

Wynne Adams Named County Fair Queen

Wynne Adams was crowned Queen of the 1978 Valley County Fair in ceremonies Tuesday night at the fair grounds. The 1978 Ord High graduate began her reign with a smile and a bouquet of roses.

The daughter of Mary Adams of Ord, Wynne was selected by a panel of judges from a field of 15 contestants. Judging took place Friday.

While a student at Ord High, the new '78 fair queen was active in sports, and musical activities. A member of the National Honors Society and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, she was a delegate to Girls State in Lincoln her junior year of high school. Her future plans include attending Kearney State College and majoring in music.

Named first runner up was Jean Hruby, a 1978 graduate of Ord High. Jean was a member of the Future Homemakers of America, Future Business Leaders of America, and the school Pep Club. The 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hruby was a member of the National Honors Society while an Ord High student.

For her talent presentation, Jean played Nadia's Theme on the piano.

Second Runner Up

The panel of three judges named Diane Nolte as a runner-up. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Nolte of Ord, Diane gave a monologue called "Grocery Capers" for her talent presentation.

Sponsored by the Guided Mrs. Extension Club, Diane plans to attend Hastings College and major in business administration. She lists her hobbies as including sewing, playing the piano, working with ceramics, and taking part in 4-H activities. She is employed by the Pizza Hut in Ord.

Wynne Adams, the new Valley County Fair Queen will preside over a flurry of activities at the annual celebration at the fair grounds in Ord. She replaces Penny Staab, the 1977 Valley County Fair Queen.

Fair Parade Floats Show Ag Is Our Bag

Parade participants and spectators alike knew "Ag is our Bag" at the close of the Valley County Fair parade Tuesday in Ord. The theme, "Ag is our Bag" was carried out in more than 45 floats and other entries in the march through downtown Ord.

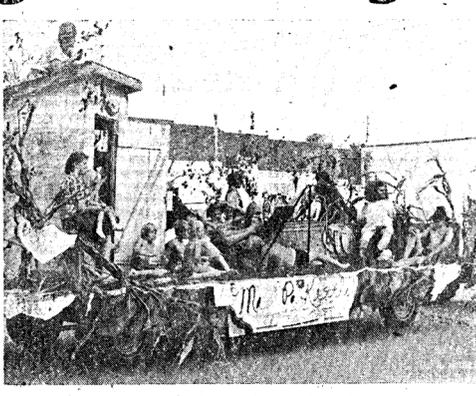

This year a panel of three judges picked winners in the commercial and non-commercial divisions. Rae Jean Treptow, Dorothy Lewis, and Lois Jurgensen announced the following winners:

Commercial Division

1. G and R Service. Josh Treptow and Kelly Cook were on a float showing hay was the fuel for horse power yesterday.
2. Mid-State Pork Producers float showing their efforts to go to Washington to promote better pork production conditions.
3. Pizza Hut's float had a Ma and Pa Kettle scene with the caption "Ag Was Their Bag."
4. W.I.F.E. had an entry showing how a farmer's wife is his partner. A farm wife of yesteryear and one from present times were busy doing bookwork and other chores helping their husbands. Lori and Anita Pierce and Janet Melia portrayed the scene.
5. The Cooper Feed float noting the company's recent anniversary.

Non-Commercial Division

1. The Springdale Kensington float told there is still room for the small farmer in Nebraska.

One of the more comical floats in Tuesday's fair parade was this one entered by the Ord Pizza Hut. According to them ag was ma and pa Kettle's bag. They won fourth place in the non-commercial division.

2. Ord V.F.W. and V.F.W. Auxiliary members had a float depicting listening to the corn grow.
3. Steve Scott "drove" a replica of a 1910 Case steam tractor. He pulled a miniature threshing machine. Dave Scott, his father, built the unique parade entry.
4. Shawn Ingram was dressed as Mr. Corn.
5. The Guided Mrs. Extension Club had a float titled "A Farm-land Zoo". A calf, lamb, pigs, and other animals, along with a cat were displayed.

No grand prize or over-all winner was announced.

Denney Resigns Coaching Position

Doyle Denney, head boys basketball coach at Ord High, resigned his position Friday. Denney, 33, will go into the insurance business at Stanton, NE.

He joined Ord Public Schools last year, after compiling an impressive record at Wahoo Neuman High.

No successor has yet been named. Ord Public Schools Superintendent Dr. Bill Gogan is interviewing job applicants.

Comstock Plant Decision Pending Omaha-Nebraska Power in a Race!

The Nebraska Public Power District board of directors again delayed action on a decision to locate a coal fired power plant near Comstock. The directors put the decision on hold during a meeting in Columbus, Thursday.

The Lincoln Journal-Star quoted Gustafson as saying there is an economic advantage for a utility eventually building a plant. While expensive to build a plant, it would be ultimately more expensive to continually buy large blocks of power from a utility company.

A special meeting of the board's Power Supply Committee has been scheduled August 11 in Lincoln. It will further explore the chances of locating the unit, called Fossil III, near Comstock.

The Grand Island Independent quoted NPPD general manager D. W. Hill as saying he plans to urge the board very strongly that they approve Fossil III at the board's next regular meeting August 24.

Robert Peterson, NPPD's power supply committee chairman, admitted the need for an additional plant to compensate for an anticipated mid-1980s power deficiency.

According to Peterson, it has been about three years since the site study and NPPD needs to re-examine some basic assumptions. Some standards, including those of air quality, have changed, he pointed out. Another factor Peterson mentioned was the plant's nearness to Halsey.

Hill noted other utilities may be moving power to the region before the plant is built, making it difficult to prove the need for another plant if the board does not act soon.

Should the forest be tabbed a pure air area, there could be problems down the road, according to Peterson.

Proof of any plan will have to go before the Nebraska Power Review Board. The Omaha Public Power District is considering a unit similar to the planned NPPD plant at Comstock. Omaha PPD plans are to put their plant in Nebraska City.

A July 30 Journal-Star article had Gary Gustafson saying it is difficult to imagine both utilities getting the go-ahead. The executive secretary and general counsel for the Power Review Board pointed out unnecessary duplication is one of the factors used to measure such applications.

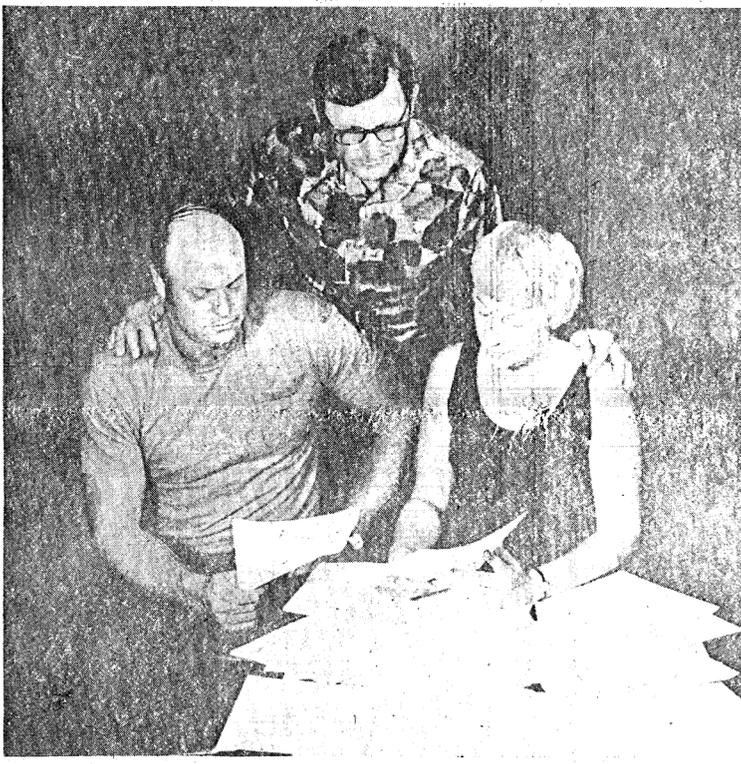

State statutes define the board's considerations, and first-come, first-serve isn't on the books, according to Gustafson. The power review board will conduct a formal hearing following judicial rules of evidence.

McCall Heads County Exon Senate Committee

Francis McCall of Ord was announced recently as the chairman of the Valley County Exon for Senate Committee.

Governor Exon said we are pleased to have a person of this caliber for our county chairman. The effective date of the appointment is immediately and the county chairman's responsibilities will be to coordinate all of Governor Exon's county-wide campaign activities.

The announcement was made by Loren Belker, Governor Exon's state campaign chairman of the Exon for U.S. Senate Committee.

Statements of support for the North Loup Project have gained project proponents well over 1,000 signatures, according to petition driver backer Ray Marshall. Volunteers started circulating the documents in towns from Fullerton to Burwell last Thursday. Marshall called the public's response "overwhelming."

More signatures will be added to the 1,000 plus total, he told the Quiz, for not all of the statement sheets have been collected.

Kent Hornickel of Mira Valley, Fred Dubas of Elyria, and Mary Marshall of Ord inspect some of the many signatures on the statements of support for the Twin Loups project.

Co-Op Announces Expansion Plans

Farmers Co-Op Elevator manager Virgil Beneke announced tentative building plans Tuesday afternoon. Pending plans, according to Beneke, are to build two concrete silos 30 feet in diameter and 120 feet high just east of the present Co-Op elevator. That is located just north of 14th and I Streets in Ord. Work on these plans started last March and are awaiting approval of a lease from the Union Pacific Railroad.

Under terms of that agreement, the railroad would pull up two short track spurs located where the elevator will likely rest. Other plans are for the elevator to control nearby ground for further future expansion.

Beneke estimated cost of the project at $300,000.

Dr. Rikli to Hold Open House

Ord dentist Dr. Thomas Rikli will host an open house in his office, 1818 M Street, Sunday, August 6 from 2:5 p.m. Coffee, punch, and cookies will be served.

Dr. Rikli recently completed remodeling of his office quarters. The building, formerly the E.U.B. Church, was occupied by the Special Services School.

Loup City Ed Board Faces $27,000 Suit

Dr. J. F. Fulton has filed a $27,000 claim against the Loup City School Board. Dr. Fulton reportedly gave a history of troubles between some citizens and the board as being the reason behind the claim.

According to Dr. Fulton, an attorney for the school board misrepresented the situation when he was quoted in a recent newspaper article.

Fulton further maintained press reports concerning his son, Kevin, 18, have been unfair. Kevin and fellow Loup City High student David Shokoski recently were convicted of assaulting teacher Ron Schroll

May 22, in the school. Each student received 20 days in jail and a $250 fine.

Fulton reportedly stated the press made the two youths out to be a couple of hoodlums.

Kevin was president of the local Future Farmers of America chapter and a member of the National Honors Society, according to his father, and not a trouble maker.

Some in the community felt the board was serving the interests of teachers, not taxpayers. For several months parents had been unhappy with the teacher (Schroll), as students who were

Council-Mayor Prepare Budget

The City Council and Mayor have prepared the 1978-1979 budget based on the needs of the city as indicated by expenditures for the current 1977-1978 year and anticipated additional needs.

The basic services of police, fire, cemetery, streets, parks and general operations have been provided for much on the same basis as the current year but with allowances for increased inflationary costs. The major new expenditures for the year are:

1. Work on the Masonic building at a cost of $40,000.
2. Street paving and storm sewer work at an estimated cost of $60,000.
3. Asphalt overlay on highway 11 at a cost of $34,000.
4. The first retirement of swimming pool bonds at a cost of $22,423.

The Masonic building cost will be financed with a transfer from the utilities department of $25,000 and the balance from general funds.

Street Paving

Street paving and storm sewer work will be financed by bonds and special assessments, and will not require current tax dollars.

Highway 11 work cost will be shared by the state on 65% share and 35% local share.

The swimming pool bonds will be paid from swimming revenues and tax dollars.

Senator-Super Survey Lid

North Loup-Scotia Schools head, Al Neuman, predicted voter approval of the 5 percent lid bill would set Nebraska schools on what he called "a collision course".

An apparently successful petition drive has placed the question of a 5 percent ceiling on local government budget hikes each year on the November ballot.

Neuman predicted voter approval of the measure would set the stage for a catastrophe in Nebraska schools. Increasing pay hikes for teachers, in his estimation, would combine with the 5 percent budget ceiling to produce educational cannibalism. Cut-backs, he speculated, would be in educational services offered.

Teachers salaries are now negotiated with representatives of the teachers' organization and the local school board. They arrive — usually — at an agreeable package of wage increases and more fringe benefits.

Should the two sides reach an impasse in negotiations, their case goes to the Court of Industrial Relations. It settles the case. Most settlements, voluntary and involuntary, are annual increases above 5 percent.

"And if this keeps up," Neuman worried, "lots of school heads will be resigning." He noted there are 60 new superintendents in Nebraska this year. This number could jump to 100 next year, he warned.

Neuman warned more and more superintendents will have had it with "the rat race", in his words, of wage hikes and the spending ceiling.

He predicted the coming school year could be an interesting and challenging year, if voters approve the lid bill.

His budget for the 1978-79 academic year is up, but increased less than 7 percent.

"But," he sighed, "we are losing $1 1/2 million worth of property tax valuation." Farm machinery was dropped from Nebraska tax roles this year. State funds to compensate for the loss total only 50 percent of the $1 1/2 million, according to Neuman.

Under the proposed lid bill — really a constitutional amendment — annual budget hikes beyond the 5 percent maximum would have to have voter approval in a special election. Al Neuman, Nebraska Secretary of State, pegged costs of these special balloting sessions at around $1 to $2 a vote, according to Dennis Rasmussen, State Senator from Scotia.

Rasmussen feels certain there

Something for Everyone at the County Fair Farm and Home Show

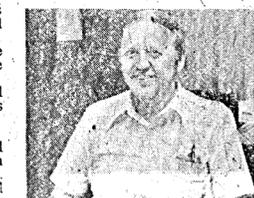

There was something for everyone at the Farm and Home Show during the Valley County Fair. Local merchants and other groups set up their booths, gave away prizes, or made their views known.

Consider the question of the Twin Loups or Calamus Project. Some area residents favor the irrigation project while others are opposed to the plan. At the Farm and Home Show, both sides of the question were represented.

On one side of the aisle project proponents told their side of the story and gave away ice water. Directly opposite them, on the other side of the aisle, project opponents set up their booth.

CAROL'S CORNER by carol leggett

ADAGE VS. ADAGE... There's an old saying that tells "when there's a will there's a way... but... there's another which confirms "you can lead a horse to water, but you can't make him drink." Interesting? Maybe. It's a brain teaser, really, thinking up these adages, gathering them and jotting them down (I'm always writing notes to myself). Here are some that I've come up with. Look before you leap... but... He who hesitates is lost. Many hands make light work... but... Too many cooks spoil the broth. There's safety in numbers... but... You can't beat the numbers. What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander... but... One man's meat is another man's poison. Out of sight, out of mind... but... Absence makes the heart grow fonder. Wait long enough and your ship will come in... but... You must row out to meet your ship. A stitch in times saves nine... but... Time is money. And here's my favorite: Nobody loves a fat man... but... Santa Claus is always jolly! Can you add to these?

After the girls left the room, they were called back, one at a time, and asked "If you could stand on a rooftop and shout to the world about something it doesn't understand about you or your friends, what would you say?" Ord Juniors Qualify For State Tournament

Ord Juniors advanced to state American Legion Tournament action with a 13-8 win over Albion in game finals Friday night at Ord. Their win caps the area B-4 Baseball Tournament.

Ord-Broken Bow

Ord's tournament action opened with a 2-1 win over Broken Bow Tuesday. Pitchers Troy Witherwax and Bow's Brad Peterson were locked in a duel for most of the game. The two hurlers yielded just 11 hits in the competition.

Ord scored the first of its two runs for the game in the second inning. Troy Witherwax led off with a single following two walks. Witherwax scored on a fielder's choice hit by Cohen Hoppes.

Ord's other run came in the fifth when Kevin Valla drew a walk, and took third on a base hit by Witherwax. He came on a pass ball. The score was 2-0 in favor of Ord.

Broken Bow mounted a rally late in the seventh. Jim Girardin walked and scored on a double by Jeff Briggs. Following another walk and two stolen bases, Broken Bow had men on second and third with just one out. Ord center fielder Kurt Kremke then made the defensive play of the game, robbing Dave Dunkel of a hit with a sensational diving catch.

The next hitter flied out to end the game. Ord's next opponent was Albion, who defeated O'Neill earlier that night.

Ord-Albion Meet Wednesday

In what was one of the most exciting games seen here in years, Ord staged a come from behind rally and nipped Albion 12-10 Wednesday night.

A do-or-die spirit, four home runs, and an audience on its feet during the last half of the game added to a finish right out of a Hollywood movie.

This opened with Albion getting two runs on two hits and three walks. Ord took a 3-2 lead in the second inning on hits by Don Proskocil, Jot Miller, and Mark Novosad.

Albion then tied the game 3 all when Larry Lensol crossed the plate on the bottom of the second.

Kurt Kremke put Ord back in the lead with a solo homer in the third. But once again the game was tied when Barry Suelter walked and scored on John Bohn's triple.

Ord failed to score in the fourth or fifth innings while Albion got six runs on five hits and four walks to get a 10-4 edge.

A solid come from behind effort then took shape, and paved the way for a 12-10 photo finish win for Ord. This started in the sixth with Cohen Hoppes singling to left field and advancing to third on a pass ball.

Don Proskocil then drew a base on balls. Wayne Hruza singled, driving in Hoppes. Proskocil advanced to third.

With the score 10-5, and runners on first and third, Kevin Valla drilled a staggering three-run homer over left center field.

Troy Witherwax followed suit with a solo homer making the score 10-9.

The fireworks continued into the seventh stanza. Hoppes took first on an error. It was two up and two down on the next hitters. Three consecutive pass balls brought Hoppes home, knotting the score 10 all.

Another Homer Kevin Valla then slammed in his second homer of the game. Ord was ahead 11-10. Troy Witherwax came through with his second homer, and Ord edged up 12-10.

But not all the action was at home plate. Wayne Hruza's relief pitching helped Ord gain the win. Hruza replaced Dvorak in the fifth.

Hruza yielded one mere hit the rest of the game, as winning pitcher.

Ord-Albion The Finals

A 13-8 win over Albion Saturday clinched state tournament berth for Ord. The home town team opened a 13-2 lead during the tournament and fought off a late inning Albion offense. Ord relief pitcher Wayne Hruza helped preserve the win.

Ord got their first run of the game when Jim Smith doubled and scored on Troy Witherwax's single. That came in the opening inning.

Albion then tied it up. Larry Nissen scored on Barry Suelter's double. Neither team scored in the second inning.

Ord snared three runs in the third. Walks by Proskocil and Smith set the stage for the rally. A homer by Witherwax gave Ord the three runs.

Albion got one run in the fourth as Barry Suelter scored on a single by Steve Sherrill. But Ord came back with four more runs as Beran, Hoppes, Proskocil, and Smith all scored.

In the fifth Ord added one more run as Doug Stevens singled and scored on three pass balls. Ord was ahead 9-2. Going into the sixth, Ord got four more runs on hits by Smith, Beran, and a sacrifice by Doug Stevens.

Rally

Albion rallied with four runs in the bottom of the sixth. These came on two hits and three walks. Starting pitcher Troy Witherwax began to tire, with the score 13-6 going into the seventh.

Albion threatened again in the seventh, scoring two runs. Once again, Wayne Hruza came in and did an outstanding job as relief pitcher. He struck out three of four Albion hitters, preserving Ord's win.

Coach's Comments

In an interview following the tournament Ord coach Eldon Mulligan said "All I can say, and I mean differently, Ord has never had a game in which there were two sets of back-to-back home runs by the same players in consecutive innings."

Those four were by Kevin Valla and Troy Witherwax in the 6th and 7th innings Wednesday night. "I knew all season we could go all the way if we got a few breaks," Mulligan said. "The first half of the season the players were getting used to each other and settling down basics."

"The last half of this season, a few games were decided in the last few innings. When things didn't go right, they (the team) hung in there and played hard luck ball."

Ord's win here last week qualified them for the state American Legion baseball tournament at Aurora beginning August 4. Ord will play Central City at 1 p.m. Friday.

Midgels Edged 14-4 by O'Neill In Legion Tourney

The O'Neill Midgels took the Area B-4 American Legion baseball tournament title with a 14-4 win over host Ord Saturday night.

For a while it looked like Ord had the game sewn up. Ord jumped on O'Neill pitcher Ed Donohoe for four quick runs. These came on three consecutive hits by Gary Mulligan, Greg Linke, and Larry Sears. John Dvorak then drew a base on balls and Mike Blaha drove in a run on a sacrifice fly. The score was 4-0 for Ord.

Then things changed. O'Neill collected one run in the bottom of the first on two hits. In the second, they knocked Ord starting pitcher Greg Linke right out of the box with a five hit five run outburst. With that the Irish were in front 6-4.

From the second inning on, Ord didn't threaten the O'Neill team. O'Neill pitcher Ed Donohoe yielded just two more base hits while striking out five Ord hitters, in going the distance.

Offensively, O'Neill went on gathering 8 more runs on 2 hits. Several key Ord errors plus 8 walks spelled doom for Ord Midgels.

O'Neill claimed the game 14-4 in the bottom of the sixth. The ten-run rule was in effect. Their win qualified O'Neill to enter state Midgels competition in Beatrice August 4.

Ord Midgels close their season with a 14-3 record. O'Neill has a record of 14-3.

Lid Survey

will be a lid regulation some time in the near future, he told the Quiz Thursday. "And after that California thing, I think it will be five percent," he said.

"That thing" was a 2 to 1 voter approval of proposition 13. Its enactment will lower property taxes substantially, in California. Some people feel passage of the Proposition 13 measure is a strengthening of those backing Nebraska's lid bill.

Should Nebraska's economy measure be approved next November, schools will likely have to set priorities, according to Senator Rasmussen. "Number one, of course, is the education of our children," the senator added.

He speculated most cuts, if made, will be made in sports, and transportation. "I think they could continue a good physical education program without all these additional expenses," Rasmussen stated. "When we went to school, it was nearly all intraschool stuff."

But school district patrons want increased services, they can always opt for the special election, Rasmussen pointed out. These will "very definitely" happen, in the words of the state legislator. The only problem he forewarned was if the cost of the election was greater than the 5 percent override in the budget.

He told of trying to work something out to prevent this, "but" he related, "we ran into constitutional problems" during the last Unicameral session.

What's Good For The Goose
Rasmussen felt that what was good for the goose was good for the gander. "If the legislature will mandate all political subdivisions must live with a five percent budget, so should the state. There are programs in the state government that can be cut, too."

Said Rasmussen of the lid bill, "It's coming, there's no doubt about it."

Another Life Saved

Ord businessman, Milton Clement entered the Valley County Hospital on May 22 and after major surgery on May 25 received eight pints of blood. Six pints were Red Cross blood and two were walk-in donors, Merrill Mason and Dan Schram.

After a three week stay in the hospital he was released on June 13 and returned to work at the First National Bank on July 3.

Mr. Clement says, "I would not be alive today if Red Cross blood was not available when I needed it. Only one in 16 people have the A-Negative type blood I needed and Valley County has 29 of this type who have donated. Needing blood made me realize that all types of blood are needed at each bloodmobile visit. I hope everyone that possibly can will donate on Tuesday, August 15 when the Bloodmobile visits Ord."

No type blood is considered "common". Remember: any type blood is rare, if needed and, not there.

Anyone in good health and at least 17 years old and not yet 66 can donate. Although the goal is 150 pints, Valley County has been asked to get as many pints as possible and three extra donating tables will be used at this visit.

New donors will be needed on Tuesday, August 15 when the bloodmobile visits Ord from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Veterans Club. Plan now to donate and save a life.

formerly honor students started bringing home poor grades, according to Dr. Fulton.

At a May 1 board meeting, Fulton said, about 25 parents asked the board for a hearing on the teacher. The board said the request had to be in writing, Fulton said.

May 8 the parents again asked the board for a hearing, he said, but the request was voted down 6-3. Fulton's wife is on the school board and so is an aunt of the Shotkoski youth, David.

An administrator claimed a reevaluation was done on the teacher, according to Fulton, "but," he added, "to the best of our knowledge nothing was ever done."

According to Fulton, a petition for a hearing on principal John Warner was related to his claim with the school board. He speculated the petition will likely be presented at the August 14 school board meeting.

Fulton's claim is for $25,000 in general damages, plus legal costs and lost wages. Fulton was reportedly asked if he really wanted the money or only to have attention brought to the matter. "I'd rather not comment on that," he was quoted as saying.

Non-Users to Pay for Calamus Water Project Opponent Warns

According to a news release from Marv Rice, all landowners in the Twin Loups Irrigation District will be assessed high operation and maintenance (O & M) costs for the proposed North Loup irrigation project, whether or not they use the water.

In his release, Rice said District officials "finally have admitted under oath" that all landowners in the District will be assessed an average of $10.60 per acre of irrigable land each year for the first ten years the project is in operation, and a minimum of $15.10 per acre beginning the eleventh year, based on 1977 O & M costs.

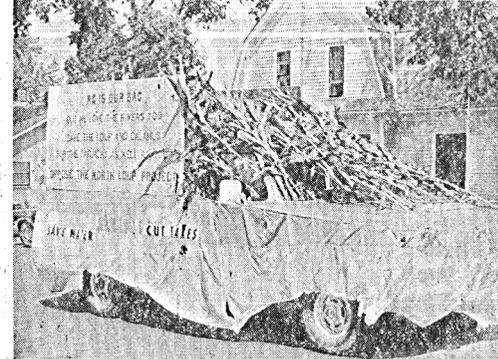

"If the Bureau says a guy has 100 acres of irrigable land, whether or not he wants to put rice on it, he'll be paying an average of more than $1,000.00 per year for the first ten years, and a minimum of $1,510.00 per year after that," Rice reportedly said.

Bureau of Reclamation cost trend information shows O & M costs increase about 10 percent a year, according to Rice, which could put the annual cost as high as $30.00 an acre by the eleventh year.

Rice also claims that the Bureau has counted some land that it is not feasible to irrigate. He cited an example of one landowner who the Bureau says has 303 acres of irrigable land, although he is irrigating only 260 acres now. If it were feasible to irrigate all 303 acres, he wouldn't be irrigating only 260 now. He has plenty of water to irrigate those 43 extra acres," Rice said.

North Loup Irrigation Project proponents urged area residents to keep water here for future generations. Their float was one of many in the Valley County Fair parade Tuesday.

Opponents of the Calamus Project voiced their opposition by entering this float in the Valley County Fair parade Tuesday.

Grants for Water-Recreation Have Center Stage at COG Board Meeting

Two grants held center stage Thursday night when the Council of Governments met in the Valley County Courthouse. The two were among many grant applications the 11 man board was to review that night.

The first of the two attention getters was a grant application from the Central Rural Affairs in Walthill, and the Central Nebraska Community Action Agency in Loup City. Under the $597,931 proposed grant, central and other like organizations would receive instruction in water and sewer needs, standards, etc.

As explained by Jerry Potts of the Central Nebraska office in Loup City, the water and sewer course would be broken down into two sections. The first of these would be a needs assessment. The second thrust of the project would be tackling problems defined in phase one.

CNCAA personnel and others would be trained by someone from the National Demonstration Water Project, according to Potts, and would then use their newly gained expertise on the local level.

According to Council of Governments coordinator, Marv Rice, the proposed $597,931 grant had not received a review from COG. Action on assessing the funding application was withheld until a formal proposal was sent to the COG board.

Preparation plans, specific funding request, the state will not release the monies, according to Noyes.

Europeans Admit Buying

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M. M. Van Kirk, Director of Information

European sources say that foreign investments in U.S. farmland amounted to $800 million in the past year and if that is true, a good many American farmers and ranchers have reason to say, "Let's get the facts on the table."

Results of a recent probe by the General Accounting Office were relatively inconclusive. Results of the special study of the U.S. Department of Agriculture reportedly won't be available until the fall of 1979, but they may separate the facts from the rumors.

Some of the most forthright statements on the subject were contained in an article in the May-June issue of the magazine, "European Community," published by the European Community Information Service, a magazine aimed generally to put the best light on economic interests of the Common Market countries. The article was entitled, "Buying U.S. Farmland, Europeans, Face an Emotional Issue." It was written by Axel Krause, who covers food and agriculture for Business Week magazine and previously was the magazine's European economic correspondent.

The gist of the article is that Europeans are definitely buying U.S. farmland and can't understand why Americans object to the idea. One should read the entire article, but the following excerpts are very positive in their assertions:

"Although much of the foreign money coming in is hard to trace, the European Investment Research Center, a private consulting firm based in Brussels, estimated that foreigners invested some $800 million in U.S. farmland last year, which according to U.S. Commerce Department calculations, would come to a startling 30 per cent of all new foreign direct investment in the United States."

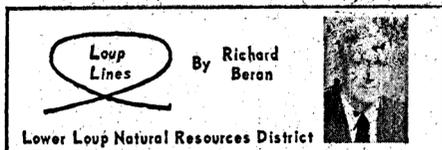

"While other investment markets have waned, the combination of a cheap dollar, political instability, and a long record of rising prices have in effect made U.S. farmland the single most attractive market for a wide range of investors — Germans, French, Italians and Dutch, as well as Japanese and Latin Americans, although, despite rumors to the contrary, there has been virtually no Arab oil money involved."

"Bankers and brokers who act as intermediaries of the foreigners report that attractive right now are the relatively soft prices of U.S. land caused by continuing cost-price squeeze on American farmers and worsened by depressed farm prices. But even if land prices begin soaring again, these advisers are telling their clients to buy, particularly the Europeans. The reason: farmland prices in Western Europe are still roughly double the price of the same quality land in the United States — $3,000 an acre for prime farmland in Germany and France versus $1,500 an acre in the United States last year, according to Chicago's Northern Trust Company, which manages about 400 farms in 35 states, including some for European clients."

"Unlike Europe, where successful rural investments by foreigners quickly became known, it is difficult in the United States to pinpoint where foreigners are buying most heavily. Jules Horn of the European Investment Center says the so-called Sunbelt, running across the bottom third of the United States, is attracting the most money. He considers prices ranging between $600 and $1,000 an acre to be particularly attractive to European clients. But until the present sag in the land price boom — which incidentally is expected to reverse itself by the end of the summer — Europeans were far more interested in California and the upper Midwest states such as Illinois and Wisconsin."

The article did say that Europeans take a dim view of attempts at outside investors to acquire their farmland because they increasingly fear conversion of productive land into recreational and other leisure-related activities.

If U.S. brokers are huckstering U.S. farmland around to European clients as the article very well indicates, it is high time to put the spotlight on their activities.

Lower Loup Natural Resources District

Some important forestry bills have been passed by Congress to modernize and strengthen authority for federal cooperative assistance to states and private forest landowners.

HR 11777, Cooperative Forestry Assistance Act, consolidates seven old laws or acts and provides assistance for planting shelterbelts, windbreaks, woodlots; rural fire control and prevention; community forestry; and insect and disease control. This is where the ASCS gets your cost-share funds for tree planting.

HR 11778, Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Research Act, provides for a much needed comprehensive program of forest and rangeland research. Lack of budget support for forestry is a national disgrace. We lose more trees to insects and disease each year than we do to forest fires.

HR 11779, Renewable Resources Extension Act, provides for dissemination of information through colleges and universities. This is an education program to get needed information to the people so they may reap the benefits of recent research.

Everyone knows that dry firewood burns better, and here are some tips on preparing next winter's supply. If you are cutting firewood, leaves left on cut trees until they wither will aid in removing a good deal of the moisture.

Freshly cut green wood takes six months to a year to season thoroughly, but three months of fall drying will yield fuel values approaching 85% of those of fully dried wood. For better air circulation, keep the wood off the ground and pile in a criss-cross fashion. Splitting the logs also accelerates drying. Covering the wood piles prevents rain or snow from re-wetting the piles.

J. Hansen Attends Biology Workshop

James Hansen participated in a lab on algae as part of the workshop currently being held at Mount Marty College, Yankton, SD.

James Hansen, Ord, is one of 20 high school students from the Midwest currently enrolled in a workshop at Mount Marty College, Yankton, SD entitled, "Environmental Biology From the Agricultural Midwest to the Alpine Wilderness."

Invented in part by the National Science Foundation, the workshop is an advanced course in environmental biology. Through laboratory sessions, lectures, field trips and research, the participants are studying the principles and techniques of terrestrial and aquatic ecology.

The first two weeks of the workshop were spent in the Yankton area, studying man-managed agricultural ecosystems. The students spent several days in the fields surrounding the Lewis and Clark Lake area, studying small mammals, insects and taking soil molds.

Following a weekend at Newton Hills State Park, the students returned to the Mount Marty campus and did extensive research at Lewis and Clark Lake. Tours of the Gavins Point National Fish Hatchery, Gavins Point Dam and Gurney Seed and Nursery were also held.

The last two weeks of the workshop are being spent in the Beatrice Primitive Area of Montana studying wilderness ecosystems. During this trip the students are learning research techniques used by environmental biologists.

Farm Milk Prices Will Exceed Support Levels

Farm milk prices will move above support levels this summer and further seasonal rises are likely this fall, according to USDA economists reporting in the July Dairy Situation.

This will be the result of strong demand, weakening milk production, and the current low commercial stocks of dairy products.

Sales of milk and dairy products were up more than 4 percent during the first five months of 1978, with strong gains in cheese and butter. Demand is expected to remain brisk for cheese and adequate for butter, where large USDA stocks will limit potential price advances and forestall a repetition of the sharp jumps of late 1973 and late 1975.

The strong cheese demand has pulled milk from butter-powder operations into cheese production. This pattern will probably continue in coming months.

In Newman Grove, the base price for manufacturing milk rose to $9.50 per cwt, in July, as compared to $8.70 one year ago.

Beef Prices Down 2.7 Percent

Beef prices have dropped 2.7 percent since June 17 peaks, although recently released Consumer Price Index figures do not yet reflect this, the Nebraska Beef Industry Foundation (NBIF) said recently.

"Retail prices started dropping June 16," Steve Dittmer, NBIF executive director said. "Wholesale beef prices which precede retail price changes by about two weeks, began dropping over eight weeks ago."

"What it boils down to is that consumers have already been through the worst on beef prices," Dittmer said. "The release of these government figures doesn't mean prices are rising again."

The government's CPI report said beef prices have risen 30 percent since October of 1977, Dittmer said.

"What the government report doesn't say is that beef prices are also up 30 percent since October of the last several years," he said. "These increases would barely have been noticed at all by consumers if they had not done several years' worth of catching up in two months," he explained.

Government economists don't seem to understand this at all,

Dittmer said. Barry Bosworth, head of the White House Council on Wage and Price Stability said recently that beef prices have been going up at an annual rate of 54 percent. Dittmer explained that projecting annual rates from increases in one or two months is very misleading.

If prices of a commodity are stable for the first three months of the year, rise sharply for three months and then drop the rest of the year, an annual rate based on the second three months of the year is going to be an inaccurate reading, Dittmer said.

"To help reduce the impact on food budgets, we still recommend using the inexpensive cuts like round and chuck," Dittmer counseled homemakers. Information on the proper methods to cook these cuts is available free from the NBIF in Gibbon, NE 68840.

