

City Dads Approve Apartment Project

The City Council gave a planned 12-unit apartment complex the green light during their meeting in City Hall Monday night. The Council, during a public hearing, rezoned needed land one-half block north of the car wash along Highway 11 in East Ord. That change was from an R-1 classification (low density residential) to an R-2 category (high density residential).

Joe Sobotka and Mark Slaughter of Kearney had requested the change. They revealed plans to start work on the housing unit as soon as possible.

The municipal Planning Commission recommended granting their zoning change request June 26 in a meeting in Ord.

Ord's future growth had center stage again Monday night when a councilman Charlene Lora reported on a growth impact meeting held in the First National Bank June 28. The impact of workers coming into an area isn't as great as when they leave she reported to the council.

The impact study, coordinated by Region 26, is detailed in a story elsewhere in this issue of the Quiz.

Handibus

In other business, the Council heard a report on the first year's use of the senior citizens handibus. The van makes trips around Ord on a regular basis. The bus or van is financed through the Nebraska Public Transportation Department and donations of van users.

According to Ord Mayor Richard Rowbal, the van had 3711 in donations June 1978 to May 1979. Costs totaled $891 during that same period.

After discussion, the council renewed a one-year contract for the service.

City dads gave the fair parade and the July 4 baseball game donations Monday night. With those two requests, the city fund car marked for this purpose was wiped clean.

Donations

Richard Liss, representing the Ord Chamber of Commerce got $100 for the July 22 fair parade promoting the Valley County Fair. That reduced the account to $50.

A check from Ord Rotarians for $25 received Monday boosted the balance to $75. The Rotarians thanked the Council for their help in making the June 4 appearance of the Jungle Wonders Circus possible.

The remaining $75 went to the baseball promotion, scheduled for July 4, in Ord.

Mayor Richard Rowbal wondered what happened to the $100 donation the City gave the State Air Show. Scheduled for June 17 at Sharp Field, northwest of town, the event was cancelled by bad weather. Both council members and the mayor were unsure if the cancellation meant a return of the donation.

Budget Time

Donations and other financial matters will be discussed Tuesday, July 17. The council will meet at 7:30 p.m. to set up budgets for the coming fiscal year. The city's financial year starts next month. Budgets should be completed by August 1.

A request by Ernie Ulrich to park a trailer at 1212 R was the next item of business. The Council instructed City Clerk Wilma Kroeger to tell Ulrich his planned move had to meet with all municipal ordinances, and other city requirements.

A publication from the Region 26 Ord office was passed around. The promotional 15 page magazine, titled, "The Sandhills River Country", outlines points of interest around Ord and other areas.

Budget Will Get Center Stage at Ed Board Meeting

Mayor Rowbal suggested placing some of the free material at the Ord High Alumni social hour July 7 in the local Veterans Club.

Region 26 was heard from again Monday. A letter from their Ord office suggested insuring a supply of gasoline for emergency vehicles. Councilman Verlin Smith said, "talking to (service) stations in town could be the answer." Ord Police Chief John Young said this has been done.

Plan Approval

River View addition plans were approved. The industrial park, located just east of the fair grounds, has 10 lots or building sites. It is owned by Messrs. Stollesen, Clement, Stine, and Stowell, according to City Attorney Greg Jensen.

Approval was given a request by the County for a no parking space on the west side of the courthouse. The space will be used for loading, etc.

Farmers Market A Possibility In Downtown Ord

Ord area residents could have farm-fresh produce if plans revealed Monday materialize. Richard Liss, representing the Ord Chamber of Commerce, told the City Council plans for a seasonal once-a-week farmers' market here are pending.

According to Liss, farmers would be able to sell their produce at a lot located near the Production Credit Association building on K Street. The open air market is planned for Saturdays.

His request that the City Council close K Street, if traffic around the open air market became heavy, elicited a wait-

Area Growth Study Launched Thursday

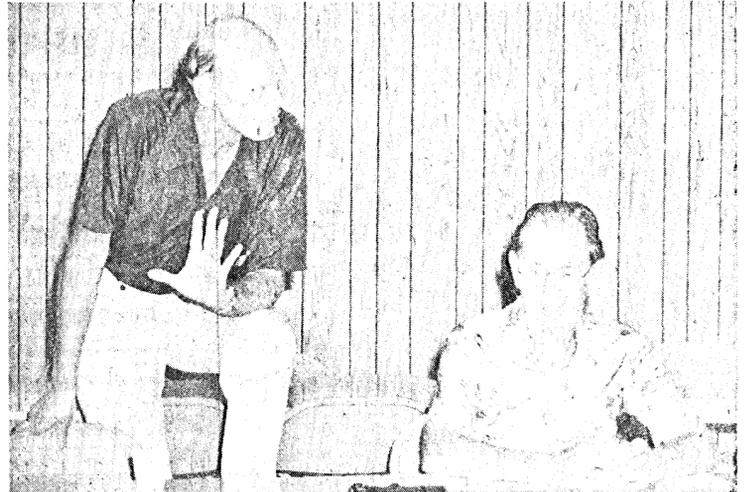

An informational meeting Thursday in the First National Bank launched the Region 26 area impact study. Members of the eight county Region 26 board along with members of various village and city bodies and Lemke and Miller met in Ord.

L and M were hired April 20 to do the $15,000 study listing options open to nine area towns in handling the expected growth from the Calamus and Comstock Projects. The former is an irrigation system pending and the latter a multimillion dollar coal-fired generating plant to be located near Comstock.

The nine towns included in the study are Arcadia, Burwell, Broken Bow, Comstock, Elyria, North Loup, Ord, Sargent, and Taylor.

Federal funds administered through the state are paying for the study.

The firm Lemke and Miller, of Kearney, were chosen for the study out of a final field of three firms.

Roskens told the audience it was up to them to decide what kind of a University they wanted, while outlining important decisions involving the school.

N.U. Approaching 'Critical Decisions' Roskens States

Ron Roskens, president of the University of Nebraska, told area residents Wednesday the school is "at a point where critical decisions have to be made." Roskens was speaking at the Veterans Club during a stop in Ord. He was here and in other towns drumming up support for the state school.

According to Roskens, the University of Nebraska has operated for four years without increases in the operating budget or salaries. "We've had to cut a great deal of the operating budget just to keep going," he revealed.

Faculty salaries at NU are among the lowest — if not the lowest — in the Big Eight, according to the school official.

"The question facing us is just where do we go from here," he told the audience. Options open, he outlined, included:

- Cuts in existing programs. Possibilities he mentioned included many of the more popular curriculum area at the University.
- Increasing funding. "In all probability," he admitted, "taxes would have to be increased." Student tuition has been hiked five to seven percent the last few years, Roskens revealed. This wasn't enough to solve the cash shortage problem, he stated.

Phased Program

Roskens revealed plans for a three-year ten percent annual increase in the University's budget. This will be considered further when school Regents meet in Lincoln next month, according to the speaker.

Roskens further suggested a one percent annual increase in retirement benefits on top of a further nine percent increase in the school's operating budget. This would cover the items purchased, etc.

"I'm not exaggerating when I say we have come to a serious juncture. What kind," he said, "what quality of university do we want. The dollars and cents will have to come from you."

His address was followed by a question and answer period. Questions asked included:

- What about N.U. professors using their expertise in acting as consultants on various projects? Earlier University of Nebraska Regent Robert Prokop had objected to the school's consultancy policy, among other things. According to Roskens, Prokop later apologized.
- Roskens conceded he couldn't say there weren't any violations of school policy, but maintained he didn't think there were many violations.
- Henry Lange stated that two weeks ago Nebraska Congressman John Cavanaugh made reference to a study done by Dr. Lloyd Fischer, of the University of Nebraska. Fischer's study concerned the cost-benefit ratio of the Twin Loups Project. "Does he (Fischer) speak for the University?" Lange wanted to know.
- Roskens admitted there are constantly questions about who speaks for the University. He replied, "If a person claims he is speaking for the University, he is wrong." But if he says a study based on data is his own conclusion, "that is another matter," in Roskens' words.

Lange suggested a letter to John Cavanaugh would be in order. "Fair enough," Roskens replied.

Kermit Erickson wanted to know just who actually does have authority at the University. "The Board of Regents," Roskens said.

— Ord High guidance counselor Eldon Buoy questioned graduate assistants teaching introductory courses. Students often feel they aren't getting the quality of education they're paying for and often have trouble understanding the professors' assistants, according to Buoy.

Roskens replied that most universities use graduate assistants, presumably supervised. "But this isn't always the case," he admitted.

Foreign graduate assistants, frequently used at the university, often have trouble with their pronunciation, according to Roskens. He supplied statistics showing 70 percent of the NU graduate assistants come from places other than the United States.

Roskens outlined a pending plan between state schools in Kansas, Missouri, and Nebraska. Under that possible agreement, graduate students could enroll in states colleges in the three states and would be charged in-state tuition rates.

"This leads towards building areas of excellence and not duplication," Roskens maintained.

Lawsuit Is Called Fairy Tale Chapter

Nine hundred and thirty-five people had until Monday, July 2 to respond to what one Loup Project proponent called "the last chapter of Grimm's Fairy Tales." That "last chapter" is a suit filed by Oswald (Jack) Alt of Wolbach.

Constant Fear

A lengthy six-page legal document claims, among other things, that Alt lives in constant fear for his security and livelihood, that this action has upset the tranquility of the plaintiffs life, that this abuse of power has put a strain on the plaintiff, that the arbitrary and heartless action of the defendants has disturbed the peace and tranquility of the community.

After calling Twin Loups Reclamation District legal counsel Cy Shaughnessy "... a pettyfogging court room shyster..." Alt goes on to request attorney's fees of $100 an hour plus $500,000 in exemplary damages, $500,000 in punitive damages, and an additional $500,000 in general damages.

A sheet attached to the document asks defendants questions including the amount and location of their property, the amounts of liability insurance they have have they ever been to jail and when, etc.

One Ord attorney called the case "... ridiculous..." and stated it was an improper pleading not falling within applicable state statutes.

Alt's chances of receiving his $100 an hour attorney fees are slim, according to the lawyer. A person acting as his own legal counsel can't do that, he said. It's a point of law.

There are activities galore at the Ord municipal pool. A water show is scheduled for July 12, Thursday at 7:30 p.m. A water ballet, swimming, races, diving competition and other events are on the program.

July 16, the second session of swimming lessons is scheduled to start. Interested persons should sign up at the Ord pool before July 11.

Pool manager Jim Christensen revealed life saving classes and the first session of swimming classes are now underway. Advanced life saving classes for life guards will start in the near future, he told the Quiz.

Pool hours this year are from 1:00 - 5:00 p.m. and from 7:00 - 9:00 p.m. The pool may be rented for private parties, etc. Thursday night.

Dr. Hans Steinhoff in Washington, D.C. discusses agriculture and farm life in Germany with Bryce Ritz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald H. Ritz. Bryce is a participant in the FFA WORK EXPERIENCE ABROAD Program and is spending the summer in Germany where he will live and work on a family farm.

Bryce Ritz Is Germany Bound

Bryce Ritz of Comstock met with Dr. Hans Steinhoff representing the German Embassy at a luncheon sponsored by the National FFA Organization in Alexandria, Va. Bryce was one of 29 FFA members who met with Attachés from the countries in which they will spend the summer as exchange trainees in the FFA's Work Experience Program.

Bryce, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald H. Ritz and a member of the Ord FFA Chapter will spend six months in Germany.

Luncheon

The purpose of the luncheon was to give WEA participants an opportunity to visit with host country representatives and discuss the customs, lifestyles, and agricultural methods they will encounter while abroad.

The luncheon was part of a three-day orientation program conducted by the National FFA organization for WEA participants prior to leaving for Europe on Wednesday, June 6. Following the orientation in Virginia, Bryce and other FFA members departed Washington, D.C., for a further briefing in St. Martin, West Germany, before travelling to their placements in the host countries.

Bryce will be living with Gustav Schroder, Of Haassel, D-3119 Altenmedingen.

The FFA Work Experience Abroad Program is sponsored by the National FFA Organization to give FFA members an opportunity to become acquainted with students and adults in other nations. Participants live and work with host families observing and using the agricultural methods of their host country as they learn the history, culture, traditions, and lifestyles.

In September Ritz will travel to Frankfurt, Germany where he will join other exchange students for an agricultural tour of Germany, Denmark, Sweden, and Holland, followed by a two-day program evaluation conference. The tour is being arranged by the FFA in cooperation with other European youth organizations.

Shortfall of Moisture Bringing on Irrigation

Extremely humid conditions prevailed over much of Nebraska early this week as a cool front remained stationary and wasn't triggering needed showers — though they remained in the forecast over the July Fourth holiday and into Thursday.

By the latter part of the week temperatures were expected to reach highs of 85 to 92 with the possibility of a few scattered showers. Unless rainfall comes quickly, irrigation will be underway in earnest later this week through most of the region.

The month of June brought only 2.39 inches of moisture to Ord for a yearly total accumulation of 14.83 inches. Average high for June was 82.7 and average low was 55.3 for a mean temperature of 69 degrees — about average for the month.

Church Dedication To Be Held July 8

The dedication ceremony July 8, 1979 will culminate five years of struggle to rebuild after a tornado demolished the Catholic Church in Arcadia. The Sacred Heart Parish started rebuilding in February 1976 and this year, no debts outstanding, have realized their dream.

Summer Math Classes Will Begin July 16

The Title I Summer Math Enrichment Program will begin Monday, July 16 and end Friday, August 10. Students in grades 1 through 8 from Ord, Public, Comstock Elementary, and St. Marys are invited to participate. The only criterion for participation is that the child has scored below the 50th percentile in math on the SRA Achievement Test.

Sessions will run from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. and from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. Monday — Friday. Schedules will be arranged to accommodate summer student activities whenever possible.

Letters will be sent to parents of children who qualify. Parents may register their child by phoning any one of the three participating teachers — Mrs. Rachel Weinman, Gary Patch, or Miss Lu Gibb.

Kizers Injured In 2-Car Crash

A two-car crash in Grand Island Wednesday sent a former Valley County Hospital administrator to a hospital in Grand Island. Wilbur Kizer, 55, was east bound on Bismark when the accident occurred.

Kizer had halted for a stop sign on Bismark. He was pulling away from the sign when struck by 1972 Cadillac driven by Charles E. Delarm of Grand Island. Delarm was headed south on Shady Bend Road when he struck the 1975 Pontiac driven by Kizer. The collision reportedly totaled both vehicles.

Kizer, 55, was reported in serious condition at St. Francis Medical Center. His wife, Amelia, who was riding with Kizer, was listed as being in fair condition.

Correction

Holly L. Shoemaker of North Loup was fined $15 for improper use of a school permit, not improper use of a school bus.

Hal Pierce was master of ceremonies at the project proponents meeting.

Loup Backers Hold Recognition Affair

An estimated 170 Loup Boosters and friends held a recognition dinner in St. Paul Tuesday. "This isn't a victory dinner," master of ceremonies Hal Pierce said, "but recognition for a job that isn't done."

That "job" the completion of the North Loup or Calamus Project, will end when the project is finished and farmers receive irrigation water. According to Dave Wilde, of the Reclamation Bureau, that will come in 1988. Specifications for the dam foundation, located just north of Burwell, will be completed this August. The first water from the project will be delivered in 1983, Wilde told the audience.

Henry Lange, president of the Twin Loups Reclamation District, said it "takes a special kind of person" to promote irrigation projects, someone, he said, who can "plan for future generations." Lange estimated it takes about a generation to bring in an irrigation project.

Lange has worked for over thirty years on bringing the Twin Loups Project to completion.

CAROL'S CORNER

HAPPY BIRTHDAY ... This is my country's birthday — July 4.

So what's the big deal? Well, my country provides not only the world's highest standard of living — the most automobiles, refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, television sets, automatic washers, the tallest buildings — but many blessings far more important than material things.

And now you are wondering what are they? Oh, so many things like

- ... voting for whomever I please.
- ... giving 'em a piece of mind and still staying in one piece.
- ... locking or opening my door whenever I wish, for my home IS my castle.
- ... praying to my God or not praying.
- ... criticizing a baseball umpire or my mayor or even the president and still be considered a good citizen.
- ... bowing my head to nobody.

And these are only a few of our priceless blessings. Maybe this is the simplest way of putting it: Our country gives everyone the chance, the freedom to strive and to achieve.

That's why I feel this is good reason, indeed, to wish my country a happy birthday.

Scotia residents enjoyed a flea market and a bit of drama Saturday. Clubs, organizations, and individuals set up tables in downtown Scotia, selling various wares. Community Theatre members gave three performances of "The Defenseless Creature," based on Neil Simon's "The Good Doctor". Susan Manchester was the defenseless creature who had banker Darrel Vance and his assistant Richard Johnson (left to right) going in circles. On entering the bank Susan was shy when trying to settle a business matter. By the play's end her personality changed completely. She ended up dominating both men.

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Schneider . . . June 23

Micek-Schneider Say Vows In Afternoon Church Service

Sue Micek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Syl Micek of Elyria, became the bride of Junior Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Schneider of Burwell, on June 23 at a 4 p.m. ceremony performed by Father Stanley Gorak at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church.

The organist was Mrs. Deb Eppenbach. Vocalists were Cindy and Chris Anderson, accompanying themselves on the guitar as they sang, "Turn Around," "I Really Got the Feeling," and "Love's Grown Deep."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a floor-length gown of sheer organza and cluny lace. English schiffli embroidery dotted with seed pearls formed the Cameo effect on the front bodice. The sheer, bishop sleeves were trimmed with cluny lace on the cuffs. The empire waistline was encircled with Venice lace motifs; covered buttons accented the back of the bodice. The full flared skirt, which flowed into a chapel length train, was dotted with Venice motifs and the skirt and train were trimmed with two rows of narrow cluny lace. The bride chose a picture hat of hairbraids. It was trimmed with Venice lace motifs and had draped moline band and pouf bow with veil and streamers down the back. The bride's bouquet was peach sonja roses, white daisies, ivy and baby's breath.

Mrs. Eileen Kuhnle of Seward, friend of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Deb Dubas of Elyria, Cheryl Fisher of Omaha and Mrs. Julie Chilcott of Hastings, friends of the bride. They wore apricot blouson gowns of lustré Sileste with macrame trim at the neckline. They carried single long stem peach rose wands and wore daisies in their hair.

Linda Janicek, cousin of the bride, and Michelle Dilsaver, niece of the groom, were flower girls. They carried white wicker baskets of daisies. Brenda Janicek of Burwell and Stephanie Vodehnal of Schuyler, cousins of the bride, were candlelighters.

Lex Jeffres of Burwell was best man. Bernard Petska of Ord, John Kovarik and Fred Thoené of Burwell, friends of the groom, were groomsmen. They were attired in white tuxedos and apricot shirts. Ushers were Randy Gydesen, Mel Gideon and Mike Usasz.

A buffet reception was held following the ceremony at St. Mary's Auditorium. A dance was held at the Legion Hall in Burwell.

Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Micek of Columbus and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Dunbar of Comstock. Mrs. Joani Dilsaver, sister of the groom, was at the guest book. Pouring coffee was Mrs. Sharon Shetterly, pouring punch was Mrs. Maxine Drahota, and cutting and serving cake were Mrs. LeVerna Simpson and Mrs. Carolyn Rayno. Friends of the bride, Nancy Peterson, Jane Usasz and Mrs. Cathy Wojtalowicz, were at the gift table.

Following a trip to Lake Okoboj in Iowa, the newlyweds are at home on a farm near Burwell.

Rehearsal Supper
The rehearsal supper on Friday was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Schneider at the Ord Elks Lodge.

Pearsons Return
Mr. and Mrs. Hiding Pearson returned this last week from a two week tour of the Scandinavian countries. The Pearsons were with a group of Shriners from the Hehmah Temple for the tour. Countries that they visited included Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. Of special interest to Hiding, was the area in Sweden where his father was born.

Arthella Ramsey and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Oliver were guests Thursday afternoon of the Emanuel Vodehnals.

Teresa Donovan-Dennis Winter Exchange Vows At Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Greeley

On June 23, Teresa Donovan of Greeley and Dennis Winter of Scotia were united in marriage at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Greeley. Father Walter Phelan performed the 3 p.m. double ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Donovan of Greeley, and the parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Malvin Winter of Scotia.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of polyester knit with a cotton netting bodice insert with a keyhole opening accented with lace appliques. The empire waist was trimmed with lace. The bishop sleeves had lace applique trimmed cuffs. Her veil was finger tip length with simulated seed pearls and lace applique trim. The bride carried a bouquet consisting of spruce flowers, wild roses, and lily of the valley.

The matron of honor was Mrs. James (Peggy) Hopp of Greeley. Her blouson gown of polyester knit was a dusty blue with cream lace. It featured lace yoke and cuffs, and a ruffled lace collar with bow trim. Her bouquet consisted of ivory daisies, baby's breath, and large blue carnations. The flower girl was Malissa Winter of Fairbury.

All the bouquets were hand made by Paula Harris of Greeley. The other flowers for the wedding were made by Michelle Donovan of Greeley.

Best man was Douglas Winter of Scotia and ushers were Tom Donovan and Randy Winter.

A wedding dance was held in the evening from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Sacred Heart Gym.

Wyoming Couple Says Vows In Outdoor Ceremony, June 3

Karen Marie Cox and Robert Frank Miller, both of Green River, WY, were united in marriage Sunday, June 3, in an early afternoon outdoor ceremony on the banks of the Green River. Rev. Michael Dearing of the White Mountain Christian Center solemnized the double-ring ceremony. In attendance were the couple's families and several close friends.

The "Wedding Song" and "God, A Woman and A Man" were sung by Rev. Dearing, who accompanied on guitar, and Mrs. Karl (Jacque) Cox. Rev. Dearing sang "Thy Steadfast Love" at the conclusion of the ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald H. Cox of York, wore a muslin and lace wedding gown and carried a basket of yellow, white, blue and bronze daisies, yellow cysanthymums and baby's breath. A wreath of daisies and baby's breath adorned her hair.

The groom's honor attendant was Mrs. Craig (Patti) Decker of York.

The groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Otis W. Miller of Ord. Best man for his brother was Jon Miller, also of Ord.

A reception followed the ceremony at the White Mountain Christian Center in Rock Springs, Idaho, and Wyoming, the couple returned to Nebraska where they were honored at a reception at the Village Inn in York.

The couple is now at home in Green River, WY, where the groom is employed with the Wyoming Highway Patrol.

Bride Debra, Groom Spencer . . . June 9

Debra Newcomb Is June Bride Of Spencer Douthit at Ord

Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church in Ord was the setting June 9 for the wedding mass uniting Debra Ann Newcomb of Lincoln and Spencer Anthony Douthit of Ord. Father Stanley Gorak performed the 2 p.m. double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. George Newcomb of Aurora and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Douthit of Ord.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a floor length lace gown. The bodice featured a Queen Ann neckline accented with seed pearls. The full, sheer sleeves were cuffed in lace. The front of the skirt was accordian pleated with a lace overdrape. Her floor length mantilla veil was bordered with lace. The bride wore an initial necklace which was a gift of the groom's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Douthit, and carried a bouquet of ivory roses, mini-blue carnations and baby's breath with blue ribbon streamers.

The matron of honor was Linda Naeve of Lincoln, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Pat Reeve of Aurora, sister of the bride, Marlys Dworak of Ord and Galen Holtorf of Lincoln. They wore identical ice blue blouson dresses. The floor length dresses featured lattice yokes and full elbow length sleeves. They each carried a single ivory rose with baby's breath and ivory ribbon streamers.

Steve Todsén of Ord was the best man. Groomsmen were Dick Dworak of Lincoln, Gary Augustyn of Ord, and Randy McFall of Longmont, CO. They wore western cut beige tuxedos. The ushers were Mike Sullivan of Mason City, Tom Dworak of Ord, Steve Turek of Ord, and Dan Wolfe of Lincoln. Charlie Reeve of Aurora, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer.

Linda Wattman was the organist. Steve Wolf sang, "Just The Way You Are," accompanied on the piano by Collyer Cronk. The reader was Mike Zulkoski of Kearney.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Elks Club with Bob and Norma Todsén and Ken and Barb Collins as the hosts and hostesses. Rhonda Cox was in charge of the guest book. At the serving table were Louise Rasset and Stacey Parkos cutting the cake. Chris Hackel poured coffee, and Barb Swanson served the punch.

The couple is at home in Ord.

Mr. and Mrs. Luoma took Mr. and Mrs. Cote to Sargent Sunday morning, and from there, Mr. and Mrs. Cote and Mrs. Verna Luoma left for Tucson, AZ. Mrs. Frank Rizzo and Paul returned home to Hayward, CA

Tuesday, after visiting her mother, Mr. and Mrs. Irving King. Mrs. Sharon King, accompanied by Mrs. Harold King, took them to the airport in Grand Island. Mrs. Rizzo and Paul had visited the Harold Kings last Monday.

Babbles by Bertha

Our friend, Ed Hackel of Ord, was taken to Valley County Hospital Sunday.

Tuesday night of last week, Phyllis, Dianne, Vickie, Kathleen and I (all Clements) attended a bridal shower for our granddaughter, Theresa, by the women of the Seventh Day Baptist Church in North Loup; 27 were present. Theresa invited all of them for dinner after they were settled in Broken Bow. It was a food shower.

Don met Phyllis' mother, Ruth Babcock of Santa Ana, CA and her aunt, Jessie Babcock, also of California, at the airport in Grand Island late Tuesday. Ruth, who came especially for Theresa's wedding, is a houseguest of Don and Phyllis, and Jessie is visiting her sister, Leona Babcock in North Loup.

George's sister, Elva Hayden, arrived from Jamestown, CO Thursday, and is a house guest of George and Mary Bell who met her plane in Grand Island. Another wedding guest.

Kathleen, Don and Phyllis Clement, Elva Hayden, Alysce Blessing, Russell and Vickie Clement, and George and I were Thursday supper guests of Ken and Charlene Clement. Tom was present too.

Don and Phyllis' home overflowed with guests Friday night. Kind people offered beds for the overflow.

After the rehearsal dinner at the Veteran's Club Friday evening, most of that group came to see George's paintings.

Kathleen, Russell and Vickie Clement had supper with George and Mary Bell and Elva Hayden at the Bell home Friday.

Saturday was the wedding day of our granddaughter, Theresa Clement, and Dave Heider. She was a lovely bride and we like her choice. Her brothers, Edwin and Victor, were groomsmen. Brother Rex was a soloist and Edwin's daughter, Angie, was flower girl. That reminded me how Theresa, not quite two, was flower girl at her Aunt Kathleen's wedding. Dave's family was well represented too.

Ray Schutze and son, Adam of Kearney, visited Kathleen at our house after the wedding (so too). They have art as a common interest. Ray, a professor in the art department at Kearney State College, has paintings, pictures, sculpturing and glass blowing as his lines. As the husband of my niece, Rosemary, he and Adam represented my sister, Lydia, and Oscar Breddhauer's family. The rest had gone to attend the July 1 wedding of my grand niece, Leslie Jackman, in California. One more to go of the four weddings in the family.

Kathleen returned to her home in Mexico City Sunday. George and I took her to the airport in Grand Island. A pleasant surprise for her was meeting an Ord High Classmate, Dot Kokes Spidel of Minneapolis at the airport.

Jack and Neva Hunt of Denver were supper guests

Mrs. Bruce Reinboth and Shannon of North Platte were house guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Foth and Kim from Tuesday to Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Breddhauer attended the wedding of Judy Connor and Lennie McCain at Bartlett Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Lammers attended the wedding of his cousin, Mary Studley, in North Platte Saturday. Mrs. Stan Johnson of Sun City, AZ was a Saturday dinner guest of the Eugene Breddhauers. She also called on the Lores Honickels.

Mr. and Mrs. Rick Breddhauer, Amy and Chad, visited her sister and brother-in-law in Lincoln Sunday, June 24.

Marion Huffings of Hastings visited his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Huffman, Thursday enroute home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Upson and Jennifer, Beaver City, were weekend guests of her folks, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Huffman. Mr. and Mrs. Marion Huffman and Tina, Hastings, were Saturday evening and overnight guests, then went to Ainsworth. Mr. and Mrs. Dave Uden and Michael of Milwaukee joined the family group Saturday evening.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Huffman were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Uden and Michael of Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Don Uden, Linda and Lori, Juniata; Mrs. Rose Fuss, Scotia; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Upson and Jennifer, Beaver City; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lange, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Lange and Cheryl and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Lange and Carrie. P. J. Seefus of Scotia called Sunday evening to visit with all of the group.

Friday dinner guests of the Eldon Langes were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Uden and Michael of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lange and Mr. and Mrs. Duane Lange and sons.

Sunday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hackel for roping followed by a barbecue were Mr. and Mrs. Don Walker and Duane, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wray and family and Mrs. Darrell Hackel and family.

Jack Duval attended a workshop on hog management in Elk River, MN Monday through Friday last week.

Mrs. Gordon Foth took her daughter, Barbara, to Omaha Friday. Saturday, Barbara joined a group of other young folks and left for White Lake, WI where they are at Silver Birch Ranch

Camp for AWANA trophy winners. Little Danny accompanied his mother and sister to Omaha.

Gretchen Foth, York, spent the weekend with her folks, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Foth and Kim and attended the wedding of Theresa Clement and Dave Heider.

