

Second Nationally For Sports Story; Quiz Winner Again

On the basis of the writing by former Quiz editor Gerald Green, this newspaper was presented its fifth National Award in the past three years, Saturday, at the Champagne Awards Breakfast of the National Newspaper Association in Rochester, N.Y.

Green's story on the Ord Chanticleer's football trip to Aurora—when they upset the top-ranked Huskies last fall—took second place in the nation for Best Sports Feature among newspapers of under 4,000 circulation. In 1969 the same writer captured third place awards in both Best Sports Feature and Best Feature Story. Last year, The Quiz again took third in the Best Sports Feature, and Honorable Mention for Best Editorial Page.

One other Nebraska paper was so honored. The Western Nebraska Observer of Kimball topped first place in Best Feature Story. Publishers Kerry Leggett of The Quiz and Bob Pinkerton of Kimball were represented by John Edgecombe of Geneva, President of the Nebraska Press Assn., who accepted the awards on behalf of the two absent publishers.

Honored in the 1971 National Better Newspaper Contest were 156 newspapers from among 3,400 entries. Previously Leggett had been present to receive the awards at Atlantic City in 1969 and Green attended the 1970 National Newspaper Association convention to receive those awards.

Topping the Quiz feature, for first place, was the Leawood (Kans.) Squire, with a story on the family of Kansas Chief's quarterback Len Dawson and the effect of Sunday play on the whole family.

Of the Quiz feature—where the editor accompanied the Ord High team to Aurora—the judge said, "Gerald Green presented a comprehensive study of a team as it gets ready for a championship high school game, the game itself, and the trip home. The feelings of the players and coaches, the tension and humor are well conveyed to the reader through the conversation of the squad. The quotes are (Continued on Page 8)

County Fair Events Include Talent Show

This year—as in years past—a talent contest will be held in conjunction with Valley County Fair events.

The talent show is slated for the last evening of the fair—July 29, at 8 p.m. The event is being sponsored by the Valley County Farm Bureau. All entries are to be mailed to the fair office, Frank Maly, Ord, chairman of the talent contest, by July 24.

This contest includes three categories: 13 years and under; 14 years through 17; and 18 years and over. Prizes of $10, $15 and $15 will be given in each division. One other rule—each talent presentation is to be limited to five minutes or less.

Yard of Week Is New Club Project

A "Yard of the Week" contest will be sponsored by the Ord Garden Club. They will begin judging the week of July 5th.

Everyone in Ord including the business places are urged to clean-up, fix-up and paint-up before July 3rd when the Ord High School Alumni will be in town. If anyone is planning to do any major improvement they should call the Community Improvement chairman or her co-chairman, James McCready, so that "before and after" pictures can be taken to be used in the Community Improvement Scrapbook.

Again this year, Ord has chosen to have the different organizations complete many of the projects that have been entered in the 1971 contest but the townspeople must help by cleaning up private property. Dead trees should be removed and new trees planted. The Dutch elm disease spreads from the dead trees.

One project that has not been assigned is the numbering of homes and business places. We could make this a community project without the aid of an organization.

Litter barrels have been placed about town and should be used. Let's keep Ord beautiful and be proud of it.

Besides the Nebraska Community Improvement Program, Ord has entered the All-Nebraska Competition. Help us win.

25 Years Express Business Noted

25 years in the express business is being noted today by Ivan Anderson of Ord, who bought out F. V. Haught in July, 1946 and has observed the extensive changes in railway express since that time.

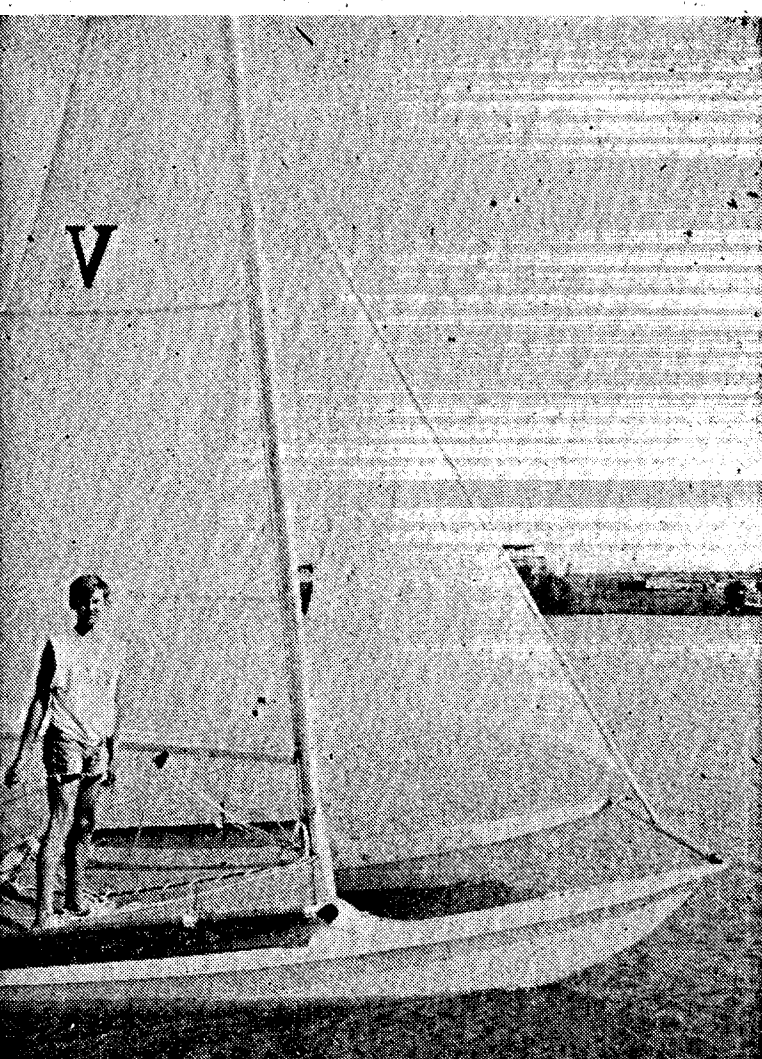

He now receives packages for Valley county towns of Ord, Comstock, Sargent, North Loup, Scotia, Burwell and Ericson as railroad depots in all those communities have been closed.

"25 times as much business was being handled by the railroad agency at that time, as is now the case," Mr. Anderson said, "Saturday was just as busy a day as any other, also."

Operating not only a package delivery service, but also a general transfer and drayage business, Mr. Anderson handled all the lumber for two Ord lumber companies, as well as cement, posts, and other commodities.

Ord Champions Defending Titles in Sailboat Races at Butler Saturday

Ernie French and Champion Cataram

Ernie French will race the father, Bill French, will be defending their tri-state sailboat championships in racing on Hugh Butler lake near McCook, Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Ernie French will race the small cataram sailboat shown with him, and his crew will consist of Ken Durand. Bill will race a big 20-foot boat also during the three days, and his crew will consist of Gerald Dittmer of Broken Bow and Gaylord Nielson of Dannebrog.

Butler lake is an "L" shaped lake, and racers have to go around the island. If they cut too close around it, they lose wind; but if they go too far, they have excess distance to cover and also may run afoul of weeds.

Hence, the French family will go there Friday, so as to work over the course, both Friday and Saturday morning.

Ernie will be competing against 20 boats and the bigger class, in which his father will race, will number about 10. Ernie's Cataram slyle boat is one of the fastest boats in the world, going 20 miles an hour in a cross-wind of about 18.

Tax Report Shows Property Taxes in County $1,444,222

Property taxes levied in 1970 in Valley county showed $1,444,222 paid by taxpayers for operation of the county and village, townships, rural fire districts, and all schools in the county. New data for 1970 has just been released by Nebraska Department of Revenue.

Auto Vacation Trip Costs Go To $46 Daily for Two Persons

Valley County residents who are planning automobile trips to various parts of the country, now that the vacation season is at hand, will find that travel costs are higher this year.

Inflation has had its effects on the prices of overnight accommodations, food, gas and almost every other item of daily need.

According to the latest figures from the American Automobile Association, local travelers will have to spend about 16 percent more per day than they did two years ago.

What it amounts to, for two persons traveling together, is an additional $6.50 a day.

The total needed for essentials, per Valley County couple, on the basis of the AAA findings, is now $46 a day. This compares with the $39.50 that was considered adequate in 1969. This assumes that they will average 300 miles a day and get 14 miles to the gallon of gas.

David Sich Hurt In Tractor Roll

David Sich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sich, was in serious condition in a Hastings hospital Monday as the result of a tractor overturning on him while he was working on his father's farm Friday.

Transferred from Valley County Hospital to Hastings because of nature of his injuries, he was brought to the hospital by the rescue unit of the Ord Fire Department at 9 p.m. Friday.

Frank Pinowski of Ord was rushed to the hospital at 6:40 p.m. after losing consciousness at the Elks lodge. He was still in the hospital for observation Monday.

A third run was made by fire department Monday at 9:30 a.m. when a fainting incident at Linda's beauty shop. She was recovered so well that by the time the ambulance arrived at the hospital she declined first aid and left.

Nebraskaland Tour Praises Ord For Hospitality Given Members

"The finest reception of any community in the state was given the Nebraskaland tour members at Ord," according to Dr. Glen Auble of Ord, a tour member and a state director of the Nebraskaland Foundation.

At Ord June 23, the 55 tour members had their annual picnic in Bussell Park and were served luncheon under a big picnic shelter. 12 Ord volunteers aided in preparing for the occasion, and the party was in Ord for an hour.

Music was provided for the occasion by an eight piece band of Ord High School music students, and the high school Girls' Trio sang. The Chamber of Commerce served coffee and iced tea. Food for the picnic was provided by the tour and cost was covered by the original tour charges.

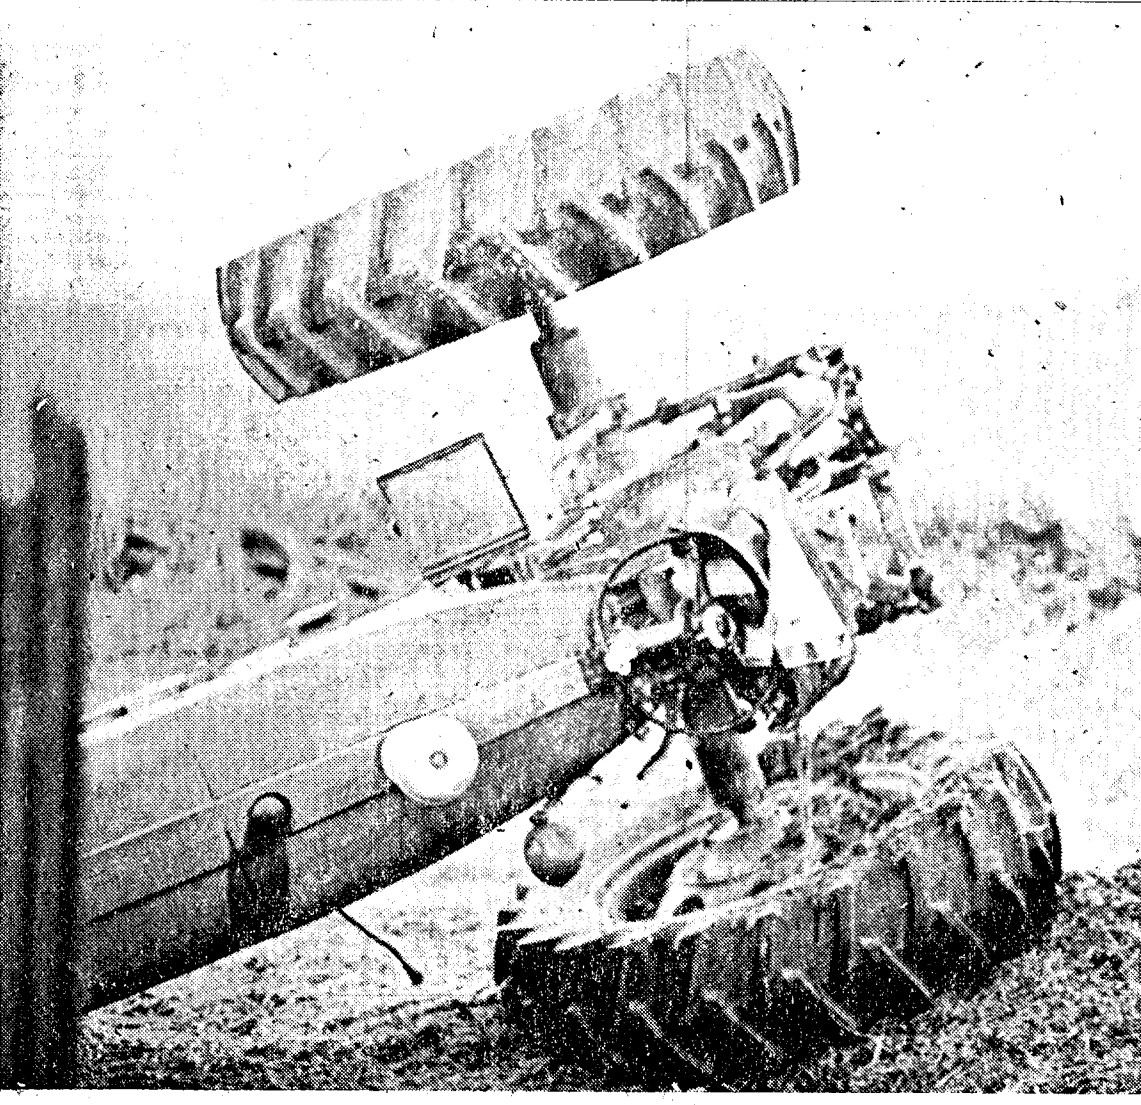

Federal Bureau Claims Fifth Of State Should Be on Relief

Congressman Dave Martin, in his latest news item, June 30th, states the Office of Economic Opportunity, a federal relief agency is adding to the already mushrooming costs of various welfare programs in a duplication of a program in Nebraska called PROJECT 93. He said: "The OEO is spending $280,000 at present for PROJECT 93 which has as its purpose the further enrollment of people in the food stamp program. The OEO is paying more than 20 people approximately 77 per cent of its budget from so-called emergency food and medical funds, to sign up people for food stamps. "The project claims to be able

All-Star Baseball Game, Fireworks at Ord July 4

David Sich escapes death in tractor roll-over

David Sich had a narrow escape from death when a tractor he was driving up a silage stack fell over backwards on him and then rolled sideways. Picture shows the steering wheel was crushed by the impact. He was reported Tuesday as recovering well in a Hastings hospital intensive care center. He suffered a broken leg, broken pelvic hip bone, severe bruises and other injuries. David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sich of Ord.

Races for children in the afternoon, an All-Star league baseball game in the evening, and a big fireworks display after the game will feature July Fourth celebration in Ord Sunday. All events are free and all residents of the area are invited.

The Rotary Club, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion Post, Sherman-Howard Baseball League and Ord businessmen are co-operating in sponsoring the activities, all of which will take place on the baseball field. Adjoining Bussell Park will be available for picnics.

The Sherman-Howard League All-Star Baseball game will start at 7 p.m. at the Ord park, with teams chosen from the South half and the North half league squads. Last year, the South won by 7 to 4 in a game at Scotia.

More than 1,000 persons are expected for the ball game. Managers will be Coach Don Liske of Greeley, whose team has a 44 record in league play, and Coach Roger Meyer of Gibbon, who is rebuilding this year. Gibbon has a 0-7 record to date.

Ord will play as a member of the North half of the league. Other towns in the half are Scotia, Greeley and Tolbach. The South half of the league is made up of Boelus, Gibbon, Wood River and St. Paul. Wood River and St. Paul are current leaders in the league, so there will be plenty of opposition for the North squad.

Ord and all other league teams will contribute four players to the All-Star rosters. Managers of the two squads will choose their own pitchers. It is expected that most players will be in action, for at least part of the game. All will wear their own town-team uniforms.

Players from Ord will include Jim Lukesh, pitcher and outfielder; Rich Post, pitcher and catcher; Jim Hulinsky, first base; and Loren Vam, shortstop. Games and races for children (Continued on Page 8)

by carol leggett

"Day of glory! Welcome day! Freedom's banners greet thy ray."

A proud nation was born on July 4, 1776. It is the greatest patriotic holiday of the United States, a legal holiday celebrated by all Americans wherever they may be.

This week I'll share this Declaration of Independence titled (WHAT KIND OF NUT IS HE?)

He wants to run his own business. He wants to select his own doctor. He wants to make his own bargains. He wants to buy his own insurance. He wants to select his own reading matter. He wants to provide for his old age. He wants to make his own investments. He wants to select his own charities. He wants to educate his own children as he wishes. He wants to make his own investments. He wants to select his own friends. He wants to provide his own recreation. He wants to compete freely in the market place. He wants to grow his own effort. He wants to profit from his own errors. He wants to compete with ideas. He wants to be a man of good will.

What kind of a nut is he? He's an American who understands and believes in the Declaration of Independence, that's what kind.

Isn't you glad you are, too? And don't you wonder why so many of our fellow Americans are trying so hard to destroy the kind of life that has made us the aim and the envy of every other people on earth?

The question is: What kind of nuts are they?

Hot Dog! July is National Hot Dog Month... So start living it up this summer with the dog that doesn't bite back.

For the record, the world's largest hot dog stand is said to have been in Coney Island. So many were sold there that an alias, "coney" or "Coney Island," became widely used in the Eastern United States to describe the hot dog.

Fun and good food go together when teens take over the kitchen. Sometime soon why not try Chili Beef Franks... so simple to do: 1/4 lb. ground beef; 1 can (11 ounces) condensed chili beef soup; 1/3 c. water; 2 t. prepared mustard; 1 lb. frankfurters or wieners, cooked and 10 wiener buns, slit and toasted.

Brown beef; stir to separate meat particles. Add soup, water and mustard. Heat; stir often. Place frankfurters in buns. Spoon soup mixture over. Makes 10 servings.

COFFEE CUP PHILOSOPHY: Don't be in such a hurry that you pass up more than you catch up with.

Ord Baseball Has Big Week Coming With Many Games

Junior Legion team defeated Holdrege in a pitching duel Tuesday night by 3 to 0 as Dean Vancura went all the way for Ord. The score was 00 up to the last of the fifth inning, when walks by Holdrege opened up the game for Ord. Rain in the sixth inning halted the game. Ord Midgets lost to Holdrege by 12 to 7, with Lyle Sevensen pitching. Friday night, Central City will invade Ord and another pitcher's duel is expected in the Junior game. Midgets will also play.

Baseball action in Ord will include many games the coming week. The Sherman-Howard league saw Scotia invading Ord June 30th, Wednesday at Ord in a makeup game at 8:15 p.m. The big All-Star league game will be in Ord 7 p.m. Sunday, and next Wednesday, Gibbon will come here in a third league encounter at 8:15 p.m.

Central City will invade Ord for games Friday at 5:45 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. with Midget and Junior Legion teams. Monday, Arcadia will play Ord North in two games with Pee Wee at 6:30 p.m., and Pony at 8 p.m.

Tuesday, July 6, Shelton will come to Ord, with the Midgets playing at 6 p.m., and Junior Legion team at 8:15 p.m. Softball will be on the schedule Friday at Ord at 8:15 p.m. Opponent has not yet been scheduled.

Other games for the Midgets and Junior Legion teams the past week were Anselby being defeated by the Midget 10 to 2 with Dennis Urbanovsky being the winning Ord pitcher. Dennis allowed only four hits, while Ord was driving out seven. The game was played June 27.

St. Paul was host to Ord on June 25, but was not very hospitable, defeating the Midgets 13 to 0, with Lyle Sevensen taking the loss for Ord. Juniors also lost behind Tom Klanecky, 4 to 0.

Two games were also lost by Ord Legion teams at Loup City June 24.

Games away from Ord for the two Legion teams include Burwell today for both teams; Monday, they will be at Greeley.

Ord Pony League Split Two Games

The Ord Pony Leaguers split a pair of games again this week as the South defeated Sandflats 14-8 and the North dropped a hard fought 16-9 decision to Scotia.

The North rallied back from three run deficits twice before the heavy hitting of Scotia finally took its toll. After a half hour rain delay, Scotia picked up three first inning runs. Ord battled back to tie in the second as Jerry Weverka, Lyle Vancura, and Mike Haines crossed the plate, the big blow being a two-run double by Jim Penas.

Scotia made the score 6-3 in the bottom of the second, but Ord managed to tie the score in the third when Alan Heisner, Weverka, and Vancura checked in with runs.

A combination of Ord inexperience and Scotia hitting finally caught up with the scrappy Northsiders as a pair of fly-ball innings put the game out of reach at 16-0. Ord did stage a last minute rally getting Penas, Bob Dworak, and Kevin Suminski home safely before bowing 16-9.

Bob Dworak and Lyle Vancura handled the pitching for Ord and performed well. Though bothered by inexperience they showed promise of better things to come for the North.

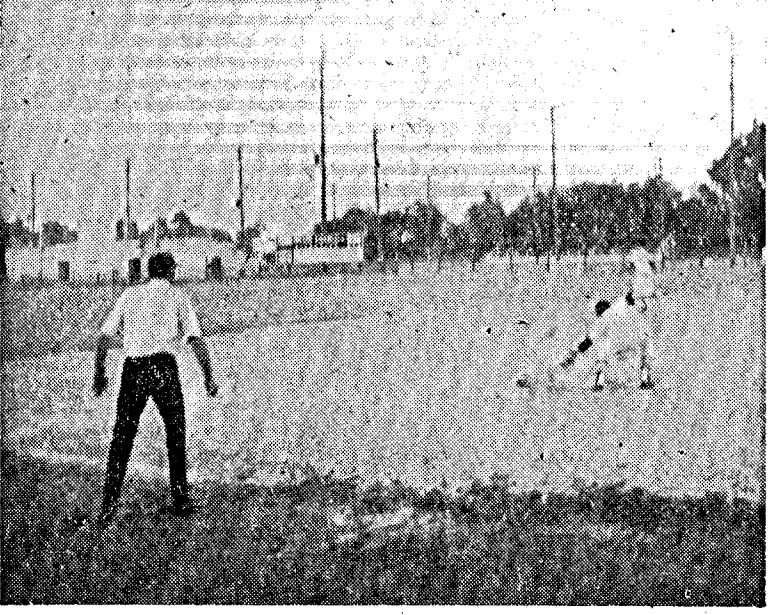

Monday night, the South kept its record clean by thumping Sandflats 14-8. Sandflats jumped off to an early 2-0 lead as Danny Hruza scored on Ken Hopkins triple in the first and Denny Hruza tallied in the second. Ord picked up four runs in their own half in the second on a combination of bases on balls and errors followed by a pair of singles. Jeff Quinn, Morley Koll, Brad Noll, and Paul Hansen scored.

Nine runs in the third inning wrapped the game up. Again the base on balls hurt Sandflats as the South could muster but two hits in the big inning. Eight different men scored in the inning with Quinn getting his second and third runs of the night.

A fourth inning score by Morley Koll made the score 14-3 after Sandflats had scored in the top of the fourth. Sandflats rallied for five runs in the fifth as the Ord team looked quite ragged but all the runs did was narrow the final score to 14-8.

Ord Mustangs Victorious Over Wolbach, 8-5

Jim Hulinsky Scores Two Men

Bill Warner Brings in Ord Score

Bill Warner, catcher for Ord, was the first man to score for Ord in the Wolbach game. He was driven in by a hit by Rich Psota in the first inning. He is shown rounding third base. Third baseman for Wolbach is Harold Rother.

Rother Hits Two Wolbach Homeruns

Harold Rother, third baseman, hit two home runs for Wolbach Sunday night in a Sherman-Howard game and he is shown above rounding third base in his first smash over deep center in the first inning. His second homerun came in the fifth inning. Bill Klanecky, third baseman, is also shown.

The Ord Mustangs got back on the winning track Sunday night as they took a thrilling 8-5 win over Wolbach in front of the home fans.

Fine pitching, timely hitting, and excellent defense were the story for Ord as they overcame a pair of homeruns by Wolbach's Harold Rother.

Rother got Wolbach going in the first inning, as he sent a two-run homer over the center field wall. In the bottom of the first Ord replied. With one out Bill Warner lived on an error. Singles by Jim Lukesh and Rich Psota and an infield out by Loren Vancura tied the score.

Ord picked up two more runs in the second as John Linke and Alan Vancura walked and scored on a double by Jim Hulinsky. The Mustangs upped their lead to 6-2 in the fourth inning. Alan Vancura began out an infield hit, went to second on a single by Warner and scored on a base hit by Lukesh. Rich Psota hit into a fielder's choice to drive in Warner with the sixth run.

Wolbach got back into the game in the fifth. Tom Rother singled, Charlie Wagner was credited with a hit when his infield pop-up dropped between Ord's infielders, and Harold Rother crashed a three-run homerun making the score 6-5.

Ord picked up a pair of insurance runs in the seventh when Bill Klanecky, who was safe on an error, scored on John Linke's base hit. Linke scored as Bill Warner was safe on an error.

Wolbach threatened in the eighth as they loaded the bases with one out but Rich Psota pitched his way out of the jam and hung on for the 8-5 win.

Psota pitched the entire game for Ord to pick up his first win of the season. He struck out eight men in the route-going job.

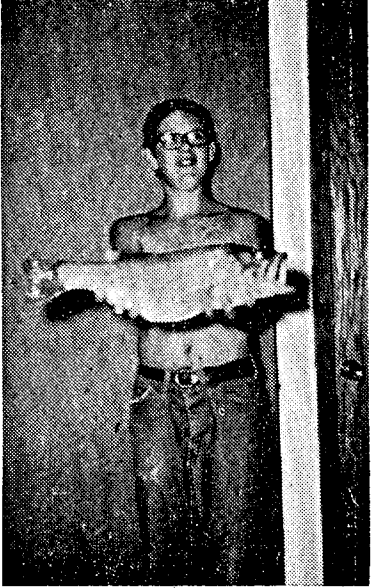

Last Wednesday, the Mustangs absorbed their fifth defeat of the season dropping an 8-2 decision to hard-hitting St. Paul in a game that was closer than the score showed.

Jim Lukesh started on the mound for Ord. While the big right-hander racked up impressive statistics, striking out 13 and walking none in 5-1/3 innings, trouble usually resulted when the St. Paul hitters did connect. The Howard team turned nine hits into five runs, single tallies in every inning except the first.

A sore arm forced Lukesh to leave the game in the sixth and Rich Psota took over on the hill. Psota pitched the seventh unscathed but was touched in three runs on four hits in the eighth to round out the St. Paul scoring.

While the Mustangs hit the ball well they were unable to come through in the clutch and Rich Psota was unable to get the first Ord run came in the third inning as Jim Hulinsky singled, went to second on a single by Bill Warner, and scored on a base hit by Lukesh. Ord did not score again until the ninth when Jim Hulinsky and Bill Warner stroked singles. Hulinsky scored on a sacrifice fly by Rich Psota but the Mustangs were unable to score again and the game ended with St. Paul winning 8-2.

'72 Legislative Committees Work; Ord's Kokes to run for Congress?

By Melvin Paul, NPA
Statehouse Correspondent

The annual sessions format will force state senators to step lively with their interim studies. The Executive Board of the Legislative Council has just appointed the committees which will conduct the interim studies. The committees are to report late this fall with their recommendations for action by the 1971 session which begins in January.

There are 18 committees. These are the chairmen:

State school aid, Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly; education, Sen. Orval Keyes of Papillion; welfare, Sen. Fern Hubbard of Lincoln; mental health, Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove; drugs, Sen. Eugene T. Mahoney of Omaha; taxation, Sen. J. W. Burbach of Crofton.

Pesticides, Sen. Loran Schmit of David City; public power, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff; trucking, Sen. Leslie Sull of Alliance; outdoor advertising, Sen. William Hasebrook of West Point; water, Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora; insurance, Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway.

