

Mixed Reviews On '79 Corn Harvest

Persons operating Ord area elevators and in ag related professions gave this year's corn harvest mixed reviews last week. Some said yield figures were average or above. Others said the crop quality wasn't as good as last year.

Lloyd Zikmund of the ASCS office in Ord, said yields so far have been "above average." Corn yields, he stated, have been up to 100 bushels an acre for non-irrigated corn. An irrigated field tested Thursday, according to Zikmund, produced over 200 bushels of corn an acre.

Zikmund speculated the crop now coming in could be the largest yield in memory. "Virgil Beneke, manager of the Farmers Co-Op Elevator in Ord, estimated the '79 corn crop wasn't quite as good as the one last year. He declined to estimate yield figures, stating the crop wasn't far enough along."

Gaylord Bolesen, of Bolesen's Grain Company in Ord, and County Agent Al Martens, both agreed the present harvest is good, with Bolesen adding yield reports from farmers have been mixed.

Persons interviewed rated the moisture content per bushel at between 17 and 21 percent a bushel.

The harvest is between 10 to 15 percent done, 33 percent completed, depending on persons interviewed.

Elevator operators and others agreed the twin headaches of transportation and storage are frequently on their minds. Beneke estimated the elevator in Ord would be full by Tuesday with corn having to be stored on the ground.

Bolesen told the Quiz that by the time this appears, he would likely be doing the same. Corn is coming in at the rate of 40,000 to 45,000 bushels daily.

Rail Cars
The annual shortage of rail cars is as bad or worse than last year, according to those interviewed last week. Bolesen estimated he could use 15 empty rail cars daily. He has had 12 in the last 30 days.

Bolesen is scheduled for 60 empty rail cars for grain shipments, according to Gaylord. He was uncertain of when they would or could be delivered.

"The two cars I'm loading now," he said, "are filled with corn I bought in June."

Beneke painted a similar picture. Two rail cars Co-Op elevators in Ord and North Loup received recently didn't put a dent in the harvest, he told the Quiz. The Union Pacific Railroad is moving more grain than ever, according to Beneke, but service on a spur line, like that between Ord and North Loup, is erratic.

Vic Kerchal surveys his golden harvest as Co-Op employee Steve Collins lifts the truck's tailgate.

The line can't handle unit trains, he told the Quiz, because the track is too light weight.

Unit trains are blocks of 25 empty box cars assigned to one shipper and one destination. Co-Op is doing a feasibility study on having unit trains at North Loup, Beneke revealed. That would involve building a siding capable of handling 25-50 units of empty rail cars, he said, estimating that could cost $40 a foot for rail siding costs alone.

As the harvest pours in, the market has rapidly declined. Co-Op prices paid per bushel of corn went from $2.24 the previous Monday to $2.00 Thursday, October 25. Most corn coming in is being stored, according to Bolesen.

"How would you like to be the person telling a farmer you're full and the market is going down," he asked.

He estimated farm profits are negligible below the $2.25 a bushel price.

Despite a dropping market and the transportation tie-up some people are optimistic. According to an Associated Press article, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland announced recently that farmers will not be required to set aside part of their land in order to qualify for price supports on feed grains next year because demand for corn is expected to be a record level.

A similar suspension was announced for wheat growers August 1, according to the article.

Water Policy Choices Meeting Will Be Held

"Water Policy Choices Decisions for the 1980's" is the theme of a meeting starting at 9 a.m. November 9, at the Ord Elks Club. This meeting, sponsored by the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service, will provide participants with an opportunity to develop an improved understanding of Nebraska's water situation and issues, policy decision alternatives, and the State Water Planning and Review Process. There will be an opportunity for discussion with state senators who attend the session or make themselves available through a telephone hook-up.

Honey Sunday Sales Bring Over $500

Honey Sunday sales in Ord, Bartlett, and Mira Valley raised over $500 October 28. Proceeds went to the state Association for Retarded Citizens. Connie Felt, of the Mid-Nebraska Workshop, Board chair, Bruce Ohme, Burwell called the sales receipts "good," adding that the towns of Burwell, Elyria, and other locations haven't yet been solicited for Honey Sunday sales.

Bids Awarded on Town Water Well

Bids for construction of a municipal water well were awarded when the Arcadia Village Board met Friday. Board chairman, Bruce Ohme, told the Quiz low bids went to: Sargent Irrigation for around $44,000 for well construction. Trotter Lumber for around $22,000. Trotter will build a building next to the municipal well.

The new well, to be located near the water tower on the east edge of town, will replace an older well. The well casing had caved in and sand was being pumped into the village water supply, Ohme stated.

The old well is located west of the school, about two blocks north of Arcadia's business district.

Work should start within a week. Ohme stated bonds will be issued and water rates likely raised to pay for the well project. He didn't anticipate a hike in the mill levy.

Bids on well construction received Friday came from Layne Western in Omaha, Smith Construction of Ansley, and Sargent Irrigation of Broken Bow. Building bids came from Nekulva Farm Supply of Taylor and Trotter Inc. of Arcadia.

Supervisors Change Road in Township

Valley County Supervisors gave their consent to reshaping a county road during their meeting at the courthouse in Ord Tuesday. A curve in a road in Vinton Township will be made smaller, according to County Clerk Thelma Dultz.

In other business, County Supervisors: Heard County Assessor Bob Sevensker tell about new land valuation tables, for use in 1980. Signed an agreement with the State Welfare Department. Under that plan, child support payments to mothers on Aid to Dependent Children will go through the state welfare office and then to the recipient. The support payments had been going directly to the recipients.

Changed future meeting dates. The board will meet November 13 and November 26. The December meeting date was switched from Christmas Day, December 25 to December 28.

The proposed water control area covers 25 townships or 900 square miles in Loup, Garfield, Wheeler and Boone Counties. No date for the hearing has been set. The proposed area is outlined in arrows.

Loup Directors Request A Control Area Hearing

After nearly two hours of testimony and discussion Thursday night, the Lower Loup NRD Board of Directors voted 16-2 to request a hearing on a water control area. Tentative plans call for that area to include portions of Garfield, Loup, Wheeler, and Boone Counties.

The Lower Loup request for a hearing now goes to John Neuberger, Director of the Nebraska Department of Water Resources in Lincoln. Neuberger has 120 days to set a time, place, and date for the hearing. After testimony from that is heard, it is up to Neuberger to decide if a control area should be established, and where.

If Neuberger decided it shall, the NRD has 18 months to draw up proposed water use controls. Another hearing by the NRD is then held concerning the proposed controls. Neuberger then must approve the hearing considering public input, etc.

With his final approval, the control area is established with the NRD acting as an enforcement agency.

Just what role the NRD should assume, apparently concerned some directors Thursday night. Some contended the agency should be neutral. Just what or how to be neutral was discussed.

For this reason apparently, director Bill Schriver made the motion that the board request a hearing from the state Department of Water Resources and retain a neutral position. NRD director Jim Ziegler predicted the word "neutral" would return to haunt board members.

The motion containing that word came after hot discussion and soul searching by NRD board members and persons in the audience. Richard Beran, Lower Loup NRD manager, opened that by recounting recent meetings in Garfield, Loup, Wheeler, and Boone Counties.

Audience member, Dean Brinkman told board members the attendees at the meeting at Bartlett and the feeling more people were against than for the water control area.

People who would suffer most from the control district would be long time sandhills residents, he predicted. Brinkman said a article stated the board's mind was made up on the need for the district. He suggested "little jealousies" could be going on.

The October 25 Quiz article quoted Richard Beran as saying wide support for the water control area apparently existed. Brinkman said he fought in a war to preserve freedom, and added he kicked a state man off his land (in southeast Garfield County) Thursday.

Jim Wolf contended there is confusion over the difference between requesting a ground water control area hearing, be held, and the actual establishment of the area. A hearing, he pointed out, is to gather facts and testimony on whether such an area should be created. This isn't, he told the audience, the same as establishing the control area.

"I'm willing to have the hearing," Jim Wolf said, "to be proven wrong." That such an area is needed, Wolf repeatedly stated a hearing was needed to bring all facts into the open. Ralph Poland, a Wheeler County Commissioner, said he was scared of what would happen if the state's groundwater ran dry. "I'm not against irrigation," he told the audience, "but I don't believe in investors that are here today and gone tomorrow."

He concluded his remarks by telling of an irrigation development that ended in "... a hell of a mess."

Jim Wolf said he is concerned about reduced stream flows and sandhills area water pollution. Under questioning by board members Wolf admitted a control area likely wouldn't have pollution regulations, but added establishing a control area would allow more time to deal with the groundwater pollution problem.

Duane Pont, a Lower Loup director, reminded a Wolf no other control areas have pollution controls. Wolf agreed and then stated sandhills areas are special because liquids pass through them so quickly.

Pont asked what controls would exist for irrigating with river water. Lower Loup manager Richard Beran replied a water control area would have none. It covers ground water only, he told the board.

Duane suggested it appeared that people along the river wanted the control district while those elsewhere didn't. Just Wagoner stated use of the river water is controlled. Beran added water masters check pumping rates, etc.

Sam Clark, a fertilizer salesman, testified that no one would deny that some areas of the state do have groundwater pollution problems. He maintained proper use of fertilizers wouldn't cause pollution. Most pivots, he told the board, aren't used to apply liquid nitrogen. Anhydrous ammonia is used instead, he said.

Wolf countered by saying he is still concerned about pollution, regardless of the amount.

Another audience member said he was on the fence about this thing. Part of the nitrogen found in groundwater could come from former feedlots in the Wood River area, and other places, he suggested. He maintained efforts other than a water control area could be used to stop pollution.

A NRD director suggested monitoring groundwater could be one way of fighting pollution.

Duane Swanson said comments made gave everyone some "... food for thought." People may not have a true picture of the way sandhills residents feel, he said. The power of suggestion has a lot to do with the answer given a question, he contended.

Most sandhills areas don't have declining ground water levels, according to Swanson. Economic elements including fertilizer prices and fuel costs would curtail problems usually associated with large irrigation developments, he told directors.

"Let us," he urged, "be good students of the free enterprise system."

Wolf again stated that at a hearing all ideas would be heard.

After discussing the potential role of the NRD board in a water control area situation and possible regulations, Lower Loup directors voted 16-2 to request a hearing.

NL-S Homecoming Royalty Crowned

Karen Jensen and Kevin Sheldon were crowned North Loup-Scottia Homecoming Royalty Wednesday, October 24. They and members of their court were revealed following the North Loup-Scottia game with Wolbach.

Queen Karen Jensen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jensen. The North Loup-Scottia High student is active in volleyball, chorus, and cheerleading. Karen lists her hobbies as swimming and sewing and states that she plans to attend college.

King Kevin Sheldon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sheldon. His interests are football, basketball, and track. A member of the student council, he has hobbies that include woodwork and art. Kevin plans to attend Kearney State College.

Prince - Princess
Mike Goldfish was named Homecoming Prince and Karen Clement, the '79 Homecoming Princess. Karen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Clement. Mike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Goldfish.

Other members of the court were Diane Bremer, Annette Pecta, Dawn Hartman, Terry Meyer, Chuck Abel, and Gene Freeman.

The royalty candidates were selected by pep club and football team members in balloting earlier this month. Students cast votes deciding which of the 10 finalists picked by club and team members should be the new King and Queen.

GOING SHOPPING ... "I remember once when you wrote a column about going shopping," she told me. "Only it wasn't a shopping list for grocery items and that ... instead, it was for things like Patience, Humility and goodnesses of that kind ... Do you remember it?" she asked.

I remembered it. Yes ... but not it's exact wording. So, I did some searching and I found it ... back, many columns ago. I'm glad to go over it again as it is a good reminder to me, too, that I must go shopping — soon!

"One of these days I must go shopping. I am completely out of SELF-RESPECT. I want to exchange the SELF-RIGHTEOUSNESS I picked up the other day for some HUMILITY, which they say is less expensive and wears better.

I want to look at some TOLERANCE which is being used for wraps this season, and someone showed me some pretty samples of PEACE; we are low on that and we can never have too much of it.

By the way, I must try to match some PATIENCE that my neighbor wears. It is very becoming to her, and I think would look equally good on me. I might try that garment of LONG-SUFFERING that they are displaying. I never thought I would want to wear it. And I must not forget to have my SENSE OF HUMOR mended, and look for some inexpensive EVERYDAY GOODNESS.

It is surprising how quickly one's stock of goods is depleted. Yes, I must go shopping soon!

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Edghill will make their home in Ord.

Twila Fuehrer-Alan Edghill Exchange Vows In Evening Ceremony at Methodist Church

Miss Twila Rose Fuehrer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Fuehrer of Cotesfield, and Alan Lee Edghill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Edghill of Ord, were united in marriage in a seven o'clock evening ceremony at the United Methodist Church in Ord on October 19, 1979. Rev. Curtis Trenhaile officiated.

Mrs. Shirley Karre of Ord was organist, and Mrs. Jeneane Abel of North Loup was pianist. Vocalists were Brenda Abel and Reba Ackles, both of Ord. The musical selections included "Evergreen" and "The Wedding Song."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chiffon and Venice lace, accented with tiny seed pearls. The high neck was trimmed with Venice lace and pearls. The bodice of chiffon had a wide inset at the waistline which had large appliques of Venice lace and pearls. The full sheer skirt fell into a chapel length train. The Camelot headpiece was of Venice lace with a two tier fingertip veil edged with Venice lace. She carried a bouquet of peach and white daisies, accented with baby's breath and peach lace streamers.

The bride's attendant was Roxanne Davis of Scotia, who wore a floor length gown of peach satin with a lace covered bodice. The flower girl was Elisa Preslicka of Bradshaw, niece of the bride. She wore a white gown with peach accents. Candle lighters were Angela Fuehrer of Benedict, niece of the bride, and Becki Edghill of Ord, niece of the groom. They wore long dresses of peach satin, similar to the bridesmaid, complimented by daisy corsages.

Alan Heisner of Ord served as the groom's best man. He wore a chocolate saxon tuxedo with a peach colored shirt. Johnny Edghill of Ord, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer. He was dressed in a white tuxedo with a peach colored shirt, identical to the groom. Seating the guests were Don Edghill of Ord, brother of the groom, and David Fuehrer of Sidney, brother of the bride.

A reception, immediately following the service, was held at the Ord Elks Lodge. Cutting and serving the four-tiered cake were Mrs. Louis Barnes of Greeley, Mrs. Dale Beran of Ord and Mrs. Earl Fuehrer of Benedict. Linda Fuehrer of Albion and Electa Preslicka of Bradshaw served coffee and punch. Chrystal Edghill tended the gift table and Reba Ackles registered the guests. A dance followed the reception.

Special guests at the wedding were grandparents of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Fuehrer of Fullerton and Mrs. George Barnes of Scotia, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ketz of Grand Island, great aunt and uncle of the bride. Upon their return from a wedding trip through the southern states, the couple will live in Ord.

Rehearsal Dinner Following the wedding rehearsal the evening of October 18, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Edghill were hosts for dinner at the Ord Elks Lodge. Their guests, with Twila Fuehrer and Alan Edghill, included members of the wedding party, family members and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. James Arehart ... will make their home in Kearney

Janitta Wagoner-James Arehart Marriage Vows Exchanged at United Methodist Church in Arcadia

The Arcadia United Methodist Church was the setting October 6 for the 7 p.m. wedding ceremony of Janitta Marie Wagoner and James R. Arehart, both of Kearney. Rev. Charles Moorer performed the traditional service in the presence of 200 guests.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Evelyn Wagoner of Arcadia and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Arehart of Wilcox.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Carl Maas of Mapleton, IA, wore a gown of Chantilly lace featuring a bouffant skirt with ruffled accents forming an apron effect. The "V" neckline was edged with a wide ruffe of Chantilly lace. A narrow satin ribbon threaded through lace marked the fitted waistline. The chiffon bishop sleeves featured elbow length lace and fitted cuffs. The bride's headpiece consisted of a Chantilly lace bonnet-cap with a three-tiered fingertip length veil edged with matching lace plus a poof face veil.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Kris Debord of Kearney with Cindy Wagoner and Laurie Wagoner, sisters of the bride, as bridesmaids. Flower girl was Remona Spaulding from Mapleton, IA, cousin of the bride. Serving as best man was Stew Wisman of Franklin. Ushers were Mark Arehart, Steve Arehart, John Arehart, and Bruce Arehart.

Lighting the candles were Craig Worn of Kearney and Jane Arehart, sister of the groom. Special music during the ceremony included "The Wedding Song", "Time in a Bottle", "We've Only Just Begun", and "The Lord's Prayer."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Methodist Church Parlors.

The couple is making their home at 1323 Ave C in Kearney where she attends Kearney State College and he works for Bamford Plumbing.

NL-S Homecoming Warmed By A Win

Alike Goldfish (23) eludes some Wolbach Mustangs during Wednesday's game at Scotia.

Would You Believe A-66-6 Victory?

The North Loup-Scottia Wildcats celebrated their homecoming Wednesday with a 66-6 win over Wolbach. This is the first time in four years, according to NL-S coach Dennis Butts, that his Wildcats have won that old rivalry.

"I really didn't expect this kind of a game," he told the Quiz in an interview after the game. "It really surprised me. I thought it would be a lot tougher." The Wildcats scored every time they had the ball in the first half. In the first two quarters the Cats ran up 44 points. In the second half, substitutions were frequently made. Yet NL-S got 22 points on the board. Wolbach played six points late in the fourth quarter. They came on a pass from Tim Walsh, a 104 pound 9th grader to Joe Killinger, a 136 pound 10th grader.

Leading scorers for North Loup-Scottia were Scott Hansen and Kevin Sheldon. Each had three touchdowns. Lyndon Beebe was next highest with two.

Next Friday, North Loup-Scottia goes to Elba. That will likely be a tougher game, Coach Butts suspected. Elba has won their last two games. Those were against Arcadia and Litchfield. Kick off time is 7:30 p.m.

Wednesday's win boosts North Loup-Scottia's record to 6-2. Wolbach falls to 3-5.

Ord Third in The Loup City Spiker Tourney

Ord finished third in the Loup City volleyball tournament Thursday, bowing to Ansley 12-15 and 4-15.

Ord was on the defensive most of the night, according to Ord coach Jan Weber, and had trouble setting the ball up for an attack. Bumping errors kept the ball from getting to the front row.

Ansley made it to the finals and downed Class B Grand Island Northwest. Weber warned this proves the old adage, "Never underestimate a good class C team." Ansley wasn't an especially tall team, she recalled, but the girls really could spike.

In the consolation match, Ord defeated Litchfield 18-16 and 15-7 Thursday. "We had more chances to spike well," Weber said. This was helped along by better setting.

Litchfield wasn't as aggressive as Ansley in their attack, but did have good serves. Ord had a real battle in the first game, but came through 18-16. The second game was easier.

Barb Kittle had eight ace attacks and Nancy Gogan six to pace Ord to a victory. Kittle also had four ace serves. Kittle was high point gal with seven to her credit. Nancy Gogan, Anne Smith, and Cindy Kamarad each had six.

In the Ansley match Nancy Gogan was the top scorer with six points.

Team remains undefeated with an 8-0 record. Last week they blitzed preet Burwell 15-1, 15-1, 15-1, in three games. High scorer for that wipe-out was Gretchen Rischling with 14 points.

Monday night this week, they blasted Taylor 15-0, 15-3, and 15-5. Monica Kamarad served all 15 points in the first game and ended the evening with 15 points to her credit.

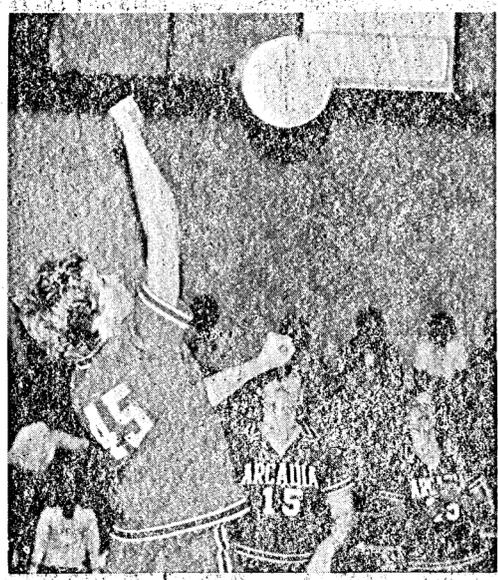

Ord next takes on Arcadia here this Sunday.

Ord Chants Sack Broken Bow 19-7

By Anne Smith
The Ord Chants headed into Indian territory and won the battle Broken Bow fell to the Chants Wednesday night, 19-7.

Ord again took control with a Mike Williams interception at the 35 yard line. The Chants took the ball all the way down to score, but it was nullified by a holding penalty, bringing the ball back to give Ord a second and 1. A pass from Witherwax to Mike Williams put Keith Pelton at the 5-yard line. One play later he took it in for the score. The point after was deflected by the Indians. With 33 seconds left in the first quarter it was Ord 13 - Broken Bow 7.

The Chants didn't score in the third quarter, but with three minutes left in the fourth quarter a hand off from Witherwax to Williams, set Williams up for a pass to Gary Mulligan. He went in for the score. The PAT was no good but Ord still had the lead 19-7, the final score.

Chris Holcomb (45) returns an attack during the Sandhills game Friday as Deb Einspahr (15) stands ready to assist.

Huskies Are on a Winning Streak

The Huskies snagged another victory to improve their record to 5-6. The Arcadia bus carried the girls to play the Sandhills Panthers October 26th.

After the long ride the reserve girls didn't play too well. The Panthers defeated the Huskies in two straight sets. Everyone on the reserve team got a chance to play and get some experience.

Cheryl Lewandowski played a good game. Cheryl was the leading server with 7 points and the leading spiker with 10 spikes out of 13 attempts. Neta Bulger played a good game at the net; she had 7 out of 7 spikes and 6 out of 6 sets. Teresa Sahlie and Teresa Holeman led the way in setting. Teresa Sahlie had 11 sets and Teresa Holeman had 8 sets.

The varsity Huskies were ready to play volleyball when they came onto the floor. The girls, trying to end the season with a winning record, really wanted to win this game. Everyone had a really good game and they beat the Panthers in two sets.

The Huskies had a really good night at the net. Teresa Einspahr was the leading setter, setting 26 out of 26. Deb Smith had a good night setting also with 20 out of 20 sets.

Pam Gogin had a great night spiking. Pam went up 21 times and had 18 successful spikes with 5 aces. Deb Smith smacked 8 out of 9 spikes with one ace.

Delbie Einspahr had 13 points out of 17 serves to lead the Huskies to their victory.

The Huskies have two more games to play before they go into District action. The girls go on the road to play the Wildcats of North Loup-Scottia October 30th, and the Shamrocks of Spalding Academy November 1st.

New Deer Hunting Law

A new law that prohibits hunting coyotes or anything other than deer with high-powered rifles or handguns during the firearm deer season will be in effect for the first time during the 1979 season, November 10 through 18.

The law was designed to eliminate much of the illegal hunting that has taken place during past deer seasons, according to Carl Gettmann, chief of the Game and Parks Commission's Law Enforcement Division. "In the past, our conservation officers would meet people in the field carrying rifles and obviously hunting deer. But, when asked to show their deer permit, they would reply that they didn't need one, since they were hunting coyotes, prairie dogs or some other unprotected species."

"In many cases, the subject would be walking with others who had deer permits, obviously intending to 'help' them bag a deer if the opportunity arose. Other times, the unlicensed hunter might be alone, looking to 'help' himself to some illegal venison," Gettmann said.

Gettmann noted that the law is clear and easily understood. The law says, in part, that "during the firearm deer season, wild animals other than deer may be hunted only with a shotgun or .22 rimfire rifle or .22 rimfire handgun."

Gettmann said that, during the nine days of firearm deer season, persons in the field hunting with a high-powered rifle must have a deer permit, and can use that rifle only on deer. That eliminates the opportunity for legal deer hunters to take a coyote, should they happen across one while looking for a deer.

The only exception is that the law allows farmers and ranchers and their immediate family to use large-caliber rifles on their land during deer season.

Arcadia Nudged By Dunning 16-30

The Huskies travelled to Dunning last Friday, for the last road game of the 1979 season against the Sandhills Panthers. The Arcadia squad played a much improved game over the previous week's loss to Elba, but were still unable to come out on top as the Huskies lost by a 14 point deficit, 16-30.

Sandhills broke through the Arcadia defense late in the first period for a touchdown, but the Huskies bounced back and earned a safety on the Panther's next possession. Arcadia was unable to score in the second and third quarters, but came through with 14 points in the final period. Penalties and fumbles once again proved to be the Huskies main problem.

This week's miserable weather will find the Huskies facing the Wolbach Mustangs. The game will be played on the Huskies home turf and the outcome of the game will decide which team will receive last place in the conference standings, as both teams enter the game with 1-6 records.

The Huskies reserve squad (1-0-1) will play a game against the Sargent reserves at Arcadia at 3:00 this coming Monday, November 5.

Ord Gets Surprising Upset In C-10 Spiker Tournament

It was a night of upsets and frustration at the Central 10 Conference Volleyball Tournament in Aurora Tuesday night. Teams that should have been winning weren't. Ord was included in that category.

The gal Chants were edged by Seward Bluejays in two out of three games. The third rtrted Jays in the east division nudged second rated Ord, west division, 15-4, 13-15, and 9-15.

Fifth ranked Aurora defeated top rated Albion while Grand Island Northwest provided a real surprise. The gal Vikings nudged the York Dukers, a perennial powerhouse in women's athletics.

Ord coach Jan Weber stated this was the first time she could remember when neither York nor Ord were in second round action at the conference tournament level.

The frustrated and puzzled Ord coach admitted she wasn't sure what caused the surprise upset in the Ord-Seward match. "I just don't know," she said in a telephone interview Wednesday morning.

"I don't have the answer. I guess things just weren't going our way."

The Ord team's serving was up where she wanted it, in the 90 percent bracket. Barb Kittle had 17 ace spikes and Nancy Gogan had 8.

"I felt we played well the first game," Weber said. In the second and third Ord was down but worked their way back in a solid team effort.

Weber speculated mental errors and a poor defense may have caused Ord's unexpected loss. The girls seemingly couldn't set the ball up to the spikers to hit it over the net.

Another factor mention was Seward's ability to dink the ball over the net. Ord apparently had trouble handling that often tricky play.

Anne Smith led Ord's setting with eight ace sets. Leading scorers were Anne Smith with 8 points and Nancy Gogan with 7.

Going into semifinal round action it will be Aurora against Grand Island Northwest and Seward against the winner of the David City - Schuyler game. They will meet Thursday, November 1.

In scheduled district competition at Bartlett, Ord will play Valentine Moaday, November 5 at 4:45 p.m. Other matches that day include: Ainsworth - Broken Bow; Albion - Loup City; St. Paul - O'Neill.

Theatre Caravan Coming to Scotia

The NEBRASKA Theatre Caravan production of the American Folk Musical The Robber Bridegroom, which will be performed at 8 p.m. November 7, at the NLS H.S. Auditorium, is an evening of musical entertainment with quite a story behind it. Community Playhouse, the Caravan's home theatre, was invited to be the sole representative of the Western Hemisphere at the International Amateur Theatre Festival in Bulgaria. The theatre accepted this great honor and decided to perform its spring musical, The Robber Bridegroom, at the festival because of its roots in authentic American folklore.

The Robber Bridegroom was a big success in its run at the Omaha Community Playhouse and was named best musical of the year by the Metropolitan Actor's Guild. A large fund raising variety show was staged to raise the money for the Bulgaria trip. Then, last June, the cast of The Robber Bridegroom, along with a dozen technicians and well-wishers boarded a plane to go to the festival in Blagoevgrad, Bulgaria. The reception by the Europeans of the American company was overwhelming. Most had never seen a live musical-comedy, and the singing, dancing, and general high spirits of the show made it the highlight of the festival.

Rudy Rutar, Torrington, WY was a Sunday afternoon visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Art John.

Energy Day to Be at Elks Club November 8

Appointment Told

Ken Collins of Ord has been appointed by V.F.W. National Commander-in-Chief Howard E. Vander Clute of Montvale, NJ to serve as a National Aide-de-Camp for 1979-80. Mr. Collins is a member of V.F.W. Post 7029. Vander Clute, head of the nearly two million member organization of overseas veterans commented, "It is because of the tireless efforts of civic minded citizens like Mr. Collins that the veterans and communities the V.F.W. serves have been affected in a positive manner." Our programs touch every citizen in the community; they help the young, the old, the Vietnam veteran, the World War I veteran. I am pleased to make this appointment because I know Mr. Collins will do an outstanding job for the V.F.W. Our theme for this year is "In Front of the Rest," and that means the veteran, his community and his country.

Ord Girl Scouts will be selling calendars November 1-15. According to Scout officials two styles are available: a wall calendar and a pocket model. Funds from the sales will help support the troop's activities.

Ringlein Chosen To Attend Meeting

Nancy Ringlein daughter of Cletus Ringlein of Ord, is one of 13 Kearney State College students chosen to represent each of the residence halls at the regional meeting of the International Association of Colleges and University Residence Halls. The meeting will be held October 31 to November 3 at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley. Students from Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, Arizona, and New Mexico will also attend the conference. Nancy is representing Centennial Towers East, of which she is dorm vice president. Nancy will become president of the hall in January.

North Loup Rites For C. Ingerson

Cloyd William Ingerson, son of James Eber and Addie Myers Ingerson was born September 2, 1906 in Worthington, Minnesota and died October 24, 1979 at the Valley County Hospital at the age of 73.

At an early age, Cloyd moved with his family to Nebraska and settled in Valley County where he attended school. His boyhood was spent working on his father's farm. On June 17, 1933, he married Rozella Barrows in Hastings. Cloyd did some farming and was custodian of the North Loup Public Schools for ten years. He then worked for the Paramount Popcorn Company and was transferred to Lawrence, Kansas in 1954. Later he was employed by the Lawrence Public Schools where he did maintenance and woodworking. In 1971, he and Rozella retired and moved back to North Loup. Cloyd was a member of the North Loup United Methodist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Rozella; five daughters, Sylvia Cook of North Loup, Judy Krue of Anchorage, AK, Vida Whitaker of Lenexa, KS, Barbara Webb of Anchorage, AK, Gonda Lilly of Osage City, KS; one son, Kenneth of San Diego, CA; 12 grandchildren; two great grandchildren; and two sisters, Ruth Creager of Creighton and Birdene Ingerson of Grand Island. He was preceded in death by his parents, two sisters, his brother and a granddaughter.

Funeral services were held Friday, October 26, 1979 at 2 p.m. at the United Methodist Church in North Loup with Rev. Ruth Mooter officiating, assisted by Rev. Victor Skaggs. A quartet, consisting of Dan Richards, Phillip Van Horn, Merlyna Van Horn, and Victor Skaggs, sang "Spring of Living Water" and "The Riches of Love". Jeneane Abel was the organist for the quartet and for the congregational singing. Pallbearers were Victor Cook, Dale Mulligan, Robert Edwards, Willis Coleman, Emil Zedins, and Wayne Sheldon. Honorary pallbearers were William Earnest, Bill Cook, Cecil Kopp, Stanley Brown, Harold Fisher, Eldon Sintek, Nels Jorgensen, Clyde Keowa, and Francis Ward. Burial was in the Hillside Cemetery in North Loup with Ord Memorial Chapel in charge of arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Chad Miller and Cory were Wednesday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Odenbach.

Sheriff Report

Sheriff responded at 3 a.m. 10-26-79 to a one vehicle accident 6 miles north of Arcadia on "9 mile road". A 1973 Ford pickup driven by Darwin Wolf of route 1 Burwell was southbound when it rolled off a steep shoulder and landed on top of Wolf. He was not injured and the pickup had about $1000 damage. Wolf explained that the accident happened at about 12:15 a.m. when he tried to run over a coyote on the roadway.

At 2:15 p.m. 10-24-79 a 1963 truck driven by Adam Zebert of Ord was making a left turn off of highway #11 two miles south of Elyria when a 1974 Ford truck driven by Mary Wewel of Burwell collided with the rear of the Chevy truck. There were no injuries. The Zebert truck received minor damage while the Wewel vehicle received about $2000 damage.

Received a report on 10-26-79 from Bill Janda that someone had punctured a float in a stock tank on his farm 14 N.E. of Ord. It appears that float was host by a 22 cal. or similar slug.

Deputy Don Rogers successfully completed his certification training at the Nebr. Law Enforcement Training Center and graduated in ceremonies on Friday 10-26-79. The eight week, 341 hour course included 80 hours of basic law, 36 hours of human dimension, 48 hours patrol, 58 hours of investigation, and 104 hours of skills such as firearms, driving, and practice exercises. Graduation address was by Lt. Gov. Luedtke.

Whose Special Interests?

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION

By M. M. Van Kirk, Director of Information

The frequency of editorials in the state's metropolitan newspapers attacking the personal property tax exemption law and statements made at tax study committee hearings should alert Nebraska farmers and ranchers that a redoubled effort to repeal or drastically alter those exemptions is pending.

Main target of these forces is the 1977 personal property tax exemption which called for total exemption of personal property taxes on farm equipment in 1978, business inventories in 1979 and livestock in 1980. The law set a limit of $70 million on the total annual reimbursements to be made by the State from sales and income tax sources to the counties to compensate for their loss of personal property tax revenues. It is contended that the formula for distribution of such reimbursements to the counties should be revamped to overcome the factor of obsolescence as time passes.

However, one remedy suggested, that of restoring 25 percent of the personal property tax, would mean returning to enumeration of all farm and business personal property. Under such an arrangement, owners of farm and business personal property would live under constant threat of reverting to payment of 100 percent of the tax.

Those who have opposed the concept of personal property tax exemption have never recognized that it is basically an unfair tax, and they do not even mention that factor in their arguments now. Yet it is the main reason that more than 30 of the 50 states have eliminated personal property taxes in favor of other forms of taxes.

The inequity is that taxpayers such as farmers and businessmen must own large amounts of personal property to earn their living, in contrast to those who need little or no personal property. . . for example, executives, salesmen, skilled workers, lawyers, professors, newspaper editors, bankers, etc. Farmers and business people pay the same sales and income taxes as do all other taxpayers, but have historically had to bear the extra burden of personal property taxes.

A cattle feeder might lose $100 per head on his cattle at market time as was common a couple of years ago, and at the same time be obligated for personal property taxes on those cattle, using updated valuation figures. A farmer could lose his crops to drought or hail and still owe for the personal property taxes on the array of machinery required for modern farming, valued at guideline figures updated each year.

Farm and ranch people particularly, should not be misled and intimidated by charges that they are a "horrible special interest group" because they have supported elimination of the personal property tax inequity. Certainly they should not permit themselves to be conned into working for its restoration. Other states which have eliminated personal property taxes have not gone back to them nor have their taxes on real property had to make up for all the attendant reduction in local revenues.

It is ironic that the main clamor against the personal property tax exemption law is centered in Lincoln and Omaha which for 25 years prior to passage of the state's first sales and income tax law in 1967 had bitterly opposed all attempts to wean the State from its total reliance on property taxes. Yet soon after passage of that sales and income tax law, the major cities got legislative authorization to "muscle in" on the State's sales tax revenue by levying their own municipal sales taxes. The Omaha city sales tax is now at 1 1/2 percent, others are at 1 percent.

Who is looking for those "special interests"? One other tax issue which bears watching is the suggestion that the sales tax include services. Under such a tax, the farmer would again find himself paying not only the same taxes that everyone else pays but much more. He has trucks, tractors, and farm machinery on which repair bills can be a very large annual item. Such a tax could also be applied against veterinary services, custom farm work and many other farm service items.

Inflation caused primarily by federal deficit spending and financing is the main culprit behind spiraling state and local tax spending. There are many tax problems in Nebraska but they will not be solved by restoring old inequities and adding new ones.

AG TIPS FROM OUR COUNTY AGENT

By Al Martens

Coming Events:
November 8 — Energy Day, Energy Conservation on the farm and in the home, Ord Elk's Club, Ord, registration 9 a.m.
November 9 — Water Policy Choices, Decisions for the 1980's, Ord Elk's Club, Ord, registration 9 a.m.

Energy Day:
Area residents are invited to attend an Energy Day at the Ord Elk's Club, starting at 9 a.m. on November 8. Conservation of energy is important not only for economic reasons but also for environmental protection. This informative and educational meeting, sponsored by the Valley County Extension Service, will feature UNL Extension specialists and Lower Loup NRD personnel speaking on energy conservation in the home and on the farm.

The day will start with an "Energy Situation Overview" presented by Delbert Dickey, Extension Engineer in Conservation. The meeting will then divide into Agriculture and house groups. In the house area subjects covered will be: Energy Efficient Interiors; Home program on AGNET, Selection of Wood Burning Stoves — Fireplaces, and Solar Update. The Ag group will hear presentations on energy conservation in Pumping Plant Efficiency Tests, Row-crop Tillage Systems, Shelter Belts, Grain Alcohol Production, and Livestock Systems. Lunch will be available at the Elk's Club and will be Dutch Treat. Call in meal reservations to the Extension Office by November 5 if you plan to attend.

Fall Grazing of Alfalfa:
A common practice of many livestock producers is to graze alfalfa in the fall rather than harvest it for hay or leave it as a mulch.

The final hay harvest should have been at least one month prior to the first killing frost to reduce the winter injury potential. During this month of regrowth the alfalfa plant accumulates food reserves in its root system. This enables the plant to survive the winter and to begin growth in the following spring. After frost, alfalfa goes dormant so regrowth accumulated at this time can be grazed. There is also little risk of bloat after frost due to the freezing and drying of the alfalfa plant.

Cattle should not be allowed to overgraze alfalfa during fall. A stubble of six inches is often desired to catch and hold snow to prevent winter injury and to provide moisture for spring growth.

Dead Battery?
Use Safety Tips:
The National Society to Prevent Blindness says that a dead car battery can be dangerous. Thousands of battery explosions occur every year, and nearly two-thirds of the resulting injuries involve the eye. To prevent these potentially blinding explosions, the Society recommends the following procedure: BEFORE ATTACHING THE CABLES — Put out all cigarettes and flames. A spark can ignite hydrogen gas from the battery fluid so do not use matches or lighters to inspect the battery.

— Make sure the cars don't touch each other. Set both cars' parking brakes and automatic shifts to park (manual transmission should be left in neutral), and turn the ignition off.

— If removable, take off the battery caps and add water if fluid in the dead battery is low. Check for ice in the battery fluid. Never attempt to jump start a battery with the caps and cover with wet cloth.

— Do not jump start unless both batteries are the same voltage. American cars have either 12-volt batteries (usually with six filler ports) or 6-volt (with three ports). Owners of foreign cars should check their operating manuals for emergency starting directions.

TO ATTACH THE CABLES
— Connect one jumper cable clamp to the positive (+) pole of the dead battery. Clamp the other end of the same cable to the positive (+) pole of the booster battery. Avoid touching the clamps to each other because it might create a spark.

— Stay at the booster battery and connect the second cable to the negative (-) pole. Then clamp the other end of that cable to the engine block of the car with the dead battery — as far away from the battery as possible.

— Start the car with the good battery and then the disabled car. Remove the cable attached to the engine block and the booster car's negative terminal. Then disconnect the positive cable from both batteries.

Protective goggles will keep battery fragments and acid out of the eyes and should be worn by anyone working with batteries, but if battery acid gets into the eyes in some way, immediately flush them with water for 15 minutes making certain the eyelids are held open.

Student Teaching Assignments Are In Area Schools

Two University of Nebraska students will begin vocational agriculture student teaching Monday, October 29, in area schools. The two are part of 21 students doing their practice teaching assignments in towns across Nebraska.

James E. Swink, Jr. of Lincoln, will student teach at Ord. He will be supervised by Frank Andriessen. Swink has majors in agriculture and natural resources.

Robin Gaebler of New Salem, ND, has a practice teaching assignment in North Loup-Scottia Schools. An ag major, he will have Rolland Essman serving as his supervisor.

Ordites Attend Red Cross Meeting
The American Red Cross held its first Cornhusker Division Conference on Saturday, Oct. 20, in Kearney with three from Ord attending.

Robert Moyer, Valley County Red Cross Chairman and a member of the State Advisory Council, attended the state meeting on Friday and was one of the moderators at the conference on Saturday.

Mrs. Clark Weckbach, Blood Services Chairman, and Hazel Gudmundsen attended the conference on Saturday.

The American Red Cross Blood Services Midwest Regional Blood Conference will be held November 3 from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the new blood center headquarters in Omaha. Mrs. Clark Weckbach plans to attend and anyone else who wishes to attend can call her.

Jolly Neighbors Club
Ghosts and goblins greeted the Jolly Neighbors Extension Club when they met with Gert Wagner on Tuesday evening, October 23. Pam Arnold opened the meeting with a reading, Ellen Bonne led the group in singing. Twelve members answered roll call by naming a helpful hint.

Bernadine Lange gave the citizenship report and Ruth Dlugosh gave the safety report. Evelyn Jackson gave the reading report. Velma Warner reported that nine members enjoyed the supper on October 17. Pam Arnold reported that Achievement Day would be held in Arcadia on October 30. Members were also reminded to bring their crafts to the November meeting. Gert Wagner gave an interesting lesson entitled, "Time Takers or Time Makers."

The next meeting will be at the home of Mary Ann Bonne on November 27.

Down Legislature's Way

With Senator Donald L. Wagner

Within a little over two months in early January, Nebraska's 86th Legislature will start its second session — the short 60-day Session. According to Senator Don Wagner of Ord, there will be many key issues up for consideration. He feels the two most outstanding issues will be water and taxes.

Of these two issues he indicated there will be two meetings pertaining to water which will be held in Central Nebraska and should be of interest to those in that area.

The first meeting will be on November 9, 1979, at the Ord Elk's Club. It starts at 9 a.m. and will continue until approximately 4 p.m. The theme will be "Water Policy Choices and Decisions for the 1980's," and will bring about topics such as an overview of Nebraska water situations, state water planning and review process, problems or issues of local importance, priority issues, etc. The Cooperative Extension Service and the county agents will be your hosts.

The second meeting is actually a public hearing being held by the Public Works Committee in Grand Island on November 13, 1979, starting at 10 a.m. in the Conestoga Mall Civic Room, Highway 281 and 13th Street. The hearing will relate to the Committee's water study resolution but will also include the review of draft legislation which pertains to four major concerns. These are:

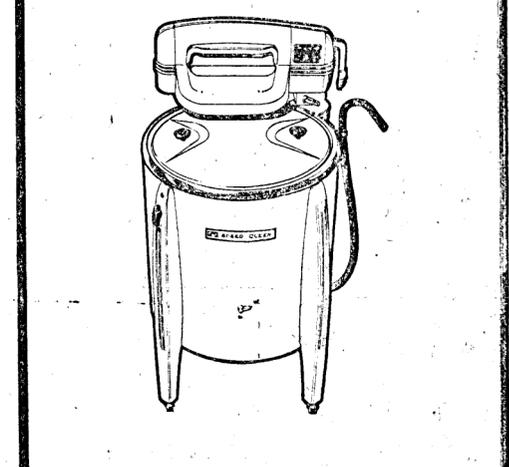

1. Registration, spacing, and check value requirements for wells.
2. Where surface water withdrawals by wells interfere with surface water users.
3. Ground water transfers for cities and rural domestic purposes.
4. Changes in the Ground Water Management Act.

Item number 4, which proposes changes in the Ground Water Management Act may be of the most interest to those people North of Burwell and Ericson or in that general area since some people are thinking about a ground water control area. Some of the changes in the Ground Water Management Act would be to change the criteria; change management authorities of the NRD's, both within and outside of the ground water control area; allow the Director of the Department of Water Resources to initiate a hearing on his own and give the NRD the authority to increase the mill levy within the control area.

The Public Works Committee will accept written comments on this proposed legislation and should someone want to submit a written statement, please contact my office in Lincoln or my home in Ord and I will send you a copy of the draft for your review so you may submit your written comments to the Public Works Committee.

Solon Considers Sponsoring Reclamation Related Bill

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Lincoln — Springfield Sen. Orval Keyes says he's thinking about sponsoring a bill to assure all those affected by reclamation district projects would be entitled to vote on proposals dealing with the district.

According to Keyes, present election procedures forestall the receiving of opinions from some persons who would be directly affected by a district project. And the Springfield lawmaker argues residents currently ineligible to ballot on such projects should have a right to vote if their land would be flooded.

The concern of Keyes has also been expressed by other landowners and organizations, including the Nebraska Agri-Water Council.

law, a prospective director must petition to have his name placed on the ballot for consideration in a general, at-large election.

Knox said he is also against proposals to make NRD elections partisan and to nominate NRD director candidates in a primary election and elect them from subdistricts in a general election.

There are, however, some who favor subdistrict elections. These persons have argued accountability and public education are needed to make sure voters know their representatives.

Simants to be Evaluated

By the time this appears in print, Erwin Charles Simants probably will have been transferred to the Lincoln Regional Center for evaluation.

A Lancaster County District Court jury recently found Simants innocent by reason of board and to order the board to determine whether the person is mentally ill and a threat to society.

Hartman says it appears to him the board "may want us to possibly evaluate this individual to see if we think he is mentally ill and dangerous."

The verdict in the Simants case triggered a number of editorials in the Nebraska press calling for changes in state statutes permitting persons found innocent by reason of insanity to go free eventually.

Simants was tried for the six slayings twice. He admitted the killings but pleaded insanity as a defense. He was found guilty after his first trial in North Platte, but the verdict was set aside by the state Supreme Court which said the Lincoln County sheriff, a prosecution witness, had had improper contact with Early during the 1979 legislative session, Warner's committee adopted a policy to hold the state budget increase to 7 percent, a move designed to prevent increases in state taxes.

Warner says there is no way state aid programs could be increased significantly while keeping the 7 percent limit in the budget.

The status of the federal revenue-sharing program will also have an impact on the state budget. If the money-sharing program is abandoned, or reduced substantially, it will necessarily affect the committee's spending blueprint.

Nebraska receives $15.6 million in the revenue sharing funds.

State Buying New Plane

The state is buying a used 1978 twin-engine Duchess aircraft to replace the one damaged in a forced landing on Sept. 21, state Aeronautics Director Wayne Andersen announced recently.

The plane is being purchased from the Airway Services Inc. of Sioux City, Iowa, for $89,750.

The plane that was damaged, a Bonanza, was a single-engine craft. After the forced land, it was declared a total loss, and the Department of Aeronautics — value restoration —

Watching the gathering storm clouds, outside my window, and listening to forecasts of the first major snowstorm of the season, I'm happy I've taken advantage of the past two weeks of Indian summer to enjoy the beauties and splendors of our state.

Earlier this fall I'd been invited to Minatare, Nebraska, to speak to a class of seniors. Though Minatare is further than I usually travel, I hadn't been in Western Nebraska in many years and I thought this might be a good opportunity for a mini-vacation. So I accepted.

Allowing a day's driving time, each way, and a day in the Scottsbluff area, I decided I'd enjoy the drive and the scenery and pause at any points of interest along the way. That's exactly what I did.

Needing a can of pop as I approached Paxton, heading west, I visited Ole's Big Game Bar for the first time in many years and marvelled at the many hunters were preparing blinds in the Lewellen, Oshkosh and Lisco area. This famous hunting area has always intrigued me, though I gave up hunting, myself, many years ago. I thought of Ducklore Lodge and all I'd previously read, of the hunting in that area.

Learning, via phone, that Scottsbluff motels were filled, I found a comfortable room in Bayard and cleaned up before driving to Melbeta to eat at The Flame — a place I'd heard about from many friends. How often do you find a restaurant serving squid in a town of less than 100 population? Though I didn't have squid, the seafood I had was delicious.

Driving to Minatare the next morning, I watched machines digging sugar beets and saw huge piles of this Western Nebraska crop being stored for later

Grand Opening At Olson Sales

By Emma Zablouid

Olson Sales & Service Center, which is located one and a half miles east of Emmet, will be holding their grand opening Saturday, November 3. The event will also serve as the formal introduction of a new type of center pivot. Festivities include a formal ribbon cutting ceremony at 9:30 a.m. and a free barbecue from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The 5000 square foot building is being completely remodeled and will include two sales and display offices, a test and laboratory area, two conference rooms, a large parts department and shop area. The 20 acres surrounding the building will be utilized to display the complete line of new Olson center pivot systems. The balance of the outside space will be used to display used irrigation systems and shop area. The 20 acres surrounding the building will be utilized to display the complete line of new Olson center pivot systems.

