Real Life Can Match A Classical Fairy Tale

An account of the contest and their pictures were carried in the January 1, 1978 Focus section of the Sunday Journal and Star. Along with a story on their awards was an account of how Nancy's camera caught her more than a picture.

And they lived happily ever after.

It sounds like the old fairy tale, but this time, it's the beginning of a real life story. It started in the spring of 1977 with the 1977 Sunday Journal and Star/Kodak International Snapshot awards (KNSA) contest and ended with Civil War regalia, a 1870s-style velvet dress and wedding vows at a 100-year-old fort in central Nebraska.

If it seems like a whirlwind romance, Nancy Grover Lindsay, a finalist in the local 1977 snapshot contest and an international contest merit winner, would be the last to disagree. It all began with a simple introduction.

Last spring, a friend introduced them. Nancy Grover to Roye Lindsay, superintendent of Fort Hartsuff State Historical Park near Burwell. Ms. Grover and Lindsay talked about the fort and their interests.

Later, Ms. Grover, a commercial artist and mother of Gina, 6, and David, 4, decided to take her children to visit Fort Hartsuff, a military installation built in 1874 as a buffer between the Indians and homesteaders.

An amateur photographer, Ms. Grover took her camera along. At the fort, she and her children joined a small tour group led by Lindsay.

Impressed with the rustic historical site, she put her camera to work.

At one point on the tour, Lindsay looked out of a small window in one of the restored buildings as he recounted the fort's history. The light peeked through the frail curtains, illuminating a thoughtful Lindsay. Ms. Grover snapped the picture that won her weekly and finalist honors in The Sunday Journal and Star contest and $100 and a certificate of merit from KNSA.

But that wasn't all that clicked that day.

Ms. Grover was impressed with Lindsay's easygoing, informative manner and with the way he was able to bring back the old days of the fort for the tourists. Lindsay was equally impressed with his Lincoln visitor.

Ms. Grover returned to Lincoln and entered her informal portrait of Lindsay in the local snapshot contest. And Lindsay began making trips to Lincoln to visit the amateur photographer.

In July when she learned she was a local weekly snapshot contest winner, Ms. Grover told a reporter, "I like it (the picture) because it is so spontaneous. It really captures the mood at the time." She also said she liked Lindsay.

In August when told she had won finalist honors, Ms. Grover casually mentioned on a biographical form that she and the subject of her prize-winning picture were engaged.

When word came from KNSA in early November that she was an international snapshot contest winner, The Sunday Journal and Star discovered its winner and now Nancy Grover, Lindsay of Burwell, married Nov. 5 by a county judge in a long black robe in Fort Hartsuff's restored officers' quarters, surrounded by guests wearing 1870s-style clothes.

"It's all quite a surprise," Mrs. Lindsay said of her international photography honor and of her new life. "It's so beautiful out here — the land, the fort, the people. I'm just sitting and enjoying it all."

"For the first time in my life, I'm being a full-time mother, too."

Her interest in photography has not lagged; it has grown instead. "There are so many opportunities for photography out here," she said of the scenery. "I used to take so many pictures of the kids, but I'm learning to be more selective. It's an expensive hobby."

She hopes to set up a darkroom in their house soon.

Mrs. Lindsay bubbles with enthusiasm over her new life and surroundings.

The beautiful Sandhills, the coyotes, the golden cornfields in the fall . . . want to take lots of pictures . . ."

Fall Seedling Total Down

Winter Wheat Seedings Dowd 12% Nebraska winter wheat seedings totaled 2,900,000 acres, down 12% from last year. This was the lowest planted acreage since 1973. Seeding was completed by the normal time and entered the winter in better condition than a year ago because of improved moisture supplies. Based on conditions as of December 1, the 1978 production is forecast at 101.5 million bushels, down 2% from last year.

Rye Seedings Down 11%

Rye seedings for the 1978 crop totaled 80,000 acres, down 11% from last year. This is the smallest planted acreage since records were begun in 1931.

UNITED STATES' Winter Wheat Seedings

Winter wheat acreage seeded in the fall of 1977 for harvest in 1978 totaled 48.1 million acres, 14% less than last year. Production of the 1978 winter wheat crop, based on December 1 conditions, is forecast at 1,321 million bushels, 13% below the 1977 crop.

Rye growers seeded 2.9 million acres, 8% more than last year.

Nebraska Hog Inventory Up

Nebraska Hog Inventory Up 3%

Nebraska pork producers had an estimated 3,200,000 hogs and pigs on hand December 1, 1977, up 3% from a year ago. This was up 19% from the low level of two years ago but 13% below the largest December inventory during the past ten years. Hogs and pigs kept for breeding totaled 470,000, which was 6% above last year. Market hogs, at 2,730,000, were up 3% from a year ago. Market hogs by weight groups were as follows:

|                   |                     |
|-------------------|---------------------|
| Under 60 pounds   | — 1,125,00          |
| up 7%             | — 669,000 — down 1% |
| 120-179 pounds    | — $38,000 — up 4%  |
| 180-219 pounds    | — 316,000 — down 1% |
| 220 pounds and up | — 82,000 — down 12% |

September-November Pig Crop Up 6% During the September-November quarter, 190,000 sows produced a pig crop of 1,363,000 pigs, up 6% from a year ago and 28% above two years ago.

Farrowing Intentions Up

Intentions of Nebraska pork producers are to have 155,000 sows farrowing during the Dec. 1977-February 1978 quarter, up 11% from last year and 22% above two years ago. During the March-May quarter, they intend to have 210,000 sows farrow, up 5% from a year ago and 2% above two years ago. These intentions by Nebraska producers indicate a 7% increase over a year ago in farrowings for the next six months.

IRS Claims Trust Plans May Net Taxpayer a Stiff Penalty

The Internal Revenue Service today advised Nebraskans of the adverse Federal income tax consequences of certain trust plans set up to avoid the IRS pointed out that the tax benefits allegedly gained from setting up such trusts have been grossly and improperly misstated by some promoters and have no legal justification.

The IRS intends to continue vigorous enforcement action against citizens who knowingly use such sham devices to understate their tax liability as well as the promoters of such schemes.

The plans, marketed under various names, are sometimes known as Family Estate, Pure or Educational Trusts and are often advertised as having been approved by the IRS or courts.

Under the plans, promoters instruct individuals how to create a family trust. Frequently, the promoters charge a substantial fee based on the gross income of the trust.

The individual is advised to assign assets and income from current employment to the trust. The promoters then advise that, in exchange the creator of the trust may receive compensation as an officer, trustee or director, as well as certain fringe benefits, such as pension rights, tax-free use of residence, and educational endowments for children.

According to the promoters, once the creator's income is shifted to the trust, the trust is

CAROL'S CORNER

by carol leggett

1978 . . . Looks strange, doesn't it? It sounds strange too. That's because it's new, and it will be with us for 365 days.

I hope, as we look ahead, that these days will be happy days filled with the good things and joys that make up the individual elements of happiness.

As we look to the future, we also should examine the past, for 1977 was also a new year once. Didn't we look forward last year to the same things as for this year to come? Each of us alone knows the answer.

We can't do anything about the past, or the year gone by. 1978 presents a fresh opportunity to begin again, to turn over that new leaf, to make another set of resolutions, another batch of promises.

Still, the resolutions and promises for 1978 are based on the failings of 1977. It's very simple, I suppose . . . Fail to improve in this new year and you fail to progress as a human being. Succeed, and you add personal growth on which to build future successes.

So, here we have it again; that same age-old question: How can I improve myself to make 1978 bring me happiness? How can you improve yourself to make 1978 bring you happiness? Whatever makes that sun shine upon us depends on you . . . and me. What we say and what we do will determine how much sunshine we will have each day in '78.

Deal-White Vows Recited In Lincoln

Kathryn Kay Deal of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Deal of Ord and Rick White of Lincoln, son of Mrs. Gretchen Nelson of Lincoln and Gerald White of Martell, were married December 26, 1977 at Lincoln.

The 12 noon wedding performed by Rev. William Nelson, took place at the home of the groom's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bashore. Matron of honor was Mrs. Christina Ewing of Hickman, a childhood friend of the bride. Best man was Richard Rogers, friend of the groom of Lincoln.

The home was decorated with tropicana roses and baby's breath and a Christmas motif.

A two layer yellow wedding cake decorated with roses and topped by wedding bells and flowers was the center of a laced covered table, holding a buffet luncheon.

Special guest of honor was the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Irene White, also of Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brown of Arcadia announce the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn to Larry Engel, son of Ruth Engel of Wood River and the late Earl Engel.

The bride is a 1971 graduate of Ord High School and attended the University of Nebraska for 1½ years. She is employed by "Runz's". The groom is a graduate of Lincoln High School, served in the Air Force and is a guard at the Nebraska Penal Complex.

The newlyweds will make their home at 732 G. St., Lincoln, NE.

Ord Girls End Tourney Play With 5-2 Record

The Ord girls' varsity basketball team ended their play in the Holiday Tournament in Lincoln December 30 with a 5-2 record. The Ord girls were one of eight teams from across the state invited to the three day event.

Ord launched their tournament play by taking on defending Class A champions Lincoln East December 28. The Lady Chants were defeated 50-33. The victory raised Lincoln East's winning streak to 18 straight games.

Ord was ahead at the end of the first quarter 12-3 and were making East run more than usual, but the lead quickly faded as East came back into the game and led the last three stanzas.

Assistant Ord Coach Tom Rhodes called the top six Lincoln players "the very talented". According to him, they made it tough for Ord to get any inside game going.

During that game the Ord girls played with plenty of spirit. "I'm proud", Rhodes said, "of the way they hung in there against the defending Class A champions".

Perhaps some of Ord's biggest compliments came from East coach Leona Peimer. She praised Ord for playing well as a team for being quick, and blocking off better than any team East had played that far.

The upset dropped the Ord girls into the bottom tournament bracket where they took on Valley, Thursday. That Class C school had a 19-2 record last year and finished second in their class.

The loss of several senior starters at the end of that season didn't prevent them from being invited to the high caliber competition in Lincoln this year. Rhodes termed the team "... a real bunch of scrappers ready to play basketball."

The Lady Chants lagged 8-2 at the end of the first quarter. Rhodes attributed the six point deficit to Ord's not being mentally into the game.

This soon changed. In the last three quarters, Valley didn't get a single field goal. The best they could do was to scrounge up seven free throws.

Ord won the match 44-15.

The Ord girls next took on Lincoln Southeast, one of the state's bigger schools. Rated number six, pre-season polls, Southeast fell to Ord 42-38.

Ord was behind in the half 16-12. The Chant girls weren't shooting their best, only 4 for 27 shots at the half.

The second half they came alive and shot 50 percent from the floor. Wayne Adams and Sue Sich got Ord's inside game going. They along with guards Vickie Mason and Jane Green helped spark the Lady Chant victory.

Rhodes recalled, "Anne Gibbons played a good, steady game in the tournament and did a great job".

The win over king-sized Lincoln Southeast gave Ord a 5-2 record coming out of tournament play. "I know Max is proud of the girls", Rhodes commented, "and this proves we can play the bigger schools and still hold our own."

Ducks Unlimited Dinner Scheduled

Two from Ord High On Tourney Team

Two Ord High varsity basketball players were voted to tournament teams at the close of the Holiday Tournament in Lincoln, December 30. Jane Goran, a 5th senior, was named to the first standing tournament team. Vickie Mason, a 5th junior, was tabbed to be on the second tournament team.

They and other tournament players were awarded the honors on the basis of balloting by coaches, sports writers and tournament directors at the close of the three-day event, December 30.

Other first team members included Liz Mannix of Lincoln High, Kerry Karst of Lincoln East, Nancy Thornton of Lincoln East, and Lisa Schnitker of Omaha Mercy.

Along with Vickie Mason, Anna James of Lincoln East was named to the second team.

formula throughout the rest of the game. The results speak for themselves.

"Overall," he told the Quiz Tuesday, "we had a great effort out of our ten varsity players. It was one of those nights when we played real well."

The opposite was true for the frustrated cagers from Sargent. Said Hurlbut of the Bulldog's efforts, "When the shots don't go down, it is tough."

Arcadia played good defense the entire evening, especially against Mitch Mosler. The 6'1" junior at Sargent High was kept to 9 points during the game. He usually averages 16-17.

Friday the Arcadia boys varsity goes to Merna. Saturday and at Scotia this Saturday.

Area Swine Day in Ord

Several current pork production problems will be discussed during the Area Swine Day. The one-day program, which will start at 10 a.m. and last until midafternoon, will be conducted January 25 at the Elks Club in Ord.

Highlighting the morning will be a report on the status of sulfite residues in hog production by Roger Gerrits, a staff scientist from the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Beltsville, Md.

Also, appearing during the morning session will be Dr. Alex Hogg, Extension veterinarian at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, who will give tips on containing pseudorabies. He will be followed by Dr. Bobby Moser, UNL Extension swine specialist, who will discuss high energy swine diets.

Following a dutch treat lunch, Dr. James DeShazer, UNL agriculture engineering professor, will present several options for energy savings in hog houses.

Proper care of hogs to insure profit will be the topic of the pork producer, Fred McGuire of Werner will speak at Ord.

Happy New Year!

Whether 1977 was a good year for us or not, it is now behind us and we have 12 fresh, new pages of 1978 in which to do the best we can. I sincerely hope it turns out to be a good year for everyone.

1977 had a hard act to follow. The whole country was all hepped up about the Bicentennial in 1976 when all kinds of exciting things were happening all over the country. By comparison 1977 was generally a "blah" type of year sort of like the Monday following an exciting weekend.

Some of us who were saddened by tragedies that came into our lives in 1977 are glad to see it go and are hoping for a better year in 1978.

It seems that more and more people are beginning to burn wood to supplement their modern heating plants. This is good because it will save the people some money and will help to get rid of some of the dry trees all over the countryside, greatly improving the scenery. Of course, it will take a lot of savings people make to pay for those new wood burning stoves. The stove manufacturers are really making hay with this movement back to burning wood.

When I was a kid, all the heat we had in our house was from the old Miskos (brand name) kitchen range and a fairly large "German Heater" heating stove in the dining room. The German Heater was sort of a fancy looking stove in those days and it sure put out some good heat. On very cold days there was nothing more pleasant than to sit up close to that old stove. When I was quite small I remember the many times my mother put a blanket on the floor for me next to the heating stove. I can still remember how cozy it was.

Our house wasn't what you would call a warm house. I don't think any of those old time houses were and when the fire went out during the night it was really frigid in there. Many mornings I'd wake up to the sounds of my parents rattling the grates in the stoves while getting the fires started. That was usually about a half an hour before they would start calling for us kids to get up.

The last time I saw a German Heater was a few years ago when I was in the back room in Misko's sport shop. It was set up in the room where the Miskos used to work on harness in the old days. Maybe it is still back there. Some day I'll have to ask permission to go back there and take another look at it.

Explorer Post Is Rechartered

The Explorer Post 178 in Ord was rechartered in ceremonies held Thursday night at City Hall. Chris Larson, Overland Trails Council scout official presided at the annual event.

Post 178 has law enforcement and criminal justice as its vocational theme. Around 12 members are exploring these possibilities under the guidance of Ord lawyer J. Marvin Weems, Nebraska State Patrol member Jerry Schmitt, and Ord Police Chief John Young.

Formed one year ago, the Explorer Post is taking part in a program designed to give interested scouts a chance to select a possible vocation and with the help of adult leaders, explore career possibilities in a given area.

Lower Loup Reviews Anselmo Flood Problem

Members of the Lower Loup Natural Resources District reviewed the Anselmo flooding problem during their meeting December 13 at their Ord office. John Grelser appeared on behalf of the Village of Anselmo. Grelser provided the Board with some first-hand knowledge of the flooding problem involved with the village. Since the District Engineer was unavailable, Beran presented those in attendance with a progress report on surveys and engineering design on the Anselmo drain. He reported that contact has been made with the State Highway Department concerning problems that might be involved with the highway right-of-way.

The Board reviewed a report from the Habitat Committee on recommendations for contracts that have been acted on by that committee. The Habitat Committee recommended that existing WHIP contracts be honored in the new Private Lands Habitat Program. The committee recommended that those applications pending with fences under construction also be included, and that applications from Margaret Aydelotte, Marshall J. Woodard, William Cook, Joe Krum, C.T. Papernik, Emanuel Petruski, Emanuel Vodenhaj, and Enus Zukoski be approved for contracts under the Private Lands Habitat Program.

Three applications were refused because of a producer's request for withdrawal and because the included acreage did not meet the Game and Parks Commission requirements.

The final inspection on the Oconee Bend project in Platte County was reviewed by the Board and approved for final payment of the contract. Beran reported that 8 directors were in attendance at the final inspection along with representatives from Platte County Board of Supervisors.

The Board reviewed State Association proposed policy statements to be acted on at the joint conference between Nebraska Water Resources Association, Nebraska Association of Resources Districts, and the State Irrigation Association in January. The Board appointed L. J. Garrison as delegate and Frank Bartak as alternate for balloting purposes at the annual conference.

The Board accepted and instructed the voting delegation from the Lower Loup NRD to vote in favor of all of the proposed policy statements except Number 5 which calls for a support of legislation to increase the mill levy authorized for NRDs, and Number 15 which calls for the importation of water from one basin to another.

The joint conference was discussed in detail and directors were informed that material would be coming from the State Association concerning the conference program.

The Board discussed Lower Loup NRD policy on the reporting procedure for the Hot-Line Irrigation Scheduling Program to be carried on during the next irrigation season.

Howard Paulsen, Liaison D.C. reported on SCS activities throughout the District.

The Board motioned to approve all plans and agreements and to adjourn until January 10, 1978.

Lisa and Karen Zigmund spent a few days last week with their grandmother, Clara Wells. Mrs. Lydia Zigmund was a visitor on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Osentowski were Friday visitors of Josie Osentowski. Rose Visek was a dinner guest on Sunday.

A Christmas tree grower sought a sugar plum from the IRS.

Selling standing timber can produce earnings that are treated as capital gains, and thus taxed less than ordinary income. "Does a fell-it-yourself Christmas tree business get the capital gains goody?" a grower asked the IRS.

Yuletide customers came to the farm, picked a tree, cut it down themselves and paid for it. The IRS decided the buyers had not paid any interest in the trees until after they were cut down, so sales of cut, rather than standing, timber were involved. That meant the grower could not treat himself to the capital gains. But, the ruling did not leave him entirely out on a limb.

He might qualify for another tax break that lets tree owners, in effect, treat a part of profits as capital gains. The IRS suggested.

Why Can't Johnny's Teacher Read?

For two decades since Flesch published his book "Why Can't Johnny Read?", Americans have been wondering why. One reason may be that Johnny's teacher can't read, according to a study in the November issue of the Journal of Reading. In fact, the teacher group tested in the 4½ year research project read slower and with less understanding than the average student entering college.

The university researchers who conducted the study say that while none of the teachers tested would be considered "illiterate," many . . . demonstrated a wide range of deficiencies . . . in their reading abilities.

Here are how 348 teachers scored on a standardized reading test (Cooperative English Reading Test) compared to the college freshman population that served as a basis for establishing the test's norms:

28 percent of the teachers scored lower in vocabulary than did half of the college freshmen.

49 percent of the teachers did less well in comprehension than half of the first-year students.

56 percent of the teachers read slower and with less understanding than the freshman norm.

Concluded the researchers, "It would appear that some teacher's reading skills may be deficient enough to warrant justifiable concern. Teachers who find . . . reading difficult, boring, or confusing . . . may not give proper emphasis and attention, they say."

The study was conducted by Lance M. Gentile, a reading expert at the Pan-American University in Edinburg, Texas and Merita McMillan, now director of mental health services at the San Luis Obispo, (CA) Mental Health Clinic.

Teachers tested in the study were graduate students whose major responsibilities included teaching reading in elementary, intermediate or secondary schools.

They had received undergraduate instruction from 62 colleges and universities across the country.

Something Different

Can You Leave Ord?

Often I've noticed that one cannot leave Ord. Why? What does Ord have that fascinates so many?

I don't know. But residents do return — to visit, often — or to live.

Now I'm one of those who seems to have trouble leaving Valley County — and Ord. We like California, some parts of it in particular. Yet our ties draw us back to our Nebraska home. Not simply business, but our relatives and friends.

There isn't any doubt but that Nebraskans provide a special quality or friendship, a durable comfortable friendship. Nothing is too much trouble for a Nebraskan to do for another.

Not just bringing over chicken soup as my mother often provided for a sick neighbor, killing a hen and going through the whole performance.

Not simply helping me across an ice-coated Ord crossing as Walt Smith did last week, making a special trip to the middle of the street to assist me back to the curb he'd just left. It was treacherous and I was glad for his help. Typical Ord treatment.

Nor the extra busy neighbors who insisted we share their lovely cooking: Ted and Kay Leggett and her delicious chicken Kiev. John and Clara Kokes and her "light lunch" consisting of delicious duck, homemade kraut, homegrown corn, all the other goodies of the season.

Rosalie Leggett, busy working girl, who took time to fix turkey, the best dressing ever (she puts walnuts in it!) pumpkin pie, so many delicacies. And the tapes from Kip and to Kip in Japan that she arranged.

So many people, Helen Cronk's wonderfully good sweet and sour pork. The hospitality of Frances McCall, ever friend. The visits with Katie Darges, all too brief: Flora Anderson the same.

The fine visit with my sister, her husband the retired Dr. Wilcox of Grand Island, their children, Dr. Bill the radiologist from Norfolk, Va., their daughters Mrs. Cary Stiff of Idaho Springs, Colo., she and her husband the expert newspaper people who have won so many awards; and their five sprouting little grandchildren.