Capital construction, Sen. William F. Swanson of Lincoln; telecommunications, Sen. Robert L. Clark of Sidney; law enforcement, Sen. Roland A. Luedtke of Lincoln; departmental rules and regulations, Sen. Herbert Duis of Gothenburg; retirement systems, Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oak Park and appropriations, Sen. Richard D. Marvel of Hastings.

Carpenter's study of public power will center on the costs and desirability of nuclear generating plants. The Omaha Public Power District and the Nebraska Public Power District each is building a nuclear plant now.

Also expected to make news during its study will be Warner's school aid committee. Gov. J. J. Exon vetoed an attempt by the 1971 Legislature to increase the present state aid to schools and two attempts to override the veto failed by one vote each.

One legislator has announced he may seek a seat in Congress. Sen. Rudolf Kokes of Ord says he is considering running for the Democratic nomination in the third district if he decides against seeking a third term in the Legislature.

Republican Dave Martin of Kearney is expected to run again in the third district. Two other state lawmakers have discussed possible campaigns for national offices. Both Sen. Wayne W. Ziebarth of Wilcox and Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff have mentioned seeking the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate seat now held by Republican Carl Curtis.

Gov. J. J. Exon says the 16-member environmental protection council he named last week will hold its first meeting early in July. The first job of the new council will be to screen applicants for director of the agency which will combine the air and water antipollution efforts.

Until then, Exon said he would serve as director with T. A. Filipi, chief of the health department's environmental health services bureau as his agent. The new agency will assume the bulk of the environmental programs the health department formerly operated.

The governor says the persons he selected to represent the 16 categories listed in the 1971 law are sincerely interested in preserving the environment. They will move rapidly, but reasonably, he said.

The appointees are: Larry Price, Lincoln, food products; Lewis E. Harris, Lincoln, conservation; Robert Cox, Gering, automotive or petroleum; John T. Harris, McCook, chemical; Edd Bailey, Omaha, heavy industry; Dr. Lynn Thompson Blair, physician; Leonard Sheaffer, Omaha, labor; T. C. Reeves, Central City, livestock; Mrs. Betty Abbott, Omaha, metropolitan cities; Paul Harm, Norfolk, other cities; Richard Dugdale, Omaha, power generation; Lowell Shaffer, Willow Island, agricultural crop production; Eugene M. O'Neill, South Sioux City, agricultural processing; Louis G. Riha, Sarpy County, government; Mrs. Margaret Sutherland, Lincoln, public at large; George P. Hanna Jr., Lincoln, professional engineer.

Gov. J. J. Exon says the budget recommendations he sends to the 1972 Legislature will be tailored to fit within the same tax rates he used as his target this year — 2 1/2 per cent for sales and 13 per cent for income.

KERNELS & HUSKS

BY JOHN SHADE

A few of the very early planted corn fields are showing infestations of European corn borers. This is evidenced by the feeding scars — shot-holes or skinned areas on the leaves.

Watch fields in which plants are 30 inches or more extended height for evidence of leaf feeding.

Control is necessary when 50% of the plants show damage. Insecticides of choice are either Diazinon, Sevin, EPN or Toxaphene.

Examine corn fields that were not treated for corn rootworm at planting time.

To do this, dig several plants from different areas of the field. Shake the soil from the roots over black plastic. The presence of small white larva tells you that corn rootworms are attacking your crop. Injury to the roots are also a good sign.

If damage or larva are found, apply a rootworm granular insecticide at cultivation or lay by. Any of the following are recommended: Diazinon, Thimet, Favadar, Disyston, Dyfonate, Bux and Dasinate.

Before you put on chemicals for insect control, consideration of the following points can save you time and money as well as protect the wildlife of our area:

- (1) Be sure you identify the insect;
- (2) make sure the insect infestation is of economic importance;
- (3) Use only recommended chemicals;
- (4) READ THE LABEL, then put on only the recommended amount and
- (5) completely incorporate the chemical into the soil, if it is of the granular type.

Your dairy cow needs from four to five gallons of water for every gallon of milk she produces. This amount could be doubled during very hot weather.

Southern Corn Leaf Blight has now been found in 26 Nebraska counties. It seems that the disease is moving north. The last report shows infestations found in Dakota, Colfax and Madison counties.

Even though the disease seems rather wide-spread through the major corn producing area of the state, it would be rather premature to hit the panic button in terms of damage to the crop.

Farmers are urged to keep a close check on their corn fields. Report any suspected infestations to the County Extension Office.

Green Thumb Tips:
Poplar leaf stem galls are showing up in the area. These large galls on the leaf and stem are caused by aphids that develop in colonies within the galls. There is no control. Trees are rarely injured although they may prove rather unsightly.

Sod webworm adults have been observed flying in the lawns. Eggs will hatch in a few days. Now is the time to begin checking that lawn for larva feeding. If damage is present spraying may be necessary. Pick up a copy of EC-71-1527 — Sod Webworm — for recommended chemicals and amounts.

No Way to Put a Tag on Persons and Make It Stick

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Elmer Parkos mentioned at the filling station Saturday night he had saw by the paper where foreign exchange students was heading back home after a year in this country. He said he would like to see the students who will report on America.

He would be special interested, Elmer said, in finding out what youngsters from other countries think about all the gaps we got here. Most of em come with the idea that everybody is rich, just like we think that everybody in Salty Araby has everything they want from that $10,000 a year each they get from oil well rights, and that everybody in Switzerland yodels and makes wheats.

They ain't no way to put a tag on people and make it stick, was his words. Furthermore, he said, they ain't but very little you say in general about this country that won't be full of gaps. There's the White House Council on Aging to figure what to do with all us old folks, said

Bug, and there's all this in the papers about we're robbing our youngsters of their youth by making em play football and wear hipstick and act like they're grown. In between, said Elmer, to represent you can think of and then some.

Jerry Vaneck said he was amazed how great minds run together, and that he was thinking along the same line when he saw by the papers that this is the time for beauty contests. All over the country, he said, folks is picking a Miss Everything, from Miss America to Miss Pickle Month. Jerry said he was thinking now it's impossible for enuff, pretty gals to be picked to represent all that's going on.

Practical speaking, he said, people are working harder than ever to be like one another, while they are claiming to be different. One of the saddest things going on, he allowed, is all the youngsters from well-to-do families that is wondering around pretending to be pore. They say they want to "identify" with the pore, but they allus got a pocketful of travelers checks to make shore they don't have to.

Jerry said he had heard some of these young folks say what this country needs to get it together agin is another Great Depression. He said all he could say is we don't need to get together that bad.

One way we can get together as equals, broke in Norris Jones, is to eat ramps, which he said is to a onion what the atom bomb is to a firecracker. Folks gather ever year in a few places around the country to cook and eat this ramps, and after they take a bite they all smell so equal bad a skunk wouldn't even be noticed among em.

This much fer shore, Mister Editor, I pick ramps over depression ever time.

Yours truly,
GERANIUM JOE

Something Different

More Hair for Men

Hair seems to be a popular topic of conversation these days, particularly since our young returned from college and demonstrated the latest, longest swinging hair styles.

Beginning about 1962 when I first visited England, I have been in favor of hair, and I came home to write a column about it, saying this.

The British men looked attractive with their hair cut rather full behind the ears and across the back, while American men were continuing to enjoy the crew cut and the high back hair clipping and shingling.

It then occurred to me that men had pretty hair, girls weren't the only ones. But men tried hard to make their hair invisible, whacking it off every which way, while girls were curling, permanenting, tinting, getting fancy haircuts to show off their curls.

Outside Valley county, we now have much more hair on boys and men. Boys seem to like that hair-in-the-eyes effect across their brows. . . . I feel this can be carried too far, possibly even be a strain for the eyes?

But we here aren't used to long hair for men as yet.

On both coasts, especially the east one, bushy hair is the masculine style. President Lyndon Johnson has had his hair styled fuller, has let it grow longer, has developed becoming sideburns since he left the White House. This trend is noticeable on many men in public life. I observe that Richard Nixon's hair is a smidgeon longer and fuller at the sides and back!

As the youngsters say, there's the precedent set by George Washington, who wore his hair wigged and tied in a "George" often, not to mention powdered thickly white. This style of white curls is still traditional in England but our justices have gotten away from it.

Lincoln too wore long, curling hair. Practically all our grandfathers wore long full beards during and for many years after the Civil War and if you don't believe me look in your old family albums. They were very proud of their silky beards.

In fact the men of the last 50 years are the freaky clean-shaven citizens. Now what brought that on, Mr. Gillette, Mr. Schick? Such a daily chore, such a never ending task. When even the royal women of the Egyptian dynasties used to paste on false beards, that long ago!

Have you ever seen Jesus pictured clean-shaven?

Taft had a big droopy mustache when he was president: (to match his big droopy figure?) President Theodore Roosevelt had a full mouth-covering mustache and set the fashion for thousands of his admirers.

Dapper Kaiser Wilhelm had a fairly waxed-end mustache when the German nation was the envy of the world.

Adolph Menjou, film dandy, had a cunning clipped French-looking mustache when he was a movie idol.

My father had a big mustache when I was small, but he clipped it off more and more with the years. Gene Leggett had a neat clipped mustache the first time I ever saw him and it was rare in those days.

I suppose you are going to say Adolph Hitler had that mean, stingy barbered little mustache, yes, he did.

In Ord we have some radical believers in non-hair. One beer parlor(?) orders young men out, out, OUT if they venture in the door with long sideburns, heavy mustache, beard, long hair. I don't really feel the hair style of their customers is any of their business. It's a personal thing.

How do you stand on hair?

SLAVERY FOR THE AMERICAN PEOPLE?

Part One of Two Articles by Bill Holman, Ord

Few of us have a vivid concept of slavery. Our forefathers established this nation to reject a slave status, but in the 200 years since, many of us have forgotten the snake-pit nightmare surrounding the inception of this country.

Slavery, in one form, is getting something for nothing from a master. It is fine for a while, because everyone likes to get something without having to work for it. But what do you do when your master gets tired of giving you something for nothing?

In the 1930's, a single man promised everything to the German people. He ran for office on a socialist ticket, implying that he believed the rights of workers to be paramount. But he secretly promised industrial leaders to crush the unions. He was legally elected of office, but then burned down the German Congressional building, blamed it on a minority group, suspended freedom of speech, of the press, trial by jury and instituted a secret police who enjoyed debasing people.

The unions soon found themselves impotent, and industrialists found many of their numbers among the three million Jews sent to the gas chambers.

Slavery in Russia however, was inaugurated by a group about 1916. Harping on the known evils of the previous rulers, one of whose policies was to establish a liquor monopoly and to thus secure wealth through debauchery of their own people, the group promised a dictatorship of the working man. After securing total power, they abolished free enterprise, free press, free speech, trial by jury. They shackled the unions so unfairly that in the uprising in Hungary, James A. Michener in "The Bridge at Andau" tells how the Hungarian unions bitterly fought Russian troops.

Today, slavery in Russia means the people are shot in the back, if they try to escape over the Berlin wall.

When this country was established, our forefathers objected to a foreign king who made the laws, whose officers arrested you for violating them, and whose judges conducted the trial which automatically found you guilty. So, they split our government in the Constitution into a legislative branch, an executive branch, and a judicial branch. They intended those branches to be independent, each responsible only to the people.

Thus, no one man or group of men could pass laws, make arrests and conduct trials. Rather, Congress would make the laws, the President would arrest you if you broke them, and the Supreme Court would decide eventually your degree of innocence or guilt.

However, there were two minor flaws in the Constitution, which tend now to defeat this original purpose. First is the right of the President to veto laws of Congress, thus giving him the indirect power to have a voice in passing legislation. The second mistake was to give the President the power to nominate federal judges, for this gives him the partial right to control the outcome of a trial. Thus, we see, the man who has the Constitutional right to punishing you, and the partial right to automatically find you guilty.

Use of the Presidential veto has grown throughout the past 200 years, and now is so frequent that Congress is virtually hamstrung. Believe it or not, Congress has passed only one law over a Presidential veto in ten years! Does that sound like democracy to you? A recent President got 92% of all his proposed laws from a Congress. Does this square with democracy to you?

Nebraska legislature, however, does not have to contend with an excessively powerful executive, so Nebraska passes laws over a Governor's veto about every week. This shows, Nebraska is about 520 times as much of a democracy as our federal system.

Not only is Congress helpless in the face of rapidly growing Presidential power, but its sole power to pass laws is being directly challenged by Presidential laws called Executive Orders. 11,246 of these have been issued and few if any have been debated in Congress, voted by Congress or approved by Congress.

These Orders are not even published in newspapers of national circulation so it is impossible for the average citizen to know them.

Rather, they are published in the Federal Register, a publication with about 25,000 circulation, or in other words, a publication which reaches one out of every 8,000 Americans. If we assume our population now is two hundred million. Nebraska, however, stipulates all official matters must be published in newspapers of general circulation. These matters include new ordinances, notice for bids, annual financial statements, and all notices which honestly require the attention of all the people.

Valley county, and its smallest near neighbor, probably has 8,000 citizens. Can you imagine the uproar that would arise if the Nebraska legislature published a controversial new law in a publication that had only on subscriber in the two counties?

Would you hence say, it is fair for new national laws to be published in the Federal Register, where 7,999 American citizens out of every 8,000 will know absolutely nothing about them? Yet, believe it or not, this is the incredible situation that exists with Presidential Executive Orders!

An executive agreement was brought to the attention of Congress in June, 1971. It is that we pay Micronesia $25 million for the 25,000 residents of that island. Congressman Dave Martin of Nebraska said, "This is an incredible piece of legislation. I thought the United States had won the war. An executive agreement by the State department and Japan approved this lopsided settlement."

If our federal judges were elected by the people, no such judge would tolerate Executive Orders or Agreements for an instant. But federal judges are all nominated by the President, all are obligated to him or to previous Presidents for lifetime jobs for which they do not have to run for re-election (which factor itself is a direct violation of democratic principles.) Hence, the President can always classify federal judges and select one some place, who will back up his temporary laws, and then issue court orders to jail or fine any person who disobeys.

Bill Would Help Dollar Buy Power

Senator Carl T. Curtis has introduced a Senate Resolution which has the backing of 25 members of Congress. Economic aid money authorized by legislation would be reported to the committee so that positive steps could be taken to guard the purchasing power of the dollar.

Congressman Dave Martin has indicated that the deficit for this year in federal spending will run $20 billion, almost double the expected and budgeted shortage of $11.6 billion.

WAR RECORD PUBLICATIONS SEEN AS PARTY FIGHT

BY PAUL SCOTT
Former Greeley Resident

There are several newsworthy reasons behind President Nixon's silence about the publication of the stolen Pentagon war records covering U.S. involvement in Vietnam during the Johnson, Kennedy and Eisenhower Administrations.

Most important of these is the President's view that he should personally stay out of this battle as long as possible since none of the disclosures so far directly involves his Vietnam withdrawal policies.

Despite the timing of the disclosures, the President looks on the whole messy affair as part of a bitter intra-party fight for control of the democratic party for 1972 rather than any overt attempt to destroy public confidence in his Vietnam policies and our system of government.

In briefing Republican Congressional leaders during a recent White House conference, the President spelled out his position as follows:

"This is a Democratic intra-party fight. The less we Republicans say about the whole affair, the better off the country and we will be. It is my position to withhold any comment as long as I can. If forced to say something, my position will be that the publication of these secret papers is a grave matter for the courts to handle. All violations of law will be prosecuted."

For the first time, I'm anxiously anticipating the annual Ord High School Alumni Reunion, to be held this Saturday.

Though I usually attend these because I'm an Ord alum and someone from the paper should be there — I've never been 'swept up' with the enthusiasm that others have shown.

This year is my "honor year," having graduated in a "come year" — the Class of 1951. So this will be our 20th year of high school. Back in 1961 I was on the Alumni Committee and thought any "enthusiasm" I had, then, was expended on the work of preparing for the Reunion. I'd like to think that out of thoughtfulness for having served on the Committee in the past, I was spared this year.

As is usually the case, very few of our classmates returned for that "Ten Year Reunion." We hadn't been out of school long enough to wonder — much — about our former classmates.

This, of course, will be our Twenty Year Reunion. By now I'm wondering just how the others have stood up under the ravages of time. Suddenly I hope that EVERYONE will return. I know this won't be the case, but I certainly hope we have a better showing than we did ten years ago.

I even found myself reflecting on "old times," Sunday evening — wondering about one person and another whom I hadn't seen in the past years. Either this is curiosity or a sign of old age, I'm not sure which. I even dug

BEEF IS HEALTHY

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng this week said American consumers need not worry that the beef they buy may contain residues of the growth-promoting fed additive Diethylstilbestrol (DES).

Several of the secret documents, he stressed, would give the communists a good idea of our intelligence weaknesses and strengths.

President Nixon also indicated that the Justice and Defense Department were looking into the strange distribution of the selective Pentagon records of the Vietnam war and why they were compiled in the late '60s on the request of Defense Secretary Robert McNamara.

In reply to questions from GOP leaders, the President said he had no idea why copies of the secret study were supplied to former Defense Secretary Clark Clifford and former Defense Secretary McNamara after they had left the Pentagon, or to other Defense Department officials following their departure.

The President also revealed he had privately discussed with the Republican Congressional leaders, the President asked them to stay on alert for any attempt by Congressional Democrats to turn the inquiry into the secret Pentagon war records into an investigation of current military operations in Laos. Any such move, the President said, should be strongly resisted.

Despite the timing of the disclosures, the President looks on the whole messy affair as part of a bitter intra-party fight for control of the democratic party for 1972 rather than any overt attempt to destroy public confidence in his Vietnam policies and our system of government.

In briefing Republican Congressional leaders during a recent White House conference, the President spelled out his position as follows:

"This is a Democratic intra-party fight. The less we Republicans say about the whole affair, the better off the country and we will be. It is my position to withhold any comment as long as I can. If forced to say something, my position will be that the publication of these secret papers is a grave matter for the courts to handle. All violations of law will be prosecuted."

This Week's Meditation God is not dead; man has allowed his perception to become dulled. Man has become confused by the "bright lights" and has lost his sense of direction, but God is watchful over us. In Him is our peace, our security. PRAYER: Dear Father, in the confusion of modern living it is often difficult to find our way. Pardon us whenever we assume that the fault is Yours. Help us to reach out to You and accept Your guidance. Amen. THOUGHT FOR THE DAY God never changes; it is we who become confused and get off course. 50th Founding of North Loup Neighborly Neighbors Is Noted

By Anna Medbery

The fiftieth anniversary of the Neighborly Neighbors Club was celebrated with a tea Sunday afternoon at the Community Hall in North Loup. Several others besides the members signed the guest book. Mrs. Harold Hoepfner, Mrs. John Hamer and Mrs. Jerrold Fisher took part in the program. Mrs. Fred Lundstedt baked the anniversary cake. On May 4th, 1921 a group of farm ladies at the Barker Neighborhood met at the home of Ella Frazer and organized the club. A constitution was written by Festa Thomas — now Farley and Alice Van Horn. There were articles and amendments made and election of officers was held. At this meeting, 16 people joined. Later in the year 6 more ladies joined. The object was to promote community interest and to create more social life in the neighborhood. The club observed its 20th anniversary in 1941 at the home of Neva Fisher. President Martha Peterson called meeting to order. 16 members answered roll call. There were 13 ex-members and 3 visitors present. All the members now live in or near North Loup numbering 15. Three of these members were charter members: Martha Peterson, Mary Davis and Pearl Mulligan. In 50 years we have had good and bad times, sad and happy occasions also work and play times.

We have given showers for new brides and then for their babies. For 40 years we have had a float in the Pop Corn Days celebration parade. We have sewed for the Red Cross and for a childrens home. The project for these later year is piecing and putting together childrens quilts for the Nebraska Childrens home in Omaha. We send them usually at Christmas and Easter time. Around 15-20 are sent every year. We have enjoyed the Neighborly Club noon dinners which were held once a month at a members home. Often times the Barker School children would come and eat with us. They were fed first in order that they could get back to school. We also had picnic dinners by the river, enjoyed swimming and wading also. Had some very heated baseball and horseshoe games. The Halloween socials were something else" (an expression that is used now). A real clany hand welcomed you at the door, inside were ghosts, witches, black cats, jack-o-lanterns and spooky games. Early in club history two home talent plays were given to raise money to purchase chairs, dishes and silverware. Later on a will was made to provide that the chairs, dishes and silverware was to be given to the Barker school whenever the club quit or died. The school did get them but it is no more as the children are bussed to the N.L.S. school. The club is still very much alive and active.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

New Environment Protection Unit In Operation; Air Standards Set

By Melvin Paul, NPA
Statehouse Correspondent

The state's new environmental protection department is off and running. The new agency, a creation of the 1971 Legislature, began operating July 1, with T. A. Filipi in charge.

Actually, Gov. J. J. Exon was holding the title of director and Filipi, a 33-year veteran of the State Health Department, was acting as Exon's interim director. That set-up is to continue until the 16-member advisory council on the environment gets together and nominates a slate of candidates from which the governor will choose a permanent director.

The first meeting of the new council — which replaces the air and water pollution control councils — is scheduled for later this month.

The water pollution control body, which had been in existence 13 years, held its final meeting last week. John S. Samson of Omaha, a charter member of the council, said he was proud of the work the group had accomplished.

"We've conducted a reasonable program and still protected the environment," he said. "The blight of 150 years of civilization (in Nebraska) can't be cured by arbitrary and rash action. This council needs apologize to no one."

Just before the turn of the fiscal year, Exon signed state air quality standards proposed by the air pollution control council — another agency eliminated by the new law.

The standards for Douglas, Sarpy and Dakota Counties are equal to the limits established by the federal government as minimums. For the rest of the state, the limits are 20 per cent more stringent.

Dr. Henry D. Smith, the state health director and chairman of the air pollution control group, said the two-level standards were worked out as a sort of compromise.

One faction of the council sought tougher standards for the entire state and another faction lobbied for the federal standards statewide, Smith said.

If Exon hadn't given his endorsement of the proposals before July 1, the new environmental protection council would have had to begin all over again on air quality standards, including new hearings.

The law which created the new council, however, restricts it to standards no tougher than the federal government has set.

Exon conferred with the attorney general's office before signing the standards which call for federal plus 20-per cent levels for all of the state except the Omaha, Bellevue and South Sioux City areas.

He was told he would be on safe ground if he acted before July 1.

Elsewhere on the pollution control front, the University of Nebraska, which has been superintending of the air experiment station at North Platte, has been named to head a statewide irrigation development program.

"Additional research and extension education programs," Varner said, "will be aimed at supporting an orderly sound and economic development of Nebraska's irrigation agriculture. Many disciplines within the university are making important contributions and all outstate stations and most county agents are involved. Sheffield will be charged with coordinating the total effort."

Development of the state's highway system also was in the news recently.

The state Road Department announced plans for the fiscal year which include 123 projects on the state system and 60 for the Interstate Highway.

All told, the department says it will let contracts for $81.9 million worth of work before next June 30.

At the same time, the Department released its plans for the next five fiscal years — stretching until June 30, 1977. Over the total six-year period, the department says $390.9 million is to be spent on highway construction.

State Engineer Thomas D. Doyle said the program for the coming year doesn't involve use of any additional revenue bond money. He said even if more bonds were issued, no more work could be done because the entire federal obligation authority for the period is involved already.

KERNELS & HUSKS

BY JOHN SCHADE
Valley County Agent

Field surveys of corn in the Eastern one-third of Nebraska indicates that we are in the middle of one of the worst first brood corn borer outbreaks in 30 years. From 65 to 75 percent of the plants in the fields surveyed are showing economic populations of corn borer larva.

It appears that almost all of the fields in this area would profit from treatment.

Farmers are to check fields now to determine what percentage of your plants show shot-hole feeding in the whorl. If 50 percent of the plants are infested with borers, it's time to use chemical control.

To determine if there is still time to control, pull the whorls out of 10 to 15 plants, unroll them and check the size of the borers. If many of the borers are over 1/2 inch long and have started to bore into the side of the stalks and into the midribs it's too late to control.

If control is needed use a granular material. Chemicals of choice are Diazinon 14G, Sevin 20 percent G or EPN 2 percent G. There are restrictions on the use of Diazinon and EPN.

Check with your County Extension Agent on these.

Southern Corn Leaf Blight:
A report received last week indicated that Southern Corn Leaf Blight has been identified in seven additional counties in Nebraska. The total now stands at 38.

The disease is getting closer to home. The report indicates that Howard, Hall, and Merrick are among those where S.C.L.B. infestations have been found.

Farmers should continue to keep a close watch on corn fields. Those fields planted to Tms cytoplasm and blends are more susceptible than those planted to normal. These should be watched daily. Any suspected infestation should be reported to the County Extension Office immediately.

Avoid Hot Weather Stress:
High temperatures and high humidity can spell trouble for cattle and swine in the feedlot. These conditions are especially hard on those animals that are nearing the end of their finishing period.

Feeders are urged to take every precaution possible in eliminating stress during these periods.

Make water readily available for drinking. Provide shade if at all possible. Don't bunch your livestock. Keep them in a position where air can circulate around them freely. Keep all handling stress at a minimum.

Green Thumb Tips:
Prostrate spurge is becoming a problem in lawns. This weed is difficult to control with ordinary methods. Banvel-D and Silvex have given only fair control. If these are used follow directions and be conscious of possible damage to garden plants and flowers both in your yard and your neighbors.

Keep a close check on your lawns. Sod Webworm moths have been active the past several weeks. Larva damage could be showing up any time now. Look for irregular brown spots and the chewing off of grass blades near the ground surface.

If controls become necessary Sevin, Dylox or Diazinon are chemicals of choice.

Make It With Wool Contest Is Underway

Wool doesn't mind being neaded by the best young seamstresses in the nation, and that's exactly what has started with the official launching of the national Make It Yourself With Wool (MIYWW) Contest.

The contest is officially open now to thousands of teenage girls who are adept with the needle and sewing machine. Divided into junior and senior divisions, the contest applies to ages ranging from 14 to 16 for the juniors and 17 to 21 for senior entrants. The local contest will also be open to girls 10-13 and adults over 21.

MIYWW information and entry blanks may be obtained by writing the District 8 Directors — Mrs. Darwin Edson or Mrs. Merle Block at Gothenburg, NB, 69138.

Fifth of County Receives Social Security Checks; Total $116,000

22 percent of the residents of Valley county are getting Social Security payments, with a total of $116,000 monthly coming into county homes at the end of 1970, according to a new analysis released this week by the Grand Island office.

Valley county, with a population of 5,783 has 1,276 persons receiving Social Security checks. 70 are under 18 and are mostly students in families with one or more deceased parents. 17 are in the 18 to 21 group, and 53 are in the 22 to 59 age category. This makes a total of 140 of the 1,276 as being under 60.

According to the manager of the Grand Island office, Larry G. Chaney, the under 60 age group also includes minor and disabled children, and children under age 22 who are full-time students. Disabled widows, young mothers, and disabled workers along with their dependents are also included.

Of the beneficiaries, 943 are retired workers or their dependents. Another 251 are receiving benefits as survivors of workers who have died, and 80 are getting benefits as disabled workers and their dependents. Average amount paid is $90 per month.

Of the 19 counties served by the Grand Island office, a total of $3,181,000 monthly is now being paid to 83,538 recipients. With a total 199,415 population in those counties, this shows 16 percent of the people are getting Social Security checks. Thus, the ratio in Valley county is six percent higher than the average of the 19 counties.

Average check paid to the recipients in the 19 counties was $94 per month per person, slightly above the Valley county average.

SLAVERY FOR THE AMERICAN PEOPLE?

