Aerial Power Hydraulic Ladder Bought by Council

Purchase of a power aerial hy-draulic ladder for Ord's city electric plant was the chief busi-ness of Ord city council at a meeting in city hall Monday evening. The new equipment will speed up servicing of fixtures at top of light poles, fastening support wires to poles, repairing breaks in wires and stringing breaks from each to another wires from one pole to another.

A picture of the new unit is shown in an adjoining column. City utility employees Chester Austin and Bill Beard were pres-ent and their recommendations were closely studied by the council members, all of whom were present. Four companies submitted bids, and the chief consideration was safety for the employees, and a swing range of the man carrying end from extreme top to flat on the ground.

Safety was important in that all present wanted a rig which would allow workers on the ground to move the top of the power ladder away from any high tension electric wires. Thus,

Hence, the bid of Omaha Body and Equipment Company of $9,191 was approved. Other bids had similar safety devices, but cost to taxpayers would have been higher. The worker at top of the ladder can also control positioning of it through having a dual set of controls.

Other matters included a number of items.

Need for long range planning of the city's power needs was emphasized by Mayor Joe Ruzicka, who said 18 to 24 months time is needed for any modernization. Also, a policy regarding stand by power is important, he said. More discussion is slated

Fire Completely Destroys Jim Spilinek Barn

Fire in the Jim Spilinek barn, two miles out from Ord, destroyed the structure Saturday morning with a total loss to the building and contents. The blaze was reported to Ord Fire Department at 10:15 and four trucks went into action. Mr. Spilinek was in the barn at the time and attempted to put out the flames, but was unsuccessful. A new bulk milk tank was completely ruined and a loft full of straw was also consumed. Firemen found the fire out of control when they arrived, and concentrated their efforts on successfully keeping the flames from spreading to two other close buildings. The men stayed at the farm for more than five hours. The farm is chiefly a hog and cattle operation. There were no personal injuries. Chief Ivan Sorensen is head of the Ord department.

Annual Chamber, Jaycee Banquet Set January 21

Commerce banquet will be held Jan. 21 with Dick Olson, state Jaycee President as chief speaker. Bob Schnuelle of Chan-nel 10/11 television will be master of ceremonies in the event in St. Mary's auditorium at 6:30

The event will also headline annual awards night for both the Chamber and the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Jaycee awards will be for outstanding Boss of the Year, outstanding Young Educator, Young Farmer, Fireman and the Distinguished Service award, which goes to the man under 35 who has done the most for civic and community progress during the past year. Emanuel Sich is president of the Jaycees, and Gaylord Boilesen is state vice president. The Chamber will make special honor awards to an outstanding director and two key comittee chairman and awards and outstanding community leader. Last year, Don Sears was chosen outstanding director and Howard Paulsen and Starling Lee best committee leaders. Outstanding man in community

Though Duane Schernikau was announced as new Chamber vicepresident at a Jan. 7 meeting of the Chamber, he and other di-rectors will be introduced officially at the banquet.
Duane Wolfe, new president of the Ord Chamber of Commerce, presided at the Jan. 7 meeting, and a general discussion of financial conditions of the Chamber took place. He indicated the group was some $658 in the red. About thirty business people were present in the Elk's Club to hear that 123 of a possible 220 members had paid their dues during the past year. Hopefully working toward a new dues structure, outgoing president Eldon Mulligan stated that nothing could be done toward the restructing of dues until a budget was established.

Starting the year with a $220 deficit. Wolfe said a collection letter had ben received from the Ord Quiz for an outstanding bill of $685. The majority of the bill is for Christmas promotion tickets ordered from the firm. Other smaller bills would be paid, Wolf said, and a committee was to contact The Quiz about payment of the overdue account.

Even in the face of financial difficulty, the Chamber gave Wolfe a showing of hands indicating they approved further study of three applicants for a full-time paid Chamber of Com-merce manager. One application had been received from Humboldt, one from Plattsmouth and a third from an Ordite interested in the job. One of the applicants expressed an expectant salary of $6,000 per year, plus moving expenses, if they came to Ord.

In other business, Wolfe called on attorney Marv Weems for a report on his search for a new doctor for Ord. According to Weems, a petition has been sent to Dean Flock hoping this former Ordite might consider returning. Presently Flock is practicing medicine in Seattle Washington. A radiologist of Omaha has also been considered, Weems said, hoping that he may serve several hospitals and use Ord as his home

Four County Meeting Highlight at Burwell

A meeting of Home Extension Club officers in Valley, Garfield, Loup and Wheeler counties was a Friday event at Burwell. The afternoon general session held at the Congregational Church was led by Mrs. Carol VanNord-heim. Her topic "A Good Les-son — Chance or Choice" brought out interesting pointers on the importance of lesson prepreparation.

Later, breaking into smaller groups the club officers were instructed in their varied duties. Mrs. VanNordheim led the workshop for presidents and vice presidents; Betty Herling told about parliamentary procedure; Laura Jane Bolli instructed those holding offices of secretary or treasurer and Carol Leggett shared writing hints with the news reporters.

Ord Basketball Players Dave John and Paul Markley Drive Against Aurora Defenders

Dave John of Ord, in white suit, is shown trying for a rebound in the Ord Aurora game last Saturday in Ord gymnasium. Aurora won by an 83 to 64 score. In the background, Paul Markley, number 30, can be seen watching the intense play. In other photo, Paul is the center of action, as with his height, he is making fine progress against the opponent squad. Aurora was rated this week as number one team in the state class B category by Omaha World-Herald, and has a record of nine victories and no defeats.

Pheasant Season Closes Saturday

Nebraska's upland game bird hunters will have to hang up their scatterguns for another year at sundown Sunday, January 17, as pheasant and quail seasons end across the state. Sportsmen have been after this pair of tricky gamesters since November 7, when seasons on both species opened

Final data on success of this year's hunt will be available six to eight weeks after the seasons close, as soon as results are in on a State Game Commission survey. Cards will be sent to a five percent sample of the state's hunters. The data obtained will probably be tabulated during February and should be available in March. Hunters receiving cards should co-operate by filling them out and returnnew secretary of the Middle dle Loup Public Power District. Mrs. Don Murray resigned the last of the year, after working for the district 10 years, divide it up amongst their 32 employes any way they wish. Now for the 15c I gave them tonight, I expect to get a newspaper with all of the local news, all of the state news. And I want every bit of it to be fresh, I don't want to read anything I have read before.

for a copy of their newspaper. They can at least 10 local pictures of news events and the people who made the news. I want pictures of accidents, fires, meetings, plays, basketball games and anything else I think important.

For the 15c I gave them, I want

It won't do any good to try to reason with me, I know my rights. Why, if I had wanted, I could have bought a bottle of soda-pop with the 15c. I could have made a telephone call, or purchased a half of a gallon of gasoline... but, in stead I gave the QUIZ my 15c.

Because I gave them my 15c I want to know the latest things about District 5 school board. Ord city council, the Valley County, supervisors, the state any mistakes to be made, I'll make them legislature, the governor, the U.S. Congress, the President, and the war in Vietnam. I also expect them to tell me who died in the last week, who was born in the last week, and who was married.

I want to read about what my church is doing and when. I don't care if there are more than 18 churches in this area, I want to read about MY church.

I want to know what those guys in Lincoln and Washington are doing with my tax money. I want them to tell me all about the Apollo and moon exploraation programs, who has the H-bomb, and whether the Nazi Party is really coming back in Germany. They owe all of this to me, because I just gave them

I want them to cover every high school basketball and football game in Central Nebraska, and every play, ladies' tea, wedding and anniversary celebration in Valley County and a few in the 7 surrounding counties. It makes no difference that there are 8 or 9 high schools or 50 to 60 elementary schools in their circulation area; I expect their reporters to cover them, because I just gave them 15c.

I want to read just as much about Democrats as I do Republicans, and just as much about Protestants as I do Catholics and Jews. I don't care if it is impossible to do it every day, I want them to do it, because I just gave them 15c.

IF I GET DRUNK AND HAVE A WRECK, I DON'T WANT THEM TO PRINT MY NAME IN THE PA-PER, AND I DON'T WANT ANY-THING IN THAT PAPER ABOUT MY BUYING A HOUSE OR SELL-ING A HOUSE. I HAVE A FRIEND WHO IS GETTING A DIVORCE AND THEY CAN LEAVE THAT OUT, TOO!

I want to see for myself whether the prices are cheaper at one store than they are at another. I want to know where I can buy a good second hand car and what's playing at the movies. And they had better do it, too, because I just gave them 15c.

Just because I don't have too much education, I don't want them to think that they can take advantage of me. It doesn't make any difference if I don't do anything for my schools, church or city government; I pay my taxes, and I just gave them 15c, and I want to see my name in that paper. And they had better spell it right, too. I expect every name in that paper to be spelled right, even if there is a thousand of them! I don't want any mistakes; if there are ... but they can't - because I just gave them 15c.

And I want to make sure they understand one more thing. Just because they might do all of the things I've already asked, I don't want them to think that they can deliver my paper any time they want. I eat at 5:30 and I want that newspaper there when I sit down to eat.

When I meet one of their people on the streets. I expect them to give me all the inside dope. I expect them to serve as publicity chairman on any committee I want, and I expect their reporters to agree with everything I think or do. If I want to call them at 11 o'clock at night and give them a hot news item, I have that right. I'm too busy in the mornings and won't have time.

And any time I want to call them and ask how many children Al Capone had or how much gasoline Lindberg used on his flight to Paris, I expect them to know - I don't want to have to call

Next week I'm going to start my own business and I want a news item and picture about it. No, I don't expect to take any advertising with them; if they run the news story and picture about my opening, I won't need any advertising. And they better not give me that old stuff about they can't do it eiher; they did it for other stores, and they darn well can do it for me. After all, I just gave them 15c for that lousy sheet, and for 15c that's MY newspaper.

CONIFERS IN NEBRASKA:

The spruces comprise one of the most important kind of evergreens for planting in this area.

They thrive in our climate but do not do well much south. The spruce are native to the mountain region of the Rockies, the lake states and in the pacific northwest coast area. There are many species from which to choose for landscaping. The Black Hills Spruce, The Colorest Colo rado green spruce, and the Colorado Blue Spruce.

There are others, such as the Norway spruce, the white spruce and the Alberta spruce. These descrive consideration when planning a landscape. Always plant evergreens of this type on the edge of the lawn so that the branches frame your home, not hide it.