Kathy and Mike Sullivan in Lincoln and their adorable precocious baby girl Jill. Not to mention the good ham, my favorite scalloped potatoes, pumpkin pie that is John's favorite.

Also a brief visit with granddaughter Kay Marie Leggett there.

My favorite cocktail mix of spicy cereals from Carol and Kerry Leggett, plus candy, cookies, a book (my favorite Christmas gift to give or get). Lucky us, six new books this Christmas!

A delightful stop with an oldtime newspaper gal in Ogallala. We could have chattered for a week steady. But we settled for a happy overnight visit. I do like western Nebraska and those open spaces even today. I get a bit of claustrophobia from the hills and trees of Valley county although I love them. Seeing the horizon sets me free.

But — so does sitting beside the ocean watching the surf. We are now headed for there but we won't forget Nebraska. Nor Ord.

We wear your Nebraska license on our car; we plan to vote there; we read your papers; we pay taxes there. Just can't get Ord out of our blood!

And so we wish you the best of years, the jolliest of holidays, and send you our love.

Perennial Issues Get Top Billing

CAPITOL NEWS

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent

LINCOLN — The 1978 Legislature is off and running and the expectation is that the perennial issues of taxation, spending, school aid and water legislation will again play a prominent part in the senatorial deliberations.

Add the fact that this is an election year, and the ingredients for an interesting session are present.

If all the incumbents sought re-election, half of the unicameral members would seek another term in this year's elections. But some of the veteran legislators have already said this will be the last time around the track for them. And some others are wavering.

Even so, legislative debate colored by political overtones can be expected because some of the lawmakers will seek to extend their service and some very probably will shoot for different elective offices.

Several of the oldtimers have said the $400 monthly salary is the primary reason they chose not to be candidates again. These include Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln, who says he cannot afford to serve any longer, and Speaker Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, who says simply: "Twelve years is long enough." He added no senator, unless he is comfortably rich, can afford to extend his stay in the unicameral, especially during an inflationary period.

Sen. Richard Lewis of Brookside says he'll forego another term because of the financial liability, and Sen. John Savage of Omaha feels the same way.

Senators who live in Lincoln receive per expenses for the session. Those who live outside the Capital City are paid for one round-trip annually at the rate of 16 cents a mile.

One senator who had been rumored as a potential candidate for lieutenant governor, Congress or the U.S. Senate said last week he will try for a second 4-year term in the Legislature.

Sen. Donald Dworak of Columbus made the announcement during press conferences in his hometown and in his Capitol office.

He told reporters he is convinced he can "more effectively work for the best interests of all Nebraska taxpayers in a nonpartisan role."

One of the most vocal conservatives in the unicameral, Dworak said a stop must be made "to government's insatiable appetite for more and more of their (the people's) hard-earned dollars."

He said he will conduct a nonpolitical, bipartisan poll among 2,000 to 3,000 taxpayers to determine how they feel about several options he will offer to them.

The Columbus legislator said his plan of action centers around one or possibly two amendments to the Nebraska Constitution, which would limit spending and higher taxes. And he said the plan would necessitate another petition drive to place the proposed constitutional change to a vote in next November's election.

Dworak was a leader in the petition campaign that suspended the 1977 state aid to schools law, pending a vote by the people in the 1978 general election.

Taxpayers, according to Dworak, have only two choices left — either take the initiative and assert themselves by relegating government to its proper role of "servant" or allow government to become a bigger and bigger "bully."

May Be Candidate

A North Platte livestock producer and auctioneer has expressed keen interest in becoming a Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate.

He is Jim Baldridge, who described himself as "an agriculturist, who understands both the problems of agriculture and the potential of agriculture."

If elected, Baldridge said, "I would hope to represent the people who produce agricultural goods and the people who consume food."

His candidacy would mark his entrance into elective politics, although he has assisted in the campaigns of Sen. Carl Curtis and Rep. Virginia Smith.

Baldridge indicated he would not shy from a showdown with Gov. J. James Exon for the senatorial seat. Exon is expected to have no difficulty in getting his Democratic nomination.

Even though the governor claims to represent agriculture, "I doubt his qualifications to do so," said Baldridge, who added the Senate needs someone who earns his living from agriculture.

While attempting to explain how he would serve, the North Platte man said he would like to represent the state in Washington like Mrs. Smith represents the 3rd Congressional District. He said the congresswoman has time to talk with everyone and to represent everyone.

Gasahol Studied

A Manhattan, Kansas, company has contracted to make the much talked about Gasahol economic feasibility study.

Development Planning and Research Associates, Inc., was selected from 16 applicants for the job and was directed to complete its work and issue a final report before next July 1.

The $53,395 for the study will be provided by the U.S. Department of Energy and the Old West Regional Commission.

During recent months, there has been considerable debate about the economic feasibility of Gasahol.

The editor stares in horror, Then he grabs his hair and groans The copyreader drops his head Upon his hand and moans.

The remainder of the issue May be clean as clean can be But the typographical error Is the only thing you see.

The state has estimated the exemptions would cost about $53 million for this fiscal year, but State Tax Commissioner William Peters said a number of factors, including more aggressive action by assessors, has moved the cost to more than $61 million.

Peters and Governor Exon said they have little choice under the law except to add the additional funds to the current budget in a deficiency appropriations measure during this legislative session.

More Probation Officers

A special committee studying the state's corrections improvement program has recommended the hiring of more probation officers to handle specialized cases. The committee, which had been asked to review community-based correctional programs proposed a three-year plan to the unicameral Appropriation Committee.

Acting Legislative Clerk Patrick O'Donnell, the study committee's staff assistant, noted the suggestion to hire the additional officers is an "expensive proposition."

But he said if they are not hired, "we're talking about keeping about 160 people at the penitentiary at a significant cost to the state."

Sen. Gerald Koch of Ralston, chairman of the committee, said if the state cannot hire as many as 16 new officers, one for each probation district, it should employ as many as possible and the state probation officer should be allowed to locate them in areas where they could do the most good.

With this feeling of "time flying" comes a sense of urgency. I find myself with more and more I want to do, conflicting with the feeling I've less and less time to do those many things.

Each passing year finds me looking back at trips I'd intended to make and friends I'd intended to visit. Each new year finds me renewing those intentions, saying to myself, "This is the year."

Somehow, I know, inside, this year will be like the others except that time will seem to fly by even more rapidly. And in the meantime, I'll hassle myself with the passage of time and my good intentions until I

— time —
The passage of time seems to speed up as we grow older — something I have felt, but never understood.

Recently I read a simple explanation of this "feeling" that I'd like to share with you at the beginning of this New Year: "Lord, slow me down. Ease the pounding of my heart, by quieting my mind. Steady my hurried pace. Give me, in the confusion of my day, the calmness of the everlasting hills. Break the tension of my nerves and muscles."

"Help me to know the magical, restoring power of sleep. Teach me to take a minute vacation by slowing down to look at a flower, a cloud, to chat with a friend, to pat a dog, to read a few lines from a good book. Remind me that the race is not always to the swift; that there is more to life than increasing in speed."

"Let me look upward into the branches of the towering oak and know that it grew great and strong because it grew slowly and well."

"Lord, slow me down . . . inspire me to send my roots deep into the soil of life's enduring values that I may grow toward the stars of my great destiny."

Cotesfield News

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The rancher from Garfield County, what didn't want me to mention his name reminded the fellers Saturday night that one of their New Year rules is to start out putting the accent on the positive and to work up if we can, down if we have to. He said all ups and no downs is going to be a taller order than usual for farmers and ranchers, seeing the fix they're in. He said he had been flogging the protests and tractorades, and he got the message that it ain't easy to come up with a lot of clear money when the selling price is lower than the growing price.

Still, he said, the idea is to think of a half full glass instead of a half empty one. When you see pictures of hundreds of them $40,000 tractors with closed cabs and stereos, and you think of the price of fuel and how far they come to show the sad state of agriculture, you can't help seeing the positive side. If farmers in this country is going to the poor house they're going in style, and there is fewer of them to go broke, he said, based on this report he saw.

Last year, reported, 3.9 percent of this country's 214 million people lived on the farm, so it ain't hard to understand how politicians on the national level can't get all worked up over so few votes. But this means that ever farmer is feeding 26 Americans, and it don't take long to figure how long them 26 will last if one don't last.

General speaking, the fellers was agreed it's hard for the farmer to see much light at the end of his tunnel. Leon Woods had a clipper that showed the gap between what the consumer pays and the farmer gets is growing. Out of a $18 grocery bill today, Leon said, $5 finds its way back to the feller in the field. Add to that the growing cost of producing the food, he said, and you got the farmer squeezed from ever side. It appears that $1.5 million the U.S. Department of Agriculture is spending to help the farmer find ways to market direct instead of serving a $13 slice of ever $18 pie to somebody else will be money well spent, he said.

Practical speaking, Venard Colins said, farmers that were taking them soybean and wheat prices for granted four years ago ought to know better. Farming ain't like business, he said, and when you're in partnership with nature you don't have to think fast to realize who's runnin' givin' the show. It's one thing for farmers to let folks know they're hurting, he allowed, but it's another to demand price supports equal to costs, and a free market in the bargain. It just can't work both ways.

It was John Kokes that brought up other ways to accent the positive. John said he saw two news paper accounts of a plane crash

Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Leth were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Maxon Leth of Grand Island.

Mr. and Mrs. George Tatlow were Thursday coffee guests of Lilly and Mae Pearson.

Christmas supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Rasmussen were Mr. and Mrs. Gary Rasmussen and family of Farwell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rasmussen and family of Grand Island were Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jensen and Tanya were Christmas dinner guests of their father, Bill Zubrod in Grand Island. In the evening they were supper guests of Mrs. Roseann Zubrod.

Friday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Johnson arrived from Omaha and brought their mother, Ingerborg Leth to her home in St. Paul to visit Darrell Ingram in Grand Island. In the evening they were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Coulton and family of Rockville.

Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Walt Kuhn, Mrs. Betty Ingraham and Mrs. Vickie Ingram drove to St. Paul to visit Darrell Ingram in Grand Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Leth and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hansen and family were Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bolisen and family of Albion.

A couple of weeks back, it fell in the sea with $2 people in it. One headline said "Crash Claws 19," but the other one was "33 Saved in Jet Crash." That second one is half-full cup thinking. John allowed, and that's the kind we can use more of. Like reminding ourselves this winter's there's been no threat of a flu shot program, and never mind the flu.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

County Supervisors

Ord, Nebraska

December 27, 1977

The Valley County Board of Supervisors convened at 1:00 P.M. with all members in attendance. Minutes of December 13 were approved.

County Treasurer, Footh, presented a resolution to move to be adopted, seconded by Peterson and all members signed it. This was in regard to monies designated as in excess of 10% and recommended that such funds received on behalf of active townships be distributed to such active townships and those which received on behalf of inactive townships be distributed to the County Road Fund.

The chairman of the board signed a lease agreement between U.P. RR. and Terra Soil Dynamics on the delivery of lignite to the plant.

Discussion followed about the choice of financing the Nebraska Employment Security Law as to being a Community Action Program or a Private Employer. The County Attorney is going to research this further before the next meeting.

County Attorney opinions on Jail Tender minimum wages and a Sheriff vehicle were read and discussed.

Miscellaneous December reports from Extension Office; CTCC, Region 26 Civil Defense, Council of Government, and Community Health.

Meeting adjourned.

Dick Peterson was appointed to represent Valley

County with the Community Action

Planning program, seconded by Collins and all members signed.

Salaries for the 1978-82 term were discussed and Zanger moved that a base salary of $13,000.00 be established for the office of County Clerk, Treasurer, Assessor and Sheriff with $1,000.00 increase in 1980 and then negotiate cost of living after that for the remaining two years of the terms, and that full family health insurance be provided.

Klanceky moved the appointment of

Dick Peterson to represent Valley

County with the Community Action

Planning program, seconded by Collins and all members signed.

Meeting adjourned.

Bosser moved that the County Attorney salary be based at $12,000.00 with the same provisions as stated in the preceding motion and that the same as now ($3,600.00) but add the full insurance coverage, seconded by Zanger with Benda and Collins answering "yes". Peterson and Klanceky answering "yes" to roll call. This term commences January 1, 1978 and ends January 6, 1982.

This term the County Attorney, Kladecky, will be responsible for all legal expenses, machinery repairs and various items until 5:00 P.M. when they ad-

Darrel Smith Buys Ord Hardware; Parkos Family Owned Store 30 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Smith purchased the Ord Hardware Store from Mrs. Stacie Parkos recently. The new owners will supplement the regular merchandise line with jewelry, make-up, craft kits, and books.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith had owned the Chanticleer Drive In until it was sold to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Belgram recently.

The Ord Hardware Store had been in the Parkos family for the last 30 years. Stacie's late husband, Albert, purchased it from Francis and Ed Barret back in 1947. "That was 30 years ago last August," Mrs. Parkos fondly recalled.

Her husband was then just back from World War II and a stint in the U.S. Navy.

Taking a look around the store, Stacie remarked "There's been a hardware store here for a long time. Lou Kokes had it before Barret." As far as she knows the store has always been in the same location.

Back when she and Al first owned the store, businessmen could keep more of what they earned, in her estimation. "Taxes and inflation weren't so dog-gone high then," she explained.

In her opinion things were put together better back then - or at least they seemed to be. Stacie sounded a positive note when pointing out dishes are better packed now than they were back 30 years ago.

They have been a long-time regular item in the store inventory. So have solid built earthenware crocks. Still a popular item, they are used for everything from making sauerkraut to serving as flower pots. Customers have been known to purchase the sturdy containers and just keep them around the house as a conversation item.

"Coal or woodburning stoves, stove pipe, coal hods, and other similar items are now selling better than ever according to Stacie. Both she and the Smiths announced plans to take it easy awhile, "and maybe," she interjected, "clean house a bit."

In the estimation of her many customers she has earned some time off. After all, 30 years of tending shop is a long time.

Dr. Dale Karre Lists Activities Suggestions

Dr. Dale Karre, Ord School Board chairman, revealed his recommendations on the Ord Public Schools activity program in a press release given the Quiz Tuesday morning. Karre's suggestions include:

Limiting 7-8 grade sports to intra-mural matches except for allowing one or two intra-school games per season.

Limits other activities to one a week or whatever is reasonable and giving thought to already established conference rivalries or old traditional tournaments.

Trying to limit spring activities that take all day to Saturdays to keep from disrupting academics.

Having a public meeting on the activities program with ideas, both pro and con, and listening to constructive recommendations.

Refrain from adding any new activities.

Dr. Karre's second to the last suggestion will be fulfilled February 6 when board members, teachers, and other school personnel will meet with the public in the Ord High choir room. Starting at 7:30 p.m. the meeting will review the present activity schedule and seek suggestions on where the activity program should go from here.

Dr. Karre mentioned the public is encouraged to attend the session. Both students, teachers, and other interested persons are welcome to attend.

Chamber to Hear Bob Karolevitz

Bob Karolevitz, who will be the featured speaker at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet in Ord on January 22, 1978, is a writer-farmer who has won national and state awards for several of his 15 books.

Most notable is Where Your Heart Is, the biography of Dakotan-born artist Harvey Dunn, who was recipient of a coveted Wrangler statue presented by the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Heritage Center, Oklahoma City.

His latest book is Challenge: The South Dakota Story, a state Bicentennial project which earned him the Western Writers Award from the Center of Western Studies at Augustana College.

Karolevitz is a graduate of South Dakota State University, with a master's degree in journalism from the University of Oregon. A veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict, he returned to his native South Dakota after almost two decades as a freelance writer and public relations counsel on the West Coast.

He and his wife Phyllis now live on their farm near Mission Hill in Yankton County, where, as he puts it, "we raise corn, soybeans, alfalfa and the neighbors' eyebrows." The latter statement is from another of his books, Everything's Green But My Thumb, a rib-tickling account of a city slicker's move to the country.

Alcohol, by most indications, is still the drug of choice for most.

Information coming to our office during 1977 indicates that everyone in the group that had previously used other drugs, alcohol may be the drug they use most.

Street talk hints that supplies may be tight causing a price hike on drugs such as marijuana. This may be responsible for the turn away from these drugs and toward alcohol as has been indicated.

By no means are we saying that drug use is no longer a problem, it is still with us.

Alcohol abuse can be just as much a problem and it has been a problem throughout history.

Any law enforcement agency can tell you that alcohol plays a role in many crimes they deal with, ranging from family disturbances to traffic offenses. There are programs available to help those with alcohol related problems, but law enforcement people are really not in a position to place people in the programs. Even the courts can most times only give the offender a choice between conventional punishment and rehabilitation in some type of program. Alcohol is a legal drug and basically a socially accepted drug and will most likely continue so. It is suggested that children can best be influenced by the parent when it comes to the non-use or usage in moderation of the drug alcohol.

As law enforcement officers, we can provide assistance in the educational process, but mostly we are limited to spotting the alcohol offender and enforcing the laws established by the people of the state.

Colorful Pioneer History Recalled

Talk to Mrs. Allen Edwards and you get a picture of early Nebraska history. Her memories and family history include ancestors building railroads, joining wagon trains headed west, helping construct early-day mills here in the Valley, and helping a then-young frontier develop and grow.

Typical was her great grandfather, Andrew Gillespie. An early photograph shows Andrew and his family celebrating his 100th birthday back in June of 1904 at his Scotia home.

Mrs. Edwards recalled he delivered mail on a route that stretched from St. Paul up past Fort Hartsuff. He covered the distance on horseback.

A relative of Andrew's, Alfonzo Story, helped build a feed mill across the river from the Chalk Mines near Scotia. Water from the North Loup River turned a mill wheel powering that early industry.

Mrs. Edwards could recall visiting the mill around 1908 or 1910.

Samuel Gillespie, one of Andrew's sons, went to Arizona to help build a railroad. It is believed he died there. "No one really knows," Mrs. Edwards explained, "because so much has been forgotten."

Another of Andrew's sons, Robert, joined a wagon train of Mormons passing through Nebraska. On arriving in Utah, he joined their church.

One colorful family story has it that he was a member of an outlaw gang. Raids on gold shipments from Nevada, Arizona and other western states produced money split between gang members and the Mormon church.

A request by gang members for a bigger cut of the loot allegedly produced a tip-off to authorities on a planned raid. Robert never returned.

Just where or when it happened is not known.

Mrs. Edwards took pains to point out this was just a family story, and not an incident verified by any account. Like many early day happenings in the west, little now exists but a legend.

Early records have been misplaced or forgotten, witnesses are long gone, and most diaries or other documents have crumbled into useless shreds. All that is left is a legend or a repeated tale that may or may not be true.

The one sure thing is that Andrew and his descendants helped forge a nation and left us a legacy of a once untamed frontier.

Card of Thanks

The family of Joe Holzinger wishes to take this time to thank our many relatives and friends for the concern and help given for the past 4 months. Thank you to the Ord Rescue Unit for the transportation at the time needed on August 29, 1977, the Ord Hospital, nurses and Dr. Markley, the Mary Lanning Hospital and staff in Hastings, the University Hospital and staff in Omaha who greatly appreciated.

Upon returning to the Ord Hospital to be close to his family and friends — the family now wishes to thank everyone who called at the hospital, sent cards and food and donations during his long illness. The C wing of the Ord Hospital will forever be appreciated for care given and a very special thank you to Mrs. Rudolph Vothman at the time of his death. The family wishes to thank Rev. Reed and the Methodist Circles for the kind words and services given, also thanks to the pallbearers, honorary bearers, Shirley Karre, Eldon Mulligan, the Ord Memorial Chapel, and a very special thank you to Hilding Pearson for his special help with the family. A special thank you to the Sand Flat community and all the relatives and friends that sent flowers, food and donations, to the Cancer fund.

God bless each and everyone.

Mrs. Frances Holzinger and Sons and Families

Huskies Whip Chants 66-41

By Deb Osentowski

Saturday, Jan. 7, the Chants traveled to play pre-season Central-Ten favorite Aurora.

Going into the game, the Chanticleers and the Huskies had two things in common. The night before Aurora lost to a Class C team, which Ord has done and both have lost to a Class B school.

The attitude of the Chant team was not over-confident nor under-confident.

"We knew they were a tough ball club, but on any given night any team can beat any other team," Coach Denney said.

Unfortunately the night was long as the Chants were totally downed 66-41.

Aurora had big leads throughout the game. Things just didn't go right from the very first quarter. A 20-39 Huskie lead was evident by the partisan Aurora crowd at half time.

Second half action was the same type of play, as the Chants were unable to gain any ground.

At the end of the third quarter Aurora was ahead by a 30-51 then got pinned.

— 105 pound class, Quinten Moyer was decisioned 23 and then won 32.

— 112 pound class, Don Proskocil won 7-0 and was then pinned.

— 119 pound class, Kevin Hruza was decisioned 2-9 and then pinned.

— 127 pound class, Byron Stevens was pinned and then won 11-1.

— 134 pound class, Jeff Moyer won 2-0. He hurt his chin and didn't have a second match.

— 145 pound class, Kevin Sich lost 6-1 and then won 4-2.

— 155 pound class, John Kapustka lost 0-4 and was then pinned.

In the heavy weight division Rock Gillispie was pinned twice.

There were no team scores, just individual competition.

Ainsworth Tops Ninth Grade Girls

The Ord ninth grade girls bowed to host Ainsworth Monday 45-22. A few girls qualifying as freshman players but playing on the varsity squad were instrumental in the home team's win.

The first half the Ord underclassmen handled the ball reasonably well and ran their zone offense in good shape. Ainsworth pressed the second quarter, but the Ord girls took in stride.

Going into the second half Ainsworth applied more pressure and the Chant underclassmen started having problems.

