

Ord High Alumni Gather Saturday

An estimated 400 Ord High alumni gathered at the Ord Elks Club Saturday. Honor classes were those graduating in a year ending in the digit eight and the class of 1933.

Master of ceremonies was John D. Prien, Jr., Ord High class of '48. Since graduating, he has become vice-president of Henningson, Durham, and Richardson, International engineers and architects. In comments made at the banquet, Prien said he had met presidents and other high officials, but the persons he best remembered were his teachers at Ord High.

"You know," he chuckled, "one time while the teacher was out of the room, I got to cutting up. And then all of a sudden things got real quiet. And I turned around and there was Fred Stoddard" (then Ord Schools Principal).

Stoddard was credited for being "about the most understanding teacher a person could have". Others mentioned included Lucile Tolen and Elizabeth Lukes, former Ord High teachers.

"I just wish my children could have the experience of growing up in Ord, like I did," Prien concluded.

Ord High alumni receiving special recognition at the banquet Saturday were Kea Austin and Dessie Needham. Austin was given a gift for being the O.H.S. alumnus coming the longest distance. With the U.S. Army, he traveled here from Korea.

Dessie Needham, Ord High class of 1902, was recognized as the oldest alumnus present. Dessie is 91 years old.

Cargo Shift Likely Caused Derailment

A shift in cargo or a rock and roll motion of freight cars going around a curve was the likely cause of a recent Union Pacific train derailment near North Loup, according to Joe McCartney, of the Union Pacific news service. The 15 car train was five miles north of North Loup June 12 when it left the track.

The train and crew were on the last lap of a Grand Island to Ord round trip. They had a mixed cargo of farm products and anhydrous ammonia. There were no injuries.

Walkowiak Barn Burns to the Ground

A large barn on the Simon Walkowiak farm, nine miles southwest of Ord, was destroyed by fire Friday night. According to Jay Brown of the Ord Fire Department, no one was home when the fire started.

Neighbors saw the flames and called Ord firemen around 9:15 p.m. When firemen arrived, the barn was too far gone to save.

Before firemen arrived, neighbors used a garden hose to spray water on the nearby Walkowiak house and a shed. Both were saved.

Hay was stored in the top of the barn and motor vehicles including a car and motorcycle were in the bottom of the barn. All were lost in the fire, Brown told the Quiz.

Ord Ed Board Holds '79 Budget Preview

The Ord School Board gave a sneak preview of the 1978-79 Ord Public Schools budget during a special session at Ord High Thursday night. The proposed new budget totals $1,383,650, up over 10 percent from last year's budget of $1,245,410.

Financing the coming needs will require $856,970 in tax dollars down $103,162 from last year's cash requirements. Those totaled $960,132 according to Ord Schools Superintendent Dr. Bill Gogan.

Getting this cash will require a mill levy estimated at $3.56 mills, down 1.10 mills from the required $4.66 mills, asked last year.

Dr. Gogan acknowledged it is unusual to have a budget hike coupled with lower cash demands and a declining mill levy. He credited a hiked cash reserve on hand for this seemingly impossible feat. The present cash reserve totals $137,765, up $138,765 from the $33,000 on hand one year ago.

The reserve is up for two reasons according to Dr. Gogan. The first he listed was a cash requirement that doubled from $60,000 to $120,000 this year. The other, again according to Dr. Gogan, was that taxes are now coming in at a faster rate than they were 12 months ago.

Budget Up
The Ord Schools Superintendent blamed what he called "pandemic inflation" for the 10 percent budget hike. "Everything," he noted, "you buy goes up."

About 65 percent of this new budget will pay salaries of teachers and other staff members. These total around $700,000. Other large items include expenditures for the operation and maintenance of the school plant ($143,900) and transportation costs ($109,850).

The Seven Percent Solution
This new budget could be the last not affected by a seven percent lid. Earlier this month, the Unicameral passed a bill limiting most budget increases in Nebraska to a seven percent maximum. It appears that the bill will go into effect next year, barring a veto from Governor J. Elton.

Exon has given no indications he will try to kill the bill. Dr. Gogan maintained he could live with the seven percent ceiling, but warned he would likely have to cut some services in the future. "If inflation continues at its present pace," Dr. Gogan said, "it just makes sense that something will have to be cut back or go."

He declined comment on priorities in this area.

Relief Funds
This year, the School District received $125,000 in property tax relief funds from the state. These were to make up for a valuation drop in the district. This went from $17,565,533 to $16,000,000.

LB 518, passed by the Unicameral last year, exempts three major personal property tax categories before 1980. This year business inventories were dropped from tax rolls. To compensate for that, the state provided $88 million in payments to counties and other governmental subdivisions.

Assistant Attorney General Ralph Gillian warned "... that neither distributions to the county or within the county can continue to be made on this basis in the future."

Should these relief funds dry up, Dr. Gogan predicted mill levy hikes to finance school operations.

Hearing Thursday
During the special ed board session at Ord High, five people turned out to state their views. They were Lori Skala, Dean Bresley, J. H. Schroeder, Karen Zaruba, and Bill Cook. Questions asked all centered on the topic of where or when will ever-increasing budgets end.

Apparently no one knew.

Former Ordites Newspaper Beat Has Included Fish and Foul Magic

It's been a long jump for Lillian S. (Karty) Beloin from the Ord Quiz to her latest book, "Ey, Eya Eya Fish" in being in some interesting and often scary times. The Ord High graduate, class of '38, has plied her journalistic trade in a variety of newspapers, on a radio network, collected a journalistic award, and has risen to staff writer status on the Northwest Progress, in Seattle, WA, a Catholic newspaper.

While a high school student here, she worked for Quiz pioneer H. D. Leggett. Her one dollar a week salary included handling everything from lead type to social items. Back in those days, one of her duties was to call every number in the telephone directory, asking if Ord residents had any guests over the weekend or if they had gone anywhere.

After graduating from Creighton University in Omaha she started a career that was to include by-line stories on drugs, witchery, and well-remembered editorial concerning the construction of a bridge.

What amounted to a near one-man (or woman) crusade against drugs won her a round of applause from fellow journalists. It was marked the first time in 50 years that the University District Herald took a stand on a given issue.

Her contention that drugs were readily available in Seattle's university district drew disclaimers from both businessmen and the University Washington Daily, the school paper. Lillian ignored their denials, worked closely with police, and kept on digging. When she appeared on a television talk show university district businessmen and others downplayed her charges on drug availability. Especially descending and sarcastic was the owner of a coffee house. Lillian remembers him as being among the loudest in proclaiming the university district drug scene, where his business was located, was near non-existent.

Three days after the television show, police raided five area hangouts, including the coffee house. Drugs were found and arrests made. The day after the Herald broke the story, Lillian's phone rang steadily for the better part of a day.

It was in the 1960s while she was working for the Sammamish Valley News, that she came across a plan by some Redmond, WA residents to form their own town. Purpose of their plans, according to Lillian, was to run a Hungarian immigrant, running a gravel hauling operation, out of business.

The interested townspeople got a sharp young attorney to handle their land zoning and rezoning duties. His name? John Erlichman.

Municipal manipulations involved annexations of property where the real estate owner would end up having to pay taxes to the newly formed "town," but didn't have a vote in the municipality.

Council meetings for the newly formed town were often held in a back yard, and at odd hours. As Lillian recalls things, what she saw and heard at those council meetings didn't always reflect the legal minutes later published. Investigation on her part showed they had two council meetings; one for publication of the legal minutes, and another to lay their plans for further municipal manipulations, according to the reporter.

In the end, the townspeople did get rid of the Hungarian. After the Washington State Supreme Court ruled the town illegal, and it was disbanded.

The young attorney, John Erlichman, went to bigger, but not necessarily better — things, in Washington D.C. Other interesting stories she has covered included a lengthy

Councilman Skala Concerned Over Disrepair-Paving of Ord Streets

An old problem was discussed and shelved during the June 19 City Council meeting in Ord. The subject? Ord's crumbling streets. Councilman Willie Skala had proposed four new paving districts be created.

His motion was killed by a vote of 3-2. In a Quiz interview Thursday, Skala recalled city streets have been an issue for many years. According to the councilman, John Wozab was on the council when the city opted for using Armco-coat in place of gravel on Ord's byways. This was likely back in the 1940s, Skala estimated.

"At that time it did mark Ord as a progressive town," Skala recalled. Times change. Now streets in most other cities are made of concrete, according to many estimates. Initially more expensive, they are ultimately cheaper than asphalt-based paving compounds.

Skala likened the city's continuous repaving projects to "... spitting in the wind." He called present Ord streets "an awful disgrace."

"Well now, why don't you bump up the school and see that money they have up there," he suggested. "We almost lost a milk truck up there last winter," he recalled. "We had to send some equipment up and pull it out."

According to the long-time Ord resident, area streets have been scraped and graded so often, their present height is often below their official measurements, taken several years ago. Skala stated some curb lines are as much as 18 inches below the "official" measured center of the street.

The solution to the problem Skala suggests is a repair effort by Ord residents. "The only way we can do it," he predicted, "is a section at a

Hydrologist Questions Optimistic Ground Water Reserve Projections

Optimistic ground water reserve projections made by Dr. Loyd Fischer at a June 24 Calamus Project opponents open forum in Ord appear clouded by remarks from University of Nebraska hydrologist Vince Dreeszen. Speaking at the Ord Dikes Club, Dr. Fischer, a University of Nebraska economist, maintained ground water levels in the five county Calamus Project area are stable and will not likely decline.

Dr. Fischer was quoted as saying land in the project area is not over-developed and that underground water reservoirs have not been utilized to any major degree.

In a Quiz phone interview Friday, Vince Dreeszen, head of the University of Nebraska Conservation Survey Division said, "He (Dr. Fischer) apparently doesn't understand the hydrology of the area or hasn't looked at available information."

Water Levels
According to Dreeszen, ground water level declines he occurred in the five-county Calamus Project area, and could likely decline further. The University of Nebraska hydrologist stated these declines have occurred mainly in the Mira Valley and Geranium areas near Ord, where irrigation wells are concentrated.

As more farmers irrigate using ground water supplies, Dreeszen predicted further declines in the ground water level. He likened ground water reserves to a bank balance. Constant withdrawals, he contended will lower reserves on hand.

He stated should the $3,000 acre Calamus irrigation project go through the ground water table in Mira Valley and elsewhere in the project area will rise. "Without the project," he told the Quiz, "the water level will continue to decline."

During the interview, he made reference to a Masters Degree thesis done by Ronald J. Hoesek, a former Mira Valley resident. He called Hoesek's 140 plus page study of water management alternatives "a model study". According to the hydrologist, its form has been used in many other studies throughout the state.

Completed in September of 1975 the thesis was presented to the Graduate College of the University of Nebraska in partial fulfillment of requirements for a Master of Science Degree.

Vince Dreeszen has been with the University of Nebraska for over 30 years. He has conducted water table studies in many areas around the state.

Dr. Fischer's study was paid for by project opponents, and done at their request.

Dam Construction Bids Slated to Be Opened
Bids on construction for the Calamus Dam foundation will be opened August 15 in Ord High School. The earthen structure will be located near Burwell. Work will involve moving an estimated 500,000 cubic yards of dirt, relocating a half mile of highway around the dam, and installing about three miles of fence.

Betty Jo Axthelm was one of many local artists displaying paintings in the annual Art in the Park program last Sunday. The Loop Valley Artissimos sponsored the event.

Ord druggist Floyd Beranek brought these two pictures into the Quiz Monday. A search of Quiz files showed they were of the cast of "Aunt Lucia", a town play given in Ord November 14 and 15 of 1928.

According to Quiz files, the play was a decided financial and amusement success. Miss Billie Green of the Universal Production Company of Fairfield, IA directed a cast of more than 100 Ord people. The Tuesday Study Club sponsored the play's presentation.

After all expenses were paid, $34 remained as profits from the play. The Iowa company and local club each got $167 in proceeds.

Mrs. C. C. Dale, study club president, said the club's share of the proceeds will be used to start a fund which later may be increased sufficiently so that a club house may be purchased or built.

The November 22, 1928 Quiz article described the flapper chorus line as "probably the piece de resistance of the play. It featured prominent Ord business men as feminine celebrities and cartoon characters."

An estimated 1,500 people saw "Aunt Lucia" during its two-night presentation. The new, high school auditorium was used for a drama performance for the first time and proved an ideal place," the Quiz article stated.

Kapustka Family Holds Reunion

The kinfolk of the John and Regina Kapustka family held a reunion at Ord on Sunday, June 25, in the First National Bank community room. John and Regina Kapustka were married in 1859. They had seven children, four sons, Andrew, Tom, Pete, and Joe, and three daughters, Sophie, Mary, and Anna. Of these seven children and their spouses, only one remains living, Mrs. Andrew Kapustka of Lincoln. Almost 100 children and grandchildren of those seven Kapustkas gathered for the first time ever to reminisce with the known and become acquainted with the unknown.

After the covered dish dinner arranged for by Mrs. Gertrude Osewowski and Mrs. Bernice Vodehnal, all present were introduced as Spud Kapustka served as emcee. He showed on a map where the original Kapustka homestead was near Stuart, NE. Syl Boro brought large portraits of John and Regina Kapustka and the older kinfolk delighted the younger ones with stories like the one about Grandpa John having two protruding bumps on the top of his head and those were all that held his hat on when he had a little too much "home brew". Everyone present enjoyed recollecting old memories and creating new ones as all promised to get together on the last Sunday in June in 1979.

Present from Andrew's family were his wife Mary and, their son Valerian and his daughter, Cindy of Lincoln.

Present from Tom's family were Gertrude Kapustka Osewowski and her husband Tom and their children, LeVern and family of Ord, Geraldine and husband Vernon Ptacnik, and family of Bloomfield, Connie and husband, Carl Mendyk and family of Loup City, Ruth and husband Al Smith, and family of Sergeant, and Clarence and family of Lincoln. Tom's daughter, now deceased, Barbara Kapustka Swank, was represented by her daughter, Marjory and her husband Johnny Valasek and family of Larry Fransen and now deceased son Bolish, was represented by his wife Barbara and her daughter Agnes Cernik.

Present from Pete's family were Richard and wife Hazel and their daughter Cheryl and her husband Larry Fransen and their daughter, all of Broken Bow.

CAROL'S CORNER

MEMORY SAVES GOOD OLD DAYS . . . Memory is a funny thing. It is a kind of resurrection. It lets us to renew ourselves and to live more than once. In that respect, we are superior to the cat for it has but nine lives and we are not so restricted.

Through memory we can live as many times as we wish to, or at least repeat many times over certain portions of our lives.

Your own past has many enduring lives in it if you look back and remember when —

As a child, it rather bothered you when you couldn't feel your heart beat, and you would race to some adult in fear that you were dead.

The days seemed so short and the years so long. Now some days seem endless but the years go by so swiftly you hardly get used to one before it is gone.

It sounded so formal, funny and distant, but rather common to hear a married man speak of his wife as his "Mrs."

One of the biggest thrills of childhood was to go to the department store with your mother and stop at the candy counter. It was amazing what one of two pennies could buy.

Fans kept more people cool in summer than air conditioning did and your Mom would "shoo" the flies out of the house with a dish towel just before guests were to arrive for dinner.

If you went to a railway station, half the people cried when a train came in and the other half cried when a train left.

Everybody had an icebox in his kitchen — but nobody had a refrigerator.

You were privileged to listen to the radio AFTER all your chores and work was finished.

You believed in Santa Claus . . . and Santa Claus believed in you.

Bread was always homemade.

Home remedies were common and the worse a medicine tasted, the better it was supposed to make you feel.

If a man and a woman who were married to each other both wore eye glasses, the shapes of their spectacles were the same.

You were careful not to step on a sidewalk crack for fear you'd break your grandma's back.

Those were the days, the innocent days — remember?

Game and Parks Wins International Awards

International recognition for its conservation information program was recently awarded the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission at an international conference held in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

The annual meeting of the American Association for Conservation Information (AACI) included judging of conservation information and education efforts in nine categories. Nebraska captured one of the top three spots in four of those nine categories.

The judges, members of the University of Missouri School of Journalism faculty, awarded first place in the conservation education category to Nebraska's "Mr. Whiskers," a regular feature in NEBRASKAland Magazine. "Mr. Whiskers" is a prairie mole who gives lessons on Nebraska plants and animals in an easy-to-understand format geared especially for youngsters.

The Commission earned second place in the still photography division for a collection of photographs documenting the plants and animals of Sandhills wetlands and uplands. Most of those photographs appeared in the August, 1977 issue of NEBRASKAland Magazine.

The Commission's other honors were for its television programming and overall news information program. Both earned third place honors in the international competition.

"The awards are a tribute of excellence to the entire staff and also reflect the strong support of Commission Director Gene Mahoney and our board of commissioners toward our information and education programs," concluded Rex Amack, Chief of the Commission's Information and Education Department.

AACI is a professional association of writers, editors, photographers, broadcasters and educators working for conservation agencies and organizations in the U.S. and Canada. Most are employed by state or provincial fish and wildlife agencies, with others associated with active conservation groups.

Burwell Bombs Ord Dymonettes 37-14

The Ord Dymonettes continued a long, hot summer season with a 37-14 defeat by guest Burwell Thursday, June 29. Burwell scored Ord 13 in the first inning. The Dymonettes never caught up.

A game plan change by Coach Darrell Heisner didn't produce the expected runs. Heisner tried putting Pat Stethem on the pitching mound, and had Annette Scofield at third base. That change was rearranged just after that disastrous first inning.

In the second inning, Ord did score two runs, but it was far short of anything even approaching a victory drive.

Yet another game plan shift in the third failed to produce anything but trouble. Scofield was pulled off the pitcher's mound and Pat Stethem sent in. She walked three in a row.

Heisner's third choice for pitching, Val Dobrovsky lasted the rest of the game and what a long game it was. Burwell got 15 more runs in the third to kill any chances Ord may have had for a win.

Ord did get one run in the bottom of the fourth, and came alive with 10 runs in the bottom of the fifth.

A few years ago, Lief, Elsa, and their two children, Hans and Black Hills area of South Dakota. Their first impression of Nebraska is that it is a friendly country much bigger than they expected. Relative Lief explained Nebraska is about five times larger than Denmark. Ergo, a trip covering 60 miles is considered international in scope by the Nielsens.

According to the Nielsens, people in Ord are very friendly. They only regret their English vocabulary is limited, curtailing conversation with cordial Nebraskans.

Ord High School Alumni Gathering Was Spark for Piskorski's Reunion

This is the first time members of the immediate family have been together in 26 years. Family members are (back row, left to right) Frank and John Piskorski; (front row, left to right) Richard Piskorski, Dorothy Butts, Gertrude Piskorski, Katherine Turek, and Ernest Piskorski.

The Frank Piskorski residence, 520 N 15th in Ord, was the scene of a family reunion last week. It was the first time in 26 years that the entire 11 members of the immediate family have been together.

The Ord High alumni reunion sparked the gathering. Ten members of the immediate family are O.H.S. graduates. When the next generation comes of age seven more Piskorskis will enter the local school.

Frank Piskorski and Gertrude Baily were married January of 1921. They lived near Fort Hartsuff, and later moved to Ord. Gertrude was busy last week keeping track of her 43 grand children and eight great grandchildren attending the reunion. She estimated around 50 family members, their spouses, and children turned out for the family gathering.

Mrs. Piskorski has lived nearly all of her life in Valley County. "Only time I left was once when we lived in Kansas", she told the Quiz.

Ordite's Newsbeat

piece on witchcraft and demonology. The witches, according to Lillian, were cooperative and wanted their story told. The Satanists - worshippers of Satan - were not.

Getting inside their group took some doing. One former member, on being contacted by Lillian, told of living in dread fear of his life, according to the former Ordite, and wanted nothing to do with Lillian, the cult, or her story. Eventually she did gain access to the group, but not before some weird events transpired. She told how photographs would appear altered, and of other unusual happenings.

"The day the article came out," she related, "I was at home alone with the door locked. It opened and closed, and I felt like someone was in the room." The unseen "thing" departed after she said a quick prayer.

According to Lillian, Satanic worship services often involve the slaughter of cattle and other animals. Blood is often drained, and the animal's sexual organs removed. Asked if similar cattle deaths in the area could be cult related, she speculated they could be.

