien died unexpectedly July 17 at his home in Ord.

Rev. Kenneth Bunnell officiated at the services held in the Hastings-Pearson Chapel. Mrs. Sharon Mason sang "Rock of Ages" and "How Great Thou Art" accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Shirley Karre.

Pallbearers were Glen Cochran, Ed Christensen, Vic Benben, Art Sebesta, Ted King, and Harry Foth. Honorary pallbearers were Herschel McGrew, Paul Zentz, Jack Rashaw, Frank Kasal, Orin Kellison, and Archie Mason.

Interment was in the Old City Cemetery.

Mr. Prien was born Jan. 28, 1890, at Muscatine, Ia., the son of Charles and Margaret Mohr Prien. He came to Valley County at the age of 2 with his parents. Their home was in the Mira Valley area.

He and Elsie Malottke were united in marriage at Ord on June 21, 1911. Their home was on a farm in Mira Valley until 1942 when they moved to Ord. Survivors are one son, John D. Prien Jr. of Atlanta, Ga.; three sisters, Mrs. Alice Bell of Ogden, Utah, Mrs. Alma Christensen of Saco, Mont., and Mrs. Margaret Leonard of Paul, Idaho; and three grandchildren. Mr. Prien was preceded in death by his wife on Feb. 4, 1944, and by his parents, one daughter, one infant daughter, and three brothers.

Sales Tax Exemption Bill Dies

Another bill of interest to rural Nebraska died last week. It's likely to remain dead.

The measure was introduced by Senator J. James Waldron of Callaway who sought to provide a method for farmers to escape the sales tax on electricity they use for commercial agricultural purposes.

Under Waldron's bill, farmers who don't have a separate meter for the power they use to operate irrigation pumps, grain dryers, and other farm appliances would pay sales tax only on the first 500 kilowatt hours.

Waldron said that amount is about the average residential use in the state.

Currently, electric power used for commercial or industrial purposes isn't subject to the sales tax, but that's not difficult for residential plant to figure out how much of the power it uses should be exempt, but farmers often measure their usage for residential and business purposes on the same meter.

Waldron said he introduced the bill at the request of rural power districts until Sept. 23 so they could take the pulse of the public on legislative spending habits. This was a plan Carpenter had advo-

Where There's A Will . . .

Just when its critics were having a field day with their sharp barbs and accusations, the military-industrial complex in the United States has achieved its most glowing accomplishment.

The tremendous feat of putting men on the moon and getting them off safely was attained by pooling the best technological brains and skills this country had to offer. It was a perfect example of what the military-industrial partnership can do when all systems go.

In recent weeks critics of the military-industrial complex have dredged up numerous examples of wasted tax dollars in the development of various weapon systems. Many have used these examples as a reason for opposing development of the anti-ballistic missile system.

Where waste does exist, a sharp knife should be used to prune away excessive spending. And where examples of graft can be proved, steps should be taken to prosecute the individuals involved — whether on the government or private-industry side.

But the fact that some waste has been uncovered should not be used as a reason to oppose development of any weapon system that is essential to the security of this country.

When Jesus of Nazareth was hung on the cross, his enemies didn't kill him and said, "He saved others; Himself He cannot save."

Jesus did indeed have the power to save himself, and furthermore to destroy them all. But He did not exercise this power because He was dying for a purpose — only by dying could He save mankind.

No such lofty reasons exist for the United States to die as a country. In fact, should this nation's life be snuffed out, the greatest single national strength for good upon this planet will be erased.

Congress very shortly will vote to approve or reject the ABM. We feel that proponents have already made it absolutely clear that this weapon system is needed to guarantee the future survival of this country.

Opponents of an ABM in the United States say that this country will jeopardize future negotiations on disarmament with the Soviet Union by proceeding with the ABM. Yet the Soviets already have such a system, and are going full speed to enlarge it.

Furthermore, it has been proved time and again that the Soviets are the ones who always impede any sort of cooperation between their country and ours. The moon shot was just the latest example, when they sent up their own unmanned vehicle without advance warning when they had known for months the date this country planned to send up its manned spaceship. (For more examples of the way Russia cooperates in space activities, see today's "Scott Report" located elsewhere on this page.)

By putting men on the moon and getting them off safely, this country has proved that nothing of a technological nature is beyond its grasp if the national will to achieve it is present. What a pity it will be if at some future point in time historians look back at the United States and paraphrase the statement made about Jesus:

"They could send a man to the moon; themselves they could not save."

Too Good to Be True

From Washington Exclusive

Few people were surprised when black radical James Forman of the National Black Economic Development Conference received the first of his demanded kickbacks from a church group. Actually the $15,000 check from the Washington Square United Methodist Church of Greenwich Village in New York City is not the first "reparations" payment received in answer to Forman's demands; the first payment was $1,000 from the Council of Black Clergy in Philadelphia, Pa. The Methodist money was the first financial payment from a "predominantly white institution" as Forman puts it. Forman is demanding a total of $500 million from the nation's religious institutions. Several church groups have already replied to the demands with a flat refusal to pay what they consider to be blackmail.

Speaking of blackmail, Forman is on record as accusing the government of attempting to frame the leaders of his group. He stated: "I am convinced the Nixon administration is going to try to indict some of us on extortion or conspiracy charges." Now why would anyone think that this group's demands are extortion? Isn't it normal to enter a place of worship and read a list of monetary demands to the parishioners and disrupt worship services? Why is Mr. Forman worried? Does he think that any jury in the country would consider his demands unusual?

A Washington reporter recently called the Justice Department and asked if there was any plan to prosecute the leaders of the Forman group. The only answer was a terse "No comment." We can read this in one of two ways: 1) The charge is ridiculous and there is no plan to prosecute; 2) we are working on it, but are not ready to disclose our findings at this time.

We hope that the latter is the case. But perhaps that would be too good to be true.

Statistics Are Okay for Proving Things, But Fellers Advise Against Believing 'Em

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

There was a piece in the paper the other day that said one out of every five women is a widow over 35 years old.

I don't know how many folks saw it, Mister Editor, but Joe Rutar sure did. He came to the session Saturday with a head full of questions about all them widows.

First off, he wanted to know why the piece didn't say anything about widowers. He was of the strong opinion there is more to this men and women numbering business than has come out. Joe said he never was much for statistics, but he has his own ideas about people.

Most of them government reports, allowed Joe, remind him of the feller that thinks if it is 130 degrees by the stove and 20 degrees by the window, the whole room is a nice 75 degrees.

"When you use statistics like that on folks, they just don't stack up," were Joe's words.

Women may be naturally longer lives than men, Joe said, but that don't make no case for so many 35-year-old widows he said. Most husbands make it to at least 50 or so, Joe figured the piece didn't consider men that have buried one wife and married another one. Generally, he said, women aren't as likely as men to get married again.

Junior Meese said in the first place he couldn't see why Joe was so concerned about the report, and in the second place the reason for the 35-year age limit was simple. That is as old as any of the women will say they are.

In the third place, Junior allowed, he personally was more worried about women of all ages taking over everything in this man's world.

For instance, Junior saw where some woman in New York had gone to court 'cause she couldn't get hired as a baseball umpire.

Junior said that was as far as women could go in the wrong direction. He said if it took his old lady as long to call a ball or strike as it does to pick which hat to wear to church, they never would get a ball game played.

Furthermore, said Junior, if a woman ever got to be an umpire, right off she would go to court to get special restrooms and big mirrors at home plate so she could check her outfit every inning. And she would sue the batters for cussing in front of a lady when they struck out.

The fellers generally agreed with Joe on not putting faith in statistics, but Walt Crunk disagreed with Junior. Walt said we get the women's ruling on everything, and he didn't see that balls and strikes were any different.

Personally, Mister Editor, if statistics can prove we men have 2.4 younguns each, you can lie about anything.

Yours truly,

This year I ran into a doubling back detour just south of Yankton and was prepared for a boring, dusty ride full of curves. Not so. It was a good blacktop road, curvy, but I got a real bonus from it: I travelled alongside Lewis and Clark Lake. And I'm ashamed to admit it, but I'd never seen this beautiful lake before!

Lewis and Clark lay long, blue and sparkling with the greenest of grass down to its edge, many pretty summer cottages, recreation areas, lots of trees. Numerous boats enjoyed whizzing around, with plenty of picnickers and children watching them. I was delighted.

What a pleasant silver lining my detour cloud had.

Every year Nebraska sends a host of young men to Camp Ripley, Minnesota, to train for two weeks. This year the 1,200 or 1,500 man caravan set forth from Hastings the Saturday I had planned to leave . . . so I postponed my departure 24 hours. If you've ever tried to pass such a host of military vehicles you'll understand.

Once or twice we have met this parade, coming or going. They post all sorts of guards and are very careful of the other travellers, still, it makes quite a delaying action.

Camp Ripley isn't far from Middle Cullen Lake, where I'm typing. It is only 40 or 50 miles south of Brainerd, and Brainerd is about 13 miles south of me.

So on weekends the boys from Camp Ripley come up here into this busy resort area to play. There are a host of places to dance, dine, swim, eat, raise Cain, and they do.

In fact we're getting a trifling too hippy up here. One resort for rock and roll and the jumpers requires about four policemen per night to keep order.

A big new race track, the Donnybrook, also attracts hosts of lively kids and takes heavy policing. Several thousand spectators converge there on Sunday afternoons, with many beards, motorcycles and long-haired unwashed.

In addition not too desirable for those who appreciate the beauty of the lakes, the serenity of the pines.

The rocking chair crowd.

The Scott Report

Russia Takes But Refuses To Give in Exchange of Space Information

By Paul Scott

WASHING - TON — Despite the warm public welcome given astronaut Frank Borman received from Soviet leaders in Moscow, the United States is finding it almost impossible to obtain meaningful Soviet cooperation in space.

In effect, the U.S.-Russia exchange of information from space experiments agreed to in 1962 has turned into a one-way street.

While American space officials have gone out of their way to flood Moscow with timely and significant weather and space data gathered by orbiting satellites, the Kremlin's cooperation has consisted of sending to the U.S. unusable or unimportant information.

That's the report officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) have given Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, ranking Republican on the Senate Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee.

Senator Smith, who also serves on the Senate's CIA watchdog subcommittee which keeps tabs on Soviet space activities, requested the report on U.S.-Soviet space cooperation to meet growing criticism of the Nixon Administration in this field.

For several weeks, a group of liberal senators headed by Mark Hatfield (R-Ore.), a member of the Senate space panel, has been pressuring the administration and calling publicly for more U.S.-Soviet space cooperation. The private and public statements of these senators indicated that the U.S. was to blame for lack of cooperation.

In a blunt answer to the Hatfield group, Senator Smith prepared a detailed report for submission to the Senate which clearly shows that the Russians are the ones who are dragging their feet.

"The U.S. has made frequent and repeated efforts to persuade the Soviets to enter new space projects, but our initiatives have not been accepted," reported Senator Smith.

In sharp contrast to these repeated offers to cooperate, she pointed out that "a joint review of space medicine is the only Soviet proposal which has been made and not subsequently withdrawn."

The Soviet Record

trying to get the Russians to cooperate in exchanging space information is highlighted in the following information NASA furnished Senator Smith:

"(1) Meteorology — A Washington-to-Moscow communication channel was set up under a Soviet-U.S. agreement, but to date the Soviet data has not been operationally useful to us. It has not been possible to move to the second part of the proposed agreement which called for coordinated weather satellites by the two nations."

"(2) Magnetic Field Mapping — As of the present time, no exchange of satellite data has yet taken place. Arrangements have been made for exchange of ground-based data, but these have not been completely successful either since the Russians have transmitted no information to us from September 1966."

"(3) Communications — Cooperative communication experiments using the U.S. passive satellite Echo II were completed in February, 1964. In this event the Soviets received communications only, declining to transmit.

"(4) Space Biology and Medicine — This called for preparation and publication of a joint review on space biology and medicine. Although the U.S. team is engaged in putting together the basic material, for almost two years the Soviet side has failed to reply to correspondence."

One-Way Exchange

An exchange between Senator Smith and Dr. Robert White, administrator of NASA's Environmental Science Services Administration, clearly shows how the Soviets have used the weather exchange agreement with the U.S. to their advantage.

As taken from the Senate committee's official transcript, the exchange went like this:

Senator Smith: Do I understand correctly that we have transmitted to Moscow cloud analyses covering half the world and selected cloud photographs without interruption since September 1966?

Dr. White: That is correct.

Senator Smith: On the other hand, although the Soviets have launched a total of seven satellites during that period, there have been numerous interruptions in the transmission of data, at one time for a period of four months, from Russia?

Dr. White: That is correct.

Senator Smith: Is it also true that because of insufficient coverage by Soviet satellites, the utility of their information is much less than that of ours?

Dr. White: That is correct.

Senator Smith: Is it also ac-cute to state that data received from Moscow are of marginal quality and are received quite late and after periods of usefulness?

Dr. White: That is true.

With the help of NASA officials, Senator Smith has compiled for circulation among members of the Senate a list of 18 initiatives that the U.S. put forward since 1959 seeking Soviet cooperation in space.

Only when the Russians could obtain new space data without giving anything worthwhile in return did they accept the proposals. In most cases, the Russians either did not reply to the U.S. offer or rejected it outright.

Protecting Mankind

The Russians have spurned all offers of the United Nations to join in an effort to protect the earth from germs that might be carried by astronauts from the moon to earth.

A report on the Soviet refusal to cooperate with the U.N. is revealed by Senator Smith, as follows:

"The United Nations' Outer Space Treaty of 1967 raised prevention of harmful contamination of the planets to the level of an international obligation.

"The U.S. has undertaken an extremely costly effort to make sure that its probes do not contaminate the planets and has published in great detail the measures adopted to that end.

The International Committee on Space Research of the United Nations has repeatedly attempted to elicit similar information from the Soviet side, through meetings, symposia, and correspondence, so that the adequacy of Soviet techniques can be examined by the world scientific community for judgement.

"Over the entire 10-year period of such efforts, the Soviets have been willing to provide little more than generalized assurances that their spacecraft are sterilized.

"While there is a general consensus that Soviet rocket stages are in fact permitted to impact the planets, no assurances of any kind have been forthcoming regarding their sterilization or diversion from the planets.

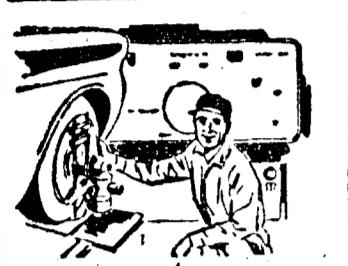

As for the Nixon Administration's future policy toward the Soviets, Senator Smith reports:

It's Time for Daren to Yell 'Uncle' – This Time He Breaks His Left Arm

Four-year-old Daren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan, broke his left arm Friday when he fell off a horse. This isn't a new experience for the youngster. He broke his right collar bone when he fell from his crib, his left collar bone when he hit the dash of the car and later broke bones in his foot. Four times in four years.

Family night was held at Mira Valley United Methodist Church Sunday evening. Birthdays of the whole year were observed. Jack Duvall was master of ceremonies. The twelve tables at which the guests were seated were decorated according to the months. Each table prepared a charade for entertainment and sang a song appropriate for that month. Cup cakes with a candle on each and ice cream were served for refreshments.

Chamber Will Oppose Proposed Depot Closing

The Ord Chamber of Commerce will protest an application to close the local office of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad. Officials of neighboring communities also have been asked to oppose proposed closings in their towns.

Bob Anderson, president of the Ord chamber, said Monday he had written the neighboring communities asking them to declare their opposition to the Burlington

BULLETIN

The State Railway Commission said Wednesday that the Union Pacific Railroad also has asked for authority to establish a mobile agency that will serve St. Paul, Dannebrog, Loup City, Scotia, North Loup, and Ord. It would be headquartered at St. Paul.

requests. He took the action after speaking with directors of the Ord chamber, although the directors themselves have not yet gone on record as officially opposing the action.

The Burlington recently applied to the Nebraska State Railway Commission for permission to close its permanent offices in Ord, Burwell, and Sargent. They would be replaced with a "mobile agency" operating out of Loup City.

A deadline of Aug. 8 has been set by the state for protests to be filed. If enough dissenting opinions are voiced, a hearing will be scheduled to consider the matter.

Service on two spur lines—one extending from Palmer through Ord and Elyria to Burwell, and the other from Palmer through Loup City, Arcadia, and Comstock to Sargent—would be affected. Train schedules on the two spurs apparently would not be changed, but only the stationing of full-time agents in Ord, Burwell, and Sargent.

Currently three trains each

Clinic for Crippled Children To Be Held at Ord Elks Club

A clinic for crippled children of seven Central Nebraska counties will be held Saturday in Ord. This will be the first time such a clinic has ever been held here.

The clinic is a joint venture between the Nebraska Services for Crippled Children and the State Elks Assn. It will be held at the local Elks Club.

A semiannual event, the clinic has always been held at Broken Bow in the past. However, Andy Andersen, exalted ruler of the Ord Elks Lodge, said Thursday he hopes that in the future it can be held here at least once a year.

Services at the clinic are completely free to unmarried persons under 21 who are afflicted

Pam Hurlbert Is 1969 Fair Queen

A blonde beauty is once again the fairest in the county, as determined by judges in the Valley County Fair queen competition.

Pam Hurlbert, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orie Hurlbert, was crowned Monday night to reign over the 1969 Fair.

She succeeds Pat Novotny, also a blonde, who was on hand to crown her in ceremonies preceding the first session of the Jaycees Junior Rodeo.

Named as first runnerup was Chris Bishop. Peg Nelson was second runnerup, and Nadine Babcock third runnerup. Jeanette Lange and Darlyn Novosad tied for the fourth runnerup position.

All the finalists except Miss Babcock are 1969 graduates of Ord High School. She hails from North Loup and was graduated this year from North Loup Scotia High School.

The new queen is "tall," has blue-green eyes, and is a 1969 graduate of Ord High School. She plans to attend Kearney State College this fall, and will major in elementary education.

In the talent competition leading to selection of the queen, Miss Hurlbert pantomimed a mother and her little boy going to the pet shop. She had written the skit herself.

She was sponsored by the Co-terie Extension Club.

During her school days Pam played the clarinet in the band, was vice-president of Ordettes, and was a member of the National Honor Society. A farm girl, she has also participated in 4-H activities and is a member of the Ord Presbyterian Church. She lists sewing and reading as her hobbies.

And there's more good news for young males in the county—the new queen is not the only beauty down on the Hurlbert farm. Sisters Jackie, 15, and Shelly, 4, are future queen possibilities themselves.

Former Resident of Loup Area Murdered With Meat Fork in Utah

Mrs. Gladys M. Powers, who was murdered in Salt Lake City on July 22, will be remembered by many in the surrounding area. Her husband, Kenneth L. Powers, an official of the Bureau of Reclamation, was the construction engineer on the Farwell project, and also on the Millburn dam on the Sargent Irrigation project.

The Powers family resided in Sargent and also in St. Paul. Mr. Powers was guest speaker at many irrigation meetings in Ord. He was also active in the Knights of Columbus and the Lions Club. Mrs. Powers had an active interest in the Girl Scouts.

The Powers' had been transferred from Denver to Salt Lake City where they resided in an apartment. Mrs. Powers had evidently surprised a prowler in their apartment and her body was found lying in a small hallway by her husband when he returned home about 5 o'clock in the evening. She had been dead for five or six hours according to Sheriff Delmar L. Larson. The murder weapon was a nine-inch two-tined meat fork, apparently taken from a kitchen drawer.

Mrs. Powers was stabbed in the chest twice and beaten around the face and neck, according to a detective.

Weckbach Will Serve As Draft Board Head

Local Board No. 91 of the Selective Service System, which serves Valley County, was recently reorganized following the retirement of Henry Enger as chairman.

Replacing Enger is Carl Weckbach of Ord. Floyd Smith of Arcadia is the vice-chairman and Eldon Sintek of North Loup secretary. Sintek is the only new member of the board.

Graham Movie Planned

"The Restless Ones," considered the most successful motion picture yet produced by evangelist Billy Graham, will be shown in Ord on Aug. 3. The showing will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

School Tax Levy Will Go Up 15 Mills

An operating budget of $669,000—up 23.4 percent from last year—was adopted at this month's meeting of the District 5 Board of Education.

The budget calls for an increased tax levy of 7.09 mills over last year. Together with a new 8-mill levy to cover construction costs of Ord's new grade school building, it will boost the total school levy for next year by just over 15 mills. Supt. William Gogan had estimated at an unofficial meeting last month that the increase would be "approximately" 14 mills.

The 15 mill increase is expected to bring the total levy for the coming year to 54.53 mills. As an example of how this will affect the taxpayer, Gogan quoted County Treasurer Lloyd Wilson as saying taxes would increase approximately $105 on a $20,000 house.

(A house with actual value of $20,000 is assessed at $7,000, or 35 percent of value. The increase will be $15 per $1,000 as assessed valuation.)

In adopting the budget, school board members pointed out that it more correctly represents an increase of roughly $44,000 instead of $124,000 which shows up on paper. This is because it covers a 14-month period instead of the 12 months normally covered by an operating budget.

Earlier this year the state legislature passed a law changing the dates of the fiscal year for Class III school districts. Now the year will run from Sept. 1 through Aug. 31 whereas earlier it ran from July 1 through June 30.

The bill was passed with an emergency clause, meaning it became effective immediately. This extended the current fiscal year by two months. Since the school board had not planned for the two additional months in this year's budget, the estimated $50,000 needed for those months was incorporated into the new budget.

The budget was adopted by the school board exactly as it was presented by Superintendent Gogan.

"We are operating at a bare minimum with this budget," Gogan said in presenting it. "Even so we realize we are still costing the people money, but most of it is not out of doing (referring to the change in fiscal year dates)."

"This 7-mill increase with the extended budget year is really small. I have talked to some superintendents who are reporting a 10-to-14-mill increase."

Gogan also reported that the school district finished the first 12 months of the current fiscal year $317 within its budget. He said the district spent roughly $8,000 more than was budgeted for teacher salaries, but that the increase was made up in other areas.

In adopting the budget, the school board also set $900 as the per-pupil amount to be paid by rural districts which send their students to Ord for high school instruction. Last year the district levied $930 per student, but another law passed by the state legislature permitted this figure to be raised at the local board's discretion.

Big Change in American Agriculture Being Planned by Secretary Hardin

By Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — If Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin has his way, he'll make a dramatic change in American farm policy.

Under the new program Hardin is drafting for President Richard Nixon to submit to Congress, the nation's agriculture policy would gradually swing from its current emphasis on annual diversion of land from crop production to long-term land retirement.

Instead of diverting a portion of a farm each year, as is now the policy, the government would rent entire farms for from 10 to 20 years to keep the acreage out of crop production.

The Hardin goals are:

- To bring the supply of food and fiber closer to demand;
- To cut down on farm surpluses; and

• To cut the cost of the government's $7 billion a year farm Program over the next five years.

In private discussions with Republican members of Congress, Hardin talks of eventually taking 50 to 60 million acres of crop land out of production. This massive land retirement would be spaced over several years to give farming communities more time to adjust and turn to other production.

As Hardin sees it, costs could be further cut by having the government acquire only "easements" for some acreage. Under this new feature farmers would retain title to the land and could use it for grazing animals, but not for crop production.

Dept. of Agriculture cattle experts report that new grazing facilities are needed immediately to step up meat production to help feed the nation's growing population.

Significantly, consumer officials in the Nixon Administration agree. They contend that cattle production must be stepped up drastically as part of a program to keep meat prices from soaring beyond the limits of the poor's pocketbook.

The question is, will Congress go along?

Members of the Senate and House Agriculture Committees are known to have some deep misgivings about making long-range cutbacks on crop acreages at a time when President Nixon is warning of a mounting population crisis.

These lawmakers contend that expansion of the food distribution industry, which is already one of the largest employers in the country, would provide the jobs needed in an expanding population.

Several members of the House Agriculture Committee, which is chaired by Rep. W. R. Poage (D-Tex.), want the United States to become the farm basket of the world. They are planning to ask the President to hold up his long-term land retirement program until a study of the nation's food needs can be made.

The Commission on Population Growth and American Future which the President recently proposed to Congress, they point out, could be used to make the food study.

In proposing this commission, the President told Congress that it should be given the responsibility for inquiry and recommendation concerning "resources in the public sector of the economy that will be required to deal with the anticipated growth in population."

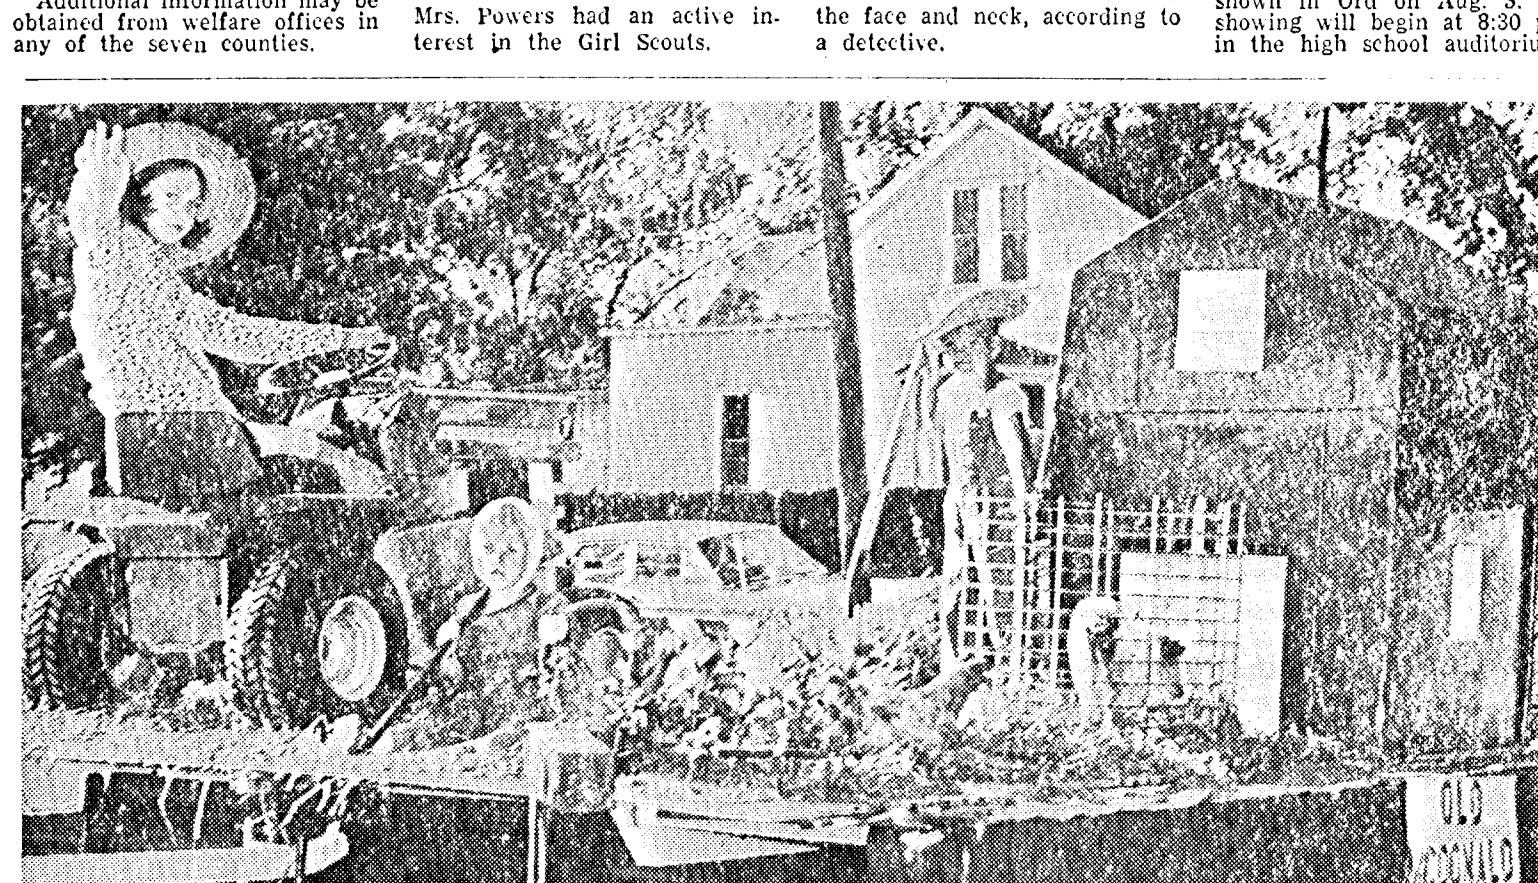

Getting the Facts

While the President did not specify a need to determine the nation's future food production capability, the Poage group believes this information is vital for any meaningful study of how the U.S. should handle its population growth.