Defensively, Ainsworth had a great many fast breaks against Ord in the fourth quarter. In the opinion of coach Jan Weber these combined with the advanced players accounted for the win.

The first quarter Anne Smith was the leading scorer with 10 points. Rhodes revealed the Chants have a new defense designed to give Smith an advantage. He declined to elaborate on that point.

In the second quarter Nancy Gogan had six points and was praised by Rhodes for doing a good job. She and others helped boost Ord to a 22-10 half time lead.

The girls next play Thursday at Albion.

ON THE MERRY-GO-ROUND . . . He runs around like a chicken with its head cut off.

The description is appropriate. Many of us rush frantically believing that if we move at a terrific pace we can do more, get more accomplished.

Such people have been categorized as exhibiting "Type A Behavior". Are you in that category? Do any of these signs seem familiar?

Being impatient with everything from waiting in line or reading a book to getting dressed in the morning.

Walking and talking too fast and rushing through meals.

Having guilt feelings about resting or just loafing.

Trying to do two or more things at once.

Not listening to a friend if the topic is not considered important.

Believing that life means acquiring things rather than becoming something.

Scheduling too many activities and being forever pressed for time.

All these are designed to keep people from being calm. The result is less accomplishment and more strain as he or she makes life a merry-go-round race that is hardly merry and rarely productive . . . for merry-go-rounds usually stop near where they start.

COFFEE CUP PHILOSOPHY: Don't wish for more than you are willing to work for.

Ord Lady Chants Upset Loup City

Host Ord Lady Chants gained an easy 52-24 victory over Loup City last Tuesday evening. Ord was ahead 14-7 at the end of the first quarter and then gradually increased their lead.

A mix of man-to-man and zone defenses frustrated Red Raider scoring attempts. The visitors hit their high water mark in the first period with 7 points. Three baskets and one charity shot gained them the score. After that, Ord held them to six points in each of the next two quarters, and five points in the fourth.

The lone charity shot was by Placek.

Coach Max Murray credited Jane Gogan, Wynn Adams, and Vickie Mason with playing a good game. Gogan was leading scorer in the first two quarters with six points in each. Mason was top shooter in the third with six points of her own.

Barb Kittle was singled out as a player having lots of potential. Said Murray, "If she continues to develop like she has recently, Barb will be a big help in the next few weeks and in future seasons."

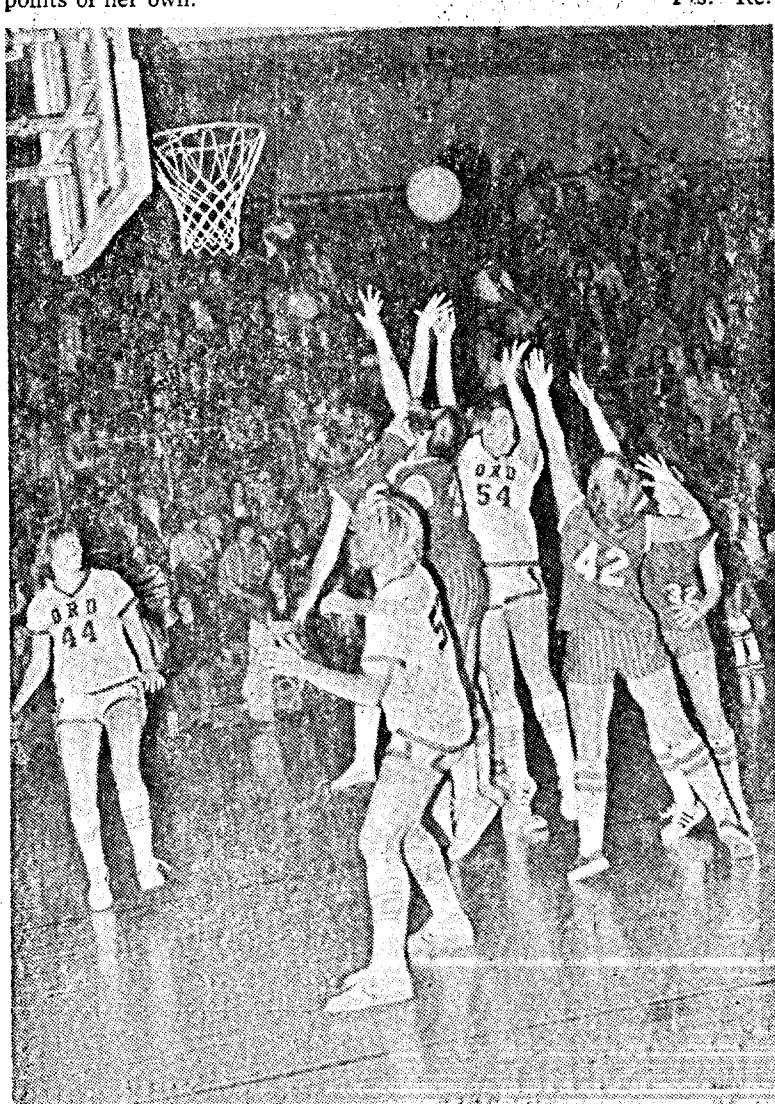

A 5'10" sophomore, Kittle will likely be returning to the varsity squad next year.

While the game against Loup City may not have been close Murray predicted a more challenging match this Thursday at Albion. The host team there has defeated both York and Ord in past games, and both teams by 12 points. Other Albion victims included Central City.

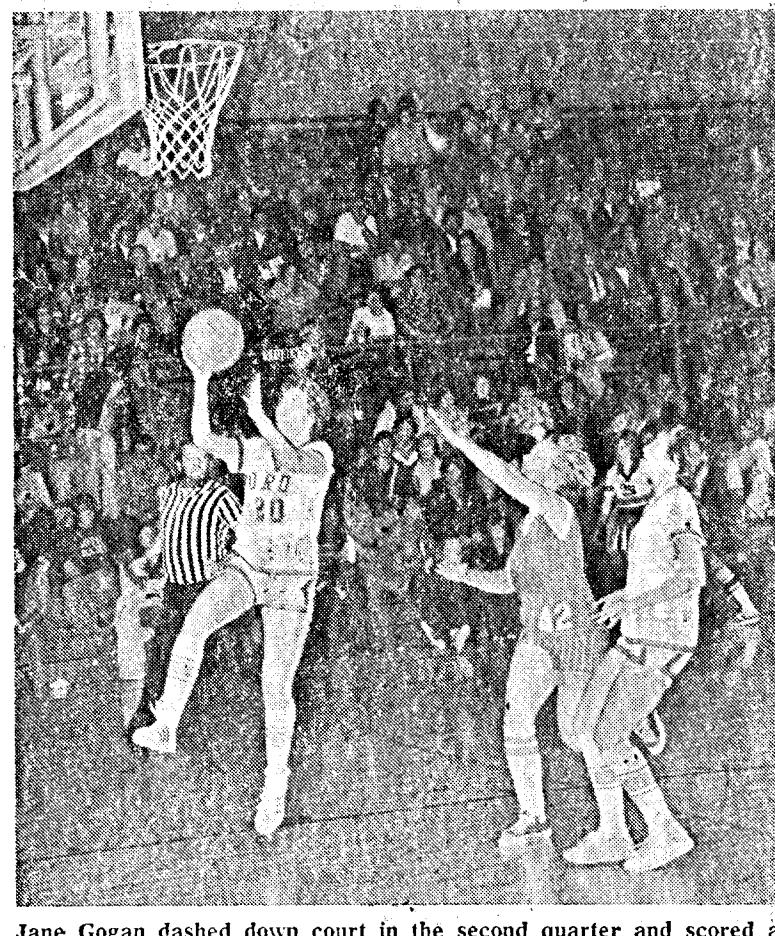

Murray speculated the Thursday game will be anything but easy.

LADY CHANTS MAKE TOP TEN RATINGS

Chuck Sinclair, prep sportswriter for the Lincoln Journal Star, rated the Ord Lady Chants number six in his state-wide class B listings. The girl basketball players have a 6-2 record as of Tuesday with losses to York and Lincoln East.

The World Herald failed to list Ord in their top 10 Class B girls' teams. However, an article with their ratings release did mention Ord's 6-2 record and labeled the Lady Chants a possible contender for future ratings.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Baldwin and sons were Sunday afternoon and supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gregory and Scott.

D.U. Dinner Date Schedule Is Told

The annual Ducks Unlimited dinner date, 1978, is scheduled for January 28 in the Elyria Parish Hall. A social hour will run from 6:00 to 7:00 p.m. with dinner starting at 7:00 p.m.

Following the dinner items including guns, paintings, and other artifacts will be auctioned off. Proceeds go to the Ducks Unlimited International organization.

Ducks Unlimited is a group of conservationists concerned about preserving wild life in the United States and Canada.

The score was 58-56 when the 5'11" junior was fouled by Warrior Randy Esterling. Calling two back-to-back timeouts, Schuyler coach, Dana Trofholz, gave Dworak two minutes to think about the free throws. Stepping to the charity stripe, Joe calmly pushed both tosses in for a four point advantage. Chant Coach, Doyle Denney said these free throws were crucial. At the time, the Warriors were gaining momentum.

Coming from a 35-25 deficit at the half, Schuyler closed the gap to 44-41 at the end of the third quarter.

The fourth period of play was when Schuyler made a challenge to take the lead. Ord held off the fighting Warriors with key free throws and crucial baskets.

Comparing first and second halves, the Chants led all the way. At one point the Chants held 15 and 13 point advantages, which were evident during the end of the first quarter 22-7 and end of second quarter 38-25.

"We adjusted well to the different defenses Schuyler showed the first half," Coach Denney said, "but unfortunately in the second half we had trouble adjusting."

Turnovers were a problem both teams faced. The total number of turnovers was 70, with the Chants' tally of 38 and Schuyler 32.

Coach Denney cited Schuyler's pass defense for causing a considerable amount of the Chants' turnovers in the second half.

Ord's success was in taking high percentage shots which in turn led to a good average hitting 45 of 51 from the field. On the other side of the floor, the Chants did an outstanding job on defense. Coach Denney credited these two factors for the 62-57 victory.

Chant players having an outstanding night as listed by Coach Denney included Jeff Welniak with a "super" game offensively as well as defensively. Jeff held Dennis Oliver to just five points.

"When holding a player to so few points who is averaging 19.3 points a game, he certainly did a super job," Denney said.

Last year Berglund announced he would do all possible to see that no farmer was forced to abandon his land. As part of this decision, Berglund announced the Farmers Home Administration wouldn't foreclose on any loans.

Scheideler, in a Quiz interview Friday, said the new NFO plan was an attempt to bypass red tape and not a plot to take what he called "pot shots" at local lending institutions.

Details of the plan are still pending according to Scheideler. The new program was launched in a hurry because, in his words, "There has got to be something done in the next 30 to 60 days if we are going to help some of these people."

Interested persons may contact NFO Credit Committee members. They are Gene Novotny, Jim Zikmund, Floyd Javanski, Jim Holmes, or Marvin Scheideler.

During the meeting officers for the coming year were elected. They are: President, Gary Nelson; Vice President, Gene Vodehnal; Secretary, Mrs. Adrian Kušek; Treasurer, Charles Zangerl; Publicity Chairman, Robert Meese. Named women's co-ordinator was Vestra Huffman. New membership chairman is Dean Peterson.

Ronald Paider, a technician at Wortman Motor Company in Aurora, was one of 34 district winners in Ford Parts and Service Division's annual Certified Training Program. He received his framed certificate from Stephen Geoffrey, manager, Service Engineering Office, at the regional and national finals, held in October in Dearborn, MI. In addition to the certificate, Paider was awarded $350 for 2nd place in his Region, and a custom-designed ring. Wortman Motor Company also received a showroom plaque commemorating Paider's achievement. The competition involved nearly 40,000 auto technicians employed by Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers across the country.

Ord Police List Two Car Mishaps

Ord Police listed two fender benders in this week's police report.

The first of these occurred January 2 at the 17th and N Streets intersection. Myrtle Withervax was headed east on N Street in a 1967 Ford and Morry Hoppes was driving south on 17th Street in a 1966 Plymouth when the accident occurred.

As citizenship chairperson, Mrs. Orel Koelling will be coordinating county activities and efforts to involve Nebraskans in the legislative process.

The "Impact '78" program is being undertaken by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Cooperative Extension Service and has been named a statewide effort for the 1978 Nebraska Council of Home Extension Clubs.

The program will include workshops, tours and special learning activities throughout the coming year to increase citizen education and effectiveness at the local, state and federal government levels.

Specific efforts will range from workshops on how to write an effective letter to a representative to a "Leap on Lincoln" program this winter which will take Nebraskans from across the state to Lincoln to talk with their senators and discover first-hand how the legislative process works.

homes and businesses in Ord must have a building permit. Until recently, enforcement of the permit regulation was allegedly somewhat casual.

Recently this attitude has changed.

During the meeting of the City Council Monday night, the city dads recommended issuance of a beer license to the Ord Bowl at 1314 N Street. Their recommendation will be forwarded to the State Liquor Control Commission for further action.

Don Goodsell recently acquired the business from Mr. and Mrs. Kroeger.

In other business, the council granted a plumbers license to Thomas Hehike of the T and J Heating and Cooling of Ord.

Other licenses issued included refuse collectors licenses to Dale Manchester and Charles Teasley of Ord. The two men own and operate a garbage hauling businesses here. On a related subject the council discussed littering they had observed around town by various individuals.

City Street Commissioner Emil Penas discussed one and six year street improvements programs. No official action was taken on the case. However, the plans will be published in the legal section of the January 26 Ord Quiz, according to City Clerk Wilma Kroeger.

A public hearing on the plans has been scheduled for February 6 at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall.

Ladies representing the Golden Horizons senior citizens club received permission to use the old mortuary just north of City Hall for their meetings. The city will grant them permission on a monthly basis.

The club had been meeting in the Methodist Educational Building. That structure was recently purchased by Don Sears for his Auto Parts.

Other organizations given permission to use the city-owned property include the Methodist Youth Fellowship club.

The council decided to put a notice in the Quiz that all additions or improvements on the property will be reported to the city fathers.

The programs, sponsored by UNL's animal, science department and the state and Valley County Cooperative Extension Services, are being planned in cooperation with the Mid-State Pork Producers Associations.

The meetings are free and open to all interested swine producers and their spouses.

Crops, Livestock Inseparable

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M. M. Van Kirk, Director of Information

Of Nebraska's $3.9 billion in cash receipts from farm marketing in 1976, 57 per cent ($2.2 billion) came from marketing of livestock and livestock products with $1.6 billion or 43 per cent coming from cash receipts from crop production.

The figures serve to illustrate the importance of the livestock industry in Nebraska and the need to preserve its good economic health. Crop and livestock production in the nation as well as Nebraska are dependent upon each other and cannot be separated.

Most Nebraska farmers integrate their crop production with livestock and it has been proved to many farmers over a period of years that versatility is to be desired. It is the reason that a general operation over the long pull is more likely to survive than the specialist who has only one option.

In Western Nebraska, wheat and cattle production usually go together. In the major crop producing areas of the state, the farmer-feeder who produces his own grains, his own hogs, and at least part of his feedlot cattle has less risk and more options than the feedlot operator who must buy most of his grain and other feed and all of his feeder livestock.

If feed grain production is large and supplies plentiful, ranchers anticipate that there will be an increased demand for feeder cattle as more feed grain producers will seek to market their grain through livestock. This normally firms the price of feeder cattle. Increased placements of cattle in feedlots in Nebraska this fall reflect this. Feedlot operators undoubtedly based the price of what they paid for their replacements on prospects for plentiful grain supplies at relatively stable prices.

In 1974 and 1975 when drought reduced feed grain supplies and prices were at high levels, feedlot numbers in the state were greatly reduced. Livestock producers and feeders generally were losing money, big chunks of it. Cattle feeders have been operating on extremely tight margins ever since the big break in cattle prices in early 1974.

Farmers and ranchers know these things instinctively but non-farmers don't. Non-farmers are very much confused with the present demands of some farmers for "100 per cent of parity." They are generally sympathetic to the farmers' economic problems but they do not understand the intricacies of it. They probably would not grasp the whole story even if it were told to them, which it is not.

If it were possible by political pressure to raise the price of corn overnight by $1 to $1.50 per bushel for example, it would mean that most cattle and hog producers would be in an immediate loss position on whatever they had in the process of production... particularly if they were buying their livestock and their feed. Probably every dairy would go into a loss position on its milk production. The same thing would be true for broiler and egg producers, also dependent on feed purchases.

Farm commodity prices are too low and costs of production too high and the economic health of agriculture is not good and that is a point of general agreement. But the answer does not lie some simplistic government price edict that would give temporary relief to cash grain farmers and cripple or kill the livestock industry.

Farming is a business that must make a profit... all segments of it. If it is not a job in a steel mill or on an assembly line or behind a desk. To believe otherwise is to court complete disaster for everybody.

Glancing Back
By Elmer Lukash

About this time of the year back in horse farming days the farmers would examine their harness to see what needed to be done to get it all in shape for spring farm work.

Since every farm family used from 4 to 8 or more horses there was usually quite a bit of harness repair work to be done. If there was major repair work to be done the harness was usually taken to one of about 3 harness shops in town to mend it, oil it and otherwise put it in nearly new condition.

One winter a man named Joe Kopta (a relative of the Maruska family) made the rounds in our neighborhood and repaired harness. He worked at our place for a few days. I was quite young at that time but I remember that they fixed up a room for him to work in and set up a Topsy stove to keep the place warm.

Today we seldom see a team of horses in harness except in a parade or something like that.

I'll bet there aren't too many men in Valley County under 50 who know how to harness up a team of horses. Most of them wouldn't know which end of the horse the breeching fits.

It is about 25 years since I last harnessed a team of horses. I think I could still do it, though.

When I was a little kid I used to like to see the patent medicine men come. At first they used to drive horse hitched to an enclosed spring wagon. Later they drove cars and could cover more ground but sometimes when it rained and they were caught on those old muddy roads I'll bet they wished for their old horse and buggy.

We kids would usually stand around, fascinated by all of the different things those people had packed in their one or 2 sample cases.

My mother would usually buy a few things from these peddlers. One of the remedies that she never let herself run out of was a tonic called "Pain Relief". This was sold by the S. F. Baker salesman and evidently was good for what ailed you. It was a pretty good remedy for stomach ache and whatever else. It had a real hot taste to it and sometimes I wouldn't admit I had a bellyache just to escape having to take that Pain Relief.

There were the Bakers man, the Winkman and later Rawleigh's man on the road. The first Rawleigh man I remember was Ormsby Petty. He drove around in a big old Studebaker car. Usually my mother bought a bar of sweet chocolate or some other treat for us kids when those peddlers made their monthly stop. Maybe that is one reason why I was always glad to see them come to our house.

The January 1, 1978 Bulletin of the Old West Regional Commission carried an article about the Lower Loup Natural Resource District's hotline irrigation scheduling system. Planned for early June, the hotline system will help farmers determine the amount of water their soil will need for a given crop, saving Nebraska's water resource.

The service will be available to farmers calling a toll-free number. The scheduled activities include classroom studies in such subjects as Motor Vehicle Laws, Court Procedure, Human Relations, Safety Education and First Aid; tours of city, county and state law enforcement offices; and are highlighted by field activities that include marksmanship, VASCAR and radar operation and maximum performance driving. Evening classes will be devoted to the Defensive Driving Course developed by the National Safety Council. Each day will begin with before-breakfast calisthenics. The participants will remain "in residence" during the period and will be awarded Certificates of Achievement at concluding ceremonies at 2:00 p.m. on June 9.

Commander Davis said, "This program was developed by the Law and Order Committee and is offered in cooperation with the Nebraska State Patrol. Other states are now following Nebraska's leadership in developing similar programs which help youthful participants better understand the true 'role' of today's professional police officer."

One who has nothing is usually the most eager to share with others.

Corn Rootworm Control for 1978:

The three methods of reducing rootworm risk in corn are crop rotation, soil insecticides, and adult control. Crop rotation is the oldest and most reliable method. Corn is the only crop western corn rootworms damage, so rotating with any other crop that is free of most weeds and volunteer corn results in starving the larvae, reducing the risk the next year. Rotation will not be 100 percent effective, as alternate crops that have volunteered, corn, foxtail, pollen producing weeds, or if the crop itself is producing pollen in late July and August, will attract beetles from adjacent corn fields to feed. Beetles feeding in soybeans, milo, alfalfa, red clover, or weeds will lay eggs in these fields and can cause economic injury to corn the next year. Rotating is probably 80 percent or more reliable.

Soil insecticides are the most reliable control in continuous corn. The only materials registered are for band application, none for broadcast. The band protects the critical root area but does not protect roots outside the band. Broadcast would need to be done pre-plant and much higher rates used. It is not feasible due to cost, necessity of applying before planting, digging in, and deterioration before eggs hatch. Band treatments can provide good protection, however, even with good root protection a large number of beetles may emerge in the field.

Controlling beetles to prevent larval damage the following year is not reliable in either 40 tests conducted by Dr. Z. P. Mayo the past 5 years, spraying once for beetles was as effective as a planting time soil application only half of the time. No added benefit was achieved by using both adult control and a soil insecticide. Soil insecticides alone provided more consistent root protection.

Several cultural practices are helpful to reduce yield loss, but have little or no effect on populations. Time of planting, adapted varieties, fertilization, and irrigation management are all important cultural practices that should be considered.

1978 recommendations for rootworm control in continuous corn have not been altered significantly from 1977. The major change is the suggestion that corn planted prior to May Energy interests have generally supported LB 249, while Western Nebraska and the railroads have been in opposition.

LB 296 by Public Works, would authorize the interbasin transfer of water. This would be with many restrictions. A complicated and very controversial bill.