Read the easy Rules below:

A $5 each prize will be given by the Ord Quiz each week to the person who picks the most winners from the games listed in each ad on this page. Here's all you do: Pick the team you think will win each game (there's one in each ad) and write that team's name in the corresponding blank in the special entry form provided here or a sheet of paper. For example: The team you pick to win game number 1 (found in the ad in the upper middle of this page) should be written in blank number 1 in the entry form.

Also indicate your predicted score of the tiebreaker game in the space provided. Then write your name and address in the space at the bottom of the entry blank and bring it to the Quiz office by Friday at 5:00 p.m. (you have 2 days to enter this contest.) Entries may be brought in or mailed in, but will not be accepted after the deadline.

Only one entry per person may be made each week. If more than one person in your family wishes to enter, you may write their guesses on a separate sheet of paper.

Should two or more persons guess the same number of winners, the one predicting the nearest to the actual score of the tiebreaker game will be judged the winner. Otherwise, the score of that game will not be considered. Decision of the judges will be final. The winner will be announced in the Ord Quiz each Thursday. Everyone is eligible except employees of the Ord Quiz and their immediate families.

Better get the family together and start picking...now! Extra entry blanks may be picked up at the Ord Quiz.

READ JOHN 1:35-42
(John 1:42 TLB)
"You are Simon... but you shall be called Peter, the rock!"
The human weakness of Peter is one of his most appealing traits. Tracing his spiritual pilgrimage through the New Testament, we find him beginning his discipleship with a high promise. We marvel at his spiritual perception at the Mount of Transfiguration. We grieve at his denial during Jesus' trial. But we rejoice at his spiritual renewal as he becomes Peter the apostle, evangelist, pastor, martyr.

When the Master looks at us, He sees not only what we are, but what He can enable us to become.

From Peter we can learn not to expect so much from ourselves that we become discouraged. We can also learn to depend more upon God. The grace of God does not change us unless we respond. It can change our outlook, and with our outlook, our attitudes. With changed attitudes we can become what we otherwise would never be.

In all our ups and downs, our successes and failures, and in all our disappointments and weakness, the Master says to us, "You are... you will be... follow me."

PRAYER: Lord of all, in all our fluctuations of spirit, help us to believe in Your purpose of love for our lives. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
Today I will respond to the grace of God.

Two Judges Are Appointed

The appointment of two Associate County Judges was revealed Thursday by Judges Roy E. Blixt and Keith Kovanda. Their appointments are Don Gugamus to serve in Blaine County and Barbara Strong to serve in Loup County. The father of Don Gugamus was a former Valley County resident. Barbara Strong also has Valley County ties.

Judge Blixt said, "In both instances we had quite a number of outstanding candidates, making the choices very difficult." Three people applied for the job in Blaine County. About a dozen applicants from Loup County were received.

The two vacancies were caused by the retirements of Ted Wirz in Blaine County and Florence Marshall in Loup County.

(John 1:42 TLB)
"You are Simon... but you shall be called Peter, the rock!"
The human weakness of Peter is one of his most appealing traits. Tracing his spiritual pilgrimage through the New Testament, we find him beginning his discipleship with a high promise. We marvel at his spiritual perception at the Mount of Transfiguration. We grieve at his denial during Jesus' trial. But we rejoice at his spiritual renewal as he becomes Peter the apostle, evangelist, pastor, martyr.

When the Master looks at us, He sees not only what we are, but what He can enable us to become.

From Peter we can learn not to expect so much from ourselves that we become discouraged. We can also learn to depend more upon God. The grace of God does not change us unless we respond. It can change our outlook, and with our outlook, our attitudes. With changed attitudes we can become what we otherwise would never be.

In all our ups and downs, our successes and failures, and in all our disappointments and weakness, the Master says to us, "You are... you will be... follow me."

PRAYER: Lord of all, in all our fluctuations of spirit, help us to believe in Your purpose of love for our lives. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
Today I will respond to the grace of God.

Council Inks Agreement for More Senior Citizen Housing

The City Council promised to provide various municipal services to yet another 30 unit senior citizen housing project during a meeting Monday in City Hall. According to Ord Mayor Richard Rowbal this latest project will be located in Federal Housing and Urban Development offices.

October first, City Council members acted on another 30 unit senior citizen housing plan. That one was with FHA.

Monday, council members appeared to have the two confused. Bob Moyer stated they were two separate projects. Moyer, an Ord Housing Authority member, said the projects will be an asset to the Ord area.

According to Moyer they will: — Bring money to Ord. — Open up a goodly number of homes now occupied by the elderly. — Provide housing to a long list of senior citizens.

The OHA member said he didn't think the City — OHA agreement signed Monday bound the city to anything. City Attorney Greg Jensen thought otherwise.

According to Jensen, the agreement pledges the City of Ord to provide various municipal services to this latest housing plan. These include paved streets, storm sewers, etc.

The agreement is formally known as a resolution authorizing an execution of a corporate agreement between the City of Ord and the Ord Housing Authority.

The location of either of the 30 unit housing developments isn't known yet. Moyer said he has some sites in mind, but nothing definite yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Stewart told council members they were shocked to learn city planned sewage lagoons will take 33 acres from their farm one mile north of Ord. Mrs. Stewart said she "never heard a word about..." the long planned project.

Mayor Rowbal vowed the City would keep the Stewarts informed of the treatment plant plans. The Environmental Protection Agency mandated installation of the expanded plant. Part of this is the lagoon or holding tank area.

Councilman Verlin Smith explained the city had purchased land in that area years ago for future expansion. It can't be used, he said, "... because the environmentalists would be on us."

The Stewarts asked if alternate sewage treatment plans were available. They were, Jensen said, but would cost too much.

"We hate to see the land go", Mrs. Stewart said. They had planned to leave their farm intact to their children.

Rowbal said he was "... sure we could work something out..." with the Stewarts. Mentioned last was the chance of buying 33 nearby acres and exchanging them for the needed land.

Annexed

The City annexed one block on the south end of 15th street. City Ordinance 395, passed Monday, covered that.

Council members received notice over $520,000 in building permits had been approved by City Utilities Commissioner Gene Baugh. The lump sum wasn't broken down into specific projects and the amounts.

Council members stated they wanted a complete list in the future. They had received an itemized list in the past.

The City Council adjourned at 10:00 p.m. after meeting two and a half hours. All members were present.

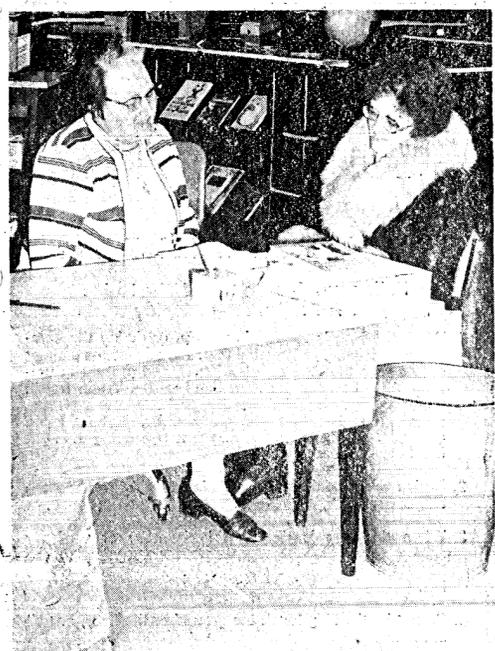

Phyllis Burger

Burger Named An Outstanding Young Woman

Phyllis Eileen Burger of Ord has been selected by the Board of Advisors of the Outstanding Young Women of America Awards Program for inclusion in the 1979 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America. Her complete biography will be presented in the annual awards volume.

The Outstanding Young Women of America Program is designed to honor and encourage exceptional young women between the ages of 21 and 36 who have distinguished themselves in their homes, their professions and their communities.

Farmer-Rancher Banquet Scheduled November 13

Area merchants will show their appreciation to farmers and ranchers November 13 at the Ord Elks Club. Starting at 7:00 p.m. farmers and ranchers will be guests of the Arcadia Boosters Club, the North Loup Lions Club, and the Ord Chamber of Commerce.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Rex Schultz of Omaha, vice-president of the Federal Land Mortgage Credit Bank. Charles Zungger of North Loup will be master of ceremonies.

Mike Schufel, a North Loup farmer and Rev. Charles Moorer of Mira Valley will also be on the program.

Music will be provided by the Arcadia Boosters Club.

Wind, Ice Blamed In One Truck Mishap

High winds and icy roads were blamed for a one-vehicle accident earlier this week. Chuck Ackles was going north on Highway 70, about a mile north of Ord. He lost control of the vehicle.

The 1979 GMC pickup slid into a ditch. Gene VanWinkle, an REA employee, had cuts and bruises. Ackles, the superintendent, escaped injury.

Ord Electric Supply Cut Wednesday

Snow and high winds caused power lines to snap last Wednesday, darkening sections of Ord. According to City Utilities Commissioner Gene Baugh, the city switched from the NPPD interconnect station to local generators when the power interruption occurred.

The city was without power for about an hour late Wednesday morning.

Preliminary Power Plant Report Will Soon Be Released

The preliminary draft of an impact report on the Comstock power plant will likely be released in the next few weeks, according to Ron Bogus, Nebraska Public Power District public relations spokesman. Bogus said the report will outline the plant's socio-economic impact on the Ord-Comstock area.

Donis N. Petersan has been scheduling appearances with city and county officials in the plant area recently. He will likely release his preliminary findings when meeting with the officials.

The cost of the power plant will start producing 650,000 kilowatts in 1986. The plant is needed to meet the nation's soaring electrical demand. A plant study was begun in 1974.

One of two sites near Comstock are being considered.

City Settles Law Suit Out of Court

The Ord City Council voted Monday to end a two year old lawsuit during their meeting in City Hall. City officials decided to settle a suit brought by the city, an insurance company and Marvin Timmons for $3,000.

The case involved an alleged scuffle, November 1977, between Timmons and former Ord Police Officer Terry Darnell and Cal Thelander. That ended, allegedly, with Timmons in a dentist's chair.

The city believed their employees were insured against lawsuits, like the one subsequently filed by Timmons. The Blumhous Casualty Company claimed it wasn't. Just what insurance coverage the city did and did not have was thrashed out by council members, the City Attorney, and representatives of a local insurance firm during a series of meetings.

Ord Mayor Richard Rowbal said Tuesday, "I don't think anything would have been accomplished by pursuing the matter further." The settlement was made on the advice of Greg Jensen from the City Attorney's office, according to Rowbal.

Jensen stated Wednesday he believed the out-of-court settlement was the best and quickest way to handle the matter. Under Nebraska law, Jensen stated, any suit against the police would have been brought back against the city.

Neither Darnell or Thelander have been on the local police force for some time.

Greeley School Bonds Defeated

Voters in the Greeley Public Schools District turned down new school and gym bond issues in balloting Tuesday. Plans for a new $840,000 school were sunk by a 222-213 vote. A proposed school gym, estimated cost of $342,000 was killed 275-161.

Greeley Public School principal Jim Beck said, "We thought for sure the school would pass. Our present one is outdated by 50 years."

He speculated the twin issues were rejected because voters were against the proposed site, four blocks northeast of the present school. Many, he told the Quiz, wanted the planned new additions nearer the grade school.

Try Again

School officials could try another bond issue in six months, he stated.

Ord Teens Plead Guilty to Charges

Three Ord teenagers pled guilty to criminal mischief charges in County Court here Thursday. During the arraignment the three were represented by Jim Kelly of Grand Island.

Bill Clamp, Sheryl Fuss, and Bill Mettgen were charged in connection with an incident at Ord High School principal Bob Shannon's home, September 18.

Shannon reportedly heard noises on the roof. On arriving, police found the chimney sealed with duct tape. The furnace chimney was nearly half sealed or taped.

The teenagers' first faced charges of committing felony criminal mischief and aiding and abetting in the same.

These were reduced early last month. That came after a report from the State Fire Marshal's Office and the Kansas-Nebraska Gas Company was completed. According to the report, there was little chance that physical harm would have resulted from the chimney tapings.

The amended charges carry maximum sentences and fines of 90 days imprisonment and a $500 fine, according to Greg Jensen of the County Attorney's office.

Sentencing will be after a presentence investigation. Jensen estimated the investigation would take 15 days.

FIRST PLACE GROUPS DIVISION — Prize went to Wendy and Mike Puckett and Kevin and John Seagren, and Sue McFadden, for their Wizard of Oz entry.

Town Enjoys a Quiet Halloween

This Halloween was a relatively quiet one, according to Ord Police. Two minor cases of vandalism were reported October 31.

Emanuel Slich, of rural Ord, reported the theft of a Goodwill collection box, at 14th and N, was ripped off. A large cable spool was rolled into Mildred Murphy's car. It was parked in front of the Florette, 1130 L. $100 damage.

Other items in this week's police report are:

- November 1. An unknown truck struck a light pole at 24th and W. A wire broke, causing street lights in west Ord to go out. The truck, believed to be red, was seen going west on L.
- November 3. A Farmall tractor was stolen. The machine, at 16th and J, belonged to Elmer Parkos of Ord. It was found in North Ord a short time later. A 66 year old Ord resident is being held in the county jail pending charges.
- November 3. A 1971 Ford Pinto and a 1967 Chevrolet sedan collided at 16th and L. The Ford, driven by Denise L. Lueck of Arcadia, was going south on 16th Street. The Chevrolet, driven by Ethel M. Dalby of Arcadia, was backing from a parking space. $75 damage to the Pinto. $50 to the Chevrolet.

Ghosts and Goblins Roam Ord's Streets

Winners in the annual Ord Chamber of Commerce Halloween parade were announced Friday, following a trek from the grade school park to the steps of the courthouse. The annual event was postponed two days by a snowstorm Wednesday.

Prizes were awarded the top three costumes in eight categories. Winners received script money from participating Ord stores.

The winners in order of their placing and their categories were:

- Pre-School and Kindergarten — Andy Markowski — Oscar the Grouch, Lane Hastings — Scarecrow, Troy and Justin Eppenbach — Pilgrims.
- First Grade — Gina McCready — Large Banana, Tod Studnicka — a 49'er, Patty Ahman — Indian Maid.
- Second Grade — Amy Grooms — Clown, Lance Hastings — Frontiersman, Kathy Riskowski — A Witch.
- Third Grade — Amy Jo Palder — Dictionary, Tanara Vodehnal — Gypsy, Shelly Johnson — Frog.
- Fourth Grade — Becky Drake — A Little Old Lady, Mike Mason — A Hobo, Kevin Klimek — A Pirate.
- Fifth Grade — Kendra Chlewski — Stuffed Owl, Suzanne Ackles — The Lone Ranger's Ghost, Sarah Trubey — Raggedy Ann Doll.
- Sixth Grade — Kip Chleski — A Robot, Randy Ryschon — A Service Man, Brian Slich — A Prospector.

Groups

- Wendy and Michael Puckett, Kevin and John Seagren and Sue McFadden — The Wizard of Oz Cast; Jody Beran, Bree Orent and Travis Orent — Three Scarecrows; Springdale School — The Cast From Snow White.

This tired tot was part of the second place team in the groups division of the Halloween Parade Friday. For some contestants, the parade route was a little too long. Oblivious to newly won honors, the cold, or surrounding commotion, the young winner quietly sleeps.

Coffee Drink For Celebrants

Alcoholics Anonymous will celebrate sobriety during an open meeting in Ord Saturday, November 17. AA members, friends and guests will meet at 8:00 p.m. in the clubhouse at 16th N street, one block west of the Vets Club.

The public is welcome to attend.

Conferences Set For Nov. 12-13

Ord Junior High and Senior High students will get a vacation Monday and Tuesday, November 12 and 13 while their parents go to school. During these two days, parents are invited to attend the Parent-Teacher Conferences. Conferences are scheduled from 12 to 3 p.m. in the afternoons and from 6 to 9 p.m. in the evenings. Parents are encouraged to attend on either of the two days at their convenience.

Potential Ham Radio Operators Will Meet

An organizational meeting for all persons interested in becoming amateur radio operators, will be held in Ord Thursday, Nov. 8th at 7:30 p.m. at the John Andersen residence located at 118 So. 14th St., just across the street from the east side of the L & W Service Center. For further information contact John Andersen, 728-5551 or Rick Masin, 728-3861.

Federal Grant May Help Village Grow

A $310,000 federal grant request by Comstock could promote that village's growth. The $310,000 request would:

- Clear 11 lots of substandard buildings in Comstock.
- Rehabilitate seven occupied homes in the village. According to Rick Noyes, of the Council of Governments, the seven don't meet government guidelines for decent, safe, and sanitary housing.
- Upgrade a drainage ditch running through Comstock.
- Finance municipal well and water improvements.

Finance a sewer lagoon site acquisition and sewer system improvements.

The grant application was approved by the Council of Governments last month during a meeting in Ord. It was then sent to the state clearing house in Lincoln.

Rick Noyes, COG coordinator, stated Monday he should know by the end of the year if the grant application has been approved or disapproved.

A break-down of grant funds shows that:

- $35,000 will help clear 11 lots.
- $67,000 will rehabilitate existing housing.
- $50,000 will upgrade a drainage ditch running through town.
- $55,000 will be for village well and water improvements.
- $10,000 is earmarked for a site acquisition and sewer system improvements.
- $33,000 is for management, planning, etc.

All figures are preliminary, according to Noyes.

Teacher Presents Serigraph Workshop

Ardie Moore, art teacher from Adams Central, presented a silk screen workshop for area artists at the Presbyterian Church on Saturday, Oct. 27.

Two film strips were shown to begin the workshop: one on different methods of silkscreening and the other on the history of silk screen. Each participant selected a simple subject to use as a design, cut a stencil of the design and transferred it to the silk screen. That design was then transferred to paper using a special acrylic ink as the medium. Several members made their own Christmas cards and Christmas posters; others did still life scenes.

Participating in the workshop were Zola Schudel, Evelyn Jackson, Danean Sonnenfeld, Julie Noyes, Yolanda Schudel, Connie Myers, Venetta Beard, Judy Greff and Betty Jo Axthelm.

Friday evening preceding the workshop, a reception for the artist was held at the Rick Noyes home.

Marching Band Rated Excellent

The Ord High Marching Band received a II (excellent) rating at the Nebraska Marching Band Festival. The 22nd annual event was held Saturday, November 3 at the Pershing Municipal Auditorium in Lincoln. A total of 77 bands took part in the all day event.

The bands were divided into classes. In the Class B division, Ord competed against 15 other bands. Following each division, the results were announced. In Class B, three bands received a III, nine bands received a II, and four bands received a I rating. The number I bands, Wayne, Wahoo, Wisner-Pilger, and Stanton, were each presented a trophy.

Each band was rated in three different categories, playing performance, marching performance, and general effect. Five judges rated the bands with Olympic style judging being used.

THIRD GRADE DIVISION WINNERS — were Amy Jo Paider, Tamara Vodehnal and Shelly Johnson.

Jenson gave us the opportunity to drive through your city, enjoy the pleasant surroundings, and shop at the impressive variety of stores. The airport facility was more than adequate, and I would like to particularly commend Lloyd Jenson as a fine representative of the airport, the city of Ord, and the type of people one encounters in Midwestern cities.

My first visit to Ord was a pleasant and refreshing change from what we so often come to accept in larger cities, and I will include it in my travel plans whenever possible.

Sincerely,
Robert L. Jones
President

Peters-Johnson to Attend All-State

Jerilyn Peters has been selected through state-wide auditions to participate in the 44th Nebraska Music Educators Annual In-service Convention Clinic. Jerilyn will be in the clinic chorus, one of three all-state clinic groups. Dayle Johnson, vocal instructor at Ord High School, will also be taking part in the directors' session which will be taking place while the students are in rehearsal.

Take a Look

Sometimes when a person looks in a mirror he only sees what he wants to see. Sometimes a community is the same way. Have you taken a good look recently at your community of Ord as a whole?

Do you realize how many people are only exposed to Ord at the airport? Have you noticed how hard the Ord Chamber of Commerce and other organizations try to promote Ord and improve the community? Also have you realized that our greatest asset is the people of this community? If you've taken Ord for granted lately — maybe you need to see it through the eyes of someone else.

C.A. Group Forming, Meets Twice Weekly

Overeaters Anonymous, a fellowship of men and women — young and old — interested in arresting their addiction to compulsive eating, is now meeting regularly on Mondays and Thursdays at 7:00 p.m. in the basement of the Catholic Church in Ord.

O.A. (Overeaters Anonymous) is a non-profit organization based on the principles and Twelve Steps of Alcoholics Anonymous. There are no dues or fees for O.A. membership — and there are no scales. The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop eating compulsively.

According to two of the local members, "we believe that compulsive overeating is a disease. We do not believe that overeaters are just weak-willed people or people lacking strong character."

As a support group for weight loss, O.A. welcomes anyone interested in their program to attend their meetings any Monday or Thursday evening. Further information will be provided by this group who have been active in Ord since March of this year.

Benefit Card Party Held Tuesday in Ord

The Valley County Hospital Auxiliary Benefit Card Party held Tuesday, November 6, after being postponed due to the weather, was deemed a success by chairman, Del Christensen. Seventeen tables of cards were busy for the two hour span.

Respect The Flag Display The Flag On VETERANS DAY November 11

And All National Holidays

Following Are Some Of The Rules For Proper Flag Display

1. When the flag is passing in parade, or during the ceremony of hoisting or lowering the flag, all persons present should face the flag at attention. Those present in uniform should render the right hand salute. When not in uniform, men should remove their headress with the right hand and hold it at the left shoulder, the head being over the heart. Women should salute by placing the right hand over the heart.
2. During the rendition of the National Anthem when the flag is displayed, all present salute as explained above.
3. When the flag is displayed horizontally or vertically against a wall, the blue of the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right, i.e., to the observer's left.
4. Do not let the flag touch the ground or the floor, or trail in the water.
5. Do not place any object or emblem of any kind on or above the flag of the United States.
6. When the flag is in such a condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display, it should not be cast aside or used in any way that might be viewed as disrespectful to the National Colors, but should be destroyed as a whole privately, preferably by burning or by some other method in harmony with the reverence and respect we owe to the emblem representing our country.

BUTCH & SUNDANCE LET 'EM KNOW WHERE THE BEST HIDE-A-WAYS ARE

THEY ADVERTISE IN THE NEWSPAPER

Butch Cassidy and The Sundance Kid opened a Travel Agency in order to give their friends and families the best rates on traveling to their favorite hide-a-ways. How do they let them know the best prices and packages available? Butch and Sundance advertise in their weekly newspaper. The boys know that based on a survey conducted for the Nebraska Press Association, 76.5% of Nebraskans rely on their newspaper for price and product information compared to 2.7% for radio and 2.1% for T.V. Let 'em know by advertising in your weekly newspaper.

THE GREAT PUMPKIN . . . No single symbol seems to have the wholehearted recognition over so many weeks as the pumpkin.

From the first days of fall — right after Labor Day — until time for Christmas decorating, the pumpkin is King. Store windows with a Fall or Holiday theme feature the pumpkin. Football and the game's festivities invariably are tied to pumpkins. The witchcraft and spookyness of Halloween always include the pumpkin motif. Hardly no one thinks of October, November or Thanksgiving without the pumpkin — if not for decorating, then for eating.

Pumpkins give the youngsters — and grownups too — an excuse to become sculptors. The mellow yellows blended with the multicolored fall leaves seem just right for decorating — whether it be a window featuring high styled dresses, a sorority or fraternity porch at Homecoming, or a party in the home.

Could all these wonderful interests in the pumpkin stem for the mouth-watering delights of pumpkin pie from late September through Christmas. No menu seems complete unless it is topped off with pumpkin pie. Some want it with tangy cheese, others insist on whipped cream.

Whatever the reason, the pumpkin reigns high and handsome for a long time.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smedra . . . married September 29.

Walchoski-Smedra Say Vows In Afternoon Church Service

Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church in Ord was the setting for the 3 p.m. double ring candlelight ceremony uniting Beverly Irene Walchoski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Walchoski of Elyria, and Charles Gary Smedra, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smedra of Loup City. The Wedding Mass was officiated by Father Stanley Gorak on Saturday, September 29, 1979.

Organist for the ceremony was Marlene Smith of Ord. Myron Osetowski of Ord and Deb Proskol of Grand Island accompanied themselves with guitars as they sang "Someone Loves You Honey," "The Lord's Prayer," and "You're My Somebody Special."

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a full-length gown of Qiana, featuring a mandarin collar of Venice lace. Venice lace was applied in a keyhole design on both the front and back bodices. A Venice lace trimmed monk's cape adorned the back. Matching lace appliques trimmed the bishop sleeves from the elbow down forming a bridal point at the wrist. The veil, fashioned by the bride, featured a lace and pearl covered headpiece and a two tiered full-length veil of tulle, edged with seed pearls. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of Sonia roses, lily-of-the-valley, and flocked baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Cheri Klimek of Ord, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Chris Conrad of Kearney, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Shirley Wietzki of Burwell, friend of the bride. They wore matching iced-pearl colored full-length gowns of Qiana, with matching blouson style jackets trimmed with wide Chantilly lace of the same color. They carried white colonial style lantern candleholders with peach candles trimmed with greenery and flocked baby's breath.

Flower girl was Jessie Augustum of Loup City. She wore a peach colored full-length gown of Qiana, featuring a matching shawl with a self-tie sash trimmed with wide Chantilly lace of the same color. She carried a white basket of daisies and a bouquet of roses. Miss Jill Walchoski of Elyria, niece of the bride, was honor flower girl. Jared Walchoski of Elyria, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. He wore a forest green suit.

Candle lighters were Ellen Green of Ord, friend of the bride, and Jim Walchoski, brother of the bride. They were dressed identically to the flower girl and ring bearer.

Best man was Tom Frazer of North Loup. Groomsmen were Roger Obermiller of Loup City and Mike Jarynka of Ashton, all friends of the groom. The groom and his groomsmen were attired in forest green tuxedos with light green ruffled shirts. They wore Sonia rosebud boutonnières with the groom's featuring a sprig of flocked baby's breath and lily-of-the-valley.

Ushers at the ceremony were Ernie Wroblewski of Kearney, cousin of the groom, Tom Walchoski of Grand Island, cousin of the bride, and Dan Jones of Ord and Reggie Zulkoski of Elyria, both friends of the groom.

Honored guests were Mrs. Frances Baran of Ord, the bride's godmother, Edith Bishop of Burwell and Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ziola of Columbus, godparents of the groom.

Acting as hosts and hostesses for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walchoski of Elyria and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Smedra of Grand Island, brothers of the groom.

Rehearsal Supper
Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smedra of Loup City hosted the rehearsal supper Friday evening, September 28, at the Ord Veteran's Club.

Reception
After a horse drawn stagecoach ride through town, a buffet reception was held in honor of the couple at St. Mary's Auditorium. Mrs. Janice Shultz of Grand Island attended the guest book and Mrs. Sharon Shetterly of Burwell and Kimberly Conrad of Kearney, cousin of the bride, received the gifts. Cutting the bride's cake were Mrs. Cathy Foster and Barb Dworak, both of Kearney. The groom's cake was cut by Janis Thompson of Ericson. Serving the punch was Mrs. Pat Petska of Ord and serving the coffee was Mrs. Pam Lutz of Arcadia. Servers for the bridal table were Mrs. Mary Hughes of Burwell, Marj Hruza of Grand Island, Ann Kalhoff of Sargent, and Sue Usuz of Burwell, all friends of the bride.

A waltzing dance, following the reception, was held at the Ord Veteran's Club. After a wedding trip to Wyoming, the couple is at home near Ericson.

Mr. and Mrs. Lex Jeffres . . . will live near Burwell

Dubas-Jeffres Marriage Vows Exchanged at Church in Ord

An afternoon ceremony October 13 at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church united Deborah A. Dubas and Lex E. Jeffres. The Wedding Mass was celebrated by Rev. Stanley Gorak and Rev. Albert Godlewski in the presence of 250 guests.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Rene Dubas of Elyria and Mr. and Mrs. Vance Jeffres of Burwell.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and father, chose a gown of Qiana knit decorated with Venice lace. The gown featured a mandarin collar and bodice fitted with English net and covered with Venice lace and seed pearls. The back of the bodice featured an abbreviated wateau train decorated and edged with Venice lace. Her single-tiered chapel length veil was held in place by a satin covered band decorated with Venice lace and seed pearls. For her bouquet she chose white orchids, pink roses, and baby's breath. Her personal attendant was Sue Schneider.

Matron of honor was Susan Pokorny of Basalt, CO, friend of the bride, and the maid of honor was Jean Dubas, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Jane Usuz of Ericson and Evelyn Watts of Lincoln, both friends of the bride. They wore identical burgandy knit floor length dresses. Each carried a nosegay of pink roses and baby's breath. The flower girl was Darci Jeffres, niece of the groom.

Junior Schneider of Burwell, friend of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Lin Jeffres and Leo Jeffres, brothers of the groom, and Robert Burman, cousin of the groom. Matt Jeffres, nephew of the groom, was the ring bearer. The groom and groomsmen were attired in burgandy tuxedos. Ushers were Tim Dubas, Paul Dubas, Steve Shermer, and Mike Burnham. During the Mass, altar boys were John and Marty Dubas. Offertory gifts were carried by Jim and Nancy Maciejewski. The commentator was Robert Dubas. Special music was provided by Janet Durand and Dave Kusek with Deb Eppembach as the organist. Mary Dubas was the candle lighter.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at St. Mary's Auditorium with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dubas and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burnham as hosts and hostesses.

Assisting at the reception were Cathy Wotalewicz, Candi Ziegler, Irene Beran, Lillian Maciejewski, Doris Pishno, and Harriet Kisicki. Servers were Karen Kisicki, Anne Maciejewski, Pam Maciejewski and Deann Dubas. Pat Jeffres was in charge of the guest book and Teresa Fox and Patty Johnson took care of the gifts.

Special guests included Mr. and Mrs. Louis Maciejewski of Loup City and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Dubas of Ord, grandparents of the bride, and Mrs. Ruby Burnham and Mrs. Alta Jeffres, both of Burwell, grandmothers of the groom.

The couple is making their home on a farm near Burwell. The bride is employed by the Community Memorial Hospital in Burwell and the groom is engaged in farming.

Open House Is Termed Terrific

"Terrific" was the adjective used describing the Ord Elementary School open house October 30. School principal K. Vidal estimated 300 people attended the session.

That opened with a play by grade schoolers. There wasn't enough room in the school theatre for parents. Some had to watch the play on closed circuit television, Vidal told the Quiz.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at St. Mary's Auditorium with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dubas and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burnham as hosts and hostesses.

Assisting at the reception were Cathy Wotalewicz, Candi Ziegler, Irene Beran, Lillian Maciejewski, Doris Pishno, and Harriet Kisicki. # Chants Save Their Best For the Last

Keith Pelton (46) scrambles for more yardage during the Gothenburg game.

By Anne Smith
The Chants saved the best for last, well almost! Although they didn't come out ahead in the score, the Chants played one of their best games of the season last Friday in Gothenburg.

Ord first scored with 3:07 left in the first quarter. The running attack by Kevin Stich set up a two yard run by Keith Pelton for the 6 points. The extra point by Barry Witherwax was no good, leaving Ord trailing 7-6.

The game remained the same until with 1:36 left in the third quarter Gothenburg scored on a two yard pass play. With 45 seconds left in the ball game the Swedes called time-out and ran the ball in from the 1 yard line to make the score 26-12.

Huskies Finish With a Victory

By Lanny Cusimano
The Huskies ended a disappointing 1979 season with a victory against the Wolbach Mustangs Friday evening. The final score was 22-6.

On the defensive side, Scott Sell took top honors with 9 unassisted and 13 assisted tackles. Marty Lybarger had 4 unassisted and 10 assisted tackles. The Huskie defense stopped the Mustangs twice within the Arcadia 10 yard line.

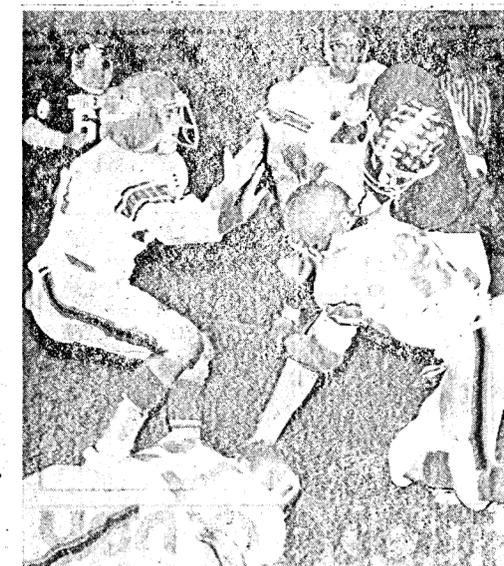

The game was a seesaw battle all the way according to the 'Cats coach Dennis Butts. Elba drew first blood, but NLS quickly replied. The first quarter ended 8-6.

Wildcats End Season With Heartbreaker

North Loup-Scotia capped their season with a heart breaking 30-28 loss at Elba Friday night. The game ends the Wildcats season.

The Huskies record for the 1979 season ends at 2-5. This season minutes to really get the ball rolling. The Mustangs scored with only three minutes gone from the first period of play. The Arcadia squad countered and from then on it was Arcadia all the way.

Two Elba touchdowns and one by North Loup ended the second quarter with a 18-16 score. Then came two quick touchdowns runs by John Wroblewski for Elba, in the third quarter. "They made quite a bit of difference," North Loup-Scotia coach Dennis Butts told the Quiz.

Ord's defense forced Gothenburg quarterback Jan Novacek (15) to fumble the ball during the game Friday.

the evening were Teresa Sahlie and Becki Sell with 16. The Arcadia reserves ended their season with a winning record of 7-4. The Arcadia varsity wanted to win this game against the Shamrocks to bring their record to 7-5 before going into the District 4 tournament at Elba.

Linda Staab had a great night serving with 14 points out of 17 serves. Cheryl Lawandowski was next in line with 11 points out of 11 serves. Deo Smith played another good game with 21 sets and 11 spikes to lead in both departments. Pam Gogan had 9 hard hit spikes and 4 were for aces. The Huskies had a total of 91 sets and 49 spikes.

The Huskies are now ready to take a whole new season in the Districts at Elba where they will face the Greeley Bulldogs Tuesday, November 6th. Other teams in the district are Elba, seeded number 1), Amherst, Pleasanton, North Loup-Scotia, Wheeler, Central, Wolbach, and Litchfield. Good Luck to all and may the best team win.

Jim Duda, picked 19 winners out of 26 state football games to be the winner of the last football contest this year. Jim picked Nebraska to beat Missouri 35 to 19 to beat Ray Duda who also picked 19 winners. Ray picked Nebraska to beat Missouri 38 to 14.

Ord Town Spikers Remain Undefeated

The Ord Womens' Town Volleyball team remains undefeated after a win over guest Arcadia Sunday night. The Ord women took the game in three straight: 15-6, 15-11, and 15-11. The win makes Ord 9-0 for the season, according to their coach, Jeri Warford.

Ord High Varsity Spikers Advance

Ord High varsity spikers advance past Valentine Tuesday night in district competition. They will next play Ainsworth Thursday, November 8 at 7:00 p.m. Game time is 7:00 p.m.

Arcadia Spikers On to Districts

By Teresa Einspahr
The Arcadia spikers are going into District action with a record of 7-6. The girls picked up two victories last week.

The Huskies traveled to North Loup-Scotia Tuesday October 30. It was the Wildcats parents night so the Wildcats were ready to play. The reserves won their game in two sets 15-12 and 15-6. Robbin Hawley was the leading scorer with 10 points.

The varsity had to play a hard first set before downing the Wildcats 17-15. The second set went a little quicker. Debbie Einspahr served eight straight points. The final score was 15-3. The leading scorer was Debbie Einspahr with 13 points. Chris Holcomb had a good night serving. She had 10 points. Deb Smith led the Arcadia setters with 11 sets. Teresa Einspahr and Linda Staab both had 8 sets. Once again Pam Gogan led in the spiking department with 8 spikes, 4 for aces.

Walleye Size Limits Set

A 15-inch size limit on walleye caught in all Nebraska waters was established by Commissioners after a public hearing on 1980 sport and commercial fishing regulations October 19 at the Game and Parks Commission office in Lincoln.

limits on fish species. Taylor pointed out that if a size limit is adopted, anglers will generally harvest less fish, but the keepers will provide a more challenging fishing experience and more meat per fish caught for the table.

Mail a Book

By Marla Bouton

The recent arrival of 13,250 paperback books at the Nebraska Mail-A-Book Service headquarters heralds the expansion of the books-by-mail service to some 113,000 central Nebraskans.

In response to a recommendation from the delegates of the Nebraska Pre-White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services to develop a books-by-mail system in the state, the Nebraska Library Commission, at its July 20 meeting, voted to support the development of a pilot project for mail-a-book service to Central and Mari Sandoz Library Network residents who do not have local public library services.

The Mail-A-Book Service will soon be sending to rural residents in 33 counties a catalog of 800 current and popular paperback books which are available for check-out by mail. The catalog will be mailed to approximately 44,000 rural homes beginning Sept. 24 and continuing through January 1980. Residents of communities which have a network public library will not receive the catalogs.

Counties to be included in this pilot project are: Custer, Sherman, Valley, Boyd, Brown, Garfield, Greeley, Holt, Loup, Wheeler, Arthur, Grant, Hooker, Keith, Lincoln, Logan, Perkins, Chase, Dawson, Dundy, Frontier, Hayes, Hitchcock, Red Willow, Adams, Franklin, Nuckolls, Phelps, Webster, Clay, Hamilton, Howard and Merrick.

The service may be used by all persons residing in the households that receive the catalogs. A library card is not required. The books requested are shipped back and forth by mail between the Mail-A-Book office at Hastings Public Library and the reader. All costs of mailing are paid by the Mail-A-Book Service. The project is being financed with federal funds under the Library Services and Construction Act.

John Kopschke, Director of the Nebraska Library Commission, explained the reasons for pursuing the development of an effective mail-a-book program in Nebraska:

1. Mail-a-book appears to be an acceptable means for extending library service to rural people who cannot easily reach a town library or a bookmobile.

Such programs are currently provided in more than 23 states.

2. The costs of sustaining bookmobile service are escalating with the price of fuel. Revenues to meet those price increases are becoming more difficult to obtain. Consequently, some alternative "delivery system" must be found.

3. There are growing numbers of elderly and home-bound individuals in Nebraska whose reading needs are not always met by libraries geared to "walk-in" patronage.

The Nebraska Mail-A-Book Service will be headquartered at the Hastings Public Library.

Boost Your Hometown

Jeanie Hofacker, formerly the Mari Sandoz Network Itinerant Librarian, will direct the daily operations, assisted by Darlene Howard.

For the past two years, Holdrege Public Library served as a State Resource Center to provide mail-a-book to Phelps and Gosper counties and a village and two school districts in Lincoln County. From 1975 until 1977, mail-a-book service was provided to eight counties as a project of the Central Library Network.

Decisions Won't Wait Forever

A bill is being drafted for this session of the Nebraska Legislature which is going to force Nebraskans, both urban and rural, to make up their minds on some major resource issues.

As recently reported by the chairman of an ad hoc committee which has been studying the water legislative situation, Sen. Peter Hoagland of Omaha, the bill would contain these key elements:

— Require permits for irrigation wells drilled within a mile of a stream or reservoir when the pumping would interfere with surface water rights.

— Allow the director of the Department of Water Resources to initiate control areas rather than waiting for the local Natural District to take the initial steps as is now required by the Ground Water Control Act.

— Increase the taxing authority for NRDs operating control areas from one-fourth mill to one mill.

— Stiffen enforcement measures for ensuring compliance with requirements for well registering and check valves on irrigation systems.

— Eliminate a Natural Resources District's power to impose a well-drilling moratorium.

— Widen the criteria for establishing a ground water control area.

Sen. Maurice Kremer, chairman of the Public Works Committee and a recognized authority on the subject of water legislation, has said he supports the bill but hasn't decided to be a co-sponsor of it. Statements of general opposition to some of the contents and concepts of the bill have come from Sen. Lorán Schmidt, chairman of the Agriculture Committee. Both Kremer and Schmidt are veteran farmers and pump irrigators. Kremer is in Hamilton County and Schmidt in Butler County.

There has been some criticism voiced because Sen. Hoagland, an urban senator, is sponsoring the legislation and taking an active role in its promotion. But several rural senators, including Kremer and Sen. Tom Vickers of Farnam, have acknowledged that urban interests and economies have an interrelated stake in the state's water resources. When rivers and streams turn dry and municipal well fields show signs of depletion, the domestic needs and industrial economies of the communities dependent on them will be in jeopardy.

Support for water conservation and control legislation is directly related to the local situation. People in a water control area where reservoirs and streamflows are short and water table declines are becoming critical are a great deal more supportive of control and conservation legislation than those where water is plentiful and underground recharge is assured.

The question is regularly asked, "How long can we put off and delay corrective measures without doing irreparable harm to our vital water resources?" A recent report showed that in 1978, a generally favorable rainfall year, water tables in most areas of the state registered substantial declines. This continues a pattern of many years.

There are already classic examples in the state where indiscriminate and costly irrigation development of relatively inferior land is threatening reclamation projects, small dam impoundments and historic surface water rights to streamflows. While precipitous legislative action should be avoided, Nebraskans should keep in mind that if they do not support state and local guidelines and effective remedies, there are more than a dozen proposals pending for Federal Government agencies to move into the water resources control and allocation field.

Weevils Can Reduce Musk Thistle Problem

Weevils may have caused as much as a 10 percent reduction in the number of musk thistle seeds produced in some areas of Nebraska in 1978 and may do even more welcome damage in 1979.

The musk thistle weevil, Rhynchocyllus conicus, was introduced to Nebraska in 1972 as a means to control the thistle, a weed which reduces forage yields and hampers livestock movement on the state's vast grazing acreage. William O. Lamp, Ph.D. candidate in the Department of Agronomy in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, is studying the relationship between the thistle and the weevil as part of his graduate research.

The musk thistle isn't native to the U.S., Lamp said, but it's been growing in Nebraska for about 100 years. Speculation is that this weed was introduced in soil brought from Europe. Unfortunately, the thistle's naturally occurring predators didn't also make the trip, Lamp said. Populations of five or more musk thistles per square meter are found in some areas of Nebraska.

Chemical controls for musk thistle aren't economical, he said, so biological control through the use of a living organism, the weevil, is being used.

"Weevil egg masses laid on seed heads hatch and the larvae bore into the center of the head to feed, doing extensive damage to the seeds. This prevents the seeds from developing normally," Lamp explained. The weevils are host-specific insects and do not affect economic crops, he added.

At research sites used by Lamp, approximately 10 percent of musk thistle seeds were destroyed by weevils in 1978, he said. In '79, seed production may be as much as 25 percent lower, because of a four-fold increase in the number of weevils per seed head at most of his research sites.

"Higher populations of weevils are necessary since female weevils tend to favor the terminal seed head as an egg-laying site," he said. Because a thistle has many more lower heads, the weed has been able to survive on the seed produced lower on the plant. Increased competition among a larger population of females should cause more egg laying and more destruction lower on the plant, he added.

Weevils were selected as an experimental control measure and were introduced to the U.S. following musk thistle research in Italy and Switzerland in the 1960s, Lamp said. The musk thistle is now well controlled in all of Europe, he added.

Montana and Virginia experimented with the weevil earlier than Nebraska. After 10 years of use in those states, good control has been achieved, Lamp said. Weevils were captured in Italy and first released in Nebraska near Arcadia in Valley County in 1972, due in large part to the work of Dr. M. D. McCarty, Lamp's Ph.D. adviser. Since that time, weevils have been introduced to other areas of Nebraska which have severe musk thistle problems.

Lamp's research on musk thistles contrasts the weed and its biological control with platte thistle, native weed growing in Nebraska. Platte thistle has three naturally occurring predators — two flies and a moth — and it feeds on the outer edges of the three that has kept that thistle tightly controlled, Lamp said. Based on research findings, it's possible at a future time that a second insect predator for musk thistle could be introduced, he said. This would complement the destructive effects of the weevil.

Soviets Are Good Export Customers

The USSR is again in the market and purchasing considerable quantities of U.S. wheat. "With this in mind, it is noteworthy to review the record of the large Soviet grain purchases between July of 1972 and August of 1974," says Dan McGuire, Nebraska Wheat Division Chief.

"According to the USDA's Foreign Agriculture Service and the Office of the General Sales Manager, the Soviets purchased U.S. grain worth $1.3 billion," says McGuire. "Of this total, $750 million went for cash purchases and the remaining $550 million was extended through lines of credit under the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC). All payments were made in dollars and on time, using the prevailing commercial interest rates, which at that time varied between 6 1/8 percent and 9 1/2 percent. The last payments, including principle and interest were made in March 1977, three years after the final shipment of the U.S. grain purchases went forward to the Soviet Union. The USDA official emphasized that the Soviets were prompt in repaying the loans, which totaled $550 million in principal and $71 million in principal accrued over the three year period."

As for Export-Import Bank loans, none have been extended to the Soviet Union for the purchase of grain commodities since the Bank extends loans primarily

Koelling Receives Special Assignment

LaVerne Koelling, a national bank examiner, recently received another special assignment to South America. LaVerne left October 12 to begin his four week assignment. He will be in charge of a crew of seven which is to examine branches of the First National Bank of Boston and Republic National Bank of New York. These banks are located in the cities of La Paz, Bolivia; Santiago, Chile; Montevideo, Uruguay; and Buenos Aires, Argentina. The purpose of the overseas examinations is to evaluate on site their operations and loans and to compare information received in the U.S. head office. The banks are also checked for compliance with banking law. They will also meet with embassy staffs and central bank officials in each of the countries in order to gain information necessary in assessing the economic, political and social aspects of each country. The entire effort is coordinated out of the International Division of the Office of the Comptroller of the currency in Washington, D.C. Reports are submitted via Telex to the Washington office weekly with a detailed report submitted upon return to the U.S.

Other international trips have taken LaVerne to Jakarta, Indonesia; Manila, Philippines; London, England and Athens, Greece. LaVerne's wife, Marcia, left November 7 to join him for a two week vacation to visit Buenos Aires, Montevideo and Rio De Janeiro, Brazil.

LaVerne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Koelling of Ord.

J. David Aiken, Water Law Specialist with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, reports in Cornhusker Economics.

Cancellation of appropriative water right upheld.

In the 1979 decision Hosteller v. State Department of Water Resources, the Nebraska supreme court upheld the cancellation of an appropriation by the Department of Water Resources. The Department cancelled plaintiff's appropriation pursuant to a statute which states that when water has not been "used for some beneficial or useful purpose" for more than three years the Department shall initiate cancellation proceedings. Undisputed evidence indicated that the irrigation appropriation had not been exercised for at least six years.

The major legal question was whether any beneficial use, rather than the use specified in the permit, would be sufficient to maintain the appropriation. The court held that plaintiff's livestock watering would not prevent cancellation of the permit, even though it was a beneficial use of water. The court held that the water use had to be used for the purpose described in the permit.

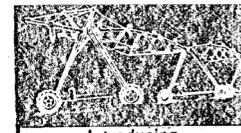

The court went on to note that nonuse could be excused by certain circumstances. Two situations which would excuse nonuse were suggested by the court: 1) unavailability or insufficient water in the stream, and 2) adequate rainfall such that irrigation was not necessary. This statement by the court has significant implications for appropriation water right cancellation procedures. In the past irrigation appropriations have been cancelled when sufficient water was available to divert, even if irrigation was not necessary because of adequate rainfall. This policy has led to a pattern of cancellation and reapplication for irrigation appropriations in eastern Nebraska where irrigation is necessary only in drought years. Modification of cancellation practices to reflect the Hosteller dicta may signal the end of this cancellation-reapplication pattern.

court for a trial on the merits. The case raises several important legal issues regarding Nebraska ground water law particularly how the City, Village, and Municipal Corporation Ground Water Permit Act affects the legality of ground water transfers. The reasonable rule which is followed in Nebraska court opinions generally is interpreted to preclude the use of ground water on non-overlying land, i.e., land not overlying the underground reservoir from which the ground water was withdrawn.