Lillian's latest writing effort is "The Cod Father's Cookbook - 'EY Eat a You Fish'". According to the author-journalist, her volume contains a recipe for nearly every type of seafood there is.

"The Cod Father," she assured, "is a real person." Seattleite Eddie Antinelli, owner of a fish company in that city, appears on talk shows, at banquets, etc. to promote the consumption of seafood, codfish in particular, and Lillian's cookbook. His typical garb is a Mafia type outfit of a black coat, a straw hat, white gloves, and a white shirt.

A violin case, with a protruding fish tail, is his standard prop.

So real is his get-up that The Cod Father was picked up

Streets Concern Councilman Skala

Another well-known street is the one going through Bussell Park. Like many in Ord, it is marked by asphalt quietly giving way to weather and time.

He was at a loss to explain the council's rejection of his four proposed paving districts. "The only reason I can see for the council's move is they want the public to make the first move," he said.

Citizens are often slow to express themselves, the councilman contended, until they really do become concerned over something. "It's kind of like a tooth with a cavity," he explained. "As long as it doesn't hurt you don't do anything about it."

Current abuses Skala pointed out are in the city park roadway, and 27th street, also known as

The Burma Road, just west of the Ord golf course.

"Maybe," he speculated, "if we get enough good streets, people will drive on them and see how good they are." He expressed the hope that citizens would then form paving districts on their own initiative.

Some tentative plans along these lines could be in the offing. He hinted some Ord residents could be forming paving districts via the petition route.

If these plans and others for new paving districts don't materialize, Skala said, "I would be opposed to spending more money on street repairs. I might stand alone, but I've been there before."

Hot-Traditional July 4 Observed

Most Ord area residents celebrated a traditional Fourth of July under sweltering temperatures Tuesday. The First National Bank time-temperature sign showed an even 100 degrees at 3:21 p.m. July 4.

The heat didn't prevent picknickers from enjoying a quiet afternoon in Bussell Park, nor did it hinder hordes of people from enjoying free swimming at the new Ord municipal pool.

Later, in the cool of the evening, the Ord town team played O'Neill. The game was followed by a fireworks display.

Ord Quiz

To the People of Ord,

I was a stranger in your town but not an unwelcome guest. I'm sure the people of Ord don't know what a stranger is. Nebraska the good life, should say, Ord the good life because of the people.

My wife, (a graduate of Ord, class of '68), and I returned Friday night to Ord as our Chevy limped into town I thought I was in for a lonely, expensive, boring time in the town of Ord. With water and steam spouting from under my hood we drove out to the Vet's grounds for a steak fry. As I got out of my car, three people from Ord hailed my name first before my wife's so I'm a stranger no more. Even the mosquitos rushed to welcome some new blood to Ord.

Well, Saturday morning arrived much too early for my weary body but pulling my strength together I asked some people where I could buy some parts for my car. All the parts stores

Harkness, Janice Sybrant, Arcadia and Paul Harkness. Rev. Dick visited Mrs. Stan Johnson last Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Adrian Sweet and Mrs. Harvey Leth, both of Scotia, visited Mrs. Stan Johnson Thursday afternoon.

Cindy Foth, Minden, spent last Tuesday evening with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foth.

Lori Urwiler, Ravenna, spent all last week with her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foth. She also visited the Eldon Foths.

Mr. and Mrs. David Glinnsman, Rockville, were Saturday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Loes Hornickel, Ronda and Roger.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Foth, Sr. stopped for Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hrebec in North Loup Saturday evening and both couples went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Poss in Scotia. They played cards.

Mr. and Mrs. John Koll visited Mr. and Mrs. Emil Dlugosh were rated equally by those I asked, so I drifted into Don's part place and ordered what I needed. When it came time to pay the man at the counter says "cash or charge?" I paid the cash but in wonder of how trusting and friendly this town really was. Having depleted the cash I'd reserved for socializing I wandered over to the bank with my plastic Clout Card. To my surprise the Banker invited me in the back door of the bank to draw out some cash. (such a custom I'm not accustomed to.)

Next it was time for a walk around the square. This stranger was greeted by everyone I met, with a "hi", not a stare.

Later in the evening after the reunion's excellently planned banquet I found myself talking with some other very impressed people that Ord was a home away from home. Ord could easily be the friendliest town in Nebraska.

Where I live you fill your own gas tank, wash your own windshield, air your own tires, and pay through the nose. I don't know who he was but the guy on the southeast corner of the square filled my tank, checked my tires, replaced a valve cap "free" and washed my windows and said "Thank you, come back and see us."

Thank you Ordites for being yourselves. It's easy to overlook a real friend and real neighbors. I'll be back when I'm homesome for something as simple as a Cetak Hot Dog, a hand shake from a mjrk farming carpenter, a pat on the back from a golf playing plumber, or just a tank of gas to get me home from a trip.

High regards to all.

Obvious Implications

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M. M. Van Kirk, Director of Information

Implications of the political considerations which prompted President Carter to increase imports of foreign beef more than 200 million pounds to "stabilize the beef market" should not be overlooked by grain producers who have been putting their faith in new government crop support programs.

It is ironic that segments of U. S. agricultural producers have been actively supporting and testifying at Senate hearings for passage of S. 2626, the Consumer and Agricultural Protection Act of 1978, which would establish a powerful National Board of Agricultural Governors composed of representatives not only from agriculture, but also from consumer groups, organized labor and business. Such a board, to be appointed by the President, would have broad authority to determine the cost of production, establish loan rates, allocate the amounts of crops that farmers may produce and allocate the amounts of permitted production that may be marketed.

As presently written, S. 2626 would acquire that all producers of wheat, corn, grain sorghum, barley, oats, dry beans, rice, soybeans, cotton, sugar, cattle, calves, hogs, poultry, milk and dairy products would be required by law to file a report to the government of all plans for production. Note that livestock is included and that the makeup of the board gives labor, consumers and business equal representation with producers.

It is illogical to believe that such a board would ever have permitted cattle prices to reach $63 (100 per cent of parity) as they did recently, regardless of the economic and well-publicized facts of life about the beef industry and the losses which beef producers have sustained in the last 4 years. Political considerations rule and whether the Administration is of one party or the other, the temptation to appease consumers and labor and business interests become overwhelming.

The history of government intervention to control agricultural prices says that the Carter Administration or any other Administration would react to impose embargoes if export and domestic demands pushed the cash market of wheat to $5.50 per bushel, corn to $4 or soybeans to $10 or $12 as they did a few years ago.

Consider these precedents:

1975 The Ford Administration (in response to a scare campaign by the baking industry that the price of bread would go to $1 per loaf, plus a grain loading boycott by Longshoremen and the Maritime Unions against grain sales to Russia) embargoed grain shipments to the Soviet Union and Poland for a 3-month period. The action was opposed by then Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz who lost the decision. Grain stocks were ample for all domestic and export needs and prices headed downward.

1973 — The Nixon Administration, despite advice by Secretary of Agriculture Butz, responded to consumer complaints and boycotts, and "froze" wholesale beef prices for an extended period. It also halted delivery of soybean orders to Japan, an action which not only reduced soybean prices, but encouraged a vast expansion of soybean production in Brazil which has become a major competitor.

1970 — The corn blight reduced U.S. corn production and when the price of corn reached $1.60 per bushel, the government dumped 60 million bushels of Commodity Credit Corp. corn on the market to halt the price increases.

1966 — Drought in India and other areas created a world demand for wheat. The Johnson Administration and then Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman raised wheat allotments by more than 20 million acres and called for top production. Wheat prices in Western Nebraska dropped from a high of $1.65 in the fall of 1966 to less than $1 per bushel, by the fall of 1967 and

Lower Loup Natural Resources District

It seems that everyone is getting into the act when it comes to sampling rural water. The Environmental Protection Agency announced in the "Environmental News" of June 19, that they have initiated testing of rural water supplies.

The Directors of the Lower Loup NRD authorized a sampling program about two years ago. The first round of sampling has just been completed.

The Conservation and Survey Division # UNL, is now contracting with Union Carbide Company for an extensive one-shot sampling effort in Nebraska. The testing by EPA is a nationwide program mandated by the provisions of the Safe Drinking Water Act. The four states in this EPA region are Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska. Counties selected for testing in Nebraska are Dodge, Franklin, Greeley, Hall, Lancaster, Loup, Madison, and Morrill.

The sampling program will consist of a personal interview with questions asked about quality and quantity of rural water supplies, in addition to the actual taking of the sample.

The Lower Loup NRD, in its sampling program, touches all of the 15 counties within the district. The purpose being to develop basic data to evaluate possible changes in water quality and to alert the appropriate state agency if trouble spots develop.

The Lower Loup NRD testing procedure includes sampling for pH, hardness, nitrate nitrogen, chlorine, sulfur, iron, and acidity; the main culprit being of course, nitrate nitrogen. If concentrations are found to be a great deal higher than the PHS (Public Health Standard) limit of 10 ppm of nitrate nitrogen, then samples are sent to the State Health Department for confirmation and additional testing for bacteria.

The additional testing by the State Health Department gives us an indication of the possible source of contamination because nitrates can be entering a water supply from several sources.

The Lower Loup NRD plans to continue taking samples over a long period of time, then correlate data to determine if a the "wheat surplus" was back.

The U.S. beef industry can survive Carter's most recent example of politically-motivated intervention which will do little for consumers and simply aggravates and discourages cattle producers. But it cannot survive if Congress turns over the livestock industry, along with the rest of agriculture, lock, stock and barrel to complete government control and management.

trend is developing. Those affected are always notified of the sampling results. A condensed version of the reporting form is sent to the person using the water.

The Conservation and Survey Division is involved with a contract with Union Carbide, who in turn have contracted with the Atomic Energy Commission to study trace elements in groundwater, the purpose being that uranium deposits can be detected by analyzing trace elements in water.

So you see that what may seem to be a duplication of effort may not always be true. In very few cases is the same well being tested by all parties concerned. In most all cases, there is an exchange of information so that when the data is gathered and compiled, we will know a great deal more about the properties of groundwater across the nation.

Bendykowski Attends Orientation Session

Summer is the time for new student orientation at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, and this year the program is drawing students and parents from across the state, including Jim Bendykowski of Argadia.

The one-day orientation offers those attending a chance to get acquainted with the university, to learn about university programs, and to discuss class schedules and career plans.

Tours of campus buildings and living units are held, and administrators, faculty advisors and current UNL students are on hand to counsel future students and their parents about what the student can expect, and what will be expected of the student.

THE Ord Quiz

Estab. April 1882. Ord, Nebr., Thurs., July 6, 1978. Vol. 97, No. 19. 2 Sects.

Geranium Joe Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR: Herb Goff told the fellers at the country store Saturday night that he couldn't figure out why exactly, but he couldn't get that Russian off his mind. The one that gave America a raking over last month. Part of it, Herb allowed, is that it looks like a case of the dog biting the hand that feeds him, and part must be that he thinks the man is flat out wrong.

Actual went on Herb, the real reason that speech that was reported in all the papers keeps eating at him is the same reason brothers will fight and call one another all kinds of names, but they don't want no outsider doing it. And this feller Solzmitzin makes a big deal out of explaining that he ain't one of us, and don't want to be, he's just an exile from his own country. All the same, Herb said, we can see where he come running when he got excited, and we can see where he's living high off all the filthy capitalist money he made from his books.

General speaking, Mister Editor, the fellers seemed glad that Herb had brought up the subject. They all had some ideas on the matter. It was Hubert Rice that said his first thought was that the Russian was just playing a man-bites-dog trick. Who would pay attention if he said he was glad to be in the land of the free and the home of the brave, declared Hubert, because that's what we would expect him to say. And he went on to point out that Solzmitzin did have a few nice things to say about "the West," but the papers playing up the bad things is what news is about.

Cal Bresley allowed it was Independence Day coming up that kept bringing that speech back to his mind. He said he would like to think that the Russian charging that America is weak and fat and fixing to fall was a case of telling you best friend he's got bad breath. If the pitcher has given up a hit and walked to batter to load the bases, his coach don't help much by telling him about them six scoreless innings he pitched before he got in trouble. There's always room for improvement. Cal went on, and he hoped that was what the Russian feller was after.

Personal speaking, I don't think Solzmitzin is enough of an expert on America to analyze all her troubles an predict her future. He comes from a country where government is the enemy of the people and we can't expect him to understand a system where government is the people. We have come a long way from where we were 202 years ago, Mister Editor, and when it comes down to personal freedom we were better off then than Russians are today. This writer bucked the system and I admire his courage, but I ain't buying his claim that to be strong and to have purpose a people have got to be at war with something, even if it means overthrowing their government ever 50 year or so.

There's a heap of things that need improving in this country, but I ain't looking through rose colored glasses to see that in America people change things because of their government, not in spite of it.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

State Senators Picking On Criminal Code-Lid Bills

CAPITOL NEWS
Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association in Lincoln — Regardless of disclaimers, there has been a lot of politicking going on in the special session of the Legislature, prompted originally by fear that the state might be left without criminal laws for six months if the lawmakers did not correct a suspected flaw in the new criminal code.

The corrective criminal code legislation was processed through the legislative channels with a minimum of debate.

But after Gov. J. James Exon broadened the special session call to include consideration of government spending limits, those for and against that type of restriction swung into action.

At this writing, several days ahead of the expected final adjournment of the special session, there were indications the governor would allow four so-called "lid" bills to become law — with or without his signature.

When the lawmakers agreed on a course to send Exon the four bills, there was an assumption the governor would have to choose among them.

But it wasn't long before word reached the statehouse that Exon would not veto any of the proposals and the choice would have to be made by the Legislature.

Lending credibility to such speculation was a letter from Exon to Unicameral Speaker Roland Luedtke in which the governor took note that the lawmakers were expecting gubernatorial vetoes of some of the bills.

Legislation that could conceivably be passed may become law, thereby making the point of your inquiry a moot question," Exon said in response to a Luedtke query asking the governor whether he could make his decision immediately after the four measures were passed.

Exon replied he would need at least five days to reach a decision and to discuss the matter with the attorney general and others.

Some of the senators who had hoped to force Exon to make a choice said the speculation about all of the measures becoming law was a counter-move from the executive office.

The attorney general's office did advise the legislators near the windup of their session there were some problems that had to be ironed out in two of the bills they were debating.

The lawmakers made some amendments and then sent the proposals to final consideration.

Those bills were LB1, Exon's recommendation to restrict local government budgets financed by the property tax to 7 percent annual increases, and LB2, which would leave local government spending limitations up to residents of the various taxing units.

The attorney general also questioned some provisions in LB5, which essentially duplicated the provisions in the petition effort to hold local government spending increases to 5 percent annually.

That bill could not muster enough support to get readvance to final reading. Just what its eventual fate would be was unknown at this writing.

There were some legislative observers who said Exon's veto LB5 because he signed the lid petition.

Some said this particular piece of legislation, which would go into effect immediately, was the only way to defeat the initiative petition in the November election. These observers said enacting into law the provisions of the petition proposition would point up the hardships it would cause if it became a part of the constitution.

At one point LB1 had been amended to place a ceiling on state government budgets, but this provision was deleted several days later when the measure was restored to the exact form that had been requested by the governor.

Against Extension
The Nebraska Republican Party has gone on record against extension of the time for approval of the Equal Rights Amendment.

During its recent state convention in Lincoln, the state GOP approved a resolution which said, "The proposed ERA has had a just period for ratification. The year time limit for approval of the amendment is about to expire, and ERA supporters had hoped to convince Congress to extend the period."

There were some at the convention who said they would have problems recruiting women campaign volunteers if the state GOP opposed the ERA.

But Kay Orr, co-chairman of Charles Thone's gubernatorial campaign, said the resolution would have little effect on her recruiting and that many women have been allowed time to be approved of the ERA.

William Morrow of Omaha, GOP national committeeman, said he thinks there are as many women opposed to the ERA as there are for it.

Request Is Denied
The Nebraska Commission on Aging has said no to a request to designate the Southeast Nebraska Community Action Council as the area agency on aging, as council representatives suggested.

Gordon Epps, who asked for the designation, said senior citizens are confused when several centers provide services. The requested change, he said, could result in more being done for the aging in the four-county area served by the council.

Commissioner Ruth Blankenship of Omaha noted that area could have accepted services from the Blue River Area Agency on Aging.

And Commissioner Chairman Dr. Charles Evans, said it would be difficult for the commission to designate an area agency to serve just four counties, are accommodated by one agency in other parts of the state.

The commission recommended that the Southeast Community Action Council cooperate with the Blue River Agency on Aging to expand the Blue River unit.

Petition Drive Leaders Optimistic
Leaders of the petition drive to place a constitutional lid on government spending hope to have more than the required 46,000 signatures to put the proposition on the November ballot.

The signatures have to be gathered and presented by July 7.

Petition leaders Jack Hillorah of Hastings and S. H. Zeke, Brauer of Lincoln accused state lawmakers of being "insincere" about enacting legislation that would restrict government spending. Some of the state senators, they said, were only hoping to thwart the petition campaign during the special legislative session.

Brauer, executive director of the Nebraska School Improvement Association, said he hopes 55,000 names can be secured before the July 7 deadline.

That would assure that sufficient valid names would be available, he said, noting experience indicates 40 to 45 percent of signatures are invalidated through filing and other errors.

Brauer predicted a sharp increase in petition activity during the two weeks preceding the deadline.

He said names have been collected in 85 counties and that he was sure the drive would satisfy legal requirements for percentages of signatures secured the State Patrol, said his troopers would be out in full force on Interstate 80 during the July 4 holiday period.

He noted vigorous enforcement of traffic laws proved effective during the Memorial Day weekend when only one death occurred on Nebraska roads.

Karthauser said the patrol this year is making a concentrated effort during holiday periods to crack down on traffic violators, especially those who exceed the 55 mph speed limit.

The hope is, the patrol chief said, that the emphasis on observing traffic laws on the interstate will get the attention of motorists on all highways in the state.

Patrol Will Be Active

KERRY ON

— starting right —

Fighting a summer cold, I was contemplating the recent Holiday Weekend as I drove to work, last week, and was doing my best to take a positive approach and look at the bright side of things.

By the time I'd arrived at the office, I was anxiously anticipating the day ahead. And it was all so simple — from the good people that give you Ord — a nice place to live.

Let me tell you about it.

I'd backed out of the driveway and was heading east on my customary drive through the park. It started immediately.

First Emanuel Sedlacek, genial caretaker at Parkway Village, waved a friendly "good morning" to me. I waved back, but kept an eye on the city dump truck ahead of me, not sure of what he had in mind. He was parked mid-way into the intersection.

Rather than backing up to the hole the City was going to fill, he paused long enough to let me and a car behind me, around. "He knows where everyone is going" and — unlike the big city crews — is patient and thoughtful of the drivers. I waved at him.

Mothers were delivering their youngsters to the pool for their swimming lessons as I neared the park corner and kids hurried excitedly toward the bathroom. Everyone grinned and waved.

The park tennis courts were crammed with ladies. I guessed it must be a special practice time of some sort. Many of them were sportily dressed in their short tennis skirts and everyone seemed to be having a good time.

Workers at the new Bergman house, in the park, glanced my way from their rooftop perches and Dan Knapp, sawing lumber in the drive way, nodded his head in acknowledgment as I drove by. On the golf course I recognized

Ann Pocock's golf swing before I'd spotted Ray behind some trees on the fifth hole. Seeing the Pockocks on the course early in the morning isn't unusual and always thrills me to think of the together-ness they display — even after their family has grown and moved elsewhere.

As I watched the Pockocks, a head emerged from behind one of the pine trees along the north side of the course and an unrecognized youngster waved at me. Further along I noticed a mower and gas can and guessed the youth to be one of the park workers, mowing beneath the evergreens in anticipation of the Fourth of July golf crowd.

Before I entered the highway back into town, Leif Madsen waved a friendly "hello" as he sped north — probably on his way to answer a plumbing service call. Not too far behind him was the always friendly and waving bread truck driver, Terry Ellingson.

I hadn't driven a mile and I already felt good about the day, despite the early-morning closeness that indicated hot sticky conditions that would prevail before the day was out.