LB 298, or similar legislation, has had a tough time getting support; needs a lot of study and safeguards; has not generally been supported by NRDS.

LB 299 by Public Works, provides for the private ownership of underground water with restrictions.

LB 300 by Public Works, provides that landowners are to have the right to use the underground water which lies beneath their land for any beneficial purpose, with restrictions by the state.

There is an established interrelationship between ground and surface water. This will have to be resolved before any meaningful ownership decisions are reached.

LB 313 by Public Works, provides for adding recreation and fish and wildlife to the preference system while still maintaining domestic, agricultural and industry as a higher preference.

Preference is just not the right word; it just doesn't mean too much.

A host of new water bills are already introduced and many more are on the way. We will be talking about these later.

Voice Crying in the Wilderness

President Jimmy Carter has had a hectic time during the last 30 days. This period of rough sailing was launched with a badly mangled translation of his remarks in Poland.

Through a fluff of a State Department translator, Carter's remarks about his love for the Polish people came out depicting him as a man with lust in his heart. A further remark about a country being founded was translated as a country being woven.

The entire speech was so garbled that there has been speculation native Polaks are now telling American jokes. This seems only just. Turnabout after all is said, translated, and done is only fair play.

Shortly before that language gaffe took place, President Carter eased Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns out of office and appointed G. William Miller in his place. Burns, 73, has been a presidential adviser on economic affairs for the last 25 years.

The prestige of the fiscal conservative was such that some persons attributed the recent decline of the dollar in European money markets to his departure. Others took a more realistic view.

Those in the latter group contended excessive U.S. imports caused the dollar's decline. Oil imports to America alone total $45 billion according to Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal.

As things stand, it appears that few American products are competitive in the international market. A devalued dollar and increased technology abroad have enabled foreign buyers to undersell Uncle Sam.

One of the items still sought by international buyers are American agricultural products. Witness recent massive grain purchases by Russia and other countries.

The producers of this commodity, the American farmer, has been harassed — some say helped — by a variety of federal programs that first demanded he curtail production and later urged him to plant fence row to fence row. While production soared, markets declined. So also has the number of farmers.

Today farmers make up only 3.9 percent of the U.S. population. As a result they have very little political clout. Consequently, they find themselves being shovelled aside by Labor Unions, Blacks, Chicanos, and the ever present "consumer."

Who is a consumer? Everyone. And everyone votes. Off on the horizon is yet another federal program to "help" both the farmer and the almighty American consumer. Under the still pending plan, the government will tell the public what food is good for them and what food isn't. The alleged ideal diet will be spelled out with recommendations for cutbacks in red meat, butter, fat, eggs, and refined sugar.

Farmers will be forced to grow the "right" crops. They will be squeezed into this direction through regulations, and manipulations of price supports and loans. "Horror" stories will be released to the press about what will be called "incredible hazards" of bad food.

Understandably all "bad foods" will be banned from school lunches and the food stamp program.

When this newly hatched program blossoms, it will be a prize example of how nutritionists can and do manipulate the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the one remaining political stronghold of American farmers.

Is this political? You better believe. But it is the politics of numbers not parties. After all, everyone eats food, but less than 4 percent of the population produces it. Ergo, it is beneficial to anyone in office to promote "good" foods and castigate rising food costs.

When this program is complete it will likely come to pass that the American farmer will be told what he can produce, how much, and at what price he will sell his products. Attempts to hike his profit margin will be met with outraged cries and demands for a cheap food policy at the expense of the farmer.

Viewing the less than royal treatment the American farmer has received and will likely receive in the future, isn't it odd that he is producing the one thing that can turn this country's balance of payments problem around and thereby strengthen the dollar?

As things stand now, it is the farmer's small voice crying in the wilderness but apparently only God will hear him.

Would any other industry be treated this way?

Thone-Rogers File For Governor's Post

LINCOLN — As predicted by just about everyone who follows Nebraska politics closely, Congressman Charles Thone has become candidate for governor on the Republican ticket.

Now serving his fourth term in the House of Representatives, Thone, a Lincoln attorney, noted he is the fifth current Republican member of Congress to announce as a candidate for governor.

He said all five realize that statehouses are the places where the action is going to be — where strong leadership can be effective in getting power back from Washington.

Thone said this country is "on the verge of a powerful political movement" that will strip "some of the excessive power from the inefficient and non-responsive federal government."

Because Americans have come to the realization that "overgrown centralized government doesn't work very well — we're going to see some power restored to state and local governments," Thone said.

In his first day of campaigning during which he visited cities from one end of the state to the other, he said he has a proven record for fiscal conservatism. He stressed that the National Taxpayers Union had named him in the top 10 percent in voting to keep federal spending.

As governor, Thone added, he would work closely with the unicameral and would seek the counsel of every state senator. He further promised a forward-looking program, without any tax increases, to present to Nebraskans next January.

He also pledged that if elected he will hold special meetings in each of Nebraska's 93 counties annually and will hold weekly "citizen hours" to the governor's office. The latter would allow ordinary citizens to come to his office without an appointment to "give me their thoughts and suggestions," he said.

Thone noted that three other Republicans have declared their intention to be candidates for governor. He said all are honorable men and added he will not attack them.

"Ours will be a positive and affirmative campaign," he said. "I will talk about the issues. A spurned primary campaign will strengthen the Nebraska Republican Party."

Thone confessed he has

Something Different*Of Snakes

Something Different in Sunday afternoons was the one we spent not long ago with my ever-increasing number of young relatives.

They happen to like pets and have a choice assortment including a middle sized dog with longish dark hair, a wee little sample of a dog with hardly any gray hair, two assorted cats, a bright chirpy parakeet, two land crabs, two smallish rattlesnakes. Each day brings changes in the collection.

So last week when Mary Ellen called out "Irma, come see the king snake that Paul bought me, he's a beauty!" I wasn't too surprised. I left my chair and started for the big glass aquarium-type house where the crabs and snakes lived.

Before I got there she cried "Paul, the snake is out!"

Instantly the household was alarmed and began a search. Under big chairs, behind divans. Among the dozen or so big plants that crowd the floor and corner tables, green and beautiful. No snake.

All the doors were open, so the bedroom came in for a thorough search. So did the bathroom and the little girl's toy-filled room. We looked and looked. No snake.

The door to the garage was open, off the kitchen. It was filled with all the usual garage tools and car attachments plus laundry equipment and storage cupboards. No snake though.

I wasn't too happy about all this, to my surprise. For I had taken zoology and liked it very much. I also got good grades, the professor liked my papers and drawings so much that he tried to coax me to be his assistant.

But although I hadn't minded dissecting angeworms, frogs and whatnot I turned down this job offer.

But I didn't seem to want to find this king snake. I remembered how to pick him up . . . etc., etc.

I found an ancient and fascinating cookbook and retired quietly to a bench in the kitchen. I just happen to prefer cookbooks to novels most of the time.

The hubbub continued while everyone prowled.

Yet no snake.

We had taken a big kettle of John's famous fish soup over there so when eating time came we settled around the round table in the kitchen and gobbled it up.

After a bit we went home with Mary Ellen saying "I'm not going to bed until we find that snake. I don't want him to curl up around my neck and wake me in the middle of the night. Find him!"

A day or two later we heard. The snake had been recovered from the garage where he'd curled up and was sleeping his life away.

The sizeable reptile was powerful. Although the top of his glass home had been weighted down, he had simply pushed against it strongly and flipped it open! And slithered through the kitchen where I read on, out to fresher air in the garage.

I was relieved . . . coward . . . that the air in the kitchen wasn't fresh enough to suit him.

Geranium Joe —*DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Do you remember the National Women's Conference in Houston a few weeks back? Nobody else does, either, and the reason comes out the other day. A delegate to the convention said it was a failure because the women after they were gavelled into session to complete the work of the 85th Legislature.

More than 100 bills were tossed into the legislative hopper on the opening day of the 60-day meeting, and hundreds more were being readied for introduction.

Gov. J. James Exon was not on hand to greet the legislators because he was in South Sioux City to participate in a meeting of federal mediators officials of Iowa Beef Processors and representatives of the labor union that has been on strike at Iowa Beef's Dakota City plant for more than 10 months.

But the governor sent a welcoming message to the Legislature and pledged his cooperation in helping expedite legislative business.

Exon advised his budget recommendations will be submitted no later than Feb. 10 and perhaps as early as the end of January.

Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, unicameral speaker, had served notice he would have a full day's activity lined up on opening day, and he kept his word.

Starting about Jan. 18, Luedtke would like the Legislature to set aside two weeks for committee hearings on new bills. Those hearing days would not count against the 60-day constitutional limit on legislative sessions in even-numbered years.

Luedtke has further suggested that after the hearings on new bills, the senators have full-day floor sessions on those measures, taking up the budget in mid-March and adjourning around April 10.

If that timetable were met, there would be a month before the May 9 primary election when 25 legislative seats will be at stake and some senators will be seeking other political offices.

When the lawmakers came back to work there were 172 bills left over from last year to occupy their time. The holdover measures included 29 that individual senators had designated as their pieces of priority legislation last year.

The first 100 bills this year included two proposing abolishment of the sales tax on food. Sen. David Newell of Omaha sponsored one to exempt food from the tax starting Jan. 1, 1980, and Sen. Ernest Chambers, also of Omaha, introduced the other which would get the tax repealed sooner.

One of a series of bills prepared by Senator Herb Duis of Gothenburg would make the minimum sentence for first degree sexual assault 25 years without hope for parole. Another would mandate a sexual psychopath hearing for anyone convicted of sexual offenses.

Sen. Howard Lamb of Anslemo submitted a bill that would restore the old formula for distribution of state aid to schools.

His legislation would earmark $10 million in per pupil aid and $45 million in equalization aid.

First Bill Advanced

The first bill to win preliminary approval in the unicameral this year triggered more than 90 minutes of debate and resulted in a revision of the state's "Sunshine Law."

The measure, LB 186, deals with land use zoning requirements and is aimed at correcting procedural problems that planning commissions have experienced.

The section that stirred the most controversy would have required only the planning commissions in Omaha, Lincoln, Douglas County, Lancaster County, and cities with a population of more than 10,000 to file financial disclosure statements.

A majority of the lawmakers agreed with Ralston Sen. Gerald Kay who argued the Nebraska Political Accountability and Disclosure Act should cover all planning commissions and should not be limited to those in heavily populated areas.

A number of county planning commissions have resigned in protest to the financial reporting requirements.

Editor, The Ord Quiz

Ord, Nebraska 68862

Dear Wade:

I am infuriated after reading your article "New Year's Resolutions Revealed" in the January 5, 1978 issue of The Ord Quiz.

You should know, as a journalist, the importance of getting names to appear properly in the newspaper. I am referring to your Kay Leggett quote. As you should be aware, there are two persons with the name Kay Leggett. Unfortunately you made no indication in your article that it was, in fact, Mrs. Ted (Kay) Leggett rather than myself, Kay M. (Marie) Leggett, who made the quote.

I can't express the importance of the distinction enough, especially when there is a direct quotation involved. Less the legal aspects concerned.

I trust that you will clarify in the next issue of The Quiz that it was Mrs. Ted (Kay) Leggett of Ord who made the quote and not, as many may assume, Kay M. (Marie) Leggett of Lincoln. I will also appreciate the distinction made in any and all editorial and news reporting done by you. This of course reserves the right for my father and my grandmother to use my name as they see proper.

Sincerely,
Kay M. Leggett

friendship shortly before the Holidays I got to dwelling on the word friend.

At that time I'd used "friend" frequently and was considering the term "friendship" and wondering what exactly constituted a "friendship."

Also, I started thinking more and more about how many "friends" I really had.

Being a loner most of my life, I've never had very many "close friends." I simply don't take the "risks" of opening myself to any "close" friendships.

By Bertha Clement — 728-3884

Marcus Allen is the baby son born to Mr. and Mrs. Ron Mroczek at Loup City Monday, Jan. 2. He weighed 7 lb. and 10 oz. He has a brother, Christopher, who is two years old. Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mroczek of Mira Valley are his grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Geweke entertained Hue-a-Tue Bridge Club members and families at a pot-luck dinner in their home Sunday. About 35 were present. Members and families were Mrs. Rita Barnes, Bill Keyser, Cork Greenways, Phil Quinns, Ken Clements, besides the host and hostess. Among them were the Robin La Croz of Gulliver, MI, the Bob Stowells and others connected with some of the members. After playing bridge in the afternoon, they had chili and home made ice cream.

Mr. and Mrs. Lores Hornickel were holiday guests of their daughter and son-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. Michael Rogers at Middletown, CT. One of the highlights of the visit was attending the Boston Pops Christmas Concert in the Civic Center at Hartford, CT with Arthur Fiedler, age 83, as conductor. The concert ended with a sing-a-long by the audience followed by three encores.

Laverne Johnson entertained guests at the Veteran's Club for supper Friday evening in honor of her sister, Mrs. Evelyn Jackson. Guests besides the birthday honoree were Elwin Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Dugosh, Mrs. Edgar Roe and Mr. and Mrs. George Krajnik. Afterward they went to the Johnson home. George Krajnik showed slides of his October Fest Tour through Southern Germany, Austria, Northern Italy and Switzerland. Laverne Johnson and Mrs. Jackson showed slides of their autumn trip to Jerusalem. They also had birthday cake and ice cream.

Joining Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Luma and Kris for supper Friday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Krahulik, Jason, Boni and Justin, Ramona Luoma, Mrs. Hilda Boggs and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Krahulik. The January birthday of Mrs. Boggs and the Jan. 3 birthday of the year old Boni Krahulik were celebrated. Boni's birthday was celebrated again on Sunday when she, her folks and Jason went to the Pizza Hut.

Revs. Charles and Ruth Moorer attended the Fellowship of the Friends for Pastors held at Camelot Inn in York from Tuesday to Thursday noon last week. From there they went to a meeting of Discipled Order of Christ at Omaha and returned home Friday.

Rev. and Mrs. Charles Moorer drove to Grand Island Friday evening and heard the Nebraska Wesleyan Choir at Trinity United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Richard Huffman accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Gary Nelson to an NFO meeting at Corning, IA last Wednesday. Mrs. Millard Hanson and Tom Ostewitz also accompanied them. Besides attending the meeting they toured the home office.

A group of women of the Mira Valley United Methodist Church held worship services at Parkview Village and the Ord Rest Home Thursday. They were Mr. Russell Hackel, Mr. and Mrs. Maurine Koelling, Mrs. Anna Visek, and Mrs. Elmer Hornickel.

Mrs. Richard Burrows took her niece, Dianne Bingham of Sydney, Australia, to Lincoln Sunday. Miss Bingham had been a house guest in the Burrows home since Thursday. After a visit with their son, Allen Burrows and family in Lincoln, Mrs. Burrows planned to return home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Mason were guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Miller at the Veterans Club Thursday evening. They celebrated Mr. Mason's birthday.

H. G. (Doc) Whitehead and brother, Mason Whitehead, both of Palindale, CA visited Mrs. R.

County Agent Plugs Into State-Wide Ag-Net Computer Network

The Valley County Agent's office plugged in to the state-wide Ag-Net computer network recently. The office's new addition links Valley County Agent Ron Engelke with a computer center in Lincoln.

A desk-top console, resembling a typewriter, plugs into an electrical socket. After dialing the toll free number of the Lincoln computer center, Engelke inserted the phone head into an adapter on the side of the console.

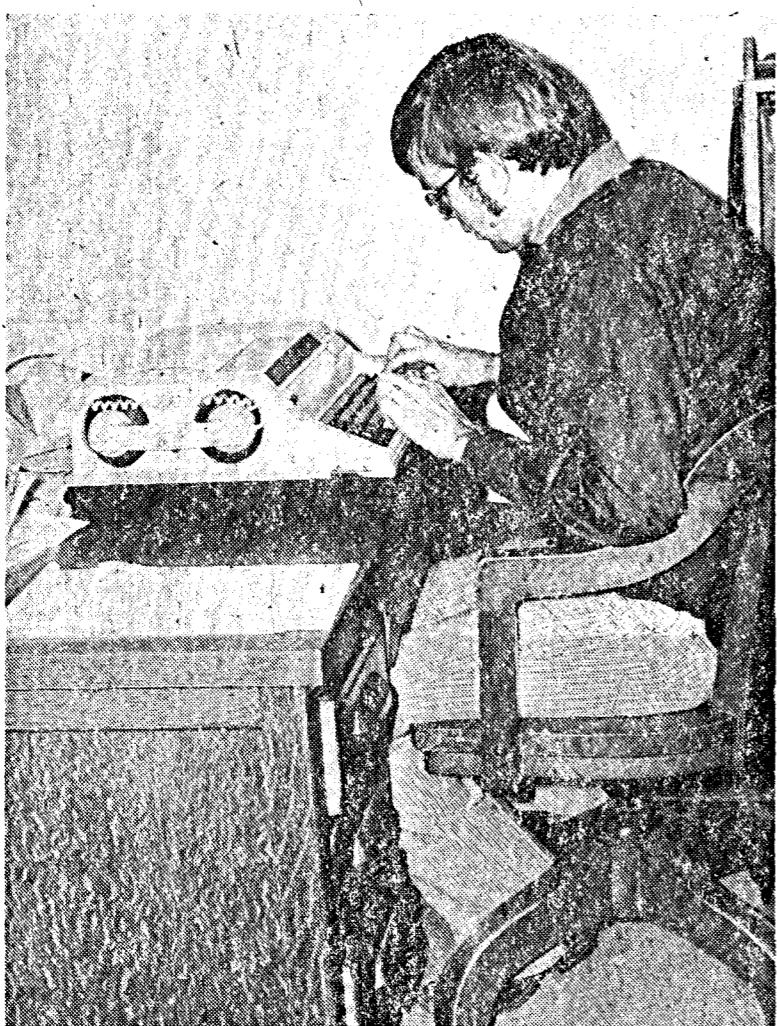

Using the computer hook up Engelke and an estimated three-fourths of the county agents in Nebraska have access to around 40 home economics and agricultural programs stored in a computer bank in Lincoln.

To show how the system works, Engelke had the computer produce a home economic program called "Moneycheck." After the console had been turned on and the appropriate series of letters typed, the console's high speed typewriter started spewing out an explanation of the Moneycheck program.

"Moneycheck," according to the machine, is designed to help families look at their budgets. By comparing the users of budgets with a typical budget for families of similar size, income, and location, Moneycheck highlights the good points and possible adjustments in the budget.

After gathering information on a family budget including number of family members, gross income, expenditures, etc., the computer ran an analysis of the budget and compared it with that of an average family of similar income and size.

One of the more popular programs, according to Engelke, involves the computer figuring a balanced ration at the least cost for swine, dairy cow, beef and sheep raisers. Irrigation scheduling and many other programs are also available.

Funds for the Ag Network came from a Department of Interior grant to Nebraska last year. The program is just now becoming fully operational.

Rev. Dave Marsh Will Leave Ord

Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Ord, Rev. Dave Marsh, has accepted a call from the First Presbyterian Church of Artesia, NM. He, his wife Sue, and their 2½ year old daughter, Becky, will leave Ord at the end of this month.

Rev. Marsh came to Ord in July of 1972 from Turlock, CA. He has been pastor-in-training there while completing his studies at the San Francisco Theological Seminary. He graduated from that school in 1972.

While in Ord, he organized the Friendship Mariners, a family activities group; started the Wednesday Church School, and a youth group for junior-senior high students.

In his five years here, Rev. Marsh served on the Senior Citizens Advisory Council, was president of the Loup Valley Ministerial Association, and was secretary-treasurer of that organization last year. Along with serving as probation officer, Rev. Marsh has been a member of the Valley County Mental Health Board.

Rev. Marsh told the Quiz he believes the weapon used was likely a rifle. A ballistics technician from the state patrol will arrive in the near future to examine the slug police found.

Close Call in Shooting Thursday

Workers in the Ord REA warehouse on 15th Street had a close call January 12. A bullet blasted through the north wall of the REA building and exited an overhead door minutes after employees had been working in that area.

According to Ord Police Chief John Young, the person or persons firing the shot had been between the Bohemian Hall at 15th and N Streets and the warehouse.

North Wall
The shot entered the warehouse via the north wall, exited the door, and blew a hole in two windows at the Harry Bresley residence, 401 South 15th before coming to a stop.

Workmen heard the shot and summoned police. They found the bullet at the Bresley residence.

Chief Young told the Quiz he believes the weapon used was likely a rifle. A ballistics technician from the state patrol will arrive in the near future to examine the slug police found.

Zapp, Paulsen Named for 1978

Mrs. Otto Zapp has been named Co-chairman and Mrs. Howard Paulsen, secretary-treasurer for the Nebraska Community Improvement Program for 1978.

Mrs. Clark Weckbach will remain as chairman.

Chalk Hills Manor Held Open House Last Sunday

The Chalk Hills Manor housing project for the elderly in Scotia held open house last Sunday. The $140,000 eight-unit project is located in the south side of town.

The Village Board of Scotia formally appointed a Scotia Housing Authority to start the project in August of 1974. After needed paperwork for the H.U.D. Section Eight and F.H.A. financed project was completed, Sunday six of the eight units are spoken for. Two remain to be rented.

Mike Hiett will serve as Executive Director of the new facility. He will continue to run a hardware store in Scotia while managing the housing project, Beebe related.

Refreshments from area churches were served during the open house Sunday.

William Cody Sitz Is Mr. 1978 First to Arrive Here This Year

Mister 1978 at the Valley County Hospital was William Cody Sitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sitz of Burwell. William, the first baby born in the hospital in 1978, made his entrance January 10 at 4:30 a.m.

He weighed 7 pounds 5½ ounces and was 19½ inches long.