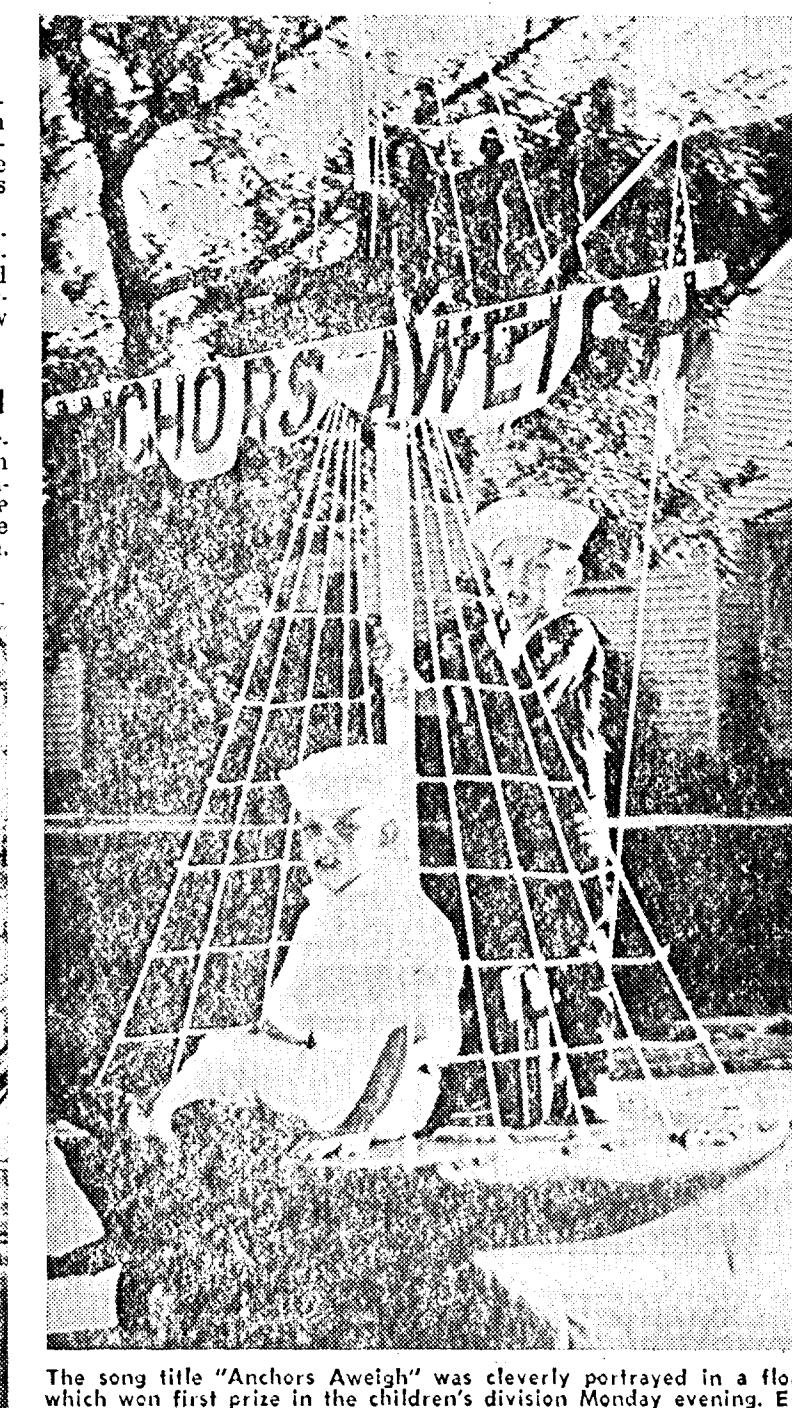

If commission members are going to make the correct decision on whether the government should begin limiting this country's population," stated one of the Poage group, "they should know the capability of this country's farmers to produce food in 1985 as well as today."

For instance, these Congressmen would like to see the commission study recent reports that discoveries about the earth through space flights will increase agriculture production in several areas of the world by 300 percent during the next 10 years.

Development of new strains of wheat and rice also indicates that the world is entering a "green revolution" period where food production will outstrip population increases and will permit rises in the standard of living for billions of people.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

Many refer to this week of the Valley County Fair as one of the most hectic times of family involvement during the entire year. One thing certain — and many mothers agree — the menu for days ahead are more definitely planned at this time.

At our house for instance, there are many muffins — some flat-topped and others peaked up high — all "good eating" when smothered with jam. There are plates of peanut butter cookies, excellent for "dunkin" plus a few sunk-in-the-middle one-egg cakes. Some refer to these as "fair exhibit rejects."

Looking for a quick summertime dessert? Here's an easy recipe for Pudding Cake.
1 box of cake mix,
1/2 box pudding mix, regular style
1 c. sugar
1 1/2 c. boiling water
Prepare cake mix and pour into a 9 x 13 x 2-inch pan. Mix pudding and sugar together. Sprinkle on cake and pour boiling water over all. Bake at 350 degrees according to box directions. Suggestions: chocolate cake with chocolate pudding; white or yellow cake with vanilla pudding. 1 or 2 t. lemon juice, and the boiling water.

Andersons Observe 50th Anniversary With Church Reception Last Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Anderson of Arcadia were honored Sunday on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary with an open house held at the United Methodist Church in Arcadia.

Hosting the event were the couple's children and their families. They are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson, Omaha; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Anderson, Lincoln; and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin (Phyllis) Gould, Arcadia.

Ruth and Walter Anderson were married July 23, 1919 at Ord. Mrs. Hazel Hall who was a special guest Sunday, was one of the attendants at the wedding. The other attendant, Ed Anderson of Oakridge, Ore., was unable to attend because of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have lived in the Ord and Arcadia vicinities all their married life. They have three children and 11 grandchildren.

The centerpiece at the serving table was a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake, baked by their daughter, Mrs. Gould, and decorated by Mrs. Carol Lutz. Cutting the cake were Mrs. Gene Anderson of Lincoln and Mrs. Robert Anderson of Omaha. Mrs. Kenneth Brown poured coffee and Mrs. Dale Norman served the punch. Denice Gould and Mrs. Joyce Anderson presided at the guest book. Mrs. Alyce Barker and Mary Anne Gould were in charge of the gift table.

Those who attended from out-of-town were: Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Eubank, Cambridge; Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson, Omaha; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Saville, Fullerton; Mr. and Mrs. Art McKay, St. Edward; Mr. and Mrs. George Dworak, Ord; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Marvel and Billie, St. Paul; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. # Local Trio's 14-Year-Old Granddaughter Dies in Lexington

By Margaret Zentz
Teresa Hunt, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hunt, passed away Saturday at the Lexington hospital after being confined since July 20. Funeral services were held at the Bergan Fundamental Church in Lexington yesterday (Wednesday) with burial in the Arcadia cemetery.

Mrs. Hunt is survived by her parents and 4 brothers — Steven, David, Mark and Patrick, all of Lexington, and by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Burns and Mrs. Sidney Hunt, all of Arcadia.

It'll Be Quiet
Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith took their grandsons, Danny and Steve Shuck, to their home in Owasso, Okla., on Saturday. The Smiths stayed to visit a few days at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Shuck. The Shuck boys had spent a month in Arcadia with their grandparents.

Malin House Sold
The Malin house and furniture ale Saturday evening drew a large crowd. The house was sold to Allen Masters, Alfred Malin living in the Ballard Rest Home at Broken Bow, and Edith Malin's making her home with Lillian Nehls in Arcadia.

Transferred From Vietnam
Cpl. Dennis Stockmeyer, son of Rev. and Mrs. Ray Stockmeyer of Arcadia, is with the 9th Marine Regiment that has left Vietnam. He will be stationed in either Japan or Okinawa until he returns to the United States in October.

Church News Goal

A spirit of expectancy prevailed as members of the Calvary Baptist Church met for a potluck supper Friday. Clayton Montany of the Westcott Baptist Church, accompanied by his daughter, sang two numbers. A film, "Where Your Heart Is," was also shown; and faith pledges for missions were turned in. The commitment thermometer was raised to $755. The service closed with singing of the doxology. The film was shown again Sunday evening and the thermometer was raised to $955. A goal of $1,000 had originally been set, and it is expected that the final total will go "over the top."

Former Resident Dies
Funeral services for Mrs. George Slocum of Litchfield were held at the Litchfield United Methodist Church Saturday. Mrs. Slocum — the former Elia May Sinclair — lived in Arcadia at one time. She died July 23 in a Kearney hospital at the age of 87.

See Parade
Members of the Happy Valley 4-H Club and their leaders attended the parade and fair at Ord in a group Monday evening. They enjoyed a picnic in the Ord park.

Teaching in Washington
Mr. and Mrs. Kent Murray have departed after spending a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Murray, and other relatives. They will vacation in Canada for two weeks before returning to Seattle, Wash., where Mrs. Murray teaches at the University of Washington. Mr. Murray also will teach there this fall.

Two-for-One Party
Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lutz entertained at a birthday party Monday evening in honor of Jimmy's 5th and Carol's 4th birthdays, which were July 21 and 23. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Lutz, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lutz, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Holmes and family, Mr. Bruce Ohne, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Toczek Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Toczek Jr. and twins of Loup City.

Mrs. Hickman Killed

Mrs. Lottie Baller went to Austria Saturday to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Burchan and to attend the funeral of Mr. Burchan's daughter, Mrs.

Bob Hickman, which was held at the Ansley Christian Church Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Hickman was killed July 23, in a car accident. Her husband is a former Arcadia resident and a nephew of Noel Hogue, who still lives here.

Nancy Krilek's Holstein Named Top Dairy Animal at 1969 Fair

Dairy producers were the first to feel the pressure of the show in this week's 4-H livestock competition at the Valley County Fair. The dairy cattle were judged Monday afternoon, and when the competition ended a Holstein heifer that almost didn't go to the judging arena was the grand champion.

"I was almost afraid to take her into the ring," Nancy Krilek of Ord stated of her junior yearling that was judged best dairy animal at the fair. "She was so nervous before the judging—once she almost jumped over the wash rack."

In addition to being named grand champion, Miss Krilek's yearling was also named the best of her breed.

Overall reserve champion was another Holstein, this one grown and shown by Betty Nelson also of Ord.

Duane Kovarik broke the Holstein domination when he won senior showmanship honors (for youngsters 14 and over) with a Brown Swiss. He also had the top junior herd at the fair with two Brown Swiss cows and a calf.

Winning junior division showmanship honors (for youngsters 13 and under) was Sherry Hill of Arcadia. She won with a Brown Swiss.

In addition to Miss Krilek's Holstein, other breed champions were Kovarik's Brown Swiss, Susan Thompson, North Loup, Guernsey, Champion.

THE Ord Quiz*The Shortage of DoctorsBy Dr. Otis Miller
Guest Editorialist

The shortage of doctors, and especially of the general practitioner, is nationwide.

Yet there are 318,000 doctors among a national population of 200 million; that is an average of one doctor for every 640 persons. No other nation in the world enjoys anything near this ratio.

A total of 169,656 doctors are in full-time practice, 19,586 part-time, 28,105 government service, 17,726 full-time hospital staff, 10,452 full-time medical school faculty, 33,247 resident training (specialists training), 9,102 internship, 4,919 preventive medicine, and 2,653 administrative medicine. The remainder are retired or in some type of work other than private practice of medicine.

The problem is not that there are not enough graduating M.D.'s, but rather that there are too few in direct patient care. There are a lot of reasons for this shortage. A few are:

(1) Government grants and programs make it easier for doctors to do other work than to be private-practice physicians.

(2) Many doctors are fed up with the extra work that has been caused by so-called "free medical programs." This includes extra demands from patients filling out forms and meeting requirements for government programs. Many doctors are cutting down their load or taking early retirement.

(3) Our education system has failed to instill in many doctors the professional thrill of caring for patients.

(4) Our medical schools, in order to obtain more federal funds, have oriented their curriculums toward research and specialization.

(5) Our medical schools have discouraged students from becoming general practitioners because they have over-emphasized the science of medicine and under-emphasized the art of practicing medicine.

In this community we are fortunate in having several doctors, but many communities large and small feel this shortage of doctors. Many people have told me when they move to another community they cannot find a doctor because the doctors have all the patients they can care for, and cannot accept anymore.

In 1958, there were 102,000 general practitioners in the United States, but by 1964 the number had dwindled to 67,000. In 1950, of the medical school graduates, 50 percent chose general practice as compared to 18 percent in 1964.

What can be done to correct this condition? What can I do as a private citizen? As a doctor who has been trying to correct this condition in our own medical colleges through the Nebraska Chapter of General Practice, which I once served as president, I feel it will take the help of all the citizens of Nebraska.

We must write our state senator and demand that he and other senators insist that money allocated to the University of Nebraska Medical School be earmarked to establish a Department of General Practice. Also, the university clinic must be staffed by general practitioners to teach students that all patients must go to these clinics before being referred to specialists, as we do in private practice.

The student must be exposed to instructors who also practice private medicine (general practitioners as well as specialists). Most full-time men are hospital-oriented and don't understand office practice. Since 95 to 98 percent of the people are cared for by the general family doctor, the student needs more exposure to this type of practitioner.

We need to return to a three-month preceptor program (at present it is only one month), where the senior student is exposed to the regular practice of the family doctor. He will also be exposed more thoroughly to life in a rural community, and he may find that life is very good for his family in this type of environment.

The student also needs to learn the art of medicine, as well as the scientific side, and to learn that the science and art are compatible. By art, I mean he learns the feeling of personal devotion to his patients, who are his friends. He learns a feeling of closeness and obligation to the families he cares for and learns to know them as friends rather than a chart number.

As citizens we need to write our federal representatives and ask them to make sure funds being allocated to medical schools are used not only for "good clinical research" but also to aid in training more family doctors.

We must let our politicians know that we want our medical care at home with our family doctors, not in some far-away hospital or base clinic that has doctors interested only in our diseases and not us as persons.

Let's keep our medicine in the hands of the private-enterprise, home-town doctor. Don't let the government schemers make the 1970s the decade of the passing of family doctors.

The farm population of the United States was estimated at 10,873,000 persons in 1967 according to a report published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Commerce. That's down 30 percent from the 1960 total, with the decline averaging 5.2 percent per year from 1960 to 1967. As a result, the farm population accounted for only 5.5 percent of the total U.S. population in 1967, compared to 8.7 percent in 1960.

Knowing that all our readers didn't get to stop by our booth at the Farm and Home Show in conjunction with the Valley County Fair in Ord this week, I'd like to mention something here that was available at the booth and is available to anyone writing us or stopping by the booth.

Our main concern as a newspaper is keeping people aware of the world in which they live. Our ultimate hope is that the world will be better because of the knowledge of the people—bringing them both the GOOD and the BAD NEWS... reporting things as we find them, keeping the readers up-to-date on what is happening in local, state and national government.

Our editorial page is devoted to OUR OPINION. We try our best to give the general news the unbiased coverage we think it deserves. Our "Vox Pop" column is open to the readers. We ask that all letters BE SIGNED. If you wish, we will use a nom de plume—or pen name. It is our personal opinion that letters bear much more weight if they carry the actual name of the writer. We also must retain the liberty of editing any and all news or opinions that are carried in the paper, should they be of a libelous nature.

Getting back to where I tried to start, I wanted to say that we had available—and still do have—a little folder titled, "Don't send a man to Washington and then forget him. Write him now and then."

This folder contains the names and addresses of EVERY member of Congress and tells you in simple words how to write these people. It offers the proper form, address and salutation. We think this is as important a sheet of paper as we've handed out in many years. It's as up-to-date as it can be made. Until the fall elections in some states, there will be no changes.

Even though there are future changes, EVERYONE should know the name of their Senators and Representatives. Quite often—especially near election time—we get calls at the Quiz wanting to know the address of a Congressman. With this little folder in your desk drawer, you'll always have the address on hand.

We hope that any of our readers—or anyone else—that would like one of these folders—and didn't get one—will drop us a note. We'll pay the postage. Just tell us where to send it.

We don't expect any barrage of requests. But we DO want YOU to know that these folders are available—while they last—and will be sent upon request to anyone writing us.

We hope your letter writing won't end with this request. We hope you'll write your Congressman and express your views on the farm problem, the war in Vietnam, fight money and increasing inflation, and the dozens of other things facing our nation today.

Representatives in government do read mail. Write them and see!

When You And I Were Young

(Items from files of The Ord Quiz of Years Ago)

10 Years Ago

The Burwell Rodeo was in full swing with a solid procession of cars going up the highway to observe the event.

Perry Kuklisk, Elyria, was killed when the truck he was driving skidded and plunged over a 40-foot embankment. Services were also held for Leon Gokla of Elyria who slipped from the steering board of a truck and struck his head, injuring him fatally.

The engagement of Sharon Lee Osentowski of Elyria to Kenneth Manchester of Ord was announced.

30 Years Ago

The Valley County Board of Supervisors requested that there be no open season on pheasants because adverse weather and crop conditions had limited the number of birds. The pheasants were considered a real benefit to farmers because of the many grasshoppers they ate.

Alvin B. Lee, defeated candidate for Valley County attorney, filed on John P. Misko, the successful candidate, notice of his intention to appeal the case to the State Supreme Court.

40 Years Ago

A Garfield County farmer was arrested when more than $1,000 worth of "boozie" was found in his possession. He had a bar set up in his home and was doing a thriving business.

One little boy was shot in the arm as he and his brother played with a 30-30 rifle in the basement of their home, thinking it was not loaded. The injured youth was taken to the Ord hospital where a drain was put in the arm.

The Burwell Rodeo was over, and attendance records were the greatest in history.

A fund drive for the hospital was still short, and the time for selling stock so it could continue to function was drawing to a close.

Specialization Kick Has About Gone Full Cycle

I learned a long time ago to take weather and women for what they are, to do whatever I could to ease my pains, and to let the rest of the worrying look out for itself.

This rule don't always hold, Mister Editor, except for weather and women. You sure can't change any one of them.

The fellers were talking Saturday about how fast things are changing, and some of the talk got pretty close to worry. For instance, Vlad Babka said he had seen where demand fer corn cob pipes is more than supply, and there don't seem to be no way the pipe people can catch up.

There ain't no way to put a corn cob in one end of a machine run by a computer and get a finished pipe out the other end, Vlad allowed, 'cause corn cobs come in all odd sizes. He said 15 million corn cob pipes are turned out in this country, and most of the work is done by hand. The pipe makers are always behind on orders.

Vlad said he had to agree, 'cause he had seen where the government was looking into the problem. And when that happens, Francis went on, big worry is not the problem, but what new problems the government will come up with working on the old one.

Furthermore, Francis allowed, the government is trying to get folks to cut back on smoking, so it stands to reason they will want to keep the corn cob pipe business going. The same government that tells us smoking is killing us is showing us how to grow more tobacco to smoke.

Vlad said he had to agree, 'cause he had seen where the Labor Department and the Agriculture Department are working on training new corn cob pipe makers and on inventing corn cobs that always has the same size cob so they could put em in machines and put the newly-trained pipe makers out of work.

Ray Meese, who falls asleep if he tries to worry, said he wasn't as concerned about pipes as he was about everything getting so specialized. He said he had seen where medicine is getting so specialized that some doctors are having to specialize in general doctoring, 'cause folks can't run around trying to find doctors to treat all their different parts.

(Ode Miller wasn't present at our meeting, Mister Editor, but I know for a fact he'll confirm everything Ray said. In fact, Ode says the only thing wrong with this general doctoring business is there ain't enough doctors specializing in it. If there was, he claims he'd be able to get some sleep when Doc Martin goes on vacation.)

Not long ago, Ray allowed, a rancher and farmer was a general specialist too. He could do anything on the place, from helping the cow have her calf to putting a new engine in the tractor.

Now he has to call in an $8-an-hour specialist to fix leaking barn roof, and "Mr. Fixit" outfitts that do odd jobs are springing up all over the country.

The more things change, allowed Ray, the more they stay the same.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

Head Start Director's Appointment Illustrates Lack of Security Precautions

By Paul Scott

WASHINGTON

— The

security

practices of Secretary Robert

Finch in filling key posts at the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare are causing

the Nixon Administration.

Justice Department officials have alerted the White House that security investigations on more than a half dozen officials and consultants have been waived

by Finch, one of the most liberal members of the Nixon Cabinet.

In other instances controversial persons have been appointed to high-ranking HEW posts fore Finch asked the FBI to make initial security checks.

Most illustrative of these cases involves Assistant HEW Secretary James Farmer, founder of the Congress of Racial Equality.

Farmer is also a "parent" of the Students for a Democratic Society, the Communist-controlled militant student organization.

Farmer was installed in his present HEW position—one of the most strategic administrative posts in the agency—before any request was made for the FBI to conduct its regular security clearance investigation.

As the founder of CORE, Farmer sat beside Roy Innis, national director, and added his endorsement of a program for radically restructuring American society. Innis, who called Nixon's appointment of Farmer "the best thing he has ever done," told the meeting that Farmer would continue to be an adviser to CORE and would be consulted frequently.

In detailing his role in launching the Students for a Democratic Society, the FBI file shows Farmer was a member of the original board of directors. The file also contains a copy of a mimeographed plea-for-funds letter sent out on the letterhead of the League for Industrial Democracy in June, 1954, that lists James Farmer as the student representative.

Farmer became national director of CORE in 1961. In that position as a national black militant leader, he actively supported the Communist-led free speech movement, which touched off a riot at the University of California in 1964.

Farmer's appointment of Farmer to direct the Head Start program, where he is in a position to help form the minds of thousands of pre-school children, has caused some strong misgivings among conservative White House staff members.

While details of Farmer's authority over the program have never been spelled out publicly at federal employee.

The HEW also has been actively working to defeat President Nixon's antiballistic mi-

AND THE KING OF THE JUNGLE — S&H GREEN STAMPS WITH EVERY PURCHASE

Displaying some of the garments prepared by the local Presbyterian Women's Assn. are these members of the various church circles. Left to right are Mrs. Kenneth Bunnell, John Anderson, Ernest Hornier, Glen Berlin, Horace Travis, and Eldon Stoh. In addition to this table laden with clothing, the ladies also filled a small clothes rack with garments for older children.

Helping Needy Children

Presbyterian Women Keep Sewing Machines Hopping

Members of the local Presbyterian Women's Assn. recently completed a sewing project that would be the envy of any tailor.

The women prepared more than 200 children's garments for distribution to the needy in Asia and the Middle East. The sewing was completed over a "five or six-week period" with the ladies meeting at the church building each Wednesday. Some who couldn't meet regularly also took clothes home with them to work.

The project originated with an assignment given the local congregation by the national Presbyterian organization. It required the making of two laundry bags for distribution at Warren Wilson College in Swannanoa, N.C., plus four pairs of pajamas and two hospital gowns for use in the medical center at Silliman University, located at Dumaguete City in the Philippines.

All the garments are lightweight so that they are particularly suitable to warm-climate countries. Ladies who worked on the sewing project included not only members of the local Presbyterian Church, but some visitors as well.

Kusek Women Named To Lead Committees

The North Central Association for Retarded Children held their meeting July 21 at the Special Service School of Ord.

Mrs. Andy Kusek was appointed chairman of the program committee and Mrs. Henry Kusek was appointed chairman of the budget committee.

Ways to inform residents of the North Central Association area of the School for Retarded Children was discussed. Counties belonging to the North Central Association include Garfield, Greeley, Loup, Sherman, Howard and Valley.

Plans were made for entering a float at the Valley County Fair and for setting up a booth pertaining to the retarded.

The next meeting will be held at the Special Services School on August 18 at 8:30 p.m. Any interested persons are welcome to attend.

Paulsen's Plan Visit With NAYI Delegate

A guest of Neil Paulsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard D. Paulsen, on the weekend of August 8-10, will be Kevin E. Hall of Germantown, Maryland.

The pairing of Nebraska delegates with delegates from 46 other states and Puerto Rico to the National Agricultural Youth Institute (NAYI) has been announced by the University of Nebraska.

These pairings match the out-of-state delegates with Nebraska delegates and the host home they will visit. The purpose of the weekend visit is to give youth from other states an opportunity to observe Nebraska first-hand.

The NAYI program is designed to acquaint outstanding young men from all over the nation with opportunities in agriculture.

The Institute will get underway August 4 at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education on the NU East Campus with a session on "World Agriculture."

Two-Week Hospital Stay Ends for Mrs. Severson

By Bernice Cornell

Elizabeth Severson came Friday evening from Grand Island where she had been in the St. Francis Hospital for more than two weeks. Her son, Don, and wife brought her home. Another son's wife, Mrs. Gerald Severson, and Kyle of Portland, Ore., have been here the past week. They also saw Elizabeth while she was in the hospital. They will be here this week and will visit with Elizabeth some more. They are spending part of their time with Mrs. Severson's folks, the Raymond Poccoks.

Bruning Bound

Jorgenson left this morning (Thursday) on the bus to go to Bruning. There she will visit her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Collison.

Saturday (Aug. 2) will mark 50 years of wedded life for Mr. and Mrs. Collison, and they will celebrate Sunday. A sister-in-law, Mary Jorgenson, and several nieces of Mr. and Mrs. Collison from the Ord area will go to Bruning Sunday for the day.

Mena will stay with the Collisons for a week or more.

Granddaughter Weds

Mary Cetak attended the wedding of a granddaughter, Sheila Cetak, at the Presbyterian Church Saturday evening. The reception was in the lower level of the Veterans Club. Sheila is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cetak.

Visits Minnesota Friends

Mary Jorgenson arrived home Sunday evening, after spending the past week in Papillion with her children. Her son, Harlan, and family brought her home and stayed overnight, returning to Papillion Monday. While away Mary went on a trip with her son and family to Minnesota. While in that state she visited with Mr. and Mrs. Nels Jensen of Windom, Minn., and with Mrs. Carrie Abrahamson of Askov, Minn. The group also enjoyed an outing at White Bear Lake. While her son and family were sightseeing at Bemidji National Park, Mary went to Boone, Iowa, and spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Flynn. She also got to see Kennedy Park while in Iowa. While the Harlan Jorgensens were in Ord, they and two of their children called Monday on his aunt — Mena Jorgenson.

Rev. Clarence Campbell called July 23 at Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hackett's and Elsie Rathbun's.

Marguerite West went July 22 to the 4-H activities at the high school gym. Her granddaughter, Candi Erikson, was one of the 4-Hers participating.

Mrs. Don Wright and Chad were Thursday dinner guests of Juanita Christian.

Bernice Cornell called Thursday afternoon on Josie Benson, Bessie Timmerman, and Susan Kelley at the Ord Rest Home and on Stellie Knebel at the Zabloudil home. Bernice spent Friday afternoon with Mrs. Wilma Jorgenson.