Go! Where!

The City Council signed a resolution Monday authorizing the execution of a corporate agreement between the City of Ord and the Ord Housing Authority. In essence, the document states the city agrees to back another 30 unit housing project for the elderly.

Listening to the council, I had misgivings about this latest idea. At first some council members appeared to think this was the 30 unit elderly housing project acted on by the Council October 1.

Not so, said Bob Moyer. The Ord Housing Authority member said this was yet another agreement. The first project was with the FHA. This one, for an additional 30 units, was with HUD.

Some citizens could object to the projects on grounds they could bring little to Ord but headaches. The elderly, they could point out, make few major purchases. Their needs are simple. As such, some could contend, they really don't generate all that much business.

This is a cold-hearted assessment. Someday most of us will be senior citizens. As such we too will need a place to spend our sunset years.

No, what worries me is the way this project and the other are likely being handled. After some confusion Monday the council voted approval of a document pledging various municipal services to this latest senior citizens housing plan.

True, the city will be paid for these services — wherever the projects decide to locate.

That is the kicker. In the course of events Monday, it became clear no one knows just where this project or the other one will locate.

Moyer stated he has some possible sites under consideration but none has been definitely selected.

What is more, the two projects could be combined into one 60 unit complex or into two 30 unit senior citizen villages. Again, no one appeared certain just which course might be followed.

Ord Mayor Richard Rowbal said he believes the City has final control over the project or projects site or sites. The City, he told the Quiz, can deny the Ord Housing Authority a building permit thereby exercising control over the site selection.

We hope he is right. Lord do we ever! Why? Tuesday the Quiz contacted five of the eight elected city officials. ALL FIVE admitted they hadn't read the agreement prior to their vote of approval Monday.

We wonder if Bob Moyer had bothered to read the agreement also. During the council session Monday he contended the contract didn't bind the city to anything. City Attorney Greg Jensen thought otherwise.

Oh brother! A similar government housing project here sparked a lawsuit lasting I don't know how many years. With preliminary approval given yet another project Monday sans officials reading the large or small type in the contract, it looks like we could be headed down the same road or worse.

And yet some people will wait "Just how can you have doubts about such a fine project? That's easy! We question it — because city officials are voting on documents they haven't bothered to read.

— because people THINK they know what these documents contain. Not having read them, their opinion is at best an educated guess.

— because large building projects can run aground under the best conditions. Given the case where there is apparent confusion, doubt, or ignorance, a major construction project is nothing short of an accident looking for a place to happen.

Why do we question these senior citizen housing plans? Because we wonder if anyone knows just what in the heck is going on.

Beautiful Hosts

Let me tell you about a fabulous place. This home is in Tucson and although it is large it does not put on an extravagant face, it looks modest, sitting surrounded by brick walls and iron grillwork. A long drive pulls alongside fig trees heavy with fruit.

But what a treasure trove this house is. A home, yes, but so much more. It has been beautifully assembled by the owners, Ed and Margit Swopes. And it has everything. There is a garden room where the sun sends tall shafts of light through the glass and green plants hang heavy over huge divans which are assembled in a square after the Turkish fashion. # Decision On Calling Special Unicam Session Postponed

CAPITOL NEWS

Statehouse Correspondent
LINCOLN — Members of the Legislature's Revenue Committee decided recently to put off — at least temporarily — a vote on a proposal calling for a special legislative session this year to change the state's usury rate.

Several of the committee members said they thought it would be better to address the issue in the regular session that will open in January. Others said they needed more information on the state of economic affairs before they could make a decision on whether a special session was warranted.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said the matter could be discussed again at a committee meeting, if the members thought it advisable.

Talk of the special session was triggered during a hearing on problems stemming from the state's 12.5 percent usury rate, which is applied to most loans up to $10,000.

During that hearing, members of the financial, housing and automobile industries said a special meeting of the lawmakers should be called to consider abolishing or raising the usury rate.

According to testimony presented, the present rate has been an important factor in the shortage of credit and that the Unicameral cannot afford to wait to fix the present.

DeCamp said he had been advised by Gov. Charles Thone that the governor continues to be opposed to a special session.

The Neligh legislator said, "We seem to have a tendency, particularly in this state, to resolve things by crisis." He added he believes there are going to be unemployed people, some who will go broke and others unable to buy or sell homes if the usury rate isn't altered.

Sen. Dave Landis of Lincoln argued a special session would be unwise at this time and suggested a comprehensive education campaign before the Legislature does anything about usury rates.

Landis said the situation will become more grim between now and the first of the year. But he added, "We do not face a disaster."

Would Ben Stuedead Snow Tires
The Nebraska Advisory Highway Commission has gone on record in favor of requesting the Legislature to prohibit studded snow tires.

At their last monthly meeting, the commissioners heard Lincoln and Omaha officials voice their support of the proposed ban.

Commissioner C. Mickey Skinner of Omaha suggested the Legislature consider outlawing the tires for a one- or two-year period.

According to D. J. Erington, Omaha Public Works director, his

Vox Pop

Dear Wade:
Thank you for writing to me with respect to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. I share your concern about reported abuses by the Bureau.

I agree that the FBI formerly was considered to have no peer in the free world for integrity, respect for our laws, and general efficiency.

It troubles me that these unconscionable abuses could have occurred. The new Director of the FBI has promised that these and other abuses will cease.

Nevertheless, I have taken the liberty of sending your letter directly to Mr. William H. Webster, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation for his review and comment. As soon as I receive his comment, I will be happy to send it to you. Perhaps there would be far more interesting for your readers than my own comment.

If you have any further questions, Wade, please let me hear from you again.

sits across the corner of the room, and bookcases are there, as they are in every room.

I wouldn't give you much for a house without shelves full of reading material.

The huge living room is friendly with a big stone fireplace and a small organ in one corner. Two curved divans and a long coffee table portion off the space, and huge windows look out on the garden and its fruit trees. A cigaret tablelamp of cut glass is one feature. A grandfather clock is another, and on the mantle is a golden clock that Margit brought from Germany where she spent last month. It is a beauty. Even it's chime is golden.

Ed's business is pictures and framing and the house has dozens of handsome pictures, well hung, fascinating. They are big and little, oils, water colors, lithographs, every sort. Not too much, just right; they are well hung of course. And everywhere Margit has flowers, they are lovely. The house has a very European aspect, comfortable, luxurious, yet appealing.

In one of the big bedrooms are the most delicate, lace-like white curtains. When I exclaimed over them, she told me she sent the material home from Germany, and had made the curtains herself. With their pale green draperies they were stunning. I've never seen anything like them. They made me remember that my mother had lace curtains all over the house that she cherished, did she call them Battenberg? I'm not sure. But I recall how carefully she cleaned them, pinning each scallop out on a sheet spread in the "spare room". Every spring saw this tedious work performed.

The big green lawn is punctuated by a pretty blue Jacuzzi whirlpool bath set in one corner against a wall of shrubbery. It is a beautiful place to take a hot dunking, day or evening, which we enjoy much. Many shrubs and trees grow against the tall brick walls. There's a heavy-berried pyracantha, a favorite with me. There's gardenias, and orange trees, holly trees, the graceful pepper trees languidly drooping, along with evergreens. Anything grows in that hot, sandy country: all you add is water. And care.

To which the Swopes add their own warm hospitality, no one could top Margit, so thoughtful, so efficient, how can anyone so ornamental be so useful? And Ed adds everything he can think of, as always, an excellent host.

city is forced to resurface roads repeatedly and that damage to Omaha streets exceeds $1 million annually.

Erington said damage to all Nebraska highways is estimated at $10 million a year.

He also said he agrees with studies indicating studded tires only have limited value in cutting safety hazards and function better than regular tires only on glare ice.

Lincoln City Engineer Rex Smith told the commission studded tire damage eventually will show up in all parts of the state, not just in Omaha.

Others supporting the ban included the Chamber of Commerce in Lincoln and Omaha, the Nebraska Society of Professional Engineers and the Douglas County attorney's office.

Strong Feelings About Smoking
There were some strong feelings — and they were evident — about the recent hearing on proposed rules and regulations for the Nebraska Clean Indoor Air Act which will go into effect next year.

Many of those at the hearing wore anti-smoking buttons and told those sitting near them to extinguish their cigarettes.

After one smoker noted the new law won't go into effect until January 1, 1980, a woman responded: "How would you like it if I started coughing in your face? Better yet, how would you like it if I vomited all over you?"

A non-smoker man told a nearby smoker: "Either you put out that cigarette or I'll put you out." Many other non-smokers fanned smoke away from their faces.

Under the proposed regulations, business must have to have physical barriers, such as a wall or partition, at least 56 inches high or leave four feet of floor space between smokers or non-smokers. The business would have the option of doing these things or installing a ventilation system that would renew the air in the room 12 times an hour.

Opponents of the new law claimed the various proposed regulations exceed the intent of the Legislature.

That was the view expressed by an attorney for the Nebraska Licensed Beverage Association.

But the non-smokers said the only way non-smokers' rights will be protected is through the new law.

Undeclared since Thanksgiving Day, 1934, the Ord Chants met their Waterloo at Albion Friday.

The final score being 20 to 6. The game was witnessed by more than 3,000 fans from all parts of eastern Nebraska. Ord had been undefeated in the last 41 contests.

Russell Jensen of Fremont reported his farm a mile south of North Loup yielded 17 tons of sugar beets per acre. The land is farmed by Ed Christensen. The price paid by the sugar company was $4 per ton, and the government parity payment was $1.75, a total of $5.75 or a gross return of nearly $100 per acre.

The Western Land Reformer Company completed the well on the J. S. Hoff farm west of Vinton last week. The well will go down in the records at Lincoln as the first irrigation well to be put down in the higher farm lands of Mira Valley. The capacity of the well is 500 gal. per min.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The papers made a big to do over Jon Davis' mistake in Atlanta the other day, and I am still puzzling over how come. All Jon and his painters done was take a $50,000 painting for a droppeth. It has been my observation all through this life, Mister Editor, that one man's idea of $50,000 art is another man's paint rag. And I figure the chances of a painter and an artist painter seeing eye to eye is about that good.

According to the reports, the painting crew found Sam Gilham's painting in a courtroom they were to paint in a $60 million federal building. That gives us another clue. Natural, any art you're going to put up in a $60 million public building has got to cost at least $50,000, even if it's a floorboard from the heathouse commissioned to give the room a basic American down home look. There was other pieces of art for the building that cost a heap more, according to the piece I saw. Anyhow, Sam didn't take kindly to Jon's opinion, which could of been based part on professional jealousy.

Sam had his $50,000 commission in the bank and top was working for the court. It turned out, though, that the judge that will hold court in the room didn't think the painting would do much for his dignity and ordered it moved as far from his sight as it could get. The judge is of a mind that the $11,000 aluminum pole that has been put in the hallway outside his court and called "Swimmers fer Atlanta" was about all the art he could enjoy at one setting.

The flap about droppeth art hit about the same time a North Carolina artist painter named Bob Timberlake was putting on a show in the state art museum, and peddling prints of his pictures as a sideline. Other artists got riled up about it, and claimed he was a promoter, not an artist, and besides he printed his $150 pictures on a fast press instead of etched each one separate like he said.

Professional jealousy come into play again, and the upshot was that the museum stopped the sale but not the show. The trouble I see here is that a feller that's got one of them $150 pictures on his wall was happy in his ignorance, and now he'll be wanting his money back. The truth is, the print will look the same, but he won't look at it the same, and that gets right back to what art is and ain't.

Actual everything is how you look at it. Take them chickens of Randall Wise's in Watertown, Mass. He says if they see the world red it calms em down, and if they see everything green it makes em fat. So he has worked out a plan to put colored contact lens on all his chickens. Fer pennies a bird, he says he can raise their value at least a quarter apiece. If they put on weight fester, and they are peaceable and don't peck at one another, they'll be ready fer market sooner and in better shape, he figgers.

But the way life is, Mister Editor, some killjoy comes along. Poultry experts don't think much of Randall's idea, although they admit that chickens just about blind with cataracts do better than them that can see good. Maybe we got another case of professional jealousy to deal with here.

Your truly
Geranium Joe

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says net farm income should reach about $30 billion this year, up from $27.9 billion last year.

KERRY ON

— one for toots —

Though I've read book after book of quotations of famous people, none seem to stick with me like the old, homey advice we pick up on the streets of our communities.

Such was the case, last week, when I was out of town on business. When I left Ord it was raining. In fact it rained harder and harder, the further east I drove.

Worrying about what a drop in temperature might do to the roads I'd have to return on, the next day, I listened to the late weather over the local tv station and learned — as I had feared — that a winter storm was moving into Central Nebraska.

Though I usually sleep late, I was up early the next morning — wondering whether the storm and anticipated snow had reached the Ord area. It was cold and blustery and overcast where I was at, but the moisture had subsided temporarily.

After breakfast I returned to my motel room to call the office in Ord.

To my dismay the storm HAD reached the Ord area. Highways were slush-covered and it was snowing hard. Schools in Ord had been dismissed for the day.

"I guess I'll just start out and hope for the best," I told the office manager. But the reports I'd been given, over the phone, negated at me as I projected upon the driving conditions I'd have to face.

Finishing a couple of last minute errands, I headed homeward.

When I was near enough to pick up the local radio station, I turned it on and the road reports continued to be bleak. As I neared York, the Ord station went off the air.

Having been told, earlier, of the ice and high winds, I guessed Ord must have experienced a power failure. Glancing at the time, I realized it would have been about the hour, Wednesday morning, we normally started printing the Quiz.

For the next 100 miles, I'd punch the button on my car radio for the Ord station and come up with a blank. Nothing!

Expos Reward Coplen's Efforts

(Editor's note: The following article about Tom Coplen was in the Saturday, October 27 Omaha World-Herald. Tim, a native of Hastings, is a nephew of Mel Coplen and a grandson of former Ord area resident Leon Coplen. According to Mel, Leon was quite a pitcher in his day, too. Back then a tea towel on the windmill signaled a game at Scotia. "All the Coplen boys have been great ball players," Mel said.

Coplen will complete his degree work in business administration this semester at Indiana State. He will report to spring training at Daytona Beach, Fla., in March for his first assignment with Calgary, Alberta in the Pioneer League. "I was a little disappointed when I wasn't drafted," Coplen said. "It made me want to work even harder. There have been a lot of days when it has been just me and a catcher to go out to the field."

Herewith, the World-Herald article. It was only a temporary setback for Tim Coplen when he wasn't picked in the professional baseball draft after ending his college eligibility at Indiana State in the spring. As a result, the pitcher from Scottsbluff, Neb., dedicated himself to getting the opportunity that came last week when he was signed by the Montreal Expos.

3-2 Record Coplen had a 3-2 record as a reliever on the 41-11 Indiana State team that advanced to the NCAA playoffs. But it was in summer baseball that Coplen caught the attention of Montreal scout Terry Boyle. Coplen had an 8-3 record with the Terra Haute, Ind., team that won the state amateur championship. "What happened was that we qualified for the regional tournament in Chicago and quite a few scouts saw me throw against the team that won the national championship," Coplen said. Coplen won that game over the Gary, Ind., Pirates.

Coplen's situation with the draft wasn't totally discouraging. Jim Rasmussen of Council Bluffs, a former teammate of Coplen at Indiana State, was also ignored in the draft, but later signed with Philadelphia. He had a 9-9 record this season with Spartanburg, S.C. Know Chances "He was in the same situation I was in and he was one of the best pitchers I've ever been around," Coplen said. "From watching Jim I know what my chances are."

Coplen was recruited sight unseen by Indiana State Coach Bob Warn, former coach at Iowa Western of Council Bluffs. Coplen pitched two years at Mid-Plains Community College in North Platte. Hayes, a former Indiana State catcher, is now in the farm system of the Chicago Cubs.

Coplen is one of eight players from the 1978 Indiana State team that have signed professional contracts. He considers that accomplishment a tribute to Warn. "He's had a lot of influence on me," Coplen said. "The man is so into baseball that you can't help but learn from him. He lives and breathes it 24 hours a day."

Stock Up to Beat Inflation? State CPAs Advise Against It

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of five articles pertaining to anti-inflation messages from the Nebraska Society of Certified Public Accountants.) Faced with the prospect of continuing inflation, wouldn't it be wise to use its savings, or even borrow, to stock up now on everything it will need for the next two or three years?

Probably not, says the Nebraska Society of Certified Public Accountants, because of what are known in business inventory maintenance costs, which could easily outweigh any savings on the cost of stockpiled items. One such expense, say the CPAs, is the high interest caused by inflation, itself — an important reason for not laying by products that won't be used for many months. To purchase those products a family must either pay high interest on money borrowed, or lose high interest on funds that could otherwise be invested. In either case, the interest must be deducted from any savings on the purchase price.

Some other considerations the CPAs suggest keeping in mind when deciding how far ahead to buy: The costs of storing the inventory; lost household space; heating and air conditioning expense. Possible deterioration of the products; loss of strength, flavor, freshness or style; possibly even spoilage. The bother and expense of protecting the inventory from vermin, fire, or water damage. Insurance protection. The temptation to be lavish in the use of products that appear to be in such abundant supply.

The CPA Society acknowledges that in addition to the savings possible through paying today's prices rather than those that will prevail a year or three hence, there's the added attraction of "economies of scale" — the price reductions that come from buying in bulk. But, a society spokesman warned, if business conditions were to turn down, as some economists expect, big savings in inventory could turn into big losses. "That's what happened to many companies in 1974," a CPA Society member said. "They were heavily stocked when a recession set in and had to dump millions of dollars of inventory at a loss."

Industry, say the CPAs, is generally playing its cards close to the vest at present, keeping on hand only what it expects to need during the weeks ahead — sometimes stocking ahead no longer than it would take to restock an item if it were to run out. CPAs often warn small-business clients against speculating on their inventory — buying large amounts when the price is low in hopes of turning a profit on it. Such speculation not only ties up hard-to-find working capital, but also puts the company into the juggling of commodities, which may not be the business the company was set up to engage in.

The CPAs say that even large companies, which often go into the futures market to buy commodities they will need in the months ahead, do so almost solely to insure adequate supplies and prices they can count on. Although they may occasionally turn a profit (or loss) on futures trading, that is not the primary concern. Speculation in commodities, say the CPAs, is strictly for those who know what they're doing and buying supplies too far in advance is speculation.

Come To Church READ LUKE 6:31-38 "Give as freely as you have received!" (Matthew 10:8 TLB) Recently our daily paper ran an article about the rural mail carrier who loved colorful flowers and enjoyed sharing them. Years ago he began his project with a few packets of flower seeds that reseed themselves. He scattered them beside the road along his mail route. Each year he throws out seeds in new areas. He takes pride in the beauty he has instigated and enjoys the colorful patches which he has planted. His customers are delighted with the flowers and are now adding to his efforts. Every spring he shares his brand of love by faithfully scattering more seeds. God showed His love for us by giving His Son Jesus Christ. Because of this, we are able to return God's love and fellowship with Him. We also have the joy of sharing God's love, and ours, with others. The more we give love, the more enriched our own lives become. PRAYER: Heavenly Father, thank You for giving Your love so freely. Help us to be more faithful in sharing Your love with others. In the name of Christ, Amen. THOUGHT FOR THE DAY When was the last time I shared God's love with someone else? — Gracey L. Weibly (El Ferrol del Caudillo, Spain) Copyright — THE UPPER ROOM

Babbles by Bertha
 Last week's mail brought letters from distant places. From Malawi, Africa; Menzo and Audrey Fuller wrote about building problems. Rainy season will begin soon. From Italy: Jan Koelling Libropoulos, our former neighbor, wrote about their little dark haired Pani Lydia, who is their love and high school sweetheart. And from Mexico City: Kathleen wrote about the visit of former neighbors, the Zellers, when they lived in Westport, CT and now live in Philadelphia. They mailed letters for her and we got ours in record time. George, Jennifer and Barbara will be home for Christmas. Twilla Hornickel was released from Valley County Hospital last Tuesday. Our son, Ken, and Charlene accompanied Lloyd and Nara Ge-weke to Columbia, MO for the Nebraska-Missouri football game Saturday. They left Friday and returned home Sunday. The Phil Quinns also accompanied Lloyd and Nara. Mr. and Mrs. William Cook of North Loup were supper guests of Don and Phyllis Saturday. Victor was home for the weekend. George and I were among the helpers at the Seventh Day Baptist turkey supper in North Loup Sunday evening and enjoyed it, so were Don and Phyllis. It was rewarding in more ways than one. We were without electricity about 11 hours Wednesday and Thursday one hour 12 minutes. What a task for the crew repairing the damage done by the storm. Our thanks to them!

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Duvall, Ben and Sheila, of York spent the weekend with his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Duvall. Mr. and Mrs. Monty Koelling, Darlene and Brian, of Lincoln and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Baetty of Omaha were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Koelling. Loree Foth, Doniphon and Mike Hansen, Grand Island, spent the weekend with her folks, the Gordon Poths. They went hunting with Bryan Foth. Mr. and Mrs. Irving King visited relatives in Albion and St. Edward Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Moyer were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Koelling. They celebrated the birthday of Mr. Moyer. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lange attended the Loup Valley Arts Council dinner theatre at Sargent Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hackel also attended. Mr. and Mrs. John Courtney spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Novak honoring the Novak's wedding anniversary.

Feeding Pregnant Ewes on Milo or Corn Stalks

Management is the most important factor in pasturing pregnant ewes on crop residue. (1) Starting ewes slowly is important to keep them from overeating. One-half hour per day for the first week is enough if corn and milo grain is plentiful. Overfat ewes can have lambing paralysis as well as thin, under-nourished ewes. (2) Vaccination of the ewes for enterotoxemia is recommended three weeks before you turn them out. (3) Vaccinating ewes for enterotoxemia six weeks before lambing will also aid in immunity of the new born lambs. (4) Keep a watchful eye on the grain in the field especially during the last 6 weeks of gestation, and when it gets too low (under one-half pound per day), add grain to the ration at this point. The biggest problem exists when there is too much grain in early gestation and not enough at the end of gestation when energy is needed. (5) Ask at the Extension Office for NebGuides on sheep rations.

European Corn Borers

David Keith, Extension Survey Entomologist, informs us that fall European corn borer surveys are now complete. This year, in addition to the five reporting districts (Northeast, East, Southeast, Central, and South), the Southwest District was sampled due to unusually heavy borer activity reported there this summer and in 1978. Apparently cooler weather and greater or more favorable distribution of rainfall the past two summers have favored borer establishment and development.

Corn borer averages per plant by crop reporting districts were: Northeast 1.5 (up 35 percent from 1978 fall levels), East 3.8 (up 56 percent), Southeast 1.0 (down 41 percent), Central 2.7 (up 117 percent), South 2.5 (up 141 percent), and Southwest 1.5 borers per plant.

Many corn fields are still unharvested and could suffer extensive losses due to breakage and lodging. Recent cool moist weather is likely to accelerate stalk decomposition caused by stalk rot and increase the probability of damage. Heavily borer infested or stalk rot infested fields should be harvested as soon as possible to reduce field losses.

Ericson News

Melvin and Pearl Drahotka returned home October 22 from an eight day trip to Alaska. This now completes a visit to each of the 50 states in the United States. They left Grand Island by jet to Denver then on to Seattle to Anchorage.

Ed Booth has been undergoing tests and treatment at the Grand Island Veterans Hospital since October 29.

Two Birthdays Celebrated

On Saturday, October 20, a group of eight gathered for a visit and special birthday dinner in the home of Mary Nutting. Guests honored were Rita Kasselner of O'Neill and Bertha Booth of Ericson. Others there were Mary Field of O'Neill, Helen Poland of Grand Island, Maxine Eacker of Ewing, Shirley Majors and Eitel Watson.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Allison of Rapid City, SD were Monday lunch guests and afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Booth.

drying rate of grain due to: a) higher moisture holding capacity of the air, b) reduced relative humidity as the air enters the bin; and c) greater vapor pressure gradient between the grain kernel and drying air. At the same time, however, higher temperatures result in more rapid respiration of the grain and higher growth rates for molds and other facets (e.g. fungus) which result in a loss of grain quality. Depending upon the solar system selected, some benefits can be realized in terms of increased drying rates. At the same time, again, adding heat to a bin in Nebraska without some means of stirring or unloading dry grain usually results in more over-drying which certainly is not cost-effective. Stirring devices result in more damaged kernels which can lead to a greater likelihood of mold and insect infestation and increased dockage.

The airflow rates required for grain drying, in order to achieve a reasonable drying rate while keeping upper layers of damp grain cool, are high enough so that the solar collector surface required to produce any significant temperature rise is quite large. Seldom will a temperature rise of more than 8 - 10 degrees F. be realized. The average is about 1 1/2 - 2 degrees F. The high airflow rates, coupled with a reasonably low level of solar insolation (exposure to sun's rays) during drying season makes most solar systems border on impracticality.

In some cases, it is likely that a solar grain drying system can work under the right set of conditions can be cost-effective. However, solar should never be used as a way to "improve" a marginal drying system. The slight increases in drying rate will be more than offset by increased decomposition rates in the upper layers, thereby resulting in a net overall loss in grain quality.

The most important factor in grain drying is the airflow rate. Most farmers would realize better or greater benefits from increasing their fan size than they will from adding solar. Bear in mind too that good drying requires a full perforated floor.

Also, investigate improvements in drying by adding heat by utilizing grain drying simulation programs on AGNET.

Tests are performed on popcorn shipments brought to the station. Along with measuring moisture content, station workers note the temperature of the corn. Weldon Ingraham performs that test, while Chet records the results.

Area Popcorn Harvest Is Nearly 90 Percent Complete

The area popcorn harvest is 90 percent complete, according to Chet Setlik, with '79 yields 10 to 15 percent below those a year ago. Manager of the Blevins Popcorn Company's North Loup station, Setlik estimated the average yield at 3,800 pounds an acre.

Popcorn connoisseurs needn't worry, he assured. There will be plenty of the toothsome crop to satisfy their palates. Munchers can select one of the three varieties marketed by Blevins. They are:

- a hullless yellow corn.
- a hullless white corn.
- a yellow corn yielding a larger popped kernel used primarily in making caramel corn.

Of the three, the first is the most popular. Although the white corn yields the smallest popped kernel, it is the most tender of the three varieties.

Popcorn is a profitable crop, according to Setlik. He supplied statistics showing field corn brings $4 a hundredweight. The contract price for popcorn is $7.60 for the same amount.

"And, Setlik said, "they can raise a good crop (of popcorn) on less fertilizer."

Corn delivered to the North Loup station is shelled or stored on the cob. The crop this year has been a wet one, with corn containing around 16 1/2 percent moisture. Air drying reduces the moisture content.

From North Loup, corn is shipped to a Blevins plant in North Bend, NE. After further processing it is packaged under the Blevins name or carries the name of another brand.

Most corn sold is consumed in the United States, but some is exported to England and Japan. Gov. Charles Thone boosted popcorn exports recently by taking some on his trade promotion tour of Europe.

Another popcorn promoter is State Senator Don Wagner. The senator has given samples of the Loup Valley product to fellow lawmakers and other visitors in his Lincoln office.

The North Loup station sells a complete line of popcorn products. These include the poppers, three varieties of corn, and the oil. Chet says he prefers using peanut oil, but like most things, it is a matter of personal taste.

Long a staple with movie goers and in American homes, popcorn is consumed in other places too. One Ord tavern owner said he pops at least ten pounds of the product daily.

Heat - Moisture Getting a bowl full of the product depends on the combination of heat and moisture. When shipped, popcorn contains around 13 1/2 moisture, according to Setlik. Heated to 400 degrees, the moisture causes the small kernels to explode to between 34 to 35 times their original size.

Older popcorn popping machines may not reach the 400 degree mark, Setlik cautioned, causing a partially popped batch of corn.

Add a dollop of butter and a dash of salt and you have one of the area's best tasting products.

Arcadia Bond Issue Passes

Registered voters in the Arcadia Public Schools district approved a $875,000 bond issue Tuesday. The issue carried 233 to 123, according to school authorities.

Funds will build three new classrooms, a new gym, and administrative offices. Work on the project will likely begin this spring.

The Arcadia Schools Superintendent said he was surprised it carried like it did. "This is something we really need," he said.

In an interview Monday, school principal John Crose predicted the vote "... will be really close."

Both Crose and the school board members and concerned citizens are for doing their homework. They began calling on citizens recently explaining why the new addition was needed, how it would be financed, etc.

Jack Wilkins of Kearney is the architect for the planned project. It will contain an estimated 17,500 square feet of space.

The $875,000 bond issue will be retired over a 20 year period.

Rules for Living Heard at Farmer-Rancher Banquet

Farmers, ranchers, and area businessmen heard Rex Schultz give his rules for living during the annual Farmer-Rancher Banquet, Tuesday night, at the Ord Elks Club. The vice-president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank said people should:

- Develop a positive mental attitude, moment by moment.
- Do some creative thinking.
- "Most of us live life too fast," he said, "like a man reading Playboy magazine with his wife turning the pages."

The Farmer-Rancher Appreciation Banquet is an annual event sponsored by area merchants. It is to show their appreciation for support given the area economy. Sponsors this year were the Ord Chamber of Commerce, the Arcadia Boosters Club, and North Loup Lions Club.

Chief Zenger of North Loup was the master of ceremonies. Banquet officials estimated attendance at 238 people.

School Board Takes Care of Routine Items

The Ord School Board took care of routine items during their meeting Monday night. Board members gathered at Ord High to handle items including:

— The annual audit report. McDermott and Miller of Grand Island told board members the books were in good shape, and didn't foresee any problems during the coming school year.

The school district's insurance package. Bill French of State Farm Insurance stated the district has basically all the coverage it needs. He suggested increasing the school buildings' insurance on an annual basis, as their value is hiked by inflation.

— Board members selected James L. Cannon and Associates of Grand Island as architects for the planned school addition. That includes a shop area, a girls locker room, a weight room and possibly additions for storage, and for wrestling.

Dr. Bill Gogan, Ord Schools Superintendent, stated architects will first look at the present building and visit with board members and others before drawing up any plans.

Board members: — Allowed Ord High Annual Staff members to sell ads on a one year trial basis.

— Discussed roof leaks in the Ord Elementary School. Many leaks disappeared after Krause Roofing of Grand Island repaired the roof recently. They originally installed the roof, according to Dr. Gogan.

— Heard the Superintendent's report. Dr. Bill Gogan told board members Deb Hanson has been

Supervisors Have A Light Agenda

Valley County Supervisors had a light agenda during their two and a half hour meeting Tuesday. Dick Peterson, was absent from the session, held in the Valley County Courthouse.

Duane Carson, Road Bookkeeper, presented claims, expenditures and balances for this month and so far this fiscal year. Max Leth, Highway Engineer, commented on the condition of the road near the Jungman Hall area and mentioned 3 or 4 places that still need some gravel and possibility of a patrol operator at Arcadia.

Custodian Herman Swanson asked for a small snow blower and talked about the operation of the furnace.

Miscellaneous items discussed before noon were reports from Region 26, CTC, Mid-NE Mental Retardation Services, Loup Valley Ment. Health Center. Other items filed were: Sheriff Oct. fee report, Extension Sept. & Oct. report, and 1980 Census-Local Review Program, Traffic Eng. Assistance program, airport letter and Christmas decoration letter. An agreement concerning eligibility for Federal-Aid funds was signed.

The board recessed at noon and returned at 1:00 P.M. when Connie Felt with the Mid-NE Mental Retardation Services gave a report on Valley County persons still at the Beatrice State Home and progress at the local hostels, under this program.

A J. Marvin Werns on office space used by the probation officer was discussed and terms were changed and agreed upon before the chairman signed it.

Max Leth presented his recommendation of vacating a road and this will be advertised for hearing to be held December 11 at 11:00 a.m.

Mulligan moved allowance and approval of all claims except one which needs a statement attached to it.

Speakers Heard At Energy Day

Energy had center stage Thursday at the Ord Elks Club. Farmers, ranchers, and other interested persons gathered to learn how to wisely expend energy while getting the most for their investments of time and labor.

Tillage techniques and other methods for getting the most for a person's time and money were discussed. Tillage techniques ranged from the traditional mold board plow to other more sophisticated tillage systems to a no tillage plan.

White Dead of Apparent Suicide

Eldon White, 64, died of an apparent self-inflicted wound Friday, November 9, at his home in rural Garfield County. The cause of death was a small caliber gunshot wound in the head.

White was a long-time Garfield County resident. His complete obituary will be found elsewhere in this issue of the Ord Quiz.

Correction

Last week's Ord Quiz had an article about an open meeting November 17th of Alcoholics Anonymous in Ord. The open meeting will be held but the Burwell-Ord Alano Group will hold their 21st anniversary meeting Sunday, November 18th at the Ord Vet. Club. From 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. there will be speakers, coffee, cookies, and fellowship in the lower level of the Vets Club in Ord.

NPPD Gives Sneak Preview Of Comstock Impact Report

Area residents got a sneak preview of the Comstock plant impact report during a water policy meeting here Thursday. Don Peterson, a specialist with Nebraska Public Power District, told the audience just how the plant would change their lives.

Statistics contained in his preliminary research findings show the plant's coming will have a significant influence on housing, retail sales, and other areas of the Loup Valley's economic picture.

Peterson broke his report down into broad subjects. These were:

CONSTRUCTION — Construction will likely start in the Fall of 1981 or the Spring of 1982. Work on the plant will peak in the third quarter of 1984, with 1,380 hard hats on site.

WORK FORCE — The work force will be made of 64 percent skilled workers, 17 percent semi-skilled workers, with 15 1/2 percent of the workers classified unskilled. During an 18 month period there will be an average of over 1,000 workers at the Comstock site. This period is from the third quarter of 1983 to the fourth quarter of the following year.

LOCAL WORKERS — Statistics on a possible local worker numbers at the plant were determined by a comparison study of 14 other projects. Variables included the area's population, age, sex, etc. of the potential work force.

Peterson said the plant will likely draw workers from Garfield, Valley, Blaine, Custer, Loup, Sherman, and Greeley Counties. Most will live within a 100 miles of the project. Peterson termed that distance "large but not unrealistic."

Broken down on a county by county basis, local and non-local workers will reside in:

	Local	Non-Local
Custer	18	183-25
Garfield	13	32-50
Greeley	35	60-94
Sherman	34	59-91
Valley	47	90-139

Blaine not listed not listed Loup 11 22-31

In Valley County, projections show 13 workers will come from Arcadia, 10 from North Loup, and 24 from Ord.

For each 100 non-local workers employed in plant construction, 25 will be single, 26 will be married but with families located elsewhere, and 49 will have their families with them.

Employment of non-local workers will rise from the 117 in 1982 employment projections to a high of 624 in 1984. These will decline to the 23 non-local workers projected for 1986. These figures are annual averages, according to Peterson.

HOUSING — Housing requirements will "intensify" in Peterson's words, during project construction. Of workers employed at the Comstock site, 19 percent will live in single family dwellings, 53 percent will live in mobile homes, and 12 percent will live in apartments. The remaining 16 percent will live in units the report classified as "other." According to Peterson, this will mainly consist of recreational vehicles.

SCHOOL ENROLLMENTS — School enrollments will increase, according to the report, but present schools can handle projected student loads. In 1989 Valley County had over 1,400 students enrolled in schools. Enrollments have since fallen. In the 1977-78 school year there were about 1,150 students attending classes in Valley County.

Enrollments projected for 1983-84 peak construction period, including students attributable to the project, will hit a high of about 1,200, according to Peterson. "There will be no apparent problems with the schools' physical capacity," he said.

PERSONAL INCOME — Incomes in the seven counties named previously haven't kept pace with the state average. Peterson estimated the project would have "a positive effect" on the area's income during and after plant construction and throughout the 30 to 40 year life of the plant.

EMPLOYMENT — Secondary or indirect jobs will increase. During the peak year of construction, 1984, 849 new jobs will be created in construction alone. That same year, according to NPPD figures, 279 secondary or indirect jobs will be created. The majority of these will be in the trade and services sectors of the economy.

COST OF LIVING — A study done at a power plant site, near Wheatland, WY, determined the cost of living didn't increase there any faster than at the 22 other communities included in the study. Peterson declined comment on what effect the plant would have on the area in this regard.

History Bill Thakken, environmental specialist with NPPD gave a history of the Comstock project. Comstock, he said, was selected as a plant site in 1978 on the basis of various criteria. These included available water supply, water quality, cost of pumping, flood hazards, public acceptability, topography, and other items.

NPPD is now conducting a well field study seeing how possible pumping requirements will affect area ground water. Thakken said the plant will need 7,200 gallons of water a minute when in full operation. He didn't know how many months a year that would be.

Previous plans for a reservoir have evidently been set aside. But according to both Thakken and Peterson, they haven't been abandoned entirely.

Two plant sites, both within two miles of Comstock, are being considered as the plant location. Construction is scheduled to begin in 1982 and will be completed by 1986. The plant will then start generating 650,000 kilowatts of electricity.

Activities to Mark Education Week

Public Schools in Ord and Comstock will celebrate National Educational Week, November 11-17, with a variety of activities. These are broken down by department and grade level.

Ord students in grades kindergarten - third have invited their grandparents to attend school November 15.

Students in the fourth grade have invited parents, grandparents, and others to a reading party November 15 from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at Ord Elementary.

The City Council will dine with fifty graders that day as part of their Education Week activities.

Ord sixth graders are writing and will deliver invitations to people to visit their classroom this week. Special attention is being paid to senior citizens, childless parents, and people new to the community.

Those students in Special Education have asked parents to come to school and work with their children on a one-to-one basis.

Senior citizens in Valley County Hospital will play catch with physical education students during the week.

Dr. Glen Auble will give music students a short concert during a special assembly program. Parents, grandparents and others are invited to the media center Thursday and Thursday evening. Hard-cover children's

Students Tour The Ord Quiz

Students from seventh and eighth grade classes at St. Mary's School toured the Ord Quiz last Thursday. They saw the printing press, learned how engravings are made, and watched other machines as well.

The Quiz welcomes tours from schools and other interested groups. For reservations, contact The Ord Quiz, E. J. Wilgent estate, 305 S. 16th St., Ord, Nebraska.

Cori Smedra, Michelle Bonne, Susan Lech, Linda Setlik, Mickie Petska, Kathy Warner, Dede Dubas, Betty Markvicka, Marie Wadas.

Daniel Wadas, Tad Melia, Doug Duda, Ronald Scheideler, Dan Beran, Kevin Osentowski, Jim Walahoski, Tom Hoebet, Russ Blaha, Brian Arnold, Paul Michalski, Stanley Urbanovsky, Randy Welniak, Brady Potrzeba, and Sister Mary Diane.

Pat Stethem bagged this two pointer Sunday about two miles south of the Pizza Hut, around 9:30 a.m. This was the first time she has been deer hunting in nine years.

Control Area's Fate May Depend On A Definition

The fate of a water control area in northern Nebraska may hinge on a single word. That word, according to J. Davis Aiken, Extension Water Law Specialist with the University of Nebraska, is "adequate."

During a meeting here Friday, Aiken stated that under Nebraska law, a control area MAY be designated if the Department of Water Resources director concludes the uncontrolled development and use of ground water has caused OR IS LIKELY TO CAUSE either of the following conditions:

- An inadequate ground water supply to meet present or reasonably foreseeable need; or
- Ground water quality degradation has been caused by ground water mining such that the water is unsuitable for current use.

"The key word, according to Aiken, is "adequate." He interpreted that to mean water quality as well as quantity. Recently Sandhills residents in Nebraska have been concerned about possible ground water pollution from center pivot irrigation developments. Nitrogen injected into the water is used to fertilize crops.

Pivot opponents note that in some areas of the Lower Loup Natural Resources District, Aiken told the Quiz, the ground water nitrate count has gone from less than one part per million to six parts per million in three years.

State law mandates no more than ten parts nitrate per million in drinking water.

Yearly Increases Studies by the University of Nebraska Conservation and Survey Division, Aiken told the Quiz, indicate irrigation on sandy soils can lead to average nitrate increases of one part per million per year.

Should the Department of Water Resources designate a water control area, it could set a legal precedent. Richard Beran stated Friday people in existing control areas urged a moratorium on well drilling, if the sandhills area is established, so officials could view the total water situation.

The Lower Loup Natural Resources District manager was present October 25 when LLNRD directors voted to request a hearing on the five county water control area. Their request went to John Neuberger, Director of the Nebraska Department of Water Resources in Lincoln.

Hearing Date The hearing is tentatively scheduled for February 25.

After that hearing, it is up to Neuberger to decide if a control area should be established, and where.

If Neuberger decides the district shall be created, the Lower Loup NRD has 18 months to draw up proposed water regulations. Another hearing by the Lower Loup is then held. It is up to Neuberger to approve the hearing considering public input, etc.

With that, the control area is established. The Lower Loup would act as the enforcement agency.

Should a moratorium on well drilling be established, it would be a legal first for Nebraska. Three control areas exist. None have included that in their regulations.

Aiken suspected this legal precedent would likely be challenged in court. "I think the NRD would win," Aiken said, "but it would be expensive."

He based his opinion on a case in South Dakota. According to Aiken, a man there drilled a well sans a permit. The state later denied him the permit when he applied. He wasn't allowed to use the well.

A SPECIAL DAY . . . Thanksgiving Day is a different kind of holiday. It does not commemorate a holy event and yet it is quite religious. It does not mark the birth of a distinguished one but still it celebrates the beginning again of a whole lot of gratitude and the fulfillment of thankfulness.

Thanksgiving never changes. People invite the same people over for the holiday and the day pretty much goes on in the same way that it did in years past. Just see if this doesn't happen next Thursday.

A turkey doesn't defrost in time. You send many more dollars for groceries than usual this week but you'll have to make a quick trip to the store for something you forgot.

Someone, usually an aunt, will say just as she sits down to eat, "there goes my diet."

Another one of the ladies will vow, "next year we are eating out."

Someone invited to dinner will show up late.

Someone will have forgotten to take a salad out of the refrigerator and probably won't discover it until things are being put away.

A small boy will splash cranberry sauce on a white tablecloth or maybe even plop it on the floor.

A guy will refuse to use cranberry sauce because he'll tell you about the time he heard it was poisonous.

Someone will complain because the day's festivities are centered around football games on TV.

The first one who says, "I can't eat another bite," will be the first one opening the refrigerator looking for a snack.

A guy will joke about having leftovers for a week.

So you see, Thanksgiving Day is a different kind of holiday — and yet the day is, in many ways, the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer . . . will live in Omaha

Anita Hunkins-Tim Spencer Married in Afternoon Ceremony

St. Mark's United Methodist Church in Lincoln was the setting for the October 20 wedding of Anita Hunkins and Timothy Gene Spencer. The simple, double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Bill Doran at 3 p.m. with about 50 friends and relatives present.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Hunkins of Comstock. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dale Spencer of Golden, Colorado.

The bride chose a rose colored floor length gown which featured a cowl neck and was gathered at the waist with a full A-line skirt, and she wore an off-white lace shawl. Her bouquet was of baby red roses and miniature yellow carnations with baby's breath. She also wore a yellow rose in her hair.

Attendants for the couple were Norine Hoevet of Grand Island, friend of the bride, and John Becker of Alliance, friend of the groom. Hoevet wore a yellow halter-style dress with matching cover-up jacket, and carried a yellow and red rose.

Music was provided for the ceremony by Nancy Grauerholz, friend of the bride. Caring for the guest book were Julie and Lori Evans, nieces of the bride. Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Chateau LaFleur Clubhouse in Lincoln with many friends and relatives attending.

The couple is making their home at 14219 Pierce Plaza in Omaha.

Rehearsal Dinner
Following rehearsal Friday evening, October 19, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Spencer hosted a dinner at Sweep Left Restaurant in Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kruml, Jr. . . . will live near Elyria

Wicht-Kruml Exchanged Marriage Vows at Methodist Church in Ord

The First United Methodist Church in Ord was the setting for a 4 p.m. double ring ceremony October 21, uniting Mr. and Mrs. Christain Wicht of Grand Island, and Joe Emanuel Kruml, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kruml of Ord. Rev. Curtis Kruml officiated the ceremony.

Mrs. Shirley Karre of Ord was the organist. Stephen Baker of Ord played the guitar and sang the musical selection, "You Needed Me."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length gown of Qiana featuring a mandarin collar of lace. The lace was applied on the front with lace flowers arranged in a keyhole design. Matching lace flowers trimmed the full length sleeves around the wrists. Lace flowers dotted the gown down to the chapel length train. The empire waistline was also trimmed with lace. The double-tiered veil was waist length and trimmed with lace flowers beginning at the headpiece. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, white carnations, and baby's breath, trimmed with a royal blue velvet ribbon.

Maid of honor was Julie Weakland of Grand Island, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Cindy Wicht of Grand Island, sister of the bride, and Chris Conner, Kay Holt and Caren Schauer, all friends of the bride from Ord. They wore matching full length royal blue gowns of silk knit featuring crown-style necks. Each carried a wand of yellow sweetheart roses trimmed with baby's breath and accented by a light blue ribbon.

Flower girl was Nichole Bebee of Ord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Fryzek. She wore a white full length gown of soft double knit featuring an empire waist. A contrasting royal blue velvet ribbon was tied at the waist. She carried a small wand of yellow sweetheart roses, trimmed with baby's breath and accented with a light blue ribbon. Joseph Kruml of Hastings, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kruml, was ring bearer. He wore a tuxedo with royal blue pants and a contrasting light blue jacket with royal blue trim.

Candle lighters were Mark Knight and Bryon Stevens, friends of the groom from Ord.

Best man was Doug Potrzeba of Ord. The groomsmen were Don Iwanski, Bryon Stevens, Rod Kittle, and Mark Knight, all from Ord and friends of the groom.

The groom was attired in a tuxedo of light blue with a light blue ruffled shirt. The groomsmen were dressed in tuxedos with royal blue pants and a contrasting light blue jacket with royal blue trim. Each wore a boutonniere of yellow sweetheart roses with baby's breath and a dark blue velvet leaf. Ushers at the ceremony were Don Iwanski and Rod Kittle.

Honored guests were the grandparents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Ruzicka of Burwell; Mr. and Mrs. Leland Chafin of Burwell, aunt and uncle of the groom; Corrie Wicht of Shelton, friend of the bride; and Mrs. John Newton of Lake Havasu City, AZ, sister of the bride.

The reception, immediately following the service, was held at the church. Cutting and serving the four-tiered cake were Jean Hruza of Burwell and Cindy Kamarad of Comstock. Serving punch was Laurie Gregory of Ord and serving coffee was Jean Dugas of Elyria. Marcia Mason of Ord, attended the guest book.

Following the reception, a dance was held at the Ord Elks Club. After a short trip through the southern states, the couple will make their home near Elyria.

CZARNINA (Polish) DUCK SOUP

This recipe must be started by dressing the duck. First of cut off head of a live duck and save the blood, then dress.

Take the neck, wings, liver, heart and gizzard for the soup. 1 small onion (cut up), 1 bay leaf, 2 stalks celery (cut up), 4 T. flour, 3 T. sugar, 2 T. vinegar, 1 t. salt (or to your taste), ¼ t. in blood, 1 c. duck blood, ¼ lb. prunes, noodles or dumplings.

Put 1 quart water in pot with meat, onion, bay leaf, salt and celery. Boil until meat is tender. Cut up gizzard, heart and wings into small pieces.

Boil prunes in ½ quart water before preparing blood. While prunes are cooking, mix the flour into blood and beat well, add sugar, ¼ t. salt and beat well.

Pour 2 cups of cooled broth into blood stirring constantly. When well mixed pour into broth. Add meat, prunes and vineg. Boil 1 minute. Add either noodles or drop dumplings and cook 10-15 minutes.