Mrs. Richard Burrows took grandchildren Jennifer and John to their home at Wallace Sunday after a weeks visit here. She, Victor and the Allan Burrows family went to Lake Me-C-O-N-A-U-G-H-Y. Mrs. Burrows returned home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rich Burroughs of Norfolk visited Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hackel and children Sunday and all went canoeing on the Calamus.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Foth and Cindy were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Brown at Kearney. Cindy's fiancée, Randy Brown was also present.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Foth, Jr., Paul and Karen visited Patty at Kearney Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Alice Bocketstadter, Sandra and Renae, Wood River, were Friday overnight guests at the Lores Honickel home having come for a linen shower for Ronda.

Irrigation Pumping Plants Get a Clean Bill of Health

Area irrigation pumping plants got a clean bill of health during the Thursday, June 28 meeting of the Lower Loup Natural Resources District in Ord. Lower Loup manager, Richard Beran, said most of the 14 wells tested within the last 30 days surpassed standards set by Nebraska authorities.

Through the study, two wells in Custer County were raised about eight percentage points, the Lower Loup manager related. According to Beran the smooth working irrigation wells mean an annual $350 savings in energy costs.

NRD directors discussed legislation of the 81st Unicameral session adjourned last month in Lincoln. Legislation that just concluded first session included:

— LB 26 — Amendments to the Nebraska Groundwater Act, changing the procedure and criteria for establishing a control area, in case of water shortage or pollution.

— LB 45 — Changing state law provisions relating to construction of dams. It provides larger structures can be built sans prior approval from the Department of Water Resources.

— LB 213 — Requiring consultants to file and coordinate between the State of Nebraska, counties, and resource districts on planning and construction of road structures.

Eighteen applications for the wildlife habitat program were approved. Under that plan, areas are set aside for wild game use. Four wildlife applications were cancelled at landowners' requests.

Engineering reports from Ted Hall, District NRD engineer, were heard. They were reports on:

— The Anselmo Flood Control Project.
— The Ravenna Flood Control Project.
— Progress with a permit from the Corps of Engineers on the Oconee Bend Project in Platte County. That will involve a channel bank protection being restored.

NRD staff member, Doak Nickerson reported on a possible infection of monomopsis, a fungus affecting cedar trees.

Ted Hall revealed two road structures in Sherman County didn't qualify for the Lower Loups program. The structures were to be replaced.

NRD assistant manager, briefed the board on the operation of the hydroseeder. That machine applies grass seed, mulch, and fertilizer in a liquid slurry to roadsides or graded slopes. The mixture is sprayed onto the area with a hose or spray gun.

The board reviewed water quality reports for Custer, Nance, and Sherman Counties. Under that program ground water is sampled for nitrate content.

Dean Rasmussen, Lower Loup board chairman, reported on recent legislative hearings in North Platte. They concerned election procedures for NRD directors, public power district directors, and educational service unit directors. According to Rasmussen, the consensus of those testifying was that present election procedures are adequate.

The board did preliminary work on the budget for the coming fiscal year and gave the chairman authority to enter into contracts with the Soil Conservation Service and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. These are for soil surveys in Valley and Sheeler Counties.

Luedtke Gets Army Training

Cadet Brian T. Luedtke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Luedtke, Arcadia, is receiving practical work in military leadership at the Army ROTC Advanced Camp, Fort Lewis, WA.

The six-week training program is designed to present cadets with "hands-on" training which cannot be adequately presented on a college campus.

While at camp, cadets will learn orienteering, land navigation, individual and small unit tactics, first aid, drill and ceremony, and fire a variety of weapons.

Upon completion of camp, some cadets will be commissioned as second lieutenants. Others will return to their schools to complete their senior year and will be commissioned upon graduation.

Luedtke is a student at Kearney State College.

Gary Lassen of Elba, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Moravec, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Faaborg, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Leth, Lee Faaborg, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Jensen and Tanya and Lisa Daily, and Greta Keep attended the tractor pull at the Howard County Fairgrounds Saturday afternoon in St. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gregoski, Bob Gregoski and Cheryl Jensen attended the Knights of Colour bus banquet in St. Paul Sunday evening.

Legion Comes Back In 14-13 Thriller

By Jim Smith

The Ord Legion ran its winning total to 7 games Sunday night in a season game that was decided in the 8th.

Ord jumped out to a 3-0 lead, using solid defense to hold Central City scoreless for the first four innings.

In the bottom of the third a close call at first base ended up in the ejection of the Central City coach and things started to change.

Ord stretched its lead to 8-0 before Central City bats went crazy. In the bottom of the 4th, C.C. bats pounded out 5 hits including 2 home runs against Ord ace Bob Beran. He was relieved by John Dworak but C.C. kept coming.

The score got to 9-5 in favor of Ord then to their surprise the rambunctious crew from C.C. moved ahead of Ord 12-9 in the 5th.

Ord never gave up and in the bottom of the 5th they tied it up 12-12.

In the top of the 6th C.C. got men on first and third with 2 outs. The first base runner managed to distract Ord infielders in a pickle between 1st and 2nd base just long enough for the runner on third to score and put C.C. on top again 13-12.

Central City held Ord in the bottom of the 6th and Ord held C.C. in the top of the 7th.

But the bottom half of the 7th Ord batters Don Proskocial and Mark Novosad went down to C.C. reliever, Greg Stephens. With two down Kevin Valla stepped to the plate and went to a full count before receiving a base on balls, bringing up to bat Jim Smith.

Well, Valla stole 2nd; there were 2 outs and Smith had a 1 and 2 count. Smith then hit a ground ball to 2nd base and thanks to an error was safe while speedy Kevin Valla scored from 2nd base to tie the score 13 all.

Ord again held C.C. in the top of the 8th.

In the bottom of the 8th Joe Dworak was first up and first on. Up to the plate stepped Ord's right fielder, Paul Beran who got his third hit of the evening into right field advancing Dworak to 2nd and putting Paul on first.

Then Gary Mulligan stepped to the plate and got the key hit to load the bases. Well, to put an exciting game to an exciting end, Coach Eldon Mulligan gambled and on a squeak play C.C. pitcher Greg Stephens threw a wild pitch as Don Proskocial squared around to bunt and Joe Dworak scored from third to give Ord the win 14-13. Earlier this season in Central City the Bison came from behind to beat Ord 4-3.

This by far was Ord's best hitting out put, led by Paul Beran, Mark Novosad, Joe Dworak and Kevin Valla.

Nancy Gogan Gets Awards at Lincoln Basketball School

Nancy Gogan walked away from the Joe Cipriano basketball school in Lincoln with a flock of honors last week. Nancy, an Ord High sophomore, was named the most valuable player in the Major League session of the five day training session.

The 17-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bill Gogan won the all-around free throw shooting contest and placed second in the standard free throw or fixed target free throw contest, sinking 9 out of 10 baskets.

The five day series of basketball training classes are held in Lincoln yearly.

South Get 1st All Star Win at Comstock

By Jim Smith

The South Pony All-Stars, consisting of Arcadia, Ord South, Sargent and half of Comstock got their first victory of the annual event over the North All-Stars 7-0.

South, coached by the Sargent head coach, used a strong hitting attack and solid defense, along with good pitching to stop the North for the first time in three years.

North, on the other hand, had just the opposite luck. The North squad consists of four team members from each town including Ord North, Taylor, Burwell and half of Comstock.

Beside making a few costly running and field errors the sticks were just not popping.

Lewandowski, from Arcadia, got the win on the mound for the South All-Stars while Conner from Ord North took the loss for the North All-Stars. The series still belongs to North but by the narrow margin of 2 games to 1.

North Ponies Suffer 1st Loss of Season

By Jim Smith

Chuck Fryzek's Ord North ponies suffered their first loss of the season Tuesday night as Arcadia put it to 'em 6-2.

Fryzek's club fell behind 5-0 plagued by fielding errors and a lack of hitting.

Arcadia used balanced hitting and a well pitched game by Lewandowski to up their record to 4-1, which ties them with North (4-1) for the league lead.

In Peewee action North got back on the winning track by pulling out a 5-4 squeaker in the last inning.

North got the early lead 3-0 but fisty Arcadia came back to take the lead 4-3.

Then in the 4th inning Brad Novosad hit in Willie Colton and then scored himself after getting out of a pickle between 2nd and 3rd bases making the final score 5-4. North Peewee's record moves up to 3-2 with a game scheduled for July 3 with Sargent.

Easterbrook Rites Held in Arcadia

Funeral services were held for Arthur H. Easterbrook on Sunday, July 1, 1979 at 2 p.m. at the First Congregational Church in Arcadia with the Rev. Victor Skaggs officiating. Mrs. Doris Hill was the organist with Mrs. Elvira Boli singing "Abide with Me" and "Rock of Ages". Pallbearers were Leonard Edwards, Jim Trotter, Archie Crist, Bruce Ohme, Gene Cox, and Dick Bossen. Burial was in the Arcadia Cemetery, Ord Memorial Chapel was in charge of arrangements.

Arthur Easterbrook was born on February 6, 1889 at Pleasant Valley, to Edgar and Clara Foster Easterbrook and died June 28, 1979 at Broken Bow, at the age of 90.

Arthur was raised and educated in the Arcadia area where he attended Pleasant Valley schools. He also attended the University of Nebraska Agriculture College. On August 21, 1912, he was united in marriage to Lulu Pickett at Arcadia. They made the Arcadia area their home while Mr. Easterbrook was engaged in farming and ranching for most of his life. He was a member of the First Congregational Church and the Odd Fellows Lodge, both in Arcadia. Arthur also served on the Arcadia Board of Education for 25 years and on the Board of Directors of the Middle Loop Irrigation District for a number of years.

Survivors include his wife, Lulu of Arcadia; two sons, Paul at Emmett, ID and Carl of Kearney; three daughters, Mrs. Robert (Mildred) Camp of Loveland, CO; Mrs. Allan (Glady) Masters of Arcadia, and Mrs. Arthur (Doris) Beindorff at Decatur, AL; 14 grandchildren; and 14 great grandchildren. He was preceded in death by three sisters and one brother. Memorials may be given to the Arcadia Rescue Unit.

Vancuras Receive Tree Certificate

Will and Agnes Vancura received certification as American Tree Farmers during the Thursday meeting of the Lower Loup Natural Resources District in Ord. The certification is sponsored by the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources (Division of the University of Nebraska), the Nebraska Tree Farm Committee and the American Forest Institute.

To qualify for certification, at least three acres of trees must be planted, and the planting at least five years old. The certification recipient must further agree to protect the shrubs from livestock. Dean Rasmussen, Lower Loup NRD chairman, presented the Vancuras with their certification. The Vancuras have four acres of trees planted on their farm seven miles west of Ord on the Sargent Highway.

Joy Ride Ends in Possible Charges

A joy ride on or about May 17 for some North Loup juveniles came to a dead end last week. Valley County Sheriff, Martin Sonnenfeld urged County Attorney, Greg Jensen to file juvenile petitions against the five juveniles. According to Sonnenfeld, several cars were unlawfully removed from a North Loup car lot and repair shop. Several vehicles were damaged, Sonnenfeld stated.

Two sewing machines, a commercial food grinder, and a rifle were taken from the Floyd Augustyn home, south of Elyria June 17-21. There was no given loss estimate.

A rifle was taken from the Dave Wroblewski residence at Arcadia. The theft is believed to have happened June 21. A value of around $200 was assigned the 243 rifle.

Gary R. Christensen, 25, was arrested June 29 on a Valley County Court bench warrant. The Elba resident failed to appear on charges involving a traffic case.

Ties Recalled Linking John Campbell to Ord

John W. Campbell has strong ties linking him to Ord. His class of 1929 was the first to graduate from the then "new" Ord High School. The south front of the present Ord High retains that then new look.

Campbell admitted to having "... a funny feeling ..." when revisiting his alma mater recently. He is in town for the Ord High alumni reunion.

Back when he graduated Harry G. Neumayer was Ord High principal and Jess Kovanda taught vocational agriculture. Evelyn Burrows, Rollin (now Judy) Dye, and Lloyd Needham graduated with him. John was the first Valley County resident to win the Union Pacific Railroad Scholarship, he told the Quiz.

He used it to attend the University of Nebraska Agriculture College in Lincoln. "I took what they called a short course," he recalled. The economic pinch of the depression halted plans to further continue his education.

John wasn't alone in feeling that way. A check in his possession bears evidence to that fact. For ten cents, it was all that was salvaged from his bank account when the Ord State Bank closed its doors. Depositors were paid 20 cents on the dollar.

"I didn't lose much," he chuckled. "But some others weren't so lucky. They lost thousands and thousands of dollars." He said he kept the check "just for a souvenir."

The old State Bank stood on the northwest corner of 16th and L Streets in downtown Ord. That building now houses an insurance agency, a judge's office, and other businesses. According to John, John Meese was president of the bank when it closed its doors in the early 1930's.

Now a resident of Eugene, OR, Campbell drove trucks for 25 years before retiring December, 1972.

John and many others will share memories of bygone times at the annual Ord High reunion this weekend. A complete run-down on alumni information will be found elsewhere in this issue of the Ord Quiz.

Loup Backers

Reclamation District lawyer Cy Shaughnessy recalled that it was nearly 30 years to the day that some fellows meeting in St. Paul wanted to know if he would help them form a Reclamation District. "I'm glad to see that all our efforts haven't gone astray," the lawyers told Boosters and friends.

"I'd like to think there is some common ground between us and the (project) opponents," Shaughnessy said. "But make no mistake about it, the North Loup Project will be built."

Loup Boosters president Hal Pierce recalled working for the Bureau of Reclamation several years ago. "We had to fight to get projects," he said. "Back then people welcomed us with open arms."

"You've got something here," Pierce continued, "something with a future. Something your kids can appreciate. Just what," he wondered, "would this area be without irrigation?"

Many speakers recalled those who had worked so long on the North Loup Project. Said Jacobs, "I just wonder what they would think if they could be here tonight."

Lange, Pierce, and others lauded Cong. Virginia Smith for her work in making the project possible.

Gagan Receives Cage Camp Honors

Pam Gagan of Arcadia won honors at the Kearney State College Basketball Camp June 24-29 in Kearney. The Arcadia High student took first in the Girls' AA division camper of the week contest and third in the AA division Loper Contest.

Nebraska Power Approves Comstock Plant Contract

COLUMBUS — The Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) board of directors has approved a contract with a Boston, Mass. firm to provide architectural and engineering services for the District's proposed 650,000 kilowatt generating facility in eastern Custer County.

The board passed a resolution instructing the District's management to execute a contract with C. T. Main, Inc., to provide engineering, design and project management services for the facility.

planned to be built in the vicinity of Comstock and Sargent. The contract carries a price tag of $11.4 million and includes escalation at a rate of 9.4 percent per year over the life of the project. If the actual escalation rate is below 9.4 percent, the savings will be passed on to NPPD but if the actual escalation is higher than that figure Main would absorb the excess costs. The contract is based on a commercial operation date for the plant on or before May 1, 1986.

Beef Referendum Forms

Another try at getting cattle producers to approve a beef checkoff research and promotion program under provisions of the 1976 Beef Research and Information Act is underway with a Beef Referendum likely to be considered next spring.

The first referendum conducted in 1977 was not approved although 56.4 percent of those voting favored it. At that time the Act required approval by two-thirds majority of the registered producers voting. A 1978 amendment to the act now permits an order implementing the law if approved by a majority of the registered producer voters.

Amendments to the rules outlining procedures the USDA will follow to establish an order were published in the Feb. 27 Federal Register. The proposed order was submitted by the Beef Referendum Advisory Group which represents a coalition of livestock industry organizations. Public hearings on the proposed order have been held at five locations during June. The hearing site for the Midwest is scheduled for June 28 at Des Moines, IA.

The total record from the hearings will be evaluated and a recommended decision issued for public comment. The Secretary of Agriculture's final decision on an order will be based on the comments received and further examination of the total record. If the final decision is that such a program is justified, a producer's referendum will then be scheduled.

As in the 1977 referendum, local offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) would conduct the referendum, although the Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) would handle most USDA responsibilities under the act. The law requires that beef producers must register at least 10 days before the referendum to vote.

The research and promotion program would be administered by a Beef Board of up to 68 members selected by the Secretary of Agriculture from nominations of up to 68 members selected by the Secretary from nominations submitted by producer organizations. Representation would be proportional to cattle production in each state or geographic area as determined by the Secretary. The AMS would monitor the program to assure that it stays within the law, and also would be responsible for approving the Beef Board's budget, plans and projects.

The law sets a maximum checkoff assessment of one-half of 1 percent of the live animal value. Funds would be collected according to a value-added concept which would assess all sellers in the marketing chain. Sales of dairy and breeding cattle may be exempt from assessment until the animals are sold for slaughter.

The initial purchaser would deduct the amount of assessment from the payment to the original owner. Each succeeding purchaser would deduct an assessment based on the current market value, representing an amount equal to the previous assessment plus an added assessment resulting from the animal's increased value during the time the seller owned it. The purchaser at the point of slaughter would deduct the total assessment due and pay it to the Beef Board. The Act gives any producer who has paid an assessment and who does not wish to participate in the program, the right to a refund by applying to the Beef Board.

The USDA has estimated that around $40 million per year would be generated for the program on the basis of an expected beginning assessment of 2/10th of one percent (.2 of 1%) of the value of each animal slaughtered. The maximum allowable assessment of 5/10ths of 1 percent (.5 of 1%) would generate about $100 million per year. The exact number of producers affected is not known, but there are an estimated 1.7 million farms with cattle in the United States.

The beef checkoff, research and promotion plan was strongly supported by cattlemen's organizations in 1977 and by cattle producers in the nation's main cattle producing areas and indications point toward similar support in the second referendum effort. Beef industry spokesmen say the program is needed because hard-won beef preference among consumers may be lost to beef substitutes and extenders during the current period of high demand and short supplies.

Grasshoppers:
The cropland grasshopper hatch is at a point where control should be applied without delay. Numbers in alfalfa should be watched closely. Remember to treat while hoppers are still small and vulnerable to control. Dimethate and Furidan are probably the most effective insecticides in alfalfa. When cutting infested alfalfa — leave a few border swaths uncut — allow hoppers to concentrate in the uncut area. Margin or border treatment cuts costs. You can protect many acres of cropland by spraying these uncut borders, if done in time. The highest return for the investment in hoppers are caught small and concentrated in smaller areas.

What About These Millers?
Numerous calls have come into the office on what can we do with these millers? Basically nothing of a residual nature can be sprayed on trees and shrubs around the house to control millers because they don't stay in the trees long enough to get a lethal dose of chemical. Contact sprays such as lawn and garden sprays will knock them down but this is an endless job. The miller is the adult stage of the army worm. Millers are brownish to red in color with 2 light red spots on fore wings with 1 small red spot behind the back wing is gray. The millers are ready to lay eggs, and when night temperature exceeds 65 degrees F. the eggs will be laid. The eggs will hatch in 5-7 days and in about 2 weeks the larva will be eating on crops, gardens and lawns. The army worm is dark green nearly 2 inches long with light stripes on his sides and down the middle of his back. He feeds at night and has quite an appetite. Broome grass pastures, grassy fields and lawns attract army worms. Diapion and Sevin are recommended for army worm control in lawns.

Tomatoes Require Lots of Water:
As tomato plants begin to mature fruit in your garden, they will require at least one inch of water a week if not supplied by natural rainfall. However, do not overwater tomatoes or they will be shallow rooted and more susceptible to drought injury.

Control weeds around tomato plants. Big weeds compete with tomatoes for water and nutrients. Scrape the soil surface to avoid injuring roots of tomato plants. Once the first signs of fruit have set on your tomato plants, a mulch will smother out small weeds, conserve soil moisture and keep the soil temperature more even. Up to four inches of coarse mulch materials could be placed on a tomato bed. Old spoiled straw and prairie hay are good examples of a coarse mulch. Do not use grass clippings that have been treated with herbicide.

What Methods Work Best to Prevent Rabbits from Eating Vegetables:
According to Bob Timm, Extension Vertebrate Pest Specialist fencing is the surest way to stop rabbit damage. A woven wire or poultry netting fence at least 24 inches high, with a mesh not larger than 1.5 inches, is an effective barrier. The lower edge should be staked to the ground or slightly buried to prevent entrance under the fence.

Although some homemade or commercial repellents claim to prevent rabbit damage, most are of temporary value at best, and many cannot be used on edible plants. Area or odor repellents, such as mothballs, blood meal, or bone tar oil, seldom prevent rabbits from feeding at a location for a very long while. Commercially-manufactured taste repellents, which usually contain Thiram, are more effective, but must not be applied to plants after the edible portions have begun to form.

Suepers Return
Mr. and Mrs. Herb Bruha went to Grand Island Wednesday evening to meet Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sueper, who were returning from a trip. They toured Iowa, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Missouri. Mrs. Myron Osetowski and children took them to Grand Island on the 20th to board a bus for the tour.

The goal may be distant and difficult, but pushing toward it is only the next step away.

Husky Drive In Has New Owners
Mr. and Mrs. Leon Mundt recently purchased the Husky Drive In at Arcadia. The former Deshler, NE residents bought the business from Richard and Connie Anderson.

The drive in will open pending completion of redecorating operations. Mrs. Mundt estimated this will be in two to three weeks. A former Arcadia resident, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Leininger. Leon was employed by the Reinke Manufacturing at Deshler before moving to Arcadia.

Caution Urged in Using Fireworks

An estimated 6,139 Americans were treated in hospital emergency rooms for fireworks-related injuries last year, according to the National Society to Prevent Blindness (NSPB), Nebraska Affiliate. With the Fourth of July approaching — the prime time for use of fireworks — the Society has issued a warning that all kinds of fireworks are a threat to life and limb, especially to eyesight.

"Eye damage accounted for some 20 percent of last year's reported injuries from pyrotechnics," Charles Ferguson, Executive Director Affiliate pointed out. "This figure represents only a fraction of actual injuries since there is no way to estimate how many were treated in doctors' offices, at homes, or by direct hospital admission," he added.

"All fireworks — ranging from bottle-rockets and firecrackers to punks and sparklers — are harmful to the eyes. Seemingly harmless sparklers burn at heats exceeding 1500 degrees F," Ferguson said.

Since children are most often the victims of injuries from fireworks the Society advises parents to keep even the smallest firecrackers away from them. "Almost 60 percent of the fireworks-related eye injuries reported last year were suffered by children under the age of 15. With the cooperation and supervision of concerned parents, such unfortunate — and needless — accidents can be avoided this year and in the future," Ferguson asserted.

Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Awards To Be Presented

Big Opportunities for small savers, for ALL savers at First Federal Lincoln.

Time was you had to be a big saver to qualify for our big interest-earning plans — and the big returns that went with them. But no more! Beginning July 1, 1979, even our small savers will find big interest opportunities at First Federal Lincoln.

High 5 1/2% on Money Service Daily Accounts

That's a full quarter percent interest boost over the previous rate. Compounded continuously, it means a 5.65% annual yield for all Money Service Daily account holders!

The New Treasury IV Certificate

It's the new, high-yield Certificate with interest rates that change monthly based on the yield of 4-year government securities as determined by the U.S. Treasury Department. It's an opportunity for all savers to earn big on 4-year certificates. Minimum deposit of $100.

Low $100 Minimum for Money Savings Certificates

Now you can put as little as $100 away in a Money Savings Certificate and let time and our high interest rates do the rest!

Money Savings Certificates

Annual Yield	Annual Rate
5.91%	5.75% — 3 Month
6.71%	6.50% — 12 Month
6.98%	6.76% — 30 Month
7.78%	7.50% — 4 or 5 Year
8.06%	7.75% — 6 or 7 Year
8.32%	8.00% — 8 or 9 Year

New Federal regulations require a 3-month loss on Certificates of 1 year maturity or less, and a 6-month loss of interest on early withdrawals on Certificates over 1 year issued after July 1, 1979, and at renewal on Certificates issued prior to that date.

Higher interest rates. Lower minimum deposits. We've got some big opportunities for small savers — for ALL savers! — at First Federal Lincoln!

County Supervisors
June 28, 1979
The Valley County Board of Supervisors met at 11:50 A.M. with all members present except Klanceky.
Minutes of the June 12 meeting were approved.

Assessor Sevensen thought a board member should contact Tax Commissioner Harrington on equalizing valuations across county lines. They later talked with him by phone and said the board will meet with him in Lincoln Monday morning.

The next test for certifying a wood superintendent will be given July 18 at Grand Island. Richard Eggleston will meet with the board at the July 10 meeting.

The board recessed at 12:10 and returned at 1:15 when Jim Towns, with Hy-Vee Asphalt Products, Inc., spoke with them about their new newly established full customer service lab at Henderson, Nebraska, a branch from the Salina, Kansas plant.
He quoted prices, gravel-clay-emulsion mixes and asked for a bid to pave a road in the evening and give a slide presentation.

Bossen moved approval of an estimate of the city of Ord on a tract of land in the NW1/4SW14, 21-19-14 near the hospital and about 3/4 mile west of the highway to Valley View Drive can be widened, seconded by Peterson and all members answered 'yes' to roll call.

Benda and Klanceky are to check into a service contract with Johnson to do some painting in the courthouse and about carpet in the district court room and repair to the roof.

Max Leth reported on a bridge north of the Bill Berra place, amount of gravel being hauled and about some patrol tires. He and the board worked out a wage scale for the coming year. Most of the workers will receive an approximate $50.00 per month raise. He and the board they have changed classification of position during the past year. The chairman signed lease with Hal Pierce for a two year term on the building being used by the Washington community center.

Peterson moved this be done, seconded by Bossen and all members present had answered 'yes' to roll call.

He also signed the Insurance agreement with Agency on the same policy and workmen's comp. recently agreed upon by the board.

Sheriff Martin Sonnenfeld visited with the board about the need of a full time deputy and Bossen moved approval of a full time deputy, seconded by Johnson and all members present except Benda answered 'yes' to roll call.

Raleigh Haas and Jeffrey Kawata told about the additional probation office being added to the seven counties by the 20th Judicial District and Mr. Haas will be headquartered in Ord beginning on July 1.

A list of 1969, 1976, 1977 & 1978
unpaid personal taxes under distress warrants was filed. Other items viewed and filed were from Region 26 on Civil Defense, COG & Communication, Lower Loup and Mid-Ne Comm. Ment. Health Center.
Plans were made for some members to attend the Central Nebraska County Officials Assn. meeting in Kearney on Thursday and the meeting adjourned at 4:30 p.m.

Card of Thanks

I want to thank my relatives, neighbors and friends for all the prayers, gifts, flowers, beautiful cards and visits I received while I was in the Lutheran Grand Island Hospital.

I want to thank the doctors and hospital staff for the wonderful care I received while I was in the hospital.

I also want to thank all who have visited me since I have been home and for all the food brought in.

God Bless You All.

Come To Church

READ JOHN 3:16-21

"This is how the judgment works: the light has come into the world, but people love the darkness rather than the light, because their deeds are evil." (John 3:19 TEV)

No matter where we live today, times are changing. The concepts of our homes, our churches, our social community life are quite different from those of 25-30 years ago. With our whole world in a state of constant change, issues become more complex. It is hard to know what is right. Since there is so much margin for error and a lack of clear-cut models, any type of behavior and philosophy of life may seem acceptable.

We often question, "What is right?" I believe our Lord was not so anxious that we know right as that we know truth. He said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life." He also said, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." No matter what changes occur, God's love for us remains constant.

PRAYER: Dear God, help us to be examples of Christianity in our day-to-day activities. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

If we find the truth, we will know the right.

Comstock Celebrates Fourth of July With "Good Old Days" Parade

Comstock residents celebrated the fourth of July with their annual parade through the business district. Theme of this year's event was "The Good Old Days."

Floats and other exhibits showed what life was like back when. The float sponsored by the Westcott Baptist Church showed Adam and Eve in the garden of Eder, where all good old days began.

Congresswoman Virginia Smith and State Senator Don Wagner gave brief speeches following the parade. Both noted America has faced and is facing some tough problems. Wagner and Smith urged the audience to remember one of America's greatest assets — freedom.

A horse show, baseball game, and barbeque closed out the day's festivities.

North Loup Library Receives Grant

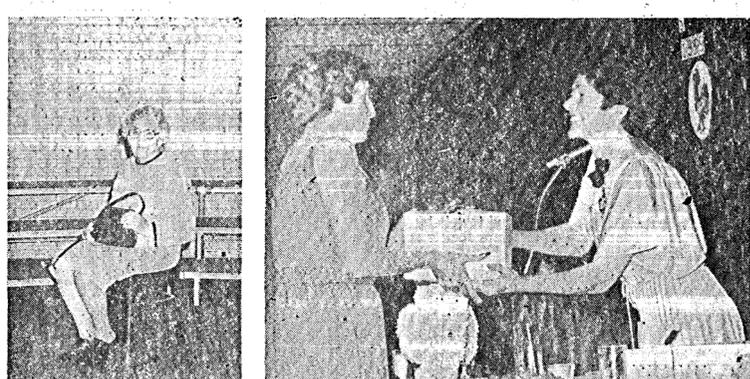

The North Loup Township Library received a State Aid Grant of $446 from the Nebraska Library Commission to be used for equipment as part of a state program begun in 1975 for assistance to public libraries.

North Loup's library is one of over 150 public libraries in Nebraska to receive a grant this year. State funds, totaling $200,000, are distributed by the Nebraska Library Commission to help public libraries improve their services to Nebraska communities.

To receive a grant, libraries must meet minimum requirements established under Standards for Public Library.

The standard list requirements include recommendation for number and kinds of books and materials in the library collections, hours open to the public, and means of public support. This year libraries which have met all the minimum requirements, received an achievement grant of $300.