My joy at small-town living and the friendly anxiety of a holiday weekend ahead made me forget the cold and cares that could have spoiled my day before it got started. "Thanks, Ord, for being you," I thought as I turned onto L Street. "Your joy of living is contagious."

Kids relate everything to technology. If it's a cloudy day, they think the sun needs a new battery.

Revolts No Surprise

The taxpayer's revolt comes as no surprise to us. Nor can we believe that the proponents of increased spending didn't expect a day of reckoning. Possibly the bureaucrats didn't expect it this soon and thought it wouldn't affect them.

We don't pretend to thoroughly understand the complexity of the various "lid" proposals. We only know that somewhere, somehow, someone is going to have to cut back. The taxpayers have been doing this for years, trying to live within realistic budgets. All they seem to be asking is for like action on the part of the myriad of agencies spending their tax dollars.

Despite the protests of various tax-funded groups, we see nothing but selfishness behind their "threats" of protectional and educational cut-backs. These threats are defensive and unfair to the taxpayers.

First our thoughts turn to the years of protests against questionable needs and services in our tax-supported institutions. We can long-remember small groups of concerned taxpayers protesting questionable spending to the deaf ears of the spenders. Always there seemed to be justification — or too few protesters.

Secondly we've always been amazed at the comparative time and manpower required by private enterprise against the likes of tax-supported institutions. We're sure many taxpayers have marvelled at the same thing. Government seems to have more bodies doing less work than any privately-funded organization could ever begin to consider.

The taxpayers have wasted their words for too many years. This time they're going to put it in black and white where it's easily understood. We're for them.

"Forget the Taxpayer . . ."

When 2,065 Valley County voters helped Dr. Glen Auble of Ord to a seat on the Central Technical Community College Area's board of directors in the November election of 1976, we'd guess they considered him their best representative.

Following a June 26 board meeting in Grand Island, we wonder who Dr. Auble represents.

The June 26th meeting centered on proposed building plans for the Grand Island Education Center. A locally funded 24,000 square-foot building was defeated after a series of votes.

LB 992, a bill designed to curb capital construction programs on Nebraska's tech school campuses, takes effect July 22. The bill requires community college areas to pay general obligation debts before constructing new facilities. Once debts have been paid, the areas must receive voter approval before constructing new facilities valued at more than $100,000.

With CTTCA's next board meeting scheduled for July 24, any more locally funded additions to the Grand Island Education Center must have voted approval. So the June 26th meeting was an attempt to get under the wire with a proposed building.

Following several board maneuvers to circumvent the July 22 effectiveness of LB 992, the board failed to pass the suggested building, though a possible Job Corp building from federal monies is still in the offing.

During the session Dr. Glen Auble was an outspoken proponent of the building addition that failed. From a June 27th article in the Hastings Tribune, we read that Dr. Auble's statement, concerning apparent taxpayer unrest, was, "Forget the taxpayer! We need the building."

Auble also noted, according to the Hastings newspaper, that the American people spend more for liquor than they do for taxes, and asked, "so what are you crying about?"

We don't doubt Dr. Auble's latter statement. But we cringe when we think an elected official suggests that "the taxpayer be damned" with the remark, "Forget the taxpayer! We need this building."

Come To Church

READ HEBREWS 12:7-17

On the right path the limping foot recovers strength and does not collapse. (Hebrews 12:13 PHILIPPS)

Walking in my neighborhood to make a call on some friends, I heard a small voice, "Hey, Mister! Are you getting your energy?" I answered with a halfhearted "Yea." At the time I thought I was giving my energy rather than getting it.

I visited a couple who have given much to the church through the years, but they are no longer able to be very active. Walking back home that evening, I knew the boy's question could be answered in the affirmative. "Yes, I did get some energy from trying to bring encouragement to this fine Christian couple."

This is one of those paradoxical truths of the Christian faith. When we give of ourselves out of love, God gives us renewed strength. So many times in my ministry I thought that I did not have the strength to make a hospital call, see a couple in need, visit a home in sorrow. Yet when I set out to do what I needed to do, there was strength equal to the task.

Many persons whom I have known have given the same testimony by saying, "My work in the church has meant more to me than I have meant to the work."

PRAYER: Father, we thank You in that in our answering Your call to serve, You bless those whom we attempt to help and renew our own faith and energy. Amen.

Swarms of Hoppers Hit Valley County

An infestation of grasshoppers has hit Valley County, according to Lloyd Zikmund of the Valley County ASCS office in Ord. Zikmund revealed the insects are located all over. A check with a local crop dusting service confirmed this fact.

The ASCS officer described conditions as "ideal" for the hoppers to spread and grow. Most of the newly hatched crop are estimated to be around three weeks old. Most are an inch to an inch-and-a-half in length.

"The earlier they are treated, the more effective the kill," Zikmund told the Quiz. Insecticides including dry bait, 7-1 Oil, and Malthyon are being used.

Most of the young insects are in oat fields and in alfalfa, again according to the ASCS head. He urged farmers to treat them now while the insects are still near the ground.

Should they move to corn fields, they could be harder to kill, he speculated.

These green insects are hatching from eggs laid by other grasshoppers here last year. "These pesky little bugs are local residents," Zikmund sighed.

"They're home grown."

Evicting these visitors can involve using some high powered insecticides. "Just please," Zik-

Zikmund urged, "read all instructions, before applying any herbicide or insecticide. Treat all toxic chemicals with respect."

Bowen told the Quiz Strine's interpretation of facts was not correct. In a phone conversation she maintained the corps had done what she called "a hatchet job" on her.

According to Dr. Ben Meckel of the Nebraska Highway Commission, the project was included in fiscal year 1977-78 plans of that state agency. He estimated cost of the paving project at $573,000.

Biba Engineering Company of Geneva is doing the work.

Chamber Ponders Problem Potholes

The condition of Ord streets had center stage at the Ord Chamber of Commerce luncheon Thursday at the Elks Club. Chamber member Eldon Mulligan said he favors creation of paving districts in Ord in his estimation, it was a mistake for the Ord City Council to vote down a paving district plan.

That plan, by Councilman Willie Skala, was for the creation of three paving districts in Ord. His motion was defeated 3-2 during a June 19 council meeting in city hall.

Mulligan urged the subject of paving city streets with concrete should be brought to the council's attention again. Most Ord streets are now paved with low grade asphalt concoction called Armcorcote.

Skala revealed unofficial figures Thursday that the city has allocated $16 to $20 thousand for oiling city streets. He termed the near-continual resurfacing project "... pouring good money, after bad."

Some chamber members pointed out it is the city's duty to maintain existing city streets. This includes oiling them, they said.

Estimated Thousand County Residents Sign Lid Petition

An estimated 20 to 25 people collected around 1,000 signatures in Valley County for the spending lid petition between May 1 and July 6. Their efforts were part of a state wide drive to put a five percent spending limit on the November election ballot.

According to J. H. Schroeder, exact numbers are hard to come by because people from all walks of life and backgrounds were circulating petitions. Schroeder spearheaded the petition drive here.

"We mailed in 350 signatures Wednesday," he stated in a Quiz interview Friday. The drive ended July 6 so that all documents could reach state lid drive headquarters in Lincoln by the July deadline.

Zeke Brauer and John Halloran were instigators of the state wide petition drive. Their efforts and those of other workers across the state are aimed at placing the five percent lid proposal on the November ballot. The limit would affect political subdivisions, other than federal and state level government offices.

"As soon as we win this battle we'll try to put a lid on the state," Schroeder revealed. "And then it's on to Washington."

He felt certain the required 48,000 signatures would be tallied. Petition drive officials were aiming for 55,000 to provide a cushion, Schroeder revealed.

"We didn't have much trouble getting people to sign," he recalled. "The biggest objection we had was that people didn't think it (the lid proposal) went far enough."

Schroeder stated he has been involved in issues like this for the past 15 years. Most causes winning his support have been of a conservative bent. But this issue, according to Schroeder, cut across traditional party lines and political beliefs. "I think the reason this happened," he speculated, "is because people realized the government can't spend its way to prosperity. In other words, the crunch has finally come home to the individual."

If the petition drive is successful, the five percent lid question will go on the ballot next November. Schroeder predicted voters could win "... one of the wildest battles you have ever seen in this state."

He contended the Nebraska State Education Association and what he called "big spenders in the legislature" would wage all out war against the proposed spending ceiling.

In his estimation, these efforts began when several state solons stilled any decision on which of several lid proposals to pass. "Eventually people got wise," he said, "and went back to signing petitions."

The number of people signing reached a high water mark around July 4 and 5 according to Schroeder.

Jerome D. Bauer of Ord narrowly missed plunging over a 15 foot drop in a one vehicle accident one-half mile west of Ord Monday. According to Valley County Sheriff Martin Sonnenfeld, Bauer was headed east on the Sargent highway when he swerved to avoid hitting another vehicle.

The 1968 Chevrolet van crashed into the Dane Creek bridge and came to rest near a sudden drop off.

Damage was estimated at over $300. There were no injuries.

Potpourri Faces Ord City Council

A potpourri of items faced city Council in Monday night. Meeting in City Hall, they wrestled with items including paving petitions, a pool report, and a troublesome storm sewer line.

When the council opened at 7:30 p.m. it was standing room only. Citizens packed council chambers and presented a signed letter protesting the sewer line. According to group spokesman John Wozab, the line is on M Street, from the Presbyterian Church on east to the highway.

When storm water from Ord streets is dumped in the line, it backs up causing area homes to have their basements filled with an unsightly and unsanitary mess. In a letter signed by 13 area home owners and businessmen, the protesters said:

"The undersigned residents and property owners in the City of Ord hereby serve you with this notice of intent and protest to the City of Ord channelling surface storm water into the sanitary sewer system thereby causing damage to property, creating an unsanitary health condition, loss of income and necessary repairs and investments in devices to block the sewerage backing into the basements of our properties. The sewer systems are not adequate to take a combination of sewer and storm water disposals and were never built for that purpose.

"Several of the properties are equipped with back water valves which in most cases fail because of the debris that is washed into the sewer system and during a storm backed up into the valves and the debris in most instances catches in the valve thus rendering it useless. The back up in the sewer system and into our basements is not merely water but black, slimy, oily raw sewage and on occasion human excrement has been observed from the back up. Some basements are carpeted and used for recreation rooms and some have reported total loss of their carpeting, one merchant cannot use his store basement due to the uncertainty of storing merchandise and then having it soaked with sewerage in the event of storm. Some basements have been rendered partly useless due to this condition brought about solely by the City of Ord installing a mixture of storm surface waters into the sanitary sewer systems.

"This problem has continued for many years despite the pleas of the property owners affected. Last year a representative group appeared before the City Council and were told 'something will be done about the problem' but nothing has been done to alleviate this condition, because the same situation exists at this time.

"Council has suggested options but even class action costs money and we don't believe we should be forced to spend our money for something the City of Ord is obligated to do and should do without any further delay. We are exercising our first option by appearing before this Council to again refresh your memories of the problem and to ascertain the necessity of exercising other options."

Mayor Gaylord Bolesen instructed City Utilities Commissioner Gene Baugh to plug up storm water inlets emptying into the sewer line.

Financial Systems Inc. of Kearney — used machine, $22,830 used machine, $24,850 New machine, $27,530 — Burroughs Corp. $23,206 and an alternate bid of $20,005.25.

Zoning Change

A zoning change for a half block area near 18th and M was approved. The area went from a residential to a commercial classification. The Kaleidoscope, a gift shop located there, plans to expand its inventory line, according to owner Miriam McFadden. New additions will include unpainted furniture, she revealed.

Architect Dave Stacy of Great Plains Company discussed renovation plans for the old Masonic Building with council members. Plans are for municipal offices to go into the first floor of the building one door north of City Hall.

The city has a lease-purchase agreement with the Masonic organization.

Pool Pulls Profits

Ord municipal swimming pool manager A. Cudly presented statistics showing the pool has pulled $5,033 in revenue as of June 30. Pool personnel, he stated, are working an average of 12.3 hours a day.

He gave these statistics for what he called "a skeptical" on the council. "Cudly called it '... a kick in the teeth' ... to do a good job and then get criticism. He may have been referring to remarks made by a councilman at an earlier meeting.

After Cudly left, councilmen agreed both he and Rod Adams have done an outstanding job of managing Ord's newly completed pool.

Cudly was receptive to an idea by Mayor Bolesen that a swim meet be held at the Ord pool. Purpose of the activity is to promote Ord's pool to new area residents. In Bolesen's words, "It will let them know what we have."

Do All We Can

The council passed an ordinance plugging in as many possible to help industry locating or thinking of locating in the Ord area.

An application by Alan Edghill for a trailer court one block east of 15th and Highway 70 intersection in the Haskell Addition was approved. The Planning Commission had earlier approved the plan.

It's GREAT TO BE . . .

Am I proud to be a Nebraskan? I most certainly am! A Nebraskan — knows a good steak or chop when he eats one — he should — he lives where the best meat comes from. A Nebraskan — will leave his key to the front door in some easy to find place just in case a relative or friend needs to get in. He has an unflinching trust in the honesty of his fellow man. A Nebraskan — would sell his soul to get a ticket to a Nebraska football game; but he wouldn't give a scalper much more than the going rate. He wouldn't give him the satisfaction. A Nebraskan — is a Nebraskan, even if he lives in California, and he'll drive a hundred miles to attend a "Nebraska picnic." A Nebraskan — rejoices with the farmer when it rains, after a long dry spell, even if he lives in an apartment in the city. A Nebraskan — is a Bohunk, Polak, Swede, Dane, Irishman or what have you — A Duke's mixture — and he's proud of it! A Nebraskan — is a patriot, and shows it, whether by fighting for his country, voting for his convictions, or simply by standing at attention when Old Glory passes by. A Nebraskan — has felt the pain of a sunburned neck or frostbitten ears, and will probably feel it again, next winter or next summer. A Nebraskan — can't wait for spring, summer, fall or winter, depending on which one's coming up next! A Nebraskan — will walk five blocks to save three cents on a sack of potatoes, yet sees the value of spending an extra buck on furniture, appliances, or clothing. A Nebraskan — will lend a helping hand to anyone in need, but if he feels it isn't appreciated don't bother to ask again. A Nebraskan — enjoys a trip to more spectacular places, but thinks it's nice to get back home. A Nebraskan — will drop his work, however important, to see his son or daughter recite in a program or play in a game. A Nebraskan — will complain about his lot in life, and how life is passing him by, but he will probably pass up a chance to make a change. A Nebraskan — in a crowd, is the one who stoops to pull a weed which no one else even saw. A Nebraskan — will defend "Big Red" to the hilt. They were Number 1 once, and will be again. And don't thou forgettest it! (Borrowed from Dale Gentzler, The Pilot-Tribune.)

South Peewees Rally For A 10-4 Victory

The Ord South Peewees were crowned Loup Valley Little League Champions in ceremonies at the Arcadia diamond Sunday. Gaining the title of reigning royally took them 2 1/2 hours of work, two extra innings and some persuasive talking.

The South Peewees ended their regular season with a six inning 10-4 win over Arcadia. A perfect 7-0 record and the season title were theirs.

Arcadia led 1-0 going into the fourth and final inning when the controversy began. Ord South tied the game and had the bases loaded with one out but couldn't score, sending the game into extra innings.

In the fifth, the South got three runs, again leaving the bases full and Arcadia rallied in the bottom of the fifth. With two out, Arcadia's Gappa was apparently awarded first on a catcher's interference call, forcing what looked like a winning run.

The batter failed to touch first base, igniting a long discussion. After an appeal by the South and a check of the rule book, the call was reversed, and the batter ruled out, disallowing the run.

The South rose again rallied for six runs in the top of the sixth. Marty Moody's three run home brought home the win. Ord collected their ten runs on ten hits. Arcadia scored four runs on four hits.

Craig Erickson pitched in relief of Jim Linke.

Ord Over O'Neill In League Play

A third inning tie evaporated in six runs Thursday to give Ord a 10-4 win over guest O'Neill in Sherman-Howard League play.

The game opened with Ord quickly gaining a 3-1 edge in the first. Bill Klancecky brought in Urbanovsky and then stole two bases. He later stole third.

Vancura connected for a base hit and brought Klancecky home. A run in the top of the first set the stage for the 3-1 Ord lead.

O'Neill took a lone run in the first, combined it with some fancy footwork and base stealing and edged to within one point, 2-3, at the end of the second inning.

At the top of the third, O'Neill had a two-base hit followed by a home run. This edged them ahead 4-3.

Action continued in the fourth when Jamie Switzer connected for a three-base hit. Cole brought him home.

The score remained tied 4 all until the seventh. Ord exploded with six runs. Coach Ed Vancura said Tom Klancecky stealing home and a single by Morley Cole were key factors in the rally. Cole took the hit with a 2 and 3 count to drive on three runs.

Ord South Ponies Edged by Arcadia

Ord South Ponies bowed to host Arcadia Sunday. The Ordites let an early 2-0 lead evaporate as Arcadia blasted in five runs, and later pulled out a 6-3 win.

The win was the first of the season for Arcadia. Ord Ponies have a 4-2 record.

Saturday night, a Pony League All-Star is scheduled for Constock. The South will be represented by Dan Linke, Greg Warner, Phil Fischer, and Randy Psota.

Ord Juniors Go For 1-3 Record

Ord Juniors had a 1-3 record recently. Losses were to Loup City, Albion and Central City. The lone win was over guest O'Neill June 28.

Guest O'Neill lead off with two runs in the first inning. After a scoreless second inning they logged a third run in the third. Midway through the fifth, visiting Irishmen rallied with four runs.

Ord came to bat and led off with four runs. Proskopf, Smith, Witherwax, and Stephens did the honors.

After a so-so second stanza, Ord rallied in the third with nine runs, chipping away hopes for a victory by O'Neill. Three more runs in the fifth firmly cemented Ord's win 17-7.

Ord Softball Team Splits Two Games

The Ord men's softball team split a pair of recent games with Greeley and North Loup. July 7, host Greeley took Ord 8-3. Earlier, June 30 visiting Ord downed North Loup 11-5.

Ord men were spurred by three runs in the top of the first to claim that win. Two more in the third helped show the way for three consecutive runs in the seventh. Two runs scored earlier in the sixth commented Ord's victory.

North Loup had two runs in the second, one in the third, and one run in the fifth and sixth innings.

Greeley

In a later game July 7, host Greeley hosted Ord 8-3. Two runs in the last stanza and a run in the third were all Ord could muster.

Midgets Have a Three Game Streak

Ord Midgets logged a three game winning streak at the expense of O'Neill, Loup City, and Albion. The lone loss was to Central City July 2.

Ord bowed to Central 3-1 July 2. Dvorak scored Ord's lone run early in the third inning.

Central padded a one run lead in the first with additional runs in the fifth and the seventh.

A handy win over Albion, 8-4 preceded the loss. In the June 28 game, both teams came alive in the fifth inning. Ord scored six runs then, and followed up with two more in the sixth.

The best guest Albion could do was muster two runs in the fifth and two more in the sixth.

Loup City

The O'Neill win was followed by a 0-3 loss to guest Loup City July 5. High water marks in Ord's defense included getting runners to second base in the first and third innings.

Loup City scored runs in the first, second, and third innings.

Central City

An eighth inning rally set the stage for guest Central City's win July 2. Ord was in front 3-0 at the end of the fifth. Central scored a run. Further runs by Kennedy, Sichelander, and Campbell gave Central a 4-3 edge at the close of the seventh. Malin, late in the eighth, crossed home, giving Central the game 5-4.

Ord's Jim Smith rallied with a run late in the fifth, but it wasn't enough to close the one-point gap. Central claimed the game 5-4.

Legion Teams Stage Mirror Image Games

Ord Midgets and Juniors staged mirror image scoring when they went to Broken Bow Sunday. Ord Juniors lost 1-6 and the Midgets won 6-1.

Junior Kurt Kremke made Ord's lone run in the fifth. Broken Bow was idle until the fourth when it had four runs. It finished off its victory with two more in the fifth.

The Midgets opened with two runs in the third. One in the fifth and three more in the seventh sealed Bow's doom.

Loup City

July 5, the Midgets blasted Loup City 9-2. Guest Loup City had two runs in the first, and then fell silent.