We now have price lists and order forms for Clarke-McNary trees. If you are considering planting trees this spring discuss your needs with either your Dist-trict Conservationest, Howard Paulsen or the county extension rates on agricultural loans in 1971 is one of the brighter things to happen recently for farmers and ranchers in Nebraska and the nation.

Lower Interest on Farm Loans Is Predicted Soon

The prediction is based on the fact that recently money borrowed by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank to supply the needs of Production Credit Associations was at 5.75 per cent, 3 per cent lower than was being paid at the peak of the "credit crunch."

Farm Credit Bank representatives have pointed out that the situation could change if there is renewed competition for money for business and industrial expansion, which is cur-rently at a low ebb. They also noted the recent lowering of the prime interest rate by the Federal Reserve Board as favorable to generally lower interest

A drop of one per cent in the cost on the thousands of dollars which most farmers and ranchers have to borrow each year, translates into millions of dollars when one considers that presently agriculture's use of borrowed capital stands at around $58 billion in loans outstanding. Economists predict that this figure will double to around $120 billion needed for agricultural credit by 1980.

The Nebraska Press Association LINCOLN — With West Point Sen. William Hasebroock at the helm as speaker, the 1971 Legislature has set sail.

The first week was given over almost entirely to organizational matters and the inaugural ceremonies for Gov. J. J. Exon. The tide of bills which will carry the legislators along on their 90-day journey did begin. There were 91 introduced last Wednesday, the first day any legislation was accepted in the hopper.

That was the same day Norbert T. Tiemann ended a career as governor which ended sooner than he wanted it to.

"Quite frankly," Tiemann said, "I hadn't intended to make a farewell address for another four years. Apparently I failed to make that point clear."

There were some senators who thought they picked up hints i nthat address that Tie-mann had left the door open — at least a crack — for a political future.

If they got that idea, the outgoing governor said, they were wrong.
Referring to the beating by nearly 50,000 votes Exon administered last fall, Tiemann "I don't believe I have any future in Nebraska politics." The next day, Thursday, was Exon's. After his inauguration and speech to the Legislature in the afternoon, there was a public reception in his new offices, a champagne reception speech by the Democratic sponsored by the Democratic Party and the inaugural ball.

Friday was a working day for the new governor and the team of administrators he brought with him to the Statehouse. The lawmakers also returned to their main activity. Earlier in the week they had surprised Hasebroock by selecting him speaker. Hasebroock admitted Sen. J. W. Burbach of Crofton was the leading candidate in the formal part of the second se date in the four-man race for the Legislature's top job.

Burbach did hold the edge after the first ballot. He had 17 votes to Hasebroock's 15, while Sen. Herbert J. Duis of Gothenburg had nine and Sen. Harold D. Simpson of Lincoln But Burbach didn't have a majority and a showdown be-tween the two leaders was

This time, Hasebroock, a 10year veteran in the unicameral, was elected, 25-23.
There was another close race. Sen. Richard F. Proud of Omaha stood off a challenge by Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter to win the chairmanship of the committee on committees, 26-22.

With that post goes a seat on the powerful executive board. Omaha, for the first time ever, wound up with two members of that board. Sen. Eugene T. Mahoney was named the at-large member. Both Proud and Mahoney, however, said this didn't have any significance in terms of a any significance in terms of a metropolitan "take - over" of what historically has been a rural-oriented body.

Proud said his victory over Carpenter probably stemmed from a reluctance on the part of some senators to give the Scottsbluff lawmaker additional "powers." 'powers.'

"Terry Carpenter is the dominant figure during debates on this floor already." Proud said. The chairmanship of the ex-ecutive board went to Sen. William F. Swanson of Lincoln, who was unopposed. Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance was named vice chairman. He won on one ballot over Sens. Ramey C. Whitney of Chappell and Don Elrod of Grand Island.

The executive board is the administrative arm of the Leg-islature and rule changes adopt-ed last week gives the board members the added duty of serving as the reference committee. That means they decide which of the standing committees should hold hearings on proposed legislation.

proposed legislation. The standing committee membership assignments were made the first day by Proud's committee on committees.

Burbach, who had lost the speaker's race earlier, wound up without a chairmanship. He had served five terms as chairmanship. man of the revenue committee but Sen. Rudolf Kokes of Ord started campaigning for that he was available for election as speaker. Kokes was awarded the chairmanship.

Another five - term chairman was reinstalled for a sixth. Sen. Richard D. Marvel of Hastings will head the budget committee

He and Carpenter were the only "holdover" chairmen. Carpenter was named to head the government and military affairs committee.

David City Sen. Loran Schmit was chosen to succeed Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora as chairman of the agriculture committee.

The education chairmanship went to Elrod and Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha was picked to lead the banking committee.

Sen. Roland A. Luedtke of Lincoln took over as judiciary committee chairman and Omaha Sen. Harold T. Moylan was named to head the labor committee.

The urban affairs committee The urban affairs committee chairman is Lincoln's Simpson and C. W. Holmquist of Oak-land is head of the public works committee.

One new committee was created for this session. Under the chairmanship of 20 year veteran George Syas of Omaha, it will handle bills dealing with constitutional amendments.

THE QUIZ

Lest anyone get the wrong idea, the Ord Quiz did not mean to imply last week that there have been doubts about the validity of recent elections and appointments to the Valley County Board of Supervisors.

As the last paragraph of a story in which County Clerk Thelma Dulitz stated that applicants would be interviewed Tuesday to fill a vacancy on the board, the following line appeared:

appeared:
"In the meantime, she says a lot of people's faith in such contests has been renewed." That was supposed to be the last line of a story stating that Mrs. Gerald Green had won a two - week vacation to Europe. Somehow it got transposed to the story about the county board vacancy. Had it been added to any other story in the paper, it would have been obvious that it was out of place and did not belong there. But since there was a contest of sorts to fill the county board vacancy, and a woman had been quoted in the preceding paragraph, many readers may have surmised that Mrs. Dulitz had serious doubts about the manner in which the other supervisors gained their

 RECREATIONAL PLANNING VITAL FOR CITY

We recently attended the Chamber of Commerce meeting We recently attended the Chamber of Commerce meeting and the following meeting of folks who are interested in Recreational Planning for the Community, At both meetings Robert Dula of the University of Nebraska Extension Division spoke and showed slides of what other communities have done with government aid. He showed the strong trend for expanding recreation programs using parks, schools and school facilities. Recreation is not for one age group but all ages from small children to the elderly and the need for these programs are increasing with our style of life.

He told of Lincoln spending 14% of its total budget for recreation and parks. Fremont 17% and Crete has a full time recreation director although it has a population of less than 5000 people, Ord spends 6% of its total budget for recreation and parks. Activities for recreation for all groups include facilities such as lakes, camp grounds, tennis courts, soft ball diamonds, tourist trailer courts and land for other park uses.

Vhat park facilities would we have in Ord if some far-sightwhat park facilities would we have in Ord it some far-signt-ed men had not worked for this, before this present time? Would we have had a nice Park? With the addition of the land adjoining the park, the facilities we need may now be fully utilized.

To pay for the land the Federal Government, the agency pushing the recreation program, would pay 50% of the cost, the state would pay 25% of the cost and the city would pay 25%. In our case the city's share is about $2600 which is just over $1.00 a — an amazingly small investment for this program.

Ord is fortunate that this land was not used for residential development. This is really about the only land available for Park expansion.

A study committee to review these recreation matters has been formed and this committee is to make recommendations to the City Council. Those chosen to serve are a cross-section of this area and look forward to promoting a fine recreation program for all. The Park will play a vital part in this program. It should be pointed out that this be pointed out that this committee is advisory only and not a land acquisition committee. The purpose of the government in this effort is to aid in stabilizing rural population by making life more attractive in rural areas.

Tax Estimates for Quarter Due Now

To relate the following story, I will have to tell you I'd had a "bad week" leading up to the particular day I have in mind. Nothing seemed to be happening "right" and I was probably wallowing in self-pity and almost afraid to open the morning mail, fearing all news was BAD news.

Stool Story

Passing by the Misko Sporting Goods store front, I paused to see the interesting display he always has on show for the pub-

Suddenly I realized Dean had a three-legged stool on display, and it was topped with a three-sided leather seat. Pure Mexican! Immediately my mind flipped back to the problem I'd had trying to ship three such stools to Ord from Puerto Vallarta two years ago. It proved to be really exasperating, and the whole procedure took more than a year.

The little Mexican hotel where I like to stay beside the surf does not serve any food, not even coffee, to my sorrow, so I must always go out if I wish to eat. Since I am in the habit of eating at least twice every day and often three times, I climb the little hill from the hotel up to the corner to a wee Mexican cafe which is always crowded. But between the hotel and the cafe are sev eral small shops, and of course I must always . . . or often .

When they exhibited these little three-legged stools, I wa intrigued. The wooden legs were jointed and could be taken apar into half their length. The seat part was a triangle of full grain cowhide, suitably imprinted with a pattern. The cowhide was dyes various colors like bright yellow, dark red, dark green, brightish blue and I thought the stools were charming. As I recall the were about $8 American money each, or maybe it was $10.

So I fell, and bought them, and gave the pretty Mexica girl the addresses to which they were to be sent. I didn't thin she understood my directions too well, but I wrote them, an told them, and kept talking a little louder to her. (You know there's this feeling that if you speak loud enough the foreign person will surely understand????)

Well, in Ord, two months later, the stools had not yet a

By Paul Scott Former Greeley Resident

Washington: Senator Edmund

Washington: Senator Edmund Muskie's decision to use former Ambassador Averell Harriman as his chief Foreign Policy adviser is good news for Senator Henry Jackson (D.Wash.).

The Muskie-Harriman association has given Jackson the early political break that he has been looking for to help him stake out a claim to the politically strategic center position within the Democratic Party.

Whether the conclusion is correct or not, Harriman's role in Muskie's unannounced camin Muskie's unannounced campaign for the Democratic Presidential nomination is being interpreted by middle of the road Congressional Democrats as a definite sign that the Maine Senator is shifting to the Party's left.

Harriman, picked by Muskie to accompany him during next week's meeting with Soviet leaders, is now firmly identified with his Party's left on such vital issues as Vietnam and U.S. relations with the Soviet Union. In many instances, Harriman now serves as the Party's left spokesman. For example, the former foreign policy trouble-shooter in the Kennedy and Johnson Administrations now is vigorously advocating that U.S. cut all its ties with the present South Vietnamese government. South Vietnamese government.

Harriman favors U.S. support for a coalition government with the communists in iVetnam similar to the ill-fated one he put together in Laos during the Kennedy Administration.