Part Two of Two Articles by Bill Holman, Ord

Lastly, we come to the question of court orders. These are temporary laws, issued not by Congress, but believe it or not, by judges. Yet, the Constitution clearly states that only Congress shall pass laws, and this includes temporary as well as long-term laws.

J. Allen Smith, professor of political science of the University of Washington, said in 1909, when court orders were almost unheard of, as compared with their common use today:

"The Sixth Amendment to the Constitution guarantees the right of trial by jury in all criminal prosecutions, but it is a matter of common knowledge that this time-honored safeguard against tyranny and oppression has been overthrown by federal courts. Government by injunction places a large and important class of crimes beyond this Constitutional provision. Moreover, this class of crimes is the one where denial of the right of trial by jury is most likely to result in oppression. The court virtually assumes the right to enact criminal legislation, and may punish as crimes, acts which neither law or public opinion condemns. It insures conviction in many cases where Constitutional rights of trial by jury would mean acquittal."

It should be clearly understood that neither Congress, nor any Legislature has given judges power to issue temporary laws, or to jail or fine anyone for personal reasons. Judges legally only can conduct fair trials, according to rules established for them. They only can punish according to laws previously established by Congress, or the Legislature, and only, can impose fines or jail terms as previous laws explicitly provide.

Cases can legally only be brought before a judge by attorneys in a civil suit, or the district attorney in a criminal case. He has no legal power to institute a case himself. If a witness is drunk, disorderly, starts smashing furniture or disrupts proceedings, the judge has the legal right to complain to his district attorney and to have the man arrested for disorderly conduct. This is the same right as anyone else has, who might be conducting church, city council, lodge or other orderly meetings.

The judge has the legal right to appear against those he charges with disorderly conduct, when the case comes up for hearing before another judge. The Legislature has set the penalty for such conduct at about 15 days in jail.

Not only, however, are judges openly refusing to obey this law in regard to disorderly charges against others, but they are now openly issuing multiple violations of the sole right of the Legislatures, to pass temporary laws.

In Philadelphia, for instance, the Legislature had in effect in 1963 a law guarding the right of newspapermen to protect sources of information. This is necessary so that informers can alert the public to social evils, and not suffer unwarranted retaliation. For the evils can be corrected by police testimony, and that of informers is not really needed at all.

Despite this state law, Earl Selby, city editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin, was illegally threatened with jail and fine for not divulging sources of information, not only once, but eleven times!

These multiple abuses of the law tend to drive thousands of witnesses and even attorneys from the courts. For a generation, attorneys have cautioned witnesses not to react, no matter how unfair or how unjust judges may be. Freedom of speech has not existed in court rooms for years and it is becoming more and more scarce. Witnesses are not permitted to testify or not to testify, or to answer questions in their own way.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation now is openly alarmed at the reluctance of witnesses to admit seeing accidents or crimes. American citizens do not want to appear in court and face unlimited fines or jail sentences if the judge dislikes their attitude or the way they want to testify.

Hence, if you are alarmed at the destruction of fair and open and honest and legal trials in this country, work to have all federal judges elected by the people. We would soon get humility into the courts if the people in each judicial district could retire to private life, after reasonable term, any federal judge.

A final point of view to consider is, "What difference does it make if one branch of our government has excessive power? The President has to run for office every four years, and the people can always vote him out!"

This is true, if we can always tell in advance if the man we put in the White House will accept the will of the people and retire to private life if he is not re-elected. However, was the man who killed 3 million Jews in the gas chambers of Germany willing to run for re-election? Does the gang which shoots Russian people in the back at the Berlin wall run for re-election in free elections?

In ancient Rome, when the flower of genius of that nation had been destroyed by 1,000 years of warfare with her neighbors, the Senate was so despairing of democracy that it started voting one general after another, absolute power for six months to fight off pagan invaders.

And what happened? Soon, a general refused to give up his power at the end of his term and so what could the Senate do? He had the armies, and no one could challenge him. He had so little respect for democracy that he even called himself, "Julius, the Dictator," or as we know him, "Julius Caesar."

Hence, it can be seen that excessive power given to one man for a four year period is highly dangerous, for democracy in Rome was destroyed when excessive power was given for only six months.

In closing, if you reject the idea that you are to be sold into slavery for a government handout, if you object to your children and grandchildren having to suffer the indignities, humiliations and debasements inflicted upon the people of Germany and Russia and ancient Rome, work for abolition of the Presidential veto and election of all federal judges by the people!

President Thomas Jefferson, acknowledged champion of the common man, advocated election of federal judges. President George Washington said, "Those entrusted with administration of our country should confine themselves within their respective Constitutional spheres, avoiding any encroachment upon another. The spirit of encroachment tends to consolidate the powers of all departments into one, and thus to create despotism."

WASHINGTON REPORT

Federal Control of Nation's Children Feared

BY PAUL SCOTT
Former Greeley Resident

If legislation now moving through Congress is finally approved, the federal government will assume an unprecedented role in the care and development of the nation's children.

One little-known piece of this monumental social experiment already has been approved by the House as part of the President's revolutionary welfare reform program, which is now pending in the Senate Finance Committee.

This is the ground-breaking, three-quarters of a billion dollar child care program for welfare recipients under the proposed Opportunities for Families Program and the controversial Family Assistance plan — both key provisions of the President's welfare reform package.

Under these social aid programs, authority and responsibility are given to Secretaries of Labor, Health, Education and Welfare to arrange for free day care for children of welfare recipients participating in training, employment and vocational rehabilitation programs.

Several million children will be eligible for the new child care benefits which will range from day time supervised care to health, vocational, and other so-called supportive social services.

The national child development and advocacy measures (more than 100 have been introduced in Congress) are carefully designed to create officially authorized and funded pressure groups at the national, state, and local levels. Their objective would be to press for expanded child care programs and new legal rights for children under 21.

Helping Build Is Better Than Always Tearing Down

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ever now and then somepun comes along that lifts the spirits and helps us get through all the other news in the paper. Richard Masin came Saturday night with a clipping that made the world look brighter.

Richard had this piece that told about a 14-year-old girl that had collected nearly three million coupons of food packages, essential for three kidney machines for people that would die without em. The little girl got some publicity and now thousands of people is sending her coupons.

The piece said the food outfit would buy the machines in exchange for coupons from their products. The little girl, whose brother died of kidney disease, started collecting coupons and her idea grew fast.

They is a lot good about people, Rich said, and a story like that just reminds us that we care about one another, but we have to be showed what we can do together that we can't do alone.

He was of a mind that all them people that sent coupons to the little girl got reward for their kindness. They reminded their-seifs, Rich said, that helping build somepun better allus is better than tearing down what we got.

Ron Scofield said he was happy with the coupon story, but he couldn't help thinking that there are more people needing kidney machines than they are machines. Money, said Ron, really makes the difference sometime in life and death.

On the subject of getting sick, Ron said that was one thing nobody can afford to do nowadays. Hospital costs are shooting sky high, and doctor fees are going up just as fast. And you can't outfox the doctors by putting "doctor clothes" on the younguns like you use to if you put them over a Medicaid card now hoping to get a break from the doctor, his office people will figger you're a Medicaid case and his prices will go even higher.

But general speaking doctors and other services that they are overpaid. And compared to health services in most of the

KERRY ON

—familiar faces—

Another Ord Alumni Reunion is history. It was great seeing many old faces—some I recognized, others I didn't.

To my surprise, our class had changed little in the past twenty years. The boys didn't have "rat bellies." The girls didn't look "matronly." They were all very much like I remembered them.

A few times I had trouble placing a name with a face. But twenty years out of high school and you aren't bashful. If you don't know, YOU ASK. At least I do.

This sometimes embarrasses my wife when I walk directly up to someone, saying, "Excuse me, but don't I know you?"

There are times, too, that you learn to 'not' recognize someone. It may prove more embarrassing for them than it would for yourself. These, though, are the things you learn in twenty years of 'growing up.'

A couple of years ago, while in Las Vegas (which is a place you use great discretion in recognizing people), I nearly lost a wife over a 3 a.m. argument as to if I DID or DID NOT recognize a young man.

We had put in a long night in the casino and decided to slip into the coffee shop and get a lunch before adjourning to our room. At 3 a.m. the people you see either shouldn't be up or shouldn't be out, one of the two.

Nevertheless, we were sitting in the coffee shop of The Frontier Hotel when I glanced down the counter and thought I recognized someone. If I was placing the face correctly, the young man I found myself staring at was from Denver. I met him two years prior to that on a flight from Chicago to Toronto.

"That's Mike," I said, "I just KNOW that's Mike!"

"I suppose he's got one ear higher than the other one," my wife sarcastically replied. (This stems from my recognizing cars, late at night, because one headlight is brighter than the other — or something of that nature.)

world, Ron said we're lucky to have the kind of care we got to.

Speaking of health, Chet Papernik said he had saw where the Government claims folks in this country spent $1.8 billion last year on laxatives and mouth-wash that ain't worth a penny fer they good they do. Chet was thinking of all the ways we waste money on health aids, and he wondered if the Government had anything to say about deodorant.

Personal, Mister Editor, I take a lot of these aids with a grain of salt. I recollect the feller said if you treat a cold it'll go away in seven days, and if you leave it along it'll last a week.

Yours truly,

seen you somewhere before?" You just don't know that in a town like Las Vegas, she told me.

Knowing I wouldn't sleep until I satisfied my curiosity, I told her my plan. I'd walk toward the cash register and accidentally drop something just as I walked by "Mike's stool." Then we'd see!

She told me to let her get close to the door, in case trouble started. But if I was insistent, "Go ahead."

So I followed my plan. Just as I got next to "his" stool, I dropped a coin which gave me the opportunity to pause. As I stood up, I had caused enough attention that several along the counter were watching me. Being right next to the man I "thought" I recognized, I said, "Aren't YOU from Denver?"

"Why I Kerry Leggett!" Mike exclaimed.

A couple of hours and several cups of coffee later, we boarded the elevator for our room. "I told you so," I remarked to Carol. "I knew all along that was Mike."

She cooed me by saying, "If you knew it all along, why the big act with the coin?"

Since that day I've changed my plan of approach. There ARE subtle ways of meeting people and in cases like this flattery will get you everywhere!

For a woman you merely say, "Pardon me, but if you were 20 years younger I'd swear you were Jan Jones." If it IS Jan Jones, you've got it made.

Or if it's a man, the best approach I've found is the weight-watcher. Every gentleman likes to think they've lost weight and you've won them over if you just work that in somehow, like, "John Smith, but he was always 20 pounds heavier." And again — if it IS John Smith you've won another one.

These are just a few of the things that twenty years out of high school have taught me — these and when and where you DO recognize people.

A Nebraska Eden

Residents in this area are being exposed to a big new resort promotion now, namely, Devil's Nest, located northeast on the beautiful Lewis & Clark Lake. High powered promoters from Arizona have decided we need a fine huge recreational area and they want to sell it to us, in our own state.

Recently several Ordites have made the 150 . . . or was it 175 . . . mile trip to view the homesites, the possibilities for retirement, the vacation offerings.

This type of promotion is common in California, in Florida, even in Arizona, but it is comparatively fresh to Nebraskans. It is all laid out scientifically. Roads are graded up and down, in and out of the most impossible hills and valleys, and alongside them are hundreds of lots staked out to sell. Some have been sold, and bear the owner's name on the sign out front. To date only one house is finished.

The entire concept is bedazzling; it is so big, so complete. An 18 hole golf course and clubhouse to match will be available, nine holes are to be finished this summer, says they. There'll eventually be tennis courts. The hills are high but they'll be built higher to furnish a long, high 5,000 foot ski run. And there will be two chair lifts to haul the skiers up to the top, where there will be a ski lodge.

Three marinas are planned, each of the two smaller ones will berth 40 vessels. There will be a large swimming pool, beside which will be a fine large clubhouse or Yacht club, ornamenting the two-mile shoreline.

A spot has been chosen for shops and markets close by. There will be trails for bicycling, for horseback riding, all of which is plotted out to show you, and very impressive it is, too.

Buying a lot automatically entails membership, and use of any of these delightful facilities.

The lowest priced lots run approximately $3,500, and are meant for trailers.

The highest priced lots we saw run about $18,000 or $19,000. The best lot, the highest one with the finest view, appeared to be the property of Mel Steen, former head of the Game Commission for this state. Mr. Steen is directing many of the wildlife activities and already hundreds of martin houses have been planned to cope with the mosquitoes, if any. He also platted where trees should go.

There are large lots for condominiums, sometimes called duplexes, four-plexes, so on.

Since Gavin's Point dam was installed, fishing has set records. Bass, crappie, sauger, carp, channel catfish, and pike abound. Deer, antelope, duck quail, geese and pheasant are plentiful and ready for hunters from not only Nebraska but South Dakota and Iowa, conveniently close by.

Much of this planning is on paper as yet, although hundreds of trees have been set out, dozens of flowers are implanted. Hilly, spectacular, Devil's Nest already has groves of oak trees, multitudes of wild flowers. The prospects for boating and sailing are limitless.

Visitors are urged to consider investing now and doubling their money before long. Prices are constantly pushing up for the lots.

Up the road a few miles toward Yankton is a Nebraska State park that is well kept and well patronized, called Weigand. Numbers of boats lined the tidy marina, numbers of children scrambled happily, numbers of adults visited or fished. Locations for boats and trailers were carefully fenced at one side.

Other would-be real estate operators have lots to sell along that shoreline but they are not nearly so well organized as Devil's Nest, which has been in creation about a year and spent some one million dollars to date.

Lincoln is about 210 miles; Omaha is 166 miles, and it is 80 miles to Sioux City. All in all this place should get a big play from Nebraskans and others seeking pure air, pretty scenery, outdoor summer place. It is certainly worth a visit.

The Lucky 1's

The Quiz camera roved about, during the 1971 Alumni Reunion, recording the pictures on this page. Honored classes were the graduates of the "one" years. The afternoon Social Hour was in the basement of the Veterans Club and the scene changed to the Ord Elks Club in the evening for the banquet.

All pictures taken could not possibly appear on this page and if room allows, will be used elsewhere or in coming weeks.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE! — Even with spectacles, Opal (Blessing) Burrows, '22, Ord, Alyce (Parkos) Wozab, '31, Ord, and Esther (Zulkoski) Bergland, '31, Elyria, are in need of a magnifying glass to recognize a picture on display at the afternoon social hour. Opal will be Alumni Reunion co-chairman with Dola Vodehnal for next year's festivities.

HOW THEY'VE CHANGED! — Left to right, Dan Bartlett, '25, Moro, Ore., Bill Darges, '25, Ord and Anna Parkos, '24, Ord, try to visualize bygone days as they visit in the basement of the Veterans Club during the social hour, Saturday afternoon.

BANQUET FUN — One of the highlights of this year's Alumni Reunion was a feature added by this year's reunion committee. Several former and present teachers in the Ord School System were seated at a special table, then interviewed as part of the program. Present were Clark and Jan Yanda of Kearney, Lucile Tolen, Inez Eberhart, Mrs. Lois (Finley) Strong, and Inez Swain of Ord. Miss Swain, 57 years in the teaching profession and pictured above, added humor and wit to the program for hundreds that remember her. Directly in front of Miss Swain above are the horseshoe table decorations with the silhouette of a grad in the middle part of this year's theme, "The Lucky Ones."

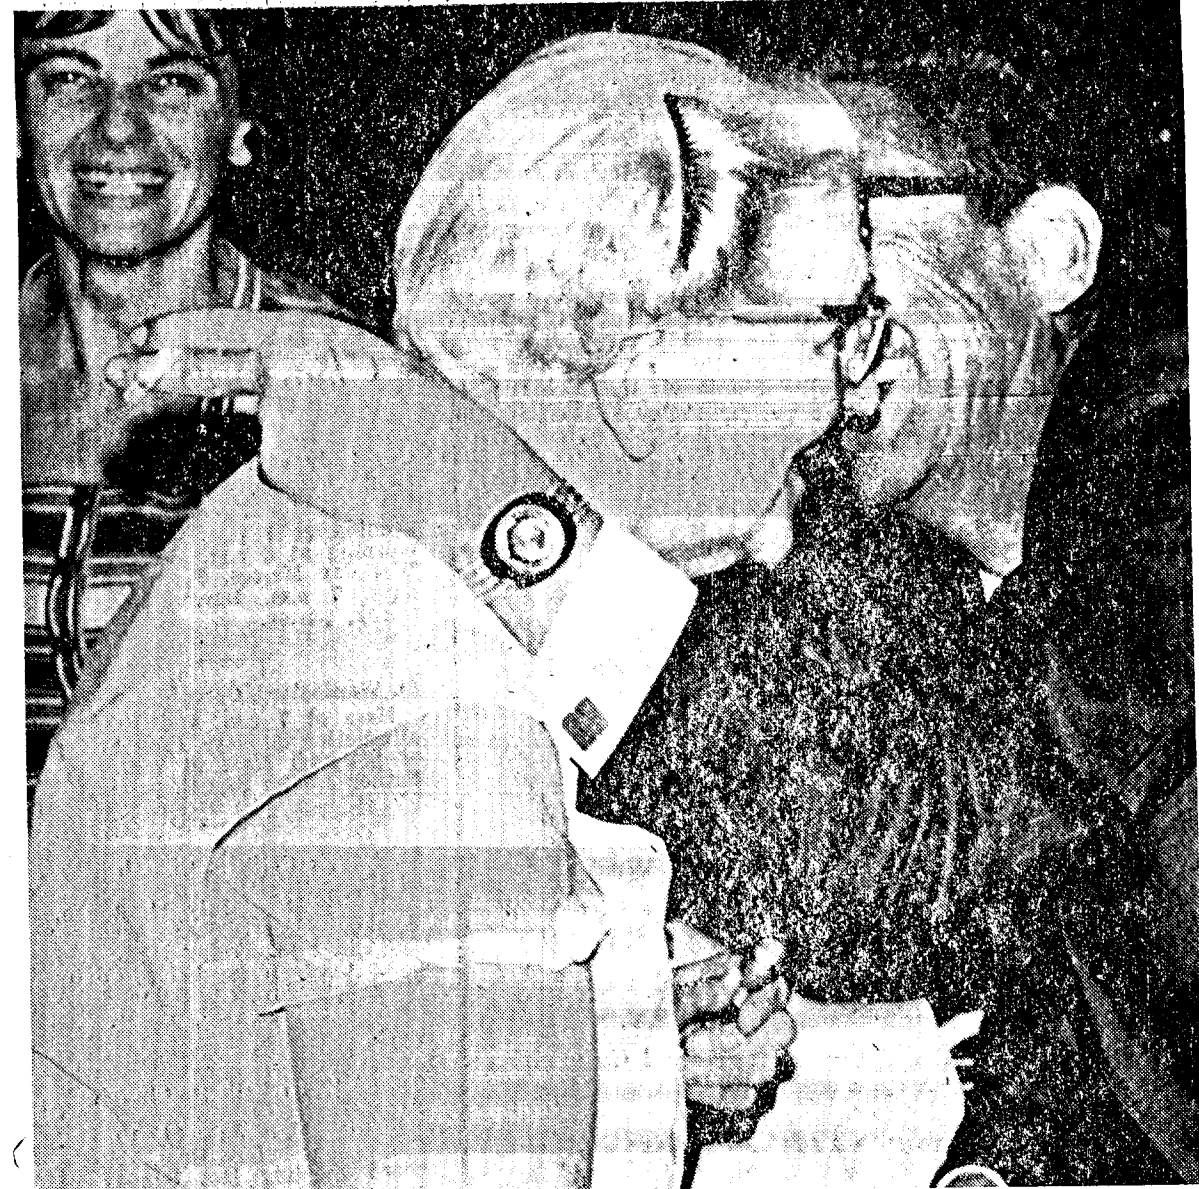

OUR KINDA MUSIC — Adolf Urbanovsky, '41, Ord, entertained with his squeeze box at Saturday night's banquet. As Emcee Dean Misko stated Adolf's music is probably more familiar to Ord alums than much of the present-day acid rock.

THEY'VE COME A LONG WAY — Enjoying the social hour for Ord alums, Alicezell (Johnson) Eckels, '21, Ft. Morgan, Colo., and Mike Kosmata, '21, Mountain Home, Ida., talk over old times. Alicezell's father was a longtime Ord druggist during her Ord school days.

EMCEE — Dean Misko, '41, Ord, kept the ball rolling with a masterful job of emceeing the banquet. Humor and fond recollections of "small town living" were called to mind as the present Ord businessmen kept alums in laughter and — at times — near tears.

A KISS FOR THE TEACHER — When she recalled having Harry McBeth in class during his early school days, she received a kiss from the Californian. Though Harry moved from Ord before graduation, he'd have been a member of the Class of 1941. Miss Swain chided McBeth about his trouble memorizing the states and their capitals, wondering if he ever HAD memorized them all. Attending the banquet from the Class of 1941 were 17 grads.

SEEKING RECOGNITION — Oliver Ward, standing left, seeks recognition for his class — the Class of '11 who had the most living — percentage-wise — present.

CHAIRMAN — Darlene (Novosad) Severson, '51, Ord, was workhorse for the 1971 Alumni Reunion. Assisted by her committee and LaVonne (Holmes) Schmitt, '61, Ord, as co-chairman, the committee successfully hosted 355 at the evening banquet.

Come to Church

This Week's Meditation
Humble yourself in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up. (James 4:10)

Humble yourself in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up. (James 4:10) At the age of twenty-three, Abraham Lincoln was a candidate for a seat in the Illinois General Assembly. He appealed to the independent voters of Sagamon County, saying, "I was born and have ever remained in the most humble walks of life. If the good people in their wisdom shall see fit to keep me in the background, I have been too familiar with disappointments to be very much chagrined."

Lincoln remained humble all his life. He was not a church member; he had distaste for church creeds. In a sense he was not an orthodox Christian. But he believed that the will of God was to prevail. Without the help of God, he knew he could not succeed. In his own words, he was "a humble instrument in the hands of our Heavenly Father," and acted according to his understanding of the will of God.

Humbleness is, indeed, one of the great human virtues. PRAYER: O Lord, teach us to be humble both in the victories and defeats in life. In our weakness, support us by Thy strength this day. In Christ's name we ask, Amen.

CAROL'S CORNER by carol leggett

It doesn't seem possible that we've gone over the hump and are now on the downward side of 1971...

This is the time of year we can serve hot dogs all month long with never a twinge of conscience about getting in a rut...

July has also been rated as Souvenir Month. With Independence Day and the alumni activities of Ord behind us...

And how many know about St. Swithin's Day on July 15? According to an old English belief, if rain fall on this day it will rain for 40 days thereafter.

It also means a busy time for 4-H'ers who are rushing now to reach certain goals in completing all sorts of projects.

Now, with the highlights of July out of the way... it's time to think of back-to-school, getting the arm in shape for the bowling season...

Insects Like Women... Did you realize that most kinds of biting insects seem to pester women more than men?

Here's a pie that will help the cook keep her cool even when guests are expected. Sweet and nutty... this traditional pecan pie can now be made an easy, no fail way.

Blend pie filling mix with corn syrup. Gradually stir in evaporated milk and egg. Then add pecans. Pour into pie shell.

COFFEE CUP PHILOSOPHY: Be humble or you'll stumble.

Ernie French Takes Second

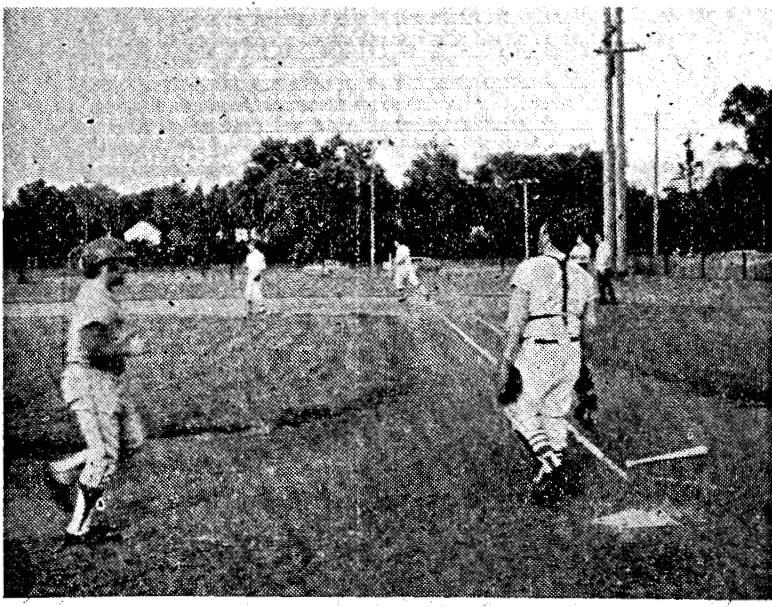

Ernie French of Ord placed second in the Ventura cataram class at a regatta on Lake Sherman July Fourth weekend, while his father Bill, placed third in a larger boat category.

Both were defending champions. Ernie took second to John Bode of Hastings, who came from a fraction of a point behind at the end of the fourth race to win the final race and the title. The final race was on Monday and was marked by tricky, light winds which were difficult to judge.

The races drew 44 boats in all, from four states, though there were few in both of the French races.

Dr. Jim Larson of Norfolk won the race in which Bill French competed.

Burwell Defeats Ord Pony Team

Burwell completed its sweep of Ord's pony league teams Tuesday night as they thrashed the previously undefeated South 15-

Ordn opened the scoring in the first inning as Tracy Johnson singled and came home on a base hit by Jeff Quinn. However Burwell picked up three runs in the second inning to take a lead that they never gave up. The South narrowed the gap to 3-2 in the bottom of the second. Dick Noll singled and Tom Clement entered the game as a pinch-runner. Brad Noll was credited with a single when his line drive hit Clement who was called out. Noll came in to score when Jamie Switzer drilled a line drive hit to deep right center field.

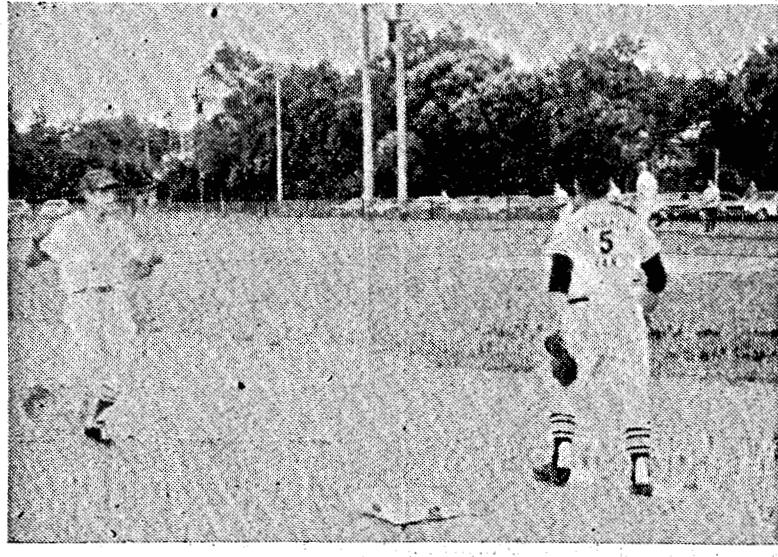

Burwell added a pair of runs in the third to make the score 5-2 and put the game away with a 10-run fifth inning making the final score 15-2.

Jeff Quinn, Mike Urbanovsky and Jamie Switzer did the hurting for the South and were hurt by the bases on balls throughout the game, particularly in the fifth inning when six consecutive Burwell hitters drew free passes.

Ord managed to win the Pee Wee game by a 2-0 count. Jamie Switzer went all the way on the mound for Ord.

Ord North did not play last week as a game with Arcadia was rained out and has been rescheduled for Friday, July 16.