Getting Out of a Rut

As a property owner in one of the newly created Ord Street Improvement Districts we probably have a special interest in the proposed paving district. Also we've heard some of the arguments against the proposal.

Though we're in favor of the paving, despite the added expense we really can't afford, we've read the Public Notices and news stories and listened to our neighbors talking pro and con on the district.

Most upsetting to us are some figures and talk we've heard which are merely projections on the part of those espousing the rejection.

The City Council, who at this point hasn't even advertised for bids, has estimated the cost of the work at from $15 to $19 a front foot. These figures were based on recently completed projects in other cities by the same company interested in Ord's projects. Costs, of course, are dependent on the work required, street widths, etc.

Opponents have projected the costs at $22 per front foot, up to a figure of $30 per front foot. The lower of the two figures was based on work done in Central City. It was for a 32-foot street, we were told, while the streets in Ord will probably be 30-foot streets.

We were told, too, the curb and guttering in our entire block would be torn out to widen the street. Our visit with the Mayor and a Councilman confirmed that the intent of the Street Improvement Districts was not to widen the streets and destroy curb and guttering already there, but primarily to surface the street with something not needing constant repair. So the actual intent is being blown out of proportion — as is usually the case.

We've heard many other arguments based on nothing more than projections by the opponents. We'd only hope that those concerned will get the facts and attend the hearing on August 10th to keep themselves fully informed.

If you're like us, sometime during the course of the past spring you've hit a chuckhole and thought, "The city should do something about that!"

The city is proposing action. Getting out of a rut usually takes more than words.

Let's Hear It!

Last week, Ord was host to the district B-4 American Legion baseball tournament, Midget and Junior classes. Those attending the series of games saw some of the finest baseball ever to be played on the local diamond. Ord's next to the last game against the Albion Cards was especially impressive. Darn few fans left early.

While the players and coaches were on the field getting most of the glory, there were quite a few other people working behind the scenes making sure the games were a success. Among them were Dr. Bill Gogan, tournament director and Rollie Johnson working on the grounds.

They along with many others, saw to it the park grounds were in shape and everything was ready to go.

With July gone and August fresh upon us, we can look back on quite a few people who have managed this and other ball games. They, along with many other dedicated individuals, have given countless hours of their time insuring Ord's younger generations had plenty to do this summer.

The next time you see one of the dedicated persons, why not thank them? They deserve your thanks, you know.

Something Different

Fame in the Family

Perhaps you remember my niece; she was then Carol Wilcox, and came to spend a summer in Ord as a newspaper apprentice. She worked on the Quiz along with Clarice Cronk who did reporting, Bill Lee who was a super editor, and Ed Apking who was a fine newspaperman, and so she learned a great many angles of the business.

The publisher, Gene Leggett, and I were in Minnesota for several weeks as he was quite overwhelmed with emphysema. This was several years before Carol worked on the Denver Post following her graduation from the University of Nebraska and was married to Cary Stiff. Also before she wrote news for the Stars and Stripes, service paper, for four years in Paris.

The young couple quit the Post and bravely started a little newspaper of their own at Idaho Springs, Colorado, calling it the Clear Creek Courant. It has flourished and so has their fame, for they have been notified that Cary is one of 12 journalists from across the country who has been awarded a scholarship for study at Stanford University, California, for 1978-79.

The twelve fellows receive tuition and a $15,000 stipend funded by grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities. They will follow independent study and attend special seminars over the nine-month period.

Cary will study history, political science, and law. He is a graduate of Dartmouth and has a master's degree from Columbia University in New York. He is a native of Alda, Michigan.

Carol is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Wilcox of Grand Island, formerly of Broken Bow and Ansley. They have three small children. The family will move to the Palo Alto area before Sept. 1.

A young couple from Georgia and New York will take over publishing the Courant at once.

The honor is not surprising, for the little Colorado weekly has earned numerous state and national awards since it began in 1973.

Also very exciting in our family is the word that John's eldest son Michael is moving to Mason City with his wife Kathy and baby girl Jill.

There he is the new president of the Mason City Bank where he has already begun his new duties. This follows a seven-year

Doldrums Reducing Political Oratory in the Unicameral

CAPITOL NEWS
By Melynn Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
Lincoln

The summer doldrums have reduced political oratory to some degree, but some of the issues that will be decided in the November election keep popping into the news.

One of them is the so-called lid proposition to place a limit on local government budgets financed by the property tax.

Ross Rasmussen, executive director of the Nebraska State School Boards Association, said recent approval of the lid amendment to the constitution could force the establishment of a state-run school system.

The reasoned adoption of the spending limit proposal would force the slight revisions necessary to incorporate local schools into the state government — which cannot levy a property tax.

If they were state-controlled, Rasmussen said, school districts would be in position to avoid the 5 percent annual budget increase restriction but would no longer be able to levy a property tax.

The outgrowth of that situation would mean "the $335 million or so cost of operating the public schools of the state would then be funded from state sales and income taxes," Rasmussen said.

Constitutionally, he noted, the legislature is required to provide for the free instruction in the common schools of all persons between the ages of five and 21.

By statute, however, the districts are operated by locally elected boards of education.

The NASSBA believes the current public school financing system does not satisfy all provisions of the Nebraska and U.S. Constitutions and that the Legislature should correct existing statutes so the public school funding scheme will meet the requirements of both constitutions.

The annual 5 percent budget increase contained in the lid amendment "is not realistic for many of Nebraska's public schools," Rasmussen said. It reflects, he said, a budget level unrelated to the constitutional requirement to provide a free education for all between five and 21 "and may very well violate the equal protection clause of the U.S. Constitution."

If current inflationary trends continue, a 5 percent annual increase in school budgets would actually mean a 5 percent annual reduction in terms of "real" dollars, Rasmussen said.

Over a period of 10 years that would mean schools would be operating at a level 50 percent below their present level in terms of programs and services, he said.

He said most districts could survive on 5 percent cut in their budgets by eliminating certain non-mandated services such as driver education, hot lunch programs and summer sessions.

If the day ever comes when property tax revenues cannot be used by local schools, Rasmussen said, there would be a sharp reduction in property tax levies "but sales and income taxes would take a drastic and unrealistic upturn."

The lid proposition does include some exceptions under which local government budgets could exceed 5 percent annually. This point has been emphasized by several of the leading proponents of the proposed amendment.

John Halloran of Hastings, one of the chief promoters of the proposed constitutional amendment, disputed Rasmussen's comments.

Halloran said the Legislature would "never" raise the laws to bring schools under the umbrella of state government and thus place school districts in a position where they could avoid the 5 percent limit on local spending.

He admitted inflation is a problem, but said it is one for the taxpayer as well as for government.

University Budget Being Prepared
The chairman of the University of Nebraska Board of Regents, Ed Schwartzkopf of Lincoln, says a budget lid would be workable — if citizens are willing to settle for less from NU in research, teaching and service.

His comment was made before the regents began discussions of a university budget that would require an increase of about 7 percent in state appropriations.

Some months ago, University President Ronald Roskens pledged to hold spending down and investigate ways costs could be reduced.

Schwartzkopf said a tuition increase is probable because that is part of the bargain made with senators when state financing of the institution is increased.

This year the university received $107 million from the Legislature — about $6 million more than during the previous year.

The institution's total budget is about $207 million of which the state supplies about 47 percent and tuition and fees generate about 13 percent.

Tuition was increased last year $1.50 per credit hour — a hike of 7.1 percent.

Against Hearings
Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, head of a legislative committee studying certain operations of the State Patrol, is opposing the holding of any more hearings.

What he would rather do is have several committee members meet with a couple of county attorneys and representatives of the patrol to discuss ways and means of providing law enforcement agencies better tools and procedures for doing their jobs.

Earlier this summer, it was announced the committee would hold a public hearing on the death five years ago of Ida Fitzgibbons, an elderly McCook woman who died in a strange way. The woman was found in the burning home. She had a cord wrapped around her neck and had suffered a broken leg and a stab wound. Yet her death was ruled a suicide, and the patrol said after an investigation it could not contradict that finding.

DeCamp's Committee said the initial investigation of the death was "inadequate" and the patrol's follow-up work on the case became, "for whatever reasons a cover-up of the initial investigation."

DeCamp said no one on the committee believes the Fitzgibbons investigation was adequate. But he said no committee member ever said anyone purposely covered up anything.

The legislative committee recommended the committee examine the chain of command in criminal case investigations. Also in need of study, he said, are the rules of procedure and chain of command for coroner's inquests, as well as the availability of property work in homicide cases.

DeCamp tried during the 1978 legislative session to restructure the patrol through creation of separate traffic control and criminal investigation bureaus under a new Department of Law Enforcement and Public Safety.

He said he still believes some restructuring would be helpful.

Intervention Denied
Federal Judge Warren K. Urbom of Lincoln has refused to permit the Nebraska Hospital Association and five of its members to intervene in a lawsuit challenging the state's Medicaid reimbursement plan for nursing homes.

Urbom also turned down a request that he prevent the state Welfare Department from submitting a modified rate reimbursement plan to the federal government.

The judge said there were no grounds for issuance of an injunction against the administrative proceedings. "If I stayed all proceedings, I would be, in effect, judging the new plan which is not yet in existence," he said.

The hospital association and other institutions which tried to intervene had argued their interests were not adequately represented in negotiations to change the state's plan for reimbursing nursing homes, arguing the higher rate was justified because of higher costs associated with such facilities.

State Welfare Department officials and representatives of two nursing home associations said reimbursement should be based solely on the level of care provided.

One attorney involved in the case said the issue lies with the federal government and what type of recognition it chooses to give high-cost long-term care facilities, such as nursing homes based at hospitals.

This old rancher from up around Swan Lake recalled the stint at the First National Bank & Trust Company of Lincoln, Nebraska.

Earlier he served in the navy for several years and also carried mail out of North Loup for a time, before going into the banking business, and finding that he really liked it. He also continued to study business administration courses at the University of Nebraska.

His wife is the former Kathleen Kokes, also a graduate of Ord High who went on to win many honors at the U. of N. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kokes of Ord, well known ranchers.

A journalism and music major, she has achieved success broadcasting for the Extension department of the University until she was given more and more authority, and lately her work has been taking her over the state.

But the young couple are selling their Lincoln home, giving up their work there, and putting down new roots closer to Ord.

"We never got over our fondness for living in a smaller town. We like the agricultural atmosphere," they declare. "And we like the banking business."

Geranium Joe Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
A preacher dropped by the country store for a few minutes Saturday night during the session, and he gave us a report on a feller parson in North Carolina that worked a old winkle with usual results. The preacher went in cohorts with Satan to put a little punch in his sermon, and he wound up with the Devil to pay.

According to this piece the preacher had saw, this reverend and two of his deacons dressed up in red suits with red tails, carried pitchforks and run everybody away from the church on a Sunday morning. They made their point so good the law was called, and there was weeping and nashing of teeth two or three days. One brother that jumped out a window and sprung a ankle threatened to sue the preacher, but the preacher said that was a lesson learned. The Devil don't hurt you straight out he just makes you hurt yourself. Another member of the congregation wanted to have the parson up fer violating the state law agin wearing a mask, but the preacher shot right back that if she'd wear the glow of her face that she wears ever Sunday he'd be glad to go to court and testify in her defense.

The fellers allus are glad to see the preacher. Fer one thing, this trucker from down the line said, he can build you up while he's tearing you down. He might issue a friendly citation about some error in your ways, he declared, but still he makes you look forward to the rest of the trip of life. Fer instance, he went on, it was him that said once that working for the Lord don't pay good, but you can't beat the retirement benefits. He said what the preacher in North Carolina was a trying was reverse psychology. He said folks want to do exactly what you tell em they ought not to do.

After the preacher got his pipe tobacco and went home, the fellers found it hard to git back to dealing with Andy Young's mouth, striking firemen, policemen and post office workers.

This old rancher from up around Swan Lake recalled the case of the two young city fellers that stopped at a little mountain country church. They had just settled in front pews so they could check over the girls in the choir good when the preacher come down the aisle with the armful of snakes he used in the service. They weren't ready fer that, so they ask the feller next to em where was the back door, so they could sneak out. He told em the church didn't have a back door, and the scariest of the pair wanted to know where folks in the church would like to have a back door.

One of the fellers said he was reminded of what the preacher answered when one of his Easter and Christmas members ask why he quit coming to school baseball games, knowing he liked the game. The preacher said ever time he went they wanted money, the seats were to hard, the coach never come to visit him, the umpires said a heap of things he didn't agree with, ever now and then they'd be extry innings and he'd be late fer supper, he had took up golf and, besides, his Ma and Pa took him to too many games when he was growing.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

KERRY ON

— within earshot —
Columnists by nature, are inquisitive. At least those I've known have never been acceptant without first checking things out, for themselves.

One such person was one-time Quiz editor Bill Lee. I remember a column he did on a subject that also piqued my own curiosity. The subject was corn and its fast growth during the hot and humid summer nights.

Bill heard — as have I — that corn grows so fast on such nights, that you can hear it.

Checking it out for himself, Bill encountered many problems — including a summer shower and a wet notebook. Remembering this I picked a starry night, with many a cloud in sight, and I embarked on my own wanting to hear the phenomenon of growing corn, with my own two ears.

My wife had gone to Omaha, so I had no problem with her wondering where I was or what I was up to. After the ten o'clock whistle and all was seemingly quieting down, I drove to a field a few miles from town where I knew I could get without much trouble and without miring the Porsche in irrigation-soaked soil.

The night was very hot and still and close. My little car was dwarfed by the towering corn alongside it as I left the main gravelled road and decided to drive far into the field to get away from the noises of any possible traffic.

Going to the far side of the field so I could turn around and be headed back out, I cut the ignition and decided to leave the car — even though I had the top off and could hear all the sounds quite easily.

Walking but a few yards and turning my ankle on a furrow, I decided to sit quietly, where I was. I proceeded to listen.

The first close sound I heard was the exhaust system on the car, as it cooled. In the distance I could still hear some of the sounds of Ord, though they were very faint.

A train whistled in the night — the Burlington, I guessed, on a late night run up the valley. There were a few other sounds — some of them familiar and some not so familiar. One I thought, was the banging of a hog feeder and wondered if pigs ate this late at night.

Then I heard a car on gravel. Before I'd spotted the headlights, I'd realized from the sound — it was on the same road I'd just travelled. Without enough quiet, thus far, to even listen for the corn, I feared I might soon have company.

Sure enough! The car slowed down and turned off the main road.

Evidently whoever it was hadn't seen my own little car, far down the corn rows — but it wasn't corn growing. In fact my own embarrassment, for the lovers, kept me from moving and disrupting their activity.

The climax came (and the end of the evening for everyone) when I realized I'd forgotten to turn off my CB and a voice rang loud and clear, over the cornfield and through the quiet night, "That's a BIG 10-4!"

My guests departed quickly and I wasn't far behind, fearing an irate farmer. And if you can "hear the corn grow," nobody is going to know it, because the media has never successfully covered it.

The auto makers miscalculated. For years they tried to build a car that wouldn't smoke. Now it turns out the public wants a car that doesn't drink.

"He's Not Heavy..."

Former Ord Boy Brings Homeless To Lech Pond For 10-Day Outing

By Kerry Leggett

People helping people. Isn't that what it's all about...?

That thought passed through my mind... along with many others... as I drove back to Ord from Roman Lech's Pond, near Elyria, last week. I'd just talked with several youngsters from the Omaha Home for Boys, in their third day of a 10-day camp-out. The drive back to Ord was much slower than my trip to get this story. I noticed more things — the beauty of the valley... the quiet of the countryside... the warm breeze rustling the tall corn.

Primarily, though, I was grateful for a family who had adopted me and taken me out of the city to grow up in this pleasant valley. For I had just seen the fear and distrust of strangers, reflected in the faces and actions of homeless boys. "I love it!" was the reply I got from a 14-year-old, when I asked him how he liked it "out here." But the next lad looked first at my then at the ground and mumbled, "Oh, it's all right, and I guess," shuffling his feet nervously in the dirt.

The group of 11 boys — seventh and eighth graders — are one of the 96-boy Omaha home. This is their "vacation" from the city under the direction and sponsorship of houseparents Mike and Mickey Shafer and Charles Clark.

Clark is originally from Ottumwa, Ia, and a student at Creighton University in Omaha. Shafer, a 1972 graduate of Ord High, is the son of the Joe Shafer of Ord. His wife, Mickey, married Mike while he was stationed at Ft. Lewis, Wa and she's a Washingtonian. Looking for work to help him through pre-med at Creighton, Mike took a job at the Omaha home and "loves it," he said, though it's turned into a near-full time job.

The boys, Mike explained, are simply homeless. They need a home and it's provided by the Omaha Home for Boys — entirely financed through donations. "We don't get any federal grants or state grants," Mike added.

Growing up without a dad isn't easy... but good friends help.

Basically the home is supported by Shriners through donations at Easter and Christmas.

The Omaha home accepts neither habitual delinquents nor boys with criminal charges against them. The lads range in age from first grade through high school. After high school graduation the boys usually find employment through the help of a Shriner.

"These kids' problems stem basically from the home," Mike added. "They're a step away from trouble and we want to help them avert it."

Mike was quick to praise local people, along with the Shriners. Through his father, Joe, arrangements were made for the campout at Lech's pond. Wednesday night, Aug. 2, the boys attended the Demolition Derby at the Valley County Fair through complimentary tickets from the Fair Board and they each were presented two tickets for rides provided by the Loup Valley Shriners.

Monday, Aug. 7th, Ord banker Don Blaha was to take the boys water skiing at Sherman Dam and Ft. Hartuff, the Chalk Hills and the Burwell Rodeo were also on the agenda for their visit to this community.

"There's a sign, down at the home," Clark said, when I asked him about his work with these homeless boys — "A twig is bent, so grows a tree."

With the interest and help the boys are getting from people, there may be a mighty oak just waiting to sprout.

Antiques Stolen At Nevriy Farm

After the Valley County Sheriff had given his routine report to the Quiz, a burglary was investigated Tuesday morning, August 7, by the Sheriff's Office. Burglarized was the vacant farm owned by Jerry Nevriy 13 miles southwest of Ord. It was believed to have happened sometime between 5 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 6, and 3 p.m. Monday, Aug. 7.

Missing were five items — an antique pot-bellied stove, an antique lift-top writing desk, and three antique leather-covered chairs. The Sheriff placed the value at over $300. Though pickup tire tracks were found and are being investigated, the Sheriff would appreciate anyone with helpful information reporting it to him.

Three-Car Collision Near Elks Thursday

Three cars were involved, Thursday night about 8:10 p.m., in an accident that sent K. W. Peterson of Sargent to the Valley County Hospital for overnight observation.

Peterson driving a '77 Chrysler, was heading west out of the stop sign near the Elks Club. Stopped at the stop sign across from him was Virginia Trotter of Arcadia, headed east from the Sargent road.

Jeanne Stowell of Ord was southbound on Highway 17 in a 1975 Buick and hit the right rear fender of the Peterson vehicle as he pulled out. The impact twirled the Peterson car around and the left side of the Chrysler collided with the left front fender of the stopped Trotter vehicle.

The Ord Rescue Squad transported Peterson to the hospital where he was held overnight and released Friday with no apparent serious injury. State Trooper Gerald Schmitt investigated the accident and reported about $1,500 damage to the Chrysler with an estimated $300 damage to each of the other vehicles.

Truck Flips Over North of Elyria

State Trooper Gerald Schmitt of Ord investigated a single vehicle accident two miles north of the Elyria bridge on Tuesday, August 1st.

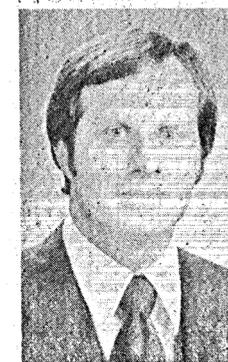

According to the report, about 6 p.m. a 1967 Chevrolet truck driven by Joseph Limbach and belonging to Riviera Homes of Kearney was headed south on a county road. The driver lost control when he hit his brakes for a corner and the truck rolled over on its top.

Damage to the vehicle was extensive, according to Trooper Schmitt, but there was no personal injury reported.

By Nancy Ringlein

Robert Shannon, Ord High's new principal, said in an interview Friday, "I want to formalize the process of teacher evaluation." Although he stated he has many goals for the up-

Shannon — new OHS principal coming '78-'79 school year, this will take top priority. According to Shannon, this is needed because there are many good things going on in classrooms,

Chamber Members Discuss Gasohol

By Nancy Ringlein

Gasohol was the main topic of deliberation at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Thursday at the Elks Club. Dean Bresley led the discussion and showed a slide presentation on the automotive fuel which is derived of 50% ethanol gasoline and 50% alcohol.

Proposed gasohol plant locations were recognized by the Chamber. The sites, which were selected by the state Gasohol Committee and the Legislature's Agriculture Committee are St. Paul, O'Neill, Hartington, and Phelps County. Seven communities originally applied for grants to construct gasohol plants.

In other business, Mike King disclosed profits for the 1978 Valley County Farm and Home Show. Chamber members were quite pleased with the returns.

Al Baeder reported on the upcoming Sidewalk Sale and Flea Market which will be held on August 17. A street dance will take place in the evening with music by Ace & The Travelers. Jim McCreedy presided. Mrs. Lois Hansen with her first dollar of profit for her Odds & Ends store.

Dr. Lyle Alloway To Practice In Burwell

Burwell will have a new doctor, according to an announcement this week.

Dr. Lyle Alloway, a former Burwell boy, plans to begin his practice in the Garfield County community in September and is negotiating for the purchase of the clinic of retiring Dr. Roy Cram, who will assist him in getting established.

Dr. Alloway is a general practitioner with a specialty in ophthalmology — a science that treats functions and diseases of the eye.

Having spent the past 20 years as a missionary, hospital administrator and general practitioner with the Salvation Army in India, Dr. Alloway is no newcomer to the field of medicine.

The new physician is the brother of Norville Alloway and Ardeith Kusek and is a 1947 graduate of Burwell High School. His coming to Burwell assures continuance of two practicing physicians in that community. Dr. Alloway has already purchased the Brownell home across from the clinic.

Pool Increases City Taxes; Blaha Urges County Airport

With barely a quorum present, Monday night, the Ord City Council adopted their proposed budget calling for a total of 17.66 mills for the General All-Purpose Budget and 3.99 mills for debt service retirement on the swimming pool bonds.

The total 21.65 mills required is 1.91 mills over last year, but the 1977 request didn't include the swimming pool bond retirement. The full budget for this year appeared in the July 27 issue of this paper.

With no one present to speak for or against the proposed budget, it was adopted on a motion by Verlin Smith and second by Don Sears. Then the council quickly approved one mill for the airport which already gets one mill for a total of two mills on the operation Don Blaha earlier said was "barely getting by."

County Airport

Blaha, head of the Airport Authority, had told the council of many developing problems at the site with runways, aprons and hangars. He suggested the airport be turned over to the county, but hasn't met with favor on the idea from Valley County Supervisors.

"Fifty percent of the pilots live in the county and not the city,"

Blaha said, mentioning the tax for 12 planes goes to the county and he felt the county should maintain the facility. The decision on making it a county airport could be put up to a vote of the people. Blaha said, but thought it shouldn't be necessary if the Supervisors would just decide to take it over. He urged councilmen to discuss it with County Supervisors.

Resurfacing L Street After a bid of about $55,000 was rejected by the state on L Street resurfacing under a cost-sharing proposal, the council had called for other bids on the same project. Monday a bid from Healey Construction Company was opened and it was $59,984 — over the initial Biba bid which had been rejected by the state road department.

Later in the evening the council voted to reject the bid of Healey and talked of investigating other means of repairing Highway 70 through Ord.

Extensive Remodelling

An early portion of the Monday meeting was devoted to discussing the remodeling of the Masonic Building purchased by the city. Richard Stacy of Great Plains Engineering and Architecture out of Kearney explained the specifications his company had prepared and finalized the presentation by giving an engineer's estimate of $62,370, which included a 10% contingency fund, for the work. The council had originally paid $40,000 for the building and after accepting the specifications and engineer's estimate decided to advertise for bids on the remodeling and open bids Sept. 5th.

Restrooms Rolfe Johnson of the Park Board appeared before the council with his plans and estimate of the cost for restrooms at the Old Grade School Park. Johnson's plans would utilize the sewer lines once used when the old Grade School was in existence along 17th Street. The restrooms would be about in the middle of the block along the east side. He proposed a structure faced with attractive brick since the building will be in a residential neighborhood and he'd like it as attractive as possible. It would open to the west and contain both men's and women's facilities.

Council Will Listen On Street Proposals

Ord City Councilmen will hear how property owners feel about the four proposed street improvement districts at a hearing in City Hall at 7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 10th.

Confronted with costly repairs to Ord's temporary oiling on most residential streets, the city dads are proposing paving districts and will discuss the proposals with all interested property owners within the new districts.

Greeley Youth Dies After Fall from Car

A 16-year-old Greeley youth died of head injuries Aug. 4 from an accident which occurred July 31, according to a late report from the Nebraska State Patrol.

Keith E. Dutcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dutcher, was driving down Greeley's main street when he opened the car door, fell out and hit his head.

Doyle Keller, Greeley County Sheriff, said Dutcher was taken to the St. Paul hospital and later transferred to Bryan Memorial Hospital in Lincoln.

Skywatcher's Delight

A towering white cloud, almost awesome with its power, moved east of Ord on Sunday, July 30, while the sunset illuminated clouds west of Ord a week or so earlier, shown here.

Carrying a generous 3.09 inches of rainfall for July, to August 1st, the total 1978 rainfall was

Support of Calamus Continues to Mount

With the initial bid opening on the Calamus Dam slated for next Tuesday, Aug. 15, at 10 a.m. in the cafeteria of Ord High School, proponents of the Twin Loups Project are still enlisting signatures to their declaration of support being circulated through the North Loup Valley.

According to Henry Lange there were 1,500 signatures as of Monday night and the area from Eiba to Fullerton was not yet reported in Valley County the circulators needed over 1,000 signatures in support of the project with about 350 names added in the Scotia-Cotesfield area and another 150 in the Burwell-Taylor area.

Lange added that the signatures were only being taken in the North Loup Valley between Taylor and Fullerton.

Recreational Development Lange also reported on a meeting with Gene Mahoney, director of the State Game and Parks Commission, and he was in agreement with Twin Loups representatives that the Calamus Reservoir would be one of the finest recreational areas in the state.

The representatives received support for the recreational development of the proposed lake and envision fish stocking and spanning beds for walleyes, in addition to the boating and water skiing always accompanying such a body of water.

Lange reiterated that at its lowest point the water at the dam would be 50 feet deep and the lake would be two miles wide at its widest point.

The Game and Parks Commission, according to Lange, are thinking the lake could be equivalent to "Big Mac" at Ogallala for eastern Nebraskans — being closer to Lincoln and Omaha than McConaughy.

Sherman Reservoir, according to reports, had more Memorial Day visitors this year than did Lake McConaughy. It's always popular for weekenders. It is projected the Calamus Reservoir would eventually achieve an even greater popularity.

Public Opening Bids to be opened Tuesday at Ord High will be on the access of the dam — 5,000 yards of excavation 30 feet wide and 30 feet deep. Also included in the bids will be relocating of 1 1/2 miles of road around the end of the dam and 3 1/2 miles of fencing and refencing.

The public is welcome to attend the bid opening, Aug. 15, at the Ord High School cafeteria.

County Levy Still Maximum; Supervisors Hire Road Man

In a County Board session lasting until 3 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 8, the Valley County Supervisors covered a variety of business and adopted the budget previously published in the Ord Quiz of August 3rd.

No one appearing for or against the proposed budget, it was approved and the levy will remain at 14.28 mill maximum — as has been the case for most years in the past decade. With no "true valuation" yet established, an exact dollar amount is not certain but the budget can be adjusted when true income is known.

Among items coming before the supervisors, Tuesday, was the appearance of three representatives of Central Nebraska Community Services, Inc., of Loup City — Jim Crossland, John Mchalek and Delores Maxson. The group explained some of their programs and after the presentation supervisors appointed Dick Peterson as their representative to the Community Action Program's board.

Approval of a bond for Russell Hackel, treasurer of Fire Dist. 2, was next on the agenda, followed by the approval of an easement for natural gas on the Gary Wells farm south of North Loup.

Airport Decision

The much-discussed Ord airport and the possibility of the county taking it over from the city was presented by Willie Skala of the Airport Authority. The city would like to turn the airport over to the county, but county supervisors are not wholeheartedly in favor.

Later in the meeting the supervisors decided to investigate what would be required for a vote of the people on the county taking over ownership and control of the airport.

Autos Again After lunch the supervisors returned to meet with County Attorney Bob Stowell and

Sheriff Cut Down In Budget Battle

According to Valley County Sheriff Martin Sonnenfeld, the biggest problem he'd encountered this past week was with the Valley County Board of Supervisors over his budget request for that office.

A $34,000 budget request — which would have included a deputy for the Sheriff — was cut back to $29,000 by the Supervisors. The cut-back places the Sheriff's Office with less than any of the other primary county offices and though he doesn't need the personnel of the other offices, his expenses and equipment maintenance are greater, he said.

The only activity reported in the duty line, by the Sheriff, was on Aug. 4 when he was called to Arcadia after a complaint was filed and he had to remove a man from the complainant's residence.

August 5 Sheriff Sonnenfeld arrested Marvin Wampole wanted on an insufficient fund check charge since Aug. 30, 1973. Wampole was tried and released. The reported theft of a golf bag stymied the Sheriff until it later turned up again.

Head Start Planning Public Immunizing

Central Nebraska Head Start Program will be receiving a grant to conduct a public immunization program for children ages 0-15 in the counties of Valley, Greeley, Sherman, Howard and Custer. This is part of a nationwide effort and will be coordinated through the State Health Department.

Plans call for free clinics to be held every three months beginning in October in Loup City, Ord, St. Paul, and Broken Bow. Mini clinics will also be held in North Loup, Spalding, and Wolbach.

Parents of children needing immunizations before entering school may call 745-0780 for information.

Billowing July Clouds Offer Beauty, Moisture

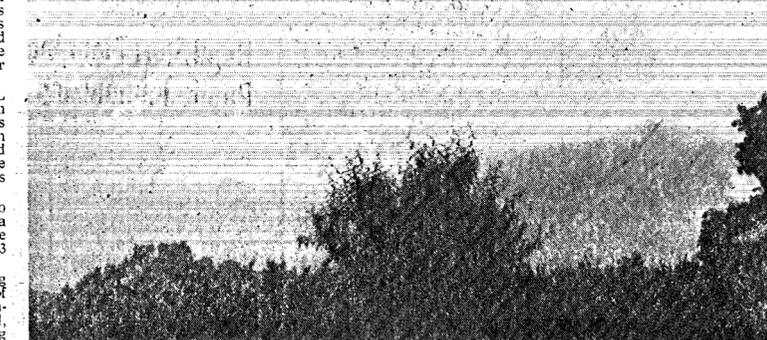

There's more than one reason Nebraskans are cloud-watchers. Both violence and beauty are contained in clouds moving across Central Nebraska during the summer months. Clouds, such as those pictured here, have been numerous in Valley County this summer.

A towering white cloud, almost awesome with its power, moved east of Ord on Sunday, July 30, while the sunset illuminated clouds west of Ord a week or so earlier, shown here.

Carrying a generous 3.09 inches of rainfall for July, to August 1st, the total 1978 rainfall was 16.95 inches. Moisture, through July, was slightly ahead of average while the temperatures through the month were about the average mean of 75 degrees.

The possible wind and hail damage from numerous clouds, this summer, has been minimal in the immediate Ord area.

CAROL'S CORNER
Carol Leggett

THERE'S A SECRET . . . I read an interesting article reminding me that "Life is a lively process of becoming."

The writer went on to suggest that if you haven't added to your interest recently, or during the past year . . . if you are thinking the same thoughts, reviewing the same personal experiences, telling the same stories . . . you just as well wake up to the unpleasant truth that regardless of your ages, rigor mortis of the personality has begun to set in! Like it, or not.

Why is it some people seem to have a knack of staying interesting, and being interested? For them it seems easy. What is their secret?

Is it simply, that they don't let themselves stop becoming? They keep themselves mentally and emotionally alive by getting excited about new things, new friends, new activities and new ideas. They seem to widen their interests in art, music, current events, books and politics. The staying alert seems to be a simple process, but it isn't always easy. It does take work.

Some of the things that kept them going in the past may seem less important to them than they once did. In a sense, their old leaves drop off but they sprout new ones!

West Point Topples Juniors In State Tournament Action

By Jay Brady
Finding a fitting encore to the clean sweep in area tournament play wasn't easy for the Ord Junior Legion Baseball Team, but they certainly tried.

Coach Eldon Mulligan's Juniors won one out of three state tournament battles at Aurora, and came within inches of winning the first two games.

The Ord lads entered the State Tourney with the poorest team record among the eight entries, but that too, was nothing new.

Central City, a team that had twice defeated Ord, was the first round foe. Trailing 6-3 entering the final inning, the never say die kids reeled off three seventh-inning runs to send the first State Tournament game into extra innings.

Troy Witherwax's second triple of the day drove home the final two Ord rallies to knot the score at 6. Doug Stephens followed with a line shot down the third base line that could have easily got through to score Witherwax, but Bison third baseman Ostrander made the game saving stop and threw Stephens out to end the threat.

Central City then rallied with two runs in the top of the eighth to send Ord to the Loser's bracket in the double elimination tourney. The $6 final was a gift to Central City, who took advantage of 7 Ord errors. Three unearned runs in the first inning proved the eventual downfall.

With the bases loaded in the top of the first pitcher, Cohen Hoppes got Central City's Kennedy on a swinging third strike, but the ball got by catcher Stephens allowing the first Bison run across. A slow tap back to the mound was overthrown at first and Central City had a 3-0 lead.

Jim Smith walked in the bottom of the first, stole second and scored on a passed ball to make it 3-1. Central City scored once in the second and two more in the fourth before Ord started their patented comeback.

Hoppes scored Ord's second run in the third frame after leading off the inning with his first of two triples. Thus the stage was set for the dramatic seventh inning.

sent the 1976 State Champs to the sideline 1-0. The loss was the second straight 1-0 setback suffered by Arlington.

Witherwax was in complete control after taking advantage of a lucky bounce in the first inning. With a runner at first Arlington's Hilgencamp slammed the only extra base hit Witherwax allowed. The line shot bounced over the outfield fence holding runners at second and third.

Witherwax then retired the side with no further damage. Mark Novosad's second inning single scored Doug Stephens with what proved to be the only run of the contest.

Witherwax relied on a variety of balls and excellent control, and took advantage of sparkling defense from his Ord teammates to keep Arlington at bay. At one stretch in the contest Troy retired thirteen Arlington hitters in a row, and was never in serious trouble after the ground rule double saved him in the first.

Witherwax struck out seven while Jim Smith, John Miller and Paul Beran provided a nearly air tight defense around the infield. Only one out was recorded in the outfield during the entire game.