Mena Jorgenson and Eva Robertsen attended the golden wedding anniversary celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Carl Oliver Sunday afternoon at the Presbyterian Church dining hall. Eva helped serve refreshments, and afterwards she and Mena called on Mrs. Anna Holmes.

Bernice Cornell called Sunday afternoon on Mrs. Katie Palmer in the long-term hospital wing. She remained for the religious service conducted by Pastor Duane Davis of the North Loup Seventh Day Baptist Church.

George Gay visited Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hackett.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Janulewicz were at Loup City Sunday to attend a reunion of Frank's relatives. A large crowd was present.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morrow of Scotia called Saturday on their mother, Lucy McCune.

Juanita Christian had a telephone call the past week from her daughter Natalie (Mrs. Victor Levine) of St. Louis, Mo. Juanita especially enjoyed the talk with grandchildren Teddy and Nicoll.

Mildred Anderson attended the Sheila Cetak - Jim Ramsey wedding Saturday evening with Mrs. Ray Melia. They also attended the reception at the Veterans Club.

Emma Zabloudil's daughters and grandchildren, Mrs. Willard Knutson and Jeffrey of Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. Glen Humphrey and Robyn of Renton, Wash., left Monday afternoon for Lincoln after spending the past week here. Mr. and Mrs. Don Zabloudil of Lincoln came Saturday evening to be with his mother and sisters over the weekend. Another son of Emma's, Dennis Zabloudil of Hastings, was with the group. The Washington folks will take a plane from Lincoln to their home state.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Boumont and Michael of Broken Bow were at Emma's Saturday to be with her and their children.

Mrs. Anton Welniaek and Gertrude Knebel spent Monday with their sister, Elizabeth Severson.

DO yourself a flavor.

Buy 2 bottles of Shurfine Catsup.

We're not trying to sell twice as much Shurfine Catsup, we're just trying to save you an extra trip to the store. You'll see what we mean when you put the first bottle on the table... it goes fast. It doesn't pour fast. Shurfine Catsup never won any catsup races either. But people like it. They like the flavor that comes from big, ripe tomatoes cooked to a just-right consistency and seasoned with a whole lot of good things.

So do yourself, and your family, a flavor... get some Shurfine Tomato Catsup. Shurfine, for goodness sake.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benda returned to Ord early Sunday morning from their vacation spent in the Black Hills and Yellowstone Park. Vacationing with them were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Dilugos of Omaha.

Principal Leaks Word On Dress Requirements

Students planning their back-to-school wardrobes have been given the green light to go ahead and make purchases.

Dress and grooming standards for the coming year were presented to the Ord Board of Education at its Monday night meeting, and the members gave their okay to incorporate the changes into the school's student handbook.

The new standards were worked out by Bob Norton, principal of Ord High School, following a recent meeting of approximately 15 faculty members and parents.

Specifically, this is what the new regulations say:

"Makeup, hair style, and general appearance should be such that pupils may be considered to be moderately and modestly groomed. Boys may wear sideburns providing they are well-trimmed and do not extend below the middle of the ear.

"Students shall wear leather or canvas shoes with hose or socks. Students will not be allowed to wear thongs.

"Girls are to wear garments that reasonably reflect current informal, business styles. Culottes may be worn if they are of reasonable length and look like a skirt. Pant dresses, shorts, jeans, and slacks of any kind are not acceptable. As in the case of boys, extreme clothing styles are considered inappropriate. A student reflects his/her good judgment and taste in the clothes he/she selects for style, long trousers with shirts or sport shirts having quarter-half or full-length sleeves. Shirt tails are to be tucked in except for square-cut bottom sport shirts. Trousers which are too tight are unacceptable, as are trousers that do not reach the ankle. Trousers worn low on hips, and shirts unbuttoned are not permissible. Sloppy sweatshirts or those turned inside out are not allowed. All kinds of make-shift, cut-off, or obviously altered clothing are not acceptable for school wear.

No specific skirt lengths were suggested. Norton said that five inches above the knee on one girl might be acceptable, whereas on another it would not because of differences in height and physical characteristics.

The principal emphasized that students would be expected to exercise good judgment, and only when they did not would the administration step in. The new wording reads:

"For the past several years Ord Junior-Senior High School has maintained a policy for tasteful and stylish attire for pupils. This statement is intended as a general guide for pupils and parents at the opening of a new school year. It merely reaffirms the policies which have been in effect the past several years at Ord Junior Senior High School and does not indicate a change in the attitude that school is in a business of the pupil.

"What Is That?"

The judges in last week's cookout contest held at the Valley County Fair definitely had hold of something they didn't particularly care to. It may have been from the witch's brew Spud Kaputka was concocting, or it could have been a piece of goat meat Buck Cetak cooked. The frowning judges are, left to right, Jan Papiernik, Elaine Ross, and Carol Leggett.

No Charges Filed In Loup City Death Of 16-Year-Old Boy

A 16-year-old boy from Loup City was shot and killed Monday night when Sheriff V. J. Kaminski's gun accidentally discharged during a struggle.

Sherman County Attorney William Line identified the boy as Timmy Brooks, son of Mrs. Edna Brooks. He died with a bullet wound in the back of his head. Young Brooks was residing at the Harry Knecht home where he had been assigned to live under court supervision.

Authorities had been alerted to the lookout for a stolen car and were called to the Knecht home because of the presence of a suspicious car.

The sheriff and two other officers went to the Knecht house and found the victim and another youth, Clarence DeBacker, 18, reportedly from Fremont, in the stolen car.

The officers reportedly called to the boys, telling them they were under arrest. When the boys jumped from the car and ran, the sheriff apparently tried to strike Brooks with his gun and it discharged.

The county attorney said the action was in the line of duty since the victim did not respond to an official order to submit to arrest. No charges had been filed as of Wednesday morning.

Chamber Meets Today

Members of the Ord Chamber of Commerce are reminded of the monthly noon luncheon and meeting at the Elk's Club, Thursday (today).

Mrs. Lois Cetak will welcome members and guests at the 12 o'clock luncheon and through a monthly newsletter. Florence Janda, Chamber secretary, suggests that members arrange for employees to take care of their businesses until the "bosses" return should this meeting last longer than an hour.

Edgar Roe Wins Nebraskaland Vacation, Grand Prize of 1969 Farm and Home Show

"I've never won anything in my life," were the words of an excited North Loup pastor July 30 as his name was pulled as the grand prize winner in the Farm and Home Show drawing.

However, because of conflicting dates with the Seventh Day Baptist general conference in New York, Rev. Duane Davis forfeited his prize—a Nebraska vacation for four at Fort Robinson Aug. 17-23—and asked that a new winner be selected.

Complying with the pastor's request, Don Walker, chairman of the Farm and Home Show, reached again into the barrel of entries and drew out the name of Edgar Roe, Ord, as the new grand prize winner. By another drawing, Emma Pokornay of Ord was named the alternate winner in case Roe too is unable to make the trip.

Other winners in the 1969 Farm and Home Show drawing were as follows: Ord Grain Co.; Ray Christensen, Ord (102 pound shot); Servi Soft; Mrs. Minnie Thomsen, Ord (outdoor grill); Modular Building System; Mrs. George Valasek, Rt. 2, Ord (humidifier); K-T Appliance; Carol Worm, Ord (furnace humidifier); Elyria Farm Fertilizer; Mary Placke, North Loup (Corning Ware set); Walt Smith Insurance Agency; Gerald Schnitt, Ord (metal cot and chair); Kougal and Barstow Lumber Co.; Betty Jo Axthelm, Ord (bookshelf); Walker Drug (Golden Marlin); 25 pounds of Golden Marlin to Ron Williams, North Loup; 5 pounds to Carl Young, Ord; and 1 pound to Mrs. Boyd Bundy, Ord; Mrs. Will Hansen, Ord, and Art Rux, Ord; Scheider Contracting; Tom Osentow-

'Tour Dump Site, Council Suggests

A "guided tour" has been arranged for any citizens wishing to look over the proposed site of the new city dump.

Members of the Ord City Council decided at their Monday night meeting to conduct a tour and orientation for any citizens wanting to view the site and learn more about the land fill method of disposal.

Persons wishing to check the site out should be present at the City Hall Friday at 5:30 p.m. The councilmen will depart from there to visit the site.

A hearing is scheduled Monday in the Valley County Courthouse when the wishes of the citizenry may be aired in regard to the proposed site. It will begin at 10 a.m.

Special invitees for Friday's trip are members of the Ord Board of Education. Some board members and school officials have expressed concern about locating the dump in the same general vicinity as Ord's new grade school.

Officials of the State Dept. of Health, who condemned the present dump site near the North Loup River, have already approved the proposed location. They will also be on hand Friday to show films of the land fill method to anyone interested.

The councilmen pointed out that only burning which would be done at the new site would be trees and similar material. Garbage would be covered with dirt.

They also pointed out that a caretaker would be on duty at all times and that regular hours would be kept.

It was also revealed at the meeting that an alternate site has been offered the city. It is located on the Dave VanNordheim property west of town, just off the Sargent highway. VanNordheim offered the city his canyon for $400 per year.

Perfect form for this young cowboy, you say? Wrong—it's perfect form for this young cowGIRL. Renae Gross of Ord was the only one of six female contestants to ride her calf in last week's Junior Rodeo held in conjunction with the Valley County Fair. For more rodeo pictures turn to Pages 6 and 7.

Marvin Belgram was assisted by his daughter Yvette in drawing a prize winner, Wednesday evening. Also pictured is Don Walker, chairman of the 1969 Farm and Home Show.

Carol's Corner*by Carol Leggett

A year to remember... Christy and Randy, children of the Don Benbons' will undoubtedly remember the 1969 Valley County Fair for years to come as a time of much teasing and jovial conversation concerning their reverse play in purple ribbon winnings.

Christy, age 14, exhibited hogs at the fair and received a prize for reserve champion market hog. Meanwhile, Randy age 12, was interested in the outcome in the baking division, only to learn that the One Egg Cake he had entered won a purple ribbon entitling him to continue in State Fair competition.

Who's confused?

Summertime, and the livin' is easy... or it can be made easier with this quick dessert, a favorite from Jean Smith.

Only four ingredients are needed:

1 can apricot pie filling
1 large container Cool Whip
1/2 c. chopped pecans
1/2 c. miniature marshmallows

Mix ingredients together well and chill.

This is a recipe of varied experiments. Why not try using cherry or lemon pie filling instead, and walnuts or almonds in place of the pecans.

For a tasty salad simply reduce the amount of Cool Whip and add mayonnaise—complete by serving on a lettuce leaf. A truly "fun" recipe.

Ladine VanZandt offered this fitting poem reprinted from a newspaper dating back to the flapper '20s. Appropriately titled... "Legs."

Legs to the right of us.
Legs to the left of us.
Legs in the front of us;
How they display them!
On they go trippingly,
Dainty and skippingly;
Frosts that bit nippingly;
Does not dismay them.
Straight legs and bandy ones.

Bum legs and dandy ones;
Awkward and handy ones,
Flirt with the breezes.
Round legs and fatter ones;
Especially the latter ones,
Showing the kneeses.
Knock-kneed and bony ones,
Real legs and phoney ones;
Silk covered tony ones,
Second to none.

Straight and distorted ones,
Mated and assort'd ones;
Ain't we got fun?
(Bet you thought it was currently written.)

Talent Show Honors Spread Around Valley

A talent contest staged July 30 as a grandstand attraction served as the climax to the 1969 Valley County fair.

Eighteen entries—individuals and groups—took turns presenting their talent in song and pantomime, competing for prizes in the junior, high school, and young adult divisions. Dick Peterson served as master of ceremonies for the evening.

When the competition ended, contestants from scattered points of the Loup Valley had a share of the spoils.

Named as first-place winners in the youngest division were a group of 10 young misses who presented a humorous fashion parade portraying what the average housewife might wear from the time her husband leaves for work in the morning until his return at night. The models were members of the Clever Cuties 4-H Club—Ann Zlomek, Janice Rico, Shanon Grove, Cathy Hyde, Carrie Kerchel, Laurie Campbell, Carol Decker, and Sue Severson—plus, a couple of "ringers." Jeanne Hyde and Sheri Grove, Danette Nolte, also member of the club, was runner-up.

Second prize in the junior division went to 8-year-old Brenda Abel of North Loup for her vocal solo.

Third-place winner was the Kings of Clover 4-H Club, which had been selected a week earlier to represent Valley County at the State Fair in Lincoln next month.

Taking first place in the high school division was Phyllis Babcock of North Loup with her vocal solo. The Clovers 4-H Club, a singing group, won the second prize and the western dressed Dugan Sisters of Greeley, who sang a duet, were third.

Last but not least on the program was the one entry in the young adult division, Dee Meese and Jim Ochsner held the attention of the audience with their performance taken from portions of the Broadway musical

A song by Brenda Abel won her the second prize in the junior division of the Talent Show. Later, Dee Meese and Jim Ochsner entertained the grandstand audience with a scene from the Broadway production "Carousel." Pam Huribert, 1969 Valley County Fair Queen reigned during the three-day fair events and was a special guest at the Wednesday evening program.

July 31, 1911, to Mary Klanecky in Ord. She died earlier.

Survivors are a daughter, Alma, and a son, Frank, both of Omaha; one brother, James of Lincoln; two sisters, Mary Fuxa and Anna Lincoln, both of Ord; and three grandchildren.

Former Local Man Succumbs in Omaha

Frank Rybin, 86, a long-time resident of Valley County before moving to Omaha in 1951, died July 29 after a short illness.

Funeral services were held at the Kremer Funeral Home in Omaha, with Rev. Kay Brown officiating. Interment was in Mount Hope Cemetery at Omaha.

Mr. Rybin was a patient in the Methodist Hospital at Omaha when he died.

Born April 17, 1883, Mr. Rybin was the son of John and Anna Horolek Rybin. He was married

Coaches Requesting

American Legion baseball players have been asked to turn in their uniforms as quickly as possible to their managers.

Dr. William Gogan, who directed the midgets during the past season, will accept uniforms from that group while Dr. Otis Miller will accept them from the juniors. He requested that all uniforms be washed.

MVP Winners Post Impressive Marks

Final statistics released this week show why Bill Miller and Scott Patrick won Most Valuable Player awards during the past American Legion baseball season.

Miller hit .478 for the season and had a .30 pitching record with the Ord juniors. In 73 times to the plate, he struck out on just nine occasions.

Patrick batted .296 to lead a weak-hitting midget team which averaged only .213 for the season. He also posted a 6.0 pitching record, getting the decision in all but four of his team's games.

The two players received MVP awards for the season at the Central District 6 tournament in Broken Bow.

Howard Baseball League, Merrill Mason, was sure of only one thing Wednesday morning—his Ord team is definitely in the playoffs.

Communications from around the league were not in keeping with the space age this week, and the results of several games scheduled earlier had not been reported as of Wednesday morning.

However, the Ord team definitely has won its berth in the four-team playoffs. The local nine clinched one of the greatest comebacks in league history by sweeping weekend games with Scotia and Gibbon. That gave the Mustangs a final regular-season mark of 10 wins and 6 losses. The two victories gave them 10 successes in their last 12 outings, as they had opened the season with four straight defeats.

Elsewhere, Wood River and Cairo were also assured of playoff berths, but confusion reigned as to whether the fourth spot would go to Scotia or Boeuf. Scotia began the weekend in third place, but after losing a bizarre game to Ord it also fell to Boeuf.

Scotia was scheduled to play Wolbach Monday in its final contest, and that was one of the games which still wasn't reported Wednesday. Boeuf also has a makeup with Wolbach remaining.

If both contenders win, they will have to meet in a playoff

Ord Claims Third, Gets Playoff Spot

themselves to decide who gets to go on.

The secretary of the Sherman Howard Baseball League, Merrill Mason, was sure of only one thing Wednesday morning—his Ord team is definitely in the playoffs.

Communications from around the league were not in keeping with the space age this week, and the results of several games scheduled earlier had not been reported as of Wednesday morning.

However, the Ord team definitely has won its berth in the four-team playoffs. The local nine clinched one of the greatest comebacks in league history by sweeping weekend games with Scotia and Gibbon. Scotia was scheduled to play Wolbach Monday in its final contest, and that was one of the games which still wasn't reported Wednesday. Boeuf also has a makeup with Wolbach remaining.

If both contenders win, they will have to meet in a playoff

Throughout the game Lukesh had teased the Scotia batters as he gave up 11 hits and stranded 12 runners. Only in one inning—the fifth—did Scotia fail to get a man on. But Lukesh always had what he needed—until the eighth when an error by Watson gave him away. Even then it also took three singles for the losers to score.

Their run in the ninth was not tainted, however, as Larry Lewis and Lammers slammed back-to-back doubles.

For the game Scotia out-hit Ord, 11-5.

Against Gibbon it was no contest. The Ord batters picked on everything a trio of opposing pitchers threw and raced to a 15-1 triumph.

Pota had three hits and went the distance on the mound, giving up seven hits.

The 15 hits represented Ord's most prolific output of the year.

Parkview Village Plums*Mrs. Keller's Kin Have Close Call in Missouri Gas Explosion

By Berenice Cornell

Sophie Keller has a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Peiers, who live at Nod, Mo., where a derailed car of gas exploded early Sunday morning. Sophie's sister at Pierce City, Mo., telephoned her Sunday afternoon saying the daughter and son-in-law were safe—but with all the windows blown from their home. A granddaughter of Sophie's—the former Kathryn Keller—had just recently moved three miles out of town from a house that was completely demolished. Very likely her family of four would have been killed if they had still been there.

Tena Swanson Feted

Parkview's recreation center was the scene of pleasant gathering Saturday and Sunday when a Swanson family reunion was held in honor of Tena Swanson's 85th birthday, which occurred Tuesday. Also celebrating with her was a grandson, David Cowell of Sterling, Colo., who was 22 Saturday and a great-grandson, Todd Swanson of Grand Island, who was 1 year old Saturday.

The birthday cake—in the shape of a large open book with red roses decorating the corners, was brought from Sterling by Tena's daughter, Dossie Cowell. A guest book for the 85-year-old honoree was signed by 85 guests. Those included all of Tena's eight children, 24 of her 31 grandchildren, and 27 of her 35 great-grandchildren. A little miss from Iowa, who is her great-grandmother's namesake, was present for the honoree to see for the first time.

Tena's children are Mrs. Earl (Dorothy) Nelson of Ord; Mrs. William (Ella) Schow of Paxton; Merrill Swanson of Mead; Elvin Swanson of Grand Island; Lowell Swanson of Mount Vernon, Ia.; Mrs. Marvin (Dessie) Cowell of Sterling, Colo.; Mrs. Leonard (Ruby) Schwartz of Golden, Colo.; and Mrs. Hildma Mauz of Melfort, Manitoba, Canada. The Canada folks arrived Friday and stayed until Tuesday. The others left Sunday, some of them going home and the remainder to Mead and Grand Island before continuing on home Monday.

Lanell Schwartz of Golden, Colo., a granddaughter of Tena's who has visited previously at Parkview with her grandmother, Mrs. Anna Lindell of Parkview Plaza at Burwell, was a visitor Sunday of the George Polino-kis, Mrs. Lindell and Mrs. Polino-kis also called on Marguerite West.

other gospels—e.g., Mark 16:15, Luke 24:47 and John 20:21 give the same command as Matthew 28:19 does. Mrs. Wright said she felt the call to do missionary work when she was 12 years old and somehow felt Japan the field. Although Japan is very progressive and modern, the Wrights said they have found from their studies that most of the people worship idols and do not know peace. Mrs. Wright has prepared herself as a registered nurse and a teacher of nursing. She and her husband feel that God brought them together to serve his plans.

Ackles Kin Killed

The boy that was killed in a tractor accident last week in 30 miles north of Burwell was the son of Charles Ackles' cousin (Mrs. Ackles is Parkview's executive director). The boy and his family lived at David City. He was with Charles' uncle at the time.

Personals

Emma Zatloboda had a sister-in-law, Mrs. Doris Dobrov of Martin, S. D., visit her Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Peterson of Arcadia were with Else Rathbun Sunday for supper with Eva Robertson joining them. During the evening the four attended a showing of the "Billy Graham One's,"

Stella Kerr had Sunday supper with Berenice Cornell, and Bertha Knudson called later at Berenice's. The three also saw "The Restless Ones."

Mary Cetak spent Sunday with Mrs. Joe Rohla, Georgene and Brian Cetak, grandchildren of both the ladies, were also there.

Mrs. Anna Lindell of Parkview Plaza at Burwell was a visitor Sunday of the George Polino-kis, Mrs. Lindell and Mrs. Polino-kis also called on Marguerite West.

Eva Robertson and Juanita Christian were in Grand Island Tuesday. While there they visited with a friend, Mrs. Bertha Alexander, and on their way home they called on Mrs. Adolph Kokes near North Loup.

Thursday Elizabeth Severson had her three grandchildren—Kyle Severson of Portland, Ore., and Richard and Susan Severson—with her Thursday. Kyle stayed overnight. That evening Elizabeth was taken to the Elks Club for a family dinner. Getting together were Mrs. Gerald Severson and Kyle, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Severson, Richard and Susan. Mrs. Gerald Severson and Kyle went to Omaha Saturday and flew on to Portland Monday after two weeks here.

Berenice Cornell went to North Loup Wednesday by bus. While there she visited with Mrs. Lloyd Johnson, Mrs. Cal Bresley, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Drawbridge. Berenice also had supper with the Wrights.

The Merle Fairfields of Mason City were with their mother, Lucy McCune, during the evening Friday. They stayed overnight and left Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Fairfield and son Robert have just returned from a trip to California.

Arcadia Activities*Many Return for Lybarger Funeral

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Drake of Lincoln, Keith Drake of Grand Island and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Meyers and family of Centralia, Mo., were weekend guests at the home of their mother, Mrs. Ethel Drake, and Mrs. Rachel Platt and Herman. Mrs. Rachel Platt, who had spent the past week in Cairo with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fowler, returned home on Saturday, coming with the Dale Drakes. Mrs. Harold Miller was a Sunday morning visitor in the Drake home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hagood and family of Cheyenne, Wyo., came Sunday to visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hagood until next Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dalbert Baier, Mary Jane and Karl were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Lottie Boller.

Susie Cook was a Sunday dinner guest at the Dale Hurlburt home. Melvin Richardson of the Bethel Baptist Church and wife JoAnn were with 12 of us. They gave testimonies telling how God has directed them to the mission field in Japan, where they plan to be by November. Matthew 28:16-20 was read with reference to the mission command. Scriptures in the Scripture were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Murray and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Anderson, Barbara Lee, Joan Zink, Myra Rhodes and Mrs. Peggy Werner. Mrs. Bruce Severson and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Barr, North Loup; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Barr, Ravenhill, Mrs. Curt Gudmundsen, Mrs. Leo Thompson and Verle Fox, Ord; Dr. and Mrs. Leo Perion, Fremont; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bishop, Dannebrog; W. L. Thompson, Loup City; Michael Crist, Kearney; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barth, Ord; and Mr. and Mrs. Joe McDonald, Ansley.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo Pemberton and Mrs. Ruby Winslow of Wheatland, Colo., left for their homes Tuesday after visiting with Alfred and Edith Main, and helping prepare for the Main funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Fincher, Jerry Kay and Bruce of Lincoln were Thursday afternoon callers at the Claude Zentz home. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Zentz and Calvin of Ansley were visitors in the Zentz home Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Darr Evans spent Friday in Kearney at the Chuck Evans home helping their grandson Mike celebrate his eighth birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Nehls and family were Sunday dinner guests of Lillian Nehls.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Eberspacher of Milford, brought his mother, Mrs. Annie Eberspacher of Seward to the home of her sister, Mrs. Vere Lutz, on Friday, where she will visit for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Roseberry and daughter, Desiree of Papillion spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Porter.

Mrs. Verna Whitman is spending several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Merle Moody.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe McDonald of Ansley were Saturday afternoon visitors of Joe's grandmother, Mrs. Sadie Boller.

Zoning Law Needed Now

An injunction has been filed in district court to prevent the Ord Livestock Market from constructing additional hog pens because of "noxious odors and disagreeable noises" emanating from the market. At the other side of town a number of citizens are openly disturbed that a second auto body shop is being constructed in their residential neighborhood.

These are just the latest cases illustrating the need for an adequate zoning law in Ord.

Background work was begun for such a zoning ordinance several years ago. Individuals were hired to survey the city and determine the locations of various types of structures, and to compile other necessary data.

More than a year ago that report was delivered to the Ord City Council by Kerry Leggett, a member of the Zoning Committee. He stated at the time that the only thing left was for someone to sit down and actually decide which areas would be zoned for what purposes. The council accepted his report.

Then at the City Council meeting held last Dec. 2, Dr. Glen Auble appeared, and said a comprehensive plan would be required before a zoning ordinance could be passed. He volunteered and was given the job, at $250 a month or a total of $750 if it took longer than three months, of updating the report submitted earlier by the Zoning Committee. Dr. Auble said Wednesday he is still working on it, and that he had been held up by his work on the Game Commission project.

In the July issue of The Nebraska Municipal Review, which is the official organ of the League of Nebraska Municipalities, it is pointed out that a city council may not delegate its legislative powers to others. "This general rule of law is especially compelling when a zoning ordinance is involved," it says.

To prove the point, the authors cite a case which was heard recently by the Supreme Court of Delaware. The court concluded that even allowing the residents of an area to vote on their own zoning provisions is an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power.

It is clear by this ruling that the Ord City Council, and only the City Council, may pass any zoning ordinance. Advice may be requested, of course, but the Council must accept final responsibility for any zoning decisions.

At least four years have passed since work was begun on a zoning ordinance, and members of the present City Council can truthfully say that they inherited the problem from their predecessors.

Nevertheless, it is time that they attacked it head-on and gave some sort of direction to the meandering way in which the city is developing. Partly because no zoning law exists, the city has pretty much hemmed itself in on three sides as far as residential expansion is concerned. If the proposed primary site for the new city dump is approved, the fourth side will not be very desirable either.

Obviously a zoning regulation is needed now.

The Valley County Fair: Looking Up

The county fair—that unique symbol of rural America—is alive and flourishing in Valley County.

Thanks to a growing number of this community's citizens, the 1969 Fair was unreel last week in splendid fashion. It showed great improvement over the 1968 edition.

The difference was not so much that the hard core of Fair boosters worked any harder than a year ago, but rather that a much larger segment of the community got involved. The result was a Fair for which those responsible can be justly proud.

Most obvious of the many improvements was the parade. The 25 bonafide "floats" were a far cry from the half dozen or so entered in 1968. The Ord Jaycees and chairman Duane Wolf in particular deserve a big pat on the back for their work in putting the parade together.

It was particularly gratifying to see the Ord Chamber of Commerce switch from a passive to an active Fair booster. By holding its Farm and Home Show in conjunction with the Fair, it provided another welcome shot in the arm. Should the Chamber decide in future years to hold the Farm and Home Show at another time or place, we hope it will come up with some appropriate substitute to boost the Fair along.

Crowning the queen on the first day and giving her a more active hand in the proceedings was also a definite change for the better. It made the queen title truly an honor.

Finally, the heart of the Fair was again the many 4-H exhibits and livestock showings. The youngsters, their parent club leaders, and County Agent John Schade who supervises this portion of the proceedings deserve recognition too.

Naturally there is room for improvement. The talent show, for example, still has a lot of rough edges that need smoothing out—and that includes more than just getting rid of the mosquitoes. But that can wait till 1970.

In the meantime the "good old days" of Valley County Fairs that featured some of the nation's top auto drivers speeding around one of the finest tracks in the Midwest may not be back, but things are definitely on the upswing. And if E. J. Lange and other members of the Fair Board can get even more organizations and individuals to pitch in next year, who knows what they might come up with?