Nines Reign At Alumni Reunion

Lone representative from the Ord High class of 1909 was Winifred Westburg Meyers.

The nines reigned supreme at the Ord High alumni banquet Saturday. OHS classes graduating in a year having the last digit nine and the class of 1954 were honored at a banquet in the Ord Elks Club.

Alumni chairman, Janet Papiernik, estimated attendance at 385 people for the dinner-dance. The welcome was delivered by Allen Zikmund, Ord High class of 1939. The Athletic Director at Kearney State College, he played on the 1941 Nebraska University football squad that went to the Rose Bowl. He was inducted into the Helms Foundation in 1957 and is a member of the N.U. Hall of Fame.

Master of Ceremonies

Roland Pierce was master of ceremonies. From the OHS class of 1929, Pierce was a government engineer for several years before founding the Nebraska Irrigation Engineering Company. He retired in 1964.

Honors were given:

— Dessie Needham as being the oldest Ord High alumni in attendance. She graduated in 1902.

— Ruth Haas Roberts, class of '37, for coming the furthest distance. Ruth lives in North Hollywood, CA.

Over $250,000 In Building Permits Issued

Over a quarter of a million dollars worth of building permits were approved during the July 2 City Council session in Ord. Seven projects totalling between $25,000 to $258,000 got the nod during that Monday night meeting in City Hall.

Projects ranged from a patio at the Ron Dughman residence to a $200,000 permit by Gaylord Boleson for work on Boleson's elevator. Other permits issued included one for Sack Lumber allowing them to construct a $43,000 home and another for $10,000 for alteration of a building at Ord Manufacturing.

Ord is growing.

Rains Slow Area Farmers

Cool weather and recent rains have caused some problems for area farmers, according to Valley County Agent Al Martens. Some corn planted in sandy soil has started to yellow, Martens revealed. He attributed this to fertilizer leaching below plant root level.

"Martens termed these problems 'about' nothing to get alarmed about," while others said they "like to see some sunlight." There is plenty of time for that this summer, he stated. In his words, "There's a lot of summer left."

Ord Celebrates A Quiet Fourth

Valley County residents celebrated a quiet Fourth of July. Ord Police Chief John Young reported a few fireworks complaints were about all the activity his office had experienced. Day.

Valley County Sheriff Martin Sonnenfeld reported no accidents happened during the national holiday. "It was a quiet fourth," he said, "and that's good."

Solar Distilled Corn Alcohol Fuel May Be Best Thing Under the Sun

Gene Colback has the newest, and perhaps best answer to the gasoline crisis. The Central City entrepreneur lays claim to having a plan that would make American farmers independent of outside forces and could shatter the much touted gasoline crisis.

Gene's answer to these two claims is a mixture of solar power and 160 proof alcohol distilled from corn. During a Chamber luncheon Thursday at the Ord Elks Club, the inventor told an audience they needed two basic things in using his plan: sunlight and corn.

Fermenting corn mixed with malt and yeast in a sealed container starts the process. The malt turns starch in the fermenting corn to sugar. The yeast culture converts this to alcohol.

Carbon dioxide, a gas, is released in the fermentation process. A hose running from the container and submerged in water permits the gas to escape while preventing air from getting to the fermenting mixture.

"The carbon dioxide bubbles up through the water," Gene explained, "but air can't get to the fermenting mixture. When the bubbles stop, the fermentation process is complete. The mixture then goes into a solar still. This is a rectangular frame or box, tilted at an angle. The bottom frame and sides are made of plywood, covered with burlap and the top is of glass. The fermented liquid trickles down the lower frame. Sunlight supplies the heat.

Alcohol evaporates at 178 degrees, Fahrenheit. Water boils at 212 degrees. The evaporated alcohol condenses on the top glass panel, returns to a liquid state, and drips down into a trough.

The resulting alcohol is distilled three times, according to Gene, ending with a solution of 160 proof alcohol. This figures out to be 80 percent alcohol and 20 percent water, by volume.

Gene estimates it takes from two days to a week from the start of the fermentation process to the time the corn alcohol is ready for use. According to his calculations, a bushel of corn yields two and half to three gallons at a cost of ten cents a gallon.

Corn remaining after the fermentation process can be fed livestock. "You're taking out the starch, not protein during fermentation," Gene pointed out.

In his estimation, gasoline, a blend of gasoline and alcohol, is nothing more than "a pacifier for farmers..." in his words. Using Gene's process, nothing but alcohol is burned in internal combustion engines. No gasoline is needed.

Few modifications of conventional car engines burning both leaded and unleaded gas are needed. These include replacing all plastic parts with those of metal. During cold weather a hot water jacket around the engine would be needed.

The alcohol fuel wouldn't hurt catalytic converters, Gene told the Quiz. "Actually," Gene quipped, "you wouldn't need one of those things when burning alcohol. The fuel burns clean." Water vapor along with carbon monoxide and dioxide exit the tail pipe.

According to Gene it would cost around $50 to build the solar still measuring four by eight feet. It (Continued on page 8)

Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Recipients Honored Sunday

Three Ord area residents received Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Awards during ceremonies Sunday at the local Presbyterian Church. Honored during afternoon festivities were Arthelia Ramsey and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Beran. They received lapel pins and framed citations noting their many years of community service. Ak-Sar-Ben Ambassadors Kerry Leggett and J. Arthelia Romans made the presentations.

Romans, in honoring Mrs. Ramsey, said:

"Arthelia was born Arthelia Rowe in Wolbach. After attending Wolbach schools for ten years, she moved to Ord, graduating from Ord High in 1915. She was united in marriage to Bill Ramsey in 1916.

"She lived in Arcadia for 53 years. For 43 years Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey ran the drug store there. Arthelia reared three children, a nephew and two nieces. Bill lives in Lincoln where he is Administrative Assistant of the Materials and Tests Division of the Department of Roads. Arthelia, a retired teacher, lives in California. Merjorie, a registered nurse, lives in Oregon.

"Arthelia kept many girls in her home so they could finish high school, and has opened her home for country girls to get ready for the weddings. She has often decorated the church and helped with the wedding.

"Arthelia served on the Library Board for 25 years and has been active in the American Legion Auxiliary and in her church. She is noted for remembering those in hospitals and nursing homes. She served a two-year term as president of the Inter-County Federated Study Clubs.

"Arthelia always worked hard in Republican politics. In 1959 she held top office as Co-Chairman of the State Republican Founders Day Convention, and has been Chairman of the Valley County Republican Party and District Co-Chairman.

"I have known Arthelia since 1942 from having business with their drug store when I was in the trucking industry.

"I became involved in Republican politics in 1947 and learned her philosophy in politics.

"Some of the things she is known for by people who grew up in Arcadia include giving no one knows how much candy to poor children who had no money. I believe it was Melvin Swanson that related when he was waiting in the drug store, a small boy was standing with a penny in his hand, trying to decide on a lollipop.

"When another boy came in with a nickel, he ordered an ice cream cone. The first boy watched with big eyes, first the cone and then his lone penny. Arthelia asked him, 'Wouldn't you like a penny cone?'

"On behalf of Ak-Sar-Ben I am proud to present Arthelia with this Good Neighbor Award."

The Berans

Ethel Heuser and other senior citizens nominated the Berans for the Good Neighbor Award. Mrs. Heuser, a 93-year-old resident of Parkview Village, signed the nomination form. Kerry Leggett read from the document when presenting the award Sunday.

Said Leggett:

"I wish to submit the names of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Beran of Ord for the Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Award. For the past five years, they have given of their time and talent in serving senior citizens of Ord, NE.

"Mrs. Beran has given hours of planning to the monthly par-

New Minister For the Ord Presbyterians

Rev. Robert D. Thom Jr. is the new Presbyterian minister in Ord. He preached his first sermon Sunday.

Rev. Thom, 50, is a graduate of the Louisville, KY Seminary. He has just finished a two-year interim church assignment in Memphis, MO. Chess, checkers, swimming, and fishing are some of his hobbies.

Ed Board Shows Proposed Budget

The 1979-80 proposed budget was unveiled Monday during the school board meeting at Ord High. The proposed $1,593,100 budget is up $89,450 from the 1978-79 budget of $1,503,650 but will require $56,000 fewer tax dollars, according to Ord Public Schools superintendent, Dr. William F. Gogan.

He credited increased state and federal aid to the school system along with non-resident tuition for making this possible.

The subject of non-resident tuition was a sore one Monday. Patrons of outlying rural schools packed the meeting. They claimed the recent $600 hike in non-resident tuition was too high. During the June 11 meeting, school board members pegged that tuition at $3,200 for the coming school year.

Free Ride?

Some rural residents were upset about an alleged statement that some area rural schools were getting a "free ride" by contracting with the Ord Public Schools system. Just who was supposed to have made the remark remained unclear.

Some attributed it to a Quiz news item. The June 14 issue of the paper contains no such remark in a front page school board story. Others seemed to think a board member said the words.

After discussion the board took a brief recess and then announced the non-resident tuition would stay at the $3,200 level. Board president, Merrill Mason increased the figure wouldn't increase for the 1980-81 school year.

In other business the board gave permission for Ord scouts to use the school bus July 14-15. The Cub Scouts will be going to a camp near Grand Island.

Larry White of North Loup appeared asking to transfer land from District Five (Ord Public Schools) to District 1-J, North Loup-Scotia Public Schools. A hired man prefers to send his children to the North Loup-Scotia system, White told the board.

The item was put on the agenda for a future board meeting.

At Lown of Micklin Homes of Omaha agreed a lively demonstration on steel windows. These were for possible use in some parts of Ord High. Chunks of building material, and round pieces of metal were passed around the room while Lown demonstrated the windows.

No action was taken concerning the windows.

State Farm Insurance agent, Bill French, talked to the board about the school's coverage. He urged them to increase their coverage, stating inflation has hiked replacement costs.

French currently has the school's insurance business. That is a three-year policy not yet expired.

Ord High principal, Bob Shannon, outlined a proposed truancy policy. He defined truancy as when neither parents or school officials know where a student is or why he/she is absent.

Nine truancy absences are allowed under the proposed plan, Shannon outlined. Each absence brings increasing recriminations by school authorities ending with the student being dropped from a class.

Both Shannon and Dr. Gogan agreed the school needs clear-cut guidelines on this and other school policies. Both suggested publicizing school policy when classes start. This would make sure everyone understands, they maintained.

Report

In the Superintendent's report it was noted:

"That the school will likely have to get gasoline where it can, if it can. No bids on supplying school fuel needs were submitted earlier this year.

"That it might be wise to advertise the trampoline for sale in papers having state-wide circulation.

The board next meets July 19, at 7:30 p.m. for a hearing on the budget.

Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Recipients Honored Sunday

Three Ord area residents received Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Awards during ceremonies Sunday at the local Presbyterian Church. Honored during afternoon festivities were Arthelia Ramsey and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Beran. They received lapel pins and framed citations noting their many years of community service. Ak-Sar-Ben Ambassadors Kerry Leggett and J. Arthelia Romans made the presentations.

Romans, in honoring Mrs. Ramsey, said:

"Arthelia was born Arthelia Rowe in Wolbach. After attending Wolbach schools for ten years, she moved to Ord, graduating from Ord High in 1915. She was united in marriage to Bill Ramsey in 1916.

"She lived in Arcadia for 53 years. For 43 years Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey ran the drug store there. Arthelia reared three children, a nephew and two nieces. Bill lives in Lincoln where he is Administrative Assistant of the Materials and Tests Division of the Department of Roads. Arthelia, a retired teacher, lives in California. Merjorie, a registered nurse, lives in Oregon.

"Arthelia kept many girls in her home so they could finish high school, and has opened her home for country girls to get ready for the weddings. She has often decorated the church and helped with the wedding.

"Arthelia served on the Library Board for 25 years and has been active in the American Legion Auxiliary and in her church. She is noted for remembering those in hospitals and nursing homes. She served a two-year term as president of the Inter-County Federated Study Clubs.

"Arthelia always worked hard in Republican politics. In 1959 she held top office as Co-Chairman of the State Republican Founders Day Convention, and has been Chairman of the Valley County Republican Party and District Co-Chairman.

"I have known Arthelia since 1942 from having business with their drug store when I was in the trucking industry.

"I became involved in Republican politics in 1947 and learned her philosophy in politics.

"Some of the things she is known for by people who grew up in Arcadia include giving no one knows how much candy to poor children who had no money. I believe it was Melvin Swanson that related when he was waiting in the drug store, a small boy was standing with a penny in his hand, trying to decide on a lollipop.

The Berans

Ethel Heuser and other senior citizens nominated the Berans for the Good Neighbor Award. Mrs. Heuser, a 93-year-old resident of Parkview Village, signed the nomination form. Kerry Leggett read from the document when presenting the award Sunday.

Said Leggett:

"I wish to submit the names of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Beran of Ord for the Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Award. For the past five years, they have given of their time and talent in serving senior citizens of Ord, NE.

"Mrs. Beran has given hours of planning to the monthly parties, securing talented people to give their programs. Her well-organized volunteer helpers provided the refreshments, bingo games, and door prizes. The monthly 25 cent fee pays for coffee, etc.

"Mrs. Beran helps volunteers prepare the refreshments, and finds the most comfortable chairs for older persons attending the parties.

"She also has a birthday cake for those having birthdays in the month and has them sit at a special table.

"Her husband should be given credit for doing all the heavy lifting and carrying of boxes.

"He also helps with transportation for the citizens not having someone to bring them.

"Mrs. Beran is a former school teacher and Mr. Beran, a farmer for many years in Valley County. The average attendance at the senior citizens parties is 65-75 people.

"Mr. and Mrs. Beran also give Friday afternoons to another activity at Parkview. Mrs. Beran with ceramics and Mr. Beran sponsoring game sessions of cards and other games. They provide transportation to this also.

"Mr. and Mrs. Carl Young have also been faithful helpers, accompanying them at both activities. They are to be praised.

"We cannot find words that will express our praise for these kind people who have done so much for the senior citizens of Ord. May God bless them daily.

Refreshments were served following the program.

CAROL'S CORNER

IF YOU REMEMBER . . . "Dearie, I'm much older than you" might have been Desse Needham's words to anyone who attended this year's Ord Alumni Banquet. Mrs. Needham, again this year, won the prize for being the oldest OHS graduate present — or the earliest graduate in attendance — whichever she prefers it to be called. Mrs. Needham, 95, is a 1902 graduate of Ord High School. Now that, to me, is very deserving of a prize!

Since this was an "honor year" for my class, I had been hoping for many months that everyone I knew and saw at this reunion would be frumpy and fat and that the men would be bald and plump too. Somehow we always think of everyone else changing and looking much older but ourselves! We all have our fantasies, I know! And then, would you believe, a friend (she really is my friend) innocently asked "Did you graduate with THAT class? I didn't think you were that old!" Things seemed to go "down hill" for me the rest of the evening!

Others of THAT class and I seemingly had a great time at our class party on Friday and again at the Saturday festivities. There were prizes given and I was not a winner of any of the three. The star football player won the honor of having the youngest child with his six month old son. A gal, who I remember correctly was the youngest one of our class (at this point I would like to add that I was second youngest. I'm not lying!) admitted to being the grandmother of five. Then came the question of which classmate had been married the longest time. A total of 28 years was claimed by one couple and another was a close runner-up.

We talked and dwelled most on the happy times in each of our lives and wondered later why we hadn't shared and talked about some of the heartaches and sad times. For life really isn't all happy things and most certainly these classmates and long-time friends can relate to and understand a little bit of sadness if merely given the chance.

It was very late when I finally got into bed that night but so many thoughts were racing through my mind I had trouble getting to sleep. "Everyone changes," I thought. "We never quite end up in the direction in which we started."

Kris Greenway Was Semi-Finalist

Kris Greenway of Ord was one of the 72 girls who recently competed in Omaha for the title of Miss Nebraska Teen USA 1979. Two other Ord girls, Ann Conner and Jeri Birdsall, also competed. The girls all arrived in Omaha on a Friday and competed until the announcement of the winner at the pageant Saturday, June 30. Kimberly Kay Theiss of Omaha received the title.

Kris received a trophy for being one of the 14 semi-finalists. Kris is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cork Greenway and will be a junior at O.H.S. this fall.

During the summer, Kris is staying in Lincoln at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Bahensky, while she attends the Boomer Equestrian Center. Kris is a working student at the center. She works at the center in exchange for the lessons she is taking.

Theresa Clement-David Heider Exchange Vows At Seventh Day Baptist Church in North Loup

Theresa Louise Clement, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Clement, and David Paul Heider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Heider of Grand Island, were united in marriage at the Seventh Day Baptist Church in North Loup Saturday, June 30. Rev. Victor Skaggs officiated at the 2:30 p.m. ceremony, assisted by Wesley Rice.

Phyllis Burger was the organist. Special music was provided by Beverly Austin, who sang "It Had to Be God", which she composed for the couple, and Rex Clement, brother of the bride, who sang "My Peace". They accompanied themselves with their guitars.

Mrs. Mary Ziegler was the guest book attendant. Karl Ziegler and Bill Heider, brother-in-law and brother of the groom, were ushers.

Candle lighters were Kathy Ross and Lesa Williams. Angie Clement, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Beverly Austin of Alfred, N.Y., was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Ruth Heider, Kim Forke, Barbara Morgan and Nancy Schumacher.

Brad Casselman of Tucson, AZ, was best man. Groomsmen were Victor Clement, Stanley Heider, Gary Morgan and Edwin Clement.

A reception was held in the church basement. Edna Ulbrick and Paula Heider were in charge of gifts. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Dianne Clement, Mrs. Laura Heider, Mrs. Wendy Heider, Mrs. Shirley John, Beth and Nora Dutcher, and Loretta and Twila Cargill, also Dr. Grace Missionary Society women under the direction of Mrs. Elsie Cox.

Special guests were the grandparents of the bride, Mrs. Ruth Babcock of Santa Ana, CA and Mr. and Mrs. George Clement, and grandmother of the groom, Mrs. Clara Heider.

The bride is a graduate of Kearney State College and has been employed by Mid Nebraska Retardation Services the past two years. The groom, a graduate of Valparaiso University in Indiana, is employed by Becton Dickinson in Broken Bow.

After a wedding trip to Colorado, the couple will be at home in Broken Bow.

Janie Novosad-Michael Waddell Vows Exchanged in Church Service

A Nuptial Mass at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church in Ord on June 16 united Janie Novosad and Michael Waddell. Father Stanley Gorak performed the 3 p.m. ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Novosad, Jr. of Ord and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Waddell of Omaha.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding dress belonging to her aunt, Mrs. John Vanderbeek. The floor length gown featured a fitted taffeta bodice with long sleeves and sequin accents. The skirt had lace ruffles with a taffeta overlay. The bride wore a lace hat and veil and carried a bouquet of burgundy carnations, white steffenotis, baby's breath and ivy.

Maid of honor was Carolyn Novosad of Kansas City, MO. The bridesmaids were Nancy Vogeler of North Loup, Darlyn Jablonski of Point Arena, CA and Pam Novosad and Kalyn Koll, both of Ord. They wore identical mauve print gauze floor length gowns. Each carried a bouquet of assorted flowers in mauve, cornflower blue, off white and burgundy colors. The flower girls were Darla Vogeler of North Loup and Tasha Jablonski of Point Arena, CA.

Candle lighters were Todd Vogeler of North Loup and Peter Jablonski of Point Arena, CA.

Music for the ceremony was provided by several persons. To start the wedding, the bride sang "Through The Eyes of Love". The offertory song, "Ave Maria" was sung by Mrs. John Vanderbeek. During communion, "Sunrise, Sunset" was sung by Mr. and Mrs. John Vanderbeek, Nancy Vogeler, Darlyn Jablonski and Carolyn Novosad. After the ceremony, "Wedding Song" was sung by Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbeek and while the congregation walked out, they sang "The Twelfth of Never". The organist for the wedding was Elsie Furtak.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at St. Mary's Auditorium. Mr. and Mrs. Bud Novosad and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Koll acted as hosts and hostesses.

The couple will be at home in Kearney and attend Kearney State College.

Local Porkettes Help at Fair

Visitors to the Cornstock Mall's Arts and Crafts Fair in late June enjoyed samples of barbecued pork loin roast and received recipe brochures, compliments of Nebraska Pork Producers and Porkettes. Helen Fisher and Thelma Thomas of Mid State Porkettes assisted in the promotion, which demonstrated the varied versatility and value of today's new leaner pork.

A crowd pleasing feature of the booth was a chance to receive fresh pork chops in drawings held periodically throughout the fair.

When Corn Hits $2.80 A Bushel All Hell Could Sure Break Loose

According to Lloyd Zikmund, Valley County ASCS Executive Director, when corn hits $2.80 a bushel, all hell could break loose. In a Quiz interview Monday, he painted pictures of farm program and production estimates yielding surprising contrasts and apparent violations of established economic laws.

He likened the present and predicted corn production picture to catch 22. That is, things aren't always what they appear to be. Farmers can now sell corn for $2.63 a bushel, up 63 cents from January 1979 market levels. But yet they sometimes can't, according to Zikmund. The catch 22 being that elevators are swamped with last year's carry-over and will be hard pressed to place the pending 1979 crop, according to Zikmund.

That 78 carry-over totals a record 3.23 billion bushels as of June 1, 1979 according to a United States Dept. of Agriculture press release. This is up 14 percent above a year earlier, the release states.

In a June 29, 1979 report, the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service states corn presently planted for all purposes totals 79.8 million acres, virtually the same as last year.

With the present and pending crop, the market should be depressed, it isn't.

Domestic usage and overseas sales along with livestock usage totaled 1.19 billion bushels during April and May of 1979, up 14 percent from the same period one year earlier, Zikmund told the Quiz. While these figures are impressive, they don't account for the high demand for maize.

The real spark igniting the hot corn market today are projected Russian imports. The United States Department of Agriculture is predicting the Soviets may have to import from 19 to 30 million tons. This figure is up sharply from May 1979 USDA estimates. Two months ago, that government agency doubted 1978-79 Russian imports would top 12 million tons, at 55 bushels a ton, that is a corn.

What Zikmund called "surveillance methods" showed Soviets would fall short of their harvest goal by the revised 19 to 30 million ton figure.

The Soviets later verified this, according to Zikmund, saying they would have a severe shortage of what they called "coarse grains" this year.

The United States will likely become a primary supplier for Russian purchases, according to Zikmund. "We're the only ones able to fill their needs, evidently," he said.

The only problem is getting those purchases from here to there. Presently, warehousemen are attempting to haul corn to terminal locations, making room for grain from local producers.

Virgil Berecek, manager of the Farmers Market Co-Op Elevator in Ord said there is "a lot of corn coming in and going out". Trucks are now hauling farmers' produce to Kearney and Hastings.

Gaylord Bolesen of Bolesen Grain couldn't be reached for comment.

Comounding the present storage problem is wheat in this area to be harvested in the near future. "It'll have to go somewhere," Zikmund said. He credited warehousemen for doing what he called "... their utmost to accommodate the farmers' wheat crop."

"Producers are again reminded," he continued, "that when the average market price for corn received by producers is $2.80 a bushel, all corn in the USDA grain reserve program will trigger loans made. They will come due. Farmers will have 30 days to repay", Zikmund told the Quiz.

Three crop years, 1976-78, are involved in the grain reserve program. Corn produced in 1976 was sealed at $1.44 a bushel, that in 1977 for $1.94 a bushel and 1978 corn was sealed at $1.93 a bushel. When corn hits $2.80 a bushel all loans made on sealed corn crops come due.

When the corn market hits the $2.80 a bushel level, it will trigger what Zikmund called "an avalanche...". This avalanche consists of 179,000 metric tons of corn that will suddenly be dumped on the market. At 39.4 bushels per metric ton, this equals a huge headache.

The corn reserve plan was originally designed to increase the price received by farmers, Zikmund maintained. This was done by holding surplus corn off the market. Should corn hit the $2.80 a bushel level and should transportation for that corn not be available, negating any possible sales for export or domestic, the market would likely decline. Drastically. "If they don't have someplace to go with this stuff (corn)" Zikmund said, "there will be nothing but problems."

One solution he suggested was the USDA allowing corn to stay in farm storage should the market hit the $2.80 mark and then decline. "Or until orderly marketing can occur", Zikmund added.

That solution is still just one man's idea. Nothing more. The existing program is geared to the $2.80 loan call level. Listening to Zikmund, you get the idea that when the corn market hits the $2.80 level all hell will break loose.

In the meantime, Zikmund sits in his Ord office, contemplating the future, waiting and worrying about what might happen.

Hot Bats Boost Ord To Solid Winning Streak

The Ord Legion team is bombing with the bats and winning too. Just ask Albion, Central City, Loup City or O'Neill.

Those are the four teams the Ord Juniors wrecked with the bats. After beating both Central City and Albion in extra innings, Ord pounded out a 2-0 win at Loup City Sunday night when Joe Dworak had the defensive game and Kurt Krenke and Larry Sears brought in the two runs.

Monday night in Ord it was double duty for the Ord sluggers as they defeated O'Neill in 5 innings 14-4. Paul Beran, Kurt Krenke, Greg Linke, Mark Novosad and Jim Smith, along with Kevin Valla, all hit doubles not to mention other base hits by them along with help from Donny Proskocial and Larry Sears. Included in those hits was a 2-run home run by Jim Smith, his 2nd on the year.

 Bats aren't the only things burning; the Ord defense has been outstanding, led by catcher Paul Beran, first baseman Mark Novosad, second baseman Joe Dworak and right fielder Larry Sears. All these good things, along with the pitching of John Dworak and Bob Beran will lead Ord to a fine finish.
 Their record now goes to 5-10.

using solid base hits to frustrate Ord.
 Ord wasn't to be denied and in the top of the 6th scored 4 runs to take the lead again by one run 5-4.
 Well, Ord kept takin' it to 'em and scored 2 more runs in the top of the 7th and led 7-4. Then Albion stormed right back with good hits and a few Ord errors to put the game into extra innings at 7-7.
 Albion threatened in the 8th inning but could not put runs across.
 Relief pitcher, Greg Linke who filled in for starter Joe Dworak, struck out 4 batters in the extra innings and gave up only 1 hit.
 In the top of the ninth Ord got John Dworak on base and Jim Smith flew out for the first out.
 With one down and John Dworak on second, Larry Sears stepped to the plate and hit a double scoring Dworak from 2nd making the score 8-7.
 In the bottom of the 9th Linke struck out one and the next two grounded out to make the final score 8-7.
 Ord is seeing much better hitting from everyone and is also getting good bench help from Rod Ostrander and Joe Dworak that has helped the Legion team to win two extra inning games in a row.

Town Team Falls In Greeley Shocker
 By Jim Smith
 Ord's town team traveled to Greeley Saturday night and saw their record fall to 7-2 and move out of a first place tie with Boelus in the Sherman-Howard League.
 Faulty fielding and an inability to get hits with runners in scoring position was the cause for defeat. The real bright spot in the ballgame was the 4 2/3 of hitless relief pitching of Mike Urbanovsky. Ord has two very important games coming up with Arcadia and league leading Boelus in the next eight days.
 Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Larsen were 4th of July supper guests of Mrs. Ella Mottl and her house guests, Elder Mottl of Kansas and Sherry Mottl of Chicago, IL. Roger Mottl, Arcadia, was also a guest.

North PeeWees-Ponies Take First Round Tourney Action

The Ord North PeeWees and Ponies took first round victories in Little League tournament play as the Ponies squeezed by Comstock 13-12, and the PeeWees got by Burwell 4-1.

In Pony action Chuck Fryzeks north squad held on to a 11-6 lead to pull it out against Comstock 13-12.

Ord had trouble early on the mound after starter Paul Hill gave up 2 hits and 3 walks in the first inning.

Comstock ended up the game with 12 runs on 3 hits; for North, they had 13 runs on 6 hits.

In PeeWee play Ord North whipped Burwell in first round play as C. B. Moudry pitched a one-hitter.

Legion Wins Second Extra Inning Game

The Ord Legion seems to like extra innings as they defeated Albion at Albion 8-7 in 9 innings.

Ord jumped on top first when Kevin Valla scored on a sacrifice fly by Jim Smith after Valla got out with a ground rule double.

Albion came back in the bottom of the 5th and went ahead 4-1.

Ord's town team traveled to Greeley Saturday night and saw their record fall to 7-2 and move out of a first place tie with Boelus in the Sherman-Howard League.

Faulty fielding and an inability to get hits with runners in scoring position was the cause for defeat. The real bright spot in the ballgame was the 4 2/3 of hitless relief pitching of Mike Urbanovsky.

Sacred Heart Catholic Church At Arcadia Dedicated Sunday

Parishioners gathered for the dedication of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Arcadia Sunday. The 40 by 100 foot structure replaces one destroyed in the 1974 Arcadia tornado. Construction started in February of 1976 and was completed last week. The first mass was celebrated July 4, 1976. Seventeen families are listed as church members. The building is free of debt, according to Mrs. Doris Hurlbert, secretary-treasurer of the Altar Society.

Softball Squad Rails Gannons With 14-8 Win

By Jim Smith
The Ord Men's softball team whipped Greeley Gannons in Ord Tuesday night, 14-8. Ord led all the way behind the pitching arm of Bill Kiser. Kiser was relieved in the 7th inning on the mound by veteran Frank Andressen. It was a big win for Ord as the rain has kept their time on the field very limited, but evidently Jim Augustyn's club hasn't been rusted.

Dandy Doers 4-H Club
The fifth meeting of the Dandy Doers 4-H Club was held at the home of Lori Trump, June 28, 1979.