FREEDOM HOUSE PRESENTS "JOY"

Saturday Eve., Nov. 17

Main Street North Loup, Nebr.

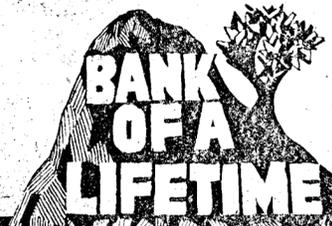

Joe Vampola shot this handsome deer 10 miles north of Byrwell Sunday. He estimated its weight at 250 pounds. Joe said he hadn't seen any bucks until his encounter Sunday. Then he saw two. He shot the animal at 300 yards with open sights. Check-in station personnel, according to Joe, thought the deer could be trophy quality. It was 24 and one-fourth inches between the antlers. He had five points on one side and three on the other. Joe, from Omaha, droily suggested this made it an eight point deer.

Deer Season Opened Saturday

Deer hunting season opened on Saturday this year. Ackles Oil is the Ord check-in station. Owner Gary Ackles said there are "considerably more" deer being brought in this year than last.

Many of them have larger racks, this year, he told the Quiz. He guessed a bad hunting season last year and other factors boosted the deer population locally.

Mixed Crop Report Posted

Statistics from the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service were mixed this month. Corn production was down and sorghum grain production remain unchanged.

Corn production in Nebraska on November 1 is forecast at a record 77.2 million bushels, up 2% from the October 1 estimate. Total production, if realized, would surpass by 5% last year's record large crop of 74.0 million bushels. The yield is forecast at a record 116 bushels per acre, up 2 bushels from last month and 3 bushels over last year's record 113 bushel average. The 5-year (1974-78) average yield per acre is 90.4 bushels. The acreage intended for grain is unchanged from last month at 6.7 million, 2% above last year's harvested acreage.

Dryland corn production is expected to total 169.2 million bushels, up 2% from last month and 2% above the 1978 crop. The average yield is forecast at 86.8 bushels per acre, above last year's 84.7 bushel yield and the previous record dryland yield of 85.4 bushels set in 1972. The 5-year average yield is 53.3 bushels per acre. Farmers intend to harvest 1.95 million acres of dryland corn for grain, the same as a year ago.

Irrigated corn production at 608 million bushels is up nearly 2% from last month's forecast and is nearly 6% above the 1978 output. The yield is forecast at 128 bushels per acre, up 2 bushels from the October estimate and 3 bushels above the 1978 yield. The 1974-78 average irrigated yield is 113.9 bushels. The acreage intended for grain stand at 4.75 million, 3% above 1978.

Production of sorghum grain was forecast at 137.25 million bushels, the same as last month and last year. The yield per acre at 75 bushels is equal to last year's record high and compares with the 1974-78 average of 58.2. Acreage for harvest at 1.83 million is the same as last year.

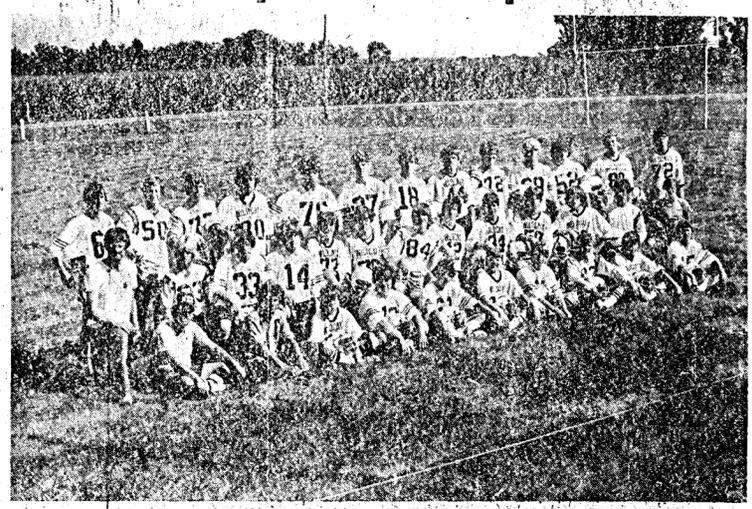

Production of soybeans is estimated at 56 million bushels, the same as last month and 32% higher than last year's crop. The yield is forecast at 35 bushels per acre, the same as last month but 1 bushel above last year. The 1974-78 average yield is 28.3 bushels per acre.

Dry bean production is estimated at 2.11 million cwt., up 8% from last year. Sugar beet production is forecast at 1.5 million tons, nearly 10% higher than last year. Fall potato production is estimated at 1.5 million cwt., 17% below 1978. Hay production is forecast at 7.5 million tons, slightly above last year.

In the Midwest, many farmers are converting pickup trucks to propane to beat rising gasoline and diesel fuel prices. Propane conversion kits sold like hotcakes after predictions of dollar-a-gallon fuel first surfaced.

Off-farm income of farm families is expected to exceed last year's record $34 billion and will contribute more than half of their total income.

'Cats End Season With 6-3 Record; Butts Surveys Just Completed Year

The North Loup-Scotia varsity football football team.

The North Loup-Scotia Wildcats capped their 6-3 season with a 30-28 heartbreaking loss at Elba, Friday, November 2nd. In a Quiz interview last Thursday, NLS Coach Dennis Butts recalled the and were overnight guests of her grandmother, Mrs. Harriett Conger, before returning home. Mr. and Mrs. Monty Kyhn and family of Grand Island spent Saturday with the group.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Rasmussen and Mike of McCook were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. George Tatlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Albin Wroblewski of Elba and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leth and family were Monday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Leth at the Ord Club. They celebrated Andy Leth's birthday.

Kim Wells and Julie DeWolf of Lincoln and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wells and Kirk all enjoyed supper Saturday evening at the Elba Club for Kirk's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Kenyon of Grand Island were Saturday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Blanchard.

Lester Faaborg and other members of the Elba FFA Chapter attended the National FFA Convention in Kansas City from last Sunday until Wednesday evening. While there, they attended the Kansas City Chiefs Football Game.

just completed football year. "Defensively I was disappointed this year," he said. The team didn't play up to its full potential, in his estimation. Asked why Butts shrugged and replied, "I don't know."

Offensively, it was another picture. "I was pleased," he said. "We had pretty good balance between our running and passing game. This was the best passing team I've ever had."

Mentioned was senior Kevin Shelton. The quarterback connected on 47 percent of his 56 passes and has 15 touchdowns to his credit. This was his last year with the team.

"Just who will replace him isn't known. One possibility is freshman Carl Davis, at 5'7" and 130 pounds. Although he didn't play a lot of varsity ball this year, he does have a lot of potential, according to the Coach.

Another returning player will be Scott Hansen, North Loup-Scotia's leading rusher.

Just where Hansen could play may depend on Tim Edwards. A potential top player, Edwards had a crushed vertebra. He was injured in the season's first game against Nebraska Christian. Butts won't know Edwards playing status until next spring.

Last week, Butts learned Edwards could play basketball this year. The sport had initially been ruled out by medical authorities. Butts called this latest development "encouraging."

Butts will likely need Edwards and any other help he can get next year. "Thirteen Wildcat seniors will depart the team's ranks next Spring. We had some really good seniors this year," Butts acknowledged. "They'll be hard to replace."

He revealed plans to keep most of his basic plays during the coming season but declined comment on further plans.

This just completed season is one of the better ones in recent NLS football history. Last year the 'Cats had a 4-3 record. This year it was 6-3.

"The Cedar Valley Conference was pretty tough this year," Butts said. "I anticipate it will be that way again next year." Just how tough remains to be seen.

Football Banquet Ends '79 Season

touchdowns this year. Season Ends The banquet capped a 2-7 season for the Ord High Chants. The team was hampered by 315 yards of penalties this season. It seems like a lot, Coach Suhr told the Quiz, but pointed out Ord's opponents had 482 yards in the same category. "So we weren't really penalized that much more," he said.

Ord's 23 turnovers, compared to the 16 for opponents, didn't help either.

One interesting statistic, according to Suhr, is that Ord gained 238 yards average. The Chants' opponents gained 255. "That means Ord was only short 17 yards a game," Suhr said. He will be losing 14 seniors to graduation this year, but isn't apologetically worried about it. "We will likely have more experience coming back next year than we did this year," he said. This will come from sophomores and juniors.

During the just finished season, Ord had six underclassmen playing limited time. "We will be awfully young next year. This year we walked into 17 seniors having limited experience on the field. Next year we will have six experienced upperclassmen coming back," Suhr said.

There was little turn-over in the conference this year, according to Suhr. He predicted it will be as tough or tougher next year than it was this year. Grand Island Northwest, Gothenburg, Albion and other teams all have plenty of returning players, the coach told the Quiz. Among these players mentioned were Roger Sautler, brother of the former OHS all star athlete. Sautler now resides in Albion.

November 7 when coaches met in Aurora. Honorable All Conference mentions from Ord were: Barry Witherwax, quarterback and team captain. Bob Beran, defensive linebacker and offensive guard. Larry Sears, offensive guard. Gary Mulligan, end. Mulligan also received the Most Improved Player Award Sunday night. The senior caught 13 passes for 333 yards and three

Twenty-nine letters were presented to players and managers at the Football Banquet at Ord High Sunday night. The banquet ended a 2 and 7 season for the Ord High Chants. Varsity Football Coach Gene Suhr revealed teammates had elected Keith Pelton the most valuable player. Pelton was the leading scorer and rusher during the just concluded '79 season. Pelton had 662 yards rushing on 144 carries for 4.6 yards average yards a carry. The OHS senior caught 21 passes for 196 yards this year and scored eight touchdowns. Defensively, he had 81 assisted and 32 unassisted tackles for a total of 113, according to Suhr. Pelton was voted Central Ten All Conference West Linebacker

Boosters Planning A Jeff Quinn Day

The Ord High Athletic Booster Club revealed pending plans for a Jeff Quinn Day next fall. According to Ernie French, the day would be observed during a Big Red home game in Lincoln.

Details of the Quinn Day and decisions related to winter sports will be ironed out during a Tuesday, November 20, luncheon at the Ord Drive In. Boosters will meet at 12 noon.

Three Ord Players Make Independent Season End Honors

Three Ord High spikers made season end statistics in the Grand Island Independent. Nancy Gogan, Barb Kittle, and Anna Smith were listed among Class B State Prep Leaders in the October 31 issue of the paper.

Nancy Gogan was lauded for her spiking percentage. Gogan, a Junior, was 120 of 133 for 90 percent.

Anne Smith, an Ord High Senior, was cited for her setting percentages and her ace serves. In setting, Smith was 243 of 253 for 96 percent. Smith had 42 ace serves.

Barb Kittle, another Senior, had 91 ace spikes.

Arcadia Spikers End Season with 8-7 Season Record

The Arcadia volleyball team closed their 1979 season with a record of 8-7. The girls went into the District tournament with a 7-5 record.

The first night the Huskies had to play 4th seeded Greeley. The girls were ready to win this game and did in two sets 15-8 and 15-5.

Chris Meyer was the Huskies top scorer with 9 points. Deb Smith and Pam Gogan were the top setters, both with 11. Pam Gogan had a good night at the net. Pam had 7 hard spikes, 4 aces, and 2 blocks.

The second night the Huskies played top seeded Elba. The Huskies were really fired up and were optimistic about the game.

The Elba Bluejays overpowered the Huskies in the first set winning the set 15-7. The second set the Huskies surprised the Bluejays when the scoreboard read 11-1. Somehow the Huskies seemed to lose their steam and the Bluejays were defeated 15-13.

Once again Chris Meyer was the leading scorer, this time with 15 points out of 15 serves. Deb Smith had 14 sets, 6 spikes, and one block for the night. Pam Gogan had 8 spikes out of 9 attempts. 2 were aces and 2 blocks.

The Elba Bluejays went on to win the District tournament and are now on their way to State. We all wish you the Best of Luck.

The Huskies will lose a good scoring girls. The team will miss them a lot. Even though this season is over now, we can look forward to next year.

Anderson Paces Concordia Team

Ord's Christy Anderson paced the Concordia College women spikers to the semi-finals of the district tournament in Lincoln recently. The sophomore helped the college team defeat Doane College 15-12, 15-7, 13-15, in preliminary rounds.

Concordia's second match was against Ballou College. They took that match in three straight games. Their scores were 15-3, 15-6, and 15-3.

Concordia played Doane for the championship game, and was edged 7-15, 9-15, and 5-15. Christy scored eight points in the tournament.

Ord Gals Keep 10-0 Record

Ord town team spikers swamped Sargent Sunday keeping their record a perfect 10-0. Ord won with scores of 15-1, 15-4, 15-1.

High scorers for Ord were Jeannie Hyde with 13 points and Carol Konkoleski with 10.

The next game is at Loup City, Wednesday, November 14.

Arcadia Lulu Landon was a Thursday supper guest of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Zentz for her birthday. Lulu was a Thursday dinner guest of Alma Pierson at Ord.

Huskies Complete 2-6 Football Year

The Arcadia Huskies closed out the 1979 football season with a 2-5 win at Wolbach, November 2. Their record is 2-6.

Arcadia Coach John Crose termed the just ended athletic calendar "challenging." "Our conference was as tough as its ever been," he said Monday. "The state champions will likely come out of this group."

Four of the seven conference teams were 6-3 or better, according to Crose. These include North Loup-Scotia, Cedar Rapids, Greeley, and Spalding Academy. Spalding had an impressive 10-0 record at season's end. "I feel they have a good chance to win the championship game," Crose stated. That game will be against Beemer, the 1978 conference champs this Friday, at Beemer.

Their home field status will give Beemer an edge, Crose conceded, as will their former conference champion status. "I'm not much of a forecaster," Crose said, "but it will be one heck of a game."

Spalding opened Arcadia's season earlier this year with a disastrous 52-0 Arcadia loss. "They had two kids in their backfield," Crose recalled, "that were one and two in the track conference 100 yard dash."

That Spalding game launched Arcadia's 2-6 season. "The main thing is we had a lot of turnovers," Crose said. "We turned the ball over 28 times in eight games. You couple that with 775 yards we had in penalties and its hard to mount any kind of consistent attack."

Next year will be better, Crose suggested. Two freshmen and four sophomores starting this year will be back. They, along with a junior seeing action this year, will be more experienced next season.

Hopefully, they will cover the loss of Mike Johnson to graduation. He was Arcadia's top scorer despite playing just five games. According to Crose, he was also the team's leading rusher. He left the Elba game and the football season with a broken leg. Johnson had five touchdowns, one two-point conversion, and booted three extra points before being sidelined.

"He was a four year player for the school," Crose stated. "This was the first time he had ever been injured."

Lanny Cusimano could be called on to fill Johnson's shoes. The junior carried the ball 24 times for 110 yards and scored two touchdowns this season.

"Of course," Crose said, "no one can really fill Johnson's shoes." Graduating with Johnson will be teammates Scott Sell and Doug Cox. Sell led the team's tackles with 132 total. Cox, a Huskie halfback, will also be missed, Crose told the Quiz. Several reserve players will likely help make up for the losses. They have just completed a 2-0-1 season.

Crose speculated they could have a shot at an easier conference next year. Spalding and other schools are losing several players to graduation. "So I should think Arcadia will be more competitive next year," Crose said.

This year was Crose's last year at Arcadia, he will move on to a college teaching-coaching job. No replacement has been named.

Varsity Spikers Bow To Ainsworth

The 1979-80 Ord High varsity volleyball team.

The Ord Varsity spikers bowed to Ainsworth in semi-final rounds at Wheeler Central Thursday. Scores of 15-10 and 15-9 closed district competition to the Varsity players.

"I would say Ainsworth's attack hurt us a great deal," Ord Coach Jan Weber said. "They mixed spiking with dinks and we didn't cover the dinks."

"A number of errors by the Ord team accounted for Ainsworth's victory," she said. "I thought at one time we were going to come back in the first game. They were ahead 11-6 and we made a come back of ten points." Weber thought at that point Ord could continue their rally and win the game. It wasn't to be.

"But Ainsworth got four serves and we didn't have another opportunity."

People who made things happen during semi-final match, as listed by Weber, are: — Anne Smith, who led scoring with seven points. — Barb Kittle with nine ace attacks. She also scored four points. — Anne Smith, with four assists on setting. — Barb Kittle with three ace serves and Deb Meese with two.

Ord - Valentine Earlier, Tuesday, Ord and Valentine slugged it out. Ord won 15-6, 13-15, and 15-6.

Other teams advancing that night were Albion, Ainsworth, and O'Neill.

"Our gals played good volleyball, especially during the first game of the three game match," Weber told the Quiz.

In game number two Anne Miles of Valentine scored an impressive 15 points. Ord dropped to a 7-0 deficit before pulling to a 13-7 advantage.

This advantage was erased by errors and a Valentine revival. They cost Ord the second game.

Ord came back and took game number three 15-6.

Leading scorers for Ord were Anne Smith with 11, Cindy Kamarad and Amy Gibbons, each with nine points.

Barb Kittle led Ord's attack with nine ace attacks. Nancy Gogan had four. Other game highlights were Anne Smith's five ace serves, and Amy Gibbon's six assists in setting.

"Over-all," Weber said, "this was the best our gals have played in several games."

That win set up the Ord-Ainsworth match, ending the girls' volleyball season.

The girls closed out their season with a 10-8 record. Weber will lose Kathy Hansen, Glenda Wetzel, Sue Sevenker, Anne Smith, Vicki Kalhoff, and Barb Kittle to graduation this year.

Both Kittle and Smith have been leading scorers this past season. They have also compiled impressive statistics in both spiking and setting.

Replacing them will be a problem, Weber admitted. "We have some fine players coming up," she said. "They will be fine examples of what fine volleyball players are capable of doing."

Possible replacements include Nancy Gogan, Peg Kramer, Amy Gibbons, Cindy Kamarad, and Deb Meese.

Weber noted several sophomores have shown a great deal of potential. "I'm looking

St. Mary's Closes Out Season With One Game

(Editor's Note: This was the St. Mary's story scheduled to have run earlier. Unfortunately, the story was misplaced.)

The St. Mary's "Stars" had their first volleyball game at Scotia, Tuesday, Oct. 16. The team was started this year in Sept. The girls have been practicing on Tuesdays and Thursdays after school. The members of the squad are:

Sixth grade: Christy Arnold, Mary Dubas, Susan Dworak, Anne Lech, Kaylee Michalski, Tara Piskorski, and Amy Potrzeba.

Seventh grade: Michelle Bonne, Susan Lech, Linda Sedik, and Cori Smedra.

Eighth grade: DeeAnn Dubas, Bettie Markwick, Mickie Piskars, Marie Wadas, and Kathy Warner. The girls played an excellent game against Scotia, even though Scotia came out on top. The final scores of the match were 15-8 and 15-10. They played very well and used good basic skills. I am really proud of them and looking forward to next year, when we will be able to have a full schedule of games.

Since the volleyball team is a new team, the girls had the opportunity to pick their own name. They decided on the "St. Mary's Stars" to coordinate with the boys basketball team "The Comets".

Students at Comstock in kindergarten and third grades have invited mothers and grandmothers to school November 16, Friday, for a Thanksgiving program and lunch. Students will help prepare the meal.

Comstock students in grades 4-6 will investigate careers during the special week. November 12 they will have written reports on possible careers, and November 15 they will search out articles on them. November 16 students will dress as what they would like to be.

The covers on some of today's novels are too far apart. Too expensive, too.

Career Day Is Planned For NL-S High Students

North Loup-Scotia students in grades 7-12 will have fresh insights into several careers November 13. Seven different speakers representing different professions will address the students.

From 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. they will give two 20 minute presentations and answer questions.

Speakers, and the careers they represent will be: Darrell Vance, commercial food store manager; Bruce Lammers, an accountant; Kathy Hermismeyer, a housewife.

Wayne Sheldon, a carpenter; Carol VanNordheim, Valley County Extension Agent; Sue Hubbert, an x-ray technician; Dave Scott, an electronics service manager.

This is the third year North Loup-Scotia schools have sponsored a career day.

School

Four board members are planning on attending the state school board convention that will be in Lincoln this weekend.

Board members were brought up-to-date on school land sale procedures and requirements. An inquiry was made last month if the Comstock football field was for sale.

Comstock merged with Ord Public Schools several years ago. The field is no longer used.

Definition

Should the Sandhills water control area be designated it could be a further legal first for Nebraska. "I think it is different," Aiken said, "because this is the only place where there is an adequate quantity of ground water. 'The problem,' he continued, "is pollution."

The fate of that control district could hinge on the state including both quality and quantity in their definition of "adequate."

Flags Presented During North Loup Veteran's Program

The American Legion Auxiliary, Ralph R. Rich Post 285 of North Loup, with Charles Lundstedt as leader, held a Veterans Day Program at the Grade School.

The Girl Scouts began the program by bringing in eight American flags. Each one also participated by reading poems about the flag. Each teacher was then presented a flag, placed in a gold standard for their school room. Everyone then gave the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag.

Following this, the fifth grade, led by Mrs. Knudsen, gave a skit on who veterans are and why we should try to be good citizens. Everyone then sang "The Star Spangled Banner." A colorful film "I Pledge Allegiance To The Flag" was shown by Mrs. Knudsen.

In closing, Mr. Newman presented each first grade pupil and their teacher, Miss Uhrig, with a small American flag of his or her own on behalf of the North Loup Lions Club.

You, yourself, are your most important product. Take care of it.

Members of the V.F.W. Auxiliary presented both youth hostels and St. Mary's School with flags Monday, Veterans Day. Receiving a flag on behalf of the hostel in south Ord was Kenneth Koelling. Mrs. Irma Klahneck, VFW Auxiliary president made the presentation.

Loup Valley Transit Reduces Senior Rates

Central Nebraska Community Services, Inc. (CNCS) of Loup City has announced a 50% reduction in rates for all passengers over 60 years of age on the Loup Valley Transit.

According to Jim Crossland, CNCS Executive Director, our preliminary studies indicate that many senior citizens on fixed incomes can not afford to utilize the public system and do so only in case of emergency.

Loup Valley Transit is following the public transportation systems throughout the nation by reducing rates for seniors. One of CNCS priorities is to study rural public transportation problems and continually make necessary changes to insure the system is meeting the needs of the people and as a long range goal to design a transportation system that can operate successfully in a rural area.

Crossland stated, "one of our priorities was to provide reliable transportation to those individuals most in need and hopefully this reduction will enable those on fixed incomes caught by inflation and high energy cost, to take advantage of the service."

The reduced price will go into effect Monday, November 19th and potential customers may receive the reduction by showing any identification of age to the bus driver.

In addition to the rate change, Loup Valley Transit is implementing a revised schedule for service once the bus arrives in Grand Island. Under the old schedule the bus had only a few stops where passengers could get off. Under the new system the drivers will let passengers off at any of the following locations: Conestoga Mall, Dr. Building, 908 Howard, Grand Island Clinic, 2444 Fairley, Continental Trailways, 1307 West 2nd, Greyhound Depot, 118 E 4th, Yancey Hotel, Downtown, Skagway, State & Eddy, Municipal Airport.

If passengers have departed at any of the above locations, the driver will make arrangements for a pick-up time for a return trip if necessary. Otherwise the schedule for departing Grand Island on both routes will be as follows:

Yancey Hotel, 1:45 p.m.; Continental Trailways, 2:00 p.m.; Conestoga Mall, 2:30 p.m.

For additional information call or write: Loup Valley Transit, Box 509, Loup City, NE 68553 (308) 745-0780.

Sheriff's Report

November 13 - Randy Reeder of B-fifto County was arrested and brought to the Valley County jail. Reeder, 21, was booked on charges of operating a motor vehicle to avoid arrest and willful reckless driving. His arrest followed a high-speed chase around the Arcadia area Tuesday night. The arresting officer was Phil Quinn.

November 11 - The light bar was stolen from the North Loup Police car. Valley County Sheriff Deputy Dan Rogers is investigating the case. Rogers is investigating the case.

November 9 - About $70 was stolen from the Beverly Shoemaker residence in North Loup. The cash was apparently taken during daylight hours.

November 8 - Frank Hopkins, age 75, was found dead in his residence on East P Street in Ord. According to Valley County Sheriff Martin Sonnenfeld, Hopkins had been ill a long time. The death rules one of natural causes. It is believed he died Tuesday, November 6. Neighbors noticed Hopkins' livestock were very hungry. A friend found the body. Sonnenfeld and DeLupton County Attorney Jerry Sheldon investigated.

Bloodmobile Visit Set for November 27

The Red Cross bloodmobile will be in Ord on Tuesday, Nov. 27, at the Veterans Club from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The goal for this visit is 162 pints including 22 first time donors. All eight types of blood are needed.

Current patient needs for blood and blood products are ever on the increase and Dr. James Landmark, Medical Director of Omaha, has determined that 1729 units of blood must be collected each week to meet these needs. Someone needs blood every 17 seconds. Share your miracle of life by giving blood.

Persons in good health, between the ages of 17 and 66 and weighing 110 pounds, can give blood. It is important that donors follow regular eating habits and have a full night's rest before donating. Newcomers and high school students are urged to donate.

A single donation of blood can benefit as many as four persons. The Omaha Regional Red Cross Blood Service separates and processes blood into components, each helpful to patients. It takes less than an hour to give blood... but it can save a life. Plan now to donate.

Limitation Is Real Threat

Nebraska farmers who operate farming units dependent on irrigation water from Bureau of Reclamation projects have a stake in what happens in Congress to legislation to change the "160-acre limitation" in the Reclamation Act of 1902 to greater reality.

Simple repeal of the 160-acre limitation would be the most direct method of updating the 77-year-old law but politically that does not appear to be possible. Recognizing this, Sen. Frank Church of Idaho has sponsored legislation to increase the number of acres, along with some other changes, and in September, S. 14 was passed in the Senate to eliminate residency requirements on such reclamation land and increase the limitation to 1,280 acres.

This month the House of Representatives has scheduled hearings on legislation to reform the acreage limitation provisions of the Reclamation Law. A great many people do not understand what is involved and some who do engage in political demagoguery equating the limitation to preservation of family farming, restricting corporate farming, and promoting various social reforms.

The Reclamation Act of 1902 governed the sale of water from U.S. Bureau of Reclamation water projects for irrigation purposes. The intent of the Act was to encourage settlement and development of arid land in the western United States. One of the key restrictions was this one: "No right to the use of water for land in private ownership shall be sold for a tract exceeding 160 acres to any one landowner, and on such sale shall be made to any one landowner unless he is a bona fide resident of such land."

In 1902 a 160-acre irrigated farm was large for one family to own and operate. But 77 years have passed and there is scant comparison to be made between the manpower and horsepower farming of the 1902 area and the mechanization and farming techniques of today. In between, there were some 1926 amendments to the Act, but generally regulations were changed or ignored to conform to changing times and farm technology.

But in California, court action was brought and a decision obtained to force compliance with the 1902 limitation requirement. The Secretary of Interior in 1977 proposed regulations calling for strict enforcement of the 160-acre limitation. Hearings in California brought a turnout of farm labor groups suggesting a breakdown into holdings as small as 10 acres. The latter is an extremist proposal from some of the social action land reform movements.

The 1,280-acre limitation figure proposed in S. 14 sounds more like it was related to the large irrigated farm spreads in Sen. Church's home state of Idaho than to the average holdings in Nebraska's reclamation-served farmlands. In any event, it would take the pressure off for present in our state as well as in most states, even California. The complications that would result to agriculture in the project-irrigated North Platte Valley if the 160-acre limitation were suddenly applied are too numerous to comprehend. In effect, it would result in widespread confiscation of land holdings that families have put together over several generations and it certainly would have an effect upon property values since land sales are normally made to adjacent farm landowners.

The limitation if strictly enforced was not even practical in 1902, and that is why it was ignored all these years. The original Homestead Act also applied to 160 acres but there was no provision which told the homesteader that he could never own more than 160 acres or that he couldn't sell his 160 acres to a neighboring homesteader if he chose to do so. The 640-acre "Kinkaiders" in the Nebraska Sandhills weren't deprived of their privilege to sell their land to adjacent ranchers after they found they did not have enough acreage to survive as a ranch unit.

Congress needs to get on with changing the law to a pattern that landowners and operators can live with now and depend on in years ahead.

NLS Students Going To College Conference

Ten North Loup-Scottia seniors will attend a senior day — counselor conference at Kearney State College, Wednesday, November 14. The scheduled activities are to provide insights into educational and occupational opportunities. Instructors at the college will tell students occupational outlooks in careers ranging from art to vocational education.

Dishonorable Discharge Review Deadline Nears

The Department of Defense reminds veterans separated prior to 1965 with Undesirable Discharges, that a request for review of the discharge for upgrading must be filed prior to January 1, 1980. Veterans may obtain information on how and where to apply by contacting State Veterans offices, veterans organizations on the Red Cross. Additional information may be obtained from military personnel offices.

"Grain Alcohol-Fuel From the Farm" is a brochure you will want to read if you are considering producing fuel alcohol on your farm. The Nebraska Energy Office has printed a helpful brochure giving addresses of governmental agencies you must contact in the production of fuel alcohol. Financial assistance available and where to get additional information are subjects covered. Stop by the Extension Office for your copy.

The Invisible Speak Thief:

Induced or stray voltages, the strength of a flashlight battery may be reducing the output of your milk cows by 10 to 20 percent, according to results of work at Kansas State University. Through their project, it is hoped that the effects of small voltages induced in a milking parlor can be more clearly defined and recommendations developed for better ways to prevent and/or correct it.

The voltages vary from a few millivolts (one millivolt = 1/1000th of a volt) to as much as 2-4 volts in strength. Larger voltages can be measured by use of a simple voltmeter, but small voltages, which also cause problems, require somewhat specialized equipment. But more easy to detect than the induced voltage itself, is its effect on the milk cows. First signs of problems may begin with handling problems with the cows. They reluctantly enter the milking parlor, they're nervous and they kick and prance during milking. Also, if you have induced or stray voltages you may encounter significant decreases in milk output per cow. Indications are that losses may be as much as 90 cents worth of milk per cow per day at today's prices.

Sources of the voltages can be faulty wiring, transmission line leakage, faulty well pumps or even corrosion on free-stall dividers or other metal around the barn.

To correct the situation, all metal structures such as stanchions, feeders, floor drains and pipe lines in your dairy parlor should be connected together and tied to a single (common) ground rod.

More details on induced voltages will be presented as part of the IANR Area Dairy Days mastitis program in December. The nearest programs for area producers will be held at Ravenna or Broken Bow on December 14 and 15.

Reminders On Saving Energy When Heating Your Home:

According to Gerald Bodman, Extension Ag Engineer, heating and cooling your home accounts for about 70 percent of residential energy costs. Don't waste any of that precious heat, whether you or your landlord pays for it.

- Close off unoccupied rooms and shut your heating vents.
- However, if water lines run through the room, keep the room warm enough to prevent freezing. Use kitchen, bath, and other

Loop Lines By Richard Beran

The use of energy to pump groundwater continues to increase. From 1970 to 1975, the use of water in the state for all purposes, excluding the generation of hydroelectric power, doubled. While the use of surface water remained the same, groundwater pumpage increased 198%.

The water usage report is identified as Water Survey Paper 48, entitled, Availability and Use of Water in Nebraska, written by Ray Bentall and F. Butler Shaffer, and is published by the Conservation and Survey Division in cooperation with the U.S. Geological Survey.

The NEBRASKA FARMER summarizes the report by reporting: During 1979 (Oct. 1, 1974 through Sep. 30, 1975), total use of water in Nebraska was 16.25 million acre-feet. Of that amount, 6.34 million acre-feet were used for generating hydroelectric power and 9.91 million acre-feet were used for all other purposes.

Irrigation's growing influence in Nebraska can be charted in the following statistics presented in the report:

Groundwater irrigation	51.7%	66.7%
Surface water irrigation	40.4%	26.5%
Municipal use	3.6%	3.6%
Rural use	2.3%	1.6%
Industrial use	2.0%	1.6%

Exclusive of water used for generating hydroelectric power, groundwater and surface-water irrigation accounted for the largest share of all water used during the year in Nebraska. As the installation of center-pivot irrigation systems continues in the state, the outlook appears to be for even greater statewide use of groundwater for irrigation.

Irrigation's vast influence on water in Nebraska can be further gauged by two additional sets of statistics.

The firsts shows that per capita use of water in the entire state is 5,738 gallons per day, or about three times the national average. If irrigation is excluded from both state and national totals, however, the national per capita use drops to about 1,300 gallons per day, and Nebraska's per capita use falls even lower to 980 gallons per day.

Total water supplied available to Nebraska in water year 1975 included hold-over storage in surface reservoirs (combined capacity of principal reservoirs), 3.05 million acre-feet; lakes, ponds, and groundwater storage (estimated), 1.875 billion acre-feet; canal and river inflow, 7.71 million acre-feet; and precipitation, 80.5 million acre-feet.

Nebraskans drew on these water supplies for the following uses: Irrigation (both surface-water and groundwater), 8.23 million acre-feet; generation of hydroelectric power, 6.34 million acre-feet; all other uses, 1.68 million acre-feet.

The report shows that Nebraskans are relying more heavily each year on groundwater supplies for irrigation. Of the 8.23 million acre-feet used for irrigation in 1975, about 72% was obtained from wells and 28% from streams.

Moreover, an analysis of stream discharges indicates that seepage from groundwater reservoirs accounted for about 55% of total streamflow in water year 1975.

Army Course Is Completed

Sgt. Debora K. Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Hansen, North Loup, Neb., recently completed the Primary Leadership Course at Fort Benning, Ga.

The course develops leadership, supervisory and managerial skills appropriate to shop or office environments for soldiers in grades E-4 and E-5 who have been selected by their commanders as having potential to become, or advance as, noncommissioned officers.

It is designed to train combat support, combat service support and combat arms personnel.

fans sparingly; in one hour these fans can blow away a household of warmed air.

— Keep your fireplace damper closed, unless you have a fire going. An open damper in a 48 square-inch fireplace chimney can let up to 20 percent of the heat from your furnace escape.

— Lower your thermostat to 65 degrees F. during the day and 55 degrees F. at night. You can save approximately 2 percent on fuel costs for every degree you reduce the average temperature.

— Have your furnace serviced at least once a year. This could save you 10 percent in fuel consumption. Be sure to also clean and/or replace the filter in the forced air system regularly as needed.

— Keep draperies and shades open in sunny windows; close them at night.

— For comfort in indoor temperatures use the best insulation of all — warm clothing.

Early Plains Expedition on Nebraska ETV

The remarkable expedition of a German prince and a Swiss-born artist, who set out to document the Western Plains in 1846, is re-created in "Maximilian's Journey," airing Monday, November 19, at 9:30 p.m., repeating Friday, November 23, at 8 a.m. on the Nebraska Educational Television Network.

The journey began in the spring of 1843 when scientist Prince Maximilian of Wied, accompanied by artist Karl Bodmer, traveled up the Missouri River by steamboat. From St. Louis to the Rockies, the travelers painstakingly recorded the West in all its pristine glory.

While Prince Maximilian wrote his detailed observations of life in America, especially among the Plains Indians, the young artist served in the same capacity as a modern-day photographer — recording scenes in pencil and watercolors.

The narrative and pictorial material of "Maximilian's Journey" is drawn from the extensive Maximilian-Bodmer collection which was purchased and presented to Omaha's Joslyn Art Museum by Northern Natural Gas. The collection includes original sketches, watercolor paintings, diaries, maps, account books and handwritten texts of travel books.

From this wealth of material, "Maximilian's Journey" recalls the explorer's year-long sojourn with the Plains Indians, breathing life into the pages of history.

Grain Reserve Regulations Told

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland today announced all 1978 grain crops currently under loan to the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) and all 1979 grain crops eligible for CCC loans may be placed in the farmer-owned reserve program. The only grain not affected is barley, which currently has a market price above the department's "call" level, thus making it ineligible for the reserve.

Bergland also announced there will be no set-aside or diversion for 1980 feed grain crops.

"I would remind producers about the importance of good farming practices as they plan for 1980 and I would recommend against bringing fragile lands into production. Farmers who plant these lands in 1980 will not have this acreage added to their farm's normal crop acreage in subsequent years," Bergland said.

Bergland said the program decisions were based on projected supply and demand factors for 1979 and 1980. "We see a tighter supply situation in the future. The actions we are announcing today will help meet domestic and export requirements and reduce the risk of rapid food price inflation."

Under actions announced today, all producers of barley, corn and sorghum will be eligible for target price protection, loans and for participation in the farmer-owned reserve in 1980. Oat producers will be eligible for loans and the reserve program in 1980.

"We will assure producers at least the same 1980 feed grain and soybean loan rates as in 1979," Bergland said. This means loan levels of at least $2.00 for corn, $1.90 for sorghum, $1.63 for barley and $1.03 for oats, $1.70 for rye and $4.50 for soybeans.

"I will be asking for public comment on possible changes in the operation of the farmer-owned reserve program in the next few weeks," Bergland said. "Therefore, no changes in the reserve management rules are being made at this time."

Preliminary feed grain target price ranges will be announced by March 15. Current estimates based on the formula in the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977 indicate these prices would be $2.08 per bushel for corn, $2.46 for sorghum and $2.35 for barley.

In order to qualify for full target price protection, farmers cannot plant more corn sorghum or barley in 1980 than was considered planted and set-aside from these crops this year. Farmers who exceed this acreage will be subject to an allocation factor that can reduce any target price payment by up to 20 percent. National program acreages (NPA) of 82.1 million acres for corn, 13.9 million for sorghum and 7.9 million for barley were also announced today. The NPA is the number of acres for each crop needed to be planted to meet projected domestic and export requirements as well as provide for an adequate carryover.

Crops eligible to move immediately into the farmer-owned reserve are 1978 and 1979-crop wheat, corn, sorghum, oats and rice under CCC loan. Barley will be eligible for entry when it is no longer in a call status.

What Do You Think?

Americans are a funny lot. Told they HAVE to do something, they will arch their backs and ignore the order. Yet given a challenge or a rallying point they will move heaven and hell to reach that same objective.

Case in point is the U.S. space race. Werner Von Braun spent years at the Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Alabama, virtually ignored. His pleas for money and materials went nearly unnoticed.

When the Soviets launched their first satellite into space, Americans realized they were in a race. Supplies, funds, and priorities went from one extreme to the other. In the end, we won that race when Neil Armstrong walked on the moon.

A similar situation exists today. The Iranian government has announced an end of oil sales to the United States. President Jimmy Carter beat them to the punch this week by announcing we wouldn't buy their liquid product in the first place.

Carter's announcement has met with widespread public support. Faced with this latest challenge, Americans have vowed they will show that bearded Islamic leader he can take his threat and shove it.

Some have speculated gas rationing could be a reality in the near future. If so, fine! It beats being led-around by foreign oil interests. We only hope that if - or when - that becomes a reality, Americans don't lose sight of their goal of independence while squabbling over just how the required rationing legislation should be drafted.

In the meantime, the U.S. Embassy remains under siege. Negotiations on the release of government personnel continues. When they are released - and pray God they will be - it would be a good time to reassess our interests towards Iran.

As I sit here typing this, elevators bulge with stored crops. Cattle are sped along highways toward packing houses. Farmers are discussing this year's corn yield.

What do you think we could withhold from Iran to show that government how we feel?

W.M.

Something Different

How Old Are You?

There is so much to say about growing old. And we hear more about it every day; in fact we hear too much about it.

And there isn't any use for you to say you aren't old because bigosh you are. Don't you know that when you are born the doctor and the nurses begin saying "He's three minutes old!" Or "he's almost a day old!"

They never say you are "two minutes young." Or that you are "one week young!" Get the idea?

— And at once you want contact with another human being.

You want to touch your mother. You want to be cuddled and cuddled and made to feel safe and warm. Even primitive mothers knew this. And lo, recently a French doctor of renown announced that a tiny new naked baby would thrive much better if it were at once laid on its mother's bare belly; and now this exciting new fact is being tested in many expensive laboratories of the world.

Even to park the wee new baby on its father's bare abdomen seemed to provide a great comfort and security for the infant and cause it to grow better and be happier.

Skin to skin!

So it goes. You know that two babies parked side to side immediately are fascinated with one another and smile and play more. No, they don't care at all about skin color. Nor about adult supervision. They poke one another's eyes and fingers and toes and laugh and roll over. They feel a need for one another. Small children love to be thrown together. And little children like to share playgrounds, and sand piles. And twigs and raisins.

Until we teach them "You mustn't play with HIM."

Why do we do this? We breed problems by our attitudes, our restrictions. Our sneers.

We are all in one world. Our problems vary little. We could help one another if we would. And I don't mean ganging up union against union.

Why is it so impossible? Can't we get along with one another? What are all these wars about? It used to be for "the balance of power". Whatever that was . . .

I know my ideas aren't so wonderful, I know I mustn't preach. But this fighting, this eternal killing off of our finest, strongest young men.

(If we sent all our wise old statesmen to war, do you think we'd have as much blood-letting?)

If we could only live and let live. If we could only get along. I don't hate all these oil magnates. I don't hate the people who own the steamships and the diamond mines.

Who is fighting who? And what about? Stupid us.

A wise philosopher suggested lately "that only people over 40 be sent to fight wars. Think about it!"

— Irma

Surplus In State Treasury Sparks A Lot Of Arguments

CAPITOL NEWS

By Melvin Paul
State Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association LINCOLN — There have been a lot of arguments recently about what some people claim is a large surplus in the state treasury.

The administration of Gov. Charles Thone has been under pressure to reduce the state's tax rates or make some provisions for disposing of the alleged surplus.

By the time this appears in print, a moratorium on payment of the income tax will be in effect, probably will have been declared.

During a recent meeting of the state Board of Equalization, Thone suggested such a moratorium, and the other four members of the board.

Because of the Federal Revenue Act of 1978, Nebraskans have been kicking in more taxes than they should, and in view of that fact, Thone said, "It's a good sense" to leave the money that normally would be collected in December in state income taxes in the pockets of the taxpayers, Thone said.

Under the law, the state tax commissioner can declare a moratorium such as Thone suggested, if the commissioner feels the situation warrants such action.

Tax Commissioner Fred Herington said in addition to letting taxpayers enjoy up to $17 million dollars they normally would have paid into the state treasury, the moratorium would also allow the board more time to study whether there should be a reduction of the state's tax rates.

Herington told the board that every authority in the country says this nation is either in a recession or close to it. He noted that several years ago, when it appeared there was a big surplus in the treasury, the board cut the rates too much and eventually caused the state to be left in a financial bind.

State Budget Director, Donald Levenberger agreed with Herington's stance.

Late last month, a state Revenue Department research analyst told the board current economic indicators are very much like those that preceded a deep national recession in 1974-75.

Two days before Thone suggested the moratorium, the state treasury balance exceeded $100 million. That led to a coalition of leaders from local and state spending limitation ballot issues to ask for a temporary moratorium on state tax collections and a tax rate reduction.

Thone said during the next eight months of the fiscal year, there will be $65 million more spent than collected, which would leave the treasury balance at about where it should be at the end of the fiscal year — $25 million to $30 million.

No Special Session
Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh has given up on his attempt to generate enough support for the calling of a special legislative session to deal with usury rates.

He told those attending a recent hearing of the Banking Committee, which he heads that he was foregoing any further efforts to get the lawmakers back to Lincoln and of the regular session that will open early next year.

DeCamp said some of the committee members felt the decision of the special session should be left to Gov. Charles Thone, who several times said he thought the matter of addressing the usury rate question could safely be postponed until January.

State Banking Director Paul Amen proposed the committee establish a task force to compile information and study proposals on how best to cope during a period of economic uncertainty when interest rates keep spiraling.

Amen said, "Basically, usury rates are antiquated and counterproductive." He said, however, that if the usury rate were 20 percent, or if there was no usury rate at all, many industries would still find themselves squeezed in the present set of circumstances.

He said the money problem is "very serious and the most serious area is that of housing, which is going to be squeezed the hardest and the most."

Sen. Dave Landis of Lincoln said there is "compelling evidence of the need for action but that the need is to study the situation to all the various interests will pose problems.

The same day Amen testified, DeCamp named a task force that includes representatives from all lending institutions in the state, all major industries and consumer-related groups.

The Neligh lawmaker reiterated his concern that "severe damage will be done to Nebraska's economy between now and January as a result of failure to act." He added he was following Amen's suggestion for creation of a task force "as a means of making sure that we are prepared in January to act without undue delay."

DeCamp said he considers one of the task force's most important missions will be public education as to Nebraska's economic condition both now and in the future and the need for changes in the usury rate laws.

Exemption Changes Discussed
The Legislature's Revenue Committee is studying a bill under which thousands of farmers might not qualify for a homestead exemption.

Persons who would lose the exemption are those now eligible to receive the so-called "standard exemption," regardless of their age, value of their homes or personal wealth.

Every Nebraskan is entitled to claim a 20 percent exemption on the first $4,000 of the actual value of his or her home. To arrive at an exact amount in dollars, the figure is multiplied by 100 percent and the county mill levy.

Sen. Cal Carsten of Avoca, chairman of the Revenue Committee, said the proposed bill was "reasonably well received" when the committee agreed three weeks ago to have the measure drafted.

Figures compiled by the state Revenue Department for last year indicate of the more than 278,000 homestead exemptions filed, more than 223,000 were of the "standard" variety.

Carsten said he himself does not need an exemption and there are thousands who fit into that category.

The average standard exemption in 1978 was $28 per person. The exemption varies from county to county because it is partially based on a county's mill levy.

Under current law, a single person 65 or older with a federally adjusted gross income of $3,700 or less receives a total exemption on a $25,000 home.

Says Iowa's Bottle Bill Works
Sen. Donald Dworak of Coffeyville, who fought without success for bottle bill legislation in Nebraska, says Iowa's recently activated bottle bill is achieving visible success in cleaning up streets and roadsides.

Dworak said Nebraska is still trying to figure out who is to pay the litter tax under a law passed by the 1979 Unicameral.

The Columbus lawmaker said some backers of the litter tax say it may take five years before results of the new law can be evaluated.

"However, after only a few months, Iowa's bottle bill is registering a positive reduction in litter," he said. He added the Nebraska litter tax was claimed to be self-supporting but revenues have not even approached the program's administrative costs and that it "appears the litter tax won't last the year without state-funded support."

Turning from the window, I pick up my coffee cup only to find it's lost the warmth it contained earlier. "More coffee?" I ask myself. "No. I've had two pots already."

Bored with simply sitting, and having no interest in television, I pull on my jacket. "Guess I'll go for a walk," I tell my wife.

changes —
It happens about this time each year. Or so it seems.

A gold and bustling afternoon. Overcast skies. Trees barren of all except a few leaves which will hang on through the winter ahead.

I pick up the Sunday paper for the umpteenth time, leafing through sections that have failed to gain my interest in previous attempts. Again I lay the paper back and walk to the window.

The skies are heavy, looking as if it could snow.

Turning from the window, I pick up my coffee cup only to find it's lost the warmth it contained earlier. "More coffee?" I ask myself. "No. I've had two pots already."

Bored with simply sitting, and having no interest in television, I pull on my jacket. "Guess I'll go for a walk," I tell my wife.

needed branches of a pine. But even that gives little warmth to the scene.

As I continue to scan the playground area, I think of earlier days. The warmth of summer. The days of my own youth, spent on these same swings.

"Where have they gone?" I ask myself, knowing not if I'm wondering about the children who only recently had enveloped the area . . . or my own earlier days.

Slipping the lens cap back on the camera, I collapse the lens barrel back into the camera and zip the case over it, tucking it once again—into my pocket.

I kick at a pile of leaves and turn my collar up to protect against the blustering north wind. "Where have I been? An where am I going?" The questions gnaw at me.

I cut across the road and in the pine trees, hoping to find some beauty and warmth before I return home. Part way up the hill I turn and look back.

"It hasn't changed. It won't change. Only man changes."

Geranium Joe Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I recall talking to Ed Psota's daughter years ago about her college studies. She said her professor in economics said that in his course the questions stay the same, but the answers change ever feend. I don't know nothing about economics, Mister Editor, and I git that mixed up, but I'd say that's about the case in all education today. Chet Setlik got me to thinking on this line Saturday night with this report he brung to the session at the country store.