When stripped of its decorative covering, the Harriman proposal for Vietnam is the same being advocated by Soviet leaders Brezhnev and Kosygin and expected to be recommended to Muskie during their coming meeting. The Kremlin leaders want a coalition government in the Soviet Union's expansion in the Middle East than most middle-of-the-road Democratic leaders now support.

"The Russians are in the Mediterranean and cannot be expelled. We ought to face this fact and accept it," he says. His advice is for the U.S to formulate a policy to live with Russia's new presence in the Middle Fast and Mediterranean dedle East and Mediterranean depite the impact it could have on nations in the area and Eur-opean security.

In both his private and public statements, Harriman opposes President Nixon's big stick policy of "showing the U.S fleet in the Mediterranean" as a way to keep the Soviets from ex-panding further in the area.

Senator Muskie so far has not publicly adopted Harriman's soft-line policies in either Viet-nam or the Middle East. Although he advocates a speedier withdrawal of U.S forces from Vietnam than proposed by President Nixon, Muskie has not called for the dumping of the Saigon government as proposed by Harriman.

Kennedy aides to support Muskie rather than Senator George McGovern (D.S.D.). Saigon government as proposed by Harriman. Until the Harriman selection, Muskie's Vietnam position had helped him to hold the center position on foreign policy with-in the Democratic Party where most influential State and Congressional leaders now stand. Many of these leaders who supported former Vice President Hubert Humphrey for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1968 have adopted Mus-kie as their favorite for 1972 because of his center position. The immediate question that Harriman's role with Muskie has raised among many of these Democrats is whether the Senator plans to adopt the former Ambassador's radical views to attract supporters of late Senator Robert Kennedy.

Harriman was Kennedy's Foreign Policy adviser during his tragic Democratic Presidential nomination bid in 1968 and is known to be encouraging other

When he begins his political speech · making around the country next month, Senator Jackson will try to move into the center Democratic Party position by supporting a Vietnam policy very similar to that of President Nixon.

This strategy will permit Jackson to build a political image of a Presidneital hopeful wanting peace in Vietnam but one who believes the U.S must remain strong and never appease the communists.

This is the solid image of a Presidential candidate which a majority of State and local Democratic leaders are believed to favor as an opponent to Nixon in 1972. Since Muskie and Jackson have almost identical liberal domestic records, their foreign policy positions could become

Ex-Area Woman, Mrs. Simpson Succumbs After Short Illness

By Dena Sintek

Mrs. H. J. Hoeppner had a message during the past week from Mrs. K. E. Johnson, of Li-berty, Mo. telling of the death of her mother, Mrs. Ed Simpson of Liberty. Mrs. Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, spent many years in North Loup working as a phar-macist in her father's drug store. After marriage they lived in Grand Island, Norfolk and Fremont. After her husband's death Mrs. Simpson moved to Missouri where her daughter and family lived. Her illness was short. Services were held in Liberty with interment at Fremont cemetery near Mr. Simpson's grave. Survivors are a daughter, sonin-law, and two grandchildren.

Mrs. Agnes Manchester arrived home last Wednesday after spending the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays with her

In the Grotto of the Nativity in Bethlehem, I sat down by the silver star which marks the traditional place where Christ was born. The walls were heavily draped. Sixteen silver lamps were burning. How far away seemed that first manger scene!

I closed my eyes to escape the glare of those metal lamps, and other manger scenes came before me. One was from a green island thousands of miles away.

I recalled a rustic platform, adorned with coconut palms, standing in an open pasture. Hundreds of country people were gathered reverently around it. Some of their own young people

Newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Williams Special Guests, Sunday, at Family Dinner

By Bertha Clement

A family reception was held for newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Williams of Grand Island at the Ray Peterson home Sunday afternoon. Guests besides the honored couple were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williams of Grand Island; Mrs. Art Palser and Mrs. Dale Palser both of Central City; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stam, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Timmons and Mrs. Lee Timmons, all of Scotia; Mrs. Floyd Fowler of Arcadia; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burmood and Vickie Sue of Ashton, Mrs. Edna Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Collins and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Collins and Daphne. The Burmoods were also dinner guests preceding the reception.

Babbles by Bertha Another one added to the local list of "going to the hospital" people is Eva Vlach, who lives just west of us. She went to Valley County Hospital Sunday evening and had minor surgery Monday morning, Her stay there was short, luckily, as she returned home Monday afternoon.

Our son, Don and his "three sons" came up from Kearney in time for dinner Sunday. George and Mary Bell also ate with us.
I thought of buying a new thermometer last week when ours registered colder than I like it. Then decided a new one wouldn't make it warmer. When I hear the wind chill index I shiver. I spent an hour or two arranging and hanging pictures of our 10 grandchildren Saturday afternoon. The pictures are in identical frames and lower ones are hooked on upper ones. I bought the frames at Absalon's Store with gift money. Is that free advertizing, Agnes?

I'll miss seeing Gerald Green when I take news to the Quiz, I'm sorry he left here but wish him well in his new location.
My nephew Eldon's wite, Sharon Foth has now undertaken her duties as county treasurer. I have confidence in her integrity and ability. She is a fine person.

Thus, consensus of opinion is that Congress is very favorable to projects as the North Loup one, which has solid merit, has been thoroughly worked out, has been known for years and approved by commun-ity, state and federal agencies, such as the Bureau of the Budget. Also, Congressman Harold T. Johnson, chairman of the House Interior and Insular affairs com-mittee and his committee indi-from the big project. Purpose of the irrigation is to divert a portion of surplus water from present rivers to irrigation of land, not to create huge dams nor flood thousands of acres of land. One dam would be erected on the Calamus river, northwest of Burwell, which would be a mile wide and back up the river for 10 miles, but this would be the only one of this type in the whole project which runs 90 miles along the North Loup and Loup rivers. 158 miles of canals and 212 miles of laterals would be built. Irrigated farms can produce 100 to 125 bushels of corn per acre, whereas the same land can only yield 40 bushels with normal rainfall. Rain in Valley county runs about 22 inches per year, whereas good farm land for top production needs 40 to 48 inches. Hence, the state average in corn production has more than tripled in the past 40 years, and can still double, as new irrigation projects are completed. North

Prisoners of War Drive Is Launched In County

In the last two years, con-cern about the inhumane treat-ment of the prisoners and missing in Southeast Asia has be-come more apparent to the av-erage citizen and it is now reaching an issue stage.

In July, the Nebraska Mrs. Jaycees adopted the Prisoners of War project. Since then the Ord JC-Ettes have adopted the project locally. They are asking that every person in our community, write to North Vietnam for the release of sick and injured prisoners, that a free injured prisoners, that a free flow of mail be allowed between the prisoner and his family and that a proper diet and medical care be given these

We, as Americans must let the world know of the tragic plight of our men being held captives by the North Vietnamese. World opinion has been known to change a country's course of action.

We urge you to write letters asking for the release of a list of all prisoners of war. You can help obtain their names. These men cannot speak for them-selves and need your help. Don't write just one letter, but many and write often.

Letters should be addressed to the President of the Demo-cratic Republic of Vietnam. They are to be brief and to the point, written in English or French. They may be typewrit-ten or handwritten, preferably in ink. The letters should not be abusive, but simply state that the writer is fearful for the well being of the American Prisoners being held in North Vietnam and by the Viet Cong. No postage is required, simstate your concern for these forgotten men. Sign your letter with your name and state and place it in the POW-MIA Drop Box at the Boilesen's Paint Store in Ord. This will take only a few minutes of your time compared with the year that some of these men have been captive.

Anyone interested in assisting the Ord JC-Ettes with this project can obtain a list of addresses for the letter writing

Having had only boys in their household, Mrs. Frank Mottl is as pleased as can be with her pretty granddaughters (they have no grandsons).

With the adding of little Amy Jo to the Roger Mottl family recently, Viola boasts that she gained three granddaughters within a year's time — the other two are Lucinda, daughter of the Earl Mottls' and Rebecca, belonging to the Al Mottls. Another — and most sophisticated of the four — is six-year-old Lisa, another daughter of the Roger Mottls.

One thing certain, the years ahead are bound to be filled with pretty pink clothes, lacey frills, dainty ribbons and countless hours of joy for the excited grandma — and grandpa too.

With the date of the first class session of the Defensive Driving Training Course just a few days away, may I personally suggest that you check into this special driving course available right

The four two-hour classes slated to start Feb. 8 will be taught by a specially trained member of the State Highway Patrol. The cost for enrollment is $4 for the first family member then $2 for each added one in the family.

Having taken this Defensive Driver Training Course when it was offered in Ord about three years ago, I personally recommend it to all drivers whether you have just become a licensed driver or if you have been behind the wheel for many years. The film and workshop sessions are packed with an unlimited amount of information helpful to all drivers.

For more about these classes, please get in touch with Ed Armstrong. He's a member of the sponsoring Underwriters Association. You'll be glad you did!

I'm amazed at how orderly Editor Bill Holman keeps his desk even during his busiest hours.

Being used to working amidst a heap of papers in my corner of the office, I had (up until now) maintained that I was working from a "busy" desk. I'm afraid my excuse no longer holds. I must learn Bill's secret for orderliness soon. If not, I will be forced to declare my workspace a Disaster Area.

To give you an idea of how it really is, John Schade brought his column to the office last Monday afternoon. "Just lay it on Bill's desk" someone suggested. John obeyed. As his eyes quickly scanned the clean desk top again he commented "I thought maybe you'd gone out of business!"

Many telephone calls during the week told me that one little word in my recipe last week made everything wrong. The word should have been Cool — not Cook — which makes a great difference when one is working with gelatin.

Credit for this week's recipe goes to Jan Gunnels, daughter of Mrs. Alice Hoon of Ord. Try this Dill Dip soon. You'll need 1 c. sour cream; 1 c. mayonnaise; 1 t. dried dill; 1 t. parsley; 1 t. minced onion; 1/2 t. salt and 1/2 t. Beau Monde seasoning (if available). Combine all ingredients and set in refrigerator until , ready to serve. It's delicious with carrot or celery strips, cauliflower buds, or with chips and/or crackers!

Area Pastor Invites Filmstrip Viewers

Seventy minutes of an absorbing story is found in the film "WITHOUT ONION" that will be shown Jan. 31 at 7:30 p.m. at the Calvary Baptist Church at Arcadia.

It is an eye-opener to see what happens when two young persons, Peter and Sonya, find a new dimension in life when they meet with a revolutionary experience through Christ, and the reaction of a skeptical high school campus to this new phenomena in their midst. Rev. J. B. Tweter, pastor of the host church, voices the hope that many visitors will come to see this film.