New Farm Program

It has come to light that an ad hoc committee not connected with government has decided to make a study of the farm program and to come up with recommendations for the Dept. of Agriculture. The department has not endorsed the program, but the committee has circulated a booklet backing up its recommendations.

The group's primary recommendation is an easement approach where half the land on which cropping rights are acquired would be available for beef production.

Under this plan the federal government would purchase crop - limiting easements on enough land so that prices of major agricultural commodities would approximate present levels in a free-market situation. The rights would be purchased for a period of 20 years.

Half the excess crop land in the easement study was 73,551,000 acres, with half this being used in an expanded beef production program and the other half idled or directed toward timber production.

According to the group's estimates, beef production by 1975 would increase 9.6 billion pounds over the 1968 level. The committee further estimates that beef consumption would rise by 1975 to 144 pounds per capita, from 109.7 pounds in 1967. It projects that pork and lamb consumption would decrease.

Additional projections are for wheat prices to be at $1.25 per bushel by 1975 and corn at $1.05.

Projected prices of beef and veal are 19 cents per pound.

For the United States as a whole, the committee estimates that net revenue from major crop land would amount to $16.10 per acre while net revenue from beef on crop land would amount to only $5.67 per acre.

Accordingly, the easement payment would be the difference between the two, or $10.43 per acre.

All production payments on corn and wheat would be stopped according to these proposals.

These recommendations are far out and would do great damage to the nation's cattle industry, as they would increase beef production considerably under a government subsidized program in competition with a private enterprise. This also reduces the net revenue per acre, but the difference would be made up with an easement payment. This is not logical.

After carefully studying this proposal, I am not in agreement with it.

Again I want to emphasize that the Dept. of Agriculture has not adopted or approved these recommendations.

They Get Hungry Too

NISSWA, Minn.—This state's serene lake land is a perfect spot for anyone who cares to study any place of nature. How placid and lovely it is here, even with civilization nipping noisily at the resort region.

I can't imagine how the Indians ever let themselves be traded out of this beautiful territory.

The land is thick with trees and shrubs. But these are not THE trees: visualize trees 200 feet tall soaring over all this other growth. Those huge trees were all logged off long ago, but what a majestic appearance these shores must have had in those early days.

Even yet, there's lots to observe. If you have the eyes of a hunter, like Vernie Andersen, you'll spy a mother deer and her spotted young fawn drinking at the lake's edge.

If you watch and listen you'll see our loons, Minnesota's justly famous state bird with its very cry that pierces warningly if an outboard cuts too close to Mama Loon, Papa Loon, and Baby Loon.

Usually there is only one young with the parents. Infrequently there are two babies, who are well tended, believe me. The parents will splash and flop away to decoy troublemakers who threaten their young.

Loons are beautiful black and white birds, two or three feet tall, strongly marked, rather duck-shaped.

Every year we watch a mallard family grow up, and this year is no exception. There are generally seven to eleven in a brood, but their mama is such fool the turtles nab a few. While Mama leads the procession of babies, a turtle will grab the tail-end. Evidently Mama can't count.

This year Clara Gelow from Grand Island has been raising some white ducks. They have been hand fed until they seem almost as large as geese.

And the mallards and the ducks coast around together . . . the mallards much smaller. But all of them look invitingly fat, and it's getting that time of year!

There is other interesting wildlife here, including a clever raccoon. His trained paws can remove the lids from garbage cans to get at the contents, says Howard Huff.

Sharp red squirrels abound, and they have learned to suspend themselves in unlikely positions so as to suck the syrup from the hummingbird feeders. Yes, we have hosts of hummingbirds.

Rarely do we see a gray squirrel, but we have many tiny scampering chipmunks which I enjoy — even though they get almost too tame. They hop out from under the house whenever they hear the back screen door slam.

Sometimes the chipmunks bravely scale the screen door and peek in, to see what's holding up dinner.

Just like you and I do!

VOX POP

Dear Sir:

It is an affront to the intelligence and decency of the American citizen to be given such contradictory statements concerning Senator Edward Kennedy's involvement in the death of Miss Kopeckine and to be expected to be content with so many unexplained events surrounding the case.

It is against the tradition of this United States of America to confer such preferred treatment upon men of wealth and fame. If Senator Kennedy is allowed to escape so easily from what is clearly a case of criminal negligence — at the least—surely the faith in this country as the "land of freedom and justice for all" will be badly shaken.

It is a sad commentary on the Democratic Party that a man so obviously lacking in character and presence of mind should be allowed to take over the leadership of that party.

KERRY ON

By Kerry

— true to self —

Although I have only the faintest recollection of it, my dear old Aunt Nettie Burke would let nary a day go by without listening to a man named H. V. Kaltenborn.

About all I can remember is that children were to be seen and not heard when that man's voice came over the radio.

There were times that I thought it was God the family was trying to get tuned in . . . but then I'd hear that familiar voice and that was usual opening duty that he was noted for, and I knew that it was time for me to disappear for a brief period.

Anyway, for the younger generation who don't remember him, Kaltenborn was a veteran news analyst and much respected by most of the nation including our family. Recently I ran across a short article by the famous newsmen,

He chose, as his Words To Live By, those monumental lines by William Shakespeare:

"This above all; to thine own self be true,
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou cannot then be false to any man."

Wrote Kaltenborn, "For more than fifty years as reporter, editor and audio commentator, I have tried to live up to this bit of good counsel with which Polonus set Laertes on his way."

"Every man sets himself a certain standard; the hard thing is to live up to it. In my line of that of analyzing and interpreting the news of the day for millions of readers and listeners, the temp-

The Guvernent Is Like Some People; It Pays Whoever Makes the Most Noise

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ed Hulinsky announced Saturday night that he won't be surprised when scientists figure a way to turn off gravity. Before the fellers got the idea that the summer sun parboiled Ed's brain, he went on to explain what he had in mind.

Ever once in a while, Ed allowed, a new bunch comes along and tries to change all of man's and nature's laws around. That goes from court rulings which find the victim guilty of having his head in the way of the club to the laws of economics. And when a new administration gets to Washington, it brings along a new batch of laws to rework government and to fit every occasion.

But Ed said he was especially concerned about economic laws.

Ever time one of them college professors gets a government job he works out his own set of economics, Ed said. He's of the mind, Mister Editor, that all the changes do is get everything stirred up good and proper for the next administration.

Ed, who backed the Democrats through the New Deal, the New Frontier and even some Great Society, allowed he was waiting for President Nixon to start whipping the country back in shape. But so far all he can see is Mr. Nixon dodging every new problem and passing new laws that give us more old problems.

For instance, Ed said he had seen where Nixon was getting ready to unwrap his new welfare and farming programs. So far all that has been unwrapped are speeches about what terrible shape the Democrats left everything in.

Finally, Mister Editor, Joe Krumm got the floor and demanded equal time.

He started off by saying what Ed was talking about was changing people, not laws. The sad fact is, said Joe, people want everything they can get and then some, and that includes them doctors that got paid $100 million more in Medicare than they saw — much less treated patients fee. It includes them 17,000 farmers and ranchers too, Joe went on, that are getting $25,000 or more apiece a year for letting their land lay out.

There is something about people, Joe said, that when they get their head to the trough they don't want to quit eating and they don't want to make room for anybody else.

The difference in farming and agriculture in this country, declared Joe, is that the little feller who works his land is farming and the big feller that gets paid by the government for not farming is in agriculture.

"Them that has gets, whether its $5 billion in farm payments or doctored up Medicare claims," were Joe

Misfortune Strikes Foth Cousins in Two Separate Accidents

By Bertha Clement
Loree Foth, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Foth, recently chipped a piece of bone from her right elbow and now has her arm in a cast. She was riding her bicycle when she hit a rock and came down on her elbow.

Paul Foth, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Foth Jr., fell with a bottle of pop in his hand while in Arcadia Friday. The bottle broke and cut a gash in the palm of his right hand. Nine stitches were required to close the cut. Paul is a cousin of Loree with the chipped bone.

Visitors From Thailand
Lt. Col. and Mrs. Jerry Petska and son Mark arrived July 28 from Thailand and have been visiting friends and relatives. Mrs. Petska is the former Elva Fuss. She and her family are house guests of her mother, Mrs. Laura Fuss, in Ord. On the 29th and again on Sunday the Petskas and Mrs. Fuss were dinner and afternoon guests of Mrs. Petska's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Sohrweid. Bertha Breiner was an additional Sunday guest.

The Petskas are leaving for Langley Field at Hampton, Va., this Tuesday. Colonel Petska will be stationed there; he had also served there before his 14-month assignment to Thailand. He has been in the service 28 years. During that time his family accompanied him to England where they lived for three years, to Hawaii for a four-year stay, and to various places in the United States. Colonel Petska also spent some time in Greenland. He and his wife have three children — two daughters, Lee in Pasadena, Calif., and Lynne in Hampton, Va., and a son Mark who accompanied them to Tali-

Valley County Officials Hold Line Against Higher Property Valuations

Proposed increases in Valley County property valuations were successfully beaten back last week at a hearing before the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

Seven neighboring counties did not fare so well, however, as they received increases in rural values. Three of them also received urban hikes.

The biggest area increase was a whopping 70 percent, assessed against rural lands in Loup County.

Statewide, 63 of Nebraska's 93 counties received increases. Those in this area receiving boosts were:

County	Rural	Urban
Loup County	70	NC
Custer County	50	NC
Howard County	40	17
Sherman County	35	20
Garfield County	35	NC
Wheeler County	25	NC
Greeley County	17	17

Valley County was one of only six counties from across the state to successfully oppose the increases. Hikes of 30 percent for rural properties and 17 percent for urban holdings had been proposed for this county.

"Our 1968 reappraisal played a big part in defeating the proposed increases," County Assessor Frank Mottl stated Monday. "We pointed out that Valley County property holders were just now paying their first taxes on the new values reached last year."

The county's case was argued by John North, an Omaha attorney. Mottl also attended the Tuesday hearing, then stayed in Lincoln the rest of the week to attend a school land appraisal for farms and ranches.

In its arguments, the state said that Valley County rural property was assessed at 27 percent of actual value when the law requires that it be assessed at 35 percent. The 27 percent was figured, Mottl said, by comparing actual selling value of property which had changed hands.

Ord Officer Praised For Making Arrest

Criticism has a habit of flowing more freely than compliments, especially when law enforcement officers are concerned. However, a letter received recently by Judge Rollin Dye proved that people do appreciate the fine job these officers are doing.

The letter from a Fremont, Neb., woman told that her husband was picked up for speeding—"and the patrolman was doing a very fine job protecting us all." She asked permission to pay the fine by waiver, explaining that her husband is a salesman and usually a most careful driver, but that he is capable of a mistake.

She closed by saying, "People should thank officers for doing their job, but they never do . . . we appreciate their work and the patrolman who stopped us was extra nice."

ETV Meeting Scheduled

A meeting concerning educational television will be held Monday at 7 p.m. in the district court room of the Valley County courthouse. School board members and parents from throughout the county have been requested to attend by County Supt. Jewell Buoy.

during 1968 with the value at which it had been appraised. He said the figure did not include property sold from one family member to another and other transactions where the selling figure probably was not a true indication of the property's worth.

The state contended that urban property in the county was appraised at 30 percent of actual value.

Besides pointing out that a complete reappraisal had been completed just last year, the county objected to the state's sales assessment ratio. Mottl said Valley County, as well as a number of other counties, felt that the state was not fair in computing its assessment percentages on a single year's transactions.

The county reappraisal was completed last year by the Justin H. Haynes Co. of Denver, Colo., with branch offices in Grand Island.

It resulted in a valuation increase of more than $3 million.

Members of the state board were Gov. Norbert Tiemann, State Auditor Ray Johnson, Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil, Secretary of State Frank Marsh and State Treasurer Wayne Swanson. All except Marsh and Swanson voted in favor of raises for the 63 counties that received them. Marsh was absent while Swanson voted against the increases.

Duane also stood in the top five of the dairy showmanship contest.

County 4-H'ers Make Big Haul At Dairy Show

Ten Valley County 4-H'ers showed a total of 15 dairy animals in competition at the district dairy show held recently in Grand Island.

Betty Nelson earned purple ribbons on her registered 4-year-old Holstein cow called Daphne. Blue ribbons were won by Nancy Hopkins showing a junior grade calf; Patsy Hopkins, for her 2-year-old gray cow; Duane Kovarik, for a 4-year-old registered Brown Swiss; and a registered senior calf; Karen Gold, for a grade junior yearling. Betty Nelson, for her registered senior cow and a registered senior yearling; and John Nelson, for his grade senior calf.

Duane also stood in the top five of the dairy showmanship contest.

NebraskaLand Feature

Presumably, the recent issue of NebraskaLand held a tighter grip on readers in this community than any August issue previously. The reason . . . three Ordites, Jim Celak, Duane Wolfe and his wife Karen.

Contained in the magazine was "The Longest Night" as told to NebraskaLand by Jim Celak. Through the article, Jim related his experience of last winter when he and Bert Kunz, also of Ord, were stranded in a severe snow and wind storm while hunting on the Missouri River.

The second article, with a more relaxed air, featured Duane and Karen Wolfe on a summer outing at Sherman Reservoir near Loup City . . . titled "A Pretty Good Day."

Ord's new city dump will be located at the site originally proposed by the City Council. By a 42-vote Monday night, the Valley County Board of Supervisors approved the suggested site.

The site is located south of town on property owned by Lowell Jones. It lies approximately half a mile southwest of the building site for the community's new grade school. (Conflicting reports have been issued concerning the distance. Members of the District 5 Board of Education measured it on an aerial map when the site was first suggested and determined that it was less than half a mile from the new school building. City Councilman Ed Christensen maintained that the two sites are at least a mile apart. The distance was measured Wednesday by Al Dunbar on a map at the Soil Conservation Service and determined to be approximately 2,500 feet.)

Al agreed that an alternate site west of town offered previous by Dave VanNordheim was not acceptable. The Board of Supervisors visited that site last week following the public hearing.

Klanecky was the most outspoken of the supervisors. He said his phone hadn't stopped ringing the past week and that 99 percent of the people were against the suggested site.

He agreed that an alternate site west of town offered previously by Dave VanNordheim was not acceptable. The Board of Supervisors visited that site last week following the public hearing.

Both Fred Amis of the Caterpillar Co. and Hugh Johnson of the Dept. of Health expressed confidence that the location would cause no problems for the school if the "landfill" is run properly.

"If you run it like a dump, you will have the same problem as now," Amis said. "But if you run it like a landfill you should have no problems. Anyone a quarter of a mile away should not even know there's a dump there."

Johnson said a number of landfill operations were already being used around the state, and only in one location had there been any trouble.

"In order to have a good landfill you've got to have good management," he said. "It has to be controlled."

He suggested placing a fence around the site, controlling the specific location where people may dump, setting certain hours of operation, and patrolling the access road to and from the site until people become convinced that littering will not be tolerated.

He suggested assessing the maximum fine — "not the minimum" — the first time someone is caught.

Johnson also expressed confidence that many of the people's complaints would be eliminated if they could see a landfill dump in operation. He said objectors from other communities had visited the Sarpy County dump and had come away convinced that they had nothing to worry about.

Amis said the refuse should be covered daily, "and you can't do it daily as often as possible."

"The whole purpose of a landfill operation is sanitation, and to maintain sanitation you've got to cover the garbage quickly and frequently," he said.

Named best drivers in the district tractor driving competition Tuesday David Vincent, left, of Sargent, and Jerry Cumming of St. Edward. Vincent scored 659 points and Cumming 588 in the combined two-wheel and four-wheel competition held at the Valley County fairgrounds. They will represent this district in competition at the State Fair. Martin Bredthauer of Ord was fourth among the 15 contestants representing eight schools.

Bloodmobile Coming

Link Family Learns Value of Blood — They'll Give Their Share

By Mrs. Clark Weckbach

Although people think first of blood saving the lives of many who have heart surgery, it is also used to save lives for other ailments.

It was 18 years ago this Aug.

25 that Walter Link of Ord was stricken with polio. Even though he remains an invalid and must sleep in a rocking bed, he is always cheerful and enjoys his small business of selling magazine subscriptions.

This past March Mr. Link became ill, and his doctor found that he needed four pints of blood which was given to him at the Valley County Hospital. The hospital had two pints of Red Cross blood on hand, and because it has a list of all Bloodmobile donors the attendants were able to immediately call two donors with his type blood.

Mr. Link's son John was typed to see if he could donate for his father, but he was found to have rare AB negative blood. So, although he could not give to his father, he donated when the Red Cross bloodmobile visited Kearney where he was attending college.

Both John and his brother Melvin plan to donate blood when the bloodmobile visits Ord this coming Tuesday, and they plan to continue to be donors when they attend Kearney State College this fall. They have learned the value of blood and its life-saving qualities.

A variety of motives activate the donors. It may be the desire to have a donation on record to protect the members of their family. Some become donors out of gratitude for the life-saving donations of a stranger. Others donate because they want to help meet the goals set by their club.

In Ord the firemen, Knights of Columbus, and Farm Bureau members donate. These are all valid reasons.

Only 4 percent of the people in the nation donate, and in the summertime when people are on vacation this is not enough. Highway accidents and vacation mishaps strain the blood supply.

The bloodmobile will be in the basement of the United Methodist Church next Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The extension clubs will call past donors, and the American Legion Auxiliary will serve sandwiches and cookies to the donors. The Progressive Extension Club of North Loup will furnish and serve dinner for the workers.

THE Ord Quiz

The People Ignored

The flagrant manner in which the people's desires have been ignored concerning the location of the new city dump is astonishing.

More than 30 persons showed up at a hearing Aug. 11, and the only ones who expressed support for the proposed location were two city officials, two city employees, and one past city official. Then at a joint meeting Monday night between the Ord City Council and the Valley County Board of Supervisors, one supervisor reported that his phone "hadn't stopped ringing and 99 percent of the people are opposed to it." Another said he had received more comment — practically all of it negative — on this subject than on anything which had come up recently.

The objections of these people were dismissed Monday night with the attitude that they didn't know what they were talking about.

At one point city officials expressed the opinion that if everyone who opposed the proposed site could be educated on the land-fill method of dumping they would cease to object. These officials expressed disappointment that more people had not shown up Aug. 8 to tour the proposed site and receive an orientation on the land-fill type of dump.

Yet the one group that did show up for that tour — the District 5 Board of Education — remained completely opposed to the suggested site. If educating the public were the answer, it should have been demonstrated in this instance.

Mayor Bill French is correct when he says that a governmental body should not be obligated to go with the most vociferous group when it holds a hearing. But when that group had not shown up Aug. 8 to tour the proposed site and receive an orientation on the land-fill type of dump.

It was pointed out both at the Aug. 11 hearing and at Monday night's meeting that city growth "is pretty well funneled into one direction by physical and man-made limitations." Even if the dump is maintained in an orderly manner, as city officials insist that it will be, there is a grave possibility that it will impede city growth for years in that one remaining direction.

The four-man majority on the Board of Supervisors dismissed without serious consideration Jim Duda's offer of a free dump site north of town.

"Why does this come up at the last minute?" asked City Councilman Ed Christensen. "It was never offered before."

It hardly seems like such a late date when serious public discussion of a new site began only one week before the meeting at which the offer was made.

A more proper question seems to be: why ignore any possibility for arriving at a more suitable site? Although the city was past its original deadline imposed by the state, the entire community must now live for years with the decision reached Monday night.

It also is hard to understand why the City Council is so reluctant to condemn land for a city dump when — as County Supervisor Leon Klanecsky pointed out — it condemned land which was much more valuable than anything it would have to take for a dump in order to make improvements at the city airport.

Some of the worst reasoning — and really the most disturbing — heard during the entire controversy was expressed not by the people, but by County Supervisor Bill Tuma, who made the motion to accept the proposed site. "The City Council has investigated and feels this is the best place," he said. "The state has approved it. Who am I to oppose them?"

If such reasoning is going to prevail, why even hold a public hearing in the first place? The obvious answer is that it was a legal technicality required by law — and not an objective attempt to arrive at the best solution.

On Legislative Salaries

From Washington Exclusive

Senator John Williams of Delaware attempted to amend the recent legislation increasing the salaries of the vice-president and certain officers of Congress, and met with a narrow 50-47 defeat.

The senator's amendment would have eliminated the Presidential Committee on legislative salaries and returned the chore of congressional pay increases to Congress, which has been doing it for the first 175 years of our history.

In stating the case for adoption of the amendment, Mr. Williams said: "I think it is a dangerous precedent for Congress to establish when we confer upon any President of the United States, with all due respect to the Presidents, the power to fix salaries of members of Congress. Certainly we want to keep the three branches of the government entirely separate, and we should not give to the President the right to say at any time, 'If you are good and approve my programs, I will raise your salaries. If not, I will recommend that they be lowered.'"

Under the present commission on legislative salaries, the Presidential commission merely declares that there should be a salary increase for Congress and the deed is done.

Earlier this year congressmen received a pay hike from $30,000 per year to $42,500. The bill for the 435 congressmen and the 100 senators will amount to $6,687,500 per year, and the total effect on the economy is difficult to measure if one considers the encouragement it gives to the nation's workers to demand salary increases in proportion to those of elected officials.

At the time of the last salary boost, many congressmen and senators protested that the raises should not be allowed. On congressman, Rep. Gene Snyder of Kentucky, called their bluffs. He introduced a discharge petition that, if signed by a majority of the House members, would have forced a floor vote on the pay raises. The last count showed that about 40 of the 435 congressmen had signed the petition to bring the matter before the body for an open tally. This isn't very many considering the number who claimed to be opposed to the pay raise.

Where are they all hiding now?

VOX POP

Dear Editor:

I don't have the knack to air my opinions like our Geranium Joe, but since I get paid getting them in print, I hope you will oblige me again.

I'd like the people to know that I'm not trying to run a business out of town — just clean it up a bit. As so many say, it should have been done years ago.

There's no need to worry that Ord may be without a sale barn. No matter who would build it, a modern place farther from the seat which would employ far more people would be an improvement over a 50-year-old establishment that can't afford or won't put in sanitary facilities when the need is so bad.

It shows out on the sidewalk and is embarrassing as well as disrespectful to the women that like to attend the auctions.

Now the east side has been improved, though it doesn't take care of the west side, where most of the people traffic is.

Building a few extra pens next to someone's living quarters isn't very considerate either, nor would they improve our town.

In regard to our "Ord fans":

Mr. Meese, it was you that called it "sudden stink." I happen to know that hogs stunk 50 years ago just as they do now.

As for our creamery, it used to be that it was financially sad every year — each year more so than the year before. Most people buy and sell to their own advantage; since you come to Ord every week, it must be that you leave your check there in Burwell because you prefer to do so. I haven't had to buy where I sold that I know of.

I imagine DeLoss Kearns isn't in position to complain if he likes his landlord.

Many have patted me on the back and are glad I brought this to the attention of the public. So if I've done some good and haven't made too many enemies and won't have to call in the state health inspector, I'm happy too.

Something Different

Too Much Speed

NISSWA, MINN. — This is an instant age; everything has to be speedy. Never has life been so rushing. We all hurry. And love it.

So, when a new race track was laid out a year or two ago — only four or five miles south of our Middle Cullen hideaway — we should have known things were going to speed up.

Outside money was brought in to build the expensive new play area. It was named Donnybrook, and that name proved very suitable, for it has been an object of argument since it was first planned.

Some resort owners and merchants welcomed the idea of the exciting car racing and big new track. They looked forward to the crowds and money the track would attract.

Many summer resorters and permanent citizens, however, fought the idea of the race track. They declared it would bring in bums and drifters and no-goods, undesirable crowds.

But those in favor of the track won out, and it was duly graded and laid out. Many a pretty pine tree was cut away to clear the way for the track.

No one realized what a drawing card that track would be.

Every Sunday now, thousands hurry to the track. Hundreds of kids converge on the track. Hundreds of families pack up, take a lunch and the kids, and make a day of it. The roads are jammed for hours.

In fact, Donnybrook race track is such an attraction that hosts of spectators come the night before the big Sunday show. And so this whole resort area is unbelievably wild, all at once.

I know the sound of engines and motors entrances a whole generation. I never found fascination in records playing the sounds of Sebring, Fla. — but I've seen a roomful of youngsters quiet down to listen. To me it was only roar, boom, sput-spit. Which simply proves I don't have educated ears.

Though I should have. And I should have a great feeling for racing too.

My father made the trip to Indianapolis year after year to see that classic race, probably 20 or 25 times.

I can imagine watching the race for, say, an hour.

But I really can't visualize sitting through 500 miles of jockeying, sliding and roaring, as car passes car, tires get changed, and exciting stuff like that.

Ord has a few enthusiasts who attend every Memorial Day speed show too.

But they lost me, somewhere.

The Scott Report

Means for Gradual Disintegration of NATO Now Available

By Paul Scott

WASHINGTON -

TON — The North Atlantic Treaty Alliance will undergo a significant change Sunday.

For the first time since the NATO treaty became effective 20 years ago, member nations will be able after that day to withdraw from the defense alliance one year after filing a notice of denunciation.

If Mr. Stowell remembers, the court that sentenced Mr. Kennedy was convinced there was no "criminal negligence" involved. I don't believe our pledge of "land of freedom and justice for all" has been hurt one little bit, because Senator Kennedy went in to face justice, if you recall, and to put it plainly, took the rap himself.

Also, I would like to say as a member of the Democratic Party, I am very very proud to have Senator Edward M. Kennedy as my leader.

I would also like to know who Mr. Stowell is to be condemning the Kennedy family, a family that has served this country in everything they've done to help this United States of ours. And now an accident occurs and boom. Well anyway, isn't God the only man who condemns?

Also, Mr. Stowell, there is a saying that goes, "All men speak of others as they would speak of themselves."

A loyal Democrat,
Name Withheld by Request

ment has become a matter of deep concern for several European NATO members.

In his recent meeting here with President Nixon, West German Chancellor Kiesinger privately warned that unless the U.S. moved quickly to strengthen NATO by proposing a new long-range agreement that the organization would slowly begin to disintegrate.

Kiesinger pointed out that Russian diplomats were already at work using the "carrot and stick" approach to try to pressure the governments of Iceland, Canada, Norway, Turkey, and Italy to quit the alliance in favor of new security arrangements with the Warsaw Pact nations.

With more Russian troops stationed in Central and Eastern Europe near the West German borders than at any time since the end of World War II, Kiesinger stressed that the first priority of the 15 NATO members should be formation of a united front to force a general pullback of Soviet forces.

After the treaty has been in force for 20 years, any party may cease to be a party one year after its notice of denunciation has been given to the government of the U.S., which will inform the governments of the other parties of the deposit of each notice of denunciation.

In other words, the 20-year Western European defense accord will shift to a year-to-year agreement, or from a long-range defense treaty to a short-range defense commitment.

While there are no indications of any early withdrawals, the failure of the U.S. to take the lead in strengthening the collective defense alliance by seeking a binding new long-range agreement could be one of these moves to split NATO members and to show Russia's new diplomatic military power in Central Europe.

Although agreeing to support Big Four power talks on West Berlin, Wilson proposed that moves be taken within NATO to strengthen the alliance and show Moscow that its members were united.

Administration insiders say the reason President Nixon has refrained from making any proposals to build up NATO is that Henry Kissinger, his national security adviser, is still at work on plans to revise the alliance.

Kissinger reportedly favors changing the emphasis of NATO from a military alliance to more of a political, cultural, economic organization. First hints of this proposed change came in a speech the President delivered earlier this year at Brussels, now headquarters of NATO.

In that address prepared by Kissinger, Nixon indicated that he would like to see NATO become "the architect of new means of partnership and an invigorated forum of new ideas and new technologies."