He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Oak Glenn of Ord and Mr. and Mrs. William T. Sitz of Burwell.

William has a sister, Stephanie, 2½ years old.

Future Homemakers Sponsor Panel Discussion on Suicide

Ord Future Homemakers of America members, their guests, and panel members pursued the problem of suicide during a discussion January 10. The panel discussion on the subject Tuesday capped three months work on the F.H.A. Impact Project for the school year.

Panel members, Rev. Harold Koelling of Comstock, Wayne County Sheriff Martin Sonnenfeld, and Jay Brady told of their contact with suicides.

Rev. Koelling told the audience he works with the bereaved family to accept the blow of a sudden self-inflicted death. Scripture was quoted telling the body is a temple built by God and shouldn't be destroyed.

The minister told how he and his wife have worked with those having suicidal traits. In one case, the minister asked a person contemplating ending it all, "Who will buy the gun, you or me?"

What the pastor called "the shock treatment" jolted the man back into reality. He went on to lead a normal life.

He cautioned those considering using this abrupt method they should know their subject well before initiating such action.

Martin Sonnenfeld next gave statistics showing Valley County has one of the highest suicide rates in the nation. According to statistics, quoted the suicide incidence here is 39.8 per 100,000 population. The national average, according to the sheriff, is 11 per 100,000.

According to the law enforcement officer, men are usually more violent when ending their lives. Women, he related, usually use poisons, sedatives, and other similar means when ending it all. Men, Sonnenfeld related, are also more successful and make fewer attempts at ending their lives.

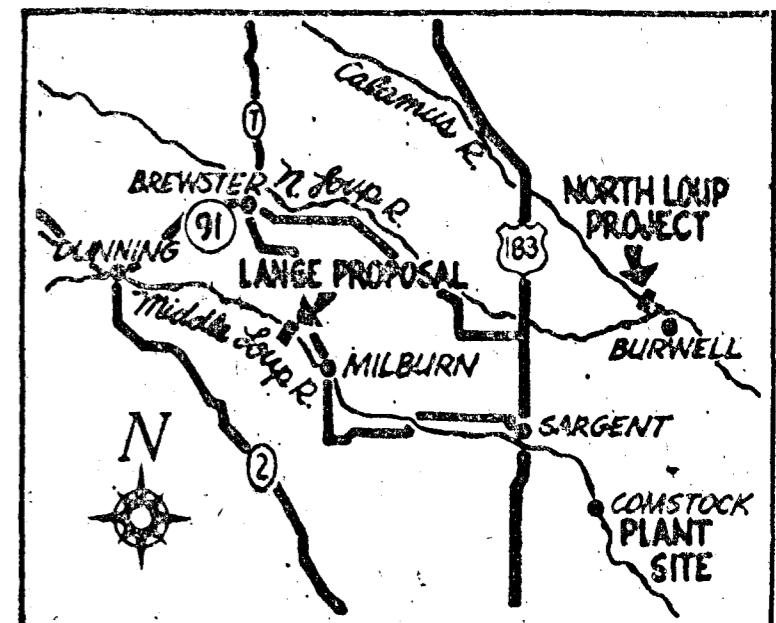

Jay Brady, representing the lay person in the community, told how alcohol and other controlled substances are often linked to suicide. Brady revealed when he was drinking he had once contemplated ending his life.

Brady was a drinking alcoholic eight years ago. Since then he has joined Alcoholics Anonymous and has enjoyed a new lease on life.

The well known manager of station KNLV in Ord told the audience he had a personal experience with suicide at age 19 when his father, an Ainsworth physician, took his own life.

Brady noted that alcoholism and other diseases often have visible symptoms. Suicide, he remarked does not. However panel members suggested symptoms that might indicate someone contemplating suicide included:

Finalizing property

Lange Proposes Site On Middle Loup

Henry Lange, president of the Nebraska State Irrigation Association, proposed Monday that a multi-purpose dam and hydro-power plant be built on the Middle Loup River between Milburn and Sargent.

Lange made his proposal at the start of a three-day conference of the Nebraska Association of Resources Districts, the Nebraska Water Resources Association, and the Irrigation Association.

The Ord resident emphasized his project would not remove water from the Middle Loup but would store water for release at appropriate times.

Lange, a key backer of the North Loup irrigation project, said his Middle Loup proposal would store about 100,000 acre feet of water during fall and winter months.

The water would be released during July and August he said to ensure a "wet river" downstream and supplement existing power and irrigation projects. It would generate its own power.

Lange said the water also could find a use to try to halt it.

Clock Watchers Lose 15 Minutes

Ord clock watchers lost 15 minutes Thursday night when electrical service was interrupted to make needed repairs. According to Ord Utilities Commissioner, Gene Baugh, maintenance of the lightning arrester at the local power plant caused the brief power outage.

The meeting concluded with coffee and doughnuts.

Next meeting of the Better Schools Club will be February 16 in the First National Bank community room in Ord. Starting time is 8:00 p.m.

Elmer Lukesh Notes 25 Years With The Ord Quiz Thursday

Lorraine and Elmer Lukesh serve Leon Ward a piece of cake during the Quiz office party in honor of Elmer's 25 years with the Quiz. Dennis Ringlein looks on.

Quizzman Elmer Lukesh noted 25 years employment with the Ord Quiz-Quiz Graphic Arts last Thursday. He started work with the Quiz organization January 12, 1953 after applying to then Quiz publisher Gene Leggett for a job.

He was quick to admit there have been a lot of changes around the shop since then. "It used to be," he recalled, "that everything was letterpress. Now a lot of it is offset."

Letterpress is the older method of printing using hot lead. The more modern offset method is an entirely different process.

Elmer's 25 years here puts him

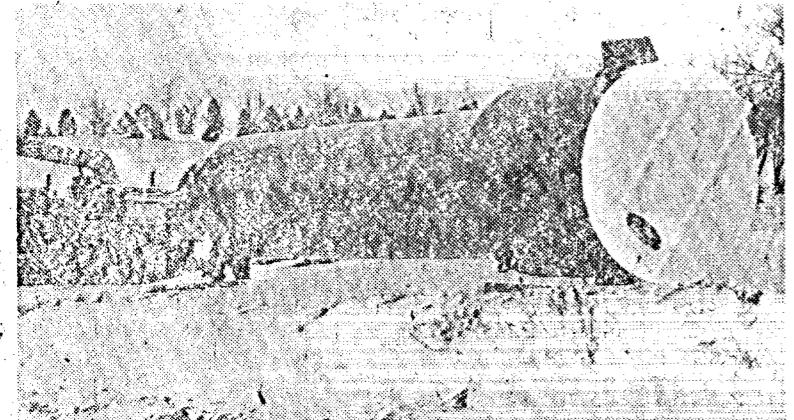

Dr. Otis Miller

After an evaluation by teachers and a parent-teacher conference, Jonathan was taken to a physician. There, his hyperactive condition was revealed.

Working with special education teachers, the young student was able to achieve success in the classroom.

Following the film, Dr. Miller spoke briefly. According to him, diet can play an important part in the treatment and cause of hyperactivity and other learning disorders.

Candy bars, soft drinks, and fast-food items were mentioned

Close encounters of a third kind? Not really. What appears to be a space ship being towed into place is a pump for the sewage line north of Ord along Highway 11.

The pump will be housed in a pit on the southwest corner of the Ord golf course located at Bussell park.

WIFE Lists Meeting Notes

An enthusiastic group turned out Monday evening for the regular monthly meeting of WIFE, Women Involved in Farm Economics.

Carol Petersen presented information on the WIFE organization. She also read the testimony of Marian Lenzen, Sidney, NE, which was presented to the U.S. House and Senate Agriculture Committees.

Several items of current legislation were discussed, and it was decided letters would be written to insist that 1) imported meats meet the same inspection requirements as our own meat does; 2) inspectors be paid by the country where the meat is imported from; and 3) imported meat being used in restaurants be labeled as such. It was also decided to write President Carter requesting the removal of Carol Forman, USDA Consumer Advocate. Ms. Forman, who a few years ago initiated the boycott of beef by American consumers is now advocating that Americans reduce their consumption of meat by 25%, discontinue eating bacon because of the nitrates, and on the other side, promotes the use of peanuts and fish in the diet in place of the aforementioned farm products.

Members were also encouraged to write our state senators encourage the enforcement of the law restricting foreign persons or corporations from buying land in Nebraska.

Evelyn Kusek, Burwell, will head a committee which will finalize plans for a public meeting featuring Todd Sneller who will speak on gasohol.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, February 20 at 7:30 p.m. at St. John's Lutheran Church basement.

Pre-Nuptial Event For Diane Nevirv

Diane Nevirv, whose marriage to Larry Koncel will be a January 28 event, was the guest of honor Sunday, January 15, at a shower at the home of Mildred Nemeskal. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mildred, Lydia Chalupa and Kathy Bruha.

About 40 guests were present and each brought the bride-to-be a recipe. Games were played for entertainment. Diane then opened her gifts after which refreshments of cake, jello, coffee and punch were served.

NoLo
Clara Krahulik entertained members of NoLo Club January 12 at the Ord Drive In. High prize was won by Tillie Jablonski. Eleanor Wegrzyn received second high and Minnie Thomsea won the traveling prize.

The next meeting will be held on January 26 with Celia Benda hostess at the Ord Drive In.

LampLighters
LampLighters Extension Club met Tuesday evening, January 10, at the home of Mrs. Linda Studnicka. Roll call was taken by the 11 members present relating one of her New Year's resolutions. Reports by various committee chairmen were given. Lesson plans were decided, year books filled, and goals set and plans made for 1978. The lesson "How a Bill Becomes a Law" was distributed. Lunch was served by Linda and co-hostess, Mrs. Loretta Misko.

The February 14 meeting will be held at PJ's Stylette with Pat Turek as hostess. "The Credit Crunch" lesson will be given by Pat and Mrs. Julie Grim.

Gas Pumps

The sheriff's office revealed a complaint was drawn up against Edward Koenig, 45, of Primrose, Monday in connection with a hit and run property accident last Thursday.

According to Sonnenfeld, two gas pumps at the Scheideler Construction Company, located south of Ord on highway 11, received damages estimated at over $1,000. The vehicle involved left the scene of the accident.

Trader Recovered

A Donahoe trailer reported stolen from a farm nine miles west of Ord last month has been recovered on a farm north of Ord. It appears, Sonnenfeld stated, the owner loaned the trailer to someone and forgot it.

No charges will be filed.

Petit Larceny

The sheriff's department arrested Kerry Ballagh of Arcadia Friday on charges of petit larceny. The charges stem from an incident earlier that day on a farm five miles east of Ord.

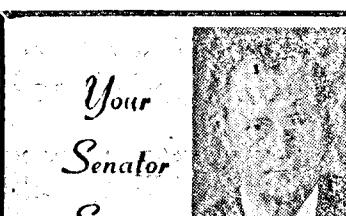

According to the sheriff, a gas theft was involved.

Other complaints may be pending, according to the sheriff.

Flu Decreases Ord School Attendance

The flu epidemic continued to affect attendance at Ord Public Schools last week. As of Friday an estimated 163 students were missing from classes. Hardest hit was Ord High. There, 139 out of the 455 students were gone.

In the grade school, 63 students were absent. This was unsharply from the absences reported average last week.

The viral bug forced Ord to bow out of the Mutual Clinic held in Albion. Ord Public Schools Superintendent Dr. Bill Gogan explained that Ord could have had more key members of the Ord High group were missing this, and the fact that Ord students might have spread the bug to other schools, prompted the decision.

The Legislature began on the 4th of January with 182 bills carried over from last year. It certainly makes a person wonder on the importance of these bills when the state has functioned well without their passage. Almost 300 new bills have been introduced so far this session and there is no way humanly possible for all of these bills to be acted on. In my six years of being here it has always seemed that bills that really need to be passed do become law. As I have said before though, even though this deluge of bills seems unnecessary to most of us many of them are important to other Senators.

School aid is of course back in the legislative picture and I intend to vote for Senator Lamb's bill that will let the funding continue as it was last year until after the vote of the people in May.

I introduced one bill that will force eating places to print in their menus the origin of meat, if it is imported, and also if synthetic meat is being sold this must always be stated for public knowledge.

I feel many places in Nebraska are misleading the public by using imported or synthetic meats.

As Chairman of the Government, Military and Veteran's Affairs Committee, again this year I am working closely with the Veterans of Nebraska.

The Sunshine Bill will again be considered and I appreciate the comments from those of this district that took the time to write your views. This bill is not working in the manner intended and I believe the bill should be killed and a different concept should be brought in next year.

As in the past I will appreciate hearing your views and comments on the proposed legislation and if there is any matter that I can be of help on please feel free to contact me. I may be reached at Room 1103, Box 41, State Capitol, Lincoln, Nebraska 68509 or at (402) 471-2631.

Mutual Benefit
Mutual Benefit Extension Club met with Mrs. Ernest Lange Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 11. Officers for 1978 are Mrs. George Bell, president; Mrs. Ervin Sohrweid, vice president; and Mrs. Jack Duvall, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Harry Foth led in singing, "Sing-a-Long" and "Vive L'Amour". Nineteen members were present. Mrs. Ed Huffman and Mrs. Wilfred Cook were visitors. Mrs. Will Foth, family life chairman, told of using January as a planning month; Mrs. Leo Mroczek's topic was Driving Safety; Mrs. Daiz Cook recommended "Norma" as good reading and loaned out her book. Mrs. Ernest Lange gave five rules to add years to one's life and Mrs. Clare Clement gave the test given at the Halsey meeting, "How do you rate as a citizen?"

Mrs. Dan Cook was leader of the study lesson, "You Creative Homemaker".

Mrs. Henry Lange will be hostess at the Feb. 8 meeting.

Plain Valley
Nine members of the Plain Valley Extension Club met with Mrs. Bill Novosad Sr. January 12. Two visitors, Mmes. August Badu and Agnes Bartu, were introduced and new officers were installed.

Mrs. George Hruza gave an interesting lesson on how our Unicameral works. Comments by Mrs. August Bartu added much to the interest. Mrs. Bill Novosad Sr. won the door prize. Mrs. Frank Naprstek was co-hostess.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Dean Peterson on February 9.

Helping Hands
Eight members of the Helping Hands Extension Club answered roll call by telling what they received as a Christmas present when they met at the home of Evelyn Kamara, for a regular meeting.

The lesson, "How A Bill Becomes A Law" was given by Mary Lou Bruha. New bills to be voted on in Congress were read and a discussion was held on the pros and cons.

Rose Sorenson will be the February 8 hostess.

G.S. Troop 254
Girl Scout Troop #254 met January 16 at St. John Lutheran Church. Patrols were made and officers were elected.

CAROL'S CORNER

by carol leggett

TAKE TIME TO READ . . . We live in a world of modern conveniences, time-saving and labor-saving devices and still you have probably thought, as I, that the 40-hour work week has no charm for me . . . I'm looking for a 40 hour day.

Jewell Buoy of Ord, in a letter directed to my corner, writes her ideas on making the most of time. I will share this with you because I like what she writes.

"So often when I discuss something I have read, people tell me they don't have time to read. I always think this is such a shame. Not only because they miss so much pleasure and physical rest but because clues to how to live more successfully and joyfully are missed."

"It is possible to efficiently manage a home, rear children, work outside the home, etc etc, and still have time to read, learn to play an instrument, do handwork and study in order to grow spiritually as well as intellectually."

"Here are some of my ways. Perhaps they will be useful to you.

"When you stop to think of it, the art of homemaking is largely a matter of moving objects from one place to another. Isn't that what you do when you pick up the house or do the laundry or combine ingredients to make a cake?"

"If that is the case, a smart worker will study ways to reduce movements. Never stack glasses. It takes BOTH hands to remove one, therefore, extra movements. Dishes go directly from the dishwasher back to the table — less handling. Towels are folded just the way they go onto the rack, one operation."

"Learn what is important and what is not. For instance, folding fitted bottom sheets meticulously and perfectly is very time consuming and unnecessary. When stretched on the bed, wrinkles disappear. Ironing sheets, is, of course, a no-no. So is ironing the shirts. As a matter of fact, ironing anything today is just about a no-no."

"Carpet throughout the house is a time and effort saver over scrubbing and waxing. If you do dishes by hand, pre-rinsing is unnecessary — simply scrape quickly, wash and rinse. Air dry instead of toweling. Don't make love to your dishes. Reducing handling also reduces chances of breakage. If you are efficient, you wash up meal preparation dishes while the meal cooks — there is plenty of time. Then you have only the table dishes to do after the meal, EVERY meal, and that should not take longer than 15 minutes. If it takes longer, you can speed up."

"If you AND your family are neat pick-uppers and putterers, in their daily lives, the weekly cleaning is ONLY cleaning. I have known people whose houses were so knee-deep in misplaced items, that was all they had time to do weekly, just put away — no time for actual cleaning and their house ALWAYS looked messy. Also, things put away are easy to find."

"It goes without saying that EVERY member of the family makes his own bed and picks up his own clothes from the age of 5 years. This is not cruel or unusual punishment. There is no divine law which says mother has to do that any more than she has to brush everyone's teeth."

"I like T.V. but always read during commercials. With a little practice you pick up a book and go on with the train of thought right where you left off. Also with practice you can learn to read very quickly by skimming or by looking at entire paragraph with just one fixation of the eyes. Never read one word at a time."

"Friends are wonderful to have and one should spend time with them. However, coffeeing and visiting EVERYDAY with the same people is not only terribly time-consuming but if the people you visit with have very similar experiences, will not be very mind-expanding. On the other hand, your reading will bring into your home the very best minds in the world. Those minds are really WORTH spending time with."

Ord Boys JV Squad Gels Two in a Row

The Ord boys junior varsity team scored back-to-back victories over the weekend. First was a 56-31 win over host St. Paul Friday night.

Said Ord JV coach Fred Williams, "The kids played well and did a good job of rebounding and played excellent defense."

The Ord Chant understudies were ahead the entire game. They played a full court press and man-to-man defense. The entire game. Apparently St. Paul struggled to find a combination that would outwit the Ord boys. They didn't succeed.

The Ordites were shooting well from most positions on the court further frustrating the St. Paul.

Next night, they handed the winless Vikings of Grand Island Northwest yet another loss this season, 46-35. The vexed host Vikings have yet to gain a win number one this year.

Although Grand Island appeared to be a harder game than St. Paul, the host Norsemen apparently lacked the discipline essential to endurance and the patience to win any difficult game.

The two wins make the boys' JV record 6-2 for the season.

Stats St. Paul Game: FG 22-33 for 33 percent; FT 2-6 for 33 percent; rebounds 25-18 for 43.

High scorers: B. Witherwax with 10, K. Kremer with 8, J. Dworkin with 6.

Stats Grand Island Game:

FG 21-32 for 40 percent; FT 4-8 for 50 percent. Rebounds 11-18 for 29.

High scorers: B. Witherwax with 12, G. Lenke with 8 and L. Sears with 6.

Gal JV Squad Bows to Albion

The Ord girls junior varsity bowed to host Albion 19-32 Thursday night. Coach Tom Rhodes told the Quiz no less than six players were out of the game with flu. The JV ranks were further depleted when another player was held back to start the varsity squad.

To fill the gap coach Rhodes started four players who had never started before.

He rated the game as being defensively the poorest of the year. According to Rhodes the Chant understudies got out rebounded nearly 2-1. In the second half, the girls JV squad liked like they got worn out Rhodes recalled.

The Ord coach attributed the game to just one of those things. They are all good kids and will snap back, he commented.

The loss makes the girls JV 4-2 for the season.

Their next game is at Aurora Thursday. In preparation for that match Rhodes plans to go over defensive drills. These will likely include blocking out defensive boards, and being more aggressive.

Scoring by Quarters:

Arcadia 12 7 6 7 32

Albion 9 12 14 14 49

High scorers for Ord were Nancy Gogan with 14 points and Anne Smith with 10.

Albion Edges

Ord Boys 43-36

The Ord ninth grade boys were downed by visiting Albion 43-36. Players recovering from the flu did their best to stay with the Cardinal underdogs the first three quarters, but became tired during the last period. Albion then pulled away and clinched the game.

Coach Al Cudly told the Quiz that illness had prevented practice sessions that week with the first string. Other players as well were laid low with the virus.

The fatigue of the just recovering players and an inability to move the ball likely cost Ord the game.

The Ord boys were very strong on offensive rebounds but couldn't cash in on easy shots from the field.

Coach Al Cudly maintained he

Vikings Vexed By Ord Chants 44-41

by Deb Osentowski

Coming back from a four point deficit the Ord Chant basketball team won over Grand Island Northwest 44-41 Saturday.

Jumping off to a 14-10 first quarter lead, once again the second quarter marked doom for the Chants. Foul trouble gave GINW an easy chance to go ahead with 2:20 left on the scoreboard clock. Unable to even the score by half, Ord saw themselves down by a basket, 25-27.

"It was a tightly officiated ball game, which is good," Coach Doyle Denney said of the great number of fouls turned in by both teams.

But the foul situation didn't bother Joe Dvorak or Troy Witherwax as they pumped in crucial baskets in the fourth quarter to spark the fire for the Chants. With time running out Chants fouled Jeff Wejnert and the Junior forward came to the line. After a time out was called by the Viking coach Jeff hit the first charity kiss to secure the 44-41 win.

Scoring 17 points and pulling the Chants through the game Coach Denney complimented Joe Dvorak as the outstanding player of the game. Following Dvorak in scoring was Troy Witherwax with 10 points and Jeff Wejnert with 9.

In the rebounding department the teams were evenly matched with 34 for the Chants to the Vikings 33. Top rebounder for the Chants was Mark Carson with 12, Jeff Wejnert with 9 and Joe Dvorak hauling in 6.