New members of the Chamber directors were introduced: Lloyd Needham, Joe Shafer and Wayne Winterfeld.

Richard Olson, president of the Nebraska Jaycees, in the address the evening extolled the work of community leaders, who share their talents with others, and whose good deeds will always be remembered.

Overall objectives of the Jaycees, he explained, were to help young men become better community leaders, to let them learn by working with volunteers on worthy projects, to expand the potential of each individual, to teach members to accept greater responsibilities, and finally, to give of themselves.

"The problems of life are not all solved between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., he said. "The extent and quality of ability are given us by the Creator, but we can only progress by jointly seeking in-dividual and community better

Ord Hosts Strong Broken Bow Friday, Ravenna Next

Broken Bow will invade Ord Friday in a traditional basket-ball contest Friday with intense competition expected between the two powerful basketball teams. Varsity game will be at 8 p.m. and reserve teams of the two schools will clash at 6:15 p.m. Broken Bow was rated recently at ninth in the state and has a 74 record. Ord has been coming with a rush in recent weeks, winning six out of its last seven games. Chant's record overall is 6 and 5. Saturday, Ord will invade Ra-

Last Saturday, Ord jumped to a 2 to 0 lead over Loup City as Paul Markley tossed in the first basket of the game and Darrell Farmer aided the Chant's cause with another field goal. This gave Ord a 4 to 2 lead and only once more in the game were the inmore in the game were the invaders able to tie the score, this coming with one minute to go in the first quarter, when the tally was knotted at 12 to 12.
Final game score was Ord 60,
Loup City 40.
However, Farmer was able to

However, Farmer was able to net two free throws, late in the first quarter and Jim Andreesen did the same, and from then on, the Chants were never headed. Score at the first quarter mark was 17 to 14 for Ord.

Second quarter saw Ord doubling its tally, while Loup City made only two field goals by Dave Urbanski and Roger Obermiller, and half ended with a 33

Intense guarding by Ord kept Loup City off balance, while offensive patterns by the Chants sliced through the invaders to score Loup City also had trouble with it's long distance shots arch-Markley made several difficult hook shots and Andreesen spar-kled on defensive rebounds.

Third quarter saw the Chants displaying their best form of the season, pushing up their tally by eight points while Loup City was getting only two free throws. Klanecky drove in for repeat tries on the basket on one attempt and was successful. Tally this time was 48 to 28. Quarter final score was 48 to 34. score was 48 to 34.

Final quarter saw Ord increasing its lead and snared its first 10 points while the invaders secured only four. A fine drive in shot by Dave John was one feature of the scoring, and also Dean Vancura secured two highly valuable field goals to end the Chant's scoring for the evening. One unusual feature of the free throws was a technical call

One unusual feature of the free throws was a technical call against Loup City for having two men in uniform with the same number. However, the Chant's try did not go in.

Special commendation was given Markley by Ord coach Ken Trubey for standout offensive play, while Leon Brechbill was praised for all around excellence, both on defense and offense. praised for all around excellence, both on defense and offense. Coach Dan Arnold of Loup City had high regard for Leonard Wardyn on offense and rated Arnie Augustyn as defensive star. Starters for Ord were Klanecky, Markley, Farmer, Brechbill, and Andreesen. The Red Raiders named Dave Urbanski, Don Mroczek, Roger Obermiller, Wardyn and Augustyn.

Reserve players for the two teams played in the preliminary game with the Chants coming out ahead by 68 to 61.

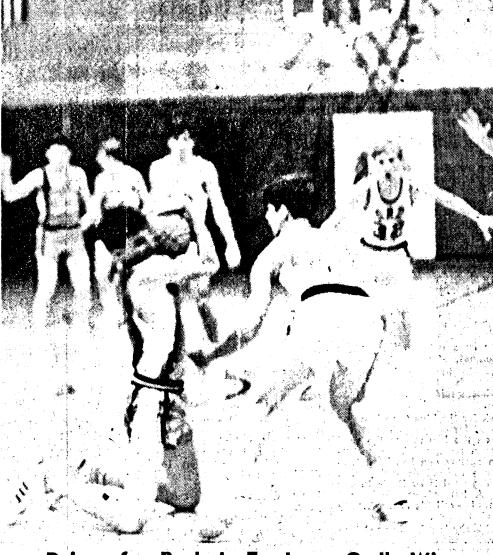

High scorer for Ord in the var-sity conflict was Markley with 15 Klanecky with 11, Andreesen with 10, Farmer and John with seven each, Brechbill with six,

Pheasanis, Quail Surviving Winter

After Nebraskans had dug themselves out of the snow of the dear's first major storm, concern of many focused on how well the state's wildlife populations had weathered the wind, snow, and Sportsmen, for instance, were wondering how the state's pheasant and quail populations fared. Fortunately, the pheasant population did not suffer extensive losses, according to observations by Game and Parks Commission men in the field And while quail men in the field. And, while quail losses were slightly greater, the bobs were not cut back far enough to influence next year's reproduction.

But, Nebraska was lucky, according to Willard Barbe, Commission director. He said that, if the storm had lasted longer or come later in the winter, the state's dwindling habitat might not have given the birds enough protection to survive.

Game Commission technicians are trapping and banding ducks at several points in Nebraska to at several points in Nebraska to provide data on the state's popu-lation of wintering mallards. Cattleman with straw and chaff or other low quality roughage to winter beef cows should utilize such feeds early in the pregnancy

These roughages can meet the energy requirements for maintanance. They are useful for generating heat, but supply little else in the way of nutrients.

Low quality hay and other roughage should be fed first, sav-ing the better quality material for later in the gestation period. By February, the spring cows calving should be getting a ration of good quality roughage.

When feeding straw and other low quality roughage the cattle-men will need to provide additional protein either by feeding alfalfa hay or a commercial protein supplement.

Minerals too are lacking in these feeds. Provide a high phosphorus mineral and salt free

Look for the blue tag when you buy seed for any crop. The BLUE TAG on the bag means the seed has been produced by a certification agency and has been tested for germinations and purity. Blue Tag seed is available in our area. A list of certified seed growers is available at the County Extension office.

Hackberry is a hardy yard tree town and on farmsteads. It does not grow as large as the American Elm, but certainly worthy of consideration as a species to replace it. Hackberry is well adapted to this area. The sweet-tasting berries are a source of food and small ani-mals which makes it a desirable species to plant in windbreaks and wildlife plantings.

Hackberry seedlings are available again this year through the Clarke-McNary program.

Many diarymen make the mis-take of trying to keep young ani-mals warm in a closed building. Warm moist conditions often le'ad to respiratory problems. This can be solved by installing ventilation systems which will filter fresh air through the building without causing drafts. This will lower the temperature in the building, temperature is not the problem; moisture is.

Feeder's Day Set At Kearney Soon

Topics ranging from grain levels in growing rations, the use of wheat as a substitute for feed grains, newer methods of grain processing and handling of feed-lot waste disposal problems to prevent pollution will feature the 1971 University of Nebraska Feeders Day programs.

According to Dr. Paul Guyer According to Dr. Paul Guyer, NU Extension livestock specialist, the Feeders Days are scheduled on February 17, 18 and 19, at Randolph, Exeter and Kearney, respectively. A session with a different slate of speakers and topics is also set at Alliance on February 23, to serve Nebraska February 23, to serve Nebraska Panhandle feeders.

Walter Tolman, beef nutritionist at the NU Northeast Station, will discuss grain levels in growing programs. Tolman will interpret results and implications of trials over several years at the Northeast Station which indicate that total efficiency is decreased with application of higher grain levels in the growing ration.

South Central Station beef nutritionist Dr. Stanley Farlin, Clay Center, will discuss with feeders some of the newer methods of processing, including "the use of whole-shell corn."

Suggestions concerning what feeders can do for themselves in controlling feedlot waste will be given by Herb Albers, Jr., Wisner, and Bill Krejci, Fairmont, cattle feeders and by Paul Johnston, secretary of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association,

Sharp Cut in Budget Requests Are Needed If State Avoids Tax Raise

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — Nebraska's legislators were given an idea last week of how much surgery they will have to perform on agen-cy budget requests if they in-tend to avoid a hike in tax

It will be major surgery about 100 million's worth.

The chairman of the budget committee, Sen. Richard D. Marvel of Hastings, set the stage by submitting a report which showed the amount of money the agencies are asking for — and the amount which would be available for appropriation at the tax rates Gov. J. J. Exon has set as his limits.

The agencies have asked for $317.3 million. That's just the requests for money to run existing programs. It doesn't include programs which may be authorized by the current legislative session.

Under the Exon tax rate specifications, there would be $201.6 million available.

That's if Exon and the legislators keep the appropriations for the fiscal year within the amounts those rates will yield. If the appropriations go be-yond those limits, the tax rates would have to be raised to sup-

The governor is required by the constitution to report to the Legislature within 30 days his recommendations for budgeting. In the inaurugal, he gave this preview: His budget will be "austere, but adequate."

The constitutional amendment permits the Legislature to divide personal property into classes and exempt all or part of the taxes on any classes it wishes.

Burbach estimated that local governments — the only ones with property taxing power reap about $48 million from the personal property classes his bill would affect.

By cutting that take in half for next year, the state would be removing $24 million from the local governmental treasuries.
His bill would return that "lost" money as aid from the state's general fund, which is fueled primarily with sales and income tax revenues. To provide the $24 million for the state to deal out to cities, counties, school districts and other local governmental units, Burbach said the sales tax rate would have to climb by one-half of one per cent and the income tax levy would have to jump by a full per

The Crofton senator said he opposes a 100 per cent exemption for personal property. By keeping 10 per cent of the value on the tax rolls, he said, the affected classes would be assessed and county treasurers always would know how much revenue they were losing by the exemptions.

Under his bill, the treasurers would apply the mill levies against the "missing" value, total it up and send the state a bill for the amount.

Although some supporters of Amendment 10 counseled for a more gradual implementation of the personal property tax exemption plan, Burbach said it was important to bite off a big chunk initially so there would be recognizable relief from property taxes on the local level.

Seek Workers for Relarded Children

The North Central Associa-tion for Retarded Children held their regular meeting Jan 18 at Special Services School in

The ARC voted to support fi-nancially the Summer Work Ex-perience and Training program. This is more commonly called the SWEAT program. The SWEAT program takes place annually, for 8-10 weeks during the summer, and it exposes young people at an impressionable and sensitive period in their lives to the problem of mental retardation, encouraging them to make career choices in the field. The experience includes lectures and discussions; tours of facilities and services for the mentally retarded throughout the state; exposure to films, reading assignments, and supper seminars with professional and civic leaders in the field; and work assignments in three distinct types of programs which serve the retarded. Each student receives a tax-exempt stipend.