We talked about Achievement Day and what food each member will take. Shelly Hurlbert did a mini demonstration on how to make Mexican Coca.

Five members were present. We also talked about when we are to hand in our record sheets, which is Sept. 17, 1979.

July 23 is when we are to take in our projects to the fair. The meeting was adjourned. Our next meeting will be held at Shelly Hurlbert's home on Achievement Day.

READ PSALM 103:8-22
"But thou, O Lord, shalt endure forever; and thy remembrance unto all generations." (Psalm 102:12)
Near St. Louis, visitors can visit Cahokia Mounds State Park, Illinois. Here is the site of an advanced, prehistoric Indian civilization. From A.D. 700 to 1500, these people lived on this site and developed a complex community with specialized religious, social, and political organizations. Four circular sun calendars of large, evenly spaced posts demonstrate this civilization's knowledge of seasons, science and engineering. Around A.D. 1500 these people disappeared. What happened to this 800-year-old civilization?
With the bomb or ever-present threat, will scientists of the future someday visit the sites of our great cities and wonder who we were, marvel at our advances and knowledge, and wonder what happened to us? Somehow Cahokia makes one aware of our lack of knowledge and of our short life as compared to the ages of the earth. It makes us turn in awe to God and marvel at the richness of His knowledge and power.
PRAYER: Lord, sometimes we forget. We are like the grass that quickly withers. We put faith in Your mercy and wisdom that has endured from the beginning of the earth. Amen.

Magdalen Ambrose Rites at Chapel

Funeral services for Magdalen E. Ambrose were held on Wednesday, July 11, 1979 at 10:30 a.m. at the Ord Memorial Chapel with Father Stanley Gorak officiating. Mrs. Shirley Karre was the organist with Mrs. Sharon Fuss singing "Going Home" and "Evening Prayer". Pallbearers were Richard Crane, K. W. Peterson, Carl Kroeger, John Wozab, Glen Beerline, and Frank Fuss. Burial was in the Ord City Cemetery with Ord Memorial Chapel in charge of arrangements.

Magdalen Charlotte Ambrose was born on February 20, 1888 in Valley County, to Charles and Marie Miller Post and died on July 8, 1979 at Ord at the age of 91.

She was raised and attended schools in Valley County and attended Middle College in Atkinson, KS for two years. On May 9, 1910, she was united in marriage to John Ambrose at Ord. She had been a resident of the Valley County Nursing Home since 1975.

Survivors include two nieces, Mrs. Freda Oschner of Hastings and Mrs. Audrey Speak of Marysville, KS; three nephews, Keith Post of Lakewood, CA, Fred Post of Logan, UT, and Steve Post.

Fireworks Display At County Fair

Tentative plans for rescheduling the July 4 fireworks display are being discussed by Ord Rotarians. According to J. Marvin Weems, Rotarian spokesman, the pyrotechnic display could be scheduled as a part of the Valley County Fair, later this month.

First scheduled for July 4 at the baseball diamond, the fireworks show was rained out. The date and time for the possible new date aren't known yet. According to Weems, the tie-in with the fair is a good possibility at this point.

Local S and L Will Provide Checking That Pays Interest

A Nebraska firm expects to be the first savings and loan association in the Midwest to market the equivalent of a checking account that pays interest.

When First Federal Lincoln opens its doors Monday they will offer to the public a transaction account called "MoneyNow." Coupled to this account will be a checking account with The Chase Manhattan Bank of New York, a financial giant with assets in excess of $60 million.

As checks clear through the bank funds will be automatically transferred from the customer's MoneyNow account at First Federal Lincoln to cover those checks. The funds will earn five percent interest up to the day they are electronically transferred to Chase.

"The reason we coupled our transaction account to a checking account with Chase is that savings and loans here and in most parts of the country have not been given authority to offer checking," said Charles H. Thorne, First Federal Lincoln president.

"With MoneyNow we are being consistent with our basic philosophy of providing the consumer with advanced services offering more benefits and higher returns," Thorne said.

Thermometer Celebrates With 76 on July Fourth

With a high of 76 on July Fourth, matching the Year of Independence, temperatures during the past week were cooler than any of recent record as a cloud cover lingered through most of the past week and over an inch of rain put smiles on the faces of farmers throughout the area.

Though tornados battered Loop County to an estimated million dollars in damages Saturday evening, no adverse weather was reported in Valley County. The rains locally came in the form of slow showers with little run-off and helped postponement of irrigation for another week.

Extended forecasts could bring more help to farmers with chances of thundershowers today (Thursday) and partly cloudy skies projected for Friday and Saturday. Highs were expected to be around 90 and lows in the mid-60s.

philosophy of providing the consumer with advanced services offering more benefits and higher returns," Thorne said.

The checking service will be free as long as the customer maintains a minimum balance of $300 in a MoneyNow account. There will be a charge of fifteen cents per check written during any month the balance falls below that amount.

"We are being careful to call MoneyNow a 'transaction' account to distinguish it from our savings account which are designed for short and long-term savings goal attainment. MoneyNow funds are the same as money in a checking account, except they earn interest until they are spent.

In addition to the checking privilege, our MoneyNow customers will have the added convenience of using 72 Money Service Centers located in retail stores to make deposits, withdrawals and cash checks most of the time those stores are open," Thorne stated.

Twenty-four hour telephone bill paying service will also be available with MoneyNow, as will be telephone transfer, which simplifies the transfer of excess funds from MoneyNow to a higher interest paying savings account with First Federal.

A departure from the customary practice of returning cancelled checks to customers will be First Federal's "safekeeping" service through Chase.

The checks issued to customers will be carbonized. Customers will retain exact copies of every check they write. The check copies plus the monthly statement that lists the checks that have cleared simplifies the reconciliation task, according to Thorne. Customers will no longer need to sort and store cancelled checks.

The check copy plus the statement is proof of payment in the eyes of the Internal Revenue Service and for most legal purposes. Microfilm copies of the front and backs of all cleared checks will also be available for seven years.

"We believe MoneyNow and its companion services provide advantages for everyone, and particularly for the persons who are accustomed to maintaining large checking account balances," Thorne said.

Ida Mae Hill Rites Held Wednesday

Ida Mae Hill was born April 17, 1900 at Springfield, MO to Henry and Ellen Marie Stanley, and died July 8, 1979 at the Valley County Nursing Home in Ord at the age of 79.

Ida Mae moved with her parents at an early age to LaGrande, OR where she attended school. She was married to Nelson R. Crowl in June of 1920. Mr. Crowl died June 9, 1925, and Ida Mae moved to Sheridan, OR where she worked as a housekeeper and practical nurse.

On June 28, 1949, she married Walter M. Hill at Arcadia. They made their home in Arcadia until Mr. Hill died in 1962. Ida Mae then moved to Ord, only having recently moved to the Valley County Nursing Home. She was a member of the Bethany Lutheran Church of Ord.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Maybelle Pierce of Ord and Mrs. Beatrice Troxel of Fairbury; one son, Leatrice Crowl of Sitka, AK; ten grandchildren; 16 great grandchildren; one brother, Frank Stanley of Olympia, WA; two sisters, Mrs. Leona Warrick of Puyallup, WA, and Myrtle Spano of Los Angeles, CA. She was preceded in death by her parents and husbands. Memorials may be given in her memory to the Ord Bethany Lutheran Church.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, July 11, 1979 at 2 p.m. at the Bethany Lutheran Church in Ord.

Sheriff's Report
Valley County Sheriff Martin Sonnenfeld had two cases of minor vandalism to report this week. Stoop signs were taken from a road ten miles south of Ord recently, he told the Quiz. Exact dates of the theft aren't known.

There was minor vandalism done to road equipment parked one mile west and a mile south of National Hill, 13 miles west of Ord on the Sargent Highway. Someone apparently tried to start a vehicle. Minor damage was done to the key lock. Air had been let out of six tires.

Sonnenfeld estimated this happened two weeks ago.

could produce about ten gallons of alcohol fuel daily.

So far, Gene has limited the fuel's use to his lawnmower. "But I'm going to start using it in my car engine next week," he said.

A motorcycle accident triggered his interest in the applications of solar energy. Recuperating in a New Mexico hospital, he began reading up on the subject. "There's a lot more interest in it in New Mexico than in Nebraska," he observed.

With that solar heating knowledge, interest in a solar still came naturally. With that completed, his quest for a corn-based alcohol fuel wasn't far behind.

"As Gene explained things, his process would boost the market on an agricultural surplus, supply America with a cheap alternative to gasoline, and help clean up the environment of the land. One member of the audience Thursday was heard observing that Gene's idea of solar distilled alcohol fuel was "... the best thing under the sun ... in whipping America's current fuel crisis."

'Better Way' Needed

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M. M. Van Kirk, Director of Information

The nationwide strike by independent truckers has cost individual truckers, farmers and ranchers and American consumers millions upon millions of dollars in direct and indirect losses and contributed further to the rampant inflation that is steadily eroding the American standard of living.

In the end, everybody pays unnecessarily for redress of legitimate grievances achieved through prolonged coercion. Almost always, radical elements get out of hand and resort to weapons and terrorist tactics to intimidate and enforce their demands.

Most of the grievances cited by the independent truckers are recognized as real and worthy of immediate attention and correction.

Representatives from eight farm organizations met recently in Washington with truckers' representatives in an effort to ease the truck strike. The meeting produced an agreement to seek the following goals: guaranteed diesel fuel allocation to truck stops; mandatory 10 percent fuel surcharge with periodic adjustments which regulated carriers under ICC orders pass through to independents operating under a lease; nationwide minimum uniform weight of 80,000 pounds and 60-ft. length on the trucks; standard "contract of haul" or bill of lading setting forth responsibilities of shippers, consignees, truck brokers and carriers; USDA to collect and publish agricultural trucking rates and costs; and end to "unloading rackets" which are a form of extortion.

It is unfortunate that such matters could not have been settled to provide the truckers relief without putting their resources and in some cases their lives and property in jeopardy. Unfortunately too that millions of dollars worth of fresh fruits and vegetables representing months of work and investment on the part of growers, both large and small, were lost because they could not be moved to processors and retailers. Such losses will plague consumers for months in the form of higher prices and short supplies.

Here in Nebraska, movement of livestock was disrupted, prices depressed and packing plants closed down with attendant loss of workers' wages and company earnings. Cattle ready for market were in many cases held over and that represents extra feed costs and the possibility of overweight discounts if the delay in marketing is prolonged.

Grain that should have been moving to terminal markets and freeing storage for the summer wheat harvest was in many cases halted. From past experience with rail and longshoremen's strikes, such disruptions of grain movement are costly to grain producers and the effects linger long after the strike is settled.

The trucking situation emphasizes again that transportation and distribution of agricultural products is vital to the economic health of the entire agricultural economy.

Alarming too is the more frequent pattern of a segment of the nation's working or industrial force attempting to seize the nation by its throat and shaking it until it gets what it wants. In such cases, the demands and settlements frequently exceed what could be considered a worthy compromise. Everybody is a consumer but the load falls heaviest on those who are least able to pay the extra costs.

Somewhat there should be a better way to resolve injustices and reach fair compromises and settlements . . . for the good of the nation and everybody concerned.

Volunteers Needed:
Volunteers are needed to participate in and contribute to the success of shows and events at the state fair. The state fair is for kids three to 93. The superintendents in the 4-H division of the Nebraska State Fair have planned many ways for adult and teen volunteers to become involved in nearly every 4-H activity.
Adult and teen volunteers select 1.) activities and shows of their interest, 2.) Any length of time, 2-3 hours to a day or more, 3.) Any day they will be at the fair. Each volunteer will receive an individual pass for the day(s) assigned.
If you are interested stop by or call the Extension Office to see the list of activities available, and fill out the sign-up sheet. Sign-up forms are due in the Valley County Extension Office by August 8.

Irrigation Sprinkler Water in Contact with Power Lines May be a Safety Hazard:
A stream of water from a sprinkler irrigation system in contact with overhead power lines may be a safety hazard, according to LaVern E. Stetson, SEA, USDA — Dept. of Engineering.
Water in contact with an energized line may carry leakage currents, and the chance for accidents may increase as more land is put under sprinkler irrigation, more installations are near power lines, and larger sprinklers are in use.

Irrigators should consider these safety guidelines: 1.) Don't touch irrigation equipment while water is striking power lines. 2.) Seek advice from the power company. Conditions specific to the site may determine whether a hazard exists. 3.) Adequately ground the irrigation machine. But treat a traveling sprinkler as dangerous while the stream is contacting power lines even if the sprinkler is grounded. Properly grounding a traveler is difficult. 4.) Break up the water stream, as an emergency measure, by inserting a beeline in the water line near a sprinkler, partially obstructing flow or allowing some air into the pump intake. 5.) Improve safety by selecting a smaller stream or using a ring insert nozzle to break up the stream. 6.) Get the power company's advice before installing a sprinkler system near its lines.

The amount of leakage current during water-to-power line contact may be affected by line voltage, clearance from lines, wind, electrical conductivity of the water, and size and dispersal of the stream of water.

More leakage current will be carried through water in contact with lines carrying high voltage than low voltage under like conditions, but the hazard may exist near low-voltage lines.

The most dangerous time for water contact with power lines is on a still day. Wind significantly reduced leakage current during tests unless it was less than three miles an hour and directly behind the water system.

Water varies in electrical conductivity, which affects the amount of leakage current carried. More impurities in the water increase its electrical conductivity. Water pumped from underground sources generally has higher conductivity than surface water.

Fertilizer added to the water may increase its electrical conductivity and the possibility of hazards. The increase will be proportionately greater in water that's low in conductivity.

Stream size, influenced both by nozzle diameter and orifice type, can also affect conductivity. For nozzles of the same design, increasing stream size will increase electrical conductivity and leakage current when the water contacts power lines.

A stream that remains solid longer after leaving the nozzle travels farther and covers more land. However, the less dispersed a sprinkler stream is when it leaves the nozzle the more conductive it is.

Crop Water Use Details

The following crop water use data is supplied by the Lower Loup Natural Resources District and is published as a public service by the Ord Quiz.

For the week of June 19 through July 8, crop water use for alfalfa under full cover was .85 inches.

Crop water use for corn was .58 inches.

Next week's forecasted crop water use for the week of July 9 through July 15, is estimated to be:

2.1 inches for alfalfa under full cover.
1.5 inches for corn.

Producers please note: Immediately after cutting, water use for alfalfa will be 50% of the figure given; after 10 days, water use will be 75%. At 20 days after cutting, water use is the figure given.

An update is provided Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and is made available through a toll-free Hot Line number 1-800-652-9329.

contending with their worst grasshopper infestation since 1958 according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. This means a bumper crop of hoppers in home gardens, as well as in fields.

Hoppers are not too choosy in their diet and will feed on most garden vegetables if they're hungry. Gardens adjacent to grass pastures, or similar grasshopper hatching beds are bound to have extensive grasshopper damage during the hoppers' busy season — from June to September.

Border areas around gardens should be sprayed while hoppers are juvenile, and unable to travel long distances. The wider the sprayed border, the longer the protection.

When hopper pressure is high, they will eventually cross borders into gardens. A carefully selected insecticide that is safe on vegetables must be used to protect the gardener's investment.

Cygon (dimethoate) is one of the better insecticides for border areas and it is also safe on some vegetables — beans, broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, collards, melons, spinach, Swiss chard, tomatoes and turnips. For most crops, there is a seven to 14-day period between application and harvest.

Malathion or Sevin can be used on almost all garden crops, with relatively short periods from application to harvest. Diazinon is registered for many vegetables, with a five to 14 day period before harvest.

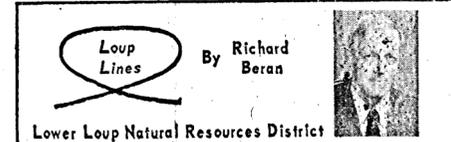

To be sure your insecticide is approved, read the label directions and avoid using supplies of older chemicals that have since been banned, as well as new products that have not been approved for your vegetables.

THE Ord Quiz

Section Two

Estab. April, 1882. Ord, Nebr., Thurs., July 12, 1979. Vol. 98, No. 20. 2 Sects.

Lower Loup Natural Resources District

The U.S. Water Resources Council has released information that identifies large areas in central U.S. that are declining in ground water reserves. The area includes nearly 1/2 the states of Texas, 2/3 the states of New Mexico, Colorado, and Oklahoma, 3/4 of Kansas, and yes, about 1/3 of Nebraska. The Lower Loup NRD is included in this area of Nebraska.

What's happening? Water is an ordinary, yet amazing compound. It covers nearly 3/4 of the earth's surface, and exists in a variety of forms. Oceans, ice caps and glaciers contain some 99.35 percent of the world's 326 million cubic miles of water. It is from the remaining 2.3 percent that man finds the usable fresh water to satisfy his need. Most of this water is found in streams, lakes, ground water, snow, and ice.

Per capita water consumption in the United States for all purposes (manufacturing, agriculture, domestic use, etc.) is about 2,000 gallons per day. This is about 200 times as much as each person uses in underdeveloped parts of the world. A single ear of corn takes 23 gallons of water to develop; a ton of steel, 60,000 gallons. The average American residence uses 25-50,000 gallons of water every year.

Water Supply. An average of about 30 inches of water falls in the United States. Some areas in the arid west receive less than 4 inches a year, while over 200 inches falls in the coastal area of the Pacific Northwest. Of the 30 inches, about 21 inches returns to the atmosphere by transpiration from plants and evaporation. The remaining 9 inches either soaks down through the soil to the ground water table or runs over the surface and finally moves to the oceans.

Ground water. About 3 inches of the moisture soaks deeply enough into the soil to recharge ground water supplies. In many areas, this water accounts for much of the available water supply. In California, for example, 4 percent of the total fresh water used in 1975 came from wells. Ground water accounted for about 1/4 of the fresh water used in the nation.

In many areas, the amount of ground water removed exceeds the rate of recharge. It is estimated that excess removal is depleting the nation's ground water supply by some 21 billion gallons per day. This is a particularly serious problem in the states of Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas, Arizona, and California.

The State of Nebraska is presently engaged in an extensive study of the Ogallala Aquifer, which supplies a majority of the ground water in Nebraska for irrigation, domestic, and industrial use.

The study will include the portions of Colorado, Kansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas, and Nebraska that overlie the Ogallala groundwater aquifer. The primary objectives will be: (1) determine potential development alternatives for the High Plains, (2) identify and describe the policies and actions required to carry out promising development strategies, and (3) evaluate the local, state, and national implications of these alternatives.

Too True To Be Good

Sometimes this nation simply doesn't listen. In 1976 Jimmy Carter told us two things — that he would never lie to us; and that he would put this country back on its feet again.

Did he lie?

Something Different

Look What We Have

We were delighted to find so many handsome yet unknown flowers and shrubs when we moved to San Diego, and we were particularly intrigued to find some of these mysterious charmers in our own yard.

One huge shrub threatened to take over the entire little lawn we have beside our house. It was so attractive. It had huge leaves of glossy green, a bit irregular in shape, and they were eight to ten inches across any old way you looked at them. We hadn't the slightest idea what the flourishing plant was.

We were all the more fascinated when it burst into long spikes of bloom. Each flowering shaft must have been five feet long!

The flowers are difficult to describe. Leaves of greenish-lavender were interspersed with white bells, that's as nearly as I can describe them. One leaf, one flower!

I couldn't distinguish a fragrance, but the flowers must be sweet, for ants swarmed over them.

Ants we don't need: in California you most likely have ant stakes around the base of your dwelling to drive ants away. Like in any desert area, ants do love it here.

So... I was so pleased to come to an article in California's famous SUNSET magazine that pictured and described my mystery flower. It is an acanthus!

I was delighted, for this is a flower that has come down to us from the days of the ancient Romans and Greeks.

Acanthus is the leaf so often found carved at the capitol, or top, of the columns which support the beautiful buildings of those ancient days.

Acanthus are carved on the pedestals of tables. They finish off the feet of table supports. Acanthus is a truly famous as well as beautiful plant, esteemed for thousands of years.

The big plant, some five feet tall and also across, we shall cherish, don't worry.

How wonderful to have a plant with such a fabulous history!

State to Adjust Urban Land Value

CAPITOL NEWS

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
Lincoln

The state Board of Equalization and Assessment has directed the state Revenue Department to adjust property values of non-agricultural land in 85 counties in which such values average about 17 percent of actual value.

Under state law the valuations are supposed to be set at 35 percent of actual value.

The Board's directive to the Revenue Department is designed to bring most counties in line with the eight counties that have completed reappraisals this year.

Those eight counties have valuations averaging about 30 percent, according to Deputy Tax Commissioner John Decker. He told the Board that action to bring the remaining counties to that level will almost double their values.

Starting July 11, there will be hearings for counties which want to contest the adjustment of their valuations.

The Board must make a final decision by August 15, the date by which most governmental units have to approve budgets and mill levies for the coming year.

The higher valuations should not necessarily mean higher taxes. In theory, higher values should be accompanied by a lowering of mill levies.

Decker, who had to explain the Revenue Department's equalization plan because of the illness of state Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington, described the proposal as a first step in meeting the statutory requirement that land be assessed for tax purposes at 35 percent of actual value.

Decker said with $800,000 furnished by the Legislature for the hiring of more field employees and statisticians to refine the sales-assessment ratio, the Board can complete its job next year.

Gov. Charles Thone, who has frequently described the property valuations as "a mess," said the Board's action was as good as done this year.

Agreeing with him were Secretary of State Allen Beer-mann, Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson and Treasurer Frank Marsh who with the Governor and Tax Commissioner make up the membership of the Board.

The plan treats farmland differently than residential, commercial and industrial properties. In most counties the proposal will result in an increase in farmland values.

Gas Policy Criticized
Gov. Charles Thone has told President Carter he is not enthusiastic about a presidential order that could shift 5 percent of the state's gasoline supplies to other states.

Thone was also critical of a new regulation that permits governors to divert 5 percent of a state's fuel supplies from rural to urban areas. That 5 percent would be in addition to the 5 percent set-aside the governors are allowed to use to meet emergency situations.

The "most frightening" part of the plan, Thone said, is the regulation to allow the federal government to divert gas supplies from one part of the country to another. That would reward drivers who have not reduced their driving and would punish those who have conserved, he said.

Bill Palmer, director of the state Energy Office, said Nebraska will receive 12.5 percent less gasoline in July than during the same month last year. He said the state is slated to receive about 72.5 million gallons, down about 10 million from July, 1978. In addition, Palmer said, Nebraska will receive about 2 percent, or 1.2 million gallons, more diesel fuel than it did last July.

The regulation authorizing the Governor to shift fuel supplies from rural to urban areas probably won't be utilized in Nebraska because there are no indications that city areas are being harder hit by the gasoline shortage than the rural regions, Palmer said.

Closed Hearings Anticipated
A U.S. Supreme Court ruling that judges have considerable discretion to close pretrial proceedings dismayed many attorneys and media spokesmen in Nebraska.

In a 5-4 decision, the Court said judges can close the pretrial proceedings if they believe such action is required to protect a defendant's right to a fair trial —one that would not be affected by prejudicial publicity.

Alan Peterson of Lincoln, an attorney who represents Media of Nebraska, said he was "very disappointed" by the Court's ruling. He added the news media will continue to maintain that pretrial hearings should remain open under state statutory and constitutional provisions for preservation of open court proceedings.

Among those who predicted many pretrial hearings will be closed because of the decision were Joe R. Seacrest, editor of the Lincoln Journal and chairman of Media of Nebraska, and Dennis Keefe, Lancaster County Public Defender. Seacrest noted the public is already questioning whether courts are "soft on crime" and that a good many cases are resolved by plea bargaining ahead of public trial. He said the Court's decision "inevitably will result in the public knowing less about the criminal process and the effect of pretrial law enforcement, prosecution and the judiciary."

Keefe said there are "less drastic ways to preserve a fair trial than to exclude the public from the courtroom." He suggested in cases of massive pretrial publicity that a trial could be moved to another location.

Management Prerogative
The Nebraska Supreme Court has ruled the workload of faculty and staff members at a community college is a management prerogative and is not a negotiable item during collective bargaining.

The ruling reversed a Commission of Industrial Relations order that required Metro Technical Community College in Omaha to bargain with faculty and staff members about how many hours they must be available for teaching, counseling, and evaluating.

In the dispute, the union representing faculty and staff proposed contact hours with students be set at 14 per week and 28 per week for counselors, evaluators and librarians. But Metro Tech refused to negotiate, arguing the workload issue affects educational policy. The Court said the workload question involved a "foundational value judgment" because it could require changes in the school's educational philosophy, number of teachers, program offered, number of students and state aid tied to enrollment.

KERRY ON

By Kerry Leggett

— afoot —
Forced into walking by a mechanical failure in my car, I've rediscovered the joy of walking while awaiting a replacement part to put the wheels back in running order.

At first I guess I felt some disgust that the car failed me. Then disgust turned to self-pity. And I returned to my feet with the rationalization that it was good for my health and saved gas.

The first few times to and from work were the hardest. Now that I'm beginning to like my daily walks, I suppose the awaited part will arrive. In the meantime I would have to say I've discovered a world — again — that I'd forgotten existed.

I've written here, before, about the world I rediscovered from the sidewalks of our town. I've also probably related some of the thoughts I've had while hoofing it the near-mile between the office and home.

Possibly a part of the reason that I'm conjuring up in my mind was the fact that small-town living enables me to walk — if necessary. Were I in a city with many miles to work, walking would be out of the question. Living in Ord, it's an option too many of us never exercise. (Pardon the pun.)

Another benefit I've realized is that in the time it takes me to walk from the office to my home — the frustrations of the business world seem to vanish! Often I leave work with my mind still swimming with business matters. By the time I've walked a few blocks, speaking to folks along the way and enjoying the world around me, I've usually forgotten all the things darting around my mind when I started. An initial reluctance, when was first forced to my feet, "What if I need a car during the day?" Another persistently mind was, "If there's something I have to bring home, how do I get it there if I'm walking?" Finally there was the weather, "What if it turns rainy?"

I'm ashamed to say that the all were mere excuses. Nothing, has come up that called a car. And, had something come up, I'm sure a friend would have used their car in emergency.

The weather? It has rained. It has been hot and humid. I've carried an umbrella in case of rain and peeled off a sweat-soaked shirt. Sweaters, umbrellas and packages are transportable — even afoot.

So many many excuses for walking have vanished and circumstances forcing me to feet were actually blessings.

The gas shortage has lost most of its calamitous effect since I rediscovered my feet.

Geranium Joe Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Years ago I done some reading behind them old English poets. I never tried to understand the poems, but our neighbor's daughter left one of her college textbooks at our house and, and it had some study in it about lives of some of them famous fellers. There was one named Lamb. I recollect that wrote a poem about how good roast pig smells. That stuck with me because the book said he first smelled roast pig when he come on a barn that was on fire.

Now what we've got here is what I try to get my wife to understand every year about this time. If that feller Lamb had wore hisself out helping fight the barn fire and get the hogs out, he wouldn't of been in no shape to write a poem about it. So he done the right thing. He set down and wrote the poem about the steam coming out of the kettle and unto this day his words are read and the barn and the hogs that might of burnt up anyway is remembered.

This is the right time of year for some serious setting, in a swing under a shade tree if that can be arranged. Ever time my wife catches me doing my duty as a man of letters, I have to remind her that some of the great works of the world was done by men in my position.

James Watts was setting in the kitchen watching his wife when when he got to thinking of the steam coming out of the kettle and he went on to figger out the steam engine. And old Isaac Newton was laying under a apple tree when he discovered gravity. True, it had been there all along, but nobody had took time to pay attention. I explain all this, but the lesson never has took the allus finds somepeun fer me to do, when I might be on the verge of working out a program to deregulate moonshine stills to turn out enough alcohol to take over fer the gasoline, the oil companies have got, but we can't git.

Fer instant, I was working the other day on this item where a pore man now is in better shape than a pore man was 10 years ago. I waded through all that about wages ain't quite keeping in with inflation, but all the government services and supplies more than making up the difference. The best I could figger, Mister Editor, is that the money a feller ain't got now ain't worth as much as the money he didn't have then, and the more he got the better off he is. That's the lesson, but the old lady called me. She claimed I had dozed off and was just before falling off the porch.

Practical speaking, it's hard fer a man trying to do right to be took serious these days. I see where this undertaker in Vancouver, British Columbia is catching complaints from other undertakers because he's selling a $6 coffin. He got a real buy for the price. That's right, Canada, Mister Editor, so our undertakers needn't worry. Over here, with our womb to tomb Government controls, a $6 coffin is bound to be agin the rules of 10 different agencies.

Yours truly,

Mandated Revaluation Could Send County Taxes Soaring

Proposed action by the State Revaluation Board could send Valley County taxes skyrocketing. A notice from Nebraska Deputy Tax Commissioner John L. Decker proposes hiking agricultural land assessments in Valley County 68 percent. Most other real estate assessments in Valley County would be boosted 39 percent.

Valley County Supervisors chairman Ken Collins, County Assessor Bob Sevensen, and County Clerk Thelma Dulitz received copies of the notice and order to show cause Wednesday, July 11.

The document read in part, "After reviewing the Abstract of Assessment as submitted, the State Board of Equalization and Assessment has determined the following changes in said abstract may be necessary in order to achieve state-wide equalization.

"All urban real property, rural improvements, suburban homesites, improvements on leased lands, and commercial and industrial property: 39 percent increase.

"All agricultural land: 68 percent increase.