Ord, Central City Legion Baseball Teams Tangle; Midgets Win by 9-8

LYLE SEVENKER SCORED SIXTH RUN FOR MIDGETS

Ord Midgets and Junior Legion teams will be in action at Broken Bow this Thursday evening at 5:45 p.m., and Friday will host St. Paul teams in the usual twin bill starting at 6 p.m. Sunday, the two Ord teams will play at Ravenna; and Monday will host Sargent at Ord, for a Midgets game only, starting at 7 p.m. A Pony League game will start at 8 p.m., with Comstock. Next Tuesday, O'Neill will come to Ord for games starting at 6 p.m.

Last Tuesday, Shelton teams came to Ord, and Monday, Greeley hosted the two Ord teams. Results were Shelton Juniors 3 and Ord Juniors 4; Shelton Midgets 11 and Ord Midgets 7. Ord won both the Greeley games.

Ord Legion teams divided twin bill with top ranked Central City at Ord Friday evening as the Midgets won by 9 to 8 and the Juniors lost by 4 to 2.

The Midgets had four hits and committed five errors, while Central City got the same number of hits and were worse on errors, making eight. Midget lineup had Tim Hopes at first base; Jerry Colliers at second; Galen Michelski, shortstop; Lynn Sevenker, third; Dave Blaha, catcher; Albert Hruza, left field; Dennis Urbanowski, center field; Marty Barnes, right field; and Lyle Sevenker on the mound.

Chief reserves this season have been Harry Zukoski, and Tim Sevenker, outfielders; and Doug Wolfe, outfield and hurler.

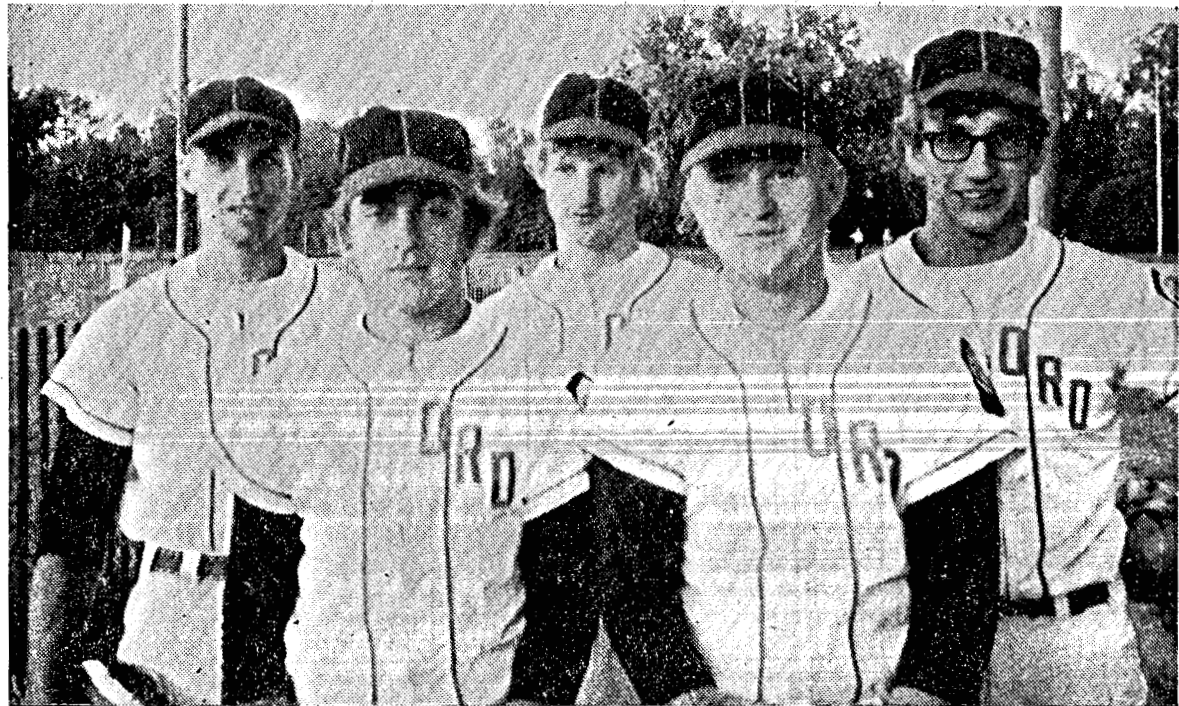

The older Junior teams of Ord and Central City put on a parkling contest with neither team deserving to lose by more than a run. However, the final actual tally was 4 to 2, for Central City.

Tom Klancecky came in to hurl for Ord and shut the door on the opponents from the fifth inning on; while Larry Able, went the route for the invaders. He also showed prowess afield with several fine tossouts.

Ord's lineup to start the game had Leon Brechbill in centerfield; Bob Visek, pitcher; Jeff Hruby, catcher; Dave John left field; Dan Carstens, right field; Tom Klancecky, third base; Dean Ventura first; Bob Peterson, second base, and Scott Patrick, shortstop.

Patrick and Brechbill scored both Ord runs in the third inning. Brechbill's double brought in Patrick, and Dave John's single tallied Brechbill. Central City scored in first and fourth innings. Ord lost a potential run in sixth inning when Hruby was thrown out at home plate.

Huge Market for Feed Grains, Wheat Seen in New U.S. Policy

A huge market potential for wheat and feed grains has been made possible by lifting the 21-year-old ban on U.S. trade with mainland China and rescinding a regulation that 50 percent of all wheat and feed grains sold Eastern Europe and Russia must be transported in U.S. ships.

This is indicated by a report in Farmers Union Herald, June 21st. It states: The shipping requirement put U.S. grain costs, delivered, over the world market, so we got little or no trade.

The market involved in President Nixon's two orders earlier this month has been running from 13 million to 23 million metric tons of wheat and feed grains each year, depending on crops in the various countries involved. (A metric ton is 2,205 pounds or roughly 37 bushels.)

How much of that trade can be captured by the U.S. remains to be seen. Nixon's order was days late to let us get a chunk from Russia, a 2.3 billion million-bushel grain sale Canada just made to the Soviets, and delivered this year and next.

Ultimately, however, the U.S. will have the opportunity to compete for orders from the Communist countries for food

Fair

(Continued from Page 1) broncs will be honored, barrel racing, pole vanding, saddle race, calf roping, ribbon roping, yearling riding, calf riding, Shetland riding, girl's calf riding, and girl's goat tying are also on the rodeo program.

Fair parade floats will be judged at 6 p.m. July 27th, and the parade will begin at 8:30 p.m. in downtown Ord and proceed to the fairgrounds. Queen will be crowned at 7:30 p.m. in front of the grandstand.

The fair board has authorized construction of a new $8,000 building, which will be rented in the off season to Ord Manufacturing. Rental revenue and cash on hand will cover the costs. Because of uncertainties in connection with the new building, the annual Farm and Home Show will not be held this year, but is expected back, stronger than ever, next season.

and feed, as we have been doing successfully in other areas of the world. President Nixon's action permitting trade with Red China was an outgrowth of Administration foreign policy and efforts to normalize relations with the mainland China Communists across the board.

Tri-Fund Total Hits $3,414, Volunteers Trying for Quota

Tri-Fund totals in Valley county to aid the Red Cross, Heart association and Cancer society have now reached $3,414.98 with volunteer solicitors hoping for additional funds to make the county quota of $3,820.

Many persons have been called on two or three times, but have not been reached by solicitors, so Mrs. Margaret Steinwart has asked all those in Valley county who would like to aid in the effort to make quota to leave donations at the First National bank in Ord, or mail them to the bank or to herself.

The Red cross aids in mending lives shattered by disaster, provides nearly half of the nation's blood needs for the injured and the ill, teaches first aid, water safety, home nursing and baby care.

The Nebraska Heart association, with Dr. Anthony J. Carnazzo of Omaha as president, is engaged in the struggle against the number one cause of death in America — heart attack.

Marvin Weems, attorney for the Ord Airport authority, asked about budget allowances for the authority for the coming year, and what tax levies would be available for financing the airport. Budget hearings are expected to be held by the council early in August. Tax rates for the coming year are expected to be higher, as budget surpluses used last year, held down the levy to below normal levels.

The council voted to create a joint city and county airport zoning board, and passed an ordinance to that effect. Bill French and Marvin Greenway were appointed to the board. County supervisors will name two more members, and then the four, will select a fifth member.

Nebraska department of roads engineers Jack Reed, district office at Grand Island, and Ken Gottula, road design engineer from Lincoln, also were at the meeting. They outlined plans for improvement of Highway 11, from the courthouse square, east and south for seven blocks to the main curve.

This upgrading is tentative and is subject to later council approval. However, council members implied they agreed this was an important road to be improved in the city. The road would be upgraded for four lanes, with 52 feet width, and would have concrete bed, and asphalt top.

Work would not start until 1972 but if approved, surveys first would have to lay out the plans in detail. Costs would run about $75,000 with Ord being responsible for about $24,000 of the cost. Installation of special lighting to be provided by the state, but Ord would furnish electricity. Ord also would pay some 30% of yearly maintenance costs.

The plan is part of the six-year statewide highway improvement of the state.

Also at the meeting was Pat Reusch, general counsel for a firm of Omaha city financial consultants. He outlined financing circumstances relating to bond issues, and stated current interest rates for fully financing would run four to five percent.

Rainfall Hits Two Inches for Some Parts of Valley County

Rainfall in Valley county for the week ending July 2nd was two and a half inches in some parts and about one inch in other areas, according to the weekly crop report of John Schade, county agent.

Both surface moisture and subsoil moisture was rated adequate. 95% of alfalfa in the county has had first cutting, but virtually none has second cutting. Winter wheat is 100 percent in the turning stage, and the crop is rated good, as is corn, sorghums, soybeans, alfalfa and wild hay. Pasture and range feed is rated as average.

Chief farm work the past week was cultivating, fertilizing, spraying, pasture weeds, putting up alfalfa and doing a limited amount of irrigation.

Wheat should be ready for harvest by the middle of this current week. Mr. Schade reported, Corn and other row crops show signs of suffering lack of moisture from the strong winds and hot weather early last week. Alfalfa and pastures also suffered.

Some early planted corn showed rather heavy infestation of first brood corn borer.

Hot, humid days of early last week put some stress on livestock, but cooler weather improved their condition.

More Tree Farmers Critical Need, Says American Forest Institute

Thirty years ago, a tract of 120,000 acres of young trees in western Washington state were designated as the first American tree farm.

Today, more than 33,000 tree farmers are growing healthy forests on 72 million acres.

But according to American Forest Institute, that tremendous increase isn't nearly good enough if the nation is to meet future needs for wood.

The Institute says this is because the biggest portion of privately owned forest land is not being maintained to insure a future crop of growing trees.

The Institute, which manages the American Tree Farm System on behalf of the forest products industry, points out that nearly 300 million acres of timber are owned by four million individuals, many of whom either can't afford to maintain their forestland or don't have the necessary knowledge.

Certified tree farmers are wood owners who have permanently dedicated their land to the growing and harvesting of trees. Tree farmers are encouraged to utilize their timberlands for recreation, watershed protection and scenic values as well.

AFI says that today the nation is growing more trees than it was just a decade ago. AFI states that tree farms have played a significant role in this improving situation.

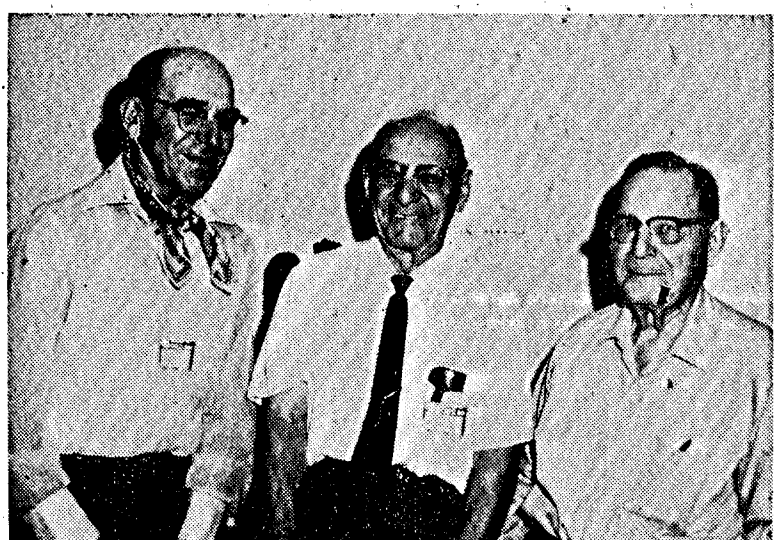

The Institute points out that in 1941, when the first tree farm was established, less wood was being grown on American forests than was being harvested. Today, that situation is reversed. For every eight cubic feet of wood fiber removed by harvesting, nine cubic feet are growing.

AFI says that demand for paper and wood building materials is increasing rapidly and that, despite the emergence of recycling and substitute materials, we will still need to have all our commercial forests scientifically managed in order to insure there will always be enough trees.

More woodlands owners must be convinced of the merits of managing their forest land areas to keep a healthy, thriving forest alive, AFI believes. The tree farm program costs nothing to join, the Institute says, and can even make money for the landowner. But since trees are the only renewable natural resource, it is imperative that all the lands be kept as productive as possible for the greatest good of the greatest number of people.

Thirty years of tree farms have shown what we can do, AFI concludes. If we can continue to do as well in the next few years, we won't have nearly the problem, as a nation, in meeting the demand for wood fiber and keeping our forests growing and thriving.

Valley County Above Nebr., U.S., in Ownership of Homes

Many Valley County families who were living in rented quarters a few years back have found it possible since then to satisfy their dream of owning their own homes.

As a result, the proportion of local homes that are now owned by their occupants is high and stands comparison with the best ownership rate in many parts of the country.

According to the latest findings, some 63.9 percent of all dwellings in the local area are now owner occupied.

By way of comparison, the home ownership rate in the rest of the United States is 58.9 percent and, in the State of Nebraska, 61.5 percent.

Much of the progress in this direction was made before the sharp decline in building that occurred in the last few years.

Home buying became possible for more families during the period because of better incomes and because mortgage money was readily obtainable at reasonable rates.

The figures on home ownership, released by the Department of Commerce, are based upon data gathered during the recent Census of Housing.

They show that out of a total of 2,297 year-round housing units in Valley County, some 1,467 are now owned by their occupants.

The slump in residential construction in the past 10 years is indicated in the official figures. They show an increase of only 9.5 percent in one-family homes in the period, although the national population rose 13 percent.

Most of the new construction that did take place was multi-unit housing — to accommodate two or more families.

Families that were unable to acquire houses in recent years, because of the shortage or because of the high prices asked, turned to renovating and remodeling their present homes. Nearly $15 billion was spent for such improvements in the past year, the government reports.

The value of homes in Valley County rose sharply in the last few years, the figures show. The median asking price for homes is now $7,800, compared with only $6,000 in 1960.

The overall worth of local homes, on that basis, comes to $11,443,000, considerably more than in 1960.

KERNELS & HUSKS

Valley County Agent

Infestations of greenbugs have been found in South eastern counties in Nebraska. The brunt of the attack has not been felt yet. Rains have slowed their development somewhat.

There is no way of predicting how fast this insect will spread. It would be wise at this time to examine your milo fields periodically. An infestation of only a few greenbugs per plant can cause problems in a short time.

If greenbugs are found check with your County Extension Agent for chemicals to use and application rates for control.

All insecticides are dangerous. Highly concentrated insecticide are especially dangerous before they are diluted. Feedlot operators need to take every precaution to avoid illegal residues in slaughtered beef.

A newly released publication entitled, "Fly Control in Nebraska Feedlots," gives instructions for applying appropriate insecticides. A copy of this publication can be picked up at the Valley

County Extension Office. Ask for E.C. 71-1511.

It is the responsibility of the dairymen to produce a safe product. The increased concern about harmful residues in food emphasizes the need for this.

Antibiotic treatment for the control of mastitis is common. But it's up to the dairymen to keep the antibiotic residues out of our milk supply.

The following procedures will help keep these products out of consumer's milk carton:

- (1) Read the label and withhold milk from treated cows for the prescribed time.
- (2) Keep all milk from treated cows out of the milk supply regardless of the number of quarters treated.
- (3) Identify treated cows with a sticker, color or some other method, so the person doing the milking will know the milk should be kept out of the milk supply.

Wheat can be substituted for all or part of the corn in any swine ration with no decline in performance. Wheat is an excellent feed grain and appears to offer a cost advantage during the next few months. Pork producers are justified in feeding wheat to swine whenever it is cheaper per pound than corn or milo.

Green Thumb Tips
Newly planted trees need special care and attention to insure survival. The following tips from the State Foresters Office are especially important to help that tree through the first growing season.

- (1) Provide water when soil becomes dry for a prolonged period of time.
- (2) Protect tree from mechanical injury such as lawn mower and other machines.
- (3) Watch for and act promptly on insect and disease problems.
- (4) Contact your County Extension Agent for assistance on evaluating problems if they occur.

When cutting rose blossoms or removing faded flowers, cut the stem back just above a fire leaflet leaf.

Large trees growing on parkway or near driveways often do not receive sufficient water. A high percentage of the feeder roots may be under concrete or asphalt. These trees may show leaf scorch during periods of hot dry weather.

Extra water applied at the base of the trunk is one method of making sure sufficient moisture is available.

Exon Proclaims Shorthorn Week

Many Topics Coming up for Study By Interim Units of Legislature

By Melvin Paul, NPA
Statehouse Correspondent

The executive board of the Legislative Council faces an overcrowding problem.

The board, the administrative arm of the Legislature, made the assignments last month for interim studies and overlooked a rare membership restriction written into the authorization for one of the committees.

The resolution authorizing a study of nuclear fueled power generation called for a five-member committee. The board appointed eight senators to the committee.

"I don't know what we're going to do about it," Board Chairman William F. Swanson of Lincoln said.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, who was named committee chairman, said he didn't care how many members there were or who they were, but he said he was concerned that the committee's work might be discredited on the technicality that the provisions of the resolution weren't followed.

It would be a ticklish job to unseat some of the senators already appointed to the committee, Swanson said. The matter will have to be discussed by the board at its next meeting, he said.

Appointed along with Carpenter to the committee were Eugene T. Mahoney, Glenn Goodrich and David Stahmer, all of Omaha, and Otto Kime of Valentine, John DeCamp of Neligh, C. W. Holmquist of Oakland and Herb Nore of Genoa.

A committee studying auto insurance laws held its first meeting last week and scheduled a wide-ranging investigation which includes a look at "no-fault" insurance.

Under the "no-fault" system, a policyholder is paid by his own insurance carrier even if he isn't responsible for the accident. In some states, there is a limit to the amount of a claim under the "no-fault" provisions.

Other areas due for study by Callaway Sen. J. James Waldron's committee are compulsory insurance and rate-setting by the state insurance department.

Sen. Carpenter says he will disclose his political plans at the end of this month.

Carpenter has said he is considering a campaign for U.S. senate seat now held by Republican Carl T. Curtis.

If he decides to make the race, Carpenter — who recently changed his voter registration to Democrat — said he would have to have the backing of the "political organization" of Omaha Sen. Mahoney.

Mahoney, Carpenter said, can mobilize a political organization better than anyone else in Nebraska.

The 16-member environmental protection council created by the 1971 Legislature will hold its first meeting Friday.

Its initial job, according to Gov. J. Exon, will be to begin the search for a permanent director of the new environmental department.

Exon is serving as director, pending the council's action. The governor has named T. A. Filipi, veteran head of the State Health Department's environmental bureau, to serve as his "agent."

William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the federal Environmental Protection Agency, has written Gov. Exon that the Nebraska water quality standards submitted last year have been approved in Washington.

Approval by Ruckelshaus means the state's cities will qualify for full financial assistance in sewage treatment plant construction.

The Nebraska standards require at least secondary treatment of wastes from cities and industries, except those discharging into the Missouri River, by the end of this year. Missouri River cities and industries have until the end of 1975 to reach secondary treatment.

Though federal aid for sewage plant construction is assured, there is some doubt about aid for highways.

U. S. Transportation Secretary

John A. Volpe has told Gov. Exon Nebraska may be penalized 10 per cent of its highway fund allocation because the state doesn't have statutes which allow control of advertising signs along federally-funded highways.

Exon has replied that the imposition of the 10 per cent penalty "seems severe" in view of the efforts Nebraska is making toward billboard controls. The governor asked for a hearing before federal officials so the state could present its case.

Exon said a billboard control proposal will be placed before the 1971 Legislature.

The youth committee of the Nebraska Commission on Drugs is planning a workshop for high school and college age students July 22-25 at the Nebraska Center on the University of Nebraska's East Campus in Lincoln.

John Luce of San Francisco, public affairs director for the Haight - Asbury Free Medical Clinic, will serve as coordinator.

Youth from across the state have been urged to attend. Bren Buckley of 2431 Marilyn Avenue in Lincoln may be contacted for further information.

SOMEBODY MADE A BOO BOO

By Kerry Leggett, Ord

Again we find ourselves at odds with the Ord Board of Education. The governing body of Ord's major tax-supported institution seemingly has trouble understanding the laws of the State of Nebraska.

To provide the taxpayer with the knowledge of where and how his tax dollar is being spent, the Nebraska Unicameral has hundreds of laws in the books to protect the private citizen. These laws — we're sure — were passed with close scrutiny and much study by elected public officials.

The largest single expenditure of tax monies — within Ord — is for the operation of School District No. 5, Ord's public school system. Though it draws little interest in the form of citizen attendance, the major item of business for the school is the adoption of the annual budget.

Under Nebraska Statute LB 79-548 a notice of the public hearing of the annual budget shall be given in a newspaper of general circulation in such district ten days prior to the day of meeting.

Last week's Ord Quiz the notice of hearing was published in a newspaper dated July 8, 1971. The notice states (as do the minutes of the meeting running in the July 15th issue) that a public hearing will be held at 8 p.m. on July 14, 1971. According to our calendar, the required notice of at least ten days has NOT been given.

Ironically, the superintendent of the school called us prior to the July 8th meeting, requesting the law. We read him our consensus of the law and so we know that at least one party present at the date-setting was fully aware that ten day notice was required by law.

Other public notices could also not be in compliance with Nebraska Statutes — we haven't checked each one thoroughly. But some of the smallest school districts in this area HAVE BEEN IN COMPLIANCE and they don't even retain a legal counsel to advise them. They merely learned to read and count.

To us, it seems incredible that the Ord Board of Education has so much trouble reading the law and the calendar.

By the time you read this, the meeting may be history — another illegal meeting with consideration for neither the law nor YOU as a taxpayer!

CHAPTER TWO

After writing the above editorial, we decided TO MAKE SURE OF OUR FACTS.

So we copied down the statute numbers — LB 79-548 and 23-921 to 23-933, R. S. Supp. 1969 — and proceeded to the County Clerk's office to check the state laws. To our surprise, we found Section 23-925 states, "shall be published at least five days prior to the date set for hearing." Yet in no way did the section state that LB 79-548 had been rescinded, nor that either superseded the other.

In doubt, we called the Nebraska Attorney General's office to find out which bill took precedence. The man on the other end of the phone curiously told us that he couldn't offer opinions to us — that we should check with our County Attorney. We informed him that we weren't seeking an opinion, we merely wanted to know which law was applicable. But we DID say we'd check with our County Attorney — if that was necessary. At the same time, we wondered what the many people in the State Capitol were paid for doing, and why he didn't have the phone taken out of his office, if he couldn't answer a simple question. (Perhaps this is one of the problems of BIG GOVERNMENT!)

Our next step was to call the County Attorney, as requested. After relating most of the above to the County Attorney, we were informed that he could not get "us" an Attorney General's opinion — only (in the case of schools) for the County Superintendent. (By this time we wondered why we have ANY tax-paid officials — if they can't serve the taxpayer!)

We informed the County Attorney — who serves as attorney for Ord School District No. 5 — that perhaps he could get the information for us as "self-defense" for the above editorial, especially if he suggested the "five days" notice to the local school!

Within the hour, we received our answer from the County Attorney. The Legislature (whom we patted on the back above) passed the new "budget bill" without the emergency clause and then dithered around Lincoln throwing the effective date for the "new" five day prior public notice to August 27, 1971. Thus budgets in the State of Nebraska are in an utter turmoil and villages, schools, municipalities, etc. are at a loss as to what to do.

Further, we were told the League of Municipalities have advised their members to go by the new budget bill, thinking the intent was there.

Intent or no intent, the law is the law. At least that's what we are told when we become violators!

Thus is related the long story of the watchful eye of the press — the red tape and run-around you get from governmental agencies — and the nightmare that an average layman has at the mercy of bureaucracy.

Senator Kennedy Silent About Kopechne Death Secret Grand Jury Data

BY PAUL SCOTT
Former Greeley Resident

Two years after the tragic car-drowning death of Mary Jo Kopechne, the nightmare-like accident still appears to be Senator Edward Kennedy's biggest stumbling block to seeking the Democratic Presidential nomination.

The career-shaking incident, involving the Senator's reckless driving and mysterious delay in reporting the fatal accident, keeps coming back to haunt and unnerve him in the most unexpected and devastating ways.

Most recent illustration occurred during a dialogue the Senator was having with a group of students during an informal rap session in one of the Senate committee hearing rooms.

Senator Kennedy appeared to be enjoying the exchanges immensely until a student from New York stood up. He asked Kennedy for his opinion on the New York Times' publication of the secret Pentagon war records on Vietnam.

Acting as if he were glad the question had been asked, Senator Kennedy replied that he fully supported the Times' action even though the documents were classified "top secret." He stated: "There is very little that government should keep from the public. All of us have a right to know the full story of our involvement in Vietnam. The Times had a duty to publish it. While the publication of the Vietnam war papers will be embarrassing to some public officials, the right of the public to have access to this information overrides all other considerations. It is always good for the country to have the full story."

When Kennedy finished his statement and before any other student could ask a question, the New York student then dropped his follow up bombshell. He asked: "In that case Senator, would you now support the release of

It Is Bad If You Can't Feed Own Slop to Own Hogs

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Our Government moves in wondrous ways, its works to perform. That was what the discussion was about Saturday night, Mister Editor, and the fellows give it a good going over.

First off, there was Dean Peterson with his expert opinion about selling the airplane to a $250 million loan, to keep it from going bankrupt. He said a company that far under would do better to declare itself a foreign country and put in for aid, but he was in the mind that the loan was just another makework project.

If Lockheed's managers is so bad to let the company get in such a fix while working mostly for the Government 30 year, Dean was of the mind that the outfit ought to be taken over by the Welfare Department and be done with it. This way, all the folks that depends on the company for a job could get on welfare and keep on working at their same Nebraska, and that really would be a neat idea.

Serious, said Dean, running the Government for aid, loan of advice ain't proved to be the best remedy for what ails you. He said Penn Central Railroad went busted lost a bunch of boxcars and done all kind of wild investing in other business right under the nose of federal regulators and guidelines that may be the cause of most of railroad problem.

If the idea of making the Lockheed loan is to keep folks from getting laid off from work, all right, Dean, we might as well call it a New Deal WPA project. That's what happened at Cherry Point Marine Base in North Carolina. He said the Marines wanted to close a repair shop that worked 3,000 civilians, cause they didn't need it any more but politicians and businessmen in the are got the Government to keep the shop going for the good of the economy, if not the Marines.

Milo Florian said it was big enough that we got make-work the name of national defense, by the military spends $1 million extra so a British airplane can be put together he instead of buying it already but that's plain stupid. He had $1 where the Marines wanted to be the airplane, but Congress did like the idea of importing so deal was worked out where the airplane parts will be bought England and put together here. That's make-work took to a wild extreme, was Milo's words.

Personal, Mister Editor, I am agreed that the Government goes too far in perfection and services.