The win kept Coach Eldon Mulligan's team alive in the double elimination tourney and set the stage for a Sunday afternoon battle against West Point. Ord 1-0-0-0-0-0 1-5-0

West Point Baseball has been labeled a game of inches and the big, little "IP" also so often comes into play.

Coach Eldon Mulligan's Ord Junior Baseball team saw their season come to an end Sunday afternoon at Aurora when West Point downed the Ord lads 5-2. Hits when they didn't count and lack of them when they were needed spelled doom as the season ended with an 11-16 record and 1-2 in the State Tourney.

he answered regards Kevin Valla's absence from the State Tourney and Cohen Hoppes missing the final game. Valla was on vacation with his family and Hoppes reported to football camp after Ord's win over Arlington.

Season Summary An 11-16 season record won't go down in history in Ord Junior Baseball lore as something to remember, but Coach Eldon Mulligan will never forget this group of kids. They entered area tournament with a 7-15 record and swept the tourney in three straight.

Area and local fans will never forget the comeback against Albion in the second area game. Trailing 4-10 entering the sixth inning Ord tallied five times in the sixth and three more in the seventh to come from behind.

Five Ord home runs, including consecutive round trippers by Troy Witherwax and Kevin Valla in the sixth and seventh frames may be a state Legion record.

Ord came back from a 3-6 deficit in the first State Tourney game against Central City only to lose in the first extra inning 8-6.

The season record of competition faced by the young team, that entered the season without the experience that has been so much a part of past campaigns. The youngsters took their lumps in the early going, but learned from the likes of Central City, York, Grand Island and others, to put their experience to the test in the area and state tourneys.

Pitching and hitting slowly matured and defense showed moments of solidarity, but each time the pitching rotation changed, the stress on defense was apparent. Depth was missing, but heart was abundant, and next year the experience should give Ord fans a full summer's treat.

The never say die attitude exhibited by these youngsters was born during the final games of the 1977 football season, was often on display during basketball and certainly will be evident during the approaching high school athletic year.

Teams with more talent and experience have represented Ord in seasons past, but this team will always be special to Coach Mulligan and Ord baseball fans. They weren't supposed to win the area or any games at state, but someone forgot to tell the kids. A fitting tribute to a team of scrappers!

Witherwax's High School Play Showed Desire, Determination

By Jay Brady High school cheers have ended and the Junior Legion Baseball is history for 18 year old Troy Witherwax of Ord. Troy's future at the University of Nebraska may include athletics, but whatever the future holds, Ord High coaches, fans and players will long remember the example Troy leaves behind.

Troy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Witherwax, wasn't gifted with God-given speed or eye poppin' size, but those self-attained attributes called dedication, desire and guts were the legacy Troy leaves behind.

Time and time again we remember Troy coming back into a football game after taking an earlier beating that would have sidelined many a back. Playing both ways, Troy, by example, exhibited to his younger teammates that ball games are not won on paper. A highly ranked Central City football team fell victim to Troy's greatest high school game as Ord won 14-6.

Talent was short, as was the Chanticleer basketball team, but Troy displayed brilliant moves and outside shooting to propel his team to a 12-7 season mark. His team play and constant encouragement to younger players was an added bonus that coaches could only hope for, but never demand. The "Kiddie Corps" of Ord High football and basketball seasons saw first hand, from their leader, that victory is won on the field or court, not in the pre-game predictions.

Golf and Baseball Troy also sparked the Ord High golf team and put his talents on display during the just completed baseball season. Troy pitched, played shortstop, hit with authority and led his team through inspiration and determination to the state baseball tourney.

Ord's season record did not indicate the baseball team would win the area tourney or one game in the state tourney. The season record did not indicate what a Troy Witherwax led team could do when the chips were down. This writer has seen many a more gifted athlete, but Troy Witherwax will always hold a special spot in my memory bank. He is an example of leadership on and off the field. The type of young man one hopes one's son will emulate. His soft spoken approach was disarming when you faced him on the sports arena. He never complained or decried his teammates.

By Example When you review Ord's legendary heroes and time erases season records, the name Troy Witherwax should be right at the top. His senior year would have found a lesser athlete folding his tent in frustration. Troy set an example we all can use.

The next couple of years could well be winning ones for Chanticleer teams. Troy's inexorable younger teammates are maturing and experience at opposing schools has graduated. Players will be lauded and coaches interviewed during the next few years, but every win enjoyed in coming seasons will be, in part, because of Troy Witherwax's example of the past.

It could only be fitting to recall the late Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, who asked his Fighting Irish to "Win One for the Gipper." If the Chanticleer game is close and the road ahead is tough, I wouldn't be surprised if Troy's determination and example isn't brought to the attention of the warriors on the field.

The 1978 and '79 Chanticleer teams owe one to Troy. He gave everything he had during his high school career to help make it happen.

Entries An All-Time High At Sandhills Turtle Race

An estimated 1,000 persons attended the Fourth Annual Sandhills Turtle Races at Erickson, Sunday, according to chairman Jim Day of the Hungry Horse Saloon in that town of 130 people.

Of an all-time high (no pun intended) 23 entries, one turtle was disqualified because he had been on his breath," Day said. There were other turtles were disqualified — one because the owners had built racing blocks, a ramp for getting the turtle started.

The races are divided into five divisions, with two classes in runs. After three Ord 6, Ashton 4. The fourth inning showed Ord scoring 3 runs while Ashton collected 1 and after 4 it was Ord 9, Ashton 5.

Ord added 3 runs in the fifth before exploding for 14 runs on 14 hits in the sixth inning to put the game out of reach. The final Ord 26, Ashton 5.

Ord had 26 runs on 22 hits and committed no errors while Ashton got 5 runs out of its 5 hits. The winning pitcher was starter Greg Warner who had help from Rody Psota, Dan Linke and Doug Conner on the mound.

Mike Williams and Brad Stephens each collected 3 hits in the win and Mike had home run No. 2 of the tournament. The Ord team collected a very nice trophy for their third place finish in the tournament, won by Central City.

each. Painted, sand, mud, leatherback and snapper turtles compete against each other. An overall winner also is chosen. The leatherback division took the longest time to leave the 12-foot circle, Day said. Seven minutes and 10 seconds were expended waiting for a win.

A mud turtle owned by Tim Schmeits, a hometown boy, was the fastest winner, taking just 12 seconds to leave the circle. Contestants could either bring their own turtle or rent one from Day's saloon.

"I rented out about 75 turtles," Day said. Ryan Renner of Erickson captured the overall championship as his painted turtle won the race among champions at the fourth annual event. Renner was given a traveling trophy.

In the 15-year-old and under class, the winners were: Painted division, Ryan Renner, Erickson; sand turtle, Rhonda Herman, no address available; leatherback, Doug Ebsen, Verdigris; mud, Nick Schmeits, Erickson; and snapper, Mark Koperski, St. Paul.

In the 16 and over class, the winners were: Painted, Don Dahlsten, North Loup; sand turtle, Brad Leech, Burwell; leatherback, Dan Zentner, no address available; snapper, Moose Garosz, Cedar Rapids; and mud, Tim Schmeits, Erickson.

A new event has been added to the rodeo performance, this year — steer roping. Sometimes referred to as "single" steer roping, since it involves only one cowboy, the event consists of roping, tripping and tying a steer weighing from 600 to 800 pounds.

A top steer roping horse is usually a large, powerful steed and must be exceptionally fast and agile on foot. He must carry the roper to the steer in short order and be ready for the short jerk that can upend a less experienced mount when the steer meets the end of the rope.

Evening Shows Beginning with the finals of the Lion's Club Talent Hunt on Thursday night, the following evenings will find Tommy Overstreet entertaining on Friday night; Wanda Jackson & Fiddlin' Frenchie Burke on Saturday evening; and Jim Ed Brown & Helen Cornelius on Sunday night.

There will be dancing, nightly, with the usual midway attractions and the western frolicking Burwell is famous for. Peewees Garner Third In Ashton Tournament Ord's Little League entry in the Ashton baseball tournament brought home third place honors by swamping Ashton 2-5 in the consolation contest. Ord tallied 26 runs on 22 hits committing no errors while Ashton garnered 5 runs on 5 hits and made 8 miscues.

Mike Williams hit his second home run of the tourney to propel the Ord victory. Five players banged out two hits apiece as the Ord Little League entry atoned for an earlier tourney setback. Central City took the Championship with an 8-7 extra win over Arcadia.

Ord Ponies Play at Ashton Tourney

The Ord Pony Team participated in the Ashton Invitational Tournament over the weekend and finished third, under the coaching of Chuck Fryzek. Game No. 1 The Ord team scored first after holding Shelton scoreless in the top of the first when Jerry Augustyn walked, and then scored on successive singles by Phil Fisher and Dan Linke. Ord led 1-0.

Ord then added 4 runs in the second and 1 in the top of the third for a 6-0 lead. Shelton then took its turn scoring 4 in the third and 4 in the fourth for an 8-6 lead.

Ord came back with Doug Conner and Mike Mulligan crossing the plate in the fifth for an 8-8 tie. Ord's Scott Novasad lived on an error in the top of the sixth and came around to score and Ord regained the lead 9-8.

The seventh proved to be in Ord's favor as Ord scored 9 runs on 7 hits and took an 18-8 lead before Shelton scored 2 runs in the bottom of the 7th and victory belonged to Ord, 18-10.

game. Ord scored one run in the bottom of the first as Mike Williams singled and was sacrificed to second by Jerry Augustyn's bunt and then Mike scored as Mike Mulligan singled. Ord led after one inning 1-0.

Central City tied the game in the top of the second on a single and a double. Ord 1, C.C. 1. The third saw C.C. gain the lead as they scored 3 runs on only 1 hit as Ord committed 2 errors and 4 C.C. batters were walked. After three, C.C. 4, Ord 1.

The fourth saw Central City score 5 more runs and Ord retaliated with 4 so after four it was C.C. 9, Ord 5. The fifth and sixth were scoreless so the seventh and final inning would tell the story. C.C. scored two runs on a home run by their pitcher Rich Johnson and led 11 to 5.

Ord didn't give up and came back to score 4 runs in the bottom of the seventh as Phil Fisher, Brad Stephens, Kelly Boyce, and Brad Staab crossed the plate. The final C.C. 11 runs on 11 hits and Ord 9 runs on 13 hits. Mike Williams led the Ord hitting attack with 4 hits in 5 errors and his first home run of the season.

Rotary Hears Ferguson Talk on Australia Trip

Ernie Ferguson, physics teacher from Neosho, MO was guest speaker at Rotary in Ord on Monday evening.

Mr. Ferguson recently returned from a six weeks trip to the State of Victoria in eastern Australia and explained a number of facts about that part of Australia including:

1. Its people converted to the metric system in the mid 60's, and have adjusted well, generally with the only remaining difficulty lying in remodeling existing buildings.

2. Australian beef prices are considerably lower than ours and Australia may be developing a common market type of trade relation with Japan.

3. Australia's utilities are publicly owned. Generation plants are generally located within conveyor belt distance of its fuel source, coal. Australians are therefore able to eliminate oil and gas expense.

4. The state in Australia owns all of the minerals which are below 50 feet of the land surface.

Mr. Ferguson participated in the tour which was sponsored by the Rotary Foundation and highly recommends the tour for anyone who has the opportunity to go.

Mr. Ferguson is Mrs. Arden Koelling's brother.

Next week's speaker will be David from the Bureau of Reclamation office at Grand Island, who will speak on the Twin Loups project.

VOX POP

Dear Mr. Misko,
As representatives of the South Central Nebraska Area Agency on Aging, we would like to extend our thanks to the Ord community for the warm welcome we received there. The purpose of our stay during the week of July 24 was to conduct a needs survey of Ord's older citizens, regarding various programs and services our agency has to offer. Everyone was friendly, and answered our questions with consideration. The results of the survey are presently being tabulated.

The assistance supplied to us by Central Nebraska Community Services has been of immense help in our survey effort — from Custer County to Loup City, from Ord to Burwell — and we are extremely grateful. Norma Remington in particular has gone to great lengths to aid us in every possible way, and it is a pleasure to associate with one so obviously dedicated to her community. It is all too rare when government agencies work together toward their common goal, and we are happy that an enthusiastic working rapport was established in Ord in a government of the people, by the people and for the people, should it be any other way?

With sincere thanks,
Laura J. Duitesne

armor coating, Bean Creek bridge, gravel for bus routes and the road department's hourly wage presentation. Supervisor Roll Johnson moved to set the wage at $3.25 per hour plus time-and-a-half for overtime. The motion, seconded by Leon Klanecky, passed unanimously.

The road department included placing a tube near the Lyle Innes place in the west part of the county and delaying the two miles of oiling south of Ord between the Dutch Clement place and Highway 22 until next spring.

Don Carson also appeared before the board, reporting on claims, funds and balances in the road department and that the disaster funds reports were about completed.

Tech School
Though no action was taken, the board heard Don Nelson from CTC explain their budget, and tech school programs and his request that a board member meet with the tech school people twice yearly.

Sale of some lots and rental of the county farms was discussed and legal notices pertaining to these items will appear in the Quiz.

A problem of unlocked doors at the Courthouse was mentioned, though it was unknown who may have been failing to lock the doors behind them in the evenings, since the doors don't lock automatically.

Furnace repair was approved by the board for J. E. Lynch & Associates to thoroughly inspect and clean the pipes and boiler system. It was hoped the expense of the inspection and repairs may be offset by savings in heating bills.

One Hired
Though hiring of both a County Highway Engineer and County Superintendent came up for lengthy discussion, only one position was filled at this time.

With present County Road Superintendent Tom McFadden nearing retirement, the supervisors decided to hire Max Leth, a 41-year-old Grand Island man who has been with Diamond Engineering.

The part-time arrangement with Howard County for a superintendent will expire at the end of this year and though the supervisors discussed the situation, they made no decision at this time.

All supervisors were present at the Tuesday meeting, which adjourned at 3 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Baldwin and Arnold Cook went fishing at the Burwell Dam Tuesday afternoon.

Betty Jo Axthelm brushes away her worries and problems.

Moods, Visions Put On Canvas; Betty Jo Relaxes With Brushes

By Nancy Ringlein
Nightmares aren't always bad. Not to Betty Jo Axthelm anyway. To her, they are just as important as dreams, moods, feelings and expression. Why you ask? Because they are things that inspire her to paint for a hobby.

Since Betty Jo had "always been interested in that type of thing" she put her talent to use and with her husband Don's encouragement, gave paintings as "unusual" Christmas gifts one year. Now she has established herself in the world of art and is about to enter her 20th year as a hobbyist.

In a Quiz interview Friday, Betty Jo remarked she "always drew a lot as a child" but art courses were not offered in the district high school curriculum at that time. However, she enrolled in an art class while attending Kearney State College.

In Mrs. Axthelm's estimation, the Halsey art workshop which is held every fall, is "probably the most inspiring thing I've done." This will be her third year to attend the workshop which features guest artists and teachers.

Depending on the size and detail, she can complete paintings in as little as 15 minutes or take up to a day. Most of her subjects deal with still-life or scenery and she feels she does scenery "better than anything."

Although she occasionally sells paintings, she quickly replied "no" when asked if she'd ever consider turning professional. Painting, she believes, is a "good way to unwind and express feelings."

The artist, who is vice president of Ord's Chamber of Commerce, also credits her children for providing encouragement with her hobby and her daughter often finds purchasers for her work.

Her other interests include sewing, knitting, reading, is fascinated by people and is currently learning to play the guitar.

Recently, Betty Jo won first place in the Open Class Division at the Valley County Fair for a winter scene painting.

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M. M. Van Kirk, Director of Information

This summer's destructive plague of grasshoppers in Western Nebraska and in other states serves to highlight the dependence of high agricultural production on the wise development and use of agricultural chemicals if the nation's and the world's growing populations are to be adequately fed.

The grasshopper plague is a spectacular example of the need for available pesticide controls, but there are many others. Corn rootworm, green bugs, alfalfa aphids, Mexican bean beetles, chinch bugs, cotton boll weevils, cattle grubs, etc., etc., pose an endless array of pests that if uncontrolled could easily cut the nation's food and fiber supply by half or more.

Dr. Francis Mulhern, director of the USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, recently said in an interview about the need for the public to understand the benefits as well as the dangers in agricultural chemicals:

"It is extremely difficult for the public to evenly sort out the proper information. In many cases, fear has been injected into the issue, thus eliminating objectivity. The younger generation is being given this 'fear' information in the schools. I don't know of any group or individual that is teaching our young people of the benefits derived from chemicals and that they can be used safely. The balance of information just isn't there to my knowledge. How can you change public opinion and lack knowledge? I don't know."

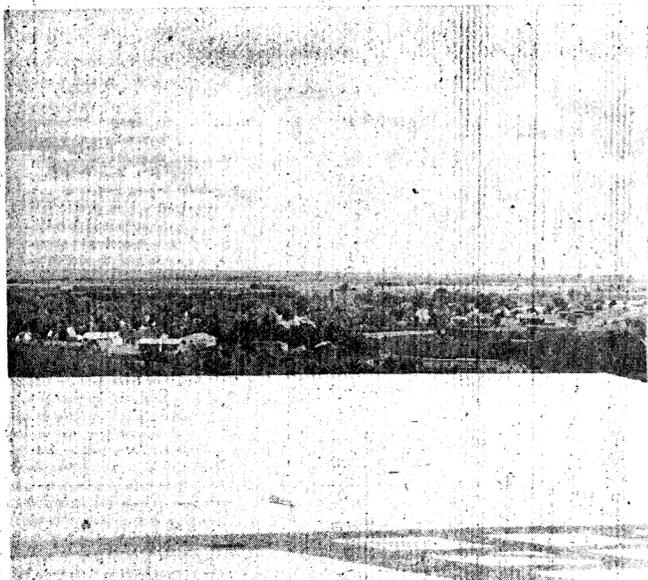

It may be surprising to many people to hear that all of us are far less likely to suffer from toxic exposure than did our fathers and forefathers. Lead and arsenate, frequently teamed in lead arsenate sprays, were applied almost universally as crop protectants until in 1933, a sensational best seller, "100,000 Guinea Pigs," revealed the dangers of lead and arsenic poisoning to the general public.

Today farmers have less hazardous products than lead and arsenic to use against pests and the people of technologically advanced countries are guarded better from accidental poisonings than any others in history. Laboratories are now able to measure contaminants in parts per trillion, and toxicologists have learned to identify potential hazards before new products are released for sale.

The tendency of certain chemicals to build up in the environment remains one of the main arguments against the use of pesticides. But the critics overlook the facts that most pesticides break down readily into non-toxic products, that only certain pesticides do indeed move through the food chains and that many of these are no longer used. In the U.S., all new and old pesticides must pass tests of non-persistence.

House and Senate conferees are presently meeting to resolve differences in bills passed by both houses of Congress to provide some needed changes in the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act to make it more realistic and practical and less subject to whims of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Perhaps the grasshopper plague will dramatize to the general public that there must be continuing development and use of agricultural chemicals to control and prevent such situations from developing, and laws and regulations must be sufficiently flexible to permit it.

THE Ord Quiz

Estab. April, 1882. Ord, Nebr., Thurs., Aug. 10, 1978. Vol. 97, No. 24. 2 Sects.

Sometimes the public takes water for granted. After all, it's always there when we turn on the faucet or push the button that starts the pivot.

The Mission Viejo Development Company of Denver, Colorado, expected the water for a planned 100,000 population satellite city would be available until the Colorado State Engineer denied a permit to drill 28 new water wells.

12,000 to 13,000 acres using 18,000 to 25,000 acre-feet of water. They will probably inject 2.5 million pounds of N and, as technology progresses, several thousand pounds of herbicides and insecticides through the systems.

Are you concerned about this type of development (not really a family farm type of operation)? What about groundwater depletion, water quality, etc.? I'm sure that the foreign money interests (if that's really it) are not concerned with the future supply and quality of Nebraska's groundwater. What are we going to end up with? Maybe we can put a sign on the interstate asking people to stop in Nebraska and see the largest man-made blowout in the world.

The permits were denied because the development company could not prove that the withdrawal would not affect the already taxed underground supply. The total withdrawal for the 28 wells would be about 12,440 acre-feet annually.

Where's the parallel, what does this have to do with Nebraska? Last year, 29 plus new pivots were installed in one area by outside interests in Garfield County. This year, 40 plus new pivots are expected in Garfield County, and 30 plus in Wheeler County. This is an expected total of 90 new pivots irrigating some and future development patterns and then try to interest some of our state legislators in a closer look.

We would really like your opinion, after all, it's your water to use and drink, or maybe your grandkids, and our purpose is to serve your best interests.

Officials Emotions Are Mixed On State Equalization Efforts

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Lincoln — After the state Board of Equalization changed new property valuations in 58 of the state's 93 counties, the reaction of county representatives was mixed.

Last month the board tentatively agreed to roll back valuations in 43 counties and increase them in 14. The action was an attempt to achieve statewide equalization by setting values at approximately 70 percent of their actual value.

Counties that would be required to increase valuations generally agreed with the board's proposal. But some counties facing rollbacks did not, arguing implementation of the board's decision would create difficult situations.

Hearings on the proposal lasted several days and the board was to meet this week to review testimony and consider final action.

One of those expressing opposition was Otoe County Commissioner Victor Bremer. He said reducing his county's valuations by 17.6 percent would place it in "an impossible situation" because its new values would be nearly $4 million below those of 1977.

Bremer testified, "If there is anything counties don't need it's more government out of this (Capitol) building, we're begging and pleading with you to restore the 17.6 percent to our valuation."

Officials from some counties facing increases told a different story. Hamilton County spokesmen said they would be required to increase valuations 16.6 percent but added they had no argument against the board's final decision.

Still other officials told State Tax Commissioner Bill Peters their counties would be better off without the state butting in. Some said their county board could provide better equalization than the state could.

Seward County Assessor Leslie Nelson said, "We can live by the values set by our county board. All we're here for is to be sure we're treated like other counties."

Down the Road Apiece

Last week we'd urged readers — especially those in the newly formed Ord Street Improvement Districts — to get FACTS rather than hearsay before they decide the fate of the city's proposed paving to end expensive yearly upkeep of streets. We hope all interested and concerned persons attend the August 10th hearing at Ord City Hall.

People — we think — should base their decisions on FACT. But there is another side to this — and all — improvement and development stories.

We were told that one of the streets in the proposed improvement districts was freely donated to the city many years ago. As the story goes, Orin Kellison — a forward thinking civic leader in Ord — thought a street should be opened behind his property. At the time there was no K Street between 24th Street and 27th Street.

Kellison, we're told, approached the neighbors about donating land for such a street. After considerable discussion and careful consideration, Bazants, Anton Rajewich, Fred Clark, Kellison, and others decided to give the property to the city if a street were opened. Though no written agreement has ever been located, as we heard it, the city had agreed to maintain the street at no additional charge to the donating property owners.

The thinking behind this is that the city is obligated for this stretch of street. To that particular reasoning, we have no answer.

But we are thankful that early property owners in this section of Ord had enough foresight and community interest to cooperate with the development of their city. We hope the same unselfish thinking goes into the future of the proposed improvement districts and that others may look back on us with the same pride in which we hold those generous early citizens.

Not This Year

For years we've heard people admonish the road department for summer road work and detours "just at the time" when events are planned in various Nebraska communities. Always — it seemed — a major highway was under construction at rodeo time in Burwell.

Though the finishing touches may not be completed, work which could slow or waylay travelers to and from Burwell on Highway 11 is nearly done and rodeo-goers will have easy access to Garfield County. Not only is the completed roadway beautiful, but we've heard praise for Biba Construction Company and their courteous roadworkers.

Possibly a bit of thanks to roadworkers and officials would be in order. Especially to be commended is Dr. Ben Meckel of Burwell, a member of the State Highway Commission and — we're sure — one of the forces assuring completion of the new 16-mile resurfacing segment of Highway 11 between Ord and Burwell.

Something Different

About Doctoring

So we moved to a slightly bigger mobilehome in a somewhat larger park, very nice, more flowers, more neighbors.

And this one neighbor, believe it or not, is named Mrs. John Sullivan. We're already had reason to get acquainted . . . with mail mix-ups.

So we invited her to come in and sit down, and let us get to know one another. She promptly chattered on.

"I don't feel good. I've run out of my pills. And my doctor is back in Connecticut. I tried to find a doctor here. Went to one, you wouldn't believe!

"He said 'Everyone's crazy; that's right. You are crazy, I'm crazy, everyone's crazy.' He went on and on. I left.

"Next I tried another doctor, thought I couldn't do worse.

"I went in and sat down. After I waited a while I thought I heard him call me as there wasn't any receptionist.

"So I walked into his inner office. What a mess. I never saw such a dirty place, it just never had been cleaned up.

"And he was standing there brushing his teeth, just wearing his undershorts. I got out!

"And I tried again, there had to be a medical man who'd understand my problem and give me a prescription for the pills I needed so much. My head hurts. And I'm so queasy.

"This next man examined me, listened to my symptoms. I was poked and punched and prodded. I said to him I've been trying to find a doctor I like. I need this prescription so bad, doctor, now please cooperate with me.

The doctor began to rage.

He hollered: "If you don't like me and trust me then I don't want you for a patient. GO!"

So I left. And I don't have a doctor yet.

I'm going to write to my doctor in Connecticut. I've had it with these California doctors!

"I feel queasy, I'd better go home." And she did. A nice lady, with problems.

All we know about her is she's a blonde lady . . . with headache problems, pill problems, and doctor problems.

You ask what is a mobile home? Well, it is moved in on wheels . . . and likely never moved again. Electricity, gas, water, sewer are attached, plus moved bills. Out here you buy the home and then pay rent for the lot in some park.

Likely a metal "skirt" is put on around the bottom of the "home". And very likely you'll get an awning of metal, roofing in a patio . . . very nice touch. All hooked up permanently.

Now what is an RV? That's a recreational vehicle, with a soft of truck front, living quarters behind, usually having a place to sleep, to eat, to use the bathroom, a little cooking area. All very compact. When it is parked, even over-night, it must be hooked up to water, sewer system, electrical system. This space is rented like a motel room, do you see?

We tried an RV last year. This year we're mobile-homing and enjoying it, although it is much different from Nebraska.

To The Editor:

In reference to the letter in your recent Ord Quiz issue by Ted Hoffman of Omaha objecting to the North Loup Project. It is apparent he has not obtained the opinions of the majority involved in the surrounding area of the Calamus Dam Site. He would discover most far sighted citizens are definitely in favor of it.

The opportunity exists now, to keep this water in our state before some other part of the country takes it. Serious water shortages plague certain states including areas of Nebraska. At the rate we are using water, we too, will experience shortages if we do not allow Water Conservation Projects to become reality. Yes, we have plenty now, but we need to give serious thought to the future of our youth and country.

Mr. Hoffman erroneously stated $3,000 acres were originally planned for irrigation and the estimated has dwindled to 26,000 acres. Unquote. The true fact is there are 55,000 acres considered irrigatable of which 53,000 are petitioned in the project. There are over 10,000 more acres adjacent that will in all probability want in too. This can not be done as there is only enough water for 53,000 acres unless someone in the district wants to give up his water rights, which the directors will allow, whoever wants to withdraw may do so.

Irrigate with pumps and also use water from the North Loup Irrigation District. This year my energy costs alone for operating irrigation pumps has cost 3 times more than the water used from the Farwell District (this includes the tax assessment on the irrigated acres) and we still have a month of pumping to go. The point is, think of the tremendous conservation of energy and water projects like this make it possible. To go one step further, why not harness this water and run it through turbines, coupled to generators producing electricity.

I question the harming of wildlife population by construction of the Calamus Dam. It will raise the water table and cause untold miles of dry creeks to have running water year around, benefiting wildlife. This has occurred in Howard County and surrounding areas because of the Sherman County Reservoir.

Hoffman is eloquently sympathizes with families displaced by the dam, making no mention of how Omaha annexes villages and farms for expansion.

The attack upon Representative Virginia Smith is totally uncalled for. This lady has accomplished more for the people in her district in accordance to their wants and needs than a lot of other elected officials.

One wonders if Hoffman has a vested interest in the Calamus, like property. If a thrilling canoe ride is what he is after, why not try the Missouri, it is much safer now due to the despised dams.

Lawrence Kusek, an Ord High School grad and former resident of Elyria, was a Democratic candidate for Congress in the 13th Illinois Dist. of Chicago.

Thirty Years Ago
Ruth Mayo of Ord left for San Francisco to sail for Wailua, Hawaii, where she was to assume duties as director of the child development center on the Wailua plantation.

Bud Novosad received three broken ribs when a hayrack pulled by a runaway team turned over near the Leonard Klanecky farm 13 miles northeast of Ord.

Geranium Joe Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
Ed Vodehnal came to the session at the country store Saturday night to unload. He said he was full of all the carrying on about how some people who have been privileged to live longer than some other people ought to be put on display like they bears China give to the U.S.

Ed said it is bad enough to give our heads all kinds of special names, but there is a drive in and out of Government to set us apart from the rest of the human race. What got Ed started was this piece he had saw where somepun called "senior centers" is going all over the country.

What got them started, Ed reported, is the Older Americans Act that provides tax money to do all kind of things for people that have outlived their usefulness. Actual, Ed said, they don't know they have until the Older Americans Act tells em.

When this law lays out all the things you can get just staying alive, you probably get the notion quick that you ain't fit no longer to associate with ordinary folks.

One thing the law does that is catching on around here and in the country, Ed said, is furnish money to set up places where old folks can go and do together whatever they had been doing separately. This one county that is working on a center says they heard one of em comment on age was once when one feller one town. No mention is made, Ed declared, of the fact that 14,000 and some have found their way through more life than most folks without a center for their particular age group, and they ain't about to be branded different.

The thinking behind these senior centers is that folks will leave their homes where they're comfortable and congregate at a strange place with a bunch of strangers with nothing in common but their age. Ed said this country has got nurseries, kindergarten, youth centers, country clubs, classes in church for every age group, and it ain't no wonder we talk about gaps up and down the line. We build in the gaps and then we widen them with ever new Government program, was Ed's words.

We figger no problem is so big it can't be solved with enough money, Ed went on, and the more you think about the Older Americans Act the more it sounds like a Stop the Rain Act or a Time Prohibition Bill. If you want to do somepun, pass a law.

Mister Editor, all the fellers has their three score and 10 behind em, and not one of em thinks of himself as a golden ager, a senior citizen or as any other unusual variety of human being that needs special care and feeding. About the only time I heard one of em comment on age was once when one feller arrived home after a six week tour in Europe with a party of 33 from Nebraska Wesleyan University.

KERRY ON

— this week —

After last week's Quiz was on the press, Editor Wade Misko made a hurried trip to Arcadia to cover the annual Garden Club Show and then returned to Ord to type up a list of advance news tips before he was off on a two-week vacation.

We envy Wade his trip to California — especially since the responsibility for this and next week's paper falls in our lap.

Usually there's an eager, young and up-coming journalist among the Quiz Kids and this year we've enlisted the help of Nancy Ringlein to assist with the paper. Nancy, daughter of Quiz foreman Cletus Ringlein, and sister of Quiz compositor Dennis Ringlein, hopes to pursue a career in writing and photography after she finishes her schooling at college the next few years.

Writing a high school column, at one time, and working on the Ord High School paper, gave Nancy a taste of journalism. She's also worked part-time, over the years, wherever and whenever needed at Quiz Graphic Arts. Usually her dad has simply enlisted her to help out at rush times in the bindery.

This week Nancy will do some of the stories, relieving me so I can also do my usual work on top of covering news stories and shooting pictures. Also lending help in addition to their regular duties are Advertising Manager Lynn Griffith and Society Editor Betty Ringlein. "Griff" will help with the camera while Betty simply takes on a little more than usual.

Jay Brady offered to help with sports news, so you'll find some of his work on the sports page. We're sure you'll like it — though this is mid-way in small town sports seasons and roundball action is ending, while the pigskin is not yet full inflated.

In addition to those already mentioned, praise is due the 4-H Council and Dorothy Palser at the Valley County Extension Office. Many readers outside of the local community may have forgotten that Valley County allowed that there just don't seem to be very many old people around any more.

The fellers generally was agreed with Ed, but Bill Moudry was of a mind that having places where folks of the same interest can get together is a good idea. Bill said that what homes, churches, ball parks, racetracks, pool halls and ever other public place is fer, and if that's what folks that make a hobby out of being old want to do, he don't see the harm.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

headed into their annual Fair without a County Agent.

From what we could learn, the youth and 4-H Council simply cooperated and worked harder than ever to make this year's Fair as smooth-going as most any year in the past. The results were promptly reported to the media in one of the best efforts I can remember.

So, even short-handed and in a bind, people CAN and WILL take up the slack. We are thankful for such people and are reminded, once again, that there is no such thing as an irresponsible person. But please, Wade, don't lose your return ticket!

Come To Church

READ MATTHEW 13:10-17
He that hath ears to hear, let him hear. (Matthew 11:15)
What a day! The landlord wouldn't let the children play on the lawn even though we wanted and moved it; one grape and one lime pop-sicle and both kids wanted grape; the clean wash dangled from the broken clothesline, and my husband came home shouting, "Can't these kids ever pick up their toys?" Feeling unappreciated, but knowing that a soft answer does indeed turn wrath away, I assured him that they would pick the tops up quickly. However, I was left with a feeling of resentment.

Later, I realized that neither of us really heard what the other was saying because we weren't saying what we honestly felt. It had been a trying day for both of us; we were seeking love and sympathy from each other, sure that our need was the greater.

Now I realize that if we listen with our heart, we can hear the still, small voice of God that attunes us to hear others.

PRAYER: Father, help up to be good listeners. Teach us to listen to others that You may help us discern their real need. Thank You for listening to us and sending Your Son to fulfill our needs. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
As I listen to others, I will listen to God.

Low Calamus Bid Is 33% Under $627,620 Engineer's Estimate

About forty people were present in the Ord High music room, Tuesday morning, at the public opening of bids on excavation and fencing and road work for the Calamus Dam—a part of the Twin Loups Project.

Promptly at 10 a.m. Construction Engineer Bob McClure called for the opening of bids, after double-checking with bidders and their representatives present, making sure they understood two supplemental notices.

Apparent low bidder was Negus-Sweeney, Inc., of Omaha with a bid of $417,795.

Next lowest was Werner Construction & BOC, Inc., of Hastings. Their bid was $425,410.

Monona Constructors of Onawa, IA, bid $665,810; Nebraska Irrigation and Engineering, Inc., Kearney, bid $723,994.50; and Ed Miller & Sons, Inc., Omaha, bid was $627,620.

Engineer's estimate, revealed part way through the bidding, was $617,600.

A required 20 percent surety bond posted by bidders is good for a 60-day acceptance period during which time the bids are sent to Denver for review and study by the Engineering and Research Division of the Bureau of Reclamation.

Within that 60-day period the low bid will be accepted if it passes review.

Work under these specifications will consist of: 470,000 cubic yards of excavation for the foundation trench, 43,000 cubic yards of excavation for roadway, 3 miles of barbed wire fencing and 1.4 miles of graded road with an asphalt armor coat.

Vandalism and Accident Reported By County Sheriff

Though rodeo activity was at a peak in this area during the past week, Valley County Sheriff Martin Sonnefeld reported only an incident of vandalism and one personal injury accident.