A show cause hearing has been scheduled July 18 at the state capitol in Lincoln. County authorities will meet with state officials at 1 p.m. in room 1520.

In a Quiz interview Thursday, Sevensen said, "I feel the adjustments the State Board of Equalization are proposing are extreme and will cause larger inequities between Valley and our neighboring counties than now exist.

"I intend to appear at the hearing with Ken Collins and other Valley County board members to point out the irregularities I feel these adjustments would create. Hopefully they will see what they have done and make necessary adjustments to treat us more fairly."

Sources claim some existing irregularities would be made even greater under the state proposed tax hike. Two pieces of land, one in Valley, the other in a neighboring county, are now $13 apart on their present tax rate. Under the state proposed plan, this differential could spread to $60 or more.

Valley County had finished a revaluation just two months ago. Midwest Appraisal of Topeka, KS started that job during the fall of 1977.

Deadline on state officials deciding proposed tax hikes is August 15, 1979. Sevensen and his staff would have until September 1, 1979 to compute valuations as demanded by state authorities.

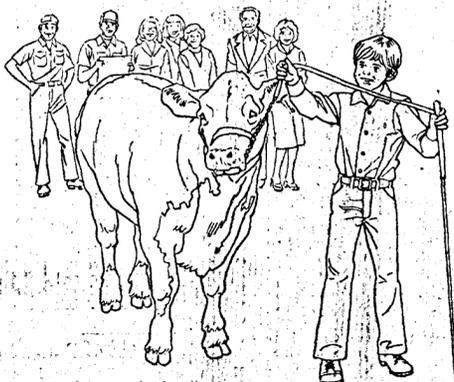

Labor Department to Try Dial A Claim Idea

Plant Battle Lines Go To Courtroom

Battle lines over the pending Comstock power plant now extend into the courtroom. Nebraska Public Power District, NPPD, has filed a petition seeking access to the Frank Beran ranch near Sargent.

According to a Grand Island Independent article, the petition could be the first of 11 to be filed within the next month.

NPPD has picked two sites in Custer County as possible locations for the coal-fired electric generating facility. Land studies are needed to determine the exact plant location. Several property owners in the Comstock-Sargent area have delayed plant site decision by refusing NPPD crews access to their land.

Refusals
These refusals have been part of a protest from area residents not wanting the plant near them. Other protests have included walking out of NPPD meetings.

Ron Bogus, an NPPD spokesman, said a hearing has been scheduled for July 27 in Custer County Court. Three court appointed appraisers will tell the court their estimation of the Beran property value.

"When the figure is agreed upon by the court, NPPD will then deposit that amount of money into the court for the right to gain access to the property," Bogus reportedly said.

Either party may appeal the decision, according to the NPPD spokesman.

NPPD is entitled to access because of their right of eminent domain as a public utility. But Bogus reportedly said this court action wouldn't transfer ownership of the property, it would merely enable NPPD to complete studies on the land.

These studies include the effect of wells on the area water level and other related data.

Beran's land is reportedly the last needed in this study.

Bogus is reported to have said negotiations would continue for about two weeks with owners of the 11 other parcels of land. These are needed for less urgent wildlife studies.

Essman Recognized for Teaching State's Top Industry: Agriculture

Rolland Essman was honored during the July 10-13 meeting of the Nebraska Vocational Agricultural Agribusiness personnel in Lincoln. Essman, of North Loup-Scotia Public Schools, has been teaching vocational agriculture for 30 years. He came to North Loup-Scotia in 1950.

"That was 29 years ago. Asked why he stayed in the same location, the teacher replied, "Well, this is where the two of us met, in 1950." He and his wife, Wanda, were married one year later. "Our children were born here," he continued, "and it's a good community. By now, you can see some of the results of some of your work with students around here."

Essman estimated that between 300 and 400 students have been in his classroom at North Loup-Scotia. Quite a few have settled in their hometown area and gone into farming. "More than most people realize," Rolland added.

Quite a few come back to recall old times and get ag related information from their former teacher. "They mainly come back just to talk," Rolland said.

Rolland's son, Tom, a sophomore at NLS, supposes he will take vocational-agriculture all four years of high school. He will graduate in 1982.

The voc-ag subject is nothing new to the Essman family. Rolland was born and reared on a farm in Nebraska. He helped construct the vocational-agriculture building at his alma mater, DeWitt High School. That was in 1941, the year he graduated from there.

"We didn't have voc-ag back then," Rolland recalled. It was added to the school's curriculum in 1942. "Back then, it was a relatively new subject," he said. "Farming wasn't in the best of shape then, according to Rolland, and there was the matter of money."

Even today, there are only 136 out of some 400 schools in Nebraska offering vocational-agriculture, the teacher revealed. Asked why the low ratio, Rolland replied, "The only thing I can say is that some schools are too small and the (voc-ag) program is expensive. Let's say it requires more facilities than most classes."

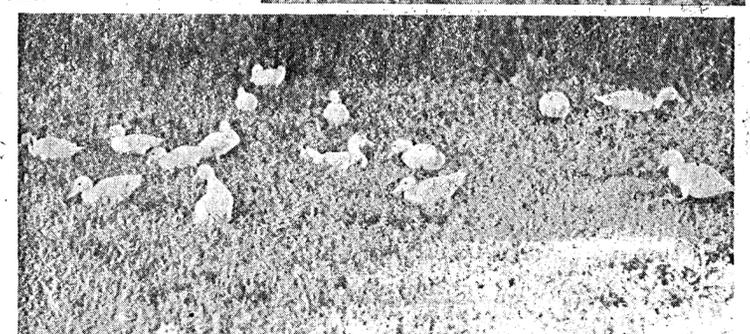

This investment does pay off in Rolland's estimation. Most of the state's work force is ag oriented, he reminded, the demand for ag students exceeds the supply. "And the opportunities in agribusiness are almost unbelievable," the teacher enthused. According to (Continued on page 8)

Cycle of History Completed With Return Of Bugle To Fort Hartsuff

A cycle of history was completed recently when a bugle believed originally used at Fort Hartsuff was returned to that former military installation. Dr. and Mrs. Ben Meckel of Burwell presented it to Fort Hartsuff last May when the flagpole there was dedicated.

The Meckels got the bugle from a man who told them his father purchased it at an auction. Held in 1881, the sale was for surplus property from the just deactivated sandhills military installation.

In a Quiz interview Friday, Roye Lindsey, Hartsuff superintendent, called the horn "a typical bugle of the 1860s and 1870s." "This is the most interesting artifact at the fort," he added.

A new addition to the regular "troops" at Fort Hartsuff is a family of ducks. Nicknamed "The Grasshopper Brigade", they have helped keep down the insect population at the state park.

Proposed Ord City Budget Is Adopted

The Ord City Council adopted a proposed budget of $1,336,954 at a meeting in City Hall Tuesday night. The budget, above the 1979 budget of $1,021,400, will go into effect August 1, according to city auditor Rocky Severson, CPA.

A formal hearing on the proposed budget has been set for August 6, Monday, at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall.

The biggest increase in the spending financial plan was the street departments budget. That zoomed from $171,444 for the just ended fiscal year to a proposed total of $1,093,635. Severson said most of the increase was attributed to planned city storm sewer improvement projects.

The auditor told the Quiz that without the sewer projects, the proposed budget for the city street department would fall to $130,585.

Proposed city allocations for the police department are up sharply for the coming year. But according to Ord Police Chief John Young, this figure isn't all it seems to be at first glance. Last year the council earmarked $64,392 for the City Police. In the proposed budget they will receive $67,201. This includes the $5,500 for a new police car. Funds for the vehicle were included in last year's budget, Young revealed, but the vehicle didn't arrive.

Those funds were carried over into the pending financial allocation for Young's department. As such, they didn't represent a real increase, he contended. Without the vehicle allocation, the proposed budget would be $2,891 under last year's budget, according to Severson.

Other items making up the proposed budget include a $44,400 general fund. Revenue sharing funds will pay for $17,000 of this, according to Severson.

One new item in the municipal budget is $23,900 for the newly consolidated communication center in City Hall and Police headquarters next door.

Other budget categories and their totals in the just expiring city fiscal year and as proposed by the council Tuesday include:

- Fire Department, $9,600.
- Cemetery, $18,090 last year, $19,680 proposed Tuesday.
- Swimming Pool, $12,960 last year; $15,852 proposed Tuesday.
- Parks, $38,876 last year; $40,711 proposed Tuesday.

Severson suggested and the council voted $2,800 to be used for golf course improvements. Councilman Verlin Smith made the motion and Councilperson, Charlene Lola seconded the motion.

During the discussion of finances, council members wondered if they would get funds back donated for an air show and ball game. Neither event took place. The city donated $200 to the airshow and $75 to a July 4 ball game that was rained out.

Council members decided to have a special meeting with County Supervisors on transferring ownership of the Ord Airport from city to council authorities. A date and time for the meeting will be arranged in the near future.

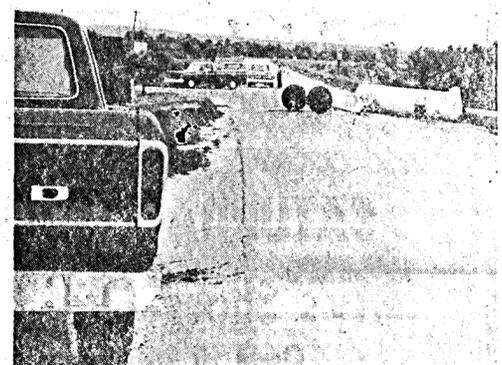

4-H Demonstration Teams Are Bound For State Fair

Four 4-H teams are bound for state fair following judging at the 1979 4-H Demonstration Day Friday, July 13, in the First National Bank here. Designated for state fair competition next month are Terina Trotter, Linda Setlik, Tammy Miller and Lisa Rasmussen, and Ann Conner.

They were four of the eight demonstration teams taking part in local competition Friday in Ord. The complete results of the competition are as follows:

— Judge this year was Janet Kucera.

There were no injuries Monday when an overturned ammonia tank spewed toxic fumes over an area near the river bridge in east Ord. Mark Knight was going east on Highway 70 in a Ford pickup, pulling an anhydrous ammonia tank. The hitch broke. The tank rolled over breaking a valve. The entire contents of the pressurized tank escaped. Firemen were called.

Gregory Attends National Meeting

Laurie Gregory, a junior at Ord High School, was one of 1,500 young men and women who economics students who attended Future Homemakers of America's 33rd annual Leadership Meeting this month in Washington, D.C. Teenagers from all over the USA traveled as far as 3,000 miles and raised as much as $850 apiece to be a part of this leadership event. Financial assistance was given to Laurie from her local chapter.

TOPS NE #302 Held Anniversary Meeting

TOPS NE #302 held their special 10th anniversary meeting Thursday, July 12, in the lower level of the Methodist Church.

Roswena Gydesen gave a skit with Darlene Tuma doing the reading. An imitation cake, plus all the decorations including wall posters, charms, pictures of past and present members and the scrapbook were all done by Cathy Bridgeman, Rowena Gydesen, Audrey Gregory, and Darlene Tuma.

Guests included Nadine Klimesk, Marilyn Sears, Bev Miller, Mary Pierce, and Linda Baker of Ord, and Linda Baker of Ord.

Best loser for the week was Marlene Tuma. Marie Novotny was the KOPS best loser.

The KOPS Society will be having a salad luncheon at the Ord Park July 19 at noon.

Afternoon and evening guests were Mr. and Mrs. Stan Key and Stanley of Burwell, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cerney, Antonia Proskocil of Sargent, Debra Proskocil of Ord and Evelyn Proskocil of Ord.

Two Begin One Year Training

Two Valley County natives, Zella Anderson and Rebecca Sahle, are among 42 students who recently began a one-year training program in medical technology at the University of Nebraska Medical Center and Omaha hospitals.

The students, who must have completed at least 90 semester hours of college before entering the program, will undergo the didactic portion of their education at the Medical Center and gain clinical experience at University, Nebraska Methodist or Bishop Clarkson Memorial Hospitals.

They will learn to perform laboratory procedures necessary in the diagnosis and treatment of disease.

Upon successful completion of the program the students will receive bachelor of science degrees in medical technology from UNMC.

Miss Anderson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Anderson, Ord, while Miss Sahle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sahle, Arcadia.

It's a Girl! Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bresley of Laramie, WY, are the proud parents of a baby girl, Billie Jo. Billie Jo was born Wednesday, July 11, at the St. Paul Hospital. She weighed 7 pounds 1 1/2 ounces and was 21 inches long. She joins a brother, Dustin, age 6, and a sister, Crystal, age three and a half.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Proskocil of Ord and Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Bresley of North Loup.

It's a Boy! Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Puckett (nee Sandra Grabowski) of Grand Island are parents of a son, Dorian Andrew. He weighed 8 pounds 2 1/2 ozs. Dorian joins a brother, Devlon.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Grabowski of Ord and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Puckett of Grand Island.

The Ray Grabowskys spent several days in the Puckett home.

It's a Boy! Mr. and Mrs. Duane Miller of St. Paul are the parents of a son, Chad Alan, born July 14 in St. Paul. Chad weighed 8 pounds, 6 1/2 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips, Brad and Cara are house guests of Cindy's mother, Doris Franssen. They arrived July 7 and will leave for their home in Phoenix, Thursday, July 19.

Ordites Return

Friday, June 22, Mrs. Stanley Hulinsky and Rachel and Mrs. Chet Kirby left Grand Island by bus for Rockford, IL where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lewandowski and family until July 1. From there, they went to Park Forest, IL where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kirby and family until July 8 when they returned to the Lewandowski home July 9, they left for home, arriving July 10.

Church Dedicated

A crowd of some 200 people attended the dedication of Sacred Heart Mission Church in Arcadia, July 8. Bishop Lawrence McNamara of Grand Island, guest of honor for the occasion, said the prayers for the ritual and blessed the church and its contents.

Fr. Stan Gorak from Ord, Fr. Dunstan Brian from Broken Bow, Fr. John Cook from Loup City and Fr. Al Godlewski, parish priest from Elyria with Arcadia Mission Church attached, also participated and assisted in the celebration of the Mass.

The fourth degree Knights of Columbus, representing Ord, Loup City, Burwell and Elyria also participated. Mrs. Clyde Gogan directed the choir group and played the Organ.

The Church is paid for and without debt. If the dedication is somewhat belated it is because the church required certain sanctuary furnishings. The altar, two lecterns, credence table and sedilia were donated by Amelia Quinn from Avoca, PA in memory of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wanigata. Philipek of Elyria designed the furnishings. The fancy portable pews with lime color upholstery were provided by hard working parishioners and charitable contributors.

The fourteen metallic bronze Stations of the Cross on the east and west walls were donated by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gogan in memory of their daughter, Barbara. The beige Cross with the Risen Christ hangs on the main wall of the sanctuary, a gift from Fr. Al Godlewski in memory of his parents, John and Wiercia Godlewski of Yonkers, NY. A replica of the life-size Sacred Heart statue that was destroyed in the tornado, came from St. Elizabeth's Church, Oskosh, where they had built a new church.

Charlene Lewandowski made the multi-color vestments, stoles and linens for the altar. The water font container, made of galvanized steel doubles as a baptismal font, donated by the children of Leo Danzak in his memory.

During the last three years, under the leadership of Leona Bendykowski, Paula Johnson and now Helen Ohme, the altar society ladies planned many bake sales, served dinners at weddings, funerals, and made a sizeable fund. With other stipulated gifts the ladies raised enough money to complete and furnish the kitchen with cabinets, refrigerator, stove, sink and a washing table.

Many firsts have occurred since the first Mass took place July 4, 1976. On Sept. 18, 1976 Paula Owens and Alvin Johnson were the first united in holy matrimony. The first Bi-Centennial Mass was held on Oct. 18, 1977. John and Sally Kaminski renewed their marriage vows on their Golden Jubilee, another first.

Western Farewell for Sue July 11, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knapp and family hosted a farewell barbecue for Sue Bosworth. The western style meal was attended by about 15 persons. Guests included the Knapp family, Bosworth family and some of Sue's friends.

Following the barbecue, some of the guests played volleyball and rode horses.

Sue will be leaving Ord August 8 to go to Brazil.

CAROL'S CORNER

by carol leggett

YESTERDAY, TOMORROW, TODAY . . . Remember your yesterdays; plan your tomorrows; but live and enjoy the here-and-now. Don't be cheated today.

There are two days in every week about which we should not worry. Two days which should be kept free from apprehension.

One of these days is YESTERDAY with its mistakes and care, its faults and blunders, its aches and pains. Yesterday is gone forever from our control. All the money in the world cannot bring it back. We can't erase a single word we said; for yesterday is gone.

The other day we should not worry about is TOMORROW with its possible adversaries and its burdens. Tomorrow is also beyond our immediate control. Tomorrow's sun will rise higher in splendor or behind a mask of clouds, but it will rise. Until it does we have no stake in Tomorrow for it has not yet come.

This leaves only one day — TODAY. Any man can fight the battles of just one day. It is only when you add the burdens of those two awful eternities — Yesterday and Tomorrow — that we break down.

It is not the experience of today that drive men mad. It is bitterness and remorse for something which happened yesterday and the dread of what tomorrow may bring.

For that reason let us live but one day at a time!

Cynthia Foth-Randall Brown Married in Mira Valley Church

United in a celebration of marriage July 14 at the Mira Valley United Methodist Church were Cynthia Ann Foth and Randall Alan Brown. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Eldon H. Foth of Ord and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brown of Kearney.

Rev. Charles Moorer officiated at the morning ceremony. Organist was Viola Hackel, Ord. Soloist Rex Clement, Ord, sang "Follow Me," "The Wedding Song," and "Pass It On" and led the congregation in a responsive version of "The Lord's Prayer".

Readers were Rick Mellor of Kearney, scripture, Harry Foth, Ord, grandfather of the bride, a poem he wrote for the couple; and Gary Paine, Kearney, the benediction, "Desiderata".

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a floor length gown of Venice lace silesta knit. Venice lace trimmed the modified Queen Ann neckline and the cap sleeves. The bodice was gathered in a blouson look which was trimmed with Venice lace motifs. The "A" line skirt fell into a chapel length train, trimmed with narrow Venice lace. She carried a bouquet of red silk roses and silk stephanotis.

Matron of honor for her sister was Jean Mellor, Kearney. Lighted candles were Laurie Brown of Kearney, sister of the groom, and Emily Wegener, White Cloud, KS. They wore floor length dresses of light blue knit.

Best man for his brother was Gary Brown, Waterloo. Ushers were Kelvin and Steven Foth of Ord, brothers of the bride.

Special guests were grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foth and Mrs. Archie Boyce, all of Ord.

Attending the guest book was Carla Kusek, Lincoln, cousin of the bride. Daria Borden, Tanya Schroer, and Ellen Nealeigh, all of Kearney, took care of gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Urwiler, Ravenna, aunt and uncle of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sabatier, Iota, LA, sister and brother-in-law of the groom, served as hosts and hostesses at the buffet luncheon which followed the ceremony. Assisting with reception duties were Sharon Kriak, Comstock; Jan Brown, Waterloo; Sylvia Otto, Fort Worth, TX; and Maxine Warrop, Ravenna. Servers were Ellen Kusek, Marilyn Kusek, Julie Hanson, and Amy Worn, all of Ord, and Lori Urwiler, Ravenna.

Following a wedding trip to Colorado, the newlyweds are at home in Cairo where the groom is employed by the Cairo Lumber Co. and the bride is employed by the Centerville Public Schools.

Rehearsal Dinner
Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brown hosted a rehearsal dinner for the wedding party July 13 at the Ord Elks Club.

Mutual Benefit Extension Club
Mrs. Ray Peterson was hostess to Mutual Benefit Extension Club in her home at Ord Wednesday afternoon. Eighteen members and one visitor, Mrs. Edna Collins, were present.

Emma Smith brought a beaded article she had made to be used as an appreciation gift from the club for the members approval. The afternoon was spent visiting and a tour of the Peterson home.

The annual family picnic will be held Aug. 8.

Nebraska's Little Miss

Tammi Was Semi-Finalist

Nebraska's Little Miss Tammi Stethem of Ord spent three days in Roanoke, VA where she competed for the title of National Little Miss 1979.

Thursday evening, June 28, Tammi attended a punch party for the mothers and daughters. The girls all wore their crowns which they received for representing their state. Each girl presented the mayor with a souvenir and then was awarded an Honorary Citizenship Certificate. She also received a National Little Miss T-shirt from the pageant directors. The girls then exchanged gifts and autographs in their pageant books.

Friday, they were taken through Lake Side Amusement Park and that evening attended rehearsal. Saturday morning, they had rehearsal in addition to interviews with the judges in the afternoon. At this time, Tammi received her Nebraska banner to wear that evening.

June 30, the night of the pageant, she received her trophy and bouquet to carry on stage. The 15 semi-finalists were chosen and then interviewed on stage. Tammi received a nice pendant for being a semi-finalist.

The crowning then took place. Stacie Bromley of Iowa received the title National Little Miss. Tammi was also presented a National Little Miss Pageant Certificate.

Guests this last week in the St. Boro home have been their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Poro and Mathew of Fairmont, MN.

South Peewees Rise Again Nail Sargent, Claim Tourney

Ord South Peewees rose again July 14 and nailed Sargent 12-1, clinching the tournament at Arcadia Saturday. An impressive rally in the third inning decided the game. During that period, Ord scored over one-fourth of their total points.

Ord South had 12 hits during the game to two for Sargent. The home town boys committed two errors to Sargent's four. Winning pitcher for Ord was Jimmy Linke with eight strikeouts and no walks. Winning catcher was Brian Meese. Losers in the two positions were White and Piper, respectively. They had four strikeouts and two walks.

A second round 14-0 win over Arcadia Tuesday set the stage for the victory Saturday. Ord South Peewees made hash out of their Arcadia opponents. For Linke, it was his third one-hitter of the season.

Neither side committed any errors. Ord had ten hits to Arcadia's one. Winning pitcher and catcher were again Jim Linke and Brian Meese.

Losing pitcher, Sestak, had a rough time during the game, walking ten men. Ord's Linke walked two.

This was the second time in recent weeks, Arcadia has been swamped by the South Peewees. Earlier this month they downed them 10-3 to claim the league championship.

Linke and Meese were again the winning combination. Losers were Smith and Sestak, pitcher and catcher.

The win ended Ord's regular season play with a 6-0 record. Their pitching record wasn't bad either: 5-1.

Third Loup Valley Horse Show At Arcadia

The third horse show of the Loup Valley Conference was held July 8 at Arcadia due to the muddy arena in Ord. Valley County 4-H'ers again put on a good performance as they topped many of the classes.

North Falls-Ponies Go to Championship

In Little League action at Arcadia Wednesday the Ord North Peewees ended their season by dropping a 7-3 game to Sargent. The North Peewees got an top 3-0 before errors and good hitting from Sargent ended the game.

The Peewees ended their season with a 5-3 win-loss record. The North Ponies stayed alive and advanced to the finals by downing Arcadia in a revenge game by the score of 5-3.

Doug Conner got the win for North with help from Jerry Augustyn Ord hit the ball well and played good defense.

Ord was scheduled to play Tuesday in the championship.

Two Hitter Not Enough at Aurora

At Aurora Sunday night Bob Beran did all he could but his two hit pitching performance wasn't enough.

Bob had a no-hitter going until the bottom of the 6th when a hit by Kevin scored Aurora runner Dave Aare from third base.

Then Mike Johnson stepped to the plate and got the second hit off Beran and while the hit deflected off the second base umpire, Kevin scored from second to make the final score 2-0 as Ord went down 1, 2, 3 in the top of the 7th.

Ord also dropped the Midget game 11-1.

In that game, while stealing second base, Ord pitcher Mike Williams, broke a knuckle on his pitching hand and could no longer pitch. Ord had only nine plays as Mike Williams was moved to right field and Kyle Novosad came in to pitch and got the loss, his second of the week.

The Ord Midgets and Legion teams will play St. Paul Wednesday, then go to Holdrege Thursday and come back home for a game with Minden Friday, July 20.

Legion Ends Winning Streak At Four Games

The Ord Legion team traveled to Broken Bow Wednesday and ended their winning streak at four games. Bow pounded Ord 14-0 in a five inning contest.

Visiting Ord could only manage two hits, one by Mark Novosad, the other by John Dworak. That was Ord's second loss to Broken Bow, a district team they will have to meet to get to state.

In Midget action, Ord dropped a close slugfest 16-15 in the last inning.

Ord jumped out front 9-1, but Broken Bow came right back in the fourth inning to tie the score 9-9.

Ord again jumped out front using a good consistent hitting to a 15-9 lead. Again, Broken Bow was not to be denied. They came back and used a few costly Ord mistakes to win in the bottom of the seventh 16-15. Kyle Novosad got the loss for Ord in relief.

Arcadia Gals Edged By Ord Dymonettes

The Ord Dymonettes came from behind to down the Arcadia girls 9-7 Friday night in Ord.

Arcadia opened up a 6-1 lead until the fifth when Ord came back through eight walks to toe the score 6-1.

Then in the sixth Mary Heiser walked and Mary Novosad hit her in for the winning run. The win makes it two on the season for Darrel Heiser's team.

Hochreiter Rites Held in North Loup

Geraldine Dwan Hochreiter was born April 5, 1929 in Valley County to Stanley and Hattie Stine Brown and died after a lengthy illness July 10, 1979 at the Valley County Hospital in Ord, at the age of 50.

She grew up on farms in Valley County where she attended rural schools. Gerry graduated from the North Loup High school in 1946. She was united in marriage to William L. Hochreiter April 10, 1954 at Ord. They made their home in North Loup where she operated a beauty salon. Gerry was a member of the North Loup United Methodist Church.

Survivors include her husband, William of North Loup; one son, Gerry and his wife, Pat, of Grand Island; three grandchildren, Daniel, Jeremy, and Jennifer; her parents, Stanley and Mattie Brown of North Loup; two sisters, Mrs. Delpha Edwards and Mrs. Loretta Jorgensen, both of North Loup; and two brothers, George Brown of Hawthorne, CA, and Dennis Brown of Melcomb. She was preceded in death by her brother, Gale. Memorials may be given in her memory to the North Loup United Methodist Church.

Funeral services were held Friday, July 13, 1979 at 10:30 a.m. at the North Loup United Methodist Church with Rev. Charles Moore officiating. Mrs. Irma Kocwan was the organist for Mrs. Donita Cook and Mrs. Lou Hudson as they sang, "Beyond the Sunset" and "The Way That He Loves." Pallbearers were Gene Pletcher, Don Studnicka, LaVern Veleba, Nels Jorgensen, Albert Slesel, and Lyle Rasmussen. Burial was in the Hillside Cemetery at North Loup with the Ord Memorial Chapel in charge of arrangements.

Ex-Valley Countian Dies in Denver

Mrs. Paul Jones of North Loup received word from Denver Thursday, July 12, of the death of her cousin, Ross Sheldon, formerly of North Loup.

Ross was in the hotel business for years. He was president for some time of the Greeters International Greeters Organization. He and his wife, Henrietta, had observed their 49th anniversary in June.

Saturday Rites For Frank Maresh

Funeral services for Frank J. Maresh were held on Saturday, July 14, 1979 at 10 a.m. at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church in Ord with Father Stanley Gorak officiating. Laying the organ was Mrs. Elsie Furtak with Mrs. Judy Dughman singing "In the Garden," "I Know That My Redeemer Lives," and "Going Home." Pallbearers were Gary Maresh, Galen Maresh, Mark Maresh, Roy Maresh, Floyd Maresh, all grandsons, and Gary O'Neill, a grand-daughter's husband. Honorary pallbearers were Charles Vancura, Sr., William Petersen, Anton Kluna, Frank Kral, Emanuel Sedlacek, Martin Knopik, Laverne Johnson, Elwin Johnson, Walt Shaffer, Vic Benben, Fred Stoddard, Anton Novotny, and Lee Krepel. Burial was in the Ord Catholic Cemetery with Ord Memorial Chapel in charge of arrangements.

Frank was raised in Valley County and attended District 49 school in Valley County. He entered the army on Oct. 5, 1917 and served a period of time in Bress, France. After being wounded, he served as a prison guard, guarding German and Polish prisoners until the war ended. On Feb. 9, 1920, he married Anna Hruby at West-claus Church in Germanium. They lived on a farm southwest of Ord after they were married and until he retired from farming in 1949 when they moved to Ord. Frank was a member of the Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church and the American Legion Post #38 in Ord.

Survivors include two sons, Eldon of Ord and Alvin of Broken Bow; four granddaughters, Linda Maresh, Judy Maresh, Jean Maresh, and Karen O'Neill; five grandsons, Gary Maresh, Galen Maresh, Mark Maresh, Roy Maresh, and Floyd Maresh; two great granddaughters, Jennifer O'Neill and Jessica Maresh; and one great grandson, Jason Maresh. He was preceded in death by his wife in 1953, parents, one brother and four sisters.

Mary Cetak entered the Valley County Hospital Friday for treatment.

Vernon Thomas Services Held At North Loup

Vernon M. Thomas was born December 11, 1913 at North Loup to Claude and Millie Stewart Thomas, and died very unexpectedly while on vacation July 13, 1979 at Rapid City, SD at the age of 65.

He was raised in the Riverdale area of Valley County northeast of North Loup where he attended school. Vernon graduated from the North Loup High School in 1931. He was united in marriage to Doris Maddox September 15, 1937 at Benkleman. They lived and farmed in the Riverdale area until two years ago when they retired and moved into North Loup.