Ord opened with a volley of three runs in the first by Witherwax, Mulligan, and Sears. Mulligan and Sears scored again in the second stanza. Linke and Blaha rounded out scoring in that period.

Two runs by Ostrander and Hansen on the third sealed Ord's 9-2 win.

July 7, guest O'Neill bowed to Ord 8-4. Six runs in the fifth inning made the difference. Two earlier runs in the third inning, paved the way.

O'Neill three runs in the eighth and one in the first just weren't enough to claim the game.

Valerie, Carlene and Dean Severance spent Saturday with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Zentz, while their folks, Mr. and Mrs. Don Severance were busy moving to Ord.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dorsey, Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Dorsey, Krista and Jeremy, and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Dorsey, Elwood had a picnic at Jenners Park at Loup City July 4th.

Win Over Scotia Clinches at Least a League Champ Tie for Softball Team

The Ord Men's Softball Team whipped Scotia 11-1 Monday. Their home win clinched them at least a tie for the league championship. Their closest competitor, KC's of Greeley, has lost three games in league play with two games left to go.

Ord's game with guest Spalding this Friday could make or break the hometown lads' hopes for a clear league championship and not just a tie. "Spalding is always tough right up there near the top," Ord coach Al Hagemeyer observed. "It's usually been Spalding or us that won the league. Our next game could tell the story."

Dennis Urbanovsky was the losing pitcher. He had 6 runs, 7 hits, and sent 7 men down.

Vancura was in the statistics again as the leading hitter. He slugged a home run in the eighth with one man on.

Wednesday, the Sherman-Howard team from Ord goes to Arcadia for a make up game. Tracy Johnson, an outstanding performer, is scheduled to be the pitcher for Ord.

After that, July 21, Ord will have a make up game with KC's of Greeley. "And they are the ones that are pushing us," Hagemeyer stated. So far, Ord has a 13-1 win-loss record in league play.

The team's latest win was July 10 over guest Scotia. Though not a league game, the win was still a nice addition to a 15-2 overall season record.

Scotia was ahead 1-0 in the first, but Ord rebounded with two runs in the second. In the third, Ord blitzed with a home run by Ron Breadthauer and a double by Fryzek. Two more runs in the third added some momentum.

Vancura Spurs Ord To a 6-3 Victory

Lyle Vancura boosted Ord to a 6-3 victory over Arcadia Saturday. Vancura was on the mound for nine long innings. He gave up 4 hits, 3 runs, and struck out 10 men.

Dymonettes Edged 16-5 by Sargent

Host Ord Dymonettes were edged by Sargent 16-5 Monday, July 3. Sargent scored 10 runs in the first and 6 in the second to claim the game.

Val Dobrovsky was on the mound in the opening stanza when Sargent got their first 10 runs. According to Ord coach Darrel Heisner, most of these started with walks.

In the second inning, Pat Stethem replaced Dobrovsky as catcher. The replacement held Sargent to 6 runs before Mary Heisner went to the mound. She shut Sargent off.

In an interview Saturday, Heisner speculated he will likely use Mary as the starting pitcher against Arcadia July 10.

Ord got their first run in the opening inning. A punt by Pat Stethem brought Dobrovsky home. A homer by Cindy Anderson in the second scored run number two.

Jennifer Hansen, Anne Scofield, and Jean Severance scored runs three, four, and five in the fifth inning.

Central Plains Stats Released

Central Plains statistics released by league official, Ed Vancura, shows Aurora and Albion with first place in the Midgets and Juniors divisions, respectively. Aurora with a 10-0 record holds the undisputed first place in the Midgets division. Close behind is Ord with an 8-2 record.

Some contend Aurora has the championship tied up. Others maintain that with three games left in the season, things could still change.

The same could hold true for the Juniors division. There, Central City with an 8-1 record is in first place. Albion, 7-2, is in second. The standings in the league could change either way, some people believe.

Complete Central Plains statistics are as follows:

Aurora	10 - 0
Ord	8 - 2
Central City	8 - 1
St. Paul	7 - 3
G. I.	7 - 3
Broken Bow	6 - 7

Flagrant Expediency

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M. M. Van Kirk, Director of Information
The sharp decline of the slaughter cattle market in the past two weeks is being widely attributed to the psychological effect of the Carter Administration's announcement that it would increase the beef import quota by 200 million pounds as an anti-inflation measure.

Undoubtedly it has had a depressing effect because it served notice on cattle producers and feeders that this Administration like previous Administrations (despite all previous assurances to the contrary) is going to intervene when meat and grain prices reach levels where they begin to have an impact on retail food prices.

Was a top of $63 per cwt. that Choice grade cattle reached in late May too high? Were cattle feeders making too much profit after their lean years? Perhaps President Carter and his economic advisers should have read the following analysis which appears in the June issue of "Livestock and Meat Situation" approved by the World Food and Agricultural Outlook and Situation Board. Here is what it stated verbatim:

"Although feeding costs for livestock producers have risen since last fall, they are still low compared with a few years ago. These costs will probably rise a little over the next few months, but not enough to significantly slow feeding.

"Cattle feeders have been making profits on cattle marketed during the past month or two as fed cattle prices have risen sharply. These improved profits have been possible because when the feeder cattle were purchased their prices were much below the current level. Cattle feeders have operated in a loss situation during most of the last 4 years and these are the first profits of significance for many months.

"With rising prices for feeder cattle, profits on cattle placed on feed this spring probably will not match those for cattle marketed this spring. For example, for cattle placed in April, Choice steers would have to sell for over $65 per 100 pounds in October to return the same margin of profit as those sold in April. If feeder cattle prices and feeder costs continue to rise as expected, Choice steer prices in excess of $55 will be required after October just to cover costs."

Note particularly the statement by the analysts that Choice steers would have to sell for over $65 per 100 pounds in October. This information was compiled well before the President made his announcement concerning increased beef imports and thus was surely available to him and certainly was in the hands of Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland.

Once again it is demonstrated that departments of government adopt competing positions according to the interests they represent and the final determination is made on the basis of what is considered the best politics. This is reminiscent of 1975 when the Ford Administration in response to consumer and union pressures halted grain shipments to the Soviet Union and Poland despite the USDA's crop forecasts which clearly indicated that there was plenty of wheat and feed grains to meet all domestic and export needs and still add to the nation's carryover grain stocks.

There are bills pending in Congress right now to make all segments of U.S. agriculture, including the livestock industry, completely dependent on decisions by the Federal Government, legalizing political expediency. For farmers, ranchers and consumers, that is not the right answer to their problems.

Geranium Joe Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
The question of belief came up during the session at the country store Saturday night, and the fellers managed to work it into just about every conversation. It was Lumir Cadek that brought up this Gallup poll that was taken on what folks believe about such as flying saucers, witches, the Lock Nest monster and the like. He said the most interesting nature of him was that 58 percent of the folks believe in angels, but only 40 percent believe in devils, which Lumir said backs up what he believes about what people believe. He said they believe what they want to.

General speaking, the fellers were agreed with Lumir that believing is as far from knowing as looking is from seeing. As far folks that prefer to believe in angels but not believe in devils, Ed Psota was of a mind that's as much human nature as believing the weather is going to be good instead of bad during your vacation. Ed said he was special interested in that part of Lumir's survey because he had saw the other day where a newspaper took a poll on how many folks believe they have been bad enough to go to hell. Only four percent said they feared the worst, which means 96 percent believe they're going to heaven. Ed said, not counting them that believe when they go they'll just be gone. But of the folks taking part in this poll, Ed went on, 20 percent said they knew someone else that deserved to go to hell, and that didn't include the ones that had that opinion of the feller asking all the questions.

Turning to other matters, this trucker from down the line reported that his preacher said Sunday there ain't no money in heaven, so folks ought to use it for good purposes here and now. He said he believes there ain't no money in hell either, so we better get what fun out of it we expect. It may be the root of all evil, he declared, but a little will ease a lot of misery in this life of hard knocks anybody that don't believe that, he went on, ought to ask that woman in Los Angeles that claimed 47 children and drew $240,000 in welfare over the past five year. When she was found out, she was living in a $120,000 house had three cars and wasn't hitting a lick at a snake.

Eldon Lukesh said that woman sounds like a case of her believing that the Government helps them that helps themselves.

Spending lid for political subdivisions, yes or no? Well, it appears that the answer is going to be "yes". If one keeps track of all the news copy on the recent discussion on lid legislation and constitutional changes, the local subdivisions are the guys with the big black hats.

Let's take a look at some of the considerations the Director of a Natural Resources District will have to review. Three sets of complicated rules and regulations that involve water and conservation of our natural resources, along with a costly appraisal of America's soil, water, and related resources, will be on the agenda for the Lower Loop NRD's July meeting.

The Resources Conservation Act (Public Law 95-192), a federal law by the way, calls for a nationwide appraisal of resources and an annual report to Congress. Nationwide assessments in conjunction with Section 208 of Public Law 92-500 (another federal law) is presently in the paper mill. Since federal laws involve local people, it becomes necessary for local property tax-supported governmental subdivisions to become involved also.

Another consideration and review will be the rules and regulations for the administration of the Nebraska Water Conservation Act. The rules, as proposed, involve some 11 typewritten pages of rules, regulations, definitions, and what have you. The Nebraska Water Conservation Act is a state program that will provide state cost-share funds to assist landowners in the establishing of conservation practices.

Environmental Control has submitted a set of 11 rules entitled, Groundwater Protection Standards, to be studied, reviewed, and commented on by local government.

Rules and regulations for the Rural Clean Waters Program (Public Law 95-217) have recently been published in the Federal Register. This is another federal law that will regulate and provide funds for the Clean Waters Act (Public Law 92-500). The RCWP rules and regulations involve some 15 pages and approximately 20,000 words for review and comment.

RCWP is going to provide for local involvement of resource-oriented governmental subdivisions. Natural resources Districts and County ASCS Committeemen will provide the local input in a program that the beef should be wrapped in a moisture vapor-proof wrap.

Frozen beef should be stored at a constant 0 degrees or colder. Beef may be cooked frozen or defrosted. Frozen beef is cooked just the same, only you just allow more time. Frozen roasts require 1 1/2 to 2 more hours. Frozen steaks and patties vary according to thickness and surface area.

One thing to remember, though, is that you should broil frozen cuts farther from the heat so the beef doesn't brown too quickly before the center is cooked," commented President Keller.

If you are defrosting beef before cooking, be sure to allow enough time. Beef should be defrosted in the original wrapping in the refrigerator. Defrosting of beef at room temperature, although a common practice, is not a recommended procedure.

Buying beef in quantity can mean a cash savings. There are a number of buying alternatives, including the whole carcass, side, front or hind quarter and primal cuts which include the loin, rib, chuck or round. Retail cuts can also be purchased in quantity for the freezer. But several factors need to be considered before you actually purchase beef for your freezer, warned the Nebraska Cow-Belle president. First of all, how much does your freezer hold? You can figure 35 pounds of frozen food per cubic foot of freezer space. Next, consider family appetites and preferences for various beef cuts. Don't buy too large a quantity that your family can't use within safe storage periods. Keller said you should also be sure to buy from a reputable supplier.

The forequarter contains primarily less tender beef cuts, and therefore, costs less per pound than the hindquarter. However, tender rib roasts, rib steaks and ground beef also come from this section of the carcass. The hindquarter contains more tender steaks and roasts. Primal (wholesale) cuts such as the rib, loin, chuck and round allows you to purchase specific cuts your

CowBelle Leader Gives Beef Hints

An increasing number of consumers are becoming interested in buying beef in quantities for the freezer. "Beef is an important item and we want to make sure consumers know how to best care for it," commented Jane Keller, president of the Cow-Belles from Bassett.

The fresher the beef, the better the quality. When buying beef, always make it the last purchase before returning home and place it in the refrigerator or freezer promptly, warned Mrs. Keller. Freezing does not improve the quality of beef but it does preserve the natural goodness.

Many times it is convenient to have the frozen beef "ready to cook." Therefore, when practical you can trim excess fat and remove bones. Ground beef can be shaped into patties. But do not season, as this will shorten the freezer life, added the Cow-Belle president. Pre-packaged beef from the store can be frozen for one to two weeks as is. But if longer storage is preferred, the beef should be wrapped in a moisture vapor-proof wrap.

Frozen beef should be stored at a constant 0 degrees or colder. Beef may be cooked frozen or defrosted. Frozen beef is cooked just the same, only you just allow more time. Frozen roasts require 1 1/2 to 2 more hours. Frozen steaks and patties vary according to thickness and surface area.

New Insulation Standards Are Announced by Ord FHA Office

New insulation standards for housing in rural areas financed by the Federal Home Administration (FmHA) will be put into effect, Samuel A. Gailey, Jr., County Supervisor, announced recently.

Implementation of the standards, first scheduled for March 15, had been held up during federal court consideration of a suit by the National Association of Home Builders challenging the new code. After FmHA prepared a detailed environmental material and a further hearing on the case was held, U.S. District Judge George L. Hart, Jr., dissolved a preliminary injunction. While certain aspects of the lawsuit remain to be resolved, the new insulation standards can now be implemented.

The new thermal standards are designed to provide for heavier insulation and other measures to make FmHA-financed housing less costly to heat or cool, and to conserve energy. They will apply to newly-built homes and apartments financed by FmHA, and, insofar as is economically feasible, to existing housing purchased or repaired with FmHA loans. Better weatherizing through more effective insulation, family prefers.

"No matter how you purchase your beef, it is a nutritious item that your family will enjoy," said Jane Keller.

storm doors and windows and other techniques will help families to reduce high fuel and energy expenses that jeopardize their ability to afford adequate housing. Details of the standards, which vary by climatic zones, are available from FmHA Ord County Office located at 1619 M Street. FmHA will finance approximately 30 homes for Garfield, Greeley, Wheeler, and Valley Counties during fiscal year 1978.

When completed, the study will have many uses. County officials will use maps for assessment purposes. Farmers can use soil content data for crop purposes, etc.

Team leader Jay Wilson and his wife, Jane Paulsen Wilson, and their two children, Amy, age six, and Ellen, age seven, will make their home in Ord.

Soil Survey Will Start Next Month

Jay Wilson will lead a team of three or four people in a soil survey project of Valley and five surrounding counties. These five include Sherman, Greeley, Wheeler, Garfield and Loup. The project will likely take seven to 10 years to complete.

Wilson and other team members are scheduled to move to Ord the first part of August. He and other team members will make Ord their headquarters.

When he first moves here he will be completing a soil survey project for nearby Custer County. He will likely start on the Valley County survey this fall or next spring.

Howard Paulsen of the Valley County Soil Conservation Service office said the project will involve a detailed mapping of the six counties in the survey area. High flight aerial photos will be taken. Survey team members will walk across fields to be plotted. Numerous soil survey samples will be taken.

This study is one of a series being done nation wide. State, federal, and local funds will pay for the project, according to Paulsen.

When completed, the study will have many uses. County officials will use maps for assessment purposes. Farmers can use soil content data for crop purposes, etc.

Team leader Jay Wilson and his wife, Jane Paulsen Wilson, and their two children, Amy, age six, and Ellen, age seven, will make their home in Ord.

Avoid a Conflict

The Ord Quiz recently learned of an apparent conflict between the Valley County Welfare Department and the Central Nebraska Community Action Agency. According to Welfare Department head Alma Nelson, Central Nebraska personnel are soliciting clients for — and explaining — programs administered by the Welfare Department.

According to Mrs. Nelson, some programs are incorrectly represented by Central Nebraska CAA. Qualification criteria and benefits are often incorrectly explained or misunderstood. CAA personnel then bring the client they rounded up to the welfare office. Hard feelings, misunderstandings, and friction between the two departments and the client soon develop.

Said Mrs. Nelson: "I just wish they would let us take care of our own programs." Apparently she isn't alone. County Supervisors contacted have similar feelings. So do we.

Having the County Welfare Department alone administer and supervise their own programs could prevent a donnybrook like the one in Loup City. There, Central Nebraska personnel and those of the Sherman County Welfare Department had to settle their differences of just who was responsible for what in a closed-door county supervisors' session.

Last November, members of the Region 26 Council of Governments acted favorably on a $232,857 Central Nebraska current operating budget. Then Central Nebraska representative Ron Rádl described it as basic funding just to keep the agency's doors open. Not included in this amount are various grants, etc. received by Central Nebraska.

Grants currently pending include one for $42,000 for a food and nutrition program. Last Friday, Central Nebraska CAA decided to drop a sought $25,000 supplement to yet another $42,000 pending grant. The $25,000 was to increase participation by low-income persons in anti-poverty programs.

With this kind of funding available, we suspect Central Nebraska personnel could find things to do other than "help" the county welfare department. We sincerely wish they would.

Nebraska Lawmakers Approve Seven Percent Spending Lid

CAPITOL NEWS
By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent

Lincoln — Nebraska lawmakers approved a 7 percent spending limit on local governments shortly before adjourning their special session, which lasted nine days.

Also approved were a local option law and a proposed constitutional amendment which would require tax equalization by governments whose boundaries cross county lines.

The bill that Gov. J. James Exon urged the senators to enact was LBI. It received 35-10 final approval but couldn't muster enough support for passage with the emergency clause.

That means the legislation, which puts a 7 percent ceiling on increases on those portions of the budget financed by property taxes, won't go into effect for 90 days.

That seemingly guarantees the spending limit provisions will not affect fiscal 1978 budgets of political subdivisions, most of which begin their fiscal years on July 1 or Sept. 1.

Shortly before the bill was passed and sent to the governor, Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said it might contain a loophole because the measure permits local governments to increase their budgets 7 percent or the average of the increases for the previous three years, whichever is greater.

DeCamp said he believes more than half the local governments will have averages higher than 7 percent.

The local option legislation, sponsored by Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, permits voters in taxing districts to petition for an election on the imposition of a spending limit in their districts.

Warner, basing his comment on information received from Attorney General Paul Douglas, said the highest limit the voters could approve under local option would be 7 percent.

The legislators refused to pass a bill that would have placed a 5 percent spending limit on the state government.

The attorney general's office said the measure was probably unconstitutional because the 1978 legislature could not bind future legislatures to a spending limitation by statute.

The attorney general's staff was kept busy answering questions about the constitutionality of the various pieces of legislation before the lawmakers.

Three opinions from the state Justice Department said LBI would probably withstand a court test. A fourth opinion questioned the constitutionality of the legislative resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to force property tax equalization in taxing districts with overlapping county lines.

Secretary of State Allen Beermann said he will comply with the Legislature's mandate to place the proposed amendment on the November ballot.

Exon and Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan had predicted Beermann would refuse because the attorney general had raised "serious constitutional questions" about whether the lawmakers were empowered to consider the issue during the special session.

Exon and Whelan predicted considerable litigation if the proposal is placed on the ballot.

"If it's put on the ballot, the attorney general can take action to stop that with a lawsuit," the governor said.

Beermann said he would begin preparations to put the amendment before the voters because the legislative resolution directed him to do so and because a legislative act is presumed valid until it is declared otherwise.

He also noted the attorney general had not told him not to place the matter on the ballot.

Urges Signing of Petitions
Right after the Legislature adjourned, Exon urged Nebraskaans to sign the lid petition on local governments.

The governor said his request was prompted by the fact that the two lid bills sent to him by the lawmakers did not provide for the measures to become effective immediately.

Without the emergency clause, the bills were meaningless, Exon said.

He said the only good thing to come out of the special session was passage of a correction in the criminal code, which was the reason the lawmakers were called back to Lincoln.

"Other than that their actions had no meaning whatsoever," Exon said.

He predicted the 46,000 signatures required in a petition effort to place a 5 percent spending limit on local governments will be successful.

He added the further prediction that in November "the people will give a loud and clear vote in its favor."

Several days after the governor expressed confidence the petition drive would be successful, the leader of the movement expressed some worry.

S. H. Brauer Jr. of Lincoln said, "Unless there is a substantial last minute flurry of activity, this could become a photo finish. It's now too close for comfort."

He made his statement after filing another 12,000 signatures, bringing the total to more than 43,000.

The reason Brauer was concerned was that he figures he will have to collect about 55,000 signatures because past experience indicates 10 to 13 percent of the names will be invalidated for a variety of reasons.

The petition drive deadline was Friday, July 7.