Kissinger is now drafting proposals that would implement the President's Brussels statement. Their content and when they will be ready is still a White House secret.

Although the proposals are expected to downgrade the military part of the alliance, none have been shown to the President's military advisers or circulated among the other NATO members.

Note: The North Atlantic Treaty was originally ratified by Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Iceland, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Great Britain, and the U.S. It was later acceded to by West Germany, Greece, and Turkey.

Arms for Biafra

South Africa has now begun to rival France as the main provider of secret arms for Biafra. Moreover, the South African government's involvement may be on the verge of becoming even deeper.

On one of the main runs Hercules aircraft of the South African Air Force are flown by service pilots, and take off two or three times a week from Pietersburg with arms cargoes to a rendezvous in the Kalahari Desert.

There the Air Force planes transfer their loads to South African DC-7s which are technically on charter to the Biafrans. These civil aircraft then complete the run into Biafra, staying at Luanda and Sao Tome Island for the final leg to Ojukwu's airstrip at Uli.

Other South African arms go through Libreville, in Gabon, the main assembly point used for many months by the French for their own arms deliveries to Biafra.

South African diplomats here say they are shipping arms to Biafra to keep that breakaway country's rich oil fields from falling under Soviet control. Since the civil war broke out, the Russians have gained tremendous influence among Nigerian officials by becoming their largest arms supplier.

In addition to arms, the South Africans are shipping medicine and tinned food both for the Biafran army and its starving civilians. The aid comes at a time when the Nigerian government has successfully blocked food shipments to Biafra from the International Red Cross.

Presidential Notes

When President Nixon met Soviet Ambassador Alexander Basov at a reception in Bucharest during his Romania trip, he remarked: "I hope my next journey will be to Moscow." Ambassador Basov, who is also a member of the KGB, the Soviet secret police, replied with a smile, saying: "Why not?" President Nixon has been reading the life of Disraeli recently. The great conservative British antagonist of Gladstone once remarked, "Tory men, with liberal principles, are what has enlarged democracy in this world." Nixon quotes the phrase to associates . . . White House aides say the President believes his new welfare program is important enough to be compared with the famous British "Beaveridge Report" which put a floor under welfare in the United Kingdom.

With two people at our house writing columns for this paper, it's a battle to see who can get to the resource material first. It does take considerable reading to gather together enough information to try and conjure up something new each week. So we take a host of magazines and periodicals — all of an inspirational nature.

Sometimes you actually become "inspired" and can be creative in your own writing. At other times it seems someone else has said what you'd like to say, only they've done it so much better you merely concede and fall back on the good old "quotations."

"Give me a house where every book and magazine is not neatly put away in a bookcase or magazine rack, but you find them scattered around in a sort of orderly profusion."

"Give me a house where you may find the fingerprints of a child on a front window or door."

"Give me a house where you can't find the evening paper until you first find out who it is."

"Give me a house where the children speak up to their parents, but don't talk back to them; where the parents listen to the children, but don't give in to them."

"Give me a house where everyone knows his rights and everyone respects his obligations."

Happiness is now! It is not an "if only" or "as soon as" thing. It is a very perishable product that must be used today, now, or it is lost to us forever.

Large quantities of happiness are overlooked simply because it costs nothing. For instance! Happiness is zooming down the highway at 75 in a 60-mile zone and being passed by a state police car that's chasing a guy' doing 90... or it's getting up at 3 a.m. to feed the baby and finding two bottles — one for the baby and one for yourself... or finding your glasses while you still remember what you wanted them for... or learning your daughter's boyfriend has had his car keys repossessed. All of these prove one important point, most folks can be just as happy as they make up their minds to be!

The next time you invite the gals in for an afternoon of coffee and conversation, serve this ever popular Fruit Cocktail Cake.

Delores Kluna Becomes Mrs. John Wray In Candlelight Ceremony at Ord Church

In a 7 p.m. candlelight ceremony Aug. 9, at the Ord Christian Church, Delores Kluna and John Wray were united in marriage. J. H. Schroeder solemnized the double-ring ceremony in the presence of about 150 relatives and friends.

The altar was appointed with a 15 branched arc candelabra, which was decorated with greens and blue trim. A large basket of mums were placed at each side.

Appropriate organ music was played by Marilyn Hackel, who accompanied Mrs. Schroeder in "Oh Promise, Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Burson of North Loup. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wray of Scottia.

Mrs. Sharon Graham of Ord served as matron of honor, and Carol Kriewald of Grand Island was bridesmaid. Their street-length frocks were of yellow crepe in princess style. They wore matching veils and shoes, and both carried bouquets of white lilies accented with blue.

The bride appeared in a powder blue strapless cold-dress ensemble of beaded nylon, accented at the waist with a bow. Her veil was in a matching color of blue nylon net centered with a blue and white satin flower. She wore a pearl necklace and earrings, a gift from the groom, and carried a white Bible with a white ribbon accented with blue.

The bride was held in the basement of the church immediately after the wedding. Mrs. George Fryzek and her daughter Debbie cut and served the wedding cake, with Mrs. Duane Hansen of Scottia pouring punch. Kitchen duties were taken care of by the Ruth Circle.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wray left for a short wedding trip to Colorado. They will be at home on their farm near Ord.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Ackles were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Tallow.

A Happy Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ramsey took Mrs. Anna Visek to Grand Island Sunday to meet Mr. and Mrs. James Zelenka of Salt Lake City, Utah. Mr. Zelenka is a cousin to Mrs. Visek and Joe Dworak and Frank Dworak of Ravenna. This was the first reunion for the cousins since leaving Yugoslavia 60 years ago.

California Bound

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Eschliman, Kevin and Karen left Saturday after a 10 day visit in Ord with his father, Glen Eschliman, grandmother, Mrs. Millie Eschliman, and other relatives. Enroute to their home in San Jose, Calif., the family planned to stop at Casper, Wyo., to visit a sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Curry. Mrs. Curry is the former Dennis Eschliman.

Mr. and Mrs. John Vanderbeck and children returned to Valentine this week after spending the summer months with Ord relatives. The Vanderbeeks are looking ahead to a busy schedule, he as math instructor and assistant coach and Mrs. Vanderbeck as music teacher in the Valentine school.

Guests last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Gudmundsen were their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harold Gudmundsen, and children, and Mrs. John Laird and son of Laramie, Wyo. On her trip home, Mrs. Gudmundsen met her husband who flew from Seattle to Denver. They were also met at the Denver airport by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fox of Grand Island. Mrs. Fox is a daughter of the Curt Gudmundsons.

North Loup Notes*Schools To Open Wednesday; Full Faculty Listed

By Hannah Sheldon

The North Loup-Scotia schools will begin the 1969-70 school year next Wednesday with a full staff of teachers and other personnel.

A total of 410 students have enrolled.

Faculty for the elementary school at North Loup includes: Merna Keep, kindergarten; Ellamae Hill, first grade; Magdalene Sauter, second; Beulah Stine, third; Viola Farrell, fourth; Winnie Williams, fifth; Elsie Allison, sixth; Gary Whemeyer, remedial reading; Norma Meyer, vocal music; Cyntie Staehr, instrumental music; Larry Lewis, physical education and principal.

Teaching at the secondary school in Scotia will be Clara Allen, math; Agnes Manchester, language arts, reading, and English; Gayle Anderstrom, math; Mary Bell, English, foreign language, and library; Charles Danskin, art and speech; Charles Devine, principal and commercial; Rolland Essman, vocational agriculture; James Friesen, social studies; Frances Glinsmann, vocational home economics; Donald Hansen, business; Larry Lewis, biology, physical education and coach; Melvin Shoemaker, English; Cyntie Staehr, music; Keith Staehr, social studies; physical education and coach; Gary Whemeyer, guidance; Ronald Williams, science; Albert Zuegy Jr., social studies and junior high coach; and Virgil Ferguson, superintendent.

Prepping for Pop Corn Days

North Loup residents are busily making preparations for their 68th annual Pop Corn Days celebration. Entertainment is provided for all three days — Sept. 8, 9, and 10 — and there will be numerous exhibits on display all three days.

The Murphy Shows will be here again this year with rides for all. Advance tickets for the rides may be purchased at any business place — seven for a dollar.

Tickets for the savings bond and cash prizes amounting to $1,000 are also available. A drawing will be held on the 10th to determine winners, who need not be present. Those tickets are available at all business places and may be purchased at $1 each or six for $5.

A booster trip was made Saturday by Jerry Neeman, Elmer Bergman, Loretta Jorgenson, Betty Rainforth, and Debbie Edwards. The group visited Taylor, Sargent, and Coonstock. Several other booster trips are being planned.

"Here Come the Years" is the theme for the floats and parade on the 10th. On the 9th, "Under the Big Top" will be the theme for the juvenile parade. The horseshoe tournament both days is again being sponsored by Russell Hill with all fees returned in prize money. This will be the second year for this feature.

Receives Master's Degree

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Cox arrived at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cox, Monday afternoon, having been attending college in Boulder, Colo. Dennis received his master's degree in choral conducting from the University of Colorado Saturday. They will also spend a few days with their parents in Lincoln before returning to their home in Salem, W. Va., where they will both be teaching at Salem Col-

Ord, Cairo Force Issue

Wednesday night was a time of decision for the four teams in the Sherman-Howard League baseball playoffs. Final games were scheduled in Cairo and Wood River to determine which teams would meet in the finals.

Ord and Cairo set up the two showdows as each won games during the past week. Ord defeated Wood River, 6-5, to knot that series at one game apiece; and Cairo nipped Scotia, 4-3, to also square that one.

The local team led much of the way in its latest game with regular-season champ Wood River, but had to score once in the ninth to win it. That run came when Rusty Belina singled with one out, then circled the bases as Kenny Watson's single went through the legs of Wood River outfielder Dennis Garrels.

Wood River had tied the score with two runs in the eighth inning.

Jim Hinke was a one-man gang for the losers as he clubbed two home runs, accounting for all five of his club's scores. The first came in the fourth inning with two men on, and the second in the eighth with one on.

Conversely, Ord had to scrap for all of its tales. It scored twice in the ninth when Pota's bases-loaded double was the big blow, and three times in the fifth. John Linke's bases-loaded double was the big hit that time.

Pota went the distance on the mound.

It evened the season record between the two clubs at two wins apiece. They had also split their two regular-season contests.

Dave Townsend bested Leonard Williams in a fine defensive game at Cairo. Townsend posted 18 strikeouts and gave up only four hits.

After finishing seventh in league play, Ord upended second-place Wolbach, 10-6. The Greeley KC's then ripped the regular Greeley team, 13-7. The winners will meet in a second-round game tonight (Thursday) at 8:30.

In the other bracket Spalding will oppose Ericson in a 7 p.m. contest. Spalding finished first in regular-season play and nudged Horace, 4-3, in the first tournament game. Ericson was third during the regular season and nipped Elba, 8-7, in one extra inning.

Children's Carnival Scheduled Tuesday

A neighborhood carnival for the benefit of muscular dystrophy victims will be held Tuesday at 301 S. 16th St., Ord. Penny Petersen, daughter of Mrs. Don Petersen, will serve as ringmaster, assisted by Kim Petersen, Denise and Jerry Woodgate, Becky Moyer, and others.

The carnival will begin at 1 p.m. and will feature such games as penny pitch, mix and pitch, fortune telling, tin target, sponge toss, Canadian woodsmen, Indian dances, etc., and all proceeds will go to aid the fight against dystrophy and related diseases afflicting millions.

TV personality Sheriff Bill on his "Cartoon Corral" children's show is promoting the carnivals. Last year, in cooperation with the Muscular Dystrophy Assn. of America, more than 20,939 carnivals were held by children across the country, and over $43,862 was raised for research and patient service programs.

Additional afternoon guests were Mr. and Mrs. Victor Morrow, Don and Junior of Scotia. Mrs. Branting is a sister of Lucy's and Mrs. Clarence Munn a niece. The Scotia folks are a daughter and grandchildren. Lucy has a great-grandson — Charles Morrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Morrow — who has just finished advanced summer camp as an army reserve officer at Fort Riley, Kan. He is a field radio communicator. He will return as a student at the University of Nebraska.

Mary Kokes was a supper and evening guest of Mary Jorgenson Saturday. During the evening Lillian Mason was also at Mary's.

Thursday evening Berenice Cornell called on Mrs. Jay Nelson and Nola. Wednesday Oma Nelson was with the Jay Nelsons for supper.

Friday evening Mena Jorgensen was with a group for a picnic at the park. Besides Mena, they were Clara B. King, Winie Hallen, Inez Eberhart and Inez Swain. One missing from the usual group was Mamie Smith who now lives at Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clement were at Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hackett's Sunday afternoon.

Eva Robertson has had word that Juanita Christian is going from St. Louis, Mo., with her daughter's family to visit another daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Stabolepszy and Michelene, of Stony Creek Mills, Pa.

Carolyn Cornell, granddaughter of Berenice Cornell, came from Omaha Monday noon to be with Berenice for a few days.

Tuesday until Wednesday morning Lillian Mason had a grandson, Larry Jorgensen, and wife of Arizona with her. They also were with their other grandmother, Mary Jorgensen, some, Marie and Mary with the Larry Jorgensens called on Rev. Jeppesen and Mrs. Minna Freeman.

Berenice Cornell had her sister-in-law, Mrs. Wayne King, and niece, Rebecca Bresley, with her Tuesday for lunch and the afternoon. That evening Berenice was at a party with the Baptist Mission ladies, for Mrs. Don Wright, held at the Floyd Boileens home. A farewell group gift was given Mrs. Wright as she and her husband, Pastor Don Wright, will be leaving this fall as missionaries to Japan.

Our executive director, Mrs. Norina Ackles, is on vacation this week with her husband Charles and their two daughters, Debbie and Laurie.

There were no church services on the 14th because no minister was available — vacations, etc. We hope to have services today (Thursday) at 1:30 p.m.

Wednesday afternoon Elsie Rathbun was a guest in the George Ray home of his daughter, Mrs. Norwood Reck of Grand Rapids, Mich. Others present were Elsie's niece, Mrs. Theda Nelson, and Betty, and two other Nelson daughters, Mrs. Roger Sowohl and two children of Kearney and Mrs. Bernard Lyons and two little ones of Giltner. Elsie had three generations of nieces there and two little great-nephews.

Oma Nelson was at Head Nelson's Tuesday to be with the Nelson daughters, Mrs. Roger Sowohl of Kearney and Mrs. Bernard Lyons of Giltner and their children. Oma is a great-aunt of the Sowohl and Lyons children.

Mary Kokes was a supper and evening guest of Mary Jorgenson Saturday. During the evening Lillian Mason was also at Mary's.

Thursday evening Berenice Cornell called on Mrs. Jay Nelson and Nola. Wednesday Oma Nelson was with the Jay Nelsons for supper.

They Even Get Sick

Visit Backstage Shows Professional Cowboys Are Human Too

The cowboys who follow the professional rodeo circuit are a curious assortment of the adolescent and the mature, of the soft-spoken and the foul-mouthed — of the large and the small. But all have at least two things in common — plenty of guts and the desire for a big payday.

Outwardly they root for one another, offering words of encouragement as their fellow contestants break from the chute. But deep down they cannot forget that they are competing with one another, and an extra point or two for a buddy may mean a good day at the pay window for him and a blank one for them.

"Sure, that's the reason we're here — to win some of that money," said young Jim Erickson of Prescott, Ariz., as he stood beneath a broiling sun on the last day of Nebraska's Big Rodeo at Burwell. "If we were doing it just for fun, we could play golf instead. That would be a lot safer. Or we could spend the afternoon in a bar. That would be a lot cooler."

Erickson, a bareback rider, stood long and lanky with dark-brown features that obviously were not all a result of the sun. He needed only feather in his high-crowned black Stetson and a blanket wrapped around his shoulders to transform his cowboy appearance into the Indian looks of his forebears.

The Little Things'

The subject of money had gotten him started on what was obviously one of his pet peeves.

"Most of the judges are timed-event men," he said, "men whose specialties are calf roping or bulldogging. They miss a lot of little things in the riding events."

About that time Clem McSpadden announced over the public address system that John Forbes of Kayce, Wyo., had just received a 63 — one of the day's better scores in the saddle bronc riding.

"Now you take Johnny Forbes," Erickson continued, "They announce that he's still in high school, and the crowd oohs and aahs and he gets a good score if he stays on. He's a good guy and all that, but we all want to make money. We wouldn't be here if we didn't."

Busy Schedules

Then Erickson's travelling companion and hometown buddy Ronny Halford, walked up and the subject changed to the solid bone that Halford had just been bucked off. The horse, a bay, was what the cowboys call "crazy."

He had acted up first in the chute, trying to elbaw out, and once the gate was open he bucked wild. It wasn't a nice even buck where the rider could get into the rhythm of the horse's movement, but instead a jerky, helter-skelter buck that carried him first in one direction, then in another.

Halford had lasted about two jumps, then plunged to earth, landing squarely on his head. Already his right eye was swollen almost shut.

Also of Indian descent — but squat and stocky compared to his friend's long and lean appearance — Halford shrugged off the mishap. Right now there were more important things to think about, like getting to Wahoo or Sidney. Most of the contestants who were competing at Burwell during the day were also taking part in the Wahoo Rodeo at night. And practically all of them would go on to compete in the Sidney Rodeo which was to begin the following night.

Elsewhere in the small area boys lounged around talking in back of the bucking chutes, in small groups or sat silently by themselves waiting for their next event. A few were going through various calisthenics or riding imaginary horses to loosen up — much in the same manner that a fighter might shadow-box with an imaginary foe.

Obscene Dance

Cris LeDoux, a handsome young bareback rider from Forbee's hometown of Kayce, Wyo., had perfected this practice. He would grab hold of an imaginary cinch with one hand and throw his pelvic bone forward, gyrating like a go-go girl doing some sort of obscene dance.

Forbee and Halford, among others, had prepared for their specialty by spreading saddles in the dry dust. Then they climbed aboard, put their feet in the stirrups, and practiced rolling and swaying as they expected their horses to do.

Other cowboys, like Keith Miller of Wichita Falls, Tex., worked resin into their hands.

Pimple-faced Kay Kirby of Woodstown, N.J., took turns pacing back and forth to the bucking chutes and reading from his latest copy of Rodeo Sports News. During his pacing he occasionally grabbed a nervous drag from a cigarette. Kirby was another of the high school students on the summer circuit, and was competing in both bareback riding and bull riding.

Recovered From Broken Neck

At the other extreme, as far as age went, was Freckles Brown of Soper, Okla. A crowd favorite wherever he goes, Brown had received a "broken neck" several years ago and at the age of 43 had been in a cast for months. But here he was looking as trim and fit as any of the youngsters, with only his graying hairline making him look out of place.

Brown too had his own unique way of warming up for his bull riding specialty. He did a little dance step something like the Clark's Teaberry gum girl does on television.

Other merchandisers, such as the Coca-Cola Co. or the people that make popsicles, could also have gotten some ready-made testimonials had they been present. Red Surface, a freckle-faced youngster from Plum Field, Neb., sipped on a Coke while Erickson sucked on a strawberry popsicle.

Gary Tucker of Carlsbad, N.M., who went into this rodeo leading in the race for top bareback rider of the year, stuck to refreshments more in line with the he-man image of the professional rider. He popped a wad of chewing tobacco into his mouth, then passed the package to a buddy. Unfortunately, Tucker may have swallowed it.

John Forbee of Kayce, Wyo., inserts padding to protect ankle.

labeled the biggest part of his plug when he landed squarely on the seat of his pants a few moments later following a bruising ride.

age would have gone unquestioned by anyone except a fellow contestant.

But one of them gleefully yelled out:

"What sa' matter, Clyde? You need a tranquilizer?"

While they're tough enough, the cowboys — at least some of them — do use a few aids that go unseen by the public. LeDoux, for example, adjusted and readjusted for almost half an hour before getting a hip pad placed just right. Even then, he still came out of a wild ride limping from a hip bruise.

"I landed right on my rear," LeDoux stated. His horse had stumbled and almost fallen coming out of the chute, but he had hung on and stayed with the coyote for the necessary eight seconds. The horse wound up near the grandstand fence, though, and LeDoux went off the back end to keep from getting smashed into the fence.

"Every time I come to Burwell I wind up on my head or my rear end," he said. "Last year it was my head. I would have been okay this year if it had been my head again, but this time it was the other end."

LeDoux was also wearing a thickly wrapped bandage around his left arm to protect a forearm bruised in an earlier ride.

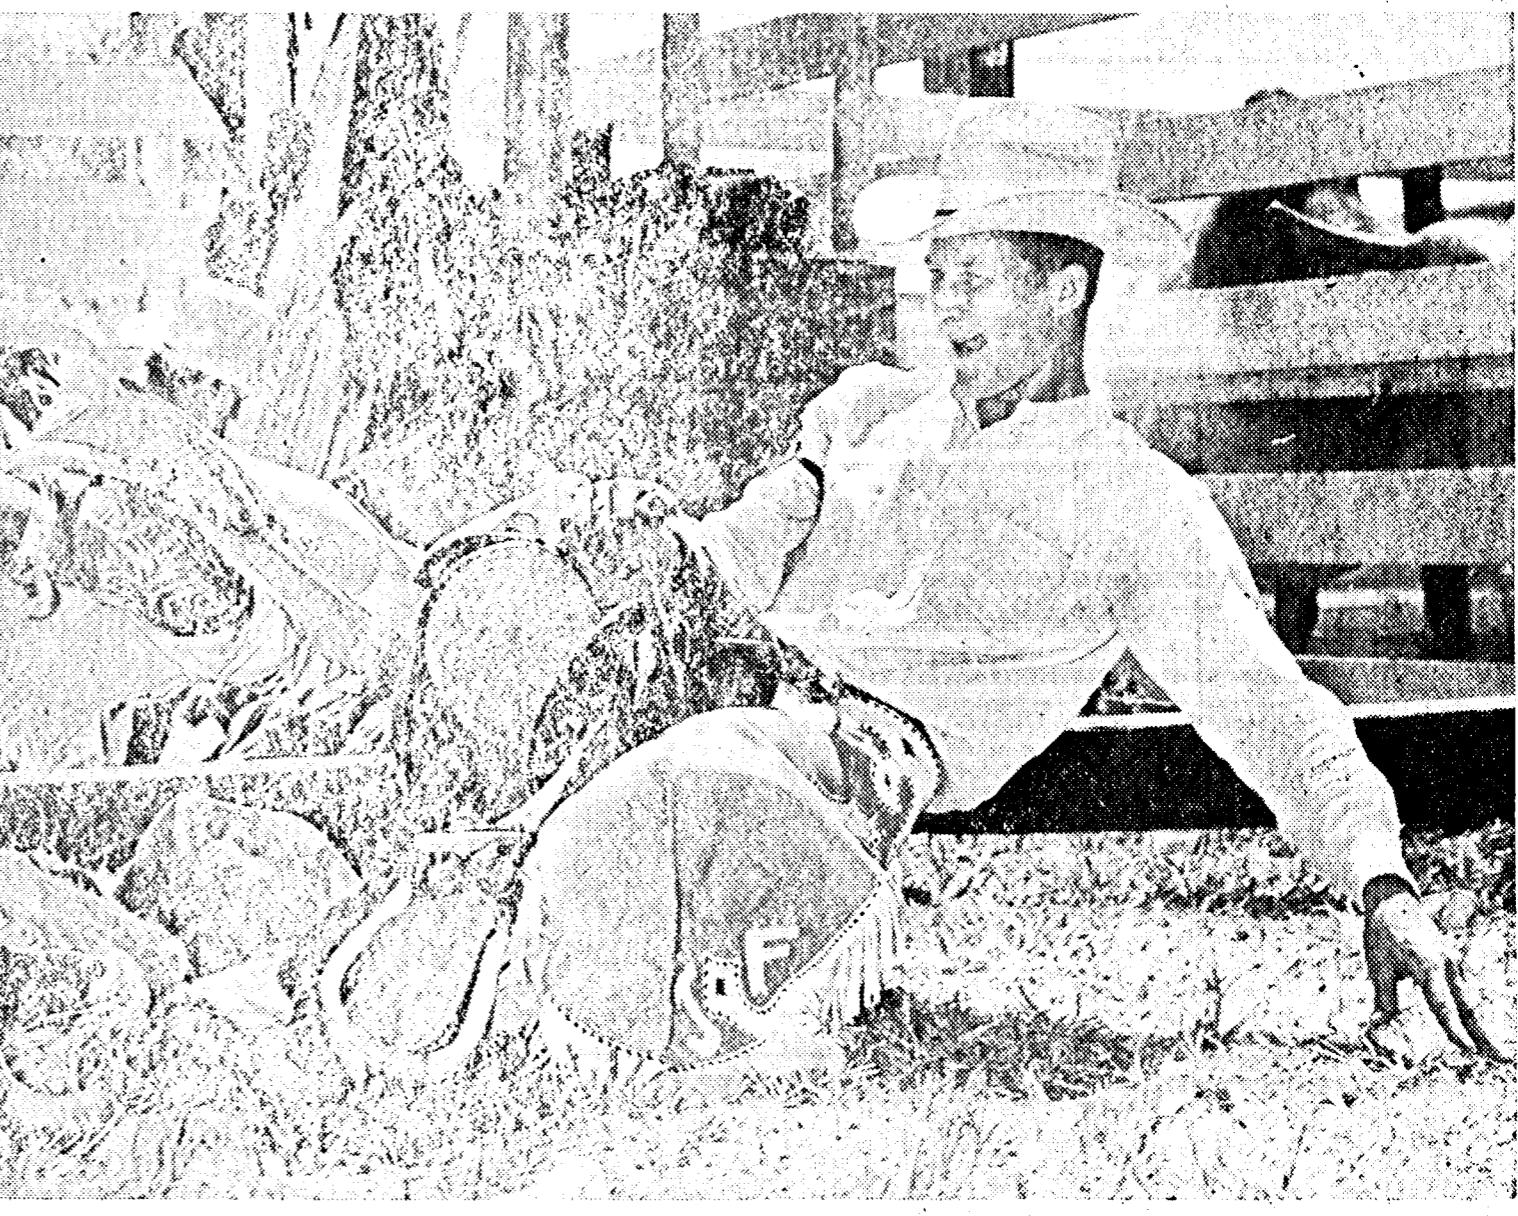

His hometown partner, Forbee, also used a few precautions to protect against injuries. Among them were two thick pieces of foam rubber inserted into his socks along the inside ankles.

"They pad my ankles and keep me from getting all the hide torn off," he explained.

They Even Get Sick

Finally, if all these observations weren't enough to prove that the professional cowboys are human too, one of them actually got sick. But even then his fellow riders would not let him be sick in peace.