Vernon was a member of the North Loup United Methodist Church, the North Loup Lions Club, the Ord Elks Lodge #2371, and a 35 year member of the North Loup Popcorn Committee, serving as parade and entertainment chairman. He served on the Riverdale School Board for 21 years, was a member of the Farm Bureau, served on the Board of Directors for the Scotia Coop, and was a charter member of the Mid-State Pork Producers Association.

Survivors include his wife, Doris of North Loup; one son, Major Victor Thomas of Las Vegas, NV; two daughters, Mrs. Janet (Dick) Porter of Thurman, IA and Mrs. Donna (David) Tinkler of Wakeeney, KS; three grandsons, one granddaughter; one brother, Carroll of North Loup; one sister, Mrs. Viola Dutcher of Vancouver, WA; as well as numerous nieces, nephews, and friends. He was preceded in death by his parents, Thea and Ed Thomas, and Marie. Memorials may be given in his memory to the Nebraska Heart Fund.

Funeral services were held Monday, July 16, 1979 at 10:30 a.m. at the United Methodist Church in North Loup with Rev. Charles Moore and Rev. Victor Skaggs officiating. Mrs. Jeneane Abel was the organist for a quartet, Jerry Van Horn, Phillip Van Horn, Jim Goodrich, and Victor Skaggs, and for songs, "A Quiet Place" and "For Those Times I Die." Honorary pallbearers were members of the North Loup Lions Club, August Kriewald, Walter Placke, Harold Placke, Marilyn Schudel, Glenn Bremer, Leonard King, Kenneth Rasmussen, Eleny King, Emil Hrebek, John Hamer, Charles Zanger, and Lyle Sintek. Active pallbearers were Ike Babcock, Kenneth Inman, Loree Babcock, Wayne Sheldon, Eldon Sintek, and Sheldon Van Horn. Burial was in the Hillside Cemetery at North Loup with the Ord Memorial Chapel in charge of arrangements.

Rites at Chapel For Louis Axthelm

Louis A. Axthelm was born May 14, 1890 at Hallam to August and Wilhemina Hoffman Axthelm, and died July 13, 1979 at Valley County Nursing Home in Ord at the age of 89.

His early life was spent at Hallam where he attended school. Louis then attended Wesley College at Mt. Pleasant, IA. He then moved to Valley County near Ord where he began farming. He was married to Minnie M. Albers in September of 1912. They moved to a farm in the Valley County area of Valley County in 1917. His wife, Minnie, died in 1928. On February 7, 1941, Louis was united in marriage to Cynthia Haddix at North Loup. He then worked as the manager of the Johnson Grain Elevator at North Loup for 14 years before retirement. Their home remained at North Loup, but for the past five years, Louis had been a resident of area care homes. He was a member of the North Loup United Methodist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Cynthia of North Loup; two sons, Donald of Ord and Melvin of Mt. Vernon, WA; three daughters, Mrs. Leona Negely of Mt. Vernon, WA, Mrs. Lela Cook of Ord, and Mrs. Opal Zablouidi of Hastings; 20 grandchildren; 39 great grandchildren; one brother, Milton of Lincoln; one sister, Mrs. Alma Leonard of Lincoln; as well as numerous nieces, nephews, and a host of friends. Louis was preceded in death by his parents, his first wife, Minnie, two sons, Lloyd and Dale; one infant son, two brothers, Edwin and Elmer; one sister, Minnie; three grandchildren; one son-in-law, and one daughter-in-law. Memorials may be given in his memory to the Valley County Nursing Home, B Section.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, July 17, 1979 at 10:30 a.m. at the Ord Memorial Chapel in Ord with Rev. Charles Moore officiating. Mrs. Viola Hackel was the organist for Orel Koelbing and the song, "How Great Thou Art" and "Just As I Am." Pallbearers were Edward Hudson, Kenneth Jorgensen, Harwood Rice, Edward McCarville, Corwin Cummins, and Victor King. Burial was in the Ord City Cemetery with Ord Memorial Chapel in charge of arrangements.

him, the field encompasses everything from fertilizer companies to banks and even more. "You can't talk about oil now, but you can't eat it", Rolland observed. "Food is a definite requirement."

His future plans are to continue on at North Loup-Scotia. "I've been pretty fortunate", he allowed. In 1977 his Future Farmers of America chapter won the national land judging contest in Oklahoma City, OK. "That was a dream I started 22 years earlier", he confided. "After I finished my first group (of FFA students) down here I said I was going to win it one day."

Individual honors followed as well. In 1974 Rolland was chosen Nebraska Teacher of the Year by the State Department of Education. He has a plaque denoting this honor.

Other awards include a just received watch from the Nebraska Co-Op Council, recognizing his 20 years in promoting Nebraska's number one industry: agriculture.

Storage Building Project Up for Bid

Sealed bids for construction of an equipment storage building will be received at the Department of Roads building in Lincoln August 9. They will be opened and read at 10 a.m. that day.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish bond in an amount equal to 100 percent of his contract.

The price range of the project is between $40,000 to $60,000, according to a notice of bids release from the state agency.

Showers Continue Help Postponing Irrigation

Climbing to the century mark before a cool front brought blustery weather and 47 inches of needed moisture to Ord Saturday night, temperatures this week have been moderate for mid-July but are expected to return to the 90-degree range for the balance of the week.

Late Saturday and early Sunday moisture was aided by 39 inch again on Monday and the week's total rainfall of .86 continues to keep many farmers a step away from irrigation.

The long-range forecast into the coming weekend again mentioned the possibility of some isolated evening and night-time showers.

	Hi	Lo	Pr
July 11	91	63	61
July 12	97	66	66
July 13	100	66	66
July 14	88	60	42
July 15	78	57	05
July 16	87	61	39
July 17	80	59	39

Total moisture to date for 1979 is 16.78 inches.

The teams from Nebraska, South Dakota and North Dakota won the United States Cup.

Free Or Floating Sixth Period Will End at NL-S High

The floating or free sixth period will be a thing of the past when North Loup-Scotia High classes meet this fall. According to NLS-Schools Superintendent, Al Neuman, students, school board members and parents wanted the change.

The sixth period is the last period of the school day, ending at 3:30 p.m.

Under the old plan, the sixth period lasted 60 minutes, four days a week. The free or floating last period was used for activities.

This year, the fifth period will run 55 minutes five days a week. The change, Neuman stated, will make scheduling much easier.

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M. M. Van Kirk, Director of Information

Thanks to improved grain and livestock prices, Nebraska farmers and ranchers are showing the best statistical indicators that they have had for a number of years, greatly improved over a year ago.

Agricultural statistics have to be viewed in terms of averages. For example, a favorable crop and livestock report doesn't mean much for an individual farmer who has just lost his crop to a hail-storm or a rancher who has lost cattle and had a reduced calf crop because of last winter's severe weather.

Farming and ranching is an uncertain business. Conditions change with surprising rapidity. The bad news of fuel shortages, high prices, grasshopper plagues and severe storms usually take precedence in the nation's press to a degree that non-farmers are thoroughly confused about how the nation's food supply system operates, and how the U.S. can actually be the world's most dependable food supplier.

There is good news in the most recent roundup of Nebraska Crop & Livestock Reporting Service figures. They indicated that on June 15, the index of prices received by Nebraska farmers and ranchers for all farm products was 252 which means that they got $252 for the same products for which they received $100 in 1967, and $211 on June 15, 1978. That's a gain of $41 in one year. Their average on June 15 compared to a national farm product average index of 243 . . . a year ago the national index was 217.

To keep these figures in perspective, however, consider that the national index of "prices paid" by farmers also increased dramatically in the past year, from 213 on June 15, 1978 to 240 on June 15 of this year. That means that what cost a farmer $100 in 1967 cost $213 a year ago and now costs him $240. That $240 includes production items, family living items, interest, taxes and wage rates. The biggest increase in the "prices paid" index came in production items, which went from 218 a year ago to 248 this year.

The favorable news in this ratio index is the indication that for the past year, the farmer's returns kept pace with his inflated costs. With rising energy costs, this situation may not continue for very long.

Prospects for continued high levels of grain exports raised wheat prices for Nebraska farmers to an average of $3.45 per bushel on June 15 as compared to $2.57 the same date in 1978. The average corn price was figured at $2.47 per bushel as compared to $2.22 the previous year and grain sorghum at $3.91 per cwt. compared to $3.34 last year. Soybeans at $7.38 per bushel compared to $6.50 last year.

Hog prices, after several favorable years, have been declining steadily and on June 15 averaged $38.90 per cwt. compared to $47.00 a year ago. Hog numbers indicate a peak in the hog cycle and economists predict possible decline in hog prices to the mid-$30 range by the last quarter of this year.

Slaughter cattle prices averaged $68.70 per cwt. on June 15 compared to $51.50 the previous year. Feeder cattle prices at a $71.10 per cwt. average compared to last year's $54 while feeder calves at $87.60 average compared to $57 in June 1978. Slaughter lambs at $65.10 per cwt. compared to $61 in June a year ago.

The statistics are not all rosy but they are not all gloom either. They indicate why good farm and ranch managers continue to weather financial problems and maintain the necessary optimism to keep operating successfully.

An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure for Blackleg and Malignant Edema. Blackleg and malignant edema are two similar diseases that could take a heavy toll on growing calves any time of year. The risk of young calves contracting these diseases is greater now when they are turned into the pasture and are not observed as continuously as in early spring.

Blackleg and malignant edema are acute diseases caused by bacteria. The bacteria usually enter the calf's system either when eating or drinking or through a puncture wound. The bacteria cause severe muscle damage in a restricted area; but more importantly, they produce potent toxins which will kill the animal quickly.

Both diseases are hard to treat due to the short amount of time between signs of sickness in the animal and its death. Some success may be derived from penicillin treatments, provided they are administered very early during the course of the disease. Fortunately, several effective vaccines to prevent blackleg and malignant edema are presently available. The market situation today is a great incentive to save every calf possible. Cattle producers should vaccinate their calves at three to four months of age. If vaccinated at an earlier age, they should be revaccinated in the fall.

Pigs Need Plenty Of Water During Summer
As we approach the warm season, we should be aware of the potential problems that face our livestock.

Depriving swine of water is one of these serious problems. High environmental temperature, crowded pens, inadequate ventilation and insufficient water are associated with unnecessary losses. Often, losses may be traced to excessive amount of salt in the diet. Pigs need water to eliminate the sodium ion; and if water isn't sufficient, salt poisoning or water deprivation result. Excessive sodium interferes with the normal functions of the pig's nervous system. Affected pigs will shake, jerk and show signs of disease.

Prevention of this problem is paramount because once a pig goes down, treatment is usually inefficient.

Corn Borers

Corn producers in West-Central Nebraska are urged to examine their fields now to determine if European corn borer infestations are occurring, according to Jack Campbell, extension research entomologist, University of Nebraska North Platte Station.

Campbell said pest management scouts and farmers in Lincoln, Keith, Perkins, Frontier and Dawson Counties report many fields are infested with corn borers.

The economic threshold at which corn borer treatment is economically beneficial is 35 percent of the plants in a field infested with borers.

Many fields in West-Central Nebraska have surpassed that infestation level. Early-planted fields are usually infested first and have the most borers. The borers lay eggs on the underside of corn leaves near the midrib. The eggs are small and overlap each other resembling fish scales. The entire egg mass may be smaller than a penny and contain about 25 eggs.

After hatching, the young worms move to the plant whorl and feed. Their feeding causes a "shot-hole" appearance in newly emerging leaves. The "shot-hole" damage is the easiest method of determining the insect's presence.

If 35 percent or more of the plants in an irrigated field are infested it pays to apply control measures.

The best method of control is applying one of the following granular insecticides: Furadan (Carbofuran), diazinon or Dyfonate (fonofos). These insecticides must be applied by

Crop Water Use Details

The following crop water use data is supplied by the Lower Loup Natural Resources District and is published as a public service by the Ord Quiz.

For the week of July 9, 1979 through July 15, 1979, crop water use for Alfalfa under full cover was 1.49 inches.

Crop water use for Corn was 1.37 inches.

Next week's forecasted crop water use for the week of July 16, 1979 through July 22, 1979 is estimated to be:

2.1 inches for Alfalfa under full cover.

1.6 inches for Corn.

Producers please note: Immediately after cutting, water use for alfalfa will be 50% of the figure given; after 10 days, water use will be 75%. At 20 days after cutting, water use is the figure given.

aircraft or special high-clearance ground applications in order to prevent damaging corn during application.

Although not as good as granules, sprays can considerably reduce corn borer infestations. Research data indicates that Sevin (carbaryl) spray at a one-pound rate per acre will obtain about a 65 percent reduction of corn borers. This product can be applied at up to a two-pound rate, he said.

If treatment is to be done, it must be completed before the borers enter the corn stalk. Once in the stalk, insecticides cannot reach them.

Dairy-Livestock Judging Contests

On Monday, July 9, several Valley County 4-H'ers participated in the Ravenna 4-H Dairy and Livestock Judging contests.

In the Dairy Judging contest Penny Sperling placed first in the Senior division and the team of Penny Sperling, Holly Shoemaker and Rob Sperling placed first. In the Junior division Ellen Green placed second and Shawn Hanks also participated in the Junior Division.

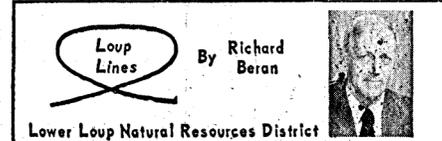

The team that will represent Valley County at the State 4-H Dairy Judging contest to be held Sept. 3 at Lincoln is composed of Penny Sperling, Rob Sperling, Deann Hopkins and Barbara Green. Alternate is Holly Shoemaker. David Fauss also judged in the Senior division.

Section Two

Estab. April, 1882. Ord, Nebr., Thurs., July 19, 1979. Vol. 98, No. 21. 2 Sects.

In our last issue of Loup Lines, we featured ground water conditions in the central U.S., as reported by the U.S. Water Resources Council. This week we will talk about surface waters, water quality, stream flow, flood damage, and recreation.

Nearly 1/2 of the State of Nebraska has inadequate stream flow where 70 percent of the surface waters are depleted in an average year.

Water Quality. Water quality or pollution . . . are difficult terms to define, because they must relate to the desired use of water. Even "natural" waters, in many areas, would not be free of salts, sediment, acid, or other substances if man's activities were all removed from the area. One important source of pollution is sediment, which not only degrades the water, but also may carry other pollutants such as nutrients or pesticides. About 40 percent of the sediment reaching America's waters comes from cropland, according to USDA estimates. Some 26 percent comes from streambanks, 12 percent from pasture and rangeland, and 7 percent from forests.

Flooding and Flood Damage. There are about 175 million acres of flood prone land. Most of this land is used for agriculture, but there are some 21,000 communities that experience flooding problems. In 1975, 107 people were killed by flood waters and potential property damage for the year was estimated to be $3.4 billion. Of the total flood damage in 1975, about half ($1.6 billion) were to agriculture, while about $1.1 billion were to urban and built-up areas. The remainder was to rural utilities, roads, railways, etc.

4-H'ers participated in the Livestock Judging contest and Deann Hopkins placed second overall. Other 4-H'ers judging livestock were Shawn Hanks and David Fauss.

Wetlands. There is some confusion between the terms "wetlands" and "wet soils". Wet soils are those that are classed as having problems of seasonal or permanent water tables serious enough to inhibit cultivation. There are about 270 million acres of wet soils, of which 104 million are cropland, 56 million are pasture, and 110 million are forest and other land.

According to the NRI, there are about 41.5 million acres of land classed as wetland type 3-20. These are lands that have not been and are not likely to be drained for other uses.

Wetlands are extremely productive wildlife habitats, supporting 19 species of small game, 7 species of big game, 11 species of fur animals, and hundreds of nongame mammals, birds, amphibians and reptiles. Wetlands provide much of the nation's commercial fisheries, as well.

There are extensive wetland forests that are important in both economic and ecological ways. In the South are an estimated 19 million acres of oak-gum-cypress, while the North contains 22 million acres of elm-ash-cottonwood forest. In addition, Alaska has some 18 million acres of bottomland spruce-poplar forest.

Wetlands also serve to reduce flood peaks, increase spring streamflow, and improve water quality by trapping sediment and nutrients.

Wetlands have been lost through drainage, dredging and filling at an estimated rate of some 318,000 acres per year since 1956. Recognition of their value has resulted in federal programs for wetland protection and preservation.

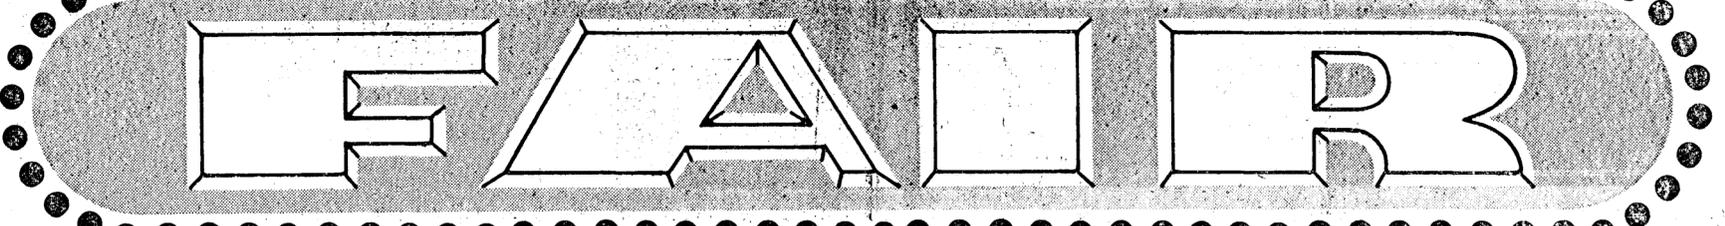

Recreation. Only about 1.4 of the 85 million acres of surface water is accessible and usable for recreation. The other 64 million acres is inaccessible, polluted, or otherwise restricted from recreational use. As of 1975, it was estimated that another 3 million acres of water was needed for recreation.

Water recreation can be improved by preserving free-flowing streams, improving water quality, increasing recreational opportunities at reservoirs, providing public access, and maintaining instream flows.

Want To Believe

After ten days at Camp David, President Jimmy Carter delivered what has been his best speech to date Sunday. In an emotional appeal to the nation he vowed to break what he called "Our dependence on OPEC — the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries."

- To do this, Carter said he would:
- set stringent oil import quotas
 - pledge a massive commitment of funds and resources to develop America's own alternate sources of fuel.
 - propose an energy security corporation to replace 2 1/2 million barrels of oil daily by 1980.
 - create a "solar bank" to help America reach energy self-sufficiency.
 - ask Congress for $10 billion over the next decade to better public transportation.

It was a different President Carter citizens saw Sunday. Self-assured, and apparently in command, he appealed to our patriotism and basic morality when vowing to make America great again. It was hard not to hear trumpets sounding when listening to the former Governor of Georgia. He outlined a challenge for America to meet. Admitting the road to energy independence won't be an easy one, he was none the less confident that he with the public's help could achieve that goal.

That impression of courageous leadership was a well orchestrated one no doubt, but a step in the right direction. President Carter appeared to be in command of the situation, and self-assured.

Yes, those cosmetic impressions were appealing. But they aren't enough. It remains to be seen if the President can turn his prime time impression of leadership Sunday into solid future accomplishments, and that will take some doing. We wish him luck.

Should the President's plan fail and America not be willing to bite the energy bullet, the United States will be over an OPEC barrel.

For his sake and ours we hope the intage projected during prime time last week-end can be translated into future solid accomplishments. Lord, do we want to believe.

Do You Have Change for a Susan?

(From the Holdrege Daily Citizen)

Not only is the dollar worth less today than it was yesterday, it's harder to recognize.

For reason or reasons unknown (certain un-understandable) Uncle Sam has created a she-monster in the form of the newly minted Susan B. Anthony silver dollar.

It's easy to spot, since it's nearly the same size as the quarter, same color and nearly the same weight.

If you have one in your possession now, take it and a quarter and put them both in your hand and close your hand. Now without looking, ferret out the quarter.

It's not easy. Knowing the difference at a touch will take some time.

Not only are they difficult to separate from quarters by feel, they look like carbon copies of the quarter.

Among the motives mentioned in bringing out this particular piece is that of economy. It costs the government less money to mint this coin. It will also save in the long run, since the coin is expected to easily outlast the paper bill it proposes to replace.

It may indeed save Uncle Sam a few bucks to put the Susan B. on the streets, but we're concerned that a lot of people are going to lose what Sam is saving by confusing the coin for its look-alike friend, the quarter.

If it was imperative that a new silver dollar be coined, surely someone could have suggested one of copper.

Surely there are other matters the government can be concerned with that are much more important than launching a pseudo-dollar.

Can anyone remember the two-dollar bill?

From across the Potomac comes another idea which won't make the distance.

Something Different

A Murky Trip

It was an enticing day for a trip, blue and sunny. We didn't care to resist, so we got in the little black monster and headed east.

It was a canyon road, winding along the bottom between high and ever higher mountains, rocks of mountains, mountains of rocks. Businesslike streams accompanied us, rushing noisily beside us, roaring and foamy.

I loved the trees. First a line of tall eucalyptus trees with their long slim leaves dangling . . . the favorite food of pandas. Then on our other side we came to plenty of pepper trees, moving gracefully in the breeze.

It was a bit smoggy; I gave Los Angeles full credit, for yesterday it had been called the "smoggiest city in five years" for that city. Some of the high peaks were dimly marked.

Large rocks, smooth rocks, big rocks, splintered-off rocks that had fallen, all around us. No trucks, mostly campers and

State Government to Decide Allocation of Office Space

Lincoln — The heads of the three branches of state government will meet sometime in August to deal with what everyone agrees is a sensitive matter — the assignment of office space in the Capitol.

Brent Stevenson, director of the Department of Administrative Services, has prepared a space allocation plan that will be considered during a meeting of Gov. Charles Thone, Supreme Court Chief Justice Norman Krivosha, and representatives of the Legislature's Executive Board.

Stevenson said the meeting will be held this summer when work will begin on bringing the Capitol's tower section up to fire safety standards.

There are some agencies and legislative offices in the tower, but state Fire Marshall Wally Barnett says they are there illegally because the area does not satisfy safety standards.

The Legislature this year appropriated $350,000 for fire safety equipment and for remodeling of some of the tower floors.

After the improvements are made, 13,000 square feet of space that is now vacant or used only for storage will be available for office use.

Stevenson said when he became director of the DAS, which has the statutory authority to assign space in the statehouse, he found a number of requests for additional space from agencies and offices.

Now that more room will be available, it is a good time for the heads of the three state governmental branches to make decisions on how the space will be used, he said.

People now working in the Capitol have been assured they won't be moved out but some other state employees may be moved in, Stevenson said.

It is important, he added, to have the three branches of government involved in the space allocation.

Krivosha noted the Supreme Court has added many employees since it moved into its present quarters in 1924.

Sen. William Brennan of Omaha, who is chairman of the Executive Board's space committee, emphasized, however, that eight employees of the court administrator's office working in space belonging to the Unicameral are only occupying the area on a temporary basis.

Tax Limit Problems
Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh says a possible legislative oversight of "monumental proportions" has been uncovered and could force the next Legislature to pass a property tax relief law that would switch the burden of financing public education to the sales and income taxes.

According to DeCamp, a law passed last year to limit property taxes could threaten a taxing district's survival unless the Legislature provides a remedy. His concern and that of the Nebraska State School Boards Association was triggered by a successful petition drive in Omaha to force a special election on whether the part of the Omaha School District's budget funded by property taxes should be frozen at its present level of $55.3 million.

DeCamp said the problem with the 1978 law is that it enables a minority of voters to put a lid on local property taxes but requires a majority of the voters to remove the lid.

He explained the new law requires only a simple majority of those who turn out for the special election to put the lid in place, but the law requires a majority of all the registered voters to remove the lid.

DeCamp said there probably were only a few people in the state who were aware the law had completely different standards for imposing and removing a property tax lid upon local subdivisions of government.

The Neligh lawmaker said the "minority rule" provision in the law also effectively repeals the recently enacted statute limiting to 7 percent the annual increases of local governments.

Problems stemming from the 1978 law could result in broad support for financing education with sales and income tax revenues instead of property tax revenue, DeCamp said.

Wants Elections Publicly Financed

Sen. Vard Johnson of Omaha is proposing public financing of elections in Omaha to make sure the Legislature gives adequate consideration to the needs of the poor.

Johnson, after noting lobbyists spent $350,000 during the 1978 legislative session, said public financing of elections is needed to "defang" the powerful interest groups represented by the lobbyists.

During a recent appearance in Omaha, Johnson and Sen. Peter Heppner of Omaha said the Legislature has become more progressive since 12 new senators joined the Unicameral last January.

"I would say the days of thoughtless, or even mindless, conservatism are past," Johnson said.

Both senators predicted the Legislature will confront controversial issues more efficiently than in the past. Those issues include school district reorganization, water law and property taxes, the senators said.

Commenting on water problems, Hoagland said outside plan allocate underground water and the state will be faced with water shortages within crowded station wagons hurrying to that favorite Pio Pico Park and bicycles, pairs of young riders laboring up the grades.

The trees changed. There were holly trees, and yellow-flowered acacias towering over us. Many trees I did not know; ahoy, there are cottonwoods, just like in Nebraska. And willows.

We came to a big horse convention, dozens of those hooded traveling shells, those trailers for horses. A jumping contest was going on. We came to several fire trucks congregated beside the road.

It was a bit mistier, or smokier. We came to Otay Lakes, the little and then the big one. Although it was early there were boats on them, whizzing around. And more cars on the road as we proceeded. It was hot.

We came to a broad spot in the road with a real country look, a big sign on the end of a barn "Welcome to beautiful downtown Dulzura". We laughed at the little country store and drove on. Came to a row of trucks in a line beside the road, parked and quiet. Almost the first trucks we'd seen.

The day grew warmer. We drove on and on, curve after curve of the high mountain sides. We passed some ugly black pastures that had been burned over last spring.

We came to our destination, the neat Mexican town of Tecote. Broad clean streets, pretty painted houses, orderly yards. Fresh paint on the store signs. A place of 15,000.

We prowled around, found some diesel fuel, bought "25 liters for $1.15." That's 19c per gallon. That was we needed, we'd really wanted a ride. Going homeward we noticed the fog was thicker; mountains in the skyline were nearly invisible now.

Back at tiny Dulzura we stopped for an ice cold beer. The crowded place was full of talk about fire-fighting. We began to perk up our ears. "Only way to get men in there is by helicopter." "Can't walk into that back country."

Not alarmed, we proceeded toward San Diego, passing much fire-fighting equipment. The murk was thick.

At home when we turned on the five o'clock news, there was the story of the fire, we didn't know it but we'd been driving into and through and then returning through it. Some 600 fiery acres were causing the trouble and had yet to be contained. The only way it could be fought was from the air, said the newscaster and it was proving stubborn. They are still fighting the fire as I write, from six helicopters. (Next day it was raging on. And the day after that!)

Trouble getting diesel? No, we don't have any. Sometimes it is necessary to stop at a second station. We had a bit of trouble in Nebraska: the station was willing to fill up our tank but, he told us for two days they would not sell diesel to truckers because for two days the truckers would not let them have any, so this was a case of turn-about!

— We simply wanted to take a Saturday drive. And wandered into a fire. We aren't even smoked up.

Tax Receipts Up
State tax receipts for the 1978-79 fiscal year totaled more than $635.5 million, a 1.3 percent increase over Revenue Department projections.

Deputy Tax Commissioner John Decker said sales tax collections of more than $260.5 million were down 1.7 percent or $4.3 million from the department's projection. But individual income tax receipts of nearly $233.4 million were up 5.1 percent or nearly $12.3 million over the projected figure.

Corporate income taxes of nearly $54.4 million were down 4.2 percent or nearly $2.4 million, and miscellaneous taxes generated nearly $67.2 million, up 4 percent or $2.3 million over what had been forecast.

Decker also noted June tax receipts totaled $55.2 million, 1.8 percent more than had been anticipated.

Sales tax collections, however, were below estimates for the month. Decker said the department figured the state would take in $23.2 million in sales revenue but realized only $20.3 million, a 12.5 percent difference.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

If you don't know that dog days are in full flower, all you got to do is glance at the headlines. It ain't so much that a grown woman just spent a week living in a eagle's nest in the treetop of a pine tree in Florida, it's that crazy feeling all over that this is the lull after everthing and before everthing and we've got to do something to take up the slack.

The fallers kind of drug in to the station at the country store Saturday night. Ed Novak said he had spent a tiring day watching his corn grow, cause his wife told him that was the next goody to come from the garden. Ed said he knowed he was nominated and elected shucker and sicker, and he had to conserve his strength for the big push. Ed allowed that it was a funny thing to him that a woman that had no trouble sliding a 150 pound refrigerator across the floor ever month or so to clean behind it just don't have the muscle to stick beans and shuck corn.

Ed came with a clipping where one Andrew Bavas of Chicago got hisself crossways with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare for refusing a raise. Ed said that was a dog days twitch to perk up the fellers. According to the item, Bavas told his highrups $43,000 a year was enough and they ought to put the $1.27 raise back on coming to better use. It turned out nobody had ever said anything like that to a HEW computer before and there is no guidelines to handle such a situation. There was no torn to fill out to turn down a raise, for one thing, and it probably is agin Civil Service law to refuse more pay in the first place.