Sonnefeld reported that on Sunday night, Aug. 13th, a highway warning flasher was removed from Highway 70 near the Arcadia junction. It was later located a distance up the road from the place it had been removed.

Personal Injury
About 1:30 a.m. Monday morning, Aug. 14, the sheriff investigated a one car accident 10 miles west and two miles south of Ord about a half mile west of the Louis Zagina farm.

Darwin Volf, 17, of rural Burwell, was apparently alone when he failed to negotiate a sharp turn on the dirt road and the car rolled over one time, coming to rest on its wheels.

A passing motorist took Volf to the Valley County Hospital where he was held and treated for facial cuts and a possible concussion.

The sheriff estimated the 1958 Ford Volf was driving was a total loss.

Dr. Cram Named Marshal of Air Show

Well-known Burwell pioneer aviator and board member, Dr. Roy Cram will serve as grand marshal of the first Nebraska Aviation Day Rally at Norfolk on August 19th.

Part of the national celebration of the 75th anniversary of the first flight of the Wright brothers, the rally is being held in conjunction with the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Norfolk airport.

Sponsored by the Nebraska Aeronautics Commission and the Norfolk Airport Authority, the rally will include competition for all pilots in all kinds of aircraft.

Charges Are Filed In Thorman Crash

An accident south of Burwell on Highway 11, shortly after midnight Friday, hospitalized an Ord woman while members of the family and the driver of the other car escaped with less serious injuries.

Taken to the Valley County Hospital with several broken ribs was Pat Grove, 44, Ord. Her husband Bob, 56, was driving the Chevrolet. According to the report of investigating State Trooper Gerald Schmitt, Thorman dropped on the road and hit the large just south of the Bill Dimmitt farm. Thorman then spun backward into the south lane and Grove hit the rear of the Chevy with his '73 Oldsmobile.

The Grove family — Lisa, 15, and Bobby, 13, and Peggy Kerner, 15, in the back seat, then went into the west ditch. Lisa received a broken nose, Bob was bruised, Bobby and Peggy were not injured, Schmitt reported.

Thorman received cuts, but wasn't hospitalized. The Valley County attorney's office filed charges of third offense driving while intoxicated against the Burwell man on Tuesday.

The accident happened at 12:10 a.m., Aug. 12th, four miles south of Burwell. Both cars were a total loss.

Crete Concrete Bid Is Within Ord Projection

After the Ord Street Improvement hearing, last Thursday, it was learned by Mayor Gaylord Bolesen that Crete—a comparable Nebraska city—just let paving bids this past week.

Final bid price of the Crete paving district was $17 per front foot, according to the mayor.

Calamus Info Given To Rotary Group

Robert McClure, Construction Engineer for the Bureau of Reclamation on the Calamus Project was the guest speaker at Rotary Monday night. Mr. McClure outlined the following construction schedule:

1. Contract for fencing, seeding, road work and excavation was opened August 15. The contractor will employ approximately 20 to 25 people and the reclamation Bureau may employ up to 20 people by early next summer. Under this contract a visitor overlook will be constructed where the public can observe construction of the dam during the life of the project.

2. A second foundation contract will be issued in early summer to complete the foundation of the dam.

3. The final phase will construct all visible parts of the dam, including the upper parts and concrete structures.

There should be water in the dam by 1982 or 1983. The entire North Loup Project will be completed in approximately eight to nine years.

Janice White, who taught music in the elementary school, chose not to return and she will be replaced by assigning the two high school music instructors, plus Elementary Principal Mike Johnson who majored in music to take up the slack. Johnson will coordinate the elementary music program.

Bus Policy
In other important business, the board established a bus conduct transportation policy following problems with students riding the buses in recent years. The policy pertains to both regular bus service and extra-curricular and activity trip and infractions can result in suspension of riding privileges.

The behaviors not to be tolerated are listed below, followed by the action that will be taken:

a. Talking about the bus when the bus is in motion.

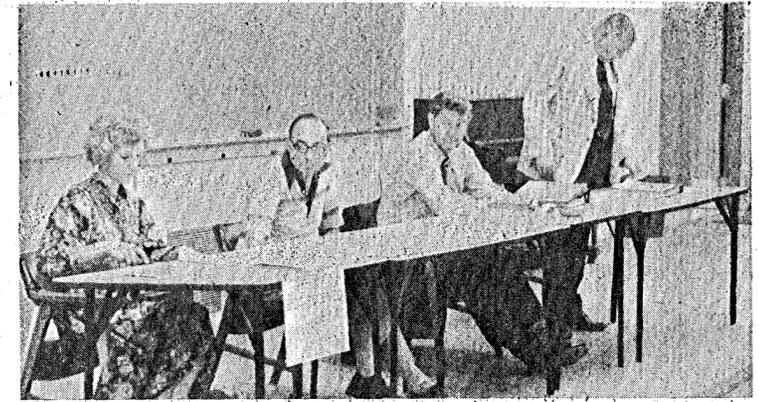

b. Profane or obscene language or actions.

c. Throwing of objects.

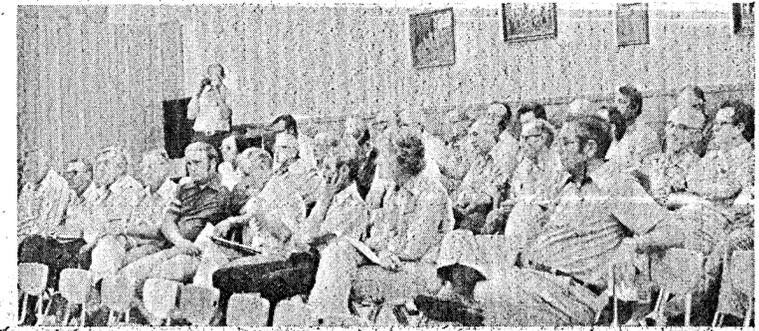

d. Failure to sit in assigned seat at request of driver.

e. Excessive noise that detracts bus driving.

f. Driving on or having in possession water balloons, knives, razor blades, etc.

Sister Mary Diane Reveals Plans for St. Mary's School

By Nancy Ringlein

Sister Mary Diane, principal of St. Mary's School in Ord, stated her main goal for the coming school year is "to have each pupil in our care realize his full potential." She said that is to provide not only for the needs of the average student, but also for the slow learner and the gifted as well.

An added goal this year, according to Sister Diane is to improve the quality of instruction in music. The school system, she said, is seeking a teachers aide who could instruct music part time.

The teaching staff at St. Mary's continues their main objective to "train the whole child physically, mentally, and spiritually." Sister Diane also feels discipline is an important factor "but we aim at self-discipline. Every child should be a creditable for his own behavior."

St. Mary's faculty will be the same as last year. Sister Michaeline will teach 1st and 2nd grades, Mrs. Fern Waldmann, grades 3 and 4, Mrs. JoAnn Rathbone will instruct the 5th and 7th grades, and Sister Mary Diane grades 7 and 8.

Enrollment for the 78-79 school year is 82. Just two below last year's figures.

Brad Garnick Wins Honor

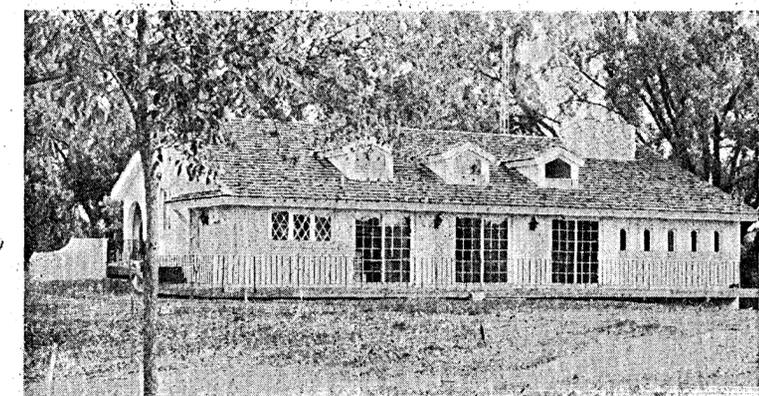

Brad Garnick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garnick of Ord, has been selected as the recipient of the 1978 Western Agricultural Economics Association, Graduate Thesis Award. The thesis, which was published last year, is entitled "An Economic Evaluation of Nitrogen Fertilization of Winter Wheat" and was submitted for national competition by Montana State University, Bozeman, MT. Brad graduated from Ord High School and the University of Nebraska, Lincoln and worked as a grain merchandiser for Archer-Daniel and Midland Corporation in Decatur, IL, before beginning graduate studies in Bozeman, MT. He is presently working as an economist for Montana State University.

Road Construction On Highway 70

Culvert work, asphalt surfacing and guard rail installation began August 8 on Highway 70, beginning about four miles west of Arcadia and running east through Arcadia for about six miles to the junction with Highway 58.

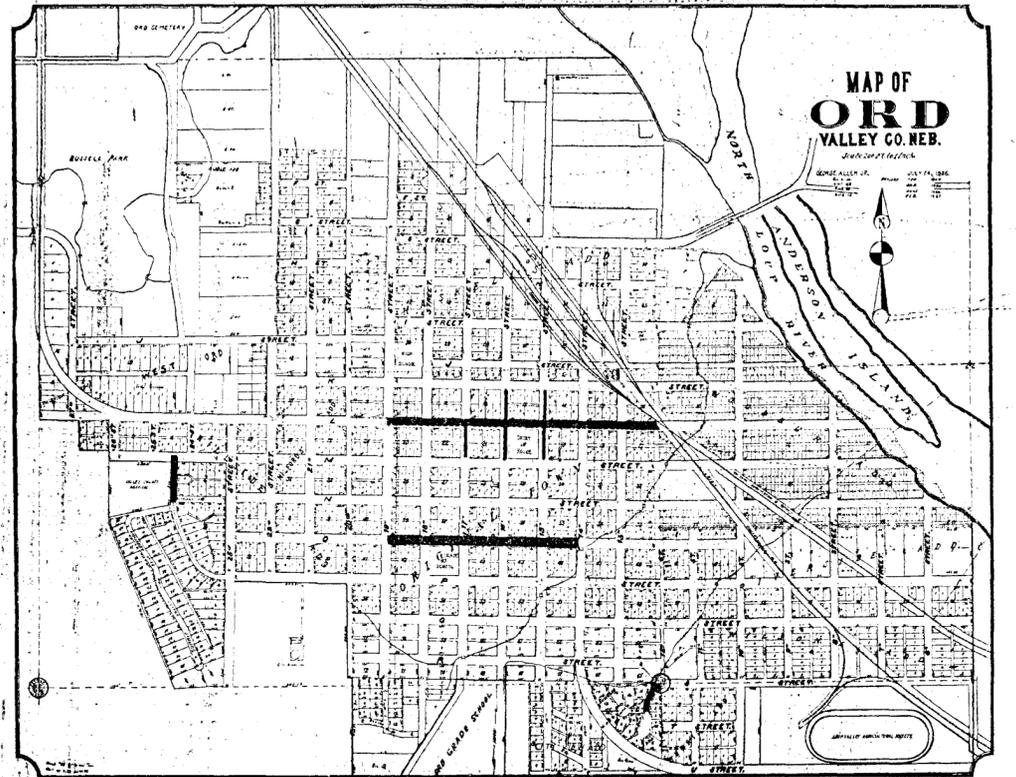

ORD GROWS — One of the most recently completed new homes in Ord is that, pictured above, east of the Ord Golf Course and along the road north through Bussell Park. The Spanish style split-level in white brick is the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bergman. It was contracted by Clement Lumber of Ord with George Cetak and crew doing the work. Bergmans will be moving into their new 3-bed room home this weekend.

Comstock Plant Site Advised by NPPD

The power supply committee of the Nebraska Public Power District, meeting Friday in Lincoln, requested management to draft an appropriate resolution for submission to the entire Board of Directors, which would authorize proceeding with several activities necessary for the construction of a coal-fired power plant near Comstock.

The committee requested that the resolution be presented at the August 24-25 NPPD Board meeting, to be held in Columbus, Mo. consideration by the 11-member board at that time.

D. W. Hill, NPPD General Manager, told the board committee that management recommends the board approve the Comstock area as the site for a 600-megawatt coal fired generating plant to be completed in 1986.

Don Schaufelberger, Deputy General Manager, said that railroad facilities and water availability are good in the Comstock area.

Storm Sewers Planned

$500,000 Improvements Follow Paving Hearing

After the smoke cleared from the City Council chamber, Thursday night, Ord had four of six proposed Street Improvement Districts and two proposed Storm Sewer Districts which could total over $500,000.

The one hour street improvement district hearings drew such a crowd, Mayor Gaylord Bolesen asked to hear only one district at a time and it was more than two hours later when councilmen disdainfully spoke of grading and graveling areas they hoped might get paving.

Lost to the petitions of resident property owners was what the council considered its "most important street"—Dist. #1, which was 17th Street from L Street to the new Grade School drive intersection. Of 35 votes possible, 22 had petitioned they were not in favor of paving.

By state law if 51 percent of resident property owners, whose property abuts the proposed street, sign petitions against a city-created paving district, the district is killed.

Thusly, the largest proposed district, #6 consisting of K Street and J Street between 23rd and all of 25th Street, fell to 37 petitions against from the possible 56 votes. So city dads were left with Districts #2 (16th Street between 4th and the Grade School), #3 (Valley View Drive, M Street between Westridge Drive and 23rd Street, and 24th Street between M and L); #4 (all of T Street and 12th Street in Sunrise Addition); and #5 (19th Street between L Street and O Street). These districts will be curbed and guttered, where necessary, and paved.

The primary concern of those attending the hearings was "what will it cost?" The council had expressed their hope, previously, that the cost might be held to within $15 to $19 per front foot. They reiterated these figures to each group, though they admitted no one would know until the bid letting which is planned for November or December of this year.

Various cost figures were cited, during the sessions, though no one seemed to know any more than what was paying was going for elsewhere. Costs, the council explained, would be dependant on the work required and the size of the contracts up for bids.

Storm Sewer
It wasn't until after the paving districts were decided that three representatives of Great Plains Engineering and Architecture from Kearney, unveiled their storm sewer proposals.

Though paving costs are borne by the property owners—except for intersections—sewer districts are an obligation of the city. The city soon learned the engineer's estimate of the costs of two major storm sewer lines, including necessary work, would run approximately $180,000 to $200,000. With the $300,000 for the just-passed paving districts, the total $500,000 improvement package will be advertised late this fall with bids let late this year and work to begin next spring.

The major storm sewer trunk lines will run from 19th Street down L Street to the railroad tracks and from the bottom of the hill at 19th and O Streets east to the canyon near the Ord Medical Clinic on 14th Street.

Proposals call for a 30-inch pipe on L Street, estimated to cost $140,000 and for an 18-inch pipe on O Street, estimated at $40,000.

Incidents Scarce, So Are Policemen

Ord City Police reported only minor activity, this week, going back to July 31 for the only previously unreported fender-bender.

On the last day of July, a 1975 Vega driven by Duane Scherinkau of Ord, and a 1970 GMC tank truck driven by William Miller of Grand Island, were both northbound on the four-lane highway along 14th Street.

The truck, owned by Pollard Oil of Sargents, attempted to turn right from the inside lane and collided with the Vega. Damage to the truck was under $250, while police estimated over $250 damage to the Vega.

Theft
Sometime between 3 p.m. Aug. 1 and 9 a.m. Aug. 2 a desk drawer in the basement of the Ord Methodist Church was pried open and an estimated $7 taken from a money bag contained in the desk.

Police Chief John Young verified the resignation of Officer Calvin Thelander, who submitted his resignation as of Aug. 9th. At this time no replacement of the full-time duty officer has been made and the department is seeking applicants.

Questions and Answers from Street Improvement Hearings

Through the 2-hour Street Improvement District hearing, Thursday night at Ord City Hall, a rash of questions were asked by concerned residents and property owners.

The Quiz attempts to list, here, the most frequently asked questions and the answers offered by the Mayor, Council, and City Attorney:

Q - What will it cost?

A - An estimated $15 to $19 per front foot, though the exact costs will not be known until the bids are let.

Q - Why pave the streets?

A - The city can no longer afford to keep pouring oil on the streets at $16,000 to $20,000 per year for oil alone. Last year the city spent $88,400 on streets. Paving would greatly cut that annual expense.

Q - How many years will we have to pay off the assessment?

A - Up to 15 years, but it can be paid all at once if the property owner so chooses.

Q - Can't the paving be accomplished on a long-range plan?

A - Yes. That's what the city is attempting to do, but must start somewhere.

Q - Why not do the whole city at once?

A - It's physically impossible with a limit on bonded indebtedness prescribed by law. (Later it was learned that it would be possible, but would push the city mill levy near the maximum of 30 mills.)

Q - Highway 11 is paved and it's the worst street in Ord. What about that?

A - Highway 11 (L Street to 14th) is the state's responsibility.

Q - Why was this "forced" on us?

A - We (the city) had hoped the people would see through the paving of 24th Street a year ago, the advantage of paving and form Street Improvement Districts of their own initiative. Since that didn't happen, the city decided to create the districts and then the property owners could petition out if they objected.

Q - Why didn't the city hire engineers to get firm estimates?

A - To hire engineers is expensive. The city wanted to save that expense until bids were considered.

Q - Won't the city widen the streets?

A - That's not the city's intent. Streets where possible, will remain as they are planned.

Q - What is the width of Ord's planned streets?

A - In most instances, 30 feet wide from curb-to-curb.

Q - Who pays for the intersections?

A - That's the city's expense.

Q - What's the interest on the bonds?

A - From 7-3/4 percent to a limit of 9 percent. The council establishes the interest rate, limited to 9 percent at the highest.

Q - Who pays for the grade school?

A - The law states a property will be assessed according to its benefit ratio. Therefore the School District would be assessed for any benefit derived.

Russ Hansen Enthusiastic Over Four Week Science Workshop

By Nancy Ringling
Russ Hansen, who recently returned from a 4-week science workshop at Mount Marty College in Yankton, SD, said he would very much encourage anyone interested in something like this to apply.

Russ, who will be a senior at Ord High said he found out about "Environmental Biology from the Agricultural Midwest to the Alpine Wilderness" workshop from a pamphlet on a school bulletin board.

To be selected, James, who is better known as "Russ," had to write an essay explaining why he would like to attend the workshop and how it would benefit him. Two letters of recommendation were also required. One to be from his biology teacher and one from his high school principal.

The 20 participating students viewed many different areas of science, but a strong emphasis was placed on aquatic and terrestrial studies.

The first two weeks were spent in the Yankton area, studying man-made agricultural ecosystems. The last two weeks were spent backpacking in the Beartooth Primitive Area of Montana.

Russ said the thing that most impressed him was the manner in which natural prairie wildlife and plants were better able to maintain themselves when humans left them alone. Also, being exposed to new scientific techniques was a high point in his experiments.

Highlights of his four week venture was the Wind Cave National Monument where they went on a special tour. Other stops included Custer's Last Stand Monument, Mt. Rushmore and several other sights in the Black Hills and the Badlands.

Mr. Hansen stated he may include his scientific interest in future plans.

Kearney State College will offer a host of off-campus courses starting the fall semester. Several of these courses will be offered in Ord include:

First Meeting, Thursday, September 7, 7:00 p.m., at the High School. Course will involve a practical approach to manual communication for teachers, aides, administrators, speech pathologists or parents of persons with whom manual communication is being utilized. The course will be designed to meet the needs of the students in the class regardless of the population with whom they work, i.e. hard-of-hearing, non-verbal, mentally retarded, etc.

Students may register for an off-campus class at the first class meeting. No registrations will take place after the second class meeting. Should a course fail to materialize, tuition payments will be fully refunded and registration materials returned.

Dear Mr. Editor,
We just spent another great weekend canoeing the Calamus. We were also up there the weekend of the forum. Both times we had the time of our life. There are so many interesting things to look at as you're rowing down the river. Whenever you feel like swimming, you just jump out, and pull your canoe up to a sandbar or the river bank. One of the highlights of each trip down the river is the stop at the Haylford Wallace Ranch. Mrs. Wallace always manages to have her pitcher of kielbasa ready when she sees canoers come around the corner. What a peaceful view you can enjoy as you sit and visit!

There's just one thing that keeps the canoeing trips from being 100% relaxing. This great free country of ours has sold the Wallace's and approximately 30 other families along the Calamus that they are no longer free to live in the place they call home, and aren't free to keep the land they have loved for years. I wonder how many business people in Ord would cheerfully give up their home and business and move away from their lifetime friends and relatives.

We haven't heard of a logical reason for the North Loup Project yet, and don't think we will. The U.S. Geological Survey recorder well, which is east of us, shows a rise of over six feet in the last five years. That really shows we're running out of water, doesn't it. Good thing we have the Valley with an abundant underground water supply, and some of the best farmland in Nebraska - much of it will be tore up for canals and laterals in our area.

Why does the government pay farmers to not raise so much grain, and then turn around and try to sell us on an idea of a project to raise our yield. To me that sounds like double trouble for the taxpayer, farmers, and the consumer.

Thank you Mr. and Mrs. Wallace for all your time and hospitality. We hope our visits can be many more. We won't give up, Sincerely, Mike and Susan Rice

CAROL'S CORNER by carol leggett

A GOOD SIGN . . . Do you ever wonder about the ones who create today's bumper stickers and other signs that we see posted here and there? They are witty ones that's for sure.

I saw a sign in a city candy shop which read "Here Comes De Fudge" and in a grocery store there is one saying "Say it with flour."

A store which features low calorie foods calls itself The Safe Weight Store and a traffic slogan warns to "Drive safely and avoid the mourning after."

The words "No deposit, no return" popular on soda bottles, are also used by a bank. In a machine shop: "Don't try to steal this clock. Our employees are watching it" causes some conversation as does the poster in a new car showroom: "Don't knock used cars . . . they knock themselves."

How about the one on a girde display: "Everybody cheats a little" or another on the back of a jalopy which suggests "Help stamp out license plates . . . go to prison."

Once seen pinned to a church bulletin board was this message: "We have a long-praying record" and on an employee bulletin board: "In case of fire, flee the building with the same reckless abandon that occurs each day at quitting time."

Somewhere there is a tow truck carrying the advice "Drive with care, life has no spare; and on a post office wall: "To each his zone."

The bumper stickers come in all versions. One such message reads "Avoid home accidents . . . take your pill"; another warns "Not so close . . . I'm not that kind of a car" while still another one hopes you "Have a nice forever."

But one I especially like asks simply "What on earth are you doing for heaven's sake?"

Before people began dining for home, Mrs. Oscar Bredthauer, Jr., said, "May The Good Lord Bless and Keep You" as a closing benediction for the day.

United Methodist Women were in charge of the kitchen duties for the afternoon and evening with Mrs. Orel Koelling Chairwoman. Others helping were Mrs. Maynard Schude, Mrs. Richard Peterson, Mrs. Kent Hornickel, Mrs. Gordon Foth, Mrs. Paul Burnwood, Ramona Luoma, Mrs. Bob Edwards and Mrs. Barney Wegener.

Golda Cook and Harry Foth were married at the home of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cook in Mira Valley, Aug. 16, 1928, with her uncle, Rev. Fred Cook, officiating. Their attendants were her cousin Irma Lenz (now Mrs. Alfred Burson) and Harold Schmidt. Both were present for Sunday's event.

Mrs. Dennis Koelling favored the guests with a vocal solo as she accompanied herself on the piano during the afternoon.

There were 16 children in the family of John Kokes Sr., long time Valley County resident. Thirteen of them came back home to enjoy kinship and share fond memories. For some it had been more than 20 years since they had visited Ord and the family farm.

Out of state guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schmidt, Webster, WI; Mr. and Mrs. Barney Wegener, St. Joseph, MO; Rev. and Mrs. Peter Ackerman, Peter, Joe and Cheryl, Hazen, ND; Rev. and Mrs. Clive Cook and Joyce, Springfield, IA; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Koelling, Brice

The old family farm house no longer is there, but there was fond memory of the modern ranch style home of John and Clara Kokes. Fried chicken, home grown tomatoes and cucumbers, Cetak wieners, and homemade ice cream abounded. John's wife, Clara got a first hand feel for what it must have been like cooking for a large family.

Friday night family, friends and neighbors enjoyed a home style barbecue of beef and pork. Gene Augustyn did the honors of cooking the meat. A highlight of the evening was a Mass celebrated by Rev. Stanley Gorak and Rev. Paul Wachrie of Ravenna in the backyard of the Kokes farm.

It was a time for recalling many memories of growing up in a big family. Like gathering around the huge dining room table for daily meals. The overflow always had to sit in the kitchen. John remembers, "You knew better than to come late for a meal."

Mrs. Bob Sights commented, "I really didn't appreciate our big family till we spread out all over the country." And that they agree. They now live in eight different states: California, Georgia, Montana, Nebraska, Idaho, Oregon, Florida and Washington.

This was the third family reunion the Kokes clan has had in the past seven years. The first one was held in 1971 at Long Beach, Washington. In 1976, the clan traveled to Atlanta, Georgia.

One of the family said he wondered why they hadn't started the reunions years ago. Judging from the success rate of the last three, they'll easily make up for lost time.

The Floyd Petersons were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bartunek in St. Paul last week.

Nebraska Football Team Opens 1978 Season

Tom Osborne's Nebraska Cornhuskers opened the 1978 collegiate football campaign Sunday, Aug. 13 as the Huskers go through the annual ritual of football Photo Day on Memorial Stadium's AstroTurf.

Then, on Monday, Aug. 14, the Huskers will commence two-a-day practices without pads and start going full tilt on Friday, Aug. 18 with two-a-days in pads. Nebraska's first game of the current season is Sept. 2 at Birmingham against the highly regarded Crimson Tide of Alabama.

Osborne is entering his sixth season at the Husker helm with a 46-13-2 (.770) mark, which ties him to the Tide's Paul "Bear" Bryant for fifth place on the NCAA list of winningest active college coaches.

"We expect to be a better football team than what we were last year," Osborne said. "Offensively our skill people are among the best we've had and I hope that means putting a lot of points on the board. Defensively, we should be better throughout, with almost all of our linemen and linebackers returning, along with a lot of experience in the secondary."

Offensively, the Huskers return 21 lettermen, including six starters from last year's club that was 9-3 overall, tied for second in the Big 8 and Liberty champions, defeating North Carolina 21-17 in the Memphis classic.

Leading the offensive attack will be running backs, junior I. M. Hipp (6-0, 200) and senior Rick Berns (6-2, 215). Hipp, a 1977 UPI second team All-America choice and a unanimous first team All Big 8 selection as an I-back, gained 1,353 yards last season for a new Husker rushing record. Berns, who enters 1978 as the Huskers starting fullback, gained 700 yards last season (as I-back) and is the Cornhuskers' seventh leading career rusher (1,672 yards) and ninth best all time scorer (126 points).

"We have a very tough schedule, opening with Alabama, a school that I'm sure will be ranked either No. 1 or 2 in the country when we play them," Osborne said. "California and Indiana are also going to be tough. In the Big 8, we have Kansas, Oklahoma State, Oklahoma and Missouri at home, which is a plus, but we're at Iowa State, Colorado and Kansas, and those are always tough places to play. I think we will be better, but of course it's going to take a lot of hard work and a little bit of luck for us to prove it."

Nebraska's other returning offensive starters are senior left tackle Kelvin Clark (6-4, 275), right guard Steve Lindquist (6-6, 250), junior split end-punter Tim Smith (6-3, 194) and senior quarterback Tom Sorley (6-2, 200).

Defensively, Nebraska returns 14 lettermen, including seven starters from the '77 club that was ranked third in total defense in the Big 8.

Leading the Blackshirts will be seniors, left end George Andrews (6-4, 223), weakside linebacker Lee Kunz (6-3, 206) and monster Jim Pilen (6-0, 193).

Andrews, a three-year starter, in 1977 earned AP Honorable Mention All Big 8 honors and first team Academic All Big 8. Kunz, who last year earned AP Honorable Mention All America and first team Academic All Big 8, set two Nebraska defensive records last season, most assisted tackles (102) and total tackles (159). Pilen, who was named the ABC-TV Defensive Player of the Game for his two pass interceptions in the Huskers' 31-24 win over Alabama last season, was a first team All Big 8 selection in 1977.

Nebraska's other returning defensive starters are junior left tackle Rod Horn (6-5, 259), junior middle guard Kerry Weinmaster (6-0, 207), senior right tackle Randy Poeschl (6-8, 270) and junior linebacker Tom Vering (6-2, 205).

The Huskers kicking game should be strong, according to Osborne, as senior kicker Billy Todd (6-1, 190) and punter-split end Smith return. Todd was the Cornhuskers leading scorer last year with 67 points and he also set the NU record for most field goals in a season (12) and tied the mark for the longest field goal (55 yards). Smith in '77 had a punting average of 40.8.

Questions

Q - What about city and state owned properties?
A - They pay the costs if they're abutting property owners.
Q - Is the cost added to our taxes?
A - It's a special assessment handled by the Courthouse and can be paid all at once or over the 15 years.
Q - What happens if the driveway or off-street parking is not paved?
A - The pavement will be levelled to meet the drive and no curbing will be placed where driveways or off-street parking is in existence.
Q - What is the cost of curbing and guttering alone?
A - Recent work at Central City showed them paying $1.60 of their $22 front foot cost for the curbing and guttering.
Q - What if the city has to cut into a paved street for work on utility lines?
A - That is the city utility's expense.
Q - What about the street grade if the water is now running down only one side of the street?
A - The engineers will investigate and advise required work at the time and it will be corrected if necessary.
Q - I've heard I pay for my neighbor's if I live near an intersection. Is that right?
A - Charges are assessed on a percentage basis back 150 feet from a corner. State law provides a percentage formula whereby no one pays more than 100 percent of their assessed benefit.
Q - What about new developments?
A - A new city statute provides that any new addition must be paved.
Q - Central City's cost was $22 per front foot. How does Ord figure differently?
A - Required work, width of streets and size of a project all are part of the contractor's bid price. Therefore no one will know, for sure, until the bids are received. Central City may have 32-foot streets.

Q - Will the city upgrade their sewer system?
A - They will. (See accompanying story.)
Q - What about alleys?
A - Any cost for alleys is the city's responsibility.
Q - Can't the work be paid for by Federal grants?
A - There are no grants available at this time, and not known if there will be in the future.
Q - What about fixed income people - those on Social Security?
A - We (the city) sympathize with their plight, but that's their responsibility.

Carl Lee Dies In California

Word has been received from Fresno, CA, telling of the death of Carl Lee. Carl was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee and formerly lived near North Loup. Carl and his wife drove to North Loup in late May and with other members of his family attended the gathering of North Loup Alumni in Ord. He had suffered from a heart condition for some time and died on August 10, 1978.

Chapel Rites for Berenice Cornell

Funeral services were Monday for Berenice Cynthia Cornell who died August 11, 1978 at the Valley County Hospital after a lingering illness. She was 74.
The Rev. Earl Reed officiated at the 1 p.m. rites at the Ord Memorial Chapel. Mrs. Sharon Fuss sang "Lead Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me", accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Shirley Karre. Pallbearers were Leon Bresley, Lyle Manchester, Randy Adamek, Rolland Hansen, Harvey Thomsen, James Meese Jr. Interment was in Ord City Cemetery with Ord Memorial Chapel in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Cornell was born February 24, 1904 in Valley County, the daughter of Elmer and Cynthia Rasette King. She received her education in rural schools and graduated from North Loup and was a 1924 graduate of Ord High School. She then taught the same rural school District #18 for two years.

On October 29, 1944 she was united in marriage to Murray Cornell at North Loup. After marriage they made their home at North Loup. Mr. Cornell preceded her in death in 1958 after which she moved to Ord to make her home more recently at Parkview Village. While making her home in Ord she was a member of the Bethel Baptist Church.

Survivors include one half sister, Mrs. Lena Ravles, Meola, IA; one nephew, Melvin Cornell, Friend; two stepdaughters, Mrs. Sylvia Downs, Deale, MD and Mrs. Myrtle Kapke, Livingston, TX; one sister-in-law, Mrs. Florence (Cummings) King of North Loup; five step-grandchildren together with numerous nephews and nieces.

Preceding her in death beside her husband were her parents and one brother.

Flooded Basements

Ord has only one storm sewer, it was stated at the meeting Thursday. That is under 14th Street where the new four-lane highway has been poured. For years the city has hoped to run a pipe to enter the sanitary sewer system. With more and more development and fewer areas to handle run-off, the sanitary sewer has failed to handle the heavy flow and it has flooded residential and business's basements. Threatened with legal action by unhappy residents, the city has closed off the sanitary sewer system to storm run-off.
To keep from flooding streets, the city must now turn to a storm sewer system to get the run-off out of the residential and business districts. With this necessity came the two storm sewer districts which were studied by the council after the street improvement district hearings Thursday.

Reasoning

Preferring not to tear up paved streets, the city chose to get storm sewers installed prior to paving. With the necessary work on the sewers, the city had hoped to combine paving and get much lower bid prices for the package.

Also, according to city reasoning, the run-off problem is part of the reason the oiled streets won't last. By creating better run-off with paved and guttered streets, water could be channeled to the new storm sewer system relieving many of the existing problems from the present antiquated system.
Two additional minor storm sewers—one from N to M Streets on Westridge Drive in front of the Valley County Hospital, and the other from the Assembly of God Church to S Street in Sunrise Addition—are part of the new storm sewer district plan. These will both relieve run-off in those areas. Both of these storm sewer districts will be completed prior to the cementing of streets.

Inconvenience

Largest of the storm sewers will be the L Street segment, from 20th Street east down to Street to the railroad tracks. Six blocks of this is State Highway 11 right through Ord's business district. Great Plains' planners thought this could be accomplished with a minimum of inconvenience to businesses along the route, but admitted there would be construction work and some problems. This segment of storm sewer will run under the Broadway Manufacturing of Highway 11. It will be the state responsibility, according to Mayor Boleson.

The O Street storm sewer, from 19th Street to 14th Street, is routed through three blocks of already-paved streets. To avoid tearing up the streets already in existence, this segment of storm sewer will be installed in city right-of-way along abutting properties.

City's Share
By the 10 p.m. adjournment, councilmen had created an estimated $500,000 of paving, curb and gutter work, and storm sewers. Of the total approved, about $200,000 will be raised through the sale of general obligation bonds, while the remaining $300,000 will be

Services at Ord For Leo Long, 85

Leo Lester Long, 85, a life long resident of near Ord, died August 11, 1978 at the Valley County Hospital.
Mr. Long was born August 3, 1893 at Ord, the son of William Dunmire and Phoebe Electa Burnham Long. He attended the Ord Public School. On November 15, 1915 he was united in marriage to Lea Patrick. After marriage they were engaged in farming one mile east of Ord until 1949 when they moved to Ord to make their home.
Leo was actively engaged in feeding livestock and was honored by the Omaha Livestock market as a continuous shipper for 30 years. He was also honored as a 100 year pioneer family, the award given by the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha. Being also interested in irrigation, he served as secretary for the North Loup Irrigation Board of Directors for 32 years.