It is bad when a feller can't feed his own slop to his own hogs, but now I see where federal agencies is worried cause dog food sold as "fortified" ain't a complete or balanced diet.

Yours Truly,
GERANIUM JOE

Something Different

What Kind of Cook Is She?

Although we are overwhelmed with recipes, there's quite a tradition that the finest cooks work without recipes, and that chefs who value their reputations simply add a smidge of this and a pinch of that.

Possibly so.

And it is intriguing to study oldtime recipes. One in the Leggett family for mincemeat must be at least 100 years old, probably older. Measurements all the way through are in "bowls": so many bowls of meat, so many bowls of raisins and so on. It makes mighty fine mincemeat, too.

You have all watched an older cook as she worked away, adding a pinch, "well maybe two pinches" . . . or a dollop of syrup or wine or vinegar. In a way, she took no chances whatever because she constantly tasted and seasoned and tasted. And often she would bake a little "try cake" in a tiny tart pan or a little baking powder can lid, then altering the cake batter a wee bit with say an added tablespoon of flour, or more salt.

Well, I neither cook with recipes nor without them, I've decided. Let me explain.

This week I finally decided to make brown bread, never made it before in my life, but I was baking beans and the beans and bread traditionally go together. What I actually had in mind was steamed brown bread, heavy, dark, full of raisins, moist, but the recipes called for three hours of baking and I didn't have three hours before meal time.

So I read other recipes, all of the not steaming but baking the bread, for about an hour.

I looked for heavy dark molasses. I was out. So I used brown sugar. I looked for white flour, there wasn't much, say half a cup. The one recipe called for oatmeal, so I put in about a cup of oatmeal. Another recipe called for two cups of cornmeal and two cups of dark flour. But I wanted a smaller recipe so I used one cup of cornmeal and one cup of graham flour.

All the recipes called for one egg. I put in one egg. All of them called for two teaspoons of soda which seemed like a lot but that's what I put in the big bowl.

They called for a cup and one-half of raisins and that seemed a good many raisins so I put in only one cup. One recipe called for a cup of chopped nuts, but I decided but I didn't want any nuts in the brown bread.

One recipe asked for a teaspoon of salt. I like salt so I put that in. Of course, one recipe called for sour milk but the other three asked for a cup of boiling water over the raisins . . . I used boiling water.

I believe that's about all the changes I made. Oh yes, some recipes suggested an hour's baking, one suggested only 45 minutes so I split the difference and baked the bread 45 minutes, then checked it — and baked it a bit longer!

It was fairly good bread, for a first attempt. Oh, I baked it in two small loaf pans in place of one large loaf pan.

Now whose recipe was that? Or did I use a recipe? Or can you tell?

I think it was MY recipe.

can only make matters worse for the Senator. There will always be questions about the Kopechne incident.

California supporters hope to start a Presidential boom for Senator Kennedy among labor at the AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting in San Francisco on August 9. Their plan calls for California Federation's tightly organized Committee on Political Education to come out for Kennedy.

Senator George McGovern (D-S.D.) is saying privately while he may not have enough support to win the Democratic Presidential nomination that he will be able to block Senator Edmund Muskie (D-Me.) if Senator Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) is in the race, McGovern says he will throw his support to him. Since McGovern has surrounded himself with former Kennedy supporters, most political observers doubt that this will be possible.

New York's Mayor John Lindsay is seriously considering a plan that would make him a third or fourth party Presidential Candidate. The political blueprint, drawn up by some of the Mayor's top political advisers, calls on Lindsay to avoid entering any of the Presidential primaries with the exception of New York. It proposes that Lindsey concentrate on building up support in the big-city states in the North with frequent political tours and speeches.

The third-fourth party strategy calls for Lindsey to go after the millions of voters under 21 who will be voting for the first time. By carrying a dozen big-city states, it is stressed, that Lindsey would be able to win enough electoral votes to capture a four

This Week's Meditation

Read Psalm 96; Luke 12:22-31

Let the field be joyful, and all that is therein: then shall all the trees of the wood rejoice. (Psalm 96:12)

As we looked from a window into her garden, a city friend, said, "I am filled with joy when I see my apple tree in full bloom." The tree was a froth of cascading blooms.

Her words reminded me of a summer holiday at Canadian Keswick when the conference speaker was a kindly Presbyterian pastor from Georgia. As we chatted together on the shore of the lake, early evening sunlight touched vast beds of bright flowers to startling beauty.

For a few moments we both fell silent. Then the pastor said something I still remember twenty years later: "God's little extras! That's what flowers are. He didn't have to give them to us, but he did."

This is one of the ways God has of speaking to us. A new dimension is added to our joy as Christians when we discern God's hand in all the little extras He provides, not only in nature but in our personal lives.

PRAYER: O God, increase in us a sensitivity to the beauty of the world around. Your touch is in every flower, tree, rock, and stream, reminding us that the earth is Yours and all that is in it. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
Nature is God's voice, speaking in every person.

New Selective Service Hours

John Wozab, shown at right above, is the new assistant registrar for Selective Service system for Valley county and is shown above with his first registrant, Thomas G. Lutz of Arcadia. Due to reductions of office hours for the Ord office of the Service, Wozab offered his services and office space free of charge in order that registrants might have more convenient hours or days in which to complete their obligation. Mr. Wozab has been veterans service officer for the county for 25 years.

Ord Cheese plant will remain in Ord with Dr. F. J. Ostentowski, acting president for the past year, continuing in charge, and Leroy Ayres, former field manager, now general manager at the plant.

These developments in regard to the second largest business in Ord came about over the week-end when a Small Business Administration loan, which former manager Marvin Belgram had sought to purchase the plant, was not approved.

Ord Development corporation, which had loaned the Cheese company $12,000 several years ago and which loan was in default had to act to protect the loan, as funds from the public were involved.

If the federal loan had been approved, North Loup business firms would have paid off the $12,000 and the plant would have moved to North Loup.

Employees at the plant now will consist of Mr. Ayres, Flor-

United Parcel Service For Ord; Salvation For Local Printers

Shipping department head Helen Beran consigns first Quiz shipment to UPS.

Area residents will become familiar with a dark brown colored truck bearing the "UPS" emblem, regularly in the Ord locale about mid-day Monday through Friday.

The UPS (United Parcel Service) truck made its first trip through the Loup Valley on July 6, 1971, and will be a regular parcel pick-up and delivery service from that date on.

Since Quiz Graphic Arts of Ord are presently the only "shipper" out of this area, most residents will experience the delivery service only.

Though it's new to this area,

United Parcel Service was initially started on the West Coast in 1907. It was founded as a private enterprise and has grown to cover the eastern half of the nation with interstate delivery service of nearly two million packages daily. Many metropolitan areas

Ord Sidewalk Promotion Today; Chamber Hears Report on New Doctor, Air Show, Street Work

Regular monthly meeting of the Retail Trades Committee of the Chamber of Commerce will be Wednesday, July 21 in Veterans Club at noon. All businessmen of the area are invited to attend. Cookout king contest at the Valley county fair July 28th will be one of the topics for discussion.

Details of the annual sidewalk sale promotion of the Chamber of Commerce which will be on today, Thursday, and for some stores, also Friday, were discussed at the regular monthly meeting of Chamber of Commerce.

Eiks lodge was the site of the meeting and Duane Wolfe, president and Bill French, Chamber manager conducted the meeting June 8.

Kay Goodsell and Bob Moyer are co-chairman of the sidewalk sale. All Ord stores will be open this evening as part of their regular Thursday evening openings until Christmas.

A doctor's committee headed by Marvin Weems and Don Blaha reported that Dr. Paul Martin, formerly in Ord, might return to the city. He left the city last year. His decision was due early this week. Dr. Robert Lynn, who has been practicing in Hampton, Ia. since 1959 also may come to Ord. Petitions to send him are being circulated in downtown Ord stores.

Dr. Glen Auble reported on his trip with Nebraskaland tour, which visited 30 towns in five days. He added that though Fort Hartsuff is a valuable military museum, the community of Ord might benefit through an ordinary museum. He said many other towns the tour visited had museums of great interest to visitors, and hence Ord might find one useful. A report on Ord airport dedication and airshow by Mr. French indicated the day was considered an outstanding success. A complete financial report will be given at the August Chamber meeting.

City councilman L. E. Walford and street superintendent Emil Penas answered questions in regard to street upgrading. All of Ord alleys surrounding the courthouse square will be paved by the end of this week, and two others also done. Costs were held down as street employees did part of the work.

The new state upgrading of highways 70 and 11 from courthouse square to St. John's Lutheran church is subject to council approval. Mr. Walford said islands may be put in the road at the corner on 14th street to control traffic.

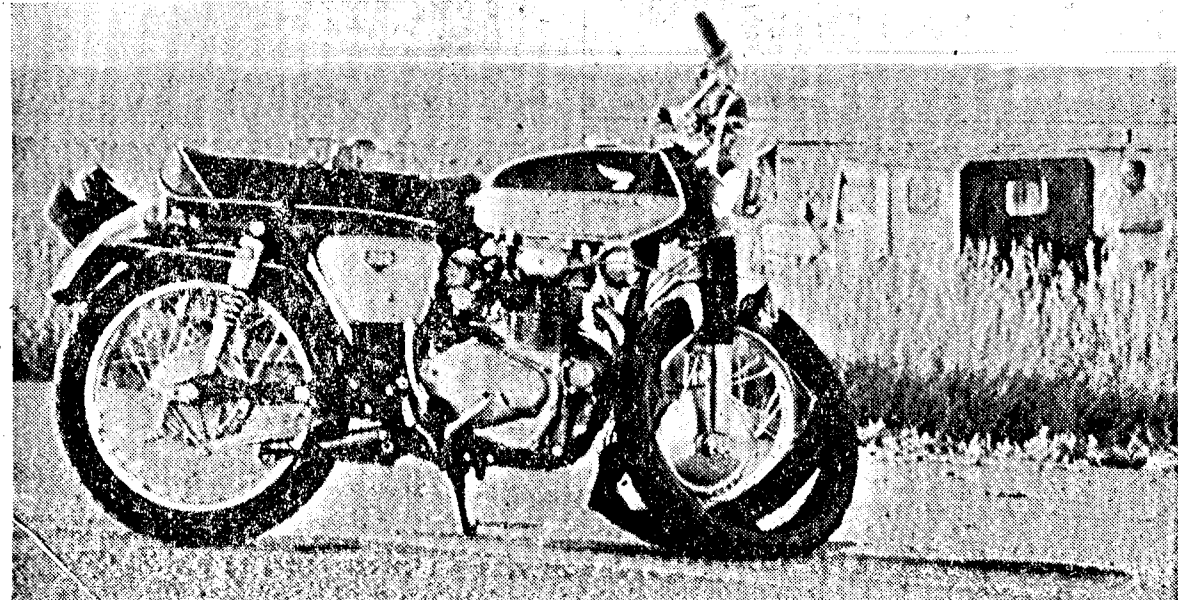

Traffic on east and west corners of the square on Highway 70 require traffic signals, it was conceded, but the state highway department will not permit them as yet.

A discussion of trash barrels in the loop indicated they are not to be used for garbage, but only for minor papers. However, the city may be able to pickup every week and thus keep them cleaned out.

$2 Million Valley County Food Market Is Up in Sales Over '70

How much is the average family in Valley County spending per year in local retail stores? How does the spending pattern locally compare with that in other areas of the country? Answers to these questions are provided by the Standard Rate and Data Service in its annual report on consumer markets, just released.

It reveals the amount that was spent in the past year for food, clothing, cars, furniture and other commodities. Because most Valley County families were in relatively good financial shape, thanks to rising incomes, their purchasing power continued to be high, despite the inroads caused by inflation. Figures for the local area show that more money was spent in grocery stores, meat markets, supermarkets, delicatessens, bakeries and other food emporia than in any other direction. The biggest part of the consumer dollar went for food.

The sales volume in these stores came to a grand total of $2,132,000, as compared with the previous year's $1,992,000. In addition to this outlay, a sizeable amount was spent in lunch rooms, restaurants and other places where food and drink are consumed on the premises.

In effect, approximately 18 cents out of every dollar spent in local retail stores was for take-home food. It was more than in many communities. On a per family basis, if the total food bill were distributed equally among the local population, it would have amounted to $1,077 per family for the year. This compares with $1,046 per family elsewhere in the West North Central States and with $1,023 in the State of Nebraska.

The report gives figures, also, on the amount of business done by other types of retail stores in the local area. Those selling cars and other automotive equipment had sales totaling $1,215,000. General merchandise and department stores reported a volume of $814,000.

Those specializing in wearing apparel accounted for $356,000. Sales of furniture and other home furnishings added up to $963,000.

Much of Pentagon Papers Not Classified Properly - Martin

By Congressman Martin On orders of President Nixon, both the House and Senate have been furnished complete copies of the papers entitled "United States Vietnam Relationships, 1945-1967." The House copies are kept under lock and key by the Committee on Armed Services. These papers are available to all Members of Congress under the following terms:

The papers are kept in one of the Armed Services Committee rooms in the Rayburn Office Building. We have to go to this room to read the papers, sign in, and initial sheets which are marked "secret", are not allowed to make any written notes, reproduction or recordings of any portion of the classified information.

From articles which have been published in several newspapers in the United States, it appears that much of this material should never have been classified, and that it should have been made available to the Members of Congress and the American public several years ago. I support efforts to change the system of classification of government documents, as the personnel in charge of stamping documents classified have gone hog wild in their efforts.

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court: We will be considering on the floor of the House within the next week or two a bill to add an administrative assistant to the staff of the Chief Justice, plus one secretary and one legal assistant.

In addition to presiding over the Supreme Court and taking part in the Court's decisions, the Chief Justice also serves as Chairman of the Judicial Conference of the United States and Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Federal Judicial Center. He also maintains regular contact with the chief judges of the 11 Judicial circuits and many of the 93 Federal courts. In addition, the Chief Justice, by law, is the Chairman of the Board of the Smithsonian Institution and also Chairman of the Board of the National Gallery of Art. No one seems to know when or where these last two duties were conferred on the Chief Justice. There is no relationship with his judicial duties.

Requiring the Chief Justice to be Chairman of the Board of the Smithsonian Institution and the National Gallery of Art is a good example of the inefficient operation of our Federal government. A study has been proposed of our entire judicial system in order to increase its efficiency.

Navy Doctor (Lieutenant) Marlen F. Junck and Petty Officer Second Class John R. Ryschon treat children at the My Tho orphanage during one of their daily visits.

Ryschon Stationed in Vietnam Working As Hospital Corpsman

Petty Officer Second Class John R. Ryschon, since arriving at Dong Tam, Vietnam in late June, has been an assisting hospital corpsman in an orphanage, located in the center of My Tho. Ryschon, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Ryschon of rural Ord, previously worked as an advisor to Vietnamese Navy hospital corpsmen at the advanced tactical support base at Song Ong Doc.

"I haven't had an opportunity to work with children since I've been in Vietnam" were Ryschon's words in a U.S. Navy news release sent to the Ord Quiz this week. "The only children I've worked with were those who were brought to my other base for treatment" he said, "But I enjoy very much working with these youngsters. The feelings of the three-man medical team at Dong Tam are best described by Ryschon. "To know that you are helping these children, not only medically but psychologically — by seeing their smiles and hearing their greetings — makes the work we do meaningful and rewarding. You know that what you are doing is appreciated, you know you are really accomplishing a great deal."

Are you tired? If you are, here's the reason why. According to a recent survey, the population of this country is 200,000,000 or thereabouts. Of this number 84,000,000 are over 60 years of age, which leaves 116,000,000 to do the work. People under 20 years of age total 75,000,000 which leaves 41,000,000 to do the work. Then there are 22,000,000 who are employed by the Government, which leaves 19,000,000 to do the work. There are 4,000,000 in the Armed Forces and 14,800,000 on welfare which leaves 200,000 to do the work. There are 188,000 who are in hospitals and insane asylums and that leaves 12,000 to do the work. Now, it might interest you to know that there are 11,998 people in jail, so that leaves 2 people to carry the load, and that is You and Me. And now that makes me feel tired! How about you?

Have you noticed the new bumper sticker on Gene Augustyn's truck... "Polack Power!"

Whether party fare or family dining, the main dish is the basis of any meal. Entrees like Pepper Steak are certain to please. And, best of all, their preparation is not-time-consuming, as you would expect.

The ingredients of this main dish include: 1 1/2 lbs. beef round or sirloin steak, about 1-inch thick; 1/4 c. salad oil, 1 c. water, 1 medium onion (cut into 1/4 inch slices), 1/2 t. garlic salt, 1/4 t. ginger, 2 medium green peppers (cut into strips), Instant rice, 1 T. cornstarch, 2 t. sugar, if desired, 2 T. soy sauce and 2 medium tomatoes.

Heat oil in large skillet. Add meat; cook, turning frequently, about 5 min. Stir in water, onion, garlic salt and ginger. Heat to boiling; reduce heat. Cover and simmer about 10 minutes. Add green pepper during last five minutes of simmering. While meat simmers, cook instant rice as directed on package for 4 to 6 servings.

Blend cornstarch, sugar and soy sauce; stir into meat mixture. Cook another minute longer then add tomato pieces and cook additional three minutes. Service with rice.

North Dakota Visitors at Sand Flats Home Also See Hartsuff

By Wilma Baldwin

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Potts of Dickens, N. D., were Thursday till Saturday visitors of his sister, Mrs. Frankie Baldwin and family. Friday afternoon Gerald Potts and Mrs. Baldwin visited Fort Hartsuff. Gerald was amazed to see the original buildings still standing at the Fort. He says this is rare as most forts are complete ruins and have been reconstructed for posterity. Gerald had recently visited Fort Lincoln near Bismarck, N. D., and it had been completely reconstructed as the settlers had hauled the original buildings away as lumber was hard to get in that part of the country. Gerald said that Fort Hartsuff was laid out identical to Fort Lincoln. Fort Lincoln will be remembered as the Fort that General Custer and his army had left from for the battle at the Little Big Horn.

Parcels

are served by the delivery service, though "intrastate" service is not yet available in many areas — including rural Nebraska.

For most local residents, the UPS truck will merely make deliveries from Eastern shippers. The only local shipper, thus far — Quiz Graphic Arts, is utilizing the parcel service for careful and expeditious handling of printing shipments to the majority of customers in the eastern half of the United States.

In most instances, Quiz can ship from Ord to the Chicago area with two-day service and to the New York area with four-day service. Parcels from Ord are picked up daily and taken to Grand Island where they are dispersed to points of delivery.

For the door-to-door service, Quiz pays a $2 per week service charge, plus postage with rates comparable to those of the U.S. Postal System. Rates for parcel shipments are sometimes less than Post Office rates, but generally about ten to twenty cents higher.

President of Quiz Graphic Arts, Kerry Leggett, believes the new service will be a "salvation" for his nationwide printing customers. "Seventy-five percent of them have requested UPS in the past and are now 'tickled pink' that we can provide it. The additional few cents that it costs is gladly paid by the consignee, because they know that delivery will be fast and shipments are handled with utmost care."

"About ninety percent of our parcel shipments go out of Nebraska," Leggett added, "and we'll be using the service on nearly all of these shipments, up to 100 pounds per customer per day."

Last week Quiz utilized the new service each day, shipping as many as ten parcels in the first four days of service to a single customer in the Bronx. At times the Ord printing firm is limited by weight restrictions. No single parcel may exceed 50 pounds in weight and UPS restricts shipments of over 100 pounds per day to a single address.

United Parcel Service will probably get much of the business previously assigned to the Post Office at Ord. Leggett estimates his annual parcel post bill at nearly $9,000.

Though intrastate shipments are still tied up in court litigations (the U.S. Postal System and other private shippers are opposed) it will become an eventuality for local businesses wanting to make shipments within Nebraska.

and third places, with preference in judging given to new and fine varieties in each class. 33 exhibitors took part last year and more are expected for this exposition. Roses are very popular in Valley county and many growers will be displaying petunias, the town flower of Ord.

Fireworks will be shown at the fair the second night, but will be set off on the hill opposite the grandstand, across Highway 11, or about a half mile away. These are the Fourth of July fireworks that were not used by the Rotary Club, due to rain. Fireworks are as regular feature at the St. Paul fair and no difficulty arises with cattle.

Ord Jaycee rodeo will be the grandstand feature Tuesday and Wednesday nights, and on Thursday, a home talent show by the county Farm Bureau will be staged.

$2,000 in premium will be awarded competitors in all classes.

4-H livestock animals on display are expected to include more than 100 beef project animals, 70 swine, 30 sheep, 40 dairy and 45 horses. A 4-H dance will be the second day of the fair.

4-H program of events at the fair include entry time as 8:30 a.m. to noon the first day, and judging of Rate-of-Gain animals at 11 a.m. in livestock barns. Food, home living and other exhibits except livestock judging will start at 12:30 p.m. in the 4-H building. Judging of dairy animals will be at 2:30 p.m. in the show ring, and bake sale will start at about 4 p.m. in the 4-H building.

The morning of second day, judging of swine, sheep, breeding beef and other beef animals will start at 8:30 a.m. in the show ring.

Third day will see judging of horses at 9 a.m. at the grandstand. Demonstrations and public speaking contest will be in 4-H building at 9 a.m. A Future Farmers of America tractor driving contest will be at 1 p.m. on south side of grandstand, if enough competitors are enrolled.

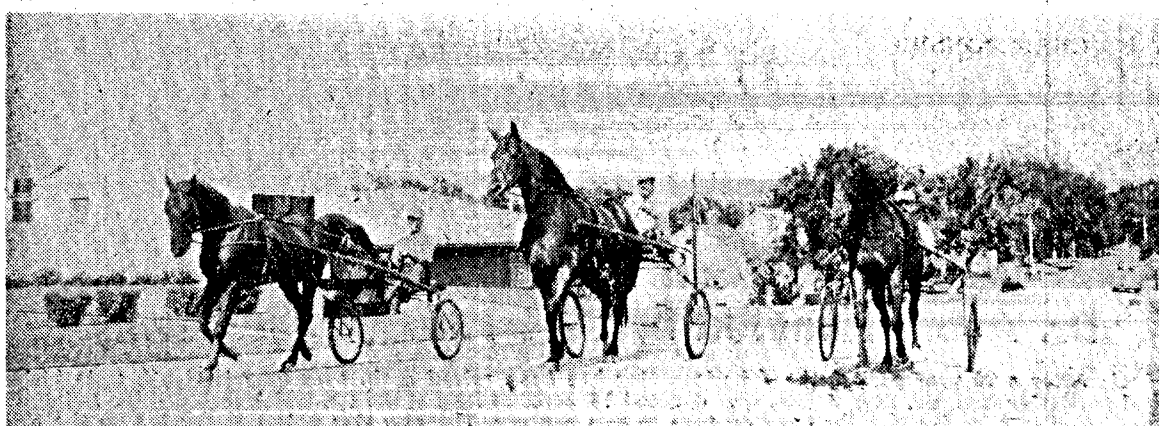

Big 4-H livestock auction sale will be at 3:30 p.m. in livestock barns, and a livestock parade in front of grandstand will be at 7:30 p.m.

Checkout time for all animals and 4-H exhibits is 10 p.m. the last day of the fair.

ence Rickard, receptionist, and three truck drivers. Jerome Florian of North Loup, who has been with the company for five years, is one of them. One other driver resigned, so two new men have been hired.

Office of the Cheese plant on courthouse square in Ord will be closed soon, and Mr. Ayres and Mrs. Rickard will move their offices to the plant. This will save $100 a month and the money can be used for modernization and other improvements.

Intensive accounting at the plant is now being made, so a comprehensive list of assets and liabilities can be prepared. Renovating and improvement is expected as soon as financial status can be determined in detail.

Marvin Belgram, former manager, turned over the key to the plant Friday afternoon, well ahead of the Saturday night deadline, so as to assist in orderly transfer of authority.

Mr. Ayres spent most of the weekend checking the status of milk pickup from farmers, and soliciting new accounts for the cheese plant. Pickup routes now run to Ainsworth on the northwest, Broken Bow and Merna on the west, Ravenna and St. Paul on the south, and all of Greeley county on the east.

Hal Pierce, president of Ord Development corporation, voluntarily spent most of Saturday, Sunday and Monday working on cheese plant matters.

Ravenna cheese plants have been soliciting Valley county for milk business, but the Ord plant has also been advertising and extensive efforts will be made to offer better service and faster payments to farmers. Pickups are made on alternate days, with all customers having bulk tanks. 300 farmers are now supplying Ord with milk for cheese.

Dave Martin Hits Metric Proposal

By Congressman Dave Martin

Next month the National Bureau of Standards is scheduled to submit a report to the President and the Congress on whether or not the U.S. should officially change to the European metric system of weights and measures. This report is the result of a three-year study of the subject which was directed by Congress in 1968.

There has been much pressure in recent years to have the U.S. officially change over to the metric system. Proponents of the change have claimed that it is necessary for the U.S. to successfully compete in exports on the foreign market. I have consistently opposed any national change to the metric system on the grounds that it is unnecessary, would create total confusion for consumers in this country, and would be exorbitantly expensive as government estimates are that it would cost more than $15 billion to convert.

Adopting the metric system would eliminate our miles, inches, feet, pounds, gallons and so forth. For instance, Kearney is 42 miles from Grand Island — this would become 67 kilometers, and 58 miles from Alliance to Chadron would be 93 kilometers. Meats and other items sold by the pound would then be sold in kilograms. Even a man's shirt, size 15 collar, would be 38 centimeters. I can imagine the confusion which would ensue.

Pitchers Duel Marks Wood River, Ord Contest as Visitors Win, 5-1

Next Sunday, Boelus will play at Ord in the Sherman-Howard league baseball, and this follows a game last evening at Scotia. Other teams in action Sunday are Scotia at St. Paul, Gibbon at Greeley and Wood River at Wolbach. The St. Paul and Wolbach games will be afternoon games, others including Ord, at night.

The Ord Mustangs helped six runs score Sunday night, but unfortunately only one for themselves and league leading Wood River pocketed a 5-1 decision.

The game shaped as a pitchers duel between Wood River's crafty southpaw Mike Lashley and Ord's hardthrowing righthander Jim Lukesh. The duel lasted until Wood River scored three times in the ninth inning to break the game open. Lashley struck out four and walked none while Lukesh struck out six and walked two.

Though top-heavy favorites, the visitors from Wood River watched Ord draw first blood in the second inning when Loren Vancura doubled and scored when John Linke slashed a base hit to right field. Wood River tied the score in the third on a pair of Ord errors and an infield out.

The score stayed deadlocked until the fifth when Wood River picked up another unearned run to take a 2-1 lead. With two outs Rich Stickney doubled, went to third on an error, and scored on another error.

Wood River threatened in the seventh with bases loaded and one out but Lukesh escaped unscathed. Meanwhile Lashley cruised along scattering six Ord hits. In only one inning other than the second was Ord able to bunch two hits, that being the sixth when Warner and Lukesh stroked singles.

Wood River removed any element of doubt that there may have been by picking up three more unearned runs in the ninth on a base on balls, two hits, and two errors.

A welcome addition to the Ord team was Rick Estudillo who played centerfield and responded by robbing Mike Ewoldt of extra bases with a fine catch of a line drive in the fourth inning.

Eight errors which Ord committed against Gibbon July 7 did not help in that game also.

Ord fell behind 3-0, fought back to take a 5-3 lead, lost this lead, and finally came back to knot the score at 8-8 before the game was halted by rain in the eleventh inning.

Rich Psota started on the mound for Ord and after a shaky first inning, settled down to pitch five innings of steady ball. Psota helped his cause by smacking a pair of doubles to drive in two runs.

After Ord took a 5-3 lead by scoring once in the first, twice in the second, and once in the fourth and fifth, Gibbon erupted for five runs in the sixth inning. Jim Huliniski took over on the mound for Ord and put out the fire, holding Gibbon scoreless the rest of the way.