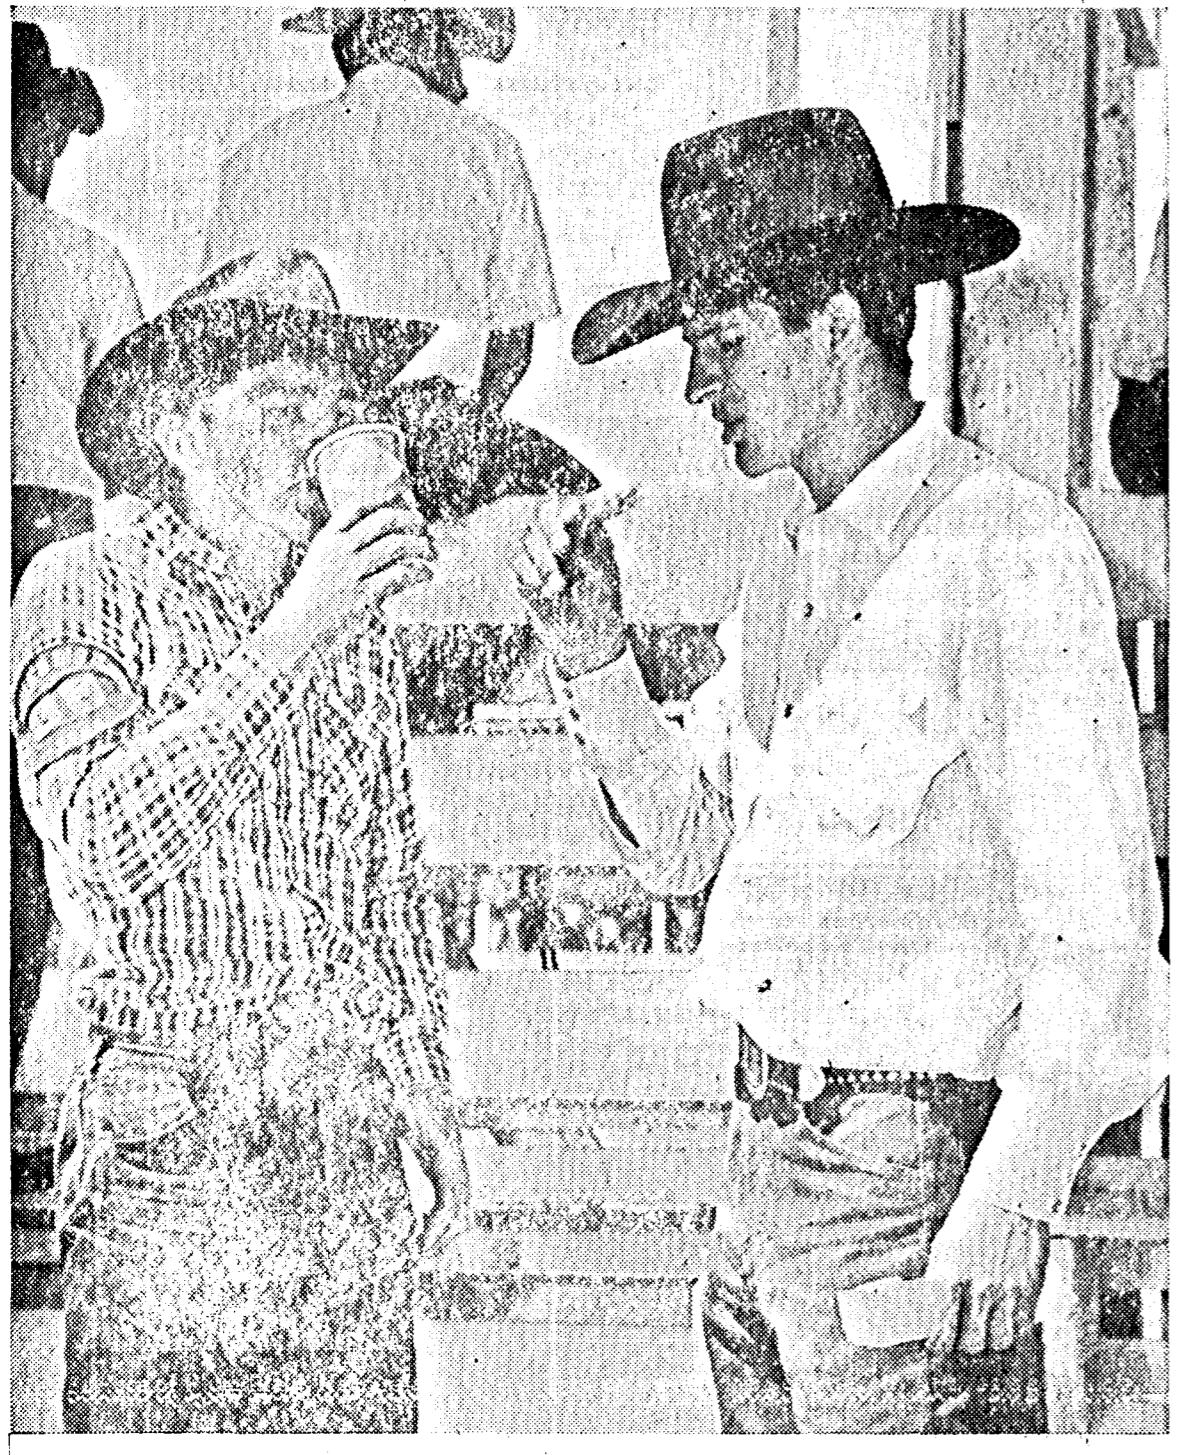

"Clyde needs some medicine," one of them called out as the rodeo ended. He was referring to the world champion bareback rider of 1968, Clyde Vanvors of Burk Burnett, Tex., whose cour-

Peep Into Insect World Reveals Some Oddities

By John Schade

Since the beginning of time, man has been aware of the millions of insects which inhabit the earth. One egg is then laid by the adult cicada killer within the paralyzed but living cicada. When the egg hatches, the young wasp larva can live off the cicada. The young wasp grows and pupates in the soil and emerges as a large wasp the next year.

We have placed our highest concern on the elimination of those insects which would harm our crops and livestock as well as man himself. We are also aware of the beneficial insects which are of great economic importance to mankind.

But I often wonder if we take enough time to study the insect which seems to be neither harmful nor beneficial. I would like to point out some of the marvels of nature that go unnoticed by the casual observer.

We have all heard the song of the locust in the trees from about half an hour before sunset until dark. The locust — which is properly known as the dog-days cicada — reminds us with his sound that the sunshine days of summer are getting fewer and fewer and fall and winter are growing closer and closer.

The locust as far as I know, is of no economic importance to man, but the life history of this insect is very interesting.

I am sure you have found some ugly horned caterpillars attached to the trunk of a tree or grass blade recently. This same cicada that is singing merrily away at dusk emerged from one of those ugly shells you might have found.

The dog-days cicada is an insect about two inches long, green with black and brown markings and a gray-white undersurface. In summer it lays eggs on tree twigs. When the eggs hatch, the young — called nymphs — burrow into the ground where they feed by sucking sap from trees and shrub roots. They remain in the soil feeding in this fashion for almost two years.

Other stops on the tour include ranches at Mason City, Ansley, Brecken Bow, Dunning, Plainview, Brunswick, Verdigris, and Bloomfield. Purpose of the tour is "to study and observe beef cattle improvement programs being used in a variety of herds." Emphasis will be placed on the importance of keeping accurate production records.

Featured speakers during the tour will be Dr. John Ward from the University of Nebraska, who will comment on cow size as related to herd efficiency, and Stanley Anderson, an official of the American Angus Assn., who will discuss the effective use of the national organization's Angus Herd Improvement Record program.

Details concerning the tour may be obtained from Percy Up-ton, secretary of the Nebraska Angus Assn., at Madison. In addition to the state organization, the tour is co-sponsored by the University of Nebraska, the Heart of Nebraska Angus Assn., and the American Angus Assn.

You have perhaps seen this large black and yellow wasp digging holes in your yard. He has a stinger like most wasps, and being large his sting can be severe. However, the cicada killer is a gentle creature as long as you leave him alone.

The cicada killer gets its name from the way in which it provides for its young. The adult digs a hole in the soil, flies to where it hears a cicada, and paralyzes it with its sting. It then carries the cicada back and deposits it in the bottom of the hole. One egg is then laid by the adult cicada killer within the paralyzed but living cicada.

When the egg hatches, the young wasp larva can live off the cicada. The young wasp grows and pupates in the soil and emerges as a large wasp the next year.

Other wasps with similar habits provision their nest with other creatures such as spiders. A very tiny wasp, almost microscopic in size, is proving to be a beneficial predator to the green bug which is attacking our sorghum and milo.

Another insect which leads a very dull life in comparison to the cicada and the cicada killer is the ant lion, sometimes referred to as the doodlebug. A close examination of dry soil near the foundation of your home or farm buildings may reveal very small inverted cones. These inverted cones are traps constructed by the doodlebugs to capture ants and other small insects that might fall into them.

The ant lion larva (doodlebug) is about 1/4 inch or longer, the color of soil. It hides just under the soil at the bottom of a pit. When an ant falls into the pit, the dust that falls to the bottom or the scrambling of the ant awakens the ant lion. He immediately throws up dust with his head to force the ant to the bottom of the pit, where it falls prey to his sharp mandibles.

Years ago it was said if one would sing "doodle-doodle," the bug would answer by throwing a shower of dust back. This will often work, as the breath will dislodge dust particles. The ant lion thinks he has a nice meal trapped. He will then attempt to force it to the bottom of the pit with a shower of dust.

Not all insects need to be knocked dead with malathion, sevin, or D.D.T. Some are perfectly harmless, and one can really get a closer look at nature by observing them for a few minutes.

Roy Nelson Wins

Members of the Ord High School varsity band, under the direction of Jim Oshner, presented a band concert in front of the courthouse last Thursday evening.

Roy Nelson's name was drawn as winner of the clock radio. Band members had sold chances on the clock radio as a means of raising money for new band uniforms.

H. G. Rickard and Wesley took George Anderson to Lincoln to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Phyllis Leach. While in Lincoln Mr. Anderson will consult his doctor.

Mira Valley Memo*Twin Misfortunes Strike Foth Families Again

By Bertha Clement

Gust Foth Jr. broke his collar bone Thursday afternoon when his horse stumbled and he tumbled.

Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Foth, both on horses, were trying to corral a bull which was in a pasture near their home. The bull charged Mrs. Foth's horse, and she came down hard. Her back was hurt, and she is being checked for other possible injuries. After she was on the ground the bull again charged her pony. Since then the Foth children have been staying with their grandparents, the Francis Ryschons, part time.

Big Increases Proposed for Valley County Property Values by State Tax Commissioner's Office

Valley County property owners, who were hit with a $3 million increase in valuations during 1968, may be in for another jolt this year.

The state tax commissioner's office has recommended that the value of rural property in the county be increased by 30 percent and urban property by 17 percent. The proposed increases would be assessed across the board, affecting every property owner.

Pros and cons of this proposal were hammered out Tuesday in Lincoln before the State Board of Equalization. However, the state board's decision may not be known for several days.

The proposed increase is a result of efforts by Nebraska taxing authorities to equalize property assessments across the state. The increase was first proposed at a hearing held July 23 in O'Neill. Increases were also proposed for neighboring counties.

At their Aug. 5 meeting the Valley County Board of Supervisors voted to officially protest the action, and the county was represented at Tuesday's hearing by attorney John North of Omaha. North also represented other counties who are protesting.

County Assessor Frank Mottl, who attended both the O'Neill and Lincoln hearings, said Monday that the 1968 reappraisal would figure heavily in the county's defense before the State Board of Equalization.

A comprehensive reappraisal was completed by local officials about a year ago, and as a result property values in the county were increased from just under $20 million to more than $23 million. It was the first complete reappraisal since 1948.

State Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil described his reasoning for the current revaluations in a letter dated July 11. In that letter he stated:

"During the past year there have been innumerable instances of taxpayer complaints wherein property of the same general description and value was taxed at half or less as much as property across the county line. Inasmuch as there are hundreds of overlapping taxing jurisdictions in the state, primarily schools and educational service units, it is essential that equity in valuation and tax burden be maintained."

McNeil also pointed out that during the past two years local officials in most counties have allowed property taxes to decline "even though the market value of property has been rising sharply in most areas of the state."

That, plus action by some county boards to reduce property values, has resulted in a general lowering of the tax base in many areas, he said.

"The property tax base necessary to support local government has declined in many cases 50 percent or more since 1966," he stated.

Mottl inferred that McNeil could not have been talking about Valley County when he made these statements. Besides increasing values following last year's reappraisal, the county assessor said his office has generally kept up on improvements made to property in the county and has adjusted tax records accordingly.

He said North felt the county had good cause for protest because the 1968 reappraisal

However, Mottl did admit that state authorities have reason to be concerned when property sells for sums substantially higher than those at which it has been appraised. He inferred that this has been the case in quite a few instances recently.

"Selling above the appraised value means property is not being assessed at 35 percent of its actual value," he said. State law requires that property be assessed at the 35 percent level.

The current hearings before the State Board of Equalization represent the first action at the state level since 1966. That year rural values in Valley County were raised 37 percent.

McNeil pointed out in his July 11 letter that his proposals were not designed to increase taxes but primarily to distribute the load more fairly in districts which overlap county lines. Where a district is contained completely within one county, his action will have no effect on the amount of taxes paid. In such cases mill levies can be reduced and still bring in the same amount of money, he said.

The tax commissioner elaborated:

"One of the most difficult problems for many taxpayers to recognize is that raising or lowering property values will not in itself affect dollars paid in property taxes."

"While it may seem to some that increasing property values means more tax dollars spent, that is not necessarily true. The important factor in determining what a taxpayer's bill will be is the amount of money spent at the local level.

"Now that the State of Nebraska no longer is supported by property tax revenue, the amount of property tax levied depends exclusively upon spending at the local level. Taxpayers should recognize that local authorities have taxing power and that it is well for them to discuss desired services and their costs with local officials and examine local budgets, including attendance at local budgetary hearings.

"All taxpayers should recognize that the county assessor, county boards of equalization,

the tax commissioner, and the State Board of Equalization have a sworn duty to find actual value.

Raising or lowering values, whether it be done by the as-essor or by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment, does not affect tax dollars unless there is greater or lesser spending at the local level or there is a basic inequity among properties in the county itself."

Among other reasons the com-misioner cited for equalizing values at current market levels were these:

• To eliminate unfairness in the sales and income taxes," the commissioner said.

Christensen opposed the site offered by VanNordheim because an all-new road would have to be built, and this road would have to cross a steep hill which would pose traffic problems—especially in winter.

Several persons asked about the odor problem, smoke, etc.

"Let me remind you," Cronk said, "the state doesn't want any more dumping like we've been doing. That's why we're looking for a site. We won't have those problems with the land fill method."

Dr. Gogan said he had done considerable research since the proposal came up, and that the literature he had read said the garbage should be covered with six inches of dirt at least once a day. "The council has said they 'hope' to cover it once a day," he added.

Food Stamp Eligibility Widened by New Rules

More Loup Valley residents will be eligible to participate in the federal food stamp program as a result of new income and asset standards which have been approved.

The new standards raise the maximum adjusted monthly income by $30 for a single person and by $75 for a family of 10. Limits for households between those extremes are increased accordingly.

The amount of maximum liquid resources a single person may possess and still be eligible for the program also has been raised—from $150 to $750. For families this figure remains the same—$1,500, regardless of family size.

Valley County will complete its first year of participation in the food stamp program on Aug. 27. Catherine Williams, an employee of the County Welfare Office, said participation has been ranging from 33 to 35 families a month. Of that number, approximately 25 are on public assistance. This is less than a quarter of the welfare cases in the county, she said.

Food stamps may be purchased in Arcadia at the medical building and in Ord at the courthouse. In Arcadia they may be bought between the hours of 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. on the first Thursday of each month, and in Ord they may be purchased from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. on the first Thursday and third Wednesday.

Because the county will soon complete its first year in the program, Aug. 20 will be the last day poor people may buy stamps at "bargain" rates. During the first year of a county's participation, any family buying stamps for the first time receives twice the number it would get ordinarily.

Food stamps may be redeemed at all grocery stores in the county, plus the Ord Cold Storage plant and the Ord Bakery. Households requesting stamps for the first time must be approved in advance by the Valley County Welfare Office. To obtain this approval, a member of the family should appear at the Welfare Office with the following:

rent or house payment receipt or other evidence of address and amount of monthly payment; any savings or checking account books; p.v. stubs for the last three months for each person employed in the family; proof of all other regular family income, such as railroad retirement, pensions, veteran's benefits, unemployment compensation, social security, etc.; and any evidence of high continuing medical costs, such as bills and receipts. Members of farm households should also bring copies of income tax form 1040 for the last three years, plus any attachments or schedules submitted with it.

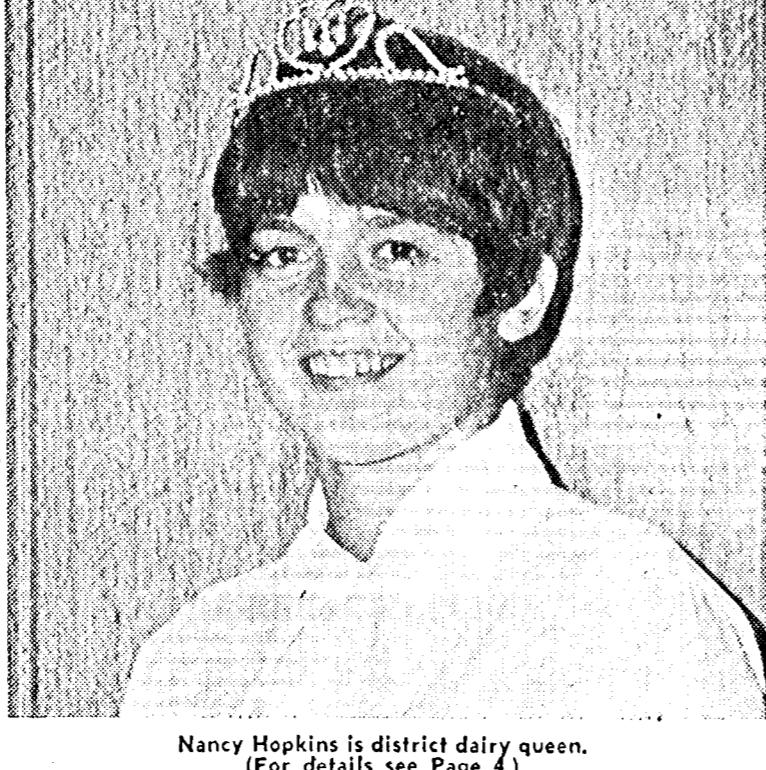

The adjusted monthly income will be determined using the following formula: (1) add monthly rent or housing payments to utility costs; (2) multiply net income (after taxes) by 30 percent; (3) subtract the 30 percent of income from total housing and utility costs; (4) add to this figure the costs for child care and unusual household expenses (medical bills, depreciation, etc.); (5) deduct this total from monthly net income.

Liquid assets, which also are used in determining eligibility, are defined as cash on hand, money in bank, time certificates, bonds, stocks, savings accounts, certain trusts, or any asset that can be readily or easily converted to a known amount of cash which may be used by the household for living expenses.

The new schedule that will be used in determining eligibility is as follows:

No. In Family	Adjusted Income	Liquid Resources
1	$150	$750
2	225	1,500
3	270	1,500
4	300	1,500
5	350	1,500
6	380	1,500
7	420	1,500
8	450	1,500
9	480	1,500
10	510	1,500

by Carol Leggett

while in Ogallala last weekend for the Western District Nebraska Press Assn. meeting, we were thrilled with a first-me visit to Front Street and chance to attend the Friday evening "Crystal Palace Review" in which Ord's Tom Furuk plays a part.

Tom is one of eight or ten college students who has taken summertime employment at Front Street this season, putting on two performances each evening — seven nights a week. An entertainer indeed, Tom contributes a great deal to the fun-filled family show which also includes pretty "dance hall" girls and an Ogallala druggist who plays a mean piano.

It was until the show was ended that daughter Number 3 expressed her disappointment for having a front row seat which Tom insisted we occupy. "I was afraid of getting kicked in the face by those chorus girls and I almost got a mouth full of shoe several times," she complained. Funny thing, but never once did I hear any of the fellows gripe even a little bit about being seated too near the stage!

So handy for a summertime (or anytime) dessert is this delicious cake recipe which requires no baking. The recipe is from the kitchen of Mrs. Rolland (Dorothy) Zukoski.

Bakeless Cake

- 1 lb. vanilla wafers, crushed
- 1 c. sugar
- 1 stick oleo
- 2 eggs, separated
- 1 small can crushed pineapple, drained
- 1/2 c. walnuts

Place half the vanilla wafer crumbs in an 8 x 8-in. pan. Cream sugar and margarine; add egg yolks. Beat. Add drained crushed pineapple and walnuts. Beat egg whites; fold into mixture. Pour on top of crumbs. Sprinkle remaining crumbs on top. Refrigerate overnight. Serve with whipped cream. Yield: 9 servings.

The Ed Marshalls were happy to receive a letter this week from their son in Vietnam. On the back of the undamaged envelope Ron had written: "For those who fight for it, life has a flavor the protected never know."

Janice Rae . . . engaged

Comstock Girl Engaged To University Student

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Radil of Comstock have announced the engagement of their daughter, Janice Rae, to William G. Arnold II, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Arnold of Broken Bow.

Miss Radil is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she was a member of Phi Mu sorority. She is doing graduate work at the University of Wyoming in Laramie, and is a teacher in the Takahama school system.

Her fiance is a student at the University of Nebraska and is affiliated with Chi Phi fraternity.

The shower is a small wooden shack in back of the hotel with only cold water. We are fortunate to have a shower.

The weather is rainy. Temperature is about 72 most of the time. It is very humid though it feels cool, and it has rained every day. The sun comes out usually part of the day.

The food doesn't taste too bad, but sanitary conditions are awful. We have a variety of meat. The fish tastes best to me. With every meal we have rice and beans, and the bread stuffs are very good. I enjoy these, I think, the most.

Prior to arriving in Barra de Colorado, Kathleen and Tom spent 21 days in San Jose. In the letter she compared the primitiveness of Barra to that of San Jose.

She also mentioned that she would accompany her husband to another post where they will fish for the tagged sharks.

Incidentally, for those who do not know, Tom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Brickner, also of the Ord community.

Mr. and Mrs. Dervin White were Saturday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Benben at the Veterans Club.

Guests of Mrs. Frances McCall for dinner at the Elks Club Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Benben and family. Following dinner, dessert was served at the McCall home.

A fish fry hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Norman was attended by Mr. and Mrs. August Bartu and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wozniak.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom McCarthy of Lincoln are visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith.

A weekend guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Corwin Cummins was John Cody of Dallas, Tex. The men are World War II friends.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Chichester were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wrage and family of Newark, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Parish and children of Cozad.

Gerry Powers arrived in Ord Monday from Kalamazoo, Mich., where she is employed as music teacher in an elementary school. She will visit the remainder of the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Powers. Judy Powers, a student at the University of Nebraska, is also at home for the balance of the summer.

Mrs. Fern Carson and Vere Carson drove to Valentine Aug. 3 for a day of sightseeing. They visited the fisheries, the museum, and the wildlife reserve.

Barry Burk Top Cowboy

Oklahoma, with one of the largest representations among contestants at Nebraska's Big Rodeo this year, produced the champion all-around cowboy. Barry Burk, who prefers wrestling livestock to riding them, beat out a host of better known contestants. Although failing to place in the average in any event, he won enough day money in calf roping and steer wrestling to take the overall title. His total take for the four-day rodeo was $725.20.

Physical examinations for the junior and senior high football teams will be given next Wednesday in the boys' locker room at the school, according to Chuck Squier, head football coach for the coming season. Examinations are scheduled from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Team members will have a meeting the same day at 4 p.m. Another meeting is scheduled for 7:30 with team members and their parents.

Services Conducted For Stillborn Baby

Graveside services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m. at the Ord City Cemetery for Michael Ray Warner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Eugene Warner of Ord. Rev. Earl Higgins officiated at the services.

Michael Ray Warner was stillborn at the Valley County Hospital on Aug. 13, 1969.

Survivors are his parents, the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Patrick of Erickson, and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Warner of Ord.

Hastings - Pearson Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Proposed Sales Tax on Services Killed by State Legislature, 30-6

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN—An attempt to assess the sales tax against a variety of services now exempt was rejected by the legislature last week.

Senator J. W. Burbach of Crofton, chairman of the revenue committee and an architect of the sales-income tax program originally installed by the 1967 session, sponsored the drive to widen the sales tax base.

Although his bill was dumped on a 30-6 vote, Burbach said it won't be many more years before Nebraskans will start shelling over their pennies for more purchases than are covered by current legislation.

His proposal this year would have broadened the scope of the sales tax to include such things as country club dues, attorney fees, haircuts and dry cleaning. Burbach said this expansion would be worth about $2 million a year to the state's treasury—at a 2 percent sales tax rate, which is considered unlikely after appropriations are completed.

The result would have been a greater chance of keeping the sales tax at about 2 percent, Burbach argued, if the coverage were broader.

$9 Million Lopped Off

The Budget Committee got another crack at the capital improvement appropriations bill last week—and chopped about $9 million.

That's the bill—LB. 1425—which had its birth in the committee and reached the floor initially with about $14 million in impact. But more than $11 million was tacked on through floor amendments, and when it came time for passage the measure could draw only 26 approving votes.

Because of a constitutional requirement that any increase over the governor's budget recommendations needs at least 33 votes, the validity of LB. 1425 was doubtful.

So the senators brought it back and gave the Budget Committee the assignment of reevaluating all appropriations and offering a recommendation which might attract the necessary 33 votes.

The committee spent its noon hour and some late afternoon time one day last week going over provisions of the bill.

After making adjustments changing the total to about $17 million, the committee voted 5-3 to send the reworked bill back to the floor—where it is bound to spark some instant replays of the amendment battles which occurred on its first trip.

One of the big switches recommended by the committee was the substitution of a $4.8 million expansion project for Love Library on the University of Nebraska's downtown Lincoln campus for a $2.2 million east campus home economics building and a $1.9 million fine arts building for the Omaha campus.

All three projects had been in the bill when the committee got it back, but the committee had given its initial endorsement only to the home ec building.

Also cut from the bill was all but $500,000 of a $2.5 million land acquisition appropriation for the University of Nebraska at Omaha, which had been added on the floor. The committee left in the bill a $60,000 grant to UNO for comprehensive campus planning—another floor addition.

Chairman Richard D. Marvel of Hastings said after the committee surgery was completed he was confident the revised measure would meet with acceptance on the floor.

Sometime this week, he should find out how good a prophet he is.

L.B. 925 Survives — Again the legislature has said for the third time it wants the self defense bill, L.B. 925.

The bill was passed originally and sent to Gov. Norbert Tieemann who vetoed it. Given another chance to decide, the senators repeated their earlier verdict and passed the measure over the governor's veto.

Last week Senator Henry F. Pedersen Jr. of Omaha gave his colleagues a third opportunity—by proposing amendments to another bill which included language repealing L.B. 925.

Pedersen said it would be sufficient merely to insert into the lawbooks a general statement that someone charged with a crime in Nebraska could use the principle of self-defense in his own case.

L.B. 925 permits the use of "any necessary force" in the defense of life or property and makes the state responsible for paying the legal expenses of someone who succeeds in proving himself innocent of an alleged crime by using self defense as an argument.

In other words, if a person is charged with manslaughter for killing someone—and proves in court that he was only defending himself at the time—his legal expenses would be paid.

The legislature voted to keep this and other provisions of L.B. 925 instead of Pedersen's proposal by defeating his amendment.

Open Door To Be Closed

Pedersen had better luck or another issue. Amendments he offered to tighten security at state hospitals for patients committed as sexual psychopaths were adopted.

Officials at the mental institutions have been criticized lately for their so-called open door policy, under which patients have the freedom to roam the unfenced hospital grounds without guards.

The amendments also spelled out the responsibility of hospital officials for notifying law enforcement agencies when a patient with a background of sex crimes escapes.

Town and Country

Mr. and Mrs. George Knecht and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Woods spent the weekend in Kearney at the Ross Woods home.

Weekend house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Ballou and family were Mrs. Ballou's brother and family, the Hans Kalinskys of Tacoma, Wash. The Kalinskys left Ord Sunday afternoon to visit relatives at McCook.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kment and family of Omaha and Tommy Schuele of Cedar Rapids spent Tuesday in the Cletus Ringlein home. Mrs. Kment is a sister of Mrs. Ringlein's.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Reiber and Kathy Timmerman of Grand Island spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Timmerman. Mr. Reiber has recently started working for the city of Grand Island as a surveyor.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Silver and family of Burwell were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Augustyn Sunday evening.