He was a member of the United Methodist Church for more than 50 years and was a member of the Ord Lodge #103 AF & AM and Mizpah Chapter #56 Order of the Eastern Star. He had also served as member of the District #5 school board.

Survivors include his wife, Lea; two daughters, Mrs. Marilyn Scovcroft, Palo Alto, CA and Mrs. Norma Remington of Ord; four grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Ellen Tomovick, White Wood, SD. Preceding him in death were his parents, three brothers and five sisters.

Funeral services were held Monday, August 14, a.m. at the Ord Memorial Chapel with Rev. Charles Moore officiating, assisted by Rev. Earl Reed. Mrs. Charlene Schauer and Eldon Mulligan sang "Sweet Hour of Prayer" and "How Great Thou Art" accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Elsie Furtak. Pallbearers were Carson Rogers, Dean Stephens, Bob Timmerman, Darrell Noll, Elwin Johnson, Jay Nelson. Honorary pallbearers were members of the Ord Lodge #103 AF & AM. Interment was in Ord City Cemetery with Ord Memorial Chapel in charge of arrangements.

The prayer group met Monday afternoon with Mrs. Martha Jackson, there were seven attending.

Dr. and Mrs. Duane Kavorik and son were Thursday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bodyfield.

assessible to property owners in the new street improvement districts.

Councilmen were still discussing, at adjournment, their hopes of adding quickly to the formation of new paving districts in hopes of enlarging the bid package and attractiveness for such a project before bids were advertised in the fall for a bid letting before year's end.

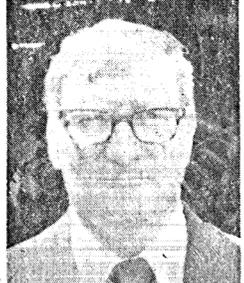

During the earlier hearings on the Street Improvement Districts, maintenance of existing streets, winter snow removal, opening of new streets, new housing developments, and paving the entire city all came up for discussion with the city promising to do what they could.

The city's mill levy for the coming year is just over 21 mills with a limit of 30 mills the city can tax. After the meeting consideration was given to a full-city paving project and it was revealed the bonded indebtedness would not surpass the legal limit.

"But," Mayor Boleson told the Quiz, "such a full scale undertaking would put everyone at or near the maximum of 30 mills for the coming years. I'd rather spread the paving out over seven or eight years, making it easier on everyone, and not be at the limit."

Marshall Engineers Resume Skylab Work

Five Marshall Space Flight Center Engineers have returned to Houston to join controllers trying to stop the Skylab Space station from rolling out of Earth orbit.

Departing for Johnson Space Flight Center were Dr. Herman Thomson, William B. Chubb, Robert E. Kapustka, Bill M. Adair and John R. Glaese. They are expected to stay about a week at the Texas command center.

The team returned from Houston about three weeks ago from a similar stay that resulted in a successful change in the station's orbital position which scientists believed would slow the decay of its orbit. The craft has now shifted back to an unfavorable position according to spokesmen for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

NASA spokesman Joe Jones said the team had been working with Houston controllers via telephone while simulating possible solutions to the problems on Marshall computers. Other team members will continue those simulations.

Skylab is in orbit about 240 miles above the Earth and has been rolling at about two revolutions per hour.

Storage Facility Loans Increasing

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's loan program to help farmers build on farm storage is running more than double that in any full year since the program began in 1949, Secretary Bob Bergland said last week.

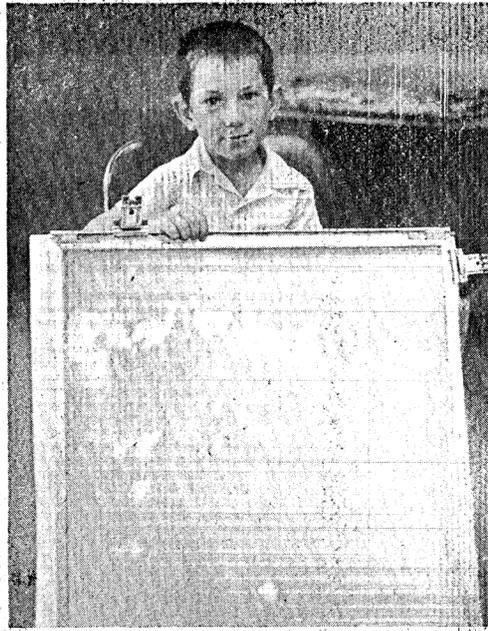

The amount loaned in the first nine months of fiscal year 1978 equals over one-third of the amount loaned during the first 29 years of the program, Bergland said.

The $419.7 million loaned to farmers from October 1977 through June 1978 was used to build 47,975 new storage facilities with a storage capacity of 491.2 million bushels. In all fiscal year 1977, producers took out 25,705 loans for $156.9 million and storage capacity of 220.1 million bushels.

Since the program began, over $1.5 billion has been loaned to farmers to build over 2 billion bushels of on-farm storage. As of June 1978, outstanding loans totaled $601.9 million compared with $140.2 million outstanding in June 1977. Most loans now outstanding were made in the last eighteen months.

Liberalization of farm facility loan provisions since spring 1977 has stimulated this increase in program activity and has helped achieve the goals of the farmer-owned grain reserve program, according to Bergland. The Secretary encouraged farmers to continue to make use of the program as a valuable means of increasing their marketing flexibility.

Under the program, eligible producers may borrow up to 85

HOPPERS NOT PARTICULAR — Richard Bilka, farming in Dist. 32 near the Polish Church west of Ord, brought in the removable screen from his storm door, pictured above. Young Wayne Bilka, pictured, shows how the grasshoppers even ate the screen — leaving large holes in it. The screen is not the wire mesh once used, but a plastic material evidently delectable to hoppers. Bilka reported he sprayed along the roadsides and seemingly has halted the hoppers, but they've done some damage to outer edges of his corn and are thick in the pastures.

Loop Lines By Richard Beran
Lower Loop Natural Resources District

The publication UNL News, Business in Nebraska, gives us some insight into the farm real estate prices in Nebraska.

"A look at the historical index of average value per acre of farmland in Nebraska reveals that following the brief land boom after World War I and the lengthy period of decline which continued through the 1930s, a steady upward trend began and has continued for several decades. Since the early 1940s, farmland has increased in value largely uninterrupted. It should be noted, however, that the rate of increase was fairly moderate until the 1970s. Most likely, this reflects a fairly close relationship of farmland values to farm income potential and the gradual increase in average farm size.

"Obviously, the most dramatic climb has occurred within the last five to six years. Here in Nebraska, land values were rising at a phenomenal rate. In one period, March, 1975 to March, 1976, Nebraska led the nation with a 26 percent increase. Historically, there was no precedent for this over-record time-certainly not in terms of absolute dollar magnitude, but neither in terms of percentage change.

"Such increases are explained, in large part, by the farm income bubble of 1973 and 1974. Not only were commodity prices far above previous levels, but there was a hint of permanency to this short-run situation as the world food situation came into focus. A lagged "bullish" response was inevitable from farmer buyers — the major buyer group in the farmland market. Added to this, a heightened interest in center pivot irrigation development and the general prevailing inflationary psychology provided the makings for a classic case of "land boom" conditions.

"Over recent months, however, there is evidence of a minor turnabout. Most recently released USDA data for Feb. 1, 1978, indicate a four percent decline in the average value of Nebraska farmland over that of a year ago. Relative to the rest of the nation, Nebraska achieved the dubious distinction of being the only state to show a decline in real estate value over that time period.

"On surface, the recent decline appears as quite a contrast, but it must be placed in proper perspective. Even with this decline over the last twelve to fifteen months, the average value of Nebraska farmland is still more than double what it was just five years ago.

"A brief look at the three major classes of land for which USDA data are available may be helpful in perceiving the trends more clearly. Irrigated land experienced the largest percent increase in recent periods, even though the relatively high absolute value of that land may have been a factor in pricing some potential buyers out of the market. Several summers of drought conditions may have placed a short-run premium on irrigated land. The most recent twelve-month period showed a six percent decline as drought conditions broke and cash grain prices remained depressed. Grazing land also was off six percent as the cattle market situation remained unfavorable. Dryland cropland appears to have remained the most stable.

State, Bureau Share In Dam Safety Plans

The State of Nebraska will participate with the Bureau of Reclamation in all safety-related aspects of dam and reservoir planning, design, construction, operation and maintenance in the State, according to Joe D. Hall, Regional Director for the Bureau's Lower Missouri Region in Denver.

The agreement was reached in a "Memorandum of Understanding" between the State and the Bureau.

The memorandum states that the State and Bureau meet at least once a year to discuss safety-related aspects of Reclamation dams. In addition, the State will report on aspects of non-federal dams which could affect Reclamation dams.

Reclamation has also agreed to provide all applicable information to the State regarding safety of storage dams. The State may also observe construction activity of Reclamation dams, participate fully in periodic field inspections, and review instrumentation data of existing Reclamation dams in the State. The memorandum includes additional cooperative efforts related to the safety of dams in Nebraska.

"By encouraging their participation in the review process, we do not relinquish our responsibility for the safety of the dams we construct," said Reclamation Commissioner R. Keith Higginson. Last year, when he invited all state governments to participate in safety reviews.

"We merely provide for the involvement of State personnel to ensure further the safety of our structures," the Commissioner said.

There are currently nine major Bureau dams operating in Nebraska. Most are in the western part of the State, including Sherman, Merritt, Box Butte, Medicine Creek, Red Willow, Trenton, Ender, Lake Alice, and Lake Minatare.

A History Lesson

A special newsletter from the Nebraska State School Boards Association dated July 31, 1978, and circulated to Nebraska's weekly newspapers begins:

"If all the voters in Nebraska could be made to understand exactly how the L.I.D. amendment would operate, it is doubtful that the proposed amendment would be adopted."

The special newsletter then goes into a brief explanation of how "the L.I.D. amendment has been 'sold' as a property-tax-relief measure. In fact," the letter continues, "its effect would be just the opposite. It would virtually guarantee property-tax increases while slowly strangling public education and local government."

The letter then purports to explain "why" it would increase property taxes . . . though we're not sure, after reading it over several times, that we understand "why" property taxes would necessarily increase.

But the sketchy explanation is followed by this statement: "By allowing a five percent annual budget increase, the L.I.D. amendment would virtually guarantee that increase — compounded. That would mean a budget increase of 62.89% in ten years. With property-tax dollars replacing federal dollars (if grants are accepted, they mean) the increase could easily amount to more than 100% in ten years."

Knowing the whopping increases in the Ord School budget, we wondered what might have happened in the last ten years. So we turned back the pages of time and found, in 1968, a proposed budget of $565,270. The proposed budget for Ord, this year, was $1,383,650 — a giant 244% increase in the last ten years right here in District 5 of Valley County!

So why wouldn't voters like to place a L.I.D. on spending? — KEL

Golcha!

For the past few years we've cussed and swatted and swatted and cussed. Whatever the city was doing, they didn't seem to be killing any mosquitoes.

This year the weather has allowed us more time outside — and we've noticed fewer mosquitoes.

Thanking Street Commissioner Emil Penas, last week, we asked what he was doing. "We got a new machine," Emil said, "and I think it's finally doing the job."

He went on to explain that the new equipment breaks chemicals used into a finer spray. "It's like a shotgun shell," Emil said. "This breaks it up into finer beads — like using a seven-chill shell instead of a double-O buckshot. You've got a better chance of getting 'em."

We were interested. But the point is, they ARE holding down the mosquito problem in a year that could have been a nightmare for outsiders.

Thanks often go a long way. It might not hurt to remind the city workers and the councilmen that there ARE improvements — and they're noticeable. — KEL

Something Different

Shun li

We are continually surprised, in southern California. For instance, one person out of eight is a retiree. Which simply interpreted, means that many citizens come to San Diego for peace, quiet and sun in their "golden" or "later" or "advancing" or "senior" years.

And along came Proposition 13. It fooled so many! They heard that mystic phrase "cut taxes" — and voted wrong.

For — when you take off taxes one place — they are going to pop up somewhere else! Where?

Our city, our state, our government MUST have operating capital. We aren't going to get any manna from heaven!

Pay your own way. That's our manner of life in the U.S. So — abruptly — after election —

Numbers of city employees received dismissal notices. So did firemen. So did police. So did city clerks, garbage men, so very many employees.

School funding tightened or vanished. Numbers of teachers were released, and remaining teachers were loaded up. Some of all this may have been good — but 70 or 100 coaches were assigned another period of teaching — making five per day.

And making them furious. They "gave notice". So — no freshmen sport programs for hosts of California schools.

Adult education programs were chopped out. So were programs for retarded. So were summer school courses.

Bus schedules were eliminated — hard on the elderly. Rents did NOT go down: They went UP. This abused the poor, and the minorities. Housing is extremely tight here. This is a boom town.

Building plans are being abandoned. Citizens are having to cut back on planned home improvements. Some of them are having to sell. Some of them are sadly moving away. For rents are going up like crazy.

Diagnostic Labs Start Charging for Services

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
Lincoln — Beginning Sept. 1, the veterinary diagnostic laboratories of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources will charge fees for diagnostic services.

The reason is that the University of Nebraska Board of Regents stipulated last spring that fees must be charged. Dr. Earl Dickinson, head of the department, said the fee schedule will cover most tests performed by the laboratories. An exception until Sept. 1, 1979, will be serum and urine tests for pseudotuberculosis, a disease that is communicable between animals and humans, additional cases for teaching and research purposes or other special requests.

There is another provision specifying that no charge of diagnostic procedures involving problems of public health significance.

Emphasizes Public Relations
The Nebraska Liquor Control Commission recently held several meetings of its inspectors to emphasize the educational and public relations aspects of their jobs.

But Terry Micek, commission executive director, said the meetings were not to be interpreted as a "de-emphasis on law enforcement."

He said the agents were told to visit establishments where problems might have been occurring to advise the license holders how to avoid the problems.

That's a better approach, he said, than having the inspectors sit outside waiting for violations to occur and then citing the licenses.

Commission Chairman Phil Weaver of Falls City said some complaints had been received about agents taking what appeared to be a heavy-handed enforcement attitude.

Under policy changes Micek recommended, one stating agents could utilize lengthy stenokeys of liquor establishments only as a last resort.

At this writing, Micek was also proposing the elimination of the position of administrator of field activities, including law enforcement. He said the 10 percent spending increase limit the governor has mandated for all agencies means the commission is going to have to cut back on some of its activities.

Income Is Up
State Tax Commissioner William Peters reported preliminary sales tax figures for May indicated a growth rate of 7.6 percent over the same month last year.

Peters said fiscal year-to-date growth was 17 percent. The comparable growth rate for May of last year was five percent, he said.

Individual income tax revenues in May rose 12.6 percent, down from the 16.1 percent during the same month a year earlier.

Corporate income tax revenue in May rose an estimated 9.3 percent, and total miscellaneous general fund taxes generated an estimated increase of more than nine percent, the tax commissioner said.

The individual income tax revenue of $10.3 million was almost $1 million more than was paid into the state treasury during the same month in 1977.

Library cards are no longer free — now they are to cost $61. John says soon they'll charge us a fee to enter the court-house!

And we await news of just how they will substitute some other charge in place of the taxes that Prop. 13 cut. Someone must pay.

I know government is fat. Bureaus are overstaffed. Fees are exorbitant. So many charges are ridiculous.

I'd like a lot of these stupid offices and regulations cut, I certainly know they need it.

But before you go haywire on cutting back — be sure you perceive the consequence!

They are going to hurt. Meantime we sit on the beach (some lifeguards are fired: so they are fewer) watch the swimmers, the surfers, the waders, the sand-castle builders, the little tads trying the water; it is all great fun. A lovely country: but what comes next? — Irma

FARWELL, NEBRASKA

Geranium Joe Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
It's been so hot out here in the country till I have stuck pretty close to the front porch these recent days. Being around the house has given me time for serious research in the state of the human condition. I have known that with practice a feller can whistle as good on the inhale as the exhale, but I never took note before that the old lady can talk the same way. Not counting her run on fresh gossip and fresh stuff from the garden she's after me to help her put up. I've also been bothered by what I've been reading in the papers.

I've learned, fer instanc, that we're all going to the dogs. I saw this piece where vets now are specialist, like people doctors, and the busiest of 'em is them that work on dogs. I think that's what the item called the "mental cripples," and it went on to talk about pets as being worried, restless, dangerous, jealous and all the things people are.

Actual, Mister Editor, that was what stuck in my mind about the piece. This one big psychiatrist said 10 percent of his patients inherit their problems and the rest catch them from their owners. He said people is the biggest danger in a dog's life. They not only are how they're treated, but he claimed they are members of his human family.

This one specialist says he sets up at least one therapy session a week with his most neurotic patients, and he has found that the dogs respond better if members of his human family ain't around. He also said dogs that hang around a bunch of rough dogs go bad, and that it's special important to show love to dogs in the early weeks of their lives.

It sounds like anybody that can raise children can be trusted to do right by a dog, but you never can be sure. I saw a while back where this boy had used his folks for "parent malpractice" or some such. Maybe the lawyer the kid got to take his case was a bird hunter that "knows" what it means to bring a boy up right. You got to work early and long with a hunting dog, if he's going to be worth a cuss when he's grown, and I reckon we wouldn't be far off using that rule fer boys.

Another piece that reminded me how far people are going in some direction was out of England, where they recent had fish skin week. The Government ask everybody to leave fish skins, heads, bad meat out in the sun where it could get ripe and draw flies. It seems they got research on a certain kind of fly going on over there, and they need to get 'em out in the open where they could catch 'em.

At any rate, them scientists can come over here and just walk down the highway. They're sure to find fish skins somewhere under all them drink cups and hamburger wrappers. I didn't know we were studying flies, just drawing 'em, but I agree future scientists can tell all they need to know about us by studying the age and depth of our beer cans along the road.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

Rollbacks Approved
The Nebraska Board of Equalization has given 3-2 approval to rolling back property valuations in 39 counties and to raising them in 14 in an effort to achieve statewide equalization.

Rollbacks Approved
The Nebraska Board of Equalization has given 3-2 approval to rolling back property valuations in 39 counties and to raising them in 14 in an effort to achieve statewide equalization.

Yoting with the majority were Gov. J. J. Exon, State Tax Commissioner William Peters and State Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson. Secretary of State Allen Beermann and State Treasurer Frank Marsh voted in opposition to the proposal.

The board rejected on a 3-2 vote a suggestion by Beermann that 32 counties be left with valuations that were tentatively agreed to by the board during an earlier meeting.

Beermann also wanted to increase values in 61 counties, arguing earlier proposed adjustments were incomplete because 36 counties had failed to make or use recent appraisal or reappraisals as required by law.

But Exon responded that the "critical matter" facing the board was fairness and equity for the taxpayers. He also noted most county spokesmen at valuation hearings agreed with what the board proposed to do.

Peters did receive approval to have Brown, Cheyenne, Kimball and Otoe counties removed from the list of 43 for which rollbacks had been approved several weeks earlier.

Representatives of those four counties had urged the board not to tamper with their valuations because they felt actions they had taken in arriving at their values would help them achieve equalization with surrounding counties.

Otoe County had tentatively been given a 17.6 percent reduction. Cheyenne County had been decreased 15.6 percent, and Kimball and Brown counties 30 percent.

loneliness

Several weeks ago I quickly jotted a few words on a scrap of paper, thinking some day I'd use them for a column. I do this quite frequently—make notes to myself.

The words I'd written may not make a lot of sense to others. This is what I wrote: "Alone is where I'd rather be."

Sitting quietly on our backyard patio last night, I considered those words and the world around me.

It was quite late and most of the neighborhood was in bed. Only an occasional car passed on the adjoining street in front of the swimming pool.

Some briquettes still glowed their red warmth in the grill nearby and a cool breeze from the northeast was rustling the treetops.

A few wisps of clouds moved out of the southeast into the wind, illuminated by the three-quarter moon hidden from view to the south of the house.

It was the end of a weekend and nearly the dawning of new week. Leaning back my head, I watched the stars . . . and found the Big Dipper . . . tried to remember where the Little Dipper was located. The nights I'd spent in Boy Scouts, studying the stars, went for naught. I couldn't remember any of the other constellations.

My gaze turned downward and I watched a pair of headlights moving slowly through the park. When they had passed, my mind again returned to where I was and my thoughts.

"Would you really rather be alone?" I pondered. "Or is it just that you need the alone time to offset the hustle and bustle of daily living."

I thought it was probably the latter—I needed the aloneness as much as I needed people. For you can get very involved with people and their problems in newspapering, as you can in many jobs.

Sometimes, I thought, we don't leave time for ourselves. We get crowded out of our own lives, simply by allowing others to crowd us.

People seek in others what they lack in themselves. And without space in our lives—time to discover who WE are—we tend to lose that all-important individuality . . . that thing that is "us."

Allow yourself a portion of each day. It's the most unselfish thing you can do. Others will benefit.

PERFECTION (pär-fek'shan) n. "The act or process of perfecting." That's Mr. Webster's definition. We think that's what we've done with our HI-PLAINS PERFECTION storage and drying bins. We've listened to thousands of farmers and ranchers over the years tell us about the features they like best in metal bins. We compiled all these good ideas and took them to a respected builder, the Chicago Eastern Corporation. They built them to YOUR specifications. Why shouldn't the HI-PLAINS PERFECTION bin be the best on the market? After all, you know what you want in a quality bin. Holdrege Seed and Farm Supply just put it all together for you! Come To Church

READ JOHN 14:1-7
(John 14:1 TEV)
"You know the way that leads to the place where I am going."
We were coming back from an all-day hike in China's Lushan Range. Coming home later than planned, we tried a shortcut, but chose a trail that took us miles out of our way. Darkness overtook us on a contour path on steep hillsides.
Suddenly a man called from a small village down ahead, "Danger! Stand still!" Asked what kind of danger, he called back, "Stand still. I'll come and show you the way." So we stood and watched his lantern while he made a long circuit and came up the hill behind us.
So we waited, and then followed him back the way he had come. As we passed through his village, children came running out, asking, "Did those people fall down?" He replied, "No, I showed them the way." (On another hike we saw that the mountainside had been cut away where we would have gone in the dark.)
Our guide went several miles with us, to a familiar road near our home. When we offered to pay him, he refused, saying, "No, I just wanted to show you the safe way."
PRAYER: Forgive us, Lord, when we try the wrong shortcuts. Help us to wait for Thy leading, to follow Thee, and then to show others the way. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
Whether His direction is to stand still, to turn back, or to go forward, let us follow Jesus.

Arcadia Busy With Preparations for Fall Festival '78

All of Arcadia is busy with preparations for the annual Fall Festival. The two day celebration will start Sunday, September 3 at 1:00 p.m. First day events include a greased pig contest, penny showers, a free watermelon feed and a demolition derby.

A parade at 10:30 a.m. Monday will usher in the second day of activities. Parade chairman this year is Amelia Sell. She commented there is a lot going on behind the scene, in her words, to insure that the '78 Fall Festival will be a success.

Work on the annual event starts in January, according to her. Most of the 400 plus Arcadia residents help plan, promote and put on the traditional observance. These efforts of the townspeople are coordinated by two organizations: the Arcadia Boosters Club and the local American Legion Post. Arcadia residents are in charge of the parade while Legionnaires supervise the entire festival.

This year, Legionnaire Duane Ash is the festival chairman. His demanding job is made easier by (Continued on page 8)

Activities Wednesday, August 30, will include the 2:00 p.m. parade of floats and a puppet circus theater at 7:30 p.m. Floats should start lining up at 12:30 p.m. No floats will be judged after 12:45. This year's parade theme is "Songs of Yesterday."

Other events Wednesday will include: Continuation of the horseshoe tournament at 10:00 a.m.; Street band concert at 1:00 p.m.; Stage band concert at 3:00 p.m. (Continued on page 8)

Swim Meet-Open House At New Municipal Pool Sunday

To celebrate the first season of Ord's new swimming pool, an open house was held in conjunction with the First Annual Ord Swimming Meet Sunday. On hand were members of the Ord Chamber of Commerce, officials from the State Game and Parks Commission pool, Architect Bill Schlaebitz of Clark Emerson and Associates, the City Council and pool personnel.

During ribbon cutting ceremonies, Ord Mayor Gaylord Boilesen said "A lot more went into this than most people realize." He singled out Councilman C. J. Klimek and pool managers Rod Adams and Al Cudly for a round of applause along with architect Schlaebitz.

Stevkel worked as a liaison between the city and the G and P agency.

Requests for these funds outpace their availability according to Game and Parks Commission personnel on hand Sunday. Bud Campbell, G and P First Vice President told of funds totaling $3 million and $27 million in project requests from various towns in Nebraska. "We decide," he said, "how these funds will be divided. Many requests go into the deferred file for action at a later date."

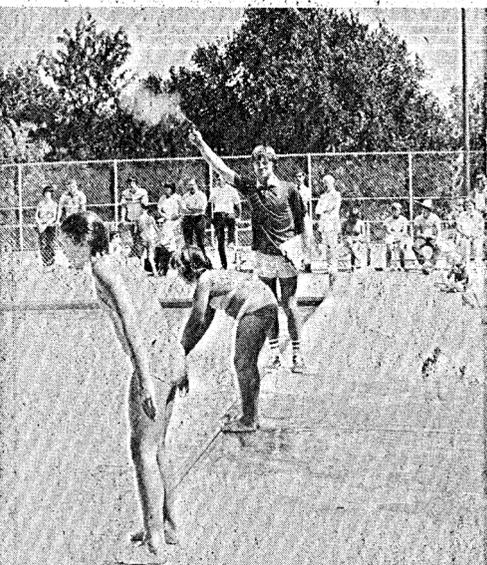

Former Commission member Ken Zimmerman from Loup City painted a similar picture. He told of there being $4 million in funds recently. At that time, the state agency had $40 million worth of funding requests on file.

Ord was notified they would get their $120,000 in funds May 13, 1977. These were for construction of the then planned new pool. It was to replace the old pool.

The old pool, located on the same site near Busse Park, closed its doors in 1977. Built 20 years earlier, it had been showing its age. Cracked cement, a faulty filtration system, and corroded shower stalls showed the pool had passed its prime.

The State Health Department was licensing the old structure on a conditional-year-to-year basis. In 1976 the City Council faced the decision of building a new pool or continuing to pour money into the then existing structure. Meetings were held, and discussions organized. Both the Ord Quiz and radio station KNLV supported their efforts.

Work started when the pool closed last summer. City crews first salvaged usable equipment and supplies. The concrete pool was razed shortly thereafter. Construction work then began and was completed in time for a June 6 opening this year. The new L-shaped pool measures 82 feet long by 18 feet wide GO! — Pool manager Rod Adams fires the starting gun to launch a race in the swim competition following ribbon cutting ceremonies Sunday.

Dughman to Head Loup Arts Group

Ron Dughman is the new president of the Loup Valley Arts Council for the 1978-79 season. Mr. Dughman was named to replace Martie Brady at the council's August meeting of the Board of Directors. Dave Sandoz was named Vice President. K. C. Broman was re-elected secretary and Don Broman was re-elected treasurer of the council. Al Isaac and Dave Sandoz were elected by the membership to three years terms on the board of directors. The board also appointed a replacement for two years for Martie Brady, who will be moving from Ord in the near future. Jeanette Peters was appointed to that term.

In her final meeting as president, Mrs. Brady discussed the exciting season scheduled by the L.V.A.C. which begins with the Nebraska Puppet Theatre's appearance in North Loup for Popcorn Days, August 30th. The Hangings Symphony will appear this October. Highlighting the 1978-79 season will be the Norman Luboff Choir appearing in Ord in February. The popular Nebraska Theatre Caravan will again come to the Valley with appearances scheduled in the Burwell and Ord schools, plus an evening performance. This is to be at the Ord High School gymnasium. Other programs on the agenda include the Neoclassic Jazz Orchestra in April, classical guitarist Neil Archer Roan will appear at the Ord Catholic church in May. (Continued on page 8)

ORD IS GROWING — Four units will soon be added to the Hillcrest Motel, if all goes as planned. Contractor Clement Lumber started work on the four new additions earlier this year. Tentative plans call for their completion sometime in September. When they are finished, Hillcrest will have 20 motel units.

$253,000 Lawsuit Against Police-Sheriff

A $253,000 law suit against the Valley County Sheriff, three Ord Police Officers and the Ord Chief of Police has been filed in U.S. District Court in Lincoln.

Marvin Timmons, Ord, filed the suit claiming Officer Terry Darnell broke his jaw and three teeth during an assault last September.

Timmons claims Sheriff Martin Sonnenfeld, Ord Police Chief John Young and Officers Calvin Thelander and Leroy Svoboda witnessed the assault and did not attempt to stop it.

The assault occurred September 22, 1977 in the L and W Service Center parking lot in Ord. The October 13, 1977 Quiz reported the incident as follows:

"According to reports, two off-duty policemen, Terry Darnell and Calvin Thelander, were checking some unusual late night activity on the L and W Service Center parking lot. They were joined by on-duty officer Leroy Svoboda. An argument with Ray Marting and Marvin Timmons prompted Officer Svoboda to call Police Chief John Young to help with the situation.

"A fight ensued and though City Attorney Greg Jensen said he wasn't sure why he was called to the scene, Sheriff Martin Sonnenfeld was also there. "Asked what caused the fight, Jensen declined further comment saying legal action may be pending. He did not elaborate.

Calvin Thelander ordered Plaintiff to take out his wallet and then knocked his wallet to the ground and Defendant Terry Darnell directed abusive and threatening language toward the Plaintiff, striking him in the face and the body and knocking him to the ground and then kicking the Plaintiff about the head and shoulders while on the ground.

"That Defendant Calvin Thelander, a police officer of the City of Ord, Defendants Leroy Svoboda, police officer in the City of Ord, Chief John Young, police chief of Ord and Sheriff Martin Sonnenfeld, Sheriff of Valley County, were present at the time officer Terry Darnell physically attacked the Plaintiff and did nothing to stop the attack on Plaintiff by officer Terry Darnell.

"That because of the attack and unlawful and forcible assault and battery by Defendant Terry Darnell, and the failure to prevent or stop the attack by Defendants, Calvin Thelander, Leroy Svoboda, John Young, and Martin Sonnenfeld, Plaintiff was injured, with his jaw broken in two places, three of his teeth knocked out, and his glasses broken, and Plaintiff has incurred the following special damages:

(a) Dr. Blaha - $793.00; (b) Dr. Schoettger - $332.00; (c) Medications - $34.80; (d) Glasses - $60.00; Total - $1,539.80.

That Plaintiff is entitled to exemplary or punitive damages against Defendants, and each of them, in the sum of $50,000.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff claims damages against Defendants, and each of them, in the sum of $51,539.80, in addition to reasonable attorney fee, and costs expended herein.

them, were in their capacities of law enforcement officers for the City of Ord, Nebraska, and Sheriff Martin Sonnenfeld, who was acting in his capacity as Sheriff of Valley County, Nebraska and that all Defendants herein were acting under color of law through the rights and powers of their offices.

That the assault and battery by Defendant Terry Darnell, unprovoked nor stopped by Defendants Calvin Thelander, Leroy Svoboda, John Young and Martin Sonnenfeld, was in violation of the Plaintiff's rights to due process of law as secured by Articles V and XIV of the Constitution of the United States.

As a result of the above premises, Plaintiff was damaged in the following particulars:

(a) Plaintiff suffered great emotional and mental pain, suffering and anguish and was humiliated and embarrassed before his friends, family and members of the community in which he resides, all because of the unlawful and unprovoked assault and battery, and has therefore been damaged in the sum of $50,000.00;

(b) Plaintiff is entitled to exemplary or punitive damages against Defendants, and each of them, in the sum of $100,000.00, in addition to reasonable attorney fee and costs expended herein.

Plaintiff is entitled to exemplary or punitive damages against the Defendants, and each of them, in the sum of $50,000.00.

It's official!!! Nebraskans will vote in November on whether they want a five percent speeding lid on local governments and mandated deposits on beer and soft drink containers.

Secretary of State Allen Beerman, Monday, stated the lid petition drive had gathered 69,573 valid signatures, a total nearly 25,000 more than the 45,130 minimum required by law.

Proponents of mandatory deposits of soft drink and beer containers won their petition victory too, but by a much narrower margin. Supporters collected 33,376 valid signatures, just 1,785 more than the 35,591 required.

Backers of both causes had until July 7 to get signatures on their petitions. These were then sent to county clerks and election commissioners for validation. About 12 percent of the lid petition signatures were ruled invalid, totaling 9,445 of the 79,018 names collected.

For the bottle bill, about 10 percent of the signers, or 3,819 of the 37,195 names gathered, were not qualified.

Ross Rasmussen, executive director of the Nebraska State School Boards Association, said opposition to the lid bill will be very localized. No massive media campaigns are planned, reportedly.

The NSSBA has long opposed the five percent speeding limit. Ord Public Schools Superintendent Dr. Bill Gogan has similar thoughts. "What we (the school board members) will do," he said "is explain what the five

CAROL'S CORNER

WHAT'S YOUR EXCUSE... The other day we were talking about excuses. They are such common things. It seems everybody has at least a dozen.

"I'm too old." "I'm too young." "I'm too uncoordinated." "I don't feel well." "I don't have enough education." "I have too much education." "I don't have enough time." "I'm just not lucky." "I'm too short." "I'm too tall." "My parents didn't love me." "My family doesn't understand me." "I'm not the right type."

"I was born on the wrong side of the tracks."

One in the group defined the word this way: "Excuses are the tools with which persons with no purpose in view build for themselves great monuments of nothing." It was hardly a definition we were expecting at that moment, but it was a good one.

What good are excuses? Most certainly, there sometimes are reasons for failure, but it is claimed that there isn't a single excuse for it. Actually, one who is good at making excuses may not be good at anything else. Have you ever known a truly successful person who was good at making excuses? Have you ever known a failure who wasn't an expert excuse-maker?

So we concluded with this: Refuse to build for yourself great monuments of nothing; instead, use the tools at hand and build for yourself. It may sound simple enough, but it isn't always easy to do... to that we all agreed.

Grace Mayo Notes 100th Birthday

The following letter from Mrs. Dale (Margaret) Halverson of Long Beach, CA, tells about the 100th birthday of her mother, Grace Mayo formerly of North Loup. Grace was born Jan. 9, 1878. Her father, Sam Fackler, had a grocery store in Ord which I, Bertha Clement, remember. Her first husband was Walter Rood, at one time publisher of the North Loup Loyalist. Margaret Rood Halverson is the only child. After Mr. Rood's death she married George Mayo. Dear thoughtful friends and relatives of Grace:

Grace Mayo... 100

We must apologize for the delay of this letter. Soon after the 100th birthday, Grace spent some time in the hospital. The Dr. termed it a "fainting spell." We tho't she had a slight stroke. However, after a series of tests, she was pronounced to be hale and hearty as a 100 year old can expect.

After her return, I was in an auto accident which resulted in the tearing of the ligaments in my ankle. About the time I was ready to zip again, Grace had another spell and was in the hospital for the same thing. As of now, she is well as can be expected.