Brauer blamed the special legislative session for damaging the momentum of the petition effort. But he said the governor's appeal to citizens to sign petitions helped offset that disadvantage.

Secretary of State Allen Beermann said he should know by the first week in August when the petition campaign was successful.

Agree to Debate
Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan, the Democratic candidate for governor, has agreed to an invitation to debate his Republican opponent in the fall election, Congressman Charles Thone.

The invitation was extended to Whelan in a letter from Art Knox, co-chairman of Thone's campaign.

The lieutenant governor said he will suggest that the debate schedule be expanded, noting that the invitation proposed face-to-face meetings of the candidates in July, August and September — in addition to a joint appearance before an editors' meeting in Columbus, also in September.

Whelan also wants the debates to be open and not restricted to certain topics, as Thone has suggested for two of the encounters.

The invitation also proposed that the lieutenant governor candidates participate in the debate because the governor and lieutenant governor candidates run as a team in the election.

Whelan said he believes it would be appropriate for the Republican and Democratic running mates to have their own debate for the role of lieutenant governor's office and how they would view their relationship with the governor.

The Knox invitation was a "people attempt" by Thone to live up to his promise to debate his Democratic opponent, Whelan said.

Knox said because Thone will have numerous congressional duties to attend to and plans to do considerable person-to-person campaigning it would be difficult

July 4-1978
Dear Editor Leggett:
Just a few lines to say how much we enjoyed camping near the Ord Park during the days prior to the class reunion held at the Elks Club.

My class of 1928 was well represented and we had a wonderful reunion of the North Loup graduates.

My brother, Elwood Stanton, was one of those present and, since returning home to Washington suffered a heart attack, in cardiac care a week and now recovering slowly. Address: Stevens Memorial Hospital, 21600 - 76th Ave. W., Edmonds, WA 98020.

Sincerely,
Don and Ellen Brennick.

York, Nebr.
July 6-78

Dear Sirs:
Enclosed is the payment for running my ad. I always had a special interest in the Ord community, having been born there. Still have relatives in the Ord-Burwell area. I am reminded of the great auto races and county fairs that Ord had for years. I remember drivers names like John Bagley from Omaha, Vic Felt, Deer Trail, Colorado, Johnny Gerber from Stanwood, Iowa and of course many others competed. Hopefully the Chamber of Commerce plus other civic groups could renew this fine county fair and again feature the fastest half mile track in Nebraska.

Sincerely yours,
Lloyd McLain

for Thone to agree to a long series of debates.

Treasury Has Balance
The state closed the fiscal year June 30 with a general tax fund balance of nearly $30 million.

The amount was $7 million more than anticipated by the state Board of Equalization and Assessment last May when the current tax rates were set.

The balance excludes bills outstanding that had yet to be processed or funds for various projects that were reappropriated into the current fiscal year.

In a separate report, state Tax Commissioner Bill Peters said the state's April sales tax receipts of $16.6 million were $800,000 more than for the same month in 1977.

KERRY ON

— insight —
During the Second World War, short on manpower, a young editor at the Quiz thrust a Speed Graphic camera into my hands and told me, "You're going to learn to take pictures."

Only a sophomore in high school at the time, I never had much interest in photography and wasn't even sure where you loaded the film in the camera. I was soon to learn, though, whether or not I had any interest in taking pictures. The Quiz needed a photographer!

At the beginning, photography was exciting and a challenge to me. Then, as time and assignments wore on, I grew to think of taking pictures as any other job. I was glad to leave the camera at the office and attend gatherings merely for the sake of being there.

My camera grew dusty and my film outdated. I stayed as far away from photography as I could get. I'll never forget the words of former Quiz editor, Bill Lee. He told me, "Photography is something you get into or out of—there is no 'middle ground'." With that remark Bill sold me all the camera and darkroom equipment he had, and was off to Washington.

I've found Bill's words to be prophetic. True. Whenever I got the photography "bug," it was all or nothing. If I took a picture I had to process it and see what I'd captured on film. I couldn't simply send in a roll of film like so many amateur photographers do — awaiting the results from the film processors. Recently I've been bitten by the photography bug, again. I've dusted off the camera, bought fresh film, and gone looking for things to photograph. The interesting thing is that I've found a wealth of beauty and subjects right under my nose. In fact, you'd be surprised at the beautiful world around you when you seek it.

For years I sought "feature pictures" for the paper, growing discouraged when I thought there was nothing new within the community I'd lived in for most of a lifetime.

This past weekend, camera in tow, I wandered away from our Quiz picnic group at Ft. Hartsuff and found what Royce Lindsay had been saying for years — the old fort is a photographer's paradise.

Returning from the picnic with new enthusiasm for photography, and a couple of exposed rolls of film to be processed, I glanced at the poster on the office wall as I entered the door to head for the darkroom:

"Everything has its beauty, but not everyone sees it."
Confucius' words echoed through my mind as I rediscovered a world I'd nearly forgotten. By looking too hard, I'd missed beauty.

Otis Pike to End 18 Year Ego Trip

A New York congressman has become more famous for his retirement than he was in 18 years in Congress because of his candor in telling why he's leaving Washington.

"I am increasingly uneasy with the never-ending fiscal irresponsibility of the majority of my own party and the absolute indifference of both political parties to inflation, the size of our annual deficit, our national debt, or any obligation to pay our bills and balance our budget," said Rep. Otis Pike, (D-N.Y.).

"The Republicans pay lip service to these things and then vote overwhelmingly to increase defense spending, start new pension programs, increase tax credits and increase tax cuts, every one of which must, of course, increase both the deficit and the debt."

"The Democrats vote to increase welfare programs, education programs and health programs. They recognize every national need except the need to pay our bills."

"In any event, neither the Democratic Party or the House of Representatives is a comfortable place for a congressman who believes that people should earn what they can, save what they can, pay their bills and balance their budgets. And that nations should do so, too."

"Will I miss it? Lord, yes, I'll miss it. Congressmen are treated, in Washington at least, like little tin Jesuses. Seven employees are there to fetch me a cup of coffee, get me a hamburger, look things up, take dictation, pamper me, flatter me . . . and generally ease my way through life."

"It's a real ego trip, but I've taken the trip, and it's time to cruise on other waters."
He'll be missed — Jack Mabley in the Chicago Tribune.

Something Different

The Clements

A TV show last week had a character who declared she never entertained because she never had any glasses that matched. . . and away went my memory, jogged back to Mexico.

It was my first visit to Mexico City, everything was strange, but I thought, "I know one person: I'll phone Kathleen Clements."

Which I tried to do. I brought her number from Ord, and so my traveling companion and I tried to call, to no avail. It never occurred to me that a soft Mexican voice might answer. And although I'd had several years of college Spanish, the speech didn't sound familiar.

At last we decided to send her a telegram. She phoned immediately and kindly invited my travelling companion Alice Barlow and I to a party that evening; inquiring as she did so "Did you bring some long dresses?"

The evening was a pleasure. Some 50 or more artists, government employees and diplomats, fellow church members were handsomely garbed. A number of them were Mexicans of distinction, plus their beautifully done-up wives (the female upper-crust appears to spend all its time in the beauty shop getting hair piled high, nails polished long.)

Kathleen had hired caterers for the occasion, but they somehow had failed to bring the matching glassware she had expected. Scouring her cupboards produced glasses but not nearly enough; neighbors rushed home and brought what they could, jelly glasses, pimento glasses, olive glasses. We laughed and enjoyed it all.

Late in the evening, say 11 p.m., the dinner was set out on buffets by the two young Mexican maids of the household. Big plates were heaped with goodies, most of them exotic and tangy. We eyed them with twitching noses and a few gnawing stomach pangs, as men went to the serving area and brought back delectable-looking helpings for their women companions.

But correction!
Mexican women stepped to the serving table and loaded the plates for their men: the lord and master must be served. Then, the woman went back and prepared her own plate. Our eyes popped.

Kathleen Clements Sibley is currently visiting her parents near Ord.

You remember them, they are old settlers, dependable citizens.

And Kathleen's mother is a prize QUIZ correspondent. — Irma

Come To Church READ PSALM 4:6-8 "Do not be grieved, for the joy of the Lord is your strength." Nehemiah 8:10 (RSV) The winter of 1977 was hard for people in the United States. Natural gas was in short supply, and long periods of sub-zero temperatures threatened to halt the normal way of life. Many persons' faces showed signs of worry and tension. During this period of anxiety, a snowstorm dumped four or five inches of heavy, wet snow on Nashville, Tennessee. Suddenly the mood of the city changed. Snow people popped up all over town, like daffodils after the first warm day of spring. In some parts of town every yard had a snow sculpture, and whole families made images of themselves in snow tableaux on their front lawn. Whether the statues were carefully sculpted or merely rolled up balls of leaf-stained snow, they displayed the creativity of the human spirit. The snow people are a cause for hope. Although they cannot talk, the statues speak eloquently of the creativity and joy God puts within us all. In spite of hard winters and gas shortages, in spite of our own pessimism, the hope God hides in us will spill out, renewing us and giving us cause for joy. PRAYER: Dear God, thank You for the snow people and the other signs of joy that abound in our lives. Please help us to recognize these signs when we see them. Amen. THOUGHT FOR THE DAY I will do something to encourage joy in living. Copyright - Bill Dockery (Sevierville, Tennessee) THE UPPER ROOM

Car Inventory Case Still Pending; Equalization Board Hears Testimony

After more than an hour of testimony Wednesday afternoon Valley County Supervisors, meeting as a Board of Equalization, took no action on reported inventories of two Ord car dealers.

Supervisors agreed to recess until further notice in order to gather more information of proof. They will notify County Attorney Bob Stowell about further meetings.

Earlier this year, County Assessor Bob Sevenker and Greg Jensen of the County Attorney's office had contended cars belonging to Vic Spady Motors, Bob Strong Ford-Mercury, and Todsden Chevrolet were not properly reported to the Assessor's Office for taxation purposes. Todsden had his assessment valuation hiked $16,240 on his inventory as of December 31, 1977. Todsden didn't protest.

Assessor Bob Sevenker said he questioned Todsden's inventory valuation not the number of cars he reported.

Bob Strong and Spady challenged a hike in their inventories valuation by Sevenker. Hence the hearing Wednesday.

In a signed letter, Bob Strong said a mixup in bookkeeping between Ord and Kearney offices resulted in Strong's 1977 tax statement being improperly filed. According to Strong, 11 new units valued at $46,800 and 14 used units valued at $10,920 were first reported.

These should have been 18 new units valued at $81,000 and 14 used units valued at $10,920, according to the letter.

Lawyer for Vic Spady, Duane Stromer, gave a variety of reasons for the reported inventory differences. Sevenker counted 21 more cars allegedly belonging to Spady December 31 last year than Spady reported to the Assessor's office.

Reasons for the reported differences, as given by Stromer included:

— Some cars delivered to Spady by Toyota Motors were not Spady's property as of December 31, 1977.

— Some cars in Spady's possession December 31, 1977 were owned by a friend of Spady and were just brought here for him to sell. They also were not Spady's property, according to the lawyer.

— Some cars Sevenker counted as part of Spady's inventory were sold to Spady, his wife, and Spady employees on or about December 31 and were later resold to Spady after January 1 of this year.

Present at the meeting were Valley County Supervisors, representatives of Spady Motors, County Attorney Bob Stowell, and County Assessor Bob Sevenker.

State Gives County $3,000 In Battle Against 'Hoppers'

The Nebraska Department of Agriculture has allocated about $3,000 for Valley County's use in fighting grasshoppers. That was the word Friday from Lloyd Zikmund, ASCS office manager in Ord.

Following a meeting here Thursday U.S.D.A. Disaster Committee and other officials contacted Richard Fitzsimmons Deputy Director of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture. The $3,000 allocation was requested and approved for insecticide purchases.

Part of the $400,000 appropriated by Nebraska Governor J. James Exon recently, the funds will be used to fight grasshoppers on public lands. According to Zikmund, Valley County's 600 miles of roadside ditches and 300 acres of county owned waste lands will have top priority for treatment.

Valley is one of many counties fighting the recent grasshopper infestation. The problem has reached such proportions statewide that Governor Exon declared Nebraska a disaster area. This declaration freed up to $400,000 for county assistance in grasshopper control. At that time, the Director of Agriculture's Emergency fund was down to about $5,000.

More dollars were needed. So, the governor declared the emergency and made more funds available. These will be used to purchase needed chemicals.

The cooperative extension council has been asked by the governor to provide necessary technical expertise to advise county grasshopper control programs. David Keith, Extension Entomologist, University of Nebraska, was appointed by Dr. Leo Lucas, Dean and Director of the Cooperative Extension Service to act as liaison person between the State Department of Agriculture and the Co-operative Extension Service.

Present plans call for ground spray rigs to be used, not aerial application, according to Zikmund.

The $3,000 provided is to be used on public lands only.

Persons having problems with grasshoppers can call the Valley County Agent's Office in the Courthouse.

Gregoroski Family Reunion Links Missing Generations

Anita and Fred caught up on some of the area history by perusing Valley County's centennial publication "A View of the Valley."

Around 100 persons gathered at St. Mary's Auditorium Sunday for the Gregoroski family reunion. Relatives came from Arizona, Missouri, and other locales across the nation.

Family founder Bill Gregoroski immigrated to America from Poland when he was eight years old in 1867. After working on a railroad, he settled in Valley County, where he became a farmer and a musician of local renown.

Old-timers fondly recall Bill playing the Windmill Polka at wedding dances and other celebrations. Descendants Sunday, were pouring over old pictures, and swapping stories.

According to some present, a huge steam-powered threshing machine was Bill's pride and joy. William Gregoroski and Pauline Karty were married October 15, 1888 when they were youngsters of 29 and 17. They lived near Elvira where they raised a family of 12 children. At the time of his death in 1950 they had been married 62 years. After his death Mrs. Gregoroski made her home with a daughter, Mrs. Leo Shimek, for several years.

Genealogies like these are valued by most family members. But for Anita Huelle and Fred Mains, they held special significance. This was the first time they met members of their original family line.

The two were made wards of the court nearly 29 years ago, to the day. "We don't have any trouble remembering the date," Anita remarked, "it was our first birthday."

The children of Paul Gregoroski, along with an older brother and sister, were taken from their home, near Burwell and placed in foster homes. Anita and Fred, the younger of the four, were kept together because they were twins.

After going to a foster home in Grand Island, they were taken to an orphanage in Lincoln, since closed. A family in Omaha adopted them. Lois Mains, their adopted mother, later told them the names of their first parents.

"She knew it from the papers she had signed," Anita said. She told how her mother got the information by reading their original names up-side-down as she signed the adoption papers.

"That was a no-no," Anita chuckled, "but she did it anyway."

Armed with this, and the fact they were born in Burwell, the brother and sister recently set off in search of their real parents. A chance encounter at an Omaha hospital supplied the missing link, the names of their parents. Their adoptive mother, Lois, was working in an Omaha hospital when she struck up a conversation with a patient.

The stranger told Lois she was from Burwell. Lois mentioned she had adopted twins, born in that town. "Why my yes," the lady reportedly said, "I remember holding them when they were small." Further queries produced the names of their first parents.

A happy reunion between the two "lost" generations took place last April.

Still missing are their older brother and sister, once called Harry and Judy. "As far as we know," Anita recalled, "they were taken at the same time we were." Clues to their whereabouts have been elusive. "It's just like they vanished," Anita said regretfully.

She speculated Harry and Judy could be two people in Omaha they have heard of. "They look exactly like us," she related. Brother Fred warned, "There are an awful lot of people in Omaha," and suggested the element of chance similarities could be involved, not blood lines.

Both Anita and Fred spoke of future plans including searching court records and talking to people in the Ord-Burwell area in their search. One possible clue Fred mentioned was the fact that people ask if they were the ones adopted by a doctor in Omaha

Islander Drowns In Sherman Lake

Carl Rozmiarek, 32, drowned while boating on Sherman Lake Saturday night. According to the Sherman County Sheriff's office, Rozmiarek and some friends were boating on the south part of the lake, in a cove.

The boat made a sharp turn. Two people fell out. One person got back in the boat. The Grand Island resident was unable to swim, according to the sheriff's office.

His body was recovered Tuesday in 10 feet of water.

Zorinsky Reaffirms Support of Project

U. S. Senator Edward Zorinsky again reaffirmed his support of the North Loup Project during a stop near Burwell last week.

The senator from Nebraska contended he is being consistent with his position on the federal irrigation project. When running for the senate he favored the plan.

"I favored it then and I haven't seen anything to change my mind," he said. Zorinsky added he has some reservations about the Norden Irrigation project in the O'Neill area.

The North Loup Irrigation Project provides water to an estimated 33,000 acres in five counties using the ditch system of irrigation. A dam and reservoir will be built near Burwell.

Burwell Voters Nix Liquor by the Drink

Burwell voters rejected the liquor by the drink question 295-113 in balloting Tuesday. Specifically, the ballot asked shall the sale of alcoholic liquors except beer by the drink be licensed in Burwell, Nebraska?

Voters answered a resounding "no."

Their stand means that two local establishments selling beer shall not be allowed to sell hard liquor by the drink. They will, however, continue to sell beer.

The only place liquor by the drink can be purchased is at the Legion Club, that operates under a special license and was not affected by the vote Tuesday.

The vote count is still unofficial pending a City Council meeting in Burwell next Monday.

Todd Spady Rams Ord Police Cruiser

Todd Spady was being held Tuesday in Valley County Jail after ramming an Ord Police Department cruiser near 17th and N in Ord. According to City Attorney's office, Spady, driving a late model Pontiac Firebird, made a U-turn and rammed the cruiser, a 1978 Dodge.

Ord Police officer Cal Thelander observed someone driving in a reckless manner, around 2 a.m. Tuesday and followed the car. A car of a similar description had been reported as knocking over a sign Monday night.

Thelander turned to pursue the car. The second vehicle then made a U-turn and rammed the right front of the police car.

Thelander took Spady for a blood-alcohol test according to the City Attorney's office. Authorities are awaiting results from the state lab.

Spady was taken to the Valley County Jail.

Spady is pending charges could include destruction of property, willful reckless driving, driving while intoxicated, no registration, and no operators license.

Queen of the Cowgirls Suggests Censorship As Solution to Smut

Dale Evans, queen of the silver-screen cowgirls, suggested censorship as a solution to smut on television and in local pictures, during a Quiz interview Sunday. In Scotia with the Cecil Todd "Revive America" Rally, she had sharp words for movies she called more permissive.

She suggested regulating the media as a solution to controlling what she contended was unacceptable material. "The problem is," she said, "that some liberties use freedom as a license to corrupt." She termed this license "very irresponsible."

Censorship was suggested as a solution. Asked who would be the censors, she thought for a moment before replying, "I don't know. Maybe a committee or a board, or cross-section of people. Or maybe someone high on the political level, or maybe parents or teachers."

The world-famous Roy Rogers-Dale Evans cowboy-cowgirl team churned out a steady stream of movies for the Saturday matinee crowd in the 40s and 50s. She first came to Hollywood in 1941 under contract with 20th Century Fox. Roy, Dale, Trigger, and a familiar crew at the Deane R. Ranch made sure that law, order, and justice prevailed in the old west. Their last movie was made in 1956. She and her husband,

Six New Paving Districts Created By City Council

The Ord City Council created six new paving districts during their meeting Monday in City Hall. The six, shown on the map, are located:

- on 17th Street, L Street to the grade school.
- on 16th Street from O Street to the grade school.
- on Valley View Drive to 23rd Street and on 24th Street between L and O.
- all of the Sunrise Addition in east Ord.
- on 19th Street L to O Streets.
- on 24th Street between L and J Streets, J Street between L and 27 Streets, K Street 24-27 Streets.
- All of 27 Street interconnecting Highway 11.

That last district could have been designated a thoroughfare because it connects two State Highways, according to City Attorney Greg Jensen. Had that been done, resident property owners could have protested the thoroughfare classification, but not the paving district.

After some discussion, the council classified it as a regular paving district.

Ord Mayor Gaylord Bolesen said, "We don't have any exact costs, but engineers have been telling us it will cost an estimated $15 to $19 a front foot." No exact figures will be available until bids on the paving project are in. If all goes well, again according to the Mayor, this could be within 60 to 90 days.