The answer to the victory could be at the free throw line as the Chant hit an even 50%.

The win capped off a productive weekend as the Chants up their season record to 7-3 and in conference play 3-2.

First Federal Posts a Record Year Savings-Loans at An All-Time High

Charles Thorne, President, reported that 1977 was a record year for First Federal Lincoln in both savings growth and mortgage lending.

In his President's report, Mr. Thorne reported that First Federal Lincoln's assets rose to $61,850,934.52, an increase for the year of $83,918,313. Savers invested more than $10 million bringing the total savings deposits to $17,411,223.56. More than $3 million dollars in interest was paid to savers during 1977, the highest in the history of the Association.

During the year, $140,604,257.23 was invested in mortgage loans. First Federal now has more than $86 million in mortgages, leading in 82 of the 93 Nebraska counties. More than three million dollars were added from profits to reserves, resulting in a total reserve of $35,267,138.03.

As part of its branch expansion, Mr. Thorne reported that during 1977, First Federal opened eight new offices, and received approval to open an additional six. This brings the total number of office locations to 39 in 19 Nebraska cities.

First Federal introduced a new bill paying service, Pay-It-Your-Way, in September. Mr. Thorne said that the response had been most gratifying with more than 5,000 users in the first three months.

"First Federal Lincoln is pledged to continue expansion into Nebraska communities where there is a need for our services," said Mr. Thorne.

Edward Walt and Charles Thorne were re-elected to the Board of Directors. Other board members are Gladys Forsyth, Dr. Campbell McConnell, Patricia Lahr Smith and Senator Florence Reynolds.

Hazardous Highway Will Be Rerouted

Steps have been taken to correct a hazardous stretch of road just north of Elba on Highway 11, according to Dr. Ben Meckel of the Nebraska State Highway Commission. According to the Burwell physician, plans call for a bridge and curve to be removed from the road 6 1/2 of a mile north of Elba and replaced by a straight section of pavement.

Dr. Meckel called the present roadway section "... a killer ...". The latest in a long list of persons dying on that hazardous highway was Tim Sevenker. A car crash there last November claimed his life.

Until work starts on the roadway this spring, rumble strips and warning signs will tell motorists of the traffic hazard. Said Meckel, "I'm not a highway engineer, but I know a dangerous stretch of road when I see one. This is a bad one."

Dr. Meckel has been a long-time advocate of highway safety, especially among the state's younger drivers. He was appointed to the Highway Commission by Governor J. James Exon in 1976.

Plans Announced for Area Swine Day Here

Several current pork production problems will be discussed during the Area Swine Day which will get underway in Ord at the Elk's Club January 25 with registration, coffee and donuts (Furnished by the Ord Chamber of Commerce) from 9:30 to 10:00.

The program will start at 10 a.m. and last until midafternoon.

Highlighting the morning program will be a report on the status of sulfa residues in hog production by Roger Gerrits, a staff scientist from the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Beltsville, MD.

Also appearing on the morning program will be Dr. Alex Hogg, Extension veterinarian at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, who will give tips on containing pseudorabies.

He will be followed by Dr. Bobby Moser, UNL Extension swine specialist, who will discuss high energy swine diets.

Lunch will be served at the Elk's Club at the cost of $2.25 per person.

Following a dutch treat lunch, Dr. James DeShazer, UNL agricultural engineering professor, will present several options for energy savings in hog houses.

Fred McGuire, pork producer from Wisner, will speak on proper care of hogs to insure profit.

Robert D. Fritsch, district Extension swine specialist at UNL's Northeast Station at Concord, will close the program with a report on his recent 37-day fact-finding mission to the Soviet Union. Fritsch will discuss the large Russian swine complexes that he viewed.

The meeting is free and open to all interested swine producers and their spouses.

The program is sponsored by UNL's animal science department and the state and Valley County Cooperative Extension Services, and is being planned in cooperation with the Midwest Pork Producers Association.

Be Aware of What You Wear

Helping to save money and energy by turning down the thermostat this winter may quickly lose its appeal if you're still cold, according to Carol VanNordheim,

One way to resist the temptation to turn the thermostat back up again is to dress warmly, she said. Dressing to keep warm, however, may not be as simple as it sounds. Many of the clothes people think might be warm when they try them on in the store, turn out not to be so warm after all.

The Extension home economist will be helping leaders of Valley, Garfield, Loup, and Wheeler County Home Extension Clubs and other interested persons learn more about dressing for warmth during January.

The leader training lesson, "Be Aware of What You Wear," will include information on those variables that affect thermal comfort and how to select clothing or the warmth it will provide.

To be considered are the importance of layers, fiber, fabric construction, color, design and fit, and garment care and cleanliness. Specific clothing items will be analyzed in terms of their "clo value," which represents the insulation value of garments.

"Wearing a lot of layers of clothing alone won't guarantee warmth," adds the home economist. Layers should be chosen that will provide a "breathing layer" to allow excess body heat to escape, an "insulating layer" to hold the escaped warm air in the clothing, and a "protecting layer" to keep cold, moist, drafty air from penetrating.

The leader training lesson which is open to all interested persons, will be held Tuesday, January 24, at 1:30 p.m. in Barlett Firehall; Wednesday, January 25 at 1:30 in Birwell ASCS meeting room; Monday, January 30 at 9:30 in Arcadia Hangout; and Monday, January 30 at 1:30 in Ord Extension Office. Groups wishing to send a representative should contact the County Extension Office.

Area Teams Qualify for State Livestock Judging Competition

Thirty-two junior and 55 senior Nebraska high school livestock judging teams qualified for the State Vocational Agricultural Livestock Judging Contest to be held April 6-8 in Lincoln. The teams qualified for the contest by competing at district livestock judging contests held at four sites in December.

Roger Gerdens, UNL agricultural education instructor and contest coordinator, said 611 individuals in 173 teams competed in the eight district contests. They represented 99 different vocational departments. Freshmen and sophomores made up the junior teams, while juniors and seniors competed on the senior level.

Contest sites were the Howard Pitzer Ranch at Ericson, the Keeler County fairgrounds at Ogallala, former Park at Grand Island, and the University of Nebraska's livestock judging pavilion in Lincoln.

Areas winners of the district contests were:

JUNIORS—North Loup-Scotia
SENIORS, District V—North Loup-Scotia, Burwell, Loup City, and Ord.

Livestock donors for the area contests included Carson Rogers of Ord, Mike Sitz of Burwell, Larry Barta of Elyria, and Mrs. Gay Nelson of Elyria.

Adult Education Teachers Sought

Larry Hermsmeyer, Director of Adult Education connected with the North Loup-Scotia Schools system, revealed instructors are needed for several courses. As listed by Hermsmeyer Monday these courses for which instructors are needed include wood working, gourmet cooking, square dancing, ball room dancing, bridge, and a course of trusts, wills, and estate planning.

The director pointed out experience rather than formal education is valued in potential instructors. All interested persons wanting to teach a class should contact Hermsmeyer by the January 24 deadline.

On that date an organizational meeting will be held at the high school in Scotia. Starting time is 7:30 p.m. Along with registering for the adult education program, interested persons will decide what classes will be offered and establish class schedules.

In most cases, according to the director, a minimum of 10 persons must be registered for a class for that course to be offered.

For further details contact Larry Hermsmeyer at the North Loup-Scotia High School in Scotia.

Region 26 Center Has a Busy Year

Year-end totals at the Region 26 Communications Center, Taylor, NE reflect a continued increase in activity and growth. The Communications Center, serving eight counties in Central Nebraska (Blaine, Custer, Garfield, Greeley, Loup, Sherman, Valley and Wheeler) provides communication and warning for the entire region. Users include law enforcement agencies, emergency medical services, fire departments, hospitals, school buses, CBS, pagers, the National Warning System and the Law Enforcement Teletype System (LETS).

|                            |        |
|----------------------------|--------|
| Total Radio Trans-missions | 63,935 |
| Assist                     | 37,774 |
| Telephone Calls            | 7,311  |
| EMS Calls                  | 493    |
| Fire Traffic               | 215    |
| Medical Traffic            | 342    |
| CB Traffic                 | 1,425  |
| Paged                      | 744    |

National Warning System (NAWAS)

965

An important function of the Region 26 Communications Center is the tie-in to a nationwide computer system of keeping track of wanted persons, vehicles, and weapons. Through this system, 35 items (persons, vehicles, weapons) were cleared from the books. Overall, 37,780 teletype messages were recorded. This is a very favorable record, particularly compared to other communication centers.

Tax Subsidized Low Income Home Repair Loans Available

A new federal program that will assist low income residents to obtain funds necessary to repair their homes through low-interest, long-term loans will be administered by Central Nebraska Community Services (CNCS) in an area which includes Garfield, Greeley, Loup, Valley, and Wheeler Counties.

The Basic School is located at the Marine Corps Development and Education Command in Quantico, VA. It is designed to prepare newly-commissioned officers for assignment to the Fleet Marine Force and emphasizes the duties and responsibilities of a rifle platoon commander.

The program's purpose is to help provide more suitable housing by repairing homes that are badly in need of repair.

The program will also provide money to assist homeowners eliminate health and safety hazards in their homes; this includes repairing of wiring, plumbing, roofs, foundations and other structural problems.

Some of the money for the loans will come from the Farmers' Home Administration.

CNCS will work with other government agencies such as the State Welfare Office and the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The loan rate for loans under this program will be one percent.

The length of the loans can vary from ten to twenty years depending upon the amount of the loan. Homeowners who are 62 or older may be eligible for grants as well as loans.

The Department of Economic Development estimates that at least 67,000 units of rural housing in Nebraska require rehabilitation. According to the 1970 U.S. Bureau of Census, approximately 6,700 substandard houses are located in CNCS' area.

For an application or further information, call CNCS' Ord office at 728-5162 or 728-5390. The Ord office is located in the front of the Bohemian Hall at 304 South 15th Street. You may also contact Connie Larimore, CNCS, Box 509, Loup City, NE.

Police Report Hit-Run Mishaps

Ord Police listed no less than 11 accidents in their weekly summary released to the Quiz Tuesday. Included were several hit-and-run accidents. Snow covered streets may account for some of the fender benders, but it may not be an explanation for all of the mishaps logged by Ord motorists recently.

January 6 — A 1962 Pontiac owned by Robert and Bonnie Anderson was parked at Ord High when struck by a hit-and-run driver. Damage was done to the right front door and fender.

January 10 — A 1977 Toyota driven by Mark Kusek of Burwell was headed west on N Street and a 1973 Ford driven by Mary Babcock was headed east on N when the two cars collided, near the 17th and N intersection. There was an estimated $100 damage to the left front doors of both cars.

January 10 — Gregory Boyce was driving a 1968 Ford pickup north on 24th Street when a parked 1971 Ford pickup owned by Ray Pockoc was damaged. The 1968 Ford had damages to the right front fender and the 1971 Ford had the left front door damaged. Accident costs were placed at under $50 for the '68 Ford and under $250 for the other truck. The two vehicles were near the 24 and M intersection when the accident happened.

January 12 — Lloyd E. Needham, of Ord, was driving a 1972 Buick south on 17th Street when a 1977 Ford driven by Joann Rathbone, headed west on N, was struck and damaged. Police estimate damages at $250 for the Ford and $250 for the health of his health in 1968.

Willard served as a member of the school board, the Burwell City Council and was a member of the Burwell United Methodist Church and the Independent Order of Odd Fellows Lodge #315.

Survivors include his wife Myrtle; son, Darwin and wife Vicki and granddaughter Nikole; four brothers, Edgar and Howard (Mike) of Burwell, Lee of Arcadia and Ira of Mitchell, SD; and a sister, Geneva Wernet of Holyoke, CO.

Preceding him in death were his parents, his first wife and four brothers.

Wadas Relative Services Monday

Philip F. Kosmicki, 76, of Grand Island, brother of Mrs. Syl Wadas of Ord, died January 13, 1978 at a Grand Island hospital.

Services were Monday at 10:30 a.m. at Blessed Sacrament Church. The Rev. Thomas Mullowney officiated. Burial was in Westlawn Cemetery.

Mr. Kosmicki was born January 3, 1902 at Ashton, the son of Jacob and Cecilia Prenczak Kosmicki. He attended school in Ashton. On June 19, 1933 he married Emily Frances Lubash at Loup City. They farmed in the Farwell area until moving to St. Louis in 1940. They farmed there until 1969 when he retired and moved to Grand Island. He worked on the grounds of Lutheran Hospital and at Skoway.

Mr. Kosmicki was a member of Blessed Sacrament Church.

Survivors include his widow, three sons, Raymond of Omaha, Gerald of Grand Island and Ronnie of St. Louis; nine grandchildren; four brothers, Stanley Sr. of Ashton, Victor of St. Paul, Steve of Grand Island and Louise of St. Paul; six sisters, Mrs. Barbara Goe of Loup City, Mrs. Eleanor Stefanowicz of St. Paul, Mrs. Brigit Tomaszewicz of Fullerton, Mrs. Anna Wadas of Ord, Mrs. Gertrude Spotanski of Loup City and Mrs. Victoria Radke of St. Paul.

He was preceded in death by a son, Martin and a brother, Benjamin.

Paul Wadas of Burwell and his mother, Mrs. Syl Wadas of Ord, attended the funeral services for her brother, Philip Kosmicki, at Grand Island Monday.

Ellsworth Leaving North Loup Drug

Bob Ellsworth announced he will be leaving the North Loup Pharmacy soon. In a Quiz interview Monday he revealed he has accepted a job with the Poling Drug Store in Beatrice.

Bob started managing the store last June after graduating from the University of Nebraska College of Pharmacy.

For further information contact Ira Jo McKinney at 745-0748 or at her Ord residence. According to the mental health counselor, the classes can lead to a better and happier family life for both parents and children.

these signs. "Hard love" involves doing what is best for a person and not necessarily what he or she may want.

In a Quiz interview days after the panel discussion, Jo McKinney, mental health counselor, suggested the main thing is to actively listen to a person who may be contemplating taking his life. She defined active listening as hearing what a person has to say, acknowledging a person has a right to feelings he is expressing, and helping him express these feelings accurately.

McKinney told the Quiz it is important to establish a bond of trust with the person in question and to let them know someone really cares about them. Setting a definite date for a future meeting and giving something certain to hang on to is equally important in her opinion.

Mrs. Smith designated her donation to the Welding Programs of the Area campuses. According to Dr. Chester Gausman, Area President, the gift will make it possible for more farmers and potential farmers to improve the skills necessary to repair equipment used in the business of farming.

When Congress raised its salary earlier this year, Representative Smith pledged to donate the increase to education in Nebraska. This gift to the Central Technical Community College Area is one of several gifts being presented in the Third District this month.

School Conference Schedule Revealed

Ord Elementary School students will get a two-day vacation January 26 and 27 while parent-teacher conferences are being held. According to Mike Johnson, Ord Elementary principal, the meetings will run from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Last Chance to Get Certified As Commercial Applicator

The spring planting season seems like a long way off, but if applying restricted use pesticides as a commercial applicator is on the horizon, the last chance to attend training sessions for certification will be in February.

Emery W. Nelson, Extension pesticide training coordinator at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources noted that anyone desiring to be certified for spring and summer field work should plan to attend one of the eight scheduled training-testings sessions. Registration at each of the sessions begins at 8:30 a.m.

The federal law regulating the use of restricted pesticides became effective October 21, 1977. To buy or apply restricted pesticides now, the law requires that the applicator be certified.

Commercial applicators wishing to participate in the training should pre-register early so that they can receive study material prior to the training session. Training material has been very helpful in assisting applicators in passing the examination.

Prospective commercial applicators can pre-register by contacting the local county Extension agent or going directly to the Nebraska Pesticide Training Office, 101B Former Veterinary Science Building, East Campus, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, NE 68583.

The schedule of training sessions is as follows: February 3 (Friday), Midtown Holiday Inn, Grand Island; February 7 (Tuesday), Panhandle Station, Scottsbluff; February 8 (Wednesday).

Glancing Back

By Elmer Lukish

Last Thursday, January 12, marked the passing of 25 years since I first became an employee of Quiz Graphic Arts. We took a few minutes from our busy day at the Quiz for a little party hosted by my wife, which included some snacks and an anniversary cake presented to me by Jerry and Carol Leggett.

A lot of things can change in 25 years and we are running the show with almost a completely different cast of characters than we did back in 1953. Cletus Ringlein, Merna Long and Helen Beran, who is now retired but still works on call now and then, are the only ones still working who were here when I first came to work.

The front office as we know it now wasn't built yet and the business office was that small room just north of the composing room. As a compositor I spend most of my time in the composing room.

The office girls when I came to work were Laura Anderson, Mina Sorensen and Ellen Beegley. Myra Barber was the society editor and was one of the first to greet me. I rated a three-line news item in that week's paper.

E.C. Leggett, Ed Apking and Myra Barber had their offices upstairs. Gene Leggett was Editor-Publisher and Ed Apking who assisted him with the advertising duties was the Advertising Manager. Some time later they hired Bill Lee to be Editor of the Quiz, giving E.C. Leggett more time to devote to the management of the business.

Jim Crane was shop superintendent when I came to work and for several years more until he reached retirement age. Cletus Ringlein now holds that job.

Twenty-five years ago all of the newspapers in Nebraska still printed their papers by the letterpress method. Now, the big majority of them are printing their newspapers by the more modern offset method. This has eliminated their need for photoengravings which were furnished to many of them by the Quiz. Photoengraving department which was then a big part of Quiz Industries and employed several people.

Twenty-five years ago the engraving shop was located in part of what is now Carson's IGA. Carsons were in the store now occupied by Multigan Music. Yorp Kawata was the head engraver at the time. The engravings were made there and then carried across the street to the mounting room upstairs in the Quiz building. Now, the complete engraving plant is located upstairs and Larry Kears is the engraver.

When I first came to work here almost all of the job printing was done by the old letterpress method and the Quiz owned only one small offset press. Now they own two offset presses, one a large capacity press that can handle a lot of work so now quite a lot of our job printing is done by offset.

We used to have four or five linotype operators when I first started working here. Later they installed tape punches and a teletype setter that sets almost all of our display type and is faster than the old method. We also have a new electronic cold type setting machine. In addition to being a good straight type setting machine it is a great help in setting up newspaper ads. Oh, yes, we also have this smart-alec computer that thinks it knows how to spell and space out type lines. I'd grade it about "D" in Spelling!

The $104,916 Boondoggle

The Ord Quiz recently learned Central Nebraska Community Action Agency personnel plan to create what they call a "Consumer Education Program" to reach 19 counties in Nebraska.

Under the proposed plan, $104,916 federal tax dollars will fund five resource centers manned by Consumer Education Consultants to provide technical assistance and information on consumer education and buying while informing low income and elderly citizens about benefits due them from state, federal, and local agencies.

Currently a myriad of offices on all levels of government inform everyone, not just the old and poor, about benefits to be derived from the thousand and one agencies already existing. Among them are state and county welfare offices, unemployment offices, and others.

Curious about the alleged shortage of information for consumers, the Quiz went to Valley County Agent Ron Engelke. There, we encountered racks, file cabinets, and folders bulging with government publications, slides, and film strips on every conceivable subject.

A random sampling of topics covered by the materials, available at little or no cost, included instruction on how to buy a shirt, how to wire a house, tips on saving money at the grocery store and thousands of other subjects.

Should a person be unable to make it to his office, Engelke assured the Quiz that a personal visit could be easily arranged, or the requested materials sent to the inquiring party.

Mrs. Carol VanNordheim, County Home Extension Agent, told the Quiz both rural and urban residents have full access to all available materials. In addition to those on hand, new materials are arriving at the rate of an estimated 40 periodicals every month, according to Engelke and Mrs. VanNordheim.

Countless other audio-visual materials are ready on request from various government offices around the country via the local county agent.

Job requirements for both Engelke's position and that held by Mrs. VanNordheim demand a Bachelor's Degree with the state suggesting graduate hours be pursued.

To serve the public, Central Nebraska proposes establishing the post of "Consumer Education Consultant." Minimum requirements for the job, as listed in the funding application include:

- Skilled in written and oral communications.

- Ability to establish a harmonious working relationship on a continuous basis with a staff, program recipients, and community contacts.

- Ability to work with technical data.

- Capable and willing to assume a leading role in advocacy for the poor.

- Able to drive and have access to a vehicle.

- Availability to attend and participate in meetings inside and outside the area as required.

A degree or experience in Consumer Education are listed as "Desirable Knowledge" on the consultant's job description sheet, but are not demanded.

Even if requirements for the consultant's job were raised to include a college degree in a related field, the position would essentially be duplicating the role now filled by the Valley County agent, agents across the state, and the job now done by various other government agencies.

At best the proposed Central Nebraska program would be a duplication of programs now existing. At worst it would be nothing more than a $104,916 boondoggle.

At either extreme the program seems nothing more than a waste of tax dollars, and as such it should be opposed.

Members of the Region 26 Council of Governments and concerned citizens will have a chance to do just that January 26 at 8:00 p.m. in the Valley County Courthouse when the C.O.G. holds its regular meeting.

We hope that members of that agency do all possible to expedite an early demise of this asinine scheme coming from Central Nebraska offices.

Aid To Education Triggers Fight On Unicameral Floor

CAPITOL NEWS

By Melvin Paul
 Statehouse Correspondent
 The Nebraska Press Association
LINCOLN — It didn't take long for the first full-blown verbal fight to break out on the unicameral floor.

And, predictably, triggering the fiery words was the key issue of state aid to schools — a topic that is certain to color the debate frequently during the current session.

It all started when Sens. Frank Lewis of Bellevue and John DeCamp of Neligh tried to get consideration of a resolution that proposed creation of a special legislative investigative committee to examine property tax equalization.