She received congratulatory letters from President Carter and his wife, Governor Exon of Nebraska, Governor Brown of California, and Myor Clark of Long Beach. She also received a Certificate of Membership in the Nebraska Century Club. I had asked Marian (Maples) Beckman of her Alpha Z Delta girls to pass the word to those who might still be around the area. She performed a wonderful task. Grace received cards, letters, calls and flowers from 36 of the girls from all over the U.S. Grace was thrilled to hear from each one of them and recalled many incidents and laughs concerning the girls while she was Housemother.

On Sunday, before her birthday, we had a dinner for the family and close friends. My husband, Dale, our daughter, Kathy, our son, Walter, and Walter's two children, Jennifer and Chad, I, Margaret, am her only child. She had all her descendants with her.

We held Open House during that week, thinking that a large crowd on any one day would be tiring for her. About sixty people stopped by to wish her well, in spite of the rainy weather. Three of the people had been her students in North Loup over sixty years ago.

The anniversary was a real success because of all of you thoughtful people. The cards, letters, phone calls, and the remembrances of flowers. She received 185 cards, 19 long distance calls and 33 bouquets, ranging from a lovely single rose to a beautiful basket of red carnations.

Words cannot express how grateful I, as her daughter, and the rest of my family are for all of your thoughtfulness which helped to make her century mark a real celebration.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all friends and neighbors for the wonderful way they showed their kindness and love to Ronald while he had his stay in the hospital. All the acts of kindness will long be remembered by Ron and the entire family.

It's for the safety of the students," Dr. Bill Gogan explained. "The Ord Schools Superintendent mentioned the new bus conduct transportation policy. Dave Lange-Brand Inspectors Clash

David Lange gave brand inspectors and a member of the Nance County Sheriff's office a lively chase Friday, August 18. According to Dallas Glaze, Investigator for the Nebraska Brand Committee, he was called after brand inspector Dan Holloway was ordered off the David Lange farm, near Ord. Glaze watched the farm until Lange left with a truck load of cattle. He followed them until they left the brand inspection area near the Merrick-Nance County line.

Glaze then turned on his red lights, so he told the Quiz, to stop Lange. Lange kept on going. The Nance County Sheriff's Office was called for help. A deputy set up a roadblock, Lange ran it.

The deputy then drove in front of Lange to slow him down. Lange reportedly rammed the rear of the patrol car, according to Glaze, and then stopped.

Glaze asked to see Lange's truck permit and found it to be incompletely filled out, according to the investigator, with the shipment's destination omitted. On asking Lange where he was going Glaze was reportedly told "It's none of your God damn business."

Lange was placed under arrest for running the road block and for damaging the law enforcement vehicle. He was released on a $1,000 cash bond.

The cattle were put in a Fremont stock yard overnight, inspected the next day, and then returned to Lange.

Softballers Bow to Whisker-Close Losses

Whisker-close losses to Spalding and North Loup eliminated Ord's men softball team from the Greeley Invitational Slow Pitch Tournament August 18-20. Fifteen teams draw throughout the state competed in the annual event. Spalding edged Ord 8-7 in a game Friday. Ord was never ahead but twice came within one run of tying the game. In the third, Ord lagged 6-5. Spalding pulled ahead 8-5, but Ord played catch-up ball and was within one run at the close of the game.

Saturday, Ord played North Loup in a donnybrook of the double elimination tournament. Ord coach Al Hagemeier recalled his team starting with 10 men and ending the game with nine. One player, Hagemeier said, was ejected from the game. "There could have been more (thrown out of the game)," he recalled Tuesday, "but that would have handicapped us."

SIGN OF SUPPORT — Signs like this one have been seen between Ord and Arcadia and on the Ord-St. Paul route. All showed support of local farmers and ranchers for the Calamus irrigation project. Some were terse, like the one that read "Send Water". Others were more elaborate.

Coach Jim Blessen Has High Hopes For 1978 Ord High Football Season

After two years of bringing underclassmen along, Coach Jim Blessen has high hopes for the 1978 Ord Chanticleer football team. Only three seniors graduated from last year's 3-6 team, who showed steady progress and maturity, and won two of their last three games. An upset over highly rated Central City was the highlight of last year, and the young Chants finished the campaign with a win at Gottenburg.

Defensively, the Chants again return the nucleus from last year's team. Defense was the brightest spot one year ago, and Blessen again will rely heavily upon the defense. "I hope this year the offense will be able to control the ball longer, thus giving our defense more rest and less pressure," said the Ord coach. Ord will again rely on a five man front. Blessen said, "The kids are familiar with it and that means there will be less to learn in preparation for the first game at Cozad."

An extra benefit has been placed on the Ord High coaching staff. The recent resignation of basketball coach Doyle Denney leaves the Chants short one football coach. Al Rubesh and Allen Cudly will again be assisting Coach Blessen. The Chant head coach said, "Each of us is more familiar with the kids and with each other and that will be an advantage. Each coach will have to cover more ground to make up for the shortage of one coach. It appears all three coaches will be spending time with the freshmen as well as the upper classmen."

Coach Blessen is starting his second season at O.H.S., while Coach Cudly is the veteran of the staff. Coach Blessen stated that the Central Ten Conference appears to be more balanced than in recent years with Albion, Aurora, Central City and Grand Island Northwest all appearing strong. As far as the season opens at Cozad, Blessen said, "The Hymn-kers are always tough. We'll know a lot more about our football team after meeting Cozad on their field September 1."

The Chants annual soap scrimmage is set for Friday night, August 25th at 8:30 on the Ord High Field. Admission for the scrimmage is one regulation size bar of soap.

Weber's '78 Ord High Volleyball Squad to Be a Small-Quick Team

Coach Jan Weber's 1978 edition of Ord High Volleyball will feature a small and quick team in contrast to the height that was prevalent the past three seasons. The past three seasons, with a combined record of 44-13 as the Lady Chants qualified for the State Tournament all three years. Gone from those teams are Sue Sich, Wynne Adams, Jane Gogan and Christie Anderson, who all graduated last spring.

Coach Weber expects this team to spend more time on fundamentals, "but we have a lot of potential from some of the younger players if they become aggressive." Junior Barb Kittle will be the only Lady Chant taller than 5'6". Barb came along well in the late stages of the 1977 season. Also back from a year ago are Senior letter winners Rhonda Brass, Shari Fox, Vicki Mason, Pam Meese, Gloria Wetzel and Ann Gibbons. Miss Gibbons has not yet reported out for volleyball according to Coach Weber. Ann Smith is the only other incoming junior letter winner to go with Kittle. Eight other juniors and seven sophomores join the monogram winners to prepare for the coming campaign.

Assisting Coach Weber will be Angela Batenhorst, now in her second year of handling the Junior Varsity. Tom Rhodes will again coach the freshmen while Rich Cecetka will be in charge of the junior high program. Coach Weber stated, "We are most fortunate to have the quality of people we have coaching our volleyball program. Angela has done a tremendous job in just one year. Tom Rhodes is excellent at the freshmen level and both Rich and Tom do a great job of teaching fundamentals at the freshmen and junior high level. Each of our coaches is more familiar with the players and our system, and that will be an added bonus."

Coaches this year will be Jan Weber, Angie Batenhorst, Tom Rhodes and Rich Cecetka. Returning lettermen will likely include Rhonda Brass, Shari Fox, Vicki Mason, Pam Meese, Gloria Wetzel and Ann Gibbons. Barb Kittle and Ann Smith, both returning seniors, will also be back. Juniors on the spiker roster will likely include Kathy Hansen, Joy Horrickel, Vickie Kellhoff, Marcia Mason, Karen Schauer, and Sue Sevenaker, and Glenda Wetzel.

Come To Church

READ ISAIAH 55:6-11 My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, says the Lord. (Isaiah 55:8-9) The spring rains poured down, covering the ground of the low-lying orchard with two feet of water. The grower fretted and fumed. The trees had just blossomed. The water would keep away the bees. The blossoms would not get pollinated. The trees would bear no fruit. Then a frost came, a severe frost. The apple crop would have been totally wiped out — except for the water that covered the ground. The water warmed the air which in turn protected the trees. The blossoms remained intact. The cold spell ended. The water soaked into the ground to give refreshment to the trees in the month of drought that lay ahead. The bees came in abundance, pollinating the blossoms. The trees beamed loaded with apples, one of the best crops in many years. So often in life we see catastrophe ahead. God has other ideas. PRAYER: Almighty God, we thank You for Your ways are so much better than ours. Help us to trust Your perfect will.

Babbles by Bertha
 The 3 1/2 inch rain here Monday afternoon and the night following was a good one. It did bring some things that weren't so good. When my nephew, Lyle and Ruth Foth, Eileen and Kim returned home from Texas Tuesday evening they found the west wall of their basement caved in. Lightning hit the Bill Cook house. No T there now. Here a Hereford bull was hit and killed.

Neoma Brannon, wife of Homer Brannon, who is employed here, was injured in a tractor accident Thursday afternoon as they were headed for our farm. She was taken to Valley County Hospital and later to St. Francis Hospital at Grand Island. She had internal injuries and broken bones. At this time (Monday) she is still in intensive care but her condition is satisfactory. Victor has been doing chores at the Brannons and has learned to use goats.
 George and Mary Bell visited our son Russell and wife Vickie at our house Saturday afternoon, Aug. 12.

 Don and Phyllis and Ed, Diane and Angie, all Kearney, had dinner with George, Victor and I, Sunday. Don and Phyllis spent the afternoon here, and visited Menzo and Audrey Fuller in North Loup in the evening.

George and Mary Bell, Don and Phyllis of Kearney and George attended a Loup Valley Hereford Breeders meeting at Thead Nelsons Saturday evening.
 Grandson Edwin, Diane and Angie were here from Kearney Monday afternoon. They also called on Beulah Clement.

Mrs. Stan Johnson was a weekend guest of her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Johnson, Todd and Ben, at Sterling, KS, Aug. 12. She returned home by way of Minden and was an overnight guest of her mother, Mrs. A.C. Andersen. Elliot Johnson and family are moving to Marion, IN and will be coaching and preaching. He is head baseball coach and assistant football coach at Taylor University at Upland, IN. He will preach at the Methodist Church.
 Mr. and Mrs. Paul Homan, John and Julie, who had been houseguests of her folks, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lange, left Wednesday afternoon for a visit with his family at Cedar Rapids.

Marvin Kohot, Traffic Safety Specialist with the Nebraska Highway Safety Program (left) points out some of the many features on the new radar unit to Valley County Sheriff Martin Sonnenfeld.

Sheriff Gets New Radar Unit

Speeding motorists in the Ord area might do well to ease up on the gas pedal. The Valley County Sheriff's Department was presented with a new radar unit last week.

Sheriff Martin Sonnenfeld said the unit consists of an antenna or radar "gun" and a computer unit. The last unit, slightly larger than a cigar box, computes the speed of both the law enforcement vehicle and oncoming traffic. These two statistics are posted on a digital readout near instantaneously.

The radar "gun" or antenna is pointed towards oncoming traffic. An electronic pulse of wave is sent by the gun and interpreted by the computer.

Fall Festival

The town's total involvement. Amelia summed up the town's attitude by saying "Everyone volunteers. I know people involved in two or three floats and other festival projects. We all just work together and do it." Both Duane and his wife, Mary, were busy with festival preparations Friday, but Mary took a few minutes to talk to the Quiz. She confirmed the town's dedication to the annual pageant and added "I can say it all in one word: pride."

She was quick to laud the Legion and other groups and individuals involved. In her words, "We all work together. It's hard to find someone who isn't working on it. We're so proud of it," she added, "of the fact that we can put on a show of this caliber that we don't and won't quit."

This is the 24th year Arcadia residents have pulled together for a Fall Festival. Following Monday's parade one of five queen candidates will be crowned. The lucky miss will be selected by balloting Saturday, September 2. Whoever the queen will be, she will rule over an event that is a source of civic pride and a great deal of entertainment. One resident put it this way: "We all pull together."

Dance Wednesday evening. The observance of Popcorn Days started in 1901 when business of North Loup worked out a plan to play host to their customers and friends. On October 1, 1901 the community celebrated its first Popcorn Days. They popped their corn in wire baskets over a gasoline stove in the town hall.

That popcorn celebration held in October was one day long. A few years later it was lengthened to two days and moved to the month of September. Still later a third day was added and in recent years the celebration has been held the last week of August.

In 1925 Donnie Smith Krudrop was elected the first Popcorn Queen. The rules for picking the queen are much the same as they were 53 years ago. At that time the young lady had to be a graduate of the North Loup High School and single. Since the North Loup and Scotia school merger, a girl is eligible to be queen if she has a North Loup address. She still must be single.

Popcorn Days is considered one of the oldest and the oldest, continuing celebrations in the state of Nebraska.

Lid-Bottle Bills

percent spending limit will do. Then the public can make its own decision. He predicted passage of the lid measure would end in curtailed programs in Ord and Comstock schools. Cutbacks could come in art, home ec, athletics, and Dr. Gogan said, "Anything other than pretty basic things. They won't," he commented, "get any cheaper."

"If inflation increases at the rate it has been, which is more than five percent, there is no way we could keep the programs (offered by the school) intact," Dr. Gogan said. In an orientation meeting Wednesday morning, he told teachers they should explain to the community just what a five percent lid would mean. During the session at Ord High, the superintendent explained the lid bill to Ord-Comstock schools faculty.

"Basically what I want is staff members leveling with the people and explaining the difficulty of repealing a constitutional amendment," the superintendent said. The proposed five percent measure would become a state constitutional amendment, if approved by voters next November.

Dr. Gogan speculated time is on the side of lid opponents. As more effects of California's Tax Reducing Proposition 13 become known, voters will be more wary of Nebraska's lid bill, in Gogan's estimation. "We feel we have the educational program with curriculum offerings a majority of the people in the community would want in a school system," he told the Quiz. "A five percent lid bill would jeopardize this," he said.

Legalistic Absurdities

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M. M. Van Kirk, Director of Information

The legalistic absurdity of a tiny minnow called "snail darter" halting completion of a $108 million flood control and power dam in Tennessee provides a perfect example of how well-intentioned laws get out of hand.

In this case, the U.S. Supreme Court had no alternative, but to deny the closing of the finished dam until such time as the U.S. Congress amends or repeals the Endangered Species Act of 1973.

The law was written to guarantee that rare species, in danger of extinction, be protected. The concern was for such things as the proud symbol of America, the bald eagle, and the rapidly disappearing whooping crane. Who could argue with such a lofty goal?

But just to make certain, Congress closed some loopholes? Sweeping powers were legislated to protect all species in danger of extinction in the plant and animal kingdoms. That includes "without limitation any mammal, fish, bird, amphibian, reptile, mollusk, crustacean, arthropod, and other invertebrates." And "any part, product, egg, offspring thereof, or the dead body or parts thereof." That takes in the "seeds, roots, and parts of plants" as well.

Efforts to save endangered species began in the 1960's. The first Congressional action came in 1966 with passage of the Endangered Species Conservation Act. An official list of endangered plants and animals was drawn up under the act. But there was no federal authority to prohibit hunting of the species. Funds were provided to begin acquiring habitats, and the nucleus of a staff was formed — two people.

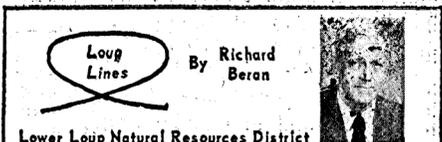

The act was amended in 1969 to list endangered species from foreign countries and forbid their import. The budget jumped to $1.8 million and the staff increased to 16.

When the current act was passed in 1973, $10 million a year was budgeted to run the program. By this year, the figure had increased to $25 million. The number of species listed as endangered has increased dramatically. By the first week in July 1978, there were 631 endangered species, with another 140 under consideration. More than 1,800 endangered plants had also been listed. Fifty-three species had made it to the threatened list.

The law is all inclusive. The snail darters of Tennessee won their case because their habitat was threatened. They could not swim back upstream through the flood gates of the new Tellico Dam to their normal spawning grounds. The Supreme Court ruled that man had interfered with nature by building the dam, so the gates of the dam may not be closed unless Congress rewrites the basic law or orders an exemption.

In determination whether an area is a critical habitat, government scientists are to consider only the needs of the species, not the effect that federal intervention might have on the human population or the economy. In a case in Houston, Texas, some sections of the city have been declared a critical habitat because the rare Houston toad may still live in the area. This means that federal funding for construction of highways through the area is cut off, and even Federal Housing Administration loans for homes in the area will be denied.

The powerful law, written by Congress in a mood of crisis, is now being revised after 5 years of enforcement, to make it more workable and realistic. It serves as a classic example of the absurdities which can, and do develop frequently from all-inclusive legislation and regulatory powers backed by zealots who feel that government must provide the answers to all things.

What will the impact be on Nebraska's water users when President Carter's new federal water policies are implemented? No one really knows except three trends are evident.

Water Conservation, Federal-State Cooperation, and involvement by the Environmental Protection Agency, will be uppermost on the priority list.

Dave Aiken, Extension Water Law Specialist, UNL, gives us a summary of these three important topics in CORNHUSKER ECONOMICS.

Water Conservation. One alternative in dealing with water shortages is to augment supplies by water development projects. Another approach is to use existing supplies more efficiently. To encourage water conservation the President directed federal agencies which finance community development water supply to require water conservation programs as a condition for federal grants and loans. The President also directed federal agencies to increase technical assistance to agricultural and urban water users to improve water conservation. In particular, the Interior and Agriculture departments were directed to discourage groundwater mining through their agricultural assistance programs. Finally, water service contracts from federal reclamation projects are to be renegotiated every five years to price water to encourage water conservation.

Federal - State Cooperation. The President proposed that federal support for state water planning be increased from $3 to $5 million per year to $25 million per year. This money would be available for development of state water conservation plans. These proposals would need to be enacted by Congress. The President also announced his intention to continue to consult with state and local officials in developing water policy objectives. Finally, the President announced a policy of negotiation regarding resolution of water conflicts involving federal and reserved water rights (Reserved water rights are water rights the U.S. Supreme Court has declared were reserved to the federal government and Indian tribes when public lands were reserved for federal use or for Indian reservations.)

Environmental Protection. A major conflict in federal water policy is reconciling federal water development programs with the requirement of federal environmental quality status. The President directed federal agencies to more fully comply with existing federal environmental protection statutes. The President also emphasized the use of non-structural alternatives in floodplain management, i.e., regulation to

NL-S Schools to Start August 24

North Loup-Scotia schools will open for students August 24. On that day, students will attend half-day sessions from 8:30 to 11:30. There will be no lunch served, but buses will run.

Three new teachers have joined the North Loup-Scotia faculty for the coming school year, according to Schools Superintendent Al Neuman. They are:

Blanche R. Knudsen, who will teach fifth grade. She is a graduate of Milligan High and Doane College. At Doane she graduated cum laude in 1970 with an elementary education major and a French minor. She has taught in Wilber Public Schools from 1970-78.

Beth H. Woolter, a 1977 graduate of Kearney State College, will be in charge of library and media duties. A Lexington native, she did her student teaching in Minden.

Carol J. Mettler will teach remedial reading and math. She is attending summer school at Nebraska University and plans to complete her Masters Degree. A graduate of that school and Norfolk High, she has taught at the Dalton Public Schools since 1973. Judith Wolter will teach third grade. She had worked in the school library.

Potpourri in Sheriff's Report

The sheriff's report this week is a potpourri of activity. August 12, the sheriff had a report that the flag at the Vets Club in Ord was stolen.

August 13, he investigated vandalism to mailboxes and road signs 6 miles southwest of North Loup. August 18, Bill Rysavy was picked up on 2 felony warrants involving child support. According to the sheriff, one of the warrants went back to 1970. Rysavy had reportedly been working under an assumed name in North Platte.

Community Ed Classes To Start September 18

Community Education Classes sponsored cooperatively by Ord Public Schools and the Central Technical Community College Area will begin September 18, according to Program Coordinator Ed Bosworth.

Area residents are invited to attend an organizational meeting for the classes at the Ord High School cafeteria at 7:30 p.m. on September 12th. Purpose of the meeting is to determine whether a minimum number of adults are interested in a particular course and to respond to personal and career needs of those attending the program.

An advisory committee meeting for the program was held earlier this year for committee members to recommend courses. Classes to be offered include: Ceramics, Spelling, CPR - Basic Life Support, Family First Aid, Beginning Sewing, Interior Decorating, Creative Textiles: Crocheting, Income Tax Preparation, Family Communication, Accounting, Business Problems, The Practical Approach, Electrical Troubleshooting, Aviation Ground School, Woodworking, Ballroom Dancing, Square Dancing, Bridge, Tole Painting, Slimnastics, and Understanding Spectator Sports. High School completion classes will also be available for those persons interested in earning a high school equivalency diploma, or improve skills in mathematics, reading, and writing.

Farm Credit Legislation Signing Pleases Nebraska Senator Curtis

WASHINGTON: "I am pleased that President Carter signed into law today the Agricultural Credit Assistance Act of 1978. This is a step in the right direction to provide the farmer with modern credit services through the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) of the U.S.D.A.," Senator Carl Curtis said recently.

The bill expands the farm credit programs of the FmHA and establishes a new program of emergency credit for farmers who need help to survive the economic squeeze which has gripped many segments of the agricultural economy in recent years.

"I am very pleased the major work on the farm credit legislation has now been finished," Curtis said. "This bill is the result of several years work. I introduced several bills in the Senate during this time that have been combined into this one major farm credit bill."

The Conference bill, the broadest farm credit measure passed by Congress in recent years, includes provisions which would:

1. Raise the FmHA real estate loan ceiling from $100,000 to $200,000 on direct loans and to $300,000 on federally guaranteed loans.
2. Raise the FmHA farm operating loan ceiling from $50,000 to $100,000 on direct loans and to $200,000 on federally-guaranteed loans.
3. Make family-farm corporations, partnerships, and cooperatives eligible for FmHA credit for the first time.
4. Authorize cattlemen to approve a beef promotion checkoff program by a simple majority of producers voting in a referendum.

5. Extend a special cattle industry credit program for one year, through September 30, 1979.
6. Authorize an economic emergency loan program for farmers who have suffered losses due to low farm prices. Loan total would be limited to $400,000 per farmer, which could be used to refinance debts and to pay for operating expenses. Total loans outstanding at any one time could not exceed $4 billion.
7. Create a special farm real-estate loan for beginning and low-income farmers with interest rates set at 5% or less. A reduced principal payment schedule could apply during the early years of each loan to allow the new farm family to get on its feet.

8. Authorize the ceiling on federal rural water district grants to be raised from 50% to 75%.

Loup City School Board Nixes Claim

A bill for $27,700 and a request for a special hearing was rejected by the Loup City School Board in a meeting August 14 in Loup City.

The bill had been submitted by Dr. F.J. Fulton and his son, Kevin. It included $25,000 for general damages allegedly incurred by them and $2,700 for legal fees, court costs, etc.

The bill was connected with a recent incident at the school and a teacher evaluation Dr. Fulton claimed wasn't made but acted upon by the board. Kevin Fulton was one of two youths who beat Ron Schroll causing him to be hospitalized last May.

A letter sent the school board made the claim for $27,700 and further stated that an evaluation allegedly voted on by the board was never made.

The board voted 6-0 not to pay the claim with two members abstaining.

Safe Driving

School bells will soon summon students back to class in Ord and other towns throughout the state. The Quiz and the Cornhusker Motor Club remind motorists that driving to work during school days, especially just after classes resume, poses safety hazards not encountered in summer.

In its "Schools Open, Drive Carefully" campaign, the AAA club urges motorists to exercise caution while driving in school zones, and to be extra alert when confronting these school oriented traffic conditions:

- reductions in speed limits in school zones.
- crossing guards and safety patrols helping students cross streets.
- children on bicycles.
- children crossing unguarded streets.
- children walking on roadways.
- youngsters darting from between parked cars.
- toddlers on their way to school for the first time.
- parents stopping their cars in front of schools to let children off.

— school buses stopped to load or unload pupils.

"School children are generally dependent on motorists to exercise safe driving practices," said Club Safety Director Bob Blankenship. "Many youngsters tend to forget their pedestrian safety rules, especially if they're excited about a new school year."

The club also reminds parents to review safe walking rules with their children and map out the safest walking route to school. Parents should select the route with the least amount of traffic, fewest streets to cross and one with guarded intersections.

For parents who do drive their children to school, the club urges them to let youngsters off directly in front of school rather than on the streets. Or select a less congested side street next to the school as a drop-off point.

One last reminder to drivers: When you approach a school bus that has stopped to load or unload pupils, you are required to stop your vehicle and remain stopped until children have crossed the street and the bus is moving again. This applies whether you are in front of or behind the bus, unless you're separated from the vehicle by a divided highway with a median strip.

The AAA club also points out that drivers should realize this rule may condition children to dart in front of a public bus and caution should be exercised here, too.

Something Different

About Rome

While we were watching the precise, the elaborate, highly colored ceremony with which Pope Paul was buried today I couldn't help but think of a few fine days I spent in Rome about 1962, or was it 1963?

I went to Europe, first time, to spend seven weeks, and one thing I aspired to do was to have an audience with Pope John, the warm, Santy-Claus-figured little man. So I asked Ord's Father Gorak for a letter of introduction and he prepared one for me.

Our tour group reached Rome some time after lunch, tired, and hot. I decided I needed a break, so I took a bath and crawled into bed for a good rest. And I planned to take a taxi first thing next morning and go to the Vatican for the first steps toward an interview. There's quite a bit of rigamarole, firstly a stop must be made with the secretary of the North American Alliance, or some such.

I was wrong; next day was too late. The Vatican was closed so that preparations could be made toward the First Ecumenical Conference. No visitors allowed.

They were replacing all the gorgeous red velvet draperies and upholstery for the big occasion. Even rugs.

However I did get to spend some time in the library of the Vatican, where much of the world's oldest printing is treasured. This I truly enjoyed, although there is so much of it, the library is almost impossible to really sample.

But we saw lots of the conference side effects. Ambassadors from all over the world, and everywhere we looked we saw them, impossible to mistake in their unusual regalia, bright and distinctive, often red!

One cardinal stayed in our hotel, and did he get royal treatment? In every way. Firstly a large red satin banner is hung out his window, and its square shape catches the eyes of all passers-by. The hotel is very proud!

Then, he travels with his retinue of young clerks and secretaries and priests. A dozen or more of them wait on him constantly, scurrying, busy.

Then, in the dining room. He got the LION'S share of the attention. Waiters all wanted to wait on his table. The others in the dining room didn't get such good service, we waited and waited; not always patient, either.

This cardinal was a very large man. He was tall, rotund, very heavy. He was Czechoslovakian, which pleased me: (I had a great desire to go over and tell him that I was from a community where there were many Czechs, whom I was sure would want me to greet him.) But I restrained myself.

The center of his table was full of bottles, tall ones, fat ones, slim ones, short ones, some were spices and sauces but most

High Risk Nebraskans May Get Influenza Immunization

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — About 300,000 high-risk Nebraskans would be immunized against influenza under a state Health Department program announced recently.

William Pack, coordinator of the state's immunization efforts, said an attempt will be made to immunize those 65 and older as well as persons from six months to 64 years of age who have medical disabilities.

The federal government will pick up $96,000 of the estimated $98,000 cost.

According to Pack, the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Joseph Califano, has asked for $15 million from Congress for the immunization program.

Pack said the states have been told to prepare their applications for the money even though Congress has not yet given its stamp of approval.

Under the proposed program, vaccine would be made available to private physicians, public health clinics, nursing homes and hospitals.

Member of the Project Review Committee of the Southeast Nebraska Health Systems Agency said the Health Department is going to have trouble in trying to convince senior citizens to get the flu shots.

Many elderly persons blame the swine flu shots for many of their ailments "and you don't have time between now and September to change their minds."

She added many aged persons "will take their chance with the flu."

A staff analysis of the department's application came to the conclusion there was a need for the program because Nebraska experienced a high mortality rate because of the flu than did the nation as a whole.

"Will Replace Elevators"

The state Building Commission recently agreed unanimously to replace the state Capitol elevators.

Gov. J. James Exon, commission chairman, said it was important to keep the elevators in good condition because they are so heavily used.

"I'm concerned we would be toying with a potential disaster if we left them as they are," he said.

He added he would strongly object to spending $100,000 to $200,000 for what he called "a patchup repair job."

Last year, the commission was told, about 140,000 people rode the elevators to the viewing area at the base of the Capitol dome.

The Capitol may be the state's top tourist attraction, the commission was told.

During the meeting, Exon said he is proud of the renovation work that has been done on the building during the past seven and one-half years.

He said the structure was in "one dickens of a shape" when he took office but is now "in its best shape since it was new."

Commission Will Meet

The nominating commission that will screen applicants for the position of chief justice of the Nebraska Supreme Court will hold a meeting at 2 p.m. Sept. 13.

The hearing — in the Supreme Court Hearing Room — will give the commission an opportunity to take testimony on the qualifications of candidates for filling the vacancy that will be created when Chief Justice Paul White steps down in mid-September.

Judge L. M. Clinton of the Supreme Court, chairman of the nominating commission, said anyone interested in applying for the job should fill out and submit an application form listing his or her name, age, residence, date and place of admission to the bar, formal education and legal experience. The forms may be obtained by writing or calling Clinton.

Clinton said each applicant should also include a signed statement that if selected as a nominee, the applicant will accept and serve if appointed by the governor.

In addition to Clinton, the nominating commission includes the four lawyers and four laypersons.

Courts Are Busy

County courts were busy places last year — some of them at least.

Records compiled by state Court Administrator James Dunlevy showed the volume of cases increased 12 percent in fiscal 1977-78 over the previous year.

Continuing the trend of recent years, the greatest increase was in traffic cases, which accounted for 70 percent of the total, Dunlevy said.

He added it was "obvious" the State Patrol is "very actively enforcing traffic laws, and we're definitely seeing the results of selective enforcement projects financed by the Highway Safety Program."

He said the increase of 2,500 traffic cases in the Douglas County State Patrol territory.

"There was virtually no change in the number of non-traffic criminal cases filed in the county courts in 1977-78," Dunlevy said.

But he noted the civil filings rose 8 percent, following a 20 percent increase in 1976-77.

Accounting for more than half the civil volume were Small Claims Court filings.

The fines collected by county courts increased more than 12 percent and totaled $5.3 million. Truck fines of more than $700,000 were divided among state highway funds and county general funds. The schools received the balance of more than $4.5 million.

The state General Fund was enriched by $2.1 million in fees and costs collected by the county courts. The Judicial Retirement Fund received $284,000 and the Law Enforcement Improvement Fund $212,886.

Dunlevy said county courts assessed more than $7.2 million in inheritance taxes — up about $900,000 over the previous year. The counties collect the inheritance taxes.

Conditions on Staging

An administrative agency's proposed rules and regulations must have the approval of the attorney general before he will sign them, Gov. J. James Exon announced recently.

He noted Attorney General Paul Douglas has said he could not ratify rules and regulations proposed for implementation of the post-secondary education scholarship program law and another law that would provide assistance to medical students.

The governor said the state Administrative Procedures Law states the attorney general must approve or disapprove every rule and regulation proposed for adoption by an administrative agency.

This has always been interpreted as "a mandatory requirement" by his office.

When You and I Were Young

Geranium Joe

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Onet in a great while common sense wins a round. According to this piece Lumir Cadek brung to the meeting at the country store Saturday night, the late great ice-cream standards bill was a victory for reason over bureaucratic blindness. The only way folks Government is trying to serve come out ahead was to get two of their servants fighting one another.

According to Lumir, it started last year with the passing of someone called the Food and Agriculture Act cooked up by the Department of Agriculture. Among some good suggestions about guarding quality of food, the bill set up "market grades" of ice cream. This threw the whole plan out of kilter. For just $12 million, inspectors could be hired, a system worked out and ice cream could be stamped "USDA Choice" like meat, or maybe "Grade A" like health departments do eating places.

But the said the Office of Consumer Affairs of Health, Education and Welfare didn't think so. You can grade ingredients of ice cream, and we already do that, this outfit said, but how are you going to grade the quality of the goods made from these raw materials? The consumer office found out setting up grading to satisfy USDA would cost the ice cream industry $28 million a year. Worse, making the effort to comply with the new regulations would cost small ice cream makers six cent a gallon, but the big outfits that can absorb the extra work better could get by one cent a gallon grading systems.

Final, after the consumer office made enough noise for Congressmen to take time to read the Food and Agriculture Act they had supported, the whole idea of setting up market grades for ice cream was dropped. Lumir said this case didn't involve slick lobbyist that big business and industry send out to do battle with someone they don't like. The beauty of this small victory was the Government showed it still can self-correct even now and again, he said.

Meanwhile, the fellers took note that this same Government is still muddling along trying to perfect us from other, worse problems. Leonard Fsoia said that while we're on health, he had saw where the Senate has held hearings that brought out claims that what we eat figgers in half the cases of cancer. Leonard said the fat in such foods as butter and meat now has joined the endless lineup of suspects harmful to the public health. As soon as the new Child Abuse Division of HEW, and if there ain't one there will be, gets a bill through making it a crime for a doctor to smack a newborn to start him breathing, we can call the whole thing off, he said.

General speaking, Mister Editor, the fellers stood by their earlier resolution that living is hazardous to health. But this trucker from down the line said it was a puzzle to him how a agency that can set "allowable limits" of rat droppings in cereal, give meat packers the OK to grind up bones in hot dogs and demand recalls of 60,000 tricycles to fix a bad pedal can't come up with a approved list of a half dozen things we can eat that won't kill us.

Yours truly, Geranium Joe

KERRY ON

—keeping time—

The summer sun was just beginning to set as the train pulled into Ft. Smith. It had been a hot and muggy July day and we hadn't been out of the coach car since leaving Coffeyville.

Not knowing where we were going and only a little about where we'd been, a gruff sergeant barked orders. "Grab your gear. Buses are waiting outside the door."

The next leg of our trip would take us to Camp Chaffee, Arkansas, for issuing of uniforms and equipment. We knew that much. But where we'd go from there no one seemed to know.

Clumsy and tired, we bumped and pushed as we boarded the buses. We'd left Omaha early that day, laughing and joking—and somewhat scared. Though the nation wasn't at war then, the Korean War had just ended and fighting seemed to continue in border conflicts.

The United States had not even considered foregoing the draft. Every able-bodied young man without a deferment was going to serve at least two years in the service. It was as simple as that.

Knowing I wasn't far down the list of eligible draftees, I'd volunteered—wanting to get it over with so I could pursue whatever direction my life might take. Until this "service to your country" was serving a few plans could be made. Somewhere down the line you'd be going. Many chose to volunteer and "get it over with," as had I.

In the fading twilight we tried to get a glimpse of Ft. Smith—a place foreign to most of us. But we were soon out of the city and bumping along the highway to Camp Chaffee—another place that was no more than a name.

It was dark when we arrived. Lining up outside the buses, we were told to "move it" and ask no questions. We'd be fed and then issued sheets and taught to make a bed—"the Army's way, in case any of you think you already know."

No one felt much like eating. We'd been hungry... until we grabbed our metal trays and saw our first Army chow. Most of us settled for milk or a cup of coffee. Before we'd had more than a few sips, we heard orders bellowed that the supply room was now open and anyone wanting a bed to sleep in better get sheets — RIGHT NOW!