Chet had saw where school children now ere being tested by computers, and teachers are saying this works good because every child can be tested on his level. The computers are fixed to that they feed questions to the student to find out what he knows, then the computer can test the child on what he knows. This way there are no failures and no parents coming in steaming about report cards. Ever child makes good progress at his own level, which Chet, said boils down to a system where students don't get a bad education for the education they git. That is another way of saying the operation was a success, but the patient died, he said.

If we want to look on the bright side of computer education, we can say it ought to cut down on cheating. They ain't no need to peep at your neighbor's paper, since the computer wants to find out what you know, not what you don't know. Besides, if the feller next to you knows somepun you don't know he'll get different questions. Back when the idea was to learn somepun new ever chanct you got, everybody had the same git. That was good. That way we'd all git the same questions and be on our honor not to cheat. The teacher would tell us we were on our honor and to help us stay on it we would please set three desks apart. That was another way of finding out our strengths and weakness and I thought it worked pritty good.

Ed Psota said the notion of everybody being a success is as old as it is dangerous. Republican Ed was of a mind that the whole point to Government since the New Deal has been to protect people against failure. Right now, he went on, the liberals are saying the Congress out to be ashamed for not voting folks all the money they need to buy heating oil this winter, as though it is the job of the Government to make sure everybody is warm. If we can't fail, Ed said, we can't see no point in succeeding, so we just keep rocking along on our levels.

As fer turning things around, Frank Cernik had word that farmers use to feeding the world now may be able to do somepun about so many hungry mouths. Frank said soybeans are being used to make birth control pills, which could open a new market on the one hand while promising to cut down product demand on the other. He said he's waiting to see what this new use will do fer a Government that has managed fer years to spend billions to support tobacco farmers and billions more to git people to quit smoking. Government has trouble finding its level too, Frank allowed.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

Vox Pop

Nov. 9, 1979

Dear Vox Pop,
This week (Nov. 11-17) is American Education Week. I would like to say a few words concerning the people who are involved in Ord's education system.

How does a college freshman say thanks? Words have little to do with it. Actions don't correspond. I have no method of expressing myself yet. So far I'm still on words, but my words will be actions, hopefully in four years, when I join your forces. My actions will be performed with enthusiasm for the children. But they will also, pray, exemplify the patience, endurance and enjoyment I learned from being a part of all of you.

God bless you!

Come To Church

Read Romans 13:1-3
"Owe no one anything, except to love one another; for he who loves his neighbor has fulfilled the law." (Romans 13:8 RSV)

"I wish I knew more about the Bible!" The speaker was a bright student in my senior literature class, realized how little she really knew about the greatest book.

As a public school teacher I am aware of the mandate to keep religion out of the classroom. Yet literature contains so many references to the Bible that I often find myself explaining well-known stories as well as obscure ones — Jeppha's daughter or Job or Ishmael for example. My teaching should be natural, but how can I perform as a Christian at the same time?

Paul's letter instructed the Romans to use their individual gifts for the greater good, but he also cautioned them to obey the law. Paul also said that all authority comes from God, and that he who loves his neighbor has fulfilled the law.

My Christian belief should be evident in my respect for students and fellow teachers, my willingness to help beyond the requirements of the job, my gentleness of spirit, and my serenity of mind. I try to behave like a Christian so that my students can recognize my source of strength. In living my faith I can speak with a voice louder than words.

PRAYER: Father, help us to live as Christ taught and to love all persons. Amen.
THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: Dedicated teaching is a form of love. —Thelma C. Johnson (Sioux City, Iowa) — copyright — THE UPPER ROOM

NOTICE OF FORMAL PROBATE OF FOREIGN WILL, ANCILLARY PROCEEDINGS, PERMISSION OF HEIRS AND FORMAL APPOINTMENT OF ANCILLARY PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE County Court of Valley County, Nebraska, Estate of ANNIS GRAY, Deceased.

Notice is hereby given that a petition for formal probate of foreign will of said deceased, determination of heirs, and formal appointment of Jeffrey W. Howard, as ancillary personal representative has been filed, and is set for hearing in the Valley County Court, on December 10, 1979, at 11:00 o'clock a.m.

ROLLIN R. DYE Associate Judge Clerk of the County Court Mayer, Burns & Mayer Attorneys 58-31c

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS The North Loup Housing Authority of North Loup, Nebraska 68859, will receive sealed bids for construction of Modernization of Driveway by Paving in North Loup (No. Lo Villa) until 2:00 P.M. Central Standard Time at the office of the Executive Director in North Loup, Nebraska (No. Lo Villa) on the 15th day of November, 1979, at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The Contract Documents, including plans and specifications, are on file at the office of the Executive Director, Hazel White, in North Loup, Nebraska (No. Lo Villa) and at the office of the Engineer in Charge, Robert E. Paul, P.O. Box 283, St. Paul, Nebraska. Copies of the documents may be obtained by paying $10.00, none of which will be refunded to R. E. Paul, Consulting Engineer for each set of documents obtained.

Each bid shall be accompanied, in a separate sealed envelope, by a certified check, cashier check, or bid bond, in an amount not less than 5% of the Engineer's estimate of construction cost and shall be made payable to the North Loup Housing Authority of North Loup, Nebraska, as security that the bidder to whom the contract may be awarded will enter into a contract to build the improvements in accordance with the Contract Documents and give bond in the sum as hereinafter provided for construction of the improvements. The bid security of the three lowest bidders may be held until the contract is awarded.

No bid shall be withdrawn after opening of the bids without the consent of the North Loup Housing Authority for a period of 30 days after the scheduled time of closing bids. The North Loup Housing Authority reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any informality in bidding.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a satisfactory performance bond in the sum of the full amount of the contract. In general, the improvement on which bids are requested will require the following construction: Unit Item Estab. Quantity

Cu. Yd. Excavation Conc. 150 L.F. Removal Conc. 120 Curb & Gutter 12 Yd. Subgrade Compaction 800 Sq. Ft. Concrete 1675 Sq. Ft. Concrete Walk 1675

Bids shall be taken on a total of the various items listed in the proposal, and bidders shall bid on all items. The North Loup Housing Authority reserves the right to increase or decrease items from the scope of the bid and to award contracts as may be deemed in the best interest of the Housing Authority and the public. The Engineer's estimate of construction cost is $11,602.25.

Sealed bids, with the original copy, must be received at the North Loup Housing Authority, 25th day of Oct., 1979, at 11:00 a.m. By Hazel White Executive Director 80-31c

Students at the Humpty Dumpty School's Monday class had quite a few things for which to be thankful. In an interview November 19, they said they were thankful for Christmas, God, Santa, dogs, grandparents and parents. Most frequently mentioned were God and Santa. Mom and Dad came in a distant third or fourth in their listing of benefits. Other items mentioned were radio cars, winter, and one student was thankful for Thanksgiving. Students interviewed were William Patch, Nicki Bebe, Ryan Gestmann, Angie Clement, Nathan Vanek, Joshua Treptow, Bill Syzyk, and Karla Wadas. Our thanks to their teacher Mrs. Janette Koelling.

Ord Elementary Students Tell How To Prepare A Thanksgiving Turkey

Leave it to students at the Ord Elementary School. They'll give an honest answer to an honest question. Like how to roast a turkey.

Thursday the Quiz asked kindergarten — second grade students that question and got some surprising, but honest, answers.

Temperatures
Suggested oven temperatures varied from student to student, but did directions for preparing the bird. Some students like Lance Hastings got right down to the real nitty gritty of the situation. They suggested killing the bird before doing anything else.

Other youngsters gave varying directions for preparing their Thanksgiving bird. Herewith are their answers:

— Dawn Markowski, age 7. Take the feathers off before you bring the turkey into the house. Put it in some hot water and get the rest of the feathers off. If you missed any the first time. Put it in some more clean hot water and then you roast it.

— Ryan Simpson, age 7. Put on butter and salt and pepper. Put it in the oven at 400 degrees and cook it for two and a half hours.

— Chuck John, age 7. Put it in the oven. Then turn the oven to 20 or 30 and then it's done. Cut it in little, little pieces and then you can eat it.

— Steven David, age 8. I'd cook it at 50 degrees for half an hour and then eat it.

— Holly Proskocil, age 6. Put it in the oven and then put salt and pepper on it. Then it starts to get done. Holly suggested a temperature setting of forty-five zero with a cooking time of ten minutes.

— Jeff Spilnek, age 7. Just put it in the oven about three hours. Every leap year we put it in on the grill.

— Lance Hastings, age 7. Kill him and take his feathers off. Wash him and then put him in the oven. When it's done you put him at 20 or 30. Before you cook him you should put on onions, pepper, celery and gravy. Cut him up and then eat him.

— Ryan Dughman, age 5. Put it in the oven for a week at 16 or 5 degrees. Then put it on the table.

Whatever your turkey recipe, the Quiz hopes your Thanksgiving is a good one.

Valuation Court Case Is Pending

A marathon district court case ended Thursday with a pending decision. The case is Walter and Josephine Bumgardner protesting the assessment of their acreage near Arcadia.

During a hearing Wednesday and Thursday over 50 items were entered as evidence. J. Marvin Weems represented Bumgardners. Greg Jensen represented Valley County.

Valley and other Nebraska counties went through a Unica meral mandated revaluation last year. Some state residents feel their valuations were unfair.

Judge James Kelly presided at the two-day hearing.

Quiz to Close Thanksgiving

The Ord Quiz and Quiz Graphic Arts will close Thanksgiving Day, November 22. They will reopen at 8:00 a.m. the following day. The staff and management of the Ord Quiz wish you and yours a happy Thanksgiving.

Control Area Hearing Will Be In Bartlett

A hearing on a proposed water control area will be held February 25 in Bartlett. The hearing, conducted by the Nebraska Department of Natural Resources, will start at 9:30 a.m. in the old gym of Wheeler Central High School.

Purpose of the meeting, required by state law, is to take testimony for and against creation of the water control area. If created, the control district would cover 900 square miles in Loup, Garfield, Wheeler, and Boone Counties.

Mike Jess, deputy director of the Nebraska Department of Natural Resources will represent the state.

The proposed water control district, if created, would result in the policing and regulation of water use.

Bartlett was reportedly selected as the hearing site because of its central location to the proposed control area.

Final decision on whether or not the area is created rests with the Nebraska Department of Natural Resources.

Car Crash Friday Claims Ericson Girl

An Ericson teenager died in a two-car accident east of Ericson on state Highway 70 Friday morning.

Stacy L. Esker, 17, died when her car was hit at an intersection by one driven by Marcel J. Bailey, 63, of Cavalier, ND.

The Bailey car was headed west when it hit the side of the second vehicle. A Nebraska State Patrol investigator said the intersection is partially blocked by a hill which may have impaired the vision of both drivers.

Bailey and his wife, Anna, age 62, were taken to the Valley County Hospital in Ord. They were listed in stable condition Friday.

Thanksgiving Vacation Schedule Is Announced

Ord public and parochial schools will close Thursday and Friday for Thanksgiving vacation.

Snow cancelled classes Wednesday. They will resume at their usual time Monday.

Harvest Halted Again As Winter Lashes Area

Wet snow, yielding 33 of an inch of moisture up to midnight Tuesday, added to the woes of many farmers who lost corn during the first snow, recently, and were faced with a return bout of winter at mid-week.

Though nickers ran through the unseasonably warm weather just past, and into the late night hours, Tuesday's sudden change came with harvest only about 80 percent completed.

Forecasters were warning of heavy snows for the area on Wednesday and possible clearing, but colder conditions, the latter part of the week.

This week's Quiz weather record:

	Hi	Lo
Nov. 14	50	19
Nov. 15	58	25
Nov. 16	64	26
Nov. 17	63	24
Nov. 18	55	30
Nov. 19	55	31
Nov. 20	58	30
Nov. 21	58	30

Precipitation of 33 fell Nov. 20. Total moisture accumulation to date for 1979 is 26.10 inches.

Burwell Rodeo Is in the Red

The Burwell Rodeo and the Garfield County fair lost $2,683 this year, according to statistics in the November 15 Burwell Tribune. The figures were from a financial report given November 13 at an annual meeting of the Garfield County Frontier Fair Association.

The report covers a fiscal year October 1978-October 1979. Total operating receipts for the fair and rodeo were $100,789. Operating expenses were $103,472, when combined with $3,159 estimated expenses still to be paid, added up to $106,631 total expenses.

Treasurer Bob McEnvoy reportedly said greater community involvement has helped reduce losses in recent years.

Federal Grant Lures New Jobs Help Keep Others

Several Ord area towns qualify for federal funds designed to help keep existing industries and attract others to town. Called Urban Development Action Grants, according to Rick Noyes, the funds provide a lever for private sector jobs.

The funds will pay for government-related expenses, the Region 26 head told the Quiz. These could include paying utility bills, providing services to keep an industry from relocating, and helping lure new industry to an area or town. "The funds," Noyes explained, "are to make and keep jobs."

The grant will be on a cost-sharing basis, according to Noyes. No break-down of who will pay how much was available.

Among towns qualifying were North Loup, Ord, and Scotia.

School's Grrrrreat

Ord Elementary students met Buffy, a five month old African lion, Tuesday. Her owners, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Burson of Lafayette, LA brought their 46 pound pet cat to school.

Keith, a former Ord resident, got Buffy about four and a half months ago, from an animal specialty dealer. According to Mrs. Burson, Buffy is a family pet just like their French poodle, parrot, cat, and black bear.

The lion reportedly thinks the poodle is its mother. The cat follows the small dog wherever it goes. "And the dog tells her off all the time," Mrs. Burson said.

The mother-daughter, or canine-cat, relationship developed because the poodle looked after the small cub when it first arrived.

A less tranquil relationship first existed between the lion and bear, according to the Bursons. They got the two animals a week and a half apart. That stormy beginning has yielded to a more placid understanding. "Now," said Mrs. Burson, "they're the best of friends."

Unlike the bear, the lion sleeps inside the house. However, the bear is allowed inside the home from time to time. "Usually she just makes a bee-line for the honey jar," Mrs. Burson said.

Full House
She stated no more additions to the Burson family are planned at this time. "We have," she observed, "a full house." That family includes Eric, age eight, and Sean, age four. Other members include the poodle Fifi, Mitz, the bear, Charlie, the parrot, a small cat called Katie; Buffy; and a dog named Pepper.

Keith has two children in Ord from a former marriage. They are Kevin, age 12 and Kim, age nine.

Buffy isn't the first lion the Bursons have had. While in the Air Force, he bought a lion cub from a zoological company. When he left England, he sold her back to the firm. He returned to America about three years ago.

Friendly cub
Their present lion, Buffy, is friendly and has been declawed. The 46 pound youngster likes to play with children, especially younger ones. When full-grown, Buffy should weigh around 150 pounds.

A helicopter pilot for a petroleum company, Keith and his wife are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burson of Ord.

Arcadia Students to Have Center Stage in Headin' for a Weddin'

by Shell Schmidt

Saturday, December 1, at 8:00 p.m., the Arcadia Juniors will present "Headin' for a Weddin'" under the direction of Mary Anne Feider and Nadine Beckenbach.

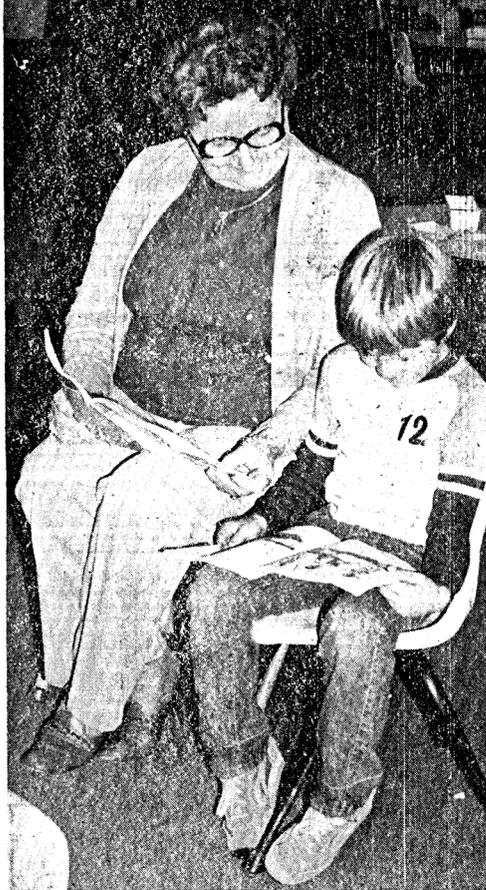

The Hollowbone family, a poor, dirty, hillbilly family, lives in a shack in the mountains. Homer, played by Lanny Cusimano has been corresponding with a New England girl named Melissa. She is portrayed by Teresa Einspahr. Homer has been stretching the truth about his education and wealth, in his letters and they have inspired Miss Dugan to come looking for her darling fiancé, unknown to Homer.

Bertha Blairhouse (Veronica Einspahr) is after Homer, only Homer does not even like Bertha.

During a snow storm, an unexpected guest arrives, along with two traveling companions, Isabel and Hortense Todd, played by Shelly Schmidt and Robbin Hawley.

Cast Members
Although a few characters stand out, all members have important roles. Other cast members are: Pav (Kevin Gestak), Maw (Jo Ann Felis), Sarah Jo (Linda Staab), Fannie Jane (Coleen Calabro), Pepper (John Hunt), Sis (Sandy Holmes), Grandpappy Hankley (Larry Drake), Widow Blairhouse (Laurie Wagoner), Slim Blairhouse (Jim Smith), and Gracie May (Janelle Owens).

The audience is sure to enjoy the Pav's unusual pet, Gloria.

Jason Cetak shows grandmother, Mrs. Alma Cetak, some of his classroom materials during the American Education Week observance at Ord Elementary School.

Emma Mathauser Wins Essay Contest

Emma K. Mathauser won the Quiz essay contest on "What The First Amendment Means To Me." Her essay gained her a $25 savings bond from The Ord Quiz.

Her essay will now be submitted to the Nebraska Press Association to compete with other essays submitted from local community newspapers around the State of Nebraska. The Nebraska Press Association will provide a $100 prize to the first place state-wide winner, $50 for the second, and $25 for the third.

The first place state-wide winner will be introduced at the April 1980 Nebraska Press Association convention where he or she will read the winning essay and receive their check.

The winning essay will be submitted to the national level for further competition.

Here is Emma's winning essay:

"There are four parts to the First Amendment to the Constitution. The first ten Amendments to the United States Constitution were referred to as Bill of Rights, since they set forth specifically certain inalienable rights of the people.

"Freedom of Religion was practiced by the Pilgrims in England. King James would not let them hold their religious meetings in peace. He thought, as all kings then did, that everybody in England should belong to the same church and worship God in the same way that he did. He was afraid that if people were allowed to go to whatever church they thought best, it would lead to disputes and quarrels, which would end by breaking his kingdom to pieces.

"Quite a number of Englishmen, seeing that they could not have religious liberty at home escaped with their wives and children to Holland, for there the Dutch were willing to let them have such a church as they wanted. But the Pilgrims were not content in Holland. They saw that, if they stayed in that country, their children would grow up to be more Dutch than English.

"They saw, too, that they could not hope to get land in Holland. They resolved, therefore, to go to America, where they could get farms for nothing, and where their children would never forget the English language or the good old English customs and laws.

"In 1620 a company of Pilgrims sailed for England on their way to America. Captain Miles Standish, an English soldier, who had fought in Holland, joined them. About a hundred of these people sailed from Plymouth, England, for the New World, in the ship Mayflower.

"On December 21, 1620 they landed on that famous stone which is now known all over the world as Plymouth Rock, on the edge of the State of Massachusetts. This Amendment also means that we should all be alert, so we would not be taken over by the Communists like Czechoslovakia. They believed the Communists when they treated them very kindly. "Beware of the smiling man with an axe to grind."

"Dr. Bill Graham on the Mike Douglas show said "No man is a 100% atheist, one who called himself an atheist, when he was faced with a certain crisis, was heard to say, O my God."

"Our Federated Burwell Women's club which was organized here in April 1907, consists of women who belong to at least five different churches, and come and visit our meeting, you will see the pleasant, social hour we enjoy during our lunch hour. On your way home you would certainly think, "There really is a Freedom of Religion shown here."

"Our city Burwell, Nebraska, population 1340 has nine separate churches, and the people here get along very nicely. You are welcome in all of them. Yes, Freedom of Religion is practiced here.

"For Freedom of Religion, no one has ever been prosecuted in the United States for his belief in a certain religion.

"Freedom of Speech means the only limitation upon speech in this country is that the rights of others be respected. Any one may think as he pleases upon any subject, and may freely express his opinion, provided that in doing so he does not trespass upon the rights of others. Congress shall make no law prohibiting the free exercise thereof.

The carriage house will likely be completed next spring, according to Hartsuff workers.

Warm Weather Gives Fort Workers Some Needed Time

Recent warm weather has given workers at Fort Hartsuff more time for restoration projects. Both a carriage house and the commanding officer's quarters east of the parade ground are being restored.

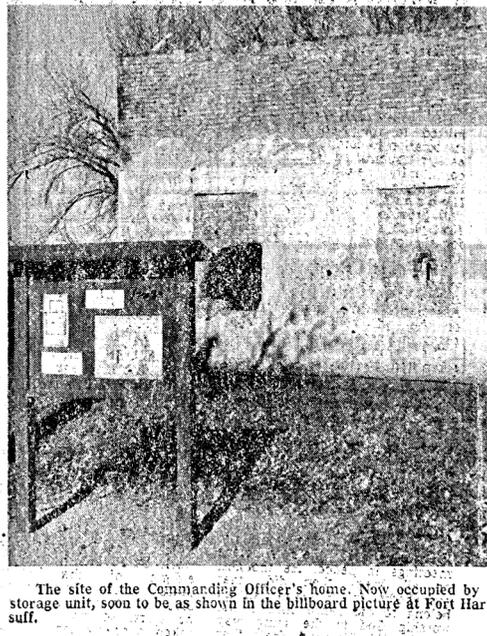

The house burned to the ground after the fort's decommissioning in 1881. A brick silo now occupies that site.

The building's foundation was reinforced and the walls stabilized, according to Hartsuff superintendent, Roye Lindsay. Lyle Inness and Darrell Fish spent many hours inside the building, they stated. Both estimated the house will likely be restored by Spring, 1982.

Drawings from the national archives and written descriptions are being used in the planned restoration.

Another project underway is constructing a carriage house, next to the commanding officer's home. There wasn't a carriage house exactly like the one under construction, Lindsey admitted. However, there was a building much like it, he told the Quiz.

Work on the carriage house started three weeks ago. It probably will be finished next Spring.

The site of the Commanding Officer's home. Now occupied by a storage unit, soon to be, as shown in the billboard picture at Fort Hartsuff.

Cooking Habits Can Save Energy

The cost of food is on the increase and so is the cost of energy to prepare it. As a result, it becomes increasingly important to acquire efficient cooking as well as shopping habits.

When using a range, a surprisingly large percentage of energy is lost to the air. However, there are many ways that you can avoid this needless waste.

Here are some "range-top energy saving tips."

Choosing the proper cookware is important. Be sure to select pots with tight fitting covers to prevent the escape of heat.

Keep the pans tightly covered when possible so that the heat and moisture will be retained inside the pan while cooking.

It is also important to choose pans with flat bottoms which make better contact with the heat source reducing energy loss.

To prevent waste, use the least amount of heat to perform a cooking job. Home Economists recommend using medium to low heat.

Remember, slightly boiling water will be the same temperature as rapidly boiling water, and uses far less fuel. (Using a minimum amount of water will shorten your cooking time).

Frying should be done uncovered, using only enough heat to brown your food. High heat causes waste.

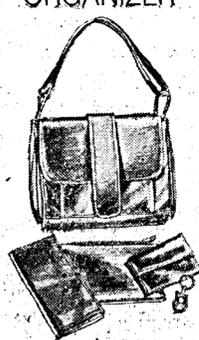

Place your pan on the cooking surface before turning on your range, making sure that you use the correct size pan to fit your burner.

The size of the pan should also match the amount of food you are preparing. If the pan is too large, you will use more energy than you need. If it is too small for the job, heat can escape.

Learning new range-top cooking habits using the proper cookware, will add up to noticeable savings in money and energy, so start now!

The greatest incentive to produce more work is necessity.

Nebraska Highways — 1926

Commenting on road planning in the 1920s — the decade in which the automobile began to make inroads into the railroad passenger business — a writer for Western Newspaper Union pointed out that Nebraska "would always play an important part in the federal highway system."

It had done so when the wagon trails to the West flowed together in Nebraska to form the "Great Platte River Road" of the 1840-50s. After the Civil War, the Union Pacific Railroad followed essentially the same route in spanning the continent.

In 1926, when WNU circulated its story to Nebraska weekly papers, but its service (see microfilm newspaper files in the Nebraska State Historical Society library), 1,500 of the 6,000 miles in the state highway system were neither "graded, graveled, nor paved." Most of the entire unpaved roads were in the Sandhills.

Maps of improved roads in 1926 indicate that between Omaha, Lincoln, and the Hastings-Grand Island area, surfacing of some kind had been applied. In other areas short road segments were in the "all-weather" category.

Officials noted an increasing number of out-of-state cars on a daily east-west through Nebraska — "50% greater than in the average state." During an "average day" in November, 1,847 cars traveled between Lincoln and Omaha.

When road-betterment contracts then under construction were completed, the state would have on inter-city routes 3,407 miles of graded road, 2,228 miles of gravel, and 175 miles of paved highways.

In 1916, 100,000 automobiles were estimated to have traveled across Nebraska. After 11 months of 1926, 337,280 had already been counted. Envious St. Louis and Kansas City were attempting to make inroads into the traffic flow through the Omaha gateway by calling attention to the all-paved section across Missouri and as far west as Topeka, Kansas. Advertising recommending that route called tourists' attention to the "poorer roads in Iowa and Nebraska," though the differences may not have been significant.

Federal and state highway officials met in 1925 to draw plans for marking and numbering the main routes through America. Of these, seven (both N- and E-W) were in Nebraska. "Neat, metal markers standing beside the road, and corresponding warning signs" were to replace the old form of telephone-pole designs which had previously guided travelers. The covered wagon or prairie schooner was selected as the design for Nebraska markers.

The WNU reporter expressed confidence that Nebraska would uphold her title as "the Gateway to the West." She has: Today 130 Highway carries a big share of the E-W traffic along the Platte River route, and other parallel routes are available for the less hurried traveler. One of the few still remaining rail routes to the West also runs through the state, the Amtrak Chicago-San Francisco train over the Burlington, and buses run on a variety of routes.

Reclamation Bureau Will Get a New Name

After nearly 78 years as the "Reclamation Service" and the "Bureau of Reclamation" the agency that built Hoover Dam and Grand Coulee Dam among others, has changed its name to Water and Power Resources Service (WPRS). Secretary of the Interior Cecil D. Andrus announced today.

The Secretary stated that R. Keith Higginson, who has been Commissioner of Reclamation since April 4, 1977, will be Commissioner of Water and Power Resources. The agency name change was recommended by Higginson and was accomplished by secretarial Order, dated November 6, 1979.

"Reclamation has a great history," said Secretary Andrus. "The settlement and development of much of the West resulted from the availability of water, power, and economic stability brought over its many years."

"However," the Secretary explained, some changes in emphasis have been made in the functions of the agency in recent months.

"National needs and concerns now call for greater efficiency in the operation of existing structures and their integration in new programs for renewable resources and alternative energy," said Andrus.

"Appropriate legislation for any changes which may be recommended in the scope of the agency's authority will be requested from the Congress. Also, the Act of May 26, 1926, which amends the Reclamation Act of 1902, which prescribes that the function of reclamation of arid lands in the West will be directed by the Commissioner of Reclamation will need to be amended by the Congress."

"The initial purpose of reclaiming arid western lands has expanded to a much broader responsibility for water and power resource management," said Commissioner Higginson. "The Water and Power Resources Service is very concerned with its role in the total environment and hopes to enhance the public's understanding of and participation in the management of water and renewable energy resources."

Water supply from early reclamation features was primarily for irrigation. Today, said Higginson, much project water augments domestic and industrial supplies and over-all water quality is improved. Increased irrigation efficiency, water conservation, and the reclamation of waste water will be required in the future to meet expanding needs.

"Water recreation is an important aspect of American life," Higginson added, "and WPRS reservoirs are a great magnet." Reservoirs and stream regulation also contribute substantially to fish and wildlife enhancement in the West.

"As to energy," said Higginson, "hydroelectric power is solar. Unlike other forms of solar energy, hydroelectric energy can be easily and economically stored in reservoirs to be released on a moment's notice to firm up more conventional electrical sources.

"It makes economically feasible the use of wind turbines. It will help to make possible other sources of utility-sized solar power by filling in lapses in generation from passing clouds and the coming of nightfall."

One other new emphasis will be installing powerplants at existing lowhead structures, of which there are thousands in this country.

Of great national impact are plans to upgrade existing powerplants with additional turbine-generators and the rewinding of old generators, said Higginson.

The Water and Power Resources Service has responsibilities for 138 water power projects with 333 reservoirs. These supply some or all of the water used by more than 16 million people, 30 percent of the population of the 17 Western states. In addition, the state and industrial water; more than 66,000 acres — totaling about 9 million acres of irrigated lands — receive water from these projects. From 50 hydroelectric plants, more than 30 billion kilowatt-hours of energy are generated annually.

"This is Your Land" led by Mrs. Harry Foth, Mrs. Albert Peterson, Citizenship chairman, presented thoughts about Thanksgiving. Mrs. Jack Duvall, reading chairman, suggested reading books, "South of the Cottonwoods" by the Sand Hills Beckon, and "Little House Cook Book." Mrs. George Bell showed genealogy charts.

Coffee Drink For Celebrants

"Coffee was the drink for celebrants Sunday. The Ord-Burwell Alanson group held their 21st anniversary meeting at the Ord Veterans Club. Coffee, cookies, and companionship were the items on the menu.

One speaker said, "I've never been to one of these meetings where I came out feeling worse than when I went in. You people gave me everything I have. My life, my wife, my family."

Another Alanson member told of drinking while in high school. "I did it," he said, "because I wanted to be somebody." He suspected present teenagers may have the same misconception.

The speaker recalled leaving home for groceries. He returned ten days later with rotten meat and clabbered milk.

His last bout with the bottle was in 1963.

Alcoholism doesn't involve just the drinking member of the family. All family members are involved. To help them understand and deal with alcoholism, Alanson and Alateen were founded. Alateen is for the alcoholic's spouses. Alateen, for their children.

One Alanson told how his wife's drinking changed the entire family's behavior. He and his wife would depart for a night on the town, leaving one six year old daughter in charge of the other children. "We did it," he said, "because she could use the dial telephone if anything went wrong."

Both he and his children went straight up in the maze of lies, fights, games, and other facts of alcoholism. One daughter turned into a near recluse. Thanks to Alanson and Alateen and a mother's conquest over drinking, that same daughter is now a homecoming queen.

"When you finally let go," the speaker said, "a lot of neat things happen."

Neighborhood Sisters
The Neighborhood Sisters Extension Club met November 15 at the home of Gloria Knight.

The meeting was opened with the salute to the flag. The song leader, the Aveline group, sang in singing which was followed by the usual business meeting.

Anna Novotny gave a safety report, "Injuries Can Spoil Holidays," Emma Novak gave a health report on stress. The lesson "The Art of Time Makers" was given by Lillian Krahulik and Garnet Walkowiak.

The next meeting will be December 13 at 12 p.m. at the home of Lillian Krahulik. It will be a pot luck dinner and Christmas party.

Mutual Benefit
Bells made with beads kept 13 members of Mutual Benefit Extension Club busy at the home of the postess, Mrs. Will Foth, Wednesday afternoon. Emma Smith gave instructions and help where needed.

The afternoon began with the group singing, "This Is Your Land" led by Mrs. Harry Foth. Mrs. Albert Peterson, Citizenship chairman, presented thoughts about Thanksgiving. Mrs. Jack Duvall, reading chairman, suggested reading books, "South of the Cottonwoods" by the Sand Hills Beckon, and "Little House Cook Book." Mrs. George Bell showed genealogy charts.

The women voted to give Christmas donations to Nebraska Children's Home at Omaha and to the Heart Monitor fund at Valley County Hospital.

CAROL'S CORNER

by Carol Leggett

THANKFULNESS . . . I suppose it's okay for us to stuff ourselves with Thanksgiving food, but while we eat — and afterwards — stuff in a few thoughts of thankfulness.

There are so many things each day, little things, for which one should be thankful. This little prayer points out only a few:

For magazines and books and newspapers to relieve the humdrum and keep us "in".

For the telephone when the youngsters are sick or when for other reasons we are bound to the confines of our home, Father, we thank Thee.

For frozen pizzas and frosting mixes and dishwashers and clothes dryers.

For automatic washers and minute rice and instant pudding mixes, Father we thank Thee.

For Saturday morning cartoons, a built-in baby sitter of sorts.

For neighbors who are willing to stop what they are doing to share a recipe or loan a cup of sugar.

For little ones, even though they run through the living room and spill kool aid on the carpet, what would we do without them? Father, we thank Thee.

For a recent afternoon spent lunching with the "girls."

For laughter.

For a loving family who understands why the kitchen floor isn't always super clean and why the dishes aren't always done, Father, we thank Thee.

And now we ask Thee: To give us the strength and hope that is so necessary, sometimes, just to get through the day.

To ease our guilt as we sit down to this beautiful holiday meal, remembering those in this world who are starving.

For the courage to do more than write words.

—O—
COFFEE CUP PHILOSOPHY: Be dissatisfied enough to improve, but satisfied enough to be happy.

Wicht-Kruml Exchanged Marriage Vows at Methodist Church in Ord

The First United Methodist Church in Ord was the setting for a 4 p.m. double ring ceremony October 21, uniting Karen Kay Wicht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christain Wicht of Grand Island, and Joe Emanuel Kruml, Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kruml of Ord. Rev. Curtis Trenhaile officiated the ceremony.

Mrs. Shirley Karpe of Ord was the organist. Steffen Baker of Ord played the guitar and sang the musical selection, "You Needed Me."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length gown of Oiana featuring a mandarin collar of lace. The lace was applied on the front with lace flowers arranged in a keyhole design. Matching lace flowers trimmed the full length sleeves around the wrists. Lace flowers dotted the gown down to the chapel length train. The empire waistline was also trimmed with lace. The double-tiered veil was waist length and trimmed with lace flowers beginning at the headpiece. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, white carnations and baby's breath, trimmed with a royal blue velvet ribbon.

Maid of honor was Julie Weikland of Grand Island, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Cindy Wicht of Grand Island, sister of the bride, and Chris Conner, Kay Holt and Caren Schauer, all friends of the bride from Ord. They wore matching full length royal blue gowns of soft knit featuring crown-style necks. Each carried a wand of yellow sweetheart roses trimmed with baby's breath and accented by a light blue ribbon.

Flower girl was Nicholee Bebee of Ord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Fryzek. She wore a white soft knit featuring an empire waist. A contrasting royal blue velvet ribbon was tied at the waist. She carried a small wand of yellow sweetheart roses trimmed with baby's breath and accented with a light blue ribbon. Joseph Kruml of Hastings, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kruml, was ring bearer. He wore a tuxedo with royal blue pants and a contrasting light blue jacket with royal blue trim.

Candle lighters were Mark Knight and Bryon Stevens, friends of the groom from Ord. Best man was Doug Potrzeba of Ord. The groomsmen were Don Iwanski, Bryon Stevens, Rod Kittle, and Mark Knight, all from Ord and friends of the groom. The groom was attended in a tuxedo of light blue with a light blue ruffled shirt. The groomsmen were dressed in tuxedos with royal blue pants and a contrasting light blue jacket with royal blue trim. Each wore a boutonniere of yellow sweetheart roses with baby's breath and a dark blue velvet leaf. Ushers at the ceremony were Don Iwanski and Rod Kittle.

Honored guests were the grandparents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Ruzicka of Burwell; Mr. and Mrs. Leland Chaffin of Burwell, aunt and uncle of the groom; Corrine Wicht of Shelton, friend of the bride; and Mrs. John Newton of Lake Havasu City, AZ, sister of the bride.

The reception, immediately following the service, was held at the church. Cutting and serving the four-tiered cake were Jean Hruza of Burwell and Cindy Kamarad of Comstock. Serving punch was Laurie Gregory of Ord and serving coffee was Jean Dabas of Elyria. Marcia Mason of Ord, attended the guest book.

Following the reception, a dance was held at the Ord Elks Club.

After a short trip through the southern states, the couple will make their home near Elyria.

Potluck Dinner Scheduled for Potential Scouts

A potluck dinner will be held Saturday evening, November 24, at 6:30 p.m. in the basement community room of the new Ord City Hall for all young men, age 11 and up, and members of their families, for purposes of:

— Learning about Ord's Scouting program, including slides of a recent trip Ord Scouts made to Philmont Scout Ranch in Northern New Mexico.

— Participating in a Scout Court of Honor.

— Enjoying a potluck dinner and an evening with your family.

Each family should bring a eat dish, one other dish, your own table service and enough folding chairs for your family.

Persons having folding chairs they could permanently donate for community use are asked to call 728-3841 or 728-3944 evenings.

Pre-Nuptial Event For Judy Mareah

Sunday afternoon, November 18, Judy Mareah was honored at a products bridal shower at the home of Julie Grim. Mary Scheidecker and Julie Grim were the hostesses.

Fifteen ladies played a variety of games such as "How Well Do You Know The Bride?" During the afternoon, Judy received a phone call from her sister, Linda, from Aurora, CO, who was unable to attend the shower.

After the refreshments were served, the bride-to-be selected her gifts.

Judy will become the bride of Leroy Svatora on December 1.

Quiz Parkview Correspondent To Retire From Her Weekly Newsbeat

Emma Zabloudil is retiring as Quiz Parkview correspondent after eight years service. Neighbor Carol Leggett asked Emma if she would like writing news for the Ord Quiz.

Emma admitted having doubts about the job, but I told her "I'd try it," she said Friday in an interview. She called the ensuing eight years "interesting," adding, "I've learned a lot." Her news beat starts Monday morning with calling most of the 50 housing units in the Parkview retirement village. "Most news happens over the weekend," Emma explained. That is when friends and relatives visit.

That news beat will end December 1 when Emma takes her last news items and adds — 30 — to her journalism career.

Now that she is retiring at age 71, she plans to take it easy. Her hobbies include making ornaments out of beads.

Three out of towners celebrated the '79 deer season by bagging these fine animals last week. John Sturm and Ron Friesen, of Omaha, and Brian Sturm of Elkhorn got their deer 15 miles southwest of Barwell. Two were five pointers and one had three points. John admired what he called "this beautiful country." This is his first trip to the Ord area. All three vowed they would return.

Brad Lech got a bird Saturday when he bagged an albino pheasant rooster ten miles north of Ord. "I was out hunting," he said, "and saw some roosters at the bottom of the draw and then this one walked out of the bushes." After bagging the bird, he called the State Game and Parks Commission in Lincoln. They confirmed Brad's bird was a rare one. Brad was using a 12 gauge shotgun when he got his rare bird. He plans to have it mounted.

out Shelby 38-0 in semifinal action earlier. Temperatures dipped near zero and there were snow flurries during the game. The Grand Island Independent dubbed that game a lesson in true grit. The D-1 title escaped the Shamrocks with their 40-20 loss at Beemer. That win gives Beemer their second championship game in eight-man football.

Gal Spikers Are All Conference

Two Ord High girls were selected by Central Ten coaches as West Division All Conference players. Senior Barb Kittle and Junior Nancy Gogan were the honorees. Both girls and Anne Smith were among those named State-Class B volleyball leaders by the Grand Island Independent recently. Both Kittle and Gogan have consistently been among the team's top scorers. Barb Kittle was also selected for the C-10 All Conference team. Ord High spikers closed their season with a 10 and 8 record.

Quinn Steers Huskers To A 34-3 Win Over Iowa State

Jeff Quinn

Ord's own Jeff Quinn steered UN Cornhuskers to a 34-3 win Saturday in Lincoln. The Big Red Machine drubbed guest Iowa State, assuring a '79 shoot-out with Oklahoma next Saturday. The Sooners squeaked by Missouri 24-22 at Norman last week. Missouri also caused Nebraska fans some anxious moments earlier in the season when they nearly upset the Big Red apple cart. Nebraska squeaked by that cliff-hanger 23-

20. Saturday's win over Iowa State was a more sedate victory, but a welcome one none the less. It boosted Nebraska's record to 10-0. The Jeff Quinn-Junior Miller combination sparked Big Red's passing game, assuring the win. Quinn hit 8 of 9 passes for 115 yards and two touchdowns the first half and finished 11 of 17 for 163 yards. That is 16 more than Nebraska accumulated against CU, Missouri, and K-State combined. The Grand Island Independent quoted Quinn as saying "We really wanted to move the ball better today. That was one of our main concerns going into the game. The main thing today (Saturday) was that the offense moved it better."

Star Athlete
The former Ord High star athlete directed ground gaining marches of 84 and 80 yards the first quarter. They led to field goals by Dean Sukup of 27 and 24 yards. Nebraska so dominated the game they didn't have to punt until 13 seconds were left in the third quarter. With that 34-3 win behind them, the Cornhuskers journey to Norman, Oklahoma this Saturday. They will face Barry Switzer's Oklahoma Sooners. That will be the second straight game quarterback Quinn has started. The ISU start was Quinn's first since Iowa, Sept. 22. That much touted Nebraska-Oklahoma Shootout, game number 11 on the Cornhuskers' schedule, is a long-standing tradition. This year, it's shoot-out number 10, as Tom Osborne's Nebraska Cornhuskers 10-0 overall and ranked number two by UPI and 6-0 in the Big Eight take on Barry Switzer's Sooners 9-1 overall and ranked number seven in the nation by UPI and also 6-0 in the Big Eight.

All on Line
So it's all on the line, the Big Eight title and a winners trip to the Orange Bowl to play Florida State on January 1 in Miami. The loser will get a trip to Dallas January 1 to play in the Cotton Bowl against the Southwest Conference Champ. That will be either Arkansas, Texas or Houston. Kickoff time for the NU-OU game is set for 11:50 a.m. CST. Most of the country will see the game. ABC-TV has selected it to be a Regional game of the week. Air time is 11:30 CST. A sellout crowd of over 71,000 is expected to jam Owen Field for the NU-OU battle.

A Quiz Flashback Ord's Oldest Industry No More

E. W. Gruber has been busy for some time tearing down a part of the sheds of his brickyard in northeast Ord. Thus comes to an end, for the time being at least, Ord's oldest and most truly native industry. For brick are made from the native soil, and no foreign substance enters into them. E. W. Gruber came from St. Paul to Ord in 1899, and purchased the land on which one of Ord's earliest brick makers, E. Ream, had once had a brick yard. Before coming to Ord, Mr. Gruber had been in business with his older brother, Andrew, and they first started to make brick there in 1880. The land Mr. Gruber first bought was east of where his residence stands and where the yard is located, but the only evidence to show that it had been a brick yard was an occasional brick bat. Mr. Ream's kiln, which was the old fashioned type, was located on the west bank of the little creek which runs between the Gruber house and the brick yard. His method of burning brick, and that used by Mr. Gruber for the first seven years after he came to Ord, was to pile up the dried brick so that the air could circulate around them, build a wall around them, and then build a fire below the hot air rising and burning the brick to the necessary color and hardness. In 1907, he built the down draft kiln which still stands on the property, and which is so large it has a capacity of 85,000 brick at one time. It consists of two large rooms with arched roofs, in which the brick are piled when ready to burn. The walls of the kiln are three feet thick at the bottom and are built of Gruber brick. Mr. Gruber's first building contract in Ord was the Cernik building in which the New Cafe is now located. It was built about 1900 and all the brick in it were made by hand. In this connection it must be explained that only common brick can be made from Valley County clay, and all face brick must be shipped in from the outside.

The first brick making machine Mr. Gruber bought was a soft mud machine which he installed in 1902. In 1905 he replaced it with a stiff mud machine, by the use of which the brick are easier to handle and require less drying. This in turn gave way to a bigger machine run by electric power in 1925. Among the more important buildings Mr. Gruber built are the Z. C. B. J. hall, built just thirty years ago, the C. A. Anderson garage building, which must have been built nearly 25 years ago. In addition, Gruber brick were used on the plain work on the Karty Hardware building, the city hall, the Masonic temple, the Auble Bros. building, the Bailey building on the west side, and the courthouse. These represent only a percentage of the brick turned out by Mr. Gruber, who estimates that in all he manufactured no less than ten million brick, enough to make a solid pile 10 feet square and 30 feet high. A large percent of the chimneys in Ord and the adjacent territory were made with Gruber brick, and many a foundation is built with them.

Other pioneers burned brick besides E. Ream. Fred Harris had a kiln out along the Arcadia road near the big hill, and some of his brick are in the Ord Hotel. Lytle Bros. burned brick in the same canyon near the south edge of town. O. S. Haskell made brick on the hillside near the fair grounds. And some other man had a small business on Dane Creek south of the Prince place. Nothing is left of these industries except the holes they dug.

When business was at its best the sheds were always filled to their capacity of 90,000 brick, all drying at once, and 85,000 burning in the kiln. It took two weeks to burn a kiln of brick, and if the weather was dry, the next batch would be ready for burning. In wet weather it was sometimes necessary to wait a week or more for them to dry. But all things have an end, and so with the brick business. When the depression hit the country, the demand for brick fell until it hit zero. To add to the disaster, a fire swept a part of the building six or seven years ago, destroying the coal shed and the roof over the kiln. Most of the drying sheds remained, but there was no object in burning brick that nobody wanted to buy. The sheds were very extensive, and it took 40,000 to 50,000 feet of high grade lumber to build them. Mr. Gruber figures that he invested from $20,000 to $25,000 in the business altogether, and today it is worth whatever it will bring at salvage prices. The clay is pretty well used up, but with modern methods it would be inexpensive to truck it in from the outside. But those days are definitely past for Mr. Gruber. He is now too old to start up in the work again when and if conditions require it. But he has the satisfaction of knowing that he has had more to do with the building up of Ord, perhaps, than any one other man, and he can look back with satisfaction on a long life well spent.

Charting Ag Future?

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M. M. Van Kirk, Director of Information

Every Nebraskan with an opinion on what the future course of U.S. agriculture should be and what role the Federal Government should play in agriculture's future has the opportunity to participate in the "national dialogue" on the subject Nov. 27 to Dec. 18.

Between those two dates, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland will serve as chairman at 10 one-day regional public meetings across the nation at which representative organizations and individuals can appear and express their views about the economic and social aspects of agriculture and rural life. The basic information from these meetings and from the written comments submitted will be assembled, analyzed and published later, and undoubtedly will be cited many times as Congress writes new farm legislation in the future.

Five states (Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota) are designated for the meeting scheduled Dec. 4 at Sioux City, Iowa. Actually, location of the meeting is set for the Marina Inn located on the west bank of the Missouri River in South Sioux City, Neb.

If the history of past hearings of this type is any indication, there will be more people attending and wishing to speak than can be accommodated in the time available. In that case, they should be prepared to turn in a written copy of their testimony. And for those who do not wish to make the trip to South Sioux City, they can participate by sending their written viewpoints to: Project Coordinator, Structure of Agriculture, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

The USDA has listed some broad areas of concern that persons with an interest in agriculture can ask themselves: What is the situation in my area? What brought it about? How has it affected my community? For the future, what changes should be made and how? These general concerns include:

- Land ownership, control and tenancy.
- Barriers to entering and leaving farming.
- Production efficiency, size of farms and the role of technology.
- Government programs.
- Tax and credit policies.
- Farm input supply system.
- Farm products marketing system.
- Present and future energy supplies.
- Environmental concerns including conservation and use of soil and water.

- Financial returns to farmers.
- Costs to consumers.
- Quality of life in rural areas.
- Costs to consumers.
- Quality of life in rural areas.

Undoubtedly farm organizations and farm commodity groups will be submitting both written and oral testimony, along with agricultural credit interests, environmental and consumer groups, and many more including persons speaking as individuals. Secretary Bergland has indicated he wants a broad-based public discussion of the issues and the announcement last March of his intent to hold these meetings met with great interest and general approval.