What he called "the costs of continual street repair" (triggered creation of the six districts. He told the Quiz "We can't afford to spray oil and gravel on the streets year after year. Costs are prohibitive. Traffic is up on city streets in town. There are more additions (residential developments) being created each year. We simply had to create permanent paved streets." Once in concrete streets will require little or no upkeep Bolesen stated.

"Paving on Misko Hill on South 21st has been there for years, and the city hasn't had to do a thing," he said.

Along with city paving, other improvements will also be made at the recommendation of the engineer. These may include installing curb and gutter, storm sewers, etc.

Overlaid storm sewers were a hot item on the Chamber's agenda recently. A group of discontented citizens rallied in City Hall and told City Dads how waste water and other offal backs up in their basements. They suggested the city take action to correct the situation.

Hearing-Petitions

A hearing on the newly created districts will be held August 10 in City Hall, 7 p.m. Residents can appear and make their views known at that time.

Persons can petition out of the paving districts, according to City Attorney Greg Jensen. This can be done if 51 percent or more of resident property owners directly abutting the street file written objections with the City Clerk within 20 days of the first legal notice publication.

That notice will be found elsewhere in this issue of the Quiz.

Councilmen tabbed Great Plains Engineering Company of Kearney to head the street project. They were one of four engineering firms appearing before the council Monday night. Charles Kemery, Great Plains vice president, told the council his firm specializes in street paving saying, "That's our bread and butter project." What he called a "full service organization" has a staff of 25

He said GP could start on needed paperwork within 48 hours of notification they were to head the project.

Fees for GP would be on a sliding scale, according to Kemery. The more the project cost, the lower the percentage.

Others

Other engineering and/or architecture firms appearing Monday night were:

- R. T. Paul Company of St. Paul.
- Mid-America Consultants.
- Clark, Emerson and Associates of Lincoln.

In other business, the council reviewed the occupational tax ordinance they passed last week. Under that new city regulation, persons outside a 50 mile radius of Ord will pay a $100 a day fee for selling their goods in Ord.

Door-to-door salesman, however, will continue to be classed as peddlers and hawkers. Their fee is $25 a day for doing business.

Bolesen reminded council members of the early bird budget session this Thursday. City dads will meet at 7 a.m. in City Hall to get the municipal budget organized and shaped up for a formal public hearing.

pendulum is swinging back the other way." One reason for the new direction, she speculated, "could be the violence shown on the screen and elsewhere."

She told how two boys dropped a radio into a tank of dolphins. The electric current killed the animals. In court, a judge asked the youths where they got the idea for such an act. The two replied they got their idea from a television show, according to the movie star.

Dale then suggested using censorship to curb violence and a hot item on the Chamber's agenda recently. A group of discontented citizens rallied in City Hall and told City Dads how

Debate-Confrontation Mark Budget Hearing

After over 90 minutes of debate and confrontation Thursday night, the Ord School Board adopted the $1,383,650 1978-79 school budget. Their move came after some rough questioning by a dozen people attending the public hearing at Ord High.

Most past budget sessions have been relatively quiet. Few people showed. Questions were usually few and far between. Thursday's session at Ord High was different.

J. H. Schroeder set the mood for the evening by asking if this meeting was going to be what he called "another lesson in futility." Despite public protestation, he told the board, the budget continues to rise.

Other items drawing sharp debate were the salary and ability of soon-to-be-Ord High principal Bob Shannon. He replaces Dave VanNordheim who resigned earlier this year after Schroeder's calling Shannon "a green horn."

Dean Bresley, Schroeder, and others wondered why Shannon was hired at a higher salary than that paid Dave VanNordheim.

Items drawing fire from those attending the session included teachers' salaries, the need of an additional janitor, hiked insurance payments to Ord teachers, etc.

After 90 plus minutes of bickering, questions, and answers, the board passed the new $1,383,650 budget for the 1978-79 school year. This is up $133,240 from last year's budget of $1,250,410.

Financing the budget will require a mill levy of 63.03, up 1.82 mills from last year's total of 61.21 mills.

Of the 63.03 mills, $3.56 mills will go for the general fund, 6.06 mills will be for the bond fund, and 3.41 mills for the special fund.

Along with the $1,383,650 general fund, $64,000 will be needed for the sinking fund, and $111,233 needed for the bond account.

Although the general fund mill levy will be down 1.10 mills from last year's level, the total mill levy for the bond and special fund along with that of the general fund will total 63.03 mills, up 1.82 mills from last year's total levy of 61.21 mills.

Ponies End Season With 15-13 Loss To Sargent

The Ord South Pony season ended with a 15-13 loss to Sargent Sunday at Comstock in the baseball tournament. The Sargent Ponies rallied from six runs behind last night to take a come-from-behind victory over the South in the losers bracket of the Loup Valley Little League Tournament.

Ord led early 8-2 but fell victim to a combination of 11 walks and eight errors in allowing Sargent to come back.

The loss capped a three-game series that started Wednesday when the Ord South bowed to Burwell 16-10. Burwell led 13-1 after three innings but Ord narrowed that margin with a nine run uprising in the fourth. Burwell scored seven more runs in their half of the fourth inning.

Then Ord South, who received a first round bye in the tournament, came back with six of their own in the fifth and left the tying run at the plate to end the game.

Burwell scored their 20 runs on only eight hits and 16 Ord South errors. Ord actually out hit Burwell collecting 10 safeties. Dan Linke, an Ord starter, was the losing pitcher. Mike Conrad got the win.

Coach Tracy Johnson termed the Ord defense, "a bad one". "This isn't the true Ord South team", he told the Quiz. "They're better than they showed in this game".

Ord-Arcadia Pee wees Will Meet In Finals

In second round Pee wee action at Comstock Sunday, Ord South and Arcadia were victors. Their win sets up what could be one of the most competitive and bitter rivalries in Pee wees finals scheduled for this Thursday in the Loup Valley Little League Championship.

South, the defending champion, came from a two run deficit to beat Ord North 4-3 Sunday night. Craig Erikson pitched an outstanding game, allowing seven hits but walking only four men. He made the big pitches when they were needed.

North out-hit the South 7-6 but it was Ord South's three-run third inning that decided the game. Erikson and Wade Bundy each collected two hits to pace the South, while Doug Wert had two hits for the North.

Coach Tracy Johnson said "The Pee wees were not really ready to play this game, but they had it all together and had what it took when they needed it. Craig Erikson pitched one of the best games of all South pitchers all season."

Basketball Camp at Kearney State Backed by Nebraska Coaches Ass'n.

Central Nebraska boys will have an opportunity to learn basketball from some of the state's finest high school basketball players July 31 at the free Nebraska Coaches Association basketball mini-camp at Kearney State College.

The mini-camp, held in conjunction with the South All-Star Basketball Camp, gives boys who will be entering grades six through nine the chance to work with central Nebraska all-stars Crale Bauer of Hildreth and Leon Gertsch of Aurora in addition to the other 10 members of the All-Star Basketball team such as Daryl Stovall of Bellevue West who was made honorary captain of the super-state teams in the Lincoln and Omaha newspapers at the end of the season.

The camp will be under the direction of South all-star coaches Larry Pritchett of Imperial and Larry Courts of Adams. The camp is free.

Mini-camp activities will begin at 1:30 p.m. at Cushing Coliseum on the Kearney State Campus. Participants should arrive sufficiently ahead of time to register and change clothes. Each boy is to furnish his own basketball shoes as well as athletic clothing. Locker rooms will be available.

The mini-camp will conclude at approximately 4 p.m. To participate, a boy need only have his parents' permission. Permission slips have been sent to each daily and weekly newspaper within a 50-mile radius of Kearney. Permission slips will also be available at the registration table the day of the camp.

Instruction at the mini-camp will include such basketball fundamentals as shooting, passing, defense, rebounding, screening, footwork, and body control. In addition, mini-camp participants will be divided into teams for scrimmages with the all-stars as coaches.

All-Star director, Merie Bauer of North Platte, said the mini-camps were started six years ago as a manner in which the all-stars could show their appreciation for the hospitality they receive while at the South training camp at Kearney. About 1,000 boys have taken part in the mini-camps in the first five years.

The South all-stars will be in Kearney from July 27 through August 3 to prepare for this year's all-star doubleheader with the North. The games are August 3 at Mid-Plains Community College in North Platte and August 4 at the University of Nebraska Sports Center in Lincoln.

A similar mini-camp will also be conducted at the North training camp at Wayne State College simultaneously with the South mini-camp. The North all-star squad includes central Nebraska standouts Paul Reinertson of Ravenna and Steve Toner of Grand Island.

Dymonettes Drop Three In A Row

The Ord Dymonettes dropped three in a row recently. Losses were to Arcadia, Taylor and the Ord Women.

The scenario opened July 10 when Arcadia gave them a drubbing 20-6. The host Arcadia gals got a 8-0 lead in the first inning and three more runs in the second.

Ord got one run in the second stanza making the score 11-1.

After a scoreless third inning for both teams, Arcadia chalked up seven more runs. Ord came through with five. The score was 18-6.

The last two runs for Arcadia were scored in the fifth.

Taylor

Taylor came to Ord Thursday, July 13 and went home with a 17-6 victory. Taylor had 11 runs in the first inning. After their seventh player crossed home, Pat Stethem was jerked from the mound and Kelly Scofield went in.

Ord came back in their half of the first and scored 3 runs.

Taylor padded their lead with two more runs in the second. Ord was shut out. The score was 19-3.

After a dead third inning, Taylor scored twice and Ord once in the fourth.

Both teams scored twice in the fifth.

Dymonettes-Ord Women

Two arch-rivals clashed on their home field Monday, July 17. The Women won 12-2. Kelly Scofield pitched the first three innings.

The game opened with the Ord Women scoring five runs, and the Dymonettes got nothing. After that, the Women had logged three more runs in the second, and one in the third.

Mary Heisner replaced Scofield in the fourth. That was the inning the Ord Women scored three runs while the Dymonettes got 2.

Midgets-Juniors Lose Close Ones

The Ord Midgets and Juniors were edged in two close games with York Monday. The Juniors lost a heart breaker 7-6.

Ord Juniors remained scoreless until the fifth-seventh innings in the game. They scored two runs in each of the three periods. A run scored early in the first inning by guest York likely gave them the slight edge needed to win the game.

York had two runs in the third, one in the fourth, and three in the seventh.

The Ord Midgets lost a close one, 14-12. York opened the game with an impressive show of fireworks. They had four hits, one of them a home run in the first inning. Ord helped them along with three errors.

Arcadia Wins Protest & L.V. League Title

Following a Loup Valley League Peeewe game on July 5th between Ord South and Arcadia, Coach Rod Stanke filed an official protest of an extra-inning decision.

This week Joe Hruza, Loup Valley League President, filed the following report giving the game to Arcadia. "As it was brought to my attention that a mistake probably was made affecting the outcome of the Peeewe game between Ord South and Arcadia.

"I contacted the coaches of the two teams to bring their score books and the umpires to a league meeting in Comstock, July 8th.

"The situation was described, as follows, at the meeting. "Both coaches and umpires agreed to this. Arcadia was home team. They were playing in the fifth inning, which is an overtime inning as four is regular play. There were two out in the last half of the fifth inning with the bases loaded. The game at this point was called for interference on the batter. Batter is sent to first and runner comes in from third to score, winning the game. Everyone leaves field, both teams and umpires. Ord coach has one of his players go and tag first base and claims out is made and run does not count because batter did not touch first base. (One interfered upon).

"After a lengthy discussion the Ord coach won the debate and they played on. Umpires not really sure at this point if they were right or not. In an inning or two later Ord South got some extra runs and was then the winner.

"As president and secretary of the league, I stated that batter cannot be put out until ball is put back into play; but in this instance, being batter was interfered upon, bases, full, run from runner on third counts, as batter gets first and runners advance, so game ends without last out being made. Ball need not be put into play by umpires. An out cannot be made until ball is put back into play by the umpires.

"It was agreed by the two coaches that Chuck Fryzek contact a state Legion person to verify if the run counts. An instructor for the American Legion umpire's school in the state was contacted. He stated that the run counts. "So I, as President of the Loup Valley League, must give the game to Arcadia as it should of ended in the fifth inning. Arcadia Peeewe are the league's champions."

Win Streak Going Win Over Shelton Keeps Five Game

In Sherman-Howard League action Ord edged host Shelton 10-5, to keep a five game winning streak going. Lyle Vancura went the distance on the mound, giving up 5 hits.

Ord has a 7-5 record in league play, and a 3-5 standing overall. The win Saturday kept Ord's five-game winning streak going. Mrs. Rogers called progress in the public's attitude toward mental retardation "remarkable". At one time, these handicapped youngsters were kept hidden away, Dale said. Their retardation was believed to be a reflection on some supposed defect in the family, she recalled.

What is sometimes called progress in the viewing arts, she called "pure filth". In her estimation images seen on the theatre screen and the video tube are reflections of America's moral decay.

Policeman Sued For $100,000 by Burwell Resident

A $100,000 lawsuit has been filed in U.S. District Court by a Burwell man against a policeman from that same town who allegedly struck the man with his fist.

Joel Southard has brought the action against Steve Burke, who Southard identified as a Burwell officer. Southard claims Burke stopped an automobile he was driving the night of July 7 because one of its headlights was out.

According to the suit, which requests a trial on the matter in Lincoln, Burke removed Southard from the vehicle and hit him. The suit says the alleged action "was not justified under the circumstances nor was it provoked" by Southard.

Southard claims various constitutional rights were violated by the incident and that he suffered humiliation, embarrassment, pain and suffering.

Burke, who lives in Taylor, declined comment.

Grain Reserve Mechanics

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M.M. Van Kirk, Director of Information
The mechanics of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's grain reserve, price stabilization program are probably little understood by the general public and even by a good many farmers.

The grain reserve takes wheat and other grain off the market for a period of up to 3 years or until market prices reach stated levels.

Recently the USDA announced that since the national average price for barley had risen above the USDA "release" level of $2.05 per bushel, farmers holding more than 25 million bushels of barley in the reserve could redeem their barley by repaying their government price support loans, after which they are free to sell or store their barley as they wish.

In short, they could sell it on the market or continue on their own to hold it hoping for an even better market price. In making the announcement, the USDA said the reserve has had the desired effect of bringing the national average market price for barley to $2.20 per bushel, thus exceeding the "trigger" price of 125 per cent of the $1.63 national loan rate.

Farmers with grain in the reserve receive storage payments annually in advance from the USDA. Upon repayment of the loan, farmers can keep the storage payments earned through the date of repayment or, if the loan is not repaid, the end of July.

The USDA will review the average price for barley on July 31. If it continues above the release level of $2.04 per bushel, the USDA will keep the release authorization in effect and storage payments will stop. If the price is below the release level, the USDA will rescind the release authorization and will continue storage payments. Data used by the Commodity Credit Corporation in determining release and call levels include a daily report by the Agricultural Market Service which shows prices bid by buyers at selected markets, and a month-end economics, statistics, and cooperatives service report of prices received by farmers, showing the previous month's average price and the current mid-month price.

Recently the USDA increased the price support loan rate for wheat to $2.35 per bushel which compares to $2.25 per bushel in effect for the 1977 crop. Market prices during the last two months of the crop year had increased enough to bring the average price to farmers above the required $2.36 level so the 10-cent per bushel increase in the loan level was put into effect.

In addition to increasing the actual loan value of the wheat to the farmer, the increased price support also raised the release prices for the 3-year farmer-held reserve. The price at which farmers now may redeem wheat from the reserve (140 per cent of loan) increases from $3.15 to $3.29 per bushel, and the price at which all of the reserve wheat must be redeemed (175 per cent of loan) is now $4.11 compared to $3.93 before the loan rate was increased.

In simplest terms, a farmer with grain in the reserve program has an incentive to redeem his loan and put his grain on the market when the market price is 140 per cent of the loan rate. If the market price reaches 175 per cent of the loan rate, or in the case of wheat, $4.11 per bushel, then all of the reserve wheat has to be redeemed.

No. 2 cash wheat early in July was quoted at Lincoln terminals in the range of $2.78 to $2.82, still a considerable distance from the $3.29 "release" level and a long ways from the $4.11 of mandatory redemption.

State-Regional Population Trends

According to figures released by the University of Nebraska Bureau of Business Research, Valley County's population declined 7.4 percent from April 1970 to July 1, 1977. Statistics released by the BBR earlier this month pegged the Valley County census April 1970 at 5,783. July 1 of this year 5,355 people lived in that same place.

The bureau computed the loss of 428 persons at a decrease of 7.4 percent. While these numbers are not optimistic, they present a brighter picture than similar figures 8 years ago, according to the BBR's July report. "Estimates for central Nebraska indicate a decline of only 0.8 percent since 1970," the report said, "a substantial improvement over the 11.0 percent population decline experienced from 1960 to 1970. Fifteen of the 22 north-central Nebraska counties show increased populations during the decade, compared to the 1960s. Only two very small counties (Arthur and Grant) are estimated to be experiencing a comparative 1 percent favorable growth trends.

Some of the decline in Valley County is attributable to the number of deaths exceeding the number of births. Statistics for those two categories are 589 and 577, respectively.

Statewide
The report on population estimates said, in part, "Every region of Nebraska appears to be sharing to some extent in the trend toward increased stability of the state's population. And" Evidence of increased population growth and stability has emerged morning caller of Mrs. Gilbert Baker and her house guest, Mrs. Anna Hachstock of Auburn, WA. Pinkeye Problem On the Increase

The incidence of pinkeye in Nebraska cattle is on the increase. According to the Nebraska Veterinary Medical Association, the disease is very contagious and can spread rapidly from animal to animal.

Hot dry weather encourages the problem which can be especially costly to cattle producers and feeders, causing loss in efficiency and slower weight gains.

The NVMA says fly and dust control can aid in the prevention of the disease. Local treatment to the eyes of infected animals and/or surgical intervention are recommended.

For more information on the incidence of pinkeye in the immediate area, contact one of the local veterinarians.

THE Ord Quiz

Estab. April 1882. Ord, Nebr., Thurs., July 20, 1978. Vol. 97, No. 21. 2 Sects.

The Resource Conservation Act (PL 95-192) passed by Congress some time back, provides for the appraisal of the nation's soil and water related resources and to determine their capability and limitations for current and future needs.

The evening of July 20th has been selected as the time for airing a program on the ETV network to provide information for the completion of a resource questionnaire. You will also evaluate changes in our resources resulting from past farming techniques.

As a result of the information returned, the United States Department of Agriculture will make an initial report to Congress on the conditions of our resources and will also be required to update this same information every 5 years. One important aspect of the federal legislation is that it does require participation by the public. The public participation section of the law really has caused local concerns to scratch their heads in an effort to garner the public support that Soil Conservation service needs to fulfill its obligations in reporting.

Several different methods are being utilized throughout the State of Nebraska. Initially those of us in the Lower Loup Natural Resources District working with the Soil Conservation Service felt that in a District of this size and considering the fact that find most of the questions to be relatively self-explanatory; however, you will have to use the "gray matter" on a few of the questions.

I might also mention that for those of you who cannot view the program, the questionnaire can be filled out without the benefit of viewing the TV program. Questionnaires may be obtained by contacting your local Soil Conservation Service. Remember, that's on the ETV channel. Thursday, July 20, at 7:30 p.m.

I would also like to mention that in some cases, public meetings are being held to fill out the questionnaire by viewing in a group meeting-type of situation. For those wishing to do so, I would encourage you to attend the meeting being held at the Ord Vets Club basement on Thursday evening, July 20, at 7:30 p.m.

If you were not one of those selected to fill out a questionnaire, I would still encourage you to view the program and become more familiar with some of the problems that are involved with soil and water resources throughout the State of Nebraska. For your convenience, those questionnaires being mailed out contain a self-addressed, postage-free return. I would hope you would agree that an hour of your time would be well spent to assist in the development of this questionnaire.