Former AFS Student From Belgium Returns With Friends for 10-Day Visit

The fame of the Valley County Fair spread to Europe.

Among those visitors attending the recent Fair here were three Belgians—Marc Henckaerts, Giselle Collon, and Claire Dery. Miss Dery is a former American Field Service exchange student here.

The three Belgians were guests of the Howard Paulsen family during their visit. They were here for 10 days, which overlapped the three-day County Fair period.

Miss Dery had made her home with the Paulsens during the 1965-66 academic year when she attended Ord High School as an AFSC student.

The trio came to the United States aboard a chartered flight arranged by former AFS students. Once they reached New York, the plane load of visitors fanned out to all sections of the country.

Miss Dery and her traveling companions visited close relatives in Delaware and New York before coming to Nebraska. Henckaerts, who works as a butcher in Belgium, spoke no English but managed to scribble a thank you note to the Paulsens after returning to New York. On the note he printed in his own hand, "Nebraska is the best state."

Neither he nor Miss Collon, who is a registered nurse, had been exchange students.

Miss Dery is trained as a teacher but currently is working as a housemother at a girls boarding school. Because of an overabundance of teachers in Belgium, there is not the demand for educators which there is in this country.

The former Ord resident is also serving as a province chairman (similar to a state chairman in this country) for the American Field Service. As such she helps select participants for the AFS.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kirby were at the Cletus Ringlein home. Mrs. Kirby is a sister of Mrs. Ringlein's.

Rites for Frank Cepelka Held Aug. 8; Body of 84-Year-Old Found at His Home

Funeral services were held Aug. 8 for Frank Cepelka, an 84-year-old native of Minnesota. Mr. Cepelka apparently died unexpectedly on July 27; however, his death was not known until the morning of Aug. 6 when a neighbor discovered the body at his home in Ord where he had resided alone the past 12 years. Rev. Earl Higgins officiated at the 10:30 a.m. service held in the Hastings-Pearson Chapel at Ord. Mrs. Sharon Fuss sang "Abide With Me" and "How Great Thou Art."

Pallbearers were Rudolph Vodhnal, Frank Maresh, Edward Hulinsky, Frank J. Hulinsky, Eldon Brucha, and Joe Peseck. Interment was in the Bohemian Cemetery with concluding services conducted by Z.C.B.J. Jungman Lodge #161.

Born Feb. 10, 1885, at Lonsdale, Minn., Mr. Cepelka was the son of John and Katherine Cepelka. He came to Valley County in 1890 with his parents.

Survivors are three sons, Frank Cepelka Jr. of Martin, S. D., Emil Cepelka of Chapman, and William Cepelka of Omaha; one daughter, Mrs. Helen Harlert of Lincoln; 13 grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren. Besides his wife, Mr. Cepelka was preceded in death by his parents and three sisters.

On Mar. 10, 1922, he and Antonia Priesler were united in marriage at Pittsburgh, Pa. After their marriage they farmed in Valley County until 1927, moving then to Martin, S. D., to reside until 1940 when they returned to Valley County. In 1956 the Cepelkas retired from their farm and moved to Ord. Mrs. Cepelka died the following year.

Mr. Cepelka was a member of Z.C.B.J. Jungman Lodge #161 and at the time of death was serving as treasurer for the Jungman Cemetery, a position he had held for several years.

Every government official or board managing public money should publish at regular intervals an accounting showing where and how each dollar is spent. The Ord Quiz holds this to be a fundamental principle of Democratic Government.

Ord Quiz*Something Was Missing

The question of what is official and what isn't has been raised again in regard to proceedings of the District 5 Board of Education.

Official minutes of the board's Aug. 4 meeting were printed in last week's Ord Quiz. These minutes show that the board convened at 8 p.m., approved the minutes of the preceding meeting, accepted the monthly treasurer's report, and then voted to pay all bills presented. The treasurer's report and a list of bills are also listed in detail. Finally, the minutes show that the board adjourned at 11:30 p.m.

Obviously, a lot more went on at this meeting than is reflected in these minutes. The agenda received by the Quiz prior to the meeting includes the following subjects: "Band Performances During School Year"; "Discussion of School Policies and Dress Regulations"; and "Superintendent's Report," including "Correspondence, Report of Subsoil Investigation for Elementary School, Shaver & Co. Report for Water and Sewer for Elementary School, Band Performances in Community and Surrounding Communities, Investment of Funds in Treasury Bills (6.2%), G's for Buses to Bid for 1969-70 School Year, Surfacing of Parking Lot and Parking Area Around School Building, and School Audit for 1968-69 Year."

After the minutes were received at the Quiz office, their incompleteness was pointed out to the superintendent who promised to bring the subject to the attention of the school board secretary. More than a week has gone by, and there has been no addition to the minutes.

It has been pointed out by school and board officials that there was much discussion at the meeting but little "official" business conducted; that is, nothing requiring a formal resolution and vote was brought up. (Informal approval, on the other hand, was apparently given to a number of subjects.) The impression is left that because none of the subjects listed on the agenda—or anything else that was brought up in the course of the meeting—required a formal, roll-call vote, there was no need to mention them in the minutes.

State statute 79-805, which was printed in more detail seven issues ago, says in part: "The secretary of the board of education shall likewise cause to be published a concise summary of all other proceedings of such meetings."

This seems clear enough.

Obviously, word-word accounts of what each board member has to say on a subject are not expected. But at least some mention of the subject, along with the general action of the board, should be included in the minutes.

This is the only way, except for attending every board meeting themselves, that citizens have of knowing what their elected representatives are discussing and doing. The officials who passed statute 79-805 "recognized" this; that is why they made it part of state law.

Wasted Pennies: Clue to Postal Poverty!

It was thoughtful—to say the least—for Senator Carl Curtis to send BOTH Quiz Editor Gerald Green and Quiz Publisher Kerry Leggett clippings from other newspapers acknowledging this paper's recent national awards.

A few words of congratulations were penned across each clipping the senior senator from Nebraska sent to the local paper.

Knowing how busy Senator Curtis is, it was evident that someone on his staff was given the job of clipping items from Nebraska papers and then presenting them to the senator for his acknowledgment.

More evident to us, though, was the fact that taxpayers are providing the money to pay the senator's office staff. It is good politics to pat the voters on the back every chance you get.

Above and beyond the obtrusive fact that we have to pay for someone to "pat our back" is the utter disregard for taxpayer's money when these congratulatory notes were mailed in a Finance Committee envelope POSTAGE FREE under the federal franking privileges extended to members of Congress.

Apparently the senator from Nebraska is too busy working with billions of dollars to "remember the pennies." That was one of the first things we learned—way back when we made our first trip to the grocery for an all-day sucker . . . "keep track of the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves."

Could this possibly be part of the reason the postal department operates at a deficit and the U.S. citizen is asked to pay more and more postage? Reminds us of the fellow that cleaned up selling beer . . . but lost his profit in the free peanuts he gave away.

Tax Reform Bill

The tax reform bill which was considered in the House of Representatives last week provides at least a 5 percent income tax reduction for almost all citizens by 1972, and a reduction of up to 64 percent for those in the lower income tax brackets. In addition, approximately 5 million families who are currently subject to income tax will be removed completely from the rolls.

In the past a few individuals who have enjoyed tremendously large incomes through tax loopholes were able to avoid the payment of income taxes. Under the new bill this will be a thing of the past.

The standard deduction for a family also will be increased from $1,000 to $2,000 and limitation on deductions for the charitable contributions has been increased to 50 percent. But at the same time the unlimited charitable deduction used by many wealthy taxpayers is phased out.

One section of particular importance to Nebraska regards absentee ownership of ranches or farms. The bill would take away present tax advantages of an absentee owner whose primary income is from sources other than agriculture. Under the present law such an individual is allowed to utilize farm losses against his primary income.

The change is a protection for those engaged primarily in ranching or farming and eliminates this unfair competition.

One other significant change regards capital gains on cattle. Under the bill cattle must be kept for three years before a capital gain may be realized. The bill requires cooperatives to pay out 50 percent of their earnings to shareholders each year and the balance within a five-year period. It also reduces the controversial oil depletion allowance from the present 27½ percent to 20 percent.

The committee worked out a rather complicated formula which allows a municipality to issue bonds that are not tax exempt, with the federal government subsidizing the interest up to 40 percent.

The Scott Report*Outsiders—Including Americans—Join Arab Combat Forces Opposing Israel

By Paul Scott
WASHINGTON — An international brigade of the "new left" is being formed to fight with Arab guerrillas against Israel.

Members of this elite group, now numbering more than 300, come from 20 non-Arab countries and include Americans, Western Europeans, Russians, and Cubans.

Organized by the Palestine National Liberation Movement (Al Fatah), the international brigade is being trained at a secret camp north of Amman, Jordan, and equipped with Soviet and Chinese-made arms.

American intelligence authorities, who are closely watching this ominous new development in the Middle East, report that Al Fatah is working hand in hand with Russian embassies in western countries to recruit militant students and other left extremists into the new guerrilla force.

Patterned after the international brigades that Moscow organized during the Spanish Civil War, the new "far left" military units appear to be the vanguard of a much larger anti-Israel force.

Besides training in guerrilla-type warfare, members of the first international brigade are receiving leadership courses so they can organize and lead other units that will be formed later this year and during 1970.

American diplomats in the Middle East say this is the first known instance since the Palestine War of 1948 that a number of non-Arab volunteers have received combat training to fight for the Arab side.

Their confidential reports reveal that Al Fatah, most powerful of five guerrilla organizations represented in the Amman Command, receives the new released Palestine Armed Struggle via Copenhagen, Denmark.

After being carefully screened by a global "national liberation movement" operating in Copenhagen, the "volunteers" are flown weekly to Amman on chartered planes.

Money for the recruiting and transportation to Jordan is believed to come from the Soviet embassy in Copenhagen, which has established close relationships with militant leaders of the "new left" movement in Western Europe.

Planes for Israel

The long-delayed delivery of supersonic F4 Phantom jets to Israel will begin in about three weeks unless President Richard Nixon has a last-minute change of mind.

Four of the 50 Phantoms—the 1,200 mile-an-hour aircraft purchased by Israel more than a year ago—will be delivered early in September. Four additional planes will be sent each month until the order is completed.

Preparations for delivery coincide at a time American authorities are reviewing the growing Egyptian and Israeli localized air war and wondering whether it can stay that way.

From the Arab side, Egypt's emerging strategy appears to be what President Nasser describes to foreign callers as a "war of attrition." This calls for sustained Egyptian air and ground harassment of the Israeli occupation troops in Sinai until a much larger "international force" can be organized.

Under these ground rules the war remains limited as long as neither side bombs civilian targets from the air, employs strategic or medium-range missiles, or undertakes land offensives by large quantities of armor or infantry.

So far, Israeli officials have accepted the ground rules. However, they were recently shaken when Arab bombers flew concerted attacks against their forces in Sinai for the first time since 1948.

If these attacks are repeated, Israeli diplomats here say their air force will retaliate with a major strike against Egypt's military airfields and communication and power facilities.

The Air Forces

An authoritative estimate of air strength gives Israel a combat force, including Mirage-C and Skyhawk planes, of 285 aircraft. This compares to 197 before the June 1967 war.

body shop in a residential area was one of the examples cited to illustrate the need for such an ordinance.

Dear Sir:

In regard to Mr. Turek's speech in last week's Quiz; I was wondering how much he was paid by this young, friendly, well-known businessman to write it.

My letter is for free.

Mr. Turek lived on a farm before moving to town. Did you know he raised a few hogs? I wonder if he bred his sows artificially so he wouldn't have all that boar smell.

Where was the Ord sale barn when Mr. Turek moved into his present home? In its present location 50 years past. Then why is all of a sudden all the stink?

In regard to the city councilmen, maybe they would rather build a fawn than break it.

Have you gone past the place and noticed how much neater it looks with the old blacksmith shop gone? Talking to the blacksmith the other evening, he said he gets enough fresh air through his shop to offset the boar smell.

I think the business people in town realize how many people sell a load of hogs at the sale barn, then walk two blocks to spend part of their money — maybe all of it — before leaving town.

Maybe you would rather have your sale barn like your creamery. Having to deliver my cream to Burwell, I leave the biggest share of my check there.

Having worked at the sale barn 15 years, I have stayed till midnight, maybe 1 or 2 o'clock, dredging hogs and moving cattle to lower yards so the noise wouldn't wake you. That way the neighbor's dog could do it.

Think this over, people. Would another small hog pen make this much difference?

If Really Don't Matter Who's to Blame – The Working Man Still Ain't Getting Rich

The guy that runs the store was busy with his new price-marking outfit when the fellers got there Saturday night. He was back in the canned goods with one of them ink pads and a stamper with a handle on it.

He said until the past year or so he could keep in mind the price of everything in the place, but the wholesalers kept going up on their prices so fast he can't recollect all the changes. He said if he didn't keep a close check, especially on meat, he would be selling stuff for less than he paid for it.

It's a downright shame, the fellers said, how everything keeps going up except wages. It ain't so much that the price of everything is so high, he allowed, as it is that the value of money is so low.

Until recently, he said, we compared our dollar with the 1929 dollar, but we ain't seen that lately. It must be 'cause the 1929 dollar wouldn't buy any thing in '39, so the economists had to come up to about '49 before they could tip the scales.

Watching the store fellers mark everything up a nickel or two, the fellers got to discussing the cause of inflation.

Frank Napravek said right off it was the banks 'cause they control how much money is around, how much it's worth, and how much it costs to borrow it.

Ken Collins disagreed with Frank, as usual. Actually, said Ken, banks compete for business like everybody else, and it is spend-crazy Democrats that got the country in this fix.

For instance, Ken went on, when the Nixon Administration went in, the national debt was pushing $35 billion and the interest was $16.5 billion a year. By keeping the surtax, allowed Ken, we can take in $7.6 billion more, but the interest on the debt had grown to $17.5 billion by the start of this fiscal year.

"There ain't no way the administration can gain any ground swimming against such a current," were Ken's words.

Ed Novak said he don't understand all he knows about money matters, but he agreed with Ken.

Life-Long Resident Of Burwell Buried

Funeral services were held Aug. 2 for Bertha Freeland, 51, at St. John's Lutheran Church in Burwell with Pastor Donald L. Boeschen officiating.

Mrs. Freeland was well known to many in this vicinity as she was manager of the Burwell Girl Scout Club for 12 years, and before that was a cook at the club.

The former Bertha May Kinney was born in Burwell May 16, 1918, and died at the Burwell Community Hospital on July 30, 1969, following an illness of two years and hospitalization the past month.

She attended Burwell schools and spent her entire life in and around the man's buying power, and there ain't no doubt that's getting weaker. Ed had seen where a seller making $12 a week now has $7 of buying power, and this is $2 weaker than a year ago.

Democrat Frank said the Republicans are known far and wide for their depressions, and Ken was just running scared. He said Ken has lambasted Democrats for eight years of steady prosperity and couldn't stand to face the sellers if the bottom falls out.

Yours truly,

Pioneer Cattleman Albert Treptow Dies; Funeral Services Conducted at Comstock

Albert Treptow, a longtime resident of Valley and Custer counties, died Friday in Ord at the age of 83.

Mr. Treptow was born to Herman and Marie Walker Treptow on Dec. 14, 1885, in Clay County. He came to Valley County with his parents at an early age, and in 1910 was united in marriage to Theresa Reiter at Taylor. After marriage they made their home on a farm near Burwell. In 1940 they moved to a farm at Comstock where Mr. Treptow had lived since that time. His wife died in 1959.

Mr. Treptow was baptized into the Lutheran Church and was a member of the Comstock United Methodist Church. In 1966 he received a pioneer's award for selling livestock on the Omaha market for 50 years.

He is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Alberta Young Salinas, Calif.; Mrs. LaVerne Almquist, Grand Island; Mrs. Virginia Togian, Haywood, Calif.; Mrs. Marie Landre, Castro Valley, Calif.; and Mrs. Evelyn Erikson, Comstock; five sons, Louis Treptow, Spokane, Wash.; Carroll Treptow, Spokane; Herman Treptow, San Francisco, Calif.; and Emery and Calvin Treptow, Comstock; 14 grandchildren; and 10 great-grandchildren.

Besides his wife, Mr. Treptow was preceded in death by his parents, four sisters, and two brothers.

Funeral services were held Monday at 10 a.m. in the United Methodist Church of Comstock, with Rev. Robert Frescoln officiating. Clayton Montanye sang "Beyond the Sunset" and "How Great Thou Art," accompanied at the organ by Mrs. James Riddle.

Pallbearers were Malon Granger, Ludvik Visek, Donald Bruce and Leah Bickner.

Marsh, Henry Nuxoll, Clint Dye, and Vance Grabowski. Interment was in Douglas Grove Cemetery, Hastings. Pearson Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Chant Coach Is Optimistic

38 Grididers Report for First Workout; Quarterback Search Given Top Priority

Speed, size, and experience — some of the most important attributes of a winning football team — will all be in short supply on the Ord High gridiron this fall. But new head coach Chuck Squier hasn't given up hopes of reversing last year's 2-7 record yet.

Squier welcomed 38 boys at his team's first workout Monday morning. By nightfall he was talking about winning games with superior conditioning, and there wasn't a candidate among the 38 hopefuls who didn't know what he was talking about. More than two miles of running that day had convinced them the new coach was going to live up to his promise of having a well conditioned team.

"We'll work on the premise that if we're in better condition than our opponents we'll win our share of the games," Squier said. "During the first two weeks of practice we'll be running between two and three miles each day."

For the past three days the team has been working out three times daily. As of today, there'll be only two sessions daily — at 4 and 7 p.m. because of school starting.

Not in Shape

The new coach, who served as an assistant under Dave Van Nordheim last year, said he was neither encouraged nor discouraged by the first day of workouts.

However he said he was "disappointed in the overall condition" his squad reported in. "A few boys were in pretty good shape, but most of them weren't," he said. "We'll have them ready by the time we play our first game, though."

Squier listed his most pressing problem as finding a quarterback. He has three candidates to choose from, and none of them has played a down of varsity ball.

The three are Tom Osentowski, who'll be a junior this fall; Paul Markley, a sophomore; and Danny Jones, another sophomore. While all show promise, none has been tested in the fire of varsity competition yet. And that will probably hurt, Squier says.

Up for Grabs

"To play good caliber Class B football you've got to have a quarterback with experience," he explained, "and we don't. It'll show especially in the early games."

He said all three candidates will be given an equal chance at winning the starting role.

Osentowski quarterbacked the reserve team through an up-and-down season last year, while Markley headed a fine junior high team that posted a 6-0 record. Jones was his backup man.

Quite a few other members of that undefeated junior high team will undoubtedly see action this fall. One reason is the fact that only three full-time starters and two half-time regulars return. But that's not all.

Short on Depth

"With 38 players, we'll have to depend on every boy that's out," Squier said. "Most of them will play a lot, either on the varsity or the reserve team."

One of the sophomores who was already making his presence felt the first day was halfback David John, who demonstrated his eagerness by winning the mile in that afternoon's running competition.

Besides the good crop of sophomores, Squier's plusses include a pair of experienced running backs, some good ends, and a dependable center.

The backs are seniors Bruce Hubert and Jim Novotny. Neither is very big (145 and 135 pounds, respectively), but both are quick. And both were occasional starters last year.

"I don't think anybody will get them one on one," Squier stated. "If we can get them into the open field, they have a tendency to fumble, though, and that will have to be corrected."

Good Ends

At end the coach begins with senior Paul Markley, who started almost every game last

Farming Course Set for Veterans At Burwell

An agriculture course for veterans has been approved and will begin Oct. 4 in Burwell.

Twelve hours of classes will be conducted each week, and the subject matter will be arranged so that newcomers may begin the course the first session of every month.

Veterans with six months or more of active duty after Jan. 31, 1955, are eligible for the schooling. They should fill out application forms which may be obtained from Terrell Sanders of Burwell or any service officer. John Woob of Ord is the service officer for Valley County.

In order to participate in the October classes, veterans should complete their forms by next Monday. Discharge papers, marriage certificates and birth certificates of all children will be needed to complete the forms.

One of the younger readers of the Ord Quiz is Coleen Fafeita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Fafeita of Los Angeles, Calif., and granddaughter of the Frank Fafeitas of Ord. Coleen agrees with her Dad and Mom that the Quiz each week is like a letter from home.

Pints Turn Into Gallons — Lots of 'Em — As Bloodmobile Makes Banner Haul

It was a happy day for Mrs. Clark Weckbach, blood program chairman, when the bloodmobile visited Ord Tuesday. One hundred fifty three pints of blood were collected — 43 pints over the quota — and not one donor refused.

Senior Bill Miller was a part-time starter at the tightend position last year and a full-time starter at linebacker.

Also touted at end is little Al Hastings, another senior, who looked good on defense during a few brief appearances last season. And on offense Squier likes junior Darrell Farmer, who has "real good hands."

Bruce Worm, a senior, is counted as the anchor of the line.

If he started most of last season at guard after spending his sophomore season as a center on the reserve team, he's being shifted to the pivot for this year's campaign.

There's also good depth at this position, with junior Danny Timmerman the backup man.

Watch the Wolfpack

Other players the Chanticleer coaches are counting on include defensive backs Jim Naeve, a junior, and Dennis Kamard, a senior; guard — linebackers Bob Peterson, a junior, and Loren Vaucura, a senior; and tackles Stan Axthelm, a junior, and Chuck Setlik, a senior.

It's been five years since the Chants had anything better than a mediocre season. That year the "ski" boys — Rich Osentowski, Mike Zulko, and Eugene Markowski — led the Chants to a 7-2 record, the No. 4 Class B rating in the state, and the Central 10 Conference championship.

In an effort to regain some of that glory, Squier has rejudged the coaching assignments. Instead of a line-backfield arrangement for his assistants, as Van Nordheim employed last season, he has gone to an offense-defense arrangement.

Ken Trubey handled the backs last year, but is now in charge of the overall defense.

"We'll have a lot of pride on our defensive unit," he said Monday, announcing that he's already picked out a name for the defenders. "We're going to call them the Wolfpack," he stated.

Fred Williams, who sat out football and concentrated on cross-country last season, will coach the offensive line. Squier will handle the offensive backfield himself.

Home Schedule Helps

The Chants will alternate between a T and wing-T offense. However, Squier promised "to open up more" than last year, despite the lack of a proven quarterback.

"With our size we won't be able to play three-yards-and-a-cloud-of-dust," he explained. "We'll be forced to open up."

The size Squier speaks of includes only one man — Setlik — who goes over 200 pounds. He weighed in at 215. Then it drops all the way to Miller at 185.

The schedule is another tough one, though the home-field advantage should help some. This year's agenda is the same as last year's, except that the teams trade home fields. That means the Chants will be at home for five of their nine games, including all of those with their more distant foes.

Gothenburg comes here to open the season, followed by a visit from Holdrege. Then it's Albin away at the Big 10 opener, Aurora here, Central City away, St. Paul away, Broken Bow here, Lexington here, and Grand Island Northwest away.

In summing up his initial observations, Squier stated: "We're really an unknown quantity because of our lack of experience. We have some talent, but we don't have the slightest idea how they'll react under pressure."

"I believe, though, that if we can get by our first two ball games we'll have as good a chance as anyone at winning the Central 10 championship."

Bid Invitations Sent Out For New Grade School

Bids are being advertised this week for Ord's new grade school building following approval of the final plans and color scheme Tuesday night.

At a special meeting held in the administration conference room, the District 5 Board of Education formally approved the plans which had been drawn up by Shaver & Co. There were no major changes in building design from plans that had been presented earlier.

Bids will be opened Sept. 23 in the office of Dr. William Gogan, superintendent of schools. Officials of Shaver & Co., the architectural firm which drew up the plans and will oversee construction of the building, said at the Tuesday meeting that bids will be accepted for both the overall project and for the different facets of construction. They said the overall contracting firm would be responsible for coordinating and supervising the work of subcontractors such as carpet layers, plumbers, etc.

In approving the invitation for bids, school board members withdrew their requirement that the building should be ready for occupancy by September, 1970.

He also expressed strong reservations that 16th Street could be extended without causing water to back up in the yards of nearby houses during rainy weather.

When board members agreed that the street extension was not feasible, Dr. Otis Miller suggested that a sidewalk or walkway be put in so that children coming from the eastern part of town would not have to go all the way around by the county road. Holding said this would be done.

The architects did agree to one possible street change suggested by the school board. Instead of coming up the old Dobrovsky driveway from the northwest, the board members felt the street they would rather have an entrance come more directly from the north and curve around in front of the school. It would exit the county road at a point where that road swings from a southerly direction to southwesterly.

They felt this would cut down on the grade and would be especially beneficial in icy weather.

A 10 percent grade is anticipated if the entrance remains in the Dobrovsky driveway.

Board members plan to contact both the city and the county and request that the level of the road which runs alongside the school property be raised at one or both of the proposed entrances. This would cut the grade down still further, they said.

Gerald Decker, principal of the grade school, said he felt the 13 parking areas planned for the school staff would not be sufficient. The school has 21 teachers now, he said. The architects now suggest to work in some additional spaces.

Thirty-two spaces are being planned for public parking in front of the school.

Heating and air conditioning inside the building were also matters of concern for the board members. They questioned Willis Bell, Shaver's director of engineering, in particular about the boiler system.

Bell confirmed that the boiler would be located indoors but said it would be the safest type available.

For instance, he said, it will be equipped with an automatic shutdown feature should the flame go out, and it will have the latest relief valves.

He also pointed out that it would circulate hot water rather than steam. A boiler which blew up several years ago at the Ord High School circulated steam. The hot water does not require as great a pressure, he said.

They felt this would cut down on the grade and would be especially beneficial in icy weather.

The one vehicle entrance will be in approximately the same spot where the Dobrovsky driveway is located now. School board members suggested that a second entrance be made by extending 16th Street, but Holding said that the terrain made this monetarily impractical.

A street could be put in, he said, "but it would be fairly expensive. We considered it but decided we should not penalize the building by spending several thousand dollars on a street."

They felt this would cut down on the grade and would be especially beneficial in icy weather.

The one vehicle entrance will be in approximately the same spot where the Dobrovsky driveway is located now. School board members suggested that a second entrance be made by extending 16th Street, but Holding said that the terrain made this monetarily impractical.

A street could be put in, he said, "but it would be fairly expensive. We considered it but decided we should not penalize the building by spending several thousand dollars on a street."

He also expressed strong reservations that 16th Street could be extended without causing water to back up in the yards of nearby houses during rainy weather.

When board members agreed that the street extension was not feasible, Dr. Otis Miller suggested that a sidewalk or walkway be put in so that children coming from the eastern part of town would not have to go all the way around by the county road. Holding said this would be done.

The architects did agree to one possible street change suggested by the school board. Instead of coming up the old Dobrovsky driveway from the northwest, the board members felt the street they would rather have an entrance come more directly from the north and curve around in front of the school. It would exit the county road at a point where that road swings from a southerly direction to southwesterly.

They felt this would cut down on the grade and would be especially beneficial in icy weather.

A 10 percent grade is anticipated if the entrance remains in the Dobrovsky driveway.

Board members plan to contact both the city and the county and request that the level of the road which runs alongside the school property be raised at one or both of the proposed entrances. This would cut the grade down still further, they said.

Gerald Decker, principal of the grade school, said he felt the 13 parking areas planned for the school staff would not be sufficient.

Heating and air conditioning inside the building were also matters of concern for the board members. They questioned Willis Bell, Shaver's director of engineering, in particular about the boiler system.

Bell confirmed that the boiler would be located indoors but said it would be the safest type available.

For instance, he said, it will be equipped with an automatic shutdown feature should the flame go out, and it will have the latest relief valves.