Despite tremendous productive achievements that are both the envy and hope of a hungry world, all is not perfect with American agriculture. Government farm programs over 40 years have seemed to benefit most those farmers who needed them least. The number of farm units has declined from 6.8 million in 1935 to around 2.3 million now and the trend to larger and fewer farms continues. Should use of the nation's soil and water resources be geared to maximum production for expanded exports or should developing countries be encouraged to control their populations and become more self-sufficient in food production?

There is plenty of subject matter to be explored in the current national "dialogue" about agriculture and where it should be headed.

ETV Film Will Retell Story Of Women's Airforce Service Pilots

Evelyn Sharp and other Women's Airforce Service Pilots will fly again in an ETV film due for release in early 1980. The Ord Quiz is supplying information on Ord's well-known pilot.

The WASPs ferried planes during World War II. Evelyn Sharp was one of their youngest members. She died on take-off from a Pennsylvania airport in 1944.

Ann Bay, of the Smithsonian Institute is collecting information on Evelyn and other ferry service pilots. The Ord Quiz is sending her clippings, interviews, and pictures for the pending film.

Ann edits the Smithsonian's news letter for schools called "Art to Zoos". It links curriculum areas with current activities at the museum.

Nebraska Sheep Council Formed "NSC" is an organization of Nebraska Sheep Producers with the purpose of: 1) Promotion of education through supplies and dissemination of materials. 2) Promotion of research in the sheep industry. A voluntary check-off program of 10 cents per head sold has been initiated for those who wish to contribute to the 1979 program. The check-off will be conducted by auction markets, and private sales will be the responsibility of the seller. Money collected will be sent to the secretary of the council — remember this is all voluntary. Since the program does not start until January 1, 1980, financial assistance is needed to help start the program until then.

Those interested are encouraged to pick up voluntary check-off forms at the Extension Office and send in their contributions.

Apply NH3 This Fall! Don Sander, Soil Fertility Specialist at UNL, in a discussion of leaching of N over the late fall and winter, offers this information. If one perceives all the different kinds of soils and the degree of wetness at various places in the soil profile, it is apparent that describing the leaching problem becomes very difficult. Since it requires large amounts of water for leaching especially when the soil is relatively dry as we now have, it is apparent that leaching during the late fall and early winter is not great in Nebraska on our fine textured soils. Primary leaching occurs in the spring from rains and snow melt especially on level sandy soils where runoff is small.

What is the primary advantage of fall applied N? When viewed from a system standpoint, it has to be that when the ammonia preplant operation in the spring is eliminated, earlier corn planting is possible. This becomes a big factor in a spring like 1978 and 1979. Earlier planting means drier corn in the fall even with a full season of hybrids which tend to yield more than early hybrids. With the energy crunch, artificial drying of corn and sorghum may become prohibitive. This coupled with the fact that most data in Nebraska on higher grain yields with early planting (last week in April and first week in May), makes fall application of nitrogen attractive.

What is the primary disadvantage? Fall application causes reduced nitrogen efficiency because of leaching and other nitrogen losses before the crop is ready to utilize the nitrogen. In general, side dressing ammonia is probably 10 to 15 percent more effective than fall application. This means that 170 to 180 lbs. N/A sidedressed is as effective as 200 lbs. N applied in the fall. Sidedressing then saves about $4.00 per acre in nitrogen costs. This savings is very small in relation to the probable benefits that can be achieved through earlier corn planting. However, this does not consider the environmental impact of increased leaching on the nitrate content of the groundwater. Therefore, fall application of nitrogen should never be done on sandy soils with high water tables. Even on fine textured soils with deep water tables, it may be a matter of time before leached nitrates reach the groundwater. Research indicates that ammonium-N can be delayed from changing to nitrate-N by a compound called Nitrapyrin (N-Serve), which potentially can reduce leaching.

SBA Disaster Loans Available

Eight-five counties, including Valley, are eligible for U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) disaster disaster loans.

The Nebraska counties have been declared as disaster areas as a result of the various natural disasters such as hail, strong wind, tornado, heavy rain, flooding and grasshopper infestation that caused physical loss including damage to crops during 1979.

Information and applications may be obtained by calling or writing to the U.S. Small Business Administration office, Empire State Building, 19th and Farnam Streets, Omaha 68102. Telephone (402) 221-3704. Applications and information regarding the deadline for filing applications may also be obtained by contacting the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) county offices.

Senior Day Draws Students

Students from Ord and North Loup-Scottia schools took part in Senior Day — Counselor Conference activities at Kearney State college last week.

The program is designed to promote opportunity in higher education, according to K-State spokesman. About 1,400 high school students and 79 counselors attended the sessions Wednesday and Thursday.

Kearney College Choir Concert November 27th

The Kearney State College Chorale will be in concert at the Ord Catholic Church at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 27.

Ord is the first of seven performances the choir is giving while on a statewide tour. This year marks the 30th year that the Choraleers have been presenting programs throughout Nebraska and neighboring states.

The fecal material from infected animals or other normal appearing carriers in the herd.

Certain weather conditions such as high moisture and optimal temperature make the infective stage of the organism more prevalent and it is therefore more likely to introduce the disease to susceptible animals. Adult animal incidence is quite low, due to developed immunity, but it is believed that some healthy carriers can spread the disease to the younger animals.

Frequently animals with this disease do not go off feed, but can dehydrate from diarrhea and lose enough blood from intestinal damage to endanger the life of the animal and indeed can cause death in some cases.

Try to provide feed and water by a way to prevent contamination from fecal material if at all possible, because this material transmits the disease. Effective medications are available if needed. Call for professional veterinary help if cases of this type arise, as proper therapy can prevent extensive weight or death loss.

THE Ord Quiz

Estab. April, 1882. Ord, Nebr., Thurs., Nov. 22, 1979. Vol. 98, No. 39, 2 Sects.

Something new has been added. New that is for water legislation in Nebraska. I am referring to the so-called Ad Hoc Water Committee formed by a coalition of urban and rural senators who felt it was time for an in-depth look at some of Nebraska's needs for water legislation.

These state senators along with other interested persons have spent a great deal of time and effort in looking and visiting with concerned citizens about water legislation needs in Nebraska.

Their first attempt at water legislation was the subject of a public hearing held in Grand Island on November 15th. The hearing scheduled by Senator Kremer's Public Works Committee drew a large enthusiastic crowd.

Parts of the draft legislation took a great deal of criticism. Nevertheless, those testifying praised the Committee's efforts for taking the time and effort to be informed about water-related concerns.

The draft bill attempts to strengthen the penalties for violators of water law. Provisions throughout the draft specify that each day will constitute a separate offense if violations are litigated.

Under present law, Section 46-636 states that applications for permits to dig a pit or drill a well within 50 feet of any natural stream are required. The draft legislation increases that distance to one mile. The same section goes on to impose the same permit requirement for wells and pits within one mile of any major irrigation canal or reservoir. The application for a well under this section carries a $50.00 fee.

Section 8 calls for the Director, Department of Water Resources, to make public notice of the pending application by advertising for three weeks.

Section 9 states that anyone who claims they would be adversely affected has the right to appear and object.

Section 10 states that the Director shall deny an application for a permit if he finds a preponderance of evidence that such groundwater withdrawal is likely to have a significant detrimental effect on the movement or storage of water in a stream, canal, or reservoir unless the applicant establishes by convincing evidence that the public interest requires the issuance of the permit.

Section 11 allows any person aggrieved by the issuance or denial of a permit may institute proceedings in the Supreme Court of Nebraska.

The draft legislation makes some important changes in the criteria for establishing a groundwater control area.

Section 46-658 is changed to include pollution or degradation of surface or groundwater, soil erosion, or a significant reduction in the amount of water in any natural stream, irrigation canal, or reservoir resulting in interference with existing beneficial uses.

Other changes allow the Director, Department of Water Resources to initiate a control area hearing on his action without the consent of the NRD involved and removes the authority for the NRD to create well drilling moratorium and provides penalties for non-compliance when issued a cease and desist order.

The majority of the criticism at the Grand Island hearing was on the requirement for a permit on wells and pits one mile from a natural stream, canal, or reservoir.

My best guess is that the senators will evaluate the testimony and probably redraft some of the sections.

Every man should be a hero in his own home — at least until the guests leave.

Know A Good Neighbor? Submit His Nomination!

For the thirty-sixth year, Ak-Sar-Ben invites nominations from citizens throughout Nebraska and Western Iowa for its annual Good Neighbor Awards. The program honors individuals and groups cited by neighbors for performing unselfish, neighborly deeds during 1979 without compensation or personal gain.

Nominations will be accepted from newspapers, radio and television stations, Chambers of Commerce, civic organizations and interested groups or individuals, and must be sent to the Ak-Sar-Ben Ambassador for the community or area. Names and addresses of Ambassadors are available, as well as nomination forms, by writing the Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Awards Committee, Ak-Sar-Ben Field, Omaha, Nebraska 68106.

All nominations must be postmarked not later than February 1, 1980.

Framed citations and gold lapel emblems are awarded annually to those selected by a statewide judging committee. Honorees will be announced about May 1, 1980.

Thone Announces Taxpayer Holiday

CAPITOL NEWS
By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association, Lincoln, As Associated Gov. Charles Thone has announced that the state tax commissioner will suspend collection of state income taxes during December.

In making the announcement, Thone said the move will put between $16 million and $17 million into the pockets of taxpayers during this time when rumors of recession abound and there is such great economic uncertainty.

The governor reiterated the "tax holiday" was declared because of substantial over-withholding of income taxes by the state government. The state withholding is pegged to federal withholding rates which have been excessive because of the way the Internal Revenue Service interpreted the 1978 Federal Revenue Act.

Declaration of the moratorium triggered suggestions from two state senators for an investigation into the propriety of the governor's action.

According to Sen. Steve Fowler of Lincoln and John DeCamp of Neligh, the moratorium could become what they called "an unfortunate precedent affecting the laws and people of this state."

The two lawmakers explained the moratorium may have violated the intent of the Legislature when it provided for regulatory authority in implementation of the tax laws.

Sen. Ralph Kelly of Grand Island, to whom Fowler and DeCamp addressed their concern, said the Legislature's Administrative Rules and Regulations Review Committee of which he is chairman would hold a meeting so other members of the panel could be apprised of the legal aspects of the situation.

DeCamp and Fowler questioned regulatory authority in waiving of a hearing before placing the moratorium into effect.

The state tax commissioner promulgates the rules and regulations under which tax collections are carried out. Any changes in the rules and regulations are supposed to have a public hearing unless waived in writing by the governor. Fowler and DeCamp said the statutory provision for the waiver includes the words "for good cause shown."

The two legislators said those words suggest a legal step of some kind may be necessary before a moratorium could be placed into effect without a public hearing.

Thone and Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington though, would not be enough time for a hearing, if the moratorium was to become effective for December.

DeCamp said the commission is empowered to suspend rules or regulations not consistent or responsive to state law which allowed for their creation. But the committee must hold a public hearing and give the state agency involved 30 days to revise or repeal the rule of regulation being questioned.

In their letter to Kelly, DeCamp and Fowler said: "It appears to us that the entire existence, powers and justification for the Administrative Rules and Regulations Committee, which is the instrument of legislative oversight of the regulatory implementation of statutes, is challenged by the governor's proposed procedure in amending this regulation."

By the time this appears in print, the Kelly committee will have met to discuss the situation.

By that time the state Board of Equalization will also have met to set the tax rates for next year. Thone announced two days before the meeting of the board, which he chairs, that he will propose cutting the state income tax rate from 18 to 17 percent of a taxpayer's federal income tax liability.

KERRY ON

— second time around —
Unable to get my mind off of that night, twenty-one years ago, I'll try to return to it. Possibly that will help.

It was cold. A typical November evening. The day was overcast, as I remember it. Dull. Drab. A bleak November day.

I'd been outside only a couple of times. The last, I remember, was after darkness had shrouded the world about me. I'd waited for the darkness to hide my shape.

Somehow I'd made it to town and back. I must have — for I had six new bottles of wine. No one would have bought them for me. I must have bought them myself, leaving a bad check behind in one of the local liquor stores.

The only certainty in my mind, that night, was that if I didn't get something to drink I'd die. And if I did, I was certain death was only a few days away, anyway. It was simply a matter of time.

I'd been vomiting blood and I knew my body could take little more of the wrenching that had become nearly a ritual with me. But if I could somehow get the top off the bottle, I'd have the strength to lift the bottle to my lips. . . . then! The liquid burned my throat and guls. But if I could get one sip to stay down . . . Then . . .

The trembling would slowly subside. My footsteps became automatic instead of methodical. One . . . in front . . . of . . .

I WOULD LIVE AGAIN.
But that day was different. The fun was gone. There was no joy — not even in the warmth the liquid brought back to my body. Everything was fear.

"November 19th. Let's see . . . 1958, 1963 from 1958, I'm twenty-five today!"

"God. God . . . what happened to my life? Where has it gone? Where am I? Where am I going?"

"My birthday? Yes. Then why hasn't anyone called? Why hasn't anyone wished me Happy Birthday? Don't they care?"

"How could they care . . . when you don't care yourself?"

"Oh, God! God . . . get me out of this!"

That was the last birthday I remembered celebrating. And something in me died that night — drowned, perhaps, in alcohol. Fond remembrances of good times and bad, remain. I shall forget neither. I can't afford to forget that I was an old man, at twenty-five.

Today I'm twenty-one — if you count from that night of death, living way to new life.

Tonight I'm old enough to take that drink I couldn't wait twenty-one years to take. And tonight I neither need it nor want it. I've finally grown up.

Thanksgiving

We gather together to ask the Lord's blessing. He chastens and hastens; His will to make known. So from the beginning the fight we are winning. The Lord is on our side he forgets not his own. The Pilgrims' Hymn

In the year 1621 a band of colonists near Cape Cod celebrated the first Thanksgiving. They had landed in December 1620 at what they called Plymouth.

Some sought religious freedom. Others wanted a fresh start in life. Whatever their individual reasons, they took a chance and came to what was a hostile land.

During that first year, nearly half the original 102 colonists died. Yet when the Mayflower returned to England the next spring none of those first settlers were on board.

They came to this new land with a belief that God would provide, the attitude of being humbly thankful for that which they received, and the practice or principal of hard work.

After surviving that first grueling winter, those left gathered what they had coaxed from the land and gave thanks they were alive.

Today, tables groan under offerings of food. Shelves bulge with consumer items never imagined by those first hardy settlers. After a feast few could imagine in 1621, Americans settle down in front of television sets watching the traditional football game.

We still have the holiday, but are sadly lacking in those early beliefs, attitudes, and principals. We have achieved the purpose of Thanksgiving, but missed those original concepts making it possible.

In our midst of plenty, let's remember that first Thanksgiving and the ideals of those first people celebrating it. Unlike table fare at the present celebration, those first ideals are in short supply.

Rules on School Case
The state Supreme Court recently ruled a state law relating to compulsory school attendance and another statute regarding neglect of children saying the law the state was citing deals with parental actions that amount to neglect, abandonment or denial of care that could endanger the health, morals or well-being of a child.

The Rice girl's parents, Lesley and Dixie Rice, removed their child from the public schools because they were not satisfied with the curriculum and textbooks because they were not religiously oriented.

The Supreme Court noted Lesley Sue was tested by a university professor of psychology who described the girl's education as "quite satisfactory." The court said another witness who qualified as an expert testified he found the subjects taught at the Rice school at the Academy were "comprehensive and adequate."

Geranium Joe Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
You know how newspapers lay out their news so we readers is supposed to get the most of a story first and work down to the least? Well, I'm here to tell you that don't fool this Polish feller from up around Ashton what comes to his mind as they put it on the mizine. I've watched him read. He works the ads from the back to the front, then he works the news from front to back, and he never fails to skip over to another page when you put out a story that he don't want to do. He'll even cut out both pieces and paste em together, if he thinks he'll need the article at one of the country store sessions. I mention that, Mister Editor, because that's what he done last week.

He come to the session Saturday night with his usual run of clippings, and as soon as he got the floor, which was right off, him being presiding officer, he lit in on how the papers let themselves be used to the good of them making the news. He insisted, he said, take this girl that is suing one of them naked woman magazines for taking her into posing for pictures, and then not living up to their bargain. She said she was lured by from Nevada to Florida and "held captive" for a week while more than 1,000 pictures of ever angle of ever bit of her was took. That's one thing, he said, but at the end of the story was mention that the girl is fixing to open a health club in Charlotte, where she was lured from. He said he couldn't help wondering how upset she would be with that girlie picture book if she weren't trying to get attention to her new business. That's after that they open New York City the other day, and claimed he was going to jam a building with the airplane didn't make no bones about it when he landed, he told police "my my book will sell."

Bob Edwards was of a mind that when that old poet said all their words is a stage he don't know how right he was. If we think the newspapers get caught pushing causes, Bob said, look at TV. If you're famous or if you can think of somepon real crazy to do the cameras beat a path to your door, Bob said, He was thinking particular of

You Think You're Fat!

This reducing fever is curious. And silly. Everyone does it differently.

When Dr. Otis Miller reduces he begins with three days of nothing but coffee, he tells me.

There's the famous egg and grapefruit diet that Mayo Clinic began. It's O.K. but I'm afraid I'd spoil my liking for eggs. Or — for grapefruit?

Later Mayo's instituted an exchange diet in which numerous food trades could be made. Such as tomatoes for grapefruit; green beans for potatoes; onions for radishes. Just enough exchanges offered to add a bit of variety. Turkey for pork; eggs for ham.

There's the meat diet, meat and more meat, lots of protein. There's the bread diet, in which you eat a slice of bread half an hour before each meal. Or, if you prefer, drink a glass of grapefruit juice half an hour before eating. (I know a gal who took off 50 pounds with this method!)

You may stuff yourself with celery. Or carrot sticks, or radishes. I know a man who drank a quart of freshly squeezed carrot juice each morning (I wrote about him last week). All in the name of health, he said.

Now a radish has only five calories!

Perhaps you'd like to lunch on cottage cheese with a drapery of catsup. I understand Richard Nixon very often ate this for lunch to regulate his weight. I tried it; pretty fair.

There are these stupid diets that stuff you with laxatives. I know a pair of sisters who lost dozens of pounds this way. And ruined their health.

Or you may wish to take to that water diet, dozens of glasses of water per day: "You lose the weight running to the bathroom" said one friend.

The Scarsdale diet is famous: in that diet every calorie each meal and vegetable is specified. It is fairly expensive and is reputed to take off a pound or more per week. I tried it. It did. It is also expensive, demanding food like lamb chops which are sometimes difficult to find. But Dr. Scarsdale's diet is widely admired because you don't have to do any of the planning or calorie counting. This is also true of the Weight Watchers diet, it is all specified for you.

The most popular and newest fad diet is the Pritikin diet which introduces the concept of many little eating sessions. I call it the Humming Bird diet. Which means you eat often but very small amounts. Like orange juice and coffee on arising; a slice of dry toast and coffee at mid-morning. Half a salad with lemon juice at lunch plus sucaryl and a cracker. An apple at three or four p.m., a small steak and a small baked potato at dinner time. At bedtime a glass of hot bouillon. See? You were never hungry . . . as you ate like a bird. You may have all the coffee, tea or fruit you wish. Some people hold back on salt, I never do. You may add all the mustard, vinegar, spices — and even horseradish

Seek 15 Percent Rate
The Nebraska Association of Public Employees has requested a 15 percent pay boost for state workers.

Cecil Park, association board chairman, said, "Anything less could not be considered a respectable offer in light of the salary increases Gov. Charles Thone gave his agency heads."

Major agency chiefs were given nearly a 13 percent hike between January and July of this year. Rank-and-file state employees averaged 7 percent increases.

NAPE said Thone's defense of the raises for department heads insulted the intelligence of the remainder of the state work force. Thone said the higher raises for state executives were possible because the increased salaries involved a comparatively small amount of money.

NAPE also said the state workers' increase of 7 percent this year was 1.5 percent what the state Personnel Department had proposed. The department has declined to make a firm recommendation for next year. It did recommend state employees be given a minimum of 3.5 percent to bring them closer to parity with private sector employees, plus an unspecified amount to help counter problems stemming from inflation.

Solution To Shipping Problems Not Simple

by Senator Edward Zorinsky

The corn harvest in Nebraska and throughout the Farm Belt is nearly complete, and grain is being piled on the ground in many parts of the country. During several of the past years the grain states have encountered difficulties with transporting their crops, but this year the combination of rail and port strikes, imminent bankruptcies and bumper crops have exacerbated the chronic problems. The transportation snarl is the result of a tangled web of several different, but inter-related problems. In many cases the route of the farmer's crops from field to ultimate market is an obstacle course littered with hazards at every bend. The combination of an inadequate railcar fleet to meet peak needs, port and terminal facilities which cannot keep up with this year's surge of export demand, and bottlenecks at switching and classification yards is enough to bring transportation to a virtual standstill in some parts of the country.

Unfortunately, the long-term remedies are as complex and as controversial as the problems themselves. There are, however, some steps which can and should be taken to ease the problems temporarily. The most obvious road block to smooth transportation for this year's corn and wheat harvests is the lack of railcars. More than a year ago, the U.S.D.A. estimated car shortages at a record high of more than 35,000. Current estimates of shortages are considerably less — only about 15,000. U.S. manufacturers of railcars are forging ahead at full speed, but orders are outstripping the industry's ability to produce. This year the railcar industry will manufacture a total of about 80,000 cars, including boxcars, hoppers, gondolas and other freight cars. As of August 1 this year, manufacturers had outstanding orders for nearly 125,000 cars, and the industry was telling their customers to expect delays of up to 18 months. One means of easing the current crisis would be to import cars from Mexico and Canada. Mexico, the principal exporter to the U.S., only produces about 4,500 to 5,000 cars a year. Of that total, about 2,000 could be shipped north if the purchasers didn't face a stiff 18 percent U.S. tariff on the cars. This extremely high tariff — paid by the U.S. purchasers of the cars — brings the total cost of the railcars much higher than their American counterparts, and too expensive to warrant their purchase. If the tariff were lifted, more cars could be bought from foreign makers, temporarily easing the shortage here. Senator Lloyd Bentsen (D-Tex.) and Rep. Floyd Dittin (D-Ind.) have introduced a bill (S. 1003, H.R. 3046) to temporarily suspend the tariff, and both the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means Committees have held hearings. Organized labor and domestic railcar manufacturers oppose the proposed legislation, however, on the grounds that it will lose both American jobs and American investment to their Mexican competitors. Nonetheless, prompt action by Congress is imperative. Higher incentive per diem for railroad-owned cars, investment tax credits and increased shipper car ownership have all contributed to more purchases of railcars in the past few years. Even seasonal car shortages continue to grow worse. Transportation economists maintain that an adequate railcar fleet is just big enough so that the last car bought earns just enough money to pay for it. The railroad industry simply says that at an average cost of $32,950 a covered hopper car, they simply can't buy enough cars to handle the high post-harvest season demand and have the cars sit idle during off-months. Either way you look at it, it means there can never be quite enough cars to handle all the grain movement during peak seasons. Instead, ways must be found to smooth out the peaks and valleys of car demand throughout the year, and to make better use of the cars which are available at all times. The rapid construction of on-farm storage facilities in the past two years has already gone far to help balance transportation demand during the year. One of the natural consequences of the Federal Grain Reserve program, with the related storage facility loan program, has been to allow farmers to hold their grain off the market during and shortly after harvest, thus easing both downward price movements and demand for railcars. That means more grain is being moved in off-seasons when cars are easier to secure. The increased use of unit trains hauling 25 to 50 cars from a single origin to a single destination has greatly increased car efficiency. The shorter turnaround time involved with unit trains means cars can make more trips and haul more grain in a year when used this way than as a series of single cars. However, devoting more cars to unit trains has a high cost in terms of fair distribution. Many country elevators do not have the siding and loading facilities to handle unit trains. Indeed, relatively few of these elevators generate sufficient business to warrant 25 to 50 car shipments. As more cars are used for unit trains, fewer and fewer cars are available to the small shippers who do not have this option. The Interstate Commerce Commission has attempted to deal with this paradox in the past by issuing car service orders which required railroads to limit their use of unit trains to 20 percent of their total jumbo covered hopper fleet. Another partial solution has been offered by the Nebraska Grain and Feed Dealers, who have been helping to organize what they term shuttle trains. These are, in effect, modified unit trains. Cars are dropped off at elevators along the rail line on a predetermined schedule. As soon as the cars can be loaded, they are picked up and hauled as a single unit to their destination. This system, like its parent, the unit train, cuts down on turnaround time and makes better use of limited cars. Unlike the unit train, it allows smaller shippers to participate by acting collectively. The solution to our nation's agricultural transportation difficulties will not be simple. American law and policy-makers face the difficult task of reconciling the many divergent needs of both a healthy rail industry and its customers. Railroads cannot be expected to continue service for less than its costs; nor can shippers who have no reasonable alternative be expected to bear disproportionately high costs. In the meantime, care should be taken to maximize the transportation facilities now available. Where possible, port and terminal facilities should be upgraded and expanded to improve loading and unloading capability. Unit and shuttle trains should be employed wherever possible while preserving an equitable distribution of cars to smaller shippers. Finally, government policies which encourage farmers to sell throughout the year, rather than all at once, should be maintained and expanded.

Social Security Benefits Paid

Social security benefits were being paid to residents of Valley County at the rate of $284.00 a month at the start of 1979. Gordon M. Maisch, social security manager in Grand Island, said today.

Social security benefits can be paid to retired persons age 62 and over, to workers who become severely disabled before age 65, and to survivors of deceased workers.

Monthly social security checks are also paid to certain dependents of a worker who has retired, become disabled or died.

Of the 1,300 social security beneficiaries living in Valley County, 775 are retired workers and 41 are disabled workers. Another 210 persons are receiving benefits as the wives of husbands of retired or disabled workers. Widows, widowers and dependent parents of deceased workers number 233.

In Valley County, 232 people under age 65 and 1,998 people age 65 and older are receiving monthly social security benefits. Of total beneficiaries, 532 are men, 727 are women and 71 are children.

Seek Persons Who Were at Nuclear Atmospheric Tests

For over a year the Department of Defense has been attempting to identify former military and civilian Defense personnel who participated in the atmospheric nuclear tests conducted from 1945 to 1962. The Defense Nuclear Agency is the Executive Agent for this program.

If you participated in these tests, which were held largely in Nevada and at Bikini and Enewetak atolls in the Pacific, you are urged to contact the Defense Nuclear Agency if you have not done so in 1978-1979.

The Defense Nuclear Agency is attempting to reconstruct a complete history of the atmospheric nuclear test program, including names of participants and any radiation doses they received.

QUIZ, Ord, Nebr., Thursday, November 22, 1979 (Page 5)

One of the purposes of this effort is to enable the National Academy of Sciences and other scientific organizations to determine if there are health hazards resulting from participation in the tests.

Based upon research to date, it is believed that radiation exposures were low. While medical science has no proof that exposure to radiation levels as low as these is hazardous to health, it is generally assumed by scientists that even low levels of exposure carry some slight risk. There is, however, some disagreement within the scientific community about the magnitude of this risk.

If you were a participant in the atmospheric nuclear tests program, and you have not already done so, you are urged to contact the Defense Nuclear Agency at toll-free number 800-336-3068 in continental United States; from Virginia, outside the Wash., D.C. area, call toll-free 800-572-6845; from Alaska (or Virginia in the Washington, D.C. area) call 202-274-9161 (collect, if long distance); from Hawaii call collect 808-422-9213. Or write to Defense Nuclear Agency, Washington, D.C. 20305.

If you are concerned that your possible exposure may have adversely affected your health, you are urged either to consult your doctor or, if you are a former serviceman, to contact the nearest Veterans Administration Hospital, where you may obtain a physical examination at Government expense.

Build a future with Boise Cascade Homes

Become a Boise Cascade Homes dealer and you can be responsible for building the home of someone's dreams while building a solid future for yourself.

Great opportunities

As a Boise Cascade Homes dealer you have a lot going for you from the first day you hang your shingle.

- You're selling quality, full-size, standard construction homes.
- You can offer over 40 different floor plans and over 130 individualized exteriors.
- You're selling a ready to live in residence.
- The new owner moves right in with a full range of available options already installed.
- Boise Cascade Homes are built indoors under ideal building conditions.
- Only the finest building, electrical, and plumbing materials are used — plus, the appliances, fixtures, and cabinets are all name brands.
- Boise Cascade Homes require less site labor, meaning less chance for construction delays.
- Our skilled craftsmen always have plenty of work because Boise Cascade Homes are aggressively marketing in 16 Western states.

Card of Thanks

A mere "thank you" does not adequately express our appreciation and gratitude for the deeds and kindness shown during the recent loss of our wife and mother.

June so enjoyed the many cards and letters, prayers and special thoughts that helped to brighten her days in the hospital.

Each visit, offering of food, memorial flowers and especially your friendship and prayers has meant so much to all of us.

The family of June Steckel: Lester Steckel, Cherry and R. J. Lovejoy, Chris and Jody, Mike and Donna Steckel and Cody.

Cindy and Randy Bramberg and Nathan

Card of Thanks

We want to thank our friends and relatives for the cards, flowers, gifts and phone calls we received for our 40th Anniversary.

Special thanks to our children, Ken and Dorrita, for being hosts, Dale and Barb, Reg and Kris for their graciousness, also Father Al Godlewski, our parents and brothers and sisters and all who came to make our day a happy and memorable event.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Aus Zulkoski

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all our relatives and friends for their expression of kindness extended to us during our recent bereavement. We especially thank you for your prayers, visits, and words of comfort and understanding which have helped us so much. The food, cards, and memorials were greatly appreciated.

We express a special thanks to Pastor States, the ladies who provided the music, and the pallbearers; to the Ord Elementary staff for what each one has done to uplift us; to the Sandhill Implement for immediately flying Rolland home, Raleigh Bolli for bringing Roger home so quickly, Faye and Darrell White for the extra they did, our neighbors who were so helpful, and the ladies of the First Christian Church who prepared and served the delicious meal with such beautiful service.

To each one, we say thank you.

Mrs. Alice White
Mrs. and Mrs. Rolland White and family.
Mr. Roger White

CPAs Share Industry Ideas On Inflation Resistant Investing

(Editor's Note: This is the last in the series "Living With Inflation". The Nebraska Society of Certified Public Accountants provided the series.)

"A penny saved is a penny earned," may have been solid advice in Benjamin Franklin's day, but in these inflationary times it would have to be updated to: "A penny saved is less than nine percent is a penny that's shrinking fast."

For the money we put aside is just as susceptible to inflation's shriveling effect as what we spend. If it doesn't grow as fast as inflation, it diminishes.

Tapping their pool of experience as advisers to the money managers of the business world, members of the Nebraska Society of Certified Public Accountants offer some pointers that industry follows which might help families, also, to save and invest profitably in a period of heavy inflation.

A Society spokesman emphasized that while CPAs rarely are investment counselors they do frequently help clients weigh the myriad combinations of interest rates, appreciation, liquidity, safety, and tax consequences that various investments offer and advise which type of package is most likely to suit a client's particular situation.

Business firms, they say, feel that in these times especially they must be relentless in pursuing advantageous ways of keeping otherwise idle cash busy producing income. Some companies even have staffs of people — cash managers — who spend most of their time on the telephone running down desirable places to "park" funds not immediately needed in the business. Some of these short-term investments such as Eurodollar certificates of deposits may be too exotic or risky for the average individual, but they should be explored.

The important fact for the individual saver or investor to remember, say the CPAs, is that there are alternatives to E-bonds and Treasury savings deposits, and if the individual wishes to emulate business investors he will devote time and effort to finding what his options are and examining their suitability for him. Even if you leave your money in a savings account, there are different types of accounts and different rates of return. Banks can be surprisingly flexible, so shop around.

Suitability is affected by the degree of risk an investment entails. An investment to earn a high return your funds must be tied up in something that can't be quickly or easily sold, you may find yourself unable to deal with a financial emergency, or to take advantage of a better investment opportunity that may come along.

In inflationary times, investments in physical things — commodities, real estate, or collectibles such as art works, for example — and securities backed by physical things, such as mining, tend to keep pace with inflation rate. But there's something to keep in mind about investments in jewelry, paintings, antiques and other collectibles: as a non-dealer you are likely to buy at retail and sell at wholesale, which is no way to make a killing.

For the average family, an investment in real estate — at least to the extent of owning its own home — may be the best inflation hedge. It forces you to save — to build equity. If it's well-constructed and located in a good neighborhood, it appreciates in value, especially in periods of inflation. When you sell, you can avoid capital gain tax on any profit by reinvesting in another home costing at least as much. And after you reach age 55 you can sell without re-investing and take as much as $100,000 profit without paying any tax.

A final suggestion from the CPAs: if you believe tax-free investments such as municipal bonds are only for the well-to-do, look again at your income. Inflation may have pushed that up 100, to the point where low-interest municipals are a bargain because of what they save in taxes.

Come To Church

Thursday, November 22, 1979
Read Acts 3:1-11

"Then, walking, leaping, and praising God, He (the healed lame man) went into the Temple with them." (Acts 3:8 TLB)

Let's each tell what we're most thankful for." And around the Thanksgiving table each family member and guest stated their thanks to God for home, family, health, and a good dinner.

"We are so richly blessed," I thought. As we fill our plates and feed our bodies, just a twinge of guilt reminds us of starving families the world over.

Is being thankful enough? Perhaps we could live our thanks by doing God's bidding. In return for spare time, we can use more time in sharing Christ. In return for heaping tables, we can fast a few meals each month and send the savings to a world hunger fund. In thanking for our life-style, we can share our material goods with needy neighbors: shoes, clothes, blankets, and other necessities. In thanking for our knowledge of God's love for us, we can provide Bibles, Christian literature, and fellowship to the spiritually hungry.

As we celebrate Thanksgiving, we must put our thanks into action. PRAY: Lord, help us to put our thanks into action starting today. Make us true to the name of Jesus' name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
Thanksgiving should be more than just giving thanks.

Tired of Scooping Snow? Join Sue Bosworth in Brazil

Tired of scooping snow? Had it with slippery streets and overcast skies? Maybe you should join Sue Bosworth. That '79 Ord High graduate is in Anapolis, Brazil. According to Sue's mother, she recently reported temperatures of 104 degrees Centigrade.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bosworth left for Brazil last August. She will stay there about a year. Mrs. Bosworth speculated her daughter could return with her "adopted" Brazilian family.

As with any move, Sue's Brazilian venture required some adjustments. Changes encountered in that country include reversed seasons. Sue will celebrate Christmas during her summer vacation. She and other exchange students plan to visit Rio and other major South American cities.

During her four plus months in Brazil, Sue has observed affection is more openly displayed. Men frequently embrace upon meeting. Women show similar signs of affection. The Ord miss reportedly called this "a completely different attitude" than the one observed here.

Her mother hastened to add there is nothing "funny" about these displays. They are part of the Brazilian culture. Another item included in culture is food. Rice and beans make up a staple of the Brazilian diet. While satisfying, according to Sue, it can grow monotonous.

A dish drawing rave reviews from Sue was one of Brazilian beef. Prepared to a recipe enjoyed by her "family" it is a wonder, to the palate, the Ord miss wrote home. True, Sue has enjoyed the satisfaction of corned Nebraska beef, but this one South American dish is evidently something special. Just how her "adopted" family prepared it is unclear. That family includes Mr. and Mrs. Amoury Amorian, a younger daughter and two brothers. One brother is an exchange student in the United States. Mr. Amorian is a CPA.

Despite their hospitality, some things from Sue's homeland are missed. Wrote she, "The minute I get back, I'm going to McDonald's." Hamburgers, that North American treat, are evidently not found on the Brazilian menu.

You can take the kid out of the country, but you can't take the United States out of the kid.

People Not Fully Aware of Pending Pop. Projections - Likely Changes

Residents of Valley and surrounding counties aren't fully aware of pending population changes, according to Rick Noyes, and the results they will bring. The Region 26 head made that statement on the basis of past and present demographic information.

According to Noyes, the Calamus irrigation project and Comstock power plant will have sweeping effects on the area. Increased population numbers will be responsible for most of these. Noyes indicated about 3,000 workers are expected to move to Valley and surrounding counties for the Comstock plant construction alone. This rapid influx will counter area population trends of the last 55 years.

In 1920, Noyes contended, the area's population peaked. Since then it has declined 44 to 15 percent every ten years. "We now have about half the population recorded in 1920," Noyes said.

This is because: — Farms got bigger. — Young people left the area searching for employment or education.

Noyes stated that population decline has bottomed out. He made that statement, he said, on the basis of available census data.

"My point," he told the Quiz, "is that for 55 years this whole area has experienced a population decline. Everyone has learned how to deal with that, like business leaders, city officials and others."

That thinking will have to change, Noyes contended. With the power plant and Calamus project, population will soar. "But even if both projects didn't come in this area will grow," Noyes added.

"Now everyone will say they're ready for it," said Noyes of the change. "But I wonder, are they really?"

The projected sudden growth rate will create new demands in everything from fashion fads and store inventory demands to telephone hook-ups, the official suggested.

Everyone can come out of the projected population hike "smelling a rose," Noyes' words. If they accept quickly enough. This process could be a painful transition.

With this pain, according to Noyes, goes the potential for continued future growth and benefits from a booming economy.

"People," Noyes noted, "will go where there are facilities. If a small town wants to attract people it will provide those facilities." These facilities include most public and municipal services.

Fast Thinking—Reassuring Words Prevent a Suicide

Some fast thinking and reassuring words early Saturday morning prevented a suicide in Valley County. Deputy Sheriff Don Rogers spent from 2 a.m. to 4:30 a.m. talking one area resident out of taking his own life.

Rogers arrived at the scene finding the man holding a shotgun against his throat. After two and a half hours passed, the gun was taken away.

Valley County Sheriff Martin Sonnenfeld declined to give details of where the incident took place or who was involved.

Village Needs Study Results Soon Revealed

Results from a community needs assessment by Arcadia residents will be known in a week, according to Harold Elliott. He and six other Arcadia residents are spearheading the study.

A questionnaire was recently given 200 families in Arcadia in Ord. They are compiling the results. These should be completed in about a week.

The seven person committee, appointed by the Village Board, is handling the study.

A committee headed by Harold Elliott is conducting a similar study in being taken in other area towns.

Sheriff's Report

November 23 — The rear window and windshield of a pickup were damaged by shotgun blasts. The truck, owned by Richard Hruza of Ord, was parked four miles west of Ord on the Sargent Highway.

November 24 — Bryan Dahlsten, 20, of North Loup, was arrested on charges of driving while intoxicated. He was released on $200 bail.

November 25 — A 1980 Chevrolet pickup, driven by Milo Florian of rural Scotia, collided with a halted Union Pacific train. Florian was going north on a county road when he collided with the train. Damages were estimated at $300.

November 25 — A 1980 Chevrolet pickup, owned by Richard Hruza, was parked four miles west of Ord on the Sargent highway. It was again shot, apparently by someone using a shotgun.

Stock Judging Clinic Scheduled in Sargent

The first youth livestock judging clinic will be held on Thursday, December 6 at 7 p.m. at the Sargent Livestock Commission Company in Sargent. One class of hogs, one class of sheep and two classes of cattle will be judged. Four-H members interested in this clinic should call the County Extension Office (728-5071) for more information or rides.

Arcadia High Junior Play Is Rescheduled

By Shelley Schmidt
Bad weather, colds, and flu, forced Arcadia juniors to reschedule their class play. Previously scheduled for December 1, the show date is now set for December 8, at 8 p.m. in the Arcadia High School gym.

WEATHER

Any doubts that winter was here, in earnest, were dispelled last Wednesday, Nov. 21, as a 36-hour snowfall accumulated to an estimated eight inches of snow and cancelled schools and many Thanksgiving plans.

Moisture measurements of .62 inch Wednesday, and .14 inch Thursday, made any hope of finishing the harvest up to thawing temperatures and a very hard freeze at a later date. A slow thawing was experienced over the weekend, but a lot of snow remained at mid-week and brief flurries were only adding to the snow cover.

This week's Quiz weather record:

Nov. 21	Hi	Lo	Pr.
Nov. 21	31	24	.62
Nov. 22	25	10	.14
Nov. 23	27	8
Nov. 24	40	10
Nov. 25	36	26	.04

Council Presented City Forestry Plan

The Ord City Council was formally presented the completed Community Forestry Plan on Monday, November 26. Shown presenting the plan to Mayor Rowbal are Howard Paulsen, Tree Board Chairman and Doak Nickerson, Lower Loup N.R.D. Forester. The Community Forestry Program is supported by the Lower Loup N.R.D. in conjunction with the University of Nebraska, Nebraska Forest Service.

The Community Forestry Program is basically a community improvement program designed for the long-range management of a community's public tree resource — those in city parks, street right-of-ways, and on other public property.

Trees on private property are not regulated directly by the program unless they pose a hazard to the general public. If private homeowners see the city properly managing public trees, they will be more interested in caring for their own trees, according to Nickerson.

Civic Resources
"Trees are a valuable and highly visible civic resource and they deserve to be properly managed," he said. "Through good management, common tree problems can be minimized and maintenance costs lowered drastically."

Nickerson said, "The Ord tree ordinance is basically intended to provide guidance in planting and caring for trees on public property. The ordinance is for the benefit of the city and individual and is not trying to be excessively restrictive."

To help promote the plan, the Lower Loup N.R.D. will offer cost-share assistance on the purchase of young trees every spring.

Towns having a forestry management plan will get ten cents per capita in cost sharing funds. These must be matched by the local governing body.

Doak Nickerson summarized by saying, "The Community Forestry Program need not be complicated or expensive. It does require a realization of problems and a commitment to solving them. The city can put as much public money into the program as their budget allows." He noted that each community has civic minded groups that will support a community improvement program with money, manpower or equipment. "This is especially true concerning buying and planting trees," Doak said.

Slick Streets Spark Fender Benders

Slick streets and icy roads triggered a rash of fender-benders this week. Ord Police were kept busy writing up nine accidents.

November 27 — There was a two-car fender-bender at 1815 M. A 1972 AMC sedan was backing from a driveway when it hit a parked 1970 Oldsmobile coupe owned by Cheryl Kimek. The first car was driven by Kathleen A. Haas.

There was no damage to the AMC vehicle and $100 damage to the Oldsmobile.

November 26 — A 1973 Chevrolet station wagon driven by Sharon Osentowski and a 1975 Chevrolet, driven by Larry Sears, both of Ord, had a mishap at 19th and J. The first vehicle was parked when Sears backed into it. There was no damage to either vehicle.

November 25 — There was a hit and run accident at the Vets' Club parking lot 15 and N. A 1972 Mercury two-door owned by Micky Wilson of Redfield, SD was struck by an unknown vehicle.

The Mercury was parked; $75 damage.

November 23 — At 1631 M, a 1979 Ford, driven by Raymond G. Engelhardt of Hastings and a 1975 Dodge sedan, owned by Ralph Brown of Ord collided. Brown's vehicle was parked when the other car slid into it. No damage to the Ford and $50 damage to the Dodge.

November 23 — At 16th and L, a 1974 Ford two-door driven by Eileen Bruha, Ord, and a 1974 Chevrolet pickup, driven by Ronald E. Hurlbert of Ord collided. Hurlbert started to pull in to what he thought was a parking space. On backing up, he struck the second car. No damage to Hurlbert, $175 to Bruha.

November 23 — There was a two-vehicle mishap in the alley behind Gambles Store, 135 South 16th. A 1971 International Harvester truck tractor driven by Stan R. Wagner of Ord and a 1979 Ford pickup, owned by Jay Brown Inc. were involved. The Chevrolet pickup, driven by

NPPD Study in Township Library

A draft of the socioeconomic study for Nebraska Public Power District's (NPPD) coal-fired generating unit planned for Eastern Custer County compiled by NPPD is available at the Ord Township Library.

The draft presents an analysis and discussion of potential effects the construction of the electrical generating facility could have on the surrounding area.

Socioeconomic factors studied by NPPD include possible effects on population, economy, housing, education, community facilities, and public services, transportation and government.

NPPD Socioeconomic Research Specialist Dennis Peterson is presenting the study in Ord, Loup City, Burwell, Comstock, Broken Bow, Greeley, Taylor, and Sargent in meetings scheduled with county boards and city councils now through January 8. Presentations are tentatively planned in Anstey, North Loup, and Arcadia.

Holiday Sales Are Off to a Healthy Start

Christmas shopping is off and running at a brisk pace in the Ord area. Merchants contacted Monday said sales were going well.

One long-time merchant estimated the season opened Monday. A snow storm and the Nebraska-Oklahoma game kept shoppers at home last week. "We're looking forward to a good Christmas," he said.

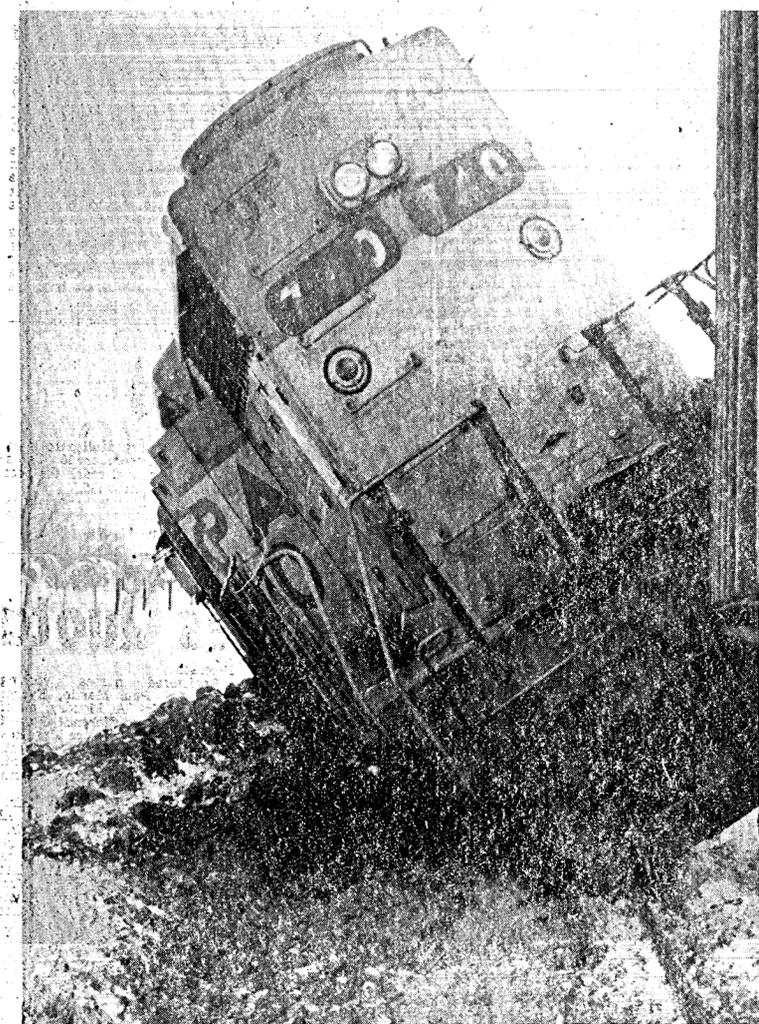

Another said she was "real pleased" with holiday sales adding "People are beginning to shop at home." Adjectives used to describe holiday season start sales were brisk, encouraging, and good.

Some federal government spokesmen had predicted a recession for late '79. That evidently isn't the case with Ord merchants. People are making traditional holiday purchases at a healthy rate, according to an informal Quiz survey taken Monday afternoon.

FIRE AND RESCUE

November 22 — Fire at Darrell Conner farm nine miles northeast of Ord. Hog shed burned. Dollar loss estimated at $7,500.

November 23 — Rescue call to Adolph Kokes farm, five miles south of Ord on Highway 11.
November 26 — Rescue call to Carpet Palace, 1541 M.

Clogged rails caused a train to derail at North Loup Friday afternoon. A Union Pacific spokesman said ice and rocks clogged rails at a crossing, causing the accident. The locomotive and one car were re-railed Saturday, according to Barry Combs, director of the Union Pacific news service in Omaha.