Since the program began in 1966, many students have continued their interest in the area, and a large proportion have entered the field. Eight of the SWEAT graduates have been helped to continue the SWEAT experience by spending two to 12 months working in services for the mentally re-tarded in England, Germany, Denmark, and Sweden.

An appreciation banquet was suggested for March, membership month for the ARCs of Nebraska.

JOHN BIRCH GROUP ASKS TRUTH, EDUCATION

By GERALD GREEN, former Editor, ORD QUIZ

(This is Second of a Series of Three Articles)

A John Birch film, narrator menace and then take some positive concerted action to prevent its spread. G. Edward Griffin expanded on what the Society advocates in the way of race relations. He stated that all persons should be treated equally by the law but that men also should be free to choose those with whom they wish to work, to play, and to live.

In other words, the Birch Society is opposed to forced integration in private areas by the federal government How-the federal government. How-ever, Griffin said it is also op-posed to forced segregation by a state government.

"Both are wrong," he stated.
"Government should stay out of this matter entirely and leave it up to the individuals involv-

Another charge often levelled against the John Birch Society is that it advocates violence.
That accusation, Dr. Miller said, is 100 percent false.
"Truth and education—

"Truth and education — those are our only weapons," he stated. "Some people want to wait till the Communists get here and then fight them. But if we ever have to pick up our rifles, it's going to be too late."

Other charges include that of being subversive. Dr. Miller said the Society has repeatedly asked for a national investigation of these charges but none has ever

However, a Sub-committee on Un - American Activities from the California State Senate conducted an investigation of the Birch Society and published its findings in 1963. It concluded that the Society was not guilty of most of the accusations made against it although Welch himself had made some "irresponsible" charges.

Part of its conclusions were as follows:

"We find the John Birch Society to be a Right, anti-Communist, fundamentalist organization. It was conceived, organized, and is dominated by Mr. Robert Welch, who runs the Society with the aid of a National Council and Advisory Committee, whose advice he is committee, whose advice he is not, however, bound to follow. The accusations he made in "The Politician" in 1954 are shared by few of his followers, but he has since made other declarations that are as irresponsible and insusceptible of proof

"We have not found the society to be either a secret or a fascist organization, nor have we found the great majority of its members in California to be mentally unstable, crackpots, or hysterial about the threat of Communist subversion. As we have stated, there have been instances of imprudent activity and indefensible statements, but such isolated occurrences are not typical of the organization as a whole . . .

"We found no evidence of anti - Semitism by the society . . . overtly or silently . . .

"We believe that the reason the John Birch Society has at-tracted so many members is that it simply appeared to them to be the most effective, indeed the only, organization through which they could join in a national movement to learn the truth about the Communist

Dr. Miller said the Ord chapter's primary purpose for existing is to educate the people hereabouts in the American ideals for which they should stand and the Communist activities and goals which they should oppose. It does this through literature, speakers, filmstrips, etc.

What is the Society's basic philosophy? Well, it would probably begin with adherence to "individualism" and opposition to "collectivism," Dr. Miller said. He contended that the battle between ideologies was going on long before the word "Communist" was ever invented, and that the ideological stand now assumed by Communists is identical to that of collectivists for more than two centuries.

To define the basic differ-

To define the basic differences between individualists and collectivists, Dr. Miller referred again to the Griffin film. "Individualists." Griffin said.

"believe that the rights of the individual in a society must not be obliterated by the de-sires of the group but that with

"We believe that every man has a personal and direct re-sponsibility to provide, first for himself and his family, and then for those outside his family who may be in need," the local chapter leader explained.

"Collectivists, on the other hand, declare that the individual is not personally responsible for such things as charity, raising his own children, pro-viding for his aging parents, or even providing for himself. This is a group function of the state, of government. "The collectivist wants the government to do it for him. He has a fixation on govern-ment as the ultimate group me-chanism to solve all problems. The reason is that government is the one group which can legally force everyone to partici-pate. It has the power of tax-ation backed by jails and force of arms, if necessary, to com-pel everyone to fall in line."

Politically, Dr. Miller said the John Birch Society is neither at the extreme right — where it has been relegated by popular opinion — nor at the left. He said the extreme right is composed of anarchists who want no government what-soever. The extreme left con-sists of those who want total government, and this is where he put both the Communists and the Nazis. Birchers, on the other hand, claim a place in the middle of the road," not that that in it-self is to be desired but that anarchy is no more desirable than totalitarianism."

"We recognize that govern-ment is absolutely necessary for any orderly society," Dr. Miller said, "but we believe in the concept of limited government." He added that the Society has literature expanding on these themes and setting forth other basic beliefs, and that this literature is available to members as well as non-mem-

Ways to Improve Ord in Community Contest

Last week I got on the subject of the telephone. Before I actually got to the line of thought I was pursuing, I found myself sidetracked on the poor service we receive, while our rates consistently increase.

ently increase.

What aggravates me about the telephone is the way it controls our lives. Nothing as simple as the telephone should control anyone's life. YET, WE LET IT DO JUST THAT.

After realizing the extent the telephone DOES control our lives, I became determined not to let it run ME. This is certainly a challenge. Try it!

run ME, This is certainly a challenge. Try it!

As usual, the telephone at our house (with three girls in the family) rings incessantly. I haven't taken a 'poll,' but I'll swear it rings more at mealtime than any other time during the day.

So when I made my resolution that the phone wasn't going to that the phone wasn't going to control our lives, I waited until the next meal. Then — we had no more than finished saying grace — the phone started ringing.

All three girls were half off their chairs to answer it when I relied "Ston! NO ONE AN.

yelled, "Stop! NO ONE AN-SWERS THAT PHONE!"

They all slowly sat back down, turning and looking at me like I'd lost my head. "Let it ring!"

I said. "That telephone isn't go-ing to control OUR lives."

A paled expression passed over

A paled expression passed over their faces as the phone continued to ring.

"But, Dad," one of them said,
"what if it's someone that wants us!" (Now that's the understate-course, it's a wrong number.)

"They'll call back if it's important enough," I replied.

Everytime the phone continued to ring — that time — they cringed as if someone were cutting a nerve in their bodies. But the phone rang on. And I ate in total silence. No one else picked up a fork. They just stared at

Finally the phone quit ringing only to begin again within five minutes. But we 'sat it out' and no one answered. It was probably the most miserable meal the girls ate — and they ate darned little!

Next came my explanation, "Why?" I merely told them THAT THING wasn't going to run OUR LIVES. I'm sure they didn't see it my way... but they accepted it. Since then I've had a delightful

Since then I've had a delightful time knowing that you don't HAVE to answer a jingling telephone! Everyone in Ord know the Quiz is closed on Saturday or should by now (We've been closed Saturdays for over ten years.)

So — when I'm working on Saturday — and the phone rings, I merely don't answer it about 90 per cent of the time. When I do the voice at the other end of the line invariably says, "I know you're closed Saturday, but . ."

Now, I ask, what did they expect! They KNOW we're closed — but they call anyway! How ridiculous can you get!

From now on — since I've learned to control the phone and NOT the phone control ME — you'd better come and see me, I just might not be answering that

Something Different

We Are Full Of Goodies Here

The collecting bug seems to sting about everyone, and a smal country city like Ord is no exception, for we have some avid collectors here.

This whole area is full of goodies, and more and more citizens are learning to value their old possessions. A year or two ago when a prominent North Loup citizen died, her friends and neighbors were amazed when more than one Omaha collector swarmed out to North Loup and bought up quantities of items such as old lamps, old quilts, handwoven linen sheets, ancient pieces of glass, well-rubbed old wooden rocking chairs with beautiful finish. By the time the official auction came along, the house lacked about half its original furnishings. No telling what you own that may be of value.

Old houses that have colored glass windows are losing those windows, as antique dealers learn about them and travel to Ord. The windows are in great demand: one two feet by four feet can be sold from anywhere from $20 to $70 if the buyer is a genuine old glass buff. Shops in Grand Island are eager to secure this wong. derful colored glass. The father of the late Bill Heuck operated a bottling factory in Ord for years, I think the glass bottles were filled with pop in those days. At any rate the old German fellow had the colored bottles especially made for his use, and they were duly imprinted "Detlaff Heuck.

A few of these bottles have been dug up in the Ord vicinity, and they are of more value now than they were when first filled with the sweetened colored water. The father of Lydia Gruber Fafeita operated a brick kiln in east Ord for years and years, turning out a good red product which was used in numerous early day buildings. Some of these buildings are in use to this day. And not too long ago the buried bricks, the castoffs, were put up for sale and all of them grabbed immediately by admirers of old brick.

These small colored glass dingusses on telephone (?) poles that little boys used to shoot at are now collected. Why? I'll never

For 25 years or more, the QUIZ has printed a magazine about buttons, for collectors of same. Old buttons of every type are wanted, to buy or trade. Buttons from ancient uniforms are particularly cherished. They are really rare.

When I think of mother's sewing machine drawer, almost level full of various pretty buttons, I drool. I wonder where they went? When we were little that button drawer provided rainy day entertainment that couldn't be beat; we strung them, traded them, sewed them on doll clothes, what not.

Antiques interest me little unless they are from my own ancestors, and sometimes I don't care for those either. I recall my mother trying to sell me on inheriting an old carved walnut table and a pair of side chairs. Said she "those chairs have their original horsehair coverings." But I didn't like them and I replied "I don't care what they have, I don't want them. Thank you just

"Well Soandso likes them, she wants them," replied my mother, speaking of an unfavorite relative. "So let her have them," was my answer. I don't know who got them.

This Week's Meditation

Read John 14:1-7

Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me. (John 14:1)

The day before Christmas I was plagued with niggling little worries and much work to be done. Unexpected visitors arrived; they were welcome, and yet they interrupted my tasks.

Thoughts came of the morrow. We had invited a friend to join us for the day, a woman whose family was in another country. My husband and I, no longer young, were accustomed to a quiet celebration. Would our guest think it too dull a day?

Petty problems? Yes, but somehow the words of Jesus came to mind: "Let not your heart be troubled." I had always associated these words with sorrow or worry, but now they spoke to me of His great love. He gave us love, and so we had love to give to our friend; the quiet day might be just what she, a businesswoman, wanted. Christ does not only speak to us in great troubles, but also in the small worries. He removes panic, He gives peace for us to pass on to others. With His calm within me, I had the assurance we would have a happy Christmas.