He also pointed out that it would circulate hot water rather than steam. A boiler which blew up several years ago at the Ord High School circulated steam. The hot water does not require as great a pressure, he said.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

With the Labor Day weekend soon to be here and the driving habits, techniques and courtesies stressed more today than ever before I'll share these Ten Commandments For Safe Driving submitted to me this week by a friend.

1. Thou shalt hold nothing but thy steering wheel.

2. Thou shalt not make unto thee a god of thy horsepower.

3. Thou shalt not take the center lane in vain.

4. Remember the driver behind to let him pass.

5. Honor thy father and mother and thine other passengers.

6. Thou shalt not kill any pedestrian.

7. Thou shalt not commit drunken driving.

8. Thou shalt not steal thy neighbor's eyes with thy headlights nor his ear with thy horn, nor his enjoyment with thy litter.

9. Thou shalt not bear false witness with thy signals.

10. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's right of way.

It is always a joy to hear from friends who once lived in the community. Thank you for keeping in touch.

During mail call last week I received a letter from Anna Bazant a native of Ord who moved from the area in 1926 — of Lebanon, Ore. She sent this recipe called "Best Ever" Dill Pickles.

Pack cucumbers in jars with grape leaves and dill (garlic optional), 1/4 t. mustard seed in each jar, add to a boil one gallon water, 1 c. cider vinegar, 1/2 c. pickling salt, 1 c. sugar, 1/2 t. alum. Pour over cucumbers and seal tightly. Then process for four minutes after boiling begins.

Mrs. Bazant considers this one of her favorite recipes and claims there will never be a soft pickle when you open the jar.

An old timer remembers when back to school sales meant pencils instead of con- verables.

Imagine the happiness present when Mrs. Anna Visek and other relatives were reunited with Mr. and Mrs. James Zelenka of Salt Lake City, Utah. It had been 60 years since the cousins had been together. Mr. Zelenka had contacted Mrs. Visek through an article in Women's Circle magazine which was reprinted in this column about a year ago.

Cheryl Calvin Exchanges Marriage Vows With Gary Fisher in Evening Ceremony

In an evening setting Saturday at the United Methodist Church of Ord Cheryl Ann Calvin became the bride of Gary Fisher.

Rev. Clarence Campbell read the marriage lines at 7:30 p.m. Appropriate nuptial music was played by organist Janice Rathbun, and Mrs. Nancy Vogeler sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "Whither Thou Goest."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Calvin of Ord. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fisher of Glendale, Mo., are the groom's parents.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride appeared in a full-length candlelight Peau de Soie A-line gown styled with lace bodice, high collar, and long tapered sleeves ending in lace and tiny covered buttons. A full train extended from a back pleat.

Miss Calvin also wore a short veil of illusion, and a nosegay of bittersweet points and white stephanotis completed her ensemble.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Laurie Brechbill of Ord. Bridesmaid was Mrs. Jodie Ramsay of Lincoln, and bridesmaid was Vickie Calvin of Ord, also sister of the bride.

The attendants wore full-length, A-line gowns of candlelight Peau de Soie accented with long, moss-green sashes. Each carried a single bittersweet bunch.

Best man was Roy Fisher of St. Louis, Mo. Other attendants were Donald Fowler and Jake Dieffenbach, both of St. Louis.

Seating the guests were Pierre Emont, Montreal, Canada;

Garth Ramsay, brother-in-law of the bride, Lincoln; Jeffrey Calvin, brother of the bride, Ord; and Denny Brechbill, brother-in-law of the bride, Ord.

Michael Zlomke of Ord lit the tapers. The flower girl was Renae Brechbill, and the ring bearer was Shawna Brechbill. They are a niece and nephew of the bride.

A reception followed in the church basement with Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Zlomke of Ord as host and hostess. Servers were Mrs. Clayton Zlomke, Waco, Tex.; Mrs. Robert Foster, Edina, N.Y.; Michelle Markley, Ord; and Mrs. James Horky, St. Paul.

The gifts were cared for by Mrs. Doug Wert, Ord, and Mrs. Mervin Reed, Loup City. Karyl Fisher of St. Louis, Mo., presided at the guest book.

For their wedding trip to Colorado, the bride wore a black cotton A-line dress with a black and white flowered tunic.

The bride attended the University of Nebraska and the University of Kansas. The groom attended Westminster College,

This was the team that carried Ord colors to third place during the recent Sherman-Howard Baseball League season. Kneeling left to right are Ron Mroczek, Ken Watson, Rich Psota, Ron Drudik, and Merrill Mason. Standing are Coach Ed Psota, Leo Thomsen, John Linke, Jim Hulinsky, Jim Lukesh, Rusty Belina, and Roger Psota. The team bowed out of the post-season playoffs last week when it lost to Wood River, 5-2, in the third game of a best-of-three series.

1969 Baseball Season Terminates At Local Level as Ord, Scotia Bow

The Sherman-Howard League's two best baseball teams over the long haul are also best in the short run.

Wood River and Cairo, who finished 1-2 during the regular season, both won deciding contests last week to set up a showdown with each other in the finals of the league playoffs. Wood River stopped Ord, 5-2, to win a best-of-three series, two games to one. Cairo, meanwhile, nipped Scotia, 4-3, to also win its series by a two-to-one margin.

The North Loup Valley was consequently left without a representative in the finals. Since play had already closed in other local leagues, the two games brought to an end the 1969 baseball season in this area.

Scoring four runs in the first two innings, Wood River had a fairly easy time with Ord in their rubber match. Cairo had an easy time too for eight innings, but wound up fighting for its playoff life against Scotia. When that game ended, the losers had the bases loaded and had already scored three runs in the ninth inning.

Backed by a three-run outburst in the first frame, Dave Rombach of Cairo pitched no hit ball for eight innings. But in the ninth he had to be bailed out by Dave Townsend as Scotia made a final desperate bid to stay in the running for the play-off of a championship it won last year.

Cairo thus came back to win the series after losing the first game.

A pass of Ord errors helped take Wood River to a 2-0 lead in the first inning of their game, and the margin ballooned to 40 when Jerry Nicholansen homered with one aboard in the second. The score eventually went to 50 before Ord closed the gap with two runs in the eighth inning.

Ericson Captures Area Softball Title With 11-2 Triumph

Winning a come-from-behind effort against Spalding in the key game, Ericson surged to the championship of the area softball tournament last week.

The playoff winners had finished third during the regular season and Spalding first. But in their second-round tournament, Ericson rallied from a 4-2 deficit to win a 5-4 decision. Then in the title game, the winners bombed Greeley's Knights of Columbus, 11-2. In a first-round game, John Linke at second on a ground ball.

In the first inning Ord failed to score after getting runners on first and third with one out. That threat fizzled when Wood River catcher Randy Speichs picked Hulinsky off first and Rich Psota popped up.

Despite the loss, Ord finished the year as the only team to beat Wood River twice—unless Cairo did it in their final series.

Ord took one of two regular-season contests from the champions in addition to claiming the one playoff victory.

Legislative, Executive Factions Duel Over Unicameral's Funding Policies

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

administration has been doing the trespassing.

Senator C. W. Holquist of Oakland said the fight was silly. He said the executive and legislative branches both should be seeking the same results — information upon which to base intelligent decisions about how state government should be financed and managed.

He said "intelligent adults" should be able to sit down and come to a solution acceptable to both sides and save the state money to boot.

As budget bills stood at the end of the week, more than $400,000 was ticketed to hire supporting staff for the legislature and about $118,000 was earmarked to pay salaries for additional DAS budget officers.

In commenting on his decision to leave state government, Rogers complained of what he called an attitude of "distrust and suspicion" toward the executive branch on the part of the legislature.

He said the senators pile responsibilities on the administration, particularly the budget division of DAS, but fail to follow through with appropriations large enough to permit an adequate staff to be hired.

Rogers' comments, which were endorsed later by Gov. Norbert Tiemann, set the stage for a ringing rebuttal from Senator Richard Marvel of Hastings, chairman of the budget committee and chief architect of an appropriations bill making it absolutely clear how the legislature wants the money spent.

Mavel said it wasn't the legislature which was encroaching upon the executive's power.

Just the opposite, he said. The legislative and executive branches of government are natural enemies. And even though there have been skirmishes at the state level throughout 1969—stretching back even to a special legislative session last December—seldom has each side presented its case as strongly as last week.

What sparked it was the announcement by Robert Rogers that he was resigning, effective Sept. 1, as director of the Department of Administrative Services.

In commenting on his decision to leave state government, Rogers complained of what he called an attitude of "distrust and suspicion" toward the executive branch on the part of the legislature.

He said the senators pile responsibilities on the administration, particularly the budget division of DAS, but fail to follow through with appropriations large enough to permit an adequate staff to be hired.

The Final Week?

This was supposed to be the final week of the 1969 session it still could be, but most observers figure it probably won't be.

A post-Labor Day extension of a session which already has broken all records for longevity appears to be inevitable.

Until late last week, the Friday target date for final adjournment seemed to be realistic. But the lawmakers began adopting a series of amendments to adjust bills awaiting passage. Each amendment requires a lot of behind-the-scenes work by the legislative staff.

These late-session amendments were clogging the procedural pipelines, and officials admitted at week's end the only way to end the session Friday would be to kill all unfinished business.

A lot of the business expected to be unfinished Friday involves appropriations, and much of the money involved would implement programs adopted earlier — giving individual senators reasons for wanting to make sure the funding gets passed.

So, even though the lawmakers were as eager to go home as some citizens are for them to quit, an extension was likely.

On the other hand, there was a faction in the chamber which preferred to have the session end without the supplemental budget measures passed.

Senator Clifton Batchelder of Omaha did his best last week to kill the second supplemental measure.

He said the additional state spending "contributes to the terrible monster inflation which is creeping up on us." He said passage of the bill would "border on treason."

Batchelder urged his colleagues to "have compassion on the normal people who have no retarded children and who aren't on welfare," but who have to bear the load of steadily increasing taxes.

Information available but weekend indicated the sales tax would need to be 3 percent and the income tax 13 percent if all the budget proposals then pending were adopted.

Schools in the News

Mandatory school redistricting was back in the legislative news this week.

The Education Committee earlier had killed a bill which would have put on the 1970 general election ballot a constitutional amendment to forced consolidation of all districts into kindergarten-through-high school units.

But last week Senator Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff introduced a resolution to do the same thing. Carpenter voted without success to have the resolution considered after an overnight lull over, but foes of mandatory redistricting forced the issue back to the Education Committee.

The committee held a public hearing Monday.

It generally was assumed the legislature could put an issue on the ballot only through a bill, but a 1966 attorney general's opinion was discovered which said the resolution method was equally valid.

An organization of laymen and educators said it was poised to begin a petition campaign to put the constitutional amendment on the ballot by initiative if the last-ditch effort in the legislature failed.

Grandson Marries

Mrs. Elsie Rathbun went with her niece Mrs. Ron Ritz of Comstock, to Smithville, Saturday. They attended the wedding of Elsie's grandson, Drew Pearson, to Judy Stine.

Personals

Mrs. Gerald Dockhorn brought her mother-in-law, Mrs. May Dockhorn, home from Lincoln Friday. May had spent some time visiting there.

Bernice Cornell went to Friend with her granddaughter, Carolyn Cornell, to visit the Melvin Cornells for a few days.

Parkview residents were sorry to hear of the accidental death of Mrs. Helen Tucker, who was killed while watching the stock car races at Hemingford. Mrs. Tucker was a sister of Mary Kokes, a former resident of Parkview.

Members of the J.F.F. Club went to the Veterans Club for dinner Wednesday evening. Later they were Elsie Rathbun for dessert. Members are Dona and Mena Jorgenson, Inn Flynn, Agnes Dodge, Anna Holmes, Eva Robinson, Ferne Carson, and Elsie Rathbun. Dora Jorgenson's birthday was also celebrated.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clemonts and Mrs. Grace Rice were Tuesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hackett.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kelly of Detroit, Mich., visited recently with their aunt, Mildred Anderson. They were also guests of another aunt, Mrs. Ed Vodehna.

While here they visited Fort Hartsuff and Sherman Dam. Mrs. Kelly is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bill Green, Kim and Debbie, of Dallas, Tex.

To Attend Funeral

Mrs. Mary Baum of Springfield, Mo., was a house guest last week of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Zeleski. She also visited the Joe Polak, Harry Michalski, and John and Joe Paprocki families, as well as Rose Baum at North Loup. Friday guests of the Zeleskis were Mrs. Emma Pader and Mrs. Lumir Cadek of North Loup.

Mrs. Baum came to Ord for the funeral of her cousin, Peter Duda.

Safe and Sound

Mrs. Jennie Biemond was relieved to talk by telephone last week with a son-in-law, Dallas Davis, and learn of the family's safety. Hurricane Camille hit only a few miles from the Seward, La., area where they reside. The only damage at the Davis home was to three trees in the back yard.

Texas Guests

House guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Green and son four days last week were Mr. Green's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Green, Kim and Debbie, of Dallas, Tex.

Crops Damaged by Summer Drought May Still Be Utilized as Winter Feed

By John Schade

Drought-damaged corn, sorghum, and grain sorghum can be salvaged for winter feed by ensiling. Ideally, corn and other grain crops should be in the medium-to-late dough stage if the highest volume of nutrients is to be preserved in silage.

Crops which are severely damaged by drought deteriorate in nutritive value daily. Harvesting should be completed before excessive loss of leaves and other plant parts occur.

Drought-damaged forage can be ensiled either in a trench, upright, or in a pit-type silo. Care must be taken to provide sufficient water if the material is excessively dry. Water is needed not only to help in fermentation, but also to aid in packing. Proper packing is very essential to the ensiling process.

If the crops being ensiled are very immature because of drought, it may be necessary to add grain or other high cellulose materials to improve fermentation.

All plants contain some nitrates; however, excessive amounts are likely to occur in forages which have been grown under stress, such as drought. Harvesting such crops for silage greatly reduces the danger of excessive nitrates. The normal fermentation process tends to reduce nitrate content of forage. Forages that are high in nitrate will normally lose 40 to 60 percent of their nitrate content during fermentation. Because of this, drought-damaged forage should be harvested with more concern to saving the nutrients available than to reducing the nitrate content. An analysis of the silage prior to use will be helpful in designing feeding programs that will prevent losses from nitrate.

Farmers are warned, however, against harvesting the lower portion of the stalk. This is because the nitrate content is highest close to the ground. In making silage, raise the cutter to that (up to 18 inches of the plants are left) and much of the nitrate will also be left.

Anyone who is concerned about nitrates in silage should have an analysis made. If the test reveals high nitrates, steps can be taken in feeding and management so that the high-nitrate roughage can be used.

Information on the feeding of high-nitrate roughages can be obtained from the County Extension Office.

The Agriculture Dept. reports that the higher livestock prices in the first half of 1969 were due largely to rising consumer income, a high employment rate, and inflationary pressures.

Continued strong demand for meat is likely the rest of the year, according to government agricultural experts.

Livestock prices this summer and fall are expected to remain below early-summer highs but above prices of a year ago.

Slightly larger red meat supplies this July through December are expected with increases in beef output more than offsetting any declines in pork, veal, and lamb.

September plans of the organization include an initiation of freshman girls.

As a conclusion to the afternoon meeting, the FFA Constitution was reviewed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Garnick.

According to Whom?

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances."

The foregoing has been a part of the United States Constitution since Dec. 15, 1791, when it was approved as the first article in the Bill of Rights.

Even though freedom of press has been guaranteed by this article for more than 169 years, government bureaucrats are continually advocating new strictures on the nation's newspapers. Speaking at a recent meeting of the American Bar Assn., for example, Kenneth Cox said that Congress should require newspapers to give equal space and free right of reply to anyone criticized in print.

Mr. Cox, who is the Federal Communications Commissioner, based his reasoning on the Supreme Court's decision last June requiring that radio and television stations give equal time and free right of reply to anyone criticized through those media.

"Congress could — if it wished — constitutionally apply counterparts of our equal time and right-of-reply obligations to most newspapers," Mr. Cox said, "since they move in, or clearly affect, interstate commerce and since the public interest in their providing their readers with both sides of important questions is clear."

With the latter part of Mr. Cox's statement there can be no argument. Newspapers do have a responsibility to provide their readers with both sides of important questions that are discussed on their news pages. Only by having all the information that is available can the reader make an intelligent decision.

But if this requirement were to become the law of the land, who would have the responsibility of deciding when it had been complied with? Would it not be some member of government directly affiliated with a particular political party? And would this individual — who, unlike the publisher, would be dependent on that political party for his professional security — be so much more unbiased that he could tell when both sides of a question had been properly aired?

Furthermore, a newspaper's responsibilities do not consist solely of informing the public. It also has a leadership function to perform through its editorial pages and columns. This function would be seriously jeopardized if every individual who felt he had been criticized were then given free access to the paper's news and/or editorial columns.

While these same arguments could be made in defense of the broadcast media, there is one basic difference between them and newspapers. That is, because there are a limited number of airwaves, they must be allotted to certain broadcasters and denied to others. Since the public is therefore denied access to other possible broadcasters, the Supreme Court reasons that the one individual or firm that is granted a license has a legal obligation to report both sides of all issues and to allow free time for rebuttal.

Such a situation does not exist with newspapers. This medium is one which is regulated only by the rules of free enterprise and survival of the fittest. Anyone with another view theoretically may start his own paper and express that view.

Prominent newspapermen have also pointed out that publications must discriminate in their selection of material to be printed "or drown."

Says Clifton Daniel of The New York Times:

"At best, we can print only a tenth of the material we receive.

"A highly skilled, high-speed process of selection is involved — a massive act of discrimination, if you like — discrimination between the relevant and the irrelevant, the important and the unimportant."

Obviously, someone must decide what is to be printed and what is to be discarded. Who is better qualified than the professional newsmen — disassociated with every branch of government?

A Silver Lining for the Losers

All is not as bleak as it may have appeared to the losers in this community's dump controversy.

At a public hearing to discuss the pros and cons of the suggested site, Mrs. Lucille Tolson expressed the view of many residents when she said:

"A dump is a dump is a dump."

Mrs. Tolson also was worried about the psychological overtones of locating the dump near the grade school, even if all the physical distractions were surmounted.

"What do you say when a stranger comes to town and asks where the new school is located?" she said, "and you have to say, 'Out by the dump.'"

Judging from the meeting held a week later when the site was officially accepted, Mrs. Tolson has nothing to worry about. First, a dump apparently is not a dump sometimes. Both Hugh Johnson of the State Dept. of Health and Fred Amis of the Caterpillar Tractor Co. continually referred to it as a "landfill."

So, Mrs. Tolson, when that stranger walks up and asks you where the new grade school is located, just tell him:

"Out by the landfill!"

That sounds a lot better, doesn't it?

Geranium Joe*Fellers Prefer Words to Sticks and Stones Any Day

The fellers were discussing this new disease called crisis flight recently, and it must of set Ed Psota to thinking about other ways folks try to ease their burdens in this old world. The way Ed has got it figured, if you can't outrun your troubles you try to reason with 'em, and if that don't work you cuss 'em.

Cussing may not work either, allowed Ed, but it looks like a heap of folks keep trying. Ed had seen this piece in a magazine where people all over the world cuss in every language, and the Italians are world champion cussers.

The National Union Against Blasphemy in Italy, Ed reported, has guessed that folks in that country take God's name in vain at least a billion times every day. Ed didn't know how many folks live in Italy, but he allowed a billion was enough to give every man, woman, and child a pretty good daily workout.

There is something about a man that makes him want to make noise when he gets excited, Ed said, and the fellers generally agreed. Leo Thomson said he had seen where the first annual National Hollering Contest was held last month in North Carolina, and the event drew hollers from all over.

Some folks holler for the pure fun of it, said Leo, but most like to aim their hollering at something like husbands.

Leo was of the opinion hollering and mild cursing are human instincts. He recollects the other week when the fellers were talking on noise pollution, he said there was so much racket in the world that a feller had to holler once in a while just to remind himself he's still around. In the old days he could talk quietly to himself, and he could holler down the road to his neighbor.

Incidentally, Ed said he was strong again this anti-cussing outfit in Italy.

"Cussing is a way to let off steam, and it's a better sight than fighting," were Ed's words. He said starting a war over a soccer game was bad sportsmanship, and it would be of better if Salvador and Honduras had cussed one another.

"Baseball managers and umpires jaw nose to nose and work cussing down to a fine art," added Ed, "and they get a lot of things settled that way."

What put the stopper in the jug, Mister Editor, was when Merrill Mason said he had seen where this professor at the University of North Carolina is teaching students how to talk Protest. He don't talk much — mostly he sends the younguns out to listen to speeches by protesters.

Merrill figured the students were planning to go into politics, and they were learning to speak Protest so they would be able to talk on all sides of every issue and gather a crowd in the bargain.

Yours truly,

Dear Sir:

With hunting season approaching, I'd like to take this means to ask everyone to check their guns before going out to the fields.

I know that most hunters do and will find nothing wrong. But if our son hadn't checked out his big deer rifle when having a scope mounted recently, he couldn't have known someone had rammed a stick up the barrel and broken it off where it didn't show.

We are to blame for taking these guns in our pick-ups and jeeps in these handy carriers mounted where anyone can get at them.

Nebraska has a fine record for safe hunters and we can all be proud of this, so keep up your guard. — Mrs. Dillard Hunt Arcadia, Neb. 68815

Dear Sir:

The Vox Pop reads like this little story lately.

The three salesmen wanted to discuss something at lunch but couldn't find an empty table. They sat at one where a little, tidy, elderly lady was eating.

"One said, 'You know, boys, it's been three weeks since I've had a bath.' The second caught on quick and said, 'Why, it's been six weeks since I've had a shower.' And the third one backed them up by saying, 'Oh, you guys are plumb clean. I haven't had a bath since last May.'

"They waited to see what would happen. The little old lady finally spoke up and said, 'Will one of you stinkers please pass the salt?' "

"Must be a lot in and around the town.

Leggett

In self-imposed exile he walked.

Clothed by day in the raiment of propriety, he walked the night. Soul in hand — naked and alone — he sought the unloved and the unloving. In the dark shadows of lonely streets he searched, vainly knowing what he refused to accept, that to live hopefully is to die a thousand deaths.

Darkness emancipated the truth as he strode the night. From the prison of his mind new visions were born. Glimmering stars were visages of hope beckoning him onward. A reconciliation with himself? Possibly!

Was it with others — or with himself — that he had grown disenchanted? When had hopeful living turned to mere existence? Why was he alone — always and ever alone?

Again his thoughts turned inward . . . to the petals of hope that dropped from the dying rose he once held tightly. Thorns of impurity had once more been felt as he grasped the stem of life in its elemental form. Dreams that had once blossomed lay dying at his feet.

He tried hard to reconcile the hate and resentment he felt toward others. Could even a reconciliation with himself change the incipacity of others? Would they not remain ever clothed in infidelity, hiding their nakedness of shame in a body of truth?

How can they exist under the pretense of propriety . . . these goaded humans that call themselves "brothers"? They were but carnivorous creatures, feeding on the flesh of their fellow man to protect their own skin! Like the heat of the sun on dewy morning grasses . . . they desecrated all freshness and vitality into the intensity and vividness of the day! Never would they walk the night for fear of meeting themselves!

Let the world breath deeply; he thought. Let the stench of conformity fill their nostrils. Let them choke on the air they've polluted with hypocrisy!

He walked on.

Think for yourself — or others will think for you . . . Make the most of all that comes — and the least of all that goes . . . That which grows fast, withers fast; that which grows slow, lasts.

A thousand times he'd been born . . . and a thousand times he'd died.

To night he merely lived.

A thousand times he'd been born . . . and a thousand times he'd died.

To night he merely lived

confess before my Father which is in Heaven." It might be argued the words of Jesus here in Matthew have nothing to do with salvation, though I doubt it. But who would deny that the passage in Romans is talking about confession playing a part of salvation? ... If we teach and preach the complete picture about salvation then faith and confession must be used.

But the Bible doesn't stop there.

On the day of Pentecost Peter preached Jesus as the Christ to the Jews and they believed him and cried out, "Men and brethren what shall we do?" Peter said unto them, "repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost". Now isn't that remarkable? Peter didn't tell people who already believed to believe. Instead he told them where they were at, and he told them to repent and be baptized. ... So if we teach and preach the complete picture about salvation then faith, confession, REPENTANCE AND BAPTISM must be used. And more emphasis must not be placed on any one of these than on another.

Many people do not believe that baptism takes away one's sins. And for those who do I wish they would please explain how the Apostle Paul could believe, repent, and even confess Christ and still remain in his sins. For he did all of these and then Ananias said in Acts 22:16 "And now why tarryest thou? arise and be baptized and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord." If faith, repentance, or confession removes one's sins, why would Paul still be in his sins???????

Some questions which I intend to answer in a later devotion are: How do you put on Christ? How do you contact the blood of Christ? Where is it contacted? When does a person contact Christ's blood? Baptism is the answer and the Bible clearly proves this.

The words of Jesus are still true, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; he that believeth not shall be damned". And anyone who claims to believe but has no desire to be baptized is no better than the devils who also believe. James 2:19. Of such, Jesus must surely be asking as he did so long ago in Luke 6:46 "Why call ye me Lord, Lord and do not the things which I say".

Former Resident Drowns in Rescue Attempt at Lexington Lake

By Margaret Zentz

Daryl Zlomke of Broken Bow drowned Saturday afternoon in Johnson Lake at Lexington while trying to save his son. The boy was rescued by two other youths.

The dead man was the son of Mrs. Sam Zlomke of Litchfield, formerly of Arcadia, and a nephew of Mrs. Paul Owens and Maurice Carver, who still reside here. He was born Dec. 9, 1938, and was married and the father of four children.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Carver called at the Zlomke home in Broken Bow Sunday evening.

The Nebraska State Patrol said Zlomke's son went to the aid of two girls who were in trouble. He was unable to help them, though, and had to be rescued himself. The two other boys helped both him and the girls to safety, but the father was unable to get back to shallow water.

Recovering

Grandpa Lange Was Definitely Outnumbered

By Bertha Clement

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lange took seven grandchildren on a vacation trip to the Black Hills last week. Mr. Ed Huffman also accompanied them in the camp. The granddaughters were Diane and Donna Loseke of Columbus; Glenda and Sandra Uden of Juniper, Linda Lange, Mary Huffman, and Patty Veskernik. The girls also stopped into Wyoming and Montana. The Uden girls returned home Saturday, and the Loseke girls Tuesday.

Babbles by Bertha

We had hoped to attend the Saturday wedding of Russell Johnson and Jennifer Ann Carlson in Milton, Wis., but circumstances here prevented that. Russell Johnson, son of Edwin Johnson, who lived formerly at North Loup, spent the summer with us, and we helped him with farm work.

Another young man, Jim McCall, who spent two summers with us, came out from Ord and spent most of Saturday afternoon with us. We enjoyed discussing things of the past, present, and future — but didn't really solve any problems.

Had we gone to Wisconsin we'd have missed him. Jim heads back to Ann Arbor, Mich., the end of this week.

Roes Complete Free Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Roe turned home Sunday night after a week's vacation at Fort Robinson. They were the recipients of the Grand prize — a vacation trip for four — given at the Farm and Home Show during the Valley County Fair. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Prien accompanied them. They also made side trips to the Black Hills, Toad Stool Park, and Agate Fossil Beds, returning to Fort Robinson each night.

Ready for Practice

The Dick Petersons took Mark to Kearney Sunday so he could be present for college football practice. There was a 1 o'clock luncheon for the players.

Call at Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kluber of Columbus and their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Lauber and Martha of Midland, Mich., were Thursday dinner and lunch guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Cook. They also visited Bill Graul in the Valley County Hospital.