Auble Resigns Tech Board Post

Dr. Glen Auble resigned from the Central Technical Community College Board of Governors during their meeting in Grand Island, Monday, November 26. Dr. Auble was first elected to that post in 1976.

Auble's resignation will be placed on the December 17 board (Continued on page 6)

Court Lowers Valuation Case May Face Retrial

An Appeal Possible

Valley County Attorney Greg Jensen has filed a motion for a new trial involving three acres of assessed real estate near Arcadia. Should that motion be denied, Valley County Supervisors will appeal to the State Supreme Court.

A District Court decision November 19 lowered the three acre valuation $410. Judge James Kelly directed the valuation of those three acres near Arcadia be lowered from $2,880 to $1,500 an acre.

Valley County submitted the $2,880 figure using its valuation formula. Walter and Josephine Bungarner wanted their land to have a $740 acre valuation.

J. Marvin Weems, representing the Bungarners, had pled the case in District Court here earlier this month. Greg Jensen represented Valley County.

Both lawyers were notified of Kelley's decision in a letter dated November 19. Nebraska counties have undergone a Unicameral mandated reassessment in the last two or three years. Midwest Appraisal revealed Valley County.

Said Jensen, "We feel the value the judge put on it (the three acres) isn't equitable." According to the lawyer, Valley County Supervisors felt they had the valuation of that and other property on an equitable basis. "The judges decision," Jensen said, "throws that all out of kilter."

"What the judges decision does," Jensen explained, "is make the Bungarner property valued lower than property adjacent to it. We feel Bungarner didn't meet the burden of proof."

Weems, attorney for the Bungarners said, "We agree that acreages in Arcadia should be taxed on the same basis." Just what this basis should be appears in dispute.

During their Monday meeting in Ord, Valley County Supervisors voted unanimously to appeal to the State Supreme Court if the motion for a new trial is overruled.

Early Mailing Is Urged

Mail early! That's the advice from Dan Spilnek of the Ord Post Office.

Deadlines for mailing some overseas packages have passed, he told the Quiz. These same parcels could be mailed using Priority Mail. For an extra charge Priority Mail items receive special handling, expediting their arrival.

There is no specific deadline for mailing packages within the United States, Spilnek said.

However, he urged all parcels be mailed by December 10. Cards and letters should reach the post office by December 15.

Card of Thanks

My sincere thanks to my family, relatives, friends and neighbors, for gifts, cards, visits, flowers, prayers, telephone calls and help, and offers of help while I was in the hospital and since I have returned home.

Special thanks to our daughter for coming to care for her dad and for doing the work at home. Also to our three sons and families for their cards, gifts, flowers and telephone calls, also to Bob Sestak and sons for clearing snow from our walks and driveway, to Audrey Garner for his help.

Grateful thanks to Dr. Markley and all the nurses for their excellent care. This was all deeply appreciated.

Ethel Dalby

Card of Thanks

I would like to express my thanks for all the flowers, cards, and visits while I was in the Valley County Hospital. A special thanks to Father Gorak and Father Godlewski for their visits.

Early Mailing

following guidelines be followed:
— Use a good, solid box and cushion the contents well.

— Use nylon reinforced tape, called strapping tape. Masking tape or Scotch tape aren't acceptable. They don't stick well enough, according to Spilneck, and aren't strong enough to hold parcels together.

He discouraged using twine or string. They slow package handling by machinery in bulk mail centers. Those in the Midwest's Central Area are in Denver and Des Moines.

Persons mailing later the December 10 and 15 deadlines could use the Priority Mail classification. "For the service it gives, it could be economical", Spilneck said.

Persons having questions on packaging or other postal matters should call their local post office. "We welcome people calling before their package is mailed up," Spilneck said. "Often we can save them some time."

appliance is also enough. "We're all used to thinking of gasoline as part of our everyday lives, but no one should ever forget that gasoline is an extremely volatile flammable liquid that must be handled with utmost caution at all times."

Never bring a motorcycle or a gasoline-powered bike into your house or apartment for storage or repair work, he added.

One final reminder from NFPA: never smoke or permit anyone else in the vicinity to smoke while using, fueling or working on equipment that is powered by gasoline.

Ag Society Holds Annual Meeting

At the annual meeting of the Loop Valley Ag. Society (LVAS) on November 12, J. Lange retired from the board. The vacancy was filled by Leonard Lech of Elyria, who was voted on the board to serve a three year term. Ed Huffman resigned his position on the board and assured the board that it would not end his or his wife, Vesta's, involvement with the county fair. Jeff Waltman of North Loop was voted on the board to finish Mr. Huffman's term. Both Lange and Huffman have served and donated many years on the fair board and their efforts are deeply appreciated.

Jim Trotter of Arcadia and the 4-H Council were voted to remain on the board for another three year term. The officers and board members of the LVAS are Don Walker, president; Harlan Green, vice president; Dan Spilneck, treasurer; Kathy Schimenti (non-member), secretary; and Dean Bresley, Rick Bredthauer, Jim Trotter, Leonard Lech, Jeff Waltman, and the 4-Council, members.

Dr. Auble Recalls Past Fairground

(An article about past Valley County Fairs in last week's Ord Quiz triggered some memories. Ord's own music man, Dr. Glen Auble, recalled Ord's first fair grounds. Herewith are his recollections.)

"It was a pretty much spread out across the highway west from the Elks Club. The buildings were pretty much about where the new church is and a half mile race track to the north and including Wheelers. The length was east and west."

"It was a half mile race track, primarily for trotting and pacing horses and the following men I remember, had horses and the two-wheel sulkies. I do not recall any saddle horse races."

"My dad, Date Auble, trotter; my uncle, John Auble, pacer; John Meese; Tom Williams; related to our janitor Williams; John Rockhold, trotter; Wm. Ramsey, father of the Arcadia druggist."

"I was eight years old in 1900 and remember very well of going to the fair and my guess is that the fair started before 1900."

"I also remember who some of the directors were — W. J. Hather, father of Mrs. Fern Carson and grandfather of Ellis, raised purebred Poland China Hogs."

"A. J. Firkins, whose daughter was my girl friend in Ord High School."

"W. L. McNutt, father of Zona Miller and raised purebred Herforders."

"John Meese, raised purebred hogs."

"Vincent Kokes, father of Ed. Edd Bresley, father of Harry."

"I recall that I saw my first balloon ascension take off from there and there were some trapeze acts."

"I have the race horse sulky that was used by Tom Williams and will take it up to the Fort this spring."

"I also recall that lemonade was two glasses for a nickel, and the merry-go-round was a nickel a ride."

"I remember that my mother took some canned fruit and vegetables to display, and there was a small grandstand."

"I think the admission was 25c and 10c, but if you had a display, you got in free."

POTPOURRI . . . "Bah! . . . Humbug!" That's what one Scrooge says to all the rush and fuss of Christmas.

Who needs Christmas anyhow? he asks. And think of the expense involved. But I say just wait until Christmas Eve with the family, when the tree takes on that certain spark of magic and scattered beneath it are the brightly wrapped boxes and packages, probably more than any Santa could carry in one sleigh. It's especially when the little ones start untying ribbons and opening them and their faces make one forget the fuss and bother.

I disagree with the bah and humbuggers Christmas, to me, is such a special time. Of all the holidays in the year, there's none like the Yuletide season. The spirit might be defined as an attitude . . . a state of mind. A time when our spirits are lifted and our hope for all mankind is renewed.

This pre-Christmas happening is worth sharing: The teacher shushed the children quiet and then asked, "Who is the greatest man alive?" "Santa Claus!" shouted several bright darlings. "Oh . . ." responded the teacher, "of course." And remembering her Women's Lib training, she added, "But don't forget Mrs. Claus. It is she who prepares Santa for his visit to all you good girls and boys."

Another very creative teacher once requested her pupils to design and write original Christmas cards which they could bring home to their parents.

And that's why one parent was quite mystified when she received her child's card. It had a beautiful picture of a snow man on the cover and inside were these words: "Do not open until Christmas."

COFFEE CUP PHILOSOPHY: Present each gift — no matter its cost — with love.

Karen Meyer-Michael Fischer Exchange Vows In Ceremony at Bethany Lutheran Church in Ord

Marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Karen Marie Meyer and Michael S. Fischer in an afternoon wedding ceremony at Bethany Lutheran Church in Ord on Friday, November 16, 1979. The double ring ceremony was performed by Pastor A. L. Meyer.

Parents of the couple are pastor and Mrs. A. L. Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Philipp Fischer, all of Ord.

Miss Bernice Meyer of Hollywood, FL, sister of the bride, presided at the organ. Mrs. Jerry (Ruth) Koster of Deshler, sister of the bride, accompanied Miss Margie Kriep of Kearney, friend of the bride, as she sang "Through the Eyes of Love" and "Evergreen" and also accompanied Bernice who sang "The Wedding Song".

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a floor length gown designed of organza with Cluny and Alencon lace. The empire silhouette featured a bodice with wedding ring neckline and bishop sleeves. Lace trimmed the bodice and sleeves and the controlled A-line skirt was edged with lace. Her train-length mantilla veil of bridal illusion edged in lace, was held by a Juliet cap. Her colonial bouquet was of blue carnations, butterscotch daisies, and yellow and worn abby sweetheart roses, accented with blue star flowers, forget-me-nots and ribbon streamers.

The bride's sister, Miss Mary Meyer of Hollywood, FL served as maid of honor and Miss Peggy Riskeborn of Ord, friend of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore identical princess styled floor length gowns of dark blue interlock knit. Their short screen printed capes of light blue flowered chiffon had jewel necklines and dipped to waist length in the back. They wore hair pieces of forget-me-nots, blue star flowers, and ribbon streamers and carried baskets of blue carnations, yellow pompons and butterscotch daisies, accented with dark blue star flowers.

Lighting the spiral candelabra were Jennifer and Peggy Fischer, sisters of the groom. Their floor length gowns were of light blue polyester knit with matching cape collars, edged with lace. Their wrist corsages were blue miniature carnations and yellow pompons and they wore hair pieces like those of the bridesmaids.

Chandra Meyer of Deshler, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a long white knit dress fashioned after the bride's gown. Her halo was of baby's breath and star flowers and she carried a miniature basket of flowers similar to those of the bridesmaids.

Steve Hruby of Grand Island was best man and Chuck Green of Ord was groomsman. Both are friends of the groom. The groom and his attendants were dressed in tuxedos with royal blue pants and contrasting light blue jackets. The groom's boutonniere was two yellow sweetheart roses, his attendants wore yellow pompons. Michael Swiercinsky of Republic, KS, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer and wore royal blue pants and vest of velveteen and a white ruffled shirt.

Attending the guest book was Mrs. Gordon (Phyllis) Hiew, sister of the groom. Miss Mary Kusek and Miss Denise Lueck, friends of the bride, were in charge of gifts.

Honored guests were the grandparents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Ruzicka of Burwell, and A. H. Larsen of Lambert, MN, grandfather of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Parkview Village. Serving as hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Mel Masin of Ord. The Bethany Lutheran Church Women served a salad luncheon with Sandy Deamont, Jane Bosworth and Amy Martensen serving as waitresses.

The bride's sister and sister-in-law, Mrs. John (Lois) Swiercinsky of Republic, KS and Mrs. Paul (Connie) Meyer of Deshler cut and served the wedding cake which featured a fountain and was decorated with hearts and forget-me-nots and topped with fresh flowers. Miss Jennifer Vovek and Miss Cheryl Horvack, friends of the bride, served coffee and punch.

Judge Marries Drahota-Gydesen In Home Rite

The Honorable Judge Rollin Dye performed the double ring ceremony uniting Maxine Drahota and Randy Gydesen Saturday, November 24, at the couple's home. A group of close relatives were in attendance. Acting as witnesses were Joan Hansen and Tom Nelson, both of Ord. Brandon Drahota was ring bearer. Tom Bellagh sang "The Wedding Song" and was accompanied by Bonnie Baker on the guitar.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Dale Lindsey of Burwell and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Gydesen of Ord.

Following the ceremony, a supper was held at the Elk's Club and a dance was held at the Vet's Club.

After a wedding trip to the National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma, the couple will be at home in Ord.

Senior Citizens Hold Holiday Party

Fifty Valley County Senior Citizens braved the winter weather Nov. 20 and went to the Parkview Recreation Center for their monthly party.

The gala decorated tables with their turkeys and pumpkins were the courtesy of Eleanor Wegryzn and Matilda Wolf.

Seated at the November birthday table were Mary Jorgensen, Mary Stara, Tullie Jablonski, Mable Stalker, and Chester Barnes.

Seton Hanson read a poem, "The Golden Age," which suggested that life doesn't begin at 40, but at 80 years.

Hattie Kizer played several selections on the piano which were enjoyed by all.

Door prizes were furnished by Josie Osentowski and went to Mary Conner and Elmer Breadhauser.

Prayer was given by Eleanor Wegryzn and lunch was served by Matilda Wolf, Eleanor Wegryzn, Tullie Massey, and Tullie Jablonski, assisted by Carl and Hilma Young, Wayne and Fannie Porter, and Steve and Gladys Beran.

All Valley County Senior Citizens are invited to come to the Parkview Center on Dec. 18 at 1:30 p.m. for the Christmas party.

RaNae Sharp-Steven Turek Wed In Double Ring Ceremony at Ord

RaNae Sharp of Ord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sharp of Albion, became the bride of Steven Turek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Turek of Ord.

The wedding was Saturday, November 3, at 3 p.m. at the Christian Church in Ord with the Rev. Charles Talbot officiating. Phyllis Burger was the organist and Judy Dughman sang "Treasures" and "God, Woman and Man".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore her mother's ivory satin floor length wedding dress which was made by the bride's grandmother. The dress had a lace yoke and mandarin collar and the sleeves had lace coming to a point at the wrists.

The bride wore pearl earrings, matching the buttons on the yoke of the dress, and a bridal hat with the net falling down the back. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of ivory orchids with dusty rose colored daisies and a long stemmed wine colored, sprinkled with baby's breath.

Darla Sharp of Kearney, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a floor length dress of dusty rose Qiana with a sweetheart bodice of lace worn with a cream shawl. She carried a long stemmed wine colored rose, accented with baby's breath.

Allison Turek, niece of the groom, was the flower girl. She wore a tiered blue cotton floor length dress, trimmed in cream lace. She carried a basket of burgundy roses and dusty rose colored daisies.

The bestman was Rich Krahulik of Ord. Darrell Sharp of Albion, brother of the bride, was usher.

A reception was held in the church basement. A lace tablecloth, made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Fred Stone of Newman Grove, covered the serving table. The two-tiered wedding cake was baked by the bride's mother and decorated by the bride, assisted by Velma Hayes of Albion. Penny Barrett of Burwell cut and served the cake. Tink Sharp poured coffee and Karen Sharp poured punch.

After the reception, a supper was hosted by the groom's parents at the church.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stone of Newman Grove, grandparents of the bride.

Mrs. Turek graduated from Albion High School and received her B.A. at Wayne State College. She is presently the kindergarten teacher at Ord Elementary School. The groom graduated from Ord High School and attended Kearney State College. He is presently employed by KK Appliance Co. in Ord.

Wedding Reception
A reception, hosted by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sharp, was held in Albion on November 25 for the couple.

Birthday Celebrated
Friday evening, Erin Rasmussen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Densel Rasmussen of Yutan, was honored at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. DeWayne Bussell of North Loup.

The occasion was in honor of her birthday which will be December 5. Present besides her grandparents and parents were her sister, Erica, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Holmes and Shelly, Erin's great grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Darold Bussell of Scotia and Mrs. Marie Rasmussen and Carl Junior of North Loup.

Erin's aunt, Sheryl Scott, baked and decorated the Big Bird cake which was served after the gifts were opened.

Attitude - Depth - Hustle Keys To A Winning Season

Attitude, depth, and hustle are combinations Max Murray hopes will lead to a winning season. The Ord High girls basketball coach said he is impressed with the attitude shown during practice so far.

"And we've got some experience coming back", he added. "I think we'll have more depth this year than last."

He is hoping this will make the team more versatile this year than last. Helping reach that goal will be three returning starters. They are seniors Barb Kittle and Anne Smith along with Ord High Junior Nancy Gogan.

Four other letter winners will also boost the team. They are Julie Scheideler, Jean Dubas, Lori Rainforth, and Robyn Upham.

They and their team mates will first see action against Crete this year, December 7. The Crete Cardinals are rated number four in pre-season prep polls. They were favorites last year too. That was when Ord girls nailed them 42-38.

Three starters from that Crete squad are back again, just like Ord. "It should be a close game", said Murray of the December 7 match. "Maybe the extra effort we've put into practice sessions will pay off in the fourth quarter."

He admitted the Cards have some tall players. Among them is Christian Peterson. The six foot center made pre-season All-State ratings and led the central Ten division in scoring last year.

"She'll definitely create some problems for us", Murray admitted. "But we'll play 'em tough. We're not scared of her. Pre-season polls are nice but they aren't everything."

It was during the 78-79 season that Crete was much discussed in pre-season polls. They were the supposedly superior team. Or at least many rated them as such.

Spirit and hustle by the gal Chants soon settled that. In a fast game, Crete was shaded 42-38.

Team members still recall the all-night bus ride back to Ord. Players, coaches, and bus driver Wilt Smith rolled into town around 5 a.m. after battling snow, ice, and winds all night. Making the evening complete was a break-down between St. Paul and Ord.

This year the Cards will try their hand at travelling. They and Ord should play, road conditions permitting, at 6:15 p.m. December 7 at Ord High.

This is the sixth season Max Murray has been varsity coach. Tom Rhodes will be his assistant. The gal Chants finished last season with a 12-7 win-loss record.

Ski Trip Ends On Monday

Some weary but happy Ord area youngsters ended a Colorado ski trip Monday morning. They were part of a group of 81 kids and sponsors of the district United Methodist Youth Fellowship that left for Breckenridge, CO Thanksgiving Day. They pulled into Ord around 3 a.m.

Duane Carson drove one of three buses making the trip. According to Carson the well-known ski resort had 12 inches of snow Sunday morning, closing Interstate 70 in Colorado for a while.

Trip members came from Ord, York, Aurora, Elm Creek, McCook, and other Nebraska towns.

Game time is 9 a.m. in St. Paul.

Boxing Club Opens Season With Bouts At Elgin-Albion

The Ord Boxing Club opened its season with matches at Elgin and Albion recently.

Ord took three of the six main matches at Albion Saturday, November 24. Scott Spady, 122 pounds, defeated Rob Clausen of Albion. Dave Williams, 148 pounds, defeated Sam Haddix of Albion. Chuck Parkos, 148 pounds, defeated Pat Pratom of Albion. Roger Williams, 125 pounds, lost a decision to Billy Pelster of Petersburg.

Pelster comes from a family boxing dynasty. His older brothers have established names for themselves in the ring. So has Billy.

Ord coach Dan Klimek said, "Roger Williams boxed a real close fight with Billy Pelster. It could have gone either way. Pelster won the Midwest title last year and boxed in the nationals."

Other fights Saturday included Brian Manchester, at 145 pounds, losing a tough decision to Dan Cole of Albion. Allen Goodrich, a heavyweight, lost a decision to Sonny Westerman of Norfolk.

Exhibition bouts saw Danny Klimek and Rick Meyer of Tilden squaring off. They were in the 65 pound category.

Results of the fights at Elgin, November 17 show Roger Williams losing a split decision to Terry Barret of Omaha. Allen Goodrich was shaded by a decision to Chuck Tramer of Ewing, in the heavyweight division.

Next are matches at Central City December 8 and 9.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Severance and family, Ord, were Sunday afternoon and lunch guests of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Zentz. Steve Jensen, Debra, Peggy, Linda and Richard Zentz, Boelus, were Sunday afternoon callers.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles Hammer of Lebanon, PA were Monday overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Blanch Anderson. Mr. and Mrs. Ival Anderson and Dorothy of Ansley were additional supper guests of Mrs. Anderson.

Paul Murray spent the Thanksgiving holidays with his son, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Murray and family, at Boelus.

Gogan Is Named All Conference

By JoAnn Fells

Pam Gogan of Arcadia High School, was a unanimous choice to the CVC All-Conference volleyball first team and was chosen for the Grand Island Independent's All-Area first team.

Pam is known for her hard spikes from whence she received the nickname, "Powerhouse" from other area teams. On the season, Gogan led the team with 134 spikes, 34 of them being aces. She also had the highest setting percentage at 98%. She was the only sophomore on both teams and was the only girl on the All-Area team who did not participate in the state tournament.

Clinic to Help Public Understand Wrestling Sport

The 1979-80 Ord High School Wrestling Team will hold a mini-clinic Saturday, December 1, at 7 p.m. The purpose of the clinic is to explain the rules and demonstrate match procedures and scoring.

The public is invited to attend, so that it might have a chance to meet this year's wrestling Chants, and so that when the Ord High Wrestling team takes to the mats this season it will better understand the sport of wrestling. The event is free of charge.

Johnson Makes All Conference-All State Honorable Mention

Mike only played five games because of an injury. With that in mind, his season stats look impressive. He had 87 tackles while playing at his defensive position. On offense, he carried the ball 84 times for 552 yards, an average of 6.5 yards a carry.

Mike plans to attend college at Kearney State next year and possibly play football on the Loper team.

By JoAnn Fells

Mike Johnson, Arcadia High School senior, was selected by conference coaches to be on the CVC All-Conference football team. He also gained honorable mention to All-State by the Omaha World Herald and honorable mention on the Grand Island Independent All-Area team. Mike received these honors while playing at the linebacker position.

Boosters to Hatch a Fowl Mascot

Ord High Booster Club members are hatching a fowl deed designed to spark school athletic activities. Club members are incubating plans for a super-chicken, according to Ernie French, club president.

The new super clucker will make its first appearance at a December 7 Ord High pep rally Friday afternoon. The fowl and booster members will fire up school spirit for the Ord-Crete basketball game to be played here later that day.

Ord junior and senior high students are submitting names for the new bird. Although participation is limited to students, outsiders can make suggestions to OHS'ers. The winning entry will be told during the Friday rally.

Mulligan's Music will donate a prize.

Make the Most of Your Microwave Oven

Microwave ovens can be great time-and-energy savers for busy cooks. Improvements in recent years include temperature probes that cook food by temperature instead of time; defrost, simmer, and hold cycles; and even microwave ovens that can be installed over the range in place of the vent hood.

But many people still rely on their microwave ovens only for occasional baked potatoes or reheated leftovers. With a little advance planning, and the use of built-in or accessory shelves, entire meals can be prepared in the microwave oven, in less time and with less clean-up than in a conventional oven.

The easiest menus include foods that need the same cooking time. Foods that cook at different rates should be added at different times. Generally, meat or larger amounts of food should be placed on the right side of the oven when cooking complete meals.

A quick microwave lunch could include a sandwich or hot dog and soup in its serving bowl heated at the same time.

Hamburgers and baked beans can also share a microwave oven.

Next time you bake potatoes, bake a meatloaf in the microwave also. Chicken or fish can be cooked in the microwave at the same time as the vegetables for dinner. And since baked apples are a natural for the microwave oven, include them next time you microwave a pre-cooked ham.

And don't forget breakfast. A hot, filling breakfast is only minutes away when you microwave scrambled eggs and bacon at the same time. Or try hot cereal and cocoa — a warm way to start the day without a lot of dishes to clean up.

To plan meals that will cook well in microwave ovens, you should keep in mind what doesn't cook efficiently or satisfactorily with microwave energy.

Foods requiring a large quantity of boiling water, such as spaghetti or rice, cook more efficiently on the range top. Casseroles to be heated in a microwave should be made with pre-cooked rice or pasta.

Angel food cakes, chiffon cakes and popovers won't bake properly in a microwave because they require dry heat to form their airy textures.

Pancakes won't crust in a microwave, although they reheat well. Popcorn is too dry to pop in a microwave unless you put it in a special popcorn accessory or use specially labeled "microwave popcorn".

Eggs in shells or shelled boiled eggs can bust and bottles with narrow necks can shatter if heated in a microwave.

So don't limit your oven to potatoes and leftovers. With a little imagination, you can microwave a meal from beginning to end.

Hastings Rites For Al Blessing

Funeral services for Alfred Welsh Blessing were held Wednesday, November 28, 1979 at the First United Methodist Church in Hastings at 10:30 a.m. Rev. Robert Heil officiated. Burial was in the Parkview Cemetery in Hastings.

Al Blessing, the son of Frederick Leonard and Marie Hohn Blessing, was born August 9, 1930 at Elba, and died Sunday, November 25, 1979 at his home in Hastings at the age of 49.

Al graduated from Ord High School in 1948 and received his B.S. Degree in 1952 and his J.D. Degree in 1955 from the University of Nebraska. On August 9, 1953, he married Marilyn Joyce Bamesberger. In 1955, Al was admitted to the Nebraska bar. From 1955 to 1957, he served with the U.S. Army. He began his law practice in Hastings in 1957 and was a partner in the law firm of Dunmire and Blessing since 1961.

Al was a member of the Board of Education from 1965-1979, serving as vice president from 1969-1972 and as president from 1973-1977. ### Stockpiling Gas — Leads to Injuries

There is no guaranteed safe way for the public to store gasoline in their homes. This warning comes from the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) and the Fire Marshals Association of North America (FMANA), as reports of injuries and death mount because people are stockpiling fuel in the face of gasoline shortages.

People are going to spectacular lengths in an effort to hoard gasoline. Unfortunately, the results are equally spectacular in the most tragic way. Recently, seven members of one family were badly burned from ignition of gasoline stored in a plastic trash container in a bedroom closet.

No one should keep gasoline within a residential structure of any kind. If you feel you must have a very small amount of gasoline on hand to fuel a lawn mower or other equipment, keep the fuel in a secure storage shelter well away from places where people live.

Even in a secure storage place, detached from residential buildings, store gasoline only in an approved safety container. Never keep flammable liquids in a glass jug, plastic bottle, or other makeshift container. Place the safety container where it can't be knocked over accidentally and where children can't reach it. And make sure there is good ventilation in the storage area — this prevents the buildup of gasoline vapors.

Many accidents occur when gasoline-fueled equipment is stored in a garage or utility area which also contains hot water or room heating apparatus. NFPA studies show. Even one spark generated when an electric switch goes on or off is enough to ignite gasoline vapors. The pilot light on any gas-fueled

Beef Meeting To Be in Burwell

Area 19 Stock Growers and interested persons are invited to attend a beef referendum in formal and organizational meeting to be held in Burwell November 29 at the Burwell Legion Club. The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. and Steve Dittmer of Gibbon, with the Beef Industry Foundation, will be the speaker.

Early Mailing

following guidelines be followed:
— Use a good, solid box and cushion the contents well.
— Use nylon reinforced tape, called strapping tape. Masking tape or Scotch tape aren't acceptable. They don't stick well enough, according to Spilneek, and aren't strong enough to hold parcels together.
— He discouraged using twine or string. They slow package handling by machinery in bulk mail centers. Those in the Midwest's Central Area are in Denver and Des Moines.
Persons mailing later the December 10 and 15 deadlines could use the Priority Mail classification. "For the service it gives, it could be economical", Spilneek said.
Persons having questions on packaging or other postal matters should call their local post office. "We welcome people calling before their package is made up", Spilneek said. "Often we can save them some time."

appliance is also enough. We're all used to thinking of gasoline as part of our everyday lives, but no one should ever forget that gasoline is an extremely volatile flammable liquid that must be handled with utmost caution at all times.
Never bring a motorcycle or a gasoline-powered bike into your house or apartment for storage or repair work, he added.
One final reminder from NFPA: never smoke or permit anyone else in the vicinity to smoke while using, fueling or working on equipment that is powered by gasoline.

Comstock Man Has Eye Injury

Glenn Dockhorn of Comstock hit the misfortune of having a piece of steel penetrate his eye Sunday morning when he was working on a grinder. Mrs. Dockhorn rushed him to Burwell where they sent him on to Grand Island to a specialist who sent them on to Omaha. Glenn underwent surgery Sunday evening in the Clarkson Hospital. They were able to remove the steel and hopefully save the sight of his eye.
Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fauss are caring for Matthew Dockhorn while his parents are gone.
Glenn will be in the hospital for a week or more so those wanting to send cards should address them to Glenn Dockhorn, Bishop Clarkson Memorial Hospital, Omaha, NE, 68105.

Ag Society Holds Annual Meeting

At the annual meeting of the Loop Valley Ag. Society (LVAS) on November 12, J. Lange retired from the board. The vacancy has been filled by Leonard Lech of Eyrha, who was voted on the board to serve a three year term. Ed Huffman resigned his position on the board and assured the board that it would not end his or his wife, Vesta's, involvement with the county fair. Jeff Waltman of North Loup was voted on the board to finish Mr. Huffman's term. Both Lange and Huffman have served and donated many years on the fair board and their efforts are deeply appreciated.
Jim Trotter of Arcadia and the 4-H Council were voted to remain on the board for another three year term. The officers and board members of the LVAS are Don Walker, president, Harlan Green, vice president, Dan Schimmenti (non-member), secretary; and Dean Bresley, Rick Bredthauer, Jim Trotter, Leonard Lech, Jeff Waltman, and the 4-Council, members.

Dr. Auble Recalls Past Fairground

(An article about past Valley County Fairs in last week's Ord Quiz triggered some memories. Ord's own music man, Dr. Glen Auble, recalled Ord's first fair grounds. Herewith are his recollections.)
"It was pretty much spread out across the highway west from the Elks Club. The buildings were pretty much about where the new church is and a half mile race track to the north and including Wheelers. The length was east and west.
"It was a half mile race track, primarily for trotting and pacing horses and the following men I remember, had horses and the two-wheel sulky. I do not recall any saddle horse races.
"My dad, Date Auble, trotter; my uncle, John Auble, pacer; John Meese; Tom Williams; related to our janitor Williams; John Rockhold, trotter; Wm. Ramsey, father of the Arcadia druggist.
"I was eight years old in 1900 and remember very well going to the fair and my guess is that the fair started before 1900.
"I also remember who some of the directors were — W. J. Hather, father of Mrs. Fern Carson and grandfather of Ellis, raised purebred Poland China

Hogs.
"A. J. Firkins, whose daughter was my girl friend in Ord High School.
"W. L. McNutt, father of Zona Miller and raised purebred Herefords.
"John Meese, raised purebred hogs.
"Vincent Kokes, father of Ed. "Edd" Bresley, father of Harry.
"I recall that I saw my first balloon ascension take off from there and there were some trapeze acts.
"I have the race horse sulky that was used by Tom Williams and will take it up to the Fort this spring.
"I also recall that lemonade was two glasses for a nickel, and the merry-go-round was a nickel a ride.
"I remember that my mother took some canned fruit and vegetables to display, and there was a small grandstand.
"I think the admission was 25c and 10c, but if you had a display, you got in free."

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kolar and family of Scotia and Mrs. Mable Jorgensen were Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Jorgensen and family.

"Winterize" Swine Herds Now:
Dr. Alex Hogg, Extension Veterinarian, suggests that swine producers give serious thought to "winterizing" their swine herds now — advance preparations will cut losses.
Two major problems with pigs in winter are transmissible gastroenteritis (TGE) and sarcocystic mange. The most important to guard against is TGE, since it spreads easily from pig to pig in cold weather.
TGE is a highly infectious virus disease which affects all ages of swine but is most dangerous to baby pigs, where the mortality rates can range from 60-100 percent. Producers, particularly those planning batch farrowing in the December to March months, should consider using appropriate vaccines now.
To reduce death loss and clinical signs, vaccines must be administered twice — first, six weeks, then two weeks before farrowing. Producers should contact their local veterinarian for advice about the vaccines.

Sarcocystic mange can be controlled if pigs are sprayed before the cold months settle in. Spraying is more easily done in good weather. It is a most difficult task after cold weather begins and the number of acceptable days is significantly reduced now.
Spraying can be done during winter months, but the temperature should be no lower than 40 degrees with no wind and sunny exposure to prevent the pigs from becoming severely chilled.

Pigs should be sprayed at least twice in 10-day intervals with malathion, lindane or toxaphene to control the mite which causes the irritation. This leads to reduced feedlot performance. With heavily infested herds, a third application should be made 10 days after the second spraying.
Alternatives to DES
Are Available to Cattle Feeders
Since DES has been banned from use in cattle as a feed additive or as an implant, some producers will be looking for alternative compounds. Two implants, Synovex-S and Ralagro, are available for steers and two implants, Synovex-H and Ralagro, are available for heifers.
According to Stan Farlin, Extension Beef Cattle Nutritionist, IANR-UNL, improved performance from these implants will be near that of DES, however, they will cost more.

MGA is a feed additive that is used for heifers.
Withdrawal time for Ralagro is 65 days, Synovex — 60 days and MGA — 48 hours.

Implant yearling cattle when entering the feedlot. If time permits, for example, during a 130-day feeding period, a second implant about midway through the feeding period is recommended. Use care to make sure implants are properly placed in the ear of the animal.

What Kind of Christmas Tree?
Christmas trees will be available about Thanksgiving. Pines have needles in clusters of 2, 3, or 5. White pine have clusters of 5 needles. Red (Norway), Austrian, ponderosa and scotch pines have 2 or 3 needle clusters. Red, Austrian and ponderosa pine have fairly long needles. Scotch pine needles are short. Pines hold their needles the best even when they dry out. Firs, Douglas fir and spruce have one needle. The first and Douglas-firs have flat needles; spruce have 3-4 sided needles. Firs and Douglas-fir hold their needles fairly well, spruce needles will begin to shed in a week or so after being put up in the house. Adding water to the tree helps.

Christmas Tree Safety
A Neb-guide — G75-255, "Christmas Tree Fire Regulations" is available at your County Extension Office. Be sure to stop in and pick up your copy.

A Cord of Wood
A pickup load of wood is not a cord. It requires two good pickup loads to equal a cord of wood. A cord of wood is 4 feet by 4 feet by 8 feet or 128 cubic feet.

Loup Bus Line Stop Is Changed

Officials of CNCS have announced a change in the Loup Valley Transit stop in Ord. The old stop which was at the Bohemian Hall will be replaced by two new stops. The bus will now stop at the Parkview Village Office at 8:35 a.m. and then at the east door of the courthouse at approximately 8:40 a.m.

On the return trip from Grand Island the bus will stop at the courthouse at about 4:45 p.m. and then at the Parkview Village Office after that stop.
Officials also announced that all freight packages can be left or picked up at the Parkview Office unless other arrangements are made.

Lower Loup Natural Resources District

The headlines read, "Bottled Water's Brought in Wood River for the Safety of Infants." The article by Mike Sweeney, a UNL journalism student, appeared in the November 15th issue of the Lincoln Star.

Sweeney based his article on data from the Nebraska Health Department and UNL researchers. The Lower Loup NRD has been concerned for some time about the potential for groundwater pollution. We are accused of sensationalism and scare tactics when we report on the District's sampling program. The District will make copies of the above article and a companion article headlined, "Fertilizer can reach Groundwater when too much is used or when land is overirrigated" to anyone interested. Just write Lower Loup NRD, P.O. Box 210, Ord, NE 68862.

The District has just completed sampling in Rock Loup, Garfield, Wheeler, Boone, Howard, and Greeley Counties. Frankly, we are not too pleased with what we are finding as far as nitrate pollution is concerned. All data are in parts per million (ppm) with 10 being the Public Health Service standard.

Six samples taken with 1977 to 1979 data. The average increase is .5 ppm. One sample did show a decrease of 1.2. Samples ranged from a high of 3.3 to a low of .7 ppm.

Loup County.
Twelve samples taken. Every sample shows an increase with one increasing fourfold. The average increase was 1.1 ppm. Samples ranged from 3.3 to .6 ppm.

Wheeler County.
Thirteen samples taken with data from 1977. Every sample shows an increase with the average increase being 1.1 ppm. Samples ranged from a high of 4.8 to a low of .7 in 1979.

Insurance Co. Honors Erickson

Kermit Erickson of Arcadia was honored on his 50th anniversary with the New York Life Insurance Co. with festivities at the Regency West Motel in Omaha Friday, Nov. 16, at 6:30 p.m. Agents and their wives from Nebraska and Western Iowa were guests of the company at a banquet for the gala occasion.

Duane Demaree, agency manager of Nebraska general office in Omaha, was master of ceremonies of the program and introduced special guests.
Robert Cannon, regional vice president from Minneapolis, MN, presented a special plaque and gold medalion to Kermit and conveyed greetings and congratulations from the president, Marshall P. Bissell, and chairman of the board of directors, R. Manning Brown, and his staff from the home office in New York City. A replica of the first policy, in decoupage, written by Kermit on December 19, 1929 was among the gifts presented. Jim Bradford of Norfolk, Nebraska's No. 1 agent, presented the gift of a gold watch from the agents and was special speaker on the program. Many other gifts and presentations honored Kermit on completion of 50 years of dedicated service.
Honored guests besides the Kermit Ericksons were their daughter, Patricia, and family, Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Butts, Meldee and Mark, of Crete; their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Erickson, Jr., and daughter, Ann, of Madison, New Jersey; and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Anderson of Omaha.

Helping Hands Club
The Helping Hands Extension Club was called to order by Vice President Mrs. Marlon Bruha on November 14 at the home of Mrs. Darlene Bruha with nine members and two guests, Mrs. Alice Pokorney and Mrs. Lunir Bruha, present. Roll Call was answered by our favorite menu and our husband's favorite menu.

Plans were made to hold the family Christmas party at the National Hall on December 14 at 7:30 p.m.
After the meeting, a second lesson on cake decorating was presented by Mrs. Jean Bruha and Mrs. Ione Bruha.
The next meeting will be on December 12 at the home of Mrs. Eileen Bruha.

Garfield County.
Twelve samples taken with an average increase of about 1.6. One sample indicated a decrease. The range was from a high of 13.5 to a low of .8 ppm.

Greeley County.
Seventeen samples taken with an average increase of 1.1 ppm. The range in Greeley County is from a high of 4.3 to a low of 4 ppm.

Howard County.
Fifteen samples increased an average of 1.6 ppm. One sample decreased from 17.6 in 1977, to 4.0 in 1979. Samples ranged from a 60 ppm high to a .7 ppm low.

Boone County.
Fifteen samples taken show an average increase of .6 ppm with a high of 13.3 to a low of .8 ppm. Two samples decreased an average of 1.7 ppm.
The important fact is that a large majority of the samples are increasing at an alarming rate.

We're celebrating CHRISTMAS with RCA Color Television REMEMBER 1954?

WE HAVEN'T FORGOTTEN!

In the 25 years since RCA first introduced color television it seems that many products have doubled or tripled in price, some even dropping in quality. But at RCA we've taken 1954's bulky 240 pound color television with a 15" screen (retailing for $1,000.00) and progressed to the beautiful energy efficient solid state sets of today with 25" diagonal screens AT ALMOST HALF THE PRICE!

HERE ARE JUST THREE EXAMPLES...

RCA 25" diagonal XL-100 color TV with 100% solid state XtendedLife chassis and SignalLock electronic tuning

- RCA's XtendedLife chassis is designed for low power consumption, high efficiency and long life.
- Uses only 89 watts of power on average.
- Automatic Color Control and Flestone Correction.
- Super AccuColor black matrix picture tube provides brilliant color with sharp contrast.
- Electronic varactor tuning with single-knob VHF/UHF control.
- Automatic Fine Tuning (AFT).

A Bouquet of Roses

A bouquet of roses for parents of Ord Elementary students. According to school principal K. Vidal, you've really cooperated with the required immunization program.

Recently school authorities sent notices home telling what shots were needed to bring students up to state standards. Solons have directed that youngsters in grade schools throughout the state shall be immunized against various childhood diseases.

K. Vidal, school principal, said she has had "... super cooperation from parents." Bravo!

Yes, these shots are mandated. But even if they weren't, the Quiz would still contend protecting your child against potential killers and cripples like polio would be a good policy.

Our compliments to Ord Elementary parents, and to school administrators for efficiently handling this program.

Take a bow!

Attention for Oldsters

In these crazy fast changing days in our country I am fascinated by what is happening to what we now call "Senior Citizens", "The Aging", "Our Golden Residents", etc., etc. In other words, "The Elderly". Look at all the publicity they're drawing, the most attention in history!

In school we were taught that the oldest female in a Chinese family was the boss of the roost. This was also true in several other Oriental countries. The matriarch was revered and obeyed and made the final decisions.

And in those earlier days older people in our land were sort of put out to pasture, not listened to much, sometimes gently treated, often only tolerated. Grandma sat in a secluded corner and did the family darning. If she was extra lucky she had a room of her own.

She was installed in a neat bonnet and given fresh white gloves and a perky handkerchief on Sunday and taken to church with the others of the family.

Other days she sat quietly, hidden under a good-sized apron. Often she held the baby, or doctored a sick child, her advice was esteemed at such a crisis.

And what have we now? All this Social Security, these other handouts, pensions of one kind and another. Insurance plans, special rates for "older people". Identification cards for senior citizens. Special prices for show tickets, for dinners, for lectures, for transportation. Pretty nice, hey?

And how the politicians bend our ears, they never quit. Every day there's a new scheme of some kind that will appeal to senior citizens. Old people have never had so much attention.

Whether it is paying off or not is another matter. In most ways, I doubt it.

But those politicians want those votes, and it is getting so the reaction of the old peoples' block is important. There are so many appeals. Aren't they overdoing it? I don't know if I believe all this stuff. Do you?

So free lunches get arranged. Groceries are sold by groups of those who have little money, and ask little profit from the older people who came with sacks and baskets to exchange products.

Some of these plans are noteworthy, they really help those who have little means to buy. Why waste oranges, say, if some of the faulty ones can be given or possibly sold for only pennies? We have so much waste in this plentiful world we live. Leftover green groceries can be cooked; eggs that have not been candied can be carefully used ... we waste and waste, while some go hungry.

It is wonderful that they have learned to make buses to lower automatically for a wheel chair.

It is great that they have smoothed the curb off at corner walks so that carts and crutches can go up and down easier. We need these wider doorways for many of our office buildings. Special automobile parking for the handicapped is a dandy idea: in some California cities a special permit is needed before a handicapped person may park in a marked stall (or he'll get fined).

Little by little oldsters are gaining the spotlight. About time? I'm getting older myself, so I'm doing lots of gawking, lots of listening.

Geranium Joe Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers were lamenting the forgotten Thanksgiving Saturday night at the country store. I've been said it looks to him like we were going to run right past Thanksgiving in a rush to finish up Christmas shopping. Vic was of a mind that both holidays deserve places of honor, and that of people in the store. We ought to keep a time set aside for giving thanks.

He said it must be that Santa Claus travels slower ever year. Use to, he said, Santa took off from the North Pole the week before Christmas and he made his rounds in plenty of time. Now he's wearing himself out working all these Christmas parades two weeks before Thanksgiving. Vic carried on until the feller that runs the store took a little silver tree he had on the corner back to the storeroom. This trucker from down the line said he couldn't speak for Santa Claus, but he knew for a fact that his old lady has been sewing nights since Labor Day, making little stuffed animals for Christmas gifts for her church circle. If she don't let up the first of the week, he said, and get her cooking and baking organized, he'll know he's a victim of the forgotten Thanksgiving.

Actual, declared Ed, you know that feller from Sherman County with that long last name, we can't wait much longer to do our Christmas mailing. Ed said he had saw recent where the British Post Office finished that 1,000 mile Pony Express race over the original trail from St. Joseph to Sacramento in just 39 days, and he allowed that the best the U.S. Postal Service is doing ain't all that much better. Between the uncertain mail and his old lady staying on the telephone, he said about the only means of communication he's got is these weekly sessions at the store. Ed allowed he never had been impressed with high that claim, they can rip telephone books in half with their bare hands. He said his old lady can tie up 500 miles of telephone wire with her chin.

General speaking, Mister Editor, the fellers were in a good mood and looking forward to all that feasting and homecoming of Thanksgiving. George Radil said he was grateful for the little dab of money he had left over at the end of his month, but he was getting powerful concerned about his bank's appetite. Not long back, George said, the bank give him checks and took care of everything as long as he didn't spend more than he had. The other day, he told the fellers, his bank send word that he would have to make the least $600 in his account at all times to keep from paying extra fee checks and any other service. He said he knows the banks has got to make money to stay in business, but it seems to him that having his money to make money ought to count for something.

Personal, Mister Editor, I see life's little fringe benefits being whittled away fast. No more free aprons with a couple pounds of nails, no more free maps at the service station, not even a book of matches with a can of pipe tobacco. The last time I was in a McDonald's, they even had the ketchup and mustard hid under the counter. They probable charge extra fer it by now.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

State Solons Irked by Blame They Get for Rising Nebr. State Budget

CAPITOL NEWS

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association Lincoln — The blame Nebraska lawmakers receive for the continuing rise in the state budget rankles them, and occasionally some of the legislators' sound off on the matter.

During a recent meeting of the Appropriations Committee, which already is starting work on the budget recommendations to make to the 1980 Unicameral, Sen. Myron Rumery of North Platte said people need to be advised that one important reason for the ever-higher state budgets is the amount of state aid funneled back to local governments and individuals.

Sen. Donald Dworak of Columbus agreed. He said the Legislature is being criticized and blamed for increased taxes at a time when the major growth is occurring in local governments.

Dworak told members of the legislative fiscal staff he wants them to prepare a chart indicating the percentage growth in expenditures by local governments compared with state spending.

During the 1972 to 1980 period, state taxes and spending have increased nearly three times, according to figures presented to the committee. Even so, the growth of constant dollars was 60 percent, and most of the growth was in aid to local government and individuals.

The points Rumery and Dworak emphasized were not heard for the first time in the Capitol.

Sen. J. James Exon, when he was governor, and Gov. Charles Thone have said it is the aid programs that account for much of state government spending.

The fiscal analyst's staff said a study of the state's economic history between 1972 and 1979 shows Nebraskans' personal income rose 102 percent and the operations of state government increased a little more than 111 percent. At the same time, state dollars flowing to local governments increased 193 percent and aid to higher education 146 percent.

According to fiscal analyst Dale Johnson, in constant dollars, appropriations for fiscal 1979 declined $1 million.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, said he would like to have a committee decision by early next month on what the unit's members believe the parameters for state appropriations should be for next year.

He noted Gov. Charles Thone has indicated he will attempt to construct a budget that could be accommodated with no more than a 7 percent increase over this year's.

Uses Harsh Language

Gov. Thone used strong language recently while criticizing two state senators who requested the Administrative Rules Committee to investigate procedures used by the Thone administration when a moratorium was declared on state collection of income taxes during December.

The governor described the request as a "cheap shot" that was "inexcusable." He added that Sen. John DeCamp and Sen. Steve Fowler of Lincoln didn't even have the courtesy to contact him before they made their request.

Thone said the moratorium procedures were carefully checked by Attorney General Paul Douglas before any formal action was taken.

But several days later DeCamp wrote Thone a letter in which he defended the request.

The procedure utilized by the administration in changing the laws to accomplish the tax moratorium is, so far as I am able to determine at this time, a completely new and unprecedented procedure which may or may not have merit, may or may not be statutorily allowed, and may or may not be efficient," DeCamp told the governor.

As a legislator, he added, he had the duty to raise questions with the committee "as to whether or not in existing and clear on the subject of how rules and regulations are made or unmade, whether the laws are in need of change, and whether the procedure being preceded in this instance is a good procedure for the future."

DeCamp said he believes in unilateral changing of rules and regulations by any administration without some system of public hearing or check and balance of the legislative branch.

Emphasizing the dispute was not a partisan or personal issue, the committee recently voted to hold a public hearing on the procedures utilized in declaring the moratorium.

Committee members indicated Thone will be among those invited to testify.

Advise Limiting Probe

Dr. Ralph Michener, director of the state Department of Institutions, says a legislative committee studying the case of Joe Soukup of Grand Island should limit its probe to Soukup and not broaden the investigation to cover other possible drug experimentation cases between 1961-65.

Based on documentation that he was administered one injection of LSD while institutionalized in 1961, Soukup does not deserve the $1,250,000 he is seeking for alleged mistreatment in the state's public institutions, Michener said.

That one injection of a small amount of LSD could not have had a detrimental effect on Soukup's life, he said.