PRAYER: Dear Lord, may each day be a day when Thou art born again in our hearts, when we feel the joy of the Thy spirit and Thy peace even in busy hours. May our whole lives be hid with Thee. We ask it in Thy name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Often this day I will turn to Christ, who gives peace and

Central Nebraska Rated Healthiest 11 County Area In America

Eleven counties in Nebraska are rated the healthiest area in America by the U.S. Public Health Service, and Valley county is very near to them.

Findings of governmental medical research employees are carried in detail in the biggest circulation health magazine in America, Prevention, published in Emmaus, Pa., recently, Readers Digest, Oct. 1959, also has a long article on Nebraska, which in turn was condensed from Holiday magazine.

At first glance, there's nothing unusual about the 11-county region of south central Nebraska just below the Platte braska just below the Platte River. A huge expanse of prair-ie reclines under an equally huge sky. Stiff winds plough miles of grasses. Cattle and oc-casional tall frame farmhouses det the slopes dot the slopes.

But it's the healthiest spot in America — and one of the healthiest places in the world. Middle-aged men there have one-third less chance of dying than men their age in the country as a whole. For some reason unfathomable to government researchers, men 45 to 64 in those counties have only half the death rate of men in Scranton Parameter in the rate of men in Scranton.

ton, Pa.; one two-thirds the rate of rural Georgia men.

Herbert Sauer of the U. S. Public Health Service, who first noticed the incredibly low death noticed the incredibly low death rate more than 12 years ago, has been trying to pin down a cause ever since. Sauer says, "For some causes of death, the 11 counties' rate isn't any lower than the rest of the nations'. For other causes, it's remarkably low. When it comes to violent deaths, such as auto accident or murder, there's not much difference. But the area is exceptionally low in diseases of the heart and blood vessels, cancers, diabetes, cirrhosis and respiratory diseases."

There's something extra in

There's something extra in the water of these thrice-blessed counties. "One theory holds that hard water protects against heart disease, and we have hard ly linked with effort," says Ted Dappen of Lincoln, who for nine years headed his Governor's Council on Fitness and is now director of health education in the state. "It was a robust people who settled this water," says Terrill. Lester R. Petrie of the U.S. Department of the Interior has been analyzcation in the state. "It was a robust people who settled this state, and they had to put forth effort to survive. Ours is a society which has been blessed with good elements — water, food, and air — and a necessity to work."

of the Interior has been analyzing Nebraska's water for about 10 years. He says the water throughout the state has a high concentration of calcium and boron — and the limestone rock there makes the water slightly alkaline. "Phosphorus, copper, and zinc are also found in trace amounts," he says.

"I wish I could be more helpful and supply data on magnesium and rare elements like molybdenum, because I'd like to know the reason for longevity in this area," Petrie says. One significant finding he has made is that there is very little fluoride in that area's water — and ride in that area's water — and especially small amounts in the 11 counties. Amounts vary from none to about .5 parts per million tops in the health belt.

This environment breeds rugged people, "Longevity is close-

And one Nebraskan swears the answer to the longevity there is due to the philosophy of life on the plains: "Get along with your neighbors and they'll get along with you," is the gist

Finally there is one factor that none of the researchers, government or private, mentioned — a low population density in those 11 counties; there's elbow room. A man can be alone This can promote health as a famous study on laboratory rats showed about five years ago. A team of re-searchers placed rats in a se-ries of smaller and smaller cages so they were progressively more crowded. After a certain point, the rats started dying in-explicably. explicably.

It's interesting that while this stretch of rural Nebraska enjoys the best health in the nation, the death rate in Nebraska's only true metropolitan area, Omaha, soars to near the national average.

Reader's Digest says: "The healthiest place in the United States for a middle-aged white male is a stretch of Nebraska prairie south of the Platte River. There, amid tall, wind-swept grass, corn and cattle, the chances of a man's succumbing to heart disease, of being felled by a stroke, of wasting away with lung cancer or even being run over by a car between his 45th and 64th birthday are about 30 percent less than they are anywhere in the United States as a whole.

It's super healthy in the villages and towns that lie in the valleys of Nebraska's so-called Big Blue and Little Blue rivers, but even in the bustling capital city of Lincoln the death rate in the adult white male population is only half as high population is only half as high as it is in slow - moving Au-gusta, Ga. The Lincoln men are so healthy that their death rate so healthy that their death rate from any cause is only slightly higher than it is for heart and kidney disease alone in Scranton, Pa. In short, south-central Nebraska is a place where a man can expect to achieve his three-score and ten, as the Bible says, in fine fettle — and then a few happy years more.

These astounding statements are supported not only by government statistics run through computers but also by the careful thinking and testing of an earnest, cautious Public Health Service scholar, Herbert I, Sauer has been analyzing local and national heart - disease death rates; with mounting fascination, he has become convinced that the geographic link with healthy longevity is genuine healthy longevity is genuine — and that Nebraska's 40-year-old record is its most cheerful record is its most cheerful proof.

"This is no statistical fluke," Sauer told me. "We've checked data on everything from ethnic background and in- and out-of-state migration to medical facilities, and we've sampled enough in depth to make sure we're not dealing with basic errors like carelessly filled - out death certificates. Consistently, for 40 years, this stretch of Nebraska comes up the same way," Hunting is big in Nebraska, and apparently it is how modern Nebraska man gets his exercise. It's still strenuous stuff in the prairies. As one man said: "Hunting out here isn't like it is in the East. We track our own game and we carry it home ourselves." When I went to call on a doctor of some 30 years' experience in the area to see what he thought of hunting for health, he unexpectedly skipped the medical values and zeroed in fast on the spiritual. "It's our philosophy of life that supports us, not drugs or diets," he said. "We're not fanatics but we're God - fearing people. We believe in sharing each other's troubles and worries."

There was still one more suggestion of the locals to be fest.

ries."

There was still one more suggestion of the locals to be tested: a lack of hostility. At first glance, these Nebraskans seem to be a calm sort, pleasant, not very loquacious and even somewhat easygoing. There are few protesters at the University of Nebraska, and little long hair among the boys. There are also few racial problems: Nebraska's Negroes constitute only about (Continued on Page 4) (Continued on Page 4)

Mrs. Zlomke Hosts Ord Woman's Club

Mrs. Marvin Weems and Mrs. Evelyn Jackson were welcomed as new members Jan. 12 at the meeting of the Woman's Club of Ord. Mrs. Wayne Zlomke was the hostess.

A highlight of the afternoon meeting was a visit from "An-nie" who was Mrs. Paul Lamhe" who was Mrs. Paul Lamber's helper in an interesting lesson called "Save a Life" Annie — whose real name is "Resuscie Annie" — was given to the hospital by the Ord Rotary Club. Her main purpose is for practice of resuscitation. Mrs. Lambert gave reasons a person might stop breathing; the methods of artificial respiration; how to check for heartbeat and obstructions; and how to give artificial respiration. She also demonstrated cardiac compression of the compress sion in conjunction with artifi-cial respiration if the heart was not beating. Mrs. Jackson helped demonstrate teamwork with a gauge to show when the right amount of pressure is used. As Mrs. Lambert stated, "You never know when you may be needed to give artifical respiration." Mrs. Heloise Bresley gave a housewife's view of Germany, with an informative travelogue on Holland, Belgium, Germany and France. Specialties of her vacation were told with slides depicting points of interest in different countries.

The next meeting — guest day — will be Feb. 9 at Mrs. Corwin Cummins' home.

All About Ceramics Members of the Lamp Lighters Extension Club visited Mrs.

Long-range Water Planning Session

Forty officials from cities and counties in Region 26 of the Mid-Nebraska joint planning commission on water and sewer attended a meeting in Loup City, Jan. 13. A final report on comprehensive regional water and sewer survey and projection of the needs in the future, and suggestions of changes to meet approved standards was presented to each Mayor, Town Board, and Planning Commission in the area Planning Commission in the area. The Project was directed by the Div. of Community Affairs Dept. of Economic Development, financed through a grant from the Farmers Home Administration, USDA. These reports are available to the Public from the Mayors and Planning Commissions.

There was also a study presented of the background of the population, economic, historic, geographic, land use, and community facilities over the past 20 years, and a projection of factors in making desirable use of the economic and the general en-vironment that is available to the people of the area for the next 20 years. It was pointed out that each community should move to make things happen now to improve these factors cooperatively, community to community, county to county, rural and townspeople in Region 26 working together. Refreshments were served by the Loup City Council after the meeting.

Sheffield is optimistic about the future of agriculture and especially irrigation. In looking ahead, he thinks the irrigated acreage in Nebraska will prob-ably double by 1980 which would mean an increase from over four million acres now irrigated to over eight million acres. He thinks the great majority of new irrigation developments in Nebraska will result from the pumping of under-ground water which will be util-ized predominantly by sprinkler irrigation systems. However, he said, there are potential irrigation development projects which appear to offer considerable potential for gravity type irrigation in the state.

Ord-Albion Friday; Chants Host Loup City Saturday

day evening and on Saturday, will host Loup City in basket-ball games. Reserve teams of the schools will play in the usual pre-varsity encounters at 6:15 p.m. Last Friday, the Chanticleers nosed out St. Paul in a 58 to no turiner, with the score being tied or the lead changing hands 10 times in the first half. Ord scored first and was ahead twice in the first quarter, but St. Paul moved into a three point lead at one time and finpoint lead at one time and in-ished the quarter with a one point margin, 12 to 11. In the second, St. Paul kept its margin and just before the half was four points ahead, but the Chants came back to tie up everything by halftime, 24 to Third quarter saw the Ord team moving into a gradually increasing lead, with a big 11 point edge by end of the session. In the final, the Chants had coven points margin at one had seven points margin at one time, half way through the period, but St. Paul continued to gain and in the final seconds got two field goals and a final deficit of only two points.

Tom Klanecky and Jim Andreesen were high scorers for the Chants, with 17 tallies each.

Darrel Farmer had eight, Leon Brechbill had six, Paul Markley scored five, and Dave John five. Coach Ken Trubey rated Kla-necky as the offensive star for Ord, with Farmer showing the way with consistent play. Andreesen's work on rebounding was praised by the Chant's coach. On defense, the coach rated the team as slightly below par.

Steve Hameloth was 20 point leader for St. Paul, with Doug Oakeson 15, Gordy Christensen 12, Steve Leth three; Rod Pederson three and Robin Keller, also with three Coach Mark Cordes rated Oakeson and liameroth as standout stars on offense and praised the whole team for its defensive work.