Faced with the prospect of becoming Gibbons first victim Ord fought back for two runs in the seventh and one in the eighth. Highlight of the rally was a long homerun by John Linke, his first ever as a member of the Ord team.

Ord threatened in the ninth and tenth innings, but failed to score and the game was called in the eleventh with the score 8-8. The game will be replayed after the regular season is over.

League standings to last night's games indicate Scotia has 8 triumphs and one loss, Wood River has 7, St. Paul 7, Boelus 6, Greeley 5, Ord 2-7, Wolbach 2-7 and Gibbon 0-10.

Nebraska University Expects to Have Lower Budget in Next Year

By Melvin Paul, NPA
Statehouse Correspondent

The University of Nebraska probably won't be asking for anything like $101 million this fall when it submits its budget request for the 1972-73 fiscal year to Gov. J. J. Exon and the Legislature.

That's what the university asked for last year in its request for the 1971-72 fiscal year. It got $78.1 million — and had to fight to get that much.

Chancellor D. B. Varner acknowledged that a lesson was learned last year. That request was built on amounts NU subdivisions said would be needed to do the best job possible. Those figures were slashed at the direction of the board of regents, but the final total still ran to $101 million.

Exon, who then was a candidate for governor, expressed shock at the amount. After his election, he held firm in his stand that significant cuts still would be needed before he would endorse the NU appropriations.

There were many negotiating sessions involving the governor, his staff, Varner and legislative officials before the $78.1 million finally emerged in the appropriations bill.

Exon, as he did on other budget items, put a heavy stress on the need to tap other fund sources if additional money was needed and ease the pressure on taxes. The $78.1 million figure includes $43.1 million or 55.2 per cent — state tax funds. The remainder is to be generated from tuition, federal funds, other cash accounts and revolving funds.

The regents last week authorized the expenditures after hearing NU administration officials explain that they had some doubts about the generation of all the nontax funds the budget contemplated.

Dr. Howard R. Neville, vice chancellor for business and finance, said the university is "in the uncomfortable position of relying heavily on uncertainties in the development of the budget. Whereas the university in recent years has been assured of a firm and a considerable increase in the form of state support, it is now being asked to count heavily on increased tuition rates. Whether these rates can and will produce the expected increases remains to be seen."

The NU administrators also complained about what Neville described as the "uncommonly restrictive" language written into the budget by the Legislature.

The regents were told the senators had made it "very difficult, if not impossible, to effect even minor reallocations of funds within the total university program or make on-going judgments about priorities as programs develop, or situations change, on any of the campuses."

Varner said the university, as it gets to work on the request it will make to the 1972 Legislature, will attempt to keep its totals lower — knowing Exon already has pledged to try to maintain the same tax rates again.

The chancellor said, however, there would be requests for additional salary increases and funds to improve the quality of some programs.

Varner said he still was aiming at making NU the finest university in the Big Eight within this decade. The 1971-72 budget, he said, only allowed the university to hold its ground.

"We've managed to hold our position primarily by assessing out students more," he said. "That's not good enough. We need stronger financial support from the state and a better job internally of managing our resources."

A step toward cutting back internally was approved by the regents, who authorized the suspension of admissions in three Ph.D. programs — biochemistry and nutrition, pharmaceutical science and romance languages and literature.

Additional streamlining is under consideration, Varner said.

At the same meeting at which they adopted the 1971-72 budget, the regents heard a presentation from the students for a "coed visitation" policy in university living units.

They turned down the proposal — but suggested that students continue their efforts to develop an acceptable plan.

John Humlicek of Prague, the student spokesman, assured the board further efforts would be made.

Humlicek said a survey of 2,200 parents conducted by the Council on Student Life had shown 56 per cent of the parents contacted approved of the proposal.

President Joseph Soshnik of the Lincoln campus said that wasn't enough. He said it "falls considerably short of overwhelming support." The board agreed.

The students' plan called for guest rights during certain hours in living units which had voted to adopt the policy. Students under 20 would have to have parental permission to live in a dormitory or other unit which adopted the visitation program.

The regents continued to side-step a decision on a master plan drafted by a consulting firm for the expansion of the Omaha campus. Residents in residential area west of the campus have objected to the plan because it recommends the university buy up their property and use it for expansion.

KERNELS & HUSKS

Valley County Agent

University of Nebraska Entomologists have found numerous cases of corn borers infesting milo in the past two weeks. In the past infestations up to 18 percent has not caused economic losses. Infestations this year are reported much higher.

We have had no reports of corn borer infestations in milo in Valley County. Check your milo fields and if controls are needed check with your County Agent.

We have had several reports of very high infestations of corn leaf aphids in corn. These insects are usually found feeding in the whorls and on newly emerged tassels.

There is no need for alarm... even extremely high infestations have not caused any economic losses to corn.

Green bug numbers in milo are up. Weather has been favorable to the development of this insect. Green bugs can be recognized by their light green or yellowish-green color. They have a narrow dark green stripe down the center of their back. Their legs are green with black feet. They also have cornicles (protrusions or "tailpipes").

The corn leaf aphid on the other hand is bluish-green and has no narrow black stripe.

Green bugs are usually found on the underside of the lower leaves. While leaf aphids will be found feeding in the whorls.

If green bugs are found check with your County Extension Agent for chemicals to use and methods of application.

Mechanization and new technology have made American agriculture the most productive and efficient food and fiber enterprise in history. Green Thumb Tips: The young County Attorney, Marvin Weems, was asking if it was necessary to pick up grass clippings during July and August. It seems he is trying to find a way to cut down on the time spent in yard maintenance.

It's always advisable to pick up excess clippings following mowing all season long. If you're looking for a way to cut lawn maintenance chores — don't mow so often.

Wayne Whitney, Extension Horticulturist, of the University of Nebraska suggests that you don't mow your lawn if you can find something more pleasant to do. Even if you'd rather go fishing or play a round of golf. You might lose one of the kids or your dog in the tall grass. If you keep your dog tied and put a bell on your kids you won't have any problems. You'll have a better lawn for it too.

WHY NOT AN HONORABLE PEACE IN VIETNAM?

By Bill Holman, Ord

Individuals who ask for a definite date for withdrawal of U.S. armed forces from Vietnam are possibly forgetting one major factor: the war was fought to settle a dispute, and if the dispute is not honorably settled, all the sacrifices of the men who fought there have been in vain.

Most Americans abhor the Berlin wall, and the deliberate shooting in the back of men, women and children who try to flee to safety across it. And the same philosophy of government, which has plunged the Russian people into abject slavery, is attempting to be enforced upon South Vietnamese.

Also, for us to flee that country on condition that our captive prisoners held by the enemy be released, is highly unfair to the people there who object to nationalization of their farms and industries in South Vietnam and it is also highly unfair to American servicemen who fought to block establishment of any more Berlin walls any place in the world.

However, according to Malcolm Browne, Pulitzer prize winner and newsman for American Broadcasting company, who has been stationed in Saigon for a number of years and who is married to a Vietnamese girl, the issue there is not quite that simple.

For according to him, the people object to the Saigon government, as much as they dislike those who would nationalize their farms. According to him, the wage scale in South Vietnam is ten (10) cents a day for a man and wife team, and the owners of very large landed estates refuse to pay more and further, they control the present Saigon regime.

To those who cannot believe that we are fighting to maintain a ten cents a day wage scale in South Vietnam, as well as to block socialization and slavery for the people, consider the fact that President Eisenhower in 1956, said "No aid should be given to South Vietnam without first having land reform instituted." President Johnson implied somewhat the same thing when he was in the Senate.

An American newspaperman in Saigon, when the French armies were being driven out confirmed this, saying, "Saigon is land of contrasts. There are more millionaires per square mile, than in any other city of the world. Yet, the average man lives in poverty." Mr. Browne also stated the people do not starve, as the land is very fertile, and so apparently, all have large gardens. Mainland China, however, has the same ten cents a day wage scale, but no food, so starvation is common, according to Mr. Browne.

A high Marine corps officer testified to the fertility of the soil, saying after the war, extensive trade could be carried on between South Vietnam and the United States.

The fact that the people object to the present Saigon government is shown in many ways. Such as the unreliability of soldiers, the high rate of desertions to the enemy, the prevalence of spies in all areas of American occupation, the former opposition of Buddhist ministers who organized protests which toppled many previous regimes, and the fact most Saigon rulers have to live in American forts. Charges also have been made that the last Saigon election allowed only half the people to vote, and that freedom of the press is destroyed.

Hence, to settle the many issues there, and to allow an honorable peace, the United Nations could be petitioned to conduct completely fair and unrestricted elections, so the people can avoid the twin evils of economic slavery under the present Saigon regime, or the equally vicious debasements of the Communists.

To permit the present regime to postpone land reform and to continue the ten cents a day wage scale is unfair to the American labor movement, and to permit Communists to establish a Berlin wall across any part of Vietnam is unfair to American servicemen, who died to establish freedom.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Young Negro Couples in America Making Significant Gain in Income

BY PAUL SCOTT
Former Greeley Resident

The White House staff is trying so desperately to manage the bad news flowing from the government that they are overlooking really good news which should be highlighted throughout the country.

An illuminating example is the exciting economic progress made in recent years by young negro couples under 25 in nearly all sections of the U.S. The progress is front-page news.

Their pocketbook gain in the past 10 years has been remarkable that it merits being called to the attention of a problem-plagued nation by President Nixon or at least one of his cabinet members.

In addition to being good domestic politics, the unprecedented achievement of young negro couples should be good foreign policy news for the Nixon Administration since it comes at a time our system of government is being whiplashed from all sides.

The exciting news about the young negro generation is contained in a special study made by the Census Bureau and forwarded to the White House in routine fashion several months ago. The document reveals that the median income for young negro couples under 25 had surpassed similar aged white couples in all areas of the U.S. outside the South. Reporting on the differences between income of white and negro families by region from 1959 to 1969, the Census Bureau findings state:

"There was no real difference between the income of young negro husband-wife families outside the South and those of their white counterparts. The median income for negro husband-wife families was $7,500 in 1969, an increase from 75 percent that of white in 1959 to about 107 percent in 1969."

Even more important is the news that this remarkable trend is apparently continuing despite the growth of unemployment during the past year. Also, the income gap between the young negro and white couples, in South is narrowing although not as fast as other regions of the U.S.

The income of negro couples under 25 in the South was 76 percent of white couples of the same age range. The income gap between these couples narrowed by

Country Folks Don't Go for Capital Punishment

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

This Salesman from out of town is as strong a Baptist as he is a Republican, and when he has something to say on his church or his politics he says it out plain. Saturday night he was lit up about this piece he had saw in the papers about Baptists.

According to this piece, he told the fellers, the head of the Southern Baptist Convention, which has 11 million members, had allowed that capital punishment is "part of the revelation of God." What got him on his high horse was not what the feller said, but that the papers gave the idea he was speaking the mind of all them 11 million Baptists.

If it is one thing Baptists agree on, he said, it is that the opinion of one Baptist in church matters or any other matters don't bind the opinion of other Baptists. Fathermore, which is if one Baptist finds out what another is thinking, he is likely to look for another way of thinking.

Personal, he said he was not agreed with the feller that said God was in favor of capital punishment, but he said the feller was welcome to his opinion. From the piece he saw, he said he figured the feller was saying executing people was part of God's plan for running the world, and that he had passed the idea down to man for his own good.

He said God gets blamed for a heap of things that He probable would rather man let alone. For instance, he recalled from history when them Crusaders went around killing everybody that weren't Christians, and the feller figured that plan to save the world was God's idea.

Francis Ryschon was full agreed with him that man usual gets God mixed up with whatever man convinces himself is the thing to do if you kill everybody that ain't Christian, allowed Francis, you're shore to wind up with a powerful big per cent of Christians in the world, but that ain't what the Lord had in mind when he said spread the word.

The trouble with capital punishment, Francis went on, is not how efficient it is, but who decides what crimes fit the punishment. For instance, he said, whose idea is it to execute you fer setting fire to a house at night? A drunk driver loose on the road is just as dangerous, and all he gets is a fine and turned out to be the same thing again, was his words.

Mister Editor, all the fellers was agreed that legal killing has the benefit of nipping the problem in the bud. Gust Foth said if capital punishment was used fer ever crime, it shore would ease the problems of prisons, and all them pore G's coming back from Vietnam hooked on op, wouldn't be a worry long.

Something Different

But none of the fellers were willing to be judge or executor.

Yours Truly,
GERANIUM JOE

Ord Was Beautiful

When Ord acquires dozens and hundreds of visitors as it does at alumni banquet time, the weekend otherwise known as the Fourth of July, we are grateful for our green, shady park, our rolling golf course, our small but pleasant swimming pool. Of course, our pool wasn't open July Fourth for our young splashes, I was sorry about that, but the weatherman was nice about it all.

One week earlier with the soaring temperatures, it would have been a real tragedy to have the pool shut in the face of sweltering friends and relatives.

It is also wonderful that Ord looked so clipped and neat. Lawns were beautiful in this year of much rain. Shrubbery looked thrifty after a long, cold spring, flourishing just in time. And Valley county was a gorgeous green, showing off the most effectively in years. Everyone was impressed.

Former Nebraskans fearing they'd swelter in hot Nebraska weather were pleased at the beautiful blue skies, happy sun and agreeable temperature. I heard several comment about this, surprised indeed. They even dug for a sweater!

I did wish the Ord eateries had got together and arranged to work in shifts, so that there was always some place open for a good meal or a snack. Solitary citizens and returned Ordees were hungry.

Perhaps they could work it out as our filling stations have done: each Sunday — one station remains open for the convenience of travelers. This system has worked for several years, and motorists are appreciative.

Something about Ord perpetuates a warm feeling, the former Orditers love to come back "home" as they call it.

Dean Barta, Wheatridge, Colo. dentist, although he is Colorado state champion golfer, no correction, was, loves the old home golf course. His wife, Gerrie, greets friends by the dozens. Dean's sister, Zola Barta Wiggins, also enjoyed herself completely, hailing so many old friends. Her home is at Napa, Calif.

Dr. Art Carlson returned from Palm Desert, Calif., bringing his pretty wife, to show the home town that a poor boy can make good. He lives on the edge of La Quinta, one of the famous golf courses where Bob Hope, et cetera stage their tourneys each year. (This is where Hugh and Tamar Carson made their home for several years, though they are now in Arcadia, Calif. But they pine for the desert. So do I. I love it.)

Harry McBeth, Jr., boy CPA with his own firm in Pomona, Calif. and nine helpers working for him, returned with his attractive Joanne, and was happily trotting about the square to say hi to a host of old acquaintances. You will remember his father began to be a printer in the QUIZ office, working there for 20 or 25 years until ill health forced him to consider moving to Ontario, Calif., where he was head of a big composing room section of about 40 workers on that famous REPORTER newspaper. He retired in January and is learning how to relax, difficult for him.

Mr. and Mrs. McBeth visited me, and returned from here to Omaha to visit all the Melia cousins, of whom there are several. They were also to attend a Melia wedding in Omaha on Sunday before flying directly home. The Irish McBeth wit made for a gay visit, and we had it. He enjoyed everything.

So many Orditers had a houseful of guests. Opal Blessing had several and loved it, as she loves everything.

We all loved it. Come back next year and we'll try to do better yet.

KERRY ON

By Kerry Leggett

—hair today—

I reached either a new 'high' or an 'all-time low' today—I'm not sure which. I GOT A HAIRCUT!

Really... I've nothing against barbers. They started this long hair and styling bit and I decided to go along with it. For those readers that hadn't seen me, I'd been getting shaggier by the day.

I've been trying to remember —most of the day. I THINK I've gotten two haircuts since Christ mas!

This isn't as bad as it sounds, as what hair I DO have grows slow. In the meantime I'd been trying to decide how I'd want it if I SHOULD have it styled. Until recently I didn't feel like I had enough hair—nor was it thick enough—to start working with it.

Though I've taken my share of ribbing, I did manage to 'let it grow'. I always had a come-back for those who kidded me. "These are hair-raising times, we are living in." Or "YOU don't have to sleep with me."

It seems like Mondays are the best time for me to free myself from the office and get a haircut. So that's the day Ord barbers decided, long ago, to close up. When they WERE open during the other days, I was usually busy and didn't feel I could take the time to get a haircut.

This week I found myself in Lincoln on Monday and had a little time to kill while I was waiting for Carol. "Would it be all right if I got a haircut?" I asked her.

"Would it?" she replied. "We'll stay in Lincoln ALL DAY if that's what it's going to take."

I have a friend in Lincoln who has a hair style I'd always admired. So I found him and asked where he went.

He told me and I trotted over to the shop, seeking his barber. The chair didn't have a barber behind it and as I started toward the door—having changed my mind—the barber behind the second chair asked if there was something he could do for me. (I know he was using professional diplomacy as he looked at my hair and asked a question like "HAT?")

"I replied, "I was looking for Dean. Is this his day off?"

"I'm afraid it is," he answered, "but I could take you."

I was about ready to say I'd stop in another six months... but I found myself sitting comfortably in the soft chair.

"Where shall we start?" he said, trying to maintain his poise.

"You know Mike Davenport?" I asked. "I want mine just like his."

"You want a sculpture cut," he said, coming around the chair to face me. "For HAT, you'd have to have an appointment. It takes at least forty-five minutes. How about 12:45?"

By this time it would have been easier to say "Skip it." But I was that far and I thought I'd just as well go through with it.

"Okay," I answered, "I'll be back at 12:45."

Then it dawned on me! All that money I'd saved on haircuts over the past seven months would probably GO FOR ONE HAIRCUT! Learning the price would be $7.50. I calculated that I HAD saved some money. So giving him my name, I told him I'd be back.

Finding my wife again, she looked disappointed when I approached her in the store. "What happened," she asked, "it's still there!"

pointment," I told her. I know she was fighting back a silly grin as she tried to remain calm and said, "You did... didn't you?"

"Yes. You can take your time shopping. We can't leave Lincoln until at least 1:45," I told her.

Thank God I didn't know anyone in Lincoln who came into the shop... as the ordeal was underway at 12:45! There I was—hair not over my wet head and under a dryer! I felt ridiculous—but, as the wife says, "you've got to look worse before you'll look better." So I pondered that thought and shuddered to think what my friends would say if they saw me in a position like this.

Each step along the way the barber explained to me that I'd need such-and-such a solution (that HE sold) and I'd have to painstakingly work with my hair each night if I was to keep it the way he was fixing it.

When he was done it WAS like Mike's! But I couldn't visualize the time I would have to spend, each night, to keep it like that. I had mentally noted that first I'd have to wash it daily; then I'd follow up with styling lotion and while it's still wet with the styling lotion, I'd dry it with a 'hot comb' while I'm rolling it with a brush—working on only a small portion of my hair at a time. If it dries while I'm in the process of drying and rolling the brush, I have to re-wet it and start over.

A forty-five minute ordeal each night! I can't imagine it! I barely get the bathroom long enough, at our house, for the necessities... let alone the luxuries. But startling enough our girls liked it and my wife did too. So they've made a promise to have patience with me.

All I need, now, is patience with myself—and an extra half-hour each day. If you see me in a crew cut soon, you'll know my patience gave out.

Yields Excellent On Winter Wheat

Winter wheat is now 100% ripe and ready for combining, according to weekly crop report of John Schade, Valley county agent.

About a fifth of it already was harvested as of last Friday. Yield reports are rated excellent by Mr. Schade, and he also cites the general condition of corn, sorghums, soybeans and alfalfa good. Wild hay is in fair status.

Alfalfa first cutting is completed in the county and 30% of the second cutting is done. Pasture and range feeds are rated average.

Damp nights and high humidity has held up harvest on wheat. Reports of test weight throughout the county are rated average.

Range conditions are favorable and this is aiding gains for all livestock. Horn and face flies becoming a problem for some livestock.

Main farm work now consists of fertilizing, irrigating, harvesting wheat and haying. Rainfall for the week ending Saturday amounted to a trace, and due to heat of the past week, surface moisture is now rated short by Mr. Schade.

In an interview with Walter Foth Friday, the Quiz was informed yields on 51 acres of wheat ran to 2,100 bushels or about 60 bushels to the acre.

Scout wheat was the variety grown, and test on moisture showed 10.80 to 12.90. This was the best crop Mr. Foth has secured in his lifetime of farming in Mira, Valley except for 1969 when production went 64 bushels to the acre.

11,900 Trees Are Planted in County

Tri-Fund Total Is Now $3,581

Tri-Fund drive in Valley county has now reached $3,511 out of the 1971 goal quota of $3,320, according to Mrs. Margaret Steinwart, county chairman.

A number of families, who could not be reached by volunteer workers, mailed in contributions to Mrs. Steinwart in Ord, or left them at First National bank, and donations can still be made this way.

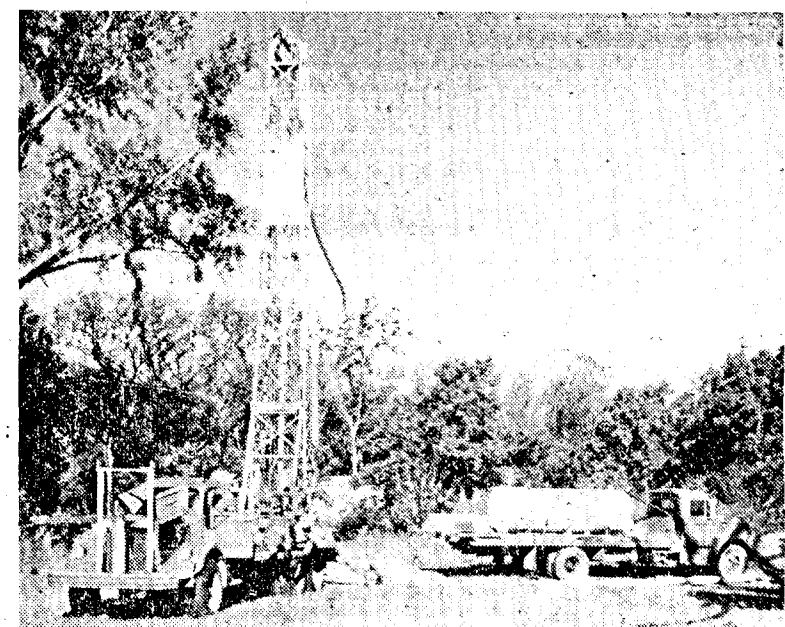

"Our volunteers have done a marvelous job and it appears that this year's drive will be the best in the history of the county," Mrs. Steinwart said. "However, we still would like to make our quota and so be able to more fully help the work of the American Red Cross, Heart Association and American Cancer Society."

Some pledge reports are still coming from Ord and a few townships. Volunteers have been working Ord, North Loup, Arcadia, Elyria and all townships of the county.

Totals for each of the three funds will be announced when the drive is completed.

President Nixon recently gave a 1971 Heart of the Year award to House Speaker Carl B. Albert of Oklahoma, who recovered completely and went back to work after a 1967 heart attack.

National Heart fund has made quota of $34 million. Red Cross has done distinguished work in disaster relief, and first aid and safety training classes and many other fields.

Ord Cheese company has been a beehive of activity the past week as volunteer workers, plant personnel, and officers of the Ord Development corporation have been upgrading every phase of the business.

Personal Messenger Service in Ord Is New Example of Free Enterprise

Grand Island postal inspector A. C. Haker has conferred in Ord with attorney for Russ Ballou on the conditions which prevail in postal code and which relate to his delivery service. A request for a formal ruling from the Postoffice has been made.

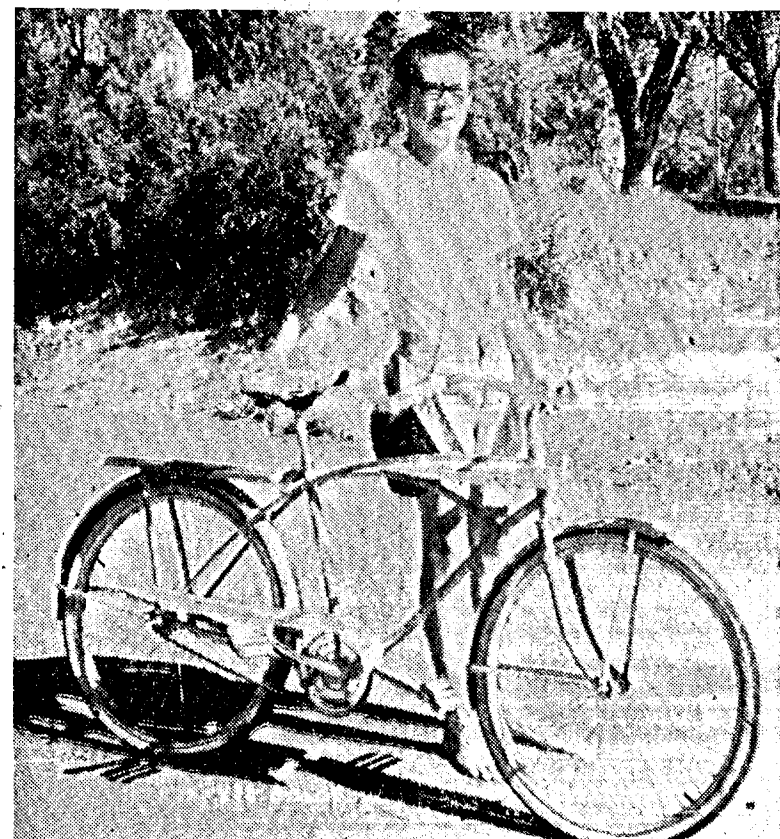

Russ Ballou, shown above on his delivery bike, is the latest example of free enterprise in action, with a thriving personal messenger service delivery of mail now operating in Ord.

Just as the U.S. Postal system has approved individual delivery firms to deliver money and securities to banks, Railway Express Agency to handle packages, Western Union to handle telegrams deliver same, so Russ is hoping he can continue with his Messenger Service.

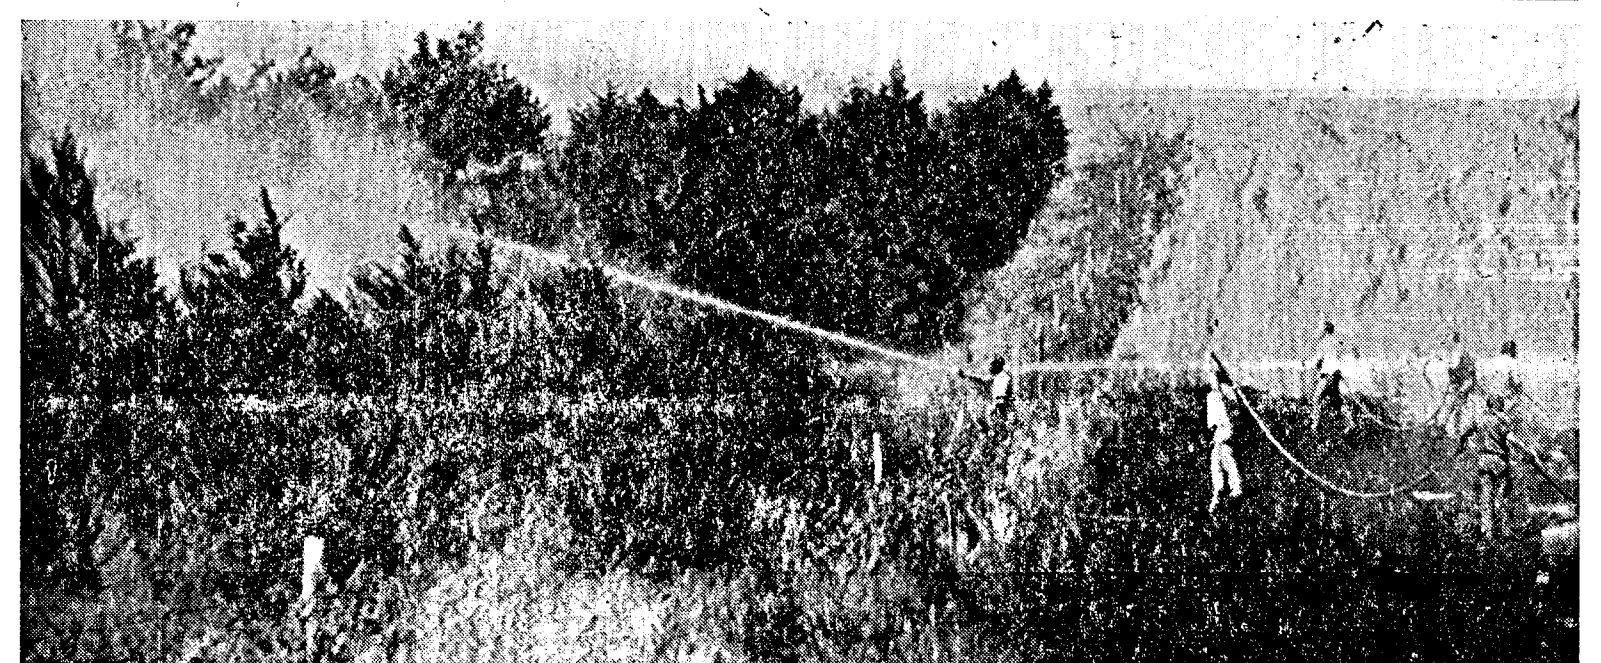

He started with a want ad in The Quiz for four weeks, mentioning: "Work wanted — letters delivered in Ord, 5c each. Prompt dependable service, 728-5112." Business was slow the first week, but the second week, it began to improve.