It was nearly 3 a.m. when I laid back and stared overhead at the darkness, knowing in two more hours we'd be up again. Though there were a few whispers and complaints, the barracks were relatively quiet. I'm sure everyone—like myself—wondered what the next two years held in store for them.

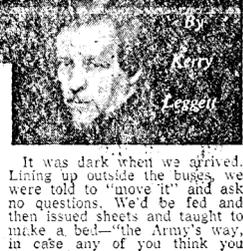

I don't know why this all came back to me, this week.

Possibly because of the time of year. Possibly because of summer's ending... and school's beginning. Or possibly that summer has escaped before we were hardly aware of it—just as life passes so quickly to grasp the significance and joy of each day.

Though I no longer count cadence as I march, the need to stay in step finds me watching the head in front of me—and envying the child, at the roadside, fascinated by his shadow and oblivious of the parade.

PERFECTION (per-fek'shan) n. "The act or process of perfecting."

That's Mr. Webster's definition. We think that's what we've done with our HI-PLAINS PERFECTION storage and drying bins. We've listened to thousands of farmers and ranchers over the years tell us about the features they like best in metal bins. We compiled all these good ideas and took them to a respected builder, the Chicago Eastern Corporation. They built them to YOUR specifications.

Why shouldn't the HI-PLAINS PERFECTION bin be the best on the market? After all, you know what you want in a quality bin. Holdrege Seed and Farm Supply just put it all together for you!

For experienced construction and service see HOLDREGE SEED & FARM SUPPLY CO. Holdrege, Nebraska

Is Post Office Wise? Timing for the Birds

We don't know if it was simply coincidental, but Quiz Publisher Kerry Leggett reported, Monday, that he had gone to the post office for a newly issued (Aug. 28th) set of stamps depicting the Owl Family.

With the on-again off-again postal strike situation, Leggett thought the post office may be trying to tell the public they give a hoot.

Mike Clinch Killed In Minnesota Wreck

Mike Clinch, 21-year-old son of Leo and Toby Clinch of Burwell, was killed shortly after midnight Saturday morning, Aug. 26, in a one-car accident near the resort area of Brezzy Point, Minnesota.

According to reports Clinch and an Omaha friend were within three miles of the Clinch's summer home on Pelican Lake when a tire blew out on the Datsun sports car Mike was driving. He lost control and the car reportedly rolled several times.

It was believed young Clinch was killed instantly, being thrown from the car. The Omaha boy with him received only minor bruises, according to reports.

Mike, who would have been a senior at Hastings College, had been vacationing with the family who were in Minnesota at the time. A Mike Clinch Memorial Scholarship Fund has been established by the family, through the Bank of Burwell.

Services were held Tuesday, Aug. 29, at the First Congregational Church in Burwell.

Survivors are parents Leo and Toby Clinch; a sister, Mrs. Dale Crandall of Burwell; and two brothers, Steve of Omaha and Leo Jr. of Burwell.

Sharon Kriewald Crowned '78 Popcorn Days Queen

Miss Sharon Kriewald was named the 1978 Popcorn Days Queen in ceremonies at North Loup Tuesday night. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Kriewald, Sharon was picked from a field of seven girls.

She lists her hobbies as horseback riding, reading, and participating in sports. The new Popcorn Queen holds memberships in 4-H and the FFA. Her future plans are to attend the University of Nebraska and major in veterinary science.

Members of Sharon's court include:

Sharon's crowning came after the juvenile parade in downtown North Loup Tuesday. Sponsored by the Kitchen Klatter Club, the event had 35 entries according to parade chairman Bonnie Severance. This is the most entries the annual event has had in quite a while, she told the Quiz.

The theme this year was "Children's Songs of Yesterday". The grand prize went to Steve Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Scott with his float titled "I've Been Working on the Railroad". Steve's old-time engine belched smoke and came complete with sound effects.

Car Crash Stops Short Of Power Pole Tuesday

A car driven by Jackie Birdsall drove up over the curb and knocked down a traffic sign near 17th and L Tuesday afternoon. Birdsall was driving the four door Ford when she apparently passed out, according to Jackie Wheeler, a passenger in the car.

Birdsall was headed east on L Street when the accident occurred. The car knocked down a traffic sign and came to a halt in front of the former Auble residence, 1733 L, a few feet short of a power pole.

Birdsall, 18, was taken to Valley County Hospital by the Ord rescue unit.

Drive In Basement At Carlsen Home

The Art Carlsen residence, under construction one mile west of Ord, has an unusual feature: a drive in basement. Dr. Art Carlsen discovered this Sunday morning when the tractor he was driving backed into or fell into the home's foundation hole.

He was reportedly doing some backhoe work when his foot slipped on the clutch, and he explained, "I parked it in the basement." The machine climbed over the edge of the hole and dropped in.

What Carlsen called "a combination of short legs and quick reflexes" enabled him to jump off the tractor before it fell in the hole.

The machine was pulled out of the hole Tuesday afternoon by a winch.

Dave Lange Differs With Inspector's Story

In a Quiz interview Monday, Dave Lange said an investigator for the brand inspector's office released information to the Quiz last week, "just to make me look bad, to make an example of me."

Dallas Glaze, investigator for the Nebraska Brand Committee had earlier told how Lange apparently tried to elude him August 18 while leaving a brand inspection area near the Merrick-Nance County line. That story was in the August 24 Quiz.

According to Lange, a visit by brand inspector Dan Holloway August 18 started the chain of events. Holloway went into a pen of cattle on the Lange farm near Ord, and they went into another pen, frightening some of the cattle, Lange stated.

Lange then told Holloway to come back. Holloway allegedly raised his fists and threatened Lange saying, "I'll be back at 6 p.m. and you had better be here." Lange waited until 7:15 p.m. that night, loaded his cattle and drove off in the truck.

It was during that drive that Glaze stated Lange ran a road block. Lange refuted that charge. According to him, there was no roadblock. He did however reveal a sheriff's car did drive in front of him and then pull across the road.

The court was expanded from 29 to 38 spaces two weeks ago. Work was barely completed before a trailer moved into the new addition.

Petitions Draw 1,900 Signatures

Statements of support for the Calamus Project drew around 1,900 signatures according to project proponent Henry Lange. He gave figures showing 1,855 persons had signed the documents, expressing support for the Calamus or Twin Loups Irrigation Project.

These statements or petitions were circulated in towns from Taylor to Fullerton starting the last week in July by Lange and others supporting the project. When completed, the project will use the canal system or open ditch method to bring water to an estimated 53,000 acres in a five county area.

Lange speculated more signatures may be gathered. Not all support statements have been turned in yet, he said.

Attempted Burglary At Beranek's Falls

An attempted break in at Beranek's Drug Store some time late Sunday or early Monday proved unsuccessful. A person or persons tried to gain entry by forcing the rear door of the store.

Owner Floyd Beranek opened the store Monday morning and found the door knob of the rear entrance had been beaten and bent, apparently by a heavy object.

Entry wasn't gained, and nothing was taken.

Gamble's Store

The rear door of the Gamble's Store in Ord was found open Monday morning by store owner Jay Brown. There were no signs of a forcible entry, he told the Quiz, and it is believed nothing was taken.

Ord Police are investigating.

Classes Started Monday

Estimated 766 Students Ord-Comstock School Dist.

An estimated 766 students reported when classes started Monday in Ord and Comstock public schools. This figure breaks down into 320 students at Ord Elementary, 428 at Ord junior-senior high school, and 18 students at Comstock.

Monday, the first day, was a full day of classes. School began at 8:25 a.m. and dismissed at 3 p.m., according to Ord Public Schools Superintendent Dr. Bill Gogan, just as they will the rest of the year. The opening class sessions went more smoothly than usual, according to Ord High secretary, Marsha Plugge. Dr. Gogan echoed her sentiments saying he was well pleased with the opening day of classes.

This year's curriculum will be basically the same as that offered last year, according to Dr. Gogan. This currently includes 50 courses ranging from Adult Living to Woodworking.

A staff of over 50 teachers at Ord High, Ord Elementary, and Comstock instruct students. Former Ord High basketball coach Doyle Denney won't be returning this year. He left O.H.S. to enter the insurance sales profession, recently. His duties are being divided among several teachers according to Dr. Gogan.

Mrs. Miriam McFadden will

teach two typing classes while Ed Bosworth, audio-visual instruction co-ordinator will teach three bookkeeping courses. Dan Hersh will instruct other classes in bookkeeping, formerly taught by Denney. His coaching duties will go to Fred Williams this year, according to Dr. Gogan.

These instructors and others will have charge of fewer students this year than last. The student census in Ord public schools last year was 786, according to the superintendent, down 20 from the 1978-79 opening day total of 766.

That figure for the start of the current year is by no means final. Dr. Gogan said student attendance statistics used for official purposes will be taken September 30 in Ord and other schools in Nebraska. Student populations have stabilized by then, according to the superintendent, and give a more constant figure at that time.

The faculty and staff for the 1978-79 school year in Ord and Comstock public schools is as follows:

School Bells Ring For NL-S Students

Students answered school bells at North Loup-Scotia public schools when classes started Thursday. First day periods were shortened to 20 minutes each with the opening day session starting at 8:30 and ending at 11:30 a.m.

School hours will be moved ahead 10 minutes this year with school starting at 8:30 a.m. and dismissing at 3:18 Monday — Thursday.

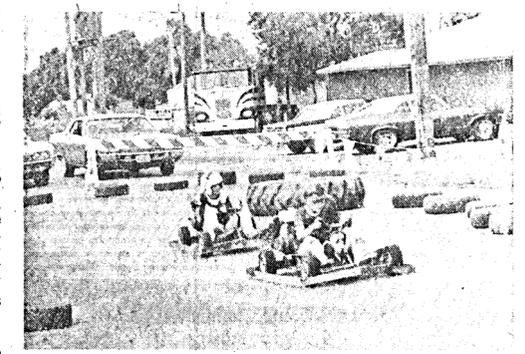

The big schedule change, as listed by Superintendent Al Newman, is the condensed Friday afternoon activity period. Classes will end at 2:05 with the remaining 26 minutes devoted to meetings of student associations, clubs, etc. Students not having a scheduled meeting will remain in their home rooms.

Last year, students had a 90 minute free period each Friday. Buses will leave at 2:35 p.m. Friday and at 3:20 Monday — Thursday.

Other changes, as announced by Newman, included new basic reading books for grades K-6 and a new high school biology text. School text books must be reviewed every five years for accreditation purposes, Newman told the Quiz.

Bob Strong Ford to Sponsor PPK Contest On Thursday, August 31, registration will begin for the 1978 Punt, Pass & Kick Competition in the showroom of Bob Strong Ford-Mercury. In making the announcement, Del Kiener, General Manager of the dealership, said, "We're looking forward to a big local PPK competition in Ord on Sept. 30. We hope all the youngsters, 8 through 13 years of age, in this area will come in to register and take part in the fun."

Del Kiener pointed out that PPK — throughout its six levels of competition — is free of any charge, and that youngsters need only have a parent or guardian accompany them to the show. "Our competition here will have 1st, 2nd and 3rd place trophies for contestants in each of the six age groups or 18 trophies in all," said Del Kiener. "It's a real chance for each entrant's chance of winning is equal to that of the others in their own age group," said the Ford Dealer.

"Of course, there is no body contact in PPK. It's punting, passing and place-kicking for distance and points, just as the name says. First place winners in each age group in our competition will go on to the Zone competition. And from there, top winners go on to the leader through District, Area, Division and National Finals," he said. "This year, the National Finals will be held at the NFL Championship game in January. Naturally, we hope some of our PPK winners will make it all the way to the Finals."

The Ford Dealer further explained that each entrant, upon registering, receives a free PPK Tips Book. In the 1978 edition, there are competition tips by NFL stars Ray Guy, Bob Griese, and Errol Mann. The Tips Book also includes complete PPK rules and helpful conditioning exercises for contestants. PPK registration will close at Bob Strong Ford-Mercury on September 28.

This is the 18th anniversary year of PPK. From its inception the youth activity has been sponsored by the Ford Dealers of America in cooperation with the National Football League. In that time millions of youngsters have taken part in PPK, making it one of America's largest youth activities. The contest will be held on Saturday, September 30. Competition will begin at 9 a.m. at the Ord High School football field.

HOUSEWIVES WORTH . . . If the husband paid the typical American housewife a fair wage for the work she performs, she would earn more than $17,000 annually. Can you believe it? Well, so claims the American Council of Life Insurance for they report that the average housewife devotes about 100 hours a week at different chores. Most of us will agree to that. So, the report goes, the hourly rates what she could probably command outside the home are:

- Cook — 13.1 hours at $3.50 per; $45.85 a week.
- Nursemaid — 45.1 hours at $2.70; $121.77 a week.
- Dietician — 1.2 hours at $4 per; $4.80 a week.
- Food Buyer — 3.3 hours at $2.70 per; $8.91 a week.
- Dishwasher — 6.2 hours at $2.80 each hour; $17.36 a week.
- Housekeeper — 17.5 hours at $4.50; $78.75 a week.
- Laundress — 5.9 hours at $3 per; $17.70 a week.
- Seamstress — 1.3 hours at $3.50 per; $4.55 total.
- Handyman — 1.7 hours at $3.50 or $5.95 a week.
- Gardener — 2.3 hours at $3.50, total $8.05 each week.
- Chauffeur — 2 hours at $10 per; $20 a week.
- Total 99.6 hours, $333.69 a week; $17,851.88 a year.

Tell me dear housewife, at this point do you feel a bit underpaid for the work you do? You can blame me for ruining your day!

A student must attend school 90% of the days school is in session to receive credit for a course except for students who have a major illness or accident or are under the care of a physician for an extended period of time.

In order to enforce this policy and keep accurate student records we ask the following:

1. Parents should call the school office (728-3241), anytime after 7:45 a.m., when a student is to be absent.
2. A note explaining the absence should be sent when students return to school if a telephone call is not possible.
3. Parents should emphasize at home the importance of punctual and regular school attendance.

Exchange Student Arrives Friday Impressed by Weather in Nebraska

Ute Haverkamp

Ute Haverkamp, 16, will be the exchange student at Ord High this year. The attractive young lady arrived in Nebraska last Friday, and is staying with the Carson Rogers family of Ord.

The exchange student program is nothing new to Ute. Last year Kathy Finney of Oregon, stayed in the Haverkamp household in Germany. She, like Kathy, was sponsored by the Youth For Understanding program.

Taking the lead from Kathy, Ute applied to the organization last October. Two weeks later she was notified she had been accepted. The first part of August, she received a letter from the Carson Rogers family saying their home in Nebraska would be her destination.

"We learned in school Nebraska was one of the middle states where they grow corn" Ute told the Quiz Tuesday. Since arriving here, she has been impressed by the state's weather. Winters, so she has been told, are quite cold and the summer months quite hot. She learned the latter fact quite quickly after stepping off the plane in Grand Island last Friday.

"In Germany" she stated, "we have maybe two or three weeks of hot weather, but that is all."

Spikers Give a Sneak Preview at Soap Scrimmage

Spiker fans got a sneak preview of the 1978-79 Ord High girls volleyball team during a soap scrimmage last week. Varsity coach Jan Weber has 27 girls out for varsity and junior varsity teams this year.

Twenty-four of these played in a three match series at Ord High Thursday. The squad was split into two teams, 12 players each. Angie Batenhorst headed one team while Weber was in charge of the other. Batenhorst's group took two out of the three matches with scores of 16-14, 15-12 and 15-17.

Said Weber of the preliminary game "The soap scrimmage gives us an idea how the girls will react under game situations. Occasionally, a girl looks better in a game situation than in practice or those who look good in practice do not perform as well in the game. It gives us an opportunity to observe all the girls."

Weber saw what she called "a few rusty spots" during Thursday's scrimmage. These included the serve receive and the team's accuracy.

The team has a strong serving ability but needs to become more aggressive in their spikes, Weber told the Quiz. Said the coach, "I believe this is an area that will improve as the season progresses."

She speculated the team will most likely have to specialize on some positions this year, such as substituting for a weak server, players playing across the front row only, and players with better serve receive skills playing the back row.

"Many of the positions on the varsity squad are still up for grabs," Weber stated, and then added "I expect to see changes in the 12 varsity players as the season progresses."

These possible starters and others will fill several positions opened by graduation last year. Starters Jape Gogan, Sue Slich, Wynne Adams, and Chris Anderson are now Ord High alumni. Just how well their replacements will do will be indicated August 31 when Ord goes to St. Paul. The team, like Ord, graduated several girls last June. Most were in the 5'10" and over category according to Weber.

Ord has won six out of the last seven encounters with St. Paul. Weber called St. Paul "always a team with good servers," and added she anticipated a good match Thursday when they and Ord meet.

Last year, Ord varsity spikers had a 16-4 record. At the end of the 1976-77 season the year before, the Chant volleyball players amassed a 18-2 season end statistic.

'Cats Concentrate on Teamwork

Teamwork may be the key to a successful season according to North Loup-Scotia coach Dennis Butts. In a Quiz interview Thursday, he said, "We had a few outstanding individuals last year, but we don't have them now."

These Wildcat stars included Mark Sintek, Richard Vogeler, and Todd Cook. All have graduated. To compensate for their departure, Butts and his Wildcats have been concentrating on teamwork.

"Right now," said Butts, "we have 8 seniors, 12 juniors, 6 sophomores, and 5 freshmen. They started practice on the Wildcat field in Scotia August 1. Drill sessions were an hour and forty-five minutes, daily."

They are getting in shape to face a season filled with changes. One new item this year is the change from an 11 man squad to an 8 man game. Butts explained the 8 man football squad as an 11 man team minus 2 linemen and one back. Five men on the line and 3 in the backfield will play on a gridiron 80 yards long and 40 yards wide.

Other changes include North Loup-Scotia's entering the Cedar Valley Conference this year. Schools Superintendent Al Newman said the change from the Loup Valley Conference to the Cedar Valley was prompted by the loss of 3 man teams in the Loup.

"Had to make the change now, or down the road," Newman said. A school board vote in the spring of the 1977-78 school year, switched NL-S from the 11 man to 8 man football team, effective at the start of this season.

This is the first year Butts has coached an 8 man squad. In preparation for his new assignment, he attended an 8 man coaching clinic this summer. He assured the Quiz that the isolation, triple option, and other familiar plays will still be in the Wildcat playbook.

This year's Wildcats are about the same size as last year's, according to Butts. The team may be a little less speedy, he speculated, but solid teamwork will compensate for this.

Players likely to lead the Wildcats this year, as listed by Butts, included:

— Allen Meyer, 6 foot, 160 pounds, offensive and defensive end. This is Allen's third year as a starter.

— Mike Holmes, 6 foot, 155 pounds, running back. As a sophomore guard, Mike gained over 700 yards. Last year, as a junior, he gained over 500 yards of real estate for the Cats. This will be his third year as a starter.

— Terry Meyer, a 6'2", 205 pound junior. Butts called the guard "the mainstay of our offensive line."

Other players mentioned by Butts included Bernie Ketchmark, Craig Gydesen, and Barry Neuman.

They and their teammates will open this season September 1 when North Loup-Scotia plays host to Mullen at 8:00 p.m. Assistant varsity coach this year is Brent Moerer.

Game and Parks Commission Puts Calamus Recreation Issue On Hold

The Game and Parks Commission voted, during a meeting in Lincoln Friday, to defer any commitment for managing the North Loup project's recreational aspect. A Lincoln Star article, dated August 26, said the issue was put off until Congress is willing to give assurances that funds to enhance the fishery potential of the proposed 10,000 plus acre impoundment will be forthcoming.

The Twin Loups Reclamation District can provide funds to manage the recreational aspects of the project, according to Twin Loups president, Henry Lange. However, they have suggested the Game and Parks Commission manage the boat ramps, fishing, etc. The G and P Commission has reportedly balked because of what the Lincoln paper called a lack of potential of the proposed lake in terms of a sustainable fishery.

This problem is said to have started when the late Mel Stepien, director of the Game and Parks Commission, gave his okay to the rock rip-rap along the face of the dam.

At that time project engineers estimated that substitution would slash about $1.6 million off the cost of the project. At that same time, the loss of the rip-rap effectively eliminated the possibility of sustaining a continuous walleye population in the lake, since the rock dam facing is used extensively in spawning by the fish.

According to the Star, Lange said his district would go ahead and sign a contract with the Bureau of Reclamation in the event the state Game and Parks Commission would vote "no" to assuming the financial obligation for managing the recreational site.

Even in this eventuality, Lange reportedly said, the Game Commission would be welcome to step back in at a later date.

According to Lange, about four acres of rip-rap could be included along the face of the dam, as the project now stands.

An additional development of spawning grounds would require a return to Congress for more funding, Lange was quoted as stating, since there is not enough money earmarked at this time for fishery development in the project.

Game Commission members repeatedly stated that the project is appealing to them, but the unknown financial burden of turning the irrigation impoundment lake into a working fishery worries them.

Among those favoring the Game Commission taking over responsibility for managing recreational aspects of the project were Lange, Dave Wilde, project manager, and State Senator Dennis Kasmussen.

Speaking against the commission assuming immediate liabilities for the project were Joe Cass, county attorney for Loup County, Keith Harman of the Wildlife Management Institute, and Loren Willson, Lincoln businessman and canoe trip outfitter.

Update
Monday, Henry Lange signed a contract with the Bureau of Reclamation for the operation and maintenance of Calamus Project recreation facilities. In a Quiz interview Tuesday, Lange said he and the Reclamation

Hartsuff Site of Muzzle Load Shoot

LEARNING THE ROPES — Dad Roye Lindsay gave son David, a few pointers during the Loup Valley Muzzleloaders' shoot Sunday at Fort Hartsuff. Five year old David was delighted on discovering some of his shots landed within the black area of the bulls-eye.

Fort Hartsuff State Historical Park was the site of another well attended muzzle loading shoot this past weekend. The Loup Valley Muzzle Loading Rifle Club was again sponsor of this fifth annual shoot.

The contest of primitive weaponry skills drew shooters from across the state of Nebraska and from South Dakota, Kansas, Iowa, and Wyoming. Events included rifle and revolver shooting and tomahawk and knife throwing. Special shooting events for children were included. In the evening on Saturday, August 26, a dishpan throw tested the arms of the women in attendance. Kids races were included. A delicious deep pit barbecue of hog was enjoyed by all.

Rifle, 25 yard: 1st, Dennis Braunesreither, Utica, SD, 45x; 2nd, Jim Potter, Lincoln, 45; 3rd, Lynn Griffith, Ord, 45; 4th, Virgil Voss, Fremont, 45.

Rifle, 50 yard: 1st, Larry Davis, Gotherburg, 40; 2nd, Jim Potter, Lincoln, 38; 3rd, Dennis

Point System
Bag limits in both areas will be 100 points. Point values are the same in both areas, except that the mallard duck is valued at 20 points in the High Plains area and 25 in the Low Plains. In effect, this allows hunters in the west one more duck.

The waterfowl regulations adopted by the Commissioners include a ban on the use of lead shot for waterfowling shooting 12 gauge shotguns in Clay, Fillmore, Kearney, and Phelps counties. The restriction does not apply to other gauges of shotguns, nor does it apply to waterfowling along the Platte River in Kearney and Phelps counties.

The ban on lead shot was enacted to reduce further losses of ducks to lead poisoning from spent lead pellets they pick up while feeding. By switching to steel shot, waterfowling will halt the buildup of lethal lead shot on the hardpan bottoms of the rainwater marshes in those counties.

Separate seasons similar to 1977 were adopted for light geese (snows and blues) and the dark geese (Canadas and whitefronts). Light geese hunting will run from September 30 through December 24, and dark geese season will run from October 7 through December 17.

Light geese regulations are standard throughout the state, but zoning is involved for dark geese hunting. A portion of the Sandhills is again closed to dark geese hunting to protect a Canada goose restoration effort there. Also, hunters west of U.S. Highway 183 are allowed a more liberal limit on Canada geese prior to November 20.

With the exception of the western zone before November 20, the limit on dark geese is one Canada and one whitefront per day. In that western zone before November 20, hunters may take two Canadas instead of being limited to one Canada and one whitefront.

Bag limits on light geese are 5 per day and 5 in possession, unless a hunter bagged a dark geese. The total bag takes of all geese combined is five birds per day, which could include two dark geese and three light geese, or one dark geese and four light geese.

Days for the muzzleloading rifle deer season on the DeSoto National Wildlife Refuge were also set, opening December 15 and closing December 20.

Trapping Zoned
Trapping regulations were decided at the same session. Commissioners zoned the state for trapping of mink, muskrat, raccoon, and opossum, with different opening dates for those species in the southeast. The southeastern fur-bearing zone lies east of U.S. Highway 81 and south of Nebraska Highway 2.

The muskrat and mink seasons open November 15 in the southeast and November 11 in the rest of the state. Both seasons close throughout the state on February 28.

Raccoon and opossum seasons open in the southeast on November 15 and the rest of Nebraska on November 11. Closing dates on raccoon and opossum is February 15 across the state. Commissioners also closed the running season for coon dogs for two weeks before the opening of the raccoon season in all parts of the state. Beaver regulations are uniform statewide, opening on November 25 and closing February 28.

Commissioners set a new trapping regulation for 1978, banning the use of baits in plain sight within 30 feet of leghold traps set on dry land. Baited traps will still be allowed in or under water. The regulation was adopted to prevent the unintentional trapping of birds of prey drawn to traps by bait.

Other business
At a morning session, the Commissioners conducted several other items of business, including a hearing on recreation developments on the North Loup Project. Following nearly an hour of testimony on both sides of the issue, the commission voted to refrain from making any agreement with the Bureau of Reclamation on recreation developments until several questions are settled involving fish, wildlife, and outdoor recreation aspects of the project.

The morning session included two public hearings. One involved regulations dealing with the issuance of permits to allow the shooting of coyotes from aircraft in areas of the state where coyote populations have risen to troublesome levels. The other hearing involved regulations requiring that all bobcats taken in Nebraska be tagged by the Game and Parks Commission within 48 hours of capture. Both sets of regulations were adopted.

In other action at the morning session, the Commission:
Approved a budget for Fiscal 1979 of nearly $15 million, with only about a 4.5 percent increase in General Fund appropriations.

Adopted a resolution calling for an 8.5 percent increase in employee salaries in Fiscal 1979.

Approved the purchase of 3.5 acres of land as an addition to Atkinson State Recreation Area.

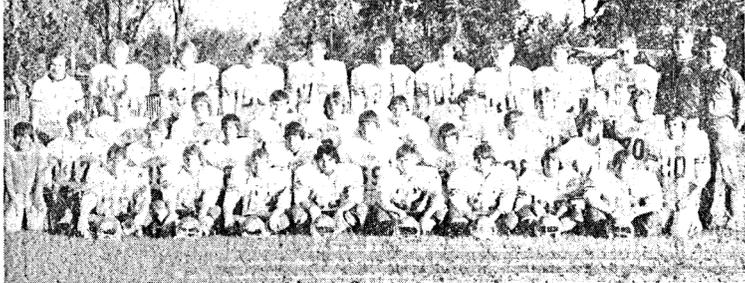

Next meeting of the Game and Parks Commission will be on October 13. That meeting will include a public hearing on sport fishing regulations for 1979.

Soap Scrimmage Reveals Chant Assets - Liabilities

Coach Jim Blessen gave his estimation of the team's preparedness in a Quiz interview Monday.

Positive points he mentioned were the offensive line and the job they did Friday along with the defensive tackling. In his opinion, defensive tacklers did a good job, but still need more work. While lauding the offensive line he added he thought the backs ran well during the Friday session.

Improvement was needed in a number of places according to Blessen. He expressed disappointment in the way Ord quarterbacks threw the ball. In his words, "They just didn't get the ball where it was supposed to go."

A bumper crop of penalties plagued both red and white teams during the game. Most noticeable

Wildcats Want to Break Dry Spell

This could be the year. At least that is what North Loup-Scotia volleyball coach Tim Lanik is wishing. During the 1977-78 school year the Wildcat girls varsity spikers didn't have a single win.

In his first year as coaching volleyball, Lanik said, "There are better times ahead. This year we'll win a few. I'm not going to say how many," he told the Quiz, "but there will be better times in the future."

He declined speculation on when the team spirit will jell. "I'd like to say it will happen by our first game," he wistfully replied. That will come August 31 when Scotia hosts Greeley.

Lanik's top ten Wildcat spikers will then help the school try for win number one of the past season and this one, too. The coach listed his top players as including Karen Clement, Jill Hamer, Lori Jeffries, Sharon Kriewald, Brenda Abel, Madga Gebhardt, Kim Sich, Karen Jensen, Carrie Sheldon, Debbie Holt, and Lisa Rasmussen.

Paving the way for those hopes for auspicious occasions, 26 girls reported when practice sessions started August 14. Individual potential is evident according to the coach but the bond of team spirit is lacking.

These players and others hope to break the current dry spell. Said Lanik, "Well, you can't lose forever."

Professional football is now so brutal, even hockey players are beginning to notice it.

State Pheasant Season Liberalized

A more liberal pheasant season, with an increased bag limit in most of the state and a longer hunt than last year in the Panhandle, was adopted by the Game and Parks Commission at an evening meeting August 25.

The liberalized regulations came in response to a statewide increase in the pheasant population, as reported by agency wildlife biologists testifying before the Commission. Their surveys showed increases in Nebraska's pheasant population of 31 to 46 percent over last year.

The 1978 season will allow hunters in all of Nebraska except the Panhandle a daily bag limit of three birds and a possession limit of nine, up from two and six last year. Season length will be roughly the same, opening November 4 and closing December 31.

In the Panhandle, where pheasant populations are still recovering from a string of severe winters a few years ago, limits will remain at two birds daily and six in possession. However, the season there was lengthened and will run November 4 through 30.

Spikers Give a Sneak Preview at Soap Scrimmage

Spiker fans got a sneak preview of the 1978-79 Ord High girls volleyball team during a soap scrimmage last week. Varsity coach Jan Weber has 27 girls out for varsity and junior varsity teams this year.

Twenty-four of these played in a three match series at Ord High Thursday. The squad was split into two teams, 12 players each. Angle Batenhorst headed one team while Weber was in charge of the other. Batenhorst's group took two out of the three matches with scores of 16-14, 15-12 and 15-17.

Said Weber of the preliminary game "The soap scrimmage gives us an idea how the girls will react under game situations. Occasionally, a girl looks better in a game situation than in practice or those who look good in practice do not perform as well in the game. It gives us an opportunity to observe all the girls."

Weber saw what she called "a few rusty spots" during Thursday's scrimmage. These included the serve receive and the team's accuracy.

The team has a strong serving ability but needs to become more aggressive in their spikes. Weber told the Quiz. Said the coach, "I believe this is an area that will improve as the season progresses."

She speculated the team will most likely have to specialize on some positions this year, such as substituting for a weak server, players playing across the front row only, and players with better serve receive skills playing the back row.

"Many of the positions on the varsity squad are still up for grabs," Weber stated, and then added "I expect to see changes in the 12 varsity players as the season progresses."

to Weber, is a preliminary one and not final.

These possible starters and others will fill several positions opened by graduation last year. Starters Jane Gogan, Sue Sitch, Wynne Adams, and Chris Anderson are now Ord High alumni. Just how well their replacements will do will be indicated August 31 when Ord goes to St. Paul. That host team, like Ord, graduated several girls last June. Most were in the 5'10" and over category according to Weber.

Ord has won six out of the last seven encounters with St. Paul. Weber called St. Paul "always a team with good servers," and added she anticipated a good match Thursday when they and Ord meet.

Last year, Ord varsity spikers had a 16-4 record. At the end of the 1976-77 season the year before, the Chant volleyball players amassed a 18-2 season end statistic.

Twenty-seven girls are out for the varsity and junior varsity spiker squads this year.

'Cats Concentrate on Teamwork

Teamwork may be the key to a successful season according to North Loup-Scotia coach Dennis Butts. In a Quiz interview Thursday, he said, "We had a few outstanding individuals last year, but we don't have them now."

These Wildcat stars included Mark Sintek, Richard Vogeler, and Todd Cook. All have graduated. To compensate for their departure, Butts and his Wildcats have been concentrating on teamwork.

"Right now," said Butts, "we have 8 seniors, 12 juniors, 6 sophomores, and 5 freshmen." They started practice on the Wildcat field in Scotia August 14. Drill sessions were an hour and forty-five minutes, daily.

They are getting in shape to face a season filled with changes. One new item this year is the change from an 11 man squad to an 8 man game. Butts explained the 8 man football squad as an 11 man team minus 2 linemen and one back. Five men on the line add 3 in the backfield will play on a gridiron 80 yards long and 40 yards wide.

Other changes include North Loup-Scotia's entering the Cedar Valley Conference this year. Schools Superintendent Al Newman said the change from the Loup Valley conference to the Cedar was prompted by the fact of 8 man teams in the Loup.

"Had to make the change now, or down the road," Newman said. A school board vote in the spring of the 1977-78 school year, switched NL-S from the 11 man to 8 man football team, effective at the start of this season.

This is the first year Butts has coached an 8 man squad. In preparation for his new assignment, he attended an 8 man coaching clinic this summer. He assured the Quiz that the isolation, triple option, and other familiar plays will still be in the Wildcat play-book.

This year's Wildcats are about the same size as last year's, according to Butts. The team may be a little less speedy, he speculated, but solid teamwork will compensate for this.

Players likely to lead the Wildcats this year, as listed by Butts, included:

— Allen Meyer, 6 foot, 160 pounds, offensive and defensive end. This is Allen's third year as a starter.

— Mike Holmes, 6 foot, 155 pounds, running back. As a sophomore guard, Mike gained over 700 yards. Last year, as a junior, he gained over 500 yards of real estate for the 'Cats. This will be his third year as a starter.

— Terry Meyer, a 6'2", 205 pound junior. Butts called the guard "the mainstay of our offensive line."

Other players mentioned by Butts included Bernie Ketchmark, Craig Gydesen, and Barry Newman.

They and their teammates will open their season September 1 when North Loup-Scotia plays host to Mullen at 8:00 p.m. Assistant varsity coach this year is Brent Moerer.

Game and Parks Commission Puts Calamus Recreation Issue On Hold

The Game and Parks Commission voted, during a meeting in Lincoln Friday, to defer any commitment for managing the North Loup project's recreational aspects. A Lincoln Star article, dated August 26, said the issue was put off until Congress is willing to give assurances that funds to enhance the fishery potential of the proposed 10,000 plus acres impoundment will be forthcoming.

The Twin Loups Reclamation District can provide funds to manage the recreational aspects of the project, according to Twin Loups president, Henry Lange. However, they have suggested the Game and Parks Commission manage the boat ramps, fishing, etc. The G and P Commission has reportedly balked because of what the Lincoln paper called a lack of potential of the proposed lake in terms of a sustainable fishery.

This problem is said to have started when the late Mel Steen, director of the Game and Parks Commission, gave his okay to the substitution of soil cement for rock rip-rap along the face of the dam.

At that time project engineers estimated that substitution would slash about $1.6 million off the cost of the project. At that same time, the loss of the rip-rap effectively eliminated the possibility of sustaining a continuous walleye population in the lake since the rock dam facing is used extensively in spawning by the fish.