The game scoring opened slowly with half the first quarter gone before eitner team could score six points. Excel-lent guarding by Ord and also petter offensive patterns enabled Ord to maintain about a two basket lead for most of the quarter. Hameloth and Oakeson baskets just before the bell gave the invaders their one point quarter final margin.

In the second quarter, Ord came back and tied the score four times with Andreesen, Farmer, and Klanecky leading the way: Third quarter saw very aggressive Ord defending and offensive play, with Andreesen tossing in the final two baskets of the half. One score resulted when two rebounds gave Ord three chances in a row for a tally. Fine offensive play marked the quarter, with one typical tally and the chance of the chance cal play finding Brechbill giving a brilliant assist to Andree-sen for a clear chance and

In final quarter, Ord had an 11 point margin, the biggest in the evening, but when they tried to play control ball, found it was easier to keep on scor-ing. For it was easier for them ing. For it was easier for them to penetrate the St. Paul defenses, than to guard against full-court press by the Saints.

So, though Ord's seven point lead of 54 to 47 was slashed to only two points, their offensive skill stood them in good stood and four final points in stead, and four final points in a row by Klanecky nailed down the victory. These were all made in the final 23 seconds. Fine coaching was demonstrated by both teams, but inability by St. Paul to hit long shots hampered them throughout the first half. The Chants showed the result of practice at the foul line making almost showed the result of practice at the foul line, making almost half of all attempts, while St. Paul was only half as good. Ord made five free throws in first quarter, five in second, two in the third, and eight in the fourth; or 20 of its total on gift shots. One unusual foul was a technical call against the was a technical call against the Saints coach, who was too en-thusiastic about protesting a decision by an official.

Starters for Ord were John, Klanecky, Markley, Brechbill, and Andreesen. For the Wild-cats, Oakeson, Gordy Christen-sen, Hameloth, Steve Leth and Robin Keller were given the

Hunting Open Yet For Cottontails

LINCOLN, Nebr. — Pheasant and quail hunting in Nebraska has ended, but gunners need not hang up their shooting irons just yet, as seasons remain open throughout the state on cottontails and squirrels.

Squirrels remain fair game through January 31, with daily bag limits of 7 and a possession limit of 21. The same bag and possession limits also apply for cottontails, but bunny shooting continues through the end of February.

Prime squirrel shooting comes early in the season, as the bushytails stick closer to their cozy dens when colder weather arrives. But, hunters can still find good sport late in the sea-son, especially on quiet, sunny

In many ways, hunting the tasty cottontail is more rewarding at this time than earlier in the year, as they are easier to spot because of snow cover. The bunnies can be found around brush piles, in wood lots, around abandoned farm buildings, and other areas offering

The Voice of Youth

Panic Is

Everybody has in his lifetime panicked about something. Panic for me is preparing and performing a half-time routine. I find out what music I am to twirl to at least two days before the game. Now I have one ENTIRE evening to make up the routine. This leaves me with one more evening to PER-FECT the routine.

Next comes the night of the game. With all that time you can see I'm now TOTALLY prepared. All during the game I'm running the music and routine through my head, desperately trying to recall all of the little details such as — the beginning - the middle and the end.

Finally it's time for half-time. It's now a warm 22 degrees with a brisk wind blowing. I take off my coat and feel the impact of the cold — THUD!

I pick up my baton and feel with horror that my fingers are stiff - almost immovable from the cold, but I grin and bear it 'cause the show must go on!

As I said before, everyone has things to panic about. You feel like turning your back and running away - but you can't because people are depending on you to do your best. So next time you panic and feel like quitting - DON'T! Everybody's show must go on!

Just because the beef cow's "work load" is low during the fall and winter does not mean that winter feeding is not im-portant. Winter nutritional lev-els have both direct and indirect influence on reproduction. The effectiveness of post-calving nutrition and management can be influenced greatly by how the cow is wintered.

Cow - calf producers must know the nutritive value of common feeds and feed beef cows according to the "work" they do.

The "e The "eye of the master" is important in formulating supplements, because the cow's nufritional needs and the nutritive values of available feeds are usually an estimation. It must be remembered that no one nutrient is more important than any other. Each nutrient must be supplied at the proper level for best performance. Protein, however, is most often the limiting nutrient under our wintering conditions.

Salt and phosphorus, on the other hand, are the minerals most likely to be deficient durations. ing winter months. Salt should available to the cow herd at all times.

High phosphores mineral sup-plement should be provided dur-ing the winter months.

Weathered roughages are also low in carotene. Therefore, adequate levels of Vitamin "A", either in the protein suppleor as another source should be provided.

The single most important factor affecting the genetic worth of the swine herd is the choice of boars. Therefore, important opportunities for improving the net return per pig is directly related to time and money spent on the selection of herd sires.

Backrubbers and dust bags help in lice control, but heavily infested cattle should be sprayed to control lice adequately. Spray on mild days. At least two gallons of spray per cow should be applied with a high pressure sprayer. Wet a high pressure sprayer. Wet the animals to the skin. Vo-Ag Young Farmer Meeting Is Set for Grand Island, Feb. 12th tion.

This is a statewide organization of farmers between the ages of 18 and 35, who attend educational meetings sponsored by the vocational agriculture department in their local high schools. They generally meet from 10-15 times throughout the year and discuss problems that are confronting them in the operation of the farm businesses. The program will include a

Reserve Bank Sees Mixed Gain For Farmers in Coming Season

Net farm income is expected to decline somewhat in 1971 from the high level reached in 1970, according to the January MONTHLY REVIEW of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City. Prospects are most favorable for crop farmers while the able for crop farmers, while the livestock outlook is somewhat less encouraging.

Crop farmers may see their net income advance slightly. Generally lower crop production in 1970 along with strong demand should lead to good crop prices in 1971. The surprising demand for soybeans in 1970 — reducing carryover for the first time since 1965 — is expected to remain strong in 1971.

The picture is not as bright for livestock producers. While there will be a strong demand for red meat, large pork sup-plies are expected to depress swine producers, and assist swine shows and carcass con-

The overall livestock picture, however, is mixed. For example, the profit margin on fed cattle may drop sharply due to higher feed costs and dim prospects for price improvement.
However, cattle feders who

Nixon directed his remarks to the university audience, but the state sonetors were en hard the state senators were on hand

The Nixon appearance Thursday climaxed a rather routine week for the legislators who are hoarding their working days because of the limits imposed by the annual session amendment to the constitution. The 1971 Legislature is the first to work under these limits. Unless 40 senators agree, the session will end after 90 working days — that is 90 days in which the senators actually convene on the floor. The compressed time limits al-

The committee then decided to take a look at the whole fiscal situation before proceed-ing further with individual agencies. Marvel said his committee was to be ready to present to the full Legislature Wednesday a chart showing how much money would be available for appropriation. This is a unique approach to budgeting. The traditional proc-ess has been for agencies to

This time, Gov. J. J. Exon has promised a budget which can be financed with revenue from 1970 tax rates — 2.5 per cent on sales and 13 per cent on income. The 1971 income rate dips to 10 per cent, but Exon has said it probably will have to climb back to 13 per cent in

So Legislative Fiscal Analyst Marlin Rein has been commis-sioned by the Marvel committee to determine what revenue would be available under those tax rates. The committee — like the governor — is to use those figures as its budget target.

Marvel has said he is willing to try to cooperate with Exon on meeting the limits imposed by the revenue. It is likely, he has hinted, that the legislators may readjust priorities used by may readjust priorities used by Exon, but the joint aim is to avoid state income and sales tax rates beyond the 1970 levels

In his inaugural address, Exon didn't mention one aspect of the tax situation bound to be a hot issue during this session.

Sen. J. W. Burbach and Sen, Jerome Warner of Waverly both said the tax unrest in Nebras-ka stems more from the prop-erty taxes than the sales and income levies.

Nuernberger said he wouldn't stay unless Exon and the new state engineer, Thomas Doyle, agreed immediately that another 10 million in revenue bonds be issued.

JOHN BIRCH SOCIETY STANDS FOR LIBERTY

By GERALD GREEN, Former Editor, ORD QUIZ

Reviled by some but revered by others, the John Birch So-ciety after a dozen years of ex-istence remains one of the most controversial organizations in the history of this nation. It's also one of the most misunder-

During its short life-span the Birch Society has been accused of consorting with such diverse organizations as the Ku Klux Klan and the Students for a Democratic Society. It has been charged with possessing such unwholesome characteristics as Nazism, racism, and even Com-

Despite this, friends and foes alike concede that it is continuing to grow in numbers as well as influence. From a humble birth in an Indianapolis, Ind., hotel room, the Society has grown from its 12 founding fathers in 1958 to more than 100,000 members today. They belong to more than 4,000 chapters located throughout the United States.

One of those chapters — and a very active one — is based here in Ord. To find out what the Society really advocates, a Quiz reporter contacted Dr. Otis Miller, the chapter leader.

Contrary to one widely held opinion, the Society is not a se-cret organization, Dr. Miller said. Although refusing to divulge the Ord chapter's membership roll, the was willing to speak openly about the Society both at the local and national levels. Furthermore, he reminded that the group often sponsors lec-tures and films which are open to the public and are advertis-ed in advance.

"The Birch Society is no more of a secret organization than the American Legion," Dr. Miller stated.

He called it "unfortunate" that some converts "are a little gun-shy at first" about publicizing their affiliation with the Society, perhaps leaving the impression that it is a second that the society of the impression that it is a second this second that the society of the second this cret organization. He said this reluctance was due to past "smears" and the fear of possible harrassment.

Dr. Miller claimed the group's policy of refusing to divulge names of members except for official purposes is the same procedure as other less controversial organizations follow.

Disavowing any association with disreputable organizations like the American Nazi Party or the Ku Klux Klan, Dr. Mill-er said his group advocates lim-ited government, laissez - faire capitalism (private ownership of property with non-interference by government in the market-place), individual responsibility, and a firm belief in God. Since these are all opposite to what is advocated by the Communist Party, the Birch Society has be-come primarily an anti-Communist organization.

In fact, its consistently strong stand against Communism is what has brought the Society into such wide-spread disrepute, Dr. Miller claimed. He referred to a report published in 1956 by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, which contained the following directive from Communist Party headquarters to all Reds in the United States:

"When certain obstructionists become too irritating, label them, after suitable build-ups, as Fascist or Nazi or anti-Semitic, and use the prestige of anti-Fascist and tolerance organizations to discredit them. In the public mind constantly associate those who oppose us with those names which already have a bad smell. The association will, after enough repetition, become 'fact' in the public mind."