About the third week, he was handling some 10 customers a day, with up to 20 letters from each of them. The fourth week, business improved more, and he got two new accounts with added

North Loup Man and Sister Reunited After 65 Long Years

It was a most joyful occasion for Alvin Kron of North Loup and his sister Mrs. Elsie Renold who were reunited recently after 65 years.

The happy reunion was made possible when Mr. Kron accompanied his daughter and family to Jamestown, N.Y. to see his sister who is now 83. The two had last seen each other in their native country Sweden before she left for the United States. She was just 9.

Also present for the reunion held in Jamestown, this month with Mr. Kron and the Charles Cox family of Ord was Axel Kron, a brother of the North Loup man, whom he had not seen in 20 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cox and three sons accompanied by Mr. Kron left Ord July 2 travelling directly to Jamestown, N.Y. where Mr. Kron stayed with his brother and visited his sister while Charles and Bonnie Cox and boys drove to Boston, Mass. There they visited a brother Kenneth Cox and wife. Also on the vacation agenda was a restful stay at a cottage in Maine which is owned by the Kenneth Cox family.

Other highlights of the trip included seeing a ballgame of the Boston Red Sox; viewing numerous points of interest in the Boston area such as the House of Seven Gables; a trip to Niagara Falls and a drive into Canada.

The Ord family returned to Jamestown to get Mr. Kron and after a three day stay started homeward arriving in Ord last week.

August Bartus Tell Of Alaskan Sojourn

Mr. and Mrs. August Bartus are home from vacation, grateful for having had a most rewarding pleasure trip and also for having visited Alaska — a land of opportunity and individuality, the last frontier.

The Bartus left Ord early the morning of June 23 and joined Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ackles who live 30 miles north of Burwell for the first lap of their vacation that took them up through the Dakotas. The same night at Sidney, Mont. the four were overnight guests at the home of Earnest Streckman, a brother of Mrs. Ackles.

The next several days was spent travelling through the southwest Canada, making various stops along their route, among the larger cities visited were Regina, Saskatoon and Edmonton. From Dawson Creek, British Columbia, they drove the Alaska Highway — originally the Alcan Highway — a distance of 1523 miles. All along the highway the travellers experienced breath-taking scenes of snow capped mountains, lake wilderness and wildlife scenery.

This highway is mostly gravelled, surfaced in Canada, but is paved from the Alaska-Canada border all the way to Fairbanks. At Fairbanks, they toured the State University campus and the Campus Museum. One of its major attractions is a huge boulder (nearly a ton in weight) of precious jade. In addition there are magnificent costumes and artifacts of Alaskan Indian, Eskimos and Aleut tribes.

Another site of interest was a visit to the Musk Ox Farm. The musk oxen (a short, shaggy Arctic animal) are raised on the College farm as part of an ambitious project — starting a new industry in rural Alaskan villages. The short undercoat of the oxen is spun into the softest, lightest yarn imaginable. Far more precious than cashmere, the qiviut yarn is knitted into lacy garments by villagers in various parts of Alaska. Each village cooperative has its distinct design, pattern on traditional Native designs.

At Haines, Alaska, they boarded the Malaspina, a huge ferry liner, that transports cars and passengers along the worst most exhilarating scenery they found this to be the most relaxing part of the trip, and after three days and four nights, arrived at Seattle, Wash. a distance of nearly 2400 miles.

During their stay in Seattle the Bartus and Ackles were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Ackles, Mrs. Everett Williams and husband, The Williams' daughter, Jerri, accompanied the four back to Nebraska.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Foth, Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Gust Foth Jr., Paul and Patty had dinner at the Veteran's Club Sunday.

CAROL'S CORNER

Carol Leggett

Children . . . these are our jewels. A child might be described as a growing object that is both fresh and spoiled at the same time. These darlings of ours are indeed (1) interest on the bonds of matrimony and (2) unreasonable facsimiles. They so often are pre-occupied in a day-dream haze of childhood that we parents find them the thing most apt to drive us wild.

One thing sure . . . children are today's investment, tomorrow's dividend!

An incident in Ord, last week, as told to me concerned two young sisters who had taken on the task of delivering handbills to each business place in town. Sometime later in the morning, their parents learned that as the two left a handbill at each business firm they innocently asked for "a penny."

Naturally Mom and Dad were greatly alarmed by this (as there was to be no charge) so they set out in separate cars to check on the situation. They found their two — almost simultaneously I might add, one closing in from the east, the other from the west — and they proceeded to administer "on the spot discipline." When they discovered a number of pennies had already been collected the discipline continued and the final word was that each and every penny was to be paid back.

It was a mix-up, no doubt about it, for it seems the girls had been told they'd be paid a penny for every handbill they delivered — but it was Dad who intended to "doke out" the profit pennies!!!

Macaroons . . . to brunch, lunch or snack on. Something this easy should be enjoyed often. Simply combine 1 pkg. (4 serving size) Vanilla Pudding and Pie Filling, 2-2/3 c. Baker's Angel Flake Coconut; 2/3 c. sweetened condensed milk; 1/2 t. almond extract and Maraschino cherries, cut into pieces.

Drop mixture from a teaspoon onto generously greased and floured baking sheets. Garnish with cherries. Bake at 325 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes, or until the edges are golden brown. Remove from baking sheets at once and cool thoroughly on racks. Makes 2 1/2 dozen macaroons. (Special Hint: Dip spatula or knife in water for ease in removing the cookies from the baking sheet. If macaroons cool before they are removed from baking sheet, return to oven until they are slightly reheated and can be removed from baking sheet easily.)

COFFEE CUP PHILOSOPHY: Think of experience as something to grow through — not merely go through.

J. Marvin Weems as ex-officio Valley County Coroner presented his appointment of Wayne L. Ziomke, M.D. as Coroner's Physician which was accepted.

The Quarterly report of the County Attorney's Annual report of Valley County Service Office, Sheriff's list of Distress Warrant taxes collected, and Carson's report of County Extension Office and Bank reports were studied and filed.

Discussion then returned to the culvert bids submitted in the morning and Carson moved that the lowest bid be accepted. This was seconded by Collins and all answered affirmatively to roll call. This was the bid of Lincoln Steel.

Wages for bridge and road workers as presented by the Budget and Finance Committee were then discussed. Dorsey moved that the road engineer and bridge foreman be granted a $20.00 monthly raise, that patrol operators be given a $15.00 monthly raise, that bridge workers be put on monthly aslaries, some at $360.00 and some at $1.90 per hour. This was seconded by Collins and all members present were in favor.

Robert Severson met with the board and explained budget items and set public hearing for 10:30 A.M. on July 28, 1971. A road closing hearing is set for the same day at 11:00 A.M.

Dorsey moved that the claims be approved and allowed as presented. This was seconded by Collins and all answered "yes" to roll call.

Who Pays for ADVERTISING

"Once upon a time there were three manufacturers of mouse traps, and competition set the retail price at 30c. Manufacturing cost was 15c each. None of the three mouse trap makers advertised.

"One day one of the manufacturers decided to advertise. He found that he established brand recognition and reached a wider audience and broader market. During the second year his sales grew so much that he increased production. This permitted him to install new, more efficient machinery and he cut production to 9c a trap. Dealers at their retail prices from 30c to 25c. Manufacturing profits jumped from 33-1/3 to 50% and dealers made 66-2/3% instead of 50%. Brand recognition was built up so that the demand by brand forced the two non-advertising manufacturers out of business.

"Who paid for the advertising? Not the manufacturer because he increased profits and cut costs. Not the dealer — he did the same thing. Not the consumer because he bought the trap for less. That somebody had to pay for advertising is a hard, cold fact, yet it is one of the most misleading facts in business.

"The answer lies in a combination of two things. The manufacturers who didn't advertise paid for it and the economies made possible by increasing production paid for it.

"ADVERTISING is a factor in distribution and is paid for through the increase in sales and the savings the increased production makes possible."

CHAMPIONSHIP

Winners of each tournament will go to the Area B tournament at Plainview starting July 28th.

Ord will be host to 17 teams from 11 central Nebraska towns as District Six, Class B, Legion baseball squads come here this weekend. Hundreds of spectators are expected to jam every seat in the Ord grandstands.

Play started yesterday as Ansley and Broken Bow met in the opening game at 11:30 a.m., a Midget league encounter. This was followed by Burwell and Comstock at 1:30 p.m.

Other games are indicated on the playoff diagram carried on this page. Championship game for the Midgets will be 6:15 p.m. Sunday, and for the Juniors, 8:15 p.m. Sunday.

Bill Gosan of Ord is tournament director, and Jack Nelson of Broken Bow is district athletic chairman. Area representatives of the Legion department of athletics committee is Jack Brittain, Grand Island; and Dale Baker, Broken Bow.

Ord Juniors tied for championship trophy in their league with a 13 to 2 triumph over Arcadia Sunday. Dean Vancura hit two homers, and Darrell Farmer and Dave John also connected for four runs. Vancura, combined with brilliant pitching by Robert Visek, gave Bob his fourth straight victory.

Ord had 13 hits and made two errors, while Arcadia had only three safe blows, and fumbled six times. The Juniors and the league play with 11 victories out of 14 games as does Broken Bow.

Midgets also were successful with a triumph over Comstock by 5 to 2 tally. Dennis Urbanovsky was all the way on the mound for the Midgets, and his left hand throwing was the best of the year.

In the tournament, Ord, Broken Bow, Loup City or Ravenna are favored to take everything Sunday evening in the championship. Broken Bow and Loup City are tied for second in the league, and Rayenna is a close fourth. All these teams are rated of equal strength, according to Ed Vancura, Junior team coach.

Ord Juniors are expected to start Bob Visek, and may follow with Tommy Klanecky, Dean Vancura, and Scott Patrick. Visek and Vancura are left-handers.

Favorites in the Midget league are Broken Bow and Loup City. Ord Midgets are expected to go with Lyle Sevenker and Urbanovsky on the mound.

Umpires have been selected for the 15 games and men in black will be on hand at every base. Four sets have been named to work the 15 game tournament and they include:

Leon Klanecky, chief umpire, with Gerald John, Glen Beerline, and Bud Novosad.

Boelus Base Runners Add to Ord's Woes in Loss

Ord played Boelus Sunday evening in the Sherman-Howard baseball league and were too generous hosts as the visitors walked off with the victory. Here Rich Berry, centerfielder for Boelus, is rounding third early in the game, as Ord's shortstop, Loren Vancura, gets off a fast throw to first base. Ord's third baseman, Bill Klanecky, is watching the play.

Boelus Pitcher Silences Ord Bats As Mustangs Lose 7-1 on 5 Hits

Mary Casperson owns a five-hitter. Walt Stoeger owns five walks, and Bill Flock owns another mait as Boelus downed Ord 7-1 Sunday night.

It seems Flock bets a malt on every Ord game with Jim Lukesh, Ord's pitcher, on the mound. Another story in the game was the handling of Walt Stoeger, feared Boelus batsman. The Ord pitching staff watched from the stands Friday nights as Stoeger hit two homers and committed other mayhem on Scotia pitchers Sunday night. Stoeger came to the plate five times and walked five times. Two of the passes were intentional, the other three were also intentional though slightly disguised. Stoeger did his share of damage though as Jim Lukesh hurt his back while pitching to him and Rich Psota hurt his shoulder the next time Stoeger was up.

The big story was the pitching of Mary Casperson who silenced the Ord bats, allowing only five hits, all of them singles and gave up only one run.

The scoring opened in the second inning as Boelus scored a PeeWee league style run. Two men struck out but both got on base as the ball got through the double play and Rich Psota converted the strikeouts into a run.

Ord evened things up in the fifth inning, as Rich Psota became the first baserunner of the game, lining a base hit to right field. Loren Vancura followed with a single but was erased by a throw from the mound to third. Psota scored when Merrill Mason's groundball was mishandled by the Boelus infield.

The game remained tied until the seventh when Whitefoot led off with Boelus' first hit of the game and scored on Casperson's triple.

The roof caved in on Ord in the eighth inning. Lukesh opened the inning by walking Stoeger and injuring himself in the process. The big rightlander stayed in the game long enough to give up a run on two more singles before leaving the mound in favor of Rich Psota.

Just as it appeared that Psota would escape without further damage, Machke took him over the wall for a three run homerun.

In the ninth inning Psota hurt his shoulder and Bill Klanecky took over on the mound. Boelus picked up a run in the inning to complete the scoring. The Mustangs faded the bases in the bottom of the ninth but couldn't score.

Inability to come through with the big hit, a Mustang weakness all season, at Scotia, July 14, first the Mustangs couldn't hit with men on base, later they couldn't hit at all.

The first four Mustangs to go to the plate all got on base. Jim Hulinsky and Bill Warner drew walks off the offerings of Leonard Williams. Jim Lukesh beat out an infield hit and Rich Psota lined a shot to right field that was dropped and Ord took a 2-0 lead.

The Mustangs threatened in the second and third innings but could not get the hits they needed to open up a big lead. At this point John Hansen entered the game to pitch for Scotia and the Mustang bats grew quieter and quieter.

Rich Psota made the 2-0 lead stand up until the third inning when Scotia parlayed a pair of hits, a pair of errors, and a base on balls into three runs for a 3-2 lead that they never gave up.

Scotia scored single tallies in the sixth and seventh innings, the latter on a homerun by Terry Johnson. Jim Hulinsky took over on the mound for Ord and looked impressive though giving up a run in the eighth inning.

Ord drew nine bases on balls but could manage but two runs.

Land, Home, Irrigation Purchases For Farmers Aided by FHA Agency

Farmers in Valley, Garfield and Sherman counties have purchased land, developed their farms for irrigation and secured loans to finance current operation through federal funds available at Farmers Home Administration. The agency has offices in Ord and has just issued its annual report.

12 farmers have purchased land and five improved land for irrigation the past year. These loan programs supervised by the rural credit association of the U.S. Department of Agriculture will be repaid, with interest, by Samuel A. Galley, County Supervisor of FHA said.

The farm programs are one part of the attack on rural problems by the Farmers Home Administration. Another includes loans for home ownership. During the past year 11 families here have secured loans that enabled them to move into modern new homes or remodel existing homes.

The agency's wide range of services added a record $730,910 to resources available for housing and farming in the three-county area last year. At year's end, the outstanding loan total in the counties has climbed to $3,715,421.32 and was providing direct benefits to 206 families in the area.

Farmers Home Administration loan services are extended through a statewide system of local county offices, usually located in county seat towns. Housing loans are made for homes in the rural countryside and rural towns of not more than 10,000 population.

Farmers Home Administration loan services are carried for the three counties through the agency's office at Walford Building, Ord.

Appointment of Kenneth Koelling of Ord, as a member of the Farmers Home Administration's Valley-Garfield Area Committee was announced by Mr. Galley. Two other members make up the three member committee that works with the County Supervisor to see that the best possible use is made of the agency's farm credit service program consistent with the local farmers' needs. The other two members are Duane Sherman of Burwell and Harvey Kraulik of Ord.

The committee determines the eligibility of individual applicants for all types of loans. It also reviews the progress of borrowers and aids the County Supervisor in adapting the agency's policies to conditions faced by the farmers in this area. Members are selected and appointed so that, so far as possible, different areas or neighborhoods are represented.

Each committee member is appointed for a three year term. Mr. Koelling succeeds Mr. Eugene Petska of North Loup whose three year term expired July 1.

Congressman Martin Backs CBS Right to Edit News Broadcasts

The House last week considered the contempt citation filed by the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee against CBS and its President, Frank Stanton, for refusal to turn over material compiled for a special CBS documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon."

The Committee had insisted on seeing the material which CBS had gathered, but which had not been shown in the telecast. This is the same as requiring a newspaper reporter to reveal the notes which he has made in an interview or a story which he did not use in the story itself. This is a judgment matter for the reporter and for the press to decide as to what material is used, and not for the Congress. The Constitution guarantees freedom of the press, and this action by the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, in my judgment, would have violated the Constitution. As a consequence, I voted with the majority for a motion to kill the contempt citation. This carried by a vote of 228 to 181.

The Committee maintained that it had positive proof that CBS had juggled the answers to questions in the broadcast. In other words, where a man was interviewed and said "yes," and later on to another question he said "no," the Committee stated that CBS had transferred the "no" to the question which the person had answered "yes." This is completely deceitful and must not be tolerated. This is a matter, however, for the press to police itself.

Bridge, Guard Rail Works Now Starts Highway 22 Project

Through traffic is being routed along Highways 11 and 70 through Ord, and local traffic over nearest intersecting county roads.

Installation of culverts and grading along the same location began March 29th. Concrete paving is scheduled to start early in August.

Missouri Valley Construction Company has the chief contract with grading running $224,213; pavement $678,986; culverts $158,063; bridges $49,562; and guard rail $1,835.

Estimated completion date for all work is Oct. 23 and B. A. Bohy of Broken Bow is project engineer, with J. W. Reed of Grand Island as supervisor.

Horse Quarantine: All horses in Texas have been quarantined, following outbreak of Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis in the state, and no horses from Texas can be permitted in Nebraska, according to Nebraska department of agriculture.

Use of Big Center Pivot Sprinklers Gain Here

Use of huge automatic sprinkler systems in Valley county have jumped from three last year to 20 this summer. These pivot systems are a quarter mile long and, as shown by car in center of picture at left, are so big they can easily clear a car. View at right shows the permanent center pivot point of the sprinkler. They can be powered by natural gas, liquid gas, diesel engines, gasoline engines or electricity.

The one shown is electrically powered and is located on the Walter and Lyle Foth farm in Mira Valley. The corrugated tires enable it to "float" over muddy terrain, or field furrows. Picture at left shows the wheels moving through luxuriant alfalfa almost knee high. In background beyond the car is part of a big field of thriving corn, which is also sprinkled by the system.

Electric motors are located between the wheels in the triangular base of each upright, and controls are built in at the top of the wheel support triangles, so as to speed up or slow down each individual motor. Thus, wheels on the outside of the big radius can go faster than those near the pivot. Also, the system allows for going up inclines in one part of the system, and running downhill in another part.

Nozzle capacity along the line, varies in size according to the time it takes each section to complete a circle. Thus, light sprinkling near the center balances out heavy sprinkling near the faster moving end.

New $3,500 Ord Church Kitchen

A new $3,500 kitchen has been installed in basement of St. John's Lutheran church in Ord through the efforts of church volunteers. Dorothy Andreesen, Freida Foth, Vesta Huffman, and Walter Foth were the congregational committee, and Henry Lange and Stan Powers did the actual work. A center island is shown above, with built-in refrigerator and oven at right. Stainless steel sinks with garbage disposal units attached are at left, and a built-in electric range is also indicated.

Daniel K. Saunders, son of Rev. and Mrs. Francis D. Saunders, formerly of North Loup and now at Lost Cree, W. Va., has been named to the Dean's list for the spring quarter at Tri-State College, Angola, Ind. An average of B or better is required. He is majoring in Mechanical Engineering.

Big Corn Crop May Come to County

Prospects for corn in Valley county are very good for a good yield with stalks coming up to seven feet in height in some places, as can be seen from this picture of Howard Paulsen of Ord, district conservationist with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. He is 5 feet-6 inches tall. The field shown is on the Walter and Lyle Foth farm in Mira Valley. He has one foot on a big irrigation pipe, which is providing ditch irrigation.

Messenger Press Group Votes $300 to 'U' Fund

(Continued from Page 1) number of letters. He found one customer with four or five letters every day. He plans to restrict service on any given occasion to 25 letters maximum, and thus stay with postal regulations for special messenger service.

Russ has hours 9 to 5 daily and will deliver if he gets calls on Saturdays. All letters are delivered as soon as they are picked up, and his business policy is "Courtesy and fast service."

His plan is not to compete with the Postal Service system, but simply to provide a type of one-day service which is invaluable in Ord through the postal system, or any other source.

Legal opinion, which Russ secured in advance, was that he had the right to operate a personal messenger service, but no formal legal statement has been made yet by the postoffice.

Publicity in 1970, when Congress set up the new postal system, was that it would be a private corporation, and if so, would thus be subject to competition, the payment of income taxes on up to 50 percent on net earnings, and payment of real estate taxes on local buildings, all of which taxes all businessmen are required to pay.

However, the actual corporation established, according to House of Representatives committee print on the postoffice, is a Presidential corporation, with the President appointing nine directors to operate the system. These directors had to be approved by the Senate.

If the postoffice is a governmental operation, it will be exempt from taxes and competition, and thus will have artificially high earnings and be more vulnerable to pay increases which postal unions might ask.

Parcel Service, which was written up in last week's issue of The Quiz, and which handles two million packages daily, already is challenged in the courts by the postal system.

Air Photos Watch Corn Blight Peril

Nebraska is one of seven mid-west states that is being protected from corn by high altitude planes that fly every other week through September.

The planes are camera planes, which carry infrared and natural color cameras and fly as high as 60,000 feet. They are photographing about 45,000 square miles.

The project is being conducted by the U. S. Agriculture department, National Aeronautics, and Space Administration, and agricultural experiment stations in seven states. Purdue University laboratory and Michigan Institute for science and technology are cooperating.

Foreign Wheat Sales Jeopardy

Efforts to force up the price of wheat on foreign markets, now being considered in Congress, would be disastrous for the American farmer, the Nebraska Farm Bureau stated in a recent news release.

A similar law which was passed in 1968 brought about a 13 percent reduction in wheat allotment for American growers.

Sales of wheat abroad dropped more than 66 percent in two weeks, and domestic wheat prices tumbled to a 26-year low.

The Bureau stated, "Agriculture had a gain in exports last year to $7.6 billion, an all-time record. Every effort should be made to preserve the competitive position America thus has now and to repeat the serious mistake made in 1968 is not warranted."

Volunteers

All whey produced in the plant is now hauled out and disposed of, and none goes into the Ord sewage disposal system. This prevents a serious overload of the system which occurs when whey is added to it.

New calls came into the plant from seven farmers wishing to sign up, but until all preparatory work is completed, no new business will be accepted. Simplification of routes, to speed up service is being studied, and Leroy Ayres, plant manager, is in charge of all contacts with farmers.

A new truck driver, J. W. Ayres of Elyria has started work. He holds the required license for hauling milk and maintaining its cleanliness.

Checks go out to milk patrons twice a month, with cutoff dates being the first and fifteenth of each month. Records are kept of weight and butterfat rating of all milk secured from each farmer, and when the records are completed, checks are mailed. Next one is due out July 26th, but it is hoped to speed up payment in the future.

Last Sunday a number of volunteers worked in the creamery. Don Blaha of the Ord Development group secured them and they included members of the Jaycees, Dr. Glen Auble, J. Marvin Weems, Mrs. Ray Marshall, plant personnel and others. The Jaycees delayed their all-family annual picnic long enough to work at the creamery. CAROL'S CORNER

by carol leggett

Everyone should have his own formula for relaxing tensions and retaining his mental equilibrium. A vacation is most often the best solution—simply to get away from it all—but who of us can "bug out" that often? Perhaps the best soul therapy when bugged is to bug someone else. Can one gain composure by shocking somebody? Does one want to go this far... this is becoming harder and harder to do.

Society is becoming so sophisticated that almost nothing shocks! You might try devising your own formula for provoking people and retaining good mental health... could these suggestions be helpful?

- Fail to own a TV set.
- Buy a painting for the sole reason you like it.
- Discipline your children. (Watch out though, this practice may get you classed as a sadist.)
- Buy an American flag and display it on patriotic occasions. (The older edition dictionaries can explain the word patriotic to those who have forgotten its meaning.)
- Be honest. (This can "bug" people to death as they are bound to wonder what's with you!)
- Be thoughtful. (One hazard though, people might just think you are senile.)
- Enjoy Walt Disney movies.
- Don't water your lawn.
- Be courteous. This is ultimately the most rewarding of all as it actually frightens people!

There's a reason... With all the County Fair activities in full swing and various other summertime events covered in this week's issue, it's a good time to share this editorial note which appeared in a travel guide sometime ago:

"Just in case you find any mistakes in this magazine, please remember they were put there for a purpose. We try to offer something for everyone. Some people are always looking for mistakes."

Get ready... National Smile Week is Aug. 4-9. SMILE, it makes people wonder what you're up to!

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating." This Pineapple Cobbler is quick and easy to prepare and is sure to bring lots of compliments.

Grease well an 8x8x2 in. pan then mix together: 1/2 c. sugar, 2 T. cornstarch, 1/4 c. firmly packed brown sugar, 1/2 t. ginger. Then add: 1 can (#2 or #2 1/2) pineapple chunks, well drained. Spread in pan. Mix 1 1/2 c. biscuit mix with a little cream or milk. Roll out and put this dough over top of the fruit mixture. Bake at 400 degrees for 35 minutes.

Rev. C. R. Campbell Leads Local SA Drive

The Salvation Army annual appeal for funds is being conducted in Valley County at this time, announces Rev. Clarence R. Campbell, Chairman of the local Service Unit.

The campaign goal of $600 has been set for Valley County. Each community in the County will share in the campaign by accepting a portion of the overall goal. The goal set for Ord is $480.

The method to be used in conducting the drive in Valley County will be the contact of the firms and citizens by Mr. J. M. Soeth, the Salvation Army Field Representative, or by volunteer solicitors. All money collected will be deposited with R. J. Cronk, treasurer of the local service unit committee. Friends wishing to mail their contribution may send it to the treasurer. Shirley John, Gary Treptow Exchange Marriage Vows in Double-Ring Ceremony

In a 4 o'clock garden setting, July 17, Shirley Jean John, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert John of Ord, became the bride of Gary Calvin Treptow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Treptow of Comstock.

Huge baskets of fresh garden flowers adorned the yard of the John home where the double-ring ceremony was performed beneath a tall arch entwined with greenery and daisies. The Rev. Clarence Campbell, pastor of the United Methodist Church of Ord, read the marriage lines in the presence of about 150 guests.