To the bureaucratic mind, Ed reported, one of two things was going on. The HEW had here a man splut out of his mind, or a communist bent on causing problems for the department and slowing down the advance of civilization. Either way, it had to be nipped in the bud. So they cut the troublemaker's pay $8,000 a year and sentenced him to Philadelphia where he'd be out of everbody's way. He said he'd quit before he'd go, and Ed said at last report they were still looking for a resignation form, since the HEW computer is not set up to deal with people that walk away from a $43,000 Government job.

Ken Collins kept up the pace with a report out of California where the bride and groom couldn't wait to get home fer their first lovers spat. They had a fight at the wedding reception. He threw the cake in her face, which upset her pa and touched off a free-for-all that ended with five of the 300 guests in jail. Ken said the item didn't say, but he wondered if the bride was wearing one of them maternity wedding gowns from the shop in San Antonio that is so popular, and maybe she hadn't took this up with the groom fer one reason or another.

Actual, Mister Editor, this wedding party was better off than the groom in North Carolina that was running late for the wedding and tried to outrun the law. He wound up with six tickets ranging

— back tracking —

Proclaiming the values of walking, in last week's column, I later dawned on me that I hadn't mentioned the hazards one is likely to encounter — especially if they follow my footsteps.

First and foremost is this city's need for adequate sidewalks. Though I don't remember the exact number, I recall someone once telling me there were only a few blocks in Ord with sidewalks completely around them. You'll find this true if you do much walking.

Many of these sidewalks are badly in need of repair. Tree roots have forced cement out of place or it's broken. Sections of walkway are missing. Even some of the newer sidewalks right deteriorated to sand and gravel due — undoubtedly — to a poor grade of concrete and sidewalk thawing chemicals used on the walks during the icy months of winter. (We have an example of deteriorating sidewalks right outside the Quiz and these walks are less than 10 years old. Many of Ord's sidewalks bear markings of the early 1900's and are in better shape than the city's newer sidewalks.)

I'd anticipated the sidewalk situation. But a problem I hadn't anticipated was the neglect of property owners who DO have good sidewalks.

Often tree branches overhang the sidewalks. In daylight you know when you're going out to push back the foliage to make your way through or keep branches out of your eyes. But at night it's another story!

It's only indicative of our mobile society that shrubs and trees are trimmed carefully away from drives to keep from scratching motor vehicles, yet it's nearly impossible for someone on foot to use the sidewalk without the help of a machete to chop their way through. Please — from speeding to destroying property, and he probably was ready for a quiet spat with his bride over the breakfast table.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

property owners' obstacle for pedestrians are carelessly left toys. I've pranced over and around everything from skateboards to Big Wheels. Teaching children to put away toys and not leave them in the middle of the sidewalk is no easy task. I've been through a few myself. But it was a rule at my house when I was small, and at my house when the children were growing up, that the last thing to be done before coming in for bed was to make sure the toys were put away — especially OFF THE SIDEWALK.

I can name a few childless homes about as bad — only not with toys. Some of the people in Ord seem to think the sidewalk makes the best place to put their sprinklers! (I suppose it's their opinion they can get both sides at once, that way.) I was so disgusted with one household, last week, I nearly stopped and tied a knot in their hose! Between my going to work and going home, they'd moved the sprinkler from the sidewalk at one end of their lawn to the sidewalk at the other end!

Finally there are the ever-present canines. Dogs and I usually get along fine. But I'm never too sure of them and they never seem to be too sure of me. We get one of those corner-of-the-eye contests going and I'm as ready to run as they are to pounce. I try to act assured. But I'm not.

Only last week I thought I was making out all right with my self-assured approach to property guarded by a large dog. I grinned. He grined. I hastened my step. He hastened his step. I slowed. He slowed.

Then he lifted his leg. I was sure he was going to kick me, but didn't stick around to find out.

Mira Valley

Babbles by Bertha
My grandnephew, Steve Foth, returned home today (Monday). He was an exchange student to The Netherlands and afterward visited places of interest in Europe, arriving home in time for his sister's July 14 wedding.

Our son, Ken Clement, took Russell and Vickie to the airport in Grand Island last Tuesday. They left for Steubenville, OH, on the same plane that brought my sister Lydia, and Oscar Bredthauer and members of their family from California. Kelly and Maxine Barber of Vallejo, CA and their niece also came on the same plane. It was good to have Russell and Vickie here, Don's and Ken's, for a 10-day visit, and Kathleen here for 2 1/2 weeks. Russell and Vickie were overnight guests of Dons and Kens while here.

Dwight and Elsie Ewing and Marvin and Shirley Johns, all of Gering, were Saturday evening, June 30, guests of Don and Phyllis and their house guest, Ruth Babcock. Jack and Neva Hunt of Denver and Marie Brannon of North Loup were Sunday supper guests.

George and Don were supper guests of Don and Phyllis July 4. Others present were Phyllis' mother, Ruth Babcock, Ed, Dianne and Angie Clement and Victor. We had 14 inches of rain the night before so baseball in Ord was out. The younger folks hoped to see fireworks in Ord. That was out too.

George and I and Ruth Babcock attended the graveside services of Nina Johnson Davis, 86, at North Loup Friday forenoon. After lunch we brought Jessie Babcock of California and her sister, Leona Babcock of North Loup, out to visit at Don and Phyllis' home.

George's sister, Elva Hayden, Ruth Babcock, Beulah Clement, Phyllis and Victor had dinner with George and me Friday noon. Later I accompanied Beulah and Elva to the George Bells to visit with Wendell and Janet Bell and boys, Kevin and David, of Colorado.

Saturday afternoon I went to the club for the Ord High Alumni social hour. I was one of the 23 in the class of 1919. As far as I know, 13 are living and five of those were present at the banquet Saturday evening. They were Margaret Brown Smith of Lincoln, Eleanor Koupal Weger, Helen Work Travis and I, Sunday morning fourth of us, Eleanor, Helen, Martha and I, also Horace Travis and George, had breakfast at the Drive In. Later, Helen Horn, George and I, and Phyllis and Victor were in C Wing of Valley County Hospital. She was English teacher at Ord High when we were seniors. We also visited Frieda Hornickel.

The four Bartletts, Blanche, Helen, Merle and Don, were all at the funeral services, as usual. I missed Alma Holloway Romans of North Platte.

Jane Ollis of Hastings and daughter, Marilyn Ollis Goodenberger of Arizona, visited George and me Sunday afternoon. Marilyn was in Kathleen's high school class of 1946. They had come for Ord High alumni activities. Don stopped to see them, as did Ed and Vic. It was good to visit with these friends.

Sunday evening George and I went to see the Wendell Bells of Denver and the Dick Bells of Des Moines at the home of George and Mary Bell. They left for home Monday. Elva Hayden accompanied Wendell and family to Colorado. Steve Bell went home with his folks, the Dick Bells, after a two weeks visit with his grandparents.

Don, Phyllis, Dianne and Angie visited the George Bells and house guests Sunday afternoon.

Dianne Clement and Angie went to Kearney, Friday. They visited Dianne's mother, Mary Aspen.

Congratulations to Carol Peterson for being capped at Mary Lanning Hospital in Hastings Friday evening!

Marlyn and Elaine Peterson of Orange, CA ran from his folks, Albert and Helen Peterson in Ord, to Dick and Arlene Peterson's home in Mira Valley for breakfast Thursday morning. Time: 1 hour and some minutes.

Relex Clement spent last week in Mississippi visiting friends.

Another shower. This one for Cindy Foth, should be the end of showers, at least for me.

Dave and Mary Ann Lange and Carrie went to Rochester Sunday. Dave had a checkup and all is well. They returned home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Meier of Peetz, CO visited Mr. and Mrs. George Bell and house guests, the Wendell and Dick Bells Sunday evening. They had come for the 50 year honor class alumni activities.

Come To Church

READ JOHN 4:31-38
"Others worked there, and you profit from their work." (John 4:38 TEV)

When we left our old home, our greatest sorrow was leaving the garden. For years our family had tended it with loving care. We were going to miss the annual display of flowers and blossoms.

It was late autumn when we moved to our new house. Not a flower was to be seen in the large neglected garden. All through the winter we looked out on the barren ground. Then with the first gleam of spring and sunshine, green shoots and bursting buds appeared in the most unlikely places. Soon we were surrounded by masses of purple and golden crocuses and nodding daisies from bulbs planted by the previous owner.

So, while others were enjoying the garden we had planted, we were benefiting from the work of our predecessor.

The same is true of life. We reap the reward of the labors of those who went before us. Therefore, we must, under God's guidance, do what we can to make the place where we live a little better for those who follow us. It is the debt we owe to all humankind.

PRAYER: Thank You, O God, for those persons who have toiled and sacrificed in the service of others. Teach us so to work and witness that we leave a legacy of Your love. Amen.

FIRST PLACE — CLUB CATEGORY — Went to the VFW and WVA's Aux. 7029 with the theme "Remember When The USO Entertained Servicemen."

Parade Starts First Day Of County Fair Festivities

A float parade through downtown Ord Sunday launched the first day of Valley County Fair activities. Entries reflected the parade theme, "Remember When."

First place winner in the commercial or business division was Ord Pizza Hut. Their two-part float was titled, "Remember When Vacations Were Fun." A family of Pizza Hut employees were in a station wagon while the manager, Randy Kirby, dressed as a mother-in-law trailed along behind in a small coaster wagon.

Second place went to Bud Knight's backboard pulled by a team of ponies. Third place winner in the business category was Bob Strong Ford-Mercury with a miniature car powered by a three horsepower engine.

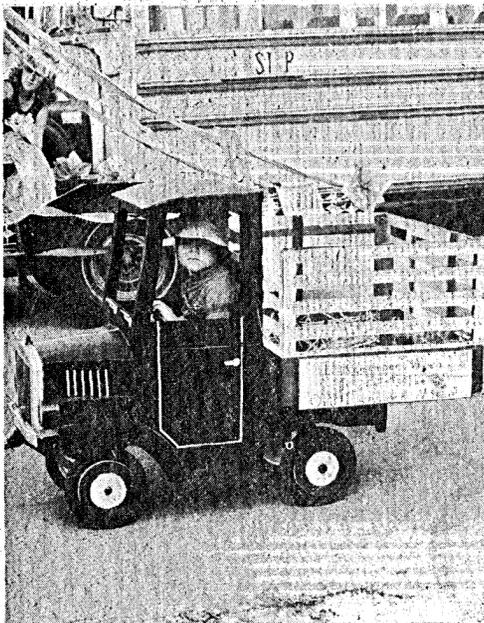

In the club category, Veterans of Foreign Wars and VFW Auxiliary 7029 recalled the World War II USO Club for servicemen. Second place was awarded the Nebraska Dairy Women with a float depicting dairy industry in the olden days. One youngster milked a cow while another churned butter and a third was creating a homemade ice cream freezer. Third place went to the Mira Valley Livestock with the theme, "Remember the Saturday Night Bath."

Steve Scott of Ord was first place winner in the miscellaneous division. Steve was driving a miniature Model A Ford Truck hauling pigs to the Ord Livestock Market.

Second place went to Rod Kamrad of Cornstock with a restored piano box buggy. Rod and Bonnie Hickman ported 1890s style clothes. Some of Rod's clothes were loaned by Nuxoll's Westcott, Gibbons, and Bragg general store museum in Cornstock. Bonnie designed and sewed her long skirt outfit and parasol.

FIRST PLACE — COMMERCIAL DIVISION — Went to Ord Pizza Hut and their entry "Remember When Vacations Were Fun."

FIRST PLACE — MISCELLANEOUS DIVISION — Went to Steve Scott, remembering when farmers went to the Ord Livestock Market.

Nebraska's Little Miss, Tammi Stethem captured third place. She placed in the finals of the National Little Miss Pageant in Virginia recently.

Judges for the parade were Dee Moese, Jess Bonner, Carol Leggett, and Dawn Nannen. About 30 floats took part in the parade.

Jailbreak Gains Less Than Two Minutes Freedom

An escape from the Valley County jail late Thursday morning gained a prisoner less than two minutes of freedom. William Anderson of Omaha removed a bolt or bar from a door and escaped.

That was after Williams assaulted another prisoner and locked him in his cell.

Williams made it across 16th street and was trying to start a car between the Coast to Coast store and the Co-Op station when caught by Valley County Sheriff, Martin Sonnenfeld. Sonnenfeld said Williams was out less than two minutes and got about a block away, before being recaptured.

An off-duty jail attendant saw Williams escaping and reported the incident. He was captured trying to start a 1952 Willis car belonging to Ed Paider of Ord. The car was parked near the Co-Op station.

Williams was in jail on an auto theft charge. Additional charges are pending.

Ed Board Budget Adopted Thursday

After an hour of informal discussion Thursday night at Ord High, the 1979-80 school budget was formally adopted. School board president Merrill Mason kept the meeting open the required one hour. The board then unanimously voted to adopt the $1,593,100 funding plan for the coming school year.

The 1979-80 budget is up $89,450 from last year's budget of $1,503,650. The school board is asking $56,000 less in tax dollars than they did during the just ending fiscal year. At an earlier board meeting School Superintendent Dr. Bill Gogan stated hiked state and federal aid made this possible.

Just what the mill levy will be isn't known yet. That question depends on School District Five's valuation. Shortly after a required revaluation in Valley County was completed, state authorities wanted to hike assessed valuations even more. Until these questions are settled, no one knows what the mill levy will be or could be.

Board members present Thursday were Bob Dworak, Darrel Smith, Merrill Mason, Karen Zaruba, and Ruth Powers. Visitors were Mary Marshall, Wade Misko, J. H. Schroeder, and Paul Sisson.

K. Vidal Named School Principal

K'ancie Vidal has been named principal of Ord Elementary School for the coming school year. The 41-year-old educator comes to Ord from the Lincoln Public Schools System where she has been a teacher for nine years.

Her other professional experience includes being an instructor with the University of Nebraska, Department of Elementary Education, from 1970-71. During the summer of 1977, she was a counselor at the University's Student Affairs section.

K. received her Bachelor of Science degree in 1970, her Master's of Education degree in 1971, and completed her Six Year Specialization course of study July, 1979.

The new principal plans to locate in Ord as soon as she can find a place to live. "I've been looking today," she said during a Quiz interview Tuesday.

Kalyn Koll Named County Fair Queen

Kalyn Koll was crowned Valley County Fair Queen in ceremonies Tuesday night at Ord High. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Koll, she sang "Through The Eyes of Love" for her talent presentation. Sponsored by the Plain Valley Extension Club, she lists her hobbies as music and sewing.

First runner-up was Kathy Zlomke, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Zlomke. The Ord High student has hobbies including music, water skiing, jogging, playing tennis, and horses. A member of the National Honors Society, Kathy was sponsored by the Home Arts Club.

Kalyn will be unable to complete her one year in office. Kathy would be named Fair Queen.

Kathy's talent presentation was singing the theme from Ice Castles.

Judges named Terina Trotter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Trotter the second runner-up. The 16-year-old Arcadia resident was sponsored by the Kitchen Klutzes Extension Club. Her future plans include attending college.

Fifteen contestants sought the title of Fair Queen.

Judges made their queen selection decision in ceremonies Friday, July 20 at the Ord Elks Club. This year Mel Shoemaker, Ellen Lincoln, and Viola Farrell picked the 1979 Valley County Fair Queen. Competition included the girls' talent presentations and answering a question.

Preliminary Survey Of Power Plant Impact To Be Available Soon

In the next few weeks, area residents will have a preview of the impact the Cornstock coal-fired power plant could have on their lifestyle. According to Donis N. Petersan, that preliminary report on the economic and population impact will likely then be complete.

The preliminary study is now about 85 percent complete. The study is to investigate and identify demographic and economic effects of the planned power plant, was started last November. The full report is scheduled to be finished by September 1.

Asked how such a report is done, the specialist replied, "You just scratch and scratch." This involves using data in state, county, and city offices. Local organizations are also contacted as are residents of the affected area.

Friday, Petersan was to meet with Rick Noyes, Region 26 head and Gladys Gogan of the Ord Housing Authority.

Among other things included in the report are the capacity of municipal services for additional housing development, sewer hook-ups, the number of phone lines in a given area, etc. Publications, studies, reports, and people living in a community are all valuable sources of information.

"We don't ever expect to complete the report," Petersan said. "We intend to keep the data up-dated."

No Word On County Assessment Figure

The question of what Valley County's assessment schedule will be remained unanswered Wednesday, July 18, after county officials appeared before state officials in Lincoln.

Bob Sevensker, and Supervisors Ken Collins, Dick Bossen, Henry Benda, Dale Mulligan, and Dick Peterson testified before a panel of state officials. These included representatives from the Attorney General's Office, the State Tax Commissioner's Office, and the State Department of Revenue.

"What we did," Assessor Sevensker said Friday, "was present evidence showing the proposed increases were unjust. We had just spent $97,000 (for a state mandated revaluation) and felt we had achieved not only equalization within the county but equalization with surrounding counties. These proposed increases would destroy this equalization.

"I think they need to take a look at what we have done there and hopefully come up with more fair recommendations to the state board."

Meet Again
The State Equalization Board meets again in Lincoln July 25. If Valley County officials don't have a decision by then they will likely again go to Lincoln, Sevensker told the Quiz.

State authorities had earlier hiked assessed valuations of property in Valley County. A show cause hearing for county authorities was scheduled for July 18, Wednesday in Lincoln. According to Sevensker that hearing lasted about half an hour.

Some communities — Petersan didn't say which — are considering steps to limit effects the power project will likely have. Others are contemplating actions likely to be more accommodating, the specialist revealed.

Just which of the two alternatives is best depends on the town and the people in it, according to the NPPD employee, said Petersan. "If a community is interested in providing facilities that will accommodate the construction workers as well as long-term growth, the second is more prudent in that case."

Pool Problems Solved Saturday

The Ord municipal swimming pool was reopened Saturday, July 21 after being closed nearly a week. A faulty pipe caused the pool to close earlier.

The leak, in a filter pipe, was discovered Thursday or Friday, July 12 or 13. Some pool officials estimated the pool was losing hundreds of gallons of water through the pipe.

Leak Located
The pool was shut the following Saturday. The leak was located, repaired, and the pool refilled with water.

Hartsuff Pole Assignment a Career High for Lloyd Long

Activities at Fort Hartsuff reached an all-time high when Lloyd Long of Burwell recently climbed the 95 foot flagpole to untangle pole rigging. Long had never been higher than 65 feet off the ground until July 8. That changed with his Hartsuff assignment.

Local REA poles are seldom over 65 feet in height, according to Roye Lindsay, Hartsuff superintendent. He speculated that Long's job at the state park, near Elyria, was a new high in his pole climbing career. Long, a Burwell area resident, has been climbing for about a year.

The ropes on the pole were untangled, and Long came down the pole without any trouble.

Airport Ownership Shift Is Approved

The Ord City Council voted to transfer ownership of Sharp Field to Valley County during a short session in City Hall Monday night. Payment of a one dollar token fee by Ord City officials will give them ownership of the airport located just north of Ord.

This will likely happen when Supervisors meet in the local courthouse July 31. Should Supervisors reject the contract, Sharp Field ownership will revert back to the city.

Terms of the contract drawn up Monday include the county assuming existing liabilities of Sharp Field. These consist of funds owed on a hangar constructed a few years ago.

Other contract terms include a clause saying the property (Sharp Field) will revert back to the city should the county not maintain the facility or a comparable facility within a five mile radius of the present airport.

"It's unlikely this could happen," City Attorney Greg Jensen, said. "The clause is basically to protect both bodies."

Voters in the last general election, held November 7, 1978, gave approval to the shift from city to county ownership 1331 to 1041. The vote was not binding, but "merely advisory," in Jensen's words.

The Ord lawyer maintained the Airport Authority had been promoting the change. The airport is used on a county-wide basis, according to him, and county ownership will allow the Airport Authority to spread its mill levy assessment over a wider base.

The airport consists of just over 150 acres, according to Ord

Mayor, Richard Rowbal. The land is used for airport operations and farming.

During the meeting Monday, members of the Valley County Supervisors board and the Airport Authority, along with Council members were present at City Hall. Authority member, Dan Blaha, asked that City Police continue surveillance of the airport. After discussion, Mayor Rowbal stated it was the consensus of the council to continue airport surveillance as in the past.

Sharp Field is named in honor of Evelyn Sharp, a 1937 Ord High graduate, she was the youngest girl in the United States to earn a transport license to fly a plane. During World War II, she transported repaired planes from the west to east coast. She was killed taking off from a Pennsylvania Airport in 1944.

Fair Awards Are A Family Trait

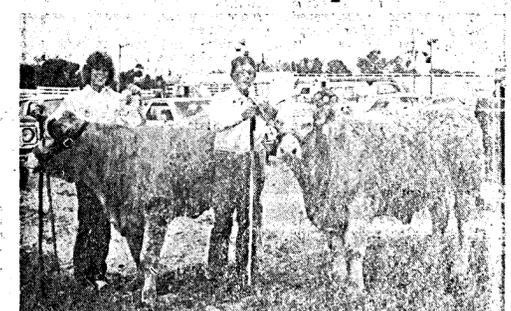

The Knapps apparently have the Senior Showmanship category all in the family. At the Valley County Fair in Ord Tuesday, Jay Knapp was judged Champion Showman, while his twin sister, Jody, gained Reserve Champion status. Both have been in 4-H seven years.

"Last three years I've moved up a notch," Jay commented. This year he reached the top rung on the ladder. Last year sister Jody was tops in the same category while Jay was Reserve Champion.

Rounding out the field this year was older brother, Eric. He placed third in competition Tuesday at the new animal arena, just east of town on the south side of the fairgrounds.

The three were picked after more than an hour of judging.

Foth Recalls Netherlands Trip

Steve Foth ended an 11 plus month stay in the Netherlands when his plane touched down in Omaha July 8. A flight from Amsterdam to Nebraska capped three years spent abroad under the Rotary International Youth Exchange Program.

Three of Steve's host families lived in Lochem, a town of 16,000 people in the middle of the country. Steve admitted, "My host family lived about ten miles away."

According to Steve, that area's main industries are tourism and farming with the main crops in central Holland being corn, barley, wheat, and grass. The latter is used like alfalfa to feed farm animals. "That's what dairy cows eat during the winter," Steve told the Quiz.

Dairy products are one of Holland's main export items. Their chocolates and cheeses are world renowned.

"They're very good business men, the Dutch are," Steve said. "To succeed in the international market they have to be, and they are. They have a story that the way to tell if a man is a good businessman is if he can sell Swiss watches to the Swiss."

A lot of the country's commerce is by river and sea. The nation's biggest and busiest seaport is Rotterdam. Much commerce flows through Europe on the Rhine River.

"Holland is a pretty industrious country," Steve admitted. "My heavy industry is located along the coast. 'Where I was, it was mostly tourism and farming,' he added.

Another economic plus for the country is energy. "A few years back, they discovered natural gas in North Holland," Steve stated. "The country now exports this much needed product. Long-term planning assures it will be a long-lasting commodity."

Shell Oil, really Royal Dutch Shell, is another profitable industry. Phillips Electronics is another Netherlands based business. It now exports Magnavox, formerly an American firm.

And of course there are tulips. "You go up in the northwest and there are just fields and fields of them, all colors," the just returned traveler recalled. "These flowers often go hand in hand with the little Dutch girl stereotype. This misconception usually includes the traditional blue dress, white hat, and wooden shoes. In reality, these are seldom seen anymore, according to Steve. Most residents dress much like Americans. "It was rough at first," he admitted, "but then I started to pick up the language."

Most residents of the seafaring nation speak English and one or two other languages, frequently French and German. These are handy — if not essential — for international trade and tourism.

Americans visiting the country haven't always made a good impression, according to Steve. Some have contributed to the American stereotype of a loud mouthed, boisterous individual with plenty of money to spend.

"Yet the Dutch remember America's role in the Second

United States. "That," he chuckled, "seemed to satisfy them."

While in the Netherlands, he went to school. Classes of course were in Dutch. "It was rough at first," he admitted, "but then I started to pick up the language."

Contestants Present Talent At Valley County Queen Tea

Excitement and tension were the order of the day for fifteen young ladies Friday, July 20, as the selection of the Valley County Queen began.

Each girl had an interview with the three Scotia judges collectively during the morning. The interviews, which took place in the lower level of the First National Bank, lasted only ten minutes but allowed the judges, Mel Shepemaker, Ellen Lincoln, and Viola Farrell, to get to know something about each of the girls.

The afternoon was devoted to a tea where each contestant presented her talent and had to demonstrate her ability to think on her feet. The talent included vocal solos by Kalya Koll, "Through the Eyes of Love"; Jeanie Severance, "You Light Up My Life"; Barbara Green, "I Just Fell in Love Again"; Kathy Zlonke, "Through the Eyes of Love"; Denise Lutick, "Reunited"; Chris Conner, "Evergreen"; and Almetta Nehls, "Love is Blue". Piano solos were played by Sue Bosworth, "Tocatta"; Jennifer Voytek, "Songbird"; and Patricia Setlik, "For Elise". Vickie Mason played a drum solo of a medley of songs and Terina Trotter gave a skit, "Talent Dilemma". Denise Lutick gave a reading, "The Walls" and Marilyn Kusek gave "Memories of My First Date". Rhonda Dahlsten showed her chalk, pencil and oil paintings of cartoon characters.

After the contestants had presented their talents, they were all escorted from the room and then called back one at a time. Each girl was asked the same question by the mistress of ceremonies, Alma Bredthauer. The question was, "If you took away a person's money and material wealth, what would he be worth?" Although each one answered in different words, the general consensus of the girls was that money isn't everything, you would be worth just as much or even more than what had been taken from you.

Following the question and answer session, refreshments were served to the contestants and persons in attendance who included the mothers of the contestants, selected members of the extension clubs they represented, and the tea committee.

At the end of the day's activities, the three judges made their selection of the Valley County Queen for 1979 to be announced Tuesday, July 24. The contestants were judged on natural beauty, poise and personality, public speaking ability and talent.

The Sonnenfelds... married July 14

Ord Couple Exchange Promises In Ceremony at Fort Hartsuff

The lawn north of the officer's quarters at Fort Hartsuff State Historical Park was the setting for the July 14 wedding uniting Danean Ahern Vodehnal and Martin Sonnenfeld, Jr., in marriage. District Court Judge James Kelly of Broken Bow performed the 10-minute ceremony written by the couple, in the presence of 125 guests.

Parents of the couple are Richard and Bernita Ahern of Denver, CO and Martin and Carolyn Sonnenfeld of Ord. For her wedding, the bride selected a chapel length chiffon gown in candlelight. The bodice featured a round ruffled neckline and matching ruffle over the shoulder with pink rose buds. The full skirt fell from a natural waistline of pink satin ribbon forming a bow and streamers in the back. The skirt featured rows of applied lace accented with pink rosebuds. To complete her ensemble, she wore a coach hat with a cluster of pink roses with illusion veil. She carried a ruffled chiffon parasol which was closed with a bouquet of pale pink roses and lily of the valley tucked inside. On her wrist, she wore a corsage of tiny pink rosebuds accented with stephanotis and baby's breath.

Patricia Kokes of Burwell, matron of honor, selected a floor length gown of pink lustrous chiffon. It was sleeveless and featured a V neckline of mushroom pleated chiffon. The circle skirt fell from a natural waistline. She wore a cluster of pink flowers on a pink ribbon choker and matching flowers in her hair. She carried an antique chapel fan with a bouquet of pink daisies, pastel pink rosebuds, baby's breath, and ribbon streamers designed by the bride.

CAROL'S CORNER by Carol Leggett

JUST LIKE GOSSIP... It's midnight. Some dog in the area wakes you with a howl that begins with short yip-yips and goes into barks.

In a minute or two your neighbor's dog joins in and before long some huge beast a block away adds his bit of bark too.

Before long, the entire neighborhood is a-howl with a chorus of dogs sounding off in great gusto. If you are one who is not a lover of dogs it could be enough to make you hate them.

What made that first dog begin barking? You wonder. Who knows?

Dogs are like that. They gossip until they're all barked out and then they forget the whole thing and curl up again for sleep.

It has been said a gossip is one who talks too much about others. A bore is one who talks too much about himself. A wise man is one who talks little but says much.

Have you ever thought that while we despise the gossiper it is almost as bad to listen eagerly, like most of us do, to his stories. If we refused to listen to gossip it is likely that none would ever spread.

Game — Parks Commission Sets Eight Hunting Seasons

Regulations for eight Nebraska fall hunting seasons were set by the Game and Parks Commission following a public hearing at its July 20 meeting in Lincoln.

Bag and possession limits, season length, open areas and other areas and other regulations were established for dove, snipe, rail, woodcock, grouse, cottontail rabbit, squirrel, and fall turkey seasons. And, the Commission set an evening meeting on August 27 to establish the remaining seasons, those on pheasant, quail, waterfowl, bobcat, jackrabbit, crow hunting, and furbearer trapping.

The grouse regulations established by the Commissioners reflected the findings of Commission biologists studying this year's grouse population. The biologists report that a bumper crop of prairie chickens and sharp-shills is in the offing, and Commissioners responded with a season one week longer than last year's with more liberal limits. Grouse hunting will run from September 15 through November 4, with limits of three birds daily and nine in possession.

The Commissioners also heard good reports on the status of most of Nebraska's wild turkey flock. Shotgun permit numbers were increased to 1,000 in the Niobrara Unit, and 300 in the Verdigris area. The Round Top Unit will offer 1,500 fall turkey permits, the same number as last year. The 1979 fall turkey season will open on October 27 and run through November 9. Fall archery turkey hunting will be open from October 1 through October 26 west of U.S. Highway 81, except for Buffalo and Webster counties.