According to the Star, Lange said his district would go ahead and sign a contract with the Bureau of Reclamation in the event the state Game and Parks Commission would vote "no" to assuming the financial obligation for managing the recreational site.

Even in this eventuality, Lange reportedly said, the Game Commission would be welcome to step back in at a later date.

According to Lange, about four acres of rip-rap could be included along the face of the dam, as the project now stands.

An additional development of spawning grounds would require a return to Congress for more funding, Lange was quoted as stating, since there is not enough time, the loss of the rip-rap at this time for fishery development in the project.

Game Commission members repeatedly stated that the project is appealing to them, but the unknown financial burden of turning the irrigation impoundment lake into a working fishery worries them.

Among those favoring the Game Commission taking over responsibility for managing recreational aspects of the project were Lange, Dave Wilde, project manager, and State Senator Dennis Rasmussen.

Speaking against the commission assuming immediate liabilities for the project were Joe Cass, county attorney for Loup County, Keith Harman of the Wildlife Management Institute, and Loren Willson, Lincoln, businessman and canoe trip outfitter.

Update Monday, Henry Lange signed a contract with the Bureau of Reclamation for the operation and maintenance of Calamus Project recreation facilities. In a Quiz interview Tuesday, Lange said he and the Reclamation Bureau will ask the State Game and Parks Commission to be consultants when forming plans for recreation in the project area. Said Lange, "This gives us a three way say". The three he referred to were the Twin Loups Reclamation District, the Bureau of Reclamation, and the State Game and Parks Commission.

Al Burson: Antique Car Collector Extraordinaire

"I remember so well when they first came out," Al Burson sighed. The "they" he referred to were the 1928 Model A Ford cars. He was 13 when they were first manufactured by auto pioneer Henry Ford. "They were," Burson recalled, "quite a car."
One outstanding feature of those automotive classics was the gear shift, an automotive first. Ford's Model T, predecessor of the Model A, had floor pedals for both reverse and first gear. A lever on the driver's side of the car shifted from low gear to high. There was no second gear.
Another innovation was the self-starter. Previous Ford models had to be hand cranked. Motorists forgetting to properly advance the spark on the car's magneto or improperly holding the crank often got broken wrists.
These problems were solved on the 1928 Model A's. Ord resident Rudolph Hasek purchased one of the first A's sold here. According to Burson, Hasek's car was the second Model A sold in Ord. He bought it from the Flagg and Toniciff auto agency, located at 204 South 14 where Cedarcrest Farm Antiques are now.
Those early automotive masterpieces cost around $700 according to Burson. "But if you put one up for sale now, it would bring quite a little more than that," the Ord banker chuckled. This likely is especially true of a model like Al owns.
Said Burson of his car, "It still has the original motor and original wheels. I painted it as near the original color (blue) as I could."
When first sold, Model A's came in black and blue. Two more colors, maroon and tan, were added to the Model A line during the 1930s.
Hosek, original owner of Burson's car, put the auto up for sale several years ago, after more than 40 years of service. Remembering his early fascination with them, Burson bought the car.
It was in good shape when he got it, Burson related. All he did was repaint it, put in new upholstery, and purchase a new tire. Parts for this and other older cars are available from specialty supply houses.
The only alteration Burson had made was to move the battery from under the driver's seat to a spot under the hood for easier accessibility. Other than that, the car is much the same as when it was brand new, back in 1928.
During the recent Valley County Fair parade, old-timers scoffed at some of the "modera" restorations of antique cars. Then Burson in his Model A drove by. "Now THAT," one critic exclaimed, "is an antique."
Burson was quick to agree his car is something special. During the Quiz interview Thursday, he drove it out of the garage where it is stored and pointed out its many features.
Watching Al and his carefully restored car, you caught sight of a 13-year-old kid, still impressed by those fabulous Model A's.

Greg Stine Attends School of Banking

Greg D. Stine, president of the Nebraska State Bank, Ord, was one of the more than 450 students who attended the 28th session of the Colorado School of Banking held at the University of Colorado at Boulder. Classes were filled in February for the August 6-18, 1978 session co-sponsored by the University of Colorado and the Colorado Bankers Association.

This session is the largest school ever being held at the CU business faculty. Starting in the late 1960's, the size of the school has tripled. Now 165 first-year students are admitted annually.

The primary goal of the Banking School, one of five graduate schools of banking in the United States, is to prepare banking personnel for more rapid advancement to senior management positions of extra responsibility.

Frascona said this is accomplished by three years of two-week summer sessions, followed by written assignments during the year. Upon completion of all classes and interim assignments, students receive the Colorado School of Banking Diploma.

The Banking School has been designed as a regional institution, and is open to students of all races, color, sex, and national and ethnic origin from all over the nation.

Meat Eaters By Choice

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M. M. Van Kirk, Director of Information

Americans ate 41 per cent more red meat in 1977 than they did in 1920 and continued a decided preference for beef than has been increasing steadily for years.

That is just one of many interesting pieces of information contained in the American Meat Institute's 1978 edition of "Meat Facts" which reflect a story of change in eating habits and how livestock producers adjust their production to fill customer demand.

Last year, per capita consumption of red meat in the nation totaled 193 pounds (figured on a carcass weight equivalent basis) of which 125.9 pounds was beef, 3.9 pounds was veal, 1.7 pounds was lamb, and 61.5 pounds was pork. This compares with 136 pounds per capita consumed in 1920 of which 59.1 pounds was beef, 8 pounds was veal, 5.4 pounds was lamb and 63.5 pounds was pork.

Note that virtually all of the increase came in beef consumption. Pork lost a few pounds from its total; veal lost one-half of its per capita market; and lamb nearly dropped out of the picture. The biggest increase in beef consumption has occurred since 1950 when the per capita figure was 63.4 pounds. Since then beef consumption has approximately doubled.

Many things affect the yearly historical figures, among them price and availability. For example, pork producers had their biggest year in 1946 when per capita pork consumption hit a high of 75.8 pounds. The closest they have come to that mark since was in 1971 with 73 pounds per person. In 1946, World War II had just ended and competitive beef supplies were tight. In 1971, hog prices were disastrously low for producers and pork had a definite price advantage.

The increase in beef preference since 1950 corresponds to what has been generally a prolonged period of relative prosperity and high employment on the part of the consuming public. Affluence was reflected in an appetite for quality meats, and the figures say that the leading choice was beef.

What happened to lamb? The market was traditionally in eastern United States for the bulk of lamb sales among ethnic groups, but enough other Americans enjoyed lamb in 1945 to boost per capita consumption to 7.3 pounds per person. The trend has been downhill ever since. A World War II veteran would probably say Army and Navy cooks who didn't know how to prepare lamb and mutton properly did the product a horrible injustice. Today, cooking and serving lamb properly is a lost art among most housewives and outdoor chefs.

If you think Americans are the biggest eaters of red meats, you are wrong. In 1977, Australians as usual held that honor with 230 pounds per person, followed by New Zealanders with 228 pounds; Argentinians, with 222 pounds and then Americans, 193 pounds.

With the dollar sliding in the world money market, it is interesting to compare U.S. red meat consumption with that of other leading industrial and financial nations — West Germany, 154 pounds per person; France, 153 pounds; Sweden, 117 pounds; Japan, just 41 pounds; and the Soviet Union, 93 pounds. One has to keep in mind that some of these nations depend on substitutes more tuned to their economies such as fish, dairy products and poultry.

Much is being made these days by food faddists and diet activists promoting the idea that Americans should eat less meat yet apparently there is little in medical statistics to indicate that nationalities with low per capita meat consumption are any healthier or living any longer than those whose national diets are meat-oriented. There are 218 million Americans today compared to 115 million in 1920 and they have been growing taller, stronger and living longer... a pretty good indication that their preference in diet is not all wrong.

Crop Water Use Details

The following crop water use data is supplied by the Lower Loup Natural Resources District and is published as a public service by the Ord Quiz.

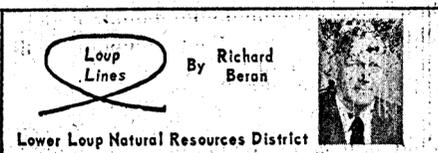

For the week of August 21 through August 27 crop water use for alfalfa under full cover was 1.53 inches; crop water use for corn was 1.37 inches.

Next week's forecasted crop water use for the week of August 28 through Sept. 3 is estimated to be: 1.70 inches for alfalfa under full cover; 1.45 inches for corn.

Producers please note: Immediately after cutting, water use for alfalfa will be 50% of the figure given; after 10 days, water use will be 75%. At 20 days after cutting, water use is the figure given.

An update is provided Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and made available through a toll-free Hot Line Number 1-800-652-9329.

Mrs. Willie McCain and family, Erickson, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Oldrich Hrebec to Grand Island Saturday.

The bottom line in a guest editorial by J. David Aiken, appearing in Water Current, published by the Nebraska Water Resources Center, says, "Nebraska's water planning and water policies appear to be in for a major change."

In 1965, Nebraska initiated its most recent water planning activities. At that time, the legislature directed that the state water plan would include an evaluation of the state's land and water resources, and an examination of legal, social, and economic factors associated with resource development. Aiken explains that, "Since most water development at that time was undertaken and financed by the federal government, the state plan was an attempt to insure that federal development would be responsive to and consistent with state resource goals and objectives."

One must remember that this all took place back in 1965, when it was popular to believe that the dog still wagged the tail. Now we find ourselves changing federal water policy changes, Nebraska will be redirecting the state water planning process to more closely conform with present administration policy.

What happens if, in two years, we vote in a new administration and they decide to change federal water policy? Do we then stop, regroup, and start a completely new direction to comply with a new federal policy? It's like an umpire that uses a new rule book every time he starts a game.

The one new concept we do see is the emphasis being directed toward ground and surface water conservation. This very important subject is mentioned whenever the federal water policy is being discussed.

Several federal agency efforts are being directed at water conservation and the different approaches now being used to encourage producers to incorporate water management into their farming operations.

Candidates for state and federal offices are emphasizing the need for irrigation water management. It appears that the efforts of several NRDs in the field of irrigation scheduling, promotion of the use of water flow meters, etc., suddenly becoming popular with those stumping for public office. We really felt they were important two to three years ago.

Nebraska still has several basic water decisions to resolve, including:

1. Conflicts among ground and surface water users.
2. Conflicts among riparian and appropriate water rights holders.
3. Groundwater management policies.
4. Interbasin transfer of surface water.
5. Determination of rights to use artificially stored ground-water.
6. Integration and coordination of ground and surface water allocation policy.
7. Coordination of water resource and water quality policy.

In the ensuing months, you will see some dramatic changes in both the state and federal water and land resource policies.

Erickson Awarded Insurance Honors

Kermit R. Erickson of Arcadia, Nebraska, has qualified as a member of the 1978 Star Club of New York Life Insurance Company.

The Star Club is composed of New York Life agents who achieved significant sales records in 1977-78, according to General Manager Duane D. Demaree, C.L.U., of the company's Nebraska General Office.

Insecticide Is Still Available

Chemicals for fighting grasshoppers are still available according to the County Agent's office in Ord. After getting a form from that office, farmers and ranchers can pick up the insecticide, toxaphene, at the Farmers Co-Op Elevator in Ord.

Toxaphene is available sans cost under the Governors Emergency Program. Valley County received $5,000 last month under that plan to fight grasshoppers.

Response has been especially good in the western half of the county, according to the agent's office. Hopper infestations have been severe there and especially bad around the Arcadia area, so the spokesman said.

Election Preview

"Power to the people" is a slogan best known for its use by the flower children and anti-war protesters of the 1960s.

But it also applies to provisions of the Nebraska Constitution that reserve for the people certain powers that are denied the Legislature and other state officials.

Nebraskans will get a chance to exercise those powers when they go to the polls for the Nov. 7 general election.

The powers are the right to amend the state's constitution, the right to repeal a state law without interference from the Legislature, and the right to pass the Legislature and enact new laws.

The November ballot will include 10 such issues. Eight of them are constitutional amendments, including seven proposed by the Legislature and one proposed by the people through petitions.

A ninth is an attempt to repeal the LB 33 school aid program passed by the 1977 Legislature, and the 10th aims to write a new law: the bottle bill.

The outcome of the vote will have major impact on various aspects of Nebraskans' public and private lives. Among them are measures affecting taxes, community development, solar energy and treatment of sex offenses.

Receiving the most attention so far is the lid petition effort, which would write into the Constitution a limitation of 5 percent on local governments' year-to-year budget increases.

Some 77,000 Nebraskans affixed their names to the petition to put the issue on the ballot — many said they were responding to talk of a nationwide tax revolt.

Initiatives for the petitions came after the Legislature three times refused to write a spending lid law conforming to Gov. J. J. Exon's criteria. Exon supported the petition effort.

Closely linked with the lid measure is the LB 33 referendum, which will render a final decision on a 1977 law raising state aid to local schools to $115 million over the current $55 million over a three-year period.

Legislative pay, an oft-occurring ballot question, has a new wrinkle this year. Senators' monthly pay is fixed at $400 in the Constitution and cannot be changed without an amendment.

This year's version of the issue would leave the $400 unchanged but allow senators to establish a system under which they could receive expenses and a daily sum for days on which they were engaged in legislative business.

The bottle bill, also rejected by the Legislature, would require 5-cent deposits on the cans and bottles in which beer and soft drinks are sold. It was put on the ballot as a result of petitions circulated by a coalition of farm, wildlife, veterans, political, recreation and gardening organizations.

Concern about the state's procedures for dealing with sex crimes prompted the Legislature to propose an amendment that would allow judges to deny bail release to people accused of serious sexual assault cases.

Currently, bail can be denied only to people accused of murder and treason "where the proof is evident" or "the presumption great" prior to trial.

Community development projects prompted two of the amendments. One would allow the Legislature to set up a system of tax increment financing for the redevelopment of substandard property.

Such property, once improved and placed on the tax rolls, would generate higher local property taxes than it did in its previous condition. The tax increment system would allow cities and villages to apply the amount of the increase — but not the original tax — to financing the redevelopment.

The other development measure would allow the Legislature to expand the provisions of the state's Industrial Development Bond Act to include warehouses as well as manufacturing facilities.

The solar energy amendment would exempt from property tax assessments any increases in value to a property caused by the addition of solar or wind energy equipment, solid waste conversion or water-powered alternate energy systems.

Another amendment would clear the way for the surviving spouses of certain public employees to receive pension benefits after being widowed.

Also up for voter approval is Waverly Sen. Jerome Warner's LR 1 from the special session of the Legislature last June. It directs the State Board of Equalization and Assessment to adjust tax rates where necessary for equalization in taxing districts that cover two or more counties if one of the counties is more than two years behind on reappraisal of property.

That procedure would be in force until 1981. After that, the Board would equalize valuations instead of tax rates when one county falls behind.

When a common rate is applied to similar parcels of property assessed at different levels, a tax inequity develops. The Warner amendment is an attempt to avoid such inequities.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Richardson were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Whitaker, Chambers. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bell and Lana, Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Rice, North Loup, were afternoon visitors.

Seeing What's Not There

A letter in this week's Vox Pop (Letters to the Editor) expresses a group of 4-H'ers and the Valley County Fair Board President's dissatisfaction with this paper's picture coverage of the fair. We'd like to use this space to reply and express our own feelings.

First, after carrying 18 pictures of the fair and livestock last year, and being severely criticized for our efforts, we sometimes wonder if it is possible to please some people.

Secondly, Editor Wade Misko (beginning his vacation that week and leaving the Quiz short-handed) did go to the fairgrounds early in the week to take pictures of handicraft judging. He was told to come back later — which he did, during an extremely busy day. On his return at the appointed time, he was told the judging wasn't complete and to come back later.

Lacking time the editor posed a couple of pictures, which later appeared in the paper, and returned to his regularly scheduled duties. As it was the Quiz carried 33 pictures having to do with the Fair and 4-H programs.

But let us back up. Fair Board President, Don Walker, called before the fair was in full swing. "What can we do for you?" we asked. "It's what I can do for YOU!" came the reply. The fair board president then advised us he was furnishing six rolls of film for Terina Trotter to use in taking fair pictures. This would relieve us of having to be there.

Envisaging the problems we might encounter — and the time required to process six rolls of film — we thanked the president for his offer, and told him we would make no promises of using any pictures.

As we left our office Monday evening of fair week the phone rang with a report some film was ready for us to process. With no time to process the film, it wasn't picked up as the caller had hoped. By week's end additional film was there for us, though we hadn't requested it.

By week's end Editor Wade Misko was on a long-planned vacation. This writer, short-handed, was trying to fill two jobs. The waiting film was going to take endless hours to process and could yield up to 216 negatives requiring more hours of sorting and printing. Covering two jobs and working weekends and some 16 to 18 hour days, we had more than we could handle without the film we hadn't requested.

We understand the unhappiness over our not using this film brought a suggestion, at a Chamber of Commerce meeting, that advertisers boycott this paper. Thankfully most of the merchants hearing the suggestion were aggressive and understanding business people, knowing advertising is to promote trade and not a weapon for resentment.

We offer this explanation only for a complete understanding of the readers. We've come to the conclusion we're damned if we do and damned if we don't. Some folks look so hard for what's NOT there, they fail to see what IS there. The 33 pictures we printed, and the results of all judging are an accurate appraisal of what we did do.

Quiz Series Starts This Week

This week the Quiz is publishing the first of a 10 part series, under the heading "Election Issues", dealing with Constitutional Amendment and Initiative issues that will be included on the November ballot in Nebraska.

By virtue of the Nebraska State Constitution each and every proposed amendment as passed by the Unicameral and Initiative Petitions as endorsed by the proper number of eligible voters must be published three times in each legal newspaper published in Nebraska.

This year there will be ten separate issues. The state spends a great deal of money to educate and inform the people about these important issues, and well they should.

Along with the state, newspaper publishers and editors also have an obligation of equal importance to the people. That is what this series of articles is about.

The first of these, in this week's Quiz, is an overall summary on the issues. The remaining nine articles will deal with individual amendments and issues.

With the election just 10 weeks away, we urge Quiz patrons to read these articles so that they will be better informed when casting their ballot next November.

State Will Vote On Bottles-Lids

By Melvin Paul

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association LINCOLN — Supporters of petition efforts to place on the Nov. 7 ballots proposals providing for mandatory deposits on beverage containers and a limit on what local governments can spend were advised recently by Secretary of State Allen Beermann their proposals will be placed before the voters.

The leaders of the signature-gathering campaigns said they were happy to receive official confirmation their many hours of work had been successful. But they acknowledge they still have a big task confronting them — convincing enough voters of the merits of their ideas.

Pat Jerrison of Lincoln, chief spokesman for the deposit legislation, said his group, Nebraskans for Returnable Containers, will need financial support to get its messages before the public. She didn't doubt that the opposition will have more money to spend.

During the press conference at which Beermann said enough names had been collected to place both issues on the ballot, Mrs. Jerrison announced Winifred Uhlinger of Lincoln will be co-chairman with her in the drive to convince voters of the need of a mandatory deposit law.

Mrs. Uhlinger said the organization is at work on an advertising campaign.

Opponents of the so-called bottle bill have indicated they will conduct an extensive — and expensive — campaign to defeat the measure.

One of the first things the opponents said they will do is review the 33,373 validated signatures on the bottle bill petitions to make sure the petitions satisfy legal requirements.

Because the bottle bill would become a part of the statutes rather than the constitution, only 31,591 names — 7 percent of the total ballots cast in the last gubernatorial election — were required.

The spending lid proposal would amend the constitution. For that reason 45,130 valid signatures — or 10 percent of the total cast in the last gubernatorial election — were needed to put that issue on the ballot.

A total of 79,018 signatures were submitted and 69,573 were found valid, Beermann said.

The secretary of state said he was surprised so many of the names had to be disallowed. He said confusion over the two petitions and the short period during which the names were collected may have been the reasons for the high percentage of invalid signatures.

He said most of the names that were thrown out were those of unregistered voters, persons not registered at their current addresses, or persons who signed a petition more than once.

The next step in getting the two proposals on the ballot will be up to the attorney general who will write the language in which they will be presented to the public. After the attorney general has completed that task, time will be allowed for appeals of the proposed wording, Beermann said.

He noted there will be 10 proposals on the November ballot. Eight will be for constitutional amendments. In addition to the bottle bill, there will also be a referendum on the law that would increase state aid to schools by $20 million annually for three years.

That law survived a gubernatorial veto but was later suspended, ed also by a petition drive.

S. H. Brauer Jr. of Lincoln, executive secretary of the Nebraska School Improvement Association, and one of the chief spokesmen for governmental spending limits, said he expects the Nebraska State Education Association to be in the "forefront" of the opposition.

He also said he is taking nothing for granted and hopes enough money can be collected so his side can adequately present its side of the question to the voters.

Water Atlas Published
A new atlas named "Groundwater Quality Atlas of Nebraska" is available to Nebraskans interested in the quality of their underground water supplies.

The atlas was published by the Conservation and Survey Division of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources and is the first of its kind produced in the state.

Fourteen maps show the concentration ranges of the major chemical constituents of the state's underground water. Another map shows sampling sites for seven trace constituents discussed in the atlas.

Copies of the publication are available at $3 each from the survey division.

Authors of the atlas are R. A. Engberg of the U.S. Geological Survey and R. F. Spalding of the UNL Conservation and Survey Division.

Dworak Unopposed
State Sen. Donald Dworak apparently will be unopposed in the Nov. election.

Harry A. Schumacher withdrew from the 22nd District race last week, Secretary of State Allen Beermann said.

Schumacher and Dworak, both from Columbus, were automatically nominated in the primary because their names were the only ones on the ballot.

Beermann said a petition candidate could get on the ballot if the candidate acted before the Aug. 29 deadline. A write-in candidate was another possibility, Beermann said.

Dworak is completing his first four-year term.

Another Power Study
For the third consecutive year, the Legislature has hired an outside consultant to take a look at the state's power industry.

This time the work will be done by Overland Park, Kan., economist, John Dunn, who will be paid a maximum of $8,100 through the year's end.

The last two studies cost $50,000 and $30,000. What the lawmakers are interested in is an expenditure was described by some of them as a "fiasco" and "a disgrace." The report submitted consisted of a seven-page sketch and basically recommended more study.

Dunn was officially hired June 27 but is still to tackle the assignment.

Sen. Richard Lewis of Holbrook, an advocate of state regulation of the power industry said Dunn and other interested parties will have to get together soon to decide precisely how to proceed.

Dunn's duties, according to the Legislature's contract with him, will include training three legislative staff members to begin analyzing possible regulatory schemes.

Lewis said the public power is so highly technical that the Legislature has no one on its staff who can deal with many questions that arise during discussion of the industry's problems.

Lewis also noted the power lobby is one of the very strongest in the state and that can make it difficult to get legislation dealing with power through the Legislature.

Geranium Joe Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

During the session at the country store Saturday night, the fellers was talking about man being the most endangered species of all. Ed Pota does the heavy thinking for the group, and it was him that reminded us that fer all the money and time we spend trying to keep the dirt snails, the whooping cranes and all the other plants and animals from going the way of the appendix and the disposer that man is the only animal on the face of the earth with a sure-fire plan to become extinct overnight.

What got Ed started was what he's been reading in the papers about what's going on while the SALT detente, let plane diplomacy, and international cooperation of every other kind have been grabbing the headlines. On the inside pages, Ed said, what we have come to nod at as the harmless-looking arms buildup has been with us for a long time. He saw a chart in a magazine recent that gave a breakdown between us and the Russians in the numbers of airplanes, ships, troops, and warheads of all flavors. He took note that the only place the United States is ahead right now is total blowing-up power, and this is where we can't be sure how the other side is doing.

For instant, Ed reported, we talk about our nice new bomb that just kills people real good, but don't fear the real estate. It's got all the modern conveniences where we can control pretty well how many people we kill with it. We know the bad guys have got this little item too, but we don't know how well they're stocked.

Fritz Pape didn't argue with Ed's weekly wrapup of the international scene, except to remind everybody that the Russians probably are giving their readers the same reason to keep on building bombs. And they have the advantage, Fritz went on, of not giving a hoot what the rest of the world thinks about what they do and say. Just the other week, he said, Russian courts found two American reporters guilty of libel for telling the truth, and the sentenced two of their own people to years in Siberian salt mines for the same crime. That Government believes in equality, it shuts up everybody without regards for anything, Fritz said.

Speaking of the Russians, Bob Edwards got off the doomsday topic by reporting where they now are claiming to be the first to do an inside loop. Bob said he took that to mean in an airplane, but you can't take nothing for granted when they boys. Actual, Bob said, the first recorded inside loop in history was performed in 1916 in Kansas USA, on a kitchen door during a cyclone. Bob said we got to claim 'em when we got 'em.

Turning to other items dealing with world's most endangered species, Frank Cernuk was happy to report that in Spring Grove, Ill. fat now is going for $4 a pound. Some years back a plant that works 900 there offered overweight employees $3 ever pound they'd lose. Inflation has caught up in more ways than one, Frank said, and now comes word that the prize-per-pound is $4, and 204 of the workers has signed up to lose 5,708 pounds.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

KERRY ON

— living —

Confronted with my own personal problems — and those of friends around me — I recently paused in a book store to glance over the latest self-help books. Often a few words or phrases from such books will give me something to ponder and enable me to constructively consider my own problems or turn my mind elsewhere.

Two phrases seemed to jump out of the pages of the tiny book I'd picked up. Though I ended up buying the book, I turned first to those phrases before I ever sat down and began, in earnest, to read the book from cover to cover.

Those two phrases I jotted quickly on a sheet of scratch paper and have carried them with me through much of the past week.

On one side of the tiny piece of paper I'd written, "We are all afraid of ceasing to exist — except through someone else."

Why did that phrase appeal to me?

What the author was saying — and what I was thinking, at the time — was that we use other people to prove our own existence. Be it love or anger turned against someone, often it's to prove our own importance. It's often our attempt at justifying our own uncertainties.

Using other people — in either love or anger — to prove our own existence means we've never learned to accept ourselves. For we must first accept ourselves to be able to accept others without needing to change them into our own conception of who they are and what they are.

Anyone we truly love or hate isn't going to serve as a mirror for us to reflect our own image. They are the ones who will express what they feel and think and not what we project upon them.

Consider those people heading your own list of friends or enemies. Aren't they the ones who are always straight and honest with you? They are the ones giving us not what we want, particularly, but what we need.

The second phrase I'd jotted down on the other side of the paper simply said, "There is a difference between independence that comes from strength and one that comes from a retreat from life."

It's easy to run away from problems. It's not easy to face them. But face them, we must, if we're to keep our own respect.

Many of the so-called self-help movements of today, and the cults we find forming, are hoping our retreats from life. Real strength and independence comes from learning to meet life head-on.

This leads me to one of the greatest bits of writing I've ever read — the words of Dag Hammarskjold written on Whit Sunday, 1941:

"I don't know who — or what — put the question. I don't know when it was put. I don't even remember answering. But at some moment I answered Yes to Someone — or Something — and from that hour I was certain that existence is meaningful and that, therefore my life, in self-surrender, had a goal."

Dear Mr. Editor,

We don't understand why you didn't have at least a few pictures of us 4-H'ers in the Quiz.

Terina Trotter was at the fair all four days taking pictures, for the Quiz, of the grand and reserve champions in the horse, swine, sheep, dairy, and beef shows. She went to a lot of work.

The Burwell Tribune had a whole page of absolutely nothing but champion 4-H animals.

Maybe your paper just couldn't make room for that many pictures, but you manage to get pictures of football, volleyball, basketball, etc. in it. So why couldn't you have cramped things just a little bit more and had a few 4-H fair pictures?

We put a lot of time and work into our animals getting them ready for the fair, so when you get named grand or reserve champion it is a real honor. We only wish that you would of supported us better by putting in a few pictures.

Something Different

I Like Bullfights!

Stretching from here south to the very tip of South America is Bullfighting Country. It's true. It is the favorite sport, the customary Sunday afternoon preoccupation, the delight of their not too exciting lives.

I think I've seen four; maybe it is five. In Madrid, in Mexico City, in Ajlajic, in Lisbon, and possibly in Bogota too.

And yes, I like them!

You say they're cruel? Well, is it treating your cattle kindly to rush them into a slaughter house, up the slope, have them thumped on the head, slashed and turned wrong end up to bleed? Is there anything kind about castrating a calf? Or nipping his ears? Or singeing your brand on him... smell that fiendish odor? Even inoculating isn't too pleasant.

Preparing for a bullfight an animal leads a life of ease, only to be teased in the bullring by experts. Skillfully they circle him, flinging a red cape... he doesn't see the color but only the movement. It files him up!

The picadors neatly place their darts in the heavy flesh in his neck, usually one at a time. The foreadors, the matadors, each man has his own job.

The beautiful horses, specially trained ones from Portugal are handsome and graceful-stepping, eluding the rushes of the bull usually. Not always: yet no one says "those poor horses". Some countries throw a quilted skirt over the horse, reaching down to his knees: this is to protect him from goring from the sharp horns of "zee booll".

When I was in Mexico City the little boys shinned up the steep old brick facade to sneak in to see the show. Playing bullfight is a favorite game with youngsters and they begin young. Like our sports stars, to be an expert bullfighter means a life of much adulation and money!

I swear the seats, expensive ones, aren't 15 inches square, and the place for your toes almost isn't there.

Notables and rich people sit down in front, close to the action, and special exhibitions of skill are performed close in front of them. If the matador excels he wins one ear, two ears, a tail, maybe all three. These trophies and his tri-cornered hat may be presented to the matador's Lady Love... or to El Presidente. As at any of our games, it is a noisy place, with wild cheers and Ole's and groans of horror.

Many spectators have botas, leather bags full of wine which they hoist high overhead, letting the fruity wine stream directly into their throats. They freely pass the botas around, more than urging all of us to have some. They would hardly take no for an answer!

Six or eight bulls make the program for the afternoon. If they fight well they die an honorable death. If they refuse to be baited they are taken out in disgrace. A team of horses often drags the poor overwhelmed bull from the ring... and all that pampered beef is duly butchered and given to the poor!

In I think it was Lisbon, wish I could recall, the chief attraction was a slim, beautiful young woman with shiny black hair and luscious dark eyes. Her richly embroidered black suit embellished her handsomely, and around her swarmed a host of attractive young admirers.

On her white horse she made a real picture, and time after time she and her mount slid between the angry bull and the wooden walls of the bullring, clearing by inches. She stayed at our hotel, and she was the toast of the populace.

One Sunday afternoon in Ajlajic I saw a quite different bullfight in the center of the old wooden grandstands... very few seats. Everyone stood. The local public, mostly poor and looking it, were delighted with the nonsense in the dusty, dirty ring.

Local favorites tormented the bull, who didn't look too happy. All the riders seemed to be feeling very little pain as they sucked on bottles of strawberry pop filled up with alcohol. One or two were making perfect clowns of themselves. The crowd roared even though it stood tiredly all afternoon.

Lil and I left before it finished, trudging across the corner to a big Catholic church, old, cool and interesting.

When the bells tolled at five or six o'clock most of the crowd followed us over to the church. It was a hilarious afternoon but we never did hear how it came out.

Football Contest

Read the easy Rules below:

A $5 cash prize will be given by The Ord Quiz each week to the person who picks the most winners from the games listed in each ad on this page. Here's all you do: Pick the team you think will win each game (there's one in each ad) and write that team's name in the corresponding blank in the special entry form provided here or a sheet of paper. For example: The team you pick to win game number 1 (found in the ad in the upper left-hand space of this page) should be written in blank number 1 in the entry form.

Also indicate your predicted score of the tiebreaker game in the space provided. Then write your name and address in the space at the bottom of the entry blank and bring it to the Quiz office by Friday at 5:00 p.m. (You have 2 days to enter this contest.) Entries may be brought in or mailed in, but will not be accepted after the deadline.

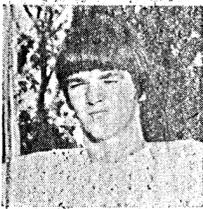

Only one entry per person may be made each week. If more than one person in your family wishes to enter, you may write their guesses on a separate sheet of paper.

Should two or more persons guess the same number of winners, the one predicting the nearest to the actual score of the tiebreaker game will be judged the winner. Otherwise, the score of that game will not be considered. Decision of the judges will be final. The winner will be announced in the Ord Quiz each Thursday. Everyone is eligible except employees of the Ord Quiz and their immediate families.

Better get the family together and start picking... now! Extra entry blanks may be picked up at the Ord Quiz.

Card of Thanks
Words cannot express our thanks and appreciation for the many acts of kindness and comfort shown us during the loss of our brother Jerome. We especially want to thank Frank and Dale Baldwin for taking over the dairying while we were in Wilber. Also many thanks to all our neighbors and friends who offered their help and to all who sent cards, memorials and brought food over to thank you to the pain bearers and altar boys and all the friends who made the trip to Wilber for Jerome's funeral. It really meant a lot to us and to Jerome's family. Your kindness will never be forgotten. God bless you all.

PERFECTION
That's Mr. Webster's definition. We think that's what we've done with our HI-PLAINS PERFECTION storage and drying bins. We've listened to thousands of farmers and ranchers over the years tell us about the features they like best in metal bins. We compiled all these good ideas and took them to a respected builder, the Chicago Eastern Corporation. They built them to YOUR specifications.

Why shouldn't the HI-PLAINS PERFECTION bin be the best on the market? After all, you know what you want in a quality bin. Holdrege Seed and Farm Supply just put it all together for you!

In Memoriam
In loving memory of Virgil Bennett, beloved husband, father and grandfather who passed away 7 years ago, August 29th.
Our tears were shed in tune to the quiet rain that fell on that day.
You suffered much in silence, your spirit did not bend, you faced your pain with courage.
Until the very end, in tears, I watched you sinking.
I watched you fade away, although my heart was breaking.
I knew you could not stay, "They say time heals all sorrows and helps us to forget", but time so far, has only proven how much we miss you yet.
God gave us strength to face it, and courage to bear the blow, but what it meant to lose you, no one will ever know.
Our hearts still ache with loneliness, our eyes shed many a silent tear. God knows how much we miss you as we end another lonely year.
Sadly missed by -

Come To Church

READ MATTHEW 16:21-27

"If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. For whoever would save his life will lose it, and whoever loses his life for my sake will find it." (Matthew 16:25-26)

The meaning of the cross is frequently misunderstood. We see it as a burden, but Jesus speaks of it as a release and joy. While we speak of freedoms and cherish them, it is ironic that most of life's real joys come from the burdens. Children are expensive, difficult to train, and often the source of fear and frustration. But in the long run, these so-called burdens are a great joy to us. The church is time-consuming, expensive, demanding, and sometimes the source of anger or disappointment. But most of us can attest to the strength and guidance and joy we have received from Christian fellowship in the church.

The same can be said of marriage, or a meaningful job, or just helping — a person in distress.

When Jesus calls us to take up our cross, it is not a somber calling to be burdened. It is an invitation to joy, an opportunity to discover that crucifixion is always followed by resurrection and new life. PRAYER: Set us free, Lord, from the prison of self into that new life, alive to Thee. Amen.