This is exactly what has happened with regard to the Birch Society, Dr. Miller contended. His reasoning is backed up by the material in a film, "This Is the John Birch Society," which is usually shown to prospective

The narrator of the film. G. Edward Griffin, says that the principal attacks on the Society have come about because of its success in combatting Communication.

"The fact that the John Birch Society is controversial is not a result of its mistakes, but of its successes . . .," Griffin states. "If you're not controversial, you're not hurting the en-

One of several specific examples of "smear" against the Society mentioned by Griffin oc-curred in 1961 at San Diego, Calif. He said a citizen who had written several patriotic letters to the local newspaper began receiving in the mail a series of postcards that went something like this:
"Dear Mr. Rogers:

"Congratulations on your excellent letter to the editor. You certainly are a well-informed and courageous American. However, you forgot to mention that the Kennedy Administration is riddled not only with those Catholics but with Niggers and Joyn too!"

gers and Jews too!"

The signature, Griffin said, was merely, "Member, local chapter of the John Birch Society." Then there was a postscript: "Won't you please attend our meetings?"

Not only had there been no meetings of the Society in the San Diego area, there wasn't even an active chapter there at the time, Griffin claimed.

Another example he cited occurred in 1966. Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania re-ceived a letter threatening his life and that of his wife if the United States did not resume the bombing of Hanoi. The sig-nature was supposedly that of the John Birch Society's local coordinator.

However, after an investiga-tion a Philadelphia grand jury returned 27 indictments against a long - time member of the American Civil Liberties Union who was in no way connected with the Birch Society. He had, in fact, earlier that year writ-ten a letter to the editor of a local newspaper condemning the Birchers for their "bigotry and underhanded tactics." What about that charge of bigotry and racism? "Membership in the Birch Society is open to all races, all religions, all classes," Dr. Miller

Winters Were Tough in the Good Old Days

Something Different

Nebraska is the Heart of It

It was most interesting to learn about Dr. August Hoeger and how this "poor preacher" as he called himself, happened to start up the Good Samaritan Society. I read about it in a recent copy of the Hastings Tribune, and learned that the Good Samaritan village at Hastings with its 1,250 persons is the largest such home for older people.

The beginnings were in the year 1922, when the Rev. Dr. Hoeger wanted to help a poor boy in Upham, N.D. who had been badly crippled by polio, and needed money to go to Kansas City for treatment. The minister asked each reader of his church paper to send in two cents. The modest request brought in a deluge of money for the good cause, a total of $2,000 more than needed for the boy Chris.

It was decided to use the money for the care of crippled people, as the donors had intended. Two thousand dollars was a large sum of money in 1922, and a six room house was rented. The first Good Samaritan home was in operation, Soon the house was filled with crippled and feeble minded: a second house was rented and it too was filled. The Society bought 80 acres of land and built another home.

One day an old man aged about 80 hobbled off the train at Arthur, limped to the Good Samaritan home and asked to be taken in. A few days later Rev. Hoeger came upon the old fellow without his cane and obviously he was not crippled at all.

Questioning the man revealed that he was lonesome and in need of care and thought that only crippled could apply for help; and get it. And thus it was that Dr. Hoeger realized the urgent need of Christian homes for aged persons.

From such a small chance beginning, the Good Samaritan Society has grown until now there are 146 homes in 17 states, with some 6,000 employees. Rev. Hoeger felt it important that the workers be dedicated Christians who will create a Christian at-

Although the work is principally with the aged, the Society also maintains three homes for boys in California with a capacity of about a hundred students.

The good parson felt that total care was needed, physical, mental, spiritual and emotional. He always stressed the importance of keeping busy and active in later life. People, not buildings, were always his major concern. Though he was a humble man, Dr. Hoeger was proud that 11,000 people had been aided in their

He practiced this in his own life, and never made plans to retire. His policy was "always look ahead, never behind." Guided by him, the society has thousands of friends who are nearly as enthusiastic as Dr. Hoeger concerning the care of the elderly.

Nebraska can be proud to be the center of this effort.

Salary Withholds Reduced for '71

Nearly all salary and wage earning employees will have less income tax withheld from their pay in 1971, Richard P. Vinal, IRS District Director for Ne-bracks, appropried today braska, announced today.

Withholding will be reduced for nearly all employees be-cause the standard deduction has been increased from 10 to 13 percent.

Single persons will find with-held tax reduced still further because a new provision limits the tax for a single person to not more than 20 percent above the tax for a married person at the same taxable income level.

DEADLINE FOR W-2 FORMS The deadline for employers to give employees their 1970 W-2 forms is Monday, February 1, 1971, Richard P. Vinal, District Director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska, said today.

The form should show earnings, income tax withheld and Social Security information.

Powerful Workers Organizations Back Poland's Drive for Freedom

BY PAUL SCOTT

Former Greeley Resident Washington — An exciting new force for freedom appears to be emerging in Poland.

It is the workers' underground movement that was begun during the control of the control the violent food price riots and strikes in December that forced the outter of Premier Wladyslaw Gomulka.

This loosely-knitted grass-roots movement is now spreading throughout the industrial and sea port cities of that strategic Eastern European nation.

What has deeply impressed Western diplomats in Warsaw is that factory workers involved in the movement are boldly sending couriers from one factory to ancouriers from one factory to another to consult directly with each other.

These unauthorized meetings of workers are taking place over the heads of the party-controlled factory committees and the government's controlled unions.

Workers in Poznan, for example recently sent representatives

ple, recently sent representatives to textile plants in Zyrardow to urge them to join their group in supporting demands for higher wages, more effective workers' representation, and freedom of

Other worker delegations from Poznan, where the 1956 strikes started, have been in Warsaw encouraging workers there to begin speaking out for a better standard of living. In bypassing the official channels, leaders of the new workers' movement are trying to build a power base outside of the company of the compa munist party to seek economic concessions from the Polish gov-

Western observors say this non-party type of workers' action has never been permitted in Poland since the communists took over after World War II.

The explosive question hanging over Poland is what will Edwark Glerek, the country's new Communist Party boss, do about the workers' movement since it could challenge the Party's con-trol over factory workers.

If the movement is permitted

If the movement is permitted to grow, Western diplomats say its impact could threaten the whole communist political structure in Poland.

The country's new Communist leadership is already showing deep concern about this but apparently doesn't exactly know how to cope with the movement without using force from outside Poland.

Gierek's sudden visit to Moscow is reported to be a move to seek the advice of Soviet leaders on what steps he should take to contain the movement without triggering additional riots and strikes

Gierek recently warned regional party leaders that there is a danger of Warsaw Pact intervention in Poland should there be further work stoppages and riots or if the workers' movement be-gins to seriously challenge the party's control of factories.

A session of the Warsaw Pact Defense Ministers that was to take place in Budapest late in December was postponed until February because of the Polish disturbances. Three Soviet Army divisions stationed in East Germany have been moved close to the Polish border.

The early January call by Gierek for "honest, direct conversations with the working class" is taken here as a move on his part to gain time to work out a strategy to deal with the new workers' movement.

Before conferring with Soviet leaders, Gierek sent representatives of the Communist Central Committee to key factories to determine how the system of partycontrolled factory committees can be bolstered.

American diplomats in Warsaw have cabled the State Department that the situation in Poland is so tense that anything could happen.

Poland is so tense that anything could happen.

Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski is reported to be indirectly helping the new workers' movement by his calls for more freedom for the church and the people.

While the cardinal-primate of Poland is trying to avoid actions that would bring Soviet troops into Poland, he apparently believes that conditions are ripe to force the government to relax some of its controls on the church and the Polish people.

Cardinal Wyszynski in recent months privately told visiting American Catholic leaders that "if Poland had a common border"

American Catholic leaders that "if Poland had a common border with another non-communist European nation, nothing could stop my people from being free."

The workers' underground movement may be the bridge to the freedom that a majority of Polish people still hope will come in their lifetime.

In atonoment for past failures

In atonement for past failures to help the people of Poland in their hour of crisis, Western government officials including the U.S. should be discussing ways to make sure this hope isn't crushed by Soviet troops as it was in by Soviet troops as it was in Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

There's a lot to be said for AK-SAR-BEN. Ask the people who saw their favorite stars.

In 1970, for a twelve-dollar membership, Ak-Sar-Ben gave you Danny Thomas, Victor Borge, George Kirby, Jack Jones, Jane Powell, Shari Lewis, Pat Buttram, the colorful Shipstads and Johnson Ice Follies, the World Championship Rodeo and Livestock Show, and the opportunity to aid Nebraska through the agricultural, charitable and educational programs sponsored by the more than 50,000 Ak-Sar-Ben members from every state in the union and several foreign countries. And that certainly says something for your organization.

Love Sweet Love

"Thou shalt love the Lord . . . with all they heart, and . . . thy neighbor as thyself." Matthew 22:37, 39

There is a great amount of talk concerning LOVE in our modern day. Songs are written about it, speeches center on it, philosophies of life are made from it, it is the center of many conversations, etc. This is good because it is a very important subject. But it appears to me that the love which is so much discussed today is seen in the wrong perspective. To find the answer to this very important subject. I must turn to the liberal the liberal transfer our faith and practice to find the find the answer to this very important subject. I must turn to the Bible, the only source of our faith and practice to find the type of love that is to be the essence of my life and yours.

The Bible says in Matthew 22:37. 39, "Thou shalt love the Lord... with all thy heart, and... they neighbor as thyself." Love is the fulfilling of the law. The direction it should flow is first upward to God, then outward to others, and finally inward to yourself. The natural man has all of these things in reverse. He first concentrates on himself, then he gives a little consideration to others, and finally in the dim background of his mind he thinks a bit now and then about a "Supreme Being" or a "First Cause." The Almighty in reality, however, gets little of his attention and certainly none of his love. his attention and certainly none of his love.

A Christian teacher was once addressing a group of students in his English class. "All of you know," he said, "the verb which is used as follows: 'I am, you are, he is.' Perhaps you are not aware of it, but the verbs in English, German, French, Italian, and Latin are all conjugated the very same way. They always occur in this order. 'I love, you love, he loves.' But do you know that that is a very bad way for a verb to run? The Hebrew people, with better discernment, arranged their verbs just the other way around. They say, 'he is, you are, I am!'" Then he added, "That is the way in which Jesus also told us to look at life. You should fix your attention on God, saying, 'He is to be first in my love.' Then, looking at your neighbor, declare, 'You are to be second in my love." Last of all you should humbly consider yourself and say, 'I am to be the least.' Remember, first there is God, then your neighbor, and finally yourself! That is the Scriptural way to think and live."

How is the verb "love" conjugated in your life?

You see, JOY comes by putting Jesus first, Others second, and Yourself last!