Basically, there are 18 sections covered in the questionnaire and the TV script. Some of the sections contain 4 or 5 questions, others contain more; however, it is a multiple-choice type of answer where you make a determination in your own mind whether or not the question is of major or minor concern by simply placing an "x" in the proper space. It's that simple. In reviewing the questionnaire, I

Parade Signals Start of County Fair

A parade August 1 in Ord will signal the start of the 1978 Valley County Fair. According to Richard Liss, parade chairman, the parade will start at 4 p.m. This year's theme is "Ag Is Our Bag", reflecting the area's dependence upon agriculture.

Floors, marchers, etc. should be in place at the grade school park, 17th and O, by 3 p.m., according to Liss. A panel of judges will view participants and select the winners.

The parade route will be from the park to the downtown square and back to the park. Kay Fuller and Willie Skala will be the announcers.

Farm-Home Show Will Be at Fair

Local merchants will display their wares at this year's Farm and Home show at the Valley County Fair. Over 30 booths will be included in the exhibition July 31 to August 2. They will be open 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. at the fair grounds.

1978 Wheat Crop Low in Quantity - High in Quality

According to local estimates, the 1978 wheat crop was high in quality, and short in quantity. Elevator operators and government employees interviewed all agreed on these two points.

Virgil Benke of the Farmers Co-Op Elevator in Ord estimated most of the wheat was in as of Friday July 21. His records showed Farmers Co-Op received their first wheat delivery July 13. Benke and others rated the '78 wheat quality "good". Most of it weighs around 60 to 61 pounds a bushel and has a moisture content of around 11 to 12 percent. Darrel Heisner, owner of the Ord Grain Company, said "It's darn good quality but the yield is down." He attributed declining yield figures to an early June heat wave and a recent hail storm.

Lloyd Zikmund of the ASCS office in Ord, remarked, "The people I have talked to, said their wheat made a better crop than they thought it would. Yields of 30 bushels an acre are not uncommon. It's not as good as we had hoped for, but it is better than expected."

Yield figures given by the three ranged from 16 bushels an acre to around 30. Benke estimated wheat volume coming in is about half of what it was last year at this time. Then wheat was selling for $1.80 to $1.90 a bushel. The current price was $2.65 as of Friday, according to Benke.

Mike Sullivan Buys Bank at Mason City

Directors of the Mason State Bank, Mason City, NE, have announced that Michael J. Sullivan is the bank's new president and owner.

Sullivan, eldest son of John Sullivan of Ord, replaces John A. Turner who is retiring, but will remain with the bank a few months. Orville Cox will remain as cashier.

Sullivan, 32, attended the University of Nebraska, majoring in finance and economics and has been employed by the First National Bank of Lincoln for the past seven years. His hobbies include golf, fishing, canoeing, and other sports.

The Sullivans will be moving to Mason City after August 1. Sullivan is a graduate of Ord High School. His wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kokes, well known ranchers of the Sand Flats area north of Ord.

Commanding Officers House In Fort Restoration Plans

Roye Lindsey, superintendent at Fort Hartshuff State Park, announced plans to start work on the commanding officer's home in 1979. The one-time home fell on hard times and was used for storing crops before the state purchased the historic fort, several years ago. The home is presently little more than a square box of old mortar and bricks on the east side of the parade ground.

Other future plans include erecting a marker telling of the Fort's role in Nebraska and history. The marker, according to Lindsey, will come from the State Historical Society. Located 10 miles northwest of Ord, the fort was established in 1874. When Indians became fewer and settlers plentiful, the fort was abandoned in 1882.

Although no battles were fought, the fort served its purpose of protecting area settlers. Its building provided much needed work, for times back then were hard.

The landmark suffered various uses and abuses, until Dr. Glen Auble of Ord purchased the land. He gave the 14-acre site to the State of Nebraska in 1961. It was then designated a state historic park.

Tales of the early fort and its restoration will be recorded on the historical marker, scheduled to arrive this fall. Tentative plans at that time include receiving a huge 20-foot American flag from Mrs. Gaylord Wallace. It will equal the one that once flew over the original fort, when it was an active duty post.

Recent improvements at the historic park include restoring a wall on the north side of the enlisted men's barracks. The building, on the south side of the parade ground, housed a mess hall, barracks, and barber shop. A veranda on the front side of the building will be added, probably later this fall.

Tea, Talent, Talk to Help Select County Fair Queen

A mixture of tea, talent, and competition will help determine who will be the 1978 Valley County Fair Queen Friday, July 28. A slate of 15 queen candidates are scheduled to meet with a panel of three judges during day-long judging ceremonies at the Ord Elks Club.

From 9 a.m. until noon, judges will hold scheduled interviews with queen candidates. The young ladies will present their talent acts starting at 2 p.m., according to Carol VanNordheim, County Home Agent. Following their stage presentations the girls will respond to questions put to them by judges.

The girl selected. The lucky girl selected queen will be crowned in ceremonies August 1 at 8 p.m. to officially open the 1978 Valley County Fair. Queen candidates and their sponsoring extension clubs are:

Wilde Says Comments Were Misinterpreted

Congress has never authorized a project that didn't have strong local and state support, Central Nebraska Projects Manager David Wilde said recently. Wilde was quoted by the Omaha World-Herald July 20 as saying that the North Loup Project would never have been approved if the extent of opposition had been known at the time of authorization.

Wilde said this comment was misinterpreted in the newspaper article. "The North Loup Division was authorized only after extensive congressional hearings," Wilde said. "These hearings were conducted over a 2-year period during the early 1970's. There was overwhelming state and local support for the project during the hearings." The Project Manager said that there was also some opposition against the project at the time of authorization but that Congress was aware of it. "Much of the opposition we are hearing today was also voiced prior to and during the project's authorization," Wilde said. "I believe Congress recognized there was some opposition — as well as a greater deal of local and state support."

In discussing the need for increased local and state support prior to authorization, Wilde said he was referring to the planning of future projects — not to the North Loup Project, and in no way was he being critical of present support for Nebraska Reclamation projects.

Meeting Thursday Helps Determine Conservation Program Priorities

An estimated 45 persons helped determine national conservation policies during a 90-minute meeting at the Ord Vets Club Thursday night. During the session, sponsored by the Soil Conservation Service and the Lower Loup Natural Resources District, those attending watched a special presentation and filled out questionnaires.

The long two plus pages of questions asked participants to rate various topics as being of much or some concern in their area. The check off sheet covered subjects including food and fiber, land use, flooding, conversion of farm land to other uses, etc. That session, and others like it across the state, was triggered by PL 95-192, the Soil and Water Resources Act. Congress passed the law in 1977. Under its terms, national conservation programs must be updated every five years. Every year, the President shall report to Congress on the effectiveness of current conservation programs.

To make the programs more effective, the law provides for public participation in framing conservation priorities. Meetings like those held Thursday, will be held across the nation on a regular basis.

The public's response to questionnaires and other material will be compiled on a county-by-county basis. Priorities the public (Continued on page 8)

Foth Packing His Bags For A Trip To Holland

Steve Foth is busy packing his bags for a long planned trip to the Netherlands. Steve will be going abroad under the Rotary International youth exchange program. A friendship with former Ord High exchange student, Pete Henricks, got him interested in the program. At Pete's urging, Steve filled out the necessary application papers.

After the paperwork and required interviews were completed last fall, Steve was told he had been selected as an exchange student. Plans call for him to spend a year with various host families.

When he arrives in Amsterdam, he will be met by the first of these, a M. Beukers-Maij in Lochem. "It's sort of like Bellevue-Omaha," said Steve of Lochem. "Three towns are right together, and about the size of Kearney."

Steve produced a large map of the Netherlands, showing Lochem was located inland, away from the sea. He will live there four months, and then move in with another sponsoring family. "I'm not sure who they are, yet," Steve added.

Letters he has received from Holland have told him his first family has two sons: Robert, 16, and Huang, 12 years old. Their father is a Certified Public Accountant.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Foth, Steve called his pending trip "a great opportunity."

Spady Charged On Five Counts

Todd Spady was charged on five counts during an appearance in County Court Tuesday. According to court records, Spady was charged with (1) driving while intoxicated, (2) willful reckless driving, (3) destruction of property, (4) no registration, and (5) no operators license. Sharon Spady posted 10 percent of a $3,000 bond. The charges stem from an incident July 17 in which Spady collided head-on with an Ord Police Department car near the 17th and N intersection.

Long-Time Farmers Recall Hopper Hordes of the 30s

Recent excitement over grasshopper infestations triggered memories of the Dirty Thirties and hardships they brought. Along with a long drought and a sick stock market, area residents had to contend with hordes of grasshoppers.

Curious about hopper infestations, both then and now, the Quiz asked two long-time area farmers about their recollections and comments. Those chosen were Oscar Larsen and Jim Aagaard.

Interviewed on his farm 10 miles north of Ord, Larsen had little trouble recalling the 1930s hoppers. "They were," he said, "as big as your thumb. We could look out in the evening and see clouds of them," cousin Ed Larsen stated. He was here on a visit Sunday.

According to Oscar, these swarms first started gathering in 1934, just after the start of what was to be a long, dry spell. "Maybe dry weather gives their eggs a chance to hatch," Larsen speculated.

Whatever the reason, they came and continued to come for quite a few years. "And they weren't just little ones," Oscar reminded. "They were full, green, mature bugs. They would light on a field and stay until everything was gone."

"Everything" included fence posts, pitch fork handles, and all forms of vegetation. Even clothing. "And I saw that myself," Larsen maintained.

He told of leaving a jacket in a field one night. The next morning it had holes in it. Leather was another entree on the hoppers' menu, according to Larsen. "They would just eat it down to the ground,"

To fight these green eger eaters, tons of poisoned bran were distributed. Banana oil was added to make the bait more attractive to the insects.

A May 26, 1937 Quiz quoted Valley County Agent Dale saying he had ordered a car load of the bait for free distribution to farmers. It consisted of sawdust, bran, and sodium arsenite.

A June 2, 1937 Quiz article read, "Reports of damage by the hoppers have practically flooded the County Agent's office this past week. In many places hoppers are eating off newly planted corn."

A July 7, 1937 Quiz told of a second car load of bran bait arriving. On the 28th of that month, a four-inch hopper was mentioned in an article. That same Quiz issue told of 10 bushels an acre grain yields.

July 13, 1938, one year later, 32,000 pounds of bait were handed out. A cement mixer was used to prepare the deadly concoction. Crews worked at their task in Blessing's Feed Yard, here in Ord.

SERVING UP SOME HISTORY — Gunter Nuxoll, owner of the restored Westcott, Gibbons and Bragg store in Comstock serves Mrs. Harold Florida an ice cream cone. Mrs. Florida used to work in the store in 1917. "We sold everything from needles to threshing machines," she recalled. Gunter Nuxoll bought the then closed general store, drug store, and pharmacy a few years ago. Months of work went into restoring it just as it was back when. July 4, 1976, the long-time Comstock landmark held its grand opening. Included in the general store are an old-time pharmacy, the town jail, and an old fashioned soda fountain. Gunter dispenses ice cream from the marble-topped fountain during the summer months. Nuxoll's success in restoring the old-time emporium has earned him a place in the National Registry of Historic Places. Recently, a television video-tape crew recorded the tale of the restored landmark for the Farmland Industries sponsored series "The American Trail."

Power - Pleasure Plenty At FFA Sponsored Tractor Pull Tournament

HOT N' HEAVY — Doug Shenks pulled 8,000 pounds during the Sunday tractor pulling contest. There was power and pleasure aplenty at the Valley County Fairgrounds Sunday during the Ord Future Farmers of America sponsored tractor pull. About 350 to 400 people witnessed some 55 pulls during the Sunday afternoon event. Engines roared, exhaust pipes belched jet-black smoke during the competition. Some tractors were conventional models while others obviously were designed for pulling competition. The latter variety often boasted custom-made exhaust pipes resembling church organ pipes. CAROL'S CORNER by carol leggett

FOR WIVES ONLY... These are the results from a delightful collection of warm and witty insights about the woman of the house.

- A wife is someone who... is strong enough to tighten jar covers, but is too weak to open them. She is someone who cuts things out of the newspaper before her husband gets to read it. A wife is someone who... always has a baby at night. She is someone who... uses all her husband's pants hangers for her skirts. A wife is someone who can't remember if she turned off the iron (when she is at least 35 miles from home). She is someone who fixes hubby's favorite dish the first time in four months, on the day he ordered it for lunch. She is someone who... puts the whole family on a diet when she gains weight. A wife is someone who... hears strange noises at 2 a.m. She is one who... stops by the store to get a loaf of bread, and needs three stock boys to carry out the groceries she bought. A wife is someone who... cries over the stories on television. A wife is someone... who says her bathing suit must have shrunk over the winter. A wife is someone who... wakes her husband on his day off... telling the kids to be QUIET so he can get some sleep. A wife is someone who... just can't bear to throw out old magazines. She is one who... refers to her friends as THE GIRLS.

The Ord North Pony League team completed its season with the Loup Valley Little League tournament and 3 wins and 2 losses. The North team entered the tournament with a win 3 loss record. The team had 3 successive losses to start the season and then ran into scheduling and weather problems as 3 weeks elapsed with no games. Finally a victory at Sargeant in the tournament was just around the corner.

Game #1

Ord-Arcadia The North Ponies were seated #5 in the tournament. Opponent Arcadia. The North team scored two runs in the 2nd inning to take the lead as Scott Novosad and Tom Papiernik scored. The team fell behind 4 to 3 however by the last inning and needed two runs to win. Three weeks started the 5th inning rally led by Mike Williams and Jerry Augustyn scored the needed tally. Mike Williams picked up his 1st victory of the tournament.

Game #2

Ord-Taylor The North team faced league champion and #1 seated Taylor. The night and game however belonged to Ord North pitcher Mike Williams and the North Ponies. Williams gave up just one hit in 5 innings while collecting two himself. North scored 4 runs in the 5th for the 4-0 victory. The victory left the North Ponies and Burwell the only two undefeated teams in the tourney.

Game #3

Burwell-Ord The Burwell and Ord North game proved to be one of the best in the double elimination tourney. Ord scored 1st as they got 2 runs in the top of the 2nd with Tom Papiernik and Brian Cetak crossing the plate. Burwell wasn't done however as they scored 1 run in the 2nd and 3 in the 3rd, to take a 4-2 lead. Jerry Augustyn started the 5th inning off for North living off a Burwell error and then Doug Conner tripled to score Augustyn. Conner tried to score on the hit and an excellent throw from Burwell centerfielder Wade Jensen and an equally fine relay from Burwell 2nd baseman Ray Olcott to the catcher caught Conner short of the plate. The game belonged to Burwell 4 to 0.

Ord scored 3 runs in the 3rd, 5 in the 4th and 4 in the 5th to overtake and defeat Sargeant 12 to 5. Ord started Jerry Augustyn pitching and Mike Williams came in to get the win, while allowing just 2 hits in 4 2/3 innings. North collected 10 hits in the victory including 2 each for Tom Papiernik, Doug Conner, Jerry Augustyn and Mike Williams. Brian Cetak and Kelly Boyce collected the other two hits as Ord moved up to play Burwell once again.

The Burwell team showed why they were the undefeated team of the tournament as they scored 11 runs in the 1st 3 innings and went on to win 11 to 2. The North team scored its 2 runs on 2 ABs as Brian Cetak and Jerry Augustyn were the only two able to hit safely off winning Burwell pitcher, Mark Conner.

The Pony Tournament was concluded with Burwell 1st; Ord North, 2nd and Sargeant 3rd. The coaches evaluation had Mike Williams as the most valuable pitcher and Burwell's Mark Conner as the most valuable player of the tournament.

Not Too Early For Fall Hunting Plans

July may seem a bit early to plan a waterfowl hunt, but Nebraskans wanting a chance at these on the Plattsmouth Waterfowl Management Area can make their first move now, according to Chet McClain of the Game and Parks Commission. McClain, who supervises management of the Commission's wildlife lands in each of Nebraska's 93 counties, noted that applications for the area are being accepted through August 30. A drawing on Sept. 6 will determine which hunters get a day's use of a Plattsmouth blind.

Application forms and information on Plattsmouth hunting may be obtained in person at the Commission's Lincoln headquarters, or by mail from the Plattsmouth Waterfowl Management Area, Box 525, Plattsmouth, NE 68048.

Regulations for Clear Creek, a controlled waterfowl hunting area operated by the Commission above Lake McConaughy, have been changed to eliminate any applications for blind reservations. This year, hunters must simply appear at the area headquarters before shooting hours. If there are more hunting parties than blinds available, a drawing will determine who gets to hunt there that day. In the past, hunters applied for one of 25 blind sites for the entire season.

South Peeewe's Take 2nd in Loup

The Ord South Peeewe's took second place in the Loup Valley Little League Championship at Comstock Wednesday, with a 12-3 loss to Arcadia. The game ended the South Peeewe's season with a 8-1 season record.

Coach Tracy Johnson said, "We only lost one game all season, but it was the big one. "He called the team "The best group of kids I've seen for that age. They played well together all season. I'm proud that they could win and lose like true sportsmen."

Arcadia pitcher Rob Lewandowski was credited for a large part of his team's win.

Arcadia scored one run in the first, five runs in the second, had two runs in the third, and capped their performance with four runs in the fourth.

Meeting Thursday

Those taking part in the state-wide survey filled out the long form while watching the program.

Those completed questionnaires will be compiled on the county level. Results will be sent to a state-level ASC office for processing. The public's views and priorities will then help determine Nebraska's state conservation program, along with guiding selection of national priorities.

"The important thing" Paulsen said in a Quiz interview, "is to remember that all future U.S.D.A. conservation programs will be based on this type information."

Dane Root, an area conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, compared conservation programs in past years to getting over shoes in the Army. As he recalled things, a big pile of rubber boots would be dumped in the middle of the parade ground. Soldiers would walk by and pick two boots out of the big pile.

"Didn't matter if they didn't fit or if you didn't get a left or a right shoe," the speaker said, "you got your required over-shoes."

He contended public input like that given Thursday would eliminate the less than tailor-made conservation programs in the future.

Following the program, there was a question and answer session.

— AGAARD could recall his brother using gunny sacks to beat hoppers out of the family garden. Other measures were also used. "We had a Bantam hen sitting on some pheasant eggs," Jim chuckled. The light weight bird hatched her "adopted" brood. Then mother and children gorged themselves on the green insects. The birds grew nice and plump while acting as a natural biological control.

Eventually, in the late thirties, the hoppers first diminished, and then disappeared. Some say it was because of the moisture. Others have different ideas. Whatever the reason, the tenacious insects left their mark on the history of this state and Valley County. Through it all, sturdy pioneer farmers kept their faith in God and the hope that there were better days ahead.

Municipal Eyesore

Monday, July 17, the Ord City Council created six new paving districts. Ord Mayor Gaylord Bolesen said the cost of continually repaving city streets sparked the council's move.

The condition of those streets is well known to newcomers and long-time area residents alike. Pot holes, chuck holes, and crumbling armor coat pavement are common sights around this town. Complimenting these eyesores is a sewer system showing signs of old age.

That same sewer system motivated some area residents to appear before the council recently. It seems that when storm water is dumped into the sewer line, sewage backs up into several basements. The accompanying stench, according to those involved, is overpowering.

Following that council meeting, needed repairs were quickly made. Plates were put over storm sewer openings, restricting the flow of water into sewer lines. True, there will likely be lagoons of water in some city streets when rain falls, but the storm sewer problem has been "fixed".

This same make-do or patchwork mentality has been followed year after year in maintaining city streets. Each spring municipal workers armor coat sections of the city. Perennial sore spots, like a stretch of road near the grade school, are annual projects.

Bolesen and other council members have estimated these patchwork repairs last about two years. After that, city workers are literally right back where they started.

Now Ord residents will have a chance to end these annual exercises in futility, and other municipal problems as well. Along with paving, the city proposes to install curbs, gutters, sewer lines, etc. in the newly created paving districts. Such improvements will be done at the recommendation of the project engineer.

These improvements and paving will be the subject of a special public hearing August 10, 7:00 p.m. in City Hall. Attend the meeting and show your support for ending what amounts to a municipal eyesore. — W.M.

Good News! Good News!

Good news, my friends, good news! The July 13 Quiz editorial "Avoid A Conflict" got some results. Alma Nelson of the Valley County Welfare Department revealed Jim Crossland, head of Central Nebraska Community Action Agency, wrote her a letter pledging outreach workers for that organization won't round-up clients for the welfare department anymore. Nor will they explain various welfare programs, again according to Nelson.