The resolution claimed the aid to education issue cannot be solved until there is statewide property tax equalization.

One of the first on his feet to challenge the proposal was Sen. Donald Dworak of Columbus, a leader in the successful petition drive to suspend the 1977 state aid law. That legislation would have furnished an additional $10 million to the schools, if its implementation had not been blocked by the referendum effort.

Dworpak wondered about the propriety of discussing a resolution that appeared to violate unicameral rules.

In question, he said, was a rule prohibiting the legislature from creating an investigative committee that would function while the lawmakers were in session.

Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan, unicameral presiding officer, agreed Dworpak had a valid point, and the oratorical fireworks were set off.

DeCamp charged Whelan had rendered a legal opinion on the constitutionality of an idea before the legislators had an opportunity to discuss it.

Addressing Whelan, DeCamp said, "You have broken ground no lieutenant governor ever dreamed of. We might as well pack our bags and go home."

"It is impossible,"

The shouting began when Lewis challenged the lieutenant governor's stand, arguing it was premature because no rule would be broken until a committee was appointed. Whelan said he had to act once Dworpak raised the issue.

Lewis wouldn't be quiet while Whelan tried to recognize other senators. This prompted a heated exchange during which the lieutenant governor ordered Lewis to "keep in your seat. This legislature will be run in an orderly manner."

Lewis shot back: "The chair is not going to be dictatorial."

Whelan repeated: "This body is going to be run in an orderly manner. Sit down."

According to the Bellevue lawmaker, some persons will attempt to keep state aid from being discussed because it would be "embarrassing" to someone. He added the issue has been ignored for seven years.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, one of the strongest supporters of increased state aid, moved to suspend the rule Dworpak cited but could muster only 21 votes — nine short of the required number.

That ended the matter, but perhaps not permanently. After he lost the battle, DeCamp said he will prepare another resolution requesting an investigation conducted through the unicameral's standing committee system.

Short Goes to Court

Contending he has been victimized by "one of the most false, malicious and untrue rumors ever operated by a certain few people," Clive Short has taken his case to Lancaster District Court in Lincoln.

Short was nominated by the state's Democratic hierarchy to be US marshal for Nebraska, but the nomination was blocked by Republican Sen. Carl Curtis, who said he had received some unfavorable reports about Short.

The senator has refused to provide names of those who gave him the information.

The petition filed in court for Short by former Gov. Frank B. Morrison named State Treasurer Frank Marsh, State Supreme Court Bailiff Myrlin Reiboldt and nine others. It said the subject matter of the action is libel and slander.

The document seeks to obtain testimony from the 11 persons about comments they allegedly made about Short's character. Curtis is one from whom a deposition is sought.

The 66 year old Short, who served as Nebraska's US marshal from 1964 to 1969, told reporters the FBI background report on him has "a few negative statements with all name references deleted."

Short said charges against him are that he was a drunk and a thief, "all of which is untrue. I have never been treated for alcoholism."

He acknowledged that some years ago "I had a little bit of a problem with the sauce" and "I shut it down, period."

Postpone Executions

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha has introduced legislation that would forbid any executions in Nebraska until next January 1.

His measure was submitted only hours before the State Supreme Court granted 90-day stays to three men on death row who were scheduled to be executed late this month.

Under the Chambers proposal, the Supreme Court, within six months of the enactment of the legislation, would have to review all cases of criminal homicide committed since April 20, 1973.

One provision of the bill would require the court, upon appeal, to determine the propriety of the sentence in each case after comparing it with previous cases "involving the same or similar circumstances."

The three men who received the 90-day reprieves were Erwin Charles Simants, who was scheduled for execution Jan. 21 for murdering six members of the Henry Kellie family of Sutherland; John Edward Rust, who was to be executed Jan. 23 for murdering a young Omaha man, Michael Kellogg, who came to the aid of police in a shootout with Rust following a supermarket holdup; and Richard Holtan, who was to die Jan. 25 for shooting an Omaha bartender to death during a robbery.

In motions filed with the court the day the stays were granted, Rust and Holtan indicated they wanted to present evidence not available at the time of the trial and sentencing, and Simants said Lincoln County Sheriff Gordon Gilster had improper contact with the jurors hearing his case.

The stays were the second granted by the Supreme Court to the three men.

Kill Driver Education Bill

A bill that would have required anyone under 18 to have a driver education certificate was killed on 26-10 in the Legislature.

The legislation was introduced last year by Warren Swart of Omaha, who resigned before it could come up for action. Sen. Shirley Marsh of Lincoln took over the sponsorship this year.

She said driver education makes good sense because it saves lives, reduces property damage and helps lower automobile insurance.

But several of those opposing the bill said it would add another expensive cost to the schools, which are already in a financial bind.

Bill Moudry said flat out that the whole country runs on fear, and it's a two-sided sword. He said it's a tossup which is more powerful in this country, the drive to succeed or the fear of failure. Either way you go, Bill allowed, we all spend most of our time building one and trying to get rid of the other, and we ain't never sure which is which.

General speaking, these fear seminars can open a can of worms. If all we got to fear is fear itself, that's aplenty.

Yours truly,

Gernani Joe

night ride —

It was beginning to snow and — despite the bitter cold — the blanket of white somehow softened the world.

He longed for another day when neither the temperature nor the time mattered, that state of mind in which he was oblivious to anything measurable.

Degrees. Hours. Miles. All were man-made.

"Misery is created by measurements," he thought to himself, "and measurements are a creation of man."

"Why," he continued wondering, "must we always know how far or how much or how hot or how cold?"

"Man is an analytical animal."

He answered his own question.

To his own amusement, he remembered a statement he'd often made — "There's no such thing as a large whiskey." The remark usually brought looks of askance, followed by grins. Bartenders were accustomed to such remarks — from him.

None of this thinking, though, dispelled the gloom that surrounded him on those bleak and bitterly cold days.

Snow swirled across the black-top road ahead and he could tell by his headlights the wind was pushing the snow harder. Only an occasional light dotted the darkened landscape.

"Any one in their right mind is tucked in, or beside a warm fire, on a night like this." He flicked on the lights on high beam, but quickly dimmed them to better see the roadway ahead.

At last he could feel some heat coming from somewhere under the dashboard and he glanced at the temperature gauge, noting it had finally started rising.

Conscious of the measurement he'd just studied, he returned to his thoughts of things measurable.

Degrees. Hours. Miles.

The fresh snowfall was starting to obscure the bare and frozen tufts of pasture grass. Rutted sideroads were blanketed with a crest of white.

The world was taking on a majestic beauty — untouched by man.

Suddenly there was no place but 'here' and no time but 'now.' And he felt wairin' all over.

Geranium Joe Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where the N.C. Department of Public Instruction has set a two-day seminar this month on what to do about fear of math.

The department knows students and adults have "a unnatural fear of math" that hinders them in a world filled with numbers.

I am full agreed that folks are scared of numbers, but to my way of thinking the feller that ain't is the one to worry about.

Mister Editor, fear is a perfect natural emotion, and in a heap of cases it'll git us out of tight places our weak conscience and stupidity get us in. You take away a man's fears and you got a man standing naked and defenseless before the world is the way I look at it. Fer instant, I've thought a good deal about what we mean when we say so and so is a "God-fearing man."

Do we mean he ought not to be, or that he is a good man because he is, or that he's a feller with sense enough to know the difference? I thought up one side and down the other, and I'm of a mind that what we're saying is that here is a man who respects God and his fellow man.

A healthy fear is a source of strength in a time of trouble, I allus say.

So I figger people are afraid of math because it usually means trouble.

You git a figger folks out of place in your checkbooks, and the bank fails on you. You git a decimal out of place on your income tax form, and the next thing you know the Internal Revenue has your house surrounded and your books locked up and the agents are wanting to know who can back up your story about that $50 in cash you give when the new church roof turned out to be bigger than the budget. You mess up the numbers and you're guilty until proven innocent ever time, and you got to prove it with more math. Yessir, if there's anything it's natural to be scared of, it's numbers.

I mentioned this fear of math seminar at the country store Saturday night and it got the fellers started. I didn't git to say much during the discussion, bu

I got the idea that fear is right up there with love and hate as far as its place in our lives. Most of the fellers talked of their fears like they would be crazy not to have em. Vic Benben, fer instanst, said he sees ever now and then where they have classes to help folks overcome fear of flying. He said as far as he is concerned, wanting to git over that fear makes as much sense as feeling guilty about being afraid to walk in front of a moving train. The only fear Vic said he could think of is that the panic all boys feel when they git near soap and water.

Bill Moudry said flat out that the whole country runs on fear, and it's a two-sided sword. He said it's a tossup which is more powerful in this country, the drive to succeed or the fear of failure. Either way you go, Bill allowed, we all spend most of our time building one and trying to get rid of the other, and we ain't never sure which is which.

General speaking, these fear seminars can open a

Ludicrous Alternative

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M. M. Van Kirk, Director of Information

The economic health of the nation's pork industry has been stressed and threatened by the nitrite controversy which scientific and common sense evidence clearly indicates is of an inconsequential nature.

In October, the U.S. Department of Agriculture gave the meat industry until January 16 to provide information demonstrating that the use of nitrite in the production of bacon does not result in the formation of carcinogenic (cancer-causing) nitrosamines. That deadline has now been moved up to March 16 to give 60 more days to come up with a mass of evidence to the contrary.

Sodium nitrate is a naturally-occurring substance in vegetables, water, soil and even the air. Originally discovered as an impurity in salt, small amounts have been used for thousands of years to cure meats. Sodium nitrite, also used to cure processed meats, is a derivative of sodium nitrate. When nitrate is used to cure meats, it converts to nitrite. Both nitrate and nitrite usage are allowed under the Meat Inspection Act.

Nitrite is essential in cured meats because it prevents botulism and provides a safeguard against mishandling by manufacturers, distributors, retailers or consumers. A recent USDA study concluded that 63 per cent of the 2,500 households surveyed ran a "high risk" of food-borne illness because of lack of awareness of basic safe food handling practices.

Nitrite gives cured meats their special flavor and appearance and without it, we could not have bacon, sausage, ham and other meat products as we know them. Nitrite is the only substance that will do all these things. No substitute has been found even though more than 700 substances have been tested as possible replacements.

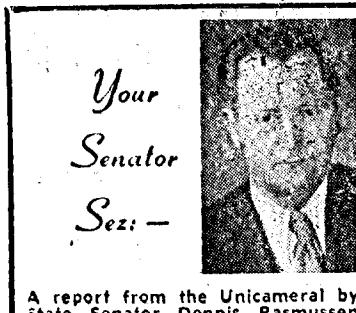

The American Meat Institute, the USDA and the Food and Drug Administration have engaged in extensive joint nitrite research since the matter first came up in 1970 and have spent millions of dollars on it. Results of the analyses have shown that virtually all cured meat products are free of nitrosamines but minute amounts of a nitrosamine have been discovered in some bacon as a result of severe frying.

In 1975 the American Meat Institute urged its members to eliminate the use of nitrates altogether and to reduce nitrite use by about 40 per cent to 120 parts per million and these recommendations have been adopted by most meat processors. As nitrite use was reduced, it was replaced by an increase in the amount of ascorbate (Vitamin C).

The worry over nitrite use stemmed from two lifetime rat feeding studies in which the rats ate extremely high dosage levels of nitrosamines developed liver tumors. The German Cancer Research Institute which conducted the research said that in human terms, a person would have to eat 15,415 pounds of bacon per day for a lifetime to equal the dosage level that produced the tumors in rats. Studies at lower level dosage produced no evidence of ill effects.

There is real question as to whether acceptable evidence can be provided on a technological basis to insure that no levels of nitrosamines, as little as 20 parts per billion, will be found in any samples of bacon if it is produced safe from botulism.

The ways of bureaucracy are such that it would apparently prefer to expose the American people to potential botulism which is deadly, than permit use of a meat processing product that has been used for centuries to insure that it does not occur. The dangers of nitrosamines in comparison are hypothetical and so remote that the matter of choice becomes ludicrous . . . to everybody except bureaucrats and a segment of consumer activists.

A report from the Unicameral by State Senator Dennis Rasmussen of the 41st Legislative District.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 41st Legislative District:

The Nebraska Legislature completed a 10 day schedule which allowed for the introduction of bills, then adjourned for two weeks during which bills will be heard by committees. We will then start on February 2, for the remaining 50 days, holding sessions both in mornings and afternoons.

The Government Committee will be holding four days of hearings, and will average 10 bills each day. This has made it necessary to limit the amount of time for public testimony — a practice which I have never before done. I regret this, and voted in favor of an unsuccessful attempt to modify the schedule.

This week is a good time to discuss the success of our "Sunset" legislation from last year. We finished our second set of hearings on the six agencies scheduled to terminate on July 1 of this year. I don't expect

The Whites attended the Conference, January 15-17, sponsored by the State Department of Agriculture in Lincoln. Featured at the Conference was Governor Exon at the opening Nebraska Agricultural Commodities Banquet. Don Muhm, Farm Editor, from the Des Moines Register addressed the participants on agriculture's image in the news; and Tom Hughes from the USDA Agricultural Service stressed the importance of international marketing to today's agriculturist. Other areas discussed were water, estate planning, energy, animal health, the Farm Bill and current legislation.

Others attending the conference included Mr. and Mrs. Tom Huff-man of Burwell, Mr. and Mrs. Max Cruikshank of Arcadia, and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sitz of Burwell.

In addition, the Legislature is being televised each evening on educational television at 10:30 p.m. These opportunities will give you an opportunity to stay informed and express your opinions.

Glancing Back

Sometimes I wish I had a list of names of all the people I have worked with at the Quiz during the 25 years I have been with the firm. There have been so many that I have forgotten about quite a few of them.

We have had all kinds, mostly good but also some real characters.

During my early years at the Quiz we had more than twice as many people employed as we have now. Several things account for this. For instance, during the 1940's, when the Quiz Photoengraving department was supplying engravings all over the country there were about half as many people employed there as we have in the whole shop these days. With the modern offset method of printing gaining so much popularity all over the country, our engraving business is just a shadow of what it used to be. Our engraver heads up a one-man crew now with a little part time help now and then.

Also with the postal rates on printed matter going up and up, a lot of the customers began to go to the miscellaneous small jobs (envelope stuffers or junk mail if you please) went out of business. These things along with the installation of more modern equipment that enables fewer people to do more work enabled the management to cut down on the number of employees and come up with a more compact and profitable operation.

As I started out to say, we have had some interesting people working here. For instance, Bill Lee was about the liveliest promoter that ever hit this town. Do you know that the sidewalk days were his idea? After he left the Quiz, he worked on Senator Hruska's staff in Washington. We had some lively times here in Bill's day. Ernie Ahlschwede was our machinist for several years and he was a good one. He could get as dirty as anyone while working on the machines and kept them running in good shape. Ernie's biggest fault was that he tried too hard to make people like him. When Ernie died we had a machinist named Fred Schroeder who used to come to work dressed like if he were going to church. He would work on the machines all day and still look like he had just stepped out of a band box. As a person who can get dirty from just walking past something, I could never quite trust a man like him.

We also had a young fellow from Oliven, Iowa whom we called "Lonesome George". This man had a lot of enthusiasm but he could get unbelievably dirty. He must have thought he wasn't doing a good job if he wasn't ink and grease from head to toe. Quite a few of our fellow workers left the Quiz to run newspapers of their own. Among them were Ed Apking, Dick Lindberg, K. K. Stevens, Max Good, Ron Bopp and Dennis Krikac to name just a few and several of our old co-workers at the Quiz are now employed by the Grand Island Independent.

As a society editor, Myra Barber was in a class by herself. I have never seen another reporter more devoted to her job than Myra.

All of the many, many people I have worked with in the last 25 years have been good friends and there was one man I admired above all others — ever worked with or worked for, and that was Gene Leggett. Gene was a big man in the printing business and held offices in press associations all over the country, traveled all over the world, and had friends in high places but he made us employees feel that we were the most important people he knew.

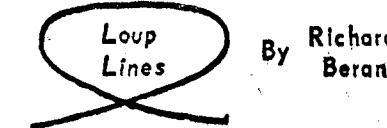

When Gene died, six of his employees were asked to be pallbearers at his funeral. I have always been grateful that I was one of those chosen.

A Class V misdemeanor is one that carries a maximum fine of $100.00. Several NRDs, in conjunction with watershed construction, have acquired land for recreational purposes. The use of recreational areas by the public requires policing in some manner. This bill would allow existing law enforcement agencies the authority to exercise control. Enactment of LB-615 would fill a needed void in an NRD's responsibility for recreational development.

When you put it in a bank, most of it stays right at home to help your community. You see, the bank invests your savings in construction loans and home mortgages, business development and agricultural financing. Banks help with municipal bonding, too — money for parks and schools. Money for progress.

Today banks have more than $80 billion invested in communities like yours. So if you believe in your community, there's no better place to put your money than your bank.

Carol Tucker Foreman, assistant secretary for food and consumer services with the U.S. Department of Agriculture defended the need for a federally instigated national food policy in a 12-page speech delivered before the food and nutrition board of the National Academy of Science last week.

A series of nutritional and dietary goals proposed by the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs chaired by Sen. George McGovern, has drawn fire in recent weeks from the American Medical Association and various nutrition specialists.

Because population growth appears to be stabilized with a concurrent slowing of the domestic demand for food, Mrs. Foreman said, "We need to begin giving the most serious consideration to forging a new food policy — a policy that responds to the dilemmas facing us today. The federal government must respond to these changing needs. At the USDA we are beginning those adjustments."

In the future we should work toward a food policy that has nutrition as its first goal."

After outlining goals of the federal program, Mrs. Foreman concluded her remarks with the ringing statement, "We are determined to avert tragedy, not react to it."

We don't know the response to those attending the lecture, but our first reaction is one of skepticism. The old saying that the two most mistrusted phrases are "The check is in the mail," and "Hello, I'm from the government and I'm here to help you," aren't without foundation.

As yet this government correct foods idea is still on the planning boards. Just how it will, or could do, remains to be seen. Having nothing better to go on, we are using the record of the sponsoring agency — the U.S. Government — as a possible guideline of a future performance.

After taking in the whole situation, we believe that if you like the way Medicare, the Post Office, and the near defunct Social Security System are run, then you'll just love this latest idea from the USDA.

Apparently we aren't alone in this viewpoint. Various individuals and groups have proposed plans involving collective bargaining, a unified front, and farmers going on strike. Ken Monfort of the Monfort meat dynasty in Colorado recently suggested farmers eliminate chemical fertilizers and other expensive aids and deliberately reduce their production.

With lowered costs and an increased demand for their products he believes farmers could make more money.

While we don't have the wisdom to agree or disagree with his plan or others recently suggested, we do maintain that private enterprise and a collective initiative or effort of some kind will be better than yet another government plan designed to "help" the farmer.

Right now another bureaucratic scheme run by a former consumer advocate is the last thing agricultural producers need.

—W.M.

Project Cancelled

The Ord Quiz has learned the Central Nebraska Community Action Agency withdrew their $104,916 funding request last Thursday. Until then, they had sought monies to back a consumer education project. Services offered by that plan would have duplicated many of those now offered by existing state, national, and local agencies.

Although we don't know the reason the project was halted, we suspect the reaction of concerned citizens to the ill-advised scheme played a major role in the demise of the plan. We only wish this scenario would be repeated more often when similar dead-end projects are proposed.

Cigarette Smokers-Others May Boost Building Fund

CAPITOL NEWS

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
LINCOLN — If enough of Nebraska's lawmakers stick to their guns, it won't be only the cigarette smokers who will be kicking into a building fund that furnishes the money for some of the fancy state buildings that have been erected in recent years.

Cigarette smokers, many of them at least, are quick to point out that their expensive, unhealthy and occasionally smelly habit has one good thing going for it — generating dollars for construction of facilities like the new State Office Building and the plush new sports arena on the State Fairgrounds.

The legislators recently incorporated into a bill a provision that other users of tobacco products would also be taxed to provide more building money, primarily for the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission's recreational improvement projects.

In its original form, the bill that was amended called for a tax on soda pop as a revenue source for the commission. The measure was revised to divert to the commission the proceeds from one penny of the five-cent building tax on cigarettes. The idea of taxing soft drinks was abandoned.

After that was done, some of the legislators, led by Lincoln Sen. Wally Barnett, won approval for another amendment calling for a 15 percent wholesale tax on snuff, chewing tobacco, cigars and pipe tobacco with the proceeds being earmarked for the Game Commission and the Capital Construction Fund.

Barnett estimated that the new tax would produce about $2 million annually, a figure hotly disputed by several opponents of his amendment.

Even though Barnett's proposal won support from 28 lawmakers,

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, doubted it would even become law.

Warner predicted "an avalanche of lobbyists" will be buttonholing the legislators in their fight against the amendment. "I'll be very surprised if the wholesale tax stays in the bill," he added.

Sen. Barry Reutzel of Fremont, a pipe smoker and one of the sponsors of the soda, pop tax, argued that six states which had taxes on tobacco products other than cigarettes repealed the levy because it didn't generate much money and was difficult to administer. He said Kansas collected only $763,000 on a 10 percent wholesale tobacco tax last year.

Big Springs Sen. Jack Mills sponsored the amendment that calls for placing one cent of the state's cigarette tax in the Nebraska Outdoor Recreational Development Act Fund, starting in fiscal 1980-81. He estimated that would give the Game Commission $1.8 million that could be matched with federal money.

Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, who helped steer to passage the extra nickel a pack cigarette tax

Something Different

California!

Well, life in California isn't all joy and gingerbread. Contrary to what you may have heard, it too has its drawbacks.

For instance I was walking around the yard of our little home last week, a neighbor accompanying me, when she cried out "You've got snails!"