Soukup, 36, says he received the LSD in 1961 at the Lincoln Regional Center. It has been confirmed through records that drug experiments were carried out at that institution at that time. But Michener, who has been state director of institutions for three months, said, "The committee should understand that for eight years we have not been doing any medication studies and

Finding Christmas

There's an old adage, running through my mind that I'm sure rings through the minds of everyone at this time of year. It goes like this:

"The Spirit is willing but the flesh is weak."

It came to mind, for me, when I was trying to think up something really "moving" to use for a column this week — leading up to Christmas. It seems I've used all the ideas and stories I've ever had, over the years, and there's nothing really "new" to say.

Through the years I've discovered several things that make my Christmas more meaningful. Whether they'll work for others, I don't know. I only know they've added depth and meaning to my own life during the Christmas Season.

One of the oldest and fondest memories I have goes clear back to high school. At the time I was attending a military academy in Missouri. One of the instructors, at the school, had suggested to the cadets that we go home and find a needy family and prepare a Christmas box for them — then deliver it on Christmas Eve.

At the time I thought such a suggestion was "kid stuff." After all, I was a grown young man.

I thought it was a good idea. But for some reason I made

The Council Oaks Stores featured a 3 for 25¢ sale which included such items as fruit cocktail, assorted soups, tomatoes, etc.

After dark, Christmas Eve borrowed a car and — some in fear of possible rejection drove to the home we'd select. I'll never forget the wal the porch — the simple lamp lighting the one room cluttered table. I had a lun my throat and tears in my in fact I was unable to an when the mother — in at ment and gratitude — a "Who's it from?"

FACTORY REBATE
 Right now is the time to put up a pre-engineered, all-steel Chief Farm Building because Chief is offering a substantial factory rebate.
 The rebate applies to any size Chief Farm Building — available in a wide range of widths and lengths, straight wall and slant wall — but remember: the bigger the building, the greater its utility, and the bigger the rebate.
 Chief Farm Buildings are steel framed on 6' centers with no interior obstructions. Roof and sidewall sheeting is roll formed from "full-hard," minimum 80,000 psi, 26 gauge G-90 galvanized steel, protected by tough Chief Ultra-Kote color finish. Big double-slide doors easily accommodate large machinery. Wide range of accessories, including overhead and walk-in doors and grain storage kit.
 Rebate applies only to Farm Buildings ordered and delivered by February 1, 1980.
 Act now. Come in and see us right away.

County Supervisors

Ord, Nebraska
 November 28, 1979
 The Valley County Board of Supervisors convened at 11:00 A.M. Bosen and Johnson were absent. Minutes of the November 18 meeting were approved.
 Rich Noyes, Region 25 Director talked about his part as Valley County representative on the EMS board and the County Board of Supervisors. He held the funding of this organization, the overlapping of services with other organizations, what Valley County would derive from it and asked opinions of the board as to how he should represent them.
 Some men of the Bureau of Reclamation asked about opening of roads in the southeast corner of the county so they can drill water test holes.
 Gregory Jensen, attorney explained the decision made on the Burmaster tax appeal case and he will file a motion for new trial. Benda moved to appeal to the Supreme Court if the motion is overruled, seconded by Mulligan and all present agreed unanimously. He also explained the Noll case and the insurance companies position in the matter.
 Alvin Vavra asked for some road repairs near the Frances Micek place so he can transport his children to school.
 Items viewed and filed concerned zoning and subdivision regulations, energy efficiency report, 1980 Census, application for comprehensive development plans, report from Mid-Ne Comm. Mental Health Center and Lower Loup NRD.
 The board recessed at noon and returned at 1:00 P.M. when Dennis N. Peterson, research specialist with Nebraska Public Power District presented a copy of the draft report of the Socioeconomic Studies which have been prepared in anticipation of the construction of NPPD's Eastern Customer Electrical Generating Plant. He answered questions and will probably be holding a meeting for more officials early in 1980.
 A letter for information about a two week Bridge Inspection Training Course will be answered to the Department of Roads.
 Closing the courthouse on December 24 and 31 was discussed. Some officials will attend County Officials Convention in Omaha, November 27-29. The board adjourned at 2:00 P.M.

Nebraska National Guard's First Aviation Commander

Secretary of War: (1) Permit me to extend the Services of an aero company as prescribed in the Table of Organization, U.S. Army, for service on the Mexican border Manned flight came to Nebraska in 1910 when Glenn Curtiss, famous American aviation pioneer, flew a fragile crate-like plane from a field near Omaha. Balloon ascensions had been common at fairs and exhibitions for some years before 1910. Collections of the Nebraska State Historical Society contain the general outline of the history of aviation in the state, but no general history of this transportation medium has been written.

 Pusher-type (propeller-in-rear) biplanes, the models in use before World War I, were gradually introduced into the state and a number of adventuresome young men took up what was then termed a "sport." One such type was Ralph E. McMullen (1889-1916) of Perry and Council Bluffs, Iowa, who came to Nebraska and joined the National Guard in 1915. Because of his experience he was commissioned a captain in the Regular Army, but he continued to fly in National Guard exercises and maneuvers and "bar-stormed" the Plains. An accomplished photographer, Captain McMullen's pictures illustrated the 1915-16 Biennial Report of the Guard. Several pictures were night shots of the State Capitol from a height of 4,000 feet.
 In 1916 as trouble brewed in Mexico and World War I approached, Captain McMullen of the Nebraska Aviation Company wrote the following letter to the Secretary of War: (1) Permit me to extend the Services of an aero company as prescribed in the Table of Organization, U.S. Army, for service on the Mexican border (2) I extend my services and my Curtiss pusher-type biplane, which I have extended to the National Guard of Nebraska for two years. I am a licensed pilot and have done professional day and night flying for five years. I have worked out aerial photography, bomb dropping, long distance flights, making landings in unknown locations, and selecting landing places during flight. (3) I attended Curtiss Atlantic Aviation School. (4) I possess a broken leg with a bad fitting caused by a 300-foot fall four years ago, but which does not hinder me as a pilot. Since that time I have done exhibition work and military scout duty for the Nebraska National Guard.

 Other Nebraska guardsmen flew in World War I, notably Captain Edgar W. (Bobby or Happy) Baggett, but McMullen was rejected because of his leg injury.
 In late August, 1916, he shipped his disassembled plane by rail to St. Francis, Kansas, to fly a two-day exhibition. On the afternoon of September 2, he was killed when his plane went out of control at 1,200 feet and plummeted to earth.
 A v i a t r i x, Ruth Law, an Easterner but well-known in Nebraska because of her appearances at the Nebraska State Fair and her association with Nebraska fliers Bob and Joe Westover, heard the news while sitting in the lobby of the Lincoln Hotel. "Too bad," she said. "This seems to be a hoodoo year for aviators." She spoke highly of McMullen's work, then shrugged.

Pearls Debuts On State ETV

Charlie Chan, Suie Wong and Fu Manchu are among the countless screen characters stereotyping Asians as exotic, erotic, karate-chopping villains, geishas, or heavyweights of mystery and intrigue. PEARLS, a new six-part documentary series combining historical facts with personal accounts looks at the heritage and real lives of Asian Americans when the series premieres on Sunday, December 2 at 6:30 p.m. on the Nebraska Educational Television Network.

Focusing on the life of a particular person or group, each 30-minute program attempts to combine the clarity of historical facts with the richness of people's lives.

The principle subjects for the different episodes of the series are from diverse walks of life. One is an actor in Hollywood, another a fisherman who works the coastal waters of Southern California. Another is a Filipino oilfield worker in Seattle's International District. Two are teachers in New York's Chinatown. There is an organization of Asian American women, and lastly, a Niuean who returns to Manana interment camp and other places of her past.

Social Security Agent Coming Here Dec. 4th

The social security representative will be in Ord at the Courthouse, on Tuesday, December 4, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

When the social security law was first enacted over 40 years ago, its basic purpose was to replace part of the earnings you lose when you retire. The program has been expanded many times and the benefit amounts have increased over the years, but the original idea remains the same. Social security is intended to replace only part of retirement, disability, or death to provide a base you can build on during your working years.

Social Security now has a toll-free number for persons living outside of Hall County; for questions on social security, dial 1-800-612-8310.

Fireplace Safety — A Burning Necessity

As temperatures steadily drop and energy costs rise, many thrifty-minded persons are turning more to their fireplace as an alternate heating source. But fireplaces can ignite accidents, as well as a blazing log if some basic safety precautions are not followed, according to Milt Nachbar, Director of Loss Control for CNA Insurance.

The following suggestions are offered as a checklist for an accident-free fireplace season:

- Thoroughly check your fireplace and equipment — before the first fire is lit to see that masonry, mortar joints, the flue, firebrick interior and hearth — before the first fire is lit to see that masonry, mortar joints, grate or andirons are sound.
- Crumbling mortar is a common cause of home fires.
- Always make sure the damper is open before lighting a fire. Keep the damper open until ashes are cool. A fire that appears dead can still be burning inside.
- A sturdy spark screen that completely covers the fireplace opening is essential. Dangerous flying sparks often result from burning pine and other coniferous wood.
- Follow the instructions on artificial logs. Burn only one at a time and never add one to a burning natural-wood fire.
- Never soak home-rolled newspaper logs in flammable liquids of any kind.
- Flammable liquid to light or relight a fire — Remember the poker or tongs can get very hot and should be placed on a fire-resistant holder when not in use.

— Don't burn trash or wrappings. They can become flying paper embers that settle on the roof. Aerosol cans, light bulbs and some plastics can explode in a fire or produce dangerous gases.

— Keep rugs, pillows, newspapers, holiday wrappings and other flammable materials away from the fire area and out of range of sparks.

— Make sure all fires are completely out before going to bed or leaving the house. It's also a good idea to leave the damper open while sleeping to offset the risk of accumulation of poisonous gases or smoke in the home. But remember to close it the next morning to avoid heat loss when the fireplace is not being used.

Come To Church

READ EPHESIANS 1:2-10
"It is the Spirit himself bearing witness with our spirit that we are children of God." (Romans 8:16 RSV)

I have seen a cartoon of a man hurrying along, holding a butterfly net out before him. Ahead of him is the object he is trying to catch — a big question mark.

The picture aptly describes the problem of a great many people. They frantically pursue many things, but they do not have any clear idea regarding the central purpose and meaning of life.

For such persons, the apostle Paul has the important word that God has a great plan for all His children. He declares that God the Father chose us "before the foundation of the world, then we should be helpless and blameless before him."

Thus we do not need to spend our lives chasing question marks or wondering who we are and what life is all about. Our true destiny is clear. God is our Father, and we fulfill our real mission when we live as His children. Jesus lived that way, and we can, too. Then our lives will be marked with direction, strength, and joy.

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the great purpose for which Thou has created us. Help us to see clearly Thy plan for us, and enable us to bring it to fulfillment. Amen.

Fire Claims the E. R. Kokes Farm Home

A fire Sunday destroyed the E. R. Kokes farm home 15 miles northeast of Ord. Ord Fire Chief Ivan Sorensen said faulty wiring in the basement is believed to have caused the blaze.

The fire spread to the first floor. The dispatcher on duty could hear the flames crackling in the background when Mrs. Kokes called the fire department. Firemen from Ord and Bartlett responded.

By Sunday afternoon, all that was left of the home was the foundation and the front steps, both of stone. A fund for the family has been established at the Nebraska State Bank, the First National Bank of Ord, and the Erickson State Bank.

Computer Purchase Questioned by Two Ed. Board Members

The purchase of what was described as a micro-computer for Ord High apparently caught some Ord school board members off guard. Reliable sources say two board members questioned the purchase during an ed board meeting here November 12.

According to Ord Schools Superintendent, Dr. Bill Gogan, the machine is used in a computer science class taught by Dale Huebner. This is the first year the course has been offered.

The reported purchase price of the machine varied with persons contacted. Darrell Smith placed it at $4,000. Dr. Gogan said it cost $3,300.

According to Smith both he and fellow board member Bob Dworak questioned the purchase sans board approval. Neither Smith told the Quiz, knew about it.

Other board members, Smith said, saw nothing wrong with the purchase.

In a phone interview Tuesday, Dr. Gogan said there was nothing secret about the new machine, and that it was included in the school's budget. He said students would be handicapped without exposure to computer science.

Bob Dworak was unavailable for comment.

Infra-Red Photos Will Give Energy Saving Picture

Ord area residents will see how infra-red pictures can save energy and money during a meeting December 8 in the Vets Club at 1 p.m. Representatives from Environment-Thermography will demonstrate their infra-red scanner and explain their energy saving program.

Demonstrations from various other businesses will also be presented at that time.

The infra-red scanner takes photographs of homes. Using heat rather than light, the infra-red film will show 'hot-spots' where heat is leaking from residences.

How these will be used in an energy conservation program will be explained during the meeting December 8.

City Reservoir May Trigger Suit

City Council members learned Monday night that the overflowing municipal water reservoir could trigger a law suit. Dr. Wayne Zlomke wrote officials a letter telling 'how it has overflowed frequently, causing damage to his property.'

The reservoir is located near Zlomke's Clinic in southwest Ord. The physician wrote he's been frequently told special equipment will correct the situation.

Dr. Zlomke wrote he's been told several times in the last few years. The doctor told city officials to stop the overflow or he'd start a lawsuit.

Utilities Commissioner Gene Baugh said special equipment is on order. According to Baugh, this will correct the problem.

Bad Street Bill McIlravy asked about creating a paving district. He told council members a block stretch on South 11 Street where he lives is a mess. McIlravy lives at 513 South 11 Street in Ord.

City Attorney Greg Jensen said state law mandates 60 percent of those persons owning front footage in the proposed paving district must sign petitions requesting the paving.

The Ord resident described the one block area where he lives as a sea of mud. According to him, it's been so bad he's had to carry his wife into their home.

'Kind of reminds you of old times, doesn't it,' Mayor Richard Rowbal quipped.

The Mayor said the city will try to put gravel on the road. Persons wanting paving improvements should have their requests in by February 1, according to the Mayor. Paving crews will resume work in Ord around that time.

Larry Behrens from Dictaphone demonstrated Call Check. The device will record phone calls to offices, etc. Firemen thought it might help them in transcribing fire calls, etc.

Questions revealed the product couldn't be used in the present city communications set-up. Both the City Clerk's office and the Ord Police Station are used.

Firemen were given permission to start work on hanging a false ceiling in the local fire hall. Councilman and fireman, Verlin Smith, had suggested waiting until Spring. Roof leaks would be detected then, he told the council.

After discussion, council members gave firemen the green light. Clement Lumber is low bidder on the materials. Firemen will provide the labor.

Good Job Tom Hehne lauded city street crews for their recent snow removal job. 'I just wanted to tell you the city crews did a heck of a job over the Thanksgiving holiday,' he said.

New Addition An addition to the city golf cart storage shed was proposed. Golf Board member, Clarence Fox, said the building would measure 30 by 52 feet and cost $8,500. His suggestion was tabled until Friday's council meeting. Golf and Park Board members are to meet Thursday.

Other council-city department meetings scheduled include: A Police Committee meeting that was to be Tuesday at 5:30 p.m.

A Friday meeting of the City Council at 7 p.m. Pending electric rate hikes and other matters are on the agenda.

Letters from Virginia Smith, Congresswoman from the Third District, and D. W. Hill, NPPD Manager, were read. Both congratulated Ord on the recent designation of Ord as an All Nebraska Community.

Ordinances passed Monday were: Number 306, granting a partial easement.

Number 307, changing dates for liquor license renewals. There are three different license categories. Both ordinances will be found in the Quiz legal notice section.

Mayor Rowbal rescheduled expiration dates for city Planning Commission terms. According to the Mayor, two terms will expire each year under the present arrangement. The new line-up and expiration dates revealed Monday are:

Alfred Burson, whose term will end 12-31-80.
Mel Masin — 12-31-81.
Clark Weckbach — 12-31-81.
Lloyd Needham — 12-31-82.
Dean Stevens — 12-31-82.

Project Alternatives Study Contract Awarded

Claude L. Fly and Associates of Fort Collins, CO has been awarded a $225,000 contract to study alternatives to the construction of the O'Neill and North Loup water resource projects in Nebraska, according to Dave Wildie of the Water and Power Resources Service (Water and Power) in Grand Island. The contractor will furnish two reports to Water and Power by June 1980. Information developed in the court-ordered study concerning the O'Neill unit will be used as part of an effort to vacate an injunction by the U.S. District Court of Nebraska halting construction of that project. A final environmental statement supplement for the O'Neill unit using study information will be filed with the Environmental Protection Agency and the court.

Information concerning the North Loup Division will be used as part of the continuing study of that project.

The agricultural consultant will evaluate the physical and economic terms of the potential for the following types of programs in the northern and central Nebraska project areas:

- Increasing crop and livestock production by applying current and probable future technology not dependent on depletion of the areas' groundwater reserves;

- Lessening dependence on irrigation through the adoption of crops that require less water than those currently grown;

- Lessening dependence on irrigation through water conservation practices.

The study will compare potential agricultural output increases and groundwater supplies in the areas to those resulting from irrigation development and associated groundwater recharge which would occur with construction of the O'Neill project.

REACT Isn't A Four Letter Word

Convention Goes Tell Goals of Organization

Members of the Nebraska State Council of REACT teams met in Ord Saturday. The 19 people present represented some 600 REACT members on 28 REACT teams in Nebraska. Members took time during a lunch break to explain just what their organization is.

REACT, Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Teams, consists of volunteers monitoring channels nine. They relay emergency information to proper authorities, give directions to motorists and report road conditions.

During their meeting Saturday, delegates discussed REACT training procedures, talked over common problems, and reviewed REACT team projects. "What this is," John Tracy explained, "is REACT members helping each other."

They should know. A REACT delegate from Lancaster County, John is a member of the International REACT Board of Directors. He supplied information showing about 2,000 REACT teams in the United States, Canada, Guam, Mexico, and other countries stand watch on channel nine ready to offer assistance.

REACT was started in 1962, four years after citizens' band radio really began. There were few CB sets back then, John recalled. REACT team numbers grew slowly.

Then came the mid-1970s gas shortage. With that came the 55 MPH speed limit. Tractors discovered CB radio, and the number of sets soared.

The Federal Communications Commission had been reviewing 35 to 50 thousand CB license applications a month, according to John. In the mid '70s, that number jumped to over a million a month.

What had been a little-used communications instrument gained near instant popularity and, some say, the status of a toy. "Don't say toy," Mary Jane Glock cautioned. She is president-elect of the Nebraska State Council. "When you say toy I think of misuse."

John agreed, adding, "A lot of people misuse CBs, but it shouldn't be regarded as a toy." Government regulations are specific on this point. So were REACTers here Saturday.

They take their job seriously. Volunteers are put through training that can include slides and simulated emergency assistance requests. John told how Douglas County REACTers use these methods and others when training recruits.

Members Taught New members are taught to: - Get the specific location of an emergency.

- Learn if there are injuries, how many, or if someone is trapped inside a vehicle.

- Remain in contact with the party calling until help arrives. REACT also gives road condition reports and directions to lost motorists.

The invention making all this possible, of course, is citizens' band radio. Mary Jane said, "I think the image of CB is changing. I think some people are growing tired of it." Another REACTer added, "CB won't die, but the boys using the radio to find girls for a date is going away. Its growth is leveling off."

While CB enthusiasm may be waning, REACT chapters continue to grow, judging from remarks made Saturday.

All Nebraska State Patrol cars have CB radios, according to REACTers. Both May Jane and John rated reaction to this as "fantastic."

Truckers are another group advocating REACT, according to the two. REACT helps with the annual truckers rodeo in Columbus, handling traffic control.

Projects Other REACT projects have included roadside coffee breaks during heavy travel periods.

Interest in CB radio may be diminishing, but REACT members continue to grow in numbers while vowing to maintain their watch on channel nine, offering emergency assistance.

Subscription Price To Increase January 1

Subscription price for the Quiz, presently $9.50 per year by mail, will increase to $10.25 per year beginning Jan. 1, 1980, Publisher Kerry Leggett announced this week.

With the announced increase, to help cover increasing costs of paper and postage, Leggett said all renewals and new subscriptions placed prior to Jan. 1 were being accepted at the present price.

There will be no change in the 25c per copy counter price of the Quiz.

Participants Pending in Chamber - Ord Quiz First Baby Contest

We don't know who he or she is yet, but the first baby born in the Valley County hospital in 1980 will receive gifts and prizes in the Ord Quiz - Ord Chamber of Commerce 1980 baby contest.

Little miss or mister 1980 and his parents will receive special news coverage from the Quiz along with gifts from Chamber members and other participating members.

Santa's Arrival Will Launch Busy Month of Ord Chamber Activities

Yes sir! It's official! Santa will be in Ord December 6. The jolly old man is set to arrive Thursday, December 6 at the courthouse lobby. He will talk to children from 7 to 8 p.m.

His visit will kick off activities designed to make shopping in Ord easier. Included are longer store hours and free movies for the kids. The Ord Chamber schedule of events includes: December 6 - Santa's arrival at the courthouse. Stores will stay open until 9 p.m.

December 8 - Free movie at the Ord Theatre, 2 p.m.
December 10 and 13 - Stores open until 9 p.m.
December 15 - Free movies at the Ord Theatre, 1 and 3 p.m. Santa will pass out treats.
December 17-22 - Stores will stay open until 9 p.m.
December 24 - Stores will remain open until 4 p.m.

Quiz Appointed A Polar Postman

The Ord Quiz has been designated an official Polar Postman again this year. Special arrangements with Santa and postal officials will route Santa's mail to the Ord Quiz office.

In town recently, Santa said he is looking forward to hearing from girls and boys in the Loup Valley area. The familiar friend will stop by the Quiz office once a week to pick up cards and letters destined for the North Pole.

Youngsters wanting to write to Santa should address their letters to: Santa, c/o The Ord Quiz, Ord, NE 68862.

Opponents Hope Fish-Birds Will Halt Loup Project

Calamus Project opponents hope a small fish and some migratory birds will halt construction of the 53,000 acre irrigation system.

Those against the water plan have filed suit against the Water and Power Resources Service. They claim the Calamus system will supposedly endanger the Bald Eagle, the Whooping Crane, the Peregrine Falcon, and the Brook Stickleback fish.

The Stickleback was described as a minnow-size fish found in Gracie Creek.

Clarence 'Shorty' Lewis, of the WPRS planning division made the point. Fourteen samples increased an average of 1.34 ppm, two remained the same, and one decreased by 1.4 ppm. The range of increases is somewhat exaggerated due to an increase of 5 ppm in two of the sample increases. If those two were excluded, the average would have been about .3 ppm, which is not bad considering the increase in other counties.

If the nitrate levels continue to show similar jumps on hard land sites, we are going to have to start thinking more seriously about irrigation scheduling to prevent leaching of nitrates below the crop root zone.

Voters May Decide Liquor By The Drink

Ord voters could be facing a special election. Walt Shafer, owner of the Someplace Else tavern, is collecting petition signatures to put liquor by the drink on a future ballot.

To do that, he must have valid signatures equal to 20 percent of

Neighbors Lend A Helping Hand

Friends and neighbors of the Joe Rutar family lent a helping hand Monday by harvesting about 90 acres of corn. Joe has been sick recently and was unable to do the job.

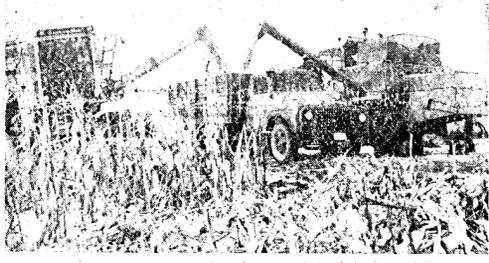

An estimated 21 workers with trucks and combines gathered on the Rutar farm, three miles east of town, around 8 a.m. By 3:30 p.m. they had the 90 acres picked and corn stored.

"It's a good, wonderful thing where people help out like this," Mrs. Rutar said.

Public acceptance of his vote drive has been "real good," he said. He has had no opposition from the Ord Elks or the Veterans Club.

Valley Groundwater Nitrate Count Up Average 1.18 PPM Study Says

(Editor's Note: This is the second of two Loup Lines articles by Richard Beran concerning nitrate counts found in area groundwater. Last week, Beran told of the Lower Loup Natural Resource District's sampling program results for Rock, Loup, Wheeler, Garfield, Greeley, Howard and Boone Counties.)

This week the manager of the Lower Loup NRD continues the series with test results from four other area counties. These include Valley County.

By Richard Beran In last week's column, we reported the results of the groundwater sampling program in six counties within the District. We will continue this week with the test results from Valley, Nance, Platte, and Sherman Counties. The test results given are for nitrates (NO3-N) with the Public Health Service standard of 10 ppm. Valley County Eighteen samples taken with data from three sampling periods, two in 1978, a third in 1979. The average increase is 1.18 ppm, since 1978. Samples ranged from no change to a high of 8.8 ppm. One additional sample tested for the first time showed a concentration of 17 ppm. This is 7 parts above the standard of 10 ppm. Presently we would assume that the well is contaminated from a point source. Additional checking will be necessary in order to isolate the source.

Nance County Fifteen samples with three periods of test data. The Nance County tests were erratic with 11 showing increases averaging 1.21 ppm. The increases ranged from a high of 22.0 to a low of 1 ppm. There were four samples with decreases averaging 6.3 ppm. Decreases ranged from 1.1 to 1 ppm. The high sample should, for the time being, be considered a point source contamination.

Platte County We have divided Platte County into two separate sampling programs. The initial sampling program has three sampling period data and is generally on the heavier ground north of the Loup River. Seven samples are included in the initial program. Five tests increased an average of 2.24 ppm with a range of increase from 7.0 to a low of 3 ppm. The largest decrease in nitrate levels was 3.2 to 4 ppm with the average at 1.8 ppm.

The extra samples taken on sandy land ranged from a high of 32 ppm to a low of 42 ppm.

Of the five sandy samples, two exceed the 10 ppm standard while the remaining three are between 4.2 and 6.5 ppm.

Sherman County Seventeen samples taken with data from three sampling periods. Fourteen samples increased an average of 1.34 ppm, two remained the same, and one decreased by 1.4 ppm. The range of increases is somewhat exaggerated due to an increase of 5 ppm in two of the sample increases. If those two were excluded, the average would have been about .3 ppm, which is not bad considering the increase in other counties.

If the nitrate levels continue to show similar jumps on hard land sites, we are going to have to start thinking more seriously about irrigation scheduling to prevent leaching of nitrates below the crop root zone.

Ord FHA Initiates New Members

Eleven new members were inducted into Ord Future Homemakers of America chapter Thursday night. The 11 girls, their parents and FHA members saw a film on child abuse and paraded in their costumes. These were those of homemakers of yesterday. The costumes started with that of a pilgrim maid, America's first homemaker.

Initiates were then taken one by one to the school gym. A blanket was thrown over the members-to-be. They were told they were in the desert, with temperatures nearing the unbearable point. What they were asked, should you take off to stay cool.

The answer, of course, was the blanket. Most initiates didn't grasp this at first. After shoes, socks, and other minor bits of clothing were removed, things became strangely still and silent under the blanket. Audience members howled.

Annette Scofield and Laurie Gregory, ceremony coordinators, gave broad hints to those girls not adept at sizing up the situation.

New initiates were Brenda Dowse, Jody Knapp, Joleen Jarrell, Chris Knapp, Roberta Barta, Arleen Streif, Diane Stoltenberg, Annette Hulinsky, Marleen Hoevert, Janet Bruha, and Lori Trump.

Historic Carson City Silver Dollars to Be Sold in 1980

Nearly one million silver dollars, minted in Carson City, NV in 1878 through 1893, will be sold early next year, the U.S. General Services Administration announced today.

The historic coins, the last of the government's holdings from America's great silver mining era, were part of nearly three million 90 percent silver dollars stored in U.S. Treasury vaults for more than 60 years.

There will be two sales. The first, beginning Feb. 8 and ending April 8, 1980, will offer 923,287 silver dollars to the public by mail at fixed prices. The sale will feature three categories of the "cartwheels": 1883-CC (188,745) 1884-CC (428,152), and "Mixed Years-CC" (299,390). There will be no limit on the number of coins that may be ordered. Coins in the 1883 category are $42 each, and in the 1884 category, $40 each. "Cartwheels" in the mixed-years group are $20 per coin.

The second sale, to be conducted later in the spring, will offer 54,847 coins in three mint-year categories: 1889-CC (4,284), 1891-CC (181,996), and 1885-CC (31,567). The coins will be sold at public auction by mail bid. A minimum bid price will be set just prior to the sale. There will be a limit of five coins from each category per bidder.

Prices in each sale include delivery by registered mail to addresses in the United States, its territories and possessions, and to APO and FPO numbers.

Prospective buyers should send a post card, giving name, address and zip code, to: Carson City Silver Dollars, San Francisco, Calif. 94170. Information and order forms will be sent to those on the list in time for the first sale.

From 1972 to 1974, GSA sold some 1.9 million of the silver dollars in five public sales, netting $55.3 million for the benefit of taxpayers. Sales were discontinued in 1974 because of diminishing demand.

The decision to return the coins to the marketplace, made by Congress and signed into law by President Carter in March 1979, has received an enthusiastic response from the public. The agency says it already has heard from more than 20,000 persons interested in acquiring some of the historic coins.

Each coin is in a plastic case, appropriate for display, inside a velvet-lined gift box. A brief history of the coin is enclosed in each box.

The Carson City mint produced only 1.9 million of the dollar designed by George T. Morgan. Known as "Morgan Dollars," they feature the head of Miss Liberty on one side and an eagle within a wreath on the other. The letters "CC" for Carson City, appear under the wreath.

Each silver dollar measures four centimeters in diameter and eight mills in thickness. It weighs 412.5 grains and is 900 fine silver. Although the market price of silver fluctuates daily, when silver sells for $12 per troy ounce, the silver content of one coin is worth about $9.27.

In the late 1800s, the increasing popularity of paper money plus the large number of silver dollars in circulation lessened the demand for the "cartwheels" produced at Carson City. The mint struck its last silver dollar in 1893. Coins stored there were shipped to other mints and to Federal Reserve Banks throughout the country.

Legislation in the early 1900s plus the demand for silver in the 1940s to support the war effort resulted in massive coin melts. All but about three million of the government's holdings of the 90 percent silver dollars in Treasury vaults revealed the secret of their history and numismatic value. Most of the remaining "cartwheels," many still in their original mint bags, were from the long-closed Carson City mint.

Insurance Fraud: White Collar Crime

Approximately 15 to 20 percent of your annual increase in premium payments is the direct result of insurance fraud, says an insurance company spokesman.

Insurance fraud, which costs honest policyholders an estimated $3 billion a year, is one of several major white collar crimes committed by people we all assume are "respectable citizens." White collar crimes include forgery, the obtaining of money through false pretenses, mail fraud, perjury and arson for profit. The price tag on these crimes is estimated at more than $4 billion annually. Some white collar crimes, including insurance fraud, are committed by organized crime syndicates.

What is insurance fraud? Basically, it is deceiving an insurance company for financial gain. Three major areas of insurance fraud are becoming more and more of a problem to the industry. They include:

Fraudulent damage in an auto accident: Auto-theft rings not only steal cars, but stage accidents for profit. And many times rear-end collisions are planned for "multiple" gain. That is, the passengers riding in both vehicles fraudulently claim whiplash while property damage to the autos is grossly inflated by cooperating (ring-member) body shops.

Also, some auto repair shops have been found to charge the customer what the traffic will bear. And well-organized "chop shops" drain the industry by receiving stolen cars, dismantling them and selling the parts at handsome profits.

Arson for profit: Crime syndicate leaders have organized large specialist pools of manpower as "arson cooperatives." Depending on the type of arson job to be performed, one or several specialists may be used. For example, a warehouse store is scheduled to be totally destroyed in order for a "respectable business" to collect insurance-claim dollars requires a type of expertise different from that needed to torch an abandoned apartment building.

Fraudulent bodily injury claims: Here, the malingering claimant takes an unnecessary amount of time off from work following an accident and passes the cost on to the insurance company. Or, medical personnel file fabricated Medicaid and Medicare claims.

Sometimes, claims are made by masters of the slip-and-fall technique, who tap business liability insurance for a settlement. This type of claim involves the age-old stunt of pretending to slip and fall on wet or cluttered floors in restaurants, department stores, etc.

Efforts are underway to halt these crimes.

The insurance industry is working with state, federal and local authorities on white collar crimes.

Christian Women's Club Will Meet December 11

Loup Valley's Christian Women's Club will meet for their monthly meeting Tuesday, December 11, at the Ord Elk's Club for a salad buffet starting at 5:30 p.m.

The speaker for the evening is Ann Heiden from Hampton, Ann is a former Aurora Christian Women's Club chairman and is a cosmetologist and color consultant. Her presentation will be a style show entitled "Holiday Fun Fashions." It will feature holiday dresses and coats furnished by merchants in Ord and Burwell. Jane Bosworth will provide the special music for the ladies.

This non-denominational club has no membership and is open to all interested women in the area. For reservations call Laura Hughes in Burwell, 346-4945, or Ruth Kyschon in Ord, 728-5688, no later than Friday, December 7.

Happy Circle Holds Christmas Luncheon

The Happy Circle Extension Club held their Christmas party at Parkway December 2. Mary Jorgensen served as hostess for the covered dish noon luncheon which included the members and their families.

A short business meeting was held with 12 present and two guests, Agnes Cerrik and Ann Visek. Agnes Jensen, courtesy chairman, brought three Christmas cards to send to the charter members who live out of town. A poem, "These Are My Riches," was read by Mrs. David Stevens.

Members drew names for 1980 Secret Sisters after the gift exchange.

Games were played with prizes going to Mrs. Barbara Kapustka, Mrs. Gene Augustin, Leon Woods and Mrs. David Stevens. The door prize went to Mrs. Leon Woods.

an American flag and every cheer from 20,000 throats was accentuated by the waving of 20,000 stars bearing the stars and stripes.

When Mr. Bryan entered the hall the proceedings which had already begun were brought to a temporary pause while for eight minutes volley after volley of thousands of cheers rolled through the great building. When Chairman Tom L. Johnson in his introduction of Mr. Bryan referred to the guest of the evening as "the first citizen, if not the first official of the land — not yet the first official," and Mr. Bryan rose, the great gathering broke out in unrestrained cheering, while the band played "Hail to the Chief." (Bryan was mentioned by many in the crowd as a possible presidential candidate in 1908. He eventually accepted a third nomination for the presidency and was defeated.)

"So touched was Mr. Bryan by the welcome that as he stood waiting for the cheer to subside his eyes filled with tears and he strode nervously from side to side.

"How can I thank you for this welcome home?" he said. "My heart would be ungrateful if it did not consecrate itself to your service. It was kind to prepare this reception. It was kind of Governor (Joseph W.) Folk to come here all the way from Missouri. It was kind of Tom Johnson, that example of the moral courage we so much need in this country, to tender his presence here. It was kind in you to recompense me fully in being absent so long from my native land. I thank you, return to the land of my birth, more proud of my citizenship than ever before."

The doors of Madison Square Garden were opened at 5:30 o'clock and by that time hundreds of "ticket holders" were clamoring for admittance. Police lines had been formed for three blocks from all entrances. In this way the early comers were handled. The immense auditorium with its tiers of balconies and galleries rising to the great glass roof began to fill up so quickly that the ushers and policemen had difficulty in adhering to the seating arrangements. It was a gay spirited, big natured audience which had a cheer for everyone. There were calls and quatercalls from the various state conventions.

"The Nebraska Bryan's Home Folks" arrived in a body and were given seats just back of the speaker's stand, at the Twenty-seventh street side of the garden. The hall was devoid of decorations, other than the bunting and flags placed about the temporary stage.

"Before the meeting was called to order a band played merrily. Such tunes as 'Maryland,' 'My Old Kentucky Home,' 'Way Down Upon the Swanee River,' and other melodies of the south, caused tumultuous applause. But when the first strains of 'Dixie' were sounded the Bryan well-wishers were on their feet in an instant and the cheers completely drowned the band. As each notable Democrat entered the hall and was recognized, his name was called, the cheering was renewed.

"Twelve thousand persons, many of them women, were seated at 7 o'clock and an hour later not a vacant seat was to be seen. The heat in the garden was so great that a large portion of the glass roof was pushed back, leaving the stars as a canopy. The galleries early were jammed to their utmost capacity. Hundreds of policemen and fifty firemen were on duty in the giant structure.

"At 8 o'clock when Mr. Bryan had not yet arrived, Harry W. Walker, on behalf of the Commercial Travelers' Anti-Trust League, called the assemblage to order. Gov. Folk was given an ovation and it was several minutes before he could speak. When he finally secured silence he asked his hearers to be as quiet as possible, otherwise none of the speakers, not even Mr. Bryan himself, could be heard. The mention of Mr. Bryan's name called forth renewed cheering." — Pat Gaster, Editorial Assistant, Nebraska State Historical Society.

U.S. agricultural exports are expected to reach a new high — $32 billion — for the fiscal year ending September 30. If imports hold true's projection for a record high $32 billion in farm exports this year means a 17 percent increase in value over last year's foreign farm trade.

CAROL'S CORNER

by carol leggett

CHRISTMAS "WHYS" . . . The tradition of giving gifts at Christmas goes back to the Three Wise Men, who brought gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh for the newborn infant. Since then, this act of giving has been tradition.

An Englishman was the originator of the idea of sending greeting cards at Christmas time. His name was Henry Cole and he took an artist's drawing, hand-painted it and sent it to a friend at Christmas time in 1846. Since that time Christmas cards have been sent and the custom has grown in popularity through the years.

Holly was first used in windows to indicate Christmas worship. It was hung over doors too in the belief that only happiness could pass under the branch. The English also first used it in their marriage ceremonies. That is how the custom of kissing under the mistletoe originated.

Silent Night was first sung — to guitar accompaniment — on Christmas morning in 1818 in Austria. Words for the popular song were hurriedly written by a young priest and set to music by a man named Franz Gruber in an emergency after the church organ had broken down on Christmas Eve.

Have you wondered about "Merry" in Christmas? Well, centuries ago the word "merry" meant peacefulness and blessedness. In a way, it is as if saying "A peaceful Christmas to you."

COFFEE CUP PHILOSOPHY. The best way to get through the Christmas hassle is to remember why there is a Christmas. (Think about it.)

Linda Waltman was organist and Connie Ballou sang "Color My World" and "The Wedding Song".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory floor length gown of candlelight Qiana, made by her mother. The dress featured a fitted empire bodice with a standing Venice lace collar and low neckline. The long sleeves were edged with matching lace. The train was attached to the back yoke with lace appliques adorning the yoke and train. The bride wore a fingertip veil edged in Venice lace. A string of pearls, that had belonged to her grandmother, was also worn. The bride's bouquet was pink and burgundy roses.

Matron of honor was Patti Miska, friend of the bride. Bridesmaid was Nancy Bentley, sister of the bride. They wore matching full length pink flowered gowns. Each carried a long stemmed burgundy rose.

Best man was Jim Darnell, brother of the groom. Charles Kreiclek, brother of the bride, was groomsmen. They wore burgundy tuxedos. Ushers were Rich Kreiclek of Giltner, brother of the bride, and Kip Thompson of Burwell, friend of the groom.

Honored guests were Alta Waller of North Loup, grandmother of the bride, and Dorothy Simpson

Twelve Ord Chants Await Crete Game

Twelve boys are waiting for the season cage opener with Crete Friday. Of these, Ord has one lone returning starter on the varsity squad, Barty Witherwax. He will be joined by Bill Wadas and Randy David. They both saw some action last year.

Ord varsity coach, Fred Williams admitted the team is small. But the varsity coach predicted they are quicker and better shooters than last year's squad.

In a Quiz interview Monday, Williams appeared optimistic. "We're shooting for more than eight wins, I'll tell you that," he said. Last year Chant cagers ended their season 8-12.

"We don't have a lot of height," he admitted, "like last year. Bill Wadas at 6'2" is the tallest man on the team." Most other varsity squads have players 6'4" or taller.

Ord Chants will launch their season Friday when Crete comes here. Last year, Ord played there. A player, back this year, then stood 6'7". "Maybe", Williams quipped, "he's 6'9" by now."

After Crete comes a game at Gothenburg. That's the home of Jay Novoccek, a 6'5" center, back again this year.

"So whenever we play a big kid, we bring our small guards in to help out", Williams said. "And this leaves our outside open."

Ord will use a basic man to man defense, Williams revealed. "We can go to a zone if we have to", he added. Both have been covered in recent practice sessions. These began in mid-November.

"I think we could finish high in the Central Ten", Williams said. "We can give a lot of teams some trouble."

He added, "We play some of the toughest teams on the road". He listed these as including Gothenburg and Aurora. Both are highly rated in pre-season polls.

Williams estimated a home court is worth eight to 10 points.

"You have the feel of the court and you don't have a bus trip", he explained.

Friday, Crete faces that hassle. "But they won't be an easy team", Williams cautioned. Crete has three returning starters. They lost some good players last year but have some promising replacements. The Crete Cardinals are rated eighth or ninth in pre-season polls.

A season opening win would be nice, Williams admitted. But one win doesn't make a season make. Williams vowed to pursue the "we'll play 'em one at a time" philosophy.

"We've had real good practices", he said. "If they can play like they've practiced we'll be confident. All we need is confidence."

Ken Petska One of Six Giving Views on Coyote

Ken Petska was one of six individuals interviewed on the plight of the coyote. The December '79 issue of Nebraskaland magazine told how the coyote has gone from a varmint or common nuisance status to that of a highly valued game animal.

The elusive Great Plains resident's pelt was valued at $3.50 on the Nebraska fur market in 1968-69. European women, wanting the latest word in fashion, changed all that. The same coyote pelt was bringing $55 in 1978.

An animal once valued as a worthwhile sporting trophy came to be regarded as cash on the hoof, or paw if you prefer. Helicopters, four-wheel drive vehicles, planes, and other means were used in pursuing the coyote. Some hunting methods were legal. Others weren't.

Six men were interviewed for the views on the coyote. Among them was Ken Petska of Ord.

The Nebraskaland magazine write up quoting Petska follows.

"Ken Petska of Ord is a coyote hunter and trapper who also deals with this animal as a farmer and furbuyer. He has hunted coyotes for sport since the 1950's, and has won one of Nebraska's top trophies. He is a past president of the Nebraska Council of Sportsmen's Clubs, past president of the Nebraska Fur Harvesters Association, and recipient of the Lincoln Journal-Star Conservationist of the Year award.

"The coyote is a fantastic game animal; one of the finest trophies there is," says Petska. "He ranks with the deer or the elk as a challenge to a hunter's skill."

Petska has been hunting coyotes with a rifle since the mid-1950s, and in more recent years, has also been taking them with traps. "I've seen the hunting pressure on coyotes grow from almost nothing in the 50s, when they were worth $2.50 in bounty, to extremely high levels because of today's high fur prices.

"Back then, just one shot at a coyote, or even a quick glimpse of one, amounted to a pretty good day's hunt. There didn't seem to be many. In more recent years, there seems to be a hunter on every hill and they're all taking coyotes." All this pressure has educated the coyote, according to Petska. "We're dealing with an entirely different critter than I hunted in the 50's. The running coyote has joined the flying pheasant as a relic of the past. Just as the pheasant that flushed at the hunter's feet has been culled from the population, so has the coyote that runs cross-country at the approach of man or vehicle. Today hunting has changed both into crafty critters that realize the danger of exposing themselves.

"For a long time I have wondered how the coyote copes with such great hunting pressure. For a time in the 1960's, I was involved with a group that hunted coyotes with airplanes, but we quit because we worried about hurting the coyote population.

"Since then, high fur prices have increased the coyote harvest in this area to many times what we were taking. With all that pressure, I thought the coyotes would all be dead, and I've been predicting their downfall for 10 years. But, each year they make a liar out of me. This summer and fall, I've seen nearly as many tracks as ever around here, and last winter I thought they'd quit because the last coyote in the country," Petska said.

"Fur prices not only influence the number of hunters, but the techniques used, he believes. "I know there are some pretty unscrupulous methods used to take coyotes. Maybe, when the dollar signs disappear from hunters' eyes, they will recognize the coyote as a fine trophy animal. I don't like to force my values upon other people, but I don't like to see coyotes harassed and taken in an unsportsmanlike manner. They deserve better.

"That doesn't necessarily mean that I think the coyote should be made a game animal by law. I think we all get a little tired of more regulations and laws, and I don't think it's possible to legislate sportsmanship and ethics, anyway. The coyote has gotten along for a long time without game-animal status, so I wonder if it is necessary. Of course, if such a law does prove necessary some day, then I'll work for it."

But look at the brighter side. Gas may be the only thing in your car that isn't depreciating.

Arcadia Gal Cagers Looking Forward to Start of Season

The Arcadia High girls basketball team is looking forward to the 1979-80 cage season with 14 players reporting. These consist of four seniors, three juniors, five sophomores, and two freshmen.

In her first year of coaching at Arcadia, Miss Keenan has five returning lettermen to work with. They are sophomores Pam Gogan and Cheri Lewandowski, junior Teresa Einspahr, and seniors Deb Smith and Terina Trotter.

Coach Keenan lists the team's goal as bettering last year's record of 4-11. She revealed plans to run a 1-3-1 offense and a zone defense this year.

The girls' first game will be against the Spalding Academy Shamrocks. The starting line-up, as of Tuesday, wasn't known.

Seventeen Out For Arcadia Basketball

Seventeen boys are out for the basketball team at Arcadia High. Of these, three are returning lettermen.

"Well, actually, there will be 18", Coach Cliff Jorgensen corrected. "When Mike Johnson comes back, Johnson is recuperating from a leg injury during football season.

Arcadia boy cagers have been practicing three weeks. Jorgensen said the team's strong suit this year is speed rather than height. Tallest man on the squad is 6'2" sophomore Al Cox.

He and teammates will open their season Friday at Ansley. Last year Ansley was 12 and 3 at season's end. Arcadia was 11-3. That record started with a two-point Arcadia win over Ansley, a traditional season opener. Hoping for another victory, Jorgensen has covered man to man and zone defenses during practice sessions. "And our shooting hasn't been bad", he added. "We're a young team and I was really surprised."

Speculation on how well assignments have been learned during practice will end Friday.

Contingent Fees Help Consumers

In the United States, each individual has a Constitutional right to legal justice or their day in court. However, at one time only wealthy and privileged people could afford to resolve their disputes in court.

But today, any person who is injured by someone else's carelessness or by a defective product can get high quality legal representation on a contingent fee basis. Under the contingent fee arrangement, the lawyer is entitled to a fee only if he or she is successful in the case and secures a monetary award for the client. The lawyer is then entitled to a set percentage of it.

But if there is not a successful settlement or verdict from a trial, the trial lawyer gets nothing in return for the time, effort and expenses spent in preparing and trying the case. A lawyer's expenses may be high in obtaining expert witnesses who will testify on complex medical and technical questions.

The amount of the contingent fee, between 25 and 40 percent and usually 33 1/3 percent, is determined in advance between the lawyer and the client and should always be written into their contract.

In a case involving personal injury, the client has the option of hiring a lawyer on an hourly basis, usually at $75 - $100 an hour or higher depending on the lawyer's experience and reputation, or on a contingent fee basis. Thus, for most people, the contingent fee arrangement is the best financially.

However, contingent fees can not be used in all legal actions. They are not permitted in criminal cases, divorce cases or legislative representative work. They are most often used in personal injury cases, certain business and estate disputes and tax matters.

More and more a contingent fee arrangement is being used in class action suits brought by a lawyer on behalf of a group of people instead of just one individual.

Modern technology has brought us a wealth of products and services to make our life easier and more comfortable. But our better standard of living has also brought us a proliferation of hazards and personal injuries.

The possibility of legal action helps encourage manufacturers to make safer products, to adequately inform consumers of product dangers and to recall products to correct defects that can hurt people.

Unhappily, people do get injured, and they are entitled to their day in court. Fortunately, with a choice of hiring a lawyer on a contingent fee basis, they know they can get their personal legal attention they need without the worry of financial ruin. And that is an essential consumer right.