Last Tuesday, July 18, two Central workers visited the Quiz. What they asked, did we think they could do to avoid the possible problem. Quiz editor Wade Misko suggested Central handling their programs, and the Welfare Department tending their own better homes and gardens as a solution.

The two visitors didn't think this was possible. What they called their "areas of concern" overlap, so they thought. What is more, they said they were surprised to learn of the conflict. According to remarks they made, they had no idea there was any sort of problem brewing.

We're glad they learned of the problem, and we hope they take steps to solve it.

Now if they would only eliminate unnecessary spending and duplication of programs that apparently exist. — W.M.

Something Different

Cooking Columns

I note that Carol Leggett wants to operate a column of recipes, and asks for your cooperation.

Since I am some kind of nut and would rather read recipes than novels, I think it would be nice if she could achieve this.

Years, and years ago, many, I ran a cooking column that I enjoyed. But it was more of a feature-article thing.

I would call some nice lady who was a famous cook and make an appointment with her, then on the fatal day I'd appear with a photographer to interview her. The photographer would take two or three shots of her creating her masterpiece, — and we'd be sure to use one pic.

And I would talk to the woman about just how she made her extra-famous rye bread. Or her super-beautiful kolache (musn't add "s" ... it is plural!)

Or how to fix cabbage a delicious way that was new to me but a favorite of Grandma's. It was fun to talk food with say Mrs. Marion Crosby (the "ran" a hardware store), or Mrs. Leah Long, or Mrs. Lyle Milliken, or Mrs. G. W. Taylor, or Mrs. George Hubbard. I learned so much.

I learned how to make a delicious incredible meatloaf that had glycerine in it. (It stays so moist.)

I learned that alum would make pickles QUITE crisp. I learned that every cook did things different.

Numbers of recipes I tried out on my own family ... if they didn't like it, I soft-peddled the idea.

I learned that some cooks were cheap and skimmed or substituted on every item. I learned that some cooks used more cream and butter than you'd believe! Those were the days of "hearty" cooking.

We didn't have shortages; there were always potatoes and eggs and cream. If you bought meat the kindly meat-market man "threw in" a piece of liver "for the dog" or for you (yesterday it was a bargain here at 79¢ per pound). He also threw in suet to make your fruit cake better, or for feeding your birds!

You didn't marinate meat nor put tenderizer on it: you pounded flank steak with a saucer edge to break the membranes so that it would get delectably tender.

I did much canning in the oven, especially tomatoes and peaches: never had a jar spoil ... but I was considered pretty nutty. Now they can be frozen so easily.

But it was nothing in those days to "take care" of three bushels of cucumbers because they were "just right" for pickles — even if I used 13 days to do it!

Or a dishpan (remember dishpans?) of strawberries every evening (they'll spoil!) or making "sunshine preserves". Or to dry corn in the oven, remember that smell? (So good, later.)

Task Force To Investigate Nebraska Box Car Shortage

CAPITOL NEWS
By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Press Association
LINCOLN — A task force has been named to investigate the persistent shortage of railroad cars at harvesting time in Nebraska.

Senator Loran Schmit of Bellwood, chairman of the Legislature's Agriculture Committee, said he will head the task force and will be joined on it by Senators Bill Burrows of Adams and Martin Kahle of Kearney.

The action came following a hearing by Schmit's committee during which grain industry and railroad representatives testified the state is experiencing perhaps the worst boxcar shortage in history.

Both sides expressed considerable concern but neither had any quick solution.

Railroad spokesmen said they are doing their level best to allocate cars for the movement of Nebraska grain, and farmers and elevator operators said they were beset with problems resulting from the shortage.

A Union Pacific official from Omaha, Hank May, said he does not believe any railroad can afford the amount of equipment necessary to satisfy demand during the peak grain-shipping period.

William Doney, transportation director for the Burlington Northern system, which includes Nebraska, said the railroad is trying "every angle" in an attempt to meet elevator demands for grain cars.

Doney said there isn't any answer that would please everyone.

The railroad officials said there are a variety of reasons for the rail-car pinch. Formerly, they said, much of Nebraska's grain was shipped to nearby Kansas City, making the turn-around time of the cars much more rapid.

Currently, much of the state's grain winds up in Gulf and West Coast ports.

Small elevators received about half as many cars the first half of this year, compared with the corresponding periods in the past several years.

Lack of cars when they are needed results in lower prices farmers receive, according to testimony that was repeated several times before the committee.

Bob Anderson, secretary of the Nebraska Co-Operatives Council, said such expenses can amount to several hundreds of dollars a day at some elevators.

Robert Anderson of the Nebraska Grain and Feed

Dealers Association suggested that having the Interstate Commerce Commission supervise the distribution of rail-cars might be of some help.

It was suggested several times during the hearing that railroads might be allocating too much of their equipment to the coal-hauling business. Schmit said he wondered whether there should be "another look" at continuing the railroads' monopoly on coal.

He was referring to legislation that would permit transportation of coal through a slurry pipeline. Bills calling for such legislation have been killed in committee during recent legislative sessions.

Schmit said he will invite representatives of railroads, the trucking industry, grain and railroad associations and grain elevator operators to furnish ideas and data to the task force.

He said the task force will report its findings to the 1979 Legislature, along with alternatives for streamlining grain transportation.

Comments on University Budget

Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan, the Democratic nominee for governor, said recently that if he is elected, he may ask the University of Nebraska to get along with its current budget for one more year.

At the same time, he said it is next to impossible he would advocate a reduction in the university's budget next year.

Whelan said he would act as chief executive to meet the legitimate needs of all state agencies, including the university.

He said his immediate budget target would be to hold state budget increases within 5 percent, noting that taxpayers seem to be demanding that type of frugality. He cited the apparently successful petition drive to place before the voters a 5 percent ceiling on increased property tax expenditures by local units of government.

Whelan said he was not taking an anti-university position. But he added as the receiver of more state tax funds than any other agency, the university is a logical place to look for budgetary economy. He also noted the institution has experienced considerable growth in its tax support base in recent years.

Whelan said he believes the university could increase the faculty classroom teaching load, cut travel expenses and perhaps even do away with some new programs.

The Board of Regents, he added, would have to make the cost control decisions.

Whelan suggested thought be given to tying tuition raises to a percentage of the total cost of education. Implementation of that proposal would mean tuition would go up every time the university budget was increased.

Quits PSC Staff

Patsy Mullenix, the Nebraska Public Service Commission staff attorney who Commissioner Jack Romans wanted to fire for the way she handled telephone rate cases, has resigned.

She said she quit to consider opportunities as a trial attorney in utility rate cases in Washington, D.C.

Ms. Mullenix joined the commission staff in 1977. Since then, she said, there has been some progress in more effectively regulating the telephone industry. But she added the progress has been "limited" and very slow.

"Unfortunately, any progress at all in effective regulation will have to struggle against the opposition of at least two committees," she said.

She identified the two as Romans, who is from Elwood, and Duane Gay of Columbus.

Early this year, Romans tried to fire Ms. Mullenix for what he said was "unprofessional conduct" in the manner she handled a Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Company rate application.

Ms. Mullenix said another reason she was resigning was the large turnover of the commission staff. Four attorneys have resigned during the past 18 months, she said.

Seek Use of Stronger Chemicals

The effort by Nebraska officials to receive permission to use a restricted chemical in the battle against grasshoppers is continuing at this writing.

Gov. J. James Exon said he has been assured by the White House that the Environmental Protection Agency will give the matter prompt attention.

What Nebraska officials want is authorization to use Heptachlor, and that their request for its utilization not be delayed by a hearing, if a hearing would postpone application of the pesticide to a time when it would not be as effective.

State Agriculture Director Roger Sandman told federal officials new data on the scope and economic impact of the grasshopper problem outweighs considerations used when it was determined Heptachlor should be banned.

Geranium Joe

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

It's been so hot out our way that I ain't ventured far from the front porch. You can't suit southe folks. I complained about this cold last winter, like I do every winter, and now I'm looking to fall. But for changing with the seasons I ain't as bad off as Listerine. During my reading on the porch I found out the folks that make the mouthwash has got to spend $10 million on advertising to say their advertising is "the best".

In this case, the Federal Trade Commission is ordering Listerine to say the stuff won't help prevent colds or sore throat like it's been saying since 1921. The FTC challenged the claim in 1941, and this year the appeals got to the U.S. Supreme Court, where Listerine lost. Usual in false advertising cases they just got to quit saying the product will do what it won't do, but because Listerine has been advertising it for so long the FTC and the court say it has got to spend its money to tell folks it ain't as good as they think it is.

Mister Editor, I see all kind of trouble here. Can you hear the head of the Listerine company telling the stockholders he promoted the product so good the company is broke. I don't see any difference between Listerine telling us to gargle with the stuff when we got a cold and one of them outfits that make "tiny time pills" claiming relief is released in our blood streams slowly and we feel better all day. If you take all that medicine you can cure a cold in a week, and if you let the cold alone it'll clear up in seven days. Any relief from a head cold is all in the head anyway.

I mentioned this to the fellers at the country store Saturday night, and they were full agreed, for once. Fred Dubois said it would turn the whole economy of this country around if folks had to prove their products will do what they claim. Fred said he would like to see what really happens when you drink gusto, and if toothpaste can draw boys to girls like ants to a picnic. If the courts were to order these whisky companies to prove how people that drink their brand have more friends and more fun, we ought to see some interesting ads. He said he's talking tigers and balanced diets that come out of cereal boxes, Fred went on he would just as soon go on deciding what to believe about Listerine.

Speaking of misleading ads, Joe Lech wanted to know about unfair advantage. He said the FTC ought to look into the sale of Weight Watchers the other day. This company that is in the business of taking off fat was snowed up by another company that puts it on. The Heinz people that make at least 57 varieties of goodies paid $70 million for the chance to catch people the second time around. If Heinz wants to be real honest about it, they can use a new ad slogan like "we fatten em first, then fast em," Joe allowed. The chances of that kind of truth in advertising are about as good as President Carter's promise to streamline the Government.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

It is difficult to believe that there is another Bureau of Reclamation bootleg in the O'Neill Unit (Norden) but there is. The beautiful Calamus River has been placed in jeopardy by the Bureau's attempt to dam the river a few miles above Burwell. The North Loup Project, originally planned to irrigate 53,000 acres has dwindled to 26,000 acres.

The Calamus River, while meandering its way through the sand hills for centuries past, has built up a storehouse of wildlife habitat that will rival any in the nation. Nearly every water-loving bird that frequents Nebraska makes the wetlands adjacent to the river a permanent or temporary home.

It is not unusual to count 20 to 30 deer, feeding in a single field along the river's bank. It is also home for beaver, fox, coyote, bobcat and many other furbearing and predatory animals. Canoeing the Calamus River through this wildlife sanctuary is an experience never to be forgotten.

The question is: what will the Bureau accomplish by damming another of Nebraska's few remaining free flowing rivers and wiping out a major portion of the river's wildlife habitat?

The farm budget analysis produced by the Bureau like that of the O'Neill is totally inflated and if the facts were stated correctly the cost of the project would be greater than the benefits. The farm budget analysis compares the costs and incomes of two identical farms except that one is a dryland farm and the other receives project water. The smaller income derived from the dryland farm is subtracted from the income of the project farm. The difference being, what the Bureau calls, the project benefits.

Ted E. Hoffman

Acres yields for irrigated and dryland corn, projected by the Bureau for the year 2010, are 189 and 55 bushels per acre respectively. In the Missouri River Basin Commission, Platte River Basin Level B Study projected 174 irrigated and 70 dryland bushels per acre by 2010. The Bureau claims to have used the Platte Level B Study for its own projection.

In 1977, yields of dryland corn in the project area exceeded the Bureau projection by 27 percent while the average yields of irrigated corn were only 61 percent of the 2010 projection.

The most obvious flaw in the farm budget analysis is the Bureau's presumption that a farm irrigated with project water will have a prosperous livestock feeding operation and dryland farming will not. Every authority except the Bureau agrees that livestock feeding is a function dictated by the market and irrigation has little or no impact.

Two University of Nebraska economists, Dr. Loyd Fischer and Dr. Bruce Johnson, examined the North Loup Project benefits and concluded that the benefit-cost ratio should be 0.4 to 1, instead of 2.3 to 1 projected by the Bureau ... far short of the economically feasible level of 1.0 to 1.

The tragedy is that second and third generation families will be evicted from their land. They are among the few who still retain the rural strength of character that made our country great, being good and stewards and asking for no special favors. Their fundamental weakness is that they don't have the political clout to protect themselves.

Representative Virginia Smith buried her head in the sand and refuses to even consider that the Bureau could be wrong.

Mrs. Smith supports spending billions of dollars on questionable public works projects, while at the same time, advocating fiscal responsibility and a balanced budget.

The main trouble, when I deteriorated to writing an ordinary cooks' col-yum-yum, was that everyone sent me the same recipes! A fashion in food.

If there was a delicious new gelatine salad ... I'd get four copies from four people. If there was an easy-do chocolate cake, three or more people would attach their names and send it to me, proudly.

And if I printed only one contribution ... I'd lost three friends.

When cooking, I now refer to three Microwave cookbooks ... but often end up with my dear old Presbyterian goodie. It can hardly be beat: all I have to do is adjust the cooking time.

Try and do it. I've turned out some sad bread, some humpy cake, etc., etc.

KERRY ON

— free enterprise —
A wonderful story about "Free Enterprise" has been circulating in the house organs of a number of big American companies and quite a few readers have asked me to pass it on to you.

It was published first, as I understand it, in the news magazine of the Gypsum Drywall Industry and here it is:

Once upon a time there was a Little Red Hen who asked her barnyard neighbors to help her plant some wheat.

"Not I," said the Cow, the Duck, the Goose and the Pig.

"Then I will," said the Little Red Hen. And she did.

When help was needed to water the wheat, "Not I," said the Cow, the Duck and the Pig. "Equal rights," said the Goose.

So, the Little Red Hen watered it herself.

When time came to reap and grind the wheat into flour, "Not I," said the Cow. "I'd lose my unemployment compensation," said the Duck. "Out of my classification," said the Pig. "I'd lose my apprentice certificate," said the Goose.

So, the Little Red Hen did it herself.

When baking time came, "That's overtime for me," said the Cow. "I'm a dropout and never learned how," said the Duck. "I'd lose my welfare benefits," said the Pig. "If I'm the only one helping, that's discrimination," said the Goose.

So, the Little Red Hen baked five fine loaves of bread and held them up for her neighbors to see.

Demand Share
They all wanted some and demanded their share.

"No," said the Little Red Hen. "I'll rest a while and eat them myself."

"Excess profits," cried the Cow.

"Capitalist leech," screamed the Duck.

"Company fink," grunted the Pig.

"Equal rights," screamed the Goose.

And so they demonstrated with signs and song.

Then the Farmer investigated and he said to the Little Red Hen, "You greedy Hen, look at your poor, oppressed, disadvantaged, underprivileged and less-fortunate neighbors. You are guilty of making second-class citizens of them."

"But ... but ... But ... I earned the bread," protested the Little Red Hen.

"Exactly," the Wise Farmer said. "That is the wonderful free enterprise system. Anybody in the barnyard can earn as much as he wants. You should be happy to have this freedom. In other barnyards you would have to give all five loaves to the Farmer. Here you give four loaves to your suffering neighbors."

And they lived happily ever after, including the Little Red Hen who smiled and smiled, and clucked: "I am grateful. I am grateful."

But her neighbors wondered why she never baked any more bread!

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE TWIN LOUPS RECLAMATION DISTRICT REPLY

Because of the many misleading reports concerning the Twin Loups Project, the Board of Directors of the Twin Loups Reclamation District, we are taking this means of reviewing the facts of the development of the project.

The Twin Loups Reclamation District is an area of land, the border of which begins at the west edge of Valley County and extends eastward into Independent Township in southeastern Valley County, and then from Cotesfield to Elba in Howard and Greeley Counties. On the north side of the North Loup River it extends from the western edge of Greeley County to Fullerton in Nance County, embracing all of the irrigable land in the North Loup Valley.

The Twin Loups Reclamation District was formed in 1954, and includes approximately 130,000 acres of land. The people then voted a one-mill levy for the purpose of promoting the irrigation project. At that time the District Board asked the United States Bureau of Reclamation to investigate the possibility of irrigating the lands in the district. In 1975 a project was proposed by the United States Bureau of Reclamation by which some 53,000 acres of land could be irrigated. By 1958 a feasibility report was completed and an Irrigation District was formed under the Nebraska Irrigation Laws. Under the law, all irrigable dryland in the Irrigation District must participate if the Irrigation District can deliver water to these lands.

A bill was introduced by Congressman Dave Martin for authorization of the North Loup Project in 1961. A field hearing was held in Ord at the Elks Club in July of 1970, and on October 20, 1972 the North Loup Project was authorized by the Congress of the United States of America. The project was to be built under the Reclamation Act of 1902.

Since the North Loup Project was authorized, each year funds have been appropriated for advance planning and construction. In 1976 construction was started by building a road to the Dam Site on the Calamus River above Burwell, Nebraska. Since that time, land has been acquired for the Dam and Reservoir. Specifications for the foundation of the dam have been advertised and on August 15, 1978 at the Ord High School auditorium bids will be opened.

Some false information has been circulating and we as the Directors of the Twin Loups Reclamation District would like, at this time, to make some corrections.

First, we wish to explain what the Reclamation Act of 1902 is. At that time a law was passed by the U.S. Congress setting aside money from the sale of government land, and mineral, oil, and gas leases, from the seventeen western states. This was placed into a fund to be loaned to the people in these western states to develop irrigation and power on the western rivers. This money would be interest free, and well it should be, because it came from the western people to start with.

The Missouri River Development Act was passed by Congress in 1944 and is known as the Pick-Sloan Plan. The major dams were constructed on the Missouri River for the purpose of flood control, hydro-electric power, irrigation, navigation, and recreation, fish and wildlife. From the operation of these Dams, the revenues from the sale of power after the power operation, maintenance, and repair are paid, and the power investment and interest are paid, the remaining revenues are then used to pay the difference between what the irrigator is able to pay and the total reimbursable costs of the Project.

Over 10,000,000,000 (ten billion) kilowatt hours of power are generated each year from those dams, and the net revenue from the sale of this power pays for projects such as the Twin Loups, Loup Basin, Ainsworth and many others in Nebraska, the Dakotas, and Kansas. When the people in the Missouri Basin turn on their lights and use their electric motors, they are creating the revenue which pays for these projects, yet this hydro-power is for them the cheapest power available (6¢ mills per kilowatt).

The second point we wish to make is that it has been said that we will not have 53,000 acres of land buying water from the project. We have approximately 77,000 acres in the Irrigation District, all within the bounds of the Reclamation District, with 55,000 of these acres being considered irrigable. We believe this is a conservative estimate. Adjustments can be made during the development period. We also have ten to fifteen thousand acres of land lying adjacent to, and below, our canals. We believe that much of this land will be petitioned into the district over the next 20 years. We have only enough water for 53,000 acres so we cannot serve this additional land unless someone in the district wants to give up his water right.

From 1972, when the project was authorized, until 1976, when its Repayment Contract was signed, The Twin Loups Irrigation District Board honored every petition of those who wanted to be excluded from the Irrigation District.

Many of our farmers have well and river irrigation. Since no irrigated lands are automatically included in The Twin Loups Irrigation District, the owners needed to petition this land into the Irrigation District. It was their choice whether to be, or not to be, within the District. We are more likely to have too much land, rather than too little.

And now for a Final Point: It has been said that we will always have enough ground water for irrigation, but already we have five areas in Nebraska that are experiencing lowered water tables. States like Texas, Kansas, Arizona, New Mexico, California, and others, have huge areas where they have had to abandon irrigating because the water tables are so low. California has pumped its water table so low in places that it is below sea level and they are getting salt water. If we water ALL of our land with wells, we could well be out of water within 20 years.

The Twin Loups Reclamation District has compromised with many interests. We have tried to accommodate the people opposing the project by permitting them to withdraw their land from the Irrigation District. We are asking the same consideration from them so that the majority wanting the North Loup Project may move ahead.