Other seasons established by the Commission include: dove — Sept. 1-Oct. 15, 10 per day and 20 in possession; cottontail rabbit — Sept. 1-Feb. 29, 7 & 21; squirrel — Sept. 1-Jan. 31, 7 & 21; rail — Sept. 1-Nov. 9, 25 & 25; snipe — Sept. 15-Nov. 18, 5 & 10. In other action, the Commission voted to extend to December 31 an agreement with South Dakota regarding fishing on the Missouri River along the border between the two states. The agreement allows holders of resident permits from the two states to fish from either bank of the river, and to fish any oxbows, sloughs, chutes or backwaters of the river on either side provided they are connected to the river or contain part of the state boundary. In effect, the major benefit for South Dakota fishermen is access to the Gavins Point Dam Tailwaters, while Nebraska fishermen gain use of South Dakota's boat ramps on a favorable basis.

The Commission indicated that the agreement might not be renewed beyond the end of 1979 if South Dakota does not make some progress toward previously-agreed-to goals. These include more equitable treatment of non-resident waterfowl hunters in South Dakota, and the elimination of jug fishing on Lewis and Clark Lake, both matters now controlled by the South Dakota Legislature.

Comments from the Department of Wildlife, Parks and Forestry. The Commission staff will attempt to set up a meeting with South Dakota officials before the end of this year.

At the same meeting, the Commission also:

- approved the purchase of 115 acres in Johnson County as an addition to Twin Oaks Wildlife Area.
- approved regulations for public use of state fish hatcheries,

Fair Time Didn't Fool Mother Nature's Plans

All that seems necessary for a good rainfall is Fair time in Valley County and this year was no exception as the skies opened up about midnight Monday, dumping over an inch of rain on Ord.

Dampened spirits of fair-goers were countered by heightened expectations of farmers who could forego expensive full-scale pump irrigation longer still, and forecasters offered the possibility of even a few more showers through Thursday.

Partially cloudy skies with cool temperatures were predicted into the coming weekend.

Economist Tells How To Stretch Budget

Feeding a big family on a budget has always been a challenge, but now it's almost a job for a musician.

As food prices soar higher and higher, homemakers need to become creative in methods of cutting food costs, says Pauline Hein, home economist.

"One thing a homemaker with a large family must remember is that there are many ways to stretch a dollar. By making menu substitutions and using leftovers wisely, anyone can cut food costs," Miss Hein says.

"One of the first steps is planning menus that include necessary foods at the lowest possible cost. Planning a week's menu is one good idea. Shop on Friday, so that meals can be planned around the items on special at the supermarket," she says.

"When planning dinners for a week, include leftovers from one night's dinner in the next night's menu. If ham is served on Sunday, then pea soup using the ham bone can be served on Monday with a vegetable or fruit slice," Miss Hein says.

"Don't despair over serving 14 to 15 people. Many cooks, especially new ones, dread serving leftovers. There's no need to feel that way, just learn to freeze them up by adding prepared foods like chow mein, noodles or water chestnuts for added flavor.

"Money can be saved by careful shopping. Learn to cook less expensive cuts of meats. Experiment with various marinades to tenderize and add flavor to an inexpensive cut," she suggests.

"Buy fruits and vegetables which are in season and freeze them up for all year round. Also, never buy more produce than can be stored properly because produce is perishable.

Speed time reading nutrition books. Tips included in these books will more than pay off. Reread food charts and consider substitutions within the four basic food groups of lower priced items.

"Serve chicken instead of sirloin, green beans instead of asparagus, hot dry milk instead of fresh milk and bread instead of seeded rolls.

Another key consideration in reducing food costs is accurately estimating how much your family will eat. "The main thing to watch for is waste - don't waste food or the time it takes to prepare it," she suggests.

"By planning ahead, watching food ads, serving leftovers and making menu substitutions most

"Money can be saved by careful shopping. Learn to cook less expensive cuts of meats. Experiment with various marinades to tenderize and add flavor to an inexpensive cut," she suggests.

"Buy fruits and vegetables which are in season and freeze them up for all year round. Also, never buy more produce than can be stored properly because produce is perishable.

Speed time reading nutrition books. Tips included in these books will more than pay off. Reread food charts and consider substitutions within the four basic food groups of lower priced items.

"Serve chicken instead of sirloin, green beans instead of asparagus, hot dry milk instead of fresh milk and bread instead of seeded rolls.

Another key consideration in reducing food costs is accurately estimating how much your family will eat. "The main thing to watch for is waste - don't waste food or the time it takes to prepare it," she suggests.

"By planning ahead, watching food ads, serving leftovers and making menu substitutions most

Less Tillage Likely

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M. M. Van Kirk, Director of Information

The tighter supplies of fuels and the increasing cost of them in future years will force farmers to change farming techniques and turn more and more toward no-till and minimum tillage methods.

Progressive farmers have been experimenting with these energy-saving, soil and water conserving methods since the early 1960's so they are not new to them. But the high cost of fuel is an incentive to be more conservation minded than ever before, both on dryland and irrigated cropland. It is estimated that of 298 million acres now in crop production throughout the country, 228 million were still farmed conventionally last season. That left a total of 70 million acres that were in some type of reduced tillage system, but only 7.2 million acres, or less than 3 percent of the total, were strictly no-till last year.

Minimum tillage began as a means of conserving soil and available moisture. University of Nebraska Experiment stations did a great deal of pioneering work with minimum tillage and then no-till and continue to experiment. Individual farmers adapted the practices to their own farming operations as they found best, some finding it paid to use more cultivation and discovering that more management was required to maintain their yields and cope with weed and insect problems.

But the disc and the chisel plow in Nebraska have pretty much replaced the moldboard plow. They found real savings in making fewer trips across their fields and that mixing and leaving crop residues on the surface greatly reduced wind and water erosion and increased moisture penetration and retention.

A number of years of research at the North Platte Experiment Station have gone into an "ecofallow" system of farming that aims at helping growers to achieve greater yields in limited rainfall areas and conserves energy at the same time. Basically the system uses a combination of contact and residual herbicides to replace weed tillage operations and leaves the soil undisturbed until planting time.

On wheat ground for example, the stubble remains standing, trapping the snow and rain, reducing soil temperature and evaporation and storing moisture for the next crop. In the marginal areas where farmers achieve two crops of winter wheat in four years at best, it has been found the system stores more moisture during fallow periods, and for every one-inch of soil moisture, wheat yields will increase 2 to 6 bushels per acre.

In borderline areas, farmers have found they can use eco-fallow to go with a winter wheat-corn or milo-fallow rotation to get two crops in three years. Corn yields of course do not compare to those on irrigated land but the grower doesn't have anywhere near the investment in his crop that the irrigated corn grower has.

During the run of severe drought years in the mid-1970's, some farmers in Southeast Nebraska counties used minimum tillage conservation methods to achieve near average corn and milo yields. As one such farmer puts it, "My farming isn't pretty but it made the difference between having a crop or no-crop."

Irrigated farmers too are going to be looking toward further innovations in minimum tillage systems for their purposes to reduce their pumping costs and conserve their water resources.

On the basis of past performance, farmers will find ways and means to cope with the energy situation and maintain their production.

Jesse Trotter, 14, and his 6-year-old Paint Horse gelding, Robin's Cinokey, paired up to win championship honors in the senior boys showmanship at the 1979 Fanner Park-Nebraska State 4-H Horse Exposition, held at Fanner Park, Grand Island, July 16-19. Trotter is the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Trotter of Arcadia. Presenting the trophy is Mrs. John Kennedy, Kearney, representing the Many Rivers Appaloosa Horse Club. Consider Supplementing Grass:
Should grass be supplemented with grain or protein in late summer? According to Paul Guyer, supplementation with protein and/or energy may be desirable for steers on native pastures beginning late July or August. Steers on native short grass at the Fort Hays, Kansas Experiment Station responded to protein supplementation in years of high rainfall during July and August.

In years of average or below average precipitation, gain was increased when sorghum grain was fed to supplement grass.

These results indicate that during years of high rainfall and high forage production, forage quality is lower and cattle respond to additional protein toward the end of the grazing season. When grass production is limited by lack of moisture, forage quality is high, but additional energy may be profitable.

Yearling steers on native bluestem at the Kansas State University experimental range unit at Manhattan, increased their gain when supplemental grain or protein was fed during late summer.

In a three-year study, 141 pounds of protein supplement produced 29 pounds of additional gain and 141 pounds of corn increased gains by 15 pounds.

Minerals Needed For Beef Cattle on Pasture:
During the period of rapid spring growth, forages supply adequate calcium and phosphorus for grazing beef cattle.

After the forages begin to mature, however, their phosphorus content drops below cattle requirements. During the early grazing season, plain or trace mineralized salt will usually meet mineral needs.

Once forage becomes more mature, a mixture of dicalcium phosphate and trace mineralized salt, mixed together in equal parts by weight, will meet mineral needs of beef cattle on pasture in most areas of Nebraska.

Since salt consumption will vary with salinity of the pasture, check consumption and change the mixture when needed to encourage the correct phosphorus consumption.

Your Grass Dislikes Mowing, Too
If you think you dislike mowing, just think how your grass feels. The fact is, turf grasses would prefer not being mowed at all, according to R. C. Shearman, Institute of

Crop Water Use Details

The following crop water use data is supplied by the Lower Loup Natural Resources District and is published as a public service by the Ord Quiz.

For the week of July 16 through July 22, crop water use for alfalfa under full cover was 1.65 inches; crop water use for corn was 1.30 inches.

Next week's forecasted crop water use for the week of July 23 through July 29 is estimated to be: 2.1 inches for alfalfa under full cover; 1.8 inches for corn.

Producers please note: Immediately after cutting, water use for alfalfa will be 50% of the figure given; after 10 days, water use will be 75%. At 20 days after cutting, water use is the figure given.

An update is provided Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and is made available through toll-free Hot Line Number 1-800-652-9329.

Agriculture and Natural Resources extension turf specialist,

He pointed out that mowing puts a stress on grass and can discourage it from growing, while encouraging weed growth.

Since grass must be mowed for appearance's sake, however, Shearman suggested doing the job with some concern for the lawn's health. The key, he said, is mowing height.

Tall fescue lawns should be mowed to three-inches high, while Kentucky bluegrass should be cut a little shorter — one and one-half to two inches. Bermuda and zoysia grass can stand to be shorter still — from three-quarters of an inch to one inch.

Most of our err on the short side, the University of Nebraska Lincoln specialist noted. "And that severely restricts the grass plant's food production. We end up with weak grass plants that can be killed by drought stress."

"Lawns also will do better if you don't drop the mowing height drastically on the lawn," Shearman said. "A good rule of thumb is to remove no more than 40 percent of the leaf area of lawn grasses in any one mowing."

When lawns "get away" from you during vacation, for example, mow off only a couple of inches at first. Then mow again in two or three days, he suggested. This will prevent excessive shock to grass plants.

Kris Places In Lincoln Show

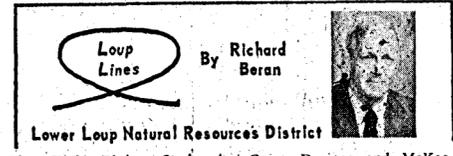

On Saturday, July 21, Kris Greenway competed in the English Dressage Show in Lincoln. She entered nine classes, winning four first place medals, two seconds and one third.

Kris will compete in the Lancaster County Fair since no English riding classes are offered in Valley County. Her next 4-H competition will be Ak-Sar-Ben.

The High Plains Study is swinging into high gear, as reported in the National Water Line which is a publication of the National Water Resources Association from Washington, D.C.

The High Plains Study is being conducted under a $6 million authorization provided by P. L. 94-587, October 1976. In order to assure an adequate supply of food to the Nation and to promote the economic vitality of the High Plains Region, the Secretary of Commerce, acting through the Economic Development Administration in cooperation with the Secretary of Army, is authorized and directed to study the depletion of the natural resources of those regions of the States of Colorado, Kansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas, and Nebraska, presently utilizing the declining water resources of the Ogallala aquifer.

The Secretary is directed to consider all past and ongoing studies, plans, and work on depleted water resources in the region, and to examine the feasibility of various alternatives to provide adequate water supplies in the area including the transfer of matter from other areas.

Statistics relating to the study area are impressive: It encompasses 225,000 square miles (6% of the U.S.) containing 77,807 farms, of which 30,207 had some irrigation in 1974, with irrigated land providing about 2.5 times more production than dry land.

In 1977, the area produced 76.4 million bushels of wheat, 129.9 million bushels of grain sorghum, 661.4 million bushels of corn, 2.1 million bales of cotton, and there were 8.9 million cattle in feed lots (49% of the Nation's total). But since 1967, the water level in the aquifer has dropped about 65 feet.

The study, scheduled to be completed in 1982, was described by Banks as "a factual evaluation of the several alternative futures for the High Plains - Ogallala Aquifer Region." Other contractors who are working with important study of the century in defining the future of Kansas' economy. A simple lesson in economics was provided by the farmer - Chairman of the Texas Water Development Board, A. L. Black, who left the impression with the group that if the farmer didn't make it, the merchant wouldn't either.

County Officials Tell Ideas On State-Wide Equalization

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
Lincoln — Numerous county officials appeared recently in Lincoln to present their ideas on what should be done in the state Board of Equalization's attempt to achieve state-wide equalization of property values.

Officials from some of the state's more populous counties, including Douglas, Lancaster, Sarpy, Cass and Saunders, weren't always in agreement on what course the state should take.

Spokesmen for Lancaster, Cass and Sarpy counties said they objected to across-the-board valuation increases for their urban property. They proposed different valuation changes for different classes of property be given consideration.

But Douglas County asked that its valuation be left undisturbed, while Saunders County said it favored one uniform valuation change for all classes of property.

The Board has suggested state-wide valuation increases. It hopes will result in assessed valuations at 35 percent of value, which is the statutory requirement.

The Board scheduled a July 25 meeting for review of its proposals. The increase it suggested for urban property was based on a sales-assessment ratio, a comparison of sales price and level of assessment, computed for single family residential units in all of the state's 93 counties.

When dealing with agricultural land, the Board suggested using the state Revenue Department's 1976 land valuation manual as a guideline, then establishing values at a figure 30 percent above the guideline value.

Lancaster County Assessor Carol Brown questioned the across-the-board increase for urban property and the use only of the sales-assessment ratio for residential property arriving at increases for all urban property. She favored different valuation increases for different classes of city property.

Due to malfunctioning recording equipment, officials from seven of the counties who testified early in the hearings did not have their remarks put onto tape.

After that was discovered, Deputy State Tax Commissioner John Decker advised the officials from Merrick, Hamilton, York, Seward, Grant, Hitchcock and Frontier counties they could make another appearance before the Board.

But the spokesmen in five of the seven counties said they did not wish to return.

Even though the testimony was not recorded, written testimony and other documents from the seven counties are in the official record.

Another proposal was that the Sunshine Law be revised so it would be more specific on newsletters. Wishnow noted the law forbids overt political mailings but neither defines the mailings nor says what types of mailings are permissible.

Use of mass mailings should be restricted, either by law or legislative rule, so they are not abused for election purposes, he said.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

This Polish feller from Sherman County was fit to be tied Saturday night at the country store. He come to the session waving his bright colored postcard and growling there ought to be a law. The fellers was concerned right off, knowing that one of the strongest planks in his platform is doing away with all the useless laws that have piled up on our books, going back to the 10 Commandments and putting some enforcement behind the words.

What it was, this feller with that long Polish name had got the card the middle of last week. It said he was a winner in "category one" of a contest he didn't even know he was in. He tracked that down and found out it would be worth the trip, provided they could find the gasoline. They were all set to go Friday and spend the night when he happened to take note of some tiny writing on the back of the card. He put on his glasses his wife uses to thread her needles, and he found it said the promoters reserve the right to substitute prizes. That's when his blood pressure shot up. He could see them driving half the day to get a plastic letter opener substituted for the car that he had won.

He said he done some reading and learned these new consumer laws say a contest has to be a contest and not everybody can be a winner, as it used to be in this kind of come on. But the laws don't say nothing about the promoter's right to slip in a set of plastic pop bottle stoppers for a television set. There ought to be a law, he declared, that says if a feller has actual won somepon for nothing he ought to get it, instead of getting nothing but a high pressure sales pitch for his excitement and his effort

Each year, about this time, I find myself in a state of despair best described by the youth of today as "all strung out." Or, maybe, it's "all spaced out."

I'd always referred to my condition as "a case of the blahs." Until, that is, I heard the later expressions.

Regardless of what you might call it, I'm simply not all together. My mind wanders. I can't seem to concentrate on one thing for any length of time. I'm tired. I've got little to no ambition.

When I came down with a good summer cold, I find the blame on it. But I've nearly shaken the cold and the mental state seems to continue. So I've given up blaming the cold.

Over the many years I've written this column, I remember distinctly finding myself on this "downer" at this time of year. For many years I blamed it on dog days. In fact I went so far several times, as looking up the facts behind so-called dog days.

In the United States dog days are commonly referred to as the forty hottest days of the year, though no dates — as such — are ascribed to the period. The ancient Greeks and Romans applied the term to the period between July 3 and August 11 when Sirius, the Dog Star, rose with the sun.

The Dog Star is the brightest fixed star in the heavens and is comparatively close to our solar system. It is head of the constellation known as Canis Major, or the Greater Dog. The conjunction of the rising of the Dog Star and the sun was held responsible for the dry, hot and sultry weather of midsummer.

I'm no astrologer and I'll not argue with any scientific explanation. I simply know that this isn't my "peak time" of year and I suffer through it, wondering when the pep and excitement of living will return.

Looking at those about me, wondering if I'm the only one afflicted with this despondency, I see happy faces going about their daily routine with smiles, and an occasional gripe about the weather. So I'm left thinking I shouldn't even mention the subject!

On the other hand, since I've now made a whole column out of my, dreary condition, let me know if you have any suggestions.

Gravy Train

We knew it had to happen. Taxpayers are now supporting a dog. The hound in question reportedly belongs to a Greeley County prisoner housed in the Valley County jail. The canine companion is being boarded at the Ord dog pound.

Neither the Ord Sheriff's office nor Greeley County Sheriff Doyle Keller were certain of the boarding charges. A phone call to the Ord Animal Clinic yielded information that applicable fees there are $2.50 a day.

We don't begrudge the little nipper his right to exist. After all, every dog does have his day. If it is at taxpayers expense, so be it.

What we wonder about is just where the line of those receiving tax supported benefits will end. Currently people needing storm windows, educational assistance, food, transportation and no one knows what else can qualify for a tax subsidized assistance.

Coming out against these benefits often places the questioning party in the role of Ebenezer Scrooge. How can you, some ask, be against these, the less fortunate. After all, they remind, if you have done it unto the least of these my brethren, you have done it unto Me.

No, we don't question that. Just as we aren't against maintaining Man's Best Friend.

What we do wonder about is just where will the line of those supping at the tax-supported trough end. As more and more groups qualify for some form of state, federal, and/or local "assistance" fewer and fewer of us will be working to support more and more people.

Ah, but this is naturally right, so some contend, that more and more benefits be made available to everyone. Then, or so the idea goes, we will all share equally in this redistributed income.

This looks fine on the drawing board. In actuality, it just won't fly. Uncommon deeds aren't performed by common men just as all men aren't created equally. It is the exceptional who excel, achieve, and go beyond the average mark whether by application or intellect.

Taxing them, the uncommon, to create a common denominator in the brotherhood of man isn't the way to assure anything except mediocrity. A Justice on the Supreme Court touched on this when saying, "The power to tax is the power to destroy."

And as available tax financed benefits increase and the tax bite digests more from each man's compensation, traits such as excellence, individual initiative, and achievement slowly wither away.

Deny a dog his supper dish? No way! We suspect the canine's current status is a sign of the times and wonder just where the subsidized gravy train will end.

Something Different

We're Mexican!

Do you ever have flag trouble at your house? We seem to have considerable, here and there, Ord, Minnesota, California.

Trying to sew up one of those little supports on the house, in which a flag supposedly likes to ride, is ridiculous. The flag doesn't like it, and tops and twists. This happened to our house on the rocky lot in west Ord.

Buying bright felt in the suitable colors of orange, white and green and stitching them together to make a small Irish flag, we wanted it posted on our car. In addition to showing our colors it provides a wonderful way to spot the car in one of these vast airports or shopping centers.

But they do fade, they do get fringe-y, they must be replaced often.

We had a sizeable Irish flag waving from the front of our Chula Vista home and enjoyed it disproportionately. Even though a nosy neighbor rushed over the first day we lived here and loudly declared "Don't you know you must fly the American flag as high or higher than that of any other country? You can be arrested!"

I didn't bother to answer the odious, officious man: I feel that John, after five years of teaching would-be air pilots during the Second World War probably knew as much about flying our flag as anyone!

Our little felt car flag wore out. A kindly neighbor lady offered to sew up another for us, and so she did, and we tied it up high on our black VW when we drove to Ord lately.

Our big Irish flag out front faded and faded although it was on the north side of our house.

One day a pleasant stranger came to the door and announced that she wanted to give us a new one. "Isn't that the flag of Ireland? Yes, I thought so. I have a nice one that belonged to my mother; I'd like to bring it over and give it to you."

And sure enough, she brought it. It was a beauty, a big one, about four feet by six feet, made of linen! We were delighted.

It is too big to hitch on the house like its' predecessor, so we've been shopping for a flag pole, a tall sturdy one that must be cemented into the ground before our house.

And do you know, flagpoles are hard to find?

Restroom Statutes Questioned

Sen. Donald Dworak of Columbus says Nebraska's laws dealing with separate restrooms for males and females do not take into account modern plumbing in its ambiguity and conflict.

In a letter to Dennis Blank, chief of the state Agriculture Department's bureau of dairies and food, Dworak said, "In reviewing the appropriate statutes pertaining to toilet facilities in restaurants, it seems there is an interpretation makes no mention or has no requirement for separate male and female facilities."

Dworak said the Agriculture Department has "administratively interpreted" the outhouse law to apply to all facilities. Such an interpretation lacks common sense, he added. He cited the example of a small

A brunette beauty is once again the fairest in the county, as determined by judges in the Valley County Fair Queen contest. Pam Hurlbert, 18 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oris Hurlbert, was crowned Monday by Pat Novotny, also a brunette, last year's queen.

The Ord Chamber of Commerce will protest an application to close the office of the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railroad. Officials of neighboring communities also have been asked to oppose proposed closings in their towns.

An operating budget of $669,000 — up 23.4 percent from last year — was adopted at this month's meeting of the Board of Education. The budget calls for an increased tax levy of 7.09 mills over last year. Together with the new 8 mill levy to cover construction costs of Ord's new grade school building it will boost the total school levy for next year by just over 15 mills.

An Ord man won the amateur saddle bronc championship last week at Cheyenne Frontier Days. Dale Svoboda, who came originally from Burwell, but now calls Ord home, scored 108 points on two horses to win the title. He received a diamond belt buckle and $500.

The Ord J. C. Penny Store closes its 43 year history here Friday, July 31. Manager Reed Crawford said the store will close at 5:30 p.m. Crawford said he would turn the keys over to Charles Clawson (Lee Store) Wednesday. The Lee Store that has bought the building will take possession at midnight.

Some of the pup day specials in Ord this week are 5 lbs. sugar 39¢ and 3 lbs. shortening for 73¢ at IGA. McDonalds featured sheets at $1.69 and bath towels at 66¢.

May Be Breaking The Law

The attorney for the state Sunshine Commission says public officials who receive money or gifts for addressing an organization may be breaking the law.

Bernard Wishnow told a special legislative committee the state's Political Accountability and Disclosure Act is worded so generally that distinguishing between bribery and receiving expenses for speaking to a group is very subjective.

Wishnow said many of the prohibitions in the lobbying and conflict of interest portions of the law are also difficult to interpret. He recommended the lawmakers clarify much of the Sunshine Law and cited speaking engagements as an example of problems encountered when interpreting the statute.

He said a legislator can receive actual expenses for speaking to a group that employs a lobbyist "but if the expense paid goes beyond what is customary, it strikes of bribery."

Wishnow added the acceptance of an honorarium — the customary fee for speaking — is also questionable under the law.

The attorney suggested amending the law so precise limits would be set on speaking fees.

An estimated 1,500 turned out Tuesday at the baseball field for the dedication of the lights and game. The Ord Band, directed by Dr. G. A. Aule, started the dedication services with a concert at 7:30 p.m.

George Satterfield, who took leave in June to have a try at the banking game in Sargeant, apparently is pleased with his new job. The county board received his resignation this week from the office of County Treasurer which he held for the past 21 years.

Floyd Lockhart of Red Cloud is now owner of the Ord Bakery in a deal closed with the former owners, Frank and Wilma Drudik.

Unless the city of Ord immediately signs up to purchase electricity from the North Loup River Public Power and Light District, the city will help out with finances, there is a great likelihood that the district will be taken over by the Public Works Administration who gave and loaned money for its construction and by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which owns the bonds.

Almost nine months have elapsed since Valley County's 1938 election was held but only Monday was the contest over the County Attorneyship officially determined. Judge Lewis Lightner of Columbus, substituting for Judge E. P. Clements, ruled that John R. Misko was legally elected by a vote of 1733, four more than his opponent, Alvin Lee, who had 1,729.

Henry Deines of Albion has been named the new music instructor to succeed Dean Duncan who is going to Lexington. Mr. Deines will take charge of all community music activities including the municipal band on a 12 month basis. The Board of Education pays $1,500 toward his salary and the city $300.

P.S. I forgot to tell you that our little car flag often gets us mistaken for Mexicans!

You see Mexico's colors are red, white and green! And it isn't unusual for a joyful young Mexican to cry out as we go by: Viva Mexico!

The load was heavy but this contestant managed to pull the sled the full 300 feet of the tractor course at the Valley County Fairgrounds Saturday night.

Impressive Pulls Open County Fair

A state sanctioned tractor pull sponsored by the Young Farmers and Ranchers, opened the Valley County Fair Saturday night. There was smoke and noise as plenty as the machines strove to pull a weighted sled the length of a 300 foot dirt runway in the fairgrounds arena in south Ord. Tractors ranged from the slightly modified to the more exotic models. The latter boasted smokestacks like organ pipes and after the dust had cleared and the last tractor strived for the 300 foot mark the following results were noted.

Scout Project Has Goal of Restoring Fallout Shelters

Craig Vancura of Boy Scout Troop 194 in Ord, has supervised the restoration of the Civil Defense Fallout Shelters in Ord, along with the guidance of Rick Noyes, Civil Defense Director. Craig encouraged fellow scouts to help with this project.

Craig and the scouts first checked the shelters to see what their conditions were. He filled out a report on each shelter, then gave it to Noyes.

At a later date, Craig and the scouts went back to the locations to get licenses signed. These licenses gave permission to put up the yellow and black signs which direct one to a shelter. It also gives permission to put supplies in them in case of a nuclear attack.

Sandrock Concert To Be in North Loup

Leslie Sandrock will present a concert on Saturday, July 28 at 8 p.m. at the Freedom House in North Loup. The concert will feature Leslie's clear vocal style and 12-string guitar. Leslie adds a unique blend of humor that is just the touch to make people feel at home.

A 1978 graduate of St. Olaf College, Northfield, MN and daughter of an Air Force General, she has lived on three continents and traveled in at least four foreign countries. Home is not a geographical location as her songs indicate and Leslie's enthusiasm is not in the sights she's seen or the places she's been, but in the Rock, Jesus Christ. A Sandrock concert is where strangers become friends and wanderers find a home — in the Rock.

Trip to Brazil Meeting Topic

James Knapp, an Ord Rotarian, was guest speaker at Rotary Monday evening.

Knapp explained a number of facts about his Brazilian trip, including inflation is way out of sight. 50% interest is not uncommon.

People are either very poor or very wealthy in Brazil. There are many poor and few wealthy people in Brazil.

Most tourists are unable to adjust to Brazilian food. In other Rotary news, Gary Garnick, Rotary's representative to Japan, will be guest speaker at Rotary next Monday evening. He will give a description of his recent trip to Japan and show his slides.

Classes Started

Ronald Williams of North Loup is one of 77 students who recently began their first year of classes at the University of Nebraska Medical Center's College of Pharmacy.

Before being accepted to the college, a student must complete two years of pre-pharmacy instruction at an accredited institution of higher education.

After successful completion of the college's three-year program, the student will receive a degree of Bachelor of Science degree in Pharmacy (Pharm.D.) degree.

Come To Church

READ JOHN 1:9-13
"Fix your thoughts on what is true and good and right." (Philippians 4:8 TLB)

A computer and a newborn baby are similar in one respect — both have potential, but they depend on information supplied by people to realize their potential.

A computer has the potential to solve complex problems. First, however, a program must be written and stored in the computer. Then incoming data can be evaluated in accordance with the programmed instructions. Programmers have an expression — GIGO — garbage in, garbage out. This simply means the results can be no more effective than the stored program permits.

Similarly, a newborn baby has the potential to become a great servant of God. At birth, however, a child has an undeveloped conscience which knows neither right nor wrong. Each day a program is being written in the child's conscience. Later, as an adult, he or she will call on the sum total of all stored programs to evaluate data and make vital decisions. The decisions can be no more right and proper than prior precept and example will permit. Clearly, it is important to train children in a way which will develop consciences attuned to the will of God.

PRAYER: Father, help us to remember our responsibility to feed our children upon Your Word, Amen.