After repeating the vows, the bride and groom lit a candle, signifying unity after marriage. The bride then gave a long stemmed red rose to her mother and to the groom's mother.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was designed of organza and Chantilly lace. The A-line silhouette featured a high neckline and umbrella sleeves. Panels of lace were inserted down the gown front. A long Mantilla was held by a large hat. She carried Sweetheart roses and green and white daisies.

Sharyl Jones of Ord served as maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Paula Treptow and flower girl was Heide Treptow, both sisters of the groom. Ord Mustangs Whip Greeley 5 to 3; Baseballers End Five Game Skid

The victory-hungry Ord Mustangs broke a five-game losing streak with a 5 to 3 win over Greeley Sunday evening. Jim Lukesh went the route for Ord on the mound and was backed by a 12 hit attack spearheaded by Merrill Mason and Rich Psota.

Lukesh appeared a bit ragged in the early going that saw Greeley jump to an early 3 to 0 lead. In the third inning Paul Lammers doubled and came in on an error. In the fourth inning Jim Warner lived on an error, stole second, and scored on a base hit. Greeley picked up a third run in the fifth when Lammers singled, stole second, went to third on an overthrow, and scored on a squeeze play. Ord replied in the sixth inning as five singles counted for three runs to tie the game. Rich Psota, Merrill Mason, Rick Estudillo, Leo Thomsen and Alan Vancura laced hits in the Mustang rally that saw Psota, Mason and Estudillo score.

Ord South Loses; North Whips Sargent

Ord South saw its last hopes for a regular season championship go down the drain as they fell to take a 4 to 3 win in a desperately hard fought game. The game left Scotia tied for first place with Burwell while the South dropped to a third place tie with Sandflats with a record of 6-2.

The three-run rally pulled the Ord team together. Lukesh got better as the game progressed, allowing only one hit over the last four innings. The Mustang batter was backed by a defense that began to play inspired ball. The score remained deadlocked until the ninth inning. Jim Hulinsky led off the inning with a base hit. Bill Warner was safe on an error and Jim Lukesh drew a base on balls to load the bases. Psota delivered the tie breaking run with a sacrifice fly. Loren Vancura crashed a double to drive in Warner with the fifth run before a double play ended the game. Lukesh retired the side in order in the bottom of the ninth to preserve the victory.

The Mustangs used a favorite weapon of Wood River, the home run, to jump off to a 4 to 0 lead in the first inning. Jim Hulinsky led off with a double and later scored on a sacrifice fly. Loren Vancura crashed a double to drive in Warner with the fifth run before a double play ended the game. Lukesh retired the side in order in the bottom of the ninth to preserve the victory.

Ord scored early with three runs in the top of the first inning. Jeff Quinn sent in two of the runs with a double and later scored himself on a wild pitch but Ord was unable to come up with the big hit that would have broken the game open and two runners were left in a scoring position.

The win over Greeley was especially satisfying for Warner, who had played for Greeley before moving to Ord. Wednesday evening the Mustangs journeyed to Wood River and absorbed a 14 to 7 loss. Wood River is currently the league leader.

The Mustangs used a favorite weapon of Wood River, the home run, to jump off to a 4 to 0 lead in the first inning. Jim Hulinsky led off with a double and later scored on a sacrifice fly. Loren Vancura crashed a double to drive in Warner with the fifth run before a double play ended the game. Lukesh retired the side in order in the bottom of the ninth to preserve the victory.

Winter Weather Spares Quail

Severe weather last winter did not have the drastic effect on Nebraska's quail that it might have, according to a survey conducted recently by Game and Parks Commission biologists and conservation officers.

The state's quail population is down about 7 percent from 1970 but is still more than 12 percent above the 1969 level. Bobwhites in Nebraska were cut drastically from a peak population in 1968 by severe blizzards in early 1969. The recent count of bobwhites reflects only the breeding population on hand, and a successful summer of nesting could mean a bounty of quail this fall.

The only portion of the state showing a major increase in bobwhite numbers was the east-central area, with a gain of 39 percent. The north-central portion of the state showed a moderate gain of about 5 percent, and northeast Nebraska's quail population is unchanged from last year.

The west Platte River and Republican River drainages showed the greatest declines, with drops of nearly 20 and 29 percent respectively. The southeast, which Quail populations in the west-Sand Hills and the Panhandle were not included in the survey, since these areas contain relatively little bobwhite habitat.

90 Day Residency For State Hunting

In order to qualify as a resident for purchase of hunting and fishing permits, a person must have lived in Nebraska for at least 90 days and have a genuine intention of becoming a legal resident of the state. Anyone not meeting these requirements violates state law by purchasing a resident permit.

No limit is set on the number of archery, deer and antelope permits that can be sold in Nebraska and archers may hunt throughout the state.

Tarot will also be competing in the Grand Island showings.

Ord Wins Legion District Title; Represents District at Plainview

The Ord Legion baseball team represented the district in the area tournament at Plainview this week and were to take on the winners of District 2 Wednesday night.

The Juniors earned the trip to Plainview by capturing the district tournament played at Ord this past week. Ord won the title by trouncing Loup City 14 to 4 Sunday night. In action leading to the finals, Ord dumped Shelton 5 to 1 after drawing a first round bye.

In Sunday's finals, the team jumped on Loup City starter Dan Zaleski for two runs in the first inning on a base hit by Scott Patrick and consecutive doubles by Dave John and Jeff Hruby.

Loup City tallied once in the second inning but Ord offset that with three runs in the bottom of the second. A pair of errors followed by a single by Vancura and a double by Leon Brechbill accounted for the runs.

The visitors later added two more in the third and later two in the fifth inning but by this time the issue was no longer in doubt as Ord picked up three runs in the fourth and sealed the win with six runs in the fifth to give the homeowners a 14 to 4 lead and the game was stopped by the ten run rule. Tom Klancey, Patrick and Leon Brechbill scored in the fourth with Patrick's double being the big blow. Patrick had another double in the fifth inning that saw five runs score before Bob Visek singled to send home Bob Peterson with the decisive run that gave Ord a ten-run lead.

Ord picked up an insurance run in the sixth as Vancura was safe on an error and later scored on a sacrifice fly by Farmer making the final 5 to 1 score.

Dean Vancura started on the mound for Ord. He was relieved by Tom Klancey in the third and Scott Patrick in the fifth.

In the semi-final game against Shelton, Bob Visek shackled Shelton on three hits and did not give up a run until the fourth inning when Ord had built up a four-run lead.

Ord could manage little offense until the fourth inning when they picked up four runs. Dave John led off with a double and came in to score on a single by Dean Vancura. Darrell Farmer was safe on a fielder's choice and Bob Visek legged out an infield hit to score Vancura. Farmer scored on an infield out and Visek came home on an error.

Ord picked up an insurance run in the sixth as Vancura was safe on an error and later scored on a sacrifice fly by Farmer making the final 5 to 1 score.

Ord opened tournament play against Shelton. Shelton forfeited the game because they could not meet the grooming code. In the exhibition game that ensued, Shelton took a 6 to 0 second inning lead but watched it disappear as Ord scored three times in the third, four in the fifth and twice in the seventh to take a 9 to 7 win.

Ord Upsets Sargent 5 to 0 Enroute to Semi-Finals

The Ord Midgets battled their way into the semi-finals of the district tournament before being sent to the sidelines by Loup City. Loup City won by a 2 to 4 score. Enroute to this game Ord defeated Shelton 9 to 7 and Sargent 5 to 0.

Ord opened tournament play against Shelton. Shelton forfeited the game because they could not meet the grooming code. In the exhibition game that ensued, Shelton took a 6 to 0 second inning lead but watched it disappear as Ord scored three times in the third, four in the fifth and twice in the seventh to take a 9 to 7 win.

Highlight of the tournament for Ord was the win over Sargent. Lyle Sevensen turned back the powerful Sargent batsmen without a hit until Rick Stone led off the seventh inning with a single. Stone was safe on a one hit shutout, no small accomplishment as the Custer County crew had defeated Ord 14 to 4 and 13 to 4 previously.

Saturday's semi final game against Loup City started out in a promising manner as Ord scored twice in the first when Tim Hoppes walked and Lyle and Lynn Sevensen drove consecutive hits. Loup City countered with a run in their half of the first inning but Ord built up a 3 to 1 lead in the third and scored on an error.

Dennis Urbanovsky made the lead stand up until the fifth inning when he tired and Loup City scored four times to take a lead. Ord scored a single run in the sixth inning on singles by Michael Train (Hickman), Pawnee (Emerald), Louisville and Fremont (Gibbons) and Mormon (Grand Island) state way-side areas.

County Property Valuations May Be Approved With No Challenges

By Melvin Paul, NPA
Statehouse Correspondent

Property valuations certified by the state's 93 counties probably will be accepted without challenge by the State Board of Equalization again this year. The decision will come in August, but State Tax Commissioner William E. Peters already has made his recommendation.

And Peters suggests the state board avoid attempting any inter-county adjustments designed to equalize the values given by assessors and affirmed by county equalization boards.

Peters says there are inequities, but it is so difficult to prove in court that state board adjustments would be an improvement, it's inadvisable to try.

No changes in the county abstracts were made last year, when Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann was sitting as chairman of the state board. But the year before, the state ordered a series of adjustments — most of them eventually challenged in court and most of them losing cases for the state.

The big problem in 1969 was proving the assessment levels ordered out of Lincoln were backed up with sufficient evidence to justify the adjustments.

Peters said that problem still exists. Gov. J. J. Exon, the new board chairman, says he prefers a hands off policy on county affairs. Now that the state is technically out of the property tax business — at least no state property tax is levied — it has no direct interest in equalizing among counties.

The major reason — aside from attempting to insure identical land which spans county lines is assessed on a uniform basis — is to equalize for governmental units which include more than one county. Examples of these are educational service units, many school districts and area vocational-technical school districts.

Say one of those districts assesses all property in its area two mills in taxes. Property in County A and County B is included within the district boundaries, but irrigated farmland in County A is assessed at a different price per acre than identical property in County B.

Since the same mill levy is applied to the property in each of the counties, the landowners in County A are going to pay less taxes even though their holdings are just the same as those of farmers in County B.

These are the kinds of problems the state equalization board is supposed to correct and the statutes list seven guidelines the board should use to make its determinations.

Various solutions have been considered over the years, but the problem never has been solved. The state has leaned heavily on a sales-assessment ratio. The courts, however, say that isn't enough by itself.

A sales-assessment ratio is a comparison of the price actually paid when land transfers are made with the values in the assessors' books. To make such a ratio valid, all non-representative sales have to be discarded. Included in that category would be sales between relatives and the like.

Many persons have argued that productivity ought to carry a lot of weight in determining the value of property. That factor may or may not be reflected adequately in a sales-assessment comparison.

In any case, Exon has asked Peters to continue the search for a more effective way for the state to play its role in the equalization procedures.

A legislative committee studying law enforcement is to visit the State Penitentiary Friday and then launch a series of hearings on a variety of judicial and penal reform ideas.

The committee has on its agenda consideration of the need for a new state men's reformatory and the new warden of the penal complex, Charles J. Wolf, will discuss that need at the Friday meeting in Lincoln.

Six committee members had scheduled a visit Monday to Fox Lake, Wis., where they were to tour a modern institution. That trip was scheduled so the senators would have a basis for comparison when they inspected the Nebraska facilities in Lincoln.

Those planning to make the one-day trip to Wisconsin were Chairman Roland A. Luedtke of Lincoln and Sens. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, John DeCamp of Neligh, Walter Epke of York, Ernest Chambers and P. J. Morgan, both of Omaha.

At the Friday session, the senators also plan to discuss bail, jail and court reform plans. The possibility of a regional jail — serving several counties — is on the agenda.

One of the major figures in the campus disturbances at the University of Nebraska during the spring of 1970 was a political science professor named Stephen Rozman. The Board of Regents decided against rehiring Rozman for the 1971-72 school year even though a faculty committee had recommended he be rehired.

Rozman recently announced he has accepted a teaching job with the University of the Americas at Puebla, Mexico.

As of this writing there is no restriction on the movement of horses in Nebraska. Word was received this past week from Glen Kreischer - Nebraska Director of Agriculture that no horses will be permitted to enter Nebraska except by special permit.

This restriction was imposed in an attempt to protect Nebraska horses from the virus of encephalomyelitis (sleeping sickness) which has been confirmed in Texas.

Horsemen planning to enter this state and events in other states are urged to first determine whether horses originating from areas where possible exposure may have occurred are allowed in the show.

Green Thumb Tips

Ear worms on sweet corn, must be controlled before hatching larvae enter the ear. Apply Sevin every other day for ten days after silks first appear.

The last two weeks in July and first two weeks in August is usually the hottest time of the year. Water vegetables, flowers, shrubs and lawns thoroughly and deep to avoid possible drought injury.

Some spray materials may injure plants if applied when the temperature is above 80 degrees F. Spray in the morning or late evening to avoid possible damage.

We have not found Southern Corn Leaf Blight in Valley County to date.

Weather remains the key factor in the development of this disease. Cloudy weather with frequent, light rain showers, warm, humid and windless days with heavy morning dews are ideal conditions for rapid development and spread.

In Nebraska there appears to be little change in SCLB spread and development from a week ago. Very few ear and husk infections have been found. Sheath infections are beginning to show up in early planted, susceptible varieties.

The Dixie Early Warning Report from Southern States continue to indicate no threat of spore showers moving northward and that SCLB intensity is currently much lower than it was

Greenbug Problem in Valley County

Greenbug population is increasing in Valley County according to reports from the office of John Schade, Valley County extension agent. Schade indicated spraying for controls is necessary in some fields.

Other problems in the area include face and horn flies. Range and pasture are still providing good pasture.

Wild hay in the county is fair, as far as yield goes. All other crops, including winter wheat, corn, sorghums, soybeans and alfalfa, are termed good by Schade.

Surface moisture is not as much as it should be, according to the report, however subsoil moisture is adequate. All first cutting of alfalfa has been harvested in the county with 35% of the second cutting completed.

All-Time High Yields on Wheat Due In State; 100 Million Harvest Seen

By Dr. D. G. Hanway
University of Nebraska

Many farmers are reporting wheat yields of 60 to 70 bushels per acre across Nebraska as harvest moves westward. What varieties are giving these exceptional yields?

In eastern Nebraska, Gage is a top performer with many farmers. Across central Nebraska, Scout 66 is again setting records. In southwest Nebraska, Scoutland, the new quality selection from Scout, is performing well. It has stem rust resistance that Warrior does not have. Along with Scout 66, western Nebraska farmers are getting outstanding yields from Lancer, Trader, and Trapper.

Stem rust resistance built into these Nebraska-bred varieties may well be the reason that the state's average yield this year will exceed 40 bushels per acre for the first time in history. Heavy stem rust has been reported on susceptible varieties in some of the experiment station tests in central and western Nebraska. Some severe local "hot spots" of stem rust have been reported in South Dakota. If Nebraska farmers were growing the old susceptible varieties like Pawnee, Cheyenne, Nebred and Warrior, 1971 could have been another rust disaster year like 1961, 1962, and 1963.

What does this protection mean? Nebraska will harvest over 100 million bushels of wheat. A light rust loss would be ten per cent. Severe stem rust could have reduced yields 30 per cent and produced a crop of shriveled, low quality wheat. It could have reduced returns from the crop for 1971 by half.

With Gage, Scout 66, Scoutland, Lancer, Trader and Trapper, all Nebraska farmers can have seed of the outstanding 1971 performers for their area to plant this fall. These all carry resistance to present races of stem rust. They have the ability to respond to good fertility. They stand much better than older varieties. They have improved quality for milling and baking.

Now is the time to plan for meeting nitrogen and phosphate needs of the 1972 crop. There is still time to get a soil test. Are fields to be planted this fall firm and mellow with a good reserve of moisture at planting time? Planting either too early or too late will reduce yields. The general tendency of farmers is to plant too early.

Much publicity has centered on the new Centurk variety. Its record in 1971 will be good. But in comparative experiment station tests in east and central Nebraska, the yields of Gage have been equal to Centurk in three and not far behind in the others. Scout 66 shows the same average yield as Centurk in these six tests. Farmers should not be greatly concerned if they can not get some of the limited supply of Centurk this year. There will be enough for all who wish to use it next year.

The 1971 record shows that outstanding varieties are available. The research program of the University's Agronomy department has provided these varieties and information on practices that will let them perform if applied. Yields will continue to climb if farmers will use these varieties and the best of practices to guide them in wheat production.

U.S. HOUSING DESTROYS RENTAL PROPERTIES

By Starling Lee, Ord

The following material was printed originally in Ford Dealer News, an independent publication in New York City.

"Henry Ford II, in accepting a citation from the Midwest Research Institute said —

"Urban rehabilitation programs reduce, rather than increase, housing supply. The property tax structure discourages rehabilitation and repair of old but potentially sound rental housing. The credit supply for housing is turned off and on for reasons that have little to do with the need for housing.

"Public housing projects in big cities may turn into crime-infested slums, and no people can call itself civilized when its people are increasingly insecure in their persons and property."

"Mr. Ford also said our most urgent national problem is the problem of priorities. He recommended we develop better institutions to collect essential information, weigh alternatives and look and think before we act."

BEEF PRICES RISE LESS THAN OTHER GOODS

By Al Moudry, Ord

A university of Nebraska spokesman has found beef prices rising far less than most other items a family purchases.

"If live cattle prices had gone up as much as wages since 1952, American housewives would be paying about $3.00 a pound for steak," says Paul Guyer, Extension Livestock Specialist.

"Cattlemen in general feel it is time to 'tell it like it is — to tell the consumer that the price of beef, like the price of a new car, is the by-product of inflation, not its cause," Guyer declared.

"When you hear someone say, 'Beef prices sure are high,' you might well respond, 'Compared with what?'" he suggested.

Live cattle prices are about the same as they were in 1951. The cost of operating a cattle ranch or farm has more than doubled during the same period, the NU specialist pointed out.

"Retail prices of beef are about the same as they were in 1951, yet the average take-home pay has increased about 150 percent. Beef prices on the average have not increased more than 15 percent at their highest peak in the last 19 years," Guyer concluded.

SEMI-SOCIALISM CREATES BRITISH POVERTY

By Mrs. Leraona O. Sullivan in "Wall Street Journal."

Our welfare programs, proposals for national health insurance, and a general extension of government, along paternalistic lines, wittingly or unwittingly, emulates semi-socialist countries. Is this what the American people really want?

In England, a typical middle-income family gets $4,900 a year, the house has no central heat, their car is smaller than a Volkswagen. They don't go to the movies, and they figure that half a dozen dinners out a year is all they can afford.

This particular British family has more luxuries than most Britons — including a telephone. Only 61 percent of British homes have a refrigerator, 56 percent an automatic clothes washer, 51 percent an automobile and 23 percent an electric food mixer. The average family refrigerator in Britain is only four cubic feet. This is in contrast to the United States where 90 percent of the refrigerators are 12 cubic feet or more. In rainy England, only 17 percent of British households have a clothes drier. The typical family has its own home which they purchased nine years ago and which stands on land owned by the state. It has one bath. The living room is closed off since it lacks heat and needs redecorating, and in its place the family uses an 8 x 10 foot sitting room. Only ten percent of British families enjoy central heating. This particular family has gas and electric heaters.

The family receives a month's vacation each year which the family spends at a seaside boarding house to avoid hotel bills. The wife received a $60 lump sum payment from the government when each child was born. The government also allows $2.16 a week to help support the children. Payroll deductions for taxes, national insurance (mainly health care), social security and a contributory pension plan take about a quarter of the husband's income.

WASHINGTON REPORT

South Korea May Become Industrial Colossus in New Far East Plans

BY PAUL SCOTT
Former Greeley Resident

South Korea is being eyed by the Nixon Administration as a possible new, U.S. supported "Hong Kong" in the Far East.

Under President Nixon's policy of expanding trade with Communist China, a massive "logistic base" would be established in South Korea to help handle and service the expanded American commerce with Peking.

Although most of the details still must be worked out, the intriguing new international trade role for South Korea has been under discussion with President Park's pro-U.S. government for several months.

These secret negotiations were one of the prime reasons for the parade of high U.S. government officials and bankers to South Korea since the start of the year. Most recent talks occurred when Vice President Agnew conferred privately with President Chung Hee Park earlier this month at the Park's inauguration.

President Park cleared the way for future negotiations by using his inaugural address to endorse President Nixon's controversial diplomatic move to improve relations and increase trade with Peking.

Despite Communist China's major role in the Korean war and continuing close military ties with North Korea, Park had no harsh words for Peking. Instead, he singled out only North Korea as still his country's enemy because of its efforts to overthrow his government.

While the whole concept of South Korea as another trade gateway to the China mainland depends on Peking's cooperation, Nixon Administration officials are convinced this will be forthcoming.

Pretty soon, allowed Lumir Piacnik Saturday night, we'll be reclaiming all our garbage and trash, buying everything with credit cards and getting trading stamps in the deal, and the hole cycle of life will be repeating itself and nobody will know why. He was reporting to the fellers on this study he had saw about ways waste material is being reused these days.

First off, said Lumir, he was happy to announce that old newspapers can live again as feed for stock. A Maryland agriculture research center has found that you can grind up papers, mix in molasses and other stuff and feed it to cows. The cow eats the news, and folks that make the news eat the cows.

Rudolph John took note the Food and Drug Administration probably will find somepun wrong with this deal, special with feeding cows some of the news that the Government finds hard to

Ord, Nebr.

Dear Mr. Leggett,

Just read of the young man delivery service and the Government trying to take over. I cannot see where they have any right to try and dictate since these letters, etc., have never even been touched by a Postal Stamp or Postal Employee. The Government goes along with tractors, riots, etc., because they must not suppress their freedom.

Well this young man has rights, too, and I admire him for working instead of being a lazy no good as so many are today.

We U.S. loving people have some rights, too, and it is time decent God-fearing people stood up and said so.

More power to the young man and thanks to you and those standing up for him.

Sincerely,
Mary L. Fisher

P.S. Besides when it takes 4 days for a letter to come from Lincoln to Ceresco — about 15 miles — I believe the Boy and his Bike would be safer and better.

KERRY ON

—half truths—

Among other things that have happened during the past week, we received a visit from Doug Miller of the 4-C Program.

Some of you may recall that we had written previously, when they tried to get established with some sort of a program in Ord. We simply feel that child care is up to parents and in the few instances there are no parents, children in the area have usually been adequately cared for by concerned citizens and relatives.

We can't believe — as badly as the government messes up everything else — that Uncle Sam needs to take the children out of the cradle and start destroying individual initiative before it has a fair start.

Earlier Mr. Miller had written us that he wanted to talk to us about our "guarded position" on the 4-C Program. Though he had refused to answer previous correspondence (even though we sent him a stamped and addressed reply envelope), he did want to "explain" his program to us. We TRIED to listen.

Our one and one-half hour discussion couldn't possibly be covered in detail here, but we'd like to give the readers some of our findings.

First, we were asked to announce in the Quiz of May 13th that a 4-C organizational meeting would be held at the Courthouse that evening. This we did and Mr. Miller was to be present.

We enlisted some interested support and there were about a dozen people present — probably both pro and con. After a long wait, Kathy Williams of the Valley County Welfare Department expressed concern over Mr. Miller's absence. He never did

What High Winds Can Do

Wandering around in northern Iowa and southern Minnesota last week was a new and gruesome experience, for a tornado had also wandered or rather zoomed through there the night before and also the two nights before that.

Previously, I don't remember seeing the aftermath of a tornado so close except that one between here and Arcadia a number of years ago, in which eleven people were killed. And that seemed to be a one-touch horror, I remember only that one hill-top was mangled and smashed.

But in Iowa!

The swath must have been 25 miles long or possibly 35, and several miles wide. Where once there were handsome groves, now numbers of trees were uprooted and laying flat on the ground. Some huge old trees were merely ruined with twisted tops and broken branches such as lightning leaves behind.

We saw hundreds of butchered trees, so ugly now.

But even more cruel was the damage to farmsteads, with here a large old house smashed flat, and there a barn shoved around, and next a small shed moved bodily into the ditch beside the highway.

A few farms were entirely crushed to earth. Sightseeing cars thronged about. There were curiosity seekers everywhere, but the white helmets of Civil Defense workers patrolled the entrance to many a farmyard to keep visitors at a distance. It is hard to realize that there are would-be looters who would take advantage of these poor people who have already taken such a beating from a tornado. But there was no doubt that every useable shred had vanished in several places.

It was a shattering experience to drive the best part of an hour through the devastation.

Dr. Robert Lynn told us of a fine 48-foot trailer that had entirely vanished and no trace could be located. Either it had been smashed to little smidgens or had been lifted high and deposited so far away that no one recognized it or knew its home.

Signs were askew, windows smashed in, pieces of houses gone away, roofs absent. TV aerials were twisted or on the ground.

So of course there were tractors pulling, workmen skipping up and down ladders, shingles going back in place, general cleaning up already evident at most homes.

Not so much damage was noticeable in towns, but out in the lovely green rolling countryside, the farms caught the brunt of the tremendous winds, apparently.

And I learned a little more about a tornado than I care to know, and certainly more than I cared to see.

The stuff of which nightmares are made, it was.

This week — by Mr. Miller's own admission — we found he had been advised by Miss Williams NOT TO SHOW UP because there may be some opposition to the program! Now we realize this was known all along — May 13th! Those present were led to believe that Mr. Miller simply didn't make it. All the time the person leading us to this assumption was none other than the young lady who had "advised" HIM NOT TO SHOW UP!

To be misled by federal and county workers is a little more than we can take, especially when several of those present had other commitments they could have kept, had they known the truth.

One of our questions of Mr. Miller was the NEED for the 4-C Program in Ord. "A need has not yet been established," Mr. Miller informed us. He went on to explain that 4-C's job is to coordinate existing programs, but stated, himself, that it is "yet to be determined what exists."

In other words, the federal government will create a need that Mr. Miller said 4-C is not a program — it's a concept. We firmly believe that concepts should be conceived by the people — NOT THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT!

Among the several thousands of words exchanged, we did get Mr. Miller's reluctant permission to use the above quotations and would like to add, in closing this column, that he also said, "I'm trying to develop programs for children." Yet Mr. Miller and his

All these developments clearly indicate that South Korea is becoming a new link in the growing contacts between the U.S. and Red China. It will include all of the area drained by the Platte River Basin and its tributaries in the state, and would cover flood control, water development, groundwater recharge, conservation and general water development.

The study was originally scheduled to begin in fiscal 1973 it can and should be started in the current fiscal year. Federal and state agencies that would be involved have indicated a capability of beginning the study in fiscal 1972.

Come to Church This Week's Meditation READ MATTHEW 17:14-21 "Truly, I say to you, if you have faith as a grain of mustard seed, you will say to this mountain, 'Move here to yonder place,' and it will move; and nothing will be impossible to you." (Matthew 17:20, RSV) We watched in astonishment as power shovels and bulldozers continued cutting away the mountains before us. Earth-movers, shutting back and forth, carried the fill to valleys which were gradually leveling off to form the bed of a section of Interstate 80 being cut through the Allegheny Mountains of central Pennsylvania. As we watched, some words of Jesus came to mind, "You will say to this mountain, 'Move here to yonder place.'" Faith could indeed move physical mountains. There are other mountains - mountains of suspicion, fear, estrangement, and hatred. Like fiery volcanoes, these rise even when we are ever being pushed closer together. Is it not about such mountains that Jesus is speaking to His church today? Faith, like a grain of mustard seed planted into the hearts of His followers, can grow into new concerns, new insights, and new actions. PRAYER: O Lord, nurture our faith so that it may grow to challenge the impossible. Make of us highways of love to draw together men separated by mountains of fear and hatred. Amen. THOUGHT FOR THE DAY Only as we put our faith into action will we know whether it removes mountains. Ben F. Sheetz (Bellefonte, Pennsylvania) Copyright - THE UPPER ROOM