"Where?" I answered, never having seen one except on a plate swimming with garlic butter, smelling lu-sh-shus.

"Right here!" and she began picking them off a flourishing cactus of some exotic kind, throwing them on the driveway and mashing them with her little shoe. "You have a lot of them; see here!" she proceeded around the yard, "look on this fuchsia: look at your beautiful little canary tree, they're killing it!" I was aghast: I didn't know the little creatures were so vicious.

Walking back across the grass we both noticed how the sod seemed soft, eaving underfoot. "And you've got moles here, too!"

I'd never met moles before either and I was shook. Next day we shopped for the needed chemicals and began to rid ourselves of these two pests.

The fuchsias are as big as spirea get in Ord: they were flowering and I certainly don't care to lose them, as they're a lovely bright flower. And the canary tree has yellow blossoms at the tip of each branch, plus a smooth, sensuous trunk, a graceful tree in all: I'm not sure that's the proper name for it however.

Although we're only a mile from the Mexican border we've never been troubled with any Mexican runaways, any chicanos, as they prefer a route a few miles east of us that takes them north among kinfolk. But I am hearing about pilfering in our home park and I don't care for that much. They say it is a bunch of kids who live nearby . . . blame it on the kids . . .

No wonder so many people have little yappy dogs!

And another thing: John swears it has rained 25 out of the last 30 days. This follows a two-year drought and I'm sure he's wrong, it only nizzled on many of those days, or clouded over and then cleared up.

There has been much flooding in other parts of San Diego. For which moisture the natives are gratefully giving thanks, after a two-year drought. Big fields near here furnish vegetables for many of the dinner tables in this country; beautiful lettuce, carrots, spinach, broccoli, artichokes, onions to name a few.

Now up by L.A. . . it really rained.

The surf has been about the highest ever, so we sneak to the beach whenever we can, hauling books, chairs, sun hats, a big Air Pot of hot tea complete with milk and sugar (how British can you get?) also dark glasses, always.

And a big sack of yellow corn that Ed Swopes gave John.

John flings the corn first left and then right and the pigeons fall over themselves to get it, while he roars with laughter until I have to laugh with him.

The stupid gulls won't eat corn but they stand close by and walk around daily.

Meantime we're beginning to identify a few of the 40 or 50 pigeons as they rush greedily. They do have personalities, and one will even eat from his hand.

Al the joys of retirement . . . ?

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers at the country store studied the situation up one side and down, the other Saturday night, and they agreed with Herb Goff that what this country needs is a President with a year-round hobby. The matter come up after Herb allowed that what is wrong with the Carter Administration is that you can't play softball in Washington all the time. This year of year there is too much news of the President working and not enough of him playing. He said.

City Sales Tax Bill
At the urging mainly of Omaha officials, Sen. Nelson Merz of Falls City sponsored a bill that would allow any city to impose a sales tax of up to 1.5 percent without a vote of the people.

Under his bill, the higher tax in the four cities that already have a sales tax would expire on October 1, 1980, when the levy would revert to what it was before his bill went into effect.

Only Omaha, Lincoln, Bellevue and North Platte have municipal sales taxes.

Omaha officials, led by Mayor Al Veys, have been lobbying intensively to get permission to increase their tax to 1.5 percent because of what they said are pressing financial needs.

Merz said the bill he introduced was the way Omaha city officials wanted it. Responding to a question, the Falls City lawmaker said he was not asked by his hometown to sponsor the legislation.

The inclusion of Lincoln in the Merz measure didn't sit well with several of the Capital City senators.

Sen. Wally Barnett said that was directly contrary to his wish.

"They just lost me on the bill," he said.

Speaker Roland Luedtke took the same view. He noted Lincoln officials had not sought the additional taxing authority.

Merz said representatives of the Nebraska League of Municipalities did not help write the bill but did support it.

On the same day his proposal was submitted, the Legislature beat down an attempt to kill another bill that provides for a one-cent tax on the sale of the people before a municipal sales tax could be imposed. Exempted from the bill, sponsored by Sen. Howard Lamb of Anselmo, were the four cities which already have the tax.

Clint Richardson said the trick is to git the President's mind off his work. He recalled back when Ike was in office there was few times when the President riled anybody, and the same with Hoover. Ike would take off to the golf course and Hoover would go fishing, and let the world shift for itself a few days, Clint said.

When they come back they usually find the problem had solved itself. He recommended that Carter take up fishing, cause he said the Lord don't count the time a man spends fishing, and from what he reads the President needs to slow down.

Clint got static on his stand. Frank said we ain't talking about locking up the store and going home, and that's what Ike and Hoover done. We got to come to a reasonable balance. Truman used to take off a hour and go for a walk, Frank said, and he'd come back refreshed and raring to go. We need somesun like that to give Carter a break, and to give the reporters a chance to write "color stories" about the Presidential skateboard instead of brother Billy's beer and little Amy's treehouse.

Farthermore, broke in Herb,

— renewal —

The oldest of the daughters, and only one pursuing a journalistic career called, last week, from Omaha where she's taken a job with an advertising agency. Knowing I was going to be in Omaha, she had a request: "Would you have Dad bring me one of five people at the table adjacent to our own."

Soon I'd warmed up enough to begin visiting with Sue and trying to decide what I'd order.

The doctor answering the page from the next table returned and seated himself. I looked . . . and looked again!

"Why . . . that's Kirk Lewis!"

I told my daughter, "I haven't seen him since 1953."

I excused myself, slipped the two steps over to the next table and grasped Kirk's shoulder, introducing myself.

With a smile from ear to ear, he politely arose and grasped my hand warmly . . . then asked that he be introduced to my daughter.

I rounded up all the copies I could find and loaded them into my car to deliver to her while in Omaha on other business.

An inch of snow and sub-zero weather quickly discouraged any return trip to Ord and I decided to stay overnight. So I called Sue, asking her to go out and eat and I'd deliver the magazines when I picked her up.

Not wanting to stray too far on Omaha's icy streets, I decided to try Gallagher's — a place to eat, right next to my motel.

Though I'd heard of the old-fashioned decor of the restaurant, I had never been there before. Soon after we were seated, I started remarking about the cut-glass canopy over the restaurant and the interesting menu we'd been given.

People hustled in, bundled with heavy coats and mittens and scarves to protect against the President on a skateboard is sure to take our minds off reports that Kirk is gitting off fast. Whenever a President spends time with reporters they're bound to say he's got tired eyes, deeper wrinkles and, in general, the job is gitting him down. # Former Ord Coach Taking Life Easy at Ord High. In his 14 years here he has given the Ord basketball team a sound reputation known and respected in most state schools in Class B. "We've had some good seasons," he recalled, "and they're having a good season now."

Trubey Recalls Fourteen Years

In helping found some of those ways, Trubey made it a rule to pick seven main players and use them as the backbone of his team. In his words, "You live or die with them."

The former coach once called some of his players four horses and a mule. State papers picked up the quote and it did generate some lively discussions.

What Trubey said in jest was taken seriously by some. He just chuckled when recalling the incident. "You have to put humor in coaching," he explained. "Like any other job, if you don't do that it will get to be dull."

Asked about coaching in the future, Trubey replied, "It's hard to tell. If a good basketball program opened up, I might consider it."

Right now he plans to keep teaching Social Studies at Ord High and attending a game once in a while.

Arcadia Huskies Split Two Games

The Arcadia Huskies fell victim to Greeley 52-33 last Friday. The Greeley team out defended Arcadia and completely dominated the game.

Leading scorers for Greeley were Micky Potts with 15 points, Joe Miller with 14 and Peter Happ with 10.

Kevin Holcomb for Arcadia scored 14 points. Mick Anderson got 9 for the Huskies. The win gives Greeley a 7-5 win-loss record.

Sunday Arcadia took on Litchfield and won by 9 points, 63-54. Carl Lucas scored 15 and Jerry Albrecht added 14 points.

Marty Albrecht added 14 points, but they weren't enough to overcome Arcadia's lead.

The Huskies gained an edge over Litchfield and won by 9 points, the first quarter and never lagged the rest of the game.

High scorers for Arcadia were Mick Anderson with 20, John Cox with 17 and Kevin Holcomb with 13 points.

The win makes Arcadia's record 5-4. Litchfield has a 7-2 rating for the year.

THESE ARE THOSE DAYS . . . At times when we become discouraged about the ways of the world, it's comforting to know we're living in what people 30 years from now will call the good old days. The new generation with 30 years tacked on will be looked upon as old fogies then, boring each other with the glowing remembrances of the late 70's.

They will probably tell their children — who are not likely to be interested — how things were in the "good old days." In talking about automobiles they will probably say the 1970 versions weren't the most comfortable with those hard bucket seats so close the ground that they were a major struggle to crawl into and out of — but they probably will add that the mileage was good.

Thirty years from now it might be worth mentioning that in the '70's a lot of valuable land was devoted to golf courses and there were picnic areas beside many highways and garbage cans on most street corners too.

It may also be worth noting that most families still lived in houses with grass and trees around them and we grew flowers and children chased butterflies, participated in Halloween parades and exchanged May baskets and Valentines.

But then who will ever believe a story so silly as that?

COFFEE CUP PHILOSOPHY: It is not how much we have but how much we enjoy, that makes happiness.

NLS Thespians Bound for State

The North Loup-Scotia one-act play entitled "Nobody" qualified for the State One-Act Play Contest last Wednesday at the District IV One-Act Play Contest held at Kearney State College. A maximum of 20 percent of the plays may advance to the state contest which will be held February 1, at Kearney State College. The other five plays selected from the 28 presented were Elba, Centura, Brule, North Platte St. Patricks and Doniphan.

The NLS play received "superior" ratings from both the judges. Members of the cast are Lisa Rasmussen, Kim Sich, Sharon Kriewald, Kevin Sheldon, Todd Cook, Galen Ackles, Mark Sinek, Kent Timmons, Reba Ackles, Karen Jensen, Ann Kluthe, and Tami Meyer. Lori Jeffries served as student assistant to director Mel Shoemaker.

The play incorporates about twenty scenes and explores various aspects of life where humans attempt to be "somebody." It explores several scenes of our educational system, a vignette of the breakdown in any situation, scenes of conflict, Whites and Blacks, war and peace, religious strife, country vs. country, progress vs. ecology, and the dilemma of whether or not to get involved in other people's lives.

The play also involves monologues by each character. The set is composed of five stools and one chair. These props, they are utilized as the necessary scenery for the scenes.

Senior Citizens Feted at Party

The weather was cold outside, but it was cheerful in the Recreation Center where Valley County Senior Citizens met for their January 17 party.

The group was pleased to have as their guest, Rev. David Marsh of the Presbyterian Church who added to the enjoyment as all joined in the singing of songs and hymns.

Rev. Marsh was a member of the Senior Citizens Activity Committee and was instrumental in the first organization of the present Senior Citizens group. So it was with memories of happy times which Rev. Marsh had helped to bring to the group that expressed their best wishes were extended to him and his family as they leave for their new home in Altesia, NM.

Irene Nolte, president of E.H.A. and members directed by their Home Economics teacher Angela Batenski, had planned to bake and serve the January birthday cake, but due to the prevailing flu conditions, the cake was furnished by Mrs. Stanley Nolte.

Seated at the birthday table to enjoy the delicious cake were Josie Osewski, Verna Zukoski, Agnes Parks, Hilda Boggs, and guest, Rev. Marsh who led in a prayer of thanks. Lunch was served by Mena Jorgenson, Clara Krahulik, Clara Ludington assisted by Hilma Young, and Gladys Beran.

Chants Romp Over Albion Cardinals

by Deb Osentowski
The Ord Varsity basketball team added another victory to their record winning over Albion, 62-49 Friday.

The Albion Cardinals came to Ord with a 2-5 season record, last Friday, Jan. 20, in hopes of an upset win. After Ord had a first quarter led of 15-10 Albion closed the gap early in the second period of play. Holding the Chants scoreless, the Cardinals scored six unanswered points to take the lead. With 2:01 left in the quarter the scoreboard read 22 all. For the remainder of the quarter Ord out scored Albion to take a halftime advantage, 33-26.

Ord never let Albion come within five points of them during the third quarter of action. Building up a considerable lead, the Chants seemed to have the situation well in hand. At the conclusion of the third quarter

Ord held a 12 point lead, 44-32.

Ord's biggest lead came in the final period. A Chant crowd saw their team atop by 14 points, 46 to 32. Ord finished the game still ahead and victorious with the final score 62-49.

Coach of the Chanticleers, Troy Denney said the team played as well fundamentally as it had to. He also commented that the Chants shot well outside during the first half but picked up on the choice of outside shots the second half which led to a better percentage.

From the field the Chants hit 24 of 29 for 40.7% while Albion had a 32% hitting 21 of 64.

At the free throw line the Cardinals cashed in on 7 of 9 for an outstanding 78 percent. They also had a fair night at the line tossing in 14 of 25 for a 56%.

Coach Denney cited Troy Witherwax as the games outstanding player. "Troy had 29 points and six assists". Contributing in scoring Cohen Hoppes had 14 points; Mark Carson scored 9 while Jeff Welnak and Joe Dvorak each had 6 points for the Chants.

Ord was slightly outrebounded 39 to 40. High rebounder for the Chants was senior Mark Carson with 15. Along with Carson, Troy Witherwax also had 11 rebounds with Jeff Welnak hauling in 6.

Lady Chants Rated Fifth

The 8-2 Ord Lady Chants were ranked number five in state Class B polls this week. Prep sports writer Chuck Sinclair of the Lincoln Journal-Star gave the Ord gals his vote for the number five spot.

The local gals weren't listed in the ratings by the Omaha World Herald. A footnote to the Omaha ratings listed Ord ladies as other teams considered for their state-wide ratings.

Ord Boxing Club Bound for Tourny

The Ord Boxing Club will compete in the Grand Island District Tournament, January 27 and 28.

The Ord team will be trying for their third straight team title also their third straight Outstanding Boxer of the Tournament.

The Ord Boxing team will have 11 boys entered in the meet. They include:

Buck Dahlsten, 112 lbs., has had two matches and lost both by decision.

Scott Spady, 112 lbs., has had a lot of Junior Boxing experience. Scott has lost two of five matches this year, both to more experienced Bill Peister of Peterburg.

Jerome Walkowiak, 119 lbs., will be making his appearance without any matches.

Bob Rasmussen, 147 lbs., has won two of three matches this year.

Mark Dugan, 155 lbs., Mark has won seven of eight matches this year. Mark is defender of the 156 lb. championship.

Craig Markwicka, 165 lbs., Craig has won four of five matches this year. Craig won the 147 lb. championship last year.

Craig Vogler, 205 lbs., has had one match this year.

Bob Koenig, 195 lbs., has won two of four matches this year.

Alan Goodrich, 218 lbs., has won two of four matches this year.

The champions will compete in the Midwest Tournament in Omaha February 18 and 19.

Ninth Grade Girls Downed by Central

The Ord ninth grade girls continued their trek through a long and winless season Monday by losing to host Central City 18-11. The Ord girls failed to get on the boards until the third quarter. They then logged three points.

At one point Central City players were in front 15 or 16 to 1.

An eight point surge in the last play period plus the three meager points scored in the third quarter made up Ord's 11 points for the game.

A glum Jan Weber, Ord coach, recalled the girls didn't know

Chants Overpower Loup City In Overtime Play

by Deb Osentowski
A long time rivalry between Ord and Loup City was kept alive in a game that went into overtime last Saturday. In one of Ord's most exciting games, the Chants won 72-67.

After the opening tip-off Ord took the lead, capitalizing on Loup City's turnovers. Joe Dvorak and Troy Witherwax scored the majority of Ord's first quarter points as the Chants led the rated Red Raiders. At the end of the first period of action the score was 21-18.

Ord seemingly was going to walk away with the game as during the second quarter the young Chants had a 10 point advantage midway through the period. The scoring pace slowed slightly and at half time Ord still led by a 35-30 score.

Unfortunately four Chant players had three or more personal fouls. This factor carried into the third quarter as the Chants momentum started to slip. Half way into the quarter Loup City scored 10 unanswered points to take the lead. Here is where the real battle started. After taking a time out the Chants tried to get back on track but saw themselves down by six at 39-34.

Several confusing and unusual officiating calls sent the Chant crowd wild. To bring the Chants within a basket Mark Carson fought on the offensive boards laying the ball up four times before hitting the crucial points. With seconds on the clock Troy Witherwax tied the score at 42.

It seemed to be a whole new ball game going into the final eight minutes. Foul trouble still lingered with the Chant team. The score was again tied at 51-51 when starter Mark Carson fouled out with 4:20 left in the game. Sophomore Billy Wadas then stepped into the starter's shoes. Scoring the lead back and forth, Wadas and Jeff Weiniak hit several free throws and baskets to give Ord a four point advantage with 1:15 left in the fourth quarter. Determined not to let Ord go home with a win, Loup City tied it at 63 to send the game into overtime.

Again Billy Wadas hit baskets and free throws during the three minutes of overtime play. This was all the Red Raiders could handle and Ord out scored Loup City 9 points to 6 for the final score to read 72-67.

The two teams were evenly matched in almost every category. In turn overs Ord had 21 compared to 24 for Loup City. From the field Ord hit on 29-67 attempts for a 43.3% and Loup City hit 29-69 for 42.3%. The

Two Ord Grapplers Make State Ratings

Two Ord High varsity grapplers rated state-wide recognition recently. Varsity team members Bryce Ritz in the 119 pound division and Tom Novotny, in the 126 pound division, were rated in the top five class B categories by Omaha and Lincoln sports writers.

Both the World Herald and Lincoln Journal-Star named Tom Novotny class B number one in Nebraska in his weight division. The Ord High senior has been wrestling for the last four years. During that time he has been a member of the varsity squad. So far this season, he has a 12-1 record.

Novotny might use his athletic ability in college, he revealed. Future plans include attending the University of Nebraska and majoring in Ag. Economics. Tom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Novotny.

Ritz Ranked

Bryce Ritz was ranked third in the 119 pound division in class B competition by both Omaha and Lincoln papers. No stranger to wrestling fans, Bryce has been a member of the varsity team for the last four years.

Last year he took a wrestling tour of several European countries. He was the first Ord High grappler so honored.

The Ord High senior is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Ritz.

Ord JV Team Gels Back-to-Back Wins

Ord junior varsity players had back-to-back victories over Albion and Loup City last week. Friday they upset visiting Albion 46-36.

Both Ord and Albion used a full court press and mixed man-to-man and zone defenses during the match. The Cardinals wanted to use the zone system but Ord's four-corner offense forced them into a man-to-man pattern.

The Chant underudies placed a man in each corner of the court and another at the free throw line forcing the opposition into a man-to-man defensive pattern. popular the last 2-3 years, this system was first used at Indiana University.

Coch Fred Williams had speculated the Albion players couldn't stay with Ord in a man-to-man situation. If the final score is any indicator, his idea was correct.

Top scorers were Smith with 15, Beran with 12, and Kremke with 10.

Ord 13 12 8 13 46
Albion 9 11 3 13 36

Saturday the JV squad went to Loup City and came home with a 56-40 win. Most of the JV games played the first half. At game midpoint, the Loup City lads led 26-25 and coach Williams then put in his starters and got a 16 point victory.

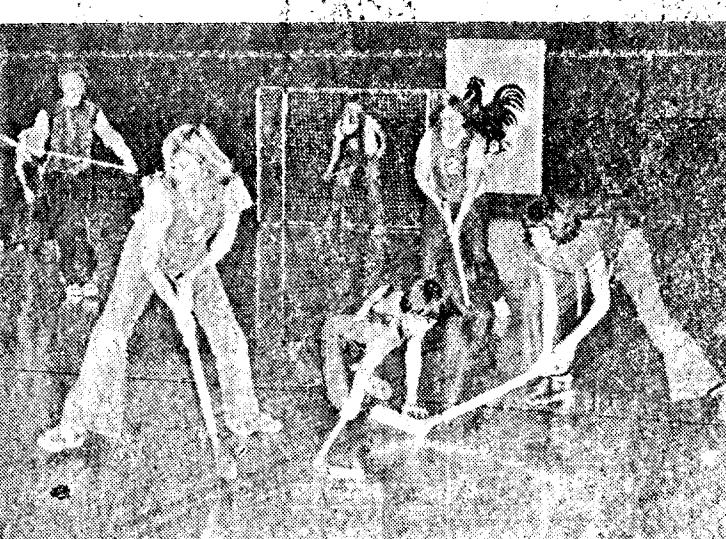

He commended the reserve squad for playing a fine game.

The back-to-back wins give the Ord JV squad a 8-2 record for the season.

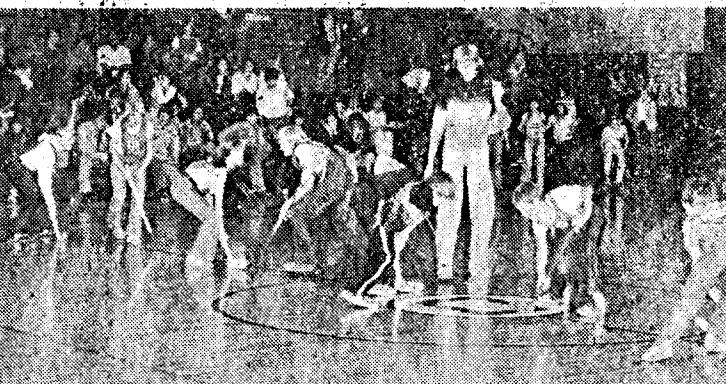

Ord 14 11 15 16 56
L.C. 9 17 5 9 40

High scorers were Smith with 12 and Beran with 7.

Too many men who say "I do" at church don't... when they get home.
